

Red Prisoners Threatened Death, Mass Koje Uprising

Gen. Dodd Discloses Grim Warnings By War Prisoners If Force Used To Free Him; Clark Charges Concessions Won By 'Blackmail'; Incident Plotted For Its Propaganda Effect

SEOUL, Korea (UP)—Brig. Gen. Francis T. Dodd said today Communist prisoners of war threatened to kill him and stage a mass break for freedom if 8th Army troops entered the Koje Island camp where he was held hostage for four days.

The warning came last Friday night, Dodd said in a statement released here by 8th Army headquarters. It was the first time he was permitted to tell his story of the 78 hours he spent as a hostage of the Communists.

Dodd said a Colonel Lee and a prisoner of war whom he believed to be the commissar of the Koje camp came to the makeshift room where the Communists had quartered him.

"They discussed with me the effects of the use of force," Dodd said. "They informed me that if troops entered the compound, they would resist; that my life would be forfeited and that there would be a simultaneous break from all compounds on the island."

Dodd, who was commander of the unruly Koje Island camp, was seized last Wednesday outside the gate to Compound 76. He said his captors stationed 15 to 20 guards around his quarters to protect him from fanatical prisoners of war.

Dodd was released Saturday night, unharmed and in good spirits, as acting camp commander Brig. Gen. Charles Colson stated in a statement.

In Tokyo, Gen. Mark W. Clark, newly-appointed U. S. and U. N. Far East commander, issued a statement accusing the Communist prisoners of "blackmailing" Dodd in seizing him.

Clark said any commitments made by Colson to obtain Dodd's release "as a result of such demands should be interpreted" from the standpoint of blackmail.

He said the Dodd incident and two previous riots at the Koje Island camp "were motivated by attempts to influence the armistice negotiations."

"It has been equally obvious from the very start that the riots we have had were carefully plotted and deliberately instigated by hard-core Communist leaders," he said.

Clark disclosed that Colson had promised the prisoners they can expect humane treatment in the future, and that he was forced to admit instances of "bloodshed" where many prisoners of war have been killed and wounded by U. N. forces.

He was referring, presumably to bloody riots in February and March which cost the lives of 91 prisoners, including an American soldier.

Clark said Gen. James Van Fleet, 8th Army commander, ordered Dodd's release by 10 a. m. last Saturday, threatening to use "all necessary force" if he was not turned loose unharmed by then.

But the North Koreans, demanding the right to organize and be represented by an elected group, did not release him until 9:30 that night, 11 and one-half hours after the deadline.

The Army finally granted the Communists the right to organize and it was agreed that there would be no further forced screening of prisoners to determine whether they wish to return to the Communist side.

Clark implied the Army will renege on at least part of its promises because they were made "under great duress."

Dodd said his captors treated him with the "utmost respect and courtesy." He said they gave him flowers and medical treatment while dickering for the right to organize.

He said he was seized at the end of a discussion of Communist complaints concerning their needs for additional food, clothing and medical supplies. They also made a number of political demands "not appropriate for such an interview."

"At about 3:15 p. m., I had decided the interview was at an end and turned to depart, whereupon I was rushed by some 20 leaders, dragged into the compound and my personal possessions removed."

That evening, he said, he met with representatives from other compounds. It was at this meeting that they formally presented their demand to organize.

"This I authorized with the understanding that the details be worked out later," he said.

On the next day, Thursday, Dodd and 100 other prisoners were taken to a small farm near Trenton in Jones County.

Pitt County farmers today were urged to attend a small grain "field day" Tuesday, May 13, at Ravenwood Farm near Trenton in Jones County.

County Farm Agent Sam Winchester said today the demonstration will begin at 1:30 and will feature discussions on cultural practices, storage and marketing of small grain.

Declares Mayor Misrepresented Street Complaint

Fleming Denies Letter Of Protest Or Specific Figures As To Damage

In a statement to The Reflector this morning, Van C. Fleming, Jr., Greenville citizen, asserted Mayor Lester D. Page, in his statement to a Reflector reporter, misrepresented what transpired in the conference between Fleming and Page Friday.

"It appeared to me that in all cases Col. Lee ruled in my favor," Fleming said. "Later that evening, Dodd said, Lee visited him to say he had learned troops would enter the compound to effect Dodd's release."

"He stated it had been intended to conduct this meeting for a period of 10 days according to a pre-arranged schedule, but now it seemed desirable to find a more rapid means of solution..."

"There can be no question but that the indications of force had a decided effect on the decision to speed the procedure."

Colorful Parade Draws Big Crowd

Ideal Weather Adds To Brilliant Display By Marchers, Bands

A chill, brisk wind whipped flag and bunting displays along the streets of Greenville today as precision marching units from Cherry Point joined local citizens in celebrating "Armed Forces Day."

The colorful Cherry Point Marine Band in full dress led two marine companies and a platoon of Women Marines through the streets of Greenville to the courthouse where Marine Col. Raymond B. Hurst delivered the main "Armed Forces Day" address.

Mayor Lester D. Page made a speech of welcome and parade committee chairman J. H. Rose introduced Colonel Hurst, of whom he said, "an outstanding marine officer, and one who proved his patriotism and ability in serving his country overseas during World War II."

Also participating in the parade were units of the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and commanding officers of local army, navy and air force reserve units.

Greenville schools turned out en masse to view the parade on the Greenville High School Band, the Eppes High School Band, Boy Scouts, Sea Scouts and Explorer Scouts swung up Evans Street in marching formation.

Streets were lined with people and the courthouse lawn was crowded with parade participants and spectators, as they heard Colonel Hurst explain that in this country at this time, "unity begets strength."

"The ability of our productive plants to expand quickly to meet military demands is the secret of our strength," he said.

Following formal ceremonies at the courthouse, visiting marine units were served lunch at Respect The Armed Forces Day Committee is composed of Chairman J. H. Rose, Mayor Lester D. Page, Sherman Parks, Connor Eagles, W. T. Kizer, Mrs. Cora Powell and aldermen R. E. Rogers and Robert L. Smith.

Four Car Accidents Mark Pitt Weekend

Four highway accidents marked the weekend for Pitt County, but all occupants of the cars escaped injury.

Property damage ran high in the accidents which occurred on rain-soaked highways during storms which poured down in the county.

An early morning accident Saturday resulted in slight damage to a fish truck, operated by Willie Knight of New Bern on the New Bern Highway.

Knight told investigating officer James W. Boykin that he went to sleep at the wheel of his truck and it turned over on its side.

Knight was charged with driving without a driver's license.

A car driven by Charles D. Phillips, 23, of Route 1, New Bern, skidded on the wet highway and went out of control near Ballards Cross Roads around one o'clock yesterday, overturning. No one was injured.

Engineer Amazed By Criticisms

Says Page Outburst Followed Cordial Meeting; Development Was Lauded

Lt. Comdr. Thomas W. Rivers, city engineer home on a two day leave from the U. S. Navy, stated this week-end he was "completely amazed at the outburst" from Mayor Lester D. Page concerning the paving of a street in Village Grove subdivision.

Rivers said his conference with Mayor Page Friday was cordial, and he followed the mayor's directions not to have the street paved.

In his statement, Rivers said he thought the development work at Village Grove was proceeding with the approval of the city "in that paving, grading and drainage were being provided without any request for assistance or outlay of funds from the city, this being one of the very few areas in which those progressive steps are being made at no cost to the city."

He added that the area had "been inspected and highly commended by leading landscape architects and city planning specialists, and that in their commendation of the Village Grove development they had set it up one of the best of its type in North Carolina."

Lt. Comdr. Rivers said, "It has always been and will continue to be my desire to comply wholeheartedly with any policy of the city of Greenville, and in connection with the development plans for Village Grove, the city had issued the building permits and the Utilities Commission had installed the sewer and water in preparation for paving, the city Board of Aldermen had approved the map of the division, and generally it was common knowledge to all the city departments as to the intent and degree of development."

"Since these streets, within the city limits of Greenville were being provided with drainage, grading and paving without any demand on the city for payment of any part thereof," Rivers' statement continued, "this should be commended and encouraged rather than be hampered and censured. This eliminates dirt street maintenance, reducing to a large degree the cost of upkeep. The tax revenue from the new homes in Village Grove will provide money in excess of the initial development costs pertaining to grading, drainage and paving have been met."

Rivers asserted that "without full cooperation from the city the incentive for development and progress in the city will be greatly hampered. It is especially needed at this time when great demands for homes are being prompted by the location of industries such as duPont and allied businesses and the unusual growth of the city, which will mean much to the merchants, business institutions, banks and labor in this community."

Rivers said his relations with the city have always been amiable and he was "much surprised that there was "any hint of personal animosity."

Mattress Burns In Hotel Alarm

Fire last night originating in a third floor room of the Proctor Hotel caused considerable damage to the bed furnishings, Greenville firemen reported.

An alarm from the hotel was turned in at 8:29 when smoke was observed pouring out a side window of the third floor bed room.

Firemen quickly brought the flames under control. They were confined to the bed mattress, and dropped the burning mass out a window where it was put out by firemen waiting below.

Later the Greenville Police Department arrested Aeserson Brown, 36, of Route 4, Greenville for drunk and damage to real property on warrants sworn out by the hotel clerk. He was occupying the hotel room that burned.

No estimate as to the damage suffered by the hotel furnishings was known at the time.

Steel Argument Is Begun Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—Arguments on the legality of President Truman's seizure of the steel mills began before the Supreme Court at 11:22 a. m. today.

John W. Davis, speaking for six major steel companies, led off for the industry in its efforts to have the high tribunal uphold District Judge David A. Pine's ruling last month that the seizure was unlawful.

Philip B. Perlman, Solicitor General and Acting Attorney General, waited his turn to plead for a reversal of Pine's decision.

All of the approximately 300 seats in the high domed, marble-pillared court room were occupied when would-be spectators formed in the corridors.

The front-row seats were reserved for attorneys, members of Congress and other dignitaries.

The court's ruling, whenever it comes, will be of historic importance.

Reds And Police Stage Fight In Essen, Germany

ESSEN, Germany (UP)—One person was killed and two others wounded seriously yesterday in an exchange of gunfire between police and 30,000 Communist-led demonstrators protesting the Allied peace contract with West Germany.

Eight police were hurt less seriously in the skirmish which also was marked by stone throwing and fist fights.

The fatality was the first to occur in such demonstrations in West Germany since the war, and the clash marked the first time Communist demonstrators had used gunfire against police.

Anti-FEPC Resolution Is Highlight Of Precinct Meets

Sixth Precinct Democrats Hold A Conclave

Democrats of the sixth Pitt County precinct (above) met at noon Saturday, as did party members of 22 other precincts over the county. Scattered reports indicated generally fewer in attendance at precinct meetings than the sixth. The principle business of most meetings was the selection of delegates to the county convention next Saturday. (Reflector Photo by Roy Hardee).

Protest Will Be Presented Before County Convention Saturday; Delegates To County Session Named; Light Turnouts Are Generally Reported

By JESS POINDEXTER
Reflector Staff Writer

Pitt County Democrats Saturday dealt President Truman's Fair Employment Practices Commission proposal a figurative "slap in the face" when they went on record as being vigorously opposed to the plan.

With unanimous accord, voters from Greenville precinct number two meeting at the Pitt County Courthouse approved the adoption of a resolution protesting the inclusion of a compulsory FEPC plank in the national Democrat Party platform.

The precinct number two meeting at the courthouse was held in conjunction with other precinct meetings in all parts of the county. As approved Saturday, the protest resolution will be presented before the county convention Saturday, May 17. If the resolution is approved there, it will go before the state convention in Raleigh and barring disapproval there, will go to the national convention.

In the 23 precinct meetings held all over the county Saturday, each precinct named abcairman, vice-chairman and three members to the county executive committee. All precincts did not name delegates to the county convention, but provided that all precinct voters who attend the convention will be considered delegates sharing pro rata in the precinct's allotted number of convention votes.

The number of votes each precinct has at the county convention is based upon the total number of votes cast in that precinct in the last gubernatorial election. Precincts get one vote per 25 votes cast in the last race for governor.

Chairmen, vice-chairmen and three regular members to the executive committee named in 12 precincts reported today are: Ayclen chairman, J. D. Cannon, vice-chairman, Mrs. J. P. Surrill, members, R. H. Worthington, S. M. Edwards and J. H. Ross; Beaver Dam, chairman, P. S. Bruce Strickland, members, K. M. Crawford, Bruce Strickland and W. A. Strickland.

Trevathan, vice-chairman, Mrs. M. V. Yelverton, members, G. B. Beasley, Jr., R. A. Gardner, Jr. and W. J. Killbrew, Jr.

Wilson and W. C. Loftin; Winterville, chairman, Ray Oglesby, vice-chairman, Mrs. Alton Hill members, F. McCoy Tripp, C. D. Langston and Mrs. J. O. Edwards.

Trial Of Eleven Klansmen Opens In Federal Court

WILMINGTON (AP)—Four accused Ku Klux Klansmen pleaded no contest and seven others waived a jury trial as their flogging and kidnaping trial opened in federal court here today.

The prosecutor said he would not ask the death penalty for the 11 charged under the federal Lindbergh kidnaping law.

The move to waive a jury trial and let Judge Don Gilliam rule on the evidence means a speeding up in the first federal case against nightriding terrorism in the Carolinas coastal borderland.

A courtroom containing more than 100 spectators—including a handful of Negroes—heard L. C. Worley, 26, Stevan Edmunds, 26; George Miller, 38, and Sherwood Miller, 27, plead no defense to the charges they kidnaped a white man and woman across state lines and flogged them for "running around."

Oil Strike Effects Spread From Honolulu To Finland

Reds Defy Break In Truce Parleys

Much Of Non-Communist World May Soon Face Crippling Fuel Shortages; East And Midwest Motorists Feel Same Pinch As Airlines

DENVER, Colo. (UP)—Crippling effects of the nationwide strike of 90,000 oil workers reached from Finland to Honolulu today as the 13-day-old walkout continued to shut off fuel supplies.

However, ratification of a wage pact between Standard Oil of California and 20 locals of the independent Union of Petroleum Workers was announced yesterday. The agreement, approved by a 96 per cent majority of the 5,000 West Coast oil workers, called for an average 18 1-2 cent hourly wage increase.

The pact, however, had no effect on the nationwide strike by a coalition of 22 CIO, AFL and independent unions.

O. A. Knight, president of the Oil Workers International Union (CIO), said the pact was between non-members of the coalition and would not change the strike picture.

The strike threatened to cut into the non-Communist nations' fuel supplies because the U. S. sends gasoline to more than half the world market.

The strike also hit commercial airlines, which have grounded a number of domestic and foreign flights, and the military was using its fuel supplies only for essential operations.

Some motorists and service stations were finding there wasn't enough gas to go around, especially in the East and Midwest.

But the main pinch was in the supply of aviation fuel. United Airlines announced it had cancelled temporarily 14 flights.

TOKYO (UP)—Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway handed over his Far Eastern commands to Gen. Mark W. Clark today and took off on the first lap of a 12,000-mile flight to Paris to become supreme Allied commander for Europe.

He is exchanging the roles of commander of U. S. forces in the Far East and supreme commander of United Nations forces in Korea for that of commander of the North Atlantic Pact armed forces in succession to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Thousands of Japanese turned out to bid the popular and unassuming general farewell as his Air Force Constellation took off.

Ridgway and Clark reviewed an honor guard of American and British Commonwealth soldiers and Japanese police. Then Ridgway turned and addressed the American and Japanese diplomats and armed forces officials who had gathered to bid him farewell.

He expressed gratification on seeing "the armed forces of Allied nations standing side by side on the sovereign soil of Japan."

"It is an indication to me of the oneness of purpose of the free peoples who are today united to defend their liberties and maintain the peace of the world," he said. "We shall succeed."

Mrs. Ridgway and their three-year-old son, Matthew Jr., accompanied Ridgway aboard his plane. Ridgway's schedule calls for him to arrive in San Francisco early Tuesday.

Ridgway Leaves For Command In Europe

Tar Heel Will Try To Swim Channel

GASTONIA, N. C. (AP)—Gastonia's swimming fireman, 24-year-old Bob Paysour, left for New York today on his way to England and a try at swimming the English Channel.

Paysour believes that he will conquer the channel before summer's end. And his friends have backed up his belief with contributions amounting to $1,700 to help finance his attempt.

A young man who doesn't like to refuse a dare, Bob, pulled his way for 20 miles against the swift Cayawba River current with his powerful breaststroke last summer because some folks said he couldn't. To him the channel is another dare.

People who are today united to defend their liberties and maintain the peace of the world, he said. "We shall succeed."

Mrs. Ridgway and their three-year-old son, Matthew Jr., accompanied Ridgway aboard his plane. Ridgway's schedule calls for him to arrive in San Francisco early Tuesday.

From San Francisco, he will go to San Diego, Calif., for a two or three-day visit with his mother. After that he goes to Albuquerque, N. M., where an aide said he "hopes to get completely away from the world for a little more than 24 hours."

Women In The Church

By MARY FOWLER
The Social Action Committee of the Greater Springfield (Mass.) Council of Church Women have made a study of the "Voice of America" and have reported some suggested changes to "Voice" officials. In the study, the women had with them three students from Europe — former bearers of the Iron Curtain. It would be wise to eliminate any identifying theme song which might be heard by a gesture officer outside. Emphasis of material wealth of Americans to people of much lower standard of living is disheartening and embarrassing. It is of utmost importance to know and understand the people to whom the broadcast is going and to take into consideration their standard of living, their needs, problems and interests. Since the Russians are astute enough to run competing programs at the same time as the "Voice" calculated to be so entertaining that they will be tuned in instead, it is important to have the "Voice" programs interesting and entertaining. Concrete examples and stories are far better than theoretical discussions. Europeans are weary of propaganda and easily recognize it. They may form their own opinions.

Government and church action to remove racial discrimination in the City of Washington, D. C., was urged recently by seventy-five Methodist women and youth attending a seminar on the issues of Peace. The seminar was sponsored by the Woman's Division of Christian Service and the National Conference of Methodist Youth. The group from twenty-nine states and the District of Columbia, directed a resolution to the commissioners, senators and representatives assigned to government of the District, urging them to "take necessary steps to remove all barriers of discrimination so that visitors from all parts of the world may see democracy in practice in our capital." The group voted further to submit the resolution to the quadrennial General Conference of the Methodist Church as a Memorial, requesting the Church "to use all of its channels for the implementation of the resolution."

Candlelight Ceremony Unites Eleanor James And Charles Vance

In Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church on Saturday, May 10, 1952, Miss Eleanor Michaux James, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Burton James, of Greenville, was married to Charles Vance, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Vance, of Winston-Salem.

The bride is the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry R. Brown, of Greenville, Tennessee, and the late Col. and Mrs. F. G. James, of this city. The groom is the grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Vaughn and the late Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Vance, of Winston-Salem.

The wedding took place at six o'clock in the evening in a setting of woodwardia fern and white blossoms, lit by cathedral tapers. The Reverend Leon Russell, pastor of the church, officiated, assisted by Dr. Gordon R. Spough, of the Home Moravian Church in Winston-Salem.

Prior to the ceremony, a program of wedding music was presented by Mrs. Paul Toll, organist, and Mr. Jack Sealy, soloist, of Madison, N. C. Mr. Sealy sang "All for You," by Guy d'Hardelot, "Through the Years," by Vincent Youmans, and, just before the entrance of the bride party, "The Lord's Prayer," by Malotte.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of blue tulle over satin with pure white clipped Chantilly lace applied to the illusion yoke, and pointing into long tulle sleeves. The bouffant skirt, appliqued with cascades of lace, ended in a cathedral train. Her three-tiered veil of blue imported illusion fell from a French plateau bonnet of lace, and her only ornament was a strand of pearls, a gift of the groom. She Carried a clustered bouquet of white Cymbidium orchids and valley lilies tied with illusion.

Mrs. Francis Fries, Willingham of Winston-Salem attended her sister as matron of honor. The bridesmaids were the Misses Mary Rose Crisp and Lillian Wooten, of Greenville; Miss Elizabeth Lyon, of Granford, New Jersey; Misses De Witt Cromer, Erdmann McCulston, and Merri Louise Spough of Winston-Salem; Mrs. Larry James, Jr. of Farmville; and Mrs. Norwood Robinson of Durham.

All were attired in demi-length gowns of cameo pink tulle with lace trim and shirred sleeve styles. Their head-dresses were bandeaux of matching lace with short tulle veils in the back, and they carried cascade bouquets of shaded pink roses, feathered carnations and English ivy tied with pink satin streamers and illusion.

Mr. Vance was his son's best man. Ushers were Nathan Boe, Grover C. McNair, Jr., John Surratt, Thomas Vance, Bruce Phohl, and Herbert Vogler, Jr., all of Winston-Salem; Charles Scott Venable of Raleigh; Larry James, Jr. of Farmville; William B. Ellis, Jr. and Wilbur Ellis of Greenville, South Carolina; John Ray Efford of Charlotte, and William Miller, Greenville, S. C.

Mrs. James wore a gown of lilac lace and satin for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Vance, mother of the groom, chose blue lace. Their corsages were of orchids.

Immediately following the ceremony, a small reception was held at the home of the bride for members of the wedding party, families and out-of-town guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry James, Sr. and Mr. and Mrs. Luther Moore, welcomed guests at the door and directed them to the music room, where they were introduced to the receiving line.

The house was thrown en suite and decorated with white bridal flowers, pink roses, and lighted candles. A string ensemble provided soft music throughout the evening.

Mrs. Lee Hannah, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Lipscomb, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Speight and Mr. and Mrs. Luther Moore gave a luncheon in the garden of the suburban home of the Hannahs.

Punch was served from a garden well by Luther Moore, W. T. Lipscomb and Lee Hannah. Serving the plates from a buffet table covered with a checked gingham cloth and centered with a garden bouquet of assorted flowers were Mrs. Reid Perkins and Mrs. Francis F. Willingham of Winston-Salem. Individual tables placed throughout the garden were covered with checked cloths and centered with large green transparent hats filled to overflowing with various summer flowers.

Guests were welcomed at the garden gate by Mr. and Mrs. Speight, and the others assisted throughout the garden during the luncheon hour.

After-Rehearsal Dinner Party Following the rehearsal on Friday night, Mr. and Mrs. Larry James Sr. and Mrs. Larry James Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. Graham Flanagan were hosts and hostesses at a dinner party at the suburban home of the Flanagans.

Punch was served by Mr. and Mrs. Luther Moore from a table placed on the terrace. In the dining room Mrs. J. B. James and Mrs. J. T. Thorne were seated at the beautifully appointed table to assist in serving the buffet dinner. The table was laid with an aquilegia organdy cloth over yellow satin and centered with a triple candelabrum holding yellow tapers and small yellow roses. Attractive organdy fans in cut glass, all were connected to the centerpiece with streamers of narrow yellow ribbon in which were looped small gold rosebuds.

The dessert course of bridal icing, mints, cakes and nuts were served with demi tasse to the guests on the terrace and in the spacious yard.

Wedding Breakfast On Saturday at high noon, Dr. and Mrs. J. D. Messick, Dr. and Mrs. S. M. Crisp, Mrs. W. I. Wooten, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Ormond, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Blount and Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Garrett entertained for the bride party and out-of-town guests at a breakfast held at the home of the Messicks.

The punch table was in the reception hall, where pedestal arrangements of peonies were used for decorations. Miss Rose Messick and Mrs. Tom Grier of Spartanburg, S. C. served the punch from a bowl which was encircled with garlands of red roses and mock orange.

In the dining room the table was centered with a large silver tureen holding a large assortment of varied summer flowers. The mantel was enhanced with banks of pink roses. Mrs. Larry James, Mrs. Luther Moore, Mrs. L. C. Skinner, Mrs. S. T. White and Mrs. Graham Flanagan served the breakfast from the table and buffet.

The bride's table was set in the sunroom, and places were marked for the bride couple and their attendants with appropriate bridal favors. The centerpiece was a silver candelabrum filled with lily of the valley and tied with ribbon streamers. It was topped with a wedding bell and a miniature bride scene. Silver slippers filled with lily of the valley and tied with ribbon streamers and flowers were small wedding bells.

Throughout the home various arrangements of roses, peonies and valley lilies were used. The bride-elect was presented with a cymbidium orchid corsage.

Out-of-town guests who were here for the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. Charles Vance Sr. and Mrs. Herbert Vogler, Mrs. Arthur Spough, Mrs. Sidney Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Asnew Bahson, Mr. and Mrs. B. S. Womble, Mr. and Mrs. Robert McCulston, Miss Betsy Evans, Mr. Robert McCulston, Mr. and Mrs. Matton, Dr. and Mrs. Sprunt, Mr. Francis Fries Willingham, Masters Frank Jr., Burton and John Willingham, Mr. and Mrs. Petree, Dr. Gordon Spough, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Vaughn, Mrs. Charles Wilson Watson, Miss Frances Miller Bowers, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Porter, all of Winston-Salem.

Also Mrs. Juliet Robertson of Wilmington, Mr. and Mrs. William B. Ellis of Greenville, South Carolina, Dr. and Mrs. Stocker of Durham, Dr. and Mrs. Frank Hall of Reidsville, Mrs. Charles Calhoun of Elkin, Mrs. Vass Sheppard and Dr. L. C. Eight Officers Elected At Pitt FHA Meeting

Eight officers of the Pitt County Future Homemakers of America for next year were elected at the FHA Spring Rally held Thursday. Approximately 250 FHA members, teachers, and guests assembled at Whichards Beach for the annual spring rally.

Peggy Ann Dail of Winterville was elected to head the homemakers next year and Betty Jean Padley of Ayden was elected as vice-president of the county group. Other officers include: Betty Frances McLawhorn, Chicod, secretary; Neel Dupree, Belvoir, treasurer; Annie Laurie Taylor, Grimesland, reporter; Doris Oakley, Farmville, parliamentarian; and Peggy Mills, Greenville, song leader.

Each school presented two candidates for one of the officers for 1952-1953. The candidates made original speeches and presented some kind of stunt.

The Ayden chapter was awarded a prize for having the highest percentage of persons present and for having the most original name tag. The Grimesland chapter received a prize for presenting the most original campaign stunt.

Other prizes were given for having the youngest member present, the most recent bride, and for the most chapter mothers present. The group also enjoyed a weiner roast on the beach.

Dramatic Club Winds Up Season Recognized For Browning Study

Laurel Day, annual celebration held by the Teachers Playhouse of East Carolina College as a conclusion to the year's work by the college dramatic club, had as chief events last Thursday evening a dinner meeting at which twenty awards were made to members and the presentation in the College Theatre of an original one act play by Peggy Barrow of Greenville.

Lloyd Whitfield of Kinston, president of the Teachers Playhouse, outlined at the dinner meeting the accomplishments of the organization during the school year. The group, he pointed out, presented three major productions and twenty-five workshop plays.

Awards for their services in the Teachers Playhouse went to Wade Jordan, Edenton; Garland Jackson, Mt. Olive; Eric Wilkins, Benson; President Whitfield; Geraldine Weathers, Belknap; and the crew of student electricians who planned the lighting effects for the production of the morality play "Everyman."

Miss Barrow's play "Why I Am an Old Maid" was presented as the last workshop play of the current season.

Special guests at the Laurel Day celebration included Dr. Lucile H. Charles, faculty advisor of the Teachers Playhouse.

Many of the animals classed as carnivorous actually live mostly on plants — the bear being one example.

Camels with one hump are believed to have been one of the first animals to be domesticated. The one-humped camel does not reach full maturity until about its 15th years.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
CONFERRED BY HEAVEN
Heroism—the spirit and action of heroes.
We are greatly mistaken if we believe that heroism is only—or primarily—a physical matter. Moral heroism towers above the heroism of the battlefield as the heavens tower above the earth. Henry Ward Beecher once remarked: "The world's battlefields have been in the heart chiefly; more heroism has been displayed in the household and in the closet than on the most memorable battlefields of history." And the German man of letters Richter declared: "The grandest of heroic deeds are those which are performed within four walls and in domestic privacy."
The mother who works her fingers to the bone that she may get her children through school and settled in life; the policeman on a low salary who spurns a bribe; the young person who remembers life's finest things and turns away from the allurements of temptation; the writer who writes what he believes instead of what a jaded public demands; the person who loves through the years someone who does not return that love—these are the real heroes.
Killing a dozen men and capturing a few square yards of hotly contested ground; for this the military will pin a medal on your breast. Such a decoration is not to be despised—it is noble indeed. But the noblest decorations are unseen and the hand that confers them comes down out of heaven itself.

The U.S. Must Stand Pat On It's Proposal

The United States, if it is to accomplish anything in Korea, must stick by its present position on the truce talks and concede no farther to the Communists.
Left for agreement now on the cease fire talks is only the question of repatriation of Communist prisoners who do not want to return to the enslavement and possible death at the hands of their former leaders if they are returned to the Communists.
There are 62,000 prisoners in the hands of the United Nations who have said they do not want to return to Communism. Most of them are Koreans who were pressed into military service by the Reds as they over-ran Korea in the early stages of the conflict. The United States and the United Nations insist these people should not be made to return to Communism against their wishes. If the position is altered, it will surely be a renunciation of the principles under which the United Nations went to the aid of the Republic of Korea when the Communist invasion began.
The U. N. has made all the concessions it can afford to make in the truce talks. Now it must stand pat and let the Communists know that if they truly want peace in Korea, they must agree to the settlement as proposed at the present or face the consequences.

No Longer A Parttime Job

How long can a big business operate successfully without a trained man to act as a director and coordinator to see that operations run smoothly and efficiently?
How long would the stockholders in a business which has a revenue of over $300,000 a year be content for the business to operate under part time management?
More and more as The Reflector delves into the affairs of the Greenville city government, the more apparent it becomes that the local municipal government is no longer a part time job. In time past, Greenville could operate efficiently with part time management of the mayor and the board of aldermen elected by the people. But in ensuing years, the business of the city has grown into the big business category. It is no longer a shirt-tail operation.
City officials and citizens of Greenville have recognized during the past years that the growth of municipal government required full time department heads, and these have been added as time went by.
Without reflection on department heads or city officials, it has become obvious that Greenville has now grown to the point that efficient, successful operation of our municipal government requires the full time of an over-all coordinator with specialized training in running the business affairs of a municipal government.
The board of directors of any business is not expected to keep up with the detailed operations of the business. They delegate authority to trained, alert, dependable individuals who have the welfare of the business at heart, and will carry out the delegated authority for the best interest of the business. That is why businesses have general managers as well as department heads. Greenville has the department heads, but it does not have the full time general manager with technical knowledge and experience in overall municipal government operations which the job requires.

Almost every week there come to light in the city government instances of lack of coordination between departments which are necessary to the most efficient operations. We do not believe these instances are due to willful uncooperativeness between the city departments, but rather it is evidence of the lack of much needed close coordination in the city's various operations.
Greenville needs the continued efforts of its mayor and aldermen, but it also needs the work of a trained man to manage the overall operational affairs of the city under the direction of the aldermen and the mayor.

National Whirligig

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON—Democratic leaders now believe that they may enter the presidential campaign with a fairly clean bill of health on the charge of coddling communists as a result of President Truman's quiet reversal of policy on an important phase of this issue.
They dismiss as inconsequential the fact that, as with Alger Hiss, he was forced into reform by Congressional critics. They count on the voters to forget certain lapses.
Without any fanfare, Truman has dealt the official Communist Party and allied front organizations a damaging thrust. He has reorganized the hitherto pinkish Subversive Activities Control Board by naming as chairman a hard-hitting legal realist in Peter Campbell Brown of Brooklyn.
Although no red-baiter, Mr. Brown had frequently dissented when his predecessors showed an amazing tolerance of the defendants' rowdy tactics at official hearings.
EFFECT—Brown follows such easy-going board chiefs as Seth W. Richardson of North Dakota and ex-Representative Charles M. La Follette of Indiana. They were apparently named by Truman in an attempt to soften or minimize the effect of the law creating this sort of Supreme Court on communist activities in the United States.
Indeed, he vetoed the original measure, only to have it passed over his objections by a large majority.
Richardson, for instance, was charged with whitewashing the administration's part in the Pearl Harbor disaster when he served as counsel for a Capitol Hill investigating committee. He is a partner of Joseph E. Davies, former ambassador to Russia and author of the pro-Stalin book, "Mission to Moscow."
La Follette was forced out of the chairmanship because the Senate Judiciary Committee refused to approve his nomination. He once headed the liberal Democratic Hyde Park faction known as Americans for Democratic Action.
Thus, the anti-Truman, McCarran bloc was really responsible for the transformation of SACB from a partisan and ideological agency into a realistic, semi-judicial body.
PROBLEM—The scarcely known Subversive Activities Control Board currently has under consideration a problem of vital importance to the United States in peace or war.
Its decision in this matter will deeply affect our national security, if the "cold war" should flare into a global conflict in which the enemy would rely on "fifth columns" more effective even than Hitler's.
SACB must decide whether the Communist Party and kindred groups must register as foreign agents, thus keeping the government informed of their financial resources, membership and activities. SACB passes judgment on the basis of citations supplied to it by the Department of Justice, which acts as complainant.
ADVERSE—Before his enforced resignation, Attorney General J. Howard McGrath gathered damning evidence against all these red organizations. Although the defense is still to be heard, and the "commies" counsel, ex-Representative Vito Marcantonio of New York, says he will need two months for preparation of his case, data so far submitted points toward a decision adverse to Stalin's agents and admirers.
It is expected that they will be ordered to register.
ASSET—Since the board's ruling should be handed down before the November election in accord with usual procedure, an anti-Kremlin holding would be a valuable asset to the Democrats.
Together with the operations of Thomas F. Murphy and Judge Harold Medina in the Hiss and other trials involving alleged subversion, the incumbents and their November nominees could maintain that they had erased the red stain.
The GOP's principal countercharge, in view of the disastrous effect of our Far Eastern policies in China and Korea, would be that contrition and retribution came too late to be effective. Truman's belated actions will be characterized as a "deathbed repentance."
JUSTICE—The realistically reorganized SACB can meet needs acutely felt at the start of World War II, and which may be more demanding in the event of another global conflict.
From the standpoint of security, it will have a record that will serve as a rogues' gallery of reds. It will be a repository of information that has been sifted and analyzed. Moreover, the defendants' testimony, as always in cases of this kind, will be of great value.
From the standpoint of justice, it can prevent the unjustifiable and unconstitutional drumhead treatment given to loyal Japanese and Nisei, when they were herded in internment camps without due process of law.
Enemy aliens and sympathizers, like the communists on trial today, will be accorded every constitutional safeguard. And SACB's decisions are reviewable by the courts, although it is probable that there will be a minimum of reviews or reverses under the regime of the Brooklyn lawyer, war veteran and government career official.

CONVENTION — There is a bit of unconscious humor in the fixing of dates for some upcoming conventions in Raleigh. Biggest of them all will be the State Democratic convention on May 22, a one-day affair expected to draw 5,000 or more people to the capital city. The following day, May 23, the Alcoholic Anonymous groups open a three-day convention in the Sir Walter Hotel. Several wags have noted the sequence of events and suggested that the AA's might pick up several recruits among attendants at the political pow-wow. If history repeats itself, some of the fellows will be ready to swear off about that time.
SERIOUS — The Alcoholic Anonymous recognize no humor in the situation or in the whole problem they are seeking to solve. The convention program maintains the feature of anonymity in that speakers and discussion leaders are listed only by first names, nicknames and initials. The program is built around the "Twelve Steps" toward control of the addiction to alcohol, beginning with admission that the individual is powerless of himself and ending with the pledge to help others; and the "Twelve Traditions" which stress the features of anonymity and freedom from entanglement with drives, organizations or movements — other than voluntary cooperation among members. The AA Prayer will be often used during the sessions. It is simple: "God grant me the serenity to accept things I cannot change, courage to change things I can, and wisdom to know the difference."
LIFTING BUYING CONTROLS — Wilson Times)
Anything to please! In recent months we've been building up surpluses of some of our large mobiles and television sets largely because the people haven't the wherewithal to buy them. So, to help out the manufacturers in those lines, the Federal Reserve Board has lifted regulation W which compelled buyers to make large down payments, spreading the remainder over only 18 months. Now, with controls lifted, the seller may make his own terms.
In the Nineteen Twenties we were on the road to permanent prosperity. While it lasted it had an exhilarating effect. But we made no effort to protect the soft spots. Farmers watched the prices of what they had to sell drop to where their income had all but vanished. Real estate prices began to sag as early as 1925. Our huge industrial surpluses were sold abroad, but only after private enterprise had loaned the money for the goods. City folks, through installment buying, in many cases owed incomes that they never collected. When the bust came, it busted everything.
We're building up to another bust now. When we took the position that we must have guns and butter too, we laid the foundation for it. For, when the defense program levels off, what will we do with the tremendous surpluses that continue to pour from our factories? There's a need for them abroad, but are we forever to give the money with which to buy our products? To give that same money to our own people, would, of course, be socialism. Will we in the end resort to it rather than face another bust? The Times has apprehensions. Do some of those who have contributed to the fiasco?

Selected Shorts

ELY, NEV. RECORD AND DAILY TIMES: "The Daily Times believes that all of us must realize that free enterprise made our country strong. We should use this knowledge in the domestic battle against creeping socialism. If we do not win this fight at home, our resources, productivity and strength will, under encroaching bureaucracy, degenerate into stagnation and poverty here—and the free world's defense against tyranny... will be fatally weakened."
FORT PAYNE, ALA. TIMES-NEWS ERA: "Business news says that while sales of major companies were 15 per cent higher in 1950 than in 1951, their net profits were down 7 per cent. We know some who were not major companies who did more business in 1951 than in 1950, but had less profits."
MYRTLE BEACH (S.C.) NEWS—President Truman's dramatic withdrawal as a candidate to succeed himself removes the symbol of Trumanism without eliminating the basic symptoms and their cause.
President Truman had become a convenient and discontented target at which could be hurled the dots of disquiet resulting from the violation of basic principles which in the minds of many, was leading this country into chaos and ruin. But Trumanism was not solely reflected by the ideas and acts of one man. Under his leadership Trumanism had become an entrenched objective and principle of our governmental administration. From top to bottom the personnel of our government had become inspired by the principles of their leader—and secure in the knowledge that, regardless of inefficiencies or unwise policies—a continuation of Trumanism in office would leave them untouched and unhindered in their continued pursuit of his objectives....

GROUPS — Alcoholics Anonymous is not an organization in the usual sense of the term. Expected to attend the convention are representatives from some 60-odd local groups throughout North Carolina, some of which have a semblance of organization with a chairman and secretary, but most of the traditions that AA should not be organized. There are no dues, no membership cards, and the only requirement for "membership" is a desire to stop drinking.
SERVICE — The spectacle of a hundred or more members of the Raleigh Kiwanis Club peddling a special edition of the Raleigh Times on the streets Friday occasioned some ridicule, some objections, but mostly attracted sympathetic cooperation of the casual customers waylaid by the "newsboys." The paper sales were in furtherance of the Kiwanis project to take 300 little residents of the local Methodist and Catholic orphanages to the beach. A similar stunt last year netted about $2700 for a beach trip. Very few papers were sold for less than a quarter, a few for as much as $5, a lot of them for $1 but the average take was about half a buck. Anyway, some 300 orphans will get a beach trip because of the efforts of the Kiwanians and the generosity of the public.
COMMON — There is nothing unusual about this kind of thing. It is a common scene in most North Carolina communities every spring to find a bunch of Lions peddling brooms to help the blind. Other clubs have similar worthwhile projects which busy men of business take time out to promote. There is real question whether ership, it is essential that he lay his evidence on the table in full view of everybody.

The apparent tolerance and sympathy, and even the evident friendship displayed for king-pin racketeers by enforcement officials and court authorities is so often exhibited in trials at the local level that it becomes suspect, and ought to be. To cloak such hearings in official secrecy is to invite public censure.
Whatever the depth of his remorse, Commissioner Wolfe is presumably a wise man, now that his little attempt to soothe the Smith waters, which are troubled indeed, has developed a rip tide. Let other bathers beware!
DON'T GET TOO BUREAU (Hertford County Herald)
It is a constant complaint on the part of those who are interested in politics in these United States, that they cannot get the people to vote. There are many reasons why our populace does not vote, but the main one seems to be a reluctance to qualify as voters.
This month, well in advance of the date of the primary election, every person who can qualify will have the opportunity to do the necessary things that will make him a qualified voter, entitled to take part in the primary election, the general election this fall and all other elections within the time provided by law.
Whether the lack of interest on the part of prospective voters is due to laziness or disgust, we should remember that the man or woman who won't vote for any reason is in no position to criticize those whom others may elect to office.
If you want to squawk about the weaknesses or the crookedness of office holders, be sure you have done your duty in electing them to office. The one who won't vote, shouldn't squawk.

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER
The typical merchant is grimly optimistic, judging from a survey by the National Retail Dry Goods Association.
The association polled 60 leading merchants in 55 cities. Of these, 49 per cent believe that 1952 sales will be higher than last year's and 23 per cent believe they will be lower. George Hansen, N.R.D.G.A. president, reported. However, 50 per cent expect profits in the immediate future will be down, 32 per cent think they will be higher and 18 per cent think they will match 1951 figures.
All but one of the retailers agree that the price structure is soft and the price trend is downward. They are unanimous in stating price controls have no effect on retail prices, but that by preventing the averaging of mark-ups, controls reduced retail margins as much as 1 1/2 per cent.
Only 10 per cent of the merchants think consumer buying power has been reduced, and they attribute it to local conditions. Seventy-five per cent believe buying power is ample and 15 per cent believe it is even greater than in 1951.
Off-price buys — goods at less than regular prices — are readily available to them, 65 per cent of the merchants say.
Forty-one per cent say they plan to increase their advertising budgets in 1952; 24 per cent intend to spend the same amount and 20 per cent indicate a reduction from 1951 outlays.
Only three say that expenses are not climbing above 1951 levels.
Most report that general employment conditions are favorable. Only 14 per cent say employment is lower than last year and they blame local conditions.
Statements in this column last week about trends toward self-service were well borne out; 77 per cent of the stores report it is of increasing importance to independent stores; 58 per cent report they have some self-service already, and only 23 per cent believe it is unsuitable for department and specialty stores.
On "fair trade" laws: 43 per cent for, 57 per cent against. On night openings: 74 per cent open one night a week; 13 per cent two nights; 13 per cent none. On Federal Trade Commission rules on cosmetic sales: 58 per cent report no effect; 11 per cent report sales improved; and 13 per cent report "chaos and confusion."
SAYS QUITTING TV A PROFITABLE STEP
A Philadelphia dealer gave up television sales three months ago. Now, according to Retailing Daily, he says, "I'm happy, have not lost any sleep and, by a change, I'm making money."
The dealer, Louis Witte, quit handling sets because he said margins fixed by manufacturers do not permit net profits. He continues to service television and radio sets and sells records, ra-diets and burglar alarm systems.

BULB LOSSES BECOME PROMOTIONAL GAINS
American business men often think their British opposite numbers lack promotional enterprise. But in one field they have us licked.
A Dutch bulb importer reports:
"At the end of the season, almost every dealer plants his unsold tulip bulbs in front of his own house. If he has over-bought, his front garden will be a mass of blooms in May. Neighbors and passers-by are so impressed that many buy bulbs for mass display in the fall."
As a consequence, the English buy four times as many bulbs per capita than Americans.
EXCESS PROFITS TAX KEEPS GIVING CHEAP
Corporations this year can give 7 per cent more to charity than they did in 1951, at no additional cost to stockholders. Commerce Clearing House calculates. But there is an "if" — the corporation must be in the excess profits bracket. Companies in that bracket can contribute $1,000 at a net cost of $180.
NEW PRODUCTS
BATTERY: A radio battery said to provide power for ten times more playing time than present batteries, has been developed by R. C. A. Victor, Camden, N. J. Its life is further extended up to 30 per cent by use in radios of a "life saver switch" which enables the battery to deliver only the amount of power actually needed.
ADJUSTER: An electrically operated hospital bed, soon to be introduced, by Simmons Co., Merchandise Mart Plaza, Chicago 54, is said to permit the patient to adjust it to any position by turning a switch.
CLEANER: A car cleaner has been developed by S. C. Johnson & Son, Inc., 33-16 Woodside Ave., Woodside, L. I., N. Y. for preparing surface of cars for waxing. It is said to loosen dirt, cut car cleaning time by 25 per cent and make any car wax hold better and last longer.
ROD: A casting rod in two parts joined by a pivot, said to enable user to make usually long and accurate cast has been patented by Harry A. James, Joplin, Mo. Holding the butt end stationary and pushing back a "trigger" handle, the tip end of the rod is raised into casting position; pulling back on the handle snaps rod forward and an automatic thumb releases line and lure.
GLOVE: Shoulder-length, lightweight rubber gloves for radioactive and chemical research work have been developed by Dewey & Almy Chemical Co., Cambridge, Mass. Costing 10 to 25 per cent less than conventional gloves they are said to provide complete protection, have a high degree of sensitivity and dexterity, fit any average size hand, and, because of their neutral thumb feature, may be worn on either hand.

Hal Boyle's Column

By HAL BOYLE
(For JOE WING)
NEW YORK — (AP) — The hunting season is on in Central Park.
This morning and every morning during the annual bird migration time, scores of enthusiasts, armed with binoculars and identification books; prowl the glades of this 862-acre, $800,000 bird sanctuary to add new species to their annual lists.
The hunting thus far hasn't been very good. Although the trees are leaved out early, making observation difficult, the migration has been late. The big wave of warblers, due May 10, may not be along for several days.
The bird watchers form a kind of fraternity. They concentrate in the Ramble, a brushy area near the American Museum of Natural History, and exchange the password, "seen anything good?" as they meet from time to time.
One woman who answered "yes, a Cape May warbler, down that way," was nearly trampled in the rush before she got the words out of her mouth. Cape May warblers are uncommon and not to be missed.
People not in the know think the watchers a little crazy, one of them confessed, although an officer once thought of running a watcher in as a peeping tom.
In the last half century, more than 225 species of birds have been observed in the park, including 38 different kinds of warblers, a snowy owl from the Far North, a dickcissel from the West and a purple gallinule from the South. On just one day, May 10, 1927, a list of 78 was compiled. That's good in any country.
The nice thing about the park, from a bird watcher's viewpoint, is that birds seen there are all on the move. They drop in at night as an oasis in a brick wilderness, but find next day it is no place to settle down. So they move on promptly, and their passage can thus be checked accurately.
J. T. Nichols of the American Museum, who has been watching birds in the park since he was a kid in the nineties, does not think the hunting as good as it used to be. On the other hand Geoffrey Carleton, author of "Birds of Central Park," calls it one of the best bird watching places in 50 miles.
It's good enough anyway to attract every morning at every lunch hour hundreds of amateur and professional bird hobbyists, all hoping for the big day when they can hang up a stupendous record of the number of birds seen or, better still, spot some strange bird that, like many a New Yorker, has found himself where he didn't expect to be.

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS
WASHINGTON — The health of 16,000 Americans working for Uncle Sam around the globe is in the hands of Miss Ruth Kahl, who has spent a lifetime in the nursing profession. A Public Health Service officer for many years in various posts throughout the United States, Miss Kahl was recently appointed director of nursing for the domestic and foreign health services of the State Department.
She will direct the nursing services of the department's 21 health units — six in Washington and 15 abroad, as well as another to open soon in Tokyo. The foreign health service in such far-away places as Bangkok, Saigon and Djakarta, New Delhi and Manila, were started only a little more than a year ago and were originally under the direction of Eleanore Suedegar, who was killed in a plane crash near Teteran while on a field trip last December.
"There are approximately as many employees working outside the United States as there are inside, and some are living under very difficult conditions involving climate, diet and sanitation," Miss Kahl told me. "It is very important to maintain their well-being."
It is impossible to set up nursing services every place, but where the demand is great enough and local facilities are not adequate, Miss Kahl says "we are doing our level best to see that medical and surgical help is available, these are used."
Though she has traveled extensively in this country, Miss Kahl has never been abroad. She will have her first opportunity late this summer when she expects to visit State's nursing posts on a field trip. "I don't expect to hit any of the glamorous spots," she said. "Posts in the larger capitals get along all right. It's the more isolated ones that need an occasional boost."
Like many women in the nursing profession, Miss Kahl is quiet-mannered and soft-spoken but convincingly firm. The daughter of a Methodist minister, she was born in East Dubuque, Ill. She was graduated from Hiram College, near Cleveland, where she majored in sociology. She took her public health instruction from Western Reserve University. She comes to her new post from the Public Health Service's Occupational Health Field Station in Salt Lake City.

The Nice Long Vacation

By William Neubeuer

Chapter 5

Jane was met at the Tuttleton station by a tall, slim girl with black hair and a calm tanned face. "Evelyn Moore," she introduced herself, "the camp nurse." She led the way across the station drive and presently they were jumping along in a jeep truck over a rough dirt road. "There's no one around but the help as yet. Mr. Forsythe wrote very highly of you. He seems to think you're a real prize."

"I'm afraid he just loves human beings so much he can't see their failings."

That brought a broad grin to Evelyn Moore's face. "You sound as though you've committed murder, at least."

Murder? Jane thought of Aunt Hattie's stricken face and William Dunbar's stricken face and she laughed huskily. "Perhaps I have."

Startled, Evelyn took her eyes from the road, with the result that one of the front wheels promptly went down into the drainage ditch. "My goodness, don't tell me we have another gal with complex this year."

"I have no problems. That is, none but the usual ones we all have. You sound as though you're an old hand here."

"Fifth year," Evelyn said happily. "No matter what I'm doing, I arrange to spend my summers here. It's the real life. What do you think we are. Isn't it something to warm the cockles of your heart?"

Jane looked through the spotted windshield. She could see tents and long, barracks-like buildings that apparently functioned as mess and recreational halls, and over the roof of one of these structures she could see the shimmering blue waters of Lake Champlain. She caught her breath. It was Army, but more exciting than just Army. She turned with an answering smile to Evelyn Moore. "It looks very nice. I'm glad it isn't just a recreation resort. I don't think I would have enjoyed living in a stuffy cabin all summer."

"Oh, it's the real outdoor life," Evelyn said with much satisfaction. "Up early and out all day and to unmarried officer in the establishment."

"Just the pretty ones," Ken drawled, his eyes twinkling. He led Jane down to the shore, nodding as she gave a gasp of sheer pleasure. "Yes, it has its appeal, doesn't it? I would like to have been the gentleman who discovered it. Well, there's the water and here's the land. How far out would you say is safe for poor swimmers to venture?"

She scowled. "One of us should be in a bathing suit."

His eye went up and down her trim figure and he nodded most enthusiastically. "Indeed, indeed!"

But she was saved a trip back to the tent. Along came one of the maintenance men, a redhead with a heavily freckled face. Ken looked at the picture he made in his bathing trunks and grunted. "Hey, Joe, we need a guinea pig."

"Sure an I've told yez me name is Mike," the redhead said, aggrieved. He nodded cheerily at Jane, then whirled on Ken. "An' I'll be havin' yez know that no Mike O'Reilly since time itself began has been servin' anyone as a guinea pig. The back o' me hand 't'yez."

"But you're the perfect height," Jane interposed, very winningly. "I'd take as a great favor, Mr. O'Reilly, if you would overlook this boor here at give us a hand."

"Now then," he cried, greatly pleased, "that is makin' it all right. Never let it be said that a Mike O'Reilly, from County Cork, no less, refused to lend a fair colleen a helping hand."

Jane had him walk up to the beach and down into the water again. It soon became evident that here, at least, the bed of the lake was very nicely graded, falling away in a long, even slope that made it a perfect bathing spot. But that was the end of the afternoon fun. Getting the floats anchored at the proper distance from the shore was no easy business, and stringing a strong line from one float to the next, and equipping these with small red floats had her exhausted long before the chore had been accomplished.

Local Golfers Win Titles In Southern Seniors Meet

Over 40 members of the Southern Seniors Golf Association braved weekend storms to go through another of their spring tournaments. When the rain-soaked field finished play Sunday afternoon, the two trophies awarded for the two rounds of play had gone to Greenville golfers.

Luther Herring took the Senior trophy with a net score of 134 for the two rounds. John Proctor, also of Greenville, had won the award last spring. Robert (Bob) Lang repeated his 1951 performance in the Junior division to take the Junior title for the second straight year with a net score of 127.

Play in the Association tournaments is carried on in four age brackets: Class A, B and C is limited to those members 60 years of age and older; Class D is composed of the 55-59 year old age group; Class E takes in the 50-54 years old section; and the juniors come from the group which is between 40 and 49 years of age. There are no members of the association under 40 years of age.

The rains which hampered play all weekend cut down the number of golfers which were expected to attend but a spokesman for the group cited the large number which did attend. Some participants came from considerable distances to attend but most were from within North Carolina though the Association has between 300 and 400 members in 14 Southern states.

Winners in the individual groups are as follows:

Saturday, 18 hole round: Classes A, B and C: low net, Luther Herring (Greenville) with a score of 66; second place, Jesse Brown (Kinston) with a score of 70.

Class D: low net, G. Leggett (Tarboro) with a score of 65; second place, E. E. Forbes (Greenville) with a score of 66.

Class E: low net, H. I. Johnson (Tarboro) with a score of 64; second place, E. D. Larkins (Greenville), 66.

Junior Division: low net, R. G. Lang (Greenville) with a score of 3; second place, M. A. Collins (Southern Pines), 67.

Low gross score in the field went to Ewell Webb of Greenville with a score of 72 for the first 18 hole round.

Sunday, 18 hole round: Classes A, B and C: low net, C. G. Crockett (Williamston), 69; second place, George Brinson (Raleigh), 70.

Class D: low net, Kelly Jewel (Wilmington), 70; second place, Chester Williams (Southern Pines), 72.

Class E: low net, James E. Phelps (Greenville), 69; second place, J. M. Snow (Wilmington), 72.

Junior Division: low net, John Clarke (Southern Pines), 72; second place, William F. Yates (Raleigh), 73.

Gross scores for 36 holes: Classes A, B and C: H. G. Stokley (Wilmington), 175; Class D: R. E. Duke (Raleigh), 147; Class E: Calvin F. Smith (Greensboro), 165; Junior Division: Abbott Morris (Washington, N. C.), 149.

Net scores for 36 holes: A, B and C: Jesse Brown (Kinston), 143; second, George Brinson (Wilmington), 144.

Class D: low net, C. H. Leggett (Tarboro), 135; second place, E. E. Forbes (Greenville), 136; third place, R. E. Duke (Raleigh), 141.

Class E: low net, tie between H. I. Johnson of Tarboro and E. D. Larkins of Greenville with scores of 137; third place, Calvin F. Smith (Greensboro), 139.

Junior Division: low net, H. A. Collins (Southern Pines), 139; tie for second place between Abbott Morris of Washington and John Clarke of Southern Pines with scores of 141.

Gehrmann Sets Record For Mile

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (UP)—Don Gehrmann came dashing back onto the Olympic mile picture today with one of the fastest mileclockings in history—4 minutes, 5.3 seconds.

The former Wisconsin University star, who disappointed with a poor showing in the invitation mile race at the recent Penn Relays, posted his latest sparkling time in yesterday's Boardwalk Mile here, the country's most famed straightaway mile run on boards.

Dashing Don thus lowered the record of 4:06.5 set for the event two years ago by Fred Wilt.

Gehrmann ran his typical race, coming from behind in the last 30 yards to outstrip FBI agent Horace Ashenfelter by five feet.

YESTERDAY'S STAR

Allie Reynolds of the New York Yankees who pitched a two-hit 1 to 0 victory over the Boston Red Sox, holding them hitless after the first inning.

Sam Snead Wins Greenbrier Open With 264 Total

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (UP)—They used to say Sammy Snead because he couldn't win a tournament on his home course—but now the Slammer is having the last laugh.

In the first three Greenbrier Open tournaments, Snead was always found in the also rans. But he got mad last year and won the tournament for the first time. Then yesterday he led his rivals home again in the 82-hole tournament.

Trudging gleefully through the rain, long-ball hitting Sam shot a four-under-par 66 in the final round to wind up with a total of 264. That was four strokes better than his nearest rival, Ed Oliver of Lemont, Ill.

Oliver, who had a nine-under-par 61 in the opening round, lost the lead to Snead on Saturday and was unable to threaten the home pro in the final round, although he wound up with a respectable three-under-par 67.

Snead pocketed $1,800 as his share of the purse. He now heads for New York, where he will be matched against the nation's leading money-winner in the Palm Beach Round Robin tournament starting Thursday.

Dave Douglas of Wilmington, Del., finished third with a 271, while Jimmy Clark of Laguna Beach, Calif., and Jim Ferrer of San Francisco tied for fourth at 272.

Fisherman Pulls Shark With Rod

ADELAIDE, Australia (AP)—All Dean caught a white pointer shark weighing 2,323 pounds. He made the big catch with a rod and 39-thread line at Streaky Bay, east of Adelaide. The shark was 16 feet three inches long and eight feet eleven inches in girth.

Dean is claiming two world records—the all tackle and the 39-thread line.

Allie Reynolds Leads Show With Win Over Bosox

By CARL LUNDQUIST

United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP)—Baseball presented a little mystery thriller to the fans today entitled—"Who Stole the Lively Ball, or Whatever Became of Big League Hitters?"

In a trend that developed last season when there were 13 pitchers who won 20 or more games apiece, the pitchers again are dominating proceedings this year. Thus far in the American League in 91 games there have been 35 in which one team has been held to five hits or less. And in the National in 89 games there have been 36 performances of five hits or less by the hurlers. That is almost phenomenal, according to the experts, and so far there has been precious little good pitching weather, either. Most of it has been cold and breezy, which certainly isn't suited for top-flight hurling.

Yesterday, when it was cold and damp in most spots, there was more elegant hurling in both leagues. Bob Lemon of the Indians and Allie Reynolds of the Yankees turned in sizzling two-hit, 1 to 0, triumphs, to set the pace. Other performances, some by losers, were only a shade less lustrous.

Reynolds made it three straight over the Red Sox in a duel with Mel Parnell. Lemon bested Brownie ace Ned Garver, who yielded only four hits in defeat, after which Mike Garcia pitched eight hit ball to gain a sweep for Cleveland, 3 to 1, as Bob Cain, Earl Harris, and Gene Bearden collaborated in a five-hit losing performance.

Ted Gray finally pulled the Tigers out of their latest losing skid with a five-hit, 2 to 1 victory over Marv Grissom of Chicago, who yielded only four hits in defeat. The Tiger victory came after Chicago won the opener, 6 to 5.

Washington moved into second place with a six-hit, 5 to 2 collaboration by Julius Moreno and Bob Porterfield over the Athletics in 11 innings. The second game was rained out after two innings.

In the National League, Brooklyn moved to within a game of the idle first place Giants by defeating the Phils, 4 to 3 in 10 innings as Carl Erskine scattered eight hits and Howie Fox lost a five-hitter.

In the National League, Brooklyn moved to within a game of the idle first place Giants by defeating the Phils, 4 to 3 in 10 innings as Carl Erskine scattered eight hits and Howie Fox lost a five-hitter.

Lefty Paul Minter of the Cubs pitched five hit ball to top Pittsburgh, 8 to 2, but the Pirates came back to win the second game, 11 to 2 as Bob Friend scattered eight hits. The Reds topped the Cardinals 8 to 5, on an eight-hitter by lefty Harry Perkowski.

Cleveland's two wins gave it a full two-game lead in the A. L. Dale Mitchell drove home the winning run for Lemon with a ninth inning single as Cleveland made three of its four hits off Garver in that frame.

In the second game, the Indians chalked up single runs in the second, third, and fourth innings to beat the Brownie trio. The Indians got no hits after the fifth.

Reynolds came through with one of his greater performances, holding Boston hitless after the first inning. He struck out eight and faced only 24 batters after the first.

One runner who got on through an error, was wiped off in a double play. Irv Noren drove home the only run with a single in the fifth.

Eddie Yost sparked a three-run 11th inning rally with a bases loaded single as relieved Porterfield gained credit for his third victory for the Nats.

Detroit, which had dropped seven in a row, won for Gray in the nightcap when George Lerchen drove home the winning run with an eighth inning single.

Two Greenville golfers copped the first place honors in the Southern Senior Golf Tourney held at the local Country Club Saturday and Sunday. R. G. Lang, last year's winner in the Junior Division, turned in a repeat performance by taking the honors for the second year in a row. Lang scored a low net of 127. Luther Herring, (left) won the Senior division with a net of 134. (Reflector Photo by Roy Hardee).

Mangrum Swells Earnings With Win In Pan-American

MEXICO CITY (UP)—Lloyd Mangrum's golfing "take" was swelled by another $2,600 today as a result of his six-stroke victory in the Pan-American open tournament.

The veteran Chicago shotmaster rattled out a three-under-par 69 on yesterday's final round to finish with a 72-hole score of 279.

Meanwhile, temperamental Tommy Bolt of Durham, N. C., who had been tied with Mangrum for first after three rounds, buckled under pressure.

Mangrum sank two birdies in the first nine holes for a 34, while Bolt blew up to a 40, four strokes over par. Both men recorded 35 on the back nine, so Bolt finished with 75 for a 285 total.

Jack Burke Jr., of Houston shot 72 on the last round to take third place with 287. Bolt earned $1,900 and Burke $1,400.

Horse Strike Ends At Lincoln Fields

CHICAGO (UP)—Chicago's horse racing "strike" came to an end today after a late settlement by striking horse owners with officials of Lincoln Fields race track for the opening of the Lincoln Fields meet this afternoon.

The horse owners had been on strike against nearby Sportsman's Park since last Monday for larger purses on a percentage basis. They had threatened to carry the strike to Lincoln Fields after the end of the Sportsman's meet yesterday.

An agreement was reached with Lincoln officials late yesterday.

The agreement calls for a minimum purse distribution to owners of $1,000 added to the day's purse distribution for each $50,000 of the total handle over $700,000.

Darling's Successor

DENVER (AP)—While Iowa's Chuck Darling was setting a flock of Big Ten basketball records this winter, a six foot five inch youngster here was smashing Denver high school records.

Darling had established as a star for South High. Ronnie Shavlik of East High scored a new season's high of 215 points, averaging 26.8 per game. He also set a new single game record of 38.

Chuck Stobbs as Minne Mimoso hit a two-run homer for the victory margin.

Brooklyn made three unearned runs off Fox, including its winning tally in the 10th which was driven home by Roy Campanella. An error by Gragny Hamner on an easy grounder by Peeewe Reese, stolen base, and an intentional pass to Jackie Robinson, preceded Campanella's game-breaking single, his first hit in his last 12 times at bat.

Elon Win Today Can Sew Up Top Position

By the Associated Press

Today promised to be the day of decision for Elon's Christians, leaders in the North State Conference's Eastern Division baseball race.

The Christians were scheduled to meet the Guilford Quakers at Guilford, with a berth in the Conference championship tournament at stake. A victory for Elon today would send the defending champions against Lenoir Rhyne in the opening game of the title tourney in Hickory Wednesday night. A defeat would force Elon to play East Carolina in the make-up of a rained-out game. A loss to the Pirates would result in a playoff between Elon and East Carolina to decide the Eastern Division winner.

Elon completed last week's conference play with an 11-3 record while East Carolina finished the season with a 10-5 mark. Accordingly, a single Elon win would give the Christians the Eastern crown.

Meanwhile, Lenoir Rhyne, triumphant in football and baseball, prepared for the tournament in which the Bears will make their bid for a grand slam in major conference sports circles.

The Bears, coached by Troy Washman, completed their regular conference campaign undefeated in the Western Division race. The Bears walloped Catawba 12-0 Saturday night for their 10th straight win as against no losses.

Trailing Lenoir Rhyne in the Western Division were Catawba (6-4), Appalachian (2-8), and West Carolina (1-7). In the Eastern scramble, Atlantic Christian finished with a 6-8 record and High Point with a 3-9 mark. Guilford carried a 4-9 record into today's game with Elon.

The Hickory tournament will be a best two out of three affair with single games Wednesday, Thursday and a third Friday if necessary.

Marciano Fights Last Bout Tonight

PROVIDENCE, R. I. (UP)—Rocky Marciano, hard-hitting heavyweight contender from Brockton, Mass., who lost considerable luster in his last television appearance, battles cumber some Benito Reynolds of Fairfield, Conn., tonight before entering a 30-day suspension.

The suspension, invoked by the Maine Boxing Commission and reluctantly upheld by Rhode Island, resulted from a spring exhibition tour by Rocky in which his opponent was his younger brother fighting under assumed names.

Unfortunately, one of the names was "Pete Fuller"—the true name of a socialite amateur heavyweight well-known in New England because his father is former Gov. Alvan T. Fuller of Massachusetts.

Thoughtfully however, the Maine commission set the suspension for May 13, the day after Marciano's handlers had committed themselves to a 10-round bout with Reynolds.

Rams Win

ROBERSONVILLE—The Robersonville Rams took a 17-4 non-conference win over Oak City here Friday afternoon. Joe Johnson pitched the victory for the Rams.

The Rams spotted Oak City four runs in the top of the first frame but moved into the lead they never gave up with five runs of their own in the bottom half of the first frame.

Robersonville has won five and lost four thus far this season. Oak City 400 000-4 1 3 Robersonville 510 430-17 6 6

Stocks And Market Reports

NEW YORK (UP)—Prices declined irregularly on the stock exchange around mid-session today in listless trading.

There was nothing in the news to snap the market out of its lethargy and investors generally held to sidelines pending the Supreme Court's decision on the steel seizure.

A few high-priced oil shares showed the widest declines. Amerada Petroleum at 207 1/2 was down 2 1/2 points. Texas Pacific Land Trust and Cities Service were down a point each.

Willys-Overland dominated dealings. A few large blocks of this issue changed hands at 10, up 1/4. Elsewhere, steel shares moved irregularly. Bethlehem Steel slipped 1/2 to 48 3/8 and U. S. Steel was unchanged at 38 1/8. Chrysler and General Motors eased in their group.

Sales in the first two hours of dealings totaled 300,000 shares, compared with 400,000 in the same period last Friday.

Another Liquor Still Destroyed By ABC Raiders

Another illegal liquor manufacturing outfit fell the victim of Pitt County ABC officers last week when the officers discovered a 75-gallon steam distillery in the Swift-creek section of the county.

The still, along with 800 gallons of mash, was hot when the officers found it but no one was at the site. Officers stated that they believed that the owners of the still had planted a watch which observed the officers as they approached the still, warning the operators and enabled them to make good their get-away.

A heavy thunder storm was in progress at the time the still was raided, officers stated. Twenty-one and one-half gallons of freshly made spirits was found nearby along with several cases of half-gallon jars.

ABC officer Ward stated that the operators were using a copper raider for a condenser. A 50-gallon drum was being used for the boiler.

The entire plant was destroyed by dynamite. Officers making the raid were Jim, Ward, J. L. Taylor, Claude Manning and Dick King.

Young Executives Being Sought As Business Begins Fill Its Ranks

By ROGER BABSON
BABSON PARK, Mass. — It is open season now for the young executive hunt! Hundreds of company recruitment officers are in the chase, hopeful that they may bag "promising" college seniors for their companies. Two grave mistakes will make the hunt costly in the long run: (1) colleges will give the men with the highest grades the best recommendations; and (2) companies will fail to interview some of the best executive potentials because the men are "grade outcasts."

The Myth of Good Grades For years now many educators have promoted the notion that the same qualities which bring a man high grades in school also make for success on the job. Nothing could be further from the truth. One hundred and fifty years ago when the purpose of our colleges was primarily to educate for the learned professions, there may have been some direct relationship between grades and job success. But college is a vastly different institution today from what it was then.

Several research studies indicate that good grades have little or no bearing on a man's job success in business.

I am assuming, of course, that job success is measured by dollars and cents. I know that some teachers will challenge the monetary yardstick. If the financial measure, why is it that so many teachers have left the profession for jobs in industry? Or why do boards of high school teachers rarely name their Masters' Degreees? Certainly with inflation today, colleges students and their parents place an ever-increasing emphasis on the monetary value of a college education.

Grades and Job Success For years now I have been an employer, and since 1919 and the founding of Babson Institute I have been seriously interested in education. My observation is that in the average college the ability to sit, read, comprehend, memorize and reply parrot-fashion to the professor will insure good grades.

Do these particular abilities pay off in business? Not especially, except in the professions. Of course, if the college, in addition to developing scholastically competent individuals, has done something about character and personality development, then we have a different situation. But too many colleges give only lip-service to character education.

What Business Needs I hope company recruitment officers won't let the schools and colleges over-emphasize the grade aspect of a job recommendation. What business needs most today are men with the character qualities of wisdom and honesty, a personal philosophy of self-reliance and the ability to act and get things done.

Employment experience has shown that some of these qualities are best developed outside the classroom—editing the school paper, managing a team, representing the student body in student government, being social chairman of a fraternity. The extra-curricular record also measures best drive and follow-through. Wisdom should have been developed in the classroom. The scholar is often wise but his poor judgment. The scholar sees people acting as he believes they ought to act. The successful businessman, however, sees people as they really are.

Practical application of good judgment can be measured in a man's personal conduct record, work record, campus participation, and in a variety of ways. A high degree of self-reliance and competitiveness as measured by hobbies, part-time jobs and the kinds of extra-curricular activities in which one has participated are character traits absolutely essential to success in any free enterprise economy.

I want to know what kind of an economic philosophy the young graduate has picked up in college. The successful young executive must learn to drive himself and deprive himself—perhaps even his family—because he sees in the long run that it is for the good of all. The high turnover of young executives on their first jobs suggests that both college and company recruitment officers ought to pay more attention to some of the practical requirements for success in the professions, manufacturing, commerce and even in farming.

On the East Coast, air service from Idlewild Airport at New York also was hit. No U. S. to-Europe flights from Idlewild were cancelled, but some suspensions were expected in several days.

The U. S. and Great Britain joined in calling on all free nations to take cuts in use of aviation fuel. This would help make up the loss of 40 per cent of capacity production in this country, government officials said.

Finland was one of the first of the non-Communist nations to respond to the reduction appeal. Several air routes were discontinued temporarily.

The Canadian Air Transport Board suspended all private flying and warned airlines and services would be suspended.

European air lines started suspending services today. Military plane training flights also were affected.

The United States 3rd Air Force, based in Britain, ordered elimination of all unnecessary flying.

Despite Confusion, Eight Appeared On TV Program

After a bit of confusion, eight high school students from the county regained their poise and took part in one of the most exciting days of their lives.

When students arrived at the TV station, WTAR, in Norfolk, Va., to appear over television, they found they had only 15 minutes to present their program instead of half an hour as they thought. Each of the contestants had to cut his program several minutes and lacked sufficient time for a rehearsal.

Two students from Farmville had planned a piano duet but, to add to the confusion, found that only one piano was available and another could not be found. One student played while the other looked on.

But, despite the difficulties, the eight students went before the TV cameras.

Taking part on the program were Janet Watson and Doug Mitchell of Greenville, Shirley Tripp, Jo Ann Padley and Barbara Lynn Cox of Ayden, and Jackie Willford and Carolyn Roebuck of Farmville.

Miss Watson played a piano solo, "Fantasy Impromptu" by Chopin, and Mitchell gave a dramatic declamation, "The Button" by Robert Newman. "Polonaise" by Chopin was played by the Farmville students, and the trio from Ayden sang "O, Love Be a Day."

They appeared Friday afternoon over TV as finalists in the talent show held as a part of the Community Arts Festival here.

Estimated damage to Tyson's car was $600; Melton's car, $700. The occupants were shaken up but not injured. Both vehicles were towed to garages for repairs.

The investigating officers arrested Lessie L. Melton on the charge of driving under the influence of an alcoholic beverage or some narcotic.

Tobacco Plants 'Standing Well'

Drenching rains throughout this immediate area over the past week-end brought tender young tobacco plants virtually leaping from Pitt County soils.

County Tobacco Specialist Sam Weeks this morning reported that between 85 and 90 percent of transplanters in Pitt County is completed. "Plants are standing up very well all over the county," Weeks said. "Most fields have good stands and the general crop outlook at present is good."

According to Weeks, heavy hail damage south of Ayden last Thursday is necessitating rather extensive re-planting in that section. The tobacco specialist stated that many farmers there are plowing up what was left of their crops and planting white fields over.

"There is a great deal of water standing in fields all over the county," Weeks disclosed, "but we don't think it will materially retard good healthy growth of the taro good healthy growth of the crop. It looks like the heavy rains are over—at least for a few days."

Weeks said he planned to conduct a comprehensive tour of the county today to determine how much actual damage was done.

RUSSELL — One ardent New Deal and Fair Deal Democrat who admits no sympathy for any philosophy contrary to that of the present and recent past national administrations, says he doesn't see how any North Carolinian can go along with Senator

Richard Russell of Georgia or anybody else of that name for President. He says he doesn't know of any family or political relationship, but he does remember how his daddy cursed out Governor Daniel Russell and how the Democrats have bragged ever since about "redeeming the State from Russellism" half a century ago. That is another illustration of the far-fetched ideas that crop up in political campaigns.
