2000th Red Jet Downed Over Korea

Sabres Accept Heavy Odds To Account For 2 MIG-15s In Aerial Fight

8TH ARMY HQ, Korea (UP)—United Nations F-86 Sabres shot down the 2000th MIG-15 of the Korean war today, knocking out two of the Russian swept-wing fighters during two air battles South of the Yalu River.

The Sabres, accepting nearly 2 to 1 odds, damaged five other MIGs during two morning actions to bring the day's total to two MIGs destroyed and five damaged.

The Fifth Air Force MIG score-board now reads: 200 destroyed, 36 probably destroyed and 388 damaged.

Twenty-seven F-86s bored into a formation of about 50 enemy fighters 20,000 to 40,000 feet above "MIG Alley" in the first air battle of the day. Maj. Van E. Chandler, of Waxahachie, Tex., damaged one of the enemy before the fight was broken off.

In the second clash, 28 Sabres and 40 MIGs tangled in a battle ranging from 23,000 up to 40,000 feet. Four MIGs were hit in 10 minutes of 600-mile-an-hour dog fighting.

While jets battled high over North Korea, U.N. fighter-bombers swept low over enemy rail lines and road networks. Twenty-five holes were blasted in Communist rail lines southeast of Chongju.

Marine Corsairs and Air Force F-80 Shooting Stars worked over Communist front line positions in the "Iron Triangle" area of the central front.

Marine airmen claimed they killed or wounded 36 enemy troops near Kosong, on the East Coast, and knocked out an enemy anti-aircraft position.

On the ground, a U.N. patrol fought for 30 minutes with a Communist unit. Four Reds were killed in the clash, the only highlight of a day of minor action.

The battle occurred west of Chorwon as a U.N. patrol pushing out into enemy territory ran into two squads of Communists—less than 20 men.

The battle ended when the U.N. patrol pulled back to its own lines, leaving four enemy dead and three wounded.

Only light contact or none at all was reported from the remainder of the front.

All 37 Aboard French Airliner Killed In Crash

NICE, France (UP)—All 37 passengers and crewmen, including an American ballerina who had just danced "of love and death," were killed today in the takeoff crash of a French airliner.

Authorities said the Air France plane with 33 passengers and four crew members aboard flew into a flight of migrating birds and all four engines went dead. The plane crashed to earth and burned in La Valentine Valley, little more than half a mile from Nice Airport.

One of the passengers was identified as Mrs. Harriet Toby, 22, an American ballerina who last night performed with the Cuevas Ballet at this Mediterranean resort in the Southeast corner of France.

Seek Eliminate Party Primary

ST. PAUL, Minn. (UP)—Democratic Farmer-Labor party chiefs today sought to have the state's March 18 presidential primary eliminated.

DFL leaders indicated yesterday they would try to meet with Gov. C. Elmer Anderson to have the law repealed.

Karl Rolvaag, state DFL chairman, said it was "preposterous" to spend $350,000 "for an unconstitutional law that will decide absolutely nothing not already established."

Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.) is entered on the Democratic slate and Harold Stassen has filed on the Republican ticket.

Fears Ike Won't Win Nomination

Senator Who Once Proposed Both Demos And GOP Nominate General Now Sees Eisenhower Left Out Altogether

WASHINGTON (UP)—Sen. Paul H. Douglas, who once proposed that both parties nominate Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower for president, said today he now fears Eisenhower may wind up without either party's nomination.

"Gen. Eisenhower doesn't want the (Democratic) nomination he can get, and he apparently is going to have great difficulty getting the (Republican) nomination he wants," Douglas told a reporter.

He may be in the process of falling between two stools, to the great loss of the nation.

Douglas, an Illinois Democrat who has long been on the outs with President Truman, suggested in a speech last year that both parties back Eisenhower as a unanimous choice for the presidency.

His idea was received coldly by Democratic supporters of Mr. Truman, as well as by Republican supporters of Sen. Robert A. Taft. Douglas indicated that he has no hope of reviving the proposal.

"Why should I waste my energies on something that didn't take hold?" he asked.

Douglas made his comments as political attention was turning to New Hampshire and the final week of the campaign there for the nation's leadoff presidential primaries on March 11. The Taft-Eisenhower battle held the spotlight.

Taft supporters claimed a big boost for their "underdog" campaign in the form of a roundabout public endorsement for Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

MacArthur sent a handwritten note to former State Sen. J. Wesley Colburn, who had headed the "Draft MacArthur" movement in New Hampshire until the general withdrew his name from the race. The note said:

"Under the circumstances, I suggest you support Taft."

Col. Laurence Bunker, a MacArthur aide, said in New York that the note spoke for itself, and that the general did not wish to explain what "circumstances" he had in mind.

Candidates and emissaries of candidates have laid out a large scale invasion of New Hampshire this week to make their final bids.

Taft will swing through New Hampshire Thursday, Friday and Saturday to make his challenge in a state once considered Eisenhower territory.

Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., (R-Mass.) and Sen. Frank Carlson (R-Kan.), two of the Eisenhower campaign managers, will be among the out-of-state envoys speaking for the Atlantic Defense commander.

Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio) will meet today to render a decision regarding the appointment of an acting register of deeds for the county.

The present register, John G. Clark, Jr., has resigned and will vacate the office March 15 to join the staff of radio station WGTC. An acting register appointed now would fill the office through December of this year.

Whoever is elected to the office in the Fall elections will assume the full four year term on January 1.

Board members have two alternatives in making the appointment. They may appoint someone from the numerous applications that have come in for the office and let him defend his position in the May primary and Fall elections; or they may appoint someone now working in the office to fill the unexpired term through December, and let the people of the county choose a register from the several candidates who will undoubtedly run in the May primary.

Register of Deeds Clark said this morning that other business scheduled for today's meeting will be routine. "Other than choosing an acting register," he stated, "other business will probably consist of hearing monthly reports from the various departments."

The accident occurred in Lenoir County approximately one mile south of Grifton.

The light northeast breeze which blew yesterday afternoon posed a problem for some contestants with the heavier kites, but for the most part the unsteady wind held with sufficient force to keep the kites in the air.

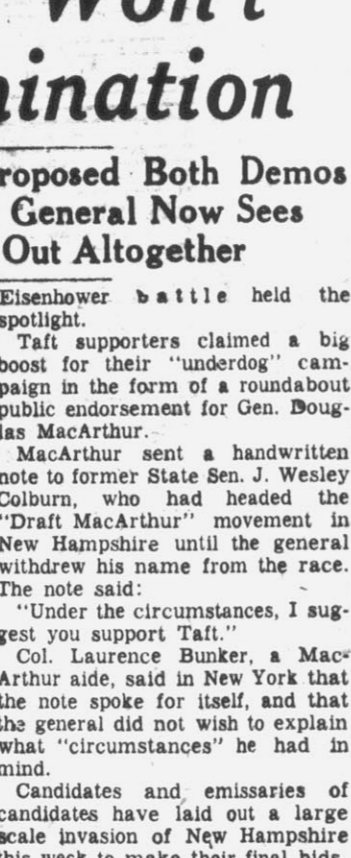

Recreation Director Warren Carroll said he was pleased with the interest shown in the two kite tournaments held Saturday and yesterday, and expressed his appreciation to the Jaycees and the Colored Civic League which sponsored the two tournaments for the white children and the Negro children of the city.

There were approximately 100 entries in the tournament for Negro children held Saturday afternoon at the South Greenville School, but a list of the winners was not available from the recreation office today.

Blue, white and red ribbons as well as points were awarded winners of each division in the eight events of the tournament, and many contestants sported a varied assortment of ribbons on their jackets before the tournament ended.

Special awards for the tournament champion, the second place tournament winner and the third place tournament winner will be made in the near future, Warren said. The awards have been ordered, but have not yet arrived.

Pitt Board Has Meeting Today

Slated To Act On Filling Vacancy In Register Of Deeds' Post

The Pitt Board of Commissioners will meet today to render a decision regarding the appointment of an acting register of deeds for the county.

Resigned To Cut For Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON (UP)—Administration lieutenants in Congress indicated today they are resigned to cuts of at least $1,000,000,000 in the $7,800,000,000 foreign aid program which President Truman will submit this week.

One highly-placed Democratic senator said he will be gratified if the economy drive can be halted at the billion-dollar mark. He said that before the recent North Atlantic Treaty agreements at Lisbon, he feared the slashes would total $2,000,000,000 or more.

Breaking trail for Mr. Truman, who will send a special message to Congress Thursday, Secretary of State Dean Acheson scheduled a closed-door meeting today with the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to report on the progress achieved at Lisbon.

Members expected him to warn that any cuts in U.S. economic and military aid might derail the drive toward Western European unity and upset the plans for a 50-division Atlantic Pact army which were launched at Lisbon.

The President himself will take his foreign aid plea directly to the people Thursday night in a speech over all radio and television networks.

But Republican congressmen were ready to meet the administration arguments with a demand for "actions, not words" to show that the European Allies meant business about the mutual defense pledges they gave at Lisbon.

Sen. Homer Ferguson (R-Mich.) said the $1,900,000,000 aid program "can be cut—greatly cut."

Patrol Prisoner Killed In Violent Bid To Escape

WASHINGTON—A life and death struggle between a Highway Patrolman and a 38-year-old Negro whom he had arrested was enacted here Saturday afternoon, with two persons being shot in the battle which followed.

James Smallwood, Negro, whose address was listed as Vanceboro, was fatally shot by Patrolman George Medlin of Washington around 4:30 Saturday afternoon as he fled from Medlin's wrecked patrol car, after seriously wounding a man and injuring Medlin.

According to Medlin, he, in company with Patrolman W. M. Boykin, was patrolling the Williamston-Washington highway when they picked up a Negro on suspicion of larceny of clothing.

Medlin stated that they saw the man as he walked along the road. He was carrying several items of clothing when first noticed.

When asked what he was doing walking along the road with the clothes, the man stated that he was carrying them to be cleaned but that did not convince the officers who placed him under arrest. He then told them that he had stolen the clothes.

At this point, Boykin returned to his own patrol car which had been parked down the highway, leaving Medlin to bring the man in alone.

According to Medlin, as the patrol car approached the Cratch Motor Court, about one mile from Washington, Smallwood grabbed the wheel of the officer's car and attempted to wreck it, at the same time pulling the officer's pistol from his holster.

Fighting for possession of the pistol, the car went into a ditch, at which point Jeffrey Cratch, operator of the Cratch Motor Court, ran up to aid the officer. Medlin stated that as Cratch attempted to choke the man to make him release his hold on the gun, the Negro shifted the weapon from one hand to the other and shot his attacker in the chest.

The bullet entered above the man's head, but was reflected off by a piece of clothing in his pocket with the bullet lodging between two ribs. His condition was described as serious today; however he was resting comfortably.

Five Questioned In Reno Robbery

RENO, Nev. (UP)—Authorities today sought to link a heel print, a palm print a button and a miniature soap wrapper with a frightened blonde and her four companions held in Butte, Mont., for questioning in a $2,500,000 robbery of a millionaire's mansion here.

The clues were all that police had to work with in solving the Friday night burglary of the home of La Vere V. Redfield.

The theft, in which cash, securities and jewelry were taken while a "vicious" watchdog gnawed on a hambone thrown him by the thieves, was one of the biggest hauls in modern times, police said.

The five persons in custody were stopped at a roadblock near Butte last night in a two-tone Cadillac in which they were carrying only pieces of luggage, most of it crammed with dirty clothes.

Police said their names were the same as those issued in a Nevada police bulletin. Nevada authorities said the suspects were: Geraldine Harris (Alias Geraldine Unger), 27, Tulsa, Okla.; Floyd Dwight Dugger, 26, Missoula, Mont.; Rodney C. Unger (alias Robert Clinton or A. Matron), 31, of Tulsa; Walter E. Moore, 23, Las Vegas, Ne.; and Bendel Lee Moore, 39, Monroe, La.

Four of the suspects have "records as long as your arm," said Emmett Sullivan, assistant police chief in Butte.

UMT Supporters Rally For House Vote Tomorrow

WASHINGTON (UP)—House leaders laid plans today to keep election-jitters members from taking a safe stand on the fence when universal military training comes to a vote tomorrow.

Friends and foes of UMT agreed that the vote will be close. Both sides predicted victory, but with no great conviction.

Opponents based their strategy on the well-known reluctance of many House members to take a forthright stand for or against the controversial training measure in an election year. They planned to appeal to such members with a motion to "recommit" the UMT bill to the House Armed Services Committee "for further study."

Normally, a bill thus tossed back to a committee is dead for the remainder of the session.

TAX INDICTMENT ROCKINGHAM (AP)—A federal grand jury today indicted former State Sen. George T. Penny of Guilford County for income tax evasion.

Damage Costs Run High In Weekend Accidents

Weekend accidents in Pitt County took their toll in property damage to automobiles involved, but all occupants escaped injury, the Greenville office of the State Highway Patrol reported today.

A car operated by Margaret Scarborough, 23, of New Bern, crashed into a telephone pole near Grimesland Sunday afternoon causing damage estimated at over $350.

Patrolman James W. Boykin of Greenville stated that the woman told him she dropped a lighted cigarette, took her eyes off the highway to find the cigarette and the car went out of control.

No charges were placed.

Law Is Upheld

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court today upheld by a 6 to 3 vote New York's anti-communist teacher law.

The act—widely known as the Feinberg law—is designed to bar subversive persons from working in the state's school system.

It was attacked by eight New York taxpayers who insisted the statute violated freedom of speech and assembly.

Justice Minton delivered the majority decision. Justices Douglas, Black and Frankfurter wrote dissenting opinions.

Accident Fatal For Pitt Citizen

GRIFTON—Raymond Craft, of Grifton, RFD 2, was fatally injured near here early Saturday night when he was struck by an automobile driven by Corey Garris of Ayden.

Craft was rushed to Lenoir Memorial Hospital in Kinston where he died at 2:25 Sunday afternoon.

Patrolman W. Taylor of Kinston who investigated the accident, said this morning no charges have been placed against Garris pending further investigation of the accident.

Taylor said the car driven by Garris was going north on Highway 11 when it struck Craft who was crossing the highway. Craft was in the center of the highway when he was struck, the patrolman reported.

He quoted Garris as saying he was meeting a car and just as the automobile passed, he saw Craft in front of him in the middle of the highway. Garris applied the brakes, the patrolman said, and the automobile skidded to the left and Craft was struck by the right rear fender of Garris' car.

The accident occurred in Lenoir County approximately one mile south of Grifton.

Emptied Milk On Growing Blaze

CHICAGO (UP)—A milk man who poured his dairy products onto a fire was credited today with saving a school house from certain destruction.

Eugene Anderson dumped the contents of his milk cans onto a fire which destroyed a church in suburban Lockport yesterday.

When the milk supply was exhausted Anderson was joined by neighbors who filled the cans with water which they poured on the fire. Their efforts kept a nearby school house from igniting.

Tractor Factory Strike Resolved

ROCK ISLAND, Ill. (UP)—Some 4,500 workers at the Farmall Tractor Works of the International Harvester Co., were to return to work today after they agreed to a 30-day truce while a wage dispute is argued.

The workers, members of the farm equipment workers Local 109, voted yesterday to go back to work while negotiators discuss their protest of wage cuts for 42 block testers.

Corruption Hunter Plans To Quit If Not Backed Up

WASHINGTON (UP)—Corruption hunter Newbold Morris is going to "wash his hands" of his new job if President Truman refuses to fire government employees who don't answer financial questionnaires which Morris plans to send them.

Morris also said on a television program yesterday that if he had been in the President's shoes he would not have appointed former New York Mayor William O'Dwyer an ambassador to Mexico, and he would not have kept Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan as a White House military aide.

Morris was interviewed on the National Broadcasting Co.'s television program, "Meet the Press."

Morris said he plans to send financial questionnaires to "about 25,000" top government employees, and that the questions on incomes, gifts and favors will be "very

Reds Retreat In Cease-Fire Talk

Auditorium For Farmville Negro School Is Urged

H. B. Sugg Appears Before Board Of Education To Promote Building

By MURIEL SHOTWELL Reflector Staff Writer H. B. Sugg, principal of the Negro high school in Farmville, appeared before the Pitt County Board of Education this morning to request that an auditorium be built for the school.

Sugg said the 950 students in the school had nowhere to assemble for convocations, musical programs, indoor sports, and other activities and that such a building was greatly needed and the need was pressing. He reminded the board that the people in Farmville had bought just the essentials and they were trying to save the county money.

"We know the school funds are limited," Sugg said, "and taxation is high but we wish the board would take the proposition up from every angle and see what could be done in getting us an auditorium." He asked for a building 80 by 120 feet with walls between 14 and 16 feet high.

Sugg brought out that the school had sufficient land in which to construct the auditorium and the present heating plant could be extended to heat the auditorium.

The board told Sugg that they would earnestly consider his proposal and would think it over carefully and keep it in mind when the budget is made up. The board voted to take the matter under advisement and stated they were well aware of the need for an auditorium at the school.

It was brought out at the meeting that the new colored school at Fountain was near completion and would be set up as a seven-teacher school next fall.

D. H. Conley, superintendent of the county schools, told board members J. H. Rose, superintendent of the city schools, would like to have the county board of education and the city board to meet together in the near future to discuss a number of pertinent school problems.

The county board expressed a desire to meet with the city board and instructed Conley to arrange a meeting with Rose sometime during the week following March 18.

Conley told the board that two Negro teachers in the county school system had reached and gone past the retirement age but wanted to continue at their jobs. He recommended that one teacher be retained for one more year and the other be continued as long as the local unit wants him.

The board followed Conley's recommendation and voted in favor of it.

Snowshoes Were Small Hindrance

HARRISON, Me. (UP)—Malcolm Briggs claimed today that he is the only person ever to climb a tree while wearing snowshoes.

Briggs leaped into the branches when a pain-crazed deer charged him. He stayed in the tree for three hours until game warden Harry Kearney arrived and shot the deer.

Turk And Greek Armies Inspected By Eisenhower

PARIS (UP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower left by plane today for Ankara for a quick look at Turkey's 30 tough, battle-trained divisions, the largest force within his North Atlantic command.

From Turkey, Eisenhower and his chief of staff, Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, will fly to Athens to inspect Greece's 10 divisions.

The Mediterranean area includes the West's strongest existing defenses against Russia in Europe. By contrast, Eisenhower's Western European forces have only a paper promise of reaching 50 divisions by the end of the year.

Test Possible Twin Separation

CHICAGO (UP)—Studies were renewed today in an effort to determine whether the Brodie Siamese twins could be separated.

The twin boys, joined at the top of the skull, were born to Mr. and Mrs. Royt Brodie last September. Earlier examinations led doctors to believe separation was impossible.

But a spokesman said tests were being undertaken at the University of Illinois Research Hospital to determine whether a congenital heart condition could be corrected to make separation possible.

Communists Concede UN Has Right To Veto Russia As Truce Inspector; Red Screams In Tirade During 'Unpleasant' Meet Of Negotiators

By LEROY HANSEN United Press Staff Correspondent PANMUNJOM, Korea (UP)—The Communists conceded today for the first time that the United Nations have a right to veto Russia as a truce inspector, but only for "valid reasons."

It represented the Reds' first retreat on this major deadlocked issue. Only last Saturday the Reds had said that Russia must serve on the six-nation Neutral Armistice Inspection Commission, with or without the Allies' consent.

Women In The Church

By MARY FOWLER

Miss Madeline Barot, social and religious worker of Paris, France, has been named secretary of the "Commission on the Life and Work of Women in the World Council of Churches." Miss Barot is well-known throughout Europe and America as the guiding spirit of CIMADE, Christian service organization of Protestant youth which was set up first in France during the World War II, to give help to prisoners of war, refugees and displaced persons. The scope of the work was later extended to include other countries and such services as kindergartens in devastated areas, student centers in overpopulated cities, or educational facilities for refugees. Miss Barot, before her experience with CIMADE, had been associated with the Young Women's Christian Association. The chairman of the Commission is Mrs. Kathleen Bliss, of London, England—one of the two women Doctors of Divinity in Great Britain.

The Republic of Liberia—founded a century and a half ago as a refuge for freed American slaves—is today perhaps the most progressive country in Africa," says Miss Dorothy McConnell, missionary leader and editor of the Methodist Church, recently returned from that continent. "Liberia has accepted its part in the work of the United Nations," says Miss McConnell. "The president is working at top speed to prepare his country to make its contribution to Africa and to the world. For this end he has welcomed United Nations agencies and technical assistance programs. "A great literacy program promoted by UNESCO and the various Christian missions at work in Liberia has the President of the Republic fully behind it. Women are playing a great part in development of the nation. One Liberian woman is now the assistant secretary of war, and she is also president of the Woman's Society of Christian Service in the First Methodist Church, Monrovia. Another woman is assistant secretary of education. Liberia is the only Negro republic in Africa, and seems to be proof that Africans can handle their own affairs with skill, and at the same time make a contribution to the international community."

Miss Pearl Lichtenstein of Richmond, who has been visiting Miss Mae Schulz, went to Tarboro Saturday evening.
L. H. Bowling went to Wilson Saturday evening.
Miss Beate Bennett of Wilson, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. E. W. Harvey, left Sunday afternoon.
T. J. Moore returned Sunday from Raleigh.
The Sans Souci Book Club will meet with Miss Mary Higgs on Wednesday afternoon at 3:30.
In keeping with every Sunday so far this year bringing bad weather, the Sunday just passed did not prove an exception. The day began raw and cloudy and about mid-day snow began falling. This kept up through the afternoon, covering the ground to the depth of about an inch, but sleet came early in the night and took the snow away.

Mrs. Warren Hostess To Lector Club

The last meeting of the Lector Book Club was held on Tuesday, February 19, with Mrs. Burney Warren Jr. as hostess.
Spring flowers were used for decorations, and Mrs. John Miller Jr. of Williamston, was welcomed as a guest.
Following the short business meeting, the hostess presented the program for the afternoon. It was a continuation of the study of the New Testament, and Mrs. Warren discussed Paul's letters to the Galatians, the Ephesians, and the Philippians. She gave a background of the letters and told briefly of the conditions prevalent in these places of early historical Christian interest. Then she concluded her discussion with a resume of the chapters.
During the social hour which followed a dessert course was served and the books exchanged.

Rate Reductions Are Approved By Waldo Cheek

RALEIGH — (AP) — State Insurance Commissioner Waldo Cheek has approved rate reductions estimated to save Tar Heel policy holders a total of $852,018 annually on fire and extended coverage policies.
Of this, $736,915 is on fire policies and $115,203 on the extended coverage endorsement.
Cheek said the bulk of the reduction is on residential property in protected areas which have fire departments. He estimated the reduction on this property will total $620,724. He added the rate changes are effective April 15. Policies written after March 15 may be endorsed at the new rate levels.

Five Killed In Auto Accident

LORIS, S. C. — (AP) — An automobile hit a bridge abutment near here yesterday and killed all five occupants.
The dead: Herbert Duncan, 27; Robert E. Smith, 22; Robert Albert Gore, 22; all of Rt. 3, Tabor City, N. C.; James D. Strickland, 19, a veteran of the Korean War now stationed at Ft. Jackson, and Lynnwood Grainger, 19, of Fair Bluff, N. C. The accident happened at the Waccamaw River Bridge between Loris and Ocean Drive.

Alumnae Of Meredith Tea Hostesses For Seniors

The Senior girls of Greenville High School were tea guests of Meredith alumnae on Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. L. Winstead.

Mrs. W. W. Smiley, Mrs. C. E. Oakley and Mrs. Winstead received at the front door and guests were invited into the dining room by Mrs. Jack Nobles and Mrs. Carter Student.

Meredith colors were featured on the dining table, which was covered with a lace cloth. An arrangement of maroon and gold flowers centered the table with a maroon satin ribbon bearing the word "Meredith" in gold letters running lengthwise the table. Dainty refreshments and napkins also carried out the college colors.

Punch was served by Mrs. Raleigh Lee and assisting her in the dining room were the high school daughters of the alumnae. They were Sara Lee, Ann Ruffin, Linda Whitehurst, Lella Davenport and Lou Winstead.

Mrs. Harvey Ward rendered accordian music during the tea hour. After refreshments guests gathered in the living room where they were received by Mrs. N. C. Brooks and Mrs. Paul Davenport. Mrs. Davenport welcomed the seniors and introduced Miss Louise Fleming, dean of students at Meredith, who in turn presented five Meredith college students.

Jean Miller accompanied by Betty Miller sang the "Jewel Song" from Faust and as an encore "Christopher Robin is Saying His Prayer." Joan Brown, Ann Creech and Mary Olive Spivey talked informally with the group, telling what they liked about Meredith and answering questions.

About 60 guests called during the afternoon.

Umstead, Olive To Debate Planks

DUNN, N. C. — (AP) — Two leading candidates for governor, William B. Umstead of Durham and Hubert E. Olive of Lexington, will debate their campaign platforms at a big supper meeting planned here.

The date will be set in April, according to Jim McMillan, founder and moderator of the Dunn Information Clinic which is arranging the event. He said the two candidates have accepted invitations to appear together here.

McMillan added that they have agreed to participate in a question-and-answer session during an open forum following the debate.

The debate will be held along with a supper meeting in the Dunn High School gymnasium which has facilities for seating approximately 500 persons.

The debate will be carried over a number of radio stations and possibly over a state-wide network.

Smith Announces Cadet Appointee

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Sen. Willis Smith (D-NC) announced yesterday he has appointed John Reynolds Arwood of Burlington to the U. S. Naval Academy.

Arwood, 20, is a student at North Carolina State College. He formerly attended Elon College.

'Your Neighborhood' Art Exhibit Being Displayed In ECC Art Department

On display in the art department at East Carolina college is an exhibit, "Look at Your Neighborhood," compiled by the Museum of Modern Art, New York City.

The exhibit has been lent to the college until Thursday, March 6, and some of the panels will be on display in several of the main street store windows today, Tuesday, and Wednesday.

Dora Clriot, head of the art department at ECC, said that the exhibit proves that art is not just a pretty likeness on a strip of canvas or paper. "It is a living thing that is for everyone and gives a part to everyone to play whether he wills it or not," she said. "Art is living, how we live together in the home, in the community, what we contribute to the home, to the community that makes for health, healthy thinking, and happiness for everyone."

The exhibit is divided into 12 panels and each panel takes up such questions and ideas on community and home living as schools, parks, good housing, community centers, shopping centers, industrial areas, and planning for future building.

The exhibit illustrates such points in paintings and photographs. Photographs show many houses crowded together, and many automobiles parked on the streets, ideal school rooms with children at work, people taking advantage of a community center, and adults at work and play.

On display is also a diagram and plan showing the development of neighborhoods grouped together with other neighborhoods, forming a rural or suburban village or another town.

Show Business Is City's Business

BENTON, Ill. — (AP) — This Southern Illinois city is going into show business.

Benton's Council has voted to lease part of its large public park to a drive-in theater operator for 10 per cent of gross receipts for 10 years. The operator agreed to build an outdoor theater and the city agreed to reimburse him for all costs except for sound and screen.

Reassuring Note Sounded In Truman's Peace Outlook

By DON WHITEHEAD
WASHINGTON (AP) — A couple of days ago a well-known American stood on the steps of the White House and told a teen-age group:

"I rather think we are going to have a peaceful world over the next century."

The remark came from President Truman, who described himself to his young visitors as "an optimist."

It was an offhand remark. It wasn't framed by a ghost-writer. It wasn't uttered in any relation to politics or legislation or to influence any issue. It appeared to be merely a casual statement.

It may be the President sensed that the youngsters all high school seniors were worried about their future at a time when there is ominous talk of a war much greater than the Korean War. It may be he was thinking of this and wanted to give them some reassurance.

But whatever the reason, the little tableau on the White House steps was important because it possibly revealed the inner thoughts of a man who is in a better position than any other American to know whether a general war is threatening the world now or in the foreseeable future.

It indicated that the President does not think war is imminent or that it is even over the horizon. And if this be true, then the news should relieve the anxieties of millions of Americans.

It's difficult not to be filled with anxieties right now. Each year about this time, the talk of another great war grows heavy in this jungle of words on the Potomac. For this is budget time. And most of the budget billions are earmarked for spending which it is hoped will prevent war.

This being the case, the logical argument for the spending is that if the money is not appropriated, then our defenses against war will be weakened, therefore war will be more likely. Such arguments, no matter how logical, tend to create an uneasy fear throughout the land.

It takes careful reading of the news to get a balanced picture of the struggle being waged for security. It requires careful sifting of the news and faith in the ultimate right of our rambling democratic processes not to become discouraged.

Good news doesn't mean there can be any relaxing in the fight for a peaceful world. But for the time being, it is reassuring for the President of the United States to be saying: "I rather think we are going to have a peaceful world over the next century."

Brotherhood Supper
The annual Brotherhood Supper of the Christian Church was given last Thursday night. The supper was a covered dish meal with Brunswick stew. Eighty-five persons attended.

Miss Veneta Cox of Greenville, speaking at the Brotherhood Supper, gave an interesting talk summing up the economical and political status of Communist China.

In addition to her talk Miss Cox, a missionary who returned to the United States in 1950 from China, showed a film taken of the schools in which she taught and showed parts of the famed Burma Road. A color film of the home she occupied and the Chinese girl she adopted while in that country were also shown.

The missionary taught in Hanchow and Wuchang, both in Central China on the Yangtze River. While at Wuchang she was head of the music department of the university. She is a graduate of Salem College and attended the New York Training School for Church Workers and the Teachers College of Columbia University.

Woman Arrested For Possession Illicit Whiskey

Charlotte Station, 41-year-old Negro woman, was arrested Saturday night by ABC officers and police on charges of possession of non-tax-paid whiskey for sale.

The arresting officers said they found slightly more than a gallon of moonshine whiskey in the woman's house at 409B W. 12th Street when they raided the house Saturday night. A portion of the whiskey was found in a trunk, the officers said, and a portion around the bedroom.

The woman was released under a $200 bond for appearance in municipal recorder's court this morning, but the case was postponed until March 14.

Arresting officers were ABC officers J. M. Ward, Dick King, Claude Manning and J. L. Taylor, and Police Detective N. H. Byrd.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLAS
THE JOYFUL BELIEVER
Charles Templeton, the youthful evangelist who by his simple and straightforward preaching, tells the following amusing story to illustrate the fundamental soundness of joy in religion.
It seems that during World War II, someone in this country wrote a letter to a relative in Great Britain. Wishing to encourage the recipient of the letter to bear up under difficulties, the letter writer, after sealing the envelope wrote across the back, "Be of good cheer." The letter of course had to pass through the hands of censors. Nothing but the address was supposed to appear on the envelope. When the letter was finally received, the exhortation to good cheer had been deleted by the censor's rubber stamp and over the words "Be of good cheer" had been stamped "Contrary to regulations."
Some people's Christianity just won't let them smile. The reason for this of course is that these over-serious people have missed a thing which is absolutely central in the whole gospel message, namely, that the life of a true believer is always characterized by great joy. A long-faced Christian gives rise to a serious contradiction in terms. If he is a Christian he can't be long-faced; if he is long-faced, he can't be a Christian.

A Way To Prevent Price-Wage Headaches

Price stabilization regulations and wage stabilization regulations, now that they are moving into effect generally, are causing a good many people in Pitt County quite a bit of concern.
It is not that the businessmen, large and small, are vehemently opposed to the regulations, but they just have not been able to get a clear understanding of the many complicated provisions stated in the regulations.

Last week in Greenville there were representatives of the OPS here to help the merchants of this area iron out their price regulation difficulties, and a large number of merchants took advantage of the opportunity to get what information they could from the OPS officials. Many merchants got a better, if not a complete, understanding of portions of the regulations which had baffled them since the price stabilization legislation went into effect.

Tomorrow a representative of the Wage Stabilization Board will be at the city hall in Greenville to explain the Wage Stabilization legislation, and to answer questions from individuals about the wage stabilization regulations.

The penalties for violation of both the price stabilization regulations and the wage stabilization regulations can be very severe. If the regulations are being violated by business firms hereabouts, it is probably due to the lack of understanding of the regulations by individual businessmen.

It would be to the advantage of Pitt County businessmen individually and collectively to get first hand information on the price and wage regulations whenever the opportunity presents itself. A few hours spent clarifying questions about the regulations may prevent untold headaches and difficulties with government enforcement agencies later on.

A Great Victory May Turn Into Crushing Defeat

The military defense organization of the North Atlantic Treaty nations which has been ironed out from the diplomatic standpoint now faces its life and death struggle in the legislative bodies of the member nations who would make up the force.

The plans for the European army settled at the Lisbon conference were hailed as a great step in international unity among the Western nations when agreement on the military force was reached a relatively few days ago.

Supporters of the movement realized that the economic aspect of the military force still had to be worked out by the individual countries, but they were prepared for the first crushing blow which came from the French government. The collapse of Faure's government in France as it staked its life on economic measures necessary to support the European army came as a great defeat to free nations close on the heels of their diplomatic victory a few days earlier.

The French are still seeking to form a new government to continue efforts to meet the monetary demands of their portion of the European army.

Meanwhile the second major test for the NATO army will come in the United States where this week the Congress will begin consideration of the United States' portion of economic support for the army. Secretary of State Acheson and President Truman will urge quick approval by Congress of almost eight billion dollars worth of American aid to the European army. A difficult battle already is looming as the question comes up for official action.

The collapse of the French government over the NATO army was a great victory for the Communists. If adequate economic support for the organization fails to come from the United States, it would practically put the kiss of death on the progress which has been made toward the establishment of a European defense force. It would once again throw Europe practically helpless before Russian armies should they choose to march westward.

The NATO nations surmounted what seemed to be the most difficult task by coming to agreement on the formation of their mutual defense army. Now if the army is to become a reality instead of mere plans on paper, the nations must individually give it economic support.

National Whirligig

WASHINGTON—Congressional circles have become increasingly restless and suspicious over the executive secrecy surrounding several international deals that will call for large but unauthorized expenditure of United States funds. All have been negotiated behind the "iron curtain" which separates the White House from Capitol Hill.

This concern exists first because of the money outlay in a re-election year, with unprecedented taxes and budgets for peace time. As March 15 approaches, the voters are howling for economy in crescendo tones and in voluminous mail.

But a secondary and more basic worry is the fact that the White House and State Department have negotiated these transactions in such a complex, indirect and roundabout way that Congress cannot learn the details of all the agreements, or estimate the sums of money that have been committed.

In some instances, it cannot even ascertain the amounts or terms or implications of the contracts.
CONTRIBUTIONS—Not all of these financial transactions have to do with military aid, although these funds will have to be increased vastly under the Lisbon "blueprint" for a European Defense Community.

It has not been revealed officially that our allies expect the United States to finance most of the 3-year, $300,000,000 program for their protection against Russia.

In addition, the Administration has agreed to sell, swap, give and provide arms, raw materials and finished articles of manufacture to participating nations in NATO and Eisenhower's force.

They in turn are supposed to make what are known as "equivalent" contributions of men, labor, land, materials, military supplies. It is a vast industrial and business undertaking, not merely a pooling of armies and weapons.

CONTROL—Now, the making and the implementation of these economic and military deals will be in the exclusive control of the executive agencies. It will be the heads of State, Defense, Commerce and the Mutual Security Administration who will interpret the complex terms of the agreements.

It will be they who will fix the dollar value of American contributions, as well as the counterbalancing and offsetting cost of other nations' so-called "equivalents."

It will be officials beholden to the White House who will figure out such complicated but controlling problems as the rates of exchange. In short, they will have final voice on insuring that the United States gets a full dollar of goods and services for each dollar paid out.

DISSATISFACTION—Obviously, Congress cannot set up an accounting force to check on all these major and minute transactions. It has neither the money nor the personnel. It is questionable whether it has the authority, in view of the many blanket grants of power to the White House.

Yet it is here where Uncle Sam can be short-changed by authorities who have already demonstrated to the dissatisfaction of Capitol Hill their eagerness to bypass the legislative branch in expending American money and treasure overseas.

DEAL—Congressional concern over possible book-keeping tricks and loopholes has been sharpened by a confidential report on the "tin deal" negotiated during the recent Truman-Churchill conversations. Represented at first as a fine bargain for the United States, it now appears to have been a definite British triumph. It is regarded as symptomatic of recent undisclosed bargaining.

When Congressional committees found that the British and Dutch had hiked the pre-Korean price of tin from seventy-five cents to $1.18, Stuart Symington, then R.F.C. Administrator, exploded.

He fixed $1 as a decent price for the British-Dutch tin and $1.12 for Bolivian tin. Next he stopped all purchasing until he forced the price down to $1.10 at Singapore. Even then, he figured that his lower estimates were correct.

Mr. Symington and his tin experts were not consulted by the Anglo-Dutch negotiators at Blair House. The deal was arranged by State, Defense and Mobilization experts. They agreed to buy 22,000 tons from the British at $1.18, which was announced as eminently satisfactory to us in a formal communique.

SCALE—But, as usual, there were several "fine print" clauses to the contract. Now, it develops that the $1.18 figure is only a floor, and that, if we pay more to any other producing country, the British will enjoy that higher price. It is understood that Bolivia is holding out for $1.35 or thereabouts. If she gets that price, so will the British.

On the basis of the contract terms and the 22,000-ton purchase, this will amount to a $15,400,000 subsidy for London. That is not a large sum these days, it is true. But it will mount as our need for tin grows with future rearmament. Moreover, tin is only one of a number of essential products we will probably agree to buy from numerous nations under the same sort of sliding scale.

Applying this kind of "bargaining" to the proposed $300,000,000 outlay could cost us billions of dollars.

LINCOLN'S GOOD ADVICE
From The Karnees County News (Runge, Texas)

"In all that the people can individually do as well for themselves, government ought not to interfere."
So said Abraham Lincoln in 1864—almost a century ago.

The words are prophetically significant in 1952, when our government seems bent on constant interference with our economic life.

In 1854 the government was helping people to help themselves by throwing open new territories for settlement, promoting the China trade, and initiating good relations with Japan. Federal expenditures that year were about $60,000,000, and a little less than $100 million in 1952. If our 1952 government would confine itself to projects which individuals can't handle we would avoid Federal deficits on the heels of multi-billion-dollar budgets. The Great Emancipator believed in economic freedom as well as personal freedom. We'd do well to heed his advice.

QUIET—The meeting of the board of the Consolidated University of North Carolina in the capitol building Friday failed to produce any noise or fireworks. That doesn't mean it was a dull occasion or that there was absence of extremely caustic and candid statements. Indicating recognized importance of the meeting was the fact that wire recordings were made of everything said, so that there could be no later charges of misquoting. One issue which had been expected to occasion a flare-up was nearly side-tracked when State College students withdrew a petition for larger share in supply stores profits, and Controller W. D. Carmichael Jr. proposed a committee to study the operation of stores on the campus at Chapel Hill. Raleigh and Greensboro. Carmichael proposed a committee of five, one alumna from each unit and two who had not attended any of them. The resolution adopted provided for six—two alumna of each unit and one from outside. The principle was the same, and the general idea was that nobody among administrators, students, alumni or general public knows enough about the problem to settle it now. More study is needed.

CLARK—John Clark through several years has spearheaded opposition to the growing tendency to lessen or remove the policy of racial segregation at State institutions. In furtherance of his objective to maintain traditional policy of complete separation of the races, he has been emphatic in statements, sometimes almost vindictive in attitude toward those who did not agree with his methods. It has been apparent for some time that there is much more agreement among trustees for the Clark idea than for the Clark methods. That was demonstrated by the vote Friday on a resolution offered by L. P. McEndon which set out, in effect, that Clark's activities should be regarded as those of an individual citizen of no special concern to the board of trustees as such, and in no way to be regarded as official. On that vote Clark asked a roll call for eyes and noses. Governor Scott as presiding chairman, called instead for a standing vote. The count was 47 for the resolution, 23 against. Several trustees later made it clear, in private conversation, that the vote should not be construed as showing the degree of feeling for or against segregation. On that vote Clark was seeking to commit the whole board on matters which the board had not dealt with.

GRAY—Gordon Gray, president of the Consolidated University, once again demonstrated his stature by the calm but frank manner in which he replied to Clark. Twice when he quoted statements credited to Clark in newspaper stories, and Clark denied having made the statements, Gray apologized. President Gray confessed the student newspapers are a trial and tribulation to college administrators as well as trustees and alumni, but he vigorously opposed the idea of suppressing or controlling them. The solution is leadership, not a dictatorship, he said. Gray said that so far as he knew there had been but one repression of freedom around the university, and he pleaded guilty to having a part in that—which is that no Communist can be a member of the faculty of any university branch.

BITTER—In his presentment Clark several times manifested bitterness. He referred to stories appearing in university publications and other newspapers with Chapel Hill datelines as coming from "Oscar Coffin's hatchet men." (Coffin is head of the school of journalism at Chapel Hill.) He told about "that Paragon of virtue, the News and Observer," printing stories with unwelcome implications about white women and Negro men. He castigated the Associated Press for "spreading propaganda," designed to show that North Carolina is taking the lead in efforts to break down segregation policies. He was vigorous in attack upon practices which permitted students of A&T College, the State's Negro technical school at Greensboro, to use library facilities at Woman's College of the University, and against mingling of races and sexes at so-called religious meetings in church and community centers adjacent to the Woman's College campus.

LOST—John Clark was not waging a lone fight, but he was on the losing side. It was apparent that some of those who voted with him did not like his methods, while some who voted against him did like his ideas. The one certainty is that the issue was not settled at the trustees' meeting this week. It will be up again and again, with changing conditions probably swinging the balance back and forth, and final solution still being sought when grandchildren of the present trustees are running the university.

those newfangled parties, founded in foreign lands and pushed to such proportions of fanaticism, that disloyalty to party becomes synonymous with disloyalty to nation, and is punishable by death.

We are very, very sure that the News and Observer, long a champion of freedom as well as the Democratic Party, would not like to see even the Democratic Party swallow the government of the United States, as the Nazi Party swallowed the government of Germany and as the Communist Party swallowed the government of Russia.

But it would do the editors of the News and Observer good to go off in a quiet corner in calm meditation and just think—think about what happens in countries where party warfare is placed above national welfare.

In the meantime we can say with all due reverence:

Thank God that there are still men in the United States Senate who put their political party second and the United States of America first.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

COUNTRY OR POLITICAL PARTY?
(Fayetteville Observer)

In an editorial attack on United States Senator Willis Smith the Raleigh News and Observer has raked over the ashes of the bitter campaign in which Smith won the Democratic nomination from Dr. Frank Graham.

The News and Observer says many Democrats "felt and still, strongly feel" that Smith secured the nomination only as the result of a campaign in which the character of a great and good North Carolinian (Graham) was assassinated.

As the Fayetteville Observer remembers, character assassination in the Smith-Graham campaign was a bi-lateral, two-way operation, and we feel certain that a search of the files of daily newspapers printed in North Carolina during that campaign will show that the Graham supporters applied the smear brush liberally to Mr. Smith as well as vice versa.

We remember that in the late stages of the campaign the Graham supporters appealed to the people of North Carolina to vote against Smith because he had been drafted to serve in World War I, whereas Graham had volunteered.

All of which is merely by way of illustrating how easy it is for partisan memory to recall only those incidents which serve its immediate purpose.

Immediate purpose of the News and Observer is to intimidate Senator Smith by considering bolting the Democratic Party. In support of this contention the News and Observer quotes Smith as saying that he and some others might find it necessary to "place the welfare of our country above the temporary success of our party."

Is that bolt or betrayal? We think not.

But it is "treason" to the Democratic Party, consider this: What kind of a political party is it which demands that a member give the party a greater loyalty than he gives his country?

Certainly not the Democratic Party of Thomas Jefferson! It sounds more like some of those newfangled parties, founded in foreign lands and pushed to such proportions of fanaticism, that disloyalty to party becomes synonymous with disloyalty to nation, and is punishable by death.

We are very, very sure that the News and Observer, long a champion of freedom as well as the Democratic Party, would not like to see even the Democratic Party swallow the government of the United States, as the Nazi Party swallowed the government of Germany and as the Communist Party swallowed the government of Russia.

But it would do the editors of the News and Observer good to go off in a quiet corner in calm meditation and just think—think about what happens in countries where party warfare is placed above national welfare.

In the meantime we can say with all due reverence:

Thank God that there are still men in the United States Senate who put their political party second and the United States of America first.

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER
No matter what limitations are put on other types of construction, the United States will have to find materials and manpower to build a lot of new schools between now and 1960.

The U. S. Office of Education estimates that the country will need 598,000 new classrooms in the next seven years.

There are two important reasons for this requirement: the high birth rate since the war and the poor conditions of so many classrooms at present.

When the number of births soared to 3,458,000 in 1946, it was regarded as a temporary consequence of war-delayed marriages. But the birth rate continued to stay high and last year, according to unofficial estimates, there were almost 4,000,000 born for another new record.

The 3,458,000 born in 1946 will become six years old this year and ready for the first grade—a million a million more than last year. This crop alone will require 12,500 or more classrooms. Next year's six-year-olds will be almost another half-million higher.

In fact, the Office of Education expects a total of 222,000 of the new classrooms will be needed in the next seven years for the larger school-age population, and 250,000 more will be needed to reduce present over-crowding.

The American school plant is in bad shape because building was curtailed during World War II and because since then many communities have settled for any kind of school building as long as it went up quickly and cheaply. The Office of Education puts at 126,000 the number of classrooms that need to be replaced.

Studies by Dr. Darrell Boyd Harmon, of Stanford University, a leading education consultant, indicate that 52 per cent of 160,000 elementary school pupils in 4,000 classrooms are leaving school with one or more preventable defects in posture, vision, nutrition or behavior—largely as consequence of poor classrooms.

He warned that 95 per cent of the classrooms are hindering rather than helping the child's development. Dr. Harmon's research has been backed by the Minneapolis-Honeywell Regular Co., American Seating Co., F. W. Wakefield Brass, Owens-Illinois Glass Co., and the National Chemical and Manufacturing Co. Their interest is in learning how their products may be better used in school construction as well as to foster better school environments. Dr. Harmon has found, in tests with model classrooms at Stanford and elsewhere, that children learn better when classrooms are well-lighted and when temperature variations are kept within a narrow range.

NATURAL GLYCERIN CHEAPER THAN SYNTHETIC

The old Connecticut nutmeg story has had a parallel in recent days. The price of natural refined glycerin in tanks fell to 39 cents a pound, 14½ cents below ceiling and 3½ cents below synthetic glycerin in tanks.

In the Connecticut story, the organizer of a political meeting decided on badges from which traditional nutmegs were to dangle. He had nutmegs turned out of wood, then found the wooden ones cost three times as much as the harvested kind.

BRAZIL'S CASHWEE CROPS ABOVE AVERAGE

Speaking of nuts, the Amazon basin crop of Brazil is estimated at 24,800 short tons, above the ten-year average but considerably less than the 1949 and 1950 crops. The coming crop of cashews in India, America's principal supplier, has been forecast at 50,400 tons, compared with 56,000 tons in 1950 and 45,000 tons in 1951, but also above the ten-year average.

UAW CONTRACTS TREND TOB-WEEK VACATIONS

There are few real no-strike clauses in 53 United Auto Workers, CIO, contracts, the National Industrial Conference Board says today after examining them. The study shows a definite trend to long-term contracts with escalator and annual wage increases; heavy reliance on union security clauses and check-offs of dues, and a strong tendency toward three-week vacations.

Only eight of the contracts have absolute no-strike clauses; seven provide that arbitration processes will be exhausted before a strike.

WASTEPAPER MARKET FAIRING POORLY

The Eastern wastepaper market, which boomed after Korea, is in the doldrums. One dealer has notified sources that instead of paying for wastepaper, he is charging them to have it hauled away. Six mills in the New York area are on strike, cutting demand. Mixed grades are quoted at $4 to $6 a ton, but many dealers are burning stocks because they have no market.

NEW YORK (AP)—What ever happened to Saturday night?

Saturday used to have a special character of its own all over America. Today it is just getting to be another day in the week.

A generation or so ago almost every town in the country was, as the saying went, "a Saturday night town."

Saturday was the working man's one day of glamour, a time when he could kick up his heels and show he was really born to be king. It was the week's regular Mardi Gras carnival, looked forward to by everybody.

Everyone who lived in the country came in for a night on the town. The farmer unhitched his plow and hitched up his wagon. While his wife tugged the stores, buying the best tingham and ribbons she could afford, he sat with other farmers in the courthouse square and traded crop gossip.

Then the family took in a dance or a show and clip-clopped contentedly home late at night, the kids asleep in the back of the wagon, the grownups wondering if the hired hand would show up by milking time and saying to each other, "It must be awful to live in town all week. I just couldn't stand it."

In the cities Saturday was payday. The jubilee signal was the factory closing whistle that blew at noon or 1 o'clock. The workman paused on the way home to wet his own whistle and get a haircut. His children could hear the happy jingle in his pockets.

The family bathtub got a real workout then, washing away the week's sweat and care, and somebody was always banging on the door and saying, "Hurry up in there, won't you? I'm next."

Mama scrubbed the youngest to save time.

After that there was the week's grocery buying and the candy buying, and dinner out, and a movie. Sister disappeared with her best beau, and his brother sneaked off with his pals and mama fretted. "I'd just like to know what those boys are really up to now."

The next morning everybody woke up happy, tired and so broke you looked the other way when you dropped your contribution into the plate they passed at church. It made such a small tinkle you felt guilty.

Mama then cooked a mammoth Sunday dinner. After that was eaten, everybody was so worn out they had to take a nap, and you could hear snoring all over the house. The next day was Monday, the beginning of the empty-pocket part of the week, but the excitement of looking forward to another Saturday night would carry you through.

That was the way America celebrated its week-ends for a couple of centuries. In hundreds of towns Saturday night is still the night people choose to celebrate, get drunk, get in a fight, or propose to their best girl.

But the five-day week, the radio, and the automobile—are changing the pattern. There are a lot of "Friday night towns" now. And many people who live in the country now can't get to town on Saturday; they have to stay home and entertain visitors from the city, who flee the concrete canyons at every chance.

More and more folks also just hole up at home on week ends, saying, "I wouldn't go up town and fight those crowds for anything."

Whatever happened to Saturday night? Some people just go so they couldn't stand all that fun in one evening. And, of course, there are some who now try to make every night a Saturday night, and when Saturday comes around it no longer feels like anything special.

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON—Will the White House be open to receive Queen Juliana of the Netherlands and her husband, Prince Bernhard on their first state visit to the Capital on April 2. Will the tulips be in bloom?

President Truman couldn't answer the first query, but he said he hoped renovations and redecoration of the executive mansion would be completed by then. If not, the royal couple will be put up at Blair House, probably in the "state suite" as that occupied by young Queen Elizabeth II, and Prince Philip on their recent visit.

White House gardeners are more definite about the tulips. They predict the bulbs, which symbolize Holland's biggest export to the U. S.—a million-dollar-a-year business—will be in bloom on the White House lawn.

It is virtually certain that President and Mrs. Truman will give a dinner for the guests on the day of their arrival and a return dinner will be given by the Queen for the Trumans, probably on the following day.

The official entourage will number about 10 and will include Holland's foreign minister, rosy-cheeked, blue-eyed Dirk U. Stikker and tall, slender Marianna Tellegen, chief of the Queen's cabinet. The Queen's four daughters will remain at home.

Queen Juliana, who spent her war years in Ottawa with her children, made frequent visits to Washington during that time. She is a close friend of Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt. Prince Bernhard recently came to the United States to inspect American naval installations.

Mrs. Julie Lynch, who is serving as a special adviser to the Netherlands Ambassador here on the Queen's visit, met Juliana in Holland in December, 1950.

She is a very warm human being and responds quickly to people. Mrs. Lynch said, "She makes an impression. She is not around 42 years of age, but she is charming, very feminine and has a nice repartee and quick sense of humor."

Murder is Forgetful

BY WILLIAM G. BOGART

Johnny quietly replaced the flashlight and closed the car doors, picking his way silently along the grass bordering the driveway. Through the screened doorways of the library he could hear someone talking.

Moe Martin was waiting for him when he reached the side terrace. "What were you doing out there?"

"Looking for a rifle."

"Find one?"

"No."

I think Irene Smith's awake again. I just heard her chair rocking. You going to talk to her?"

"Yes," Johnny motioned toward the driveway. The only car he had seen was the station wagon. Their own roadster had been put away in the garage. How about this Doctor Clark, Karen's boy friend? Did you meet him?"

Moe nodded.

"Where's his car?"

"He didn't use one. Says he usually walks over from the hospital for the exercise. I think Nick Walker's going to give him a ride home. Why?"

"Nothing," Johnny thought a moment. "Where are they?"

"You mean, Karen and the doc?"

Moe Martin motioned toward the opposite side of the house. "I think they're sitting down by the swimming pool."

Johnny suggested, "Stroll down that way and keep them entertained for a while. I don't want that nurse Karen around while I'm talking to Irene Smith."

Moe Martin looked at the big dog, standing near them and panting a little with the warmth of the night. He took the animal by the heavy leather collar. "Come on, pal," he said. And to Johnny Saxon, "I'm not wandering around this place alone! I've got a funny feeling. It's just like something was going to happen."

Johnny grinned. "Something's going to happen if you're hanging on to that dog and he takes out after a rabbit."

He walked toward the other end of the open terrace. Far off, through the trees, lights blinked across Northport harbor.

Irene's chair was creaking slowly as Johnny approached.

"Hello," he said.

The chair stopped its motion. Light from a nearby window touched the side of the woman's face. It was a beautifully serene face, made more exotic now by the contrasting shadows of night.

"Bart, my darling!" she murmured.

Here we go again, thought Johnny Saxon. He drew up a chair, sat down.

The woman's slim fingers reached out and lightly caressed his face. "It's you. It's really you, Bart?"

"Yes... Marie." He remembered the name just in time.

"When were you here last? It seems so long ago."

Since World War II we have more than doubled our number of telephones but to do this we have had to more than triple our investment. The cost of furnishing your telephone service is increasing. Therefore, it has been necessary for us to ask the North Carolina Utilities Commission for an increase in rates. No business can provide adequate service without adequate earnings. Young Frenchmen are very mature for their ages, Paulette says. One boy at 18 has his doctorate of laws. She points out, however, that school hours are longer — mornings from 8:30 to 12:30, afternoons from 1:30 to 6:30, school on Saturdays instead of Thursday.

French boys never carry cigarettes. These are doled out — one at a time — by their fathers. French girls are dressed poorly; the average cheap dress costs about 15,000 francs (about $40). Stockings are worn on Sundays only, and shoes are a poor equivalent of our loafers. No decent young girl, she says, would ever wear anything but flat shoes — girls who wear high heels and earrings are considered "bad."

Rugby is a popular sport. Musicians are free on Sundays, but when they are jammed, she says. Concerts attract young people more than any other form of entertainment. If one is a member of Jeunesse Musicale de France, open to young people who play a musical instrument, and supported by patrons, they can attend concerts free. Paulette joined the organization and loved the whole idea. Says she:

"One of my plans now is to tour America and Canada describing the French students' way of life. I want to tell them also how music is made attractive to the French — before concerts the life of the composer is discussed in a very interesting fashion, not a cut and dried performance."

Paulette hopes to be a journalist some day, and her experience so far has been writing monthly articles for her father's French magazine Le Phare, published in Canada. When she was seventeen she was awarded the medal of L'Ordre academique d'honneur et merite by the Societe du bon parler francais of Montreal. She was the first American so honored, and as a result was rewarded by her father with a trip across America. It was then that she got the inspiration for her trip abroad.

Training Course Slated For N.C. Milk Testers

Pitt County Farm Agent Sam Winchester announced this morning that a serious shortage of milk testers in North Carolina has resulted in the scheduling of a special training course to be held in Raleigh this month.

Winchester reported that a Dairy Herd Improvement Association testers training course lasting two weeks will be held March 10 through March 22 on the campus of N. C. State College. "County agents have been authorized to send anyone desiring to take the course," he said.

"This training course is designed primarily to instruct men in the keeping of DHIA records and teach them to perform the Babcock milk test, so that they may qualify for DHIA testing positions throughout the state," the farm agent stated.

According to Winchester, there are not only several vacancies to fill, but many more testers are needed to meet the demand of dairymen who want to start keeping production records on their herds. "In addition, several counties are anxious to set up a DHIA unit in areas heretofore not served," he asserted.

Now Is The Time To Treat Your Tobacco Fields With D-D!

D-D, the time-proven soil fumigant, is now available to you through local dealers and custom applicators. Use D-D at the rate of twenty (20) gallons per acre for solid treatment or ten (10) gallons per acre for row treatment. D-D comes ready to use in sealed drums with a guaranteed analysis. The drum that comes with D-D is yours and you will find many farm uses for it.

IMPORTANT CAUTION: The W-85 concentration of ethylene di-bromide has never been used in North Carolina nor has it been tried by N. C. State College authorities. In theory these concentrates may work; however, using only 4.5 gallons of material per acre as opposed to twenty (20) gallons of D-D—we ask you: Can there be as much gas (gas is the killer in a fumigant) as when you use twenty (20) gallons. We also question the possibility of spreading 4.5 gallons of material over an acre.

And the important question we ask is: Why spend money on a fumigant that has never been used in North Carolina nor recommended by any State College in any state where tobacco is grown? Why should you be a guinea pig and experiment with so expensive a farm operation as soil fumigation?

Why Gamble? Use The Approved Soil Fumigant D-D And Get The Results You Need.

Phantoms Win Third Place; Pam-Pack Beats Kinston

Briley Leads In Consolation Win For Greenville

By JIMMY ELLIS
Reflector Sports Writer

For the third time this season the New Bern Bears found the Greenville Phantoms too much competition on a basketball court and fell before the Phantoms 49-42 Saturday night in the consolation round of the Northeastern Conference tournament held in East Carolina's Wright Gym.

Only center James Diffee was able to come any where near staying up with Coach Bo Farley's Phantoms. Diffee tried hard and wound up with high scoring honors for the game but he soon found that he couldn't handle the entire Greenville club by himself.

For the third game of the tournament, the Phantoms found themselves looking to forward Sid Briley for leadership. The All-Tournament selection paced the Phantoms scoring with 15 points before fouling out and counteracted—in favor of the Phantoms—all that Diffee, another All-Tournament choice, did for the Phantoms. Briley's story, as was the story of the performance by the entire Greenville club, was one of hustle, hustle, and hustle.

The Phantoms jumped into a quick lead in the first quarter and then coasted to victory over their smaller and more inexperienced opponents. The Greenville club had a 21-18 lead at the half but that was not a true measure of their superiority over the unseeded Bears. The Bears rallied briefly in the third quarter but Briley, Sonny Scott, and Smith Worthington quickly peached Greenville back into a comfortable lead.

Diffee and Briley were followed in the scoring by Greenville's Worthington, one of the top scorers in the conference during the past season. The lanky forward worked the New Bern club for 11 points during the game while Scott, the fire-ball guard, scored nine before he left the game on personal fouls. Forward Jim Willis scored eight points to follow Diffee in the New Bern scoring column.

The third seeded Phantoms will now go to District AA elimination play at Wake Forest this weekend along with the champion Washington Pam-Pack to represent the Northeastern Conference. Their opponents in the district elimination series will be teams from Chapel Hill and Henderson High.

BOBBY SMITH of the Washington Pam-Pack outran Kinston's Jerry Williams for these two points in the same manner that Washington outran Kinston for the Northeastern Conference Saturday night at Wright gymnasium. Smith didn't do much scoring Saturday but his ball handling was unusually effective as he and his team mates scored a mild upset in beating Kinston.

WASHINGTON'S Bobby Hackler (2) and Bobby Smith (10) very effectively screen Kinston's Bryant Aldridge (25) from this loose ball in Saturday's championship game at Wright gym. Hackler and Smith were two of the main cogs in leading Washington to their victory in the game.

Cherry, Hackler Pace Pam-Pack In Upset Victory

After spotting the Kinston Red Devils a small lead in the first quarter, the Washington High School Pam-Pack Saturday night roared back against the Red Devils in full force to take the Northeastern Conference basketball championship 64-53 from the defending champions.

With Dickie Cherry and Bobby Hackler forgetting how to miss a shot from the floor, the Pam-Pack found their job almost an easy one after their righ moments in the first quarter. Cherry broke the back of the Kinston attack with his 23 points—mostly on set shots from well out on the side—while Hackler, a superb ball handler, came through with 17 tallies to grind up into little pieces what Cherry had broken up. Kinston's top-seeded club was in the ball game for only ten minutes before they fell behind the Pam-Pack. Charlie Wickham, surely one of the top performers in the conference and an All-Tournament selection along with both Hackler and Cherry, tried gamely to keep Kinston in the game but even he found the pace too terrific.

Neither club found the going easy in the first quarter. The lead saw-sawed back and forth with Kinston grabbing a slim 14-13 lead shortly before the quarter ended.

As the second quarter opened, Wickham put Kinston ahead 16-11 with a set shot from well out beyond the circle but Bobby Smith countered with a jump shot for Washington. With seven minutes and 13 seconds remaining in the quarter, Cherry drove in for a lay-up shot and school was out for Kinston. They never again took the lead or seriously threatened Washington. Cherry added a free throw to the two points he got on the lay-up shot and then proceeded to lead the Pam-Pack in taking Coach Amor Sexton's club apart.

As a result of their victory, Washington will go to district AA elimination play this weekend at Wake Forest along with the Greenville Phantoms. Chapel Hill and Henderson will represent the District III, AA Conference in the tournament.

Following Cherry (23 points), Wickham (21 points), and Hackler (17 points) in the scoring were Washington's Bobby Smith and Kinston's Bill Gillikin. Smith dropped in 12 points for Coach Bill Sweet's Washington team while Gillikin scored eight for the top-seeded Red Devils.

Louisburg Five Eliminates Ayden From District Play

By MELVIN LANG
Reflector Sports Writer

LOUISBURG—Ayden fell out of the running for the state championship here Saturday night as Louisburg's Bulldogs threw up a tight zone defense that kept on the outside for the entire game. The Bulldogs finally won the game after a close call in the final period, 44-38.

The score was close for the first 11 minutes of the game as Ayden fought on just about even terms, but the Tornados went into a scoring drought late in the second period. With the score tied at 15-all and 5:20 minutes left in the first half, Louisburg went on a scoring rampage that saw them pour in 12 points before the half was ended, while Ayden was held scoreless.

Mac Whitehurst, who led the Tornados in the first half by scoring 12 of 19 points made by the team, finally broke the scoring ice for the losers with a set shot from the side with 45 seconds left in the period, but by that time, the score stood at 27-17. A running push by Hal Edwards narrowed the margin to eight points, 27-19, just before the gun sounded for the intermission.

Accuracy marks for the first half tell the story up to that point. Louisburg connected on 11 of 25 attempts from the floor for a neat average of 44%, while the Tornados, who were forced to shoot from outside the foul circle because of the defensive tactics of Louisburg's Dow Perry and Phillip Moore, took 30 shots, making eight of them for a rather bad percentage of 26.6.

It was all Louisburg in the third period, although the Bulldogs increased their margin by only two points, 38-28, during the eight minutes.

Randall Harrington who suffered a scoring relapse after a brilliant performance here on Friday night, scored five of nine points made by Ayden in the period. Harrington, who was held scoreless in the entire first half, dropped a free throw 45 seconds after the opening of the third period to cut the score to 27-20. A. J. Rose and Moore then came right back for the local boys to run the margin to 11 points, 31-20, with two long sets.

Ayden made a game out of it in the final period as they pulled to within six points and looked as if they had a chance to win for a while.

Harrington started the rally with a push from the left of the basket a few seconds after the opening of the period to cut the score to 38-30. Whitehurst followed with another push from the right of the basket, bringing the score to 38-32, but the Tornados were then forebly cooled off by the departure of Harrington from the game because of an excessive number of personal fouls, and Louisburg took over once again.

A free throw by Moore and a set shot by C. W. Strother, who was high man for Coach Carl Mills' Bulldogs with 14 points, ran the score to 41-32 for Louisburg. Curtis Dennis scored for Ayden to cut the margin back to seven, but Louisburg had the game as starting guards Delano Cox and Hal Edwards left the game in the last minute and a half. Cox by the free throw route, and Edwards by a slight injury.

Whitehurst led the Ayden scoring with 16 points, followed by Harrington and Dennis with seven apiece. Cox also scored six points, besides turning in a good defensive game, along with Hal Edwards.

Jim Rose joined Strother in the Louisburg scoring circle with 12 points, followed by Mallie Stallings with nine points. Little Phillip Moore, a guard, scored six points besides an excellent floor game.

The Louisburg team will now represent this district in the regional playoffs in Louisburg during the latter part of this week.

Score by periods:
Ayden 9 10 9 10—38
Louisburg 12 15 11 6—44

Coastal Play Is Postponed Again

Schedule conflicts have brought about another postponement of the final round of action in the Coastal Conference tournament. The games, between Ayden and Vanceboro girls and boys, have been tentatively scheduled for March 17 but will be played before then if a suitable date can be found.

The games were originally scheduled for last week but were postponed so that Ayden might take part in Class A district elimination tournaments at Lenoir. The Tornados got into the finals of that tournament, causing further postponement of the Coastal finals.

Vanceboro will be entered in the Craven County Tournament this week and will be unable to play anytime during the next seven days unless they are eliminated from that tourney.

PCL Bans Major League Contests

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Tired of seeing American and National League clubs skim off the cream of the profits, directors of the Pacific Coast League have agreed to bar the major clubs from playing each other in PCL parks, effective next year.

The action, taken yesterday, will not prevent the Chicago White Sox from playing at St. Louis Browns' for instance, at their training quarters in Pasadena and Burbank, respectively, but the major leaguers will be shooed out of Los Angeles' Wrigley Field and Gilmore Field, home of the Hollywood Stars.

The New York Yankees cleaned up here last spring in the exhibition tour and this no doubt had much to do with the PCL directors' decision.

The directors also okayed the purchase of 16 per cent of Hollywood stock by Branch Rickey and the Pittsburgh Pirates, but took steps to see that something like that doesn't happen again. In the future, any such stock transfer must be approved in advance by six of the eight clubs in the circuit.

GREAT RECORD
DURHAM — Duke University's Southern Conference tournament record is probably the best in the loop. In the 23 years they have been in the event, they have been champions five times and finalists 10 other times. They have failed to DICK CHERRY received the honor of cutting down the nets Saturday night after he and his Washington teammates had just finished cutting down the Kinston Red Devils for the championship of the Northeastern Conference. A portion of the crowd which jammed Wright gymnasium for the final round of action is shown swarming around Cherry.

Sellari Uncontested For Most Valuable Player Award

GREENSBORO (AP)—Tony Sellari, the dashing senior forward of Lenoir Rhyne's Bears, was an uncontested choice for the "most valuable player" honors in the North State Conference's basketball tournament which was completed at Statesville Saturday night.

The senior star from New Kensington, Pa. led his Bears to a surprising march through the tourney to Saturday night's 74-56 championship victory over High Point College, the defending titleholder.

Sellari was an unanimous choice of sports writers and radio men who covered the tournament for the honor. Not another player was mentioned in the balloting.

The smooth-working forward set two tournament records in his three-game performance. He tallied 81 points an average of 27 per game for a tourney total record, and he set a single game record of 36 points against East Carolina in the opening round.

Sellari more or less duplicated his performance as a freshman when in 1949 he led Lenoir Rhyne to its only previous tournament championship. The Bears, who finished in a fifth-place tie with Guilford this year, were sixth in the conference standings that year.

Sellari, along with Ed Suetta, High Point's center, also was an unanimous choice for the all-tournament team—Jesse Joyce of High Point, Bob Shoaf of Guilford and Don Hatticox of Elon gained other first-team berths.

Ronald Rogers of Western Carolina, Bobby Davidson of High Point, Paul Loppersberger and Jim Newsome of Lenoir Rhyne and Ben Kendall of Elon gained second team positions.

LONG SERVICE ENDED
BARRE, Mass. — (UP) — Edgar H. Glidden, tax collector, and his wife, Grace, a town assessor, have retired after serving a total of 54 years in Barre's tax department.

Football will return to the local scene tomorrow night at 7:30 when the East Carolina Pirates close their winter practice drills with a full length game in the College Stadium.

Coach Bill Dole said yesterday the game would be a regulation affair between White and Gold teams. All boys who have taken part in the off-season drills will participate in the game and have been placed on one of the two squads.

Admission to the game will be charged. Adults can get in for $1.00 while children will be charged 50 cents.

"This has been the best winter practice we have had since I came to East Carolina," Coach Dole said yesterday in commenting on the drills. "We have worked only on the good days and the boys have shown plenty of spirit and hustle," Dole added.

In addition to the "T" formation which Pirate fans have been seeing for the last three years, the Bucs will unveil a new offense tomorrow night. They've been working on variations of the "box" formation and the system is expected to get a thorough going over in tomorrow's game.

One interesting feature of the game—unlike past games of this sort—is that all the players on both teams will be eligible for competition next fall. There are no seniors on either team and the starting teams of next fall will come from the boys who take part in tomorrow night's Gold-White game.

Several members of the 1951 position will be trying new positions tomorrow night. Johnny Daughtry, a fullback on the 1951 squad, has been put on end, the position he played while in high school. Gaither Cline, a fullback on offense and line backer on defense, has been shifted to center on the White offensive club and will be at that spot tomorrow night. Some other changes have been made but, these two are the main ones.

Dole will direct both the teams although the two squads will be separate and distinct. Each player will perform with only one team and no inter-changing of players between the squads will be made.

Tickets for the game can be obtained at the Athletic Office before the contest and at the gate Tuesday night.

All-Tournament

The champion Washington High School Pam-Pack placed two men on the All-Tournament team selected Saturday night following the final game in the Northeastern Conference tournament.

Forward Dickie Cherry, an All-Conference performer, and guard Bobby Hackler led the voting for the representative squad. Kinston's Charlie Wickham, Greenville's Sidney Briley, and New Bern's Jimmy Diffee filled the other three spots.

Cherry led the scoring for the tournament by tossing in 57 points in three games for an average of 19 points per contest. His highest total for a single game was the 23 point performance turned in against Kinston in the tournament finals.

Hackler took runner-up honors with 47 points in three games, an average of 15.7 points per contest. His best night was against New Bern in the semi-finals when he scored 19 points.

Wickham played in only two games since Kinston drew a first round bye but he still managed to score 34 points, an average of 17 per contest. His best night was in the final round against Washington when he scored 21 points.

ON LOOP TEAM
CHAPEL HILL — Chalmers Port, University of North Carolina pitcher, was selected on the 1951 All-Conference baseball team.

Pitt Tournament

The annual Pitt County tournament will get underway tonight at 6:30 in Wright Gymnasium at East Carolina and action will continue throughout the week. The finals in both girls and boys divisions will be played Saturday night.

There will be four games tonight, two girls games and two boys games.

Rickey Took Over But Meyer Stays

AP Newsfeatures
PITTSBURGH — When Branch Rickey joined the Pittsburgh Pirates as executive vice-president and general manager a little more than a year ago the grapevine had Manager Bill Meyer on his way out. After the two sat down and had a little talk both saw eye to eye and they now are very fond of each other.

Meyer now happens to be the manager who has had his job the longest. This is Bill's fifth year as Buccaneer pilot. Pitching is Meyer's biggest worry. After 20-game winner Murry Dickson, Meyer can't put his finger on another pitcher who has won in double figures.

Stocks And Market Reports

NEW YORK (UP)—Prices moved irregularly on the stock exchange early today in quiet dealings.

Television shares, however, were exceptions and they had gains ranging to more than a point. A few specialties also displayed a considerable amount of strength.

Sales in the first hour dealings totaled only 220,000 shares, the same as in the first hour last Friday.

Motorola was the leader in the TV group with a gain of 1 1/2 points to 65. Zenith ran up 1 3/8 points to 74 5/8. Admiral firmed.

Texas Gulf Sulphur was the bellwether in the specialties. It jumped 2 points to 107 1/2. American Cyanamid improved a point to 114 3/4.

A few oil shares met profit-taking. Amerada Petroleum, which spurred sharply last week, fell 3 points to 194 1/2. Skelly Oil was down 1 3/4 points to 85.

Elsewhere, steel shares registered small declines. Automotives held around their previous close. Utilities were virtually unchanged in dull dealings.

CHICAGO (UP)—Grain markets were lower with easy to weak undertones at the mid-point of the session at the Board of Trade.

The decline reflected moisture received in the southwestern wheat states and continued liberal receipts of corn on the cash market. It was said that some selling was prompted by the 30-day weather outlook which indicates heavy moisture for all winter wheat states.

Soybean futures showed little price change in early dealings but the market weakened at mid-morning as some commission houses had orders to sell. Prices were mostly 1-2 to 1 1/4 cent a bushel lower.

Each will be in charge of setting up a fund drive committee in their community.

State Industrial Arts Session Set For College

The North Carolina Industrial Arts Association, scheduled to hold its annual meeting at East Carolina College April 5, will have as a special attraction on the program a project contest for students in schools of the state. The competitive event is the first to be arranged for industrial arts students in North Carolina.

Members of the association include approximately 125 public school teachers of industrial arts and men in vocational education work. William Racker of Winston-Salem is president, and Paul E. Powell of East Carolina is vice-president.

As hosts for this year's meeting, Mr. Powell and Dr. Kenneth L. Bing, director of the department of industrial arts at East Carolina, have been active in planning the program for the event. The project contest will be open to industrial arts pupils in North Carolina schools. Entries, based on 27 different types of work, will be on display at East Carolina during the convention.

Dr. Bing states that plans are being made also to exhibit the student projects at High School Day at East Carolina, Friday, April 4, which is expected to bring to the college approximately 3,000 seniors in North Carolina schools.

Each student who submits a project for display at the Industrial Arts convention will receive a certificate. The two best projects in each type of work will be recognized with special certificates of merit. Prizes will be offered for class projects. A grand prize will be awarded for the best exhibit submitted.

Those projects judged as superior will be entered in the national contest in which students compete for the Ford Award, offered each year in Dearborn, Mich., in an exhibition and contest sponsored by the Ford Motor Co.

Also on the program at the convention at East Carolina will be a luncheon for members and guests. A business meeting will be held during the day.

Patrol Prisoner . . .

All together four shots were fired by the Negro man, one hitting Cratch, a second going into the hood of the car through the seat, a third tearing out part of the dashboard and the fourth hitting the floor board on the right side of the car.

Breaking away from the officer after striking him across the head, Smallwood raced across a field seeking the haven of a nearby barn.

Medlin stated that a passing motorist stopped and offered the officer his gun, and Medlin fired several times, but the range was too great for the pistol.

Hurrying to his car, the officer took a deer rifle from his casing and fired at the fleeing man who was just entering the door of the barn. According to Medlin, the first shot missed its mark but the second tore into the man's back, felling him in his tracks. He was hit at a distance of 167 feet.

He was taken to a Washington hospital where he died of internal injuries early Sunday morning.

As it later developed, the clothes were stolen from the home of Ray Faulkner, who lives in the Batts Crossroads community about ten miles from Washington.

A shotgun was also found near the point where officers first arrested the man. A check revealed that it was taken also.

Medlin was high in the praise of the part played by Cratch, and said, "Too much credit can not be given to Mr. Cratch for his part in the affair."

Rest Cure Given No Opportunity

SAN GABRIEL, Calif. — (AP) — Doctors told Lloyd (Swede) Larson, 54, to take life easier about three years ago, but he's not sure they would appreciate the way he is doing it.

Swede and Hugh Hutchins, 59, are leaving on a motorcycle tour of the untraversed country between Guatemala, Mex., and Panama. Last year, he and Hutchins saw Mexico from the seats of their English motorcycles. They enjoyed it so much they decided to take the longer journey to Panama.

Radio Signal Accurately 'Bounced' Off The Moon

By JOSEPH L. MYLER United Press Staff Correspondent WASHINGTON (UP)

WASHINGTON (UP)—One night three months ago scientists at Sterling, Va., trained a huge radio receiver on the moon.

Flashing through nearly 240,000 miles of empty space from the moon's pocked and lifeless surface came these words in Morse code: "What hath God wrought!"

The historic message was not from the man in the moon. Nor was it from the ghost of Samuel F. B. Morse who tapped out the same four words on May 24, 1844, in sending the world's first telegraphic communication.

The moon message had originated at Cedar Rapids, Ia., 775 miles as the crow flies from Sterling. But it had not traveled the way crows do.

Pulses of energy from the Collins Radio Co.'s transmitter at Cedar Rapids had sped to the National Bureau of Standards field station receiver in Virginia by way of the moon.

Annihilating space at 186,300 miles a second, these very high frequency radio signals completed their roundabout trip of nearly 480,000 miles in just 2 1/2 seconds.

Like Morse's communication almost 108 years before, transmitted over some 40 miles of wire between Washington and Baltimore, the moon message of last Nov. 8 was a historic "first."

Radio signals had been bounced off the moon before. The Army Signal Corps did it Jan. 10, 1946. But the Cedar Rapids - moon-sterling communication was the first intelligible radio message ever transmitted by "lunar reflection."

All previous radio signals bounced from the moon came back "scrambled." This difficulty has now been ironed out.

The experiment climaxed a research project — described officially as "extremely hush-hush" — for the military. Word of the project leaked out some time ago, but the NBS has just issued the first official release about it.

The military and peacetime possibilities opened up as a result include:

1. Accurate radio control of satellite space ships circling hundreds or thousands of miles above the earth. The Nov. 8 test proves again that radio beams can pierce that electrified "ionosphere" 60 to 220 miles up in the earth's atmosphere.

2. Unjammable radio guidance, when the moon is right, of long-range remotely controlled missiles of war. Since these "moon beams" do not depend on the ionosphere for reflection, as standard radio does, they are not affected by electronic storms or other disturbances in the atmosphere.

Amvet Meet Set Tuesday Night

The Jones-Banks Post of the Pitt County Negro Amvets will meet Tuesday night at 7:30 in Fleming Street School.

Robert Lee Cherry, post public relations officer, reported this morning that all members who have paid their dues in full will receive their membership cards at Tuesday's meeting.

Cherry urged all members and veterans who might like to join to attend the meeting tomorrow night.

Colored News

Because of illness the Dollar Club of Phillip Christian Church will meet with Sister Laura Edwards instead of with Sister Mary Daniels as scheduled.

Card of Thanks
I wish to thank the many friends for the lovely cards, beautiful flowers and for the kindness shown during my recent illness.
Annie Pugh

IT'S TRUE AND REAL
See for yourself what is happening behind the Iron Curtain!

Since the dawn of civilization men have resisted regimentation and tyranny... They have done this because the desire for freedom is inborn... The tyrant, therefore in measure and must rule with a steel fist... Resistance becomes a quiet force operating underground... The people hide their time and fight for freedom... The burning desire for freedom throughout the world will continue to melt steel fists wherever they appear.
