Sheriff Hints KKK Case Is Fast Drawing To A Close

Indicates Findings Near Conclusion; Does Not Believe Klan Involved Nor Connection With Earlier Incidents; Warrants May Be In Preparation

Pitt Sheriff's department and an SBI agent today were still investigating the second "KKK" cross to appear in Pitt County, and Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson hinted that the case might be closed late today or tonight.

The clues in the case apparently were being pieced together into a clear picture by the investigators although Tyson said he would have no further statement on the progress of the case until sometime this afternoon.

Klan Not Involved Tyson did say this morning, however, that he was sure the charred cross found on the porch of a house near Pitt-Greenville airport Sunday morning was the work of an individual or several individuals, and had no connection with the Ku Klux Klan.

Silent On Charges The sheriff would not say this morning what charges would be brought in connection with the case if arrests were made.

The small cross with a note addressed to Mrs. Alldred was found Sunday morning on the porch of the house of Jarvis Anderson, her father, where Mrs. Alldred lives. The cross and note were discovered by eight-year-old Clifton Anderson about 10 o'clock Sunday morning, and did not come to the attention of the adults in the house until later when they saw the children playing with the object.

Slow To Notify Tyson said the law enforcement officers were not notified of the cross and note until they were brought to the Greenville police station shortly after 10 o'clock Sunday night. Police officers notified the Sheriff when the note and cross were received.

The note addressed to Mrs. Alldred, the mother of three children, warned her to "leave Ward off" and to stay at home with her children "or else." It was signed with the initials K.K.K. The same initials were carved on the cross.

Bradley Asserts UMT Is Means To Prevent War

MACON, Ga. (UP)—Gen. Omar N. Bradley declared last night that universal military training "is one of the best means of avoiding war."

In a speech to the Macon Chamber of Commerce, Bradley called UMT the "democratic answer" to the Communist drive to "discredit and destroy us."

It is the most effective use of our manpower and monetary resources to provide an adequate number of men at the necessary level of training in the least possible time," he said.

The chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff added that UMT could provide trained manpower reserve that would make it possible to materially reduce the size of the armed forces.

Traffic Specialist Here Friday To Confer With Local Officials

A current project designed to relieve congested traffic conditions in Greenville gained additional impetus this morning when Mayor L. D. Page announced that a traffic specialist will be here Friday to confer with local officials.

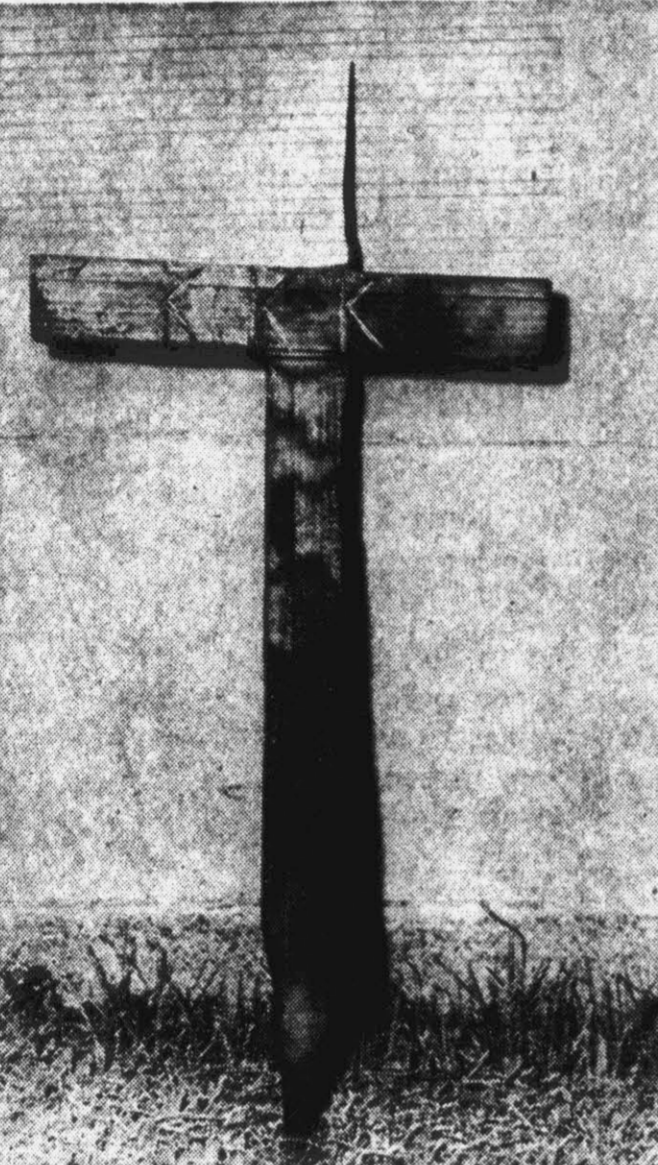

Through the aid of State Highway and Public Works Commission District Engineer A. Markham, the mayor reported, the services of Jack Burch, state highway department engineer and traffic authority from Raleigh, have been secured for one day.

Burch will meet with the Greenville Traffic Commission Friday to review our tentative plans for handling traffic in the city. Mayor Page stated, "With his experience in that field he should be of incalculable assistance to us in working out our present problem."

The traffic commission is composed of the mayor, Chief of Police Guy C. Langston and Alderman Heber Tripp, chairman of the street committee. That committee has already drawn up tentative plans for routing traffic, but we need the suggestions of an expert to work them out to perfection, Mayor Page said.

According to the mayor, Friday's conference will be confined to a discussion of traffic problems of a currently pressing nature. "Our plan for the moment is to attempt to arrive at a better method of traffic

Charred Cross With Note Attached

The second appearance of a crude wooden cross, bearing a note seemingly signed by the Ku Klux Klan, still remains a mystery as to its origin. The cross above was photographed after Sheriff Ruel Tyson lifted his briefly-imposed censorship yesterday morning. The cross is shown with the printed note attached. Phone Tie-Up Threat Is Hanging Over Carolina

Union Locals Vote To Observe Any Picket Lines As Signs Point To 'Hit And Miss' Technique By Workers

By The Associated Press The prospects of roving picket lines threatened telephone communication workers, voted yesterday to respect any picket lines set up by striking Western Electric installation employees. And in Greensboro last night, A. T. Maddux, Carolinas representative for Local 10322, Communication Workers of America (CWA), said the striking workers had definite plans regarding establishment of picket lines.

The strike of about 100 Western Electric workers, members of the CWA, began at 6 a.m. yesterday in North Carolina.

Signs pointed to the use of the "hit and miss" picketing technique by the strikers. The method involves establishing picket lines in one city for a short period, then moving on and picketing Western Electric and phone company establishments in another city.

The decision of telephone and communication workers to respect Western Electric picket lines came at a meeting in Greensboro of various CWA local yesterday.

Meanwhile, CWA Local 53 in Charlotte has called a meeting of about 800 Southern Bell Telephone

Commissioners Approve Courthouse Booth, Act On Grand Jury Report

By JESS POINDEXTER Reflector Staff Writer The appearance of the Pitt County courthouse lawn may be slightly altered sometime this Spring if a project approved by the board of commissioners materializes within the near future.

At their regular monthly meeting yesterday, board members voted unanimously to allow the Greenville Lions Club to sponsor a refreshment booth to be constructed on the courthouse grounds. It will be operated by some blind person from Pitt County.

Details of its construction are to be worked out by the Lions Club and the State Commission for the Blind. Each organization will share expenses of the project, and the local Lions Club will designate some blind person from this area to operate the booth.

Act On Grand Jury Report W. W. Speight, county attorney, was authorized to work with Solicitor W. J. Bundy on the Grand Jury's recommendation that all warrants issued to magistrates in the county be serially numbered. They were also instructed to investigate the laxity of magistrates in making required monthly reports.

"We want Attorney Speight to join forces with Solicitor Bundy in arriving at whatever action is necessary relative to having all magistrates' warrants issued by serial number," Chairman F. F. Hendrix said. "The Grand Jury also recommended in their report that all warrants not used be turned in at the end of each month so as to give an accurate record of both used and unused warrants."

The board also suggested that W. G. Leggett, county jailer, work out a system by which the national colors may be properly displayed on the courthouse grounds, as recommended in the Grand Jury's report.

Approve Transfer Of $6,700 A total of $6,700 was transferred from the Courthouse Building Fund to two other county building and repair funds. At the suggestion of County Auditor Allan Powell, the board approved the transfer of $700 from the Courthouse Building Fund to the County Home Repair Fund.

At the same time, the commissioners voted to transfer $6,000 from the same source to the County Office Building Fund.

Another county expense authorized yesterday was $166.50 for the purchase of an electric stove for the Negro Home Demonstration Department. A previously approved expenditure of $129.00 was termed "insufficient to meet the needs of the department. Stoves available at the time did not have the necessary equipment for the departments needs, spokesmen said.

The jury list of 100 Pitt County citizens for service in the two-week term of Superior Court May 19 and 26 was drawn and approved.

Ike's Luncheon Is Regarded As Farewell Party

PARIS (UP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower played host today at what appeared to be a "farewell" lunch for his fellow officers in the NATO command, but refused to comment on reports his letter of resignation has reached Washington.

The commander of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization armies entertained scores of top brass who have gathered here for his first large-scale "paper war" exercises. Because of Washington reports that the general's resignation has been received there, the luncheon was regarded by many as a farewell party for the commander of the European defense effort.

Eisenhower's presidential campaign manager, Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge, planned a final talk with the general this afternoon before flying back to the United States.

Russell Praised By Sen. Mundt

JACKSON, Miss. (UP)—Sen. Karl E. Mundt (R-SD) said today Sen. Richard B. Russell is the South's "last great chance to place a Southern statesman in the White House."

Mundt, who has not declared his choice for the Republican presidential nomination, gave the Georgia Democrat a big boost in a speech before the Mississippi Economic Council.

Charges 'Deal'

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Ernest T. Weir, board chairman of National Steel Corp., charged today "there must have been a deal between powers in the Administration and labor leaders in which the labor leaders received assurance their demands would have support" in the current dispute.

Weir, whose corporation employs about 32,000 workers, called for use of the Taft-Hartley Act to avert a steel strike at midnight tonight. Under that law, President Truman could go into court and seek a court order which would delay the walkout for 80 days.

The 75-year-old steel master declared in a news conference that:

"Of all the issues in the present steel dispute, the most amazing and the most serious by far is the threat of governmental seizure of the steel industry."

"My own opinion," said Weir, "is that there was a deal made—maybe not on a definite amount—but there was a hand-picked Wage Stabilization board for the purpose of supporting whatever deal was made."

No Activity On Truce-Bargaining

UN Negotiators Believed To Have Completed New Study

PANMUNJOM, Korea (UP)—United Nations truce negotiators were believed today to have completed their study of a new formula to break the deadlock on exchanging prisoners of war, leaving staff officers to put the finishing touches on it before presenting it to the Communists.

Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, senior U.N. delegate, returned to Japan for a brief rest along with Brig. Gen. William P. Nuckols, Allied spokesman. Rear Adm. Ruthven E. Libby, chief negotiator on prisoner exchange, also was reported on a short holiday.

There was strong speculation that the Allies are revising prisoner of war lists in a way that may reconcile U.N. demands for voluntary repatriation and Red demands for forcible repatriation.

Since Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway visited his truce negotiators five days ago, prisoner of war meetings have been suspended. An Allied spokesman said the postponement was to give each side a chance to develop privately "additional avenues" for resolving the delicate question of prisoner repatriation.

Allied and Communist subdelegates met here for only three minutes and 20 seconds on the armistice terms question. Neither side made a strong effort to argue whether Russia should be a truce inspector or whether the Reds should be allowed to build airfields during the truce.

Big Turnout In Illinois Primary

CHICAGO (UP)—Illinois voters turned out in "heavy" numbers today in the nation's largest presidential preference primary.

Ballooting matched the on-the-ballot candidates of Sen. Robert A. Taft, Harold E. Stassen and Sen. Estes Kefauver against the "write-in" possibilities of Gen. Dwight Eisenhower and Gov. Adlai Stevenson in respective party contests.

In most of the state, a warm spring sun shone from a cloudless sky. Early morning balloting ranged from "normally heavy" in Chicago to "extra heavy" at some points elsewhere in the state, election officials reported.

It appeared that pre-primary predictions of a near record 1,800,000 turnout might be borne out.

Rockford and Moline, industrial cities in the northern part of the state; Quincy, Springfield, Decatur, Marion, West Frankfort, Belleville and East St. Louis reported good turnouts.

In the Democratic primary, Stevenson was expected to draw a heavy write-in vote against Kefauver, whose name is the only one printed on the Democratic ballot, although the governor has disclaimed any support of a write-in movement.

Small Warship In Gun Duel With Red Artillery

SEOUL, Korea (UP)—The American destroyer-minesweeper Endicott dashed in close to the communist Northeast Coast near Chongjin today and duelled with enemy shore batteries.

When Communist shells straddled the small warship with near misses, the destroyer Chandler moved in to its assistance with five-inch guns blazing and two planes from the big aircraft carrier Philippine Sea joined the bombardment.

Enemy guns were silenced and the Endicott pulled safely out of range. Only light ground and air activity in Korea was reported.

Lions Begin Assignment For Financing Of Park Program

Solicitations for a quota of $20,000 for the development of Elm Street Park began this morning with the Lion's Club covering assignments given to them by Jimmy Harris, finance chairman of the park program.

Each member of the Greenville Lion's Club has been assigned from 10 to 12 persons and business firms to solicit in raising the $20,000 for the park development program. Solicitations began this morning after plans had been mapped out by Harris, Mrs. Frances Cassick, finance co-chairman, and Louis Gaylord, Jr., general chairman of the program.

The solicitations will continue for the next two weeks and be climaxed Friday, April 18, by a parade and radio program appealing for funds. Lion's Club members will report their progress to the steering committee and committee members and Credit Women's Break-

Federal Wage Chief Voices Faint Hopes; Commerce Secretary Called Back To Washington As Seizure Talked; Companies Begin Closing Down Plants

NEW YORK (UP)—Federal wage chief Nathan P. Feinsinger said today he had "some confidence" that union and industry representatives may be receptive to suggestions he is making in a last-minute attempt to avert a nationwide steel strike at midnight.

Feinsinger's announcement came as President Truman summoned Secretary of Commerce Charles Sawyer back to Washington from a nationwide tour, apparently to prepare for government seizure of the industry. White House sources said seizure does not appear likely today.

Already thousands of workers were jumping the midnight strike deadline, and 100,000 other steelworkers already were idled as companies closed down steelmaking facilities.

Feinsinger reported his "confidence" after meeting for an hour and a half with representatives of the six major steel companies.

"I am making certain suggestions to the parties as a basis for possible settlement," he said. "I wouldn't have embarked on that course had I not felt some confidence that the parties would be receptive."

Feinsinger said he planned next to confer with CIO steelworkers representatives and this afternoon with industry leaders.

He would not say whether he felt a strike could be averted, nor if he has proposed any changes in the wage recommendations his board has made.

Feinsinger said he had not asked for a postponement of the strike and does not intend to. He said he was only interested in a settlement of this dispute by agreement between the parties."

Authoritative sources said the seizure orders already have been drawn up and delivered to the White House for President Truman's signature. Informants said Mr. Truman might withhold action until after the midnight deadline.

Philip Murray, president of the steelworkers and the parent CIO, charged in a radio network talk that the steelmakers "want a strike" and therefore the midnight walkout was "inevitable."

Murray's accusation was a reply to a charge made Sunday by Benjamin Fairless, president of the U.S. Steel Corp., that the union had refused to negotiate a settlement.

To this Murray angrily said that the industry—not the union—had rejected the government's recommendations which resulted from WSB hearings on the controversy.

Murray's radio speech was attacked late last night by Adm. Ben Moreel, board chairman of Jones & Laughlin Corp. and spokesman for six major steel companies.

Building Burns, Boys Said Implicated

The blazing garage building shown going up in smoke in an afternoon fire here yesterday was blamed by Greenville police today on two young boys. The building belonging to J. L. Taylor, 417 West Fourth Street, was discovered on fire after two young boys were seen around the building. The names of the two were not revealed but it was understood that police had contacted the parents about the matter. The picture above was taken minutes after the fire was discovered and before firemen could bring any water to bear on the structure. The entire unit was gutted. Ingeborg Hubschenberger Speaks To J. R. C. Of AAUW

The discussion group sponsored by the International Relations Committees of the Woman's Club and the AAUW met Thursday, April 3, at the home of Mrs. Walter Krausnick.

In the interest of increased international understanding, it was the privilege of the group to have Miss Ingeborg Hubschenberger of Munich, Germany, as a focal point for many questions concerning "Life in the Fatherland."

The discussion centered around the concern of present day conditions in Germany. Miss Hubschenberger spoke of the economic pressures currently existing. She stated that the unemployment problem is acute and opportunities for highly trained persons are very limited. Although there is much demand for building and reconstruction, materials are very expensive. Food, even though it is available on the market, is in some items, prohibitive in price for the "average income" earners. She cited the case of coffee quoted at 14 marks per pound for the person who earns about 60 marks per week.

The role of the youth of Germany in the modern state disclosed a conservative caution based on distrust and fear of party politics. The old Nazi Youth Movement has been obliterated, according to Miss Hubschenberger, and the only national groups in evidence are the Boy Scouts, the Girl Scouts, and Religious organizations.

The Nazi leaders had promised much to the German Youth, but their abject failure has resulted in the lost faith of the younger generation. The commentator pointed out the fact that American Youth appear to be more care-free than the youth of Germany in general. It was interesting to note that there appeared to be more restraint imposed on the younger generation in Germany, too.

The educational problems reflected an overcrowded condition in the German classes. The elementary schools average about 55 to 60 pupils per class room. In one case there were nine class rooms for 1600 children. Books and supplies have been impaired by the ravages of war. However, accuracy and thoroughness is stressed, and English is required for graduation from the secondary schools.

The German people have appreciated the Marshall Plan and hope that it will be possible to continue it, she said. The opinion was expressed that Germany is not eager to rearm. However, the unification of Germany seemed to be favored, with freedom based on German policy.

At the close of the question period, a coffee hour was thoroughly enjoyed by the members.

In one case there were nine class rooms for 1600 children. Books and supplies have been impaired by the ravages of war. However, accuracy and thoroughness is stressed, and English is required for graduation from the secondary schools.

The German people have appreciated the Marshall Plan and hope that it will be possible to continue it, she said. The opinion was expressed that Germany is not eager to rearm. However, the unification of Germany seemed to be favored, with freedom based on German policy.

At the close of the question period, a coffee hour was thoroughly enjoyed by the members.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLAS
POOR AMID RICHES

Some weeks ago the papers were full of the account of a Harvard graduate who had lived in poverty, employed his time as a scavenger, and died leaving a vast amount of money, but no will.

It is utterly fantastic to read the account of this man. A banker said that this eccentric recluse had the most unerring judgment of stock market trends he had ever encountered. But when his classmates saw him at the fiftieth reunion, they were ready to fall over in a faint. He was dirty, unkempt, toothless, and apparently much confused in mind. What they did not know was that he lived in a shack and at night went around picking up whatever he could find, later to sell it to the junk man and thus add to his savings account.

If the papers published all the people who, spiritually, lived the same kind of lives, they would have little space left to publish anything else. Many people of fine spiritual background are living the lives of miserable scavengers, trying to pick up a few additional morsels of life from the refuse of living. To themselves, their type of living may appear quite satisfying. According to mundane standards they may rate pretty high. But the universe frowns upon them. They are mere nobodies—and miserable nobodies at that.

Peace By May Sounds Good

Truce negotiations which have dragged on month after month in Korea may crystallize in a dramatic conclusion within the next few weeks.

Since the tent flaps have been closed to reporters at Panmunjom, hints have been drifting out which indicate the U. N. and Communist negotiators may be coming closer to agreement on controversial issues that time and again have threatened to break down completely the negotiations.

In recent weeks there has been speculation—from reliable observers—that a settlement in Korea may be reached by the negotiators by May. In spite of the fact that Americans want peace in Korea, they have not gotten their hopes too high over these reports. The past months of talks have brought too much disappointment, mistrust and indignation. The attitude has become, "we'll believe it when it happens . . . and then be on our guard to be sure it is not another Communist trick."

The United Nations has made numerous concessions to the Communists in seeking to effect a Korean settlement. These will help strengthen the Communist position in the event of an armistice . . . just as the delay caused by the negotiations has strengthened the Communist position for continuing the war. But our military men are aware of the relative position of the two forces whether the decision at Panmunjom be truce or continued open warfare.

The month of May could bring an end to fighting in Korea, but even so, it will be many months before the Korean problem is settled. Agreement on the truce terms will be just one of the preliminary steps to a permanent settlement.

Terrorism Should Be Stopped Now

These "KKK" crosses and threatening notes in Pitt County have gone too long and too far. No effort should be spared by the Sheriff's Department or other law enforcement agencies to get to the bottom of the thing before it goes farther.

It was a month ago that the first small, crude cross appeared in the county, and then several days later threatening notes signed by the "KKK" were received by five men in the Calico section.

The consensus of the law enforcement officers was that the cross and the notes were the work of pranksters rather than members of the Ku Klux Klan or people affiliated with the Klan. Now the second cross together with another threatening note has appeared in the county, and the law officers have become a little more concerned, although it is still very doubtful that an organized Klan has anything to do with the situation here.

So far Pitt County has had no kidnappings or floggings like the one which has cropped up in other counties of North Carolina. But the crosses and notes could lead to more drastic steps unless the law enforcement officers get to the bottom of the activity in short order.

The notes and the crosses themselves are forms of terrorism just as floggings and kidnappings are. Those who are responsible for the terrorism which is being spread in Pitt County is this rather subtle, but nevertheless serious form should be brought to justice.

Just because Pitt has not had a flogging does not make the problem an insignificant one. It indeed already has advanced to the serious stage, and it is the job of the law enforcement officers to stamp out the spreading cancer of terrorism here at home before it erupts into anything more serious than it already is.

With few leads to go on, it may take the officers longer than they or the public would like to put their fingers on the guilty parties, but no stone should be left unturned until the matter of crosses and threatening notes in Pitt County is cleared up entirely.

National Whirligig

WASHINGTON—General Dwight D. Eisenhower's first major political task upon his return to the United States will be to clarify existing uncertainty among friends and foes about his views on specific labor problems. It is essential to his nomination and election, in the opinion of his top strategists.

His spokesmen on this side of the water have quoted from his speeches and interviews, besides promoting publication of several campaign biographies, in order to explain his attitude on almost every governmental policy, domestic and foreign. But the only comment they vouchsafe on this politically important and explosive question is that he favors a "strong and responsible" labor movement.

LEERY—That does not satisfy the "big three" among the labor leaders—Murray, Green and Lewis. It can mean anything or nothing. As of today, the CIO, the AFL and UMW presidents, whose unions have more than 15,000,000 members, are leery of "Ike." They do not regard him as any more friendly to their cause than Senator Taft, although they are not as bitter toward the general as they are toward the senator.

The labor platform which President Truman will try to foist on the Democratic convention and presidential nominee, as revealed here yesterday, is designed to prevent these millions of voters, with their families and friends, from stampeding to a Republican ticket, especially if it is headed by Eisenhower.

There is no White House fear of such a desertion. If the GOP names Senator Taft.

SUSPICION—General Eisenhower will enjoy both advantages and disadvantages in approaching this delicate problem. With the possible exception of Governor Earl Warren of California, organized labor's big bosses are less antagonistic toward him than they are toward such rivals as Taft and Stassen.

Most of the politicians and industrialists backing "Ike"—Paul Hoffman, Senators Lodge, Duff, Saltmire and Governor Dewey—have had fairly good relations with the men in the mills and factories. Eisenhower's absence from the country during World War II kept him from becoming involved in the government's disputes with striking organizations.

On the other hand, the workingman shares with many other civilians a suspicion of a military man in the White House. Recalling the resort to army seizure and operation of key industries by such a friend as Truman, they fear that "Ike" might be even more quick to use this kind of trigger.

IMPORTANT—General Eisenhower cannot match Truman's forthrighting bid for the labor vote without stiffening himself and disappointing prospective supporters. Indeed, he cannot fulfill the advance arguments made on his behalf by such an enthusiastic promoter as Senator Lodge of Massachusetts.

In private talks with labor leaders and in at least one address before a CIO convention, where he seemed to be speaking for Eisenhower, Lodge sounded like a "dealer."

He urged government development of many national resources, increased old age pensions and survivors' benefits, a guaranteed wage in defense industries at least, and a limited program of socialized medicine. He praised civil rights expansion as necessary because "we need ideas as well as guns to defeat the Russians."

Other Eisenhower advocates have been more moderate, or they have declined to answer for "Ike" on labor matters, preferring to let him speak for himself when he enters actively into the campaign late in May.

So, until Eisenhower talks freely and frankly and most important of all, specifically, labor will remain in a state of suspended, but pro-Truman, animation toward the general.

TASK—Eisenhower's handling of this thorny problem can determine whether he has any chance for the nomination and the election.

His will be the hard task of weaning labor, not the bosses but the workers themselves, away from the general largesse they have enjoyed under twenty years of Democratic favoritism, including Truman's latest exhibition in his row with Charles E. Wilson over steel wages and prices.

If the general assumes too moderate or conservative a position he will jeopardize his convention chances with small-bore politicians who must think in terms of votes and victories for local offices.

Should he be nominated, a leaning toward the Taft rather than the Truman philosophy would cost him millions of votes in the great industrial centers. The GOP cannot afford to lose that support again.

On the other hand, if he stages an encore of the Wilkie-Dewey "me too" act, he will alienate conservatives in town and country. He may also minimize the possibility that he can carry several southern and border states.

ALTOONA, PA. MIRROR: "We wonder what George Washington would have to say about some of the actions that take place these days in the city that bears his name? Washington was dedicated to the service of the country he helped to establish and to the welfare of his fellow Americans. He was not concerned with enriching himself in office."

HILLSBORO, MO. RECORD: "You might get an idea of the hugeness of a billion if you realized that since the birth of Christ more than 1900 years ago, just slightly more than a billion minutes have elapsed. . . . If you take a look at the President's proposals further, you will see that he wants to spend more dollars in the next fiscal year than there have been seconds between the birth of Christ and the present time."

HUMBOLT, IOWA. REPUBLICAN: "We have been wondering why a thousand dollar automobile costs more than two thousand dollars and why a lot of other things seem to be out of our reach financially. We find that it is tied up with a lot of things, such as deficit financing, price controls, defense spending, high taxes, government debt, over-extension of credit and a multitude of other things."

LIBERAL, KAN. SOUTHWEST DAILY TIMES: "Kansas is holding costs to a minimum, not a single new tax or increase being created by the 1951 legislature. At the same time progress toward fiscal reorganization and modernization of mental hospitals and other state institutions is rapidly going forward. Kansas should be proud of that record. Perhaps some of our high-powered spenders could well follow that example and profit likewise."

LONG PRAIRIE, MINN. LEADER: "The government under its present leadership proposes to spend as much the next fiscal year which is allegedly a peace time year, as the government spent during the entire 126 years from 1789 to 1928, which period included the Civil War and World War I. It is time the citizen who has a farm or a home starts thinking about the title to his property. How long is it going to be before he is going to lose them to the government for taxes?"

Hello, Shorty

Somebody Told Me

By L. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

Although there are diseases that medical science has not been able to find a cure for, the most amazing advancement to me is the ability to bring a dead man back to life by massaging his heart.

Just one of the many examples of this miracle happened to Fred Sanders on July 7, 1951, on the operating table at Warren Hospital, Phillipsburg, N. J. When Fred's heart stopped beating the surgeons called it a "cardiac arrest," but in plain words he was dead. Of course the difference between life and death is that the heart stops beating, and Fred's heart stopped.

But Fred was not pronounced dead. He was only "dead" for five minutes. Dr. Homer Bloom cut open Sanders' chest, carefully exposed his heart, and massaged it with his hand. The heart started beating again and Sanders came back to life! He is living today.

The big question is this: During that five minutes that Fred was "dead," had he actually "crossed over?" Had he looked into the future—the life on the other side?

Fred explains it this way. "Everything was just like a dream. I didn't know what had happened to me until it was all over." Fred recalled thanking the doctor, "Don't thank me," the doctor said. "Thank Someone much greater than I. I couldn't have done it alone."

Fred is a deacon and elder of the First Presbyterian Church in Belvidere, N. J., and fully believes in the "Someone much greater" who enabled him to return to life. While he has no specific memories of his five minutes of "death," he admits that he has come back a changed and different man, almost as though he had unconscious memories of perhaps even a glimpse of the Great Beyond which had left a mark.

Many people, the authorities say, show in their faces a quiet serenity, a relaxation, even a trace of a smile, during the last few minutes of life, as though they had caught a glimpse of what lay ahead and found it pleasing.

"Is it possible that you caught a glimpse?" Fred was asked by a writer by the name of Howard Whitman. "Maybe so," he said. "All I know is—life is different."

This feeling that Fred Sanders has is shared by many others. Right here in Greenville there have been people who have come close to death and have survived and become better people. But was this because when they had that glimpse, if such a thing is possible, that they saw flames and returned to life to gain an opportunity to see better things? There's only one way to find out, and frankly, I'm not anxious to give you a first-hand story.

And I thank you.

Around Capitol Square

ANALYSIS — Newsmen who make the capitol square beat are besieged daily to give current analysis of the political situation in this state. It is a difficult assignment. Conditions change so rapidly that appraisal based on information gathered yesterday may be obsolete tomorrow. Furthermore, if the analysis indicates advantage for one candidate or faction the others immediately dub it unfair propaganda. At the risk of being subjected to such criticism, your reporter herewith hazards appraisal of the situation as of this date, based on recent trips about the state and conversations with numerous visitors to Raleigh, supplemented by telephone check-up at strategic points.

GOVERNORSHIP — The big race is for the Democratic nomination for Governor between William Umstead of Durham and Hubert Olive of Lexington. The third candidate, Manly R. Dunaway of Charlotte, is not expected to affect result of the primary voting. It has been often noted that Umstead and Olive have many traits in common. Both are successful lawyers and each had devoted a full decade to public service. Umstead as representative and senator in the Congress, Olive as a special superior court judge.

PARALLEL — Umstead is an alumnus of the University of North Carolina, has a law degree from Duke, is a former president of the Carolina Alumni Association and presently a trustee of the Consolidated University. Olive is a graduate of Wake Forest in liberal arts and law, a former president of the Wake Forest Alumni Association and presently chairman of the board of trustees. Both men are active in church work. Umstead as a Methodist, Olive as Baptist. Both are veterans of World War I and have been prominent in American Legion circles. Olive as State Commander in 1934-35. Neither in a novice in politics, Olive having managed the successful campaign of Clyde Hoy for Governor in 1936 and Umstead performing the same service for Gregg Cherry in 1944.

ADVANTAGE — The face of the record gives Umstead a distinct political advantage. It has been 16 years since Olive went through a state-wide political campaign in 1936. Since then Umstead has been through four—as primary manager of Cherry in 1944, as state chairman in the general elections of 1944 and 1946, and as a candidate for the United States Senate in 1948. As representative of the sixth district in congress from 1933 to 1939, as State Democratic chairman from 1944 to 1947, and as senator from 1946 to 1949. Umstead's contacts have been political and partisan. As superior court judge for ten years and chairman of the state board of elections for two, Olive's public service has precluded partisan political activity. Umstead has further advantage in the fact he has been running for Governor at least eight years. He was a recognized, almost an avowed, candidate for Governor before he accepted appointment to the Senate upon the death of Senator J. W. Bailey. His tenure in the senate and his unsuccessful campaign for election against the late Governor-Senator J. M. Broughton constitutes an interlude in his continuing race for Governor. Olive has been a candidate for less than one year, of his more recent and more intimate contact with political leaders, Umstead has support of a preponderant majority of public officials and governmental employees, as well as of those citizens who have through the years consistently exercised the obligations of voting. Olive has the unqualified support of Governor Kerr Scott, who upset things four years ago in a whirlwind campaign which captured the nomination from Charlie Johnson, who had been regarded by political prognosticators as a long-odd favorite. It is recognized fact, however, that many of those who helped Scott in 1948 (including some of his top level appointees) are now enthusiastic workers for Umstead. It is also true that Umstead's record in Congress, both in house and senate in support of the farm program has assured votes among the farmers who were the backbone of the Scott strength four years ago. Complications arise in attempts to carry over 1948 factions in 1952. How they voted then is their own business, but gossip has it that Umstead voted for Scott, who now opposes his nomination, while Olive is credited with voting for Johnson, whom Scott defeated in a hard fought race.

MONEY — Money is a vital element in any political campaign. Apparently both candidates have adequate financial resources. Umstead has a substantial net worth, and has a large income from his law practice. Olive has a comfortable income from his law practice and from his investments. Both men are active in church work. Umstead as a Methodist, Olive as Baptist. Both are veterans of World War I and have been prominent in American Legion circles. Olive as State Commander in 1934-35. Neither in a novice in politics, Olive having managed the successful campaign of Clyde Hoy for Governor in 1936 and Umstead performing the same service for Gregg Cherry in 1944.

How they voted then is their own business, but gossip has it that Umstead voted for Scott, who now opposes his nomination, while Olive is credited with voting for Johnson, whom Scott defeated in a hard fought race.

MONEY — Money is a vital element in any political campaign. Apparently both candidates have adequate financial resources. Umstead has a substantial net worth, and has a large income from his law practice. Olive has a comfortable income from his law practice and from his investments. Both men are active in church work. Umstead as a Methodist, Olive as Baptist. Both are veterans of World War I and have been prominent in American Legion circles. Olive as State Commander in 1934-35. Neither in a novice in politics, Olive having managed the successful campaign of Clyde Hoy for Governor in 1936 and Umstead performing the same service for Gregg Cherry in 1944.

Umstead's contacts have been political and partisan. As superior court judge for ten years and chairman of the state board of elections for two, Olive's public service has precluded partisan political activity. Umstead has further advantage in the fact he has been running for Governor at least eight years. He was a recognized, almost an avowed, candidate for Governor before he accepted appointment to the Senate upon the death of Senator J. W. Bailey. His tenure in the senate and his unsuccessful campaign for election against the late Governor-Senator J. M. Broughton constitutes an interlude in his continuing race for Governor. Olive has been a candidate for less than one year, of his more recent and more intimate contact with political leaders, Umstead has support of a preponderant majority of public officials and governmental employees, as well as of those citizens who have through the years consistently exercised the obligations of voting. Olive has the unqualified support of Governor Kerr Scott, who upset things four years ago in a whirlwind campaign which captured the nomination from Charlie Johnson, who had been regarded by political prognosticators as a long-odd favorite. It is recognized fact, however, that many of those who helped Scott in 1948 (including some of his top level appointees) are now enthusiastic workers for Umstead. It is also true that Umstead's record in Congress, both in house and senate in support of the farm program has assured votes among the farmers who were the backbone of the Scott strength four years ago. Complications arise in attempts to carry over 1948 factions in 1952. How they voted then is their own business, but gossip has it that Umstead voted for Scott, who now opposes his nomination, while Olive is credited with voting for Johnson, whom Scott defeated in a hard fought race.

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER
People are doing more things for themselves. This is causing losses in some businesses, booms in others.

In final analysis, business is simply doing things for other people. Business was born and grew simply because one man or group of men found that they could do things for others, do them better, cheaper and, usually at a profit.

There is, of course, always a resistance. A few sturdy souls always make their own shoes and paint their own wagons. But once in a while this resistance increases. We are having a bit of it right now.

One cause is the great increase in young families. They have not enough money to buy all they want and they have the skills and the courage to try to do for themselves. Another cause is the dislike of high prices.

While this means losses of potential earnings by those who have complete goods and services to sell, it is enriching those who are supplying tools and materials to those who want to do more for themselves.

TV REPAIR BOOK
SYMPTOM OF TREND
One of the most spectacular incidents has been the large sale of books telling householders how to make their own television repairs. It is hurting TV service men, first because it is cutting into their business and, second, because it implies their charges have been too high. But it is a bonanza for the author and the publisher.

Less spectacular but more important has been the rise in home decorating. This began to increase immediately after the war, coincident with the return of many women from plants to homes, and continued to rise with the formation of new families. Department stores were alert to the trend. If they couldn't sell the girls apparel, they would sell them the makings. Nice goods and no-ton department stores have been expanded, sales of sewing machines have soared.

Paralleling this has been the trend to doing laundry at home or in coin machines. Laundries have lost a lot of potential volume. But retailers sold 3,533,000 washing machines last year, compared with 1,426,800 in 1939.

People are doing more of their own painting. Tough on contractors but fine for the paint manufacturer because home painters waste more, both in painting and failure to utilize the left-overs. One big company is now offering paint contractors an advertising program which they can use to combat the trend.

More people are hanging their own wallpaper. Retailing Daily reports that 60 per cent of installations today is being made by householders. A Roper survey in 1940 showed that only 26 per cent was so installed in 1940. One large paper company has brought out pre-trimmed and ready-glued paper for home users; several manufacturers have brought out new tools for home users.

LUMBER DEALERS
IN FURNITURE ACT
Sales of unpainted furniture have been rising for some time now. Again, sales department stores moved with the trend. But so have a lot of lumber dealers, and furniture and department stores are now complaining that they are cutting into their sales.

One of the greatest expansions in the do-it-yourself field has been in what is loosely called the hobby market. Thousands of companies are now selling tools, leather, woods, paints and hundreds of other materials in this market. Some of the largest plastic manufacturers have developed plastics for hobby use. Sales of power tools that can sand, buff, bore and saw have shot up. These items have become one of the most popular "account owners" for credit stores in recent months.

With so many young families, the do-it-yourself market should continue to expand for many years. It would seem to be a good idea for manufacturers and retailers who have not fully explored this market to give it another look. There may still be fine opportunities for promoting sales of materials, tools, hardware and kits. And if a venture into this field does not seem feasible, it may be a good idea to plan defensive action, such as that paint company.

NEW PRODUCTS
BLEND: An anti-carbon gasoline and fuel oil blend, said to prevent formation of carbon in any internal combustion engine, has been developed by Thrifty Products Co., Box 371, Brooklyn, N. Y. The fluid is said to eliminate knocks, reduce noxious gases and decrease gasoline consumption.

And piped: "I wish the whole world would pop up to Heaven!" He thinks he's got the greatest world. So do the other Leahy kids. And the reason is that the whole family prays, plays and works together. The way old-fashioned families used to do when having eight kids wasn't such a rarity.

The Leahys want to have as many children as they can. As another friend of Frank's once observed: "He never was one to hold down the score."

WASHINGTON Letter
By VERN HAUGLAND
(For Jane Eads)
WASHINGTON The airline ticket agent in the busy airport terminal picked up his jangling telephone. The loud speaker had just called Col. Jones, Albuquerque passenger, for the third time and the final call for Jones' flight had just been made.

Out of the agent's telephone receiver, in parade-ground tones, came this: "You damn well better not dispatch flight 219. This is Col. Jones calling you from across the lobby after waiting in the jam in front of your counter for over 20 minutes to check in. You need one hell of a lot of expansion in this damn terminal."

The Airport Operators Council, composed of operators of major airports, tells this incident to point a moral. At the same time it points out the Civil Aeronautics Administration's Office of Aviation Defense Requirements is placing before defense production authorities the urgent need for expansion of airport terminal facilities.

"Col. Jones had come from a lengthy staff conference only a 15-minute taxi trip from the airport," the council's news bulletin reports. He had allowed 45 minutes for the trip and details at the airport terminal. Upon arrival: "1. His taxi had to wait to unload. More loading space was needed."

"2. He had read some official papers in the taxi and they had to be mailed. There was a delay in getting a stamped envelope because the airport post office needed expansion."

"3. He hurried to the airport washroom — and found a line there where three times the facilities were needed."

"4. He went to the airport drug store for a packet of aspirin — and waited for service in too small a shop."

"5. He remembered his wife and went to the small group of insurance vending machines. All had a line of patrons waiting."

"6. He got in the ticket-counter jam."

"7. He had already been listed as a 'no show' when he got the bright idea of telephoning from across the lobby."

The council says this is not an overdrawn story. It says air freight increased 40 per cent and air passenger traffic 20 per cent during the past year, and adds: "This clearly indicates that the use of larger aircraft is creating a terminal area problem. The nation's 20 largest airports need a 60 per cent increase in plant facilities."

What Other Papers Are Thinking

A BEGINNING AT LEAST
(Greensboro Daily News)
It is good news for the handicapped children of North Carolina that the University of North Carolina's School of Education, along with East Carolina College, will offer several courses in special education for public school teachers and prospective teachers this summer.

So far as the Daily News knows no regular training in specialized education has been offered in the state, and that, it has seemed to us, is an especially strong indictment for North Carolina institutions entrusted specifically with training teachers and supplying the necessary personnel to make our public school system what it should be and keep it abreast of teaching needs and educational trends and requirements.

Parented opinion that the State of North Carolina has the same obligation to its handicapped children that it has to an; and all other children. The obligation is to develop whatever ability these children have, to see that they get the most out of life and to make them as nearly self-sustaining as possible. It is our further feeling that many of these children who are institutionalized should not be but that the public schools should meet their responsibility through special training and classes.

One of the difficulties, however, has been the securing of properly trained teachers, and here we come right back to what the teacher training schools of the state, with special emphasis on the University as the capstone of our educational system, have not been doing. True the beginning announced for the University's Summer school is small, but a beginning it is and that is what counts.

Our hope is that the program, as its need is realized and determination to meet over due responsibility grows, will become accelerative in both its output and its local effects.

Singing Sisters Report Fame Has Its Handicap

THE BELL SISTERS . . . Cynthia, 16, and Kay, 12, two of the nation's youngest song writers, composers of the new hit tune, "Bermuda."

By GENE HANDSAKER

AP Newsfeatures — "I do a lot of that sitting down at the piano and just banging away," says 16-year-old Cynthia Strother.

Result? The hit song "Bermuda," recorded by Cynthia and her sister Kay, who has since turned 12. They call themselves the Bell Sisters after their mother's easier-to-remember maiden name. Sales of their record reached the half-million mark in 12 weeks.

And for these Seal Beach girls, life lately has been as exciting as Cinderella's. There've been personal appearances . . . write-ups . . . broadcasts with Hope and Crosby . . . telecasts with Sinatra and Dinah Shore . . . and plans for their first train and plane rides — the latter clear to Bermuda.

But sudden fame has its complications. Boys at Huntington Beach High School, where Cynthia is a junior, are a little shy about asking a celebrity for dates. Several of her girl chums had dates for the junior-senior prom before she did.

"I think the boys are a little scared," Cynthia said. "They think somebody else has already asked you to go."

Composing the torchy tune was "an accident, something I do for a hobby," the pretty, blue-eyed honey-blond added. "About two years ago, I happened to pick out this tune on the piano. Later I wrote the words, with the family helping."

Cynthia thought of a line about a couple sailing. Her mother placed the couple on a coral sea. "I think I suggested 'Bermuda,'" said the girls' father. "A couple always goes on a honeymoon to Bermuda."

Neither he nor any of his family has ever been there, however. Gene Strother, husky and 43, is a plant electrician at the North American aircraft factory.

Last Halloween the girls sang "Bermuda" on Peter Potter's local TV show, on which amateur tunesmiths demonstrate their compositions. A publisher on the panel of judges liked it and brought it out.

The girls made a demonstration record, with Cynthia playing the piano by ear; she never has learned to read notes. RCA Victor heard the sample and made the commercial recording with glossy orchestral backing to the girls' peppy voices.

The Cinderella stuff began. The girls appeared on a big Girl Scout program at Los Angeles' whopping Shrine Auditorium with Robert Montgomery and Lucille Ball. For this occasion, a department store gave them their first night in a hotel, putting them up at the swank Ambassador with their parents.

A scheduled appearance on Bing Crosby's broadcast in San Francisco is giving them their first train trip. The plane flight to Bermuda is in connection with an invitation from the Chamber of Commerce to spend Easter vacation there.

Cynthia doesn't think sudden fame has changed their lives. They have the same friends as before. "And the family has been swell about the whole thing."

Kay, who's chubby and brown-eyed, with light brown hair, is in the sixth grade at Seal Beach Elementary School. Her hobbies include her hamster, a recent birthday present, and playing the marimba in the school orchestra. She and two sisters are members of a Girl Scout troop led by their mother.

There are six daughters, all told, and a 7-year-old son. The family lives compactly, with the help of bunk beds, in a two-bedroom house at Seal Beach, 44 miles south of Hollywood.

Strother has no musical background. His wife, Edith, played violin and sang in a choir back in Ashland, Ky., where the family formerly lived. She gave up her music to rear her seven children.

Cynthia had a little piano training in school and practiced on two neighbors' pianos.

"Another neighbor had no use for her piano after her son grew up and married," the father recalled, "so she gave it to us two years ago. I called in five or six neighbors, gave them a bottle of beer apiece, and we rolled it around the sidewalk to our house."

This was the piano on which Cynthia composed "Bermuda." She has a newer piano now, however.

Recordings by the Bell Sisters since "Bermuda" include "Wheel of Fortune," "Poor Whippoorwill," and, with Phil Harris, "Hambone." The girls want to go on making records. Cynthia says they will use the proceeds to go to college and maybe to buy a bigger house.

The fliers, members of the 91st Reconnaissance Wing, were Maj. L. H. Carrington of Austin, Tex.; Maj. A. D. Simmons of Timmonsville, S.C.; Capt. R. L. Strong of San Antonio, Tex.; Capt. Jack Trapp of San Antonio, Tex.; and Capt. C. R. Honaker of Quincy, Ill.

Their flight from Sculthorpe, England, to Lockbourne took less than 10 hours actual flying time.

FLYING PICKEREL.—The U. S. Submarine Pickerel appears to be leaping completely out of the sea as it surfaces at a 48-degree angle off the island of Oahu, Hawaii. The Pickerel is coming up from a depth of 150 feet. This picture was made by a Navy photographer on an accompanying submarine, the Sabalo. The Pickerel was kept under sonar "observation" as it neared the surface, enabling the photographer to have his camera focused on the approximate spot of the surfacing before the Pickerel appeared. Red Interpreters Came Too Late PANMUNJOM, Korea (UP)—Today's truce session ended before two members of the Red team could get into the conference tent.

Two interpreters had jeep troubles. They arrived a couple of minutes late and dashed for the door to the main conference tent.

As they reached the tent, out came Chinese Maj. Gen. Hsieh Fang. The meeting was over. Hsieh glanced at his startled assistants and broke out laughing.

KITTENS IN RELAYS HOUSTON, Tex. — (UP) — Bootie, a cat owned by Mrs. Joella Brown, had her latest set of kittens in relays. The first pair was born at 8 p. m. Two days later, at 2 a. m., a second pair was born.

Two Men Die In Airplane Crash

JAY, Okla. (UP)—Two men were killed when their light plane crashed and burned while attempting a landing on a Grand Lake island yesterday.

The badly-charred bodies were tentatively identified today as Vernon McQuinn, about 30, a Wichita, Kan., used car dealer, and Ermoil Mays. He also was believed to have been a Wichita resident.

The Aerocoupe was owned and piloted by McQuinn, who had taken off with one passenger from Kenmore airport at Wichita yesterday for a fishing trip.

Witnesses said the plane came in low over a fishing shack at the edge of the island, hit a power line and crashed at the edge of a landing strip.

Special Term Of Court For Trial Accused Kluxers

RALEIGH — (AP) — A special term of Superior Court has been set at Whiteville, starting April 28, for the trial of 25 alleged former Ku Klux Klansmen on charges growing out of four flogging incidents.

John M. Strong, administrative assistant to Chief Justice W. A. Devin of the State Supreme Court, said yesterday the term has been ordered and Judge Chester Morris of Currituck will preside.

At Burgaw, Solicitor Clinton L. Moore said the special one-week term will proceed a regular one-week term. He added that it probably will take all of the two weeks to dispose of the 44 indictments against the 25 men. Judge Morris will also preside at the regular term.

Moore said he will make a request at the opening of the term that a jury be summoned from another county to hear the cases.

The 25 men are charged with conspiracy, kidnapping and assault. The charges arose from four violence cases last winter in which the victims were taken from their homes and beaten.

Ten men, including seven of the 25 facing trial at Whiteville, are slated to go on trial in Federal Court at Wilmington on May 12 on charges of kidnapping and conspiracy in a flogging case.

Glamor Award To Joan Crawford

NEW YORK (UP)—Joan Crawford is about to receive a "Helen" to put in her trophy case beside her Oscar.

Unlike the Oscar, the "Helen," modeled after Helen of Troy, is given for physical charms alone. It was mailed to the 42-year-old Hollywood actress by Bernard Guro, president of the American Beauticians' Congress, after the Congress, after the congress picked her as the most glamorous woman of the year.

Do you use your thumb nail as a screw driver? Or your fingernails as miniature crow-bars to pry the lids off things? Many women do both and then complain about how easily their nails split and tear. If you want pretty nails don't use them as tools. Don't clean them with a steel file point. Don't file them way down at the corners. Do clean them with a wisp of absorbent cotton twisted around the tip of an orange stick. Do use an emery board to taper them from above where the nail meets the skin. Do buff the nails frequently. Buffing in one direction only toward the finger tips.

The Sport Reflector

By JIMMY ELLIS

In all the fuss that's being made over the return of Curt Simmons to the Philadelphia Phillies, there's little else being said about the rest of the club. Particularly about rookie hurler Steve Rickard.

Rickard started spring training with the Phillies this year but immediately got thrown in the doghouse when he violated Manager Eddie Sawyer's curfew. Rickard was tossed in as a batting practice pitcher and that's about all the Phillies let him do for a couple of weeks.

Since that time, Rickard has done all right. His most outstanding performance was a no-hitter last Friday against the St. Louis Cardinals. The game was a regulation nine-inning affair, too.

Rickard has evidently worked himself out of the doghouse. Sawyer is now ready to give him one of the jobs reserved for outstanding hurlers—a job as a regular starter.

The news that doctors elected to remove the left eye of Bobby Slaybaugh is an item that saddened all the baseball fans in the Coastal Plain League area. Bobby's eye was taken out, however, only after the most competent physicians had decided there was very little they could do to save it.

The operation closed the career of Slaybaugh as a baseball player. It's highly doubtful that the popular little native of Ohio will ever play any kind of baseball again. But it's a dead clinch that he'll never forget his days in the game. It meant a lot to him.

Still no word from East Carolina about the coaching vacancy which exists due to the resignation of Bill Dole. Dr. John D. Messick says the college is still receiving and considering applications.

Among the latest to apply for the job are Fayetteville's Clyde Biggers (former pro football star who followed Dole and Chuck Clements at Fayetteville) and Art Weiner (the former Carolina All-American).

The Sport Reflector still likes Jack Boone for the job.

East Carolina will play its last North State Conference home game before the Easter holidays tomorrow when High Point College comes to town. Coach Boone is expecting to send righthander Jim Piner against the Panthers.

Piner, who has won two games this year, got his first win of the season over High Point. He's also defeated Atlantic Christian and hasn't pitched since last week.

Gulfport's Quakers were in town this afternoon. Little Spook Heath was to have faced them for the Pirates.

Oak Ridge, Tenn., where the atom plant is located, has a birth rate three times the national average.

Even with perfect brakes an automobile traveling at 30 miles an hour cannot be stopped in less than 100 feet.

Dick Wakfield To Get Trial With Giants

Play Tomorrow

The East Carolina College Pirates will continue their North State Conference title race tomorrow afternoon when they entertain the High Point College Panthers on the college diamond. Righthander Jim Piner is expected to do the hurling for the Bucs.

The Pirates met the Gulfport Quakers this afternoon in another Eastern Division contest. The game was scheduled to have started at 2:45 p.m. with left-hander R. O. O'Neil (Little Spook) Heath doing the throwing for East Carolina.

Before today's game, the Pirates had a record of four wins and only one defeat to place them a half game ahead of Elon's three wins and one loss.

New Career

LAUREL, Md. (AP)—Johnny Gilbert, the little Syrian jockey who cheated death in a spill at Santa Anita 15 months ago, is beginning a new career at 38.

Johnny seldom speaks of his great 22-years-of riding, but he has lots to say about his new profession of conditioning thorough-breds.

Johnny is as anxious to saddle his first winner as a trainer as he was to ride one home when he first mounted a race horse as a 16-year-old kid.

After 22 years around the tracks, he's a beginner all over again, but Johnny is convinced he'll do as well in his new profession as he did as a jockey.

Gilbert has lost most of the feeling in his hands and fingers, and his equilibrium isn't up to par.

Bonus Star Gets Chance To Take Place Of Irvin

BASEBALL BRIEFS

HOUSTON, Tex. (UP)— Dick Wakfield, baseball's famed "bonus baby" who turned into a "problem child," will get a big chance today to replace injured Monte Irvin in the New York Giants outfield.

Manager Leo Durocher, who has been juggling his lineup since slugger Irvin broke an ankle sliding last week, said that the 30-year-old Wakfield would show his stuff during today's exhibition game here against the Cleveland Indians.

"I want to see what Le's got," said Durocher, whose outfield problem will become even greater if Willie Mays is drafted into the Army.

If Wakfield has his old hitting power, he may land a job. That power was enough in 1939 to get him a $55,000 bonus for signing with the Detroit Tigers.

But, after good seasons in 1943 and 1944, he faded and never lived up to his original promise as it was reported he failed to apply himself.

The Indians clinched the spring series against the Giants by winning yesterday's game in San Antonio, 8 to 3.

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (UP)—Rookie southpaw Bill Miller may be the New York Yankees "surprise package" of 1952.

The youngster, who had a 16-10 record at Syracuse last year, has the best record on the Yank mound staff—only two runs and 15 hits allowed in 25 innings.

Yesterday, he gave up only one hit in his seven-inning debut as the Yanks whipped Columbus of the Sally League, 8 to 0.

Today the Yanks meet Charlotte of the Tri-State league.

LYNCHBURG, Va. (UP)— Having gotten into the winning habit against minor league teams, the Philadelphia As are keeping it up against the major leaguers.

Meeting a big-league team yesterday for the first time since March 25, the As walloped the Boston Red Sox, 12 to 6. There were eight homers—by Gus Zernial, Joe Astroth, and Al Clark for the As and by Dom DiMaggio, Vern Stephens, Billy Goodman, Jim Piersall, and Fred Thorneberry for the Sox.

The As and Sox meet here today.

RICHMOND, Va. (UP)— Don Newcombe returns to the Brooklyn Dodgers today—but only for a visit.

The big righthander, in the Army now at nearby Camp Pickett, Va., will visit his old teammates to watch today's game against the Boston Braves.

The Dodgers beat the Braves yesterday, 8-4, at Lynchburg, Va.

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (UP)— The Philadelphia Phillies will try to make it six straight over the St. Louis Cardinals today.

The Phils racked up No. 5 yesterday at Raleigh, N.C., 5 to 4, with a three-run rally in the eighth inning against Dick Bokelmann.

ATLANTA (UP)— Virgil (Fire) Trucks, considered a key figure in the Detroit Tigers' 1952 plans, will hurl today against Atlanta of the Southern Association.

The Tigers beat the Crackers in a night game here last night, 10 to 9 in 10 innings.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (UP)— The Chicago Cubs and St. Louis Browns renew their spring exhibition series here today.

The Cubs won yesterday's meeting 8-6, at Shreveport, La., with a seven-run rally in the fourth inning.

BLUEFIELD, W. Va. (UP)— A fine relief job increased the Washington Senators' interest today in rookie Cuban pitcher, Raul Sanchez.

The 21-year-old righthander entered yesterday's game against the Cincinnati Reds at Roanoke, Va., with an 8-7 lead in the last of the ninth and runners on first and third. He set down the Reds with out another run to nail down the victory.

The Senators and Reds meet here again today.

NEW ORLEANS (UP)—The Chicago White Sox and Pittsburgh Pirates are expected to draw another huge crowd here tonight for their exhibition game.

A throng of 8,000 largest spring baseball crowd in this city since 1939, turned out last night to see the White Sox come from behind to beat the Pirates, 4 to 3.

AAU Boxing

BOSTON (UP)— Pennsylvania's tough-punching leather pushers set the pace today as the roughest National AAU boxing championships in 64 years swing into the second day of a three-day grind for 10 coveted titles.

Of 10 boxers from the Keystone state surviving a trial round that saw 19 knockouts, seven were from that "City of Brotherly Love," Philadelphia.

Among them was Pvt. Jack King who scored a two-round kayo in the light heavyweight division which accounted for seven knockouts in the nine opening trials.

South Carolina had three boxers remaining. There were two each from the Northeast Naval District's service team, Alabama and Texas. Single boxers were representing New Jersey, Indiana and North Carolina.

Curt Simmons Begins Discharge Process

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J. (AP)— Sgt. Curt Simmons starts down the Army's muster-out production line today with his interrupted baseball career waiting at the other end.

The 22-year-old southpaw ace will rejoin the Philadelphia Phillies as soon as he can complete his Army discharge and come to contract terms with Philadelphia owner Bob Carpenter.

Simmons flew back to the U. S. yesterday from Germany, where he had been serving with the 28th Infantry Division.

He stopped off at his home in Egypt, Pa. Last night and gave a cautious appraisal of his playing condition.

"When you're laid off as long as I have," said Simmons a little grimly, "the old control ain't what it used to be."

"I won't really know how long it will take me to get in condition until I actually start to work. It's the legs you have to work on."

The young hurler appeared a little on the heavy side and admitted he tipped the scales at 190. He hastened to add that he "had filled out a lot and can carry 185 to 190 pounds without any trouble at all."

Just how long it will be before Simmons starts training for the coming National League grind wasn't clear. It could take three days to turn him back into a civilian—or he could be pushed through in 24 hours.

Suspended Werle Says Meyer Right

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Bill Werle, Pirate southpaw pitcher under indefinite suspension for breaking training, said today he thought Manager Bill Meyer was "right in cracking down on those who don't toe the line" but expressed hope that he could "iron out" his troubles with the club.

Werle returned to Pittsburgh from Beaumont, Tex. where he was handed the suspension Thursday and fined $500 to prepare his "case for Meyer and (General Manager) Branch Rickey."

"It was my first infraction of the training rules and I feel that I'm being made an example for the youngsters on the team," the soft spoken Werle said.

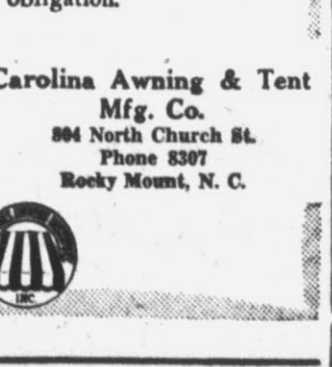

Werle was the first player to

Maryland Is On Top Again In Southern Baseball Race

SOUTHERN CONFERENCE

By The Associated Press

Maryland, a bidder for Southern Conference baseball honors last spring, apparently will be among the top teams again this season. The Terps captured their sixth win in seven games yesterday, a 10-4 decision over rival George Washington. It was the first league triumph for Maryland, which last year finished on top in the conference's North ern Division.

Comlie Hemphill, strong-armed sophomore righthander, tucked his third win under his belt in helping alone for two setbacks the Terps suffered at George Washington's hands last year.

In the Southern Division, Wake Forest continued to show surprising strength, whipping Clemson, 12-5. The Deacons splurged for nine big runs in the sixth inning as they handily chalked up their second loop victory. Catcher Bill Brooks was the big gun for Wake Forest with two singles and a home run. It was the Deacs sixth triumph in seven engagements.

In the only other game involving a conference club, Duke tripped Pennsylvania, 13-4, as outfielder Red Smith clouted two doubles and two singles to pace an 18-hit Blue Devil attack. Smith has a nifty .600 average for the campaign.

In tennis, North Carolina's fine racquet swingers trimmed North Carolina State with the greatest ease, 8-1. Clemson socked South Carolina, 8-1, and Williams edged once-powerful William and Mary, 5-4.

Virginia Tech, long a track power in Virginia, surprised nobody by beating the University of Richmond in a meet at Richmond, 97-34.

In golf, the lone conference clash saw The Citadel thrash Furman, 17½ to ½. In intercollegiate meets Wake Forest nudged Michigan, 16½ to 10½, and North Carolina defeated Virginia, 20½ to 6.

Today's baseball schedule finds Wake Forest and Clemson playing again, and Pennsylvania at Duke for a second setto. North Carolina is at North Carolina State, Ohio University at Davidson and The Citadel at Charleston Marine Barracks.

OTHER SPORTS: Tennis—Westminster at West Virginia, Dayton University at North Carolina.

Golf—Westminster at West Virginia, The Citadel at Clemson, Virginia at Duke.

Track—Princeton at Duke. Lacrosse—Lehigh at Washington and Lee.

Board To Review Case Of Mays

NEW YORK (AP)—The Daily News said today it was learned exclusively that Willie Mays, center-fielder of the New York Giants, may be deferred from the draft on the grounds of being a "hardship case."

The News said it had learned that Mays, last season's "Rookie of the Year," is scheduled for a special hearing tomorrow before the Alabama State Draft Board in Birmingham.

Since Mays is the main support of a family of nine, the News said, the Giants' outfielder may be deferred from service.

Mays is scheduled to be inducted into the armed forces May 16. His loss, plus the injury to Monte Irvin, who suffered a broken ankle last week, is a big blow to New York's pennant hopes.

Bridge Contractor And 2 Inspectors Indicted

JACKSON, N. C. — (AP) — A bridge contractor and two inspectors are under manslaughter indictments today growing out of the death of a Virginia truck driver last May 16.

Ernest C. Connor, 26, of Norfolk, was killed when three sections of a temporary bridge spanning the Roanoke River near Scotland Neck collapsed. The trailer truck, loaded with oranges, plunged into the river 40 feet below.

A Northampton County grand jury yesterday returned indictments against Harvey H. Stewart of Charlotte, head of the H. H. Stewart Co., which had contracted to build the bridge; W. S. Murph, an inspector-engineer for Stewart; and J. M. Clagon, inspector for the State Highway Department.

Judge Henry L. Stevens ordered that capias be issued for the three men and their bond set at $1,000 each. He also set the case for trial at the next term of Northampton Superior Court beginning Aug. 5.

Solicitor Ernest R. Taylor, who drew up the indictments, said that "after a thorough investigation of this matter there was no other course to pursue."

Profits Invested In Diamonds

SINGAPORE — (AP) — A large proportion of Malaya's rubber boom profits have been invested in South African, Dutch and Belgian diamonds.

Singapore diamond merchants said purchasers spent millions of dollars during 1950 and 1951 on imported diamonds. The Chinese mostly bought the high grade varieties. Malay found the inferior grades acceptable.

'Curse You Jack Dalton' Lives Again On Modern Mississippi Showboat

VICKSBURG, Miss. — (UP) — Richard Murgatroyd, suave dandy from the "evil city," tweeks his mustache and smirks:

"Heh! Heh! Heh! I've got the mortgage. Pay me by midnight or I'll throw you out in the snow."

The audience hisses and pelts him with a shower of peanut hulls.

Nellie Stanley, a pure innocent farmer's daughter, shrinks away, screaming:

"You are a snake in the grass, Richard Murgatroyd. I'll never go with you. Lips that touch wine shall never touch mine."

The audience breaks into applause. A voice shouts, "Don't go, Nellie," and another warns, "Be Firm, Nellie."

The door bursts open and in stalks John Dalton, "A son of the soil beneath whose flannel shirt beats a heart of gold," who throtties Murgatroyd and declares:

"This is a blow in defense of defenseless womanhood. Here is your $4,000, Richard Murgatroyd. Go!"

It is a page of yesteryear read today.

The scene is here, the time is now and the setting is Deck 2 of the steamer Sprague, the world's largest sternwheeler, tied up at the Clay Street Docks.

The callopie bleats "Dixie." A top-hatted barker entices the river bottom gentry across the gangplank with his, "Come one, come all" spiel. The patrons stamp their feet, crack peanuts and chomp apples.

"Madam Pizzicato" tikeles a trill from the discordant piano. Singing waiters intone "Sweet Mamie." The oilcloth curtain rises. The show is on—a melodrama entitled "Gold in the Hills" or "The Dead Sisters' Secret."

Showboat Time Again

All of which means: It's showboat time in the Mississippi River again.

Each spring since 1936, the Vicksburg Little Theater has revived the showboat tradition. With a cast drawn straight from the "Naughty Nineties," the group changes its name to "The Dixie Showboat Players" and boards the Sprague for standing-room-only audiences drawn from many states.

The Sprague, now permanently moored in the Mississippi Canal here and maintained as a museum, long has ben the city's pride and joy. It was famous as the world's largest sternwheeler and now is even better known as the ship pictured in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's film, "Show Boat."

So far as is known the attraction which keeps a alive the traditions of the famous "Floating Palaces" which plied the Mississippi years ago is the only theatrical presentation now being made aboard a genuine showboat.

Audiences like it because they can do as they please. Lovers of history and yearners for the "good ole days" love it because it is an authentic reproduction of the halcyon days of the Old South.

Vicksburg, "Dixie's Showplace," mothers it because of the publicity and tourist dollars it brings the city.

backing. Both have fully-staffed headquarters in the Six Waller Hotel at Raleigh, with active field workers throughout the state. Rumors are current that big manufacturers are backing Umstead, powerful labor unions backing Olive. Efforts to trace campaign funds to original source have not been successful, but there is no evidence that the line can be distinctly drawn. Both candidates are getting help from big and little folks in all spheres of economic activity.

METHODS — There is marked difference in the methods used by the two opposing camps. Apparently the Olive folks are relying mainly upon direct mail contact from the Raleigh headquarters. Umstead folks largely upon organization at county level. The Olive people have a dozen or more different pieces of printed matter—leaflets, folders and original cartoons—and they have analyzed mail lists so that different letters go to special lists in every community. Umstead headquarters has three or four standard enclosures for all letters. Olive has announced local managers in only two counties, but his headquarters claim a dozen or so other counties organized. Umstead has announced managers of steering committees in 40 counties and say local organizations are virtually complete in 20 more to be announced. Further difference is found

Broom-Doormat Sellers Greeted By Willing Buyers

GREENVILLE Lions found many willing buyers last night when they canvassed half Greenville's residential district selling brooms and doormats.

Chairman Larry Averette reported this morning that members of the Lions club sold half the brooms and over half the doormats secured by the club to sell on behalf of the blind people of North Carolina.

"We had a wonderful time," Averette commented. The response was good, and the people were ready to buy to help the blind work. The broom and doormat sale has certainly been a success so far.

The chairman expressed the opinion that members of the club would have little trouble tonight selling the remainder of the 1,000 brooms and 300 doormats which the local Lions have undertaken to sell. Approximately 55 members of the club joined in the house-to-house selling last night, and approximately the same number is expected to be on hand tonight at 7 o'clock when the second half of the canvass begins.

"The brooms and doormats were purchased by the club from the plant at Guilford where blind people make the articles. The proceeds from the sale will go to work with the blind being done throughout the state."

War Dogs Will Die When Their Value Has Waned

WITH 2ND DIVISION, Korea (UP)—Six scout dogs have saved at least three Allied patrols from ambush will be destroyed when they are no longer useful. Instead of being sent back to the United States, their handlers said today.

Cpl. James G. Heffron of Oklahoma City said the dogs have been guiding patrols for two months and will probably stand up under the strain for about 18 months.

"Then the army intends to destroy them," Heffron said. I guess they do not have any way of getting the dogs back home.

"I'd like to take my dog home with me and keep him as a pet," he said. "But I guess there is no way I can swing it."

Heffron heads a six-man team of handlers who lead U.N. patrols across no man's land. The dogs are trained to catch the scent of human beings.

The six handlers will be due for rotation back to the U.S. next fall.

A new team of handlers will arrive in time to spend three months getting to know the dogs before their present masters depart.

"I know of three occasions," Cpl. Jack North of Seattle said, "that the dogs have warned a patrol that the Chinese were waiting in ambush out ahead."

"They are just as gentle as they were before we started to train them," said Cpl. Kenneth C. Strawder, of Wallace, Neb.

"I would not be worried at all about taking my dog downtown in my home town," said Cpl. Hazen D. Stipe of Mount Pleasant, Iowa.

The men who go out on patrol at first did not like the idea of taking along a dog.

"But after the dogs spotted Chinese soldiers in an ambush, all the men want to have a dog along. The dogs just seem to give the soldiers confidence. They are much more at ease, I think, and that improves their efficiency."

'Put Up Or Shut' Demand From Congress On Charges

WASHINGTON (AP)—Newbold Morris' charge that James P. McGranery, attorney general designate, "is a real whitewasher" drew swift demands in Congress today that he tell under oath the basis for his words.

McGranery's hotly disputed nomination is before the Senate Judiciary Committee, which has scheduled a full hearing in about two weeks.

Committee members said this would provide Morris an opportunity to support the "whitewasher" accusation if he can. Morris' statement was made in an interview yesterday in New York, where he returned after being fired as the Administration's corruption investigator.

"I'd be very much interested to know what he has to back this up," said Chairman McCarran (D-Nev.). "I don't think, personally, that he always knows what he's talking about."

Sen. Kilgore of West Virginia, the ranking Democratic member under McCarran, told a reporter:

"If a man is willing to make such grave charges in the public press, he ought to be willing to say them before a responsible body which can submit his statements to a check. I imagine in all probability we will want his testimony, whether he volunteers it or not."

Sen. Watkins (R-Utah), also on the committee, said Morris "must be subpoenaed to tell what he knows about this."

Solicitor General Philip B. Perlman was named to act as attorney general until the job is filled.

Meanwhile, objection grew to McGranery's proposal that the FBI take over Morris' government cleanup job.

Sen. Watkins told a reporter that FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover "ought to refuse" to accept the task.

Grifton Book Club

The Grifton Book Club met for their April meeting on Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Alton Chapman. Mrs. H. P. Quinley presided at the business meeting at which discussion and plans were made to participate in a "Home Beautification" contest. Mrs. W. I. Bissette, Mrs. Thurman J. Williams and Mrs. Glend Tucker were appointed as a committee to further these plans if and when the project was a certainty.

Mrs. Chapman presented in an interesting and informative manner a talk on "Black Mountain College." This school is unique in many ways, said Mrs. Chapman, in that the student and teacher are on the same footing and that there is a freedom of speech and action as well here.

During the social hour iced tea, sandwiches and nutty fingers were served. Present for the meeting were Mesdames Quinley, Bissette, Williams, Tucker, Robert Mewborn, Tom Gower, Jack Tucker, Cecil Cobb.

Supper Hostess

On Tuesday night Mrs. Jake Worthington entertained at a delightful spaghetti supper at her home on Westwood Drive. Guests were invited for 7 o'clock and as they arrived were shown places at the card tables in the living room where spring flowers were used along with table appointments to denote the Easter motif.

Olive, Umstead In Controversy Over Supporters

RALEIGH (AP)—A statement issued Sunday by gubernatorial candidate Hubert E. Olive has touched off a heated controversy between Olive and his chief opponent, William B. Umstead.

Olive charged that the State Utilities Commission is dominated by Umstead supporters and is all set to grant a big rate increase to Duke Power Co., a client of Umstead's Durham law firm.

In a sharp reply yesterday, Umstead labeled the charges "unfair insinuations." He also called Olive's statement "a cry of desperation."

Umstead declared that he has never appeared before the Utilities Commission "for Duke Power Co. or any other power company in a rate case."

In his statement, Olive also predicted that the commission will grant a 2 1/2 million dollar a year rate hike to Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Co. This drew a statement from Commission Chairman Stanley Winborne, who termed Olive's prediction "a guesswork." He also said it was "ridiculous" to suggest the fact that some members of the commission favored Umstead would affect the decision in the Duke rate case.

In a counter-statement, Olive said he will leave it to the commission "to prove whether my prediction of substantial rate increases for Duke Power Co., and the Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Co. is guesswork."

Duke Power has asked for a rate boost of two million dollars a year. Olive predicted it will get "just about what it is asking." He named Winborne, Fred C. Hunter and Edward McMahan as the commissioners supporting Umstead. The other commission members are Harry Westcott and Joshua James.

In his statement, Umstead said: "I think it is going rather far afield for anyone to infer that any decision which may be made by the Utilities Commission whatever the decision may be should have any connection whatever with my candidacy for governor."

"I know nothing whatever with reference to the facts in the rate cases referred to," Umstead added, "and neither I nor my firm have had anything to do with them. The firm of which I am a member has represented Duke Power

Co. in Durham County for a number of years and represented it before legislative committees in 1949. That representation had nothing to do with rates."

Women's Fellowship

Group No. 4 of the Farmville Women's Fellowship met Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. R. L. Corbett.

Mrs. Howard Moye gave the devotional, using as her subject "Christians at Antioch." Mrs. Moye compared the Christians of today with the ones at Antioch by saying, "We have seen that the early disciples in Antioch lived so meaningfully that outsiders were moved to call them Christians. Today we sometimes reverse the process; we label ourselves and our institutions Christian, but outsiders notice nothing distinctive about our living. Do you think we have overused the name? What would happen if we waited for others to label us and our work?"

Mrs. C. A. Lilley had charge of the "Hidden Answers."

Mrs. C. L. Ivey Sr. presided. Assisted by Mrs. C. A. Lilley the hostess served stuffed angel food cake, salted nuts, cornets and coffee to seven members and one visitor.

The 38-year-old war veteran had been paralyzed by a German bullet that struck his spine during World War II.

Everyone pitched in three years ago—unions, business firms, veterans and civic groups—to provide a fine six-room house for Duchinsky and his parents.

It was a happy ceremony when the gift home was presented.

A different ceremony was in the making today. Duchinsky, after weeks of treatment in a veterans hospital, was dead.

Ahead—the Nicest Miles in the World!

Well, the day has come! You have your beautiful Golden Anniversary Cadillac—and are off on that cross-country journey you've so eagerly awaited.

You're full of hope and anticipation—but almost afraid it's too good to be true. Can any car perform and handle the way people say this one does?

You come to the end of the street that opens into the crosstown thoroughfare—and the big, easy-acting brakes settle you down to the softest, smoothest stop you ever experienced in all your life.

You touch the throttle, and the great engine starts you out like the flight of an arrow—smoothly and swiftly and quietly.

Almost before you know it, a light turns red—and, once again, that easy, velvety stop. And then the green—and again that swift, eager move into action.

Stop and go—red and green . . . and pretty soon it dawns upon you that you never dreamed of driving a car that handled and performed like this.

Wonderful in city traffic—no doubt about it!

And then the cars thin out about you—the traffic lights stretch farther and farther apart—and you find yourself on the open road.

Instinctively, your foot goes down on the throttle; but, quickly, it eases up again. For you find yourself really rolling in a couple of hundred feet! So you do a little experimenting until you find the spot where the accelerator belongs for sane and sensible driving—and then you settle back and relax.

You scarcely seem to be moving at all. You handle the wheel with the weight of your hand. You're comfortable—resting—at peace with the highway! The sun rises higher and the road beckons on.

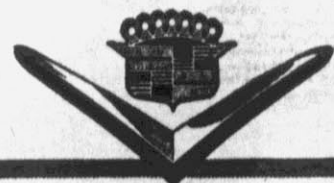

"Where did we plan on stopping tonight?"

"Better take a look at the map and see what's on down the line. We're going to get a lot farther than I ever dreamed we could!"

Yes, it's true what they say about Cadillac.

Better come in and see it—and drive it—while you're in the mood!

Chapter 6

Having loaded the dead man on to his horse and tied him across the saddle, Steve fastened the reins to the saddle horn and gave the jittery cayuse its head. As he had anticipated, it started off at a brisk trot, heading back for town.

This return of the hiring would leave Matt with an uneasy feeling—unsure to match, perhaps, the washed-out sensation that was in Steve now. Somehow he hadn't expected quite that sort of thing from Matt Tarson.

Let others speculate as they pleased about the dead man when he rode in for the last time. Matt Tarson would know, and the certainty that Steve Russell knew would send a cold chill through him.

Burt McKee had been busy most of the day on the head of the buck. He had the job pretty well along when Steve came in.

"You're sure a good hand at mounting a head," Steven complimented. "But we'll all have to get to work pretty quick. Fall round-up. It'll be a big job this year."

"Suits me," Buck grinned. "I was born in the saddle, as you might say."

The round-up would be of great importance than usual to the Diamond R. Since returning, it had been impossible to get a good check on the cattle. They had strayed more widely than usual, and the all-important question which the round-up would answer was, had they merely strayed—or would even that fail to find them again?

Steve's growing suspicion was that the tally was going to be terribly short. It looked as if rustlers had been busier than usual, and that on top of all the other things which had gone wrong when Link Russell was hurt.

The next afternoon he gave in to his desire to see Melody and rode across to the Cross Buck. She greeted him smilingly, agreed readily to go for a ride, and disappeared up the broad stairs to change for the saddle.

Melody reappeared, dressed in a smart riding habit.

She saw the approval in his eyes, and smiled. "I love to ride."

She demonstrated the truth of that in the next few hours. They rode much farther than Steve had expected to, forgetful of time or distance. Abruptly he became aware of their whereabouts, looking around. His face sobered then relaxes in a grin.

"Know where we are, Melody?" he asked.

"Why—no, I don't, exactly," she confessed. "Why?"

"Nothing much—or maybe quite a bit." He eyed her quizzically. "We've headed off south till it's only a couple of miles on to Alderington. Quite a town. The County Seat, in fact."

"I've been there," she confessed. "But I don't quite understand what you mean."

"They have several things here that we lack at Rising Wolf," he explained. "Being the County Seat they have a court house—and a judge. Here they have a regular church and a full-time preacher."

"That's all ver interesting, but I still don't quite see—"

"What I'm trying to say, Melody, is that I love you. I guess I've loved you from the minute I saw you get off the stage this summer. I want to marry you—right now!"

She looked at him, sudden color flooding her cheeks.

"I think I'll have to say—yes and no," she said. "Yes that I love you too, Steve. And if you want to have the wedding soon, I've no objection. For I think I have been in love with you too—from the day I got off the stage."

"I was crazy to go so fast," he said contentedly. "A girl like you, naturally you'd want a regular wedding. I just didn't stop to think about that."

"That's so—in a way," she nodded. "But it isn't just me, Steve. It's you, too. You've got great possibilities. You're going to be a big man. You are a big man in this country now. It's just as important for you as for me that we do things accordingly. An engagement now would be a lot of fun—but a wedding in the church at Rising Wolf will be much more fitting."

"I guess you're right," he agreed, relieved that she did not suggest it should be at her own home in the East. "Only I hope it can be soon. Round-up will begin soon, and it'll take quite a while. I'd hate to have to wait till that was over."

"You're very impetuous," Melody murmured. "But I like you that way. I like you a week too long, Steve? I've got to get a dress and a few other things together, and people have to have a little time—"

"A week will be fine, and I think you're wonderful," he assured her, and knew a moment of contrition. "But maybe that's rushin' you too fast, again. Your folks won't have a chance to get out here, that way—"

"No," she agreed. "They won't. And I expect Mamma will be disappointed. But I'm thinking of you, Steve—and me. If we waited, Mamma would want it at home, and she'd insist on doing all the planning—she has a way of managing. I don't want that, or to wait too long. There would be a lot of other things come up if we waited. This will suit me fine."

The news was received with varying emotions at the Diamond R, but on the whole with more calmness than Steve had anticipated.

Indian Joe did not seem surprised.

"Luck is a funny thing," he said cryptically. "Specially some kinds of luck."

Only one man on the Diamond R asked an embarrassing question, with such calmness under the blanket-in the wheel chair that it might almost have been a dead man there, save for the brightness of his eyes.

"You know your own business, Steve," he said. "And likely she's all you say. But—what about Nancy?"

Steve colored.

"I feel like a heel," he admitted. "But I never loved her, Uncle Link. She was just sort of a habit."

But I owe her something, he thought. I'll write a note and send it in by Linny, this evening. It's the least I can do.

"Yeah," Link agreed. "Well, it'll be good, havin' a woman around th place again. Been a good many years now. Take some hustlin' to get things fixed up for her, that soon."

CARLYLE, Ill. — (AP) — Local citizens won't have to pay for parking in order to vote.

For 52 elections parking meters for the first time encircle Clinton county's courthouse which for years had housed Jarley's polls. The county fathers had fought metered parking around the courthouse but lost.

They struck back by removing park freely at polls in residential areas.

Lost Dogs Home After 'Holiday'

LONG BEACH, Calif. — (AP) — Jim Harris bought a cocker spaniel named Patsy recently for his daughter, Charlene.

Patsy waited until the family fell in love with her and then disappeared.

Harris then purchased Toy, a collie, to help mend his daughter's broken heart. Toy also disappeared, but he came back—with Patsy tagging along.

Dutch Royalty To Visit UN Today

NEW YORK (AP)—Queen Juliana and Prince Bernhard of The Netherlands visit the United Nations today during a busy tour of the big city of Dutch origin. The couple, who arrived here yesterday, had an all-day schedule for the second day of their three-day New York visit. First, they were to go to the St. Mark's-in-the-Bouwerie Church to decorate a statue of Peter Stuyvesant, who governed the city in the 17th century when it was Nieuw Amsterdam. The church and the nearby New York street, The Bowery, take their name from Stuyvesant's farm. Afterwards, the royal party is to proceed to the new U. N. skyscraper headquarters on Manhattan's East Side. They were to complete the U. N. visit by noon EST. In the afternoon, the queen will receive an honorary degree at Columbia University. Before acting as dinner hostess to U. N. Security Council members, Queen Juliana will make a trip to the one-time Dutch area of "Breukelen," now Brooklyn.

Even Princes Noisy In Church

WINDSOR, England (UP)—Prince Charles went to church here Sunday for the first time and like many children his age he had trouble keeping quiet. It was disclosed today. The three-year-old son of Queen Elizabeth II talked during the service at the royal lodge chapel, and members of the royal family couldn't quiet him. At times his voice rose above the prayers. Finally he was taken outside by his grandmother, Queen Mother Elizabeth. Nearly 40 million pounds of snuff are consumed in the United States each year.

Waldrop Stresses Nation's Need For 'Men Of Courage'

J. Herbert Waldrop, speaking before the Greenville Rotary club last night, asserted men of courage in government are needed to cut unnecessary spending and graft and to see that the taxpayers get their money's worth for taxes.

comptroller of the Guaranty Bank and Trust company, addressed the club on federal government spending and the federal government budget. "It is too bad that future generations can not be here now to see what we are doing with the money they are going to have to pay back one way or another," Waldrop said. "It seems that nothing defies the law of gravity more than taxes. They are always going up and never coming down."

DRING — KIDNERS

The speaker pointed out that the federal budget for the coming fiscal year is expected to be approximately $80 billion, with the federal revenue $67 billion, and the deficit for the year $13 billion. "Now while we are thinking in terms of billions, let's think just a little bit about one neasily billion dollars," Waldrop said. "How much is that? Let's look at it this way — If Christ had been given a billion dollars when he was born and told to spend $1,000 per day and was still living and spending at that rate, he would have 800 years yet to go before it was all spent."

"With one billion dollars you could practically buy the entire amusement industry. You'd get all the common stock of 21 major companies listed on the New York Stock Exchange and over a dozen more."

Waldrop asserted that the national debt of $280 billion represents nearly $2,000 for every man, woman and child in the United States. The proposed $80 billion budget, he said, represents a budget of $500 for every person in the nation and a deficit of $100 for every person.

Speaking of hidden taxes, Waldrop said the average American does not realize the extent to which these buried taxes are cutting into his earnings. The American consumer is paying a large part of the tax load, he stated. "The average American is turning over 32 per cent of every dollar earned to one tax payer or another. The burden of hidden taxes can grow with startling speed without being generally noticed as much as the income tax. When a man walks into a show room and buys a new car for $2,000, $624 or 31 per cent has already stuck to the fingers of
