Economy Control Bill Action Near

House Vote On Senate-Approved Extension Of Defense Production Act May Be Held By Next Friday, Well Before Expiration Date Of June 30

WASHINGTON (UP)—The House stood today as the last major legislative hurdle to congressional action extending wage, price and rent controls.

Chairman Brent Spence of the House Banking Committee said the House probably will start debate Wednesday on extending the Defense Production Act beyond its June 30 expiration date. He was hopeful of a vote by next Friday.

Congress took two big steps yesterday in the race to extend anti-inflation economic controls before the deadline:

1. The Senate, by a 58 to 18 vote, passed legislation extending controls for eight months, to next March 1.

2. The House Banking Committee followed the Senate action by recommending last night that controls be extended for one year.

The Senate and House versions of the controls bill differ in several important details, but both fall far short of President Truman's request for a strengthened, two-year extension.

The House group introduced a new feature by recommending an anti-inflation amendment aimed at keeping prices below ceilings. The amendment would suspend the requirement for retailers and wholesalers to keep full records on their sales if their selling prices are 7 or more per cent below government ceilings.

The amendment is a compromise with a widespread congressional demand that controls be lifted from items consistently selling below ceiling levels. The Senate bill contains no similar provision, but does include a recommendation that controls be suspended in cases where they would not be stabilizing.

Unlike the Senate version, the House bill contains no amendments requesting President Truman to use the Taft-Hartley law to end the steel strike, or limiting the Wage Stabilization Board to handling disputes in labor disputes.

The House Labor Committee, however, began drafting its recommendations today on the future power of the wage board. The group was considered certain to recommend that the board be stripped of its jurisdiction over non-economic issues, such as the union shop.

The House committee also went along with the Senate in voting to prohibit price ceilings on fresh fruits and vegetables. Potatoes have been the only such produce to be controlled thus far. The government lifted price ceilings on spuds a week ago following approval of the senate amendment.

Firemen To Hold Supper Meeting

Members of the Greenville Fire Department will hold an informal supper meeting tonight at 7:30. The volunteer firemen are playing host to the regular force at tonight's outing. Members of the board of aldermen and Mayor Lester D. Page have been invited.

A spokesman for the volunteers said this morning no business will be taken up and there will not be a featured speaker. "It's just an unofficial, off-the-record affair," he reported.

The meeting will be held at Respass Brothers.

Training Course For Recreation Leaders

Recreation leaders in the city have undergone extensive training for three days this week at a Playground Training Institute held by state and city recreation officials.

The institute which has been in progress since Wednesday, is being conducted to train men and women who will supervise recreation on city playgrounds this summer. Recreation leaders from New Bern and Washington also attended the training program.

Wednesday morning began with talks by Jim Stevens, state recreation official, on offering safe areas under supervision and a variety of activities in order that all age groups could participate. Another state official, Lonnie Powell, and Warren Carroll, city recreation director, spoke on the safety of the playground areas and led the leaders in active games.

Program planning was discussed Wednesday afternoon by being broken down into special events such as sports and games contests, city wide events, story-telling for all ages, and how to handle "day periods."

Approximately 20 playground workers, both white and Negro, attended the institute. Other than recreation officials, lay leaders, Mrs. Donna Tabar, Mrs. Sam Brooks, and Dave Whichard, took part in the institute.

New Walkout Is Hinted By Allied Truce Spokesmen

Accuse Reds Of Neutral Zone Violation, In Brief Session Of Bickering

PANMUNJOM, Korea (UP)—Allied truce negotiators hinted at a new walkout today after accusing the Communists of maintaining combat troops inside the 1,000-yard neutral zone around Panmunjom.

They said the area was not established "to protect" Communist soldiers.

Liaison officers bickered over the neutral zone before and after a 16-minute session of the truce delegations.

Major Gen. William K. Harrison, Allied senior delegate, hinted that the United Nations may either request or impose a new recess such as the three-day walkout that ended Wednesday.

He held a whispered conference with Maj. Gen. Howard Turner and Rear Adm. R.E. Libby, U.N. negotiators, when North Korean Gen. Nam Il proposed a meeting tomorrow.

"We were considering whether it was worthwhile to come back tomorrow," Harrison said later. But he agreed to meet again tomorrow.

Liaison officers from the two sides met after the Communists demanded that the U.N. report on the wounding of three civilians inside the neutral zone by an Allied shell.

Marine Col. James C. Murray first told the Reds the evidence supporting their complaint was "inadequate."

But he added that investigation troops in the neutral zone and that non-combatant civilians were kept close to military installations. Three Red dugouts in the northern section of the zone are in plain sight from the conference tents. It was not known until the survey that they actually are inside the zone.

Patsy Smith Chosen Queen Of Beauty In Jaycee Event

Wins Pageant Honors And Will Be Entered In Forthcoming Statewide Beauty Contest

Displaying a flawless figure in a striking, jet-black bathing suit, Miss Patsy Smith last night walked away with the $250 first prize in the Jaycee Beauty Pageant here.

Runner-up to the 18-year-old Greenville beauty was Miss Martha Benton of Fayetteville, and third place went to Miss Janice Roberson of Bethel. In a three-hour contest, 11 contestants paraded before a near-packed Austin Auditorium audience on East Carolina College campus.

Competitors were not judged on beauty alone, but also on poise, personality and talent. They made three appearances: one in evening dresses, one for talent and one in bathing suits. The five judges scored each on the impressions made during each appearance.

For her talent selection, the winning entry delivered a humorous reading entitled "Bette Hart's Love Story." Miss Benton presented a tap dance routine and the third place winner, Miss Roberson, played "Bumble Boogie" on the piano and then sang "Summertime".

Other contestants, their selections, and their order of appearance were: Pauline Dupree, sang "Moonbeams"; Betty Sue Harris, delivered a dramatic reading "The Highwayman"; Betty Sue Whitfield, played Chopin's Prelude Number Four and "Hazel's Boogie"; and Billie Jean Simpson, sang "Embraceable You" and "A Guy Is A Guy".

Jacqueline Sears, played a Chopin waltz; Olema Grant, sang "Make Believe" and "Indian Love Call"; Ann Smith, sang "The Moon Behind The Cottonwood" and "Without A Song"; and Carrie Joyner, played "Waiting For The Robert E. Lee" and "Five Foot Two".

Unexpected Questions One unanticipated feature of the contest were the three questions put to the contestants in their final appearance. Contestants had no previous knowledge of the questions and were judged according to answers to the queries.

The three questions were: 1. should 18-year-olds be allowed to vote? 2. how may we best reduce highway accidents and fatalities? and 3. what are your plans for a career? Contestants' opinions regarding the first question ranged from "no they don't have enough sense" to "yes, if they are old enough to fight for their country they are old enough to vote." All contestants agreed that to reduce traffic fatalities, a more comprehensive program of drivers' instruction should be instituted — with a more strict enforcement of the laws.

Retorts to the career question were more varied. They ranged from furthering careers as secretaries, teachers, actresses, to "I just want to finish college, get married and have kids." The latter answer was enthusiastically received by the audience.

In addition to the $250 first prize, the three finalists received gifts of luggage, cosmetics, and ensembles of clothing. All contestants received gifts of clothing and favors. Roy Cole and his orchestra played for the pageant and for the dance that followed. The contest was well attended and all of the lovely contestants were applauded as they appeared.

One judge said, "It is certainly going to be difficult to choose a winner from this striking array of beauty and talent." Judges for the

Ground Fighting Continues Heavy On Korean Front

Counter - Attacking Reds Thrown Back; Allies Hold Key Hill Positions

SEOUL, Korea (UP)—American infantrymen threw back strong Chinese counterattacks in savage night fighting early today and held fast to newly won hill positions on the communist side of the "Armistice Line."

Fighting for the hill positions vital to the holders if either side should mount a major offensive was the heaviest since last November when the Reds attacked in last-minute efforts to capture strategic peaks.

The two new wedges hacked out of Communist territory marked the deepest penetration by either side since the line, officially obsolete but long observed, was set hopefully at Panmunjom on Nov. 27.

GI's of the Oklahoma 45th Division, supported by tanks and fighter-bombers, knocked the Reds off hills west of Chonwon and southeast of Kumsong.

They caused the Communists "heavy" casualties as the Reds attacked in desperate efforts to win back the positions.

Night bombings roared low over the battlefield and blasted the Reds with 1,000-pound bombs.

The fight to dig out the deeply dug-in Chinese began at dawn Thursday. GIs charged into Red bunkers with flame throwers, grenades and slashing bayonets.

They routed out Chinese from hills commanding a view of virtually neutralized Kumsong and captured some 15,000 hand grenades, 40 submachine guns and 1,000 land mines.

Total delinquent taxes dating from 1940 amount to $24,775.46, and that figure added to taxes to be collected in June set a sum total of all outstanding taxes at $41,377.61.

Collections through April were $274,532.01, or 92 percent of the levy. A total of $7,513.03 was collected in the month of May alone. Collections of delinquent taxes in May amounted to $504.33, and collections of the same type taxes in April were only $567.92.

House-Approved Military Construction Bill Faces Thorough Going-Over In Senate; Most Of Money Going To Development Of Military Bases

WASHINGTON (UP)—A Senate subcommittee set its sights today on eliminating "wasteful expenditures" from a House-approved $2,758,318,000 military construction bill.

Chairman Russell B. Long (D-La.) said a "great amount" of the construction authorized in the House bill can be postponed "without doing any harm to the military establishment."

Long said his armed services subcommittee will start hearings on the bill Tuesday. Engineers and construction experts have already been at work for the group analyzing the requests of the Defense Department.

The bill, carrying funds for urgent Army, Navy and Air Force construction projects, was passed by the House yesterday. The $2,758,318,000 House total was about $269,000,000 less than the armed services had requested.

"Failure to go into this bill thoroughly will result in wasteful expenditure of millions upon millions of dollars," Long said.

The building program, which includes secret work at overseas bases for U. S. atomic bombers, carries funds for some 260 military bases in this country as well as abroad.

Most of the money would go to expand or modernize bases now in use, reopen World War II installations, or post-war bases on which work has already started. Few new bases are involved.

The major share of the new authorization — $2,099,277,000 — would go to the Air Force. While $111,099,000 of this amount is specified by name, another $1,133,938,000 would be spent on top-secret Air Force projects, most of them outside the United States.

The House Armed Services Committee said the funds cover work at strategic Air Force bases "spread across the world" from the Far East, through Southern Asia, across North Africa and West Europe, and back through the northeast approaches to the United States.

The foreign bases program, the committee said, is designed to enable the Strategic Air Command "to saturate any enemy within the space of a few days with any of the weapons which we have at our command."

The bill also authorizes an outlay of $383,291,000 by the Army and $286,750,000 by the Navy. The bulk of this work is listed in the legislation. It covers expansion, improvement and reactivation of bases in this country and abroad.

By states, the program includes: North Carolina, $44,378,000; ARMY, $15,325,000; Fort Bragg, Fayetteville, $15,325,000.

NAVY $432,000; Naval auxiliary landing field, Edenton, $198,000; naval air facility, Weeksville, $237,000.

AIR FORCE, $286,621,000: Raleigh-Durham Municipal Airport, Raleigh-Durham, $18,895,000; Seymour Johnston Field, Goldsboro, $9,726,000.

Steel Pact Hinging On Four Issues

Murray Lists Points Blocking Settlement, Steel Use Being Curtailed

PITTSBURGH — (AP) — Four principal issues block a settlement of the steel strike, President Philip Murray of the CIO United Steelworkers declared today.

Addressing a joint strategy session of the Union's Executive Board and Wage-Policy Committee, Murray listed the four stumbling blocks as:

1. The companies' insistence that "the matter of a management clause should be resolved to the satisfaction of U. S. Steel Corp."
2. "All questions of seniority should be satisfactorily resolved."
3. "That incentive pay rates should be resolved to the satisfaction of U. S. Steel Corp."
4. "The company U. S. Steel fully emphasized its opposition to a provision giving recognition to a union shop."

Murray in listing the issues gave no special prominence to the union shop demand.

Before the union chief began speaking, the 34 members of the Executive Board and the 170 on the Wage Policy group gave him a rising ovation which lasted about two minutes.

Murray was accompanied to the meeting by his 13-year-old grandson, rosy cheeked Joseph Murray Jr. While Murray spoke, the boy sat in a chair about six feet back of the speakers table.

WASHINGTON (UP)—The government abandoned plans today for relaxing controls on building as the nationwide steel strike went into its 12th day.

Informed sources said the National Production Authority has decided to revoke a series of orders, scheduled to take effect July 1, which would have eased curbs on construction of stores, theaters, roads, amusement projects, private homes and all other types of civilian buildings.

With upwards of 3,000,000 tons of steel already lost as a result of the strike, informants said, the NPA may have to make building controls even tighter than they are at present, instead of relaxing them.

New Finery For State Capitol Is Given Approval

RALEIGH — (AP) — The Capitol, now in the process of getting a thorough steam bath, probably will get new finery to go with its bright appearance.

The State Board of Buildings and Grounds decided yesterday to request funds to purchase draperies, and probably venetian blinds, for the legislative halls.

About $6,000 will be needed for the trim, the board decided. It will request the Advisory Budget Commission to set up the funds.

The board also approved $275,000 in low bids for renovating the state library and labor buildings.

Walk Carefully This Day, The Thirteenth

There has been no major catastrophe thus far today, but in the remaining six hours Greenville may again be devastated by fire—because today is Friday the Thirteenth!

An exemplification of the centuries-old superstitions the world over, "Black Friday" the 13 has come to represent disaster in the most pronounced form. Some people describe this date as "just another day," while others regard it as the epitome of bad luck.

Emotionally associated with the number 13, "Black Friday" of the same date has become so intricately entrenched in modern thinking as to be considered a "bona fide" prediction of disaster—whether large or small.

It is countless superstitions dating back prior to the birth of Christ rolled into one bitter, often-shunned lump. Around many a backwoods native's neck may be found suspended a small, foul-smelling sack of asafetida—"to ward off disease and bad luck."

A not-too-diligent search of the pockets of others might reveal a round, well-polished buckeye, carried through the years for the same purpose. Closely resembling a chestnut in appearance, this marble-like charm grows along the banks of rivers and is rumored to be deliciously edible on one side, while the opposite side of the sphere is deadly poisonous. Only the Indians know which side to eat.

Never kill a toadfrog; if you do your well will run dry. If you want it to rain, you have only to kill a black snake and hang it on a rail fence. When astrological signs are not in the head, never cut your hair—if you do so you will be bald. Needless to say, walking under ladders and breaking mirrors is always bad luck.

These superstitions have become so widespread that many hotels and office buildings do not have a floor numbered 13. The gigantic Empire State Building in New York falls into this category. Some baseball players will never consent to wear the number 13, while others flout superstition by requesting that number on their uniforms.

Don't hang a hat on a bedpost; never rock a rocking chair without an occupant; and by all means when you are walking with someone never walk on opposite side of a post or tree without saying "bread and butter." By the same token, if you cut a new window in the old house it will surely burn to the ground.

A horseshoe suspended prongs up over the stable door will always bring a heifer calf, and a horseshoe found at random and hung in the fork of a tree will bring the finder lifelong prosperity. If, however, one has violated any of these many superstitions, he has only to knock on wood or toss a handful of salt over his right shoulder.

But regardless of your predicament or outlook, if you survive the day you will not have to cope with Friday the 13 again until 1963.

Grimesland Brides Elect Guests At Kitchen Shower

GRIMESLAND—Mrs. Dan White and Mrs. Charles Randolph of Washington, D. C., daughter of Mrs. White, entertained at a kitchen shower party on Wednesday evening as a compliment to Miss Peggy Edwards and Miss Blanche Majette, brides-elect of this month.

The kitchen motif was carried out in table centerpieces and gifts which were presented for score prizes after several progressions of bridge, which the guests played upon their arrival.

Each card table was centered with a piece of synthetic foam, on which rested a basket made of grapefruit rind. Nuts, chewing gum, cigarettes and matches were placed in and around the fruit basket for the convenience of the guests while they played cards. Iced drinks were served prior to the beginning of the card games, and during the progressions, the hostesses showered the honorees with kitchen gifts from the guests. The gifts were brought to them in decorated market baskets, and each one was something pretty and useful for the homemaker.

Throughout the home arrangements of cut flowers were used as a background for the party. The living room mantel was banked with greenery and white flowers, against which was arranged a bridal scene lighted by white tapers at either end.

After several more progressions of bridge, prizes of organly aprons were awarded to Mrs. John Lewis as holder of high score, to Mrs. J. Heber Brooks as holder of second high, and to Mrs. C. F. Galloway as holder of low score. Mrs. Brooks was also the recipient of hot dish mats as winner of the floating prize.

The hostesses served a salad course in grape fruit shells during the refreshment hour.

The honorees were presented with their wedding invitations which had been handprinted and framed. They were also given novelty gifts of blue garters and a borrowed penny.

The informal morning hour was held at the home of Mrs. Galloway, and guests were welcomed into the home by the hostesses and Miss Edwards, who with Mrs. C. B. Rowlett and Mrs. T. R. Rouse of Grimesland, mothers of the bride couple, stood in an informal line to receive them.

Miss Edwards was wearing a corsage of gardenias, which had been presented to her by the hostesses.

From an appointed table in the living room, iced drinks, assorted nuts, cheese straws and other accompaniments were placed for the pleasure of the guests who served themselves. Arrangements of mixed summer garden flowers, with gladioli and gardenias predominating, were used as decorative accents by the hostesses.

At the conclusion of the conversational hour the honorees were given a gift of crystal in her pattern by Mrs. Galloway, while Mrs. Hudson gave her a silver vegetable dish.

Brides Elect Of Grimesland Shower Guests

GRIMESLAND—On last Saturday afternoon Miss Peggy Edwards and Miss Blanche Majette, brides-elect of this month, were honored when three hostesses entertained at bridge for them.

The party took place at the home of Mrs. S. A. Porter, with Mrs. Connie Adams and Mrs. Curdie Phipps as joint hostesses.

The home was decorated with vases and baskets of varied summer garden flowers. As the guests assembled, they found their places at the playing tables marked with tallies. Both honorees were given corsages of white carnations, one of which was tied with green ribbon and the other with yellow ribbon, which emphasized the color note observed by the hostesses in table appointments and refreshments.

Following several games of bridge, during which the hostesses served iced drinks and salted nuts, the brides were showered with a miscellaneous collection of gifts from the guests. The presents were presented to them in baskets tied with yellow and green ribbons.

Mrs. T. R. Rouse was the recipient of a prize for high score, and Mrs. John Lewis received a prize as holder of second prize. Mrs. C. H. Baker was given a gift as a consolation.

An ice course of molded ice cream and bridal cakes was served as a delightful conclusion to the afternoon's party.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. —(AP) — Sorry, gals. Or rather, sorry, guys.

There'll be no French bathing suits allowed on this resort's crowded beaches this season.

Officials who make the rules for beachers here banned the ultra-scanty swim suit yesterday and required life guards to see that bathers wear "decent attire."

"The French bathing suit is definitely out," said Beach Patrol Supt. Richard Hughes.

Each year there are requests for a ruling on how low, how high and how brief "decent attire" should be.

Because the job of keeping laws in step with ever-shrinking styles in women's beach wear became increasingly difficult, the matter was put on a "decent attire" basis.

So this year, no French bathing suits.

Magnolias Used For Decorations At Morning Hour

On Thursday morning Miss Mary Smith was complimented when Mrs. Gus Forbes, Mrs. D. E. Jones and Mrs. H. C. Smith of Falkland entertained for her at the suburban home of Mrs. Forbes.

The guests were greeted informally at the door by the hostesses and the honoree, along with her mother, Mrs. Guy Smith. Miss Smith and her mother were wearing corsages of gardenias which were gifts from the hostesses.

For the informal morning hour the home was lovely with its old fashioned arrangements of magnolias and gardenias. A large bowl of the flowers was used on the console table in the entrance hall, and other arrangements were used on the mantel and coffee table in the living room.

The refreshment table in the dining room was centered with a crystal swan in which floated large magnolia blossoms. A perky marine bow which was tied to its neck ended in tulle streamers at the corners of the table, caught up with single gardenias. A floral arrangement of the same was used on the buffet, along with white tapers.

The rolled pinwheel and ribbon sandwiches carried out the color note of green and white which was used entirely in table appointments. Pastries, nuts and assorted sweets were served buffet style, accompanying the iced drinks which the hostesses poured. Assisting them in the dining room were Miss Cynthia Cranford and Miss Marietta Northrop.

The guests lingered for a conversational hour on the porch and in the living room after the hostesses presented Miss Smith with wedding gifts.

Hostesses In Grifton Fete Peggy Edwards

GRIFTON—Lovely in every detail was the dessert bridge given on Tuesday night when Mrs. C. C. Hughes of Greenville and Mrs. Jake Worthington entertained at the Worthington home on Westwood Drive to honor Miss Peggy Edwards of Grimesland, whose marriage to Tom Rowlett of Greenville will take place this month.

Guests were received by the hostesses in rooms decorated with green and white carnations, white gladioli and silver wedding bells tied with green tulle. On the table was arranged a miniature bridal couple.

Five tables were placed for bridge, with places designated by bridal talleis. Miss Edwards' place was marked with a white gladiolus corsage, a gift of her hostesses who also presented her china in her chosen pattern.

During the progressions Mrs. C. H. Spiggle scored high and was given a bisque ornament. Ashtrays in china went to Mrs. J. H. Brooks for second high. Mrs. C. B. Rowlett Sr. was given a desk letter holder as consolation, and the traveling prize, a miniature brass slipper, was held by Mrs. W. E. Hudson.

During the games iced beverages with salted nuts were enjoyed, and later iced cakes, individual cakes and mints carrying out the green and white color note was served.

Guests for the evening were Miss Edwards, Mrs. Spiggle, Mrs. Brooks, Miss Blanche Majette, Mrs. Loyd Whichard, Mrs. Dan White, Mrs. W. F. Galloway, Mrs. T. R. Rouse, Mrs. Clinton Elks of Grimesland, Mrs. Charles Randolph, Mrs. John Szyperski of Washington, D. Double Ring Rites Unite Miss Copeland, Mr. Wynne at a floating shower at her home on Monday, May 26, between the hours of five and nine o'clock.

Guests were received by the hostess and directed to the dining room where Eleanor Copeland, sister of the honoree, poured punch and guests served themselves to petit fours, mints and salted nuts. After this they were invited to look at the many gifts.

Arrangements of pink larkspur and tamarix with baby's breath were used as mantel and table decorations in the living room. In the dining room a table centerpiece of pink sweet peas and baby's breath in a crystal bowl was used, flanked by pink tapers in crystal holders. The honoree was presented a corsage and a gift of china in her chosen pattern by the hostess.

On Wednesday, May 22, Mrs. Roscoe Barnhill entertained at an informal hour from four until five o'clock. Guests were greeted by Mrs. Barnhill, who also presented the bride a corsage of pink carnations. During the entertaining hour a delightful game of coverall Bingo was played and small gifts were enjoyed by the guests.

The honoree was later surprised by a shower of pretty handkerchiefs found at the end of a search by following a string. The hostess presented her a series of gifts carrying out the wedding motif of something new, old, blue and borrowed idea.

The living room, where card tables were assembled, was decorated with greenery, candles and rice bags were on each table and pink flowers on bridesmaids' fan flanked with pink candles were on the mantel. The dining room had an arrangement of white lilies and a bridal scene.

A delicious course of ham biscuits, nuts, hors d'oeuvres, home made cookies and iced drinks were served to the twenty guests at the conclusion of the hour.

Immediately following the rehearsal on Saturday night Mrs. Hubert Simmons and Mrs. Billy Wynne entertained the bridal couple, attendants and a few close friends at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Simmons.

The home was beautifully decorated with summer flowers. Iced drinks were served by Mrs. Simmons. Guests served themselves to home-made party cakes, salted nuts and mints.

Churches of Christ, Scientist

"God the Preserver of Man" is the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches next Sunday.

The Golden Text is from Psalms 91:1 "He that dwelleth in the secret place of the most High shall abide under the shadow of the Almighty."

Passages from the Bible includes: "And the patriarchs, moved with envy, sold Joseph into Egypt; but God was with him, and delivered him out of all his afflictions, and gave him favour and wisdom in the sight of Pharaoh king of Egypt Acts 7:9-19."

And from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "All things work together for good to them that love God," is the distum of Scripture.

Step by step will those who trust Him find that "God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble."

Reception

Immediately following the ceremony the bride's parents entertained informally for Mr. and Mrs. Wynne, the wedding party and friends at their home.

Arrangements of pink larkspur were used as mantel and table decorations in the living room, where the receiving line was formed. In the dining room white lilies and baby's breath were used on the table and buffet, and both floral arrangements were flanked by white tapers.

Mrs. George Wynne served cake and Mrs. J. O. Whichard poured punch. Guests served themselves to mints and salted nuts.

Honoree Given Gift Of Crystal At Bridge Party

Miss Dorothy Stauffer, one of the current brides-elect of early summer, was the guest of honor on Wednesday night when Mrs. El Bloom entertained as a compliment to her.

Blue hydrangeas, gladioli and assorted summer flowers formed a background for the three tables which were arranged for refreshments when the guests arrived. The tables were centered with low silver candle holders bearing pink tapers, which were charmingly tied with tulle and ribbon streamers attached to old fashioned nosegays of garden flowers.

An ice course accompanied by cake, nuts and mints was served as soon as the guests found their appointed places. During the games iced-drinks and nuts were passed by the hostess.

At the conclusion of play prizes were given to Miss Stauffer as holder of high score and to Miss Dorothy Nell Henderson as holder of low score. Miss Stauffer received a set of purse-size assorted perfumes, while Miss Henderson's gift was earrings.

Miss Stauffer was also given a gift of china in her selected pattern as a wedding remembrance from the hostess, while Mrs. Morris Brody, a recent bride, was given a gift of crystal.

Mrs. Herbert Paschall of Washington, mother of the man to whom Miss Stauffer will be married, Mrs. J. J. Stauffer, the honoree's mother, Mrs. J. B. Spilman Jr., Miss Carolyn Clark and Mrs. Allan Stokes were special guests for the refreshment hour.

Strength for the Day

BACK HOME AGAIN
NOT ACCORDING TO STATISTICS
There is a beautiful story in the New Testament of the woman who broke an alabaster jar of ointment and anointed Jesus with the precious nard a few days before his crucifixion. This ointment cost about three hundred dollars and probably represented the woman's savings. The apostles demurred over what seemed to them a foolish waste. This ointment might have been sold and the money given to the poor. But Jesus brushed remonstrances aside and declared that the woman had done a beautiful thing which would cause her to be remembered throughout the ages.

There was about Jesus a sublime impracticality. Of course we know Jesus to be the most practical Teacher humanity has produced, but many have failed to see the beauty of certain impractical—or what some would call sentimental—convictions to which he tenaciously held. He believed in beauty. Wherever he saw love manifesting itself with abandon, as in the case of this woman, he was pleased. The poor could always be fed, but love like this is seldom to be found anywhere.

The Statistical Abstract of the United States is a useful book, but there is much information about life which it does not contain.

It Costs Money, But It's A Good Investment

A city betterment project which Greenville has been talking about and seeking for several years has at last reached the stage where concrete steps are being made toward its consummation.

We have reference to the sub-station in the western section of Greenville for the city fire department. A deal between the city and the county commissioners for the purchase of the curb market building has passed the preliminary stages, and although it has not been completed, there appears little likelihood that the purchase will not be effected.

For many years the Greenville fire department has faced the problem of getting to outlying sections of the city from the central fire station. It has existed under the constant threat of dire consequences should a train some day cut off the avenues from the fire station to the western section of the city at the same time the fire equipment is needed there.

The Chamber of Commerce and the Merchants Association have for several years urged the establishment of a sub-station. The people of the city realize that such an expansion of the fire department will take considerable money, but the investment is a good one for the safety and welfare of Greenville.

Greenville's aldermen are negotiating for the purchase of the county's half interest in the curb market building for $4,000. It has been estimated another $10,000 will be needed to renovate the building to make it suitable for a fire station. On top of that, Greenville will need to purchase a new piece of fire equipment suitable for the type service the sub-station will be expected to give. Then too the new sub-station probably will necessitate the addition of two or more men to the present full time fire department force.

It is readily seen that the project will cost a considerable amount of money.

The Reflector does not favor an increase in local taxes as such; for we feel that economies still can be effected in the local government operations to make each tax dollar go farther than it does at the present time. Without losing sight of that fact, however, we believe it would be wiser to devote to invest in the fire sub-station even if it meant a couple of more pennies on the city's tax rate, than for the city to risk any longer losing its present fire protection rating.

In the long run higher insurance rates for fire protection would be more costly to the citizens of the city than paying for the sub-station for the fire department. With the sub-station we would have added fire protection for the money invested, whereas with the less favorable insurance rating, the city still have no better fire protection than it does at the present time.

The Farmers Interest A Top Consideration

North Carolina Supreme Court decision

in the Kinston Tobacco Board of Trade case should curb some of the turmoil which has been stirred up over extra sets of buyers on various sets of tobacco markets.

The decision handed down this week in substance the local tobacco boards of trade do not have the authority to force the tobacco companies to put on extra sets of buyers merely because the individual market wants them.

In the court's own words, "the business of operating an auction warehouse is undoubtedly affected with the public interest and is subject to reasonable public regulation, but this fact alone does not clothe the Kinston Tobacco Board of Trade, Inc., with the power to establish a five-sale market and invade private rights to the extent of requiring individuals or private corporations to participate."

Kinston instituted its fifth sale in 1949 by resolution and the court said "directed defendants and other buyers to participate in the fifth sale as they had in the other four."

Of course the court case is an outgrowth of the rump sales which were established in several markets in this section of the State. Had the Supreme Court upheld the Kinston case, it would have meant every market could have demanded extra sets of buyers of the tobacco companies for the sake of getting more tobacco sold each day. Even as it is now, there are periods during the selling season when the tobacco companies cannot adequately handle all the tobacco that is bought on the warehouse floors.

When the processing plants are flooded with more leaf than they can handle, it is reflected in slumps in market prices, and as a result, less money for the farmers who have tobacco on sale during those periods.

And after all, the tobacco auction markets and the individual warehousemen should have the best interest of the farmers in mind when they seek alterations in the selling set-up.

We hope the Supreme Court decision will put an end to the bickering for extra sets of buyers on the individual markets, and likewise will have the added effect of putting an end to the rump sales which have been instituted.

National Whirligig

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON — Although the Supreme Court's decision in the steel seizure case has provoked more requests for copies than any ruling since its approval of gold devaluation, public circulation of the opinion has been restricted sharply by Administration Democrats.

It would have been further reduced save for the protests of Senator Cain of Washington, a Republican, and Senator Maybank of South Carolina, a "Dick" Russell Democrat.

Even though the 6-3 decision lambasted a president of his own party, the South Carolinian thought the disposition of the "inherent powers" issue so vital that he took issue with his good friend and Senate majority leader, McFarland, of Arizona.

REPUBLICAN When Senator Cain read a "flash bulletin" on the ruling on a "proof copy" of the majority and minority opinions. Announcing the result on the floor, he moved that they be published in full in the Congressional Record. There was no opposition.

Subsequently, Maybank proposed that the rulings be issued in a single, bound pamphlet as a Senate document. Majority Leader McFarland then interposed a mild objection. He questioned the necessity of reprinting the court's findings in both forms. He spoke against republication in the Record, in view of the Maybank plan to make it a Senate document.

Both Cain and Maybank insisted on the two forms of republication. McFarland did not press his point because, in view of the pro-court and anti-White House mood of the Senate, he would have been outvoted.

RESTRICTIONS From a political standpoint, McFarland's preference for the Senate document rather than Congressional Record republication is understandable. Whereas the Record's circulation totals about 43,000, the maximum printed as a Senate paper is only 1,500.

Under restrictions imposed by Rules Committee Chairman Carl Hayden of Arizona, always an Administration loyalist, the public cannot obtain copies of the decisions in Senate document form except through their senators. He has ordered that they be given only to members of the Senate.

COPIES Thus it is doubtful if more than 50,000 bound copies will be available. The court itself authorizes about 100 "proof copies" for immediate use on decision days by newspaper correspondents, radio and television men, and lawyers directly concerned with the legislation.

The Government Printing Office reprints about 300 copies for sale to law firms, schools and journals, although the number will probably run higher in this instance. Moreover, obtaining a large number of reprints in this way involves considerable difficulty.

BEST-SELLER As usual, the Republicans are neglecting their opportunities. No GOP'er in House or Senate has proposed that this politically explosive opinion be published as a "public document," which would enable it to become a minor best-seller.

Newspapers and magazines, of course, have relayed the important highlights of the opinion. But it requires a reading of all the individual justice's reasoning to realize what a spanking the high tribunal gave to Harry S. Truman or to any chief executive who echoes Jersey Boss Frank Hague's fiat that "I am the law."

RECOGNITION Chief Justice Vinson's lawyer and political pals — and he has as wide a circle of friends as any man in Washington — are joshing him because he is the first United States official to extend recognition to the Southern Confederacy as an existing government rather than a mere group of rebellious states.

Ninety-one years after the event, the Kentuckian implied in his minority opinion in the steel litigation that the South had established a government. Lincoln meticulously refused to accept this viewpoint, labeling in Greeley's famous words that they were simply "erring sisters." The northern radicals then in control of Congress used harsher descriptions.

SLIP Chief Justice Vinson's historical slip appears on page 19 of his dissent. In citing previous presidential use of "inherent powers" as precedent for Truman's seizure of private property, the Kentuckian says:

"Without declaration of war, President Lincoln took momentary action with the outbreak of the Civil War. 'Fred will have a tough time in explaining this description of the war between the states.' Ed notes, Mr. Vinson then cites various actions including the Emancipation Proclamation, which Lincoln took 'without statutory authority.'"

Lincoln exercised this power, of course, because a serious crisis did exist, and because he did not regard the rebellious states as another sovereign country. Therefore, there was no reason for a "declaration of war," and there is no analogy between 1861 and 1952 conditions.

Black Cats

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce has done it again! Last night they sponsored the first Beauty Pageant that Greenville has had in years, and it went over with a bang.

At the dance after the pageant I was standing in line to be the first to dance with Miss Greenville of 1952, Patsy Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Smith who live on Eastern Street here in Greenville.

Don Calloway of Redisco, who lives across the street from Patsy, was on the receiving end of a good ribbing from his fellow J.C.s. Patsy has frequently been Don's baby sitter, but the boys emphasized that is a thing of the past. If Don intends for Miss Greenville to baby sit for him, he'll have to get in line.

Patsy was as thrilled over her victory as anybody I've ever seen; that is, except her Mother, who jumped all over the stage (behind the curtain) with glee. Patsy's victory entitled her to entrance in the forthcoming Miss North Carolina contest in Winston-Salem.

which will send its winner to Atlantic City for the Miss America Pageant.

Just as I was getting the facts of my interview with Patsy the band struck up with the Mexican hat dance. Believe me, you haven't lived until you've done that dance; and if you don't know how Miss Greenville can teach you.

In Winston-Salem Patsy plans to offer the same talent skit as she did last night—Bret Hart's Old Maid story. One of the most interesting features of the contest was the personality test, in which Master of Ceremonies Charlie Wheelbee asked each of the five finalists three surprise questions:

(1) Do you think 18-year-olds should be allowed to vote? (2) What do you think should be done about the high rate of traffic accidents? and (3) What plans do you have for the next few years? None of the girls had the opportunity to hear the other's answers, nor did they know what the questions would be. Generally speaking, Patsy's answers were (1) If a person is old enough to fight for his country, he's old enough to vote, (2) Traffic accidents would be reduced if the people were better educated about safety precautions, and (3) I want to finish school at East Carolina College and get a job in the business world.

The second place winner, Martha Benton of Fayetteville (also a student at East Carolina) quickly named marriage as one of her ambitions; in fact, of the five, she was the only one to mention it. Martha said, "I appreciate having had the opportunity to enter the contest and I certainly did enjoy it."

Third-place winner Janice Roberson of Bethel was the girl labeled by Band Leader Roy Cole of Chapel Hill as having the best musical talent of the 11 girls. Janice played the piano and sang.

General Chairman for the event was Julian White, who deserves a lot of credit for putting on a good show for a good cause; all profit will go for the Elm Street Park. And I thank you.

Around Capitol Square

By LYNN NISBET

SPEAKERSHIP — With Democratic members of the house of representatives determined in all out about a dozen counties, and fairly accurate guess as to outcome of second primaries in these instances, prospective candidates for the speakership are actively seeking support. There are three active candidates—Eugene T. Bost Jr., of Cabarrus, Roy A. Taylor of Buncombe and Thomas Turner of Guilford. To date no aspirant for the post has arisen in the eastern half of the state, the probability being that the east-west tradition will be more nearly observed with respect to this office than for others in the recent primary. The speaker last session was W. Frank Taylor of Wayne, an easterner. For the past 25 years the speakership has alternated between east and west.

ROTATION — The presiding officer in 1927 was R. T. Fountain of Edgecombe, in 1929 it was A. H. Graham of Orange and in 1931 it was Willis Smith of Wake. There was some question then — and has been ever since — as to whether Orange was in the east or west. Similar doubt has been raised about Person, which furnished R. L. Harris as speaker in 1933. From that time until now there has been no question about the speaker's residence. Robert Grady Johnson of Person served in 1935; Gregg Cherry of Gaston in '37; D. I. Ward of Graham in '39; C. M. Mull of Cleveland in '41; John H. Kerr Jr., of Warren in '43; and Thomas J. Pearsall of Nash in '47; Kerr Craig Ramsay of Rowan in '49, and W. Frank Taylor of Wayne in '51. Not only have the speakers been pretty well divided between east and west, but they have been distributed rather equitably among the counties. None of the counties now offering candidates have had a speaker in modern times.

SENATE — Much the same kind of record is found with respect to presidents protem of the Senate, a position currently sought by Paul E. Jones of Pitt and Edwin Pale of Scotland. Both are from the eastern half of the state, although Scotland county is in the western judicial division. Last session's president pro tem was R. Grady Rankin of Gastonia. The rotation custom has not been strictly followed in the senate, although observance has been better since 1937.

PRESIDENTS — Going back to the 1927 session it is found that the presidents pro tem have been as follows: 1927—W. L. Long of Halifax; 1931—Rivers D. Johnson of Duplin; 1933—W. G. Clark of Edgecombe; 1935 — Paul D. Grady of Johnston; 1937 — A. Hall Johnston of Buncombe; 1939 — W. E. Smith of Stanley; 1941 — John D. Larkins Jr., of Jones; 1943 — J. Hampton Price of Rockingham; 1945 — Archie C. Gay of Northampton; 1947 — Joe L. Blythe of Mecklenburg; 1949 — J. C. Pittman of Lee; 1951 — Grady Rankin of Gaston.

IMPORTANT — The position of president protem of the senate is not much more than empty honor if, normal situations. It has important residuary possibilities. He presides over the senate in absence of the president. In event of the death, resignation or disqualification of both the Governor and the Lieutenant Governor, the president protem of the senate would step into the chief executive post.

Custom for some years has been that the president pro tem is chairman of the committee on rules and ex-officio member of all senate committees. The speaker of the house has much more real power than the president protem of the senate, in that he appoints committees for his branch as the lieutenant governor does on the other side of the capitol. Automobile license protocol assigns him No. 3 tag, ranking him next to the lieutenant governor who gets No. 2. The speaker of the house can exert tremendous influence upon legislation by the appointment of committees and channeling bills. Two of his committee chairmen—appropriations and finance—become ex-officio members of the advisory budget commission which has large power over all segments of state government.

CANDIDATES — Only 50 senators have a vote in selecting the president pro tem and 120 representatives elect the speaker, but the public has a big stake in their respective qualifications. Paul E. Jones at Farmville will be in his third consecutive term as senator. He is a dentist and farmer, with an outstanding record of civic service in his community. He is 62 and a member of the Christian Church. Edwin Pale of Laurinburg is 54. He will be in his fourth term as a senator having served in 1911, 1945 and 1949. Rotation agrees.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

FILLING A FIFTH PLATE
(New Bern Sun-Journal)

For every four persons sitting down to a meal in 1950 there will be another person at the table in 1955, says Wayne Darrow, Washington correspondent of Farm and Ranch-Southern. Agriculture is the question of whether or not America can feed itself in 1955. America can feed itself on 1955, according to the United States Department of Agriculture estimates that to supply each person in 1955 with the same standard of diet as in 1950 will require:

Five and a half billion pounds more of beef, veal, pork, lamb and mutton. Thirty billion pounds more milk or an increase of about 10,000,000 quarts. Fourteen eggs, or an increase of about 1,250,000,000 dozens. Increases in other foods, of course, will be needed in proportion.

Writing in the June issue of the magazine, Mr. Darrow says the population growth is one of the most significant facts in the farm situation today, both for the present and for the long run. Agriculture's job he adds, is to fill the fifth plate. In short, the future looks bright for Southern agriculture.

But the writer adds that farmers will reach the food goal only by producing more efficiently than ever before. More research, a large expansion in fertilizer plant capacity, an adequate credit system, sound educational programs and a dependable, fair level of farm prices will help the farmer meet the demand, he says.

If our technology and efficiency continue to progress in the future as they have in the past, Americans should remain the Mr. Darrow concludes, but the American farmer must use more hybrid seed, more fertilizers, more pesticides, more machinery and practice better soil conservation methods. Better breeding, feeding, and handling of livestock is also vital.

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER
Copper is the only nonferrous metal still in a "questionable" position, according to a report of the nonferrous metals committee of the National Association of Purchasing Agents. And something can be done about that.

Chile abrogated its price agreement with the United States. That means we can have that country's vast supply only by bargaining for it; we can get all we want if we just pay the price. If we can hold off long enough, we can get copper at our own price; if not, we will have to pay pretty. Meanwhile, the committee reports, "the switch from copper to aluminum by utilities still continues."

On other metals, the committee reports: Aluminum: Moving into an easier position and the industry expects virtually a free market by 1953.

Brass and bronze: deliveries improving but "talk of decontrol will not get very far until copper moves into an easier position." Lead and zinc: both have fallen in price because of greater supply in relation to demand. Nickel and cadmium: additional nickel production should eventually relieve the month-to-month allocation basis; cadmium is plentiful and prices have dropped. Silver: supplies ample; the price recently fell.

Tin: enough is being delivered to meet restricted requirements for perhaps the next twelve months; further improvement can be expected if an agreement is reached with Bolivia.

Meanwhile, supplies of ferrous metals, interrupted by the steel strike, are expected to improve through the year.

In general, the United States is heading toward a position in which there will be plenty of metals for defense, at its present rate, and for civilian goods. When we reach that point, business will have to make stronger efforts to sell civilian users than it has in the last twenty years. If it does not, we face the possibilities of factory shutdowns and declines in dividends.

CIGAR, CIGARET SALES INCREASING

Americans are smoking more. In the ten months ending April 30, judging from tax-paid withdrawal statistics of the Bureau of Internal Revenue, cigars sales were up 3.36 per cent and cigarette sales 4.16 per cent up.

WHAT BANKS SAY—(TAKE YOUR CHOICE)

This is how three of the major banks look at business in their June bulletins and letters: National City Bank, New York: "The most noteworthy feature of the business reports during May is an improvement in some of the depressed consumer goods items, at the mill level. The pick-up has not been broad enough to induce widespread buying, or to make much impression on general sentiment, but the manufacturers reached by it have the benefit off inventory relief."

General Chairman for the event was Julian White, who deserves a lot of credit for putting on a good show for a good cause; all profit will go for the Elm Street Park. And I thank you.

Hal Boyle's Column

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK — (AP) — A lot of late-shopping ladies are feverishly asking themselves:

"What can I get my husband for Father's Day? And they tear through a department store like a two-legged tornado in quest of a suitable necktie, bathrobe, or pair of slippers."

If the average father were only what his womenfolk have him, that's how he'd go to work—clad only in a necktie, a bathrobe, and new slippers.

Naturally a fellow appreciates these things. Who ever had enough haberdashery?

But, Ladies, along with that necktie you present your husband this Sunday, why not hand him a real surprise? Why not give him back his bathroom?

There is no gift a man would rather have on Father's Day than a bathroom — his very own bathroom.

Ladies, you may object: "But Dad already has his own bathroom."

Does he? He may in name — but never in fact. Whether you live in a log cabin or a marble palace of 100 chambers, the odds are he really doesn't have a bathroom he can enter and leave at his leisure. I have never met a married man who felt he had a bathroom he could honestly call his own, except when the rest of the family was away on vacation.

The chances are that if they designed a house that was all plumbing except for the kitchen, father still wouldn't have that bathroom.

Here's what happens: A family in modest circumstances makes some money and builds a home that has a bathroom for every member — and one left over for the guests.

"This is your bathroom, dear," Mama tells Papa. He can't believe it. After all these years, his secret dream has come true. No more people pounding on the door and calling "hurry up" every time he starts to shave! How can life hold greater luxury?

It may truly be his bathroom for a week or a month. But then he comes home one day and finds the maid's dress hanging there. The next day it rains and he returns to find a drying umbrella in his bathtub.

Soon he learns his son has turned the room into a public library, his daughter wants to dry her hair there, and mother has hung up all her clothes in it while she cleans out a closet. Guests never seem able to find the guest bathroom, but they can always find his.

Everybody leaves a belonging or two in Dad's bathroom.

"You got your own bathroom," he wails. "Why don't you clutter it up?"

That's what every man wants. Ladies — a bathroom of his own.

and new business on their books."

Northern Trust Co., Chicago: "Business sentiment has not improved in the past month from the caution tinged with pessimism that has prevailed for many months. The decline in price of lead from 19 cents to 15 cents per pound, the failure of a better tone in textile markets to carry through for more than a few days, numerous announcements of cutbacks in output of refrigerators and other household appliances, continuing lack of vigor in retail markets, foreign political and economic problems, and domestic political uncertainties provide the background for cautious attitudes."

First National Bank, Boston: "Business is better and will likely continue to show gradual improvement. Some of the industries that have been depressed for over a year, such as textiles and footwear, have shown signs of recovery."

HALF OF FREEZER MAKERS
At least 22 home and farm freezer manufacturers offer some type of frozen food insurance, according to the Department of Agriculture. This is approximately half the industry. Some policies cover only mechanical defects; others cover defects and power failures, which is the greater hazard, especially in rural areas. A large number of farms, however, have power generating facilities and when floods or storms cut electric current, they can back up the tractor to the generator and step on the gas.

NEW PRODUCTS
COAT: Reversible raincoats with electronically sealed seams are being made of vinyl plastic by Main Street Rainwear, 287 West 39 St., New York. Low priced, lightweight with roomy pockets and long sleeves which may be rolled up at will, they are available in plain color and pin-dotted combinations.

CHLOROPHYLL: This time the "green stuff" has been added to cough drops by Copclana, Inc., 360 Furr an St., Brooklyn, N. Y. The cough drops are said to nip the cough and sweeten the breath at the same time.

SENSITIVE: Accurate color measurements of paints, liquids and other material can be made in less than 30 seconds by a colorimeter, said to be more sensitive than the eye. It is by Manufacturers Engineering & Equipment Co., Hatboro, Penna.

SAFE: Precision-made nail scissors are being offered by Hoffritz, 40 E. 54th St., New York. With blunt tips, said to protect babies from injury while nails are being clipped.

LENS: A one-piece bi-colored lens has been designed by American Optical Co., South Bridge, Mass., for industrial and chemical workers. Said to have the strength of a single lens, it will fit metal or acetate goggles, and has no junction that might collect dirt or foreign matter.

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON — Mrs. Clydia Mae Richardson is getting ready to snatch a good, long rest before a change of administration booms down on her after the presidential election, in November.

This little woman, born and raised in Highmore, S. D., has been keeper of the Great Seal of the United States since 1943. Her seal is affixed to proclamations of the President, ratifications of treaties, the commissions of members of the cabinet and of American ambassadors, ministers and foreign service officers, and to certain other documents, such as passports. "I'm up to my neck on ordinary days, but with a changing administration and the resulting appointment of new officials the turmoil is terrific," she told me.

All the above documents must first be signed by the President and the secretary of state before the design of the seal is impressed on a paper wafer which has been glued to the document. The seal is kept in an odd-looking cherrywood cabinet are locked in a safe.

As chief of the presidential appointments and authentication staff of the State Department, Mrs. Richardson's job and that of her assistants is a government official on a handsome handwritten or "engrossed" form which is signed by the President at the White House. A civil service appointee takes it up to the U. S. Senate. The secretary of the Senate takes it to the president of the Senate, who cuts in on Senate business to announce that a message has been received from the President of the United States.

When the nomination is confirmed another paper called a Senate Resolution is drawn up and stamped by the White House and State Department, where it is filed. A commission is prepared, equally beautifully engrossed, again shot from State Department to White House and returned to the State Department for the secretary of state's countersignature. Then the seal is affixed.

The engraver's script used on all official documents like these is done by Miss Myra Boland and Charles Watten, engravers. There are only about 100 official engravers in the United States. Mrs. Richardson, who herself specialized in the art at the Zanerian Art School at Columbus, O., says not more than 15 or 20 persons enroll in the course in a year.

Steel Strike Problem Gets Bean-Bag Routine; Too Hot

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON — (UP)—While the steel strike goes on the President and Congress play bean-bag. The President tosses the strike problem to Congress. Congress tosses it back.

The President's plea to Congress was: Give me a law that can do something about a strike. So far the reaction seems to be: Stew in your own juice; you already have a law.

The President could use the Taft-Hartley act, which is supposed to stop a strike for 80 days but it is questionable whether the steel-workers, already on strike, would go back now even if ordered.

But Truman says he doesn't like T-H. He says it's a poor way to solve the problem. Philip Murray doesn't like T-H either. He's president of the striking CIO steel workers and a political ally of Truman.

So Truman suggests Congress pass a brand new piece of legislation, giving him authority to seize the steel mills, just as he did without law before the Supreme Court told him last week to give them back.

But Congress, or those members of it who disagree with him or don't like him or don't like labor unions, have him over a bit of a barrel. Since T-H does exist and hasn't been tried they can tell him to try it before coming to them.

If Truman had played this scene differently in the beginning — by using T-H when a steel strike was first threatened last January 1, he'd have had Congress over a barrel.

If he had used T-H, of course, there's no telling how badly this might have fractured his friendship with Murray or how many labor votes it might have cost the Democrats.

If he had used T-H back in January to delay the strike 80 days, once that time was up and there was no settlement, the workers could have struck. There was no other law to stop or delay them further.

In that case Truman could have gone to Congress and asked: See, T-H didn't work, so give me a law that will.

Congress wouldn't have been able to toss anything back at him then. He could have sat by, letting Congress stew in its own juice until it finally gave him the authority he wanted.

Kiwanis Clubs' Delegates To Attend Seattle Event

Instead, he tried everything but T-H. He succeeded, first by persuasion and then by illegal seizure of the mills, to delay the strike six months, which was much longer than the 80 days T-H could have delayed it.

If the strike continues much longer and Congress still won't ball him out, Truman probably will have to use T-H to try to get the workers back on the job. And that might not be bad political medicine for Truman.

At the end of the 80 days, if there was still no settlement, the workers could walk out again, that time with nothing, to stop them unless Congress passed some new law.

But by that time it would be around the first of September, just a couple of months before election, and Congress is not expected to be in session that long. So Congress might have to stop electioneering and return.

In addition, if Truman, having stood on the union's side so long in this case, is finally pushed in using T-H, it's doubtful labor leaders like Murray would be very angry with him.

From Truman's viewpoint, if he has to use T-H, it might not be bad to do so now while using it last January might have been poison.

HUNDREDS AT BARBECUE FOR FARMERS OF PITT

Between 400 and 500 farmers were guests at a barbecue supper Tuesday night at the Allen Implement Company, West End Circle. Motion pictures were shown and prizes were awarded guests. W. O. Moore, Texas Oil Company distributor; Farmville Implement Company; Farmville, and Allen Implement Company were hosts at the annual event.

The name "Gypsy" is a corruption of "Egyptian," but there seems to be no evidence that the people had any special connection with Egypt.

Grey, pastor of the First Baptist Church of New Orleans and president of the Southern Convention; and James M. (Jimmy) Fidler, Hollywood commentator and President of National Kids' Day Foundation. They are scheduled to speak in Seattle's huge Civic Auditorium. Special entertainment will be provided for women attending the convention.

The United States, Canada, Alaska and Hawaii will be represented at the convention. Mild Smith, president of the Greenville Kiwanis Club, stated.

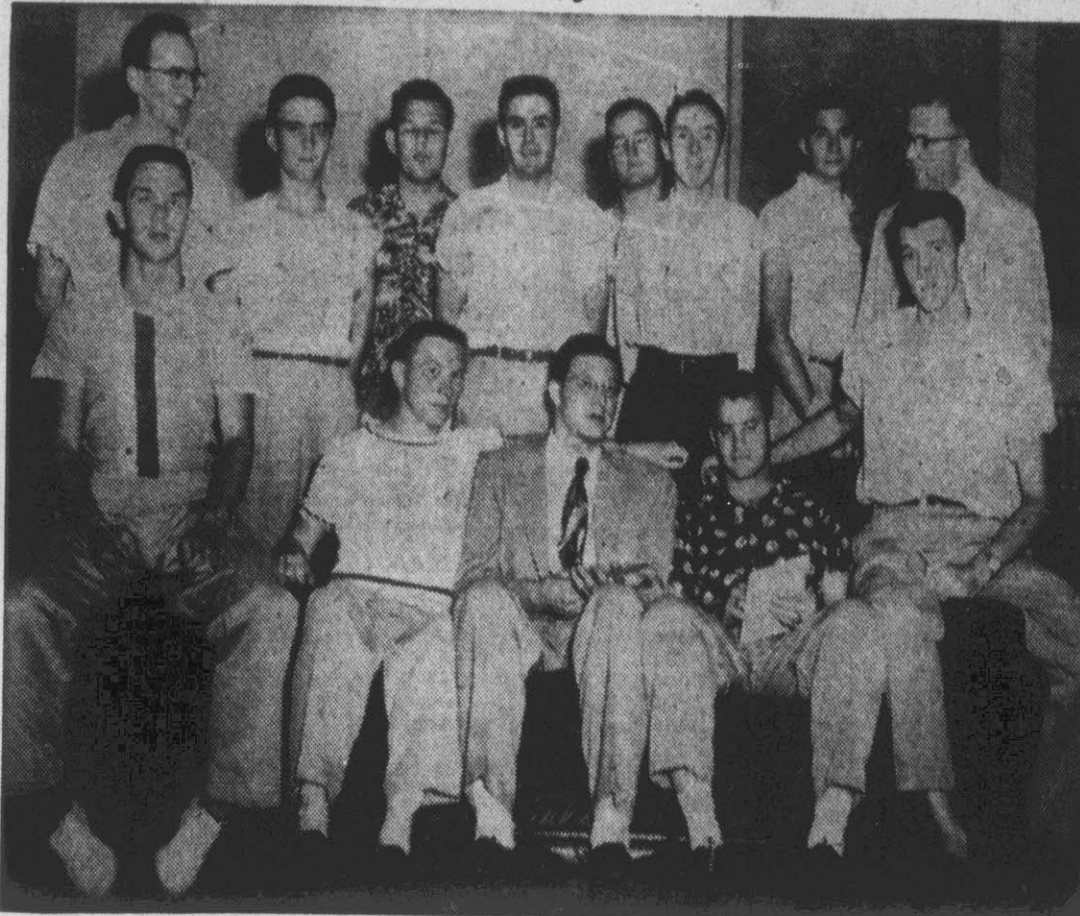

Turtle Involved In Court Hearing

LINDEN, N. J. (UP)—Herman Worthing said today he would appear in court Monday on a charge of creating a disturbance with only a memory of the snapping turtle that caused him so much trouble.

Worthing, 38, was put behind bars and the turtle was "jailed" in a wash tub after police spotted him carrying the 15-pound snapper in a large container.

Worthing posted a $50 bond yesterday and told police he thought he would make some turtle soup.

Kefauver Has Reasons For Asking Neutrality

WASHINGTON (UP)—When Sen. Estes Kefauver says he hopes President Truman will remain neutral toward his campaign to lead the 1952 ticket, the senate is stating the case exactly.

He can only hope. And politics being what it is, the odds are long against Mr. Truman being neutral on Kefauver. There is no law enabling a president to have a big hand in choosing his successor.

Neither a political ground nor a bid a smart young senator from going around the country humiliating the leader of his party and the President of the United States.

It is, further, a fact that every native born son and daughter of Uncle Sam is entitled to aspire to run for the White House if so minded.

But presidents always desire to have a big hand in selection of their successors. Presidents also resent humiliation. And a president invariably wants to be forewarned and consulted about important matters affecting the party he leads—such as the nomination of a presidential ticket.

On such matters the organization war horses of a party stand with their president in most cases. And so do they in the chilly situation which has developed between Mr. Truman and the man in the coonskin cap.

Kefauver took off for the high places without so much as by-your-leave to his president and party leader. Thereupon he humiliated the same by shellacking him personally in the first of the series of presidential primaries. That was in New Hampshire.

In California, Ohio, and Elsewhere Kefauver knocked the ears off stooge or favorite-son presidential candidates who had been put up largely to keep large delegations handy, until the Truman administration decided how and for whom they could be best used.

Not only that, but every time Kefauver won a primary against Mr. Truman or an administration stand-in, his victorious delegate candidates moved into position to take over the state Democratic organization.

For example: Kefauver's victory in California grounded Edwin W. Pauley, one of Mr. Truman's close friends, and will deprive him of membership on the California convention delegation as well as his high place in California party councils. That was a hard blow and there were others like it.

Back in 1939 handsome Paul V.

McNutt of Indiana decided to seek the 1940 Democratic presidential nomination. FDR and Company cut him down fast. The word went around that McNutt's income tax returns were under review.

Nothing like that has happened to Kefauver—yet.

Ewing Parole Is Under Review

RALEIGH—(AP)—Early next week Paroles Commissioner N. F. Ransdell will announce whether Wall C. Ewing, 61, will be paroled.

Ewing, a power in State politics, was convicted of manslaughter in a sensational trial in Cumberland Superior Court in 1946.

A big powerful man, he had been charged with murdering his wife, who weighed less than 100 pounds. He was sentenced to 18-20 years. Doctors testified at his trial that Mrs. Ewing died of a brain hemorrhage probably caused by a severe beating.

Ransdell said yesterday he is reviewing Ewing's case "on my own initiative." He declared he is giving a similar review to about 30 pressing cases in an effort to clear the decks.

He was named paroles commissioner following the ousting of T. C. Johnson from the post by Governor Scott.

Cubs Continue Winning By Edging Philadelphia, 3-1

By CARL LUNDQUIST
United Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (UP)—The great Chicago fire swept East today and if Jolly Cholly Grimm wants to save Boston from destruction, he had better greet the flaming Cubs at the train with power hoses turned on full force.

Grimm used to boss the Bruins himself, when they were considerably less inflammable, and if he and his Braves can't put out the fire, the Cubs may go right on and burn up Brooklyn, New York, and Philadelphia.

The Cubs' 1-1 Chicago yesterday with a home stand record of 13 wins and four losses and with eight victories in their last nine. They completed their chores with a 3 to 1 triumph over the Philadelphia Phillies, sweeping the series with the quaking Quakers.

Warren Hacker, who sounds like he ought to be a bad golfer, instead a fine pitcher limiting the Phils to five hits and missing a shutout only on a homer by Del Ennis.

The victory, which Hacker also drove in a run with a single and Toby Atwell produced the other with a double, was achieved over Philly ace Robin Roberts. The Phils now have dropped 10 out of their last 12 games.

By winning Chicago moved to within half a game of second place New York, rained out in Cincinnati, and to within four games of first place Brooklyn, beaten 15 to 10 by the St. Louis Cardinals. The Braves topped the Pittsburgh Pirates, 11 to 2, as Paul Burris drove in six runs with a homer, double, and two singles.

In the American League, the New York Yankees wound up a successful home stand with their sixth straight victory, 3 to 0 over last place Detroit on Tom Morgan's three-hit pitcher.

The Boston Red Sox stayed right behind in a virtual deadlock by defeating the St. Louis Browns, 7 to 5, while the Cleveland Indians put on a six-run rally in the third to outscore the Yankees 7 to 4.

The Chicago White Sox moved in with a 10 to 4 triumph against the fourth place ahead of Washington Philadelphia Athletics.

In a noisy hitting battle, the Cardinals made 18 hits to make 13 in a row over Brooklyn, which collected 17. The Dodgers used six equally ineffective pitchers, Clem Labine, being tagged with the defeat.

Willie Werle, last of three Cardinal pitchers, gained the victory. Gil Hodges hit his ninth and 10th homers for the Dodgers while Del Rice homered for St. Louis.

Hank Bauer, with his seventh homer and a double, drove in two of the ankie runs as Morgan was in command all the way against the tattered Tigers.

The Indians made it easy for Bob Feller to score his sixth victory with their big rally against Specs Shea, highlighted by Pete Reiser's three-run homer.

NCAA Television Plan Is Approved

CHICAGO — (AP) — By a landslide vote of 186 to 15, members of the National Collegiate Athletic Association have stamped their approval on the 1952 NCAA football television program.

The plan, announced June 3, calls for televising one major college game nationally each Saturday from Sept. 20 through Nov. 20. The program also includes telecasts on Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 27, and on Friday nights or Sundays.

The same college may not appear more than once on the TV network.

HIGH SCORING RECORD
WASHINGTON — (AP) — Dick Todd, head coach of the Washington Redskins in the NFL, scored 994 points throughout his professional, collegiate and high school grid career. He scored 214 points with the Redskins, 116 with Texas A & M and 664 with Crowell (Texas) High.

Coupes Win 10-1 Over Sedans

Johnny Tripp hurled three-hit ball last night to lead the Coupes to a 10-1 victory over the Sedans in the Pony League.

His teammates pushed across two runs in the third inning to clinch matters for the young hurler. R. V. Martin, leading off the inning, singled. Another single by Jim McGee kept the rally alive, and both runners scored on a two-bagger by Robert Carawan.

The Coupes came back with five more runs in the sixth. Gene Hamilton singled and Wade Jordan walked. Hamilton was cut down going into third base on a ground ball by Martin, but Steve Wilkerson singled. Jim McGee doubled to push across two runners, and Wilkerson hit a home run on a passed ball. Carawan walked and both he and McGee came home on an error by the first baseman.

Blue Devils Advance In NCAA Tourney With Win

By L. E. SHELLEY
OMAHA — (AP) — Unless there are a couple of surprises, that foxy old major leaguer Jack Combs is going to retire with the realization of his fondest dream — an NCAA baseball championship.

The former Philadelphia Athletics hurler is leaving Duke University this season at the age of 70. He wants the NCAA title as a climax to his 32 years of coaching. On strength of their performance in beating Oregon State 18-7 in the first round, the Blue Devils appear ready and able to satisfy their coach. This sixth renewal of the young tournament is a double elimination affair. That means a team would have to lose twice to drop from the running and the base 'l experts around here don't believe Duke is going to lose twice in this meet.

Eager to confound the railbirds were Missouri, Holy and Penn State in the winners' bracket and Texas, Western Michigan, Colorado State and Oregon State in the losers' bracket.

Oregon State stirred hopes for an upset yesterday by clouting Duke's ace Joe Lewis for six runs and a 6-4 victory in the second inning. But the potency of Duke's attack smashed State in the end.

Penn State has its chance tonight at 7 p.m. (EST). The Easterners beat off Texas' two-run ninth inning rally in the first round for a 5-3 victory over the Longhorns, twice the national champion, in the second feature spot tonight at 9:30 p.m. The Big Seven conference champions battered Colorado State 15-1 in their first appearance in which they showed a sharp pitcher, Don Boenker, who scattered seven hits.

U.S. Wrightman Cup Team Is Favored To Take Title

WIMBLEDON, Eng. (UP) — America's talented tennis queens were favored to win the Wrightman Cup from the British for the 16th straight time as the 24th renewal of the series opened today with two singles and one doubles match.

Doris Hart of Coral Gables, Fla., the 27-year-old Wimbledon and U.S. champion, meets Mrs. Jean Quertier Rinkel, Britain's leading feminine star, in the opening singles match on the No. 1 court.

Then, Maureen Connolly of San Diego, Calif., 17-year-old U. S. women's singles champion, plays Mrs. Jean Walker-Smith in the second match.

The opening day's play winds up with Miss Hart and Shirley Fry of Akron, O., meeting Mrs. Rinkel and Helen Fletcher in doubles.

Three more singles matches and one doubles contest conclude the seven-match competition tomorrow. In seeking the big silver trophy for the 20th time in 24 matches since the 1923 inaugural, the U. S. will be banking heavily on Miss Hart and Miss Connolly. Each has been assigned two singles and one doubles contest by Captain Midge Buck of Boston.

Miss Hart, who has competed in all six Wrightman Cup matches since World War II, is undefeated in seven singles contests and has played on six victorious doubles teams while losing only once.

Miss Connolly, a Wrightman cupper for the second year, became the youngest woman ever to win a match in an international series last year when she beat Britain's Kay Tuckey.

Bill Veeck To Protest As Marty Marion Is Suspended

BOSTON (UP)—Bill Veeck, St. Louis Browns owner, was en route to Chicago today to protest the "Gestapo tactics" of American League President Will Harridge in handing an indefinite suspension to Manager Marty Marion.

Charged with pushing umpire Bill McGowan in Wednesday night's game with the Boston Red Sox, Marion was yanked from the St. Louis lineup yesterday after receiving a telegram from Harridge just before game time.

Boiling mad, Veeck said he would protest not only Marion's suspension, but yesterday's game which the Browns lost, 7-5.

"The thing that burns me is that Harridge in his telegram stated that Marion was being indefinitely suspended pending receipt of the umpire's complete report," Veeck said.

"Why should I lose my manager and my shortstop before all the facts are known?" he asked. "It's nothing but Gestapo tactics."

The suspension came through just after Marion had inserted himself in the lineup for the first time since succeeding Rogers Hornsby Tuesday.

It resulted from McGowan's decision on a close play at third base which Marion, once fired by the St. Louis Cardinals for "lack of aggressiveness," protested vigorously.

"I made a routine protest and I didn't cuss," Marion said. "I've never used an off-color remark in my life. I simply said it was a bad call and McGowan ordered me out of the way."

"I refused to move and he walked into me," he said. "If that's bumping, well I did. The suspension is a bad deal and a disgrace."

McGowan expressed surprise at the suspension.

"I simply sent in a routine report and it is the first time in my 15 years of umpiring that I've known of a ball player being suspended for that type of a report," he said.

Veeck said he would protest yesterday's game to Commissioner Ford Frick.

The average temperature of the surface of the Earth is about 60 degrees Fahrenheit.

Kiwanians Take Win Over Lions

The Kiwanis garnered only one hit off Charlie Stator yesterday but they used errors and bases on balls to their best effect to take a 4-2 win over the Lions in the Little League.

Billy Cox was the only Kiwanian to reach Stator for a base knock, while four Lions collected safeties off Bobby Edwards.

The loss was only the second of the year for the Lions, who won the first half title by losing but one game in 10 starts.

COLUMBUS, O.—Harnes horses in this country now are being "fingerprinted" for identification purposes.

The U. S. Trotting Association has adopted a fool-proof system of identifying harness horses at 518 tracks under its jurisdiction.

The program of "fingerprinting" is very simple. The "chestnuts" or "night eyes" of every harness horse in the country are being photographed. The "chestnuts" are bony growths located on the inside of each leg and are as effective as fingerprints in providing positive identification. No two are ever alike.

The photographic records will be filed at the association's national headquarters here and duplicates will be made available to member tracks.

In addition to photographing the "chestnuts," USTA teams also will take front and side views of every horse and will note for the permanent record distinguishing characteristics such as scars, blemishes and imperfections of conformation.

The USTA adopted the "chestnut" method after lengthy study of a number of identification systems by other racing groups.

Yacht Basin Planned For Race Track Soon

HALLANDALE, Fla. (AP)—Gulfstream Park, with its proximity to the nearby Atlantic Ocean and inland waterway, may someday become the first race course to coast of a yacht basin on the grounds.

President James Dunn has delved into the matter of dredging a main channel that converges on the back stretch area. That would permit small boats and yachts to anchor near the track.

Buzzsaw Bob by Pap'

This could be the year for Buzzsaw Bob Rush to produce and fulfill the promise which encouraged the Cubs to believe that he would develop into one of the league's star hurlers. Off to a fast start, Rush is on his way to become the first 20-game winner the Cubs have boasted in a dozen years. His best season was 1950 when he won 13 and lost 20 for the last place Cubs.

Although he hasn't had a winning season since joining the Cubs in 1948, Bob has been their mound ace.

The Cubs have had high hopes for Rush ever since they signed him in 1944 fresh out of Riley High in South Bend, Ind., after he had pitched three no-hitters. Before the Cubs could farm him out, Bob went into the service. He saw action in major battles in Central Europe. When he returned from the wars he was assigned to Des Moines in 1947.

This season, Rush has the poise and confidence he needs. Coach Charlie Root, who pitched the Cubs into four World Series, has helped Rush develop a fine curve to go with his blazing fast ball. "Rush's fast one is a little different than most pitchers," said Root. "It doesn't break the same way every time. His fast ball alone has been just about enough, and now that he has developed a real curve he has the equipment to become a real star. At 26, he is just coming into his own."

Memorial Tournament Held In Honor Of Late George Payton

By ROBERT MOORE

AP Newsfeatures

VIRGINIA BEACH, Va.—Young golfers from all over the nation will pay tribute here June 23 and 24 to the memory of a fellow who once vowed he would become one of the greatest golfers—the late George Payton.

Hampton, Va., moved around this 6,065-yard course almost mechanically. That was in the annual Virginia State Open tournament. Payton wasn't bothered in the least by the presence of such stars as Sam Snead, Chandler Harper and Bobby Cruickshank.

A black, curly-haired performer of 23, Payton went out in the heat and literally drove and putted his heart out. After three rounds of the 72 hole tourney, somebody asked Payton if he believed he could whip Snead and Harper and the others.

Payton, casting searching eyes in the direction of the youngster shagging his drives far out on the practice fairway, replied after seconds of hesitation:

"Certainly I can't beat them unless I think I can. Yeah, I'm going to win it—this tournament."

"The lean, slightly hungry-looking youngster did win. He posted a 72-hole total of 266—10 strokes under regulation—to establish a new four-round course record. Payton's performance clipped eight strokes off the previous record for 72 holes here.

Payton, little more than six months later, died of injuries received in an automobile accident in Chicago's suburbs. He was riding with Ralph Guldahl and other friends on October 8, 1947. Their car pulled out to pass a truck. The driver lost control of the vehicle, and the car crashed into a viaduct abutment. Payton died 16 days later. His death removed one of the nation's most promising young players from the golf picture.

Payton was the idol of the teenage golfers around this oceanside area. So Sydney Banks, president of the Cavalier Hotel here, established the first Payton memorial in 1948. Virginia residents 24 years old—Payton's age when he died—were permitted to play.

It was a fine iron shot on the 35th hole that gave Gene Sapp a 3 and 1 victory over Joe Correll, his schoolmate at Reynolds High, in the tournament finals here yesterday.

Playing in a drizzling rain almost all the way, Sapp never trailed. He went to lunch leading one-up and was two holes ahead when they teed off on the 35th.

Both had nice drives—more than 200 yards on the 384-yard par 4 hole. Then Sapp unloaded his iron shot right onto the green, just to the right of the pin. He two-putted but Correll needed four to get on and that was the match.

Chapter 4

When the sting had gone out of the sun Melisande decided to explore the neighborhood. Paul, she remembered, would be working between noon and five o'clock. She dwelt a moment upon this unexpected self-discipline in a personality otherwise utterly devoid of any suggestion of plan, but soon dismissed it as merely a fresh complication to an already complex character. No—hardly a new complication, she finally resolved. Rather, the first glimpse of normality he'd yet given her. The man worked to set hours: it was the one thing about Paul that she might call a common denominator with the outside world.

Thus engrossed, she was well within the precincts of the playground before she was aware of having entered at all.

"Good afternoon."

She looked up and quickly appraised the smiling figure before her.

"You're Mr. Taylor," she said at once.

"Yes, I'm John Taylor," he said. "You're a stranger here, I expect."

"I arrived only yesterday. I am living at Number Thirteen."

"You know him, then?"

"Of course. Paul often visits us here. In fact, he started an art class amongst the children."

"How extraordinary!"

"He's an extremely interesting person, we find. The kids are just a little uncertain of him."

Melisande liked him. He wore a free and gracious manner with the same ease as he wore his shorts and open-necked shirt, and there was something about him slightly reminiscent of some old world soothsayer. This man, Melisande instinctively knew, would be as calm as an Autumn day, and as impartial as the wind.

"They're starting to arrive now," Taylor said.

They came with a yelling, ear-splitting accompaniment of noise, that rose to a fierce crescendo the moment they espied the supervisor walking toward his office.

"Would you like to meet some of the kids?" the supervisor asked.

"Perhaps it'd be better if they just kind of discovered me—"

"They'll infiltrate you, never fear. Excuse me, I'll have to issue some equipment."

Melisande watched them all arrive in groups of two or three and then she heaved herself aboard the apparently neglected vaulting horse and watched them at play.

"Would you mind this for me, please, Miss?"

Startled, Melisande swung sideways to behold the unbelievable ebony of the rounded, eager face that poked up from between her dangling feet.

"Why!" she exclaimed, "you're the boy in the picture!"

The lad stretched up and deposited the contents of his hot, sweaty fist in Melisande's hand.

"Why, it's a tooth!"

The other grinned, and exhibited an incisor to be in the basketball line-up that was preparing on the court.

"Come out in school, it did," he called back. "Don't you lose it, Miss."

Melisande contemplated the diminutive tooth with incredulous amazement. Then she began to laugh softly. Presently, the supervisor swung up beside her.

"The little boy gave me this tooth to mind," she explained, displaying the molar to his gaze.

"That's Snowball," the supervisor said. "He has a genius for doing the unexpected."

"Paul Gardner has done a portrait of him, I think."

"Yes."

"You're very fond of children, aren't you, Mr. Taylor?"

They watched for a moment a wild flurry of fists in the center of the playing court, and then Taylor said slowly:

"I owe so much to them. The funny part of it is you can't let a kid down you just can't do it. Grown-ups—yes—perhaps, if you're so inclined. But—these youngsters—they've got to have faith in something—faith and hope. They come here a little perplexed about things, a little disappointed in grown-ups, perhaps. They have to be convinced of the essential goodness of world society."

"You said you owe so much—"

"To these kids, yes. A whole lot. I've got to give them back their faith, one seems to get one's own faith back. That's by way of being a minor miracle. I like it!"

For the following five minutes they sat in silence, watching the fast ball game see-saw along the length of the court. Once, Taylor joined them to settle a technical point, but a moment later he swung back beside Melisande.

"Have you known Paul very long?"

Melisande inwardly smiled. She'd half expected something like this.

"No. I met him for the first time yesterday. I have rented his vacant apartment."

"Excuse me a moment. I must tell them to take a breather. They will just go on forever if you let them."

Melisande watched him halt the game. She wondered why he returned so abruptly to the subject of Paul Gardner. Subtly, she felt, had no place in his character, and so, upon his return, she hurriedly dismissed the suspicion.

"Perhaps I'd better be moving on," Melisande said, springing from the vaulting horse.

"We're always looking for volunteers," he said. "It all helps. Sewing, stitching, reading stories, community singing, visiting the parents, bandaging stubbed toes. I tell you, this is grand work."

Melisande laughed. "Here," she said. "Take Snowball's tooth. He'll be looking for it."

The wide, brown eyes caught her own in a grip of concentrated honesty.

"What about it, then? You will help out?"

"I'll see. It's not as easy as that."

"Very well. Thanks a lot for dropping in."

As she left the playground Melisande experienced a new sensation of rapture, but the feeling began rapidly to deteriorate as she drew away from the play area and rounded the curve that led to Number Thirteen. And, once there, all

AWAIT FIRST AID—Some of the 139 Communist POWs, wounded when they resisted UN efforts to move them from Compound 76 on Kojima Island to a new compound, lie on ground awaiting first aid in a hospital station set up near Compound 76. thought of John Taylor vanished from her mind as she beheld the gaunt, unsmiling figure of Paul standing on the footpath.

Tree 'Measles' Said Harmless

COLUMBUS, O. — (AP)—There is really no cause to worry if your silver maple tree looks like it is coming down with the measles, says T. H. Parks, extension entomologist at Ohio State University.

"Maple bladder galls" is the correct name for numerous little bumps appearing on silver maple leaves this spring, he says. The globular-shaped galls appear on the upper surface of the leaves and are green at first. Later they turn red and then almost black. They are caused by microscopic mites.

The damage is so small that most authorities question the value of control measures, Parks says.

Walking Record By Horse-Trader

TERNI, Italy — (AP)—Luigi China figures during 50 years as a horse-trader he walked the equivalent of 14 times around the world.

The 72-year-old horse dealer always walked with the horses he bought and sold in Northern and Central Italy for a half century. He has covered more than 7,456 miles each year on foot.

Walking is his hobby? Taking long walks.

War Explosives Killing Children

ROME — (AP)—The Italian Society for the Prevention of Accidents estimates some 1,400 children aged 5 to 12 are killed each year by aerial bombs, hand grenades, artillery and mortar shells, or mines left over from the last war. Another 7,000 annually are injured.

The more than 58,000 post-war casualties among children since the Italian campaign ended in May, 1945, surpasses the total U. S. casualties in four wars—Revolutionary War (12,172); War of 1812 (6,765); Mexican War (16,399) and Spanish-American War (9,530).

Baby Raccoons Found A Home

OMAHA — (AP)—"They are so playful," explained Mrs. Alvin G. Konvalin, referring to the seven baby raccoons for whom she is now playing "housemother."

Her husband got them from a farmer who had been given the young animals as a joke. She feeds them from a baby's bottle which the raccoon takes lying on his back with all four grasping the bottle. Her 2½-year-old son takes them for rides on his tricycle.

BROTHERS THINK ALIKE—MEMPHIS, Tenn. — (UP)—Mr. and Mrs. James Stanley's two sons live thousands of miles from each other. Both became fathers. Both babies weighed 7 pounds, 3 ounces and both were named Dennis. Neither brother knew the other expected a child and there's nobody named Dennis among their relatives.

CONVICTS GIVE BLOOD—GREEN BAY, Wis. — (UP)—Inmates of the state reformatory got a chance to help those "outside," and did. Out of a possible 435 eligible blood donors, 425 volunteered. Delighted Red Cross personnel could handle only 200 men with the equipment on hand but promised to be back again.

The Obligation to be Truthful

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Exodus 20:16; Mark 7:14-23; John 18:15-27.

To the multitude Jesus said: "There is nothing from without a man, but entering into him can defile him: but the things which come out of him, these are they that defile the man."

Later to His disciples Jesus explained His saying: "For from within, out of the heart of man, proceed evil thoughts—adulteries, murders, thefts. All these evil things come from within."

When Jesus was taken captive, Peter followed Him and stood at the door as Christ was led in. A woman asked Peter if he was not one of Jesus' followers, but he denied it.

The high priest asked Jesus of His doctrine. Jesus said: "Why askest thou Me? Ask them that heard Me," wherewith an officer standing near struck Him. MEMORY VERSE—Exodus 20:16.

The Golden Text

Peter's denial of Christ.

"Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbor."—Exodus 20:16

The Obligation to Be Truthful

CHRIST TAUGHT THAT EVIL THOUGHTS LEAD TO SIN

Scripture—Exodus 20:16; Mark 7:14-23; John 18:15-27.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL.
THE MANY perjury trials listed in our newspapers make us feel that there are a great many untruthful people in our midst—some in high places. Perjury means, according to the dictionary, "false swearing or voluntary violation of the oath."
The Mosaic law read, "Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbor." To bear false witness against a neighbor, a friend, a relative or even a stranger, is a heinous sin.
A story or bit of gossip about another, no matter how false it may be, follows that person about—sometimes all of his or her life. Someone is going to believe it. Such stories have the power to hurt and crush the hearts of men.

What makes people indulge in cruel and malicious gossip—in "character assassination," as we call it today? It may be jealousy of the person of whom the stories are told. It may be fear of one's own reputation and a desire to turn criticism aside and direct it to others. Whatever the motive, it is dastardly.

After Jesus had called the multitude together in Capernaum, He said: "Hearken unto Me every one of you, and understand."

"There is nothing from without a man, that entering into him can defile him, but the things which come out of him, those are they that defile man."

He added, "If any man have ears to hear, let him hear."

After He and His disciples had entered the house, His disciples asked Him for an explanation of His words.

"And He saith unto them, Are ye so without understanding also? Do ye not perceive, that whatsoever thing from without entereth into the man, it cannot defile him; because it entereth not into his heart, but that which cometh out of the man, that defileth the man."

"For from within, out of the hearts of men, proceed evil thoughts, adulteries, murders, thefts, covetousness, wickedness, deceit, blasphemy, pride, foolishness."

"All these evil things come from within, and defile the man."

From the hearts of men and women come the evil thoughts that lead one to slander others, or to lie about them. It is a despicable thing for which there is no defense.

If such thoughts and desires arise in our hearts, let us smother them—bury them—and think of ways in which we can do that.

person good, rather than evil. Let us include this sin in the temptations from which we pray to our Father in heaven to be delivered.

The tragic story of Peter's denial of Christ, as related by John, climaxes our lesson.

Peter had told his Lord that he would never desert Him, had boasted that he would go to his death rather than to deny his Lord. Jesus, knowing Peter better than he knew himself, had said, that before the cock should crow, he would deny Him thrice.

Jesus was brought, chained before the high priest, Annas. John, who "was known unto the high priest," went into the high chief's palace with Jesus, but Peter remained at the door. The damsel that tended the door said to him, "Art thou not also one of this man's disciples? He saith, I am not."

It was cold, and the servants and officers who stood about were cold and they built a fire to warm themselves. Peter went to the fire to warm himself, hoping, possibly, that he might be taken for one of them.

After Jesus was taken bound to Calaphas, the acting high priest and son of Annas, Peter was asked again, if he was not one of Jesus' disciples, and again he denied it. Then one of the high priest's servants who was kin to the man whose ear Peter had cut off when the Lord was arrested, said to him, "Did I not see thee in the garden with Him?" And Peter denied again, and then the cock crowed, and Peter remembered Christ's words after his boast.

Standing before the high priest, Jesus was asked by him, of His disciples and His doctrine. To this Jesus told how He had preached in the synagogues and in the temple, never in secret, and said, "Why askest thou Me? ask them which heard Me, what I have said unto them; behold, they know what I said."

At this one of the officers that stood by struck the Master with the palm of his hand, saying, "Answerest thou the high priest so?"

Jesus answer was, "If I have spoken evil, bear witness of the evil: but if well, why smitest thou Me?"

Peter redeemed himself after Jesus' death and resurrection by preaching His doctrines fearlessly at risk of his life. It was fear that drove him to deny his Friend and Master. Let us pray fervently that we may be given strength to tell the truth no matter what the circumstances.

Deluxe Features For Policemen In Speedster-Hunt

BUFFALO - (AP) - Two policemen have added some deluxe features to their drive to crack down on speedsters and at their own expense too. First they added a white spotlight to their 1950 police car. It throws a stabbing beam 50 feet and helps pick up license numbers on speedsters. Next came a red spotlight. "That's a honey," said Patrolman Jack Williamson. "We used to flash our small hand flashlight but hal, the time speedsters ignored us. Now we throw the strong red light through the speeders back window."

Sunken Drydock To Float Again

SINGAPORE - (AP) - The world's largest floating dock, lying at the bottom of the Johore Straits with a 14,000-ton Japanese cruiser in her basin, is to be refloated and towed to Britain for breaking up. The 24,750-ton Singapore floating dock, capable of holding a 50,000-ton ship, was scuttled by the British to prevent it falling into Japanese hands before the fall of Singapore.

Displays Exhibit On Jailbreaking

PITTSBURGH - (AP) - To the ingenious prisoner there are many ways of getting out of jail. Olin G. Blackwell, official of the Federal Bureau of Prisons displayed a few of the gadgets used at a recent forum sponsored by the National Jail Association. A jailer's key fashioned by memory from an old toothbrush handle. An "electric bar cutter" ably assisted by a prison current. A "harmless pencil" with a vicious scalpel made tied to one end. A bar saw made by chipping teeth in an ordinary table knife.

Stocks And Market Reports

NEW YORK (UP)—Selected issues ran up 1 to 2 points on the stock market today to feature a tiny gain in the average.

Trading fell off sharply. At noon sales totaled only 500,000 shares, contrasted with 620,000 shares in the same period yesterday.

The market felt the impact of the week-end with its usual evening up operations. Traders continued very cautious pending settlements of the steel wage dispute.

Strong spots included St. Regis Paper, Amerasia, Anderson Clayton, Texas Pacific Land Trust, and Missouri-Kansas-Texas Preferred. These rose 1 to more than 2 points.

Steels and motors ruled steady to firm. Rails, utilities and industrials gained a few cents each in their averages. The rail average was a cent below its 21-year high.

American Telephone continued active and eased a trifle. Pennsylvania Railroad, also heavily traded compared with the main list, showed a small net gain. Several of the low-price shares had sizeable turnover.

Conference Held Here On Audio-Visual Aid Work

One of a series of workshops and demonstrations in special themes during the 1952 Summer School at East Carolina College was the conference on synchronizing audio-visual aids in laboratory experiments in science, held Thursday morning.

Dr. Charles W. Reynolds, director of the Department of Science of the college in charge.

Three speakers were featured on the program, the conference being opened by Dr. Reynolds who illustrated his lecture with a demonstration through the use of film strips of the elementary principles of contact printing. This lecture was followed by the making of prints and an illustration of projection printing and advanced projection control.

Dr. Edward J. Carter, director of Field Services of East Carolina College, through the use of an opaque projector, illustrated his lecture with insects, pictures and pieces of wood to point up the value of this method of laboratory experimentation.

Dr. Christine Wilton, member of the Science Department faculty, co-located the conference program by using stems of plants from tiny specimens to advanced stages of their formations. A trip to the college greenhouse was led by Dr. Wilton where she further experimented with the plant life used to illustrate her lecture.

An exhibit of photography, pictures made during the spring term photography class, included black-and-white, sepia tones and blue prints in the photos was presented by Dr. Reynolds during the conference.

Driver Arrested In Road Accident

AYDEN—Two persons were injured near here last night when a car driven by a Goldsboro man left a curve, striking a car which was trying to enter the highway.

A charge of driving drunk was lodged against Herbert F. Mann, 40, of 217 North Williams street, Goldsboro, as a result of the accident.

Patrolmen Delton E. Perry and William Whitehurst, investigating officers, stated that the Mann car went out of control when the driver apparently failed to make a curve about two miles south of Ayden on the Ayden-Grifton highway.

The Mann car struck a car operated by Thomas J. Parker, 48, of Box 234, Ayden. The Parker car was in a private drive awaiting a chance to move onto the highway at the time it was struck, the officers stated.

Injured were Parker and his wife, Stella. Parker suffered cuts about the face and a leg injury. Mrs. Parker was admitted to Pitt Memorial Hospital for observation. Her injuries were not believed to be serious.

Parker's 16-months old baby, which was partly thrown from the car when it was rammed was examined and released.

The Mann car was described as being a total loss while heavy damage resulted to the Parker car. Mann was not injured.

The accident occurred around 10 o'clock.

Child Run Over By Parked Auto

A two and one-half year old boy was painfully, but not seriously, injured by a parked car which rolled over him while he was playing.

Stephen Juris Shackelford, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Shackelford, of 309 Mumford street, narrowly escaped serious injury when a car owned by F. W. Oaks, of West Fourth street, rolled over him.

According to the boy's father, the youngster was playing in the front yard. Jimmie Speight, nine-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Speight, saw the car rolling toward the boy and tried to hold it with his body but could not halt it.

After the car rolled over the left leg of the child, the Speight youth pulled him from under the path of the car's rear wheels, keeping him from being run over a second time.

The youth was taken to Smith's Clinic for treatment but was found not to be seriously injured. Greenville police investigated the accident.
