New Talks Called In Steel Strike By Sec. Sawyer

Seeks To Avoid Imposing Pay Increase On Industry By Government Order

WASHINGTON (UP)—Secretary of Commerce Charles Sawyer planned new talks with steel union and management officials today in a last-ditch effort to avoid imposing a pay increase on the industry by government fiat.

Sawyer, nominally running the seized industry, was expected to meet separately again with CIO President Philip Murray and Benjamin F. Fairless, president of United States Steel Corp.

None of the three would comment on their brief talks yesterday. A Sawyer aide, asked if his boss was "mediating," said he did not know what Sawyer might "have up his sleeve."

There was widespread belief, however, that Sawyer would be forced this week to order into effect at least some wage increase for Murray's 650,000 United Steelworkers.

Meanwhile, the CIO chief scheduled a speech before the National Press Club this afternoon to outline the union's case for the 26-cent hourly wage increase package proposed by the Wage Stabilization Board.

The press club offered a forum yesterday for Price Stabilizer Ellis Arnall to blast the industry's "unverifiable and, in fact an unreasonable" claim that it needs a $12 a ton price increase to offset the recommended wage hike.

Arnall's office is ready to issue a regulation giving the industry permission to raise prices only $2 to $3 a ton—the amount permitted by stabilization rules—as soon as Sawyer takes action in the wage field.

Arnall, who has scheduled a broadcast on the steel price issue for 10:45 p.m. EST tomorrow, also testified before the Senate Labor Committee investigating the background of the long and bitter dispute.

Withdraws Kefauver Wins Endorsement Of Senator Douglas

Northern Liberal Says Tennessee Senator Has The People With Him

WASHINGTON (UP)—Sen. Paul H. Douglas, a "Northern liberal," today endorsed Tennessee's Sen. Estes Kefauver for the presidency and said "the people" are for him.

"Some of the politicians, bureaucrats and king-makers may not like you because they know they cannot control you," the Illinois Democrat said in a message to Kefauver. "But the people are for you. Let the voice of the people be heard."

Douglas made public his message to Kefauver a day after Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois announced that he would not accept the Democratic presidential nomination.

"Now that Gov. Stevenson has withdrawn as a possible candidate for the presidency, I firmly believe that you are by all odds the best available candidate for our party," the message said.

Douglas told a news conference that he "most certainly" believes that Kefauver, as the Democratic nominee, could defeat Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, one of the chief contenders for the Republican nomination.

Asked if he believes the Tennessee crime-buster could beat Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, another GOP possibility, he replied he did not know but that Kefauver would "have a very good chance."

Kefauver managers hoped Douglas' endorsement would encourage other doubtful Democrats to climb aboard his bandwagon. Douglas has a wide personal following among the "Northern liberal" elements of the Democratic Party which had been plumping for Stevenson.

Names muller over by some "stop Kefauver" Democrats after Stevenson's announcement included such possibilities as Douglas, Mutual Security Administrator W. Averell Harriman, House Speaker Sam Rayburn, Secretary of Interior Oscar L. Chapman and Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan.

Infantry Beats Back 5 Attacks

SEoul, Korea (UP)—Allied infantrymen hurled back five brief but vicious Communist attacks today on the defense line protecting the vital area northwest of the U.N. truce camp at Munsan.

Some 300 communists, attacking in five groups within less than three hours, lost 36 killed.

On the central front, a small group of Communists trapped an Allied patrol southwest of Kumsong before dawn. The surrounded U.N. troops called for help and a second patrol moved in and rescued them.

The Allies reported killing 17 in the action. Bad weather hampered the 5th Air Force. A flight of Shooting Stars tried to attack Red targets, but the results were not observed.

The Air Force said even the stratosphere was tinted with yellow haze. American tanks firing into hill positions killed or wounded 250 Chinese in a daring action yesterday that cost the U.N. not a single casualty.

REPLY DELAYED PANNUNJOM, Korea (UP)—The Communists pressed the United Nations again today to resume discussions on exchanging prisoners of war, but the Allied truce team again delayed a reply.

Aldermen Adopt Re-Routing Plan

Engineers Fear Undercutting Of Strained Levees

Two Communities Abandoned As Crisis At Hand; Week's Fight Seen

OMAHA, Neb. (UP)—The Ravenous crest of the Missouri River ate into the water-soaked levees protecting East Omaha and Council Bluffs, Ia., today and the Army warned the dikes might be undercut.

The new peril arose as the river downstream at Phelps City and Watson, Mo., lapped at the top of the dikes there, spilled over, then burst through.

All levee workers, National Guardsmen and soldiers joined the townspeople in their flight before the crushing waters at a 16-mile stretch of riverfront. The dikes, the towns and the farm land were abandoned to the "Big Muddy."

The river swept past Omaha at 29.33 feet and inched higher toward its predicted crest of 31.5 feet later today.

The crisis was at hand. "We're on the operating table now," said Brig. Gen. Don G. Shingler, head of the Missouri River Corps of Engineers. "We're going to be fighting this for a week."

It seemed unlikely that the levees, built two feet above the 31.5-foot crest level, would be topped. Shingler and Col. E.A. Hansen, also of the Army Engineers, said the danger of undercutting was acute.

The Missouri swept south, deepening and spreading wider all the while, after President Truman flew back to Washington at the conclusion of an aerial survey of the stricken region followed by a conference with the governors of the affected states.

The chief executive denounced the economy plan in Congress for thwarting his federal flood control proposals.

And he urged the governors of the seven states to join him in "lobbying" for a Missouri Basin control program.

"It's time for action," Mr. Truman said. "We have fooled around long enough.

"This is the breadbasket of the nation. It ought to be protected and it can be protected."

He said he was sure he spoke for "155,000,000 Americans" when he called for a lobby dedicated to the flood control program.

"We've got an economy wave on in Congress," the President said, "and it is wiping out some of the most important projects I have presented and it should not be done."

At strategic "Sector Seven" where the full force of the Missouri is met headon by Council Bluffs' "Anchor Levee," disaster crews were alerted for undercutting.

Severe Army barges loaded with rock were moored along the river. At the first sign that the levee might be crumbling, they will be rushed by tug to the danger spots and rocks shoved overboard by bulldozers to bear the onslaught.

Portion Of Evans Street Will Be One-Way; System Has Blessings Of Engineers And Traffic Experts; Approved Unanimously By Board Of Aldermen Yesterday

By JESS POINDEXTER, Reflector Staff Writer

A comprehensive project incorporating what is admittedly the most revolutionary series of traffic changes in the history of Greenville yesterday received unanimous approval by the board of aldermen.

Meeting in special session called by Mayor Lester D. Page, the board heard members of the traffic commission explain suggested procedures for re-routing traffic in the city by creating a new system of one-way streets here.

Members of the traffic commission, which is composed of the mayor, Chief of Police Guy C. Langston and Heber Tripp, chairman of the street committee, informed the board of aldermen that the project has already been endorsed by the State Highway Commission and the traffic commission.

Met With Expert The traffic commission last Thursday met with Robert Burch, state highway engineer and traffic expert, and second division engineer R. Markham, to work out a plan for alleviating congested traffic conditions in Greenville.

Mayor Page said, "We submitted tentative plans already drawn up and except for a few minor changes, they met with the approval of the expert," he asserted. The mayor disclosed that he and Chief Langston produced two plans, one which would route traffic North on Pitt Street and South on Greene, with interlocking streets being one-way.

The other plan was the exact opposite, with traffic running North on Greene Street and South on Pitt, with other streets still running one-way in alternating directions. Burch approved the second plan with the idea of pulling as much traffic out of town on possible.

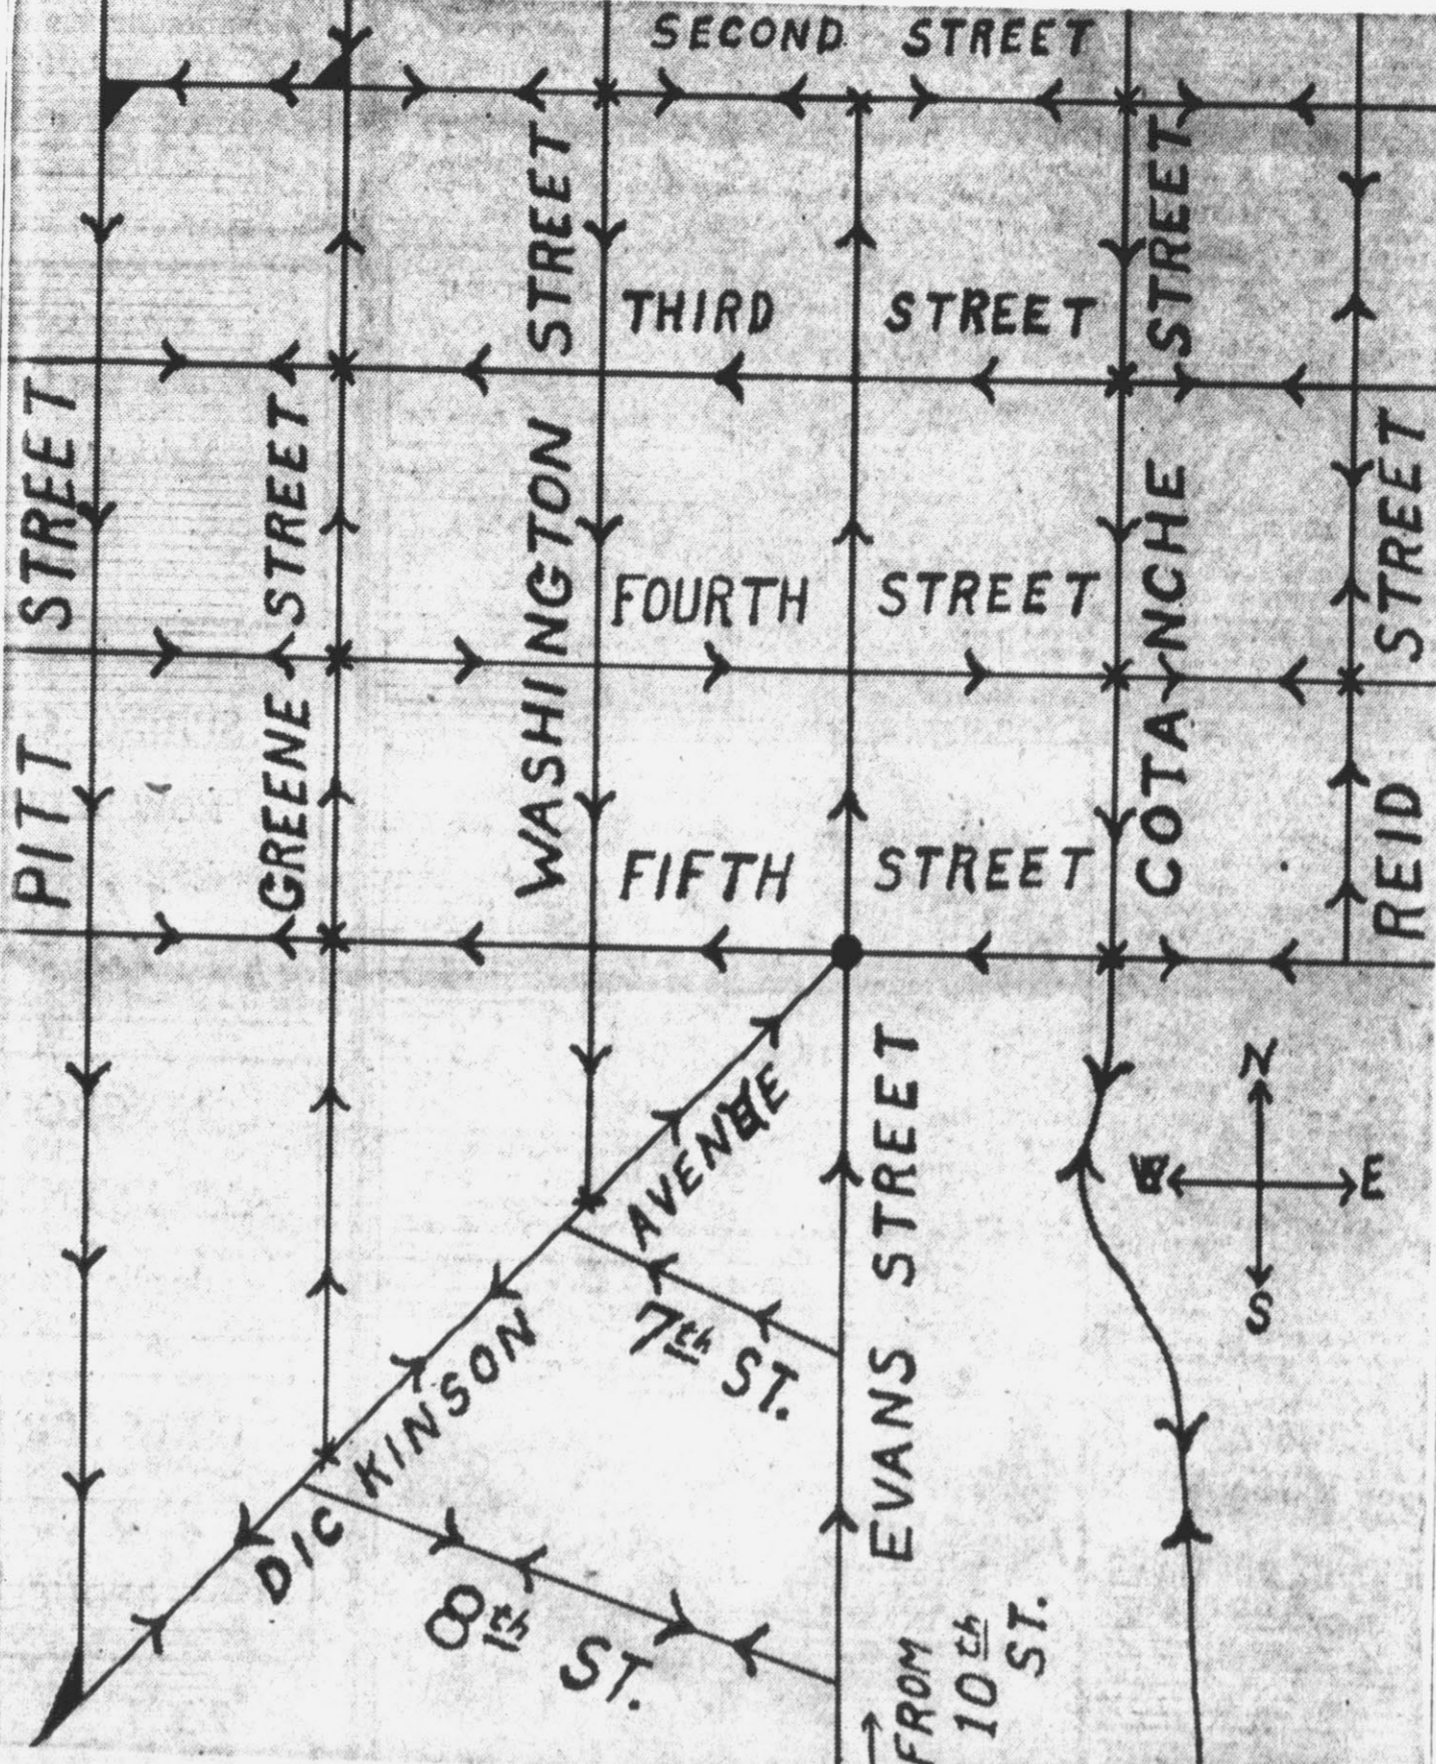

Evans One-Way From Tenth The projected map, as approved by the aldermen, provides that Evans Street run one-way from Tenth Street, through town and into Second Street. Traffic lights at Five Points will be synchronized so as to run traffic from Dickinson Avenue and Evans Street North simultaneously, traffic from Fifth Street one-way West at the second interval, and then have pedestrian crossing in all directions at the third interval.

Chief Langston stated, "We think this plan will move traffic through Five Points much faster and at the same time, provide safer crossing for pedestrians." He added that all lights in the business district of the city will have to be adjusted to fit the new one-way system, and a new one installed at the intersection of Cotanche Street and Third.

Mayor Page theorized that the new plan will be difficult for citizens to adjust themselves to at first, but after a short time they will be favorably impressed with it. "It is not our intention to create a situation beneficial to one specific group, but we hope the plan will prove helpful to all the people."

Map Of Proposed Changes In City Traffic System

The new system of one-way streets for Greenville, as previously endorsed by the State Highway Commission and unanimously approved yesterday by the Board of Aldermen, is shown in diagram above. All streets in the downtown area that run North and South and East and West are one-way in alternate directions. Arrows pointing the same way between blocks denote one-way streets in that direction, while arrows pointing toward each other denote two-way streets. At intersections 'X' show where one-way streets end, both North and South and East and West. The shaded corners in the upper left of the diagram and the one in the lower left are the three corners which will be cut back by the city to make it easier for traffic to negotiate the turns. Five Points is designated by the round, shaded area in the center of the diagram.

One Driver Cleared By Coroner's Jury

A coroner's jury last night freed a Stokes Negro man of any blame in a fatal highway death which occurred over the Easter week-end and ordered that no criminal action be taken against him.

Augustus Extom, of Route 1, Stokes, driver of the automobile in which John David Daniels, 19-year-old Stokes youth, was killed Saturday night had been held in Pitt County jail since Saturday night in default of $1,000 bond ordered by Coroner Griffin H. Rouse.

The inquest last night was scheduled to have been a double affair with John Mark Roundtree, Negro man of Grimesland, also being held for Coroner's Jury action scheduled to have been acted on by the jury.

Coroner Rouse announced that Roundtree was home in bed with injuries which had been overlooked during the first examination made early Sunday morning.

Roundtree is being held for jury action in the Easter morning death of Joe Terry, 34, of the Grimesland community. He was riding in the Roundtree car which crashed head-on into an auto near the city limits of Grimesland around eight o'clock Sunday morning. The accident killed Terry instantly, and injured five other persons.

Rouse postponed the inquest until next Monday night at seven o'clock, provided the man is able to come into court. He is under $1,000 bond.

The only witness to take the stand during the inquest last night was Patrolman Paul C. Whitley who investigated the accident in which the Daniels boy was fatally injured.

Whitley told of his findings at the scene of the accident, pointing out that skid marks leading from the overturned car to the point where they started measured 336 feet.

Whitley told the six-man jury that Extom told him he became blinded by the lights of an automobile he was meeting as he rounded a curve, causing him to lose control of the car and overturn.

Investigation made by the officer was that after losing control of the car it went off the car's left side of the road, crossing the road, hitting a ditch, which spilled Daniels from the car and the car turned over pinning the youth under it. Daniels died enroute to Pitt Memorial Hospital.

Funeral Held Today For W. H. Moore

W. H. Moore, 81, died in Pitt Memorial Hospital in Greenville at 4:05 o'clock Wednesday afternoon following two weeks' illness. Funeral services were held at the Falkland Presbyterian Church at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon and burial was in the church cemetery. The Rev. Phillip Cory, the pastor, assisted by the Rev. L. W. Topping, Presbyterian minister of Greenville, officiated.

Mr. Moore spent all his life in Pitt County, mostly in the Falkland and Farmville communities, and had lived in Greenville for the past two years. He was the mayor of Farmville from 1924 to 1926 and for several years was a member of the Executive Committee of the Farmers Union. His wife, Mrs. Susie Mayo Moore, died in 1949. He was a member of the Falkland Presbyterian Church.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Ethel M. Denton of Raleigh; four sons, W. Jeness Moore of Falkland, P. Milton Moore of Bruce, William H. Moore Jr. of Farmville, and Ivey F. Moore of Jacksonville; 10 grandchildren; and 7 great grandchildren.

Discussion On Nominees Given At Thalian Club

Mrs. Van C. Fleming Jr. entertained members of the Thalian Book Club on Tuesday of this week at a luncheon meeting at her home in Brookgreen.

Graceful arrangements of dogwood were used as decorative accents, and many bowls of pastries were in evidence on tables. Upon the arrival of the members, the hostess served a two-course broiled chicken luncheon, which was followed by a brief business meeting.

An unusual and very informative program was given in the nature of a forum discussion of some of the leading candidates for the presidential nominations for state governor. Mrs. Dan Wright presented a verbal picture of Senator Robert Taft; Mrs. Harding Sugg discussed Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, while Sen. Estes Kefauver was presented by Mrs. Bruce Sugg Jr. William E. Umstead and Hubert Olive the two leading contenders for the nomination as governor of North Carolina, were discussed by Mrs. Billy Norman and Mrs. Ed Waldrop respectively.

Many questions and remarks from the other members led into a spirited political discussion, after which the books were exchanged, and the meeting adjourned. Special guests were Mrs. Tom Wilson, Mrs. Burney Warren Jr. and Mrs. Harold Sugg of Norfolk, Va.

Housework Easy Without Nagging Backache

Nagging backache, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness may be due to slow-down of kidney function. Doctors say good kidney function is very important to good health. When some everyday condition, such as stress and strain, causes this important function to slow down, many folks suffer nagging backache—feel miserable. Minor bladder irritations due to cold or wrong diet may cause getting up nights or frequent passages. Don't neglect your kidneys if these conditions bother you. Try Doan's Pills—a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 40 years. It's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief from these discomforts—help the 15 million who suffer with kidney trouble today.

Local Eastern Star Group Celebrates 30th Birthday

Greenville Chapter 149, Order of Eastern Star, held a regular meeting on April 15th and celebrated its thirtieth birthday by honoring its charter members.

The local chapter was organized on April 29, 1922, with 27 charter members. The following seven of these charter members were present and were honored guests: Mrs. Mollie Brown, Mrs. Carrie Munford, Mrs. Josephine Rawl, Mrs. Susie Ragsdale, Mrs. Eunice Diers, Mrs. Mellie House and A. R. House. As they were presented to the chapter, Mrs. Florence Scott and Mrs. Jean Whiteley sang "Stand Up, Ye Charter Members" and they were given corsages.

Mrs. Ernestine Garner, chairman of the program, brought a large birthday cake in the chapter room and asked permission to have it decorated. Each Star Point placed candles in the emblematic colors around the star design in the center of the cake and paid tribute to the charter members. The cake was then presented to the charter members and "Happy Birthday" songs and "Happy Birthday" songs were sung.

Card Party And Kitchen Shower For Miss Saieed

Mrs. Dan Saieed and Mrs. John Saieed Jr. were joint hostesses last night when they entertained to honor Miss Betty Lou Saieed, a bride-elect of this month.

The bridge party and kitchen shower was held at the home of Mrs. Dan Saieed on Library Street. Puschia azaleas, tulips and spirea were combined in attractive arrangements as decorations for the rooms where the guests were received.

Four tables were set for a dessert course which was served as soon as they were seated at places marked with individual pink carnation corsages. Strawberry shortcake and coffee were passed by the hostesses, and during the playing of cards, iced drinks and salted oriental nuts were passed.

Three tables of bridge and one table of canasta were played. Miss Mary Ann Smoot was winner of a prize for high score at bridge while the honoree, Miss Saieed, was the recipient of a gift for low score. Miss Doris Brown was awarded a prize for high at canasta and Mrs. A. V. Wade was winner of second high.

At the conclusion of the games of cards, the hostesses brought in a wicker basket filled with miscellaneous gifts appropriate for use in the kitchen.

Miss Saieed opened the presents and displayed them for the pleasure of the guests. Mrs. John Saieed Sr., mother of the honoree, was a guest for the refreshment hour.

Ladies Honored With Gifts At Credit Club Meeting

At a regular breakfast meeting, Saturday morning, April 12, at 7:30, in the dining room of the American Legion Home, Mrs. Cassie Sawyer and Mrs. J. B. Spilman were honor guests of the Credit Women's Breakfast Club.

Mrs. Sawyer, one of the club's first members, is leaving Greenville to assume management of the Diana Shop in Goldsboro, and a farewell shower was given her by the club.

The breakfast table was beautiful with Easter flowers and other decorations, and individual favors consisted of a cunning Easter Bunny, carrying a basket of colored eggs.

After breakfast, a huge basket was brought in and presented to Mrs. Sawyer, who opened and displayed her lovely gifts. Mrs. Sawyer then introduced and presented to the club the guest and teacher of the first two lessons of the Fifth Educational Study Course, Mrs. J. B. Spilman.

In a brilliant, entertaining and very human discussion, Mrs. Spilman brought out the salient points of the lessons, and compared the advantages enjoyed in office work today with that of twenty years ago. She also commended the girls for taking advantage of the opportunities offered them of membership in the CWBC of North America, a women's organization devoted to improving relationships between employer and employee, broadening the scope of mental and social contacts, developing loyalty, courtesy, integrity and incentive, with particular emphasis to those in all phases of credit work. Mrs. Spilman was presented with a lovely lavender necklace and earring set, a gift of the club.

Mrs. Lucy Pittman, educational chairman, introduced Mrs. Spilman. Following the distribution of door prizes, and a few brief announcements by President Margaret Boykin, the meeting adjourned with the reading of the club creed.

Mrs. Hardy Johnson for the devotional read St. Mark 16 chapter. Mrs. Philip M. Cory read the article, "Our Christian Colleges."

Mrs. R. A. Fountain, president, presided over the business session. Final plans were made and approved to get the church sink and have it installed in the church kitchen at the earliest date possible.

Mrs. R. A. Fountain, Mrs. G. E. Trevathan and Mrs. J. A. Mercer were the three delegates to represent the Fountain church at Albemarle Presbytery at Rocky Mount Presbyterian Church Friday, April 18.

At the close of the business session the hostess served refreshments. Members present were: Mrs. Robert Mercer, Mrs. Bill Jefferson, Mrs. J. A. Mercer, Mrs. Hardy Johnson, Mrs. J. L. Dozier, Mrs. Dennis Mercer, Mrs. C. L. Owens, Mrs. R. A. Fountain, Mrs. G. E. Trevathan, Mrs. Philip M. Cory, Mrs. E. C. Newton, Mrs. W. R. Harris and Mrs. Johnnie Owens.

Indirectly Honor Wooden Dummy

BOSTON (UP)—Some of the nation's top scientists and businessmen will turn out tomorrow to pay tribute indirectly to a wooden dummy known as Mr. Cruikshank and to an industrial researcher who has been called the "noisiest man in the world."

The gathering is sponsored by the Boston Chamber of Commerce to show why metropolitan Boston, once known as the hub of the universe, is now the "research center of the world."

The meeting will feature new products, new developments and improvements in medicine and industry made possible by such persons and things as Mr. Cruikshank and "the noisiest man," Ernest Crocker, a researcher for Arthur D. Little, Inc.

Mr. Cruikshank undergoes thousands of X-rays a year at Massachusetts Institute of Technology to record X-ray shocks. Crocker can identify 9,000 different odors and from the smell can tell just what is wrong with an individual product.

Both are part of the multi-million-dollar research industry that has mushroomed in the area, with colleges such as Harvard, MIT, Boston University and Tufts taking the lead.

More than half the MIT budget—$14,000,000 out of $24,000,000—was earmarked for research with large portions of it going into projects of the Atomic Energy Commission and other government programs.

The MIT scientists do a little work on their own, too, some of them joining colleagues from Harvard in a private organization to develop a water purifier that can take the salt out of sea-water for only 10 cents per 10,000 gallons.

Cancer research and other medical fields are covered by Boston University, Tufts and several Boston hospitals. The Children's Medical Center specializes in diseases of children and adolescents.

Lion Cub Is Too Big For A Pet

BUFFALO, N. Y. — (UP) — "The cub is six months old now and doesn't know its own strength."

For this reason, Mrs. Sidney Lewin thinks she made a wise decision in sending the little lion to the zoo. She said Sheba was given to her son, Donn, a professional wrestler, while he was "campaigning" in Texas in December.

Donn and his wife, Harriet, used to take Sheba out for walks on a leash. At home, the "kitten" would play with their German shepherd dog. But Mrs. Lewin thought the cub was getting too big to play with her 18-month-old grandson.

Moving To Another Cost Of Living Plateau

The trend of labor disputes during the past several weeks point to another hike in the nation's cost of living as wages of various groups of workers have been upped, and other wage increases in industries are in the making.

As the wages go up, prices of products, if they follow the past trends, will soon enter another round of increase, and the consumer will have to shell out more of his dollars to get what he needs and wants. The wage increase will cause demands for price increases, and the continuous spiral of inflation the United States has known since World War II will have been given a boost to a still higher level.

As the dollar value comes down, even slightly, it will mean the government's spending for defense programs (unless more dollars are spent) will purchase less material than anticipated. That in itself will prompt requests for more defense dollars, which in turn will mean either a larger deficit for the national budget, or higher taxes for the individual taxpayer.

The American people have watched the cost of living move from one plateau to another during the past several years, and they know full well how the cycle works. Unless an unexpected break comes now, which is extremely doubtful, the nation will have reached new cost of living heights by the middle of the fall months.

National Whirligig

WASHINGTON—President Truman's loss of leadership on Capitol Hill is exemplified most strikingly in the Senate. In spite of three erstwhile cronies and supposed presidential spokesmen who have not lifted a voice or a finger on behalf of his controversial legislative program.

It is not surprising, therefore, that the only action of major importance in the upper chamber during the current session has been the ratification of the Japanese peace treaty, which was the handiwork of John Foster Dulles who may become secretary of state in an Eisenhower Cabinet.

The fact that four senators are striving for the Democratic presidential nomination is partially responsible for this failure to enact any of Truman's major legislative proposals.

Three of the candidates—Senators Kefauver, Russell and Kerr—do not want to be saddled with responsibility for any of Truman's "fair deal" schemes, should they be nominated. The fourth, Senator Humphrey of Minnesota, has no influence with his colleagues.

GRUDGE—Although Senator Ernest W. McFarland of Arizona was elected majority leader by the urban Truman bloc in a contest with the so-called "plantation" group from the south, he has made almost no effort on behalf of the White House program. The same applies to Senator Carl Hayden of the same state, chairman of the powerful Rules Committee and an astute legislator.

They bear a special grudge against their old senatorial friend, based on Truman's nomination of Dale E. Doxy to be a member of the Federal Power Commission. He is a zealous and aggressive exponent of the Truman-Chapman-Status theory of far-reaching federal control of power, natural gas and land resources generally.

As assistant secretary of the interior in charge of land management, he has advocated a form of government supervision in this field which has been repeatedly repudiated by the courts. It was his attitude in a controversy of this nature which earned him the ill will of the Arizona veterans.

PROVISO—When the El Paso Natural Gas Company applied for a license to build a pipeline to carry its product into Arizona, Mr. Doxy opposed the grant unless certain stipulations satisfactory to Interior. These provided that the pipeline must be used as a common carrier for the simple reason that it would be built through sixteen miles of government land.

The company refused to agree to these conditions because such a proviso would have deprived it of the full-time use of its property. Although Interior was defeated in the courts, Secretary Chapman and Assistant Secretary Doxy refused to accept this and other judicial rulings to the same effect as a precedent.

PROBLEM—This attempt to impose restrictions in the west and other sections by this indirect method has become an extremely serious problem in view of the government's vast and expanding ownership of land and oil forms of property. It is a key factor in the famous oil-tideland controversy, which has embittered Congressional and local interests in so many states.

NATURALLY, Messrs. McFarland, Hayden, Kerr and their associates do not want a man of the Doxy type on the Federal Power Commission. It would give the Chapman forces a representative on that body which has sided with the anti-federal bloc so consistently that the secretary of the interior has gone so far as to challenge its jurisdiction in the U. S. courts.

DOUBTFUL—Despite his series of losses in the lower courts, Chapman has insisted on appealing to the Supreme Court. Solicitor General Philip B. Perlman argued against these appeals, figuring that he had a losing case. And Truman did not help himself in the Senate by overruling Perlman.

As a result the Doxy appointment has been bottled up in committee, and his confirmation is extremely doubtful. Even the Democratic leaders hope that the next president, whether he be a Democrat or Republican, will oppose the sort of super-government which the present administration favors in this field.

President Barkley is a silent partner in the McFarland-Hayden filibuster. He has been hurt by Truman's apparent opposition to his presidential ambitions.

POETIC—Government tax scandals have recently made big black headlines. In fact, there have been poetic outbursts on the subject, to wit:
Hush or aah! for our song begins. Let everyone stand aside
Who owns an intellect muddled with sins, or in arts like these untried!

In matters of politics keeps spite afloat to bring in power at a critical hour accepts little gifts from friends,
Or goes sailing a ship, or betraying a fort or takes to the trade of a smuggler.
Attempting again in Thorey's sort—that president revenue-juggler.

However, these lines were not written about the current Internal Revenue, Maritime Commission, R. F. C. or Maritime-Vaughan deals. They may be found in "Antiphones," "The Frogs," which was published in 405 BC.

ANAHEIM, CALIF. BULLETIN—The House Appropriations Committee slashed an average of 10 per cent from the seven billion dollar request for a dozen Federal agencies for the next fiscal year. For some departments the cuts ran as high as 33 per cent. More of "this sort" of thing might well obviate the need for deficit spending or more taxes, as one law maker expressed it.

OSKALOOSA, IOWA, DAILY HERALD—"Some-where there is a point at which earning can be knocked down by taxation to the point where they are inadequate to pay the taxes. Which is to ask, what happens to the milk when the cow goes dry?"

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

Like any other place, Greenville is a town where people are very critical of entertainers. Just take Arthur Godfrey, for example. People in Greenville have split opinions on him. Some think there's nobody who can equal him, and others think he's lousy.

Before the days of Godfrey was lukewarm. But when you can see Godfrey's facial expression, you like him. At least I did, the few times reception in Greenville has been good enough to see him. Let me insert a note: If you buy a set, you can expect good reception in Greenville about half the time. Anyone who claims to get it over half the time is champion of informality. He acts so natural that you know it can't be acting. He tells stories that concern just plain everyday people. Here are some examples:

(1) Grandmother had volunteered to look after her four-year-old grandson while his parents went out one night.

Tucking him in bed she whispered, "All right, my dear. Are you ready for your bedtime story?"

"Not tonight, thank you, Grandma," the boy said.

"Then I'll sing you a little lullaby," she said.

"No thanks, Grandma. No lullaby please."

"Then what can I do for you, my child?" she asked.

"Well, I had a youngster, 'I've had a hard day. Suppose you go away and let me get some sleep."

(2) A minister received a call from his wife church at almost double his salary. He replied that he would prayerfully consider the matter and give them his decision in a few days. A short time later the pastor's small son was asked by an interested friend if his father had decided to accept the offer.

"I don't know," the child replied. "Papa is still praying, but Mama has our things packed."

(3) After a hard day at the office, a man went home to his wife and cute little three-year-old daughter.

"Have you a kiss for Daddy?"

"No."

"I'm ashamed of you. Your Daddy works hard all day to bring home a little money and you behave like that. Come on now, where's the kiss?"

Looking him right in the eye, the three-year-old said, "Where's the money?"

And I thank Arthur.

Around Capitol Square

SAINT MARY'S — Saint Mary's School at Raleigh is launching a bi-state Development Fund campaign with a goal of $300,000. The century-old and nationally famed Episcopal school for girls, which also gives two-year college courses, is owned and controlled by the five dioceses in North and South Carolina. While it draws students from all over the country, majority of the alumni and current student body, as well as bulk of financial support, comes from that part of this state lying east of Charlotte and Winston-Salem, embraced in the dioceses of North Carolina and Eastern Carolina. Proceeds of the Development Fund Campaign will be distributed on basis of $100,000 for a new science classroom building and $20,000 for equipment in that building, $100,000 for a general endowment fund and $50,000 for a scholarship fund. The student body is not restricted to Episcopalians, nor will the appeal for funds be confined to members of that denomination.

COMMON — Similar campaigns in behalf of church-related and non-tax supported schools and colleges have been common practice for a good many years. The only unusual feature of the Saint Mary's project is the modest amount sought and the relatively broad scope of prospective contributors. Wake Forest College not so long ago solicited a much more ambitious drive with satisfactory results. Other colleges have made concerted effort, though sometimes with less organized fanfare, to increase capital investment, endowment and scholarship funds. David-Queens, Elon, High Point, Atlantic City, Han, Guilford and nearly all the rest of North Carolina's excellent church-related institutions have appealed to alumni and friends to help them maintain the high standard of Christian education for which they have become noted. In all of these campaigns sponsors of the projects have to do it necessary to repeat over and over the reasons why such special efforts must be made. There are many reasons, at least two of which are fundamental.

SERVICE — It is almost unanimously conceded, even by those who prefer to send their children to public tax supported schools, that the church-related institutions perform a real service that cannot be rendered by any other agency. The American tradition backed up in many instances by statutory law, prohibits the teaching of religious subjects in tax supported schools. This opposition goes far enough in some places to oppose the reading of the Bible or its teaching as literature, because of conflicting tenets of Protestantism, Catholicism, Jews and the several denominations into which these major groups are divided. It is generally accepted policy throughout the United States that there must be maintained clear distinction between Church and State, but that all the churches must recognize and support the secular authority of the government and that the government must protect the several churches in freedom of worship and religious teaching.

CO-OPERATIVE — An integral part of this concept of separation of Church and State is recognition of common obligations. The Church cannot be expected to support a civil government that is completely amoral and vicious, nor can the State be expected to protect any religious activity that is clearly inimical to destruction of the government or violates the rights of other citizens. Likewise the State has no right to require that church schools educate all the citizens; nor does any church have the right to expect the state to teach its peculiar sectarian tenets. That gets us back to one fundamental consideration: That there must be public tax-supported schools, and also there must be non-tax church related schools and that they must maintain distinctly separate but co-operative activities, all the way from kindergarten to post graduate courses. An all-church educational system or an all-state system has the same inevitable result—freedom through complete dominance of a sectarian or political ideology. Medieval Europe and present-day Russia afford examples of that deplorable situation.

DIFFUSED — The next fundamental idea is that support and control of non-tax schools and colleges must be widely diffused, not concentrated in one individual or one small clique, if they are to fulfill their mission. North Carolina has some very fine "private" schools, owned outright by one man or a small group of persons, who absolutely control them. Other good schools in this state, many more in Virginia and New England, have very limited facilities designed to serve only a carefully selected clientele, and with no rules governing selection of students or curriculum except the wishes of the owner-operator. These private schools and the public tax schools represent the two extremes of the educational system. Between these extremes lie the numerous

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER
If individual businesses want higher volumes of sales, they will have to work for them by selling harder. There is no reason at present for expecting any general rise in demand that will lift volume for everybody.

Consumers' conception of the future largely governs buying patterns. During late 1950 and early 1951, they feared shortages, controls and rising prices. They bought heavily. Today there are almost no shortages, controls are being eased and many prices are weak. And there is nothing on the horizon to suggest a change. War scares are certainly no worse than they have been and production appears to be rising as fast as demand.

There may be some improvement in soft goods. The piles of things consumers bought during the buying spree are being reduced. Some time this year a lot of people are going back into the market to replenish ward robes and pantries. This fresh demand will stiffen prices a bit and that will bring into the market many of those who have been holding off hoping for lower prices. But this pick up is not likely to be strong enough to lift total buying very much nor can individual businesses depend on it as much as they can on their own intensified sales efforts.

People are now spending around 91 cents of every dollar of personal income after taxes. Before Korea, they were spending 96 cents. That 5 cents difference, at current rates of income, is the equivalent to eleven billion dollars a year. The current inclination to save is costing merchants that much in sales.

The remaining 9 cents is saved or, at least, classified as savings by government statisticians. Last year savings totaled 17.2 billion dollars and 5 billion more may have been saved this year. But any business man who thinks all those billions are piled up, some way and can be tapped by pulling some kind of plug is under a misapprehension.

Savings are many things and money in the bank is only one of them. Savings are payments on mortgages and debts, payments on insurance and annuities, investments in savings bonds, stocks and securities. This definition of savings may seem a little odd. A man paying $100 a month rent is spending that amount. The fellow next door paying $100 a month on a mortgage is saving that sum.

Of course, if there was a fresh war scare, people could cash their bonds and hook insurance policies to buy sugar and tires. But a lot of the savings, such as pay-offs on mortgages, are not very liquid. It should also be noted that a lot of savings now and in the future are obligations. All those families who have bought houses and automobiles on mortgages and installment plans have committed themselves to save until the debts are discharged.

February 1951 was during the buying splurge.

However, a large part of future savings are not obligated. That part could be changed into spending. But it won't just happen. Merchants will have to convince the owners that they want their goods more than they want money in banks or bonds.

BANK LIQUIDATING FILMS ON VIDEO

It is the story about the man who called on his banker and asked if he had ever been in the restaurant business. The banker said no.

"You are now," said the man. "I can't pay my loan."

There is a new parallel. A New York bank financed a number of movie producers in making films. Some producers could not pay off the loans, possibly because their movies were not so hot, and the bank found itself in possession of the films. Now it is leasing ten of them to a television network.

POTATOES FROM SPAIN, PORK FROM GERMANY

Spain shipped us potatoes and now Germany is sending us canned meats. First shipments of $14,500,000 worth of pork products are to arrive in New York early next month.

Germany has no meat shortage but it lacks fats and oils. Dollars realized from the sale of the canned pork will be used to buy fats. The Germans had originally intended to sell the meat to Great Britain but the British have cut their purchases to save money.

FACTORY APPLIANCE SALES DECLINE

Factory sales of major appliances in February were sharply under year-ago totals according to the National Electrical Manufacturers Association. Sales this February and a year ago were:

Household refrigerators, 277,986 and 432,420; electric ranges, 64,984 and 124,119; farm and home freezers, 5, 27 and 4 63,998; and electric water heaters, 43,453 and 59,501.

NEW PRODUCTS

DOG COLLAR: Now being marketed by Miracold, 200 James St., Seattle 4, Wash. is a dog collar weighing less than one ounce and made of material said to resist rot and stain. Inlaid in the collar is space for dog's and owner's names.

SHINER: A cellulose acetate shoe shine applicator is being offered by Sa Ibert, Inc., 10 Broad St., New York 4. Roller on front end picks up polish contained in a cartridge inside case and leaves wool but finishes the job, preventing stained hands.

AIR CONDITIONER: An all-year oil-fired home air conditioner has been developed by the Evansville, Ind. Because of greater mechanical complexity, the new unit will be more expensive than gas-fired air conditioners.

Hal Boyle's Column

By ROBERT L. GOWE (For HAL BOYLE)
NEW YORK — (AP) — "The Greatest Show On Earth" is dominated by European headliners. How come?

Well, it seems leading American acts are now almost nonexistent and what few there are are mostly seen on television. So the Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey Circus recruits most of its top talent in West Europe.

Descendants of American circus performers are more apt to be singers or dancers aiming at the films, television or radio. They don't like the hard work attached to becoming a top circus performer," said a circus spokesman.

There is still a strong family tradition in European circus families, he said. The children are trained to follow their parents on a trapeze or into a lion cage. They are put in the act as soon as possible.

Oscar Konyot, Hungarian-born lion tamer chief of Milan, may offer an object lesson in why the circus is losing its attractiveness for American performers. Konyot is in the hospital suffering from a badly-mauled left arm.

The lion-tamer's spectacular performance ends as he urges the lions to dash madly about the big cage. They leap over him and bounce from the wire walls. One lion didn't leap over him—but on him.

Konyot's assistant, a lean, wiry young man, Paul Fritz, of Berlin, took over the act. Fritz said he took over the whip with some trepidation. "I have been working with lions for some ten years, but as you can see, I have some scars to show, too." He pushed back his hair to reveal several scalp wounds.

The danger always present is shrugged off by the performers as part of the natural hazards of their profession. Most of them are so glad to be drawing American salaries and eating American food that they would risk their necks three times a day, if necessary.

The youngest headliner this year is 18-year-old Dieter Tasso, of Berlin, who gets a tremendous ovation for his slack wire act. In this, he balances eight cups and saucers on his head, finally tossing a lump of sugar with his foot in the top-most cup.

Asked why there weren't more American featured performers, Karl Chaludis of the Cycling Chaludis of Graz, Austria, said: "This business is tough. We are brought up tough. Americans want to take life a little more easy and make big money. We are happy just to be here and working in the only business we have ever known."

Chaludis pointed with pride to his son, Karl, Karl was backstage on a tremendously high unicycle

What Other Papers Are Thinking

PRESIDENT INTERVENES (Washington News)
President Truman did not use the powers given him under the Taft-Hartley law to seize the steel industry. Rather, he used emergency powers which may or may not be constitutional.

The very act of seizure raises two or three very important questions. In the first place Mr. Truman has asked congress to give him powers which will in effect legalize and "larry" an act which he has already carried through. If it should develop that his act of seizure is now unconstitutional, then in future years, a president may be powerless to act when an emergency is created or when the national welfare is at stake.

If the president of the United States must resort to the courts to determine whether his acts are legal or not, then it could prove embarrassing on several counts.

We have the danger of a president using broad powers to the detriment of the people of this country on the one hand. And we have the danger of the president not having power to act in an emergency on the other.

We cannot see why he failed to use his powers under the Taft-Hartley act unless the president's own dislike of the law made him feel reluctant to use it. Now, if the president has seized the steel industry and the courts say that

Strength for the Day

Public corruption making the headlines today is not a vice appearing for the first time in our history. There has been corruption as long as governments have existed. But it is true regardless of when it appears that nothing more completely reveals the essential rottenness of a social order as does the willingness of its officials to graft and to sell justice for a price.

How disastrous to public life and the welfare of citizens as large has been the presence of civic corruption in every age? Men take bribes, sell their influence espouse wrong causes for a fee, and the result is the rule of the wicked in state and city, the insecurity of life and the corruption of public morals everywhere. Viewed in the light of its results, bribery is almost as serious a crime as murder. Wherever it is practiced, the stability of government and the welfare of citizens are jeopardized.

Here is an issue which rises above party. One party or the other may be the more given to corruption, but corruption in public office is found almost everywhere and should be dealt with as a national menace rather than a political issue.

The nation which permits such evils to exist will eventually pay a heavy penalty. Corruption in high places is the danger signal of approaching disaster.

The New Traffic System Is Needed

The Reflector is in favor of the one-way traffic system for Greenville's business district which was endorsed yesterday by the city board of aldermen.

The proposed pattern may have to be altered after the system has been in use, but one-way traffic is something the city's business district has needed for a long time.

It is going to mean that a great many shoppers and other motorists are going to have to change their driving habits in the downtown section, but it will also mean they will be able to get from place to place without the traffic congestion presently so common in Greenville.

Even with these advantages, we realize there are people in Greenville who would much prefer to continue the present system of two-way streets, and they will not hesitate to condemn the change that has been authorized. The condemnation will be heard long before the system is tried.

It must be realized that Greenville is not still a one-horse town. It has grown into a small, busy city, and it faces the traffic problems created by narrow streets, and lack of foresighted planning long years ago. In that respect Greenville is not unique. Many other cities face the same thing, and they, like Greenville, are seeking to make the best of the physical situation in which they find themselves.

It is quite evident in Greenville that unless some changes are made in the traffic system, motor vehicle movement must slow to a snail's pace as the congestion mounts.

Admittedly the one-way pattern developed by local officials and traffic experts is elaborate and far-reaching. It may be more system than Greenville needs at the present time, but we will not know for sure until it is tried. We are sure of one thing, however: Some changes need to be made from the present system.

After the new system is put into effect, alterations which are necessary will be obvious and can be made.

But there is another factor which must be considered in making the change. It is going to throw traffic on streets which now are ill-prepared to carry a heavy flow of traffic. Even on paper, it is already evident that one or more streets that have not been paved will have to be surfaced to take care of the anticipated increased traffic load thrown upon them. Other streets which have been paved probably will have to be repaved and perhaps widened as a heavier traffic flow is funneled onto them.

With the city fathers already claiming the city is pressed for funds for such work, they should be lining up funds to do this work instead of waiting until the last minute as too often has been done in Greenville's government.

ON THE HOUSE

By DAVID G. BAREUTHER, AP Real Estate Editor

ONE MAN can install gypsum wallboard panels on attic ceiling by using a T-brace to hold end of the material. Notice insulation shown between rafters and ceiling joists.

Converting an unfinished attic into extra rooms is the easiest and most economical method of enlarging a house.

So much less lumber and less work are required to finish an attic in contrast to adding a wing to a house that there is no comparison. A wing not only involves excavation, foundation and relatively costly construction of outer walls and roof, but it also necessitates destruction of a certain amount of existing construction where the new addition is joined to the house.

This problem of expanding a house is the center of one of the major architectural controversies over small house design. The big question is whether to plan new houses with any attics at all. Building costs are so high over old levels, unless you allow for general inflation and changes in income, that many architects advocate the elimination of attics along with basements. They champion low pitched or flat roofs to save the cost of constructing attic space.

So if you have an attic, as most older houses have, you can consider yourself lucky. That big barn-like space up there under the rafters can provide a dandy playroom for children and can be inexpensively converted into bedrooms when children require separate rooms of their own.

The first thing to determine is the strength of the joists. When an attic is built without any access, it is very possible that the joists may be inadequate for the combined dead and live loads of livable rooms. When the use of an attic is not anticipated, ceiling joists merely have to be strong enough to hold up the lath and plaster under them.

For a storage attic, joists usually are only slightly stronger and still not heavy enough for rooms to be occupied. Then if you plan to add an extra bathroom in an attic, even stronger framing is called for. So check the joists, either by comparing their sizes and spans with the joists under the main floor, or have a competent carpenter inspect them. Almost any carpentry manual will show the spans and loads that are safe for various joist sizes and wood species.

Stronger joists can be installed if needed, so this precaution is not a matter of throwing cold water on your dream attic.

The next point to figure on is headroom. Establish lines on either side of the attic under the roof pitch, where you will have a 5-foot rise from floor to rafters. Along these lines you will want to run 2 by 4s from floor to rafters for studs to provide nailing space for wallboards. Lathing and plastering is generally rated as too much of a luxury these days for attic remodeling, so for economy you'll probably use some form of wallboard.

Decorative insulating board is available, but even more complete insulation will pay in the long run. Here you can take your choice among the various cellular batts, such as the mineral wools; or loose fill insulators for flat surfaces, such as vermiculite; or reflective metal foil insulation.

If you use metal foil, install it snugly between studs and rafters with all joints as tight as possible. Make certain that you leave an air space on each surface. If you slap it up against outer walls you destroy much of its insulating quality by making it a conductor and you have a vapor barrier in the worst of all possible places—where warm inner air condenses against the cold surface.

Properly installed reflective insulation has many advantages and the accordion pleated type, which is double with air space between, rates very high in efficiency. Modern building materials also make the enclosing of attic rooms a comparatively simple job. Ordinary paper composition wallboard, gypsum wallboard that is virtually prefabricated plaster, fiber boards and the pressed wood hardboards all come in large sheets—the commonest being 4 by 8 feet.

Although the work of installing these sheets goes faster with two men, it is entirely possible for one man to handle them easily even in fastening them to the ceiling. A T-brace, made by nailing a piece of 2 by 4 across one end of a piece long enough to prop up from floor to ceiling will support one end of a sheet of wall board while the other end is temporarily inserted in an H-brace to allow for nailing.

Report Trachoma Is Now Curable

GENEVA, (UP) — Trachoma, an eye disease prevalent in the world, is curable, according to a committee of experts who met here under the auspices of the United Nations Health Organization.

The disease hitherto has been considered incurable, but WHO tests carried out in the past 18 months among Arab refugees showed that some 80 out of 100 responded successfully to treatment combining sulfa drugs and such antibiotics as aureomycin and tetracycline.

The WHO expert committee on trachoma is made up of doctors from the United States, Japan, Italy, Portugal, Tunis, Algeria and Egypt.

Prison Warden Says Mutiny To End By Nightfall

TRENTON, N.J. (UP) — Sixty-eight mutinous convicts held out today in their captured New Jersey Prison print shop but the warden predicted hunger would force them to surrender by nightfall.

The convicts, including several "desperate" criminals, seized the two-story stone building at 10 a.m. EST Tuesday in the third rebellion against Warden William H. Carty's administration in 17 days.

Carty said that to all extents and purposes the men had gone without food and water since they mutinied, although sandwiches had been passed through a broken window periodically for two guards and two civilian instructors held as hostages by the rioters.

Prison officials speculated that the rebels might have stored food supplies in the print shop before seizing the building and erecting barricades with heavy tables and equipment.

However, they pointed out it was unlikely the men had brought in enough provisions to supply their needs during a prolonged "strike." State officials promised the men yesterday a "complete hearing" of their grievances if they would come out but ringleaders shouted last night they would not leave their bastion until Carty is discharged.

Prison authorities said "all was quiet" during the early morning hours today, even though heavily armed guards and state troopers stood by to cope with any possible violent eventuality.

City fire equipment was kept in readiness, should the men set fire to the building.

Elsewhere in the 100-year-old prison there was a brooding quietness. Some 1,300 non-rioters who had been locked in their cells to prevent the mutiny from spreading were silent. They had demonstrated yesterday against their confinement by pounding cell bars.

Soon after Carty, a former wall guard who became warden last November, took office, resentment flared up among the convicts. They staged a two-day riot on March 30 that was quelled with tear gas.

Another uprising on April 5 was short-lived.

The rioters, in their latest outbreak, demanded a complete investigation of conditions at the prison as the price of their surrender.

Bomb Shelter Is Located Beneath His Back Porch

CLEVELAND, O. (UP) — An apprehensive home builder, Julius Kish, has just completed the first home bomb shelter in this area and is considering incorporating this modern-day safeguard in all the future houses he builds for other people.

Kish located his own shelter beneath the back porch. It took three men two days to install the 10 1/2 by 8 foot room, which is 54 1/2 inches high with 3 1/2-inch thick concrete walls. The overhead roof is three feet of reinforced concrete.

Kish equipped the room not only with a main entrance from the basement but also an emergency escape hatch, like a submarine's.

This cold war reality costs about $1,200 and weighs more than 75 tons, when added with fire extinguishers, food, water supplies, power, bunks and emergency oxygen supplies.

Many animals can be classified as having either exterior or interior skeletons, the lower invertebrates being those which have exterior skeletons.

Teachers Plan Economics Study

HARTFORD, Conn. (UP) — Nearly 2,000 American school teachers will attend workshops this summer in an attack upon economic illiteracy.

They will bring back to their classrooms in the fall subject matter on the American economy, its strengths, weaknesses, and present-day challenges. The 28 workshops, mostly on university campuses, will be held in 19 states and Hawaii. Average length of a workshop is three weeks.

During that period teachers hear lectures on economic subjects by experts in their field, discuss problems with the speakers and then are assisted by curriculum experts in planning a classroom presentation that will be meaningful to their pupils.

Here are some of the subjects considered by teachers at a typical workshop. What are the achievements and potentialities of our economy? what are the forces that energize and control it? what economic problems does mobilization impose? how can we deal with current inflationary pressure? what are the problems of price support policy? what are the problems of labor-management relations? what are the problems of social security and social welfare? what is America's role in world trade?

A workshop sessions teachers are in association with business men and industrialists, labor leaders, representatives of agriculture, government and civic organizations.

Claims Religious Side Overlooked

CHICAGO (AP)—A clergyman-editor declared today that the Voice of America has refused to transmit radio addresses by evangelist Billy Graham and Msgr. Fulton J. Sheen, noted Catholic lecturer and author.

Dr. James DeForest Murch of Cincinnati, editor of United Evangelical Action magazine, told the convention of the National Association of Evangelicals that the government-sponsored overseas network has not given a well-rounded picture of American religious life.

"Information reaching me indicates that evangelist Billy Graham's messages have been ruled out by the program directors on the basis that his appeal for conversion to the Christian gospel is too strong," he said.

He said he believed Msgr. Sheen's addresses "have been rejected because of their 'too positive' in Christian philosophy and ethics."

Dr. Murch presented a resolution asking the convention to protest the religious policies of the Voice of America.

Russell Has His First Slate Of State Delegates

COLUMBIA (AP)—Georgia Sen. Richard Russell has his first full slate of pledged delegates today, following the South Carolina State Democratic Convention.

The convention yesterday pledged South Carolina's 16 national convention votes to Russell "for as long as his name is in nomination."

A few blocks away, the GOP Convention turned down specific endorsement of either Gen. Eisenhower or Sen. Taft. The Republicans elected six uninstructed delegates to the party's national convention.

Gov. James F. Byrnes urged the Russell endorsement in his keynote speech to the convention. The Democrats agreed to recess, rather than adjourn, and meet again after both national parties have named their presidential nominees. The States Rights maneuver leaves the door open for a split with the national party such as occurred in 1948, when J. Strom Thurmond, then governor, was the States Rights presidential candidate.

Science Workshop Set At College On April 26

How to make and use inexpensive equipment for science courses in the secondary school will be discussed and demonstrated at a workshop scheduled for Saturday, April 26, under the sponsorship of the science department at East Carolina College.

Dr. Charles W. Reynolds, director of the department, has announced that two sessions will be held during the day in the auditorium of the science department in the Flanagan building. The morning meeting will begin at 10, and the afternoon session at 2 o'clock.

Invitations have been sent to teachers of science in secondary schools in the eastern and Piedmont sections of North Carolina, according to Dr. Reynolds. Anyone interested in the teaching of science who wishes to be present will be welcome, he states. No charge will be made for attendance at the workshop.

R. M. Helms of the science faculty at the college will act as lecturer and demonstrator at the two meetings. Low-cost equipment of various types for use in science classes and laboratories will be displayed. Mr. Helms will discuss the construction of inexpensive materials and will indicate how they may be made and used advantageously.

India To Benefit By City Planners

BOSTON (AP)—A new city for India is being drafted on drawing boards at Massachusetts Institute of Technology in Cambridge, Mass.

It is being created by three M.I.T. professors who were handed the "city-planner's-dream" assignment by the State Department last May. All members of the institute's department of city and regional planning, they are Frederick Adams, Roland B. Greeley, who have both spent time at the Indian site, and John T. Howard.

The metropolis is to be situated around the India government's newly-proposed, west-coast port at the head of the Gulf of Kutch. Inhabitants are to be the banished Sindhi people. Need for the new city and for the exact designation that it is for the Sindhi arose after India had won its independence from Great Britain.

India suffered a religious-political partition into Pakistan and India. The Mohammedan majority in Pakistan's capital, Karachi, forced some 50,000 Hindus from the state of Sindhi. They migrated in droves to Bombay. Homeless and penniless, the Hindus have created a slum - breeds - crime menace; thousands are actually living and sleeping on the streets.

Expulsion of the Sindhi did more than hurt the pride of the new government of India. Karachi had been a chief port, ranking with Bombay, and a new westcoast port of the Sindhi had to be found.

Indians Pound Three Pirate Hurlers To Stop Six Game Winning Streak For Coach Jack Boone's Club; Guilford Here Tomorrow

By JIMMY ELLIS
Reflector Sports Writer

The touring Montclair Indians found yesterday's cold weather much to their liking and pounded three East Carolina College pitchers for nine hits and a 9-4 victory over the Pirates. The game, played on the college diamond, halted a Pirate win streak of six consecutive games.

The two teams are scheduled to meet again this afternoon on the college diamond. East Carolina will return to its North State Conference schedule Friday (tomorrow) afternoon when they play host to the Guilford Quakers. Jimmy Byrd is expected to pitch against the Quakers who were dumped 13-3 in the first meeting of the teams.

Local Golfers Shares Honors In Ladies Golf

The East Carolina Ladies Golf Association met Tuesday at the Greenville Golf and Country Club. Seventy golfers participated in the match which was played on the wind-swept, winter-like day.

Jane Saueve of Greenville and Frances Stevens of Rocky Mount tied for first place honors with low gross scores of 92. Ann Bishop of Rocky Mount was second with a score of 95, closely followed by Lib Bryan of New Bern with a 96. Jane Dudley and Mary Stuart James, both of Greenville, also came in with low scores, winning play-off points for Greenville.

Louise Norton of Greenville had the low net score of 60.

Other Greenville golfers participating were Louise Cheatham, Mabel Blount, Marilyn Boney, Margaret Mitchell and Susanne Braswell.

The Wilson and New Bern Country Clubs will be hosts for the next two matches in this series. Then the Kinston Country Club will be host for the play-offs which will be held the 2nd, 3rd, and 4th of May.

Gamecocks Dim Duke Hopes In Southern Race

By the Associated Press

South Carolina's freshman-powered Gamecocks were shaping up today as a possible challenger to the pre-eminence of the Duke Blue Devils in the southern division of the Southern Conference.

As late as two weeks ago hardly anybody would have given a plugged nickel for the title chances of the Gamecocks. A 5-2 licking at the hands of Clemson on April 4, coming after a 3-1 setback at the hands of Duke, had left South Carolina with a 0-2 division record and the future looked almost as dark as the past.

Then, on April 5, the Gamecocks turned the tables on Clemson, winning by 6-4. Since then, they have been unbeatable. On April 11, they took the measure of Wake Forest, 7-4, and yesterday they clipped Furman in both ends of a double bill, 7-2 and 9-6.

Yesterday's twin victories placed the Gamecocks into second place in the southern division standings and put them in a position to step into the leadership should Duke falter.

A key figure in the South Carolina drive has been freshman Otis Rawl, who has won four straight games as the top pitcher on the Gamecock staff. His four-hitter captured yesterday's opener. Then another freshman, Howard Tunstall, came on in the second inning to become the winning pitcher in the second contest. A third freshman, catcher Emmett Dietz, bashed out two homers and two doubles and accounted for seven runs-batted-in.

Duke upped its conference record to 8-1 yesterday with a 16-1 rout of Davidson. Sophomore pitcher Earle Hannell twirled a seven-hitter for the victory.

Robinson Shows Old Form In Third Round Knockout

By ED SAINSBURY
United Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (UP)—Ray Robinson's vaunted reflexes haven't faded a bit.

The world middleweight champ retained his crown, and bettered his rating as boxing's greatest fighter, pound for pound, because he could switch a right to the body into a right to the jaw.

That right to the jaw knocked challenger Rocky Graziano literally kicking in the third round of a scheduled 15 round championship bout last night in the Chicago Stadium before 22,264 screaming fans.

And when referee Tommy Gilmore swept his hands sideways to indicate the count of 10 and the windup, Graziano was on the deck, kicking vainly with his right foot in an effort to rise.

Graziano went down from a left to the head and then that short potent right, but in so fast that many of the stadium fans and even more of the television viewers must have missed it.

"I started a left jab," Robinson said, "and turned it into a left hook. Then I started a right to the body, saw an opening and turned it into a right to the jaw. He went down and stayed down."

Rocky did. He put his right hand on the lower rope and his right leg in the air. His foot never hit the canvas, despite his effort to put it down, and he kicked the air like a pawing colt as Gilmore continued the count.

"I heard him go '9-9-10,'" Graziano said, "and I thought I had plenty of time. But I just couldn't get up."

It was no disgrace for Graziano to lose. He never backed up, and he had champion Sugar Ray cautious as a rookie in a big league infield.

Robinson won the first round with a two lited barrage to the head and body which quelled Rocky's effort to get inside and boom home some collapsing body blows.

Graziano, though, scored with a left to the head which sent Robinson staggering across the ring. But in the second Graziano kept the assault rolling to gain at least an even share of the round.

In the third Graziano kept his wits until the finish. In fact he bounced off the ropes with a spinning right hand which reached Robinson on the side of the head and sent him sprawling to the deck against the ropes.

Robinson was on his feet instantly, but he had an added moment of respite as Gilmore wiped the rosin from his gloves.

Then he lumbered the heavy artillery, swinging wide to the center of the ring for seconds before he got Graziano against the ropes and finished the brawl. The actual end of the first was at 1:53 of the third round.

Summer Play For Pro Golfers Is Worth $413,000

CHICAGO (UP)—The nomadic band of professional golfers will have a $413,000 jackpot to shoot at during the five months of the spring and summer tour, the PGA announced today.

Three new events were added to the schedule which is the richest in the history of professional golf. Events making their initial appearance on the circuit are the Pan-American Open, to be played in Mexico City, May 8 through May 11, the Ardmore (Okla.) Open June 5-8, and the Insurance City Open in Hartford, Conn., Aug. 29 to Sept. 1.

Richest stop on the cash trail will be the "world championship" and the All-American Open, carrying a total prize list of $100,000. First prize in the event will be $25,000.

The PGA Championship will rank second in value with sponsors guaranteeing $40,000. The Inverness Round Robin calls for $18,000 and the other 17 meets will be for purses of $15,000.

The spring-summer tournament schedule is headed by the National Open in Dallas, Tex., the PGA Championship in Louisville, Tenn., June 18-24 and the Western Open at St. Louis May 29-June 1.

Webb And Allen Lead Golf Win

Members of the Greenville golf team won their fourth match in Coastal Golf Association play with a 4-2 victory over Tarboro yesterday. The match was played at the Greenville Country Club.

Medalist honors for the day were shared by a pair of Greenville golfers. W. L. Allen and Ercel Webb both shot 74 despite the cold weather and high winds. Par for the Greenville course is 72.

Greenville will go to Clinton next Wednesday for their seventh league match. Of the first six, they have lost only to Kinston and New Bern.

Elliott Hits Two Home Runs In Win Over Boston Braves By New York

Standings

By CARL LUNDQUIST
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP)—Bob Elliott, the blond blaster from California, made New York Giant fans happier today than they have been at any time since Bobby Thomson hit his historic pennant-winning homer against Brooklyn.

The 35-year-old Elliott was obtained last week in a desperation deal to dispel the gloom cast over the defending National League champions by Monte Irvin's broken ankle.

And belting Bob really filled Irvin's old cleanup spot in his Giant debut in last night's season opener against the Philadelphia Phillies. He hit two home runs to give pitcher Sal Maglie exactly the margin needed for a fine, four-hit, 5 to 3 victory in which Maglie struck out eight batters.

Before the game he wisecracked that there "is life in this old boy yet and the next time I drive in a run it will be 1,100 for my lifetime, and I think it could happen tonight."

He made it 1,101 for good measure with the two homers, the first of which went over the left field roof, the second going into the right field stands. Both were off Philly ace Robin Roberts.

The Elliott-Maglie combination enabled the Giants to get off to a flying start in another day when top-flight pitching highlighted the program.

Maglie, Vic Raschi of the New York Yankees, Tommy Byrne of the St. Louis Browns, and Clifton Chambers of the St. Louis Cardinals cashed in on "hexes" to record well earned triumphs.

It was Maglie's ninth straight win for his career without a defeat against the Phillies, while Raschi pitched two-hit ball over the Athletics before going out in the ninth to beat them 8 to 1. His lifetime mark against them now is 21 wins against two losses.

Byrne's seven-hitter over Detroit was his 13th win against five losses over his favorite opponents, while Chambers topped his old mates, the Pittsburgh Pirates, 6 to 5, yielding only two tallies before going out for a pinchhitter.

It was his fifth straight against them since he was traded to St. Louis last season.

In other games in which pitching stood out, Bob Lemon pitched a three hit, 1 to 0 decision in a duel made it two in a row over Chicago, while Julie Moreno at Washington topped the Boston Red Sox 4 to 3, in 11 innings.

The Dodgers and Braves forgot all about pitching in a wooden wedding in Boston in which Brooklyn made 20 hits to win 14 to 8.

The Reds and Cubs had an open date.

Hank Bauer, with a homer and single, and Micky Mantle with a double and two singles paced the Yankees at bat in a 14-hit attack against Alex Kellner and Carl Scheib.

Floyd Baker rifled a bases-loaded single after a double by Irv Noren and two walks in the 11th

Games Added

Athletic officials at East Carolina College announced yesterday that two games had been added to the baseball schedule. Both games are with the Kinston club of the Coastal Plain League.

The Pirates will go to Kinston April 24 for a night game with the Eagles in Kinston's Grainger Park. The Eagles will return the game with a night contest in Guy Smith Stadium on April 28. Both games are slated to begin at 7:45 p.m.

Silk is formed by many insects, but a single type of moth produces all the commercially produced natural silk.

Stocks And Market Reports

NEW YORK (UP)—Industrial stocks broke to within a fraction of their low for the year in another heavy selloff on the stock market.

A selling burst came at 10:53 a.m. Tickers fell behind the market and at their latest were two minutes behind floor transactions. The tape caught up at 11:04 a.m. and some issues came back from their lows—those which showed losses of 2 to 4 points in many instances.

Volume for the first hour ran up 10,000 shares over yesterday's total. The industrial average was at a new low since Feb. 20; railroads since March 13 and the general average since March 3 at 11 a.m.

Railroad, oil, and television issues were hard hit. Some of the metals had wide losses too. Douglas Aircraft, McIntyre Porcupine (gold), International Business Machines, Zenith, Motorola, Standard Oil (Ind.), Texas Pacific Land Trust, Houston Oil, Sinclair, Shell, Southern Pacific, Socony-Vacuum, and Deep Rock Oil lost 2 points or more. U.S. Smelting was down more than 4 points.

New York & Harlem, which recently sold as high as 67 3/4 fell to 43 1/2, a new low for the year. General Mills 3 3/8 per cent preferred dropped 1/2 to a new low at 107 1/2. Steels and motors held very steady. Utilities lost a few cents in their average.

Sabidino A. Pascale of Cherry Point was found guilty of driving while drunk. The court gave him 30 days in jail, sentence suspended on payment of $100 and court costs, and he is not to operate a motor vehicle for a year.

Horace H. Jackson, driving drunk, prayer for judgment was continued on payment of $100 and costs and he is not to operate a motor vehicle for a year.

Richard Roach, Negro, driving drunk $100 and costs and he is not to drive a motor vehicle for a year. Herman Blount, Negro, was fined $50 for aiding and abetting in driving while drunk.

Dairy Association Schedules Clinic

RALEIGH—The Fifth Semi-Annual Accounting and Plant Superintendents Clinic under the Sponsorship of the North Carolina Dairy Products Association will be held at the George Vanderbilt Hotel in Asheville on Monday, April 21. J. Lloyd Langdon, Executive Vice-President of the Association has announced.

Some fifty or sixty dairy processing and distributing plants from throughout North Carolina will be represented at the one-day clinic for the purpose of receiving the latest and most efficient methods of dairy plant operation and office management.

D. W. Greene, Comptroller of Biltmore Dairy Farms, as Chairman of the Council, will preside at the sessions. Paul Hammett, Superintendent of Kalmia Dairy, Hendersonville, is Secretary.

Argue Removal Of Damage Suit

A motion to remove a $76,000 damage suit from Pitt County Superior Court to Craven County Superior Court for the purpose of trial underwent a heated debate before Judge W. H. S. Burgwyn here yesterday.

Attorneys representing Bate Lumber Company, Incorporated, of New Bern, made the motion to remove the suit, which was instituted in Pitt County, to Craven County on the grounds that too many people employed by Bate Lumber Company would be forced to come to Greenville for the trial.

Judge Burgwyn heard attorneys for Paul Morris, Greenville painter who brought the suit, contest the motion on the grounds that it would be easier for employees of the lumber company to come to Greenville than for the plaintiff and his witnesses to journey to Craven County. Judge Burgwyn denied the motion and ordered that the case be docketed for trial in Pitt County, where the suit was brought.

Two divorces were granted yesterday, both on the grounds of two years separation. They were in the cases of Bettie Carrie Murphy vs. Herbert Eugene Murphy, white, and W. L. Jones vs. Alma Jones, Negro. Court resumed session this morning at 9:30 and is slated to be in session through Friday.

"Corners To Be Cut Back"
In order for, through traffic to run on a few key streets, the mayor explained, three corners will have to be cut back so the added load of cars and trucks may more easily make necessary turns.

Under the plan, the corners slated to be cut back in order to widen intersections are at Second and Greene Streets, Second and Pitt Streets and Pitt Street and Dickinson Avenue. As soon as the highway commission will move in and pave them for us and the plan will be ready to go into effect," he disclosed.

According to Chief Langston, the commission will build, label and install the one-way street signs for the required streets covered with the paper to give people a chance to become accustomed to seeing them, and then one night remove the paper and put all officers on duty to show people where to drive. "This procedure will be followed until motorists know just where and how to travel, he said.

There will not only be restriction as to driving on certain streets, the chief reported, but many places will be restricted as to parking. Some will have parking on both sides, some on only one side and some will be restricted altogether as to parking.

The streets that run North and South in the city to be one-way, and the restricted areas of each are:

Pitt Street, one-way South from Second Street into Dickinson Avenue.

Greene Street, one-way North from Second Street into Second Street.

Washington Street, one-way South from Second Street into Dickinson Avenue.

Evans Street, one-way North all the way from Tenth Street through the business district and into Second Street.

Cotanche Street, one-way South from Second Street to Fifth Street, two-way the remainder of the way South of Fifth Street.

Reid Street, one-way North a distance of one block from Fifth Street to Fourth Street, and two-way the remainder of the way North.

Streets that run East and West to be one-way, and restricted areas of each are:

Fifth Street, one-way westward from Cotanche Street to Greene Street, two-way East of Cotanche and West of Greene;

Fourth Street, one-way eastward from Greene Street to Cotanche Street, two-way East of Cotanche and West of Greene;

Third Street, one-way westward from Cotanche Street to Greene Street, two-way East of Cotanche and West of Greene;

Second Street, one-way westward into Pitt Street from Greene Street, two-way eastward the remainder of the way through the city;

Seventh Street, one-way westward from Evans Street to Dickinson Avenue;

Eighth Street, two-way between Evans Street and Dickinson Avenue.

Dickinson Avenue running diagonally into Five Points is one-way in a northeasterly direction from the intersection of Washington Street to Evans Street at Five Points, and two-way from the Washington Street intersection the remainder of the way out of town toward the Kinston and Farmville highways.

Parking Restrictions
Restrictions as to parking on streets running North and South in the city are:

Evans Street, parking on one side South of Five Points, two sides North of Five points;

Washington Street, parking on two sides except in the block between Third and Second streets, where parking will be restricted to one side;

Meet Joe Blow

PARRIS ISLAND, S. C. (UP)
A drill recruit at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot here tells this story of why so many of his kind get grey hair early in life.

During a mail call for his platoon of recruits, the sergeant found a letter addressed to "Pvt. Joe Blow," the traditional John Doe of the armed forces.

The sergeant began asking questions.

One of his green boots readily admitted that in sending letters to his family and friends, he had been using that exact sample mailing address given the platoon members on arrival for training.

The exasperated sergeant asked if the boot's family hadn't been confused by the letters from the mythical military man.

"Oh no," replied the recruit, "I told them in the letters that it was really me writing."

Raiders Uncover Another Big Still

Pitt County ABC officers yesterday afternoon scored their second big haul in illegal liquor distilleries in less than a week when they raided a 200-gallon submarine type still near Greenville.

The still was found on the Old River Road about four miles from Greenville by the raiding party. They also found twenty 50-gallon barrels of mash and two copper condensers.

The still was being fired by oil burners but was not in operation at the time the raiding party arrived. No one was arrested in connection with the raid.

Officers stated that the still appeared to have been operated the early part of the week with some spirits being run off.

Officers making the raid were Jim Ward, Claude Manning and Dick King.

Pitt County Woman Buried In Maryland

Funeral services for Mrs. Nannie Summerlin Glenwaters, 56 of Crownsville, Md., who died April 8 were held in the Maryland city April 11. Burial was in the Methodist Cemetery, near Crownsville.

She was a native of Pitt County, a daughter of the late George Walter and Cora Lily of Fountain. She formerly was Mrs. Nannie Summerlin of Fountain. Surviving are her husband, John Wesley Glenwaters; one son and four daughters, and numerous other relatives.

one side:
Greene Street, parking on one side only all along Greene.
Pitt Street, no parking at all anywhere.
Cotanche Street, parking on one side; Reid Street, parking on one side.
Parking restrictions applicable to streets running East and West in the city are:
Second Street, no parking at all;
Third Street, parking on both sides except in the block between Washington and Greene streets, where parking on one side only will be allowed;
Fourth Street, parking on one side;
Fifth Street, parking on both sides;
Seventh Street, parking on one side.
On Dickinson Avenue, parking will be allowed on both sides all the way into the city.

Tobacco Planting Is Now Underway

A vocation which is the very life-blood of Greenville and Pitt County—tobacco cultivation—got underway in the county this week.

First reports of planting of the 1952 crop of "green gold" began seeping in yesterday. Most farmers have held back due to the recent wave of exceptionally cool weather, but two farmers reported yesterday they had begun planting this year's crop.

Arthur Elks of Greenville, who farms in the Simpson community, disclosed that he began planting Monday. Yesterday, S. T. Porter of Portertown stated that he would begin planting early that morning, and that a few other farmers also planned to start their crops yesterday.

Many others are expected to begin planting this week and next.

Temperature Drops

The temperature in the Greenville area dropped to 36 degrees last night, four degrees above freezing.

The mercury took a sudden turn-up at sunrise and at 8 a.m. today it was 52 degrees. Highest temperature here yesterday was 55.

Yesterday a year ago, the highest temperature here was 74 degrees. Lowest that night, 42, and at 8 a.m. next day 49 degrees. One-tenth of an inch of rain fell that day.

Car Struck Tree In Early Hours

A police report states that a car driven by Mrs. Ruby Stepps Vankirk, who lives on Chestnut Street, collided with a tree at 10th and Charles Streets about 4 a.m. today.

Damage to the car was about $600. A police radio car took Mrs. Vankirk and Ernest Sutton of Greenville, an occupant of the car, to Pitt Memorial Hospital. The woman received a cut on a knee. Sutton received bruises and lacerations on his head. Mrs. Vankirk was still at the hospital at noon today. Sutton was given first aid and left.

The investigating officer said the car, bearing a California license, turned the corner and collided with the tree on the left side of the street. A warrant was issued for Mrs. Vankirk, charging her with driving a motor vehicle after her license had been revoked.

Power Sources Yet Unused Viewed As Rival For Atom

(Editor's Note: This is the last of three dispatches on atomic power prospects.)

By ROBERT MUSEL
United Press Staff Correspondent
LONDON (UP)—Atomic energy some day will provide the world with a vast new store of industrial power.

But it may be edged out in some fields by power from sources still untapped or now inefficiently utilized.

This is the view of British scientists as new developments on both sides of the Atlantic continue to bring closer the day of commercial application of atomic energy.

The British Cabinet's advisory committee estimated only a few months ago that it would be 20 years before the atom became an important power resource in Britain.

Since then the estimate has gone down to 15 years, with many experts predicting considerable commercial use of atomic energy in 10 years.

There are three schools of British scientific thought about the atom's peacetime role. All agree that for special purposes atomic energy is unrivaled. These include warship engines and power plants for isolated areas where transportation difficulties would make bulky conventional fuels too costly.

There is less agreement among the three schools on other aspects of the atomic future.

The first (and official) group is headed by Nobel Prize winner Sir John Cockcroft, chief of the British atomic energy program. It sees a world of atom-powered ships and planes, industrial and municipal power stations, and central heating plants.

The second school, typified by another Nobel Prize winner, Prof. Frederick E. Soddy, holds that it would be debasing atomic energy to use it as a substitute for coal or oil or wood. He feels it ought to be reserved for work like moving mountains or blasting out canals.

(American experts disagree. They say cheaper blasting materials are better. Atomic explosives, they said, would poison the blasted area indefinitely with radioactivity.)

The third group, of which Prof. Samuel Devons of the Imperial College of Science is representative, argues that there is a vast reservoir of other power available to the world.

From the wind alone, Devons says, the world can get 2,000 times the power now used every year from all other sources. Devons says 80 per cent of coal burned is wasted and, he asks, how about the energy inside the earth as evidenced by volcanoes and hot springs?

American scientists also point to tidal power and to the enormous energy of sunlight. The sunlight falling on a piece of land 30 miles square is the energy equivalent of the entire U.S. coal consumption, they say.

Meanwhile, British experts say that Britain is abreast of the United States if not leading in atomic power research. Cockcroft's far back in 1946 ordered architects to allow space for atomic reactors to allow space for atomic research when the Harwell research establishment was being built. The world's first atomic heaters were installed at Harwell last November.

Britain ordered its first atomic engine in June, 1950, and expects delivery "in the near future." It will be used to drive a ship. A similar engine to drive electric generators is on order.

South Carolina Democrats Name Their Delegates

COLUMBIA, S.C. (UP)—South Carolina Democrats served notice on the national party today it must bargain for their support in the fall general elections unless Sen. Richard B. Russell is nominated for the presidency.

Democrats met here yesterday and selected 12 delegates and eight delegates-at-large, all pledged to support Russell as long as his name remains before the national convention.

The state's Republicans also held their convention and chose a slate of six delegates favoring Sen. Robert A. Taft.

The Republicans pledged two delegates to Taft and left four uncommitted delegates to cast the state's vote in the GOP convention.

The convention tabled a motion to back Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower for the GOP nomination.

Democrats, at the urging of Gov. James F. Byrnes, passed a resolution refusing to commit themselves to support the Democratic nominee until after both national party conventions.

This was seen in political circles as an indication that the state's Democrats want the way left open for a "bolt" if civil rights and other legislation opposed by a number of Southerners is included in the party platform.

Byrnes charged in his keynote address that the national Democratic party has deserted the Jeffersonian platform principle that "the federal government is one of limited powers derived solely from the constitution."

Byrnes, considered by many as the leader of the States Rights forces, repeated his statement that he is not interested in party labels.

He said he has complete confidence in Russell, who, as president, would put an end to the "warfare" between the White House and Congress and an end to corruption in high office.

Las Vegas Maps Helldorado Week

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UP)—There is excitement in the air as Las Vegas prepares to celebrate its 18th annual Helldorado Week, May 15-18.

The town is working up a head of steam which will bust out all over when spring comes to the desert and Helldorado brings back the rowdy picturesque days of the early west with parades and pageantry, rodeos, a beard-growing competition, beauty contests and square dancing in the main thoroughfares.

Designed to perpetuate the pioneer spirit and customs of frontier times in Nevada, the occasion will find almost the entire population looking like cowpokes and their womenfolk in from the hinterlands, dressed in their western best.

Helldorado revolves around its main events, the oldtimer's parade, beauty parade, children's parade, nighty rodeos, the whiskerino contest for excellence in beards, beauty competition among the women and constant merriment in a specially constructed Helldorado village with all the amusements of a county fair.

The old timer's parade finds old animal-drawn vehicles of many descriptions, reclaimed from the limbo of the past, jolting down the main street in a picturesque twosome procession of covered wagons, stagecoaches, buggies, buckboards and the like.

Nancy Kefauver Proves Popular

WASHINGTON (UP)—Pretty redheads are always popular. Even in politics.

Mrs. Nancy Kefauver, attractive wife of Sen. Estes Kefauver, made her "first political speech" last night.

She urged her dinner audience at the Women's National Press Club to support the Tennessee Democrat even though the prospect of being the nation's first lady "isn't exactly appealing."

Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.), Kefauver's rival for the Democratic presidential nomination, promptly displayed his Southern gallantry by offering to withdraw from the race and file for vice-president if Kefauver withdraws in favor of his wife.

Russell said Mrs. Kefauver is her husband's "most dangerous secret weapon."

The trim Mrs. Kefauver, who said her husband is popular because he's "just a friendly person and he's been like that since he was a little boy," conquered at one Republican, too.

Rep. Clarence Brown said he'd withdraw support of his Ohio colleague, Sen. Robert A. Taft, in favor of Mrs. Kefauver if she'd run on the Democratic ticket.

U. S. Doctor To Remain 3 Years In Leper Colony

LONDON (AP)—A thirty-year-old American neighborhood doctor, Merlin L. Brubaker, will leave London in July for a job which will give him care of nearly 2,000 African lepers in central Nigeria.

Dr. Brubaker is attending the school of hygiene at the University of London. He leaves for the leprosarium at Garkida, Nigeria, in July, at the conclusion of his six-months' course. He said he expects to remain in Nigeria for three years.

Brubaker, who comes from Live Oak, Calif., although in recent years he has lived in Fullerton, Calif., said his assistants at the leprosarium will be three American nurses. Though all equipment at the leprosarium is British and it stands on British soil, the output itself is American-sponsored.

Brubaker will be accompanied by Garkida by his wife Polly and his two children, Judy, 2½, and Jon, one, who are in England with him now. He said it is unlikely they would be exposed to any danger through contact with the lepers.

Sees No Danger
"The residential part of the station, I am told, is completely isolated from the leper quarters," Brubaker said. "In any case, leprosy, although an infectious disease, is one of the least infectious of its group."

Brubaker said he became interested in leper work only last year, after talks with elders of the Church of the Brethren in Fullerton, Calif. The church sponsors the Garkida leprosarium.

Leland Brubaker—no relation—who is head of the church in Fullerton, asked me whether I would consider taking up the post in Nigeria," Brubaker said. "He and I agreed to give up my neighborhood general practice and come to London."

"It was necessary to take this course at London University to get acquainted with the medical knowledge required for such a post."

Dr. Brubaker said the first term of his appointment was for three years, at the end of which he was due for a year's vacation in the United States.

Nurses From U. S.
"I haven't made up my mind whether I'll return for a second three-year term afterwards," he said. "I guess I'll just wait and see what things are like out there."

Brubaker said there were between 1,700 and 1,800 lepers in the leprosarium, which is stocked with some of the most modern British equipment. He said the three nurses there at present would be the only white persons near apart from himself and his family. All three are American, he said.

"They certainly have guts, though," he said. "For a woman to undertake work of this nature so far from home certainly takes courage."

The Brubakers are currently living at the Foreign Missions Club, in suburban London. When they reach Garkida they will exchange their centrally heated rooms under London's indifferent skies for the dazzling white bungalow in the residential portion of the leprosarium.

"It may be tough going out there, but we'll get by," said Dr. Brubaker. "And what an experience—medically and personally."

Oil Field Unions Warn Of Walkout

DENVER (UP)—The nation's major oil unions warned today that a nationwide strike will begin on April 30 if wage negotiations in the industry fail.

Union officials, representing some 275,000 oil workers, "reluctantly" agreed to a third postponement of a threatened oil strike last night after the Wage Stabilization Board "temporarily" gave up its efforts to settle the critical wage dispute.

The strike deadline originally had been set for March 3 in support of the oil workers' demands for a 25-cent an hour general wage increase. But federal mediation chief Cyrus Ching obtained a week's postponement and then President Truman asked that it be put off for an indefinite period to allow time for federal hearings.

Now the WSB has abandoned its efforts to conduct the hearings and to recommend a settlement in the wage dispute.

Most of the 75 oil companies involved in the dispute refused to participate in the hearings set up by the board.

By a 10-2 vote, with AFL members dissenting, the WSB bowed to oil company demands and voted to return the case to collective bargaining.

But it maintained technical control over the dispute and asked to be kept advised of any progress.

The board said it would take some action "in a few weeks" if no settlement is reached through collective bargaining.

"We are reluctantly agreeing to one final postponement," the union's statement said. "We will negotiate with any company which is willing to negotiate. We will continue to negotiate for two weeks."

"If, by April 30, we have been unable to negotiate satisfactory wage settlements, we will strike," it warned. "Involved in the strike will be a substantial portion of the oil industry and many key natural gas pipelines."

Ching warned that a nationwide oil industry walkout would cripple nearly all of the nation's refineries, many oil and natural gas pipelines and key distribution points, bringing a "serious threat to the defense industry."

The oil union members now are paid an average hourly wage of $2.12. Oil companies reportedly offered a 10-cent an hour raise, but the unions are demanding a 25-cent an hour pay hike.

Train Hits Auto Killing 5 People

FERRYSBURG, O. (UP)—Five persons were killed last night when a speeding passenger train struck an auto at a crossing 20 miles east of here, police said today.

The State Highway Patrol said all of the dead were in the auto. They were identified as Gerald Wangrin, 33, driver of the car; Ellen Wangrin, 34, and Janet K. Wangrin, 3, all of Genoa, ?., and John R. Damschroeder, 69, and his wife, Antonia, 64, both of Graytown, O.

Rare Old Violin Is Still In Use

Guided Missiles To Supplement Three Air Force Combat Tasks

EGLIN AIR FORCE BASE, Fla. (UP)—The Air Force expects to have a variety of guided missiles in about eight years for use in the three combat jobs now done by its piloted aircraft.

These jobs are long range strategic bombardment with atomic and convention explosives, tactical support of field armies, and U. S. air defense.

Undersecretary Roswell L. Gilpatrick gave this information to 70 civilian leaders visiting the air proving ground here during a Defense Department tour.

He made it clear that 1960 is the approximate target date when guided missiles will begin to come into their own in all Air Force combat missions.

For some tasks, they will be ready much sooner. Missiles launched from aircraft to seek out and destroy other aircraft now have been tested successfully. The Matador, a ground-launched pilotless aircraft of short range, is under advanced development.

Air Force sources see missiles as supplements rather than replacements for piloted aircraft. One method, for example, might be to add a guided missile squadron to a group of three fighter plane squadrons.

The Air Force believes it has the best aviators in the world doing proving flights here on its latest combat planes. It depends on these fliers to wing maximum performance and usefulness from a plane. How they do it was impressively shown the civilian leaders.

They saw Maj. Michael C. Hogan and six colleagues dive F-86 Sabre jets from 45,000 to 25,000 feet at supersonic speed, causing a concussion when they pulled out of the dive that sounded like a 500-pound bomb hitting the ground. Capt. Edward R. Johnston laid flaming jelled gasoline on a simulated enemy command post from an F-80 Shooting Star flying at 100-foot altitude as is done in Korea. In the latest operational plane in the Air Force, the F-96 Scorpion all-weather fighter, Maj. Robert W. Maloy demonstrated the fire power of this 20-ton monster: six 20 mm cannon by blowing up a World War II bomber used as a target. Though it was built for interception of enemy bombers, the Scorpion now is being tried out here for a possible additional role as a rocket-firing ground attack plane.

Test pilots here who fly the fastest jets agree with their bomber-driving colleagues that B-36 super-bombers in charge through the best air defenses now in being and deliver atomic bombs. As one put it, "one fighter against one bomber has an easy job. But when you throw in several fighters and bombers, add a little bad weather, figure on radar jamming and possible radar beam deflections—then it's tough."

Marilyn Maxwell Is Given Divorce

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Film actress Marilyn Maxwell, 29, has shed her last matrimonial entanglement with restaurateur Anders N. McIntyre, 33.

Miss Maxwell received her final divorce decree yesterday, formally ending her second marriage.

She received an interlocutory divorce decree last year on charges that McIntyre began drinking heavily and staying away from home almost immediately after they were married. Her first husband was actor John Conte.

COMMENTS

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (UP)—The Army will award letters of commendation tomorrow to 30 University of Virginia students, who helped save ROTC records, rifles and other government property valued at $45,000 in a campus fire.

Textile Union Reports Deficit

NEW YORK — (AP) — The Textile Workers Union of America, the third largest group in the CIO with a claimed membership of more than 400,000, reported yesterday its first deficit.

During the past two years the union said, its expenditures exceeded its income by $426,422. The 13-year-old union blamed the following:

"Numerous and expensive strikes, reduced dues collections resulting from mass unemployment, heightened employer resistance to new organization, increased costs for all TWUA operations."

The financial report, made in advance of the TWUA's national convention next week in Cleveland, O., said the union "remains equal to all its moral and material obligations" despite its deficit.

Income during the past two years from its 891 locals, the union said, was $7,566,846.

Of this amount, the union added, $1,768,626 went for strike relief purposes alone.

Mississippi Has Open Delegation

JACKSON, Miss. (UP)—Mississippi Democrats will send an unstructured delegation to the party's national convention, although delegates are expected to back Sen. Richard B. Russell.

The move, agreed upon yesterday at a meeting of the state party executive committee, is a tactical one designed to give the delegation more power to fight inclusion of a civil rights plank in the Democratic platform.

The committee also set the state Democratic convention for April 26. A slate of national convention delegates will be named at that time.

Hangover From Earthquake Still Shaking West

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (UP)—Oklahomans wondered today how you get rid of an earthquake's hangover.

Light tremors, described by scientists as after-effects of the earthquake which shook the Midwest and Southwest last week, continued to jar parts of Central Oklahoma yesterday.

The latest reported were a pair of light tremors at Union City, about 30 miles west of Oklahoma City. Other reports of light shakes came from El Reno and Oklahoma City.

One Oklahoma City woman saw her bed move and frantically telephoned police: "A man is under my bed."

Explosion Rips Ice-Making Plant

WICHITA, Kan. (UP)—An explosion at the Wichita Ice and Cold Storage Co. blasted the roof from the brick plant, tore away part of the front of the building and injured nine persons, two of them critically.

Firemen said today a malfunction of a safety valve on a 45-ton ammonia compressor, which permitted ammonia fumes to fill the first floor of the two-story building, caused the explosion yesterday.

Fishing Vessel Sinks Near Bay

MIAMI (UP)—The 83-foot fishing boat Green Seas sank at the entrance of Tampa Bay last night, according to the Coast Guard Rescue Center here.

Coast Guard spokesman said the vessel's three crewmen were safely removed by another fishing boat in the area, about 45 miles southwest of Egmont Key. Cause of the sinking was not known immediately.

Strike Violence Cases Resumed

THOMASVILLE (UP)—Strike violence cases were resumed in recorder's court today before Judge W. Howard Steed.

Among the cases on the docket were an assault charge against Police Chief Paul M. Shore and incitement to riot charges against two union leaders. The charges grew out of incidents at the strike-bound Thomasville Chair Co.

William Bell, international representative of the CIO United Furniture Workers and Ed Waller of High Point, District 5 head, were charged with inciting to riot in connection with an incident at a plant gate. Shore was charged with assault by a striker he arrested.

In the latest report of violence automobiles were the "weapons." Police reported that four cars, two occupied by strikers and two by non-strikers, were involved in a chase which ended with one car in a ditch.

Striker Franklin D. Hartman's car was wrecked in a ditch. Non-striker Edward Sink of Wallburg later charged striker Roy Ervin Byerly with reckless driving in a warrant. Byerly posted $100 bond for trial today.

Meanwhile the president of the UPWA, Morris Pizer of New York, said no date has been set for a scheduled second series of negotiations between the union and the company.

NEW YORK (UP)—Dolores Bender, a 20-year-old Negro, was denounced as a "phony nun and a menace to society" yesterday by Magistrate Hyman Bushel who sentenced her to 30 days in jail for begging from subway passengers while dressed in a nun's habit.

Turkeys were not introduced into Europe from America before 1530.

Americans Save Record Amounts

WASHINGTON (UP)—Americans saved $13,000,000,000 last year, the most since 1945, the Securities & Exchange Commission reported today.

A big increase in bank deposits, insurance, securities, cash holdings and other savings brought the total "liquid" assets of the U.S. public to $340,000,000 at the end of 1951, the SEC said.

Elizabeth Drake To Play In Piano Recital Sunday At College Theatre

Elizabeth Drake, pianist, of the faculty of the department of music at East Carolina College, will be presented in recital Sunday afternoon, April 27, at 7 o'clock in the College Theatre. The program will be sponsored by the department of music as one of a series of recitals by faculty members during the 1951-1952 term, and will be open to the public.

Selections chosen for April 27 include four movements of Schumann's Sonata in G Minor, Opus 22, and compositions by Bach, Beethoven, Brahms, Dohnanyi, and others.

Miss Drake, whose home is Scotland Neck, received her training in music at the Woman's College, Greensboro, and at the Juilliard School of Music in New York, where she has taught theory of music. She is a pupil of the noted pianist and teacher James Friskin.

During the past few years the East Carolina pianist has appeared in recital at the college and in Raleigh, Wake Forest, Rocky Mount, New Bern and elsewhere. She has recently played on several broadcasts over WGTM of Wilson.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, supreme Allied commander in the Far East, has been recommended by the Joint Chiefs of Staff in Washington to succeed General Dwight D. Eisenhower in Europe. The Chronicle said today in a copyrighted story from its Washington correspondent, Vance Johnson.

Johnson said that Ridgway's name had been suggested to the other 13 North Atlantic Treaty nations, and although approval is expected in the near future, the announcement of the selection might be delayed until after Gen. Eisenhower departs in June from his North Atlantic Treaty forces command.

Novel Exhibits Will Be Shown In Industries Fair

LONDON — UPI — Among exhibits to be seen at the British Industries Fair May 5-16 will be:

A device to prevent cows from flicking milkmaids with their tails.

Plaster blinkers for chickens to prevent feather picking.

A musical umbrella which plays 'Singin' in the Rain'.

A silent musical organ — for silent practice.

A line of false stomachs for actors.

A portable cocktail cabinet carried over the shoulder like a hand-bag.

A giant piano weighing more than one ton.

Automobile fenders made of rubber.

Firemen's helmets capable of resisting an electric shock of up to 10,000 volts.

An electric wire fence to keep goats from straying.

Although proportions vary from place to place, and period to period, records indicate that human twins are produced about once in 100 births, triplets once in 10,000 and quadruplets once in a million.

More than 2,000 species of snakes are known.

Editors Told Press Strain With Reds Cannot Continue

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Alexander F. Jones of the American Society of Newspaper Editors warned today that "intolerable" press relations between the United States and Iron Curtain countries "cannot long continue."

Attacking State Department policies on protection of U.S. news in Communist nations, Jones said at the opening meeting of the ASNE convention: "I am not proud of our course in allowing our reporters in Iron Curtain countries to become harassed, frightened, useless representatives of our free press."

"We are taking it lying down," While American newsmen are thrown in jail, held as virtual hostages and subjected to indignities by the Reds, Jones said, correspondents of the Soviet Tass news agency are allowed to roam at will in Washington. He called for withdrawal of congressional press gallery credentials held by Tass reporters.

Approximately 400 U.S. editors were on hand for the opening session of their three-day convention. The day's program called for the editors to take part in a press conference with President Truman, and for editors and their wives to make a two-hour tour of the refurbished White House.

The editors also scheduled a discussion of "Honesty in Government," featuring an address by ousted corruption hunter Newbold Morris. Tonight they will discuss sports coverage and college athletics.

Jones, editor of the Syracuse (N.Y.) Herald-Journal, recalled that some members of the ASNE board of directors had felt ousted of Tass correspondents from the congressional press galleries was a government problem. And he pointed out that the correspondents' executive committee "declined to throw Tass out."

"For the time being I was liked," Jones told the editors. "I felt as though I had been slugged on the chin by a butterfly." "For as certainly as I stand here, the present intolerable press relations between the U.S. and the nations behind the Iron Curtain cannot long continue—with our reporters in Moscow being held as virtual hostages and subjected to every indignity, William Oatis (AP reporter) in prison in Czechoslovakia, and Pavlov, the Soviet delegate at the Paris meeting of the U.N., declaring that the next American correspondent arrested will consider Oatis fortunate to be only in prison.

"This while Mikhail Fedorov, head of the Tass bureau here, an aeronautical engineer sent from Moscow to head a spy ring, uses a Russian government communication system without censorship. Tass is not a news agency as we know the term. Only last week, Tass was thrown out of India."

"Our State Department seems to consider that American citizens can only be protected by paying ransom or invoking economic sanctions."

Chairman Robert Ramspeck of the U.S. Civil Service Commission urged that the editors help instill in the American people a "positive pride in public service." He deplored blanket indictments against "too many government employees." He said the press should carry factual outlines of functions agencies are performing so that the people can "decide intelligently where they want economies made."

Nonagenarian Writes History

SULLIVAN, Me. (AP) — At the age of 90, Mrs. Lelia Clark Johnson has just completed a 200-page history of the town of Sullivan.

But she isn't content to sit back now. She has undertaken a similar project to record the history of the nearby town of Steuben, where she was born on March 30, 1862.

The Sullivan record took almost five years. First she set it down on paper with ink. Then she laboriously and carefully typed it—one finger at a time.

"It has kept me busy," she relates. But it also has kept her young.

Israeli Students Summoned Home

JERUSALEM (AP) — Many Israeli students now attending foreign universities in Europe or the United States will have to return to Israel and continue their studies here, because the government cannot grant them the foreign currency needed.

The Hebrew University in Jerusalem and the Haifa Technion are prepared to enroll the "home-comers" provided that the government increases its yearly allocation. In exceptional cases, particularly where local scientific facilities are not sufficient, students may continue their studies abroad.

About the beginning of the Christian era, raw silk began to be one of the important items imported by Rome from the Orient.

SOON TO BE COMPLETED — Work is rushed on Rome's Olympic Stadium so it can be finished for the England-Italy soccer match in May. Stadium will hold 81,000 spectators.

Mumps Downed Korean Veteran; Bullets Couldn't

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — The "doughnut king" of Korea, Pfc Jack Lueken, 21, of San Diego, went uncathed through four trips to the Korean front but nevertheless arrived home on a stretcher.

The soldier, attached to the 24th Infantry, picked up a case of the mumps en route back aboard a transport which docked recently in Seattle.

"They insisted I be carried off as a litter case," Lueken said, "even though I felt so glad at being back I could have carried the two corpses who were packing me."

Lueken toured the war front in a "doughnut wagon" that turned out 2500 sinkers at a time. He was assigned to Special Services and was master of ceremonies for Jack Benny shows in Korea.

Air ROTC Unit Given High Inspection Rating

The annual inspection of the Air Force ROTC Unit of East Carolina College was conducted during 10-11 April 1952. The members of the inspecting team, from Headquarters, Fourteenth Air Force, Robins Air Force Base, Ga., were Colonel Adrian W. Tolen, Major Otto F. Jacobson, Captain James B. Stanley and Technical Sergeant James Hensley.

During the two days at East Carolina College the team inspected the Unit Supply Section, Administrative Section, Operations and Training Section, and conducted conferences with the College President, Dr. John D. Messick, and other college officials. During the final day a parade and review was conducted, including individual inspection of cadets on the drill field.

At the conclusion of the inspection the Unit was awarded the highest rating given to Air Force ROTC Units.

The inspecting team came to East Carolina from Duke University and the University of North Carolina, where they had previously inspected the Air Force ROTC Units located at those institutions.

The East Carolina College Unit has approximately 400 Cadets undergoing training at the present time. Fifty-one Cadets are scheduled to receive appointments as 2d Lieutenants in the United States Air Force at the end of the Spring Quarter, 19 May 1952.

prep schools, junior colleges, senior colleges and universities, supported and controlled by the churches of America; owing allegiance to the state only to the extent of not teaching subversive political doctrine, and owing allegiance to individuals only to the extent of not offending their personal rights as citizens of a free country; but recognizing allegiance to the basic principles of morality and religion embraced in the creeds of the faiths to which they subscribe. APPEAL — Acknowledgment of the important service performed by church-related schools and colleges led many people who were not Baptists to contribute to the Wake Forest fund; many who were not Presbyterians to aid Davidson and Queens in their campaigns, as well as all the other denominational schools which are struggling to maintain the high standard of services to the ideals of America. For the same reason and in the same spirit, the Saint Mary's School appeal is addressed not only to Episcopalians but to all men and women who cherish these basic principles of true Americanism.
