Storm Of 'White Hell' Blanketing West; Thousands Tied Up By Snow

Transportation Paralyzed; Damaging Mounting; Streamliner Stranded

By UNITED PRESS
The worst storm in 50 years tore into California and Nevada today, turning the Sierra Mountains into a "white hell" with thousands marooned, all transportation paralyzed and damage mounting with each new blast.

Donner Summit, a niche in the backbone of the towering Sierras, was the scene of a futile struggle between man-made machines and the fury of nature gone berserk.

The sleek streamliner City of San Francisco was held in a snow-bound grip on the West side of the summit. The train used up all its fuel and heat and light failed.

The 226 persons aboard the train huddled in blankets as ski rescue teams and three army weasels fought to reach the train with food and supplies.

Efforts to keep the roads over the mountains open were abandoned. Officials said the danger to lives and possible damage to the equipment was too great.

A veteran highway superintendent at Donner Summit said the snow rescue teams gave up because they "weren't getting anywhere."

"It's a white hell," he said. "Everything's down. Just a big blizzard with no beginning and no end."

A new storm flared up and headed south from the Bay of Alaska to add fresh fury to the four-day siege of record-breaking weather.

Winds nearly 80 miles-an-hour whipped San Francisco. Trees snapped, signboards collapsed and power lines came crackling down.

Damage in the San Francisco area alone was estimated at some $1,000,000 and it was climbing by the hour.

Flooding, particularly in Contra Costa and Alameda counties, worsened. An estimated 2,500 persons were homeless.

Lightning struck an electric power substation in San Rafael, blacking out 1,000 homes in Sausalito.

Rain, driven almost horizontally by the hurricane-force winds slashed at the bay city a 62-year-old rainfall record was broken.

Small craft warnings flew the length of the California Coast.

Thousands of vacationers at resorts in the California mountains were stranded. Twenty inches of snow fell within 24 hours on Lake Arrowhead, famed resort in the Sierras.

The rainfall in Los Angeles was 9.48 inches for the season, compared with a normal of 5.65 inches.

Two women were killed when a snowslide crushed a one-story resort building at Twin Bridges, California.

Over the hump of the Rocky Mountains, another storm with winds near gale velocity lashed Colorado.

The Dakotas and Minnesota were struck by a heavy snow-sleet storm which dumped up to six inches of snow on some sections.

However, to the East and South, above-normal temperatures were general. Rain was general in the East with unseasonably warm temperatures.

Bomber 'Talked' Almost To Haven

TOKYO (UP)—A Navy patrol bomber which crashed here yesterday, killing all 12 men aboard, had been "talked" to within one minute of safety when the accident occurred, it was disclosed today.

The Navy said the four-engine plane, with one engine disabled, was being "talked" into a landing by control tower operators when a second engine on the same wing failed and the ship crashed.

The privateer fell into a rice paddy near the Atsugi Naval Air Station, 30 miles south of Tokyo.

The plane had been on an 11-hour reconnaissance and anti-subversive patrol over the Sea of Japan.

Leonard's eyes were removed by Dr. Hoot immediately after Leonard's death in Pitt Memorial Hospital. The eye was packed and rushed to Winston-Salem by members of the State Highway Patrol. The eyes arrived in Winston-Salem about 1 a. m.

and were immediately used for a corneal transplant on two blind people who were waiting at a Winston-Salem hospital for the operation.

Hoot said at the latest report the patients were doing well.

So far 12 eyes have been received by the eye bank which was set up in North Carolina several months ago, and of the 12 eyes which have been received by the bank, two came from Pitt County.

Hoot explained that the operations of eye banks have been going on in metropolitan areas for several years,

Stalin Credited With Atomic Bid

UN Delegate Says Controls Proposal Directed By Stalin

PARIS (UP)—Russia's new proposals for world atomic control resulted from a directive issued by Marshal Joseph Stalin, Byelorussian told the United Nations today.

Kuzma Kisselev, delegate from Byelorussia, an integral part of the Soviet Union, made the statement before the U.N. Assembly's main political committee.

He accused the West of trying to give the new Russian atomic proposals, announced Saturday by Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky, a "first-class burial" in the fledgling U.N. disarmament commission.

He said Russia's program of "measures to combat the threat of a new war flows from the directive of Josef Stalin and squares with the interests of peace and security and with the interests of the peoples of the entire world."

Russia's new plan calls for a simultaneous atomic weapons ban and control system. It agrees to a continuous inspection program on the condition such inspection does not interfere with internal domestic affairs of any country.

"As Stalin has said, our foreign policy is a clear one," Kisselev said. "It is a policy of maintenance of peace and fostering trade relations with all countries."

"The Soviet Union has not the intention of threatening anybody and least of all of attacking any body."

Kisselev reiterated Red charges that the United States is preparing an aggressive war against Russia.

He said a West German army was "bent on revenge" and would be the main striking force of the North Atlantic Treaty organization.

"The United States and her allies are seeking to surround Russia and her allies with a gigantic ring of military bases," he said. "In so doing, the United States and her allies expose themselves as the instigators of a new war."

Kisselev said the Panmunjom truce talks were "stalled by the doings of the American side" and that U.N. forces had continued to bomb and strafe the neutral zone in Korea in spite of promises to cease.

"All this provocation and bombing of villages in North Korea, and more and more frequent attacks on the front make it clear the American aggressors definitely have taken on the task of bringing about a breakdown of the conversations," he said.

Boy Dies After 5 Years Of Coma

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UP)—A 15-year-old boy died here yesterday after five years in a coma brought on by injuries received when he tried to save his sister from a runaway horse.

Dickie Armstrong, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Armstrong of San Antonio, was riding on another horse beside his sister Wilma Ruth on Sept. 11, 1946, when he was 10 and she 7 years old.

Wilma's horse bolted and Dickie spurred his on, hoping to catch and halt his sister's mount. But Dickie was thrown from the horse and never regained consciousness.

'Pay-As-We-Go' Approval Is Voted Water Plant Project

By JESS POINDEXTER Reflector Staff Writer

Meeting jointly with the Board of Aldermen, the Utilities Commission last night voted to go ahead with construction at the water plant, but on a "pay as you go" basis.

Addressing the commission informally, Superintendent of Utilities Martin Swartz reported that a total of $70,000 is immediately available for the project—$20,000 from the water works fund, and $50,000 transferred from the general fund by the commission at their December meeting.

"By conservative purchasing and keeping labor costs at a minimum, I think $70,000 worth of work will put water through the plant," Swartz said. "I recommend the commission allocate that sum to complete equipment installation and put it to work."

Swartz disclosed that the major portion of the overall allocation will go toward construction costs of pouring floors and building two new mixing chambers. "All this work must be completed before the new equipment, which has already been bought and paid for, can be installed," he said.

The commission and the aldermen present agreed before the tobacco season opens, due to the exceptionally heavy consumption of water by warehouses and tobacco re-drying plants. They were informed by superintendent Swartz that if work on the plant is begun "right away," it will take at least 120 days to get it working.

The present machinery was designed in 1918, and according to Swartz, it is pure guesswork at present just how much purifier to add in the mixing chambers. "Our present equipment was designed to handle a million-and-a-half gallons of water per day," Swartz asserted. "At this time we are putting two-and-a-half-million gallons through each day, and by the fall the demand will probably reach three-and-a-half-million gallons per day."

The commission voting with two members absent, favorably passed a motion that superintendent Swartz be directed to start work immediately to finish the water plant. Added to the motion was the stipulation, "when $70,000 is spent and no more is forthcoming, stop work on the project."

Both the commission and the aldermen were hesitant to go into debt for the project. It was suggested that the city sell more bonds to finance the water plant if need be. City Attorney Raleigh Lee informed the commission that under the law, the city could declare a bond issue without putting it to a vote of the people. The law provides that any issue necessary for health, sanitation and public well-being may be financed by bonds without a public vote.

A commission member stated emphatically, "I don't think we should spend one dime on the water plant on the strength of borrowed money." That statement met with the favor of the commission and the aldermen. It was agreed to stop when the available $70,000 is spent.

In regard to issuing bonds, Aldermen J. E. Waldrop said, "I am delighted to learn that bonds will not be issued. I don't believe you can get permission to issue bonds anyway, if the request is for very much. We (the Board of Aldermen), wrote the Local Government Commission in 1949, 1950, and I think again in 1951, requesting bond issue to construct a first department sub-station in West Greenville. W. E. Easterling, secretary of the commission, denied us on all occasions."

Alderman R. E. Rogers stated, "I see the urgent need for water-plant expansion. I would go ahead with the project until you can find money somewhere else. After you get the water flowing, there may be other means of obtaining the necessary additional funds to complete the plant."

Under present plans, the commission is hiring Crain and Deabo Construction Company, which is engaged in building the new gymnasium at East Carolina College, to assist with the work. The Durham outfit has agreed to furnish tools, equipment, and a superintendent and force. The cost to the commission is the company's payroll plus 15 per cent, and rental on all company equipment used on the project. They also must carry workmen's compensation, liability insurance and property damage. Under the agreement, work may be terminated at any time by either party, and commission members agree that the arrangement is as economical as is possible to obtain under the circumstances. The city buys all materials, and the company, working with the utilities force, has agreed to put the buildings in shape to receive the equipment.

Swartz estimated that it will take an additional $75,000 to put the plant in top condition, but that figure includes items such as tile floors, painting, and "beautifying."

"The plant can be put in good working order for much less than the total estimated $145,000," he said.

North Korean Says Bomb Hit Prison Hospital; Fifth Air Force Issues Denial; Jets Clash In Two Brief Battles, At Least Five Damaged

PANMUNJOM, Korea (UP)—The Communists charged today that an Allied plane bombed a Communist prison camp in North Korea last night, killing at least 10 U.N. prisoners and wounding more than 60 others.

The 5th Air Force promptly denied that any Allied plane had made the alleged attack on Camp No. 8 at Kangsong, which holds one American and 1,891 South Korean prisoners.

North Korean Maj. Gen. Lee Sang Cho told U.N. truce delegates in the prisoner subcommittee that three bombs hit the camp hospital Monday. He promised a list of casualties later.

Rear Adm. R. A. Libby took note of the charge, but made no comment. The Communists previously had identified the only American in the Kangsong camp as a Tadsai Kanoko, a sergeant in the 1st Cavalry Division.

Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, supreme U.N. commander, was informed in Tokyo of the Communist accusation and ordered an immediate investigation. Soon afterward a 5th Air Force spokesman in Korea said no U.N. plane had bombed the camp.

Libby said "absolutely no progress" was made in the prisoner subcommittee.

The day's only development, he said, was to confirm that the deadlock centered on two issues—the U.N. proposal for voluntary repatriation of prisoners and the U.S. insistence that South Korean captives forced into the Red army be reclassified as war prisoners.

5TH ARMY HQ., Korea (UP)—American Sabrejets drew their first blood here Friday by damaging two Communist MIG-15 jet fighters today in a 15-minute dog-fight over northwest Korea.

Thirty-six of the Sabres battled 40 MIGs between 37,000 and 50,000 feet over Shinanju in "MIG Alley." Three damaged enemy jets were claimed by 1st Lt. Billy B. Dobbs of Fontana, Calif., and 1st Lt. Robert W. Smith of York, Pa.

The claims boosted the 5th Air Force's score to 164 MIGs destroyed, 31 probably destroyed, and 338 damaged.

Other United Nations jets, flying as a screening force for fighter-bombers, sighted 150 more Red jets and exchanged fire with them. No further claims were made, however, pending examination of the gun camera.

F-94 Thunderjets blasted a large Communist hand grenade factory near Pyongyang, the North Korean capital, with napalm and 500-pound fire bombs. Explosions shook the building and sent smoke and flame 300 to 400 feet overhead. Pilots estimated the factory was 75 per cent destroyed.

On the ground, U.N. forces beat off a Communist probing attack in a four-hour fight on the east-central front.

The enemy assault was launched by at least 200 Red against a U.N. bridgehead on the east bank of the Pukhan River southeast of Kumsong. The Allies held their ground and finally sent the beaten enemy reeling North.

Martin County Venire Is Called

Names Of 124 Prospective Jurors On List For Miller Trial

WASHINGTON—Names of 125 prospective jurors were drawn from a Martin County jury list this morning for a special venire which has been summoned to appear in Washington Wednesday for the trial of 21-year-old parolee Lafayette Miller who is facing a murder charge.

Judge Clawson Williams, of Sanford, yesterday allowed a motion by Miller's defense attorneys whereby a jury from Martin county would be transferred to this Beaufort county seat to try Miller. A motion by the defense asking that the trial be moved to another county entirely, was denied by the judge.

A little over an hour and one-half was needed this morning for the 125 jurors to be called. Names of the jury were drawn from a hat by four—Clawson Williams, of Sanford, yesterday allowed a motion by Miller's defense attorneys whereby a jury from Martin county would be transferred to this Beaufort county seat to try Miller. A motion by the defense asking that the trial be moved to another county entirely, was denied by the judge.

Yesterday, the Beaufort county grand jury returned a true bill charging Miller with the first degree murder of Harvie Boyd, 21-year-old farmer who was shot in his home on Thanksgiving Eve last year.

Miller, who is also charged with kidnapping the dead man's wife, was not charged by the jury with the kidnapping charge. It was believed here that should the jury return a verdict not demanding the death penalty that the kidnapping charge would be pressed.

Before returning their findings the grand jury heard the testimony of two highway patrolmen, Cpl. H. M. Morrow and B. H. Jackson, and Mr. Ope Boyd.

A scattered crowd of spectators were on hand for the grand jury report which was received around five o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Miller plead not guilty to the capital charge.

Twenty heavily armed officers guarded and escorted Miller yesterday during the time which he spent in the Beaufort county court room.

After the grand jury findings, he was whisked away to an undisclosed jail to await the selection of the jury this morning.

Office Lists 513 Jobless In Pitt

With a total of 513 men and women who claim unemployment compensation, the labor situation in the county is still better than it was a year ago, said W. B. Dillingham, manager of the Unemployment Security Commission.

With the week ending January 11, 107 new claims and 406 continued claims were reported by the Unemployment office. Of the new claims, 76 of the number are females and 31 are males. There were only 92 new claims last year at this time but the continued claims last year totaled 550, with 411 of them being women.

Dillingham said the demand for labor has dropped off since the Christmas holidays and therefore a large number cannot be placed, especially women. He said the demand for laborers on construction jobs had also dropped off since the first of the year.

The manager stated that the situation will hold for a month or so if the weather is bad, but will agricultural work advances, it will drain off some of the unemployed men.

In reference to the number of unemployed following Christmas, Dillingham said the same situation arose in the county last year.

Kefauver Meets With President

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two men who will have a lot to do with selecting the Democratic presidential candidate this year—President Truman and Senator Kefauver (D-Tenn)—met at noon (EST) today at the White House.

"I hope to talk some politics with the President," Kefauver told a reporter beforehand.

Friends of the tall, soft-spoken Tennessee already have Kefauver for president groups working in most of the 48 states.

"I have not encouraged but I have not discouraged them," the Senator said, adding that he hoped to make a decision about the first of February.

"I thought before any decision I ought to talk with the chief executive and the head of the party," he added.

U.S. Troops In Europe Undergo Training Against Atomic Attack

HEIDELBERG, Germany (AP)—The U. S. Army command in Europe said today that Russia's atomic bomb could be used both against strategic targets on a home front and in tactical operations on a battlefield.

It said American armed forces on this continent, as well as in the United States, are engaged in atomic warfare training.

The training includes "disaster plans and aid to the civil power."

In its first statement on atomic warfare, the headquarters here of Gen. Thomas T. Handy, EUCOM Commander, replied tersely to a long series of questions submitted by American correspondents.

It said all American troops in Europe, including those in supply and maintenance units, were being "trained against atomic attack."

"Asked whether G.I.'s were taking this training seriously, the Command answered:

"Individual soldiers are assumed to understand the importance of taking steps necessary to protect themselves against atomic attack. All training is important and the amount of time devoted to any particular subject is largely determined by the time required to teach it."

The Command said any information about special equipment available for atomic defense was classified.

To questions whether Russia is believed to have atomic artillery or other atomic weapons for employment in frontline fighting, and whether American training takes this into account, the Command said:

"It is understood that a power capable of waging war against the United States has the atomic bomb. This could be used tactically as well as strategically."

The Command confirmed "close cooperation and liaison between the three service branches, particularly between the Army and the Air Force, in atomic weapons training."

More Pitt Countians Offering Eyes For Blind Of N. Carolina

A Farmville man who died in Pitt Memorial Hospital on January 2 donated his eyes to the Eye Bank for the Restoration of Sight, and this morning four more Pitt County citizens offered their eyes for the use of blind people of the state.

Dr. Melvin P. Hoot of Greenville, regional director for the eye bank, spoke at the local Lions Club last night on the eye bank and its operation, and since then four members of the club have contacted him to fill out forms donating their eyes to the bank after their deaths.

George Leonard of Farmville, who served for a number of years as an official of the Hardy Curing Corporation of Maury, was the first Pitt County citizen to donate his eyes to the eye bank which has headquarters in Winston-Salem.

Leonard's eyes were removed by Dr. Hoot immediately after Leonard's death in Pitt Memorial Hospital. The eye was packed and rushed to Winston-Salem by members of the State Highway Patrol. The eyes arrived in Winston-Salem about 1 a. m.

and were immediately used for a corneal transplant on two blind people who were waiting at a Winston-Salem hospital for the operation.

Hoot said at the latest report the patients were doing well.

So far 12 eyes have been received by the eye bank which was set up in North Carolina several months ago, and of the 12 eyes which have been received by the bank, two came from Pitt County.

Hoot explained that the operations of eye banks have been going on in metropolitan areas for several years, but had not been available in North Carolina until the state eye bank was set up several months ago. The eye bank is entirely a public service undertaking and no charge is made in any way. Blind people are put on a waiting list for the eyes and are alerted so as a corneal transplant can be made as soon as eyes are available. "Any person in North Carolina can benefit in this undertaking by either giving or receiving eyes," Hoot stated. "There are hundreds of blind people in the state who will benefit by receiving eyes from the eye bank."

Hoot's talk at the Lions Club last night was the first of a series of talks the physician will make to the men's and women's organizations of the city explaining the operation of the eye bank in the state.

Red Oak News

A crowd estimated at about 400 people came to Red Oak Sunday night to hear Mr. George Perry, organist of ECC, give a recital on the organ and the Conway trio of their most popular songs.

Mr. Perry played for his opening number an arrangement of "Ave Maria" by Arcadelt. This was followed by "Sheep May Safely Graze" and "Jesus, Joy of Man's Desiring," both by Bach, and "Firework's Music" by Handel. "Finlandia" by Sibelius and "Thanks Be To God" by Biggs was probably most enjoyed by the audience due to the fact that they were more familiar with the tune. "The Mist" by Gaul was beautifully rendered. The audience was held spellbound by Mr. Perry's renditions and many favorable comments were heard about the new organ.

The Conway trio used some of their most popular numbers and they received encore after encore. Mr. Dan Sutton was at the piano and Mrs. Myrtle Coburn sang two numbers.

A most generous offering was received to be used on the organ fund.

In the absence of the chairman, the vice chairman, Mrs. L. W. Topping, presided over the routine business.

Mrs. C. D. Ward reported on the Christmas party and announced plans for the next meeting, which will be a Valentine party.

Members of the department voted to have a "golfing breakfast" sometime in the near future. This will be a project sponsored by the Ways and Means Committee.

The program for the afternoon was presented by J. Herbert Waldrop, vice president and comptroller of the Guaranty Bank and Trust Company, who was introduced by Mrs. Luther Herring.

Mr. Waldrop discussed "Family Finance" with the members, and in an informative and constructive way, he presented many interesting facts, figures and suggestions as to how to manage the family budget. He concluded his remarks with an open forum.

At the conclusion of the program delicious refreshments were served by the hostesses, who were Mesdames Claude Gaskins, chairman W. C. Hollowell, Robert May, Edward Ricks and H. R. Scheller.

Rotary Club Inducts Two New Members

By WYATT BROWN

Men interested in vocational service are brought to gether in Rotary where the collective desire pooled affords enthusiasm, was the line of thought presented by James W. Butler, Past District Governor of Rotary International, last night in his speech inducting Willie Pate and Ted Larkin into the Greenville Rotary Club. He further said that Rotary philosophy backed up by education and inspiration resulting in enthusiasm for the other fellow would have effect on the contribution of Rotarians in this fourteen old new year of 1952.

At the outset Mr. Butler said Rotary philosophy like any other commodity or idea must be resold every day if it is to be felt through-out the whole world. The need for the ideals of Rotary the speaker pointed out by indicating the confused world of today. Inspiration from Rotary will afford many the strength to go on in the face of the situation today, he brought out in concluding.

President Charlie White reported that in a recent survey among the members of the Local Rotary Club that it was found that a preference was cited for music and speakers than other types of programs.

Guests of the Club last night were Judge Susie Sharp, K. T. Futrelle, B. C. Satterfield and Reverend Harold Dudley of Raleigh. Visiting Rotarians were Walter Jones and A. Y. Monk of Farmville. Junior Rotarian last night was C. L. Perkins, Jr. The meeting was presided over by Charles White, Club president.

John W. Hughes To Address Local Club

John Williams Hughes, British Broadcasting Corporation broadcaster, author and lecturer, will be the guest speaker at the Executive Club dinner meeting to-night in the East Carolina College dining hall.

Hughes served with the British army with the artillery and later with the Army School of Education in India as an Executive Officer of the civilian population in the mountains of Central India.

His broadcasts from the United States to London over the B.B.C. have made him a very well known figure in radio circles. Before he started them, as a matter of preparation, he visited every one of the forty-eight states. He has lectured in every state in the Union, on local stations, sectional hook-ups and on the platform.

He has also written several books, has two others pending and he recently has been on an extended trip around the world. On the trip he was the guest of the Governor of Bengal, the Dutch Chief of Staff in Indonesia, and the President of the Philippines.

Hughes is an out-standing globe-trotter. He has traveled through much of the Commonwealth and the rest of the world. He has picked up a lot of first-hand material which he has incorporated in his writings and in his lecture.

Theft Victim Is Billed For Tools

TULSA, Okla. (UP)—Thieves not only looted Ted Seiler's safe of $600 but had him billed for the tools they used.

Seiler got the bill, from a hardware store, three weeks after burglars raided his recreation center. The itemized $16 statement included all the tools police found abandoned in the firm, including a carpenter's level.

"I guess they bought them in my name because they planned to leave them," Seiler said, "but what in the world would a burglar do with a carpenter's level?"

Chaplains, Civilian Churchmen Open Crusade Among Servicemen

FORT MONMOUTH, N.J. (AP)—Civilian teams of Protestant ministers are carrying the gospel to the words of the militant Christians' old song rang out from hundreds of soldiers' throats here last night and reverberated among the steel girders.

A choir, seated in the bleachers of the big fieldhouse, joined in. And thus began a five-day series of religious services—one of the first moves in a major drive developing throughout the country to bolster the serviceman's spiritual defense.

It is a campaign—sponsored by the General Commission on Chaplains and the National Council of Churches—to convince him that "Christ is the Answer," theme of the preaching mission.

Some of the biggest names in Protestantism are participating. The military and President Truman are backing the program.

The first service at this Signal Corps center brought some 1,100 soldiers and their families—including Maj. Gen. Kirke B. Lawton, commanding general—into the post fieldhouse—where a makeshift altar was raised in front of a picture of Christ.

They sang, received literature and heard a sermon from the Rev. Samuel Shoemaker, rector of Calvary Episcopal Church, New York.

Lawton—a former congregationalist turned Catholic—told the crowd he wanted the meetings to result in camp chapels being "crowded like shoeboxes."

Those converted to Christianity will be given a minimum of six weeks of instruction and then advised to join a church of their own.

Both Bartholomew and Dr. Shoemaker pictured Christianity as a direct foe of communism.

Said the chaplain: "The communist educates his people in communism. We educate our people in moral ethics."

Dr. Shoemaker called for "a war of kindness" and "good will ambassadors" to keep Asia from going communist.

Statewide Vote On Liquor Issue Favored By Olive

LEXINGTON —(AP)—The new Democratic candidate in the race for the Democratic nomination for governor of North Carolina stands for a state-wide referendum on the liquor question.

"I am a Democrat and believe in the will of the majority," said former Superior Court Judge Hubert Ethridge Olive yesterday.

In announcing his candidacy for governor, the 56-year-old Lexington lawyer and Baptist leader revealed a 10-point program that will be the keystone of his campaign.

The program advocates: the liquor referendum, a continuation of the school building program, care for the mentally ill, opposition to new taxes, support of the farm electrification and rural telephone programs, better roads, vigorous highway safety program, promotion of natural resources and equal justice.

Olive, a former soldier and jurist, is the fourth Democrat to announce. Already in the field are former U. S. Sen. William B. Umstead of Durham, former State Rep. Ernest Gardner of Shelby and Manley Dunaway of Charlotte.

The white-haired past commander of North Carolina's American Legionnaires is well versed in politics. In 1936 he managed Clyde Hoey's successful campaign for governor. From 1947 to 1949 he served as chairman of the State Board of Election on appointment of Gov. Gregg Cherry. And in 1933 he represented Davidson County in the state House of Representatives.

Following his appointment by Gov. Hoey in 1937, Olive served 10 years on the Superior Court bench. He has been a Baptist lay leader for 32 years and is chairman of the trustees of Wake Forest College. In that role he headed fund-raising efforts for money to move the Baptist college from Wake County to Winston-Salem.

"I am a resident of a western county," Olive said in his announcement, "and running for governor in accordance with the custom of rotation between east and west that has served our party well since (Gov.) Aycock." The only "easterner" to announce for governor to date has been Umstead of Durham County.

Long Family At Political Odds

NEW ORLEANS —(AP)—Louisiana, where politics is as hot as its cajun pepper sauce, chooses among nine Democratic candidates for governor today—a record field competing for the favor of a record 981,000 registered voters.

Gov. Earl K. Long, brother of the late Sen. Huey P. Long, is backing one candidate. His nephew, Sen. Russell Long (D-La.), Huey's son, is backing another. Seven other candidates seek to beat both of them.

Governor Long is supporting his picked candidate, former State District Judge Carlos Spah of Baton Rouge. The constitution prohibits the governor from succeeding himself for a second four-year term.

Sen. Long is supporting Rep. Hale Boggs (D-La.) of New Orleans, for many years a foe of the Longs.

Other Democratic candidates include: Kermit Parker, a New Orleans pharmacist and the first Negro to seek the governorship since reconstruction days.

Three bodies were taken from the wreckage after the PB4-Y2 Privateer, with two engines dead, crashed and burned in a dry rice paddy. Nine others were recovered today. Names were withheld.

Surprised

NASHVILLE, Ark.—(AP)—A surprised, 38-year-old farm wife who was expecting twins gave birth to quadruplets last night.

The babies, three boys and a girl, were born to Mrs. Haggai Ponder, the mother of eight other children, at her small farm house 2 1/2 miles north of Murfreesboro, Ark., 20 miles from Nashville.

The first child arrived at 7:10 p.m. (CST). The others followed at 7:15, 7:30 and 7:45.

Dr. M. D. Duncan, who was with Mrs. Ponder at the time, said the mother was doing nicely.

Dr. Duncan said he was just as surprised as the mother. He also was looking for twins.

The Ponders have been married 21 years. Their other children range in age from 2 to 18.

Legion Meets In New Club Room

Pitt County Post, No. 39, American Legion, will meet tonight in its new recreation and club room on the second floor of the Legion Home, Commander Lester E. Turnage, Jr., will preside.

The post recently leased the dining room and all of its facilities to Mrs. W. G. Rush, who had managed the dining room since it was established several years ago.

The second floor of the building has been rearranged and provided with facilities for a lounge and club room for legionnaires. Legion meetings heretofore held on the main floor will be held upstairs. Supper, always served "Dutch treat," at the post's monthly meetings, will continue to be served downstairs.

Post Commander Turnage has been re-elected legionnaire about the Red Cross blood bank. Legionnaire Tom Wilson is chairman of the post's Blood Bank Committee.

Plans are now under way for a drive to obtain 150 new members early this year, Turnage said.

U.S. Highways Said Not Able Stand War Effort

WASHINGTON —(AP)—The nation's highways "simply can not stand the beating of another all-out war effort," a highway expert said today.

"Our highways must not be allowed to become expendable again as they were in the last war," declared T. J. Kauer, Ohio's highway director.

"During World War II," he said, "it became patriotic for truckers to pile unprecedented loads on their vehicles to keep the materials of war flowing."

"The result was that our roads, never built to carry such weight, came out of the conflict literally broken to pieces."

Kauer made his statement as chairman of an 11-state inter-regional council on highway transportation. The council will meet concurrently with a four-day session of the Highway Research Board opening today.

The 900 traffic engineers, technicians and road officials are dealing with highway construction, maintenance and traffic problems. The board operates under the National Academy of Science.

The group planned to discuss today a scientific study made of wear and tear on Maryland roads during the last six months of 1950.

Kauer said the Maryland test confirmed theories that heavy loads, as well as weather, were prime factors in road damage.

Kauer recommended an 18,000-pound axle limit for U. S. roads—the same limit suggested by the American Association of State Highway Officials. He said that section of the Maryland test road which carried no more than 18,000 pound single axle loads showed the least damage.

During the six months, eight trucks bearing varying loads rolled over the test road—1.1 miles of U. S. Route 301 near La Plata, Md. They kept going seven days a week around the clock and in all weather. Since the tests ended, Bureau of Public Roads engineers have been studying what happened to soil under the pavement and stresses on the pavement itself.

Bottle Of Beer May Cost More

WASHINGTON (AP)—A bottle of your favorite beer may cost a penny or two more after Jan. 28.

The Office of Price Stabilization (OPS) issued an order last night permitting brewers, wholesalers and retailers to adjust prices of all malt beverages. Tables specify the exact increases but OPS said they will average about one cent for a 12-ounce bottle or can of beer or ale.

The OPS order said the increases were order d to reflect higher federal taxes and costs of raw materials, containers and labor.

FISH TOO CURIOUS

BRUN /OK, Me. —(UP)—Laurer A. Pinette, a coastal diver, says the only codfish he wants to see are those in the frying pan.

Pinette is fed up with "that most inquisitive fish." He says they keep butting up against his steel helmet to look inside the glass plate and cruise around the small openings in his suit to gobble up the escaping oxygen.

Biggest Year In Postal Receipts

AYDEN—Receipts of the Ayden post office during 1951 reached the highest point in the history of the office, as gross receipts totaled $16,532.14.

The information on the past year's receipts of the post office were released today by Postmaster W. C. Ormond.

The Ayden postal receipts for the past year were $1,678.61 higher than in 1950 when total receipts reached $14,853.53. The 1951 receipts of the post office were $1,066.55 higher than in 1949, the previously high year for the post office.

In the December quarter of 1951 the Ayden post office grossed the largest receipts in any quarter in its history, according to Postmaster Ormond. Receipts for the quarter totaled $4,835.84 compared with receipts of $4,835.84 for the same quarter of 1950. The office has shown a steady growth in receipts since 1938, with the exception of 1946 immediately following the close of World War II.

War Toys Are No Menace Declares Child Expert

CHICAGO —(UP)—War toys do not make children unduly aggressive but merely offer a "healthy substitute for the real thing," according to a prominent pediatrician.

Dr. Martin L. Reymert, director of the Mooseheart, Ill., laboratory for child research, wrote in the Rotarian Magazine that "aggression and physical combat in childhood, whether actual or merely symbolic, are not only natural but almost inevitable."

Reymert said that after years of studying children and their play habits, he has "yet to experience one single case in which a militaristic attitude could be traced to combat toys."

Glass Fronts On Taverns Ordered

HENRYETTA, Okla. —(UP)—Henryetta tavern and pool hall owners have been ordered to install "picture windows" in their establishments so the public can see what's going on inside.

The city council passed an ordinance requiring the glass fronts after Police Chief Tom Lidell was knocked unconscious and hospitalized after walking into a Main Street tavern.

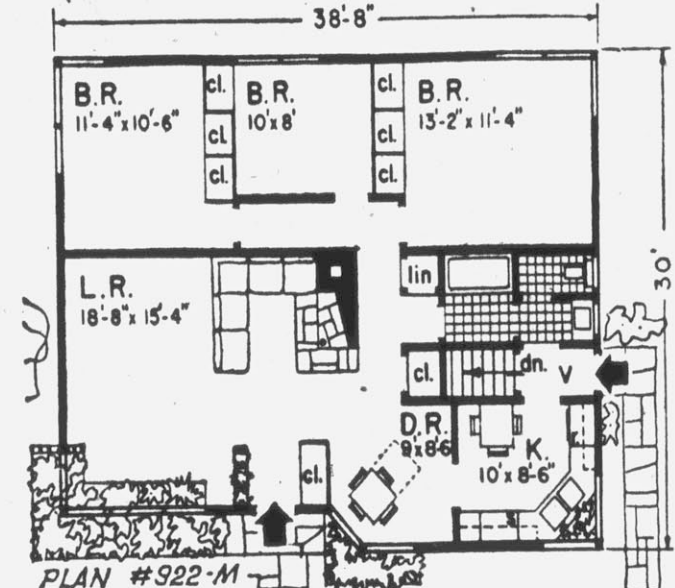

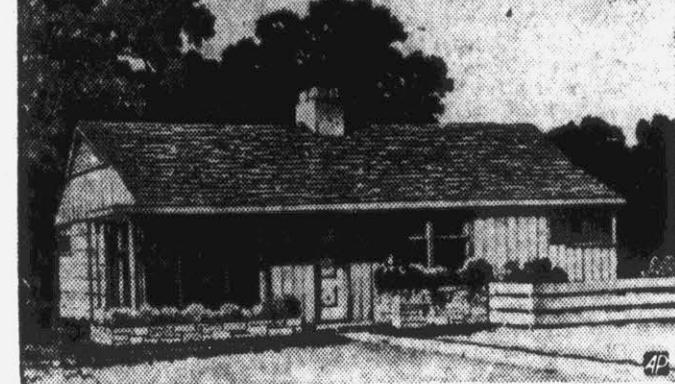

"We want to know what's going on in there," Lidell said. "If they are not ashamed of what they're doing, they'll co-operate with us."

$9.95

Business Today

The number of new housing units to be built this year is one of the most puzzling equations of the economic outlook. It is certain that there will be fewer than the 1,000,000 units started last year, but the question of how many fewer runs off into confusion compounded.

The government's goal, set last year, was 850,000. But Production man told Congress that increased need of steel, copper and aluminum will bring such sharp cuts in allocations of these materials for homes that only 660,000 will be started.

The same day President Truman told Congress, "We must move right ahead this year to see that defense workers and soldiers' families get decent housing at rents they can afford to pay."

The two statements are not necessarily inconsistent. The government has power to divert materials available to housing for defense workers and military personnel. Meanwhile, W. P. Atkinson, president of the National Association of Home Builders, predicted that housing starts would be around 800,000 for a different reason: the shortage of mortgage funds for Veterans Administration and Federal Housing Administration housing.

Mortgage money at 4 per cent interest is scarce. This is one of the anomalies of our time, since savings are piling up faster than ever before. The answer lies in the fact that lending institutions can get better rates. Building and loan associations are paying as high as 3 1/2 per cent to depositors; at that rate they cannot afford to lend at 4 per cent nor do they have to. There are takers at 5 per cent.

At the same time, non-metallic buildings materials are backing up. Lumber stocks are high. Plywood dropped from $97 to $75 a thousand feet in December. Cement stocks are heavy. Some plumbing equipment makers are overstocked. But while houses can be built without steel girders, they can't be built without copper and brass.

SOME RAYS OF HOPE FOR FURNITURE TRADE
The probable reduction in new housing units this year creates a serious problem for the furniture industry. One of the important factors sustaining a high level of sales has been the home-building boom since the war.

The industry has one consolation. Many of the post-war homes have been furnished on a partially temporary basis. Hundreds of thousands of families, stressed to make down payments and other initial costs, borrowed old furniture or bought low-priced goods with the idea of gradually replacing it later with quality furniture when their financial position eased. Promotions directed to these families should help sell quality furniture this year. Trade-in offers may help.

The great movement of families to defense and military areas may help sell low-end furniture. Many families will find it cheaper to buy inexpensive furniture than to ship old possessions when they move into that housing. Mr. Truman was talking about and into other homes in those areas.

HESS POPE UP AGAIN, NOW WITH A BOOK
This fellow Max Hess, Jr., keeps popping up everywhere. The success of his Allentown, Pa., department store—which every once in a while "raids" the New York market with large ads offering bargains by mail—keeps getting him written up in the magazines. He is a frequent speaker at national conventions, where he has a way of saying things that gain headlines. His versatility in Design contest, for which awards will be made next week, interests both consumers and manufacturers.

Now he has written a book. It is "Every Dollar Counts," published by Fairchild, New York, at $2.50. It's a good behind-the-store operation, in which he stints no credits to his staff or other stores. Customers can find a lot of facts about store operation (most chipped china is just thrown away) and a lot of facts about themselves.

Next we expect some gallery to announce a show of oil painting by Max Hess, Jr.

LITTLE SALES BOON
That new G. I. insurance dividend will not be such a boon to merchants as were the special dividends in 1948 and 1950. The specials ran into billions; the new one starting in March will be $200,000,000. Furthermore, the Veterans Administration will suggest that the dividends be allowed to accumulate at 3 per cent interest, or that they be applied against future premiums. However, vets can have the cash if they wish.

Hal Boyle's Column

By ED CREAGH (FOR HAL BOYLE)
WASHINGTON—(AP)— Angry at your wife—or husband? Thinking of going home to mother—or father? Convinced, after giving it a fair trial, that you plucked a permisson in the garden of love?

Wait, friend. There's hope for you yet. An easy-as-pie new formula, just published in "This Week" magazine, tells how you can put the magic back into your marriage—if you live.

The secret: lose weight. Not just a few pounds from around the hips. Lots of weight. Pounds and pounds. Get to be scrawny, in fact. Thin down to the point where you'll have to walk past twice to cast a shadow.

This is the conclusion to be drawn from a survey called "Predicting Success or Failure in Marriage," by E. W. Burgess and L. S. Cottell Jr. They make no bones about it: skinny bony people have happier marriages than their better-padded neighbors.

The happiest husbands and wives, say the authors, are likely to be 15 pounds or more underweight, which seems to show once and for all that malnutrition does more than psychiatry can to justify woman's ways to man.

Well, maybe. But it doesn't work out that way among the people in our neighborhood.

It may be just coincidence, but the only couple within three blocks who regularly slug it out at the drop of an insult are thin, pale people who—in the opinion of their friends—would get along much better if they had a little beef on their bones.

And the most contented couple, on the other hand, are a man with a Charles Laughton figure and a woman with the approximate girth of a beach cabana. They hold hands in public, after 15 years of marriage, and they don't care who sees them.

The wife in this case started worrying about her weight, a few years back, and went on a diet. Ate nothing but bananas and steak, or some such nonsense. She lost weight, all right. But she also lost her good disposition.

One night, watching her husband tie into the potatoes and gravy, she threw a salt shaker at him. He was so outraged that for the first time in his life, he went out and got loaded. When he came home, she wouldn't let him in.

He went to a hotel, phoned a lawyer, and it looked like the end of their romance. But his wife ate a couple of cream puffs, to soothe her nerves, and felt so much better that she went downtown and apologized to her husband. They went on a second honeymoon and there hasn't been a cross word in at 177 today. A gain of nine pounds since Christmas.

No, starvation doesn't really seem to settle the problem of man-and-wife discord.

Not Selling Anything, This Time

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

Operation Television is under-way! If everything goes according to plan, Greenville will have a television station in operation before the year 1952 is rung out! Naturally there are a few "ifs" to be worked out. The first big "if" concerns raising the necessary $300,000. A substantial amount of the money has already been committed, but there is still a long way to go.

Champion of the drive for TV, Hartwell Campbell, has solicited the help of eight salesmen that I know of, and probably more that I cannot name at the present who have joined in since this writing. The eight I can name now are Cliff Taff, George Wilkerson, R. O. Everett, Lester Turnage, Allen Powell, Jimmy Smith, Ben Rouse, and Jack Edwards. That last name is mine. To be fair, I had to name others, but if you want stock, see me.

For extra incentive, Hartwell is having a contest to see who can sell the most stock. Frankly, I'm gunning for that prize and would appreciate your calling me. But by all means, call one of us. We are accepting orders for as little as one share, for $10.

In buying stock you put up a deposit of 5 per cent and pay the remainder later, probably in June when the FCC gives a permit for construction. If you want as little as one share, I'll be happy to take your order, but my plan is to talk in terms of $100 per family, or ten shares.

Look at it this way: If you already own a TV set, the entertainment you will gain by having crystal-clear reception seven days a week will be worth the money. If you do not own a set but plan to buy one when the reception improves, you will save approximately $100 by the location of a station in Greenville, simply because you will not have to buy a booster, antenna, or pay the installation charge.

You could look at this project with the idea of the good it will do Greenville, and it would be worth at least $100 by way of a contribution! But hold on! TV is a good, sound investment. TV stock will pay dividends, plus the money it will save on sets, plus the great entertainment that will be at our fingertips.

Frankly, I believe in this project. Any station in the country will sell today for three times its cost. If you want to see my enthusiasm in action, call me up and I'll give you an in-person demonstration. But naturally I'll expect to sell you stock in one of the biggest opportunities Greenville has ever had!

And I'll thank you.

Around Capitol Square

Reflector Bureau By LYNN NISBET Ann. Afternoon Daily

EISENHOWER—Although phrased in easy language the statement issued the other day by General Eisenhower about his willingness to accept the Republican nomination for president is generally accepted as announcement of his candidacy. General Ike said he would not seek the nomination, but would accept it. That is a lot of poppycock. He either is a candidate or he is not, and his statement indicates that he is. And anybody at all familiar with political campaigns knows that something more than mere expression of willingness to be drafted is necessary for a successful campaign. Oldtimers who used to read the Dickens novels will recall that Bachelor Barcus did not rest after saying one time he was willing, but day after day he waged an intensive campaign for the affections of his chosen lady by constant repetition of "Barcus is willing."

DRAFT—There have been times when candidates for vice president were "drafted"—and two of them became president, Calvin Coolidge and Harry Truman. Nearest approach to a draft for a presidential candidate of either major party (with any remote hope of election) was when Warren Harding was nominated by the Republicans in 1920. Eisenhower might get the Republican nomination this year over Taft and Warren and Stassen, but he will not get it by sitting back and saying "Ike is willing" just one time. Kefauver or Vinson or somebody might get the Democratic nomination over Truman, but none of them will get it by sitting shyly in a corner and saying "If drafted, I will accept." Politics just don't work that way on national level, any more than some shrinking violet by name of Joe Dooker or John Doe can get the nomination for governor in North Carolina through processes of a draft movement. If they want to be president or governor they must say so, and give to the voters some of the reasons why they think they can do the job better than anybody else.

MILITARY—Another element operating against Eisenhower is the fact that he is a professional soldier. It is very probable that a majority of the presidents of the United States have had some military experience. Certainly George Washington had. So did Andrew Jackson and Zachary Taylor and U. S. Grant and Truman, and very probably several others. Because, despite our protestations about being a peaceful country, the United States has been engaged in war every few years since beginning of our independent status as a member of the nations of the world. But among all our presidents only Grant can properly be classified as a professional soldier—and even the Republicans would like to forget about his administration as president. By and large, the average voting citizens of the country want civilian rather than military administration of national government.

PROPHECY—Prediction is herewith made that if confronted with choice between efficient military and inefficient civilian administration of public affairs, the voters of the United States, especially those voting in North Carolina, will choose to continue the inadequacy and inefficiency of the present civilian administration rather than move over to the admittedly more efficient dictatorship of the military. That is because inherent in the nature of every American, of every North Carolinian, is basic belief that the people have a right to govern themselves, however inadequately that government may stress and national peril they are willing to surrender that right temporarily, but only temporarily. They don't mind giving time-limited authority as a dictator to a civilian, but they buck at giving a confirmed militarist such complete power over their everyday normal activities. That is the way most of those with whom your reporter has talked feel about the matter. There are a few who think Eisenhower can win, still fewer who frankly say they will vote for him if given the chance.

CONGRESS—Meanwhile, reports reaching Raleigh indicate there will be a real race for congress in the twelfth district, where a vacancy occurs by reason of voluntary retirement of Rep. Monroe Redden. Richard Queen of Waynesville, Irvin Crawford and Frank Parker of Asheville, and A. A. Rice of Sylva have announced for the office—and rumor has it that George Shuford and Scott Dillingham of Asheville may get into the fray any time now. Queen was secretary to

YOUR STAKE IN THE DOLLAR (New Bern Sun-Journal)
With a record amount of life insurance in their name, the American people have everything at stake in the United States dollar.

Figures show that our population of 155,000,000 owns 200,000,000 life policies or seven major types. The aggregate value is $234,000,000,000. This can only mean that the great bulk of the people have placed their faith in the security of the American dollar. And yet the government continues to devalue the dollar through uncontrolled spending. In the six years which ended with 1951, the Federal government collected more money by taxes by $8,400,000,000 than it collected in the entire previous history of the country. And the public debt reached $267,000,000,000.

Then, as if this strain were not enough on the stability of the dollar, the situation is made more perilous by the government's spending billions of dollars on socialistic ventures in direct opposition to high-taxes private industry. This socialization has gained such momentum in the United States that it is no longer considered an incidental expense of government. The cost, direct and indirect, is a substantial part of today's huge budgets.

The government can not go on socializing taxable industry and business, and spending so excessively, without destroying private enterprise and the savings of the people.

Many local residents looked forward this morning to seeing what comment the Raleigh News and Observer would have regarding the start of construction on the Roanoke Rapids Dam.

Realizing that the Fair Deal newspaper has strongly opposed construction of the dam all along, and that they are committed to the principles of public power, there was curiosity as to how they would greet the announcement which went out on the wire services yesterday.

Curiously, the paper didn't comment at all. It didn't even carry the story. It apparently didn't consider that the construction of the dam was important enough to Easter North Carolina to warrant a routine news story.

the naval and air force power could be brought into the action, but if this were done would it be under the auspices of the U. S. or the U. N.?

The Chinese threat in Southeast Asia is a great deal more important to Anglo-American security than the drab Korean peninsula. The British and French in that area have a vast supply of raw materials which are important to the economy of the West in times of peace, and doubly important in times of war. If this source of raw materials were cut off, it would be a terrific blow to the Western Powers. The major source of vital materials for Europe would have been cut off, and these nations would look to the United States to fill in the gap caused by the shortages of these raw materials. The United States, however, would not be able to fill the gap.

In Southeast Asia the Communists are seeking new treasures in raw war materials which are vital to the West. The West is fully aware that it can not sit by and let the treasures of Southeast Asia fall to the Communists by default.

Reports indicate the French may be on their last leg in Indochina, and in the face of a threatened Chinese Communist invasion, the French may do the same thing the British did in Greece. . . . Just tell Uncle Sam they can not carry the load; and if the valuable piece of the world's real estate is to remain in Western hands, the United States must protect it by taking over the whole show.

Directly the United States may have no interest in Southeast Asia, but it does have a great interest in the vital raw materials which come from that section. The situation is fast approaching the crisis in which we must fight to protect this storehouse, or allow the Communists to take over a vast supply of raw materials which the West will sorely need in the future.

National Whirligig

WASHINGTON—No American President in recent years has had more unfortunate relations with the press group at Washington, which includes more than a thousand newspaper men and women, than Harry S. Truman.

This is not a shop-talk article, for newspapermen have a prejudice against inflicting their troubles on their readers. It is, on the contrary, a matter of some moment because the American people get to know their headman, his personality and his policies through reporters' day-by-day contact with him and his agents, including Theron Lamar Gaudin.

Therefore, it becomes a grave problem when an American President, in defiance of all democratic principles, becomes so openly hostile to an avenue of public information that he issues a "security order" designed to kill off the flow of news to which the people should have right of access. After all, it is the people who elect and finance their temporary administrators.

DANGEROUS—Mr. Truman contends that his "security order," which applies to all the ordinary agencies of government, was designed to protect the national interest and welfare. Based on a Yale University report which he never dared to make public, he charged that the newspapers had revealed many "military secrets."

With a few dubious exceptions, the record of suppression and non-publication of dangerous information during World Wars I and II refutes that politico-academic conclusion completely. It is probable that the professors of my Rickmanized Alma Mater, in their lectures and writings, peddled more harmful stuff than Washington reporters ever did. Certainly my classmate, Dean Acheson, did when he told Moscow we had no interest in Korea.

Now, after a few months' trial, it can be reported that Mr. Truman's shut-down decree has frightened major and minor government officials so utterly that they will not discuss the most routine questions with well-known and friendly newspapermen.

The American people's access to news affecting their daily welfare and future prospects is choked completely. Worse still, what information they get has a Truman tinge.

RESPONSIBLE—It can now be revealed that the two persons responsible for Mr. Truman issuing this anti-information fiat are Mrs. Anna Rosenberg, Assistant Secretary of Defense in charge of manpower, and Joe Short, who quit the Baltimore Sun to become White House press representative on the death of the beloved "Charley" Ross, Mr. Truman's old friend and high school classmate.

Mrs. Rosenberg is the more blameworthy of the two, according to officials and reliable newspapermen who "cover" the Pentagon Building and White House regularly. She resented newspaper reporting of charges made against her when she was up for confirmation, although the criticism took the form of written statements which correspondents knew they had to report.

To the chagrin of her colleagues at Pentagon, she urged Congress to make a sharp cut in the Defense Department's appropriation for its field and its Washington publicity bureau. She operates on the theory that all publicity except official handouts is bad.

SENSITIVE—Mr. Short's predicament is peculiar. In the first instance, he is a highly sensitive and temperamental individual, which are hardly the qualifications for a man in such a difficult spot as presidential press secretary. He is also a Mississippi Democrat.

Unlike the late "Steve" Early and "Charley" Ross, Mr. Short had not been a close, personal and long-time friend of President Truman. "Joe" has to bow and scrape and obey, whereas "Steve" and "Charley" were never afraid to lecture their respective presidential bosses when they thought Franklin D. Roosevelt or Truman were making mistakes. The late Mr. Ross, for instance, would have stopped the issuance of Truman's "security order."

But "Joe," according to internal evidence, favored and urged its proclamation. He does not deny it.

ATTITUDE—Mr. Short's general attitude is best described in the words of an editor who was a member of the editorial group which discussed the "security order" with President Truman some weeks ago. It suggests that "Joe" normally a likeable individual, has become a political deviate instead of a purveyor of information.

"The most significant thing that came out of the conference with the President and Joe Short," says this editor of a highly influential newspaper, "was Short's chip-on-the-shoulder attitude toward the press in general."

It was obvious that Short had been a primary author of the security order, and was jealous of his authorship. He was almost defiant in this challenge to anyone to draft a better order.

SENSE—Some of the Short terminology and attitude also appeared in the President's subsequent letter to Herb Corn, managing editor of The Washington Star. There a few days later, Short took type-writer in hand again, and went after Sigma Delta Chi, the newspaper fraternity which criticized this attempt to control the flow of news.

Unfortunately, and sadly, because he used to be a "swell guy," my independent investigation supports this editorial comment. Joe's job and Mississippi democracy have got the better of his erstwhile good newspaper sense. What Truman needs these days is a "no" instead of a "yes" man.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLAS
HE COULD TAKE IT OR LEAVE IT ALONE
Old Hank died yesterday. He will be buried in a day or two in potters' field. Ten years ago he had charge of a large office force; ten years before that he was a promising middle-aged man preening on to bigger things. In his youth his family regarded him with pride, and all who knew him were confident that he would make a great success of life.

But one little weakness killed him—he couldn't let her alone. He finally died of cancer. A small growth a quarter the size of a pea grew into a fatal tumor which finally took his life. The drinking habit grew on him the same way. He was temperate as a young man, and fairly temperate as a middle-aged man. But as he went into the 50's and experienced a few business reverses, the habit grew. The cancer on his character, so small that he paid no attention to it in earlier years, now grew into a great thing that brought him at last to an ignominious end.

And it all could have been avoided. That is the tragedy of such stories. No one needs to get started on that downward path if he will just exercise enough self-control to go the way of wholesome living in spite of the fact that his companions choose the broad highway of indulgence. He could have avoided it all if he had let the stuff alone. The tragedy of Old Hank's undoing was that it constituted a pathetic waste of human energy which never needed to take place.

Flying Colors On The First Test

Pitt County citizens have responded in large numbers to the request for blood donations to be used locally and for servicemen overseas.

Blood truly is one of the most critically short items in the present national emergency, but the citizens of Pitt County indicated today they are willing to share their life's blood to help save the lives of their fellow citizens.

The bloodmobile made its first visit to Pitt County and it was apparent the county would have little difficulty meeting its quota of 150 pints of blood. Approximately 200 Greenville people indicated their willingness to help meet the blood quota today.

The bloodmobile program in Pitt County is off to a good start, but today's donations of blood marked only the beginning of the operation of the unit in this county. The bloodmobile will make other visits to Pitt County in the coming months in quest of blood which will be used to save the lives of Americans at home and on the battlefronts. The Reflector sincerely hopes the response to the first visit of the bloodmobile was not good just because of the novelty of the project here in Pitt County.

The county met its first test with flying colors, but it is equally important that Pitt County continues to meet its blood donation quota during the coming months of 1952.

A New Theatre Of War With Communists

The threat of war in Indochina looms as more of a probability than most Americans realize. War with the Communists in this new section of Southeast Asia is an eventuality we hope will not develop, but it is one which has moved from the realm of possibility into the realm of probability.

Reports from inside Red China say the Communists are massing large numbers of troops and great quantities of material at the South China bases in preparation for a push into Indochina, and perhaps into Thailand, Burma and the Federation of Malaya.

The French have been fighting the Communists in Indochina since the end of World War II, and have more than 200,000 French and colonial troops tied up in the action there. The French have suggested strongly that the United States and Britain enter the struggle in Indochina, but so far the support has been limited principally to materials.

Churchill and Truman talked the Indochina problem at length during their recent conference, but still unanswered is the extent of United States aid should the Red Chinese launch a full scale invasion of Indochina. So far popular impression is that U. S. aid would be limited to weapons and supplies . . . but that is what we have been doing for several years. It is possible that

Navy Carrier-Building Points Up Old Quarrel

By ELTON C. FAY
Associated Press Military Affairs Reporter

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Navy's plan to build a ten-ship fleet of supercarriers, some of them nuclear powered, points up a sharply renewed quarrel among the services over atomic age weapons.

Involved in varying degrees are all three of the armed forces—Navy, Air Force and Army. And the issues include not only atomic-powered ships, submarines and airplanes, but guided missiles as well.

Entirely reliable and neutral sources outside the Pentagon disclosed an incident today which shows the revival of rivalry evident three years ago in the violent controversy between the Navy and Air Force over the B-36 bomber and the originally planned supercarrier.

Confirmed by Pentagon officials who also insisted they not be identified, the incident was described in this manner:

The Air Forces' member on the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Gen. Hoyt Vandenberg, sought over a period of a year and a half and in a dozen meetings of the group to get JCS approval of the USAF's request to build the big airplane needed eventually for testing an atomic power plant.

Vandenberg's effort was blocked at each session in which he attempted to get an approving vote.

Meanwhile, the Navy was pushing for authority to go ahead with construction of a hull for its atomic-powered submarine project. A JCS go-ahead was given the Air Force for the nuclear-engineered airframe only after there was threat of intervention by a government quarter outside the Defense Department.

Few Vets Attend Bonus Plan Rally

CHARLOTTE (AP)—Only seven veterans showed up for a meeting here last night sponsored by supporters of a bonus plan for North Carolina veterans of World War II.

Poor advance publicity was blamed for the lack of attendance by Andrew Delvescove of Burlington and state Sen. Thomas Sawyer of Durham. Both expressed disappointment at the lack of interest.

Sawyer said they would return to Charlotte next Thursday night to hold a second meeting. The proposed bonus plan would pay a maximum of $500 for domestic duty and $750 for overseas duty.

The Navy Department announced last Aug. 21 award of contract to the Electric Boat Company for building the atomic submarine hull. The Air Force announced on Sept. 5 a contract with Consolidated Vultee Aircraft Corporation for building the atomic-powered airplane.

In some aviation quarters there was suspicion that the Navy had help from the Army in the JCS maneuvering, the trading point for the Army being guided missiles.

But the issue is sharper between the Air Force and Army because both services have entered the tactical (battlefield use) portion of the program. The Army has done developmental work and formed a guided missile ground unit since the end of World War II. The Air Force moved into the field last fall with an announcement that it was putting a tactical guided missile, the Matador, into production.

The issue between the Air Force and Navy is almost entirely in the area of strategic warfare—the bombardment of an enemy's war-making industry and transportation system.

The Air Forces' member on the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Gen. Hoyt Vandenberg, sought over a period of a year and a half and in a dozen meetings of the group to get JCS approval of the USAF's request to build the big airplane needed eventually for testing an atomic power plant.

Vandenberg's effort was blocked at each session in which he attempted to get an approving vote.

Women In The Church

Women in the Church
By MARY FOWLER

Mrs. Francis B. Sayre, daughter of the late President Woodrow Wilson, and wife of the noted American ambassador, recently urged United Church Women (National Council) to study, understand, and support the work of the United Nations. She pointed out that the UN and its methods "prevented full-scale war from exploding out of tense situations," and mentioned specifically the situation in Iran, Palestine, Greece, and Kashmir.

High school students at the Methodist mission school at Callao, Peru, are the first to attend coeducational classes in Peru. Special permission for the experiment was granted by the Peruvian government, which is considering coeducation for public schools. With 500 students in the high school, the Callao mission also has a primary school which will continue temporarily to hold separate classes for boys and girls. The faculty includes Mr. and Mrs. Edwin T. Bower of Tucson, Arizona; the Reverend and Mrs. John Shappell, Philadelphia; Miss Elizabeth Miller, Philadelphia; Miss Ella Greve, Des Moines; Mrs. Frances Landis, Corning, Iowa; and John Carey

James, Wheeling, W. Va.

The refugee camps in Korea are "terrible beyond description," reports Miss Margaret Billingsley, Korea secretary of the Woman's Division of Christian Service, Methodist Church's Board of Missions, who recently visited mission stations and relief centers in that land. "We had had no Methodist property or mission work in the Pusan area," she said. "We have recently bought a Japanese-style house. The Woman's Division is purchasing a house for a community center and living quarters for workers. The Seminary has bought a Korean home which serves as offices and living quarters for faculty members and women students, and a barrack of two rooms has held there, men students sleep in these rooms, and thrown together they make the Seminary chapel. Ewha University has thirteen large and several small buildings on a terraced hillside in Pusan. They are built of board walls, tent roofs, and dirt floors. But 650 girls are happy to be able to study, and Dr. Helen Kim says, 'We will do the best we can.'"

Greenville Given Seven Days To Clear Up Big Debts

IS IT A FOUL? . . . Belvoir's Seber Cobb, one of the leaders for his team in their losing battle to Stokes last night, grabs an unidentified Stokes player by the arm in the hectic action which took place in the fourth quarter. Belvoir staged a comeback that saw the score tied with less than a minute to go, before Stokes connected on a field goal to win, 60-58. (Reflector Sports Photos by Roy Hardee).

Local Fans Must Compromise Debt

Coastal Plain League Retains Seven Clubs From Last Season; Greenville Prospects Look Favorable

GOLDSBORO—Prospects for the future of Greenville's franchise in the Coastal Plain Baseball League looked brighter today.

After the league meeting here last night, the Greenville club has seven days to clear up its outstanding debts in order to re-enter the league after dropping out during the latter part of last season.

Greenville has an undisclosed debt standing after the abrupt departure by the club owned by Roy Dissinger last season. Kelly Williams, owner of the Class D Virginia League entry of Colonial Heights-Petersburg, Va., has offered to put a club in Greenville and see that it goes through the season, providing the people of Greenville will compromise on the payment of the debt.

W. Z. Morton, Sr., one of the spokesmen for Greenville at the meeting last night and president of the Greenville club when Dissinger purchased the franchise, when asked about the compromise deal this morning, said:

"It could go through with a little effort and cooperation on the part of the Greenville fans. I do not know the exact amount that would have to be raised, but a few thousand dollars should do it."

Morton went on to say that right now it looked as if there was a good chance of raising the money needed by the Greenville citizens in order to help in the payment, as interest is running high among the fans. The money received would be in the form of a donation.

Ray Goodmon of Williamston, who had announced that he would not seek re-election as league president, was asked to continue in that capacity and the request was accepted. Goodmon expressed his personal opinion that the Greenville club would be willing to compromise. Guy V. Smith, past president of the Greenville team, was also on hand as a Greenville spokesman.

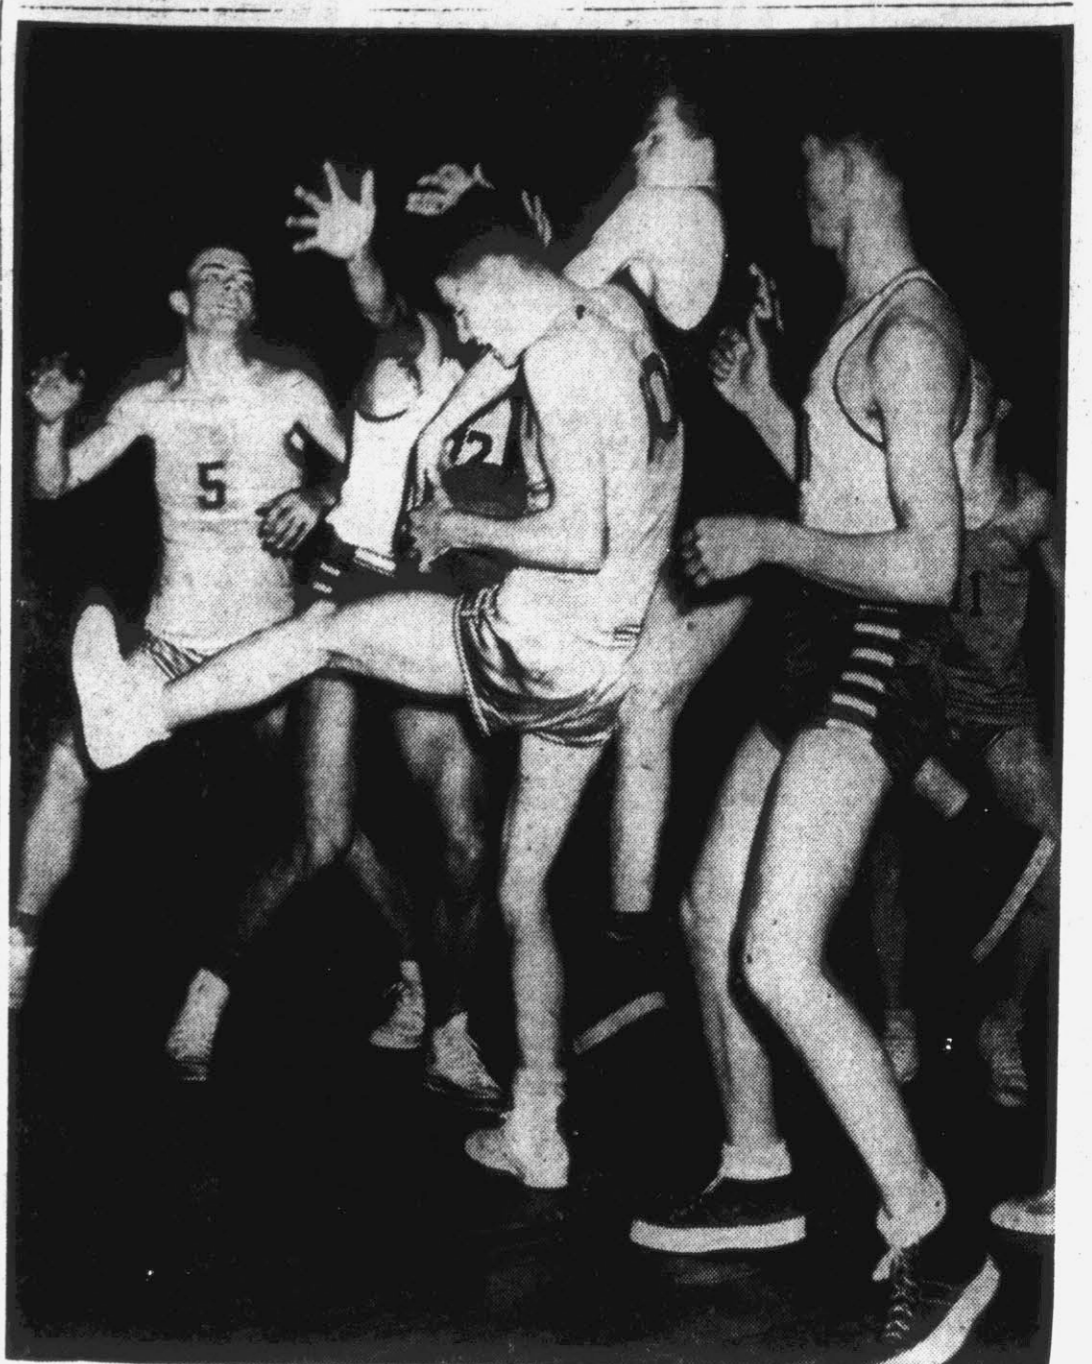

Tarboro, which was forced to drop out at the same time that Greenville did last year, was accepted for re-admission after a request had been made by Lewis Heilbroner, the Tarboro representative. Rocky Mount, which had announced its intentions of falling out several days ago, also stated last night that it would operate again in the league.

Seven clubs have assured the league of fielding a team this year, all of whom were participants last season. They are Kinston, Goldsboro, Wilson, Rocky Mount, Roanoke Rapids, New Bern, and Tarboro.

Goodmon said that it looked as if the league was certain of having eight clubs again, even if the Greenville fans did not respond. An application by Wilmington, member of the defunct Tobacco State League, was turned down by the league, which favors readmission by Greenville.

Billy McDowell of Elizabeth City officially filed an application for admission of that city Monday afternoon. Goodmon also said that Edenton was interested in a league franchise. Elizabeth City, Edenton, and Colonial Heights-Petersburg are all members of the Virginia League, which is expected to disband soon.

Admission prices for league games will be lowered this season for adults from 75 to 60 cents. The league also voted to have a 126-game slate.

THREE STOKES PLAYERS scramble for possession of the ball in last night's game at Belvoir, which saw Stokes stave off a Belvoir rally late in the game to win 60-58. That's Cecil Butler with his leg raised, while the others are Earl Butler (11), and Don James (32).

Belvoir Splits Two Games With Stokes High Cagers

By MELVIN LANG
Reflector Sports Writer

BELVOIR — Stokes High came from behind in the first quarter here last night, built up a substantial lead that soon passed by the wayside, and broke a last minute tie-score by dropping in a field goal with less than 40 seconds left in the ball game to beat Belvoir, 60-58.

Belvoir's lasses rolled to their 10th triumph of the year in the opening contest by walloping the Stokes team, 56-25, with the Belvoir reserves playing throughout the second half.

Leading 48-40 at the beginning of the final period, Stokes saw its lead cut to four points before a minute had elapsed as Robert Bright and Wyatt Meeks dropped in a field goal apiece for Belvoir. After four minutes of play, Stokes had increased its margin to five points, 56-51, but the Eagles went to work then in a successful attempt to throttle the visitors scoring.

While holding Stokes scoreless for over two minutes, Belvoir dumped five points to tie the count at 56-all with a minute and 45 seconds left to play. Wesley Whitehurst put Stokes ahead once again with floor shot, but Mac Dupree hit for Belvoir. Whitehurst won the game a few seconds later by hitting on a shot from the left of the circle.

Stokes' David Robertson took high scoring honors for the night with a total of 20 points, followed by teammate Donnie Cherry, who hit for 17 points before fouling out early in the fourth period. Earl Butler, Jack Warren and Mac James were outstanding leaders on defense for the winners.

The losing Eagles were led by Howard Bullock and Seber Cobb, each of whom scored 14 points. Wyatt Meeks dropped in nine points for the losers. Bullock was one of outstanding players of the night, as he consistently stole the ball from the Stokes players and set up several of the Belvoir shots. Billy Ross also was good on defense for the losers.

Girls' Game

Belvoir had no trouble in easily winning the girls' contest, 56-25. The winners jumped into a 12-3 lead at the close of the first period and were never threatened after that point.

Coach Ed Warren elected to play the majority of the second half with his reserves and they paid off by outwacing the Stokes team in every quarter.

Jean Jones led the winners scoring by hitting for 16 points. Claudia Pollard, who played for approximately two periods, finished second for the night with 13 points. Nell Dupree and Nadine Morris had nine and eight points respectively.

Stokes was paced by Jane Bullock with 14 points. The remainder of the scoring was spread out over four players.

Margie Pollard, Jean Tyson, and Nell Dupree led the defensive play for the winners, while the losing Stokes club was led by Frances Warren and Frances Meeks.

ECC Pep Rally

Final plans were made today for a big "Beat High Point" pep rally tonight at 6:15 in front of Wright Gymnasium. This is the first pep rally of the current basketball season.

Cheerleaders of the college will direct organized cheering and the East Carolina band will furnish music.

BALLET? . . . Nope, just a friendly tussle between Belvoir's Shelby Waters and Stokes' Frances Meeks during the contest between the two schools last night. Belvoir's defending Pitt County champions won the game, 56-25.

New Coach For Pittsburgh U.

PITTSBURGH — (AP) — The University of Pittsburgh has its fourth football coach in as many years today and Athletic Director Tom Hamilton says Lowell (Red) Dawson should provide the magic to help Pitt attain the gridiron glory it enjoyed more than a decade ago.

To no one's great surprise, Dawson was picked as Pitt gridiron boss yesterday. Under a three-year contract, the former backfield coach of the Michigan State Spartans probably will get between $12,000 and $15,000 a year.

Grimesland Gets Double Victory Over Bell Arthur

GRIMESLAND — Coach Joe Lupton's Grimesland Panthers ran to their fifth consecutive win by routing Arthur, 44-24, in the feature game of a twin-bill here last night. His Grimesland girls also won the opener 26-18.

Grimesland showed its form early in the game by taking an overwhelming 16-3 verdict in the first quarter of the boys game. The margin was never lower than 13 points after the opening minutes of the second quarter.

Roger Mills paved the way for the Panthers by scoring 12 points to take high scoring honors for both clubs. Teammate Bobby Andrews hit the nets for 10 points and teamed with Billy Boyd for defensive honors for the winners.

Arthur's cagers were led on offense by J. Nichols with 10 points, and K. Nichols with eight. Mazingo and R. Nichols led the defensive play for the losers.

Joyce Mazingo paced the winning Grimesland girls in the low-scoring opener by dropping in seven points. Nancy Buck was second for the winners with six points. Annie Laurie Taylor and Adrienne White were best on defense for Grimesland.

Arthur's scoring was led by B. Mazingo with eight and Crawford with six points respectively. C. Mazingo and Carroll Tyson were outstanding on defense.

Jack Lewis To Captain Deacons

WAKE FOREST — (AP) — End Jack Lewis of Birmingham, Ala. will captain the 1952 Wake Forest football team.

He was elected by his teammates at a banquet last night. Guard Clyde Pickard of Newport News, Va., was named alternate captain. Lewis, a junior, was the team's high scorer last season with 30 points. He was presented a trophy yesterday for being the most valuable player on the 1951 team.

Phantoms Seek Win Over Pack Tonight

Both teams will be looking for its second conference victory tonight in Washington's Army when the Greenville Phantoms tangle with Coach Bill Sweet's Washington High School Pam-Pack. The Pam-Pack will enter the game as slight favorites.

The Pam-Pack got its first North-eastern Conference win last Friday by nipping the Elizabeth City Yellow Jackets 47-28. The Phantoms were getting their first win the same night by swamping the New Bern Bears 70-42.

Dickie Cherry, the Pam-Pack's All-State football star, led the scoring for the Washington club against Elizabeth City by tossing in 18 points. Cherry was followed in the scoring by center John Hoyt with nine points.

Washington wasted very little time in building up a quick lead over the hapless Yellow Jackets and were never seriously threatened. Cherry was very much in command after the opening whistle and the twice-beaten Pam-Pack easily ran away. The victory was their fourth in six games for Sweet's team.

Sweet's starting team has Cherry and Edgar Woodard at the forwards, John Hoyt at center, and Bob Hacker and Bob Smith at the guards.

Coach Bo Farley of the Phantoms is expected to start Smith, Worthington and Leon Moore at the forwards, Wallace Conway at center, and Sonny Scott and Sidney Briley at the guards.

Comiskey Clan Is Again At Odds; 'Peace' Expected

CHICAGO — (AP) — The Comiskey baseball clan, having patched up family squabbles before, again is expected to smooth out its latest and most sensational outburst—the resignation of young Chuck Comiskey as vice president and secretary of the White Sox.

How it will be done remained a question today which could be answered by Chuck's mother, Grace R. Comiskey, president of the club, and the board of directors. Mrs. Comiskey has called a meeting of the board for Friday.

"I don't know what the youngster has in mind," said Mrs. Comiskey. "But we hope to sit down and get things straightened out Friday."

Fancy Play Bringing New Fame To Colored Clowns

NEW YORK — (AP) — The New York Broadway Colored Clowns may never take the place of Abe Saperstein's Harlem Globetrotters, who have played basketball in far-off places, but at least they're giving it a good try.

The Clowns, just back from a South America tour where they compiled 45 straight victories, now are touring New York State and New England. It's a young team with two campaigns under its belt.

Recently they put on such a display of ball handling wizardry in Boston's Garden that President Walter Brown invited them back for another date.

Clown owner-coach Charley Davidson has lined up a set of dates in the mid-west and late in January he'll take his Clowns to the coast, to tour that section. Plans are being formed for a spring trip to Hawaii.

When the Clowns recently won a game at Dunkirk, N. Y., it marked their 61 st victory in a row.

One of the features of the team is the half-time show put on by one Richard King, who is better known as King Tut. He has performed in some 300 baseball parks throughout the country and is just as adept on the basketball court.

Pirates Enter Last Stages Of High Point Preparations

A 20 minute scrimmage session yesterday was coupled with a long drill on fundamentals to set the East Carolina Pirates off on the final leg of their preparations for the High Point Panthers Wednesday night. The game will start at 8 p.m. in Wright Gymnasium following a preliminary game between two intramural teams of the college.

Coach Howard Porter of the Bucs appeared to be a little more optimistic about the team's chances even though the Bucs are tangling with the North State Conference's number one ball club. "We've got a lot of respect for High Point but we'll be up and ready for them Wednesday," Porter said yesterday.

"Even though they've played more games than we have, I think we'll be in top shape for the game," he added. The Pirates have been running at top speed in practice sessions since they came back from Christmas holidays. They had their first action since December 18 last Wednesday and lost to the semi-pro McCrary Eagles.

Various combinations of players have been getting workouts in the Pirates' drills for the last week. Yesterday, Porter had Sonny Russell, Bobby Hodges, Charlie Huffman, Paul Jones, and Toddy Pennell on one of the scrimmaging teams. Their opposition was furnished by Jack Carr, Lou Collier, Cecil Heath, Ritchie Blake, and Clarence Butler.

Changes on both teams were made frequently with every man getting a chance for considerable action in the 20-minute scrimmage session which was conducted as a regular game.

Porter hasn't signified any intentions of changing the starting lineup for Wednesday game. If no changes are made, then the first team will have Russell and Hodges at the forwards, Pennell at center, and Collier and Blake at the guards. This has been the starting team since the squad launched its conference schedule back in December.

The preliminary game will begin at 6:30 with two teams from the college's intramural leagues participating.

Golden Glovers Will Go Abroad

CHICAGO — (AP) — Golden Gloves boxing champions representing Chicago will campaign abroad this year for the first time, meeting the best amateurs of Ireland, France, West Germany and Italy.

Arch Ward, sports editor of the Chicago Tribune, announced last night that the International Amateur Boxing Association had invited the 1952 Chicago champions on the tour.

Ward is promoter of the Golden Gloves competition in Chicago. Europe's champions have appeared annually in Chicago since 1931, but this will be the first trip overseas for Chicago's team.

Don Rehfeldt of the Milwaukee Hawks in the NBA says that dancing lessons are prolonging his basketball career.

Chapter 8

"Tell me," Carol lowered her voice as best she could above the incessant hubbub of conversation that filled the room, making it sound like an active beehive—"Is Abbie actually going to marry him?"

"I've only been here a week," Marcia said. She thought that the safest reply.

"I really think it's a very good thing that you came on," Mrs. Douglas said. "Good for Abbie. It will rather cramp her style, having a sister so much younger. And as I said, if you're not as beautiful, my dear, Oh, there you are, Victor! Thank you so much, my pet!"

"It's too bad," Carol said, having taken quite a long sip of her, "that none of Abbie's pals are nearer your age. There's Priscilla Jones, but poor child, she's such an introvert. Lives entirely in a dream world."

"There's nothing wrong with Priscilla Jones," Mr. Scott objected, "except that she's shy. However, I assume she is enough younger than Miss Marcia not to be too compatible."

Right you are, Marcia thought. Priscilla Jones was sixteen. Marcia had not taken to her, either. Instead of being shy, she was at the ridiculous giggling stage. Not a serious thought in her head. Marcia was grateful to Victor Scott for realizing the incompatibility.

"Did I say there was anything wrong with her?" The arched eyebrows reproached him once more. "But what's really too, too bad is the shortage of young men. Eligible ones, I mean."

"There are always plenty of young men around Abigail," the man who hoped to marry her said. "There's Stanford and Cliff Travers, Manning and Dean..."

"That's exactly what I meant!" Carol interrupted. "You know, dar-

OLD WORLD COMES TO SURFACE—The Agora (market place) of ancient Athens is being restored by American Archaeological Institute. Tombs 3,500 years old were uncovered.

'Book Hospital' For Old Volumes

ROME (WAP)—A fast-building "book hospital" in Rome is attracting "precious patients" from all over the world.

The hospital is "The Institute of Book Pathology." The patients are ancient and rare books and parchments which have suffered accidents or are threatened by destructive book bacteria.

Mostly the damage to previous stores of old books and records in Italy during the war has been responsible for the growth of the institute, officials said. Many of the ancient documents saved from the Abbey of Monte Cassino were registered there.

The institute, founded in 1938, now boasts the most modern equipment. It can duplicate the parchment, the ink and printing and drying processes of centuries ago.

It has photoelectric equipment to detect "internal diseases" in books—the destructive bugs which in time could reduce a treasured volume to shreds. There is also a "gas chamber"—to destroy these book vermin.

Russians Settle In Kurile Islands

MOSCOW (AP)—Dispatches being received from the Kurile Islands—that lie between the Sea of Okhotsk and the Pacific—tell of the arrival and settlement of Soviet citizens there.

The Soviet state is reported to be giving the new settlers generous help in establishing themselves. They are said to receive loans in money, manufactured goods and timber.

In the last few months 32 fishermen's families have started up a new settlement on the islands of Iturup.

Magician's Act Is Too Realistic

SINGAPORE (AP)—Sorcar, the Indian magician, invited 20 persons to the stage to see his most prized act.

From a close range, they all swore that Sorcar cut off the tongue of a hypnotized assistant and replace it minutes later without any apparent ill effect on the subject.

The act was so convincing that three of the witnesses, all women, fainted.

Germans Rebuild Almost Half Of Ruined Bridges

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—More than 8,000 road and river bridges were demolished in West Germany during the last war, either by the Allies or by Hitler's retreating forces. Almost 4,000 have been reconstructed, including half of the 46 demolished Rhine bridges.

German firms, which carried on the vast reconstruction program, gained valuable experience which already has helped them to win big foreign orders.

One of the most recent contracts abroad is a bridge more than 1,500 feet long over a lake near Stockholm, Sweden. It's a new type of suspension span. The suspension pillars will divide instead of frame the driveway. The first such bridge, described as ideal for highway traffic, is to be ready next spring in the Ruhr.

Largest Importer From New Delhi

NEW DELHI (AP) The United States was the largest importer of goods from the Delhi airports October-November.

Out of a total export of $179,000, America's share totaled about 32 per cent, with Japan and the United Kingdom ranking next.

America mostly obtained through Delhi living animals, textiles, ivory manufactures and boots while it sent agricultural tractor parts, drugs and medicines, wearing apparel and radio tubes.

Scrap Metal Is Awaiting Takers

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP)—Ethiopia could provide thousands of tons of scrap iron for American blast furnaces. Transportation is one of the difficulties in getting it out of the country.

Piles of rusting scrap litter many places in Addis Ababa and other areas in the country—debris from the 1941 fighting between the Italians and British.

FAO To Teach Use Of Food As Well As Growing

ROME (AP) The Food and Agriculture Organization decided at its sixth world conference here that it isn't enough to teach pap how to grow more food.

You also have to teach mama how to cook it better.

The conference approved an enlarged program of home economic and nutrition instruction for 1952 and 1953, to be carried out by field experts particularly in the more backward countries.

This instruction will cover more than just how to cook. Cleanliness and health instruction will be included. The idea: not just to see that the world has food to eat, but that the food does its full jobs of providing nourishment and leading to better health.

Iowa Farm Land Costs More Than Past 30 Years

AMES, Ia. (AP)—An acre of Iowa's good dark farm soil costs more today than any time in the last 30 years.

Not since the 1920-21 land boom has the state's farm land commanded such high prices.

Iowa farms are now selling on the average for $212 an acre, W. G. Murray, head of the department of economics and sociology at Iowa State College reported today in his annual survey of farm land prices.

This is a $15 increase over last year's average acre price of $197. It is one more step upward in the steady climb of Iowa farm prices which started from a low of $69 an acre in 1933.

Too Many, And Too Few Pennies

NEW YORK (AP)—There was a scarcity of pennies in the United States in 1951 despite a double shift in operations by the Bureau of the Mint to meet demand. This caused rationing of pennies, as well as nickels and quarters by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York.

In contrast, Great Britain's Royal Mint was trying to get rid of some of their oversize pennies by buying up and retiring one million dollars worth. There are about two billion British pennies outstanding.

Oppressed Hungarians Deserve U.S. Sympathy Despite Deeds Of Leaders

By JOHN FIERST
Pressure continues on the State Department to find new ways of striking back at Red Hungary for its piratical treatment of our airmen.

Washington is as angry with Budapest as are "grass roots" citizens. Its reluctance to sever diplomatic relations, as a reprisal, has been based on a desire to keep open a listening-post and—even of more importance—to encourage the innocent Hungarian people.

Underground agents maintain that the mere presence of a United States embassy anywhere behind the Iron Curtain creates a "seed" of hope, assuring wretched captives that free America has not abandoned them.

The Hungarian people are not to blame for their government's hatred of America. In November, 1945, when a reasonably unfettered election was possible, only 17 per cent voted for Rakosi's party. In Europe's great liberal struggle in the 1948 period, the Magyars were described as the "torch-bearers of constitutional liberty."

Today they have lost their liberty. They need our sympathy and help. American fliers were incarcerated 40 days without contact with our consular service. The whole Hungarian nation for several years has been in an isolated dungeon and today has scant hope of release.

Production Lags In Hungary
Prosecution of non-Communists goes on. Because of world protest, it is reported that some of the worst cruelties to deportees have been mitigated slightly. But forced migration to farm and factory continues with attendant hardship and heartbreak.

Bone-weary industrial workers have begun to resist against long hours and sub-standard living conditions. As a result the production of iron, steel and coal has declined, threatening the Five Year Plan.

The Budapest moguls, worried lest Stalin blame them for lowered output, have been holding national conferences for foundry workers, miners, Communist party members and others, employing pep talks to spur greater efforts. But the hallyhoos failed to boost production.

Lately Deputy Premier Rakosi—the real boss of Hungary and Stalin's direct agent—and other Politburo members have made small fry managers the scapegoats for inability to root out absenteeism or to reach output quotas. "Up to now," complained Rakosi, "our comrades have only used discipline reluctantly and with kid gloves. They were afraid of becoming unpopular."

"This problem is one of the cankers of our coal production. Idlers, chatters and loafers must be branded. No tolerance, no passivity, no 'blind eye' must be shown to those who infringe working discipline."

He and Minister of Mines Czotner also announced that "extreme severity" would be in store for culprits.

Labor Shortages Acute
A special conference was held to urge women miners to set an example to male miners by digging more coal. In Hungary's biggest coal mine at Tata a higher production target was set. The men retaliated by organizing a slow-down strike.

In a desperate effort to break their resistance, the security police seized 80 miners, took them down into the deepest mine and shot them. When the next shift came to work, they were shown the bodies and warned that they, too, would be killed if they did not speed up.

MUSHROOMING AID FOR ALLIES— Supplies ranging from candy to two-ton artillery pieces fill Korean sky during air drop by Far East Air Force's Combat Cargo group.

The labor shortage is so great, heavy mobilization in the armed services, that able-bodied farmers are organized into forced labor groups and sent off without their consent to distant factories.

To replace them in agriculture was one of the reasons for the terrible deportations of elderly city-dwellers, retired professional people, pensioners and other "undesirables" that began last May.

Last summer, when mass deportations were at their peak, Secretary Acheson told a group of us newspaper correspondents that the "uncivilized conduct of the Hungarian government has aroused indignation throughout the world."

Approximately 50,000 men, women and children were shipped from their city homes in last year's exodus. A less publicized deportation had been carried out in 1950.

These two shocking records are not the only ones. A group of Hungarian war veterans in Munich, Germany, recently published a report, "Black Book Concerning Mass Deportations in Hungary," that reminds readers, "Up to April 1945, when Hungary was totally occupied, 295,000 Hungarian civilians were deported by the Soviet army to forced labor camps in Soviet territory."

"This group represented all social classes and categories, from children of 13 to aged persons of 65. According to data in our 'White Book,' 119,000 prisoners of war and civilian deportees have died."

A Matter of Box Cars
But the wheels of justice have been slowly grinding—at least indirectly. Some of the Communist officials who ordered the earlier deportations have themselves been made to suffer, though not for these particular crimes.

Two former Ministers of the Interior, Janos Kadar and Sandor Zo who once tore people from their fire-sides and sent them to certain death, have since been purged and have gone the way of their victims.

Other high cabinet officials, like Laszlo Rajk, who had a part in the persecution, have been executed as "traitors."

And the United States government has warned that it is "taking careful note of the identity of individual Hungarian officials" who are participating in the current deportations. Some day they, like the Nazi sadists, may face a trial for their inhuman deeds.

Stalin once said, "The Hungarian problem is only a matter of box cars." The box cars have been rolling a long time.

Right now farm youth is unwillingly transported from their rural homes to city munitions factories

City writers, retired government employees, clergymen, aged men and women are dumped on peasant families as farm hands. Former army officers, small land-owners and priests, who have completed prison colony sentences for anti-Communist attitudes, upon release are promptly deported to Russian Siberia.

They need our sympathy, these innocent victims of the brutal regime that seized our American airmen.

There may be other candidates from counties west of Haywood, and in any event there will be a lively campaign in the twelfth district.

OTHERS—All other incumbent congressmen are expected to seek reelection. In a personal note to your reporter Congressman Bob Doughton said he would make his plans known to the 9th district within a few days. He is expected to run again and without opposition. Same comment goes for Congressman John Kerr in the second district, who although past his 78th birthday is still going strong. Opposition is practically certain for Rep. Ertel Carlyle in the seventh, J. O. Tally, Jr., mayor of Fayetteville, has tentatively entered the race and Alton Lennon, New Hanover Senator and attorney, is a likely prospect. Rumors persist that Hamilton Jones of Charlotte will have to defend his seat in the tenth district, but names of prospective opponents are not given. State Senator Tom Sawyer of Durham may challenge Rep. Carl Durham of Chapel Hill in the sixth, with particular appeal to the class-conscious veteran and labor vote. Ten weeks remain before close of filing time and contests may develop all over the map. As of now it looks like none of the incumbent congressmen have really serious worries, with possible exception of Carlyle in the seventh and Jones in the tenth.

Movie House For Youngsters Only

By CARLO FENOGLIO
MILAN.—A movie hall here is reserved for children under 15 and adults can only get admittance "if accompanied by a child."

It is called the "Gnomo" (Dwarf) and its name was picked in a referendum conducted among the pupils of primary schools.

While Italian parliament is involved in deep discussions on what kind of literature and movies children should be allowed to see without danger for their education, the Milanese movie hall has found an easy answer: reserve a movie hall for children only.

Under Italian law children are forbidden to see movies "morally dangerous."

The Gnomo's director, Dr. Renzo Cotta, a teacher in one of Milan's schools, believes besides forbidding "morally dangerous" films for children one must keep them also from films they would not understand.

"If you take a 12-year-old child to see Hamlet, or any such film, which is not dangerous, but difficult to understand, he will look elsewhere for amusement," he said. Among the films included in Gnomo's programs are Disney's "Cinderella," "Snowwhite" and "Treasure Island"; "The Bells of Saint Mary" in which Ingrid Bergman and Bing Crosby star; "David Copperfield" with Freddie Bartholomew; "Mother" with Irene Dunne. The Gnomo can hold 400 children. The entrance fee is 20 cents, cheaper than most movie halls here.

An inquiry conducted among 2,000 children under 15 revealed that children liked war and adventurous movies most and that 80 per cent of them went to regular movies, including those from which children should have been excluded.

Most people, it has been found, are unable to hold a camera and shoot a picture at less than 1-25th of a second.

AWARE OF DISTINCTION—Visitors to annual New York poultry show saw many sights but none as unusual as this rare bearded buff-faced Polish hen held by Gale Ueland.

Service Pay Hike Gathers Support

By VINCENT J. BURKE
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—Leaders of both parties predicted the House would override economy advocates today and vote a 10 per cent pay boost for the 3,500,000 men and women in the armed forces.

The proposed "cost-of-living" increase would cost the taxpayers an estimated $832,000,000 a year. Increases in pay and allowances would range from $7.50 a month for recruits to $114.68 a month for generals.

The bill was called up under a procedure which barred amendments, restricted debate to 40 minutes and required a two-thirds vote for approval.

Some members predicted passage by a wide margin. Others thought the vote would be "close." The consensus was that the bill would pass with quite a few votes against it.

A number of House members who opposed the bill were reported fearful of voting against it because of possible political consequences in an election year.

The scale for basic pay and allowances now ranges from $75 a month for unmarried recruits to $1,146.75 for married major generals and higher-ranking officers. Under the bill this would go to $82.50 and $1,261.43 respectively.

A private who is married and has two children would have his income boosted from $165 a month to $181.50. He now gets $80 in basic pay and $85 quarters allowance for his dependents. This would be boosted to $88 and $93.50. Special allowances for overseas service and flight pay would not be changed.

The 10 per cent pay boost would apply also to 152,000 retired officers and men, to cadets in service academies and to the Coast Guard, Public Health Service and Coast and Geodetic Survey.

Divorce Granted Thirteen Couples

Displaying judicial sympathy for the perennial problem of childbirth, Judge Suse Sharp yesterday excused Joe H. Bynum of Farmville from jury duty because he was about to become a grandfather.

In official proceedings, one marriage was annulled and 13 divorces were granted—one on the grounds of adultery and 12 on the grounds of two years separation. Five divorces were granted white couples, and eight were granted Negroes.

In the case of Mary T. Brown vs. J. Baxter Brown, white, the marriage was annulled.

Divorces granted were: White—Marjorie E. Windham vs. Herman Leslie Windham; Beatrice F. Kirchner vs. Joseph E. Kirchner; Marilyn Moody Mills vs. Fred Lem Mills; Adele Wooten Pittman vs. B. J. Pittman; and Pearl Smith vs. G. M. Smith, all on two years separation.

Negro—James H. Evans vs. Maybelle A. Evans, adultery; and Sam Gardner vs. Daisy Gardner; Winnie Bell Johnson vs. Villa Johnson; James Allan Chapman vs. Wymor Eaton Chapman; Grover Thigpen vs. Bettie Lane Thigpen; Celia Ann Coward vs. Doctor Carroll Coward; James E. Locke, Jr. vs. Annie Ruth Locke; and Ernest Whichard vs. Cora Adams Whichard, all on two years separation.

Arrest Drivers In Highway Wreck

Two drivers were arrested this morning as the result of a highway accident on Highway 43, south of Greenville, around eight o'clock.

Patrolman Jim Davis stated that charges of passing at an intersection were placed against Henry L. Jones, 21, after his car collided with a truck driven by Vernon E. Wingate, 35, Route 2, Greenville.

The accident occurred when Wingate attempted to make a left hand turn off the highway. Wingate was charged with failure to give a hand signal.

Both vehicles were damaged considerably. No one was injured.

Return Accused Thief For Trial

Harry Carr, 37-year-old Negro laborer, with numerous aliases, wanted in Greenville on the charge of larceny of 21 quarts of lubricating oil, was arrested in Charlotte during the weekend.

Greenville officers brought Carr back here yesterday. He will be tried in Police Court tomorrow. They said Carr travels under different aliases. In this case police know him as "Willie" Carr and "Hard Boy" Carr.

Police quoted the manager of Sutton's Service Center No. 2, 1401 Dickinson Avenue, as saying Carr drove up to the station Christmas Eve night in a Buick with a party of Negroes from Washington, D.C. While the car was being serviced, the station attendant told police, Carr allegedly took a case of lubricating oil and placed in the trunk of the car.

When the attendant questioned Carr, he fled. However, the oil was found in the car, and the manager notified police. The people in the car fled.

Chief Guy C. Langston's detectives worked on the case and finally located Carr in Charlotte. Charlotte police held him for local authorities.

Discover Body Of S.C. Editor

GAFFNEY, S. C. (AP)—A 48-hour search for veteran newspaperman Ed Decamp ended yesterday with the discovery of his body in a ditch behind a Gaffney garage.

The 86-year-old dean of South Carolina newspapermen had apparently fallen into the three-foot-deep ditch shortly after he disappeared Saturday afternoon. Cylinder oil draining from the garage into the ditch completely covered his body.

Dr. C. J. Hall said, after examining the body, that Decamp died of exposure "sometime Saturday night."

Coroner Jack Millwood ruled death due to natural causes and said no inquest would be necessary.

Discovery of the body ended a block-by-block search of Gaffney. At the suggestion of Mayor J. N. Lipscomb, school children turned out yesterday afternoon to aid police and firemen in the search for the white-haired, white-moustached former printer.

Decamp, long a sports-loving figure in southern newspaper circles, was the publisher of "Grit and Steel," a cock-fighting publication that circulates throughout the world.

He was born near Charlotte, N. C., Sept. 26, 1865. His father was a French soldier-of-fortune who had enlisted in the Confederate Army. His mother was the daughter of a prosperous Scotch-Irish planter. After starting his career as a Charlotte Observer carrier boy, he became a printer. He was a compositor on the composing room staff that printed the first issue of "The State" at Columbia late in 1890.

In 1893, Decamp and his associates founded the Gaffney Ledger as a weekly. Later he acquired all the stock and became editor. With another associate, Decamp began Grit and Steel in 1900 and later became sole owner.

Churchill Returning To Address U.S. Congress

OTTAWA, Ont. (UP)—British Prime Minister Winston Churchill returns to the United States today ready to convince the American Congress that together the English-speaking nations can lead the world to peace.

Churchill will address a joint session of Congress on Thursday—a speech he has been working on ever since his departure from London. It will climax his two week visit to Washington and Ottawa.

Churchill gave a preview of his ideas at a Canadian government state banquet last night at which he gave a confident prediction of the future if the Western World sticks together.

Churchill painted no rosy picture of the road ahead, either for the free world as a whole or for Britain which faces its worst postwar financial crisis.

But through work and toil, he said, he was confident that the West would win its battle against Communist imperialism.

Churchill did not discount the threats that hang over the world and said he could not predict the future. But he did not despair. Climbing to full Churchillian rhetorical heights, he said:

"I say here, in Ottawa, that tonight we make a valiant, and, I believe, unconquerable assertion of the spirit of our combined identity and survival.

"We have surmounted all the perils and endured all the agonies of the past.

"We shall provide against and thus prevail over the dangers and problems of the future, without no sacrifice, grudge no toil, seek no sordid gain, fear no foe.

"All will be well.

"We have, I believe, within us the life-strength and guiding light by which the tormented world around us may find its harbor of safety, after a storm-beaten voyage.

Earlier he deplored that a post-war world of peace had not developed as hoped.

"Peace does not sit untroubled in her vineyard," he said with great emotion and then added:

"The harvests of new and boundless wealth which science stands ready to pour into the hands of all the peoples must be used for exertions to ward off from us the dangers and the unimaginable horrors of another world war."

Police Proclaim State Of Emergency In Cairo Area

CAIRO, Egypt (UP)—Police proclaimed a state of emergency in Cairo today to guard against possible student demonstrations over bloody British-Egyptian gun fights in the Suez Canal zone last weekend.

Students began returning to classes after an extended mid-year holiday and the Socialist party called on Egyptians to give a huge popular funeral today to pilot Ahmed Mohammed Esmat of the Misr Airlines, who was killed yesterday at the Mahagar British checkpoint near Abuhammad.

The Ministry of Interior said the pilot was killed and four other Egyptians wounded when British troops opened fire on automobiles waiting to pass the checkpoint.

The British announced last night they had closed the Cairo-Suez road again to all civilian traffic to prevent an alleged planned Egyptian guerrilla attack on a British checkpoint at Kilo.

A British joint-services communiqué last night said one officer and one soldier at the queen's own Cameron Highlanders were killed yesterday by terrorists near Tel El Kebir, scene of a British-Egyptian gun battle Saturday.

Yesterday's skirmish occurred on open ground near the Tel El Kebir road block south of the Sweetwater Canal, the British said.

The British communiqué said one Egyptian was killed when he jumped from a civilian bus and fired four shots at British guards at the Tel El Kebir road block.

Doctor Discusses State 'Eye Bank' At Lions' Meet

Dr. M. P. Hoot, eye, ear, nose, and throat specialist here, spoke to the members of the Lion's Club last night on the establishment of an eye bank in North Carolina.

Dr. Hoot said the eye bank was established by a group of people in North Carolina who saw the need for such. "Transferring eyes from one person to another is nothing new in medical profession but is new in North Carolina," he stated.

The specialist said the North Carolina eye bank has received 12 eyes so far, two of which came from a Pitt county, who recently died. He explained a person must set up a will to the effect that he wished to donate his eyes to the bank.

"Only the front part of the eye is used in the transfer," Hoot said. "For a blind person to be eligible to receive an eye form the eye bank, they must be blind in both eyes, and their blindness must have resulted in the front part of the eye. The blind person must set up a residence where the operation can be performed and wait for eyes to be donated."

In North Carolina, the Bowman Gray School of Medicine in North Winston-Salem performs the transfer. The eyes donated to the bank go to two individual blind persons, each receiving one eye.

Ben Rouse reported on the party the Lion's club would have in carrying out the newcomers' party which will be held January 24 and sponsored by the Greenville Chamber of Commerce. Charles Ross, junior Lion from the high school, attended the meeting.

Strategy Meet

Senator Russell of Georgia, who long has acted as floor leader for the Dixie Democrats, told reporters afterward that "no formal action was taken" but a variety of subjects was discussed.

Snowbound Train Awaits Rescuers

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—Dog sleds, ski teams and snow weasels battled both sides of the Sierra Nevada Mountains today to try to rescue 226 persons trapped without heat or light in the snowbound streamliner City of San Francisco.

The 6th Army rushed rescue crews equipped with six weasels by truck to Colfax where the weasels and two high patrol cars were to be loaded on flat cars.

An engine equipped with a rotary type snowplow will try to haul the equipment as close to the trapped train as possible.

The army crews included two doctors, six medical aid men, and a quantity of medicines.

Food was reported running short aboard the snowbound train. Six children were sick and six adults suffered heart attacks, one passenger said. The train left Chicago Friday and was due here Sunday night.

A 16-car Pullman train also was ordered to move as far as possible up the mountains to bring the passengers down if they are freed from their 48-hour ordeal.

Another relief train fought its way up the eastern slope of the mountains from Truckee, Calif., near the Nevada border. It also carried doctors who expected to make the last few miles by dog sled.

Already, the rescue operation had claimed two lives. Engineer Rolly R. Raymond, 50, and a machinist named Lopez were killed when their rotary snow plow engine was swept away by an avalanche after it was stalled by a snowplow. The two men were within sight of the trapped train.

One rescue party, using skis, reached the train last night with a small amount of food and medical supplies. Snow at the scene was 14 feet deep.

Roy Clator, a member of the rescue group, said older passengers lay in their berths and reclining seats, swathed in blankets trying to keep warm. Younger passengers gathered in the streamliner's club car, "taking it more or less as a lark."

The first rescue party reached the train shortly after its diesel unit ran out of fuel, cutting off the lights and heat. The dining car was nearly out of food and there was no medicine aboard for several ill persons.

"I would estimate the snow at the train to be about 14 feet deep and we had to stop about a quarter of a mile away," Clator said when he returned to Rainbow Lodge.

The conductor and some other railroad men seemed to be in charge got 35 Mexican laborers who were at the train to help us carry the food and medical supplies up there.

"I walked through the train and there was no heat and lights. Everybody was bundled up in coats and blankets. I was told that several children were sick and six persons had suffered heart attacks, but I didn't see them.

"They weren't completely out of food when we arrived, and we replenished their supply with milk, canned food and bread. In some parts of the train railroad lamps were burning."

Mother And Son In Twin Tragedy

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP)—A mother dropped her infant son from a third floor landing, then jumped to her own death from a fourth story roof — of the Sunshine Sanitarium.

Victims of the double tragedy last night were Mrs. Matilda Reinhart, 39, and her two-month-old son, Allen.

A note left in the family car, found parked on the sanitarium grounds, said: "I took the only way out."
