Circus Clowns File Damage Complaint Over Failure To Receive A Telegram

A damage complaint, termed by officials "probably the most unique ever recorded in Pitt County," was filed with the clerk of Superior Court here last week.

The amount of money requested is small — $2,950 — but the personalities involved and the details leading up to the filing of the complaint read like a page torn from the fabulous P. T. Barnum's autobiography.

Two noted circus clowns, Charles Bird Jr. and Isaac W. Bird — billed in circus days as La Bird Brothers — filed a complaint against the Western Union Telegraph Company for failing to deliver a telegram to them September 22, 1951, which they contended caused them to be disenfranchised of employment for the Fall and Spring circus season.

The complaint alleges that La Bird Brothers have been engaged for many years in the occupation of performing as circus clowns and jesters, having worked with their father before them as child performers. La Bird Brothers contend that through an inheritance and long personal history in circus life, they had established a reputation for integrity, ability and faithfulness for performing their contracts in that profession.

During a long and interesting professional career as professional clown and troubadours of the tan bark, the plaintiffs contend, they have been intimately associated with such greats of the past as Harry Carey, Clyde Beatty and his wild animal circus, the mighty James M. Cole circus, Hoot Gibbons, the original Lone Ranger, Lee Powell, and as children, with the great P. T. Barnum, father of the modern-day circus.

La Bird Brothers contend that during their latest years of professional performances and appearances under the bit top, they had become acquainted with and had worked for the great James M. Cole circus, Big Museum and Hippodrome, known as "America's most distinguished show." Out of this employment, they claim, grew a friendship with James M. Cole himself, as well as a strong and cordial business relationship.

So well did Cole know La Bird Brothers, they allege, that he made them a standing offer to the effect that at any time at the beginning of a season of circus work they wished to become a part of his show, they had only to notify him before the season started. La Bird Brothers claim that Cole further guaranteed to send them transportation money once they informed him they were interested in joining his circus.

They further contend that Friday, September 21, 1951, they presented themselves at the Western Union Telegraph Company in Enfield, N. C., and sent a message to James M. Cole expressing a desire to join his circus, preparing the charges for the delivery of the message to James M. Cole. The message was sent by day letter, and the agent-in-charge, Robert Edward Turner, guaranteed that the day letter would be delivered to Cole in Penn Yan, N. Y., the following morning, September 22.

La Bird Brothers claim that the Western Union Telegraph Company assured them they would receive a reply in Enfield some time during the morning of Saturday, September 22. On the morning of September 22, James M. Cole received the message in Penn Yan, N. Y., and immediately replied by Western Union telegram advising La Bird Brothers of his pleasure at their return to his circus and along with the message he sent $3.00 expense money to enable them to report to the circus in Penn Yan, N. Y.

Around midday Saturday, September 22, the two performers contended, they returned to the Western Union Telegraph Company office in Enfield, N. C., as they had been instructed to do, and found it locked. After peering in all the door, they finally saw an elderly white gentleman, N. M. McCutchin inside, who told them the office was closed.

The complaint reads that McCutchin told them they might inquire in Henderson, Rocky Mount or Raleigh for their money; that he knew nothing about their money and had received no message about which they were inquiring. La Bird Brothers, acting upon his advice, then traveled to Rocky Mount and inquired about their money and message there.

There, they claim, they were curtly dismissed by the Western Union agent with the statement that she knew nothing about their money order and did not have time to fool with them. They then contacted both the Henderson and Raleigh offices of the Western Union Company and were told in each case that the agents had no knowledge of any money or message belonging to them.

BACK BEFORE CAMERAS — After three-year absence from Hollywood, Rita Hayworth marks her return to screen with this dance for Trinidad night club scene in her latest film.

Union agent with the statement that she knew nothing about their money order and did not have time to fool with them. They then contacted both the Henderson and Raleigh offices of the Western Union Company and were told in each case that the agents had no knowledge of any money or message belonging to them.

After numerous and repeated attempts on the part of the plaintiffs to obtain delivery of the telegram and money order which they knew or had reason to believe had been dispatched by James M. Cole in acceptance of their offer of employment with his circus, they were unable to obtain delivery of said telegram and claim that the message and money order have never been delivered to them.

They later received a letter from James M. Cole advising them that the telegram and money order had been returned to him after not being delivered to the plaintiffs and expressed surprise and regret that they had failed to live up to their part of the agreement to accept employment and report for duty as they had promised in their message to him, much to their embarrassment and great damage to their professional pride and reputation.

La Bird Brothers further claim that as a natural and proximate result of the negligence and carelessness on the part of the Western Union Telegraph Company and its agents in failing to deliver the message and money order, they were deprived of a valuable contract for a period of approximately six months and were thereby deprived of a salary of $110 per week. They allege they believed and in fact had been informed by James M. Cole that they could have had permanent employment with him for the rest of their lives.

They further allege that as a result of the gross negligence on the part of the defendants in failing to deliver the telegram and pay the money forwarded therewith, they were injured and damaged as a result of the breach of duty.

In the complaint, La Bird Brothers pray that they recover $2,500 for loss of wages, and $450 for mental anguish, pain, suffering and damage to their professional reputation and standing in the circus world.

The defendants, the Western Union Telegraph Company, have thirty days in which to file an answer to the complaint.

Dr. R. E. Earp Is Named Campaign Chief By Olive

RALEIGH — (AP) — Dr. Raymond E. Earp, a retired surgeon of Selma, has been named campaign manager for gubernatorial candidate Hubert E. Olive of Lexington.

Dr. Earp was appointed to the post yesterday by Olive. He immediately announced he will open campaign headquarters here tomorrow in the Sir Walter Hotel. At the same time he announced he will resign his job as fourth division member of the State Highway Commission.

Olive said he was "gratified to have a man of Dr. Earp's character, ability and wide contacts." Another leading gubernatorial candidate, William B. Umstead of Durham, opened his headquarters here several days ago. His campaign manager is Carlisle Higgins, a Winston-Salem attorney.

Dr. Earp, 57, lives on a farm near Selma where he was born. He attended Selma High School and Wake Forest College. He received his medical degree from the University of Pennsylvania and later did post-graduate work in surgery in Europe. He practiced surgery for eight years in Pittsburgh, Pa., and then returned to Johnston County. Now retired from medical practice, he devotes his time to running farms in Johnston, Wake and Brunswick Counties. He is a former member of the State Board of Agriculture.

In accepting the post of campaign manager, Dr. Earp said he felt Olive "has every qualification needed to handle the duties of governor in a manner that will reflect credit on our state."

Seeking Cotton Loans From Bank

WASHINGTON — (AP) — French and Spanish bankers are seeking cotton loans from the Export-Import Bank, says Sen. Maybank (D-SC).

Maybank said yesterday that French bankers have arrived here and are negotiating for a "substantial loan." He added that a good-sized loan is pending before the bank.

The South Carolina senator told a reporter he plans to call the Senate's attention to the "good job being done by the Export-Import Bank." He said the bank paid the government a 20 million dollar profit last year in addition to interest.

Maybank reported that loans totaling $264,790,299 were made to eight countries between 1936 and 1948 and have been repaid in full. He identified the countries as Czechoslovakia, Italy, Poland, Spain, Finland, Germany, China and Japan.

ABC Vote Held In Hyde County

SWANQUARTER, N. C. — (AP) — Hyde County voters went to the polls today to decide the question of establishing ABC stores in their dry county.

The county has been dry since 1935 when the ABC law was passed. All earlier efforts to establish liquor stores have failed.

Recent sentiment favoring ABC stores justified the calling of a referendum, according to the county board of commissioners.

The cry forces' campaign against establishment of the stores has been led by the Rev. Oscar Edmondson, Baptist minister.

Greenville Veteran Relates His Impression Of Fighting In Korea

By WYATT BROWN
Cpl. Phillips L. Goodson told the Greenville Rotarians last night his impressions of the War in Korea.

Cpl. Goodson, the son of Mr. and Mrs. P. L. Goodson, returned to Greenville yesterday after his twelve-month tour of duty on the battlefield in Korea. He is back in the states on rotation.

The utter lack of sanitation in the Korean way of life impressed the Greenville veteran. He went into Korean houses — more mud shacks than homes — which he found quite unsanitary. The oxen, dogs and cats slept in the house with the people. The food he observed was a "messy goulash" sort of thing and the inevitable rice.

Cpl. Goodson told of landing at Pusan and then being moved up to Seoul on a train of cattle cars. From north of Seoul the trip was made to the front on trucks. The soldiers were handed carbines at Pusan and told to expect snipers. In a school house near Seoul the newly arrived soldiers were assigned to units—Cpl. Goodson to artillery.

The third day he was at the front, the order to "bug out" was given (he explained that that meant retreat). The retreat order was given because the sector was almost completely surrounded by the Chinese and North Koreans. He found himself in a foxhole praying but saw boys being hurt all around as the bullets flew from the enemy.

The artillery man stated enthusiastically that he took his hat off to the infantrymen. This retreat kept up until the forces fell back all the way to Seoul.

The work went on seven days a week. He explained that leisure time was allowed. Bathing was accomplished in the rivers. In commenting on the enemy soldiers he said he found them quite ignorant and stupid. When attacking they seemed to approach with no feeling whatever.

He was enthusiastic about the Rest and Recuperation program. After being there six months each soldier is flown to Japan for five days, free to go where he pleased but housed in a luxurious hotel.

The cold was present when he left. Boys suffer frost bite. Another statement he made was about the use of the whole blood given by the civilians back here. A lot of it was used, he said. In conclusion he said he thanked God he was permitted to live.

Mr. J. H. Rose announced that the Hollywood - produced movie "The Dupont Story" showing the use of the new Dupont products was being shown in Greenville twice on March 12. In the afternoon it will be shown for the school children. At seven-thirty March 12 in Austin Auditorium at East Carolina College, it will be shown for the college community and adults from the city.

Next Monday night the local Rotary Club will be host for an Inter-City Rotary meet. The meeting will be held in the gymnasium of the West Greenville School. President Charles White, president of the Greenville Rotary Club, said he had had word from the other clubs on expected attendance showing it was going to be a good meeting. The meeting will convene at six-thirty P. M.

Dr. Paul Jones of Farmville and John Fleming of Rocky Mount were visiting Rotarians last night. Cpl. Phil Goodson, Jr., was a guest of the club. Attention was called to the date of Ladies Night for Rotary Annes — March 31 st.

Dr. Howard McGinnis told of how the Japanese student being financed through the University of North Carolina by the 179th District of Rotary International recently asked for a Bible. One was presented. Now, Dr. McGinnis said, Masami is planning to join a Christian Church. Masami's father-in-law and uncle are Buddhist priests. Dr. McGinnis explained to show why, the turning to Christianity came as such "cheering news" to his sponsors.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLAS
BLAME IT ON YOURSELF
Why do so many people busy themselves with others and trying to destroy the happiness of others? Psychology has an answer to this and it seems indeed to be a sound one. Most hateful people hate themselves. They project this hate to others and try to blame others for what they themselves are responsible for, exclusively. The whole complex of hate is the result of their own frustration and inner sense of inadequacy.

That we live in a wicked world there can be no doubt. Everybody with whom we come in contact has his weaknesses or hers, and sometimes these are hard to take. True peace of heart begins when one realizes that the greatest sinner he will ever have to deal with is himself and that the evil he sees in the world has its counterpart in the motives and impulses of his own heart. There is no sin greater than the sin of judging others, not only because judging is an unloving act but because it precludes the possibility of a man's seeing the pressing necessity for the reformation of his own life.

"Tain't my brother, tain't my sister, but it's me, O Lord, standin' in the need of prayer."

Give The Old Blue-Back Another Chance

From educators reports which have been published over a period of several years, it is apparent that North Carolina's school children are having more trouble with the fundamentals of one language than any other.

You've probably already guessed which one — English.

The basic trouble seems to be that high school and college students these days just haven't mastered the art of spelling.

What North Carolina public schools can do about the situation, we are not quite sure; but one thing is certain; some effective measures need to be taken to remedy the spelling deficiency North Carolina students have. The situation has persisted for a number of years, and still persists.

The latest set of statistics on the matter comes from Dr. Lodwick Hartley, head of the English department at North Carolina State College. In an article in "North Carolina Education," Dr. Hartley points out that in a writing assignment given 783 entering freshmen at State College in 1950, 86.1 per cent of all the errors were spelling errors. Errors involving failure to understand basic structure and function of sentences accounted for 29.5 per cent of the total.

Time was when the blue-back speller was the key text in teaching English in the public schools. As time and educational systems have progressed, the speller somehow has lost its former place of prominence in the English classes. There is no doubt that the English background students are now receiving in the public schools is broader than in former years, but it appears that the spelling has been pushed too far into the background.

In our opinion it would be a good idea for the state's public school system to take some of its old spellers out of mothballs and put them back in a place of prominence in the classrooms.

A Bitter Blow At The United Nations

The United Nations has received a great many hard knocks and low blows since its beginning in San Francisco, but one of the most bitter denunciations of the international organization appeared recently in the "Georgia Farmers' Market Bulletin." It is a publication of the Department of Agriculture in Georgia.

Under the by-line of Frank B. Ohlquist, the bulletin assails the United Nations and the World Bank as organizations "conceived in iniquity, born in intrigue and treachery, nursed in hypocrisy, weaned on deceit, raised on mendacity and oppression, presented in deception and falsehood and now full grown, have become traitors in our midst, destroying the Constitution, the Bill of Rights and the written law of this nation."

The article goes on with its denunciation paragraph after paragraph using such terms as "un-American," "unconstitutional," "destroying all other governments," "of the devil incarnate and deny the teachings of Jesus Christ," and "tyranny of this one-world government."

There can be no question about the United Nations having its faults. All organizations do, but such denunciations as published by the Georgia publication can only be accepted as that of a dyed-in-the-wool isolationist who can not bring himself to the realization that a nation can no longer build a wall around itself for protection.

Science and modern engineering have brought the world into one compact little community. Oceans no longer form barriers, nations no longer live apart from their neighbor nations.

The United Nations has gone a long way toward bringing international understanding which never before has been approached by the individual nations of the world. It has laid the foundation for settling international differences short of war in spite of the fact that the process lacks a great deal of being developed to perfection. It is a great stride toward permanent international peace and individual freedom for all the peoples of the world.

It will take many years for the United Nations to attain its ultimate goal of permanent peace between nations, but should it collapse, the world's civilization would suffer one of its greatest set-backs in modern history.

As a defender of American freedoms and principles, The Reflector respects the right of the Georgia publication to express in no uncertain terms its opinion of the United Nations. At the same time, however, we doubt the wisdom of its words, and we likewise wonder if the State of Georgia and its people are willing to stand behind the torrid denunciation printed in its publication.

National Whirligig

WASHINGTON—A state-by-state survey of the Taft delegate strength by his inner board of strategy convinces them that their candidate now stands within 125 or 150 votes of the 605 or 603 which will be necessary for the Republican nomination for President at Chicago next July. Actually, they believe that they have more than 500 delegates as of today.

These reports from their regional representatives in New England, the Middle Atlantic, the South, the Middle West and the Far West are so optimistic that they may not be released.

They prefer to conceal the success of their hard-driving campaign from the Eisenhower camp. While rival politics will accept these figures with many grains of salt, it is significant that there is a new air of confidence at the Ohio Senator's headquarters.

DISMAY—Besides this checkup, two other developments lead the Taft managers to maintain that his nomination is "in the bag" on the first ballot. The first is the Eisenhower promoters' dismay at word that the General will not return to campaign before the GOP assemblies on July 7.

The second is the growing skepticism in London and Paris as well as at Washington, over the recent Lisbon agreement for building a European Defense Community.

With the first primary in New Hampshire less than a week away, the hard-boiled Taft veterans insist that they have "pulled the rug from under Ike's candidacy."

There is no gaining the fact that the military man's backers, professional and non-professional, are in a state of semi-panic. Indeed some mumble that their hero has "let them down" by sticking to his post of duty.

HEARTENING—The most heartening development, in the opinion of the Taft men, is that they have broken into the delegate strength of General Eisenhower's supposed political stronghold. This consists of the Atlantic Seaboard area, extending from Maine to Delaware. It includes the states of Eisenhower's principal backers, Governor Dewey of New York, Senators Lodge and Duff of Massachusetts and Pennsylvania.

In this ten-state sector, which will have approximately 326 delegates at Chicago, Taft picked up only thirty-three delegates in 1948. It was almost wholly Dewey territory. His statisticians now give him about 106 delegates, maintaining that they will get fifteen in New York, fifteen in New Jersey and thirty-five at least in Pennsylvania.

Taft's only sizable bloc in this section in 1948 were twenty-eight Pennsylvania supporters on the first ballot. He got only one in New York and none in New Jersey.

GAIN—In the South and the border states of Maryland, Tennessee, Kentucky and Oklahoma, Taft rounded up only ninety delegates four years ago, with Texas contributing the biggest batch of thirty.

Under the leadership of former Representative and National Chairman Carroll Reece of Tennessee, this area is now counted on for about 183 delegates, or a gain of seventy-three. Although General Eisenhower is popular here, practical politicians refuse to sign up behind a candidate whose beliefs and intentions must remain unknown.

The Middle West and the farm states also register a tremendous advance for the Ohioan, according to this canvass. In 1948, Taft collected only 99 delegates from this section, with Ohio and Illinois providing the bulk of ninety-four. His current total is placed at 213, or an increase in four years of 114.

IMPORTANT—The Far West and the Southwest register smaller boosts in Taft strength, but they are still important in piling up the total. This territory, which will have an estimated 212 delegates, was mainly Warren, Dewey and Stassen pasture.

Taft squeaked through with only twenty-five supporters. His canvassers now place his minimum at seventy-eight, although they credit him with no strength in California, Oregon and Washington.

It is possible that General Eisenhower could make a dent in these figures, if he took off his uniform and took to the stump. Governor Warren of California may make some headway, and General MacArthur could undoubtedly round up a generous total, if he were willing to make the effort.

But the California received only six votes in addition to California's in 1948, indicating that he has not much nationwide appeal.

FORESIGHTED—As a matter of fact, the foresighted Taftites are beginning to look around for possible vice-presidential running-mates. While they cannot afford to antagonize important figures by showing any favoritism, the two obvious choices appear to be Governor Warren or Governor Alfred E. Driscoll of New Jersey.

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

With my daughter Nancy almost 18 months old, it's time for another of my reports to parents and prospective parents. The most important news I have to report is about the newest game that Nancy and I play: the powder game.

This consists of my slipping her a handful of baby powder when Wife Rachel isn't looking. Not that W.R. would mind, but it's much more fun to do it on the sly. Nancy takes the handful of powder and rubs it vigorously on her stomach or mine, whichever is more readily available. Frankly, I enjoy the game more when it's my stomach, but Nancy seems to get the same thrill no matter whose stomach is her target.

Another game we enjoy is cleaning the high chair. After Nancy has divided her food with the high chair—that is, eaten half and strewn half on the chair—I ask, "Now don't you want some Kleenex to clean up the chair?"

She replies, "kitty cat," she gets Kleenex and kitty cat mixed up in her vocabulary, and begins to rub the high chair with great enthusiasm, knocking the high chair's half of her food on the floor. This is excellent training, teaching her to clean up, but scrubbing the kitchen floor is killing W.R. The food would be much easier to clean off the high chair, but naturally we can't let a little thing like that stand in the way of good training.

Another phase of Nancy's training involves the waste basket and the clothes hamper. Items to be discarded, we give Nancy, with instructions to deposit them in the right place. Nancy takes this job very seriously. In fact, she completely overdoes herself, putting items of value into the waste baskets. We have found such items as the alarm clock, a deck of cards, ash trays, new magazines, the telephone book and even eye glasses in the waste basket. It isn't unusual to find clean clothes in the clothes hamper, along with the dirty ones.

Nancy helps put up groceries, too. It's a great game to see if you can put up canned goods as fast as she can take them down. For every one she hands you, she'll take two. With her help, it only takes three times as long to put the groceries up.

Tell me this: Of all the children you know, have you ever heard of a more helpful one? And I thank you.

TEACHERS — Smoldering fires of resentment among officers and members of the North Carolina Education Association may break through the surface of apparent harmony this spring or at least a sizeable conflagration. On the record, everything is fine in the state-wide organization of white teachers and other public school personnel. Speaking for the record, teachers and others will tell you that all the folks concerned about improving the schools are working together better than ever before. In off-record and unquotable conversations some of them will tell you that the current peaceful atmosphere is due to a temporary armistice, not a permanent treaty agreement, between the factions which have been scuffling for control for six or eight years.

HEELED — Alleged reason for failure to increase employees' pay is that the association cannot afford it, that there just isn't enough money available for salary increases. That argument doesn't stand up very well in face of the known fact that NCEA owns a building in Raleigh worth a lot of money, and that rentals collected from a big grocery store on the ground floor and several offices upstairs not required for association purposes more than take care of carrying charges on the building, and the current report that the association has some $50,000 in bank accounts and liquid investments.

PREDICTIONS — Without benefit of any crystal ball preview of things to come prediction is that unless material salary increases are assured before or immediately after the Asheville meeting, Mrs. Ethel Perkins Edwards will resign as executive secretary of NCEA, and several other members of the headquarters office staff will follow her. Mrs. Edwards' resignation will set off the fireworks and precipitate the all-out fight between classroom teachers and administrative segments of NCEA for control of the organization. It will also bring into the open some of the smoldering resentment mentioned earlier in this column, which further involves the belief of some teachers that a few of the older self-appointed spokesmen for their group are more interested in protecting seniority rights than in recruiting new teachers or improving the schools.

PREJUDICE — Another factor entering into the current developments is the traditional prejudice, even among women, against a woman making a success as an executive or administrative official. Although more than three-fourths of the NCEA members are women school teachers, the governing authorities of the association seem to hold the old idea that regardless of efficiency in performance a woman just isn't entitled to the same pay as a man for doing the same job. So another prediction is that when Mrs. Edwards quits a man will be selected to fill her place, will be paid substantially more salary, but will do no better job. That's the way things go; and while some women complain about it, inescapable conclusion is the women themselves are responsible. Census figures show they can out-vote the men in general elections, and public school records show they can outvote the men better than two to one in the teacher organization.

PROGRAM — While these developments might affect the degree of enthusiasm with which certain people support the whole program of the United Forces for Education, they are not expected to materially disrupt the plans or delay attainment of the common objective. The people of North Carolina through their State government and through non-governmental quasi-public organizations such as the

What Other Papers Are Thinking

THE BLUE RIDGE PARKWAY (Wilson Times)
We for one are glad to see Congressman Robert L. Dougherty take the position he has toward the Blue Ridge Parkway. For it should go under its present name, however much the Congress deserves the honor heaped on him by the House a few days ago. It's as the Blue Ridge Parkway that it was developed and it's as the Blue Ridge Parkway that it should be known. For names should stem from geography, not from individuals. It's in that way that many of our highways are known. We know there are exceptions.

The William Penn which traverses much of the area that Washington originally surveyed is one. And the Lincoln highway is another. In the South, of course, we have the Lee highway. But can we quite fancy the Shenandoah as being anything but the Shenandoah, or the Turnpike as being anything but the Turnpike? And one of the original routes, No. 40 East and West, was traveled by automobiles long before some of the other routes were conceived. Where they possess the scenic beauty of the Blue Ridge Parkway they should keep the names by which they have been known. America today can boast of a network of highways the likes of which no nation can begin to compare. Some are built for speed, others for their classic beauty. The Blue Ridge Parkway falls in the latter category, for no one can attempt to make speed while traversing its hills and curves. But there are tourists who travel for other reasons than speed. They do like to look over the garden spots of America. For their benefit, shouldn't we think twice before changing the name of the Parkway. We for one hope Mr. Dougherty is successful in keeping it that way.

Business Today

The prevailing city-county plan of governmental organization in the United States is fast becoming obsolete. Efforts to correct some of the inequalities are being made in some communities now. Eventually circumstances may force broad movements for political reorganization.

Causes are the rapid rise in population, the growth of suburban shopping centers and the automobile. The rise in population has caused cities to spread over boundaries, often centuries old. The shopping center and the family car have abetted the movement.

As a consequence, the tax rates on persons and businesses within city limits have risen much more sharply than the rates on those who, though members of the same community, are located outside city areas, either in unincorporated or incorporated areas.

It is true that cities will not furnish fire, water or other services beyond city limits unless the individual residents or smaller corporate communities pay, and lately there has been a trend toward increasing these service charges. But the large cities — and their taxpayers — are paying constantly higher bills as a consequence of the growth of their suburbs.

Into the large cities daily stream millions of commuters and visitors. The cities must build bridges and other approaches. They must repave and widen streets. Some have been forced to condemn land for additional parking space. They must provide water, police and health protection for commuters and visitors. And, except for occasional sales taxes and fees, the costs are borne by businesses and residents within the city.

On top of this, there has been a drift of the aged, ill and unstable toward cities, where relief provisions are usually better. Conversely, there is a constant drift of high-income groups toward the suburbs.

Some cities, notably in Pennsylvania, have income taxes on moneys earned within their limits in an effort to equalize the costs, but since this is not the sole source of tax income, the inequalities remain in property taxes.

These inequalities are driving out many businesses. Thousands of firms have moved out of New City to low-tax areas in the state and to New Jersey, Connecticut and Pennsylvania. The same thing is happening to other metropolises. And the tax burden increases for those that remain.

Hal Boyle's Column

NEW YORK — Do you know the greatest feat of magic ever performed?

John J. McManus, a corporation attorney who owns the world's largest collection of magic apparatus, says you don't have to be a Houdini to perform it. Anybody can do it.

"The best magic trick I know of is to tell the truth," he said dryly. "You can fool more people that way than you can by telling lies."

McManus, former president of the Rolls Royce Co. of America, knows far more about magic than most men who make it a career. He has assembled a library of 2,000 props used by the great professional magicians of the past. Part of his collection, valued at more than $100,000, will be shown at the National Antiques Show in Madison Square Garden next week.

An accomplished amateur magician himself, he found his hobby to be a source of unexpected profit during the last war, when his firm handled many multi-million dollar defense contracts.

"I used magic in Washington to amuse the high brass," he said, grinning. "During one intense negotiating session I cut the cords off the window shades and performed a few simple rope tricks. That broke the tension."

He believes magic plays a greater role in people's lives than they ever realize, that some form of it surrounds our every step.

"Take hypnotism, for example," he said. "The commonest form of that is — marriage."

"World leaders, from the days of medieval English kings on, often have guided the destinies of their subjects by the advice of private spiritualists, astrologers and palmists."

The last Russian czar had his Rasputin, Mussolini and Hitler had their astrologers. And you'd be surprised by how many big businessmen and government officials still consult fortune tellers.

"Maybe some of us feel we don't believe in any of this, and may regard it all as nonsense, but we are subjected to others who use it in their dealing with public affairs."

McManus recalled how the art of Robert-Houdin, the great French Magician, was put to political use to quell a North African uprising in the last century. He called in the native leaders and showed them a box on his desk. Lifting it easily, he put it down again and asked them to try.

"I have taken away your strength," the magician said, and the natives fled in terror. Robert-Houdin naturally didn't bother to explain the box contained a strong magnet, making it impossible to lift when he flipped on an electric current.

"Phrenology was employed by the Union forces in our own Civil War," McManus continued. "Women spy candidates were tested to be sure they had what was called 'the bump of secretiveness.'"

McManus said magic and magic apparatus are still a factor in the operation of every group — from the couches of psychiatry to the ticker in a stockbroker's office."

"Human beings' basic needs are everywhere the same: decent shelter, enough food not to be hungry, and a little bit of happiness," he said.

Tall, slender, personable, Baron de Meias-Teuffen has remained a bachelor. "I'm not brave enough for marriage," he explained.

Grifton took the lead with five minutes left in the first period and held it for the remainder of the game, with only a mid-third quarter rally being the only threat to their lead.

Arthur's girls pulled the first upset of the 1952 Pitt County Conference last night by upending Coach Joe Lupton's girls from Grimesland. Arthur won out by a score of 36-30. Vonceil Allen and Ruth Pollard led the winners with 15 and 12 points respectively, followed by Malvina Crawford with seven points. Carol Ann Tyson was outstanding on defense for Coach Joe Tew.

Grifton will play Belvoir, who received a seeding in the first round of play, Wednesday night at 8:30.

Arthur grabbed an 8-4 lead in the first period, but failed to hold it as Grimesland rallied to tie the score midway the period and then went ahead, 10-8. Malvina Crawford came back for the eventual winners to tie the score at 10-10, and then put Arthur ahead with one minute left in the first half. Grimesland was not through, however, for Joyce Tripp dropped two free throws for the losers to knot the score once again at 12-12, and Joyce Mazingo then sank a free throw to give Grimesland a 13-12 halftime lead.

After the intermission, Arthur went out in front again and led throughout the period by margins of one and two points. The winners led at the end of the quarter by a margin of three points, 25-22.

Joyce Mazingo was high for the losers with 13 points, while Shirley McLawhorn dropped in seven points. Annie Laurie Taylor and Adriene White played their customary outstanding game at guard.

Southern Coaches Oppose Rule Changes

CHAPEL HILL—Southern basketball coaches are not in favor of widening the free throw line to 12 feet or awarding two free throws for all defensive fouls, according to a survey conducted by University of North Carolina coach Tom Scott for the National Association of Basketball Coaches.

The coaches approved of playing games in quarters, stopping the clock on jump ball situations, substituting only when clock is stopped or ball is dead, and the two-shot foul for violations committed "for the purpose of profiting by it" or failure to make "reasonable effort to avoid contact."

Both proposed rule changes have been widely discussed this year and may be presented at the association's meeting at Seattle later this month. Scott, a member of the rules committee, requested answers on these questions and 29 more interpretations in a questionnaire mailed to coaches in the Southern, Southeastern and North State Conferences and of leading independent teams in the area.

One inconsistency in the poll, Scott believes, is the fact that Southern coaches do not favor a more severe personal foul penalty, while the two-shot foul rule, commonly called an "intentional foul," was only recently written into the rule book.

Experiments have been conducted this season in a number of games, using a 12-foot free throw lane, but of 19 coaches queried, 12 were opposed to a change that would put such a regulation in effect. Southern Conference opinion was slightly against a widened lane, while every Southeastern Conference coach polled was definitely against a change. The professionals are using a 12-foot lane this year.

Coaches do not favor a rule whereby all fouls in the last three minutes should be two-shot fouls and require a player to shoot both. The vote was 15-5 against any such proposed rule.

The great majority of opinion was against a two-shot foul for defensive fouls, with 14 coaches against such a proposal and only six favoring.

The coaches were almost unanimous against a rule awarding two throws for all personal fouls and to require a team to shoot both. The vote was 15-5 against a regulation that would regard as a violation the holding of the ball in the front court for 30 seconds without shooting for a goal.

Answers tabulated showed that coaches in the South are nearly unanimous in their belief that present basketball rules are generally used by mutual agreement.

Most coaches felt, according to the last set of questions asked, that coaching from the bench is increasing, but did not feel that it should be treated as a violation. And the rubber-covered basketball may make its appearance to a great extent next year, as the coaches were 9-10 in voting on a proposal that a rubber-covered ball may be used by mutual agreement.

Burke Wins In Baton Rouge For Third Straight

BATON ROUGE, La. (UP)—Jackie Burke Jr., the ex-Marine from Houston who has found the winter gold dust trail very profitable, moved on to St. Petersburg, Fla., today in search of his fourth consecutive major tournament victory.

STOKES girls' team, above, was eliminated in the first round of the Pitt County Conference tournament last night by Grifton, but not until it had put up a good battle. Grifton finally won the ball game with a second half splurge, 39-28. Stokes is coached by W. J. Edwards. (Reflector Sports Photo by Roy Hardee.)

The 29-year-old Burke, described as an "iceberg in the clutches" by the men who play against him, took his third straight tournament yesterday by outlasting two competitors in the $10,000 Baton Rouge Open.

The hard-earned win came after an extra 18-hole round and two holes of sudden death play. It was over sharp-shooter Bill Nary of Albuquerque, N.M., and Tommy Bolt, the fiery Texan who plays out of Durham, N.C.

Minors Have New Bright Outlook

COLUMBUS, O. (AP)—Minor league baseball, despite the demise of seven leagues since the 1951 campaign, looked forward today toward a healthy and happy season.

In 1950 the minors hit their peak of 59 leagues and 444 teams. Now the field has dwindled to 43 leagues and 320 clubs.

Ten loops dropped out between the 1950 and 1951 seasons, seven gave up this winter and one 10-club circuit split up to help form two six-team loops.

Phil Pilon, No. 1 aide to minor league President George M. Trautman who is in the Southland, struck an optimistic note today as he said: "The leagues still in the fold appear to be financially stable. Most of those which dissolved were borderline loops, unable to hold up in the face of attendance drops, major league broadcast competition, and the loss of players to the services."

THE GREENVILLE Jayvees Saturday night won the runner-up spot in the State Junior Varsity Basketball tournament when they lost to the Junior Bulldogs of Durham. The Little Phantoms, coached by Bill Kirtrell, won 18 straight contests before losing to the Bulldogs. (Photo by C. L. Perkins.)

Farmville's Red Devils moved into the quarter-finals of the Pitt County Conference last night by blasting Chocod by a wide margin of 63-36. Stokes also earned a quarter-final berth by dropping Arthur, 53-31.

For Farmville, it was handy-man Marvin Tugwell who took over the spotlight in the scoring brackets. Tugwell, who fell off with consistency in the first half to set up almost as many points as he scored himself, hit the nets for a total of 22 points, to continue the torrid pace which he set in the Coastal Conference tourney last week.

Other than Tugwell, Charlie Fitzgerald turned in an excellent game of defensive basketball and scored eight points to go along with his defensive laurels. Fitzgerald made it almost impossible for the Chocod guards to get the ball up-court at several points of the night. Jack Allen was third high for the winners with seven points.

Farmville will now meet the top-seeded Bethel Indians Wednesday night at 9:45.

The Chocod scoring was spread out just about evenly over the lineup, with J. T. Mills taking the lead with nine points. Archie Oakley led the defensive work for the losers.

Farmville took a long time in getting started on its scoring spree, but the Red Devils had run to a 32-19 lead at halftime. After the intermission, Coach Elbert Moye turned loose his Red Devils with abandon and the Farmville team poured the ball through the nets with consistency, climaxing the night with a 20-point effort in the last quarter.

Jack Warren and Co. were just too strong for the hapless Arthur team in the final game last night as Stokes ground out a 53-31 victory to move into the quarter-finals against Ayden Wednesday night at 7:15.

Warren led the Stokes scoring with 22 points to his credit, followed by Donnie Cherry with 12 points. David Roberson and Mac James played good defensive games.

Stokes took a 15-9 lead in the first period and they appeared to be on their way, but Arthur delayed the rout temporarily at least by cutting the margin to 15-11 in the opening minute of the second period and then holding on for dear life until late in the first period when Stokes began pulling away.

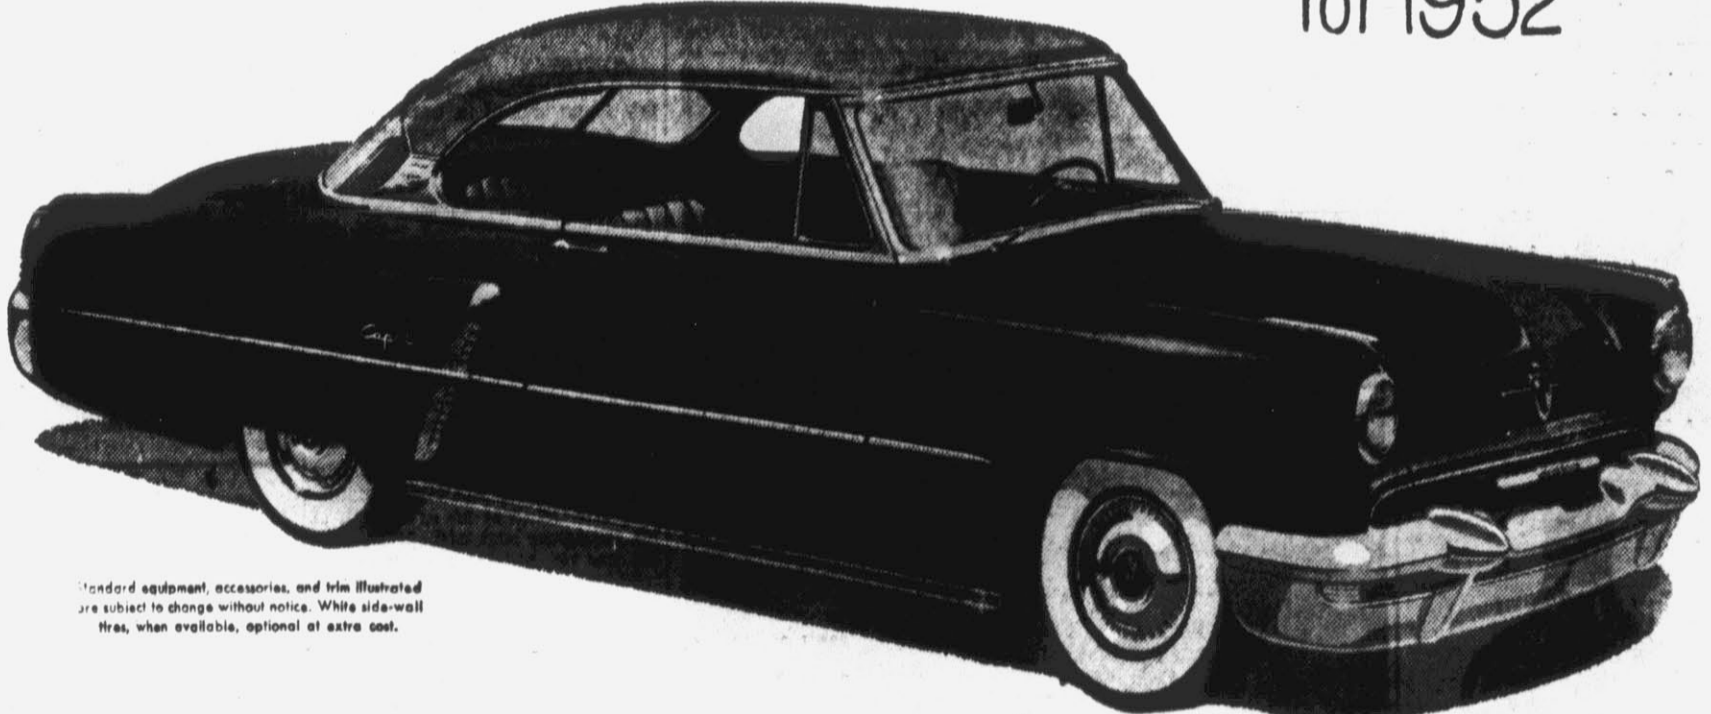

For Arthur, Kendrick Nichols and L. E. Mazingo each collected 10 points to pace the losers' attack. Dave Harris and Gene Sutton both

Greenville Jayvees Lose To Durham In State Finals

HIGH POINT—Durham won the state junior varsity championship Saturday night by edging Greenville's Jayvees, 39-37, with a field goal by Blake in the last 15 seconds of the contest.

The championship is the third for the Durham five, which was led by Blake with 11 points, followed by Bobby Lutz, brother of Duke's Worth Lutz, who scored 10 points.

Greenville was led by Bobby Starkey with 18 points, while Tommy Saieed turned in seven points for the game. George Siders, who suffered a possible fracture of his wrist in Saturday morning's game with Burlington, still played the championship game and gave an excellent exhibition of defensive talents, plus showing how to play with only one hand as he passed and shot with his good hand alone.

Pat Sawyer fouled out for Greenville in the last two minutes of the game, and Edgar Moore, who was put to bed Saturday morning with flu and missed the Burlington game, replaced him and made a credible showing while he was in the game, despite an evident weakness.

The victory was Durham's 18th without a defeat this season, while it was Greenville's first defeat in 19 contests.

New Heavyweight Moves Into Light

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Bob Dunlap, an obscure Negro, may have projected himself into the national heavyweight fight picture with a surprising and convincing victory over Cesar Brion last night.

Dunlap, 182½, from Oakland, Calif., who never seems to stop throwing leather, twice felled 198-pound Brion, who twice stayed 10 rounds with Joe Louis.

Dunlap, a 3-1 underdog, was punching strongly at the end of the 10 rounder and was given a unanimous decision. He dropped Brion in the second and ninth rounds.

NIGHTTIME ROE

BROOKLYN (AP)—Preacher Roe, ace Dodger southpaw hurler, was particularly effective at night. Last season he won 11 and lost only one game under the arcs. His four year record for night contests as a Dodger is 32 triumphs and nine losses.

Postponed

Fast Carolina College's spring football game, originally scheduled for tonight, has been postponed until Wednesday night because of Tuesday's heavy rain-fall according to Coach Bill Dole of the Pirates.

The same plans for the game will carry over until tomorrow night according to Dole. These plans have a full length game scheduled between separate squads. All participants in the game will be eligible for competition next fall and no men who have exhausted their eligibility are being permitted to take part in the game.

Advance tickets for the contest are on sale at the College Athletic Office for $1.00 and fifty cents.

Spivey Dropped For Failure To Report Bribes

LEXINGTON, Ky. (UP)—Star basketball player Bill Spivey said today that he has been suspended from school by the University of Kentucky.

University officials, who yesterday suspended Spivey from athletics because they believe he was "implicated in a conspiracy" to fix basketball games, refused to confirm or deny that the seven-foot all-American player also has been barred from the classroom.

But Athletic Director Bernie Shiveley disclosed that Spivey's athletic scholarship has been terminated.

Spivey, who admitted Sunday that he failed to report to the authorities two bribe offers made to him to "throw" games, continued to assert today his innocence of any fixing or point-shaving and declared he was "very disappointed" at the academic suspension.

Spivey's attorney, Elmer Drake, also criticized the action.

"Both Spivey and I are very disappointed," said Drake. "Bill has done what the board requested him to do, and even went further in New York by submitting to the questioning of Assistant District Attorney Vincent O'Connor, as well as testifying before the grand jury."

Illness Hits

Grifton's Bulldogs will be at their lowest strength of the season tonight when they tangle with Grimesland in a first round contest of the Pitt County Conference.

Brothers Rex and John Lewis, mainstays on the Bulldog team for the entire season, have both been sent to bed with flu, and are not expected to dress for the game. Chico's girls were also hit when their star forward, Shirley Gaskins, went in with the measles and will not be allowed to participate in Chico's game with Ayden tonight.

SOMETHING FOR NOTHING

MILWAUKEE, Ore. (UP)—A draft board clerk, Mary Bell, reported an 18-year-old youth registered and then handed her a $1 bill. She explained there was no charge. "You mean I don't have to pay?" the youth asked. "Gosh! You sure have to pay for everything else."

LOUIS COLLIE, guard for the East Carolina Pirates, last night closes his collegiate basketball career. Collie, long a defensive ace for Coach Howard Porter's Bucs, held Elon's Ben Kendall to only eight points in the first half but found himself with four fouls at intermission. With Collie out of the game for most of the second half, Kendall scored 17 points in leading Elon to victory in the NAIB Regional playoffs.

Ben Kendall Scores 25 Points For Elon

Elon Sparked In Second Half Drive By All-Conference Sophomore Forward; Hodges Leads ECC Scoring With 18 Points

By JIMMY ELLIS, Reflector Sports Writer
ELON COLLEGE—A sensational second half shooting exhibition by All-Conference forward Ben Kendall last night gave the Elon Christians the right to represent the Carolinas at the National Association of Intercollegiate Basketball tournament to be held in Kansas City later this month. Kendall scored 25 points in a 75-67 licking the Christians handed East Carolina.

Kendall scored 17 of his points in the second half when the Pirates were handdrapped greatly by the loss of their defensive ace, Louis Collie. Collie had held the Kokomo Kid to only eight points (three field goals) in the first half but ran up four personal fouls while doing so. Coach Howard Porter was forced to use Collie sparingly in the second half and Kendall ran wild. Collie finally fouled out and the Pirates were without a man to keep up with the speedy sophomore.

A small crowd watched the contest which was originally scheduled for last Tuesday night but which was postponed until last night because of last week's heavy snowfall. A heavy and steady rain last night held the number of spectators to a small number.

East Carolina never was in the lead in the ball game. They had the score tied at 2-2 early in the first quarter and at 16-16 with a minute left to play in the period. They were never able to follow up their advantage, however, and lost any chance they might have had to take the lead. Loss of the rebounds from their own offensive board hampered the Pirates considerably and seldom were they able to get more than one shot at the basket before losing the ball to Elon.

Despite a somewhat ragged performance, forward Bobby Hodges continued to pace East Carolina in the scoring column. Hodges scored only five points in the second half but he still managed to wind up with 18 points and East Carolina's high scoring honors. Forward Sonny Russell was right behind with 15 points while big Haltheo scored 14 for the Fighting Christians.

Groat And Workman Lead All-Southern Selections

GREENSBORO (AP)—Members of the Southern Conference Sports Writers Association had no difficulty in choosing two members of their all-conference basketball team this year.

They named Dick Groat of Duke and Mark Workman of West Virginia to first-team spots by a landslide vote. Groat and Workman each received a first-team vote on all 49 ballots received.

The star duo each snared 345 points in the voting. Dickie Hemric of Wake Forest was third with 190 points, followed by Lee Terrill of North Carolina State with 184 and Frank Selvy of Furman with 170.

The sports writers selected for second-team honors Dwayne Morrison, South Carolina, 147 points; Bob Speight, North Carolina State, 124; Jay Handlan, W&L, 109; Bill Chambers, W&M, 84; and Johnny Snee, Clemson, 82.

Named to third-team positions were Al Lifson, North Carolina, 61; Nield Gordon, Furman, 50; Bernie Janicki, Duke, 37; Lee Brawley, Maryland, 28; Don Cox, South Carolina, 19.

Honorable mentions were to Peterson, South Carolina; Moore, Virginia; Shne, Maryland; Agee, W&M; Isner, West Virginia.

For Groat, it was his second year as a unanimous choice on the all-conference five. Groat currently is the nation's No. 1 pointmaker with a total of 701. Workman was the national point-scoring leader for several weeks.

All the top five players, with the exception of Hemric, will be in action in the conference tourney at Raleigh beginning Thursday. Hemric's Wake Forest club failed to qualify for the annual event.

Saddler Again In Boxing Trouble

MONTREAL (AP)—Featherweight Champion Sandy Saddler today found himself in hot water for the second time in less than six months.

The lithe New York Negro was disqualified between the third and fourth rounds here last night because of his illegal actions in a scheduled 10-round bout against Armand Savole.

The disqualification produced a first-class furor. Fans milled about the ringside, and when several fights broke out among them, three carloads of police were hurried to the forum to stop the brawling.

Saddler was suspended by the New York State Athletic Commission last Oct. 5 as an aftermath of his roughhouse bout with Willie Pep. He was reinstated until Dec. 5. Referee Tommy Sullivan disqualified Saddler for "fouling continual-

Illinois Moves Into NCAA Berth With Big Ten Title

Baseball Briefs

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Rookies Andy Carey and Jim Brideweser, and Billy Martin figure prominently in New York Yankee Manager Casey Stengel's plans. Carey will be given a full crack at third base. If he wins it, Gil McDougald will shift to second. If Carey fails, Martin and Brideweser will battle it out for second base with McDougald returning to third.

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Cleveland General Manager Hank Greenberg still casting around for a good outfielder, just about gave up today on the idea of getting an Indian uniform on Detroit's Hoot Evers. The Tigers have decided to keep him.

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. (AP)—Pittsburgh Pirate officials say pitcher Jim Walsh will be placed on the waiver list if he does not accept his 1952 contract today.

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Manager Leo Durocher of the New York Giants hinted today that catcher Ray Noble may be traded. Noble checked into camp yesterday and Durocher remarked that the hefty Cuban receiver would make a good catcher for several clubs, especially Pittsburgh and Boston.

Hill Prince Out

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP)—Hill Prince has retired with earnings of $422,140 to his credit. The handicap champion of 1951 has been ordered out of racing and into stud duty at the Clairborne Farm at Paris, Ky. His owner, Christopher T. Cheney, made the decision yesterday after veterinarians discovered Hill Prince had developed a filling in his right foreleg.

STUDENTS PUT IN PLACE

LINCOLN, Neb. (UP)—University of Nebraska students who repeatedly violate traffic regulations aren't fined—they're "rusticated." A "rusticated" student is prohibited from attending classes for one week, during which he is not allowed on the campus.

Wyoming and Holy Cross, a pair of teams already picked for tournaments, were also upset last night. Wyoming took a 59-44 drubbing from Colorado that may jeopardize the Cowboys' No. 10 national ranking.

By JOHN GRIFFIN

NEW YORK (UP)—Illinois, winning the Big 10 basketball championship for the third time in the last four years, moved today into a reserved berth in the NCAA post-season tournament. The Illini took the title last night as they trounced Northwestern 95 to 74, while second-place Iowa was upset by Wisconsin 78 to 75. Thus, with 12 wins in 13 conference games and a two-game lead in the lost column over Iowa, the Illini can lose their final league game of the season against Wisconsin on Saturday and still finish on top. A win Saturday would give them the same 13-1 loop mark they had last year.

Sophomore Johnny Kerr paced Illinois to its clinching victory at Champaign, Ill., by pitching 34 points through the hoop. At almost exactly the same moment in Iowa City, eighth-place Wisconsin was staging a strong fourth-quarter attack that pounded Iowa's title dreams to dust.

Wisconsin led at the end of the third period, 59-58, but Iowa's big Chuck Darling opened the fourth period with a goal to put the Hawkeyes in front, 60-59.

That's where the Hawkeyes' title express jumped the track. The Badgers clicked off three straight baskets to take the lead they never relinquished.

The only consolation for the Hawkeyes was that Darling tallied 34 points to set the following league records for a season—364 points in 14 games, 132 field goals, and 100 free throws—and a three-year total of 716 points that smashed the league three-year record of 628 set by Don Rehfeldt of Wisconsin and also the four-year mark of 675, also set by Rehfeldt.

West Texas State muffed a chance to win the Border Conference championship and an NCAA berth last night. Needing only a win over Texas Tech to clinch, the Buffaloes were upset, 89-85, at Lubbock, Tex.

Now the border title must be decided by a playoff between West Texas State and New Mexico A&M, each with a 9-5 league record.

The Big Seven race became a deadlock as Kansas State trounced Iowa State, 78-66. Now State is tied with Kansas with a 9-1 league record and the stage is all set for their titanic battle at Lawrence, Kans., on Friday.

Wyoming and Holy Cross, a pair of teams already picked for tournaments, were also upset last night. Wyoming took a 59-44 drubbing from Colorado that may jeopardize the Cowboys' No. 10 national ranking.

By JOHN GRIFFIN

NEW YORK (UP)—Kentucky and Illinois again placed one-two today in the weekly United Press basketball rankings, but Kansas State's hold on third place was reduced to a single point by its arch Big Seven rival, Kansas. Classy Kentucky, which during the week won the Southeastern Conference tournament, had its rating by the Board of Coaches slightly reduced. The Wildcats drew only 27 first-place votes out of 35, compared to 28 last, and a total point score of 331 points out of 350, compared with 333.

Illinois, on the other hand, received three first place votes, one more than last week, and 291 points, compared to 289.

But the real fight shaped up for third place where Kansas State received a total of 182 points in the balloting and Kansas, moving up from fifth place to fourth, received 181. These two teams collide Friday night at Lawrence, Kans., in a game that also will probably settle the Big Seven championship. Duquesne, fourth last week, was dropped to fifth place by the coaches this week.

St. Louis and Washington retained their sixth and seventh rankings respectively from the previous week. However, St. Johns, eighth last week but upset by Holy Cross, dropped to ninth and Iowa, which was ninth, moved up to eighth. Wyoming remained in 10th position.

Thus, there were no changes recorded in the top 10 teams. Next week the 35 coaches comprising the board will announce their final ratings covering ght full 1951-52 season.

Murder is Forgetful

BY WILLIAM G. BOGART

Chapter 20

Turning to look at Kay Smith, he thought she was just a beautiful child with tears in her lovely green eyes. He felt as though he should put his arm around her slim shoulders and kiss her on the forehead.

"She realizes she has been ill?" he asked.

Kay said, "Yes. She has an idea this is a sort of rest home." She was fighting back a sob. "Imagine, mother's own home!"

He nodded, then shrugged. "She's still suffering from some kind of shock. You get the idea she is on the verge of remembering something important, then her mind goes blank again."

"But there was something?" Kay's interest was mirrored in her eyes. "Amazing eyes that seemed to have endless shades of green as her emotions were stirred."

Johnny said thoughtfully, "Well... it wasn't much. Tell me, Kay, can you think of any intimate friends she might have had in Greenwich Village? Any favorite places she went there?"

"No," the girl said instantly. "She liked Long Island... the country and walking along the shore and through the rolling hills. She was never one to go night-clubbing or slumming in the Village."

"Was she interested in art... paintings?"

Again Kay shook her head. Her hand touched his arm quickly and impulsively. "Why... what did you learn?"

"Nothing... I guess. Except that she still thinks I'm someone named Bart, and that we were in Greenwich Village once. Crazy, isn't it?"

"Bart... Bart..." The girl repeated the name slowly to herself. She gave Johnny Saxon a helpless stare. "I've never heard the name mentioned. And I'm positive it was no one mother ever knew. Yet she calls you Bart. There must be some reason for it."

He had started to indicate the next door along the hallway behind them. Kay paused, eyes questioning.

"Is that the nurse's room?" he asked.

"Yes, it's Karen's. That's so she will be close to mother." She motioned to a door directly across the hall from the nurse's bedroom.

"That's mine. And Nancy has the bedroom on the far side of Karen's is a spare guest room."

"There's bedrooms all over the place," said Johnny.

Kay pointed to a closed door directly opposite them.

"That was father's room," she said without expression.

Johnny said nothing. His eyes did not reveal a thought that coursed through his mind. That door directly across the hall...

The sound that rocked Johnny Saxon back on his heels was sharp, high-pitched, startling. It came from the bedroom behind him. He saw Kay's face flash wide with horror.

"It's... mother! she gasped...."

Johnny Saxon flung open the door and several strides inside the blue-and-white bedroom before Kay's muscles responded and she followed. Irene Smith, partly disheveled, lay half across the bed on her right side. Her soft, reddish hair spilled over her creamy shoulders covered part of her face. She did not stir.

"God!" the girl choked. Mother...

Johnny grasped the woman's left wrist with one hand and brushed hair back from her face with the other. He raised an eyelid quickly. He felt a steady pulse beating against his fingers.

"She's only fainted," he said with relief.

Kay was bending down over the bed. She started rubbing her mother's wrists. "You think she's all right?"

Johnny didn't bother to answer. He swung across the bedroom. Probably ten seconds had elapsed since they had heard Irene Smith's scream. There was an impression in Johnny's mind that the latch on the balcony screen door had clicked faintly as he rushed into the room.

Outside windows of the many bedrooms faced on the long rectangle of the balcony. Light shone from one or two windows; the others were like sightless dark eyes in the warm night. He listened tensely.

There was no sound. Then his pulse quickened as he saw a vague shadow slide past one of the open windows.

He was running now. Between the two amber-colored spots of color fast upon the balcony by the lighted windows, there were deep shadows. Johnny tried to avoid stumbling over any porch furniture.

Ahead, on the far L of the rectangle a door slammed. The screen door at the end of the hall

Old Blood-Money System Invoked To Settle Issues

CAIRO — (AP) — The ancient method of settling disputes by "blood-money" agreements has been invoked to end a fatal feud between two tribes in the Aden protectorate, the Arab News Agency has reported.

Feuding between the Awdal and Bidhames tribes had brought death to about 60 men on both sides. Under the agreement reached, each tribe will submit a list of names of men killed. Each dead Awdal will be written off against a dead Bidhame.

The tribe that comes out with the least men killed will pay the blood-money to the relatives of the dead men of the tribe having the most men killed.

Plane Navigated By New Machine In Test Series

LONDON, — (AP) — Sever miles over Britain, a four-engine jet research plane is making high-speed flights to test a new radio automatic navigator.

The automatic navigator, the Decca Flight Log, shows the pilot the position of his plane on a map and automatically draws in its track. It has already been tried on low-speed helicopters and piston-engine planes. Now it is wanted for jet airliners.

Its designers have built a new airborne receiver which will pick up signals and convert them into the track line on the map while the aircraft is flying miles above the earth at 1,500 miles per hour.

Production Lags At Skoda Works

VIENNA, — (AP) — Despite a demand for greater production, the output of locomotives in the giant Skoda works in Pilsen, Czechoslovakia, is behind schedule. Radio Brno said that January production was only 66 percent of the target.

Western economists in Vienna said locomotive production possibly was down because the Skoda works is streamlining its output of tanks and guns for Russia.

Amateur Artist Salon Is Opened

BOSTON — (AP) — A bartender and a hospital clerk have opened a salon for amateur artists in Boston's South End.

Bartender Weston G. Bean and clerk Joseph Caruso, amateurs themselves, reconverted a barber shop to set up the establishment on the fringe of the theatrical district. "Amateurs don't get a chance in the big museums," they explained. "We're going to give it to them."

New Swim Suits Show Less, But Style Draws More Oglers Than Ever

By JAMES COOK

United Press Staff Correspondent MIAMI BEACH, Fla. — (UP) — A leading swim wear designer, reports that once-fashionable nudity is being hidden at the bathing beaches this year.

For that reason, paradoxically, girls are getting more ogles than before.

Paradoxical, perhaps, but try to remember, says Margit Fellegi, 1952 Cole of California designs as displayed on a covey of curvy models at the ocean-side boardwalk of the Roney Plaza Hotel. To the untutored eye, they looked just about as undressed as ever.

Nevertheless, Miss Fellegi stoutly maintained that the little suits were clear illustrations of an alleged new feeling in the fashion world that "nudity is no longer nice."

She pointed out virtually all of her designs this year raise the suit in back by a few vertebrae, block the view of hips with a bit of scalloping or cuffing, and make milady bather's décolletage loom less. Bold Bikinis and tiny two-piece affairs — like those back in the good old days — are now taboo, she said.

"Even though nudity is being hid hard," said Miss Fellegi, "men are looking at their women more intently than in the season of the Bikini."

"You see, the American man is, bless his heart, really embarrassed by exposure. Back in Bikini time, he would look, blush, and look away. Now, with prudence returning in women's swim suits, the man has a good excuse for looking longer."

"The American male — like that little Cuban man in the New Yorker cartoons — sees in his mind whatever he wants to see, anyway," she said.

The designers said over-brief swim suit styles in recent years have served only to show "how amazingly few women have good figures." The Cole fashions this year are engineered to make them look less lumpy.

There is, for instance, the "wing-ding bra," built with a flange out front for use in creating an optical illusion. If fate has been providential, you flip the flange and right away you look like J. Russell. But if you look like Jane in the first place, you flip the "wing-ding" flange the other way and then you're what you call "eclipsed," and girls who want to go on TV or book jackets should never give it that second flip.

Miss Fellegi said she sees no likelihood of deflation in busts in the near future. For one thing, women are exercising more and are bustier by nature now than they were a few years ago.

"It's encouraging to note that our women are now having to depend less on artifice than on themselves," Miss Fellegi said.

Newsman Appear At Crime Probe

CHARLOTTE — (AP) — Charlotte newspaper editors appeared before a special Federal grand jury here today to tell what they know of local underworld activities.

Ralph Nicholson, editor and publisher of the Observer, and C.A. McKnight, editor of the Charlotte News, were scheduled to appear before the jury which is seeking evidence of organized crime in Western North Carolina.

The appearance of the newspapermen highlighted the second day of closed hearings before the 23-man body. Thomas A. Uzzell, district attorney for Western North Carolina, is examining witnesses before the grand jury.

Other witnesses scheduled today included Charles Burrus, chief protection officer for this area; Sheriff J. H. Allen of Cleveland County; Police Chief W. H. Hardin of Shelby; Sheriff Ray A. Sigmon of Burke County, and Police Chief J. Alexander Conley of Morganton. William A. Murphy, special agent in charge of the Charlotte office; Narcotics Agent John B. Balas; T. Ed Patton, agent in charge of the Alcoholic Tax Unit, Police Chief Frank N. Littlejohn of Charlotte; and Mecklenburg County Sheriff J. Clyde Hunter.

Near Tax-Rebellion Stirring At State Level; Levies Are Eased

By LYLE C. WILSON

United Press Staff Correspondent WASHINGTON (UP) — There is something mighty like a tax rebellion stirring in this country.

Public unhappiness under the added burden of federal income tax levies imposed in 1950 and 1951 is beginning to make an impression in Congress.

But the federal government is relatively remote from the people who support it. On a matter like taxes, the great federal bureaucracy is slow to move. State governments are simpler and a lot closer to the voters.

State government are getting the word with considerable emphasis. A United Press check over the weekend showed that at least 13 states recently have eased income or other tax levies or have plans to do so. Maryland and Virginia, the states between which lies the national capital, lead the parade.

Virginia has just clipped state income taxes by 15 per cent. Virginia has a "treat the taxpayers right" law which provided a 20 per cent income tax cut on 1950 income and may reduce it some more next year.

The other states which have eased taxes or whose officials plan to do so are: Alabama, Arkansas, Colorado, Kansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Missouri, South Carolina, South Dakota, Utah and Wisconsin. Not all the reductions were on income. But they all kept dollars in the taxpayers' pockets which otherwise would have been spent by government.

The Virginia law which accomplished so much is an accomplished proposition. A simple explanation of the Virginia act is that when revenue exceeds budgeted expectations taxes are reduced.

The state government receives a 10 per cent refund of the sum it proposed to raise by taxation. But if the weary taxpayers actually pay more than that into the Treasury, the government must give it back to the taxpayers.

Federal officials frequently are away off in their tax estimates. As often as not their mistake is to underestimate by hundreds of millions what tax proceeds will be. When that happens in the federal government, the officials have just that much more money to spend — and they spend it.

Even when tax proceeds exceed Treasury estimates there usually is a deficit and still more money

St. Patrick's Is Major Holiday

DUBLIN, — (AP) — St. Patrick's Day March 17 is one of Ireland's three big holidays. The others are Christmas and Good Friday.

Although both a legal and religious holiday — it honors the saint who converted Ireland to Christianity — the celebrations resemble those in the United States on the Fourth of July, with parades and political speeches.

Irish pubs are closed on the three holidays, and in all the length and breadth of the Emerald Isle there's but one place to legally toast its patron saint: the Annual Dog Show at Bell's Bridge outside Dublin.

Porpoises Harm Fishing Grounds

KITT HAWK, N. C. — (AP) — An old superstition among seafaring folk is preventing the annihilation of a school of ocean porpoises in lower Currituck Sound.

The playful and sleek porpoises, which usually live only in salt water, recently moved into the fresh waters of the sound. Commercial fishermen report they are seriously interfering with their take of fish. One old-timer estimated that a school of 20 porpoises consumes about 6,000 pounds of fish daily.

Superstition says to kill a porpoise is "as unlucky as walking under a dozen ladders."

FORT WORTH, Tex. — (UP) — A cautious motorist who was taking no chances left a check fastened to his parking meter. The check was made out to the City of Fort Worth for 10 cents.

Austria Hungry Despite Rations

VIENNA — (UP) — Life for Austrians was progressively grimmer and more expensive during 1951.

Once the lowest in Europe, prices in Austria jumped by 39.1 per cent during the year, more than four times the average rise through the world. Stringent measures were taken to deal with increasing food shortages.

Two weekly meatless days were ordered last autumn. The sale of pork and veal, basis of wiener schnitzel, the country's national dish, was limited to Saturdays.

This winter, rationing of butter, which has been unobtainable except at black market prices, was ordered. Each person was limited to a weekly ration of 4.5 grams, or less than one fifth of an ounce.

Most painful of all to the coffee and pastry-loving Austrians was the ban put on the manufacture and sale of whipped cream. Vienna's famous "schlag" which once topped every steaming cup and filled most rolls.

Soaring food prices have become the gravest danger to the national economy. In a country which does not produce enough to feed itself and has an unfavorable balance of trade, the average Austrian spends more than 60 per cent of his income on food.

Weary Artists Will Have Home

MILAN, Italy — (AP) — An international "house of rest" for aging artists and writers will be built here by "Angelicum," a cultural organization sponsored by the Franciscan Friars.

A spokesman for Angelicum said the house would offer bed and meals for visiting foreign writers. Its permanent guests would be those who in the decline of their creativeness may need care and assistance.

Funds for the house of rest will be collected through art shows, writings and collections in Italy and abroad. Organizers here said groups in the United States, Brazil, Sweden, France and Switzerland are co-operating.

Survey Size Of Dark Continent

Two American surveyors, Phillip E. Hoffman of Baltimore and Donald L. Higgins of Bedford, Ore., are engaged on one of the most important and difficult survey projects in the world.

They are surveying the last link in the chain which will give the accurate length of the African continent.

The figures resulting from the measurement of this approximately 660-mile "gap" which runs through mountain, bush and swamp in the heart of the big game area of Africa will enable all land measurement under a single system. It also will give new information on the size and shape of the whole world.

The decision for the United States government to undertake this project was taken at the meeting in Brussels last July of the International Union of Geodesy and Geophysics.

American help was asked because of the urgent nature of the work and the great difficulties to be overcome.

The two Americans are now reconnoitering the line of survey, which runs along the 30th meridian of longitude. Their reconnaissance, for which the United States has voted $75,000, should be ended by mid-April, but the actual survey cannot start before September.

During the present season the atmosphere over northern Uganda, where the survey begins, is hazy with the smoke of bush fires and no sighting is possible. Later the rains will make movement in the papyrus-covered swamplands virtually impossible.

Popular German Support Gradually Turns To Assisting European Army

By JOHN FISHER

Despite impending hazards of time, nationalist hates, financial burdens, treaty ratification and other obstacles, NATO backing of a European Army, including Germans, is a magnificent forward step toward peace and security.

The strength through unity idea which General Eisenhower helped conceive and push against almost insurmountable odds, seems on its uneasy way to ultimate acceptance by the free world.

The very possibility of eventual success will spur the crafty Kremlin to an all-out effort to spoil the Lisbon dream.

Communist propaganda and action — open and secret — will play on French fears of a revived Wehrmacht and will profit the raw nerves of various German elements who dislike the thought of putting on uniform again — as mercenaries, draftees or volunteers.

The dilemma of our age is that great visions require complicated, time-consuming measures by diverse allies with changing leaders. Details cause splits that threaten overall objectives.

Open, extraneous issues, in the meanwhile, create further rifts. A French internal row over wage boosts — stimulated in part by Communists — may upset the French cabinet that helped inaugurate the new European defense system. Chancellor Adenauer's tentative parliamentary support could be drained by public opinion inflamed over the French position on the Saar.

War Horrors Still Fresh In German Minds

The Lisbon Council indicates that the Bonn government intends to stay West, regardless of the fake promises of unification suggested by Herr Grotewohl and Comrade Stalin.

But will the people stick with Adenauer?

They have not yet made up their minds. Current events give encouragement to the hope that the Federal Republic will become a full partner with the West and will not continue to be a problem child, tricky bargainer or potential enemy.

We must realize that modern

ago it issued a memorandum, modifying its attitude and stating that rearmament was not contrary to Christian conscience and that being defenseless might increase the damage of war.

Other thoughtful Germans in recent months have been convinced that only through a proper contribution of German war production and manpower to a European Army can there be safety.

Leaders are aware of the expansionist tendencies of Russian imperialism. Dr. Adenauer has argued that Russia has been marching west for a century. His government's espousal of the Schuman (economic) Plan and the Plevin (military) Plan is evidence of its search for possible roadblocks.

Rearmament now is supported by the bulk of the press and by leaders of Germany Youth, who regard it as a "necessary evil." Communists still scream "cannon fodder" and peace societies still yearn for pacifism. But the former attitude of "bystander" is passing in West Germany.

West German Standing Strong Against Soviets

The Moscow formula was a neutral Federal Republic lured into fusion with East Germany and therefore in the grip of the Soviet Union. But a West Germany, aiming for survival, will be a magnet to draw East Germany from ever accepting permanent domination.

Recent deserters from the Soviet Army in East Germany have told United States intelligence officers that the Russian command fears attack from German guerrillas in case of war. They maintain that in the latest war game maneuvers railroads were not used because the Reds assume that in actual fighting the tracks and rolling stock will be destroyed by partisans.

Be that as it may. Reports plainly reveal continued resistance to Red occupation. The other day buildings of the biggest chemical plant in East Germany at Saxony-Anhalt were plastered with posters that read: "Ivan go home. Then at last we will have peace."

Recent long sentences by Communist courts were for such offenses as "circulating western magazines," "criticizing the Soviet Army," "assaulting a Communist speaker."

Hermann Dunov, head of the Press Department of the Security Police, informed journalists that it was more important for them to uncover subversive activities than to report news. He ordered them to watch out for western politicians secretly visiting East Germany to spy and spread anti-Communist propaganda.

All of these events — from Adenauer's support of a European Army to Dunov's jitters about espionage — are evidence that Stalin, despite honey bait or Red Terror, has been unable to bend the Germans to his will.

Capitol Square

Grange, the Farm Bureau, Parent-Teacher Associations and others, are fully committed to the proposition that the public schools are the No. 1 obligation. There are and will be differences of opinion as to most effective methods for improving the schools; there will be controversy between those who think higher pay for teachers is more important than anything else, and those who think better buildings and more adequate facilities for transporting and housing pupils outranks teacher salaries in significance. It is this different appraisal values rather than opposition to total objectives that makes for different emphasis on legislative needs.

INTERNAL — Some of the same sort of differences show up in NCEA "politics," but mostly the controversy there is first of all between administrators and class room teachers, and among class room teachers it is between the long tenure and the new-comer teachers. All of which means that there will be a very interesting convention of the North Carolina Education Association in Asheville next month, some interesting developments during the weeks following, and perhaps the most intensive educational lobby of record in the 1953 General Assembly.

HOW TO HANDLE HUSBANDS

PORTLAND, Ore. — (UP) — Mrs. Albert Leo Willis told Judge J. J. Quillin she didn't know what to do to stop her husband, who was accused of driving while drunk, from drinking away from home. "Buy yourself a rolling pin and knock the stuffings out of your husband if he comes home with beer on his breath," the judge advised.

Operators of telephone lines in Africa have animal troubles. Elephants toss the poles about, baboons do gymnastics on them and break the wires and one giraffe ran through a telephone line and carried the wire 200 yards.

Scattered Areas Of Nation Hit By Stormy Weather

By UNITED PRESS

Tornadoes, hail and violent thunderstorms lashed widely scattered areas in Arkansas, Alabama and Georgia as a squall line spawned by a Texas cyclone whipped eastward across Dixie.

At least 10 persons were injured and more than 300 homes damaged or destroyed. There were no deaths reported.

Hundreds of birds were killed in Northeast Arkansas, where hail "as big as golf balls" piled up to a depth of two inches in some places.

Small but vicious twisters leapt through Central Alabama and Georgia, razing homes, uprooting trees and knocking out power and communication facilities.

Dave Miller, U.S. district weather forecaster in Atlanta, said the squall line was generated by the action of warm southern winds on the lower quadrant of the cyclone, a huge low pressure area moving eastward from the Texas Panhandle.

The weather front brought a heavy dose of fog, rain and sleet to the nation east of the Mississippi River.

Behind it, a cold front closed in, locking the Northern Midwest in an icy chest.

A "baby" tornado played hopscotch across the two West-Central Alabama counties of Pickens and Tuscaloosa, injuring five persons slightly, demolishing 23 homes, smashing a five-room school house and uprooting trees and utility poles.

The funnel of another tornado touched down about 20 miles south of Birmingham, Ala., on the Montgomery Highway to explode the walls of a restaurant shortly after the owner and three customers had fled to its strongly-constructed kitchen for safety.

The destructive winds struck as far south as Mountgomery, where several homes were unroofed. A power failure plunged the city into darkness and left St. Margarete's Hospital without electricity.

Another tornado ploughed across South Macon, Ga., demolishing eight homes and damaging 13 other buildings. Four persons were injured, none seriously.

B. H. Raley, radio dispatcher in the Bib County sheriff's office, said the twister was accompanied by a pounding rain and hailstorm. Power lines and communication facilities were knocked out and a three-mile long strip was littered with debris.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Cork said they saw a tornado's swirling funnel barreling toward their farm County and fled to a storm pit.

They said their home was "knocked to splinters and the storm pit roof blown away."

High winds in the Tuscaloosa, Ala., area, 20 miles southeast of Gordo, snapped off trees and damaged the highway patrol radio tower. East of Gordo, Birmingham Highway between Brooksville and Bucksville was blocked by trees.

Alceville and Carrollton in Pickens County were blanketed out by a power failure.

The heaviest snow of the winter blanketed Kansas and parts of Missouri. The snow covered an area from the Lower Missouri Valley north to the Upper Great Lakes region.

Twelve inches covered Lamoni, Ia., and eight inches were on the ground at Moline, Ill., and Iowa City and Burlington, Ia. Kansas City, Mo., had six inches. The heavy snow, however, brightened prospects for the winter wheat crop.

A severe cold wave knifed down from Canada as the wet weather moved eastward. Bismarck, N.D., was the coldest spot in the nation with 20 below zero.

High winds also struck in parts of Texas along with some snow in the Panhandle region and dust storms in the western area.

Gov't Printing Office Is Rarity; Shows Profit

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS

WASHINGTON (UP)—One of the few government agencies which makes any dough is the Government Printing Office. It makes it from other government agencies.

I had a chat with John J. Deviny, public printer, and his deputy, Philip L. Cole.

They assured me that each year the GPO nets between $1,500,000 to $6,000,000—according to how business is going—and turns it over to the government.

The Treasury collects a lot of money from the taxpayers, but it doesn't actually earn any on its own. The Post Office loses money, so does the Library of Congress, the State Department and the Department of Agriculture, among others.

But in spite of the earning power of the GPO, the taxpayers and the government aren't any wealthier for it's a "paper" transaction.

Deviny explained it like this: Say the Department of Agriculture orders 200,000 copies of a pamphlet on how to plant winter wheat. The thing is edited and printed and the "Board of Governors" decides what charge, if any, is to be made. Maybe it's for free.

So the Government Printing Office bills the Department of Agriculture for the printing, collects a profit here and there.

The GPO has been operating since 1860 and always has "made money"—from other government agencies.

The book store doesn't do much cash retail business. The real business is by mail order. For example, if the people in Agriculture have a hot article about a hot new potato, they let the word get around. People send in. Maybe the pamphlet is for free, but the DOA pays the GPO for the work done and it's all kicked back to the Treasury.

In some cases you might call the biggest printing organization in the world a producer of best sellers.

A quarter of a century ago the office published a booklet for the Children's Bureau called "Infant Care." The bureau paid for the printing.

"Infant Care" went out in a sort of a "we don't care whether it sells" manner. But up to today, the sales total almost 6,000,000 copies. At this moment they still run at the rate of a sale every two minutes the clock around. And the small sum "infant care" winds up eventually in the Treasury, the repository of all government funds.

Last year 38,000,000 publications were distributed through the GPO.

Doctor And His Telephone Retire

NEW YORK — (AP) — Recent retirement of Dr. Charles E. Birch, 88, White Plains physician, after 60 years of service, also retired an old-time telephone.

It had been in use 54 years. It was the old-fashioned wall type known as the "goose-neck" because the transmitter was mounted on an adjustable arm to bring it as close to the mouth of a standing speaker as possible.

The phone had been superseded in 1912 by a more compact device, but the doctor preferred to keep the old one as long as he maintained his office.

New Leader For Anti-Red Fight

SAIGON, Indo-China — (AP) The job of directing the training of thousands of young men who are to be Vietnam's army of the future now rests in the hands of a former intelligence chief for the late Marshal of France, Jean de Lattre de Tassigny.

He is Brig. Gen. Pierre d'Enneval, new chief of the intelligence bureau of the French army under de Lattre. He led the French troops which disembarked in the Provence sector of Southern France in 1944.

WOULD LET KIDS SMOKE — GREENSBORO, Conn. — (UP) — The board of education is sounding out parents on the idea of permitting high school students to smoke on school grounds during stated periods. A member of the board, Leonard S. Clark, said, "In these days when parents permit smoking it makes it impossible for us to prohibit it."

Babies' Names Are Censored By Danish Ministry

COPENHAGEN — (AP) — If you want to pick the name of your baby by your own choosing, don't settle down in Denmark.

Here, any priest may refuse to christen a baby with a name he doesn't like. The parents may take the case to the Ministry of Ecclesiastical Affairs, which usually upholds the priest's decision. The ministry sticks to a 124-year old decree authorizing it to see that no children have "improper" names.

But is a girl's name improper for a boy? This question will be decided in district court here. The parents want to call their boy "Glenite". The ministry considers this a girl's name and has asked that the case be thrown out of court.

Hans up! Reach for the ceiling! What? No, we're not holding you up. We just want you to hold yourself up—develop better carriage, better figure. So hands up, reach for the ceiling, spread your feet apart and bend! Bend to the right and down as far as you can, pointing both hands at your right foot. Straighten up and repeat the operation but toward the left foot. From five to ten of these bends to each side will do wonders for your figure — if you do them every day! Best time is when you first get out of bed in the morning.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS FOR BIDS ON STREET IMPROVEMENTS IN THE TOWN OF FOUNTAIN NORTH CAROLINA

Sealed proposals for construction of Street Improvements in the Town of Fountain, N. C. will be received by the Mayor and Board of Commissioners of the Town of Fountain, North Carolina, at the Town Hall until 11:00 o'clock A.M., EST, on Friday, March 21st, 1952, at which time and place they will be publicly opened and read.

The work contemplated will include approximately:
CONTRACT 1
1,800 lineal feet 30" Curb and Gutter and Valley Gutter, necessary excavation and grading for said construction.
160 ft. 12" concrete pipe
3 catch basins
1 manhole

4,000 sq. yds. sand asphalt pavement 2" thick.
Details and inspection of site can be obtained by contacting the Mayor or members of the Board of Commissioners of the Town of Fountain. Consideration will be given only to bids of contractors who submit evidence showing that they have been licensed under "An Act to Regulate the Practice of General Contracting," ratified by the General Assembly of North Carolina on March 10, 1926, and as subsequently amended.

A performance bond will be required equal to 100 per cent of the contract price, conditioned upon the faithful performance of the contract and upon payment of all persons supplying labor and furnishing materials for the construction of the project.

Each proposal shall be accompanied with a deposit of cash or a certified check on some bank or trust company authorized to do business under the laws of the State of North Carolina in an amount equal to not less than five per cent of the proposal, said check to be made to the Town of Fountain, N. C., as a guarantee that a contract will be entered into with the Town within ten

Stocks And Market Reports

NEW YORK (UP)—Unconfirmed rumors of a steel wage settlement today lifted the stock market in its best gains for industrial shares since last Dec. 27.

Trading also increased substantially. Sales for the first hour totaled 330,000 shares, contrasted with 220,000 shares in the same period yesterday.

Net gains ranged from more than a point in a long list of issues. Some gains ran from 2 to 4 points. All sections joined the rise.

Activity was widely distributed. Best gains centered in the oils where Texas Pacific Land Trust was up 3 1/2 points at 15 1/2 and Amerasia 5 points. Metals turned strong. Steels strengthened. Rails were up nearly a point in their average and utilities made a substantial comeback.

Du Pont rose 2 points to lead the chemicals. Zenith touched a new high in a strong television group. Auto issues firmed. Sears rose a point in the mail orders. American & Foreign Power new stock featured in turnover.

Trading held to a fairly active pace in the second hour with prices holding around their best of the day.

Adopts Captor

Dog Catcher Len Aronica of Buffalo, N. Y., is pleased that one of his former "prisoners" has taken such a liking to him. Rusty, a two-year-old half Collie and half Shepherd, has grown so fond of the SPCA agent that he now wants to learn to drive the SPCA truck (AP Wirephoto).

Farmville . . .

"She is thoroughly familiar with the routine of the office and with the new procedures that have recently been installed here. In addition, she is very economy minded, which I think is a commendable characteristic in government today."

Mrs. Wheelless reported after the board's action yesterday. "Mr. Clark has been a great deal of help to me in explaining the new microfilm system installed here last May, and we plan to continue to use the same system in the future."

Before taking yesterday's action in appointing Mrs. Wheelless as registrar of deeds, the board of commissioners reviewed applications from Luther D. Moore of Greenville, Carson R. Jones of Falkland and B. F. Martin of Bethel. It was the consensus that in view of the proximity of election time, the decision should be left up to the people of the county.

May Run In Primary

"Any of the applicants may run for the office in the May primary," one board member said. "Thus, let the voters of Pitt County decide who shall be registrar of deeds for the next four years."

Mrs. Wheelless' appointment is only through December. She may choose to defend her office in the primary for the full term, or she may decide to step down in December.

Yesterday, when asked if she planned to run for the full term, Mrs. Wheelless replied, "The appointment came as such a surprise and so suddenly that I have hardly had time to think about running for office or anything else."

Two Infants Die In County During Past 24 Hours

Coroner Griffin H. Rouse this morning reported the deaths of two young babies in Pitt County during the last 24 hours.

Yesterday morning in Farmville, Gloria Jane Williams, infant girl, aged two months, was found dead in her bed.

Eight hours later in Bethel, a two-months-old boy, Regina Manning, died. Neither had the care of a doctor, the coroner said.

Rouse announced that death was from natural causes and no inquest will be held in either case. The exact nature of death was not decided, but the coroner stated that both children died of identical causes.

Both mothers said the children had something resembling pneumonia, but whether or not it could have been influenza was not determined.

French Open New Assault Against Vietnam Forces

SAIGON, Indochina — (AP) — French bombers and heavy artillery pounded the Communist-led Vietnam in a strong of fortified villages southeast of Hanoi today. It signaled a new drive to wipe out enemy infiltrators in the Red River delta.

The command said the operation was progressing favorably against one Vietnam division.

South of Hanoi French mobile units continued to pursue fleeing Vietnam units.

The French appear to be gradually widening the scope of their big sweeps in an effort to make the delta secure for the bulk of the French and Vietnamese forces now centered there after the withdrawal from Hao Binh on the Black River.

Egyptian Police Being Freed By British Captors

ISMAILIA, Egypt — (AP) — The British are releasing 800 Egyptian auxiliary policemen captured in the battle here Jan. 25 at the rate of 150 a week. Their arms and ammunition are being held by the British army.

A British military spokesman said all would be freed within two weeks.

Capture of the police in a British siege on police headquarters followed a four-hour fight between British forces and Egyptians here during which an American nun was killed.

The siege and the capture touched off the flaming fire riots in Cairo the next day which were followed by King Farouk's ouster of the Wafdist Party government.

Beauty Arrested For Bad Checks

NEW YORK (UP)—Peggy Ellsworth, 24, Miss Michigan in the 1947 Miss America contest at Atlantic City, N.J., has been arrested on charges of unlawfully possessing and cashing U.S. Treasury checks.

She told federal agents she cashed the checks to obtain heroin.

Miss Ellsworth was arrested in 1950 and again in 1951 as a heroin addict.

The Waalhaven, largest dock basin in the world, is located in Rotterdam, Holland.

City Accountant Becomes Student

SEATTLE, Wash. (UP)—Retired chief city accountant Isaac Comeaux, 69, was listed today as an undergraduate student at the University of Washington. He is studying economics.

"I have a little experience in the practical application of economics but I have always wanted to learn the theory," the veteran of 46 years with the city of Seattle said as he registered yesterday.

Comeaux's experience includes the engineering of a $10,200,000 Reconstruction Finance Corp. loan for refinancing the Seattle Transit System. He also was assistant administrator of the Bonneville Power Administration in 1937-38.

Another Girl Is Tourney Winner

It seems to be a woman's world in kite-flying around the city.

The first girl in the city to receive honors in the art of flying kites was Mary Ruth Higgins, 12-year-old Negro girl, who won in the tournament for Negro children which was held Saturday afternoon at the South Greenville School.

The second girl to receive honors was Lillian Johnson, eight years old, who won over more than 100 boys and girls in the tournament which was held Sunday afternoon for white children in Greenville.

Another winner in the tournament Saturday was also a girl, Margaret Gray, who tied with Lee Roy Wadsworth for second place. Mary Ruth Higgins won by grabbing 30 points in the tournament and the other two winners got 28 points.

More than 185 spectators attended the tournament Saturday to watch 49 contestants bring forth an array of home-made kites to launch into the sky in competition for blue, white, and red ribbons, and special awards.

Recreation Director Warren Carroll said he was pleased with the interest shown in the two kite flying tournaments held Saturday and Sunday and expressed his appreciation to the Jaycees and the Colored Civic League which sponsored the two events.

Negro 4-H Club News

4-H boys and girls of the Haddock 4-H Club join hands in hands with the 2,000,000 club members all over the world in dedicating ourselves to the high ideals for which the 4-H organization stands. The national theme, "Serving As Loyal Citizens Through the 4-H" is our challenge for the year. We are having a special school program Wednesday at which time the school will show in a dramatization putting the Health H to work for Better Living.

We have a membership to day of 48 active club members. The girls are engaged in four different projects namely: flower gardens, clothing, food preparation, craft and home beautification. The boys projects are: pigs, corn, vegetable gardens and home beautification. The girls are now making curtains, scarfs, enlarge pictures, and made mats for home beautification. They have their gardens in shape to plant. Their special school project—beautifying the grounds—has already been started.

We have also organized a 4-H Club Chorus group directed by Mrs. L. Cannon, assistant club teacher leader.

This year we have plans to send delegates to all county, district and state activities.

Officers for this year are: president, Swanson Strong; vice president, Samuel Cox; secretary, Dorothy Brown, and treasurer, Lester Cox.

With the fine cooperation given by our principal, Mr. Charles Anderson and teachers and parents, the spirit manifested by club members, we believe our club will continue to progress.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of my husband, Theodore Roosevelt Moore, who passed away March 4, 1950: Sad and sudden was the call Of the one I loved so dear: A bitter grief, a shock severe, It was to part from one so dear. We think of you night and day, And speak of how you died, To think you could not say good-bye Before you closed your eyes, We did not see you die, And never said good-bye. No one knows the silent heartaches Only those who lost can tell, Of the grief that is borne in silence For the one we loved so well.

Hobby Talk For Greenville Lions

How to build model airplanes and the need for a hobby was the gist of W. R. Bundy's talk last night to the members of the Lions Club.

Bundy said almost everyone needed a hobby during his spare time for relaxation and pleasure. He told about his hobby shop which is visited by boys and men from six to 60 to build airplanes and indulge in a hobby.

Larry Averette reported on the blind activities in the club and announced that an exhibit, "Babe In Manger," would be brought to Greenville during the week of March 9-15. He said proceeds would go to the blind fund of the club and the exhibit would be located at Five Points.

Averette also reported that the club had received permission from the County Commissioners for the club to set up a concession stand, run by a blind person, either in or at the courthouse.

Jimmy Harris, club president, presided over the meeting.

Agree On Joint Defense Program

SEATTLE, Wash. (UP)—Federal Washington state and British Columbia civil defense officials today were agreed on "technical and operational aspects" of cross-border civil defense communications.

Roger E. Dunham, regional director, said conferees meeting here had agreed tentatively to the use of standby amateur radio command channels pending FCC approval of emergency frequency assignments.

A joint Washington state-British Columbia civil defense conference will be held March 15 in Victoria, B.C., to draw up an international operational plan for mutual assistance in event of disaster.
