Query On Exhuming Graves Put To Board Of Aldermen

Street And Sewerage Issues Also Raised In Session; Recreation Area Plans Approved

By JESS POINDEXTER, Reflector Staff Writer. A grave but most certainly dead issue presented a rather earthy problem to the Board of Aldermen last night. They plan to dig up more information on the subject within the next few weeks.

Three street lights were authorized for the College Park development to brighten a "dangerously dark" condition there. A property owner on East Second Street, who had previously ordered a carload of crushed stone for the street, requested that the city pay half the cost of the stone.

Consolidation Of Negro Schools In County Planned

Barring Unforeseen Delays, Program Will Be Ready By This Coming Fall

Plans for the consolidation of a number of Negro schools in the county are underway but are subject to final approval by the State Board of Education. D. H. Conley, superintendent of the Pitt County Schools, said yesterday the Pitt County Board of Education is working on the consolidation of Negro schools in order to establish central schools that would take students from smaller schools.

Brief Rites Highlighted By Colorful Pageantry; Few Subjects See Their New Queen, Retires Once Again Into Semi-Seclusion

London (UP) — Elizabeth II was proclaimed queen of the realm today and called on God's help to "discharge worthily this heavy task that has been laid upon me so early in my life."

The 25-year-old queen, regal in a black dress, took the oath of accession before a distinguished assemblage of lords and statesmen in historic St. James Palace. "My heart is too full to say more to you today than that I shall always work, as my father did, throughout his reign, to uphold constitutional government and to advance the happiness and prosperity of my peoples—spread as they are the world over," Elizabeth said.

George Perry Guest Artist At Chatham Club

George R. Perry, faculty member, pianist and organist of the music department of East Carolina College, was guest artist for the Chatham Book Club when it met at the home of Mrs. W. D. Tucker on Wednesday afternoon, February 6.

His numbers included "Air of the G. Strings," "Christ Lay in the Bonds of Death" by Bach, "Second Movement from Sonata in C Minor" by Beethoven, "Waltz in F Minor," "Mazurka in F Minor" and "Etudes No. 10 and 11, opus 10" by Chopin. His final selection was "Voices" by Debussy.

Review Of Book Given At Club By Mrs. Bilbro

The Club Book Club met with Mrs. R. G. Lang Tuesday, February 5, at her home on Library Street.

Beautiful spring flowers and greenery decorated her home. Mrs. James Moye, the president, presided over a short business meeting. An announcement was made about the display of articles made by the blind workers in Pitt County, which will be for sale February 13 and 14 at Frank Wilson's Store.

For the program, Mrs. Lang introduced Mrs. A. T. Bilbro, who reviewed the current best seller, "A Man Called Peter," written by his wife, Catherine Marshall. This biography of Dr. Peter Marshall is the true story of one of the most widely acclaimed Presbyterian ministers of recent years. During his short life, his wonderful leadership, sermons, prayers and example of living have left their mark on thousands of people, through his approach in bringing God into every day living. In summing up this book, Mrs. Bilbro said it reminded her of the saying by Keats, "A thing of beauty is a joy forever."

During the social hour, the hostess, assisted by Mrs. John Adams, served a delicious dessert with salted nuts and coffee.

After the exchange of books the club adjourned.

Junior Club Elects New Officers For Coming Year

At a business meeting of the Junior Women's Club on Wednesday evening, new officers for the year 1952-1953 were elected.

The slate was presented by the nominating committee and was unanimously adopted.

The officers as elected are: president, Mrs. Howard Gradis; first vice president, Miss Marian Perry; second vice president, Mrs. Bill Watson; recording secretary, Mrs. R. E. Mintz; treasurer, Mrs. Malcolm Williams; corresponding secretary, Miss Helen Perkins; historian, Mrs. Larry Averette; reporter, Mrs. Kenneth Hite; parliamentarian, Mrs. R. C. Pearce Jr. advisor, Mrs. J. B. Spilman; Institute director, Mrs. Thomas Brown.

The membership committee, of which Mrs. Howard Gradis is chairman, presented three new members for induction into the club. They were Mrs. W. B. Ellington, Mrs. H. L. Davis and Mrs. E. S. Jones.

The members voted to send $73.25 to the Children's Home Society, a state project for the Junior Clubs.

This money was made at the Bake Sale which was held by the club on January 26. They also discussed the giving of a gift to the local club house from members of the Junior Club.

The Watson Memorial Fund Committee reported that $95 had been spent during the month of January for medicine and hospitalization for children.

A donation to the March of Dimes was voted and there was some discussion about the publicity for the annual Bread Sale which the club holds in the spring to raise funds for the Watson Memorial account.

Members were urged to bring discarded children's clothing to the next meeting for shipment overseas. The only other matter of interest was a proposal to sponsor an art poster contest among children of the city and county elementary schools in the spring. This matter was referred for further study.

After the election of officers, the hostesses served hot coffee and doughnuts. Hostesses were Mrs. Ruth Williams and Mrs. R. D. Harrington.

Special Sermon Sunday At Christian Church

At the Sunday morning worship hour at the Eighth Street Christian Church, a special message centered around the Christian home will be presented by the minister, the Rev. H. G. Haney.

He will speak on the theme, "Till Death Do Us Part," a time-honored part of the marriage ceremony, Mrs. J. D. Wilson, Jr. will sing as a solo "If God Left Only You."

It is the hope of the pastor that husbands and wives will attend and sit together for this service which is dedicated to the constancy of marital love.

On Tuesday evening of next week the Fireside Club will meet at 8:00 p. m. with Mr. and Mrs. Preston Cannon on East Tenth street. All members are cordially invited to attend.

More than 25 representatives from the Christian Church are expected to be in attendance at the city-wide training school for teachers, officers and workers in the church schools of the city which begins on Sunday night at Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church.

The ministers and their wives of the Christian Churches of North Carolina will hold their annual Retreat during February 12-14. The Retreat will be held at Atlantic Christian College in Wilson and will feature a series of addresses by Dr. D. Ray Lindley, president of the college there. Dr. Lindley will speak on "The Development of Church Organization." Also present for talks and discussions will be Dr. G. Walker Buckner, Jr., editor of World Call, a Christian Church publication.

Grifton News

Episcopal Auxiliary
On Monday night the Episcopal Auxiliary met in regular session at the home of Mrs. Eleanor Gover. Mrs. Bryan Davis conducted the devotional and the business session which was brief.

An interesting program was presented by Mrs. Alton Chapman who gave the reasons for the customs and usage of the form of worship in the church, telling of the observance of the seasons, Lent, Advent and others.

During the social hour Mrs. Gover served ice cream and cake.

Grifton Book Club
The Grifton Book Club met on Tuesday afternoon for the February meeting with Mrs. Robert Mewborn. All members were present for roll call. Afternoon in response to roll call. Words often mispronounced were given and discussion followed.

The paper of the afternoon was given by Mrs. Mewborn, in the study of North Carolina which is the subject for the year. Mrs. Merborn told of old churches. She gave an interesting preliminary as to why and how the different denominations got their start in this state. Then she told of the oldest churches in short accounts which were interesting to her listeners.

At the tea hour a salad plate with hot tea was passed.

Entertain At Bridge
Mrs. Jake Worthington had players for two tables of bridge on Wednesday night at her home here. Potted plants were used as decorations.

During the games Mrs. Claud Hart scored high for club members. Mrs. W. E. Rasberry for visitors, and the consolation went to Mrs. J. S. Chapman.

Mrs. Worthington served open faced sandwiches, cakes and iced drinks.

Enthusiastic Audience At Twin Piano Concert

Virginia Morley and Livingston Gearhart, duo-pianists, played last night at East Carolina College before an audience which received with enthusiastic applause a program of selections ranging from Bach to the artists' popular hit, the encore "Baby Boogie."

Young and attractive in appearance, the American piano team pleased the approximately 1000 people who heard them with their informative and pleasantly humorous comments on each composition, the artistry of their performance, and the varied nature of their program.

The concert was sponsored by the East Carolina Entertainment Committee as one of a series of six programs presented during the school year. Students and faculty members and patrons of the Entertainment Series from Greenville and other eastern North Carolina towns attended.

George Gearhart's, "An American in Paris" won the young pianists their first prolonged applause of the evening. Poplar also were Gearhart's own arrangements of the Rachmaninoff "Prelude in G Minor" and the "Rosenkavalier Waltzes" of Strauss.

Other selections included compositions by Bach, Brahms, Ravel, Offenbach, and Debussy. Among encores were an arrangement by the pianists for the Fred Warin programs of "Three Blind Mice," the Arensky Waltz, and Rimsky-Korsakov's "Flight of the Bumble Bee."

The East Carolina Entertainment Committee announces as coming attractions on its program for February a program by Frankel and Ryder, dancers, and a concert and dance at which Ray Anthony and his orchestra will play.

Ballard's X Roads

Using as his theme "World Missions," Rev. C. D. Patterson preached a very interesting and informative sermon on this phase of the work of the church at Ballard's Sunday morning. There were 76 present for Sunday school.

BETTER VISION BETTER SHOPPING

Shopping is supposed to be one of woman's most enjoyable pleasures. But some women find it tiring. After a day of examining price tags and materials, a day spent in stores chock full of all kinds of merchandise — they arrive home headachy and tired and irritable.

Poor vision is often to blame. When eyesight defects are corrected, shopping returns to its place as a pleasure. Keen eyesight can buy better, too — bargains are really bargains.

New Factories Showing Gain In Greenville Area

(Special to the Reflector)—NEW YORK—The number of manufacturing plants in Pitt County is on the increase. This is shown in figures just released by the U. S. Department of Commerce based on social security tax reports filed by employers. The report covers every county in the United States.

A total of 61 manufacturing enterprises—small, medium and large—is recorded locally. Of this number, 18 are places with not more than three employees each. Those with four to seven employees also number 18 and the ones having eight to nineteen add up to 10. The remainder are larger companies.

The data was gleaned from wage reports submitted to the Federal Security Agency for the first quarter of 1949 in connection with the social security program.

The 61 factories in Pitt County represent a gain over the previous year when 53 were reported.

This increase, 15.1 percent, compares favorably with the progress made in the rest of the nation in the period. For the United States the gain was 4.1 percent and, in North Carolina, 2.4 percent.

Small manufacturing enterprises are well established in the county, the figures indicate. There are 46 firms, or 76 percent of the total, with less than twenty employees each. This is a somewhat greater concentration than is found elsewhere in the country, where plants of such size represent only 69 percent of the entire number.

In North Carolina businesses of the size constitute 66 percent of the number of such enterprises.

Some of the recent gains in production activity locally are attributed to work in connection with the defense preparedness program. Nationally, the figures show, there are approximately 275,000 factories, employing nearly 15 million people.

Adenauer Warns Soviet Army Is Ready To March

BONN, Germany—(AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer warned the West German people today that a vast Russian military machine is pressed against the Elbe and can march against West Europe "within 24 hours" if the Kremlin gives the signal.

Interrupting debate on his proposal to raise 12 German divisions for the European army, Adenauer said the first shock of a Russian attack would have to be borne by American, British and French forces in West Germany but the Germans could not expect the allied troops to do everything for them.

German soldiers, he declared, are essential to counter-balance the Soviet power.

His warning came amid sharp criticism of his policy, particularly from the bitterly anti-rearmament Socialists. The chancellor was having trouble within his own fold as well. The second largest faction in his coalition government, the Free Democratic Party, said last night it would agree to arming West Germany only if the Bonn Republic gets membership in the North Atlantic Treaty Organisation (NATO) and if "all still imprisoned former German soldiers" are released.

The two-day preliminary debate on the army proposal was expected to conclude this afternoon. No final decision on the question was planned for several weeks, but government parties were reported framing a resolution on which to hold a test vote of parliamentary sentiment on Adenauer's plans to call up 300,000 to 400,000 German soldiers for the projected six-nation European army.

Portion Of Red Tape Eliminated

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The Senate Investigations Committee says it has stopped the Commerce Department from requiring businessmen to furnish 75 copies of applications for authority to make overseas shipments.

Chairman Hoey (D-NC) said "75 copies were from two to three times as many copies as were actually required for the processing of these applications."

Hoey said in a statement yesterday that under the regulations of the Office of International Trade in the Commerce Department, business firms should have to supply only two copies of such applications.

But at least in some instances, he said, companies had been asked to furnish the other copies for distribution to the National Production Authority and other interested agencies.

Actually, Hoey said, it is the Commerce Department's job to make the necessary copies.

Some of the applications cover 30 typewritten pages, the Senator said.

War On Birds Brings Guard

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Edward E. Merkel's latest attempt to keep the starlings off the federal reserve bank brought out the guard.

The building manager had the structure sand blasted last spring. To keep it clean, he has since tried loud speakers, electric lights, rags and some fake owls. All failed to keep off the starlings.

Last night he tried a clapped made of two hinged pieces of board. That made a loud noise and a guard came running. He said one of his assistants had reported gun fire.

Merkel doesn't know yet what the starlings' reaction is.

Age And Service Stripes Clashed

KNOXVILLE, Tenn.—(AP)—A Tar Heel youth of 20 whose Army travel orders credit him with 24 years of service will be arraigned here today on charges of wearing an Army uniform illegally.

FBI agents said Charles Ivey Brown Jr. of Kannapolis was wearing Staff Sergeant chevrons, a Korean decoration, a Combat Infantryman's Badge, the Philippine Service Ribbon and the European and American Theater ribbons when arrested.

Brown's story was that he traded his civilian clothing to a drunk in Chattanooga in exchange for the uniform last month.

Pittman Drops From Race For Lt. Governor

RALEIGH—(AP)—Former State Senator J. C. Pittman, long considered a candidate for Lieutenant governor, has withdrawn from the race.

Pittman, a Sanford attorney, issued a statement yesterday saying he will not "have the time to wage the kind of campaign necessary in a hotly contested statewide contest and for that reason has decided not to become a candidate."

Mayor Marshall Kurfees of Winston-Salem and former State Senator Roy Rowe of Burgaw have filed for the post and Luther Hodges, Lennoxville textile executive, has announced he is a candidate.

Others mentioned as possible candidates include W. Frank Taylor of Goldsboro, Speaker of the 1951 House; and State Senator John D. Larkins, Jr., of Trenton.

Sombre Duke Of Windsor Sailing To King's Funeral

NEW YORK—(AP)—The Duke of Windsor sailed for England to attend funeral service for the man to whom he gave Britain's throne—his brother, George VI.

He was traveling aboard the liner Queen Mary, due at Southampton next Wednesday. His wife stayed behind in New York.

It was a somber Duke who boarded the ship here last night, a black band of mourning on his arm.

"This voyage," he said, "is indeed sad—and it is all the sadder for me because I am undertaking it alone."

Beside him stood his Duchess—the American for whom he abdicated his throne.

The former monarch continued, reading a prepared statement in quiet tones:

Fellow Prisoners Put Up Bond For Attending Rites

RALEIGH—(AP)—Because fellow prisoners put up $500 bond, an inmate of the Lee County Prison Camp will attend his father's funeral.

Paroles Commissioner T. C. Johnson said the prisoner, Elwood Rivenbark, left last night for Pennsylvania. Prison rules call for a $500 bond when a prisoner is temporarily paroled to go out of the state.

Rivenbark's family was unable to supply the amount. Fellow prisoners collected the $500 among themselves.

Rivenbark, sentenced to seven years from Pender County for breaking, entering and larceny, will complete his term March 18.

Mass Arrests

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—The Peron government has released 24 Socialists from jail cells they have occupied since last August but still is saving nothing about hundreds of other politicians and former military officers caught up in a police dragnet this week.

The wave of mass arrests—officially to stifle opposition to President Peron's regime—has been blanketed from public knowledge by strict secrecy. Official police and government sources said they were unaware of any police raids, and newspapers said nothing about them. But private reports confirmed raids have been going on since Sunday in the capital and elsewhere.

Private sources expected the government to issue a communique soon charging another plot against Peron and stating it has been crushed.

Refugees From Red Vietnam Get U.S. Relief

HANOI, Indo-China—(AP)—The refugees streaming into Hanoi from lands occupied by the Communist-led Vietminh look for and find American aid here.

They're getting direct relief—such as food, blankets, clothing and medicines from the American Mutual Security Administration.

Its public health branch handles the medicines and medical treatment for the needy. The direct relief and rehabilitation unit is directed by Herman Joe Hoidly, 36, of Indianapolis, onetime Tuskegee University football star.

The MSA estimates it has aided 300,000 people in North Vietnam since the American aid program was started less than two years ago.

GROWTH IN GRACE

There is a passage from the Book of Ezekiel which few Bible readers encounter. The prophet tells of a vision he had in which he beheld waters issuing seaward from under the threshold of the House of God. When a heavenly figure measured a thousand cubits and caused Ezekiel to pass through the waters, the waters were to his ankles. Again the heavenly figure measured a thousand cubits, and the waters were then to his knees. Again he measured a thousand and Ezekiel passed through water that reached to his loins. "Afterwards," continues the prophet, "I measured a thousand; and it was revealed that I could not pass through; for the waters were risen, waters to swim in."

The vision probably teaches many lessons, but chief among them is the way the gifts and graces of God increase in our lives with the passing years. At first we are only a little conscious of God's favor to us—the waters reach our ankles. Then, as we pass through tribulations from which we are delivered, we become more conscious of God's goodness—the waters reach our knees. Later the water reaches the loins. And at last the gracious goodness of God is at a level which we cannot pass through, for the waters are risen, water to swim in.

And along the banks of the river grow every tree for food, whose leaves shall not wither, neither shall the fruit thereof fall."

An Opportunity That Should Not Be Missed

Average citizens who are interested in stamping out any organized crime in this section of North Carolina are going to have an opportunity to do their bit late this month when a federal grand jury begins holding hearings in Raleigh.

The grand jury is looking for information which will lead to the indictment of criminals and racketeers in this section. Citizens in Eastern North Carolina who have any information which may help the grand jury in stamping out crime in this area have a moral duty to appear before the grand jury and give the law enforcement officers the benefit of their knowledge.

Here in Eastern North Carolina, the organized crime probably can not compare with that of the metropolitan areas. Nevertheless, it would be folly to assume that this area of the state is free from small cooperative groups of unscrupulous men who make their living, and perhaps even amass great wealth, through activities which are in violation of the law.

The longer these criminals are allowed to operate their enterprises without being prosecuted by the courts, the more young men they bring into their organizations, and the more they contribute to making criminals out of potentially good citizens of the section.

The federal grand jury has set aside a month to look into criminal activity in this section. It will cost the government a great deal of money to hold the hearings, and it will be a shame if the people of this part of the state do not avail themselves of this opportunity to help bring Eastern North Carolina's criminals to justice.

Just Can't Seem To Catch Up At ECC

A tip of the hat to the Advisory Budget Commission of North Carolina for providing the necessary additional funds for work to begin on East Carolina College's new library.

The $814,000 provided by the General Assembly and the Advisory Budget Commission will not be enough to provide the college with adequate library facilities for even the student body it has now, but the new library will be much better than the vastly inadequate library facilities East Carolina has at the present time.

The present library at East Carolina was built in 1924 and designed to house 80,000 volumes and provide adequate library facilities for a student body of 800 students. At the present time the library has 80,000 volumes, but many of them have been packed away in boxes and are stored in various places because there is not room for them in the college library. In addition the library which was designed for a maximum student body of 800 is now serving 1,797 East Carolina on-campus students this quarter. During the fall quarter the on-campus enrollment of East Carolina reached 1,908. The go-ahead signal for construction of the new library was given Tuesday by the Advisory Budget Commission which said it would make up the necessary $113,844 between the low bids for the construction of the library and the $700,299 provided for the project by the General Assembly. Likewise the National Production Authority announced it would issue priorities for steel to be used in the library.

Even with the new funds from the Advisory Budget Commission, the new library will not be designed to meet the needs of the present student body at East Carolina unless more funds are forthcoming to make additions to the new library immediately. When the new library was designed in 1946 the college's enrollment was 1,100 students, and the optimistic designers provided for a library to take care of a student body of 1,600 students. Since 1946, however, East Carolina has grown beyond the enrollment which was anticipated by even the library designers.

If the college continues its growth as it has during the past five years, by the time the new library is completed, it will already be inadequate for the college, unless provisions are made in the meantime for enlarging the new library.

National Whirligig

WASHINGTON—An anti-Truman development which disturbs many eye Democrats on Capitol Hill is the responsiveness Congress and the American public have shown to great figures of a dominant character and picturesque personality.

In their opinion, it reflects a want and a hunger for leadership which the present Administration has not given in the domestic or foreign field.

Any applause meter would show that the individuals who aroused the most enthusiasm in their appearances before joint sessions of Congress are, in this order, General Douglas MacArthur, Prime Minister Winston Churchill and Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio. Ranking along with them would be General Dwight D. Eisenhower, when he held a symposium on military problems in the Congressional Library several years ago.

By contrast, the welcome given the President of the United States on his recent appearances in the House chamber have been formally friendly, in tribute to his office. But they have not been cordial or enthusiastic. And most of the handclapping came from the Democratic side of the aisle, with few southern members participating.

OVATIONS—The spontaneous ovations given to the ousted Korean commander, to the gallant Britisher, to Senator Taft and to the grinning, likable Eisenhower does not mean that their listeners agreed with their ideas on controversial domestic and foreign questions. Quite the contrary.

There were many members of both parties who disagreed with General MacArthur's theories on how the war should be conducted in the Far East. They sympathized with the Truman-Acheson-Marshal-Bridley contention that his all-out, aggressive strategy might transform a localized conflict into a global war. But at least MacArthur had a policy and a plan. He showed courage, daring and imagination. He did not resort to vague double-talk. He did not permit petty ballot-box necessities and considerations to weaken his words.

LEADER—Prime Minister Churchill encountered an unexpectedly warm greeting from the joint Congressional session. The members on the floor and the visitors in the galleries stood up to honor, not the man now heading a nation dependent on United States resources for survival, but the heroic figure who declared that his people would repel a Hitler invasion with beer bottles, if necessary.

There are few who agreed with Churchill that the United States should pick up more of the international burdens which London can no longer bear, including the defense of the Suez Canal. There were many who resented his refusal to participate in the Eisenhower Army or in the Schuman plan for the industrial integration of Europe.

There were good-natured guffaws when he remarked semi-jocularly that he was not asking for "gold, but for steel, not for favors but equipment." There was the asstun, voted more audibly than ever before, that he was again "pulling our leg."

Nevertheless, he won their hearts, if not their minds, because he had been and still is a leader of men and peoples. Even though his vigor and eloquence had diminished, he is still the most heroic and attractive figure on the world stage.

FORTHRIGHTNESS—Senator Taft would win no popularity contests, whether they are held at Washington or at Atlantic City. Until recently, when he became a Presidential candidate, he seems to have labored earnestly to make himself disliked on Capitol Hill and elsewhere.

But he did not become famous as "Mister Republican" by refusing to take a stand on great domestic and foreign problems, or by figuring out first which reaction would attract the most votes. Although frequently wrong, stubborn and too headstrong for his own good, he knew what he believed and he has not been afraid to take the unpopular side in a legislative controversy.

This is no paean for "Bob" Taft. It is simply a recording of how Congress and even larger audiences react to his forthrightness.

It is also an attempt to explain why so many Democrats, speaking privately, think that Harry S. Truman would be an exceptionally weak candidate.

OFFENSIVE—Capitol Hill antagonism toward the Truman Administration may be measured by the unprecedented number of investigations which House and Senate have authorized in a Presidential election year. As of today a Democratic Congress has given the green light to almost a score of inquiries of executive agencies at a preliminary cost of $1,000,000 or more.

This offensive against the White House is especially significant, politically, because every anti-Truman move had to obtain approval of a majority of committees controlled by Democrats. Nor are all these investigating groups dominated by southern members openly hostile to the President. In several instances the final decision rested with chairmen from the West and the North.

In other words, Congress has escaped completely from Presidential control, even though Mr. Truman keeps secret his 1952 plans in order to retain some slight influence at the eastern end of Pennsylvania Avenue.

Should he be reelected, in view of his own party members' current mood, it would be war to the death between the executive and legislative branches of the federal government.

Somebody Told Me

By L. I. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

During the war when the Army requested that I make a will I laughed at them. "Thanks for the compliment, but I don't have anything but life insurance." Since that time I have acquired a few things of note, but it was not until last night that I realized that my most valuable possession is one that I had back in those Army days: my eyes. Every one of us has the opportunity to will our eyes to someone who is now blind, thus giving them sight.

This was explained last night at the regular meeting of the Greenville Junior Chamber of Commerce. Dr. Melvin Hoot, local eye, ear, nose and throat specialist, is also a Regional Director for a relatively new but fast growing organization in North Carolina called the Eye Bank for Researching Sight. Inc. So far 12 eyes have been willed in North Carolina and only two in Pitt County. The Pitt County eyes of one man were given one each, to two people who are now able to see. This transplanting can be successful only with people who are blind because the front part of the eye is opaque. There are hundreds of people in North Carolina who are victims of that type of blindness, and can be given sight by receiving eyes.

In order to will your eyes all you have to do is fill out a form, which Dr. Hoot can supply, to the effect that you desire to have this done. Upon death, this operation is performed in the hospital with the same care given a live person. The State Highway Patrol rushes the eyes to the bank in Winston-Salem, where they are given to a blind person.

Everybody agrees that our eyes are invaluable to us, yet every expense incurred in giving eyes is absorbed, and the patient receives the eye without charge. The one exception is that he pays his hospital bill if he is financially able. When the eyes are removed they are replaced by artificial plastic eyes, donated in this area by Ridgeley's Opticians. These artificial eyes are the same color and shade as the person's real eyes. Some victims of the blindness caused by the front part of the eye being opaque have never seen. Others are seen but have lost sight. By the time Dr. Hoot's office opens this morning I'll be there to will my eyes. What could be better than knowing that after we die somebody else will be able to continue to see with our eyes? And I thank you.

Around Capitol Square

CONVENTIONS—North Carolina Democratic leaders are waging an unpublicized but potentially significant war over the date for the Democratic State Convention. The way things are shaping up now the convention date itself is not nearly so important as who wins the right to set the date. Partisan strategists are thinking in terms of advantage to their particular group or the candidates that group is generally supporting. Lines are not clearly drawn, and in some instances they cross each other, but in general terms the supporters of Hubert Olive for Governor (including Kerr Scott) want a very early convention date, supporters of William Umstead desire the convention to be held, as it has been for some years, in mid-May—or even after the May 31 primary.

SCRIMMAGE—Preliminary scrimmaging has to do with time of the Democratic State Executive Committee meeting, required by the party plan of organization to be held on or before March 10, which will set the dates for precinct, county, district and state conventions. Advocates of an early convention date are pressing State Chairman Everett Jordan to call the committee together pronto, and get the whole business over with quick-like. Late convention advocates are putting on pressure to have the committee meeting around March 7, which is Friday before the March 10 deadline on Monday.

SPOT—Chairman Jordan is on the spot about calling the committee together, although he is not involved in the major question of convention date. That will be up to the full committee. The organization plan does not specify any time limit for notice of meetings, and an early committee session might call a late convention, or vice versa. But in the present situation an early committee meeting would be construed as favoring an early convention. In practical political parlance that works out to the fact that the date fixed by the meeting will be clear indication of his leaning to one or the other factions in the party. (If you don't think that's a hot spot, ask Everett Jordan.)

DATES—There is precedent for both early and late convention dates. In old days, when party nominations were made in convention, they were usually held in June or July, just in time to get delegates named to the national conventions. When the legalized primary was substituted for convention as the nominating process, state conventions were held earlier in the year. The Republican party still adheres to the policy of actual nomination by convention, although candidates are required by law to file for the primary. So the Republican State Convention usually is held just before the deadline for filing. So, State Chairman J. M. Baley has called the Republican State Convention for Charlotte on March 18, four days before filing deadline on March 22. Democrats make no nominations by convention, except for presidential electors (and for local offices in five or six counties) so there is not the same necessity for holding the conventions before filing deadline.

CUSTOM—For a good many years the Democratic State Conventions have been held after close of filing but before the primary. That custom has worked to the advantage of some candidates who were able to stage organized demonstrations at the convention. That was certainly the case in 1940 when Broughton for Governor took over, in 1944 when Cherry for Governor took over, in 1948 when Broughton for Senator demagogued attracted attention, and when Scott for Governor supporters first really scared Johnson for Governor. Recollection of these advantages as disadvantages to one group or another, is in the background of the current war over an early or late convention date. The crossed lines come about because folks in both factions disagree about the relative advantage or handicap of an early meeting. Apparently a majority of the Olive folks favor an early date, while majority of the Umstead supporters advocate following custom—or even putting the convention off until after primary, so that the platform adopted and the national delegates elected might conform more closely to expressed wishes of the voters.

UNANIMITY—Information gathered by your reporter on travels over the state, and volunteered by visitors to the Raleigh office, justifies conclusions that William Umstead is far ahead in the current race for governor. After all, he has been running for several years, he has a record as representative and senator in the congress, and he is very probably personally known to more voters in North Carolina than any other office. But he won't get many votes in Davidson county. Davidson county voters are as nearly solid in support of their fellow-

What Other Papers Are Thinking

MORE THAN EYEWASH (Greensboro Daily News) President Truman's decision to remain to the New Hampshire words that the President regrets his "eyewash" statement. Preferential primaries may not determine much about the strength of an incumbent President seeking re-election, as Arthur Krock notes, but they do tell a great deal about the destiny of untried candidates, and patently they ought to tell a great deal more. Consider two recent primary situations: (1) Defeat in a preferential primary in 1944 in Wisconsin made Wendell Willkie retire from the active campaign for the Republican nomination; (2) Dewey's decisive vote over Stassen in Oregon in 1948 led him to victory at the July convention. Now the New Hampshire primary becomes the focal point for both Democratic and Republican patterns of strength in the July conventions. A triumph for Kefauver over Truman would cause consternation in the Truman palace guard, and defeat for Kefauver would hurt him badly. By the same token Taft would gain decisively if he achieved unexpected victory over Eisenhower.

The significance of such presidential primaries as we do have shows the need for more strongly drawn primary laws in all the 48 states. In selecting a President the people ought to have a part in the preliminaries, not just the finals. Their choice ought to be expressed as decisively when the field has 10 candidates as when convention balloting reduces it to two. The best way to let them participate is to establish (or re-establish) the preferential primary system in all the 48 states, either by constitutional amendment or statute.

Business Today

With mark-ups and margins under control, merchants are watching cash discounts more closely. Often the merchant approximates the merchant's net profit. Recent figures on some segments of the department store field indicate that the percentage earned by prompt payment of bills have made the difference between profit and loss. Hence dealers these days are more than usually testy about practices tending to reduce cash discounts.

The National Retail Dry Goods Association says that "Too many manufacturers are mailing invoices to stores several days after shipping of merchandise. When an invoice is mailed, say, five days after the goods are shipped, the merchant has only five days left in which to pay the bill in time to gain the 10 day discount. If there is a jam in the controller's office or if it is not practical to pay the bill within the reduced time, the store loses the discount."

The association points out that this involves another hardship, since most stores do not check shipments until the invoice is received. This results in a delay in getting the goods on sale. A different sort of complaint is registered by J. E. Estreicher, an Atlantic City wholesaler. Some manufacturers, he reports, quote delivered prices on their products but then deduct the cost of freight from the amount on which a discount is granted. For example, on a shipment of 200 cases of tissue at $10, f.o.b. Atlantic City, on terms of 2 per cent discount in 10 days, the invoice is stamped "discount allowable 36."

The shipper, presumably, deducts $200 freight cost from the total before granting the discount. This amounts to a loss of only $4 to the wholesaler, but on hundreds of shipments a year the points out, multiplied by the number of wholesalers, runs into millions. The manufacturer's position is undoubtedly that he pays cash in full for freight, there is no reason why he should grant the wholesaler a discount on that. But if that is the manufacturer's reasoning, then he should not quote prices on a delivered basis. And Mr. Estreicher adds, some of the largest companies with which he does business do not resort to the practice.

DEFENSE OUTPUT $30 BILLION BEHIND Since Korea, the National Industrial Conference Board calculates, the total of orders for defense has funds obligated for defense has been more than $50,000,000,000, but deliveries have reached only $20,000,000,000. There has been a serious lag, particularly in tanks and jet planes, it points out. The lag has also resulted in the failure of employment to rise as much as expected.

MANUFACTURERS SEEK CHANGES IN TWO LAWS Manufacturers are now fighting a two-front campaign in Washington. Some are seeking Congressional action to restore "fair trade" to its previous potency, by amending the Supreme Court decision to off-set the effect that dealers cannot be bound by contracts they themselves do not sign. Several measures to this end have been proposed and the manufacturers say chances are improving. At the same time, other manufacturers are fighting for a repeal of legislation authorizing credit controls. Controls do not make sense, they say, when production exceeds current purchases in so many lines. However, prospects for legislation in this sector are not promising.

Hal Boyle's Column

Washington (AP)—What is the real secret of how to be a success in Washington? Wilbur Peeble, the average American citizen, gives the answer in a letter to his wife about his one-man investigation of the government.

Dear Trellis Mae, Well, Honey, I found out how you get to be a big shot here. Getting elected or appointed to an important job is just the first step. The real art is to hold the job. And to do that you got to have ghosts and Indians. As I get it, a ghost is a fellow you get to write all the speeches and public papers you would write yourself if you only had the time. But naturally you are too busy shaking hands and making friends.

An Indian is an information expert. He is the fellow who knows all the things about your job you would learn yourself if you just had time. Let's say, for example, you are appointed Secretary of the Exterior. Three days later Rep. Headstrong decides to investigate you because:

1. Your wife snubbed his wife, or
 2. You forgot to invite him to a cocktail party, or
 3. Nobody else is investigating your department that week, or
 4. He's up for re-election, and he has to get his name in the papers some way.
- Well, the House votes him $75,000 for the investigation, and Rep. Headstrong hires some ghosts to write speeches denouncing you and sends the Indians to dig up dirt about the job you're doing.
- When you go into the committee hearing, he says: "Let's get down to the real issue. Just why is the Department of the Exterior doing nothing in the matter of exports and imports of brooms to and from Czechoslovakia? Answer—yes or no?"
- Well, if you don't have your own battery of Ghosts and Indians ready—you are a gone Secretary of the Exterior.
- But if you've got your Indian handy, he whispers the right answer to you, and you say: "So long as I am Secretary no Red-tainted foreign brooms will be admitted to these shores, and American-made brooms will be sent to politically polluted areas. Besides we need 'em all to sweep out our own defense plants."
- At this the spectators break into applause.
- After a month or two—during which you have collected $10,000 from speeches and magazine articles written by your Ghosts—the investigation collapses.
- But it has been a big success name as a patriotic public servant, and Rep. Headstrong has decided to run for the Senate on his record as a fighter for clean government. The Ghosts and Indians? They've been paid.
- The only thing lost, Trellis Mae, is the taxpayers' $75,000. It seems a wasteful system to me, but a Ghost I talked to said it was necessary to keep the statesmen from strangling in their own red tape.
- "As a matter of fact us Ghosts are now getting Assistant Ghosts and the Indians are getting Assistant Indians," he said. "We have to—things are getting that complicated."
- He said he felt Ghosts were performing a public service in making politicians sound educated. He remarked the ghosting industry in America dated back to the days when Alexander Hamilton used to handpick advisers for George Washington, who, he said, couldn't tell a dangling participle from a hangnail. That made me mad, Trellis Mae. Well, I always thought Thomas Jefferson did a pretty fair job of writing the Declaration of Independence. I said, "And how about that little speech Abraham Lincoln scribbled down on an envelope all by himself on the way to Gettysburg?" Well, he said, he would admit that either of them might have made a pretty fair Ghost, and added: "It is too bad Lincoln didn't have a new electric typewriter at Gettysburg. No telling what he might have written then!" I'm beginning to think, Trellis Mae, that I'll never really understand Washington. Your loving husband, Wilbur.

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON—Senators are people after all and most of them have outside hobbies. But it surprised me when I ordered a book on wildflowers to find it had been written in 1933 by Sen. Aiken (R-Vt.).

To many who know the senator's reputation as a horticulturist, the book is not news. "So many people were writing me for information about wildflowers I was spending all my time answering their letters—also I was going broke," Sen. Aiken said. "I wrote the book in self defense."

When he was 20 George Aiken and a friend borrowed $100 to plant a patch of raspberries. Before he had obtained full ownership of the property near Putney, Vt., it had grown to 500 acres and included an nursery. He began to study wildflowers when he discovered arbutus on the pasture land he was clearing. "I didn't want to plow them under," he said, "so I took up several hundred and transplanted them. They all lived. I sold them all at a good price." He started shipping the arbutus and fringed gentian to all parts of the country and to some places abroad, West to China, South America, Palestine. Then people of numerous types of wildflowers began sending them to him.

The Aiken Nurseries at Putney are now concentrating on finding ways to propagate wildflowers and make them grow in other places. In addition, they grow evergreens, shrubs and other perennials.

"I could earn more money at home if only I could stay there to look after things and raise more stock," the senator said. Meanwhile, Mrs. Aiken keeps a capable eye on the business, which is limited to about 12 acres. The rest of the property is mostly woodland.

Sen. Aiken would like very much to take time off to revise his book on wildflowers, although he admits he wrote about all there is on the subject in his first edition. This, incidentally, he dedicated to Peter Rabbit, "in the hope that flattery will accomplish what traps and guns have failed to do and that the little rascal will let our plants alone from this time on."

Decisions of Two Rich Men

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Luke 18:18-30; 19:1-10.

A certain rich ruler came to Jesus asking, 'What shall I do to inherit eternal life?'

The ruler said he had obeyed them all his life; Jesus said there was one more thing he must sell his goods and give to the poor.

When Jesus passed through Jericho, a small man named Zacchaeus climbed a tree in order to see Him.

So pleased was Zacchaeus that he promised to reform, and Jesus rewarded him by saying that 'this day salvation is come to this house.'

MEMORY VERSE—Matthew 7:13, 14.

The Decisions of Two Rich Men

ONE REFUSED SALVATION; THE OTHER ACCEPTED IT JOYFULLY.

Scripture—Luke 18:18-30; 19:1-10.

FOR THE most part the men Jesus called to follow Him were poor, or, at least, like the fishermen, men who toiled hard for their living.

he chose to go, or did he consciously miss the thing he really wanted most—and what he had come to Jesus to find? We cannot know.

In today's lesson two rich men came to Him, seeking redemption, and the manner in which each received the Master's message is the moral of the story.

There are men of our day (women too) who, because of their great wealth, or their wisdom or eminence in various fields, are much sought after for advice by those anxious to succeed.

Jesus answered first, 'Why callest thou Me good? none is good, save one, that is, God.'

Of course, many murmured against Jesus, saying, 'He was gone to be guest with a man that is a sinner.' For Zacchaeus was a much detested tax gatherer for Rome.

MEMORY VERSE

'Enter ye in by the narrow gate: for wide is the gate, and broad is the way that leadeth to destruction, and many are they that enter in thereby. For narrow is the gate, and straitened the way, that leadeth unto life, and few are they that find it.'

ments, I not commit adultery. Do not kill. Do not steal. Do not bear false witness. Honor thy father and thy mother.

to have disturbed the Master when He was intent on saving a soul. Standing before the Lord, this second rich man answered Him, 'Behold, Lord, the half of my goods I give to the poor; and if I have taken anything from any man by false accusation, I restore him fourfold.'

St. Mark tells us that Jesus loved this young man at eight, and when he went sorrowfully away because he could not part with his wealth, the Master must have been grieved too.

Quoting from the writings of Rev. G. Campbell Morgan, our commentator relates that there was an interval between the end of verse seven and the beginning of verse eight.

One can but wonder what happened to this rich young ruler; did he find happiness in the way based on copyrighted outlines produced by the Division of Christian Education, National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U. S. A., and used by permission.

So, you have the story of two men, both well off in this world's goods, and how each responded to the Master's plea to follow Him.

Spot-Check Discloses Political Interest High

By LYNN NISBET

RALEIGH—There is more active interest in politics and more genuine concern about the type and caliber of men (and women) to be elected to public office this year than many people realize.

Your reporter made a fast swing of the circuit from Raleigh to Asheville and back the first of this week. Personal conversations were had with voters in the counties of Chatham, Randolph, Davidson, Davie, Iredell, Catawba, Buncombe, Rutherford, Lincoln and Rowan. No claim is made of a complete survey, nor even that the persons contacted are the best informed about affairs in their respective counties.

One of the most significant trends noted or sensed by your reporter on this trip was that while the talk almost always started with president or governor, it invariably included county commissioners and members of the general assembly.

There was a good deal of criticism of the national administration, but apparently the folks are not much wrought up about it. The usual comment might be paraphrased something like this: "We don't like what we've got, and there is no excuse for things getting in such condition. But what choice have we? So far nobody has offered much improvement."

One farmer candidly admitted he was disgusted with reports of corruption at Washington, but he didn't want the farm support program disturbed. The governor's race took precedence.

CHICAGO (UP)—A Chicago utility firm is "mining" tons of scarce copper and lead in the heart of the city. Commonwealth Edison has crews at work ripping out underground electric cable laid 30 to 40 years ago.

Our clients buy about 50 different kinds of insurance from us. There are five or ten different ways in which each of these can be written. On most of them there are at least three or four different types of endorsements—additions or changes—that can be attached to the contracts.

The worst of it is that these several hundred variables keep changing all the time. Almost every morning our mail is loaded down with changes in forms, changes in rates, changes in the way policies can be prepared.

We'll be glad to study your policies, without charge or obligation, and make sure for you that the latest changes are checked against your own insurance program to your advantage.

dence in most of the talk. Opinion is general throughout the Piedmont and near west that the contest for governor will be for all practical purposes, between William Umstead and Hubert Olive. There was varied opinion about effect of Governor Scott's endorsement of Olive and his call upon members of his "team" to stick with him in support of the Lexington man.

At every stop somebody asked about Luther Hodges, whose announcement for lieutenant governor came Tuesday morning, but had been discounted by earlier speculative stories. Surprisingly few people knew anything about him. There was obvious confusion in the minds of several experienced politicians about the apparent tie-in between Governor Scott, and possibly Candidate Olive, and Candidate Hodges.

The campaign is too young for a spot-check trip like that made Monday and Tuesday to afford basis for appraisal of relative strength of the several candidates. The trip did prove that more people are genuinely interested in government and in politics than surface activity would indicate.

TALENT LONG BURIED PROVIDENCE, R. I. (UP)—For 17 years, Rico Turchetti played his guitar—which looks like a combination—in and around his home city. Here without causing excitement, a few weeks ago he appeared on a nation-wide TV talent program and overnight skyrocketed to success.

Carpenter Works After Sundown

OAKVILLE, Cogh. (AP)—Carmen Ezzo, who has been building a house here single-handed for the past two years during his spare time from a factory job, has one advantage over other carpenters. Ezzo can and frequently does, work long after dark.

Chicago Streets Yielding Metal

CHICAGO (UP)—A Chicago utility firm is "mining" tons of scarce copper and lead in the heart of the city. Commonwealth Edison has crews at work ripping out underground electric cable laid 30 to 40 years ago.

The company estimated that it recovered 2,400,000 pounds of copper and 2,500,000 pounds of lead from beneath the city's streets in 1951. The old cable is replaced by more efficient conductors and sent to smelters as scrap.

Foolproof Tub Is Granted Patent

ELMIRA, N. Y. (UP)—At long last America may be improving the bathtub. Two Elmira men, Arthur E. Fowler and Albert Dressler, Jr., have been granted a patent on a new type of bathtub by the U. S. Patent office. This tub eliminates the danger of slipping as one steps over the side of the conventional tub. You can stand straight and walk right into it.

The tub has a knee-high lea-proof door in its side. The door will neither open nor close as long as there's even a cupful of water in the tub. It took the two men nine months of spare-time to devise the tub. The "brains" is a cylinder-and-float arrangement which keeps the door locked when there's water in the tub.

It's a complex business!

THIS NAME has stood the TEST OF TIME

For three generations, the name "Ford" has held the confidence of the American people—particularly of America's farmers.

To the farmers in this community the Ford name is a promise of sterling value; a pledge of lasting satisfaction; a symbol of leadership in farm power and transportation.

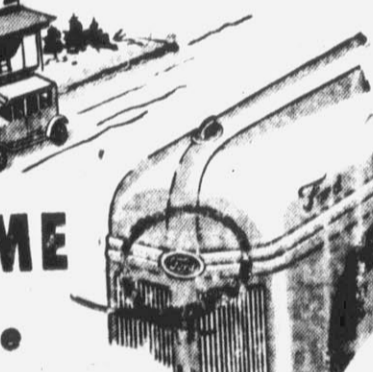

The name "Ford" on a tractor today means volume production resources unique in the farm equipment field. That's why we can sell the Ford Tractor for a low price and give you a generous measure of extra value for that price.

And don't forget that a Ford Tractor, after years of use, will sell for more at trade-in time!

The Sport Reflector

By JIMMY ELLIS

The top contest in the North-eastern Conference will be reeled off tonight when Coach Bo Farley's Green Phantoms tangle with the Washington High School Pam-Pack at 8 p.m. This will be the second meeting of the two teams and the Phantoms will be out for revenge.

In the first meeting of the clubs, All-State football ace Dickie Cherry set the pace to lead the Pam-Pack to a victory over the Phantoms. It was the first loss of the year in conference play for Greenville and they have been beaten only once since that game.

Washington has been defeated by Kingston for their only loss in conference play and are in second place in the league standings. Greenville has won five and lost two which places them in third place.

Coach Bill Sweel of the Pam-Pack will probably start the same team tonight which started against the Phantoms in Washington. That has Cherry and Edgar Woodard at the forwards, John Hoyt at center, and Bobby Hackler and Bob Smith at the guards. Cherry is the leader on offense for the club and is leading the team in scoring.

Until he ran up against Kingston a couple of weeks ago, Cherry was one of the leading contenders for the Northeastern Conference scoring title. Now he's just another guy in the race.

Cherry has recently been joined on the sidelines by Greenville's Smith Worthington who also got his first lumps against Kingston. Worthington was the hottest player in the league until he and the Phantoms met Kingston last week. As of last Tuesday night, the scoring leadership belonged to Charlie Wickham of Kingston who is charging the nets for an average of close to 25 points in Northeastern Conference play.

Worthington will be at one of the forward positions for the Phantoms tonight and will doubtless raise his scoring total. His two poorest nights have been in the last two games when the Phantoms were on the road for games.

Teaming with Worthington tonight for the Phantoms will be Joe Rowland, Sidney Briley, Wallace Conway, and Sonny Scott. That was the club which started against New Bern Tuesday night.

Congratulations are in order for Dick Groat of Duke and Ekkie Jordan of Winston-Salem for winning the Teague Awards for 1951. Both were very logical choices for the awards and have done much for North Carolina athletics in the past year.

Sometimes it's a genuine pleasure to note such things as the Teague Awards and the winners in both divisions and know that the good name of athletics has been brightened during the past twelve months.

Congratulations not only to Dick Groat and Ekkie Jordan but also to those who are now making the awards possible.

Ray Shiffner, Atlantic Christian College's 6-5 center who became eligible as soon as ACC's first semester was over, has apparently found North State Conference basketball much to his liking. In the first four games in which he played, Shiffner averaged 20 points per contest.

If the big Philadelphia can become a little rougher under the boards, he can help Jack McComas and the Bulldogs a great deal. He works well in the pivot slot for the Bulldogs.

Shiffner will come to Greenville for the first time on February 15 when ACC will attempt to regain possession of the Bohunk Bucket.

More on Washington and Kingston, Washington's latest Northeastern Conference outing last Tuesday against Elizabeth City. Coach Bill Sweel's Pam-Pack squeaked by the not-highly regarded Yellow Jackets 52-51. Dick Cherry led the scoring with 21 points.

Aggies Dropped By Tulsa Last Night

NEW YORK (UP)—The high hopes of the Oklahoma Aggies and their famous Coach Henry (Hank) Iba for national basketball honors reeled today under a heavy blow struck by none other than Iba's lesser-known brother, Clarence.

The Aggies were on the receiving end of a 46-33 shellacking meted out last night by the University of Tulsa, coached by Clarence.

It was the second straight loss suffered by the Aggies, following a 44-42 upset by Detroit on Monday, and promised to drop the Aggies far below their current ranking as the nation's No. 10 team in the ratings by the United Press Board of Coaches.

Tulsa held a 25-23 lead at halftime and then turned in a defensive display that completely fuddled the Aggies, who currently rank as the top defensive team in the nation in NCAA statistics.

During the first 14 minutes of the second half, the Aggies scored only one basket and they tallied only 10 points in the entire second half.

The upset of the Aggies overshadowed important victories last night by St. Bonaventure and DePaul.

The unbeaten Bonnies racked up win No. 15 by whipping Murray State of Kentucky, 73 to 64, at Olean, N. Y. St. Bonaventure now has only one more hurdle to clear, Cincinnati on Saturday, before facing Duquesne, the only other major unbeaten team in the nation. Monday in one of the most heralded games of the season.

The Bonnies led by 10 points at the half, but Murray rallied to cut that to two points early in the fourth quarter. But a seven-point performance by Leo Corkery in that period put the game on ice for the Update New Yorkers. Bob Sassone led the Bonnie scorers with 21 points.

In other leading games last night Marquette beat Notre Dame 57 to 50; Jim Brasco's 24 points led NYU to a 95 to 78 win over Syracuse; Holy Cross tripped Columbia 85 to 80; Duke downed William and Mary 68 to 62, and Furman beat South Carolina 59 to 56, in the Southern Conference; and Wichita beat Creighton 63 to 62.

Washington U., ranked No. 7 in the nation, meets Oregon State in a Pacific Coast Conference game that highlights tonight's basketball schedule.

Johnny Palmer Is Leader In El Paso

EL PASO, Tex. (UP)—Johnny Palmer, Badin, N. C., pro, watched nine competitors tee off today in their efforts to unseat him as leading contender for the $10,000 El Paso Open golf crown.

Palmer carded a 64, seven under par yesterday. The nine others were caught on the course by darkness last night and they picked up today where the left off in the opening round.

Marty Furgol of Lemont, Ill., was given the best chance among the nine to equal or better Palmer's mark. He had a four-under-par 47 and was ready to tee off on the 14th hole.

Phantoms Meet Pam-Pack In League Game

Greenville Seeking Sixth Loop Victory

Smith Worthington Regains Northeastern Conference Scoring Lead In Total Points Scored With 122

The Greenville High School Phantoms will be after their sixth Northeastern Conference victory tonight when they entertain the Washington High School Pam-Pack in a basketball doubleheader at the high school gymnasium.

The Phantoms have previously knocked off Roanoke Rapids, New Bern (twice), Edenton and Elizabeth City. They lost to Kingston and to the Pam-Pack.

No new line-up changes for the Phantoms are planned for tonight's game and Coach Bo Farley will probably start the same team which started against New Bern Tuesday night.

This line-up has Smith Worthington and Joe Rowland at the forwards, Wallace Conway at center, and Sid Briley and Sonny Scott at the guards.

Washington is expected to counter with a line-up which has Dick Cherry and Edgar Woodard at the forwards, John Hoyt at center, and Bobby Hackler and Bob Smith at the guards. Cherry is the team's offensive leader while Hoyt leads the rebounding department when the team goes on defense.

Smith Worthington continues to lead the Phantoms in individual scoring even though he has scored only 22 points in the last two games. Worthington now has a six game total of 122 points in Northeastern Conference play and has once again taken the lead in total points from Kingston's Charlie Wickham.

Wickham, who has missed one of the Red Devils' contests because of an injured wrist, has the best average, having scored 11 points in five contests. The Red Devils have not played a conference game this week.

The Varsity game tonight will be preceded by a Junior Varsity clash between teams from the two schools. Coach Bill Kittrell's Jayvee Phantoms are undefeated in games against Northeastern Conference Junior Varsity squads and hold a 39-33 victory over Washington in their seven straight wins.

Kittrell will probably start Bob Howell and Walt Perkins at the forwards, Bobby Conway at center, and Pat Sawyer and George Sideris at the guards.

Palm Beach Sees Favorite Beaten

PALM BEACH, Fla. (UP)—Claire Doran of Cleveland faced Edean Anderson of Helena, Mont., today as the Palm Beach Women's Amateur golf tournament advanced into its semi-final round.

Miss Doran, apparently getting better as the tournament progressed, out-putted Carol Dinger, 1-up, in 19 holes, and walloped the favored Grace DeMoss, 5 and 4, yesterday.

Meanwhile, Miss Anderson beat Betty Rowland of Lexington, Ky., and Bea McWane of Birmingham, both 3 and 2.

Pat Garner of Midland, Tex., meets Mary Ann Downey of Baltimore in the other semi-final round today.

Miss Garner defeated Miss Betty Knoedler of Pittsburgh and Miss Marjorie Lindsay of Decatur, Ill., both 3 and 2, yesterday while Miss Downey beat Miss Bonnie Randolph of Columbus, O., 5 and 4, and Miss Evelyn Odum of Miami, 1-up.

Five Loop Games

Five Pitt County Conference games are scheduled to be played tonight. Loop action will find Bethel at Arthur, Belvoir at Arden, Grifton at Farmville, Grimesland at Winterville, and Chleod at Stokes.

Record Number Of Night Games

NEW YORK (AP)—Year by year the major leagues are moving closer to converting baseball to strictly an after-dark, Sunday and holiday sport.

Release of the official playing schedules of the American and National leagues show that a record number of night games will be played in the majors this season.

With the St. Louis Cardinals leading the way, the majors will play 438 of their 1,132 games under the arc lights, just under 39 per cent. Allowing 26 per cent for the 12 Sunday and three holiday dates, that leaves only 35 per cent for the week-day games.

The National League has scheduled 220 arc light contests to 216 for the American. The National's previous high was 209 last year while the American staged 204 evening tilts in 1950.

Pat Amato Leaves Jail For DeFazio Fight Tonight

NEW YORK (UP)—Manager Pat Amato will get out of jail long enough tonight to second water-wearing Johnny (Red) DeFazio in his 10-round fight with classy Chico Vejar at Madison Square Garden.

Amato's ring appearance will not offend the Marquis of Christenberry nor other members of the boxing commission, for Amato is head of the guard at the Hudson County (N.J.) jail.

However, the odds-makers indicated Amato must bring the rest of the guard with him to give DeFazio of Bonne, N. J., a chance against vigorous Vejar of Stamford, Conn.

The winner of tonight's television bout will get another Garden video shot on Feb. 29 in a 10-rounder with Paddy DeMarco of Brooklyn, top lightweight contender. To either DeFazio or Vejar the DeMarco bout would be worth about $9,000—a good night's pay for a youngster.

Christians Drop Loop Contest

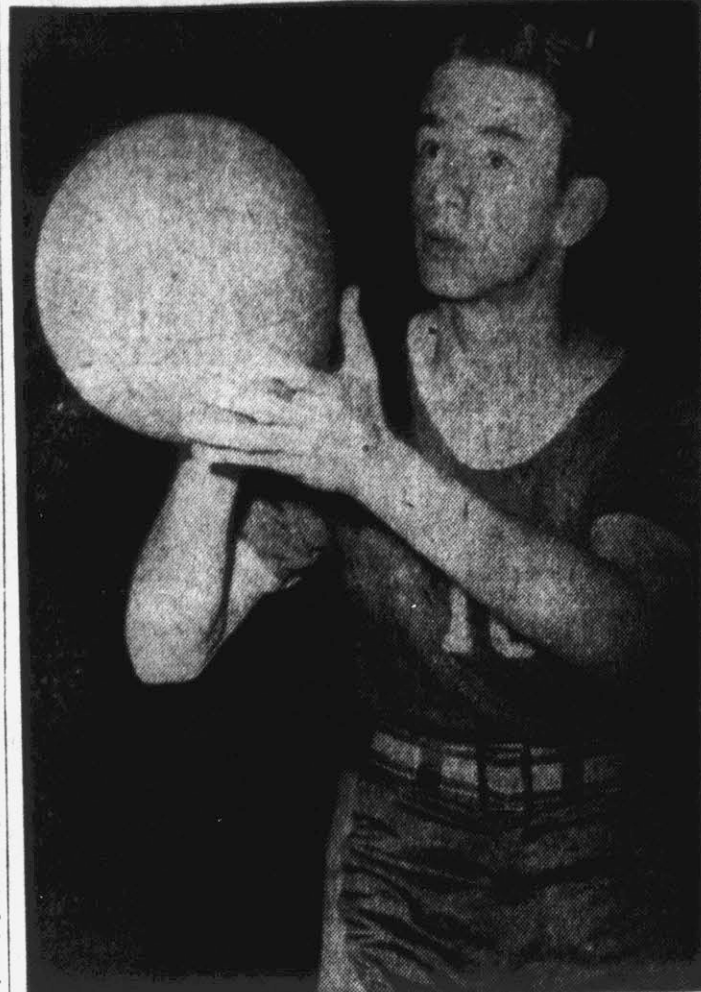

Western Carolina will play host tonight to Atlantic Christian in the lone North State Conference basketball scheduled.

Last night the Atlantic Christian Bulldogs went down 79-60 before a fast breaking, smooth passing Lenoir Rhyme five paced by co-captain Tony Sellari. The Bear forward netted 26 points in the first half and ended the game with 33. Ed Pawlak, Bear forward, led the victors in rebounds.

The Bears controlled the ball and the boards in the first half and ended the first half with a 45-29 margin.

Trailing Sellari for Lenoir Rhyme was Pawlak with 13 points and Newcome with 11. High for the Atlantic Christian Bulldogs was Peebles who dropped in 16 points, followed by Ferrell with 13.

The George Washington Highway (U. S. Route 17) skirts the eastern edge of the Dismal Swamp of North Carolina and Virginia.

JOHNNY SCOTT, the top ball handler for the Greenville Phantoms, will be at one of the guard positions tonight when the Phantoms play host to the Washington High School Pam-Pack. The Phantoms will be seeking revenge in the return of the two clubs, having lost the first game in Washington. (Reflector Sports Photos by Roy Hardee)

LEON MOORE is the top reserve for Coach Bo Farley's Greenville club and will see plenty of action tonight at one of the forward posts. Moore has been hampered somewhat by a bad shoulder but has still managed to turn in some top-flight play for the Phantoms.

Moral: Don't Be A Volunteer... It Ain't Healthy

CHAPEL HILL.—Men, this hold is the greatest equalizer since the Colt 45." Coach Sam Barnes told his University of North Carolina wrestling team a few days before last Friday's West Virginia match.

Ed Haines, a solid 147-pounder from Philadelphia, stepped up to serve as the guinea pig. He knew that the young coach was worried about the tough Mountaineers and anything he could do to help get himself and the squad ready for the meet would be beneficial.

"You put your arms around your opponent's shoulder this way," explained Barnes grabbing Haines, "and you flip him this way."

"You can break a man's shoulder with this hold if you aren't careful."

Haines groaned but didn't move. "You did, Coach," he answered. "Did what?"

"Broke my shoulder," the grappler replied.

The junior prospect from the Quaker City managed to get to his feet. His right shoulder was cracked.

"As I was telling you, men," Barnes mumbled, "it takes a tough man to get out of this one in good shape."

The Tar Heels dropped a 30-0 decision to the West Virginia team a few days later without the services of Ed Haines.

NCAA Scholastic Rules Gets Results As Athletes Flunk

NEW YORK (AP)—The new national collegiate A.A. principle which requires athletes to "make satisfactory progress toward a degree" seems to be showing results although it has been in effect less than a month.

During the past week, as results of mid-year examinations have been coming in, at least 25 varsity athletes at major colleges and universities throughout the United States have been dropped from school or declared ineligible for athletics because of scholastic deficiencies. The list probably is incomplete as these are only the ones whose names were mentioned in wire stories.

Such procedure is normal at this time when examination grades are posted and the new semester begins. But the attendant publicity isn't normal. In past years the colleges were inclined to adopt a hush-hush attitude when an athlete failed in his studies.

Only about a year ago it took several days for sports writers to confirm that Vic Janowicz, Ohio State's All-American football star, had flunked out. They had to locate Vic and persuade him to pay a campus parking fine so he could get his grades.

This year, possibly because of the NCAA academic principle or because the college presidents have demanded that athletes should also be students, the institutions are rushing in to print with the news when a star football or basketball player becomes ineligible.

And they're giving out the news in wholesale lots, too. Brown, for instance, came out last week with the word that Edward Sexton, center and captain-elect of the football team, and four hockey players had run afoul of academic deficiencies.

Notre Dame dropped three varsity basketball players: Entee Shine, Don Strosser and John Stevens, from the squad just a few hours before an important game with Kentucky.

At William and Mary, Willie Clark, 6-foot-6 basketball center, and three football players were dropped from school for failure to make proper academic progress. One of the football players, Bruce Capps, was ineligible to play last fall but Curtis Knight and Pat Reeves played.

On the other side, the only item of importance that has come to light recently was that Jack Molinas, Columbia basketball star who was declared ineligible last year, has made up his deficiency and rejoined the team.

Menhaden, a species of fish, move north from Florida waters only as the seasonal heat raises ocean temperature above 60 degrees.

The highest mountain peak in continental United States is Mt. Whitney with an altitude of 14,495 feet.

Easy Decision Dims James' Bid

BOSTON (UP)—The bid of New England heavyweight champion Willie James for national recognition was dimmed somewhat today because of the poor showing of Rex Layne of Salt Lake City, Utah, whom he outpointed with ease.

James was unimpressive in winning the 17th of his 19 bouts and for the most part was unable to deliver a direct or damaging blow to Layne, though he did score three knockdowns.

His victory came more through the ineptitude of Layne who went into the fight a 10 to 4 favorite, but who was slow and apparently out of shape.

AMATEURISM PAYS

WATKINS GLEN, N. Y. (UP)—Although the Grand Prix road race held here annually is strictly an amateur affair, a report by the finance committee revealed that staffing the event involved $18,619 and that assets exceeded liabilities. The local high school senior class made $750 on the sale of programs and drivers paid $2,890 in entrance

Chapter 23
The newspapers had got hold of the story and they made quite a splash with it for a few days. There were headlines: Young Art Student Charged With Attempted Killing; Rejected Suitor Kills Self; Starr Witness, Taxi-Driver, Claims Girl Fired In Self-Defense; Lovely Model Involved In Murder Mystery.

For somehow the reporters got on to the fact that Marcia had posed for a prize-winning portrait. There was even a newspaper reproduction of the portrait. There was a snapshot of Marcia entering the station house, with a policeman. But there were no others.

Victor Scott saw that. He took Marcia out to his country estate, where she was practically guarded day and night. Abigail, of course, stayed with her. And Tom MacIntyre came out every evening. Mr. Scott assured Marcia that he was pulling all the strings possible; he hoped that a private hearing could be arranged within a few days and then she would be freed of any charges or suspicions.

Tom told her she was not to worry about Elmwood, or her father. The story had not been reprinted out there; it would not be Abigail had sent for him that day, when her little sister had not shown up and Tommy had come without delay.

On other people, however, had not shown up yet. There had not been a word from Dean. Abigail had asked Marcia if she had any idea where Dean had gone. She told about her visit; that the landlady had suggested Marcia might know where he had gone, maybe even why.

"He might have gone to Mexico," Marcia returned. "He told me he might. He told me that he wanted to get away, see new places, travel." She had decided, after some thought, not to say anything more to Abigail as to why Dean might have left so unexpectedly, leaving no clue to his whereabouts.

Marcia knew how hurt his pride must have been when he had phoned that morning, no doubt several times, to receive no reply. Dean would have taken it for granted that when Marcia had not waited in for his call that she was giving him what he had called the "go by."

Marcia was not going to take away her sister's faith in the man she loved. There was no need now for Abigail ever to know that Dean had planned to take Marcia with him. For when he did return Marcia would be back in Elmwood.

She knew now that that was where she belonged. She did not fit into the life her sister led, any more than she would have into the out-of-the-way places Dean would have taken her.

For Marcia knew now that there could be, as Grace had told her, more than one kind of love. She knew now that had she been there that morning when Dean phoned she still would not have gone. She did not know what she would have said in refusal, but she could not have gone.

She guessed she had known it—and the reason—the minute she had looked past Mr. Scott's shoulder into Tommy MacIntyre's blue eyes.

She did not know, during the days that followed, how to tell Tommy all this. Not only because there were so many other matters that loomed as obstacles, but because Tommy himself did not make matters easier.

Abigail had taken Manning Kornoff's death very hard. She insisted the blame fell on her; she was as guilty as though she had killed him. Marcia suspected that her sister also felt that Dean's going away was punishment which she deserved.

Marcia did not know, until it was all over, that Abigail went with Victor Scott to the private hearing he had arranged. Abigail told the truth about everything.

"You shouldn't have done it!"

Marcia protested when Abigail told her all that she had said. Her sister's testimony had helped, but Marcia had been cleared anyway; the charges dropped.

She told Abigail that she felt that she ought to go home. She wished that Abigail would go with her.

But her sister said that she could not go at this time. She did not have to give the main reason: that she wanted to be here when Dean came back. She said that maybe she would visit Elmwood in the spring.

Tommy told Marcia that same evening that he was going back to Elmwood the next morning.

"Don't worry, Marcia, about your artist. I've had notices run personal columns, telling him to come back or send word. And Mr. Scott promised if the guy doesn't show up in reasonable time to put a private dick on the case."

"That's wonderful!" Marcia said. But she had thought of a plan, since her talk with Abigail, that might be even better, if she could get Tommy to agree. "I'm sure Dean will come back. But Tommy"—she smiled in her soft, velvety brown eyes—was just for him, if only he would see it—"we seem to have done nothing these past months except say good-bye. Don't you think we ought to put a stop to that?"

Tommy's jaw set in a firm line. "I sure do. I won't bother you any more, Marcia. I realize now I shouldn't. This is the last good-bye you'll have to say to me."

"I didn't mean that." How did you say what she had to say to Tommy? How could you make him believe you? "I meant no more good-byes, ever. You see, Tommy," her eyes smiled into his, "I'm going back to Elmwood—home—with you. If you'll take me."

(To be continued)

Ants Will Assist In Pest Control

RIVERSIDE, Calif. —(UP)— A 3,000-year-old system of insect control is under study here at the University of California experiment station. The system is based on pest-eating ants.

Dr. Stanley E. Flanders is planning tests on rearing of useful ant colonies that can be moved around as apiculturists do bees. The colonies would be turned loose on insect infestations in fruits and grains.

It's not as simple as it sounds, however.

The entomologist explained that only some ants have the right habits and it will take a lot of careful study to learn to control them.

The common Argentine ant that plagues California households with its raids on the cake drawer and jelly cupboard won't do.

"Certain ants that are harvesters or protect scale insects and aphids are harmful," Dr. Flanders said. "We want to cultivate only those that eat insects."

"Ants were used by the Chinese for control of citrus bug and caterpillars," the professor said.

Soil 'Solidified' By Machine That Shakes Ground

PASADENA, Calif. —(AP)— A machine which does a pretty thorough job of solidifying earth by shaking it has been developed by engineers at the California Institute of Technology.

The idea behind the machine is to simplify and speed up the foundation work on highways, airfields and buildings. The underlying ground has to be packed to take the weight without sinking.

The business end of the machine is a steel plate with an area of 15 square feet which shakes the ground immediately beneath it at varying rates, sometimes around 12 times a minute. Towed along a sandy beach, it solidified a streak of sand about 4 feet wide and 75 feet long in one minute.

Chicago's Trade Fair Scheduled In March, April

CHICAGO —(UP)— The second Chicago international trade fair is scheduled for March 22-April 6.

It promises to be the greatest single non-governmental boon to world civilian production in 1952, the exposition's management says.

Col. John N. Gage, executive director of the fair, said his prediction is based on two factors: a sharp decrease in Marshall Plan funds and the general restoration of civilian production achieved by nations stricken by World War II.

Those countries, Gage said, must now look to channels like the fair to sell more of their productions. Also, he said, international businessmen are beginning to realize that the U. S. defense program is taking much out of this nation's civilian production.

The first exposition attracted exhibitors from 44 free nations, 25,000 buyers and a general attendance of 20,000, Gage said.

Repeated Effort Wins His Arrest

STAMFORD, Conn. —(UP)— Some persons try hard to keep out of jail. Then there's Walter Gillan 31.

He asked for a night's lodging in a cell, but police turned him down three times.

Finally, Gillan assaulted two officers. He was locked up on charges of disorderly conduct and resisting arrest.

Judge Accepted Tippler's Offer

WESTFIELD, Mass. —(UP)— District Judge Florence W. Burke has met many inebriates, but none as considerate as the one who offered to cross the Connecticut line because the judge "had enough to do with drunks from her own state."

The law obliged and the tipsy defendant was hustled to the state line.

U.S. Longevity Figures Increase

NEW YORK, N. Y. — Longevity among American wage earners and their families increased to a new high in 1951, with expectation of life at birth rising to 68.5 years, according to Dr. Louis I. Dublin, chief statistician of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. This is a gain of about one fifth of a year over the 1950 figures.

Since the latter part of the 19th century, little more than two generations ago, expectation of life at birth has doubled in the industrial population. Among the Metropolitan's industrial policyholders, average length of life has increased by five years in the past decade, and by 10 years since the early 1930's.

The gains are attributed by Dr. Dublin to more healthful living and working conditions, better food, and to the outstanding gains in medical science and public health administration.

Americans' Diet Said Changing For The Better

WASHINGTON —(UP)— American diets in the last 15 years have shown big gains in the direction of proteins, vitamins and minerals and away from high calorie foods, according to Agriculture Department statistics.

Compared to the period before World War II, the people of the United States are eating 19 per cent more meat, poultry and fish; 42 per cent more eggs; 11 per cent more fruits and vegetables and 20 per cent more dairy products (except butter).

At the same time Americans are eating 24 per cent less potatoes and 17 per cent less grain products. Byron T. Shaw of the Agricultural Research Administration said that in spite of the progress, many groups are still below nutritional par in their eating. For instance, farm diets are most likely to be short on calcium and vitamins A and C which farm-produced milk, fruits, and vegetables could supply.

Troops In Rear Moved To Front

SINGAPORE —(AP)— The British Army in Singapore and Malaya is trying to get more men into the front lines at the expense of those in the rear areas.

High-ranking officers, noting the low proportion of rear echelon personnel to frontline troops in the Russian and Chinese Communist armies, say it is "essential" that the British army reduce its rear area staffs.

Judge Interrupts Matrimony Plans

PITTSBURGH —(AP)— A judge here sentenced an 18-year-old boy to the reformatory for an indefinite term after the youth told him he used a cap pistol in a holdup so he could obtain money to get married.

In handing down the sentence, Judge John J. Kennedy gave this advice: "The reformatory will do you more good than a wife."

Sixteen Groups Granted N.C. Funds-Raising Permits

RALEIGH — During the month of January licenses were granted by the State Board of Public Welfare to sixteen organizations to conduct fund-raising campaigns through public solicitations for the support of their programs it was announced yesterday by Dr. Ellen Winston, Commissioner.

Fifteen of these organizations were re-licensed in accordance with the State Solicitation Law. They are the American Foundation for Overseas Blind, Cooperative for American Remittances to Europe or CARE, and the United Board for Christian Colleges in China of New York City; the American Legion Auxiliary Department of North Carolina in Raleigh; Campbell College at Buie's Creek; Carolina Region, National Conference of Christians and Jews at Charlotte; two councils of Boy Scouts of America, namely, the Piedmont Council at Gastonia and the Tuscarora Council at Goldsboro; the Lions Clubs of Burlington, High Point and Raleigh; the North Carolina Division, American Cancer Society at Mount Airy; the North Carolina Heart Association and the North Carolina League for Crippled at Chapel Hill; and Pine-land College at Salemburg. The Highlands Biological Station at Highlands, North Carolina received a license to solicit funds for the first time. The total amount which these sixteen organizations will seek from the public at large in North Carolina is approximately $2,475,000.00. It was also announced that during the month of January the Gold Star Wives Service Foundation at Chicago, Illinois, and the Save the Children Federation of New York City solicited citizens of this state. The State Board of Public Welfare is pointing out that such solicitations are in violation of the North Carolina Solicitation Law since these organizations are not licensed in accordance with the State Statute.

Soil Could Feed Billion Persons

TRENTON, N. J. —(AP)— New Jersey farmers were told recently at a farm meeting that the soil of the United States is capable of producing "food in abundance" for one billion persons.

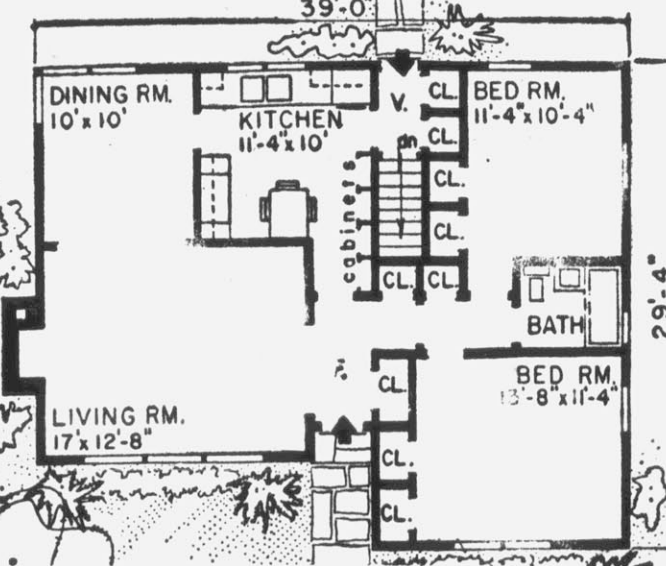

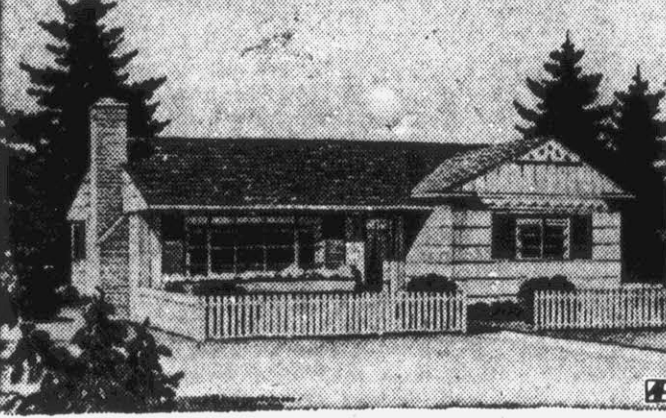

Dr. Firman E. Bear, chairman of the Rutgers University Soils Department, said the actual production problems of growing enough food for that many people would be very serious. He said land would have to be reclaimed from the sea, water for irrigation distilled from the ocean, floods brought under complete control and every acre of land conserved.

The soils specialist said that at the present time there are only about 12 acres of land for each person in the United States and over half of this is swamp, desert, mountain and lake.

"Virgin fertility of the soil has been largely exhausted," Bear said, "and we are no longer satisfied with the yields that unaided nature can provide."

The first network telecast of a U. S. presidential inauguration took place Jan. 20, 1949, when President Truman took office.

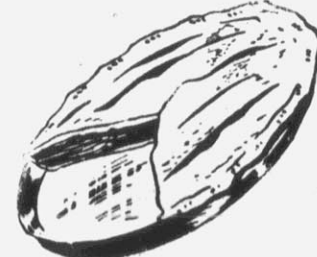

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

FOR A SMALL FAMILY this plan 223-T offers a lot of livability in economical construction. Designed by Edward R. Tyler, 586 Macon Road, Hempstead, N. Y., the house covers only about 1,030 square feet. A full basement, nine closets and floor-to-ceiling built-in cabinets in the kitchen provide an abundance of storage space. Front foyer with guest closet and a rear service vestibule with access to basement, kitchen and two closets are features of this plan.—AP Newsfeatures.

Stocks And Market Reports

NEW YORK (UP)—Stocks rose fractions to more than a point today under the leadership of oil and railroad issues. Trading was moderately active.

Outside of the rails and oils, improvements were mostly in the fractional zone. Trading picked up somewhat on the advance and sale in the first hour of dealings totaled 370,000 shares, compared with 240,000 in the same period yesterday.

Northern Pacific, which has been strong recently, led the rise in the carriers. It jumped 11 1-8 points to 63 3-4. Santa Fe added 1 1-2 points to 78 1-4.

Standard Oil of Indiana was the bright spot in its sector. It improved 5 5-8 points to 82. Cities Service, Sinclair Oil and Socoy-Vacuum tacked on small gains.

Chemicals were also in demand and Davison was in the van with a gain of a point to 40 1-2. Tires were led higher by General Tire which jumped 1 3-4 points to 62 3-4. Steels held around their previous close. Automotives turned higher just before the noon hour. Utilities were dull.

More Than Twenty Leaf Farmers At Final Meet other markets.

RALEIGH (UP)—Today's egg and poultry markets: Central North Carolina live poultry: Fryers and broilers steady, supplies plentiful, demand fair; heavy hens steady, supplies adequate to plentiful, demand fair. Prices paid producers FOB farm: Fryers and broilers 30, heavy hens 26-27.

More than 20 farmers attended the meeting in which Weeks lectured on the various phases and problems of tobacco production. Weeks demonstrated his talk with colored slides.

He spoke in detail on the damage done in the county by black shank and showed a number of slides of tobacco infested with the disease. Weeks said black shank made its appearance in the county around 1936 it began to increase in the forties.

"The best way to combat black shank," Weeks said, "is to plant disease resistant tobacco and rotate tobacco in three-year patterns."

Weeks explained the various methods of applying soil fumigants to tobacco soil and added that in his opinion soil fumigation pays off. He said two methods, broadcast and direct row, are the ways of application of fumigants.

The specialist spoke on plant bed sites, control of larvae in beds, blue mold, and methods and watering of the beds. Weeks said either dusting or spraying is a method which gives good results.

The farmers present showed interest in the information given them and asked many questions concerning tobacco production.

The meetings have been held by Weeks at various places in the county since the last of January.

Query On . . .

The board voted to purchase a triangle lot on Skinner Street for $300, and authorized the opening of the street. The aldermen also voted to refund $19.12 to James H. Ward for taxes paid on a residence in 1931. It was determined that two collections had been made on the same house.

Leave Time Allowed

After an investigation of a proposal made by Police Chief Guy C. Langston at a previous meeting, the board authorized all city departments to allow their employees to accumulate up to 30 days of leave time over a period of years. No more than 14 days can be accumulated in any one year, and the total cannot exceed 30.

The Traffic Committee was instructed to place signs prohibiting truck traffic on the portion of Reade Street lying between Fourth and Fifth Streets. It was reported that a constant flow of heavy truck traffic has been disturbing the classes at Greenville High School.

Plans for a new housing development known as College Court were approved last night. M. K. Blount informed the board he hoped to bring the new development into the city limits when he has completed making improvements and paving the streets. "We have a go ahead from the Federal Housing Authority as soon as plans are approved," he said.

Action was deferred on the previously discussed insurance policy for firemen. It was not clear as to whether a volunteer fireman is a city employee or not. The board expressed the hope that all departments can be brought in under the same type policy.

Students Petition

A petition from students at Greenville High School and the Parent-Teachers Association was read. They requested the city to complete, as quickly as possible, the portion of Fourth Street lying immediately behind the high school. Street Superintendent Beatty stated that heavy rains have brought work on the project to a halt. "It will have to wait until spring, at which time we plan to complete the paving," he said.

CHICAGO (UP)—Market 25 cents higher on good and choice 180-220 lb. barrows and gilts at 17.75. Wilmington, Mt. Olive, Washington, Jacksonville, Goldsboro, Wilson, Dunn, Smithfield, Clinton, Rich Square: Slightly stronger at 17.75.

RALEIGH (UP)—Hog markets: Pembroke, Tarboro, Kinston, Rocky Mount, Lumberton, Marion, Fayetteville, Florence: Steady on good and choice 180-240 lb. barrows and gilts at 17.75.

CHICAGO (UP)—Grain markets were mostly easier at mid-morning on the Board of Trade after opening mostly steady.

Grains failed soon after initial trade on increased offerings prompted in part by the belief that some wheat had been overbought.

There were reports that France had purchased U. S. wheat but there was little evidence of hedge fixing in early trade.

On the opening corn was showing an advance of as much as 1 cent a bushel which was partially attributed to recent improvement in the demand for the cash grain. However, at the mid-point the market was easing off in sympathy with

Cases Heard In City Police Court

Seven cases of no operator's license featured the Wednesday morning session of Greenville City Police Court, held before Judge Charles H. Whedbee.

Other cases were the outgrowth of traffic accidents in or around the city during the past week.

Cases disposed of were:

No operator's license: Preston Harper, J. Garland Whitehurst, Leonard Carmon, Henry C. Brown, and David Earl Hardee, each paid $25 less court costs.

Almuel Casey was not guilty of driving without a license and the case charging Hinton Q. Best with the same offense was not pressed.

A fine of $25 and costs was levied against Bessie Harris, for allowing a non-licensed driver to operate a motor vehicle.

Charlie Harris paid $15 for having no brakes and was also ordered to repair brakes before driving automobile again.

Improper brakes, Ulysses J. Dixon was given a 30-day suspended sentence upon payment of $10 and ordered not to operate his car for a period of one year, and case be retained for further order of the court.

Gertrude C. Taylor was not guilty of failure to stop for a "stop" sign.

Speeding: James H. Smith paid $15.

In the case charging William J. Harris with careless and reckless driving a verdict of guilty of driving to the left of the center of the highway was returned; also failure to yield the right of way, with a fine of $10 being imposed and subject ordered to make restitution for property damages.

Sam Roberson, paid $25 for speeding, less cost of court.

James L. Lee was given 30 days on the roads for larceny.

William James Vines, charged with embezzlement, was given a 30-day suspended sentence upon payment of $4.50 to Burney Warren, Jr., and pay $25 less cost of court to be placed on probation for a period of one year during which time he was not to violate any law.

Cars Damaged In Ayden Accident

AYDEN—Two cars were heavily damaged near here early this morning, but the occupants escaped serious injuries in the crash.

Highway Patrolman William M. Whitehurst of Ayden, and Cpl. H. M. Morrow of Greenville, who investigated the accident, stated that a car driven by James B. Euse, 25, of 903 West Third Street, Ayden, collided with a car operated by Major Smith, 61, of Route 1, Winterville.

Whitehurst stated that the car driven by Smith pulled out from a stop road into the path of the Euse car resulting in the crash.

Smith was cited to Ayden City Court on a charge of failure to yield the right of way.

Euse's small son was shaken up and taken to an Ayden doctor for examination, but the extent of his injuries were not known.

Damage to the Euse car was listed as $600 with around $500 damage to the Smith car.

The accident occurred at the intersection of Highway 102 and a rural road in Stokestown around 8:30 this morning.

Doctor Explains How Eyes Can Be Willed For 'Transplanting'

A "full house" of Greenville Jaycees attended a supper meeting at the Old Towne Inn last night and heard guest speaker Dr. M. P. Hoot explain how people can now will their eyes to science.

Dr. Hoot said the transplanting of the human eye is not new in the annals of medical science, but until recently it was confined to the metropolitan areas of the United States.

"We now have in North Carolina an organization known as the Eye-bank for Restoring Sight, Inc.," he disclosed. "It is a non-profit organization made up of people from every walk of life, and is designed to help people who are blind in the front part of the eye—the cornea."

The speaker explained that headquarters for the eye-bank in this state is in Winston-Salem. In order to get an eye from the bank, Dr. Hoot said, the recipient must be blind in both eyes. In addition, another eye must replace the one to be transplanted.

"It is very simple to will your eyes," the doctor told the Jaycees. "You just sign the necessary forms that at your death, your eyes may be removed by some established surgeon and flown by plane to the site of the established eye-bank." Everything is carried out just as if one were having an operation, he stated.

According to Dr. Hoot, the human eyes are replaced by plastic eyes which are comparable to human in appearance. "It is a morbid subject," he asserted, "but think of the good that may come from such a small sacrifice on your part."

A new member was inducted into the local Jaycees in special ceremonies last night. Bill Childress received a Jaycee emblem and became affiliated with the Greenville organization.

Bill Watson gave a report on the Eighth District meeting held at Havelock Wednesday night. "The district Jaycees are making plans to establish a club in Snow Hill and Ayden," he said. "Of the 13 clubs in the entire state who met their membership quota this year, the Eighth District had eight of them."

Watson disclosed that at present, there are Jaycee organizations in 22 foreign countries. "The plan is to establish Jaycee clubs in every country in the world."

Both the speaker for the evening and the report on the Havelock meeting were enthusiastically received by the group last night.

Don't let Root Knot cut your tobacco yields!

Growers throughout this belt lose money on pest-infested soil

Many tons of fine tobacco are ruined every year by the nematodes that cause root knot. Now there's no longer any need for putting up with this crop damage . . . treating your soil with D-D gives effective control at low cost.

D-D PREVENTS ROOT KNOT!

Many of your neighbors will have higher yields of better leaf this year because they are using D-D before planting. D-D is recommended by agricultural authorities . . . heartily endorsed by growers everywhere. A D-D treatment isn't rightly an expense . . . it pays many times over in greater yields of better crops.

We'll help you . . . We'll show you how to use your cultivator or plow for a really low-cost application job . . . or we'll arrange for a trained crew to treat your land for you economically. Either way you'll get the control that means full profit. Phone or write for the facts now.

City's PTA Council Starting Study Course Next Monday

The City Parent-Teacher Association Council is starting a study course for parents and teachers on Monday of next week.

The Council holds an annual institute of this kind every year. It is one of the requirements which has to be met in order for an association to qualify as an accredited one.

Dr. Leo Jenkins, Dean of Men at East Carolina College and chairman of the Training School Parent Education committee, is serving as chairman of the institute.

The first of three courses will be held on Monday night at West Greenville School. The second in the series will be held at the Third Street School on the following Monday night, February 18. The institute will conclude with a session on Wednesday night February 20, with a meeting at the Training School.

Each session will start at 7:30 and conclude at 9:00 p.m.

The theme for the institute is "Better Understanding of Our Schools and Children." On Monday night the question of school finance will be discussed on the national, state and local levels. D. H. Conley, county superintendent and J. K. Long, head of the Education Department of East Carolina College, will discuss the problems relating to the financial situation in the schools. A discussion period will follow during which time parents and teachers will be encouraged to present questions from the floor.

On the following Monday at the session to be held at the Third Street School, a panel discussion will feature the evening's program.

Dr. Jenkins will serve as moderator. Taking part as members of the panel will be Charles Whedbee and Louis Gaylord, Jr., representing business and law; Dr. Keith D. Holmes, professor of education at East Carolina College representing professional educators; Mrs. W. W. Smiley representing the mothers; D. S. M. Crisp representing the medical profession; Mr. J. A. Neilson representing the ministers; Miss Annie Mae Murray representing the teachers; Pete Eaton, representing the students; and Carl Willis, representing the practice teachers.

The entire evening will be devoted to answering questions put to the panel from floor members. Questions such as the value of homework, discipline in the school room, closer coordination between parents and teachers, the physical and mental health of the pupils, etc., are expected to be discussed.

The final meeting of the Institute will be on Wednesday, February 20, at which time Dr. Leslie B. Hohman from Duke University will be guest speaker. Dr. Hohman is a neuro-psychiatrist at Duke Hospital and has much to offer parents and teachers in discussing the mental and emotional problems of the school child.

The City P. T. A. Council is composed of representatives from each of the three white elementary schools — West Greenville, Third Street and Training. The president of each P. T. A., the Parent Education chairman, the school principal and one member elected at large, from each school form membership on it. Mrs. Robert Funnell is chairman of the Council. Miss Frances Wahl is vice chairman and Mrs. C. E. Oakley is secretary and treasurer.

Debaters Break Even At Wilson

Debaters from East Carolina College meeting teams from Atlantic Christian College in a contest at Wilson Wednesday evening of this week, broke even by winning one debate and losing one. The event was the third annual meeting between the Jarvis Forensic Club of East Carolina and teams from Atlantic Christian.

The topic of argument Wednesday was the national inter-collegiate debate topic for 1952: Resolved, That the Federal Government Should Adopt a Permanent Program of Wage and Price Controls.

Dr. Meredith N. Posey, faculty advisor of the Jarvis Forensic Club at East Carolina, accompanied the college debaters to Wilson. In the three-year series of debates between the colleges, East Carolina has won four contests and lost two. Dr. Posey states.

The two teams from East Carolina will go to Hickory February 28 and 29 to participate in the South Atlantic Forensic Tournament, an annual contest for teams from colleges over a wide area.

Set Hearing On Catawba Dispute

SALISBURY —(AP)—Results of an inquiry into what spokesmen termed a conflict between administration and anti-administration sentiment in the Catawba College faculty will be aired at a board of trustees meeting here Feb. 17.

Yesterday's closed session held at a local hotel was attended by about a dozen witnesses, including college personnel and townspeople. Previously identified as central figures in the case were Dr. and Mrs. Christopher Thomas of the music department and J. C. Hadley of the education department.

Dr. A. R. Keppie is president of the college.

One witness, who declined to be identified, described yesterday's session as "very courtly."

The hearing was ordered by the college board of trustees. It was the latest in a series of events at the school involving controversy over administration and affecting students, alumni, faculty and trustees.

Recent meetings of students, alumni and trustees have resulted in formal statements of complete faith in the administration.

HD Clubs' Lectures For Month Deal With Farm Living Outlook

Members of home demonstration clubs in the county are hearing demonstrations this month on "The 1952 Outlook for Farm Living."

Mrs. Anne Parker Hodges, assistant home demonstration agent, said the club meetings this month would center around problems facing the rural people this year.

Mrs. Hodges said a number of the problems which are before farm families are: Rural women working outside the home, girls and boys facing the problem "what shall we do?" boys going into the service and the items which will be scarce and which prices will rise.

Lectures on the preceding problems have been given in a number of clubs this month and will continue throughout February.

Named To Dean's List In UNC School

Godfrey E. Dixon and Claude R. Wilson of Robersonville were recently named to the Dean's List in the University of North Carolina's School of Business Administration.

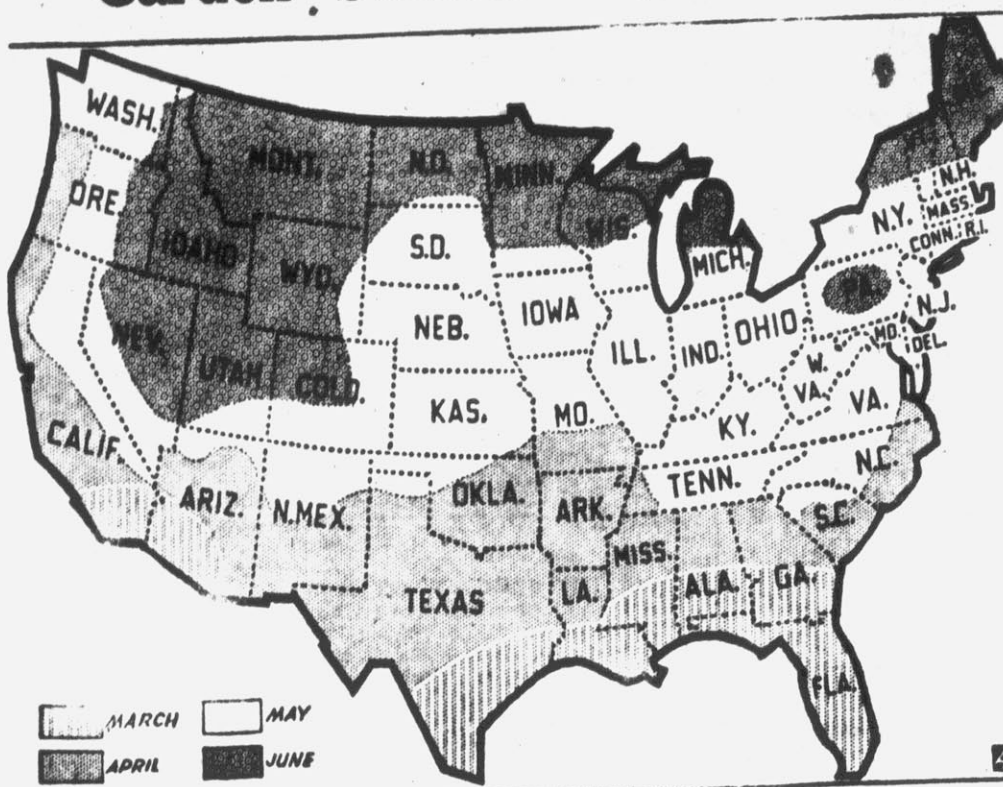

The two were among the 97 students, of which 84 were North Carolinians, which made the Dean's List during the past quarter. To be eligible for the Dean's List a student has to average a "B" or better on all courses.

SOUNDED LIKE "FIRE"

PITTSFIELD, Mass. —(UP)—A woman entered the home of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Cultera and spoke excitedly in a foreign tongue. The Culteras thought she said "Fire," so they sounded an alarm. After three pieces of apparatus, a police cruiser and an ambulance had arrived, it developed that the woman was merely asking street directions.

THE FROST MAP, showing the month in which the average last killing frost may occur in the spring. There are few places in the U. S. completely frost free, about them Key West and the Imperial Valley in California. Growing weather travels northward at about 15 miles a day, beginning at the southern tip of Florida and the Gulf coast early in March. There is roughly a month's difference between the last killing frost dates from the southern tip to the northern edges of each zone shown on the map. Allowance also must be made for mountainous elevations. Gardeners usually wait a week or two after the last killing frost date for the ground to warm before setting out tender plants.—AP Newsfeatures.

Non-Stop Highway Lane To Link Chicago, Coast

HARRISBURG, Pa. —(UP)—Within the next few years motorists will be able to travel almost 1,000 non-stop miles on a concrete, four-lane concrete ribbon stretching from the east coast to Chicago.

Almost 500 miles of state turnpikes in Pennsylvania and New Jersey will be open to traffic early this year, with plans for another 500 miles of similar super-roads well under way in Ohio and Indiana.

Pennsylvania, which opened the first turnpike to the country in 1940, now has a 327-mile toll highway stretching east and west from a point Pennsylvania toll road—a "guinea pig" for the others—was 160 miles long. The latest section, a 67-mile stretch from Pittsburgh to the Ohio boundary, was dedicated in late November.

Trouble Blamed On Press Policy

WASHINGTON —(AP)—A close-mouthed press policy is being blamed by some Agriculture Department officials today for much of the criticism the agency is getting because of the recently disclosed grain shortages.

They said if the department's own information staff had reported each case as it developed, little attention probably would have been aroused. But they contend the individual cases were so comparatively small, officials actually did not think them newsworthy.

The result, however, was to have all the stories break at once, making the situation appear much worse than agriculture officials say it really is.

The admittedly short-sighted policy has now been changed, but too late to stop the bad publicity and congressional investigations.

Preliminary investigations indicate the government may lose several million dollars through shortages of various types, including acts of some warehouse concerns in converting department grain to their own use.

Secretary Brannan has expressed confidence losses through warehouse conversions will total less than a million dollars. Inventory losses of all kinds, he says, will compare favorably with those of business concerns.

Flourine Long Known; Dental Use Is Recent

Marco Polo had an experience with flourine. The great explorer came upon it in China. In the first recorded report about the chemical he wrote that it damaged his horses' hoofs.

But, by no means, is all the flourine in China. In fact, it is found in many parts of the world. It is three times as abundant as lead and three times as abundant as copper.

Flourine is used in the steel industry to help remove impurities. It is used in making high octane gasoline and for other purposes in the chemical industry. The ceramic industry also uses it extensively.

Flourine first became a concern of the dental profession early in this century at Colorado Springs, Colo. The few dentists in that town formed a dental society in 1908, and under the leadership of Dr. Frederick S. McKay, set out to find out what caused the town's children to have mottled (stained and notched) teeth.

At his own expense, Dr. McKay started riding around the country to try to find the answer. He found one town where the children did not have mottled teeth. Nearby were a dozen communities where the children had severe cases of stained teeth. The only apparent difference between the town whose children were free of mottling and the other communities was that it had a different source of water.

Dr. McKay consulted Dr. Greene Vardiman Black, the great Chicago dental scientist. They made studies in Colorado, South Dakota, Arizona and Arkansas. They found several towns where children's teeth became mottled after sources of water supplies were changed. Two towns changed back to their original water sources and the mottling ended. Later examinations of children's teeth showed, however, that those which had erupted since the second change was made were more subject to decay than the mottled teeth. Thus, the investigators discovered that water which caused mottling also had a decay-preventive factor.

In 1931, H. V. Churchill, chief chemist for an aluminum company in a town which had changed its sources of water, set forth the possible relation between flourine and mottling. Water in other areas
