Snarled On German NATO Aid

U. S. Officials Abandon Hope Early Settlement After New Demands

WASHINGTON (UP)—American officials have abandoned hope of getting agreement on Germany's role in European defense strategy before next week's North Atlantic Pact meeting in Lisbon, it was disclosed today.

The United States had expected an early agreement until the Germans suddenly demanded action on the Saar question and entered their bid for eventual NATO membership.

Now American officials realize these issues must be dealt with somehow before the final touches are applied to Germany's "peace contract" and the proposed European Army agreement.

But they are determined, if possible, to prevent the new issues from bogging down the negotiations. They fear new long delays might endanger the whole project and deliver a severe setback to European defense plans.

The Big Three foreign ministers plan to discuss these and other "unresolved" German issues at a meeting in London Feb. 13-14. German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer is expected to be on hand.

Officials here have been casting about for a way to get by the Saar problem without doing too much damage but so far haven't come up with much.

They suggested a plebiscite and a four-power conference to settle the issue next fall. But the French were not favorably disposed.

The French, on the other hand, have suggested that the Saar might be internationalized to serve as a sort of District of Columbia for the European defense community.

Some American officials think this idea might work but there has been no decision on whether to back it. The Germans might also object.

Meanwhile, these officials hope that the present talks on a scheme for coordinating the proposed European Army with NATO might meet Germany's demands for Atlantic Pact membership, at least temporarily.

As the plan is shaping up, NATO would be responsible for the security of the countries contributing to the Army—including Germany. Germany also would share in the decisions of the Army which would serve under NATO.

Germany would thus be associated with NATO. Later, officials here believe, it would become a full-fledged member.

Woman Arrested For Irate Mail Sent President

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UP)—A 40-year-old farm wife who wrote President Truman she hoped he would be "hit in the head with a club" was held in jail here today on charges of sending "scurrilous and defamatory" matter through the mails.

Mrs. Mary Lois Jones, who lives with her husband on a farm 10 miles northwest of Marshall, Mo., was arraigned before a U. S. commissioner here yesterday. She was remanded to jail for a hearing Friday when she was unable to post $3,500 bond.

One postcard which she sent to Mr. Truman said, "I hope someone kills you," Krill testified.

"I'd rather be a slave of the Kremlin than a slave of big business, big bondholders and big city racketeers," she wrote in one letter, the agent said.

HUNDRED WITHOUT PAY

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Army said today it discharged about 100 veterans of the Korean war without paying them in full because their pay records were not in this country.

Prison Sentence Is Given To Young Raleigh Driver

AYDEN — A Raleigh youth began a two-year prison term yesterday after being convicted in recorder's court here of driving drunk and driving after his operator's license had been revoked.

The youth, Charles Henry Stephenson III, had been on probation under a two-year prison sentence since 1949 following a speeding incident in Carteret County which cost the life of a highway patrolman.

Following Stephenson's conviction on the two new charges here yesterday afternoon, Superior Court Judge John J. Burney ruled that Stephenson had violated his probation and must serve the two-year sentence.

The new charges against Stephenson were the result of a highway accident which occurred about three miles south of Ayden on highway number 11 about 1 a. m. on the morning of January 20.

Through his attorney, Norman Sheppard of Smithfield, Stephenson pleaded not guilty to charges of careless and reckless driving, drunken driving and driving after

Peace Officers Association Meets Here

Farmville Blood Donors Apparently To Hit Goal

Two Hundred Donors Signed As Collections Begin By Bloodmobile Today; Process Is Proceeding On Schedule

FARMVILLE — Prospective blood donors filed into the Presbyterian Church here early this morning to donate blood at the first visit of the bloodmobile to Farmville.

The doors of the church opened at 9:30 this morning in the launching of the blood program here where the equipment was set up by volunteer workers and the crew which travels with the bloodmobile.

B. C. Satterfield, chairman of the program in Pitt County, said 200 donors from Farmville had signed up and Farmville would reach its quota if there were few cancellations. The quota is set at 150 pints.

Satterfield said he said Robert Rouse, chairman of the program in Farmville, spent one day last week scheduling the donors so there would be 16 people on hand every half hour to donate blood. The appointment cards were sent out last week denoting what time the donor was to be at the church to give blood.

By noon today, a large number of citizens had donated blood. The first donor was a young girl, Hazel Barrett.

Rouse said all civic clubs had cooperated in setting up the program. The women volunteers who handled the registration, canteen, etc., are from the Service League, the Junior Womens Club, the Literary Club and a number of local nurses.

Rouse also commented on the work of the Farmville post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. A number of members had signed up, even before the blood program was launched here. The "VFW" was labeled "a walking blood bank" because they were available to give blood in cases of emergency.

By noon today, a large number of citizens had donated blood. The first donor was a young girl, Hazel Barrett.

Youth Sentenced In $3,000 Theft

OXFORD (UP)—A 19-year-old former Wake Forest College student began a three-year probation period here today after admitting the theft of $3,000 from the man in whose home he was a guest.

Abner W. Neal entered a guilty plea yesterday to a charge of freebie trespass. Judge R. Hunt Parker gave Neal a suspended sentence of six months and placed him in probation.

Neal admitted he took the money from the store of W. H. Curran last December while he was a guest in Curran's home. Police recovered the loot after Neal led them to the spot where he had hidden it.

Postal Receipts Show Slim Gain

Total receipts for January, 1952, at the local Post Office were only 41 cents higher than receipts in January of last year.

This year the receipts for the past month totaled $13,722.79 and the receipts for last January totaled $13,722.30.

Islanders Adopt Constitution

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (UP)—The Constituent Assembly approved overwhelmingly last night Puerto Rico's new "home rule" constitution.

The constitution, which closely follows that of the U. S. in guaranteeing basic freedoms in a "bill of rights," would increase this island's control over its domestic affairs but not its status as a U. S. possession.

It is expected to win popular approval in a vote by the island's residents later this month. Then it would go to the U. S. Congress for final approval.

State Senator Indicted For Income Tax Evasion

DURHAM (UP)—State Sen. Harvey Morris of Charlotte was under federal indictment charging income tax evasion today, and a Salisbury industrialist, two doctors and six other persons were also named by a grand jury here.

The indictments charge attempted evasion of taxes totaling about $500,000. Morris was charged with failing to file tax returns for 1948 and 1949. The government said he should have paid taxes on $17,795.81 gross income in 1948 and on $44,419.56 in 1949.

W. F. McCanness of Salisbury, already indicted in Georgia on evasion counts, was named in three counts as an individual and in another indictment as president of Klumac Cotton Mills, Inc., of Salisbury.

Bulletins

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee today unanimously approved the Japanese peace treaty and three Pacific mutual security pacts.

WEST POINT (UP)—A big majority of nearly 2,400 cadets at the Military Academy would resign in protest if the 90 cadets discharged for "cribbing" were reinstated, a poll disclosed today.

BERN, Switzerland (UP)—Swiss federal police said today that a mysterious foreigner had "confessed" he helped murder an American naval attaché on a speeding express train in Austria two years ago.

Murderess Still Free Of Asylum

It was decided yesterday to dispose of the bull at the county home and use artificial breeding exclusively. County Farm Agent Sam Winchester explained that the cost of breeding artificially will be far less than the cost of feeding a bull, and the semen used in the artificial breeding program is of the best stock.

Regular monthly reports from the various county departments were heard.

Sixth Session Of UN Ends Today

PARIS (UP)—The sixth annual United Nations General Assembly ended today with the defeat of a Soviet attempt to force a debate on the Korean war.

By a vote of 51 to 5 with two abstentions, the Assembly adopted a Western motion to postpone all debate on Korea until a battlefield armistice has been signed or the West decides that sterner military measures are necessary.

The Soviet bloc of five fought to the end for an immediate debate, arguing that it would help break the deadlocks in trade negotiations at Panmunjom, Korea. But the West contended that a debate at this time would only prolong the Panmunjom negotiations.

The Korean postponement was the last item on the 70-plus point agenda of the Assembly, which convened here just three months ago today.

Losses To Fire Low; Building Valued $165,000

Fire losses in the city of Greenville dropped to a low of $2,396.50 for the month of January, Fire Chief George Gardner reported today.

The losses resulted from blazes which damaged two dwellings during the month.

Included in the report was a listing of new construction carried on according to the same time, permits were issued with a valuation of $185,500, one commercial building permit was issued for $12,000 and only one repair permit, with a valuation of $1,500 was issued.

Complaint Filed With Pitt Board Over Wild Dogs

Pack Destroying Livestock; New Boiler For County Home Is Approved

A pack of wild dogs is abroad and destroying livestock on the farms of Pitt County, it was reported yesterday.

Allan Move of near Greenville, appeared before the Board of County Commissioners yesterday morning and requested damages for 12 dogs killed and partially eaten by a pack of wild dogs roaming the county.

Chairman F. F. Hendrix appointed a jury of freeholders to investigate the complaint and determine whether the county is liable for damages under the statutes. There is an old law on the books which provides that damages may be paid for destruction of wild dogs from the county dog tax fund. If there is no money there, no payment may be made.

The board approved the purchase of a new boiler for the Negro portion of the county home, but the actual expense was not determined.

A letter from Miss Tabitha De Visconti of Farmville which requested that the county employ a trained nurse to help take care of bed-ridden patients at the county home, was read. The board considered the request and referred the problem to committee for further consideration and action.

R. P. Woolard was appointed constable of Pactolus Township as a result of a petition signed by 12 citizens of that township. Woolard will be subject to re-election in November.

A road petition from Chicod Township was approved. The road runs from Bruce McLawhorn's farm through Avon farm to Lyman Hardy's farm. It is known as part of Avon farm road and is seven miles in length.

It was decided yesterday to dispose of the bull at the county home and use artificial breeding exclusively. County Farm Agent Sam Winchester explained that the cost of breeding artificially will be far less than the cost of feeding a bull, and the semen used in the artificial breeding program is of the best stock.

Regular monthly reports from the various county departments were heard.

March Of Dimes Not Yet Finished

The 1952 March of Dimes in Pitt County is still under way, and some distance to go yet to meet an average of one dime per person in Pitt County.

On the basis of returns submitted to Treasurer J. W. Overton by the Pitt County Chapter, receipts have passed the $4,000 mark, but only a few units have made their reports.

A minimum of $7,000 is sought, although no quota was assigned Pitt County, Campaign Chairman James W. Butler said Tuesday.

Of the funds received to date, Farmville contributed $1,400 through its Community Chest, Greenville High School students have collected approximately $700 in the Greenville base district and the one-day promotion of the Greenville Junior Chamber of Commerce netted more than $410.

Two rural school districts, Belvoir and Stokes, have reported funds considerably above the receipts of the 1951 campaign, Overton said.

Although the campaign was inaugurated for the month of January, actual collections will continue through the month of February to enable the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis to meet the mortgage of $5,000,000 for patient care. An individual who existed before the 1952 campaign got under way.

It is worth bearing in mind that about three-quarters of every dollar received by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis has been going to meet the costs of patient care. And we still have to underwrite the programs of scientific research and professional education," Campaign Chairman Butler said.

Persons who received letters urging their support of the campaign are urged to respond and mail their checks or money orders to Treasurer Overton this week, Butler said.

Special praise was voiced by Butler for the very excellent campaigns of the Greenville school children in the Greenville high school and the Training School of East Carolina College where the gifts exceeded $100 per school child.

Also, commendation for the gifts of Pitt County and the Ladies Auxiliary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post toward the campaign goal was expressed by Butler.

UN Warns Truce Progress Is Slow

No Real Willingness For Fair Peace Shown By Reds; Top Negotiators Gather Today On Final Item Of Agenda

PANMUNJOM, Korea (UP)—Negotiators quickly settled minor details of a Korean armistice today, but the United Nations command warned that the Reds still haven't shown a "real willingness for a fair peace."

A "Voice of the U. N. Command" broadcast aid Communist concessions so far have been a "step in the right direction," but there is still a long way to go.

"Progress of sorts has been made before," and each period of optimism has been in turn followed by weeks of utter frustration. This is part of the Communist war of nerves.

Hopes must be raised and dashed according to schedule in the hope that sooner or later the U. N. command will give in completely.

The warning against false optimism was broadcast by Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's official radio on the eve of the first meeting in two months of the full armistice delegations.

The full session will convene at 10 a. m. Wednesday (8 p. m. today EST) to take up the fifth and final item on the armistice agenda—recommendations to be made to the belligerent governments for a final peace settlement.

U. N. and Communist delegates moved ahead rapidly during the day in twin subcommittees working on an exchange of war prisoners and supervision of an armistice. Developments included:

Exchange of prisoners: The Communists agreed that each side would return prisoners "as rapidly as possible," agreed that there might be a need for another exchange site in addition to Panmunjom.

Wellfare superintendent K. T. Futrelle appeared before the board yesterday and announced that an exceptionally heavy burden of hospital patients at Pitt Memorial Hospital has about exhausted his budget for 1952.

The reason given for the usually large expenditure was a greater number of patients being committed to the hospital, and for a greater length of time than was previously necessary.

"Not only has the number of patients being committed increased," said Futrelle, "but the number of days treatment necessary for their discharge has also grown." The superintendent explained that in many instances, welfare patients are not committed to the hospital until they are so ill that longer and more extensive treatment must be given before they are sufficiently recovered and can go home.

Chairman F. F. Hendrix called a special meeting of the board for 7:30 Wednesday night in the commissioners' room of the courthouse. At that time, some solution to the problem will have to be worked out, he said.

Cigarette Firm To Fight Ruling Against Claims

WASHINGTON (AP)—The makers of Philip Morris cigarettes planned a fight today against a Federal Trade Commission (FTC) examiner's ruling which would ban its advertising claim of medicinally-pretended superiority.

FTC hearing examiner Earl J. Kolb called "false and deceptive" claims that the moistening agent Philip Morris uses makes its cigarettes less irritating than other brands.

The extent of nose and throat irritation, he added, depends on the individual's tolerance and smoking habits.

He said the company's claim that Philip Morris cigarettes "superiority" is based on "superior medical knowledge" based on tests conducted at the behest of the Philip Morris Company.

Pitt X-Ray Machine Said 'Dangerous' For Operator

The x-ray machine at the Pitt County Health Department is currently being used at the risk of serious personal injury to the operator.

Dr. T. G. Basnight, county health officer, yesterday appeared before the Pitt Board of Commissioners and requested that the x-ray room at the health department be lined with lead sheets for the protection of the nurse who operates it every week.

A spokesman from Pitt Memorial Hospital agreed with Dr. Basnight that the lead should be done, and soon. "Constant exposure to x-rays is really dangerous for the operator," he said. "Over a period of time, x-rays destroy the red corpuscles and cause anemia."

The health officer stated he thought there was some provision in the statutes for the protection of workers who are constantly in the vicinity of x-ray operation.

"As long as the nurse has been operating the machine without any protection, it is a wonder she has not felt some ill effects before now," he asserted.

Superintendent of Pitt Memorial Hospital C. D. Ward reported that there is some lead in the walls of the x-ray room at old Pitt General Hospital recently converted to a county office building.

"Both lead and labor are high, and I doubt if there is enough lead out at the old hospital to justify leaving it out for use at the health department," he said.

It was suggested that the county pay the hospital to do the x-ray work for the health department, but the average weekly cost would run around $50.00, and that was considered too high. It was determined, however, that the lead can be installed by local labor and positive action on the project was postponed until the board meets Wednesday night at a special called meeting.

Reverses Earlier Decision; Will Provide First Popularity Test Against Kefauver; President Acts On Advice Of Party Chairman McKinney And 'Others'

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Truman decided today to permit his name to remain on the presidential ballot in New Hampshire.

The President's surprise decision—he had said last week he would withdraw his name—assured the first presidential "popularity test" between Mr. Truman and Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn), the only avowed candidate so far for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Kefauver already has entered a slate in the March 11 New Hampshire primary.

Mr. Truman acted on the advice of Democratic Chairman Frank E. McKinney and said "many good Democrats in New Hampshire" who "are of the opinion that my name should be left on the (primary) ballot."

He informed Enoch D. Fuller, New Hampshire secretary of state, that for this reason "I shall not ask you to take my name off the list."

Mr. Truman had stated earlier that he objected to such primaries because they were not binding, and thought it would be better for his name not to appear on any ballots until he was ready to announce whether he will seek re-election.

Mr. Truman was entered in the preference primary by James McPhail, a Manchester, N.H., lumberman who was unknown to the President and McKinney at the time. Mr. Truman had 10 days, expiring Feb. 9, in which to take himself out of the primary if he so desired.

At his news conference last Thursday, the President said he would not stay in the New Hampshire primary and thought such primaries were so much eye-wash. He said that if he wanted the nomination he would not have to enter any primary.

McKinney, meeting here today with the new Democratic Executive Committee, apparently changed the President's mind.

Mr. Truman's letter to Fuller was made public as the executive head of the Democratic National Committee met to discuss national convention plans, the pre-convention program of the national committee, reorganization of the national headquarters, and the 1952 campaign budget.

The budget was reported to call for outlay of more than $2,000,000 for radio and television time during the campaign.

Mr. Truman was reported to be under mounting pressure from party leaders to make an early statement on what he plans to do in '52. But Mr. Truman still had them guessing.

Some directly contradictory inferences about how soon the President will disclose his plans have been drawn by Democrats who have talked to him.

The prevailing confusion was demonstrated in comments of two highly-placed Democrats who recently have been White House callers. One was convinced that Mr. Truman will wait for several months before revealing whether he intends to seek re-election.

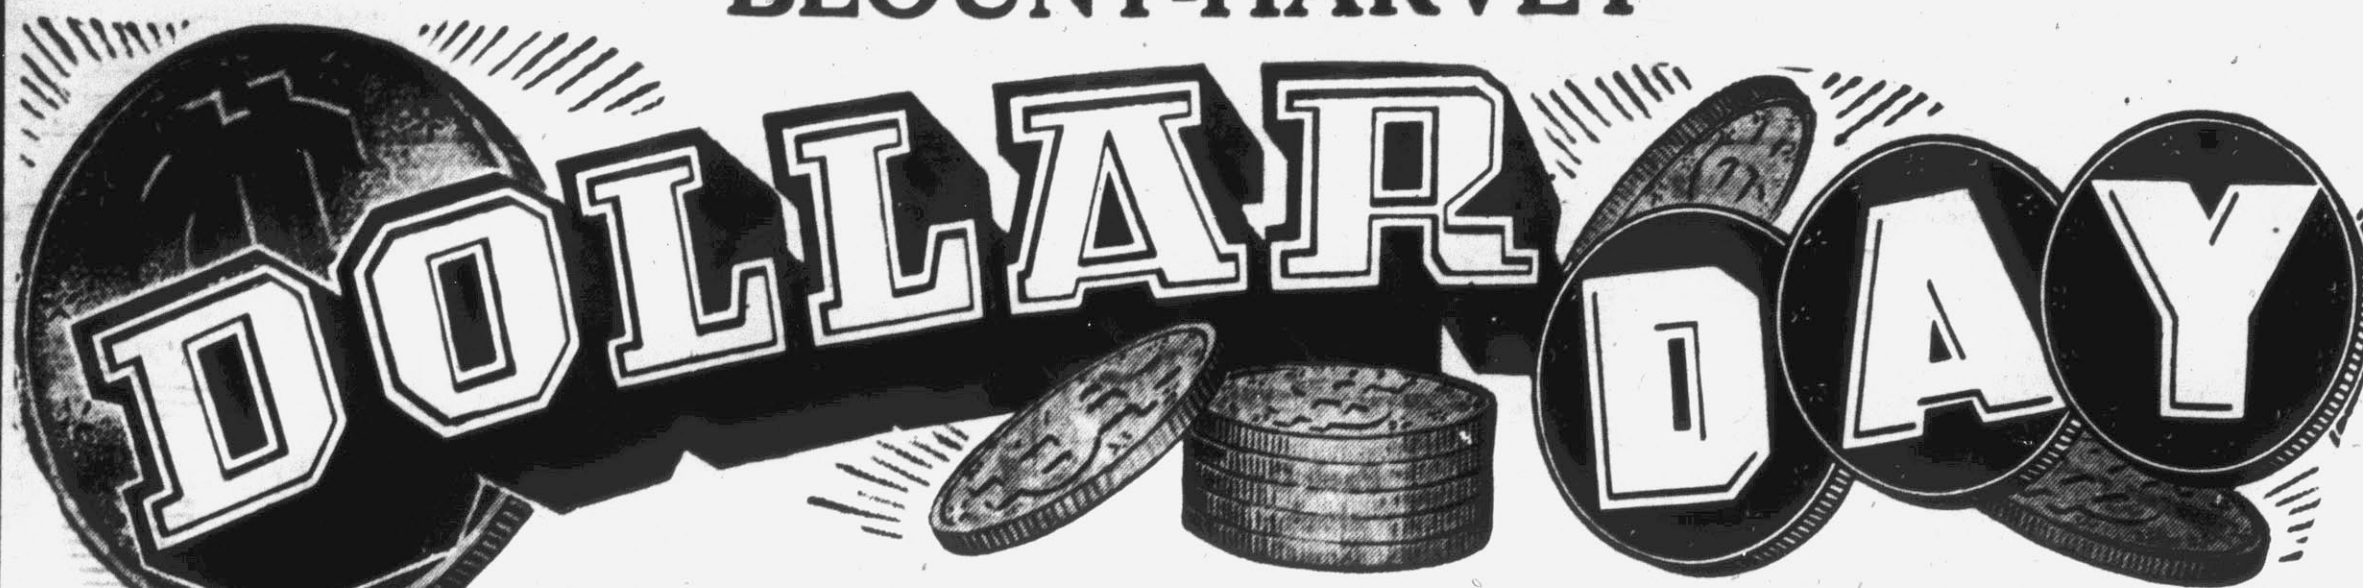

The other expected a statement from the President soon and hoped that it might be given to today's meeting of the executive committee.

Ohio Democrats particularly have been urging the President to decide himself before tomorrow's deadline for filing as convention delegate candidates in the state's primary.

McKinney also has made known that he is anxious for an early statement, on the grounds that knowledge of Mr. Truman's intentions would simplify preparation of campaign plans.

Firemen Respond To 22 Summons

A total of 22 calls for fire fighting assistance were answered by the Greenville fire department during the past month of January, the monthly report of Fire Chief George Gardner showed today.

Of the 22 calls answered, three were box alarms, three were false, 14 were telephone alarms. Two out of town calls were answered.

Also, during the month, 14 lots were burned off by the department and one rescue truck called answered.

Peace Seminar To Be Wed.

The North Carolina Methodist Conference is sponsoring a series of Peace Seminars during the current week.

One meeting was held in Lumberton on Monday; another is being held in Raleigh today, and the last one will be held in Rocky Mount on Wednesday.

The seminars will feature Dr. Carl D. Soule of the General Conference Commission on World Peace, who discusses with the groups various current issues pertaining to world peace. Questions concerning the United Nations, the United States foreign policy and the work of the Methodist church along these lines will be raised.

From 3-5 p.m. there is a seminar hour for pastors; members of local church peace committees, chairmen of Christian social relations of the W.C.S. and the M.F. officers. From 5-6 p.m. will be a visual hour showing film strips dealing with world peace. Following the supper hour from 6-7:30 p.m. there will be an evening program at which time Dr. Soule will speak.

Methodists in this area are urged to attend the seminar session which is being held at the First Methodist Church in Rocky Mount on Wednesday, for which a good attendance is expected.

TOOK CIGARETTES IN STORE ROBBERY
FACTOLUS—The Sunday night break-in at J. P. Davenport and Sons Store in Pactolus netted robber more than $300 worth of cigarettes.

Officers discovered that entrance was made by removing a plate of glass from the front of the store. Nothing was missed except the cigarettes, officers said.

An investigation is being conducted by members of the sheriff's department and S. B. Dorsey, city and county identification specialist.

January Bride

Mrs. Lawrence E. Foster, who before her marriage was Miss Nancy Robertson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Church Robertson of Greenville, Route 2. Her marriage to Mr. Foster of Ayden took place January 29th. The couple will make their home in Richmond.

'Spring' Again To Direct Play

The thermometer reached 70 degrees in Greenville yesterday as skies cleared and the overcast condition of Sunday gave way to a warm winter sun.

Mrs. C. E. Maiden, official weather observer for Greenville, reported the high of 70 degrees yesterday and a low temperature of 49 degrees last night. At 8 o'clock this morning the temperature in Greenville was 51 degrees. A total of .17 inch of rain was recorded during the past 24 hours.

The spring-like weather which hovered over the area yesterday was a far cry from the weather conditions a year ago yesterday when the high temperature recorded in Greenville was 39 degrees and the thermometer dropped to 21 degrees during the night.

World Student Fund Campaign Planned At East Carolina College

To aid needy students and educators abroad, the YWCA and the YMCA of East Carolina College are planning a drive to collect funds for the World Student Service Fund. For the past several years the campaign has been an annual project of the two organizations. The present drive will begin within the next few days and will continue to the end of February.

Dwight Shoe of Salisbury and Margie Smith of Kinston, presidents of the YWCA and the YMCA respectively, are leaders of the WSSSF drive this year. Fund-raising activities will include a door-to-door canvass of dormitories, a square dance, and a campus sale of candy.

The Wrigley and Tribune towers in Chicago stand today where trappers once repaired their boats before setting out to hunt beavers.

To Direct Play

Dr. Lucile H. Charles of East Carolina College will direct the comedy "The Silver Whistle," which will be presented with an all-faculty cast from the college February 28. Dr. Charles' work as a director has received much favorable comment in this area of the state through her connection with the Teachers Playhouse, college dramatic club. Such productions as "I Remember Mama," "Everyman," "The Hasty Heart," and a series of annual plays for young people attended each year by approximately 3,000 Pitt school children were given by the college players under her direction and attest her insight and artistry in the theatre.

Strength for the Day

By KARL L. DOUGLAS
APPLY IT TO YOURSELF

Are you a person of influence?
You may deny that you are, but your denial can easily be proved mistaken. There is nobody in the world who is not influencing someone either for better or for worse. Neutral personalities just do not exist. It is not necessary for us to go about preaching sermons or handing out tracts in order to be morally influential. Out from the personality of every living soul go certain influences which have either a beneficial or a harmful effect on the life and personality of others. Parents are either making their children better or making them worse; teachers tend to grow, or by their example contributing to the deterioration of their characters. Friends are either on the plus side of influence or on the minus side. If we had instruments capable of measuring human influence, we should probably see that every time the most humble person walks down the street or drops in on a neighbor or bargains with a merchant across a counter, the life of the world is in some respect definitely altered. We are vastly more important—as well as more insignificant—than most of us think we are.

It May Be The Truth, At Last

Maybe the Russians have at last gotten around to telling the truth about the international situation.

It was more than 72 hours ago that Russian Minister Malik declared World War III is at hand. So far his statement has not been answered by officials of the West, and from a diplomatic standpoint perhaps it doesn't call for an answer. From a speculative standpoint, it surely gives the people of the free nations of the world plenty of food for thought.

Malik's statement could well be the prelude to another communist thrust at the freedom of another nation either in Europe or Asia. Or it may be the foundation for added emphasis to the already rapid ramament program of the communists in Russia and elsewhere.

Whatever the motive behind the statement, it should not pass unnoticed by the American officials or the American citizens. If World War III is at hand, we are sure that a communist move will be the cause of the conflict spreading from the rather confined area which is now engulfed in the conflagration in Asia. For that move, the free world must not be caught unprepared.

At Pearl Harbor the United States was caught with its men in the barracks, its planes on the ground and its ships sitting ducks in the harbor. We should make sure we are not caught that way again.

More Diversification To Take Up The Slack

Britain's austerity program which was outlined by Winston Churchill is destined to have its effect upon the economy of Pitt County if carried through as Churchill proposed.

Among other sacrifices which Churchill asked the people of England to make was a cut of $60,000,000 in the funds used to purchase American tobaccos. Unless something unforeseen comes up during the next six months, Britain's action alone will take $60,000,000 worth of buying power off the American auction markets.

The very fact that the British action is causing concern not only to agricultural leaders but others in this eastern section of North Carolina is added proof that even the people here in Pitt County are affected economically as well as politically and militarily by what goes on in other parts of the globe.

With the 1952 tobacco allotments substantially the same in Pitt County as they were last year, the prospective cut in buying power on the auction market is causing some farmers to give more consideration to their agricultural program for this year and the year to follow. All else being equal with last year, the curtailment of British purchases of tobacco could cause prices to drop below the 1951 levels in Eastern North Carolina, and may also cause a large carry-over of 1952 leaf to the following year. That in turn could result in a reduction of tobacco acreage allotments for 1953.

In view of such prospects for tobacco, it would not be amiss for the farmers of this area to seek to develop more fully their crop diversification program. More land could be put into permanent pastures for cattle, hogs and other revenue-producing livestock. Still other land could be devoted to crops other than tobacco to add stability to the agricultural economy of the section.

In the years since World War II Eastern North Carolina has made great strides toward agricultural diversification and with this recent development in the outlook for tobacco, more emphasis should be added to the diversification program.

Dividends From N. C.'s Advertising Program

As a state, North Carolina is finding that it pays to advertise.

It is costing the state a lot of money, but in the long run it is paying the state really big dividends.

During the past year North Carolina received 126,000 requests for information about the Tar Heel playgrounds from vacationers all over the United States and from 86 foreign countries. Just how many of those people who requested information about the state actually visited North Carolina for a vacation and a good time, we do not know; but doubtlessly the advertisements of what North Carolina offers vacationers "from the mountain to the sea" brought many dollars into the state which otherwise would not have come here.

In addition to the requests from vacationers, the state received a large number of requests for information from manufacturers, industrialists and business people who took North Carolina into consideration from a business standpoint.

It has cost the Tar Heel state a considerable amount of money to put its name before the people of the nation during the past several years, but the advertising campaign is beginning to show gratifying results. If the state's advertising campaign continues to be carefully administered, the citizens of North Carolina will be repaid many fold for the money they have put into the program.

National Whirligig

WASHINGTON—Supreme Court Justice Tom Clark's friendship and intercession of the discredited Theron Lamar Caudle have now been topped by his judicial associates' 8-0 condemnation of his handling of the case involving this country's most notorious Russian spy in the "cold war"—Judy Coplon. He contributed directly to what legal experts call a lamentable miscarriage of justice.

Although a federal court in New York held that her guilt was "plain" in slipping official secrets to a Stalin agent former Attorney General Clark's illegal tactics in obtaining evidence and prosecuting her may let her go free of indictments against her here and in New York City.

This miscarriage of justice will result because Clark permitted J. Edgar Hoover and his FBI men to engage in lawless methods in arresting and building a case against her. Although Hoover has dominated most recent A.G.'s, lawyers and jurists cannot understand how Clark could have been so submissive, so reckless and so injudicious in his swashbuckling enforcement methods.

BLUNDERS—Although Miss Coplon may be retried, most legal authorities believe that it would be futile because of the Clark-Hoover tactics. They knowingly violated the safeguards which the Constitution and federal statutes have created for even obviously guilty persons.

A New York court ordered a new trial because FBI agents arrested the girl and ransacked her handbag for incriminating documents without a warrant. D. J. lawyers could not defend this, and other, blunders. In view of the fact that she was under constant surveillance, the FBI had plenty of time to obtain a warrant without any danger of her escaping them.

The FBI's use of illegal wiretapping to obtain evidence aroused the anger of Judge Sylvester Ryan in New York. Agents who did the eavesdropping had to reconstruct what they said they heard from the lips of the conspirators from memory or fragmentary notes because the recording disks they had used had been destroyed for some unexplainable reasons. Thus the government had no valid evidence.

INEPT—Department of Justice prosecutors fought stubbornly but unsuccessfully to prevent any disclosure of the fact that the law against wiretapping had been broken by the FBI agents, and presumably with the knowledge and approval of Clark. He did not participate in the Supreme Court's discussion and ruling on the Coplon case.

In the Washington trial there were other evidences of blundering. The court severely criticized government lawyers and agents for having wiretapped privileged conversations between Miss Coplon and her counsel, thus nullifying a defendant's most respected and closely guarded right.

As a result of this series of inept detective and legal work it is possible that a dangerous spy will escape punishment. Moreover, the court costs have run into many hundreds of thousands of dollars.

FAILURE—These new revelations of Clark's record at the D. J. have inspired fresh suggestions that he should resign or be impeached, as did his failure to check up on Caudle's questionable tax operations and friendship with known criminals.

Neither a resignation nor impeachment is expected, however. When the latter question was discussed by members of the House Judiciary Committee, veteran members pointed out that stupidity and ineptitude are not grounds for impeachment, although there have been interpretations to that effect.

Mr. Clark's White House friends have counseled him to "sit tight," as they have done with Attorney General J. Howard McGrath. President Truman realizes that he cannot afford to let such important personages develop "ill health" on the eve of a Presidential campaign, especially as the Capital is enjoying one of its most healthful winters in many years. Only officials seem to be getting sick.

POLITICS—The Supreme Court, on the same tempestuous day when it condemned its silent colleague from Texas, neatly sidestepped a political problem that might have embarrassed the Democrats in the forthcoming political scrap, if the honorable judges had arrived at a definite and final decision. It involves the question of racial segregation in South Carolina's elementary schools.

The official ruling did not mention politics, of course. But there is not a man on the bench, all of whom have had active political careers, who did not realize, and possibly chuckle, over the implications.

Somebody Told Me

By L. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

"Found something that might interest your readers," Wife Rachel told me last night.

"Where?"

"In the Ladies Home Journal." "Can't use it. Thanks just the same."

"Why?"

"Granted, I seem to have more women readers than men, but never will I let the men know that I've been reading the Ladies Home Journal."

"OK," Rachel said, "you can quote me."

"For a change," I said, "I'll do that."

W. R. was referring to a letter to the editors of the Journal from Ikley, Yorkshire, England, which should make any American feel better.

Dear Editors:

Occasionally I am fortunate enough to see a copy of your magazine. Do you know what fascinates me most of all? Not the stories, not the features, excellent though they are. It is the food advertisements. Tell me, do you really eat such wonderful cakes, such luscious desserts and mouth-watering hams?

Sometimes I think I will try a recipe. When I read it, I see it calls for two cupsful of sugar—my ration for a week. Or three eggs—my ration for three weeks. I sadly turn the page.

We have not made much progress to our brave new world, have we? The only great thing which has risen out of the ashes is the United Nations. It must work. We have got to make it work.

Yours faithfully,

Sheila McLachlan
Everybody I know complains about grocery bills, but none of my friends makes any effort to cut down on eating, unless it is by doctor's orders. At least it's a great blessing to have only the financial angle as a worry, instead of rations like the British have.

While I was at Carolina I had a summer-time class with an English girl who could tell the writer of the above letter a thing or two. She was worried about her figure, convinced that she would have to be rolled on the ship back to England. "This food over here in America is killing me," she said. "But to tell the truth, it's so good that I hate to go back home."

You have just read your 10,000th article to prove what a great country this is. And if you continue to read you will probably read 10,000 more.

And I thank you.

Business Today

By ELMER SSNER

Highly intensified selling efforts may be required of most retailers in the period immediately ahead. A number of factors indicate that consumer buying may be less than desired unless it is stimulated with strong promotions and attractive offers.

One factor is that March 15 tax bite. For millions of families it will be the highest assessment ever paid; for many it will be larger than they anticipated. In addition to draining a lot of money out of family exchequers, it will have the psychological effect of generating caution about spending.

The change-over from civilian to defense production has created considerable, though temporary, unemployment. The Department of Labor has listed a score of cities as having "substantial labor surplus," a governmentless way of saying there are a lot of people who can't find jobs.

In addition there are no indications of a change in the trend toward saving, one of the unusual phenomena of the current economic picture.

Most sales records will look poor in comparison to year-ago figures because they will be in contrast to totals run up during the buying panic of early 1951. But unless vigorous, constructive action is taken by merchants, figures for many firms will not be rosy even after the results of the buying spree are discounted.

A survey of electric houseware dealers by Retailing Daily shows that their sales have "slowed down considerably" since Christmas, with some reporting sales as much as 40 per cent behind 1951 marks. The Sales Executive Club of New York found 55 per cent of its members expect harder selling this year.

Department store sales have been running far behind a year ago so far this year; again the buying panic of a year ago distorts the comparison. However, compared with two years ago the figures look much better.

These show that dollar volume has been around 10 per cent higher than two years ago, but because of price increases since then, the physical volume of goods has been little, if any, higher.

SEPARATE TAX CHARGE

BOTHERS TV DEALERS

Some television retailers are concerned because some manufacturers separate the excise tax from the selling price. While it serves to keep the public aware of the tax, it also provides buyers with a base on which to calculate the manufacturer's selling price and hence the dealer's margin. Besides, separating the tax eliminates the dealer's markup on the amount of the tax.

INSURANCE OFFERED

ON FOOD IN FREEZERS

New wrinkle in selling home freezers: One of the larger manufacturers offers to insure the value of food against spoilage in event of a power or mechanical failure. Rates for three years are $9 for $300; $11 for $400, and $12 for $500.

FIRST TRADE SHOW

IN SALES FIELD

The first national trade show in the house-to-house installment field will be held in New York starting Sunday. It will be held in conjunction with the annual meeting of the National Association of House to House Installment Companies. More than 130 companies, manufacturing goods for sale to door-to-door sellers will exhibit their wares.

U. S. ALMOND CROP UP;

FOREIGN CROPS DOWN

Foreign production of shell-almonds in 1951 was a third less than a year earlier, the Office of Foreign Agriculture Relations estimates. However, it is down considerably since Christmas, with some reporting sales as much as 40 per cent behind 1951 marks. The United States, the largest producer, showed a big gain, producing 42,700 tons unshelled, 5,000 tons above 1950.

Hal Boyle's Column

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—This is to announce the arrival of a new baby, at our house.

She, precocious. She doesn't walk, but she crawls and she talks—and she says the cutest, strangest, most boring things.

The stork didn't bring her. It took two strong men to deliver this baby. They set her up on her feet, grunted, gave her a look of deep dislike, and departed.

But we loved her on sight—from her shiny glass forehead to the six little knobs in her tummy.

Yes, after all these years, we have become the proud parents of a television set. She is blond like my wife, Frances. Because of the 17-inch eye in her forehead we immediately christened her "Little Miss Cyclops."

Frances said she took Miss Cyclops on the spur of the moment. She went into a music shop to buy a phonograph record and the salesman asked her if she was interested in a television set.

"Why, yes," she said, just to be polite. Whereupon the salesman threw himself on the floor, put his arms around her ankles, broke into tears and began to mumble hysterically—"At last! At last!"

"After that I felt I just had to buy a set," said Frances. "So we brushed the cobwebs off the nearest one, and I told him, 'Wrap 'er up, son.'"

She brushed off his grateful offer to throw in a free grand piano, two harmonicas and a week's visit to Brooklyn.

For the formal debut of Miss Cyclops we invited in three trusted friends. After dinner we adjourned to our new nursery.

The big moment was at hand! What would be our baby's first words? That is an anxious time for any proud parent of a television set. I know one man who lost face permanently because his set didn't say anything. It just burst into wild, maniacal laughter—"Ha, ha, ha, ha, ha!" It was still laughing when he sent it back to the store.

Nervously, I loved with the knobs. A light came into my baby's eye. Then she flashed on old movie! I felt proud of her at once. It's nice to see a child with a grasp of the past.

But no sound. I had a horrible feeling our television set was backward—vocally retarded. But no. She mumbled a bit, clearly: "I think that Dutch water is a better drink than French champagne."

Well, now, wasn't that really clever, considering her age and all? None of us there even knew what Dutch water was. (We still don't.) I went over and patted Miss Cyclops on her flat blonde head, and she immediately said simply:

"It's nice to be a woman again." Then she warmed up and ran off three old movies in a row. I would like to say Miss Cyclops has continued her success after such a fine debut. But she hasn't.

Francis didn't mind her as long as her screen stuck to puppets, musical saw players, horse operas, and closeup views of politicians and tenors badly in need of a tonsillectomy. But lately she has been on a crime jag.

Miss Cyclops is plumb crazy about Gory Homfield's. She switches from a fratricide to a patricide in a heartbeat. And just before we go to bed she comes up either with an eerie uxoricide (husband mangles wife) or a gruesome maricide (wide mangles husband).

We never know what "cide" is coming to bat next.

"That television set is mentally unhealthy," said Frances. "It's got me so I can't sleep. Last night I dreamt that that thing crawled into bed and hit me with an ax."

"That thing" is what she now calls Miss Cyclops, and she will hardly go into the room with it alone. It even suspect she locks it in while I am away at work.

My own feeling is that if our pretty new baby doesn't get less creepy there soon will be only one blonde left in house—and it sure won't be Miss Cyclops.

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON—Lightning struck, and brickbats have been coming in every since. That's how Lt. Comdr. Wilson R. Cronewett happened to build his "Friendship Wall."

Comdr. Cronewett, head of the Motion Picture Branch of the Naval Photographic Center, bought a house several years ago. The backyard was a gully. The young officer leveled the yard, sodded it, dug and laid the footing for a 224-foot wall which he began to build with used bricks. The wall was about finished when lightning struck the steel rod reinforcements and sent the wall flying.

Used bricks were hard to come by, the commander said. "Then a sort of chalmers set in. People started to mail, cart and carry in bricks of all sizes, colors and descriptions—small, large, adobe, brown, cream, handmade, historical and sentimental."

One came from the White House. Sculptor Felix de Weldon sent a Scottish-made brick from his studio. One came from an old Spanish fort in Florida, made of sand plaster with animal hair. Others were slave-made with flower designs. A colleague sent a gold-painted brick "from Ft. Knox, Ky." Another came from an old church in Delaware.

Son of County Commissioner Charles E. Cronewett of Butler, Pa., Comdr. Cronewett served as head of a gun-camera crew in the Pacific during World War II. A graduate of Northwestern University, he majored in speech and drama. He met his wife Agnes, a former newspaper woman, while directing the Civic Theater at Muskegon, Mich. They have two children, Connie, 7, and Christine, 4.

The commander knew nothing about brick-laying when he started. He began looking for a mason in the Navy ranks. One day a secretary called to tell him she had found one. "You should have seen him when he came home," his wife said. "The man was a mason all right—a 33rd Degree Mason."

Before coming to Washington, the Cronewetts spent a year in Hollywood, where the commander took an advanced course in motion picture making from a major studio. Comdr. Cronewett was in charge of both the still and motion picture crews recording the meeting between Prime Minister Winston Churchill and President Truman on the yacht Williamsburg.

ELECTIONS—Changes made by the 1952 general assembly in the election laws respecting nomination of presidential electors make it necessary for the political parties to revise their plans of organization. Practice has been all along for the Democratic and Republican parties to nominate electors in state conventions, although technically as state officers they should have been nominated in the primary.

AMENDMENT—The 1951 assembly added a provision to the section governing primary nominations (G. S. 163-117) reading as follows: "This subchapter shall not apply to the nomination of candidates for Presidential Electors. Presidential Electors shall be nominated in a State Convention of each political party as defined in Section 163-101, otherwise provided by the plan of organization of such political party. One Presidential Elector shall be nominated from each Congressional District and two from the State at large."

PARTIES—There are only two recognized parties in North Carolina, Democratic and Republican. The statutes provide for institution of a new party by petition of ten thousand registered voters, who certify their desire to form a new party and pledge to support it. Under that provision two additional parties got on the state ballot in 1948—the Thurmond States Rights and the Wallace Progressives. The law further says that to retain status as a political party the new outfit must poll at least ten percent of the vote cast in the preceding election for governor or presidential electors. There were 791,206 votes cast in the 1948 election for presidential electors. The States Rights group counted 69,652, Progressive 3,912—both falling short of the required ten percent to retain status as party. So while the statutes use general terms, actually they refer only to Democratic and Republican parties so far as the 1952 convention are concerned. I, by July 1 a petition bearing valid signatures of more than ten thousand voters ask for another party, the state board of elections may authorize it.

PLANS—There is no mention in either of these party plans of organization of presidential electors or of delegates to the national convention, although both go somewhat into detail about other matters of less importance, such as officers of the state convention, functions of district, county and precinct conventions, and composition of the various executive committees. Now that the law specifically places nomination of presidential electors in the conventions "unless otherwise provided by the plan of organization," it becomes necessary for the political parties to take formal cognizance of the matter. Competent lawyers have construed the 1951 amendment as permitting nomination of electors in the primary, or by the executive committee, or in any one of several other ways if the party plan of organization should call for such method. It is practically certain that nominations will be made in convention as they have been for years, with this difference: It will be legal this year.

CONFUSING—The State Republican plan of organization is much shorter and much clearer than the Democratic plan, but in both there are other obvious omissions. The Democratic plan is very confusing, in that Section 1 purports to define the State Executive Committee, and then Section 10 adds voting members to the committee. Further confusion arises out of questionable jurisdiction of district and county

What Other Papers Are Thinking

THE TAX BURDEN

(Dunn Record)

This year, the American people will feel the full weight of the tax bill passed during the last session of Congress. The new and higher levies applied to individual incomes only for the last two months of 1951. In 1952, of course, they will be in effect for the entire twelve months. It is probable that the President will ask that taxes, both individual and corporate, be increased once more—though it is highly unlikely that the present Congress will go along with that, save in the event of a major war.

The burden of taxation has increased at a very swift rate in this country. According to a new booklet on the tax problem issued by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, the cost of government required only 7 per cent of the national income in 1890. When World War I broke out, the figure was still about the same. By 1940, it had jumped to 22 per cent, and now government is taking something like one-third of the income of the people.

As the Chamber's booklet says,

"For a long time the 'ability to pay' theory has dominated tax discussions. This theory has merit, but unfortunately people have been led to believe that all government expenditures can be paid for by taxes on the 'rich'.

The popular case for welfare state expenditures is that they will redistribute income from rich to poor. This would indeed be a simple solution to the world's social and economic ills, if only it were true. But even if steeply progressive taxes had no undesirable economic effects, it would be impossible. There simply are not enough rich people!"

It is clear, whether we like it or not, that any additional tax increases must fall primarily upon people of very modest means—for the reason that they have most of the money. According to Secretary Snyder, almost 75 per cent of all personal income available for additional taxation is actually in the lowest income bracket—under $2,000. By contrast in the over-$50,000 bracket, the income available for additional taxation amounts to less than one-third of one per cent of the total!

Fast as individual income tax rates have risen, corporation rates have risen even faster. The corporation rate was held to a ceiling of 42 per cent in World War II. Now it is 52 per cent. Very steep excess profits taxes come on top of this. The total corporation tax runs as high as 70 per cent. There is no much room for further boosts here if an incentive-economy is to be maintained in this country, and enterprise is to be encouraged to progress.

This illustrates, in capsule form, the tremendous magnitude of the tax problem. The heart of that problem was described in these words by Senator George: "There have been frequent discussions of what the total tax 'take' may be without doing injury to our economy. There is no fixed limit; the limit is to be found only when the tax 'take' destroys the incentive of the people and when it leads to every conceivable effort to evade and to wasteful practices by the taxpayers themselves."

Banquets Will Mark Boy Scout Week In County

Two banquets and a vesper service will highlight the activities of Pitt District's celebration of national Boy Scout week which is being observed February 6 through February 12.

District Chairman J. B. Kittrell announced this morning the annual Blue-Gold banquet for Cub Scouts and their parents will be held at the "annual Father-Son banquet for Boy Scouts, Explorer Scouts and their dads will be held Thursday night.

Both banquets this year will be held in the high school cafeteria at Winterville.

On Sunday afternoon a vesper service for all cubs, scouts, explorers and their parents and friends will be held at the First Presbyterian church in Greenville. The Rev. Lee Willingham, pastor of the Hollywood Presbyterian Church, will be the speaker at the vesper service.

Some 250 cubs and their parents are expected to attend the Blue-Gold banquet which will feature the presentation of prizes to outstanding dens and packs, and the presentation of cubs' basic training certificates to adult leaders who have completed the course. Erskine Duff of Greenville, organization and expansion chairman of the district, will present the cubs' certificates. Prizes will be awarded for the best decorated cub pack table at the banquet, and a prize will be awarded to the den which puts on the best skit at the banquet.

The Father-Son banquet Thursday night Superintendent Robert L. Pugh of the Craven County schools will be the principal speaker. A feature of the program will be the presentation of awards to the patrols which won first, second and third places at the fund-raiser recently held in the district. Another feature of the banquet will be the presentation of a scoutmaster's key and a scouters key to outstanding scout leaders of the district. The presentation of the awards will be made by Ercell Webb, vice-chairman of the Pitt District.

Also to be presented at the Father-Son banquet is the attendance cup which has been won for the past two years by troop 33 of Greenville. If the troop succeeds in winning the award again Thursday night, it will keep the cup permanently by virtue of the ruling that a troop which wins the attendance cup three years in succession is awarded the cup for keeps. The award is given each year to the troop which has the largest percentage of registered scouts and their dads at the banquet.

Rites Wednesday For Mrs. Emma Mercer

FARMVILLE—Mrs. Emma Forbes Mercer, 82, died Monday afternoon at 3:30 in Pitt Memorial Hospital in Greenville after an illness of several months. Funeral services will be held at the home near Fountain Wednesday at 3 p.m. conducted by the Rev. R. L. West of Fountain, Rev. Phillip Corey of Fountain, and the Rev. R. B. Denson of Rocky Mount. Burial will follow in Queen Ann Cemetery in Fountain.

Mrs. Mercer was the daughter of the late Martha Wooten and Jane C. Forbes. Her husband, D. R. Mercer, died in 1939. She had spent all her life in the Fountain community and had devoted her life to homemaking. She was an attendant of Otter's Creek Primitive Baptist Church.

She is survived by six daughters, Mrs. W. M. Moore of Fountain, Mrs. W. O. Sauls of Washington, D. C., Mrs. B. D. Stone of Lenoir, Mrs. G. L. Cavanaugh of Richlands, Mrs. J. A. Worley of Pink Hill, Mrs. J. Leon Clark of Baton Rouge, La., two sons, J. A. Mercer of Fountain and W. A. Mercer of Fountain and Snow Hill; six grandchildren; one great-grandchild.

In The Services

Sergeant First Class Herbert A. Jones, of Grifton Route 2, has been awarded the Bronze Star medal for meritorious service from Nov. 15, 1950 to Oct. 24, 1951 in Korean combat.

Jones, who has since rotated to the United States, served with Headquarters and Headquarters Company of the 3rd Medical Battalion of the Third Division.

Ployd E. Hardee, machinist's mate, USN (above), son of Mr. and Mrs. Madison Hardee of Ayden, Route 2, has graduated from Machinists Mates School at Great Lakes, Ill. and is now stationed aboard a destroyer escort based at Norfolk.

D. E. Stocks, of 1014 Ward Street, Greenville, has been promoted to the grade of Sergeant from that of Corporal in Battery C of the 690th Field Artillery Battalion stationed at Camp Campbell, Ky.

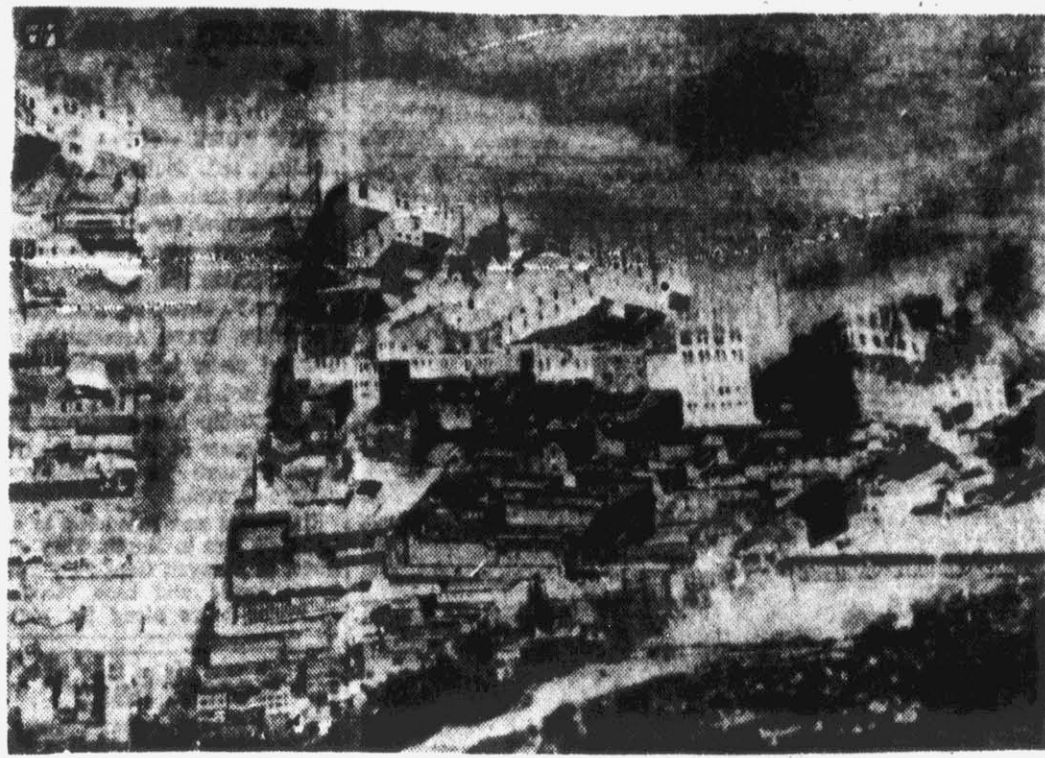

Pvt. John R. Haddock, son of Mr. Lanier Haddock of near Greenville, has completed his basic training at the Quartermaster Replacement Training Center, Fort Lee, Va.

Pvt. Haddock was inducted into the army in November, 1951.

B. L. Haddock, of 1305 Glen Arthur Ave., has been promoted to the grade of Sergeant from that of Corporal in Battery C of the 690th Field Artillery Battalion at Fort Campbell, Ky.

Thomas E. Tripp, of Greenville, Route 1, has been promoted to the grade of Sergeant from that of Corporal in Battery C of the 690th Field Artillery Battalion at Fort Campbell, Ky.

Skeletons found in northern Alaska prove that musk oxen ranged there less than 150 years ago.

ATLANTIC NAVAL COMMAND—Border line encloses the general area included in the North Atlantic naval command of Admiral Lynde B. McCormick, who has been named as Supreme Allied Naval Commander of the North Atlantic. McCormick's command has been defined as the waters from the North Pole to the Tropic of Cancer, and from the shores of North America to the continent of Europe. Coastal waters of the British Isles are not included. (AP Wirephoto Map)

Lions Hear Talk By E. N. Pope

E. N. Pope, public relations manager of the Carolina Power and Light Company was guest speaker at the Greenville Lions Club last night.

Pope, who was introduced by James Butler, East Carolina College Alumni Secretary, spoke briefly on the merger of Carolina Power and Light with the Tide Water Power Company. He told the Lions that the company will spend $143 million dollars in expansion by 1954.

Then returning to his general topic, Pope spoke on the history of the United States government which was formed 175 years ago and the duty of its citizens.

"While the United States comprises only about six per cent of the total world population, we produce more than 50 per cent of the world's goods, and hold nearly 50 per cent of the world's wealth," he reminded. "Termites are eating at the foundation of our government as more and more un-American groups are gaining a foothold over the nation, just because the people are content to sit and do nothing about it."

post of President. "It is the individual responsibility of each citizen to take a part in government affairs and see that we maintain a good government," Pope said in closing.

L. K. Hurst Dies In Norfolk Hospital

L. K. (Jack) Hurst, 47, died at 12:30 o'clock Tuesday morning at Lee Memorial Hospital in Norfolk, Virginia, following several years of failing health. Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 3:00 p.m. in the Holloman-Brown Funeral Home in Norfolk, Va. Burial will be in a Norfolk cemetery.

Brown Hurst of Greenville and the late W. K. Hurst, was born and reared in Oak City, N.C. He was a resident of Greenville for a number of years, later moving to Norfolk, where he operated a recreation center.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Dorothy Hurst, and a son, Karry Hurst, both of Norfolk; his mother, six sisters, Mrs. George Cox of Winterville, Mrs. Earl Brown, Miss Donnie Mae Hurst, Mrs. Curtis Clark Mrs. May Dell Seymour, all of Greenville, and Mrs. J. F. Cripe of Oak City; two brothers, Willie T. Hurst of Robersonville and Dallas O. Hurst of Washington, D.C.; and a number of nieces and nephews.

Executives Club To Hear Lecturer

"What Makes America Tick" will be the topic of Dr. Gerhart H. Seger, editor and lecturer, tonight at the February dinner meeting of the Pitt County Executives Club.

The dinner meeting will be held at seven o'clock in the dining hall of East Carolina College and Sam Bundy of Farmville, president, will preside. W. I. Bissette of Grifton will be host.

Seger has a long and honorable record as an anti-totalitarian. He was a member of the Reichstag in the years when Hitler was reaching for power. Because Seger was bitterly opposed to Nazism he was one of the first to feel the wrath of the German dictator after the Chancellorship fell to the Nazi leader.

He was taken to the infamous concentration camp of Oranienburg but later managed to escape. Through the influence of British friends, he succeeded in obtaining the release of his wife and baby daughter from another camp.

In a short time they came to the United States and Seger became an American citizen May 14, 1942. He is the former editor of "Neue Volkzeitung," the oldest anti-Nazi German language newspaper which was published in New York.

Annual Speech Contest Scheduled For Feb. 16

The Seventh Annual Speech Contest, sponsored by the Greenville Lion's Club, will be held at the Greenville High School Saturday, February 16, 1952.

Seventy-five high schools have been invited to participate in the contest and nine schools, Ayden, Aurora, Belvoir, Chicod, Kinston, Roxboro, West Edgecombe, Wilson, and Greenville have registered.

Three of the schools, Greensboro, Watsburg, and Fort Bragg High School reported they are contemplating participation. Other schools invited but declined the invitation were: Grifton, Youngsville, Sand Hill High School, Reynolds of Winston-Salem, John Nichols of Oxford, and Norview of Virginia.

The contest will be divided into three divisions and they are: Division I, Original Oratory; Division II, Declamations; Prizes amounting to $45.00 will be awarded in the three rounds of speaking. Schools are urged to send two contestants in each division.

Rooms will be provided for guests from far-away places if registrations are in by Monday, February 11.

In 1949 there were 66 participants, 93 in 1951, and 103 in 1950 and were from such places as Asheville, Athen, W. Va., Ayden, Bailey, Bethel, Chicod, Concord, Greensboro, Wilson, Farmville, Kinston, Hamlet, Oak City, Roxboro, West Edgecombe, Winterville, Youngsville, and Greenville.

Former winners from Greenville were Barbara Clements, Betty Mobley, Lewis Evans, Fred Brooks, Peggy Barrow, Ann Cahoon, Lula Mayo, Peggy Bowen, Betty Sue Harris, Rodney Fulcher, Carolyn Clapp, Jonnie Simpson, and Doug Mitchell.

Heading the speech contest is R. B. Starling, advisor of the high school National Forensic League.

Developing Changes In Problem Of Law Enforcement Discussed

Nearly 100 Pitt County law enforcement officers were on hand last night for the annual meeting of the Pitt Peace Officers Association held at Respass Brothers Barbecue house.

Introduction of guests and transaction of routine business was taken care of by president Ruel W. Tyson, prior to the evening's supper. Following the supper, Greenville Police Chief Guy C. Langston introduced W. A. Murphy, agent in charge of the Charlotte office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Murphy keyed his short address to the gathering of Pitt officers by stressing the number of changes which have occurred in law enforcement work over a period of years.

"This section of the state has a larger number of wrong-doers than are to be found in other sections, due largely to its location; but the record speaks for itself and shows that you officers are on your toes," Murphy stated.

"Criminals are becoming smarter and we must be able to cope with this growing smartness, the FBI man said.

"Repeat business among criminals is the leading factor in our crime problem today," Murphy cited figures furnished by State Prisons Director Walter Anderson, who stated that of the 14,000 persons who entered the prison system in the past year, only 2,000 were first-timers. This means that once a prisoner is caught for an offense, he will study why he got caught, and be twice as hard to handle the next time," Murphy said.

"Traffic violations are of the utmost importance to North Carolina officers, what with the rising traffic accident toll occurring daily.

Blue Mold Seen In Georgia Area

According to recent reports from the Georgia tobacco belt, blue mold may be moving toward North Carolina and Pitt County.

The Pitt County Farm Agent's office announced this morning that one case of blue mold was disclosed in Cook County, Georgia, as early as January 22. Dr. John G. Gaines, plant pathologist at the Georgia Experiment Station, Tifton, Ga., said it is probably the earliest occurrence of blue mold in the state's agricultural records.

Farmers in this county are urged to make plans to treat their beds for blue mold earlier this year. County tobacco specialist Sam J. Weeks announced that there are three recommended fungicides for blue mold control. "They are ferimate, dithane 'Z' 78, and parzate," he said.

"These can be used either as a spray or a dust," Weeks stated, "and since there is no preventative treatment for blue mold, farmers should begin spraying or dusting when the plants are about the size of a dime."

Wanted Coldest Training Site

SAN DIEGO, Calif. —(UP)— Lt. Col. Donald Hubbard, commanding officer of the Marines' cold-weather training camp, disclosed why Pickel Meadows, Nev., was selected as the training site.

Hubbard said the Marines surveyed California. They considered Big Bear Mt. but decided the weather wasn't cold enough. Idle Wild was rejected because it was too near resort areas.

When Pickel Meadows came up for consideration, Hubbard said, it looked like the best spot so we asked nearby residents what they thought of using the area for a winter camp.

"No one can live there in the winter," the natives said. "Gets too cold."

"That's all we wanted to hear," Hubbard said. The Marines moved in.

Flaming Hot Rod Is Newest Plague

BATAVIA, N. Y. —(UP)— A new fad, flame thrower automobiles, cropped up here to plague police officials.

Chief Neal B. Smock disclosed the presence of such "dangerous and ridiculous" equipment in the arrest of a 17-year-old youth for operation of a motor vehicle with improper equipment.

Smock said the added equipment includes a spark plug attached to the exhaust pipe of an automobile and connected by a wire to the driver. When fumes build up in the exhaust pipe, he said, a spark is ignited and a flame—sometimes five to 15 feet in length, shoots from the car.

Russell Leads East Carolina In 87-76 Loop Victory

Pirates Stave Off Second Half Rally

Big Bobby Hodges Commands Both Backboards As Western Carolina Falls To ECC's Superior Height

By JIMMY KILLIS
Reflector Sports Writer

GULLOWHIE — Their superior height gave East Carolina a welcome advantage under the backboards here last night and the Pirates capitalized on every phase of the game to drop Western Carolina 87-76 in a North State Conference clash last night. The two clubs will battle it out tonight in the second of their two-game series.

The score was tied six times in the first half during the rough and tumble affair, which saw a total of 64 fouls called on the two teams. East Carolina managed to take a comfortable lead with five minutes left to play in the first half when forward Sonny Russell hit on four quick points. The Pirates were never in serious trouble after that point.

Western Carolina made a serious bid in the last quarter, but was unable to narrow the count past a six-point spread. The Catamounts seldom got more than one chance at the baskets as big Bobby Hodges completely dominated the play under both baskets and took rebounds in as if they were his own.

Russell was by far the most outstanding offensive player on the court here last night. The slender 6-3 forward from Wilmington, N.C., hit for 25 points, with most of his points coming at crucial points in the contest. Besides his stellar play under the backboards, Hodges also found time to toss in 19 points on his own hook.

Ritchie Blake also hit in the double columns for the high-scoring Pirates. Although it was doubted before the game that he would be allowed to score as an offensive player, he did not let his reputation for being a defensive player get in the way. Blake not only played but scored 16 points.

Rogers Scores
Little All-American guard Ronald Rogers dropped in 16 points in the last half to lead the Catamounts in their defeat. Coupled with seven in the first half, Rogers' game total amounted to 23 points. Rogers, who is leading the conference in individual scoring, was the big gun in Western Carolina's last quarter rally.

Ned Straehla poured in 17 points for the losers to take down second high scoring honors for the Catamounts. Paul Taylor and Bob Ray hit for 15 points apiece. Straehla and Taylor scored most of their points from outside the circle on long set shots. Rogers, a forward, and Ray, a center, got most of their points on shots from close in.

Wildcats First

NEW YORK (AP)—Kentucky, riding the crest of a 12-game winning streak, enjoys top billing in the Associated Press basketball poll for the second straight week today but Kansas State and Illinois are hard on the Wildcats' heels.

The Wildcats remained at the head of the parade on the strength of victories over Vanderbilt, Ashburn and Notre Dame within a six-day span. They added another triumph after the polls closed by trouncing Tulane, 103-54, last night.

St. Bonaventure, Duquesne Extend Unbeaten Streaks

By FRED DOWN
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP)—Duquesne and St. Bonaventure still retained their magic touches today but the going was becoming increasingly difficult for a flock of the nation's other outstanding college basketball teams.

Duquesne, displaying its best defensive game of the season, ran its unbeaten string to 15 with a 71-60 victory over LaSalle last night while St. Bonaventure applied the pressure in the third quarter to beat John Carroll, 78-66, and up its streak to 14 games.

But the pattern for the most part seemed to be running against the stand-out teams—although only Oklahoma A. & M. was the victim of an upset. The Aggies fell before eight-times beaten Detroit, 44-42, in an authentic "shocker."

Iowa, perhaps looking ahead to next Saturday's key Big 10 Conference meeting with Illinois, ran into plenty of trouble before edging Butler, 58-57. Chuck Darling, Iowa's 6-foot, 8-inch center, came through with a three-point play three minutes before the end and the Iowans froze the ball the remainder of the way. Darling, with 31 points, accounted for more than half his team's point total.

Kentucky enjoyed another spectacular scoring night as it buried Tulane, 103-54, for one of the few easy victories by a big power last night. Meanwhile, Kansas was extended to the limit to beat Colorado, 73-68. St. Louis outscrambled Drake, 59-57, and Notre Dame beat Northwestern, 75-69.

Kentucky romped to a 45-24 half-time lead and was never in trouble as it scored its 18th victory in 20 games and ninth consecutive Southeastern Conference triumph. Frank Ramsey scored 21 points and Cliff Hagan 20 for the Wildcats.

Jim Tucker and Dick Ricetti scored 18 points each for Duquesne as the Dukes handed LaSalle its third defeat in 17 games. St. Bonaventure, held to a two-point lead at the half, rallied strongly in the second half to negate freshman George Dalton's 30-point scoring spree which set an Olean Army record.

Traveling St. Johns of Brooklyn came through with its second consecutive impressive road victory—a 64-53 conquest of Purdue. Tonight's major games: Baylor-Texas U., Bradley-Wichita, George Washington-South Carolina, LaSalle-Youngstown, Southern California-Loyola (Calif.), Western Kentucky-Morehead (Ky.), North Carolina State-William & Mary, Oklahoma City - Tulsa, Temple-Princeton, Springfield-Yale, Tampa-Xavier.

East Carolina In Only Contest

By the Associated Press
One North State Conference basketball game is scheduled tonight with the East Carolina Pirates visiting the Western Carolina Catamounts at Cullowhee.

Eton's surprising Christians took a firmer grip on the North State lead last night by defeating High Point College 68-61. The Christians sparked by Nelvin Cooper with 14 points racked up their sixth straight conference win.

High for High Point was Suede, who dropped in 20 points. The East Carolina Pirates took advantage of their superior height to control the boards and the ball most of the night against the Western Carolina Catamounts and were paid off by an 87-76 win. High for the Pirates was Sonny Russell with 25 points. Little-All American Ronald Rodgers netted 23 points for the losers.

In a non-conference March 6 Dimes game the Lenoir Rhyne Bear downed the De Hart Truicks 69-65. Leo Kantorski and Billy Wells paced the losers with 18 and 19 points respectively. Top for the Bears was guard Rusty Reid with 14 points.

Winterville Takes Games With Stokes Friday Night

STOKES—Winterville High School capped honors in both the boys and girls games in a Pitt County double-header played here last Friday night. The Winterville boys took the nightcap, 40-32, after a close first half, while Coach Paul Clark's lassies won the opener with ease, 58-38.

Rex Wainright topped Winterville's scoring with 11 points, despite the defensive work turned in by Stokes' Earl Butler and Warren Whitehurst. Bobby Cole and Ed Evans led Winterville's defense. Jack Warren hauled down high scoring honors for both clubs with 14 points for his Stokes loss.

Stokes played the winners on easy terms throughout the first quarter and trailed by only one point at the end of the period, 8-7. Winterville pulled away early in the second quarter but were unable to maintain any sort of a lead as Stokes caught up to within two points, 18-16, by the time that halftime intermission had rolled around.

Fifteen points in the third period while Stokes could manage to hit for only eight proved to be the cure for Winterville as the Wolves coasted by in the fourth period to win.

Girls Game
Winterville's first string played less than a total of two quarters in the girls game. Coach Clark allowed his starters to stay in long enough in the first quarter to build up a 20-7 lead, and then put them back in for four and one half minutes in the final period.

Jean Averette led the Winterville scoring with 13 points, but Stokes' Jane Bullock kept high scoring honors for the home team with 20 points. Frances Meeks led the Stokes defense, while Nancy Worthington was outstanding for the Winterville guards.

Score by periods:
Girls Game
Winterville 20 10 13 15-58
Stokes 7 14 11 6-38
Boys Game
Winterville 8 10 15 7-40
Stokes 7 9 8 8-32

Olympics Move 2 Games To Kansas City Auditorium

NEW YORK (UP)—Two of the four opening-round Olympic tournament basketball games were shifted today from Madison Square Garden to the Kansas City Auditorium, March 29.

The transfer in playing sites was made in order to raise more money for sending the U.S. Olympic basketball team to Helsinki this year. Accordingly, Asa S. Bushnell, secretary of the U.S. Olympic Committee, announced that the NCAA champion will meet the NAIB tournament winner and the national AAU champion will oppose the third or fourth place team in the AAU tourney at Kansas City instead of in New York as originally scheduled.

Kansas City interests protested more money could be raised by holding the Olympic tournament in Kansas City when Olympic officials committed the tourney to New York previously.

El Paso Open Set For Action Today

EL PASO, Tex. (UP)—The El Paso Country Club course was in "fair" condition for the nearly 100 golfers who teed off today for 55 places in the qualifying round of the $10,000 El Paso Open.

Pros were worried, however, by bone-dry greens. Fairways were termed "lightning fast." Warm and calm weather, with temperatures in the high 60's were predicted by Thursday, opening day of the tourney.

OLD FOLKS STILL AROUND
SYLVA, N. C. (UP)—Little Sandra Gail Nicholson has four living grandparents, four great-grandparents and one great-great-grandparent.

Baseball News Round-Up

NEW YORK (AP)—Allie Reynolds and Bobby Thomson, a couple of guys who had more than a little to do with the Yankees and Giants meeting in an all-New York World Series last fall, are very happy athletes today.

Each left for home with a nice fat juicy $35,000 contract in his pocket. That is more money than either of them ever made before in a single season.

Reynolds, double no-hitter pitcher ace of the Yankees, received a $10,000 boost over his earnings of last season. Thomson, slugging Giants third sacker, got $12,500 more than his $32,500 of 1951.

Both reported they were "completely satisfied." Thomson thus becomes the highest salaried player on the Giants. Reynolds' salary is believed to be second only to that of Phil Rizzuto among the Yankees.

CLEVELAND (AP)—Centerfielder Larry Doby thinks General Manager Hank Greenberg of the Indians is playing a joke on him.

The "joke" Larry said at his Patterson, N.J. home, is proposed 1952 Indian contract. He said the contract called for a pay cut of $5,000 from his 1951 salary of $25,000.

"I honestly think Hank is kidding," said Larry, who couldn't see the joke. "I knew a cut was coming because Hank told me so in Chicago last month. But I didn't expect one this big."

Larry had a .295 average last season compared with .326 in 1950.

Kid Gavilan Has Split Decision In Miami Fight

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Cuban Kid Gavilan, a specialist in split decision rhu-barbs, still owns the welter title after a tight squeak with string bean Bobby Dykes of San Antonio.

It was another "Gavilan special" last night at Miami Stadium where many of the 11,526 who paid $76.814 booted a divided decision for the sleek Havana Hawk. Only four points separated the two fighters on the total of three official cards.

Referee Eddie Coachman voted for Dykes, the 32-year-old underdog who has been adopted by Miami as a local favorite. Coachman had the rangy Texan on top 143-140.

Both judges found Gavilan the winner but Mark Erwin of Miami had it a near photo finish with the Cuban a nose in front, 142-141. Ladislav Nodarse, imported from Havana to judge the championship bout, but The Keed over the top with his 145-139 ballot.

Miami uses a point scoring system by which the winner of a round receives 10 points and the loser anywhere from nine to six. If it's an even round, each gets 10 points. The AP card gave it to Gavilan 144-142.

On a round basis, the AP showed Gavilan the winner 7-5 with three even. The three even rounds could have gone either way without much trouble.

It was so close—despite an eight-count knockdown scored by Gavilan with a smashing right to the jaw in the second round—that a good flurry could have swung the title to handsome Bobby.

Jimmy Parks, Dykes' manager, shouldered the blame for assuring his boy he had only to survive the 15th and final round to win the decision.

Sedgman Will Not Defend His Crown

COLOMBO, Ceylon (AP)—Frank Sedgman, Australia's brilliant tennis ace, said today that he will not defend his American singles championship at Forest Hills this year.

Instead, Sedgman said he will concentrate on trying to win the Wimbledon title, which thus far has eluded him.

The Aussie's Davis Cup star will tour Europe after the Asian tourney here, and arrive in England in time to compete at Wimbledon.

District Missionary Institute Wednesday At Jarvis Memorial

A New Bern District Missionary Institute will be held on Wednesday night, February 6, at Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church. The Rev. Lewistine M. McCoy, China missionary, will be the guest speaker.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 and Methodist churches of the Greenville area will send representative groups to the session.

REV. L. M. MCCOY

The Rev. McCoy will discuss conditions today as they relate to the program of world missions. For the past year he has been stationed in Hoangkong, where he served as assistant treasurer and liaison man between missionaries in China and Board officers in New York.

Mr. McCoy was associate pastor of the Huchow Institutional Church in Chekiang, from 1947 to 1949, before the communists took over. He did pastoral work, taught in middle schools, supervised child welfare work, and distributed relief goods. He gave special emphasis to youth activities and the child welfare aspects of the program at the institutional church.

Mr. McCoy was in Hongkong from January 1949 to July 1951, rendering a service to the China personnel and institutions during the very difficult period of the communist takeover. In addition to his work for the Division of Foreign Missions of the Methodist Church, he also served the Church of the Brethren, Church World Service, the United Board of China Christian Colleges, and the Woman's Division of Christian Service.

Born in Lexington, Ky., Mr. McCoy now claims Charlotte, N. C., as his American address. He received his A. B. from Kentucky Wesleyan College and his B. D. from Duke University. He studied at the Yale Institute of Oriental Studies before leaving for China in December, 1946.

In addition to Mr. McCoy other leaders will be the Rev. T. R. Jenkins of Beaufort, who is District Missionary Secretary; Mrs. A. R. Chase of Eureka, Promotional Secretary for the Woman's Society of Christian Service; and the Rev. Hiram King of New Bern, District Superintendent.

The public is cordially invited to be present to hear these outstanding mission leaders who will conduct the Institute.

Conducting Speech Clinic

A speech and hearing clinic at which approximately 25 children will be examined is scheduled to be held at the school in Fountain today under the direction of Mrs. Dorothy W. Perkins, speech therapist and director of work in special education, in the department of education at East Carolina College. Children from Fountain, Falkland, and Fountain will be present.

Mrs. Edna Earle Baker, supervisor for Pitt County schools, arranged the clinic for the benefit of children in the area. She will be assisted in the work carried on Tuesday by Annie Lee Jones, county school supervisor in Pitt. Teachers in the Fountain school will attend the clinic as observers.

Examinations of the children who attend the clinic will be made by Mrs. Perkins with a view to determining speech and hearing disorders. Mrs. Perkins will hold conferences with both parents and teachers and will make recommendations for correcting disorders or otherwise aiding the children in overcoming their difficulties.

Rotarians Hear Musical Program

By WYATT BROWN
Three talented young ladies from East Carolina College entertained the Rotary Club last night with a program of soprano solos that ranged from the old familiar to grand opera. The young soloists were Carolyn Eisele and Catherine Stephens who were accompanied at the piano by Marietta Hooper.

First Miss Eisele sang. Her numbers were: Nevin's "Rosarie", the musetta waltz from Puccini's "La Boheme", and Nevin's "Mighty Lak a Rose". Miss Stephens sang a French Canadian folk song called "The Mill Wheel", Christopher Thompson's "A Maiden", and last Bizet's "Habenera" from "Carmen".

Program Chairman J. B. Kittrell announced last night that the local Rotary Club would celebrate the forty-seventh anniversary of Rotary International on February 25th with a special program for the occasion by Past District Governor Howard J. McGinnis.

Roy Martin told the "Who, Where, When and Why" of his life last night revealing that it all began in Edgecombe county near Bethel and continued until he graduated from high school there. Next he attended Wake Forest College and came to Greenville to go into business where he has been since.

P. H. Massey of Louisburg was a guest of the Club last night. The following were visiting Rotarians: Dr. John Mewborn of Farmville, A. R. Rowe of Ayden, Penn Moore of Goldsboro, J. C. Abernathy of Lumberton and H. M. Stott of Lumberton. The program was presented by Bancroft Moseley, Chairman of the Music Committee. Charles White, Club President, presided.

Schedule Annual Social Events

Two annual social events sponsored by groups of business education students at East Carolina College will be observed this week and next on the campus.

The Beta Kappa Chapter of Pi Omega Pi, national honorary fraternity for business education students, will honor at a tea Sunday, February 10, students of the department whose excellent scholastic records indicate eligibility to membership in the organization. With the Commerce Club, the fraternity will give an annual Valentine dance in the Wright building.

Embarrassing

WASHINGTON (AP)—An embarrassed Senator Willis Smith (D-S.C.), gave his office staff a thorough lesson in spelling fundamentals today.

The cause was a spelling boner from his office in which the last name of Attorney General Howard McGrath was misspelled "McGrath". The announcement in which the misspelling occurred disclosed the senator's appointment as head of a sub-committee which will investigate the activities of the Office of the Alien Property Custodian which is under McGrath's department.

"There was no intention of insinuating against the Attorney General or his office," declared Jess Helms, one of Smith's administrative assistants. As Helms put it, a certain stenographer in the senator's office is writing the name of the Attorney General 5,000 times.

Friday, February 8.
Seventy-six students have received invitations to attend the annual Founder's Day tea to be given next Sunday afternoon in the parlors of Ragsdale Hall, campus dormitory. The occasion will mark the anniversary of the establishment of the campus of the Beta Kappa Chapter in 1944. Plans for the social event are now in progress under the leadership of Shirley Pilkinton of Smithfield, chapter president.

The Valentine Dance will be attended by student members of the two organizations, faculty members of the business education department, and their guests. The dance will be formal, and decorations appropriate to the season will make the occasion a colorful one.

Don't do a rush job on your nails! With most women this is a last minute chore and their nails show it. You can lacquer your nails hours ahead of time and not worry about chipping if you do the job right—and here's how. Remove all the old polish. Apply a thin coat of colorless polish. Apply two thin coats of your color. Apply a top coat of colorless polish, carrying the last coat over the ends of and under the edges of the nails. Let the hands dry for fifteen to twenty minutes. That manicure will last!

Stocks And Market Reports

NEW YORK (UP)—Stocks retreated in orderly fashion during the morning dealings today. A few issues registered losses of a point or more but a majority dipped fractions or held steady. A few managed to advance.

Trading fell off by 80,000 shares in the first hour.

New York & Harlem, which gained 25 points yesterday, added another 5 points to a new high at 480. The active rails lost a few cents in their average. So did utilities.

Oils met further realigning selling. Losses of a point or more were noted in such shares as Atlantic Refining, Mid-Continent Petroleum, Socoty-Vacuum, Standard Oil (N.J.), Standard Oil (Ind.), and Texas Pacific Land Trust.

Monsanto declined 2 1/2 points and American Cyanamid more than a point in the chemicals. Other issues to decline a point or more included U. S. Rubber, Federated Department Stores, Scott Paper, and U. S. Rubber. Rohm & Haas fell 6 points on one sale.

In the steels, Bethlehem firmed while U. S. Steel eased. Chrysler with a small gain offset a minor decline in General Motors. Columbia Broadcasting A rose 1 5/8 and Zenith was up a fraction in the televisions.

committees in senatorial districts with rotation agreements providing for nomination of state senators by one county. The plan of organization has been ignored in practice in many ways, particularly with respect to the provision requiring equal membership of men and women on the executive committee. A meeting of the Democratic state executive is required to be held prior to March 10, specifically to fix dates for precinct meetings, county and state conventions. At that meeting attention is expected to be given these necessary revisions to comply with the 1951 legislative act and to eliminate some of the confusing elements in current text of the plan of organization.

TEMPORARY—Opinion is general that whatever revisions are made this year will be of temporary nature. Chances are that 1952 will be the last year in which a president of the United States is elected under the present system of an independent electoral college hamstrung by traditional practice that mere plurality of popular vote carries the entire electoral vote of a state.

PROPORTIONATE—There are patent objections to election of a president by popular nation-wide vote without regard to state lines, but there is fast growing sentiment in favor of recognizing the proportionate vote as contemplated in the constitutional amendment proposed by Senator Lodge of Massachusetts. The idea there is to retain the electoral vote on basis of one vote for each member of the congress, but instead of mere plurality carrying the entire state vote it would be pro-rated on percentage basis to all the candidates. Under that system Republican votes in South Carolina and Democratic votes in Vermont would count for something, whereas under the present system they do not.

SUPPORT—Powerful support for the so-called Lodge amendment is coming up from the National Association of Secretaries of State, the officials that have more direct connection with elections than any other. A meeting of the executive committee of that association is scheduled for New Orleans three weeks from now, and one of the chief items on the agenda is to arrange for the full association meeting in Rhode Island this summer to get behind the Lodge proposal, or at least the general idea in principle. North Carolina's Secretary of State Thad Eure is a member of the committee, but will not be able to attend the New Orleans meeting on account of the scheduled marriage of his daughter on February 23. He has, however, signified his personal voting method for electing presidents that before 1956 some such amendment will have been submitted and ratified and that 1952 will be the last year for election of a president and vice-president under the present method.

'Poof' Sweaters Found To Be Sold In Locality

At least one set of the inflammable sweaters that have created such a furor all over the United States recently, has turned up in Greenville. Reports indicate that many more are being worn locally.

The sweater set, which only recently was discovered to be of the so-called "poof" variety, was purchased shortly before Christmas from a traveling salesman on the Bethel highway outside the city. It is a two-piece pullover, jacket combination, without a manufacturer's label inside.

This particular sweater set was bought by Harold Keeter of Route 3, Greenville, who told his sister all the sweaters sold were of identical design—and all he saw were for men. According to the sister, Josephine Keeter, the purchaser said the peddler was selling the sweaters for whatever amount he could get—anything from $5.00 to $5.00—and he disposed of several sets from his station on the Bethel highway.

Miss Keeter explained that she wore her brother's sweater to work a few times and being familiar with its origin, became dubious after reading and hearing so much about the "flash" sweaters, so she decided to experiment with the sweater using a match, she said, and in so doing, flammable.

There have been scores of reports in regard to this same type of sweater in recent weeks. Some few cases of severe burns have been recorded in Burlington, Albemarle and Greensboro have all turned up samples of these sweaters lately, but this is the first report of any in this area.

Fire Chief George Gardner stated this morning that in the interest of public safety, any sweaters that have been purchased from unorthodox sources will be inspected at the fire department. "Anyone having a sweater that there is any doubt about may bring it by the fire department for inspection," he said.

The sweaters reported to be highly susceptible to flame are made of a cheap, woven fabric of synthetic materials not treated to resist fire. The material has been "buffered" on one side by thousands of tiny wire bristles to give it the appearance of wool. The sweaters may be recognized by the absence of a lining, no manufacturer's label and the methods by which they are marketed.

Monday's Cases In Police Court

Nine cases dealing with public drunkenness took up most of the city Police Court time yesterday morning as 17 cases were disposed of by Judge Charles H. Whedbee.

The probation of Joe Louis Chance was ordered revoked and a six months sentence ordered served for violation of parole.

William Barrett, charged with possession of non-tax-paid whiskey for purpose of sale, was not guilty. He was also adjudged not guilty of buying and receiving stolen goods.

The license of Alfred H. Eason was ordered revoked for a period of one year by Judge Whedbee, after he was found guilty of driving on the highways at a rate of 80 miles per hour. The judgment also called for a 30-day suspended sentence on payment of $50 and that subject be of good behavior for a year during which time he would not violate any law.

Walter Dawson, assault on female, was given a 30-day suspended sentence upon payment of $15 and remain of good behavior and not molest or bother Elizabeth Parks.

Drunk: Clarence D. Pritchard, R. L. Jolly, Guy Campbell, Henry M. Roundtree, each paid $10. Marian Forbes was given a 30-day suspended sentence upon payment of $15 for drunkenness while Jarvis Roach was found not guilty of being drunk but guilty of disorderly conduct and fined $5.

Edward Lee Small was fined $20 less costs of court on a suspended sentence for being drunk.

Jesse Parker, carrying concealed weapon, was ordered to pay $50 and costs of court and weapon ordered turned over to clerk of superior court for disposition.

On the witness stand yesterday Patrolman Paul Whitley who investigated the accident said the automobile allegedly operated by Stephenson rammed into the rear of a automobile operated by Wilbert Jones, 38-year-old Negro of Grifton Route two. Whitley said Jones told him he had slowed to 15 miles an hour and gave a hand signal to turn off the highway when the accident occurred.

Whitley said Stephenson was unsteady on his feet following the accident, had trouble lighting a cigarette, had a strong odor of some alcoholic beverage on his breath and talked considerably. The patrolman likewise stated that Stephenson threatened him after the officer learned Stephenson's name and asked him if he was the same person who had killed a patrolman. "He said he was, and give me my jackknife and he'd kill some more," Whitley testified.

Vought, who appeared yesterday as a witness for the state, told the court, "We were all drinking."

Dangerously Cut By Rotary Saw

The condition of a Greenville man who was seriously injured yesterday around 12:30 when a saw ripped across his legs, cutting them badly, was described by Pitt Memorial Hospital officials today as "fair."

Gentry McLawhorn, 34, of the F. P. McLawhorn and Sons Equipment Company, located on the Bethel Highway, was seriously injured when a rotary type timber cutting saw which he had been repairing fell against his legs, cutting them badly.

He was rushed by ambulance to Pitt Memorial Hospital and underwent surgery at once upon his arrival there. It was feared for some time yesterday that he would lose one of his limbs, but officials stated today that his condition was improved and it was believed that they could be saved.

McLawhorn had completed repairs to the saw and it was turned on by a man in the shop, when the accident occurred.

New Graduates Will Find Jobs Awaiting Them

By UNITED PRESS

The current crop of college graduates can just about write their own ticket in the 1952 job market, a survey showed today.

It was definitely a "graduates' market" for the mid-winter term of students leaving school, particularly for engineer and scientific graduates. Some had as many as 20 job offers. Ten was considered common.

Salaries were correspondingly enticing. The average was around $25 a month with many up to $400.

The demand for graduates in the arts was not quite so heavy as for the technical fields, but it was very brisk.

Job placement officials agreed the call for college-trained people was the greatest of all time, brought on by the defense effort and the draft.

"The situation has never been as good as this and I don't think it will ever be as good again," said

Employer representatives crowded onto campuses, interviewing likely graduates and "fighting" for the top men. As many as six such representatives called at university placement offices daily, offering their lures.

Ranking right behind the engineers and physicists as the most sought-after graduates came the accountants, then business administration students and government majors.

In many cases, Selective Service officials were waiting for the graduate to receive his diploma before handing him his induction notice. This left the remainder of the class in a bargaining position.

But in some instances, firms were hiring graduates regardless of their draft status with a view toward re-employing them when they left service. This was particularly true of large companies.

University of Miami Graduates without any experience are offered at least $300 a month in most engineering jobs," said placement director Louis Miller.

Salesgirls Rate Best Chance In Matrimony Mart

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—Salesgirls who are 24 have the best chance to get married in Germany, which has a surplus of 2,800,000 women. Young housemaids run a close second in nuptial prospects, a survey by the West German Statistical Bureau indicates. But the bureau estimates that 1,000,000 German girls never will get married.

Next to 24-year-olds, those who are 22 and 18 are most likely to find husbands. For the group between 26 and 39, it's liable to be a lonely existence.

Over 40, demand again picks up. A well-groomed widow with an apartment of her own is sure-fire to receive proposals.

DDT Absolved As Man-Killer

CINCINNATI, O. —(UP)— No deaths ever have been recorded that can be attributed to DDT in clear-cut fashion except those which have been actual attempts at suicide, according to Dr. Francis F. Heyroth, assistant director of the University of Cincinnati's Kettering laboratory.

Commenting on some of the newer insecticides, Dr. Heyroth noted that any substance which will kill insects will also have some toxicity for mammals and for man.

"It is generally agreed, however, that the hazards associated with the use of insecticides are far outweighed by their public health value," Dr. Heyroth said. The university's Kettering laboratory has made extensive studies of possible dangers to humans of such insecticides as DDT.

There are 80,000 varieties of insects in North America which do 4,000,000,000 worth of annual damage to agricultural crops alone, Dr. Heyroth pointed out.

In addition to increasing the food supply by destroying insects, insecticides prevent the spread of such diseases as typhus fever, plague, and malaria, and therein lies their greatest public health value, Dr. Heyroth believes.

SCOUTS OWN HALF OF DOG

WRENTHAM, Mass. —(UP)—The mascot of a local boy Scout troop is half of a bloodhound. Of course, it's really a whole dog but the troop, right now, only owns half of him. The bloodhound's owner gave the Scouts half of the animal, the troop to be given full ownership only after proving that the dog would be treated with kindness.

DISCOVERS COAL MINE IN HIS CELLAR.—Elmer Evans, 32-year-old postal employe, peers at his wife, Eva, and daughter, Betty Jean, from an abandoned coal mine under his house on Pottsville, Pa., main business street, which he discovered while excavating to extend his cellar. The sixfoot high tunnel, which extends for 150 feet was examined by Evans and still has a good vein of coal. The tunnel is believed to be 100 years old. The entrance is only a few feet from the furnace, seen at left. Evans does not think his house is in any danger. (AP Wirephoto).

Cafeteria Style Service Tried In Iowa Prisons

ANAMOSA, Iowa —(AP)— Prisoners at the Iowa Reformatory here are going to have warmer food at mealtime if a plan under experiment works out satisfactorily. They will be fed cafeteria-style.

Prisoners now file into the long dining room to sit at tables while other inmates bring their food in trays and buckets.

Roubert C. Lappen, chairman of the board administering state institutions, said he thought the food would be quicker and warmer if served on the cafeteria plan. Bread will be on the tables and coffee will be served at meals.

Alberta Kluxers Out Of Business

EDMONTON, Alta. —(AP)— The "Alberta Realm" of the Ku Klux Klan, which had its heyday in the early 1930's, appears to be out of business.

The current issue of the Alberta Gazette lists it among societies liable to be struck off the register for failing to comply with the Societies Act, which requires organizations to register the address of their official headquarters, hold annual meetings, and submit reports to the provincial registrar.

Nothing has been heard of the K. K. K. in Edmonton since August, 1937, when 250 Klansmen and their followers held a picnic and burned fiery crosses.

Power Blackout Was Accidental

SINGAPORE —(AP)— Intentional blackouts, a daily measure introduced to conserve Singapore's limited electric power, are so much of an expected thing that it's difficult to recognize a genuine, unintentional power failure.

At 1 p.m. the other day in a Singapore residential section, the fans stopped and ice in home refrigerators began to thaw. By 7 p.m. there was still no power.

Someone, suspicious that this "blackout" had lasted longer than usual, decided to call the power station. This was the first word that the city's electricians had received of the accidental failure.

Railroad Station For Old Castle

HEIDELBERG, Germany —(AP)— Old Heidelberg Castle, where even the moss has a famous tradition, is going to become more familiar to tourists.

A new main railway station is to be built here so that anyone stepping off a train gets a good view of the castle's time-smoothed battlements. At present a visitor has to haul out his guidebook to find where the castle perches on green heights. The estimated cost of the station is five million dollars.

One County's Cancer Clinic Is Scoring Victory Against Cancer

STITCH IN TIME — The Kingston X-Ray therapy laboratory.

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE, Associated Press Science Editor
 KINGSTON, N. Y. One reason so many die of cancer is that so many have no place for treatment. This fact is one of the first lessons from the new Ulster County Tumor Clinic, established here two years ago, in a small, new building equipped for cancer. This is the first small commureal increase. It meant simply that many persons, who feared they had cancer, could not or would not go to New York because it was too far or too expensive.

In the 22 months 849 persons visited the clinic. Only six per cent were from outside the county. Of the total 327 had cancer. Included were 20 child visitors and two of them, had cancer.

In the clinic's second year, the number of visitors who feared cancer nearly doubled over the first year's rate. What benefit did the cancer patients get?

"I firmly believe," says the director, Dr. Milton M. Grover, Jr., who trained in New York's Memorial Hospital cancer center, "that by far the greater majority of the cancer cases have been helped either in relief or alleviation of symptoms, or improvement in general well being. It is impossible to determine how many lives have been saved. Five years is the minimum survival period for a cancer case to be considered arrested. However, I am certain that many lives have been prolonged."

Two-thirds of those who had no cancer had other troubles which were treated with the clinic's x-rays.

The clinic cost $750,000. Of this $300,000 was contributed by Ulster taxpayers. The rest was from the federal Hill-Burton Act for hospital aid. The upkeep comes from gifts and fees.

When this clinic was built the county authorities had the choice between the clinic and a new county building which was badly needed.

The personnel of the clinic are the radiologist-director, a surgical consultant from New York who spends one day a week at the clinic, and three registered nurses. And a number of Kingston physicians who take part. The hospitals here take cancer cases as the physicians and patients wish. And New York is available for those who desire and have the money or other means of going there.

nity in the United States to set up its own complete cancer service. Kingston is within three easy hours travel of the great New York city cancer clinics. Presumably anyone that close can get whatever is needed for cancer.

But in the first 22 months of the Ulster clinic, the number of cancer cases in the county increased 44 per cent. That did not mean a

Has Trust Fund For Dog And Cat

LACONIA, N. H. — (UP) — A guardian appointed for a 17-year-old cat and a 3-year-old dog, beneficiaries of a will had the unique task of "giving formal notification" to the animals of their good fortune.

Mrs. Mildred E. Bates established a trust fund for the care of her pets after her death.

Now you can judge car value for yourself!

Get the complete facts and figures the "Show Down" Way!

THIS FREE "Show Down" booklet gives you proof instead of "sell" . . . presents the facts about features, arranged for easy comparison. For example, you can quickly compare Dodge head room, seat width and stretch-out room with that of other cars costing hundreds of dollars more. You get the actual specifications instead of vague generalizations.

Only when you compare this big value '52 Dodge the "Show Down" way can you appreciate how much more Dodge gives you for your money in comfort, economy and safety.

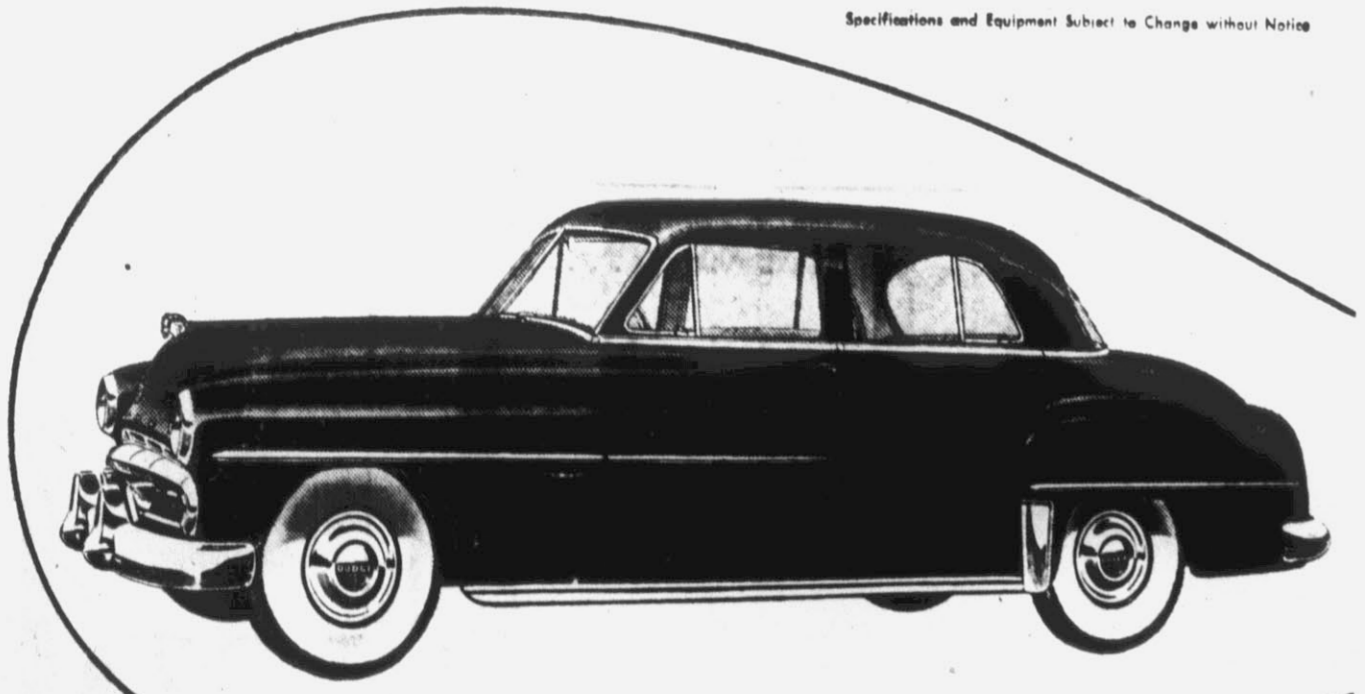

Though Dodge costs less than the other cars compared, you will see that only Dodge gives you the wonderfully smooth Onflow Ride. In the group of features classified under "Safety," you'll see for yourself that only Dodge gives you Safety-Bim wheels and longer-wearing Cyclobond brake linings. Score the proof for yourself!

No "Strings"—No Obligation
 Come in today and get your own copy of the "Show Down" booklet. It's convincing, it's convenient, it's free. Take it home and make money-saving comparisons at your leisure. You'll learn what thousands of new Dodge owners will testify: "You could pay hundreds of dollars more for a car and still not get all Dodge gives you!"

Hearts across the table will make Valentine's Day a romantic event. Invite an equal number of girls and boys to share in the fun of this made-for-love day at a Valentine's party.

Your invitation could be a "mystery heart." Make it of red mat paper and paste a lace paper dolly edging around it for a froufrou effect. Then cut the heart directly in half in a zig-zag, swirl or other design. Take half a heart and mail it to a girl invitee, the other half to a boy. The idea is that they will be paired off when they match heart halves at the party. The invitation could say something like this: "Don't you wish you knew just who is who—Come to the party. Join in the fun: Mate your heart-half To that only one."

Incidentally, it might be a good idea not to send heart match-ups to two people who do not particularly hit it off. Use your imagination in tying up couples and everybody will have more fun.
If you haven't tried the spice game, it usually is a good way to get your little guests in the spirit of things. Pack small amounts of popular spices—bay leaf, garlic salt, mustard, pepper, cinnamon, cloves, celery salt—into little cheesecloth bags and toss them around for the group to sniff.
You'll be surprised how many guests attempt to guess spice scents with their eyes closed. ... a tally of the answers and give a little prize to your spiciest guest. A string of garlic bulbs or a can of cocoa are appropriate gifts for the winner.
All young people enjoy intrigue. Fortunes always will perk up a crowd, so make sure you have a game of fortunes on Valentine's Day. You can play fortune teller yourself with a paperweight "crystal" ball and phony cards or read the palms of the guests. If this seems like a lot of trouble, bury little fortunes in a cake or in a centerpiece. A glass bowl or other container can hold the little papers. Red ribbons can go from each fortune to a plate.
Make the fortunes apply to present company, if possible. Don't write far-fetched little predictions such as "you'll take a journey around the world." Such things as "Is it true that Mary loves you?" or "Johnny has his eyes pealed for a red-head" will put the crowd in a gleeful mood—particularly if there is a Mary and Johnny present, and if you've had the foresight to try to steer them to the little red ribbons which apply to them.
Place indicators can be made out of little gelatin hearts molds. These can be used either for dessert or salad, depending on the flavor you use—tomato for salad, strawberry, raspberry or cherry for dessert. The name of the guest can be written in mayonnaise (if salad) or whipped cream (if dessert) across the top of the gelatin heart.
Party foods such as heart-shaped sandwiches and chicken salad or the heartier foods such as spaghetti, frankfurters, beans or chicken a la king will appeal to hungry guests. It is seldom a problem to feed the gang if you give them enough to eat.
Dart-a-heart is a good game. Take a large heart and pin it up on a bulletin board or over a regular dart board. Make a circle in the center and label it 25—if you like make another and label it fifteen, next five and one nearest the edge can be minus 5. First score of 100 wins.
If you want to give the kids something to wear, make little hearts with a ribbon looped through. Boys can dangle these from their lapels, and girls can hang one little heart from each ear.

Finds Enjoyment In Watermelons

MALDEN, Mass. —(UP) Adam Youngblood, born a slave on a Georgia farm, said as he celebrated his 100th birthday here that for him old age has "three delights—chewing tobacco, roast chicken and watermelon."
The onetime city water department employe now lives at the City Infirmary, where he tells callers of the days when he was a youngster and saw "praying and singing" in the slave quarters as "northern soldiers" arrived to free his people.

Dixie Democrats Slowing Revolt For Convention

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—The anti-Truman movement among Southern Democrats is slowing down pending nominating convention developments.

The Southerners have their own presidential candidate, Sen. Richard B. Russell of Georgia. Their leaders openly call for an anti-Truman bolt.

Gov. James F. Byrnes of South Carolina is the anti-Truman spokesman. Last week he told a commemorative session of the Virginia General Assembly that Southern Democrats should place loyalty to country before loyalty to any political party or candidate. It was a beat-Truman appeal.

But unhappy Southerners have not yet begun to talk directly of supporting a Republican candidate for President this year if Mr. Truman runs again. The time for Southern decision and action will come after the July Republican convention in Chicago.

The Democratic convention follows the GOP in the same month and city. Mr. Truman unquestionably can re-nominate himself if he desires to do so. He probably could step down and dictate the nomination of another man.

Against these factors there is small chance that the 1952 Democratic Party ticket will satisfy the Southerners. Their alternative will don't DO that!

DON'T TALK TOO MUCH... If you monopolize the conversation you are sure to become known as a bore.

be to take a walk, call their own rump convention and nominate a presidential ticket in opposition to the regular Democrats.

Bolting Democrats could nominate the Republican ticket as their own. As a Jeffersonian Democratic Party they could put the Republican ticket before Southern voters minus the Republican tag.

They would be more likely to do that if Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower headed the Republican ticket than if Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio were the presidential nominee. The was tagged only this year as a Republican and in his youth he considered himself to be a Democrat. Those factors would be soothing to the South.

But Taft's nomination scarcely would drive anti-Truman Democrats back to the regular reservation. If Taft's stand-out Republicanism were too much for them to accept directly, the South still could bolt and nominate its own presidential ticket.

Russell would be their man if he would take it. State's Rights Democrats failed in 1948 to lick Mr. Truman by such a maneuver. But they did withhold from him 39 electoral votes from Alabama, South Carolina, Louisiana, Mississippi and Tennessee.

The Republicans fouled out in their own 1948 effort to defeat Mr. Truman. Defection of 39 electoral votes might be decisive this time. Any way you slice it, the Southern rebellion is likely to have more punch in 1952 than four years ago.

REGULERS SUSPECT
LINCOLN, Neb. (UP)—At least one Nebraskan was not satisfied with the state's crackdown on gambling. Attorney General C. S. Beck reported he received an anonymous letter from a resident warning him that there was a bowling alley "going full blast on the edge of town."

Nobody Knows
WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass. (UP)—Williams College students will study Pittsfield voting behavior this spring. Some 30 political science students will try to find out why people vote as they do in national, state and local elections.

Chapter 26
She was not to find Dean at home, either. There is no answer to her persistent knocking. Her disappointment was heavy; she was about to turn away from Dean's door, when she thought of Abigail had dismissed her in her mind.
Mrs. Maloney answered her door promptly. But when she saw who it was, she shut the door half-way, merely poking her fat face with its double chins into sight.
"I thought maybe you could tell me when Dr. Dearborn might be in," Abigail said. She spoke in the warm friendly voice that was new to her, not the old light mocking one. "It is most important that I see him."
"I can't be tellin' ye what I don't know," Mrs. Maloney spoke in a stiff voice, new to her. She also spoke with a decided significance that plainly indicated that she knew plenty, if she had a mind to tell it.
"I did so want to see him today," Abigail's tone was humble, her large violet eyes pleading. She smiled on Mrs. Maloney, a warm friendly smile, not an affected one of condescension. "Of course you can't tell me if you don't know. Thank you just the same."
She would have turned away, but Mrs. Maloney stopped her by speaking up once more. The good woman was dying to impart what she knew. Especially this particular young "lody."
"Twas news this one ought to have handed out to her."
"You won't be for seein' Mr. Dean tomorrow neither," the landlady said. "He's gone." Hers was PALS TO THE END—Shortly after five-year-old Kathleen Eakin of South Williamsport, Pa., contracted the mumps Sparky her pet cat, developed swollen glands. Here Kathleen comforts Sparky but to date no one has diagnosed Sparky's affliction as mumps. (AP Wirephoto).

most granite-hearted. "Thank you very much. I'd love to. May I, another time? I don't think I ought to take time now. You see I left early this morning. I've been gone all day. I ought to get home as my sister might start to worry."
It was the first time she had thought of Marcia. But this was true. She had not left any note for Marcia, either. They had formed the habit of scribbling a few lines saying when they would return, where they might be reached or the like.
"Your sister, eh?" The landlady opened the door wide enough to look more closely into Abigail's face. "She wouldn't be the other

"Thank you," Abigail said simply, gratefully. The words "in love" had reassured her faith. She was foolish to worry. Of course Dean would come back. She could not imagine what impulse had caused him to make such a sudden, hasty move. There must be a reason. Dean loved her as she loved him. Even his landlady knew that, saying that it was love that had produced Dean's masterpiece.
"Thank you so much," Abigail said again. "I am quite all right now. You have helped me so much. And I'll come back again some day, if I may, for that cup of tea."
"That you must!" Mrs. Maloney beamed on her. Why, this one was like the other. She was not quite so sweet, nor so young, but a nice young lody. "Bring your sister along with ye. And if ye want to know where Mr. Dean has gone ye might be askin' her."
Abigail smiled and said goodbye again. She hardly thought this last advice would prove fruitful, but it was kindly meant. And it was just barely possible that Marcia might know something about Dean.
She would ask Marcia. Now she was in a hurry to get home. This day was not going as Abigail had planned at all, this wonderful tomorrow she had been so impatient for. But there were many tomorrows ahead.
When she got back to the apartment it was empty. Her sister was not there. There was no sign that she had been.
This was a third disappointment. It was almost as keen as the others. For, somehow, reasonable or not, Abigail now felt that perhaps Marcia could help her. Her sister had unknowingly helped her in other ways. She might know where they could find Dean.
There was nothing now for Abigail to do but wait.

College Museum Gets 1824 I.O.U.

CARBONDALE, Ill. —(UP)— Mrs. Grace Swafford Wykes, Benton, Ill., didn't expect to collect on the 127-year-old I. O. W. she held, so she passed it on to the Southern Illinois University museum here.

The faded document bears the promise of William Sullivan to repay $10 he borrowed from Mrs. Wykes' great-grandfather, Shadrock Mooneyhar in 1824.
John W. Allen, museum curator, said "people certainly were honest in those days." Sullivan used his personal seal—the equivalent of a notary public's seal to day, and all the facts are stated plainly—"no fine print."
NOT READY TO QUIT— At 82, Marre, Vt. —(UP)— At 82, Mayor Chamcey M. Willey is running for re-election. Asked if this would be his last term, the octogenarian replied, "I'm not sure."

ON THE HOUSE

By DAVID G. SAREUTHER, AP Real Estate Editor

This is the season when heating plant troubles in northern states and the lack of adequate heat during cold periods in the south prompt householders to look around for new systems. There are so many to choose from and so little is known about some of them that selecting a type of plant almost calls for a course of study.

It used to be that you could pick one of three general types—steam, hot water or warm air—and let it go at that. Now you're faced with radiant baseboards, radiant glass panels, radiant walls, floors ceilings, winter of year-round air conditioning, heat lamps and heat pumps—among various others.

One of the most interesting and least known of the newer devices is the heat pump. There are about 2,000 now in operation in various parts of North America.

The principle originated by pumping heat from the ground below the frost line, where the temperature remains fairly constant in the 50s the year round. Underground water also was used for a source of heat. Now to use the air—taking heat out of the heat pump has been adapted the air even in sub-zero weather.

That may sound like a hot one, but it works. Scientists say there's heat in all substances at all temperatures down to 459.6 degrees below zero. They know that heat always tends to flow from a higher temperature to a lower one. So with the heat pump—like a refrigerator—these wizards absorb heat by evaporating a refrigerant. When this refrigerant is compressed its temperature increases, permitting it to give off heat.

You can feel the heat that is removed from the inside of a refrigerator by putting your hand behind that machine. You'll notice that it's warm.

If you built a refrigerator in the wall of a house with the open storage compartment facing outdoors, the refrigerator would pump heat out of the outside air and deliver it into the house. In the summer time, if the refrigerator were turned around, heat would be removed from inside the house and dumped outside.

That's the way the heat pump works. One of its key parts is a long coil filled with a refrigerant. In the winter, the refrigerant is evaporated to extract heat from the outer air, from the ground or from water in a well or cistern. The refrigerant is then compressed to a high temperature, thereby heating up the air, which in turn is circulated through the house.

In the summer the cycle is reversed, heat is removed from the air in the house and exhausted outdoors, or into the ground or well water.

Adding air filters, blowers, humidifiers, dehumidifiers, thermo-

STOPPING THE MUSIC to say "how about stopping a health menace that took the lives of 745,000 men, women and children last year," Jimmy Durante pleads earnestly for support of the Heart Fund.

stats, and other devices completes the heat pump. It uses no fuel oil, gas or coal, working entirely by electric motive power.

So far the heat pump is economically limited pretty much to the luxury house. Average installation cost in new construction runs around $3,400. But the industry is trying hard to get that cost down and widen the market. General Electric engineers, who have been working on the heat pump since 1934, say the way is now cleared toward a goal where the cost will be no more than that for a conventional air conditioning system.

Operating costs, however, are already within range. Two three-horsepower heat pumps were installed in the New World demonstration house constructed recently in St. Louis. The Union Electric Co. of that city found they could be operated the year round for $225.60, or $18.80 a month. The Federal Power Commission considers Missouri electric bills about average, neither high or low.

The St. Louis house uses both a ground coil pump and an air coil for test purposes. But GE is now concentrating on the air-to-air system because ground conditions—rock, etc.—vary widely and well water and ground water are not available everywhere.

The heat pump, however, possibly could bring big changes in architecture. One of the General Electric engineers predicts the day will come soon when "windows will be designed only to see through, and not as transparent openings with contrivances added to reduce infiltration of air, dirt and insects. There will be little need for screened porches and bulky chimneys. Houses will be more correctly oriented to reduce the effect of winter wind and to obtain the maximum benefit from solar radiation in winter and its exclusion in hot weather."

Educator Finds Confusion Among School Children

ALBANY, N. Y. —(UP)— A prominent educator believes school children are living in an era of "intellectual confusion" because of unsettled world conditions. Dr. Evan R. Collins, president of the New York State College for Teachers points to the "good old days" when "a war meant a war." "Today," he adds, "our school children understand a war by degrees. To them a war is a cold war, a hot war or a shooting war, and peace doesn't mean prosperity; war does."

"Today, they don't understand democracy as in the good old days. Today, democracy is qualified as an economic or social or political democracy."

He says "the climate of intellectual confusion" makes it necessary for pupils to be taught in terms of relating their studies to the whole world picture.

The elements of vacuum tubes used in the latest models of hearing aids are a nickel filament wire, only one-tenth as thick as human hair.
