Another Airliner Crashes In City

Third Disaster For Elizabeth, N. J. In Two Months As Big Transport Falls Into Congested Residential Area; 29 Persons Are Killed

ELIZABETH, N. J. (UP)—Newark airport's third airliner disaster within two months killed 29 persons and injured 42 early today. A huge four-engine DC-6 was the third big transport to crash into heavily congested residential sections of this city.

Government authorities in Washington spoke of a "jinx" but the New York Port Authority, operators of the airport, revealed that it had received anonymous bomb threats against both its Newark and its New York City LaGuardia airports.

So grave were the implications that the authority shut down Newark, one of the country's biggest and busiest airports, at 3 a. m. "in the light of these tragic events and pending further investigation."

Today's disaster plane was owned by National Airlines. It smashed into a four story apartment house in which 60 families were sleeping two minutes after its take-off for Miami. Both building and plane burst into flames.

It occurred within the same square mile of Elizabeth in which the two other airliners crashed Dec. 16 and Jan. 22, the first just after leaving Newark, the second while attempting an instrument landing.

The newest crash was on a clear, moonlighted night. The first crash occurred in good weather too but the second was on a rainy foggy afternoon. Engine trouble was the indicated cause of the latest disaster as well as of the first.

Fifty-nine passengers, including three babes in arms, and a crew of four were on board. Twenty-two passengers, three crewmen and 29 residents of the building were and three residents of the building were killed. Thirty-one passengers and nine residents were some gravely injured.

In addition, five persons were missing and may prove to be dead. Several passengers and the pretty little stewardess, Miss Nancy Taylor, 22, escaped serious injury.

The plane crashed two minutes after its take-off and was in trouble practically from the instant its wheels left the runway.

Miss Taylor said: "All of a sudden the engines sputtered and stopped and then we went down." A passenger said he saw the propeller of the far right engine turning in reverse. The pilot, Wayne G. Foster, radioed the control tower: "Lost an engine. Coming back."

Other passengers were conscious, in the seconds before disaster, of the pilot fighting to keep his plane in the air. Some said he got no higher than a few hundred feet and Miss Taylor said it was 1,000 to 1,500 feet. Then, suddenly, the heavy plane "dropped like a shot," as one passenger put it.

Foster jettisoned his gasoline and it showered down on the roof of an apartment house. The plane wavered on, skimming roof-tops. It barely cleared the roof of an orphanage in which 60 children were sleeping, and smashed into a second apartment house, four and a half blocks East of the first.

It seemed to explode into fire with the impact, showering flames over the roof of the building. But only the heavy landing wheels and their gear struck the building. Wings and fuselage slid across the roof, flip-flopped, and smashed into the mud, play field of the orphanage.

The flames were licking along the outside of the fuselage, fed from the wing gas tanks. The impact checked them long enough for surviving passengers to save themselves and to rescue some who were injured too severely to move. Passesby rushed into the wreckage and one of them rescued Miss Taylor who was hanging upside down from the safety belt which bound her to a "jump seat."

Meanwhile, the top floor of the apartment house already was roaring with fire. The occupants of the apartment hid directly were killed - Irving Zahler, 29, his wife, Mary In, 27, and their four-year-old son, Monte.

Foster and his co-pilot, C. E. Sinclair, were among the dead. The flight engineer, I. R. Snea, was missing and presumed dead.

President Takes Personal Hand In Senate Races

Seeks Strong Demo Slate For Fall Elections To Retain Control

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Truman is taking a personal hand in efforts to line up a strong slate of Democratic Senate candidates for this fall's elections, it was disclosed today.

A Democratic party official said Mr. Truman has been particularly interested in getting Reps. Henry Jackson (Wash.), Mike Mansfield (Mont.) and Walter Granger (Utah) and Missouri Atty. Gen. J. C. Taylor into the Senate races in their states.

In all those states, Senate seats now held by Republicans are at stake in November.

Democratic leaders are especially concerned with putting up the strongest possible Senate slates for two reasons: They see a good chance of holding control of the Senate even if the GOP wins the national election; they remember 1948 when strong Senate candidates in several states were credited with pulling Mr. Truman's national ticket to victory.

Mr. Truman told a news conference a few weeks ago that he planned to keep hands-off all Democratic primary contests except those in his home state of Missouri.

But moments later he endorsed Granger and said he hoped no one would run against him in the Utah Democratic senatorial primary.

This was apparently aimed at Rep. Reva Beck Bosone (D-Utah) who has been considering a bid for the senatorial nomination.

Mansfield formally announced his candidacy last week. Jackson and Taylor are expected to throw their hats into the ring soon.

In other political developments: 1. Campaign manager David S. Ingalls reported that Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, a leading GOP presidential contender, is gaining in popularity with the rank and file voters of the nation.

2. Reliable sources in Paris reported that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower is cold-shouldering mounting demands from his supporters that he come home and campaign actively for the Republican nomination. Eisenhower, who has said he would accept the GOP nomination if he received a "clear cut call to political duty," has no plans to return to this country for speaking within the foreseeable future, the informants said.

3. Sen. Estes Kefauver (Tenn.) only avowed candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, took an apparent dig at President Truman's early political association with the Pendergast machine in Missouri. Campaigning in New Hampshire, where he will run against Mr. Truman in the March 11 Democratic primary, Kefauver told an audience in Nashua that the "moral tone" of a "governor, senator, ambassador or president" usually is set by his early experiences in politics.

4. Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill.) praised Mr. Truman for leaving his name in the New Hampshire primary. He said, however, that the President should go into other state primaries if he intends to seek reelection.

5. GOP presidential aspirant Harold E. Stassen said in a Manitowish, Wis., speech that the St. Lawrence Seaway would be "good" for the nation but is being blocked by "narrow-minded" business and other groups. He also supported the proposed Missouri Valley project.

6. A note addressed to him and signed "Your twisted son, John."

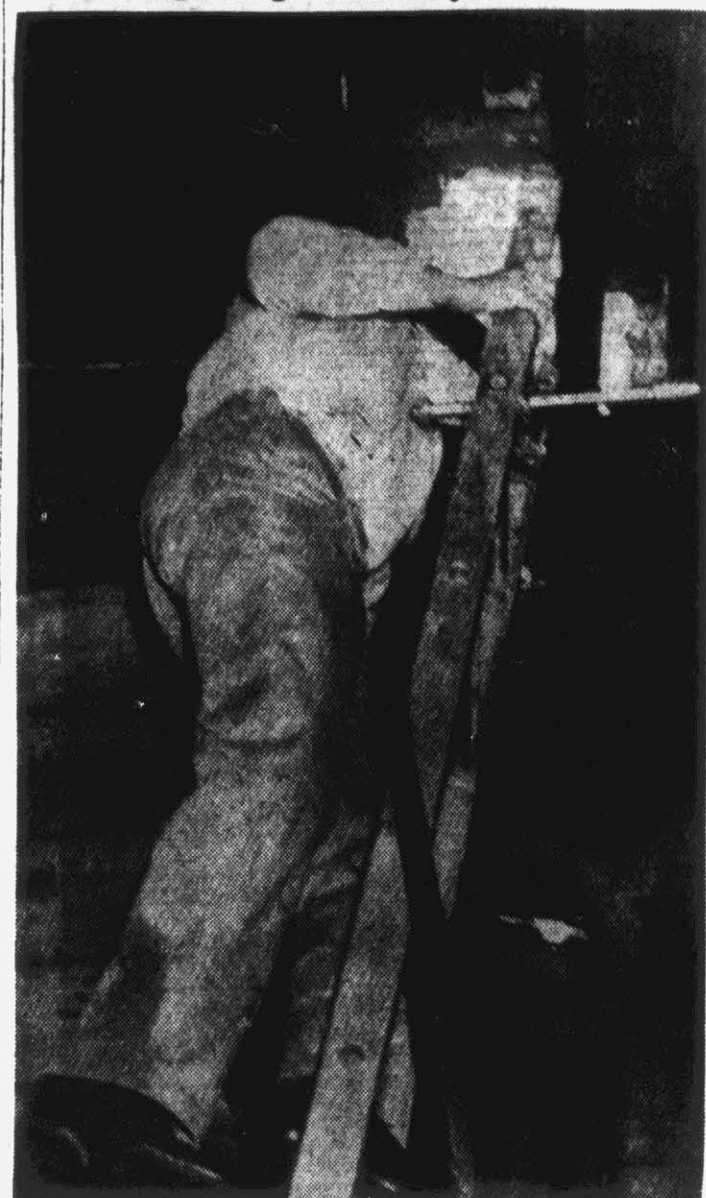

At Kirkwood, Mo., State Highway patrolmen who picked up the boy in his father's car for routine questioning said John told them he killed them with a shotgun Saturday night.

The victims were Mrs. Catherine Schulz, 38; Robert, 11; and Catherine, 6.

The elder Schulz, business agent for Local 174 of the Laundry Workers Union, had left earlier Saturday to attend a union meeting at La Crosse, Wis.

Missouri Patrol Sergeants A. S. White and L. A. Pego said John, a high school junior, gave them this account:

Fighting Saturday Blaze

A Greenville fireman is shown as he battled a roof blaze which broke out in the Old Vines Home, located on Fifth and Pitt streets, early Saturday afternoon. Fire which was burning under the tin covered roof, may be seen above the fire fighter's head. The house, owned by The King's Daughters, was not heavily damaged. It was one of two fires which occurred in Greenville Saturday. (Reflector Staff Photo by Roy Hardee)

Possibly Serious Fires Averted Here Saturday

Salvation Army Rooming House And Cannon's Warehouse On Tenth Street Ignited; Costly Damage Threatened

Two serious fires were averted in Greenville Saturday by prompt work of the Greenville Fire Department.

Firemen answered an alarm to the Salvation Army rooming house, located at Fifth and Pitt streets, shortly before three o'clock Saturday afternoon, when fire was discovered in the top of the building.

Firemen quickly laid in hose lines covering the area and were able to bring the threatening flames under control in a short period of time.

It was not known how the blaze could have started, since the fire had burned a hole through the top part of the roof, where there were no electric wires or anything else which might have caused the blaze, firemen stated. It was suggested that a fire might have been constructing a nest in the ceiling of the bedroom and placed a match or cigarette in the nest, but the location of the fire made that seem unlikely, firemen said.

No estimate of the damage was made at the time, but it was understood that the building was insured.

The Salvation Army leased the building from the Greenville King's Daughters to be used as a rooming home for service men and others, most of whom were out at the time. The house had originally been purchased for use by The King's Daughters as a home for the aged, but the move was later blocked by the Fire Marshal's office in Raleigh.

Just before midnight Saturday, a blaze broke out in the rear of Cannon's Warehouse on Tenth Street, and for a time offered a serious threat to the building. Firemen quickly responded and the blaze was brought under control in a short period of time.

The elder Schulz, business agent for Local 174 of the Laundry Workers Union, had left earlier Saturday to attend a union meeting at La Crosse, Wis.

Missouri Patrol Sergeants A. S. White and L. A. Pego said John, a high school junior, gave them this account:

New Charges Of Military Waste Told At Hearing

Estimated $10 Billions Tied Up In Unserviceable Items Ordered

WASHINGTON (UP)—Rep. Jack Z. Anderson (R-Calif.) charged today that military supply lines are clogged with vast stores of stuff the armed forces don't even know they have.

He estimated that about $10,000,000,000 of the taxpayers' money is tied up in "unserviceable and uncatalogued items" which the military couldn't find and use if they wanted to.

Included in the mountains of material being wasted, he said, are critical materials desperately needed to speed up plane and tank production.

Anderson, a key member of the House committee on waste in military spending, made the assertions as the committee opened hearings on failure of the armed forces to do their buying from a single, uniform catalog.

Instead they use 15 catalogs, a single one of which may run five to six feet thick.

Anderson said this results in waste, duplication, inefficiency and loss which he said may total as high as $10,000,000,000 yearly.

He said the services can't tell what they have, or where they have it, because they don't know how it is listed. He said stocks of some items have been found sufficient to last 240 years.

Maintenance and disposal of $10,000,000,000 of unserviceable and uncatalogued items clogging the supply systems are putting a strain on the economy and a tax burden on the individual citizens that is becoming unbearable," Anderson asserted.

Anderson, a long-time sponsor of legislation to force the military to use a consolidated catalog, by implication accused the military of sabotaging a single catalog drive that got under way in Congress as long as 23 years ago.

He said the military fears it will lose control of "powerful supply empires" built up by separate services and separate branches within the services over the years.

Anderson said Congress first authorized a single catalog in 1929, and efforts to set it up have been made since. In the last three years alone, he said, $45,000,000 has been spent on the project.

"Yet today there is no single catalog system," he said, "and the conclusion is inescapable that there exists either a colossal ignorance, a determined resistance or almost criminal negligence."

The hearing opened in a committee room converted into a "chamber of horrors." The term was applied by Chairman F. Edward Hebert (D-La.) to an exhibit of comparable items bought by different services under different specifications and at widely varying prices.

The display included blankets, shoes, boots, nails, carpenter's squares, and other commonly-used items, bought under different specifications and at different prices by different services and separate branches within services.

The Bonn Parliament voted by a slim margin last week to help defend the West. But it hedged its pledge with demands for the Allies to stop all direct influence on German affairs, for an equal voice in western strategic councils, for release of most of the 1,000 German war criminals, and for elimination of all allied restrictions on German affairs.

Allied observers said these new demands had given Adenauer new bargaining power, but the Big Three's home governments now must decide how much they'll concede.

Chairman Hoey (D-NC), before leaving on a southern trip, told a reporter the subcommittee "considers that is sufficient warning to government officials and to everyone that we will be very severe in reporting to Congress in any future case of influence peddling."

Two other members of the group said they will "insist on summary dismissal" of any federal worker found in trouble with known influence peddlers after that warning.

Senator Mundt (R-SD), put it this way: "If the head of an agency lets that agency get pulled into some smelly, but within-the-law deal with an influence peddler, he is going to be held responsible."

Red China's Right To Be In Peace Parley Challenged

U.S. Ports Now Under Guard For Atomic Sabotage

Specially - Trained Squads Inspect Visiting Vessels At Major Ports

WASHINGTON (UP)—Specially trained squads are guarding all major U. S. seaports against any possible enemy attempt to smuggle atomic bombs and other "unconventional weapons" into this country, it was revealed today.

David B. Strubinger, assistant commissioner of the customs bureau, made the disclosure in testimony published by a House Appropriations subcommittee.

Strubinger said the possibility of secret entry of "unconventional weapons for attack" gives the bureau "much greater concern" than gun, narcotics and "old smuggling" — its three major worries in the past.

"Key personnel of customs searching squads at all principal U. S. seaports have been given a special course on atomic weapons by the Atomic Energy Commission at Sandia Base, Albuquerque, N.M.," he said.

"These employees are now familiar with the appearance of an atomic bomb as well as its components and can readily identify such articles if they come to their attention providing the construction is similar to U. S. atomic weapons manufactured by our government."

"Other customs personnel, including customs inspectors, port patrol officers, customs examiners and examiner's aides have been furnished secret information on atomic weapons."

CHICAGO (UP)—FBI agents hid in an apartment room and watched a Selective Service psychiatrist accept payment for a phony 4-F classification from a young draft inductee.

Federal agents yesterday arrested Dr. Charles Herband, 43, an alien from Israel, for violations of the Selective Service Act after they saw the psychiatrist accept $50 from Henry Friedman, 26.

Harry T. O'Connor, FBI agent-in-charge in Chicago, said Friedman notified authorities after he allegedly paid Herband $500 for a false diagnosis. It stated that Friedman was a "sexual deviate."

This automatically classifies the inductee 4-F, thereby exempting him from service.

Friedman, who is married, told agents that Herband offered to help him escape the draft when he appeared for a physical examination at the Chicago induction center Dec. 17.

Herband told Friedman that there was nothing wrong with him but that he would get a 4-F classification, the youth said. Friedman told Herband "coached" him on how to act like a sexual deviate in the event of a checkback.

Friedman said Herband took $500 for the false diagnosis, and then asked for $50 more after the 4-F rating was issued. A rendezvous was set for the last payment and Friedman called authorities to witness the transaction.

Police Report 167 Arrests For January In Activities

City policemen made 167 arrests and patrolled 1,069 miles in Greenville during the month of January. Police Chief Guy C. Langston reported this morning.

Of the total number of arrests made, 150 were for routine violations of the law, and 17 were for more serious offenses. In the more serious class were three arrests for aggravated assault, two for burglary, two for automobile theft, and 10 for larceny.

In the lesser offense bracket, 66 arrests were made for violations of traffic motor vehicles and driving laws. Other arrests were: 14 for minor assaults, 30 for drunkenness, seven for disorderly conduct, and three for sex offenses.

Asks Extension

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman, saying the country must prevent the flow of inflation "from break out," asked Congress today for a two-year extension of price and wage controls. This would keep them in force until mid-1954.

In a special message the President also assailed "bad legislation" three of the changes Congress made in the defense production act (the controls law) last summer.

He asked specifically for repeal of the Capetart, Herlong and Butler-Hope amendments. And he asked, too, for restoration of the power the government had under the original law to regulate consumer and real estate credit.

City Tax Take Is Above Last Year

Through January, the city has collected more money in taxes for the fiscal year 1951-1952 than was collected through January last year, City Clerk H. H. Duncan reported this morning.

Through January 31, $256,849.69 of the total year's levy of $298,801.43 had already been collected. That is more than the $252,725.42 collected through June of 1951.

Total collections for the month of January was $34,084, leaving only $41,951 to be collected through the remainder of the fiscal year which ends June 30. That is only 14 percent of the total levy of $298,801.43 still outstanding.

"Collections are going well ahead of schedule," Duncan said this morning. "With 88 percent of the total levy already in, total outstanding taxes dating from 1940 to 1950 were reduced from $93,727.46 at the end of December to $68,510.01 through January 31."

Included in the total reduction figures were delinquent taxes amounting to $76,558.27 at the end of December, and $26,887.86 at the end of January. The slight rise in this January figure is accounted for by the addition of $9,661.67 to the delinquent taxes for 1950.

Charges Husband Preferred Dog

VENTURA, Calif. (UP)—Mrs. Ocie Mae Morris had a divorce from her husband of 27 years today because she said he preferred the company of his hound dog to her.

But even in court she couldn't escape the sober face of the "other party."

Curled under the bench of Superior Judge Atwell Westick was his honor's hound dog, Batch, complacently listening to the plaintiff's accusations against his breed.

Forest-Planting Tribute Planned

COLUMBUS, O. (UP)—A forest of 30,000 trees will be planted on Jewish National Fund land in Israel in honor of New York industrialist Albert Schiff, it was announced today.

Schiff, a vice president of the Shoe Corp. of America, was honored at a banquet here last night for his "life-long devotion to the Zionist cause."

Club was the second career diplomat to be investigated by the department's loyalty and review board. The other was John Service, who also was cleared by the department's loyalty board.

Later, however, the President's special loyalty board found grounds for doubt of his loyalty and he was dismissed from the department.

UN Delegation Points Out That Chinese Army In Korea Described As 'Volunteers', Apart From Gov't Action; Oppose Widening Agenda Topics

PANMUNJOM, Korea (UP)—The United Nations today challenged Communist China's right to take part in a post-armistice Korean peace conference.

Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, head of the U. N. truce delegation, asked the Reds how China could claim a seat at the peace conference if she still contended that the only Chinese troops in Korea were "volunteers."

"They could not answer that question," Joy said after the plenary session. "It was the one choice bit of the day."

Joy also told Communist negotiators that the U. N. would refuse to take any further action under the final item on the truce agenda if the Reds insisted on widening the proposed Korean peace conference to include other Asian problems.

The final agenda item calls for recommendations to the belligerent government regarding a final peace settlement in Korea. It would be held 90 days after a truce has been signed.

"It is our view that if the commanders must make inappropriate recommendations, then the U. N. command will be opposed to any recommendations be made," Joy said.

Moreover, he said, the U. N. does not consider any of the recommendations proposed by the Reds essential to a truce.

At later meeting of staff officers on the question of exchanging war prisoners, the U. N. yielded to a Communist demand that both sides have the same time limit for returning prisoners.

The U. N. previously had asked for 60 days in which to turn over the 132,000 Communist war prisoners it holds, but asked the Reds to return all their 11,559 known Allied prisoners within 30 days of an armistice.

No definite new time limit was fixed because the U. N. asked more time to study how long it would take to move the huge number of Communist prisoners to the exchange point.

The U. N. also offered to give up its demand that neutral interview teams comb Communist rear areas to assist displaced civilians to return to their homes.

But the Allies asked the Reds in return to "spell out" the mission and functions of the joint U. N.-Communist prisoner exchange committee. The other was Red Cross teams which will visit prison camps.

At another meeting of staff officers, the Communists offered to permit five neutral nation truce observation teams to roam behind their lines if the Allies would agree to limit ports through which troops might be rotated during an armistice to three.

U. N. officers rejected the offer. They held out for eight ports of entry on each side.

Both the full truce delegations and the staff officer groups will meet again Tuesday.

High Diplomat's Loyalty Cleared But Will Resign

WASHINGTON (AP)—The State Department said today O. Edmund Clubb, foreign service officer, has been cleared by a department loyalty and security board but will resign, effective today.

Clubb was the second career diplomat to be investigated by the department's loyalty and review board. The other was John Service, who also was cleared by the department's loyalty board.

Rode In Ambulance Five Hours To Find Hospital

RALEIGH (AP)—Mrs. Nonie Clark, admitted to St. Agnes Hospital here after a five-hour ambulance ride in search of treatment, remained in serious condition today.

The 28-year-old Orange County Negro mother of six children suffered second and third degree burns last Tuesday night in a vain attempt to save two of her children when their home near Farmington burned.

She was turned away at Duke Hospital and Lincoln Hospital for Negroes in Durham because the ambulance driver was told no ambulance was available.

Saturday Afternoon Tea Compliments Mrs. Jones

Mrs. Kenneth Mercer and Mrs. Vernon Tyson were hostesses at an informal tea on Saturday afternoon to honor Mrs. Dan Jones, the former Marjorie Harris, who was recently wed in ceremonies in San Antonio, Texas.

Guests were invited to call between the hours of 4:30-6:00 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Mercer. The entrance hall mantel was decorated with a lighted taper and trailing ivy.

In the upstairs apartment, callers were welcomed at the door by Mrs. Paul Scott, Jr. Standing just inside the door was the receiving line composed of Mrs. Mercer, Mrs. Tyson, Mrs. Jones, Miss Josephine Cusick, newly appointed assistant Home Demonstration agent, and Mrs. Leone Mercer of New Bern, mother-in-law of the hostesses.

The apartment was appropriately decorated for the occasion with white bridal flowers and lighted white tapers. Fern and ivy were used to complete the decorative note.

The table in the dining room was covered with a white imported Chinese linen cloth and centered with a bowl of white snapdragons and fern. Tapers in triple holders encircled the lovely centerpiece.

Mrs. Joe Robertson invited the guests into the den, from where they were directed to the serving table in the dining room by Mrs. Claude Christopher, Jr. Mrs. Ruel Tyson presided over the tea service and assisting her in passing ribbon sandwiches, cheese straws, open faced sandwiches, pastries and salted nuts were Mrs. Robert Holt, Mrs. George Shelton and Mrs. Edward Jones.

Mrs. Jones was given a corsage of red roses and gifts of silver. Miss Cusick was remembered with a linen handkerchief.

Fleming Hall Students Hostesses At Valentine Tea

Students living in Fleming Hall at East Carolina College entertained Sunday afternoon at a Valentine tea. Students and members of the college staff were guests during the afternoon. The tea was the second in a series of social events given during the school year in dormitories at the college.

Those who called during the afternoon were welcomed by Sarah Peedin of Selma, president of the Women's Judiciary at the college. Lucy Robertson of Williamston, president of Fleming Hall, Anna P. House of Plymouth, secretary and treasurer; and Mrs. Ruth Garner, dormitory counselor, were in the receiving line, along with the following hostesses: Marilyn Watkins, Middleburg; Mary Ann Oates, Faison; Gladys Strickland, Angier; Emily Faircloth, Fayetteville; Beleta Tucker, Farmville; Elizabeth Gaddy, Wadesboro; and Mary Frances Jones, Snow Hill. Nora Ellen Faulkner, Kinston, presided over the guest book during the afternoon.

The dormitory parlors were attractively decorated to carry out the Valentine motif. Arrangements of flowers and appointments for the serving table were in red and white. Serving punch were Naomi Bobbitt, Creedmoor; Elizabeth S. Carroll, Raleigh; Frances Douglas, Washington; and Joyce Proctor, Walstonburg.

Other residents of the dormitory who acted as hostesses at the tea included Verona Sparrow, Deep Run; Jeannette Tillett, Kill Devil Hill; Catherine Hill, Deep Run; June Pritchard, Montclair; N.J.; Joyce Adams, Mt. Olive; Patricia Bundy, New Bern; and Alicia Blue Saville, Carthage.

During the afternoon a group of students, dressed in red and white dresses, made up a chorus and entertained guests with songs appropriate to the occasion. Accompanists were Lois Ann Myers, Hoffman, and Phyllis Weaver, Hickory.

Members of the chorus were Anne Whitehurst, Robersonville; Lois Dake, Jacksonville; Freddie Hinton, Pine Level; Betty Hendrix, Greensboro; Jane Cornwell, Shelby; Faye Jones, Williamston; Jean McEwen, Enfield; Laura Sue Thomas, Carthage; and Mary Agnes Clark, Sanford.

Funeral Held Sunday For Infant Daughter 40 Years Ago Today

JACKSONVILLE—Marjorie Elizabeth Swanson, one-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Swanson, 1802 Butler Drive, Midway Park, died Friday afternoon in Onslow County Hospital.

Funeral services were held at 3:30 p.m. Sunday at the St. Ann's Episcopal Church in Jacksonville, conducted by Lt. Commander L. D. May of Camp Lejeune.

Interment was in the Jacksonville cemetery.

PLENTY OF TIMBER
SPOKANE, Wash. (UP)—The Idaho and Montana pulp and paper industry will undergo a tremendous expansion, a range specialist predicts. S. Blair Hutchinson says there is enough timber east of the continental divide in Montana alone to supply eight pulp mills. There is only one now in the Idaho-Montana area.

This is a very important meeting and every member is urged to be present. Anyone interested in any phase of dramatics is extended a cordial invitation to attend this meeting.

NO THANKS OFFERED
JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UP)—As a general rule boys and dogs get along well together. One pooch rescued here by two schoolboy patrolmen showed no gratitude. The dog, after having been taken from a sewer by the youngsters, unconcernedly walked away.

Last Rites Tuesday For B. F. McLemore
Benjamin F. McLemore, 73, died at his home in Greenville Sunday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock after having been stricken with a heart attack a few minutes earlier.
Funeral services will be conducted at the chapel of the S. O. Wilkerson and Sons Funeral Home Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock. The Rev. Leop Russell, pastor of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church, will officiate, and burial will be in Greenville cemetery.
Mr. McLemore was born and reared in Chesterfield County, S.C., and had lived in Greenville for the past 38 years.
Surviving are two sisters, Mrs. A. W. Beacham and Rosa McLemore of Portsmouth, Va.; and two brothers, L. A. McLemore of Portsmouth, Va. and D. W. McLemore of Dillon, S.C.

Women In The Church

By MARY FOWLER
War-buffeted Ewha Woman's University—originally located in Seoul, Korea.—is now on a new "Campus-in-Exile" in the city of Pusan. In this refugee city it enrolls 850 young women, and is led by the dauntless president, Miss Helen Kim. At the dedication, Miss Kim said: "Our campus is comprised of this chapel, eleven classrooms, one laboratory, one library, two practice tennis, three offices and one caretakers' house. Total cost in cash is about five million won. In addition we had gifts in tentage and glass from UNCAOK. All our patrons, particularly parents of our present student body, had a share in working up the fund. The largest gifts were five hundred dollars from Bishop Arthur J. Moore and another five hundred from the Riverside Church in New York, which made this chapel possible. Another touching gift was three hundred dollars from Kappa Phi organization, the Methodist women students on college campus in America, with which, together with fifty dollars from the Student YWCA of Ohio Wesleyan, the Student Union Hut was built."

The Business and Professional Women of the National Baptist Convention, Inc., presented awards at their national meeting to five women: Dr. H. M. Gibbs, civic and religious leader of Tuscaloosa, Ala.; Mrs. Estern W. Tyree, social worker and religious leader of Columbus, Ohio; Attorney Gertrude E. Rush, civic and religious leader of Des Moines, Iowa; Mrs. Maude J. Brockway, civic and religious pioneer of Oklahoma City, Okla.; and Dr. Mabelle Rae LeGrand. Dr. LeGrand is the first white woman to receive this citation "for her outstanding contribution to the religious and civic welfare of people."

Miss Marlene Archer, of Columbus, Ohio, missionary of the Methodist Church in Japan, was among twenty-eight young people who helped dig away 1,800 cubic feet of mountain for a hospital near Tokyo. The work campers included six Americans, one Korean, one Siamese, and twenty Japanese, with a Japanese director. They cleared ground for a tuberculosis sanatorium, studied the Bible, attended lectures on current problems, tuberculosis, UNESCO, and the YMCA program.

Madrigal Songs To Feature Program

A group of singers under the direction of Dan E. Vornholt of the department of music at East Carolina College will present a program of Madrigal songs at the meeting of the Greenville Music Club to be held at the Woman's Club Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock. Madrigals both old and more recent, will be sung, ranging from the sixteenth century to Brahms in the nineteenth century.

Singers participating in this program will be: Sopranos—Mrs. Moya Dail, Miss Gladys Reichards, Mrs. John Karanak, Miss Genevieve Bryson; Alto—Mrs. H. A. Hendrix; Miss Ruth Lambie, Mrs. Ed Parkinson; Tenor—Mr. George Perry, Mr. Spruill Spain, Mr. Dan E. Vornholt; Basses—Mr. J. C. Clifford, Mr. F. G. Fuller, and Mr. A. O. Thirkelden.

Exhibit Of Water Colors In Gallery

N.C. Artist's Works Comprise New Show

A new exhibit of water colors has been hung in the Art Gallery at Sheppard Memorial Library for the month of February.

There are 20 matted drawings which were done by Philip Moose, one of the more outstanding artists of North Carolina. Most of the works are realistic "on the spot" pictures of scenes in France and Mexico, where the artist has spent considerable time.

Moose received his art training as a member of the W. Lester Stevens art class in Rockport, Maine, and Quebec, Canada. He attended the National Academy School in New York City and also spent time at the Tiffany Foundation. He studied at Columbia University in 1947-48 and the Skowhegan School of Painting. He won a Pulitzer Award for his work in 1948 and during the summers of 1949, 1950 and 1951 he traveled extensively in France, Italy, Holland, California and Mexico, where he painted many of the works which are a part of the present exhibit.

During the current year he is serving as teacher of art at Davidson College. He is a native of Newton, N. C., and usually spends the winters at his home painting.

In 1949 he was awarded a Tiffany Fellowship and during the last year he exhibited in a one man show in the Perargil Gallery in New York City.

The current show consists of works which he has entitled View of Taxco, Mexico; The Altar; Herman's Barns; Paris Street; and The Hawk.

Grey Day in Maine; Autumn Colors; Taos Pueblo; Canal in Charleaux; New York Street; Roman Ruins; Indian Mother; First Snow; Antique Shop; Orange Sail; Montmartre; Meat Cart; Fisherman's Wharf; Semi Nude; and another Taos Pueblo.

His drawings are characterized by vivid spots of color which are noticeable in nearly everything which is on display. The only exception is to be found in the two pictures which depict winelands and winter scenes.

He seems to be partial to greys and browns, which he enlivens with touches of brilliant orange or red.

His paintings are very pleasing to the eye and present, for the most part, realistic scenes as he interpreted them in France, Italy, Mexico and California.

The exhibit will be in the local Art Gallery through the month of February. The public is cordially invited to visit the show anytime between the hours of 2:00-5:00 p.m.

Rep. Carlyle Is Filed For Race

RALEIGH (AP)—Congressman P. Ertel Carlyle has officially entered the race for reelection.

He paid his filing fee Saturday to the State Board of Elections. Carlyle has served as Seventh District Representative since 1948.

Fayetteville Mayor J. O. Tally, Jr., has announced he will seek the congressional seat but has not yet filed.

New High-Yielding Corn Hybrid

THIS IS A SAMPLE OF Dixie 82 yellow corn, one of five new hybrids available for use on North Carolina farms in 1952. It is very high-yielding, has good roots, and is adapted to the Coastal Plain and Piedmont regions. According to Dr. E. R. Collins, agronomist for the State College Extension Service, the other new hybrids are N. C. 24 yellow, adapted to the mountains and as early corn in other parts of the State; N. C. 29 white, suited to sections of the Coastal Plain and Piedmont; and N. C. 31 white, adapted to same regions as N. C. 29 except the lower or southern Coastal Plain.

Red Banks HD Club Has Supper

Members of the Red Banks Home Demonstration Club gave its annual supper at the community building to honor the member's husbands and other guests last week.

At the conclusion of the supper, served buffet style, Mrs. Meredith Posey entertained the members and guests by playing a number of selections on the vibra harp. Mrs. R. B. Starling directed games and a quiz program.

Mrs. Ann P. Hodges, assistant home demonstration agent, and S. C. Winchester, county farm agent, gave instructive talks on "Food, Family Needs and Production—Dollars and Sense."

It was reported at the supper that the newly organized basketball team which the men of the club participate in affording much fun for the members.

Special guests at the supper were Mrs. Fred Langford, Dr. Meredith Posey, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Mills, and Mrs. Mary Harrington.

Seventh Entry In Campaign For High Court Seat

CHARLOTTE (AP)—Judge William H. Bobbitt of the 14th Judicial District has become the seventh announced candidate to seek the Supreme Court Associate Justiceship now held by Justice I. T. Valentine.

Judge Bobbitt announced his candidacy Saturday. Others who have announced for the post are Justice Valentine, Superior Court Judge Allen H. Gwyn, Frank M. Armstrong, P. Donald Phillips, Hunt Parker and attorney Oscar O. Efford.

The post is that formerly held by Justice Devin who was elevated to Chief Justice upon the death of Chief Justice Stacy. Governor Scott appointed Justice Valentine to fill out Justice Devin's term.

BPW Club To Celebrate Birthday

Mrs. Pat Nixon, prominent Sanford woman and State President of the Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, will speak at the Birthday Celebration of the Greenville BPW Club on Thursday evening, February 14.

Mrs. Ruby Blythe, Second Vice-President of the State Federation, will also be a guest, according to Mrs. Clem Garner, president of the local club.

This special celebration, the first of its kind to be observed by the club, will be commemorating the fourteenth birthday of the club and members will invite guests to share with them the occasion.

Miss Louise Galphin will be toastmistress and will introduce Mrs. Hugh Ragsdale, first president, who will in turn introduce and comment briefly on the work of the other presidents who have served: Mrs. J. D. Simpson, Miss Helen Gaskins, Miss Martha Lee Cowell, Mrs. Viola Baker, Mrs. J. B. Jackson, Mrs. J. B. Spilman, Mrs. Thornton Meeks and Mrs. R. W. Tyson.

Guests will be welcomed and introduced by President Garner. Late Tuesday afternoon is the deadline for members to make reservations for themselves and friends and it is expected that a large number of persons will plan to attend.

The Greenville BPWC, in which there are more than seventy-five members, will be hostess to the

Demonstration Set February 14

E. S. Coates, agricultural engineer extension specialist, will be at the county office building February 14 to give a demonstration on farm-home electric work.

Josephine Cusick, assistant home demonstration agent, said the demonstration would be given at a special meeting of 4-H members in the county and for those particularly interested in carrying a farm-home electric project.

The meeting is scheduled in the auditorium of the county office building at seven o'clock Thursday night, February 14.

B-36 In Trouble Is Safely Landed

SAN DIEGO (AP)—An Air Force B-36 bomber, in trouble for most of nearly 13 hours it was aloft, was reported down safely today on an island Navy field.

The Civil Aeronautics control tower said the six-engine plane, world's biggest bomber, landed at the North Island Naval Air station in San Diego Bay.

The island is restricted to civilians except on special pass. The Navy declined to discuss the affair, saying it was an Air Force matter.

Fat Stock Show To Be Discussed

Plans for the coming fat stock show will be discussed tonight at a meeting of the sponsoring parties at Respass-James Barbecue House.

The meeting is being called by agricultural teachers in the county and the county agents and representatives of the agricultural committee of the Greenville Chamber of Commerce will be present to make plans for this year's stock show.

Lions' Director To Address Club

John L. Stickley, International Director of Lions International, will be the guest speaker tonight at the annual Greenville Lions Club Ladies' Night banquet to be held in the North Dining Hall at East Carolina College.

The supper meeting will start promptly at seven o'clock President Jimmie Harris announced this morning.

More than 140 Lions, including guests from nearby towns will be on hand for the event.

A steak supper has been prepared and will be served following the welcome by President Harris and invocation by Hartwell Campbell.

A group from East Carolina College will present musical selections following the supper, after which former District Governor O. E. Dowd will introduce the guests and speaker for the night.

A reception will be held at the Greenville Country Club following the supper meeting at the College, starting at 9:30 and lasting until 11:30.

All members of the club are urged to attend both the supper and the reception following at the Country Club, Harris stated.

The 35-year-old hero has been shot down in the ocean three times on carried based flights and had his plane shot up on other occasions. Salty Rear Adm. John Perry, commanding the Navy's task force 77 decided the bald eagle has done enough and is assigning him to do paper work from now on. Said Perry, "No man in this task force is required to risk his life more than four times in a row." (AP Wirephoto)

Dies Of Wounds Following Attack

KINSTON (AP)—A young Negro, wounded when he allegedly attacked a Green County deputy sheriff, died early today in a Kinston hospital.

Deputy Mill A. Brown of Snow Hill said he shot William Moore, 27, of near Maury, when the Negro struck him after he arrested Moore for drunken driving yesterday morning.

Brown said he was taking Moore to Snow Hill to be placed in jail when the attack occurred. While still driving his car, the deputy said, he pulled his gun and shot Moore. When Moore continued to attack him, Brown added, he fired two more shots before the car ran in an embankment.

Moore got out of the car and fell over, Brown said. The Negro was wounded in the chest and shoulder.

A coroner's hearing will be held in several days. Green County has been without a coroner since Gov. B. Heath resigned last fall and the hearing must wait on an appointment to the post.

Report 55 Killed In Iranian Riots

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—Two newspapers reported today that 55 persons were killed and more than 300 injured in six hours of fierce street fighting Saturday in Zabol, a town along the Afghan frontier.

Official sources admitted that an angry mob had beheaded the provincial governor and three other officials but there was no confirmation of the anti-government papers. Alish and Dad published. They quoted "informed Tehran sources in touch with the situation."

Rival tribesmen battled in the city's streets; the papers said, after an election dispute burst into warfare with firearms, knives and clubs. A wave of looting and burning spread through the town. Troops reinforcements rushed from nearby Kerman Province to help restore order.

Official sources said the martial law is being enforced in Zabol and that Premier Mohammed Mossadegh ordered local authorities to arrest and "punish severely" those responsible for the killings.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLAS
NEVER A STAINED GLASS WINDOW
We never understand a religious truth until we first accept it. It was the great Anselm, born shortly after A.D. 1000, who said this. Few people in human history have ever made a more penetrating observation on religious truth than this.

Religion deals with the unseen world. We have no possible way of getting in touch with that unseen world save through the exercise of faith. None of the five senses enables us to apprehend spiritual truth. The doctrines of religion have to be accepted on faith. If we cannot accept them on faith, then we have sealed out ourselves the disappointing experience of never being able to understand these truths. But once accepted by faith, religious truths show themselves to be consistent with the best of human reasoning.

Nathaniel Hawthorne said that Christianity is like a great cathedral with beautiful stained glass windows. Viewed from outside, these windows are dull and lacking in both beauty and significance. But viewed from within, with the light shining through, the beautiful forms and radiant colors of the windows are vividly apparent.

We have to get on the inside of Christianity and look out, we have to allow its doctrines to embrace us before we know their warmth and vitality.

Back Into The "Killer" Column For The Year

Pitt County has moved back into the "killer" column in North Carolina's highway bloodshed scorebook.

During the past week-end the county registered its first highway fatality of 152 although there have been a large number of 9 persons injured in highway accidents in Pitt during the past six weeks.

On Friday afternoon alone two serious automobile accidents occurred on highway number 43 south of Greenville. Over the period of the past several months, travel on highways 42 and 11 south of Greenville has been particularly hazardous. There have been numerous accidents and many injuries. Most of the accidents have been caused by a combination of excessive speed and carelessness.

Pitt County can not blame its despicable record on outsiders, but all possible steps which can be taken to prevent accidents should be taken. On Fridays particularly there are large numbers of military personnel which travel the highways leading into Pitt County from the Marine bases of Cherry Point and Camp Lejeune. For the most part these automobiles are driven by people who have a few short hours away from the military bases and are anxious to reach distant points. The result has been excessive speed.

Members of the state highway patrol have been making a desperate effort to slow down the traffic along highways 43 and 11 especially on Friday afternoons, but the patrolmen already have so much territory to cover, it is difficult for them to give the particular highways the attention they need during the periods of heavy traffic.

Since the military bases already are sending their own military police into Greenville and other cities in this area on the week-end, it seems logical from the standpoint of saving lives that the military bases could be requested to help patrol certain sections of the highways which are heavily traveled by military personnel on Friday afternoons. In most cases a warning is the only thing necessary to help a driver cut his speed, and a few military policemen patrolling the highways during the heavy traffic periods could certainly be a great help in that capacity.

On Friday afternoons particularly, military policemen could serve a much better purpose by helping patrol the heavily traveled highways instead of walking the streets of the cities in this section as they now are doing.

New Political Role For North Carolina

It has been many years since a state south of the Mason-Dixon line has been a key state in a national election, but from political trends it seems that party leaders on both sides of the fence are expecting North Carolina to be just that in November.

Several months ago President Truman promised Governor Kerr Scott that he would open his formal campaign for re-election in North Carolina if he runs for another term. At the Jefferson-Jackson Day affair in Raleigh Saturday, Democratic Chairman Frank McKinney promised Tar Heel Democrats that no matter who the Democratic presidential nominee is this year, he will lead off his campaign with an appearance in North Carolina.

The statement of McKinney comes on the heels of the announcement by Republican Chairman Guy Gabrielson that the GOP presidential nominee this year will make a tour of all the Southern states for the first time in history.

Never before in the lifetime of present-day voters have the two national parties accorded so much attention to North Carolina in particular or the Southern states in general as they have promised for the coming campaign. The big boys in the national Democratic party have learned that the "Solid South" is not nearly so solid as it was in the pre-Truman days, and the Republicans are not going to forfeit the opportunity to secure support from Southern voters for their presidential candidate.

As the national party conventions near and the campaigning between the Democrats and Republicans gains momentum the Southern vote in the approaching national election is being pushed to the fore. Democrat officials admit they no longer carry the Southern vote in their hip pocket as they once did.

The Southern states which lost their power in the national Democratic party when the two-thirds nomination rule was kicked out, once again are gaining stature on the national political scene by becoming a key section as it becomes more doubtful which electoral vote column they will be in come November.

This year, more so than in any year in several decades, the Southern vote is likely to remain an unknown quantity until November.

National Whirligig

WASHINGTON—Although today's huge supply of cash and a growing shortage of consumer commodities are chiefly responsible for present and prospective high prices, President Truman still hankers for cheaper money, easier credit conditions, lower interest rates and heavier buying by the large and small consumers.

His private views, as against his short-written demands for governmental and individual economy to support the "cold war," disturb his few remaining conservative advisers.

They were shocked by his recent explosive and spontaneous remarks on the subject of federal finances and bond transactions at a recent press conference. He plunged into the question before they could stop him.

Although the complexities of this problem are admittedly a complete mystery to him, he insisted on citing a personal deal in World War I Liberty Bonds as justification for his present viewpoint.

TEMPER—Mr. Truman still resents bitterly the victory won by Marriner S. Eccles, former member of the Federal Reserve Board, in his clash with Treasury Secretary John W. Snyder.

He has never forgotten the Utah banker, whose conservative attitude had the support of his Reserve colleagues, the nation's banking community and experts on Capitol Hill Banking and Currency Committee.

Nor was the President's temper helped by Mr. Eccles' recent book, in which he reveals several off-the-record chapters of Truman financing, or by word that the Salt Lake City financier is working for the nomination and election of Senator Taft of Ohio.

The Truman desire to reverse the policy adopted as a result of Eccles' influence indicates that he wants to give the country another inflationary shot in the arm to stimulate business and industrial activity.

RESTRAINT—Mr. Eccles simply proposed that the Reserve-Treasury policy of supporting federal bonds at above par be abandoned. He urged that the federal issues be allowed to seek their own market level on a supply-and-demand basis.

As long as banks holding United States securities could sell them back to the government under the Truman-Snyder dispensation at a profit, they were only too willing to do so, thus obtaining cash to make private loans. They made 1 or 2 per cent on the sale to Washington, and 3 or 4 per cent on their loans to individuals, business and industry.

But when the Reserve refused to redeem government issues at a figure above par, buying them back at a figure which meant a loss to the banks, the latter sharply curtailed private, inflationary loans. Their restraint was an important factor in checking the increase in the cost of living, which rose only 3 per cent during 1951 and the first month of this year.

IGNORANCE—Despite this salutary effect, Mr. Truman opposes the whole program. As he declared with red-faced indignation, he believes that the purchaser of any government bond should always be able to get back the same amount he paid for it, without regard for operation of economic laws.

In elaborating on his attitude, he frequently describes his shock when he cashed a $100 bond he had bought while in Pershing's army. He has never yet been able to understand why, instead of $81, he could not collect his original $100 investment.

The incident is chiefly significant because it reveals Mr. Truman's general ignorance of the subject of federal finances. But it also shows that he has not looked into the even unhappier plight of purchasers of government savings bonds in recent years. And, obviously, Secretary Snyder has not brought him up-to-date on the question.

LESSON—Had Mr. Truman studied the latest phases of the problem, he would have discovered that present-day purchasers have been hurt worse than he was. He would also have learned why, since the North Koreans' attack in June of 1950, the public has cashed about $5,700,000,000 of these supposedly anti-inflationary bonds, or about $1,400,000,000 more than they have bought.

The important lesson Mr. Truman would learn if he studied the question, is that his spending and taxation policies have jeopardized the value of these savings bonds to such an extent that people will not buy them. Here is why:

A $100 bond bought ten years ago should now pay—does—the sum of $133. But the tax on the $33 would be about 20 per cent, so that the net gain would be only $26.60, or a recovery of $126.60 in all.

GAIN—However, that is not the only or heaviest bite. Since 1942, prices have risen by 70 per cent. The bond would have to yield $170 to give the investor an even break in purchasing power on his $100 investment.

In the ten years that he held the bond, he suffered a purchasing power loss of 25 cents on the dollar, whereas he had expected to emerge with an increment of 33 cents on each dollar.

Applying the increased taxes and living costs to the $100 invested in 1942, the purchaser winds up with a net, ten-year gain of about $1.60.

Reflector Bureau By LYNN NIBBET Assoc. Afternoon Edition

TOP LEVEL — The North Carolina farm bureau Federation has set a high standard for its state convention programs. Agenda arranged for the 1952 meeting here the first of the week maintains the top level standard. That is especially true of the Tuesday morning session at the Raleigh Memorial Auditorium. Other parts of the convention program feature big name speakers and important conferences, but most of these are in the specific field of farming activities. It is about the kind of program expected of a farmers convention. The Tuesday morning affair affords opportunity for conventioners to hear the other side presented, in a sort of round table forum or public debate among representatives of big outfits.

SCOPE — The speakers are Lewis G. Hines of Washington, special representative of the American Federation of Labor; William H. Ruffin of Durham, chairman of the board and past president of the national Association of Manufacturers; and Robert Fleming of Washington, secretary-treasurer of the American Farm Bureau Federation. In other words, the occasion brings to one rostrum authorized official spokesmen for the top labor organization, the most powerful group of manufacturers and the biggest farmers organization in the world. Each man has been allotted 30 minutes to present his side of the picture. Then there will be a 15 minute free-for-all rebuttal and rejoinder, question and answer period; followed by a brief summing up by Fred Royster of Henderson.

SPEAKERS — Convention speakers include such outstanding persons as Charles F. Brannan, secretary of agriculture in the Cabinet; Harold D. Cooley, chairman of the committee of agriculture in the national House of Representatives; L. Y. Ballentine, North Carolina's Commissioner of Agriculture; Governor Kerr Scott, and other outstanding figures in the field of agriculture progress. In most instances the general tenor of these addresses can be predicted, and they represent the sort of program expected at conventions. The Tuesday affair is different and these annual presentations at Farm Bureau conventions of the other side have not been adequately publicized.

CONGRESS — State Senator Tom Sawyer of Durham has already announced his candidacy for congress in the sixth district. Senator L. H. Fountain of Edgecombe admits giving serious consideration to making the race in the second district, and Senator Alton Lennon of New Hanover said in Raleigh Friday that he should not be counted out of the running in the seventh district. Friends of Senator Julian Allsbrook of Halifax insist he should not be counted out of the second district race, either. It would be unusual and interesting if four members of the 1951 State Senate decided to abandon state careers for a chance at the Congress.

POLIO — The 1952 March of Dimes campaign is over, and in most North Carolina communities the assigned quotas were raised. The polio disease, which the March of Dimes fund is designed to combat, is still with us—and probably will be from now on. The record of the 1952 campaign should not be closed, as those of several previous years were not, without recognition of the dramatic contribution of one man, and his boss-corporation. The corporation is Esso Standard Oil Company, particularly the North Carolina Division with headquarters in Charlotte, and the man is on payroll records as G. F. Ball, assigned to the public relations section. Unofficially the man is "Jerry" Ball, piano player par excellence, indoors or out, sitting down or hanging from the limb of a tree somewhere in reach of piano keys.

CONTRIBUTION — Jerry likes to play a piano, and Esso likes for him to do it in a good cause. The company lends him to the polio drive, paying his salary and expenses. Then Jerry bets with his casual audience that he can play any popular-swing tune requested. If he can, the person requesting the tune puts a dollar into the polio campaign pot; if he can't, Jerry puts a dollar in. This year, during the January polio fund drive, he appeared on street concerts in five North Carolina cities, collected $3,100 for the polio fund—and paid out $44.00 of his own money on lost bets that he could play the requested tunes.

JUSTICE — All criminal indictments and court trials are designed to put the entire resources of all of North Carolina against the person indicted. Warrants and court papers read "State vs. Joe Doakes." That is basis for the requirement that the defendant is presumed to be innocent until proven guilty, and for further provision that the de-

The Voice Of The People

To The Editor:
I have so often heard that the Negroes in this community could not get together on any one subject. And from the looks of things sometimes I almost believed it. Then when I looked as though faith and love had faded, hope stepped up. I have reference to the committee that came to this town a few nights ago for the purpose of organizing the Amvets. By this time you know that the first meeting was called in the court house. I was not there, but I was told that there was a large group of men at that meeting both colored and white.

can't get together." I had almost lost faith clear up to the night of the meeting. The meeting as you know was called in the Fleming St. School this past Tuesday night. I had to be out of town that day which caused me to be late getting to the meeting, however, as I was approaching the school hope stepped up again when I saw cars parked from Main St. to Fleming St. along Boyd Ave. so much so until I could not find parking space on Boyd Ave. We finally found space on Fleming St.

and some in dress clothes. There were ex-soldiers, sailors and marines. There were some there from World War I and II and the Korean conflict. With that cross-section of men, they all had one thing in common, a bonus.
I must admit that Lonnie Anderson, John Gregory, Pete Tucker and others were doing a good job selling the fellows what it was all about.
As I sat and listened to the program, I said to myself, "What can be done to keep this kind of interest up among the men in my race here in Pitt County?" The way that I see it, with a strong organization you can get anything that you work for if you are willing to work hard and long enough. May I say to the men, keep your hope up, your courage high, and don't quit.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

ALL IN THE SAME BOAT
(The Dunn Record)
A well-documented article in a late issue of the Oregon Voter, began, "Secretary of Interior Oscar Chapman could be charged with a craving to become a one-man CVA, a one-man MVA, and so forth... The control he seeks for his department is control over the hydro power developments of most of the streams of the United States. In his ambition to gain that control he would virtually put the Federal Power Commission out of business."
The Voter then quoted from a student of this situation who said, "If Interior's claim of a federal monopoly of water-power development is upheld, remote bureaucratic direction and supervision of every-day operations will bear as heavily against states, cities, cooperatives, and other public bodies as it will against the private utility industry. All will row a boat captained by the Secretary of the Interior." Mr. Chapman is not the only man in the government with such ambitions—but he is currently the most aggressive. It is clear that the objective is to give the government 100 per cent control over all water resources of any importance at all. This, of course, would be accomplished at a tremendous cost to the taxpayers, and in the process it would destroy such large and dependable sources of tax revenue as the main tax-managed utilities. More important, it would destroy local rights and independence all along the line, and substitute a form of state socialism for business enterprise and community enterprise.

That's the issue, and it's high time every citizen understood it. Wash Itr ROSE

Business Today

In this critical year, crop-growing weather has tremendous importance. Because of the scope and wide range of the American economy operates—and despite the high productivity of our men and machines—the weather is a huge factor in both domestic and foreign affairs. We may well pray for good weather this year.

We need enormous, bigger than ever, crops this year. We need larger amounts of food because of the high rate of population, the large number of men under arms (both workers and fighters abroad), and to be able to reinforce our allies. Agricultural production has been slowly and steadily rising abroad since the end of the war, but there are still large areas of undernourishment, such as India, and there is no assurance that increases will be sustained in other areas.

The Department of Agriculture has called for a 6 per cent rise in farm output this year. Indications are that plantings will be made with that goal in view. But whether it is reached will depend on the weather itself.

We still have sizable carry-over stocks, but they are not as large as before. As of last September 1, the government held less than two billion dollars worth of commodities a year earlier it had more than four billion dollars worth. There has been a "leakage" of millions of dollars worth stored commodities because of disordered warehousing. While the Department of Agriculture minimizes the losses, their extent probably will not be known until investigation is completed. The wheat crop last year was under a billion bushels for the first time in eight years; the corn crop had a high moisture content because of the weather and feed stocks on farms are less than a year ago. While the carry-over of many dried and canned fruits and vegetables are high, they are low in others. At the start of the year, onions held were 40 per cent less than a year earlier; so were potatoes. In short, our stores of food are less than they have been and the supplies are not in balance.

If we should have a year of bad weather, we would face soaring food prices, labor disturbances, slumps in sections of the farm market, shortages of non-food farm products essential to defense, and deterioration of our relations abroad. Outside of the western hemisphere, we would get very little help from other nations. Better pray. DEFENSE MATERIALS PUZZLE ASSESSORS

City and county assessors in many localities have a problem in attempting to levy on materials being made for defense. In many places, such as Detroit, materials in process are considered property and subject to tax.

But government contracts specify that materials going into armaments become the property of the government as soon as the government makes the initial payment to the contractor. And federal law prohibits governmental subdivisions from levying taxes on federal property.

To the further bedeviling of assessors, most government contracts are secret and there is no easy way of knowing whether materials belong to the United States, or to the plant.

STUNT RUNS AFOUL OF LIABILITY LAWS
An Ohio merchant had a good idea. He hired a plane to shower his city with toy balloons, each one with a penny attached and some with coupons good for merchandise.

Then his insurance broker tapped him on the shoulder. He pointed out that the merchant would be liable to suit if anyone got hurt chasing balloons or if they caused any property damage. The stunt was called off.

BUSINESS PRACTICES URGED ON DOCTORS
While doctors and dentists are not brought under Social Security by recent amendments, credit authorities are suggesting that the incomes will improve if they adopt some of the practices of business men.

They suggest: checking all but cash-on-vision patients with the local credit bureau; prompt mailing of bills; prompt follow-up when bills are not paid within a reasonable time, and turning past-due bills over to credit bureaus or collections agencies.

WORLD LENTIL CROP DOWN 5 PERCENT IN YEAR
The world's 1951-52 lentil crop is 5 per cent lower than a year earlier, but still 10 per cent above prewar averages. The Office of Foreign Agricultural Relations reports. Lentils are one crop of which the United States is not an important producer. Egypt, Turkey and Argentina are, in that order, currently the largest producers.

Hal Boyle's Column

NEW YORK (AP)—Housewives who do much entertaining often sigh, "I might as well be running a hotel."
Mrs. Al Tisch agrees. See believes any wife who can entertain well in her own home can run a hotel successfully—if she has the stamina.

industry.
"Women are less impatient in handling details," she said, "and details are vastly important in business. I never have found that men resented dealing with a woman. They rather seem to like it."

"I feel it is far easier to cater to 800 hotel guests than to care for 10 in my own home," said Mrs. Tisch, one of the nation's few woman hotel presidents. "I often wonder why more women don't embark in the hotel business. We'd have better hotels. They need the woman's touch."

When she insisted again that women were capable of filling any role in the hotel field, I asked:
"Well, how about the job of house detective?"
"I'm glad you brought that up," she said. "Because right now I'm considering hiring a lady detective. I think she'd be more diplomatic."

The Tisch's family is a unique four-member partnership. Sayde Tisch, her husband, Al, a former clothing manufacturer, and their two sons—Larry, 28, and Bob, 25—operate a chain of ten hotels, including the McAlpin in New York and the Traymore and Ambassador in Atlantic City. "None of us draws a salary," she says. "Each takes what he needs."
Mrs. Tisch, a friendly, warm-voiced woman of 51, helps supervise the entire chain. But her own pet project is Laurel-In-The-Pines, a Lakewood, N. J., winter resort. She opened its purchase in 1945 after a five-minute inspection.

"I believe in women's intuition," she said smiling.
Shortly before this she had sold a children's camp she had operated profitably for ten years. Her family wanted her to retire, but retirement held no charms for her.
"Goddess women age faster and feel useless because their lives seem empty," she said. "Keeping busy may not keep you young—but it makes you feel younger."
Financial success or failure has never altered her enjoyment of living.
"When Al and I came out of the Brooklyn marriage bureau in 1920," she said, "he had only 90 cents in his pocket. And we gave a dime of that to a blind beggar."
For her honeymoon she accompanied Al on a sales trip through New England. She got a $50 a week job, and they lived on that while her husband was launching into business on his own.

They were living at a $10,000 a year clip in 1929, owned nine retail clothing stores. But the crash wiped them out.
"I even sold my engagement ring to keep up out of bankruptcy," recalled Mrs. Tisch. "For the next four years the four of us lived on about $20 a week until we got all our debts paid. But, believe me, there was never a tear shed over it. I wouldn't have had it any other way. We've always had fun, just being together."
And together they built up a new fortune. The spirit behind the good luck dime they gave the blind beggar is reflected in a new philanthropy. They bought the estate of banker George F. Baker at Lakewood and give 500 underprivileged children a free 10-week vacation there each summer.

Currently, he's listed in Who's Who as a "writer and lecturer". In another biographical catalog he is described as "religious leader and U. S. government official".

As a writer, 46-year-old Dr. Bryan turned out a booklet, "What To Know And What To Do About Cancer," while serving with the U. S. Public Health Service. It proved to be a government best-seller, ranking with the internationally famous "Infant Care".

He has been lecturer and forum leader for the U. S. Office of Education, and at American University. He has held important posts with the National Council for Adult Civic Education and the National Archives and is an official of the World Peace Foundation.

After World War II service in the Pacific, rising to lieutenant commander in the Navy, he was appointed assistant head of the motion picture branch of the U. S. Naval Photographic Center. "Bryan has had more than a hand" in the Navy's film program—one that has won 14 national and international awards with 12 pictures in five years," his superior officer told me.

Despite all these achievements, Dr. Bryan is perhaps more widely famed as a religious leader. Since 1949 he has been president of the International Society of Christian Endeavor, which has a world membership of two million persons. He became active in the movement at 16 and in 1936 was a delegate to the world conference in Berlin, Germany. He has been editor of the Christian Endeavor World since 1947.

Fluoridation Costs Per Year Are Relatively Low

(Editor's NOTE: To bring its readers the latest information on fluoridation of public water supplies as a means of helping reduce dental decay among children, The Reflector, through the cooperation of the Pitt Dental Society presents another of a series of articles on fluoridation.)

Fluoride can be added to public water supplies to help prevent tooth decay among children at a yearly cost of only 4 to 14 cents per person.

The exact cost depends upon the type of fluoride compound used, the amount of fluoride in the water before fluoridation, the size of the community and the per capita use of water.

Sodium fluoride is most commonly used in the fluoridation process, but Dr. H. Trendley Dean, head of the National Institute of Dental Research, recently pointed out that sodium fluorosilicate is much cheaper and just as effective.

The cost of treating 1,000,000 gallons of water with sodium fluoride at the rate of one part per million is $2.15, while the cost when sodium fluorosilicate is used is only 75 cents, Dr. Dean said.

One reason for the difference, he explained, is that fluorosilicate releases 50 per cent more fluoride than the most expensive source when combined with water.

Calcium fluoride would be the cheapest source of fluoride, but because of its insolubility it would be difficult to use. Other sources of fluoride available are silicofluoride, hydrofluosilicic acid, and hydrofluoric acid.

Equipment for adding fluorides to water varies from $500 for small communities to several thousand dollars for larger cities.

Mechanical equipment for feeding fluorides into the water system has been adapted from machines originally designed for adding other chemicals to water.

There are two types of fluoride feeders: solution feeders which deliver a measured quantity of fluoride solution during a specified period, and dry feeders which deliver a pre-determined quantity of solid fluoride material during a given time interval.

The rate at which fluoride is required determines the choice of feeder desired. This rate is determined by amounts of water consumed and of fluoride present before treatment. As a general rule, solution feeders are used for small water systems and dry feeders for large ones.

The mechanics of feeding fluorides are no more involved than those for other chemicals used in water purification.

If chlorine also is added to the water, there is no reaction with fluoride, but alum will remove about one-tenth of the fluoride in fluoridated water. For that reason, fluorides should be added after the alum treatment.

It is important that the quantity of fluoride in water be determined at plants where fluoridation is practiced because if too little fluoride is added, no beneficial effects will result. To make fluoride determinations, a comparator has been so designed that the average water works operator can read it with accuracy.

Asheville Grand Jury Convenes

ASHEVILLE —(AP)— A blue-ribbon crime-busting grand jury met here today.

The federal grand jury for the Western District of North Carolina was the first of three which will be convened in the state this month. The Eastern District jury has been called to meet in Raleigh next Monday, and the Middle District jury at Greensboro the following Monday, Feb. 25.

They are part of the national grass roots survey of racketeering and organized crime ordered by Atty. Gen. Howard J. McGrath on instructions of President Truman.

The President issued his instructions after last fall's Washington hearings on corruption and income tax scandals.

The grand juries will hear private citizens and law enforcement officials testify on gambling, narcotics, bootlegging, postal violations and similar federal law violations.

Nineteen Killed By Avalanche

VIENNA —(AP)— Nineteen skiers were killed and 10 injured early today when a huge avalanche buried an alpine hut near the Arlberg Pass, the Austrian News Agency said.

Twenty other persons in the hut were dug out from the snow mass by mountain rescue squads.

Most of the dead and injured were skiers.

The avalanche occurred on the slopes of Hohe Iken Mountain, which marks the border between Austria and Germany southwest of the German town of Oberdorf.

School Officials Consider Trying Five-Sided Room

CLEVELAND, O. —(UP)— Suburban Cleveland Heights' school officials are considering a newly-designed, five-sided classroom for a $1,000,000 elementary school building.

The extra-sided room, architects said, gives students better and more evenly distributed light.

The pentagon shaped rooms will have glass blocks making up the outside walls which will form points all around the new structure, giving it a saw-toothed appearance.

Initially, the board of education will build a unit containing 12 classrooms, a kindergarten room and a library which will cost about $600,000. The rest of the building will be put up in sections later and will ultimately be "L" shaped.

Varied Barrel Sizes Confuse Crop Reporter

RICHMOND, Va. —(UP)— The statistician at the Virginia Department of Agriculture sometimes wishes that he'd taken up some other line of work.

Henry M. Taylor says Virginia's farmers estimate their corn yields in "barrels." That would be all right if they all meant the same thing.

But they don't. Farmers in the Shenandoah Valley mean one thing when they say "barrel": farmers in eastern Virginia mean a unit much larger. In between the two regions is a no-man's-land and a statistician can only guess what a farmer means when he sends in his crop report.

Taylor is philosophical about the situation, however. He remembers the Prohibition days when farmers sometimes estimated their corn in gallons.

Bellhop, Age 60, Remains Active

BOSTON —(UP)— Although he is edging 60, "Red" Keefe is still active as a bellhop at a Back Bay hotel.

Bellhops work harder for what they get these days than they did years ago, Red says, but he loves the work.

"I expect to be doing it 10 or 20 years longer," he said. The rehired bellhop already has been on the job nearly 40 years.

Frayed Canary Is Clean-Up Victim

WOOSTER, O. —(UP)— Mrs. Lena McCartney's canary had quite an experience.

She decided to clean the bird's cage with a vacuum cleaner.

Accidentally, the cage opened as the sweeper attachment came close to the door. The canary, which had just hopped off the perch to explore the floor, was sucked into the sweeper.

Mrs. McCartney feverishly extracted her bird from the cleaner, saas tall, but alive.

McKinney Claims GOP Resorting To 'Smears'

RALEIGH —(AP)— National Democratic Chairman Frank E. McKinney has accused the Republicans of resorting "to the lowest form of scandal-mongering and personal blackguarding" in their attacks on the Truman Administration.

McKinney asserted this in an address Saturday night before some 650 Tar Heels at their annual $50-a-plate Jefferson-Jackson Dinner here.

He pledged that "we are going to root out corruption at the core whenever and wherever it is found."

McKinney declared that the Democrats, "much more vigorously than the Republicans," have searched out dishonest officials in government "and we have sent them to jail whenever we could, no matter who they might be."

In his first Southern speech since becoming party chairman, McKinney defended the record of President Truman and declared: "No President in our history has been required to make decisions of the boldness or of the grandeur of those made by President Truman."

Earlier at a luncheon, McKinney promised the Tar Heel gathering that the Democratic nominee for president, whoever he may be, will open his campaign in North Carolina. The Democrats will name their nominee at their Chicago convention in July. Approximately two weeks later, McKinney said, the nominee will open his campaign at a rally planned for Governor Scott's farm at Haw River.

Attend Meeting In New Orleans

The Jefferson-Jackson Dinner turnout included North Carolina's two senators, Clyde R. Hoey and Willis Smith, nearly every member of the Tar Heel congressional delegation, leading Democratic Party officials and many state officials.

Hunger Strike In High Point Jail

HIGH POINT —(AP)— A 46-year-old junk dealer held for questioning in the mutilation death of a High Point woman was on a hunger strike today.

Police said the man, David R. Jones, began his strike yesterday. They added that meals would continue to be served to Jones regardless of the "strike".

Jones told a reporter: "I won't eat anything until they let me out."

Jones is being questioned in the death of Mary Hopkins, a middle-aged house servant whose mutilated body was found in an abandoned house here last March. He was scheduled for a preliminary hearing here today on charges of assault with intent to rape two other High Point women.

Police Chief C. C. Stokes said Jones was arrested at Lumberton Friday night. Stokes said Jones was charged with assaulting his landlady, Mrs. Carlessa Lockamy, 62, on Feb. 1. Jones is being held under $5,000 bond on that charge.

Stokes said Jones had been free on $3,000 bond after his arrest in connection with an assault on Mrs. Annie Hensley, 28, on last Dec. 9.

Several men, including her husband, Curtis Hopkins of Durham, have been questioned in the death of Mrs. Hopkins. All were released and the slaying has remained a mystery.

Hodges Scores 35 Points In Pirates' Win Over Elon

Russell Continues To Lead Bucs In Assists

Hodges And Ritchie Blake Control Rebounds As Pirates Gain Revenge Win Over League Leading Christians

By JIMMY ELLIS

With big guns Bobby Hodges and Sonny Russell firing their most potent salvos, the East Carolina Pirates Saturday night completely scuttled the Elon Christians as the Bucs took their eighth North State Conference victory with a 76-62 win over the Elon team. The game was played before a full house of enthusiastic Pirate followers in Wright Gymnasium.

It was truly Hodges' night to shine for the Bucs as he led both teams in scoring with 35 points. Hodges tallied 14 times from the floor and seven times from the free throw line in his record breaking performance. (The record broken was a personal one since Hodges, a sophomore, had never scored more than 29 points in a single contest.)

Russell was number two man in the Pirate scoring race with 14 points of his own but as is the usual case, his true value to the Bucs couldn't be measured solely on his scoring talent. The All-Conference and All-State forward of the Pirates gave up numerous scoring chances of his own to assist teammates and wound up with 10 assists for the night—many of them to Hodges.

Neither can Hodges' value to ECC be measured solely in point scoring ability. The 6-5 sophomore continued to be an outstanding performer under the boards and collaborated with teammate Ritchie Blake to take rebound play away from big Don Halthrox and company. Here again, Russell came in for his share of the applause but the boards were largely under the control of Hodges and Blake who simply played rebounds as if they owned them.

The Pirates never trailed in the contest as they snapped a ten game winning streak handed by the visitors. Paced by Hodges, who scored 12 of the Pirates' 21 points in the first quarter, the Bucs were simply not to be beaten Saturday night.

A cold run in the waning moments of the second quarter allowed Elon to pull with five points—35-30—at halftime but when the rest period was over, the very talented Mister Russell served immediate notice that Elon could lose any ideas about winning the eleventh straight contest. It was Russell's ten points in the third quarter which put the Pirates almost completely out of the reach of the Christians. He not only carried the scoring load but did a lion's share of the other phases of work as well. He moved very well on defense and was almost perfect in every detail as he carried the team while Hodges experienced a mild slump.

It was big win for the Pirates who had lost 59-54 to Elon a week earlier. It was the eighth win against four losses in North State Conference play and kept them solidly in the middle of affairs as the North State teams thundered down the home stretch of the current season.

Any attempt at comparing an Elon performer with Hodges, Russell and perhaps Blake would be an almost futile gesture because the performances of those three were almost beyond comparison. However, if the Christians can claim a hero the honors would have to go to substitute Ned Gaudin. Gaudin's 11 points look small against Hodges' 35, Russell's 14, and Halthrox's 15 but here again is a case where points fail to indicate true value.

Gaudin got into the game late in the first quarter as a substitute for Husky Hall and immediately began the kind of play which allowed Hall to warm the seat of his colorful uniform for two and a half quarters. Gaudin failed to score in the first half except for one field goal but he was a thorn in the side of the Pirates on defense and was Elon's one claim to fame on rebounding. He added nine points to his other good work in the second half as he picked up more of the load of carrying the team.

The closest the Elonites got to the Pirates was the five point spread at half time. Other than that, it was no contest as the charges of Coach Howard Porter got as hot as the traditional "uniform" the Pirate mentor wears for each contest. Hodges was the hottest of them all as he sank 66 per cent of his attempted shots from the floor.

To give the story of the game would be to say "Hodges and Russell on all-around play and Carr's Dick (Blake) on rebounding." To say more about them would be merely repeating what's already been said—but it would be impossible to repeat enough to clearly picture their performances. The game was a masterpiece of collaboration by the Pirates against a good team which was not good enough Saturday night.

Bethel Boys, Girls Defeat Robersonville Teams

BETHEL—The Bethel Indians Saturday night took a non-conference doubleheader from the Robersonville Rams. The Bethel girls took the first game 53-44 while the Indian boys finished up the evening with a 56-40 victory.

In the night's first contest, Mary Jo Wynne of Bethel and Patsy Roberson of Robersonville carried on a personal scoring duel between themselves. Miss Roberson won that duel 23-20 but Miss Wynne had much more support in the persons of Joyce Beverly and Isabel Manning to swing the game to Bethel's favor. Miss Beverly scored 18 points and Miss Manning scored 15 to account for the Bethel points not scored by Miss Wynne.

Bethel led 24-17 at the end of the first half and refused to decrease their pace at anytime during the second half despite some alert Robersonville defense by guards Mary Alice Warren and Sara Lee Smith. Bethel's own defense, paced by Jean Cullifer and Carrie Ayers, balanced the work of the Robersonville guards and kept Miss Roberson and Frances Stevenson, who scored 15 points, from getting Robersonville too close to Bethel.

In the boys game, Maurice Manning was the big boy of the night as he pumped in 17 points to lead the Bethel victory. It was win number 13 for the Indians.

Bethel had very little trouble in building up a quick lead over the Rams in the contest. They had a 32-23 lead at halftime and slackened their pace somewhat during the second half of the game.

Following Manning in the scoring column was Bethel's Robert Nelson with 12 points, and Robersonville's Maurice Everette and Darrell Gurganus, both with seven points apiece.

Defensive play was led by Bethel's Earl Johnston and Vance White and Robersonville's R. H. Weaver and James Keel.

1951 Grid Giants Best On Defense

NEW YORK —(AP) The football Giants of '51 were acclaimed as one of the best defensive units in the history of the National Football League. The forces of Steve Owen led the league in allowing the fewest first downs (174), fewest yards gained (3,250), and caused most opponent fumbles (37).

The Giants' famed "umbrella" pass defense was tops, too. They intercepted 41 forwards for 542 yards and 4 touchdowns. The 41 interceptions just missed the all-time league mark of 42.

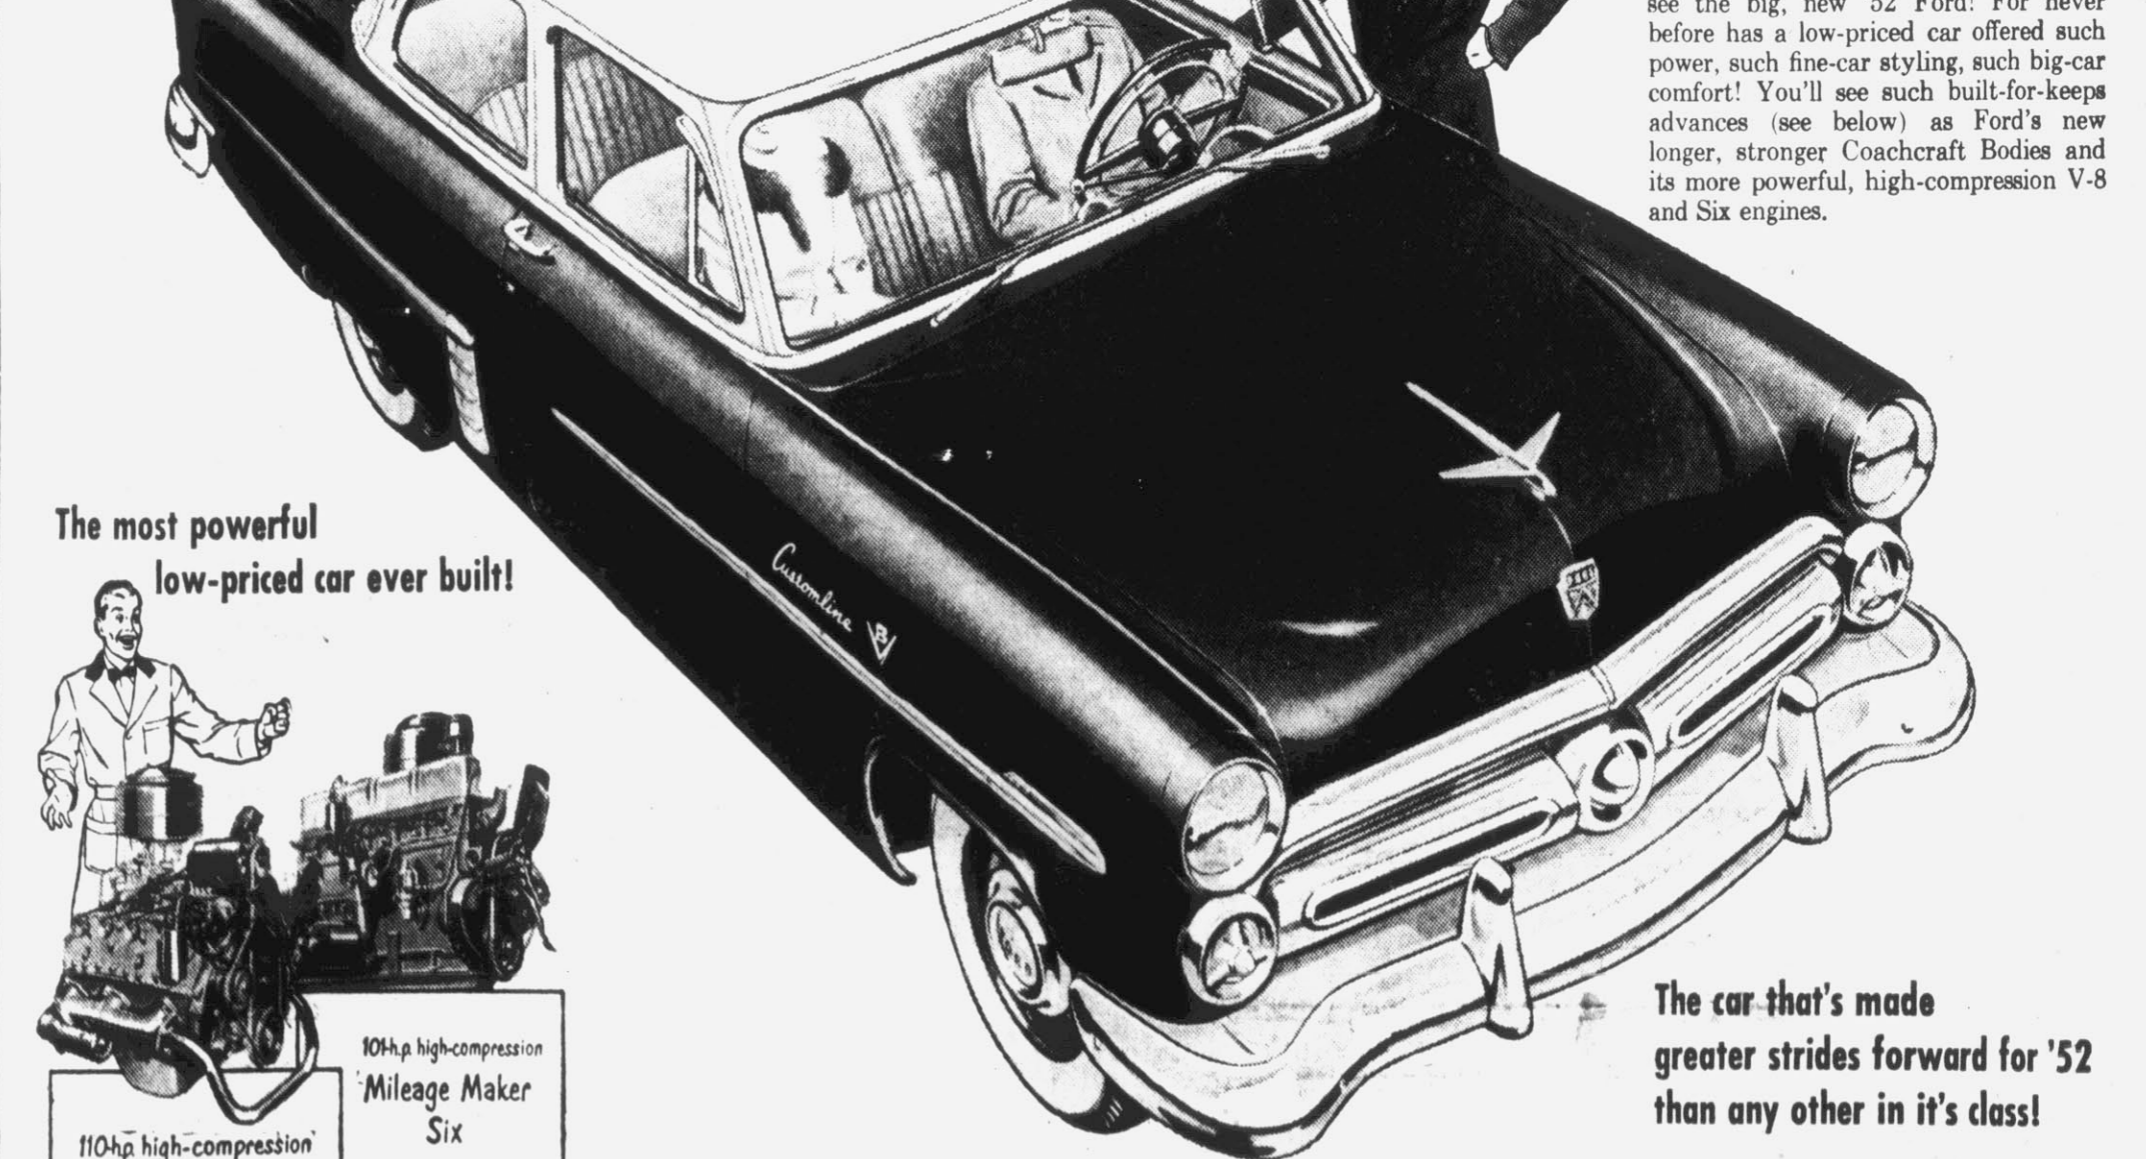

LOUIS COLLIE has little trouble driving in for this lay-up shot in Saturday's Elon-ECC game as big Bobby Hodges forms an almost perfect screen for him. It was Collie's third field goal of the evening as the Pirates snapped an Elon winning streak at 10 games.

"Wow! What a long, low beauty!" "Just wait'll you 'Test Drive' this big '52 Ford!" "Look at that huge one-piece windshield!" "And that wider tread!"

Guess again... it's the '52 FORD!

The greatest low-priced car ever built!

You won't believe your eyes when you see the big, new '52 Ford! For never before has a low-priced car offered such power, such fine-car styling, such big-car comfort! You'll see such built-for-keeps advances (see below) as Ford's new longer, stronger Coachcraft Bodies and its more powerful, high-compression V-8 and Six engines.

The car that's made greater strides forward for '52 than any other in its class!

The most powerful low-priced car ever built!

110-hp high-compression Strato-Star V-8

104-hp high-compression Mileage Maker Six

Ford's 110-h.p. Strato-Star V-8 is the most powerful engine—and the only V-8 offered in a low-priced car. Ford's 101-h.p. Mileage Maker Six is an all-new low-friction Powerhouse with new free-turning overhead valves and shorter piston stroke. Both engines feature the Automatic Power Pilot which gives you high-compression "go" with regular gas.

Full-Circle Visibility. Curved one-piece windshield... car-wide rear window... narrower front pillars and center posts... picture windows all around give you visibility "unlimited." It's a Ford exclusive in the low-price field.

Automatic Ride Control. New wider front tread, lower center of gravity and diagonally mounted rear shock absorbers help take the bounce out of bumps, the tilt out of turns.

Ford Coachcraft Bodies. The newest, most advanced bodies in the low-price field... styled to stay beautiful and designed to stay young.

Fordomatic Drive. Fordomatic gives you two drives in one! Torque-converter smoothness plus the get-up-and-go of automatic gears.

Wipe adobe lines if available and Fordomatic Drive optional at extra cost. Equipment, accessories and trim subject to change without notice.

Come in and "Test Drive" the '52 FORD

IT'S BUILT FOR KEEPS!

Winterville, Bethel Leading Pitt League

Bethel's boys and Winterville's girls continue to set the pace in the Pitt County Conference as the 10-school league nears the finishing point for the season.

Through games played on February 8, Bethel is still undefeated in conference play. The Indians have romped through six games without a loss, although they had a close call with their nearest competitor, Ayden's Tornadoes, who have a 6-1 loop mark.

Winterville's powerful sextet has yet to meet a better team as they have downed eight teams without encountering any particular trouble. After running with Belvoir at a stalemate pace for most of the season, Coach Paul Clark's team took over undisputed possession of first place Friday night by walloping Grimesland by Belvoir was losing to Ayden's third place team, 40-37. Belvoir now has a 7-1 record while Ayden is close behind with a 6-1 mark.

Belvoir and Winterville meet next Friday night in the headliner of the conference's last week of play before the county tournament on March 3-8. Winterville has taken two victories over Belvoir in non-conference competition earlier this season. Ayden has closed out its league play for the year.

Bethel's Indians have one more game, with Farmville Friday night, before they hang up their conference tomahawks.

Murder is Forgetful

BY WILLIAM G. BOGART

Chapter 1

The tall young-faced man stepped out of the elevator on the thirteenth floor of the building on lower Fifth Avenue and moved along the hallway with the array of paper-wrapped packages stacked up to his chin. Under his left arm he carried a suit box, and by the time he reached the end of the long corridor the box was about ready to slip from his grasp. Balancing the stack of bundles, he bent his knees until his hand was on a level with the doorknob and his chin was opposite the gold lettering on the frosted glass of the door. In neat fine print were the words:

MOE MARTIN
 ..... Literary Agent .....
 Beneath this, in bold and elegant style, there appeared:
JOHNNY SAXON
PRIVATE INVESTIGATOR
I NEVER SLEEP

Johnny Saxon managed to get the doorknob turned and then he kicked the door open with his toe. He staggered into the office and hurried toward a table and let the bundles fall in a heap. His bright warm gaze touched the man seated behind the desk nearby.

"Hi, Uncle?" Johnny Saxon grinned.

Moe Martin looked up from the manuscript he'd been reading. He removed heavy rimmed glasses and placed them carefully to one side, and his tired bloodshot eyes stared first at all the bundles, then at tall Johnny Saxon.

"Something tells me," Moe Martin said worriedly, "that we're going to be broke again." He frowned. "What have you been buying now?"

"Clothes," said Johnny Saxon. "I also got you some shirts and neckties and socks. You are badly in need of them, sweetheart. All you need now is a new suit."

"I've got a suit," Moe Martin said. "But look at it!"

Moe watched as Johnny Saxon started unwrapping all the packages. He stood up and came around the big flat-top desk. He was of medium height, wide-set, with a large chest and a fringe of dark wavy hair that circled his partially bald head like a halo. Moe Martin had round, sad features that continually looked worried about something.

bring back her memory. Then she can tell what actually happened."

Moe sat looking up at Johnny Saxon, and after a moment he asked, "Why is this like a murder?"

"I've never seen her in my life. But if she's like most of those would-be novelists, she's probably got buck teeth and pimples."

"You say she lost her memory?" Johnny nodded. "Amnesia. Loss of memory. It happened about two weeks ago. I recall reading something about it in the papers. She disappeared. Irene Smith did, and the family has been looking all over for her. Now she's just been found, and so I'll write what she wants me as a bodyguard. They're afraid something might happen to her."

"Why are they afraid?" "Because of what happened to Irene's husband."

"What was that?" "He was murdered," said Johnny.

Woman Innocent In Murder Trial

OXFORD (AP)—Mrs. Jewel Harris, 37-year-old Oxford housewife was declared innocent yesterday of second degree murder in the pistol slaying of her husband.

A Granville County Superior Court jury deliberated for about three-quarters of an hour before reaching its verdict. Mrs. Harris, who told the court she had accidentally shot her husband, Oxford insurance man Thomas W. Harris, during a struggle over a pistol, gave an exhausted sigh and sat with her face buried in her hands for several minutes.

Harris died in Duke Hospital nine days after he was shot at the Harris home here on Oct. 8. Mrs. Harris testified that he had repeatedly threatened her during drunken tirades. At the time of the shooting, she told the court, he had knocked her down and she was trying to frighten him. She said she didn't know the pistol was loaded.

The verdict means also that Mrs. Harris will inherit the Harris estate estimated at $35,000.

Friday Feb. 15th - 2:30 P. M.

The R. D. Whitehurst Farm, formerly known as the old Jim Jones Farm. Located 2 miles from Greenville City Limits on Pactolus Highway.

Containing 96 acres, more or less, with 62 acres cleared. All of this land being in one block. One of the nicest farms that we have ever had the opportunity of handling. Located right in the back door of one of the finest tobacco markets in the world. With allotments as follows: Tobacco—18 acres; Peanuts—17 acres; Cotton—5; original allotment. Out of 62 acres of cleared land, there is 40 acres of money crop. 22 acres of corn.

Have you ever seen a farm sold that had this per cent of acres in cash crops before? Neither have I. Why pay taxes on farm land that has no cash crop allotment? Just think of two-thirds of the land on this farm has cash crop allotments.

No, that isn't all. One 6-room dwelling house in perfect condition; one 5-room dwelling, new; pack house (82x40) with big shelter on each side, and enough room to take care of your tobacco, corn, hay, and anything else grown on this farm. Six tobacco barns equipped with Buckeye curers. Lights and running water.

That still isn't all. Four nice mules; 2 carts; Plows; Sowers; Planters; Tobacco Trucks; 14,000 Tobacco Sticks; one John Deere B Tractor with breaking plows; Cultivators and Planters. Approximately 500 bales of hay; 50-60 barrels of corn. Tobacco Setter and Sprayer. A complete line of farming equipment.

Tobacco beds sowed; shrubbing and discing done; stalks cut; ditches ready cleaned out. The tenant on this farm is one of Pitt County's finest tobacco farmers. Could you imagine in this day and time not even having to leave the farm to plant, cultivate, and house 18 acres of tobacco? Your labor is on the farm.

Farmer Friends, this sounds and reads like a dream. It isn't a dream. It's just so unusual to find a plantation in this country that offers so much and is located so well. You are cordially invited to visit this farm and check on each and every thing listed in this ad. You will find it all there and then some more. With tobacco selling at $1,000 per acre and peanuts for .13, what is this farm worth? Buy a farm that you only lend your money to. It will certainly pay you back.

AP Newsfeatures

Two adventurous girls who recently hitch-hiked 60,000 miles through 39 countries probably hold the world's record for girl hitch-hikers. Furthermore, the girls—Phyllis Burke, 21, of Dobbs Ferry, N. Y., and Beverly Drake, 25 now of Australia—spent only $500 each and the cost of a round-trip third-class passage to Europe, for their year of travel.

How did they manage to live and travel on a shoestring? Phyllis says it was easy because "people all over the world opened their hearts and homes to us." She explains:

"We traveled by bicycle, horse and buggy, auto, truck, camels, boats, elephants and airplane. The airlines people were particularly nice to us. Whenever a plane wasn't crowded, we could get a free air lift to another country—most of the time with RAF or UN planes. The British embassies throughout the world were particularly cordial to us and many times were helpful when American embassies turned us down."

Sometimes hotels didn't have room for the youthful travelers, but they would manage to care for them, somehow. In crowded Hong Kong, says Phyllis, a large hotel closet was converted for them into a sleeping area. In France the girls once took refuge in a church. Says Phyllis:

"Two girls traveling together get lots of sympathy. In one of the Arab countries we were invited to join a harem. We also got a few proposals of marriage—lots of men want to marry an American passport."

Beverly parted from Phyllis in Australia—married a Hungarian she had met in Singapore. But Phyllis didn't meet anyone who interested her, particularly.

The girls met important government heads throughout the world—King Farouk, the Regent of Iraq in Baghdad, Prince Takamuto, the brother of Hirohito, Nehru of India. They were guests of the Maharajah Barodhi of New Delhi.

The money for the trip had been earned by working after school as waitresses, camp counselors and baby sitters. Phyllis attended Endicott Junior College, Beverly,

Mass., and Beverly attended Iowa State College.

They carried Army surplus packs crammed with 4 crepe dresses, 2 cotton dresses, shorts, jeans, bathing suit, wool suit, hiking shoes, gloves, nylon, 2 suits of long underwear, 1 tweed coat and a raincoat. Most of the clothing was suitable, except that warm coats had to be borrowed during the cold spells of Tehran and Australia. Says Phyllis:

"We were so cold in Tehran we wrapped sweaters around our legs and wore pajamas around our heads—one reason, perhaps, why we were jailed for a day on suspicion of being spies. They also eyed us with suspicion in India. In Istanbul, after we had inquired about a visit to Russia, we were followed by Russian spies."

There were not many bad experiences connected with the adventure, according to Phyllis, who noted that there is a great deal of anti-American feeling because American tourists "throw their money around." Young people who have respect for American dollars are appalled at tourists habits and think of America as a nation offering nothing but job opportunities.

Phyllis was amazed that GI's gripe about the country of their station, and that Americans abroad make loud and unpleasant criticisms of the countries they visit.

After a hitch-hike to South Africa, South America and Bali, Phyllis hopes to live in Italy, Austria or the Orient. She plans to write a book, and possibly hike to California before she goes abroad again. Says she:

"One thing that is noticeable throughout the world is the freedom of American women. In other countries women are looked down on. No matter where we traveled, other girls were amazed that we had so much freedom."

MASKED WITNESS BREAKS DOWN—A mystery witness holds his hand to his masked face as he breaks down while telling a special House committee in Washington about the massacre of Polish officers in Katyn Forest, near Smolensk, Russia, in World War II. The witness a stocky former Polish soldier who now lives in this country, testified that he witnessed the slaughter, which he attributed to Russian soldiers.—(AP Wirephoto) which he is charged, but in the light of the confusion that appears to have prevailed at the trial, the ends of justice require that there be a new trial, and it is so ordered."

WATER — In some ways water is like money. There is plenty of it, but it is not equitably distributed among places and times when it is needed. Last fall when Raleigh and numerous other North Carolina communities were suffering a water famine, floods were devastating large sections in the middle western river valleys. A few days ago your reporter saw water standing in low places in fields throughout the Piedmont which late last summer were literally burning up for lack of moisture. The rivers—Catawba, Deep, Haw, Rocky, Uwharrie, Yadkin and others—which last October could have been crossed with dry feet by jumping from rock to rock in the nearly dry riverbed, are now overflowing their banks. It reminds one of the old wisecrack about ice being available for everybody—rich folks have it in the summer, poor folks in the winter.

GREWSOME BUT NICE
WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass. —(UP)

The hearse is all part of the fun at Williams College house parties. Three Williams undergraduates are running a taxi service on weekends in a shiny black hearse they bought for $150. The owners claim it can seat 16 in padded comfort.

It takes a smaller share of your wages

to buy residence telephone service today than it did 10 years ago . . .

The price you pay for residence telephone service today actually takes a smaller percentage of your wages than in 1942. Telephone rates have increased much less than the other things you buy and telephone rates have not increased nearly as much as the prices the telephone company pays for the material, labor and equipment necessary to expand its service and to keep it good.

The Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company has petitioned the North Carolina Utilities Commission for an increase in rates. The Company must have an increase in rates if it is to continue to provide a dependable and growing telephone system capable of meeting the service needs of Eastern North Carolina.

Organizational Meet Set For Pitt Historical Body Thursday

An organizational meeting of the Pitt County Historical Association has been slated for Thursday night at 8 o'clock at Sheppard Memorial Library.

Attempts to form an historical association for the county began in November 1950 when a meeting was held in Greenville to discuss the possibility of the organization of such an association. There has not been another meeting since the initial gathering which was attended by approximately 20 people from the various sections of Pitt County.

J. L. Jackson, of Raleigh, formerly of Winterville, who has been the principal force behind the movement to organize an historical association for the county, said, "We are hoping that an organization will be formed that will be a credit to Pitt County. There is plenty of material, both personal and subject matter, to make a successful association. Many of the official county records have been destroyed in fires but there still exist in the homes of many people letters, diaries and other manuscripts that would shed much light on the way our ancestors lived."

Orange-Picking Champ Is Named

ORLANDO, Fla. (UP)—Dallas Barbee picked oranges here at better than three a second to become the world's fastest orange picker, a title Californians may want to dispute.

Barbee picked 31 boxes in an hour yesterday in the finals of the National Orange Picking Contest to top 28 champion pickers entered in the affair, sponsored by the Orlando Junior Chamber of Commerce.

No California pickers were entered.

Stocks And Market Reports

NEW YORK (UP)—Stocks declined slightly early today in one of the duller trading sessions of the year.

All departments joined in the modest decline. Dealings, however, were highly restricted. Sale in the first hour totaled only 230,000 shares, the smallest since Jan. 2, compared with 580,000 in the same period last Friday.

Colorado & Southern Issues, which have been strong recently, showed the widest changes. Its common fell 1 1/2 points to 53 and the 1st preferred was down a point to 51. Other carriers were virtually unchanged.

Steel shares were dull and mostly lower. Bethlehem Steel and Youngstown Sheet & Tube slipped small fractions. U. S. Steel was unchanged at 39 7/8. Chrysler and General Motors eased in their group.

American Hawaiian Steamship, strong Saturday, continued its advance with a gain of 3 3/4 points to a new high of 54 3/4.

Standard Oil Company (Indiana) also met some realizing in its group, falling 1 1/2 point to 81 3/4. Utilities were dull and virtually unchanged. Chemicals were also quiet.

RALEIGH (UP)—Hog markets. Mr. Olive. Slightly stronger at 18.90 for good and choice 180-240 lb barrows and gilts.

Ace Missing

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The Air Force announced today that Major George A. Davis Jr., America's top combat pilot of the Korean war, is missing in action.

The Air Force said Davis' plane was shot down yesterday and that no parachute was observed.

The 31-year-old flyer's wife, Doris, lives in Lubbock, Tex.

Find Boy Sealed In Freight Car; Cold, Hysterical

GRANITE CITY, Ill. (UP)—A 15 year old Negro boy, frost-bitten and wild-eyed with hysteria, was found in a sealed freight car where he had been imprisoned without food or heat on a four-day trip from Connecticut.

William Melvin Wright was taken to St. Elizabeth's Hospital here where his condition was described as "pretty good." Railroad workers freed him from the box car on a railroad siding in nearby East Madison yesterday.

The boy told hospital attendants that he lived in Boston and was trying to "hitch" a ride to Oakland, Calif., to see his mother.

William said he hitch-hiked from Boston to New Haven, Conn., where he went to the freight yards and climbed into a box car.

Inflation Hasn't Reached Barber

BEDFORD, Pa. (UP)—Eighty-four-year-old Daniel N. Byers merely snips his scissors in the air whenever customers mention inflation in his barbershop.

Barbering since he was 15, Byers still charges the same price for a haircut, he charged 69 years ago—10 cents.

Byers said he got his start when he and his brother took turns clipping each others hair. When friends and neighbors learned of his shearing skill they beat a path to his door. Byers has been "clipping" his customers for the same thin dime ever since.

40 STITCHES IN TIME SALISBURY, N. H. (UP)—A 20-year old motorist still has his ear, thanks to 40 stitches in time. It took a physician that many stitches to reassemble George Brook's ear after the motorist had been injured when his car skidded.

The Lincoln You Know

AP Newsfeatures

Abraham Lincoln lived when photography was in its pioneer stage. There were no candid cameras and taking a picture meant a "sitting." The need for these formal sessions immobilized his features and his friends said that many qualities of the man failed to get through to the photographic plates. But the Lincoln you know is in large part derived from about 125 photographs which exist today. Here are some of them. The big picture may be the most familiar. It is the one on the $5 bill. The others were taken between about 1848 and 1865, the first when he was a member of Congress, the last a few days before his assassination.

Youth Arrested On Rape Charge

Lacey C. Harris, 16-year-old Negro from Bevoir Township, was arrested late Friday night and placed in Pitt County Jail on a charge of rape. He waived preliminary hearing and is being held without bond.

The warrant, issued by Justice of the Peace W. O. Cobb of Bevoir, charges the Harris youth the rape of Ruby Lee Woolen, age 10. The alleged rape took place late Friday afternoon in the vicinity of Penny Hill, near Bevoir.

Officers said the boy picked the girl up on his bicycle and carried her down the road where the reported crime was committed.

The investigation and arrest was made by Willie Bell, constable of Bevoir Township.

Another MIG Is Shot Down

8TH ARMY HQ, Korea (UP)—American Sabrejet pilots shot down one Communist jet fighter plane and damaged four others today in air battles over North Korea.

Lt. James E. Arnold of Walla Walla, Wash., and Lt. Raymond E. Steinbig of Tulare, S. D., shared credit for destroying the one MIG-15 in a fight between 18 F-86's and 60 MIG's.

Four MIG's were damaged in other encounters. Allied planes also shot down one MIG Sunday. In addition, they claimed two probably destroyed, subject to further check by gun camera films, and five damaged.

In a continuation of "Operation Strangle," United Nations planes blasted enemy rail lines along both coasts of North Korea despite an almost solid overcast covering target areas.

However, clear visibility Sunday permitted Far East Air Force planes to mount 1,057 sorties, greatest number of the past three months.

Ground action Monday was confined to probing attacks and patrol encounters at several places along the front.

Funeral Set Tuesday For Mrs. H. F. Jones

Possibly Serious . . .

Firemen stated that the flames had burned through the floor of the building when discovered, with flames lighting up the whole building by the time fire fighting equipment arrived.

Firemen broke through doors on the outside of the building to gain entrance and were able to subdue the flames before they got out of control.

Vesper Service Is Held For Pitt's Boy Scouts

The Rev. Lee Willingham, pastor of the Hollywood Presbyterian Church, took as his text "A Scout is clean, a Scout is brave" for the sermon delivered yesterday afternoon at the vesper service for Pitt's scouts and their parents.

The service was held in the First Presbyterian church of Greenville at 5 o'clock.

Belgium Uneasy Over Effects Of Schuman Plan

By JOHN LAW United Press Staff Correspondent BRUSSELS.—(UP)—Tiny Belgium still thinks it might have more to lose by the Schuman Plan than any other country in Europe.

Belgium does not plan to ratify it just because the French have done so.

The plan for a European coal and steel pool is still in committee. There is no sign that it will be brought before the full parliament before the middle of January, at least. Holland as well as France has already ratified the plan.

Belgium has the most expensive coal on the continent and would not even initial the Schuman treaty earlier this year until special protection was given her industry. Now there is a widespread feeling that the protection clauses were not made watertight.

Attacks against the Schuman Plan have centered around two major arguments:

1. High-cost Belgian coal would be unable to compete in the market and the nation would be swamped with cheaper coal from Germany and other countries.

2. The Schuman Plan is unconstitutional.

In an attempt to meet the first objection the Schuman Plan treaty gives Belgium certain privileges for the first five years.

Belgium may subsidize its coal industry to a certain extent and will receive the guaranty that net Belgium output would not have to be reduced by more than three per cent during any one year.

Many observers here feel that the three per cent restriction would not work in practice. One of the top members of the coal industry also charged recently that 75 per cent of Belgian mines would have to close down under the Schuman Plan.

DIES IN RICHMOND Mrs. Lewis C. Speight of Winterville died early this morning in the hospital of the Virginia Medical College in Richmond, Virginia.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

The earth is a mean distance of 93,004,000 miles away from the sun.

Citing the two parts of the scout law, the Rev. Willingham said a scout promises to be clean in body, in mind, to think clean thoughts and go with a clean crowd. "It is not a sin when dirty thoughts come to our minds," the minister told the scouts, "but it is a sin when we give in to temptation. We are responsible for hospitality given to dirty thoughts. A bar of soap is not going to clean out dirty thoughts, dirty habits or a dirty crowd. Only the blood of Jesus Christ can cleanse every bit of that. We can not sincerely obey the scout law unless we have Christ in our hearts, because we are too weak."

The minister pointed out that it takes a brave individual to confront the temptations of sin and live up to the teachings of Christ and the scout oath and law.

Approximately 100 Boy Scouts, Cub Scouts and their parents attended the service.
