

Compromise Efforts Told On War Prisoner Trade

Secret Meetings Appear To Have Opened Way To Progress; Changed Wording More Palatable To Reds; Skirmishing Flares In Combat Zone

By LEROY HANSEN United Press Staff Correspondent PANMUNJOM, Korea (UP) — The United Nations command said for the first time tonight that it is seeking compromise in the deadlock over exchange of war prisoners.

Secret meetings appear to have opened the way to progress, it was announced.

Brig. Gen. William P. Nickols, official U.N. spokesman at the truce talks, said he got a list of redrafted terms "voluntarily repatriation" and substituted "no forced repatriation" about four or five weeks ago.

He said this was in an effort to say approximately the same thing but in terms more palatable to the enemy.

Nickols said the Allies had adopted a "reasonable attitude" toward a Communist proposal to drop their demand for return of 44,000 "missing" former North Korean troops if the U.N. would forget about 53,000 South Koreans believed captured by the Reds.

The Communists also insisted on forced return of all prisoners, but Nickols indicated there was no change in the U.N. stand that return should be by free choice.

He said the U.N. command again told the Communists that "there is every indication the great majority of their captured personnel would decide to return. We have made the statement on numerous occasions."

The U.N. says the 44,000 ex-North Korean troops actually were South Koreans impressed by the Reds, and that most have been reclassified as civilians.

The Communists say the 53,000 South Koreans they are supposed to hold actually were released at the front.

Nickols indicated the U.N.'s month-old willingness to bargain on the issue may result in a meeting of minds under the news blackout stamped on the meeting by negotiators.

Red staff officers refused at today's meeting to change their position that Russia is a neutral and entitled to a seat on the truce inspection committee. The U.N. command has offered to withdraw Norway if the Communists drop the Soviet.

BEOLU, Korea (UP)—Allied infantrymen in three groups, edged close to Red bunkers in the shadowy morning light, then charged with hand grenades and rifle fire.

On the western front, Communists occupied one United Nations-held position for 4 1/2 hours before they were driven out by attacking Allied troops.

Fighter-bombers, meanwhile, cut Communist railroad lines in Korea another 84 times. Planes attacked under a thick overcast which kept off Red fighters.

Young Mother, Infant Fatally Burned In Fire

Woman Seen Running From House With Clothing Afire, Returned To Home Second Time To Try Save Baby

A 20-year-old mother and her three-month-old daughter were fatally burned near Stokes yesterday afternoon when an oil heater explosion turned their five room house into a roaring inferno.

County officers found the charred body of the child on the burned springs of its crib after the house in which the Negro family lived had been burned to the ground. The mother, Letha May Ebron, died of burns at Pitt County Memorial hospital at 6:30 last night.

No inquest will be held. The tragedy occurred on the farm of A. R. Tyson, approximately two miles from Stokes on a rural road.

Officers quoted witnesses as saying they saw the mother run from the house with her clothes in flames and roll in the dirt outside the house apparently trying to extinguish the flames which engulfed her. She ran back into the house, apparently for the child, but in a few moments came out again, her clothes burned off her body, and collapsed in the yard.

The woman's husband, Jack Ebron, was in Williamston with Tyson at the time the fire occurred.

The woman was rushed to Pitt Memorial hospital where she was given emergency treatment for third degree burns. Officers said she suffered third degree burns all over her body except for a small patch on her face, and her feet, missed by the searing flames. Pitt Coroner Griffin H. Rouse and Deputy Sheriff Loyd Manning found the body of the child in its burned crib after the fire.

The house and its furnishings were destroyed in the blaze.

Pitt UFE Organized In Tuesday Meeting

A United Forces for Education was organized in Pitt County and Greenville last night. Erzell Webb was elected to head the organization.

Representatives of several civic clubs, farm clubs, and school organizations gathered for a dinner meeting at Respos-Tamas which is working toward five goals in its basic legislative program for improvement in the schools.

Webb stated in his opening remarks that industrial development in eastern North Carolina depends on what the schools have to offer; that business is sympathetic with schools and feels that money for education is well-spent money and is getting value received in proportion to money spent.

Joe Taft, recently elected chairman of the State School Board Association of Eastern North Carolina stated that Greenville and Pitt County already feel the influx of industry here and those people are expecting good schools for their children.

Mrs. W. J. Stell presented the legislative program for the United Forces for Education, and Sam Bundy explained the program and discussed the five points showing there are sufficient funds to finance the program.

The legislative program points out the need for an immediate reduction in class size, a salary schedule of $2,600 to $4,100 for "A" certified teachers, sufficient funds to employ qualified attendance enforcement personnel, appropriations to provide additional required services, and capital outlay funds by bond issue to complete the present school building program.

Other officers elected were: J. R. Taylor, Ayden, vice-chairman; and Dr. M. W. Aldridge, Greenville, secretary and treasurer. Miss Ingeborg Huseboeberger, German teacher who is studying the educational program in Greenville, was recognized at the meeting which 60 persons attended.

The following clubs and organizations were represented: Rotary, Lions, Kiwanis, Merchant's Association, Chamber of Commerce, Woman's Club, PTAs, AAUW, Delta Kappa Gamma, home demonstration clubs, Farm Bureau, Rural League, Grange, and School Board Association.

Scrap Simmers

WASHINGTON (AP)—A bitter scrap among high administration officials over wage policy simmered down today as steel firms and the CIO United Steelworkers returned to negotiations.

A strike of more than 650,000 workers in the vital steel industry is threatened for April 4, only two weeks away. Officials urged both sides to work for a speedy settlement to avert a walkout.

Negotiations got under way this afternoon in Pittsburgh between the union and U. S. Steel Corp. and Jones & Laughlin Steel, two of the largest producers. Talks with other major firms start tomorrow.

The administration row centered around Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson. He touched it off by labeling Wage Stabilization board proposals for settling the steel wage issues "a serious threat" to inflation controls.

Tommy Plans His Ninth Marriage, If All Goes Well

NEW YORK (UP)—Asbestos heir Tommy Manville announced plans today for his ninth trip to the altar, but there was a $400,000 hitch in the arrangements.

The latest object of the 57-year-old Manville's affection is nightclub singer Ruth Webb, who gave her age as "well into the 30's."

"This time I am quietly and calmly in love with a woman mature both in mind and body," Manville said. "I think this could be one of the richest experiences of my life."

But Manville's eighth bride, British reporter Georgianna Campbell, has balked at a $100,000 settlement he said.

"She told me she would consent to call it off for good if I could see my way to make the settlement $500,000," Manville said, "but I just don't have that kind of money any more."

Sen. Bridges To Testify On His Role In Tax Case

House Investigators Will Hear His Side Of Intervening In Big Case

WASHINGTON (UP)—Senate Republican Leader Styles Bridges will testify before House tax investigators tomorrow about his behind-the-scenes efforts to settle a tax case of $7,000,000.

Chairman Cecil R. King (D-Calif) of the House subcommittee investigating tax scandals said he had talked with Bridges and the New Hampshire Republican had "expressed the desire to be heard as soon as possible" on the Hyman Harvey Klein case.

King said the subcommittee will hear Bridges at 10:30 a.m. tomorrow.

Klein, Baltimore liquor dealer, testified that he doesn't know Sen. Bridges and has no idea what prompted Bridges' efforts in his behalf.

Republicans agreed with King's plan to invite Bridges to appear. "It seems to me Sen. Bridges undoubtedly would want to appear in view of the testimony we have had," Rep. Robert W. Kean (R-N.J.) said.

Meanwhile, four House Democrats introduced legislation to make it a crime for members of Congress to intervene in federal tax cases. The sponsors are Reps. Albert Gore (Tenn.), Percy Priest (Tenn.), Brooks Hays (Ark.) and Albert Rains (A.).

Their proposal also would bar members of political committees from intervening in tax cases. Confidential records of the internal revenue bureau on some phases of the Klein case, made public yesterday, showed considerable activity by Bridges and Henry W. Grunewald, capital "mystery man" in behalf of Klein.

The records disclosed that Sen. Bridges conferred with officials of the Internal Revenue Bureau on at least six occasions about the case.

Agitators Again Incite Riot Mobs

ROME (AP)—Fascist and Communist agitators again today sparked student mobs swarming through streets of Rome, Milan and Naples in new "Trieste for Italy" demonstrations.

The Communists directed the mobs' ire at the British and Americans. The Fascists lashed out at the Reds.

Many were injured in Naples, including police, in fighting and stone-throwing. Police picked up 120 of the ring leaders for questioning.

A roaring, whistling mob of 20,000 headed for the British consulate in Milan, where powerful police forces stood guard. They were mostly high school and university students but were peppered with hot Communist agitators.

The mob milled around the consulate, flaunting posters bearing such wording as "Get Out of Italy, Tommies and Yanks." Shortly after noon the mob dispersed.

In Rome, 30 to 40 students fought with fists in front of a Communist newspaper building in the heart of the city.

Witness Reverses Version Of Melvin Daniels' Death

Mrs. Dail Did Not Shoot Melvin Daniels' Says Helen Strickland; Glenn Brantley And Mrs. Walter Dail To Face Grand Jury Action After Tension-Packed Inquest

Leaves Stand After 'Bombshell'

By ROY HARDEE Reflector Staff Writer

A surprising twist of events turned up last night at the apparently routine questioning of a coroner's jury inquiring into the fatal Saturday night shooting of Melvin E. Daniels.

A bombshell was dropped into the testimony when Miss Helen Viola Strickland took the witness stand during the evening's parade of witnesses and refuted earlier statements about the shooting and told a hushed courtroom, "Mrs. Dail did not shoot Melvin Daniels."

The statement, coming after more than one hour and a half of testimony was a direct reversal of accounts as to the chain of incidents which led to Daniel's death, apparently at the hand of Mrs. Lucille Dail, 20.

Attorney Sam O. Worthington, representing Mrs. Dail, would not allow her to take the stand during the three-hour session.

After deliberating 21 minutes, the six-man coroner's jury ordered that Mrs. Lucille Dail and Glenn "Slim" Brantley be held for grand jury room in the courtroom. The crowd last night was the largest to appear in the county court house since the trial of the two Daniels cousins in 1949 for killing a Greenville taxi driver.

The first witness to appear on the stand for the State was Capt. R. G. Rogerson, one of the two officers who answered the first call for aid at the Dail home, 113 East 11th Street, Saturday night.

Rogerson told of himself and Lt. R. W. Harris proceeding to the scene, and upon turning into 11th Street, off Evans, that the police car in which they were occupants was struck by a truck driven by Melvin E. Daniels. Rogerson stated that the man was cut about the left arm and told them that he was enroute to the Pitt Memorial Hospital for treatment of his injuries.

Rogerson told the packed courtroom that when he asked Daniels what happened he told him, "I was trying to hang curtains and got cut."

Investigation was made at the house, Rogerson stated, where he found Mrs. Walter Dail, Miss Helen Viola Strickland with Daniels at the time he was headed for the hospital.

"I looked to see if anything was torn up, but nothing was," the officer stated, in continuing his testimony. He said he asked Mrs. Dail what happened? and she replied, "They were fighting," referring to Miss Strickland and Daniels.

"Blood was on the floor in several rooms and the window glass in the side door of one of the rooms was broken out," Capt. Rogerson stated. Rogerson then testified that he returned to the house about 8:30 and found Daniels and Miss Strickland in the second room on the right, sitting on a bed.

"Have you come for me?" Daniels asked the officer, who, in turn, replied, "I will show you how I got cut," Rogerson quoted Daniels as saying. At this point the officer quoted Mrs. Dail as saying, "They were fighting and Daniels got cut. He had a knife."

Mrs. Dail was then reported as saying that she did not want to get him into any trouble, she "wanted him to leave her house and not come back."

"At this point," said Rogerson, "I advised Daniels to leave, and he left, in the direction of Poyne Street, walking with the keys to his truck."

Solicitor W. J. Bundy then asked the officer, "Did Daniels give you a knife?" To which the officer replied, "Yes," and he identified a knife shown to him—a pocketknife. "Is there blood on it," Bundy asked, and Rogerson said, "Yes."

Dr. Barrett who treated the man both times at the hospital stated in reply to the question by Solicitor Bundy, "Were there any bruises, marks on him?" to which the doctor replied, "No, sir."

Lt. R. W. Harris then took the stand and testified to the same details as Rogerson about the first incident, adding that he arrived on the scene of the shooting after he had a warrant for the arrest of Daniels on a trespassing charge, signed by Mrs. Dail.

"Daniels' body was lying in a pool of blood with a screw driver under him, by the curbing," the officer stated.

"I have just come back to find out the facts of the trouble," Rogerson said.

"I will show you how I got cut," Rogerson quoted Daniels as saying. At this point the officer quoted Mrs. Dail as saying, "They were fighting and Daniels got cut. He had a knife."

Sen. McCarthy Files Suit Against Senator Benton

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) said today he has filed a two-million-dollar "libel, slander and conspiracy" suit against Sen. Benton (D-Conn.), who has demanded that McCarthy be ousted from the Senate.

McCarthy told reporters the suit was filed in Federal District Court here, and is based on Benton's charge last September that McCarthy had committed perjury, fraud and calculated deceit of the American people in pressing his Communists-in-government accusations.

Benton made the charges before a Senate Elections subcommittee which has been looking into Benton's contention that McCarthy is unfit to serve in Congress.

Benton last week offered to waive the congressional immunity from suit.

Impressions

By MARTHA S. FORBES

One of the most popular plays of the 20th century has been "Our Town" by Thornton Wilder. Every year it is produced by dozens of amateur and professional groups and is always received with wide acclaim.

It is a favorite both from the point of view of the spectators and of the actors who take part in the presentation. I believe that its universal appeal is due to the fact that it is about people, situations and towns that are just like the ones everyone knows. The village of the play could be Ayden or Farmville or Greenville or any other small community in the United States.

And so it is with our town, Greenville. It is a pretty place—full of comfortable homes, and some not so comfortable. The people are as pleasant and delightful, or as ordinary and mean, as they are anywhere else. It all depends on a person's point of view.

The story is told of a filling station operator who, when asked by a motorist what kind of place the small town was to which he was moving, replied by asking the driver what kind of town he left behind him. "Oh," said the man, "the people were the most selfish and disagreeable of any folks in the world. That is why I moved away and came here to settle down."

The old homespun philosopher answered, "Well, they are the same kind here that you left behind."

Another prospective newcomer to the town asked the same question of him, and when asked about the town from which he had come, he responded, "The people were the most neighborly and the friendliest group in the world."

The old codger thoughtfully said, "That is the same kind of folks that live here. You see, it is all in a person's point of view. You find in others what you are looking for."

Now we find in our town of Greenville all grades, types, classes, ages, races and specimens of human beings. Some are good; some are bad. There are short ones and tall ones, skinny and fat, ignorant and educated, beautiful and not so pretty. It is not so important what we have as what we do with what we have.

For the past few days there has been much in the papers about two fine enterprises which are typical of the kind of community spirit which should prevail in our town at all times. The Community Arts Festival, in which many different organizations have united to empha-

Chancellor House Addresses Group

Literature As Hobby Subject Of Talk Last Night

"Literature is every man's hobby," Chancellor Robert B. House of the University of North Carolina told an audience at East Carolina College last night, as he spoke on a program presented as part of the Community Arts Festival now being held in Greenville.

Dr. House's lecture on "Literature as a Hobby" focused attention on the enrichment of daily living that is available to all men through books. He prefaced his talk with selections on his harmonica, explaining that music has always been to him a hobby, a recreation, and a constant pleasure.

President John D. Messick of East Carolina presided at the meeting and welcomed the audience to the campus. Dr. Robert Lee Humber of Greenville introduced Dr. House.

"A hobby," the University Chancellor said, "is a resource. It is something, he stated, that one works on without realizing that he is working—something that one intensely enjoys doing because he loves to do it.

He deplored the type of education that neglects to teach men how to use their leisure hours pleasantly and that leaves them bored and barren of interests when the time for rest and relaxation arrives.

"The whole philosophy of a hobby," he said, "is that one invests his time in something that he loves enough to return to it again and again."

The newspaper, radio, television, and the movies, enjoyable as they are, he said, offer an ephemeral pleasure. "We cannot fit our lives to their schedules," he explained. "The book," he said by way of contrast, "is always there, and you can command it."

"Read for fun," he told his audience, and added, "Don't think it is your duty to read." Sometimes, he advised, it is a good idea to sit down and quietly recollect what one has read and would like to remember. He described the pleasure that he had derived from the many years' passages that he learned in his boyhood came to his mind to inspire and delight him.

"If you love a thing enough, you will find time for it," he said. One can steal time if necessary, he added, for pastimes he enjoys. And so, he said, there is always time for reading.

Dr. House then described some of the books that he has enjoyed, exhibiting his varied interests and catholic taste. The Bible, the Oxford Book of English Verse, and a blank book, in which to write his own ideas, he said, were his choice of books to take with him when he entered the army during World War I.

Novels from Tolstol to P.G. Wodehouse he mentioned as among his favorites. Poetry which always, he said, exerted an influence over his thinking, he told how he read Tennyson early in life and how the study of Milton gave him an "intellectual birthday" and led him to seek a college education. Among the moderns, he said, Robert Frost,

New England poet, had become his friend and had impressed him with his vitality, humility, humor, originality and intelligence.

The release of the emotions in response to literature and the elevation of the spirit into the realm of religion, Chancellor House concluded, come as rewards to the lover of books.

Denny Lee Bryson Talks To Lydia Wooten Class

The Lydia Wooten Class of the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church met on Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Joe Moyer with the president, Mrs. W. G. Garner, presiding. The home was lovely throughout with attractive arrangements of jonquills.

Mrs. Garner presented Miss Denny Lee Bryson, who in a most interesting manner told of the Methodist Youth Caravan and of her experiences as a member of the second caravan this past summer.

Feeling that the youth of war-torn countries need not only material help but also spiritual help, the idea of the Youth Caravan was started, and is now sponsored by the North Carolina Methodist Conference. The 1951 Caravan worked with the young people in sections of Austria and Germany and used as their motto "Christ Above Self." Members not only brought Christian messages and spiritual help but also assisted in whatever need was at hand in the sections visited. For instance, in one section they helped clear land of rubble, even digging for and cleaning brick, so that a church could be built. Before they left the foundation had been laid.

In another section they helped in a children's camp. There were many hardships to be endured, but their motto kept them going.

Before leaving each place a party was held. These parties were as much like a young people's party in the United States as possible. With the help of army chaplains food for these parties was obtained, so that the young people could have for at least one time in their lives enough to eat.

Miss Bryson's talk was accompanied with colored slides which she had taken.

Results of the caravans are already being felt, she said. These personal contacts have meant much to the youth of war-torn countries. They have been guided and shown how to be happy and youthful again. They have been given courage in the rebuilding of their churches and have been given courage in general, just knowing that they have true friends here who care. Members of the caravan have come back, and in some cases have had friends sponsor them to return. In other cases funds are being set up for several students who wish to further their ministerial education here. It is hoped that some day a caravan from over there will be able to visit this country, Miss Bryson stated in conclusion.

The business session followed with matters of routine business taken care of first, following which the class voted to send the usual check for $50 to the orphanage for spring clothes for Jimmie Roebuck. It was also voted to serve the banquet for the Wesleyan Service Guild Conference, April 19, at 6:30. Members were urged to listen to "The Voice of Lent" each Wednesday afternoon at 4:45. It was announced that the class would have charge of the assembly program on Easter morning.

The meeting was then adjourned. Delicious refreshments consisting of block ice cream, cup cakes, nuts and candies carrying out the Easter motif were served.

Besides Mrs. Moyer the following served as hostesses: Mrs. Beulah Brown, Mrs. M. W. Maxwell, Mrs. Thurston Ellington, Mrs. Hassell Gibson, Mrs. W. C. Harris and Mrs. Jasper Jones.

Modern Furniture Exhibit Featured At Art Gallery

At the Sheppard Memorial Library a number of special exhibits have been arranged in observation of Community Arts Festival Week.

The librarian, Mrs. Bessie Scott, has on display an attractive row of books which deal especially with art, drama, flower arranging and other things which are being stressed during the festival. The original Currier and Ives prints which have been hanging in the Art Gallery during the month of March have been moved downstairs to accommodate the new things which are in the gallery.

In the Art Gallery a special emphasis on modern furniture and art has been made in the arrangement of things there. Miss Lella Higgs is responsible for the modern living room which is in Gallery One. Through the cooperation of furniture stores, a complete living room suite has been placed in an attractive setting suggestive of a room in a home. There is a reading corner with a sectional sofa, corner tableman shows; Marianne Manasse, a and coffee table; there is a television corner with chairs grouped for pleasant viewing of the screen; and a grouping of occasional chairs and wall cabinet complete the furnishings of the room. Modernistic flower arrangements are used on the tables and desk, and all appointments are in keeping with the decor of the room. Modern fabrics and drapery materials are exhibited and on the walls are hanging representative works of some of the outstanding artists of North Carolina.

Many pieces of modern sculpture are exhibited also.

Among the artists who are exhibiting in the present show are John Chapman Lewis, who has won a number of honors and prizes for his work in this state and elsewhere; Francis Lee Neel of the college art department; Claude Howell, a native of Wilmington who is listed in Who's Who in American Art.

Also Ben Williams, a native of Raleigh who has held many one-native of Germany and winner of many awards in North Carolina; Robert A. Howard, visiting sculptor of the University of North Carolina; George Kacherga, assistant professor at the University of North Carolina; and Kenneth Neas, expressionist and abstract painter who is a professor of art at the University.

James A. Walker, art supervisor for the city schools, has exhibited a painting which has recently won for him a number of regional prizes. Phillip Moore of Newton, who has had an exhibition in the Art Gallery this year, has two new oils in the current show.

Several professors and instructors from the State College School of Design are represented. They are Duncan R. Stuart, James W. Fitzgibbon, Manuel Bromberg, Roy Gussow and Leslie J. Laskey.

The public is invited to visit the exhibits at the library any day this week between the hours of 9:00 a.m. - 5:30 p.m.

Exhibit By School Pupils Open At Armory This Week

The students of the three elementary and the high schools have on exhibition at the Armory some of the best work which they have done this year.

Also on display at the same places are articles which have been made by the elementary Boys' Technical School, a group who is doing vocational work under the direction of Mr. Vincl, and the Industrial Arts and Trade Class of Greenville High School, taught by Mr. Windley.

The articles from these two groups are pieces of furniture and furniture accessories which have been hand made, political and painted by the students as a part of their regular work. Tables, lamps, stools, book cases and chests are among the items which are being shown.

The exhibition of the children's art work includes more than 500 pieces of work which have been executed during the year under the direction of James A. Walker, art supervisor for the city schools, and the individual teachers.

The exhibit includes work in water colors, tempera, crayon, charcoal, clay, papier mache and other crafts projects made by pupils from the first through the twelfth grades.

Some drawings and paintings indicate that boys and girls are often very literal in their representations, trying to reproduce faithfully what they see. Others are more romantic, concentrating on what they feel, and the emotions and moods which they have. But all work shows remarkable ingenuity and promise.

The exhibit proves that child art is a vibrant art, daring in a reckless use of colors and full of the zest of the experiences of living. Just as they use a limited verbal vocabulary to express meanings that no adult would think of trying, so in their paintings they use colors and forms that are more than likely to be departures from expectancy, but at the same time get the meaning across with a pointed sense of interest.

The work by the children shows that creative expression is a natural urge which frequently becomes thwarted in adulthood as other interests and the job of making a living take up available time.

The spread in the age range of the children represented offers a particularly interesting insight into the growth of the creative impulse and its process of development in the experiences of an individual. This exhibit can honestly be enjoyed, and the public is urged to view the exhibit, which will remain hanging during the rest of the week.

The Messick home on East Fifth Street was attractively decorated for the occasion with arrangements of chrysanthemums, camellias and other colorful flowers.

Mrs. S. M. Crisp and Mrs. M. K. Blount served coffee in the dining room. The table, covered with an embroidered cloth, had as a centerpiece an epergne holding white candles and small bouquets of red camellias. Mrs. Knott Proctor, Mrs. K. B. Face and Mrs. F. D. Duncan assisted the hostess in welcoming and entertaining guests.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLAS SPIRITUAL REBIRTH AND GROWTH The third chapter of the Gospel of John deals with the experience of spiritual rebirth. Jesus said, "Except a man be born again, he cannot see the kingdom of God."

This matter of spiritual rebirth—although we do not hear a great deal of it today—is an essential teaching in the Christian religion. This basic change of the moral and spiritual life is usually preceded by a long period of either conscious or unconscious preparation, but the spiritual birth itself, like physical birth, takes place in a comparatively short time. Sometimes it appears to occur instantaneously.

Spiritual rebirth is one thing; the new life which follows is something else again. People are born into newness of life quickly, but it takes decades after decades to cultivate and perfect the Christian life. Spiritual rebirth is known as conversion; growth in the Christian life is known as sanctification. Conversion is an act; sanctification is a process. We see the light in an ecstatic instant, but it takes a whole lifetime to learn how to follow the light with satisfaction. Anyone who believes that he may hop aboard an elevator and be raised at lightning speed to heights of sublime moral character, is in for disappointment. The start, conversion, may take place quickly as birth often does, but growth takes time.

A Hearing For Citizens; Not Just Officials

The public hearing to be held Saturday on changes in the zoning regulations in the city is a matter of importance to the citizens of Greenville. . . particularly to those who own property or expect to own property at some future date.

Basically, the various industrial, business and residential zones of the city already have been set up, but the hearing Saturday is for the purpose of considering changes and additions to these basic zones. The same is true for the fire districts as set up within the corporate limits of the city.

The hearing is being held not only to afford interested citizens first hand information on what the new zoning ordinances will entail if enacted as proposed at the present; but likewise to afford the citizens an opportunity to express their sentiments for or against the new proposals.

Greenville, since it is a relatively small city, has few public hearings on municipal matters of this sort, and as a result, the citizens are prone to overlook a hearing when it comes up.

Actually if a city matter is of sufficient consequence to warrant a public hearing, the general public should at least take enough interest to look into the proposition and see what it offers. The proposed changes in the city's zones is no exception.

Punishment Should Fit The Severe Crime

The price which James Finnegan, one-time political crony of President Truman, is to pay for his misconduct as a federal tax collector indeed is not too severe in the light of his usurpation of public office and betrayal of public trust.

The story of Finnegan has spread far and wide. It set off the investigation of the Internal Revenue Bureau and the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. It raised the dander of the American people and there arose across the land a mighty yell for a clean-up in all federal departments and agencies. The story of Finnegan's misconduct was uncovered by the diligent work of the militant St. Louis Post Dispatch which is one of the foremost newspapers in the United States in its battle against corruption in public office.

Finnegan was found guilty of accepting a $5,000 bribe from a hotel corporation for helping them recover $40,000 from the federal government in a $120,000 claim for damages to a hotel. He was found guilty of accepting a $3,000 bribe from the American Lithofold Corporation for helping the company get an RFC loan. For his misconduct, Finnegan must pay a $10,000 fine and serve two years in federal prison. That may sound stiff, but when one considers the responsible position which Finnegan held in the federal government, it indeed is not severe punishment. When an individual uses a public office to feather his own nest and the nests of his "paying friends," he should be dealt with harshly by the courts of the land.

A position of public trust is one which should not be taken lightly on any level. Yet recent investigations on the federal level have revealed that far too many officials have entered into the profession of misconduct for pay while in office.

There are other officials yet to be brought to trial on charges similar to those against Finnegan. Their proportional punishment by no means should be lighter than Finnegan's.

If corruption goes unpunished, or virtually so, it will only encourage continued and more flagrant misconduct and corruption in political office.

A Timely Reminder Of An Acute Need

For those people who have not yet contributed to the annual Red Cross drive, the work which has been done and is being done in the tornado-stricken six-state area is a timely reminder of where money given to the Red Cross goes.

It goes to help those who are struck by tragedy—whether it be an individual or a whole area.

To list the multiplicity of services rendered by the Red Cross would consume columns. To point to the work done in the last several days by Red Cross workers in Arkansas, Tennessee, Mississippi, Missouri, Kentucky and Alabama, however, should certainly loosen some of the tightly drawn purse strings which so far have not aided the Red Cross in its annual drive.

When the tragedy, which took more than 225 lives, struck through the southern states last week-end, the Red Cross rushed in with personnel and all types of supplies to provide food, clothing, emergency housing, medical supplies and many other items needed by the more than 3,000 families by the tragedy.

It was nothing unusual for the Red Cross. It was just a matter of routine operations. It was another little part of the fulfillment of the purpose for which the organization exists.

It takes money to afford that sort of service. And the money to keep the Red Cross going must come once a year from the people who contribute to the organization during its annual drive.

National Whirligig

WASHINGTON—The Democrats may reap a rich harvest of November votes through the operations of a hitherto scantily publicized agency that President Truman and Attorney General McGrath tried to kill before birth. It is, perhaps, the finest example of the effort to show that the party here takes orders from which was created by the Internal Security Act of 1950 to screen Communist and "front" organizations operating within the law as previously interpreted and applied.

The McCarran measure establishing the board was passed over Truman's veto. He and McGrath contended that, besides being unnecessarily harsh on "dupes" and "dopes," it would drive the Reds underground, making it more difficult to check on their subversive activities.

SUBVERSIVE—Now, the two men have clasped SACB to their political bosoms. McGrath, who must initiate board hearings by presenting evidence of illicit activities, has certified the Communist Party and many allied organizations for grilling and examination. He and Truman have reversed themselves completely.

The defendants in this quasi-judicial procedure do not face criminal action. But if the estimated 20,000 party members, collectively, are found guilty of subversive action, their operations will be crippled effectively. That also applies to members of "front" groups adjudged as subversive.

BRANDED—In view of recent rulings by the Supreme Court, which accepted the McCarran instead of the original Truman-McGrath philosophy, even these noncriminal "Commies" would be barred from employment by federal, state or local governments, by defense plants and by our schools.

Indeed, anybody so branded would find it hard to get a job anywhere. They must also register as Reds. Finally, all their finances and propaganda would fall under permanent federal scrutiny. It would put them out of business.

If they should go underground, failing to comply with the law as applied by SACB, they would be liable to criminal prosecution.

PROFIT—It is expected that the board, which has been holding hearings at Washington, will hand down its major decisions fairly soon. If adverse to the Reds, it could be a campaign ten-strike for the Democrats, no matter who heads the presidential slate. It might even profit a renominated Truman.

A sweeping or selective anti-Communist ruling by SACB might help to purge the Administration of Republican charges of laxity and leniency toward Moscow and its domestic agents. It might lead the voters to forget or forgive Truman's "red herring" comment on Congressional pursuit of Alger Hiss, and Dean Acheson's christianlike but controversial statement after conviction of the traitor: "I will not turn my back on Alger Hiss!"

It might restore Governor Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois to consideration as a presidential candidate, despite his trial deposition on behalf of Hiss, and their close association in Agriculture and the State Department.

EVIDENCE—Attorney General McGrath has hit the "Commies" hard in submitting evidence of their anti-American activity to SACB. He seems to be trying to make up for his earlier denunciation of the McCarran Act.

The A.G. has submitted a long list of reformers of the Budget type, FBI undercover agents and students of Communist strategy and tactics in an effort to show that the party here asks orders from Stalin. The Reds' lawyers, ex-Representative Vito Marcantonio and John Abt, an alleged Communist and Hiss crony, have fought hard but futilely to prevent admission of this kind of evidence.

FEAR—No matter how these hearings eventuate, they have already damaged the party financially. Legal fees and transcript costs, already numbering more than 10,000 pages, are draining the Reds' tin treasury. Fellow-flying "angels," fearing adverse publicity, are withholding contributions for the defense. The "Commies" betray their fear of these proceedings. In contrast to their uproarious antics at the Medina trial in New York, the SACB hearings have been quiet and orderly. The defendants and counsel are on their best behavior.

The Crown Jewels

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

Last night at a meeting of the Army Reserves I was chatting with George Martin, Ph. D. (Colonel, Infantry, in the Reserves), who teaches Geography and Geology at East Carolina. George had some interesting answers to questions concerning inattentiveness, cheating in college and college love affairs. His theory is that a professor who remains seated during a lecture is inviting inattentiveness. George also uses the blackboard frequently, which helps keep the students on their toes taking notes.

George has no problem with cheating in his classes, because he has an understanding with his classes from the very beginning. He makes it plain that he will be on the lookout for cheating and will not permit it. "You can trust an individual," he says, "but it's different with a group of individuals. Of 25 people, for example, you might trust any one individually with almost anything, but if you take all 25 as a group it's different."

In George's classes the percentage of failures has been as high as 10 per cent, but usually it's down around five. In order to keep failures down in his classes, he has organized what he calls a "four or more" club. Students with an average of four or more are invited in for make-up sessions and have the opportunity to bring their grades up. When I asked George his opinion of puppy love in college, he quickly corrected me, "That's not puppy love," he said, "If you look back on a man's love life you will find that some of the most serious affairs he had were the ones when he was in college, and that includes his courtship of his wife." George says that he definitely gets off the subject, if you can put it that way. In the field of geography, there are many current happenings that he discusses that are not off the subject even though they might be covered before the class has studied them. Examples: tornadoes, floods and heavy snowfall. And I thank George.

INTERESTED — People are interested in North Carolina. Despite frequent and justifiable complaint that school curricula do not put enough emphasis on State history, there is growing evidence that school children are eagerly interested in their State history. They come to Raleigh by chartered bus and borrowed private automobiles by the thousands. It is not unusual during the spring months for as many as 2,000 a day to trek through the capitol grounds, visiting State offices, the museum and hall of history, gazing at the massive trees and flowering shrubbery, the statues of departed great, and most of all at the pile of native granite which, in the capitol building itself, symbolizes the enduring strength of North Carolina. Outsiders are interested, too. Travel records prove that more people each year come into and through North Carolina.

STATISTICS — There can be no provably accurate count of the school children and tourists. Even at government operated parks and forests where registration is sought, the records are admittedly incomplete. There is one fairly accurate gauge of the increasing interest on part of outsiders about North Carolina. That is the carefully counted and assorted inquiries pouring daily into the offices of the state advertising division, mainly in response to publicity in newspapers and magazines throughout the country. Some of this publicity is professionally designed and used in space bought and paid for. A lot of it is "free," in the sense of being news and feature stories with inherent human interest appeal. During the whole of March last year the division received slightly more than 9,000 such inquiries.

ball player expects to get a hit every time a ball is pitched to him. TURNOVER — New election boards chairmen in 40 counties represents unusual turnover for one year. There may be more than 40 new chairmen, because each county board elects its own chairman, but that many incumbents chairmen were not reappointed by the state board last Saturday. This mass removal of election officials has occasioned diverse reaction throughout the state, most of it being in the nature of protest. Charges are made openly that it is a step toward taking over control of local election machinery for the state or organization headed by Governor Kerr Scott, contrary to the wishes of the people in the county and in violation of the spirit of the law.

TURNING — A flock of good looking and efficient girls go through the pile of mail every morning and carefully sort it. Many of the requests are simply for printed matter about the state, and often after the pamphlets and folders are mailed there is no further activity. Occasionally one of these shots in the dark hits the target. Some of the inquiries require more particularized answer than just a batch of printed stuff, and they get individual letters. The real pay-off comes in the hundred or so letters that have indication of being definite prospects. These are followed up with personalized correspondence, not only from the receiving advertising division, but from other state departments having jurisdiction in the fields of indicated interest to which the inquiries were referred.

FOLLOW-UP — It would be interesting to know, but again accurate figures are not obtainable, how many of the new industries and new citizens which have come into North Carolina during the past few years came as direct result of following up slight clues in replies to general advertising by intense personal salesmanship. A lot of effort does not produce identifiable tangible results, but the aggregate picture is good. No fisherman has any right to expect a catch on every cast, any more than every base-

What Other Papers Are Thinking

A FISHING EXPEDITION? (Wilson Times) We realize that the executive department of our government is an independent branch. It's ruled that Congress controls the purse strings. But when we're trying to expose and clean up corruption, it would seem to us that the executive branch would go along with the Congress. However, that wasn't the position taken by the Justice department the other day. It stood on its constitutional rights, refusing to turn over files requested by a committee set up to investigate the department. That's hardly what we'd call arrogance; it's stupidity, in fact. For the President is the one who's anxious to have the corruption stamped out. When, then, one of his department heads refuses to go along, we become suspicious. Has it something to cover up? Or does it look on the probe as a fishing expedition that has nothing of a convicting nature now but thinks it might find something? That the committee would be hostile to the department can be taken for granted. But that the department has something it doesn't want made public can be taken for granted, too. All of that will reflect not against the Justice department, but against the president. He could, if he would, insist that the files be turned over. He could even go farther if he chose, dismissing the head of the department. If he doesn't do one or the other, it will look as if he has something to hide, too. And how, when people are suspicious, can we restore confidence in government? In that regard, the President is like some others. He wants all the favorable aspects of his administration to come out; but he doesn't want the unfavorable ones in the open. Does that look as if the administration were sincere in its efforts to stamp out corruption?

Business Today

Mrs. Melinda Doakes and her husband Joe have thrown economists and government planners into a mental samba. The average American family is behaving in a quite unpredictable way.

Total personal income has been running around $13,700,000,000 more, at annual rates, than a year ago. Personal taxes have been running $6,600,000,000 higher, at annual rates. That leaves a net increase of $7,100,000,000 at annual rates, or well over half a billion dollars a month. But with all that sock-filling stuff, the Doakes are spending less than they were a year ago, been running 12 per cent behind a year ago, and about level with 1950, a year in which total personal income was almost three billion dollars a month less.

open seven nights. Only 7.6 per cent never open at night—not even before Christmas. The increase is shown by the fact that only 23.7 per cent opened at night ten years ago.

While only half of those open one night a week were sure that it was profitable, heavy majorities of those open two to seven nights found it pays.

STUDENTS' INCOME

AVERAGES $75 A WEEK Working one way through college was once largely a matter of dishwashing, magazine selling and tutoring. It's different now. Evening engineering students at Cooper Union are averaging $3.924 a year, according to data compiled by Prof. Herbert R. Roemmele, dean of students.

TOY INDUSTRY SEEKS

YEAR-ROUND SALES A nationwide program to stimulate toy sales throughout the year is being launched by the Toy Guidance Council. It is arranging a series of newspaper ads emphasizing the year-round need of children for appropriate playtoys. The ads, together with a direct mail campaign, will run from April to September.

WORLD'S EGG OUTPUT

FAILS TO INCREASE World egg production failed to rise last year for the first time since 1946, the Office of Foreign Agricultural Relations reports. United States production went up 54,000,000. That's small compared with the 60-billion U.S. total or the 100-billion world total.

NEW PRODUCTS

DOLLSKIN: A rubber latex dollskin, said to have a life-like and washable qualities and guaranteed against breaking and cracking has been developed by Dewey & Almy Chemical Co., Cambridge, Mass.

CABANA: A cabana, shaped like a teepee is being produced of Vinylite plastic sheeting by Bilnor Corp., 53-06 Grand Ave., Maspeth, N. Y.

It has an inflatable eight-foot hexagonal base and a nine-foot sectional center pole. Alternate side panels have ventilation openings.

INSOLES: Newest use for chlorophyll is in impregnating insoles, said to reduce foot odors. They are made by Standard Insoles, Inc., Morris Plains, N.J.

See here, Mrs. Doakes! That isn't fair to the economists. When Joe brings home more dough, you are supposed to spend more. Because the averages family is spending less and putting more into savings and paying off mortgages and other debts, prices have sagged. Television receiver prices are being pared and pared. Appliance prices have been cut. One of the largest manufacturers is running a "deflation sale" on vacuum cleaners, $113.20 worth of cleaner and accessories for $89.95. The effect on clothing and textiles is evident in every apparel establishment. Food prices are even higher, the rate of buying will increase. The Dun & Bradstreet "market basket" of 31 foods came to $6.54 last week, the lowest since November 7, 1950. It reached a peak of $7.23 last year. The economists, however, believe that eventually they will be proved right. When the hoards of goods bought in the buying scare a year ago wear out and when incomes rise even higher, the rate of buying will increase. There seems little doubt that total incomes will go up. Defense production is scheduled to rise and the steel workers' raise sets the stage for millions of other workers to demand similar increases. And that should tempt Mrs. Doakes to do more shopping.

NIGHT OPENINGS RISE IN SPORTING GOODS The trend toward more night operation in retailing is apparent in the sporting goods field, the Sporting Goods Dealer reports after a survey. It shows that 69.2 per cent of sporting goods stores seven nights. Only 7.6 per cent a week, with 11.4 per cent open

NEW YORK — (AP) — Stray Thoughts of a new video fan: A new form of exercise in the American home is getting up to answer the telephone only to discover it isn't your own phone ringing—it's the phone on a television program.

It gives you a sheepish feeling, but on the other hand it also gives a man a good excuse at least for not answering his own phone at all.

Hal Boyle's Column

Television is credited with building up a national public for several political figures. But this little video box can destroy as well as build. And isn't this already becoming evident?

was jealous. Everytime I turned on television she attacked the set and tried to scratch it to death.

The American people love a hero, but the glamor of a hero who talks too often and is seen too much soon wears thin. People weary of him. Part of the success of Franklin D. Roosevelt's famous fireside chats lay in the fact he didn't make one every day.

I have also been told about a dog that whines unless the video screen is turned to a Western movie.

It is a thought that must cost them considerable soul-searching, because it is a long time the political epithet of some candidates may be this: "I voted against him because he was just plain tired of seeing his face, and couldn't stand the idea of looking at it for another four years."

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON — A dotting grandmother, former Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands, will keep a watchful eye on the four young daughters of Queen Juliana and Prince Bernhard, during their parents' forthcoming visit to the United States.

The aging mother of Queen Juliana, who assumed the title of "Princess of the Netherlands" when she gave up the throne in May 1949 after 50 years' reign, remains constantly in the background and leaves the spotlight of publicity on her only daughter and her son-in-law.

The trouble with using television as an electioneering medium is that even that wisest speaker, the most veteran campaigner, doesn't realize the point at which he may begin to bore more people than he interests.

"Princess Wilhelmina is enjoying a very much deserved rest," an official of the Netherlands embassy here is told. "However, she is still interested in many things, charities, social welfare projects and other programs dedicated to the good of her loyal former subjects."

Television is without doubt the greatest entertainment bargain since the free shows the Caesars put on in the Coliseum at Rome. Mediocre as many of the programs are, the average man, whatever his interests or educational level, can find 10 to 15 hours of entertainment worth his attention.

Wilhelmina, who on Aug. 31, 1898, her 18th birthday, assumed reign over the Netherlands, piloted her nation through a period of great prosperity and social progress. She also suffered with it through two world wars. Throughout her reign there never occurred any serious political conflict between the crown and the representatives of the people.

The programs would be even better if as much time, talent and effort were put into them as are put into the commercials. That is why more and more thoughtful viewers prefer the artful and tuneful commercials to the drab programs that precede and follow them.

During World War II, with a German invasion imminent, Queen Wilhelmina decided a safer place would be sought for her daughter and granddaughters. She sent Juliana and the children to Ottawa, Canada, with her herself, and Prince Bernhard remained in London. Prince Bernhard during those years served as chief liaison officer between the Dutch and British military authorities.

Maybe the answer is for the sponsors to concentrate even more on the commercials and drop the programs altogether. My small daughter no longer looks at the programs. But she drops her toys and comes running to watch the commercials. They're more exciting.

In addition to her stay in Ottawa, where her third daughter, Margriet, was born Jan. 19, 1943, Juliana spent some months at Lee, Mass.

Much has been written about the effect of television on children. But how about exploring its impact on housewives and household pets? My own wife, for example hasn't darned a pair of socks or sewn a button on my clothes since our set arrived. "I've got TV eyes," she explains. "Just can't see to thread a needle any more."

Queen Juliana and Prince Bernhard will leave Margriet, Beatrice, Irene, 13, and Marijke, 5, at the Soestdijk Palace, where the royal family makes its home. Princess Wilhelmina, their grandmother, lives at Het Loo Palace, about 75 miles from Amsterdam. Her large residence, which is what the Dutch call a country house, is situated in one of the country's few wooded areas, lush with pine and with heather in the open spaces. Around her home is a large and beautifully landscaped park.

Murder is Forgetful

BY WILLIAM G. BOGART

Chapter 39
Johnny was pushing the suitcase back into the clothes closet. He placed the key in his pocket. Moe watched him. "What'd you put in there?"
"The manuscript."
"Say," his partner said with interest, "is it good? Do you think I could sell it to a big publisher. Just think of the commission..."
Johnny told him, "No one's ever going to see it." His eyes held a thoughtful, faraway look. "Parts of it were good, yes. I could take that novel and, by polishing it up, make a professional job of it, and produce something that would tear a reader's emotions apart..."
"Golly," exclaimed Moe, "why don't you? We could make a fortune! Perhaps even a sale to the movies..."
"Moe," said Johnny quietly, "That book is the story of a woman's broken heart. It's heart-throb and tragedy. It's the story of one of the finest women you have ever known. And it's true! Do you think I'd ever allow a woman's soul to be bared that way for the masses to read?"
"You mean, Irene suspected the kind of a louse Martin was?"
Johnny nodded grimly. "She knew everything about him, and she was the splendid sort of woman who never told a soul, who never gave any inkling of it to her friends or family. She carried on alone."

"Johnny started to the door. Moe looked up. "Where are you going?"
"Where's Irene?"
"Still in her room, I guess," Moe Martin said.
"I'm going to talk to her. I don't want anyone to interrupt us — not even Kay. Keep them downstairs for an hour or so."
An hour later Johnny Saxon left Irene's room and started along the hallway. He knocked on the next door, that of Karen's, the nurse, and waited an instant for a response. There was a tense impatience about his slender, tall form.
There was no answer.
He flung open the door, pressed on the light switch. Karen was not in the room.
Snapping off the light, closing the door quietly behind him, he stepped up the hall to a door on the opposite side Nancy's room.
He did not knock. Instead, carefully and without sound, he grasped the knob and slowly turned it. Such extreme care was hardly necessary. The cracks of thunder would have covered any noise.
The door was still locked.
Johnny eased the knob back into its original position again and hurried down the hall, and then down the wide front stairs. He thought he heard voices from the pantry at the rear of the hall, and went that way...
Upstairs, behind him, the door to one of the empty guests' rooms had just passed, opened slowly. A figure stood there a moment, listening. It was Nancy England. She looked ill.

Her features were a white, stark mask. Her glistening dark hair, usually combed back straight and flat, was mussed. Eyes held a frozen stare, and the pupils showed tiny veins of red.
The long, wine-colored robe flapped around her legs like a monk's cloak as she went swiftly along the hall connecting the two wings of the house. She headed directly to Johnny Saxon's room. She left the door open a crack as she stepped inside and flicked on the light. She searched swiftly.
She found the .32 automatic beneath the pillow on one of the twin beds. Putting it into one of the deep pockets of her robe, she snapped off the light and left the room. There was a peculiar glow in her glassy eyes...
Johnny found Nick Walker and trim Doctor Clark in the pantry. They were preparing a trayful of drinks.
"How's Irene?" the doctor wanted to know.
"She's coming downstairs," Johnny said, not answering the question directly. "She's dressing."
"Where's Karen?" asked Johnny.
The doctor finished measuring the drink and looked around.
"What did you say?"
"He asked, where's Karen?"
Nick Walker told him.
"Oh, I think you'll find her in the conservatory with Kay. This storm has Kay on edge. The poor girl's been through plenty."
Johnny was looking at the doctor. "Are you slightly deaf?"
Doctor Clark nodded somewhat self-consciously. "My right ear," he explained. "That's why I try to have folks stand to the left of me."
"That would explain," said Johnny. "Why you did not hear Irene yell last night. My partner thought you were lying, because he and the dog heard her. By the way, where is Michael? He isn't upstairs with Irene."
Doctor Clark said, "He's been with Kay... No, I didn't hear Irene last night."
Moe's voice sounded in the kitchen. He came into the pantry followed by the butler. Each carried several large thick candles.
"Sometimes the lights go out," said Moe. He nodded his head toward Nick Walker. "He was telling me."
"Atmospheric conditions," said Homer, the butler, opening a cupboard and removing some holders for candles. He spoke to Doctor Clark. "Do you wish me to fix the drinks, sir?"
"I'll do it," the doctor offered. Johnny made a slight motion with his head and Moe Martin followed him into the kitchen. "Go upstairs and get that automatic," Johnny said. "You'll find it under my pillow."
"Do you think you're going to need a gun?" asked Moe. His eyes were bright.
"I didn't say that."
"No, but..."
The lightning cracked again, cutting off Moe Martin's words. The rain kept coming down in torrents. (To be continued)

The Sport Reflector

By JIMMY ELLIS

Bill Albans, a Carolina track and football star of a few years ago, is still the same bull-headed character he was when he was at Carolina. At least that's the impression one would get upon reading the news from Los Angeles, Calif., where Albans is attending Occidental College.

While at Carolina, Albans showed undeniable greatness as a track star. He was good enough to win a place on the 1948 Olympic team and helped to represent the United States in Great Britain at the '48 games. He was being counted upon to help Occidental College win the NCAA track championship this year and was almost certain of a spot on the Olympic squad.

Occidental probably lost its chance at the NCAA title when Albans was dropped from the squad earlier this week. His "resignation" came about after a lousy performance in a track meet last week. In that meet, Albans quit running in the high hurdles with less than 50 yards remaining even though he was running second in the race. He refused to run at all in the low hurdles. He placed a poor second in the broad jump and tied for second in the high jump.

Albans' whose performance that afternoon seems to be pretty disgusting to those who watched it, however, seemed to be pretty good to the Pasadena Star News had this much to say in its column which was picked up by the Associated Press:

"I wasn't that Albans was beaten. By that can happen to the best of them; it was the way in which he lost. For a national intercollegiate champion to quit in the high hurdles like Albans did, to refuse to run in the low hurdles when the meet was close . . . is inexcusable, and doubly so after he'd been pampered and soothed by Coach Jordan for a year before coming eligible. After that performance Saturday, Albans was given the face-saving opportunity of resigning from the squad."

Albans was known at Carolina as a temperamental character who wanted things pretty much his way. It's a crying shame that a man of his talent can't (or won't) grow up.

The women golfers of Eastern North Carolina got a rather wet reception Tuesday afternoon at Kingston when they stepped out for their first tournament since the spring. Golfers from Kingston, New Bern, Washington, Rocky Mount, Wilson and Greenville were present to give the rain-soaked course a good workout.

Rocky Mount definitely held the edge as far as team competition was concerned but Greenville's team managed to give a good account of itself in the field of 88 entrants. Mrs. Luther Herring, team captain, led the Greenville team with the low score (not announced) and collaborated with Mrs. Jane Sauer, Mrs. Jane Mac-sey Dudley, Mrs. Betty Bryan, Mrs. Evelyn Warner, Mrs. Marilyn Roney, and Mrs. Suzanne Braswell to collect 45 points for the Greenville team.

Improvement in the Greenville club is expected when the weather and health conditions here in Pitt County take a turn for the better.

St. Johns College is continuing to surprise even the closest observers of the basketball world. Last night, they advanced to the finals of NCAA tournament competition with a 61-59 win over Illinois. That win last night gives the Redmen victories over both the number one and number two teams in the country according to the wire service polls.

For the third straight game the Redmen will be the underdogs tonight. They'll be facing big Clyde Lovellette and the Kansas Jayhawks in the finals tonight. Kansas is a big favorite in the game.

What makes the success of the St. Johns team so ironical is that the selection of them by NCAA tournament officials was widely protested. The people protesting contended that the Redmen didn't have what it took to stay on the same court with Kentucky, Illinois and even North Carolina State.

I would suppose that the team from Brooklyn has sufficiently showed they've got a little bit of talent at least.

Racing News Is Dropped In La.

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Horse racing news was absent today from the sports pages of the Times-Picayune, which said it was going along with a request of Police Superintendent Joseph Scheuring who believed the lack of information would mean "a knock-out blow" to the interest of the better.

The New Orleans States, afternoon edition of the Times-Picayune Publishing Co., also was expected to drop the racing news today.

It was not known what would be done by the New Orleans Item, the States' afternoon rival.

The Times-Picayune said it disagreed with Scheuring but was dropping racing results, entries and selections "for a reasonable period to permit his theory a trial."

The paper said, however, in a front-page story accompanied by Scheuring's letter of request, that "a real knock-out blow" to illegal gambling could be dealt by Superintendent Scheuring's department if it would close the handbooks.

In suggesting a stronger police crackdown on gambling, the paper printed the names and addresses of more than 100 purchasers of federal gambling stamps for Scheuring's "information and assistance."

Ayden Baseballers Open Spring Drills

Six Lettermen Back From 1951 Coastal Champs

AYDEN—Ayden's Tornados, defending champions in the Class A Coastal Baseball Conference, opened drills for the forthcoming season last week. The first game for Ayden is scheduled for April 1st with South Edgecombe, a conference scrap slated for Ayden.

Coach Stuart Tripp has only six lettermen returning from last year's championship club, but a crop of newcomers is expected to give the Ayden team another good year.

Heading the list of returnees is pitcher Darrell Worthington. Worthington, a righthander, led the Tornado pitching staff last season, compiling a five-one record. He struck out a total of 57 batters in 35 innings during one stretch of the season.

First-year men Billy McLaughlin and Elwood (Jaybird) Stokes are expected to give Worthington plenty of support. Both boys are righthanders.

Hal Edwards Jr. will be the chief target for the pitchers. This will be Edwards' second year as a Tornado regular. He will be relieved by Hugh Pierce, a rookie candidate who has shown a lot of promise.

Ayden was hit hardest in the infield, where its starting players at first, short and second all graduated or have transferred to other schools.

Third base, where Randall Harrington holds out, is the only spot that Coach Tripp does not have to worry over. Veteran Willis Manning, a regular outfielder who occasionally moves into the infield, will probably take a permanent post at shortstop, while first-year men A. T. Venters and 'Ham' Lang are leading for the first and second base positions, respectively.

Todd Kittrell and Mack Allen, regulars on last year's squad, give Coach Tripp a strong nucleus to build his outfield around. The biggest gap out there was made when centerfield was vacated by the graduation of slugger David Manning.

Johnny Wallis is counted on to take over Manning's spot at the present time.

Two open dates which are on the Ayden schedule at the present time are expected to be filled in the next week, bringing the total to 10 games. All of the eight contests slated thus far are in the conference.

The schedule: April 1—South Edgecombe April 8—at Robersonville April 11—at Robersonville April 15—at Farmville April 18—Open April 22—at South Edgecombe April 25—Vanceboro April 29—at Robersonville May 2—Farmville May 6—Open

Hanes Team Wins In Girls Tourney

WICHITA, Kas. (AP)—The defending champs still are going strong but last year's runnerup has stumbled in the National AAU Women's Basketball Tournament.

Hanes Hosiery of Winston-Salem, N. C., had little trouble in halting Dowell's Dolls of Amarillo, Tex., 55 to 39 last night in a second round game. The North Carolina team won the tourney last year.

Wayland College of Painsville, Tex., the 1951 runnerup, went down 45-44 before Iowa Wesleyan College. A field goal by Connie Lou Cormich in the final seconds gave the Iowa team the win.

Earlier the American Institute of Commerce, Davenport, Ia., breezed past the Oklahoma, Ia., Van Zees 44 to 27.

Nashville, Tenn., Business fought from behind to edge the Denver, Colo., Vipers 27-26 in another second round contest.

Seeded Net Stars Favored In Miami

MIAMI (UP)—Seeded players Billy Talbert of New York, Art Larsen of San Leandro, Calif., Gardner Mulloy of Coral Gables and Tony Vincent of Miami all were favored to score victories today in the Miami Invitation tennis tournament.

Talbert was matched against Sam Wright of the University of Miami, while Mulloy, for many years Talbert's doubles partner, faced Al Harum of Coral Gables.

Southpaw Larsen, former national champion, was paired against Jerry Slobin of Miami, and Vincent was to meet Don Waters of Hollywood, Fla., in other feature matches.

In women's competition, seeded Mrs. Magda Rurac of Los Angeles was to play Sally Hill of Miami in an outstanding match.

Oaks Get Chapman

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—Outfielder Sam Chapman finally landed with Oakland of the Pacific Coast League—and in 15 minutes was working out.

Oak Owner Brick Lavs yesterday completed a deal with the Cleveland Indians for Chapman, former California's All-America halfback.

Chapman repeatedly had expressed a desire to play here, near his home, so he won't be separated from his family.

HORSE TOO HUNGRY

WELLINGTON, New Zealand (UP)—Two women who went swimming in a nearby river had to go home in their swim suits when a hungry horse ate the underwear, a blouse, a brassiere and the top of a seersucker dress they left on the bank.

Ayden Teams Get Barbecue Supper

Members of the 1952 basketball teams at Ayden High School received a barbecue-chicken supper given in their honor at Respass-James' last night.

Approximately 50 people—including players, cheerleaders, coaches and their wives—attended the banquet, sponsored by a group of parents of some of the players. They were Mr. and Mrs. Hodges McLawhorn, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Whitehurst and Mr. and Mrs. Jamie Lang Sr., all of Ayden.

E. F. Johnson, principal and coach of the girls team at Ayden, delivered a brief talk after dinner, in which he thanked the parents for their support during the regular season. He went on to express his thanks to everyone who contributed to the support of the teams during the recent season.

Johnson finished his speech by reviewing the records of the recent Tornado teams. Coach Stuart Tripp's boys team won 22 games while losing six this year, while Johnson, assisted by Thomas Craft, led his girls to a 20-5 record. Both teams were runners-up in the Pitt County tournament and won championships in the Coastal Conference.

JETS NEED PARTS

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UP)—A jet engine for an Air Force plane requires more than 1,000 minor parts and components, most of which are supplied by more than 4,000 sub-contractors and small businesses.

Troubles Continue For Preacher Roe

By RALPH RODEN AP Sports Writer

Preacher Roe is off to a bad start but the ace lefthander of the Brooklyn Dodgers isn't worried. Roe, who posted an amazing 22-3 record last year, has been hit hard in each of his three outings this spring.

The lean veteran was tagged for 11 hits in six innings yesterday as the Dodgers defeated the Philadelphia Athletics, 9-5, at Miami, Fla. Roe said after the game:

"I figure I'm just about throwing the way I should be at this time. My stuff is spotty; some of it good, some of it bad.

"My control isn't what it should be yet. It was better than last time at least. I'm getting the ball over the plate but I'm not getting it where I want it."

Roe yielded all of Philadelphia's runs including a two-run homer by Eddie Joost. He left with a 6-5 lead. Young Billy Loeb protected the margin.

Bobby Thomson slammed a home run in the eighth inning to give the New York Giants a 7-6 triumph over the Chicago Cubs at Phoenix, Ariz.

Home runs also featured the Cleveland Indians' 7-5 victory over the Chicago White Sox at Tucson, Ariz. Larry Doby clouted a three-run homer and Al Rosen and Jim Fridge followed with bases-empty blasts in the sixth to wipe out a 2-0 deficit.

The St. Louis Browns defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates, 6-2, at Burbank, Calif., scoring all of their runs and hits in the second inning.

Sam Snead Wins Aiken Pro-Am

AIKEN, S.C. (UP)—Lean Sam Snead made up today most of the money he lost by forfeiting a playoff for the Jacksonville Open title. Snead tied Doug Ford of Harrison, N.Y., for the $2,000 first prize at Jacksonville, Fla., Monday but decided to accept the $1,400 second money because of an out-of-bounds technicality in the second round.

He came here and won $450 first money in the one-day Aiken Pro-Amateur tournament with a record breaking, six-under-par 65.

Ford shot 69 to earn $75 for a seven-way split of eighth place. Ben Hogan, warming up to defend his Masters title next week at Augusta, Ga., shot a 67 to tie three others for second as 19 pros bettered the Palmtoe course's par 71.

Earl Stewart Jr., of Dilla, Tex., Ted Kroll of New Hartford, N.Y., and Jerry Barber of Pasadena, Calif., each matched Hogan's 67.

Hogan teamed with amateur Robert Goodyear to capture pro-amateur honors with a score of 61.

Tree-ripened bananas are not good to eat.

Against rookie southpaw Royce Lint, Rain washed out other scheduled games.

Redmen Surprise Illinois As Kansas Beats Broncos

Recruiting By Big Ten Members Hit By Wilson

CHICAGO (UP)—Big 10 Commissioner Kenneth L. (Tug) Wilson has cracked down on conference recruiting practices, banning any telephone contact with prospective athletes, it was learned today.

His policy statement was made in a letter to athletic directors and faculty representatives after the conference meeting with the "Council of 10," composed of the presidents of the member institutions, March 16.

The interpretation means that the members can contact prospective athletes only by mail, or when the boy visits the campus.

Obviously the institution cannot refuse to conduct telephone conversation with athletes who might call the school, but they were instructed to break off such contacts as quickly as possible. They were also instructed that they could not accept collect calls.

The order could be interpreted as the first step by Wilson to implement the instructions implicit in the report of the Council of 10.

The presidents endorsed the report approved by the American Council on Education calling for de-emphasis on intercollegiate athletics, but held that the Big 10 needed mostly more strict enforcement of its present code.

Recruiting was tabbed as one of the major problems of athletics by the presidents.

The original conference rule on contact of prospective athletes provided that staff members could explain opportunities through correspondence in response to inquiry or by direct interview.

The phrase "in response to inquiry" was removed, however, as the conference felt it was being circumvented, and the feeling arose that telephone contact was authorized.

Last summer, it was understood, some standout athletes were besieged by phone calls from various coaching staffs.

Derby Televised

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—America's annual big racing thrill, the Kentucky Derby, will be flashed by television cameras to receiving sets across the country for the first time in history May 3.

Churchill Downs announced its decision to permit a live telecast last night and promptly claimed the show will command the largest TV audience ever to view an on-the-spot event in sports or otherwise.

By BILL MCFARLAND SEATTLE, Wash. (UP)— St. Johns' rampaging Redmen from Brooklyn, the "miracle" basketball team of the year, will battle it out with record-busting Clyde Lovellette and his Kansas Jayhawk mates tonight for the NCAA basketball championship.

The Redmen astonished the cage world again last night by upsetting Big 10 Champion Illinois, 61-56, in the Eastern regional finals, but general opinion is that the Brooklyn five will have to spring another "miracle" to whip Lovellette and Company tonight.

Lovellette, who soars six-feet, nine-inches, racked up 33 points in leading the Jayhawks to an easy 74-55 victory over Santa Clara in the Western regional final.

That was a comedown from his 44 points in an earlier regional game, but still it enabled him to smash two more records.

Big Clyde thus ran his total of field goals in three games to 41, breaking the previous record of 31 set by Kentucky's Alex Groza in 1949.

And his three-game total of 108 points wiped out the old record of 82 set by Groza in 1949 and the four-game record of 83 set by Don Sunderlage of Illinois last year.

What's more, Lovellette now has 28 free throws, only one less than Sunderlage's record of 27.

"I'd rather play St. Johns than Illinois," admitted Kansas Coach Dr. Forrest (Phog) Allen.

But St. Johns is not to be lightly held in its battle with the team ranked No. 3 in the nation. For the riotous Redmen have not bowled over in succession Kentucky, ranked No. 1, and Illinois, ranked No. 2.

"I've said before that we will win," said Coach Frank McGuire of St. Johns.

Bob Zawoluk was the key man in the Redmen win last night, chalking up 24 points. Ten of those came in the fourth quarter, which began with the two teams tied.

The teams had been tied, too, at the end of the first period, 13-13. The Redmen reeled off 10 consecutive points to open the second period and were on top by six at the half.

Illinois came driving back in the second period, but was held off by the Redmen, who tied the game at 24-24. Zawoluk, six-foot, six-inches tall, will be a three-inch disadvantage against Lovellette in the final game.

Kansas never was in any danger against plucky Santa Clara, which simply ran out 137 points after defeating UCLA and Virginia Tech. The winner of tonight's game will meet Southwest 24-point, NCA champion, in the opening game of the Olympic tryouts at Kansas City, Mo., Tuesday.

The loser will meet the National Invitation League champion, New York, in a consolation game Tuesday in a consolation game.

What's Your Notion of Magnificent Motion?

WE'LL admit that we're taking in a lot of territory when we use a word with the definition shown above. But no lesser term can do justice to all the things that make a Buick such a joy to drive and to own.

Splendor and sumptuous adornment you'll certainly find in its rich interior—grandeur you'll certainly find in the mighty flow of its power.

But this is only background for what is justly termed its Million Dollar Ride. Yes, sir, magnificent is the word for this majestic beauty in motion.

There's such an earth-hugging, mile-skimming feel to it, as it bullets along the highway.

It holds a straight course without weave or wander—seems to snug down to the road on curves.

A massive X-braced frame gives it solidity. A torque-tube firms its keel. End-sway and side-roll are neutralized. The engine is Hi-Poised mounted on rubber pillows—and big, soft-acting coil springs on all four wheels soak up the jars and jolts, float you over road-ripples, "washboard gravel" or weather-pocked macadam as if they weren't there.

Even its Dynaflow Drive* contributes to the smoothness of its forward motion by cushioning the transmission of its power.

How about this year's Buicks—SPECIAL, SUPER or ROADMASTER—on a cruise of discovery all your own?

Touch off its Fireball 8 Engine that's a gas-saving high-compression valve-in-head—head it out for the roads you know by past experience—and let it speak for itself. Even the price tag is eloquent proof that this is the car for you.

Hotpoint's Famed Electric Kitchen Helps Housewife On 'Home Front'

Hotpoint's all-electric kitchen is engineered around three work centers.

First, there is the food storage center. This includes the refrigerator for storage of fresh and frozen foods, cabinets for storage of canned goods and staples, and, as an advisable auxiliary, the food freezer for home freezing and long-time storage of frozen foods in quantity.

Base cabinets give convenient counter-top work surface for sorting and handling foods. This center should be near the outside door where deliveries are made.

The other two base centers are the sink and cooking areas.

INCLUDE CABINETS
The former serves for food preparation as well as dishwashing and general cleanup. In this center the Hotpoint automatic dishwasher will wash dishes, pots, glassware and silver, automatically. And the disposal banishes garbage from the home forever.

In this center, too, cabinets may be included for storage and work surfaces. It should be convenient to both range and refrigerator, preferably between them.

In the cooking center, the Hotpoint automatic range gives the wonders of modern electric cooking with push-button controls. Cabinets should provide ample space for foodstuffs and utensil storage, work surface for food preparation and use of small appliances. This center should be handy to the dining room to shorten serving distance.

The housewife's new, automatic, all-electric laundry can be installed as a separate room or as another efficient work center in the kitchen. It includes an automatic washer, clothes dryer and ironer.

HOTPOINT PIONEERS
Hotpoint has pioneered in kitchen planning and GE Supply Corporation, in co-operation with dealers, has a free service to customers in planning all electric kitchens for the most effective layout of appliances depending on the dimensions of the room.

The primary requirement for a beautiful all-electric kitchen-laundry is matched appliances and Hotpoint offers a complete line of matched electric appliances available through GE Supply Corporation.

Through modern, scientific manufacturing achievement, the kitchen is no longer a necessary evil, kept in the background, but is frequently one of the brightest, cheeriest room in the home.

Father Facing Charges Of Trying To Sell Child

HOUSTON, Tex. (UP)— A 37-year-old butcher who allegedly tried to sell his blonde, three-year-old daughter for $500 and an automobile went free on $500 bond today.

Steve Ribnikar attempted to barter Sharon Ribnikar to two persons without knowing they were probation officers called in by the suspicious intended baby purchaser, police said.

Ribnikar was charged with trafficking in children, a Texas Penal Code offense.

He immediately posted $500 bond set by Justice of the Peace D.F. Thompson and was released in suburban Pasadena, Tex., late yesterday.

Little Sharon was turned over to probation authorities.

Ribnikar was arrested earlier at Pasadena bank as he attempted to cash the $500 check the probation officers gave him for the child, police said.

He told officers his wife divorced him in Pittsburgh, Pa., last year. Then last March or April, Ribnikar said, his wife walked into a Houston restaurant with Sharon, handed her over to him and walked out.

"I don't want you or your daughter," she said.

He wanted to sell the child, Ribnikar told officers, because "I wanted her to have a good home."

He needed the automobile, he said, "to get away from Houston."

Ribnikar was arrested after a woman who lives in Pasadena ran a classified advertisement in a Houston newspaper a week ago, saying she wanted to adopt a child.

The woman telephoned Harris County Probation Officer Howard Large, who got two assistants, Mrs. Virginia McDonald and Howell Mann, to play the part of the advertiser and her husband.

Mrs. McDonald and Mann met Ribnikar at the home of another woman Monday night, saw Sharon for the first time and agreed to "buy" her. They met him again yesterday, gave him a $500 check and showed him the automobile he was to receive.

Police said Ribnikar signed the adoption papers and hurried to the bank to cash the check. A policeman followed him and made the arrest.

Says Czechs Are Rearing In Fear Of The West

VIENNA (UP)— Communist Czechoslovakia is rearing in fear of an attack from the West, according to Czech Defense Minister Alexei Cepicka.

Cepicka, son-in-law of President Klement Gottwald and one of Czechoslovakia's most powerful Communists, in a speech broadcast by Prague radio said:

"Every Czech citizen—men and women—must be taught how to defend our country, to battle against the enemy and defeat him."

He spoke yesterday in a debate of the 1952 budget. He said, "The West would attack us at the first opportunity."

Attacks Renting Home Furniture

HOUSTON, Tex. (UP)— The Houston Housing Authority drew charges of "socialism" today after disclosing it was renting furniture to low-income tenants of its housing units for as little as $10 monthly for a one-bedroom apartment.

They came from Weston Meeks, president of the Houston Retail Furniture Dealers Association, who accused the agency of "using taxpayers' money to get in the retail furniture business."

Next thing, Meeks charged angrily, "they'll be buying television sets and Cadillacs" for the tenants.

Odd UN Stamp Is Collector's Item

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UP)— Stamp collectors envied today the few persons who purchased U.N. stamps bearing a picture showing the world organization's flag at half mast.

U.N. postal officials reported about 50 of the stamps were put on sale recently by the Post Office here. They were hastily recalled when the printing error was discovered, but about 20 were sold.

The lucky collectors hope the U.N. "error" stamps will become as valuable as a 1918 United States airmail stamp showing a plane upside down. It is listed at $4,000.

On a program of short dramas given in connection with the Community Arts Festival, student members of the Teachers Playhouse of East Carolina College will present tonight, Wednesday, "Minuet." ## Superior Court Jury Deadlocked On Driving Case

After nearly two days of deliberation on a drunk driving case against Arthur Dilda, Farmville Negro, a Superior Court jury yesterday reported to Judge Burney that it could not agree.

The Judge ordered the jurors back into deliberation despite the fact that spokesmen said it "looks like a hopeless case." Judge Burney told the jury that a body that and reviewed the time and cost already spent on the case.

They retired again and within a short time, returned a verdict of guilty. Judge Burney sentenced Dilda to serve four months on the roads sentence suspended provided he pay a fine of $150 and the costs and give up his driver's license for a year.

Other cases heard were:

Sam Mills, driving drunk, plead guilty and was sentenced to six months on the roads, suspended provided he pay a fine of $250 and costs, give up his driver's license for two years and not violate any criminal law for two years.

Lloyd Elmo Craft, driving drunk, plead guilty to being drunk on the public highways, fined $25.00 and the costs.

H. H. Morlon, speeding, plead guilty and fined $100 and the costs.

David Dupree, driving drunk, found guilty in jury trial, sentenced to six months on the roads, sentence to begin on expiration of road sentence he is now serving for violating the liquor laws.

Robert B. Nichols, reckless driving, found guilty in jury trial, sentenced to six months on the roads, sentence suspended provided he pay the clerk of Superior Court the sum of $258 to be paid to W. F. Forrest, and pay costs.

Court resumed its sitting this morning at 9:30.

Burns, Frostbite Viewed Similar

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UP)— Dr. Karl Eric Hogeman, a Swedish surgeon who specializes in the treatment of burns, is traveling across the United States checking on something that sounds entirely different but isn't—frostbite.

Frostbite and burns are closely allied. Both are injuries of the skin caused by extremes in temperature.

"I have long had an idea that there is some connection between them," Dr. Hogeman said. "On my trip to this country, I am talking with specialists in both conditions, to learn what I can about them."

Dr. Hogeman, while in San Antonio, conferred with Lt. Col. Robert B. Lewis at the Air Force school of aviation medicine in San Antonio.

Col. Lewis, head of the department of pathology at the school, won the Wellcome military medicine award last year for his research on fast-warming of frost-bitten flesh. Dr. Hogeman wanted to take a bit of his findings back to Sweden.

A plastic surgeon with a private practice in Stockholm, Dr. Hogeman joined the University of Lund in Malmo, where he is opening a center for the treatment of skin injuries.

His visit to the United States is something of a first-aid mission. In case of war, in which it is entirely possible that Sweden will have an atomic attack, Dr. Hogeman and his assistants want to be well-briefed on skin injuries resulting from radiation burns.

Pactolus Class Tours Historic Williamsburg

Twenty-one students in the freshman English class of the Pactolus High School made a tour of Williamsburg, Virginia, one day last week.

The students left Pactolus by cars with their teacher, James C. Avery last Tuesday and were cordially received at the Reception Center at Williamsburg by the guide for the day, Ann Savage.

The morning was spent viewing the Governor's Palace and the old Powder House. After having lunch at the Williamsburg Lodge, the class spent the next three hours at the Capitol where the first legislative body convened in 1619.

The return trip was made by way of historic Jamestown, site of the first permanent English Colony in America.

Primaries To Date Give Voters Idea Of What General Usage Could Mean

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The presidential primaries so far have given a taste of what it might be like if the people in all 48 states had a chance to express their preference among presidential candidates.

But once again this year, as in the past, the Republican and Democratic candidates will be chosen by delegates, not by the voters in general, at the two big party conventions in Chicago this summer.

If there were presidential primaries in all 48 states before those conventions the voters might have been able to express their choice so unmistakably that the delegates would simply be limited to saying amen.

By the time those conventions roll around, of course, the tide of popular feeling for one man or another may have become so apparent that the delegates wouldn't dare any political committing but simply would approve the popular man.

In 32 states the delegates to those conventions are chosen by party machines or bosses in state conventions or committees. In only 16 states will be voters have a chance to express preference among candidates or elect delegates.

But those 16 primaries are such a hodge-podge, each one differing from the other, that in only a few states like Minnesota, New Hampshire, New Jersey and Oregon will the people have had a chance to vote directly on the candidates.

In New Hampshire, freedom for the voters to vote a preference among candidates is an old story. They've been able to do it in previous presidential campaigns. Still, their huge vote for Eisenhower stood the politicians on their ears.

This was the first year the Minnesota voters had a similar opportunity. Even though the names of Eisenhower, Taft, Kefauver and Truman were not on the ballot, the people went through snow to write in their names, even when they couldn't spell Eisenhower.

It was this write-in vote — the clearly expressed determination of the people to name and vote for the man they'd like for President — that astonished the politicians, before.

And on April 15 the people of New Jersey will be able for the first time to express some direct preference.

But this expression of voter opinion in a few scattered states is a long way from what might be had if the voters in all 48 states had the same opportunity.

If that ever happens, and at this moment there's no sign it will, the choosing of presidential candidates would be taken out of the hands of the politicians by the people. The big conventions then would be only rubber stamps, with nothing to do but okay the popular will, and draw up party platforms.

Sen. George Smithers, Florida Democrat, has proposed that choosing of candidates in political conventions be abolished, letting the voters in the 48 states pick the candidates in a June primary and then, after they had campaigned, vote for one of them for President in November.

This would require a constitutional amendment, a long-drawn-out process which can't be done this year. It's up to Congress to start the ball rolling. Maybe it will and maybe it won't. It's done nothing yet.

Members of the cast of "If This Be Air" go through a final rehearsal before the actual production tonight along with four other one-act plays which will be presented at the Greenville High School. The plays are being presented as a part of the arts festival which is being held in the city this week. From left to right are Gay Gney, Donna Jo Tabor, and Boots Teel. (Photo by C. L. Perkins, Jr.)

Judging Of Farm Land Values Is Contest Feature

OKLAHOMA CITY — (UP) — America's teen-age and adult farmers will gather here May 1 and 2 for a new experiment in farm training.

It will be a national land judging contest, the first ever held in the United States.

Requests for entry blanks have come from 41 states. Entries will be accepted until April 21.

Soil judging contests originated at the Oklahoma Red Plains soil experiment station at Guthrie, Okla., 30 miles north of here 10 years ago. The state contest was also the first in the nation.

Since that time soil judging has blossomed into international prominence. Other states have patterned schools after the Oklahoma contest and inquiries on its operation have come from 43 states and 17 foreign countries.

Standards Set

In brief, a soil contest sets up methods for judging soil, similar to those used in judging livestock.

Contestants study lay of the land, erosion, and plant growth. They must tell if land is good or bad, what crops, if any, are best suited for it and how it can be improved.

Oklahoma conservationists have worked out a judging sheet that includes eight land classes. Class One land is the perfect farm. That type of soil needs no treatment to produce crops.

The other extreme, Class Eight, is soil considered so poor that nothing can be grown on it and little done to correct it.

The last includes extremely steep, rough, broken, permanently swampy or barren land suitable for no agricultural use other than wild life.

Mule Drags Off Bathroom Sink

OCEAN DRIVE BEACH, S. C. — (UP) — An amusement concession operator tied his exhibition mule to a disconnected bathroom sink in a cottage owner's yard.

Some playful boys stung the mule with air rifle shots and the animal galloped down the main street dragging the 60-pound sink behind him.

When the mule finally was brought under control, the sink had banged into three parked autos and knocked down a traffic sign. The damaged was more than $100.

Surprise Profit In Rubber Scrap

AUBURN, Me. — (UP) — To level off his property so he could build, Amedee Gobeil invited shoe factories to dump rubber composition scraps in a gully.

That was two years ago.

Then a junk dealer offered Gobeil $20 a ton for the filler. Gobeil checked around and found that he could get $80 a ton for the rubber scraps. He sold two railroad carsloads at that figure.

Still Drives Car At Eighty-Two

DETROIT — (UP) — Police were dubious about the wisdom of renewing his driver's license when 82-year-old John Medwed showed up at headquarters.

"Where are your glasses?" he was asked.

Medwed said he threw them away three years ago because they were "too much of a nuisance."

"Where's your car?"

The elderly motorist, who has had only four tickets in 27 years of driving, said he left it at home because it was too slippery to drive.

Skeptical officers drove him home when he insisted on a road test. He backed his 1930 car onto his slippery and narrow alley driveway and took off into heavy rush hour traffic without a hitch.

Medwed observed every traffic regulation, got his new license and smiled at the policeman: "Tell the boys at headquarters I'll be back in three years."

Warn Of Danger In TV Blow-Ups

SCHENECTADY, N. Y. — (UP) General Electric Co. scientists warn that the greatest danger in handling picture tubes of television receivers lies in accidental breakage.

The tubes, they explain, contain a vacuum and the pressure of the outside air may cause an "implosion," meaning an inward instead of outward explosion. Fragments of glass flying at high speed may cause serious injury to the person handling the tube.

The GE scientists advise wearing gloves and a protective facial mask in handling picture tubes.

Bank's Safe Has Crocodile Guard

DARWIN, Australia — (UP) — One bank in this far northern frontier city scorns huge vaults and armed guards.

It has an innovation in watchdogs to guard the public's money — a crocodile.

The croc, Nicodemus by name, is tied up each night outside the bank safe.

Nicodemus has become a staff pet and has been trained to bark at the approach of strangers.

Razor sharp teeth and lightning-like movements should be enough to deter any thief, the bank thinks.

No Pied Piper For Sacramento

SACRAMENTO, Calif. — (UP) The Pied Piper of Hamelin would not be hired here.

The city health department's annual rate population census showed there is only one rat for every five persons. Nationwide, there is one rat for every man, woman, and child.

William Conwell, vermin control specialist, said the rat population in Sacramento is only 27,920 compared to the 400,000 estimate it was in 1945.

Conwell said the extermination program has gone about as far as it can by chemical means.

Russell May Win Florida Test And Yet Lose Demo Delegates

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UP)—Florida's May primaries could wind up in a beauty contest win for Georgia's Sen. Richard B. Russell but with Sen. Estes Kefauver walking off with most of the convention delegates.

This ironic possibility loomed as Florida prepared for a major test of strength between the two Dixie senators who want to be president. On May 6, Florida voters will register their choice between Russell, the candidate of Southern anti-Truman Democrats, and Kefauver, the freshman senator from the Tennessee mountains who rode to fame exposing big time crime, some of it in Florida.

On May 27, Florida voters will return to the polls to elect 24 delegates to the national Democratic convention. Both Russell and Kefauver have entered slates of candidates.

The swing to the Georgia senator was so great it backfired. In some congressional districts, three or four Russell-pledged delegate candidates are entered against only one candidate supporting Kefauver.

Unless more than half of the candidates instructed for Russell withdraw, the Georgian's vote in the delegate race will be split to Kefauver's advantage, since the Tennessee crime-buster has only one potential delegate in most of the races.

Russell supporters have gone to work trying to persuade some pro-Russell delegates to withdraw. But Russell still is top-heavy with would-be delegates in Florida.

The preferential balloting, in addition to providing the first test of comparative strength between the two Southern senators, promises to bring to a head a one-sided feud that has been in progress for months between Kefauver and Florida Gov. Fuller Warren.

In a series of public statements, Warren has made some stinging remarks about the Tennessee senator and the crime committee he headed. He called Kefauver a "headline-hunting hypocrite," "a crusader-for-profit," and a "political phoney," among other things. Warren has been angry since the Senate Crime Committee criticized him for allegedly allowing the power of his office to be used by the Chicago Capone gang to invade a Miami Beach gambling syndicate. Kefauver has maintained a discreet silence during the Warren blasts.

Russell has collected some strong support in Florida. But Kefauver has some staunch backers, too. The Tennessee's general popularity in Florida is more of an unknown factor than Russell's. His crime committee investigations in the state could work either for him or against him.

President Truman will not appear on the Florida ballot in May. The State Democratic Executive Committee has expressed itself as firmly anti-Truman.

Russell May Win Florida Test And Yet Lose Demo Delegates

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UP)—Florida's May primaries could wind up in a beauty contest win for Georgia's Sen. Richard B. Russell but with Sen. Estes Kefauver walking off with most of the convention delegates.

This ironic possibility loomed as Florida prepared for a major test of strength between the two Dixie senators who want to be president. On May 6, Florida voters will register their choice between Russell, the candidate of Southern anti-Truman Democrats, and Kefauver, the freshman senator from the Tennessee mountains who rode to fame exposing big time crime, some of it in Florida.

On May 27, Florida voters will return to the polls to elect 24 delegates to the national Democratic convention. Both Russell and Kefauver have entered states of candidates.

The swing to the Georgia senator was so great it backfired. In some congressional districts, three or four Russell-pledged delegate candidates are entered against only one candidate supporting Kefauver.

Unless more than half of the candidates instructed for Russell withdraw, the Georgian's vote in the delegate race will be split to Kefauver's advantage, since the Tennessee crime-buster has only one potential delegate in most of the races.

Russell supporters have gone to work trying to persuade some prominent delegates to withdraw. But Russell still is top-heavy with would-be delegates in Florida.

The preferential balloting, in addition to providing the first test of comparative strength between the two Southern senators, promises to bring to a head a one-sided feud that has been in progress for months between Kefauver and Florida Gov. Fuller Warren.

In a series of public statements, Warren has made some stinging remarks about the Tennessee senator and the crime committee he headed. He called Kefauver a "headline-hunting hypocrite," a "crusader-for-profit," and a "political phony," among other things.

Warren has been angry since the Senate Crime Committee criticized him for allegedly allowing the power of his office to be used by the Chicago Capone gang to invade a Miami Beach gambling syndicate.

Kefauver has maintained a discreet silence during the Warren blasts.

Russell has collected some strong support in Florida. But Kefauver has some staunch backers, too. The Tennessee's general popularity in Florida is more of an unknown factor than Russell's. His crime committee investigations in the state could work either for him or against him.

President Truman will not appear on the Florida ballot in May. The State Democratic Executive Committee has expressed itself as firmly anti-Truman.

Tuesday's Cases In Police Court

In Police Court Tuesday morning, Judge Charles H. Whedbee found Roy Ashley, Negro, guilty of refusing to pay taxicab $18 fare and being drunk in a public place.

The court gave him 30 days in jail on the taxicab fare charge and suspended sentence on condition that he pay $18 to the taxi driver, Naomond Brewington, Negro, and that Ashley remain of good behavior and not violate any laws. The court fined him $10 for being drunk.

Joe David Taft, Negro, charged with assault with a deadly weapon, was ordered recommitted to the Goldsboro State Hospital for the insane when Judge Whedbee continued prayer for judgment. The court ruled that the case be retained for further order. Testimony was that Taft threatened his uncle, Jehu Taft, a taxicab driver, with a knife. Police arrested him and restored the cab to the driver, it was testified. Further testimony was that Joe David Taft's relative recently had signed a paper requesting his temporary release from the asylum.

Willie Bell Jr., Negro, no operator's license, $25, costs deducted. Drunk: Jack Ray Moyer, Negro, $10; Edward Lee Corey, $10; Sylvester V. Callett (and disorderly), $10; Abram Lee Newton, Negro, third offense of being tried for being drunk within six months, $20 fine; Willie Lee Jones, Negro, prayer for judgment continued on payment of $15.

Courtroom Jammed By Curious Spectators

A crowd estimated at over 800 persons jammed into the Pitt County Court House last night for the three-hour session of a coroner's inquest which resulted in the holding of two persons for grand jury action. The capacity crowd, the largest since the 1949 trial of the Daniels cousins for murder, remained for the entire session. (Reflector Staff Photo by Roy Hardee).

Predicts Growth Of Pitt Irrigation

Farmers are going to do a lot of irrigating in Pitt County within the next few years, but it will be used primarily to supplement the natural rainfall. Irrigation equipment is essentially good insurance against exceptionally dry years.

Those words by H. M. Ellis, agricultural engineering specialist at N. C. State College, accurately summed up remarks made yesterday at an irrigation demonstration on the farm of Mark H. Smith near Bell Arthur. The demonstration was conducted for the purpose of acquainting local farmers with the intricacies of irrigating in the field.

"We have been irrigating in North Carolina for a long time," Ellis said, "but not to a great extent. It was thought at one time that we had enough rainfall in this state to make irrigation equipment unnecessary, but it is not sufficiently distributed to always be effective."

Ellis said the controlled distribution of water will: 1. increase crop yields per acre, 2. be an insurance against drought, 3. be a paying investment, and 4. be indicative of just another step in farm mechanization. The irrigation principle is essentially the same in every type of equipment. The differences in equipment is generally in types of pumps, types of connecting joints and types of sprays.

Almost any established commercial company will furnish equipment that will do the job, provided it is designed to suit the specific farm need," the engineer said. "It should be practical, as cheap as possible, labor saving and manageable."

"The most important thing to consider in going into farm irrigation is to be sure of an adequate water supply. It is surprising how much water it takes to irrigate a large field. It takes about

NON-LEGAL — It has been said that more than 99 percent of the voting places in North Carolina are non-legal, rather than illegal. The statutes require a physical arrangement of voting booths that is utterly impossible of attainment except in very few instances. Requirement that there shall be no loitering or electioneering within 50 feet of the ballot boxes, and that the boxes must be inside a guard rail not more than 20 feet and not less than 10 feet from the election officials, and in plain sight, just cannot be met when the voting booths are set up in court-house, city halls, school houses, fire stations or private homes — as most of them are.

INDUCEMENT — Impossibility of complying with the law in one respect makes it easy to fall in others where compliance might be possible, and it is not unusual for election officials to show open favoritism for their own candidates. So the power to appoint the local officials embodies the power to exercise tremendous control over the voting of the citizens—not to mention the discretion permitted in counting or throwing out questionably marked ballots.

CONFIDENCE — Arbitrary attitude of the state board in by-passing the expressed wishes of county organizations in order to grab fuller control of election machinery has not strengthened the weakening confidence of the people in the integrity of elections.

Wilmington Woman Named Chairman Of Newly-Formed Group

Miss Ruth Ingram of Wilmington has been appointed chairman of the newly-formed Business Women of the N. C. Christian Women's Fellowship. The appointment was announced here today by Mrs. H. G. Haney, of Greenville, president of the Christian Women's Fellowship of the Disciples of Christ.

The group held its first meeting at Harper Hall Atlantic Christian College in Wilson last week-end and heard a talk by Miss Katherine Schutze of Indianapolis, Ind., national director of business women's groups. Other inspirational speakers at the meeting were Mrs. E. N. Batton and Miss Sadie Green of Wilson.

RHEE WILL NOT RUN — PUSAN, Korea (UP)—Svungman Rhee, first president in Korea's history, said on his 77th birthday anniversary today he will not seek re-election in June.

Daniels called to me to come at once and bandage his arm saying that he had been cut."

After the cutting Brantley stated that he carried Mrs. Dail down to the Police station to sign a warrant against Daniels after he returned to the house a second time. "I told her it was best not to go back but she said that she had to, for her baby was there."

Upon arrival at the house, Brantley said that "Daniels was moving things from the house and Mrs. Dail told him, 'Get out and stay out,' to which Daniels replied, 'I will fix every damn one of you.' Then he went to his truck. 'I asked him four or five times not to come in,' he stated."

Solicitor Bundy then asked the man, "How did you happen to be there?" To which he replied, "I went to ask Mrs. Dail to carry me and my wife to Chocowinity."

Asked if he had seen the pistol before, Brantley replied, "Yes, Bundy then said 'Where?' To which he replied, 'At the T.V. Station.' He then admitted having the gun in his station for some time.

Attorney Worthington then asked "Did Mrs. Dail ask him to get out?" Brantley replied "Yes. She told him to get out or to give her money back," he said.

Then Brantley was asked if he got something from the truck (referring to Daniels). "Yes," came the reply. "Daniels you better get out before you get killed."

Asked, "Was Daniels there anytime during the week?" Godley replied "Yes sir, quite often."

"Where was Daniels when the gun was fired?" Godley was asked. "About two feet on the porch, he said."

"Was Daniels moving forward or standing still when shot?" To which the man said, "Moving."

Next, Mrs. Clara Ward, who lives opposite the house testified.

"I kept hearing a lot of slamming, chairs moving and everything, but no other noise about 6 o'clock."

"I heard glass break and the fellow, 'Slim,' came out of the house and ran around the house with Daniels behind him."

"Brantley went to Mrs. Dail's car, but Mrs. Dail prevented him from leaving," the woman testified.

"Later, he returned and left for about 30 minutes," she said.

"I kept hearing a lot of slamming, chairs moving and everything, but no other noise about 6 o'clock."

"I heard glass break and the fellow, 'Slim,' came out of the house and ran around the house with Daniels behind him."

"Brantley went to Mrs. Dail's car, but Mrs. Dail prevented him from leaving," the woman testified.

"After the shooting, Mrs. Ward testified that 'the Strickland woman was bending down over him, crying.'"

In reply to, "Have you seen him there before?" Mrs. Ward said, "Not him so much, but his truck was there." Bundy asked to which Ms. Ward replied, "Yes sir, quite often."

Climax of the session came when Miss Strickland took the stand and said to the jury that, "Five months ago I started going with Melvin Daniels. I found that he was married and then told him that I wasn't going with him."

"He beat me several times and Friday afternoon found me at the T.V. Station and beat me. He started to beat me again Saturday and I went and got under the bed. "Mrs. Dail's sister, who was at the house, locked the door to the room. How the window got broke I don't know, unless he did it trying to hit me. It scared me when he got out and I tried to help him stop the blood."

At this point in her testimony, Miss Strickland began to sob quietly. "Mrs. Dail told him not to come back in. All of the fighting took place in Mrs. Dail's apartment," she testified. "It was not much fighting—him a great big man and me a little woman," Miss Strickland sobbed. "He came back and took my wallet and got my money ($15)," and said I want everything that belongs to me. He had given me a clock, radio, and heater." Helen Strickland told the coroner's jury.

"Mrs. Dail and me were in my room, washing up blood when we heard the shot."

"When did you find out that Daniels was married?" Bundy asked. "About one month ago," she replied.

She then stated that he kept coming around to the house. She was asked, "Did you ever call the police to keep him away?" "No."

"Where was Glenn Brantley at the time the shot was fired?" "Standing in the hall."

"Could you see him?" "No. Did you see any pistol?" "No, sir."

"Why did you tell the officers what you did about the shooting?" Miss Strickland was asked. "I was lying." "Why?" "Because Mrs Dail has lied. I am telling the truth now."
