Await Signs Of New Red Assault

Eighth Army Officers Closely Watch Enemy As Spring Thaw Nears; Communist Guns Shell Lines; Truce Negotiators Continue Inspection Deadlock

8TH ARMY HQ., Korea (UP)— Allied infantry commanders kept close watch today for signs of possible new Communist offensives in Korea as enemy artillery blasted United Nations advanced positions on the eastern front.

6TH ARMY HQ., Korea (UP)— Six Allied F-85 Sabres, outnumbered more than three to one, shot down a Communist MIG-15 jet and damaged another today in a 10-minute air battle over Korea.

More than 2,000 rounds of Communist artillery hit Allied lines yesterday, and troops in the Heartbreak Ridge sector were barraged with Red propaganda leaflets inviting surrender.

Elsewhere on the war front, a Chinese infantry company slashed at U.N. advanced positions west of the Kumhwa-Kumsong road southwest of Kumsong. The Reds were driven off. A delayed report said 15 enemy soldiers were killed in a hand-to-hand combat action west of Chorwon Tuesday.

The spring thaw is almost at hand and conditions are the same as prevailed along the front a year ago when the Reds prepared the million-man offensives that crushed southward in April and May.

This time, however, the Communists have mustered more artillery and air power than ever before.

Meanwhile, three of America's top military commanders in the Pacific met with Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, supreme Allied commander, in Tokyo.

Ridgway conferred at the American Embassy with Adm. Arthur W. Radford, commander of the Pacific Fleet; Lt. Gen. O. P. Weyland, commander of Far East Air Forces; and Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, Far Eastern naval commander and U.N. senior truce delegate.

Maj. Gen. Ernest Moore, U.S. Air Force chief in the Philippines, returned to his Clark Field headquarters today after a five-day visit to Japan.

PANMUNJOM, Korea (UP)— Communist truce negotiators sought today to give Korean truce inspectors, including "neutral" Russians, the right to examine secret Allied weapons and equipment.

United Nations staff officers reported that neutral inspection teams should be able to determine whether new equipment was being brought into Korea during an armistice without making a detailed examination of secret parts of planes, tanks and other weapons.

"If they could get Russian teams down to look at our equipment, that would be highly desirable from their point of view," U.N. Col. Don O. Darrow said after the meeting.

Allied negotiators speculated the truce talks might be headed for a new stalemate over rights and duties of inspection teams.

Red staff officers ceased their propaganda blasts against the U.N. for vetoing Russia as a member of the six-nation inspection commission.

ASSOCIATE INDICTED CHARLOTTE (AP)— A Federal grand jury today indicted Keith M. Beatty of Charlotte, an associate of former Assistant Atty. Gen. T. Lamar Caudle, for attempting to evade payment of federal income taxes.

Justice Itimous Valentine To Address Local Jaycees Tonight

Itimous T. Valentine, associate justice of the North Carolina Supreme Court, will be guest speaker tonight at a dinner meeting of the Greenville Jaycees in the Old Town Inn.

Now 64 years old, Justice Valentine was appointed to the Supreme Court bench to fill a vacancy caused when Justice William A. Devin was elevated in the court on the death of Chief Justice Walter P. Stacy. Justice Valentine will be a candidate to succeed himself in the Democratic Primary May 31.

Prior to his appointment to the Supreme Court, Justice Valentine held many responsible offices in state government. During Gov. J. Melville Broughton's term in office, he was appointed to the State Board of Charities and Public Welfare.

He has served numerous times on the Judicial and Congressional committees of the State Democratic Committee, and more recently he served on the Committee for Improving the Administration of Justice.

'Futuristic' Air Force Bomber Is Undergoing Test

Super-Secret Big Brother Of B-47 May Be Answer To Jet Interceptors

By WILLIAM CHAPMAN United Press Staff Correspondent SEATTLE, Wash. (UP)— Aeronautical engineers tested a futuristic monster of destruction at Boeing Field here today.

The great XB-52, the super-secret big brother to the Air Force's swept-wing B-47, is making almost daily taxi tests on the main runway. And it's too big to hide from curious onlookers.

It is possible to stand along the fence at the civilian side of the field and watch the secret bomber perform to your heart's content.

When the power packed into its eight mammoth jet pods is turned loose, a wave of sound shakes the nearby buildings. The XB-52 sounds like a high-speed projectile coming directly at you—but it never quite arrives.

She starts with a billow of black smoke and flame. Her size deceives you into believing she is lumbering over the concrete runway, but she quickly overtakes two station wagons which race ahead to photograph landing gear reactions.

Then the eerie, threatening whine dies from the air and a huge white parachute pops from the tail to slow her down. The brakes can be heard screaming from a half-mile away like two trucks attempting to avoid a collision.

Without ever getting off the ground, the weight of the monster has broken up the seven-inch thickness of Boeing's runway—a runway which withstood the pounding of B-17s, B-29s, B-50s and B-47s.

The landing gear looks like a truck undercarriage—four giant double wheels supporting the fuselage. Outrigger wheels near the wings support the thin, swept-back, speed-of-sound airfoils. Observers wonder what the impact of landing the huge plane will do to a runway.

There is no good comparison of the size of the XB-52 from a distance. However, even from 600 yards, it holds its own with the giant C-97 Stratofreighter—74-ton double-deck troop and cargo transport. It dwarfs its predecessor, the medium B-47, and towers over four-engine convention commercial transports.

The Air Force hopes the XB-52 will be the long range answer to the jet interceptor. The World War II mainstay, the intruder B-28, has proved dangerously obsolete in Korea—and that, by implication, may mean the still-untested B-36 already is too vulnerable to enemy fighters.

State Highway Commissioner Is Named To Post

RALEIGH (AP)— George D. Richardson, a prominent Raleigh business man, is the new fourth division member of the State Highway Commission succeeding Dr. R. E. Earp.

Richardson, 69, was appointed to the post yesterday by Gov. Scott and was immediately sworn in by Secretary of State Thad Eure. The appointment came within an hour after Dr. Earp tendered his resignation to Scott. The retired Selma surgeon will manage the campaign of gubernatorial candidate Hubert E. Olive.

DeGaullist Split

PARIS (UP)—Members of Gen. Charles de Gaulle's rightist party threatened to rebel against their leaders today, and one deputy quit in protest against a party decision not to back businessman Antoine Pinay for premier of France.

The split developed after leaders of de Gaulle's Rally of the French People decided formally to abstain when the vote on Pinay comes up later today in the National Assembly.

At least 15 de Gaullist deputies were reported ready to bolt the party, charging that failure to back Pinay will be a lack of patriotism at a decisive moment for France.

De Gaullist deputy Robert Montillot resigned from the RPF as soon as the party decision was made public.

Avers France On Brink Of Chaos

Pinay Outlines Program To Assembly; Raps Tax Evaders

PARIS (UP)— Antoine Pinay, bidding for National Assembly support in his attempt to form a new French government, warned today that France is on the brink of chaos.

"Never was the margin between security and chaos so narrow," the 60-year-old right-wing Independent told the Assembly. "We are near the edge, but also near safety and only a slight effort and a healthy policy will be necessary to steer France along the path to safety."

The little-known political veteran said the main factor in France's precarious financial position is the French people's lack of confidence in the state, principally due to the instability of its governments.

Pinay was seeking support from Assembly political factions to try to form the 17th French government since the war. He promised to fight tax dodgers in an effort to raise money to meet a record 1952 budget.

"To avoid paying taxes under the present circumstances is desertion," he said.

Premier Edgar Faure's government fell last Friday when the Assembly refused to approve a 15 per cent tax hike which the radical Socialist premier said was needed to meet high defense and other budget costs.

In outlining his program to the Assembly, Pinay said he proposed to form a government of experts and technicians regardless of party. Most of the Assembly groups were waiting to hear his plan to "save" the franc before deciding whether or not to back him.

Reveal Nominees For Nobel Prize

OSLO, Norway (UP)—A list of 27 nominations for the 1952 Nobel Peace prize, including six Americans, was made public today by the Nobel Committee of the Norwegian Parliament.

The six are: Dr. Frank Buchman, theologian and leader of the Moral Re-orientation movement; Missouri-born Judge Ewing Cockrell; Dr. Raphael Lemkin, who fathered an international genocide treaty; James T. Shotwell, historian; Clarence K. Streit, writer and leader of the Atlantic Union movement; and Giuseppe A. Borgese, legal expert.

The list also included Canadian Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent; Canadian Foreign Minister Lester B. Pearson; Philippine Ambassador Carlos P. Romulo and Dr. Albert Schweitzer, philanthropist and physician.

Four international organizations also were in the list, including the American Society of International Law. None of the nominees, representing 15 countries, was from behind the Iron Curtain.

Heavy Rains Are Damaging Crops; Fields Flooded

Hundreds Of Acres Completely Flooded With Water; Prospects Doubtful

Exceptionally heavy rains in Pitt County over the past two weeks have brought extensive damage to tobacco beds and the young potato crop, with hundreds of acres completely covered with water.

County Farm Agent Sam Winchester reported this morning that several tobacco beds in the Belvoir community have been flooded, and some have lain under water too long to come out. "These cases of flooded beds are more or less isolated and the overall outlook for the 1952 tobacco crop is good," he said.

In Bethel, however, the situation is much more serious. Reports from that area disclosed that from 100 to 200 acres along Grindel Creek are under water. Most of this land is devoted to Irish potato cultivation and has been flooded twice in the last 10 days.

A Bethel spokesman said this morning that the canal flooded after the rains last week, but went down after a short time. Rains over the weekend brought it out again to cover a much larger area, and water had not receded any today.

"Farmers feel that much of the flooded potato crop land may grow out if the water goes down soon and the weather remains cool," a Bethel farmer stated. "However, if the temperature rises and the sun shines hot, most of the land now under water will not be productive this year."

According to reports, farmers along Grindel Creek have been in fear that the creek would flood if heavy rains came. In the last year several new drainage tributaries have been turned into Grindel Creek and it is not large enough to carry the additional water in seasons of heavy rainfall.

The farmers along the creek have been talking about enlarging the canal for months, but nothing has been done about it to date, spokesman said.

United Tanker was described as sort of a subordinate sister to China Trading.

Wasson acknowledged also that China Trading, through the New York shipping agents, Sieling & Jarvis, also operated dry cargo vessels to haul goods to and from Communist China ports during the first six months of the Korean War.

Tar River Now At 15-Foot Level And Still Rising

Tar River continued to rise in the Greenville area today and at noon the stream was at the 15-foot level. Flood stage is the 14-foot level.

James L. Mizelle, local observer for the U. S. Department of Commerce, reported that he had information from Raleigh that the river would reach the 16-foot level by Sunday.

Farmers have removed livestock from river lowlands, it was stated. The crest of the flood in Tar River at Tarboro was expected today. The river will continue to rise at Greenville for 24 hours after the crest reaches Tarboro, Mizelle stated.

The river level has to reach 22 feet here before it floods the Bethel highway.

The normal depth of Tar River at Greenville ranges from four to five feet, the records show.

It's 47 Floors Down

Robert M. Jones, Jr., 24-year-old Negro, perches on the ledge of the 47th floor of Carew Tower, an office building in downtown Cincinnati. He threatened to jump for nearly two hours ignoring the pleas of police and firemen before his father and a priest pulled him to safety. Young Jones, who said he "got troubles" when asked why he wanted to jump, was taken to a hospital for observation. Television stations rushed mobile equipment to the scene and took the scene into homes of thousands of persons. Picture was made by Howard Newman of the Cincinnati Times-Star. (AP Wirephoto).

Shipping Firm's Ethics Denounced

Mundt Cautiously Asails 'Blood Soaked Profits' Of Cargoes To Red China After Start Of Korean War

WASHINGTON (AP)— Testimony that vessels of a New York shipping firm hauled cargoes to Red China after the start of the Korean War brought from Sen. Mundt (R-SD) today a sharp denunciation of such "blood soaked profits."

In stinging language, Mundt told New York attorney Houston H. Wasson that "you violated no law" but that he questioned the "faint hearted ethics" underlying the shipping firm's actions.

Wasson, law partner of government corruption investigator Newbold Morris, was back for the second day before the Senate Investigations subcommittee which is digging into profitable deals in war surplus U. S. ships.

Wasson testified yesterday that he and Morris were lawyers, but not chief counsel, for China Trading and Industrial Development Corp.

He identified this as a Chinese Nationalist firm, but said it delivered oil to Red China almost up to the start of the Korean fighting, and other goods until the war was six months old.

Also involved in the story were two other corporations. One is the China International Foundation, Inc., which Morris heads. This is organized as a non-profit charitable corporation.

Wasson conceded that two tankers owned by the foundation and operated by United Tanker Corp. carried oil to the Chinese Communists under contracts negotiated with Soviet Russian groups just prior to start of the Korean War. United Tanker was described as sort of a subordinate sister to China Trading.

Wrong Man Is Sworn Into Post

LOS ANGELES (UP)—A group of temporary employees reported for duty at the Internal Revenue Office here yesterday. They took the oath of office, filled out forms and had their fingerprints taken in rapid-fire order.

Then they were taken into the mailroom and ordered to take off their coats and get to work.

One young man refused. "All right," the man in charge told him brusquely. "Don't take it off. But get to work."

"I don't know what this is all about," the man protested. "I just came here to get advice on how to prepare my tax return."

17-Year-Old Vet Back In School

PHILADELPHIA (UP)— Seventeen-year-old James Bank's wounded veteran of 109 days of front-line fighting in Korea, went back today to the vocational school classes he left to enlist at the age of 15.

Discharged from the service following three operations for a leg wound, Banks was the first wounded Korean veteran to enroll for vocational training in this area under Public Law 894.

"God was on my side and the people at home were praying for me," the youth said, relating his narrow escape from death.

Rain-Swollen Streams Pouring Over Banks In Eastern Carolina

By The Associated Press Rain-swollen rivers poured over the banks in the coastal plains sections of the Carolinas today, threatening some low-lying farmlands with major damage.

Meanwhile, the weather bureau predicted fair skies tonight and only partly cloudy skies tomorrow. That should give the already flooding rivers time to take care of the excess water resulting from torrential rains in the mountains and Piedmont section early this week.

The Cape Fear River in North Carolina apparently was causing the biggest threat to farmlands. It reached a height of 51.9 feet, about 16 feet above flood stage, at Fayetteville early today, overflowing its banks at Breech's Landing, a recreational center of the city. But no major damage resulted.

However, fear was expressed for farmlands between Fayetteville and Elizabethtown where the Cape Fear's banks are not so steep as they are at Fayetteville.

In South Carolina, weather observers predicted "moderate to heavy overflows" of the state's principal rivers. They reported that all streams have crested up river. The Congaree was cresting at 23 feet, four feet above flood stage, in Columbia today. The Wateree crested at 31 feet, eight feet above flood stage, at Camden last night. The Broad was 11 feet above flood stage at Blair.

The heavy rains, totaling more than four inches in some areas, did extensive damage to secondary roads in the Piedmont section. Officials at Spartanburg reported last night that at least six bridges have been closed on county roads. A 50-foot span over the Tyger river was washed away.

The Neuse River was at 21.6 feet at Smithfield, N. C., today, about one and one-half feet in flood. It was expected to rise about a foot more. The Tar River at Rocky Mount was at 10 feet, one foot in flood.

Mundt Cautiously Asails 'Blood Soaked Profits' Of Cargoes To Red China After Start Of Korean War

WASHINGTON (UP)— President Truman today gave Congress four reasons for his foreign aid program:

"First, the plain fact is that we cannot achieve lasting security for ourselves except in association with other nations.

"Second, the funds provided by the United States under the mutual security program are essential to the success of the common efforts we are making with other free nations for peace.

"Third, the funds thus invested by the United States will yield far larger returns, in terms of our own security, than if the same amount were used for our own defense establishment.

"Fourth, the cost of the mutual security program, together with the much larger costs of our military services and other defense measures, are well within our economic capacity."

General's Diary In Soviet Hands

WASHINGTON (AP)— Paris of a diary by the former military attache to the American Embassy in Moscow have been obtained by the Communists, a U. S. Army spokesman disclosed today.

Brig. Gen. Frank Dorn, deputy chief of information, said Iron Curtain sources have been circulating extracts from the diary as part of their propaganda drive against the U. S.

He said the Army is investigating to find out how the Reds got extracts from the diary.

Maj. Gen. Robert W. Grow, its author, was reassigned to duty in Washington in January when the Army found out about the extracts, Dorn said.

In a copyrighted story in the Washington Post, staff photo-stats of the extracts are reproduced in a book recently published in Communist-controlled East Germany. It said the book is "aimed at convincing Germans that America is a 'war-monger'."

The Post said the book quoted one note in the diary as declaring:

"Although the military services are primarily concerned with military weapons and methods, we must understand that this is a total war and is fought with all weapons.

"We must learn that in this war it is fair to hit below the belt." Dorn confirmed the Post's report that extracts from the diary have appeared in book form and in other Communist publications. He said he did not know whether the diary contained secrets vital to U. S. security.

REP. COOLEY FILES RALEIGH (UP)—Rep. Harold D. Cooley (D-NC) of Nashville filed for re-election today in the Fourth Congressional District race.

American Officer To Head Greek Forces Of NATO

ATHENS (AP)— Greek sources reported today Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower has agreed that only an American officer will command Greek armies assigned to North Atlantic Treaty (NATO) forces.

This tentative agreement was reported after the NATO supreme commander conferred at length with Lt. Gen. Theodore Grigoriopoulos, chief of the Greek national defense staff.

Tomorrow Eisenhower is scheduled to fly to Rome for a conference with Italian generals who had insisted that Lt. Gen. Marzio Castiglione, Allied land force commander in NATO's Southern command, should command all land forces in the area regardless of nationality.

The Greeks insisted it would be embarrassing to submit Greek troops to the command of an Italian general because they defeated the Italian invasion attempt in the last war.

This ticklish command question was debated at last month's NATO council meeting in Lisbon. The council decided to leave all the details of fitting Greek and Turkish forces into NATO up to Eisenhower.

Another touchy problem facing Eisenhower in Greece is the lack of money to maintain present Greek military strength.

The Greek staff reportedly told Eisenhower today the cost of keeping 10 divisions ready for combat plus the price of expanding naval and air forces is a punishing burden.

Miss Stokes Presents Program Before Book Lovers Club

AYDEN—Mrs. Jack Quinerly was hostess to the Book Lovers Club at her home on West Second St. Mrs. P. R. Taylor, president, opened the meeting and routine business was transacted. At roll call new words, current events and other interesting subjects were discussed.

Mrs. J. H. Coward, program chairman, presented Miss Clyde Stokes who gave a most interesting talk, in her own inimitable manner. She first took as her subject, "The Most Powerful Woman Alive," namely Eva Peron, wife of the dictator president of Argentina. Miss Stokes stated that Eva Peron controls every source of power in Argentina except the military. This woman's merciless persecution of former influential people of that country and her wholesale extravaganzas with government moneys had almost wrecked the republic of Argentina, said Miss Stokes. The second topic presented by the speaker had to do with Alaska. She reviewed an article prepared by Murray Morgan entitled "Baby It's Cold Up Here." The sum of this article was the result of an experiment made by Army men at their Delta Army Base in Alaska. The effects of cold on men and materials or subject matter was indeed a revelation to the lay mind. This will be of inestimable value to men of all areas of warfare or scientific explorations, stated Miss Stokes.

During the social hour the hostess assisted in serving by Mrs. G. G. Dixon. Tea, sandwiches, nuts and individual cakes were served. Guests present were: Mesdames Herman McLawhorn, S. F. Noble and Mrs. M. T. Frizelle and Misses Estelle McCles and Helen Dixon. Members attending were Misses Elizabeth Johnson, Lena Dawson, Clyde Stokes, Mesdames May Bure, J. F. Coward, G. G. Dixon, P. In the meantime tenants of the Proctor Bros. offices and stores in Greenville have been notified to clear the premises by the first of April. This in itself is a good indication that building activities will soon commence.

The plane had returned from a routine training flight that began yesterday. It was on the landing roll when the left side blazed.

All young adults who are interested in joining the class are invited to attend the supper, which will be held in the Fellowship Hall of the Educational Building on Friday night.

The class has been recommended by the Board of Christian Education and Miss Denny Lee Bryson, religious education director, has been instrumental in issuing invitations to all in the age group who might be interested.

Snow Sculpture Put Into Marble

BRATTLEBORO, Vt. — (UP) — On New Year's Eve in 1886, a 21-year-old Brattleboro youth sculptured what he called "The Recording Angel" in snow at Linden and Main streets here.

Rain and snow preserved the iced statue for days and word of the novel creation spread through the east. Newspaper reporters came here from Boston and other cities to view it, and James Russell Lowell immortalized it in his poem, "A Good Word for Winter."

The unknown youth who made the statue was to become nationally famous in later years as Larkin Mead, the sculptor. Subsequently he did several replicas in marble of his original snow masterpiece.

Cite 'Errors' In Red Textbooks

MOSCOW — (AP) — The Ministry of Higher Education has been singled out for not taking effective measures to correct some "serious errors" in the important textbook, "History of the Soviet State and Law."

Calling for an improvement of the higher education in law, Ivestia said in a leading editorial: "The Ministry of Higher Education does not delve deeply into the content of the academic, educational and scientific work of the higher law institutes." Ivestia warned that quite a long time has elapsed since these errors were revealed.

The self-styled "human orchid" will make his first campaign speech at the San Francisco Sports, Travel and Boat Show at Civic Auditorium from the same stage on which James Cox and Franklin D. Roosevelt were nominated as Democratic candidates in 1920.

Gorgeous promised to disclose the "reforms" he intends to effect if he is elected president.

In Doubt As To Picture Motives

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UP) — Herman Winkelman was inclined to doubt the motives of "inquiring reporters" today.

Winkelman's picture appeared in the Minneapolis Tribune's "Inquiring Reporter" column. His former wife, Ann, saw the picture and sent the police after him on charges of non-support.

Police arrested Winkelman after an investigation and his present wife Florence, seconded the first wife's non-support charge with a similar one.

Bonner Introduces Bill On Federal Purchasing

WASHINGTON — Herbert C. Bonner, Democrat, North Carolina, today introduced a bill in the House of Representatives to correct what he termed "glaring deficiencies in the buying practices of the Federal Government." Mr. Bonner said the bill is the result of careful study by his subcommittee of the House Expenditures Committee and that other legislative measures will be introduced during this session of the Congress.

Mr. Bonner pointed out that his bill is designed to tighten up certain lax provisions in existing procurement laws which enable Government buyers to virtually ignore the objective of competition through advertising of bids. Subcommittee investigations have indicated that open negotiation has greatly overshadowed the competitive advertising procedure which the law mainly intended.

"The second aspect of the bill," said Bonner, "is to make some horse sense in the number of bids that are sent out when the Government is buying supplies." The Subcommittee found that some agencies send out hundreds of bids when only a few dollars worth of supplies are required. The same number of bids are sent out when a million dollars worth of supplies are required. Bonner said that circularization of bids should bear a reasonable relationship to the volume of the order and that "we should not pay more for administrative costs than the supplies are worth."

The third purpose of the bill is to give the Armed Services Procurement Regulations Conference (the now famous "Asper") a home in the Pentagon and make it responsible to the Secretary of Defense. The conference makes procurement regulations for the military services; however, the members of the conference report to the individual secretaries and not to the Secretary of Defense or to the Munitions Board as they should under the Unification Act. For this reason the authorities now vested in individual secretaries will be transferred to the Secretary of Defense. This, according to Bonner, is in conformity with the Hoover Commission recommendations to make the Secretaries of the departments responsible for the actions of the units under their jurisdiction.

Strength for the Day

CONCERNING THE SWEETS OF LIFE
A little boy complained to me recently that two things try his soul about the candy situation.

As I listened to his complaint I could not help but feel that the longer he lives the more will he find that that is the nature of most of life's sweets.

And to make such an observation on life is not an attempt to be cynical. It is an attempt rather to be realistic. Sweets have their place in life as they have in the diet list, but their limited nature as food, both for soul and body, should be recognized.

We will enjoy all the sweets of life better if we recognize their limited utility and know that they are best enjoyed when they top off a meal of more substantial food.

Tobacco Economy Needs Stability; Not Uncertainty

The change in time for voting on tobacco allotment referendums as provided by Congress in recent legislation poses a serious question to tobacco farmers all over this area and particularly to Pitt County.

The future welfare of tobacco is of utmost importance to every person who lives in Pitt County. If there is an off year on the tobacco market, everybody suffers—not for just the one year, but usually for several years.

The people in the county and the farmers particularly need to do everything possible to support the projects which will add stability rather than weaken the tobacco economy which is so important to this section.

The North Carolina Farm Bureau and the State Grange both have asserted their opposition to the recent legislation which would require that an allotment referendum could not be held in the scheduled years until after farmers had officially been notified of their acreage allotments for the forthcoming years.

If the new action is carried through, it will mean that one year in every three, the tobacco auction markets would open with the farmers and the tobacco purchasers not knowing what quantity of tobacco to expect from the crop the following year.

The purchaser would be inclined to steer away from heavy buying—which would mean firm prices—if they felt there was a possibility that no acreage control for the crop would be forthcoming for the following season.

As it now stands when the market opens each year, the farmers and the tobacco companies alike know whether tobacco acreage will or will not be controlled the following season. With that knowledge they can judge with a fair degree of accuracy what quantity of tobacco will be available on the market the following seasons.

It is the considered opinion of The Reflector that a continuation of the practice of holding the referendums in the spring would be to the best interest of the tobacco growers and the tobacco industry generally.

Mere Excuses Can't Win, Or Save Lives

Day after day we read of American pilots daring odds of two and three to one, fighting back swarms of enemy planes... keeping them well back from where they can harass ground troops in Korea.

bravery, skill and devotion to duty of the outnumbered airmen is beyond our mere words of praise.

To us it is heartbreaking to read a Sabrejet wing commander's plea for more planes. And it is with more than the usual "we view with alarm," that we regard this aspect of the struggle in Korea.

There is no reason, no excuse for America's fighting men ever meeting an enemy without possessing superiority in quantity and quality in all forms of tools for war. This country can produce them; this country can deliver them, to any part of the globe.

The point is: it wasn't done. Almost anybody can come up with some reasons as to why it "couldn't" be done... but that isn't good enough for a young man who is pitted day after day against odds that are stacked against his life.

Adding to the already fantastic conditions under which men of the Eighth Army are laboring, is a report from a newsman who says it is now estimated that the Eighth is facing more enemy artillery than our boys have.

Korea is America's front line of defense, and it's a fighting front. The unfolding story of the Korean war and "truce negotiations" isn't going to leave The Reflector's front pages until the whole affair is settled to the satisfaction of Americans who have sacrificed so much in a war that isn't a war; a war that can't be won under ground rules laid down by our own leaders; a war of defense against an enemy whose ultimate target is America.

In nearly all of our past conflicts Americans went into battle with the impediment of initial shortages in arms and equipment. Heroes emerged in those hectic days; many of them giving their lives, to supplant with courage, the lacking tools of war. There's no reason for raising the toll of dead heroes in Korea on this count.

We want live heroes.

National Whirligig

WASHINGTON—The Russell-for-President movement, which represents southern Democrats' only open and widespread revolt since 1860, first assumed serious and definite form here after the mid-January dinner of the famed Alfalfa Club, a convivial organization of politicians, military officers, business men etc.

It is not enough to get rid of Truman. We must give warning that this new found and new fangled Democratic party can no longer take the South for granted, no matter how its nominee and platform violate our beliefs.

"We must become as effective in politics as we are in Congress! Let's translate our words into action! And this is the only way we can do it!"

TRIBUTE—Governor Byrnes and Senator Russell at first suggested that Senator Byrd assume the honor of heading the South's first major break with the party's temporary rules in almost 100 years.

It was a fitting tribute to the Virginian because, even before Messrs. Byrnes and Russell began to voice concern over the Truman-Roosevelt Administration's "socialistic" and "extravagant" tendencies, he had spoken out on and off the Senate floor. He first raised the flag of confederacy in an address at Atlanta last year, and again at Selma, Ala.

Mr. Byrd declined for practical, political reasons. He has been denounced by labor as violently as Senator Taft. AFL-CIO publications refer so frequently to "Byrd-Taft reactionaries" that the label has stuck. President Truman picked up this refrain when he said that "there are too many B-Y-R-D's in the Senate."

APPEAL—Moreover, as a distinguished Virginian from the state of Robert E. Lee, Mr. Byrd has become known as a "sectionalist." It was agreed by the trio that he would not have as great an appeal to the "deep South," and possibly to voters in Maryland, Kentucky, Tennessee, Oklahoma and Texas, as Senator Russell.

The tall, handsome Georgian, despite his great ability, is a modest and unassuming man. He shuns headlines, to the chagrin of Georgia newspaper correspondents at the Capital. He was not too keen for the honor. But there are considerations—practical, political considerations—which led him to accept the Byrnes-Byrd proposal.

JEFFERSONIAN—Senator Russell is a bachelor, only 55 years old, and much younger and harder than his Alfalfa Club advisers. He can stand the strain of a tough campaign grind, and he will probably carry his fight to several areas outside the South.

His general, all-around ability as a legislator and statesman—as chairman of the Armed Services Committee, he presided over hearings on the MacArthur recall with eminent skill and fairness—is recognized by his colleagues in both bodies of Congress.

He is no demagogue, no sectionalist, no racist, no rabble-rouser, no holder of outworn prejudices. His states' rights philosophy has Jeffersonian roots; it is not mired in the swampy everglades of racial hatreds. His record as Speaker of the Georgia Assembly and Governor of that state bears witness to his attitude on this issue.

ASSETS—Should a three-cornered election be thrown into the House for decision as a result of the Russell entry, he will have many assets in such a legislative contest.

Get Rid Of The Rooster—

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

Since I try to sell for a living, I like to say that it's a profession, not an occupation, that takes a great deal of talent. A fair salesman can get by without much on the ball, but to make good it takes a thorough knowledge of the product, coupled with an understanding of human nature.

The salesman in today's story sells junior encyclopedias. As far as I know he's still selling them, despite the experience this story will relate.

Without another word the salesman folded up his sales kit and walked down the street. The world is full of people that salesman call prospects that specialize in getting a salesman's goat, and never intend to buy the first item. There should be some way for a salesman to be protected against these people.

purported to commit him. His resentment is understandable. He can still speak for himself. So far as your reporter knows Hubert Olive had not said anything about it, but some of his supporters did not appreciate Governor Scott's press conference statement that Olive had agreed to go along with the Scott program — and had suggested no ideas of his own.

Of all the salesmen in the world, encyclopedia salesmen are among the most persistent. They are trained to memorize sales talks to combat almost any rebuttal the prospect can give.

SUPPORT — William Umstead and Hubert Olive both want all the support and all the votes they can get in their current contest for governorship. At the same time, some Olive supporters make no bones of their desire that Governor Scott would be less talkative about expecting "his team to stand by his own choice for governor; and the embarrasment that neither would have less talk about "the same folks who elected Willis Smith are going to elect Bill Umstead."

Today there are machines with the muscle of 1,000 men. There are machines with a more delicate touch than man. There are machines that can see through fog that baffles his eyes, hear sounds too soft to stir his dull ears, machines that can travel where he can't and think ten times as quickly as his slow mind — with less error.

IMMUNITY — That sort of competition is recognized as hard to meet but is regarded as legitimate by the colleges which cannot offer the same facilities. That is the paramount of Reserve Officer Training Corps (ROTC) units as a sort of insurance policy against being called into active military service. Your reporter was told the other day about an instance when half a dozen college representatives appeared at one high school, and the official spokesman for one of them boldly stated that "we haven't lost an ROTC enrollee to the fighting forces yet."

CONFLICTS — With so many things going on all the time and so much demand upon the time of people who are responsible for doing these things, it is impossible to avoid conflicts. There has been some criticism, for instance, of Everett Jordan, chairman of the State Democratic Committee, calling a meeting of that group on Friday afternoon of this week — March 7 — because there will be a big basketball game in Raleigh that night.

No machine so far has developed a bad conscience or a sense of guilt, but some of the more intricate mechanisms, when frustrated in their normal operation, have developed symptoms corresponding to a nervous breakdown in people.

It is about time the Democratic Party purged itself of those who parade under its banner at election time and bed up with the Republicans just about all the remainder of the time.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

There is no reason why the Democratic Party of North Carolina cannot join with the Democratic Parties of other Southern states in refusing to support the Fair Deal nominees in 1952, some of the undermining literature pumped out by the committee, reads.

Quite a little chlorophyll boom we're having.
Because the substance, the "green" of plant life, has deodorizing and other properties, it has recently been added to chewing gum, tooth paste, mouth washes, breath-sweetening tablets, ointments, soaps and dog foods.

stances. That is the industry's answer to critics' question "why do goats that eat so much green vegetation amble?" The stomach, human or ruminant, extracts very little chlorophyll from greens. It is not as efficient as a scientific extraction process.

A new chlorophyll shampoo, Clo, is being market-tested in Florida and a cigaret, Falstaff, containing the substance is being market-tested in New York. An upset-stomach remedy containing chlorophyll is also being tested in Fort Wayne. If these prove popular, they will be introduced nationally.

One thing that bothers the industry is farmers' use of insect and disease sprays. The sprays can make the extract toxic. So raw materials are bought only from unsprayed acres and both processes and users test constantly for purity, so don't worry.

Experiments are under way in using chlorophyll in treating inflammations, ulcers sinus conditions, trench mouth, wounds and burns. There are indications that it helps wounds heal faster and with less scar tissue.

Chlorophyll HAS A LONG HISTORY
The deodorant properties of chlorophyll are not new discoveries. Sir Joseph Priestly published a paper in Philadelphia in 1772 to prove that vegetation restored air fouled by burning candles. Around 1850, a Frenchman named Verdell surmised that chlorophyll was similar to hemoglobin in the blood and in 1913 a German named Willstatter proved it. Since then the effects of chlorophyll have been used experimentally in increasing metabolism, stimulating tissue growth and in treating anemia and arteriosclerosis.

And a lot more manufacturers are trying to find out if adding the green stuff to their products will improve sales. All this has multiplied demand for chlorophyll and the three large companies producing it are stepping up production. Under pressure of demand, the price has risen three times in the last year, but it is still below ceilings of $108 to $115 a pound for pure chlorophyll.

Just what makes chlorophyll effective in all these things is still pretty much of a mystery. It does not attack bacteria directly, but they don't seem to thrive in it. It is harmless to tissue, and hence can be given in large doses. Chlorophyll tablets have been marketed in England for twenty years, but as a medicament and not as a breath deodorant. And it has long been used as a coloring agent in industry as well as foods.

Hal Boyle's Column

NEW YORK — (AP) — Some pessimists believe that as man builds better and better machines he himself gets worse and worse.

That will signal the end of the age of man and the dawn of the true machine age. For men are so dependent upon machines they must do what the machines decide. It's a machine-world.

Men have depended upon the machine since the first man leaped his weight on the first lever — probably a stick used to lift aside a stone. Over the centuries man has helped his lot in life by making more and more complicated machinery. But he himself has failed to match the machine's ability to progress and grow. He is pretty much the same arrogant, vain bundle of hypocrisy he always was.

Men will go on dying in time like cattle, as they always have, but the machines will live happily ever after, blissfully composing lyrics for the music of the spheres and contentedly purring out the endless mathematical equations of eternity.

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS
WASHINGTON — Many a Capital hostess gets credit for giving the perfect party when it's really Ann Richards Taylor who turns the magic. Miss Taylor operates a catering shop and epicure's mart in a picturesque "hole in the wall" in the Georgetown section. It is known to fashionable Washingtonians simply as "Ann's Kitchen."

Catering was not a bee in Miss Taylor's bonnet when she first came to the Capital from Philadelphia in 1942. "I had a taste in politics and economics at Bryn Mawr," she told me, "and I came to town as a war migrant, to serve as an economist on Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson's staff."

After the war she got the idea of starting a catering service. "The supply of servants had dwindled, but people would still want to entertain," she reasoned. "In Washington, entertaining is the thing they have to do. It's not only a part of their life, but a part of their job."

She soon found that a great many people wanted the kind of service she could offer — the marketing and planning, the providing of foods and servants, the "serving up of a good dinner with an air."

Ann's Kitchen does the catering for dinners given by numerous prominent government officials, diplomatic representatives, military brass and young couples just moved to town. "Who want to get off to a good start and make an impression." She also caters for weddings, picnics and office parties.

"I have to cater to all kinds of international tastes, but most foreigners, entertaining for visitors from their own country, wish a typically American meal," she said. One of these, served to a French hostess, included crab meat in cockle shells with a sherry cream sauce, Smithfield ham, creamed potatoes, cole slaw, made from a family recipe and thickened with a sour cream, egg and vinegar dressing, creamed spinach, a salad, corn bread crisp with pieces of bacon, and great mounds of Bavarian cream with strawberries.

Just as a machine's power is greater than man's, so will its moral fiber be sturdier, once it appears. The built-in logic of machines and their developing social consciousness will force them to rebel against mankind's ancient follies. They will go on strike against him, holding to their own pattern of righteousness with precision firmness.

Some robot plans will be sent up to shoot down an enemy robot plane. But Roscoe, the electric pilot, will say: "Why should I knock my machine out?"

Should be wasteful and unnecessary for us. Machines could live and function forever if left in peace. Our parts are all replaceable. Just as a machine's power is greater than man's, so will its moral fiber be sturdier, once it appears. The built-in logic of machines and their developing social consciousness will force them to rebel against mankind's ancient follies. They will go on strike against him, holding to their own pattern of righteousness with precision firmness.

Some robot plans will be sent up to shoot down an enemy robot plane. But Roscoe, the electric pilot, will say: "Why should I knock my machine out?"

Traveling Workshop In Home Ec This Summer

As a special attraction of the summer school program in home economics at East Carolina College, a traveling workshop in textiles, home furnishings and crafts will be offered July 14-25. The hour and study course is offered this year for the first time at East Carolina.

Dr. Beattie McNeil, director of the home economics department here, has announced plans for visits by bus to manufacturing and crafts centers in North Carolina and Virginia and for lectures and recreational events included in the course.

Learning textiles, home furnishings, and crafts by first-hand observation is the purpose back of the workshop, says Dr. McNeil. Traveling by chartered bus, students will go to Danville, Va., through Piedmont North Carolina; and as far west as Asheville. Lectures by authorities in the fields of study will be given on the campus July 14, and an evaluation will be made after students return to East Carolina.

Places on the itinerary include the Cone Corduroy Mills; the Dan River Cotton Mills; Fieldcrest's carpet, rayon, blanket, bedspread.

Titanium Ore In Canada Is Found

STE. MARGUERITE DE TERREBONNE, Que. — (UP) — The Terrebonne Titanium Co. is waiting for the spring thaw to start work on an almost unlimited reserve of war-vital titanium-iron ore deposits only 55 miles from the nation's largest city.

"We already own or have staked 4,000 acres of land containing an ore which we believe is the second greatest deposit in Quebec," Rosario Frigon, company engineer, said. Tests from samples collected from the surface to depths of 250 and 450 feet contained an average of 17.1 per cent titanium oxide and 24 per cent iron, Frigon said. The Terrebonne company plans to concentrate the ore here, building plants costing about $3,000,000.

Group To Attend National Session

Seven student members of the Sigma Pi Alpha foreign languages fraternity at East Carolina College will attend the Twenty-first National Congress of the organization at Atlantic Christian College, Saturday, March 8. The East Carolina delegates will represent the Phi Sigma Chapter at the college here.

Mrs. Marguerite A. Perry of the East Carolina foreign languages department; Ralph C. Deal of Greenville, formerly head of the department; and Robert Lee Humber of Greenville have received invitations to attend a meeting of the national roster of the fraternity Saturday morning to the library at Atlantic Christian College. The roster is made up of outstanding teachers of French and past presidents of the national fraternity.

Mrs. Perry will give at an afternoon business session the response to the address of welcome to delegates. The East Carolina Phi Sigma Chapter last year acted as host when the National Congress held its twenty-first annual meeting on the campus here. Delegates who will attend the Congress this year in Wilson are Priscilla Hynson, Washington; Evelyn Littleton, Jacksonville; Julianne ... none; Burgaw; Ed. Massad; B. ... La Rue McKinney, Scranton; Hattie Lee McPhail Rowland; and mes A. Williams, Bailey, James L. Fleming, director of the college foreign languages department, will also attend.

Diet Experiment Fun For Kids

VANCOUVER, Wash. — (AP) — The small fry should have lots of fun at school soon, with dentists starting to feed the rats again. It's part of the Clark County Dental Society's "good teeth" program. The experiments will be carried out in 10 elementary schools, Dr. Raymond Campbell, president, explained. They will run for two months, during which time pupils will weigh each gram of food the rats eat and keep charts on the results.

"It's the best way we've found to show children the value of a well-balanced diet, as opposed to one containing lots of sweets and little or no milk," Dr. Campbell said. Military dogs were used by all combatants in World War I except the United States.

Lions Licensed For Solicitation

The Greenville Lion's club was among 13 organizations in the state which were licensed in February by the State Board of Public Welfare to conduct fund-raising campaigns through public solicitations.

Seven of the organizations were re-licensed in accordance with the State Solicitation Law and the licenses of two other organizations were amended to permit a change in the method of solicitation and an increase in the amount of funds sought. Four organizations received licenses to solicit for the first time.

The total amount which the 13 organizations will seek for the public at large in North Carolina is $499,291.00.

It was also announced by Dr. Ellen Winston, Commissioner, that during the month of February the American Relief for Korea of New York City, the Christian Children's Fund at Richmond, Virginia, and the Southern Orphan's Home allegedly at Florence, South Carolina, solicited citizens of this state. The State Board of Public Welfare pointed out that such solicitations are in violation of the State Solicitation Law since the three organizations are not licensed in accordance with the State Statute.

Even Detectives Wept At Sight

ROSLYN HEIGHTS, N.Y. (UP) — Detectives cried when they saw the bodies of three small children hanging from cowboy belts fastened to a four-poster bed, a police official said today.

Investigators said the children were killed late yesterday by their young mother who then climbed up to her attic and hanged herself above a clutter of dolls, toy trains and teddy bears.

Mrs. Frank J. Klemm, 30, left two suicide notes, but police declined to discuss their contents. Mrs. Klemm's husband, who returned home from work after the triple murder and suicide had been committed, said she had been despondent.

Detective Robert Rofheart said each child was hanged from a different post on the bed.

Toy gun holsters still were attached to the brightly-studded cowboy belts which Mrs. Klemm had fashioned into nooses, the detective said.

Rofheart said Mrs. Klemm probably hanged her 13-month-old daughter, Margaret, first. Her body dangled from one of the posts at the head of the bed.

She got the four-year old boy, Richard, in the room next and hanged him from a bedpost at the foot of the bed," he said. Six-year-old Frank Jr., was hanged from the other post at the foot of the bed.

Rofheart said there was no sign of a struggle in the bedroom, indicating that the children's trust in their mother kept them from resisting her.

Rofheart said the attic where Mrs. Klemm's body was found had been a playroom for the children. Mrs. Klemm also used a cowboy belt as a noose to hang herself. A neighbor who thought the children were ill because she had not seen them all day found the bodies. She ran screaming from the Klemm house and notified other neighbors who called police.

Up until Victorian times "the language of flowers" was much studied as a means to convey sentiments by symbolic interpretations of gifts of different types of flowers — the interpretations being known to both giver and recipient.

1952 National 4-H Club Week What It Is

National 4-H Club Week is the most important 4-H event of the year. Locally it is the week when all 4-H members take stock of what may be needed for the successful completion of their 4-H goals, so essential in the building of sturdy character.

This week is truly the most important 4-H event of the year. It is a week to exchange ideas and to inform parents and leaders regarding their new program for the year. Our national theme for this year is "Serving As Loyal Citizens Through 4-H." We as the Junior and senior 4-H Club members chose for our 4-H slogan, "4-H members lead that others may do and serve."

During the Summer of 1951

During the summer months our club took an active part in the various 4-H Club activities of the county and State. Mattie Monk, David Henderson and Calvin Henderson attended the 4-H District Meeting in Weldon, N.C. during June.

The third Sunday in June 1951, the members of our club participated in the 4-H Church services which was held at Sycamore Hill Baptist Church, Greenville. Those present from our club were David Henderson, John Bryant, Shirley Bush, Mattie Monk, Virginia Bush and James R. Mobley.

On July 23, 1951 Shirley Bush attended the 4-H Short Course at A. & T. College, Greensboro. She took an active part in the programs and different activities during the week. David Henderson attended the Wildlife Camp at Camp Whispering Pine during the summer. He also took part in the activities and program which lasted one week.

Our Club Activities

The Winterville 4-H Club started the school year off with a bang! In our first meeting our officers elected are as follows:

President, David Henderson; secretary, Ann Robbins; assistant secretary, Shirley Bush; treasurer, Jessie Patrick; and song leaders, Virginia Bush and Jessie C. Edwards.

During the school year we have enrolled 87 members. The greater per cent have gardening as their project. Then came 4-H Achievement Day in November. The Achievement Day program was held at the City Armory in Greenville. The members of our club attended in large numbers. Mattie Monk, president of the county 4-H council, acted as mistress of ceremony. The guest speaker was introduced by David Henderson, president of the Winterville Senior 4-H Club. We had as guest speaker, Dr. E. L. Triggs, president of St. Augustine College, Raleigh. The 4-H hymn was sung by Shirley and Virginia Bush. Awards were given to the following:

County Achievement Champion, David Henderson; leadership, Mattie Monk, and Gardening, Jessie Patrick.

The Winterville 4-H Club received the Senior Club Plaque for the third time in three consecutive years. The plaque was awarded for excelling in church and community activities, radio programs and safety programs in the school and county. We are now doing many interesting projects which include beautification of our school campus. We are making plans to participate in the 4-H Club Coronation which will be held in May.

Secretary Has 48 Telephones

ALL ALONE BY THE TELEPHONES . . . Eula V. Ray of Chicago has 48 to keep track of each day.

By EDWARD S. KITCH

AP Newsfeatures

CHICAGO — Miss Eula V. Ray is a bachelor girl waiting for a call on 48 telephones.

Each of the telephones on her desk gives a different ring or buzz. Miss Ray has trained herself to recognize the individual signals in conducting her secretarial business. Among her clients are lawyers, decorators, accountants, business machine repairmen and salesmen.

Miss Ray says she started her super-secretarial service in 1938 when, due to the slack times, secretarial work was scarce. A former employer then suggested she start her own service by telephone.

"So I decided to take a gamble for six months," she said. "I began with one telephone and a desk. After the six months were up, they broke out a wall to give me more office space."

How she keeps tab on 48 telephones, her clients and their customers is a marvel even to her clients. She keeps inventory records, order sheets and catalogs at hand for a few of them. Customers can order goods by telephone and pay by mail. Miss Ray often handles the invoices and deposits checks at the bank when clients are out of town.

The secretarial telephones are connected to the same lines of the clients'. After the third ring, she answers by repeating the number and client's name. If a phone does not ring for a period of time, she checks to see if it is operating correctly.

Professional men find they can conduct business although they are away from the office on business or vacation. Miss Ray now is taking calls for an architect who is spending his vacation in Florida. The architect calls her once a week to learn who has called him.

Can Throw Pies At Professors In Polio Drive

NORMAN, Okla. — (UP) — University of Oklahoma students threw pies at their professors and the university's president, George L. Cross, washed dishes in a sorority house here but all in good cause.

The events took place as part of an O.U. carnival to raise money for the March of Dimes. It was a $913 success.

Cross and several other university officials and educators auctioned their services to students at a public sale. The dignified doctor brought a high bid of $103.10 for some brief service in the sorority kitchen.

The most popular part of the program was a pie-throwing booth at which students could use Paul MacMinn, dean of students, and a lot of professors as targets.

Survey Discloses 'Average House' Of Recent Years

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS

United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Bureau of Labor Statistics has completed a survey of the average American house built in the last couple of years. And I guess I live in one.

No garage, the basement and attic unfinished, and the medicine cabinet large enough to hold only cosmetics, bobby pins, and toothpaste. Leave mere man's shaving gear to rest on the floor or some other inconvenient spot.

The BLS survey covered 83,825 homes started after Korea in Boston, Cleveland, Chicago, Washington, Atlanta, San Francisco, and Seattle.

By towns the survey showed this picture of the average house:

San Francisco, no basement or utility room at all; Washington, masonry-brick preferred; slate or tile roofing in Miami; less than five rooms in Chicago; three bedrooms in Washington and San Francisco, the average; one and a half stories in Cleveland; attached garages in San Francisco and Seattle; and finished attics in Cleveland.

I had a few questions to ask the bureau.

And to each question the answer generally was the same. Money. Most of the new homes are built by an individual or a corporation on the speculation of a sale. Therefore production costs must be cut so that the "average" home can be peddled for $9,962—plus.

In Washington, in most neighborhoods, you must leave your car on the street or back alley to rust from the weather. A garage would cost you $800 to $1,800 depending on the material used. But those prices would be that low only if they were included in the original blueprint. They are much higher if you decide to add a garage after one house is bought.

Finishing a basement or attic costs what you want—or what the labor traffic will bear. A good estimate, according to the BLS, would be from $2,000 up for the attic and less for the basement.

Some states, or areas, demand that steel beams be used to support the floor. Steel costs more than wood, so the man who is speculating on a sale, if he can get away with it under the law, naturally uses wood. Wood is a good feeding ground for termites.

The Trumans found that out when it became evident that the White House needed a going over. Termites and time had rotted the beams and Margaret's grand piano stuck a leg through the floor of her suite.

Scrimping on materials makes sense when it comes to economical construction. But I can't understand being so penny-wise when the bathroom medicine chest is involved.

The BLS claims there has been some improvement. The average is said to be 12 to 14 inches in width, 18 or 19 inches high and four or five inches deep. But for a man who has two women to fight for space therein, it isn't big enough.

Sting Of Bee Is Fatal For Bird

PORTLAND, Australia — (UP) — When Mrs. Bennese Minoop, a Portland telephone operator, came home from work her pet Rosella parrot usually greeted her with "Hello, number please."

One night it didn't. It lay dead on the floor of its cage. In its beak was a bee, still alive.

The bird had been stung on its tongue, which had swollen and choked it.

Stocks And Market Reports

NEW YORK (UP)—Trading in stocks fell off sharply today and prices resumed their narrow movement after four days of rise.

American Tobacco stood out as the weak feature at a new 1952 low of 58 1/4 off 2-3-8. The company offered for sale today $50,000,000 of 3 1/4 per cent debentures and $55,935,620 of common stock to be offered to stockholders at $22 at the rate of one new share for each five held.

American Tobacco rights to subscribe to the new stock were actively traded—one block amounted to 100,000 rights. The price touched 1-8 and later fell to 1. Amerada, the strong spot, registered a gain of 2 1/2 points to 201. Texas Pacific Land Trust gained a point. Other oils were irregularly lower.

Several rails managed to gain but their average showed a small loss. Utilities eased a trifle. American and Foreign Power was active and firm.

Gold mining issues were active with Homestake and Dome Mines at new highs for the year. McIntyre Porcupine was up nearly a point. American Crystal Sugar continued to rise on an extra dividend.

Chemicals, motors, steels, televisions, aircrafts, and tires moved irregularly.

Discuss Program Of Little League And Park Repair

The Greenville Little League committee held its first meeting of the year yesterday at the Armory to discuss the Little League program and repairs at the Elm Street Ball Park.

The committee discussed the drainage situation at the park and authorized W. C. Eagles of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service, to go ahead with work on drainage at the ball field. He will begin work as soon as the equipment arrives.

It was announced at the meeting that to season would officially open with a ball game Wednesday, May 7. The committee members discussed the trading and bidding of players and each team was given 10,000 points to be used by the managers for trading and buying free agent players and boys coming into the Little League for the first time.

Due to a ruling by the National Little League Headquarters at Williamsport, Penn., it was announced, each team will have 15 players in uniform instead of the 12 which were in uniform last year. Greenville had previously asked for the district playoffs to be held here this year as they were at Havelock last year. It was understood at the meeting, that other teams in the district would support the tournaments being held here.

The committee also voted to move the scoreboard to the other side of the field and do some landscaping at the park. The Little League committee voted to endorse the recreation program in the city.

Jet Ace Rounds Out Hundredth Mission In Korea

U. S. FIFTH AIR FORCE, Korea — (AP) — A veteran jet ace rounded out his 100 missions over Korea yesterday and will head for home in a few days.

He is Lt. Col. Richard D. Creighton of Baton Rouge, La. He became an ace Nov. 2 when he shot down his fifth MIG-15. Creighton made only one combat flight as a lieutenant colonel, his 100th. Four other jet pilots made their 100th flight over Korea at the same time, also earning tickets home.

The only remaining jet ace in Korea is Maj. William T. Whisner Jr., of Shreveport, La. He earned the coveted title a week ago on his 84th mission.

Driver Arrested In Car Collision

Two cars collided on South Dickson Avenue and Bancroft Avenue shortly after last midnight. Both cars were considerably damaged.

The police report states that the car driven by George N. Mitchell, Negro, of near Stokes, collided when Mitchell failed to give a signal that he was to make a left turn. Police estimated the damage to the Register car at $175; Mitchell's car, $75.

The investigating officer arrested Mitchell and charged him with failure to signal a left turn.

Fast-Falling Butter Prices Highlight Food Price News

By The Associated Press — Fast-falling butter prices took the food news spotlight this week. Since last Thursday, butter has dropped 8 to as much as 12 cents a pound in the big-volume retail stores of many cities, reflecting the sharpest reduction in years at the wholesale level. Declines were smaller in the Far West and in the South.

The reductions were attributed largely to consumer price resistance. Butter was at a 4-year high in many sections at the peak last week, selling at around 97 cents a pound in major chains and independents and well over $1 in other stores.

But there also were other factors. High butter prices attracted more fluid milk into butter channels and production increased. Output for the nation last week was up 9 per cent from the previous week, although it still lagged behind the year-ago level. The bigger production trend should continue seasonally now with milk output rising.

Prices of other important foods showed little overall change at retail this week. A few moderately sharp declines in beef cuts, particularly roasts, were too scattered to indicate a trend and were attributed to temporary over-supply conditions in a handful of markets.

Egg prices were a little firmer at wholesale as military buying increased and more eggs moved into storage, but retail prices were mostly steady.

"But there is no economy more false than that which is summed up in the tragic phrase, 'too little and too late.' It would be foolish and dangerous to withhold a dollar now at the risk of expending, not just many times as many dollars, but human lives as well, a few years later."

He conceded "shortcomings" in the defense efforts of some European allies, but said the United States has also fallen short of its own promises in production and delivery of arms.

These remarks apparently were intended to answer congressional charges that European countries are "dragging their feet" in the mutual defense program.

Without mentioning names, Mr. Truman also took sharp issue with the proposals of former President Herbert Hoover and others that the United States sharply curtail its foreign commitments, and seek security behind powerful naval and air defenses in the western hemisphere.

As for the other alternative—that of launching a "preventive war"—Mr. Truman said that no democratic and God-fearing nation could even consider it for a moment.

He said "we expect soon to complete arrangements with Spain" for American use of sea and naval bases "which will assist in the defense of the Mediterranean area." But he sought no additional aid funds for Spain.

Most of the $608,000,000 in military aid earmarked for the Near East and Africa was for Greece and Turkey, which were recently admitted to the North Atlantic Pact.

The $611,000,000 in military aid sought for Asia and the Pacific was earmarked mainly for Indo-China, where French-led forces are battling a powerful Communist offensive, and for Chinese Nationalist forces on Formosa.

Reports Health Program Is Best

CHAPEL HILL (UP) — North Carolina is in a better position to serve the health needs of its citizens and the people of the entire region than any other state in the nation, W. T. Sanger, president of the Medical College of Virginia, said here yesterday.

He credited the division of health affairs of the University of North Carolina with establishing the medium through which the state may improve the health of its people.

"Eventually the university health center will cover the entire state," he said. "No other state has this same opportunity, this challenge, to reach out to the people."

Dr. Sanger cautioned that the center should not copy provisionally existing schools but be designed to meet the specific needs of the people of North Carolina.

Sanger and four other widely-known authorities took part in a round table discussion here yesterday as more than 200 graduates attended the first annual Medical Alumni Day at the university here.

William B. Umstead of Durham, candidate for governor and university trustee, addressed alumni at a dinner meeting and commended the state's good health program "for its outstanding service."

Mercy Train Is Sent To Victims

TOKYO — (AP) — An eight-car mercy train manned by soldiers of the U. S. First Cavalry Division headed for the quake-struck city of Kushiro on the southeast coast of Hokkaido today.

The train was loaded with army C rations and blankets. It carried radio and medical teams to aid victims of Tuesday's earthquake and tidal waves.

Bitter cold and driving snowstorms followed the quake. It will be tomorrow night before the relief train completes the roundabout trip from Sapporo to Kushiro. Quake shattered bridges and rail lines knocked out the direct 150 mile route.

The soldiers will live on cold C rations until they return. There is no heat on the train. Aboard were six army weasels to ferry relief supplies to hard hit communities over snow or water. The weasels were put aboard specifically for the trip to Kiritappu, a fishing community east of Kushiro.

Another Bid For UMT Planned In House Next Year

WASHINGTON (UP)—House military leaders promised today to make another try for universal military training next year.

Msantime, they said, Congress should enact a law to reorganize the military reserves, so future UMT graduates can be put to good use as reservists.

They said there is just no point in talking any more about UMT at this session of Congress. The House Tuesday voted 236 to 162 against it.

"Eventually we will have to have UMT," said Rep. Carl Vinson (D-Ga.), chairman of the Armed Services Committee. "We will try again to put it over next year."

Civil Defense Director Critical Of County Delay

RALEIGH (AP) — State Civil Defense Director E. Z. Jones was critical today of some 42 boards of county commissioners in the state which have not named county directors of civil defense.

Jones said county boards which have not named defense directors "are failing to fulfill the responsibility of the offices to which they have been elected."

"Their constituents who elected them are entitled to every protection that citizens of other counties are getting," he added.

He pointed out that defense directors have been named in 88 counties and nearly 300 municipalities.

Murder is Forgetful

BY WILLIAM G. BOGART

Chapter 22
Down below him, in the gardens, there was some commotion.

Leaning over the rail Johnny recognized Moe Martin's voice. His partner was complaining, "It's like trying to hang onto a horse!"

A younger man's voice answered, "I wonder what he saw?"

Johnny didn't catch Moe's grumbled answer. But he heard twigs and brush crackling. "What are you doing down there?" he called out.

"Johnny?" Moe Martin's voice was agitated. "Can you come down for a minute?"

"All right. But for God's sake, stop the rumpus." Johnny thought of Irene Smith, whom Kay and the nurse were trying to get to sleep. Further agitation might aggravate the woman's condition, and Johnny was anxious to talk to her again first thing in the morning.

A moment later, passing through the kitchen, his quick eyes took in the ice tray resting on the chrome and white ledge adjoining the sink. It was the refrigerator tray Nick Walker must have left there. No one was in the kitchen.

Johnny went out the back way, circled the rear of the house and found his partner.

Moe Martin was hanging to the Great Dane's wide collar; the animal seemed agitated and restless, even growling slightly as Johnny appeared suddenly in the beam from the flashlight held in Moe's hand.

"Okay, boy, okay," said Johnny quickly. The dog nuzzled against his hand and became friendly. Turning to the man who was with Moe Martin, he said, "I'm certainly glad he's not vicious."

"They hever are. Great Danes are like overgrown, curious children." He was a slender, medium-built young man with dark eyes that seemed to magnify themselves somewhat behind thick-lensed glasses. The glow of the flashlight revealed his sharp, high cheek-boned features. "I'm Doctor Clark . . . Bob Clark." He held forth his hand. "I presume you're Johnny Saxon? I've heard of you."

Johnny nodded, shook hands. Moe Martin said, "The dog heard something. He came up here lickety-split."

"With you hanging onto him?" Johnny noted Moe's flushed, perspiring face.

"Naturally. I wanted to see what he was after."

"They were moving through the gardens beneath the balcony. 'What'd he hear?' asked Johnny."

"I think it was just a rabbit," said Doctor Clark. "What else?"

Moe Martin was busy probing the ground with the flashlight beam. Grass was dry and burnt from lack of rain. The earth was hard beneath their feet. Even with watering, flowers and plants in the garden had suffered. "It's funny," Moe muttered.

"You didn't see anyone?" Johnny prompted.

Doctor Bob Clark glanced at him. "No. But would it be unusual if we did? Anyone from the house might have been wandering around."

"But you didn't hear anything?" Johnny was glancing at his partner Moe, though he directed the question to the young doctor.

"No . . . nothing," said Bob Clark.

Moe Martin was somewhat beyond the doctor. Johnny saw him nod his head. Johnny Saxon wondered if Moe's headshake meant he was agreeing with Clark — or disagreeing.

Passing one of the extending wings at the rear of the house, Johnny saw stoutly built trellis work that reached from the ground to the balcony above. Leafy green vines of some sort covered the white-painted cross pieces of framework. He counted three or four of the vine-covered affairs.

It occurred to Johnny Saxon that the things could easily be used as ladders to the balcony. Perhaps the prowler had escaped this way. Michael, the dog, could have heard sounds not audible to the human ear.

Johnny wished there had been some rain recently. Moist earth would have retained imprints if anyone had come down that way. Also, such imprints would have told Johnny Saxon whether that person was a man or a woman.

As it was, the hard earth eliminated all possibility of this.

They had arrived at the circular driveway in front of the mansion. Moe Martin was mopping his fringe of hair. "Well," he said, "maybe I was wrong." He put the flashlight in his pocket.

Johnny said, "It isn't a night to get yourself worked up into a lather."

Doctor Bob Clark looked upward through the great spreading branches of the trees. "The sky's cloudy, though. We ought to be getting some rain." He seemed friendly enough. He didn't look like a doctor. Johnny decided that he didn't look like a doctor because he was not gray-haired and scholarly. Probably he was a very excellent sawbones.

Bob Clark looked toward the house. Light from the library windows touched the driveway. "I guess Karen's not coming down again," he told Johnny. "So I'll run along."

Johnny studied the doctor's lean face in the half darkness. "How far is it to the hospital?"

"Four miles."

"That's quite a long walk." Johnny motioned to the station wagon parked in the darkness some distance beyond Doctor Clark. "Why don't you ride with Nick Walker?"

"For one thing, it's out of his way. Besides I keep in shape walking."

"In hot weather," said Johnny, "I keep in shape drinking gin. V. ch reminds me, Walker was supposed to be fixing up a couple of drinks. Join us?"

Smiling, Bob Clark shook his head. "Thanks. If you see Karen, tell her I'll phone tomorrow." He added, "I take it you've met her?"

Johnny nodded. He said nothing about the incident a little while ago in the nurse's bedroom. "I'll tell her, sure." His glance went from the doctor's face to the station wagon beyond, then back to Bob Clark's eyes again. "By the way, have you ever met anyone named Bart?"

BEGIN WITH DRY RUNS—Mills College students, dressed for the occasion, practice on snowless campus hockey field at Oakland, Cal., in preparation for mountain ski trip.

sidewalks have carborundum, cork or rubber bases.

The safest policy is to have a helper stand at the base of your ladder to steady it and guard against its slipping. Then don't try to climb up with your hands full. Hook a rope to your belt, leaving yours hands free, and you can haul materials up after you.

Don't rest the top of a ladder against a window sash, and naturally not against a pane. The window sill is the strongest. And don't carry tools in your pockets. Men have been stabbed by falling on a sharp tool.

The stepladder is one of the most misused contrivances around a house. Many of these have a folding shelf for holding a bucket. But this shelf is not built to stand on. Neither is the top step. Painters never stand on the top step. If they can't reach from lower steps, they use a straight ladder.

No stepladder is safe if not opened to its full extent with its spreaders locked in position. And no matter what kind of a ladder you're standing on, you're risking a skid and a fall by reaching out too far to one side. Get down and move the ladder.

The old superstition against walking under a ladder is just common sense. Many people have been hurt by tools and paint cans falling from ladders.

So a little know-how about getting ready to paint is the best way to be prepared for this rare season. It may help you from turning the clean-up into a crack-up.

ON THE HOUSE

By DAVID G. BAREUTHER, AP Real Estate Editor

The Boy Scouts have a motto that can save any householder a lot of grief during the spring paint-up season — it's "Be Prepared."

Proper preparation for any paint job can save you money, time, disappointment and possible painful injury.

This spring paint-up season is also supposed to be clean-up time, so there's no sense in littering the neighborhood with wind-blown newspapers for the want of a tarpaulin, or in spilling a can of paint on the sidewalk for the want of steady shelf on your stepladder, or landing in the hospital and leaving the job half-finished for the want of a strong and safe ladder. It really pays to be prepared.

A can of good paint, used in the right way, can be worth a lot more than you pay for it. Paint increases the value of a house. Any sound lumber will last virtually forever if you keep it painted.

But no paint job will last forever. Its life is determined almost entirely by the care you take in putting it on.

If you don't have enough of the right kind of paint on hand to finish whatever task you tackle, you're likely to find that you're penny-wise and dollar foolish. Many paints change color just by standing in the can. Most paints change color as they dry. Unless you hit upon one of the newer paints that are so-called "colorized" according to formula, or use some of the synthetic rubber-base paints that allow you to start and stop in painting interiors, you can run into maddening problems of trying to match shades.

Then the man who plans to do a paint job on a holiday when all the stores are closed knows how important it is to be prepared with all of the right tools. He won't be stymied by the lack of a clean brush, the need of a scraper or some steel wool — and he won't be injured by falling from a rickety ladder.

So many people are going to get hurt during this paint-up season that it's worth taking a careful look at the ladder. It's an old story that home is a dangerous place for accidents. But the National Safety Council says that roughly half of all accidental deaths around the house are due to falls. Apparently we know more about protecting ourselves from fire, electricity and gas than we know about ladders.

If you're going to use one of these contraptions in your spring painting, give it a good shake to see that it holds together. You'll seldom see a ladder painted. Paint can make the rungs slippery. But some people coat ladders with boiled linseed oil to preserve the wood and prevent splintering. In any event, it's smart to wear rubbers when climbing a ladder. You'll notice roofers wear rubbers.

In using a straight ladder, make sure that its lower end is squarely placed and firm so it won't slip. Don't plant it in a flower bed, where one side may sink in soft ground. Ladders that are commonly used on wood floors often have metal point bases. Those used on concrete floors or

Pinballs Flourish

TOKYO — (AP) — "Pachinko," the Japanese version of the pinball machine, is big business in Japan.

A government finance committee found there are 200,000 machines — at least one for every 415 persons in Japan's 83 million population. In the Japanese version a little steel ball pings its way through a maze of nails.

Japanese sociologists regard the pinball craze as "a characteristic of a defeated and occupied people." They say it is a sort of "escape feeling."

One Tokyo doctor apparently feels it must have a soothing effect on his patients. He installed a Pachinko machine as a free pastime for his callers.

Tom Cannady Stars In ECC's Spring Football Game

Freshman Ace Scores Twice In 41-12 Win

Purple Team Rolls Almost At Will In Upset Win Over Gold As Spring Football Drills End At East Carolina

Halfback Tom Cannady, a freshman from Manteo who saw very little offensive duty last fall, was the big noise last night as the Purple team defeated the Gold 41-12 in East Carolina College's spring football game. The contest, played as if it were a regular season affair, closed the spring football drills for the Pirates.

The fleet Cannady was a surprise to almost all of the small crowd which watched the ball game. He had not played too much ball for the Bucs last fall and when he did play, it was at a defensive halfback position. Last night, however, was a different story.

Cannady scored twice and set up one touchdown personally as he led the Purple in their upset win. His touchdowns came on runs of 37 and 54 yards and he streaked 40 yards to set up another TD. Still another of the Purple touchdowns came shortly after Cannady had passed 28 yards to end Larry Rhodes.

Gold broke the scoring ice in the ball game when they took the game's opening kick-off and went down the field for a six-pointer. Fullback Claude King, another of Coach Bill Dole's freshman aces, pounded over from the four yard line from the Box Formation. King's attempt for the extra point was nipped up and the Purple began their own little show.

Cannady had little trouble in coming back with a score of their own following King's initial journey to paydirt. It was Cannady who did the scoring—on a 37 yard dash straight up the middle on the back lateral series run from the box formation. Hawk Grissom kicked the extra point and the Purple was out in front to stay.

Gold lost the resulting kick-off and the Purple were off to another score which was set up by a 40 yard run by Cannady. Ilard Yarborough did the scoring from 12 yards out but only after he, Sandy Siler, Jack Britt, and Cannady had been given a chance to do some nice backfield work. Grissom again added the extra point to make the score 14-6.

After Yarborough's score, the two squads settled down into a defensive struggle which lasted until halftime. After the intermission, the Purple came storming back in full force. Dole turned loose all the backs on the Purple squad and it was Cannady who showed them the way to play with a 54 yard sprint from the Box straight up the field. Grissom's almost automatic toe added the extra point and the Purple advantage had been widened to 21-6.

After Gold lost the ball on downs following the kick-off, the Purple got another chance to score and promptly took advantage of the opportunity. Cannady's pass to Rhodes moved the ball into scoring territory and quarterback Sandy Siler took it over into pay-off land with a two yard quarterback sneak. Grissom missed the extra point but the Purple still had a comfortable 27-6 lead.

The Gold squad closed the gap just a little bit a few minutes later when Claude King went 34 yards through the middle on the same type play Cannady had been using. Those six points helped but they were of little use when the Purple team dug in and began building up its already tremendous lead.

Siler was the boy who scored next for the Purple when he went 22 yards off the left side of the line for his second touchdown of the night. Grissom added the extra point to make the score 34-12.

From that point until the final minute of the game, neither of the two clubs was able to make much headway against the other. Finally, with a minute and a half of playing time remaining, Yarborough got loose for a 34 yard run which carried him to the 10 yard line. From that point, Jack Britt carried over and the scoring for the night closed when Grissom added the extra point.

Defensive aces were almost as numerous as were the offensive standouts last night. Although the score of the game might tend to indicate that defensive play was neglected somewhat, both clubs still managed to come through with several outstanding defensive performers. Halfbacks Tommy Hayes, Buddy Bass and Tom Cannady did exceptional work for the Purple team while Willie Holland and Larry Rhodes took care of most of the line work.

On the Gold side of the ledger, Claude King, doing defensive duty as well as offensive work, led the way for his club. He was backed up by halfbacks Johnny Daughtry, Tom Allsbrook and Charlie Batchelor. Linemen George Tucker, Bill McDonald, Jesse Aldridge, Don Burton and Archie Conleton led the forward wall.

Contrary to last year's passing ball team, most of the action by the two squads last night was on the ground. Neither team passed very much and both seemed satisfied to use the Box frequently.

All men who played in the game last night will be eligible for Varsity competition next fall.

TRAINING CAMP BRIEFS

By UNITED PRESS
ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—(UP)—Vern Benson, who reported to camp as a rookie third baseman, was added to the St. Louis Cardinals' list of first-base candidates today.

Benson hit 308 for Columbus in the American Association last season. He is the fourth candidate for the first base job.

VERO BEACH, Fla. (UP)—Centerfielder Duke Snider will be sidelined "several days" with a sprained left ankle and will miss the Brooklyn Dodgers' opening exhibition game with the Boston Braves next Saturday.

Snider, a .277 hitter last season, suffered the sprain sliding into second base in yesterday's intra-squad game.

CLEARWATER, Fla. (UP)—What amounts to a full-scale track meet will be staged by the Philadelphia Phillies today under the direction of Manager Eddie Sawyer.

It's all part of Sawyer's plan "to run the club into shape" this year. Sawyer believes poor condition contributed heavily to the Phillies' fifth-place finish in 1951.

ORLANDO, Fla. (UP)—The Washington Senators will concentrate on their 36 scheduled exhibition games and forget about playing intra-squad games, Manager Buckey Harris said today.

"Thirty-six exhibition games are enough to get the players in condition and see what rookies have possibilities," Harris said.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (UP)—Catcher Joe Tipton told the Philadelphia Athletics today, "I just can't afford to take a salary cut." The powerful receiver checked into camp with the warning, "I don't know whether I'm going to sign."

Tipton hit only .239 last season but played well in the Athletics' September drive and was believed in line for a raise.

MESA, Ariz. (UP)—Dutch Leonard, at 42, oldest active pitcher in the National League, said today he believed he can have an even better year in 1952 than last season when he had a 10-6 record.

"I feel good and my knuckler is behaving," Leonard said.

Chicago Cub Manager Phil Cavarretta expects to let Leonard compete alone easily while younger pitchers compete for jobs.

TUCSON, Ariz. (UP)—Bob Lemon, picked to pitch for the Cleveland Indians against the New York Giants next Saturday, said today he expected to return to the 20-victory class this year.

"My arm never felt better," Lemon said. "If I have better control I should make 20 wins."

Lemon won 20 games in 1948, 49 and '50 but fell to 17 last year.

Plans on Feland's Thames River are given frequent shampoos to clean their feathers of oil and bilge waste from ships.

TOM CANNADY (10), one of the surprise stars in last night's intra-squad game which closed spring football at ECC, is shown on the start of one of his long runs. Cannady, a freshman from Manteo, played mostly on defense last fall but scored twice last night in his first big chance at offensive play. (Reflector Sports Photos).

HALFBACK JACK BENZIE is shown being pulled down by an unidentified Gold lineman in last night's spring football clash at ECC. Benzie and his Purple team mates had little trouble in springing a 41-12 upset win over the Gold team. The game closed spring football drills at East Carolina.

Southern Conference Tournament Opens In Raleigh With Four Games

Dick Groat Picked As UP Cage Player Of The Year

By KEN ALYTA
RALEIGH (AP)—The overall team balance of defending champion North Carolina State was pitted against a field featuring teams that rely more or less on one or two sensational individuals as the Southern Conference Basketball Tournament got under way here today.

State, winner for five successive years, had no big high scorer, no glamour boy to match the two All-America stars, Duke's Dick Groat or West Virginia's Mark Workman. West Virginia ranked ninth in this week's final Associated Press poll and Duke 12th.

But the relative depth of the Wolfpack bench, its advantage of playing on its home court and the schedule break that dropped it into the lower bracket promises to make State a tough customer despite its overall 20-9 record, Coach Everett Case's poorest in six years here.

Today's four-game program opened with West Virginia meeting William and Mary at 2 o'clock and Duke engaging Maryland at 4. The night program sends Clemson against George Washington at 7:30 and State against Furman at 9:30.

The afternoon winners will meet at 7:30 tomorrow night, with tonight's winners following at 9:30 in the semi-finals. The championship game is listed for 8 o'clock Saturday night, with an NCAA tournament bid going to the winner.

State, beaten twice in 14 conference games this season, finished second to West Virginia's 15-1, with Duke a close third at 13-3.

Duke has won its last 13 games since dropping a double overtime game to State two months ago. This drive saw the Devils take their place with the nation's highest scoring units, sparked by the top major college point-maker, Groat. The six-foot senior from Swissvale, Pa., threw in 701 points this year, far off his record 831 of last season, but still good enough to lead the country's major schools.

Workman, averaging around 24 points a game, has been slowed by injuries the past two weeks and missed a couple of games, but should be ready to go today. A year ago William and Mary sent three centers running in and out in shifts and they did a fine job on the big fellow as the Virginians scored an amazing 21-point upset in the first round.

A William and Mary victory today would rate as even more of an upset, however. Guard Joe Agee, a brilliant player over the season, is out with a broken thumb and the Indians will have to rely on several sophomores and freshmen to carry the load. In their only regular season meeting, West Virginia was a 21-point winner.

Maryland, although a lower bracket club, was expected to give Duke an interesting session. The game sent one of the nation's offensive leaders, Duke, against one of the top 10 defensive teams in Maryland. They met a few weeks ago and the Maryland control style slowed Groat to 15-point pace, but Duke won, 56-51.

However, Duke this year has a couple of eye-catching sophomores in Rudy D'Emilio and Bernie Janicki to help Groat carry the load and the Devils have a more balanced attack. A year ago Groat virtually carried the load to get them to the finals where they dropped a 67-63 sizzler to State. Groat totaled a record 85 points in three games, hitting 31 in his last two starts.

State holds an 89-53 victory over Furman, gained three months ago in the opener for both schools. Since then Furman has come with a rush to gain its first tournament bid in history. A year ago the South Carolinians won only one of 14 conference games. The big surge resulted from the 50-point pace of a pair of newcomers, Frank Selvy and Nield Gordon, who have combined to form the most dangerous twosome of the conference.

Clemson, 15 - point mid - season winner over George Washington, may find the young Colonials a bit rougher this time. George Washington has been improving steadily and clinched fifth place in the standings at 12-6 by upsetting Maryland last week.

With advance sales almost equaling last year's record net gate of $71,000, the tournament attendance record of 46,300 for the four seasons, set a year ago, should be topped.

ELON COLLEGE—The Elon College baseball squad, which will bid this season for its fourth consecutive North State Conference diamond crown, will play 28 tough games during the 1952 campaign, according to the schedule announced by Coach Jim Mallory.

In the four years that Don Vetter has been head coach the record stands 30 victories and only four losses.

DETROIT — (AP) — Jake LaMotta, the former middleweight champion, won't have to hang up his boxing gloves.

The 30-year-old fighter, showing the strain of 12 years campaigning in the professional ring, won a 10-round draw with up-and-coming Eugene Hairston last night. Some thought the Bronx Bull was pretty lucky at that.

On the eve of the bout, LaMotta let it be known he would retire for good if the 23-year-old Hairston beat him decisively. LaMotta weighed 168½, a 7½-pound advantage over Hairston.

Accurate shooting plus a good zone defense almost ruined the hopes of a fifth consecutive Pitt County Championship for Bethel's Indians last night in the quarterfinals of the Pitt County Tournament being played at Wright Gym at East Carolina.

Farmville carried the favored Indians almost to the limit before finally losing out in the fourth period after a neck-and-neck three quarters, 54-41.

In the first boys game of the night, Ayden's Tornados came back in the second half to down Stokes by the score of 64-41, after a comparatively close first half.

Back in the nightcap between Farmville and Bethel, the most exciting game of the tourney up until this stage of the five-day affair, Bethel led throughout, the entire contest, but Farmville trailed by as little as one point as late as the third period.

Bethel jumped into the lead with a fast first quarter and led 14-5 after the first eight minutes, but from that point on until the final period, Farmville ran a rugged scoring race with the Indians. Soon after the second quarter got underway, the Red Devils had narrowed the margin to only nine points, 23-14. Farmville slowly cut Bethel's lead until Coach Elbert Moyer's inspired squad trailed by only six points.

With time running out on them as slightly more than one minute remained in the first half, both teams settled down for a rough and tumble affair that lasted for the remainder of the contest.

quint quickly took advantage of several mental lapses on the part of Farmville and ran their margin back to several 36-29.

Farmville's fighting team started all over again from that point and soon had the score standing at 37-34, mostly through the scoring efforts of Tugwell. Bethel led at the end of the third period by three, 39-36. School was out for Farmville in the final period, however, and the superior scoring ability of the Bethel five thrust itself forward to drop the Red Devils far behind. The Indians, coached by Walter Latham, controlled the backboards as if they owned them during the final eight minutes, and Farmville slowly dropped out of the picture.

Ayden Wins
Mac Whitehurst led a third period scoring spree by Ayden as the Tornados recovered from a disastrous first half to eliminate Stokes from the tourney, 64-41.

Ayden grabbed a 15-8 first quarter lead and then seemed to fall apart as nothing clicked in their ragged play. Stokes quickly took advantage of their opportunities and pulled to within six points of the winners by intermission.

An altogether different looking team took the floor in the second half for Ayden, and the Tornados easily took command of the game. With Whitehurst leading the way, Ayden scored 14 points in the first four minutes while holding Stokes to but two to increase their lead to 20 points, 42-22.

With his team leading by 28 points, Coach Stuart Tripp sent in the Ayden reserves in the final quarter and Stokes slowly narrowed the margin to the final 21 points.

Ayden's scoring was spread out over the entire team as all ten players got into the lineup scored at least one point. Beside Whitehurst's 20 points, Todd Kittrell poured in 11 points. Curllis Dennis also came in with nine points, while Delano Cox hit for eight.

Stokes' high scoring forwards, Jack Warren and Donnie Cherry, carried the offensive burden for their team once again. Warren connected for 15 points while Cherry picked up 12.

Comiskey Quits Baseball Set-Up

CHICAGO (AP)—Young Charles A. Comiskey talked out of his family's White Sox baseball organization last night.

He got a job with the Liberty Broadcasting System. Comiskey said he would be a vice president in charge of all sports coverage. His salary was reported close to $30,000 a year.

Comiskey resigned as Sox vice president almost two months ago. He said he wanted more money than he was getting $10,000 a year and some sort of definite contract.

Jack Burke, Jr., After Fifth Win In Florida Open

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—A field of 181 golfers began trying today to break the three-tournament winning streak of Jack Burke Jr. Their chance was in the 18th annual $10,000 St. Petersburg Open.

Burke, the Houston pro who has won the Texas Open at San Antonio, the Houston Open and the Baton Rouge Open in a row, is rated as the man to beat.

The man figured most likely to do it is Bobby Locke, the South African who has just added the Mexican National Open to his many crowns.

Others highly regarded include Jim Ferrier of San Francisco, the defending champion; Tommy Bolt of Durham, N. C., winner of the Los Angeles Open and runner-up to Burke at Baton Rouge; Johnny Jalmer of Badin, N. C.; and John Barnum of Grand Rapids, Mich.

Bolt, Palmer and Barnum tied for low pro honors in a warming-up pro-amateur tourney yesterday. Each shot 67, five under par for the 6,233 yard Lakewood Country Club course.

Lovellette Leads Scoring As Groat Pulls Into Second Spot

Tourneys Will Settle Winners Of NCAA Berths

NEW YORK (AP)—The regular-season action among the college basketball teams is practically over and only seven of the 16 teams which will play in the NCAA tournament had been decided today.

Kentucky, Illinois, Texas Christian, St. Louis and Wyoming, all champions of their conferences, are in, along with Santa Clara and Oklahoma City University, two Western-at-large teams.

That leaves nine selections still to be made for the tournament that begins in four cities on March 21. Four of them will be at-large five, while the winners of the Ivy League, Southern Conference, Border Conference, Big Seven and Pacific Coast Conference remain to be settled.

The remaining four at-large teams probably won't be determined until the end of the National Invitation Tournament at Madison Square Garden. Some of the top prospects are Penn State, Duquesne, Boston College, Holy Cross and Loyola of Chicago. Duquesne and Holy Cross are in the NIT.

As for the NAB tourney which opens Monday at Kansas City, Indiana State, the 1951 winner, again qualified by beating Indiana Central last night, 66-55.

Millikin also qualified by upsetting previously unbeaten Eastern Illinois, 74-71. Clarion (Pa.) Teachers, unbeaten in 19 games, nipped Millersville, 50-49, for the right to represent Pennsylvania while Whitworth walloped Gonzaga, 90-65, in the District I finals.

There were several upsets last night. Manhattan took Fordham 64-56. Syracuse upended Penn, 94-76. Niagara surprised Colgate in overtime, 68-66, and Tufts downed Harvard, 79-76. In other games Wyoming beat Colorado A & M, 89-87 and East Tennessee won the Smoky Mountain Tourney by beating Union (Ky) 56-47.

Winterville and Belvoir moved into the semi-finals of the Pitt County Tourney last night as they defeated the Stokes girls, 59-40, and Grifton, 51-25, respectively.

Joan Averette led Winterville in the scoring parade with 16 points, while Ann Spier, who played in the first quarter and for just a few minutes in the final period, dropped in a total of 12 points for second high for the night.

It was left up to Arthur to take home high scoring honors for the night, however, as forward Malvina Crawford poured in 28 points for the losers. Ruth Pollard and Trilby Lee Smith scored eight and six points respectively for Arthur.

Winterville grabbed the lead in the first minute as Ann Spier dropped one from close under the basket to give the Lady Wolves a 2-0 lead. During the next three minutes, Winterville scored to a 10-0 lead. Arthur finally led, its scoring fame with a field goal by Malvina Crawford after three minutes and 20 seconds had passed. Winterville led 21-10 at the end of the period.

Coach Paul Clark of the topside Winterville team sent in his second string at the beginning of the second quarter, and they had no trouble in extending the margin to 21 points by the time that halftime intermission rolled around. With Joan Averette and Jo Anne McLawhorn leading the offensive path, the winners took things in their own way after the first two minutes of the quarter.

Arthur managed to stay within 20 points for the rest of the game as Winterville continued to play its second and third strings. Miss Crawford seemed to be able to match anything that Winterville put up in the scoring line.

Cafolyn Moringo and Carol Tyson led the defensive play for the losers, while Jean Little and Ruth Hamilton were outstanding for the Winterville squad.

Belvoir-Grifton
Belvoir grabbed a big lead early in its game with Grifton and led run to a 30-12 lead with less than two minutes left in the first half. Just a few seconds before the half-time buzzer sounded, Coach Ed Warren sent in his reserves, who played most of the remainder of the contest.

Claudia Pollard led the winners with 21 points, followed by Nadine Morris with 14 points. Jean Tyson and Edna Randolph were outstanding on defense for the Belvoir girls.

A Grifton lass, Colleen Braxton, almost stole the scoring honors, however, Miss Braxton, a sophomore, scored 21 of her team's 25 points.

Belvoir will now meet Ayden in the semi-finals of the tourney tonight at 8 p.m. The Lady Eagles won the tournament last season by turning in a pair of hard fought upsets over Winterville in the semi-finals and over Ayden in the finals.

Wilson's Weekly Bulletin
from the RECTOR'S KITCHENS

There's plenty of good eating in a well made stew. For an "out-of-this-world" meaty flavor that your family will enjoy, add Wilson's B-V. Then to make your stew even more extra-special, load it with delicious dumplings. (We notice husbands never leave home in families where this sort of inexpensive food is served.)

Whether your dumplings are of the noodle-square style or the "light as a cloud" biscuit-type, is a matter of choice. In either case they pick up and extend that meaty B-V flavor. For Wilson's B-V is actually a delicious blend of concentrated meat extract and selected vegetable flavors. It adds meat flavor to stews, dumplings, gravies, soups, casseroles and a hundred and one other dishes. You will find B-V makes rich, golden-brown gravy... with or without meat juices. B-V is America's favorite gravy maker.

BEST OF BEEF STEWS
Choose a heavy pan with a tight-fitting cover. Heat it up slowly over medium heat until pan is thoroughly hot. Then add:
3 tablespoons drippings or Baka-Rite (Beef or Shank Meat) or Certified Lard
1 clove garlic, cut up
1 stalk minced celery
2 pounds Wilson's Beef Round-Chuck
Turn heat medium and brown well on all sides, taking time for a thorough deep browning. When nicely browned add:
4 teaspoons Wilson's B-V
2 cups hot water
1/4 bay leaf, optional
1/4 teaspoon thyme, optional
1/2 teaspoon chopped parsley and 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
Cover and cook gently, just below simmering. For the last hour of the cooking add: Any 3 cup assortment of vegetables such as: 6 whole small onions, 4 carrots and 1/2 cup peas. Total cooking time for stew is 2 to 3 hours or to fork tenderness. Serves 6.

NOODLE DUMPLING SQUARES
No fancy names, no fancy cooking, but real good eating.
Sift: 2 cups flour and 1 teaspoon salt
Add: 1/4 cup milk
Mix and work until it is smooth. Roll out on lightly floured board and cut into squares. Take meat out and drop in the dumplings. Cover and boil 10 to 12 minutes until tender and no longer puffy. Serve hot with stew meat. Serves 6.

Europe's Weaker Flank Is Toughening Muscles

By PHIL NEWSOM
United Press Foreign News Editor
The area once referred to by Winston Churchill as the "soft underbelly of Europe" is toughening its muscles.

Greece, Italy, France and Spain all are, or soon will be, allied with the West to assure the defense of the Mediterranean.

But so far as the West is concerned, a soft spot remains. That spot is Albania, the little mountainous state across the Adriatic from Italy. It is the eyes and ears of Russia on the Mediterranean and its gateway to Valona, 100 square miles of sheltered water protected by the Soviet-fortified island of Saseno, could be one of the largest naval bases in the Mediterranean basin.

The United States has had no representation in Albania since November, 1948, when a nine-man mission departed after failing to reach a basis for U.S. recognition of the Communist regime.

The only Western representation there now is maintained by the French at the capital, Tirana. But the French are restricted to their villa and a half-mile radius around it.

First step in the Sovietization of Albania was to create a bustling naval base at Saseno. Heavy fortifications were built on the island and the port of Valona was sealed off to Albanians.

At Saseno the Russians are supposed to have created mammoth underground storage tanks for petroleum and to have built virtually impregnable submarine pens.

Many Soviet submarines have "visited" Valona in the past few years.

Tirana, the capital, is a Soviet camp surrounded by Russian artillery emplacements. Civilians are forbidden to use roads from the capital except on designated buses. The airport outside Tirana is completely cut off by security guards.

Russian MIG jet fighters arrived at Tirana in the spring of 1951. Russian vessels kept Valona busy, bringing in Soviet personnel and military equipment and taking out the lion's share of Albania's scant stocks of olive oil, timber, wool, hides, furs, dairy products and cattle.

More than 5,000 persons have been executed in the past five years—at least 1,000 of them in 1951. At least 15,000 are reported in jail for political crimes. Thousands of persons are just "missing."

Premier Gen. Enver Hoxha has lost control of the country to Mehmet Shehu, chief of security police. Shehu has ordered mass executions of peasants for "economic sabotage"—such as failure to produce demanded grain for government storehouses. His power was clinched after a time bomb exploded in May, 1951, under a reviewing stand for Russian and Albanian officials at the Red Army Day parade.

The bomb killed 17 persons, none high ranking. Shehu executed 40 civilians on the spot and arrested 1,000 within a few hours.

World-Circling Trip By Bicycle

ROME — (AP) — A 25-year-old scoutmaster from India is pedaling his way around the world. With luck, Mateji Narasimhan hopes to do the job in 4 1/2 years.

Narasimhan said on his arrival here recently that he is carrying a message of brotherhood. He also wants to correct certain false impressions about India. He began his journey on November 20, 1950, from Hyderabad, Deccan, South India.

He said he supports himself by paid radio talks and lectures about his trip.

Taft Managers Like 'Underdog' Role In Primary

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP) — Sen. Robert A. Taft's managers are happily confident that their man is established in the public mind as underdog in the March 11 New Hampshire presidential primary.

That has been part of the Taft strategy from the beginning. There is much professional political talent in the Taft headquarters. The professionals know Taft's greatest liability as a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination is a widely accepted idea that he is mighty poor shakes as a vote getter.

A widely publicized contest in a state regarded as Eisenhower territory was just the setup the Taft camp was looking for—with one bona fide Eisenhower stronghold, neither at nor any other opponent would want to contest it.

To Taft's managers, Ike did not seem quite so strong in New Hampshire as all of that, despite the early popular impression that the general had New Hampshire in the bag.

Eisenhower's managers are doing what they can to overcome the popular impression that Ike is a sure winner next week. But across the country many persons expect Ike to win.

If underdog Taft is even or better some glamor will peel off Eisenhower's candidacy. Some powerful arguments will be added to Taft's campaign plea.

Taft, himself, established his New Hampshire party line in January when he announced he would contest the state.

The senator remarked that "the political machine of the present state administration is openly pledged to Gen. Eisenhower."

He added that the New Hampshire situation evidently was "peculiarly to the liking of the Eisenhower committee." But he said he would contest the state despite "unfavorable factors."

"Win, lose or draw," said Taft. "I feel I should permit the preference vote to be taken in New Hampshire."

Taft has much to gain in New Hampshire, less to lose. The popular belief that he lacks political vote appeal is a heavy burden to his candidacy. New Hampshire offers a chance to shuck that burden.

The fact is that Taft has never lost an election since he got into politics in 1921. He barely squeezed through in the 1944 senatorial election against a nobody and that poor showing has plagued him ever since.

But Taft's 1950 Senate re-election was a landslide. His opponent may not have been a great statesman. But he had led the Democratic state ticket on occasion, and had won eight consecutive primary and state elections from 1936 to 1950, when he collided with Taft.

Taft's managers insist he is a vote getter but acknowledge that a great many Republicans still must be convinced of that.

They are counting on New Hampshire.

Farm Lecture Is Set Friday For Deaf And Mute

Lectures on farm and home planning and tobacco production will feature a program scheduled to be presented here Friday night for the benefit of an expected 50 deaf and mute farmers and their wives.

County Farm Agent Sam Winchester reported this morning that the meeting, which will be held in the courthouse at 7:30, will not be confined to Pitt County alone but is designed to accommodate the deaf and mute farm citizenry in all surrounding counties.

The farm agent disclosed that he will lecture on farm planning. Mrs. Sue Brickhouse May, county home agent, will speak on activities in the farm home, and county tobacco specialist Sam Weeks will deliver a short talk on tobacco production.

"We have been holding these meetings once a year for the past eight years, and have experienced a high degree of success with them," Winchester said. He explained that public demand for the meetings has made them an annual affair.

According to the farm agent, all speeches will be made through the services of an interpreter, who will relay the meaning to those attending by means of signs.

Friday's meeting is the last of a series of such gatherings held at different places in the state. Last night, a meeting was held in Durham, with one slated for Greensboro tonight.

Strange Bedfellows In Struggle For Indochina

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP) — The struggle against communism makes strange bedfellows for the United States. Indochina is a good example.

Even with American help the French in Indochina haven't been able to whip the Communist Vietnamese troops. And the Communists in turn haven't been able to win decisively even with help from Red China.

The fact is the French are doing badly. After six years of struggle against Ho Chi Minh's Vietnam the French steadily are being pushed back.

In the past 21 months the United States has pumped more than 600 million dollars in military aid to the French in Indochina. And the Chinese Communists have poured vast supplies southward to the Vietnamese.

This has been a steady drain on the United States and China, both of which could have used their military supplies elsewhere. It's been a steady drain on the French, too.

It's kept 170,000 troops pinned down there who could otherwise be used in the defenses of Western Europe. And the French losses in Indochina have spread discontent in France.

What the French want in Indochina is what they've always wanted: undisturbed possession. It's been their colony a long time, and they want to keep it that. Their record in Indochina has been shabby. They've treated it as a colony, exploiting it and its people. The democracy they practiced at home was something they didn't export to Indochina.

They seemed, and still seem, unable to get it through their heads, that the age of Western colonialism in Asia is finished.

At the end of World War II they were washed up and done in Indochina and would have remained done if the British hadn't bailed them out by holding the line for them until France could get troops back in.

The French today have about as much right in Indochina as we'd have by trying to move in and take over Mexico. Still, if they withdrew or collapsed, all South-east Asia would be open to communist.

That's why the Chinese Communists are giving the Vietnamese what help they can. And, for the opposite reason—to keep communism from taking over all Eastern Asia—the United States is helping the French.

As a result, the people of Indochina are caught between the two forces which have made their country a six-year battlefield; the struggle between the West and communism.

It's a power struggle in a small land. This is the coldblooded view of what's happening in Indochina, stripped of any fancy talk. It's worth remembering in case we get more deeply involved. And we may. Larry Allen, veteran Associated Press foreign correspondent, reported last night from Indochina that the people there think neither the French nor the Vietnamese can win without outside intervention. He said, "The question uppermost in many minds is: Who is going to intervene first—the Red Chinese or the United Nations?"

The United States and China are both intervening with military supplies. The big intervention would be the sending of foreign troops.

Ireland To Boost Armed Services

DUBLIN — (UP) — The biggest peace-time recruiting campaign has been launched to strengthen Ireland's armed forces. It is intended to save the country from collapsing in any future "critical moment."

The defense minister, Oscar Traynor, opened the campaign officially in an address over the national radio network.

Traynor stressed that unless the defense forces had "the necessary number of men they could not have an effective framework and ran the risk of breaking down at the critical moment."

Cinema, press, radio and other campaign, which aims primarily at enlisting 4,500 men, thus bringing the strength of the armed forces up to the approved peace-time level of 12,500.

NO SUBVERSIVES
HELENA, Mont. — (AP) — No persons or organizations have registered as subversives in Montana since a new state law requiring registration became effective last July 1.

Although Portuguese law requires the people to wear shoes, many sometimes go barefoot in that country.

EXPENSIVE CHARGE
INDIANAPOLIS — (AP) — A $10 fine was Municipal Judge Philip L. Bayt's answer to the excuse offered by James A. Young, 25, for a speeding charge: "My battery was low, and I was just trying to charge it."

TAHITIANS VOLUNTEER
PAPEETE, Tahiti — (AP) — An increasing number of young Tahitians are volunteering for military training in France for ultimate service in Indo-China, where the French are fighting the rebel forces.

Although U. S. population grew 60 million between 1910 and today, the population dropped from 32 to 24 million.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

CALIFORNIA economy through simplicity is exemplified in this compact cottage—the first of the new houses offered for rent to defense workers under the National Defense Housing program. Designed and built by Earl W. Smith in Shore Acres, near Pittsburg, Calif., north-east of Oakland, the house rents for $87.50 per month. It covers about 750 square feet, without carport. Basement is eliminated, heat is supplied by a floor furnace and slab floors are covered with asphalt tile.

Oil Field Waste For Fertilizer

BEIRUT, Lebanon — (AP) — Fertilizer may be converted from by-products of Arabian oil fields as the result of a recent agreement between the Saudi Arabian government and the United Nations Food and Agricultural Organization. Under its terms, the FAO will provide technical assistance on projects recommended to the Saudi Arabian government by a special mission which has been in the country since March, 1951. The agreement envisages erection of a plant for this conversion. Tremendous amounts of natural gas are now burned off as waste. It is estimated that the average U. S. farmer produces more today in one hour of work than the farmer of 50 years ago produced in two.

Wrong Bulges Trap Shoplifter

KENNEWICK, Wash. — (AP) — Bulges in the wrong places trapped a woman in a food store here. Store employees found three slices of ham under her coat. When police were called, they hit the jackpot. She had three steaks tucked into her stocking tops.

Chronic Alcoholism Fought Constantly At Camp Butner

Work is being carried on constantly at the Alcoholic Rehabilitation Center at Butner for alcoholics who need help.

The Butner staff consists of the medical director, Dr. Forlitz; the chaplain, Rev. Alban Tichey; two psychologists, John Mendenhall and Carl Ryerson; one social worker, Elizabeth Wilson; and recreation director, Ben Dixon.

A part-time occupational therapist, Mrs. Helen Finley; four attendants, E. C. Keith, J. W. Miller, W. L. Hoyle, and E. J. Herring; two secretaries, Mrs. Charles Auman and Jean Roberts; and the dining room hostess, Mrs. Marcus Wall.

Patients are not accepted by court commitment and upon entering the center, each patient signs a letter-statement that requests voluntary admission and clearly lists the rules of conduct. A comprehensive fee of $72.00 covers maintenance and treatment for 28 days.

Through the ARP administrative offices in Raleigh, three other services are in daily operation to supplement Butner and to help prevent future alcoholism in North Carolina. They are a public information program, special and scientific surveys, and state-wide encouragement of local hospital units for acute cases.

The center at Butner had its beginning in 1947 when the 1947 General Assembly set up a committee, of which Rep. Frank Kilpatrick of Ayden was a member, to view the property at Camp Butner with the idea of buying.

The property consisted of 32,000 acres of land and hundreds of buildings and was bought for $1,500,000. The Legislature authorized the renovation of 50 brick buildings for another branch of State Hospitals.

"Thinking that the State of North Carolina could offer more than musty cells and custodial wards to the confirmed inebriates," said Kilpatrick, "I introduced a bill that provided for constructive treatment based on the sufferer's voluntary desire for help and to work toward future prevention based on an information service of unbiased facts.

"The members of both the House and Senate, feeling that there was a crying need for some form of help for the alcoholic, supported the bill," said the representative.

"Some of the strongest supporters were from the so-called dry counties, one of which was L. A. Martin of Davidson County, who also represented the Allied Church League."

"We first thought to handle the program through the Welfare Department but in as much as we had so much space at Butner and buildings that could be renovated easily we decided on the place for the alcoholic center which is miles from the mental institution, but could be handled by the same board of directors."

The North Carolina Rehabilitation Program was created to operate as a scientific agency unattached to any pressure groups and completely supported the state government's general fund.

"The Alcoholics Anonymous Group of North Carolina, those men and women who knew intimately the terror of alcoholism and the victories of restoration helped tremendously in setting up the program," stated Kilpatrick.

Simon Proctor, professional administrator and strong advocate of the team work method of treatment and prevention, was appointed executive director of the program in April, 1950.

Dr. Lorant Forlitz was appointed medical director and a qualified staff was assigned to open the doors of the new Butner Alcoholic Center September 1, 1950. Sixteen months later well over 500 sufferers had been treated, and over 170 North Carolina towns and 70 counties had been represented.

By February of this year, the ARP's administrative staff in Raleigh was answering hundreds of requests for facts about the program and Butner.

When a patient completes his treatment, he is referred to his family physician, the mental hygiene clinic in his area, and his local Alcoholics Anonymous group, and his progress is followed through personal letters and periodic questionnaires from Director Proctor to the patient and his doctor.

Although alcoholic specialists say treatment result surveys are reliable only after four or five years of operation, current progress of the new North Carolina Program is indicated by the scores of ex-patients from former patients, their doctors, relatives, and friends.

TOO MUCH SNOW WEST YELLOWSTONE, Mont. — (AP) — The Lionhead ski run near here was closed for three weeks at the height of the winter season — too much snow. When it was reopened, it took bulldozer crew three days to clear a road to the run through two miles of drifts.

Musical Organizations Make Debut Friday Evening

Music organizations at East Carolina will make their debut public performance for the year when they appear Friday evening in a concert honoring 1952 visitors on the campus for the Greenville District meeting of the State High School Music Contest-Festival. The East Carolina Orchestra, a college-community organization, and the Varsity Men's Glee Club will give a program at 8 o'clock in Wright auditorium, to which the public is cordially invited by the director, Dr. Kenneth N. Cuthbert, head of the college music department, and members of the two groups. The Women's Chorus, directed by Dan E. Vornholt, will also be included on the program. The College Concert Band, directed by Herbert L. Carter, and the College Choir, directed by Dr. Karl V. Gilbert, will give a joint recital Saturday afternoon at 1:15 in Wright auditorium. The program will be open to the public.

Austerity Cuts British Rations, But Food Cheap

LONDON — (UP) — England is the home of austerity and this is what austerity means:

Meat, bacon, butter, margarine, fats, cheese, sugar and tea are rationed. What there is of food is relatively cheap for the English worker, however.

The average manufacturing worker makes 165 shillings ($23.10) a week. The average metal worker gets about 179 shillings ($24.76) and the building trades worker 161 shillings ($22.54).

The worker gets one shilling and twopence (about 16 cents) worth of meat each week for himself and the same amount for each member of his family. Meats differ in price but steak, for example, is about two shillings and eightpence (37 cents) a pound.

Not Much Meat That shows how little meat he eats, even when the meat ration goes up slightly over two shillings a week, which it does in peak periods.

He also gets four ounces — three or four slices — of bacon a week. Bacon is from two shillings eightpence (37 cents) to three shillings one penny (44 cents) a pound. He gets three ounces of butter. Butter is two shillings three pence (31 cents) a pound.

Margarine Cheaper He gets four ounces of margarine at one shilling twopence (16 cents) a pound; one and a half ounces of cheese at around two shillings (56 cents) a pound, and two ounces of tea at around four shillings (56 cents) a pound. Potatoes are two and a half cents. A head of lettuce costs about one shilling (14 cents).

Austerity doesn't much affect the night life, sports attendance and movies. Since food is subsidized and cheap, the British family has money left for some entertainment.

Police Announce Self-Confession In Mail Threats

MT. AIRY, N. C. — (AP) — Police say a 29-year-old Mt. Airy man has admitted sending three threatening notes to himself.

Allen Bobbitt, 29, was arrested here yesterday by Deputy Sheriff Roy Smith. Bobbitt is being held on an $1,000 charge.

Smith said Bobbitt told him the notes were written and left at his house in the hope that someone would give him a job.

This development cleared up part of the Klan-like terrorism that has plagued this Surry County town since last Friday. However, the burning of crosses in several sections of the town's outskirts is still being investigated. Officers still contend that the cross burning is not the work of the Ku Klux Klan.

Sweet Potato Acreage Trend Upward In County

Although the sweet potato acreage in Pitt County fell off sharply last year, the production trend is upward for 1952. County Farm Agent Sam Winchester said this morning.

The farm agent explained that since more sweet potatoes will be cultivated in the county this year, a plant pathologist from the State Experiment Station has been asked to come to Pitt and conduct a sweet potato disease research discussion here.

"As a result of our request, Dr. W. L. Nielson, professor of plant pathology, N. C. Experiment Station, will be in Bethel Friday, March 7, to speak on diseases of sweet potatoes," Winchester said. "The discussion will take place in the Elementary School there at 2 o'clock in the afternoon."

According to the farm agent, Dr. Nielson will present the latest research information on such diseases as internal cork, black rot and scurf. He will supplement his remarks with appropriate slides, and the meeting is scheduled to last about two hours, including time for questions.

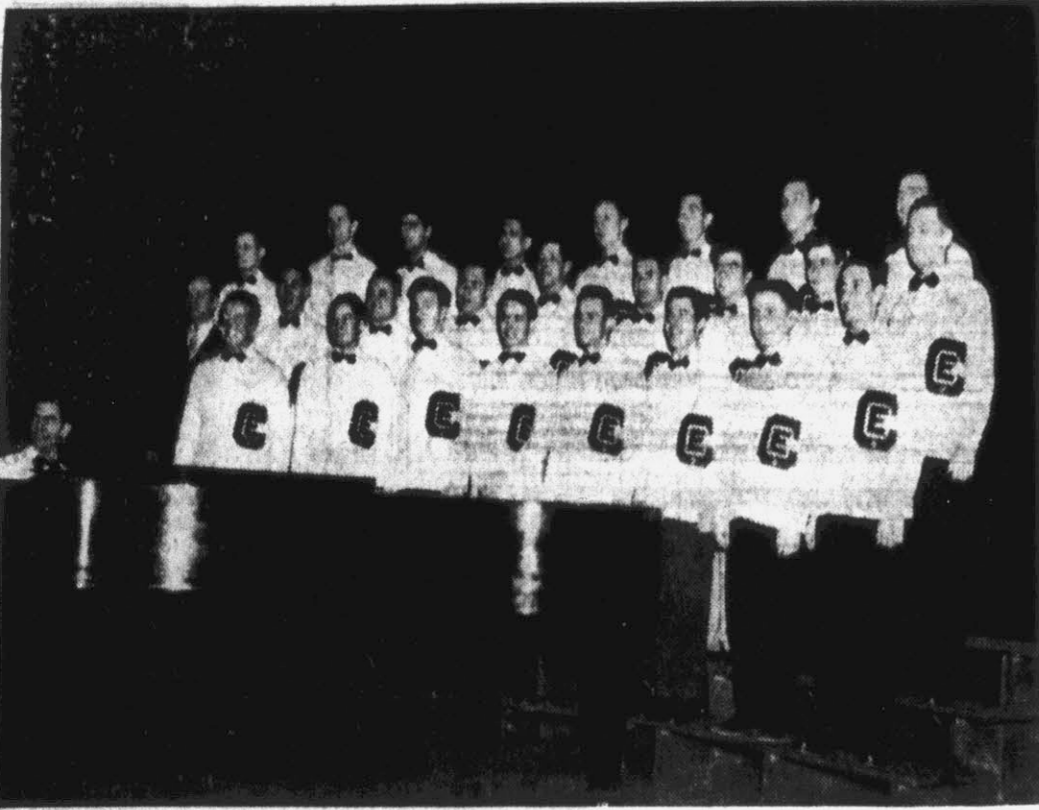

Pitt County farmers grew 2,267 acres of sweet potatoes in 1950, but that figure was substantially reduced in 1951, his year, however, farmers are expected to exceed the 1950 figure. As Bethel is a large market for this area, it was chosen as the site for the research discussion.

Internal cork is caused by a virus which enters the sweet potato and causes black, fleshy spots both inside and out. Black rot is a storage house disease which, as the name implies, literally rots the potatoes. Scurf is a skin disease caused by the use of stable manure in the beds or fields, or an over abundance of any organic matter in the soil.

Winchester stated that 160 bushels to the acre is about the average yield in Pitt County. This includes US number ones, jumbos, undersizes and culls. Two other markets in the county, besides Bethel, which handle sweet potato sales are Carolina Produce Company in Greenville, and Wade and Hill in Grifton.

U.S. Helps Fight Cattle Disease

SAIGON, Indo-China — (AP) — The Mutual Security Agency of the United States recently dispatched veterinary supplies by airplane to Phnom Penh to combat an outbreak of "rinderpest" among Cambodian cattle and hogs. The disease, usually fatal to cattle, is believed to originate somewhere in the border strip between Cambodia and Thailand.

Revenue Bureau Cracking Down On Tax Evaders

By CHARLES F. BARRETT WASHINGTON — (AP) — Stung by scandals within its own ranks, the Internal Revenue Bureau launched a silent but sweeping drive during the last six months of 1951 against tax dodgers.

This became known with the issuance of a report which showed: 1. In the last half of 1951, 744 tax fraud cases were sent to the Justice Department for prosecution — almost three times as many as in the same period the previous year.

2. In 1950, for each 100 such new cases, 60 were dropped without full court prosecution. But last year, only 13 out of 100 were dropped.

3. Within the bureau itself, cases sent to the penal division for prosecution increased 26 per cent. The number dropped by the division without prosecution declined 55 per cent.

4. Outstanding warrants for collection of all types of delinquent taxes increased from 902,007 cases involving 543 million dollars at the end of 1950, to 955,841 cases involving 641 million dollars by the end of 1951.

This crackdown on tax evaders came during the height of last year's revenue scandals, when charges of laxity, corruption and inefficiency were making headlines. Officials said privately the scandal spotlight may have spurred action in some cases, but there were other big factors. They cited a special drive which has netted 50 million dollars in assessments against racketeers, and use of "electronic brain" computing machines to free more personnel for enforcement work.

the members. Unfortunately, those who have not had hotel reservations for a long time will be out of luck, because the Raleigh hotels have been sold out for weeks for this weekend on account of basketball.

DATES — Besides the Democratic committee meeting Friday, the month of March has several other significant dates. There is, for instance, that unpleasant appointment with the offices of Edwin Gill and Eugene Shaw on or before Saturday of next week. (One man wants to know whaddaya mean "income tax," he says it's "outgo tax" in his check book.) The March 18 comes the State Republican convention at Charlotte. Noon of March 22 is deadline for filing notice of candidacy for state and district offices in the primary. All of which means that the next two and a half weeks will be busy times for the politically minded citizenry of the state. It will also be a busy time for farmers who are preparing land for the cultivation of cash crops, watching weather reports for probable effect on fruit, and otherwise getting ready for the growing season of 1952. There are no holidays in March, no significant birthday anniversaries, but it is a very important period in the overall scheme of things.

Tip Scales At Identical Weight

ST. LOUIS — (UP) — A "very, very rare" birth of twins occurred at Missouri Baptist Hospital here when girls were born to Mrs. Walter J. Wilde.

Each weighed exactly six pounds, 12 ounces. Staff physicians, who consulted medical books on the subject, said twins with the same weight are "very, very rare" and their duplicate length of 19 1/2 inches is "very unusual."
