Ridgway Warns Of Red Planning

Tells Congress That False Charges Of Gas And Germ Warfare May Be Clue To Communist Plans; Asserts Eighth Army Ready For Any Contingency

WASHINGTON (UP) — Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway said today that false Communist charges against the United Nations add up to "a monumental warning" that the Reds themselves may be plotting germ and gas warfare.

But the former supreme U. N. commander in the Far East told the House and Senate in joint meeting that the 8th Army in Korea is ready for whatever happens.

Ridgway said the U. N. army stands "proud, defiant and confident of its capability for accomplishing any mission it might be assigned."

His remarks echoed somewhat those made last week by Defense Secretary Robert A. Lovett. Lovett told newsmen that germ warfare charges hurled by the Reds against the U. N. may be, as Communist propaganda has been in the past, a tipoff to the enemy's own intentions.

If the Reds ever do launch gas and germ warfare against the U.N Lovett said, they will "wish they had never been born." Ridgway, too, appeared to be hinting at prompt retaliation when he said the 8th Army is confident it can carry out "any mission."

Ridgway declared that the U. N. has given the Communists a formula for "a logical, reasonable, and honorable settlement" in Korea. But their response has been "vicious falsehoods." Concerning the Reds' germ warfare charges Ridgway said:

"These allegations are false in their entirety. No element of the United Nations Command has employed either germ or gas warfare in any form at any time."

Hammering this idea home, Ridgway continued:

"The extent to which Communist leaders have gone in fabricating, disseminating and persistently pursuing these false charges should impress upon the brains of those, who yet fail to refuse to see the purpose of communism, the deadly danger with which it confronts us and the free world."

Ridgway blamed the stalemated Korean truce talks on the "blind hatred, vituperative venom, the vicious falsehoods" of the Red negotiators.

"Acceptance or rejection, cessation or continuance of hostilities in Korea, is now the responsibility of the Communist leaders," Ridgway said.

This was Ridgway's only reference in his 2,500-word speech to the possibility of renewed large - scale warfare in Korea. He did not mention the recent capture by Communist prisoners of Brig. Gen. Francis T. Dodd, and the quickly-repudiated concessions which were granted for Dodd's release. Many congressmen have demanded investigations of the entire Koje affair.

Ridgway had met earlier today with the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to discuss his new assignment as Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's successor as Atlantic Pact commander in Europe.

Ridgway divided his first speech to congress into discussions of military operations in Korea, the armistice negotiations and American relations with Japan. He said Japan's continued role "at our side" depends "more on us in the immediate future" than on the Japanese because "our is the role of leadership."

He said the 8th Army, "under the conspicuous battlefield leadership" of Gen. James A. Van Fleet, repulsed repeated enemy attacks, "passed into the counter-offensive and continued its advance until by November last it stood approximately where now it stands—proud, defiant and confident of its capability for accomplishing any mission it might be assigned."

Ridgway advised the U. N. truce negotiators "individually and

Prisoners On Koje Guard Camp

Post Sentries To Prevent Fellow Captives From Escaping Compound

KOJE ISLAND, Korea (UP) — Communist prisoners of war posted guards inside the barbed wire of notorious Compound 76 tonight to prevent fellow captives from escaping.

There were unconfirmed reports that the Communist sentries grabbed one prisoner who tried to escape.

Their action was noted for the first time by Allied newsmen shortly after Gen. James A. Van Fleet, 8th Army commander, visited the prison compounds here and declared that he believed violence had ended.

Allied sources here indicated the sentries were posted by the prisoners themselves to prevent fanatics from attempting escapes that could lead to new bloodshed and probably would be unsuccessful even if the captives got outside the compounds.

Van Fleet predicted American guards would have full control in "a short time." He flew here today from Pusan where it was disclosed that nine American soldiers were injured in Tuesday's rioting in a hospital compound there. Earlier announcement placed the casualties at one prisoner killed, 85 injured and one American hurt.

North Koreans wearing uniforms and armbands stood without weapons at posts 50 feet apart in Compound 76, where more than 6,000 Communists held Brig. Gen. Francis T. Dodd hostage for 78 hours.

"Monitors" were stationed also in most of the other compounds on the island but stood at posts farther apart. The guards inside the fence outnumbered the American sentries outside.

Van Fleet said earlier, "I don't think there will be any more trouble."

His optimistic outlook differed sharply with that of news correspondents and with recent views of the prison commander, Brig. Gen. Haydon L. Boatner.

Boatner correctly predicted three days ago that there would be "more disorders." Since then there has been the violent Pusan outburst on the mainland and sit-down strikes and demonstrations among the prisoners here, including women.

In the Pusan rioting, it was learned today, two U.S. rifle companies fought the prisoners with about 100 concussion grenades and tear gas while four tanks and five machine - guns mounted on half tracks waited outside the compound.

Van Fleet said he was "delighted" and "very pleased" with the way Boatner has handled the explosive situation. He said the camp is "certainly fast approaching security."

Observers here predict more serious clashes if troops move into the compounds to haul down illegal flags and posters flying atop poles and buildings.

Boatner conceded he did not know what the prisoners might be up to in the compounds. He said he did not know the exact number held, or if any had escaped.

Soldier To Die For Two Killings

NUERNBERG, Germany (AP) — Pvt. John F. Vigneault, a 19-year-old American soldier, was sentenced to death today for murdering two Germans and stealing their car.

The little sharp-faced soldier from Goffs Falls, N. H., stood quietly and showed no signs of emotion as he heard the sentence pronounced by the U. S. Fourth Division Court Martial of 10 officers.

Truman Doubts Courts Or Congress Endanger Rights

WASHINGTON (UP) —President Truman told a news conference today he does not think the courts or the Congress can take away his power to seize fundamental industries in a national emergency.

Under questioning by reporters, he said he does not believe this inherent, constitutional right of his is at stake in the steel case currently before the Supreme Court.

He promised to abide by the Court decision on steel and said his comments in no way constituted pre-judgment.

He said that if the court decides that he did not have the power to seize steel, he would turn the mills back to steel management and see what happens.

Mr. Truman, however, said repeatedly and pointedly that neither the courts nor Congress could take away from the President his inherent right under the Constitution to seize properties if such a step is necessary to protect the welfare of the nation.

Mr. Truman said he favored congressional enactment of a new law giving the President specific authority to deal with strikes in fundamental industries. He said he thought the law should contain a provision for seizure.

Critics of Mr. Truman's steel seizure said he should have used the Taft-Hartley Act which permits the government to get a court order preventing a strike for 80 days in event of a national emergency. The act does not provide for industry seizure. Mr. Truman has contended that the steelworkers union had voluntarily put off a strike for more than the 80 days.

The President brought on the shower of questions about steel when he volunteered at the start of his conference that he was pleased with settlement of the three-year old railroad wage dispute. He said it could have been settled, as it was last night, back in 1950.

Accord Is Reached By Railroads And Three Rail Unions

President Truman To Act Swiftly To Restore Seized Railroads To Owners As Prolonged Dispute Reaches End

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Truman will move swiftly to end government seizure of the railroads on the basis of an agreement signed by the carriers and three rail unions, the White House said today.

The agreement signed at the White House shortly before midnight brought to a close one of the longest and bitterest labor-management disputes in U.S. history. The dispute over wages and working rules began three years ago. Mr. Truman seized the railroads 21 months ago to head off a nationwide rail strike.

The settlement terms, still to be translated into the precise legal language of collective bargaining contracts, provide for retroactive wage increases which will bring immediate lump sum payments of from $600 to $1,100 to 150,000 engineers, conductors and firemen. These payments will cost the railroads about $100,000,000.

Yard workers, who now average $1.59 an hour, will get an increase of about 24 1-2 cents an hour. Train crews will get 17 1-2 cents an hour more than their present average of $1.95.

The agreement, which runs until October, 1953, also makes several changes in the complicated working rules of the railroad industry. One change, which union leaders hailed as a "major improvement," allows union officials to veto demands by railroads to lengthen the "divisions" or sections of a railroad system which now constitute a day's run for train crews.

The settlement was proposed by Presidential Assistant John R. Steelman and accepted by the railroads two days ago. The unions gave their "final and binding" assent to the terms after a five-hour session in Steelman's White House office last night.

Union and carrier negotiators scheduled closed-door sessions today to begin writing the detailed contracts. A union spokesman said the process would require "at least several days."

The White House said Mr. Truman will issue an executive order returning the roads to private management as soon as the formal contracts are signed.

The Army has been in nominal control of the railroads. But the seizure was entirely a "paper" affair, and terminating it will mean little more than decomissioning the railroad presidents who were sworn in as Army colonels, and running down the U.S. flags over their offices.

Carnival Spirit At Raleigh Rally

RALEIGH (UP) — Handshakes, first names and campaign buttons blossomed in bright sunshine of the state capital today as Tar Heel Democrats opened their biennial state convention.

The air was full of political talk and, as usual, tense with excitement.

State candidates and their followers were busy lining up support.

Delegates and observers flaunted buttons and ribbons emblazoned with the names of Umstead, Olive, Russell and Kefauver. Giant pictures of the chief gubernatorial candidates in the state primary nine days off smiled down from hotel lobby walls.

Banners shouted names of candidates from store windows, telephone poles and marquees. Paper footprints pasted on crowded sidewalks directed delegates and the general public to "Get in Step" and vote for the "Right" man.

Never Heard Of Bible Or God

MIDDLESBROUGH, Eng. (UP) (UP) — Ten-year-old John Lennon was called to the witness stand to give evidence in an automobile case.

When the boy placed his hand on the Bible to take an oath that he would testify only the truth, the judge asked him if he knew what book he was swearing on.

"No," John answered.

"Have you ever heard of the Bible?"

"No."

"Have you ever heard of God?"

"No."

The judge heard the evidence without the oath.

Drainage Project Given Approval

The Greenville street and finance committees yesterday approved a drainage project on Dickinson Avenue.

Meeting jointly at the city hall yesterday morning, the committees gave the "go ahead" to a drainage project near the forks of highways 264 and 11 on Dickinson Avenue.

Mayor Lester D. Page said this morning N.C. Equipment Company will finance the project to Dickinson Avenue and the city will pay for the remainder of the cost to extend the line west.

The mayor disclosed that the city would have been unable to install the line if the equipment company had not offered to finance the greater portion of the project. He asserted that the state highway commission is going to help the city install their part of the line.

Major Red Center Hit By Heavy Bombing Raid

SEOUL, Korea (UP) — American and Australian fighter-bombers blasted a large manufacturing and supply center near the North Korean capital of Pyongyang into flaming ruin today in one of the largest single air attacks of the Korean war.

Pinpoint bombing from dawn to dusk reduced at least 117 buildings between Pyongyang and Chinnampo, its port, to smoking rubble. At least 84 others were damaged as the planes unloaded "hundreds of tons" of bombs, the 5th Air Force reported.

The Air Force gave no figures, but extent of the attack and the damage inflicted indicated the raid at least approached size of the May 8 assault on Suan, biggest fighter-bomber attack of the war. In that raid 165 buildings were destroyed.

Using tactics identical with those of the Suan raid, the fighter-bombers struck at dawn after intelligence officers reported a weeks-long buildup of supplies had reached a peak.

Relays of jets and propellor-driven planes, screened by American Sabre jets, slammed bombs, rockets, napalm and machine gun bullets into the area until nightfall.

Marine and Navy fighters and jets of the Australian squadron joined American planes.

"When we went back on the second and third missions," said 1st Lt. James L. Thomas of San Antonio, Tex., "there was nothing left standing where we had attacked before except a few building frames. We had trouble finding anything to hit."

Churchmen Hold One-Day Session

More Than 200 Men Of Albemarle Presbytery At Meeting

More than 200 Presbyterian men of the Albemarle Presbytery gathered here at East Carolina College yesterday to discuss men's work in the church.

The delegates were ministers, laymen, and church officials of the Albemarle Presbytery which envelops the northeastern part of the state. They gathered here for the annual meeting.

One of the most outstanding events of the meeting was a panel discussion held last night in which experience in men's work in churches were cited. It was brought out in the panel that men are primarily interested in projects which meet the need of other people. A number of men on the panel answered questions on men's work asked them by the attending delegates.

The afternoon session included a council training session in which church representatives discussed the items of business work of the men of the Presbytery.

Clinton Harris of Richmond emphasized in his panorama of men's work the value of interesting the uninterested man by giving each man a job in church work.

In the session on church organization and church program the two leaders cited ways in which to make church programs more interesting and how to improve the organization of the church.

In the closing address, Dr. Paul T. Jones, pastor of the Grace Covenant Church of Richmond, told the men that it doesn't take a superman to do the work of the church but it only takes a dedicated man. "The men of the early church were not educated, but they had zeal," Jones said in his inspirational message.

James Butler, alumni secretary at ECC, represented the college at the annual meeting of the Presbytery. He quoted the work of religious organizations on the campus and showed what a contribution they were making to churches.

First District Demos Act To Back Russell

Resolution Of Support Is Adopted; Clark Named Delegate To National Democratic Convention; Other Districts Indicate Strong Pro-Russell Attitude

BULLETIN

RALEIGH (UP)—The Democratic state convention was asked to instruct North Carolina's 32-vote national convention delegation for Sen. Richard B. Russell of Georgia.

RALEIGH (AP)—The First Congressional District meeting today as a preliminary to the State Democratic Convention adopted a resolution proposed by W. B. Rodman Sr., of Washington that delegates shall "vote for Russell so long as in their judgment it is wise and proper" to do so. Rep. Herbert Bonner said he took great pleasure at their decision to instruct for Russell, and hoped Democrats would nominate a candidate "we can all get behind."

Named as delegates were John G. Clark, Greenville, and J. Emmett Winslow, Hertford, with Lloyd Griffin, of Edenton, and C. B. Martin, Williamston as alternates. Clarence W. Griffin, Williamston, was nominated Presidential elector.

The following were chosen for the state Democratic executive committee: Malcolm C. Paul and Mrs. Miriam Topping, Beaufort; Mrs. W. I. Halstead, Camden; T. C. Bryum, Chowan; Mrs. Dudley Bagley, Currituck; R. Bruce Etheridge, Dare; A. P. Godwin Jr., Gates; D. C. Barnes, Hertford; Mrs. J. Leslie Simmons, Hyde; Hugh G. Horton and Mrs. E. S. Peele, Martin; Elton Aydlett and Mrs. Treva Pendleton, Pasquotank; Mrs. Jack Kannoy, of Perquimans, Mrs. W. I. Bissette and Dr. Paul Jones, Pitt; Carl Bailey, Washington; Mrs. Margaret McClees, Tyrrell.

The Ninth District voted to work for the selection of veteran Representative Robert L. Doughton as North Carolina National Democratic Committeeman.

Second District delegates who appeared overwhelmingly for Russell adopted a resolution endorsing the Georgia senator but asking that the state's delegation go uninstructed. Mark Lassiter, of Snow Hill, moved that the district group do all it could to remove Jonathan Daniels, of Raleigh, editor of the Raleigh News and Observer, as Democratic National Committeeman, but withdrew his motion after several delegates took the position it was not in order.

The Third District unanimously adopted a resolution "favoring and endorsing" the nomination of Russell for President.

The 12th District adopted a resolution that delegates to the national convention go uninstructed.

The Tenth District, which had two Negro delegates—the first in its history — was the scene of bitter arguments over rules of parliamentary procedure. Most of the snarl was caused by points of order challenges raised by former Gov. Cameron Morrison.

When the five counties of the district met in separate caucuses to nominate men and women for the district and delegate posts, Morrison tied up the Mecklenburg group and caused it to adjourn even before it began voting on its delegate and alternate to the national convention. "Damn that sort of politics," the old, white-haired gentleman would boom. He claimed the delegates should be named by the district as a whole, and not by county caucus. However, as in years past, Mecklenburg named the other delegate and alternate.

Mecklenburg Delegate Sidney F. Croft said he would be "for Russell all the way," at the national convention. He said this was according to the instructions of his district.

Delegates of the Sixth District adopted a resolution asking its national convention delegates to remain loyal to the national party regardless of who is the presidential nominee.

Park Committee Meeting Tonight

Committees for the development of Elm Street Park will meet in the Armory tonight at 8 o'clock to hear reports on progress being made at the park.

City Recreation Director Warren Carroll said this morning much of the work on the park has already been completed, with several other individual projects being underway as scheduled.

"One of the big issues to come up tonight is the approval of funds for the tennis courts," he stated. "We have obtained a substantial reduction from first estimates of $5,000 for four courts, and we think all of them can now be built with what money we have on hand."

Carroll also disclosed that work on the picnic fireplaces has already been started. "In fact, very few of the projects as originally planned remain to be approved," he asserted. "The tennis courts project seems to be the major issue at the moment."

Platform Calls On National Party To 'Recognize' South

North Carolina Democrats Urge All Party Members Take Cognizance Of Southern Spokesmen And Leadership

RALEIGH (UP) — The state Democratic convention adopted a platform today urging the national party to recognize "that the men of the South are as capable of giving leadership to the nation as the men of any other section of these United States."

The platform did not enlarge upon the point but most sources considered it an obvious proposal that the national convention nominate a Southerner for president.

In a preliminary statement, the platform commended the record of the North Carolina congressional delegation and noted that Southerners have served capably as cabinet officers, ambassadors, generals of the Army, members of the Supreme Court and in other equally important posts.

The state platform touched only briefly on international affairs, commending the present administration for "its efforts to defend our priceless freedoms against our enemies from without and within" and urging that the nation "continue to maintain strong defenses and cooperate fully with the united nations . . . "

Apparently slapping at the Ku Klux Klan for floggings of a dozen Columbus County residents, the delegates said "we condemn, without reservation every effort of men, singly or in organized groups, to set themselves above the law."

State and federal courts have returned 21 convictions in two flogging trials, and the party praised the state's judicial system.

Touching on taxes, the party stressed the need for minimum rates in the state "consistent with the essential needs of our people" and urged the next General Assembly to eliminate any existing inequities in the revenue act.

For the public schools the party promised to provide "as fully and as rapidly as money is available" adequate salaries, ample buses, increased transportation, better facilities for teaching and better enforcement of attendance laws.

Noting a four-fold increase in farm income over the past 10 years, the party pledged to help rural people further increase per capita income, and achieve greater security, better educational opportunities and stronger community life.

Labor received a promise of support for "every enterprise" tending to improve working conditions, protect employes against occupation hazards and assure them reasonable pay.

'We endorse the dynamic and forward-looking administration (of Gov. Kerr Scott) which has been characterized by an abiding faith in the destiny of our state and in the progressive spirit of her people," the platform said.

It pledged continued support to an adequate highway system, state public health and mental care programs, and an expanded conservation and development program. It urged the 1953 legislature take steps to reduce state highway fatalities and consider opening relief rolls to the public.

Admiral Joy Leaves Truce Up To Enemy

PANMUNJOM, Korea (UP) — Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy stepped out of the Korean armistice talks today with a parting blast at Communist negotiators and the statement that there is "nothing left to negotiate."

The senior Allied delegate, who has served the entire 10 months and 12 days since the talks began, told the Reds that the decision for peace or more war in Korea "is in your hands."

During a moving 1,200 - word statement of United Nations aims, Joy said:

"You have increasingly presented evidence before the world that you did not enter these negotiations with sincerity and high purpose, but rather that you entered them to gain time to repair your shattered armies, and to try to accomplish at the conference table what your armies could not accomplish in the field."

He then turned his job over to Maj. Gen. William K. Harrison with the words, "May God be with him."

Joy turned and left the armistice tent so abruptly that the Communists thought for a moment he was breaking off the talks. Their translators quickly set them straight.

Joy's statement took up most of the 48-minute morning meeting. Harrison led the Allied delegation back for a 32-minute afternoon session, and will meet with the Reds again Friday.

Joy told the Communists once more that the Allies will not go beyond their April 28 offer to return only the 70,000 Red prisoners who want to go back to Communism. The other 99,000 prisoners held by the U. N. have said they would forcibly resist repatriation.

"After 10 months and 12 days," Joy told North Korean Gen. Nam Il, "I feel that there is nothing more for me to do. There is nothing left to negotiate. I now turn over the unenviable job of further dealings with you to Maj. Gen. William K. Harrison who succeeds me as senior delegate.

"May God be with him."

Joy walked out and Harrison moved into the vacant chair facing Nam. The 57-year - old admiral leaves tomorrow for his new job as superintendent of the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis.

In his final speech, Joy accused the Communists of obstructing an armistice through "a constant succession of delays, fraudulent arguments and artificial attitudes."

He said that an armistice "easily lay within our grasp, had there been equal honesty on both sides of this conference table."

But he declared there was "no single action" on the part of the Communists that showed a sincere desire to reach an armistice.

"It is an enormous misfortune," he said, "that you are constitutionally incapable of understanding the fair and dignified attitude of the United Nations command.

"Apparently you cannot comprehend that strong and proud and free nations can make costly sacrificies for principles because they are strong; can be dignified in the face of abuse and deceit because they are proud, and can speak honestly because they are free and do not fear the truth. . . ."

Mrs. K.B. Pace And Mrs. W.S. Bost Are Presented Service League Awards

By MURIEL SHOTWELL
Reflector Staff Writer

Mrs. K. B. Pace and Mrs. W. S. Bost were recipients of the coveted Service League awards presented to them at the annual Service League luncheon held at St. Paul's Episcopal Parish House.

Members of the Service League gathered at the parish house yesterday for their annual business meeting and luncheon, which honored new members and the award winners.

Mrs. Wyatt Brown presented the Service Cup to Mrs. Pace whom she termed as "the most outstanding member for the year." Mrs. Brown stated that Mrs. Pace was elected by the club through secret vote on the basis of her variety of activities in the league, her willingness to work and her usefulness to the community.

Mrs. Pace is a charter member of the league and has held several offices. "What she does, she does well," said Mrs. Brown as she presented the Service Cup. Honorable mention went to Mrs Betty Brown, Mrs. Ellen Cox, Mrs. Esther Lautares and Mrs. Doris Flanagan.

Mrs. W. S. Bost was presented the President's Tray by Mrs. W. E. Harvey for her faithfulness in carrying out her work and making her work the "labor of love." Mrs. Harvey said that Mrs. Bost, who is a past president of the league and has held many important posts in the league, represents the ideals of the Service League.

The recipient of the President's Tray is chosen from members of the board by a secret vote from the advisory council. The tray was given to the league by Mrs. J. T. Little and the Service Cup was given by Mrs. Lyman Ormond.

Training School PTA Has Installation Of Officers

The program for the final meeting of the Training School P. T. A. was presented by the glee club and the band of the school when the organization met on Wednesday afternoon.

Approximately 80 children participated in the program. Under the direction of Mr. James Rodgers, the band played "Take Off March," "Flagship March," "Air Mail March," and a trombone solo was rendered by Billy Goodwin, student in the fourth grade.

Under the direction of Miss Beatrice Chauncey the glee club sang "Dreams," "Gentle Jesus," "Our Prayer," and a Swiss folk song. They were accompanied by Mrs. Alison Hearne Moss at the piano.

The invocation was given by Mrs. Leon Russell and Mrs. Dink James, outgoing president, presided over the business meeting, during which time officers for the coming year were installed. Mrs. James S. Jenkins will become the new president and other officers are vice president, Mrs. J. W. Griffith; secretary, Mrs. J. O. Derrick; treasurer, Mrs. Reynolds May; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Howard Hodges; and historian (who was not present), Mrs. M. P. Hoot.

The organization voted to donate $100 to the Elm Street Park project immediately and to contribute $125 towards the obtaining of a kiln to be used in the art department of the city schools next year. This amount will not be due until next fall.

There was a spirited discussion concerning the purchasing and operation of a popcorn machine next year. The motion was finally made and passed that this matter be left up to the discretion of the Executive Board, who was authorized to investigate the project and make the final decision.

Mrs. Lindsay Savage and Mrs. Potts volunteered to attend the state P. T. A. Institute which will be held in Greensboro in June after the organization voted to send two delegates.

The organization voted to meet on Wednesday afternoons and on Thursday nights, when night meetings are scheduled, for the coming year. They also voted to send a letter of thanks to the policemen who have been directing traffic at the school during the year. As a fitting close to the meeting, the organization gave a rising vote of thanks to the officers who have served so faithfully and untiringly this year.

Financial Issue Holding Up Peace Pact 'Solved'

BONN, Germany — (AP) — Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and the Western Allies solved their major financial dispute holding up the West German peace contract early today and made preparations for a week-end visit from the Big Three foreign ministers.

In a 13-hour session ending shortly after midnight, Adenauer and Western representatives agreed in principle on what Allied troops in Germany would get from the 850 million marks $202,300,000 a month the Germans have agreed to raise for defense.

The foreign ministers—U. S. Secretary of State Dean Acheson, British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman—are expected here Saturday for final settlement of two remaining points in the contract and signing of the treaty on Monday.

The pact will give West Germany near sovereignty, ending the seven-year occupation, and will ally the Adenauer government politically and militarily with the West. Once signed, it must be ratified by the U. S. Senate and the parliaments of Britain, France and West Germany.

In Paris, negotiations for the companion treaty to set up a six-nation West European army snagged over the number of years that pact should run and over interim regulations to govern French forces in Germany.

The negotiators hoped to iron these out over the week end in Strasbourg, where the six foreign ministers—of France, Belgium, The Netherlands, Italy, Luxembourg and West Germany —are due for a session of the Council of Europe.

Convention held in Raleigh April 22. She also pointed out that this is the highest honor to be bestowed upon any Winterville F.H.A. member since the Chapter was organized seven years ago.

Senior F.H.A. members acting as ushers for the evening were Jean Little, Lois Baker, Anne Sullivan, Dorothy Evans, and Peggy Rose Worthington.

After the program, refreshments were served to the guests in the Home Economics Cottage. Amid the chatter of everyone, the new and old officers were congratulated and pictures were taken.

Rooney Denies Weding Rumors

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Mickey Rooney denied today rumors drifting westward from New York that he might walk to the altar for the fourth time to wed blonde Jane Kean, 28-year-old entertainer.

Rooney said through his studio that he is too busy in movies to think of marrying again right now and added that Miss Kean was "a grand girl. We're good friends and that's all we'll ever be."

Miss Kean was quoted in New York as saying she went with Rooney "between marriages" and that she might be his next wife.

Rooney's last wife was actress Martha Vickers. Before that he was wed to Ava Gardner and beauty contest winner Betty Jane Rase.

Strength for the Day

THE GREAT LANDLORD

A big item in almost everyone's budget these days is rent. Whether we pay it in monthly installments to a landlord or whether we spend it in the form of taxes, insurance, and upkeep on the home we own, we pay a good deal for the privilege of having a place in which to live.

In a broader sense, we also pay rent for the privilege of living in our town, our state, and our nation. Like individual landlords, the local, state, and Federal government cannot provide their necessary services without an income from the taxes which we pay as citizen-tenants.

What about the rent we pay for living in the world? God, the greatest of all landlords, provides us with earth and ocean, sunshine, rain, materials for food and shelter, and even life itself. And the human institutions of which we are proudest—schools and colleges, hospitals, churches, charitable homes, and so forth—owe their origin almost entirely to the development of Christian love and charity through the centuries.

The only rent God asks for all these blessings is that we worship Him for our own souls' salvation. By paying Him, we enrich ourselves. "Ye that stand in the house of the Lord, in the courts of the house of our God, praise the Lord; for the Lord is good; sing praises unto his name."

A Season Of Harvest In Education

This is the harvest season in Pitt County for a different kind of crop than tobacco, cotton, corn or peanuts; it's a harvest in education. On paper, this year's crop looks good.

Our schools and colleges have granted diplomas or degrees to 764 young men and women, of whom no small number are looking forward to still further scholastic training.

Having a college in our midst we should be education-conscious to a degree exceeding other counties not so fortunate as Pitt. Our grade schools and high schools all benefit by the presence of East Carolina College, though in the final analysis we get out of our education system what we ourselves put into it.

Education is yearly becoming more expensive for those governmental subdivisions who support school systems. At the same time, more is expected and required from our schools. The quality of educational grounding for high school students is advancing constantly to meet the requirements for entry into higher institutions who see their own horizons expanding beyond Man's wildest dreams. At the same time, the broadening scope of high school training provides greater preparation for those boys and girls who must rely on the school of experience to fit them into their place in the scheme of things.

There is more to learn today in every field than, say, five years ago. There is a demand for specialists in more fields than any time before in American history. Specialized knowledge is at a premium, and business and industry are clamoring for more and more technicians that only our schools can start in their direction.

Additionally, there is a never-filled demand for more teachers. Each year adds to the population of school-age youngsters who require teachers, more school-rooms, more books, more recreation facilities and more equipment. Harvesting a crop of graduates yearly becomes increasingly expensive, just as they (the graduates) become increasingly necessary. Neither Pitt County, nor North Carolina, nor the country as a whole can afford to backslide in this field which insures our future.

Have You Been Reading Roessner's Column?

One of the finest daily business column's we've yet encountered is on our own editorial page. If your attention hasn't been drawn to the articles by Elmer Roessner in the upper right-hand columns, we commend it to all readers.

It is a business column, but more than being an informative piece for businessmen, it is a highly readable and interesting feature for consumers. Daily, the column carries merchandising ideas and provides tips for shoppers.

Moreover, Roessner has a talent for writing of "big business," "medium-sized business" and "small business" in a manner that is easy to read.

In the many months The Reflector has carried "Business Today" there has been the hope that the column would provide a service to merchandisers and give people not in a merchandising field a clearer insight into the problems their neighbors encounter in making a living.

There's Much To Be Remembered In A Poppy

Poppy Days have become so much a part of the American scene that one must actually pause to consider what they mean to become re-enthused over significance of the blood-red artificial bloom sold on the streets.

Those bits of color are reminders of forgotten men who suffered and died on a distant shore. As everyone knows, proceeds of the poppy sale revert to a fund for hospitalized veterans. They are the men who make the poppies for you to wear.

There is never a shortage of helpers for a poppy sale. It is a project which includes a flavor of patriotism, deep gratitude and selfless thoughts of crippled men whose sacrifices combined to preserve the Great American Dream.

Remember to buy one Saturday, and wear it. Every lapel should boast its own little red symbol of remembrance.

National Whirligig

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON—General Douglas MacArthur's attitude toward his possible nomination for president on the Republican ticket perplexes and worries the politicians in both major camps, with the possible exception of Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio. The two have a complete understanding as to their strategic alternatives.

Although MacArthur has only two delegates committed to him at the present moment, the fear exists that many unpledged men and women would be eager to vote for him, if a real opportunity developed in the balloting. His recent receptions in Lansing and Detroit, more than a year after his recall, testify to the appeal of his personality and his views on national affairs.

If he is permitted to address the convention, and it would be extremely embarrassing and politically indiscreet for the Eisenhower faction to try to block his appearance, he could not avoid making a pro-Taft speech, in view of the tenor of his platform utterances. They have been distinctly anti-Eisenhower.

DIVISION—MacArthur's present position is that he will not oppose Senator Taft, but that he is not unwilling to become the beneficiary of the Ohioan's support, if Taft and General Eisenhower fall into an unbreakable clinch. It is understood that the senator prefers MacArthur to any other possibility, assuming that he cannot make the grade.

In practical terms, this means that, if Taft needed 75 or 100 to give him the necessary 604, and if MacArthur could influence that number of uncommitted or uncertain votes, the general would turn them over to Taft. But if all their joint efforts fail to put the senator over the top, MacArthur would be given a run for the nomination by the Taft forces.

Several 'ifs" enter into this convention prospect. Even the most powerful and appealing convention figures are not always able to transfer their supporters to another candidate. The kind of a "deal" envisaged here may not be satisfactory to many Taft or Eisenhower men, who might fear that it would precipitate such a disastrous division that it would ruin the GOP in November.

KEY—General MacArthur's friends rely on three influential Republican leaders to reinforce his cause, if last-minute, pre-convention developments indicate a Taft-Eisenhower deadlock. They are Herbert Hoover, Governor John S. Fine of Pennsylvania and Representative Joseph W. Martin Jr. of Massachusetts. It could be an effective trio under certain circumstances.

Governor Fine is the key man. He is known to look kindly on MacArthur. He has had some differences with Senator James H. Duff, a leading Eisenhower promoter, and seems to lean toward the pro-Taft, Grundy group.

It is believed that he could swing 30 or 35 Pennsylvania delegates, depending on his final decision. If he should throw them to Taft, it would come at an opportune moment in the balloting.

CHANCE—Pennsylvania will vote at a time when "Ike" and "Bob" may be running neck-and-neck in delegate totals. Taft inroads in this large eastern delegation, which the Eisenhower-Duff spokesmen have been claiming, might nominate the senator, or insure a deadlock. It might affect delegations still awaiting their turn at bat in the first inning, preventing a sudden selection.

It is then that "Mac" would get his chance. And he has sufficient scattered but reserve strength to make him a formidable figure, who cannot be discounted or eliminated until the final gavel has sounded and the GOP goes forth to battle.

TIPOFF—A MacArthur address in Michigan contained a generally unnoticed paragraph on foreign affairs, although it furnished the real tipoff for his personal and political hostility to his fellow-officer, General Eisenhower.

The fundamental "isolationists," our former Far Eastern governor-general charged, are those who concentrate American arms and money on Europe, while neglecting the threat to world peace and security in Moscow's program for overrunning the Orient.

In his address to Congress more than a year ago, MacArthur forecast that the sweep of history would make that area a decisive battleground in the struggle between freedom and dictatorship.

Eisenhower, in MacArthur's opinion, represents the visible, military and political symbol of this short-sighted policy. And unless "Ike" accepts the advice of men like Dewey, Dulles, Duff and Lodge that he denounce the Truman-Acheson handling of this problem, SHAPE's commander may have MacArthur on his neck from now on.

BULLETS—Republican sharpshooters have fashioned several satirical bullets to aim at W. Averell Harriman, if the New York railroad magnate and banker should become the Democrats' presidential nominee.

They will label President Truman's supposed favorite to beat off Senator Estes Kefauver as "the rich little underdog" and the "barefoot boy of Wall Street."

For the latter lampoon they should give credit to the late Harold L. Ickes, who so characterized Wendell Willkie in the 1940 campaign. It was the only political "bon mot" of that dull affair.

Selected Shorts

ELKTON, MD., CECIL WHIG: "The situation created by the seizure of the steel mills by President Truman is both serious and difficult. If . . . the President had been in the same frame of mind which possessed him some years ago when he was angered by the leaders of the railroad unions, he might conceivably have seized the CIO Steel Workers Union, placing all of its property funds and organization under the direct operation of some Federal agency."

VICTOR, N. Y., HERALD: "Two months ago the government halted a New York Central rail walkout by enjoining the workers to go back. Two years ago he (the President) thwarted John L. Lewis' will to strike through the courts and won his fight. Yet in the steel case he has gone far beyond normal executive powers. His seizure of the steel industry can only add up to an act of unwarranted power. . . ."

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

If you happened to see a Packard running around Greenville last weekend that was about a block long consider yourself advised that Harry Truman was not in town. However, the car was one of the Presidential cars in service during the time of FDR himself!

The car belongs to Ford Ross, the brother of Bob Ross of Greenville, who works for Refrigeration Discount Corporation. Ford is in the Navy and is stationed at Elizabeth City. At 23, he has owned 14 cars, plus a few motorcycles, but says, "I'm settling down to this car for a while." Before buying the Presidential Packard he owned a Henry J, so you can see he is definitely interested in variety.

The Packard is a 12 cylinder job, 1937 model convertible sedan. It has two windshields, and auxiliary seats in the back. You would probably call it an eight-passenger job, but it could comfortably hold nine.

While spinning around Greenville Sunday afternoon Bob and I occupied those two seats many times filled by FDR and Winston. Assuming the role of FDR before Bob had a chance, I asked, "Tell me, Winston, what do you think of Joe's intentions? Do you really think he is sincere?"

With remarkable hindsight, Bob said, "I'll tell you, Franklin, I think that sooner or later he'll stab us in the back."

Ford's Presidential car attracts attention everywhere it goes. Ford wasn't too surprised when a traffic cop stopped him one day, just to examine the car.

One disadvantage is the low gas mileage. Thus far, Ford can eke out only eight miles to the gallon. Amazingly enough, the car burns almost no oil, and he uses 10 weight!

Even in 1937 the car probably cost $5,000, maybe even $6,000, so Ford considered it a bargain at $1,000. Already he's turned down an offer of $1,500. Instead of depreciating in value, the car will begin to increase as years go by. In the meantime Ford is getting good service from it, plus a great deal of riding comfort. If you can pay the gas bill, it's a good deal.

Of course when a major repair comes into the picture the expense of the car will go up. But for time being, Ford is enjoying the luxury of FDR's car.

And I thank you.

HIGHWAYS — Exact amount of money in the highway surplus fund which can be allocated by order of the Governor cannot be ascertained until mid-July—after the books have been balanced at end of the fiscal year, June 30. Governor Scott has been advised that there will be around $11 million. He told newsmen Tuesday that he had decided to place between $3.5 and $4 million of that on US-301, which comes into the state from Virginia near Weldon and goes on into South Carolina at a point near Rowland. Next the Governor proposes to allot $100 thousand to each of the 10 highway divisions for completing connecting links on the secondary road system. That will leave around 16 million minimum, $7.5 million maximum for primary highways other than US-301.

ALLOCATION — This surplus fund, which has accumulated from collections of gasoline tax and other highway revenue sources in excess of amounts appropriated by the General Assembly, can be allotted to general classifications by the Governor as director of the budget. Theoretically no person or agency other than the Governor has any authority over distribution of the fund as among primary highways, secondary roads and municipal streets. Theoretically, also, the Governor has no authority to specify any particular project or road upon which the money shall be spent. That is the prerogative of the highway commission, and in theory the state highway engineer has the final say-so. Actual practice, past the present, does not violate this theoretical chain of authority; but the several steps seldom show on the surface. Large segments of highway surpluses have been designated by past governors for specific projects —after approval of the administrative and engineering sections of the highway department.

PRACTICAL — The Governor appoints the members of the highway commission and the commission appoints the chief engineer. So, regardless of legal technicality practical effect of the surplus allocation law is to give the Governor the authority to specify where the money shall be spent. It is hardly conceivable that any chief executive would exercise that authority without consulting the highway commission, or that the commissioners and engineer would vigorously oppose the Governor's expressed wishes.

BOND MONEY — The highway commission advised the governor that as of April there remained about $28 million unallocated balance of the $200 million secondary road money voted in 1949. Since then there have been some additional commitments, but the present amount is in excess of $25 million. The entire proceeds of the fund as among primary highways, secondary roads and municipal streets. Theoretically, also, the Governor has no authority to specify any particular project or road upon which the money shall be spent. Since then there have been some additional commitments, but the present amount is in excess of $25 million. The entire proceeds of the $200 million bond issue was allocated, county by county, in the legislative act providing for the bond election. In some counties the entire amount has been spent, and neither the Governor nor the highway commission can use any more money in those counties.

UNRESTRICTED — There are no such limitations upon the $100 thousand surplus money to be given to each division, nor does that item have to be distributed according to the statutory formula for bond and regular highway funds. It is subject only to the final approval of the state highway engineer. Under that condition it becomes possible to use the money as a political football. On the other hand, it would be difficult to figure out any better use of additional funds than to fill in gaps and complete connecting links which had not been cared for in the first allocation. It has long been argued by some road enthusiasts that the regular highway fund should be divided 111 ways instead of 10, with the chairman having an equal share for use in balancing inequities among the divisions arising out of unusual or unpredictable circumstances. That is what the governors have tried to do with the year-end surpluses.

PLATFORM — The writing of a tentative platform to be presented to the State Democratic convention for adoption as the "constitution" of the party for the next two years is a big job. Some days ago Gregg Cherry, former governor, was assigned that task for this year by state Chairman Everett Jordan. Cherry has had a lot of help —some of which he requested, but large part of which was volunteered, by those who had pet ideas of phraseology to get into the document. A few of the fellows went into a huddle with Cherry Tuesday to work out the final draft. The

WHO ARE THE PEOPLE?

(Henderson Dispatch)

President Truman is going all out in the choice of language used to castigate those who disagree with him, as if he were the only person in the country entitled to have an opinion, and as if that viewpoint actually were infallible.

He is angry this time because Congress has passed a bill giving tideland oil rights to the states. The House passed it by a margin not far from being unanimous. As this is written it hasn't been voted on in the Senate, but passage there is certain. So Mr. Truman calls this "robbery in broad daylight." Inference is that he assumes Congress has no right to approve anything not already endorsed in advance by him, or anything with which he disagrees. He let it be known in no uncertain terms that he will veto the measure. The House has the votes to override the veto, although the outcome in the Senate is not so certain.

The President contends that these oil lands beyond the shore line belong to the Federal government. Which, of course, is his opinion, and a point toward still greater concentration of power in a centralized government in Washington. Federal officials are famous for assuming such an attitude. They would make of the states mere colonies, shorn of virtually all rights and authority which the bureaucarts would arrogate to themselves.

A further claim by Mr. Truman is that if the states are given title to the tideland oil reserves private oil companies will get control to exploit them for themselves. In other words, papa knows best. The states cannot be trusted to manage their own affairs; authority must rest with the great white father in Washington who knows all and is infallible.

The President says these reserves belong to the people. Well, who are the people? Aren't the residents of Louisiana, Texas or North Carolina people the same as any others, and aren't they as capable and as intelligent as "the people" to whom the chief executive refers? They can make their own decisions as properly as Washington bureaucrats can act for them—and, we'd say, much better.

Mr. Truman's attitude on this question is amateurish and ridiculous. After all, if Congress grants the authority that is sufficient. If the President does veto the measure, as he has said he would, both houses ought to assert their own prerogatives and override it in convincing manner. It is time for Capitol Hill to become again a part of democratic government, and for dictatorial edicts from the White House to be curtailed.

By ELMER ROESSNER

There will probably be a lot of agitation for removal of what is left of rent control. It will be urged as a means keeping home building at high levels.

Except for certain areas, home building has not slumped. The number of new non-farm dwelling units started in the first four months of this year was 347,000, which is more than the 336,500 started in the first four months of 1951, but considerably under the 412,300 in the first four months of record-busting 1950.

On top of that, restrictions on materials, which were never very tight, have been eased and further relaxation of the Federal Reserve Board's Regulation X to permit easier credit terms is in process. These steps are tending to bring more families into the market.

But on the whole, the tremendous amount of home building since the end of World War II is catching up with demand.

At the recent meeting of the National Association of Mutual Savings Banks in Boston, Irving W. Distel, vice president of the Society for Saving in Cleveland, said that "the supply of houses is pretty close to demand throughout Ohio." Mike Schaeffer, president of the Evansville, Ind., Peoples Savings Bank, reported that that city is "pretty well built up" and noted that in one subdivision of 50 new homes, only three had been sold since Spring. John de Laittre, vice president of the Mineapolis Farmers and Mechanics Savings Bank, said housing was "pretty well taken care of" there.

One of the best ways to sell houses is to price them so that interest, amortization and taxes are less than rent elsewhere would be. None of those three factors can be cut at present; contrariwise, interest rates have edged up and taxes are rising. The financial stimulus, therefore, would have to come from higher rents. That would result if the building industry, allied with landlords, can bring about an end of rent ceilings.

Rents, however, would not soar the way they would have if ceilings had been removed a few years ago. Possibilities of buying a house with little down and low monthly payments constitute a strong barrier against runaway rise.

NOT MANY THINGS IN LIFE ARE FREE

If the Federal Trade Commission's latest ruling on the use of the word "free" is upheld by the courts, the word may disappear entirely from ads.

The Commission, in the Book-of-the-Month Club case, held that the word "free" could not be used for books that were not charged for only as long as the recipients were required to buy other books.

TheCommission, with Commissioner Lowell B. Mason vigorously dissenting, holds that nothing is free if there is a "consideration."

Now in every kind of free offer there is always some kind of consideraton. Advertisers who offer free books on how to paint furniture get a consideration; they gain the name and address of a possible paint buyer which, as every direct mail authority agrees, has an actual value, in thousandths of a cent, as wastepaper.

In further projection, it could be held that coupons in magazines and newspapers offering booklets and samples could not call them "free," since it was necessary to pay for the publication in the first place. They also involve the "consideration" of the sender's time, ink, envelope, postage and wear and tear on the pen point.

ORANGE CONCENTRATIONS RISE AFTER DIP

The dip in frozen orange concentrates was short lived.

Faced with bumper crops and slow-moving stocks, concentrators cut prices so much they were offered as low as two cans for 29 cents in supermarkets. Sales went up—and so did the price of orange. So the producers have been forced to raise their prices, though not as high as they had been before the cut. Meanwhile, hundreds of thousands of additional consumers have been introduced to the concentrates.

COME BACK TO LIFE

Men's wear sales in April averaged higher than a year ago, the National Associaton of Retail Clothiers reported after a survey of 88 stores. Of these, 73 reported increases ranging from 2 to 110 per cent; 3 held even with 1951 totals and 12 reported declines from 1 to 31 per cent.

LARGE TWO-SET TV MARKET FORECAST

More than 53,000,000 television receivers will be in use by 1960, according to Dr. W. R. G. Baker, General Electric electronics executive. The present number is around 17,000,000.

Dr. Baker's estimate exceeds by 5,000,000 the number of homes expected to have electricity by that date. But he expects between five and seven million two-set homes.

CAP: A palladium catylist in a new auto battery cap is said to convert escaping hydrogen and oxygen gases back into water. The maker, Industrial Research, Inc., 40,16 NW 29th St., Miami 42, says this lengthens battery life by 6 to 18 months. It also returns sulphuric acid fumes back to the battery, reducing corrosion and short circuits.

INSOLES: Latex foam insoles with chlorophyll have been developed by Scholl Mfg. Co., 213 W. Schiller St., Chicago. Their perforated surfaces are said to keep feet cool and dry, are insulated against cold and dampness and cushion feet for walking ease.

NEW YORK — (AP) — In making out yur will did you ever consider leaving anything to a bus driver?

Probably not. Few people give a bus driver anything except a hard time.

Every boy at some time wants to be a locomotive engineer. The airplane pilot is one of the most glamorous men of the age.

But who ever made a hero of the bus driver? Nobody but his wife, his kids, and his dear old mother. And yet he carries more people safely on more important missions, year in and year out, than any other figure in transportation.

And he has by far the hardest task. A train rides on its own rails and switchmen give it a fast, clear track. An airplane follows a steady beam through the skies. But a bus driver threads a devious path through the most clogged traffic in history.

Potential death whizzes by every moment rumbling trucks, careless motorists a cabbie trying to beat the light. And the passengers somehow still feel more secure than if they were on a train or a plane.

They have a great blind faith the bus driver will deliver them intact to their destination. He almost always does—day after day after day.

How he does it is one of the marvels of our times. Who among us has to show as much skill while under so many pressures? The miracle is that anyone can be found who can manage—all at the same time—to steer a lumbering vehicle through a busy street, make change, hand out transfers, pick up a dropped dime, keep an eye out for children darting from the sidewalks, and explain to a querulous lady why it really isn't his fault if she caught the wrong bus.

With all that horsepower under his hands the bus driver also needs a lot of horse sense in his work. For he has more afflictions than plagued job.

He is under more strain than any of his passengers, but if they are vexed by a personal problem they often vent their irritation on him at the least excuse. They rarely think of him as having a worry.

It is no wonder that several years ago a New York bus driver, bored by his routine back-and-forth life, left his route and drove south for a little Florida sunshine. The surprising thing is that more aren't seized by wanderlust at the wheel.

"People are funny," one bus driver told me. "Right when you think you are driving nothing but crazy wildcats Christmas comes along, and one or two will hand you a small present when they pay their fare; Then you get to thinking they are people again."

I remember another driver who said he was going to quit because he had begun to talk in his sleep.

"What do you say in you sleep?" I asked.

"My wife says all I do is mumble. 'Move to the rear of the bus, please, more room in back," he said. "That's all I say all day. Why should I say it all night, too?"

By MORRIS LANDSBERG
(For JANE EADS)

SACRAMENTO, Calif. — Mrs. Earl Warren lets her husband do the politicking. Her family — and it's a big one —comes first.

"And if we went to the White House," the wife of California's Republican governor says, "the family would still come first."

The blond, blue-eyed Mrs. Warren is a quiet, rather shy woman who looks fresh and trim at 58. She attends public functions with Warren, but in all his years of campaigning, she has never made a speech.

"I was busy enough with six growing children," she explains.

Since 1943, there has been the job of running the ancient, 20-room executive mansion. This is a three-story model of 1870 gingerbread and gilt. Mrs. Warren has domestic help, of course but she prepares meals on cook's day off.

California's first lady was born in Gutland, Sweden, daughter of a Baptist minister. She was brought to the United States as an infant. As Nina Palmquist Meyers, a pretty widow with a seven year old son, she became the wife of the rising young district attorney of Alameda County, Calif., in 1935.

The Warrens wanted a good-sized family, she relates. They had five children between Sept. 13, 1938 (Virginia) and Jan. 19, 1935 (Robert). In between came Earl, Jr., (1930), Dorothy (1931) and Nina Elizabeth (1933). Warren legally adopted her son, James, now 33.

There were anxious weeks for the Warrens in the fall of 1950. Polio paralyzed Nina's legs. When "Honeybear" came home from the hospital, Mrs. Warren virtually lived in her room for weeks. The vivacious, blond-haired girl has recovered.

With a warm smile that brings out her dimples, Mrs. Warren says the governor likes to tell a little joke about their agreement when they were married that she would not have to make any speeches.

"It was no joke," she insists. "There was a definite understanding between us. All I've ever said in public was, 'I christen thee so and so,' in launching a ship. But nobody ever heard me above the smashing of the bottle and all the excitement!"

The Nice Long Vacation

By William Neubauer

AP Newsfeatures

The tension mounted, but before the scene could degenerate into a brawl the clear tones of a bugle rang out over the camp. Jane whirled and looked over her shoulder at the flaps, then laughed. "Duty. Isn't it my duty to go out and lead Division A to victory? Why don't you come down to see the fun? Perhaps you should sit beside Mrs. Poppleton and tell her what a little beast I am."

"I have every intention of sitting beside her," Evelyn drawled.

Jane scoopered her robe from the cot and went down the stair. She took the whistle from Ken's hand and went out in the skiff to the judge's float. As she stood before the microphone, looking at the people gathered along the shore, she tried to pick out a girl who would look the part of George's wife. But she gave that up as a bad job very quickly. "Ladies and gentlemen," she said, smiling at one and all: "First the blue units of each Divi ion will run through their races—ladies first as always. Then the red units of each Division will have at one another—and last, but certainly not least, there will be a free-for-all long-distance event. The most points win, of course, and of course the judge are final."

She steped away from the microphone and sat down beside Dr. Bruce Hall. "Nice going," he drawled. "You sounded almost human. Incidentally, I understand Andy Bullit and you and Ken are going to have at one another."

"He's puffy," she said quietly, nodding toward Andy Bullit. "I suspect he eats a great deal of food."

"I wouldn't be misled," he warned, "We'll see." She turned to watch. Bruce Hall chuckled. "Incidentally, if you really want to have a look at Mrs. Poppleton, why don't you ask me to point her out to you?"

"I've already spotted her, I think." Jane pointed, "She's sitting on the left side of Evelyn Moore, isn't she?"

He nodded, studying her, rather than looking toward Leslie Poppleton who made a rather pathetic sight when compared with this, her rival for her husband's love. "What do you think of her?"

"I can lick her, if that is what you are asking."

And the afternoon wore on; the girls gave way to the men and the swimmers finally gave way to the the divers. As it became evident that the two sides were very evenly matched, excitement mounted and many a glance was directed at the recreation director who was the sole entry in the long-distance event for Division A.

Tall, athletic, sure of herself, the girl rose as the score was being announced over the public address system and climbed down into the skiff.

"Ten to one!" Ken howled above the uproar as Jane's skiff approached the float. "Glory, I'll beat you or bust."

But Andy Bullit would have none of that. Towering over the tall Ken, he gave the young man a thump on the back. "Where's your sportsmanship, fellow? It isn't fair to make her race the two of us."

"Yeah, but listen—"

"Some other time, fellow."

The gun sounded and they both plunged into Lake Champlain and came up easily into their strokes. Before a hundred yards had been covered it became evident to all who knew something about swimming that the two racers were very evenly matched. What Jan elacked in size, in strength, she more than made up for in downright skill, and of course Andy Bullit's powerful arms pulled him along at a steady, rapid pace through the water. Bruce, who had really expected to see the girl defeated in the first hundred yards, let out a "whoosh" of surprise, and as they swept by the float he forgot he was a judge and leaned out over the water and roared: "It's a long swim, Jane; easy does it!"

To his astonishment, the girl coasted, winked roguishly at him, then went on again, half a foot or so behind Andy Bullit but apparently not a bit concerned. Bruce gulped. He began to feel what George had felt, that here was a fighter, that here was a girl who would accomplish her purpose or perish in the attempt. He sat down, casting a worried eye at Leslie Poppleton who was dancing up and down in girlish excitement on the shore. Why had George played the fool? he wondered.

He rose and cheered as the two swimminers, still neck and neck, came down the home-stretch at last swimming less radpidly now but still steadily. Jane had no intention of losing. Smiling, she looked at Andy Bullit who had run out of wind, then buried her face into the water and plowed forward like a swimmer doing a sixty-yard sprint. She plowed forward to defeat him with some five yards to spare.

There was a roar on the shore, and all the members of the Division A team came splashing into the water to hoist her onto their shoulders.

"We've won!" howled Don Cunningham, the leader of the Division. "Holy smoke, we've won."

No one paid any attention to Andy Bullit, that is, no one but Mrs. George Poppleton. Looking at him, she saw herself floundering along in the amazingly beautiful girl's wake,and the thought left her cold.

"I'll go home now," she said to Evelyn Moore. Mrs. Poppleton laughed harshly. "Why was she given everything? Why was I born with nothing?"

To Evelyn's consternation, she turned with a sob and hurried up the path to the place where she had parked her car. She had thought that strong opposition would bring Jane to her senses. Now she didn't know what to think. The girl had triumphed, this Fourth of July afternoon, in more ways than one.

Senior Class Night

Friday night, May 16, the Senior Class of Winterville High held their annual class night program. They presented a very entertaining gypsy scene, in which all of the seniors were present dressed in gypsy costumes.

Dot Evans, historian, told the fascinating history of the seniors while in high school

Jean Walston, prophetress, gazed into the crystal ball and foretold the future of her classmates.

Bessie Brickhouse giftorian, gave each senior a small gift and read a rhyme with each, which proved to be very amusing.

Jean Little, testator, read the Last Will and Testament of the Senior Class of 1952.

Music was rendered by Mrs. Howard Bodkin and the seniors presented her with a small gift as a token of their gratitude.

Mrs. Rommie Mallison, class advisor, was also given a gift in behalf of her guidance and supervision of the graduating class

Baccalaureate Sermon

On Sunday night, May 18, the Baccalaureate Sermon was conducted by Rev. Leonard E. Topping, pastor of the Greenville Presbyterian Church. He was introduced by Rev. E. S. Cole, pastor of the Winterville Missionary Baptist Church.

The Winterville Glee Club, directed by Mr. Donald Hayes, sang "Alma Mater." Also, the congregation sang two hymns in unison.

Rev. Topping's sermon was "The Freedom of Choice," which was a very appropriate message.

Graduation Ceremony

On May 19, the graduation exercises were conducted. A large crowd attended the ceremony.

Processional, "Pilgrim's Progress," was played by Mrs. Howard Bodkin at the piano.

Marilyn McArthur, salutatorian, gave a very inspiring speech on "Opportunity."

The speaker, Dr. W. E. Marshall of East Carolina College faculty, was introduced by Principal Paul J. Clark.

Leroy Faulkner rendered a solo, "Lamb of God," accompanied by Mrs. Howard Bodkin The Glee Club sang "Halls of Ivy" accompanied by Doris Cole.

Valedictorian, Betsy Catelloe, then gave a most interesting talk on "Graduation."

Presentation of awards was conducted by Mr. Paul J. Clark. These were given to the students who had excelled in various fields.

Presentation of diplomas was conducted by Supt. D. H. Conley and he shook hands with each graduate.

As the closing number, the seniors sang their farewell song by candlelight. The band, directed by Mr. Donald Hayes, played the Recessional.

Can't Sit Down After Shooting

NEW YORK (UP)—Young Mike Broderick couldn't sit down today because a clever neighbor was afraid of robbers.

Broderick, 16, saw a light in the window of William Buhl's bayside home last night and decided to visit him. In crossing Buhl's lawn Broderick stepped on electrical contacts that set off an alarm.

Buhl began firing his .22 caliber rifle before the youth could identify himself and a bullet nicked Broderick as he retreated. Police said Buhl was not booked and the two neighbors are still friends.

Low gate receipts at their home games have brought up the possibility that the Greenville Greenies will fold, according to Sports Editor John Morgan of the Washington Daily News. If the Greenies are forced to drop out of the Bright Belt League, it will be the second team in two years to drop by the wayside because of small attendances at their home games.

Morgan emphasied the lack of good attendances at the Greenie games in his column Tuesday afternoon, and seemed to think that a Washington team should replace Greenville in the semi-pro Bright Belt. He has every-right to support his home town, but its a crying shame that even the possibility of such a thing should occur. A city the size of Greenville should be able to support a Class D club, and especially a good semi-pro team.

Greenville club officials have denied the report by Morgan, but there is still the possibility as stated by the Washington writer. The men who are backing the team here have agreed to put up the financial backing needed for the Greenies, but there is a limit to just how long that can go on without some outside assistance.

The Robins were forced out of the Coastal Plain League last summer because of their inability to meet operating expenses. Baseball fans in the city of Greenville and the surrounding communities should not let that happen to the Greenies. Only an attendance of two or three hundred people is required to support a strong club here, which is much lower than was needed by the Robins. That is a very small percentage of the people in the city itself, and from past experience, it is generally known that at least that many people are baseball enthusiasts.

The Greenies are in fourth place in the fast semi-pro league at the present time, but, in the last two weeks, Manager Bill Sweel's team has played some of the best ball to be seen in the league. The Bright Belt is as strong as most of the Class D leagues to be found in North Carolina, and that is evidence that Greenville has a good ball club.

Greenville dropped its first three games of the season, as Sweel experimented with various combinations. He finally found it on May 3rd, when George Lee Porter, of Aurora, pitched a five-hit, 4-0 victory over Pinetops. With the same lineup, except for the pitcher, Greenville edged Pintops the next day in a 14-inning game.

Sweel has gone along with those same starters, with the exception of one or two players inserted in the lineup for different games and the team has won four of its last seven games. Those victories have come over Pinetops and Stantonsburg, both of whom were in second place at the time the games were played. The mainstays of the team thus far have been: infielders-Burmey Stevens, Sonny Russell, Bill Price, George Melvin Sauls, and catcher Troy Sears; outfielders -Simon Hardison, Dallas Jackson, Fenner Boyd, and Joe Hobgood; pitcher-Porter, Howard Chapin, and Stancil Hardison. Other pitchers who have turned in good relief performances for the Greenies are B. B. Ricks, Johnny McAdden, and John Kovalchick.

The Greenies played in Fremont this afternoon, and are scheduled to go to Farmville Saturday night. They return home Sunday afternoon for another game with Farmville. Let's see several hundred people watching the game out at Guy Smith Stadium Sunday and on the other 19 days on which home games will be played.

Four ECC Players Make All-North State

Lenoir Rhyne Leads Selections On Team

Sanderson, Byrd, Soles and McSwain All Selected From East Carolina By The Greensboro Daily News

East Carolina's 1952 baseball team placed four players on the 16-man All-North State Conference team as picked by the Greensboro Daily News yesterday.

Pirates making the team were firstbaseman Bill Sanderson, outfielder Fred Soles, catcher George McSwain, and pitcher Jimmy Byrd. All of the boys were stars for the East Carolina team, which was a challenger for the Eastern Division championship right up until the last minute, finally losing out to Elon's Christians.

Lenoir-Rhyne's conference champions led the selections with five men. Elon matched East Carolina with four players, while Atlantic Christian, Catawba, and Guilford each placed one man on the all-star team.

Paul Jones of Lenoir-Rhyne leads the pack as selected by the Daily News. Jones, a second baseman during the regular season but was placed at the shortstop position on the all-star team, was picked for the fourth year as an all-star. Jones hit a hefty .375 during the season, including four round-trippers.

Sanderson gained the nod at first base over Gene Laughlin of Elon and Billy Megginson of Lenoir-Rhyne. Jimmy Dalton of Elon and Bobby Callicut of Guilford were chosen for second base and third base, respectively.

In the outfield, Jerry Robinson of Lenoir Rhyne and Carroll Reid of Elon were placed along side of Soles. Soles led the league's regulars with a .395 batting average during the season.

The Daily News picked two catchers, Giles Setzer of Lenoir Rhyne and McSwain of East Carolina. Setzer made the team for the third year and batted .360 for the season.

The team, with batting averages and pitching records in parenthesis: First base, Sanderson (.320), ECC; second, Dalton (3.29), Elon; third, Callicutt (.347), Guilford; shortstop, Jones (.375), Lenoir Rhyne; utility, Clark (.300), ACC; outfielders: Reid (.359), Elon; Soles (.394), ECC; Robinson (.301), Lenoir Rhyne; utility outfielder: Musten (.329), Elon. Catchers: Setzer (.360), Lenoir Rhyne; McSwain (.260), ECC. Pitchers: Baker (5-2), Catawba; Barker (7-0), Lenoir Rhyne; Byrd (5-1), ECC; Swicegood (4-1), Elon; Thomas (7-0), Lenoir Rhyne.

Farmville Wins In Tenth As Britt Singles Home Tally

FARMVILLE—Ralph Britt singled in the bottom of the tenth inning here last night to score Streeter Tugwell from second base with the winning run as Farmville edged Pinetops, 4-3, in a Bright Belt League contest.

The Farmville-Pinetops game was the only one played in the league yesterday. Scheduled games between Ormondsville-Stantonsburg and Fremont-Greenville were called off. Ormondsville and Stantonsburg will play their game here tonight.

Farmville took a quick lead in last night's game, and had compiled a 3-0 lead going into the eighth inning. Righthander Rodney Heath had hurled a shut-out up until that point, but an error by second baseman Millard Webb allowed two runners to score. Pinetops added another run in the ninth to knot the score, forcing the game into extra innings. Pitcher George Griffin doubled and rode home with the tying run on a single by Skeeter Webb.

Heath entered the game as a relief for Roy Vick in the first inning, coming in with the bases loaded and none out. Heath immediately proceeded to fan the next two men and then forced the third batter to ground out, ending the inning without a run scoring. Heath struck out a total of 17 men during the contest.

Tugwell led Farmville at bat with a single and a double in four times up. Pete Piestrak also collected a two-bagger for the winners. Webb, with a single and a double, led Pinetops at the plate.

Jaycees Wallop Moose In Little League Game, 13-2

The Jaycees took a stronghold on the first place in the Little League here yesterday afternoon by blasting the Moose by a one-sided score of 13-2.

Winning their fifth game of the year against but one defeat, the Jaycees squared off against the Moose for two runs in the first, and then batted around in the second inning to push across seven runs. They added three more in the third inning, and then finished up with a singleton in the sixth.

For the Moose, it was Billy Sermons who carried nearly the entire burden at the plate. Sermons, playing at third base for the luckless Moose, pounded out two doubles and a single in three times at bat.

The seven runs in the second inning came on four walks, singles by Buddy Murray and John Hudson, and a double by Arthur Andrews. The Moose also committed one error to help them along.

The second game of the afternoon was called during the fifth inning because of darkness. At the time it was called, the Lions were leading the Elks. It will be resumed the next time the clubs meet.

Semi-Finals Of Tourney Set For Week-End Dates

Semi-finals of the Championship Cup tournament at the Greenville Country Club are slated to be held Saturday and Sunday afternoon, it was announced yesterday afternoon.

Defending champions will be in evidence all over the place when the four semi-finalists take the course Saturday at 2:30. Defending club champion Ercell Webb meets Reynalds May in one of the divisions, while Billy Allen and Ben Harrison meet in the other. Webb has won the club championship for two years running, while May also has taken the cup twice in previous years. Allen, winner of the cup four times, has won the tourney more than any other golfer in the club. Harrison is a newcomer to the semi-finals, but so far, he has played the best golf to be seen in the event.

Tournament finals will be held the following week-end, with all matches starting at 2:30 in the afternoon Both semi-finals and finals will be 36-hole affairs, with 18-holes scheduled for each day.

The public is invited to watch the matches, free of any admission. The course will be cleared of other golfers, however, for thirty minutes, to allow the contestants to tee off.

Miller Selected Davidson Coach

DAVIDSON, N. C. (AP)—Danny Miller is the new Davidson College head basketball coach. His appointment as successor to resigned Boyd Baird was announced yesterday by Dr. John R. Cunningham, Davidson president.

Miller, who starred for four years as a player at Appalachian State College, has been coaching at Wingate Junior College the past six seasons. He will take over here Sept. 1.

In six years his Wingate teams won 159 and lost 39. The past two seasons Wingate competed in the national junior college tournament, finishing fourth last year and eighth this year.

Miller, who is 32 years old, served in the Navy for three years. He played with the 1946 Winston-Salem Hanes Hosiery team. He is currently coaching the Pageland, S. C. American Legion Junior baseball team. He plans to work on a master's degree at the University of North Carolina during the summer.

Several of his Wingate players have gone on to play college basketball. Most notable was Nield Gordon, star center for last season's Furman University team. Darrell Floyd, star of the last Wingate team, has another year remaining at the junior college. Miller said he hoped Floyd would enroll at Davidson.

Strikeout Artist Called

BRISTOL, Va.-Tenn. (AP)—The Bristol chapter of the fabulous "Neccial Strikeout Story" has ended.

For an overflow crowd which gathered to pay him homage, Rocket Ron Neccial put a blazing climax last night to his brief career in the Class D Appalachian League.

He struck out 24 Kingsport batters and pitched a two-hit, 7-1 victory for the Bristol Twins. It was only eight nights earlier that he set a record for organized baseball by striking out 27 in a nine-inning, no-hit victory over Welch, W. Va.

The six-five, 19-year-old Pittsburgh Pirate farmhand from Monongahela, Pa., ran his strikeout total to 109 in 42 2-3 innings.

Branch Rickey Jr., vice president in charge of Pittsburgh's farm sys- ready to move up. Rickey indicated ready to move up. Rickey indicate Pirate executives probably will decide today on the young fireballer's next step.

He may stay with the parent Pirates or be sent to the Hollywood Stars of the Pacific Coast League.

Neccial posted four wins in as many starts for Bristol, and twice saved victories in spectacular relief roles.

Five of the games are to be played on the East Carolina field.

The schedule:

Dodgers Break 5 Records In Game

By CARL LUNDQUIST
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP)—It was ladies' day in Brooklyn today, but Ebbets Field is no place right now for women or children.

The Dodgers are likely to frighten away all but the brave-hearted if they come even close to repeating last night's record-breaking, 19 to 1, massacre of Cincinnati.

Taking out after the Reds like they were the ones from Korea, Brooklyn scored 15 runs in the first inning, setting five new major league records in the process.

The 15 runs were an all - time modern high, as were the 21 men to come to bat in a single inning. The 15 runs-batted-in also was tops.

The 19 men who got on base safely put another entry into the books, and the fact that 12 men scored after two were out provided the fifth new mark.

Moving into first place undisputedly ahead of the New York Giants as they broke out of a prolonged hitting slump against four shell-shocked Cincy pitchers, the Dodgers made 10 hits in the inning drew seven walks, and two batters were hit by pitches.

Duke Snider touched it all off with a two-run homer and catcher Rube Walker drove in three runs with two hits. Pee Wee Reese, Andy Pafko, and pitcher Chris Van Cuyk drove in two runs apiece in the amazing rally.

Van Cuyk, whose five-hit pitching was completely overshadowed by the other events, was also the mightiest Dodger at bat, collecting four straight singles. That was astonishing in view of the fact that he had gotten only three previous hits in his major league career.

The Giants fell half a game off the pace by dividing their day-night double header with the St. Louis Cardinals. They won the night game, 8 to 1 on the steady pitching of Dave Koslo who beat the Cardinals for the 10th straight time since 1950.

But Cliff Chambers held them to four hits to win the afternoon contest, 3 to 0.

In the other National League game Robin Roberts of Philadelphia won his seventh in a row, 7 to 3, against the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Chicago at Boston was rained out.

In the American League, Cleveland went three full games in front of Washington by defeating the Boston Red Sox, 5 to 1, while the St. Louis Browns topped the Senators, 2 to 1 in 10 innings.

The New York Yankees made it four straight over Chicago, winning 5 to 1, and Virgil Trucks pitched 6 1-3 innings of no-hit ball on top of his no-hitter the last time out, to give Detroit a two-hit, 5 to 1 win over the Philadelphia Athletics.

Thesz Takes His Wrestling Title

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Wonderful peace settled over the national wrestling scene today and Los Angeles reaffirmed its claim as a place of astonishing events.

Twenty-five thousand two-hundred and fifty-six persons turned out to see a wrestling show last night and they paid $103,277.75 for the privilege. Wrestling people say the marks were the greatest ever.

And today the world heavyweight champion, according to the National Wrestling Alliance which presumably rules the sport, is the man most everyone thought would reach the goal all the time, Lou Thesz of St. Louis.

Thesz, who is 33 and weighed 223, won the title when he vanquished Baron Michele Leone of Italy. Supposedly this solidifies all the claims for the national title made around the country.

Service Boxers Win Most Titles

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Emmett Gurney, University of South Carolina welterweight, decisioned Billy Hartman of Navy in the feature bout of the Southern Regional Boxing Tournament program last night. Navy and Air Force fighters carried off six of the 10 championships decided.

Gurney, beaten in the NCAA finals this year, grabbed an early lead by dropping Hartman for an eight count in the first round. It was the only knockdown of the three-round bout and won for the clouting collegian. They fought on almost even terms the rest of the way.

Gurney will go to Kansas City June 16 for the finals of the Olympic boxing tryouts.

Kentucky Faculty Asks De-Emphasis

LOUISVILLE, Ky (AP)—Abolition of subsidized football and de-emphasis of basketball at the University of Louisville is requested by faculty representatives.

Three professors representing the 90-member faculty of the college of arts and sciences asked trustees yesterday to:

Abolish subsidized football and arrange to terminate coaching contracts; abolish the office of athletic director; de-emphasize subsidized basketball; and apply all savings to genuine academic needs, chiefly faculty salary increases.

Kid Gavilan, world's welterweight champion, started as an amateur when he was 12 years old.

Decision Goes To Ailing LaMotta

DETROIT (UP) — Burly Jake LaMotta, who left a sick bed to defeat Eugene Silent) Hairston, turned his eyes to England today and a possible match with Randy Turpin, the king of British Empire middleweights.

The 30-year-old LaMotta said after taking an easy, unanimous 10-round decision from Hairston before 10,223 Olympia Stadium fans last night, that he was sick all last week with a stomach ailment but didn't consider calling off the fight.

Jake now is in a strange situation. James D. Norris, president of the International Boxing Club, has promised him a crack at the light heavyweight title.

However, LaMotta must wait until lightweight champion Joey Maxim and Ray Robinson, present middleweight champion, meet next month to decide who will wear the light heavy crown.

LaMotta said regardless of the Maxim-Robinson outcome, that he would take on which ever fighter the IBC chooses — which might be Robinson in an over-weight match if Maxim retains his championship.

There was no doubt that LaMotta, who scaled 168, defeated Hairston. Judge Jack Aspery favored Jake, 55-45, Judge Joseph Lenahan liked him 52-48, and referee Clarence Rosen gave him a 53-47 edge. There were no knockdowns.

Just Blink Your Eyes, And Fastest Jet Plane Is Gone

By RAY CARPENTER
AP Newsfeatures

DALLAS — The weird looking craft's two jet engines roared and it began rolling down the runway. Four or five seconds later it was airborne.

The pilot banked the plane sharply and pulled it skyward into a tight spiral. At the top of a 90-degree turn the "fastest fighter afloat" shot almost straight upward.

You blinked your eye and it was out of sight.

It was the Navy's newest jet interceptor, the F7U-3 Cutlass, designed to outfly and outfight any plane in the air. It probably is the fastest airplane produced in the United States today. The plane is manufactured here by Chance Vought, a division of United Aircraft.

Several pilots are known to have flown the F7U-1 Cutlass, predecessor of the F7U-3, faster than the speed of sound. Official sources, however, have not confirmed this. The Navy says the plane is in the "over 600 mile an hour class."

Plane Causes Shock Wave

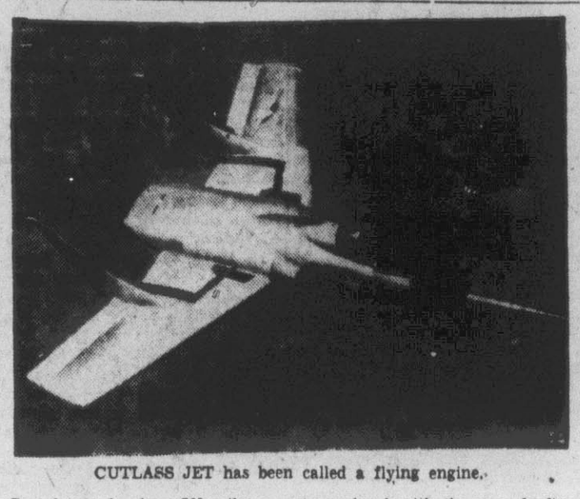
Col. Fred J. Ascani, 34, deputy commander of the flight test center at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif., dived the F7U-1 Cutlass so fast recently that it caused a shock wave. So did Lt. Col. Richard L. Johnson, 34, of Wright-Patterson test center at Dayton, O.

These shock waves vibrated a large area of nearby Dallas, and caused residents to fear a terrific explosion had occured in an industrial plant. Police and newspaper telephon exchanges were swamped with inquiring calls.

Dr. Wayne Redmose, a professor of physics at Southern Methodist University, said the planes had to go through the sonic barrier to cause the sound blast. "To set up a shock wave of this magnitude the plane would have to be going faster than the speed of sound," he said.



CUTLASS JET has been called a flying engine.

Sound travels about 760 miles an hour at sea level. At 40,000 feet, if the temperature is —40 degrees, the speed of sound is approximately 665 mph.

Two Jet Engines

The Cutlass is built around two turbo jet engines equipped with afterburners. The afterburners give the added boost needed for quick climbs and are used for combat emergency power.

The afterburner is an engine behind an engine. It creates additional thrust by burning the oxygen still left in the exhause air of the turbo jet power plant.

The greatest drawback of the afterburner is its insatiable thirst for fuel. It uses a great deal more than the jet engine.

Rate of Climb

The rate of climb of the Cutlass is almost unbelievable. Chance Vought officials won't say, but authoritative estimates place the rate of climb of 12,480 feet per minute at sea level with the use of afterburners.

This incredible rate of climb is gradually reduced at higher altitudes to an estimated 5,080 feet per minute at 35,000.

To look at it, you'd say the F7U's design is radical. It has no horizontal tail surfaces. The vertical stabilizer is built into the swept-back wings. Elevators and ailerons combined in the trailing edge of the stubby wings are known as ailavators.

But the designers say it is the logical answer to demands for high speed and the use of two jet engines in a fighter.

Flying Engine

The F7U is a departure from the flying wing theory. It is the nearest thing to a flying engine ever to reach production lines.

The pilot sits well forward in his cabin overlooking the plane's short nose. The cabin is pressurized, and either heated or cooled by automatic air conditioning equipment.

The F7U has yet to reach the fleet in numbers. But the Cutlass proved its worth in tests off the aircraft carrier U.S.S. Midway in July, 1951.

Cases Heard In City Police Court

By CHESTER WALSH

Dr. Henry F. Jones, retired 72-year-old Baptist minister, who was cited to Police Court to answer a charge of crashing a "stop sign' at Boyd and Myrtle avenues Tuesday night, pleaded guilty yesterday.

He testified that he did not see the sign and that his car collided with another car at the intersection and both cars were damaged. Dr. Jones stated that he had arranged to take care of all property damage. None of the occupants was injured.

Judge Charles H. Whedbee told the minister "the law requires that I fine you for crashing the stop sign, and I am going to make it the minimum—$5, and continue prayer for judgment. The judge instructed the court clerk not to accept any money from Dr. Jones. "I'll pay it myself," he added.

Alfred Junior Harrell, Negro, was given six months for breaking, entering and larceny of a watch.

William A. Hassell was given 30 days in jail for driving without an operator's license. Sentence was suspended on payment of $25 and costs.

Henry L. Collie paid $5 for failure to yield right of way.

James C. Albritton, hit-and-run driving, 30 days, suspended on payment of costs and he is to remain of good behavior for six months.

Prayer for judgment was continued in the case against William E. Cole for having a defective muffler. He paid $5 and is not to operate the car until the muffler is removed.

Speeding: Johnny E. Stubbs, $15; C. O. Lewis, $15; John Etzel, $16; Durwood B. Hawkins, $15.

Leroy T. Cherry paid $10 for crashing a red traffic light.

Linwood Manning was not guilty of reckless driving.

Calvin Brown, Negro, paid $10 for crashing a red traffic light.

James Jones, Negro, defective brakes and driving a car after his driver's license had expired, three months on the roads, sentence suspended on payment of $200 and costs. The court recommended that his driver's license be revoked for two years, beginning October 1, 1952 and he is not to violate any law for two years.

Calvin Brown, Negro, paid $10 for crashing a red traffic light.

Improper brakes: James L. Smith, Negro, $15; Frank Gorham, Negro (and lights), 30 days in jail, suspended on payment of $15, and he is not to operate a motor vehicle without proper brakes and lights; James Bradley, Negro, 30 days, suspended on payment of $15, and he is not to operate a car without brakes; Charles W. Pitt, Negro, $15.

No operator's license: Willie Wooten, Negro, 30 days, suspended on payment of $25, costs deducted. The court gave the same sentence to Lonnie Hill, Negro.

Re-Development Planned By Cities

CHICAGO — (UP) — The way is being cleared for more cities to start urban re-development programs, according to the National Association of Housing Officials.

A growing number of state courts are upholding the constitutionality under which cities condemn slum or blighted areas and sell the land to private development agencies.

The association reports that of four state supreme court decisions handed down on such laws in the last year, three were favorable.

That brings to seven the number of states in which supreme courts have upheld the laws. Meanwhile, test cases are pending in five land, Florida and Minnesota.

Michigan's supreme court was the most recent to approve the participation of cities in urban redevelopment. The court upheld the power of Detroit to condemn slum property and sell it to private builders.

Last year Tennessee's high court upheld on all counts the constitutionality of legislation empowering Tennessee housing authorities to condemn slum areas and, after clearance, to sell or lease them to private re-developers.

Other states where such laws have been upheld by the courts include Penpsylvania, New Jersey, Alabama, New York and Illinois. In Illinois, further court tests are pending, however

John Duncan, of Sebastopol, Calif., some 50 miles away, returned the wallet, after finding it in a bale of hay. The money was in the wallet when it was returned.

Thwarted Jail By Standing Still

OKLAHOMA CITY — (UP) — Jesus Casas Perales, aged 19, saved himself a probable trip to the penitentiary by just standing still.

Perales was arrested for violating a two-year suspended sentence by failing to get a job and hanging around taverns. He was being transferred to county jail with another prisoner when the other man made a break for freedom.

While deputies chased and captured the fugitive. Perales waited patiently in front of the courthouse until they returned. The judge decided not to revoke the sentence suspension.

RIVER DEPOSITS SAND

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. — (AP) — A layer of sand 2 to 6 feet deep covers an estimated 500 acres of rich Missouri bottom land in the wake of the recent Missouri River flood.

The "sand dune" was formed when the raging river topped and cut levees on either side of Rock Creek.

ROCKY GOT 'HURTED':—Three-year-old Judy Buch, Minneapolis, sobs inconsolably in her home while her little dog, Rocky, takes it easy after absorbing a shotgun charge. "Some bad mans shot him with a gun," Judy tearfully explains. Rocky was shot by an unknown assailant while romping around the neighborhood. Dozens of pellets struck him, but veterinarians figure Rocky will recover. (AP Wirephoto).

Stocks And Market Reports

NEW YORK (UP) — Railroad shares, with gains ranging to more than a point, stole the spotlight on the stock exchange today.

Outside of the carriers, improvements were generally in the fractional zone.

Southern Pacific was the bellwether in the carriers. Dealings in that issue were temporarily suspended when directors of the company raised the dividend and proposed a 2-for-1 stock split. When trading was resumed, a block of 8,700 shares changed hands at 77 3-4, up 3 1-2 points.

Other carriers also met demand on news that three operation unions accepted a White House plan for ending their three year dispute with the railroads.

Atlantic Coast Line jumped 2 3-8 points to 100 5-8.

Grocery Store In Falkland Robbed Of Goods, Cash

FALKLAND — Thieves struck in Falkland for the second time in less than two weeks last night when they broke into and looted a grocery store-gas station owned by Guy Moore.

Authorities reported this morning the robbers gained entrance by forcing the back door open. Once inside, they helped themselves to cigarettes, food, and clothing, and broke into a pool table to get $30 in cash.

The exact value of the missing merchandise could not be determined this morning, investigating officers said.

Investigation is being continued by the Pitt County Sheriff's office and S. B. Dorsey, Greenville Police Department.

Favor Raising Juvenile Limit

RALEIGH (UP)—North Carolina welfare officials have proposed raising the jurisdiction of juvenile courts for children to the age of 17. The legal limit is now 16.

Other legislative proposals favored by the state's county superintendents of public welfare during their current sessions here include laws permitting the counties greater flexibility in securing and administering funds for the aid of the permanently and totally disabled and clarification of the status of the guardianship of the person or children.

Welfare officials will wind up their three-day conference tomorrow.

Newsprint Cost May Bring Probe

NORTH WILKESBORO (UP) — The $10 per ton hike in Canadian newsprint will cause an extensive congressional investigation into "the pulpwood industry monopoly and public gouging," W. L. Shaddix of Birmingham, Ala., predicted here today.

Shaddix, who is promoting forest educatonal film distribution in schools in this area ,said the newsprint price hike "comes in the face of the tax exemption given the pulpwood mills recently (by former defense mobilizer) Charles E. Wilson."

"Such dollar lust as this is what brings about government control and more laws," Shaddix added.

Ballentine Points To Democratic Record For Further Inspiration

By LYNN NISBET
Daily Reflector Bureau
Assn. Afternoon Dailies

RALEIGH — North Carolina Democrats were told today they should not be satisfied with past accomplishments, but should look to the record of their party for inspiration to meet the challenge of the future.

They were further told that because of the large part they have had in formulating national government policies they have both the right and the obligation to take a hand in writing the platform and nominating candidates.

These admonitions were contained in the keynote address delivered by L. Y. Ballentine, commissioner of agriculture and former lieutenant governor, at the State Democatic Convention in Raleigh Memorial Auditorium today. Ballentine traced the progress of the United States and the development of North Carolina under Democratic leadership since the beginning of this century.

The roll call of the faithful included every Governor by name and an impressive array of legislation at both state and national levels designed to raise the economic, social and humanitarian standards of the people.

During the five successive Democratic national administrations since Hoover, total personal income (after direct taxes) of the American people rose from about $46 million in 1933 to more than $222 million in 1951. Twenty-four million Americans own their homes today, compared with 14 million in 1929—the year of greatest Republican prosperity.

In North Carolina the cash income from sale of farm products was less than $100 million in 1932. Last year it was $932 million. Bank deposits during the same period climbed from $205 million to more than $2 billion.

The tremendous economic growth of the nation and the state is less significant than social progress, according to the keynoter. We have provided unemployment insurance for the jobless, pensions for the aged, federal assistance for the needy, the blind and the disabled. We have sustained the unfortunate and restored dignity to those too old to work.

We have encouraged the building of better homes, guaranteed labor's right to organize and bargain collectively, abolish child labor and established minimum hours; we have protected the small business man from unscrupulous competition and provided safeguards for the consumer. We have helped to lower tariff walls and revive world trade through reciprocal agreements.

We have harnessed unbridled waters to provide flood control, extend navigaton and furnish plentiful electric power; and we have made it possible for those living in the rural areas to enjoy the benefits of electricity and telephones.

We have evolved a great system of agricultural legislation which besides helping the farmer assures an adequate supply of food and fiber for our expanding population. We have provided insurance against demoralizing surpluses and have mastered food production as a weapon of war and a tool for peace.

Under American Democratic leadership, through the Marshall Plan, NATO and other co-operative actions, the tide of communistic aggression has been stemmed throughout the world, while here at home communist leaders have been ferreted out and jailed.

State progress is dated from 1901 when Charles B. Aycock became Governor. Every succeeding Governor is mentioned by name as the story of progress in schools, unfolds.

The 71-day locally supported term of 1900 has grown into the 180-day nine months twelve grade state supported system of today. The $100 thousand appropriation then has been replaced by $107 million now. Instead of 8,000 teachers at average salary of $83, we have 29,000 teachers and principals at average salary of $2,832. In addition to underwriting school operating costs, the state has within the past few years given a powerful boost to school buildings, with state aid of $50 million.

The road program is traced from Governor Glenn's inaugural plaint that "mud and illiteracy lay the highest tax on the State," through inception of the State Highway Commission under Craig, the $50 million primary system bond issue under Morrison, to the $200 million secondary bond program under Scott; from a few miles of year-round roads near the larger cities to approximately 65,000 miles of paved or stabilized highways.

In public health and welfare progress has been rapid and consistent. "Look behind the brick and mortar and you will find revealed not only the State's interest in education, but its great humanitarian heart," declared Ballentine as he outlined the great social service program of the State.

In concluding, he warned that we cannot rest upon past accomplishments, but must carry to meet the greater challenge of the future. He said:

"Surely, this is the time when we should re-consecrate ourselves to larger service through greater deeds, realizing that the only true measures of the worth of a philosophy or a party is its service to humanity under God.

"If, in our deliberations, we find that we are not all of one mind in all things, let that not dismay us. The strength of the Democratic party is its breadth. In the face of differences of opinion I know of no better counsel than the sage advice of a Lutheran theologian to contending factions of the Protestant faith in an earlier age:

" 'In necessary things, unity; in doubtful things, liberty; in all things, charity'."

Small Still Near Tranters Creek Wrecked In Raid

The illegal whiskey making business suffered another setback yesterday when ABC officers discovered a small 50-gallon copper still in the Carolina Township near Tranters Creek.

The unit, complete with coil and cap, also had 300 gallons of mash, all of which was destroyed by dynamite.

No arrests were made by the raiding party as the still was not in operation at the time of the raid.

Officers making the raid were Pitt County ABC officers Jim Ward, J. L. Taylor, Claude Manning and Dick King, with Martin County ABC enforcement officials Joe Roebuck and Cecil Bullock.

"That they have so far been unsuccessful is no slightest mark of failure," he said.

He dismissed the Communist May Day demonstrations in Japan as "relatively minor in character" except the disorders in Tokyo, which he said "bore the unmistakable stamp of deliberate Communist design."

Thirty-six adults and 11 children were present at the May meeting of the Young Married Couples Class last Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Willie Pate with the Pates, Mr. and Mrs James Allen and Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Winchester as hosts.

A most delicious fried chicken supper with potato salad, carrot and pineapple salad, new garden peas, butter beans, pickles of all kinds, hushpuppies, hot rolls, ice tea and black chocolate, Devil's Food, Angel's Food, Boston Banana Cake and pineapple cakes were enjoyed by all.

James Sydney Allen presided over the meeting and Hazel Garris Tripp had charge of the devotional.

After the business meeting an hour of fun and recreation prepared by James Sydney Allen and Willie Pate was engaged in.

This will be of special interest to bald-headed people. If you would like to know how to make your hair grow, just contact our County Sanitarian and get him to give you some of the same concoction that he gave Ebern Allen and Leon Tyson. At last report these two men had grown three new hairs on top of their heads which were just as bald as the palm of your hand.

Is there anything about Sam Winchester that reminds you of a baboon, about Charles Jackson that reminds you of a nog, about Amos Evans that makes you think of a bootlegger or about Leota Tyson that makes you think of an angel?

The guests departed at a late hour after a most enjoyable evening of good food, good fun and good fellowship.

There were 46 members of the Young Married Couples Class present at Sunday School last Sunday with a collection of over $10.00. There were 147 present in the whole Sunday School.

Twenty-two members and ten visitors were present at Circle No. 1 meeting at Mr. and Mrs. Jarvis Tripp's last Sunday night. We were happy to have Rev. Tyer, his wife, mother and daughter as visitors; also Mrs. Mamie Harrington as well as the other guests.

A very inspiring devotional was given by Mrs. Jarvis Tripp Jr. and Mr. Tyer led the group in prayer.

Sixty-two sick visits were reported.

Mrs. Jarvis Tripp Sr., vice-chairman, presided over the meeting.

Mrs. Thurman Page reported that many good workers had been secured for the Daily Vacation Bible School which will be held the first of June.

Class of St. Delight's Church of Ormondsville. Mrs. Carson Edwards is the teacher of this class and the money from this minstrel show will be used to help build a recreation building at St. Delights. We hope the folks in our community will come and enjoy this show and help a good cause.

Lightning may strike many times in the same place, says the National Geographic Society. It has harmlessly hit the Empire State Building in New York City as many as 12 times in 20 minutes.

Secondly, Pitt County Chorus will meet at Red Oak on Thursday night, May 22, at 8 o'clock. Please be present.

Propaganda Is Playing Big Role In Cold War

By PHIL NEWSOM
United Press Foreign News Editor

A decoy jo-jo, the Communist peace dove, decorates a Paris billboard. Attached to his neck is a long cord held by an apache figure, a red star on his chest and in his hand a club, waiting for the suckers.

The leering apache caricature is Stalin. He carries a placard labeled "peace."

In Rome, in the Piazza Veneza, under the famous balcony where Mussolini once haranged the Fascists, stands a papier mache King Kong - type red monster, three stories high, tearing apart a Roman monument.

In East Berlin, a symbol of the hangman's noose appears mysteriously overnight on factory and jail walls, on fences and bridges.

In Italy, France and Germany, opposition forces are fighting the Communists in the way best suited to their national temperament.

In France, the "Peace and Liberty" organization is dedicated to the job of taking the latest Communist propaganda theme and turning it into a weapon of counter-propaganda.

One poster says:

"Take a vacation in the country of peace and liberty." Then it shows three gaunt and hungry workers clinging to symbolic bars in a territory labelled "U. S. S. R."

All who pass along the Paris boulevards must see the bright red and black poster. And no one misses the point of its bitter humor.

Another poster shows twin maps, labelled simply: "Where are the aggressors." It shows the boundaries of the Soviet Union in 1938 and then the expansion to the 1952 line of the Iron Curtain.

Italy's traditional artistic ingenuity has come into play in a derisive anti-Communistc campaign as the nation enters its last week before nationwide municipal elections.

Anti - Communist coins, neatly wrapped in cellophane, show a figure of Stalin on one side, labeled "Before," and on the other side "After" and a spurred boot crushing the symbolic figure of Italy in case of a Communist victory at the polls.

Other posters bear symbolic "danger" traffic signs. The signs are made up of the hammer and sickle and bear portraits of Red leader Palmiro Togliatti as a sort of dog-catcher, trying to muzzle the symbolic wolf of Rome.

The campaign is of a grimmer nature in Berlin. There, cleverly counterfeited Russian ruble bank notes appear. They are distributed by a Russian emigrant group, and on the back of the bills are such slogans as "Death to Tyrants."

Good Response To Napkin Sale

Members of the Greenville Exchange Club sold nearly $1,000 worth of paper napkins in bundles of five packages at $1 each Monday and Tuesday nights.

The sales were made during a two-night door-to-door canvass. "The public responded in a generous manner, and the Exchange Club sincerely appreciates it," Bill Riggans president, said today.

Robert S. (Sweeney) Moye, chairman of the Napkins Solicitations Committee, expressed appreciation for the good work of the members and the generous response of the public. "We have less than 100 bundles left, and we believe we will readily sell them," he added.

The Exchange Club will use the money to purchase an audiometer, an instrument for detecting defective hearing. The machine will be donated to the schools of Greenville and Pitt County. "Many children in school are backward, and we believe the audiometer will enable school officials to help them to advance in their classes."

Life's Savings Are Destroyed; Man In Despair

DAYTON, O. (UP)—A handful of white ashes was all that remained today of the $43,550 Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. White worked 27 years to save.

A bent pin found among the ashes in a trash barrel confirmed their fears that their life savings was among trash which Mrs. White burned. It was the same pin she had used to attach to her slip a plain muslin bag in which they had kept their savings "for years."

"I'm lost, I'm a loser," White said. "Everything's gone and I'm broke. I'm hurt too doggoned bad to talk about it."

White is a machinist and his wife works in a dime store. Their furniture is plain. Neither drinks or smokes and they seldom go to even a movie.

"Sometimes I think a body shouldn't even try to live," White said.

British Export Small Mountains

LONDON — (UP) — Mountains are being exported by Britain at $5,000 each. They are custom-made plastic and plaster miniatures of famous mountains of the world to be used by climbers, geologists, and others.

They are exact replicas of painstaking surveys and air photos. They show, in suitable color, every glacier, ridge and peak. Models of Mount Everest, the world's highest mountain, are now being delivered to members of the British expedition which, next year, will attempt to scale the "unconquered mountain."

The mountains are made by the same firm which, during World War II, made the models of the D-Day landing beaches for Gen. Eisenhower's planning staff.

ON THE HOUSE

By DAVID G. BAREUTHER, AP Real Estate Editor

Windows give householders a bigger variety of problems than almost any other part of a dwelling. You not only have to keep them washed to see through them, weatherstripped and calked to keep the rain out, in working order to let some fresh air in, fitted with screens to keep bugs out, equipped with storm sash to keep fuel bills down, but because of the ladies., fluffy curtains and decorative drapes must be hung as a sort of defiance of the orchitect who planned the windows.

But one of the biggest problems about windows in a home is to keep the view a one-way street—from the inside out. It's all right for stores to have windows inviting views from the outside in, but when you get home you want privacy. And sun fading of carpets and upholstery can present quite an economic problem for the family budget.

In fact, a few years ago a news story out of Washington, D. C., estimated that sun-fading of household furnishings cost something like $15 million a year. Sales of Venetian blinds thereupon jumped from a total of $83 million to $320 million within three years—coincidentally or not.

Some of the reasons Venetian blinds have become so popular are their insulating value, their light and air control and their decorative possibilities.

Anyone who has ever worked nights and tried to sleep behind an old-fashioned window shade exposed to the blazing summer sun, knows how it absorbs heat like a tent. Of course roller shades are a lot cheaper than Venetian blinds, but the latter because of their slats, are automatically air-cooled. According to engineering estimates, slats tilted at a 45-degree angle have an insulating value grading from 20 to 35 per cent at the window.

One of the handicaps with Venetian blinds is the sizeable stack they make at the top of the window when raised. If you have a valence or box-cornice across the top of the window, this doesn't matter so much. But with large picture windows, especially when the view is slightly uphill, every inch that is cut off from that view becomes important.

This bundle has been decreased considerably by metal Venetian blinds. Metal slats usually pack up into three-quarters of an inch for every foot of dropping length. Wood slats usually take up about one inch for each foot of window length.

A smart amateur decorator recently contrived a novel method for concealing such bundles above windows. This was done by cutting and raising the window frame, or boxing the top of the window, to create a recess to accommodate the raised blind.

About 2½ inches were allowed for the top rail of the blind and three-quarters of an inch per extended foot of metal slats.

In this way, the raised blind disappeared up into the wall, leaving the window entirely exposed for view.

Kitchen curtains, usually requiring more frequent laundering than any other curtains in a house, can be entirely eliminated by ingenious uses of Venetian blinds. A woman's penchant for colorful frills can be met by framing the window with scalloped thin hardboard, such as Masonite or plywood. This can be painted to suit in a color contrasting to the enameled slats of the blinds. Colorful fabrics to carry out the kitchen decoration can be sewed to the tapes of the blinds and slats of contrasting colors an be slipped in for accents.

This boxing of windows is a simple job for the home craftsman. Lumber dealers often carry scalloped fiberboard in stock, or tempered hardboards can be cut with an ordinary coping saw.

Venetian blinds are easy to install. When measuring for them, allow enough clearance on each side, measuring the opening all the way down for its narrowest point. Windows frames sometimes are out of plumb.

Most Venetian blind brackets are designed for mounting on either the inside or outside of a window frame. The top rail is detached from the headboard and, with the slats, it is allowed to rest on the window sill at the ends of the cords while the headboard is screwed into place. Cords are readily adjustable and if measurements are accurte when the blinds are ordered, they should fall to the proper length.

Maginot Line Is Again Receiving French Attention

METZ, France — (UP) — France's Maginot Line, ill-starred memento of the nation's shattered dreams of peace, is back in the picture as a primary target in the East-West cold war.

Miles of flaking concrete pillboxes nestle against the once more strategic German frontier, resting like wounded veterans their rusting turrets in the sun.

Here and there a battle-worn French 75-millimetre artillery piece, rifling protected from weather with a fresh coat of grease, peeps from a pock-marked turret across fertile felds still strewn with grim rubble and souvenirs of the last great war.

Good Protection

The battered emplacements that the Germans never really breached have an added significance today. The three-foot thick reinforced concrete shielding the Maginot is rather good protection from all but the mightiest artillery or a very close strike by an atomic bomb.

The French have been reported reliably to be improving the Maginot Line. They probably have done a little. If the war in Indo-China didn't cost so much, probably they would be doing a lot more. A motorist can drive for a hundred miles through the multi-million dollar emplacements and never see a soldier.

"I wouldn't mind a t.. being inside there if the Russians started shooting at me," one World War II veteran said. He pointed at the slits for machine guns covering a field of fire for miles.

The main German attack went north of the Maginot The Germans, retreating in 1945, turned some of the heavy Maginot emplacements around, set up radar defenses and forced the allies to pay bitterly before the defenses fell.

Russians Aware

As the Comunists give evidence, the Russians realize the Maginot's value and are doing their utmost to prevent the West from using the fortresses again.

"This must never be used again—down with the 18-months conscription." The party line signs are plastered in three-foot tall letters all over the huge fortresses where the Maginot snakes north through industrial France.

Herds of peaceful cattle graze contentedly over the forts where several divisions could be emplaced in ease of another war.

"There are no soldiers now," a local farmer said, "but as you have noticed, the guns are oiled."

The Army's 12,000 Wacs are stationed in Japan, Germany, Austria, France, Italy and in the Caribbean area as well as at Army installations in this country.

LIGHTS FOR THE CITY OF LIGHT — With Paris spread out beneath them, workmen move around scaffolding to put finishing touches to two new beacons on the Eiffel Tower to guide planes flying near and over the French capital.

Alben W. Barkley, three for Mutual Security Director W. Averell Harriman, and one each for Eisenhower, Russell, and Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson.

Russell was due back in Florida today for the second round of his presidential primary match there against Kefauver. The Georgia senator won the first, a popularity contest vote, May 7.

Florida Democrats vote again next Tuesday to elect 24 national convention delegates.

Despite his earlier victory, Russell faced trouble in Florida because there were too many pro-Russell delegate candidates running against a single slate of Kefauver candidates.

An "official" Russell slate has been named, but other candidates remained on the ballot to split the Russell vote.

Russell supporters here were conceding Kefauver six to 10 of the Florida delegates because of this situation.

Kefauver has no plans to return to Florida. He is campaigning in California for 68 delegates to be elected in the June 3 primary.

Mailman Mixed Up With Police

OKLAHOMA CITY (UP) — An Oklahoma City mailman sued the city for $75 to repay him for 50 hours of time spent searching for his car while it was safely stored in the police garage.

Jack G. Reese also wanted $27 for taxi fares paid while the vehicle was gone, $50 in punitive damages, $7.50 for depreciation and $60 to repair the transmission, which he said police damaged.

The city, on the other hand, wanted Reese to pay for four parking tickets and a storage fee on the automobile.

Both Reese and the police stolen car division searched for the vehicle for nine days before learning that the police parking division had towed it in to the garage because of the unpaid tickets.

Russell Looks To N.C. For Support

WASHINGTON (UP) — Sen. Richard B. Russell of Georgia counted on North Carolina to provide him with a big bloc of Democratic convention delegates today but Florida campaign problems kept him worried.

North Carolina Democrats were scheduled to name 40 national convention delegates—the second largest Southern delegation—at today's state convention.

Before leaving to resume his Florida campaign, Russell told reporters that he expects to get the support of a substantial majority of the North Carolina delegation, although it may be officially "uninstructed."

The campaign organization of Sen Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, another candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, also claimed support in North Carolina but did not expect to win a majority.

On the Republican side, Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio headed into South Dakota to campaign for votes in the June 3 primary. It will be Taft's last primary test and his only remaining pre-convention race against Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower his chief rival for the GOP presidential nomination.

David S. Ingalls, Taft's campaign manager, said in a statement that the Ohioan now has 474 delegates, or 78 per cent of the 604 needed for the nomination.

The United Press tabulation of instructed and publicly committed delegates gave Taft 386 and Eisenhower 360.

Ingalls also said Eisenhower had made "the biggest blunder" of the campaign by saying at Oslo, "If the people want me for president, they will know where to find me."

Eisenhower's headquarters in Paris announced he will turn over his command of European defense forces to Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway on May 30 and leave for home May 31. He is due in Washington June 1 where he will report to President Truman and then return to civilian clothes.

A Newsweek magazine poll of 50 leading political writers in Washington showed that 35 of them think Eisenhower will get the Republican nomination and 11 think it will go to Taft. Three guessed the GOP nominee will be Gov. Earl Warren of California and one said it will be Sen. Everett M. Dicksen of Illinois.

On the Democratic side, seven persons were mentioned. There were 20 guesses for Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois, 17 for Kefauver, seven for Vice President

Sentence Upheld, One Is Reversed

RALEIGH — (AP) — Decisions by the State Supreme Court have reversed the life imprisonment sentence of one man and upheld the death sentence of another.

In an opinion handed down yesterday the court reversed the conviction of Claude Needham on arson and murder charges. It said Judge J. C. Rudisill should have dismissed the charges when Needham was tried in Stokes Superior Court because the state's evidence was not sufficient.

In another case, the court found no error in the death conviction of John Andrew Roman, Negro.

The decision means Roman will be executived June 6, unless Gov. Scott extends clemency or there is an appeal to federal courts

Roman, ice plant worker, was convicted in Davidson County or murdering Mrs. Beulah Miller, 65.

Needham was accused in th burning of a house in which James O. Lawson was burned to death. Associate Justice Jeff Johnson Jr., in the igh court's opinion, said the state had offered evidence that the state had offered evidence that the fire might have been incendiary, "but it does not follow that Needham was the incendiary."

Although the murder and arson convictions are reversed Johnson wrote that trial testimony "involves the defendant in a sordid course of conduct and a series of infractions of the laws of this state for which he may yet be tried.."

Mrs. Miller's body was found in the hall of her Lexington home last Aug. 13. Roman's fingerprints were discovered at the scene. The court said evidence in the case pointed "unerringly to the defendant's guilt."

Umstead, Olive Attending Rally

RALEIGH — (AP) — William B. Umstead and Hubert E. Olive contenders for the Democratic nomination for governor, did their politicking today at the party's state convention.

Headquarters for the two candidates greeted a steady stream of visitors in town for the big convention.

Preliminary campaign reports, listing contributions and expenses, were filed yesterday by Olive and Umstead.

Contributions listed by Olive totaled $20,293, including $4,000 from him and Mrs. Olive. His expenses totaled $16,627.36.

Umstead's report showed contributions of $14,140 and expenses of $12,431.71. Both candidates must file final reports within 20 days after the May 31 primary.

The reports were the first to be filed in a major race since the last Legislature removed the limits on the amount that may be spent in a campaign. The old limit was $12,000 in a primary campaign for governor.

Senate Fight Is Brewing Over Revamped WSB

WASHINGTON — (AP) — A Senate fight brewed today over a committee-approved bill to revamp the Wage Stabilization Board.

Despite an AFL boycott threat and CIO criticism of the plan, the Senate Banking Committee formally recommended yesterday that Congress scrap the present board and replace it with an all-public panel. The new board would be stripped of authority to recommend settlement of union-management disputes—as the existing wage board did in the steel case.

Organized labor, industry and the public are equally represented on the present 18-member board.

The committee bill approved is scheduled to come up for Senate action soon. The measure keeps intact earlier recommendations by the committee that:

1. Wage-price controls be continued until next March 1.

2. Rent controls and authority to allocated scarce essential materials be extended through June 30, 1953.

The Senate committee also voted to revise the controversial Capehart provision of the existing law in a move to avert retail price increases for food and other commodities.

Young Actress Takes Overdose Of Sleeping Pills

NEW YORK (UP) — Patricia Wisotsky, 18, who uses the professional name of Pat Ward as a protege of actress Martha Raye, took an overdose of sleeping pills early today in Miss Raye's apartment, police said.

Miss Raye said she could not explain the girl's action. Miss Wisotsky was listed as in good condition at Roosevelt Hospital.

Miss Wisotsky was nightclubbing last night with Miss Raye and her husband, Nick Condos, the actress said. The three returned to Miss Raye's Hampshire House apartment early this morning.

There, the actress told police, Miss Wisotsky suddenly appeared in the living room and said, "Well, I did it." She explained, Miss Raye said, that she had swallowed the contents of a bottle of sleeping pills.

Miss Raye called police who took the girl to Roosevelt Hospital.

Former N.C. CIO Director In Center Of Textile Union Fight

By The Associated Press

Lewis Conn, former North Carolina CIO textile workers director, is the focal point of the latest developments in the tug-of-war followers between warring factions of the Textile Workers Union of America.

Conn refused last night to meet a National CIO demand that he appear for a hearing in New York on charges of "dual unionism." Conn said he wrote the general secretary of the TWUA-CIO, William Pollock, that he would not appear on May 29 because he is a member of the textile local union in Danville, Va., which has joined the United Textile Workers (AFL).

Conn also said last night that the "rebel" forces in the CIO counter-Challenge Emil Rieve, TWUA president, "to meet George Baldanzi in open debate in Danville Sunday." Baldanzi is former TWUA vice-president and current leader of the insurgent forces. A few days ago, Baldanzi was appointed organizational director for the AFL and he has led the movement within the CIO to disaffiliate and move over to the rival union.

The open debate referred to by Conn came as a result of a challenge to such a debate by Kenneth Kramer, CIO-TWUA International representative stationed by Rieve in Danville.

Another late development yesterday was the announcement by Howard Parker, Durham local leader, that 150 workers of the Erwin Mills' Neuse plant had voted to switch to the AFL.

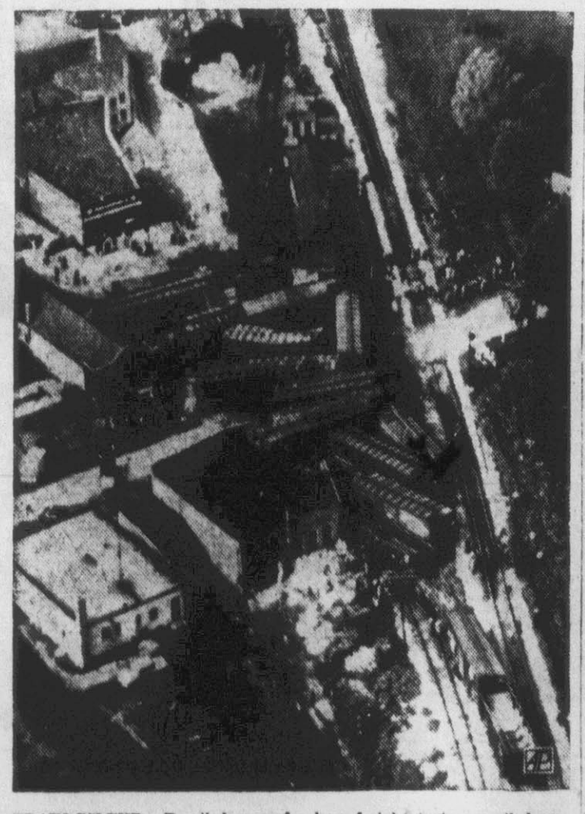
Also in Durham, Tennessee CIO Director Herbert Williams, who was sent by the CIO to replace the ousted Parker as head of the Joint Board, said that a claim and delivery action had been started for possession of furniture and office equipment in the board's office.

Meanwhile, James Bamford, Southern Director for the "loyalist" CIO forces, issued a statement saying that Conn's "exaggerated claims ... are tapering off. For example, he has revised his Monday statement of 50 organizers and staff members who have been fired to 27 in his statement tonight."

The reference was to the claim of the "rebel" forces within the CIO-TWUA that after a Baldanzi-led move to unseat Rieve as president failed at the national convention in Cleveland last month, there have been reprisals in the form of ousters from organization jobs.

Baldanzi's group claims a widespread disaffiliation movement with in the TWUA, but the Rieve forces assert that the secessionists are pretty well localized in North Carolina and at Danville.

At Atlantic City, N. H., a top CIO official declared that Baldanzi's efforts are "doomed to failure."



TRAIN PILEUP.—Derailed cars of a long freight train are piled up in the downtown area of the small community of Sawyer, Mich., after it collided with a pickup truck at a crossing. The pileup shattered a lumber company warehouse (lower center), and rammed into the railroad station (upper center). Police reported no persons were killed in the spectacular derailment. # Capitol Square huddle did not include some folks who would have given a couple of eye teeth —maybe one eye—to be on the inside; but it did include supporters of both William Umstead and Hubert Olive, the leading candidates for Governor. And the huddlers had a mass of material "suggested" by people from all parts of the state and representing all possible factions in the Democratic party.

SPEECH — L. Y. Ballentine, commissioner of agriculture, also had a lot of help —requested and volunteer — on his keynote speech. There is an important difference in the effect of the two documents, however similar or different they may prove to be in idea content. The keynote speech is "Stag" Ballentine's, before and after its delivery. The tentative platform is Gregg Cherry's only before delivery. After it is adopted, whether with or without material change in text, it ceases to be Cherry's and becomes the dictum of the Democratic party in North Carolina. Nobody is obligated to agree with the keynote address, but every Democrat who participates in the convention is honor bound to support the platform which is finally adopted.

BOLTERS—There are historic examples of convention participants "bolting" the platforms. A good many North Carolinians did that in 1928, and offered in defense of their action the subsequent bolting of the national platform by Al Smith, the presidential nominee, on the liquor question. Less spectacular, but more important was the "bolting" of Franklin Roosevelt from national platform declarations as to economy and decentralization in the federal government.

Offers Reward For Wrong Sale

CLEVELAND, O. (UP)—An embarrassed department store official said today he will offer a $100 reward for the return of a can opener sold to a customer for $3.95.

The May Co. spokesman said the gold-plated diamond-and-ruby studded can opener, used for advertising purposes, had got mixed with boxes holding regular openers.

VIO Executive Vice President Allan S. Haywood also stated that local union delegates had a chance at the national convention to study the issues in the fight between Baldanzi and Rieve. Haywood denied that the CIO's decision to string along with Rieve was undemocratic, as the "rebel" forces and the AFL have charged.

Rieve won, Haywood added, and therefore gets CIO support. He said that for AFL President William Green to call this undemocratic is "an insult to delegates to the textile workers convention, to the membership and to the democratic procedure itself."

Arrests Announced In $100,000 Robbery

NEW YORK (UP) —FBI agents held a champagne-drinking former private detective and a red-haired nightclub singer today in the $100,000 robbery at the Quonset Point, R. I., Naval Air Station.

G-men arrested Howard Hildebrandt, 26, and Gloria Dale, 30, yesterday while they were eating at a Times Square restaurant. Money found on Hildebrandt was identified as part of the loot.

At the same time, FBI operatives apprehended another man, Robert LaPlante, 27, at West Warwick, R. I., in connection with the bold daylight holdup in front of the station's credit union March 7.

The men were charged with robbery on a government reservation. Miss Dale, who sings in a Greenwich Village night spot, was detained as a material witness. She did not meet Hildebrandt until after the robbery.

Hildebrandt, father of two children, faced arraignment here today and LaPlante awaited similar action at Providence, R. I.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said in Washington that his agency was not looking for anyone else in connection with the robbery at the moment.

Two men wearing overalls and overshoes and hiding their faces behind flesh-colored rubber masks seized the $100,000 from an office manager and guard as the money was being delivered to the credit union to cash civilian employes' checks.

The robbers sped away in an automobile which was found near East Greenwich, R. I., after someone had attempted to burn it.

FBI spokesman said agents cracked the case by studying the naval station payroll. They learned that LaPlante, who worked there as a mechanic until last week, was absent on the eve and day of the robbery.

Further checking, authorities said, revealed that LaPlante worked part time at Hildebrandt's West Warwick gunshop.

Agents then began watching the movements of Hildebrandt, who once worked as a private detective after graduating from a correspondence school.

Authorities said Hildebrandt started making the rounds of the night clubs in New York, spending as much as $250 a night for champagne and for entertainment. He met Miss Dale at Tony Pastor's Club shortly after she began singing there last April 16.

Friends of Hildebrandt said he made no effort to give his wife any luxuries, preferring to spend his money on singers.

Neither Hildebrandt nor LaPlante had a criminal record.

Bread And Water For Convicts Of Michigan Prison

JACKSON, Mich., (UP)— Bread and water was the fare of hooting convicts in Jackson Prison's Cellblock 15 today, as the man who gave them steak and ice cream after last month's $1,000,000 riot resigned.

Dr. Vernon Fox, assistant deputy warden who broadcast "congratulations" to the rioters after their wild rampage had brought death to one prisoner and injury to scores of others, resigned in a letter to State Corrections Commissioner Earnest C. Brooks.

The bread and water diet for more than 200 hardened convicts in disciplinary Cellblock 15 followed a noisy demonstration yesterday in which guards turned fire hoses on shouting prisoners, without effect.

But Warden Julian Frisbie said there was no indication that the commotion was connected with the resignation of Fox, prison psychiatrist who conducted negotiations with riot ringleaders for the release of eight guard hostages.

Lingerie-Makers Encourage Boys

NEW YORK (UP) —A lingerie manufacturer, tickled pink by the new boom in his business, says he thinks college boys haven't gone far enough in their rash of undie raids.

"I hope they'll go after slips, bras and nighties next," James Lowry, vice president of Lingerie, Inc., said. "Let it be progressive. The freshman can take panties, the sophomores bras, the juniors slips and the seniors nighties."
