Economy Leaders In House Hopeful Senate Will Back Budget - Slashing

Lawmakers Predict They Can Cut Billions Off Non-Defense Spending

WASHINGTON (UP)—House economy leaders, jubilant over their first big victory, predicted today they can cut several billions off President Truman's non-defense budget—if the Senate will cooperate.

In passing the biggest non-military bill that will come before Congress this year, the House last night slashed $724,471,415, or about 10 per cent, from the President's requests.

As it reached the Senate today, the measure carried $6,254,215,628 to finance the White House and some 22 independent agencies during fiscal 1953, beginning July 1.

All but about $1,000,000,000 of the omnibus spending bill was for the Veterans Administration and the Atomic Energy Commission.

No major independent office escaped the House's economy lash. Dismayed administration leaders looked to the Senate to hold out for restoration of some of the funds.

On top of the direct money slashes, the House also accepted an amendment designed to trim the agencies' payrolls an additional 10 per cent. It was pushed through despite protests from one economy advocate that the House already had cut the independent offices "to the bone."

Ignoring complaints that veterans' services would suffer, the House cut about $264,000,000 from the funds requested for the Veterans Administration.

The Atomic Energy Commission's budget was cut $174,000,000, more than 10 per cent, despite a warning that the action might jeopardize the nation's supremacy in atomic weapons.

Construction of federally-subsidized public housing for low-income families was cut to 5,000 units a year. Mr. Truman had planned 75,000. Economy advocates said the cut would save an additional $800,000,000 in rent subsidies over the next 40 years.

The Tennessee Valley Authority's appropriation was cut $28,700,000, or 14 per cent, below Mr. Truman's request. TVA supporters argued in vain that the slash would imperil urgently needed power for the atomic energy plant at Paducah, Ky.

Wind-Fed Fire Devastates Town

WRANGELL, Alaska (AP)—A wind-fed fire wiped out more than half of Wrangell's business section early today, destroying 20 frame buildings and a residence perched on pilings along the town's main street.

Loss was estimated by Fire Chief William D. Grant as close to $1,000,000.

Eighty-five persons were made homeless before the flames were brought under control at 3 a.m.

Ceylon Premier Dies In Accident

COLOMBO, Ceylon (UP)—Prime Minister Don Stephen Senanayake died today of injuries suffered in a fall from a horse.

Emergency treatment dictated by Sir Hugh Cairns, British brain specialist, by radio from his home in England, 6,500 miles away, failed to save the prime minister's life.

He was believed to have suffered a brain concussion in a fall while riding yesterday morning. He died in a private hospital here without recovering consciousness.

This Is A Time Of Confusion For 'Professional' Politicians

By JAMES MARLOW WASHINGTON (AP)—The professional politicians must be badly confused. Life was comparatively simple until the primary elections in New Hampshire and Minnesota.

Go around and meet the people, shake hands with them, and get on the TV screens in their living rooms so you can get your ideas across to them. They seemed like three obvious and wonderful ways of getting votes.

And maybe they are. But the results in New Hampshire and Minnesota don't prove it. At the same time they don't disprove it. The uncertainty of all this must be a hardship on any politician who'd like an easy formula.

Gen. Eisenhower, whose TV appearances have been few and far between, who stayed in Europe where he didn't meet the local people, and who never shook a local hand, trounced Sen. Taft in New Hampshire and far-outdistanced him in Minnesota where the voters had to write in the names of both men.

Farm Land Prepared By Neighbors For Injured Belvoir Man

An elderly Pitt County farmer of the Belvoir community, who was seriously injured in an automobile accident on February 23, is receiving a helping hand from his farmer friends. Lera I. Stancil, 53, received injuries which have kept him confined to bed, when his mule-drawn cart was struck by an automobile. With time for spring planting just around the corner, a group of Belvoir citizens got their tractors together yesterday afternoon and began the task of plowing and fixing Stancil's farm land. A spokesman for the group stated that Stancil had become worried about not being able to work his land, but they informed him that they would take care of it for him. Yesterday, six tractors driven by D. H. Parker, Frank Pollard, Henry Harris, Doug Parker, Red Parker, John Powell and Roy Stancil, began turning the land and expected to complete the job sometime today, weather-permitting. Lee Cleared

HILLSBORO, N. C. (AP)—An Orange County jury yesterday cleared Robert Lee of charges that he murdered a 71-year-old Chapel Hill sponsor.

It took the jury less than two hours to return a verdict of innocent for the 34-year-old bulldozer operator.

He had been in jail since last August when he was arrested a week after the body of Miss Rachel Crook was found near a lonely Orange County road. She had been battered almost beyond recognition. At the time of her death, she was operator of a Chapel Hill fish market. At one time, she had been a graduate student at the University of North Carolina.

The state had built its case against Lee solely on circumstantial evidence—a heel print and tire tracks near where the body was found and a statement that Lee made to Sheriff Sam Latta in which he said he didn't remember what he had done on the night of the slaying.

The Carrigan-Mill is to make nylon hosiery, purchasing the raw material from the DuPont Corporation and turning it into the finished product.

The mill will be constructed on the property of the Big Oak Road and the S. S. Jacob Company of Jacksonville, Fla., are the contractors. Construction is expected to be completed in about four months.

The mill structure will be 97 feet by 146 feet and built of cement block and brick veneer. The building is planned to include air conditioning and fluorescent lighting.

Officials said employment in the mill will be about 60 persons and perhaps expand to 80 men and women operators.

TOTAL LOANS REPORTED WASHINGTON (UP)—World War II veterans borrowed a record $3,614,000,000 for GI home loans last year, the Veterans Administration reported today.

Blood Collection Is Big Success

Martin Countians Give 174 Pints; More Was Offered

WILLIAMSTON—The people of Martin county responded generously to our call for volunteer donors of blood for the American Red Cross blood bank," said J. Paul Simpson, chief recruiter for the county, said today.

"We had 225 persons to sign up as donors and at 4 o'clock Friday afternoon, with many persons still in line at the Bloodmobile, we had to stop registering them," Simpson said.

"The Bloodmobile while here obtained 174 pints of blood for the American Red Cross, and much more was available, but we had to stop registering to permit the Bloodmobile to complete its work and continue its scheduled itinerary," Simpson stated.

"Two hundred of the 225 signers as blood donors showed up, and more than enough persons were in line to exceed our quota," the recruiter for blood donors stated.

The Bloodmobile was stationed near the Methodist Church on Church street. Every township in Martin county sent donors to the Bloodmobile.

Second Week Superior Court To Open Monday

Thirty-Eight Cases On Calendar; Total Of 52 Jurors Drawn With Most Of Townships Represented On List

The second consecutive week of the March Criminal Term of Pitt County Superior Court opens here Monday with Judge John J. Burney of Wilmington presiding. Judge Burney was also on the bench last week.

Solicitor W. J. Bundy has entered a total of 38 cases on the calendar for trial in next week's session of court—which is scheduled to last through Thursday. As was the case last week, drunk driving leads the list of offenses to be tried with 13.

The number and disposition of cases is: one of manslaughter, two of violating the motor vehicle law, one of breaking and entering, 13 of driving drunk, one of larceny, three of reckless driving and two of resisting arrest and disorderly conduct.

A total of 52 jurors have been drawn for jury service next week. They represent every township in the county except Beaver Dam Carolina, Falkland and Fountain, and seven of them are women.

Names of jurors drawn and their respective townships are: Ayden—Jessie G. Cannon, A. L. Cox and Howard Hinson; Belvoir—J. B. Bell, Jr., C. E. Everett, David Gurganus, Jr., and H. A. Moore; and Bethel—Mack Cotten.

Chico—Mrs. Frank Dixon, Jimmy Edwards, William T. Forbes and Leary Galloway; Falkland—Grover Peaden; and Farmville—Mrs. John Hopkins, R. O. Lang, C. B. Marshburn, Jr., R. LeRoy, J. S. Milton Tugwell, Lyman Wooten, Charlie Wooten and F. A. Williams.

Docket Not Cleared During Court Week

The first week of Pitt County Superior Court came to a close shortly after noon yesterday, with upwards of a dozen cases on the calendar still untried.

Judge John J. Burney adjourned court until Monday morning, at which time the second week of the March Criminal Term will get underway with more than 30 cases slated for trial.

Following a stiff road sentence yesterday for speeding, Hubert Devone Daughtry filed notice of appeal to the State Supreme Court. Daughtry was charged with speeding 80 miles per hour, driving with an improper muffler and carrying a concealed weapon.

At the close of the state's evidence in the speeding case, Daughtry pleaded guilty and was sentenced to six months on the roads. A jury verdict of guilty for driving with an improper muffler brought an additional sentence of 30 days on the roads concurrently with the six months sentence.

Daughtry pleaded not guilty to carrying a concealed weapon and was found not guilty in jury trial. The defendant has 90 days to prepare his case for review before the Supreme Court and the state is allowed 60 additional days in which to prepare a counter case.

Korean Points Of Entry In Truce Are Agreed Upon

PANMUNJOM, Korea (UP)—Allied and Communist truce negotiators virtually disposed of the ports of entry issue today and showed new eagerness to settle the prisoner exchange problem.

Red staff officers turned over to the Allies maps of five agreed-upon ports of entry in North Korea outside living areas open to neutral inspection during a truce. Through these ports must pass all supplies and troop replacements after a ceasefire.

The maps at first glance appeared acceptable to U.N. officers. The Communists apparently accepted the Allied proposal that ports of entry include all areas inside the city limits of each port.

In an adjoining conference tent, the deadlocked prisoner of war discussions adjourned after 55 minutes of sparring that, according to a U.N. staff officer, disclosed:

1. Each side wants frank, full and informal talks. 2. Each side wants the other to propose something "more definite." 3. The Communists want "both sides" to exert every effort to solve the deadlocked prisoner issue. The negotiators are stalemated by the Communists' insistence on compulsory repatriation of all war prisoners and the U.N.'s refusal to force prisoners to return to North Korea against their will.

Tornado Death Toll Rising Toward 200 Mark In South

Top Stabilization Men Go In Huddle

Warn Steel Strike Would Kill Hopes Of Lifting Economy Controls This Year; Truman May Be Forced Into Issue

WASHINGTON (UP)—The nation's top stabilization officers huddled today over the key issue in the smoldering steel dispute—a price increase for the steel industry.

Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson, Economic Stabilizer Roger L. Putnam and Price Stabilizer Ellis Arnall went into the problem amid official warnings that a steel strike would kill all hope of lifting controls on the civilian economy this year.

The officials set the meetings after receiving the full report of the Wage Stabilization Board, that has recommended a 17 1/2-cent hourly pay boost and a union shop for the CIO United Steelworkers.

The union yesterday postponed its threatened nationwide strike for the fourth time, but warned it will call a walkout April 8 if an agreement based on the board's recommendations is not reached with the steelmakers.

A spokesman for Wilson said even a two-week strike would be a crippling blow to the nation. Counting time required to get furnaces back into production after a strike, he said, it would mean a loss of three weeks' output, or about 6,000,000 tons of steel.

"If that happens," the spokesman said, "it will set back the relaxation of steel controls by a year."

Informed sources believed President Truman eventually will have to decide how big a price boost the steel industry should get, possibly after a trip by Wilson to Key West, Fla., to confer with Mr. Truman.

Union and management representatives will resume negotiations Monday on a company-by-company basis. The wage board's proposals are not binding on either side, but the board's recommendations have accepted them.

The steel companies told Wilson and Putnam at a New York meeting yesterday that the board's recommendations were "unfair" and "disruptive of the economy."

They said they would need a price increase of more than $12 a ton—almost $1,000,000,000 a year—to cover the wage boost recommended. Price officials estimate they would need only a little more than $4 a ton.

The steelmakers also denounced the board's recommendation for a union shop as "a long step backward in the age-old struggle for union freedom."

Monday's Court Is Postponed

Judge Charles H. Wheedbee announced this morning that Monday's session of Recorder's Court has been postponed until Tuesday.

The judge further explained that the session of Recorder's Court Tuesday will be confined exclusively to jail cases and no one else need appear.

The most important question today should be this: "Is Jesus' religion something we can live by? Is it worth reproduction? Is it something to guide a Presidential Candidate?" A lot of people who do not often think much or talk any about religion are beginning to wonder if many of our political troubles do not come from a neglect of the Spirit. Do you remember the last World's Fair held in New York? That gave you the glimpse of "The World of Tomorrow." The World of Tomorrow showed super-airports, super-scrappers, super-highways and super everything. But I don't remember seeing a single church!

I have become pretty much convinced that two things are needed to save this old world of ours: (1) a revolutionary invention, such as the harnessing of gravity, which would give people everywhere a great new source of power, and thereby make life's necessities cheaper and within closer reach of more people; and (2) spiritual rebirth of the nations of the world, such as came to Saul of Tarsus. Remember, how, when he was passing hotly the persecution of Jesus' followers, a light and a power from above took hold of him. The same was true of every great leader of history. Before I vote in November for a President I want to know which candidates are praying men. "Is he a man of the Spirit?" will be my first consideration.

Because Saul of Tarsus was thus changed to Paul, through love, the regeneration of Europe began, and the foundations of a new civilization were laid.

Spiritual Rebirth Needed

Read Whittaker Chambers story titled, "I Was the Witness," if you want a picture of the ultimate in Godlessness. It will chill you to the marrow. The fruits of this way of life are to be found in the shambles of Europe and concentration camps of Siberia. Yet, were it not for the churches and preachers our country could be in the same miserable condition.

We are today caught in a great world-wide struggle, a struggle between a materialistic world and a world of the Spirit. There are those who do not yet feel the need for religion. They think Science and Technology will ultimately solve all of our problems. I cannot agree to this because I believe that every freedom for which we are fighting is not a thing of the Mind; it is a thing of the Spirit.

A Practical Suggestion

I believe we cannot successfully fight Godlessness; with Godlessness, indecency with indecency, cruelty with cruelty, or dishonesty with dishonesty. If we expect to help save the world, we must first save ourselves. If there is to be any "World of Tomorrow," it will have to come through a great spiritual upheaval. Yes, Lent is the Springtime of Religion, a good time for Gentiles and Jews to focus attention on things of the Spirit.

Devastating Barrage Of Killer Twisters Battered Four States; Final Casualty Figures Await Identification By Grief-Stricken Families

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UP)—The death toll from a devastating barrage of killer tornadoes that struck four Southern states rose toward the 200 mark today as smashed communications facilities in a clogged roads hampered rescue and cleanup operations.

The latest death count stood at 182—compiled from state police records and from the towns where the dozens stricken by it still could be reached by telephone.

The toll adds up like this: Arkansas, 110; Tennessee, 48; Missouri, 15; Mississippi, nine.

This morning the pitiful lines of relatives were forming at school houses and public buildings where the bodies of the dead were taken. Until their sorrowful job was completed, the final casualty figure would be available.

Uncounted hundreds were injured and property damage was immense.

The weather bureau—which had predicted tornadoes in the general area under its newly-established warning system—said the twisters might swirl into northern Tennessee and Kentucky.

Yesterday afternoon and night, however, the storms apparently did their most savage damage as they swept like a squad of killers—four to six abreast—through Southwest Arkansas, Mississippi, the southern corner of Missouri and sections of Tennessee.

Three separate tornadoes bore down on Dyersburg, Tenn., which took the brunt of the attack in that state. Twelve persons were killed there, including state highway patrol Sgt. Joe Williamson who was speeding to the scene of the tragedy.

Williamson's car and two others were blown hundreds of feet into a field like so much tumbled steel. Mr. and Mrs. Coy McLaughlin and their three children, in one of those cars, all were injured. The force of the tempest twisted the body of their car from its chassis.

The Tennessee state patrol said at least 75 were injured in the Dyersburg area alone, many of them critically.

The Red Cross National Guard and civilian searching parties found bodies strewn "all over Dyer County"—in the open and in the tumbled shambles of dwellings.

State police Capt. Ed Shelton said one of the twisters picked up Mrs. W. E. Price and her 22-year-old son and smashed them to their deaths in a pond 330 feet away from their home. Price and another son who were not in the home were seriously hurt.

A tornado ripped through sections of Hodgenville, Ky., early today, slightly injuring 10 persons and knocking down houses and barns. Most of the injured were given first aid treatment and released.

Mrs. Agatha Wilks, executive secretary of the Red Cross at Caruthersville, Mo., said 51 persons were in a hospital in Hayti.

Mrs. Wilks said the areas around Cooter and Cottonwood were "hub-cup deep in water" from the rain that followed the twister. The rain washed at the dirt and mud still clinging to the roofs of trees torn out of the ground by the wind. Others were cut off as if by a giant bolo knife.

Murder is Forgetful

BY WILLIAM G. BOGART

Chapter 26
"Look, Kay was almost gay. How about a swim? Doctor Clark will be here in a few minutes. I told Karen to take a little time off and join us. That's why I invited Miss Nick Walker to be here, too." She touched his arm. "Don't say anything about Nancy, though. I'll tell Nick she is not feeling well because of the heat. You'll join us?"
"Does a duck swim?" grinned Johnny. "You get me in that pool and I'm not coming out again until the first snow falls."
Moe Martin came in while Johnny was putting on the swim trunks that Kay had brought. He sighed as he observed Johnny's tall, lean, hard body. "I wish I was an again," Moe said sadly. He was perspiring. Johnny observed the fit of the trunks in the mirror. "Where have you been, pappy?"
"I can't find Grandpoppa Smith," Moe said worriedly. "I've waited my legs off."
"Where did he want?"
"Of course, Hannah says he was in the pool. He wanted to see you."
"Will show up again. Maybe he's collecting butterflies for a change."
Johnny went downstairs and out to the patio terrace by way of the conservatory. The others—big Nick Walker, Doctor Bob Clark, the sandy haired youngster, Ralph Dunkirk, and Kay—were just leading across the lawn toward the swimming pool. A white robe was around the girl's trim figure. He saw Karen, the nurse, some distance beyond them. She too wore a beach robe and he caught a flash of long, tapered legs. Karen was just arranging a chair for Irene Smith. The massive great Dane, Michael, was with them. Irene looked up as he hurried to join the others. Now there was no recognition in her eyes whatsoever.
Kay saw him coming, stopped, called out. "Hurry up! Last one in is a slazy!" She dropped her beach robe. Karen, the nurse, had done likewise. She had a good figure. Her legs were heavier than Kay's. She wore a tightfitting red cap over her dark hair.
Later, Johnny guessed that they piled into the pool about the same instant. The water was cool and exhilarating, and he popped to the surface someone splashed his face.
It was Kay, her piquant face framed by a white rubber swim cap. "Touch bottom," she taunted, and disappeared.
He dived after her, tried to grab her legs, lost her and came to the surface again. He treaded water and watched for her head to pop up again. In the distance was making a lot of noise and swimming around.
Kay must have screamed the moment her head broke the surface. It was a cry that turned Johnny's stomach into a ball of lead. He twisted around, saw her behind him, two yards away, a look of horror in her wide, stricken eyes.
"Johnny!" she choked out. "Johnny!" She pointed downward. Then she made a queer cry again.
Johnny dived, swam downward, eyes open beneath the water. He must have barely missed it the first time. The figure was lying on the bottom of the pool. It was face down. He managed to roll it over before he had to come up again for air.
It was Grandpoppa Smith!
Johnny remembered getting a lungful of air, then diving to the bottom of the pool. A figure swam down beside him. It was powerfully built Nick Walker.
Johnny grabbed the old fellow by his thick hair. Walker seized a leg. Young Ralph Dunkirk and the doctor lifted the old man and ran with him toward the nearby lawn. As Johnny levered himself up over the side of the pool, he heard Kay cry in dismay, "Oh, God! He couldn't swim!"
Doctor Clark had swiftly taken charge. He snapped orders as though he knew what he was doing. "Quick. Roll him on his stomach! There might be a chance if we give him artificial respira-

Mt. Pleasant News

On the night of March 10th the Mt. Pleasant Ladies Aid Society met at the home of Mrs. O. J. Stancill in Tucker Circle. Twenty-three members and one visitor were present. Mrs. A. O. Spain, president, opened the meeting with the singing of the hymn "Sunshine in the Soul" and led the responsive reading No. 24 in the back of the songbooks. Mrs. Agnes Settle led in prayer.
Mrs. William Clifton gave an inspiring Bible lecture.
Mrs. Settle presented part of a message Gerald Tobias gave at Indianapolis on "Material Things and Materialism."
Mrs. Nannie Evans then gave a discourse on the South American country of Paraguay. She told of a school started by C. Manley Morton and the appalling conditions under which the natives live.
The meeting was adjourned with prayer by Mrs. W. A. Ross.
The hostesses, Mrs. Guy Caton and Mrs. O. J. Stancill, served delicious refreshments.
Eighteen little friends helped Patsy Jo Teel celebrate her fifth birthday on Friday, March 7, at Mount Pleasant Community Building.
Pastel colored balloons were suspended all the way across the building. A low table was decorated with a pretty birthday cake surrounded with yellow jonquils at one end and a large Bunny Rabbit with two tiny baskets filled with Easter eggs at the other end.
Games were played and songs were sung after which Patsy opened her many pretty gifts.
Patsy's mother, assisted by Mrs. C. W. Harris, Miss Jo Anne Harrington and Miss Barbara Jenkins, served ice cream and cookies with a cake was cut and served also.
Among those present were Betsy Rogers, Michael Greene, Diane Clark, Elaine James, Sandra Forbes, Wynne and Rickey Taylor, Judy and Sidney Scott, Ray Edwards, Becky Sue Harris, Lou Horne, Judy

Child of Europe
There is something strange and captivating in this youthful face. The shadow of an early fear... The hint of deep loneliness... The ray of new-born hope... Above all, a yearning for Love!
His picture has come to us without nationality, or family history. A child of Europe, that's all.
But for Him, and for suffering humanity the world over, the churches ask your prayers, and your gifts of money and clothing in a great hour of sharing.
THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH
The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values, democratic, non-Utilitarian, non-survival. There are four sound attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For the sake of his community and nation. (3) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Mrs. J. H. Adams Sr. Dies Friday Night

Mrs. Sadie Korngay Adams, 74, wife of John H. Adams, Sr., died at the home of her son, John H. Adams, Jr., in Greenville at ten o'clock Friday night. She suffered a stroke several years ago and had been ill since that time. Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

Mrs. Adams, native of Mount Olive, was the daughter of the late William and Sarah Davis Korngay and spent her youth in Mt. Olive, Kinston and Goldsboro. She was married to John H. Adams in 1908. She spent most her married life in Eastern, N.C., where Mr. Adams was well known in the tobacco business. She had made her home with her son, John Adams, here in Greenville for the past six years.

40 Years Ago Today

THE DAILY REFLECTOR
March 22, 1912

Miss Annie Perkins, who teaches in Farmville, came home Friday evening to remain through Sunday. This is a cold rain. The Boy Scouts have changed their quarters to a room on the first floor of The Reflector building until they can get a better place. Those baseball, mitts and bats in the window of Carr and Atkins' remind us that it is almost time for fun on the diamond. A new enterprise that is going to prove of much benefit to Greenville and should have liberal encouragement of our people, is the laundry recently established by Mr. R. A. Bishop. These are the things that make a good town.

Christian Literature Store Opens In City

The Christian Literature Depot, located at 516 Dickinson Avenue, has recently opened. It will carry an excellent variety of Christian literature — books, pamphlets, tracts, and things of a similar nature—which deal with religious and spiritual matters. Such authors as Dwight L. Moody, Billy Graham, and others who have written tens of books of popular appeal as well as deeper studies will be represented.

The literature is interdenominational in content. In addition to religious books for adults, there will be a selection of children's Bible literature, picture books, song books, and verse. An assortment of attractive novelties, records and Scripture verse greeting cards are also available.

Dr. Lucile Turner To Attend Nat'l Session In Cleveland, Ohio

East Carolina College has its distinction membership in the Conference, which is affiliated with the National Council of Teachers of English. The Cleveland meeting will bring together a large group of educators from all sections of the United States. Nationally known speakers will appear on the program in discussions of various phases of college work in composition and communications.

Judson White Addresses PTA

The West Greenville P.T.A. held its regular meeting Wednesday afternoon at 8:30 with Mr. Sherman Parks as president presiding. Mr. Judson White of the ECC psychology department spoke on "Mental Health." Mr. White listed temperament, intelligence and physique as contributions supplied by heredity. The speaker stated that parents and teachers should realize that affection, praise and consistency in discipline are the keystones to mental health since children begin early to develop behavior patterns to maintain security.

Mr. White recommended the following books which are extremely helpful in securing information on emotional development: "The Substance of Mental Health" by Preston, "How to Help Your Child Develop Successfully" by Reynolds, and "From Seed to Sapling" by Gilmer. At the business meeting which followed, the treasurer reported that $172.49 had been given to buy additional books for the school library.

Plans were announced by Miss Moore, school nurse, and Miss Fullilove for the pre-school clinic which will be held April 1. Mr. Sherman Parks was authorized to serve on the recreational steering committee for the park development project which is now in progress in the city. The P.T.A. voted to give $50.00 to the school to be used to purchase balls and other needed athletic equipment. The president announced that an educational census of the city would be taken in April by the teachers and members of the P.T.A. The following members were elected to serve on the nominating committee: Mrs. W. E. Moore, Mrs. Julius Winchard and Mrs. R. W. Fenell.

Leo Jenkins Is Speaker For Annual FFA Event

Dr. Leo Jenkins, dean of East Carolina College, was the guest speaker at the Future Farmers of America annual Father-Son Banquet at the Chicod High School last week. Jenkins delivered an inspiring address which related to the problems of boys and their fathers. He was introduced to the guests by Fodie Hodges, school principal. The meeting was opened by Joseph Rouse, president of the FFA chapter, and Grady Bally gave the welcome address to which L. D. Stanley responded. Another speech was heard, "What we do in Agriculture," and was given by Willis Joyner. Joyner explained the work FFA. Others taking part on the program were Eugene Morris and Eugene James. The cafeteria in which the banquet was held was decorated with the FFA colors, national blue and corn gold. The banquet tables were centered with ivy, and yellow candles were placed at intervals down the center of the tables. At each place was a booklet with the emblem of the club in which was the program of the evening and also at each place were FFA paper napkins and FFA place cards. Special guests included D. H. Conley, superintendent of the county schools; Marvin Smith, member of the Pitt board of commissioners; and members of the local school board, Roy Venters, Luke Stiles, and Glenn Wall; and some faculty members. Officers officiating at the banquet were Joseph Rouse, president; Charles McGowan, vice-president; J. T. Mills, secretary; Charles Gaskins, treasurer; Elmer Bally, reporter; Robert Fornes, sergeant at arms; and Eugene James, advisor. The dinner was served by a group of 12 Future Homemakers of America under the supervision of Olivia White, advisor. Local musicians entertained the dinner guests.

District Kiwanis Officer Talks To Greenville Club

Frank K. Allen of Farmville, lieutenant-governor of the Seventh Kiwanis Division, made his official visitation at the Greenville Kiwanis Club last night. President Milo Smith presided. Allen enumerated some of the more important objectives of Kiwanis International. He recalled that the Greenville club was active in sponsoring the organizing of the Farmville Club five or six years ago. The lieutenant-governor praised the club as having outstanding fellowship and cooperation in carrying out Kiwanis projects. He urged the Greenville club to be well represented at the Kiwanis International Convention in Seattle, Wash., next June. The Kiwanis official reminded that Joe Tally, mayor of Fayetteville, and governor of the Carolinas Kiwanis District, will be in Farmville Friday night, March 28, at 7 o'clock. Tally will be the speaker at a meeting of the nine clubs of the Seventh Division, The area includes Greenville, Wilmington, Kinston, Goldsboro, Stantonsburg, Washing-

Dr. Murray Will Speak To Club

Dr. Donald Murray, faculty member of the department of English at East Carolina College, will speak at the Faculty Lecture Club of the college Monday evening, March 24, according to an announcement by Dr. H. A. Coleman, president. His topic will be "Two Literary Adjustments to the Gilded Age: Henry Blake Fuller and William Dean Howells."

The meeting will be held at 8 o'clock in the Fagan auditorium. Those who wish to hear Dr. Murray are invited to be present. Dr. Murray joined the faculty of East Carolina College last September as a member of the department of English. Before coming to Greenville, he served five years in the U.S. Navy and after his discharge taught at New York University. He is a graduate of Syracuse University in New York, the University of Kentucky, and New York University, from which he holds the degree of Ph.D.

Chicod Seniors Are Entertained

The juniors of Chicod high school entertained the seniors last week at the school's annual Junior-Senior banquet. The banquet was held in the lunchroom of the school and the room was decorated as a southern plantation in the senior class colors of blue and white. The entrance was decorated as a garden walk with cobble stone walls, daffodils, and ended at a rustic well where tomatoe juice was served. The dining room had Spanish moss on the lights with blue and white streamers. Toastmistress Margaret Evans presided over the banquet. Toasts were given to the senior class, faculty, and board members by Warren Hardee, Anne Everette, and William Paramore. Responses were made by Pat Stanley, Eugene Morris, and Luther Stanley. Entertainment was furnished by five junior boys, Warren Hardee, William Paramore, Billy Watson, Dewey Gaskins, Walter Smith, and 12 sophomore waitresses. Mrs. Grady Smith accompanied at the piano. The senior class presented their class night exercises and Joe Rouse served as master of ceremonies. Janie Cayton and Ray Adams presented the seniors gifts, Marjorie Lewis read the class program, Rose Ketter gave the class history, Runell Smith presented the superlatives, and Iown Smith gave the class poem.

The first postal services are believed to have been started by the ancient Persian emperors. Mr. and Mrs. Jarvis Tripp, Mrs. F. L. Allen and Mrs. B. L. Tyson reported a wonderful trip over Florida recently. Highlights of the trip were Silver Springs, the Cypress Gardens, a visit with Captain A. T. Humbles at McMill Airfield, a stop-off at Naples on the Gulf Coast, the Parrot Jungle, Miami, Daytona Beach and Marineland. A large crowd enjoyed the "Barrel of Fun Night" at Red Oak recently with the "Mule Train" boys.

Mrs. Van Dyke, Club Hostess, Gives Program

Mrs. Molly Van Dyke was both hostess and program leader for members of the Lector Book Club when it met on Tuesday afternoon at her home on West Rock Springs Road.

The program was a study of the books of Titus, Philemon, Hebrews, and James, a continuation of the club's study for the year. Mrs. Van Dyke said that Titus, written about 67 A. D., was addressed by Paul to one of his young proteges who had been left in charge of the Christian church at Crete. In the letter Paul was giving him instructions for serving the church and words of advice about moral living and conduct. Philemon, the shortest of the letters penned by Paul, was entirely personal and private, stated the speaker. It was written while Paul was a prisoner in Rome and was sent to Philemon at the hand of his slave who had run away from him. In the letter Paul was urging his friend to accept the slave back in good grace and to receive him in brotherly love. This is the great "brotherhood" letter and "by this one brief letter Paul did more to loosen the shackles from the millions of slaves in the world than anyone else has done," asserted Mrs. Van Dyke.

In her discussion of the book of Hebrews, she stated that the authorship of this gospel was in dispute. It was written to the Hebrews in the home church at Jerusalem exhorting them not to weaken in their Christian faith. The author was a Christian Jew and a scholar well versed in Old Testament Scripture as evidenced by the fact that there are many quotations from the Old Testament. In the book a contrast is drawn between Judaism and Christianity. "There is no book in the New Testament whose authorship is more disputed and whose divine inspiration is less disputed," concluded Mrs. Van Dyke in referring to the book.

In her discussion of the book of James, the speaker brought out the fact that which one of the men named James who played a prominent part in the early church was the author of this book is unknown for sure, but most Biblical scholars attribute it to James, the brother of Jesus. He became a bishop in the Christian church in Jerusalem after the resurrection and a firm believer in the faith, though during the lifetime of Jesus he never recognized Him as the son of God. There is a great likeness in this book to the sermon on the Mount, pointed out the speaker, and she read several parallel passages to illustrate her point. As an accompaniment to her general remarks about the books Mrs. Van Dyke read passages from each one. Her information was interesting, well documented and ably presented. During the social hour she served a dessert course with salted nuts, cheese wafers and coffee.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLAS
MIXED MARRIAGES
Ministers are constantly confronted with the problem of mixed marriages. Are such marriages advantageous?

Clergymen of practically all religious faiths would answer "No." And with good reason. There is a vast difference between the way different groups of people have decided to worship, and what is infinitely more important, there is a vast difference between the views they hold regarding eternal realities. If these things mean very little to two people confronting marriage, then they are indeed to be pitied. Trouble will assail them, sorrow and misfortune will come down upon them like a cloud-burst on a July day. What will they have to comfort themselves with if they have no religious faith?

But if the marriage is mixed and both the man and the woman surrender whatever religion they have in the interest of family peace, the greatest insurance against eventual calamity has been cancelled out. If, on the other hand, each holds to his religion or hers, and refuses to make it all one thing or all the other, then a divided home with divided allegiances is the result.

There have been some very successful mixed marriages. But young people thinking of marriage had better regard mixed marriages as fraught with the possibility of much unhappiness.

Did Greenville Take Political Sleeping Pills?

Local government is one of the most important if not THE most important link in this political philosophy we call democracy.

It is on the local level that the people have their most direct contact with government, and it is the echelon of government which most directly affects the area in which the citizens make their homes.

For some years now the city of Greenville has suffered from an evident lack of interest in city government by the people who live within its corporate limits. To some extent this lethargy has been noticeable throughout Pitt County, but not to as great an extent as within the city itself.

With local government as important as it is to the daily lives of the people, it is truly a shame that some of the vital posts in the city government have been at the very verge of going begging more than once in the past several years because of the lack of capable, enthusiastic candidates.

Indeed, it is an unfortunate situation, and the impartial observer who reviews the problem must admit that it has had an adverse effect upon the city of Greenville and its government.

Another round of city elections is rapidly approaching, but from the lack of political consciousness among the citizens of Greenville, one would think city elections were months or even years away. The truth is that only two weeks from today the filing period closes for the city posts which must be filled by the voters the first Monday in May.

There is plenty of street-corner conversation about who will be the next presidential nominees; but as for speculation as to who will fill the four aldermanic posts which must be decided by the voters in May, it has hardly been mentioned. Perhaps it is just taken for granted that the incumbents will seek re-election, so the voters aren't giving the matter a second thought.

In The Reflector's opinion, however, it is just another indication of the gross, unparadonable lack of interest which the people of Greenville are taking in their own city government.

Let's Check This Just Once More

By all standards of common judgment it should be entirely unnecessary for members of a congressional investigating committee to point out to other officials that they are "not fooling" about cutting down waste in government projects.

The Reflector has hoped all along that those who spoke out against government waste and promised to do something to stop it were "not fooling." Maybe we were hoodwinked.

This week in Washington Senator Lynn

don B. Johnson warned a Pentagon official specifically that his subcommittee was not fooling with its demand that construction work on a huge North African airbase be halted pending a thorough house-cleaning. Hearings on the base have brought forth charges that the construction is costing American taxpayers millions extra in fraud, waste and other irregularities.

Why Johnson found it necessary to inject the "no fooling" thought into his statement, we don't know. It sounds like a guy who has been sparring with his partner just for the show, and is now issuing the warning that he is going to start punching for keeps.

It could be that members of congress have talked so much about cutting waste without doing anything about it that they are beginning to feel it is necessary to point specifically to the boast they mean to be headed.

Perhaps they are beginning to realize that their orations on government waste are having the same effect in official quarters as it is on the home front—in one ear and out the other with a grain of salt in place of a real hope that all the promises can be taken seriously.

For a long time the general public has meant "no fooling" in what it has thought and expressed about waste in the government. Now perhaps more members of Congress are moving to the "no fooling" side of the ledger. In a sort of back-handed way perhaps it is an admission that even congressmen have taken too lightly in the past this business of cutting waste.

The individuals on the home front have wanted all along to believe their representatives meant "no fooling" when they said waste should be stopped. Lack of pointed governmental action in that direction, however, sort of shook the peoples' faith in what they actually wanted to believe. Now this "no fooling" terminology adds weight to the supposition that heretofore a lot of the talk about cutting waste has been only talk.

National Whirligig

Every Saturday this veteran Washington newspaper correspondent devotes his column to answering readers' questions of general interest on national and international policies and personalities. Questions may be sent direct to Ray Tucker at 6308 Hillcrest Place, Chevy Chase, Md.

WASHINGTON—Is it true, asks Mrs. H. K. of Albuquerque N. M., "that Russian and satellite-country diplomats at Washington are permitted by our government to send anti-American propaganda through the U. S. mails? Friends tell me they have seen such literature, but it seems incredible to me. If so, how soft can we get toward the Communists?"

UNBELIEVABLE—Answer: The stuff sent through the mails by our avowed enemies is almost unbelievable. Besides giving them the use of Post Office facilities for this poisonous material, we permit numerous Red agencies here, in New York and elsewhere to consume a great volume of scarce white paper.

Before giving a sample of their outrageous attacks on us, I should note that similar courtesies are not given to us behind the Iron curtain. They jam the Voice of America radio messages.

They have closed the reading rooms, where newspapers and magazines presenting our viewpoint were once available to the local population. They outlaw or censor general circulation of American literature.

RESTRICTIONS—There are signs that the Administration may yet clamp down on these propaganda pests. Only recently Secretary Acheson restricted the travel of Communist diplomats, business agents and newspapermen. It is time that he applied the same restrictions to the use of the mails.

Incidentally, if an American citizen sent this sort of revolutionary material through the mails, he would be subject to indictment.

EXAMPLE—The Romanian People's Republic, through its legation here, has just circulated a 11-page mimeographed review of an official book recently published by that country's Ministry of Foreign Affairs.

It is the best or worst—example of the filthy misrepresentations of our position that I have seen in the six years of the "cold war." It should force Mr. Acheson to abandon his easy-going tolerant attitude toward these enemies within our gates.

The title of the volume is "The Aggressive Policy and the Machinations of American Imperialism against the Romanian People's Republic." After praising the Communists' great and persistent efforts to achieve peace and democracy throughout the world, it continues:

AIM—The facts mentioned in this book show that the government of the United States of America is following against the Romanian People's Republic a permanent policy of war provocation and intrigues, and is indulging in all sorts of calumnious attacks before the international organs. (Presumably the United Nations—Ed. Note.)

The government of the United States is doing everything in its power to embitter the international situation, to complicate and aggravate it, with the aim of kindling a new world war. The government of the United States is in this way following the rash plan of the American monopolists for the domination of the entire world.

CHARGES—In referring to the Mutual Security Act of 1951 for economic and military aid to our allies, the Romanian document charges that the United States plans to use these funds "to form mercenary bands with the intention to their country, with the fascist and war criminals who have fled Romania, and are situated in the United States and other countries, bands which aim to be organized for five aims against the Romanian People's Republic."

By inference this official government document vilifies President Truman, Secretary Acheson, members of Congress and all our military leaders.

NUISANCE—What right has Stassen to run for the Republican presidential nomination? explodes F. M. of Concord, N. H. "He made a pitiable showing in our primary. Although he may carry his home primary in Minnesota, I doubt if he will get a handful of votes in any other state. He strikes me as a nuisance."

Answer: First, every man has a right to run for President, although it would seem that Harold has worn out his right and his welcome. Frankly, he is running as a "stooge" for Eisenhower, although without the General's consent or approval. In Wisconsin his managers say openly that the "best way to nominate Eisenhower is to vote for Stassen." The ambitious Minnesota man, who is as bored with his university presidency as the trustees are with him, aims to become Secretary of State or Attorney General in an "Eisenhower Cabinet."

You Takes Your Choice

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

It's a shame to see people missing half their lives, and we see it every day. In my opinion, people who do not enjoy the comic strips in newspapers are missing the boat. That's why I was so glad to see the addition of the Pogo strip to the Reflector, effective Monday. The more strips, the better. Frankly, I would like to see two pages of comics in every newspaper.

There is an interesting story behind the beginning of Pogo in the Reflector. News Editor Don Schless started reading Pogo in the Roanoke Rapids Herald and immediately was a rabid fan. Likewise, Reporter Muriel Showtwell became interested. The two decided that Pogo is a strip that the Reflector must have.

The process that followed was the idea of buying Pogo to the paper's Managing Editor, Dave Whichard III. In order to cinch the sale Don cut out Pogo from issue after issue of the Roanoke Rapids Herald and pasted him on a large piece of cardboard. After a number of Pogo strips were intact, Don presented them to Dave for his appraisal.

The significant thing about Pogo is that it is an animal strip and publishers have had a great deal of misfortune with that type of comic. Despite that fact, Pogo has climbed in popularity into the top ten in the nation. It's hard to keep up with the growth of Pogo, because every 48 hours another newspaper is adding him. Pogo is a possum who lives in the Okefenokee Swamp with a number of other animals. Among them are a duck by the name of Chug Chug Curtis, the mailman;

Around Capitol Square

Reflector Bureau
By LYNN NISBET
Asso. Afternoon Editor

(Guest Columnist Today: Ben F. Park, managing editor of The Raleigh Times)

SUBSTITUTING—This is being written Friday morning shortly after a call from Miss Lucille Harris, Lynn's girl Friday, who reports that the State's political writer is temporarily on the shelf with an elbow infection. In view of the short notice involved and of a unique inability for doing such things as banging out a column for 22 North Carolina afternoon newspapers, the writer is confining today's offering to something near at hand.

REACTION—On Tuesday, The Raleigh Times carried a lead editorial which took a rather editorial swing at a small organization which previously was unknown to that particular newspaper. The editorial appeared under the heading, "hand-out papers, the writer is confining today's offering to something near at hand."

TAR HEEL LETTER—The inspiration for The Times editorial came from a letter written by Mrs. Elizabeth W. Ward of Ransomville, N. C., which is located in Beaufort County. The letter accompanied a "hand-out" from an organization now headed by a former Tar Heel minister, a Rev. Ernest R. Bromley. Mrs. Ward's letter also included a suggestion that the "hand-out" be used in The Times.

WHAT THE TIMES DID—Some of the other 21 afternoon papers which carry Lynn's column may also have received copies of the Bromley "hand-out" and no doubt either ignored it or else reacted in much the same way as did the Raleigh paper. However, The Times' approach was as follows: Mrs. Ward's correspondence was published in full as a letter to the editor. The contents of the "hand-out" were covered and then commented upon in the lead editorial of the same day.

THE "HANDOUT"—The alleged news release from Rev. Bromley announced that 41 men and women throughout the country, banded together under the name of "Tax Refusal Committee of Peace-makers," were refusing to pay their 1951 income taxes. The reason for this tax-paying reluctance (and who isn't reluctant?) was stated as follows: The 41 members of the committee "cannot condone the training of young men to be killers and cannot support such training with their money." It was pointed out that a major portion of today's tax dollar is spent for defense.

THE TIMES' REPLY—Although The Times could probably list 100 and 1 good reasons for not paying taxes it did not go along on the reason given by the group it labeled as "Tax Dodgers For Peace." In the editorial it replied as follows: "The Raleigh Times testifies war. It also despises heavy taxes. Moreover, it is completely out of patience with the corruption with which the Truman Administration is impregnated. But if there is anything which provokes the complete and unrestrained disgust of this newspaper it is an undertaking such as this. Tear-sheets of this editorial page are being sent to Mrs. Ward and also to Mr. Bromley with the hope that some court in this land will find it possible to put them and their associates not in jail but under same."

TO MCCARRAN COMMITTEE—A "tear-sheet," as well as the original "hand-out" and letter from Mrs. Ward, were sent to Senator Willis Smith with the suggestion that the McCarran Subcommittee on Internal Security (of which Smith is a member) look into the organization and purposes of this group.

FOLLOW-UP—On Saturday The Times reproduced in full a reply from Mrs. Ward's husband who it might be said, took exception to what the Raleigh daily had to say about his spouse. Pertinent portions of his letter are as follows:

"You say that my wife, Libby, should be put not in jail, but under the jail. For what? For writing a letter which you published in The Raleigh Times and for sending you a news release? The first amendment of the Constitution of the United States guarantees our freedom of speech and freedom of press, among other things, and states that these freedoms may not be abridged. My wife has done only what the Constitution guarantees that any citizen may do, and nothing else. Thus legally she is invulnerable, and all the unconstitutional laws, McCarran Committees and corrupt courts which perjure their sworn fidelity to the United States Constitution, would illegally put her either in or under the jail, are themselves traitor both to the Constitution and to the American people, for the American people believe in democracy. It is evil to kill. It is evil to pay others to kill. It is evil to make the weapons of killing. The leaders of America are worse than wasting $52 billion this year on projects aimed to kill and destroy humanity. This amounts, in one year, to nearly $1,400 for every four people in the United States, enough to put every poor family in the land soundly on its feet and to prevent domestic Communism in a way that really will work. If you understood the principles of kindness to one another, you yourself would refuse to pay for the killing of men who love life as you do; you yourself would work ardently, even at the risk (Continued on page eight.)"

What Other Papers Are Thinking

miscellaneous causes. Here, as Mr. Claridge points them out, are rules to prevent forest fires:

Hold your match until it is cold; then pinch it to make sure it is out. Crush out all your smokes, and where there is an ash tray, use it. Drown your campfire and warming fire; then stir and drown again. And, if you must use fire to clear old fields or fence rows, to burn trash, ferns or trash, get a permit if required. Follow safe rules: burn on calm days only; have help and tools on hand from start to finish, and kill every spark before you leave the burned area.

We must not forget that our forests are among our most valuable assets," says Mr. Claridge.

The number of forest fires in February exceeded those of January by 99 and caused almost triple the damage resulting in January when 273 fires swept over 20,674 acres of forest and open land, causing estimated losses of $59,992.

Carelessness on the part of brush burners was blamed for 227 of last month's 472 fires. Smokers were charged with starting 95, incendiaries were accused of starting 74, campers and hunters reportedly started 17, and the remainder were charged to

Business Today

The management of many cooperative, semi-cooperative and proprietary buying offices ran to their attorneys this week to find out what the Federal Trade Commission's order to the Independent Grocers Alliance Distributing Co. meant for them.

The FTC ordered the company and its affiliates to discontinue several unlawful brokerage fees from sellers of grocery products and related commodities. The company, generally known as the I. G. A., serves as buying office for a large number of wholesale companies which service some 5,000 retail stores.

Its huge buying power gave it advantages generally available only to large chains. It was in a position to command brokerage fees and commissions and its receipts from these sources paid for advertising programs benefiting its wholesalers and retailers. This, the FTC found, was in violation of the Robinson-Patman Act. Even Commissioner Lowell B. Mason, who does not believe in too much government interference with business, agreed that the practices violated the specifications of the law, although he did not appear to approve of the specifications of the law itself.

Unless the I. G. A. upsets the decision in the courts, it appears likely that it will have to undergo an expensive change in methods of operation. It is assumed that the FTC will project this interpretation of the law into other fields. Whether buying offices in department accessory and other fields are subject to a crack-down probably depends upon the methods under which they operate. If their pattern is close to that of the I. G. A., they may be in for trouble. If, however, they meet the technicalities of the law, they may have the FTC's blessing. That's why they are talking to their lawyers now.

COMPETITOR HAS ITEM, STORE'S AD SAYS
Once in a while a store advertises a competitor. Sweet's Furniture Store, Twin Falls, Idaho, did it recently as a service to its customers.

The store advertised a new cleaner and began to take orders. Through some mishap, the store's own order went astray. So it advertised again, explaining the difficulty and promising to fill orders as soon as it was able. "But if you are in a real hurry," it added, "we can only be fair to tell you that it is now available at Sears, Roebuck's store in Twin Falls."

WATCH THOSE WELL-TURNED PHRASES!
One apt phrase is often worth more than a thousand words of explanation. Government officials have constantly talked about "guns or butter." It is more dramatic than saying "military material or consumer goods contributing to high standards of living."

SLICER—A machine that will slice foam rubber as thin as one-eighth of an inch thick has been developed for upholsterers, and other users of the rubber to enable them to obtain an, thickness from standard stock. It is by F. J. S. Engineering & Machine Co., Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio.

Hal Boyle's Column

NEW YORK — (AP) — Things a man learns from reading his mail:

There is an old popular belief that major wars break out about every 22 years. The Foundation for the Study of Cycles, after checking wars from 550 B. C., says there's something to it. The wars also seem to come along about the same time as certain big solar disturbances.

So to end wars all you gotta on is cure the sun of its spots? Boy, hand me that celestial ornament.

Add leap year news. It is illegal to marry your husband's grandniece in Georgia. But if you want to wed your first cousin in West Virginia it's okay — if he's over 50 years old. You have to wait until you're a dowdy old maid of 16 before you can go to the altar in the hush of Kentucky. In conservative Massachusetts, however, you can be a bride at the blooming age of 12.

A name in the news recently was Mr. Alan Garinkel, who had been eating 50,000 pieces of bologna a week, or 500 an hour. This is knottin'! ... Yes, it's real knottin'. It takes a two-year apprenticeship to learn this killed job right. There are only 25 professional bologna knotters in America. And they all hate the word arthritis.

Greenwich village today is a tourist lure and a refuge for starry-eyed young actresses, artists and Wall Street speculators. But in 1922 it was so remote from downtown Manhattan that society people fled there to escape a yellow fever epidemic. Did you ever hear of the noble lady who kept a corpse in her coach? She was Mademoiselle de Coigny, an 18th century French intellectual. Why the Corpse? She was studying anatomy, and liked to keep a subject handy.

Do you fear the boss's frown when you sneak out for a morning cup of coffee? Well, a poll of 1,150 companies in 45 states showed that 78 per cent have now authorized "coffee breaks" of their own accord. After finding that 800 employees were spending 15 minutes a day each grabbing snacks, the Mutual Life Insurance Co. installed eight mobile carts that give "breakfast - at-your-desk" service to 2,000 employees. It figured this saved $130,000 in labor costs.

Did you know that 2,000 aliens now serving in the U. S. Army? That it is more important for you to be able to read well within arm's length than it is to have "twenty-twenty" vision, which only means the ability to read an eyesight chart at 20 feet? That the first automobile ever stolen in America was snatched in St. Louis in 1905? That cars are aging just like people — because in 1950 half the autos on the road were ten years old or older? Speaking of the auto industry, there were 23,000,000 passenger cars in the United States in 1950. 27,500,000 in 1940. 40,000,000 in 1930, and by 1960 there will be some 52,000,000.

The traffic prospect this fall is to going to drive an awful lot of people back to the pogo stick.

Washington Letter

By FRANK AREY
(For JANE EARDS)

WASHINGTON — The government's program of furnishing radioactive isotopes free of production costs for use against cancer may be temporary unless continued unless scientists using the current tail their demands where possible.

The Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) has advised hospitals and universities that funds covering the system will run out early in May at the present rate of demand. Whenever the funds run out, says AEC, users of the materials for cancer treatment, diagnosis and research will have to pay for production costs in addition to transportation costs already being paid. Users of isotopes for other than cancer work costs.

The commission has told scientists it already is making plans to assure continuation of the "free" program from July 1, 1952, to June 30, 1953. But meanwhile it has asked users to decrease their present orders if at all possible and has urged them to place substitute purchase orders with their suppliers instructing them to continue shipments at catalogue prices when free shipments are discontinued.

Catalogue prices for isotopes vary according to the particular substance, its radio-active power and the amount of radioactivity, but the quantity of radioactive iodine used as a maximum dose for a single treatment for thyroid cancer would cost $75.

Radioactive isotopes are produced at the commission's Oak Ridge, Tenn., plant for research in various fields of science, medicine, agriculture and industry. Under a special program isotopes requested by American scientists for use against cancer were furnished free of production costs. The intent was to spur the attack on cancer.

In its new announcement to scientists working materials against cancer, the AEC said: "Congress has consistently appropriated funds for this program as recommended by the commission. The commission in turn has had to determine a cost ceiling for their program—the normal federal budget and finance procedure. The fund limitation has been set at $450,000 annually.

Big U. S. Atomic Plant Copies Canadian Design

By JOSEPH L. MYLER
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—The vast atomic plant rising on the Savannah River in South Carolina is something of a monument to a comparatively tiny little plant on the Chalk River in Canada.

Atomic Energy Commission spokesmen have said the batteries of nuclear furnaces which will one day turn out atomic explosives at Savannah River are of "radical" new design.

According to congressional sources, however, it is no secret that they will be modeled fundamentally after the famous "NRX" atomic reactor built by the Canadians.

Nevertheless it came as a surprise to many in this country to learn back in 1949 from Dr. L. R. Huls, chief of U.S.S. atomic furnace development, that "the reactor of most advanced design and performance is in Canada."

The Chalk River reactor is the world's biggest nuclear furnace using heavy water as a moderator to slow neutrons to the energies at which they are most useful as fuel. Neutrons are the nuclear particles which cause, and are produced by, fission of uranium atoms. The vast U.S. production reactors at Sanford, Wash., where the bomb explosive plutonium is made, use graphite instead of heavy water as a moderator.

But heavy water—water made from double-weight hydrogen—is a better moderator and gets more work out of neutrons. This is important because neutrons, in addition to making the fission reaction go, are the subatomic agents which transmute inert materials into the kind that can be used as atomic fuel, explosives, or radioactive tools for research, medicine, and industry.

A reactor's efficiency is gauged by its "neutron flux density"—the number of neutrons in a given space in a given period of time.

AEC Chairman Gordon Dean said last year that Canada's NRX furnace "produces a higher concentration of neutrons than any research reactor we now have in operation."

American technicians have been given access to Canadian reactor techniques. This information, it is understood, is being worked into the design of the big reactors which will make A-bomb and H-bomb explosives at Savannah River.

Heavy water for these reactors will be produced at a plant now under construction at Dana, Ind.

New Yellow Hybrid Is Prolific

This photo shows two stalks of Dixie 82, a new, improved yellow corn hybrid adapted to all communities in the Coastal Plain and Piedmont sections of North Carolina. In the 1951 official Coastal Plain variety tests conducted by the North Carolina Crop Improvement Association, Dixie 82 yielded 25.8 bushels per acre more than the average of the best open-pollinated varieties. F. J. Bell, seed and small grain specialist for the State College Extension Service, says seed of this hybrid is being sent to county agents and vocational teachers for farm demonstrations. A limited supply of seed is available in seed stores. Dixie 82, according to Bell, produces better yields and has better roots and stalks than N. C. 27 and is about equal to N. C. 27 in weevil resistance. It is slightly later than N. C. 27 and a week earlier than Dixie 18.

Celebrates Birthday
On Monday afternoon little Bette Lynn Gower celebrated her second birthday with around 15 little friends calling for an hour of play at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Gower.

In the living room the little folks enjoyed toys, a story and games. Mrs. Gower was assisted in directing activities by Mrs. Eleanor Gower and Miss Louise Mewborn. Also present for the afternoon was her paternal great grandmother, Mrs. Mary Worthington.

At the refreshment hour the beautifully decorated cake carrying out the color note of pink and white was cut and served with ice cream. Later candy Easter eggs were passed.

Organize Class
On Wednesday night a group of young women of the Methodist Church met at the home of Mrs. W. E. Rasberry for the purpose of organizing their class into a young adult class called the Richard A. Nelson Sunday School Class. Mrs. Rasberry was elected president, Mrs. Courtney Patrick vice president, and Mrs. Jake Worthington, secretary-treasurer.

The group will meet the first Monday night of each month with the vice president being responsible for a program and devotional.

Following the business of the evening a social hour was enjoyed. In a contest of naming slogans Mrs. Courtney Patrick was awarded a box of candy for giving the most correct names.

Mrs. M. B. McWilliams and Mrs. Claude Hart, co-hostesses with Mrs. Rasberry, served a sandwich plate with iced drinks.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Richard A. Nelson with Mrs. Glendel Tucker as joint hostess.

Other than the above named, present for the meeting were Mrs. R. L. Reid, Mrs. G. H. Smith, Mrs. Joe House, Mrs. Roger Johnson, Mrs. David Parker and Mrs. W. D. Casey Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam E. Nelson and son Ernest were in Durham Wednesday.

Mrs. Clay Burney is a patient at Pitt Memorial Hospital in Greenville; her condition is reported as satisfactory following a major operation on Thursday morning. Her daughter, Mrs. E. W. Campbell Jr. of Portsmouth, Va., is here to be with her.

Mrs. L. B. Cox of Greenville spent Tuesday here as a guest of Mrs. L. O. Cox.

Mrs. W. I. Bissette, Mrs. Clifton Jackson and Mrs. Roy Jackson attended the installation of officers meeting of the Ayden Eastern Star on Thursday night.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Burnette of Newport News, Va. were guests this week of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Patrick.

Mr. G. L. Tucker has returned from a business trip to Philadelphia.

Capt. and Mrs. Ernest Howell and daughters have returned to their home here. Capt. Howell has been hospitalized at an army hospital in Alabama due to injuries sustained in an plane crash. Mr. Howell and daughters have been visiting relatives at Green Mountain.

Sells Champagne At Dime A Glass

SYDNEY, Australia — (UP) — Champagne sells for ten cents a glass in Walter Turner's bar in Newtown, an industrial suburb where the usual tippie is beer, in big schooners.

A taste for champagne bubbles up fairly often, Turner says. "When one asks for it, everyone wants it just to see what it tastes like," he observed.

Getting eleven glasses from a bottle, Turner admits champagne is a fizzle as a money-maker. It's just a good public relations stunt, he said.

Friday's Cases In Police Court

On Police Court yesterday, Judge Charles H. Whedbee found Robert B. Watson guilty of possession of non-tax paid whiskey. The court gave him 30 days in jail, sentence suspended on payment of $50, costs deducted.

James R. Gowans was found not guilty of driving a motor vehicle while drunk.

Robert Freeman and Odell Windham were found not guilty of disorderly conduct.

In the case of Robert Watson, Negro, who is charged with disorderly conduct, prayer for judgment was continued on condition that he not molest or mistreat Louise Nettles, Negro.

Howard G. Porter, allowing his dog to run at large, the court continued prayer for judgment on condition that he have the dog registered and vaccinated and keep it under control.

Kentucky, Red Men Meet In NCAA Finals

St. John's Team Trounces State In Second Game

Penn State And Wolfpack Play In Consolation Contest

RALEIGH, N.C. (UP)—St. John's of Brooklyn faces an opportunity to avenge one of the most humiliating beatings in its basketball history when it plays mighty Kentucky tonight in the quarter-finals of the NCAA tournament.

However, in spite of the Johnnies' burning incentive to repay Kentucky for an 81-40 shellacking at Lexington, Ky., last Dec. 17, the odds are that the Wildcats, who are ranked first nationally, will survive for the semifinals at Seattle, Wash., next Tuesday night.

Kentucky, led by All-America Cliff Hagan's 20 points, walked through Penn State's zone defense for an 82-54 victory, and St. John's turned on a powerful third quarter spurt to down host North Carolina State, 60-49, in the first round last night before a crowd of 11,000.

In romping to its 29th victory in 31 games this season, Kentucky rattled the Penn State zone defense that had baffled several major college teams. The Wildcats accomplished the feat with brilliant set shooting from outside and the speedy driving of its front-court men.

Kentucky hit on 35 out of 81 field goal attempts in 19 out of 75 for the Nittany Lions.

The Wildcats led 27-18 after the first quarter and 43-25 at half-time. After that it was a breeze. Jesse Arnette, six-foot-five Penn State center, was the game's high scorer with 22 points.

St. John's had much more difficulty in downing North Carolina State in the nightcap. The setback, straight tournament victories at the Raleigh gymnasium for Coach Everett Case and the Wolfpack.

The Redmen from Brooklyn, who led only 28-25 at half-time, broke open the game with a third quarter surge in which they out-scored N.C. State 25-8. The Wolfpack went for more than seven minutes of the period without scoring a field goal.

The Southern Conference champions closed a 47-33 deficit to eight points with four minutes left to play, but clutch field goals by Zeke Zawoluk and Jack McMahon clinched the game for St. John's.

Zawoluk, with 12 points, and McMahon and freshman Dick Duckett, with 11 each, paced St. John's. Dave Gotkin, a Brooklyn boy, tallied 13 to lead N.C. State.

Miss O'Sullivan Leading Golfers

PINEHURST, N.C. (UP)—Defending champion Pat O'Sullivan of Orange, Conn., was favored to gain the finals of the North and South Women's Amateur golf tournament today for the third straight year, as she met Mrs. H.S. Covington in the semi-final at the Pinehurst Country Club course.

The other semi-final matched Barbara Romack, 19-year-old long ball hitter from Sacramento, Calif., against Mary Agnes Wall of Memphise, Mich.

Miss O'Sullivan, who has been improving steadily in her quest for her third straight title in the event, eliminated former champion Mrs. Estelle Lawson Page of Chapel Hill, N.C., 5 and 3, for the biggest winning margin in yesterday's quarter-finals.

Miss Wall and Mrs. Covington, frequent "also-rans" in U.S. women's golf, pulled upsets to reach the round of four Miss O'Sullivan of the Orangeburg, S.C., player who was a runner-up here last year.

Miss Wall matched that surprise by defeating Curtis Cup player Grace DeMoss of Corvallis, Ore., 2-up.

Miss Romack, rated one of the better younger players, also had to scramble for her 3 and 1 triumph over Ida McDowell of Camden, S.C.

Worsham And Cooper Lead In First Round Of Jacksonville Open; Jack Burke Falls Back

Boudreau Cheerful Over Bosox

By FRANK ECK
AP Newsfeatures Sports Editor
SARASOTA, Fla.—Lou Boudreau didn't know when he was well off he got something over $50,000 for playing shortstop for the Boston Red Sox last year. When they named him manager he took himself off the playing list. Yet now that he's running the team the ex-Cleveland pilot is working harder than ever.

Boudreau came into the camp back in January much overweight but since has gone on a diet and before the exhibition games began he could be seen working four hours a day, tapering off with a bit of first basing.

"Vern Stephens looks good but you never know about those things until the season starts," says Boudreau. "He had a bad leg last year. I have two kids—Allen Richter and Jim Piersall—working at short but I might be in there myself. You never can tell."

"Losing Bobby Doerr and Ted Williams leaves big problems at second base and left field, not to mention the loss of hitting strength."

The Red Sox will have a tough time finishing in the first division this season and that's why Boudreau came down here early. For four solid weeks he looked at 35 farmhands and ordered 16 of them to remain behind to work out with the varsity. Ted Lepcio impresses each day at second base and if Billy Goodman doesn't open at that spot, the job could fall to Lepcio.

"We've got some fine looking youngsters," says Boudreau. "In Cleveland we never saw as many good young pitchers. They're just names now—follows like Al Curtis, Dick Brodowski, Cliff Goggin and Russ Kemmerer but you'll be hearing about them before long."

Boudreau's starters appear to be his ace Mel Parnell, Maurice McDermott, Ray Scarborough, William Nixon and Randy Gumpert, usually a great spring pitcher. However, this quintet won only 54 games in 1951.

Early Wynn Shows Mound Form In Exhibition Tilt

Early Wynn, who could have sued the Cleveland Indians for "non-support" last year, appears headed for another banner season. Wynn has looked as sharp as ever this spring and with some batting support figures to improve on his 20-13 record of 1951.

The 32-year-old right-hander was Cleveland's most effective pitcher down the stretch in 1951. He won nine games and lost only two during the final two months of the season. Weak hitting prevented him from posting a better record, in 12 of his 13 defeats the Indians were limited to three runs or less.

Wynn turned in another fine performance yesterday as the Indians defeated the Chicago White Sox, 6-4, at Los Angeles. Wynn pitched the first five innings and didn't permit a hit until the fourth.

Bookies Fred Hahn and Ralph Beard also came up with some excellent pitching as the St. Louis Cardinals downed the Cincinnati Reds, 2-0, at St. Petersburg, Fla. Hahn checked the Reds on four hits only one over the final three.

The Chicago Cubs won a 3-2 squeaker from the Pittsburgh Pirates at San Bernardino, Calif. Roy Smalley tripled home the winning run in the ninth inning. Ralph Kiner accounted for both Pittsburgh runs by clouting his first home run of the spring, a belt off Warren Hacker in the sixth. The Cubs' 3-2 victory secured Los Angeles, 8-4, at Fullerton, Calif.

Sam Jethroe, Boston's speedy outfielder, was slightly injured as he Braves outlasted the Philadelphia Phillies, 13-11, at Clearwater, Fla.

Jethroe suffered a sprained left wrist as he crashed into the fence in a bid to catch a drive by rookie left fielder Clark of the Phils.

The Braves' American League rivals, the Red Sox, came from behind to beat the Philadelphia Athletics, 5-3, at West Palm Beach, Fla.

The Detroit Tigers also came from behind to win, beating the New York Yankees, 3-1, at Lakeland, Fla. Ted Gray and Wayne McLeland limited the Yanks to six hits.

Washington jumped on John Pogue, Brooklyn's highly regarded rookie left-hander, for six runs in three innings and went on to down the Dodgers, 8-2, in a night game at Miami, Fla. Pogue yielded eight hits and a walk but all the Senator runs were unearned due to three Brooklyn errors.

Rookie Gilbert's three-run homer in the fifth inning gave the New York Giants a 5-2 triumph over the Oakland Pacific Coast League club. In another night tilt at San Francisco the St. Louis Browns whipped the Coast League Seals, 8-5.

LOU BOUDREAU (left), new manager of the Boston Red Sox, gives words of encouragement to big Walt Drobot, his first baseman. Walt hopes to regain his 1950 form when he hit .322, batted in 144 runs, socked 24 homers and was named the top rookie in the league.

Bill Wight, slick left last year, might pick up some slack along with Walt Masterson and rookies Bill Henry and Bennett Flowers, a 17-game winner at Scranton. Henry, a former softball pitcher, won 12, lost 15 for Shreveport, last place club in the Texas League. The Bosox bought him on Scout Ted McGraw's recommendation.

"Walt Drobot has changed his attitude this spring," says Boudreau. "He straightened him out and Big Moose is rapidly getting down to 220 pounds. He had never fully recovered from a broken hand last spring and was shipped to San Diego."

Fred Hatfield, regarded here as a Billy Cox in the field, will get another shot at third base. He hit only .172 in 80 games last year and they look for better things from him now that he has a year behind him.

The Sox believe they got the best of the White Sox deal which brought Gus Niarhos. He will be the No. 1 catcher. As a matter of fact, Niarhos and Dom DiMaggio, in center field, were the only ones who had a lock on their positions by mid-March.

When Ted Williams goes into the Marines—the date probably will be May 2—the Red Sox figure to lose a lot of patronage and it's Boudreau's job to get together a winner to keep the fans interested.

Lou isn't one to predict but he says "We'll fool a lot of people."

Senators Lose To Boston Red Sox

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP)—The Washington Senators got more hits and more runs than in any game this spring but they still took a bad beating yesterday, 14 to 8, at the hands of the Boston Red Sox.

The Sox got seven hits and four runs off Bob Portierfield in five innings but his showing was better than his successors, rookies Glenn Elliott, Dean Stone and Clyde Barnhardt. Boston hit Stone with a two-run eighth and collected a five run ninth off Stone and Barnhardt.

The one bright spot for Manager Bucky Harris was the slugging of Cuban outfielder Frank Campos. He got four straight hits, including a triple.

Diet For Deer
MISSOULA, Mont. (AP)—A proper diet is as conducive to old age in deer as in humans, says Dr. E. L. Cheatum who heads the state fish and game department's cooperative research unit here. Dr. Cheatum stated that checks on deer brought by hunters show that good grass range enables Montana deer to live ten years or more. The grass also increases the animals' reproductive rate to twice that of those living on poor range.

Scientists have found it impossible to give an exact definition of a living organism.

He's still weak in fielding his position, but he is improving and we'll continue working hard on him to correct his faults."

Van Cuyk first was brought up in 1949 under Burt Shotton. After pitching a brilliant triumph over the Cardinals, however, he lost his next start because of his failure to field balls. Shotton kept him on the bench the rest of the season rather than expose his weakness around the league.

"I'm convinced he can make the grade, but if he doesn't I have 13 others just waiting for the chance."

HELENA, Mont. (AP)—State Attorney General Arnold H. Olsen ruled that Acting President P. C. Gurnea may exercise "a more strict control of dogs" on the Montana State College campus. Gurnea complained of general obstruction by dogs and said they killed several sheep belonging to the college.

Total Of 24 Players Break Par And Eleven Golfers Match Par 72 In The First Round Of Play

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Young Jack Burke needs a lot of sub-par golf to keep his victory string intact in the Jacksonville Open.

Burke far off the form that won him four straight PGA tournaments, and going into today's second round, was six strokes back of two tournament-wise veterans, Lee Worsham and Pete Cooper, who shot 66 each yesterday to grab the lead.

Besides this pair, Burke has to contend with 24 other par busters and 11 who matched his even par 72 in the opening round.

Worsham, whose putting was hotter than the 80-degree weather, is playing the same 6,508-yard Hyde Park course on which he earned the nickname "Honest Lee" and lost a playoff because of it in 1947.

When he called a penalty stroke on himself, Worsham wound up tied with Clayton Heafner in that tourney and lost the playoff. He went on to win the National Open that year, however.

Cooper, professional at nearby Ponte Vedra Beach until a year ago when he moved to White Plains, N. Y., stayed out of trouble most of the way. Two putts of nearly 20 feet dropped for him to more than make up for the loss of a stroke in a trap on the fourth hole.

Breathing right on the leaders' heels is the 25-year-old Bob Toakt of Northampton, Mass.; Earl Stewart Jr. of Dallas, and Bob Galda of Birmingham, Mich., all at 67.

Ted Kroll, San Diego Open champion from New Hartford, N. Y., scored 68. Five others including Bobby Locke of Johannesburg, South Africa were at 69; three had 70.

Three former Jacksonville Open winners—Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va.; Cary Middlecoff of Memphis, Tenn., and Jim Ferrier of San Francisco were among a dozen at 71.

The field, which started at 159, will be cut to the low 60 pros and 10 amateurs after today's 18-hole round. Single rounds Sunday and Monday will wind it up.

LOS ANGELES (UP)—Al Rosen and Luke Easter each collected three hits as the Cleveland Indians beat the Chicago White Sox, 6-4, yesterday with an 11-hit attack.

Rosen walloped a home run and two singles; Easter hit two doubles and a single against Al Widmar and Harry Dorish of Chicago.

PASADENA, Calif. (UP)—Orestes Minofo of the Chicago White Sox was suffering from a badly bruised hand today.

Minofo was struck by one of Early Wynn's pitches in the first inning of yesterday's game against Cleveland. The speedy White Sox star was taken to the club's training base for x-rays and is expected to miss today's game against the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Kentucky's basketball team lived up to its reputation last night as the NCAA eliminations opened in four cities: Corvallis, Ore., Raleigh, N. C., Chicago and Kansas City.

The mighty Wildcats from Kentucky, rated the No. 1 team in the country and aiming for their second straight NCAA crown, walloped Penn State, 82 to 54, before 11,000 in Raleigh.

All-America Cliff Hagan led Kentucky with 20 points as the Wildcats romped to their 23rd straight triumph.

St. John's, Illinois, Duquesne and Kansas, St. Louis, Wyoming and Santa Clara kept pace with Kentucky in the first round play.

St. John's stood off a late North Carolina State rally to beat the Wolfpack, 68-63, in the second game at Raleigh. Illinois, behind 37-36 at halftime, roared back to swamp Dayton, 80-61, in the feature of the win bill at Chicago before 14,147.

Duquesne bounced back from its poor showing in the NIT last week to whip Princeton, 60-49.

Kansas, with All-America Clyde Lovellette flipping in 37 points, nipped Texas Christian, 68-63, before 10,500 at Kansas City after St. Louis whipped New Mexico A & M, 62-53. Lovellette's 31 points tied the NCAA tourney record set by George Glamack of North Carolina in 1941.

Olympic Carnival Begins Tonight

NEW YORK (AP)—A five-sport Olympic Carnival, designed to bring about $25,000 into the coffers of the United States Olympic Committee, will be held at Madison Square Garden tonight.

The big features will be a six-event track meet, with its participants hand-picked by Olympic Track Committee Chairman Pinky Sober and Dick Button, the five-time world and Olympic figure skating champion, who passed up a trip to Japan to take part.

In the 400 George Rhoden, Herb McKenley, Charlie Moore and Ollie Sax will go at it, and they certainly have a good chance of smashing the indoor mark of 48.2, especially since there will be a staggered start eliminating the usual pile-up.

In the 880, Gehrmann will trade strides with Mal Whitfield, Reggie Pearman and Roscoe Browne. All will be seeking to beat the late John Borican's record of 1:55.5, a possibility if there is no jockeying.

In the mile relay, Browne and Pearman will come back to join Harry Bright and Hugo Malocco when the New York Pioneer Club shoots for Georgetown's 3:17.2 standard set 10 years ago.

Then there will be a mile with Fred Witt against Bill Mack and Lt. Warren Druetzler; a two-mile with Horace Ashenfelter trying to outstep Curt Stone and brother Bill, and a two-mile relay pitting National Champion Georgetown against Illinois and Michigan.

Button, Olympic and world champion, heads the figure skaters who will perform on the ice rink inside of the board track.

LSU Grapplers Lead Mat In Invitational Tourney

BATON ROUGE, La. (UP)—Louisiana State University boxers battled their way to five wins in the semifinals round of the Southern National Invitational boxing tournament last night, to push their total to 18 points and lead the meet.

But the LSU mittmen were expected to see plenty of trouble today from South Carolina, with 17 points, and Miami with 11. South Carolina will have five men in the finals too, and Miami put four men in the tournament's last night of bouts.

Syracuse, the leader of Thursday's first round, was tied with Minnesota at fourth place with 7 points. Maryland has accumulated 5 and Virginia 4.

112 pounds: Jules Stotts, Miami, decided John Grace, South Carolina; Bob O'Ryan, Minnesota, decided Norman Mosberg, Syracuse.

125 pounds: Allen George, South Carolina, decided Neil Ostburn, Minnesota; Mickey Demos, Miami, decided Jack Letzer, Maryland.

132 pounds: John Bandell, Minnesota, decided Pinckney Watson, South Carolina; Bobby Jackson, LSU, decided Dave Shaffer, Maryland.

139 pounds: Chuck Davis, South Carolina, decided John Granger, Syracuse; Calvin Clary, LSU, decided Robert Theofield, Maryland.

147 pounds: Emmett Gurney, South Carolina, decided Pete Lee, Minnesota; Danny Orsak, LSU, decided Billy Yoham, Miami.

156 pounds: Gordon Peresich, LSU, decided Mark Hurd, Minnesota; Pete Cotter, Virginia, decided Gus Fiacco, Syracuse.

165 pounds: Howard Collins, S.C., decided Jim Bernardo, Miami; Ronnie Rhodes, Maryland, decided Vince Rigolosi, Syracuse.

178 pounds: Chuck Stann, South Carolina, decided Bill Roberts, Virginia; George Kartalian, Syracuse, technical knockout over Ron Purch, Minnesota.

Heavyweight: Evans Howell, LSU, decided Calvin Quenspeit, Maryland; Ben Sauls, Miami, decided Sam Orlich, Minnesota.

It has been estimated that in 1800 England had one criminal for every 22 citizens.

Nardico was established as slight favorite by virtue of his showing against Matthews and the good fight he put up last month against Robert Villenain in Madison Square Garden, although he dropped the nod on that one also.

Wagner has not fought for the past 10 months because of a contract dispute with his manager, Charley Black. The rubarb was patched up two months ago and Wagner has been rounding into shape in New York.

An Honest Golfer
AP Newsfeatures
TAMPA, Fla. — It could have happened in the Baseball Writers' golf tournament at Palma Ceta but a story being kicked around here goes like this:
When a golfer was seen driving off in front of the markers another member of his foursome said—"You can't do that. You'll lose the hole."
"What for?" asked the golfer.
"For driving off in front of the markers."
"Go on back to the clubhouse," said the golfer. "I'm playing my third stroke."

Rookie Hurlers Named As Bum Starters

By LEO H. PETERSEN
MIAMI (UP)—Manager Chuck Dressen of the Brooklyn Dodgers picked three veterans pitchers for rookies as his starting pitchers for the 1952 season today, and predicted it would round into the best five-man staff in the National League.

He named Preacher Roe, Ralph Branca, Carl Erskine, Clem Labine and Chris Van Cuyk as the hurlers he will call upon in turn when the season opens April 15.

"The jobs are theirs to hold, but they have won the first shot at them," Dressen said. "Of course, if they falter I'll put someone else in the starting rotation. But before I do that, I'll give them every chance in the world to make good."

Roe, Branca and Erskine are veterans while Labine and Van Cuyk never have spent a full season with the Dodgers. Roe was the leading percentage pitcher in the majors last season with a record of 22 and 3; Branca won 13 and lost 12—his biggest defeat coming in the final playoff game against the Giants.

Labine was called up from St. Paul in mid-season, but then suffered an injury which prevented him from pitching until August. He won five and lost only one with the Dodgers. Van Cuyk spent most of the season at Montreal, where he won 11 and lost four.

Van Cuyk, a six-foot, six-inch left hander, beat out 12 other candidates for the fifth starting job, including the highly touted rookie, John Podres.

"Van Cuyk has proved to me that he has everything one needs to win in the major," Dressen said. "He has an overpowering fast ball, a good change up and good control.

He's still weak in fielding his position, but he is improving and we'll continue working hard on him to correct his faults."

Van Cuyk first was brought up in 1949 under Burt Shotton. After pitching a brilliant triumph over the Cardinals, however, he lost his next start because of his failure to field balls. Shotton kept him on the bench the rest of the season rather than expose his weakness around the league.

"I'm convinced he can make the grade, but if he doesn't I have 13 others just waiting for the chance."

First Error

BURBANK, Calif. (AP)—Marty Marion, "Mr. Shortstop" with the St. Louis Cardinals and now doubling as player and coach with the St. Louis Browns, had his first error of the season yesterday—a bad throw.

Monte Irvin walked for the New York Giants in the second frame, then Willie Mays beat out a slow up to Marion. Marty threw high and Irvin took third, later scoring on Don Mueller's double.

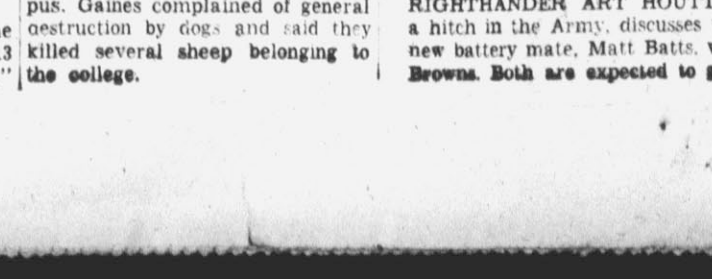

Marion was the only Brownie to get two hits in the game. He handled three other fielding chances cleanly. The Giants won 4-3.

Priddy Is 'Best'

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP)—Gerry Priddy, second baseman for the Detroit Tigers, proved that he is the best of the Tigers—in golf, that is. For the second straight spring Priddy won the annual "Tiger Tournament." He shot a 72 to beat Chuck Dick Bartell and Fitcher Hal Newhouse by five strokes. In the playoff for second spot Newhouse bested Bartell.

TO RESTRICT DOGS
HELENA, Mont. (AP)—State Attorney General Arnold H. Olsen ruled that Acting President P. C. Gurnea may exercise "a more strict control of dogs" on the Montana State College campus. Gurnea complained of general obstruction by dogs and said they killed several sheep belonging to the college.

RIGHTHANDER ART HOUTTEMAN, left, recently returned from a hitch in the Army, discusses the Tigers' 52 mound plans with his new battery mate, Matt Batts, who was obtained in a trade with the Browns. Both are expected to give the Tigers a big lift this season.

Citizenship Education To Be Workshop Topic

What the public schools can do to develop students into good citizens will be discussed in a summer workshop now being organized at East Carolina College.

During 1950, Dr. Clay was one of a small group of educators in this country chosen to participate in the Citizenship Education Project sponsored by Columbia University and financed by the Carnegie Foundation.

bibliographical cards which describe and evaluate published works having to do specifically with American citizenship, and a number of pamphlets describing projects or laboratory practices which have been successfully used to teach citizenship in schools in many parts of the United States.

On completion of the work, students will receive three quarter hours of credit. This credit may be applied toward requirements for social studies majors, toward a master's degree, and toward the renewal of teaching certificates, provided that a similar course has not previously so applied.

Trieste Again Is Scene Of Riots; Thirty Injured

TRIESTE, Free Territory (AP)—Fighting between police and Italian demonstrators broke out again in this Allied-controlled city which both Italy and Yugoslavia claim.

Clashes erupted in the central Piazza Unità, scene of wild demonstrations Thursday when 30 persons were injured and 61 arrested.

The city was strike-bound by a 12-hour walkout ordered by the non-Communist unions to protest police action against Thursday's demonstrators.

Students, taking the lead in this latest demonstration for return of the city and free territory to Italy, marched through police-patrolled streets. They overturned an Allied military truck and damaged several others.

A plant uses much more water in the daytime than at night.

Under Dr. Clay's direction, the summer workshop at East Carolina has been planned to meet the needs of teachers who present courses, and who conduct citizenship education projects in their schools.

Entitled Social Studies 380G, the workshop will be given during the second term of the summer session and will cover a ten-day period, with registration scheduled for July 10. Class meetings will be held from 8 to 11 each morning. The course of study will be open only to teachers in service who have senior or graduate standing. Those who wish to enroll are asked to write to Dr. Clay before April 30.

Materials to be used in the course were prepared by the Citizenship Education Project at Columbia for subsequent use in the schools. These include more than a thousand annotated and descriptive

Girl Scout News

Dear Scouts: Last week was a very exciting one for the Girl Scouts all over the United States, for everyone joined in the 40th anniversary celebration of Girl Scouting.

We think you will want to know something about the publicity that many of the leading magazines week's Life carries 8 full pages on the organization. Be sure you look at it.

We just know you will be thrilled to know that your contributions totaled the biggest donation that Greenville Scouts have ever made to the Juliette Low Friendship Fund. The white troops and the colored troops collected a total of $28.95.

You may look for your camp folders in the mail next week-end. They are to be printed this year and will be very attractive. Get your application in just as soon as the folder reaches you, for we have had many reservations already.

Hope you and your leaders will begin to plan that trip to Camp Hardee before school closes. It will soon be warm enough to have a good time in the open.

More Tornadoes Predicted For Southern States

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Weather Bureau said today tornadoes may hit new areas in Kentucky, Tennessee and Alabama this afternoon, reaching western parts of Virginia and West Virginia tonight. It said in a special forecast: "Thunderstorms are occurring over a widespread portion of Southeastern United States this morning. There is a possibility of tornadoes occurring this afternoon in Central Kentucky, Central Tennessee, and extreme Northern Alabama, moving across Eastern Kentucky and Eastern Tennessee to reach Western Virginia during the night."

Eppes Little Theatre To Present Comedy On Tuesday Evening

The Little Theater of the C.M. Eppes High School will present "The Shock of His Life," a comedy, March 25, at 8 p.m., in the Eppes Auditorium. The story centers around Wilbur, an impish lad of thirteen years, and his family the Maxwells. It seems that in spite of the fact that Wilbur has two older sisters, the house work is shoved on him. His disgusting answer to this is "Shoot a mile!" with which he also voices his every emotion. Comp to Wilbur is Hercules who teams with Wilbur to provide an evening of hilarious laughter.

Douglas Payton has the role of Wilbur. Other members of the cast include: Matthew Lewis, Annie Jones, Walter Exum, Louise McManus, and Aletha Frizzelle. The technical staff includes Maxine Moore, Edward Short, and Joyce Edwards, advertising; Jesse Randolph, stage manager; Amy Shivers, properties and Jacqueline Davis, setting. Mrs. E. B. Graves is the director of the group.

Pitt Soldiers Win Commissions

To Hold Revival

Rev. Samuel J. Todd (above), of Newnan, Ga., next week will conduct a series of revival meetings at the Pentecostal Holiness Church in Greenville. Rev. H. E. Johnson, church pastor, announced this morning.

The theme of this series of meetings, Rev. Johnson said, will be the salvation of the soul and healing of the body. The first meeting will begin Monday night at 7:30, and the series will last all through next week.

Rev. Todd has traveled extensively and conducted revivals throughout the United States and Canada. He is a graduate of Emmanuel College, Franklin Springs, Ga., and Asbury College at Wilmore, Ky. During World War II, Rev. Todd was chairman of the service men's commission of the Pentecostal Holiness Church and personally supervised extensive correspondence with service men and their families.

The young minister will be in Greenville for one week, and the public is cordially invited to attend these revival services. Special prayers for the sick will be held at each service.
