Reds Raise New Truce Complaint

Charge Armistice Convoy Strafed By 4 U.S. Jets; Investigation Of Alleged Kaesong Bombing Turns Up No Clues; Some Suspensions Among Probers

MUNSAN Korea — (AP) — The Communists charged today that four American jet planes bombed and strafed a plainly marked armistice convoy on the highway between Kaesong and Pyongyang yesterday afternoon, in violation of a joint agreement.

It was the fourth time this week the Reds have injected an "incident" into the deadlocked Panmunjon truce talks.

Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, Supreme U. N. Commander, flew back to Tokyo after secret conferences with truce negotiators. There was speculation that he delivered new instructions which might get the armistice talks rolling again.

The communists agreed in principle Saturday to a meeting of staff officers to draft suggestions for prisoner of war camps.

The U. N. Command asked for such a meeting after the Reds charged that U. N. planes bombed a prison camp near Kangdong Monday, killing 20 allied prisoners and injuring others.

The U. N. acknowledged that planes were bombing the Kangdong area Monday night and accused the Reds of failing to pinpoint the location of their prison camps.

The communists also charged that U. N. planes flew over northeast China Sunday and bombed the Kaesong protected area Tuesday.

The investigation of charges that a United Nations plane dropped a bomb on the outskirts of Kaesong is still underway.

Saturday the Reds produced a Myong Ton Chin, who said he was standing on a hillside about a half mile from where the bomb fell.

The sergeant said he saw two planes over the area and a few minutes later heard an explosion.

Col. Howard S. Lewis said the soldier did not see a bomb fall from one of the planes. And when shown pictures of various types of allied warplanes, he was unable to tell which he had seen.

Lewis said the sergeant was "very nervous."

Investigators have failed so far to find a single eyewitness to the alleged bombing, although they did find a large crater.

Burney To Open Criminal Term Of Court Monday

Twenty-Two Cases On Calendar; 15 To Go Before Grand Jury

By JESS POINDEXTER
Reflector Staff Writer

Hon. John J. Burney of Wilmington will open the January Criminal Term in Pitt County Superior Court here Monday morning at 10 o'clock, with 22 cases on the calendar and 15 to go before the Grand Jury.

The cases on the calendar involve charges ranging from public drunkenness to carnal knowledge of a female. Cases are: one of assault, and one of assault with a deadly weapon; one of non-support, and one of abandonment and non-support; one of public drunkenness, one of public nuisance and disorderly conduct.

One of violating the stock law; one of receiving stolen property; one of carnal knowledge of a female; one of speeding; two of reckless driving, and two of driving drunk; three of breaking and entering and larceny; and two of violating the liquor law.

Probable cause has already been established in the 15 cases scheduled to go before the Grand Jury Monday, but a true bill will have to be found in each case before it can be tried.

The number and nature of the cases slated to go before the Grand Jury are: Three of larceny, and four of breaking and entering and larceny; two of forgery; and one each of false pretense, manslaughter, burglary, rape, perjury and carnal knowledge of a female.

Superior Court has a backlog of approximately 150 cases on the criminal docket, and that figure does not include the numerous cases in which defendants have "jumped bond" or just cannot be found. Many of the cases are two or three years old—old, in fact, that many witnesses have moved from the county or forgotten the cases.

According to Superior Court Clerk D. T. House, Jr., the number of cases is increasing faster than they are being disposed of in court. "The number of cases on the docket for trial is nearly 200," the clerk said, "and it would take a six-weeks Special Term to dispose of all of them."

Motion for judgment absolute on the bonds will be made in 11 cases during this week's term of Superior Court. The defendants have been called and failed prior to this term, and their bonds may be forfeited.

A total of 61 jurors have been drawn from the various townships in the county for jury duty next week. Court is scheduled to last through Wednesday, January 23.

Jurors for the January Criminal Term are: Ayden—J. W. Bartfield, W. J. Cox, Johnny R. Craft, Bruce Dixon, W. A. Gaskins, Tucker McLawhorn and C. E. Rhodes; Beaver Dam—Austin Briley, Mrs. Nan Eason, Earl Hemby and Leander Mond; Belvoir—Roy Peaden, L. L. Stancill and Luther Teel.

Bethel—Roy Bowers, J. Paul Guillier and Mrs. Estelle J. Harris; Carolina—Mrs. J. L. Barnhill, Jerome Butler, E. H. Grandall and C. R. Williamson; Chocoma—Willie Brame, Frank Dixon, J. Bryant Hudson, R. G. Little, William Hoy Mills, Lester Mills and Dalton Lloyd Vainwright; Farmville—Harry Vain Dixon, Linwood Hardy and Bennie Wooten.

Greenville—Mrs. Carl Adams, Mrs. John H. Adams, Jr., H. R. Allen, W. L. Best, N. C. Brooks, Mrs. Paul Clayton, Mrs. Bessie Crawford, L. F. Edwards, Henry M. Hatten, J. R. House, L. F. Johnson, James T. Keel, T. H. (Continued on page eight)

ROADSIDE CAFE TO FLY PACIFIC:—This old C-54 fuselage is loaded at Louisville, Ky., for a trip to the west coast after serving for years as a roadside cafe. It will be fitted once again with the necessary equipment to make it fly and will be used by an airline operating between Seattle and Tokyo. High prices and difficulties in obtaining new planes were given as reasons for the reconversion plan. (AP Wirephoto).

Piano Marathon For Dimes Drive

Eight-Hour Stint By Pianist Scheduled For Monday

Jerry Ball, Charlotte pianist, will conduct a one-man piano playing marathon here Wednesday in an effort to help Pitt County reach its quota for the March of Dimes.

The nimble-fingered prince of the piano from Piedmont North Carolina will put his talents to work at Five Points where he will play the piano for eight hours with only two ten-minute breaks. Ball uses no sheet music for his lengthy concert, but plays from memory any popular tune for a dollar a throw. Every request for a tune must be accompanied by a $1 donation to the March of Dimes, and if Ball fails to play the tune named, the donor gets his dollar back and Ball puts one of his own into the Pitt County March of Dimes fund.

Ball is a special representative of the Esso Standard Oil company who has been "loaned" to Greenville for the one-day stand to help the March of Dimes. If he fails to stay at his piano for the full eight hours, the Standard Oil company will contribute $1,000 to the Pitt March of Dimes campaign.

The pianist's eight-hour non-stop engagement in Greenville is being arranged by the Greenville Junior Chamber of Commerce in cooperation with the Pitt March of Dimes Campaign. W. C. Taylor, Jr. is chairman of the Jaycee committee which is making the arrangements for Ball's appearance here.

For the past three years when the March of Dimes campaign rolls around, Ball has been on the road pitting his remarkable talent, and more remarkable memory against all comers who are willing to contribute to the March of Dimes to hear one of their favorite tunes played. In the three years he has raised over $60,000 for the March of Dimes. This year his North Carolina appearances will be in Greenville and only three other cities of the state.

LONDON, (AP) — Admiral Lord Nelson might be turning over in his grave today at the news that a U. S. admiral is to be top dog in the Atlantic—but if he was, British papers didn't mention it editorially.

They refrained from commenting on Winston Churchill's about-face in agreeing finally to an American commander for Allied North Atlantic naval forces. Eleven months ago the papers pulled no punches in supporting Churchill—then opposition leader—in his blasts against Clement Attlee's labor government for agreeing to the same thing.

Airliner With 43 Aboard Crashes

At Least 7 Rescued; Fate Of Others Not Known Immediately

SEATTLE — (UP) — A commercial airliner carrying 40 military personnel and a crew of three crashed in the ocean off British Columbia today.

Civil Aeronautics Authorities said that at least seven of those aboard were rescued. The fate of the others was not known immediately.

The DC-4, under charter to the Military Air Transport Service, crashed while attempting an emergency landing on Morsey Island in the Queen Charlotte group 600 miles north of Seattle. The plane was seen floating on the sea a mile and a half offshore a few minutes after the crash.

The CAA in Seattle said it had been informed by radio from Sand Spit said a tugboat was operating at the scene of the crash.

The plane was enroute to Seattle from Tokyo with 40 military personnel and three crew members aboard.

Officials at McChord Air Force Base, Wash., said they had been informed that at least seven persons were saved. Northwest Airlines, operating the plane, and the Civil Aeronautics Administration in Seattle said they had received the same information.

An Air Force rescue plane took off from McChord with a boat, five life rafts, exposure suits and other survival gear. A Royal Canadian Air Force rescue plane also left for the scene.

The CAA said the runway at Sand Spit was "very icy."

The airliner left Elmendorf Air Force Base near Anchorage, Alaska. The crew was identified as pilot John Pfaffinger, Kent, Wash., co-pilot Kenneth Kuhn and stewardess Jane Cheadle, both of Seattle.

At 4:38 a. m. EST the pilot radioed he was over Annette Island, Alaska, and said the DC-4 was having "oil cooler trouble" in its No. 1 engine.

The pilot said he was dropping from 8,000 feet to land at Sand Spit. He was cleared to make an emergency landing.

Bitter Pill For Churchill In Accepting Atlantic Accord

Lafayette Miller Found Guilty; Appeal Planned

Taken To Central Prison's Death Row Today; Jury Returns Unanimous Verdict After Ten-Minute Deliberation

WASHINGTON — Lafayette Miller, Negro parolee, yesterday was found guilty of first degree murder in the slaying of Harvie Boyd, ending a three day trial which will send him to the gas chamber in March.

Miller stood silently as the all-male jury, composed of three Negroes and nine whites, filed back into the small Beaufort court room after deliberating only ten minutes on a verdict.

When the jury came back into the court room at 6:10, after receiving the case at six o'clock, Judge Clawson Williams granted James MacMullan that each of the jurors be polled for the verdict.

Change of Heart

By Kathleen Harris

Chapter 12
Dean did not seem aware that he had hurt her so. He was very talkative, very gay, and Marcia suspected that he felt his drinks a little.

Marcia managed to slip, unnoticed, out of the room. She took the path that led down to the high bluff overlooking the beach. There was a new, tender moon. It was so beautiful and lonely that it struck awe in Marcia's heart. And brought peace.
Until a voice, a footstep, back of her brought Marcia back to the here and now.
Dean's dark eyes looked down into hers. One strong hand grasped her by an elbow.
She wanted to pull away. She wanted to turn from him. She wanted to say something horrid, in anger. But looking at him, her heart melted within her. She could only shake her head, like a little girl being scolded, and refuse to tell. Maybe if she had not done that, had not looked so young, her sweet profile etched in the moonlight, had she not looked so vulnerable, what happened next might not have taken place.
He drew her to him. One hand cupped her chin, forcing her to meet his eyes again; when he kissed her it was long and infinitely sweet.
When it was finally over, he said, "I didn't mean to do that."
"Oh, Dean!" She still nestled against him, clinging to him, her eyes raised to his. "I love you so."
"I'm afraid I'm not worth it," he held her away, not roughly, yet mustn't say anything about this! "What do you mean?"
"I mean what I said. I'm not worth it. Everyone else would think that, too—Abigail, your family, all your friends back home. We'll have to wait, sweet, and show them. Prove that I can be. For I will." Now he pulled her gently to him again. His eyes looking down into hers were earnest, grave.

"The portrait, that should do it. And then I'll be able to tell you I can take care of you."

"Oh, Dean!" He meant that he loved her, too, that he wanted her, as she did him. She understood now why he had hesitated, held off, even, no doubt, fought his love. "Of course you will. Of course I'll wait. Forever, dearest, if necessary."
He slid an arm around her slender waist. They started walking slowly along the path.
"Remember, this must be our secret," his voice was urgent. "Not a word, or a look, youngster, that would tell on us."
"I'll remember." It was easy to promise, gladly, anything he might ask.
And she was so happy that nothing else mattered. Not in the past, not even in the future. Only this warmth within; this wonder; this miracle. Only one thing marred it a little, as though her love, so bright and shining, must carry with it its own gray shadow; the secretiveness Dean had demanded and to which she had to concede. Yet this was only for a little while. Her blind faith told Marcia that; she did not even need to see what lay ahead.
Now she knew why she had come to spend this year with her sister. She knew why her own mother, not knowing her, had caused this to take place so that her daughter's fate should be worked out according to some pattern written long ago in the stars. She knew why she had not been able to say yes to Tommy MacIntyre, although she was so fond of him, knew him so well. She knew at last the reason she had been born.
That fall was the happiest and busiest time Marcia had ever known. She had enrolled in an art course that Dean had recommended to Abigail. For her sister had spoken to Dean about Marcia's ambitions and Dean had told Marcia that her attending classes would be an excellent "cover-up" for them.

"On the way home each day you can stop by my place," he had pointed out. "In that way Abigail won't get on to the fact that you are posing for me."

Marcia had still disliked such secrecy but Dean's arguments for it were too persuasive to combat. Besides, she recalled her sister's remark about having wanted Dean to paint her. Abigail would be hurt to discover that he was doing a portrait of Marcia when he had refused to do Abigail. The reason for this still baffled Marcia.
Dean's rooms were shabby, typical bachelor quarters, a hodgepodge of belongings that did not belong together. She knew that neither Father nor Grace would approve of her going to see Dean. But it really was quite circumspect. The landlady lived just across the hall and Dean made a point of introducing Marcia, adding laughingly, a bit teasingly, that since Mrs. Maloney had sharp eyes and sharp ears, they were quite properly chaperoned.

Mrs. Maloney was a fat, frowsy-looking creature, but she proved to be kind-hearted. She took a fancy to Marcia and often brought a tray with a piece of homemade pie or cookies or muffins as she made a pretty girl like Marcia almost beautiful with a kind of inward beauty that caught at the heart strings.
"When is the boy from back home coming on for that visit?" Abigail asked unexpectedly one morning, when Marcia was reading the morning's mail.
"You mean Tommy?"
"Tommy or Johnny. I forgot which you called him."
"It's Tommy, though I guess he prefers to be called Tom. He says he's coming some time this month." Marcia added, scanning the letter again. "Around the twenty-second. Goodness! That's this week!"

STREET SCENE

Something fascinating about a street scene!

Whether in Centerville or far off Algiers, we like to see people... to wonder who they are... where they are going... what they are thinking.

Why are people so important, so much more important than anything else on earth?

It is because our Christian religion has taught us that each man is a son of God, a human soul with the spark of the Divine.

In lands where our religion is denied, people are not important. Life is a plentiful commodity.

Makes you think, doesn't it? Points you to the Church—where man comes to understand himself by understanding God.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor in our life for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For the sake of his community and nation. (3) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Unique Country Style Party, Shower Honors Miss Bloom

A country style shower party was given on Thursday night as a compliment to Miss Joanne Bloom, who will shortly be wed.

Mrs. Phil Coleman was hostess to around twenty close friends of the honoree, who were invited to come dressed in jeans and sport shirts.

The home was plainly decorated with artificial flowers. The table in the dining room was covered with a patched sheet and centered with an artificial arrangement of white flowers placed on a green wooden tray. White candle stubs were placed in green kitchen saucers to form a circle around the centerpiece. The corners of the table cloth were caught up with circles of crushed Christmas tinsel, and the containers for the refreshments were small wicker baskets. Miss Bloom was given a bed-rag chrysanthemum made of faded crepe paper presented to her in a gaily tied cellophane bag.

Mrs. J. S. Barr, mother of the hostess, assisted her in serving iced bottled drinks, plain bread cakes, salted nuts and mints.

During the refreshment hour, at which time the guests sat around on the floor, the shower presents were brought in wrapped in brown laundry paper, tied with twine. Considerable fun and merriment was enjoyed as Miss Bloom opened her many lovely gifts. She was the recipient of gifts of crystal, china, linen and lingerie.

As a final touch to the gay evening, Mrs. Coleman passed small toast cups, at which time everybody extended best wishes to the honoree. She was given a large red heart on which was pinned a miniature corsage of paper flowers and a glass slipper with a lucky penny in it.

Home Town Will Welcome Carlsen

WOODBRIDGE, N. J. —(AP)—The biggest shindig this sprawling township of 30,000 persons has seen in its 283 years of existence goes on today to welcome home its favorite son—Capt. Kurt Carlsen.

Home to the brave captain is a little frame house on Alwat Street. Home is Mrs. Agnes Carlsen, cooking up her husband's favorite dish of Danish hamburger (baked, with lots of onions). Home is Carlsen's two daughters, Sonja, 11, and Karen, 7.

But Woodbridge wants to show Carlsen what a welcome really means. And it has set up a gigantic parade to which all of New Jersey is invited.

It has to be something of an anti-climax for Carlsen, the little freighted captain whose courage gripped the whole world when he refused to leave his ship, the Flying Enterprise.

After the ticker tape parade up Broadway Thursday, Woodbridge's reception is bound to be overshadowed.

But the town is rolling out the red carpet with a lavishness that equals anything Captain "stay-put" Carlsen has seen yet.

Book Reviewed By Mrs. Long At Atheneum Club

The Atheneum Book Club met on Tuesday at 1:00 p.m. at the home of Mrs. J. J. White on East Tenth St.

Amid the arrangements of many lovely spring flowers the club members and several invited guests served a delicious luncheon, after which Mrs. White presented Mrs. J. K. Long, the guest speaker for the afternoon.

Mrs. Long made an interesting and stimulating talk by her review of Dr. Norman Vincent Peale's book, "A Guide to Confident Living." This book tells one how to acquire happiness and achieve the peace and inner strength that makes for satisfactory living. According to Mrs. Long's interpretation of the book, happiness has to be learned and cultivated so it is essential that one practice the thinking of happy thoughts. "One is just as happy as one thinks," suggested Mrs. Long. "And Dr. Peale's formula for confident living is to make up one's mind to be happy, think happy thoughts and for real true happiness, to work towards the goal of rejection of self for others."

The meeting was presided over by Mrs. Long, president, who disposed of the routine business after the program.

Mrs. S. M. Crisp and Mrs. J. B. Cummings gave current events for the meeting. A report was heard pertaining to the welfare work done at Christmas time.

The president appointed Mrs. Crisp and Mrs. J. L. Winstead to meet with representatives from other clubs to plan for the annual Book Club Day in the early spring.

Dr. H. C. Jones Speaks At Kiwanians' Meeting

By CHESTER WALSH
Dr. Harold C. Jones of the science department of East Carolina College, gave an illustrated lecture on "Plants and Environment" at the Kiwanis Club's weekly meeting.

Dr. Austin D. Bond, also of the science department, had charge of the program. President Milo Smith presided.

Dr. Jones used slides to illustrate his interesting travel talk. He showed scenes from the famous Pacific Coast redwood forests, Columbia River in Washington, Grand Coulee Dam and the Falls of the Columbia River. The speaker interspersed his talk with descriptions of how some plants change the surface of rocks into soil. He described parts of the Continental Divide, Glacier National Park, Nova Scotia, and the mangrove swamps on the south Florida coast.

Dr. Melvin P. Moot explained the "eye bank" to the Kiwanians and outlined the method of a person willing or bequeathing their eyes after death to the "eye bank." He said at least 50 per cent of the eye operations with donated eyes had been successful and restored sight to many blind persons. The

Mrs. Russell Gives Devotional At W.C.T.U. Meeting

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union met with a most gracious hostess, Mrs. W. R. Smith, 403 E. Ninth St., January 2.

Mrs. Leon Russell gave an inspiring devotional. Her subject was found in the sixth chapter of Galatians—"Let us not be weary in well doing." Mrs. Russell said, "Have you ever seen a baby walk for the first time? Instead of letting his falls discourage him, he lets them strengthen him. It is not the first stroke of the axe that fells the tree, but the last one. It is not the first that gets us to our destination, but it is our last. Christ seemed defeated when he went to the cross for so few of his followers followed him there, but the plan of redemption was completed when to others he had seemed to fail. So let us in this new year not be weary in well doing, for we shall reap if we faint not."

Mrs. C. W. Brown, president, presided over a short business session. It was announced that the crusade fund quota was $50.00. Members were urged to pay their dues and crusade fund as soon as possible as they must be in the State Treasury by March 1. Volunteers were asked to solicit these dues from members who do not attend regularly.

Impressions

By MARTHA S. FORBES

When spring comes in the middle of January, people begin to look for the unexpected in many different ways.

Bulbs expectantly muzzling up through the once-frozen ground evoke squeals of delight from amateur gardeners. The first bud of coral hawthorne makes a flower arranger out of just any old body. We begin to want to buy cotton dresses and open-toed sandals. The men shed their coats and loosen their ties, and everybody walks with a springier step.

That is, everybody but me! I am a pessimist about the weather—and an impatient waiter for the normal course of nature's weather cycles. I hate to see the daffodils push up because I am afraid they will bloom before they are supposed to, and then when everybody else's yard is a "hill of golden daffodils" mine will sport only dried up foliage. I am not ready for the warm weather because I intended to prune those ragged bushes before the sap started to rise, and here they are, not only with the sap rising, but also with the buds ready to burst! Now all summer I have got to dodge those long, half-dead branches which I was going to trim so neatly and nicely for this summer.

As for my clothes, it seems that I wore all my summer dresses out last year, and I simply am not ready to wear my cottons six months and my woollens six months so that my clothes will get an equal amount of wear. And as I did not drag out my winter wardrobe until November, I have three more months to go on it.

But it would be nice not to have such a big fuel bill—and it would give a lift to my spirits to have my windows washed. And I simply refuse to do that chore more than twice a year—once to open them for the summer and again to close them for cold weather.

But best of all, would it not be grand if spiritually we could have "June in January" all the time? That little extra zest for life, that gladness feeling in our hearts, that air of happy expectancy that early flowers, warm winds and soft air stirs up in the heart of childhood—my impression is that life would be grand and glorious experience if we could carry the spirit of spring in our hearts all the year.

Music Program At Faculty Club

The Faculty Wives Club of East Carolina College met at the home of Mrs. J. D. Messick on Thursday evening.

A short business session was presided over by the president, Mrs. H. A. Coleman. Mrs. Messick introduced Dr. Kenneth Cuthbert, director of the Music Department at the college, who presented the program, assisted by music students at the college.

Bernard Ham, accompanied by Betty Lou Whitfield, sang two songs. A trombone solo was played by Charles Armstrong. He was accompanied by Marietta Hooper. Following the solos, Dr. Cuthbert gave an interesting talk on "Music and Mental Health." The entire program was ably presented and enjoyed by the club.

The members and their guests were invited into the dining room for refreshments. At the table, with its centerpiece of yellow chrysanthemums and yellow tapers in silver holders, Mrs. Austin Bond poured coffee and Mrs. Cuthbert served individual lemon meringue pies. Assorted nuts and mints were passed.

In addition to Dr. Cuthbert and his students, Mrs. Reynolds, mother of Dr. John Reynolds, was a guest of the club. The committee in charge for the evening consisted of Mrs. H. F. Brewster, chairman, Mrs. Messick, Mrs. Herbert Carter, Mrs. Karl Gilbert, Mrs. W. S. Krausnick, Mrs. Bond, Mrs. J. B. Cummings, Mrs. Dan Vornholt, Mrs. Cuthbert and

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLAS
RELAXATION OF SOUL

A prominent magazine writer some time ago wrote an article telling how he had rediscovered the joy of attending church. For more than twenty years he had abstained himself from church services. At last he attended a service conducted by an army chaplain and there heard a sermon which started his train of thought. In recent years he has found his greatest delight and inspiration in the quiet sojourn of an hour once a week in some sanctuary.

Modern sophisticates often refer to religion as an escape from reality. The writer John Ruskin used this word "escape" in referring to religion but in a way quite different from the use made by the sophisticates. Ruskin referred to religion as an escape to sterner things. We leave the crowded, noisy, stuffy little boxes in which we live, and in the house of God find our spirits relaxing in the contemplation of eternal and celestial values. In the sanctuary, if we assume an attitude of spiritual attention, we begin at least to see and hear some of the things God has in store for us.

It's relaxing to body and mind to leave the city and drive out into the country, to leave one's job at vacation time and launch into new scenes and new diversions. The Sabbath and its worship were ordained for the purpose of giving our souls a chance to ponder their eternal significance.

An Honor Bestowed Where Justly Deserved

The people of Greenville have every reason to be proud of their choice of Lester E. Turnage, Jr., as the Man of the Year in Greenville.

As the committee for the selection of Greenville's Man of the Year obviously found in the deliberations on the nominations for the distinct honor, there is no other one young man who has done so much for the betterment and the promotion of the general welfare of Greenville during the past 12 months than Lester Turnage.

To be sure there are others who have given of their time and energies in great quantities for the betterment of the city during the past year, and their contributions should not be overlooked by the citizens of the city. When it comes to picking one who stands out above all the others in unsung service to Greenville in 1951, however, the man picked as Greenville's Man of the Year stands out above all others.

In the case of Lester Turnage, his efforts for the betterment of Greenville have not been limited to 1951. He has been active in numerous phases of the community life of Greenville since moving here from Farmville in 1947. He is a young man who has assumed the responsibilities of time-consuming tasks for the betterment of the city, and by his devotion to the betterment of the city has risen to a place of leadership among the citizens of Greenville. He is an outstanding example of a young man who has never refused to take time off from his daily task of making a living for himself and his family to aid in any way possible in the never-ceasing program of making Greenville a better place to live.

The Reflector congratulates Turnage on his selection as the Man of the Year, and the people of Greenville for bestowing the honor where it is justly deserved.

An Answer To An Often Asked Question

What causes so many traffic accidents in North Carolina anyway?

That's a question often asked around the state, and at last someone has come up with a conclusion... carelessness on the part of the drivers. What's more there is ample evidence to support the conclusion.

If fatalities on North Carolina highways continue during the remainder of 1952 as they have begun during the first half month, it will be another bloody year for motor vehicle traffic in the state.

Already more than 42 persons have been killed on the state's highways this year and more than 450 injured. The deaths so far this year are ahead of the same date in 1951, but the injuries are somewhat less than last year.

What causes the accidents? Well, here is the answer given by the Highway Safety division of North Carolina on the 1951 accidents.

In 20 per cent of the accidents investigated in North Carolina by officers last year there was a violation of the speed law. In 16 per cent of the accidents, one of the vehicles involved disregarded the right of way of the other driver. Passing on the wrong side of the road was the cause of 14 per cent of the state's traffic accidents; nine per cent were caused by passing on a hill, curve or some other unsuitable place. Eight per cent of the accidents were caused by disregarding traffic signals or other traffic control devices. Seven per cent of the accidents resulted from following too closely and six per cent resulted from an intoxicated driver. Improper starting from parked position or improper parking positions caused four per cent of the state's accidents, and failure to signal or improper signal accounted for another four per cent of the accidents. The other 12 per cent of North Carolina's traffic accidents resulted from miscellaneous violations of the traffic laws.

The percentage breakdown released by the Highway Safety division should help the people of North Carolina realize that accidents on the highways don't just happen without a reason. The reason usually is carelessness on the part of the driver.

The traffic regulations are made for the protection of the people of the state, but if the motorists continue to disregard the traffic regulations, North Carolina's accident rate will continue to increase.

National Whirligig

Every Saturday this veteran Washington newspaper correspondent devotes his column to answering readers' questions of general interest on national and international policies and personalities. Questions may be sent direct to Ray Tucker at 6308 Hillcrest Place, Chevy Chase, Md.

WASHINGTON—Is there any way to compare the loss of cash and property to the government from today's scandals with the loss suffered in Harding days? Inquires E.E.W. of Albuquerque, N.M., along with numerous other readers. The question is raised frequently by Democratic officials, including President Truman himself.

LOSS—Answer: It is extremely difficult to make any definitive comparison. The Harding corruption involved the Veterans' Administration, the Allen Property Custodian's Office and, most sensationally, the Department of Interior under the late Albert B. Fall. He leased Teapot Dome and Elk Hills oil properties under criminal circumstances.

Petroleum experts, however, inform me that the loss to the government from those leases to Sinclair and Doheny interests has always been exaggerated. For one thing, the government recovered the property rather promptly. Moreover, the price of oil was nowhere near its present peak.

In my opinion, it would be fair to say that the total loss in those days did not exceed the amount of money involved in the present betrayal of trust, especially as all the details of favoritism to certain big taxpayers by Internal Revenue Collectors are not known.

The same applies to questionable ship, surplus property, Commodity Credit Corporation and R.F.C. deals. There is more and more to come from pending and proposed investigations.

COSTLY—Three R.F.C. loans alone—Lustron, Tex-mass and Waltham—nickied the taxpayers for approximately $60,000,000. Losses were suffered from many other smaller transactions that would not have been approved, if R.F.C. had been run as a businesslike agency instead of a political pawnshop.

The cash debit from bargain-rate sales of ships and World War II property will be tremendous. Many serviceable articles were sold for a pittance in the rush to liquidate the government's investment, and then rebought at much higher prices.

Although these deals may not have been criminal, they were extremely costly. Stupidity in high place can be more expensive than criminality.

RANKLE—Then again, it is impossible to compute the national loss resulting from the federal government's deliberate failure to move in on various kinds of racketeers subject to federal investigation and prosecution. It has been figured at many billions of dollars a year.

The Harding orgies still rankle because a Cabinet officer was finally landed in jail. But at least he was punished. So far the Washington figure behind bars, to my knowledge, is the negligible small-time, John Maragon, former Kansas City bootlicker. And he was convicted of perjury, not for pilfering the public purse.

EFFECT—What effect will the Truman appointment of Attorney General McGrath as "cleanup man" have on Congressional investigations? asks M.W. of Springfield, Mass. "And why did the President make this choice, which seems to satisfy nobody?"

Answer: It will make Capitol Hill investigators more insistent on better and bigger exposures. Mr. McGrath's defense of Caudle after the latter's ousting by the President, as well as his failure to have discovered this and other illegal or unethical actions, hardly recommends him to Congress as an able or impartial inquirer.

It is only fair to note that Congressional committees intended to pursue their work, even if Judge Thomas F. Murphy and other disinterested men formed the Presidential commission originally planned by the White House.

UNDERSTANDABLE—Mr. Truman's selection, which was urged on him by Secretary Matthew J. Connolly and Military Aide Harry Vaughan, is understandable from his viewpoint. The appointment of an independent commission would have been interpreted as an admission that the A.G. was incapable.

Most important, a separate agency would have kept the question of "corruption" in the headlines during a Presidential election year. Under investigation and prosecution by grand juries scattered around the country, the "purge" will attract less notice from the press and politicians in Capitol Hill.

BOOKS—Numerous admirers of Herbert Hoover have been kind enough to flood me with letters about books designed to clear up "misrepresentations" of the former President.

C.H.R. of Santa Monica, Cal., suggests a volume entitled "The Hoover Policies," by Wilbur and Hyde. P.M.S. of St. Peter, Minn., mentions "Herbert Hoover, Our Forgotten President," by Eugene Lyons. I understand that Mr. Lyons had the personal collaboration of Mr. Hoover in preparation of his work.

LEWISTON, PA., SENTINEL: "The American public is vitally concerned over the low ethical standard indicated by the scandals in the R.F.C. The Bureau of Internal Revenue and the Department of Justice. We do not feel that it takes an ethics professor or a student of the Bible to know that acceptance by an official of gifts for special favors is wrong, that using a government position to further his own private financial interest or his business interest or his friends' or campaign contributors' interest is wrong."

OCONTO FALLS, WISC., HERALD: "A talk given over the radio recently contained the statement that graft and greed are not to be found in one political party only. This is true, but when one party is in power for a longer than usual period, naturally, they also accumulate more of this type of person."

Always First To Respond

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

So many people have been talking for so long about the coming of shortages of materials due to defense production that I have almost quit listening. Salesmen come around and say, "You'd better double up on this item. There's a shortage coming, you know. Civilian production is going to be cut by 50 per cent next quarter."

Yet, those shortages have failed to materialize. However, they say this time it's really coming up, and have figures to prove it. There will be plenty of people, me included, that will believe the shortage when it comes.

The defense mobilizers are anxious to speed up the production of guns and have announced second-quarter production quotas that will cause the shortage, they say. The housing industry, which started

1,000,000 homes last year and had expected enough materials to produce 800,000 this year, will get only enough materials to build 600,000.

The appliance industry, which had expected to maintain the 1951 last-quarter production, got another stiff 10 per cent cut. This brings the production of home appliances down to 45 per cent of the pre-Korea output.

Surprising as it may seem, the automobile industry is getting more. They have been crying about having to lay off so many employees, which probably had some bearing on the allocation. The steel quota was originally set for 800,000, was boosted to 900,000 cars. But there is a catch: the industry will get only enough copper and aluminum for 800,000 cars. Naturally, they are racking their brains trying to find substitutes for copper and aluminum. So far, they haven't been too successful in finding those substitutes. General Motors started using coated steel radiators seven months ago but found that they rust so badly that it will probably cost GM about $5,000,000 to replace the defective units.

Boss of the mobilization movement, Charles E. Wilson is aware that civilian production can't stand too many more cuts without bad effects. Wilson started cutting the defense-supporting industries which now take a large part of all the steel in the country. He cut the steel for freight-car production from 9,500 cars a month last year to 5,000.

My only suggestion is to forget your worries and let's face the shortages as they come.

And I thank you.

HOME FOLKS—There is a story, not officially confirmed but believed to be true, that Hubert Olive had definitely decided not to run for governor. Then his homefolks at Lexington and in Davidson county staged a rally pledging support. Two days later he was in the race with a formal announcement of his candidacy. That is comparable to the story which has been confirmed, that two years ago Willie Smith had positively decided not to call for a second primary in the senatorial race until a group of his home folks in Raleigh and Wake county staged a "demand" rally in his front yard. The record on Smith is an item of history; he called for the run-off and was nominated and elected. The record on Olive has not been completed. He may or may not be nominated for governor. But, win or lose, it is bound to be a matter of gratification and pride that his homefolks stood by him in the period of uncertainty—and that their loyalty probably turned the scales.

"RING"—In almost every county in North Carolina there are charges and denials about existence of a "court house ring" at the county seat which tries to run politics in the county. For some years there have been similar references to the "Shelby ring," (Webb-Hoey-Gardner) seeking to dominate state politics. Now some folks who do not know the historic background are referring to Ernest Gardner, Cleveland county lawyer-farmer and announced candidate for governor, as a part of that "Shelby ring," and his candidacy as an effort of the "ring" to perpetuate its influence in state affairs. Ernest Gardner is distant related by blood and marriage to both the dominant Webb-Hoey-Gardner faction, but the fact is he is not remotely related to that group by political affiliation. Political soothsayers hereabouts do not accord him much chance to be governor. If he should pull a real upset and win the nomination, it will be a new deal and not a continuance of what is commonly meant by the "Shelby ring."

ABSENTEES—The one request received Thursday from a man in the armed forces for an absentee ballot to be voted in the May 31 primary brings the in the office of Secretary of State (and bure to turn several hundred are expected before the primary, but experience has been that a good many of the ballots sent out will not be returned. Among the applications now in hand are some with military addresses several months old, raising serious question whether the mail would catch up with the soldier in time for him to process and return the ballots. Only members of the armed services are eligible to vote absentee ballots in the primary.

INDONESIA—Able Upchurch, assistant to Highway Chairman Henry Jordan, found in his mail the other day a request for some information coming from far-away Indonesia. Upchurch said he would send the data requested, but he had hoped never to hear anything else about Indonesia after 1950. Reference was to his service as publicity director for the senatorial campaign of Dr. Frank Graham, whose supporters made much of the fact Dr. Graham had obtained a compromise settlement of troublous situations in Indonesia.

ALL THE WAY—Marshall Kurfess, in Raleigh Wednesday to pay the $39 filing fee as a candidate for lieutenant-governor, said he didn't like suggestion by some newspapers that he might not stay in the race—because two years ago he took himself out of the race for United States senate against Clyde Hoey after paying the filing fee. Mr. Kurfess reverted to a card table parlance and recalled that many a poker player had put up money on each card as dealt until the last, and then thrown in his hand. That doesn't mean that same player will quit every time. Next deal he might win the pot. So Kurfess says he is staying in this race for lieutenant-governor until the votes are counted.

OPONENTS—The day after Kurfess paid the filing fee there came the long expected formal announcement by Roy Rowe as a candidate for the state's No. 2 office. Others are expected but presently these two have the field to themselves in public life. Kurfess is mayor of Winston-Salem. His private business is operating a taxicab company in the Twin City. In public life Rowe is a veteran of fifteen years as a member of the general assembly. His business includes operating moving picture shows at Burgaw and Elizabeth town, raising beef cattle on his Pender county farm, and operating a small airport which is mainly used by his own planes. Some war around the capital comparing chances of the two candidates, observed that he hadn't checked to see which had the head start. "It's taxi drivers against airplane pilots and movie projectionists," he said. He added that he felt sure there are more taxicabs than airplanes and picture shows combined, but there had been a lot of times when he wanted a cab and couldn't find one, and he had never been turned away from a picture show. That is of course, a facetious approach to the question. Marshall Kurfess doesn't drive a taxi—although he owns a good many and can drive 'em. Roy Rowe does pilot his own plane, but he does not operate a movie projector, although he owns several and can run them if it becomes necessary.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

BANKRUPTCIES GROWING (Wilson Times)
In an era of prosperity, it seems odd that bankruptcies should grow. But that's the report that the Referee in Bankruptcy put out in Greensboro the other day. Filed recently were 20 petitions which is the largest the office has had since 1946. But what alarms the Referee is the fact that the "no assets" cases are growing, too. In short, then, the companies don't give up until they've depleted their cash.

In 1946 we had large numbers of GI's who ventured into business. In almost all cases, it was small business, involving only small sums of money. It was natural that many would fail, first, because they lacked experience, and, secondly, because they weren't adequately financed. But most of those who failed have gone by the wayside. The new cases are the ones that just can't make the grade in this era of flexible prices. They simply can't adjust quickly enough to save themselves.

In the year of 1952 taxes will play a large part. Many, therefore, who might make good if taxes were normal will succumb because they're not. That should serve as a warning to those business men who haven't gone through their own houses. For any inflationary period is a period of adjustments, some of which must be made quickly to offset price changes over which those who have no control. If the alert, they may find themselves

Business Today

The National Better Business Bureau, which has spanked the bad boys of door-to-door selling more resoundingly than any one else, is publishing a vigorous defense in a bulletin, "The Right of Free Men to Engage in Legitimate Business."

For years the national and local BBB's have been cracking down on the sharpies and phonies in doorstep selling. They have persuaded the national magazines to police their subscription solicitors and set up a registration system intended to keep out those who collect and vanish; they have acted against the claims in selling housewares. At the same time it is publishing its defense of the industry, the National BBB is warning home owners against the "model home" and "humus" rackets. In the saying they want to put a demarcation on in the neighborhood, and promising commissions on other contracts. The home owner gets a skimpy job a full bill and no commissions. In the second, the "humus" is sand and soot.

But to ban the entire industry "in hope of catching a few thieves on its fringe is like burning down a barn to roast a pig," the National BBB says.

Many communities have acted to forbid door-to-door selling since the Supreme Court held such action is not a threat to interstate commerce. Such prohibitions are a threat to an industry selling $7,000,000,000 in goods a year, employing more than 1,000,000 workers and providing livelihoods for 1,500,000 bell-pushers, the bulletin asserts.

Door-to-door selling, the bulletin points out, is sometimes the only way to introduce new products. The can opener, safety razor and hundreds of other everyday products gained acceptance through direct sales. Many stores and service businesses survive because of door-to-door orders supplementing other sales. The bulletin quotes both Catholic and Baptist authorities as opposed to restrictive ordinances because they might interfere with the distribution of Bibles and other religious articles.

In short, it says, general prohibition of door-to-door selling would not only create a vacuum in the distributive economy, but would violate American fair play.

Single copies of the bulletin are free from NBBB, 405 Lexington Ave., New York 17; bulk copies are $1.50 a hundred.

SAYS HOUSING CUTBACK WILL LIFT PRICES
The government's cutback in materials for housing is a nice windfall for many home owners," the Old Promoter remarked in the course of his weekly call.

"It now looks as if there won't be many more than 600,000 housing units built this year and there's demand for 1,000,000," he went on. "That means that the selling price of present homes will go up. I won't be surprised if doesn't lack $1,000 on the value of the average home."

"I've got options on a few houses I think we can turn a quick profit on. Now if you've got a couple of thousand dollars lying around."

The Old Promoter used to be satisfied with a cigar. Now he wants money. That's inflation for you.

U. S. TIGHT TRADER. SHAVES IMPORT PRICES
Uncle Sam is finding that being a tough trader pays off.

When the defense program was launched, foreign producers of essential materials expected easy sales at high prices. But the U. S. A., depending on synthetics, stayed out of the rubber market and prices fell from 70 to 46 cents a pound. More recently, foreign copper dropped from 54 to 46 cents a pound and lead from 22 to 19 cents. There is still hope of getting tin below current asking prices.

The cutbacks in allocations of materials during the second quarter are painful, but they are helping to save millions in costs.

BUYERS PROTECTED IN TV DEPRECIATION
An anti-depreciation guarantee is being used by a California store to sell television sets. Under a plan which it has copyrighted, sets are tagged "49 cents a day." The store agrees to accept the set as a trade-in at any time in the future at its selling price less 49¢ a day. Some higher-priced sets carry a larger figure.

U. S. SHOWS BUILDERS HOW TO KEEP BOOKS
A manual providing a simple but complete system of book-keeping for small home builders is called "Record Keeping for the Small Home Builder," and has been compiled by the Housing and Home Finance Agency. It is $25 from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington 25, D. C.

Hal Boyle's Column

By ARTHUR EDSON (For Hal Boyle)
WASHINGTON—(AP)—In the old days the best political advertisement a politician could have was that he was born in a log cabin.

A better political bet today, statistically at least, is a war record.

From President Truman (Capt. Truman of the 129th Field Artillery) on down, the country is run chiefly by veterans.

With almost 19,000,000 veterans around, it's hardly surprising to find many of them showing up in congress. But did you know that more than half the congressmen are veterans?

Omar Ketchum of the Veterans of Foreign Wars has been peering at the records of congressmen. He found that 289—or 54.6 per cent—of all Representatives and Senators were in the Spanish-American War, World War I or World War II.

Eighteen congressmen have been in two wars, and one, Senator Ed Martin (R-Pa.), in the process of working up from Private to Major General, served in all three.

Fifty-eight of the 96 Senators have war records; in the House, 231 of the 433 Representatives (there are two vacancies) are veterans.

As might be expected, World War I veterans still are in the lead, but the World War II men are closing in.

In the Senate, World War I veterans are ahead, 38 to 13. This doesn't include Martin or Senators Frear (D-Del.) and Hendrickson (R-N.J.), who were in both.

The House shows how World War II veterans are gaining. There the World War I lead is only 124 to 92. Thirteen Representatives served in both, one served in peacetime, and one, Rep. Woodruff (R-Mich.), was in the Spanish-American War and World War I.

And speaking of the Spanish-American War, six congressmen are still around—and going strong—who fought for their country more than a half century ago.

These include the agile 84-year-old Senator Neely (D-W.Va.), Senator Gillette (D-Ia.), Senator Connally (D-Tex.) and Martin and Woodruff also were in World War I.

But don't get the idea that there is no political hope for the non-veteran, for many of them are doing fine.

Washington Letter

WASHINGTON—In a town where most ventures are anything but, a business calling itself, "SHY, Inc.," is gaining considerable prestige.

Operated and owned by 20 of the capital's top models, all curvaceous and pretty, and smart as well, SHY, Inc., offers fashion advice, models for fashion shows and demonstrators in convention booths. It also takes wives on shopping tours of the city while their husbands are busy attending conventions. "We'll help lone delegates shop for gifts for wives left at home, too," one of the model officials explained.

SHY gets its provocative title from the initials of its three model executives: Julie Shadel, Ann Hinson and Marjabelle Young. It's a co-operative model corporation with each of the 20 girls paying a $10 initiation fee and buying a share or more of stock at five dollars a share. Each girl puts 10 per cent of her earnings back into the company.

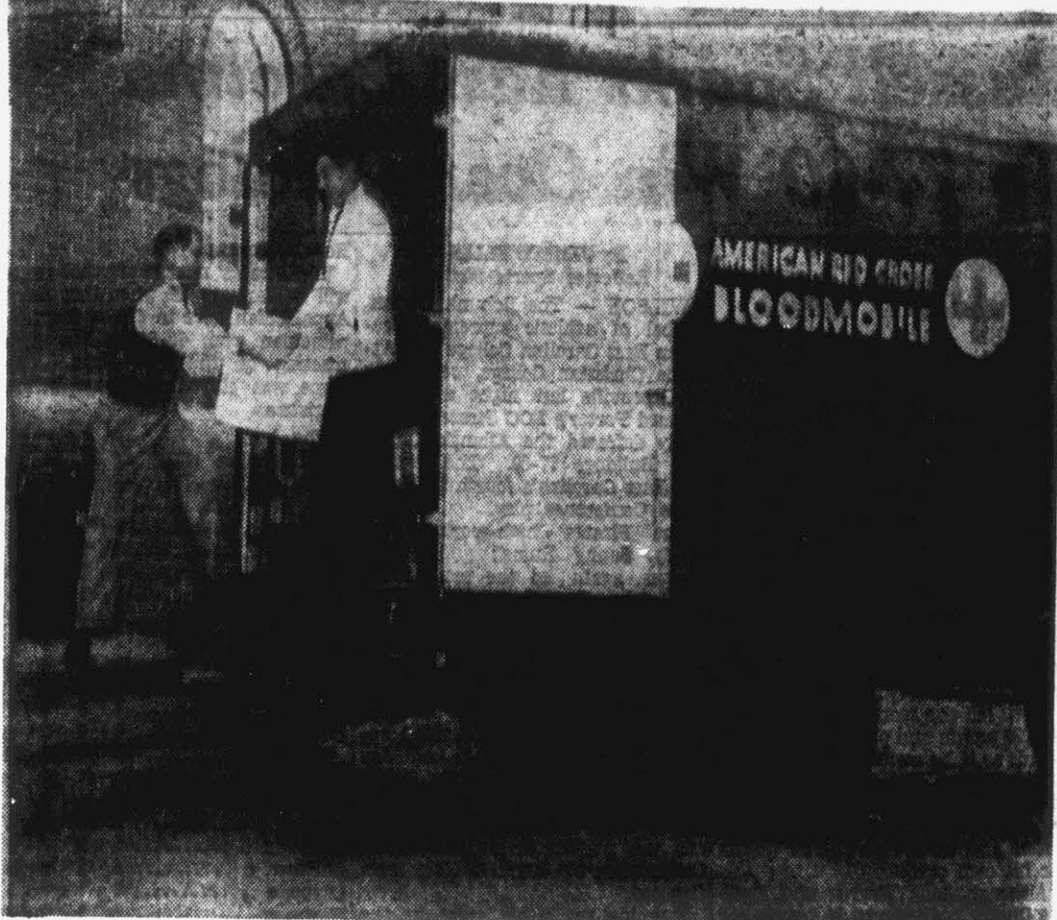

Mrs. Shadel, wife of Bill Shatter for CBS, says that seven main stockholders were allowed to buy four shares, while the remaining 13 each purchased one share. The group holds stockholders' meetings and has its own office. Mrs. Young is president.

A typical request phoned into SHY recently came from a housewife. "She said her husband did not like the way she dressed," Mrs. Shadel explained. "She asked us to show her how to look better."

SHY girls took her to two stores where she had her accounts. She bought two dresses, two suits and two hats. Accessories were suggested, and her escorts gave her pointers on make-up and told her where she could get a good hair-do.

"Her husband was very happy," Mrs. Shadel told me, "despite the bills his wife ran up and the $50 fee she had to pay us for advice on how to spend his money."

Bloodmobile Is Center Of Much Activity Here Tuesday

Much Preparation And Work Involved In Visit

By MURIEL SHOTWELL
Reflector Staff Writer

The Educational Building of the Methodist Church was the center of activity in Greenville Tuesday morning and Tuesday afternoon when the bloodmobile paid its initial visit here in the newly launched blood collection program.

The bloodmobile with its crew of six nurses, one doctor, and two custodians arrived here early Monday night and began setting up the equipment for the blood program Tuesday morning.

Some of the first of 153 donors beat the bloodmobile to the draw when they arrived at the center before the equipment had been set up. They waited patiently to go through the procedures in donating blood.

As the donors entered the building, their names were checked off at the appointment desk. From there they registered and then were sent into another room for a temperature, pulse, hemoglobin, and blood pressure check. The donors' weights were recorded and they answered a few questions for medical history.

If all of the tests were passed, the donors were given a bottle and then ushered into the donor room. Here neat beds were placed throughout the room and the actual donation of blood began. The donors were in the donor room for just a short while and the actual collection of blood took from five to fifteen minutes, depending on the person.

The first group of donors who came Tuesday morning set a pace for the rest. The first group was made up mostly of men and there was very little seriousness among them. They talked and laughed with one another and then filed into the canteen where the "party" continued. Here they related their experience with donating blood and one commented, "Now, I've had a cup of coffee and am ready to give another pint."

Even though they appeared in the best of spirits, the nurses stationed in the canteen watched closely for any signs of paleness among them, but all in vain.

Practically every donor had a good reason for giving a pint of blood but one had the best reason of all. As the Air Force Sergeant, who is an instructor at East Carolina College, left the donor room, he said, "The pint I just gave is to replace the pint of blood my brother received in Korea."

Other than the regular doctor on duty who came with the bloodmobile, Dr. D. H. Vance, there was a local doctor in the donor room at all times. Dr. John Mewborn of Farmville headed the medical advisory committee for the county.

Perhaps the most popular place in the whole center was the canteen where volunteer workers from the Service League served coffee, milk, fruit juice, cakes and cookies, to the donors. The donors sat around large tables taking refreshment and the conversation centered around their recent experience.

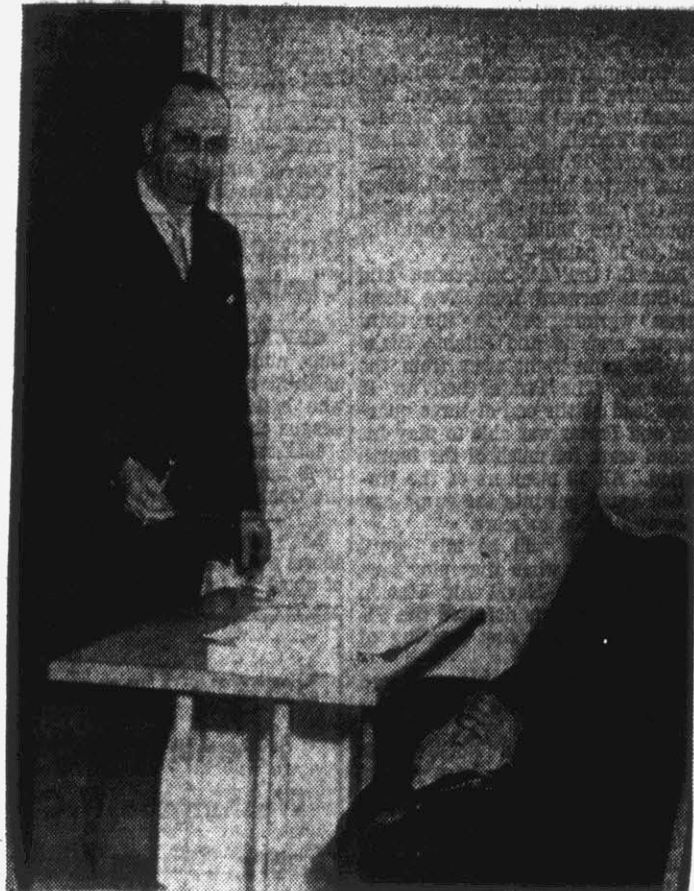

When entering the canteen, each blood donor was given a pin, in the shape of a drop of blood and a cross outlined on it, to show they had donated blood to the Red Cross. Most of the donors are still wearing their pins.

At the back of the canteen was a large blue sheet spread from one side of the room to the other side. Behind the sheet were two beds and it was labeled the "recovery room" but had fewer customers than any room in the building during the day.

The blood which was donated Tuesday was packed in ice immediately following the donation. One of the two custodians said the blood stayed in ice until it arrived in Norfolk where it was tested and typed before being sent overseas or to hospitals for civilian use.

Ed Williford, Lester Turnage, and Hoover Taft have their temperatures and weights checked by one of the volunteer nurses while waiting to enter the donor room.

Mayor Lester D. Page of Greenville registers to become one of the 153 donors. This was the first step in the procedure set up by the volunteer workers from the Service League.

Mrs. Charles Braswell takes down the necessary information from Hoover Taft while a nurse with the bloodmobile looks on and C. D. Ward looks away.

Mrs. C. A. White undergoes the necessary blood pressure and hemoglobin tests given to all the prospective donors before they can donate blood. In the background, Mrs. E. E. Ravi serves orange juice to donors waiting their turn.

Sixteen ECC Students On Quarter Honor List

Sixteen students at East Carolina College received special recognition for the excellence of their scholastic records during the fall quarter in two honors lists just released by the office of Registrar Orval L. Phillips. These students, four men and twelve women, made one, or the highest possible grade, on each of the courses included in their schedules for the fall quarter. All of these students except one are North Carolinians, and four are from Greenville.

The dean's list for the fall quarter, according to Dr. Phillips' report, includes 76 undergraduates who made at least two and a half quality points per credit hour on all work taken, with no grade below a three, the grade given for work average in quality. The honor roll is composed of 235 undergraduates who made at least two quality points per credit hour on all work taken, with no grade below a three. A total of 311 students, of whom 94 are men and 217 are women, is included on the two lists of those who did work of superior quality for the period.

Those making the grade of one on all their courses included two freshmen, six sophomores, six juniors, and two seniors. They are: James H. Limer, sophomore, Warren; Donnell M. Pitt Dairymen To Attend Meet At State College

County Farm Agent Sam Winchester announced this morning that several Pitt County dairymen are planning to attend the annual Dairymen's Conference to be held January 20-21, at N. C. State College.

Winchester said the conference is designed to allow dairymen and their herdsmen to spend some time each year keeping up with the latest developments in the dairy industry.

"The program is divided into four major subdivisions dealing with problems of management, feeding, breeding and diseases," the farm agent stated. "The program is arranged so as to accomplish certain specific objectives."

"They are: to give dairymen an opportunity to review research work that has been done at State College; to bring dairymen in contact with some outstanding national leaders in the various phases of dairy production; to her practical down-to-earth discussions by successful dairymen in North Carolina; and to bring breeders of different breeds of dairy cattle together for discussion of problems common to all."

Some of the many outstanding personalities scheduled to speak at the conference are: R. R. Birch, professor emeritus, Cornell Veterinary College Ithaca, N. Y.; George Hyatt, educational consultant and farm manager, Hoards Dairyman, Fort Atkinson, Wis.; R. E. Hodgson, assistant chief, Bureau of Dairy Industry, Washington, D.C.; and L. Y. Ballentine, commissioner, N. C. Department of Agriculture.

In addition to these eminent speakers, many prominent and practical dairymen from all over North Carolina will deliver lectures, Winchester said. "Those planning to attend should send a $5.00 registration fee to Division of College Extension, Box 512, State College Station, Raleigh, N. C.," he added.

The conference is sponsored by the N. C. Dairy Breeders, N. C. Guernsey Breeders, N. C. Holstein Breeders, N. C. Jersey Breeders, and the N. C. Milk Producers Federation.

Price Of White Potatoes Rolled Back By Order

WASHINGTON—(AP)—White potato prices were rolled back five to 10 per cent today in the face of potato industry demands for higher ceilings.

Plea for an extension of up to 30 days to permit potato growers to be heard in opposition to controls were rejected yesterday by Price Stabilizer Michael V. DiSalle.

But an Office of Price Stabilization (OPS) official said the regulation, effective at 1 a.m. level, probably would be revised to meet suggestions by various state groups. He said changes would be made in a general revision of the order rather than piecemeal to meet individual demands.

FHA Rally Held On Wednesday

Approximately 200 FHA members, advisors, and guests attended the Pitt County Future Homemakers of America Rally which was held Wednesday afternoon at the Belvoir High School.

Upon arrival, the host chapter invited the members, advisors, and guests into the home economics cottage. They were served refreshments and invited to inspect the cottage and its new furnishings. Members of the chapter assisted the leader, Mrs. Marguerite Pearce.

A short business meeting of routine matters was held in the high school auditorium which was decorated with a large FHA banner and an arrangement of red roses, the club flower.

Nancy Howell of the Greenville chapter presided at the meeting and Ola Forrest, principal of the high school welcomed the guests to the school and community. C. M. Grant, pastor of the Bethel Methodist Church gave a devotional. The song leader, Doris Wilkerson of the Farmville Chapter, led the group in singing.

Each chapter received a door prize which was an item useful for their department. The Grimesland FHA received a prize for the best name tag. Mabel Lacy and D. H. Conley served as judges.

Mrs. Betty Gorton of the Greenville Recreation Department had charge of the recreational activities which were held in place of a speaker. All of the club members and leaders took an active part in the activities.

Mexico achieved its independence from Spain in 1810. The change was not effected until 1821.

The first blood to the local hospital from the Tidewater region arrived here yesterday afternoon by bus. The bottles were packed in ice and the large trunks were picked up by the police and taken to the hospital and placed in refrigerators which are kept at a constant temperature.

Thirty pints were sent yesterday and the hospital will order blood every Thursday which will arrive the next day. Jadie Spain, head technician at the hospital here, said he would order the amount needed every week.

The blood will keep for 21 days as whole blood but the unused supply here will be sent back to the blood center in Norfolk every 14th day to go to hospitals which are in immediate need of the blood. All blood types will be kept at the hospital.

In case of emergency, blood will be sent here from Norfolk by state highway patrol or Civil Air Patrol planes. Recently, a woman in Abovick needed more blood after the supply at the hospital had been administered to her. A quick call brought blood to her, via the highway patrol from Norfolk's Tidewater Blood Center.

Arrangements for keeping blood at the local hospital were made by Virginia Merrill, chief technician for the Tidewater center, when she conferred with C. D. Ward, Pitt Memorial Hospital superintendent, a few days before the bloodmobile arrived.

Also in preparation for the arrival of the bloodmobile, Mary Quinlan of the area office, Atlanta, conducted an orientation program for volunteer workers who included members of the Service League and nurses. Mrs. J. T. Little headed the volunteer workers and Mrs. Howard Grady directed the work of the nurses.

Hoover Taft, chairman of the Pitt County Chapter of the Red Cross, appointed Jack Wallace as recruitment chairman for the blood program. Wallace in turn appointed sub-committee chairmen from civic clubs and organizations in the city and they recruited the donors. Each donor signed a pledge card and then received appointment cards from the Red Cross office.

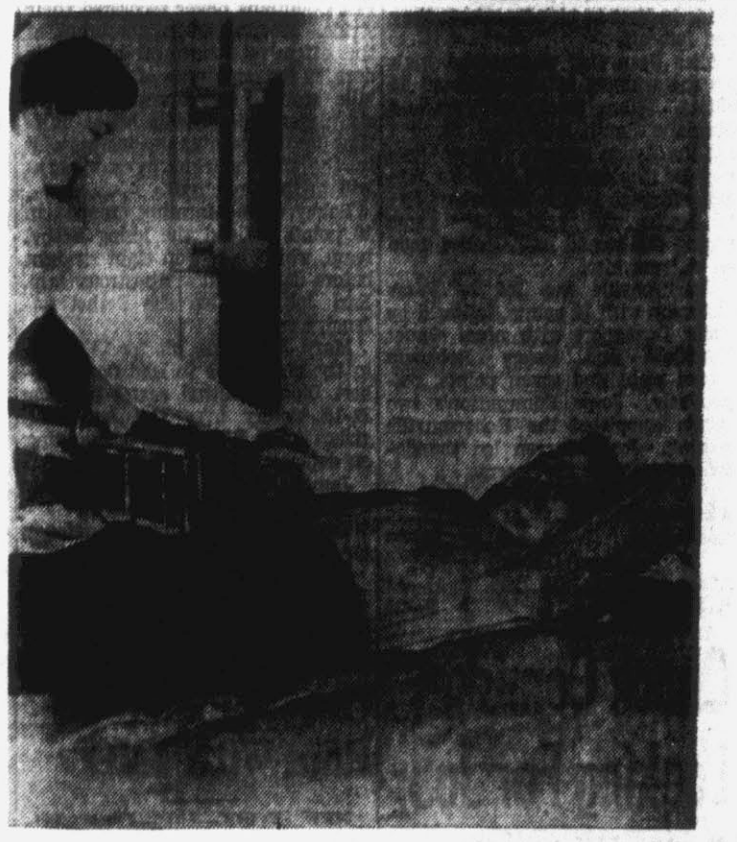

B. C. Satterfield was the general blood program chairman.

A number of the civic clubs and organizations in the city were responsible for a large part of the 153 donors. The clubs which participated in recruiting donors were the Elks, Exchange Club, VFW, highway patrol, Kiwanis club, Woman's club, Lion's club, Moose, Negro organizations, Service League, Junior Woman's club, Rotary, Industrial, Chamber of Commerce, Business and Professional Women's club, East Carolina College, and the city police force.

The department aided in setting up the facilities, under the direction of Fire Chief George Gardner.

Since Pitt County has participated in the Red Cross Blood Program, the residents of the county will be able to receive needed blood without any charge, except for the cost of administration and tests required for safe cross-matching of blood.

If a person is out of the county, or out of the state when blood is

Worthington Scores 22 In 57-40 Greenville Victory

Ayden Defeats Rams Bright Scores 41

By MELVIN LANG
Reflector Sports Writer

ROBERSONVILLE — Katherine Bright dropped in 41 points here last night to lead Ayden's girls to a 59-40 victory over the local Robersonville sextet. Ayden's improved boys won the nightcap 41-28 to make it a clean sweep for Ayden.

In scoring her 41 points, Katherine set a new unofficial school record in Ayden for the most points scored by a single player. In compiling the record number of points, she connected on 20 of 30 attempts from the floor for a .667 shooting accuracy for the night. She also made one of four attempts from the foul line.

Mac Whitehurst led the Ayden boys in the scoring column with 18 points and played a good game on defense. Whitehurst hauled down a total of 19 rebounds to lead both teams in that department for the night's work. Guard Delano Cox hit for 13 points and second high for the game. Cox took the scoring lead in the second period and hit for eight of the 10 points scored by the Tornadoes. He connected on four successive set shots from outside the circle.

Ayden jumped into the lead early in the game and built up 10-2 lead soon after the first quarter opened. By the end of the period Ayden was leading 13-4, and were never in serious trouble after that point.

Billy Warren and Julius Budeck tied for scoring honors for the Rams as Robersonville went down to its first defeat in Coastal Conference play after winning three straight. Each of the Robersonville stars collected 10 points. Mac Cherry and Darrell Grooms were outstanding on defense for the losers.

Curtis Dennis took care of all the defensive play left over by Ayden's Whitehurst and Cox. The Tornado senior also picked up six points to go along with his sterling defensive performance.

Girls' Game
It was Ayden all the way in the girls game as they picked up 12 points in the first quarter, ten of them by Katherine Bright, and held Robersonville's girls to six points.

The win was the second straight for Ayden in Coastal competition, while Robersonville now has won one, lost two, and tied one. Ayden has an overall record of eight wins and three defeats while the locals have won three, lost three, and tied one.

The final margin was wider than at any point in the game, although Ayden led by more than 10 points after the first quarter. Robersonville staged a mild rally soon after the second quarter opened and again in the third period, but each time, Bright and company recovered their stride in time to pick up where they had left off.

Alice Jean Cox was second high for the winners as she collected 11 points. Wilma Stocks with six and Charlene Smith with one rounded out the Ayden scoring. Peggy Conway led the defensive play for Ayden, although Goldie Harris and Sybil Meeks, who were in the game during the second half, looked good on defense also.

Robersonville was led by Patsy Roberson with 14 points, followed by Betty Davenport with nine. Janet Whitfield and Peggy Roberson scored eight and seven points, respectively. Joyce Edmundson's two points completed the Robersonville scoring. Joan Warren led the defensive play for the losers.

Chuck Comiskey Looking For Job; Quits White Sox

CHICAGO (AP)—Baseball's only front office holdout, Charles A. (Chuck) Comiskey II, considered himself a free agent today.

The 26-year-old grandson and namesake of the Chicago White Sox founder is looking for another job in baseball.

His resignation as vice president and secretary of the White Sox was accepted yesterday by the board of directors, headed by his mother, Mrs. Grace Comiskey, club president.

But the door was left ajar for Chuck to return to the club.

He wanted a boost in his $10,000 yearly salary and a term contract. He never gave the directors a chance to talk terms yesterday, storming from the meeting room when the board refused to permit his attorney, Byron M. Getzoff, to remain in the session.

As he flounced white-faced with anger from the room his mother appealingly called: "Chuck."

His sister, Mrs. Dorothy Comiskey Rigney, treasurer, also called to him. He paid no attention.

The board, also including White Sox lawyers Thomas J. Sheehan and Roy J. Egan as members then met and accepted the resignation.

Mrs. Rigney, the club's treasurer, was appointed secretary. The position of vice president was left open. Chuck said he did not yet know whether he would resign from the board of directors, but said if he landed another job in the big leagues he would dispose of his stock.

The board estimated that Chuck received "more than $27,000" in salary, appropriated expense account and dividends last year.

Grimesland Boys Win Over Chicod As Girls Lose

CHICOD — Grimesland's boys edged out Chicod here last night, 41-35, to take their sixth consecutive victory. Chicod's girls won the nightcap, 34-25.

Grimesland held the lead throughout the game, but were threatened constantly by the fighting Chicod five. With approximately three points remaining in the game, Grimesland went into a freeze with themselves leading by four points.

Billy Boyd hit for 13 points to lead the scoring for Grimesland. Bobby Reid and Earl Wright each picked up 10 points. Wright and Boyd led the defensive play for the winners.

Chicod was led by Kenneth Ross with 13 points, followed by Randolph Mills with 12 points. J. T. Mills led the defensive play.

Shirley Gaskins dropped in 35 points to lead the Chicod girls to their 34-25 victory. Clara Wilson scored five points to take second high scoring honors.

Joyce Moring collected 10 points to lead the losing girls. Shirley McLawhorn picked up five points for Grimesland. Adrienne White and Annie Laurie Taylor led the defensive play.

Grimesland coach Joe Lupton will sponsor a team of all-stars Tuesday night for a game with the Simpson Ruritans, with the proceeds from the game to go to the March of Dimes benefit.

Phants Win Second Conference Contest

Wallace Conway Trails Worthington With 15 Points As Phantoms Dominate All Phases Of Play; Juniors Win 66-44

ELIZABETH CITY — Greenville's Phantoms literally ran to their second victory within the North-eastern Conference last night by gaining a 57-40 decision over the Elizabeth City Yellow Jackets.

Lanky Smith Worthington dumped in 22 points for the Phantoms to do the most damage to the Jax. Worthington connected on nine of 18 attempts from the floor during the night and made four of five free throws.

On top of his scoring record, Worthington was also one of the leading rebounders of the night. His 22 points was only five better than teammate Wallace Conway's 15. Conway and Worthington virtually controlled the backboards during the rough and sometimes hectic action during the night.

Greenville took the opening tap and quickly built up a lead of five points before Elizabeth City could get started, and had increased it to twelve before the close of the first quarter, 18-8. Worthington accounted for 10 of his 22 points in the first period, while Sid Briley and Glenn Scott consistently broke through the Yellow Jackets' offense to stop nearly all of their scoring attempts.

Worthington came back with nine points in the second period as Greenville increased its lead to 26-16 at halftime intermission. It was the same story all over again. Greenville's offense worked flawlessly while the Jax could not penetrate the Phantom defense, as led by Scott and Joe Rowland.

Elizabeth City came back after the half to make their best showing of the night as they dropped in 16 points while holding the winners to 12. The Jax were quick to take advantage of several mental errors committed by Greenville as the Phantoms' fast break appeared to be too fast for even their own players. Lindsey Hewitt, Elizabeth City's all-conference football player, took over the scoring for his team at this point.

Coach Boley Farley of Greenville elected to clear his bench in the final quarter, but the Phantoms still managed to outscore the outclassed Yellow Jackets, 12-8.

Hewitt was high for the night for the losers with a total of 15 points, followed close by "Creepin'" Crank with 12 points. Elizabeth City's Skipky Hall and Dal Williams played excellent games on defense.

Vanceboro Takes Double Decision

VANCEBORO — Vanceboro's basketball teams took a double victory over Farmville here last night, with 45 boys winning out 46-37, and the Vanceboro girls winning 45-40.

Vanceboro's boys led all the way for the decision. Taylor led the way by scoring 14 points, followed by Peterson with 13 points. Wesley Gladson led the defensive play for the winners.

Farmville was paced by Charlie Fitzgerald with 13 points. Marvin Tugwell hit for 10 points and second high honors for the Red Devils. Bert Warren was outstanding on defense for the losers.

Vanceboro's girls made a strong comeback in the last quarter that paid off as Lois Jean Forrest paved the way with 34 points. Farmville led at halftime, 24-20.

Soccer Is Liked By The Italians
ROME, (AP) — If you doubt soccer is popular in Italy read these statistics:

Exactly 109,347 players — all members of the Italian soccer federation — played 64,951 games during the 1949-50 season.

The Federation, which announced the figures, said 4,962 referees are enrolled.

Breaking down the statistics on games played during last season, the Federation reported:

Of the total of 64,951 contests, 39,161 were in league play for the various championships disputed annually; 22,220 were played for the boys' leagues titles; there were 3,517 non-league or friendly games, and 53 contests were against foreign teams in and outside of Italy.

Russell Sparks East Carolina To 77-60 Win Over Bulldogs

Rex Lewis Leads Grifton To Win Over Stokes

STOKES — Rex Lewis was virtually the whole show here last night as he led the Grifton Bulldogs to a 75-40 victory over Stokes High School. Stokes gained an even split in the evening's activity, however, with a 35-28 victory in the girls game.

Lewis led the scoring for the night with 32 points and played both backboards as if he owned them as Grifton took the Pitt County Conference game. His brother, John, took care of all the incidentals that Rex missed and wound up with 19 points for his own credit.

Although Jack Warren and Donnie Cherry took 20 points for Stokes, Grifton's defense was few and far between in the boys game. They hopped to a 16-8 lead at the end of the first quarter and had extended the margin to 35-18 at the end of the half. The Lewis brothers and the rest of the team never let up and were still going strong at the end of the game.

Rex also did the lion's share of his team's defensive work while David Robinson and Cecil Butler led in that capacity for Stokes.

In the girls game, it was another matter. Stokes was never seriously bothered by the Grifton girls as Jane Bullock scored 14 of her team's 35 points. Judy Everidge followed in the scoring with eight points.

Although Jane and Judy were doing an effective job of scoring for Stokes and Frances Meeks and Frances Warren were doing a good job on defense, high scoring honors for the game went to a member of the Grifton team. Coleen Braxton flipped in 18 points in the losing cause while Phyllis Haddock followed with eight points.

Louis Corey and Gertrude Harris led the defensive play for Grifton. Stokes will travel to Robersonville Tuesday night while Grifton will entertain Maury. Both teams will play double headers.

NOD GOOD ENOUGH
ATHOL, Mass. — (UP) — No one said "I do" when Mr. and Mrs. Lem Lewis of Syracuse, New York, were married here. The bride and groom, both deaf mutes, nodded their responses.

Watrous Leading In PGA Tourney
DUNEDIN, Fla. (AP) — If Al Watrous shoots anywhere near the game he showed the last two days, he will be an easy winner in the PGA Senior Open Golf tournament.

The Birmingham, Mich., pro entered the final 18 hole round today with a six stroke edge over the field. He had 67-71-138 for the first two rounds, six under par for the PGA National course.

Soccer Is Liked By The Italians
ROME, (AP) — If you doubt soccer is popular in Italy read these statistics:

Exactly 109,347 players — all members of the Italian soccer federation — played 64,951 games during the 1949-50 season.

The Federation, which announced the figures, said 4,962 referees are enrolled.

Breaking down the statistics on games played during last season, the Federation reported:

Of the total of 64,951 contests, 39,161 were in league play for the various championships disputed annually; 22,220 were played for the boys' leagues titles; there were 3,517 non-league or friendly games, and 53 contests were against foreign teams in and outside of Italy.

WILSON — The Bohunk Bucket, symbol of athletic supremacy between East Carolina College and Appalachian College, went back to Greenville last night as Coach Howard Porter's ECO Pirates rather easily defeated the Atlantic Christian Bulldogs 77-60. The victory was East Carolina's fourth in North State Conference play.

The Pirates' high-scoring forwards, Sonny Russell and Bobby Hodges, again led the scoring for both clubs. Russell, despite the fact that he was not having a good night, led the scoring parade with 20 points while the big Hodges followed with 15 points.

Atlantic Christian's top rung in the scoring bracket was divided between big Ray Shiffrin and Jay Clark. Both scored 14 points. Shiffrin is a 6-5 native of Philadelphia who has just become eligible at ACC and was playing in his first game. Clark is an old hand Bulldog from Concord.

Running up a big score in the first quarter was little work for the Pirates although it was clear from the start that they were their own worst enemies. Bad passes and poor rebounding slowed them down considerably but the Bulldogs were not able to take advantage of it.

After East Carolina built up its big first quarter score, the Bulldogs came alive in the second period and started to growl a little bit. Slender Gilbert Ferrell, a native of Wilson who scored 12 points for the Christians, started hitting from all angles and by the time the half rolled around, the Bulldogs had cut the lead to 10 points—38-28.

Russell, the All-Conference and All-State forward from New Bern, began warming up in the third quarter and he and Ritchie Blake ran the game right away from the Bulldogs. The Pirates had an 18 point lead at the end of three quarters and Porter was able to play his second team for much of the fourth period. All 12 members of the traveling squad got into the game and only two failed to score.

The Pirates will be idle until Tuesday night when they play host to the Norfolk Naval Air Station Flyers. The Flyers defeated the Pirates 63-55 in the first meeting of the two clubs.

East Carolina now has a record of seven wins and four losses. Four of the victories and two of the defeats have come in North State Conference play and have pulled the Pirates up into a second place tie with Lenoir Rhyne and High Point College.

Both Lenoir Rhyne and High Point will play tonight so the deadlock will be broken. The Bears will travel to Burlington to meet Elon College while High Point will be at Cullowhee to face Western Carolina Teachers College and high-scoring

Solons Already Argue Cuts In Awaited Budget

WASHINGTON (UP)—A new row broke out in Congress today over the best way to cut President Truman's expected budget of more than $80,000,000,000 for the next fiscal year.

The budget for fiscal 1953 will be sent to Capitol Hill Monday. But arguments already were raging over the best way to handle it.

Two of the most powerful men in Congress, Speaker Sam Rayburn and Chairman Clarence Cannon (D-Mo) of the House Appropriations Committee, took opposite sides.

Cannon wants to put the entire federal spending program in a single bill for Congress to consider in one package. He argued that this would save both time and money.

Rayburn insists on sticking to the traditional method of putting each government department's money in a separate bill. Rayburn went along with Cannon in trying the one-package approach two years ago but vowed then he wouldn't do it again.

The Texas Democrat contended that the one-package idea does not promote economy of time or money.

Cannon quietly called a meeting of his committee yesterday with the idea of getting it to okay a one-package plan again. Presumably he wanted to get the committee to vote before Rayburn found out what was going on.

But one of the Speaker's friends on the committee tipped Rayburn off and, it was learned, he soon had enough support lined up to defeat Cannon's move. Cannon called off the meeting.

"There's plenty of time yet," Cannon told reporters.

Truckers . . .

hops a per-mile rate multiplied by tonnage might be an equitable basis? I know that a proposition of this sort will not appeal to the truckers. But, I ask you, isn't it so often the abuse of privilege by a few which brings about regulation of all?

Advice to Truck Drivers

Many have noticed of late the increasing carelessness with which truckers drive. Almost any day, between Boston and Hartford, for example, they roll along racing each other, two abreast so that the average motorist has to fight for his place on the road. More than once lately I've been scared out of my wits by trucks failing to stop at red lights simply because they were rolling so fast they couldn't stop! We used to look upon truck drivers as the most courteous on the road. If overloading and recklessness continue, the whole industry will suffer.

Truckers ought to try to regulate themselves before the state and federal governments step in. In fact, municipal governments may soon rule that truckers can use downtown streets only after 6:00 p.m. Eliminating trucks from congested areas will be the next step in solving the wretched traffic conditions of today.

Labrador's puffins, rivaling the cliff swallows of San Juan Capistrano, leave their summer and winter haunts on definite dates and arrive at their destinations with equal predictability.

Keeps Pledge Of Troop Rotation

WASHINGTON (UP)—Only 281 American soldiers are spending a second winter in Korean combat, according to Assistant Defense Secretary Anna M. Rosenberg.

In a letter to Chairman Richard B. Russell (D-Ga) of the Senate Armed Services Committee, Mrs. Rosenberg recalled her pledge last October that only a few U.S. troops would have to spend more than one winter fighting in Korea.

"I am happy to report to you on behalf of the armed services that the commitments made to your committee have not only been carried out, but exceeded to an extent that we dared not hope or promise at that time," Mrs. Rosenberg said.

All army officers and enlisted men who were in a combat division or direct support unit in Korea on Jan. 1, 1951, have been rotated except 201 officers and 80 enlisted men, she said, and all these are specialists who are difficult to replace.

She said no Air Force or Navy man is spending a second winter in Korean combat.

Says Sea Power Relatively Cheap

CHARLESTON (AP)—Secretary of Navy Dan A. Kimball told the Charleston Chamber of Commerce last night that naval power is a "relatively cheap form" of national insurance.

Speaking at the banquet marking the 179th anniversary of the Charleston Chamber of Commerce, the Secretary of the Navy dealt mainly in statistics. He said the Navy was his "big business" with a plant valued at 140 billion.

He promised the Navy would cost the people "substantially less" than the $16 billions in the current budget.

U.S. Industries Won't Feel Loss Of Shipped Steel

WASHINGTON (UP)—American industry will not feel the loss of the 1,000,000 tons of steel Prime Minister Winston Churchill has obtained for Britain, mobilization officials said today.

Instead, they said, many civilian goods producers, who have been hit hardest by material cutbacks, are likely to benefit from the tin and aluminum Britain will swap for American steel.

The deal, announced yesterday in the final communique of the talks between President Truman and Churchill, aims primarily at bolstering U. S. - British defense production by easing material shortages. Each country is swapping what it has more of for what it has less of.

The United States agreed to sell Britain 1,000,000 tons of steel during 1952, less than 1 per cent of this country's annual production. The announcement said the sale will not cause further cuts in steel allocations to U. S. industry for the first half of this year.

The Defense Production Administration said the sale "should not have any effect" on future steel allotments to civilian producers in the second half of the year. If civilian output is ordered cut again, officials said, it probably will be because of the copper shortage.

None of the steel, DPA dressed, will be structural steel used for construction, plate steel used in making cars, refrigerators, washers and other civilian goods, or other forms of steel which are really scarce.

Officials said that from the standpoint of the American consumer the 20,000 tons of tin the British have agreed to divert to the United States from Malaya represent probably the most important aspect of the deal.

The United States is scrapping the bottom of the barrel for tin. Imports have virtually stopped due to a price wrangle with Bolivia. Domestic production is running at 25,200 tons a year and consumption at about 65,000 tons.

Britain also agreed to sell 55,000,000 pounds of aluminum during 1952, 10 per cent of her annual supply. It will come from Canada and will be replaced later when

Egyptians Claim Fired Upon By British Cruiser

By WALTER COLLINS
United Press Staff Correspondent
CAIRO, Egypt (UP)—Egyptian officials charged today that the British cruiser Liverpool opened fire at Port Said last night, but the British denied it.

Egyptian port police said the Liverpool fired from its anchorage in the harbor in the direction of Port Said during a four-hour clash between British troops and Egyptian guerrillas in the town.

A British military spokesman in Cairo said the Liverpool had not fired its guns. Port Said municipal authorities, moreover, conceded no damage or casualties had been reported.

It was the second time that the Egyptians have charged—and the British denied—that British warships have gone into action in the Suez Canal zone. The original incident was said to have occurred in the Lake Timsa section Nov. 17 and 18.

Egyptian witnesses said the Liverpool altogether fired about six shots, one or two at a time, from its anchorage in Port Said harbor. It was speculated that the cruiser may have fired some of its smaller guns into the air in an attempt to scare off guerrillas fighting British troops ashore. The shells might have fallen into Lake Mansala, west of town.

The Liverpool, one of several British warships in the Port Said area, is armed with six-inch guns, eight four-inch anti-aircraft guns, 16 two-pound pom-poms, 22 40-millimeter anti-aircraft guns and 15 20-millimeter anti-aircraft guns. The battle ashore was touched off by a two-pronged guerrilla attack on the British military camp guarding the Mediterranean entrance to the canal. Some British troops tried to fight their way through the attackers in armored cars, but Egyptian sources said the

GOP Chiefs End Meeting

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—The Republican national committee folded its tent today after supporters of the four hopefuls for the GOP presidential nomination waged a "great debate" in their bids for party support.

Harold E. Stassen closed out the oratory at a banquet last night at which he gave a word of advice to both the Eisenhower and Taft camps.

He said Gen. Dwight Eisenhower's "khaki curtain" had better come up before the July 7 nominating convention.

And as for Robert A. Taft, Stassen said the Ohio Senator's forces must win a majority of votes in the presidential primaries or Taft will not win the nomination in Chicago. The same thing goes for Eisenhower, Stassen said.

Gov. Earl Warren of California opened the three days of speech-making Thursday by saying that Republicans must back a program of "social progress" to win in November.

He was followed by David S. Ingalls, chairman of the Taft campaign, who spent a good portion of his speech lambasting the Eisenhower camp.

Ingalls also claimed that Taft had proved by his reelection to the beat the New Deal and that he would defeat the Democrats in a national election as well.

Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. (R-Mass), manager of the campaign for Eisenhower, argued that public opinion polls proved Eisenhower is the people's choice for President over Harry S. Truman, Taft, and all other American aspirants.

He belittled Taft's victory in Ohio by saying that a state election is not a "perfect test."

Stassen, like Warren, devoted most of his speech last night to a discussion of specific campaign issues.
