Taft Opponents Say Withdrawal From N. J. Test Shows Weakness

Eisenhower Backers Believe General Soon To Ask To Leave His Post

WASHINGTON (UP) — Sen. Robert A. Taft's opponents today viewed his withdrawal from the New Jersey primary as a sign of weakness, but the Ohioan's supporters retorted that he will prove his strength in Wisconsin.

Republicans supporting Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower for the GOP presidential nomination said Taft gave their campaign its third big boost when he pulled out of the April 15 New Jersey contest. The general already had swamped Taft in New Hampshire and received an astonishing write-in vote in Minnesota.

Eisenhower added to his supporters' jubilation yesterday by saying he is "re-examining" his past decisions as a result of the Minnesota primary. His statement indicated he may come home and make a personal campaign.

Within the next few weeks, reliable sources in Paris believe, he will ask to be relieved as supreme commander of the North Atlantic Pact forces to pave the way for his return.

The period between mid-May and June 1 was reported the most logical time.

This would bring Eisenhower back to the U. S. just after the last state primary election and well before the Republican national convention July 7.

The Eisenhower camp received a minor setback last night when the Maryland attorney general's office ruled that voters may not write in the name of a candidate in that state's primary May 6.

Deputy Atty. Gen. J. Edgar Harvey said write-ins are banned in Maryland primaries. Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) is the only presidential candidate of either party to file in Maryland.

Taft announced yesterday that he would not conduct his planned campaign in New Jersey because Gov. Alfred Driscoll had "broken his word" by endorsing Eisenhower instead of remaining neutral.

Driscoll denied that he had violated a pledge and called Taft a "poor loser."

Harold E. Stassen, who was entered in the New Jersey primary along with Taft and Eisenhower, called Taft's move a "confession of weakness."

Taft's campaign advisers were divided about the wisdom of entering the New Jersey primary in the first place. The East has never been considered his strongest territory, but they were reported unanimous on the decision to withdraw.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced last night he definitely will not campaign for the Republican presidential nomination, but made it clear that if the American people want him he would accept the nomination.

The general reiterated a statement he issued in 1948 when he was generally acknowledged to be a candidate. At that time he said it would be "recrystallized" of him to "slink from the hazards and responsibilities involved from accepting any public duty to which I might be called by the American people."

MacArthur has been named frequently as a possible GOP nominee in the event Taft and Eisenhower become deadlocked.

MacArthur could be named as the nominee in such a deadlock without participating in any primary elections. He said he was "not a citizen of Wisconsin" would "waste" a vote on him in that state's primary.

Taft continued his Wisconsin campaign today. He has strong organized support in that state, and is shooting for a out-four-thirds of Wisconsin's 30 convention delegates. He is opposed in the primary by Stassen, Gov. Earl Warren of California and a slate favorable to MacArthur.

Taft And Kefauver Meet In Wisconsin

As Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) (left) stood examining a Wisconsin map in the Eau Claire Hotel in Eau Claire, Wis., his Republican opponent Sen. Robert Taft (R-Ohio) strode by. They exchanged greetings and here they shake hands warmly. Their paths crossed as Taft headed for Menomonee, Wis., and Kefauver went through a rubber company plant in Eau Claire. (AP Wirephoto.)

Reds Repeat Offer Of Prisoner Trade

'Compromise' Ignores Returning Of Unlisted Prisoners; Allied Delegates Shrug Off Proposal; Urge Patience At Home

By LEROY HANSEN United Press Staff Correspondent PANMONJOM, Korea (UP) — Red truce negotiators proposed today that both sides agree to release all listed war prisoners without further squabbling over missing captives.

The Communist "compromise" proposal provided for the freeing of only the 11,559 Allied and 132,474 Red prisoners whose names already had been exchanged. Of the Allied prisoners, 3,198 are Americans.

It in effect would write off at least for the present 93,000 additional Allied troops, including 1,398 Americans who disappeared in Red captivity and 44,000 Communist prisoners allegedly held but not reported by the U.N.

Allied representatives shrugged off the proposal. They said it contained "absolutely nothing new."

Moreover, it reiterated the Red demand for forcible repatriation, if necessary, of all listed prisoners.

The U.N. has warned that it never will force prisoners who have turned against communism to return to the Reds.

In an adjoining conference tent, other Red staff officers asked more time to map out specific areas around each of the 10 ports of entry through which troops and supplies may pass during a truce.

However, Col. Andrew J. Kinney of the U.N. told newsmen he anticipated no trouble in reaching a speedy final agreement on the issue. He said it may come Saturday, when the Reds submit additional data.

A high Allied leader at the same time said "impatient" demands from the American people for a quick cease-fire have made it difficult for U.S. leaders in the Far East.

"Our people back home have got to curb their impatience for getting a definite solution to everything in sight overnight—in other words, we've got to grow up," he said.

"What's 21 months or 10 years or 30 years to the Communists?" Brig. Gen. William P. Nuckolls, spokesman for the U.N. truce delegation, said the Communist "compromise" proposal on prisoners actually was a clarification of a hazy proposal they first made March 5.

For the first time, however, they spelled out just what they meant by exchanging listed prisoners, he said.

Truman Aims To Be In Background

Doesn't Want To Be Counted Out As Candidate Yet

By MERRIMAN SMITH United Press White House Writer KEY WEST, Fla. (UP) — President Truman may not stand for re-election, but for the present he does not want to be counted out as a possible candidate.

This turned out to be the burden of his remarks in which he appeared to repudiate the public beliefs of Frank E. McKinney, Democratic national chairman who until yesterday thought the chief executive was a poor chance to run again should peace develop in Korea.

The people around the chief executive said his indirect slap at McKinney meant no impending discipline for the chairman.

The staff at the winter White House interpreted Mr. Truman's statements to his press conference yesterday to mean that "the Boss" wants to remain in control of the Democratic situation until the last possible moment.

If the President wants to run again, he feels that he can say so right up until time for the Democratic convention in July.

If he decides to forego an attempt at re-election, he can shift his weight at any time he chooses.

The tenor of the President's news conference remarks at the winter White House indicated that he is not on the verge of saying what he will do, despite urgent pleas to the contrary from some of the Democratic leadership on Capitol Hill.

When reporters suggested that McKinney might favor an announcement at the Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner in Washington March 29 and certainly no later than May 15, when the party's executive committee meets to plan the Chicago convention, the President merely said that he would set his own date when he was good and ready.

This led to a widening belief that Mr. Truman may bide his time until late spring.

This delay in announcing his plans, however irritating to some other Democrats, would give him a chance to gauge his opposition and make his plans accordingly.

One of the President's well-known confidants said months ago he could not conceive of a race between the chief executive as the Democratic candidate and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower as the Republican standard bearer.

In Omaha earlier, Kefauver said he faces a "strong political machine" supporting Sen. Robert S. Kerr and "I'm not certain if the senator from Oklahoma or just who I'm running against."

Kerr's followers have indicated they believe he is the first choice of President Truman if Mr. Truman decides not to run. Kerr has said he'll support the President but "I'm not going to sit idle meanwhile."

Mr. Truman might be waiting to see if Eisenhower definitely dominates the Republican pre-convention field. If Eisenhower seems a sure bet for the nomination, it will cut down heavily on chances that the President will run again.

Biggest Day For U. S. Treasury

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Treasury had its biggest day in history last Tuesday when it collected $1,772,000,000 in taxes.

That's what the Treasury tabulated the day after the deadline for individuals and most corporations to file 1951 income tax returns. Actually, it will take a week or more to tabulate all the taxes that poured in in the last minute rush.

So far this month, the Treasury has collected almost $4,500,000,000 almost all in taxes. Before the month is over, it expects to collect that much again.

Solon Warns He Is 'Not Fooling' In Waste Battle

Says Inquiry Ahead If Pentagon Doesn't Act Fast On Graft Charges

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.) today alerted his preparedness subcommittee for a possible hurry-up meeting with top Pentagon officials to back up congressional demands that the huge North Africa airbase program be halted pending a thorough house-cleaning.

Johnson was reported in communication with Air Force officials, assuring them he was "not fooling" when he told a uniformed liaison officer yesterday the subcommittee would step in unless the Pentagon itself investigated charges of "waste, inefficiency and downright graft" in a hurry.

"We're either going to clean up the conditions, or we're going to clean out some people," he told Col. Edward F. Catlin, Air Force liaison officer, at a public meeting.

He instructed Catlin to notify his superiors.

Johnson singled out Lt. Gen. Lewis A. Pick, chief of the Army Corps of Engineers, for special criticism. He said he expects the general to say whether he still thinks—as Pick had reported earlier—that the project "is going well."

Meanwhile Downey Rice, the subcommittee counsel, got a promise of access to Pentagon records on what Rice said are "eight, 10 or 12 instances of collusion, kickbacks and fraud" on the project.

Asked what the subcommittee could do about it if the Pentagon turns down his demands, qualified spokesmen who declined to be named told reporters Johnson had in mind an appeal to congressional appropriations committees to amend some pending appropriation bill to forbid further expenditures for the project.

Johnson reportedly has already sampled sentiment in anticipation of such a move, and has been promised support.

Sen. Stennis (D-Miss.), a preparedness subcommittee member, announced "I'm ready to vote right now that this project should be stopped."

Johnson and Stennis base their criticism on testimony in three days of public hearings that:

1. Waste, extravagance and corrupt practice on the Morocco project have added millions to its cost.

2. Air Force specifications were not met, and runways at the bases are dangerous to heavy aircraft.

Johnson said he intends to see to it that "we do not assign airmen to their death" by landing on "buckled and rutted" Moroccan runways.

3. The project, originally designed to cost 300 million dollars, actually will cost at least 455 million, then title ultimately will pass to the government of French Morocco.

Kefauver Plane Is Forced Down

GRAND ISLAND, Neb. (UP) — The airplane carrying Sen. Estes Kefauver on a presidential campaign tour of Nebraska was forced down here today by heavy snow and the Tennessee senator was reported "the calmest man on board."

The twin-engine ship landed at Grand Island's airport enroute to McCook, Neb. Officials said the plane might have to be curtailed.

Officials said the plane made a "normal landing" after being warned by weather observers that flying weather west would be difficult.

Kefauver was in a jovial mood despite the interruption.

"I like it fine," he said. "As a Southern boy, I never did have enough snow."

In Omaha earlier, Kefauver said he faces a "strong political machine" supporting Sen. Robert S. Kerr and "I'm not certain if the senator from Oklahoma or just who I'm running against."

Kerr's followers have indicated they believe he is the first choice of President Truman if Mr. Truman decides not to run. Kerr has said he'll support the President but "I'm not going to sit idle meanwhile."

Steelworkers Delay Strike Call, Issue Up To Industry

Ridgway Warns Of Red Build-Up

Military Force In Siberia Said Ready For Action 'Any Time'; Sees Menace To Japan In Red Tactics

TOKYO (UP) — Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway warned today that Russia has completed building a fast military force in Siberia and is prepared for military action against Japan "at any time."

He said the Soviets have more than 5,000 fighter planes in Siberia and a fleet of submarines in the Japan Sea.

The supreme United Nations commander told the heads of Japan's three largest and most influential newspapers of the Russian buildup in Siberia and on Sakhalin Island, just north of Japan, in an interview.

He said Japan Communists already have begun following the same pattern that Chinese Reds marked out for victory over the Nationalists.

Communists in Japan are trying to seize control of labor unions and publications and are forming cells advocating violence even as they did in China, Ridgway said.

"This is a manifestation that the aims of the Soviet military power are now directed toward control of Japan," he said.

Ridgway said U.S. troops would remain in Japan after a peace treaty for the sole reason "to oppose such Soviet ambitions and the threat of Soviet military power."

"We have no territorial ambitions of possessing Japan's tiny country nor any desire to exercise political rule over Japan," he said.

Ridgway received the newspaper executives in his Dai-ichi headquarters office a few hours after the U.S. Senate ratified the Japanese peace treaty and the U.S.-Japan security pact.

The Japanese newsmen suggested that the return of occupation buildings in the center of Tokyo and other big cities would be a step toward making the Japanese feel they really were independent.

Ridgway thanked the newsmen for their advice, but said he would give priority to the Korean campaign while the war continued. He warned that some time would be required to move facilities from their present positions without injuring military efficiency.

Moreover, he said, it would be extremely difficult to give up at once "places like the Yokohama docks and warehouses which are playing important roles" in the prosecution of the Korean war.

In answer to a question from the newsmen, Ridgway said: "The problem of whether to outlaw the Communist party is one for the Japanese government to decide. But he said he felt that such a step would only drive it underground and have little effect on the efficiency of its operations."

Asked whether Japan should remain an "object lesson" of what can happen to a country without adequate defenses.

Most observers felt the steelworkers' acceptance of the board's recommendations shifted the pressure for settling the dispute squarely on the industry.

Industry members of the wage board bitterly assailed the panel's recommendations as an "instrument of union appeasement."

The management delegation said the proposals were "unfair and inequitable, and in terms of stabilization are in serious disregard of the public interest."

The board's union members said the recommendations offered "a solid foundation upon which a sound, fair, honest collective bargaining agreement" could be reached.

The board's recommendations were a compromise swung by the tripartite panel's public and union members.

Truckers Again Roll As Protest 'Parkdown' Ends

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UP) — A "parkdown" staged by independent truckers in protest to Pennsylvania's 45,000-pound weight limit law crumbled today as trucks began rolling from the borders of New York, Ohio and West Virginia.

At Conneaut, O., just three miles from the Pennsylvania state line, 1,000 trucks parked there yesterday had moved.

"It looks as though the strike was just a one-night stand," one officer said.

State police at Westfield, N. Y., reported normal flow of traffic. About 100 trucks had been parked at Ripley, N. Y., yesterday.

Pennsylvania state police at Somerset and Bedford reported that traffic was "near normal" along the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

Interior Dept. Budget Slashed By House Appropriations Body

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Appropriations Committee today recommended $492,434,763 for the Interior Department for the year starting July 1.

This represented a slash of $133,567,037 below the $626,001,800 budget recommendations of President Truman.

The sharpest cuts came in funds requested for the Reclamation Bureau, the Bureau of Indian Affairs, the Division of the Territories, and some public power projects.

The reduction, carrying out the recommendations of the subcommittee headed by Rep. Kiwan D-Ohio, represents a total cut of 21 per cent in the budget estimates and a cut of 7 per cent below the current level of spending.

A committee report said it reflected "determination to hold to a minimum program during the present critical period in which the conservation of dollars is so important."

An appropriation of $6,350,000 was requested for construction Power Administration, but the committee reduced this to $599,000. Of this amount, $599,000 is for continuation of the work on the Clark work for the Southeastern Hill-Greenwood, S. C. power line.

However, the committee approved in full the $4,150,000 requested for construction work for the Southeastern Power Administration.

The committee approved $7,105,000 for parkways compared with $680,000 for the Sultland Parkway specifically disallowed $170,000 for the Blue Ridge Parkway of North Carolina and Virginia, $680,000 for the Sultland Parkway in Maryland, and $130,000 for rights-of-way, plans and such.

"The desirability of the two parkways for which funds have been denied is recognized by the committee," the report said. "However, it is believed that work proposed for the fiscal year 1953 can be deferred with justification in view of the urgent need for cost saving dollars."

Union Accepts WSB Pay Boost Proposal, But Prepared To Walk Out If Industry Turns Down Terms; Spokesmen Strongly Critical Of Recommendations

By ROBERT E. LEE United Press Staff Correspondent WASHINGTON (UP) — The CIO United Steelworkers postponed their threatened nationwide strike today until April 8, leaving it up to the steel industry to accept or reject a 17 1/2-cent hourly pay boost and union shop recommended by the Wage Stabilization Board.

The union's 170-man wage policy committee accepted the board's recommendations shortly after 2 a.m. EST, but warned it will call a strike if an agreement is not reached with the steel companies by the new deadline.

The wage board's recommendations are not binding on either side. The steelworkers postponed their walkout for the fourth time only hours before Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson was scheduled to leave for Key West, Fla., to confer with President Truman on the crucial issue of steel prices.

Industry spokesmen have hinted strongly they will not go along with any proposal which does not assure a compensating price increase, and some observers expected the negotiations to bog down again if the price issue is not settled to the steelmen's satisfaction.

CIO President Philip Murray, who also heads the powerful steelworkers union, said negotiations with the industry would resume Monday.

Most observers felt the steelworkers' acceptance of the board's recommendations shifted the pressure for settling the dispute squarely on the industry.

Industry members of the wage board bitterly assailed the panel's recommendations as an "instrument of union appeasement."

New Members Taken Into Local OES Chapter 149

Greenville Chapter 149, Order of the Eastern Star, met at the Masonic Temple on Tuesday night, March 18, at 8:00 for its last meeting of the year.

The meeting began with the officers' march. The ritualistic opening was presided over by the Worthy Matron, Mrs. Keith Downing Cain, and the Worthy Patron, Joseph Palmer. The flags were beautifully presented by the Flagbearers, Mesdames Martha Forrest, Lillie Dell Briley, Mary Freeland and Doris Pollard.

Reports showing the commendable progress made during the year were presented by the standing and special committees. Mrs. Marguerite Howard was given a rising vote of thanks for outstanding work as head of the Ways and Means committee. Plans were discussed concerning Greenville Chapter's part in the Grand Chapter session that will be held in Raleigh in June.

In a beautiful candlelight ceremony, Mrs. Barbara Dail Manning and Mrs. Leland Mizelle were initiated into the Order.

For the good of the Order, a simple but impressive ceremony honoring Mrs. Thelma Maxwell, incoming Worthy Matron, was given. Taking part in the ceremony were the Worthy Matron, Mrs. Cain; the Star Pointers, Mrs. Daisy Whitehurst, protem, and Mesdames Ruth Joyner, Annie Jackson, Elizabeth Respass and Marguerite Howard. In a very inspiring message, Mrs. Maxwell expressed her pleasure and appreciation for the honor conferred upon her.

In closing the meeting, Mrs. Cain expressed to the Chapter members her appreciation and joy in having been given the privilege and honor of serving as Worthy Matron this past year. She then thanked individually the officers, committee members, Masonic supper chairmen and hostesses who have served so willingly and so well. The Past Matrons and Patrons she thanked in a gracious manner for the handmaiden tablecloth which they are presenting.

Little Ladies Club
The Little Ladies Club will meet Saturday, 10 a.m., at the Armory. All Little Girls who haven't brought eggs are asked to bring two eggs and crayons. Prizes will be awarded to the following girls who were winners in the membership drive: Martha Rose Clark, Dianne Summrell, Barbara Brooks, Nancy Allen and Judy Ann Tripp.

Training School Acquires Prints

Eight reproductions for the Training School have been framed and placed in the school by the P.T.A. The prints were acquired early in the fall when the Colonial Art Company, under the direction of James A. Walker, art supervisor, had a display of prints at the Training School. The proceeds from the exhibit of prints purchased the reproductions.

Mrs. Eagan's room won first choice for selling most tickets to the exhibit. Her room chose "Red Horses" by Marc. Mrs. Marshall's room won second place and her room will make their selection of a picture for their room later.

The rest of the prints have been placed in the various rooms and halls. "Dancer in Pink" by Kronberg, "Mary and Her Little Lamb" by Henke, "Chestnut Trees" by Cezanne, "Still Life" by Picasso and "Portrait of Young Man" by Van Gogh are some of the other prints.

John M. Hollowell Funeral On Saturday

Mr. John M. Hollowell, 88, died suddenly at the home of his sister, Mrs. George Bland, near Vanceboro, at six o'clock Thursday night following a heart attack suffered a few minutes earlier. Funeral services will be conducted at the Aurora Methodist Church Saturday afternoon at three o'clock by the pastor, the Rev. R. W. Moore, assisted by the Rev. Alton Hill, McNeireal will be in the Aurora Cemetery, Aurora, N. C. The body will remain at the S. G. Wilkerson & Sons Funeral Home and will be carried to the church one hour prior to the time of service.

Mr. Hollowell, son of the late Charles A. and Addie McLawhorn Hollowell, was born, reared, and spent nearly all his life at Aurora. He had lived with his sister, Mrs. Bland, for the past eighteen months. Mr. Hollowell served in World War One and saw active duty in Europe for about eleven months. He was a farmer most of his life and was a member of Dural Hamilton American Legion Post of Aurora and the Aurora Methodist Church.

New Officers Installed In Ayden Eastern Star Meet

AYDEN—The newly elected and appointed officers of the Ayden Chapter No. 52, Order of the Eastern Star, were installed in the Ayden Masonic Hall on Thursday evening at 8 o'clock by Mrs. Annie J. Stroud, installing officer, assisted by Mrs. Josephine R. Ross as marshal, Mrs. Marie Spear as Conductress, Mrs. Jessie J. Davidson as organist and Mrs. Clara M. Jenkins as chaplain.

After the opening march the retiring Worthy Matron, Mrs. Josephine D. Ross, delivered her closing address. She was presented her jewel by Mrs. Virginia T. Everett, and also a gift from her foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Stroud, which Mrs. Stroud presented. After the retiring patron, Elbert L. Davidson, had given his retiring speech, he was presented a gift by Mrs. Mattie Hardee. Miss Christine Stokes presented Mrs. Mildred McLawhorn, secretary, with a retiring gift.

The newly installed officers were Mrs. Rosa J. Little, Worthy Matron; Elbert L. Davidson, Worthy Patron; Mrs. Irma Belle Collins, associate matron; James W. Everett, associate patron; Mrs. Jessie J. Davidson, secretary; Mrs. Helen Dixon, treasurer; Mrs. Virginia T. Everett, conductress; Mrs. Lenora Mumford, associate conductress; Miss Christine Stokes, marshal; Mrs. Alma Buck, organist; Mrs. Dot Dail, chaplain; Mrs. Brownie McLawhorn, Adah; Mrs. Iva D. Gardner, Ruth; Mrs. Josephine D. Ross, Esther; Mrs. Lois H. Chaucery, Martha; Mrs. Corabob S. Turnage, Electa; Mrs. Clara M. Jenkins, vander; and Mrs. Mildred B. McLawhorn, sentinel. The flag bearers were Mesdames Mable J. Stokes, Lillian S. Hart and Queenie L. Dixon.

Following the installation ceremony an informal reception was held in the dining room. The table was covered with a cut work linen cloth and decorated with a floral arrangement of the emblematic colors and burning tapers. Miss Christine Stokes poured lime punch and Mrs. Renno Edwards served decorated cake. They were assisted in serving salted nuts by Mesdames Corabob Turnage and Lucille Craft.

Report Sales Of Saving Bonds

County U. S. Savings Bonds Chairman, J. H. Waldrop announced today that according to the monthly sales report from Allison James, State Director of Savings Bonds in Greensboro, sales of Series E, F & G Bonds in Pitt County for the month of February totaled $61,268.75, of this amount $59,568.75 was in Series E Bonds, and $1,700.00 in Series G Bonds.

The total figures for North Carolina's 100 counties were as follows: Series E Bonds $2,786,784.50; Series F $157,065.00; Series G $515,300.00; totaling $3,461,149.50. The Series E Bond sales in North Carolina for February exceeded the same period last year by $18,990.00. The first two months' E Bond sales in 1952 exceeded the same period last year by $76,295.00.

The county chairman stated that business, industrial, banking and agriculture leaders throughout the nation, and in the state are strongly endorsing the Defense Bond program. In February hundreds of industrial, business and trade magazines featured the picture and statement by the president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, Mr. Dechard A. Hulcy.

Mr. Hulcy said: "I urge every American employer to promote the payroll savings plan among his employees as a means of building a reservoir of savings. He is doing a three-way job by building a reservoir of savings and future purchasing power, contributing to America's defense effort, helping to maintain America's economic stability by providing a check on inflationary tendencies."

Sawyer Is Given Prison Sentence

ELIZABETHTOWN, N. C. — (AP) — In a surprise development, Walter Sawyer yesterday pleaded guilty to second degree murder in the slaying of U. S. Page and was sentenced to 20-25 years in prison.

Sawyer, a former tenant farmer on one of Page's Bladen County farms, was on trial for first degree murder in the death of the former state legislator.

Solicitor Malcolm B. Seawell accepted the lesser plea which was offered by defense lawyers after a lengthy conference. The sentence, pronounced by Superior Court Judge Walter J. Bone, was close to the 30 - year maximum for second degree murder.

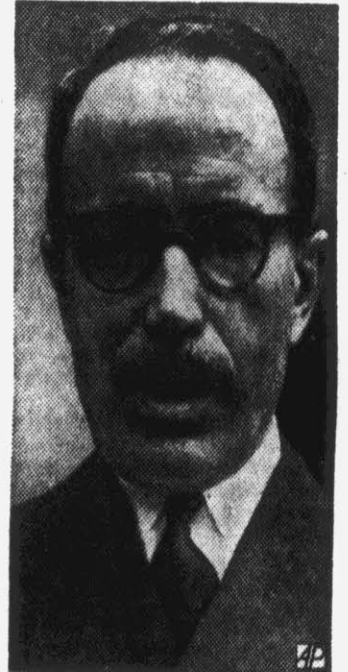

Seawell said he accepted the plea because he felt the Page family "through the press and otherwise, has been through enough."

Page, who was known as the "Bladen Bombshell" when he represented his county in the General Assembly, was slain in his store at Page's Lake the night of Dec. 29. He had been shot 11 times with a .22 rifle.

Officers said Sawyer, father of five children, verbally confessed the killing because Page "look broad from the mouths of my children." The death weapon never was found. Sawyer was linked to the slaying through bullet shells found near Page's body and matching shells he had in his possession.

Rescuers Begin Climb To Save Two Stranded Dogs

DARRINGTON, Wash. (UP) — A rescue team began a hazardous climb today in an effort to reach three hunting dogs marooned on a narrow ledge high on a storm-swept 7,150-foot mountain near here.

The dogs, without food and plagued by a flock of angry eagles, were stranded when they chased a cougar up a steep slope 15 days ago.

Waist-deep snow whipped by strong winds has blocked all attempts to rescue them so far, and weakened animals were abandoned because of dangerous downdrifts.

The rescue party included six men of the University of Washington Mountaineering Club and was led by Don Wilde, an experienced climber.

Wilde said plans called for the party to hike up the steep, icy slope to the 5,000-foot level. Then a rope will be fastened and he will shine down onto the dogs' perch. "If we can do this," he said, "we'll tie the dogs to a line, one by one, and lower them 200 feet to the base of the cliff."

Cleo Riddels, a cougar hunter and owner of the dogs, will be waiting with a veterinarian there, Wilde said.

Riddels, after looking at the animals through binoculars, said they looked "much weaker" than when he first spotted them three days ago.

"But I know they're alive because the eagles aren't coming down to stay," he added.

Originally there were four dogs on the ledge, but the youngest of them managed somehow to scramble down and was found by his master.

Spirit Of Spring Just Overflowed

ANN ARBOR, Mich. — (AP) — Spring came bustin' out all over the usually staid University of Michigan campus last night.

It took a near-riotous form. Bands of youths raided women's dormitories and the women raided back.

Assessing the damages today, university authorities found some broken windows and smashed doors. They blamed a spontaneous outbreak of spring fever. At its peak an estimated 2,500 students were involved.

The fun started with bands of men students invading the women's dorms, scattering under clothing about. The women formed counter-raids and city police were called.

A force of 10 officers responded but by that time the mob had split up into smaller groups which climbed on dormitory roofs, threw mud at fraternity and sorority houses and rocked the cars of police who tried to restore order.

President Harlan H. Hatcher came out to his front porch when the parade passed his house and appealed for quiet. He was cheered and the raiders swept on.

One band marched in on a campus theater — showing the movie, "Behave Yourself" — took the stage and sang "The Victors."

The seven hours of revelry simmered down around 1:30 a.m. when spirits were dampened by a light drizzle and a fire hose was turned on the last band of marauders by residents of one of the women's dormitories.

tells how D-D boosted tobacco profit!

"I fumigated 9 of my 37 acres of tobacco with D-D during the 1951 season. I made 1994 lbs. of tobacco (per acre) on the treated land and 1747 lbs. of tobacco (per acre) on the untreated land. This extra tobacco sold for $240 more (per acre) which paid me back many times the $15.00 I spent for treatment. The treated tobacco had a perfect root system, grew off well, matured evenly, had high quality and sold for a good average on the market."

"I used the row method of treatment under my tobacco and plan to treat my entire 37 acres next year. I think every farmer who has any root knot trouble should treat his land with D-D."

Average lbs. per acre....	1747	1994

Using D-D, Mr. Powers' profit increase per acre was $240.00.

You can do it too! Be sure you use D-D. It pays many times over in bigger yields, better quality and higher profits.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

WHICH?

The story of St. Paul's conversion to Christianity at the gates of Damascus is well known to every Bible reader. Paul carried with him a commission from the high priest of Jerusalem to arrest and bring to severe punishment all Christians found in Damascus. Amid a miracle light, he heard the voice of Jesus summoning him from the work of persecution to the work of mercy and teaching. The words were, "Arise . . . for to this end have I appeared unto thee to appoint thee a minister and a witness both of the things wherein thou has seen me and of the things wherein I will appear unto thee."

Paul started out with a commission from an earthly official to destroy; an onus he received the highest commission from high heaven to go forth and serve. After that, the persecutor became an apostle. He who had believed he could beat evil—or what he believed was evil—out of men with a club now gave his life to leading men to God, along the glorious highway of love.

We all carry two commissions in our hearts—one from Satan himself to do evil and the other from God to do good. The glory of Paul was that he was not disobedient to the heavenly vision. He gave up the lower commission to accept the higher.

How will you use your life? To which commission are you responding?

Domestic Budget Is Still Overloaded

Yesterday's headlines heralded a House committee bill that would cut the budgetary requests of the Department of Labor, Federal Security Agency and related boards nearly 200 million dollars or approximately 10 per cent. Even a small cut in any domestic expenditures would be welcome news to the overburdened taxpayers but to our way of thinking the entire domestic budget could stand a lot more slashing.

Despite the fact that those who favor continued expanding of the government stress the point that most of the money asked in today's budget requests is for defense, we feel that it is well to give some attention to what has been happening in the way of spending by our domestic departments of government during the past decade.

The budget of the Labor Department during the period increased by 1283 per cent, that of the Commerce Department by 1049 per cent, the State Department by 1684 per cent with somewhat lesser percentages of increases in all non-military departments.

Here are comparative figures on some of the departments for the years 1940 and 1950 which may or may not be startling but which should warn all Americans that the time has come when there must be a stop to the squandering of the taxpayers' dollars if the country is to remain economically sound:

Departments	1940	1950
Commerce	$ 75,116,535	$ 863,802,852
Interior	71,885,280	568,435,344
Labor	18,576,698	257,043,997
Justice	50,813,162	181,290,804
State	20,829,487	361,226,112
Ind. Offices	3,269,254,403	9,033,499,925

A Good Move By Pitt Grand Jury

Now that the Pitt County Grand jury has clamped down on the Justice of the Peace courts in the county, information on the activities of these courts will be more readily available to the general public, and perhaps that link of the state's court system will be strengthened.

For too many years not only in Pitt County, but about most of North Carolina an unhealthy vagueness has surrounded the magistrate courts. Rumors, some founded and some probably without foundation, have widely circulated depicting the usurpation of justice by magistrate courts. The factors have led to the widespread opinion that this business of J. P. Courts is little short of a legalized racket.

In spite of the fact that activities may have been altogether above board in the 13 magistrate courts in Pitt County, the new recommendations from the grand jury that require JPs to give accurate records of their activities should certainly make for more healthy dispensation of justice by these lower courts in the county.

There are already regulations governing the magistrate courts of the state, but what the Grand Jury recommendations do, in effect, is require the magistrate courts to toe the line on these regulations more closely than has been done in the past.

The Grand Jury made a good move in its investigation of the activities of the Justices of the Peace in Pitt County. More of that sort of investigation should be undertaken by the grand jury of the county.

The Temptation Is Increasing Daily

General Eisenhower's political future has taken on a new perspective during the past several days as a result of the write-in campaign for the General in Minnesota.

General Ike has announced that the results of the primaries in New Hampshire and Minnesota are forcing him to re-examine his position and decision about being a Republican nominee. The General didn't elaborate, but that statement could mean he is willing now to enter a scrap for the nomination although some months ago he did not want to enter an all-out battle on an unsure footing.

At the same time, President Truman has issued Eisenhower an open invitation to return to the United States at any time he deems it safe and proper in his own judgment.

In spite of the fact that Eisenhower's popularity at the polls has been rather surprising even to his supporters, and that Taft is trying to avoid another embarrassment in the New Jersey primary, it is still Taft, not the General, who in the final analysis is in the lead for the Republican nomination.

Eisenhower supporters have been working on and apparently gaining ground among the rank and file members of the Republican party for their candidate. By the same token, Taft has been laying his groundwork for the nomination among the high brass in the Republican party which will have most to say about the nominee when convention time rolls around.

If the public tide for Eisenhower continues to rise, it may be that Taft's lead among the high brass will be cut down. Whatever Eisenhower's decision after his re-examination of his position, it must be a great temptation for him to come home and make a personal bid for the nomination.

National Whirligig

WASHINGTON—President Truman's angry denunciation of "greedy and arrogant" opponents of his public power program will get an equally angry answer from Capitol Hill today, when the heavily Democratic House Appropriations Committee reports an Interior Department bill carrying about $150,000,000 less than the White House wanted for hydroelectric generating plants and transmission lines.

It is the most serious rebuke Truman has suffered at this session in the field of domestic legislation. In addition to the enforced economies on this kind of spending, new legislative restrictions on expansion of public power amount to a definite mandate against further encroachments on private industry in this realm. It is a crippling setback.

REVERSE—The significant fact about this reverse is that it was not the work of the "reactionaries" whom Truman headed in his recent attack, which was read before the National Rural Electrification Cooperative Association by Secretary Chapman two days after the Kefauver triumph in New Hampshire.

In fact, politicians regarded the Truman outburst on power as an attempt to distract public attention from his Kefauver humiliation. It had been written and mimeographed at Interior many weeks ago.

The financial and legislative restrictions were supported by several public power advocates on the committee, by labor union sympathizers and by farmers' representatives.

On one reason or another, each group has begun to sour on the Truman-Chapman scheme for creating a vast federal public utility system that will destroy the $25,000,000,000 structure now in existence.

UNPOPULAR—Behind today's upset lies an accumulated background of Congressional grievances against Truman-Chapman tactics, which added up to outright defiance of basic power statutes and a refusal to abide by Capitol Hill's expressed will in these matters. There is no more unpopular Cabinet member at the eastern end of Pennsylvania Avenue than Secretary Chapman.

While Congress has persistently tried to limit his authority on power he has sought deviously to extend it. He has gone into court in order to strip another agency—the Federal Power Commission—of its jurisdiction over hydroelectricity licenses, and has been defeated in every judicial contest.

He has tried to usurp the authority of the Army Engineers, who were partially responsible for today's repudiation of the White House and Interior.

BLUNDER—But Chapman made his fatal blunder recently in his legal battle with FPC before the U.S. court in Richmond. In asking the Justices to give him a rehearing on an adverse decision in his conflict with FPC, he argued that Interior did have a right to appear in opposition. The court had held otherwise in its earlier ruling.

When pressed by the court to prove his right to be a "party of interest," Chapman admitted that the federal government was "in the power business," and, therefore, was an active competitor of the Virginia utility firm which now serves the area involved.

DESPERATION—This was the first time that any government official has dared to concede that the United States government had entered the field of power generation and distribution deliberately and cold-bloodedly.

In the past, the government has generated, distributed and sold electricity only when electrical energy was a by-product of such essential, federal activities as irrigation, flood control, navigation, conservation etc.

It was on the basis of this legal contention that earlier suits against TVA and similar undertakings were dismissed by the courts. At Richmond, however, Chapman cast off, apparently in legal desperation, all pretense on this question. He admitted what every body had suspected, even in the face of his earlier official denials.

PROPHETIC—An extremely interesting and prophetic feature of the committee's hostile action is the breakup of the "whistle public power bloc," which once consisted of political "liberals," labor unions and farm organizations.

A radical on this issue, Representative Henry M. Jackson voted against the proposed intertie of Bonneville power produced in his state of Washington and California projects. He does not want scarce hydroelectricity exported from his area in order to win project two years ago. Chapman deliberately spent several hundred thousand dollars on preliminary surveys. And he asked for it again this year.

Now, Robert—

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

This was written at five after eleven last night, in the dimmest light that would allow me to see paper, with one eye on my newly-installed television set. At this moment the wrestling matches are coming in like a movie.

The wrestling on the screen reminds me a great deal of the wrestling my poor neighbors did in order to get my antenna into the air. It's rough to admit it, but I was one of those few fellows who thought the price of installation was too high, so I'd do it myself. Believe me, it's worth every cent of the installation cost. To repay my neighbors for their supreme effort, I feel like I should send every one of them a Cadillac.

Under the supervision of Ed

Rawl Jr., and with help from Bill Davenport, George Lautares and Bill Alford, we were able to stick a 50-foot pole five feet down into the chimney. If you think that's an easy task, ask my neighbors.

The first stage of a new set owner is the telephone call phase. This takes place when reception is bad, and the owner wants to know what kind of reception his neighbor is getting. Everybody exaggerates the quality of his reception, having to admit that his set isn't bringing in a picture. With this attitude, all of the neighbors keep each other guessing as to what is on the screen.

The influence of television on our lives is getting to be more significant by the day. The movie industry in sections that have good

TV coverage is in sad shape.

In the news this week is a report on a trick the movie industry has tried to combat the competition of television. David B. Walenstein, general manager of the Balaban and Katz theater chain, dreamed up the idea of popping sports events into the movie theater. Granted, the customers would have to pay, but it would open the field to those who are not set owners.

Nine fights and football games cost the theater chain $23,640, and the admission collected amounted to only $14,541. The total loss, not including normal operating cost, was $10,312. The movie chain decided that it would have to rely on better movies from Hollywood, and not use their own ideas. And I thank you.

REPUBLICANS—The Republican state convention at Charlotte this week cleared up a good many matters of concern to the party, but left some others still in doubt. The event has been hailed in advance as test of strength between supporters of Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio and General Dwight D. Eisenhower of Kansas. New York and Europe for the presidential nomination. Both factions assert they won substantial victory in the convention, justifying previous claims. On face of factual news stories about the convention these assertions will stand up. On the record the Eisenhower folks made a better showing and Taft folks did not do so well as they had predicted in selection of delegates and other key personnel.

BACKGROUND—Factual reporting of incidents as they happened does not include presentation of some behind the scenes manipulation, or give the full story of relative strength between the two major contenders for the Republican presidential nomination. Nor does spot news reporting show the latent or reserve strength of General Douglas MacArthur. Some of the boasted victories of the Eisenhower group had clear intimation of being voluntary concessions by the Taft folks. It was apparent to your reporter after circulating among the delegates Monday night and Tuesday and following developments in the convention hall that the Taft people—while lacking their boasted absolute control of the situation—could have mastered enough enough to block the Eisenhower boom. In declining to exert such pressure in the interest of party harmony, it is possible that they lost the chance to hold North Carolina in the Taft column. Eisenhower leaders are boldly saying that is what happened, although not agreeing that it was by reason of voluntary concessions by the Taifts. They insist they won what they got "on their own" in a fair fight.

INCIDENTS—The two real test votes proved Taft dominance among the more than 1,000 delegates. Yet, A. I. Ferre of Randolph, an avowed Eisenhower leader, was unanimously elected permanent chairman of the convention. J. M. Bailey, Jr., of Madison, who has made no formal commitment but has conceded Eisenhower leanings, was unanimously re-elected state chairman upon nomination of John Wilkinson of Beaufort, one of the half dozen key men in the North Carolina brain trust for Taft. H. F. Seawell of Moore, in the same boat with Bailey—not formally committed but informally conceded to the Eisenhower bloc, was nominated for governor over Clyde Greens of Watauga, an avowed Taft man.

TEST—None of these votes was a real test of strength between the factions. Primary considerations were personal popularity and ability to give aid to the party in the state, with the national situation considered incidentally, if at all. Some staunch Taft folks told your reporter they voted enthusiastically for Ferre, Bailey and Seawell because they felt these men would be worth more to the Republican cause in a state campaign, particularly in close districts and counties.

The test votes came in the naming of delegates to the national convention. Custom has been to send the nominee for governor as one of the big Four delegates at large. Taft strength, mobilized by National committeeman J. E. Boyhill of Caldwell, was sufficient to substitute Clyde Greene for Herbert Seawell in the Big Four delegation.

SPORTSMANSHIP—Good sportsmanship and good citizenship prevailed throughout the convention. When it looked like last minute efforts of over-enthusiastic Taft supporters might switch votes in the gubernatorial nomination, Greene begged the delegates to stand by their original votes, thus assuring the nomination for Seawell. Then when Seawell was knocked off the Big Four list Taft folks pleaded for his unanimous selection as an alternate. Many supporters of both Taft and Eisenhower joined in protest against efforts of extreme partisan to bump Mrs. W. P. Few, national committeewoman, off the Big Four list, because she refused to commit herself for either.

GEOGRAPHY—Geography played smaller part in Republican deliberations than in traditional Democratic convention proceedings. It is true there were frequent references to the need for recognizing the efforts of eastern Republicans. But when the chips were down and the votes were being cast by the county delegations, it was evident that fitness for the job was the main consideration.

CITIZENSHIP—There is growing tendency in both political parties and their state-wide organizations in North Carolina to put qualifications above place of residence as a criterion for recognized leadership. There are ambitious and selfish people in all groups, who seek to gain advantage by appeal to prejudice. One cannot attend meetings of North Carolina Democrats and Republicans, both old and young; conventions of lawyers and doctors farmers and merchants and civic clubs and churches—whose

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER
America's railroads have a problem. Their costs are going up. But as they gain the right to charge more for freight, they lose more freight to trucks.

Less-than-carload freight rates on furniture, as used by the typical store, went up from $6 to $12 per cent last year, General Lawrence H. Whiting, president of the American Furniture Mart in Chicago, reports after a study. In addition, he noted, there was a general increase of 6 per cent in the Eastern territory and 6 per cent in the rest of the country last fall. As a consequence, there has been a great shift from rails to truck by the furniture industry and this may be followed by still greater dispersal by the industry. It costs more than $35 to ship a four-piece bedroom set from Indiana to Salt Lake City, and more than $42 from North Carolina to that destination, General Whiting said. Factories near Salt Lake City therefore have a great price advantage over more distant ones, especially in low-price lines.

Even the shift to defense production is not helping railroads. Dr. Charles F. Roos, president of the Econometric Institute, predicted that freight traffic this year will decline 7 per cent "principally because war goods contain less material, in relation to total dollar value, than do civilian goods." Harold K. Schreder, economist for Distributors Group, Inc., predicted the decline would be 3 per cent and Dr. J. H. Parmelee, economist for the Association of American Railroads, told the Interstate Commerce Commission earlier this year that a 1 per cent drop could be expected.

The railroads' answer to the problem is higher freight rates for themselves and higher taxes on trucks. They say that truckers can under-price them because state and federal governments maintain the highways while railroads must keep up their own tracks. This argument has led several state legislatures to boost taxes on trucks and to limit their loads. Last year alone 19 states tightened up size and weight limitations on trucks. The railroads have a plea for higher rail rates pending before the I. C. C.

The trucking industry is almost as unhappy as the railroads are, despite an increase in operating revenues of 14.5 per cent during the first nine months of 1951. In addition to the wave of new taxes and regulations with which they are confronted, their operating costs are rising. Operating ratios to income rose from 91.9

percent in 1950 to 94.4 per cent in 1951. Truckers, too, are asking the I. C. C. for higher rates. A request for a 6 per cent rise is pending but the industry may step up the request to 15 per cent.

CORPORATIONS COMB CAMPUSES FOR E.E.'S

Electrical engineering seniors today are more popular than millionaires' daughters are during sorority rush week. The large companies are combing the colleges "meter" and good E.E.'s are hard to find.

Other engineers, mathematicians, chemists, physicists and commerce grads-to-be are also in demand. Northwestern National Life Insurance Co. reports that scouting the colleges began two months earlier this year, with offers of more than $300 a month for engineering grads and slightly less for others.

The corporations, of course, are also competing with the draft, with about half the male graduates liable to service. Corporation scouts wish the services would concentrate on poets and playwrights.

HOW TO GIVE ORDERS BOSS' NO. 1 PROBLEM

Business executives' most serious problem is how to give orders, the Research Institute of America concludes after a survey of executives and their foremen. Foremen ranked that problem fifth. Their great worry is how to read workers' minds to determine what is bothering them and to get suggestions. Management put that problem fifth. Costs were put third by management and seventh by foremen.

CHANGE IN FORMS FOR FORMOSA TRADE

American firms doing business in Formosa are being advised by the Mutual Security Agency that the Central Trust of China, which purchases commodities under MSA financing, has made minor revisions in forms and conditions. Revised forms are available from the MSA, Office of Small Business, 806 Connecticut Ave., Washington 25, D. C.

NEW CUTTING METHOD SPEEDING DEFENSE

Defense is being speeded by a new method of cutting gun barrels and similar weapons, Fred W. Lucht, General Electric engineer, told the American Society of Chicago. Instead of drilling a complete hole, new machines drill around the circumference and the central portion of the metal is removed as a solid core. It provides savings with hole diameters down to two inches; more on larger bores.

Hal Boyle's Column

NEW YORK — (AP) — People who complain of having a bad memory often merely are running away from life.

This is the conclusion of Dr. Bruno Furst, who has taught 25,000 people to remember better.

"With many people forgetting is a kind of escapism," he said. "If they are not satisfied in life, if they are discontented with their marriage, they want to forget certain things. And this decreases their powers of memory generally."

Dr. Furst is a specialist in putting muscles back on the memory power of people who want to remember better.

"Most intelligent people have the wrong conception of memory," he said. "They speak of a good memory or a bad memory. There is no such thing. Every person's memory is good in certain directions and poor in others. Like a muscle it can be improved by proper exercise."

Dr. Furst, a former criminal lawyer forced to flee Germany by the Nazi regime, recalls he had trouble "with what is called a bad memory when I was a student myself."

"That is why I went into this work. Today I have no trouble remembering anything I wish."

One of his own mental gymnastic feats is to glance through a deck of cards and then repeat them aloud in order. He believes practically anyone who will train his mind can do the same thing.

"William James, the psychologist, once said that people don't use one tenth of their real brain power," he remarked. "I think he was correct."

The system he developed is now taught at several universities, including Yale and Brooklyn College. It is built on the principles of concentration, observation, and the use of key symbols that have a power of association with the objects or persons to be remembered. His students range from housewives to top executives.

"The most general complaint people make is they can't remember names or faces, and this embarrasses them socially or in their jobs," he said. "But there is no reason why you cannot meet 30 complete strangers at a party and afterward recall them accurately by name and face."

As a matter of fact, that is one of the graduation tests for his students after completing his ten-week course.

Dr. Furst, who has a formidable brow, has developed his own memory ability to the point where he has trouble finding anyone to join him in playing bridge, one of his hobbies. He remembers the cards too well.

The 61-year-old mnemonic expert is also a professional graphologist, or handwriting analyst, star chess player, sleight-of-hand artist, and hypnotist. By mental concentration he can increase or slow the tempo of his own heart beat.

One of his personal brain exercises is to concentrate his attention for six minutes on the bare head of a pin. Think that is easy? Try it. The average man can't stare that long at a pretty pin-up picture without letting his mind wander.

"The American housewife needs memory training even more than the people in professional or business life," said Dr. Furst.

"Her routine duties don't give her the mental problems which develop creative thinking. A survey I made showed that 80 out of 100 had to write down their shopping lists. The rest depended on memory, but 13 out of this 20 admitted that they sometimes forgot an item and had to return to the store for it."

But people, as he observed, usually concentrate their memory on what is closest to their heart. Did Dr. Furst ever hear of a housewife who forgot her wedding anniversary?

"Never," he admitted. "That is why more husbands would be happier with a little memory training."

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS
WASHINGTON — "At first we were five," began one of the founders of the unique Speech Clinic National Foundation, "a group of Washington women casually meeting for tea."

"Some one told a very pitiful story of a 2-year-old boy whose young mother had committed suicide because she could not remember the words of the Lord's Prayer. The boy was born an imbecile," the woman went on. "The mother, a government worker, fought off relatives and friends who tried to take the baby away because they said he was an idiot."

The doctor said the child suffered only a speech impediment and would grow out of it if he just had some help. The five women chipped in to get their help.

"The boy's 7 now, in his pre-graduate at school, and doing fine," said Mrs. James W. Boyer, retiring president of the foundation. In helping out in this case the women found little had been done to help children—or adults—with speech defects. They found that children with speech defects were actually discriminated against because they weren't quick enough to respond vocally resulting in maladjustments, delinquency and certain unhappiness. People in the Childrens Bureau have been working for several years to educate the public on this problem.

In the Capital the little group of five has grown to an active list of 183 women. It meets officially four times a year and collects funds through small benefits. Its principal beneficiary is the Speech Clinic of George Washington University. It donates $500 a year to help the work of the clinic.

"We have no overhead and no paid workers, so everything we make from teas, dances and other benefits goes straight to the cause," Mrs. Boyer explained.

"Yesterday we gave a tea at the Australian Embassy and made $243.25. The ambassador's wife, Mrs. Percy Spencer, donated the tea and cakes."

Mrs. Georgia Neese Clark, U. S. treasurer, eagerly joined the group because she said "the money the group raised went for what it said it was for," Mrs. Boyer related.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

PURGING CONSERVATIVES (Washington News)

We read that President Truman is thinking of conducting a political purge against conservatives much like Franklin D. Roosevelt tried in 1938.

Mr. Truman is said to be very incensed at Harry Byrd of Virginia and Walter George of Georgia. He is quoted as believing they act more like Republicans than Democrats. So he wants to throw them out.

Franklin Roosevelt learned a great lesson in 1938 when he actually went to Georgia and spoke against Senator George. And the voters of Georgia rallied around the veteran senator and sent him back in congress. And Mr. Byrd has been a thorn in the side of Mr. Truman for a long time just as he was to Mr. Roosevelt.

Is a man a disloyal Democrat because he cannot go down the line with Mr. Truman? Is the fact that he disagrees with the president and titular head of his party sufficient reason for kicking man out of the party?

Senators George and Byrd, we believe, have always voted the Democratic ticket. They have squabbled, perhaps, within the party, but they have confined their arguments to the party. They have been Democrats all the time insofar as we know.

man cannot do so in Georgia or Virginia.

If he tries, Mr. Truman will be handed the bitterest setback he ever suffered. It seems to us right now that a man has a political asset in Georgia or Virginia as well as he happens to be on the president's black list.

Furthermore, with all the talk of a third party rampant in the South, if attempts are made to throw these two out of the party, then those very efforts may make a third party more substantial in 1952. Mr. Truman surely is too good a politician not to realize that possibility. In fact, instead of throwing them out, it is quite possible now that Mr. Truman may be begging them to stay in before the 1952 election is settled.

Lydia Opened Heart and Home

Lydia, a devout woman, listened to Paul's teaching, and after being baptized, she begged Paul and his companions to be guests in her home.

A slave girl possessed of a spirit kept following the apostles until Paul ordered the spirit to come out of her, which angered her masters.

The men who had been making money from the girl's gift of prophecy, dragged the apostles to the market place where they were beaten.

Imprisoned, the apostles prayed and sang. An earthquake loosed all bonds. In the morning they returned to Lydia. MEMORY VERSE—Proverbs 31:30.

Lydia Opened Heart and Home

SHE LISTENED, BELIEVED AND BEGGED THE APOSTLES TO ABIDE AT HER HOUSE

Scripture—Acts 16:6-40.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL
THE STORY of the devout woman, Lydia, is unique in the Bible story because she was a business woman—a seller of the purple cloth, dyed with a costly dye obtained from a species of shell fish. It was expensive because only one drop of it was secured from the throat of a fish, although a cheaper dye was secured by crushing the fish.

How did the missionaries, on the second of Paul's missionary journeys, happen to meet this prosperous woman? They had been in Asia, but the Spirit Who directed their work, refused to let them speak further in Asia.

At Troas, a famous seaport on the western shores of Asia Minor, across the Aegean sea from Macedonia, Paul had a vision at night. The vision was of a man from Macedonia who begged the Apostle to "come over into Macedonia, and help us."

Sure that the Lord had called them to preach the gospel on that continent, Paul and his companions went to Samothrace, next to Neapolis, and thence to Philip-

Paul, "being grieved," told the spirit to come out of the poor slave, in the name of Jesus Christ. It left her, but the men who had been making "easy money" through the girl were very angry and they caught Paul and Silas and took them to the market place, accusing them to the magistrates of teaching "customs which are not lawful for us to receive, neither to observe, being Romans." They also said that they were Jews and were "troubling our city."

The multitude of people were against them, and "the magistrates rent off their clothes, and commanded to beat them."

After they had been severely beaten they were thrown into prison with their feet in the stocks. At midnight the Apostles prayed and sang praises to God, and "suddenly there was a great earthquake, so that the foundations of the prison were shaken; and immediately all the doors were opened, and everyone's bands were loosed."

Awakening from sleep, the keeper of the prison saw the open pi, chief city of that part of Macedonia.

There, on the Sabbath day, the missionaries went to the riverside outside the city, where there was a place of prayer. There being no synagogue in Philippi, this was the place where devout Jews met for prayer. Lydia, who worshipped God, was there.

There are those who go to worship on the Sabbath whose thoughts wander about on business affairs, household duties, social affairs, etc., paying little heed to the service or the words of the minister.

Lydia was not one of these. She listened attentively; the Lord "opened her heart"; she was convinced of the truth of Paul's words, and was baptized with all her household. Then she begged the missionaries to go to her home and "abide there."

She was so emphatic in her invitation, that they felt "constrained," or almost forced, to accept. It must have been a pleasant interlude in the lives of these men, who traveled many miles on foot, depending on the generosity of those who listened and received their message for food and lodging. Lydia probably had a comfortable home with servants to care for the needs of all.

As the missionaries went to pray a young girl followed them everywhere. She was possessed by a spirit and could prophesy, so some men took her about and made money by her soothsaying. As she followed the Apostles she cried, "These men are the servants of God, which shew us the way to salvation."

No Weed-Pulling On Barbados Isle

WASHINGTON — (UP) — Any American weed-puller with an aching back would envy the pullers on Barbados.

The place is a paradise for weed-pullers. There are no weeds to speak of.

Barbados is a tiny sugar-producing British possession, easternmost of the Caribbean islands.

It took about 300 years to do it but during that time the cultivation of nearly every arable square foot of Barbados has eliminated weeds and weedseed.

At least, that is the conclusion of Charles Allmon, who writes about it in the National Geographic Magazine.

There has been intensive cultivation. Even so, the thin soil of the island has not been depleted. The people have used fertilizer, crop rotation, and have taken advantage of the lack of erosion.

Rain, in that area falls mostly on the heavy side from June to November. It doesn't run off. It sneaks into the bedrock and "percolates" slowly. Then it comes out in bubbling springs near the coast. The British Isles get all of the processed sugar that come from Barbados. Nearly fourth-fifths of the 166-square-mile island is covered with cane fields.

Specialist Says Smoking Won't Hurt Your Heart

DALLAS, Tex. (UP)—A nationally-known Los Angeles heart specialist, attending the Dallas Southern Clinical Society's annual conference, has a heartening word for worried smokers.

It won't hurt you or your heart—provided, of course, you aren't sensitive to nicotine.

Dr. George C. Griffith also explained how to discover whether or not a smoker is sensitive.

He takes a newly-developed test, requiring that he do without cigarettes for 24 hours. The smoker then is placed in a closed, warm room.

He smokes two cigarettes rapidly. The temperature of the skin on his hand is measured with a thermocouple.

If his hand skin temperature has dropped as much as 8 degrees, the person is nicotine sensitive.

The doctor himself is. He quit smoking.

Sabu Faces New Paternity Trial

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Sabu Dasgupta, the elephant boy of the films, must face trial again on charges brought by British actress Brena Mari-n Juleit that he is the father of her three-year-old child.

The District Court of Appeals yesterday granted the actress request for a new trial on grounds that Superior Judge Philip H. Richards gave "erroneous and prejudicial" instructions to the jury in 1950 which ruled Sabu was not the father.

The 24-year-old actress charged in her appeal that Sabu's attorney had attempted to prejudice the jury by insinuating in his questions that she had sex relations with men other than Sabu.

Pirates Lose 2-1 In Baseball Opener Against Flyers

Marines Get Three Hits Off Buc Hurlers

East Carolina Threatens Twice In Opening Game Of Season; Failure To Provide Clutch Hitting Brings Loss

CHERRY POINT—Failure to provide clutch hitting yesterday afternoon cost the East Carolina Pirates their first baseball contest of the 1952 season. The Pirates fell 2-1 before the Cherry Point Flyers.

Three Buc pitchers—Jimmy Byrd, Rodney Heath and Jim Piner—combined to hurl three hit ball against the Marines but lost when the Buc failed to take advantage of opportunities presented. Heath was charged with the loss.

The Pirates drew first blood by tallying their run in the first inning. With one man out, outfielder Fred Soles singled into left and promptly stole second base. He traveled to third on a wild pitch and came home with the first run when W. C. Sanderson punched a single into right-centerfield.

The Marines came storming back in the home half of the fourth frame to tie the game up at one run apiece. Centerfielder Stewart reached first on an error and, in a process of waiting his chances, went completely around the bases on defensive lapses by the Pirates. Stewart made second by stealing it. Then he set out for third base. The throw from the catcher was low and skipped away from the Pirate third baseman. Stewart had little trouble continuing on his way and the score was tied up.

The Flyers moved into their final lead in the fifth frame when they scored with the help of two walks and a base hit. Pitcher Mueller and shortstop Venger both drew walks to put two men on the bases with no outs. Coach Jack Boone of the Pirates replaced Heath with Jim Piner and the situation looked immediately better when the next two batters were retired on infield flies. Then second baseman Marichich lined a single into left field which brought Mueller home with the winning run.

The Pirates made two serious threats after that but were unable to score. In the seventh frame, they got the bases loaded with but one out but lost the chance to score when George McSwain and W. C. Sanderson were retired on pop flies.

In the ninth frame, Dick Hoskins led off with a base on balls and stole second but had to watch the next three men retired while he waited at second. All in all, the Buc left 12 runners stranded.

In the batting department, Soles was the only player on either team who came through with more than one hit. He came through with a pair of singles in four trips to the plate. Dick Hoskins, Galtier Cline, W. C. Sanderson, Jimmy Harris and Jimmy Byrd got the other Pirate hits.

The three hits gathered by the Marines went to Marichich, Stewart and Green.

Essentially, the game was one in which the pitchers enjoyed the advantage. Except for Heath's brief moment of wildness in the fifth inning, all the Buc pitchers did very well in their turns on the mound. Byrd and Piner were especially impressive and will probably be used next Wednesday when the Pirates open their home schedule with a return match against the Marines.

Golfers Win

The Greenville entry in the Coastal Golf Association won its second straight match of the season by defeating defending champion New Bern 60-49 Wednesday afternoon at the Greenville Country Club. The Greenville team has not been defeated.

Reynolds May was medalist for the afternoon with a low score of 75, three over par. Luke Herring of Greenville and Billy Perebe and Spec Tyson of New Bern followed with 77s.

All members of the Greenville team are urged by Country Club officials to get in as much practice as possible since the team will travel to Kingston next Wednesday for its next match against Coastal Golf Association members. The ladies' golf team will open its schedule next Tuesday in Kingston and members of that team are also urged to get in as much practice as possible.

Courageous Athlete

EAST LANSING, Mich. — (AP) — John Hellwege, sophomore diver on the Michigan State swim squad, should get a big "C" for courage. During a difficult dive in an early season meet at Indiana, Hellwege's head struck the edge of the aluminum board. A great gash was torn in his face and head which required 55 stitches. But six weeks later John was back in action again and won first place against Pittsburgh.

Miss O'Sullivan Meets Mrs. Page In North-South

PINEHURST, N. C. (AP)—Mrs. Julius A. Page Jr. of Chapel Hill, the last to join that cozy little group of players who've won three successive North and South Golf Championships, today stood in the path of Pat O'Sullivan of Orange, Conn., the latest candidate for membership.

They met here two years ago in the finals and personable Pat took a brilliantly played 3 and 2 match. A few hours later Mrs. Page, seven times a winner here and a former national champion, was rushed to a hospital for an appendectomy.

Miss O'Sullivan hurdled one major obstacle in yesterday's second round when she outlasted Mae Murray, Rutland, Vt., 1 up, in a 20-hole thriller. Last year Mae lost to Pat on the last hole of the championship final.

Now the Connecticut girl has to go all the way to match the three-straight record held by Mrs. Page, Glenna Collett Vare and Maureen Orcutt.

Mrs. Page, a tough customer in match play, did not have to extend herself yesterday as she got past Sonia Wise, York, Pa., 7 and 5. The Carolinian was four up with an outgoing 36 for the 5,915-yard front tees No. 2 Country Club course with par 37-37-74.

Pat, meanwhile, had a real battle after she won the first two holes. She had to come back with a win on No. 10 to get even and then saw Mae draw even with a par four on No. 18. Each had a putt of about four feet on the second extra hole.

Mae missed hers and Pat didn't. The O'Sullivan-Page winner will move to a semifinal match tomorrow against today's Mary Lena Faulk-Harris, H.S. Covington survivor.

Miss Faulk, the medalist, was a bit off her earlier sharpshooting this week, but was not extended in her 5 and 4 second round decision over Mary Patton Jansen of Charlottesville, Va. The Thomasville, Ga. girl was five up at the turn despite a two-over 39.

Mrs. Covington, finalist nine years ago, should be much tougher after a winter of several tournaments. She stopped Pat Garner of Midland, Tex., 2 and 1, yesterday. The Orangeburg, S. C. woman won the first four holes, but Miss Garner dug in and was only one down playing No. 17. There, Mrs. Covington's par three closed her out.

In the lower bracket it was Mary Agnes Wall, Monroeville, Mich., against Grace DeMoss, Corvallis, Ore., and Ida McDowell, Camden, S. C., against Barbara Romack, Sacramento, Calif.

Miss DeMoss, like the Misses O'Sullivan and Murray a Curtis Cup team member, had the day's best front nine, a one-under 36, and romped over Edean Anderson, Helena, Mont. Edean absorbed her most severe setback in several years as too many putts and frequent excursions into traps found her seven down after eight holes. She won Nos. 9 and 10, but the handicap was too great and Miss DeMoss was the winner, 7 and 6.

Young Turner, seeking his 30th straight victory, is slated for a television 10-rounder with the Worcester choir-singer at Madison Square Garden tonight.

"I want to show New York fans that I'm a real fighter," dusky Turner explained. "I didn't look so hot the first time I was in the Garden, but I'm going to shoot the works tonight. It takes two to make a fight. So I don't want any running."

International threats are on hand in Bobby Locke, the South African who is back on another safari for the American dollar, and Albert Pellissier, Frenchman who holds the Belgian championship.

Slow Recovery For Italy After Floods

ROME — (UP) — An area of 264,000 acres in northern Italy is gradually re-emerging from the flood waters that swept over it four months ago.

It will be many months more before the reconstruction is completed, however.

The consequences of the torrents that inundated the agriculturally-rich Po Valley are now being translated into statistics as the heartbreaking digging out continues slowly, revealing the destruction of a once-prosperous land.

To date, 123,000 acres have re-emerged; almost half of the 264,000 that went under water last November. The flood left more than 150,000 persons homeless and depleted the painstaking agricultural cultivation of centuries.

The flood destroyed more than 28,770,000 cubic yards of drainage ditches and reservoir installations; 7,000 of 21,000 farm buildings and units; one-third of all farm machinery and one-third of all livestock.

Seed Washed Away

Nearly all planting seed and manure was washed away, along with 10,000 tons of sugar, 7,000 tons of 25,000 tons of grain and 200 of 1,000 tons of tobacco. Agricultural damage alone amounted to $59,400,000.

To that, add $20,800,000 damage to industry, of which more than $11,000,000 was suffered by a thriving sugar industry that had supplied most of Europe.

Destruction of public works, including roads and communications, is inestimable. Forty-three of 52 separate communities were flooded during those bleak days that started on Nov. 14, 1951. Seventeen were destroyed and 150,000 persons left homeless; 100,000 still are living in barracks.

'Manhunt'

A missing Superior Court prisoner set off a frenzied manhunt here yesterday as officers poured into the sunshine from every door of the courthouse in "pursuit" of Page Hatcher, a man in the sheriff's custody who had slipped from the courtroom unobserved.

The feverish, five-minute search of the courthouse square by both city and county officers disclosed no trace of the vanished Hatcher, so officers dissolved the dragnet and returned a report to Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson that the prisoner had left no trail.

Upon returning to the second floor of the courthouse the officers discovered young Hatcher peacefully reclining in the judge's chamber, nonchalantly puffing on a cigarette. The "manhunt" was called off, and presiding and red-faced officers escorted the stealthy Hatcher back into the courtroom — from whence he had "fled" momentarily to snatch a smoke.

Broughton's Son Joins Staff Of William Umstead

RALEIGH — (AP) — A son of the man who defeated William B. Umstead for the U. S. Senate has joined Umstead's gubernatorial campaign headquarters.

J. Melville Broughton Jr., 29, oldest son of the late governor and U. S. senator, joined Umstead's headquarters staff yesterday as assistant campaign manager.

In another gubernatorial campaign development, candidate Hubert E. Olive announced he is endorsing the legislative program of the United Forces for Education. Olive pledged to recommend the program to the 1953 General Assembly and to give it his active support.

Stocks And Market Reports

NEW YORK (UP) — Postponement of a threatened steel strike churned up new interest in the stock market today.

Sales rose to the highest in more than 2 weeks. Prices strengthened all around on small gains and rails set a new high for nearly 21 years and the utilities for more than 20 years.

Net gains ranged to more than 2 points, but in most instances they held to fractions. Oils featured the industrial department. Steels firmed. Motors had gains ranging to a point in Studebaker and Chrysler. General Motors hit a new 1952 top on a small gain. Many special issues made good gains.

American Power rose more than a point and Northern Natural Gas rose 1 3/4 to equal its top at 40.

Anniversary Of Girl Scouting Observed Here

Negro Girl Scouts and Brownies in the city celebrated the 40th Anniversary of Girl Scouting at a birthday party at the Negro Teen-Age Center last Wednesday.

The scouts, brownies, and leaders took part in the celebration with songs, games, dances, and the reciting of the laws and promises of scouting. More than 120 attended the party in which a birthday cake was cut and served along with ice cream.

The troops represented at the party donated $9.83 for the Juliette Low Fund and they were as follows: Brownie Troop 14, Scout Troops 15 and 17, Fleming Street School; Scout Troops 11 and 13, C.M. Epps School; and Brownie Troop 16 and Scout Troop 20, South Greenville School.

Vote To Forward Testimony For Perjury Check

WASHINGTON (UP) — House tax scandal investigators voted today to forward testimony of attorney William Power Maloney to the Justice Department "for a review as to whether perjury has been committed."

Maloney, formerly a special assistant attorney general, is the attorney of "mystery man" Henry W. Grunewald whose activities and income are the subject of inquiry by a House subcommittee. Rep. Robert W. Kean (R-N.J.) said Maloney previously told the subcommittee that Grunewald never lent him money while Maloney was in government service. Later, however, the subcommittee found that Maloney had repaid to Grunewald loans totaling $5,000, Kean said.

Maloney testified today that he had asked Sen. Styles Bridges (R-NH) to intercede for a Baltimore liquor dealer in a $5,000,000 tax case.

Cost Of Living Shows Decline During Month

WASHINGTON (UP) — The cost of living fell, for the first time since last July, in the month ending Feb. 15, the government said today. The decline brought a wage cut of one cent an hour for 1,150,000 railroad workers.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics said a price decline of six-tenths of one per cent in the month was the sharpest since December, 1949. Retail good prices, dropped 2.1 per cent.

The new BLS consumers price index was pegged at 187.9 per cent of 1935-39 prices. This was still 10.4 per cent higher than before the Korean war.

Chapter 35

Johnny straightened up with the boxes in his hands. Kay had come up behind him. She showed no interest, for the moment, in his discovery. Instead she was looking at him out of eyes that were tensely direct.

"Johnny?"

He paused, the cigarette hanging limply in his mouth.

"Johnny, I've got to ask you. I've got to know what you're thinking..."

He saw her bite her lip. Then she blurted, "Do you think mother did it?"

Johnny Saxon walked out into the other room, set the two cardboard boxes on the typewriter table, pinched out the cigarette in a saucer that was near the typewriter.

"Kay," he said slowly, "yesterday you and I were almost shot while we were crossing the harbor. Either someone wanted to pick off one or the other of us or both. Certainly not your mother. She was in her room at the time. Moe Martin can verify that."

"You check every angle, don't you?"

He shrugged. "You have to. I even suspected you—at first."

She continued across the room, then stood near him, said seriously, "I know you did. And I know when you stopped thinking that, a moment ago. Thanks, Johnny."

"But there are the others," he went on quickly, trying not to think how this lovely girl emotionally affected him.

"Others?" Kay awaited.

"Almost anyone. Even the man who employed me to find out what I could, to help your mother, to come here and live at the estate."

"Uncle Thomas?" The way the girl said the words, they were more of a statement rather than a question.

"Yes, him. Sometimes the person who commits a crime is the first one to want an investigation. That way, they figure they are eliminated as a suspect."

"But why would Uncle Thomas do it?"

"He, too, knew all about your father. He frankly admitted, the day I was employed for the job, that he and your father were not getting along together. Something about business."

Unconsciously his hand went out and touched her shoulder. "I think," he said reassuringly, "I'll have an answer to the whole thing sooner than you think." He opened one of the boxes on the table. The girl, curious, watched.

The first box was half filled with clean sheets of white bond paper. He opened the other. He heard Kay catch her breath.

The second box was filled with typewritten manuscript.

"That's it!" Kay exclaimed.

He nodded, picked up several top-most sheets, rifled through them. A word caught his eyes. The word was "Bart." He put the sheets back in the box, held the box beneath his arm and said, "Yes, I think we've found it." He motioned toward the door. "Shall we go? It's too hot to read the script here. I'll take it up to the house."

Kay nodded. "Besides, you might be in danger here."

"I'm used to danger," Johnny smiled. Then his face was serious again. "But I don't want anyone to find you here. If it should be our murderer, they might think you know too much. That's why I'm worried."

Kay paused in the doorway. "Johnny, there's one thing..."

Why did you start Nancy drinking

Olla Ray Scorns Those Primaries

E CANDIDATE 3N CB825A M2

PNETOWN (UP) — Pigbreeder Olla Ray Boyd, a Democratic presidential candidate, took a look at the political picture today and sniffed.

Boyd first turned up his nose at the presidential primaries. The New Hampshire race, he said, "was a scandal."

The breeder of fine hogs stated that Gen. Dwight Eisenhower should "stick to soldiering."

Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.), in Boyd's opinion, "should be ashamed to be taking $40 a day of the taxpayers' money and running a campaign in New Hampshire."

"I am not a candidate for president of the United States in these 'hinky dink' primaries," said Boyd. "I am a candidate in the Democratic national convention in Chicago."

"The convention is the only authority in the United States to nominate a presidential candidate. Presidential primaries should be barred by federal law."

Boyd wondered what was keeping Moe. He had not returned.

He opened his door and stepped to the screened door that was at the end of this wing. He wished to God it would rain or do something. The air was breathless. He also wished he had a drink.

He turned as footsteps came down the hall. It was Kay. Her lovely faced showed animation.

"Johnny," she said quickly, coming up to him, "I think it's happening. Mother seems to remember Michael. That's why he's been with her all day. He knows...he senses that things are all right again. They used to be constant pals."

"Does she know you yet?"

Kay tilted her head slightly, a questioning expression on her face. Her eyes were pale green in the light from the doorway. "She seems to...almost. Oh, Johnny," she cried, "She will...she will remember!"

"What is she doing now? I'd like to..."

"She's asleep right now. Those moments of complete exhaustion seem to come over her suddenly."

"Where's everyone else? Where's Nancy?"

Kay's eyes clouded. "Still staying in her room. I don't think we'll see her at all."

"I'm sorry about what happened last night," he said.

"You couldn't help it. You didn't know about Nancy."

"I do now. I'll be careful never to offer her another drink."

Kay said, "I feel so much better...about mother, I mean, I feel that she's going to remember everything all of a sudden."

Children Die In Traffic Mishap

NEW YORK (UP) — Two children were killed and their mother critically injured yesterday when a bus and car collided and mounted a sidewalk.

The dead children, one of whom was in a carriage, were Irene Dallas, 4, and her brother, Robert, 13 months. Their mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Dallas, a German war bride, suffered badly crushed legs. Doctors said they might have to amputate.

Despite His Sneer, Bogie Is Among Winner Of Hollywood Prized Oscar

By ALINE MOSBY
United Press Hollywood Writer
HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Humphrey Bogart said today he hadn't changed his opinion that Academy Awards don't prove anything—even though he won an Oscar last night in one of the biggest upsets in Hollywood history.

It was no surprise, however, English actress Vivien Leigh became a two-time Oscar winner with an award for her role in "A Streetcar Named Desire."

Her supporting players, Kim Hunter and Karl Malden, won the coveted gold trophies as expected, too.

But the star-studded crowd at the 24th annual awards presentation gasped and applauded when Bogart nosed out favored candidate Marlon Brando to snare the award for playing a gin-soaked riverboat captain in "The African Queen."

Last year the movie tough guy growled in a magazine article that Oscars were a lot of nonsense.

But today Bogie refused to eat his words.

"I don't change anything of what I've said," he said.

"This Oscar doesn't prove I was the best actor of the year. The only honest way would be to let everybody play Hamlet and let the best man win."

For the first time in several years, two of the top Oscar winners upset the predictors.

"An American in Paris" was voted by members of the honorary Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences the best movie of 1951. It became the third musical ever to win in academy history.

Critics had expected either "A Place in the Sun" or "A Streetcar Named Desire," both heavy dramas, to capture the award.

But the lightweight musical collected seven honors in all, including a special award to Gene Kelly for his dancing and choreography in the picture.

Its producer, Arthur Freed, became the first producer of musicals to win the coveted Irving Thalberg award as the best movie maker of the year.

Miss Leigh was playing Cleopatra 3,000 miles away on Broadway when her name was called on the flower-banked stage of the Pantages Theater on Hollywood Boulevard. Greer Garson accepted the Oscar for Miss Leigh.

But Bogart gave the 2,812 members of the $6 to $12-a-seat audience their money's worth.

"It's a long way from the Belgian Congo to the Pantages Theater," but I'd rather be here than there," he said nervously.

"I thought Brando would win," he chuckled. "My wife, Lauren Bacall, let out a scream when my name was called. She jumped four feet and almost had a miscarriage."

Mrs. Bogart, who expects a baby in August, sighed, "If he hadn't won, I'd have killed him."

"I'm going out to get loaded," Bogie added.

The U. S. fleet of tanker ships is the largest in the world, more than 450 ships of more than 1,000 tons each.

Biographies Are Most Popular 'Non-Fiction'

Librarians at the Shepard Memorial Library rate biographies as the most popular of non-fiction books.

On the shelves of the local library are a number of biographies which are for boys and girls. Books about famous men include:

"Akbar of India," Spencer; "Alexander the Great," Blackstone; "Alfred the Great," Lowmeyer; "Hans Anderson of Denmark," Wheeler; "John Jacob Astor," Judson; "Chief Black Hawk," Beals; "Kit Carson," Beals; "Columbus and His Brothers," by Hogeboom; and "James Fenimore Cooper, Leatherstocking Boy," Winders.

"Cortez of Mexico," Syme; "Immortal Pirate, Sir Francis Drake," Wilbur; "Thomas Alva Edison," Graham; "William Henry Harrison, Young Tippicanoe," Packham; "La Salle and the Grand Enterprise," Nolan; and "Will Rogers, Young Cowboy," Van Riper.

Books about famous women: "Liberty Maid, the Story of Abigail Adams," Morgan; "Jane Adams," Blackstone; "Ahojoka, Daughter of Sequoyia," Coblenz; "Clara Barton," Pace; "Amelia Earnart, Kansas Girl," Howe; "Elizabeth, Queen of England," Nolan; and "Patsy Jefferson of Monticello," Vance.

"Joan of Arc," Emery; "Dolly Madison, Quaker Girl," Monsell; "Lucretia Mott, Girl of Old Nantucket," Curnett; "Lonely Crusader, the Life of Florence Nightingale," Woodham-Smith; "Mary, Queen and Mother," Crawford; and "Narcissa Whitman, Pioneer of the Oregon Country," Brink.

In the 17th Century, women stained their nails with henna.

Heavy Snowfall Proves Costly To Western States

The mountain areas of the west today was choked under the worst wintering accumulation of snow in 60 years.

More than 1,500 persons were marooned. Supplies were running low. Major transcontinental highways were blocked—and more snow was falling.

In addition, the late season snowfall greatly increased the danger of floods in the event of a sudden thaw which would loose uncounted tons of water from the mountains.

In northeastern Colorado and Wyoming, a fresh spring snow—the worst since the paralyzing snows of December—struck. Forecasters said it would go "over a foot" in Denver.

The bus system in Denver, which daily carries 20,000 persons, was stopped by the storm. Stalled cars, some at crazy angles, blocked the streets. Others were stalled on vital through highways.

Farther to the west in the Sierra Mountains, ranches faced a possible $10,000,000 property and livestock loss.

Nevada Gov. Charles Russell appealed to President Truman to declare a section of the state a disaster area, and the chief executive promised to do so.

Rescue crews, moving in behind bulldozers, concentrated on reaching the settlements in the most desperate situation.

Those persons marooned were mostly on the California side of the rocky hump of the Sierra.

Supplies of food and fuel were scarce. An airdrop took vital supplies to twenty persons snowbound at Plute Lookout in the mountains east of Bakersfield, Calif.

One of the hardest-hit communities was Leavening, Calif. A load of fuel, food and medical supplies munitly by truck and was expected to arrive today.

Reports Marshall Plan Effects For Denmark

In Denmark, greater production in agriculture and industry and "good employment, good wages, and a good standard of living" have resulted from the Marshall Plan, Hans Joakim Schultz, representative of the Danish Society in this country, told students at East Carolina College Thursday morning. These conditions, he stated, have been accompanied by a decline in the influence of Communism.

The visitor from Denmark, now on tour under the sponsorship of the Danish Embassy in Washington, spoke at an all-college assembly in the Austin building. He discussed conditions in his country before an audience of approximately a thousand students, faculty members, and visitors. Dean Leo W. Jenkins of the college introduced Mr. Schultz.

Production in Denmark is now greater than before World War II, the Danish representative said. A country without raw materials, he explained, Denmark depends on quality rather than mass production. The economy of the country is expressed in the idea "We must export or die," he stated.

Communist influence is on the wane in Denmark, he said, as he pointed out that the greatest defense among free people against Communism is faith in their democratic ideals. The number of Communists in the Danish parliament has declined sharply since the war, he said, and attributed this decrease in power in large part to the aid given his country by the United States.

Denmark's social welfare program, he explained, in contrast to Great Britain's, has developed slowly over a long period. It is considered by the people both desirable and beneficial, he stated. "America is the Old World," he said, "so far as democracy is concerned." Danish democracy developed along practical lines; lines, American democracy is older and more idealistic, he told his audience.

Vets' Loan Fund Audited; State Took Big Loss

RALEIGH (AP)—A final audit of the North Carolina World War Veterans Loan Fund shows the state lost $81,195,962.21.

The state floated two bond issues totaling $2,500,000 to help World War I veterans finance homes.

When the depression came along, many vets defaulted on their loans. The state took over the property and sold it for the little it would bring.

The second bond issue, for $500,000, was liquidated last June 30. State Auditor Henry Bridges reported on the final audit yesterday.

In another audit, he reported the Roanoke Island Historical Association wound up its operations last year with a $4,486.84 profit. The association, which puts on the "Lost Colony" at Manteo, finished with a $7,228 deficit in 1950.

Hitler's Car Is Up For Trade-In CHICAGO (UP)—An armored Mercedes-Benz automobile, once the property of Adolf Hitler, was up for trade today for a 1939 armored Packard once used by the late President Roosevelt.

Chris Janus, a Chicago importer who traded some ball bearings for Hitler's car, said he would make the trade in New York today.

The Packard belongs to the owner of a Log Island, N.Y., museum, Janus said.

Trial Of Willie Sutton Finally Starting Today

b.w2 SUTTON 25 8647a m21 NEW YORK (UP)—The state got down to business today in the $64,000 bank robbery trial of Willie (The Actor) Sutton and his accused comrade in crime, Thomas (Mad Dog) Kling.

Queens County Judge Peter T. Farrell said the first witness would testify shortly after the prosecution and defense complete their opening statements.

It was indicated that the first man on the stand would be an employee of the Sunnyside branch of the Manufacturers Trust Co. bank rather than John DeVenuto, who has told authorities he was an accomplice of Sutton and Kling in the March 9, 1950 holdup.

DeVenuto, who has offered to testify against his former pals, was not expected to give his answer to the $64,000 question until tomorrow.

DeVenuto carefully avoided the fishy stare from Sutton's faded blue eyes and a steely glance from Kling's poker face as he appeared before prospective jurors yesterday to ascertain whether he was known to any of them.

Selection of an all-male jury and two alternates was completed last night. Guards accompanied the jurors to their homes to pick up enough clothing to last them two weeks.

Then the jurors were locked up for the night at a Manhattan hotel across the East River from the 77-year-old Queens Courthouse. Guards were posted outside their rooms.

During questioning of prospective jurors yesterday, the name of Arnold Schuster, whose alertness led to the capture of Sutton Feb. 18 and his own violent death on March 8, was mentioned. Schuster's killer is still being sought.

Each of the selected jurors said they did not fear they would share the fate of Schuster.

Indian corn or maize is unknown in the native state, but is believed to have originated in tropical America.

Are You Risking Your 1952 FARM INCOME?

Of course, you are economy-minded this year.* Costs are rising. Taxes are rising. Yet prices for farm products aren't keeping pace . . . some are actually sliding forward.

WHAT SHOULD YOU DO? Yes—you can hold expenses down—produce less—make even less money.

OR—and doesn't this make more sense?—you can make the same land and the same labor produce more—give you more to sell—bring you in the money you need to meet rising costs.

OVERCOME RISING COSTS WITH HIGHER YIELDS PER ACRE

feed your crops with NACO Fertilizers
save your crops with NACO Insecticides

Good fertilizer is an investment . . . not an expense . . . and NACO makes good fertilizer. When you buy NACO you're sure of quality . . . sure of value. NACO uses only the best materials . . . NACO blends these materials with painstaking care . . . NACO makes sure that all fertilizers sold have been properly cured. NACO has consistently cooperated with Carolina experts in developing the right formulas for all Carolina soils and all Carolina crops.

As new pest controls have been developed, NACO has kept pace with progress, bringing you the best insecticides for all purposes. All are made the careful NACO way . . . all give you top value for the money you spend.
