House Probers Seek Action On Tax Dodging, 'Influence'

WASHINGTON (UP)—House investigators sought today quick congressional approval of their plan to get tough with tax dodgers and influence peddlers.

The House Ways and Means subcommittee which has been investigating nationwide tax scandals set next Thursday for the start of brief hearings on the proposed legislation.

Internal Revenue Commissioner John B. Dunlap and Secretary of Treasury John Snyder are slated to be among the first witnesses.

Subcommittee members hoped to have the bill, which has bipartisan support, ready to present to the House by around June 1.

The legislation would give the Internal Revenue Bureau broad powers to crack down on persons who attempt to peddle influence in tax cases subject to criminal penalties.

The legislation is the culmination of months of hearings by the subcommittee headed by Rep. Cecil R. King (D-Calif.).

The bill which King introduced in behalf of the subcommittee would provide that:

1. Influence peddlers who try to affect the decision in a pending tax case, or try to obtain inside information, shall be punished by a maximum penalty of a $10,000 fine and a year in jail.
2. Businessmen and others who claim large business and entertainment expenses shall be required to substantiate their claims by appropriate books and records.
3. Loans made to political committees and not repaid may not be charged off as bad debts, except by banks or other lending institutions.

The Internal Revenue Bureau has held that three wealthy Democrats could write off loans to the Democratic national committee. The loans were not repaid.

4. The nature and source of gross income, deductions and credits must be shown by the taxpayer when the bureau calls for them. This is a broad provision aimed particularly at gamblers, racketeers and others who lump large sums under such general headings as "brokerage fees and commissions."
5. The commissioner could require a corporation or any other big employer to justify fancy hotel suites, airplane travel, and other items listed under the heading of business expenses.
6. It would be unlawful for a congressman or any other federal official to take a fee or anything else of value for representing someone in an action before a federal agency.
7. It would be unlawful for anyone to make an unauthorized appearance before the Treasury Department in a tax or other case.

Wins High Tribute Of ECC Alumni

Annual Achievements Award Goes To Mrs. Ruth Garner, Of Faculty

Mrs. Ruth Blanchard Garner, alumni secretary at East Carolina College from 1941 to 1951 and now a member of the staff of the college dean of women, received today the annual award made by the college Alumni Association to a member whose achievements merit recognition. She is the thirteenth graduate of East Carolina and the tenth woman to be so honored.

Emma L. Hooper of the college department of English, a member of the faculty Advisory Committee of the Alumni Association, presented the award to Mrs. Garner at Alumni Day ceremonies held Saturday morning as opening event of the Forty-third Annual Commencement on the campus.

Mrs. Garner has been associated with the college as student, staff member, and member of the Alumni Association over a period of twenty-four years. Three times a graduate of East Carolina, she received a normal diploma on completion of the two-year course for teachers in 1929. In 1934 she completed work for the bachelor's degree and in 1942, for the master's degree. In 1934-1944 she served as president of the college Alumni Association, of which she is a life member.

She began her professional life as a teacher in Carter County at Newport in 1929. Subsequently she taught in the elementary grades at Whitakers in Nash County and at Grimesland and Greenville in Pitt County.

In September, 1944, she began her duties as alumni secretary at East Carolina. She thus became the first alumni secretary there whose salary as well as office and traveling expenses were set up in the college budget.

The association at that time was small but had a core of loyal, enthusiastic, and energetic members. With their help, Mrs. Garner at once began expanding the services of the organization to former East Carolina students and reorganizing the Alumni Office on the campus into an efficient and valuable part of the college program.

Her record indicates the success of her term of office. Membership in the association almost doubled from 1944 to 1951, and many inactive alumni renewed their interest in the work of the Alumni Association toward the progress of the college. The number of chapters also increased, and the first out-of-state organization of East Carolina alumni was established in Washington, D. C.

The "Alumni Bulletin," publication of the association, was first issued in November, 1946, with Mrs. Garner as editor. Since then he bulletin has appeared regularly four times each year and has been mailed to members of the association, to servicemen among former East Carolina students, and to retired faculty members of the college.

Find 4 Bodies In House Of Death; All Were Shot

MARION, Ill. (UP)—Four persons, a well-to-do farmer, his wife, their young daughter and an 80-year-old boarder, were shot and killed in bed and authorities said today the murderer might still be at large.

The bodies of Bryan Cash, 49, his wife, Dimple, 40, their 11-year-old daughter, Genevieve, and George Tripp were found yesterday on Cash's well-kept 100-acre farm near here.

Coroner Sam Simmons said all had been dead since Tuesday.

"It's the most awful crime I ever saw," said Deputy Sheriff Charles Edwards. "I've never seen anything like it."

It appeared at first that the slayings might have been murders and suicide. Simmons said it was possible that Tripp had killed the three others, then lain down and taken his own life.

However, the lack of any apparent motive which would prompt Tripp to kill the Cash family made officers hesitant to rule out the possibility that a fifth person had committed the slayings and fled.

Main Suspect In Brinks Robbery Ambushed Dies

WEST WARWICK, R. I. (AP)—A man identified as the main suspect in the unsolved $1,219,000 Brink's robbery in Boston 28 months ago was slain by shotgun blasts outside his home early today.

The body of Carlton M. O'Brien, 49, a roadside proprietor, was found near his Cadillac car parked in a garage and Police Chief Hector Grover said he had been murdered.

Massachusetts Atty. Gen. Francis E. Kelly and Boston Police Lieutenant Inspector James V. Crowley immediately tabbed O'Brien as the chief Brink's suspect.

No Armistice Unless Reds Retreat On Prisoner Issue

Reinforcements Arrive On Koje

Battle-Toughened Paratroopers To Help Restore Control Over Communist Prisoners; Agitators Believed Active

PUSAN, Korea (UP)—Battle-toughened U. S. paratroopers arrived on Koje Island today to help restore control over rebellious Communist war prisoners.

Gen. Mark W. Clark, supreme United Nations commander, sent the 187th Airborne Regiment to Koje in his strongest move yet to regain the upper hand over Red prisoners who kidnapped the camp commandant last week and still largely run the prison to suit themselves.

Shifting of the regiment to the prison island was disclosed only after the last of the paratroopers had arrived on Koje.

Clark said in Tokyo that he had sent the regiment to Koje at the request of Gen. James A. Van Fleet, commander of the 8th Army. "To insure complete control" of the prison camp holding 79,200 dihard Korean and Chinese Reds.

"Communist prisoners of war and civilian internees on Koje have not only resorted to repeated occasions to unlawful violence, but obviously acting under instructions from outside agents of the international Communist power conspiracy, have threatened mass outbreaks which would result in additional violence and bloodshed," Clark said.

"I do not propose to countenance for one moment unlawful acts on the part of these prisoners of war and civilian internees."

"The U. N. authority will continue to observe the provisions of the Geneva convention in the administration of the U. N. POW Camp No. 1 (on Koje) and at all other camps under their control."

Clark said the paratroopers would reinforce U. S. and South Korean troops already on guard duty at Koje.

The regiment will be under the over-all direction of Brig. Gen. Haydon L. Boatner, tough, Chinese-speaking new commander of the Koje camp.

But the paratroopers also will be available should riots break out in the prisoner camp at Masan, on the Korean mainland across a narrow channel from Koje.

A U. N. officer at Masan said there was evidence Red agents were attempting to stir up violent demonstrations among the mainland prisoners, all of whom have declared themselves anti-Communists.

"It would be excellent propaganda for the Communists," he said, "if a demonstration occurred here, where most of the prisoners have declared they do not want to go back to China or North Korea."

Feud Is Brewing In Steel Dispute

Murray Fires First 'Shot' In Criticizing Sec. Sawyer

WASHINGTON (UP)—An open feud brewed today between Secretary of Commerce Charles Sawyer, nominal "boss" of the steel industry, and Philip Murray, president of the CIO United Steelworkers.

Murray fired the opening shot at the close of the union's convention in Philadelphia yesterday when he accused Sawyer of an "almost unmitigated degree of bias" against the union in the steel dispute.

Murray was angered by a telegram from Sawyer reporting that "sporadic damage" occurred in the nation's steel mills during the three-day strike which began April 29.

Murray interpreted the telegram as an "insulting" charge that the union was guilty of damaging steel plants. He told the 3,000 union delegates that Sawyer is "no friend of yours."

Sawyer, who has been running the steel industry since President Truman seized it April 8, had "no comment" on Murray's charge.

The Commerce Department, however, denied that Sawyer had intended to accuse the steelworkers of damaging steel mills during the walkout, which followed Federal Judge David A. Phe's ruling that the seizure was illegal.

Sawyer's telegram, dated May 14, said the steel companies had reported "sporadic damage" to facilities because of the "lack of necessary standby arrangements to safeguard equipment when the men left the plants."

Murray's blast was the first open expression of the cool feeling the steelworkers have had toward Sawyer since he promised to order the steel companies to pay the first installment of a recommended wage increase and then said the order was up to President Truman and Economic Stabilizer Roger L. Putnam.

'Final Negotiatory Effort' Says Admiral Joy; Nam II Equally Stubborn; Bayonets And Jet Fighters See Action On Korea's Fighting Front

PANMUNJOM, Korea (UP)—The United Nations told the Communists today there can be no armistice in Korea until and unless they accept Allied terms for an exchange of war prisoners.

"We have made our final negotiatory effort in the interest of an early armistice," chief U. N. delegate Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy said. "We will not consider any further concessions or counterproposals."

Joy had never been more positive in his refusal to budge on the sole remaining issue blocking a truce, the right of Communist war prisoners to refuse repatriation. Some observers believed his remarks might foreshadow some decisive new Allied move.

However, North Korean Lt. Gen. Nam II appeared equally stubborn. He said the communists never would accept the Allied offer to exchange nearly 100,000 Communist prisoners for all 12,000 allied prisoners held by the Reds. The U. N. contends that only 70,000 of the 160,000 Communists, war prisoners and civilian internees held by the Allies would not forcibly resist repatriation.

Despite the deadlock, Nam II insisted on another truce session Sunday, and Joy agreed.

SEOUL, Korea (UP)—A bayonet-swinging Allied raiding party struck Communist outposts north-east of the truce village of Panmunjom before dawn today.

They killed 27 Red soldiers, wounded 13 and blasted 20 troops bunkers before pulling back to their own lines.

Allied fighter-bombers and American Sabre jets battled aggressive MIG-15s during a series of powerful strikes against Communist supply centers and troops.

There were no early reports of MIGs destroyed or damaged. Last week planes of the Far East Air Forces downed eight MIGs while losing 14 of their own during a record 7,400 sorties.

First Lt. Vincent K. Buck, Pritchard, Ala., said fighter-bombers of the 49th Wing cut rails in 13 places then pulled into defensive formation when MIGs attacked.

"They began making head-on passes at us from both directions," he said. "Every time we broke away from one another would be firing at us."

Sabre jets streaked in to protect the slower planes.

New Appeal For Lafayette Miller Is Being Planned

Washington, N. C. (AP)—Attorneys for Lafayette Miller, condemned Negro murderer, will appeal the "decision of Superior Court Judge Clawson L. Williams, denying Miller a new trial.

The attorneys made the announcement yesterday upon hearing Williams' decision which came after a week-long hearing. Their petition was based on the argument that Negroes had been systematically excluded from Beaufort County juries. Judge Williams, in ruling that there had been no such exclusion, reported that the county officials had carried out their duties in good faith.

Newsprint Prices Put New Squeeze On Papers

Second Increase In Less Than Year As Prices Go 152 Per Cent Above V-J Day; May Put Some Papers Out Of Business

By WALTER BREEDER JR.
NEW YORK (AP)—Faced with another $10-a-ton boost in the price of Canadian newsprint—the second such increase in less than a year—American newspaper publishers find themselves in an increasingly difficult cost squeeze in getting out their daily paper.

The latest increase—its scheduled to take effect June 15—is expected to add more than 50 million dollars a year to costs of publishing in this country.

Newsprint, the paper that newspapers are printed on, accounts for up to 50 per cent of the expense of getting out a big metropolitan daily. Figuring in the new $10 increase, the price of newsprint since V-J Day has climbed 152 per cent. It has gone up more than 200 per cent since the great depression.

Some publishers predict that the higher costs will inevitably lead to further increases in advertising and subscription rates—already near or past the saturation point, in the opinion of many.

Others say the steady trend toward fewer and larger newspapers, toward mergers and consolidations, will gather new force. Expectations are that an increasing number of newspapers may be put out of business.

The Truman administration immediately asked the Canadian government to reconsider and rescind its approval of the price hike.

Price Director Ellis Arnall, in a telegram to C. D. Howe, Canadian minister of defense production, said 749 American daily newspapers have disappeared within the (Continued on Page 18)

Oil Settlement Striking Snags

Minor Issues Stall Accord; More Workers Join Strike

DENVER, Colo. (UP)—Hopes of quick settlement in the nationwide oil strike were snagged today on minor contract issues and two more groups of workers joined the walkout.

Employees of the Sinclair Oil Co. surprised both their union leaders and management by showing displeasure with a tentative work contract which had been expected to be a model for industry-wide agreement.

The two new strikes, both in the Rocky Mountain area, came just as most of the industry was hard at work trying to achieve peace.

The CIO Sinclair workers last night began voting on the contract, which would cover Sinclair plants all over the country. But rank and file members grumbled over apparently minor contract points such as retroactivity, escalator clauses and renegotiation time limits.

Pickets appeared outside the Wyco Pipeline Co. in Denver, threatening to cut off half of the city's gasoline supply, and 31 CIO employees walked off their jobs at Casper and Cheyenne, Wyo.

Negotiations between most workers and oil companies seemed to be going more smoothly and some locals were returning to the refineries.

First to question the nationwide model Sinclair contract, which if approved would send approximately 10,000 of the striking 90,000 oil workers back to work, were 400 (Continued on Page Eight)

No Negotiations In Steel Strike

Union Head Says No Talks With Industry Are In Sight

PHILADELPHIA (UP)—Philip Murray, president of the CIO United Steelworkers, said today there are "no negotiations whatsoever" in sight with the steel operators.

Murray told reporters there had been no word from the industry on new wage talks since the union opened its sixth biennial convention here last Tuesday.

The convention may end today, after the adoption of routine resolutions and a speech by Walter P. Reuther, president of the CIO United Auto Workers.

One resolution will insist that the union be given a union shop in basic steel plants—a big stumbling block so far in contract talks.

Murray indicated strongly that the steel union had no plans for again inviting the companies to the bargaining table. This the next move is up to the industry or the government.

But Murray said the union is always ready to negotiate and always has been, and that he had called for resumption of talks in his opening address to the 3,000 convention delegates.

With the enthusiastic support of the convention, Murray has made it clear that any negotiations will have to be "on the basis of" the 26 cents an hour wage and fringe package proposed by the Wage Stabilization Board.

Some informed sources thought there was little chance of resuming contract talks until after the Supreme Court hands down its decision on the legality of President Truman's seizure of the industry to avert a strike April 8.

New District Officers Named At Annual ECC Alumni Session

Announcement of new district officers of the East Carolina College Alumni Association and an address by Dean Leo W. Jenkins of the college were among chief events at the annual meeting of the organization held here Saturday.

James W. Butler, alumni secretary at East Carolina, which opened the 43rd Annual Commencement on the campus.

Henry C. Oglesby of Washington, D. C., president of the Alumni Association, presided at a business and program meeting during the morning; and East Carolina President John D. Messick welcomed guests to the campus.

New district officers elected in a recent ballot by mail and announced by Secretary Butler are Fred H. Martin, Asheville; Mrs. N. D. Nicholson, Monroe; Mildred C. Herring, Greensboro; Samuel

B. Dees, Raleigh; Mrs. Dorothy Wilkerson, Greenville; and Z. W. Frazelle, Kenansville.

Mrs. Ruth Blanchard Garner, formerly alumni secretary and now a member of the staff of the dean of women at East Carolina Award for Outstanding Achievement.

Speaking on "The College and the Community" and emphasizing that "Mass higher education is here to stay," Dean Jenkins emphasized the fact that East Carolina must satisfy the educational needs of this section of the state. He called upon alumni for guidance and support in order that the college may "fulfill this great responsibility."

"It is important," Dean Jenkins continued, "that the citizens of the state make it possible for all deserving people to attend college." He pointed out various difficulties encountered in meeting this challenge. East Carolina College, he concluded, is attempting through its expanding curricula to make sure that the education it offers is related to the needs of the society it serves.

A recognition ceremony at which the Class of 1952 was welcomed into membership in the Alumni Association was held during the morning. Special music was provided by the Women's Chorus of the college, directed by Dan E. Vornholt.

Other events of Alumni Day included a luncheon for alumni, members of the Board of Trustees, and other guests; a tea given by Dr. and Mrs. Messick; reunions of the Classes of 1912, 1917, 1922, 1927, 1932, 1937, 1942, 1947, and 1951; a concert by the College Band; and an "honors" recital by students of music.

Hunt Relatives Of James Mack After Sudden Death

Coroner Griffin H. Rouse is continuing his investigation of the sudden death yesterday of James Mack, 64, lessee of the Vines House, Fifth and Pitt streets.

Joseph Cooper, a student at East Carolina College, who rooms at the Vines House, reported to police yesterday about 10:30 that Mack "is in bed and dying or already dead."

Coroner Griffin H. Rouse called in Dr. Herbert Hadley and the police. The physician said Mack died of a heart ailment. He had been receiving treatment from two Greenville physicians, the coroner added.

Authorities have been unsuccessful in "contacting the man's relatives. In his wallet was a paper requesting that in case of emergency notify Frank Mack, 452 Lady street, Columbia, S. C., be notified. No such number is recorded on that street in the South Carolina capital city.

Coroner Rouse said Mack had several hundred dollars and some jewelry on his person. There were papers, the coroner stated, which indicate the man was a person of considerable financial means.

Officials said Mack came to Greenville a year ago; that he leased the Vines House and conducted it as a rooming house. The King's Daughters own the Vines House.

Mack's body was taken to S. G. Wilkerson & Sons' Funeral Home, awaiting contact with the man's family.

Coroner Rouse ordered the dead man's possessions taken into custody until relatives can be contacted.

Participants on the program for Alumni Day, observed at East Carolina College today, include (left to right) Dean Leo W. Jenkins, who spoke this morning to members of the Alumni Association on "The College and the Community"; Henry C. Oglesby of Washington, D. C., president of the association; and James W. Butler, alumni secretary of the college, who was in charge of the program staged for former students of the college returning to the campus for the 43rd annual commencement.

At the conclusion of the play a song session was held during which Lily Flye directed the group in a number of old familiar songs. The social hour was closed with a friendship circle in which all who were present participated, while softly singing "Blest Be The Tie."

The banquet tables were decorated in colors of green and white, with attractive graduation hats favors and programs which had a spatter-print cover.

Spain Conducts Negotiations On American Help

MADRID (UP)—Spain has opened negotiations with the U. S. for military and economic aid. Generalissimo Francisco Franco told a cheering Cortes (parliament) yesterday.

The chief of state said American assistance would not infringe Spain's sovereignty or carry any ideological implications.

"It is necessary to defeat communism militarily and strike at the power of the Soviets," he said. "There are many of us who believe that even then, its corruptive influence would remain to poison relations between countries and peoples for a long time."

Francisco also announced that all ration cards would be abolished after June 1.

Mothers Day Is Observed By Vanceboro Eastern Star

VANCEBORO—Vanceboro Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, held its regular meeting Wednesday night, May 7, in the chapter room of the Masonic Hall. The meeting was opened in ritualistic form by the worthy Matron, Mrs. Virginia T. McLawhorn, who welcomed the members and visitors in attendance.

During the business session Mrs. Lawrence Lancaster, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, reported on plans and named committees to serve the annual Alumni Banquet of Farm Life School. The chapter voted to send its guest at the Masonic and Eastern Star home in Greensboro a donation of $10.00 as a Mother's Day gift, to make a donation to the Red Cross and assist the chapters in the district in purchasing a gift for Mrs. Maude Baynor Foy of Kinston. Worthy Grand Matron of Grand Chapter of North Carolina, The Worthy Matron reported on contacts she had made regarding the sale of scrap paper and that greeting cards had been ordered to be sold by the chapter.

Mrs. Jack Laughinghouse, chairman of the Sick and Cheer Committee, reported on the many courtesies extended members at their families since the last meeting. Among these was a "sunshine box" sent to a member in the hospital.

Following the business session a Mother's Day program was presented, and the annual ceremony of honoring a member as chapter mother was held. The program opened with an appropriate reading and prayer by Mrs. A. R. Blow. A duet "Little Old Lady" was beautifully rendered by Mrs. I. B. McGee and Mrs. Jack Laughinghouse, followed by a poem, "A Mother's Creed," by Mrs. Joe Bright.

Prior to the presentation of a playlet, "A Week With Mother," the Worthy Matron requested the marshal to escort Mrs. J. Hearn McLawhorn to an honored place in the East, where she was designated chapter mother by the Worthy Matron and presented an old fashioned nosegay by Mrs. Lawrence Lancaster. Mrs. George Ippock and Mrs. C. L. Gault sang "M Is For the Million Things." Tribute was then paid Mrs. McLawhorn in verse and song by Mrs. D. M. Robinson, Mrs. C. W. Hill, Mrs. Z. V. Johnson, Mrs. Billy Edwards, Mrs. J. E. Hellen, Mrs. N. M. Lancaster and Mrs. Jack Laughinghouse. While still in the East Mrs. McLawhorn was presented a huge tray of gifts by Mrs. I. B. McGee from the chapter members.

Mrs. McLawhorn, who was unaware that she was to be so honored, graciously thanked the Worthy Matron and members, and expressed her appreciation for these courtesies.

In conclusion, three members who had been honored in the past as chapter mothers presented the chapter a cash donation. These were Mrs. H. E. Barrow, Mrs. N. M. Lancaster and Mrs. Lizzie Denkins. The Worthy Matron accepted the donation in behalf of the chapter and thanked the donors. The chapter voted to use the donation toward the purchase of an Eastern Star flag for the chapter room. Mrs. Barrow, Mrs. Lancaster and Mrs. Denkins also served refreshments, punch and a three tiered cake decorated in the emblematic colors of the order.

The chapter and social rooms were beautiful with arrangements of red and white roses and sweetpeas.

Film Studio Is Damaged In Fire

BURBANK, Calif. — (AP) — An area two blocks square in the vast Warner Brothers studio lay in blackened ruins today after a fire that caused damage officially estimated at 1 1/2 million dollars.

Destroyed by the flames yesterday were the studio's Sound Stage 21, largest in the movie industry, several large exterior sets and much valuable equipment and scenery.

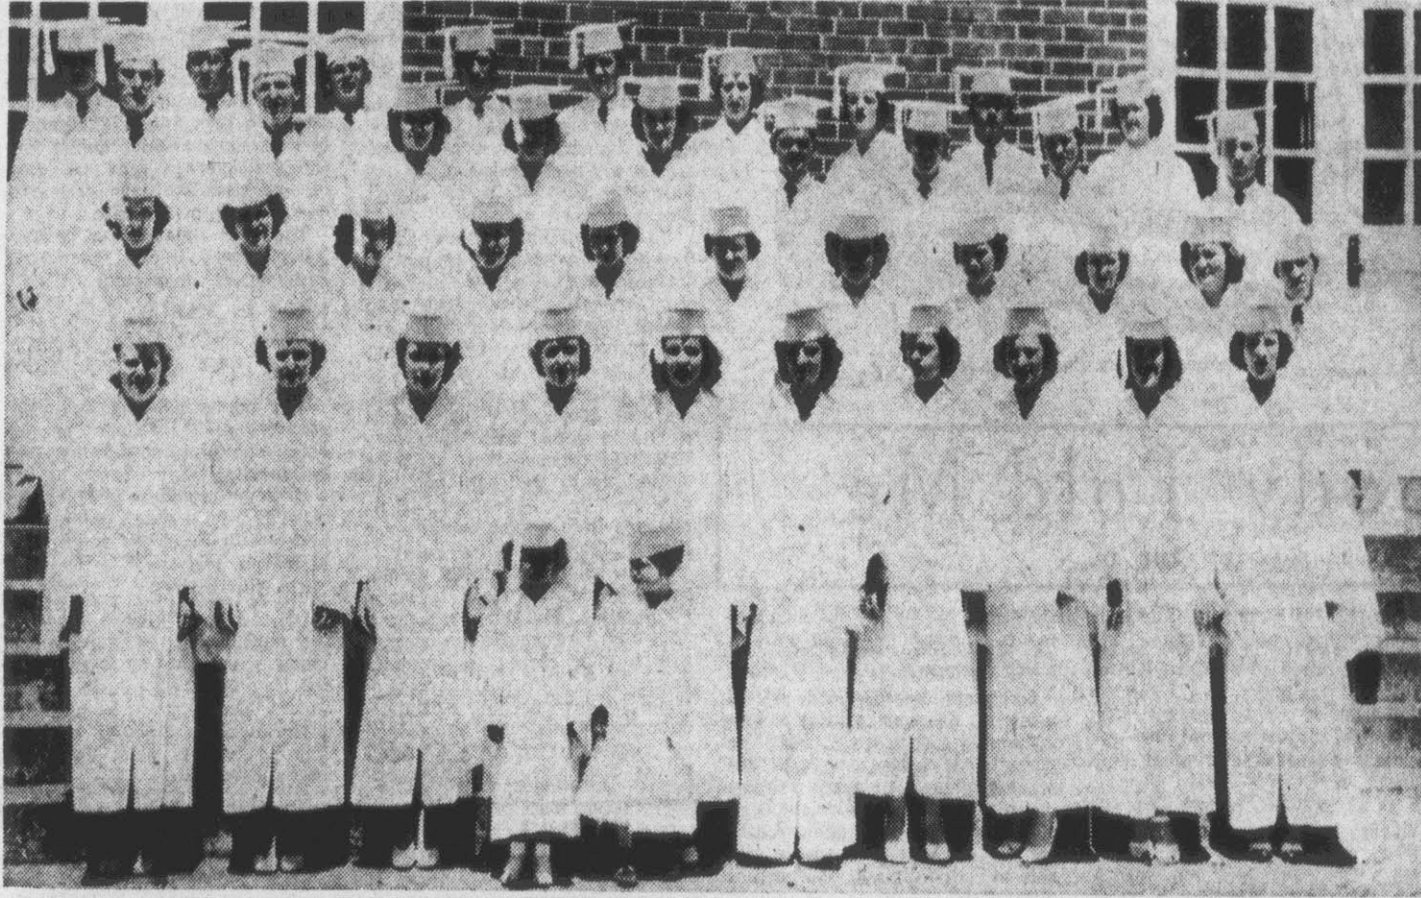

The fire started during the lunch hour and burned over eight acres before being brought under control two hours later. A series of explosions punctuated the spread of the flames. Firemen said the blasts came from air compressor tanks that power wind machines and other equipment.

Thousands of spectators were attracted by the huge, spiraling cloud of black smoke. Gordio MacRae, Ray Bolger, Burt Lancaster, Virginia Mayo,

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
VERACITY IS IMPORTANT
Communism has often been called the big lie. It makes no attempt to hide the fact that it largely relies upon deceit for attaining its ends. The world is overwhelmed and appalled today by the menace of this big lie.
But there can be big lies in the field of religion as well as in the field of politics and economics. A lot of people believe that Jesus was just a good man, a great teacher, and nothing more. Well, if he was simply these and nothing more, then the whole witness of the New Testament is shockingly cut of line with the truth. In fact Jesus himself claimed to be a divine being, the Son of God, having a relationship with the Heavenly Father which no one else had. To disregard these obvious statements Jesus made about himself is certainly to imply that the New Testament and the Person who stands at the center of this body of religious literature were guilty of false testimony.
Thomas Jefferson's Bible which presented Jesus as only a teacher, and Renan's Life of Christ which cut the supernatural out of the whole Christian teaching, were really not honoring Christ. Rather they were implying a lack of veracity as regards divine revelation, which is offensive to the spirit and mind of every true believer.

Put The Cards On The Table

If there is one thing the people of Greenville have wanted for a long time, and are becoming more anxious for as each day passes, it is a better, clearer understanding of the finances and operational costs of the Greenville Utilities Commission.

The people of Greenville are stockholders of the utilities business here, and as such they are entitled to the information they desire and the understanding they would like to have about the utilities operations. It seems to us the members of the Utilities Commission and the employees of the Utilities Commission would be anxious for the citizens of Greenville to have the best possible understanding of the utilities operations. It would not only promote better relations, but it ultimately may prove to be the life or death difference with the local utilities as we have it now.

In all fairness to the members of the commission and other utilities officials, it must be said that the citizens of Greenville get little satisfaction from the information they have about the utilities operations. At best they get only vague, ambiguous answers to questions which are asked. This applies not only to rank and file citizens, but the same is true of the questions which even the members of the commission ask.

The question of a detailed audit of the utilities operations came up this week. The Reflector believes the audit should be had in detail, and made public in detail for the benefit of the citizens of the city.

Operations of the utilities are intricate and complicated. They are not easily understood by laymen, but the Utilities Commission should make every possible effort to interpret its operations in terms which the citizens of Greenville can understand. We are firmly convinced that the misunderstandings and dissatisfaction with local utilities operations which are expressed by Greenville citizens grow from a lack of understanding, and the inability of the citizens to gain an understanding of the utilities operations.

The Reflector strongly urges the Utilities Commission to place all its cards squarely on the table and invite all its stockholders—the citizens of Greenville—to come in and inspect the whole deck. We don't imply there is anything in the utilities operations which is deliberately being hidden from the people of Greenville. But we think the operations should be kept in full view of the people of Greenville, and that all questions should be answered immediately, accurately and straightforwardly.

New Sprouts On The Tree Of Knowledge

Somewhere in the rural section of Pitt County there may be another Abraham Lincoln in knee pants who burns the midnight oil delving into the books for knowledge.

Now we do not mean to suggest that rural children in Pitt County are still reading by the light of a log fire or a antiquated lantern, but statistics of the bookmobile show they are doing a great deal of reading.

It was surprising to The Reflector and probably to others in Pitt County to find that the circulation of books from the county's bookmobile is almost double the circulation of books from Sheppard Memorial library. We were more surprised to find that 81 per cent of the books borrowed from the bookmobile were borrowed by children of elementary grades.

During the month of April 4,798 books were borrowed from Sheppard Memorial Library, and 70 per cent of these were borrowed by adults or people of high school age. In the same month the Bookmobile loaned 9,946 books of which 81 per cent were borrowed by children of elementary school age.

The figures certainly carry a great deal of significance. They show the youngsters of rural areas are seeking knowledge outside the school room as they never have before. And the reading habit, once formed by a youngster, is not apt to be lost in later years.

For those who have spoken about "ignorant country people," the statistics should be ample proof that in rural Pitt County at least, the terminology is far from accurate. In the days when "book-learning" was not so important, most of America's greatest leaders came from the farms. If the library statistics point to a true trend—and we believe they do—the rural children can be expected to continue to carry on the tradition of the farm folks in providing outstanding local, state and national leadership for the nation.

The bookmobile was a gift from the people of Greenville to the people of Pitt County. It is proving to be one of the most valuable gifts the people of Pitt County have ever received.

National Whirligig

By RAY TUCKER

Every Saturday this veteran Washington newspaper correspondent devotes his column to answering readers' questions of general interest on national and international policies and personalities. Questions may be sent direct to Ray Tucker at 6306 Hillcrest Place, Chevy Chase, Md.

WASHINGTON—"Here are a few questions," writes W. F. I. of Rye, N. Y., "which I do not believe that one person in a million can answer."

"Is the United Nations a separate power or state, which is situated on its own soil, although that soil is Manhattan Island? If not, why do they have their own postage? Do they have special police of their own?"

"Under what laws are the United Nations personnel? We read that, once the United Nations signs any of the U.N. conventions, such documents are above our own constitution. Can this be true? I thought the U.N. had had to do only with the prevention of wars."

FUNCTIONS—Answer: Our U.N. experts at the State Department inform me that it is not a separate power or state in the "super" sense that W.F.I. seems to have in mind. It is an international organization with certain principles to which the member nations subscribe. They may join or abstain, and withdraw at any time.

It has many functions other than the prevention of war, although that is the basic objective. It has a dozen or more commissions which seek to remove the causes of conflict, whether they be economic, social, industrial, racial or what not. These execute a program similar to President Truman's "Point Four" plan of aid to backward and undeveloped countries.

A U.N. convention does become the law of the land, but only if ratified by the Senate. That applies to all treaties. So far, only a few minor and limited agreements have been approved by the Senate. One of the most important, the Genocide Pact, is buried in committee because of the fear that some of its provisions would override many major state statutes.

IMMUNITY—A U.N. convention confers certain privileges and immunities on members of foreign delegations and their secretaries. It resembles the diplomatic immunity which foreign agents enjoy at Washington. The Senate has not ratified this pact, but we do extend certain courtesies and consideration to U.N. personnel.

Unless it were a capital crime—for instance, important U.N. people would not be arrested. In such cases, Secretary-General Trygve Lie disciplines them. Punishment usually consists of their recall at his request.

The U.N.'s police force consists of guards around the building, and a force which accompanies overseas missions. In practice, they serve as "men of all work"—messengers, couriers, small job operators—rather than as cops.

For housekeeping purposes, the U.N. has its own postal service. It is operated under contract by the United States Post Office Department. Letters sealed with U.N. stamps may be mailed only at their branch office in New York headquarters.

POSITION—"I have not read to date," writes J. G.H. of Williamsville, N. Y., "where any of the presidential candidates have made a declaration on the foreign war. Do you think the Republican Party, if it elects the next president, will continue the illegal war or call our troops home?"

Answer: I think that the Democratic entries support Truman's position. Senator Taft has said that he objected to the method of our entry—that is, by presidential action rather than by Congressional authorization. Now that we are committed, however, he does not see how we can withdraw.

General Eisenhower has taken no stand. One of his principal promoters, Governor Dewey of New York, says he disagrees with our Far Eastern policy, but he has not made public any specifications. It will be one of the first questions put to "Ike" when he returns home.

Under the circumstances, however, it is difficult to see how any chief executive could pull out of Korea without an iron-clad agreement against resumption of hostilities with North Korean, Chinese and Russian communists.

LOSS—"What have we gained," inquires T. F. of Springfield, Mass., "from our ten months of truce talks in Korea? Even if we do negotiate a cease-fire agreement with them, what will be the result on that conflict or on the cold war?"

Answer: We have gained exactly nothing. In fact, the negotiations have been a complete loss to our side. We had the enemy on the ropes when Moscow first suggested an armistice. The communists' first aggressive thrust. The "commies" needed a respite.

They have had time to increase and train a new army of 1,000,000 men. They have brought in heavy artillery, planes and tanks. They have built a strong defense line across the peninsula. It is true that we have also strengthened our forces. But driving the foe out of Korea and reuniting the land now is a military impossibility without a global war.

The Target

Somebody Told Me

By J. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

The movie industry is one that is continually cursed and discussed. The effect of television on movies in certain areas has been alarming, but the movie industry continues to put out a good production now and then.

The most interesting aspect of the struggle of the movies is that the industry is learning that the public likes the movies that are economical to produce even more than it does some of the expensive ones.

This story came to light recently when Producer Leonard Goldstein received a telegram telling him that his new picture, "Battle at Apache Pass," was No. 1 in Variety's weekly poll of box-office hits. "Apache Pass" is an Indian picture with the usual guns, horses and dust. It only cost $681,000 to produce it.

When you compare that $681,000 with the $3,000,000 it cost to produce "The Greatest Show On Earth" (produced by Cecil B. DeMille of Washington, N.C.) and the $6,500,000 it cost to produce "Quo Vadis," it's amazing that the lower-cost picture will bring in more fans.

At 48, Producer Goldstein is the biggest money-maker in Hollywood. His talent lies in finding a story the public will like with a low production cost. The result of that is a terrific profit. Goldstein says, "I don't write, I don't direct, I can't shoot for awards. But I can add."

Other examples of Goldstein's work are the "Ma and Pa Kettle" series, starring Marjorie Main and Percy Kilbride, and "Francis," the talking mule. Goldstein says, "Nobody likes my pictures but the public." For the more mature trade, Goldstein has turned out such pictures as "The Egg and I" and many westerns.

Goldstein has a good set of rules: (1) never make a war picture unless it's a comedy, (2) play the strength—if fantasy pictures are making money, turn out fantasy pictures until moviegoers are tired of them, (3) avoid "down-beat" pictures—nobody ever bought tickets to watch inmates of a mental institution, (4) adults are grown-up children and should be entertained as such.

"The audience," Goldstein says, "has to feel superior. Like a quail show, if the audience knows the answer and the guy misses it, they feel good. So your comic has to be somebody not as smart as the guy watching it. You can't laugh at somebody smarter than you are." And I thank you.

Around Capitol Square

GRAVEYARD — The Raleigh unit of the League of Women Voters has a small mock graveyard on display in front of the Wake county court house, with a neat sign describing it as "The non-voters Cemetery." Nearby is a booth manned by members of the League with information about places to register, qualifications of voters and other pertinent matters incident to the upcoming elections. Purpose of the display and the League actively is to stimulate interest in the responsibilities as well as the privileges of citizenship.

REALISTIC — It's a right realistic exhibit. There are little tombstones draped with evergreen and floral wreaths, and epitaphs playing on Mother Goose rhymes. The total effect is to convince the passerby that so far as their citizenship is concerned they'd just as well be dead as not to vote.

POLITICAL — Your reporter stood around for a few minutes listening to casual comment of those who stopped to read and to the conversations with the attractive young lady at the information table. All of the "instructions" and most of the comment was completely non-partisan. There were occasional instances of political party and factional preference. Your reporter was led to the graveyard by a man who said he just wanted to show where all the Unstead supporters would be after May 31. Another man said he knew the Oliver campaign was dead, but he didn't know it had been officially buried. A strong advocate of Charlie Blanchard pointed out the biggest grave as that of P. H. Bailey. (Bailey and Blanchard are candidates for the state senate in Wake.) One of the most interested observers was Sam J. Morris, Republican leader at both state and local levels. "Those are the tombstones erected to the memory of 200,000 North Carolinians disfranchised by the Democratic party in 1901," he said. "Now they are trying to resurrect them to vote."

PIDDLIN' — Word comes by way of grapevine telegraph that there is being formed a "Piddlin' Pete Fraternity" among the state officials and employees bracketed by Governor Scott as "Piddlin' Petes" for alleged slowness in spending money. Tentative by-laws and insignia have been adopted, but the state of officers has not been completed, according to information at hand. Dave Coltrane, assistant director of the budget, has been chosen as High Exhausted Piddler, because of the greater amount of attention he has been given by the governor in executive castigations for delinquency in getting rid of money in the state treasury. The position of Second Rate Piddler is conceded to Harry McMullan, attorney general, because of the governor's reprimand for not authorizing release of school funds which were tied up in federal court proceedings. Other officers seem to be in doubt. The grapevine telegraph says the group hasn't been able to find a secretary, because qualifications for that place require more expert doodling on scratch pads (furnished at taxpayers expense) than has been discovered. Such doodling as making figure 8's, drawing picture of square houses, big-busted women and bearded monkeys are too common.

INIGNIA — The tentatively adopted emblem, which every member will be required to wear, is a sort of mangled combination of three P's, a big one in the middle with little p's on each side. There was some argument about that. A few of the neophyte members wanted to use the Greek characters for "pi" instead of the English "P"—but it was too square. Majority opinion prevailed, that there had to be some curves in the deal somewhere. Straight lines would be contrary to the whole concept of "piddlin'."

SONG — There was no trouble about selecting the fraternity song. If somebody can be found to write slow enough music, the official song will be the poem which Governor Scott distributed last week among state offices about the country dog who came to town and won the "piddlin'" contest by making every tree, pole and hydrant — on account of he had diabetes.

UNCHARTERED — The Piddlin' Pete Fraternity, better known as PPP or the Three P's, does not have a charter. It may not be able to get one from the secretary of state's office, because legal requirements are that application for a charter must be accompanied by names of incorporators and enough money to pay the filing fee. The PPP's do not do business that way. They always leave something unfinished, even if it means they can't spend some $15 or $20 million tax money collected but not appropriated by the General Assembly.

CONFUSED — Readers of this column may have reached confusion begins occupying a place somewhat of neutrality and quiet its policy of kow-towing to union bosses. It is patent that Secretary Tobin is following the example of his chief, the gentleman who sits in the White House, and who is tending to union labor votes in this campaign year.

Getting back to the steel industry and the wages it is paying, there's no bureaucrat in Washington who can tell the operators of the steel industry, or any other business in this country, what they can pay or whether it is necessary for them to have an increase for their respective products. If they do increase wages. The average one of these bureaucrats never employed a dozen folks in their lives, much less run a business of any proportions.

Hon. Berna d M. Baruch, in a statement made in a speech to members of the industrial College of the Armed Forces in Washington, declared in part:

"Over the next fiscal year we are expecting to spend roughly $0 billion. At least 10 billion of that will represent the need—less tribute to inflation which we must continue to pay."

Barney Baruch, octogenarian, native of South Carolina and for many years adviser to presidents, indeed speaks with authority. He is a recognized economist of ability and knowledge second to none in this country.

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER

Any store that does not have its own rate and routing guide can not do the best job in controlling transportation costs. Leonard Mongeon, this week told the National Retail Dry Goods Association traffic group, of which he is manager. A rate and routing guide is a statement of shipping instructions furnished suppliers. It shows them by what routes and classes of service goods should be shipped to a store, by spelling out what weights and kind of goods should be sent by parcel post, express, freight and truck. It can save a store a considerable sum every year.

"Be sure all charge-backs are being made to manufacturers who violate your shipping instructions," Mr. Mongeon added.

He had many suggestions for cutting shipping costs, some of which are worth passing on to all retailers:

"If free pickup and delivery is discontinued (railroads are asking permission to charge for these services) make sure that the cost of pickup at the point of origin is not passed on to you as an advance charge on the freight bill. Only when purchasing 'f.o.b. factory' would such an advance charge be in order and practically all your purchases are made 'f.o.b. city of origin' or 'f.o.b. your store.' The balance of 1953 may see the greatest upheaval of classification ratings affecting railroad, motor carrier and freight forwarder shipments that has ever occurred. This would necessitate drastic overhauling of shipping instructions by many stores.

"Avoid minimum shipments. Small shipments under 100 pounds have suffered a greater increase in transportation charges than larger shipments. Merchants are not going to buy fashion goods in large quantities merely to avoid extra costs. But what about staples? If you buy 100 pounds of staple goods and the manufacturer makes two separate shipments by railroad, you will pay double the transportation charges than would be the case if one shipment were made." While he did not flatly recommend buying as close to home as possible, Mr. Mongeon noted that high transportation costs are forcing stores to compare costs from different sources of supply or, low-cost and bulk merchandise when the percentage of transportation costs to retail prices are high. He also endorsed local associations which consolidate shipments for a number of merchants, minimizing costs.

"Never before in the history of retailing has management given so much attention to transportation costs," he said. "Although retailing has borne many increases in transportation costs since the inception of O.P.S., practically all of these additional costs have had to be absorbed by retailers due to O.P.S. regulations."

INDEXES PROVE NAUGHT, OLD PROMOTER HOLDS

"I have been puzzling these government and private cost-of-living indexes," said the Old Promoter, "and I don't get them."

"It's easy," we said. "They are based on prices and when the prices go up, the cost of living goes up and the indexes show by what percentage."

"What nonsense!" said the O. P. "When prices go up, the cost of living stays just where it was. People shift from steak to frankfurters, and from bourbon to gin. In fact, when prices go up, the cost of living sometimes actually goes down. When clothing prices shot way up a year ago, I just kept wearing my old togs. Now that they are down, I'm buying again. The indexes may have come down but my cost of living has gone up."

"I think the statisticians have confused the cost of living and the standard of living. What they ought to turn out is a standard of living index which shows how far the average goes up when income rises and how far it goes down when prices rise."

The O. P. may have something there.

CLOTHING, HOSIERY DROPS IN MARCH

Men's clothing and women's hosiery were both down during March.

The men's clothing industry operated at 71 per cent of capacity, compared with 99 per cent in March, 1951.

Hosiery shipments in March totaled 13,942,184 dozen pairs, compared with 14,589,492 dozen pairs in March, 1951.

Hal Boyle's Column

NEW YORK — (AP) Let's face it, men. The potential danger of television isn't its effect on children. It's what it does to wives.

The truth is that television is the greatest wife educator since the invention of matrimony itself. I haven't heard of a bride insisting on taking her TV set on her honeymoon. But mark my word. It will happen.

Most men secretly believe that all the average wife really knows about the work is what her husband bothers to tell her—or what her womanly intuition prods her into suspecting.

Television has changed all that. A turn of the dial brings all kinds of strange outside knowledge to the eyes and ears of the housewife. It makes her a close spectator of the problems of that part of the universe she doesn't have to dust herself. I have seen it happen in my own home, and does it leave me uneasy? It does.

We bought a video set some months ago and nicknamed it "Little Miss Cyclops" because of the single big eye in its forehead. At first my wife, Frances, despised it, and I had to restrain her from sweeping it out every morning. I suspect she was jealous of it.

But today? This blonde intruder with the plywood petticoat dominates my wife as completely as any other sister ever ruled a younger one.

When Frances wants to know anything, she no longer consults me. She asks Little Miss Cyclops. It is worse than having a bossy mother-in-law around the place.

I never did claim to know the answers to everything, but Little Miss Cyclops does—or pretends to. And so my husbandly authority is breaking down altogether. Take politics. The last political remark I remember my wife making was in 1939, when she said:

"When this Hitler goes into a country, what does he do—take what he wants of it and let the rest of it go?"

Well, naturally, my friends and I treasured this utterance with considerable hilarity for many years.

But now? Frances listens to every panel program with beagle eagerness, and calls every presidential candidate by his first name. If I make any offhand observation on a current issue, she replies witheringly:

"Why, Rover, that isn't what Estes said last Sunday. Neither did Bob the week before. You must be wrong. Don't you keep up with what is going on anymore?"

She has even gone into scientific research. She keeps five different kinds of cigarettes handy, and smokes one out of each pack every day.

I am going to give them all a job test, and make up my own mind which is the mildest, she says grimly.

But what worries me most is the fact she is getting to be a fan of the crime programs Little Miss Cyclops dishes up in those evening radio's gallery menus. The other night Frances broke out in sudden jeering laughter. When I lifted my eyebrows over the newspaper, she pointed at the TV screen and said:

"Look at the bum. He's holding his gat wrong. Ha, ha, ha."

Now, looky here, men. Do we want a machine in the home that teaches wives the proper way to hold pistols, commit arson, and poison a husband's bedtime milk?

Intuition never taught women those things. But television does. Man to Man, is this education by electronics good for the ladies? The home was more peaceful when all they knew for sure was what they read in the cookbook.

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON — Mrs. John F. Floborg, wife of the Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Air, speaks the same language as her husband when it comes to matters nautical. She's a former WAVE.

The Floborg apartment is filled with pictures, posters, books and all manner of naval memorabilia. Even the Floborgs' black cocker spaniel bears a navy name, "Midwatch," and her puppies, now in other homes, were christened "Jet Pilot," "Blinker" and "Sopus" Senior Officer Present, U. S. N.

Currently, the young and attractive Navy wife is "hitting the deck" as the busy chairman of the committee organizing a huge ball to be staged at the Naval Gun Factory this month for the benefit of the Navy Relief Society. Since 1902 the society has served as the Navy's welfare unit.

Mrs. Floborg, who was born in Chicago and graduated from Trinity College in Washington in 1940, joined the WAVES in the fall of 1942 and entered the service's first midshipmen's class at Smith College. "I consider this the most interesting and valuable experience I've ever had," she told me. And Mrs. Floborg, who is noted for her chic, added: "The WAVE uniform was the most becoming outfit I've ever had."

Though their families had known each other for many years it wasn't until she was a student at Trinity and Mr. Floborg a law student at Harvard that they met. They were married in 1944. When Mrs. Floborg, then a Lieutenant commander on a destroyer escort, got three weeks leave from the Mediterranean before going to the Pacific.

"I actually had only four days leave," Mrs. Floborg said. "We came back to Washington right after the ceremony so I could get back to my job in the office of the Chief of Naval Operations."

After the war, Comdr. Floborg returned to Chicago to practice law until December 1948, when he came to the Capital.

In addition to her Navy Relief work and the social obligations of an official Washington wife, Mrs. Floborg is studying at Georgetown University's school of linguistics for her master's degree. She's fond of cooking, collects recipes, especially for curry dishes, but she's an expert on wild game—goose, duck, deer—while her husband totes home from hunting trips during the fall and winter. As for herself, Mrs. Floborg would rather fish. "We have not had a vacation in years," she said, "and I'm going fishing next month if I have to go by myself."

Barney Baruch, octogenarian, native of South Carolina and for many years adviser to presidents, indeed speaks with authority. He is a recognized economist of ability and knowledge second to none in this country.

While he and other qualified citizens in this country are viewing with alarm the tendency to inflation, the Government is taking no steps to curtail such inflation but is continuing to lend a helping hand. In a news story carried in The Free Press on Wednesday under a Philadelphia headline, Secretary of labor Maurice J. Tobin, speaking to a meeting of steelworkers in convention there, declared the "Only way to settle the steel dispute is for the industry to accept the Wage Stabilization Board's recommendations for a 26 cent an hour rate to the CIO United Steel Workers."

The Secretary of Labor was loudly cheered according to the notice when he assured the 3,000 Wednesday delegates assembled that he stood "heart and soul and spirit" behind them.

It's high time the Administration begins occupying a place somewhat of neutrality and quiet its policy of kow-towing to union bosses. It is patent that Secretary Tobin is following the example of his chief, the gentleman who sits in the White House, and who is tending to union labor votes in this campaign year.

The Nice Long Vacation

Chapter 10

But George wasn't so sure. He knew a great deal more about such things than Mr. Thorson did. Now the opposition had some real ammunition to fire at the meeting of the City Council scheduled for late September. It was true that not all of the men had made the grade, that some of them had resumed their old ways in Tullahoma, stealing an item here, an item there. They had all been returned to prison, but the damage had been done. And now Jane Bancroft had come along to make matters worse. If his memory of her was correct, she was a fighter from the word go. He remembered his own case. Once she had found him, half insane, in the latrine, trying to shoot a bullet into his head with a revolver. "Keep away!" He had screamed at her, but she hadn't. Not hesitating an instant, she'd come charging into the latrine, dived low and caught him around the knees.

Yes, a fighter, a fighter from the word go, a person who would allow nothing to stand between her and the thing she wanted to accomplish.

And she had come for him.

Paris, Paris, Paris.

He shook his head, feeling afraid suddenly, very uneasy. If she were to make a fuss, the opposition faction would use that against him, too, crying that he was hardly the sort of man to operate such a school. His backers might look out on him, and then what? He looked up at Mr. Thorson. "Well, we'll see. So far we've managed to keep going and perhaps we'll lick 'em all yet. I'll take a run out to Camp Joy. Might as well have a chat with Forsythe."

"Well, Poppleton, this is a pleasant surprise."

Frederick Forsythe came down the steps of his little cottage and offered him a cordial hand. "How is the work progressing? I didn't forget you over the winter. You have become quite famous since that squab over your work went out all over the country. I didn't find it at all difficult to get a certain amount of money for you. Three thousand dollars, no less."

George stared, and for a moment forgot his personal problems. He pumped Frederick Forsythe's hand enthusiastically. "By thunder, now we'll be able to expand. We'll even be able to get some much needed machinery. I don't know how to thank you."

"No thanks necessary," Mr. Forsythe smiled. "We're all in this together, in one way or another. Oh, and about that recreation business I discussed with Mr. Thorson yesterday—"

George, feeling ashamed of himself, glanced off toward the lake. "I don't know that it would be a good idea. Some of the men are pretty rough. And to tell you the truth, I can't risk any more incidents."

"There won't be any incidents," Mr. Forsythe took him by the arm and led him down a dirt path toward Officers' Row. "I have a very competent young lady working for us this year as recreation director. I'm quite certain she will know how to handle your students. As a matter of fact, this was her idea. I told her about your work one day and she promptly volunteered to give her day off to the cause of helping your students to become better persons."

"She did?"

George didn't laugh heartily, but he would have that he been alone. Already he could see his worst fears being confirmed.

Mr. Forsythe clapped him heartily on the shoulder and George, brought back to the moment, discovered he was before a tent and that in the opened flaps of the tent was a girl, a lovely girl with curly blonde hair and soft, shining brown eyes. "Miss Bancroft," he heard Mr. Forsythe say as from afar, "this is Mr. George Poppleton. George, this is the girl who can, I'm sure, deal very nicely with your students."

Jane inclined her head gravely. "How do you do, Miss Bancroft."

Mr. Forsythe turned, after a glance at his watch. "Well, you two talk it over. Come back to the office when you're through. George, and I'll give you the check."

Jane smiled at the old man, his back very straight, went nimbly up the path.

"I notice you don't limp any more. As a matter of fact, you look rather well."

He swung his right leg. "Oh, it wasn't much. I was an awful cry-baby, wasn't I?"

"Not so bad," she sat down on the top step of the little flight of stairs that led up to the tent platform.

"I'm married, you know."

She nodded, her smile fading. "So you were good enough to remind me."

"Happily married, I should add. But I shall never forget the picture you made that day when you dived into the latrine and prevented me from killing myself."

"To tell you the truth, if I'd stopped to think about the danger I'd have let you put a bullet into your skull. How is your wife?"

There, wasn't that asked very nicely? One would never suspect, I'm sure, that I hate her, that I want her dead."

"Jar."

She came down the steps, standing very close to him. Her scent came to his nostrils. Carnation. Paris suddenly seemed very near.

"I'm married," he said again, his face suddenly wet with perspiration. "You understand that all the past if forgotten, I'm sure."

"You poor child," she said softly. That doesn't mean, darling, that you must stay married to her forever."

"Jane," he said frantically, "listen to me..."

But she had waited long enough. She had waited for five long, dreary years. She stepped forward and her arms went around his neck. And her lips found his. Life and the glory of life, warmth, joy. Her heart thudded, and when his arms tightened about her she cried out, cried out in sheer ecstasy, "You see? You see?"

There was another cry then, a cry of horror. "Jane! Mr. Poppleton!" Evelyn Moore, her eyes wide, stared at them from the path that led up from the beach to Officers' Row.

The children will remain with their grandmother, Mrs. Tyson, until a visit while their mother, Mrs. Tuller, is seriously ill in a Florida hospital. Friends wish for her a speedy recovery.

On last Friday evening Mrs. Annie Flanagan and Pearl Tyson were hostesses at the home of Mrs. Flanagan to the Women of Ballards Presbyterian Church.

The devotional, taken from the book of Colossians and based on "For What Are You Praying?" was very inspirational given by Mrs. Dal Williams. She closed with a summary of some of the most important advice St. Paul gave on Christian living.

Following this Mrs. P. J. Elks presented the program, using an article from "The Survey" on "Giving the Word of God Through the Birthday Offering," which is a special offering taken in all women's groups during the month of May. She closed by reading from the Barium Springs Messenger. Then a closing prayer was said by Mrs. Williams.

At the business session plans were made for the Vacation Bible School and the group voted to have as a project for this year: the furnishing of one of the rooms at the church for the women to meet in. After the benediction was said, the hostesses served assorted cookies and iced fruit juice to 12 members and one visitor, Miss Edith Tyson.

Honored on Birthday

Honoring Mrs. Louis Flake on Mother's Day and also on her birthday, her husband and children were hosts at a surprise turkey dinner on last Sunday. The dinner was served from a beautifully decorated table centered with a large birthday cake. The menu consisted of roast turkey, dressing, mashed potatoes, garden peas, fried chicken, hot biscuits, cake, ice cream and coffee.

Greenies Play Bright Belt League Game Here Tonight

Ferrell To Pitch For Stantonsburg

Greenies Seeking Fourth Win Of Year; George Porter Expected To Start On Mound For Local Team

By MELVIN LANG
Reflector Sports Editor

Greenie is slated to resume its Bright Belt League activity tonight with a game at home against the third place Stantonsburg nine. The Greenies have won three of their last five games, and are currently playing some of the best ball to be found in the fast semi-pro loop.

Stantonsburg has not been met before this season, but from the reports handed in by teams that have played the Wilson County team, they have a truly strong ball club. Managed by Fred Pittman-former mound star for Wilson's Tobs in the Class D Coastal Plain League — the team has run up a record of six wins against only two defeats.

Porter To Hurl

Righthander George Lee Porter is expected to start on the mound for the Greenies. Porter started the Greenville-Pinetops game Wednesday night but was pulled after four innings of play by Greenville manager Bill Sweet. At the time Porter left the contest, Greenville was ahead by a 4-1 count.

In the event that Porter is not ready to go again, Sweet can pick his starting hurler from three other pitchers—Howard Chapin, Johnny McAden, Johnny Kovalchick, and B. B. Ricks. Kovalchick will in all probability be Sweet's second choice.

The remainder of the Greenville lineup will be the same that started the recent games played by the Greenies. Troy Sears, a high school star from Beaufort County who has turned in several good games with the local team, is the starting catcher. Sears has a good arm and is an excellent receiver, and has come through with several timely hits this year.

Sonny Russell, the top-flight basketball star for East Carolina College, handles the first base position. Russell was moved into the clean-up spot in the batting order last week after showing a lot of power at the plate. He won a game with Pinetops several days ago by blasting a long four-bagger in the top of the fourteenth inning.

Burmy Stevens handles the second base duties and is lead-off man for the Greenies. A former hurler in the Coastal Plain League with New Bern-Bill Price — is the starting shortstop. George "Red" Sauls is the likely candidate at third.

In the outfield, Sweet has bopped of fielders to choose from. Simon Hardison, one of the better hitters on the team, is set in center, while Dallas Jackson is expected to start in right field. Either Hobby Hobgood or Fenner Boyd will be in leftfield.

ACC Pitcher

Gilbert Ferrell will go on the mound for the visitors. Ferrell was a star for Atlantic Christian College during the recent North State Conference race, recording two victories over East Carolina College. Ferrell is a righthander.

According to Manager Pittman, Stantonsburg has four boys who are good hitters—Pete Hardison, Pete Stuart, Lyman Laughinghouse, boys have led the team so far this season at the plate.

Westbrook, a former receiver for North Carolina State College, is also one of the best catchers in the league besides being a star at bat. He has one of the best throwing leaguers to be found in the loop.

Fem Bissette is the first baseman for Stantonsburg and Pete Stuart handles the second base chores. Both boys played for four years with the pro Wilson team.

Floyd Hood, a Wayne County high school star, is slated to handle the shortstop position, while Dokie Grimley will start at third. Grimley is a Wilson County-All-Star.

The outfield is set with Hardison in rightfield, Laughinghouse in centerfield, and John Allen Corbett in leftfield. Hardison played college ball with Atlantic Christian, while Laughinghouse is a former Wilson High and Wilson Top star.

Game time is at 7:45 in Guy Smith Stadium.

A new insulated paper bag is said to keep food and drinks hot or cold up to two hours.

League Meeting

A meeting for adults interested in Pony League baseball program has been called by league president Ty Wagner for Tuesday night at 7:30. At that time, the part to be played by the parents in the new league will be explained.

The Greenville Automotive Dealers Association will handle all responsibilities for sponsoring the league, but there is a great deal that the parents can help in making the Pony League a success.

Legal age for the league is for boys in the 13-14 age bracket. The meeting will be held in the armory.

State In Finals; Play Winner Of Duke-GW Contest

By REESE HART
RALEIGH — (AP) — The pressure was on Duke and the spotlight on North Carolina State as the Southern Conference baseball playoffs swung into the final round today.

Duke, handed a 5-4 upset last night by N. C. State, was scheduled to meet George Washington today at 1:30 p.m. George Washington, beaten in its opening game by Duke, 7-5, bounced back last night and eliminated Richmond's northern division champions, 8-7. It was Richmond's second loss, the Spiders having bowed to N. C. State, 5-0, Thursday night.

The winner of the Duke-George Washington match will play N. C. State tonight at 7 o'clock for the title.

With its back to the wall, Duke must win over George Washington and defeat N. C. State twice to retain its title. If a third game is necessary it will be played at 9:30.

Duke Coach Jack Coombs was not around last night as his boys doubled their first game of the double elimination events. Coombs, who is retiring at the end of this season, was stricken with a kidney infection Wednesday and is confined to his Durham home.

If his condition improves sufficiently, he hopes to attend the final ceremonies tonight at which time he will be presented an oil portrait of himself. Coombs has been voted the first member of North Carolina's Baseball Hall of Fame.

The big star in N. C. State's win over Duke was pitcher Lunsford Lewis, a strong armed righthander. Although touched for 10 hits, Lewis kept them fairly well scattered. Home runs by catcher Jack Tarr and pitcher Bob Davis in the sixth inning accounted for three of Duke's four runs.

Lewis struck the big blow that spelled doom for the flashy Dukes. With his team behind, 4-2, Lewis blasted a long double in the eighth with the bases loaded.

Graham Held To A Tie By Castellani

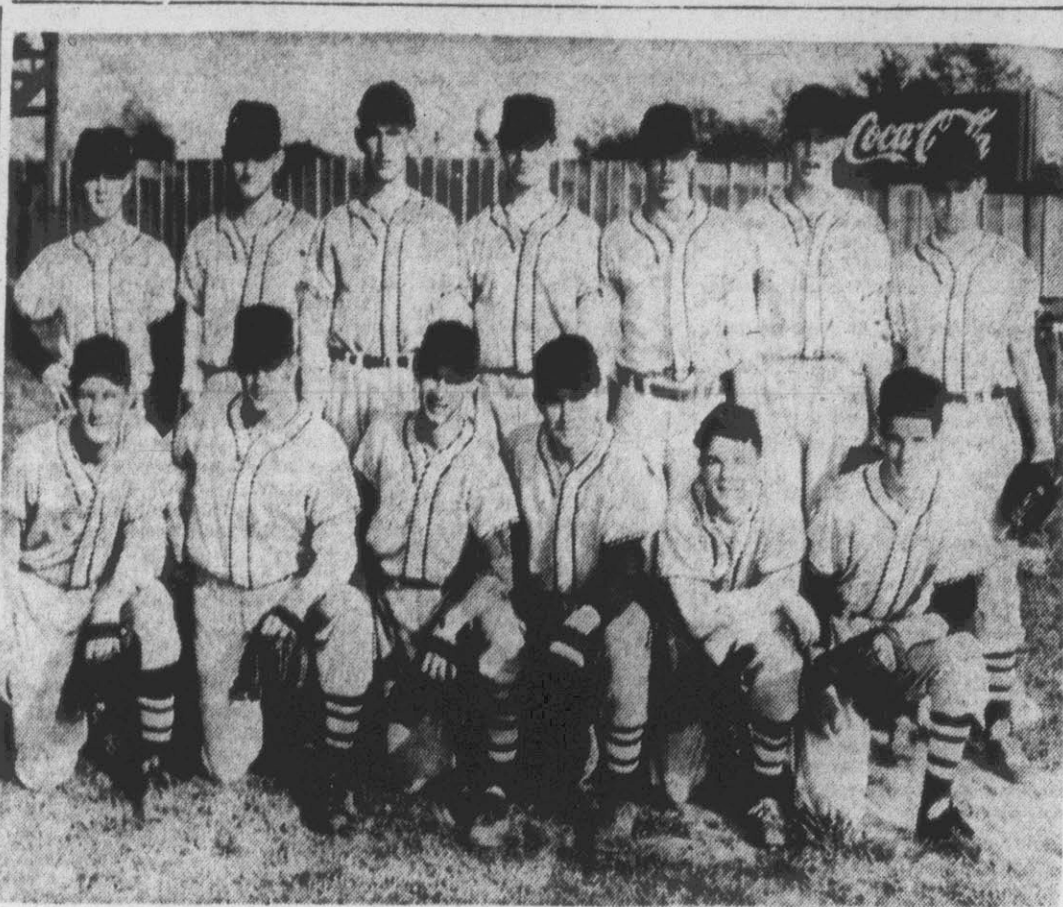

NEW YORK (UP) — Billy Graham was still regarded as the No. 1 welterweight contender today by the New York Boxing Commission despite his 10-round draw with middleweight Rocky Castellani at Madison Square Garden last night.

And the commission will demand that New Yorker Graham be guaranteed a title shot at the winner of the reportedly signed title bout between champion Kid Gavilan and unbeaten Oil Turner at Philadelphia, July 7, it was learned.

Otherwise the commission will not recognize the Philadelphia bout as a championship fight.

Graham, who lost an unpopular split title decision to Gavilan last August, relinquished but little of his prestige last night when held to a draw by younger and heavier Castellani.

Although Graham was favored at 7-13 to 5, only his aggressiveness and more solid punching earned him the even break. Each suffered severe cuts.

Elks Pound Out 15-6 Victory Over Moose In Little League

Giants Take On Raleigh Sunday

Greenville's semi-pro Giants take on the Raleigh Greys here Sunday afternoon at 2:30 in Guy Smith Stadium.

The Greys edged Greenville in an earlier meeting by a score of 7-6. A second game, scheduled for last night in Raleigh, was postponed due to cold weather. A similar excuse has been given for the postponement of a scheduled game to be played in Wendell tonight.

The Giants will be seeking their fourth win of the season. At the present time, Greenville has a seasonal record of three wins and two defeats. The Giants have out-hit each opponent so far this year, but misuses afield have hurt their chances of winning.

Manager Whitty Price lists as his probable starting lineup: Underwood, shortstop; Morris, centerfield; Winston, third base; Harris, first base; Clemmens, catcher; Gorham, second base; Duke, leftfield; Hyman, rightfield; and Leroy Smith, pitcher. Smith has a 2-1 record for the season.

Softball League To Start Monday

Play will get underway Monday night in the Open Softball League, with Greenville Mills meeting V.C. Chemicals in the first game.

The remaining four teams in the league will see action Tuesday and Wednesday. Sunbeam-Waldensian meets Wagner-Waldrop Motors Tuesday afternoon, and Home Builders Supply tangle with Royal Crown Wednesday.

All games will start at 6:15 and will be played on the Third Street School diamond for the present time. Warren Carroll, city Recreation Director, announced this morning that lights for a softball field have been ordered. When they arrive in Greenville, they will immediately be installed and all games will be played at night. The teams will play one game each day, from Monday through Friday.

Carroll also stated this morning that softball will be provided for girls this summer also. He has asked any girl who wants to play softball to get in touch with him at the armory.

Edges Smithfield In CGA By 57-56

SMITHFIELD—Greenville's entry in the Coastal Golf Association edged Smithfield here Wednesday afternoon, finally winning out by a margin of one point, 57-56.

Reynolds May of Greenville carded medalist honors for the day with a 74. Erell Webb fired a 75 and Ben Harrison came in with a 78. The win was the seventh of the season against three losses for the Greenville team.

Smithfield will travel to Greenville for a return match next week. Other than that match, Greenville will have three more meetings this year before the championship tourney. Greenville will be met twice, on a home and home basis, and Washington will be met once on their home course.

Opening Activities For Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UP) — Opening qualifications for the 36th annual 500-mile Indianapolis auto race were threatened by rain and wind today as the elite of the nation's racing fraternity assembled for the time trials.

The weather forecast of showers and thunderstorms and "rather windy" put a damper on activities in the sprawling racing plant.

Sub Fleet Held As Favorite In Preakness Race

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer

BALTIMORE (UP) — The presence of clouds and the absence of Hill Gail made the Preakness a wide-open race today as 35,000 threaded through the turnstiles at Old Hilltop for the 76th renewal of the Maryland classic.

Ten horses were entered, and Sub Fleet was the 8 to 5 choice among them with Blue Man a 5 to 2 next best. But those were "paper figures" based mainly on their 2-3 finish behind Hill Gail in the Kentucky Derby.

Actually, with the weather forecast of cloudy and showers for the 4:17 p. m. (EST) post, One Count, Jampol, Armageddon, Gushing Oil, Arroz, Handsome Teddy, Count Flame and Primate all were genuine contenders for the $80,000-plus pot of gold.

The mere presence of Eddie Arroz atop One Count made this 6 to 1 shot a horse to watch. Armageddon won the Withers Mile last Saturday. Gushing oil won the Louisiana and Arkansas derbies and the Bluegrass Stakes. Jampol won the Preakness prep.

Sub Fleet made a stirring challenge to Hill Gail in the Derby, and that is the basis of his backing today. But he still finished two lengths behind Hill Gail, who was injured and pulled out of this fight for the second jewel in racing's triple crown. Blue Man likewise was a late runner in taking third at Louisville.

Arroz took One Count as his mount after Hill Gail was drawn. Steve Brooks rode Sub Fleet in the Derby and here today, also. The veteran conn McCreary is booked aboard Blue Man.

Other jockeys and odds are Fernando Fernandez on Jampol at 20-1, Ray Roy on Armageddon at 8-1, Ken Church on Gushing Oil at 20-1, Carroll Bierman on Arroz at 20-1, Darrell Madden on Handsome Teddy at 15-1, Bennie Green on Count Flame at 20-1 and Pete Anderson on Primate at 8-1.

Yankees Edge Detroit In 10 Innings Behind Allie Reynolds; Irv Noren Drives In Winning Run, Also Homers

By FRED DOWN
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP)—Frank Shea, laughing, good-time boy of the 1947 world champion Yankees, was making a joke today of the ancient baseball axiom that "they never come back."

Cast off by the Yankees two weeks ago in their six-player deal with Washington, the pudgy sliderball expert scored his third consecutive victory last night as the Senators beat the Indians, 2-0.

Shea limited the Indians to two hits — singles by Ray Boone and Al Rosen — and now has permitted only two runs and 13 hits in three starting assignments.

Jackie Jensen, also acquired by the Senators in the big deal with the Yankees, drove in both runs with a sharp single to right field off Early Wynn in the sixth inning after Shea singled and Eddie Yost doubled. The Senators are now within a game and a half of the first-place Indians.

Allie Reynolds brought his season record even at 3-3 as the Yankees beat the Tigers, 3-2, and the Browns defeated the Red Sox, 2-1, in 10 innings in the American League's other games. Philadelphia at Chicago was rained out.

Reynolds, who has allowed only 10 runs in six games, gained the decision over 20-year old relief pitcher Billy Hoelz when Irv Noren punched a single through the drawn in Tiger infield. Noren also hit a home run to lead the Yankees' 10-hit attack on Ted Gray and Hoelz. Bob Nieman homered in the eighth inning to tie the score and doubled home Bob Young in the 10th inning with the winning run as the Browns dealt the Red Sox their seventh loss in eight games.

In the National League, the Dodgers went into a first-place tie with New York when they beat the pathetic Pirates, 6-4, while the Cubs surprised the Giants by sweeping a doubleheader, 3-2 and 6-4. The defeats snapped the Giants' five-game winning skid.

Clem Labine pitched three - hit ball in a seven-inning relief assignment and Duke Snider homered to provide the winning margin for the Dodgers. Pittsburgh played without Ralph Kiner, suffering with a lame back.

Bob Rush and Johnny Klippstein over-powered the Giants, allowing five and six hits, respectively, as the Cubs broke their three - game losing streak. The Cubs, who had 12 hits in the first game and nine in the second, knocked out starters Dave Koslo and Jim Hearn in fewer than five innings.

Warren Spahn's seven-hitter subdued the Cardinals, 8-3, as the Braves routed Vinegar Bend Mizell with five runs in the second inning. The Phillies, winning their fourth straight and sixth in seven games, to crawl to within one game of the 500-mark, beat the Reds, 3-2, when Granny Hamner singled with the bases filled and nobody out in the 10th inning.

Snead Continues To Lead Palm Beach Round Robin

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y. (UP)—Fifteen crack pros resume an apparently futile chase of PGA champion Sammy Snead today on the fourth round of the $15,000 Palm Beach round robin golf tournament.

The West Virginia slammer, with a plus 53 score in the round robin scoring system after 54 holes of play, appeared a cinch for the $3,000 first prize. Snead's closest rival was Claude Harmon of Mamaroneck, N. Y., who had a plus 23.

By today's fourth round, Snead was grouped in a foursome with Lloyd Mangrum of Chicago (in sixth place with plus 15) and two players with minus totals, Skee Riegel of Tulsa, Okla. (minus 2) and Jerry Barber of Pasadena, Calif. (minus 5).

By widening his point total against these competitors, Snead could virtually clinch the title on the fourth round and make tomorrow's concluding round little more than an exhibition.

Snead shot two more sub - par rounds of 66 and 71 yesterday to pick up 21 points for the day. On the morning round, playing with Doug Ford, Marty Furgol and Jackie Burke, Snead shot five birdies and his third eagle of the tournament. He holed out a 30 - yard wedge shot for a two on the par four 12th hole.

In the afternoon, Snead won three points from Clayton Heafner and five from Jimmy Demaret, but lost one point to Jim Ferrier, who fired a third-round 70.

Harmon picked up 10 points on the morning round with a 74 while Mangrum had a 68 in the same foursome.

Ed Oliver, who shot rounds of 73 and 67, was in third place with a plus 20 score; Cary Middlecoff and Ferrier were tied for fourth place with plus 17 scores, while Mangrum was sixth with plus 15. All other contestants had minus scores.

Caught His Men, Then Collapsed

DETROIT (UP).—Two men fleeing from rookie Patrolman Arthur Holmes Jr., thought they were safe when the policeman's car rolled over three times after it sideswiped their getaway car.

Holmes, 28, leaped from the wrecked patrol car, stepped hand-cuffs on the two men and then collapsed. Doctors said he suffered serious head and internal injuries.

WATCH WAS "LOADED"

MARTFORD, Conn. — (UP).—Rocco Artore told a judge that when he bought a second-hand watch for $5 he "didn't know it was loaded." Artore said that inside the watch was a picture of a girl which was discovered by his wife, touching off a string of marital woes. The judge listened sympathetically but denied Artore's divorce petition.

Exchange Club Readies Hearing Tests Project

The Greenville Exchange Club held a brief supper meeting last night and made plans for the hearing tests project to be held next week.

The members went to the Garner-Wynne-Manning, Inc., warehouse, in West End Circle, and wrapped napkins in preparation for the sale of five-box lots for a dollar. They wrapped over 1,000 packages during the evening. Members will offer the napkins for sale during door-to-door campaigns next Tuesday and Wednesday night.

Proceeds of the napkin sale will go to purchase an audiometer, an instrument for testing the hearing of children in the Greenville and Pitt county schools. The Exchange Club is sponsoring a project to assist school children with defective hearing.

According to school officials and health department personnel, many children do poor school work because their hearing is impaired and they cannot hear talks by teachers. A member of the Exchange Club quoted a local hearing specialist as saying many children considered dull in school are, as a matter of fact, very intelligent, but they do not hear well. The project provides for supplying in worthy cases hearing aids or medical treatment.

"When an Exchange member rings your door bell next Tuesday and Wednesday, greet him with a smile and a dollar for a bundle of napkins," President Bill Riggs suggested.

Burglar Repents And Apologizes

NEW YORK (UP)—A young robber broke into Mrs. Fannie Bell's apartment yesterday, knocked her to the floor, stole her husband's shirt and socks, drank a glass of water and left.

He later telephoned Mrs. Bell and said: "I'm sorry. I hope I didn't hurt you. I'll mail the things back."

Reflector Views Put Into Record

Views on Armed Forces expenditures expressed in a recent Daily Reflector editorial were introduced into the Congressional Record this week by Congressman Herbert C. Bonner.

A member of congress from the first North Carolina district, Bonner stated, "the views expressed by The Daily Reflector are very timely." He went on to say they pose many of the thoughts which are in the minds of the American people.

"The concern voiced in this article (by The Daily Reflector) has underscored much of the congressional inquiry into the inadequacy of American defenses," Bonner said. The recent editorial was entitled "Are We Building A Dress Parade Army?"

In effect, it was concerned primarily with a reduction of military expenditures from the standpoint of pruning deadwood out of a gigantic "desk force" army. It went on to say that when most proponents talk of cutting Armed Forces expenditures, they are not proposing a cut in the shooting power of the United States. They (and the Reflector) are proposing a cut in the non-essential ammunition used by the vast desk force of the military.

LEGION MEETS TUESDAY
Pitt County Post No. 39, American Legion, will meet at the Legion Home next Tuesday night at 7 o'clock. Commander Lester Turnage will preside. Supper will be served "dutch treat." Members are invited to attend the meeting and take new members with them. Adjutant Louis W. Gaylord stated.

TB Association Meets Friday

The executive committee of the Pitt County T. B. Association Board of Directors met yesterday at the health department to discuss a number of pertinent facts on the T. B. program in the county and state.

It was reported at the meeting that six new cases have been reported in the county recently. Four of the victims are colored and two are white. Ten X-rays were made from one family in which the death of an infant occurred.

The X-ray room at the health department is completed and 129 X-rays were made from May 1 to May 15. Thirty-five were made May 1, 50 on May 8, and 44 on May 15.

A Health Education workshop will be held at East Carolina College June 3 through June 14 with Margaret Tift as the director. It was reported that the health education program, as planned by the executive committee, is continuing. Talks are scheduled at Clark's Neck and Red Oak Home Demonstration clubs next week. A radio talk is also scheduled for next week.

New clothing has been sent to a Negro patient at the Wilson Sanatorium which amounted to over $9.00 worth. A patient at Ayden was helped by a group of women working with Mrs. N. P. Shelton and another patient in the county was furnished with sheets, gowns and other comforts by a group of women.

A number of items of state T. B. news was announced at the meeting concerning hospital personnel, and film strips available.

A construction program is now underway in the state which will give three hospitals approximately 600 additional beds, thus erasing 800 persons awaiting hospitalization. More than 400 of the beds will be for Negroes.

Frank Webster has resigned as executive secretary of the NCTA and has accepted a position with the American Trudeau Society of the National Tuberculosis Association. Scott Venable will replace Webster.

The following filmstrips are available for the State Health Department. They are: "This Is T. B.," "Time Out," "You Can Help," "Unsuspected Tuberculosis" and "What It Is and What To Do About It."

in the Alumni Association, a corresponding increase in cooperation with the staff of the student newspaper, the "Teco Echo" followed. The paper was mailed each Saturday by Mrs. Garner and her staff to approximately a thousand alumni of the college.

Three loan funds to students were established by the Alumni Association, working under Mrs. Garner's leadership. These include two established in honor of former faculty members: the Maria D. Graham Bailie J. Davis fund, set up in 1948, and the Mamie E. Jenkins-Kate W. Lewis fund, established in 1946. The association also contributed in 1948 to the general student loan fund and carried out several projects of campus improvement and beautification.

In the routine work of organizing and operating the Alumni Office, Mrs. Garner performed a valuable service. At the time she resigned her position in 1951, for instance, a file of data on 20,000 former students had been built from small beginnings and was available for use.

In addition to her activities on the campus, Mrs. Garner has been associated with a number of civic, educational, and religious organizations. She is now president of the Business and Professional Women's Club of Greenville and served last year as president of the Auxiliary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Charles Gray Morgan Post, No. 7032. A member of the Memorial Baptist Church of Greenville, she is superintendent of its Young People's Department and vice chairman of the Business Women's Circle. She holds membership in state and national educational organizations and is a life member of Delta Kappa Gamma, national honorary society for women in education.

Mrs. Garner is the daughter of Mrs. and Mrs. J. C. Blanchard, 2709 Keller Avenue, Norfolk, Va. Her husband was Clem Garner, Greenville business man, who died in 1951.

Business Education Fraternity Now Distributing Its Annual Publication

"Beta Kappa News," annual publication of the Beta Kappa Chapter of Pi Omega Pi at East Carolina College, is now being distributed to student and alumni members of the campus chapter of the organization. The fraternity is a national honorary society for students of business education with high scholastic records. The East Carolina chapter was this spring awarded a national merit award as the outstanding chapter in the nation for 1951-1952.

The 1952 volume of "Beta Kappa News" was edited by Mrs. Cleon Avery Lincke of Kingston and Peggy Nash of Durham, chapter historians. It is dedicated to Mrs. Dorothy Lewis Wilkerson of the business education faculty at the college, who as student and faculty member at East Carolina has been an active worker in the fraternity.

The book is attractively illustrated with line drawings. It contains also a floor plan of the business education department; a map of the campus, showing permanent improvements projects recently completed or now in progress; and maps of North Carolina and the United States, indicating that student and alumni members of the Beta Kappa chapter now live in 41 counties of the state and seven states and the District of Columbia.

Russell Appears To Be Favored By N.C. Demos

By NOEL YANCEY

RALEIGH — (AP) — North Carolina political leaders seem to favor Georgia's Sen. Russell in the Democratic presidential sweepstakes, and indications are that a strongly pro-Russell national convention delegation will be selected at the state convention next Thursday.

The 3,000 delegates who will attend the state meeting will be selected at county conventions being held in each of the state's 100 counties today.

There has been no organized Russell movement in the state, but both of the state's U. S. senators, Clyde R. Hoey and Willis Smith, and several of the state's members of Congress have indicated they favor the Georgian for the presidential nomination. Gov. Scott, who was for President Truman until he withdrew from the race, has not indicated a second choice but has stated he will support the national convention nominee.

Although indications were that most of the state's 40 national convention delegates, with 32 votes, will favor Russell, political observers do not think the convention will formally instruct the delegates to support any candidate.

State Democratic Chairman Everett J. Dan said he thought a majority of those selected will favor Russell but that the convention would not instruct them. "I think a majority will be for Russell," he said. "That's the sentiment I hear more than anyone else."

Even a supporter of Sen. Estes Kefauver, one of four Congressional District Kefauver campaign managers appointed recently, said he thought most of the delegates will favor Russell. He stated one aim of the Kefauver movement was to build up sentiment for the Tennesseean in case it becomes apparent at the national convention Russell cannot win the nomination.

Oil Settlement . . .

members of the CIO local at Sinclair, Wyo. Displeasure also was indicated by locals in East Chicago, Ill., and Corpus Christi and Houston, Texas.

The tentative contract, which was submitted to membership vote with CIO leader O. A. Knight's endorsement, provides the allowable 15 cent increase and differential pay for shift work.

But the rank and file reportedly objected to elimination of the escalator clause, which they say would in effect reduce their pay increase from 15 to 12 cents an hour.

However, a few bright spots developed in the strike picture. B. J. Rickey, CIO union district director, announced yesterday that union workers at the Socony-Vacuum Oil Co. plant at Casper, Wyo., voted "almost unanimously" to accept the WGB ceiling and settle with the company.

Negotiations between the independent Central states petroleum union and Standard Oil of Indiana, involving 7,000 workers, were reported to have made progress yesterday. The bargaining was recessed until Monday.

Agreement was reported reached or in sight at a number of other locations, including Sinclair at Wellsville, N. Y.; American Liberty Oil at Mount Pleasant, Tex.; Gulf at Hoover, Ok.; Standard at Sugar Creek, Mo., and Atlantic at Beaumont, Tex.

The Texas Railroad Commission cut the allowable crude oil production in the state more than 113,000 barrels a day because of accumulated stocks caused by refinery shutdowns.

The government eased supply restrictions on aviation gasoline to permit unlimited use for crop seeding and other agricultural uses and for protection against forest fires.

clusion that it doesn't make sense they are right; it doesn't. The strike or failure of service, in the grapevine telegraph system. It is due rather to the superb efficiency of that method of communication. Too much information comes through.

LIMITED — Out of all this information as your reporter sifts it comes one definite idea. The taxpayers of North Carolina are heartily in sympathy with the Piddlin' Pete Phraternity, but they feel it is too limited. They don't want any less piddlin' among the spending boys but they would like to have the revenue department personnel made members of the Three P's outfit. At last reports the tax collectors could not qualify; they were not piddling.

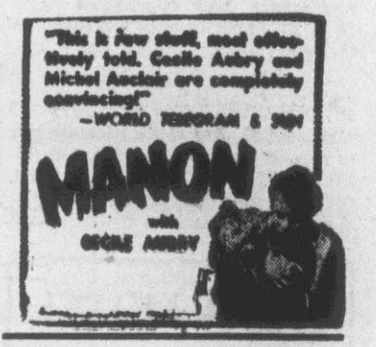

FACETIOUS — Of course, all this stuff is written in a facetious vein, in order to fill up some space and provide some humor for a very serious condition. Fact is, there is mighty little real piddling among state officials and employees, from the Governor down to the lowest paid laborer. But there is here-with offered a dollar to a doughnut that somebody won't like the facetious treatment. Wanta bet?
