C-of-C Directors Adopt Activities

Widely Varied Projects For Year Included In Program Committee's Recommendations Are Approved By Board In Meeting Last Night

The Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors last night adopted recommendations of the Program Committee which will set up activities of the Chamber for the year.

The recommendations were adopted at a lengthy session of the board last night in the Chamber's offices at Five Points.

Broken down according to committees, the projects for the year are:

Agricultural projects — Co-sponsor a 4-H and FFA Pure Bred Swine Show and barbeque dinner for participants; cooperate in promotion of the Pitt County Fair as an agricultural event, with committee members assisting; continue efforts to get construction of a government approved grain drying and storage plant; cooperate with 4-H and FFA officials in sponsoring a Fat Stock Show and Sale April 17; develop a program in cooperation with county agricultural agents and the Pitt Artificial Insemination Association, to promote the organization's program; and sponsor 4-H club awards for certain projects not covered in National Production Awards.

Civic and Public Affairs projects — Continue efforts to get city to provide a well equipped fire station in West Greenville; encourage and actively support an expanded program of recreation; again offer cooperation to City School System on projects that will enable it to maintain educational standards desired in the community; continue to urge County Commissioners to re-value property in city and county, to eliminate inequities; co-sponsor fire prevention program; urge City to establish and maintain Public Rest Rooms; urge City to establish zoning regulations in area one mile beyond the city limits to promote orderly future growth; urge City to do all possible to develop traffic control that will facilitate its flow and stop speeding.

Commerce and Trade projects — Initiate and cooperate in projects designed to increase the City's Wholesale and Retail trading volume and its trading area; secure all Conventions, for which accommodations are available; and sponsor and cooperate in projects further promoting Greenville as a Tobacco Marketing, Banking, and Trading Center.

Industrial Projects — Publish and distribute briefs showing advantage of Greenville for manufacturing and distributive enterprises; continue to render to existing industries such services as are within the scope of the Chamber's activities, which will assist in expansions and satisfactory operations; cooperate with Greenville Industries, Incorporated, when needed, to put it in position to provide assistance to sound industrial and business firms desiring to locate in Greenville; and compile a list and descriptions of available industrial sites.

Legislation and National Affairs projects — Study, analyze, and inform the membership and the public on local, state and national legislation, and recommend to the Board of Directors such action as is to the best interests of the citizenship; and encourage the citizenship to take a more active interest in City, County, State and National affairs.

Program and Public Relations projects — Through the use of all available media, continue to conduct a campaign to promote goodwill for the city and its citizens; co-sponsor with Farmer's Day, Incorporated, and other organizations a Farmer's Day program in 1952; publish and distribute new illustrated folders on Greenville; provide permanent personnel of the duPont Company with information about Greenville which will encourage them to make their home here; sponsor a Newcomers Party in the winter of 1952-53, to help newcomers become better acquainted and make them feel at home; and participate with public-spirited firms in an advertising program.

Fat Stock Show And Sale Plans In Final Stage; Sponsors Named

Under the direction of the Pitt County Vocational Agricultural Teachers Association, final plans for the Fat Stock Show and Sale here Thursday are being worked out.

The showing of steers will begin at 9 o'clock Thursday morning in the Farmer's Warehouse and the sale will begin at 1:30 p.m. A banquet for exhibitors, their fathers, and guests will be held at Respass Brothers Barbeque at 7:30.

The steers which will be for sale have been raised by 4-H club boys and Future Farmers of America members under the supervision of vocational agriculture teachers in the county.

Sixty-five steers will be for show and sale this year at the Second Annual Fat Stock Show and Sale. Boys last year had 22 steers on

Eisenhower And Taft Again Face Popularity Test

Estimated Million New Jersey Voters Going To Polls Today For Primary

By NORMAN A. CAFARELLI
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEWARK, N.J. (UP)—Sen. Robert A. Taft and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower put their political fortunes on the line today when an expected 1,000,000 New Jersey voters pick their presidential choice.

A forecast of warm but cloudy weather from the opening of polls at 7 a.m. EST until the 8 p.m. closing promised to bring out the heaviest primary vote in the state's history.

The ballot was complicated with 21 candidates seeking 38 Republican and 36 Democratic seats at the parties' national nominating conventions, a U.S. senatorial contest and 14 congressional races.

Automatic tabulating machines were expected to speed the counting in eight of 21 counties but slower tallying in rural areas might cause the final outcome to be delayed until late tomorrow.

Republican and Democratic delegates technically were unopposed, but the winner in the popular voting was expected to receive the major share of the convention ballots.

Eisenhower, facing his first popularity test since resigning as head of European defense forces, had the support of Gov. Alfred E. Driscoll and his state organization. Taft supporters, accusing Driscoll of "breaking his word" by endorsing Eisenhower instead of remaining neutral, waged a furious all-out drive for votes and said they would claim a moral victory if the Ohio senator polled 20 to 25 per cent of the total.

Driscoll counter-charged that Taft's unsuccessful attempt to have his name removed from the ballot and his refusal to conduct a planned campaign were a "confession of weakness."

Eisenhower, fighting to offset Taft's sweeping victories in recent Midwest primaries, predicted a clear-cut victory for the general. Both sides were aware their chances for national survival could stand or fall on the outcome of the voting in New Jersey, a key point in the Eastern section of the country which must be carried by the candidate winning the presidency in November.

The East never has been considered strong Taft territory, as indicated by his sound defeat in the March 11 New Hampshire primary, so a strong vote for "Mr. Republican" would slow down the Eisenhower movement considerably.

Results of the popularity vote will have much to do with how the 26 district and 10 at-large delegates vote at the national Republican convention.

The state GOP organization, though leaning heavily toward Eisenhower, entered a 11 slate of unpledged delegates. A few avowed Taft men assured Driscoll they would abide by the people's choice if the winning candidate captures a clear-cut majority.

A light or close vote, however, would leave Taft supporters "off the hook" to vote for their man.

Two Dictators Confer Today

LISBON, Portugal (AP)—The Iberian Peninsula's two dictators conferred today just over the frontier in Spain for the first time since September, 1950.

Spain's Generalissimo Franco and Portuguese Premier Antonio de Oliveira Salazar met last night and again today at the Spanish town of Ciudad Rodrigo. They last got together at Franco's summer home in Galicia.

The showing of steers will begin at 9 o'clock Thursday morning in the Farmer's Warehouse and the sale will begin at 1:30 p.m. A banquet for exhibitors, their fathers, and guests will be held at Respass Brothers Barbeque at 7:30.

The steers which will be for sale have been raised by 4-H club boys and Future Farmers of America members under the supervision of vocational agriculture teachers in the county.

Sixty-five steers will be for show and sale this year at the Second Annual Fat Stock Show and Sale. Boys last year had 22 steers on

Reporters Beginning To Complain At Barriers In Government Branches

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—Newsmen are beginning to complain of extraordinary barriers being erected against them by some government officials, notably in the defense mobilization area.

One nearly frustrated reporter said the contrast with conditions a year ago is an unhappy one. Reporters then could get to top mobilization officials quickly and easily. They generally are unavailable now unless they want to get in print something favorable to their agency or their own slant on a situation.

There is a standard operating procedure now in the office of presidential aide John R. Steelman, who succeeded Charles E. Wilson as defense mobilizer. Reporters with questions must submit them to Steelman's public relations officer. This official passes them on to his boss.

Reporters are at a disadvantage in pressing for an answer, they are unable to pursue further angles which the answer might develop, or to clarify it in any way, unless they again go through the written question process.

Economic Stabilization Administrator Roger L. Putnam literally has been refusing recently to discuss with newsmen anything except the weather. Washington's spring is lovely but not always news.

Price Controller Ellis Arnall is an exception but no more news nuggets. Arnall succeeded Mike DiSalle early this year. He meets newsmen regularly but wants everything off the record.

Reporters on the mobilization run were most surprised by the physical barricades Steelman set up to close off and are in the Executive Office Building across the street from the White House when industry and union representatives met after Mr. Truman seized the steel plants.

The meeting was guarded like a huddle on atomic weapons. A photographer let go with a flash bulb well outside the screened area. He was taken into custody, briefly, by one of 12 police guards.

The defense mobilization crackdown on news gathering comes as the American Society of Newspaper Editors gathers here in annual meeting. The editors' society challenged President Truman last year to justify the national defense security regulations which he issued to cover all government operations and which the editors called censorship.

Mr. Truman denied any censorship was involved. The editors were and are unconvinced. Mobilization officials do not cite Mr. Truman's regulations as their authority for slowing the news flow. Whether they were influenced consciously or otherwise by the regulations is not evident.

But that their doors are usually closed to reporters is a fact about which protests from the men and women on the scene are more likely than not to increase.

Giant Bomber Wrecks; Fifteen Airmen Killed

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP)—A B-36 bomber crashed on takeoff from Fairchild Air Force Base early today, killing 15 of the 17 aboard.

Two other crewmen suffered serious burns.

The giant, 10-engined bomber crashed in a farmer's field half a mile northwest of the base, and burst into flames.

The plane was attached to the 32nd Bomb Squadron. The plane fell on the farm of Ernest Alf who told a reporter: "We were awakened by this awful crash and as we got out of bed all we could see was a big fire. It made an awful explosion. It looked like it was only a block away from the house but it was a half mile."

"I could tell from the shape it was a B-36 but it was all burning."

A few minutes after the crash Alf said the bomber "is all flat now."

The April criminal term will begin Monday, April 21, with Judge John J. Burney of Wilmington on the bench.

Bolivia's New Regime To Greet Long Exiled Leader

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP)—Bolivia's new government promised today to forgive the enemies it beat in a bloody revolt—but briskly weeded the old regime's agents out of top government offices.

The National Revolutionary Party (MNR), which won the revolt, prepared welcoming demonstrations for its leader, Victor Paz Estenssoro returning after six years' exile in Buenos Aires.

A Bolivian military plane was scheduled to bring him here in mid-afternoon.

Paz Estenssoro was expected to be proclaimed president. He nearly won the office last May, when he polled the largest vote of six candidates but failed to win a majority. Before Congress could choose among the three high men, a military junta headed by Gen. Hugo Ballivan

End Of The Line At Last

It's a happy occasion in New York for the Zyka family, whose arrival completes the government-sponsored displaced persons immigration program. Last of the 339,000 persons brought to the U. S. They will settle in Chicago.

TV Application Must Be Re-Written, Filed

Forms Changed By FCC, But Action Expected In Early July; Campbell Says All Preparatory Steps Are Taken

Hartwell Campbell, manager of radio station WGTC, said this morning the station is ready to amend its application on the new prescribed application forms for TV Channel Nine as soon as they are furnished by the Federal Communications Commission.

Campbell said the applications for channels had been changed by the FCC, and WGTC's application for Channel Nine would be ready for submission as soon as they are called for.

The FCC will be ready to consider the applications July 1 and a two-week period after that date will be required before the final permits are approved and issued.

Campbell stated that WGTC has land under option for a tower and transmitter at Frog Level and orders have been placed for a supporting tower, transmitters, and studio equipment. Delivery on the necessary equipment has been promised by the time the station is in the position to use it.

"Plans for the TV station here have been progressing satisfactorily," the manager said, "and construction will begin immediately after our application for Channel Nine has been approved."

"As far as we know, no other parties are planning to apply for Channel Nine in Greenville."

In a press release yesterday, it was stated that television would not appear overnight because it would take time for stations to obtain grants to applications and construction of stations would take time.

However, the FCC said it intended to give first attention to grants in areas that have never had any TV service.

The FCC's three and one-half year "freeze" on new TV stations was lifted yesterday.

Two Ayden Men File For Election

The proximity of the Saturday, April 19, deadline for candidates to register for office in Pitt County brought two more political aspirants to the list yesterday.

Elections Board Chairman J. Henry Harrell reported this morning that two men from Ayden have filed with his office—one for justice of the peace and one for township constable.

C. G. Moore, an incumbent filed for justice of the peace in Ayden, and another incumbent, Horace M. Lawhorn, filed for the office of Ayden constable. Both have had several consecutive terms in office.

Also, both are uncontested for their offices at present, he added.

S. C. Demos To Pick Delegates

COLUMBIA, S. C. (AP)—About 500 South Carolina Democrats will meet here tomorrow to name 16 national convention delegates.

The state convention is expected to follow the advice of Gov. James F. Byrnes, who has urged that delegates be instructed for Sen. Richard B. Russell of Georgia as the presidential nominee. Byrnes is expected to be the keynote speaker tomorrow.

Jurors were sworn shortly after 10 o'clock and by 10:30 one divorce had been granted. L. P. McGee of Griffin received a divorce from Ruby Lee McGee on the grounds of two years' separation.

The civil term is slated to last through Friday, with six other divorces to be heard in addition to scheduled civil cases. Judge Burgwyn is a special judge and is holding court for the first time in Pitt County.

'Inland Sea' Forms As Flood Spreads

Dike-Encircled Towns Of Missouri Valley Become Islands As Relentless Waters Swirl Southward

SIoux CITY, Ia. (UP)—Dike-encircled towns of the Missouri Valley were made into islands in an inland sea today by the relentless advance of the record Missouri River flood crest.

The Mississippi River, meanwhile, swept into St. Paul and Winona, Minn., to begin a devastating march to the south which the Red Cross said would bring record crests as far as Hannibal, Mo.

In the eight flood-soaked states of the Midwest, a total of more than 65,000 persons were homeless. The Red Cross said 74,000 persons were "affected."

For the most part, normal life was suspended as the vast area bent every effort to keep the rivers in check.

The deepening crest of the Missouri swept southward down the Iowa-Nebraska border. It was due to crest today at well over 25 feet opposite the Iowa towns of Sloan, Whiting and Onawa, from 25 to 40 miles south of Sioux City.

Each of the cities to the south was ringed by a dike of earth and sand, thrown up as a bulwark against the "Big Muddy" as it spread wider and wider across the valley lowlands.

At 8 p.m. CST last night, Whiting was the scene of furious activity as the 100 remaining men in town worked with shovels and bulldozers on the five-foot dike around the town.

All women and children had long before been evacuated.

At 10 p.m., a fire siren wailed across the valley, signaling to the countryside that the river had reached the dike and was surrounding the town.

A few minutes later, the town was dark and deserted. But the siren screamed on.

Whiting is a full five miles from the nearest point of the Missouri's normal channel.

The river swept over the lowlands at Whiting after a North Western Railway embankment gave way and allowed the muddy waters to rush through.

At Onawa, a city of 3,500 to the south, only 1,000 persons remained. All had a task.

Disaster headquarters were set up in the American Legion Building, and a state of civilian "martial law" prevailed, ruled over by a three-man disaster committee.

Battleship Iowa Raids Red Port

SEoul, Korea (UP)—The U. S. Navy sent the 45,000-ton U.S. Battleship Iowa into the port of Wonsan today to wipe out shore batteries which have been firing on Allied minesweepers for the last week.

The big ship slipped into the harbor with the destroyer Mackenzie at dawn and spotted what looked like a gun position on a peninsula jutting into the harbor.

A few moments later the Iowa's long 16-inch guns rocked the whole harbor area and the target disappeared in a cloud of smoke, mortar and dust.

The Iowa prowled the harbor all day, firing both 16-inch and five-inch projectiles at likely targets. When the two ships stood out to sea in the later afternoon, the Iowa alone had fired 150 rounds of 16-inch ammunition and both vessels had fired a total of 284 rounds of five-inch.

The Navy did not report any counter-fire.

On the ground, it was a quiet day. The 8th Army in its tactical summary issued only three paragraphs to win up the ground battle from the Yellow Sea to the Sea of Japan.

Main action was east of the Pukhan River on the east-central front, where U. N. troops recaptured an advance position lost the night before to two enemy companies.

Waited 18 Years For His Return

LAWRENCE, Mass. (AP)—Seventy-nine-year-old Mrs. Ellen E. Mathison wants a divorce—after waiting 18 years for her husband to go back to her.

She told Probate Court Judge John A. Costello yesterday she and Augustus W. Mathison were married 55 years ago and that he left her 18 years ago.

She said her husband had rejected several attempts at reconciliation.

Judge Costello took the case under advisement.

Paves Way For Japan's Return To Family Of Nations Before End Of The Month; Pacific Defense System Pacts Also Given Presidential Signature

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Truman signed the Japanese peace treaty today, paving the way for Japan's return to the family of free nations before the end of the month.

Mr. Truman also signed defense pacts with Japan, the Philippines, New Zealand and Australia which set the stage for the first peacetime Pacific defense system in history.

The President's signature on the peace treaty constituted this country's formal ratification.

When the Japanese treaty is deposited along with the ratifications of five other of the major nations which fought Japan, the treaty will come into effect, establishing Japan as a free and independent nation and ending the seven-year military occupation.

State Department officials said the United States would deposit some time before the end of the month. They said the delay is necessary to give Japan and the nations accredited to it time to prepare for the great transition from the technical state of war to one of peace.

Britain, Australia and New Zealand have deposited their ratifications. Pakistan and Ceylon have ratified and their documents are expected to be deposited this week so that the American deposit automatically will bring the treaty into effect.

Some 60-odd presidential emergency powers such as authority to seize the railroads would have expired when the treaty came into force. But Congress extended those powers until June 1.

The Japanese treaty was drafted by former Republican foreign affairs adviser John Foster Dulles and signed by 49 nations.

The Allies recently liberalized the 1947 peace treaty with Italy making it a full and equal partner in the Western defense system.

Allied negotiators are now putting the finishing touches on a "peace contract" giving Western Germany nearly full independence, but Russia has blocked a full-fledged peace treaty for all of Germany and for Austria.

Roundtree Freed On Raising Bond

One of two drivers being held for a coroner's inquest Wednesday night as the result of two fatal highway accidents in Pitt County over the weekend, was released from county jail under $1,000 bond yesterday.

John Mark Roundtree, 39-year-old Negro of Route 1, Grimesland, was freed for his appearance at the ring.

Roundtree was jailed after his automobile crashed head-on into a car driven by David Samuel Smith, 33, of Route 1, Grimesland; the accident was fatal for Joe Terry, 54-year-old man in the Smith car.

Still being-held in default of $1,000 bond, is Augustus Extom, 32, of Stokes, driver of a car in which 18-year-old John David Daniels, of Stokes, lost his life in the wreck.

Coroner Griffin H. Rouse stated this morning he will hold a double inquest into the fatal accidents in the Pitt County Court House at 7:30 Wednesday evening.

Boy Soliciting Red Cross Funds Not Authorized

The Red Cross office reported this morning that a 16 or 17 year old white boy has been soliciting for funds without the sanction of the Red Cross.

The young boy is reported to have solicited for the Red Cross in the residential area here yesterday, but Mr. Walter Taylor, Pitt County chapter executive secretary said he was not authorized to do so.

The secretary asks that people not give money to the boy for Red Cross and she said his actions are a criminal offense.

Wage Agreement In New Jersey Phone Dispute Adds To Pattern

NEW YORK (UP)—Striking operators signed a wage agreement today with the New Jersey Bell Telephone Co., but their return to work hinged on the Western Electric dispute which has disrupted telephone service across the nation.

The agreement, signed at 11 p.m. after midnight, provided weekly wage increases from $4 to $4.40 and "fringe" benefits.

End of the New Jersey dispute added up to "one more pattern settlement" in the nationwide telephone strike, but the operators said they would continue to observe picket lines set up by the 16,000 striking Western Electric employees. Both belong to the Communications Workers of America (CWA).

Further negotiations were scheduled in New York today in an attempt to end the eight-day old strike by Western Electric employees in 43 states and the District of Columbia.

Also still to be settled was the strike by 7,000 employees of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. in Northern California, and 1,300 employees of the Bell Laboratories in New York and New Jersey.

Western Electric pickets had kept phone company employees away from their jobs in Michigan and Ohio where settlements of state-wide disputes were reached over the weekend.

Joseph A. Beirne, CWA president expressed "satisfaction" with the New Jersey settlement involving 10,500 workers, and said he hoped it might "move the Western Electric situation to a speedier conclusion."

A spokesman for New Jersey Bell said the extent of phone service in the state today would depend on the "distribution of picket lines around our exchanges by Western Electric employees and how many operators cross those picket lines."

CWA officials in charge of the Western Electric strike said picket lines would be maintained outside the nation's major telephone exchanges until their strike was settled.

Long distance and non-dial service mainly has been affected by the Western Electric walkout.

The union has demanded a 23 cent-an-hour wage increase and there has been no announced compromise lowering of its demand.

In other developments in the nationwide strike:

1. A strike by 10,000 Southern California telephone workers was called off last night after an agreement was reached on a "lockout" resulting from Western Electric picketing.

2. Telephone service was expected to be normal today in Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas and Kansas City, Mo., following court injunctions banning picketing.

3. Some 1,600 Southern Bell Telephone Co. employees in Louisiana were continuing their walkout in a lockout dispute stemming from Western Electric picketing.

Two-Week Fast Ended In Death

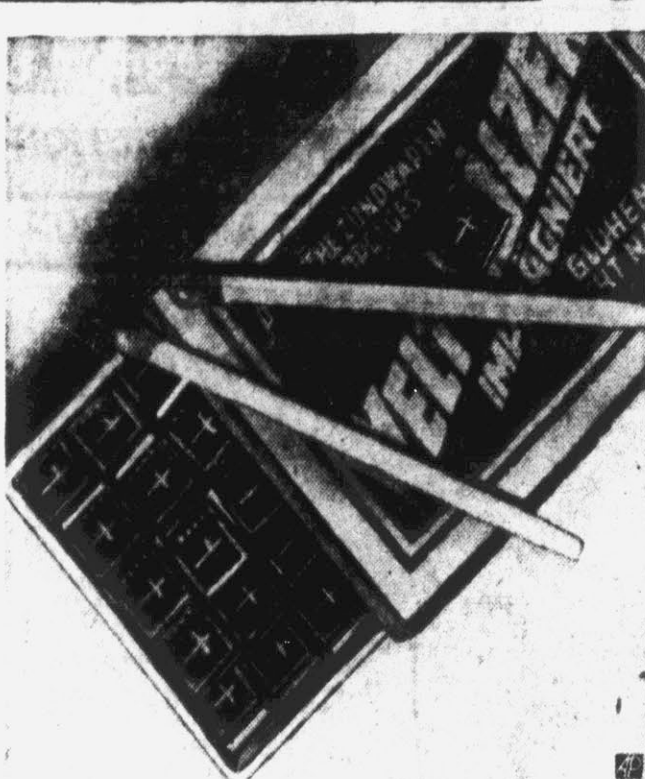

DURHAM — AP — A two-week fast, undertaken "because the Lord told me to," ended in death here yesterday for a Durham Negro woman.

Her neighbors said she had been on several fasts in recent months. The woman, Creola Ruffin, was found in her tiny home yesterday. She was lying on her bed and had five Bibles around her. On top of an unlighted stove was a small white crucifix.

Mrs. Ora Hunt, one of the dead woman's neighbors said: "Her pastor and members of the church had come to see her. They tried to get her to eat something but she wouldn't. She would read the Bible all the time and just sit in her chair."

Moseley - Hicks Vows Are Spoken

Presbyterian Church Scene Of Late Afternoon Ceremony

WILMINGTON—The First Presbyterian Church was the scene of a lovely wedding yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock when Miss Helen Chalmers Hicks became the bride of Bancroft Moseley of Greenville. Dr. William Crowe Jr. performed the nuptials.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glasgow Hicks of Wilmington. Mr. Moseley is the son of Mrs. B. W. Moseley and the late Mr. Moseley of Greenville.

Woodwardia ferns were banked at either side of an archway in the chancel of the church where the couple pledged their vows. A large arrangement of white flowers was used with lighted tapers in candelabra. Pews for the families of the couple were marked with clusters of Easter lilies tied with white satin ribbons.

Edwin D. Clark, organist at First Presbyterian, presented a program of wedding music. Mrs. O. E. Durant, Jr., sang "O Perfect Love," (Barnby) prior to the vows.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, Glasgow Hicks. Her gown of candlelight Skinner satin and Chantilly lace was fashioned with low decollete filled in with illusion and Empire bodice of Chantilly. The flowing skirt, cut on Princess lines, extended from a fitted mid-riff and a fan of lace ruffles widened from the waistline back on to the court train.

The bride's full-length veil was of illusion attached to a cap of lace. She wore her mother's seed necklace and an heirloom seed pearl pin. A cascade shower bouquet of white lilacs, freesias and lilies of the valley was carried by the bride.

Maid of honor, Miss Sally Hicks, sister of the bride, wore a gown of Champagne Chantilly lace and tulle fashioned with low, scalloped neckline in front and standing scallops of lace framing the shoulders. The fitted lace bodice was finished with tiny cap sleeves and wide panels of lace widened to the hem in the bouffant tulle skirt. She wore a cloche of lace trim with narcissus at the back of her hair and wore brief lace gloves. Miss Hicks' bouquet was of Easter lilies tied with moss green satin ribbon. Mrs. Cecil Gant of New York City and Wilmington was matron of honor. Her costume was identical to that of Miss Hicks.

H. Nelson French of Chatham, N. J., brother-in-law of the bridegroom, served as best man. Ushers were Frank Wooten and Allan T. Powell Jr. of Greenville; Lt. Comdr. Thomas Rivers, USNR, of Greenville and Norfolk; Harold Suggs of Norfolk; Glasgow Hicks of Wilmington and San Antonio, Texas and John Hicks of this city.

Mrs. Hicks, mother of the bride, was gowned in aqua Chiffon and Chantilly lace with matching maline and chiffon hat. Her flowers were Parma violets. Mrs. Moseley pinned a corsage of pink camellias at the shoulder of her black lace gown, with which she wore mauve accessories.

A reception at the Cape Fear Country Club followed the wedding. The bride's table was covered with a ruffled cloth of embroidered cut-work organdy over white satin. The tiered wedding cake was topped with white flowers and encircling the cake was a wreath of smilax. Silver candelabra held lighted tapers.

Native greens were used on the balconies of the club ballroom and entwined the columns. Smaller tables held punch bowls which were encircled with ivy. Low arrangements of flowers were also used.

Later in the evening, Mr. and Mrs. Moseley left for a wedding trip. The bride's traveling costume was a slate blue tweed suit worn with gray blouse, green straw hat and navy accessories. Her flowers were green orchids. The newlyweds will reside in Greenville on their return.

HIS TYPE OF DOLLY
COEUR d'Alene, Ida. — (UP) — A service station attendant told officers he was unhappy because a little boy walked away from the station with a dolly. The attendant said the dolly was a four-wheeler with a hydraulic jack attached.

Long Gone

VINCHIATURO, Italy — (UP) — A 67-year-old emigrant who went to the United States 39 years ago and saved $22,000 as a railway laborer was back today where he started—in his home town.

Paolo Crescenzo had been gone so long he even was uncertain of the identity of the wife who waited for him in Italy since 1913.

As he boarded a bus at Naples to make an unceremonious return to this sleepy, dusty town he took her aside and asked:

"How do I know you are my wife? I don't recognize you. You don't look like your picture."

The wife, Angela, produced her identity card.

Ended Argument With Shotgun

A 24-year-old Negro woman brought a short, vicious argument to a violent conclusion near Greenville late Saturday afternoon when she blasted her current boyfriend through the leg with a shotgun.

In reporting on the altercation this morning, Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson stated that Mary Epps, who lives on the Washington highway two miles East of Greenville, shot David Thigpen, 24, just below the knee after a lively discussion over some money.

The sheriff disclosed that the shooting took place around 4:30 Saturday afternoon, and he and Deputy Sheriff Lloyd Manning placed the woman under arrest immediately afterward. She was placed in jail on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon.

Arresting officers took Thigpen to Pitt Memorial Hospital, they said, where his condition was described as "not serious." Mary remained in jail until yesterday at which time she was released on bond for appearance in County Court April 29.

Thigpen was still in the hospital today.

Last Of DPs To Enter Under Act

CHICAGO (UP)—Josef Zylka who survived both German and Russian slave labor camps, arrives in Chicago today as the last person to be admitted to this country under the Displaced Persons Act.

Zylka, a Pole, and his two daughters, were to meet Gov. Adlai Stevenson at a noon reception at the State of Illinois Building.

Zylka is the last of 330,000 displaced persons to be admitted to this country under the expiring act.

Cowboy Game Is Too Realistic

GREAT BEND, Kan. (UP)—A "cowboy and Indian" game accidentally became too realistic and cost the life of a four-year-old Great Bend boy.

William Allan Whorton, son of Mr. and Mrs. B.G. Whorton, was playing with a neighbor. The boys took turns roping and tying each other to a clothesline post, authorities said. Somehow, the rope tightened round the Whorton boy's neck and he strangled yesterday.

Rides His Pig Around His Farm

FAIRVIEW, Okla. (UP)—Major County farmer George F. Eubank is the countryside's major attraction as he literally rides "piggy back" around his Cedar Springs farm.

Eubank "saddle broke" a 670-pound Chester white barrow. He has ridden the hog as far as two miles at a time, he said today, using the same saddle and bridle equipment as his more conventional neighbors use on horses.

 BETTER STOP AND THINK

What do you suppose would happen if any of the original apostles were to return and betake themselves to any modern church?

Remember that these were uneducated men. They were the commonest of the common people. Some of them smelled of their fishing boats, and all of them lived in an age when modern standards of personal cleanliness were unknown. In all probability there would go up a terrific gasp from pew-holders in fashionable churches if Peter, Andrew, James, John or any of the others put in their appearance at a Sunday morning service.

This simplicity and lack of education on the part of these original apostles constitute a profound comment on many of our modern standards. We have almost come to the place where we worship education. Nevertheless, the founding of the Christian Church—and most momentous enterprises in human history—was divinely implanted through men who had no education whatsoever. Furthermore, occurrences which have changed the tide of history occurred in a simple society, thoroughly unlike the society in which we live today.

In our scientific knowledge really getting us anywhere? Will any leader living today influence history as did the twelve simple men who consorted with Jesus?

Improvements Are In The Right Direction

The status of the farm family in North Carolina has improved a great deal in the past decade from an economic standpoint, and likewise from the standpoint of living conditions. Yet how far does the state have to progress in the rural areas before a satisfactory average standard of living will be reached?

It is interesting to view the statistics of a survey on modern facilities in rural homes made in 1949 in one county in the state. The survey was made by the Board of Farm Organizations and Agencies which is promoting a program of better living for rural families in the state.

The survey showed more than two-thirds of the farm homes in the state had no running water or sanitary sewerage disposal; more than three-fourths of the farm homes were without running hot water; only one-tenth had central heating and less than half had insect-proof screens. On the other hand over half the homes had mechanical refrigerators.

Of course the survey covered only one county, and we do not know whether the area surveyed could be considered typical of North Carolina's rural situation. Yet we may assume there is not too much overall difference in the farm home situation in the different counties in Eastern North Carolina.

Even though the survey was made three years ago, it gives a good picture of important factors which to a great extent govern the health of the rural families of the state. It pointedly shows that a great deal of improvement needs to be made in rural homes to bring them to the standards they should be.

In The Midst Of Joy There Is Sorrow

The Easter-tide is still a lovely memory to be cherished until spring has passed into the languor of summer warmth. Green grows the grass, brightly bloom the flowers; Nature under the Creator's guiding hand is working swiftly to cast off the sombre garb of winter.

This is the happy season, for most. But there is sorrow and mourning in hearts of some amongst us for whom the miracle of Spring is as nothing.

For them, the hand of Death reached out to touch a loved one, and happiness withered, too.

It is well-nigh unbelievable that 22 North Carolinians should be with us one moment and then, in violence depart, as suddenly as the beat of a heart. Yet that is the toll of sudden death over our Easter holidays.

So much to fill the senses with exuberance... so much to fill our cup with grief.

Among those whose passing we mourn are six from our own communities of Pitt.

When death strikes one, or even two... there is a pause for a fleeting thought on the uncertainties of life. But when six are whisked away, simple tragedy becomes near catastrophic.

There is no explanation for such tragic occurrences other than that margin of human error which seems always to be with us. Only a constant watchfulness and the observance of precautionary measures stands between individual motorists and sudden death. It is as though constant vigilance were the price of survival... on highways as well as in the jungle.

It is a time of re-awakening, of re-birth and birth. Skies are fair over the land, and the air is as heady as new-made wine this happy April. But on our highways, lurks Death.

Another 'Private Enterprise' Ruined

Operating a private industry in the form of a bootleg still can be right unprofitable around these parts. That big one raided by ABC and ATU officers early Saturday is a good example.

Somebody saved their money, prepared a lot of plans for the plant, distribution and supply; solved their employment problems and obtained all the raw materials needed to inaugurate the start of a successful business.

The nature of the enterprise eliminated many of those old headaches such as the paying of social security tax, income tax, keeping of wage and hour records. Book-keeping was reduced to the most efficient minimum. Even the problem of "competition" was largely missing, thanks to the watchful eyes of law enforcement officers.

All was in readiness for a golden harvest of profits. Weeks of secret planning and hard work were about to pay off. Only it didn't; and the reason was, it was all very illegal.

When the lawmen were through, only splintered rubbish was left to show the distillery site. Three cars were confiscated and fines and one thing and other were going to put a dent in the operators' wallets.

The same amount of effort put into a legitimate field would have been less costly; recalling to mind the saying, "Crime does not pay."

National Whirligig

WASHINGTON—The perennial proposal to give ex-presidents a permanent seat in the Senate has been killed forever as a result of Senator Hubert H. Humphrey's demand that the privilege be granted to President Truman. Never before has the idea been given such thorough thought and discussion by the men on Capitol Hill.

The suggestion has been tabled for political reasons rather than because of any particular animus toward the retiring chief executive. But since human emotions cannot be disregarded in the operations of politics or government, the identity of the sponsor and the immediate beneficiary contributed to rejection of the necessary amendment to the Constitution.

PLANS—Since Truman has apparently dismissed any plan of running for his old Missouri seat favoring the candidacy of Stuart Symington, it is virtually certain that the president will become only a private citizen after next January 20. He will write and lecture through thought and discussion by the men on Capitol Hill.

Should the Democrats win the November election with a man sympathetic to the Truman philosophy, the latter might accept an honorary advisory post with an agency handling some phase of foreign rehabilitation.

As the author of the "point four program" which is the only really distinctive feature of his overseas projects, he has expressed a vague idea that he would enjoy association with that venture.

OBJECTIONS—The "permanent seat" scheme was opposed bitterly by the members of both parties, as well as by critics and critics of Truman. The strongest objections were offered by men from the south and the far west, who elect a president so infrequently that they would lose rather than gain influence under such a system.

Senator Humphrey sweetened his proposal with the condition that a Truman or a Hoover, who happen to be the only men now eligible, would have a voice but no vote in the upper chamber's deliberations.

However, the objectors pointed out that for various reasons a former president would be able to exercise unique influence by his very presence at Washington.

INFLUENCE—By reason of his personality, his national prestige and favors he may have done to incumbent presidents while in the White House, he would attract small but well-knit groups of Senators around him.

If enough "exes" lived long enough after their terms to take advantage of the privilege, the Senate might break up into rival "presidential blocs." This would aggravate the normal rivalries and groupings which already exist.

The prospect of having a future Franklin D. Roosevelt in their midst after his retirement appalled many members. Despite the lack of a vote, a man with F.D.R.'s personal attractions and oratorical gifts would possess more influence with the Senate and the public than a score of states. And there would be no prohibition against speeches inside or outside the Senate.

REFORM—Finally, the proximity of a former president would handicap a successor, if he were a member of the same party, from making necessary changes in his predecessor's policies. It would tend to "freeze" outdated or ineffective programs in the domestic and foreign fields.

Candid examination of the Humphrey suggestion may result in a reform that has been long advocated. It may lead to the granting of a pension, possibly $50,000, to estate occupants of the White House.

HOSTILE—Confidential advisers to the State Department from overseas diplomats report an alarming prejudice against Americans in many of the so-called "backward nations," especially the Philippines, the Middle East and North Africa. In certain areas it is dangerous for Uncle Sam's citizens, including tourists, to walk abroad after dark.

Although the existence of this hostile sentiment creates a feeling of "frustration" at State, in view of our generosity abroad, it is documented by our well-informed observers. Marshall Plan and other forms of aid do not reach the hungry or shelterless masses directly or immediately.

They go to governments, official agencies or great corporations. The trickling-down process is so slow that its operations and effects are almost invisible. Since the early days of direct relief in the form of food, the general population feels no cause for gratitude to Uncle Sam.

If You Solve Their Problems—

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

Now that the FCC has lifted the freeze on construction to Television Stations, and Greenville was allotted Channel 9 as expected, what developments will follow?

The FCC will not consider any applications until July 1st, which gives all interested applicants an opportunity to file for the existing channel. If no one else files for our Channel 9, we can expect to have our application approved shortly after July 1st, just as soon as the FCC gets to ours in the stack on the desk. If someone should file for Channel 9, a hearing will follow to determine who gets the channel. That hearing will probably keep both applicants out of the air for as long as two years.

The thaw of the freeze will mean little to Raleigh, because WRAL and WPTF have applied for the existing channel and naturally a hearing will tie up the deal. Actually, Raleigh was allocated three channels but one was for a non-commercial station (probably to be used by the Raleigh school) and the other was for a UHF station, which is of far less value than a VHF channel.

That brings on a discussion of the significance of UHF and VHF stations. TV stations on the air today are all VHF stations, which means Very High Frequency. The use of UHF channels has not been developed, there are no UHF stations on the air. When the UHF does get underway, the range of such stations will be only about 35 miles. Wilson and Rocky Mount, being located between Greenville, New Bern and Washington, and Raleigh, were allocated a UHF channel. So were other Eastern Carolina towns, like Goldsboro and Kinston. Greenville is very fortunate to have an allocation for a VHF station. As far as we know, there are no other applicants for our Channel 9, for Greenville, and if this situation prevails, we stand a good chance of being the next TV station in North Carolina to come on the air.

Those of you who are reading this and are stockholders in WGTV-TV have of course only paid a 5 per cent deposit on your stock, pending the action of the FCC. If everything goes at top speed you can plan to have the other 95 per cent ready in September.

Tomorrow night, A. Hartwell Campbell, manager of WGTV and champion of the TV drive, is speaking to the Tarboro Kiwanis Club on the progress of our developments so far, so you can see that our actions are of vital interest to other towns.

And I thank you.

ACCIDENTS — Speeding and driving while intoxicated each caused fewer traffic accidents in 1951 than in 1950, according to a chart prepared by H. D. Jones, director of the highway safety division in the State Motor Vehicles Department. Further analysis of the chart shows a larger percentage of accidents, perhaps more than two-thirds of them all, were caused simply by motor vehicles being where they did not belong.

CAUSES — The ascertained causes of 37,806 traffic accidents record in North Carolina during 1951 are listed as follows: Speeding 17 per cent; the previous year it was 20 per cent; Did not have right of way 17 per cent; On wrong side of road—not in passing 12 per cent; Improper passing on curves, hills, cutting in, etc. 9 per cent; Disregarding police officer and traffic signs 8 per cent; Improper parking and starting from parking place 5 per cent; Failure to signal or improper signal 4 per cent; Operating car while intoxicated 3 per cent; Hit and run 3 per cent; Miscellaneous violations 11 per cent.

OUT OF PLACE — It will be readily seen that all of these items except speeding and drunk driving, and an undetermined part of the miscellaneous bracket, show that the trouble was involved was where it had no lawful business to be. Whatever number of accidents are attributable to faulty equipment is included in the 11 per cent miscellaneous, and possibly also in the item of failing to give proper signals.

INDIFFERENCE — Another mesurable conclusion is that most of the accidents were due to careless indifference of the rights of others, rather than to deliberate criminal intent, and that a preponderant majority of the persons responsible regard themselves as law-abiding citizens and safe automobile drivers, who wouldn't think of taking the steering wheel after taking a drink or pushing the speedometer above 60 miles per hour—but who thoughtlessly pull out into traffic, park in safety zones or slip across the center line on the pavement. Unfortunately, the victim of an accident caused by a thoughtless driver is just as crippled or as dead as the victim of a deliberately criminal violation of the law.

ECONOMY — The State of North Carolina is apparently finding out something that successful business men have recognized for a long time—that real economy consists in spending money wisely, rather than in not spending it at all. Governor Kerr Scott and Revenue Commissioner Eugene Shaw concede that increased income and sales tax receipts are due as much to a more adequate staff or competent field auditors as to improved business conditions in the state. Commissioner of Agriculture L. Y. Ballentine and W. H. Darst, head of the state seed laboratory, agree that better enforcement of the pure seed laws and accruing benefits to North Carolina farmers can be traced directly to employment of competent seed analysts instead of bag-punching seed sample takers.

COMPETENCE — A field auditor competent to check records and help the honest taxpayer arrive at the proper amount due the state—and to catch the dishonest taxpayer in attempts to hold out part of the taxes due—can demand and earn a higher salary than the fellow who does nothing except pick up the check written by the taxpayer. Likewise, the trained seed analyst who can command a higher salary than the man who does nothing more than grab a handful of seed to send to Raleigh for testing.

EXPERIENCE — Experience has proven that the higher salaries paid for more efficiently trained personnel represent a highly profitable investment for the departments of revenue and agriculture. Authoritative figures are not at hand for other state governmental activities, but chances are they will show comparable values obtained through higher salaries paid to better trained and more efficient workers in every phase of government operation from janitors and elevator operators to top bracket engineers, accountants and administrators.

PROJECT — One of the largest and most efficient Veterans Farmer Training Program units in the state is that connected with the Wilkesboro high school. It was organized about five years ago by Fred Davis and is now carried on under direction of Gayce Presnell, who succeeded as vocational teacher when Davis took a job as county agent in another county. The project includes several other high schools in the area, and four or five times during the school year the class puts out a "News Sheet" telling about the personal achievements of individual students. Occasionally there is a

What Other Papers Are Thinking

WASTE & WATER

The Smithfield Herald)
 Three things we North Carolinians are doing with our water:
 1. We are polluting it.
 2. We are wasting it.
 3. We are ignoring it for irrigation purposes.

The fouling of our streams by careless or callous municipalities and industries is notorious. Look, for example, at our own Neuse River.

As to the waste of water, we have only to look back to last year when Raleigh, New York, and other cities had to place restrictions on water use to realize how even so abundant a blessing as water gives out when over-used and badly used.

The third factor is one that deserves special study in a state enjoying so copious a rainfall as North Carolina. The land in this state is well cut not only by rivers but by small streams fed from abundant springs and drainage areas. Yet we pay little or no attention to this grand supply of water for agricultural purposes. The Western states, which are not in the same class with us as regards rainfall, have shown us what can be done by irrigation. They have taken whole areas of abandoned and desert land and converted them into fertile and productive farms.

If North Carolina farms resort to irrigation as California farms do, even in small measure, our countrylife and agriculture production would be transformed. We have plenty of land and cheap too. In most sections it is rich enough for all practical purposes. But too many of our people are poor in the midst of a possible great productivity.

An agency is needed in North Carolina which will study, look after and encourage irrigation. The numerous farm ponds now being set up in the state can be easily linked to irrigation systems. The costs are not prohibitive in making a modest but effective start.

Water is one of North Carolina's greatest assets. We must learn to safeguard it and use it to build up our rural as well as urban life.

Business Today

The Federal Reserve Board itself appears to have furnished the ammunition for stepping up the campaign for further easing of credit controls.

Its annual survey of consumer buying intentions discloses that people are planning to buy fewer autos, refrigerators, washing machines, radios and other durables than they did last year.

The F. R. B., within hours of the announcement of the survey findings exempted articles costing up to $100 from credit control regulations. But this will be of small help to dealers trying to sell the things for which the F. R. B. expects a reduced demand. Automobile dealers and makers of major appliances have been conducting a vigorous campaign for easier controls. You can count on them to use the F. R. B. findings to intensify their drive; you can also count on Congressmen from Michigan, Illinois and other manufacturing states to work harder for easier controls. Declines in sales mean declines in employment and that would mean declines in votes.

Incidentally, while manufacturers and dealers are clamoring for an end of credit controls, most of them just want time eased a bit. They like the idea of some sort of minimum down payment, especially in times like these when decontrol plus slow sales could lead to a murderous rash of "nothing down" promotions.

The F. R. B. survey, work on which is done by the survey Research Center of the University of Michigan, is not all bleak. It indicates that demands for housing and television sets will be on a level with 1951. The F. R. B. cautions, the survey indicates, that the decline in demand for many durables was not as great as it seemed in January and February, and that many things may alter these intentions.

As this department has pointed out before more surveys of buyers' intentions, with quick reports on results, would be of great benefit to business. The F. R. B. survey in 1951 correctly forecast the decline in demand that was felt later in the year. This was quite a triumph for research, since the survey was made during the height of panic buying. These companies that placed confidence in the results of the survey were able to increase advertising and take other steps to counteract the decline as far as it affected their products.

Those who thought the January-February rate of buying would go on forever were caught with their inventories up.

JET CALCULATING TOLD IN BOOKLET

A booklet of ways to calculate with "jet action speed" has been published under the title, "Fast Figuring for Executives," by Harry M. Buten, 1334 South St., Philadelphia 46, at $1. The 31-page publication tells how to use complements and reciprocals, number grouping, percentages, squares and other short-cuts in arithmetic.

Mr. Buten is an accountant, lawyer, lecturer, merchant, opera singer and an authority on Manuscripts and Wedgwood.

KRILLUM MARKETING PLANS NOT DECIDED

While Krillum, the new Monsanto soil conditioner, will not be put on the market until extensive testing and retesting is completed, some time next year, it may pay business men to watch developments closely. The substance, while not a nutrient, aids plant growth and prevents soil run-off by improving the structure of soil.

Monsanto has not set a price on the chemical, although it thinks it will sell under $2 a pound during initial production stages. Neither has it decided whether to sell it directly to dealers and consumers or to market it through established farm and garden channels. If it decides on the latter, it may offer interesting possibilities to established and new businesses and could be sold in connection with fertilizers, humus and other soil aids.

GOVERNMENT CHANGES FURNITURE BUYING

A $6,000,000 furniture market is going to be easier for manufacturers to crack. The government, which buys that much in household furniture every year, is revising its purchasing method. It will result in fewer long-term, open-end purchasing contracts and opportunities for a larger number of suppliers. Manufacturers should ask General Services Administration, Washington 25, D. C., for details.

NEW YORK — (AP) — There are only two classes in the world — neat people and the people they criticize.

The thing that always has puzzled me about neat people is their intolerance. They are reformers at heart. They are never satisfied merely with being neat themselves. They want everybody else to be neat, too.

This is a violation of individual rights. A person is as legally free to be disorderly as he is to be neat, so long as he doesn't infringe on the liberty of others. For my part, I can see more advantages in being disorderly than in being neat. Neatness isn't always a virtue. Most people aren't neat because they really want to be — they just can't help it.

Many neat people have a restless passion to put everything in pigeonholes. They believe there is a place for everything and everything should be in its place. They feel that life is like a bingo game: if they keep putting the right buttons on the right number—bingo.

The trouble with this theory is life just doesn't operate that way. To get the most out of living you have to be a connoisseur of chaos as well as an advocate of order.

There are some situations and experiences you can't solve with platitudes or tag with a label. They don't fit into patterns, and when a neat person is faced with such a situation he is defeated by it—and sometimes destroyed by it.

Life has a wonderful, sprawling, aimless quality that only a disorderly person can appreciate. Take such common things as thunder and lightning. They tend to make a neat person nervous, as he hates to see the sky rumbling and a source of poetic joy to the disorderly soul. It brings out the best in him.

The neat man is frustrated from birth, because his goal is impossible—the achievement of complete order. The only really orderly thing in the world is death, and the most disorderly thing is life.

The closer the neat man comes to his goal—that is, the more he catalogs his daily life—the more bored he is likely to become. The disorderly man can never become too bored because he never knows what will happen to him next.

When the neat man goes to his desk to get out a letter, he knows in dreary certainty just where he will find it. It is a dull routine. To the disorderly person, however, looking for a letter in the man's nest atop his desk is a real adventure.

Gingerly, he pokes at the layers of debris that resemble the leaning tower of Pisa. He paw through old letters and re-reads them. He comes upon some theater ticket stubs and recalls the play. He finds a pair of old socks he thought had been lost.

It may take him half an hour to find the right letter, but meanwhile he's been somewhere. He's lived over a lot of memories, had a pleasant little visit into the past. He emerges refreshed by his small voyage of discovery. But where has the neat man been? He's been only to a dry, cold file. He has learned nothing.

I once knew a lady whose secret joy was going through her husband's pockets at night. But she married a neat man. After ten years of utter misery, however, she divorced him, explaining:

"He was no fun to live with. Year after year I found exactly the same things in his pockets."

Later she married a thoroughly disorderly man whose pockets resembled a department store hit by a hurricane.

"I never knew life could be so exciting," she said, and they lived happily ever after.

Perhaps that is why neat men are so jealous of disorderly men. They know women never find them dull.

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON — Donnell Young, zoology professor, and his wife, Helen, a science teacher, have found the warp and woof of their future in the fascinating art of weaving.

Some 17 years ago, a friend gave the Youngs a loom. They took up weaving as a hobby. Now the hobby has become an important part of their life. Both of them spend all their spare time with the looms they have set up in the little studio behind their suburban home. In addition to weaving, Dr. Young designs and makes new looms and shuttles.

Mrs. Young, part-time teacher in a private girls' school, teaches weaving at night. Two women associate professors at George Washington University, where Dr. Young is a faculty member, a woman lawyer, a doctor and his wife, the wife of a retired Marine officer and a nurse are among her pupils.

"Weaving is relaxing and interesting in that it can give you whatever you want to get out of it and provides a change of work or talent," Mrs. Young told me. "Some people get as much out of the theory as they do the actual weaving. I enjoy working out pattern problems."

Dr. Young gets as much pleasure out of the actual physical operation of their biggest loom—larger than a four poster bed and made 200 years ago in Virginia—as some men do out of a game of golf.

Mrs. Young recently conducted a three-day workshop for weaving enthusiasts in Vermont. Preparations were all made in advance, mostly through correspondence, and the workshop was set up in a Rochester, Vt. church with some 30 looms already threaded according to work sheets sent ahead by Mrs. Young.

It was a thrilling experience and a lot of fun. Mrs. Young said, "I wish everyone could have as much fun as we do. People shouldn't wait until they retire to take up hobbies. When a hobby knocks on your door, give in to it. Let some of the drearier tasks wait. After all, you can do the dishes any old time." The Youngs have woven every kind of cloth for every kind of purpose, samplers, suit materials, silk scarves and upholstery textiles.

When the time comes for Dr. Young to tell from his professional work, the Youngs will move to his ancestral home, built in 1787 at North Hanover, half way between Boston and Plymouth, Mass.

Discover Rare Revolution Find

HARTFORD, Conn. — (UP) — Spring housecleaning at the state capitol produced a rare find. While clearing debris out of an attic storeroom, Secretary of State Alice K. Leopold found a copy of an unsuccessful British peace offer made during the Revolutionary War. Only one other copy of the historical document is known to exist complete with signatures and seals; it is in the Massachusetts archives.

Report Gamblers 'Fleeced' Airmen

WASHINGTON — (UP) — Senate investigators said today that airmen at Keesler Air Force Base, Miss., have been fleeced of "hundreds of thousands of dollars a month" by gamblers.

The Senate Preparedness subcommittee, pawning of uniforms, pass-commissioner reported that this led to ing of bad checks, and possibly contributed to the suicides of two officers.

The report said that as result of the subcommittee's investigation, gambling establishments were closed in Harrison County in which Biloxi is located.

The gambling flared up again th year, but again was stopped, the report said.

The subcommittee's formal report of its lengthy investigation rapped both the commander of Keesler, and "flagrant refusal" of local authorities at Biloxi for previous refusal to enforce state anti-gambling laws.

The report said the "manifest desire of the municipal government of Biloxi to share in the plunder" amounted to "graft by a municipality."

It scolded Maj. Gen. James F. Powell, base commander, for not acting with "vigor and dispatch" to keep his men away from the 1,242 slot machines in and around nearby Biloxi.

The report included a letter from Gov. Hugh White of Mississippi saying the "slot machines have been removed and gambling has ceased."

"I assure you that I will control the gambling situation from here on out," the governor's letter said.

The subcommittee praised his action.

Chairman Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.) said the investigation has "stiffened the determination of the armed services to protect their members from gamblers and other unscrupulous parasites."

The subcommittee told the Air Force to keep a constant watch on its other bases to suppress gambling and vice. If these are not cleaned up, the report said, the Air Force should make liberal use of its power to declare areas off limits to airmen.

An off-limits order, cutting off the flood of servicemen's dollars, can be a serious blow to the merchants of any community.

Dave Douglas Takes First In Greensboro Golf Event

Sam Snead Runs Afoul Of Rules Book And Falls Into Third Place With A Two-Stroke Penalty

GREENSBORO, N. C. (UP)—Dave Douglas of Newark, Del., won his first golf tournament in two years because Sam Snead ran afoul of the PGA rule book for the second time in three weeks. Douglas won the $10,000 Greensboro Open yesterday with a last-round 69 and a 72-hole total of 277. But Snead, the hottest player on the pro circuit right now, also would have finished with a 277 except for a two-stroke penalty on the 17th hole and would have been favored to win a playoff today.

A small creek, what the ruled book describes as a "lateral hazard," proved Snead's downfall as Bobby Locke of South Africa slipped into second place with a 278. Snead, Jim Ferrier of San Francisco and Ed Oliver of Lemont, Ill. wound up in a third-place tie with 279s.

Snead, who forfeited a first-place tie with Doug Ford in the Jacksonville Open on March 24 because of an out-of-bounds technicality, was closing in on his fifth Greensboro title and his fourth 1952 triumph yesterday when he stepped up to the 17th tee with a two-stroke lead. The crowd groaned as his drive plopped into a small creek on the short 17th.

A few minutes later, Snead added a very personal groan as he lost more than $1,000 to the rule book. The officials, headed by PGA tournament supervisor Frank Caywood ruled that he dropped his ball nearer the green when he picked it out of the water and levied a two-stroke penalty.

That gave him a four-over-par seven for the hole. The new Masters champion indicated he didn't think much of the committee's decision as he pocketed $946.

"I have dropped a ball out of the same hazard in the same place before," Snead said. "If I had dropped it anywhere else it would have been in the woods."

"What Snead should have done was to have dropped a provisional ball and awaited the ruling," Caywood explained.

Negro Semi-Pros Beat Portsmouth

Greenville's Negro semi-pro team got off to a fast start Sunday and Monday afternoons by walloping a Portsmouth team twice, winning the first day by an M-2 score, and taking the last one yesterday by a one-sided margin of 19-5.

Catcher "Gator" Clemens, a husky six-footer, led the way for the winners with terrific batting on both days. Clemens poked out a 375 foot homer Sunday afternoon, and then came back yesterday to collect four safeties in six times at bat. One of his hits was a ringing double.

Portsmouth managed to keep the score fairly close for the first four innings yesterday, but superior batting on the part of the Greenville team soon widened the gap.

Manager Dennis Norris is reported to be contented with his ball club. Norris is carrying a roster of nearly 30 players at the present time, but is expected to cut the squad in the near future.

Norris requests that the people of Greenville and its vicinity support the club. Crowds at the first two games have been small. The date of the next game for Greenville has not been decided yet.

Tribe, Dodgers Predicted To Win

Title Expected To Be Retained By Ray Robinson

CHICAGO (UP)—Sugar Ray Robinson, classed as the world's greatest fighter, was a heavy favorite today to retain his middleweight championship against Rocky Graziano tomorrow. But their battle was promising to draw one of the biggest indoor crowds in Chicago in 20 years.

The promoting International Boxing Club said that fewer than 1,000 tickets for the brawl remained today, and they expected these would be grabbed up long before dusk. Most of the tickets left were in the $20 class, for the ringside main floor and center mezzanine, where some seats were as many as 40 rows back.

Arthur Wirtz, one of the stadium owners, said that the capacity of the building permitted by fire-laws was 20,048, and it was likely that that figure would be reached.

Though numerous fights have come close to sellouts in Chicago, the last actual sellout was the Jack Dempsey-King Levinzky fight that drew 23,322 fans to the Stadium in 1932.

It was likely the net gate would run about $301,000 with $80,000 added for television. Graziano was to receive 25 per cent of the net plus video receipts while Robinson was marked up for 30 per cent.

Both fighters took final limbering up exercises today. Robinson was a 3 to 1 favorite to win in the second defense of his title since he regained it by beating Randy Turpin of England last September.

Yankees by amassing 1,246 points, compared to 1,225 points for the defending champions. The Indians drew 86 first place votes while the Yankees attracted 72.

Turner, Gavilan Appear To Be Set For Title Contest

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Gil Turner and Kid Gavilan are all but signed for a welterweight championship bout in Philadelphia's Municipal Stadium this summer—unless the Philadelphia's fiasco with Chico Varona last night upsets the apple cart.

Turner, unbeaten 21-year-old Negro boxer at 145½, won his 31st straight victory and 25th by kayo when Varona from Havana, Cuba, weighing 143½, refused to answer the bell for the seventh of a scheduled 10-rounder. The Cuban and his manager, Allie Zack, bitterly protested that Turner threw "17 low blows."

Varona told referee Zach Clayton he was "sick in the stomach" and refused to leave his corner.

"The referee refused to warn Turner and wouldn't take away the rounds for low punching," Zack said. "My boy wasn't getting a fair break. His spirit was broken."

After being informed by two commission physicians that there was no physical evidence on Varona's body of low punching, John (Ox) Dagrosa, Pennsylvania state athletic commissioner, held up the Cuban's purse and set a hearing for today.

While all this was going on the victorious Turner listened to his manager George Katz tell about the planned meeting with welterweight champion Gavilan.

"Gavilan's managers, the International Boxing Club of New York, Philadelphia promoter Herman Taylor and the Philadelphia Inquirer Charities are in on the deal," Katz said.

"We have had a meeting of minds and it looks like the day before or the day after the major league All-Star baseball game in Philadelphia is the likely date. It could possibly come later in the summer but those two dates were the ones discussed." The All Star game is slated for Tuesday, July 8.

Liberty System Will Continue To Broadcast Games

CHICAGO (UP)—The Liberty Broadcasting System, beaten in the first round of a court fight against major league baseball, announced today it will continue broadcasting bigtime games this season.

Network President Gordon McLendon said the system will continue its litigation against the American and National Leagues, 13 major league teams, and the Western Union Telegraph Co. and "we will win."

"The Liberty Broadcasting System will again broadcast major league baseball in 1952," he said, "beginning with the opening series between the Cleveland Indians and the Chicago White Sox and this weekend's series between the New York Giants and the Brooklyn Dodgers."

Federal Judge John P. Barnes refused yesterday to grant a temporary injunction guaranteeing Liberty the right to broadcast major league games.

Liberty charges that present rules limiting broadcasts from big league parks represented a conspiracy, but the judge ruled baseball clubs have a right to say who broadcasts their games.

Salas Gets Crack At Carter's Title

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Lauro Salas, a scrappy little battler from Monterrey, Mexico, gets another shot at Jimmy Carter's world lightweight boxing title May 14 in a rematch of their April Pool's Day thriller.

The beetle-browed Salas, at 24 a veteran of five years in the ring, won his second chance with the "harp punching New Yorker when he floored the champion in the last stanza of their 15-rounder here, although losing a unanimous decision.

Many figured Jimmy was fortunate to retain his title, as Lauro pressed all the way.

The 15-round rematch, also at the Olympic Auditorium, will be televised nationally (CBS), promoter Cal Eaton announced. The West Coast, however, won't be on the network.

At the height of the slave trade, it is estimated that about half the Negroes shipped from Africa to America died before they became effective laborers in the field.

Rookie Players Appear In Majors On Opening Lineup

By JOE REICHLER
NEW YORK (AP)—A quarter of a million fans in eight cities were expected to jam the ball parks today and listen to the cry of "play ball" as the 1952 major league baseball season got under way.

Despite the loss and impending loss of such topnotch performers as Ted Williams, Joe DiMaggio, Bobby Doerr, Gerry Coleman, Monte Irvin, Willie Mays and others, the new season gives promise of new thrills and excitement.

All clubs will present new faces. Such new names as Billy Reed, Ed Mathews, Toby Atwell, Dave Williams, Bob Del Greco, Dick Hall, Scooter Koshorek, Jim Fridley, Hec Rodriguez, Jim Rivera, George Schmees, Leo Thomas, Clint Courtney and Ben Taylor were expected to appear in opening day lineups.

Making his managerial bow was Eddie Stanky of the St. Louis Cardinals. Rogers Hornsby of the St. Louis Browns and Lou Boudreau of the Boston Red Sox were back as big league pilots. Tommy Holmes of the Boston Braves and Phil Cavarretta of the Chicago Cubs were starting their first full season as managers.

All managers were optimistic, with Al Lopez of the Cleveland Indians brashly predicting an American League flag. Manager Charlie Dressen of Brooklyn said his Dodgers ought to win in the National League.

The odds-makers agree with Dressen and Lopez and have installed the Indians and Dodgers as favorites.

Curt Simmons To Play For Phils

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Curt Simmons, 22-year-old lefty pitcher whose return from Army duty has bolstered the Philadelphia Phillies' pennant hopes, is signed, sealed and delivered for the 1952 season.

Simmons signed his new contract after a session with Owner Bob Carpenter yesterday. Terms of the pact were not disclosed but Carpenter admitted Simmons received a raise over his last contract.

Simmons recently returned to the U.S. after serving with the 28th Infantry Division in Germany. He was called to active duty in September, 1950, toward the end of the National League season.

The Phillies were leading the league by seven games at that point and Simmons had a record of 17 wins. The Phillies managed to barely squeak through to grab the pennant on the last day of the campaign and then lost the World Series in four straight games to the New York Yankees.

Simmons is believed to have received $15,000 for his efforts in 1950. Unable to pitch ball while on duty abroad, he has said it will take him several weeks of conditioning before he will be ready to take his turn on the mound.

Walter Wanger's Trial To Have Quiet Hearing

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—The long-awaited jury trial of Walter Wanger—Hollywood's most colossal real life drama—may be called off today to fizzle into a two-reel "B" production.

Wanger's attorney, shrewd Jerry Giesler, said he will go into court to ask that the producer's scheduled trial for the grog shooting of agent Jennings Lang be canceled "for the sake of his children."

Wanger will throw himself on the mercy of the court and ask Superior Judge Harry Borde to hand down the verdict, and possibly a sentence, Giesler said.

Wanger, his attorney explained, preferred to face "a likely jail sentence" rather than hurt his two daughters by a sensational jury trial that would drag out the details of Lang's alleged romance with the producer's wife, actress Joan Bennett.

Borde will be asked to render his verdict only on the basis of transcript of grand jury testimony taken before Wanger was indicted on a charge of assault with intent to kill.

Instead of hearing a parade of subpoenaed witnesses like Miss Bennett and Lang, the judge merely will take a couple of days to read the typewritten statements of seven witnesses who testified about the Dec. 19 shooting before the grand jury last January.

Giesler said it was "likely" that the judge would reduce the charge to the lesser count of assault with a deadly weapon since "the transcript shows there is insufficient evidence for the intent to kill charge."

After the judge reads the transcript, Giesler and Deputy Dist. Atty. Adolph Alexander will return to court to present their arguments.

Then the judge will hand down his verdict in Superior Court in suburban Santa Monica.

Wanger could draw a 1 to 14-year jail sentence on the intent to kill charge. A conviction for assault with a deadly weapon probably would mean a fine, a suspended jail sentence and probation.

After the hearing, Wanger allegedly fired a shot into Lang in a dimly-lit Beverly Hills parking lot, he accused the handsome 39-year-old agent of "threatening" his marriage with Miss Bennett. He had waited in the parking lot for the actress and Lang to return from an afternoon drive.

Then as Lang stood talking to the star, Wanger stalked over and fired twice at his alleged rival while Miss Bennett screamed, "Don't."

Lang lay in serious condition in a hospital for several days and then was transferred to his home.

After Wanger's release on bail, he moved out of Miss Bennett's Holmby Hills mansion. She has said she won't decide what to do about a reconciliation until the curtain rings down on the shooting trial.

She has blamed her husband's act on his recent financial setbacks and "unfounded jealousy."

Army Signal Corps Team To Stage Demonstration

"Marvels of Signal Communications," a mobile demonstration team from the Signal Corps Training Center, Camp Gordon, Georgia, will visit Greenville Thursday night to present a program for all Greenville ORC and National Guard Reservists and ROTC members.

The program will be held at the office of the Organized Reserve at 106 Ficklen Street, Greenville, at eight o'clock.

The group is currently on a tour of Reserve units in North Carolina. Designed to spark interest in Signal Corps communications, this exhibition brings to organized units the latest information on technical and tactical lessons learned by United States troops in Korea.

"Marvels" include stage demonstrations of late model signal equipment now being used in the front lines of Korea by the U. N. forces.

This will include the 45-pound "parajump" teletypewriter; the floatable ten-set cellular "building block" radio series; the 30-pound five-mile range walkie talkie and the "Fax" reproduction machine for photoelectric transmission of images over radio or wire circuits from the field.

Reservist attendance at this special exhibit is creditable toward retention and retirement points.

Members of the "Marvels" team, 1st Lt. Robert A. Algarotti, WOJG Robert T. King, M-Sgt. Jerry Burdette, Pfc James Reynolds, and Pfc Bobbie H. Stephenson, are all reservists themselves, recently recalled to active duty, and are now serving with the Signal Corps Training Center's 990th Signal Operations Company.

"Our chief concern," explains Team Chief Lt. Algarotti, "is to alert reservists, National Guardsmen, and ROTC members to the latest advances in communications work. Our lectures and displays bring them up to date, keep them in touch."

The team is covering the Third Army area, and will tour Tennessee upon completion of the North Carolina tour.

Some Telegraph Offices To Open

CHARLOTTE — (AP) — A number of Western Union offices in the Carolinas were slated to resume operations today in spite of the strike of the Commercial Telegraphers Union, AFL.

Garland L. Musick, Charlotte superintendent, yesterday named five North Carolina cities which he said would be added today to those giving Western Union Service. He named the cities as Rocky Mount, Lumberton, Wilson, Statesville and Tabor City, and added that there would be several others in this state and in South Carolina.

Musick said 91 offices in North Carolina and 51 in South Carolina were operating yesterday.

But Charlotte union officials took sharp issue with management reports of service that is being given. Everett E. Lewis, president of the local union, said that national officials reported only slightly over two per cent of the company's regular offices and agencies were open. And those open are doing only a small fraction of the normal business load, he declared.

Bought $61,372 In Savings Bonds

Pitt Countians bought $61,372.50 in U. S. Savings Bonds during the month of March.

J. H. Waldrop, county chairman, announced the amount of bonds sold from a monthly sales report from Allison James, State Director of Savings Bonds in Greensboro.

Of the $61,372.50 worth of bonds sold, $54,712.50 were in Series E bonds and $6,660 were in F bonds.

The county chairman stated that the 10-year extension privilege now available to holders of maturing Series E Bonds is proving extremely popular. Of the E Bonds which matured in 1951, at the end of year 77 percent were still in the hands of the owners. This year (1952) more than 40 million dollars' worth of E Bonds were owned by individuals in North Carolina.

Waldrop stated that interest on matured E Bonds is earned on the face (maturity) value of the Bonds at the rate of 2 1/2 percent simple interest for the first 7 years after maturity, and thereafter at approximately 5-13 percent simple interest for the next 3 years, bringing the average yearly interest rate for the 10-year period following maturity to 2.9 percent compounded semi-annually on the face value of the Bonds.

The Chairman stated further that no action on the part of holders of matured E Bonds is required in order to take advantage of the extended interest period, interest being earned automatically on all E Bonds held past maturity.

Possum Family Took Over Auto

HOUSTON, Tex. — (UP) — Mrs. H. T. Siems was backing her car out of the garage when it stalled.

She lifted the hood, saw a pile of leaves on the motor, heard a hissing sound and quickly dropped the hood in place.

She was afraid there was a snake in the motor.

Later, armed with a stick, she lifted the hood again.

It wasn't a snake. It was a mama possum, with nine little ones. They had hauled more than a bushel basket of leaves, waste paper, sticks, etc., and piled them onto the motor for a bed.

PISTOL NEVER USED

JOHNSON CITY, Tenn. — (UP) — Police Chief Tom Howell, has never used his pistol to make an arrest.

Most snakes have detachable lower jaws which permit them to swallow their victims whole.

No one knows just how much coal is in the mine. The coal came out of mines in Southern Illinois and was given to the museum by a mine owner.

The equipment in the mine was donated by manufacturers of mining equipment.

The oldest coal mine canary in the world sits on a cage in the museum's mine shaft. At one time, canaries were used by miners to detect the presence of methane gas.

The eight miners take visitors on tours of the mine.

PTA Convention Opens Tonight

ASHEVILLE, N. C. — (AP) — The 700-odd delegates to the 3rd annual North Carolina Congress of Parents and Teachers Convention which opened here this morning will assemble for the first time tonight for a leadership conference.

A meeting of the executive committee and board of managers this morning opened the two-day convention. The delegates represent memberships of 216,965 Parent-Teacher Associations from throughout the state.

Tonight's meeting will be followed by a general reception.

The first general session will be held tomorrow morning. A speech on the convention theme, "The Citizen Child: His Needs in a Free World," by Mrs. Albert Gardner of Fords, N. J., national PTA representative, will highlight the meeting.

Other convention speakers will be Dr. Gena Soos, of Montreat College; Dr. Amos Abrams, associated editor of North Carolina Education and a faculty member at Appalachian State Teachers College; and Dr. Andrew Holt, administrative assistant to the president of the University of Tennessee.

Dr. Holt will speak at the closing banquet Thursday night. Friday morning the board of managers will meet to name delegates to the national convention, fill six board vacancies and begin planning next year's activities.

Newfoundland Is Immigrant Goal

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. — (UP) — Newfoundland government spokesmen say they are being swamped by requests from would-be European immigrants who want to settle on the booming island.

The requests, coming from Britain, France, Germany, Holland and Belgium, all carry the same plea.

The sender wants help from Premier Joseph Smallwood's government to cut the immigration red tape. All have digested the publicity in Europe for Newfoundland's multi-million dollar economic development program. To those from war-ravaged countries, Canada's 10th province represented the land of milk and honey.

Most of the requests, the government said, had to be ignored.

Even the ever-increasing number of immigrants who reached Canada every month weren't being encouraged to settle in Newfoundland unless they could work as instructors, helping native residents acquire technical skills. The government pointed out that, despite the fact that new industries sprang up all over the island in 1951 and were scheduled to do so again this year, jobs still were at a premium.

Museum Includes Real Coal Mine

CHICAGO — (UP) — Chicago boasts the only coal mine in the United States that's never had an explosion, a cave-in, a strike or an accident in its 19 years of operation.

While real miners run it they don't get paid to mine coal. The mine is an exhibit in the basement of the Museum of Science and Industry on Chicago's lake front.

Mining operations are run by eight retired miners who still hold their UMW union cards but don't pay any dues.

The mine stays open every day of the year except Christmas and is one of the most popular exhibits

Cabbie Ganged Up On Hit-Run

WASHINGTON — (UP) — It was "tally ho" in downtown Washington with a hit-and-run driver the fox and 40 taxicab drivers the hounds.

Ernest Davis was the quarry of the hunt after his collision with a taxicab. The irate hackie John Branch, instantly switched on his two-way radio and alerted the company's dispatcher.

The call was sounded and 40 radio cabs joined in the 60-mile-an-hour chase. The mobile "hounds" soon mouse-trapped their victim and brought him to justice.

Stocks And Market Reports

NEW YORK (UP)—Prices declined fractionally on the Stock Exchange early today in quiet dealings.

A few specialties showed wider declines. Dealings in the first hour, however, were restricted and sales in that period alone totaled only 280,000 shares, compared with 470,000 in the same period yesterday.

Some rails registered declines of more than a point. Northern Pacific at 84 3/4 was down 1 1/4 points. Atlantic Coast Line at 91 was down a point. Union Pacific and Southern Pacific eased.

American Cyanamid preferred "B" showed one of the widest changes. The issue fell 12 points to 128.

Elsewhere, oil shares were backward with Cities Service slipping a point to 106. Texas Pacific Land Trust dipped the same amount to 182.

Steel shares were quiet and virtually unchanged. Bethlehem Steel and Youngstown Sheet & Tube held at their previous close. U. S. Steel eased. Automotives were about the same.

Mesta Machine was also a weak spot with a loss of 1 1/2 points to 44 1/2 and new low. Chemicals eased. Utilities were featureless.

Wants Priority For Flood Work

WASHINGTON (UP)—Sen. Karl Mundt asked President Truman today to put the entire long-range flood control program for the Missouri Valley on an emergency "force-feed" footing.

The South Dakota Republican wrote Mr. Truman asking for budget estimates on that kind of an emergency program as Mundt and other congressional leaders left on a three-day air survey of flood damage.

Government officials were blaming economy action by Congress itself as partly responsible for the damage inflicted by the rampaging Missouri River.

In his letter, Mundt called this year's flood "by all odds the worst in history insofar as South Dakota, Nebraska and Iowa are concerned."

He added that what the flood waters will do when they hit Missouri and Kansas is still "unpredictable but at best it is likely to have serious consequences."

Government officials were inclined to believe that congressional economy was responsible—at least in part—for the extensive flood damage in the Midwest.

Army engineers and Bureau of Reclamation officials agreed that the present record flood crest "could have been checked" by the huge network of 100 dams and reservoirs envisioned in the $5,500,000 Pick-Sloan plan for the Missouri Basin.

At the Pentagon, an official estimated the engineers have completed "roughly one-third" of their work. If it were completed now, the official said, there would have been "very little damage" from the present flood.

Membership projects—Under direction of Membership Committee, through the use of newspapers, radio and Chamber Bulletins, keep the membership and citizens informed regarding the work of the Chamber of Commerce; provide the membership with needed statistics and other information which will benefit them and their businesses; conduct continuing efforts to increase the organization's manpower and its finances which are necessary for expanded operation of the Chamber.

Miscellaneous projects—Continue to assist newcomers and others in locating suitable living accommodations; maintain City Directory Library; provide information services for members and others; and continue to offer use of the organization's office to all possible organizations insofar as such use will not conflict with the regular operations of the Chamber.

The board voted to cooperate with the North Carolina Association of Chamber of Commerce executives in sponsoring a North Carolina Congressional dinner in Washington, D. C., April 29. The dinner will be held during the annual meeting of United States Chamber of Commerce. North Carolina senators and representatives will be guests and Robert Haynes of Winston-Salem will speak for the business interests of the state.

Board members authorized the printing of the annual report which was submitted last night by past officers and past board members. The report will be printed and distributed to all members of the local Chamber.

The board voted to cooperate in an advertising program for East Carolina College. Details for the program will be outlined later. They also stressed the importance of people attending the fat stock show and sale and taking part in the event.

The executive committee reported that the recommendation for the chamber to remain at its offices at Five Points was adopted.

Refuses To Ban Comic Books And 'Lurid' Fiction

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—For the second time in three years, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey has vetoed as unconstitutional a bill designed to outlaw lurid comic books and other publications featuring fictional crime, lust or bloodshed.

He disapproved yesterday a bill that would have outlawed comic books and others tending "to incite" youths to commit violent, depraved or immoral acts.

Dewey said the statute "fails to meet fundamental constitutional requirements."

He also said the measure did not "overcome" a U. S. Supreme Court decision of March, 1948, which threw out as "too vague" a 66-

Skull Crushed In Heated Quarrel

WINTERVILLE—An early morning street brawl here yesterday put Robert Earl Dixon, 20-year-old Negro in Pitt Memorial Hospital with his skull crushed and a blood clot on his brain.

Officers said this morning they were holding 23-year-old Waddell King of Winterville, also Negro, pending the outcome of Dixon's condition. Dixon was said to be in critical condition today, and officers were trying to locate members of his family.

King allegedly struck Dixon down with a bottle after a heated argument in the street. The reported affray happened about 8 o'clock in the morning and Dixon's condition has been doubtful since that time, officers disclosed.

Investigating officers were members of the Winterville Police Department and the Pitt County Sheriff's Department.

Truce Talk Lasts Just 25 Seconds

PANMUNJOM, Korea (UP)—United Nations and Communist truce negotiators met today for 25 seconds—just long enough to tell each other they had nothing new to offer.

They were still confronted by two deadlocked issues in their efforts to arrange supervision of an armistice, the U.N.'s refusal to accept Russia as a "neutral" truce inspector and the Reds' refusal to accept a ban on airfield construction after a cease-fire.

The U.N. did not reply to a Communist request that negotiations be resumed on an exchange of war prisoners. The prisoner talks were recessed 11 days ago to give each side an opportunity to review the situation.

Communist propaganda broadcasts dealing with the truce talks were summing down. Most commentaries were limited to 100 words and in more moderate language than heretofore.

DOOMROCK

BY ARCHIE JOSCELYN

Chapter 12
This was a strange wedding day. Steve was increasingly conscious of that as time went on. A growing feeling of unease was in him, prickling like a thorn.

It was not alone what had happened already—the encounter with Matt Tarson, the certainty that this was not the end. He had seen how eagerly Melody hung on Felix Tarson's words while he talked of averting trouble, the quick light in her eyes when Felix had made his offer to buy the ranch. An offer which, everything considered, could be a life-saver if he chose to accept.

That would be an easy way out. It would solve raising the money to pay off the mortgage, and the grueling battle to pull out of a bad hole. It would also remove himself from the scene and thus from any further possibility of having to kill or be killed. And he knew, in that swift look in Melody's eyes, that it would please her.

There was that on the one hand, and it was tempting. On the other were the impossibilities which nothing could move nor alter. For the lesser part of it, he couldn't crawl out of a tight—for that was what selling under these conditions would amount to. Victory for the Tarsons, by whatever term it was called. A licking for the Russells.

That was the lesser, though a vital part. The greater was something which he didn't fully understand—but a force which gripped him with the certainty of a giant hand. The Bend was his country, the Diamond R was Russell land. His dream of an engineering project had been transferred to Diamond R. The land was big enough to give scope and compass to any dream a man might have. Here he would stay.

That knowledge was in him, more sure than it had ever been. But with it was the certainty of Melody's disappointment, rising like a barrier between them even while they knelt together at the altar and repeated the vows after the minister. Where one Tarson had not been able to come between them, the other had succeeded.

He tried to thrust the feeling from him, to assure himself that it was a small thing which would soon vanish of its own accord. The wild celebration which followed the solemnity of the wedding helped him there.

Matt Tarson had kept away, but Felix had come along to the church. Now he availed himself of the opportunity to go through the reception line. As he shook hands with Melody, she felt a piece of folded paper slipped into her palm, saw a reassuring smile on his heavy face.

"We'll keep right on trying till we succeed," he promised under his breath. Melody nodded, chin high. She slipped the bit of paper, its message unread, inside her dress.

Then they were outside, showered with rice, warding off old shoes, racing for Steve's buggy. Reaching it, Melody was inside before she realized that an old stage coach had been substituted for the buggy, that cowboys were on the box, with six wildly fractious cayuses in the traces instead of the finely trained team which Steve drove.

Brusled and buffeted, they were deposited finally at their own door. Steve waved as the cowboys gave one last hoarse cheer before wheeling their horses, then he picked Melody up in his arms and carried her across the threshold. "Welcome home, sweetheart," he said, and was astonished to see the cold fury in her eyes, the unresponsive coldness of her lips as he kissed her.

"Home!" she gasped. "This barbaric, savage country! Oh!" She looked wildly, desperately around, and burst into tears.

Preparations had been under way for a week, the remuda gathered, chuck wagons equipped, saddles and bridles looked to, and the thousand necessary details taken care of to ready both men and equipment for the range. The two Diamond R chuck-wagons rattled away at dawn, their courses quickly diverging. High Binder went with one, while Melvor had been pressed into service as the second field cook.

Steve went with his men, sober-faced and uncertain. His wedding day had been far different than he had anticipated, far from auspicious. Melody was in a state of genuine shock, her nerves ragged. He had tried to comfort her, without much success. Then he had left her alone, hoping that a good night's rest would restore her. It had, in part. She had been up with the first sounds at the bunkhouse, and had kissed him before he rode away, then had suddenly thrown her arms about his neck and held him close, her face twisted with despair.

"I'm sorry, Steve—about being so upset," she whispered. "But everything is so barbaric! And now—I'm afraid, Steven. I wish you didn't have to go out. But take care of yourself!"

Judge Lectures Young Drivers Hailed To Court

BRIDGEPORT, Conn. — (UP) — City Court Judge D. Harold Cotter thinks youthful traffic violators need special handling. The judge has written a special two-page essay, a copy of which is presented to each convicted teenage motorist. The essay stresses that it's a privilege and an economic asset to be allowed to drive a car. Cotter explained that too many youths take their licenses "too much for granted" and lose them before they realize their value.

"If we can impress upon the youth of today the importance of his right to operate a motor vehicle," the judge declared, "we have taken a very important step in instilling in him the mature sense of caution which makes a good, careful driver."

BURGLAR BURLED
KNOXVILLE, Tenn. — (UP) — While Hugh James Miller was in jail charged with burglarizing a drug store, his home was burglarized.

Atomic Energy Expected To Power Industry In 10 Years

Editor's note: The atomic era is nine years old, going on 10. Atomic energy long since has given man his most violent weapon. It also could give him a vast new source of industrial power. Will it? When? This is the first of three dispatches on atomic power prospects as estimated by U. S. Canadian, and British experts.

By JOSEPH L. MYLER
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP) — Atomic energy will be generating industrial power in five to 10 years.

It would not be surprising if Great Britain turned the trick before either the United States or Canada.

Entire cities, in fuel-hungry nations like Britain, may be lighted by atomic energy in 15 years.

These estimates, cutting five to 10 years off "educated guesses" made as recently as a year ago, come from experts: Gordon Dean, Chairman of the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission; Dr. Walter H. Zinn, director of the AEC's Argonne National Laboratory; C. D. Howe, Canadian minister of trade and commerce and defense production.

The U. S. atomic project is far bigger than Britain's or Canada's. But most of the U. S. effort, thanks to Russia, has been devoted to weapons.

In the power field, the British and U. S. projects are running about even. Canada's power development efforts are still largely on paper. But she has some of the world's best research reactors — machines for putting atoms to work — and is in a good position to catch up.

As to when atomic energy will be harnessed for industrial power, Dean told the United Press today that "our best guess is within five to 10 years."

"By this time," he said, "we feel we should have a reactor capable of producing power for commercial use in at least certain localities where the cost of other fuels is high."

The AEC hopes to make arrangements with private industry to operate reactors which manufacture the atomic explosive plutonium while at the same time producing electric power.

Such reactors and their fuel will be costly, but sale of the extremely valuable plutonium to the government for military purposes would help to offset the high costs and make for economical production of power.

Four industrial groups have made reports to the AEC on this possibility and Dean said he "would hazard a guess that something constructive will come out of at least some of them."

As to an atomic plant that would produce economic power without regard to the military market for plutonium, Dean said: "I would say that we might, and I emphasize might, have such a reactor within 10 years."

Dean pointed out that neither Britain nor Canada is carrying the atomic weapons load that the U. S. is and that the cost of conventional fuel in this country is only half to two-thirds of what it is in Britain.

"This means," he said, "that atomic power can probably be made competitive in Britain sooner than it could over here, and it gives them an added incentive to develop a new source of power."

Zinn made this same point recently. Countries like Britain with high fuel costs may turn to nuclear energy for power in the next 10 years, he said. And within 15 years "there is a fair probability that cities will be lighted by nuclear fuel in such countries."

Howe said on April 4 in Ottawa that atomic power for industry "is closer than we had expected." He said all three countries may be operating atomic power plants "within the next 10 years."

When European and American powers attempted to abolish the slave trade in the early 19th century, traders often threw Negroes into the sea when capture seemed imminent and it is estimated that two thirds of the Negroes shipped from Africa at this time were murdered at sea.

Air Line Pilots Say Regulations Not 'Adequate'

WASHINGTON (UP)—The AFL Air Line Pilots Association claimed today that federal air regulations do not provide adequate safety for passengers in planes making emergency water landings.

A spokesman contended an urgent need for tighter rules was pointed up by the Pan American World Airways crash off San Juan, Puerto Rico, last Friday with 52 deaths.

He called attention to safety proposals made by the pilots association after the "ditching" last January of a plane operated by Northwest Airlines near Sandspit, British Columbia, with 36 deaths.

The association contended there are about 450 airlines flying long over-water routes "that carry floatation equipment that is not readily available if an emergency ditching occurs." It said rules provide only "minimum protection" after a "successful planned ditching," one in which there is time for advance preparation.

"Present civil air regulations do not adequately cover survival after an emergency ditching," it said. The pilots union made these recommendations:

1. Rubber life rafts should be so located that they can be jettisoned into the water through compartments opening from a plane's exterior.

2. A raft's static line should be fastened to the plane so it will float away. The line, when taut, should discharge inflating air bottles and turn on a waterproof flashlight fastened in the raft.

3. Life rafts should be located on both sides of a plane to meet situations where evacuation from one side or another is impossible.

4. Flashlights should be located over all emergency doors, since electric lights are turned off promptly in an emergency to prevent fire.

The pilots union said qualified witnesses' testimony indicated fatalities could have been avoided in the Sandspit accident if these proposals had been in effect. It said Northwest Airlines "complied with and exceeded" current air regulations.

A Civil Aeronautics Board safety official commented that regulations now are under study to see

Club To Hear Authority Talk On Latin America

Don Bolt, news reporter, radio commentator, lecturer, and authority on Latin America, will speak at the Executives Club next Tuesday, April 22.

Bolt is scheduled to give a comprehensive picture of what has been going on in Latin America for the past 25 years, what is going on down there now, and what is likely to occur south of the Rio Grande during the foreseeable future.

His years of experience in the lands which lie between the southern border of the United States and Tierra del Fuego have given him an insight and understanding of the people and events in Latin America.

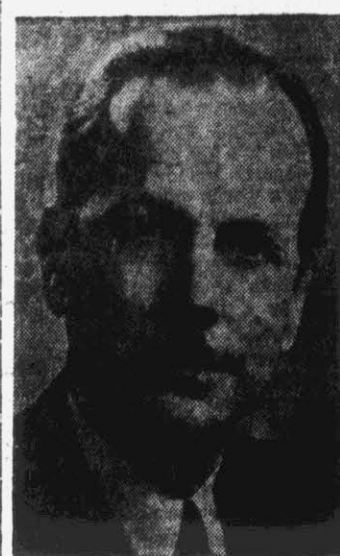

He was a mere boy when he first started out to see the world, having enlisted in the British Navy during the early years of World War I, later transferring to American contingents.

Bolt has interviewed hundreds of business, political, religious, and social leaders in South America and their opposite numbers in the United States. He is a strong advocate of "the good neighbor policy."

He has spoken many times on the American platform and has been a special lecturer on various phases of Latin American relations under the auspices of Rotary International.

The meeting at which Bolt will speak will be held in the dining room of East Carolina College.

what can be done to improve survivors' chances in ditchings. He said automatically jettisoned rafts "probably would be good."

P.T.A. Meets

Dr. Paul Jones of Farmville spoke at the regular meeting of the Parent-Teachers Association on Tuesday night. His talk, based on facts gained during his period of service on education boards in the county and during his term in the state senate, showed his interest in the growth and expansion of the schools of the state.

A program was presented by the fourth, fifth and sixth grades with Mrs. Eason of the music department assisting. A number of songs were heard and selections by the rhythm band. Barbara Patrick read the scripture and led in prayer.

President P. L. Cox presided at the brief business hour at which time a nominating committee of Mrs. Paul Dudley, Mrs. L. B. McLawhorn, Mrs. Robert Mewborn and Mrs. Cecil Cobb was appointed to name officers for the coming school year.

Mrs. H. P. Quinley, John Coward and Cecil Cobb were named a committee to work out plans for the PTA in the beautification program which is to soon begin.

Attendance cakes were won by the fifth and ninth grades. Mrs. Vance Abbott reminded parents of the pre-school clinic to be held at 9 o'clock, April 16th, at the school building.

Hostess at Card Party

Mrs. Ernie Howell was a gracious hostess on Thursday night when she entertained at her home here at bridge and canasta. A beautiful mixed bouquet of spring flowers and potted plants were used to decorate the living room where the three tables were placed. During play iced drinks were passed and as cards were laid aside a dessert with coffee was enjoyed. Mrs. E. P. Goodson scored high at bridge. Mrs. Clarence Farro high for canasta and the consolation went to Mrs. R. P. Morris. Others playing were Mrs. M. B. McWilliams, Mrs. Jim Bush, Mrs. R. C. Lalbert, Mrs. Joseph Goldwasser, Mrs. R. L. Reid, Mrs. Bill Boney, Mrs. Jake Worthington, Mrs. A. D. Wall.

Hosts At Dinner

Mr. and Mrs. David Parker had an interesting session for members of their couple club on Wednesday night at their home here. As guests arrived they found their places at the card tables where a delectable chicken supper was served. Red geraniums and other potted plants were used as decorations. During the progressions high scores were won by Mrs. George Sugg for visitors, Mrs. Mark Phillips and Mr. J. M. Hart for club members. Other guests were Mr. Phillips, Mrs. Hart, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Hart, Dr. and Mrs. W. E. Rasberry and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hart.

Bridge Hostess

Mrs. Edith Lee presented to bridge high scorers at her party Wednesday night lovely potted plants. Those winning prizes were Mrs. Bryan Davis, Mrs. A. C. Fletcher, Mrs. Albert Tyson, Mrs. J. L. Quinley, Mrs. Alton Chapman. In the living room where the three tables were placed bowls of verbenas and spirea formed the decorations. During the games Mrs. Lee was assisted by her daughters, Sandra, Joyce and Sarah, in serving grape juice, salted nuts and at the conclusion of play a dessert course.

Her guests for the evening were Mrs. John Coward, Mrs. Alton

MEMO TO ADVERTISERS
Grandfather was a thrifty soul but how he gambled!

In fact, once upon a time, all business men who advertised were, willing or unwilling, confirmed speculators. They couldn't help it, because in those days they had no way of knowing what they would get for their money.

Today, advertising money can be invested on a basis of facts—the information in the reports of the Audit Bureau of Circulations, a national, cooperative and non-profit association of 3300 advertisers, advertising agencies and publishers. The A.B.C., organized in 1914, has established standards for measuring the circulations of newspapers and periodicals, just as there are definite standards for the weights and measures of merchandise.

This newspaper is a member of A.B.C. Our circulation is audited by experienced circulation auditors. The information thus obtained is issued in A.B.C. reports which show how much circulation we have, where it goes, how it was obtained and other facts that tell business men what they get for their money when they advertise in these columns.

$75,000 In Gold Stolen In Bold French Hold-Up

$75,000 in gold stolen

PARIS — (UP) — Three bandits armed with submachineguns robbed an armored truck of $74,285 worth of gold today and escaped after a brief gun battle with police who poured from a nearby station house.

Astonished pedestrians on the Rue Notre Dame de Nazareth, one of the city's main boulevards, looked on as the men looted the armored truck, switched cars and raced away through a fusillade of police bullets.

The bandits drove an inconspicuous French automobile as they overtook the armored truck on the boulevard and forced it to the curb. The truck had just left a bank to deliver gold to various currency dealers.

The bandits moved with speedy machinegun on the armored truck driver. The other two leaped into the truck and hauled out five sacks of gold weighing 106 pounds.

The loot was thrown into a second car belonging to a neighborhood tradesman. Passers-by watched open-mouthed but made no move to interfere as the bandits jumped into it and raced off down the boulevard.

A policeman had given a shrill alarm on his whistle and opened fire as the getaway car passed the police station. The bandits fired back but no one was hurt.

Police squad cars roared down the boulevard only a few moments behind the bandits, but found the stolen car abandoned in a side street 500 yards from the holdup scene.

Pedestrians told the pursuing police they had seen three men running down the street with large sacks in their arms. Police glimpsed one of the men ducking into a private house on the Boulevard St. Martin but when they got there found only an open door leading from the back of the house.

In their rush the robbers left $40,000 worth of ingots in the truck. The stolen gold has a free market value of well over $100,000 for sale to hoarders.

The holdup was staged in brilliant sunshine while the boulevard was jammed with post-Easter traffic.

Forgery Trial Is Postponed Today

In Police Court today, the case against Norman Lee Hardy, 21-year-old Negro tenant farmer, charged with forgery on five counts and with issuing worthless checks, was postponed.

Court Bailiff Jess Whichard called the case and Hardy failed to answer to his name.

There are five charges against Hardy. Detective Norman H. Byrd stated. He is charged with trying to cash a forged check at White's Store; cashing a forged check at the Guaranty Bank and Trust Co.; trying to cash a check at Colonial Store on East Fourth St.; cashing a check at Overton's Jarvis Street Super Market; and cashing a check at Collins-Pridmore's Department Store on Dickinson Avenue.

Man, Aged 93, Is Eligible For Social Security

APPLETON, Wis. (AP)—Miles Meigam became eligible for Social Security benefits today—at the age of 93.

Meigam, who 18 months ago was the oldest person ever to bring himself under Social Security provisions, completed the necessary six quarters of participation and announced that he was going to keep right on working.

"Until I don't feel good," he said, "I work just to keep busy, that's what keeps me in good health. I expect to be 105, just by being a good boy."

Tourist Cash Is Hungrily Eyed By Britain's Gentry

LONDON — (UP) — There will be no "stately homes of England" trade union this year.

Blue blood is running cold at the prospects of a price-cutting war among the dukes, the earls, the marquesses and barons who are trying to lure tourists to their ancient homes and castles.

A proposal for such a union or association was made by Sir Harold Wernher, who lives in an imposing pile called "Luton Hoo" (built 1762) with the support of young Lord Montagu, dancing partner of Princess Margaret and present occupant of Palace House in Beaulieu, a 13th century landmark.

The Earl of Warwick, 14th century Warwick Castle) was in favor of the project as well and invitations to discuss it were sent to the Earl of Onslow (Clondon Park, magnificent 18th century Italian style mansion), the Duke of Richmond and Gordon (Goodwood House) and Viscount Hinchinbrooke (one of the "Olive" Cromwell slept here's houses).

"The idea," said Lord Montagu, "was to set up a standard entrance fee or otherwise the whole thing might run riot."

The Duke of Marlborough, whose Blenheim Palace is the nation's chief stately home attraction, remained aloof, as did Queen Elizabeth's cousin, the Earl of Harewood (Harewood House) and the Marquess of Bath (Longleat House), second in the tourist league.

Sir Harold's group thought it might be well to make a standard entrance fee of about two shillings sixpence (30 cents) for tea and perhaps three shillings sixpence (48 cents) for lunch.

Extras would not be controlled—the Duke of Marlborough sells flowers from his estate, the Earl of Shrewsbury and Waterford peddles vegetables, the Duke of Norfolk, Earl Marshal of England, has a gasoline filling station.

The plan for the union has fallen through, however, and now peer is watching peer narrowly as the tourist season opens to see whether prices will be cut from last year's range of two shillings (28 cents) to two shillings sixpence.

Duke Has Advantage

The Duke of Marlborough can afford to be independent. He has an unbeatable combination in one of the world's great homes and the room in which Winston Churchill was born, complete with the layette worn by the future prime minister.

Last year he had 126,000 admissions and, with extras, gathered some $50,000. His son, the pink-cheeked Marquess of Blandford helped collect the money.

The Marquess of Bath was second with some 90,000 visitors for about $35,000. Booh those and other peers who have opened their homes are frankly trying to beat high taxation and hang on to family seats centuries old. Before them is the chilling example of the Luttrell family, which lost Dunster Castle after 750 years.

Competition Tough

Competition for the tourist dollar gets tougher every year as more and more homes are opened. This year there are almost 100 and many are the devices used to increase earnings.

Viscount Hinchinbrooke has his six children acting as guides. The Duchess of Marlborough sells guide books. Lord de Lisle and Dudley, Britain's air minister, has instituted a "connoisseurs day" for 14th century Penshurst Place—cost five shillings (70 cents) permitting tourists to roam about without guides.

bit of general interest information. The latest edition of the News Sheet has this story about the origin of Rotenone, one of the most potent insecticides in common use.

INSECTICIDE — "Senor Gerardo Klinge, publisher of the only agriculture and farm paper in the Nation of Peru," says the story, "saw Peruvian Indians throwing Cube roots out over the water where there were fish. The fish were stunned and all the Indians had to do was to wade in and catch up the fish as they floated around on top of the water. The Indians ate the fish and were poisoned. Senor Klinge reasoned that these roots must kill cold-blooded animals without bothering the warm-blooded ones. He put it to work killing ticks on the native llamas. Today Rotenone extracted from Cube root is one of our most potent insecticides. It is 30 times as poisonous as lead arsenate. Before the last war over half of the U.S. import of Rotenone came from the Dutch East Indies. During the war we depended largely on shipments from the Cube root in Peru and the Timbo root in Brazil."

Snakes have no vocal cords. At 100 miles above sea level, a cubic foot of space contains only about one three millionths as much air as the same space at sea level.

Antlers are made of bone while horns usually are modified skin and the horn of a rhinoceros is modified hair.
