Pitt Road Fatalities Decreased

Eight Less Deaths Reported Than During 1950 On County Highways

By ROY HARDEE Reflector Staff Writer Fatal traffic accidents on the highways of Pitt County dropped by eight in 1951 as compared with the same period in 1950, according to reports by the Greenville office of the State Highway Patrol today.

A total of nine fatal accidents, in which 10 persons were fatally injured, occurred in the county during 1951.

Fatal accidents were reported over the county in January, February, March, June, August, September, November and December. Two persons were killed in the months of August and September.

In 1950 there were a total of 18 persons killed on the county's highways, the worst year on record since 1938 which had a similar record of 18 road victims.

Three of the traffic accidents occurred on the rural roads of the county while the others took place on the main or secondary highways in the county's system.

In addition to the reduction in the number of fatal traffic deaths a sharp decrease has been noted in the number of minor accidents and the resulting injuries. No yearly report on the number of injuries or the final tabulation as to the number of accidents has been compiled as yet, the office reported.

Patrol officers in Pitt have centered their efforts in large part to working the rural highway system of the county to put a stop to the number of unlicensed drivers on the highways as well as checking for vehicle violations such as improper equipment of the cars and trucks traveling the roads.

As a result, due in large part to this crack down on drivers using the rural back ways and paths, the past Christmas season came and went with only a few scattered minor highway accidents over the county, and no one injured.

It was the first Christmas, which local officers could remember that no traffic accidents occurred in which someone was injured.

Patrol officers pointed out the fact that people in the county are obeying the laws more on reporting highway accidents.

Even so, officers still figure that about 15 per cent or more of the total accidents happening in the county are still going unreported.

Of the traffic deaths this past year, all with the exception of one were killed in automobile accidents involving passengers or drivers of the cars. A seven-year-old boy was the only pedestrian fatality of the year.

With the opening of a new year, Highway Patrol officials are looking on the brighter side of the accident picture, in that they are hoping for slackening off of the fatal accidents and injuries.

More and more of the officers' time in the coming months will be spent on the rural roads where heavy traffic is centering as the patrol begins its crack down on road violators in an effort to ease the accident load.

During the past twelve months an average of $10-12,000 worth of property damage has been reported monthly as a direct result of highway accidents. This figure would possibly be much higher as the rough estimates are made by the investigating officer on the scene.

A breakdown on the accident total since 1938 is as follows: 1938, 18; 1939, 13; 1940, 10; 1941, 9; 1942, 9; 1943, 17; 1944, 10; 1945, 3; 1946, 14; 1947, 5; 1948, 3; 1949, 12; 1950, 18; 1951, 10.

Boxscore RALEIGH (AP)—The Motor Vehicles report of highway accidents for the period from 4 p.m. Monday through 10 a.m. today: Killed—0 Injured—37 Killed this year—0 Killed to date last year—4 Injured this year—37 Injured to date last year—22

Rhode Island Takes Steps To Protect Its Industries

PROVIDENCE, R. I. (AP)—Little Rhode Island, the smallest state in the nation, today was at war with the entire South—but there'll be no shots fired.

The declaration of war was made yesterday by Gov. Dennis J. Roberts who called it a "war against raids being made on our industries by certain states." And he added "Fight we will and win we will."

The governor did not mention them specifically but observers said he meant the war was against the Southern states which have been criticized lately for trying to lure Northern industries.

In an address to the convening General Assembly yesterday, he pledged "bold steps" to strengthen the state's economy by recommending the legislators set up a one million dollar rotary fund for construction of modern plants.

By February 6th

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Democratic congressman quoted President Truman today as saying he hopes to make known before Feb. 6 whether he will run again.

Rep. Hays of Ohio told reporters after a White House call that he had pointed out to Mr. Truman that Feb. 6 is the last day for filing of candidates for delegates from Ohio to the Democratic national convention.

He said Mr. Truman told him he "hoped he would be able to work out things so he would know what he is going to do before Feb. 6."

In Ohio, the candidates for delegates must name their first and second choices for presidential nominees.

Hays told reporters his own personal support for the nomination, in event Mr. Truman decides against running again, will go to Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee.

Two More Jets Downed By Reds

U. S. Planes On Strafing Raid Hit By Anti-Aircraft Guns

8TH ARMY HQ, Korea (UP)—Communist anti-aircraft guns shot down two United Nations planes over North Korea today, but the start of 1952 found the war quieter than it has been in a month.

Knocked down by Red ground fire were an American Thunderjet and a Shooting Star jet. Both were hit while attacking ground targets.

Generally bad weather over enemy territory prevented American jets from avenging the losses in air combat. American Sabrejets patrolling the cloudy skies sighted no enemy planes over "MIG alley" in northwest Korea.

The only ground action reported along the 145-mile front was a 12-man enemy probing-attack on the eastern front. An 8th Army communiqué said the dozen enemy troops were repulsed.

United Nations jet fighters knocked down 32 MIG-15 jets during December but 35 other planes were destroyed, the 8th Air Force said.

Seven Allied planes were shot down in aerial combat and the other 23 were brought down by ground fire.

The jinx day for the Reds was Dec. 13 when F-86 pilots had their biggest day of the war, shooting down 13 Communist jets.

In addition to the 32 Russian jets destroyed, nine probably were destroyed and 35 damaged.

Some 18,025 effective sorties were flown during the month with Communist supply lines getting most of the attention.

Building Program Kept Pace With Previous Year

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nation's building in 1951 kept pace with the year before, according to the government, but the cost—nearly 30 billion dollars—was 7 per cent higher and volume is falling off.

A year-end report by the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics and the Commerce Department's building materials division, was issued yesterday.

It said the year's total of $29,813,000,000 for all new construction marked a 7 per cent increase over 1950. The total included more than a billion for new military facilities, nearly six times as much as 1950, and 880 millions for atomic energy and defense plant construction, four times more.

A breakdown on the accident total since 1938 is as follows: 1938, 18; 1939, 13; 1940, 10; 1941, 9; 1942, 9; 1943, 17; 1944, 10; 1945, 3; 1946, 14; 1947, 5; 1948, 3; 1949, 12; 1950, 18; 1951, 10.

Coalition Again Hinges On Vote

PARIS (UP)—The fate of the French coalition government hinges today on a scheduled confidence vote tomorrow on the administration's budget-balancing proposals.

Premier Rene Pleven demanded the confidence vote late last night in proposing that the National Assembly consider his new tax law and economy plans for 1952.

The action automatically ended debate on the finance laws for a 48-hour "cooling off" period.

Aldermen Meet Tomorrow Night

Friends Brought Boy Home For Holiday

Crude Bradley, 16 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Mac Ross of Ballards Cross Roads, is shown looking over a cash gift received from friends around Ballards. Crude has been the victim of Tuberculosis of the spine for the past 14 months, and had not been home since he first entered a Gastonia hospital for treatment. This year, around Christmas time, arrangements were made whereby Crude could come home for Christmas and New Year's holidays. A total of 74 persons of this small community joined together and contributed a cash donation for Crude to defray the expenses of his coming home and traveling back to the hospital. Since his confinement in the Gastonia hospital, Crude has been encased by a plaster cast which extends from his neck down his body. However, the prospects for a brighter New Year seem good for the youngster since when he returns to the hospital Sunday, he will be examined, and provided his condition is good, he will be placed in another type cast which will enable him to move around and not be confined solely to the bed.

Warning that the Soviet air threat is one of "inescapable immediacy," Vandenberg disclosed that the Russians have recently developed a new long-range bomber which could reach U.S. cities from Soviet bases.

"I expect to continue to recommend that we recognize the threat, and do a great deal more than we have done in the past to prepare ourselves against it," he said.

He may face difficulties. Chairman Clarence Cannon (D-Mo) of the House Appropriations Committee said yesterday the worst of the world crisis has passed, and predicted a closer congressional look at military money bills this year.

Also a reported presidential ceiling of $50,000,000 on next year's military spending may slow down plans for building a 143-wing air force.

Vandenberg said Soviet air progress is the result of "a prodigious national effort," and added that the United States "is only just beginning to make the investment in air power that the developing world situation demands."

Asked whether Russia's strategic bombing force has grown in the past year, Vandenberg replied with a terse, "yes."

He said the Soviets now have a bomber of their own design which is bigger than the copies of American B-28s generally assumed to comprise their long-range fleet.

The Russians likewise have, beyond question, better fighters than the MIG-15 which appears in growing numbers in the Korean war, he said.

Dwarfing Rivals U.S. Asks Help In Korean Action

NEW YORK (AP)—Steel production in the United States in 1951 nearly equaled the total of all other countries, the Iron Age, national metalworking weekly, reported today. It gave these figures:

American companies produced 195.2 million net tons of steel ingots and castings, and the rest of the world produced 118.5 million tons. American output was more than three times the Soviet Union's 54 million tons. Production increased 8.4 million tons in the United States in 1951 and totaled 44 million tons in Russia, both countries set new records. Russia placed second among the world's top producers.

New Gales Await American Skipper

LONDON (UP)—New gales whipped up today around the lone American skipper who has been clinging for four days to the cabin walls of his sharply listing freighter in the stormy North Atlantic.

Capt. Henrik K. Carlsen, Woodbridge, N.J., skipper of the American freighter Flying Enterprise, refused to abandon his ship which threatened to capsize as it waltzed in a quarter of a century.

The slant of the 6,700-ton ship's decks averaged 70 degrees, turning the bulkheads into decks themselves. A U.S. naval spokesman, here said winds were increasing sharply.

Carlsen, 37, was determined to wait alone for a tow or sink with his ship, which would become a salvage prize under maritime laws if he abandoned it.

Carlsen directed the removal of 30 passengers and crew, one of them dead, last Saturday and swore he would stay aboard. He refused rescue by a U.S. destroyer which joined a navy transport standing by his ship.

Even if the Isbrandtsen Line steamer is taken in tow, shipping officials said, Carlsen would be faced with greater peril because tugging action might capsize the battered freighter.

Neither the destroyer John W. Weeks nor the transport Golden Eagle was equipped for towing, and all available tugs were still tied up in rescue work as a result of the deadly gales.

The crippled steamer drifted helplessly 300 miles southwest of Ireland, in frequent radio-telephone communication with the skipper of the Golden Eagle. The intrepid Carlsen reported he was in good health and determined to bring his ship in or go down with her.

Explains Exemptions In Listing Pitt Properties

By JESS POINDEXTER Reflector Staff Writer County Auditor Allan Powell reported this morning that there have been numerous inquiries as to exactly what types of real estate are exempt from tax in Pitt County.

"For the information of those concerned," Powell said, "the exemption of real property and personal property is based either on its ownership or its use—or both."

"The buildings and land actually owned and occupied by the following associations, institutions, and organizations are normally tax exempt: benevolent, charitable, historical, and patriotic associations—if used exclusively for association purposes; churches, if used for religious purposes or for ministerial residence; colleges, educational purposes or for faculty and staff residences; lodges, if used for lodge purposes; orphanages and similar homes, if not conducted for profit; public libraries, if wholly devoted to educational purposes; veteran's organizations, if used exclusively for "lodge" purposes;

Vandenberg Says Hardest Part Of Arming Ahead

Air Force Chief Says U. S. Is Only Beginning To Show Real Progress

WASHINGTON (UP)—Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg said today the "danger of world-wide war" will not abate until America is far better armed than now against the menacing power of Russia.

The Air Force chief of staff said in an exclusive interview that the "heaviest part" of this country's armament task lies ahead. He said we have just begun to show progress in "building an adequate counter-force" to deter a Russian attack.

"In my opinion," he asserted, "the danger of a general war will not decrease appreciably until we hold in our hands the tools we would need to fight such a war successfully."

Warning that the Soviet air threat is one of "inescapable immediacy," Vandenberg disclosed that the Russians have recently developed a new long-range bomber which could reach U.S. cities from Soviet bases.

"I expect to continue to recommend that we recognize the threat, and do a great deal more than we have done in the past to prepare ourselves against it," he said.

He may face difficulties. Chairman Clarence Cannon (D-Mo) of the House Appropriations Committee said yesterday the worst of the world crisis has passed, and predicted a closer congressional look at military money bills this year.

Also a reported presidential ceiling of $50,000,000 on next year's military spending may slow down plans for building a 143-wing air force.

Vandenberg said Soviet air progress is the result of "a prodigious national effort," and added that the United States "is only just beginning to make the investment in air power that the developing world situation demands."

Asked whether Russia's strategic bombing force has grown in the past year, Vandenberg replied with a terse, "yes."

He said the Soviets now have a bomber of their own design which is bigger than the copies of American B-28s generally assumed to comprise their long-range fleet.

The Russians likewise have, beyond question, better fighters than the MIG-15 which appears in growing numbers in the Korean war, he said.

Tax Listing Gets Under Way Today

Machinery for listing Pitt County's 1952 taxes moved into high gear this morning as officials in 13 townships held open for the 30-day period from January 2 through January 31, and anyone listing after that specified time will be penalized for late listing.

Reports from other townships in regard to the progress of the listing there were not available this morning, but tax officials said listing would probably be "pretty steady" the first day or so.

Air Crashes Hike Holiday Fatalities

Of Total 550 Deaths Reported Thus Far, 63 Were In Airplane Mishaps; Highway Toll Lighter Than Expected

By UNITED PRESS A series of widespread, fatal air crashes today boosted the nation's accident death toll during the long New Year's holiday.

Of the total 550 fatalities reported, 63 were in airplane mishaps. Another 319 persons died in highway accidents, 57 perished in fires and 111 were killed in miscellaneous accidents. New York led with 57 deaths.

It appeared that the highway death count might wind up less than the National Safety Council's estimate of 850 for the period from 6 p.m. Friday until midnight last night.

Bad driving conditions which forced motorists to leave their cars in garages were believed a contributing factor in the low traffic count.

Safety Council president Ned H. Dearborn appealed to the nation to pray for an end of the slaughter on the highways during 1952, and said "the prayer will be answered quicker if we behave like civilized people behind the wheel."

Dearborn said that many traffic fatalities stem from the "same disregard of the rights of others" shown by the Communist enemy in Korea.

"Does it make sense to have as much bloodshed, death and tragedy on the highways of a civilized nation as on the battlefield?" Dearborn asked.

Revenue Bureau To Be Shaken Up

Truman Says Plan Is One Of Series To Protect Gov't

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman today announced plans for a sweeping shake up of the scandal-ridden Internal Revenue Bureau.

He said the move is one of a series of steps he plans to take to protect the government "from the insidious influence peddlers and favor seekers, and to expose and punish any wrong-doers."

The Revenue Bureau shake-up will be in the form of a reorganization plan to be submitted to Congress. It calls for abolishing the 64 offices of district collectors of Internal Revenue.

Most of these districts include a single state, but some of the large states have more than one district.

In place of the regional district collectors, the reorganization plan will put all operating functions of the bureau under 25 district offices, each headed by a district commissioner.

Field activities in each district will be under jurisdiction of the district commissioner.

The plan also calls for: All offices of the Internal Revenue Bureau to be filled through Civil Service except that of commissioner of Internal Revenue whose appointment will be by the President and subject to confirmation by the Senate.

Establishment of "a strong, vigorous inspection service completely independent" of the rest of the Bureau.

Usual Clean-Up During Holidays

The schools in both the county and city underwent the traditional "clean-up" during the Christmas holidays.

In the city schools, the floors were waxed and polished and the gymnasiums in Greenville High School and C. M. Epps High School were refinished. Several rooms in all the schools were painted and the schools were cleaned thoroughly for their reopening today.

Heating work was finished during the holidays at the Grifton School and radiators were installed. Lunch-room supplies were also distributed to the schools during the holidays in preparation for yesterday's reopening.

Former Head Of U.S. Steel Dies

NEW YORK (AP)—William A. Irvin, president of the United States Steel Corp. from 1932 to 1937, died yesterday after a long illness. He was 78.

Irving became an outstanding figure during more than half a century in the steel industry. He started at the bottom in a Pennsylvania steel plant in 1894.

His direction of the nation's biggest steel corporation came during the worst depression in American history. Under his leadership, U.S. Steel loaned $9,000,000 to depression-stricken employees without security. At the time, the company was operating at a loss.

United Nations Proposal Provides For Release Of All War Prisoners And Internees Who Want To Go Home; First Red Reaction Unfavorable

By ARNOLD DIBBLE United Press Staff Correspondent

PANMUNJOM, Korea (UP)—The United Nations agreed today to a Communist demand for the release of all war prisoners during an armistice, but only under a complex compromise formula.

The U.N. previously had held out for a straight man-for-man exchange which would have left more than 104,000 of the 118,000 Communist prisoners in Allied hands, after all 11,559 Allied prisoners had been released.

The new U.N. proposal provides for the release of all war prisoners and civilian internees held by both sides, and also would oblige the Communists to free 50,000 to 70,000 captured South Korean troops inducted into the Red armies.

The Communists' first reaction was unfavorable. The U.N.'s Realist, R. E. Libby said he got the impression they thought "it stinks."

But Libby said he didn't believe the Communists fully understood the formula. He said they agreed to study the proposal overnight and give a fuller answer Thursday.

The subcommittee working on supervision of a truce made no progress during a 54-minute meeting and also adjourned until Thursday. It still was deadlocked over the Communist demand for the right to repair and build North Korean airports during a truce.

Libby presented the U.N.'s new formula for release of war prisoners with these words:

"Your side wants all the prisoners of war to be released following the signing of an armistice. The U.N. Command agrees that this should be done under an equitable formula."

He said the formula would work this way:

1. All war prisoners who want to go home will be exchanged first, beginning on a man-for-man basis. South Koreans impressed into the Red armies would be reclassified as war prisoners for this purpose.

2. The Communist prisoners remaining after all U.N. prisoners have been released will be exchanged for interned civilians and displaced persons, also on a man-for-man basis.

3. All other displaced persons who want to go home will be permitted to do so, regardless of number.

4. All war prisoners released in exchange for civilians shall be placed under parole not to bear arms against the side which releases them.

5. Delegates of the Red Cross shall interview all prisoners and all civilians affected to make sure that none is repatriated against his will.

6. All war prisoners who elect not to return home also shall be placed on parole.

The U.N. disclosed that it had found 10,000 more South Korean troops who had been impressed into the Red army among the 152,000 Communist prisoners whose names were handed the Reds last month. These have been reclassified.

Some 38,000 other Communist prisoners were reclassified as South Korean civilian internees before the 132,000-name list was handed over to the Reds.

What would happen if there were some war prisoners for whom the other side had neither prisoners nor civilians to swap was not made clear.

But Libby indicated he believed the exchange would come out even if the Red release all South Koreans impressed into their armies and permit South Korean civilians in extreme western Korea to return to the Korean Republic.

Libby also gave the Communist names of an additional 245 U.N. personnel whom he said the Allies had good reason to believe were in Communist hands although they did not appear on the latest Communist list.

The list included 125 U.S. navy personnel, 215 U.S. Marines, four Thailanders, and one British soldier.

Former Russian Diplomat Is Dead

MOSCOW (UP)—Russia announced today the death of Maxim Litvinov, 75, an "Old Bolshevik" comrade of V. I. Lenin and chief architect of Soviet international cooperation between two world wars.

The Communist party organ Pravda said Litvinov died Monday after a long illness. It said his body would lie in state in the conference hall of the Foreign Ministry until the funeral.

Pravda published a half-column obituary of Litvinov on its last page describing him as "an Old Bolshevik" and "a prominent diplomat."

The dispatch said he had given up active work in the last few years because of severe illness.

New Boss Taking Over In U. S. Propaganda Warfare

WASHINGTON (AP)—Dr. Raymond B. Allen, 49-year-old educator-physician, today starts trying to get more steam behind the American "campaign of truth."

Allen, until recently president of the University of Washington, is taking over temporarily the post of Director of the National Psychological Strategy Board. This is the White House agency which President Truman set up six months ago to bring into better focus scattered American propaganda efforts in the global tug of war with communism.

Strategy board officials said they are just beginning to work out over-all plans for the State and Defense Departments to use in combatting Moscow's "Hate America Campaign."

This is Allen's second job with the administration. He served for six months as the first chairman of the salary Stabilization Board, on leave from the university. In his new post he succeeds former Army Secretary Gordon Gray, who is resuming the presidency of the University of North Carolina after getting the strategy board organized and operating.

Allen agreed to serve only a few months as he is due to become chancellor of the University of California at Los Angeles in September.

While trying to pull together loose ends of the cold war campaign, he may be in the center of a continuing dispute over a proposal in congress to remove information and propaganda operations from the State Department and combine them in a single big agency like the former Office of War Information.

Face-Lifting For Local Theatre

The Pitt Theatre here is having a complete face-lifting for the first time since 1935.

Gordon Sturm, manager of the theatre who came here in April, 1950, said the theatre had been "touched up" a number of times, but the renovation in progress now is the biggest job since January, 1935 when it was built.

Sturm said the renovation plans call for all new seats, lighting fixtures, carpeting, stage and house drapes, new sound and projection equipment, new screen, and complete painting on both the inside and outside.

The renovation has been in progress since the 10th of December but the theatre still holds its regular hours for showing films. Work is being carried on in the morning and at night after the regular hours.

Sturm said he thought the redecorating would be finished within the next ten days.

Sturm commented on the new seats, which now fill a portion of the theatre, by saying the clearance between rows was about two or two and one-half inches wider than before. He said the wider clearance would cut down on the number of seats on the main floor but would offer more convenience to patrons.

The work in the theatre is being done by Will-Kin Theatre Supplies of Atlanta.

The new colors inside the theatre are turquoise, pink, and brown and the outside will also be painted, plus work on the lobby and upstairs.

Sturm said when the work is completed, Greenville will have a theatre it can really be proud of.

Bicycles Are To Be Registered

A city ordinance requires owners of bicycles to register them at the police department and obtain a receipt and numbered metal tag in January. The registration fee is 50 cents.

Those who owned bicycles and registered them last year should take them to the police department the receipt or small tag given last year.

"Registration of bicycles here" during recent years has enabled police to more readily locate bicycles after they are stolen," Oscar Arnold, police registry clerk, stated.

LAW BACKFIRES

MUNCIE, Ind. —(UP)—Patrolmen William Moier and James Peters put their autos in metered parking spaces when they appeared as witnesses in a city court trial. The trial lasted longer than they had expected and they got tickets for overtime parking.

There are no longer any pure-blooded Tasmanian natives. The last survivor in this British Commonwealth island near Australia, died in 1876.

First For Camp

Ann Bourn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Bourn of Greensboro, is the first girl to register for the 1952 period at Camp Harde, Girl Scout Camp, Mrs. E. L. Henderson, scout executive secretary, announced today. Ann is also the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Hooker of Greenville.

HD Clubs Begin Meetings Today

Home demonstration clubs in the county began their January meetings today.

Mrs. Ann Parker Hodges, assistant home demonstration agent, said the demonstration for this month would be "Professional Touches in Clothing."

Ballads and Red Oak Club met this afternoon and the Belvoir and Chicod clubs will meet tomorrow afternoon. Red Banks club will have its January meeting Friday afternoon.

Stirs Ruckus On Hawaii Training

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.) stirred up a ruckus that figuratively set the palm fronds waving today over the question of training Army recruits in Hawaii.

Johnson, chairman of the Senate Preparedness Investigating Committee, said it was a waste of taxpayers' money to send the recruits all the way to Hawaii, especially if they were due for service later in Europe.

Joseph R. Farrington, Hawaii's delegate to congress, declared the people of Hawaii will "fight to the limit" any attempt to cut down training facilities on the sun-washed islands.

Secretary of the Army Pace said he would think it over.

Johnson told Pace in a letter Dec. 15 he had two objections to moving men to Hawaii for basic Army training:

"1. In some instances the United States government is placed in a position of paying transportation costs of these men first to Hawaii then back to the United States and then, in some instances, possibly to a European post. This appears to me to be an unjustified waste of the taxpayers' money."

"2. The men so trained can not enjoy their normal 7-day post-training leave in the United States unless they are returned on assignment to the mainland or can pay high transportation charges. This strikes me as being discriminatory and likely to impair morale."

The Army had informed senators that Hawaii provided "terrain features and climatic conditions that are ideal for training purposes."

Greenville Elks Ladies' Night And Reception Tonight

The Greenville Elks Lodge will have its annual ladies' night reception and dance at the Elks Home, 569 Evans Street, tonight at 9 o'clock.

Erskine Duff, exalted ruler of the lodge, and other officers will be on the reception committee.

Dancing starts at 10 o'clock. Cecil Ellington's orchestra will provide the music.

J. B. Spilman, Jr., chairman; Hermon L. Norris and Tige Gardner are on the committee on arrangements.

Light refreshments will be served.

Will Help Install New Officers Of Club In Wilson

FARMVILLE—Frank Allen, lieutenant-governor of the Seventh Division, Carolinas Kiwanis District, will go to Wilson Thursday night to install new officers and directors at the Wilson Kiwanis Club.

He will install new officers and directors at the Kinston Kiwanis Club Friday at 1 p. m. The lieutenant-governor will install officers and directors at the Greenville Kiwanis Club Friday night.

There are nine clubs in the Kiwanis Seventh Division. They are Greenville, Farmville, Washington, Stantonsburg, Kinston, Wilmington, Wilson, Washington and Jacksonville.

Allen was elected lieutenant-governor at the November convention of the Carolinas Kiwanis District.

Button Complex

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Norblad (R-Ore) asked the Army today why it puts suspender buttons on uniforms and prohibits the wearing of suspenders.

The button complex, Norblad said, was called to his attention by an unidentified constituent who claimed it doesn't make sense. The constituent said his son, an Army man, told him about the buttons for and the ban against galluses.

With an army of around two million men, Norblad said, there are approximately 12 million suspended buttons—six per pair of pants—going to waste.

Ballard's X Roads

Honored at Christmas Party
On Tuesday evening, Dec. 25, Mr. and Mrs. Noah Barber and children of Ballard's and Mrs. Perry Tripp and children of near Greenville were honored guests at a Christmas supper and family gathering at the home of Mrs. Tripp's and Mr. Barber's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ramon Barber in Greenville.

The home was beautifully decorated throughout with candles, Christmas greenery and flowers, but the outstanding decoration was the scene of the birth of Christ showing Mary and the baby, the wise men, the shepherds and the angels. This was very attractively arranged.

Upon arrival the guests were invited into the living room and then into the dining room where a delicious Christmas supper was served from a beautifully decorated table. Following the supper everyone assembled in the living room and Rev. Hammond read from the Bible the birth of Christ from Luke and explained the meaning of it to the world. He then said a prayer.

After this Santa Claus arrived and distributed gifts from a lovely Christmas tree and then Christmas cookies, candies and fruits were served by the host and hostess.
Others attending this family gathering from Ballard's were Mr. and Mrs. Dupree Tolar and children, Miss Bonnie M. O'Neal, J. T. O'Neal and Knott Barber.

Personals
Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Harris and Mr. and Mrs. Norman Wooten visited relatives near Durham last Wednesday. They were accompanied home by Mrs. R. E. Hall, Mrs. Harris' mother. On Friday Mr. and Mrs. Harris entertained at a family dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Coy Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Hall and children, Mr. and Mrs. Lambert Hall and children and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Crabtree and Carl, all of near Durham, as guests.

Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Bateman and family spent the Christmas holidays with Mr. and Mrs. Bill Grayson in Savannah, Ga. Mrs. Grayson is Mr. Bateman's sister.

John House of Greenville had Christmas dinner with Miss Sue Elks of Ballard's.

Miss Edith Tyson of Pikeville, Herschel Tyson of Winston-Salem, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Tyson and little son Graham of Grifton and Mr.

and Mrs. Forbes Allen of near Greenville were guests of Mrs. G. T. Tyson Christmas Day.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Tyson of Newark, N. J., and Mr. and Mrs. Flanagan Tyson left last week for several days' visit with relatives in Georgia, Florida and Alabama.

Mr. and Mrs. Bessie Faulkner of Winterville were Thursday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Elks.

Mr. and Mrs. David Williford of Washington, D.C. were Sunday visitors of relatives at Ballard's.

Lieut. Frances Little, who is a nurse at the U.S. Navy Base, Quantico, R.I., arrived Monday for a visit with her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Little.

Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln Tolar and Clinton Tolar of the Blue Top Grill were Christmas dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Dupree Tolar.

Mr. and Mrs. Ramon Barber and Mrs. Mary Stepp were Christmas day guests of Mr. and Mrs. Noah Barber.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Moye and children of Farmville spent Christmas with Mrs. Moye's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hart.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Kite of Greenville and Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Smith of Greenville were visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Worthington during the holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Little visited Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Hart at Old Sparta Sunday.

Mrs. G. T. Tyson visited relatives at Gatesville and Suffolk, Va. during the weekend while Miss Edith Tyson and Durward Tyson visited friends in Norfolk.

Mr. and Mrs. Atlas Riggsbee and Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Riggsbee and family of Durham visited Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Elks Sunday and attended Sunday school at Ballard's.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Reavis and little daughter Rita of Enfield and Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Bagwell of Raleigh and Mr. and Mrs. Norman Wooten spent Christmas with Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Harris.

Lawrence Tyson is attending a church convention at Myrtle Beach, S.C. this week, where he will be song director for the convention.

Miss Edith Tyson and Mrs. James E. Stokes attended the wedding of Miss Evelyn Proctor and Bill Crawford in the Elm City Baptist Church on Saturday, December 22.

Mrs. Lily Warren and Mrs. Rollins of Robersonville were recent Sunday visitors of Mrs. Clarence Little.

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Crawford of Greenville were Christmas guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Crawford. In the afternoon they left for Cynthia, Ky. where Mr. Crawford will be on the tobacco market.

Miss Mary E. Nichols has returned to Charlotte after spending the holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Nichols.

Opinions On Acheson Not Likely To Change

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP)—When Secretary of State Acheson finished explaining our China policy to a Senate committee during the MacArthur hearings last spring, Senator Wiley of Wisconsin had a comment.

Wiley, who succeeded the late Senator Vandenberg as ranking Republican on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, has one of the key congressional jobs on foreign affairs. The white-haired Wiley said:

"Mr. Secretary, I think that you should be complimented on a pretty clear-cut statement as to the facts that heretofore were not brought to our attention in relation to this Chinese situation . . ."

McGeorge Bundy, editor of a book on Acheson published Monday—"The Pattern of Responsibility"—recalls this incident and says dryly in a footnote:

"Senator Wiley's comment is somewhat surprising; almost all of Acheson's statements was a resume of facts published two years before in the White Paper on China."

(That was a 1,054 page book produced by the State Department to explain the history and failure of our dealings with the Chinese. At issue became the center of hot congressional argument.)

If a man in Wiley's position didn't read this vital document—he was next to Vandenberg at the time—forgot what he read, the average person can be excused if he's confused or forgetful about the details of our foreign dealings.

We live in the center of an international whirlwind where our wartime allies have become our peacetime enemies and our wartime enemies our peace time allies. Too many things happen too fast over too long a period for the average man to keep a clear, detailed and reasoned opinion on the major events which develop over months and years.

Bundy's book probably won't help those whose minds already have been made up on Acheson, such as his 100 per cent supporters, or those who go along with Senator McCarthy's attacks on the Secretary. Bundy, a lifelong Republican whose brother married Acheson's daughter, has small patience with McCarthy who, like Wiley, is a Wisconsin Republican.

But the book should benefit anyone who wants to form an opinion based on more information than has been available to him in one place before. This book is almost entirely made up of Acheson's public statements and testimony on our foreign policy and why it became a policy.

Bundy, as editor and narrator, provides the bridges between the various statements and the events which brought them forth.

Sunken Ships Of Axis Salvaged By Portuguese

GOA, Portuguese India (AP)—Two sunken merchant vessels of the wartime Axis powers have been salvaged by a Goa firm.

The German S. S. Drachenfels and Italian Anfora have been brought to the surface recently. Both ships were scuttled by their crews in a spectacular episode at the time of Goa's carnival celebrations in February, 1946.

The ships took refuge in the neutral waters of Marmagoa harbor early in World War II. Crews of the vessels set off noisy explosions in the 1946 scuttling. Police captured the crews and Portugal ultimately repatriated the men.

Higher Sales Of Pepper Expected By India Market

BOMBAY, India (AP) Indian black pepper exporters hope for increasing sales to Soviet Russia, once an insignificant buyer of the spice.

Russia bought 1,000 tons of Indian output in the 11 months ending October 1951, Bombay exporters declared. The United States bought 9,000 tons, followed closely by the United Kingdom with 2,000 tons.

Russia is buying the pepper with rupees gained in the sale of 100,000 tons of food-grains to India during the spring food crisis. Soviet purchases have eased a recent crisis in the Indian pepper industry, which has felt the pinch of competition from Indonesia and other countries.

Belated Gift Of Bus For Orphans

POPE AIR FORCE BASE (UP)—Ninth Air Force airmen have no squawk about used car prices—they picked up a $13,000 bus for $1,750.

Santa Claus, who took a trip to state orphanages by helicopter from here, reported that the Ellada Orphanage at Asheville needs transportation. The airmen will give the bus to them as soon as it is overhauled.

The $1,750 was left over from a $13,000 fund donated by Pope airmen and civilians in this area for "Operation Christmas." They used it to buy the bus from Queen City Coach Co., operators of Trailways buses.

The six-cylinder, 140-horsepower Hercules Fitzjohn "couldn't be touched for $17,500," according to Marvin C. Little who handled the transaction for the bus company. He said the company would repaint the bus and check it for roadworthiness before delivery. Fayetteville merchants are supplying new tires.

The bus is the largest single contribution from "Operation Christmas." But four railroads made up a special train to bring 1,200 orphans to a huge party here and the airborne Santa took gifts to more than 3,000 other orphans.

Seventh Fatality On Martin Roads

HAMILTON — Martin County recorded its seventh fatal highway accident on New Year's Eve, as a 75-year-old man was fatally injured when he stepped into the path of a passing car.

The accident occurred on the Scotland Neck Highway around 6:30 Monday evening.

Killed was Amariah Harrell, 75, of Route 1, Palmyra. Death was due to a fractured skull and compound fractures of both legs. He died instantly.

Coroner B. B. Biggs and Highway Patrolman B. H. Parker who investigated the accident reported that as a result of their investigation they ruled the traffic death unavoidable.

Parker stated that Harrell stepped into the path of a car driven by James Clifton Pate as the Pate truck was meeting an oncoming car. Pate was accompanied by his wife and another lady. All three told the same story on the accident, the officer reported.

The accident occurred on the Scotland Neck highway about eight miles from here.

Starts New Year Paying Old Debt

NEW YORK (AP)—Somebody in the spirit of the holiday is starting out 1952 on a new leaf. He's just paid up a debt more than 20 years old.

George N. Mason, a mailman, said yesterday he had received an anonymous greeting card with $22 "Please accept this money for a debt owed Mr. Mason when he was assistant postmaster."

Mason said the reference was to his father, George N. Mason, who died 20 years ago.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLAS
WAKE UP, AMERICA!
"I am no prophet, neither am I the son of a prophet."
Thus declared an ancient seer who, by his disavowal of any ability to penetrate the future, showed himself indeed to be a wise man.

Every year is a momentous year, and the year which we face today is no exception. We cannot tell what will happen in the next five minutes, but many people are expecting civilization to blow up at any time.

Although we definitely want to be classed with the man who declared that he was neither a prophet nor the son of a prophet, nevertheless since others are prophesying destruction, we may be pardoned if we dissent. Will America be bombed this year? Next year? Within five years? The answer to all these questions would appear to be "improbable."

But America has plenty of atomic bombs right under her own national life. Some have already exploded; others will be detonated as time goes on. We are killing more than 38,000 people on the highways every year. There are somewhere between four and seven million alcoholics and problem drinkers in the country. We have spent more money for governmental purposes in the past six years than was spent in the preceding 187 years of the nation's history.

But there is a brighter side to the picture. People appear to be waking up to some of our national dangers. A spiritual revival has definitely begun. We shall probably escape disaster—but as usual, by the skin of our teeth.

Orchids To The People Of North Carolina

Those who keep up with affairs in North Carolina realized even before the report of Governor Kerr Scott yesterday that the state has made a lot of progress in many fields during the past three years.

Most of the people realize also that the progress of the state has not been made without many dollars from the pockets of North Carolina's citizens and that many more dollars must come from the people in future years to pay for some of the improvements which have been made under the first three years of Scott's administration.

The Reflector rejoices with the rest of the state in the permanent improvements which have been made in North Carolina during the past three years, but we still can not help but wonder if North Carolina got its best possible dollar value from the money which has been spent in the "Go Forward" program of Governor Scott.

According to the report of the governor there have been 9,249 miles of secondary roads paved under the $200,000,000 bond program for secondary roads, and 12,000 miles of other roads have been stabilized. In addition to the secondary roads, some 1,500 miles of primary highways of the state have been paved.

Electricity is available or will be available when present projects are completed to more than 87 per cent of the rural families of North Carolina. That indeed is a great asset to the state, and the private power companies as well as the municipal power companies are continuing their efforts to furnish electricity to rural families throughout North Carolina.

In the realm of education North Carolina put $35,000,000 into its educational system in the form of new buildings and improvements to old buildings. Approximately $20,000,000 of the amount came from local funds and the remainder of the money came from state funds. There has been a notable improvement in the school system of the state since the end of World War II, and the improvement program for schools is continuing to expand.

Medical facilities of the state likewise have been greatly improved during the past few years as the citizens in local communities have taken it upon themselves to raise money for new hospitals and clinics and take advantage of the state and federal grants-in-aid which are being offered for new medical facilities.

North Carolina truly has made a great deal of progress in many important fields during the past three years, but we do not believe Governor Scott or any other individual or group would seek to take full credit for the improvements which have been made. In the opinion of The Reflector, the people of North Carolina have seen the need for improvement in many fields, and have taken it upon themselves to bring about a good many of the improvements.

The Answer To The World's Greatest Problem

The perfection of a new chemical which re-vitalizes worn out soil conceivably is destined to play a greater part in the course of human history than the much more spectacular atomic energy.

Scientists have announced the discovery of a chemical which will transform practically any soil—sandy soil to clay soil—to the structure of a rich loam. The discovery of the new chemical was announced last week at the meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. Although the new chemical is not expected to be marketed commercially until 1953, it may hold the answer to the principal age-old problem of the world . . . enough food to feed the ever increasing population.

Throughout the world today there are millions of acres of land which have literally been worn out and no longer are fit for productivity. At the same time the world is seeing thousands of more acres of its land each year become submarginal because of poor farming practices, erosion and other factors. If the new chemical is all it is cracked up to be in the reports of its discovery, it may mean that the world not only will be able to preserve the productive land it now is using, but the productivity of the land may be increased, and many acres of "worn out" land may be brought back to productive levels.

Agriculture is truly the backbone of the economy of the world. The discovery of the new chemical to restore the world's agricultural land to its youth is truly a discovery which will go down in history as one of the greatest achievements of modern science.

International Whirligig

By JOHN FISHER
1952 will be another dangerous year for America because world Communism is still rampant.

We are better off than this time last year. Red China's surge has been checked. Almost everyone today realizes the abysmal wickedness of the Communist system and hence is alert to its menace. We are growing stronger in economic and military power. Our foreign assets, however, increase the current peril because Stalin realizes that 1952—before our might has reached the safety limit—is the last year in which he has a chance of conquering Europe and dealing the U.S.A. a staggering blow.

Efforts to keep the peace will be upmost in America. The Administration wants peace as a political issue. Its opponents fear that a acute war danger would give President Truman—as it gave Lincoln and Roosevelt—the election-winning slogan of "don't swap horses while crossing a stream."

The American desire to avoid further armed conflict may encourage Russia in a new act of aggression, say, against Indo-China, the Middle East or exposed Norway.

Yet the factor that may cause Moscow to hesitate is that it still cannot rely on its satellites in the event of large scale fighting. Their complete submission is one of the Kremlin's major objectives for 1952.

A Grim Jest
Therefore, look forward to all sorts of punitive efforts to beat them into line, including "show trials" of recalcitrant military figures, clergy, peasants and even Communist officials and bureaucrats. Pains will be taken to deceive false peoples into thinking that American warmongers plot their extermination. Domestic troublemakers will be blamed on alleged American spies and conspirators and their supposed dupes.

Two immediate events are a tip-off: Hungary's charge that the four American flyers, forced down in its territory, were dropping spies. Vlahinsky's outcry that the Mutual Security Act provides for interference in the internal affairs of the Soviet bloc.

Hungary's false accusations are a cynical attempt to divert the attention of its people from the nation-wide uproar over the merciless deportations of 50,000 city dwellers since last May. The whole country is shocked and in an ugly mood. The Red regime, therefore, is trying to regain public support by creating the impression that the United States seeks to destroy the nation.

It is a grim jest for Deputy Prime Minister Matyas Rakosi to complain that Americans are meddling in Budapest's internal affairs. Early in the career of this hypocrite, he was selected personally by Lenin to organize cells of world revolutionaries in various parts of the globe. He spent years as a secret Communist agent plotting treason in Britain, Belgium, Italy and the United States.

Poland Threatened With Famine
The current mass deportations are barbarous. Police have been ousting elderly city folk from their tenements, to make room for young munition workers, and dumping them in the country. Men and women in the 60-70 year age brackets, unused to heavy manual labor, in many cases have been compelled to toil 16 hours daily on farms and on canal construction.

In some villages the outcasts have been told that they can shop a couple of hours a week. The cruel joke is that the shopping hours coincide with work hours and truants are severely punished.

The miserable old rural people have no food cards, winter clothing or fuel. Rural doctors, fearing epidemics among the newcomers, have been begging the government to ease up on deportations. Latest reports indicate that the stream of expulsions has been slowed down somewhat.

Poland, after seven years of Communist rule, is threatened with a famine. Severe droughts, peasant resistance and bureaucratic bungling have caused a serious shortage in flour and potatoes. The first shortage of this kind in Polish history. Meat disappeared early in the summer. Today sugar, butter and eggs are rarely seen in cities.

Complaint is universal. An angry regime retaliates by jailing women for spreading "food panic" rumors while standing in endless queues. Warsaw agents have been beating up farmers who had failed to join collectives.

Public wrath is so strong that lately the government has applied the brake to its headlong drive to force all peasants into collectives. It now blames the Voice of America and the BBC for spreading "lies" about the food crisis.

Opposition in Czechoslovakia
Another effort to make Uncle Sam the scapegoat will develop at the public trial of two prize culprits, General Marian Spychalski, a founding member of the Polish Politburo, and Wladyslaw Gomulka, former Secretary-General of the Communist Party. They will be branded as "agents on behalf of a foreign power" who plotted treason against Warsaw and Moscow.

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

A writer by the name of Eugene Kelly has gone out on a limb and advised all young couples to open charge accounts at several places when they start out in life. The reason: to establish a credit rating.

Eugene has a good point. There was a young couple named George and Sally and they needed $500 in a hurry. A bank loan would be easy, they figured. They had been in the town for three years, but had paid cash for everything they bought. They had no credit record. They had never been in debt, had no charge or installment accounts, and therefore were considered a poor risk by the bank.

George learned a lesson, and began charging everything, being careful to stay within his means. Now, he has paid the bank, but will lend him up to $1,000 without batting an eye.

Credit is easy to establish. The simplest method is to open an account with a local department store. Some of the most successful men and women in the history of our country have made a fortune out of credit. When he was only 21 years old and making $100 a month in his uncle's lumber yard, Jesse Jones borrowed $500 from the local bank. He had no use for the money. He borrowed it only to establish credit. Later, his credit rating enabled him to become one of the wealthiest men in the country.

Credit is a great tool, but there are so many people who over-do it. The merchant is human, too, and he usually understands when you are a little slow. The important thing is to continue to trade with the merchant, cash on the barrel-head, even if you can't pay on the back balance for a few weeks. So many get into debt and are ashamed to face the creditor. Even if you can't pay for several weeks, a visit or phone call to the merchant, expressing your good intentions, goes a long way.

The people who charge without ever intending to pay in my opinion should be classified as thieves. After all, what else can you call them? In order to be on the lookout for such persons, Merchants Associations have been formed to serve as centers for credit information.

Other merchants work together in spotting the man who's out to stick him. Still, there are plenty who get by with it. Credit is a fine thing if you can handle it, but overdone it becomes a bitter experience.

And I thank you.

REUNION — There was an unusual sort of family reunion at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Jordan at Saxapahaw one day last week. Just how many folks were present has not been learned, because one of the significant things about these Jordan family gatherings is they are primarily for the purpose of getting brothers and sisters together, not for publicity but to keep the family ties strongly knotted. There were some in-laws and nieces and nephews on the premises, but spotlight was on the four brothers and one sister comprising the "older generation."

FAMILY — There was the hot brother, Everett, who takes time out from directing a flock of textile mills to serve as chairman of the Democratic party in North Carolina; there was Brother Henry W., who has made an outstanding record as chairman of the North Carolina Highway & Public Works Commission; there was Brothe, Charles, secretary of Duke University and vice-president in charge of public relations; there was Brother Frank, pastor of the largest Methodist church in Shelby and recognized leader in his denomination in the state; there was Sister Lucy, wife of Dr. George Way, who is secretary of the South Carolina Methodist Conference; Sister Margaret, wife of Dr. H. C. Sprinkle, associate editor of World Outlook in New York, could not get to this reunion. These four boys and two girls, each of whom has attained position of leadership far above the average, came out of the home of a Methodist minister, the late Henry Harrison Jordan, whose ministry prevented establishment of a permanent domicile but who did not let that fact prevent him from maintaining a real home and passing on to his children the ideals which have enabled them to achieve success in their varied fields of endeavor. The Jordan family can be cited as significant exception to the old adage about preachers children being poor beta for success. In fact, here are so many exceptions to that rule, there is serious question whether it should be longer regarded as applicable anywhere.

EXAMPLES — It would be impossible to compile a list of highly successful men who have come from the homes of country preachers, and it is admittedly hazardous to attempt selection a few. It might be noted in passing that the late distinguished Chief Justice Walter P. Stacy was born in a Methodist parsonage, and that his older brother, Marvin H. would almost certainly have been president of the North Carolina University if death had not struck him down during his tenure as acting head of the institution, while a younger brother, Horace E., is a recognized leader of the legal profession in the state. Frank Sherrill, head of the S&W Cafeteria system, is another product of a North Carolina Methodist parsonage. Other examples include the Abernethy and Smith families from which has come outstanding leadership in religion, education, industry and commerce, as well as in all the professions.

ASSOCIATIONS — Any reference to family reunions would not be complete without taking cognizance of the numerous family associations which stage annual reunions, bringing together several hundred relatives claiming common ancestry. Among the most widely known of such groups are the Grady-Outlaw family in the east and the Waynick family in the piedmont. There are dozens of others, some with more than a thousand participants, some with less than a hundred, but all of which stage annual meetings and have formal organizational set up with president, secretary, historian and treasurer. The Jordan family reunion may develop into that kind of thing as time goes on and in-laws, children and grandchildren multiply. Up to now, it is a more intimate affair, with brothers and sisters getting together once a year to talk politics or business, but to reminisce about childhood pranks, exchange information on family friends, and re-tie the strings that keep a family together and give to the home that place it should have in the social economy of the times. There are more of these than most of us know about. One that comes to mind is that of the Beatty family to which J. D. Beatty of the probator commission belongs, and which gets together once a year like the Jordans.

DATES — There is precedent for this idea of picking a date out of the hat or the air and dedicating it to some extraneous purpose. It is pretty well established that Jesus was born in the spring, but the world celebrates Christmas in mid-winter. It is also established that he was born several years before the calendar dating of Anno Domini era, but everybody still uses the wrong dates. The year should begin with one of the natural periods of solstice or equinox, preferably with spring around the first of March conceivably with beginning of longer days around December 22. Without rhyme or reason we start the year on January 1. So let us blame the politicians too much when they reach out for whatever date is convenient and select whatever name seems likely to yield most dividends for their money raising endeavors.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

This is the Year of Politics (Hertford County Herald)

This being a year of politics, it will be a good idea for those of us who aren't personally politically ambitious to keep cool heads, cultivate searching minds, and maintain a sense of balance. These attributes will be needed and needed badly if the country is to nominate and elect public officials of character and ability. And goodness knows, the country could use some leaders who value character above mink coats.

It is bad enough that we have had to put up with some stinky rottenness in high official places, but it will be worse if we fail to exercise due diligence in voting out the bad ones and putting in the good ones in the primaries and elections to be held this year. There has been crookedness and shady dealing in public life ever since we became a country; there probably always will be some of it.

It is what we do about ridding the government of crookedness when it is discovered that tests our good faith in honest government and honest officials.

Don't believe all that you hear and read, and when you hear and read do some thinking on your own. Get both sides of the question before you make up your mind a good technique any time, and especially desirable in an election year.

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER
Of grave concern to all retailers is the high price of food. It is not benefiting the grocers. The National Association of Food Chains says that in the third quarter profits were down more than 66 per cent from year-ago figures. And the high price of eating materials appears to be diverting considerable consumer spending power from other channels.

Retail food prices rose an average of 1 per cent between October 15 and November 15, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics. Figures to December 15 won't be announced until late January, but if they show a decline a lot of housewives will be surprised.

In mid-November, the food the average moderate-income family buys cost 231.4 per cent of the 1935-39 average. This is a far greater rise than any other major component of the index. Beef and veal stood at 317.3 per cent of the base price, topped on the whole index only by beverages at 346.6 per cent, thanks to the tax on the alcoholic parts.

The gravity of the situation is increased by the fact that foods may go higher in this year. The Department of Agriculture has held out some hope that they may not. Beef and pork are backing up on the farm and farmers will be forced to sell, some authorities say. But the commodities futures markets do not indicate traders believe there will be any serious break in staples, and the government is currently engaged in boosting the price of sugar. The Agriculture Department reported that farm lands had increased 15 per cent in value for the year ended November 1. Farmers certainly expect to earn on their increased capital as other business men do, and this despite the fact farmers will be bidding against defense plants for labor this year.

Because of the key situation farmers hold politically, the government will be solicitous about their income. Neither Republicans, Democrats nor Whigs ever act to reduce farm earnings in election years.

About all that can be done by retailers who are selling less because their customers' food bills are higher is to hope for perfect crop weather from now till fall. LIKE IT OR NOT, MANY MORE NOW "SECURE" Most self-employed persons, which includes thousands of small business men, have been under Social Security this year. If they file tax reports by January 15, as many who have not paid an estimated tax must, they have only a few days left in which to. Get a Social Security account number. Have up to $81 ready for paying the self-employment tax in addition to income taxes due. Brought under Social Security are those in business for themselves with earnings of $400 or more during the year. Farmers and most professional men are excluded unless they carry on other businesses.

There's no choice in the matter. A self-employed person in those classifications covered can not just decide they don't want Social Security. Congress has decided they are to be secure and they must pay 2.35 per cent of their earnings up to $3,600 or be dealt with just like any other tax law violator.

MACHINE TOOL SHORTAGE SERIOUS
The shortage of machine tools will worsen, according to an industry survey by the American Society of Tool Engineers. Only 10 per cent of the companies surveyed believe that all-out production of machine tools and other production equipment can meet both military and civilian demand. Most companies believe that better, rather than more, tools are the greatest need.

BY SCARCITY OF SKILLS
Industrial research is being impeded by a critical shortage of trained and skilled manpower, a survey of 146 companies by the National Industrial Conference Board indicates. Two-thirds of the companies said they need chemists, physicists and skilled shop men and some are diverting researchers to these positions.

This situation must be frustrating to corporations who planned to invest "excess profits dollars" in research. Hal Boyle's Column

NEW YORK — (AP) — Do women make New Year's resolutions?

It is the belief of most men that they do. This is because they themselves overhaul their lives at this season, and chart a fresh course. And they figure that whatever they do, why, women naturally will do likewise, because of the desperate feminine determination in America to outdo men in any field.

But that just shows any male generalization about the opposite sex is likely to be untrue. (Editor's note: My wife says your generalizations about women are particularly susceptible to error.)

(Boyle's note: Isn't that odd? My wife says the same thing.) Anyway, to get back to the subject, I have found women strongly resist the idea of making New Year's resolutions. Or, if they do make them, they do it in utter secrecy.

I was writing down my own list of promises to myself to live better when Frances looked over my shoulder. "What have we here, Rover?" she asked. "New Year's resolutions," I explained proudly. "I've got up to 112—and I'm only about half through."

"Half through?" she murmured. "You aren't even half started."

She picked up my list—rather cynically, I thought—and skimmed through it, shaking her head. "What do you mean by these first two items—that you'll give up Sazerac cocktails and quit looking at wrestling matches on television?" she demanded. "You know we don't have a television set yet and you never drank a Sazerac cocktail in your life."

"Well I put down a couple of easy ones just to warm up with," I replied lamely. "It's always easier to give up something you don't do than something you do do."

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON — A woman who signs herself merely as "L. Swartz" has just been given the Army's exceptional civilian service award—top recognition for an Army civilian.

A veteran of 34 years service, she is Mrs. Lillian Swartz, chief of the civilian personnel division, office of the Secretary of the Army. She has out civilian personnel regulations and procedure for the Army. She has been honored for her outstanding job in simplifying these regulations.

Slim, feminine and attractive with smartly-coiffed iron-gray hair and large dark eyes, she is described variously by her colleagues as a straight-shooting, just, efficient, clear-thinking and deservedly popular policy-maker.

"When people on Capitol Hill, and other officials call her office and ask for L. Swartz, they are surprised to find L. Swartz is a woman. But when they get down to business they are completely won over."

In making the award in his office Army Secretary Frank Pace Jr., said Mrs. Swartz had received the decoration for her "leadership in developing a uniform system of regulations for civilian workers" and added the decoration resulted from her service as chief of the policy, regulations and procedure branch.

"Her outstanding accomplishment in providing continuity and stability of civilian personnel policies, despite drastic changes in the Army's mission, exemplify the highest tradition of career employees, reflecting great credit to herself, to the Army establishment and to the federal service."

Attending the ceremony were her husband, Burt O. Swartz, a lawyer, employed in the Army Ordnance Department, her daughter and granddaughter. "I have never felt more humble, nor more proud," said Mrs. Swartz. Then she went on to say it all never would have happened without the help and co-operation of her staff, 90 per cent of whom are men.

Mrs. Swartz's parents came to this country from England. She herself is a native Washingtonian and a graduate of George Washington University here.

HANGMAN'S COULEE

By AL CODY

AP News Service

The sheriff shook his head stubbornly. "I just been listenin' to him admit who he was, and what he come here for," he said mildly. "To him tellin' how he'd had a change of heart—"

"And do you believe that? It's just a trick to cover up while he gets away—"

"Funny sort of a trick, then, when he could've done it a whole lot easier by keepin' his mouth shut. Fact is, more I hear him talk, the better I like him. I figured it was all a trick at first, but I changed my mind. I been watchin' him to see what he'd do. And I sure ain't got no cause for complaint on what he's been doin' since he hit this town. Not any."

"No?" Deal Hathaway's voice was rough with sarcasm. "Maybe you don't know that he came to town to steal that hundred thousand that was raised for the railroad—"

"Sure I do. You mentioned it first off. But he'd explained all about that himself—before you come bustin' in here."

"He explained—" Hathaway's jaw sagged. Then he recovered angrily. "But if you know he came to steal—hell fire, Sheriff, what does it take to make you fill your office? His confederates are in town now. We caught Big Nose, but the Weasel is sure to be around. They'll be getting away with the money while you gabble. I tell you it's just a stall to give them time—"

The sheriff shook his head. "I doubt it," he denied. "I ain't so big a fool but I can see why he's had more'n a bellyful of the old life. But as to that money that's worryin' you so much, why the Professor—or Thornton, or whatever you want to call him—turned that money over to me for safe-keepin' hours ago. I got some deputies watchin' it now. When he done that, I had my answer for sure, and I knew that I didn't want him."

Hathaway was fighting for control. Readjusting his notions to what he had just heard was not easy. There was no doubt but what he was as surprised as Gentleman Jim himself had been that he should have acted in such a manner. Such a course, to a man like Deal Hathaway, was incomprehensible. Just as it would have been to Gentleman Jim a scant week earlier.

Hathaway was figuring it out, and, though he might never understand the impelling reasons back of it, that was a minor point. He could see how the wind was blowing. Worse than that he could see defeat where a moment before he had envisioned victory. Somehow Gentleman Jim had won this crown, and they were behind him—as much so now, encouraged by the sheriff's stand, as they had been before.

Which spelled showdown. Not the sort he had counted on a few minutes before, but even more decisive. Tonight he had everything to gain and nothing to lose. And he had come here prepared for any eventuality.

"So you refuse to take action, to arrest him?" Hathaway demanded, light-lipped. "As an officer of the law, you won't do a thing?"

"Depends on what you call action, I guess," the sheriff retorted.

Hathaway's voice took on a new note of command. "Then it's up to the honest citizens of this town to take action themselves, the same as we've had to do to clean up in the past! Come on, boys! Let's string this outlaw up where his partner was this afternoon!"

Even as he spoke a gun was in his hand and he was plunging ahead. For a moment Gentleman Jim, himself a little dazed with the turn of events, was in doubt as to just what he might have in mind. Whether Hathaway still believed that, led by himself and a handful of his followers, the old mob instinct could be roused as before, or not. The light was uncertain. All to the advantage of such a plan as Hathaway's might have in mind. And he was wringing all the benefit possible from it.

Gentleman Jim had been listening to this latest exchange as though he had been a detached spectator, having no particular interest in the outcome. It seemed harder to believe than anything which had gone before, the things which the sheriff had said—or that they could be about him. Certainly he had expected no such reaction.

But while one part of his mind was remote, he was keyed physically to a high pitch. Here, though in a slightly different form than he had expected, was the last. And now it was involving others than himself.

He heard Matt's scream, choked short off, and spun about to see her struggling in the arms of Deal Hathaway. The next moment she had been jerked off the platform and the two of them were gone in the gloom, out past the fringes of the tent.

Taking advantage of the night and the confusion, Hathaway had darted back and around to grab Matt before anyone suspected what he was up to. His shout had been a bluff—a gesture to confuse, and it had accomplished its purpose. Under cover of that he had a desperate plan, one which might work due to its sheer boldness.

With Matt for a hostage he might dictate terms as his own followers rallied, and get away with it. If he failed, he'd take her with him. And that was understandable for a man who thought as did Deal Hathaway. He had dwelt on the fringes of respectability, but that was an alien place to him. With him it was all or nothing, and even the woman he professed to love was, as she had always been, only a pawn in the game.

Hostess at Buffet Supper

Miss Rebekah Wall entertained on Friday night at a delightful buffet supper at her home on Church Street. Seasonal decorations prevailed throughout, red candles, tree and novelty ornaments lending an air of gaiety. The guests, which numbered thirty, were received informally by the hostess and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Wall. Cocktails were served in the living room, after which guests were invited into the dining room for a buffet supper. Later in the evening coffee and egg-nog were served.

Entertains Contract Club

Mrs. L. D. McCotter had as guests members of her contract club and other players for a delightful supper party on Friday night at her home on the Greenville highway. The home was festive with the traditional Christmas decorations, with emphasis on mantel and dining table. The mantel was banked with holly and sprays of red berries. A green cloth was used on the table with cut poinsettias and tall red candles as a centerpiece. The beautifully decorated tree was multi-colored with lights and multi-colored balls. After a delectable two course supper at the card tables bridge was played progressively. The highest scorers for the evening were Mrs. Alton Chapman and Mrs. J. W. Short; Mrs. H. C. Oglesby was given the visitor's prize. Other players were Mrs. David Wassum, Mrs. Clifton Jackson, Mrs. Thurman Williams, Mrs. Richard Nelson, Mrs. H. P. Quinley, Mrs. Robert Mewborn, Mrs. Jack Tucker, Mrs. J. L. Quinley, Mrs. L. L. Mewborn, Miss Hazel Patrick, Miss Marie Chapman, Miss Bert Johnson and Miss Louise Mewborn. Mrs. Billy Phillips was a refreshment guest.

Bridge Hostess

Mrs. Albert Tyson was a gracious hostess on Friday night at her home in Grifton Heights when she had as guests for supper and bridge members of her card club. Greenery, berries and candles were used to decorate the home for the occasion. On arrival a delicious two course supper was served at the card tables. After this bridge was played at two tables. The highest scores were compiled by Mrs. Bryan Davis and Mrs. John Coward; Mrs. Wilbur Murphy was given the consolation. Other players were Mrs. Jake Worthington, Mrs. Claude Hart, Mrs. Heber Wade and Mrs. Robert McCotter.

Mrs. Cross Honored

Mrs. Clay Burney entertained at two tables of bridge on Friday night at her home here to compliment Mrs. William Cross of Sunbury who spent the holidays with her mother, Mrs. G. Tucker.

The tables were placed for the games in the living room where a beautifully decorated tree, holly and other decorations suggestive of the Yule season were used. During the games Coca-Colas and salted nuts were passed and as the cards were laid aside a glass-course with coffee was enjoyed.

Mrs. Cross was given a box of candy from the hostess and Mrs. S. E. Coffman as high scorer was given perfume. Other players were Mrs. W. E. Rasberry, Mrs. Joe House, Mrs. A. C. Fletcher, Mrs. Ben Tucker, Mrs. Glendel Tucker and Mrs. Cecil Cobb.

The Sport Reflector

By JIMMY ELLIS

Coach Jim Tatum of the University of Maryland should be a very happy man today. His split-T magicians gave him every right to be such a man with their Sugar Bowl performance against Tennessee yesterday.

In contrast to Tatum's feelings today, it would be at least mighty interesting to know how General Bob Neyland feels. Any coach always feels bad when his club loses a game but to lose a big one like the Sugar Bowl adds a great deal to the hurt.

Neyland's single wing club was rated number one in the country at the close of the 1951 season. They had swept through 20 straight contests without a defeat and tailback Hank Lauriatella was being ranked with the best in the entire nation. It was thought by most everyone that they were a sure thing in the New Year's Day game at New Orleans.

Maryland, on the other hand, had also gone through an undefeated season and were ranked as the nation's fourth best ball club. They were easily the class of the Southern Conference, but were given some unfavorable publicity by "jumping" the conference rules to accept the bid to the Sugar Bowl. The combination of the bad publicity and meeting Tennessee combined to make them decided underdogs.

Just how Tatum got his team fired up for the game is one of the little "mysteries" of life. Ed Modzelewski, the "Misty Mo" himself, was possibly the explanation as he turned in the finest game of his career to spark the Terps. Modzelewski ripped the famed Tennessee defenses to shreds with his line plunging as the split-T of Maryland defeated the single wing of Tennessee.

Despite all the unpleasantness of the last couple of months, Sunny Jim Tatum should really be sunny today. He has every right to be.

The other bowl games played yesterday went pretty much as expected. With perfect weather about them, just about all the favorites had little trouble in winning.

Illinois continued the policy of making the Pacific Coast Conference look miserable in the Rose Bowl with a 40-7 shellacking of Stanford. The Illini had practically no trouble at all in running over the Indians who had gone through the 1951 season with nine victories and a single defeat.

Just how long the Pacific Coast Conference will continue to invite the Big Ten visitors to the Rose Bowl is another question that is going to be raised. Ever since the PCC and the Big Ten signed the agreement to allow the champions of the two conferences to meet in the Rose Bowl, the Coast clubs have fared mighty bad.

The visiting teams from the mid-west have not had the slightest bit of hesitation about going to Pasadena and knocking around the pride of the Far West. It is foolish to believe that the Pacific Coast Conference will have any desire to continue getting beat in the Rose Bowl.

A story book finish gave Georgia Tech the nod in the eighteenth annual Orange Bowl. The victors were the Baylor Bears, the Southeastern Conference runners-up.

Pepper Rodgers, extra point specialist for the Engineers, booted a field goal from the 10 yard line for Georgia Tech to give the Southeastern Conference champions their margin of victory. There were less than five minutes to play when Rodgers put on his show. It also enabled the Engineers to take their third victory in four showings in the Miami classic.

Clemson was made to look doubly bad in its Gator Bowl loss to Miami University. The Tigers had come in for some of the publicity which went with acceptance of a bowl bid by Southern Conference teams and went into the game after being booted out of the Southern Conference for one year.

The Tigers had defeated Miami by a single point in last year's Orange Bowl and the Hurricanes were spoiling for a rematch when the two clubs were named to the Jacksonville game. Clemson went completely over the heads of the Conference policy makers in taking the bid and were in more of a bad light than were the Terps although both were counted equally as guilty.

Yesterday may have seen the last of the big time bowl games. Recent pressure has been toward discontinuing them and actions such as those of the Southern Conference are making them unpopular events at least as far as organized conferences are concerned.

League Folds

TALLADEGA, Ala. (AP)—Failure to find a sixth member has put the Class D Georgia-Alabama Baseball League out of business for the 1952 season.

President Art Decatur last night announced the decision not to operate this year. He said he hoped the league will be able to reorganize later and resume play in 1953.

The league had a lean season in 1951 and finished with only four clubs.

Revenge For Loss?

HONOLULU (UP)—At least nine members of the San Diego State College football team were stricken with food poisoning last night, a few hours after winning a 34-13 victory over University of Hawaii in the Pineapple Bowl game.

Bethel Blasts Farmville In Two Games

Scoring Splurge In Second Half Gives Boys Win

BETHEL—Coach Walter Latham's Bethel Indians turned on the power in the second half here last night and ran to a 52-26 victory over Farmville's Red Devils in a Pitt County Conference clash. Bethel's girls captured the preliminary game by the score of 51-27.

Farmville jumped into an early lead in the first quarter, but was unable to keep it as the Bethel boys began to connect with their shots from the outside in the second quarter. Bobby Gene Manning, a little forward who rates with the best in the county, dropped in 13 points to lead the Bethel boys.

The Indians grabbed the lead soon after the second quarter opened, and held it for the remainder of the contest. Farmville could not recover its stride after that spurt.

Guard Earl Johnston followed close behind Manning, with 12 points to his credit. B. B. Tetterton led the defensive floor play for Bethel.

Latham's crew now has a three-win, no-loss record in conference play. They also have a victory over Snow Hill in outside competition. Marvin Tugwell paced the losing boys with seven points, followed by Jesse Spencer with five. Charlie Fitzgerald led the defensive work for Coach Elbert Moye.

Joyce Beverly dropped in 24 points to lead the local girls to an easy 51-27 decision over the Farmville lassies.

Bethel overcame an 8-6 deficit at the end of the first period and jumped into a halftime lead of 23-13 by scoring 17 points in the second quarter while Farmville could muster but five.

The game was turned into a rout in the final quarter when the Farmville girls were unable to score a single point, while the winners chalked up a total of 13.

Mary Jo Wynne came in second in the individual scoring column for Bethel with 11 points. Anna White paced the defensive guards for Bethel.

Farmville's scoring was led by Ila Wooten with 12 points, followed by Emily Cannon, with seven points. Doris Oakley led the defensive contingent for Farmville.

Bethel now has a 2-1 record within the county, and a 3-1 overall record.

Farmville plays at Grimesland Friday night, while Bethel travels to Belvoir.

State Makes Jump In Weekly Cage Ratings

NEW YORK (UP)—Illinois' defending Big Ten champions topped the weekly ratings of the United Press Board of Coaches for the third week in a row today, widening their lead over runnerup Kentucky in the race for the national college basketball championship.

The Illini, undefeated in six games, received 15 first place votes and a total of 302 points from the 35 leading coaches who comprise the board. Kentucky, which suffered its second loss in eight games when upset by St. Louis in the Sugar Bowl tournament final, had six first place votes and 259 points. Illinois led Kentucky by only three points in the previous week's ratings.

St. Louis, the Sugar Bowl champion, and North Carolina State, the Dixie Classic titlist for the third straight year, made the biggest advances in this week's rankings.

The Billikens, with a 7-2 record, jumped from ninth to sixth place with two first place votes and 197 points. N. C. State, winner in eight out of 10 games, moved back among the top 10 after a week's absence. The Wolfpack vaulted from 16th to 10th place with 50 points.

The coaches based their ratings on games played through Saturday night, Dec. 29.

Kansas, which ran its record to 10-0 by winning the Big Seven tournament, held third place as the three top teams retained the positions they held last week. The Jayhawks had five first place votes and 232 points.

Indiana (7-0) advanced one notch to fourth with two first place ballots and 208 points, reversing positions with Washington of Seattle (10-1), which dropped back to fifth with four first place votes and 203 points.

All-Stars Picked To Meet Clowns Thursday Night

An All-Star intra-mural team composed largely of former Eastern North Carolina high school players will meet the House of David tomorrow night in Wright Gymnasium on the East Carolina College campus.

The team, selected by intra-mural director Vernon Morrison, will be led by Jerry Hilburn, a former basketball star at New Hanover High School in Wilmington. Hilburn was a high scoring forward on the 1950-1951 Wilmington club which won the State AAA championship last March.

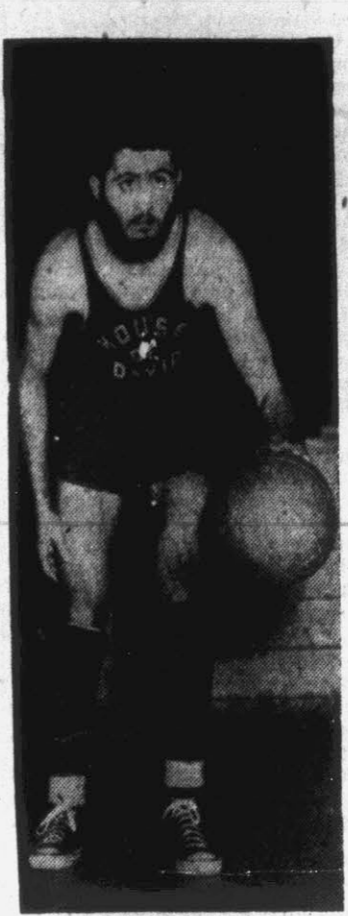

Ineligible for varsity basketball competition this season, Hilburn is a member of the Sheriffs, currently the top team in the intra-mural league. He is the league's leading scorer and will be at-forward against the traveling clowns.

Just who will fill the other four spots has not yet been decided by Morrison but he will have the following boys to choose from:

Sheriff's: Hilburn, Larry Rhodes, Loyd Webb, and Burt Crowley; Orphans: Oliver and Burke; Sky Rockets: Jack Pickett; Snappers: Jim Piner and James Fodries; Outlaws: George Graybill; Busy Bee Bombers: Smith; and Royals: Stone.

Game time will be 8 p.m. and tickets will be available at the door for the game.

Record Crowds See Bowl Games; 425,000 Attend 12 Contests

BILL ALLEN, a former University of Nebraska basketball ace, will be at one of the forwards tomorrow night when the touring House of David meets an All-Star Intra-Mural team at East Carolina's Wright gymnasium. A veteran of World War II, Allen saw considerable action in the Pacific Theater and was among the first to land at Okinawa.

By CARL LUNDQUIST
United Press Sports Writer
Football bowl games may well become victims of de-emphasis, but if this really was the last ground for the New Year's Day madness it was a dilly of a farewell.

Record crowds, breathless finishes, deflation of bigwigs, and revenge featured the exciting program of 12 big and little bowl games in which some 425,000 fans had the time of their lives.

Perhaps indicating a new tempo for another golden era in sports in 1952, the attendance was terrific, especially in the major games. The weather was good, too, with not a rain drop from Florida to California and with the temperature generally so high that it was comfortable in shirt sleeves.

Because it was New Year's Day, 1952, it wasn't exactly surprising that two glamorous legends of 1951 went into the limbo of things to be forgotten.

The biggest deflation occurred in the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans where Tennessee, the nation's No. 1 team in the United Press ratings by its board of coaches, suffered a stinging 28 to 13 defeat at the hands of Maryland, sparked by its great backfield star, Ed Modzelewski, handed the Volunteers their first defeat after 20 straight wins. Three fumbles were recovered for touchdowns in the first 20 minutes of play by alert Maryland and it was strictly "no contest" thereafter for the 82,000 fans.

The domination occurred at the other end of the game in Pasadena, Calif., where Illinois did its exploding belatedly, scoring five touchdowns in the final 20 minutes of play to run off and hide from Stanford, 40 to 7. That was a great blow for 1951's Coach of the Year, Chuck Taylor of Stanford. He had directed his team to nine wins in 10 games, but didn't reckon with the dynamite that every Big Ten team takes to the Rose Bowl. Illinois made it six triumphs in a row for the Big Ten before 100,000.

At Miami, where the "cardiac finish" has become almost a tradition, Georgia Tech boomed from behind in the final six minutes with a touchdown and a short field goal which produced a 17 to 14 victory over Baylor before 65,837 fans.

There was a little more efficiency to the triumph of Kentucky over Texas Christian in the Cotton Bowl as 75,347 fans looked on in Dallas. The Wildcats had All-America star Babe Parilli performing at his best and his two first-half touchdown passes provided more than enough margin for a 20 to 7 victory.

Revenge was the motif in the Gator owl at Jacksonville, Fla., for the mustering Hurricane of downstate Miami in its 14 to 0 triumph over Clemson. Last year Clemson was the victor, 15 to 14, in a bitterly disputed game in the Orange Bowl. In the re-match Harry Mallors ran for two touchdowns and young Jim Dooley cut the heart out of the Clemson attack by intercepting four passes to stop rally after rally. There was a record throng of 37,000 on hand.

There also was plenty of excitement in the lesser bowls. Texas Tech topped College of Pacific, 25 to 14, in a big offensive show in the Sun Bowl at El Paso, Tex., before 17,000. Houston edged Dayton, 26 to 21, before 16,000 in the Salad Bowl at Phoenix, Ariz. Stetson topped Arkansas State, 35-20 as 12,000 watched in the Tangerine Bowl at Orlando, Fla. Bethune-Cookman won from Texas College, 27 to 13 in the Steel Bowl at Birmingham, Ala., with 2,000 on hand. Hinds Junior College of Mississippi beat San Angelo, Tex., Junior College before 6,000 at the Oleander Bowl in Galveston, Tex., and Prairie View A&M, 27 to 26, before 10,000 in Houston.

FBI Laboratory May Find Clues

MOUNT AIRY (AP)—The Washington laboratories of the Federal Bureau of Investigation may provide a clue to a mystery booby trap blast that killed a young high school agriculture teacher, William H. Cochran Jr.

Metal fragments and a tiny piece of electric cord were flown to Washington yesterday for a laboratory examination.

Police Chief Monte Boone took the particles to the FBI laboratories. He was expected to return here today with the results of the examination.

Meanwhile, officers admitted that they have been unable to find any motive for the crime or any lead to the killer of 24-year-old teacher.

He entered his pickup truck Monday morning, touched the starter and was hurled 12 feet onto an ash heap by the explosion. He died 13 hours later. Officers believed that an explosive charge had been placed under the floorboard of the truck's cab and wired to the vehicle's ignition system.

Investigators have met a stone wall in their effort to uncover a motive for the slaying. They checked on possible jealousy, since Cochran and his young wife had been married only four months. They searched for a student who might have carried a grudge against the teacher. Both angles proved fruitless.

Forced To Help Bandits Escape

CHICAGO (UP)—Gas station attendant George King told police yesterday that one of three youths who shot him in the arm during a holdup attempt forced him to give their car a push when it stalled as they tried to flee.

Police seized the youths and sent King, 35, to a hospital for treatment.

Two Cars Heavily Damaged In Odd Rear-End Collision Last Night

Richard Earl O'Mary, 33, Route 2, Stokes, suffered injuries last night when the automobile shown above, which he was driving, crashed into the rear of a slowly moving automobile near the intersection of the Bethel-Stokes highway. O'Mary's car traveled a total of 241 feet after striking the second car, sending it over an embankment 189 feet away.

An elderly Negro man, driving the automobile shown above, narrowly escaped serious injury or death last night when his automobile, shown above on the edge of an embankment, was wrecked by a car from the rear. The accident occurred on the Bethel highway around 7:15 last night. (Reflector Staff Photos by Roy Hardee.)

Gold Star Mother Has Orders For 'Induction'

CHICAGO (AP)—Mrs. Joe Willie Riley, a gold star mother who was classified I-A by a draft board last spring, has been ordered to report at an induction station next Monday.

Mrs. Riley, who describes herself as middle-aged, says she will report, but she doubts that she is strong enough to be a very good soldier.

"I don't believe I'm in danger of being drafted," she said. "But I'm ready if they want me."

Mrs. Riley said she had received frequent notices from a

South Side draft board but she returned all except the latest ordering her to report at an induction station. She said she had called the draft board and said it was all a mistake after she received her first notice from the draft board more than a year ago.

Mrs. Riley said one of her two sons, Staff Sgt. William Douglas Riley, 20, a B-17 waist gunner, was killed Nov. 26, 1943, over Bremen, Germany. Her other son, Robert, 16, is a Civil Air Patrol member.

Charles W. Tripp, chairman of the draft board which sent the induction notice, said he was investigating Mrs. Riley's case.

New System Of Military Justice Is Discussed

Members of the local Naval Reserve unit heard a talk on the new uniform code of military justice at a meeting of the reserves in the Flanagan Building at the college last night.

P. E. Powell told the group that courts martial have been changed by the new code which came into effect May 1950.

Previously the courts were Captain's Mast, Deck Court, Summary Court, and General Court and they have now been changed to Commanding Officer's Non-Judicial Punishment, and Summary, Special and General Court, he said.

"The changes in punishment," Powell said, "vary only slightly from the previous system."

Powell will continue on the same topic at the next meeting of the reservists.

Umstead Asserts Much To Be Done In Agriculture

BURGAW (AP)—Former Senator W. B. Umstead declared here yesterday that much remains to be done in North Carolina's agricultural program.

Among North Carolina's greatest needs, he asserted, are greater utilization of forest and water resources, more livestock and poultry to supplement row crops, more processing plants, and better marketing and distributing facilities. He was the main speaker at the dedication of new farmer-owned livestock marketing and slaughtering house valued at $35,000.

Umstead said the agricultural program and the work of the State Department of Agriculture and North Carolina State College have brought about great progress in the Tar Heel state in recent years.

Formal Dance
Group 4, under the direction of Mrs. Edgar Barrett, had a formal dance at the Girl Scout Hut Monday night. Punch was served from an appointed table. Sandwiches, cookies, salted nuts, cake, potato chips and mints were served buffet style.

The hut was beautifully decorated, carrying out the Christmas motif.

Putting Squeeze On Claim Frauds

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government is putting the squeeze on unemployment insurance frauds.

Robert C. Goodwin, director of the Bureau of Employment Security, reported yesterday a sharp drop in the detected number of overpayments due to willful misrepresentation.

The period covered was the July-September quarter, as compared with the previous three months in 1951.

Council Frowns On Broadcasting

WATERTOWN, S. D. (AP)—Live microphones greeted the Watertown city fathers when they sat down to a recent council meeting.

The council's first order of business was to vote, 9 to 1, that the broadcast of its proceedings over the local station be discontinued. Mayor Gerhard A. Gilbert, vetoed the action.

The station withdrew its equipment anyway on the grounds it did not want to "cause trouble."

Frostbite Crew To Check GI's

NEW YORK (AP)—The Army will send a Cold Injury Team of frostbite experts to Camp Drum, formerly Pine Camp, to insure the safety of GI's under conditions of extreme cold exposure during the winter maneuver, Exercise Snowfall, scheduled to start Feb. 9.

The five-man team from the Army Medical Research Laboratory supervised treatment of frostbite victims last year in Japan. The troops will be examined beforehand and those found susceptible to frostbite will not be exposed to dangerous extremes of cold. The team will also indoctrinate troops in precautionary cold weather safety measures.

Dear Customers and Friends,
How wonderful it would be, if on the eve of the New Year, we could close our store and knock upon your neighbor's door with a cheery greeting, recapture the spirit that inspired Dickens when he wrote his immortal description of a London Christmas eve in "A Christmas Carol."
But times change, distances lengthen, and the personal warmth of such visits is denied us.
Nothing can prevent our thoughts from turning to you and to the other good friends with whom we have been lucky enough to know and serve throughout the year. Nothing can stop us from wishing your door were just down the street and we could open it on our way home to-night and shout, "Hello there, Happy New Year!"
Sincerely Yours
