Truman To Withdraw His Name From New Hampshire Democratic Primary

WASHINGTON (UP— President Truman said today that he would have his name removed from the New Hampshire presidential primary, but added that this does not indicate his plans for the future.

The President told newsmen that if he decided to become a candidate for re-election, he would not have to enter any primaries.

He told his weekly news conference that all of these primaries would be just so much eyewash when the Democratic national convention meets.

The President's decision will leave Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn) alone in the Democratic presidential primary in New Hampshire.

Mr. Truman said the reason he was withdrawing was because there was no sense as he saw in being entered in any preference primary.

The President for the first time in many weeks evidenced some displeasure about playing the question-and-answer game with reporters over his possible 1952 plans.

He said enough questions had been asked on that subject and he suggested that it be dropped since there were so many other important things to be discussed.

Told that the state Democratic committee of Pennsylvania had asked him to stand for re-election, the President said this was being done all over the country but that he would not make any announcement until he is ready.

He denied that any "Stop Kefauver" campaign was being run out of the White House. He said he was not trying to stop anyone.

Mr. Truman was asked how he felt tbout the application of the new constitutional limitation on two terms for a President. Mr. Truman is exempt from the limitation. He said he thought the law was all right but that technically he had been in the White House only one term.

To be on the safe side, reporters asked the President whether he had made any decision tbout the senatorial primary in Missouri. He said no.

Mr. Truman's name was entered yesterday for the March 11 New Hampshire vote without his consent. Kefauver authorized his name to go on the ballot, although there was no indication that he knew he would be facing a direct test with Mr. Truman.

Aides of the Tennessee senator said he was in the New Hampshire contest to stay whatever the President might do. Kefauver has been the only avowed Democratic presidential candidate in the field while Mr. Truman has kept silent.

Some veteran Democrats in Congress predicted that Mr. Truman would "ignore" the entry of his name in New Hampshire. Other party sources believed the President might withdraw.

It is taken for granted by politicians that Mr. Truman can get the Democratic convention to renominate him if he wishes. If he does not want re-election, he is not expected to endorse Kefauver as his successor.

The New Hampshire situation arose after a White House caller, former Gov. Ellis Arnall of Georgia, visited the President and reported that he "sounds" very much like a candidate" for re-election.

Arnall, reported in line for a high government job if he will take it, said "the inference was that he (Mr. Truman) is willing to be a candidate."

On the Republican side of the New Hampshire primary, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio and Harold E. Stassen, president of the University of Pennsylvania, have been entered for what promises to be a significant three-way "popularity contest."

Last Minute Tax Filers Stand In Line; Final Day

Ten Percent Penalty Awaits Those Who Fail To Get Under The Wire Today

The long, winding column that crowded the courthouse lobby this morning and filed slowly by the tax listers' desk is a pathetic contrast to the situation a week ago, when lines were practically non-existent.

Property owners combined forces to jam the tax lines in a final attempt to get in "under the wire" and in so doing, avoid paying the 10 percent penalty for late listing which auditor Allan Powell said will "certainly be applied to those who list after today." "The time will positively not be extended," the auditor emphasized.

In this column, as in every long line, human nature was at odds with common courtesy, with some few last minute listers crowding ahead of a line that from time to time reached 50 people.

But the rush seemed confined to Greenville, with list takers in the county's other 12 townships reporting that most of them would finish listing today. At the completion of yesterday's listing, Greenville Township had on hand about 900 abstracts that had not been called for.

"Of this number, from 300 to 400 will be late but not delinquent," auditor Powell explained. "Most of the total is made up of people who own property in other townships and who have listed there, but whose abstracts have not been received here as yet. Greenville will probably be about 500 short at the completion of today's listing."

Between 17,000 and 18,000 property owners are expected to list this year throughout the entire county. Last year, all property in Pitt County was valued at $55,000,000 and brought in a total revenue of more than $670,000, the auditor said.

Pickets Hold Up Dacron Plant Construction

Members of the A. F. of L. painters union this morning picketed the entrance of Du Pont's $33,000,000 Dacron plant near Grifton throwing some 900 construction workers out of work as members of the other crafts refused to cross the painters union picket line. The photo above shows three of the pickets at the entrance of the Du Pont plant on highway No 11 between Grifton and Kinston where the picket line was formed. Only a handfull of pickets remained at the entrance to the plant site at mid-morning, but inside the plant site construction work was practically at a standstill. (Reflector Staff Photo).

Dacron Plant Construction Halted By Union's Walkout

Painters' Local Puts Up Picket Line In Dispute; Others Refuse To Cross; Negotiations Set This Afternoon

By DAVE WHICHARD
Reflector Managing Editor

GRIFTON—Local 678 of the A. F. of L. Painters Union threw up picket lines at the entrance of Du Pont's multi-million dollar Dacron plant here this morning and work was almost at a standstill as members of other craft unions refused to cross the painters' lines.

Practically all of the 925 construction workers at the plant site were out of work today as a result of the picket line of the Painters Union.

The picketing of the plant climaxed trouble between the Du Pont company and the Painters Union which has been brewing for several weeks. The Union Painters have been on strike at the construction site since noon December 31, but have not interferred with other workers on the job before this morning. One of the pickets told a Reflector reporter this morning the picket line was put up because the company yesterday hired non-union painters on the construction job.

The Associated Press quoted C. L. Bowen, a representative of the A. F. of L. Painters Union as saying the painters struck when the Wage Stabilization Board granted the painters a pay increase and the company refused to recognize the increase. Other reliable sources said, however, the painters walked out almost five weeks ago when the company refused to lay off four non-union painters who were on the job.

C. S. Anderson, project manager for the $33,000,000 Dacron plant, said in a statement released to The Reflector shortly after 12:30 this afternoon:

"The Painters Local this morning placed a picket line on highway number 11 at the entrance to our project, for the time being virtually shutting down the construction of the plant.

"Apparently this action was taken because: 1) we refused to lay off men at the Local's request on account of some unknown internal question; 2) because we have not granted a demanded wage increase, which increase would be a violation of wage stabilization, and 3) we are employing men to perform the work at legally established wage rates.

"We can not lay off men nor do we wish to lay off men who are performing satisfactory work without violating federal and state laws As to the rate being paid, it is the rate authorized by the Construction Industry Stabilization Commission and any increased rate not permitted under Stabilization regulation would subject the company to penalties that may be determined by the Regional Enforcement Commission."

Although no direct confirmation could be received from the company or the union, it is understood that company and union officials were to meet at 2 o'clock this afternoon to discuss the matter.

A mile-long traffic jam resulted this morning when workers reported for their regular jobs at the plant site and found the entrance being picketed by members of the Painters Union. The picket line went up shortly before 7 o'clock this morning and automobiles lined both sides of the highway as members of other unions and non-union workers made up their minds about crossing the picket lines. It was more than an hour before the traffic jam could be broken up, but by 11 o'clock less than half a dozen pickets remained at the entrance of the road leading to the plant site, and a few members of other craft unions sat in their cars at the plant, entrance awaiting developments in the strike.

Some of the non-union workers crossed the picket line without incident, and practically all the office personnel of the plant were at the regular jobs this morning. Activity on the actual construction site of the new Dacron plant was practically at a standstill.

Utilities Improvements Outlay High For Period

Spent $218,529 In Last Six Months Of 1951 For Permanent Work On Plant, Electrical, Water And Gas Systems

During the six months period ending December 31, the Greenville Utilities spent a total of $218,529.98 for permanent improvements to its utilities plant and electrical, water and gas systems.

The figures released today by Business Manager Larry Brown and Utilities Superintendent Martin Swartz showed $133,893.56 of the total capital outlay for the six months period came from the revenue fund of the utilities commission and $84,636.42 came from bond money which had been appropriated for specific capital outlay projects.

The money was applied to permanent imrovements at the water and light plant and to extensions of electric lines, water mains and sewer lines in the area served by the Greenville Utilities.

The $84,636.42 of bond money was applied to specific projects for which bonds had been issued. In the fiscal year 1948-49 a special bond issue of approximately $300,000 was approved for utilities expansion in outlying sections which were taken into the corporate limits of the city under the administration of Mayor J. H. Boyd Jr The total project was outlined to provide fire protection and sanitary sewer for Hillsdale, North Greenville, the Bama, South East Greenville (Elm and E. 14th Streets), West Fifth Street Extended and adjacent area, and for fire protection to East Fifth Street extended and adjacent area. A street lighting system for North Greenville, Hillsdale and the Bama was also included in the project.

Work on the bond project was begun late in 1949, and Superintendent Swartz said approximately 60 per cent of the project as originally outlined has been completed. "We hope to complete in 1952 the projects which were set up under the bond issue.' During the past six months, he said, a total of 30,852 lineal feet of water mains for fire protection have been laid under the project, 47 fire hydrants have been installed and 52,700 lineal feet of sanitary sewer have been laid. Those figures, he pointed out, include only the material used in the bond project, and do not include the amount of water pipe and sanitary sewer laid under the $133,893.56 for permanent improvements which has been spent from the revenue of the utilities during the past six months.

The capital outlay from revenue during the past six months has been applied for the most part to extension of facilities in areas which were not included in the bond project, and extensions in the new areas of the city which were not necessary when the bond project was set up in 1948-49.

A breakdown of the capital outlay from the revenue fund of the commission for the six months period showed $24,509.40 for water mains and services consisting of short extensions of two inch main and service connections; $23,191.33 for gas mains and services and gas plant improvements; $15,226.82 for sewer mains and services including short main extensions and service connections; $18,116.04 for improvements to the electric plant; $25,127.78 for improvements of electricity distribution in the city including short line extensions and service connections, and $27,722.19 for short line extensions and service connections for rural electric lines.

Money from the bond project spent during the six months period showed water plant improvements $1,882.76; sewer mains $17,046.74; REA $46,443.66; miscellaneous improvements $2,263.26.

Seek Speed-Up In Settling Truce

UN Negotiators Want Talks Started On Last Agenda Item

PANMUNJOM, Korea (UP) — The United Nations proposed today that Korean truce delegates start immediate discussion of the fifth and last agenda item in a new and definite attempt to end the war soon.

Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, senior U. N. delegate, invited Communist truce chief Gen. Nam Il to submit proposals for the fifth item at an early date to speed the dragging talks.

Agenda Item Five, called the "Catch all" item, calls for "recommendations to the government of the countries concerned on both sides."

It was placed on the agenda primarily to give the Reds an "out" when the Allies refused to consider the question of withdrawing foreign troops from Korea. The Reds can at least mention their demand for withdrawal under the item as a proposed recommendation to the governments who have troops in Korea.

At the same time Joy's letter was presented, two three-hour meetings were held to continue discussions on the U. N.'s prisoner-exchange plan and armistice supervision blueprint.

Iran And Hungary Sign Trade Deal

TEHRAN — (AP) — Economically pinched Iran and communist Hungary signed a barter trade agreement today which includes provisions for export of Iranian oil to Hungary.

No details of the deal have been disclosed as yet.

Communist countries, particularly Hungary and Poland, have been dickering for Iranian oil ever since the present Iranian regime of Premier Mohammed Mossadegh, stung by a western boycott which grew out of his nationalization squabble with the British, cancelled priorities to former western customers and announced Iran would sell to anyone.

There is no indication how the communist countries would get the oil out of Iran, lacking tankers.

Iran has about two million tons of oil stored at Abadan. The great refinery, built by the British, has been virtually shut down since Iran took it over under nationalization and expelled technicians of the British-owned Anglo-Iranian Oil Company.

Egyptian Govm't Stages Shake-Up

'Unruly Elements' warned Army, Police Ready To Shoot

CAIRO, Egypt (UP)—The Egyptian government shook up the nation's top security posts today and warned "unruly elements" that Army and police forces would shoot at the first signs of new disturbances.

Interior Minister El Maraghy Bey disclosed in a formal declaration that attempts have been made to spread new panic and incite trouble with false rumors.

"Unruly elements have started spreading untrue rumors about false incidents to spread panic among the people and thereby carry out their criminal plans," he said.

He said the country was quiet and the government was in firm control of the situation. But government forces have been ordered to shoot immediately at any sign of "aggressive action," he added.

Cairo itself was still tense and a feeling of nervousness persisted among the citizens although there have been no new outbreaks since Saturday's bloody rioting in the capital.

El Maraghy named a new police director-general, a new commander for the Cairo police, a new chief of public security and a new director of the press.

Observers said Premier Aly Maher Pasha was anxious to improve the general situation in Egypt and complete formation of a national political front in order to pave the way for negotiations on the Western powers' proposed Mid-East defense pact.

They said Maher Pasha wanted to begin talks on the defense alliance as soon as possible although it was expected that he would insist on several changes in the original plan to satisfy Egyptian political demands.

Pitt Red Cross Has Goal Of $16,900 For 1952 Drive

Pitt County's goal in the 1952 Red Cross Campaign has been set at $16,900.

The goal was set by the National Red Cross Headquarters and by the local Red Cross Chapter, as to its needs in the county. Dr. Leo Jenkins, who is heading the campaign, announced the goal today after a meeting of his steering committee Tuesday afternoon.

Jenkins said the goal was raised this year since the Blood Program has been inaugurated in the county. The Blood Program in Pitt County is costing the National Red Cross more than $3,000 and Jenkins said the quota wil have to be met to keep the program in the county.

At the meeting of the steering committee, plans were made for getting solicitors and to visit each town in the county to line up town chairmen. Dr. Jenkins and Hoover Taft, chairman of chapter here, spent the day in county towns making arrangements for chairmen to take the drive over in their town.

All of the towns do not have chairman yet, but chairmen have been appointed in five places. The chairmen are: Mrs. Paul Davenport, Pactolus; Robert Little, Grimesland-Simpson; Lesley Yelverton, Fountain; Mrs. Cecil Garrington, Bethel; and Mrs. B. L. Tyson, Bell Arthur.

Heart Stopped One Hour And 45 Minutes; Lives

CHICAGO—(AP)—Darline Timke, a student nurse whose heart stopped beating for an hour and 45 minutes, was revived by massage of the organ and use of an electrical device, doctors at Presbyterian Hospital disclosed yesterday.

A charge of 110 volts was sent directly through her exposed heart for a half second, the doctors reported, after three physicians alternated in massaging the nurse's heart to keep her blood circulating through her body.

Miss Timke, 21-year-old senior student nurse now on duty at the hospital, discussed her experience of last Dec. 12 with newsmen yesterday. She said she suffered from temporary amnesia after the operation and for a time was living two years in the past.

Doctors said there was no permanent brain damage. They said her memory is almost normal and they expect full recovery.

Mis Timke's heart stopped beating during a minor nasal surgery operation.

Physicians decided to use a device called a defibrillator after heart massage for an hour and 45 minutes failed to restore its normal beat.

Birth Announcement

Capt. and Mrs. A. T. Humbles of Tampa, Fla. announce the birth of a son, Thomas Allen, on January 11.

Milk Output Up; So Are Imports

RALEIGH —(AP)— Although North Carolina increased its milk production last year by 13.7 per cent, the state had to import almost as much milk as it did in 1950.

This was asserted yesterday by State Agriculture Commissioner L. Y. Ballentine in a talk before some 500 persons attending a dairy conference at North Carolina State College.

Ballentine said total milk production in the state last year was 3003 million pounds, compared with nearly 2641 million pounds in 1949 to 2640 million in 1941.

Ballentine urged producers to concentrate their attention on increasing production during the fall and winter months. Those are the seasons when demand is greatest, he pointed out.

Hospital Patient In Coma 414 Days

LEXINGTON, Ky. —(AP)— The "remarkably good" condition of an unidentified patient who has been in a coma 414 days was attributed today to a triumph in nursing care.

Called "Mr. Y" for the sake of reference, the patient has been under treatment since an automobile accident injured his brain on Dec. 14, 1950.

His presence in a Lexington Hospital was disclosed for the first time yesterday.

"Mr. "Y's" case is similar to that of so-called "Mr. X," another Lexingtonian who was in a coma for nine years before his death in a Cincinnati hospital Jan. 11. Only after his death was he identified as Roubert Steger, 60.

"Mr. Y" is fed through a tube running through his nose to his stomach.

Bank Installs SelfService In Making Change

Yonkers, N. Y. —(AP) Cutomers of the Central National Bank of Yonkers now make their own small change—right in the lobby from bowls of pennies, nickels, dimes, quarters and half-dollars.

The bank started the innovation yesterday, with the bowls each containing $5 in coins.

Bank president Gerald S. Couzens said not one penny was missing at the end of the day.

"We believe people are honest," he added, "and it reduces the work at the tellers' windows."

Iran Shuts Down U.S. Information Office Centers

TEHRAN—(AP)—A U. S. Embassy spokesman said today Iran has ordered immediate shutdown of all American State Department Information and Education Centers here except the one in Tehran.

The order also applied to British and Russian cultural centers outside the capital, it was reported.

Drafting of the closure order was reported unofficially yesterday.

The Iranian action was based on a 1949 decree permitting foreign cultural activities only in Tehran. The decree had not been enforced, however.

James Butler Speaker At Lydia Wooten Class Meet

The Lydia Wooten Class of the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church held its regular monthly meeting Monday evening at the home of Mrs. A. C. Tadlock with the president, Mrs. W. G. Garner, presiding.

A most inspiring devotional was given by Mrs. Lyle Leichter, the theme of which was the subject of casting out fear in one's religious life. One must have faith, love, and a sound mind in order to cast out fear.

Mrs. L. R. Bell presented Mr. James W. Butler, East Carolina College Alumni Secretary, who was the speaker for the evening. Mr. Butler gave his listeners much food for thought in his discussion of "The Home is the Center of Civilization." He traced the development of religious life from the early days of civilization, when one worshipped out of fear for some god, to the present time where religion is one of happiness and where there is a freedom of religion.

Since everything has its beginning in the home, much responsibility lies there, suggested Mr. Butler. The home is the first chapel and the need for family devotionals was stressed here. The home is the first classroom for the child. It is the first courtroom and center of government where respect for constitutional authority should be taught Mr. Butler went on to name other instances where the beginning is in the home.

Mr. Butler pointed out the importance of the individual in the civic and governmental life of the community, both locally and in national affairs. The necessity for more active participation in elections was stressed. There is a need for leaders who believe in and carry out Christian ideals, he declared, and it is up to the voters to elect officials who respect their oath of office.

When this stirring message was brought to a close, the group felt that the thoughts which had been presented would be long remembered.

During the business session matters of routine business were taken care of. Reports given reflected that the Christmas opportunity and the class orphan had been well provided for at Christmas. It was reported that the class had cleared $90 on the luncheon and dinner which had been served by the class during the Duke Divinity School Seminar. Mrs. Garner expressed appreciation to Mrs. Henry Martin and Mrs. Leon Russell under whose leadership these meals were served. Mrs. Ben Robberson was appointed to place flowers in the class room Sunday for the open house.

During the refreshment hour the hostesses, assisted by Miss Carol Ann Tadlock, served delicious hot tea, sandwiches and heart-shaped cookies carrying out the Valentine motif. The Valentine motif was also followed through with lovely red camellia arrangements throughout the home.

Besides Mrs. Tadlock the following served as hostesses: Mrs. Bell, Mrs. Garner, Mrs. Leichter, Mrs. Walter Lee, Mrs. Willie McLawhorn, Mrs. Jake Venters and Mrs. Hugo Williams.

Mrs. Moore Gives Art Program At Atheneum Club

Mrs. J. L. Winstead entertained the Atheneum Club at a delightful two course luncheon on Tuesday at her home on Greene Street.

She was assisted in serving by her mother, Mrs. J. L. Fleming. Lovely arrangements of spring flowers throughout the home added charm to the occasion.

Following the luncheon Mrs. Winstead introduced Mrs. J. H. B. Moore who gave a most interesting and informative program on "Art in North Carolina."

The Federation of Women's Clubs of North Carolina with a membership of over 17,000 women have done more to promote Art in the State than any other organization, said Mrs. Moore. Many contributions have been made by individuals interested in Art. She paid great tribute to the work and efforts of Robert Lee Humber in securing an appropriation of $1,000,000 from the State Legislature for the establishment of a State Art Museum.

The speaker urged members to take more interest in the Community Art Center, and to get acquainted with the coming young artists in North Carolina.

A short business session was held, presided over by the president, Mrs. J. J. White. The club voted to send a donation to the March of Dimes. Guests enjoying Mrs. Winstead's hospitality were Mrs. S. T. White, Mrs. Chas White, Mrs. Sammie White II, Mrs. Helen Hawes, Mrs. R. E. Hardaway, Mrs. James Fleming and Mrs. J.H.B. Moore.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

ARE ALL MEN EQUAL?

The Declaration of Independence points out the equality of men; the Bible emphasizes their inequality.

This may seem like a startling statement, but it is not. The Declaration of Independence is a political instrument. In the sight of the law all men are equal. But it is only politically that men are equal. In every other way they are unequal. They are unequal in weight and height. They are unequal in their possession of worldly goods. Most strikingly of all, they are unequal in their abilities and in their desires to achieve.

Finley Peter Dunne, who spoke through the lips of his humorous journalistic character, Mr. Dooley, put it fittingly when he said: "All men are born equal but some get over it."

There would be no democracy in the world were it not for the Bible and its message, for chief among its teachings is the equality of all men in the sight of God. This transfers over very readily to the equality of men in the sight of kings and magistrates. But in the Parables of the Pounds and the Talents, the inequality of men's abilities and purposes are set forth. We talk unrealistically when we say all persons would be equally successful if given a fair chance.

That sounds like Communism which makes all men equal by making all men poor.

'Little Napoleons' Only Widen Ill-Will

By inferrential decree of Col. L. C. Rosser, director of the Department of Motor Vehicles, minted coinage of these United States has dubious value. Dubious, that is, insofar as the purchase of North Carolina license plates goes.

This conclusion is based on a report by a Durham office manager of the Carolina Motor Club who objected to receiving nickles and dimes and pennies in payment for license tags.

Oh, the man got his tag all right; but only after his argument was carried to Col. Rosser.

Rosser, says the office manager, "said we did not have to take the small change but for us to be gracious to him."

Such condescension; and from a "servant of the people," too!

Just about everybody has observed instances when public employes displayed a Napoleonic attitude toward those whom they serve; and these little Napoleons widen the gap of ill-will of the common man toward our sprawling bureaucracies.

Reasonably, an opposite course should be maintained by all public employes. It is to their own self interest to fall all over themselves to maintain an atmosphere of cordiality between the department they serve and the people for whose benefit that department exists.

We suspect the truth of the above license tag incident is that Colonel Rosser was caught between trying to mollify a justly irate citizen and soothe the ruffled feelings of the CMC office manager.

Still, it does serve as a reminder to the public that they do have some rights left in dealing with their "servants."

The Great Struggle-Problems Vs. Politics

The Age of Chivalry is not dead.

Fortunately or unfortunately, as the case may be, the people of the United States probably will see the adage re-lived conspicuously during the coming months as some members of the 82nd Congress tip their hats, bow, carry bags and run errands for the Lady of Fortune who will accompany voters to the polls next November.

Congress is literally loaded down with pressing legislation which needs decisive action for the welfare of the nation. Congress will have its hands and heads full looking after this legislation without taking months off between now and the fall to make overtures collectively and individually to the voters who carry the fate of politicians in their ballot-marking hand.

"Nevertheless, 1952 is starting out like any other election year with every indication that the primary interest of those in Congress is the votes in the ballot boxes rather than the bills in the congressional baskets.

Awaiting action by Congress are a great many important and controversial pieces of legislation which should be decided during the present session. There is the matter of Universial Military Training, the reorganization of the executive branch for greater economy in government, demands for greater federal spending and necessary higher taxes as opposed to greater economy and taxes at their present level. There too is the pressing matter of cleaning out the officials who have misused their high government offices.

Decisive action on each one of these and many more government problems should be taken by Congress during the current session. Likewise each controversial issue on which a member of Congress takes a firm stand will win for the congressman new friends and new enemies.

If the ear of Congress is glued to public opinion this election year, as we suppose it is, the lawmakers should realize that the people of the nation want from this session of Congress decisive action rather than pampering or political lolligaging.

If the voters of the nation are wise, they will send back to Congress this fall the members who have exhibited sound, decisive judgment . . . not the members who have wasted a whole session trying to play politics and get votes.

National Whirligig

WASHINGTON—A relatively unreported Senate hearing on enactment of a federal mine safety law may have a great influence in determining the candidate who will command the support of influential labor groups at the two conventions and in next November's Presidential election.

The fortunes of such political bigwigs as President Truman, Senator Taft, General Eisenhower and Governor Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois, who has Presidential and vice-presidential potentialities, are involved heavily.

No labor measure in recent years, not even the Taft-Hartley Act, has aroused such intense interest among the miners and their allies in several key electoral states—Pennsylvania, Illinois, West Virginia, Kentucky and half a dozen other coal-producing areas.

The Christmas Eve tragedy at West Frankfort, Ill., when 119 miners lost their lives, and the earlier disaster at Centralia, Ill., where the death toll was 111, have transformed a hitherto dormant question into a major 1952 issue. Such Taft-Hartley problems as collective bargaining and anti-strike precautions become academic in comparison with the question of preventing or minimizing these recurrent massacres in mining communities.

ANXIETY—John L. Lewis, President of the United Mine Workers, has made the measure No. 1 on his list of "must legislation." He has departed from his normal routine of living in order to impress the politicos with his anxiety on this problem.

Although he clings deliberately to a hermit-like existence because it tends to increase the awe in which he likes to be held by the public, the legislators on Capitol Hill and his 500,000-odd miners, Mr. Lewis has been a regular attendant at the hearings.

Senator Matthew M. Neely of West Virginia, where there are more than 150,000 miners, has enthroned the U.M.W. boss in a seat at the end of the witness table, whence he glowers at operators hostile to the Neely-Price bill for federal regulation and enforcement of mine safety laws.

VOTE—It is entirely possible that the parties' and the various candidates' attitude on this question will swing the vote of the miners and allied District 50 unions, with a membership of almost 2,000,000. And in a close race their support could be decisive in states having more than 100 electoral votes.

The Roosevelt-Willkie contest in 1940 demonstrated that mine workers will not hearken to Mr. Lewis when he indulges in personal politics and prejudices. Although he declared for Mr. Willkie, his union membership voted almost unanimously for Franklin D. Roosevelt. But on such a life-and-death matter as mine safety the men and families and communities affected will not be indifferent.

IMPORTANCE—President Truman responded immediately as a result of the indignation produced by the West Frankfort explosion. Although he had neglected the question for years, his State of the Union message a few weeks ago contained a strong demand for passage of the pending measure.

Although Senator Taft is a member of the Neely Subcommittee, his frequent absences from Washington while campaigning for delegates has prevented him from appearing at the hearings. No Eisenhower or Warren representatives, naturally, are on hand. But it is understood that their political agents here have impressed them with the importance of the measure in terms of possible delegates and votes.

The principal opposition stems from big operators who do not want what they describe as "federal interference" with their properties. They prefer regulation by state legislatures, which rarely possess or exercise the power to close down mines if they do not abide by safety provisions.

Many members of Congress oppose the Neely-Price proposal on the ground that it is an unwarranted extension of federal jurisdiction, despite the interstate character of the coal industry.

NEGLECT—Governor Stevenson's future is tied up in the general safety debate, for he was virtually elected because of the strong stand he took on behalf of the miners demand. The Centralia tragedy was attributed in his campaign to the neglect of this problem by the state mining bureau under the administration of ex-Governor Dwight Green, his predecessor and opponent.

Mr. Stevenson presented a safety program of his own to the Illinois Legislature, but it was not satisfactory to Mr. Lewis. After analyzing the Stevenson measure, U.M.W. lawyers and engineers branded it as "unworkable" and "impossible."

They blamed what they called "flaws" on the fact that it had been framed by a professorial brain truster, Harold Walker of the University of Illinois. He served for a time as head of the state mining bureau and was Governor Stevenson's adviser on coal.

Senator Paul H. Douglas, a subcommittee member, has defended the Stevenson record at the hearings. But he has been distracted from this task by his frequent arguments with Chairman Neely on whether Illinois or West Virginia has the more effective state safety setup.

Anyway, if the Republicans and other candidates for either party's nomination are smart, they will swipe a leaf out of the Truman political book, and get behind the measure before it is too late. He will take the credit for obtaining enactment, if it becomes law, even though he neglected the question because he thought repeal of Taft-Hartley was a better vote-getting proposition.

Speaking of jail terms, Dennis Delaney, former collector of Internal Revenue for Massachusetts, drew two years imprisonment and was fined $10,500 for bribery and mishandling tax cases. This case is a glaring example of leniency but in keeping with a good deal of the justice handed out in cases where the stealing has involved large stakes.

(Cleveland Plain Dealer)

When more ways to waste money are invented, the national administration will invent them. Take the radio program "Eriko to Tomoni" for example. This is American-ordered soap opera on the democratic way of life which is being dished out to the Japanese people in such doses that they are thoroughly sick of it.

The newspaper Yomiuri said the program has become unpopular even with its actors, since Japanese feel they understand what democracy is now, without constant lectures.

When propaganda gets to the point where it makes enemies rather than friends, it is time to change the record, perhaps even to turn off the machine.

How Does The Budget Work?

Somebody Told Me

By L. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

"Rachel," I asked the wife last night, "do you think the subject of finances is too alarming to write about?"

"It depends," she replied, "upon your approach."

"In that case," I said, "I'll give talk about that gruesome subject in a light vein, advocating several steps that everybody should take."

(1) Borrow some money from a bank. This is a great experience. The reason I say it's so great is that it's such a relief to pay the bank back. After walking around town for months with a load on your shoulders, suddenly you feel 10 years younger.

However, when you pay the money back, keep calm. Don't shoot off your mouth like I did. "Harold," I said to Harold Staton at the Dickinson Avenue Branch of the Guaranty Bank, "now that I've paid off this note consider yourself notified: Never, never loan me another cent. If I come up to this bank crawling on my hands and knees, don't do it." So far I haven't had to eat those words, but the day will probably come. You haven't lived until you've borrowed money from a bank. But never swear that you won't do it again.

(2) Open a joint bank account with your wife. This is a great game. She will go to the grocery store without the family checkbook, write checks on the wrong branch, and forget to tell her husband about having written the check. If he asks, by accident, she can't remember the amount of the check, so the husband can stub it. You might have noticed that I have expressed this situation in third person, but it is based on personal experiences. Yes, the joint bank account is a great game. You never know what your balance will be at the end of the month.

(3) Save. This is not done to get ahead, but to keep up with the rising cost of living. Without saving to fall back on, it's impossible to stay in the black these days.

(4) Splurge. Everybody is entitled to splurge now and then. If it only takes a deluxe hamburger to make you feel like you're splurging, get one now and then. If it takes a $3 airloin steak, get that. What's the need of fighting for our way of life if we can't enjoy it?

And I thank you.

Around Capitol Square

Reflector Bureau — By LYNN NISBET — Asso. Afternoon Dailies

BALLOONS — Trial balloons were sent up during the past week in behalf of Luther Hodges as a probable candidate for lieutenant governor. He retired head of the Marshall Field enterprises at Spray had previously been suggested as a potential for governor, and there had been some talk that he might offer for the general assembly from Rockingham county. The balloons for the state's No. 2 office failed to occasion excitement among those who commented that Luther Hodges would make an excellent public official in any capacity, from governor down, but that he was not sufficiently well known to make a good candidate.

COINCIDENCE? — Capitol square folk discovered interesting coincidence in news items in the local afternoon newspaper Monday. The society page carried an item noting that Mr. andMrs. Luther Hodges of Spray were luncheon guests of Governor and Mrs. Kerr Scott last week. On another page was the political story that Luther Hodges was thinking about running for lieutenant governor. Governor Scott was asked at his press conference Tuesday if there was any connection between the two items. He said he hadn't though' about there being any connection, that he had invited Mr. and Mrs. Hodge to see a large rug that Marshall Field Company donated to the state when the mansion was being refurnished some three years ago. Incidentally, the rug is worth seeing. It is a job with retail price range between $2200 and $2500, made in North Carolina. Reporters did not miss the chron gy involved. When the rug was donated Luther Hodges was head of the Marshall Field enterprises in this state and was not running for public office; when he visited the mansion he was not with the company which gave the rug but he was interested in the lieutenant governorship. Reporters were unable to get further commitment out of the governor about any line up with Hodges and Hubert Olive, whom the governor has openly endorsed to succeed him as chief executive.

"GOOD ONE." — One reporter asked if the governor would endorse Hodges for the second place. The governor didn't go that far, but said he would "make a good one." Another reporter asked if the governor thought Hodges would be better than the previously announced candidates. "He would make a good one," repeated the governor. That was a bit further than Governor Scott had previously gone in support of a No. 2 place candidate. Months ago he told reporters he thought Roy Rowe would have a hard time getting the nomination. Last week, after Marshall Kurfees had announced, he said he thought it would be a good idea to wait awhile before trying to pick a winner.

LINE-UP — Candidates generally seek to avoid open line-up and "ticket" arrangement among themselves, although voters often group them together. Former governors also have been reluctant to come out directly in seeking to name their successor. Governor Scott uses the direct approach. He has already put himself on record for Hubert Olive as governor. Reporters left the press conference Tuesday with belief that he has added Luther Hodges to his "ticket," although he was much less specific in his endorsement of Hodges than he had been for Olive. At a press conference last week the governor said he felt sure that Dale Thrash would enter the race for congress in the twelfth district. Since Thrash was his appointee as highway commissioner for the tenth division, and the governor had said he expected his appointees to stand by him in support of his choice for governor, it is assumed that he will stand by his appointees and support Thrash. That upsets some ideas cherished by friends of Frank Parker, who had announced some weeks ago for congress with obvious expectation of support from the Scott forces.

MACHINE — Governor Scott waged an intensive campaign four years ago against the "machine" and he avoids use of that word now. He refers to his "team" and makes no bones about the fact he expects those on "his team" to play the game according to signals he calls.

LOYALTY — At a recent press conference Governor Scott intimated he thought loyalty was as high word in the English languages as duty—which was the word General Robert E. Lee put at top of the list. Implication was that he expected those persons whom he had appointed to good jobs to put personal loyalty to him above obligation to the state, if perchance the appointees had decided that state welfare called for different approach. He named several persons whom he expected to go along with him, not for his own election or for any specific part of his program, but in his choice of a man to succeed him in office. Some of the persons named probably owed obligation to Governor Scott, but some of them probably were in position to say that Scott was indebted to

What Other Papers Are Thinking

THE SOUTH'S ASSETS
(Roanoke Rapids Herald)

Hodding Carter, famed editor of the Greenville, Miss. Delta Democrat-Times, is one of the outstanding boosters of the South as a growing section of the country.

Time after time, Carter has spoken out strongly on the advantages of the South, and has become a recognized spokesman on the subject.

He has now compiled five basic reasons why the South is growing so rapidly. Here they are:

1. Human resources: With a birth rate a third higher than the non-South's, the South's principal product for export has historically not been cotton but its youth. Now, with its industrial growth equal to the national rate, the South is making use of this resource at home.

2. Power and Energy Resources: The South has 70 percent of the nation's petroleum, 80 percent of its natural gas, 61 percent of the navigable waterways, 38 percent of all potential water power east of the Rocky Mountains, and 22 percent of the coal. The availability of such varied sources of energy for fueling industry and for transportation is the primary natural asset of the region.

3. Other Natural Resources: The South has 40 percent of the nation's commercial forest area, 4[illegible] percent of the phosphate rock, 100 percent of sulphur, 100 percent of the bauxite.

4. Climate: Relatively mild weather and a balanced rainfall fill important requirements of industry and agriculture.

5. Spiritual Resources: The South has an unusual spiritual unity derived from a generally identical background which produces the most nearly homogeneous area of the nation.

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER

The number of business firms in operation in the United States is still increasing, but the rate of increase has slowed down, the Department of Commerce says in a study of the business population in its January "Survey of Current Business."

In the period between March 31, 1950 and the same date in 1951, the number of firms in operation increased 39,000, from 3,968,[illegible]0 to 4,007,400. The increase between those dates in 1946 and 1947, when millions of veterans were returning and war restrictions were being lifted, was 323,900.

Increases, of course, represent the plurality of new firms over discontinuances. Between 1949 and 1950, for example, 365,200 firms were discontinued and 397,500 started. Figures for thie 1950-51 period are not yet available, but they were probably in that vicinity.

In general, thebusiness population has followed the national production level. It did during 1949 and 1950. But between the 1950 and 1951 dates, if the business population had followed the rise in production, the increase would have been 180,000 instead of the actual 39,000. Fear of shortages and other uncertainties growing out of the Korean fighting and the defense program may be to blame.

More significant than the total rise has been the regional fluctuation in the business population. Between March 31, 1948 and March 31, 1951, the total number of firms increased only 0.6 per cent. The greatest increase was in the Southeast, followed by the Middle East and Southwest. On the other hand, the Far West, which showed the greatest rise earlier, showed the greatest decline. The greatest relative increase was in Florida and the greatest relative decline in Nevada.

Also significant are the changes by industry. In the three-year period, retail, manufacturing and mining and quarrying firms declined. Wholesale, finance, insurance and real estate; transport and communications; service industries, and contract construction firms increased in number. The biggest gain of all was in contract construction firms in the Southeast—more than 30 per cent.

DRUGS RETAINING POTENCY LONGER

Drugs are being made to last longer—that is, if you don't take them.

Dr. Niels C. Klendshoj, executive vice president of Arner Co., Buffalo, told an Eastern section meeting of the American Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association that improved techniques are creating medicines that remain effective for longer periods. Few medicines now have shelf or cabinet life of less than a year, he said. Many are good for five years and some last indefinitely. Improved lab control, synthetic developments, improved packaging and purer crude drugs help bring this about, he said.

SCREENS: A window screen without a frame is being introduced by Columbia Mills Inc., 225 Fifth Ave., New York 10. It is made of heavy aluminum mesh with latches at top and bottom; unlatching the bottom makes it easy to wash windows without removing the screen; it can be rolled up for easy storage.

A GROCERY ITEM:
CHRISTMAS WREATHS

Christmas is coming. One of the displays at the recent food brokers' convention at Atlantic City was a line of flame-proof Christmas wreaths, centerpieces, baskets, cone hangers and corsages by Raycarr Specialties, Inc., 522 Fifth Ave., New Hork.

Non-food stores should note that the display assumes that retail grocers will attempt to capture more of the Christmas decoration market.

BUMPER: Now there's a bumper for bumpers. Inflated plastic guards to replace standard metal guards on auto bumpers are being made by Hush Bumpers, Inc., 2332 Logan Blvd., Chicago. They come in all car colors and chrome, save critical metal and take jar and noise out of bumps.

Hal Boyle's Column

NEW YORK —(AP)— The average television set owner knows what is wrong with video:

"They don't have enough good shows."

Oddly enough, this knowledge is widely shared by television executives, too.

"The level of entertainment must be raised," said Hubbell Robinson, boss of Columbia's TV network productions.

But how? Like many another top brass figure in the industry today Robinson will fall on your neck if you suggest a fresh new program idea—or he'll shower you with money, if it's crass wealth you prefer.

"New ideas pour in here almost by the truckload," he said dolefully, "but there isn't a good one in a carload. And it's the old story—the best ideas come from the pros, not the amateurs."

Robinson, a slender, quiet, darkhaired man of few illusions and many problems, shuddered at the memory of some weird idea merchants who besiege his door and try to waylay him in elevators.

"There was a fellow who wanted to put on a program featuring the antics of cockroaches and other household bugs," he recalled, "and I'm flooded with mind readers and hypnotists.

"One mother of a chess champion was sure her son could drive Arthur Godfrey out of business. Other suggestions range from ballet to bridge.

"I had a terrible time convincing one man that four people playing bridge just isn't a show."

"In television the technical facilities have outstripped the creative skills. The caliber of creative people must be improved and improved. We must develop better writers, better directors, better producers.

"If we don't, television won't continue to hold the people as it does now.

"The actors and performers are okay. But we have to get more of them, and create new ones. We depend too much on stars who made their fame in other mediums, such as the radio, the theater and the movies."

The drain on television talent is already enormous.

"Our network puts on 70 program hours a week," said Robinson. "That's roughly equal to 70 motion pictures—more than the annual output of a major film studio. We turn out in a week what they do in a year."

This tremendous pressure takes its toll in nervous breakdowns among producers who get to living on diets of aspirin and coffee, pep capsules and sleeping pills.

"The answer partially lies in a longer period of preparation and planning of shows," said Robinson. "But so far the industry has mushroomed so fast we haven't had time to catch our breath.

"Every time you make a decision now it's a pioneering move—and you don't know whether you're right or wrong."

"Robinson believes television is wide open, however, to anyone—anyone, that is, with fresh ideas, a trigger-quick mind, and the physical endurance of a buffalo.

"But anybody who wants to get into it ought to be willing to do so anyway he can—even carrying props around a studio.

"Some kind of theatrical experience helps. Then learn the basic tricks of the trade.

"After that it is just a case of beating on the door. It is, I suppose, already the most [illegible] ly competitive business in the world.

"But I think television will be the biggest factor in American living in the creative minds in it live up to the challenge. The public is eager and thirsty for real entertainment. The big thing is to come up with it."

Robinson then mentioned a minor problem vexing him at the moment—the disappearance of a new curtain bought for the Frank Sinatra show.

"Oh, we'll probably find it," he said cheerfully. "But it cost $3,500—and now it's lost somewhere."

That's television! People so busy they mislay a $3,500 curtain.

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON — Itinerant American move in and out of the furnished apartment on the Rue des Belles Feuilles in Paris, but Berthe, who "bulldozes" them all, stays on.

Berthe, whose name is pronounced "Bairt" but who, like all French women past a certain age, is more often called "Madame," is the maid-of-all-work who comes with the apartment. The apartment is listed with the American Embassy as an acceptable residence to rent for those expecting to stay a while in the French capital.

Among those whom Berthe has high-handed but nonetheless served well, have been many American couples on government assignments abroad as well as long-staying tourists and traveling movie stars. Berthe took care of actress Ingrid Bergman's laundry and served as part-time maid to Hedy Lamarr, who rewarded her with a lace-trimmed hanky—which she treasures as a keepsake.

Newspaper woman Dorothy Williams, who was with U. S. Minister Perle Mesta as press attache at the American legation in Luxembourg, "experienced" Berthe later while on an assignment in Paris with the ECA.

"Berthe to me represented the 'spirit of the French Revolution'," Dorothy said on her return to Washington." She couldn't speak a word of English, but she never stopped talking. Everything was a 'catastrope' to her, and she re-enacted every movie she saw—especially the crying scenes which were always the best."

"She is interested in America and knows all about it, but she's somewhat disdainful of Americans, who believes, eat all their meals out of cans."

Berthe refuses to work for French women. She thinks they are much too "chi-chi" and difficult to please. But she follows the custom of the elite French families in getting out of town in August, when the heat becomes insufferable. She speaks of this season as the "fermature" (the closing) and observes it is not "chic" to stick around.

Dorothy says Berthe did not bother her except when she attempted to get her to reduce. "She threw up her hands in dismay when she saw me making potato pancakes one morning for breakfast, a

"'I've served many crazy Americans', she said, but you, Madame, are the most maniac of them all.'"

Dorothy said the real pay-off came when she arrived home late one night to find a pair of heavy dumbbells on the foot of her bed.

No Hardship For Armless Farmer

ROCKDALE, N. Y. —(UP)—Forrest Layman, who was born without arms, feels "a bit sorry" for persons who have them.

The 46-year-old chicken farmer does things with his toes that ordinarily are performed with the hands. He gathers eggs, smokes, writes, shaves, eats, plays the piano and plays cards.

In the summer, spring and fall, he goes barefoot and in winter wears loose-fitting boots that can be slipped off easily when he wants to use his toes. He does not wear socks at any time.

'I suffer no hardship," he says. "I wouldn't know how to use arms and fingers if I had them. Perhaps I feel a bit sorry for you folks who have to bother with them."

Almost Run Down In His Own Home

WYMORE, Neb., (AP)— Chet McPherson was almost run down by the free wheeling of a "hot rod" automobile—while sitting in a chair inside his own house.

The stripped-down auto gave up one of its wheels, sent it rolling toward the house, over a two-and-a-half foot porch railing and through a 16-inch-wide panel window.

The wheel came to rest by a chair McPherson was occupying. Glass from the window sprayed the startled McPherson, but he was only scratched.

RECORD — It is recognized that behind the scenes activity is sometimes more important than incidents which are open to public scrutiny. But for the record, it should be noted that some of the folks Governor Scott seems to expect will follow him blindly owe allegiance to some other governor—after major allegiance to the people of the state is discounted. George Ross, present director of conservation and development by appointment of Governor Scott, first came into important state office under Governor Max Gardner more than twenty years ago. Col. L. C. Rosser, commissioner appointed to that position by Governor Gregg Cherry. David S. Coltrane, assistant director of the budget, held his first major position as a constitutional officer and member of the council of state by appointment of Governor Cherry, who named him commissioner of agriculture when Kerr Scott resigned to run for governor.

PRIMACY — These men all put loyalty to North Carolina above loyalty to any man or public official. But if the test is to be made on basis of personal rather than official or public loyalty, where is first claim? Another thing must not be forgotten. Kerr Scott is not presently a candidate for any office. It would be reasonable for him to expect support of all these folks if he were. Some of them cannot go along with his idea that they have no right to think for themselves about other candidates and must follow blindly when he says "let's go".

Phantoms Wallop Edenton 67-40 For Fourth Victory

Phantoms Travel To Kinston Friday Night

Aces' Bubba Dobson Scores 21 Points To Pace Scoring For Both Teams; Smith Worthington Gets 16

By JIMMY ELLIS
Reflector Sports Writer

The Greenville Phantoms continued along their merry winning ways in the Northeastern Conference last night with a 67-40 walloping of the winless Edenton Aces. The victory was the fourth of the season for the Phantoms who have lost only one game to a conference opponent.

In only the first quarter did the visitors give Coach Bo Farley's squad any trouble. The Aces, paced by little Bubba Dobson, started quickly and held the lead for a few minutes before the Phantoms finally realized what was happening.

Edenton managed to tie the score at 14-14 at the end of the first period but began to fall steadily behind in the second quarter. Jimmy Cheatham and Smith Worthington both sank field goals from close in before Al Owens sank a free throw for the Aces at the 6:30 mark in the period.

Leon Moore put the Phantoms ahead 20-15 with a layup shot but Owens and Dobson both scored to cut the margin to 20-19. That was the last time they got as close as one point, though. After that, the Phantoms began their seemingly tireless running game and Edenton was simply out in the cold.

The Phantoms built up a 32-25 lead at halftime and roared back in the third quarter to run the margin up to 50-32 at the end of the third period. Farley began a system of liberal substitution as the fourth quarter began and cleared his bench so everyone could play.

Smith Worthington, as usual, continued to lead the Phantom scoring although he spent much of the second half on the bench. Despite his time spent on the bench, the slender forward still managed to collect 16 points which shot his total points scored in conference play to 101 for the season (five games).

For the second straight game, Worthington had to watch the scoring honors for the game go to a member of the visiting club. When Roanoke Rapids played here Friday, it was Yellow Jacket Lucky Hurst who got the honors. Last night it was the speedy little Dobson who cornered the point scoring with 21 points—over half the total scored by his team.

Dobson was in a class by himself when it came to comparing the Edenton basketeers. Not a single member of the Edenton team was able to keep up with him and his ball handling abilities were head and shoulders above the like talents of any other member of either squad.

Ranked behind Dobson and Worthington in the scoring was a quartet of Phantoms. Leon Moore came in second to Worthington for Phantom honors with 11 points while Joe Rowland stood third in line with nine points. Sidney Briley and Eddie Farley scored eight points apiece.

The Phantoms started the game with a patched up line-up which was made necessary by the injury to Sonny Scott's ankle. Farley started Wallace Conway at center, Moore and Worthington at the forwards and replaced Scott at guard with Rowland. Sidney Briley held his usual guard post although he later moved over to center when Jimmy Cheatham was sent in to play guard.

Scott got in the game for much of the third quarter but appeared to be bothered considerably by the heavily taped ankle. He was unable to drive with his usual ability and was removed from the game late in the quarter.

The Phantoms will continue their Northeastern Conference play tomorrow night when they travel to Kinston to meet the Grainger High School Red Devils in the spacious Grainger High School gym.

Farmville Girls Upset Seeded Vanceboro In Gold Medal Play

By MELVIN LANG
Reflector Sports Writer

FARMVILLE — Coach Charlie Tucker's Farmville girls team earned the right to meet Snow Hill's second seeded sextet in the semi-finals of the Coastal Gold Medal tournament last night by edging Vanceboro, 45-43, in one of the best games seen in the derby so far this year.

Edna Wooten, who scored a total of 13 points, put the Farmville fans at ease with 1:30 left on the scoreboard clock by dropping in a field goal to break up a 43-43 stalemate. The jubilous Farmville six then played possession ball for the remainder of the quarter and Vanceboro was unable to stop their freeze.

The game was extremely close all the way as both teams fought desperately for the right to advance into the semi-finals. Farmville took the lead at 15-14 at the close of the first quarter and built it up to 23-19 with two late-stage goals in the closing seconds of the first half.

Vanceboro came back in the third period to tie the count and go ahead once again. Jean Hill dropped in a field basket with 3:30 left to make the score 30-29 for Farmville. Emily Cannon, high scorer for the winners with 26 points, connected for a 32-29 Farmville lead, but Beverly Witherington hit for Vanceboro to bring the margin back to one point. Jean Hill put Vanceboro ahead for the first time in the quarter with another goal at six-minutes gone.

The two clubs swapped baskets and then Joyce Ann Wilson put Vanceboro out in front as the whistle sounded to end the quarter, 36-34. Farmville tied the score early in the fourth period and the score remained tied until only three minutes were left in the contest, standing at 41-all. Beverly Witherington put Vanceboro ahead once more but it was not be, as Ila and Edna Wooten each got a basket in the last two minutes to put the Red Devils ladies out in front once more. Farmville froze the ball for the last minute and a half.

New Knee Gadget Invented By Cage Mentor In Texas

BROWNWOOD, Tex. — (AP) — Readey Caskey, basketball coach of Daniel Baker College, invents gadgets.

His latest on which he has received patent pending papers, is the "knee and thigh case".

It is designed for use by trainers, coaches and others in treating knee injuries, sprained muscles and ligaments and the well known charley horses.

It is made of an adjustable elasticized wrapping and a protective plastic covering.

The wrapping is so constructed that it fits snugly round any portion of the leg.

So that the medication applied under the wrapping can't leak, drip or mash out from under the wrapping and onto clothing, a loose plastic covering with snug-fitting elastic bands at either and protects clothing from any possible soil.

Caskey is a former trainer.

DURHAM, N. C. —(AP)— Fred Campbell, Freshman tackle on Duke's football team, has won the No. 1 position as heavyweight on the Blue Devil's varsity wrestling squad. His chief competitors for the sport were Leon Siler and Carl Holben—also tackles on the grid team.

Cole Scores 14 Points To Lead Winterville Victory

FARMVILLE—Guard Bobby Cole led the Winterville Wolves into the semi-finals last night as he hit for 14 points in Winterville's 33-29 decision over Belvoir in first round action of the Coastal Gold Medal tourney.

Winterville took a close 8-7 lead in the first quarter, but Belvoir pulled away to a three point lead in the last minute of the second period. Two free shots by Rex Wainright cut the margin to 17-16 at halftime.

Each team hit for six points in the third quarter and Belvoir maintained its one point lead. The Eagles' Mack Dupree put Belvoir out in front by three points once more with a goal after 40 seconds had passed in the final period. Winterville slowly cut down the lead and finally went ahead to stay with slightly less than six minutes left to play. They pulled away to a 33-25 lead before Belvoir hit its scoring stride again, but the damage had been done, and Winterville took the game, 33-29.

Leck Keeter came in second for Winterville in the scoring column with six points. Keeter was one of the mainstays in the Winterville defensive corps, along with Rex Wainright, who picked up five points.

Belvoir's scoring was evenly spaced out. Howard Bullock, a flashy little guard, led the scorers with eight points, followed by Franklin Garris with seven points to his credit. Billy Ross, one of the defensive leaders, and Mack Dupree hit for six and five points respectively. Ralph Tyson was outstanding on defense for the losers.

Winterville meets second seeded Snow Hill tonight in the second game in the semi-final series.

Favored Bethel Swamps Pirates In Tough Contest

FARMVILLE—Coach Walter Latham's top seeded Bethel Indians came through as expected here last night by taking a 62-44 verdict over Stantonsburg in a rough first round contest in the Gold Medal dribble derby.

A total of 56 personal fouls were called on the two teams—31 on the winners and 25 for Stantonsburg. But the parade to the foul line was not enough to stop the Indians, who led throughout the contest after taking a 22-13 lead in the first quarter, chiefly on the scoring of forward Bobby Gene Manning, who hit for 11 of his 19 points in the early minutes of the first quarter.

The score pace slackened in the second period for Bethel as both teams seemed to become tired either because of the hot first quarter splurge or the late hour starting of the game. The contest did not get underway until 10:45 because of a beauty contest held between the second and third games.

Bethel's potent crew threw their burdens away in the third period, however, and ran to a 48-31 lead at the end of the period. With their team filled with substitutes as Coach Latham clearing the bench of all reserves, the last quarter was filled with mistakes and mental errors as both clubs fought doggedly toward the end of the contest.

Manning was high for Bethel with 19 points, followed by Vance White with eight points. Michael House led the defensive play by Bethel. Bobby Hunt paced the losers with 14 points before fouling out of the game. Joe Mooring came in second with 13 points. Swag Grimsley was outstanding on defense for Stantonsburg.

SYRACUSE, N. Y. —(AP) Syracuse University's footballers will face three new opponents in 1952. The newcomers are St. Bonaventure, Michigan State and Holy Cross. Belvoir Victory Led By Claudia Pollard

FARMVILLE — Belvoir's girls hit their top peak in the last two quarters here last night and went on to take a 38-29 decision over Bethel in the first round of play in the Coastal Gold Medal tournament.

The first half was extremely close as both teams grabbed the lead but quickly saw it pass down the drainboard. Belvoir took a 5-0 lead in the first two minutes, but then remained scoreless as Mary Jo Wynne and Joyce Beverly, crowned "Miss Gold Medal" only a few minutes before the start of the contest, tied the count. Belvoir went on to lead at the close of the first period, 8-7.

Bethel gained a 19-19 tie at halftime, but Belvoir showed its strength in the third period and pulled away to a 31-26 third quarter lead. The final quarter proved to be the final undoing of the Bethel team, as they did not score until only a minute and 30 seconds were left in the game. By that time, Belvoir had gained a 38-26 lead, the widest margin at any time during the contest.

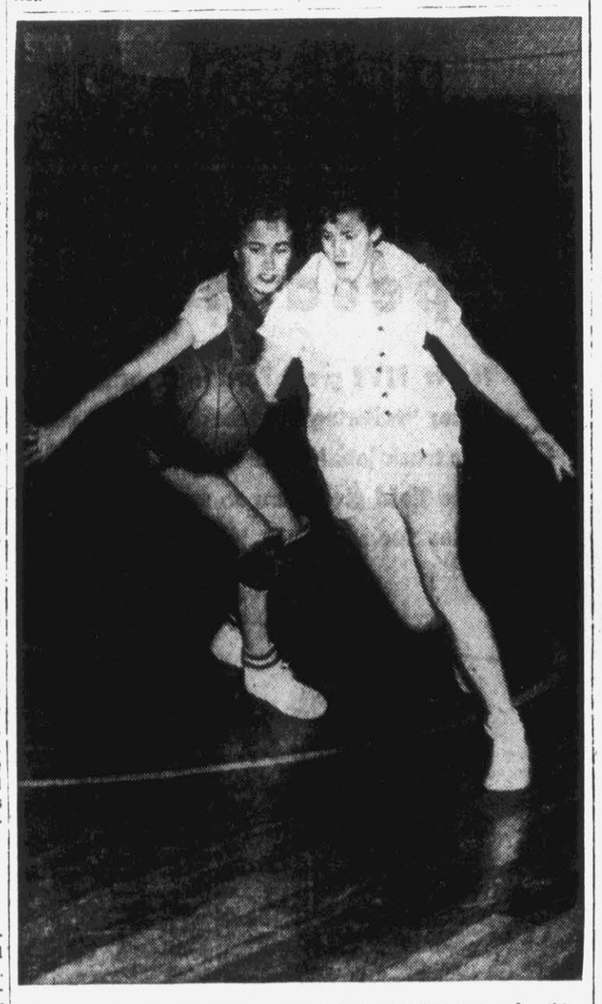

Claudia Pollard, who fouled out in the third quarter, led the winners scoring with a total of 14 points. Nadine Morris and Jean Jones collected 12 and 10 points respectively against the Bethel defenses, which was led by Carrie Ayers, Jean Cullifer, and Anne Riddick.

Mary Jo Wynn ewas almost a one-girl team for the Bethel team as she ripped through the defensive set-up of Belvoir's Edna Randolph and Jean Tyson for 17 points. Joyce Beverly and Isabel Manning each collected six points for the losers.

Belvoir meets Winterville's top seeded sextet tonight.

Pirates Travel

The East Carolina Pirates will travel to High Point tonight to meet the Panthers in a North State Conference game. The Pirates have a league mark of four wins and three losses while High Point is in first place.

This will be the second meeting of the year for the two teams. In the first meeting of the two clubs, the Pirates were led to a 71-65 victory by Bobby Hodges who will be at one of the forward posts tonight.

Coach Howard Porter is expected to start Hodges and Sonny Russell at the forwards, Toddy Fennell at center, and Louis Collie and Dick Blake at the guards.

Czechs Again Charge Newsman Part Of Spy Ring, Before UN

By RICHARD Wilkin
United Press Staff Correspondent

PARIS (UP) — Czechoslovakia lashed back today at the United States' denunciation [illegible] N. Oatis and branded him part [illegible] for a new war of aggression.

Czech Delegate Jiri Hajek said it was "revolting" to hear the U. S. attack his country for violating human rights when it was merely countering "acts recognized in all penal codes as the elements of espionage."

The U. S. attack was made last night before the U. N. General Assembly's Social Committee by Dr. Channing Tobias, an American Negro minister, who said the entire trial of Oatis was "staged" and that all the 37-year-old newsman confessed to was "good reporting."

Aiming at "unmasking the hypocrisy of U. S. argument," Hajek presented what he called the "facts."

He claimed that Oatis had been trained in a U. S. Army school. Tobias said last night that the school was a short course in the Japanese language in preparation for an assignment to Tokyo.

"What was Oatis' training?" Hajek asked.

"As a journalist? No. As a spy. We are dealing with a trained spy. His post (as a correspondent) was only an alibi for his true activities."

Hajek said that Oatis, who went to Prague for The Associated Press in June, 1950, was taught "new ways of espionage" by the U. S. military attache in Prague and conferred with the attache "on espionage" every two weeks.

Hajek said:

"Oatis said, 'He (the attache) taught me new ways of espionage. I told him I had heard of the construction of new Army barracks. He said such (barracks elsewhere were to be tied in with new military installations tied in with Czech security. He showed me the other spots, and asked me to verify such places for him.'

"Oatis also noted these spots in his notebook."

Hajek said Oatis testified that he knew the military attache also was a spy because they had "gone to the same spy training school."

"Oatis also explained how he established his spy network. He carried it on with private informers. He requested specifically information classed as classified, and recommended to his accomplices all care and vigilance in order not to be caught."

Hajek said Oatis told of trying to contact "a person later involved in the assassination of a Czech officer" to warn him the authorities were on his track.

"He thus admitted trying to hamper the work of security. He also said he helped the assassin for the foreign imperialists and was preparing to help another.

"Why did this accredited correspondent have the support of common criminals and become the accomplice of the murders of Czech citizens? He tried to jeopardize Czech security and, with hostile elements and subversives and assassins, acted against the interests of the tate. He tried to maintain the last spy network of the U. S. in Czechoslovakia by making use of assassins."

"Is the United States," Hajek asked, "trying to contest that a soverign state has the established right to punish espionage activity against that state? Anyone interfering in the affairs of Czechoslovakia must face condemnation.

"The U. S. has invoked the freedom of press and information in order to carry out a war of propaganda for preparing a new war. The Voice of America and Radio Free Europe are made use of for this purpose.

"The United States has sent spies and subversive agents and assassins whose purpose it was to prevent the peaceful development of our country. Oatis, for instance, claiming to be a journalist, acted as a spy."

"We know why the U. S. appears so concerned about the Oatis case," Hajek concluded." It shows us the activity the United States is carrying on against Czechoslovakia. The activities of these hostile element are obliterated by our security organs and now their disclosure deals a severe blow against the policy of the United States and their attempts to obstruct the peaceful development will remain fruitless.

"These attempts will meet with the resistance of people who want to prevent a third world war."

Council-Manager Govm't Spreads

NEW YORK —(AP)— Seventy-three communities and counties adopted the council-manager form of government in 1951, the National Municipal League has announced.

The plan was in effect or soon-to-be in 1,078 places. Largest city to adopt the plan last year was San Antonio, Tex., where the voters approved it by a 2-to-1 majority.

Two states have permitted their cities to adopt the council-manager plan, the league reported. Rhode Island did so by a constitutional amendment and Illinois by an enabling act of the state legislature.

Grunewald Attorney May Escape Contempt Charge

By REX CHANEY
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—The House, wary of setting a precedent, may drop contempt of Congress proceedings against William Power Maloney, the talkative attorney of "mystery man" Henry W. Grunewald.

Some members said today they are opposed to pressing the case against Maloney because he would have to be tried by the House itself, rather than by a court.

There was some feeling that such a trial might damage the dignity of the House, as well as set a precedent that present congressmen or their successors might regret.

A House ways and means subcommittee investigating tax scandals proposed that Maloney and Grunewald be cited for contempt—Maloney for insisting on talking after he was told to be quiet, and Grunewald for refusing to talk at all.

The subcommittee wanted to question Grunewald about his knowledge, if any, of the tax case involving Abraham Teitelbaum, a Chicago attorney. Teitelbaum testified he was the victim of a $500,000 tax shakedown plot, and Grunewald's name figured in the testimony of other witnesses who discussed the alleged shakedown attempt.

Grunewald, on Maloney's advice, refused to answer any questions about the Teitelbaum case or anything else. The subcommittee voted to cite him for contempt, and the full ways and means committee followed suit. The house is expected to approve the citation after the subcommittee winds up the tax hearings which it is scheduled to start Monday in San Francisco.

Malayans Seek Rubber Mission

PENANG —(AP) Malayan rubber producers will ask the United States government to send a mission here to study rubber problems, similar to the U. S. tin mission which completed its survey a few months ago.

If it is not possible for American to send a rubber mission which completed its survey a few months ago.

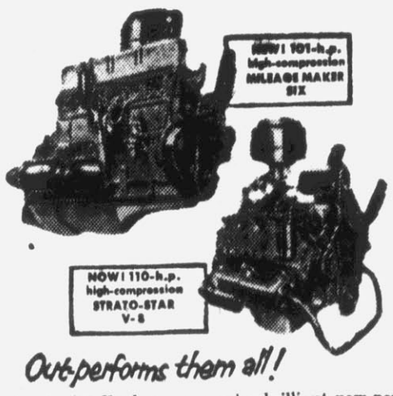

If it is not possible for America to send a rubber mission here, he said, the association would send a delegation of its own to Washington with a view to bringing about "complete understanding" in the many problems confronting the rubber industry in Malaya.

Stocks And Market Reports

NEW YORK (UP) — Stocks rallied smartly today after a lower opening.

By the end of the first hour, the industrial and rail averages recorded small gains. They extended these in the second hour on substantially increased volume. First hour sales ran at a rate of 2,500,000 shares for a full session.

Oils and metals stood out on the recovery. Standard Oil (NJ) whose directors act on dividends today, touched 80 5-8 and rallied to 81 3-8. Texas Pacific Land Trust rose to a net gain of a point. Atlantic Refining was up nearly 2 points. Continental gained 1 1-2.

Cerro de Pasco gained a point and other coppers were up major fractions. Steels firmed under the leadership of Bethlehem.

Rallying tendencies spread throughout most of the list. Motorola featured the televisions with a full point advance. Rails recorded advances ranging to a point. Firestone recovered all of an opening loss of 1 1-8 points.

The rally came after the market had experienced its most severe selling of the year in the last half hour yesterday. That decline had been caused by professional selling.

Draft Director Advocates Quick Start For UMT

WASHINGTON (UP)— Draft Director Lewis B. Hershey said today the proposed universal military training program "must be started now" to build up a vast reservoir of citizen soldiers.

He said the UMT program must necessarily begin on a modest scale because the bulk of qualified young men are still needed by the armed forces.

"The sooner a universal military training program is put into effect —and an adequate reserve built up —the sooner we can afford to reduce the size of the standing armed forces without consequent danger to our national security," Hershey said.

The selective service chief gave his views in a statement prepared for the House Armed Services Committee. Chairman Carl Vinson said the group's hearings on UMT would end after today's session. The Georgia Democrat ordered the committee into executive session starting Monday to draw up a bill.

Hershey said he was urging immediate action on the UMT plan "because of the deep conviction which I have held for so many years that this country must adopt universal military training if it is to survive."

He said most persons familiar with national defense demands agree that the program is necessary, but are uncertain whether the selective service system can operate a draft and UMT program at the same time.

To that he answered: "It can and it must."

Hershey said, however, that of the 12,000,000 men registered with draft boards across the nation, only about 500,000 will eventually see service.

"It necessarily follows," he said, "that universal military training must begin on a modest scale and be fully developed as rapidly as possible. It would further follow that universal military training becomes a phasing-in operation, and as it proceeds the present system of selection and induction can be reduced."

The draft chief emphasized that he thinks men who were trained immediately under the UMT program would have to go into active military service instead of the reserves as originally planned.

"Such service will necessarily be required until such time as a reduction in the size of the armed forces can be safely achieved," he said.

Hershey's assertion that the first "UMTees" might have to be called to active duty after six months training ran counter to Vinson's latest proposal.

Vinson told newsmen he thinks enough 18-year-olds might be spared from the draft pool to enable a start to be made next fall on a "real" UMT program—that is, one in which all trainees go into the reserves after six months training, rather than to active military duty.

Tasty Meat, that meaty select quality smoked pork butt of Wilson & Co. is ideal for winter variety. There are many ways to cook it and it always serves up, true to its name, Tasty Meat. There is no bone, no waste—all meat, tasty meat.

You can bake and glaze it (see directions on the wrapper). You can simmer it with vegetables . . . fry it or broil it . . . all in the same manner you'd cook a ham. No matter how you cook it, that w-o-n-d-e-r-f-u-l smoked-ham flavor is there. Tasty Meat stands out a flavor champion among all pork-shoulder butts.

Though it is sort of like painting the lily, we like to barbecue a Tasty Meat or two now and again for pleasant variety. We find these very popular. For barbecuing you may leave your Tasty Meat in the round (that is, log-shaped) or split it in half and lay open flat in steak fashion. Thick slices also barbecue nicely. Baste as you bake with Barbecue Sauce—either your favorite or ours! Um-m-M, but Tasty Meat is "dee-li-cious!"

Barbecued Tasty Meat

Prepare a Barbecue Sauce by blending and heating until cooked down slightly thick and savory.

¼ cup vinegar
2 tablespoons Clearbrook butter
¼ cup brown sugar
2 tablespoons Worcestershire Sauce
1 teaspoon red pepper, optional*
2 teaspoons paprika
2 tablespoons A-1 Sauce
no salt

Spread part of thickened sauce on Wilson's Certified Tasty Meat in the round, split-open or thickly-sliced. Use: 1 Wilson's Certified Tasty Meat (1 to 4 lbs. to suit size of your family). When coated, reserve any remaining sauce for basting. Set Tasty Meat on a rack in a shallow pan and bake at 325° F., basting from time to time with the Barbecue Sauce. Bake approximately 45 minutes per pound, depending on thickness of meat, or cook to an internal temperature of 170° F., on your meat thermometer. Serve a la Southern with sweet potatoes and cornbread or tasty slaw or carrots. Um-m-m-M!

*This amount of red pepper gives a true Barbecue flavor. You may decrease the amount to suit your taste.

Chapter 22

Marcia did not think there was any use in her going to bed. She knew she would be unable to sleep, so she decided that she would shampoo her hair. That always made her feel better.

She would not think about anything, until tomorrow. That would be time enough. Too soon, actually. For when Dean phoned, if she had got the money and the tickets, there was nothing she could do. To think that at this same time tomorrow night she might be married to Dean, and in Mexico. Or back in Elmwood, since Dean had finally said he would stop off there, if she insisted.

She was not sure that she would insist. She was not sure of anything. Except, of course, her love for Dean and his for her. For now she knew that Dean must love her as much as she did him. Otherwise why would he be so anxious to hurry their wedding, to get away from the rest of the world?

She heard Abigail's key turning in the lock. Now Marcia would have to face her sister, with all this added burden of secrecy piled on top of the accumulaton of smaller ones. It would be a miracle if Abigail could not tell, by Marcia's face, that she was carrying some big load.

Looking in the glass, answering her sister's call. Marcia saw that her eyes were very big, her face rather white, and with her hair all wet and stringy she certainly looked awful. Maybe Abigail would put it all down—if she noticed at all, and her sister had a way of not noticing how other people looked or felt —to her wet head.

On the contrary Marcia always noticed, almost sensed, when someone else looked different. She had only to look up at Abigail, standing in the doorway, to see at once that her sister wore a new look. Not the one of fashion, but a new look that came from inside.

Abigail looked happy, happy with a radiance she never had worn before.

"Why didn't you tell me?" she said. Then before Marcia could reply, if indeed she had been able to, not knowing what Abigail meant, she added. "But I'm glad you didn't, darling. It means much more, coming as a surprise to me. I saw the portrait, Marcia. This evening. Manning took me to see it."

"He did? You did?" Marcia had to sit down on the dressing table stool. She kept on , mechanically, brushing away at her damp hair. The portrait. Abigail knew that much now, at any rate. And she was not angry about it; she was glad.

"It's very good. Very good," Abigail said. Her voice sounded different, too. It was not light and mocking; it was warm and deep. "It's the sort of thing I knew Dean could do, if only he would. And of course it will win first prize."

"It will?"

"There isn't any doubt about it," Abigail said. "It's by far the best thing in the entire exhibit—or in any exhibit that's been around for a long time. Everyone is talking about it."

"That's wonderful." Marcia wished she could say it with more enthusiasm.

"Dean is made" There was no mistaking the pride in Abigail's warm tones, the light in her eyes: "His name will mean something now. He can get so many commissions he will have to turn them down."

But again it was the look she wore that made her so beautiful. She looked at her sister and said, "You see, Marcia, I love him. That's why it means so much to me."

"I see" Marcia said. It was very difficult to say that much.

"I know I talked a lot of foolish nonsense"—Abigail wore a faint smile of amusement, directed at herself this time—"about not believing in love. I do believe in it. I know you can't deny it. Dean and I tried, but it was no use."

Marcia could have agreed with that. What could anyone do about love? It was so unpredictable. And what on earth could she say now to her sister, sitting there, smiling, so sure of herself and her love, so sure of Dean.

She kept on brushing her hair. It was almost dry. It was behaving as hair will when freshly washed, flying every which way, the short bang refusing to curl under as it should.

"We quarreled all the time," Abigail was explaining. "Then we'd make up, knowing we couldn't do without each other. Except the last time. That time—why, it was just before you came, darling" Her violet eyes met her younger sister's in the mirror.

Marcia brushed furiously so that the bang did curl under, the longer ends flew into her face, covering her eyes. She knew, though, that Abigail was so absorbed in her new happiness that she could not have noticed the misery in Marcia's eyes.

"That was the day—the day you came," Abigail went on, "that I decided to marry Victor. I had gotten tired of waiting for Dean to do something worthwhile. I kept goading him on, fighting about it. I guess I thought that by announcing my marriage to someone else I could make Dean see what he must."

Her eyes met Marcia's again, not in the mirror this time, as Marcia had turned partly around. "You're the one," Abigail said. Her voice was grateful; her smile was ful of the affection, the gratitude, she extended toward her younger sister. "You did it all—your coming here, so that Dean could paint you—your being as you are, darling. Living with you, knowing you has made me change, I guess."

"Oh, no" Marcia could not with her guilty black conscience, that heavy burden of secrecy on her soul, accept such credit. She had caused much to happen by coming here, but not what Abigail thought. She would have liked to tell the truth, unburden herself. But she couldn't now. Now indeed her tongue was tied.

"Yes you were" Abigail insisted. "You're so sweet, darling, so good. You are good for people."

That was what Dean said. She was good for him. Marcia did not think it was so; it began to seem she was the opposite, or would be. For she had to hurt Dean, cease being good for him, or hurt her Abigail wore like a crown of joy.

"After I see Victor," she explained, "I must go to Dean. I'm not too proud. I must make things right. I want our love to be right—everything clear between us. It's funny, isn't it, darling, how one feels? About love, I mean."

Few Automobiles Owned In Japan

TOKYO (AP)—There is only one automobile in Japan for every 2,400 people, compared to a U. S. rate of one car for each four persons.

The International Trade and Industry Ministry, conducting a survey, found that Japan had twice as many cars in 1937 as it did in 1951. It also disclosed that Japan produces about 10 cars daily while the U. S. completes an average of 12,000 daily.

Marching Mothers Aid Polio Campaign Tonight

By The Associated Press

Marching mothers, armed with glass jars, will push the drive against polio throughout the Carolinas tonight.

They will take part in the last phase of the annual March of Dimes campaign for funds to fight infantile paralysis. The mothers' march will take them to almost every house as they conduct one of the most extensive drives ever attempted in the two states.

Any contribution will be welcome, no matter how small, to aid in the battle with the dread crippler of childhood.

The mothers march has been scheduled in most cities and towns and in many rural communities throughout the two states. Generally the campaigns will follow much the same pattern: mothers will visit only homes which have their front porch lights on, indicating the householder wants to make a contribution.

Gastonia will combine the civil defense program with the mothers' march. The novel plan will start with the blast of a siren—the same signal to be used in case of enemy attack—and will last one hour. At the signal the city's houses will be lighted. As the defense workers and the mothers collect the contributions, the house lights will go out.

The workers hope to have the entire city blacked out within an hour.

Winter's Worst Cold Wave For Carolinas Ends

By The Associated Press

Winter's worst cold wave was broken in the Carolinas today as a bright sun pushed the mercury upward from sub-freezing readings of the past two days.

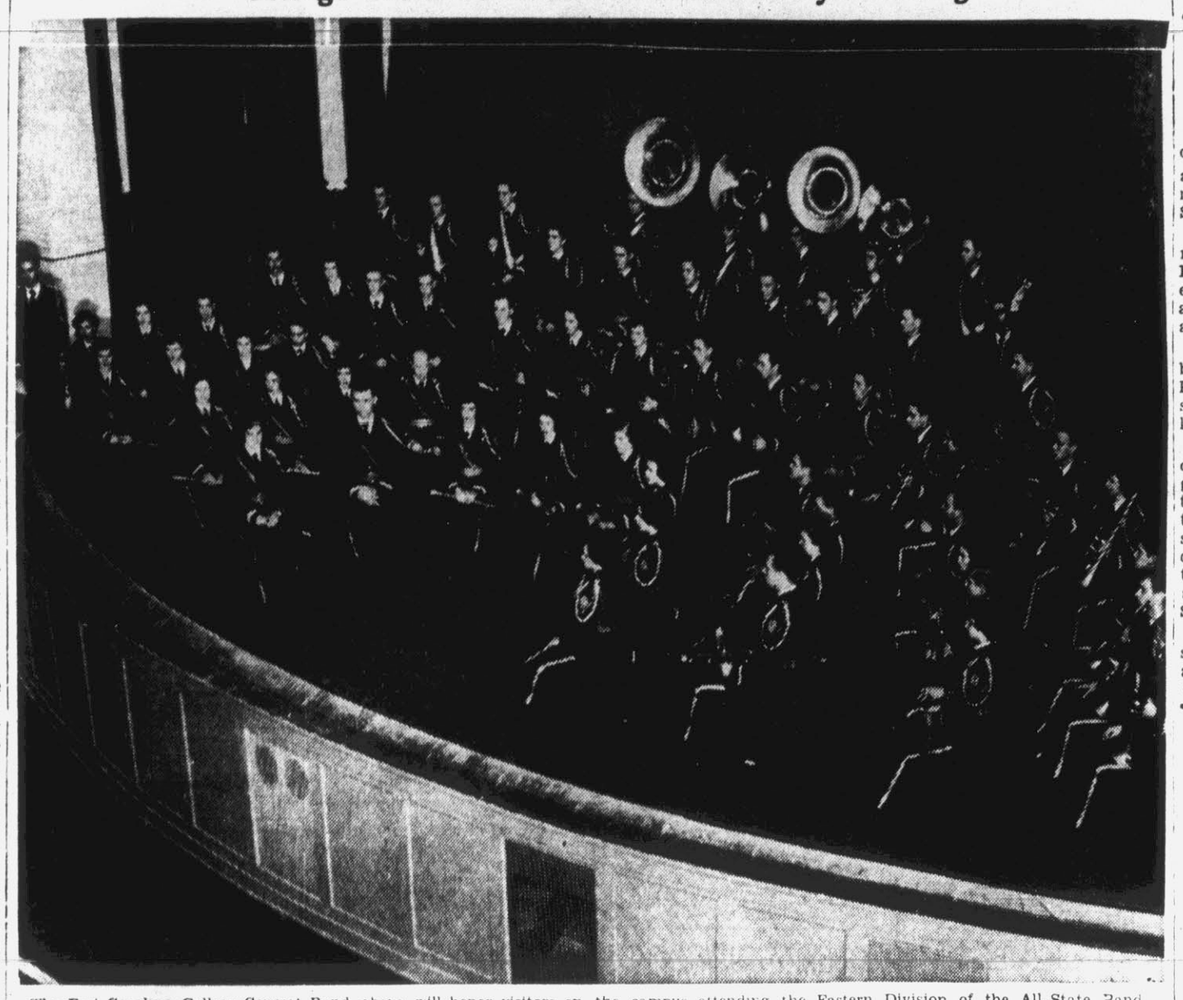

The weather bureau announced the end of the bitter cold in a few well chosen words. It said in its forecast early today: "Clear to partly cloudy and warmer today, tonight and Friday" in both Carolinas.

The forecast was issued as the mercury was still in the tens and low twenties throughout all sections of the two states. But, at that, it was still warmer than Wednesday morning. Mt. Mitchell, for instance, had a low of 11 degrees—17 degrees higher than its frigid six-below reading on Wednesday.

The forward edge of the warm air that is moving into the two states lifted the mercury to 13 at the Asheville airport—as compared with a nine degree reading Wednesday. Charlotte had a low of 18 and a high of 45 was predicted today, 10 degrees higher than yesterday's maximum reading.

The temperature played a merry game of hop scotch this morning, following no set pattern. While one city was shivering in severe cold, a neighboring city was reporting considerably higher readings. Greensboro, for instance, reported a 14 degree low, while nearby Winston-Salem had a 20.

College Band To Give Concert Friday Evening

The East Carolina College Concert Band, above, will honor visitors on the campus attending the Eastern Division of the All-State Band Clinic with a concert Friday evening at 7:30 in the College Theatre Herbert L. Carter of the college faculty will direct the popular music organization in a varied program ranging from spirited marches to symphonic music. The program will begin and end with marches, including Sousa's "Our Flirtations" and Villa-Lobos' "El Trompo." The menuet and trio from Haydn's "Surprise Symphony" and the "Suite Francaise' by the modern composer Milhaud are among selections chosen by the band for the Friday concert. Other numbers include compositions by Grieg, Handel and Fred, whose "Fantasy on an American Air" will be played.

Bethel Girl Chosen As Winner Beauty Event

Joyce Beverly, 17 year-old blonde of Bethel, was crowned last night as "Miss Gold Medal" in the gymnasium of the Farmville High School.

Miss Beverly will reign over the rest of the Coastal Gold Medal Basketball Tournament which will end Saturday and she will present awards to the winning boy's team and girl's team.

She was presented a loving cup by Louis Williams, president of the Key Club of Farmville which sponsored the contest, and a bouquet of long-stemmed red roses.

Miss Beverly won over 16 other contestants who were presented gifts. She was chosen after the third round of the contest. All of the girls in the contest were sponsored by the student body, class, or basketball team of their respective schools. Miss Beverly was sponsored by the Bethel High School basketball team.

Miss Beverly stands five feet, six inches, weighs 120 pounds, and is a senior at the Bethel High School. She is a forward on the girl's basketball team at Bethel.

Judging the contest were Guy Langston, Jimmy Brewer, and Elbert Bennet, all of Greenville.

Christine Moye, Farmville, and Isabel Manning, Bethel, won second and third place in the contest.

Suspect Trio Confesses Corn Thiefs Near Ayden

A 45-year-old Ayden Negro, who apparently led his young nephew and his own son into thievery, yesterday confessed to participating in a series of three corn robberies within the past week.

Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson said all three of the suspects—John Henry Evans, his 16-year-old son Johnny Lee, and his nephew, Ben Taylor, Jr., 18— admitted yesteray afternoon to stealing a quantity of corn from Hubert Jolly and Miss Nora Jolly, also of Ayden community. The thefts took place on three different occasions.

The trio was arrested within a two-day period and had been confined in separate cells until yesterday, when they decided to "talk", the sheriff reported. They have been indicted and will be tried in county court next Tuesday. All three were still in jail last night.

Officers of the Pitt County Sheriff's Department and James Ross of the Ayden Police Department conducted the investigation.

Sheriff Tyson disclosed that a virtual epidemic of corn thefts has broken out in the county during the past two months. "We have sent several convicted thieves to the roads," he stated, "but as fast as thefts are halted in one section of the county, they break out in another."

The sheriff added that there have been five separate reports of corn theft from Ayden in the past four weeks.

RALEIGH (AP) — Tar Heel motorists must display new 1952 license tags on their motor vehicles after midnight tonight or face possible arrest.

Motor Vehicles Commissioner Landon C. Rosser said yesterday state highway patrolmen have been instructed to pick up all motorists not having new tags.

Approximately 1,226,000 licenses were issued during 1951. So far this year, however, less than 800,000 have been sold.

Iwo Jima's Jap Dead 'Unburied'

TOKYO —(AP)— Japanese morning newspapers today featured a spread of grim pictures and stories of Japanese skeletons on the sands of Iwo Jima.

Iwo, a volcanic island about 500 miles south of Japan, was captured by U. S. Marines March 17, 1945, after a bitter battle with the Japanese garrison.

The pictures and stories came from an expedition led by a Buddhist priest, Jusho Wachi "to console the souls of the war dead on Iwo Jima."

Wachi said "there are many skulls exposed to the rains and left uncared for..."

Announced American casualties at Iwo were 4,189 dead, 15,308 bodies of more than 21,000 Japanese were counted on its blood-soaked sands.

Marrying Judges Of Reno Outrun City's Ministers

RENO —(AP)— Reno's marrying judges ran away from the city's ministers in the annual marriage derby last year.

There were 21,252 couples married.

Figures compiled by the Reno Evening Gazette from courthouse records show the three regular district judges performed 9,601 ceremonies.

Three justices of the peace and several judges, sitting temporarily as district judges during the year, performed 6,398.

Some 90 ministers shared 5,255 religious ceremonies.

Marriage bound couples from California and other states where marital laws are more strict than in Nevada have to pay the presiding official $10 in addition to $5 for their license.

New Historical Drama Scheduled For This Summer

BOONE —(AP)— Another historical drama will be on the North Carolina scene this summer.

The newest is "Horn Of The West," a pageant about Daniel Boone and early settlers in this area. It is sponsored by the Southern Appalachian Historical Association and will have its premiere June 27 at an open air theater on the Blowing Rock Highway.

"Horn" was written by Kermit Hunter, who also authored "Unto These Hills," a pageant of the Cherokee Indian which plays each summer at Cherokee, N. C.

The state's third major summer drama is "The Lost Colony," presented Fort Raleigh, on the outer banks.
