Accord Reached On Communists List 3,198 Americans Future Steps In War Prisoners; Is Far Below Estimates

UN Military And Armistice Officers Hold Secret Meeting; Question Of Extending 30-Day Truce Deadline Probable Topic; Light Ground Action

8TH ARMY HQ Korea (UP)—Top United Nations military and armistice officers agreed at a meeting today on future conduct of the Korean war in the light of Communist stalling at the truce table.

Supreme U. N. commander Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, who presided at the secret conference, said afterward that the military and truce delegations had reached "complete accord."

The decisions were not disclosed. But it was known the big question was whether to extend the 30-day truce deadline, which expires in nine days, or reopen the "shooting war" with a "persuader offensive."

Present were Gen. James A. Van Fleet, commander of the 8th Army, Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, head of the U. N. truce delegation, and other top officers.

The meeting was held in the headquarters at Munsan before the Communists handed over a list of Allied prisoners.

But the Communist reversal on this point left much to be accomplished if a truce is to be reached within 30 days. The enemy concession was not expected to alter basically the decisions reached at Munsan.

An 8th Army communique reported ground action along the 145-mile battlefield still was confined mainly to patrol action.

The Communists launched two minor probing attacks against advanced U. N. positions South of P'yongyang on the central front, but both were repulsed without loss of ground. A U. N. patrol fought a six-hour engagement with two enemy platoons farther East in a sector southwest of Kumsong.

A briefing officer reported that U. N. troops killed 1,988 Communist troops, wounded 1,081 and captured 18 in limited fighting last week.

Fifth Army fighters under orders to shoot at unmarked vehicles kept a close watch on the highway between P'yongyang and Kaesong, headquarters of the enemy truce delegation. However, none was sighted.

Orders went out to attack unmarked vehicles after the Reds began to take advantage of road's immunity to move combat supplies along it.

American Saboteurs sighted more than 200 Communist jets, but could draw none into combat for more than a few firing passes.

One Sabre pilot bailed out on his way home, but was picked up unharmed. Two planes were lost to Communist ground fire during the day.

Remaining Farm Tracts Auctioned

The remaining tracts of the Dick May farm that have not already been confirmed and sold, were bid off at the courthouse at noon yesterday for $138,000.

Each of the tracts included in yesterday's sale will be held open for a raised bid for a period of 10 days, at which time those not raised will be sold to the present high bid.

The farm, which is located about two miles from Winterville on highway 11, contains approximately 1,100 acres of land, with 500 acres being cleared. It has 107 acres of tobacco allotment. The law firm of Harding and Lee of Greenville has charge of the sale.

Property tracts already sold have brought a total of $133,000, which sets the total for the whole farm at $271,000, with several of the tracts disposed of yesterday still open for bids.

The largest single bid made yesterday was by Vernon White of Winterville. White bid the $141 acre "home-place" off for $64,000.

Coming Home?

With the help of its readers, The Daily Reflector hopes to list Pitt County servicemen who will be home with their families over the Christmas holidays.

The names will be carried in our annual Christmas Edition, to be published December 22.

In order to compile the data for this project it will be necessary for the following information to reach the Reflector newsroom by Thursday of this week: names, ranks, branches of service of the homecoming men, together with the names and home addresses of their families.

Information may be sent by postcard to The Daily Reflector, or telephoned to the newsroom; telephone number 3245 and 4912.

Steelworkers Set Strike Ultimatum

Will Walk Out New Year's Day Unless Industry Grants Men 15-Cent Hourly Pay Boost; Next Move Up To Gov't

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A strike ultimatum by the CIO United Steelworkers put up to the government today the next move to stave off an economically crippling nationwide steel strike New Year's Day.

Philip Murray, president of the million-member union, says a strike is unavoidable unless the industry grants his men a 15-cent hourly pay boost and other concessions.

Hanging in the balance is the nation's price and wage ceiling structure.

Government sources say present wage ceilings would permit an increase of only eight to nine cents an hour.

Steel industry spokesmen say they can't absorb the wage increase Murray demands without increasing prices.

That puts it right up to the government—how to head off a strike and keep the nation's economy on an even keel.

Murray was grimaced as he emerged from a meeting of his policy makers yesterday to tell a news conference:

"We will not work without a contract."

In addition to a 15-cent hourly hike, Murray wants a half-cent added to the spread between the pay scale set up for the more than 30 job classifications in the steel industry. The spread now is five cents an hour.

The union estimates average hourly earnings of its members at $1.92. The American Iron and Steel Institute, an association of steel firms, says the figure is $1.97.

Murray's steelworkers have had five wage boosts since the end of World War II but the veteran union chief said average earnings have not kept pace with inflation.

J. W. Butler To Head 1952 Pitt March Of Dimes

Accepts Chairmanship Of Campaign Slated For County During January

JAMES W. BUTLER

James W. Butler, secretary of the East Carolina College Alumni Association, has accepted the chairmanship of the 1952 March of Dimes campaign to be conducted in Pitt County during January.

"I am pleased to have the privilege of heading up this campaign because the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis is trying to cope with the vast upsurge of polio cases and through the March of Dimes is enabled to underwrite grants for the carrying on of vital research, seeking a means of preventive or cure for this terrible malady," Butler stated in accepting the appointment.

June H. Rose, chairman of the Pitt County Chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, announced Butler's appointment. Goal of the Pitt County 1952 will be revealed in a statement in the near future.

Butler said that during the past four years 132,000 infantile paralysis cases were reported, compared with 113,500 cases listed for the entire previous 10 year period. The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis finds itself in debt for the fourth consecutive time, as the year draws to a close.

The National Foundation does not exist to raise money, it raises money to exist, and not only does the Foundation's existence depend upon the funds collected, but the welfare of thousands of boys and girls might be seriously jeopardized unless we raise much more money in the 1952 March of Dimes, Butler said.

Butler served several years in newspaper work and for more than 11 years was manager-secretary of the Goldsboro Chamber of Commerce. He is now alumni secretary and athletics news director of East Carolina College.

Butler, a member of the Greenville Rotary Club and other community organizations, is a former governor of the present district 279 of Rotary International, has served as director of the Wayne County chapters of the National Foundation and the Society for Crippled Children and has a personal interest in aiding the physically handicapped.

Chapter Chairman Rose said Butler recently attended a regional meeting of the National Foundation where he and other representatives conferred with National Foundation President Basil O'Connor, also national chairman of the 1952 March of Dimes.

Grunewald Is Subpenaed To Take Stand Thursday

Mystery Figure In Alleged Tax Shakedown Slated To Testify; White House Still Silent On Clean-Up Program

WASHINGTON (UP)—House investigators have subpoenaed Henry W. (The Dutchman) Grunewald to testify Thursday about an alleged $500,000 tax shakedown attempt against ex-Capone attorney Abraham Teitelbaum, it was learned today.

Adrian W. DeWind, chief counsel of the House ways and means subcommittee which has unearthed widespread tax scandals, confirmed that the capital's top mystery man was under subpoena "returnable Thursday."

DeWind refused further comment, but it was learned that Grunewald, now in Georgetown, D. C., is being subpoenaed for a stomach ailment, would be questioned in closed session.

Grunewald refused to give even his name when subcommittee members visited him in the hospital last week. His attorney, William P. Maloney, said in New York last night that Grunewald "will obey the subpoena of the committee if he is physically able." Maloney previously had said that Grunewald would testify only at a public session.

The White House remained silent on President Truman's plans to clean up corruption in government. An announcement was expected at any time that U. S. Judge Thomas P. Murphy of New York had accepted the assignment of heading a special committee to eliminate "wrongdoers" from the federal payroll.

The House subcommittee has scheduled its next public sessions around the middle of next month, when it will open an inquiry in San Francisco on irregularities in the internal revenue office there.

Grunewald's name has popped up frequently in the tax scandal hearings. The subcommittee wants to question him about Teitelbaum's charge that Frank Nathan and Bert K. Naster, aided by a third man with a guttural German accent, demanded $500,000 to fix his tax troubles.

T. Lamar Caudle, ousted assistant attorney general who headed the Justice Department's tax fraud division, testified that the man with the accent might have been Grunewald. The mystery man went to the hospital shortly after Teitelbaum told his story.

Charles Oliphant, resigned chief counsel of the Internal Revenue Bureau, later told the subcommittee that Grunewald once sought confidential information on a tax case and claimed he spoke for Sen. Styles Bridges (R-NH). On another occasion, Oliphant said, Grunewald hinted that he could help Oliphant a raise by interceding at the White House.

The Internal Revenue Bureau slapped a $51,157 tax lien on Grunewald the day that Oliphant testified.

Elsewhere on the tax scandal front Internal Revenue Commissioner John B. Dunlap announced yesterday that a special 65-man squad of the bureau's top agents is checking reports of alleged tax shakedowns in New York. He said another crew of "our best criminal attorneys" is looking over every tax fraud case which since 1944 has not been either prosecuted or recommended for prosecution.

The subcommittee members agreed tentatively to meet again at 11 a. m. Wednesday (9 p. m. Tuesday EST), but actual arrangements were left to liaison officers. It was agreed that sufficient time should be given both sides to study the lists.

Nuckols said that Gen. Lee seemed strangely subdued in yielding to Allied demands after his bombastic statements of recent days.

Biggest remaining snag to an agreement on an exchange of prisoners is the Communist demand for release of all prisoners. This would leave the Reds back 132,474 Chinese and North Korean troops in exchange for only 11,559 Allied troops.

The U. N. command has proposed a man-for-man exchange which would leave more than 120,000 Red prisoners in Allied hands. However, the U. N. has indicated it is willing to work out some compromise.

Despite the enemy reversal in the prisoner debate, the Communists remained as noncommittal as before in a second subcommittee trying to decide how to police an armistice.

Mr. Gen. Howard M. Turner, one of two U. N. members of the subcommittee, said the Communists merely asked the Allies to reread the U. N. statements of Dec. 15 rejecting the Red demand for a ban on troop rotation during a truce.

"We pointed out that this was a needless waste of time," Turner said. "They are trying to kill time and waste time."

The subcommittee will meet again at 11 a. m. Wednesday (9 p. m. Tuesday EST).

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa. (UP)—Thirty-six-year-old Michael L. Varshine was recovering in New Kensington Hospital today after he was found "frozen stiff" in his automobile during the recent cold wave.

When the tanks were ordered in, Egyptian snipers opened up on them, the British said, and the tanks replied with their big guns. There was a second exchange 30 minutes later.

No British casualties were reported in today's fighting.

Ismailia has resembled an armed camp for several weeks. Families of British servicemen have been removed to safer areas in the zone or sent home to England.

Total Is About One-Fourth Of Number Of U. S. Soldiers 'Missing In Action'; Names To Be Made Known As Soon As Possible; Only 11,559 Allied POWs Said Held By Reds

PANMUNJOM, Korea (UP)—The Communists gave the United Nations today the names of 3,198 U. S. war prisoners — all they hold out of 12,795 Americans missing in the Korean war.

Names of the Americans were to be released to the wire services for publication as soon as the list arrived in Tokyo, expected to be about 2 p. m. EST. The list does not include home towns of the servicemen and that information was expected to come from the Defense Department in Washington about Friday.

The total, at least 2,000 lower than previously predicted, appeared to substantiate Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's estimate of Nov. 30 that nearly 6,000 missing American troops had been murdered in Communist atrocities.

A Communist spokesman said the Americans on the list included Maj. Gen. William F. Dean, who disappeared in July 1950 while commanding the U. S. 24th Division in battle at Taejon, South Korea.

Also on the Communist list, the spokesman said, was Associated Press correspondent-photographer Frank Noel, one of five Allied war correspondents missing in action.

Altogether, the Reds turned over the names of 11,559 Allied war prisoners in approximately 11 North Korean camps to United Nations delegates in a surprise about-face at an armistice subcommittee meeting.

Besides Americans, the Communists listed some 7,000 South Korean prisoners, 919 British, 234 Turks, 40 Filipinos, 10 French, six Australians, four South Africans, three Japanese, and one each from Canada, Greece and Holland.

In exchange for the Communists' list, the U. N. delegation on the subcommittee handed the Reds a 2,000-page, foot-high stack of documents listing 132,474 Communist prisoners held by the Allies.

The Allies reported they have 20,740 Chinese prisoners in custody. The rest are North Koreans. Excluded, however, were 40,000 South Koreans who had been impressed into the Red army and later captured.

Turkey and chickens are back cheaper, but eggs—oh, my!

Homeward bound from school is making many young hearts happy these days.

New York caught a firm dealing in rotten eggs and fined them $500. Some scent about that.

Hog killing is the order of the day. We often smell the sweet savor of sausage, hamlet and backbone.

Next Sunday the Men's Prayer League will be held in the Christian Church and the subject will be "A Safe Christmas." Text, Luke 2:13-14. Leaders will be Robert Humber Jr. and Adrian Brown.

The ladies of the Episcopal Church have just received and are displaying at the office of Mr. W. H. Dail a box full of goods worked by fair hands. Everything that you can think of in the needlework line is there. Your inspection is cordially invited. You will find just the very thing that you need.

Friends will be interested to know that Mrs. Bob Joyner of Wilson, who underwent an operation at Carolina General Hospital in Wilson on Friday, is reported convalescing satisfactorily.

Robert Darden, who was called to active service in the Army in March as a member of the Inactive Reserve, has been released at Robbins Air Base near Macon, Ga. and is now home.

Mr. Mack Abrams was taken to Woodward-Herring Hospital in Wilson Tuesday for a check-up.

Kiwanis Club Meets
Rev. Frank Ross was guest speaker at the Kiwanis Club meeting on Monday night. He expressed two outstanding beliefs concerning independence and tolerance.

Rev. Ross continued by saying it is necessary for free people to safeguard their independence against encroachment by government and that tolerance is necessary to safeguard fundamental liberties.

The speaker was introduced by Rev. Z. E. Cox.

Visitors present were Horton Rountree, guest of Charles Edwards, and M. V. Horton Jr., guest of Dan H. Jones. Alton Robbitt had charge of the program.

Thirteen Children Take Teamwork In A Family

AP Newswire

GOLDSBORO, N. C.—The birth of his first daughter was a disappointment for John B. Ellis. With eight sons, he had hoped for a ninth boy so he could field his own baseball team.

Time erased the disappointment and more than fulfilled the ambition. Now Ellis has enough sons for a football team, plus two daughters for cheerleaders.

They never got around to forming the team, but 13 children in the family can make life as exciting as a continual football game.

Mrs. Ellis, a warm-hearted woman of 46, declares she had been "knee-deep in children" for most of the 25 years of her marriage.

"I guess it was my sense of humor that pulled me through," she chuckled. "That, and my natural love for children."

Only six of the children are at home now, but that's enough to keep Mrs. Ellis busy. Getting them off to school-six-year-old Stevie, the youngest, started this fall—and preparing lunch is a full day's work for mother.

John, "Skinny," Charles and Tommy are all in the Navy. Billy is in the Coast Guard, while Bobby lives in Goldsboro and, like his father, is in the insurance business. Jimmy is in college.

Carolyn and Fattie, the two girls in the family, "Bud," Jerry, Larry and Stevie round out the family. The ages of the 13 vary from John, 37, to Stevie, 6.

Fun and calamity come double in a big family. For example, mumps struck nine years ago and put 11 of the children and their father to bed at the same time.

That turned the home into a hospital and Mrs. Ellis into a full-time nurse.

There's sometimes a fright in numbers, too. Once the family went out in the country Christmas-tree hunting. There was general consternation when a count was taken and one child discovered missing.

Everything turned out fine, though. He had just been overlooked and left at home.

There's also safety in numbers. A still unsolved mystery around the Ellis house is "Who cut the fins off the goldfish?"

Evidence strongly points to Bobby, but he still protests his innocence.

Altogether, the Ellis children have put in 108 school years, with 30 years of perfect attendance.

Seven have graduated from high school and the other six at various stages along the way.

Jimmy proved an old adage about the "seventh son of a seventh child" being born lucky when he arrived in 1923. He was the first child born in the county that year and he gathered a number of prizes as a result.

Raising 13 children takes the combined efforts of every member of the family. "Each one put in his time as baby-sitter and dishwasher," Mrs. Ellis explained.

It was love at first sight when 18-year-old Virginia Earp met John Ellis 26 years ago. They were married shortly after and making plans for a big family.

"John is just sorry every one of them wasn't twins," Mrs. Ellis declared. As for herself, she is satisfied with the number and very proud of each one.

With the four oldest sons married, grandchildren are beginning to swell the ranks of the Ellis family. To date, there are five—all boys.

Looks like another football team might be in the making.

Kindergarten Gave Program Kiwanis Club's Meeting

The Christmas program presented by Mrs. C. D. Smith's Kindergarten class at the Kiwanis Club's supper meeting Friday night was voted by the Kiwanians to be one of the best of the year.

Kiwanian Hunter B. Keck, who had charge of the program, said the young people—boys and girls—are talented and well trained. Mrs. C. D. Smith was accompanist for the dancing, singing and pantomime numbers.

The "rhythm dance" by the group of children exemplified the Christmas spirit. The singing of Christmas songs followed. The pantomime number, "Away in the Manger," and singing of "Silent Night," with pantomime effect, elicited much applause. A feature of this was the humming in obligato of "Silent Night" while the children sang it.

The little children's costumes were lovely. They manifested much histrionic talent, Keck stated. They will be invited to put on another program next year.

Driver Arrested In Saturday Collision

Cars driven by Mrs. Helen T. Sermons, 403 Student Street, Greenville, and Dewey C. McGowan, Route 2, Greenville, collided at Ninth and Cotanche Streets Saturday about 4 p. m.

Damage to the Sermons car was estimated by police to be $250; the McGowan car, $150.

The officer arrested McGowan on the charge of failure to stop at a "stop" sign.

Yuletide Spirit At Rotary Meet

Old Santa himself visited the Rotary Club last night. All the Rotarians had to do was put him together.

The unique Christmas program staged by Program Chairman J. B. Kittrell consisted of making Santas out of apples, marshmallows, tooth picks, cloves and bits of cotton. Each Rotarian was given a kit containing the necessary articles for making a Santa, and each contributed a minimum of one dollar to the Rotary Christmas fund for the materials.

With the aid of several young ladies the Rotarians went to work and made miniature Santas. Rotarian Harding Sugg was cited for making the best Santa Claus from the apples, marshmallows and cotton.

The Christmas program opened with a Christmas prayer by the Rev. Leon Russell followed by the singing of "Silent Night" by the young ladies accompanied by J. B. Kittrell and his harmonica. At the close of the program the Rotarians joined in the singing of "O Come All Ye Faithful."

Guests at the meeting were Master Stator Martin, son of Rotarian Roy Martin, J. B. Ratcliff of Durham and Charles White of Greenville. Willie Pate was introduced as a new member of the club and visiting Rotarians were J. B. Bunting of Bethel, Dr. John Mewborn of Farmville, James Rogers of Wake Forest and Bob Booth of Ayden. Jesse Moye, III, represented Greenville High School as the Junior Rotarian.

President Charlie White presided at the meeting.

Navy Enlistment Open To Those Tapped By Draft

Chief A. E. Cahoon, local Navy recruiting officer, announced yesterday all men who have passed their mental and physical examinations for the Selective Service may volunteer in the Navy.

The men may volunteer from now until December 31, 1951.

Cahoon urges all persons desiring to enlist to do so before the deadline as by that time the monthly quota may be filled and no more enlistments will be accepted.

Cahoon said his office at the post office will be closed from December 21 until after the New Year. Contacts with the chief may be made here Tuesday or in Tarboro Wednesday. The main office at New Bern will remain open except for Christmas Day and New Year's Day.

Warming Up

The cold weather of the recent weekend had moderated yesterday and the highest temperature in the Greenville area was 48 degrees.

Lowest last night, 28, and at 8 a.m. today the mercury stood at 46. Slight drizzle of rain.

Yesterday, a year ago, the highest temperature here was 38 degrees. Lowest that night, 15 degrees above zero, and at 8 a.m. next day it was 17. No rain; no snow, Mrs. Carl E. Maiden, local observer for the U.S. Department of Commerce, reported.

Firm Entertains Employees And Guests At Party

Brody's of Greenville entertained approximately 50 employees and guests at the Club Saleby in Washington last night. The occasion was the firm's annual Christmas banquet and party.

A turkey dinner was served in the Avalon Room of the club. Numerous presents were distributed among guests and employees, and the customary annual Christmas bonus for employees was presented each person affiliated with the firm.

Owner Morris Brody thanked the entire force for the loyal support shown toward the firm in 1951. Following dinner, Bob Jones and his orchestra played for a session of dancing.

Liquor Sales In State Show Rise

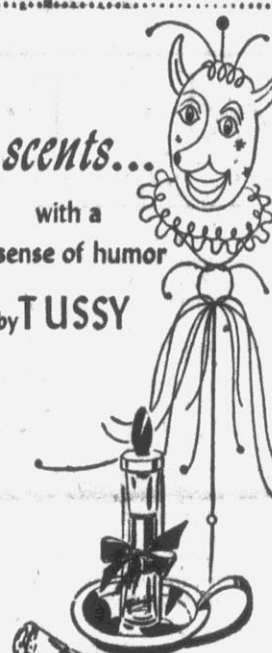

RALEIGH (AP)—ABC liquor store sales in North Carolina showed an increase of $1,492,697.95 last month over November, 1950.

In releasing the figures yesterday, ABC Chairman Robert W. Winston attributed the huge gain to the new federal excise tax and the recent opening of ABC stores in Greensboro and Winston-Salem.

The stores in Greensboro and Winston-Salem sold a total of $942,635.85, Winston reported. The new federal tax of $1.50 a gallon went into effect Nov. 1.

GIVE OLD AGE A CHANCE
Waste! Waste! Waste! We read of unnecessary expenditures in civil government and military circles, and it makes us sick to realize the enormous values which we are throwing away with both hands.

But human values are really more important. One thing we are throwing away today is old age. People have come to assume that when a man reaches 60 or 70 his usefulness is at an end. Sometimes it is. But there are men who are making a vital contribution to great projects long after they have passed the age of retirement.

In the community in which I live there are three elderly men, the youngest of whom is 80, the oldest almost 90. Two of them are today writing the most trenchant articles in their particular field of study that I have ever read. These articles appear in publications side by side with the writings of younger men, and these Nestors simply cast their young contemporaries into the shade by their incisive thought and clarity of expression. One of these men complains a great deal over the fact that he had to give up tennis at 60. The third man, now 80, has written five books in four years. The summer he was 82 he beat his golf record for all time by playing one of the Lake Placid courses in one under-par.

There is still a lot of vitality and usefulness in old age if we will only give old age a chance.

Getting Tough With The Fellow Citizens

The "get tough" policy the North Carolina Traffic Safety Committee has proposed for the state courts is something the state has needed for a long time.

The traffic tolls are mounting in North Carolina as more and more automobiles travel the highways and more paved roads invite motorists to make more frequent long and short trips.

The committee has called on the courts to "get tough" with the traffic regulation violators in an effort to bring down the accident rate. In so doing the committee hit the figurehead of leniency which traffic violators have enjoyed at the hands of the courts. The committee, however, did not strike the source of the leniency problem.

The courts, it is true, are letting traffic violators off with too light sentences in hundreds of cases. That, however, is not the fault of the judges, officers and other court officials. It is the fault of the everyday citizens of North Carolina who sit on the juries and hold the verdict of innocent or guilty in the palms of their hands.

If the "get tough" policy is to work in North Carolina, the citizens of the state must get tough with themselves in this growing problem of traffic accidents. As it is now in many counties of the state it is almost impossible to convict a person of driving drunk no matter what evidence can be presented by the arresting officers. The people who sit on the juries are just too reluctant to find a man guilty knowing his license will be revoked for one year, and a fine of at least $100 will be imposed.

Being aware of the situation, the courts are inclined to accept lesser charges which carry lighter sentences rather than taking a chance on a man going free if tried on a more serious traffic charge in which the odds will be in favor of the jury's returning a verdict of not guilty.

If the people would get tough with themselves in respect to traffic violations and not be reluctant to return verdicts of guilty where the evidence warrants, we would soon see a change in attitude in the courts toward the traffic violators. If the number of convictions increased and heavy penalties were imposed, we believe it would be reflected in a decrease in North Carolina's traffic accident rate.

From The Snail's Pace To The Speed Of Sound

The world has undergone a transformation since the windy day in December 1883 years ago when Wilbur and Orville Wright made their first airplane flight at Kitty Hawk.

For those few who witnessed the first flight of the crude plane, it seemed incredible that yesterday jet planes zoomed into view and out of sight in the 59 seconds it took the Wright brothers' plane to fly 1,000 feet.

The movement of the whole world has been geared to the progress of aviation since the turn of the century. The nations of the world used to be days and even weeks apart in travel time via the old transportation methods. Today it takes only a few hours to reach any point of the globe by air, and the nations have been brought into one little community through air travel. In the little community the fortunes and future of each nation depends heavily upon the activities of the other nations. The interdependence which the nations enjoyed before the introduction of the airplane largely has been replaced by an interdependence which has become a necessity as men now travel faster than the speed of sound instead of a few miles an hour.

The Wright Brothers never dreamed of aviation as we know it today. Even the pilots of the Spads and the Foulke-Wolffes during World War I, and the pilots of the Mustangs, Spitfires and Flying Fortresses of World War II, probably never dreamed they would see planes traveling faster than sound in such a short span of years.

Most unfortunate in the advance of aviation, in our opinion, is that the greatest strides come only during periods of wartime. Revolutionary designs are developed for the purpose of destruction, and only in later years are passed on for commercial use.

The age of flight is destined more and more to influence the daily lives of the average man in years to come. The striking developments of these years of strife will be included in the commercial aircraft designs of tomorrow, and the tempo of everyday life will increase accordingly.

Another 48 years, and the citizens of that day will look back in amazement and wonder how the world of 1951 managed to get along with the old fashioned jets and superbombers . . . just as we look back to 1903 and wonder how the home-made flying machine managed to get off the ground.

National Whirligig

WASHINGTON—Old-timers on Capitol Hill are keeping their fingers crossed on Abraham Teitelbaum's charge of a $500,000 tax shakedown "racket" involving high officials of the government. They will not dismiss it as a "fantasy" until it has been investigated thoroughly by a federal grand jury here, as Attorney General McGrath has promised.

In fact, several Capitol Hill figures have suggested that an outside, impartial commission should be chosen by President Truman for this task. As lawyers, they know how simple it is to select a favorable grand jury from a panel composed of government employees, and to present evidence in such a way that no true bill will be returned.

Even Mr. McGrath seems to suspect that the Teitelbaum story may have some substance. He now says that the grand jury will try to dig out the facts, "let the chips fall where they may." At first there was a disposition to regard the allegation as a "pipe dream." As yet, there has been presented no reason for Teitelbaum to make such an indictment under oath.

"FIXERS"—Several developments lie behind the new, wait-and-see attitude. Although all five federal officials deny the charge, four of them were on friendly terms with Frank Nathan, one of the alleged "fixers" and author of the tale, according to Teitelbaum. Two had friendly relations with Henry Grunwald, a mysterious actor in the drama, who has been placed under suspicion as a Nathan associate by Theron Lamar Caudle, ousted Assistant Attorney General. Now it develops that the lawyer suggested to Teitelbaum as an intermediary to "fix" his tax troubles is a man who once helped to manage one of Truman's Senate campaigns. This same lawyer, who has many friends around the White House, also helped to release four Capone gangsters from federal prison after they had served minimum time of a 10-year sentence for extorting a million dollars from motion picture moguls.

Oddly, Teitelbaum himself got Al Capone out of Uncle Sam's hoosegow before the expiration of his full term.

PATTERN—Another factor behind the new interest in Teitelbaum's testimony is that it follows the pattern of several famous Congressional investigations—namely, the Teapot Dome and Harry Daugherty scandals of Harding days. In those affairs federal corruption would have been hushed up, if it had not been for accidental breaks that were also branded as "fantasies."

Like the unbidden Banquo at the feast, when Congress starts to exhume hidden skeletons in the graveyard of politics and government, many people hitherto afraid to open their lips will come forward and spill everything.

Even though the Teitelbaum story that Nathan and Bert Nasser, an ex-convict, were promoting a "tax shakedown" in cahoots with federal men, may not be substantiated in detail, it is understood that the grand jury and Congressional inquiries will uncover new and startling evidence.

RING—The King Subcommittee is now engaged in putting together the various pieces of the Teitelbaum puzzle. As they review the evidence in an effort to see the overall picture, here is what they would have to report today:

The five officials listed by the Chicago lawyer as members of the "tax shakedown ring," on the basis of Nathan's alleged talks with him, are:

Caudle, who was then Assistant Attorney General in charge of the Tax Division. Although he has been exonerated of wrongdoing by McGrath, he was fired by Truman for "outside activities." Others are Charles Oliphant, who was then General Counsel of the Internal Revenue Bureau; Jess Larson, who headed the War Assets Administration, which handled sales of surplus military property; John Numan and George J. Schoeneman, former Commissioners of Internal Revenue.

ASSOCIATIONS—Now, here are the acknowledged associations of four of the five with Nathan, the alleged outside agent and promoter of the "tax shakedown," and with Grunwald, a well-known influence peddler and shadowy character at the Capital:

Caudle was a social and business friend. He once borrowed money to go into an oil wildcatting partnership with Nathan, and the latter showed their partnership contract to people as evidence of their intimacy. Mr. Larson was a partner in this gamble for a while.

Although Caudle became "enraged" when he heard of the "shakedown" story, and rebuked Nathan by long-distance telephone, he never reported it to McGrath.

Mr. Larson described Nathan as a "pest," and says he placed him on a War Assets blacklist. But Larson saw Nathan fifty or sixty times after the blacklisting. Larson stayed in a New York hotel room paid for by Nathan. The latter was able to obtain surplus property that netted him large fees.

IT CAN'T BE A REAL PICTURE OF HIM—HE'S GOT HIS HAND IN HIS OWN POCKET!

Somebody Told Me

By L. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

Santa Claus blew into Greenville last night, landed at the Country Club, distributed Christmas gifts to over 100 children who were there for the annual Christmas party of Marie's School of Dance, then went on to North Pole to get ready for a return trip next week.

Including parents, there must have been 200 on hand to see Santa Claus. Joe Waldrup, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Waldrup, was amazed when Santa called him by name. "How did you know my name?" he asked. "Didn't you know," Santa asked, "that I know the names of all little boys? I have a record that I keep on everyone."

"Well, Santa," Joe asked, "have I been good this year?"

"Yes, Joe," Santa said, "you've been fairly good."

The most important double-date ever planned in Greenville came off last night, involving four nine-year-olds. Jimmy (son of Mr. and Mrs. Archie) Rogers dated Jane (daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. O. Reynolds), and David (son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman) Garrison dated Frances (daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank) Moseley.

Quite naturally, the gentlemen send corsages to match the dress their dates were wearing. Of course the parents had no hand in this planning. They were set up to take flash pictures of the two couples, but that was just a coincidence.

Ran into Ed Harris of Home Buildings Supply and asked him, "Who's got the best looking child on the floor?"

He bubbled over and said, "I have." But Ed was in a lively mood. Some fathers were carrying a worn-out expression after nine-hour shifts. It was just a case of some early-to-bedders stretching a point to keep up with their nine-year-old children. But there were children there not older than three, too, with parents determined not to be outdone.

The children participated with enthusiasm in the dancing contests staged in the walls, fox trot, jitterbug, and Charleston. After the formal teaching of Marie, it must have been odd for them to fling their feet in any direction they chose.

For the occasion Margaret James sang, Christine Smith played the piano, and Hank Tribble was master of ceremonies. The star of the show was Santa Claus.

And I thank you.

Ann. Afternoon Edition

MERGERS — Pending merger of two big electric power companies in North Carolina, and tentative proposal to integrate half a dozen small telephone companies in mountain areas into one operation, is indicative of the trend toward centralized control of several types of private enterprises. There is a lot of talk about necessity for preservation of small business and maintenance of competitive activities among corporations and agencies rendering service to the public.

BIG BUSINESS — Actually, while all business is done at local level, experience has proven that in many lines better service can be rendered by big business than by small independent units. Bankers and merchants have discovered positive advantages to stockholders and customers "chain" operations. Many independent and individual business men have found definite advantage in uniformity through trade organization or associations.

MONOPOLISTIC — Many types of service can be rendered more economically and efficiently by virtual monopolistic operation. Electric power, public transportation and communication facilities fall into this category. In these fields competition may still be the life of trade, but competition which results in duplicated facilities and efforts at community level is highly detrimental to public service. Municipalities are discovering that economic law with respect to operating power plants and more of them are going out of the business of generating electricity and making contracts with utilities companies to supply their needs. Practical absorption of Tide Water Power Company by Carolina Power & Light is further proof that the job of supplying electric current can be handled better on large scale than by localized sectional operations of small companies.

TRANSPORTATION — The business of public transportation of passengers, freight and express is another that requires large scale concept in planning and found that out in postoffice operations. Federal and state governments found it out in devising highway systems for the greatest good for the most people. Privately owned railroads and bus and truck lines picked up the cue. Many small short line railroads that flourished a few years ago would long since have gone on the rocks but for lease and operation agreements which integrated them in far-reaching rail systems. When bus service began to replace rail passenger travel, and when motor trucks took over large part of the job for handling local freight shipments, it was soon discovered that in order to render decent service at fair rates that would show a profit, there had to be combinations of numerous small outfits. So it is possible to buy in Raleigh a bus or train ticket to San Francisco, and in many instances to make the trip without changing cars.

COMMUNICATION — Probably the outstanding example of coordinated service is that offered by the telephone companies. The American Telephone & Telegraph Company with its subsidiary and affiliated companies, constituting the Bell System, is the biggest service organization in the world. It dominates local telephone service and has an absolute monopoly on long distance calls. In most fields of service such monopoly would be regarded as detrimental to the public good and to democratic principles. Fact is, only such a giant organization could provide facilities for a soldier in Korea talking to his family in North Carolina; a farmer in California talking to his congressman in Washington; or a business man in Asheville conducting a deal with associates in New York within a few minutes time. Bigness is not necessarily bad; sometimes it is good it is necessary to be big. That is the theory. Back of consolidation and mergers in power, transportation and communication service systems.

CITY BUSES — Further evidence that operations in the fields of power, communication and transportation must be widespread in order to be efficient if provided in the plight of city bus systems all over the country. Raleigh is not alone in having a very acute problem in that item. Almost every municipal bus system in North Carolina is faced with the problem of income falling below operating costs. So are some out of state small towns like New York, Philadelphia and San Francisco.

TAX SUPPORT — In some North Carolina municipalities charges for electric power are used to lower ad valorem tax rates. In some others there has been complaint that taxes were used to support the utility service. In New York City the municipally-owned transportation system has long been a political football. In North Carolina there has been continuing controversy over how much the general public was contributing through gasoline taxes to support of bus and truck lines by furnishing roadways for their operation, while railroads were providing their own tracks and paying taxes for the privilege of use.

Women show the same change-of-pace ability in the matter of emotion. They are great broken field runners here, too, and that is why they are emotionally superior to men.

Many a strong man will let an emotion get him down until, as he says, "I feel lower than a whale's abdomen." But a woman? When she feels that low she sets about finding a way to have a whale of a time out of it.

This difference between the sexes is most clearly shown in how they react to "the glooms." The glooms is a disease that thrives on civilization. It is the feeling you get when something goes awry. As civilization gets more and more complicated, there naturally are more things to go awry, so the glooms seem to mushroom more and more. But whether the glooms come from a broken heart, a lost job, or a traffic cop's unkind remarks, a woman knows how to rise above them better than a man. He wallows in his depression until he almost drowns of self-pity. She teases herself out of despair by giving herself small unexpected pleasures. She takes positive action to lead her spirits out of the black jail.

That is why, when women feel bad, they buy themselves a new hat or lunch at a restaurant they can't afford. They do something positive to break the pattern of their mood, and make themselves feel better. They celebrate.

Men don't know how. They just go on feeling sorry for themselves until they wear out their worries or their worries wear them out. They end up with ulcers—the ladies with new wardrobes.

Poor men. They never have learned how and when to celebrate.

They think the time to have a gay night out on the town is after they have had a raise in pay. That's when they ought to go home and relax. They feel good enough already. It's when they've had tough luck they ought to dress up, see a good show, and start opening champagne bottles. Anything to pull them out of the gloom.

To men life is usually black or white. They feel good or they feel bad, and they have no ready formula to change the color of their emotions. To women life is more pastel, and they are artists in living. They change the

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER
Sometimes even the most onerous government law or regulation has beneficial effects not calculated on promulgation. The income tax has forced business men to keep better records and this has been good for thousands; certainly the bankruptcy rate has diminished since the tax became a law. The Defense Production Authority's limitations on the use of scarce materials has forced many manufacturers to turn to alternates and many of these have turned out cheaper and some better.

The same pattern of benefits is arising from an Office of Price Stabilization ceiling regulation, number 22, which requires manufacturers of many durables to file basic cost information by tomorrow if they are to adjust their prices to compensate for cost increases under the Capehart Amendment, and there is no deadline on that.

This has caused many manufacturers to reexamine their entire costs. In some areas there has been so much demand for services of cost accountants that good ones have become hard to find. In many plants accounting departments have been working overtime. Manufacturers have another interest in assessing costs accurately at present; they have to ascertain present costs if, some time in the future, they want to ask for higher ceilings to compensate for future rises in costs of material, labor, etc.

As a result, some manufacturers are finding things about the costs that they have not known before. In some cases, they are discovering that they were making less on one line and more on another than they knew. In more cases they are finding that increases in costs since Korea have been different than they knew. Most manufacturers know their total rise in costs but how these rises apply to each of a number of problems is usually something only a cost accountant can tell them.

U. S. OFFERS TIPS ON CONSERVING TOOLS

A leaflet on "Tool conservation in machine shops," by Joseph de Fober, of the Office of Technical Services, has been published by the Department of Commerce. The four-pager, which may be a refresher course in shop economy for many managers and foremen, is available free from Department of Commerce field offices.

SAYS SMALL FIRMS GET PLANT WORK

Benjamin F. Fairless, U. S.

Steel president, in taking issue with those who say small-business is not getting a fair share of defense work, says that the corporation's new plant at Morrisville, Pa., proves the contrary. He said U. S. Steel had awarded 200 prime contractors and that each has an average of 10 sub-contractors and each of these has an average of one sub-contractor—for a total of 4,000 contractors. Sixty per cent of the prime contractors and 75 per cent of the sub-contractors are small businesses, he added.

CHINA'S RICE CROP REPORTED DOWN

While the world's rice crop for the period from August, 1951, to July, 1952, is estimated by the Office of Foreign Agricultural Relations to be slightly less than the previous crop, the Asia crop is estimated at 3,700,000,000 pounds less. The largest decline is in China.

QUOTABLE QUOTES ON TODAY'S ECONOMY

"Bomb shelter costs are deductible as current business expenses if the owner can convince the Bureau of Internal Revenue that the shelter will be totally worthless for any other purpose and the cost is relatively small."

NEW YORK (AP)—Women are superior to men in many ways. (The trouble is they know it.)

Men use logic as a crutch, something to lean on. Women use logic like a pole vault. When it can lift them no higher, they let go of it—and go sailing on.

They never become a prisoner of logic, as men do. If it can no longer serve them, they simply rise above logic. This explains why women are mentally superior to men, and why no woman in history ever has proved wrong. Illogical? Of course. But wrong? Never.

Women show the same change-of-pace ability in the matter of emotion. They are great broken field runners here, too, and that is why they are emotionally superior to men.

Many a strong man will let an emotion get him down until, as he says, "I feel lower than a whale's abdomen." But a woman? When she feels that low she sets about finding a way to have a whale of a time out of it.

colors if they get too somber.

At least they try to. When I explained this theory to my wife, Frances, she replied: "Rover, that is the only sensible thing I ever heard you say about women. The reason women live longer than men is that they know how to pet themselves when they feel bad. Men do not."

don't know what she'll say, however, when I lug home the new television set I bought yesterday. I was feeling lousy.

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON — Come Christmas Eve, Michael Di Salle expects to put aside the headaches connected with his job as Director of Price Stabilization and start eating. This is an old Di Salle custom.

Ever Christmas Mike Di Salle sits down to a Christmas Eve dinner in the traditional Italian family style at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Di Salle in Toledo, O.

This year there will be 32 at the table the elder Di Salle constructed especially for family dinners. There will be Mike and his wife, Myrtle, and their five children, Antoinette, or "Toni", 21, Barbara, 18, Mickey, 15, Constance, 14, and Diana, 11. In addition, there will be Mike's three brothers and three sisters, their spouses and children.

"We have a big time," says Mike, "and my mother's a wizard of a cook. Things get going around 6 o'clock. Christmas Eve. Because this is a time of fasting no meat is served for this dinner. Five or six kinds of fish and seafood are dished up instead. These include oysters, clams, lobster and squid, snails and other fish. Mike's mother whips up a spaghetti sauce that goes along with the fish."

"Then we give out the presents and sing carols," Mike says, "and around midnight we break out the champagne, Italian sausages and cheese. The next morning the separate families in their own Toledo homes have another exchanging of presents. Mike says they all go to Mass together sometimes."

Mike likes a breakfast of country fried sausage, eggs, German-fried potatoes, coffee and toast, and "around 2 p.m. we go to my mother's and father's again and sit around and eat Christmas dinner for two or three hours."

Christmas dinner at the Anthony Di Salles begins with chicken broth. Antisepic comes next, followed by home-made spaghetti and ravioli served with little chunks of meat. Roast turkey is the big item on the menu, served with broccoli, dried sweet potatoes, mushrooms, artichokes, stuffed mushrooms, then comes a tossed green salad, cheese cake, toroni (a sweet, chewy Italian candy), fresh fruit, mixed nuts and coffee.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

WAS FORCE FOR GOOD

(Kinman Free Press)

The passing of Mrs. Elisabeth Meriwether Gilmer, better known by her pen name of "Dorothy Dix," takes from the newspaper profession one of its most active forces for good it has had in the past half century.

Mrs. Gilmer got into the newspaper profession more or less by accident and stayed to write a column which dealt with the truth about women and their problems of marriage and home life. She practiced what she termed a "common sense approach" to all questions about love and marriage. She fought vehemently against marriages of immature boys and girls and against unions founded on what she termed "nothing but sex and drink." She also was a lifelong opponent of too hasty divorces and she counseled that divorce could not "undo the past nor guarantee the future."

In her own life she set an admirable example of devotion. Her husband suffered an illness from which he never recovered some two years after their marriage. She nursed and supported him faithfully for the 26 years he lived.

In her early career she was considered forward and a bit ahead of her time, but the basis of her column of advice to the lovers endured because it was not founded on sensationalism. She contributed immeasurably to the peace of mind and happiness of her thousands of readers.

She possessed no magic formula for the solution of domestic ills, but her long reliance upon sound common-sense really made her column a lasting force for good.

Valued Highway Records Lost In Fire Last Night

RALEIGH—(AP)—Valuable highway records were destroyed last night when fire gutted the Highway Department's annex building No. 1 on Capitol Hill.

State Highway Engineer W. H. Rogers, Jr., said the loss will not immediately affect the highway program. However, it will be felt in general highway operations when it becomes necessary to use the records and information kept in the burned structure, Rogers said.

The building housed the Highway Department's Division of Statistics and Planning. It was located next to the new $1,800,000 highway building under construction. This building suffered slight smoke damage.

Rogers said the fire apparently started from a furnace in the basement about 6:15 p.m. Firemen, using all available fire fighting equipment, battled the blaze for almost two hours before bringing it under control.

Workers today began the job of clearing away the debris. Rogers said "everything in the building was destroyed. What was not burned was ruined."

James S. Burch, head of the Statistics and Planning Division, said it would be impossible to estimate the total loss. Some of the records would have determined where new roads would be built and how future highway allocations should be spent. Many of the records were irreplaceable.

The building was one of two old brick apartment houses taken over by the Highway Department in April, 1950, and converted into temporary offices.

CIO Proposes Higher Rates Of Minimum Wages

WASHINGTON (UP)—The CIO, in a series of recommendations ranging from rent control to social security, has urged President Truman to increase the national minimum wage rate from 75 cents to $1.25 an hour.

The "bold" program of domestic legislation was outlined by Emil Rieve, administrative chairman of the CIO committee on economic policy.

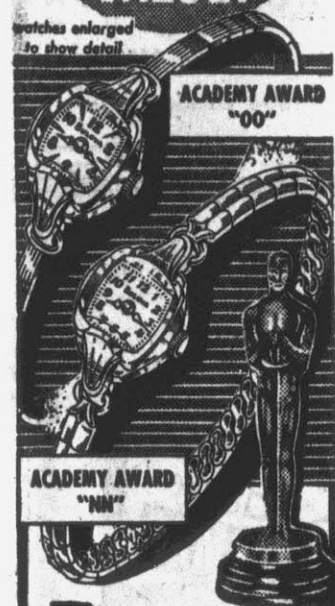

Rieve said the present minimum rate is inadequate, and pointed to the "increasing distress among lowest-income families, as reported by a number of government agencies."

Rieve's memorandum also renewed CIO demands for stronger price controls and recommended "standby authority" to deal with "serious inflationary pressures... when and if they develop." It also called for use of subsidies, if necessary, to control retail food prices.

Candlelight Ceremony Sat. Unites Melba Brown And John L. Howard

The Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church was the setting of a candlelight ceremony on Saturday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock when Miss Melba Ruth Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Samuel Brown of Bethel, and John Leroy Howard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Washington Howard, were united in marriage.

The Reverend Leon Russell, pastor of the church, officiated at the ceremony. Prior to the ceremony a program of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Paul Toll as organist and Mrs. Sam C. Whitehurst of Bethel, N.C., as soloist. Mrs. Whitehurst sang "I Promise Thee" and "I Love Thee," by Grieg, and used the Lord's Prayer as a benediction.

The traditional wedding marches from Lohengrin by Wagner and from "Midsummer Night's Dream" by Mendelssohn were used as the Processional and Recessional. At the couple left the altar bells from the church tower were rung.

To form a background around the chancel for the wedding party, graceful floral arrangements of white gladioli and chrysanthemums, tall cathedral candles, ferns and bridal greenery were used in profusion. The pews for the families were marked with satin bows and tiny white mums.

Mr. Charles Howard Jr. served as best man for his brother and ushers were Joseph Francis Bowen Jr., Julian J. White Jr., Stephen Wesley Johnston, Hoyt Alvin Minges, John A. Minges, and Wilmer Harris of Roanoke Rapids.

Miss Bertha Brown, of Washington, D. C., sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a gown of coral-berly velvet and net over taffeta fashioned with stole of the shoulder neckline with stole of velvet, light bride and full skirt. She wore a dainty velvet cloche and carried a matching velvet muff with unique bouquet of chrysanthemums on it.

Attending as bridesmaids were Mrs. Miles Irving Hart Jr. of Raleigh, cousin of the bride, Mrs. Charles W. Howard Jr., sister of the groom, Mrs. Steven Wesley Johnston, Miss Joann Braswell, Miss Jean Hill-ton and Miss Carolyn Rowlette. They wore dresses of azure blue velvet, like the maid of honor's, and carried matching muffs with gold mums.

The bride entered the church with her father by whom she was given in marriage. Her wedding gown was of brilliant magnolia satin with panels of imported chantilly lace sweeping down the fitted bodice and flowing luxuriously throughout the train. The fitted bodice had a sheer yoke of lace with applique of satin leaves and round neck-line. Her chantilly lace and satin cap trimmed in seed pearls had a tiered illusion veil attached across the back. She carried a formal bouquet of white orchids, valley lilies and french lilies. Her only ornament was a pearl necklace, the gift of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Brown, mother of the bride, chose for her daughter's wedding a gown of peacock blue lace over taffeta with a most becoming head-dress of deep purple ostrich plumes with matching veil. She wore a corsage of deep purple orchids.

Mrs. Howard, mother of the groom, wore a gown of black crepe with bodice of pink embroidered in cut steel beads. She wore with this a tiny velvet hat with crown of pink roses and an orchid corsage.

Immediately following the ceremony the parents of the bride entertained at a reception at their home near Bethel, N.C. The home throughout was beautifully decorated with chrysanthemums, snapdragons and gladioli. The refreshment table in the dining room was covered with an imported cut work cloth and centered with an arrangement of bride's roses, carnations and snapdragons and baby pom-poms.

Reception. Receiving at the door were Mr. and Mrs. David T. House, while Mr. and Mrs. W. Jasper Smith introduced guests to the receiving line, which was composed of Mr. and Mrs. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Howard, the bride and groom, the maid of honor and the best man.

Miss Jane Vance of Washington, D.C. invited the guests into the dining room where Miss Alya Ray Taylor and Mrs. Clara Roberson served green and white brick cream, individual wedding cakes, salted nuts and decorated mints. Mr. and Mrs. Walle T. Carson invited guests into the hall where Mr. and Mrs. William Darcy Brown registered them. At the entrance to the library Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Everette received and introduced the guests to the second receiving line composed of the bridesmaids in the wedding party. Guests passed on from here to the punch bowl where Mr. and Mrs. Linwood Briley presided. At the entrance to the gift room were Mr. and Mrs. Sam C. Whitehurst. Good-byes were said to Rev. and Mrs. D. W. Alexander.

After the reception Mr. and Mrs. Howard left for a wedding trip to Northern points. For traveling the bride wore a Ted Steine Original in toast brown with champagne accessories, lizard shoes and bag and a white orchid pinned to her fur.

Mrs. Howard is a graduate of Bethel High School. She attended Bravard College, Mary Washington College of the University of Virginia and received her Bachelor of Arts from East Carolina College. For the past year she has been employed by Refrigeration Discount Corp. in Greenville.

Mr. Howard is a graduate of Greenville High School, an alumnus of Woodberry Forest School, Woodberry Forest, Virginia. He studied at East Carolina College and University of North Carolina. He is now with the personnel sections of the Engineers Brigade, Camp Rucker, Ala.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard entertained on Friday evening following the rehearsal, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Howard entertained at a brilliant rehearsal party honoring their son and Melba Ruth Brown, who were married in a candlelight ceremony Saturday afternoon in Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church.

The entire lower floor of the home was tastefully decorated in Happinesses, Red Colorado Carnations, Pink and Yellow snapdragons and Flame Gladioli.

At the front door guests were welcomed by Mr. and Mrs. Howard and presented to Mr. John Howard and Miss Brown. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Howard Jr. invited guests into the Sun Room where Misses Elizabeth Kittrell and Carolyn Clark presided over the punch bowl.

Passing from the Sun Room into the dining room, guests were made welcome by Mr. and Mrs. Ed Rawl Jr. A silver bowl of white snapdragons and carnations and the exquisite Chinese cut work covered table. Silver holders with white tapers and silver Bon-Bon dishes were placed at intervals.

A three tiered wedding cake daintily decorated with bride's roses and valley lilies and surmounted with springs of natural valley grasses one end of the table. At the other end Mrs. W. S. Brown, mother of the bride, served bridal ice from a large silver platter. Mrs. Linwood Briley of Bethel, N. C., the bride's sister, assisted by Misses Frances Bendall and Lytle Batchelor, served cakes, salted almonds and decorated mints. Following toasts to the bride, the young couple cut the wedding cake.

In the hall, Mr. and Mrs. Travis Flanagan directed guests to the den where Mrs. A. T. Slater and Miss Leah Day Pope, aunts of the groom, registered them.

About seventy-five guests, including the wedding party, friends and relatives of the bride and groom, enjoyed this delightful affair.

Must Plan In Advance For Yuletide Weddings

Those Pitt County couples who aspire to marriage and who plan to have the ceremony performed over the Christmas holidays are urged to make the necessary arrangements before the crucial time.

Registrar of Deeds John G. Clark Jr. said this morning too many people are laboring under the false impression that all the law requires for marriage is the mere procurement of a license.

"There are certain forms the law requires must be presented to the registrar of deeds before a license may be obtained," Clark said. He also reminded tardy "lotharios" that all county offices will be closed from Saturday, December 22, through Wednesday, December 26.

The requirements that must be met before a license may be issued are: without consent of parents, both parties must be at least 18 years old, and furnish proof to that effect; if either party is under 18, written consent of parents is required, and even with consent, none can be under 16 years old. In addition to those requirements, both parties must present a blood test report and statement of physical examination by a physician, and the couple must be married in the county where the license is issued.

"The blood tests must be made by an approved physician or clinic," the registrar of deeds asserted, "and the three approved clinics in Greenville are Pitt Memorial Hospital, Brooks-Moore Clinic and the Medical Arts Clinic."

The Articles of Confederation, though adopted by the Continental Congress in 1776, were not ratified by all the states until 1781.

Airmen Will Hold Christmas Party For 3,000 Kids

POPE AIR FORCE BASE (UP) Men of the 8th Air Force here start "Operation Christmas" this week for more than 3,000 orphans.

Men from all over the country have pitched in to make this Christmas a merry one for the North Carolina children. They are pouring their time, money and work into the operation.

A giant party will be given here in an empty hangar for 1,400 children from 13 orphanages. A special 12-car train will bring the children from Raleigh on Friday.

Four state railroads made up the excursion train for the orphans without charge. In addition to the party, the airmen will send presents to 2,900 other children who cannot attend. An Air Force helicopter will take Santa Claus to 19 orphanages with individual gifts for each child.

Five Lejeune Marines Killed In Highway Crash

Bordentown, N. J. — (AP) — Five young marines believed to be on pass from Camp Lejeune, N. C., were killed today after their car smashed into the rear of a tractor-trailer truck on the New Jersey Turnpike.

A sixth marine in the car was critically injured in the wreck which occurred six miles south of here on the recently completed toll road.

Police listed the dead, all Privates First Class, as Joseph De Pere, 21, 62 Old Village, Plainfield, Conn.; Andrew M. Jacobs, 17; Joseph D. Harrop, 17; John J. Rand, 17, and Norman Violette, 18.

All of the victims are believed to be from New England, police said. Sole survivor in the car, which was completely demolished, is Pfc James L. Robertson, 17, Springfield, Mass.

EAGER TO BE FIRST HARTFORD, Conn. — (UP) — Harold J. Batcheller already has made an appointment with the blood donor center for Jan. 2, 1952, so he can be the first contributor in the new year.

and swallowed. Then light came into his eyes.

"It's you—Professor," he whispered. "I was hopin'—to have a talk with you. Come out this way—for that. And to kind of—"

"Better not talk now," Gentleman Jim advised. "I'll get you to a doctor, quick as we can travel."

"Reckon I've got too had a hole in me—for that," Ten-Spot protested. "And anyway, it don't matter. I—"

"Did you see who shot you?" Jim asked, gathering him up in his arms.

"No. I didn't know anybody was after me—thought it was just you they had it in for. I was thinkin' about the things you said about cleanin' out the bad spots."

Having placed Ten-Spot in the doctor's care, Gentleman Jim sought out the sheriff, who listened to his recital without comment.

"You any idea who shot him?" Hoffman asked then.

"I could hazard a guess. And so could you, I expect."

"The sheriff shrugged, his eyes veiled.

"Guessin' no good," he retorted. "I've made a lot of guesses in my day—some wrong. Or do you guess the same?"

"How do you mean?"

"Somebody might have figured you had gone that way, Professor—but not knowing that you were driving. You've got a habit of hikin' around on foot after dark. No tellin' how many have noticed it. Suppose somebody mistook Ten-Spot for you?"

Ten-Spot had hinted as much. Hoffman asked the same question which had been put to him before.

"Do you pack a gun, Professor?"

"It hardly seems in keeping with my calling, Sheriff."

"That's a matter of opinion," Hoffman said ambiguously. "But you're right unpoplar in some circles, considerin' how short a time you've been in town."

There was no change in Ten-Spot's condition the next morning. Having ascertained that Gentleman Jim hitched the team to the covered wagon and drove around the Emporium, and began to order, carrying out the goods until the wagon was filled with a wide variety of items. Malita Gilson appeared, surveyed the wagon, then turned to Gentleman Jim with a dawning smile.

"You're taking these things out to your folks?"

"Why—why yes, I was figuring on it," Gentleman Jim agreed.

"Would you like to go along with me?" He hadn't intended to ask that, and immediately he feared what the answer might be. But her retort was prompt and decisive.

"I'd love to. I was hoping you'd ask me."

Happy grinned as he watched them drive away.

"Figured I'd have to go along and do the heavy work," he confided to Staves. "Unloadin' that stuff. Guess I'm not needed now, the way it looks."

"You'd just be in the way," Staves agreed. "But if you were to go out to the house, now, I'll bet Minerva would be glad to see you. She was tellin' me she'd never realized how lonesome it got around there, till you started drop-pin' in."

"Reckon I'll do that, then," Happy decided. "I was trying to figure out some good excuse."

It was Staves' turn to grin.

"When a man wants to do something that somebody else wants him to do," he said safely. "What does he need of an excuse?"

Ten-Spot Lolo was dead. Dead by a bullet which had probably been intended for Gentleman Jim, but in any case it was murder.

A murder which must go unavenged—unless he did something about it! And everything which he did seemed to be driving him to work against himself, against the objectives which had brought him to this town in the first place.

He agreed to say a few words over Ten-Spot at the burial, suggesting that the funeral be deferred until Sunday afternoon. A collection was to be taken that evening. The suggestion that been made that the money be used to pay his expenses, but Gentleman Jim had refused. Why, he did not quite know, but more and more he found such a notion distasteful.

So the money would be used locally, and to that he had agreed. (To be continued)

Jaycee Yuletide Program Readied

Arrangements are rapidly being completed for the Jaycee Christmas program to be presented over radio station WGTC Thursday night from 8 to 9 o'clock.

The program is being sponsored by the Greenville Junior Chamber of Commerce in cooperation with the radio station to raise funds to provide Christmas baskets for needy families in the Greenville community.

Ell Bloom, who will be master of ceremonies of the hour radio program of local talent, said this morning he was lining up "all the good talent around town" to appear on the program. "We are going to keep the names of those who will appear on the program a secret so it will be a surprise," Bloom said. He added, however, that the hour-long program will be check full of first class entertainment provided by local people.

While the program is being conducted Thursday evening, people of Greenville who wish to make donations for needy families of the community will be asked to call the radio station and leave their names and addresses. At the same time a number of Jaycees will be cruising Greenville in automobiles to pick up the donations from the citizens who call the radio station.

To Blame Russia For Pact Action

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The United States, Britain, France and Turkey reportedly have agreed to tell Russia in plain language that it is responsible for the efforts of free nations to form a new military command in the Middle East.

Russia protested to the four powers several weeks ago that the proposed command was an aggressive agency threatening Soviet security. American officials at the time said the charge was nonsense.

Since then there have been exchanges of view among the capitals of the four nations sponsoring the Middle East Command and notes have been prepared for delivery to the Soviet Foreign Office. Announcement of the action is expected within a day or so.

Diplomatic informants said the four powers will emphasize that the command is a voluntary organization and that once it is created it will be thoroughly cooperative in nature—to such an extent that the troops of one member nation could not be moved into another without specific permission.

Pirates Drop 72-67 Return Tilt To Guilford Quakers

Illinois Rated Top Cagers By UP Poll; Kentucky Third

NEW YORK (UP)—The battle for first place in the United Press basketball ratings became a wide open affair today with Illinois winning the spot by a margin of 13 points over St. John's of Brooklyn.

The 35 outstanding coaches, whose selections form the basis for the ratings, demonstrated the nature of the race after Kentucky's upset defeat at the hands of Minnesota by giving first place votes to seven different teams.

Illinois, winner of its only two games this season, received 11 of the first place votes and a total of 266 points while St. John's received eight and a point total of 253. Points are awarded on the basis of ten for a first place vote, nine for a second and so on down to one for a tenth.

Kentucky, the pre-season favorite and leader last week, dropped to third place with seven first place votes and a total of 215 points.

The coaches based their selections on games played through Saturday night, so the outcome of last night's game between St. John's and Kentucky does not figure in the ratings.

Other teams to receive first place votes were St. Louis, five; Kansas, two; and Washington and Indiana, one each.

Kansas wound up in fourth place followed in order by Washington, St. Louis, Kansas State, Indiana, Oklahoma A&M, and North Carolina State. Indiana was a newcomer in the select circle, having been 11th last week. Wyoming, tied for ninth with N. C. State last week, dropped down to 13th place.

Illinois and St. John's both moved up one place with Kentucky dropping two spots. N. C. State fell from a tie for ninth to tenth.

Although they didn't make the top 10, Minnesota and Utah turned in two of the best showings. The Gophers, who did not receive a single point last week, received 20 points which was good enough for a tie for 17th place. Utah, tied for 22nd place last week, jumped to 11th place with 42 points.

Coaches who make up the 1951-52 United Press basketball rating board include:

Everett Case, North Carolina State; E. A. Dibble, Western Kentucky; Adolph Rupp, Kentucky; Tom Scott, North Carolina and Cliff Wells, Tulane.

Phantoms, Rocky Mount Play Here

Greenville's Green Phantoms will wind up its pre-Christmas schedule here tonight with a return engagement with Coach Bill Lundy's Rocky Mount team. The Blackbirds won the first game, 37-29.

The Phantoms now have a record of two wins and two defeats, with all four games against Class AAA competition. They will enter into Northeastern Conference action after Christmas.

Coach Bo Farley is expected to send the same lineup on the floor as that which started the other contests, with Leon Moore and Smith Wallington at forwards, Wallace Conway at center, and Sid Briley and Glenn Scott at the guards.

Rocky Mount is led by Guard Bud Whitley.

South Edgecombe Splits Two Games

PINETOPS — South Edgecombe and Gardeners High divided two games here last night, with the girls winning their fourth straight contest, 37-31, while the Gardeners boys handed South Edgecombe its first loss of the season, 41-39.

Aaron Webb scored 17 points to lead the winning boys team, followed by Bulen Williford with 11 points. They were led on defense by Irvin Durham and Williford.

South Edgecombe was led by Luke Lewis with 13 and Brooks Webb with 9. Webb and Brooks Drake were outstanding on defense. Ann Webb led the winning girls team with 23 points, with Rachel Corbett second with 8. Sue Lilly, Susan Strickland, and Margie Wooten were defensive leaders.

Indians Purchase Young Outfielder

CLEVELAND—The Cleveland Indians today announced purchase of bespectacled Dino Restelli, a 27-year-old out-fielder, from the Washington Senators in a straight waiver transaction.

Restelli played parts of the 1949, 50 and 51 seasons with the Pittsburgh Pirates. Last summer he played in 21 Pittsburgh games, then was sold to Hollywood of the Pacific Coast League where he finished with a .287 batting average. He hit 10 homers. He went to Washington on waivers last October.

Six Buccaneers Foul Out During Rough Contest

By JIMMY ELLIS

REFLECTOR Sports Writer
GUILFORD COLLEGE—Don McLeod, big forward for Guilford's Quakers, racked up 21 points here last night to lead his teammates to a 72-67 major upset win over the Pirates of East Carolina, who were previously unbeaten in league play and were riding the crest of a five game winning streak.

The game was marred throughout by an excessive number of personal fouls, with 56 charged against the two clubs. East Carolina was on the receiving line for 37 of the whistles, and saw six of its top line players go out of the contest on personals, including its high scoring forwards Sonny Russell and Bobby Hodges. Guards Dick Blake and Lou Collie and centers Toddy Fennell and Cecil Heath were the others who were forced to leave the contest via the foul route.

Guilford led all the way, although its lead was threatened several times by the Pirates. Both clubs got off to a fast start in the first period, with the Quakers leading at the close of the quarter, 24-20. Coach Howard Porter's Buccaneers narrowed the margin to two points at the end of the third period, after dropping behind by six at halftime.

Guilford now has a record of three wins and one defeat within the North State Conference, with their only loss coming at the hands of this same East Carolina club earlier in the season, 65-47. The Pirates, who were leading the league with a 2-0 record before last night, dropped down into second place as a result of the loss.

Bobby Hodges, who led the ECC scoring with 18 points, left the game in the third period, followed by Sonny Russell with seven minutes left in the game. The remaining four players who fouled out left during the remainder of the contest.

East Carolina will continue its westward swing by moving over to Boone tonight for a game with Appalachian State.

State-Colonial Match Heads Southern

By the Associated Press
North Carolina State gets a close-up view tonight of a team that promises to be one of its top challengers for the Southern Conference basketball championship.

When the Pack tangles with George Washington University in Washington, the defending champions will be meeting the only undefeated outfit left in conference ranks. G. W. has played only twice, but has won both times.

One of the Colonial victories was 62-60 win over West Virginia which automatically qualified the winners as darkhorse of the 1951-52 conference race. West Virginia is expected to be right up there with the top teams of the circuit.

The State-GW ruckus highlights a four-game card for conference quints which sees several of the title challengers in action.

Maryland, with a 2-1 conference mark, seeks its third circuit triumph against VMI and seems assured of getting it. The Naples Keydets have lost four games in a row, three inside the conference family.

Duke is at home to Davidson. The Blue Devils, with Dick Groat on their side, have a 1-1 loop mark while Davidson stands 1-2.

In a non-conference affair, The Citadel visits Elon College. The conference last night lost the only team which had been keeping

George Washington company in the undefeated class. Clemson's Tigers, after four consecutive wins, went down before Tennessee, 61-52. The Tigers lost from the foul stripe, missing 20 of 28 tries from the free-throw line while outshooting the Volunteers from the floor, 22 baskets to 19. Ron Richardson and Ames Wells had 10 points each to lead the Tigers' futile cause.

In the only intra-conference scrap, South Carolina showed its power by blasting Wake Forest, 84-64, with an amazing show of sharp-shooting from the floor. Jack Wise tossed in 22 points for the Gamecocks, who raised their conference mark to 2-0.

North Carolina bowled over Hanes Hosiery, 70-59, and Morehead (Ky.) Teachers slaughtered The Citadel, 78-45, in other games involving conference teams.

Monday's Cases In Police Court

By CHESTER WALSH

In Police Court yesterday Judge Charles H. Whedbee found Ollie Gray Jr., 28-year-old Negro, guilty of six charges of larceny and one charge of assault with a deadly weapon and gave him a total of two years on the roads.

Testimony was that Gray stole clothing from a car belonging to Dr. C. R. Graves, 114 East Second Street. Further testimony was that Gray assaulted Junior Evans, Negro youth, with a deadly weapon (a knife). The court gave Gray six months on each of the six charges of larceny and 12 months for assault with a deadly weapon. Some of the sentences are to be served concurrently.

Johnny Weldon, Negro, a county prisoner who escaped from the city jail about two months ago, was given six months on the roads for jail breaking. Weldon, who escaped with two other prisoners, Johnny Green and Jake Cooper, Negroes, was captured last Saturday afternoon at his home, 406 Clark Street.

Weldon was in jail awaiting trial for disobeying a court order. Green was in on a charge of burglary, and Cooper was in jail on a capias for failure to answer when called in court. Weldon and Green are back

Budget Program Of $83 Billions Seen For 1952

WASHINGTON (AP)—An $83 billion dollar spending program for the new fiscal year—several billions below earlier forecasts—was predicted today in the wake of efforts by President Truman to cut the new budget.

The President devoted much of his time during his recent Florida visit to the budget for the fiscal period beginning next July 1.

Informed officials said White House whittling may result in a recommendation to congress by Mrs. Truman that about $3 billion dollars be spent in the fiscal year.

This would compare with a 90 billion dollar figure which had been widely forecast on Capitol Hill and in some executive circles up until a short time ago.

There were reports over the week-end that Army weapons procurement had been tentatively slashed six billion in the new budget.

A spending budget of less than 80 billion, if at all possible, was reported being urged by some of Mr. Truman's advisers who are concerned with political factors.

Whatever the final figure, it appears certain to be well above the 70 billion which it now is estimated will be spent this fiscal year.

Report Threats Growing Out Of 'Assault' Trial

YANCEYVILLE (UP)—County officials turned over to postal inspectors today a number of threatening letters written about the trial here of Mack Ingram, Caswell County Negro accused of assault on a white girl whom he had not touched.

The "assault at 75 feet case" ended in a hung jury in the November term of court here.

Recorder's Court Judge Ralph Vernon received an anonymous letter threatening him with death on Christmas Eve for his part in the trial. Solicitor W. B. Horton said he got one which said that on Christmas Eve the town of Yanceyville would be "wiped off the map."

Some 200 letters have been received since the trial, Vernon said. Some of them were honest inquiries and were signed, he said, but many were anonymous threats.

Couples Club

Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Robinson entertained the Couples Bridge Club Tuesday night at their home on College Avenue. The home was lovely with Christmas greenery and other Yuletide decorations. Guests with the members were Mrs. Lawrence Lancaster and Miss Joyce Harris. During progressions toasted pecans and Coca-Colas were served. At the conclusion of play Mrs. Robinson served congealed fruit salad and open face sandwiches from tables with green covers, lighted by red tapers in crystal holders. Compiling high score among the ladies was Miss Harris, with Edwin Robinson winning men's high. Jimmie Huff received the consolation award.

Miscellaneous Shower

Mrs. R. O. Lancaster and Mrs.

Nora Griffin entertained with a miscellaneous shower Wednesday night at the home of Mrs. Lancaster on Buck Avenue. The shower complimented Mrs. Oliver S. Griffin, the former Miss Margaret Carol McGowan.

During the evening refreshments of sandwiches, party cakes, nuts, mints and punch were served to approximately 25 guests.

Christmas Party
The Woman's Auxiliary of St. Paul's Episcopal Church held its December meeting and annual Christmas party Thursday night at the home of Mrs. Robert Lancaster on College Avenue with Mrs. L. W. Purser and Mrs. Edwin Robinson co-hostesses.

A brief business session was held with Mrs. W. E. Clevé, president, in charge, after which Mrs. Joe Simpson gave a beautiful Christmas story, "The Gifts of the Wise Men." This being Mary's story of what she wanted to do with these gifts. Following the story a recording of the hymn, "O Come All Ye Faithful," was played softly. The program closed with a prayer by Mrs. Clevé and Christmas carols by the group. During the social period a Christmas contest was held in which Mrs. J. D. McLean, Mrs. Able Clevé and Mrs. Ralph Carawan were winners, each receiving a candy-filled Santa Claus boat. All members brought a gift of clothing for the Galilee Missions, a box of gifts were assembled for some children at the Oxford and Thompson Orphanages and gifts were exchanged among the members. The Lancaster home was attractively arranged with Christmas greenery and candles and a beautifully decorated Christmas tree. The mantle was covered with magnolia leaves, with grouped red and white leaves, sprinkled with star dust, among the greenery resembling poinsettias, with grouped red and white tapers lending beauty to the arrangement.

Refreshments of Christmas fruit meringue topped with a holly sprig centered with a red cherry were served from the dining table covered with a chartreuse linen cloth, centered with a white poinsettia, symbolic of the Star of Bethlehem. Around this was cedar interspersed with miniature red and white poinsettias and chartreuse Christmas balls. Eighteen members and a guest, Mrs. J. D. McLean of Cameron, were in attendance.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT BEFORE THE CLERK NORTH CAROLINA PITT COUNTY

NOTICE OF RESALE OF TIMBER
In the matter of Edith Catherine Tripp Williams and husband, Lloyd Williams, William Joseph Tripp and wife, Jane T. Tripp, Lucy P. Wooten and husband, Steven Wooten, Louise Galdson and husband, Jesse Galdson; Adelle W. Pittman, David M. Wooten, and Rachel E. Wooten; Lloyd G. Peaden, Lorraine P. Bryan and husband, Don P. Bryan, Jr., Grover Peaden and wife, Mrs. Grover Peaden, Margaret Dickens and husband, L. M. Dickens, Paul R. Peaden, Susie Joyner and husband, John Joyner, Evelyn Price and husband, John I. Price, R. W. Peaden and wife, Betty Peaden, and J. A. Moore, Administrator c.t.a. of the Estates of W. H. Peaden and Katie R. Peaden

Such persons unknown, not in being, as may in any contingency become interested in the lands of W.H. Peaden and Katie R. Peaden

Under and by virtue of the authority vested in me as Commissioner by an order entered by the Clerk of the Superior Court of Pitt County, in Special Proceeding No. 5482 in the office of said Clerk, and the bid on the timber received at the resale held on November 28, 1951, having been raised, as provided by law the undersigned commissioner will offer for sale at public auction at the Courthouse door in Greenville, North Carolina, to the highest bidder for cash, on Thursday, December 27, 1951, at twelve (12) o'clock Noon, all of the timber of every kind and description measuring twelve (12) inches in diameter at a point twelve (12) inches above the general level of the ground, and such timber which shall attain said size during the period given for cutting same, upon the following described land in Pitt County, North Carolina, to-wit:

(a) Lying and being in Falkland Township, Pitt County, and specifically described as follows: Beginning at W. A. Peaden's corner on the public road; thence South 8 West 16 poles; thence South 22.5 West 260 poles to a pine; thence South 38 East 58 poles; thence South 8 East 67 poles; thence North 2 East 141 poles; thence North 45 East 54 poles; thence North 75 East 39 poles; thence North 255 poles to the public road; thence with said road to the Beginning, containing 239 acres, and being the identical parcel of land conveyed by J. O. Proctor and wife, Betty S. Proctor, to W. H. Peaden, under deed dated October 19, 1900, and recorded in Book B-7, page 442 in the office of the Register of Deeds of Pitt County, North Carolina.

(b) Lying and being in Falkland Township, Pitt County, and specifically described as follows: Adjoining the lands of J. V. Johnson's heirs formerly owned by Betty Johnson, Beginning on the Greenville-Wilson Highway in W. H. Peaden's corner; thence in a southerly direction to a pine in the pocoin; thence in a northerly direction with the E. J. Peaden line to a stake on the Greenville-Wilson road; thence with said road in an easterly direction to the Beginning, containing 35 acres more or less, and being the same land conveyed to W. H. Peaden by Elizabeth Peaden on the 29th day of January, 1907, by deed recorded in Book Z-8 at page 145 in the office of the Register of Deeds of Pitt County, North Carolina.

A map of said land has been made by Joe M. Dresbach, Registered Surveyor, and is on file in the office of the Clerk of the Superior Court of Pitt County, and a copy of same can be seen at the office of the undersigned commissioner. In case of a variance in the above description and said map, the map will control as to the courses and distances and acreage.

The purchaser of said timber will be given three (3) years in which to cut and remove same.

The highest bidder at such sale will be required to make a deposit of ten (10) percent of his bid with the undersigned, or the Clerk of the Superior Court of Pitt County, North Carolina, to show his good faith in the bidding, and await confirmation of the sale.

The sale shall remain open for ten (10) days, subject to an upset bid, and same will be subject to confirmation of the Court.

This the 8th day of December, Dec. 11-18 1951.

Recreation Commission Holds Meeting; Programs Discussed

Warren Carroll, city recreation director, reported on some new program ideas which are in formation at a meeting of the recreation commission at the Armory last night.

Warren said a basketball league, training school and a league for boys and girls were being organized in schools and junior high school boys in formation.

He reported to the commission that Mrs. Betty Mobley Gordon, assistant recreation director, is forming a workshop course for women and girls in social recreation, hobbies, and the like, which will be held at night.

Carroll said the local VFW is going to sponsor a city-wide marble tournament and Carroll said sponsorships are needed for other activities, such as kite building and flying, for both colored and white recreation groups.

It was decided last night to nominate from the floor at the next meeting the new officers of the recreation commission. The commission gave Heber Tripp the power to act in asking Dr. J. A. Battle, Dr. C. R. Graves, and Professor Davenport to recommend two men whose names will be presented before the Board of Aldermen in naming a Negro representative to the commission in place of J. H. Donaldson whose term has expired.

A place for Boy Scouts to hold meetings was discussed and the commission appointed Warren Carroll and J. H. Rose to meet with the Scout Council in planning a place for scouts to meet. Rose suggested the Armory and the field house at the Third Street School as ideal places for the scouts to meet.

The commission planned to meet with the city planning board in the near future to discuss the master plan for the two recreation centers which have been proposed for the city.

Salt put on sidewalks to melt snow usually damages the concrete, especially if the concrete is less than 6 years old.

Christmas Party Is Held By Lions

The Greenville Lion's Club last night held its annual Christmas party for members, their wives and special guests at the Woman's Club.

The evening's party was opened by the group singing Christmas carols led by Hartwell Campbell.

Following a turkey supper, the program was turned over to Master of Ceremonies Bruce Sugg Jr. Sugg introduced Mrs. Meredith Posey, who played and sang several musical selections. Her selections included North Carolina folk songs, popular ballads and Christmas folk favorites from the Tennessee mountains.

The more than 150 persons present for the evening's annual celebration were next treated to a skit of "John and Marsha," presented in the style of Bill Watson, playing "Marsha" and John Biggs as "John."

Gifts were presented to each lady present from a selection under a large Christmas tree.

President Jimmy Harris presided over the session.

The evening closed with group singing of some of the more popular Christmas songs.

U.S. Commercial Airplanes Ready For Mobilizing

WASHINGTON (AP)—Hundreds of commercial four-engine airplanes will be mobilized for military use in any national emergency, under a government plan to be detailed next month.

Secretary of Defense Lovett and Secretary of Commerce Sawyer, announcing the project last night, said planes and crews would be available on 48 hours' notice. They would augment Military Air Transport without hampering key commercial service.

But how many might be involved wasn't disclosed.

The cabinet officers said the program, first of its kind, will be discussed fully with airline presidents in January.

ike's Supporters Name Chairman

WASHINGTON (UP)—Backers of Eisenhower for President hoped today to get their Washington headquarters under Sen. Frank Carlson (R-Kan.) into full swing by the end of the week.

Carlson's selection as executive director of the Washington office came as no surprise. The former Kansas governor was one of the first prominent backers of the Eisenhower boom. Upon returning from Europe recently, he told reporters he was confident the general is available and can be nominated to head the GOP ticket next year.

March Of Dimes Leaders Hold Banquet

Discussing the 1952 March of Dimes poster are officers of the Pitt County Chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis who met with principals of county and city schools yesterday afternoon. Standing from left to right are: J. W. Overton, treasurer; Dr. C. G. Garrenton of Bethel, member of the executive committee; E. R. Browning, 1951 campaign chairman; James Butler, 1952 campaign chairman; D. H. Conley, superintendent of the county schools; and J. H. Rose, chairman of the Pitt County Polio Chapter. (Staff Photo by Muriel Shotwell).

City and county school principals met yesterday with officers of the Pitt County National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis to lay the groundwork for the coming March of Dimes Campaign.

The dinner meeting was held yesterday afternoon at six o'clock in the Marine Room of the Old Town Inn.

J. H. Rose, chairman of the Pitt County Chapter of the Foundation, introduced James Butler, Alumni Secretary of East Carolina College, as the chairman of the 1952 March of Dimes Campaign.

In his opening remarks, Butler said he was confident that the schools in the county and city would help make the 1952 Campaign a success.

Arrest Driver In Auto Collision

Greenville police arrested Seth Bostic, Route 5, Greenville, yesterday afternoon after his car collided with the rear of a truck driven by Horace W. Stokes of Greenville on the Bethel highway.

They charged him with following too close to the vehicle ahead. Damage to the truck was estimated to be $10; damage to Bostic's car, $250. The collision occurred near Respers' barbecue place.

Grifton School Music Classes Will Present Program Wednesday

GRIFTON—The music classes of Grifton School will present a program of Christmas music on Wednesday at 7:30 in the evening.

The toy band will accompany the first grade and play selections of their own. Several special numbers will be presented by individual groups including a seven member ensemble from the eighth grade.

The High School Glee Club consisting of forty members will sing "The Christ Child," a Christmas Cantata by Paul Bliss.

Fourth Alarm In Two-Day Period

Local firemen answered their fourth fire alarm in less than two days yesterday afternoon when they were called to a defective oil stove on Roosevelt Avenue.

Firemen reported the oil stove flared up, smoking the home of J. H. Donaldson.

Coast Guardsman Injured In Wreck

WINTERVILLE — A 21-year-old Coast Guardsman was seriously injured early this morning when the car which he was operating collided with a car on N. C. 11 two miles south of Winterville.

Patrolman James W. Boykin of Ayden, investigating officer, listed the injured man as William J. Batts of near Kinston. Driver of the second car was identified by Boykin as Levy C. Penner, 30, of North Harlow.

Batts was taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital for treatment of facial and chest injuries. Boykin stated that his condition prevented him from telling how the accident occurred.

Both of the cars involved were damaged around $400 each, the officer reported.
