Fluoridation Of Water Has Been Tried; Values Proven

Editor's Note: Not in years has a scientific development aroused as much public interest as the fluoridation of public water supplies to help prevent tooth decay. The fluoridation process is producing dramatic results in reducing the dental decay rate among children. To acquaint readers with the latest information about this process, The Daily Reflector, through the cooperation of the Greenville Dental Society, today begins a series of articles on fluoridation of public water supplies.

Fluorine is a will-o'-the-wisp of the chemical world. In its pure form, it is an elusive, greenish gas. It is the most active chemical element known, and will combine readily with most other elements. This same element in solution of one part to 1,000,000 parts water is helping prevent tooth decay among the nation's children.

The discovery that addition of fluoride (fluorine in compound form) to community water supplies will help reduce tooth decay has aroused widespread public interest.

Communities which have fluoridated their water supplies acclaim its benefits. Dental societies, public health officials and other groups have endorsed the process, and a demand for its adoption is being made in many communities by parents' organizations and civic leaders.

To date, more than 100 cities and villages throughout the United States are adding fluorides to their water supplies. Hundreds of others are considering fluoridation and many of them already have taken steps to begin the process.

Why are these communities being stirred to action? Because scientific research has shown that fluoridation has reduced dental decay among children in one community, the rate of decay among 7-year-olds in another community in three years after fluoridation was started.

Tests in one New York community that practices fluoridation showed that there had been a 115 per cent increase in the number of 5 to 6 year old children with all their first teeth free of decay, compared to children of the same age group in a nearby community which does not add fluoride to its water supply.

Reports on these tests led the health department of New York—the nation's most populous state—to give its whole-hearted approval to fluoridation. Most state health departments have also endorsed the process. Just what causes the addition of fluoride to drinking water to act as a dental decay preventive is not known. It is generally believed, however, that fluorides make the tooth enamel more resistant to the acid commonly associated with tooth decay.

One thing is certain: fluoridation does reduce the rate of decay

ATTENDS TOP SCIENCE MEETING—Eric Lane, 12, of Baker, La., makes a few notes while attending the annual symposium of analytical chemistry at Louisiana State University in Baton Rouge. The eight grade student requested permission to attend the meeting, and has impressed many of the country's leading scientists and chemists with his brilliance. The conference voted him an honorary membership.—(AP Wirephoto) among children. This is one of the few findings in dental decay research that has not become a subject of controversy.

Most dental scientists agree that the process which causes tooth decay is the action of bacteria in the mouth on carbohydrates—sugars which eat into the tooth structure. For that reason, dentists and dieticians advise parents and children to refrain from consuming sweets, especially between meals. The Council on Dental Health of the American Dental Association has adopted a resolution providing "that the sale of candy, soft drinks and other confections in schools be discouraged."

ON THE HOUSE

By DAVID G. BAREUTHER, AP Real Estate Editor

You can joke all you want to about the plumber—he's usually good natured enough to call it good advertising—but you have to take your hat off to him when it comes to most plumbing jobs around the house.

Except for a few minor chores, such as fixing a dripping faucet, clearing a clogged trap, or possibly adjusting the mechanism in a flush tank, it doesn't pay the average householder to go in for handyman plumbing. The tools required cost so much and such jobs arise so seldom that it's smarter to pay the expert while you stick to your own last.

A monkey wrench, good screw drivers and a pair of pliers will see you through minor plumbing jobs, but to be fully equipped to tackle all plumbing you can use pipe vises, chain vises, pipe cutters, a pipe stock and set of dies, taps for threading inside pipe ends, reamers hacksaws, joint runners, blowtorches, calking irons, flaring tools, bending springs—and anything else you want from Santa Claus.

However, every member of your household should know something about the plumbing. In case of a leak or overflow considerable damage can be avoided by everyone knowing where and how to shut the water off. It's a fine idea to label important valves with baggage tags, which you can get at any stationary store.

"This shuts off all water," can mark the main valve near the meter where the supply line enters the basement, or the house. "This shuts off hot water." "Cold water shut-off for bathroom." "Hot water shut-off for kitchen," etc. Then, if you're away, anyone can meet an emergency.

You really ought to take your family on a little tour of the plumbing system for a demonstration. Show each one how to turn off the gas for a hot water heater or, if you have an electric water heater, which fuse plugs to loosen or removed to stop it from heating in an emergency.

Most hot water storage tanks have a drain cock to which the garden hose can be connected for draining the tank. Show how this should be done if necessary, after turning off the heat.

One of the funniest, ever though messiest, boners in any household is forgetting to turn off the water supply before starting to dismantle a faucet. It can happen to anybody, but usually only once in a lifetime. The shower you get is a wonderful teacher.

Most faucets nowadays are the compression type. They may have fancy handles in modern bathrooms, but they all work on the same general principle. When they start to leak around the handle it's a sign that cap nut is loose, or the packing washer under it needs replacing. When a faucet develops a drip it needs a new disk washer.

Failure to turn off faucets with moderate firmness tends to cause dripping. This not only wastes water, makes rust stains on enamel, but also can drag you out of bed in the middle of the night if your wife has good ears.

Replacing washers is a simple chore. Keep a supply of good quality composition washers on hand—the better they are the longer they last. The most common sizes are 3/8, 1/2 and 5/8-inch. Hardware stores sell assortments in those sizes. If you have a faucet calling for a specially shaped washer, remove the old one and get it matched.

But first shut off the water on the line leading to the faulty fixture! Put a cloth around the cap nut to keep the wrench from marring its finish. When the cap nut is loose, the spindle of the faucet will unscrew and come out.

The ground seat in the faucet, into which the washer fits, should be examined carefully. If it is roughed or corroded it can be reground with a faucet seat dressing tool—inexpensive and easy to use.

Use care in removing the brass screw that holds the washer on the end of the spindle. A dull screw driver, or one of the wrong size, can damage the screw head and require replacement. If the screw won't budge a little kerosene and a few sharp taps should loosen it.

Never tighten a cap nut to a point where the faucet binds. If moderate tightening will not stop a leak around a stem, new packing is called for. A little cotton string, can be wound around the stem under the nut temporarily, but packing washers are the only permanent solution.

Two Frankfurts 'Worlds Apart'

By DANIEL DE LUCE

AP Newsfeatures
FRANKFURT, West Germany—This is the tale of two cities sharing the same name but not one destiny.

The ruins of Frankfurt-on-Oder are still bleak after seven years of peace. It has lost nearly a third of its population. Two things are growing: the cemetery and the Communist party.

In the erstwhile ruined city of Frankfurt-on-Main, the skyline is pierced by towering new buildings. The traffic din in its streets is like Times Square. Its population is back to pre-war size. Trade booms. Both Frankfurts are occupied by foreign troops. On the Main, young Americans from Syracuse, Des Moines, and Chattanooga squire local girls to movies and dances, and patronize the big gift shops with gusto. On the Oder, the icy suspicion of the Russian garrison is reinforced by barbed wire and armed sentries. Fraternalization is punished by court martial.

As always, Frankfurt-on-Oder flows towards the Baltic sea in Germany's new frontier with Poland. Beyond it is a security zone 20 miles deep where a stranger is hunted down like an animal by Polish guards and Soviet troops. Rumor claims that anti-Red partisans hide out there. If so, they are far outnumbered by common smugglers. In an economy of want, desperate men risk their lives for a contraband pound of pork fat. On the river bank, Frankfurt huddles in ragged apathy. Faded red banners, hailing Stalin and the Communist version of peace, hang over dreary streets. The chronic shortage of electricity at night plunges the city into a darkness to match its spirit. Westward 295 miles is another Frankfurt, traditionally larger and luckier.

Both cities were named for river fords which Frankish tribes discovered in ancient times. But Charles the Great, the greatest Frank, ignored the Oder and held a royal conclave on the Main. Here the poet Goethe was born and the Rothschilds amassed fabulous wealth.

The most notable German effort in history to achieve democracy—the 1848 national assembly—was initiated here. This prosperous city faces west.

PETERBOROUGH, Ont.—(AP)—Arthur G. Metheral, Peterborough plumbing inspector, started the year with 372 plumbing jobs lined up for inspection. He said he has never been able to clear the book since he started but the present backlog is less than half that of some former years.

We're 93 Candles on Our Cake!
Your A&P is 93 years young this week. For it was about this time in 1859 that our founder, George Huntington Hartford, proudly opened the doors of his modest little store on Vesey Street in downtown New York, the forerunner of today's A&P. Even with his vision, we suppose he'd be surprised to see how his little business has grown. We think he'd be proud, though, to know that the basic idea that guided him then, "to bring more good food to more people for less money," has been the reason for our growth. We pledge to maintain this principle as long as there's an A&P.

Chapter 28

Maybe it was not so easy always to stick to the truth, Marcia was to find that it was not, when she was put through the grilling ordeal of questions before the desk sergeant. She tried to tell what had happened as directly and simply as possible.

As she had foreseen, the taxi driver, when he told his version of what had taken place, did not help her. He emphasized that he had noticed when Marcia hailed him, that the young lady was distraught.

"The kid looked scared," he said. "Kinda desperate like. And I did ask if she didn't want me to wait for her—I'da gone in with her, if the kid'd let me. I knew she was in trouble, or headed for trouble, so I waited anyway. Then I heard the loud report."

"You mean you heard the shot after the girl went into the apartment house?" the desk sergeant asked.

The taxi man nodded. "Anyways," he said, "it sounded like on. Mebbe the kid let out a cry for help. That coulda been it."

"You picked it up?" the sergeant asked.

That was not true; Marcia had not. She had picked up the revolver, placed it on the table.

The other two policemen were there also. She did not try to hear everything that they said, but again Marcia was aware that their testimony did not do her much good. One claimed she had sobbed wildly, guiltily when they tried to take her away. The other described her reactions as cold-blooded, indifferent, even glad. Yes, the lady had said she was glad the man had died.

"You don't deny that your friend was in love with you?" the desk sergeant asked.

All Marcia could do was shake her head. When she did not know how to answer, where to divide truth from the effort to protect Abigail, she did not reply.

Then a stout woman came in, and the desk sergeant spoke to her in low tones. She came over to Marcia and asked her to please step this way.

"Will they let me go now?" Marcia asked.

The woman gave a short laugh. "Hardly!" she said. "Now let's not make any trouble, miss." Her tone was severe; the expression around her mouth implacable.

"Come along with me, out this door."

Marcia suddenly felt trapped. They really meant that she could not go home. They meant to keep her here, goodness knows how long. They probably would lock her up in a cell.

"Will all this be in the newspaper?" she asked the stout woman.

"That's the least I'd fret about if I was in your shoes," the stout woman replied.

"But it's important," Marcia said. "Not for my sake, but for the sake of my family."

"It's too bad you didn't think of that sooner." The lines around the woman's mouth became more set, if possible.

"I haven't done anything wrong," Marcia said.

"They all say that," the woman laughed again.

She, too, then, was ready to believe the worst of Marcia. Would anyone believe the truth?

The woman led Marcia into a small room. It had a cot with a white spread. It did not look like a cell; there were no iron bars or the kind of thing you read about. Yet Marcia knew she must stay here, against her will.

"You look about dead beat," the woman said. For Marcia had sunk down on the bed, covering her face a moment with both hands. "Would you like some coffee? I can get you some. Then you can rest."

"Thank you," Marcia tried to smile. Her lips felt so dry it was an effort. It would be good to rest; hot coffee would taste wonderful.

Why hadn't Mr. Scott come? Maybe the doctor had not been able to reach him. Or maybe Mr. Scott had come and gone away, having been told he must wait, let justice take its course.

The steaming, fragrant liquid tasted wonderful. Then she stretched out, and the narrow hard bed felt wonderful too. It felt so wonderful that almost instantly she fell into a deep sleep. She did not waken until she felt someone shake her by one shoulder.

It was the same stout woman. Behind her stood another policeman.

"Come along," the woman said. "I want a lawyer," Marcia said. "Before I say anything more. Before I go anywhere."

The woman laughed, but not as she had before. She allowed her face to relax somewhat. "You'll have one—the best," she said. "When the time comes for a trial, if it does, you're out on bail. I woke you so's you could leave."

"You mean I can go now?"

"For the time being, anyhow," the woman said. "Follow me again."

She led the way back the long same hallway, into the same room. But the first person Marcia saw was Mr. Scott. She ran toward him, almost stumbling, she was so glad to see his kind face.

He caught her, held her. "There, there now," for Marcia had buried her head against his chest. "It's too bad, a shame... all you've been through, my dear. Too bad it took so long to straighten things out. I tried my best to hurry them up all day, but it's all right now. Everything's all right."

"You bet it is!" someone else said. A voice so familiar that Marcia's head came up so she could see if her eyes could believe her ears.

It was Tommy MacIntyre, standing behind Mr. Scott. Tommy, wearing his familiar boyish wide grin, his blue eyes looking down into hers, full of the same look they always held when he saw her. There was no doubt as to the trust, the love shining in them.

Australia's Only Film Studio To Be Closed Down

SYDNEY, Australia. (AP)—Australia's only major film production center, Pagewood Studios, is to close down. Trade circles say the closing will be a severe setback for the Australian film industry.

Ealing's of London, which operates the studios, has decided to close them because it has been refused permission by Capital Issues Control to raise $42,000 to finance the making of a full-length film—"Robbery Under Arms."

Ken G. Hall, of Cinesound, Ltd., said that the permission to raise the capital had been refused because film production was not an essential industry in Australia. The picture was to have had a worldwide release under the J. Arthur Rank banner.

Moslem Leaders Protest Showing Of U.S. Movie

SINGAPORE. (AP)—Moslem leaders in this British Colony—scene of a bitter religious riot in December, 1950—have formally the showing here of the film "David and Bathsheba."

"It has pained the Moslem leaders to find at a time when we are celebrating the birthdays of Jesus and of Mohamed that the authorities have allowed to be shown in this city a picture vilifying the memory of our prophet, David," a member-elect of the legislative council said.

"To portray this noble messenger of God as done in the picture is an insult to his memory and we Moslems hope that the leaders of other religions will aid in getting the picture banned," he said.

Takes Blame For Biting Friend

TELUK ANSON, Malaya. (AP)—A young Chinese girl, charged with failure to muzzle her dog and allowing him to bite another girl, told the court:

"My dog did not bite her. It was I who bit her in a quarrel." The girl, 16, was found guilty and fined.

The Sport Reflector

By JIMMY ELLIS

The Kinston Red Devils, defending champions in the Northeastern Conference, are complaining about a lack of real competition when they play in their new gymnasium. The latest complaint came after the Devils had solidly licked the Greenville Phantoms last Friday night.

The Red Devils started the season with losses to three Eastern AAA Conference teams but seemed to improve when they moved in their spacious Grainger High School gym. Since they started play in the new gym, they have won only one game, a Northeastern Conference affair to the Roanoke Rapids Yellow Jackets. That game was played at Roanoke Rapids.

In their latest conference outings, the Red Devils really awaked the two clubs which had been rated the strongest in the conference. They held Dick Cherry to six points in beating the previously undefeated Washington Pam-Pack and then turned around three days later to hold Smith Worthington down to just a few points in beating the Phantoms. Both games were played in the Kinston gym.

In both games, the Devils' opponents went scoreless for long periods of time. In the Washington-Kinston game, the Pam-Pack was held without a point for ten minutes and forty seconds while the Phantoms were held scoreless for 11 minutes and 30 seconds.

The Devils have now won eight straight games on their home court. They've done it on a terrific offensive performance in each game plus some tip-top defensive play.

It's beginning to look as if the Devils are the team which is going to represent the Northeastern Conference in the State AA tournament again this year. No other conference club has yet proved that it is better than Amos Sexton's team.

Specialists at Saturday night's Kinston-East Carolina game can look forward to a scrap of the knock-down, drag-'em-out quality.

In the first meeting of the two teams, last Saturday night at Kinston, the Christians came out on the long end of a 59-54 score which kept them perched in first place in the North State Conference. Since that time they've added a victory over Appalachian which gives them a clear shot for the number one seeding in the North State tournament which will be held the last three days of February.

Elon's victory last night over Appalachian was their seventh straight in North State competition. It was also their tenth consecutive win.

Incidentally, the Christians have already started figuring on some added strength for next season. Bob Burgess, the 6-4 Burlington All-Stater in 1951, has enrolled at Elon. Burgess started out the season at Wake Forest but transferred from the Baptist school when he didn't get to play any.

Burgess has been quoted as saying that he doesn't want to play second string to Dickie Henric for four years.

The East Carolina Pirates were kept in the middle of the mixed up North State standings with their pair of victories over the Western Carolina Teachers College Catamounts. They are now in fourth place with seven wins and four losses. They have games with Elon and Atlantic Christian at home and Catawba at Catawba.

The Pirates really looked sharp in their second game against WCTC Tuesday night even though it was their first contest in their four day road trip. Their passing was very good against the Cats and Sonny Russell, who scored only 11 points, led the show with some 15 assists during the game. That means that he passed 15 times to men who scored as a result of his aid.

Western Carolina's Little All-America ace, Ronald Rogers, proved himself to be the scoring ace that he's supposed to be. His knowledge of the backboards is almost uncanny and you have to see some of his shots to believe them. WCTC fans have grown used to his unusual shots but to a visitor, it's really something new.

Rogers seems to have one glaring fault: he doesn't play too hard when his team goes on defense. He's strictly a point maker.

Big Bobby Hodges got a sort of round-about tribute from WCTC Coach Jim Guder in the two games between EEC and WCTC. In the third quarter of both ball games, Guder sent instructions for his team to begin waiving their free throws.

When asked about it, Coach Guder, who pitched for two years with Rocky Mount, said this: "We were so far behind that we needed two points instead of one when we scored. By taking the ball out of bounds, we did retain possession of it and got a chance, at least, for our two points. If we had taken the free throw and missed it, we would have not only lost the possible point but would have lost the ball as well. Bobby Hodges was giving any one any rebounds that he could reach himself."

It might be a safe estimate to say that Hodges came down with over 50 per cent of the rebounds of both clubs during the two games.

Kentucky Pacing Nation With 83.3 Per Game Scoring Average; West Virginia Is Rated Fifth

NEW YORK—(AP)—If Kentucky, the nation's No. 1 college basketball team, continues its present scoring pace, the Wildcats will set a per-game scoring record.

The present mark is 82.5 set by Rhode Island State in 1947. Kentucky is going along at the rate of 83.5 points-per-game through last Saturday, according to statistics released today by the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau.

Even if the Wildcats don't break Rhode Island State's standard, they are practically assured of becoming the only other major team in history to maintain an 80-point-per-game record over an entire season.

Defensive figures show Oklahoma A and M ruling the roost with a low average yield of 44.5 points-per-game, followed closely by Oklahoma City with 45.9.

Furman leads in field goal percentages (40.8) and Drake in free throw accuracy (70.8), while Seton Hall has committed the fewest personal per game (17.1) and Indiana the most (28.4).

The offensive leaders:

Buckeye Swimmer Sets Dual Record

COLUMBUS, O.—(AP)—Ohio State's 300-yard medley relay swimming team set an unofficial world record last night as the Buckeyes defeated Indiana 59-34 in a dual meet.

The trio of back-stroker Jack Taylor, breast-stroker Jerry Holan, and free-styler Dick Cleveland plunged through the 300-yard medley in 2:47.1, Michigan set the recognized world mark of 2:49.1 in 1948.

McLeod with 23 points, trailed by Bob Callicutt with 17. Joe Popp led Catawba with 15.

Salary Stabilization Board To Get Request On Baseball Issue

NEW YORK—(AP)—John Kieran today would recommend to the salary stabilization board that its new order governing baseball pay ceilings be relaxed to meet critical situations.

Kieran, former sports columnist, served as a one-man panel at a hearing here yesterday when baseball's legal representatives branded the government's policy as "unworkable."

The decree issued Jan. 17 stipulates that a club's overall payroll budget for 1952 can't exceed that of 1951. It also gives the club the privilege of fixing its salary scale on a formula based on any season's payroll between 1946 and 1950, plus ten per cent.

In the past, the government's salary restrictions dealt with individuals, limiting player salaries to the highest pay received by a member of the club.

The new order is quite different and some of the clubs were caught off guard and will have to make adjustments," Kieran said after the two-hour hearing. "I am sympathetic with baseball's problems. I'll recommend special cases be taken care of."

Louis F. Carroll, attorney for the National League, said the latest order worked a hardship on such clubs as the Brooklyn Dodgers, who had about two-thirds of their players signed when the formula was announced, and the St. Louis Browns, who would like to rebuild by signing more high-salaried players.

Other sport leasers—football, basketball and hockey—testified they could operate within the new government edict.

Groat Selected As Best Athlete

HIGH POINT—(AP)—A pair of All-Americans—Duke's Dick Groat and Eddie Jordan of the Winston-Salem Hanes basketball team—have been chosen top Carolina amateur athletes of 1951 and will receive the annual Teague Awards.

Each won convincingly in a poll of 29 Carolina sports writers to determine the top performers of last year. They'll be honored late this month at a banquet. The city in which the awards will be made has not yet been selected.

Groat, All-America baseball player by vote of the nation's coaches last year and second-team All-American on the Associated Press basketball roster last season, is continuing his great play at Duke this year.

Eddie Jordan, All-American selection following her outstanding play as Hanes won national AAU honors last year, is also a fine tennis and softball performer.

With votes on a 5-1 point basis, Groat picked up 107 in the final balloting. Runner-up Steve Wladak, University of South Carolina half-back, gained 33 points and Jimmy Thomas, the University of North Carolina's great swimmer, was third with 27. Other point totals:

Bill George, Wake Forest, 22; Billy Hair, Clemson, 11; German Miller, Canton, 10; Sam Ranzino, North Carolina State, 5; and Jimmy Slaughter, South Carolina, 4.

George starred in football and wrestling; Hair excelled in football and baseball; Miller stood out in softball and Ranzino and Slaughter were basketball brilliants.

Two ski tows, each 250 yards long, will be in operation for the first time in Scotland this year at a Perthshire ski club.

Hairston-Villeman Battle To Draw; Rematch Sought

DETROIT (UP)—A rematch between Robert Villeman of France and Eugene (Silent) Hairston of New York appeared likely today before either gets a crack at the middleweight title.

The two contenders battled to a 10-round draw last night before 7,859 fans at Olympia A championship bout with Sugar Ray Robinson had been promised the winner by the International Boxing Club.

Hairston, weighing 160-34, seemed well on his way to victory, a title bout in the early rounds, against Villeman, 162-12. However, the stocky pride of France rattled gamely and had Hairston worn down at the end.

Both Hairston, a dead-mite, and Villeman, who does not speak English, appeared pleased at the decision. Jean Bretonnel, Villeman's manager, said, "We will keep trying until we get another chance at the title."

Judge Jack Asperly awarded the first three rounds to Hairston, gave Villeman the fourth, seventh and ninth and called the others even. He ruled a draw.

Judge Joe Lenahan scored his card in favor of Villeman in the third, fourth and ninth rounds, gave Hairston the fifth and seventh and called the others even. He favored Villeman on points, 51 to 49.

Referee Johnny Weber scored the third, fourth and ninth rounds in favor of the Frenchman, awarded Hairston the fifth, sixth and eighth with the other rounds even. He called the bout even.

Bobby Dodd Will Coach Collegians

CHICAGO—(AP)—Georgia Tech's Bobby Dodd will direct the 1952 college all-star squad in its Aug. 15 charity football game against the Los Angeles Rams.

Selection of the Georgia Tech member was announced yesterday by Arch Ward, sports editor of the Chicago Tribune, which sponsors the grid classic.

The 41-year-old Dodd guided Tech to an unbeaten season last year. The Ramblin' Wrecks won 10 games and tied one in a regular season play, then earned a 17-14 Orange Bowl decision over Baylor.

Dodd will be assisted by other head coaches to be selected.

Herb Thomas Top NASCAR Driver

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla.—(AP)—Some of the nation's top drivers split up $40,000 in 1951 prize money last night at the National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing's annual victory banquet.

Top NASCAR money winner was Herb Thomas of Olivia, N.C., who was handed a $2,264.50 check as winning driver and owner in last year's Grand National strictly stock championship.

NASCAR also presented about 100 trophies to drivers, owners and mechanics—including the John Naughton Sportsmanship Trophy voted to Mike Little of Youngstown, O., by NASCAR's 4,500 members.

Other 1951 champions were Wally Campbell of Trenton, N. J., modified division; Mike Klatka of Warren, O., sportsman division; and Roscoe Hough of Paterson, N. J., short track division.

El Paso Opening Set For Today

EL PASO, Tex.—(UP)—Henry Williams Jr., Ted Kroll and Tommy Bolt—three guys whose faces have become familiar at the payoff window along the winter golf trail this season—rated high among the favorites as the $10,000 El Paso Open tournament started today.

None had worn out much shoe leather while walking over to pick up checks for prize money until the 1952 tour started in California last month.

Since then, each has bagged one of the coveted $1,000 top awards—Bolt at Los Angeles, Kroll at San Diego and Williams only last Sunday at Tucson—as the more prominent pros came in further down the list.

Veterans Jimmy Demaret and Lloyd Mangrum also managed to pick up the top prizes at Pebble Beach and Phoenix, but Mangrum wasn't here as today's field of 144 teed off, and Demaret still shows the effects of that nerve-shattering 14 he took on the 18th hole at Tucson last week.

Palm Beach Women's Golf Match Enters Quarter-Finals Today After Blistering First Round Action Seen Yesterday

PALM BEACH, Fla. (UP)—Grace DeMoss of Corvallis, Ore., stepped gracefully into the favorite's role today as the Palm Beach Women's golf tournament advanced into its quarter final round.

Miss DeMoss faced Katherine McKinnon of Lake Worth, Fla., today after her smashing 7 and 6 victory over Mrs. J. W. Labisky of Columbus, O., yesterday.

Miss DeMoss, who won last week's International Four-Ball championship, kept ahead of her Ohio opponent all the way and displayed the soundest game seen in the tournament to date. Miss McKinnon easily defeated Jane Nelson of Indianapolis, 6 and 5, yesterday.

Polly Riley of Fort Worth, Tex., defending champion, also advanced into the quarter-finals yesterday with a 3 and 2 triumph over Mrs. George Wilcox of Miami, and Bea McWane of Birmingham beat Pat Devany of Grosse Isle, Mich., 6 and 5.

In other matches, Carol Dinger of Tiffin, O., defeated Mrs. Harold Stone of Ware Shoals, S. C., 7 and 5; Claire Doran of Cleveland beat Miami Lee Ashley of Gadsden, Ala., 1-up after 21 holes; Betty Rowland of Lexington, Ky., defeated Bonnie Colby of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., 1-up; Edean Anderson of Helena, Mont., beat Mary Agnes Wall of Memmore, Mich., 4 and 2; Barbara Romack of Sacramento, Calif., downed Jon Snyder of Wichita, Kan., 7 and 5; Marjorie Lindsay of Decatur, Ill., beat Mrs. James Howard of Palm Beach, 4 and 3; Pat Garner of Midland, Tex., defeated Maureen Riley of McKeesport, Pa., 5 and 4; Betty Knoedler of Pittsburgh beat Helen Hampton of Signal Mountain, Tenn., 1-up after 19 holes; Mary Ann Downey of Baltimore beat Catherine Fox Park of Bloomfield, N. Mobilization Chiefs In Big 'Squeeze' Over Regional Defense Plant Order

WASHINGTON (AP)— Defense mobilization officials were in a giant squeeze today, but they held their ground on a new order aimed at easing regional unemployment.

On one hand, there was pressure from communities like Lawrence, Mass., and Detroit, Mich. They wanted a bigger slice of defense business to put their machines and idle hands back to work.

On the other was an angry cry from the South, raised at the possibility of losing some of their own defense business.

In the middle was Charles E. Wilson, Defense Mobilizer, who put out an order Tuesday designed to channel some defense business into areas of critical unemployment.

He did it after urgent cries for help from labor leaders like Walter Reuther, head of the United Auto Workers (CIO), who held a special "we want jobs" convention here Jan. 13 with 600 auto workers.

From New England came textile mill officials, labor leaders and city councilmen. Give us defense contracts, they said.

The order set up a surplus manpower committee. Its members haven't been named. Its job: to investigate unemployment areas and defense facilities they have and report to Wilson.

Wilson then will tell the Defense Department that "it is in the public interest to give preference to such areas in the placement of contracts in accordance with the findings of the committee." These contracts would not necessarily be made on a low-bid basis. They could be negotiated.

Southerners see in the order a "life or death" proposition if it isn't administered fairly. That's what Senator Smith (D-NC) said at yesterday's hearing.

Senator Maybank (D-SC), committee chairman, said he was "not going to sit here and preside over the liquidation of the Southern textile industry."

A large part of the textile industry has moved from New England to the South.

Maybank, whose committee is about to start work on extending the Production Act—the basic price and wage control law—after the hearing ended that he had great confidence in Wilson and felt the order, if administered properly, might work out all right.

Evidence Grows Like Being Urged To Return Home

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)— Evidence multiplied today that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's supporters are building up pressure for him to return home and help them corral the Republican presidential nomination.

In the face of this, Senator Brewster (R-Me) predicted to this reporter that if present political trends continue, Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio will have the GOP nomination "sewed up" within a few weeks.

Brewster said he believes Taft will make "a good showing" in the March 11 New Hampshire primary, where he is entered against Eisenhower.

Taft left his name on the primary ballot with the assertion that he would be running against the odds, since most top Republican leaders in New Hampshire have lined up for Eisenhower. Former Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota also has entered the GOP race there.

While the general's backers remained outwardly confident Eisenhower will sweep the primary, some of them said privately they hope he can come home before the vote.

Senator Cain (R-Wash) told the Senate yesterday that there is "some reason to believe that General Eisenhower may request to be relieved of his present assignment during the course of this year so that he might return to the United States."

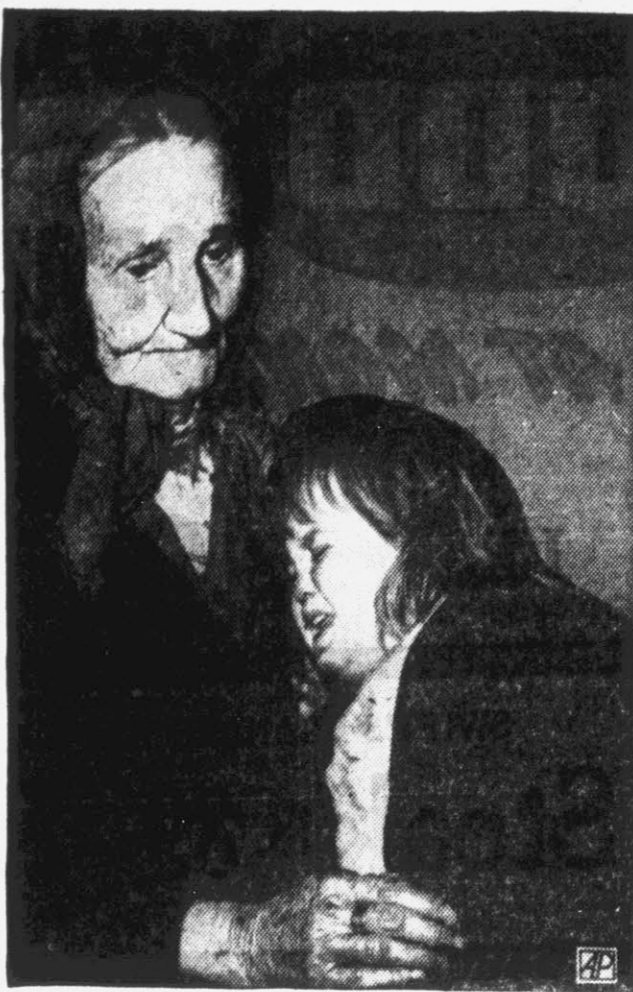

Cain is generally regarded as being friendly to Taft.

The Eisenhower supporters were said to be planning to demand that Congress ask the general to testify on the foreign military and economic aid bill.

Backers believe this might give him a chance to say that his preliminary organization work is done in Europe. They figure this might lead to a situation in which Truman might make the first move toward returning Eisenhower to civilian life.

Taft forces picked up two convention delegates in Oklahoma yesterday in their effort to stem an Eisenhower uprising aimed at gaining a majority of the state's 16-vote delegation.

As the count stood thus far, Eisenhower had five delegates either committed or favorable to him, Taft had three, one favored Gen. Douglas MacArthur and another was uncommitted.

A CHILD'S GRIEF—Four-year-old Ruby Fay Ball is grief-stricken as she sits on the lap of her grandmother, Mrs. Lettie Ball, 61, at Sevierville, Tenn., after her six-year-old brother, Thomas Ball, died to death. Sheriff Roy Whaley said the child's father, Thomas Ball, 38-year-old laborer has been charged with murder. Whaley said Ball beat the boy to death in a drunken rage. He said the beating was witnessed by little Ruby Fay. (AP Wirephoto)

Praised Caudle Before Dismissal

WASHINGTON (AP)— President Truman wrote T. Lamar Caudle a letter of praise just 28 days before he fired him as an Assistant Attorney General.

But, the White House said, the letter was written before Mr. Truman received definite information about Caudle's "outside activities" which led to the Nov. 16 ousting.

Radio commentator Ned Brooks, who told story of the letter in a broadcast (NBC) last night, said it was written Oct. 19 at a time when the President, by his own words, said he knew of charges against Caudle.

The White House said this was true — But the President at the time had received only unsubstantiated reports which were not verified until early November.

The letter, according to Brooks and confirmed by the White House, grew out of a visit the President made to Winston-Salem, N. C. Oct. 15 to make a speech. Caudle, of North Carolina, went along.

Later Caudle wrote the President a letter paying him a compliment and passing on another by Jess Larson, head of the General Services Administration.

In reply, the President said in part: "Men like you and Jess Larson make it possible to carry on in this job."

Brooks said if Mr. Truman really knew about Caudle's activities before a tax scandal probe made them public, there is only one conclusion to be drawn from the letter: "And that is that he didn't regard Caudle's improprieties as having any great importance."

Too Much Brass Says Corporal In Seeking Divorce

Detroit (AP)— His wife became a Second Lieutenant and "tossed her rank around," complains Cpl. William J. Thompson.

He asked for a divorce yesterday in testimony filed for a court hearing later. He expects to be sent to Korea soon.

The wife, now at Fort Lee, Va., has not filed an answer yet.

Thompson said when he met his wife in Germany a year and a half ago she was just a Sergeant "and everything was fine."

But by the time they were married Jan. 2, Ruth had been promoted to Lieutenant, the Corporal said, "everything was changed. She said she didn't love me any more."

"She said she intended to make a career in the Army," Thompson said. "I don't want an Army brass hat for a wife."

Agent 'Let Down' Police In Raid

CHICAGO (AP)— Police commissioner Timothy J. Conroy suspended a lieutenant yesterday and discredited the officer's part in a raid on a saloon last Friday.

An undercover agent sent to a South Side saloon by Conroy telephoned the commission. The 40 persons were playing poker and blackjack. Conroy called. Lieut. George Mankowsky of the Woodlawn Station and ordered him to raid the place and arrest everyone in it.

The police hammered in the front door, after some difficulty, but they forgot to cover the back door. All the patrons fled through the unguarded rear door.

One man who failed to flee was seized by police. Mankowsky telephoned Conroy and told him what had happened. But, he added, he had one prisoner—who claimed he was a policeman.

N. C. Eisenhower Leaders Chosen

LEXINGTON, N. C. (AP)—Hobart Morton of Albemarle, a former assistant U. S. district attorney, will head a North Carolina central committee for Eisenhower.

The announcement was made yesterday by Sima Delapp on behalf of the Eisenhower for President national headquarters.

The committee headed by Morton is composed of 11 men who are prominent in North Carolina Republican circles. The other members are:

Thomas J. Harkins of Asheville, former U. S. district attorney for the Western District of North Carolina.

Stuart W. Cramer, Charlotte business man.

L. M. Murphy of Greensboro, president of Southeastern Industries, Inc., and vice-president of the Dillard Paper Company.

Ralph Fisher of Brevard, a state legislator and leader in the American Legion.

J. S. White of Mebane, furniture manufacturer.

A. L. Butler of Clinton, former assistant chairman of the State Republican Executive Committee.

Fashion Show In High School Day

Events of High School Day at East Carolina College, April 4, will include a fashion show sponsored by the department of home economics, in which students from various high schools in the state will model clothes made in their classes.

Dr. Bessie McNeil, director of the department of home economics at East Carolina, has issued invitations to home economics departments in high schools in Eastern and Piedmont North Carolina to participate in the fashion show. According to plans, each school represented will choose a home economics student to appear in the show wearing a costume which she made in her high school class.

The fashion show will take place in the Austin auditorium at 2:00 o'clock in the afternoon on High School Day.

Student members of the home economics club at the college will assist Dr. McNeil and other faculty members of the department in staging the event.

The home economics department at the college will hold open house during High School Day, Dr. McNeil states. Visiting high school students on the campus for the day will be given an opportunity to see the classrooms, the food and clothing laboratories, and the Nursery School, and to inspect other work carried on in the department.

Grocery Store Is Entered; Believe Nothing Taken

Greenville police today were probing into an attempted robbery of the R. S. Pollard grocery store at 204 Wade street, here sometime early today.

The intruders entered the building from the front doors, the same means used by robbers who broke into the building eight months ago.

Pollard today stated that he could not miss anything from his store and believed that the person or persons who entered his store were looking for money. There was none in the store at the time.

When the store was robbed the last time, around $30 in cash was taken.

Local police are still investigating the robbery at the Double "N" Restaurant which occurred sometime yesterday.

No details on the robbery were available.

Negro Amvets In Organizing Meet

Pitt County's Negro Amvets met Tuesday night at Fleming Street School in Greenville and voted to name the recently organized post the Jones-Banks Post of the Amvets.

The post is named for Joshua B. Jones, who was killed in World War II, and Travis Banks, who lost his life in Korea.

The meeting was attended by a large number of veterans from every section of Pitt County, officers said, and was considered a success in every way.

At their first regular meeting, the veterans decided to have two meetings a month, dates to be announced over Radio Station WCTC and published in The Daily Reflector.

Post officers urged all Negro veterans to be alert for the announcements and not miss any of the meetings.

The hurricane sheared off all her rigging, leaving only the stumps of masts. The upper masts and booms dragged alongside, threatening to pound a hole in the side of the wooden ship. A fire alarm kept the crew busy. The ship finally was sighted and towed into Falmouth.

Another Venire In Lottery Trial

GREENSBORO—(AP)—Judge J. Will Pless has ordered another special venire to be drawn today for the trial of F. D. Smith and four former city policemen on charges of lottery conspiracy and bribery.

Only five jurors had been accepted last night out of the 58 jurors and veniremen called for the trial in Guilford Superior Court. The defense has excused 11 potential jurors without giving any reason, and 13 others for specific cause. Five others have been excused by mutual consent of prosecution and defense and Judge Pless has excused four others.

Kill Politico In Gangland Style

CHICAGO—(AP)—A Republican ward official, described as a vigorous foe of the so-called hoodlum element seeking domination of some of the city's wards, was slain in gangland style last night.

Seven shotgun blasts, apparently fired by two gunmen from an automobile, killed Charles Gross, 56, acting Republican committeeman of the 31st Ward.

The ambush occurred in the Humboldt Park district, as Gross reached a darkened section of the street in front of a church near North and Kedzie Avenues.

Gross, who lived a few blocks from the scene of the shooting, was shot down after he alighted from his car and walked towards North Avenue. He was struck by 26 pellets, one in his neck, on his right side and on his face. Police found seven 12 gauge shotgun shells on the pavement near his body.

Political spokesmen speculated opinion that the slaying stemmed from a steadily strengthening hoodlum encroachment into the ward's politics. They reported similar gangland invasion in several of the city's 50 wards.

Another Carlsen Was Sea-Hero 41 Years Ago

HOQUIAM, Wash.—(AP)—It's not unusual for a sea captain named Carlsen to battle a storm off the English coast trying to get to Falmouth. A Hoquiam stevedore boss, Fred Hedlin, 59, was reminded of this recently during the travail of the Flying Enterprise.

Forty-one years ago, Hedlin, then an 18-year-old seaman, says he was aboard a barque which was buffeted by a hurricane in the same waters. The barque was the Yemmer, a three-master three weeks out of Liverpool enroute to Mobile, Ala.

The hurricane sheared off all her rigging, leaving only the stumps of masts. The upper masts and booms dragged alongside, threatening to pound a hole in the side of the wooden ship. A fire alarm kept the crew busy. The ship finally was sighted and towed into Falmouth.

The Yemmer's captain was named K. R. Carlsen.

Beggar Girl Has Home, 'Parents'

SINGAPORE—(AP)—For six years, since the end of a war in which she lost her parents, little Packiam had been wandering the streets of Singapore as a beggar.

One day not long ago, the 11-year-old girl asked a young school-girl for alms. Replying that she had no money with her, the school-girl invited Packiam to go home with her to get something to eat. Packiam enjoyed her meal so much that the mother of her newly-found friend asked her to remain with them.

Packhouse Destroyed By Fire Early Today

The large pack house shown above, was gutted by flames early this morning around one o'clock. The building, located on the Alvin farm, near Grimesland off the Washington Highway, was a total loss, along with all contents. No estimate of the loss was made known.—Reflector Staff Photo by Roy Hardee

'Poo' Sweaters Examined By Chiefs

Greenville's Fire Chief George Garner (left) and Police Chief Guy C. Langston (right), are shown yesterday as they examined two of the "Poo" sweaters which have been uncovered in this vicinity. The sweaters, made of a highly combustible material, will burn at the touch of a flame and are the same type which have been causing so much trouble over the nation. The sweaters were purchased from a traveling peddler by a local citizen. The two chiefs have warned the public about the buying of the sweaters from peddlers.—Reflector Staff Photo by Roy Hardee

Capitol Square

(Continued From Page Four) years ago was the bloc voting of special groups, particularly organized labor and Negroes. That was the first time such bloc voting had occurred in North Carolina, but many observers think the present campaign is shaping up to occasion even larger influence of blocs and groups. Geography will not be an important factor. Neither the tradition of east-west rotation for governors, nor the array of urban against rural interests will materially influence individual voting. The division will be along economic and political lines rather than geographic. These lines are just as vague as the mythical division between east and west, town and country, and there is considerable overlapping in all areas.

CLASSIFICATION — For lack of better words the classifications are usually made as conservative and liberal, management and labor. These terms are inadequate, misleading and confusing, but they seem to be the best available. In the governor's race the commonly accepted classification is to label Umstead as conservative, Olive as liberal. Fact is, in some respects Umstead is more liberal than Olive, and in some Olive is more conservative than Umstead. The supreme court candidates are roughly classified with Parker and Phillips in the conservative group, Valentine, Gwyn and Elford in the liberal bracket. In the congressional races Parker and Crawford are classed with the liberals, Shuford with conservatives. In the twelfth district, Carlyle with conservatives and Tally with liberals in the seventh. Lines get all mixed up all across the board, because none of these designations are accurate or complete. All of them are running as Democrats, and each has elements of conservatism and liberalism, so that in final determination the contests will be decided on personal basis. But there will be perhaps more bloc and group voting than ever before, which means there will be a heavier vote in proportion to eligibility than ever before, with seven hundred thousand entirely probable in the Democratic primary.

Sudden Death Lurks Still On Battleground

By WILLY M. HORBACH AP Newsfeatures

VOSSENACK, Germany—Seven years after the war, danger and death still shadow the daily life of inhabitants of this little Huertergen village in the Eifel mountains, near the Belgian border.

For war at its fiercest passed this way. Ask any American GI or German soldier who survived the battles of the Huertergen forest. Even now hidden mines, dud bombs and other explosives are found by "he score in the region."

When the Allied forces crossed the German border near Aachen in the fall of 1944, Germany hurled most of her remaining troops in the West against the attacker. In the hilly woodlands of the Eifel, backed by the armored forces of the Siegfried Line, the German Wehrmacht checked the American advance.

Bloody weeks of hand-to-hand fighting, murderous artillery barrages and air bombardment followed. Every inch of the "Huertergenwald"—soon called the Devil's forest by battle-tired, desperate and exhausted GIs—was soaked with blood.

In the twilight of these once beautiful woods 50,000 American and German soldiers lost their lives. And even now farmers, lumberjacks, and members of mine-clearing squads are being killed or crippled by hidden explosives.

Most dangerous of all is the Wild Boars Ridge, northwest of Vossenack. It is still "off limits" and may be entered only by the mine squads.

Several thousand mines have been found here in the last few months, most of them made of plastics to evade the searching "feeler" of the mine detector.

Wild Boars Ridge still looks like it had been hit by a string of atomic bombs. No tree, no blade of grass was spared the fury of the murderous battle. Torn tree trunks loom against a grey, cloudy sky, typical for this region, their branches twisted to haunting images of the hands of fallen soldiers. Reconstruction proved almost impossible. Only one part of the Devil's Forest, the Germeter Ridge, has been cleared and reconverted to farmland for a group of settlers brought there by the government. So extensive is the damage to the Eifel forests that the government plans to build a factory just for the production of tar, the wood for it being taken from the destroyed trees.

More than 123,000 persons inhabited the Huertergen Kreis (county) before the war. In 1945 only 4,000 were left. Only 10 per cent of its buildings remained intact, most others were destroyed completely. Damage to private housing property runs up to 72 million dollars. One third of the farmland was left waste.

Susceptible?

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (AP)—Can cats get mumps? The question may be settled by doctors at the Children's Hospital of Philadelphia.

Sparky and Kathleen are both contributing blood to help answer the query. Sparky is the gray and white pet cat of Kathleen Eakin, 5, of nearby South Williamsport.

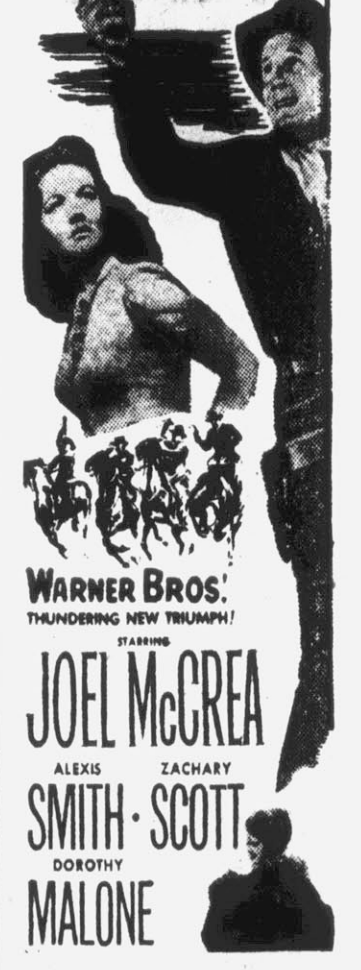

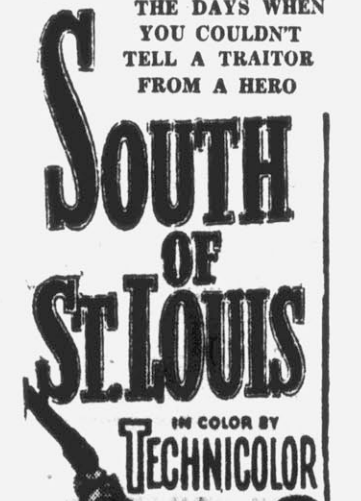

When Kathy developed mumps last week Sparky also blossomed forth with a set of king-sized swollen glands.

The hospital asked for blood samples. Sparky gave a specimen yesterday and Kathy, who is just getting over a cold, gives some today.

Trial Date Set For 4 Politicos On 'Job-Selling'

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Four pro-Truman Democrats charged with selling federal jobs in Mississippi are scheduled to go on trial on Feb. 14.

U. S. District Judge Allen Cox set the trial date yesterday after dismissing indictments charging five pro-Trumanites with perjury growing out of the jobs sales investigation.

A special grand jury returned 23 indictments against 12 persons, charging all 12 with conspiring to sell federal jobs, six with actually selling jobs, and five with perjury for allegedly lying to the committee under oath.

The conspiracy indictments were thrown out, all five of the perjury indictments were overturned and two of the indictments charging actual job sales were dismissed. Two other conspiracy defendants pleaded guilty. Only four indictments remain.

Judge Cox dismissed the job sales indictments against Roy Brasher and Jimmy Wilkinson because the indictments alleged they sold jobs that never existed.

He threw out the conspiracy indictments because of "milk-and-honey and prejudicial" language used in them and the perjury indictments because the government failed to include in them the name of the person who administered the oath.

Defendants still under indictment for actually peddling federal patronage are Forest Jackson, attorney for the pro-Truman state committee Curtis Rogers, secretary of the committee and Curtis Beasley and Dewey McLeod, committee organizers.

Those freed of perjury charges by yesterday's ruling included Jackson, Rogers, Brasher, Wilkinson and Henry Degrow, a pro-Truman faction member.

Fears Loss Of Agriculture Gain

WINSTON-SALEM (AP)—Governor W. Kerr Scott believes current political trends threaten to sweep away all the social and economic gains agriculture has made in the last quarter century.

He told the Forsyth County Grange yesterday that an address made by "a Virginia senator" a few days ago—presumably Senator Byrd—had set the theme. It has been echoed in the mid-west and on the west coast, he said. The address called for cuts in expenditures which could mean nothing less than a cur-

Newsman To Tell How Reds Tried To Blame Nazis

WASHINGTON (AP)—An American newsman will tell congressmen today how Russian authorities tried to blame the German Nazis for the massacre of 10,000 Polish officers in World War II.

Henry Cassidy, former chief of the Associated Press Bureau in Moscow and now news editor of NBC, has been called to testify before a special House committee in Katyn Forest.

Four witnesses have told the committee already that the Russians shot and strangled the Polish prisoners whose bodies were found by Germans.

Cassidy was one of a group of Moscow foreign correspondents taken by the Soviets to view mass graves at Katyn in mid-January 1944. The forest is 63 miles west of Smolensk.

The Nazis located the graves the previous April when they overran Smolensk. Berlin immediately broadcast the news and said the Soviets had done the killing.

Moscow authorities answered the charge within 48 hours with the claim that the Nazis had killed the prisoners after capturing the area. Tadeusz Romer, former Polish Ambassador to Moscow, testified that Soviet authorities had refused until then to answer official Polish inquiries as to the whereabouts of 15,000 missing Polish officers.

A former Polish soldier, wearing a pillow-slip mask to hide his identity because he has relatives behind the Iron Curtain, testified yesterday that he witnessed the shooting or burial alive of 200 Polish officers in Katyn Forest. The date was early November, 1939.

ACL Prepares Big Bond Issue

WILMINGTON (AP)—The Atlantic Coast Line Railroad Company plans a $22 million bond issue. The plans were announced yesterday by C. McC. Davis, the railroad's president.

Davis said the purpose of the new issue was to refund the remaining $22 million of ACL consolidated bonds maturing July 1, 1952. An equal amount of new 20-year general mortgage series E bonds, bearing a June 30, 1952, date, with a four and one-quarter per cent interest coupon, has been disposed of at par, Davis said.
