$30,000 Budget For Recreation

Tentative Figure Adopted By City Recreation Commission At Meeting Last Night; Sum Represents Increase Of $10,000 Over Last Year; Increase Laid To Growing Role

By MURIEL SHOTWELL Reflector Staff Writer A tentative budget of $30,000 for 1952-1953 was approved last night by the City Recreation Commission...

The budget, which is increased by $10,000 over last year, was drawn up by Recreational Director Warren Carroll and the finance committee of the commission. It was submitted to the commission by Carroll and is scheduled for final action by the Board of Aldermen.

Carroll attributed the increase to the fact that the city is expanding its recreation facilities. He said that the budget for 1952-1953 is $30,000, an increase of $10,000 over the 1951-1952 budget.

Frank Pace Jr. promised to submit a "full report" to the Senate Armed Services Committee by Thursday. "Information has reached me — and other committee members — that Communist prisoners have performed atrocities on prisoners who do not now embrace Communism," Bridges told a reporter.

He said Pace has ordered Gen. Mark W. Clark to rush to Washington by plane a copy of the secret report filed by an Army board which conducted an on-the-spot investigation at Kojima.

Awaited Atomic Explosion Fails For Second Time

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UP) — The second failure of a nuclear device to explode at the Nevada Proving Grounds was marked today.

While 2,000 soldiers shivered in foxholes on this chilly morning, awaiting the blast from a tower a few miles away, the routine of setting off an atomic explosion was begun but did not get to completion.

An experimental nuclear device scheduled to be tested this morning on a Nevada proving ground tower was put into operation but at the zero time there was no detonation.

Prisoner Of War Is Killed And 85 Hurt In Pusan Riot

Guards Break Up Affair Without Firing A Shot; 'Sit-Down Strike' Among Communists At Kojima Island Hospital Disclosed, With Fantastic Demands; One UN Soldier Injured

SEOUL, Korea (UP) — One prisoner of war was killed, 85 were injured and one Allied soldier hurt today when guards broke up a riot by "fanatical" Communist prisoners near Pusan.

At the same time it was disclosed that a "sit down strike" by Korean prisoners, doctors and attendants in the main prisoner of war hospital on Kojima Island had been broken without violence.

Trouble flared in the Pusan camp when prisoners described as "communist agitators" tried to prevent segregation of prisoners for medical treatment.

Gen. James A. Van Fleet's 8th Army headquarters here called it "an attempt by fanatical Communist prisoners to resist proper medical treatment of patient inmates. Enclosure 10."

On Kojima Island, where rebellious hard-core Communists recently kidnapped the Allied camp commander, trouble broke on May 16 and 17, it was disclosed today.

Prisoners, doctors and attendants in the main hospital went on "strike" with demands ranging from better food to "an hour of pleasure every day with the women."

The Pusan riot was the first major disturbance since rebellious inmates of Camp 76 on Kojima Island kidnapped Brig. Gen. Francis T. Dodd on May 7 and held him 78 hours.

One United Nations soldier received a "minor injury," the 8th Army said.

Prisoners held in the Pusan area camps are those who reported Communist activity. But American officers said last week they feared pro-Communists had slipped in among them to stir up trouble, declaring themselves to be anti-Communists.

Trouble began early today in Prisoner of War Enclosure No. 10 where the prisoners received medical care. Two and one-half hours later the situation was reported "well in hand."

Camp officials had ordered a "small group of agitators" among the 1,600 inmates of one compound to move to another compound.

The 8th Army said the transfer was ordered because "their actions for several days had been impeding proper medical treatment of patient inmates."

Gradual Return President Alerts Nation For Possible Resumption Of Large-Scale War In Korea; Again Warns Congress Against Defense Budget Cuts

DENVER (AP) — An estimated 25,000 of the nation's nearly 90,000 striking oil workers were back on the job today, 21 days after they walked out in a wage dispute.

More were expected to return by nightfall as additional settlements are reached in plant-by-plant negotiations across the country.

Meanwhile, airlines, both in the United States and Europe, were faced with loss of considerable revenue as the shortage of aviation gasoline grew. It was expected to reach the critical stage by next week end unless additional supplies were obtained.

American Airlines President C. R. Smith said his firm may have to cancel more than 80 per cent of its nation-wide schedules by the week end.

A major break in the strike front was reached yesterday when 10,000 Sinclair Refining Company workers signed a wage agreement.

Poppy Sale Will Be Held Saturday

Legion Auxiliary, Scouts And Volunteers Work On Project

The annual Poppy Sale, sponsored by the local American Legion Auxiliary, will be held on Saturday of this week.

Disabled veterans of both world wars have been working to make the 30 million memorial poppies which will be offered for sale throughout the country. The making and selling of these poppies is a special project of the Legion Auxiliary.

Mrs. Gherman Taylor, chairman of the local sale, has announced that the members of the Auxiliary will be assisted by the boy and girl scouts and other volunteers of the city on Saturday. Special headquarters booths will be placed in front of J. C. Kenney's store, Belk-Tyers and Harrison's Drug Store on Dickinson Avenue.

Made of red and green crepe paper with paper-covered wire for stems, the poppies are life-like duplicates of the wild poppies of France and Flanders which provided the only floral decoration for World War battle graves in those countries.

As they are all made by hand," Mrs. Taylor explained, "each poppy is slightly different and each has a story of its own—the story of some man who in his youth and strength stood between our country and the enemy but who now has only the strength to make a little poppy in memory of comrades who gave their lives in America's defense."

Pay Increase For Services Signed WASHINGTON (UP) — President Truman today signed legislation giving the armed forces a pay boost of 4 per cent across the board and an increase of 14 per cent in food and quarter allowances. Both hikes are retroactive to May 1.

The measure will cost an estimated $48,000,000 a year. Its final version was worked out by Senate-House conferees who dropped a Senate plan to pay a $45 a month bonus to men under fire in Korea.

Eisenhower Denies He Aspires To Presidency

Presbytery Will Meet Tomorrow More Than 250 Ministers And Laymen Expected For Event

THE HAGUE, The Netherlands (UP) — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower said today that he is "not aspiring to anything," and if the Republican party wants him to run for president it will have to tell him so.

The retiring supreme Allied commander made the comment to Dutch Premier Willem Drees during an extraordinary meeting of the Dutch cabinet held in Eisenhower's honor in the historic "artistic room" of the Hague Government Building.

When Drees remarked that Eisenhower was "aspiring to high office" in the U. S., Eisenhower replied: "I am not aspiring to anything. I realize that in my country, at least, it is the fashion for every politician aspirant to declare that he is not one."

"But I should like to point out that I came to Europe out of a sense of duty and the only way I shall take my other job will be out of a sense of duty, and that sense of duty will have to be communicated to me by that great political party to which I have given as much allegiance as a soldier is allowed."

Eisenhower's final reference to "as much allegiance as a soldier is allowed" was believed his answer to Republican critics who contend that the general has failed to make known his views on controversial domestic political issues.

The five-star general will retire June 1 as supreme commander of the North Atlantic Pact armed forces and return to the U. S. He has said that he will not campaign actively for the presidency until and unless he wins the Republican nomination.

Holland is Eisenhower's final stop on his farewell tour of the North Atlantic Allies. He will turn over his command next week to Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, formerly supreme United Nations commander in the Far East.

Eisenhower told the Dutch cabinet that a "great start" had been made toward European defense and unity.

"We are no victims of foolish optimism," he said, "once we have brought Europe to closer integration and have the support of the U. S. A., Britain and Canada, we can dwell in peace. No one will dare

Education As Growth, Is Topic Of Dr. Hollis Edens

This growth, he continued, means that the United States offers its people more in educational advantages than is offered in all the world outside our country. More degrees are granted here, he said, than in all the rest of the world, and higher education is sought by an increasing number of people in our country.

Speaking to the East Carolina graduates, he told them that in college they had figuratively been sitting at a desk "creating a pattern to follow in life." The moment has arrived, he said, for each student to stand up and see what this pattern means for him in the present and in the future.

He cited as one of the chief values of education the satisfaction that comes through growth. Reminding the graduates that "You are not yet very well educated," he told them that it is a satisfaction to realize that growth need never cease.

More 'Vicious Propaganda' By Communists At Truce Meeting

By LEROY HANSEN United Press Staff Correspondent PANMUNJOM, Korea (UP) — Gen. William C. Turner Jr., chief of United Nations truce delegate, accused the Communists today of blocking peace in Korea by "every vicious means" at their disposal.

Alef Collins Becomes Bride Of Kenneth H. Kennedy On Sunday

In an all pink candlelight ceremony performed on Sunday afternoon, May 18, at four o'clock in the afternoon, Miss Alef Garfield Collins and Kenneth Hollingsworth Kennedy were united in marriage at the Eighth Street Christian Church.

The Rev. H. G. Haney, pastor of the bride and groom, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Edward Collins Sr. of this city. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Eugene Kennedy of Atkinson.

For the occasion the church was beautifully decorated with a background of oregon, emerald, western cedar, huckleberry and plumose greens. Several large baskets held massive arrangements of pink snapdragons and pink gladioli. The scene was lighted by pink cathedral tapers in six pairs of wrought iron candelabra. Pews for the families were marked with pink satin bows.

and attached net stole. They wore matching head pieces of pink nylon net. The matron of honor and the maid of honor carried cascade bouquets of pink cymbidium orchid and pink net tied with pink satin ribbon. The bridesmaids and junior bridesmaids carried arm bouquet of pink carnations and pink corn flower.

Miss Margaret Ann Henderson, of Scotland Neck, cousin of the groom, was flower girl. Her dress was a floor length gown of pink net over taffeta, with which she wore a matching head piece of pink rosebuds. She carried a little pink decorated basket of sweetheart rose petals.

Honorary bridesmaids were Misses Frances Sigmon, Dr. Wilson, Emilie DuPree and Polly Ann Brady.

Mrs. Collins, mother of the bride, chose for her daughter's wedding a full length gown of aqua chiffon with a Chantilly lace neckline and a wide panel of lace extending to the hemline. She wore a matching flower hat and long white gloves and an orchid corsage. The mother of the groom wore a full length gown of lilac crepe with a white flower hat and accessories and an orchid corsage.

The groom was attended by Fred Woolschlager of Alexandria, Va. as best man. Groomsman were Bill Yeagar of Norfolk, Va. Alfred Smith, Stanley Smith, James Hudson and Charles T. V. Jones of Greenville.

Mrs. Kennedy is a graduate of Greenville High School and East Carolina College. During the past year she was a member of the Atkinson High School faculty.

Mr. Kennedy is a graduate of Burghaw High School. He has attended The American Institute of Banking, and Benjamin Franklin University. He served with the U. S. Marines in World War II. He is now a senior at East Carolina College, where he is vice-president of the Pi Omega Pi fraternity. He was recently commissioned a Second Lieutenant in the Air Force upon the completion of his ROTC training. Mr. Kennedy was a Distinguished Military Student and Graduate.

Immediately following the ceremony, the parents of the bride entertained at a reception at the Greenville, Va. Club in honor of the bride and groom.

The clubhouse was decorated with greens, and arrangements of pink gladioli and pink snapdragons were used throughout the club rooms, interspersed with many lighted pink candles.

Guests were welcomed at the door and introduced to the receiving line by Mrs. W. Reid Perkins. In the receiving line were members of the bridal party, Mr. and Mrs. Collins and Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy. The guests were then invited to the refreshment table where Misses Frances Sigmon and Dr. Wilson presided over the punch bowls. Misses Marcia Horrell and Polly Ann Brady served lightly sandwiches, ham biscuits, individual pink and white bridal cakes, salted nuts and bridal mints.

The table was covered with a pink rayon damask cloth and centered with a massive arrangement of pink snapdragons and pink carnations flanked by pink candles.

Presiding at the register table was Miss Emilie DuPree and saying goodbyes to the guests were Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Rose.

Following a wedding trip to southern points the couple will make their home in Greenville. Mrs. Kennedy wore for her going away costume an imported French blue chiffon flannel suit with a peach pink original Paris hat, and honey alligator shoes and bag. Her corsage was the white orchid lifted from the center of her bridal bouquet.

Out-of-town guests who were here for the wedding were:

Student School Council Organized

Election of officers for the student Council at West Greenville School was held at the school on last Friday.

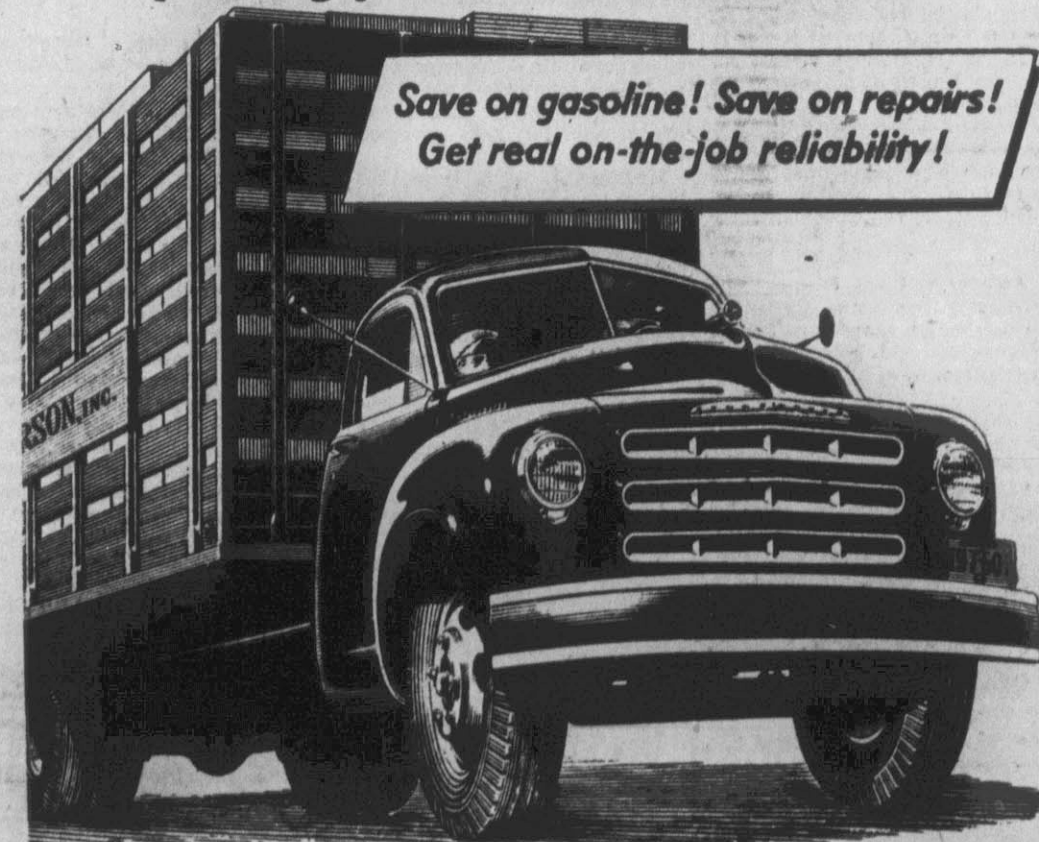

The Student Council, a comparatively recent thing at West Greenville, was organized in the winter with room representatives who were elected and a president who was appointed for the first Council.

The coming year will be the first year of full organization and function for the group, and officers were nominated and elected in a vigorous campaign which was conducted last week. On Thursday the candidates for the offices were presented at a school assembly by their campaign managers and made brief speeches. Elections were held on the following day and the results tabulated on an election board which was set up in the front hall of the building.

Strength for the Day

LIFE HAS ITS LIMITS
There is one character in the Bible who during his lifetime had every opportunity this world can offer. That person was Solomon. He had wealth, position, outstanding intelligence, the praise and adulation of the world, and the opportunity to indulge his every desire. He started out with the blessing of God upon him, but he dedicated his life to completely selfish ends. In his last hours we hear him crying out, "Vanity, vanity, all is vanity."
Solomon had tasted of every pleasure. He sat on the top of the world from the day he was born until the day he died. Everybody applauded him. Yet in his heart he knew himself to be a failure. His career illustrates a basic truth that human life simply does not have enough in it to satisfy the deepest needs and desires of the human soul.
Man is, among other things, an attempt to get more out of life than there is in it. It is often a frantic pursuit of joys which in reality do not exist. Every sin brings the sinner who commits it some little momentary satisfaction, but never has sin brought real joy to anyone. In the end it destroys the possibility of joy. The person who sets himself to squeeze every drop of satisfaction out of a worldly life ends by destroying the capacity to enjoy any of the things which really bring lasting happiness.

Local Governments Need More Tax Revenue

With the rising costs of municipal, county and state governments, it has oft-times crossed our mind that their tax revenues should be increased to meet their growing needs.
This would be impracticable in view of the present load taxpayers bear, and impracticable too, in the current system of dividing the "spoils" of revenue collectors on the four principal levels of governmental taxation.
As it stands today, the federal government gets the big slice of the tax pie; so much, in fact, that there really isn't very much left for states, counties and municipalities. The apparent solution seems to be for a new "allocation" of who taxes what and for how much; with a view to enlarging the scope of taxation for the lower echelons and proportionately limiting those fields of wealth taxable by the federal government.
Local governments are even now hard pressed to fulfill their obligations of service to the citizens for whom they are directly responsible. The strain has been increasing over the years, and in the long view that strain will be greater with the passage of time.
For municipalities, the steadily rising populations and necessary expansion of urban areas all point to needs of added revenue. Counties too, are witnessing the effects of population growth, the advancement of rural areas and the need for enlarged facilities and the staffing of services which they provide. State governments are faced with the same growing pains and problems.
We have been under a constant impression that there is more dollar-for-dollar value received from money spent on the local levels of government. People are more apt to closely scrutinize outlays on the more personal echelons. Their approval or disapproval wins a more prompt response from local officials; they can see how money is spent and can see, first-hand, the results of that spending. Passing through fewer hands, less money is lost to "overhead" expenses and sticky fingers. Too, the sums do not reach the cloudy summits of a billion-dollar figure... always a confusing sum because no one really comprehends the meaning of such astronomical figures.
Taxpayers can't get by without contributing heavily to the national coffers, and now that the limits have been reached (if not surpassed) in taxation, it seems only right and proper that a more realistic allocation should be made as to what citizens should expect in the form of services from all governmental levels and share the tax burden proportionately.
The government has been encroaching on the prerogatives of local government for a long time, and the only way to stop the trend is to draw a line and holler, "Halt."

More Glamor Needed For The Veep-hood

There are four hard-campaigning candidates for the Lieutenant-Governorship of North Carolina, and not one known aspirant for the nation's vice-presidency. One would think the Veep's job is most undesirable in contrast to Tar Heels' interest in their second place of honor.

It would be something of a refreshing novelty to see an avowed candidate emerge before convention time for our second-highest elective office. Even more desirable, would be elevation of vice-presidential duties to more nearly that of an "assistant-president," a true administrative figure that would share some of the heavy responsibilities borne by the Chief Executive. Such a thought has been expressed several times, sometimes as a lure to induce acceptance of the second-place slot on party ballot, but nothing ever came of it.

Much of the sheen and allure of the vice-presidency has been worn off by the custom of allowing a presidential nominee to name his running mate. Added to this, with rare exceptions, political ambitions die with accession to the job of vice-president. "Dear Alben" made the grade to Veep-hood by virtue of rousing a spiritless national convention to enthusiasm; indications are that he isn't willing to stop there, and dreams of calling the White House "home." Governor Paul Dever, of Massachusetts, will keynote this year's convention. And if he does a good job, he too might find himself on the national ticket. None of the presidential candidates have offered to retreat to the less glamorous race for the vice-presidency, and it would not be too surprising if that race were allotted to a yet-to-be-heard-from political figure.

National Whirligig

WASHINGTON—Dean Acheson is receiving the blame among lawyers and politicians here for suggesting to President Truman that he resort to the claim of "inherent powers" as justification for seizure of the nation's steel plants. It is now known that the idea did not originate with anybody in the Department of Justice.
The secretary of state, a brilliant and imaginative lawyer, has frequently advanced the same theories with respect to foreign commitments before Congressional committees.
The only reason it did not attract attention then is that he was not applying the exercise of such power to the seizure of private property.
REASONING—In urging House and Senate to appropriate the full budgetary grants for military and economic aid overseas, Acheson has declared that the United States was bound, legally and morally, to provide the money under the terms of treaties ratified by the Senate and executed by the president.
He referred to the United Nations Charter and the North Atlantic Pact guarantees of collective security. Mutual Security Administrator W. Averell Harriman takes the same stand.
Thus, it follows from this reasoning that, if the stoppage of work in steel and allied plants making weapons prevented the United States from shipping arms abroad, the government has the right to take over the affected industries.
In the same way, the Acheson group might argue, the president can seize any business or industry whose production or services contribute even remotely to successful conclusion of the "cold war" with Russia.
AMAZED—When the Supreme Court members' questioning seemed to rattle Solicitor General Philip B. Perlman's citation of domestic precedents for the presidential action, he relied principally on the foreign commitments to which Acheson so often refers.
In fact, Perlman's retreat from a legalistic line to the diplomatic trenches amazed the large audience of lawyers and legislators. They realized its implications immediately.
"It may be the voice of Perlman," commented one Senator, "but it is the hand of Acheson that is behind this."
RESPONSIBLE—Moreover, a process of elimination casts the former law school pupil of Justice Frankfurter in the role of legal adviser to Truman in this litigation. Acheson and Frankfurter live near each other, and usually walk to work together.
Former Judge James P. McGranery, attorney general-designate, was not responsible, for he has not taken office. In fact, he intimated to the Senate Judiciary committee during hearings on this confirmation that he did not agree fully with the White House viewpoint.
DUTY—Solicitor General Perlman's legal record and background suggest that he was simply doing his duty when he voiced the Truman-Acheson thesis. In the past he has tried to combat certain colleagues' insistence on stretching the law so as to enlarge the federal government's jurisdiction.
In several major utility cases involving the Truman-Chapman public power program, he has refused to appeal to the Supreme Court from lower courts' adverse decisions. In every instance, however, he has been forced by Truman to carry the Chapman cause to the high tribunal.

PERSECUTION—Senator William Benton, who seeks to drive "Joe" McCarthy from the Senate, suffers from the most severe persecution complex in Capitol Hill history. His colleagues read with mingled amusement and laughter his indictment of his "secret" enemies.
"I am being blackmailed and threatened," the Connecticut advertising man told a New England correspondent. "I am receiving anonymous phone calls and letters. I receive very dressed-up phone calls from alleged FBI agents and Internal Revenue employees, who threaten me."
"I receive threatening messages from alleged newspaper correspondents. It is a long-range campaign to intimidate and terrify me. But it will fail. I will not be intimidated or terrified."
Although Benton will not say so publicly, his friends intimate that he regards his Wisconsin rival as the author of the persecution.

GRACIOUS—The House of Representatives has a "Mr. Maladrop" who is wasting his talents in politics. He is Representative Andrew D. Steninski, Jersey City Democrat. After addressing the House Judiciary committee on a local matter, he paid this compliment to Chairman Emanuel Celler of Brooklyn:
"I wish to commend the chairman as an able, courteous and intelligent gentleman. And I hope nobody will think that I am too gracious for saying so publicly."
Chairman Celler was "deafening" with his thanks.

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.
One of the greatest honors ever to come to Greenville is the selection of Les Turnage as North Carolina's Young Man of the Year. Last night when I talked to Les about the honor he said, "It's something I never dreamed of. I thought it was wonderful when I was chosen 'Young Man of the Year' in Greenville, but this State award is out of this world!"
Les was full of praise for J. B. Smith, chairman of the Greenville awards committee, who compiled the information on Les for presentation to the State committee. "Without J. B.'s work on the project," Les said, "the award would not have been possible." And Les is very right. No matter how outstanding a young man is, the real selling job on a State-wide basis comes from the presentation by the local awards committee. J. B. dug out every bit of information about Les for the State judges to view.
The record Les has compiled in Greenville was a cinch to win the award, because it was thoroughly presented. Any man who has contributed to much is bound to gain recognition beyond the local level.
An interesting angle to this story is the fact that J. B. and Les are competitors. J. B. sells insurance and real estate with General Insurance Agency, and Les sells insurance and real estate with the D. L. Turnage agency.
When Les took his vacation two weeks ago he opened himself to an array of kidding by J. B., who said, "While you were gone I sold all of the hall insurance that was sold. And believe me, I certainly appreciate your leaving during the hall insurance season."
Les is in the midst of community activities because he is among the first to realize the needs of the community. "If I think something should be done," Les says, "I say so, and the first thing I know I'm doing it. One community project leads to another, and before long it's running in a continuous cycle." That's just a modest way of saying when you do a good job on one project, everybody looks to you for the same calibre of work on others.
When I talked to Les last night it was evident that he is still in the midst of activities. He had just returned from a meeting of the Greenville Recreation Commission, where the budget for next year was being prepared. "We are hoping to get $30,000 for next year," Les said. "Last year we spent about $10 per person for recreation, while the average for the State is about $25. Kingston spends over $30." It seems that if we lead the State by having the Young Man of the Year in Greenville, it's a shame to lag back elsewhere, especially in the important field of Recreation!
And I thank you.

Around Capitol Square

By LYNN NISBET SECRETARIES—It is in the tradition of North Carolina that the newly nominated Governor becomes the fair haired man as soon as the primary is over. Greg Cherry was officially Governor until Kerr Scott was inaugurated in 1949, but for the final six months he was governor in name only. Mr. Scott will still be Governor until early next January, but from the May 31 primary on he will be forced into the background by the upcoming chief executive. That situation has a true element of pathos, but it is true. To even greater degree, the private secretary of a retiring governor loses prestige after a new executive has been selected, although not yet inaugurated. So it is traditional for the secretaries of retiring governors to seek new connections about the time of the primary which determines who the next governor will be.
MARSHALL—It is natural that there should be a lot of speculation around capitol square about what connection John Marshall, secretary to Governor Scott, will make. It is common knowledge that he is "looking around" and it is rumored that he is not interested in another state job but will go with a big private corporation. Marshall has been private secretary to Governor Scott since mid-summer of 1949, when Charles Parker, the first secretary, resigned to become director of state advertising.
HISTORIC—Governor Cherry's first secretary, John Harden, resigned to go with a private business firm, and his successor, William Snider, was assigned to the highway commission public relations division at end of the term. Governor Broughton lost two secretaries to the armed forces—Tom Banks and Alison Stubbs—and during the final weeks of his administration Miss Kate Humphrey served in that capacity. She had been Broughton's long time law office assistant, and after they left the governor's office she returned to that job, and later went with him to the United States Senate. In 1940, Bob Thompson, who had been Governor Hoey's secretary for more than three years, moved over to the state advertising division. Secretaries to the governor do not always accept other state jobs, and often do not remain in them when accepted, but it is unusual for a secretary to stay out the full term in the governor's office.
TITLE—The title of the office of Private Secretary to the Governor is a misnomer. It is a great deal more than that. In addition to the confidential relationship with the Governor, the position involves acting as secretary to the council of state and numerous other quasi-official duties. Many observers have felt for a long time that both the title and functions of the office should be changed and statutory provision made for an administrative assistant to the governor who would have wide discretionary executive authority in his own name. This would relieve the Governor a mass of detail. Governor Scott is the first executive to attempt meeting this need by the addition of a full-time "special assistant" in the governor's office. This has alleviated, but not yet cured, the trouble because neither Secretary Marshall nor Special Assistant Ben Romey have much authority in their own right.
SUCCESSOR—Interest around capitol square right now is not in the legalistic phases of the office, but in who will succeed John Marshall as secretary. That is a matter for Governor Scott to handle, without help or suggestion from anybody else. The relationship is so intimate and personal, it is entirely different category from other appointments of department heads and commission. Discussion of probable appointees belongs in the gossip columns, along with who such and such man might marry. Since unmarried public men cannot go around with charming women without getting their names in the newspapers, neither can a Governor pick a new secretary without some advance speculation. And the secretary is essentially a public official, whose salary is paid out of tax collected money. Among the names used in speculation, those most frequently heard are C. A. (Abie) Upchurch, Jr., and Woodrow Price. Upchurch has been closely identified with the Scott administration. He obtained leave of absence from the state payroll to handle publicity for Frank Graham's campaign two years ago and again to handle the same job for Hubert Olive's gubernatorial campaign this year. Price is a well known newspaper man, presently assigned to cover the governor's office and other state departments for the News and Observer.
BUTTERFLIES—The two leading candidates for Governor in the current primary race and their managerial assistants have been reading too many fairy stories. Apparently they have decided that chasing butterflies is more entertaining than making a serious campaign for governor. They seem to agree with the

Business Today

By F. MER ROESSNER
There is a vast difference between American and European concepts of capitalism. Harold F. Clark points out in the May Popular Economics, published by the Institute of Affairs, New York University.
He cites these 10 variations in thinking between American workers and capitalists and European workers and capitalists:
1. The American worker and capitalist believe in mass production, mass markets and mass consumption, while their European counterparts believe in high quality products, high prices and a narrow market.
2. We believe in extremely rapid replacement of machines, plans, process and organization; they cling to what they have.
3. We are always looking for a better process; they prefer older methods.
4. We develop new training courses for all workers; they rely on traditional learning from the job.
5. We believe in using our money after we make it; they are more inclined toward retiring and devoting themselves to cultural pursuits.
6. We believe in devoting much creative energy to economic processes; they put only enough energy into economic processes to make them run.
7. American capitalists run industries themselves; Europeans turn them over to trustees.
8. We advance young men rapidly; they rely on seniority.
9. We believe wages increase depend on increased output; they believe increases must come out of profits.
10. We believe that both wages and profits can be raised; they think that if wages go up, profits will go down.

The big consequence of the American convictions is that the average factory wage in the United States is twice that of the average factory worker in Europe. And the capitalists here aren't doing badly, either.
FURNITURE DEALERS URGED TO CUT STOCKS
Clearance of inventories is being urged on members by the National Retail Furniture Association. Southern manufacturers, it reports, are planning to ship better values at lower prices and retailers with heavy inventories may have to take heavy mark-downs.
DETERGENT SALES GAINING ON SOAP
Although total soap and detergent sales during the first quarter of this year were less than the same quarter last year, sales of synthetic detergents increased. The Association of American Soap & Glycerine Producers reports.
Soap and detergent sales were 17.8 per cent below a year ago, but 10.7 per cent higher than in the last quarter of 1951. But sales of synthetic detergents—"syndets" they are called in the trade—were 6 per cent higher than a year ago and 12 per cent higher than in the fourth 1951 quarter.

U. S. DEBT INTEREST $37 PER PERSON
The federal debt, by the end of the fiscal year on June 30, will amount to $1,660 for each man, woman and child in the United States, according to a calculation by the National Industrial Board. The annual interest alone is $37 a year. In addition, there are state and local debt interest burdens.
Just before World War II, the per capita interest charges were slightly more than $7.
FIRM'S SPECIALTY: UNDERWEAR FOR SUPERS
The extent of supermarkets' interest in non-grocery items is indicated by the fact that one New York company is engaged in manufacturing men's and boys' underwear exclusively for supermarkets and similar mass markets. The company has developed special packaging and display racks. It says markets can put on an average 31 per cent mark-up and still undersell basement stores.

BETTER SHOE SALES IN FALL FORECAST
Pickup in shoe sales this fall was freely predicted at the Popular Price Shoe Show of America in New York this week.
Leading chain store representatives said they were counting on a 5 to 10 per cent rise. Manufacturers said that most retailers had cleaned up their inventories and were in the market for more fresh stocks than usual. In fact, there was so much optimism that one manufacturer of work shoes increased his prices during the course of the show.

Hal Boyle's Column

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Ulcers are what you make them.
The ulcer used to be the Horatio Alger disease. A man started off life poor but healthy, worked hard and honestly, and ended up wealthy—and ulcer-ridden.
An ulcer became a badge of success, particularly in the movie, radio and advertising fields, although industrial leaders were prone to cough them, too. The big gag was: "Even my ulcers are getting ulcers."
But today the ulcer no longer is an internal medal of honor in the struggle to get ahead. Somehow the word got around that ulcers were the product of tension. That immediately made the ulcer the property of the common man. For who in these times doesn't brag about the tension he is under?

Not to have an ulcer now is a kind of rebuke of your way of life, an implication you have been cheating by failing to do your fair share of the general worrying. Even housewives, smarting under the criticism they have a soft touch, are developing more ulcers. Either that or they are just tired of hearing husbands complain about their ulcers.
Such is the prestige of the ulcer in the business world that a friend of mine, stricken by sudden abdominal pains, went bravely and proudly to the hospital for an emergency operation. When he emerged from the anesthetic he learned to his horror that all he had undergone was an appendectomy.
"I was sure it was an ulcer," he said, shame-facedly, and pleaded: "Please don't let the word get around. They'll kid me to death at the office. Nobody but children get appendicitis anymore."
Ulcers are divided into two classes:
1. The social, or fake, ulcer.
2. The true ulcer.

The fake ulcer is by far the most widespread. It is also the better type to have, as it requires little or no medical treatment and has wonderful social advantages. It is a fine excuse to stay home from work. If you are at a party and the host serves post-liquor, you can get out of drinking it. If you are playing poker and get $100 ahead, you can grimace, clutch at your belt, and mutter: "Ugh, my ulcer. Sorry, boys, I'll have to go home."
After you leave some disgruntled loser may grumble, "That lucky darn fool doesn't have the brains to get an ulcer." But he can't prove it. That's the best thing about a social ulcer—people have to take your word for it.
Those who have the true ulcer rarely like to discuss their ailments with fellow sufferers, as that means they have to take turns listening to the other guy's agony. They prefer to talk to those who have never had the malady, just as old soldiers like to show their battle scars to bug-eyed children.

PHILADELPHIA—Esther Glewe Stassen doesn't think it is likely the Stassens will be moving into the White House after next November.
The wife of Harold Stassen, who seeks the Republican nomination, frankly describes this pre-convention period as a "difficult one, because we can't win. It is a lock-up."
Her husband, once leave as President of the University of Pennsylvania, had considered himself a likely compromise GOP candidate in the event of a convention deadlock between Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio) and General Dwight D. Eisenhower. But Stassen predicted only a few days ago that his party will nominate Gov. Earl Warren of California in a deadlock occurs.
It is evident that this turn of events is a disappointment to Mrs. Stassen, not because of personal ambitions, but because she believes her husband would make a good president.
"A slim, trim dark-haired woman, Mrs. Stassen was one of 12 children, grew up amid the busy-burly confusion of a large family, and since her marriage she has been quite consistently in the spotlight, called upon to participate in many public and social activities."
"I don't like large crowds, but I do enjoy meeting people. And contrary to what you might have written about me, I do like politics and I like to talk about it," Mrs. Stassen said.
Esther Stassen was born in Mound, Minn. Henry Glewe, her father, a native of Alsace-Lorraine, ran a grocery store in South St. Paul. The family name is pronounced "glu-we". She used to hedge when asked her age but that was before someone wrote that she was three years older than she is. Now she doesn't mind saying she was 46 May 14.
Harold and Esther were married when she was 23 and they have two children, Glen, 16, and Kathleen, 10.
Mrs. Stassen is interested in painting, drawing and gardening, regularly attends the Philadelphia Orchestra concerts, and is a studios reader.

Chapter 12

"I didn't mean to spy on you," he said quietly. He approached, twigs crackling beneath his steps. He smiled faintly. "I'm Bruce Hall, Dr. Bruce Hall. I have a practice in Tuttleton and I'm the official camp doctor."

"I see. I'm Jane Bancroft, recreation director of Mr. Forsythe's establishment. Oh, do sit down. I don't own this view." Her eyes danced as he did so. "Would it do any good to a say that the wind blew a great deal of dust into my eyes?"

"Yes," he said gravely, his voice rich and resonant. "There is a great deal of dust up here, isn't there?"

He picked up a twig and drew a little line before his feet. He was about thirty-five and seemed to have complete control of himself and his destiny. Maturity was in the firm cast of his lips and self-confidence was in the soft gleaming of his alert gray eyes. He was not handsome in the usual sense of the word. His cheeks were a bit too hollow for that; his eyebrows, sandy, like his hair, were too scraggly. But he had that indefinable something called charm, rugged, masculine charm. It was in his smile, in the sweep of his glance, in the rough-and-ready way he had sat down.

"Forsythe and I are old friends, Miss Bancroft. I think he is the kindest man alive, and he is good enough to think I know a few things about people. So when ever he comes upon a person who interests him for one reason or another, he discusses that person with me. Before you came up, you had quite a long chat about you. You have interested him. He finds it difficult to understand why a person with your war record should be so opposed now to helping people. Helping people happens to be, if you may call it that, a phobia of his. And because of it, he deeply resents it when those able to help people don't help them as he does. You see?"

"It is none of his business," she said curtly. "All he has the right to concern himself about is whether or not I do a good job as his camp director."

"True. We have the right to live our lives without interference from others. Nice lake, don't you agree?"

"Very nice." She hesitated, then, not wishing to seem rude, shrugged matter-of-factly. It's fatigue in a sense, I daresay."

"I can understand it." He jerked his thumb over his shoulder. "I feel that way sometimes. During the war I was the only doctor in Tuttleton. I wanted to go overseas, but I couldn't very well leave the people around here with no doctor, could I? There were times when I wanted to get some fishing tackle together, get into my car and go off for several months of outdoor life. But I did not. I didn't because I felt it was up to those who were able to do the work to stand up to the needs of the hour. I still feel that way. You should feel that way, really."

"It's up to the others," she said sharply. "I've more than justified my reason for being. Now it is time that someone else carried the load."

"They are. In her way Evelyn Moore is and in—"

"She's talked to you!"

There was a pause. Then, meeting her eyes, he nodded. "She was quite upset. She liked you enormously the first time she saw you. And so she was naturally astounded when you behaved in a manner she didn't approve. But not knowing about the attraction George Poppleton had for you overseas—"

"And I for him!"

It was the cry of a woman in pain, the cry of a woman justifying herself. Recognizing it as such, he was very gentle with her more gentle than he would have been perhaps, under other circumstances.

"You might be right," he said quietly. "Personally, I have the idea that you misunderstood the whole thing. I know George Poppleton, I feel I know him quite well. He is perhaps a bit on the weak side, but he has integrity, and deep loyalty. If he had been in love with you he would never have married Leslie. I think, though I hate to put it this way, that you were simply a means of whiling away a certain amount of time."

"How dare you." Quivering with intense rage, she sprang to her feet and glared down at him. "How dare you say that!"

"You are a nurse," he said, speaking more crisply, more bluntly. "You know as well as I do that only an honest diagnosis is of any value. We are members of the same profession; what better way to learn the truth than from a person who is able and willing to help you?"

"You talk as though I were a clinical case. I won't have it, I tell you."

"You prefer to go on being miserable? Rubbish. You have too much common sense for that."

"I would prefer," she said frigidly, "to have people mind their own business."

He accepted it philosophically. In the beginning people always resisted "treatment."

"...Sorry," murmured Evelyn Moore from her cot across the tent. "I don't know you and George were in love overseas."

"Skip it."

The nurse sat up, lovely in her nightgown, very feminine for a pleasant change. "I'll help you, Jane. We'll all help you. I dare say that's the least we can do for a woman who gave so generously and bravely of herself overseas."

"I'm doing quite all right, thank you."

"Just the same, we'll help you—all of us. You'll have it all, decently and honorably. You'll see."

And gradually the moon waxed fuller and fuller and silence descended upon Camp Joy, while the lake gurgled on the shore and a scented breeze passed across the land.

Women In The Church

By MARY FOWLER

Two experienced women missionaries have been added to the staff of Kobe College, oldest college for women in all Japan, by the American Board of Foreign Missions of the Congregational Christian Churches. One is Miss Constance Buell, of Wellesley Hills, Mass., who was one of the last missionaries to leave China, having been "behind the bamboo curtain" under communist rule from 1946 to 1951. The other is Miss Angie Crew of West Milton, Ohio. Miss Crew has been in missionary service in Turkey and in Japan since 1923.

Mrs. James D. Wyker, of Columbia, Missouri, chairman of the Department of United Church Women in the National Council of Churches, is calling upon all church women to "stop rushing around from one activity to another" and give their strength and time to building the moral fibre of the nation and the world. "Women are or should be a part of the world revolution," she said, adding: "Two world wars have left us with the backwash of moral disintegration. There is a tendency to put our faith in bigness, greatness, power, mechanical devices, and military might. This is a time when women need to be at their very best."

In the Protestant church of Indonesia (Reformed), women have long had inferior place—due to their low place in society generally. But in the last few years, says Dr. Visser 't Hooft, general secretary of the World Council of Churches, "women are now accepted in a way that goes far beyond most western churches." "The question is much more than one of opportunity for women to take their just and rightful place in the church," the church leader explains. "It is concerned with the economy of spiritual gifts, as developed in the twelfth chapter of First Corinthians. Diversity of gifts is good and willed by God, all gifts playing together, to form a divine harmony. To this harmony both men and women must learn to contribute their full share and range of talents. We must cooperate in our diversity. To make this possible is a concern of the men as well as the women of the Church."

Realistic, Small Tractor For Boy

DES MOINES, Ia. — (AP) Four-year-old Ronnie Frey has a tractor just like the one belonging to his dad.

It has three speeds forward and one in reverse. The miniature tractor is powered by a half-horsepower washing machine motor.

The pint-sized tractor was made out of old automobile parts and bits of metal. The rear wheels are from an ordinary car.

Streets Become Canal System

SALT LAKE CITY — (AP) — What happens in Salt Lake City's valley-bottom land when mountain streams overrun normal drainage systems and there's no place for the water to run?

They block off certain streets, line them with sandbags and, presto, there's a canal. The system was used with good results in recent spring floods.

Water surged down main avenues en route to the Great Salt Lake while a good portion of the surrounding business and residential lowlands remained bone dry.

Little League baseball is now securely established in Greenville, but is a new thing in several of the other towns in this section of North Carolina. Farmville and Williamston, for instance, are having their first shot at the big-time baseball program for 7-13 year olds.

Farmville started its league program off with a bang several days ago, and is a full-time supporter of Little League. On the other hand, Williamston citizens will get their first look at an official game this afternoon. Williamston parents and supporters have made plans for a gala celebration ceremony, with the Williamston High School Band sharing a major portion of the preparations.

Casey Stengel and Bucky Harris should pat each other on the back, but Harris should probably receive the heartiest congratulations. The two oldtimers were on the sending and receiving ends of a Yankee-Senator trade a few days ago, and so far, the Senators have gotten the most benefit.

Frank Shea, Jackie Jensen, and Archie Wilson all went to the Nats in place of Irv Noren. Shea, who had not even played in a single game for the Yanks, has now won three straight for the rejuvenated Senators. Jensen and Wilson have also turned out to be true major leaguers while playing out of Griffith Stadium.

New York didn't do so badly, however, in acquiring Noren. Stengel agreed to the big deal in order to get some power in centerfield to replace the retired Joe DiMaggio, but fate decided to step in and take a hand. Soon after Noren reported to his club, first baseman Johnny Mize, Johnny Hopp, and Joe Collins each came up with an injury. Yep, that was the call for Noren to take over first base for the World Champions.

Evidently, Noren agreed with the infield spot, taking in several fielding opportunities with flawless ease and banging out a home run and a game-winning single in his first exhibition at first. Noren had previously hit a meager .22 for the Yanks.

The 1953 schedule of Men's Softball was slated to have gotten underway yesterday afternoon. A lot of hard work on the part of the players and interested supporters has gone into the league this year, and plenty of good softball is expected to be seen at the Third Street School park.

Lights have been ordered for a softball field, and should be here in a few days. City Recreation Director Warren Carroll announced last week that the lights would be installed as soon as possible.

Incidentally, the recreation department is also planning a softball league for girls. So if you girls want to play too, get in touch with Carroll at the armory.

Duke's baseball team just about captured all of the titles to be had in the Big Four Baseball League this year. The Blue Devils came out on top in team play with a 10-2 record, after tying North Carolina last year.

For the second year in a row, Duke players won the individual batting and pitching records. Benny Cavaliere, a pit-sized centerfielder, led the league in batting with a .438 mark in eleven games, while senior righthander Bob Davis took the pitching championship with a 5-0 record.

Incidentally, Joe Lewis was close behind Davis with a 5-1 mark. Lewis, also from Duke, won the championship last year. Dick Groat won three of the individual titles—most hits, most doubles, and most runs batted in. He also batted a hefty .364. Dick Johnson, another Blue Devil star, led in the most runs scored. Duke had a 320 mark for the team batting during the season.

Remember, parents, you are invited to attend a Pony League meeting tonight at the armory. Ty W. ner, president of the league and of its sponsor, the Greenville Automotive Association, will be there to explain the league requirements and the responsibility of the parents in making it a success.

Bobo Gets Chance
NEW YORK (UP)—Matchmaker Teddy Brenner offered middleweight Carl (Bobo) Olson of Hawaii another fight today at the Eastern Parkway Arena on June 2 or 16 because of his impressive New York debut at the Arena last night. Olson, a surprisingly good boxer-puncher, scored an upset technical knockout over Walter Cartier of New York at 1:01 of the fifth round. Each weighed 163 1/2 pounds. Cartier, favored at 7-5, was floored for a count of nine by a straight right to the button at the close of the fourth round. And he was given such a severe battering in the fifth that referee Ray Miller stopped the bout.

Bosox Win 3-2, Continue To Move Upward

Old-Timers Lead Win; Bucs Lose 4-0 To New York

By CARL LUNDQUIST
United Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (UP)—Lou Boudreau put his rollicking Red Sox back in the running today by switching to his home park line-up on the road after his road gang had previously crossed things up by winning consistently at home.

The new Boston crew, which in reality was the old veterans going back into action, put the Red Sox into a virtual second place tie with Washington yesterday with a 3 to 2 decision over Tiger ace Art Houtteman at Detroit.

And for the second day the veterans came through with timely hitting to produce a victory. The only youngster to star in the production was rookie pitcher Bill Henry, who got his fifth victory against but one defeat, although two old timers, Ellis Kinder and Mel Parnell, had to help him out with relief pitching stints.

Boston clinched things in the seventh when Don Lenhardt doubled and went to third as Vernon Stephens singled. Clyde Volmer scored Lenhardt with a fly. Billy Goodman, back in at second base, singled and a fly by Walt Droppo scored Stephens with the winning run.

Boudreau's "new" infield consisted of Johnny Peaky at third, Stephens at short and Goodman at second. Rookies Jimmy Piersall at short and Ted Lepcio at second rode the bench.

What made this somewhat remarkable is that Boudreau's original plan had been to use the old timers at home where their power hitting in the dinky little Fenway Park has produced such murderous run production in other years.

But when the season began and the youngsters—Piersall, Lepcio, catcher Sammy White, and outfielder Faye Throneberry—performed brilliantly, he had no choice but to leave them in the line up.

Then they went into a prolonged slump which began when they lost three in a row to the Yankees here. Boudreau, who had counted on the kids' speed, decided he would have to let them rest a while and put the oldsters in instead.

In the only other game played and completed yesterday, New York Giant ace Sal Maglie blanked the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4 to 0, for his seventh straight victory this year without a loss and his 10th straight in a two-season skein.

Bobby Thomson drove in all of the runs with a double and two singles, giving him a total of 28 runs batted in for the year.

It was the 13th straight time Maglie had defeated the Bucs and the shutout reduced his earned run average to a remarkable 1.01.

The victory put the Giants back into a first place tie with the Dodgers, who struggled with the Cubs and the rain for six innings before their game was called with the score 1-all.

The St. Louis Cardinals and Philadelphia Phillies were rained out at Philadelphia in the other game scheduled.

Record Number Of Entries For Open
NEW YORK (UP)—An all-time record of approximately 1,700 entries have been filed for this year's U. S. Open golf championship tournament, the United States Golf Association announced today.

Previous high was 1,511 entries last year. Entries for this year's tournament closed at midnight Sunday. But the final total still is subject to a final, nationwide re-check. Out of this huge field, only 162 players actually will tee off in the first round of the open at the Northwood Club, Dallas, Tex., June 12. Twenty-nine of these berths are reserved for former champions, the reigning amateur and PGA champions, and the low scorers in last year's tournament. That leaves only 133 places to be competed for by the other 1,671 entrants.

The field will be narrowed by 28 sectional qualifying tournaments, 27 of them to be played on Monday, June 2. The other will be played on Monday, May 26, at Honolulu.

Softball League Opens As V.C. Chemicals Triumph

A slightly different story than what was expected started the City Softball League off yesterday afternoon. V. C. Chemicals, a newcomer to the softball circles, walloped the Greenville Mills in its first game, 25-6.

Every man on the winning club scored at least one run apiece, and all but player collected at least one hit. V. C. Chemicals pounded out a total of 20 hits during the five-inning game, with four of them going for extra bases. Ralph Picklesimer led the power-hitting with a home run and a triple in five times at bat, while Joe Dudley slammed out a triple and Bill Darby collected a double.

The winners scored six runs in the first inning, scored at will in the second as 17 men went to bat for 13 runs, and then added one in the third, four in the fourth, and one in the fifth.

Otto Alford went the distance on the mound for the winners, allowing but six hits to the Mills.

Two players for V. C. Chemicals collected three or more hits. Dudley led the hitting with a perfect four for four, and scored four runs, while Johnny Farley picked up three hits in five times up. Six men got two safeties apiece in the wild slugfest.

Duke Leads Team In Southern; 18 Members Chosen
GREENSBORO (AP)—Duke's Blue Devils, who had to win three games Saturday to clinch the Southern Conference baseball championship for the second successive year, dominate the all-star squad announced today by the Southern Conference Sportswriters Association.

The champs placed five men on the 18-man squad chosen by the newsmen. With the conference playing in Northern and Southern divisions over the regular season, it was decided to vote on the same basis. Nine Northern and nine Southern stars were named to the team.

Aside from Duke's heavy representation, no team won more than two positions. The nine top vote getters in each division were named to the squad, regardless of position.

The talent-packed Dukes placed Dick Groat, shortstop; Bill Werber, first baseman; Joe Lewis, pitcher, and Red Smith and Dick Johnson, outfielders, on the team. Groat and Werber were among the five in 1951 choices to repeat. Others were Chalmers Port, North Carolina pitcher; Duke Wellington, West Virginia catcher, and Bon Ciento, George Washington shortstop.

One freshman, South Carolina's husky catcher Emmet Dietz, made the squad.

Preview Of Cage Team To Be Held Wednesday Night

The game is sponsored by the Greenville High Monogram Club, and a slight admission will be charged. Proceeds go to the club for the purchase of monogrammed jackets.

Members of the high school team to play are: Jimmy Cheatham, Doug Morgan, Smith Worthington, Bobby Conway, Bobby Perry, Fred Fields, Pat Sawyer, Bob Howell, George Sieder, and will be coached by Bo Farley.

Seniors who will play are: Joe Rowland, Sid Briley, Sonny Scott, Leon Moore, Wallace Conway and Fletcher Murray.

Game time is set for 7:30 p.m.

Matthews Takes Decision Fight

PORTLAND, Ore (UP)—Harry (Kid) Matthews catapulted his chances for a shot at the heavyweight crown with a unanimous 10-round decision over Rex Layne of Lewiston, Utah, last night before a sellout crowd of 10,600.

Matthews, 15 pounds lighter and six years older, started slowly but gained strength to leave a Layne bleeding from his left eye and lip as the fight ended. Matthews was unmarked.

The Seattle heavy, 183 1-2, with a hard one-two in the second round. Layne, 23, shot the first telling punch of the fight in the first round with a crumpling left that slammed the 29-year-old Seattle fighter into the ropes. But Matthews rallied and never was in trouble again. He repeatedly jolted Layne with a short left jab which had him visibly tired after the fourth round. The next four rounds were slow with the Utah fighter jabbing and then holding.

Five runs in the fifth inning enabled the Jaycees to take their fourth win of the season yesterday afternoon by downing the Elks, 11-6, in a free-swinging Little League contest.

The Jaycees scored the five runs without the benefit of a base hit, as the Elks generously issued four bases on balls and committed two errors. They added two more runs in the sixth to insure the victory.

The losing Elks started a rally in the last inning that saw them push across five runs on five hits and two walks. Joe Moyer singled to start the inning, Milton Harrington walked, and the next two men were retired. The fireworks really started then, however, as Smith walked and William Davis, Bob Bilbro, Oscar Stoneham and Merrill Bynum singled in succession. Moyer finally ended the inning by grounding out, pitcher to first, in his second time up during the inning.

Jayne records now place them well out in front in the league race, with a 4-1 mark. Exchange is second with a 2-1 record.

The Exchange and Moose are scheduled to play this afternoon at the Little League Park at 5:30. The box:

Whispering Campaign Aimed At Chief Of FBI

By LYLE C. WILSON
 WASHINGTON (UP) — A whispering campaign which never dies, an undercover operation which never rests, is directed at booting Director J. Edgar Hoover out of the FBI.

The ordinary run of yeggs and hoodlums probably would be in favor of ousting Hoover. He makes things tough for them. But they have nothing to do with the campaign to get him out of office and to cut the FBI down to the size and scope of operation desired by its real enemies.

These enemies are Communists, fellow travelers, and deluded left-wingers. Communists and fellow travelers want Hoover booted because he interferes with their subversive activities, plants spies in their treason cells, and enforces the government from time to time to send them to jail.

So the Communist party line is that J. Edgar Hoover and the FBI are the enemies of civil liberties in the United States. Not only Communists peddle this story. It is told in strange places. Once in a while the comrades think they have Hoover on the run and one of their front organizations comes up with a public campaign to oust him.

The National Lawyers Guild is subject to such seizures. The National Lawyers Guild is described by the House un-American Activities Committee as "just one more highly deceptive Communist operated front organization, primarily intended to serve the interests of the Communist Party in the United States."

Not much has been heard of the oust-Hoover movement of late. A great many Americans are enlisted for the duration in a solid effort to bat that movement down anytime, anywhere. All hands, then would be interested in a booklet just reprinted from the Iowa Law Review (Iowa City, Ia.).

It is "Civil Liberties and Law Enforcement: The Role of the FBI." The author: J. Edgar Hoover.

"Here is America's great problem today," Hoover wrote, "to maintain the basic civil liberties of the individual, which are the foundation stones of free government, yet, at the same time, to protect the security of the nation."

In 20 pages Hoover states his philosophy of liberty, the law, and the enforcement thereof. The booklet is recommended reading for everybody — especially those innocents who have listened to the phony walls of the Communist Party line.

Army Mules Are Enjoying Luxury

WASHINGTON — (UP) — The Army can't even give away its mules abroad because they are used to too high a standard of living.

That conclusion was reached after hearings before a House appropriations subcommittee. The "good life" has resulted in the virtual abandonment of mules as pack animals and transporters of mountain artillery, according to Maj. Gen. W. O. Reeder, deputy assistant chief of staff.

The subcommittee learned from Reeder that in other countries, the American Army is at a considerable disadvantage in using American mules. It has been principally because the mules "are accustomed to the same high standard of living as we are."

As an example, the subcommittee heard that when a shipment of mules arrived in India, it was impossible to give them away because they ate more than any man except possibly a wealthy man. When asked how horses exist in the Orient, Reeder added that rich men have horses, "but they train them not to eat."

The army's chief mule buyer, Maj. L. O. Hill, of the quartermaster corps' remount branch, added that the 95 mules that the Army hopes to buy in fiscal 1953 will cost $200 each.

Speech Students Stage Program At Lions Club

Three speech students from Greenville High School presented a program before the members of the Greenville Lions Club last night.

The trio were introduced by speech activity advisor, R. B. Starling, who was in charge of the program.

All three of the speech students have been active in speech work this year in Greenville high school events winning honors in various contests, Starling pointed out.

They were Lula Mayo, Doug Mitchell and Betty Lou Small.

President Jimmie Harris presided over the supper session.

A board of directors meeting was held following the regular meeting for routine business.

Truman And Top Brass Honor Academy Today

WEST POINT, N. Y. — (UP) — The United States Military Academy celebrated the 150th anniversary of its founding today with President Truman among its distinguished guests.

A colorful jubilee convocation climaxing the sesquicentennial, the President will address an audience composed of cadets, top military figures, educators and foreign dignitaries.

Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and Dr. Karl T. Compton, head of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, will share the speaker's platform with Mr. Truman.

Before returning to Washington late this afternoon, Mr. Truman will tour the academy, eat lunch with the cadets, watch them as they parade in his honor and receive a gift from West Point.

The President left Washington by train on his first trip by rail since he attended the 1950 Army-Navy football game. It was his first visit to the academy since 1946.

He was accompanied by Army Secretary Frank Pace Jr.; Navy Secretary Dan A. Kimball, Air Force Secretary Thomas K. Finletter; Gen. J. Lawton Collins, Army chief of staff; Adm. William M. Fechteler, chief of naval operations; Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, supreme commander-designate of North Atlantic Treaty Organization forces, and Mrs. Ridgway.

The President had planned to fly here but threatening weather forced him to make the journey by train.

Mr. Truman's private car and communications coach were being overhauled, so the President rode in a Baltimore Ohio railroad office car normally used by rail executives.

The luxurious car, linked to ordinary railroad coaches, is equipped with a lounge, drawing rooms and compartments. Mr. Truman had his own bathroom, dining room and kitchen.

West Point, nestling on a bluff by green clad mountains and overlooking a broad expanse of the majestic Hudson River, took on a festive air for the climax of its celebration.

More than 1,000 guests were gathered here—ambassadors from a dozen countries, heads of 250 American colleges and universities and representatives of 45 foreign educational institutions and 20 foreign military academies.

The visitors rubbed shoulders with snappy looking gray-uniformed cadets and spick and polished Army officers and enlisted men.

They strolled along tree-lined walks over the same route once trod by Gen. Douglas MacArthur, Dwight D. Eisenhower and other military greats who began their

Monday's Cases In Police Court

By CHESTER WALSH
 In Police Court Monday, Judge Charles H. Whedbee told a defendant charged with being drunk, that he had better go to work and work steadily at his carpenter's trade.

He gave Clyde Whitfield, 47-year-old carpenter, 30 days in jail or pay $15, and warned him that contractors and others are advertising for carpenters and paying good wages. The judge advised Whitfield, a frequent defendant in Police Court, that he had better get a job quick.

The court imposed $15 fines on three Negroes who were charged with possession of non-tax paid whiskey at Guy Smith Stadium Sunday afternoon. They are Clem Jones, James A. Hines and Hardy Williams. Police arrested the men in the rest room at the ball park.

Woodrow Smith of Winterville, charged with driving while drunk and operating a motor vehicle to the left of center of highway requested a jury trial. Judge Whedbee transferred the case to Superior Court.

Lou Langley, Negro, 1306-A Fairfax Avenue was taxed with $10 on court costs for larceny of clothing from Little Mae Joyner, Negro, a boarder in her home. Testimony was that the woman took possession of the clothes to hold in default of some board money Little Mae Joyner owed her. She returned the clothing, it was testified. The Langley woman was to pay the $10 or serve 30 days in jail. The court's judgment also provides that she is to remain of good behavior for a year.

Gordon F. Taylor, careless and reckless driving, fined $25, costs deducted, and he is not to operate a motor vehicle for a week.

Jonas Haughton, Negro, found guilty of gambling, was fined $5, and the $1.50 police confiscated in the game, was ordered turned over to the county school fund. Police testified that others in the crap game disappeared $100.

Drunk: Robert E. Cox, $10; Clarence Powell, Negro, $15; Earl Jenkins, Negro, (and disorderly), $10 fine.

Must Serve At Least Part Of Prison Sentence

RALEIGH — (AP) — Samuel F. Smith, 18, of Stokes County must serve at least part of an eight-month prison sentence for the death of a girl friend in a highway accident.

Paroles Commissioner T. C. Johnson said yesterday both Judge J. A. Rousseau and Solicitor Walter E. Johnston Jr. have opposed pleas that the sentence be suspended.

Judge Rousseau, who presided when Smith was convicted in Forsyth County Superior Court last April, delayed the start of the sentence until June 2 to allow the youth to graduate from Rural Hall High School. Smith was convicted of involuntary manslaughter in the death of Ann Ogburn.

Petitions signed by more than 1,800 Stokes and Forsyth County residents were presented recently in an effort to have the sentence suspended.

Flatirons Still Being Produced

BOYERTOWN, Pa. — (AP) — One of the oldest iron works in the country still is turning off flatirons for faraway places.

The Colebrookdale Iron Co., was founded in the early 1700's and the blacksmith shop that is still used was one of the original buildings. Until 1929 Colebrookdale's principal product was the old-fashioned iron that must be heated on top of the stove. With the introduction of electrical heated irons Colebrookdale turned to other products.

But order "I abound for irons from some who live in parts of this country where there is no electrical service, and from many foreign countries. A boon to the flatiron business has been a recent fad to use the irons for door-stops, book ends and desk ornaments.

William B. Keely, head of the firm, recently emptied his warehouse of irons to fill orders from gift shops in New York and other cities. There the irons were painted black and decorated with Pennsylvania-Dutch symbols.

BERN, Switzerland — (AP) — The Swiss federal government has warned cantonal authorities that they must grant no oil concessions to foreign companies which would prejudice Switzerland's national independence or neutrality.

Yugoslavia Has Trade Troubles

BEIGRADE — (AP) — Yugoslavia, juggling its available raw materials for export cash and domestic demands, has run into trade troubles with Sweden.

Yugopress, a semi-official news agency, claims the difficulty stems chiefly from the "exaggerated prices" quoted for Swedish wood-pulp and paper, adding they run 100 per cent higher than offers from other sources.

In all cases, suits were brought on grounds of two years separation, and all were granted before noon yesterday. The remainder of the day was taken up with argument civil cases other than divorces.

Judge Hatch said yesterday this week's term of court will probably end Wednesday afternoon. Judge John J. Burney is scheduled to preside over the second week which begins Monday, May 26.

Divorces granted yesterday are: White — Audrey L. Porter vs Carl Rex Porter; Dicy Evans vs Jessie L. Evans; Wilbur F. Harris vs Mavis Jones Harris; Clyde Braxton vs Elbert Lee Braxton; and Bow Robertson vs William Taylor Robertson.

ECC Alumni Secretary Addresses Rotary Club On Need Of Scholarship Fund

By WYATT BROWN

"We will have no failure among youth if we show we are behind them," declared James W. Butler, secretary of the East Carolina College Alumni, in his address to the Greenville Rotary Club last night about the Pitt County Memorial Scholarship Fund. He pointed out that backing up the Foundation would evidence of the adults being behind the youth of the future.

Following this theme, Butler stated that it is the obligation of adults to do something for the youth who face the challenge of a new era today. He further stated that Rotary Clubs throughout the county have taken hold of the undation idea in a very encouraging way. The Greenville Club is all representative of the executive board of the Fund.

In the outset Butler said the people of Greenville have been taking the college for granted not realizing what the institution means economically to the community. East Carolina expends one million dollars a year around the clock and the students spend large amounts each term according to a survey made by the Business Administration Department of the College.

Since the opening of East Carolina in 1909 the student enrollment has grown from a handful to a total in excess of 4,800 if extension courses and summer school are included. The extension work extends from Raleigh to Elizabeth City all over Eastern North Carolina.

Among other items to indicate the growth of the College, Butler told of attracting a student of outstanding talent to the music department. The student recently won a national piano competition. Graduates are being placed with the biggest corporations following training at East Carolina. Families are choosing Greenville because of its outstanding graded schools and East Carolina College.

Enrollment exceeded rooming facilities last year and March of this year found every available room taken.

The people of Greenville, he went on to say, are being afforded an opportunity to participate in the Foundation which has a $100,000 goal. All civic groups are being reached and renewed interest is being found.

"We people in Eastern North Carolina believe in East Carolina College, and we do not want this proposition to fall down. There are acres of diamonds right across Fifth Street from us," he declared in conclusion.

Prior to the talk by Mr. Butler, the Rotarians heard from Mrs. J. K. Long, Girl Scout Commissioner, who came to bring the Rotarians up to date on Girl Scout Camp Hardee which is one of the Rotarians most important projects. She reported the best year of camp ever, last year and prospects for an even better camp this year. Already two terms are fully booked. Registrations for the

College Is Investigating Disorder Friday Night

The epidemic of "Spring Fever" actions in a number of colleges hit East Carolina College last Friday night but not to such a degree as has occurred in other colleges.

The serenity of campus life at night was disturbed in the vicinity of Wilson and Slay Halls Friday night when a number of male students closely followed what has been happening in college campuses all over the nation.

Boys at ECC didn't pull any raids on girls' dormitories but took care of their own dormitories. Students in Wilson Hall, plus a number of town students and boys who are believed not to be students, began pulling pillows apart, breaking a number of chairs, and emptying wastebaskets, in the halls with pulling the phone booth off the wall and knocking a small hole in the beaverboard partition of Wilson which separated the men's rooms from the women students' rooms.

There were indications of a large scale pillow fight in Slay Hall and emptied wastebaskets. Exploding firecrackers in and outside Slay helped add to the commotion.

Business Manager F. D. Duncan of the college stated that not much damage was done from the standpoint of dollars and cents but college officials are investigating the disturbance.

The Dean of Men at ECC has declined to reassign boys rooms for next fall until the investigation is complete and the persons responsible are identified. Disciplinary action on the disturbance will be taken, college officials stated.

Firemen Attend Annual Seminar

Fire Chief George Gardner and Assistant Chief Jasper Jones left yesterday for Charlotte where they will attend the 24th annual fire college and drill school being held there this week.

The two veteran Greenville firemen will return to the city sometime Thursday or early Friday, at the close of the drill school.

This year, the school is expected to draw over 500 firemen from all parts of North Carolina and other southern states. The school officials will conduct classes, discussions and practical demonstrations on the latest firefighting techniques and methods of fire prevention.

Curtis Flanagan of Farmville, president of the North Carolina State Fire Men's Association officially opened the four-day school yesterday afternoon with his welcoming address.

Official Denies Role In Robbery

BOSTON — (AP) — Deputy Police Supt. James F. Daley today branded as a "liar and faker" ex-convict Alfred A. Gagnon, who said he was one of the planners of the fabulous $1,219,000 Brink's robbery.

Gagnon of Pawtucket, R. I., named himself, Carlotta M. O'Brien, Warwick, R. I., roadhouse owner, and Joseph F. McGinnis, former convict and Boston night club owner, as the planners of the nation's biggest cash haul.

He is held in Rhode Island State Prison awaiting trial on a charge of attempted robbery of a Providence diamond merchant.

O'Brien, 49, was slain in gangland fashion Saturday morning in front of his home. Two shotgun blasts sufficed on his life.

Daley made the accusation from an angry answer to charges from Rhode Island Atty. Gen. William E. Powers that Boston police showed a lack of interest in information they had obtained indicating that the O'Brien slaying was tied up with the Jan. 17, 1950, Brink's hold-up.

"This man Gagnon wasn't within 1,200 miles of Boston at any time from November, 1949, prior to the Brink's holdup, to March 5,

Truck Is Heavily Damaged In Hit And Run Crash

Greenville police are continuing their investigation of a hit-and-run collision of two trucks at First and Greene streets in which one vehicle was damaged to the extent of $1,000.

Authorities quoted Jarvis R. Anderson, 1112 West Fourth street, as saying he was following a GMC truck loaded with beans. On approaching the intersection the vegetable truck ahead applied brakes suddenly, and the dump truck collided with the rear of it. Anderson told police the driver of the GMC truck fled the scene after the collision.

Traffic Sgt. H. B. Lilley said the damaged truck belongs to White Construction Company of Kingston. The driver was not injured. Police are following a clue as to the identity of the hit-run driver discovered shortly after the collision.

Detroit Speech Is Planned For Ike

By RAYMOND LAHR
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP) — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's campaign strategists are making plans for the general to deliver a major address in Detroit on or about June 17 it was learned today.

Informed sources said it is "definite" that Eisenhower will make a June appearance in the motor city, but that the exact date is not yet "firm."

The Detroit speech could be one of Eisenhower's most important undertakings before the Republican convention opens July 7. Present plans call for him to return from Europe in time for a June 4-5 appearance at his home town of Abilene, Kan., followed by an indefinite schedule that indicates at least two or three major speeches. Supporters of both Eisenhower and his chief rival for the GOP nomination, Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-O), eye Michigan as a key state this year.

Besides wanting to capture the state's hefty bloc of electoral votes, the GOP especially wants to knock off Sen. Blair Moody (D-Mich), a prime Republican target in the November voting.

Meantime, on the Democratic side, President Truman accepted an invitation to serve as a delegate-at-large from Missouri at the party's national convention.

Mr. Truman accepted the offer from John J. Nangle, Democratic national committeeman from Missouri, to join his home state delegation.

However, the President repeated what he told his news conference last week — that he would not show up at the convention until the Democrats have chosen their presidential nominee.

Party interest also focused on the May 27 showdown for Florida convention delegates between Sens. Richard B. Russell and Estes Kefauver. Russell defeated Kefauver in the state's recent preferential primary.

But the Georgia senator, concerned over activity by Kefauver backers, revealed plans to revisit Florida for a two or three-day stand to confer with his leaders and firm up his bid for a majority of the state's convention delegates. Russell backers concede privately that Kefauver may take a few of the state's 24 delegates.

In other political developments: 1. Supporters of Vice President Alben W. Barkley for the Democratic nomination stuck by their plans to keep the 74-year-old "Veep" from becoming an open candidate, despite a kickoff endorsement from his native Kentucky.

They want to sit back and "see what happens," as one put it. But Barkley will be available if the convention wants him for the top party spot.

2. Republicans looked for a bitter battle between Taft and Eisenhower backers today for Montana's eight GOP convention votes. Some leaders expected a divided GOP delegation.

The Democrats, also meeting in Montana today, showed mainly a lack of concerted enthusiasm. That highlighted the possibility of an un-instructed delegation from Montana for the first time in 24 years. Twenty Democratic convention votes were at stake.

3. Perry W. Howard of Mississippi, only Negro Republican national committeeman, challenged anyone "within the District of Columbia" to debate him on his belief that Taft is the best candidate for the interests of his race.

Howard's Mississippi GOP organization faces a challenge from Eisenhower backers over "official" recognition at the July Republican convention. Howard won a similar test in 1948.

Republicans And State Dept. In Torrid Dispute

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Republican National Committee acknowledged today that it has circulated copies of a magazine article accusing Secretary of State Dean Acheson of heading a "pro-Soviet cabal" in the State Department.

In a blistering, 27-page counter-attack, the department assailed the article last night as a collection of "half-truths, misrepresentations and total falsehoods."

The article, carried in the April issue of the American Mercury magazine, charged that Acheson has hurt rather than helped the cause of freedom.

The department explained that it took the unusual step of issuing a formal reply because a "private organization" was circulating reprints of the article. It said it was necessary "to confront mendacity with truth and fact."

A spokesman said the GOP National Committee has distributed "several hundred copies perhaps" but denied that the reprints are being circulated widely or that they are being used as campaign literature.

It was learned that Felix Wittmer, who wrote the article, is a member of the National Citizens Committee for Taft. But a spokesman said Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-O) is not using it in his campaign for the GOP presidential nomination. Whatever the distribution of the reprints, it was clear the State Department's elaborate rebuttal was designed to spike a possible new campaign against Acheson that might embarrass the Democratic administration in the coming elections.

He said the secretary served as Stalin's lawyer in the 1930s, that he headed a "pro-Soviet" clique that included Alger Hiss, pulled strings in favor of U. S. aid for Chinese Communist troops, "forced delivery" of lend-lease supplies to Russia after the war, and that he abandoned Asia to the Communists.

Mrs. Turnage Looks On As Lester Wins Statewide Honor

Merchants Applauded Administration Critics

RALEIGH (AP) — An address by the president of the Florida Merchants Association was one of the program highlights today as the North Carolina Merchants Association wound up its 50th anniversary convention.

The approximately 500 delegates heard J. E. Saltz of St. Petersburg speak on "Merchant Participation in Governmental Affairs" at a morning session.

J. C. Penney, founder and chairman of the board of the J. C. Penney Co., was scheduled as the main speaker at a banquet session tonight, ending the two-day convention.

The association's directors were slated to elect new officers at a luncheon meeting. Panel discussions were planned during the afternoon.

At yesterday's opening session, the merchants heard speakers lambast the administration, price controls, high taxes and inflation.

And the merchants applauded loudly when Rowland W. Jones, president of the American Retail Federation, told them a Republican victory in November would be the best thing for the country.

Jones criticized the administration for failing to put in price controls in the summer of 1950, and went into effect in January, 1951, they have "done more harm than good."

A. C. Kimbrell of Charlotte, head of a large furniture chain, urged the merchants to get into politics and "get this mess in Washington cleaned up." "The time has arrived," he declared, "when you must either enter politics actively, or you will have no business."

Fodie H. Hodges (above) has been re-elected by the school district board of Chicod to serve as principal of the Chicod School again this year.

This will be Hodges' third year as principal of the school.

He graduated from East Carolina College with an A. B. Degree and received his Master's Degree from the University of North Carolina. Before becoming principal, Hodges taught in the county schools at Belvoir, Grifton, and Grimesland.

The school has made progress under Hodges' administration and at the present time is undergoing a building program. The building program calls for two new classrooms, toilets, and dressing rooms in the gym.

LANE (UP) — U. S. Atty. Myles J. Lane has filed papers opposing a new trial for Alger Hiss, former State Department officer now serving a prison term for perjury.

Lane termed Hiss' motion for a new trial based on claims of recently discovered evidence as "frivolous" and "sheer speculation" in papers filed yesterday in Federal Court.

Hiss, now serving a five-year prison term for denying to a federal grand jury he passed secret documents to former spy courier Whitaker Chambers, asked a new trial on grounds he had been framed by a forged typewriter.

Lane said there was no credible evidence that Chambers' famed "pumpkin papers" were typed on a machine constructed by him to produce typing identical with the Hiss Woodstock machine which was a key piece of evidence in the earlier trial.

The motion was scheduled to be argued June 2.

Starts Tonight

Members of the Greenville Exchange Club will make a door-to-door canvass of the city tonight (Tuesday) for the sale of five-packet bundles of napkins for a dollar each.

President Bill Riggins said money derived from sale of napkins will be used to purchase an audiometer, an instrument for testing hearing. It will be used in Greenville and Pitt County schools to detect defective hearing among children.

School and public health officials say many backward children improve in their school work after something is done to improve their hearing.

New Paper Tried For Newspapers

SAVANNAH, Ga. (UP) — The Cuban inventor of a cost-cutting process for making newsprint from sugar cane waste called it a success today after a trial run on the presses of the Savannah Morning News.

Joaquin de La Rosa said newsprint from sugar cane waste can be produced for only $66.92 a ton, while Canadian newsprint now sells for $125 a ton following a $10-a-ton price hike last week.

The News printed more than 1,000 one-page inserts for part of its regular Tuesday editions in a first press run using full speed and tension. Pressmen declared enthusiastically that the new paper withstood tension well under regular publication conditions.

The News already had made shorter test runs.

De La Rosa, who has worked on the process since 1918, said at Cuba's present sugar cane production rate the Caribbean country could turn out 4,000,000 tons of newsprint a year.

Warehousemen Of 5 States At Pinehurst Meet

PINEHURST, N. C. —(AP)— Warehousemen from five states studied problems relating to flue-cured tobacco marketing today as the Bright Belt Warehouse Association continued its eighth annual convention.

Several speakers, including James E. Thiesen, head of the tobacco branch of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, were scheduled to address the meeting. A report on the work of Tobacco Associates, Inc., was slated to be given by M. A. Morgan of Raleigh, director of field service for the organization.

The association's board of governor's was due to elect officers at a meeting today. The three-day convention comes to a close tomorrow.

At yesterday's opening sessions, the warehousemen heard from Fred S. Royster of Henderson, president of the association, and L. T. Weeks of Raleigh, general manager of the Flue-Cured Tobacco Stabilization Corp.

Royster called for a cut of at least 15 or 20 per cent in the 1952 flue-cured tobacco crop. He also urged that sufficient personnel be provided to operate all the markets in the tied area—markets in the Carolinas and Virginia—at the same time.

Consumption of cigarette-type tobacco may fall below production marks of 1961 and 1952, Royster said in urging a cut in 1952 quotas. If conditions develop to justify a larger crop, quotas may be increased, but cannot be reduced once they are set, he explained.

The quotas will be announced before growers vote in mid-July on whether to continue the quota system for another three years.

Operating all markets in the tied area "is the only way to achieve justice for growers and warehousemen," Royster asserted.

Weeks told the association the Stabilization Corporation has paid the government almost eight million dollars in interest since it was organized in 1946. The organization has borrowed $7 million dollars from the Commodity Credit Corp., of the U. S. Department of Agriculture to stabilize tobacco prices on the auction floor, he added.

Warehousemen attending the sessions are from Florida, Georgia, the Carolinas and Virginia—the five states in which flue-cured tobacco is grown.

Pitt County Home Agent Attends Meeting In D.C.

Mrs. Amelia S. Capehart, Negro home agent for Pitt county the past 10 years, has returned from Washington, D. C., where she attended an important meeting at which President Truman spoke.

It was the sixth annual "honor awards ceremony" held in the Sylvan Theater on the Mall near the Washington Monument. One hundred and forty Agriculture Department employees received achievement awards.

"President, Truman, in his address to several thousand agriculture department employees, defended his farm program as a crusade for economic strength, and he classified criticisms of the program as pure bunk and 'hokum,'" Mrs. Capehart stated.

In his speech, the President described farmers and their neighbors in market towns as the "backbone of our whole free society." She said the president declared with emphasis, "I am one of them, and I want you to know that. As soon as I am through being president of the United States, I am going back to the farm," he stated.

Mrs. Capehart said two members of the North Carolina Extension Staff were among the 74 persons who received "superior service awards" from the U. S. Department of Agriculture in Washington. They are Miss Rose Elwood Bryan, extension economist in food conservation and marketing, of Raleigh, and Mrs. Carrie S. Wilson Negro home agent in Alamance county. The awards include silver medals and certificates. U. S. Department of Agriculture Secretary Charles F. Brannan presented the awards.

The U. S. Marine band provided music for the meeting. A tea during the afternoon and a tour of the Capital City concluded the day's activities.

Canned Goods To Get Price Boost

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Prices in many grocery stores go up 1 to 2 cents a can today on some canned vegetables, fruits and juices. Housewives can expect increases soon on a large variety of other foods.

The Office of Price Stabilization said it was granting the higher prices on vegetables, fruits and juices to compensate wholesalers for "markedly lower earnings."

Under this order come canned corn, green beans, peas, tomatoes, tomato juice, canned fruit cocktail, pineapple, peaches and pears.

OPS said most independent stores will be affected but few chain stores will be, since they normally buy direct from producers rather than from wholesalers.

The agency said it may issue before the end of this month an order permitting retailers to increase their markups on such foods as concentrated coffee, dry cereals, cookies and many canned meats. Canned tuna and salmon would be excepted.

British Businessmen In China 'Surrender'

By PHIL NEWSOM
United Press Foreign News Editor

British business concerns in China are throwing in the towel.

The first result is that they will abandon assets valued unofficially at nearly one billion dollars. The final result may spread well beyond the borders of Red China, and in fact become worldwide.

The news must have sent a shiver of apprehension through Hong Kong, the British crown colony standing at the gateway to China.

It must have caused serious discussion in Tokyo where it would be realized that the diversion of British commercial energies from China would give the Japanese serious competition in the markets of Thailand, Indo-China, Indonesia, Burma and India.

It must have brought a grim victory smile in Moscow and Peking.

Conversely, it could bring about even closer cooperation between the United States and Britain in Asia.

And in Britain itself it could foreshadow an even greater cleavage between the Conservative forces of Prime Minister Winston Churchill and the left-wing Laborites led by Aneurin Bevan who have favored close relations with the Communist countries.

At any rate, British business has found out the hard way that a free enterprise system cannot operate under Communist rules.

And so the British will salvage what they can and get out, abandoning 100 years of effort.

What they get out with won't be much.

The Communists have another neat system for taking over whatever is left after their confiscatory taxes.

They will demand virtual ransom for the release of some 700 or so Britons still remaining inside China.

The ransom will come in the form of fines for various "violations" such as tax evasion, failure to declare assets, or illegal sales, or in demands for vast sums to be paid former employees.

Two considerations undoubtedly gave the British businessmen reason finally for accepting their hard decision.

Swallows, night-hawks, whip-poor-wills and some other birds have weak legs and walk with difficulty.

Carroll Says Park Project Will Not Fall By Wayside; Work Is Advancing

"If anyone in Greenville is under the impression Elm Street Park will not be completed, they should inspect the project and witness the progress already made," Warren Carroll said today.

The city recreation director disclosed that some projects begun in Greenville in recent years have been abandoned due to "lack of interest" after preliminary activities were completed. "We want to emphasize that the park project will not fall into that vague category," Carroll said.

In reviewing progress made on the park to date, Carroll reported that all heavy grading in the area has been completed. He announced that compliments are due Reginald Sumrell, Greenville contractor and Clark Construction Company for the work they have done in grading.

Free Services

"Both have donated services of bulldozers for the completion of that portion of the project," the director asserted. "Sumrell provided one bulldozer and Clark furnished two, free of charge. They have done an outstanding job of grading and are to be commended for their work."

Carroll disclosed that work on picnic facilities will be started next week. That will consist of constructing fireplaces and tables, and is the project of the Business and Professional Women's Club, he revealed. They have already raised the funds among themselves, and plan to complete that portion of the project shortly.

This week, Belk-Tyler Company donated light fixtures removed from the store during a recent renovation. Carroll said the fixtures will be installed in the recreation building at the park and estimated they would cost $500 if purchased on the open market.

Site Established

"Under the supervision of Connor Eagles, local soil conservationist, the layout of the permanent recreation building has been completed and dirt moved into the site," Carroll stated. "When finished, it will be one of the finest in this immediate area."

The director reported that a "fine" concession stand has been constructed at the Little League Park. Built by the "men" of the Little League, the stand will be operated by mothers of the players and all proceeds will go into the Little League operating fund.

In further reviewing progress at the park, Carroll disclosed that the home run fence has been painted and the plan is to paint the bleachers and concession stand this weekend. "Materials have been received for the construction of a backstop and playing field at the East end of the park to be used almost exclusively by Greenville's 'small fry,'" he said.

Funds Requested

Park Project Chairman Louis W. Gaylord, Jr., Greenville attorney, stated today that funds are still "very limited." He made it known that the park is going to be completed, and requested that all persons who have not contributed contact R. O. Everette at State Bank and Trust Company, treasurer of the park project.

"This thing is positively going to be completed," he emphasized.

Olive Keeps Up Running Attack Against Lobbies

RALEIGH — (AP) — Heading down the home stretch to the May 21 Democratic primary, candidates for governor are taking to the air waves.

Hubert E. Olive blasted lobbyists in a state-wide radio address last night. He promised they will get stiff regulation if he is elected governor. He took a poke at candidate William B. Umstead by asserting that "my opponent has been a lobbyist for some of the biggest interests in North Carolina."

State Sen. Irving E. Carlyle of Winston-Salem will speak in support of Umstead tonight over a 12-station network. Meanwhile, Umstead was due to tour Cumberland County today and speak at the courthouse in Fayetteville tonight. Olive planned to carry his handshaking campaign to Wash and Edgecombe counties today.

Olive asserted last night that lobbyists "will be dethroned as princes of political privilege and influence in North Carolina under my administration." He outlined detailed and specific lobbying regulations which he said he will sponsor if elected governor.

In other political developments yesterday, Mayor Marshall Kurfies of Winston-Salem reported his campaign for lieutenant governor has cost him a total of $2,940. Contributions to his campaign fund have totaled $32,300, Kurfies said.

Another candidate for lieutenant governor, Ben J. McDonald of Wilmington, said he has spent $440 and received no contributions. Rep. Carl T. Durham, seeing reelection in the sixth Congressional District, placed his expenses at $585 and said he has received no contributions.

U.S. Military Academy At West Point Looks Back On 150 Years

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS United Press Staff Correspondent WASHINGTON (UP) — It was just 150 years ago that Congress authorized a small appropriation to start the military academy at West Point.

The beginning was humble. The net result across a century and a half was to help win wars and to influence the nations of the world.

West Point, in 1802, was nothing more than a small engineering school. At first only one course was offered and that provided lessons on how to build fortifications. One regular army captain taught a smattering of algebra and another hammered the elements of plane geometry into the heads of the first cadets.

Sets Her Clock For TV Program

CARBONDALE, Ill. — (AP) — Mrs. Herman Chamness is an avid TV fan but missed favorite programs for days when fast time telecasting started recently.

She eliminated her confusion by turning her living room clock an hour ahead of Carbondale CST clocks to enjoy her own fast-time televiewing.

Young Smokers Face Crack-Down

VANCOUVER, B. C. — (AP) — City police commissioners recently ordered a crack-down on smoking by juveniles.

A federal act of 1908 prohibits smoking by children under 16 and is authority for police to seize cigarettes from youngsters. Storekeepers selling to children without a written note from their parents may also face charges.

Ring Is Found After 32 Years

STEWIACKE, N. S. (AP) — A gold wedding ring lost on a farm here 32 years ago was found in a garden by 8-year-old Beverly McKay.

It belonged to a grand-aunt of the child, who lost it while preparing to move with her husband to Alberta in 1920.

That is, the captains taught when they were on the premises, which wasn't often because they also were subject to a call to duty elsewhere.

There weren't many students around in the beginning. In fact, during the first 10 years there were only 71 graduates.

The first of these was one Joseph G. Swift, who grew up to be a colonel. According to old records in the Library of Congress Swift attained some measure of distinction by standing up and assailing Congress. He told the lawmakers he thought they were silly to kick in millions of dollars for coastal fortifications when the money ought to be "put to work building up a mobile army."

Congress, during the War of 1812, woke up to the fact that West Point might amount to something in the national military picture. It authorized an increase in the size of the academy to a point where it could accommodate 250 cadets. Money was allowed for the addition of three more instructors.

The first cadets were accepted without worry over age limits. They took no entrance exams, and had to meet no physical qualifications, and they were not even subject to the Articles of War. (Today, a man can be turned down if he has a skin rash on his elbow.)

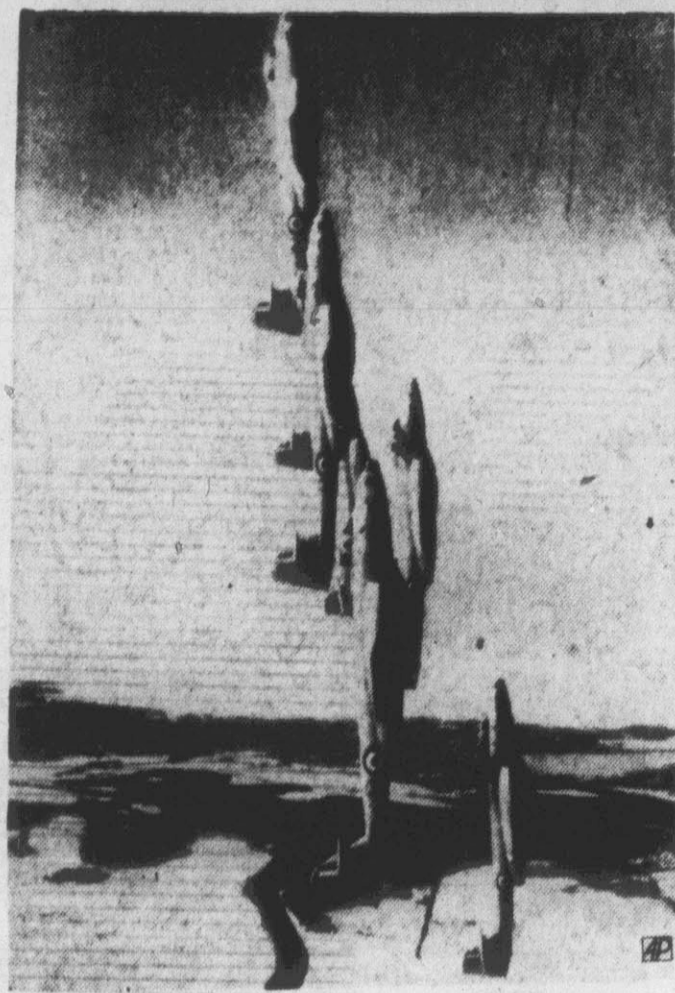

One of the most famous among the commanders at the "Point" was the fifth. He was Capt. Sylvanus Thayer. It was he who first placed an emphasis on character building, leadership, and discipline.

Some of his ideas still are on the books at the academy. While he headed up the staff, and shortly after he left, there appeared a number of raw recruits who went ahead to become famous. Among

Begin Salvaging Flooded Corn

DES MOINES, Ia. — (AP) — The huge task of salvaging government-owned stored corn damaged by the recent Missouri River flood is under way.

Bin site maintenance crews employed by the Production and Marketing Administration are in charge of the operations. The dry corn removed from the flooded bins will be marketed or moved into empty bins, said H. E. Hazen, chairman of the Iowa PMA committee.

'Into Thy Hands, My Son'

SPIRIT LAKE, Wash. — (AP) — Rescuers paused on a mountain path last night as a grief-stricken clergyman intoned the last rites of the church over the body of his son who died in an icy crevasse high on Mt. St. Helens.

The youth — 26-year-old Arthur Jessett, slipped into the narrow chasm at the mountain's 8,000-foot level while on a climbing trip with three companions Sunday.

He lived a number of hours talking to his companions as the slipping ice eased him deeper and deeper into the crevasse. Meanwhile, climbers fought frantically to rescue him.

Late yesterday, expert mountain climbers were lowered 75 feet into the frigid tomb and recovered the young University of Washington student's body.

The father, the Rev. Thomas E. Jessett, met the somber party as it descended through fog and rain to this mountain lake in Southwest Washington.

He opened the Episcopal Book of Common Prayer and read in a strained voice: "Into thy hands, O merciful Saviour, we commend the soul of this thy servant, now departed from the body."

Then the father dropped to his knees, faced the sky and cried: "My son! My son! My son!" He rose and shook hands with each of the eight ski patrolmen who had recovered the body.

wairus that the time has come "to talk of many things; of shoes and ships and sealing wax and cabbages and kings." But not much about qualifications for the governorship. A few days ago the Olive headquarters put out a story about Umstead "defends heavy drinking." That was so absurd nearly everybody laughed at it—except the Umstead quarters folks. They took serious cognizance of the ludicrous charge and issued a formal statement in denial.

ISSUES — what the people of North Carolina want and have right to get is discussion of the issues involved in the campaign and the qualifications of the leading candidates for the office they seek. Such matters as unfitness of some Scott appointees and Umstead's inability to quote an old law professor's definition of a drunk are not germane to the big question—which is: Who will make the best governor for the next four years. The fact that both candidates are lawyers and each has accepted as big fees as he could in conscious ask for services rendered; that Umstead's manager is also a lawyer who has earned big fees in some cases; that Olive's manager is a doctor who declined to practice during the acute shortage of doctors in war days; that other attaches of both headquarters have farming and banking interests, are not vital considerations—although more attention has been given to these facts than to the platforms and records of the candidates themselves. It would be nice if the campaign headquarters folks would get to important issues during the closing weeks and quit chasing butterflies all over the hills.

Eighteen Models of Other Makes of Cars Cost More!

Official price lists show that there are eighteen different models of American motor cars, produced by five separate automotive manufacturers, which actually cost more than the lowest-priced Cadillac—when similarly equipped.

If you find this difficult to believe—then you're in good company!

For the record also shows that, during the past few years, literally hundreds of thousands of motorists have taken title to these costlier models. And there can be little doubt that many of them did so simply because they failed to realize how relatively modest the cost of a Cadillac can be.

They simply assumed that exclusive in quality means exclusive in price! And it is doubtful if a single misunderstanding ever cost so many motorists so much!

It cost them, first of all, the satisfaction of owning a Cadillac! For there is no substitute for the sense of pride and well-being that comes from owning a motor car that is universally recognized as the "Standard of the World."

It cost them, too, the pleasure of driving a Cadillac! And this, beyond any question, is the greatest penalty of all! For in missing out on the many thrills to be found behind its wheel—they're missing out on motoring's finest rewards.

And, of course, it also cost them Cadillac's many long-range economies—its almost unbelievable gasoline mileage, its unsurpassed dependability, and its legendary long life.

We know that you wouldn't want to make such a costly mistake in the selection of your next car. But you'd better be careful—because there are eighteen different ways to make it!

So when the time comes—investigate! And if you pay the price of a Cadillac—be sure that you get one!
