Fighter-Bombers Raze Huge War Industrial Area In North Korea

Biggest Aerial Blow Of Korean War Destroys Key Factories, Supplies

SEOUL, Korea (UP) — Allied fighter-bombers from land and sea smashed a huge war industrial suburb southwest of the North Korean capital of Pyongyang today in the climax of a two-day attack that was the biggest aerial blow of the Korean war.

American and Australian planes, including aircraft carrier dive bombers, flew night and day from the opening strike at dawn Thursday. They leveled 305 buildings, among them a hand grenade factory and power plant, and damaged 151 more.

They attacked with hundreds of tons of bombs and thousands of gallons of napalm plus five-inch rockets and 50-caliber machine gun bullets.

The 5th Air Force did not announce the exact number of sorties flown for "security reasons," but the total probably was above 1,000.

It was announced that the raid topped in both sorties and destruction, the previous high of "more than 900" sorties flown against the ancient walled town of Suwon on May 8.

At Suwon 180 buildings were destroyed and two square miles of supplies wrecked.

The record 48-hour attack was aimed at a manufacturing and supply area that ranged from nine to 15 miles southwest of Pyongyang toward its Yellow Sea port of Chinnampo.

It was the climax to five months of stealth reconnaissance during which fighter-bombers deliberately ignored the "rich pickings" to let Communists accumulate a tremendous stockpile of supplies for destruction at one blow.

Lt. Robert C. Saffell, Sacramento, Calif., said the damage was unbelievable.

"I was on the last flight in," he said. "The buildings were all damaged so badly we just knocked down the walls that were left standing by the earlier flights."

A 5th Air Force communique said:

"The devastated area, like the one hit yesterday, was made of factories, factory-type buildings, barracks, power houses and other storage buildings."

Pilots said huge secondary explosions sent towers of flame and smoke billowing out of the already burning wreckage. They believed they had hit stores of ammunition and fuel.

The shuttle attacks, with pilots going back for second and third missions as fast as they could reload bombs and ammunition, were not broken off until heavy rain clouds obscured the still-smoking target area.

Communist MIG-15s, which during the Suwon raid came as far south as Pyongyang, were not sighted by American Sabre jets flying protective patrols for the fighter-bombers.

On the ground, Communist mortar and artillery shelled U.N. positions with 2400 rounds on a three- to one-half mile front northwest of Yonchon Thursday night. Eighth Army headquarters reported that Allied ground forces killed an estimated 1,127 Reds, wounded 1,171 and captured 27 in the week ended May 15-21.

Aviation Fuel Shortage Grows

DENVER (AP) — Even though a strike of oil industry pipeline and refinery workers neared an end today, shortage of aviation gasoline became more serious.

Commercial airlines announced drastic reductions in flights. They asked Secretary of the Interior Chapman to decontrol aviation fuel in view of the spreading contract settlements.

Airlines announcing further curtailment of operations include Pan-American World Airways and American Airlines.

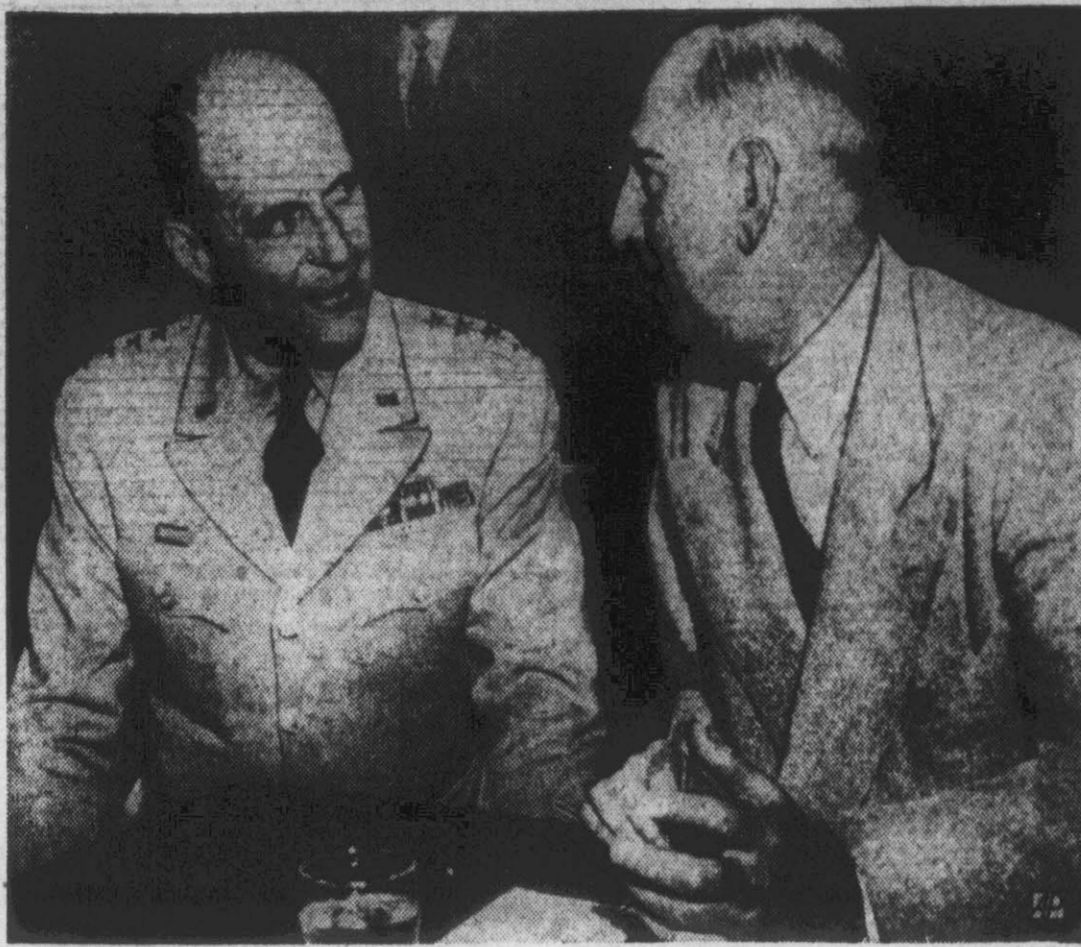

Dr. Messick Announces Scholarship By Reflector

Dr. John D. Messick, president of East Carolina College, announced today he had been officially notified of the establishment of a series of annual four-year scholarships to the college to be awarded by The Daily Reflector to some graduates of Greenville or Pitt County high schools each year.

The scholarships are a memorial to the late David Jordan Whitehead (1882-1922), founder of The Reflector, who during his lifetime as editor and publisher of the newspaper, devoted untiring efforts in behalf of public education in Pitt County and the establishment and progress of East Carolina College.

Under terms of the agreement the scholarships will be awarded to young men or women on the basis of their scholastic record in high school, their desire for a college education, and their need for financial assistance to procure a high-

Park Money Allocated For More Facilities Projects

Completion Of Tennis Courts And Basketball Courts Scheduled; Will Begin Construction Of Activities Building

By JESS POINDEXTER Reflector Staff Writer

Elm Street Park project moved into "high gear" last night as money was allocated to complete the tennis courts, basketball court, and begin construction of the activities building.

Jimmie Harris, chairman of the finance committee, reported that the park fund stands at just under $7,000, with several pledges still not collected. "We have mailed requests for funds to 16 out-of-town chain store offices and we expect approximately $800 from that source," he said.

A total of 400 of the 700 personal solicitation cards sent out earlier have been returned, and Lions will be requested to turn in all cards not later than next Monday night, Harris added. Then he will hold a house-to-house canvass of all the homes in Greenville.

Tennis Court Cost Last night's discussion revealed that the original cost of the tennis courts, which was $5,000 for four, has been reduced to $1,585 for four. Connor Eagles explained that the courts are to be graded up and rolled before asphalt is applied. "The asphalt will be about the same thickness as is rolled on highways — one and one quarter inch thick," Eagles reported.

City Recreation Director Warren Carroll stated, "I think while the contractor is at the park site, it will be advisable to have him pave the basketball court at the same time the tennis courts are rolled." The committee approved an expenditure of $2,000 for both the tennis courts and basketball court, "to be paved when the foundation is firm."

Eagles asserted that the foundation is sound and will not require a crushed rock base as previously planned. He emphasized that the type of clay and sand to be found at the park makes a gravel base unnecessary.

Work on the fireplaces and tables in the picnic areas has already begun, and a spokesman for the Moose Lodge disclosed lodge members are making preparations to lay out the walks through the picnic area and cover them with sand and gravel.

He said the rock will cost about $4.00 per ton, and estimated the entire project will require at least 80 tons of rock. "The members

Clark Orders Army Gain Koje Control

Gen. Boatner Puts Guards Through Riot Drills And Warns Prisoners He Is Ready To Seize Reins Of Red Camp

KOJE ISLAND, Korea (UP) — Gen. Mark W. Clark ordered the 8th Army to get "contested control" over defiant Communist prisoners of war and his commander there warned the Reds today he is ready and able to carry out the orders.

Clark, supreme United Nations commander in the Far East, said that "the prisoners' flagrant disregard of our instructions will not be tolerated any longer." A headquarters spokesman in Tokyo said the order was passed on to Koje, where prisoners have been running the compounds to suit themselves, as "intolerable."

Brig. Gen. Haydon L. Boatner put his American guards here through riot drills with bayonets and gas masks. He informed the town commissioners here last night that "you can see for yourself

Swartz Talks To Winterville Board

Promises Rate Review; Dail Indicates Relief In Sight

WINTERVILLE — Martin Swartz, Greenville Utilities Commission superintendent, appeared before the town commissioners here last night and promised to check into Winterville utilities rates to see what could be worked out.

The Winterville Town Commissioners appeared before the Utilities Commission at its last meeting in reference to the reduction of rates in utilities for Winterville. The town commissioners are seeking to bring their rates within the Greenville range rates.

Swartz spoke before the city fathers at a called meeting of the town board last night to explain how the rates were calculated and how the town of Winterville gets its current. Last year's average rate for Winterville was 1.52 cents per kilowatt hour, and Walter Dail, one of the Winterville commissioners, stated that Swartz admitted the rate was higher than it should be.

The board asked Swartz for adjustment in the wholesale rates so they can reduce retail rates for Winterville citizens. A study of the situation was authorized last night for investigation as to what could be done about the reduction in rates.

The utilities superintendent stated that a thorough check would be made into the matter and a report made at the next meeting of the Utilities Commission.

Dail said this morning that the board seemed to be satisfied over the meeting last night and feel that they will get relief in rates around July 1.

Troops Sail For Duty In Europe

NEWPORT NEWS, Va. (AP) — Memories of World War II returned here yesterday as the first troop movement through this port since the war was completed.

Troops from Fort Bragg, N. C. were among the 2,500 men who boarded the transport Gen. A. W. Greely bound for the NATO command.

he (Boatner) has the power to enforce his command."

Boatner also ordered South Korean civilians living near the compounds to move elsewhere.

He told the Communists that he "will command this camp." He said he hopes to do it peacefully but has the power to back up his orders if it becomes necessary.

Boatner, commander of camps holding 80,000 prisoners, distributed a new information bulletin to prisoners who still retained tight control inside the compounds and flew illegal flags and propaganda banners.

Boatner replaced his deputy camp commander, Col. Maurice J. Fitzgerald, who twice has commanded the Koje camps.

This morning at notorious Compound 76 where the former camp commander was seized and held hostage, M-Sgt. Ernest Noble Jr. of San Antonio handed a packet of 44 bulletins to a North Korean spokesman.

The Communists were reluctant to accept the package. They asked whether the "No. 1 spokesman" would be allowed to talk with news correspondents. Capt. Joseph Hunter, commandant of Compound 76, told him "no." Finally one of them took the package.

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union charged formally today that Iran's acceptance of American military aid violates the 1921 Soviet-Iranian treaty admitting Russian troops to Iran if that country's soil is used by foreign military forces hostile to the Soviets.

The Kremlin made its protest in a note delivered by Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky yesterday to the Iranian ambassador here. It accused Iran, a Russian neighbor on the south, of "co-operating with the U.S. government in the implementation of the latter's aggressive plans against the Soviet Union."

Observers here consider it likely that, because of the Russian protest, Iran will reconsider her acceptance of the U. S. aid, and, if she does not, the Soviets will follow up with another strong protest.

Dormitory-Raiding Craze Reaches N. C. Campuses

By UNITED PRESS College campus party raids are still with us, and military measures are being used to break them up. In addition to gunfire, tear gas and percussion bombs, the draft laws are being dusted off.

A new outbreak of raids hit colleges last night amidst increasing reports that expulsion from school with its attendant loss of draft deferment would be used against the students.

College officials, who have been ignored for the most part in their pleas to college men to refrain from entering women's quarters in search of panties and bras, seized on the new weapon.

The threat of military service via the expulsion route was a real one. A spokesman for Selective Service at Washington said that when "students cease to attend school, their deferment ends."

Ridgway Claims Communists On Defensive, Now

Sees New Pitch Of Hysteria As Free World Gaining Strength

WASHINGTON (UP) — Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway asserted today that the Communists have been forced on the defensive by "the growing strength and determination of the free world."

The former Far Eastern commander who on May 30 will become chief of European defenses forces said that Communist propaganda has hit "a new pitch of hysteria and vulgarity" because the free world is frustrating their designs.

Ridgway addressed a luncheon meeting of the National Press Club, the Women's National Press Club, and the Overseas Writers Club.

He said that even before his arrival at his new headquarters, European Communists are vilifying him "as a war criminal, a microbe-killer, and Fascist murder, ad nauseam."

He attributed this in part to the fact that the United Nations forces under his command blocked the Reds in the Far East. Now that he has been assigned to the supreme command of Atlantic Pact forces the Communists "know, I hope, that I will give this vital mission everything that I have got," Ridgway said.

Earlier he told House members there is no shortage of ammunition in Korea. He said the only major lack in Korea today is jet planes. The general's meeting with two House committees was closed and his testimony was not officially made public. However, sources said the general assured members that reports of arm ammunition shortages in Korea are based on "erroneous information."

Rep. Dewey Short (R-Mo) had said he would ask Ridgway about the reports.

Congressmen of both parties praised Ridgway for a "clear, factual, dispassionate" report on the Far East "situation in his address to a joint meeting of the House and Senate."

Short said many House members have been receiving "complaints from home" about reports from Army Chief of Staff Gen. J. Lawton Collins that "certain types" of ammunition have had to be rationed in Korea.

"Ridgway has been there and should be able to give us the real facts on whether our men are getting enough ammunition and equipment," he said.

Western Union Strike Near End

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Western Union Telegraph Co., and striking AFL Commercial Telegraphers Union reached agreement today on a new contract to end the walkout now in its eighth week.

The agreement is subject to ratification of the CU's 30,000 members in Western Union. The strikers will return to work Monday if the ratification is reached by then.

The agreement provides: Ten-cent an hour wage increase for all employees on the 40-hour work-week. All 1-3-hour employees will be placed on a 40-hour work week with a 20 per cent increase in straight time hourly rates of pay. In other words, this is 48 hours pay for 40 hours of work.

All 35-hour employees will continue on the present work-week and will receive an across-the-board increase of $2 per month. There will be no union shop, one of the union's original demands. Instead an "agency shop" was agreed to, a device by which employees will pay union dues but will not be required to join the union.

The contract will become effective only when the Federal Communications Commission approves rate increases for the company to compensate for the increased labor costs.

N. C. To Send Pro-Russell Delegation To Demo Meet

Indict Scientist

WASHINGTON (AP) — Joseph W. Weinberg, a scientist who helped develop the atomic bomb, was indicted today on charges he lied when he denied under oath to a congressional committee that he had been a member of the Communist Party.

Weinberg is the man who was long described only as "Scientist X" by the House Un-American Activities Committee during an investigation of atomic spying. Today's perjury indictment, returned by a federal grand jury here, is based on testimony Weinberg gave to the House committee.

Weinberg figured prominently in the committee's investigation of spying at the wartime University of California radiation laboratory at Berkeley.

In the early stages of its investigation, the committee referred to Weinberg merely as "Scientist X," but later identified him and called him as a witness.

The perjury indictment contains three counts. Conviction would make him liable to 10 years imprisonment on each count.

Swift Creek — William Dupree and Saul Haddock; and Winterville — Alex Evans, Mrs. Grace Gaylord, W. E. Taylor, F. H. Wainwright and J. B. Worthington, Jr.

The Ninth Congressional District voted to work for the election of Rep. Robert L. Doughton, retiring after 42 years in Congress, as national committeeman.

U. S. Sens. Clyde Hoey and Willis Smith joined Morrison in lauding Russell and Smith urged that the delegation be instructed to vote for the Georgian.

Some signs of support for Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee were apparent at the party gathering. One at-large delegate, with a vote, said she favored the Tennessee as a second choice if Russell cannot win the nomination. Another at-large delegate said he would vote for Adlai Stevenson if the Illinois governor is a candidate, while a third expressed a preference for Vice President Barkley.

Army Turns Back Railroads To Private Owners

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Army today turned management of the railroads back to private ownership effective at 4 p. m.

This ended 51 months of nominal Army possession, control and operation of the major rail systems of the United States.

The action relinquishing control followed an agreement of the carriers and three operating unions in their wage dispute that led to President Truman's seizure order of August, 1950.

Seizure of the railroads was the longest government seizure of private industry in history, with the exception of federal operation of the railroads for more than two years during World War I.

Georgia Senator Endorsed By Tar Heel Democratic Convention, Though Delegates Are Instructed; Morrison Sparked Move To Support Candidate

RALEIGH (AP) — A 42-member delegation, at least a half of whom favor Sen. Richard B. Russell for president, will cast North Carolina's 32 votes at the Democratic national convention.

The state Democratic convention, which selected the delegates yesterday, endorsed the candidacy of the Georgia senator but did not bind its delegation to vote for any particular candidate.

A poll of the delegates showed at least 22, who will cast 16 1/2 votes, are for Russell. Fifteen others, with 12 1/2 votes, either would not indicate a preference or said they had not made up their minds.

Strong sentiment for a Southern president was evident at the party gathering. Keynote L. Y. Ballentine, state agriculture commissioner, told the Tar Heel Democrats that Southerners have earned "the right to the highest recognition that the national party can bestow."

The party platform adopted by the convention echoed the sentiment by calling on the national party to recognize that "men of the South are as capable of giving leadership to the nation" as men from other sections.

Former Gov. Cameron Morrison of Charlotte sparked the move to replace the group on record for Russell. He introduced the resolution endorsing the Georgian and suggested the state's delegation be pledged for Russell.

However, the resolutions committee, headed by former Gov. E. Gregg Cherry of Gastonia, added an amendment specifying that the endorsement "shall not bind" the delegation to any particular candidate.

Other developments during the hectic convention days.

Gov. Scott spun a seat on the speakers platform to sit with the Aismance County delegation on the convention floor. He told reporters the list of at-large delegates, agreed on by him and State Democratic Chairman Everett Jordan the night before, had been changed without his consent.

Scott, supporting Hubert E. Olive for governor, said Olive supporters had been removed from the list and replaced by supporters of William B. Umstead. Jordan is backing Umstead. Some observers said that Scott wants to be national committeeman, a post which is filled by the convention delegation. The change in the lineup of delegates might make this difficult.

National Committeeman Jonathan Daniels, long close to the Truman and Scott administrations, announced he will not be a candidate to succeed himself. Daniels, editor of The Raleigh News and Observer, said family duties made it necessary to give up the post. He said he will serve until after the national convention.

Armistice Talks Go Into Recess

Deadlocked Negotiators Agree On Respite After 'No-Non-sense' Talk

PANMUNJOM, Korea (UP) — Deadlocked Korean armistice negotiators decided at a heated session today to take a three-day recess.

The United Nations proposed the recess to give the Communists a chance to "consider our position." The Reds angrily agreed to the break.

Despite the recess, Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, retiring head of the U.N. delegation, predicted the talks eventually would result in an "equitable and honorable armistice."

Joy's successor, Maj. Gen. William K. Harrison, set a firm "no nonsense" tone in his first full day as senior delegate.

He suggested the recess after the Reds again accused the Allies of mistreating prisoners of war, of "massacres" in the prison camps, and of using force during their screening to determine which prisoners want to return to communism.

North Korean Gen. Nam II repeated the repudiated "admissions" of Brig. Gen. Charles F. Colson, who negotiated release of Brig. Gen. Francis T. Dodd after Dodd was seized by Communist prisoners of war on Koje Island.

Nam charged once more that the U.N. intends to use the prisoners as "cannon fodder" for the Republic of Korea and Nationalist China. He demanded that Harrison reply at once to these charges.

"Unless you want to talk some more, I suggest that we recess," Harrison retorted.

Nam: "You mean you refuse to give an answer to my statement?" Harrison: "Your statement is not worthy of a reply."

Nam: "Your attitude is no attitude for negotiations. Do you mean you refuse to negotiate?" Harrison: "I propose a recess."

Nam angrily threw his pencil on the table.

"You dare not answer my statements," he said, "because they are the full facts. I agree to a recess."

Nam refused to suggest a date for the next meeting, but agreed when Harrison proposed Tuesday. Harrison told newsmen after the 40-minute meeting that he hoped the recess would give the Communists an opportunity "to consider our position."

"I don't want to set the next meeting too far away," he said, "because we want to get an armistice."

Joy, who left Korea today after 10 months and 12 days as chief U.N. negotiator, expressed optimism toward outcome of the talks.

He told base camp personnel at Munsan that although he was disappointed in the negotiations so far, "I leave here fully confident that your work will eventually be rewarded with an equitable and honorable armistice."

After the latest plenary session, Col. Andrew J. Kinney met Communist liaison officers and admitted that a U.N. airplane flew over neutral Kaesong on May 14, dropped flares and strafed one area.

Volunteers To Sell Poppies In Greenville On Saturday

"Wear a poppy to honor the warwounded men disabled in the Korean fighting. We hope that everyone will understand that the memorial poppy means honor for the nation's war dead and aid for those suffering as a result of war service and will wear one of these little red flowers."

As there is very little expense connected with the sale of the poppies, practically all of the money contributed goes directly to the aid of those veterans who are still living but unable to care for themselves or their families.

Volunteer workers in addition to Auxiliary members will be on the streets of Greenville Saturday to sell the flowers. Headquarters stores will be in front of Penney's store, Bell Tyler's store and Harrison's Drug Store. The pop Greenville Police Sgt. Claude H. Christopher visited the second grade class at the Training School today and talked about police work to the youngsters.

He explained what kind of work the police do and that it is their responsibility to safeguard the public's safety. Christopher reminded the children that they should remember that a policeman is their best friend, and never to take up with strangers. Miss Sally Klingenschmitt is the class teacher.

The officer's talk was in line with Chief Guy C. Langston's program for the police to have a more intimate contact with the department personnel.

Garden Club Picnic Held Yesterday

New Officers Elected During Brief Business Meeting

The closing meeting of the year for the Greenville Garden Club was the annual picnic which was held yesterday at the home of Mrs. Marvin Blount.

Members of the club and their invited guests were welcomed on the spacious terrace and enjoyed a social hour on the lawn before the luncheon was served from the terraced porch. Mrs. L. W. Topping and Mrs. R. M. Garrett served barbecue and slaw from a wooden trestle table which was covered with a checked gingham cloth. Mrs. L. C. Skinner and Mrs. J. W. Tetterton served iced tea, and guests found chairs in the yard which were grouped for conversation and eating. Individual lemons meringue pies were passed around on trays as a conclusion to the delightful meal.

A short business meeting was conducted, over which Mrs. W. J. Stell presided. She reviewed the work of the past year, mentioning the highlights of the year's accomplishments. In the fall the club had endorsed a series of programs on gardens, which were followed throughout the year and proved to be very popular. In November they sponsored the sale of camellias and azaleas, from which project they realized a profit of close to $900. In December they held their second Christmas tour, in which several homes were opened for the pleasure of the tourists.

In the spring they held their second annual bird house building contest, in which more than twice as many entries were made than the year before. They also sponsored a flower arrangement show as their contribution to the Community Arts Festival. The members, under the volunteer services of some of the younger people in the club, voted to participate in plans for the Elm Street park project. The main project of the year, the development of Green Springs Park near Greenwood Cemetery, has been moving forward steadily during the year under the capable guidance of the Garden Club.

A report was given by Mrs. Sam Mitchell, the club delegate who attended the 27th annual state convention of North Carolina Garden Clubs which was recently held in Raleigh.

The nominating committee, of which Mrs. J. L. Winstead was chairman, presented a slate of officers for the coming year, which were unanimously elected. They are: vice chairman, Mrs. J. K. Proctor; secretary, Mrs. Sam Mitchell; and treasurer, Mrs. W. T. Kyzer. Other officers retain their office for another year.

More than 16 guests were recognized and introduced during the meeting. Following the adjournment of the Garden Club meeting, Mrs. J. H. B. Moore presided over a brief called meeting of the Women's Club, during which the matter of contributing to the Endowment Fund at East Carolina College was discussed. The members voted to accept the recommendations of the Executive Board to contribute a minimum of $300 to the fund, to be paid at the rate of $100 a year for the next three years. Mrs. Moore also announced that members were reminded to bring cuttings of camellias and azaleas to Street Supt. C. K. Beatty for planting at Green Springs Park during the summer.

Hostesses for the meeting were Mrs. F. L. Blount and Mrs. M. L. Wright, co-chairman, Mesdames Alton Barrett, S. M. Crisp, R. M. Garrett, L. B. Garris, C. C. Hilton, J. R. Jackson, Howard Porter, H. S. Reszade, W. J. Stell, L. C. Skinner, Maude Swartz, J. W. Tetterton, L. W. Topping, and J. L. Winstead.

At the conclusion of several bridal games a variety of prizes was given the winners. The bride-elect was presented a "Happy Kitchen Memo Chef" by a guest to remind her of the table laden with gifts. She expressed delight as she opened each package. The hostesses presented her with china in her selected pattern. Service League Ends Year With Summarizing Reports

Members of the Service League of Greenville assembled at St. Paul's Episcopal Church at 11:30 a. m. on May 21 for the final business meeting of the year. Attractive corsages of spring flowers were given to all those present.

The meeting was opened with a prayer by the president, Mrs. J. H. Thomas, who extended a special welcome to the provisional members and members of the Advisory Council.

The secretary, Mrs. David Hardee, called the roll, read the 100 percent attendance record and the minutes of the preceding meeting. Then the treasurer, Mrs. Ercell Webb, read her monthly report.

The president stated that it was recommended by the Advisory Board that $15.00 be taken from the small balance in the treasury to give to the Recreation Commission along with the voluntary contributions received from members at this meeting. A motion was made and carried to this effect. This brought the total gift for Elm Street Park to $66.50.

The president then called for monthly reports from the various committee chairmen. Most of these were brief due to the short period of time which has elapsed since the last meeting. It was of considerable interest, however, that a favorable report was received from the recent sale of Hollands Magazine and also from the yearly Thrift Shop Sales. Both of these will increase the Hospital Bed Fund.

Those present then heard with interest the annual report of the president, in which Mrs. Thomas gave a splendid portrayal of the progress of the League and the activities and functions of the various projects and committees during the past year. It was pointed out that a total number of 7450 volunteer hours were given. This figure does not include hours worked in May. There was an average membership of 55 for the year. Through the Hospital Bed Fund 25 patients were cared for at a cost of $1494.00. Mrs. Thomas closed her report with a poem:

"Hide not thy talent in the earth
However small it be.
Its faithful use, its utmost worth
God does require of thee.
Go then and strive to do thy part
The humble it may be.
The ready hand, the willing heart
Are all heaven asks of thee."

The following new officers were installed: Mrs. Edgar Williford, president and Mrs. Wesley Harvey, secretary.

Mrs. Williford called for a rising vote of thanks to the outgoing officers and then, after appropriate words of acceptance, read a list of the officers and committees for the coming year. They are as follows:

President, Mrs. Edgar Williford; 1st vice president, Mrs. Bryan Brown; 2nd vice president, Mrs. Badger Johnson; recording secretary, Mrs. Wesley Harvey; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Tom Wilson.

Membership committee: Mrs. Bryan Brown, chairman, Mrs. Charles Wilkerson, Mrs. Charles Flanagan; program committee, Mrs. Badger Johnson, chairman, Mrs. Charles Reynolds; Girl Scout chairman, Mrs. M. P. Hook; publicity chairman, Mrs. J. H. Thomas; hospital bed fund, Mrs. R. C. Stokes, chairman, Mrs. W. L. Whedbee; emergency charity fund, Mrs. Tyson Bilbro, chairman, Mrs. Joe Moye.

Lending Chest chairman, Mrs. David Evans; finance committee, Mrs. George Lautares, chairman, Mrs. Ed Parkinson; projects chairman, Mrs. W. S. Bost; placement committee, Mrs. Ed Wilkerson, chairman, Mrs. Jimmy Phelps; Thrift Shop chairman, Mrs. Bob Thompson; Coffee Shop committee, Mrs. J. T. Little, chairman, Mrs. Charles Wilkerson, Mrs. Jesse Moye, Mrs. Lyman Ormond; layette committee, Mrs. Howard Moye, chairman, Mrs. Boyd Cox; hospital activities chairman, Mrs. L. T. Shotwell.

Members were urged to look at the Scrap Book which was on display in the Parish House during the morning. It will be at Sheppard Memorial Library during the coming week, and anyone wishing to see it there may call for it at the librarian's desk.

The president invited members and guests to the Parish House for lunch. After this the business meeting was adjourned.

Says Recovery From Injuries Due To Faith

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., (UP) — Fred Newhouse, who refused to undergo blood transfusions because of his religious beliefs, hailed today his recovery from critical accident injuries as a victory for his faith.

Newhouse, who belongs to the Jehovah's Witnesses sect, was critically injured when his milk truck and an auto collided more than a month ago. He said blood transfusions meant a "spiritual death," which he feared more than physical death.

Yesterday Newhouse was sent home from the hospital.

"It wasn't necessary to violate God's law to get well," he said. "Nature takes care of itself. Blood transfusions aren't as necessary as they're played up to be."

"I think this proves it."

Landon Attacks Bipartisanship

BURLINGTON, Kan. (UP)—Alf M. Landon, Republican candidate for President in 1936, said today that adoption of a bi-partisan foreign policy by the Republican party would prove to be a "booby trap."

Speaking before the Rotary Club here, Landon described the bi-partisan policy proposed by John Foster Dulles and Thomas E. Dewey as a "megalomaniac program," and said he wondered whether Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, whom he supports for President, would agree with it.

A Hysteria Reduced Students' Stature

Escapades of male college students who insist on raiding coed quarters for lingerie is winding up the scholastic year across the country with novelty, if not good taste.

Their behavior is inexcusable, but can probably be explained by a mad hysteria which lurks just under the surface when students are feeling the tension of the final "cramping" period at examination time.

Outbursts of this kind have always occurred in one form or another during that fateful stage of collegiate life. The direction which they have been pointed these past two weeks is unfortunate, and belittles student efforts, work and thinking out of proportion to their accomplishments and usual sobriety.

The get-tough policy exemplified this week by Dean Malcolm Gray of Mississippi State College, if applied before the wave became more than a ripple, would have curbed the craze before it really got started. The indomitable Dean strode up the steps of a girls' dormitory, faced about 1,200 would-be panty raiders and thundered: "Any man who steps on the dormitory lawn will be expelled immediately, and his draft board told of his changed status."

That, fixed that.

National Whirligig

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON—An ancient and bitter feud between two former editors of New Orleans newspapers lies behind an attempted Congressional slash in Pentagon appropriations that will cripple the Office of Public Information, including its services to business, industry and Korean-war relations as well as to press, radio, television and magazine representatives at the Capital.

The legislative protagonist is Representative F. Edward Hebert, erstwhile political columnist and city editor of the New Orleans States when a lion in the form of the late Huey Long was abroad in the streets.

The handsome and dynamic Louisiana member says in his biography that he was instrumental in "breaking" the Long scandal. He has always been savagely anti-Long.

"PITCHMEN"—Clayton Fritchie, now director of the Office of Public Information at Defense, was then city editor of the New Orleans Item, a rival newspaper. Although the reductions inspired by Hebert as an influential member of the Armed Services committee apply to the information service here and in the field, the heaviest blow has been struck at Fritchie's Pentagon workshop.

Denouncing the publicity staff as "Pentagon pitchmen," Hebert appeared personally before a House Appropriations subcommittee to argue for virtual abolition of the Fritchie's organization. His plea packed authority because his own Armed Services group had revealed considerable waste and extravagance in the general military setup.

The appropriations subcommittee which is headed by Rep. George H. Mahon of Texas, sliced Fritchie's funds from a requested $1,200,000 to a mere $312,500.

The bill has passed the House with the lower figure in it, but it is hoped that almost the full amount will be restored in the Senate or in conference committee. The upper chamber has usually been more friendly to the armed forces than the lower body.

ESSENTIAL—Mr. Hebert's success in the House derived from the fact that there is some excess "fat" in the government's vast publicity family. Too many official press agents become one-sided propagandists for the politicians in power, or seek to glorify their Cabinet and sub-Cabinet bosses, who believe in grabbing headlines while they may, for they may vanish into obscurity tomorrow—or next November.

But the House reduction wipes out essential services, according to Pentagon spokesmen. The Defense Department's activities, it is pointed out, need publicizing because maintaining a large military establishment in time of supposed peace is never popular. The proper kind of publicity has, or should have, a favorable psychological effect on the men in uniform, the civilian population and workers in defense plants.

INFORMATION—Moreover, the Fritchie office devotes only a small part of time and energy to traditional publicity work—that is, providing news, interviews and pictures to the press, radio, television and magazine correspondents here. It is a reservoir of central information for everybody from the mother of a prisoner in Korea to a manufacturer or working-man wanting data on contracts or jobs.

Public Information receives more than 500 telephone calls a day from all parts of the country, mostly concerning individual soldiers, sailors or airmen. It answers 75,000 letters a year of the same sort.

It is the liaison for 22 veterans' organizations, national and local. It furnishes material on request to industries, communities, unions etc. And 10 per cent of its work consists of supplying members of Congress with information wanted by their constituents.

SUBTLE—The American press recently criticized President Truman's so-called security order on the ground that it was an approach to censorship of news at the source.

But a far more effective and subtle way to choke the flow of information to which the people are entitled, is to cripple the agencies which alone can gather that news in the first instance.

UNPOPULAR—National politicians will squint their eyes on Connecticut Republicans when they assemble Monday and Tuesday to nominate a man to oppose Senator William Benton next November. The outcome may show whether the GOP realizes that new political forces are stirring these days, and that they must be recognized.

GOP headquarters here believes that it has an excellent chance to recapture "his seat" Benton squeaked through by less than 2,000 in 1950. He was carried in on the coat-tails of Senator Brien McMahon, who won by 40,000. Benton is extremely unpopular, personally and politically, on Capitol Hill and in the Nutmeg State. He is a transplanted Minnesotan, and supports the Truman "fair deal" in every respect.

Most frequently mentioned opponent is Prescott Bush of Greenwich, who ran against Benton two years ago. Oddly enough, Bush is a partner in the banking house headed by W. Averell Harriman, Truman's favorite for the Democratic presidential nomination. The other is William Purcell of Hartford, former head of the Connecticut Manufacturers' Association, an organization of extremely conservative philosophy.

POPULAR—Many prominent Republicans doubt whether a Harriman banker or the Hartford industrialist could defeat Benton, despite his unpopularity. They have started a last-minute, Wilkie-like drive for Representative James T. Patterson, a 43-year-old Naugatuck lawyer. He is the dean of the Connecticut delegation in the House, although serving only his third term.

A Marine major with a fine record in every theater in World War II, he is popular with the veterans and labor. He is a Taft man, whereas Bush and Purcell favor Eisenhower. Patterson won in 1948, the Truman year, by 10,000, showing his vote-getting ability in his district, which is characteristic of the Connecticut countryside—industrial and agricultural.

Gettin' T'Be That Time Of Year

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

This column has been in existence for more than three years, and there have been very few occasions that it has contained unkind words about anything. That's why I would be better off to leave the subject of taxes alone, but I saw a note in the news that I can't turn down.

The Wall Street Journal reported 75 per cent of a business for sale, which they called a "million dollar value, with $200,000.00 in losses sustained in past three years available for carryover." Of course that loss is available for credit against future profits.

Now we know that taxes are excessive, if for no other reason we can tell from the advertisement. When it becomes more profitable to lose money than it does to make it, then you can assume that Uncle Sam is taking too much of our profits.

The Wall Street Journal says, "Almost any day now, we expect to see an ad like this: Experienced executive: Over past five years has successfully lost $100,000 on labor and material costs and reduced sales by $200,000. Total five-year loss personally achieved from all sources over $375,000. Available because I have done all I can with this company. Prefer company with conservative management needing snaking up substantial salary expected."

One day I was talking to a man who told me he would fudge on his taxes if he thought he could get by with it. "The reason," he said, "is that the government wastes so much tax money. It just makes me sick."

That man is in the same boat with thousands of others. But unless I am fooled he will continue to pay his taxes with complete honesty. After all, we have to live with ourselves. But it is wonderful to have the opportunity to complain about it.

In checking income tax filings the government usually catches the big money earners. It just goes to prove that universal condition: Those who have a barrel of money always want a barrel and a half. When Uncle Sam wants to take that half away, they can't face the realization of conditions.

It was government spending that brought us prosperity. And at first the increased taxes hit the big money earner; the man who could afford it. That was great! Then entire country was enjoying prosperity at the expense of the big money earner. Now the taxes have become so severe that they reach the low-income man and give him a harder road to travel. Now they're taken things too far. And I thank you.

Business Today

Manufacturers of women's suits will have to concentrate on new fabrics, new styling and good value for the money if they wish to perk up sales, it is indicated by a survey of ready-to-wear merchants by the National Retail Dry Goods Association.

The spring suit season, now nearing a close, has been generally unsatisfactory. To find out why, the association polled a cross-section of members and this is what it found:

1. There was a general customer resistance to prices considered out of line with values.

2. Styling of suits lacked broad appeal. Styles generally had not changed enough to "date" the extra suits women bought a few years ago in anticipation of shortages.

3. With the exception of a few novelty materials, fabrics had not stimulated much consumer interest.

4. Popular year-round rayon suits, competing with higher-priced wool suits, tended to reduce the dollar volume of sales. Southern retailers suggested that the "feminine look" in dresses had hurt the appeal of tailored or classic suits. Northern retailers, however, said that the classic suit would have a place in the market.

Because manufacturers are being informed of these findings, it is an odd-on probability that there will be efforts to create some radical new stylings and a much greater use of the many synthetic fabrics. There may even be some revisions in prices.

A FEW MORE ADVANCES AND WE'LL BE UNDONE

Headlines from the "Bulletin of Commerce," issued by the New York office of the Department of Commerce:

"Business activity continues slow advance."

"Retail sales drop slightly."

"Manufacturers' sales decline slightly."

WIVES NEEDLING MEN ON STYLE

Men are now taking almost as long as women to make up their minds about clothes buying, according to Lafayette A. Tremblay, merchandising authority and general manager of the Thom McAn shoe chain.

He blames the five-day week. Wives accompany men on shopping trips 30 per cent more often than they did before the war, he estimates.

"As a result men are considering more carefully what they want a shoe for—dress, sports or casual wear," Mr. Tremblay said. "They no longer say, 'Give me another pair of what I'm wearing.'"

CANADIAN DOLLARS HELD VULNERABLE

The strength of the Canadian dollar is due to purely temporary factors, Guenter Reiman states in the current issue of the confidential "International Reports on Finance and Currencies."

He states that the demand for Canadian dollar exchange is shrinking and that the inflow of capital, largely from Switzerland and other Western European countries, is declining.

The Canadian dollar is now worth a few cents more than the battered old American buck.

GASTRONOMIC FILLIP TO FATHERS' DAY

The poultry industry and the New England bogmen are getting a free ride on Father's Day promotion this year.

The National Father's Day Committee has adopted fried chicken and cranberry sauce as the official main dish for dinner on June 15.

CHARGES FOR CREDIT MAY BE TAXABLE

In many cases, a charge for credit added to the purchase price of a taxable article also carries the tax, according to a recent Bureau of Internal Revenue statement. Simply segregating the charge on the bill does not automatically exclude it from the tax, the BIR says.

It is only when the charge is computed according to the legal rate of interest on the balance of the account and according to the length of time the contract has to run, and listed separately on the invoice, may it be excluded from the tax base.

GREEPERS: Extra accident protection in infants' creepers is provided by linings of plastic film, firmly stitched to the fabric.

The one-piece rayon-jersey garments manufactured by Miller Art Mfg. Co., 1350 Broadway, New York 18, unsnap down the front have flat-seamed leg bands to prevent binding, can be machine washed and need no ironing.

BATTERY: Batteries that can be manufactured, shipped, stored and delivered in a dry state have been developed by Firestone Tire & Rubber Co., Akron, Ohio. Built with fully-charged plates, they are charge.

NEW YORK — (AP) — The oddity almanac:

Remember the old Dagmar? ... shiny shoes ... great on curves ... and carried a front and rear bumper.

The Dagmar (1922-1927) was just one of 2,500 kinds of automobiles made in America since the turn of the century. Only 21 survive today in this fiercely competitive industry. Studebaker, which started making covered wagons 100 years ago, claims to be the oldest firm still in existence. ... But dad or granddad will recall going courting in cars bearing such vanished trade names as Mercer, Rickenbacker, Oldfield, Maxwell, Veille and Stutz Bearcat.

Speaking of covered wagons, did you know that some 1,700,000 Americans now live in trailer coaches? ... In 12 years the industry's annual sales went from 10 million to 248 million dollars.

The length of the standard trailer has increased from 15 feet to 30, and you can buy 'em up to 45 feet. These have four rooms and stall showers. ... Until the government entered the market, 68 per cent of the trailers were bought by defense workers, 25 per cent by servicemen.

Suggested industry theme song: "Oh, the sun shines bright on my old Kentucky trailer!"

Government economy note: Industrialist Fred A. Wirt says the federal debt of about 260 billion dollars means that "Every infant born in the U. S. assumes, the second day of his draws breath, a debt of $1,700." May be that explains why the first thing babies do in this world is to break out crying. Who wants a mortgage on his diaper at birth?

Fact - is - stranger - than - fiction department: The Columbia Gazetteer says only 30 Russian towns are named after Stalin to 36 for Sergei Kirov, a Soviet bigwig assassinated in 1934. ... you seen in firehouses never hear the firebell. The Dalmatian breed has a high percentage of deafness. ... Tulips, now commonplace, were worth more than their weight in gold after they were introduced into Holland from Turkey in 1565. Such a mania for them swept Europe that a single tulip bulb once sold for a load of grain, four oxen, 12 sheep, five pigs, two tubs of butter, 1,000 pounds of cheese, four barrels of beer, two hogheads of wine, a suit of clothes, and a silver drinking cup.

After a drop in value like that you'd think a tulip would be ashamed to hold its head up today.

Children-and-small-animals department: A report has just reached us from Australia of the arrest of a kangaroo for shoplifting. ... Its owner had trained it to steal items and hide them in its pouch.

Detectives seized the kangaroo when an alarm clock it had secreted on its body unexpectedly began to ring. The surprised animal immediately made a full confession and blamed the whole thing on its owner.

(Editor's note: This newspaper is unable to vouch for all of the strange facts in Boyle's Almanac, and particularly this one.)

The almanac's editorial: The average American today is paying 32 cents out of every dollar for direct or hidden taxes. This is true of everybody except hermits in the woods. ... Well, we say, why should hermits be a privileged class? ... When is the government going to hunt down these life-dodgers, bring them to town and make them pay their fair share of the load for civilization, whether they want it or not? ... It's about time, say we.

The almanac's monthly sports forecast: The New York Giants will soon go into a sharp slump, and when they emerge Manager Leo Durocher's hair will be thinner than ever. ... At least three former world's champion boxers will sadly opine that fighters are not what they were in the good old days. ... Well, who is?

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON — People are saying that Estes Kefauver's greatest asset in his campaign for the Democratic nomination for the presidency is his pretty Auburn-haired wife Nancy. He says so himself.

Unimpressed with the White House prospect at first, Mrs. Kefauver now is wound up like a top and spinning with enthusiasm as she accompanies her tall, good-looking husband up and down the land, sometimes ever pinching with speeches. Green-eyed, magnolia-complexioned Nancy Kefauver, a very young 40 and mother of four children, likes people, excitement and the spotlight. She revels in the challenge of politics.

The more opposition, there is, the more exciting things are," she told me after returning from their Florida primary trip, though she admitted she was disappointed in her husband's defeat in that state. "Maybe I'm not a very good sport," she added.

Mrs. Kefauver says she goes with her husband whenever she feels her "going along helps." However, she says she worries about going off and leaving the children even though they are in the good care of a nurse and Babby, the Negro cook who has been with the family 10 years. The eldest child is Linda, 10. They adopted David, 6 when they thought they were not going to have any more children of their own. Then came Diana, now 4, and Gail, who is 18 months.

I asked the loquacious Babby what she thought about moving into the White House. "The children will be fighting if I don't go and anyway wherever they go you'll be finding me sickin' right behind the limb," she said.

The children are worrying about having a place to play and a place to keep their pets, Linda's turkey and skunk, David's white mouse and Blarney, the black cocker spaniel.

Mrs. Kefauver thinks presiding over the White House will be a "challenge" as well as a great responsibility, but of all the candidates' wives she is the one most likely to have fun in the executive mansion. "We have so darn much fun at home, and I don't think we could possibly change," she said.

The senator's wife is the former Nancy Patterson Pigott, born in Glasgow, Scotland, daughter of the American designer of the ocean liner "Queen Mary." She is a talented artist and studied in Glasgow and Paris.

She met her husband in Chattanooga, Tenn., in 1934, when she was visiting relatives.

Around Capitol Square

By LYNN NISBET

DEMOCRATS — Raleigh as the capital city of the Democratic State is used to having a lot of Democrats around, the kind spelled with a big D. Also a lot of the kind spelled with a little d. Both were here Wednesday and Thursday for the biennial North Carolina Democratic Convention. Hotels began to fill early Wednesday afternoon and the convention attendants gathered in huddles to discuss plans for the big event.

DIFFERENCES — They were all Democrats, but there was obvious factional divisions among them. The differences were mostly on minor matters. There seemed a high degree of unanimity in desire and purpose to maintain the "principles" of the Democratic party. The trouble came in defining these principles. There were ardent advocates of ideas enunciated by Thomas Jefferson and Grover Cleveland. There were enthusiasts for the concepts of Woodrow Wilson and Franklin Roosevelt. And there were just as ardent contenders for the theories practiced, if not proclaimed, by Andrew Jackson and Harry Truman. These differences are fundamental but not too serious. Jefferson and Cleveland believed that the government belonged to the people of the United States. Wilson and Roosevelt thought it belonged to the whole world. Jackson and Truman thought it belonged to the president.

COMPREHENSIVE — The integration of these contrasting ideologies into the overall concept of democracy has been the strength—and often the weakness—of the Democratic party. One of the marvels of politics is that the same folks can recognize allegiance to Jefferson and Jackson, Cleveland and Truman. At state level it is just as hard to reconcile loyalty to Governor Aycock, McLean, Cherry and Scott, all in one package. The fact that all Democratic Presidents and all Democratic Governors are accorded approximately equal acclaim is testimony to the comprehensive scope of the Democratic party and the basic tenets of majority control. Widely divergent as the ideas of these recognized leaders have been and are, all the people have gone along in support of policies as they changed with changing administrations.

PERSONALITIES — Another very interesting subject for study is the impact of personalities. There is preponderant political support among the convention delegates for Richard Russell for President and William Umstead for Governor. But Hubert Olive, major contender against Umstead for the governorship, is personally just as popular as the admittedly leading candidate. Both Olive and Umstead have been around the hotels and convention halls. No presidential candidate has shown up, but it takes no great sense of discernment to discover that partisans of Kefauver are just as personally popular as advocates of Russell. And there is ample evidence that Harry Truman has many friends in the assembled throng who would be happy to support him for another term in the White House, not on account of his political philosophy half so much as because of personal regard for the man and some of his close friends in North Carolina.

FINAGLING — A lot of back-stage "finagling" goes on at a convention like this. Most of it involves both personalities and principles. There is the case of Joe Doakes who wants desperately to be a delegate to the national convention from a district where John Doe has a lot of influence. Joe and John are good personal friends, but they disagree on political issues. John would like to help Joe get in line to go to Chicago on account of friendship, but first he must ascertain whether Joe will vote right at the big convention. After several conferences that matter is settled and John is ready to help Joe—only to learn that he is all wrong on governor or congressman or some other office, and that his selection would add prestige to "the other side." Then there are further conferences, and maybe Joe agrees to vote right all the way, because he'd rather go to the convention than to have his favorites nominated in the primary. That is all right all the way. But maybe Joe bucks and won't agree to go all the way. Then the whole deal is off and John has to look up another prospective delegate who is "right."

IMPORTANT — This kind of activity is more important than most people realize. On the surface it would not seem that personal friendship between Joe Doakes and John Doe would have anything to do with who is the Democratic candidate for President. It does, have a lot to do with it; because there is a supposedly authenticated story about one vote in a precinct deciding who would be the delegates to a county convention, where one vote determined the personnel of the delegation to the state convention. Their again one vote chose the national convention

What Other Papers Are Thinking

DUDE SAYS WE'RE BUMS (Rocky Mount Telegram)

With the coming of warmer weather and the prospect of much more of the same, only more so, looming in the very near future, people will turn more and more toward comfortable dress. Pity those folks whose occupations, they think, forbid them from getting cool like the rest of us!

In this connection, we subscribe wholeheartedly to the "assault" made recently on a big time clothier by the Kansas City Star. But let The Star tell it in its own words:

It takes a stiff-necked fellow, like this Fifth Avenue tailor, Ray

Twyeffort, to make people realize how comfortably dressed they've become these last 15 to 20 years. Twyeffort is stiff-necked because he wears a starched collar. And he has views on men's and women's clothing styles to match the starchiness of his own old-guard neckwear.

Twyeffort resents soft collared shirts. He abhors the thought and sight of men without ties and-or hats. He is upset over women who "rush to work wearing bubushes, looking like Russian peasants." He insists that morals, manners and etiquette have disappeared, presumably for these reasons, in his unsympathetic judgment we have become "a nation of slobs and bums." That's just one Fifth Avenue tailor's opinion. Other members of his craft might agree with him but we doubt that any body else would. The popularity of sports shirts, jackets and slacks probably has hurt Twyeffort's business. It has also given our men folk an emancipation from phony elegance and a right to comfort that should be part of the male's heritage.

Twyeffort's is a voice crying in the wilderness. We hope he stays lost in it, he and that fancy get-up of black Homburg, double-breasted waistcoat, striped sack and neck-creeching collar. We would rather be an undressed bum than an overdressed dude.

The Nice Long Vacation

Aware of Leslie Poppleton's panky flight, Jane was a very happy girl for the remainder of that week. Now the good humor, the roughish sense of fun, the happy-go-lucky approach to life which had made her such a favorite with so many requests for dates that Evelyn Moore soon found herself functioning as the firm's social secretary. But she separated the wheat from the chaff with a right good will. Aware, as Jane wasn't aware, that this popularity was making a new girl of her, she took great satisfaction in seeing to it that every moment of the girl's free time was occupied. With the result that when Jane finally got around to answering the several letters she had received from Ruthie Taylor and Mrs. Goldsborough she had much to relate, and very little of it sad. The letters finished, she put on a full, flowered cottonskirt, an off-the-shoulder white blouse, did her hair up in a kerchief and went down to the barracks-like building which housed the camp post office as well as the mess hall for Division A. And it was there that Ralph Jowett finally caught up with her. "Miss Bancroft?" He smiled as she turned around. "About time I managed to get a word with you. Is Evelyn Moore determined to make me eat dinner alone every night of the week? I may not be especially handsome, but I am rich."

you repeat your invitation to dinner, and if you don't mind this outfit—" "It is the most glamorous outfit in the world!" he cried, and there was in his manner a quality that told her he wasn't simply being gallant. He drove quickly into Tuttleton, parking the car before a restaurant on Main Street. Since she had been there many times since the afternoon of the swimming meet, the proprietor came to the door eagerly and greeted her most cordially. He led her back to the table she had shared with Andy and so many others in the days which had elapsed since she had scored her stunning triumph. "The roast beef," he said, "is very good this evening; Miss Bancroft, Rare, exactly as you like it."

GOLD WRAPPED SPUDS—Rep. George H. Bender (R-Ohio) laughs as he displays a dish of gold foil wrapped potatoes he told House members in Washington were offered to him with a flourish as a special treat in his favorite restaurant. He blamed the OPS for what he called a black market in Potatoes, reporting that his restaurant friend said he had to pay for a bag of cabbage and a bag of onions he didn't get, to obtain the potatoes. (AP Wirephoto).

It was an original approach, to say the least. It pleased her sense of humor, and she smiled back at him. "Evelyn, you see, wants me to go out only with men she thinks are good for me. I'm a clinical case, you see. I'm being helped, much against my will, but being helped just the same." She studied his plain face, his rather scrawny physique. "I don't remember having seen you down at the pool, Mr. Jowett. I don't wish to sound rude, but you look as though some sunshine and exercise would do you a great deal of good."

He inclined his head solemnly, his brown eyes twinkling. "I agree with you, of course. Sometimes, it is my considered opinion, I am the wittiest man alive. And of course the most grateful." "You talk too much," she said with an attempt at lightness. "You'll turn my head if you don't watch out, and then I'll order the five-dollar dinner."

He chuckled. He found himself thoroughly enjoying the evening. He had doubted that he would. He waved his arm grandiloquently. "Order the ten-dollar meal, if there is such a meal on the menu. You see, I am grateful, very grateful. From now on I shall snub Evelyn Moore with a right good will."

The PROCTOR Hotel Coffee Shop

The waiter came to their table and cleared away the appetizer dishes and brought them their entree. Jane, looking at the meat, squealed in delight. "Isn't this the grandest restaurant? When they say rare meat they really mean it." "Truly, a rare thing these days," he purred. But this time she didn't seem to be amused by something he had said. He wondered why; then, noticing she was looking beyond him, he twisted on the chair, then grunted. "Good evening, Dr. Hall. I suppose you and Miss Bancroft are already acquainted?"

She didn't hesitate a moment. In a sense it was the break she had been praying for. "It would give me great pleasure, Dr. Hall, to nurse Mrs. George Poppleton back into health. I'll get a leave of absence from Forsythe right away. Ralph, will you drive me back to the camp?"

TO THE VOTERS OF PITT COUNTY

I am a candidate for member of the Board of Commissioners of Pitt County. I am a life long citizen of Ayden and community. I have been engaged in farming and in business activities related to farming for more than thirty-five years and have always actively supported our Pitt County markets.

My interests are in the problems which concern the general welfare of all citizens of Pitt County. I am for sound business in county government, spending within a sound budget, and for all progressive measures which will encourage and increase the economic, social and religious welfare of all our people. It has been many years since our community has had a representative on the Board of Commissioners. The voters of my District voted by a big majority in favor of my candidacy in 1950. I cannot see everyone of you but I am asking every voter in every Precinct in Pitt County for their vote and support. Help the voters of my District get their desired change in Commissioner that they so overwhelmingly voted for two years ago.

Your vote and support will be greatly appreciated.

Respectfully,
R. GUY JACKSON

It is usually pretty hard to find a champion repeating himself, with the exception of Ben Hogan and Sammy Snead, but the semi-finals of the Greenville Club Championship tournament are loaded to near capacity with former champs.

Three of the four openings in the semi-finals are filled by men who have won the championship at least two times before this year. Leading the way is Bill Allen, winner of the tourney four times in the past. Excell Webb, champion for the last two years, meets two-time winner Reynolds May. The fourth candidate, Ben Harrison, has never won the event, but he seems to be well on his way this year. So far in the tournament, Harrison has played the most outstanding golf of any of the players.

The semi-finals will be played Saturday and Sunday at the Country Club course, with 18 holes scheduled for each day. Winners of these will play the following week-end for the championship. Members of the club have invited the public to attend the matches. The course is located on the Ayden highway, just outside the city limits of Greenville. Matches start at 2:30 each day.

Congratulations are in order for Fred Soles, Jimmy Byrd, Bill Sanderson, and George McSwain. These boys, members of the 1952 East Carolina baseball team, were recently picked on the All-North State Conference mythical squad. Soles, an outfielder, led the league sluggers during the regular season by posting a .385 mark. Sanderson, a classy first baseman, also hit above .300, clubbing the ball at a .329 pace. Catcher McSwain, the senior at the college, had the lowest batting average of any member of the all-star team—260 but his all-around ability behind the plate made his selection almost unanimous.

Lenor Rhyne, winner over Elton in the post-season championship playoffs, led the team selections by placing five players. Elton, along with East Carolina, had four players chosen.

While on the subject of East Carolina, athletic director N. M. Jorgensen announced a 10-game football schedule for the 1952 gridders yesterday. Six teams to be played are members of the North State.

As in the past years, several service teams will be met by the Pirates. However, only three service squads are scheduled for this year, but they are all to be played in Greenville. This seems to be a little unfair to the East Carolina students, as it leaves only two games involving intercollegiate play to be played in Greenville in 1952.

Students at EOC expressed their disapproval of the scheduling of service teams during the recent season, but the college officials let be known at that time that the service squads would have to be met for at least one more season. It is good to see that they are trying to get them off the Pirate schedule.

New Bern and Wilson are running almost neck and neck in the Coastal Plain League race. At the present time, the Bears are a full game out in front, but Wilson has been hot on their heels for several days now, and could very easily take over first place overnight.

Tarboro started out strong in the league this year, but for some reason, the Tars have really gone down in the last several days. Tarboro fought New Bern for first place during the opening days of the season, but they then ran into a long losing streak which they still haven't broken.

ST. LOUIS (UP)—The St. Louis Browns' eight-man infield may never achieve the poetic fame of Tinker, Evers and Chance but it stands an excellent chance today to set a new major league double-play record.

Cast-off Marty Marion, manager of the St. Louis Cardinals last year, heads a group that may make the record book instead of the poets' corner.

Still bothered by an aching back, Marion has missed five of the team's 33 games entirely and has left others early. But his coaching of the Browns' youngsters as well as his own spectacular play has kept the team near first division despite anemic hitting.

Through Wednesday night's game, the team made 52 double plays to lead both leagues. If the infield can continue at that pace, the Browns will wind up with 243 twin killings, a new record.

The Browns have operated with only the second baseman, Bobby Young, a fixture. Leo Thomas and Cass Michaels have both played third base. Marion has been relieved by Joe DeMaestri, and three men, Gordon Goldsberry, Dick Kryhoski and Hank Artt, have played first.

Simmons Blanks Pirates For Third Win

Campanella Hits Homer For Bums; Yanks Postponed

By CARL LUNDQUIST
United Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (UP)—Manager Eddie Stanky of the Philadelphia Phillies, who said this spring that he had the best pitching in the majors, will be able to prove it if he can get a few of his slow starters to act like Curt Simmons and Robin Roberts.

The two mound beauties, who represent the best young one-two pitching punch in either league, are performing fully as well as they did in the Phils' 1950 pennant year. The only trouble with that is a failure of the other hurlers to respond with victories. Roberts has won eight games and Simmons three since returning from the Army shortly after the season began.

The rest of the staff has a collective 4-13 win and lost record. Simmons, even faster than before he went into the Army at the tail end of the 1950 season, held the pitiful Pittsburgh Pirates to three hits and struck out eight yesterday, 6 to 0, and his second straight shutout.

Simmons now has yielded only 14 hits in 29 innings, struck out 24 batters and walked only 10.

Roberts now has won seven straight since losing his first start, and has yielded only 50 hits in 72 innings, struck out 34 and walked 20. He has completed every game, two of which were shutouts.

Simmons also was a batting star yesterday, delivering an inside-the-park homer that scored three of the Phillys runs.

The Brooklyn Dodgers stayed a half-game in front of the New York Giants by topping the Cincinnati Reds again, 8 to 7, with a four-run rally in the eighth highlighted by Roy Campanella's three-run homer.

The Giants topped the St. Louis Cardinals, 6 to 1, on the four-hit pitching of Montie Kennedy.

In Boston the Chicago Cubs and Braves traded shutouts. Bob Rush pitched four-hit ball as the Cubs won the opener, 3 to 0, and Warren Spain scattered nine hits in Boston's 5 to 0 retaliation.

In the American League, the Boston Red Sox defeated the Cleveland Indians, 3 to 2, for the first time this year while in a night game at St. Louis, the Washington Senators topped the Browns, 4 to 2.

Campanella, who hadn't hit a homer in a month, came through with a line smash into the left field seats that tied the score at 7-7. Andy Pafko doubled, went to third on a sacrifice by Duke Snider, and scored the winning run on a fly by Gil Hodges.

Joe Adcock hit a grand slam homer and Brady Hatton got one, with two on base to account for six of the Cincy runs.

Kennedy, who either is very bad or very good, had one of his better days in topping the Cardinal ace, Gerry Staley, who suffered his second straight loss to the Giants. He has won all of his other seven games.

Locals Register 51-9 Decision Over Smithfield
Greenville's entry in the Coastal Golf Association defeated Smithfield here Wednesday afternoon by a 51-9 score. The visitors, who brought only 16 golfers for the match, were completely outclassed by the local team.

Reynolds May, of the Greenville club, pulled down medalist honors for the day with an even par 72. Erskine Duff, also of Greenville, fired a 73 to push May all the way. Erecl Webb and W. L. Allen, for the winners, tied for third place with 73's.

Greenville has only three more matches before the championship tournament gets underway in Clinton on June 21st. It travels to Washington next Wednesday afternoon for a league match, and then returns home for a meet with Farmville. The team will wind up the season the following Wednesday with a return match in Farmville.

Otto Alfred went the distance for the winners, hurling his second win of the year. Alfred was tagged for seven hits but kept them well spaced. Smith Worthington and J. Edwards divided the mound duties for the losers. Alfred walked two and fanned one, while Worthington did the same.

No one on the losing team garnered more than one hit.

Musial Says To Control Bat While At The Plate

By STAN MUSIAL, one of the greatest hitters in baseball. The 31-year-old outfielder of the St. Louis Cardinals has led the National League in hitting five times during his nine full years. Only Honus Wagner (8) and Rogers Hornsby (7) have led the league more times than Musial, who broke into baseball as a pitcher in 1938. He has scored 100 or more runs eight straight seasons.

By FRANK ECK
AP Newsfeatures Sports Editor
In our book Stan Musial is the best 175-pound slugger baseball has ever known. This six-footer looks like he's about 5-8 to the pitcher because of his crouch yet he's a giant with the bat. In the last four years he has averaged 34 home runs and 118 runs batted in a season. He and Ted Williams are the only active players with lifetime averages over .320. Stan and Ted have .347 marks.

Here are Stan Musial's tips for better hitting:
"Don't try to copy anybody. Be yourself. Very few players stand and hit alike. It's very important for a boy or a major leaguer to get a bat he can control. I use a 33-ounce model. Don't try to use a heavy bat. Only use a heavier bat if you can control it.

"Your physical makeup should decide if you are to be a choke hitter or a fellow who can go for distance.
"Take a comfortable stance in the batter's box.
"In my particular case I crouch because I think I can see the ball better that way.
"Bad hitting habits, like hitches in your swing, are hard to overcome.

"A hitch comes in lowering the bat. Don't wiggle it. Hold it steady.
"Know where the good part of the bat is. Try to hit where the ball is pitched.
"Sure, I'd like to hit a home run every time. It just can't be done. On an outside pitch I gladly settle for a piece of the ball, or a single to left field."

Unknowns Out In Front As Colonial Open Starts

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UP)—The $20,000 Colonial National Invitation golf tournament over a winter tour tinge today as it moved into the second round with unknowns pacing the select field.

Out in front as the 43 players renewed their stroking for top money was a slight, red-haired collegian, Joe Conrad of North Texas State's NCAA championship team, and Raymond Gafford, a tall, lean Texan from neighboring Dallas.

Conrad, the first amateur ever to share the lead in this tourney with its hand-picked field, came in late in the day to grab a tie with Gafford at two-under par 68, one stroke ahead of Doug Ford of Harrison, N. Y.

They had to combat treacherous, gusty winds as well as Colonial's layout to get a running start towards the honors Cary Middlecoff won here a year ago when a two-under-par 282 was good enough to win.

Middlecoff, of the Memphis, Tenn., dentist who ranked along with homemaker and National Open champion Ben Hogan as pre-tournament favorite, was bunched well back in the field in a six-way tie for seventh place at 72. Hogan could do no better than a 74, which didn't even leave him among the top 20.

A stroke behind Ford were Tommy Bolt, the tempestuous Texan who plays out of Durham, N. C., and Fred Hawkins of El Paso, Tex., each of whom had par 70's.

Chemicals Win Softball Game

V. C. Chemicals won their second consecutive game within the Men's Softball League yesterday afternoon by blasting Sunbeam-Waldensian, 16-3.

Two runs in the fourth actually won the game for the winners. Bill Moore and Joe Dudley started off the inning by gaining life on an error and a single, respectively. John Farley walked to load the bases, and Tom Boyd's grounder was error-ed, with Moore scoring. Dudley came in a few seconds later on a ground out by Billy Jordan.

Ralph Pickelsimer and Moore both collected home runs for the winners, while Boyd doubled for V. C. Chemicals. Jordan paced the winners' 16-hit attack with three singles in five times at bat, while Ralph Niedrich singled in his only two times up.

Otto Alfred went the distance for the winners, hurling his second win of the year. Alfred was tagged for seven hits but kept them well spaced. Smith Worthington and J. Edwards divided the mound duties for the losers. Alfred walked two and fanned one, while Worthington did the same.

No one on the losing team garnered more than one hit.

Bratton Favored Over Flanagan

NEW YORK (AP)—Johnny Bratton and Del Flanagan have been staging a battle of words all week. If they put as much fire in their punches tonight there may be some unexpected fireworks at Madison Square Garden.

The two welterweights clash in a 9 p.m. (EST) 10 rounder which will be broadcast (ABC) and telecast (NBC) from coast to coast.

Bratton, on the basis of his smashing four-round knockout of Pierre Langlois three weeks ago, has been established a 2 to 1 favorite. The swift kayo over the French champion was the 24-year-old Chicago Negro's last scrap. The 23-year-old Flanagan upset L'il Arthur King in a ten here six weeks ago in typical fashion, dancing backwards.

The clever St. Paul boxer prefers to have his opponents do the leading. Then he can stab with his left and shoot over occasional rights without sticking his chin out. Bratton likes to have his foes take the offensive, too, so he can cross a left lead with a block-busting right.

Flanagan, who had been going great as a lightweight until last year when he suffered the first four of his defeats, blames weightmaking as the reason. He branched out as a full welterweight against King. He will scale about 145 to Bratton's 148. His record is 64-5-2.

PENCIL TEE

Stone of Ware Shoals, S. C.
The semi-finals round was for 18 holes over the Myers Park Country Club, one of the stiffer courses for women on the Carolinas circuit.

Mrs. Covington entered the semi-finals with a steady 5 and 4 win over Mrs. Lee Member of Southern Pines. Mrs. Miller eliminated another contender, Miss Ida McDowell of Camden, S. C., 3 and 2. Mrs. Cocke eliminated Miss Jean Newcombe of Charlotte, 5 and 4, and Mrs. Stone, who set a new women's record of 74 over the par 75 course on Monday, put out Mrs. Fred Crawford of Durham, 4 and 3.

Kiwanis Win Tilt Over Exchangites

Four runs in the fourth inning enabled the Kiwanis to down the Exchangites, 10-5, in a Little League contest yesterday afternoon.

In the fourth, Billy Cox singled after two men were out. Lynn Jorgensen and Godfrey Oakley followed him by reaching base safely on consecutive errors, and the fireworks really started then. Jimmy Rogers, who was struck by a pitched ball twice during the game, singled, and Burke Stancil followed with the third single of the inning. The Exchange club finally ended the inning by forcing Don Wilkerson to fly out to centerfield.

Kelly Barnhill went the route for the winners, allowing but three hits. He fanned a total of seven men while walking a like number. Peanut Nunn survived the six innings for the Exchangites, but he was tagged for 11 hits. Nunn fanned three and did not issue a walk, but he hit four batters with pitched balls to keep himself in hot water throughout the afternoon.

Japan In Good Position For World Trade Race

TOKYO (UP) — Free and independent Japan is ready to begin expanding her trade with southeast Asia.

In many places she not only will be competing against local producers but also the manufacturers of England and the United States.

American economic experts, who helped Japan get back on her feet, believe Japan's economic future is "reasonably bright."

Japan is in such a good position to begin the trade race because of the large amount of U. S. aid given her during the allied occupation. American officials said the aid was in excess of $2,000,000,000.

Now Self-Supporting

On the day the occupation ended, Japan already was enjoying a self-supporting economy with industrial activity some 45 per cent above pre-war levels, according to an official spokesman at American headquarters here. He said the Japanese living standards were "closely comparable" to that prevailing in the pre-war years.

An end-of-the-occupation report by General Matthew B. Ridgway's headquarters summed up the situation as follows:

"The Japanese economy has been converted from a condition of virtual complete inactivity and chaos to a thriving, integral member of the free world economy. Japan currently has a favorable balance of payments in her international accounts, her industry has been rehabilitated in large measure, and significant democratic institutional reforms have transpired in such spheres as labor, industrial organization, banking, agriculture and fisheries."

Some Fear Expressed

While that is good news to the Japanese, there are many other people who view Japan's economic position as a potential menace — fearing there first might be economic aggression and then renewed Japanese military aggression.

The Japanese, while admitting that they intend to build up their trade as much as possible, contend that Japan now is a peaceful nation and should not be considered as a threat to anybody.

Japanese admit their economy has made a tremendous stride forward. They point out, however, that it was virtually at a standstill by the end of 1945 and therefore had plenty of room for improvement.

Nine Points Succeed

Underlying this progress was the successful "nine point economic stabilization directive" of December, 1948, designed to achieve fiscal, monetary, price and wage stability as rapidly as possible along with maximum production for export.

Specific provisions called for: (1) a balanced budget; (2) a strengthened tax collection program; (3) credit limitations; (4) wage stabilization; (5) strengthened price controls; (6) improvement of foreign trade controls; (7) improvement of the allocation and rationing system to aid in maximizing exports; (8) increased production; and (9) improved efficiency of the food collection program.

A single foreign exchange rate was adopted in April 1949 and a rapid rise of Japanese export trade ensued.

Local Kiwanians At Raleigh Meet

Kiwanians from four divisions of the Carolinas Kiwanis District in Eastern Carolina attended the meeting in Raleigh yesterday to welcome Kiwanis International President Claude B. Hellman of Baltimore.

The banquet was held at Sir Walter Hotel last night. Robert W. Shoffner, president of the Raleigh Kiwanis Club, presided.

The international president reviewed the work of Kiwanis and felicitated Carolina Kiwanians for the increase of membership and extension of Kiwanis activities. Hellman views with alarm the widespread trend toward communism.

He said Maryland has a law which provides for jailing persons for being communists and he expressed the hope that Congress would make it a federal law. "Kiwanis, in line with other civic organizations, is doing effective work in keeping alive the American spirit," the speaker declared.

Speakers at the banquet included President J. O. Tally of Fayetteville, governor of Carolinas Kiwanis District; Herb Hennig of South Carolina, district secretary-treasurer; and Dr. Charles Armstrong, of Salisbury, past president of Kiwanis International.

Greenville Kiwanians at the meeting were Dr. John W. Messick, David C. Moore, Jr., secretary-treasurer, and Herman H.

Immigrant Follows True Plot Of Old Horatic Alger

A Newsfeature

NEW YORK — Freeman Chum, a small and smiling man with an unconquerable faith in human nature, is the embodiment of the old American rags-to-riches story.

There is, however, one unusual angle. Freeman Chum, born Lieou Hoy Chum in Canton province around 1900, is a Chinese. He decided early in his career in America that the way to the nation's heart was through his stomach. Today he is the owner of a Chinese restaurant in midtown Manhattan.

Teen-Aged Immigrant

Chum was still in his teens when he emigrated to the new world. He got a job cooking for a chuckwagon on a ranch in Wyoming.

The pay was sensational—$32 a week. Chum loved his work and also admired the cowboys. One "Cowboy Charlie," gave him his American first name, Freeman.

That was because young Lieou Hoy Chum was free with his money, and used to spend it for extra supplies of food for his cowboy charges. From there he moved to Chicago and New York.

Kitchen Job

"I hung around a gambling house—Chinatown was wide open in those days," Chum recalls, "and got a job in the kitchen. I lived on nothing—in a coldwater flat for $3 a month. But I saved $1,600 and quit to go to evening school and learn."

Then a rich Chinese offered him a job managing an upstate restaurant.

"And there was a time not long after that, that I owned three Chinese restaurants, in Syracuse, Schenectady and Rochester and I was worth a quarter of a million dollars," said Chum reflectively.

Unfortunately, the year was 1929. In 1930 he borrowed carfare back to New York, then got a job in Baltimore managing another Chinese restaurant.

Married Boss' Daughter

At this point, Freeman kept up the Alger tradition, by marrying the boss' daughter. He saved money in 1935 opened his own place in New York's Chinatown.

Some years ago he decided on a revolutionary move—uptown—on the theory that Americans were educated in Chinese food, and would enjoy a good meal without the "atmosphere" of Pell Street. He was right—and a number of other Chinese restaurants have followed suit.

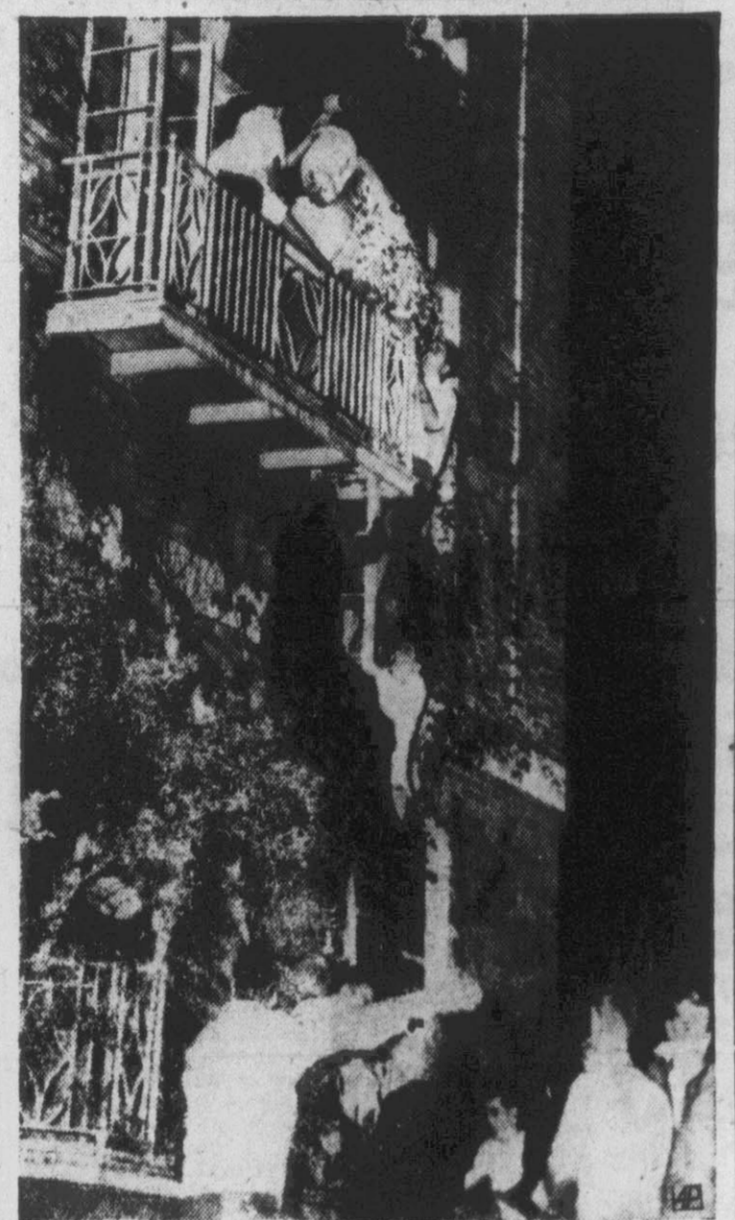

Chum recently helped expose a blackmailing racket practiced on men and women with relatives in Red China. Chum received a letter that his brother was imprisoned, but could be ransomed.

Publicized Blackmail Back

Chum sent $400 immediately. Later he learned his brother was dead. He publicized the racket and authorities stepped in.

The Chum family lives in a substantial middle-class section of Jamaica. Their oldest boy, Noble, is a student at Massachusetts Institute of Technology. The younger boy, James, and the daughter, Diana, attended public schools.

Recently, when authorities were having trouble with street gangs, Chum turned a portion of his property into an equipped playground and invited all the kids of the neighborhood to use it.

PERFUMED DELUGE:—Tufts college boys are doused with waste-baskets filled with strongly perfumed water as Jackson college girls quell the latest in a series of college "panty" raids in Medford, Mass. The girls waited until the boys, part of a male crowd of 500, were almost at the top of the fire escape before rushing their bucket brigade into action. The boys soon retreated. (AP Wirephoto).

American Custom Of 'Hen Parties' Catching On In Cautious France

By NADEANE WALKER
AP Newsfeatures

PARIS — French hostesses are taking alarm at the invasion of an American social custom—"hen parties."

Stag parties are so common in France that often more than half the tables in a restaurant will be taken up by all-male groups, but hen parties are so rare that a table full of American or English women tourists will sometimes attract stares and whispers.

Now a French homemakers' magazine has sounded a warning for Frenchwomen who have never heard of such a thing as women deliberately holding luncheon parties without men.

The magazine carefully explains that it is an American or English custom to invite to lunch six or eight women, "usually childhood friends or college classmates."

The implication is that such odd customs are beyond Gallic comprehension, but for the French hostess who is novelty-loving or cross his knife and fork on his plate, and refuse to open his mouth, either to eat or speak, during the whole meal.

An Italian who doesn't care for the place given him at a large dinner party will ostentatiously cross his knife and fork on his plate, and refuse to open his mouth, either to eat or speak, during the whole meal.

A Spaniard, even more sensitive, hesitates to refuse to sit down."

But an Englishman, instead of his wounded dignity, "will not making a scene, will take his lowly place and wait for a break in the conversation to sarcastically thank his hostess for treating him like an old friend of the family, though it is his first visit."

Another type of luncheon or dinner, the lets-a-lets, is enthusiastically endorsed as something the modern Frenchwoman has over-grandma, who never had such opportunities (the guest, it is airily assumed, will always be a male).

But even if he is "only" your husband, the French social arbiter advises flattery him with an attractive table and good menu.

She recommends a gaily printed tablecloth, and no other ornaments other than a bouquet (longer than it is high) and perhaps plain candlesticks.

Arty hostesses who go in for porcelain poodles to hide the salt and pepper, causing luckless guests to pepper what they wished to salt get a slap on the wrist. So do those who pay too much attention to their guests' appetites, and make every body feel they must take second servings.

of two old friends with whom she made mud pies in the park or copied Latin verses at school or the convent, she will never forgive you!" cries the French Emily Post.

The article admits that hen parties can be fun, but quickly adds, "or they can be very annoying."

French hostesses are traditionally respectful of protocol when they seat guests at their table, but the homemakers' magazines prod them on with suggestions of the awful consequences if they make a gaff. Foreigners are especially difficult, they are advised. Say the French writers:

An Italian who doesn't care for the place given him at a large dinner party will ostentatiously cross his knife and fork on his plate, and refuse to open his mouth, either to eat or speak, during the whole meal.

A Spaniard, even more sensitive, hesitates to refuse to sit down."

Wilson Minister Addresses Class

CHICOD—"I am come that you might have life" was the text which Reverend Robert Bradshaw of Wilson urged the seniors at the school here to follow through life.

Rev. Bradshaw, pastor of the First Methodist Church of Wilson, delivered the baccalaureate sermon to the graduating class here Sunday night.

"We must love life," he told the seniors, "and being a Christian does not indicate that you have to wear a long face. Jesus came that we might have life and life is fun. You can have all the glory of life, and enjoy all the things it brings to you."

The program opened with the processional and following, Rev. Sam Kennedy of the Pleasant Hill Free Will Baptist Church gave the invocation. The glee club and "Lift Thine Eyes" and "The Heavens Resound."

Rev. Kennedy pronounced the benediction following the recessional.

At Chapel Hill, last night's raid proved almost as unsuccessful as last week's. No buildings were entered, but one free-hearted coed tossed out a pair of panties. A soft-drink bottle struck one of the besiegers in the head and sent him to the university infirmary.

In Raleigh 500 N.C. State students warmed up with a pep rally, then loaded into automobiles to drive two miles to the campus of Meredith, a Baptist girls school. Some 150 of the first arrivals gained entrance to a girls' dormitory.

Police arrived a few moments later, but 15 or 20 triumphant males waved lace-decorated souvenirs as they were snooded out.

Police, who said they made no arrests, blocked the campus entrance with squad cars and prevented most of the raiders from getting to the residences. Then the raiders headed for St. Mary's.

There they were met by N.C. State student government officials, who shouted that they carried an administration threat to expel anyone who failed to leave immediately.

He said sweeping generalities which Ridgway employed in his address to Congress made it clear that he was speaking through "a political gag" imposed by the administration.

Few lawmakers evidence concern over Ridgway's statement that Red propaganda charges of U.S. germ and gas attacks are "a warning as menacing and as urgent as a forest fire bearing down upon a wooden village."

Some observers thought Ridgway was implying—as Defense Secretary Robert A. Lovett said in so many words last week—that the Communists often accuse an enemy of doing "things they plan to do themselves."

But Rep. Leslie C. Arends (R-I.), and several other House members said they did not get that inference from Ridgway's words. One lawmaker commented that if Ridgway intended to give Congress such a warning, he failed to drive his point home to most of his listeners. Diplomatic officials said they do not believe that the Communist propaganda about germ warfare is intended as a smokescreen for Red use of such weapons.

They said a more logical explanation is that the Chinese Communists are just trying to alibi their own failure to control epidemics in WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate today passed a new 1-2 billion dollar federal housing bill.

The voice vote action, sending the measure to the House, was taken a few minutes after the session began.

Most of the insurance and loan funds would be earmarked for housing in defense areas.

God's Estimate of Human Life

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Exodus 20:13; Matthew 5:21-26; 18:1-6, 10-14; Mark 1:40-42; Luke 9:51-56; 12:4-7.

The Jewish commandment read: "Thou shalt not kill." Jesus said, "Whoever is angry with his brother without cause shall be in danger of the judgment."

"Who is greatest in the kingdom of heaven?" the disciples asked. Jesus told them that unless they became as children, they could not enter the kingdom.

A leper knelt before Jesus, saying, "If Thou wilt, Thou canst make me clean." Christ reached out His hand, touched him, and the leprosy left him.

Refused hospitality in a Samaritan village, the disciples wanted the town burned, but Jesus rebuked them. MEMORY VERSE—Exodus 20:13.

God's Estimate of Human Life --

CHRIST TEACHES THAT UNBRIDLED PASSIONS LEAD TO DISASTER

Scripture—Exodus 20:13; Matthew 5:21-26; 18:1-6, 10-14; Mark 1:40-42; Luke 9:51-56; 12:4-7.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL. OUR LESSON today shows how any unbridled passion can lead to disaster. Not only do we need to be temperate (abstemious) in the matter of indulging in strong drink, but if we would enter into God's kingdom, we must control our anger, hates, prejudices, all our strong passions, so ripe today, that help to make the world a far cry from our prayer, "Thy Kingdom come, Thy will be done on earth as it is in heaven."

Statistics show crime on the increase all over the world. It is shocking to read or hear of the murders, killings (yes, there is a difference in meaning), assaults, robberies, and many tragic accidents caused by criminal carelessness in driving or driving while drunk. Well may be read earnestly and heeded Jesus words of faults that, allowed to grow, lead to crime.

In reference to the difference between killing and murder, our commentator says a killing may not be premeditated, but murder is. The Master said, "Ye have heard that it was said by them of old time, 'Thou shalt not kill, and whosoever shall kill shall be in danger of the judgment.' But I say unto you, that whosoever is angry with his brother without cause, shall be in danger of the judgment; and whosoever shall say to his brother, 'Raca,' (thought to have been a colloquial word used when a Jew was irritated), shall be in danger of the council; but whosoever shall say to his brother, 'Thou fool,' shall be in danger of hell fire."

If one went to the temple with the intention of laying a gift upon the altar, and he remembered that he had wronged his brother, the Master said he should leave the gift on the altar and go to be reconciled to his brother, then offer his gift to God. Now all is not unjustified. There is a righteous anger such as Jesus Himself displayed when He drove the money changers who were desecrating the temple with their commercialism, or His just wrath at the hypocritical rulers of the synagogue who professed holiness but failed to practice it in their daily lives. However, unbridled and often unjust anger that turns to hate and may lead to violence, is dangerous to society and to ourselves.

The disciples, although humble men, were always anxious to know who would be first in the kingdom of heaven. Jesus' rebuke to them is a lesson for all of us.

Caterpillars In 'Moving Carpet' 3 Inches Deep Plague Minnesota Area.

BRainerd, Minn. (UP)—Automobiles slipped and skidded, railroad locomotives stalled and residents wore high boots as caterpillars—three inches deep in places—crawled over a million-acre area east of here today.

It was the worst invasion by the yellow and black tent caterpillar in the history of Minnesota.

The moving carpet of caterpillars crept over forests, bushes, bare fields and highways.

Millions of trees stood naked, stripped of their new spring leaves by the relentless nibbling of billions of tiny mouths.

Motorists said it was almost as easy to get stuck in the mounds of caterpillars as it was in a snow drift.

Cars traveling through the area proceeded at reduced speeds over the treacherous blanket.

It was dangerous to stop for fear that it would be impossible to get the car moving again.

Caterpillars crossing a railroad track stalled a locomotive. The engine gradually lost traction going up an incline until its wheels spun on the tracks.

It finally had to back down the grade some distance then race ahead to gain enough momentum to carry it through the bunker of caterpillars.

State entomologist T. L. Aamodt said that $175,000 worth of DDT had been sprayed by airplanes over a 50,000-acre tract by the State Conservation Department, but the campaign had not been overly successful, although some progress had been made.

"Starvation should kill off many of them by summertime," Aamodt said.

The State Forestry Department along with the University of Minnesota have been engaged with Aamodt's department trying to develop several new insecticides, but as yet none have been turned loose on the caterpillars.

The invaded area is largely a resort region where tourists annually spend millions.

Resort owners reported that vacationers were arriving daily despite the caterpillars, but it was feared that business would suffer seriously unless some means was found to control the insects.

The caterpillars are the larvae of moths which like the out-of-doors. They build cocoons on trees and enjoy living in large groups.

New Industrial Plant In Raleigh

RALEIGH — (AP) — A multi-million dollar plant to turn out electric meters will be built near Raleigh.

Plans for the new plant, which will employ 2,500 persons, were announced at a dinner here last night by Otis O. Rae of Augusta, Ga., Southeastern district manager for Westinghouse Electric Corp.

The plant, second to be built under Westinghouse's 300-million-dollar expansion program, will be located on a 100-acre site north of Raleigh and is expected to be completed by July 1, 1953.

Last night's banquet audience was told the industry will be the largest ever located near Raleigh. Charles M. Naff, assistant to the manager at the Westinghouse Meter Division at Newark, N. J., will be the manager of the Raleigh plant.

The plant will boost this area's business and industrial payroll by more than seven million dollars annually. It will be operated by the Newark meter division.

West Germans To Enlarge Dam

HEIMBACH, Germany — (AP) — Europe's largest water reservoir with a storage capacity of seven billion cubic feet is planned by West Germany.

The project, still subject to final state and federal approval, aims at supplying the big textile and steel industries on the left bank of the Rhine with water and power for decades to come.

At an estimated cost of 10½ million dollars the Rur valley reservoir will be enlarged to double its present capacity. The Schwammenauel Dam will be raised from 135 feet to 238 feet. Twenty-four hundred workers are to be employed for years on the dam enlargement scheduled to start this fall.

Unusual Defense Set-Up Claimed

MINNEAPOLIS — (AP) — Minnesota claims two unique national distinctions for its civil defense organization.

The most northern civil defense ground observer post in the nation is in a lumber camp in the state's North west Angle. Facilities at the post include an 80-foot look-out tower and radio station.

Fourteen inmates at the St. Cloud Reformatory for men have been training for several weeks to handle what is believed to be the only observer post in the country located in a penal institution. The observer post is on the reformatory roof.

Hope To Divide Siamese Twins

DAYTON, O. (UP)—Tiny Ronnie and Donnie Galyon, seven-month-old Siamese twins, played in their crib just like other babies today, unaware doctors considered their shared life a rare oddity.

Attending physicians believe the curly haired identical twins have a fine chance of surviving.

The youngsters, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Galyon, are normal in every way except that they are joined at the abdomen by skin tissue. Doctors hope to sever that thin but all-important contact sometime after they are two years old.

To complete the operation, however, doctors believe they must replace a colon of one of the children.

"To watch the boys slug each other in their crib you would never know they are Siamese twins," a nurse at St. Elizabeth's Hospital said. "They often poke each other in the face or pull each other's curls."

Finds Old Pistol In Death Valley

SANTA ANA, Calif. — (AP) — A geology student returned here from a recent visit to Death Valley with a cap and ball pistol, lost on the desert about 90 years ago.

Douglas Thamer says the gun, which bears the date, 1851, still operates and is in almost perfect condition.

Thamer says it was of a type issued to the U. S. cavalry after 1852. Further research showed a cavalry unit had passed through the barren Death Valley region in 1860.

The Bachelor Benedict Club held its weekly meeting at the home of E. T. Thompson. The meeting was called to order and presided over by President T. M. Foreman. The devotional service was conducted by W. M. Myers in the absence of the chaplain. New officers for 1952-53 were elected. The next regular meeting will be at the home of R. L. Vines, 1504 W. 4th St., Sunday at 8:40 p.m.

On Monday night, May 19, the Bachelor Benedict members entertained their wives and sweethearts at "Club Trop." The club room was decorated for the occasion with fresh cut flowers and potted plants. In the center of the dance square, a spacious table was placed with a nylon lace table cover. The table was in the form of the letter T. At the bottom of the table or where you first entered the square a large ice punch bowl was placed which held the punch with a silver ladle. The bowl had different cut flowers molded in the ice, which brought out a lovely picture. Around the sides of the table a multitude of colored sandwiches were spread on a crystal platter. In the center of the large T shape was a lovely setting of cut flowers and all around were hors d'oeuvres which made a beautiful picture.

Near the Baby Grand piano was another refreshment bar.

As this is the affair that the wives and sweethearts look forward to, nothing was spared to make this occasion a huge success.

During the refreshment hour the president, Mr. Foreman, acted as toastmaster. In his remarks he welcomed the wives, sweethearts and guests. The new officers were introduced to the guests present.

WAR FLYING NO PICNIC

DETROIT — (UP) — Capt. Robert Rus, Air Force recruiter here, says he fed up with the common conception of airmen as "sterling young pilots who step into their silver chariots, fly their missions and drop back for lunch." "Some of these boys get dirty and get shot, too," Rus said, adding that infantry duty also is "generally under-rated."

N. C. Girl Wins Spelling Honors

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Doris Ann Hall, 13, of Hudson, N. C., who refused to be discouraged by being spelled down last year, is the new National Spelling Bee champion.

She out-spelled the runner-up, Marjorie Folliart, also 13, of Cranston, Pa., and 49 other state champions yesterday to win top place and first prize of $500 and a trip to New York.

It was a nip-and-tuck finish between the two, both of whom competed last year.

"Farraginus" was the word that finally tripped Marjorie in the 38th round.

Doris Ann misspelled "Cicerone" with a final "i". Under the contest rules Marjorie would have won if she herself had spelled correctly that word and one word more.

But she left out an "r" in "Farraginus." And Doris Ann, spelling it correctly, went on successfully to "Vignette" and the title.

The runner-up received $300. Third place winner was Mary Ellen Rusk, 12 of Washington, D. C. who received $100.

Nearly 500 words, many of them tongue-twisters and a few of them easy, were tossed at the 51 boys and girls competing in the daylong bee.

No Potatoes

ELIZABETH CITY, N. C. — (AP) — All is in readiness for the Potato Festival, Saturday, May 31. Only one thing is needed to make the affair a huge success. What is that one thing? Potatoes.

The lateness of this year's crop may prove embarrassing to festival officials, who are faced with the job of feeding 1,650 members of 19 bands which play at the annual festival.

Ordinarily there are plenty of new potatoes by festival time, but this year growers have not started their harvest. And there is a shortage of imported spuds.

Clearing the track of clickety-clack

You can ride in comfort on longer-lasting rails because the song of the track is being stilled

Like the paddleboat whistle on the river, the clickety-clack of wheels on rails is on its way to becoming a memory.

This familiar clatter and chatter has been like music to some of us when we travel. But it's been a headache to others . . . particularly our railroads.

Wheels pounding on rail joints cause jolting and wear as well as noise. And wear means expensive repair or replacement of rails and the bars that connect them.

ELIMINATING RAIL JOINTS—"Ribbonrail" is becoming important news because it provides a way to solve the high cost of joint maintenance by eliminating the joints themselves.

RAILS BY THE MILE—"Ribbonrail" is formed by welding the rails together under pressure in the controlled heat of oxy-acetylene flames. The welding is done on the job before the rails are laid . . . and they become continuous ribbons of steel up to a mile or more in length.

Mile-long lengths of rail in use may seem impossible because of expansion and contraction under extreme changes in weather and temperature. "Ribbonrail" engineering has solved this problem . . . reduced rail maintenance cost, and created the comfort of a smoother, quieter ride.

A UCC DEVELOPMENT—"Ribbonrail" is a development of the people of Union Carbide. It is another in the long list of achievements they have made during 40 years of service to the railroads of America.

FREE! Learn more about the interesting things you use every day. Write for the 1952 edition of "Products and Processes" which tells how science and industry use the ALLOYS, CARBONS, CHEMICALS, GASES, and PLASTICS made by Union Carbide. Ask for Booklet B.

Compromise Sought On Demo Civil-Rights Plank

By RAYMOND LAHR
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—A majority of the Democratic Party platform writers will try to compromise the civil rights issue despite President Truman's no-compromise declaration, a highly placed Democrat predicted today.

According to this leader, the 20-man drafting committee named last week was chosen with an eye to avoiding a rift like that caused by the 1948 civil rights dispute.

Agreement on compromise in the drafting group does not guarantee party harmony, however. The drafting subcommittee and the full platform committee adopted a compromise civil rights plank in 1948.

The convention itself overrode the platform committee and approved a tougher civil rights plank, provoking a walkout of some

Southern delegates and formation of the states' rights party.

House Democratic Leader John W. McCormack, who is counted among the compromisers, was chosen to head the drafting committee. A member is Burket Murphy, an Atlanta attorney and friend of Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.). It was understood that Russell was invited to nominate a member and that he chose Murphy.

Russell, a Democratic presidential hopeful whose basic strength is in the South, has led Southern senators in their perennial fights to block Mr. Truman's proposals for civil rights legislation.

In other political developments:

1. Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-O) opened his drive for South Dakota's 14 national convention votes with a speech in which he said the GOP will not win the presidency unless it campaigns all-out against the New Deal.
2. North Carolina Democrats endorsed Russell at their state convention in Raleigh yesterday. Although the delegation has strong pro-Russell leanings, it was not "instructed" to cast its 32 votes as a bloc for the Georgian.
3. Federal Security Administrator Oscar R. Ewing told newsmen in Boston that "I think that the President, at certain time, will announce whom he favors for the candidacy and he'll get the nomination."
4. Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) told the Los Angeles Bar Association that Congress has "substantially lost the power on the purse strings of the country as stipulated in the Constitution." He said congressional "committees have no time or ability to investigate the merits of all cases."

Catholic Bishop Will Be Week End Visitor

The Catholics of Greenville will have as their week end guest the most Reverend Vincent S. Waters, DD, Bishop of the Catholic Diocese of Raleigh.

A public reception will be given Bishop Waters Saturday evening 8:30 to 9:30, in the auditorium of St. Raphael's School. A cordial invitation is extended to all friends of St. Peter's Parish and St. Raphael's School to meet Bishop Waters.

Bishop Waters, a native of Roanoke, Virginia, served fourteen years as a priest in the Diocese of Richmond. Prior to his consecration as Bishop, he held the position as Chancellor of the Diocese. He was consecrated Bishop of Raleigh on May 15, 1945. Since coming to North Carolina much has been done to advance the progress of the Church in the State as well as to promote the welfare of the Southland, and several Catholic hospitals and parochial schools have been established. Bishop Waters is National Chaplain of the Catholic Daughters of America, and is one of the outstanding bishops of the Catholic Church in the United States.

Bishop Waters will be present at the 10:30 a.m. Mass at St. Gabriel's Church on Sunday, and will confer the sacrament of confirmation. Sunday afternoon at three o'clock he will confer the sacrament of confirmation at St. Peter's Church, and following this ceremony members of the parish will be dinner host to the visiting clergy.

On Saturday evening at 7:30, the Bishop will conduct the Holy Hour at St. Peter's church, and will offer the early Mass there on Sunday morning.

The public is cordially invited to attend these services and ceremonies.

Woman Holds Up Bank; Welcomes Capture, Jail

NEW YORK (UP)—Mrs. Anne Myers, 34, who held up a bank for $400 because she needed an operation, said today she welcomed jail where "they can take care of me when I'm sick."

The slight, blue-eyed mother of two children pointed the muzzle of a toy gun at a teller in a branch of the City Exchange Bank yesterday and demanded exactly $400.

"That's what I needed for an operation," she told police after her capture a few blocks from the bank where she was cornered by the bank's assistant manager.

She said she chose the branch bank, only four blocks from her home, because it was the closest and she couldn't run very far. She was charged with assault, robbery and illegal possession of a weapon.

Mrs. Myers said she stood at a bank counter and scribbled on deposit slips until she saw a teller was free. Then, she said, she walked over to the gridded window and gave the teller, Miss Evelyn Davis, 20, a note reading:

"There's a gun pointed at you. Hand me exactly $400 and don't make a sound."

Miss Davis complied, but sounded a silent alarm. A bank customer also had seen Mrs. Myers point the toy gun at the teller and told a bank employee who called assistant manager James McKee.

McKee had little trouble in overtaking the ailing woman who had fled with four $100 bills clutched in her hand. He fired a shot into the ground as he caught up with her and demanded:

"Come here, lady, and give me that money."

Mrs. Myers gave him the bills and returned to the bank where police, alerted by the alarm, were waiting.

The twice divorced Mrs. Myers told police she had been on and off the welfare rolls and worked as a typist when she could.

She had written her mother, Mrs. C. S. Choquette, of Woonsocket, R.I., to come here to take care of Mrs. Myers' daughter, by her first marriage, Loretta Blondin, 14, while she underwent the needed operation.

"I hoped to get away with it," she told police.

She said her inability to work had forced her to send her son, Ward Myers, 9, to live with his father in Urbana, Ill.

"All the doctors advised an operation," she said. "After all, if peritonitis sets in, I'm dead."

To West Point

Sgt. Charles E. Poole, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Poole of Greenville, has received an appointment to the United States Military Academy at West Point. A graduate of Miami Edison High School, he was inducted into the army in April, 1951. He will enter West Point in July.

Spent $34,000 On Tavern Friends In Company Cash

CHICAGO (UP)—Every week from the Union Stockyard and Transit Co. on vouchers signed with the name of the firm's president, William Wood Prince.

For 25 years Adams had been handy man and valet to Prince. His duties of arranging visas and travel tickets for Prince gave him access to company vouchers.

By putting his friends' names on these as payee he duped company cashiers into writing checks for non-existent company debts.

The bartender of the tavern, Stanley Swist, once was given a $350 tip.

Much more pleasing to Swist was a $5,000 check given him "to fix up the house." In all, Adams said he gave Swist $9,600.

The colonel didn't like the way one man dressed, he said. So he gave him $9,650 to "spruce up a bit."

Today Adams was under $10,000 bond and awaiting a court hearing June 20 on charges he forged his employers name to hundreds of expense vouchers over a two-year period.

His friends were understandably saddened by the turn of events.

Adams bought them drinks, clothes and fixed up their houses. He never spent a nickel of the pilfered money on himself.

They fondly called him "colonel" after he told them he held that rank in the Air Force. They welcomed his spending sprees which he said came out of a $2,000-a-month engineering job.

But today they knew their benefactor had gotten all his money

Family's Farm Is 96 Years Old

DES MOINES — (AP) — Few farms have been kept in the family as long as a quarter section of land near Ft. Dodge owned by 81-year-old John Hogan.

The land was purchased in 1856 by Hogan's father for $1.25 an acre. The original deed was signed by President Franklin Pierce.

Hogan has lived on the farm all but two years of his life. His seven brothers and sisters were born and grew up there.

RADIOACTIVE SALMON SAFE

HANFORD, Wash. — (UP) — Each year 25,000 salmon are hatched and raised at the atomic energy works to check the effect of radioactivity. If anyone could hold that much he would have to eat — at a single sitting — 100 pounds of the salmon to get any noticeable amount of radioactive material.

Having Babies Is Less Dangerous

DENVER — (AP) — An Arizona doctor says having a baby is eight times less dangerous for an American woman than it was only 20 years ago.

Dr. Preston T. Brown of Phoenix said in an interview that "A sensational development in the progress of American medicine" is responsible.

He said the national average is now less than one maternal death for each 1,000 live births. Up to 1930, the average was eight deaths of women during pregnancy or child birth for each 1,000 babies born.

Arab States Are Seeking Unity

BEIRUT, Lebanon — (AP) — Economic union of all the Arab states is a goal of the new Federation of Arab Chambers of Commerce which recently opened its headquarters here.

The federation was organized last year as part of an Arab League project to improve economic cooperation among the Arab states.

Service Station Owners Organize

A number of service station owners met last night and formed the Greenville Service Station Association.

The purpose of the organization was cited as connecting closer relations between service station Association members at all times.

Jimmie Wells was elected as chairman of the newly formed association and H. T. Brown was named vice-chairman. The organization will meet every 30 days.

Some of the service station owners who were not present last night made it known to Merchants Association that they wished to become members of the new group.

kids got along with measles, or how Mary likes her new house; but they may be deciding who will be the next President of the United States. It is this element of chance that makes political conventions so interesting to watch, and so important in the governmental scheme of North Carolina and the United States.

NASCAR Races In Wilson Sunday

WILSON — Another in a series of summer races will be staged here Sunday afternoon. The races, sanctioned by NASCAR and co-sponsored by the American Legion post here, will have a purse of $1,765.

Speedy Thompson, winner of the races last week, will be back for another go in his "Blue Goose", car number 22. Other drivers that have already signed and agreed to appear are: "Fireball" Roberts from Daytona Beach; Jimmy Thompson, with the same car that he set the track record and won in down in Columbia, S. C., several days ago; Bill Widenhouse of Florence, S. C.; Dink Widenhouse and Banks Simpson, both of Concord; Smokey Smith of Goldsboro, and Buddy Shuman of Charlotte.

Track officials are hoping that another occurrence like the one that they had last Sunday is not in the books. A total of seven cars piled up in the first heat, but all of the drivers escaped without injury.

Time trials started at one p.m., with the races following at 2:30 p.m.
