Women In The Church

By MARY FOWLER
Despite the ministerial shortage reported by the majority of Protestant denominations in the U. S. A., the churches are not utilizing half the women either ordained or licensed to preach, according to a report of the National Council of Churches. According to the council's Information Service of the denominations surveyed, the total number of women qualified to preach was 5,791, although only 2,896 are at present employed as pastors. Of the larger denominations, the Methodist Church has the greatest number of women pastors (320), although these women are not permitted to become conference members. The report observes: "It is striking to note that a very proportion of women are licensed, not ordained—2,838 out of 5,791."

Miss Wooten Honored
Miss Martha Hart entertained on Thursday morning at an informal hour to honor her guest, Miss Frances Wooten of Stantonsburg, who is spending several days here in the Hart home.

Bingo with cards and other games were enjoyed during the morning after which the hostess assisted by her mother, Mrs. Edward Hart, served lemonade and cookies; those enjoying the affair were Miss Wooten, Misses Judy and Carlyn Hart, Sallie Mewborn, Emily Nelson, Wilma Patrick, Esther Hill Coward and Joyce Wooten.

Hostess to Contract Club
Mrs. Eleanor Gower was a gracious hostess on Thursday night at her home here when she entertained members of her contract club and invited players for supper and bridge. In the living room pink gladioli and gardenias formed the decorations; in the dining room, daisies, roses and snapdragons in mixed bouquets made a pretty setting.

As guests arrived they were served a delectable chicken supper and bridge was played at five tables following the repast.

High scores for club members went to Mrs. Alton Chapman and Mrs. W. L. Bissette, while the visitors' prize went to Mrs. S. E. Coffman. Other guests were Mrs. William Cross, Mrs. J. W. What is the news on the woff front?
Is a man more or less of a woff in '52?
The consensus of a representative group of young ladies is that they are not—as a matter of fact things couldn't be duller. Says one young filly:
"There was a time you resented being whistled at by rude gentlemen, scorned young men who made advances from automobiles and absolutely demolished with icy stares a strange lad who tried to strike up a conversation on the beach. Anything would be better than what we have now: No interest at all."
Most girls are quick to admit they aren't in favor of the guys with pick-up traits. There are proper ways to be introduced—even to those fellows. But they don't like being treated like stone pillars. As one girl puts it: "I was the belle of my school up until about six months ago. I have pretty clothes and a good allowance. Suddenly, my popularity waned. Boys who'd been eager to date me before dropped me like a hot apple."
Girls attribute this attitude to the higher cost of living, and some of them even discuss writing Washington about it. Says a pretty 18-year-old red-head:
"Let's figure out what it costs a boy to take you out on a simple date these days and mind you if he's a school boy one can't say 'Well prices are up but so are wages.' He must get money from his family or earn it in an after-school job, which doesn't pay very much to begin with."
"In the City an average movie (even a B picture) is at least $1.00, an ice-cream sundae about 50 cents, an inexpensive dinner starts at $1.50 and a little bouquet of flowers a couple of dollars. What's a poor girl got to look forward to? She can't be romanced the way her mother was."
To make matters worse, this year's young men are proud, say the girls. Not like the boys who took advantage of wartime conditions to loiter around a girl's house, lap up her ice-box and play her record-player. They don't want anything for free—unless they can reciprocate—but on the other hand, they aren't parting with the few pennies they can latch onto.
Some girls have even come to the conclusion that men are getting other members - at - large will be appointed during this week by members of the Legislature. Elected members are Sue Hicks, Charlotte; Marilyn Walkins, Middleburg; Richard Nelson, Kernersville; and Milton Foley, Greenville.

Another Tar Heel GOP Delegate Is Supporting Ike

LEXINGTON, N. C.—(AP)—A North Carolina delegate, Matthew P. Cooper, Davidson County clerk of Superior Court, today announced he will support Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower at the Chicago Republican Convention next month.

Cooper's announcement brings to 10 the number of Tar Heel GOP delegates who have pledged their vote to Eisenhower in his race with Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio for the Republican Presidential nomination.

Taft has 15 pledges and three delegates still remain uncommitted among the 26 vote delegation.

Southern Pines Student Will Be President Of SGA

Alton Blue of Southern Pines, senior at East Carolina College, will serve as president of the Student Government Association of the college during the present summer session.

Blue and other major SGA officers were chosen in elections conducted over a three-day period ending Friday. Results have just been announced by Arthur Johnson of Greensboro and James D. Mellon of Winterville, who were in charge of the student elections.

Following balloting last Tuesday, two run-off elections were held to choose a president and a secretary for the summer term. Blue won over three opponents, John T. Cox of Mt. Olive, Johnny Helms of Monroe, and Robert Maness of Greensboro.

Pauline Blalock, junior from Timberlake, is the new secretary of the SGA. In the run-off election Friday she won by a small majority over Mark H. Moore, senior from Bath.

Homer Thomas of Whiteville was unopposed in the elections and will serve as treasurer of the SGA this summer.

Four members-at-large were chosen by students to represent them on the Student Legislature. Two more selfish, otherwise why would they prefer a baseball game to taking an attractive girl to an ice-cream parlor. Says one sit-by-the-fire:

"I've even watched my brother go off with the boys for an inexpensive evening by themselves. They don't even feel sorry for me sitting home alone."
Boys are going back to old-fashioned entertainments such as tennis, handball, cards or ping pong. They'd much rather do that, according to most, than go dancing—boring to say the least in their estimation.
Meanwhile, how are the girls awaiting that handsome knight. Most of them are staying home learning how to cook, sew and keep house. Most girls, today, can bake a pie in a jiffy, turn out a terrific batch of biscuits and whip up a wonderful casserole. But is there a man around to appreciate their abilities? No siree! Funeral Tuesday For Mrs. Joe W. Moore

Mrs. Rosa Wooten Moore, 60, widow of Joe W. Moore, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Everett Cobb, near Falkland, at 2:30 o'clock homebody put it:
"In the old days even if a boy didn't take you out on a date, you could count on him eating your home-cooked food. Now they think you're planning a big trap for them if you invite them to dinner. Most of them are so hep to economics, they've discovered two can't live as cheaply as one. What we girls need is a new approach to men."
What is the new approach to the 38 man? Girls who know how to charm the modern man can pass on that info to their less informed sisters. They'll love you for it.

Sunday afternoon. She had been in failing health for six months and suffered a severe attack Saturday night.
Funeral services will be conducted at the home of Mrs. Cobb at 8 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. The Rev. L. B. Manning, Free Will Baptist minister of Fountain, will officiate, and burial will be in the Falkland cemetery.
Mrs. Moore, daughter of the late Amos and Mary Edwards Wooten was born and reared in Edgecombe County. She was married in 1914 and spent all her married life in Pitt County in the Falkland community. Mr. Moore died in 1936.
Surviving are three sons: William, David and Calvin Moore; and a daughter, Mrs. Everett Cobb, all of the Falkland community; 14 grandchildren; two brothers: Stephen Wooten of Greenville, and Ernest Wooten of Falkland, and a sister, Mrs. Ephraim Moore of Falkland.

DON'T GET DISCOURAGED

Ask a Scotchman to tell you about John Knox and what he meant to his native land, and the eyes of the Scot will dance with excitement as he tells you about this great national hero.

What are we to say about the ways of the world? About its failure to appreciate goodness? About its ingratitude and its moral obtuseness? Well, it makes no difference what we say, for our words will be vain and wasted.

We are disgusted with mankind, are we not? Yet God has never been disgusted with the race throughout its history.

This Should Be The Death Blow

Columbus County's fight against the Ku Klux Klan has turned into a major mopping up operation which should virtually crush the Klan in North Carolina and even have far-reaching effects on the organization in South Carolina.

So far the Columbus County grand jury has returned 38 indictments in the kidnaping and flogging cases, including the indictment of Imperial Wizard Thomas L. Hamilton of Leesville, S. C.

Solicitor Clifton Moore who has been pushing the Klan crackdown says there are some 50 more arrests which are expected to be made before the special two-week term of court begins to try the cases of those under indictment.

The way North Carolina has jumped on the Ku Klux Klan with both feet during the past five months is strong testimony to the fact that the State does not want terrorism to gain a substantial foothold here.

The heavy sentences of the first few Klan members brought to trial in connection with the floggings in Columbus County went a long way to break the back of the recently revived movement in North Carolina.

Neither Can a Community Live By Bread Alone

The life of any community for sure is dependent upon its economic advancement; but fundamentally there is nothing more important to the life of a community than its spiritual advancement.

It is significant therefore to take special note of the establishment of two new churches in Greenville yesterday. They in themselves are evidence of the growing interest in spirituality Greenville has experienced in the past several years.

Indeed it is unusual that in a city the size of Greenville two new churches are established on the same day. Those who have worked for the establishment of the two new religious institutions have every right to be proud of their accomplishment, and the other citizens of the city should rejoice with them at the inception of the new churches.

For more than two years the First Presbyterian Church of Greenville has been sponsoring a Sunday School and a chapel in the western section of the city at the curb market building.

into a new church... the West Greenville Presbyterian Church.

Yesterday also St. James Methodist Church of Greenville had its first official services, and although the formal organizational meeting will not be held until September, it will hold weekly services until then.

The unity of purpose and the close cooperation of the churches of various denominations in Greenville, particularly during the past half decade, has done much to strengthen the spiritual fibre of the community.

In any community, no institutions are more important than its churches; and no events more significant than the establishment of new churches.

A Special Treat Many Overlook

North Carolina's variety Vacationland holds a lot of treats in store for the natives and the visitors every summer, but some of the best, we are afraid, are pushed into the background behind swimming, fishing, boating and others.

We have reference to the growing popular historical pageants offered in the State during the summer months. These pageants have been viewed by thousands of Tar Heels, and thousands of visitors who come to North Carolina to see them.

These dramas offer not only entertainment, but a store of historical information about Carolina. The best known, of course, is Paul Green's "Lost Colony" at Roanoke Island which is the story of the first white settlers in America.

Any one of these historical dramas could add a great deal to a summer vacation, and the people who have the opportunity to see them, certainly would make a mistake to pass it up.

National Whirligig

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON—While warning against such everyday and pocketbook manifestations of inflation as high living costs, especially food prices, the Treasury's Truman-dictated handling of recent bond issues and management of the public debt can create the inflationary atmosphere Truman condemns and will blame on Congress in planned "whistle stop" stumping.

As every street-corner economist knows now, the basic and monolithic force underlying peak prices and taxes is Washington's seemingly insatiable need for money, money, money.

Since the government can "create" money any time it pleases, it is responsible for the national economy on two counts. How this monetary authority is used—misused—determines the effectiveness of ineffectiveness of price, wage, rent and material controls.

PUZZLE—The Administration's calculated refusal to try to mop up many billions of idle and explosive bank and institutional cash, which can start a skyrocketing price movement at any time, is a puzzle to all financial experts.

Their advice on financing current and forthcoming deficits, including Federal Reserve advisory groups, has been neglected by Truman.

He prefers to listen to radical members of Secretary Snyder's Keynes-minded technical staff, and to such apostles of free spending and financing as Leon H. Keyserling, chairman of the White House economic council.

Keyserling, who never managed a business or met a payroll, sees no threat to the nation's financial stability in heavy government expenditures and a large, unwieldy public debt.

TROUBLES—The current handling of this problem, according to worried bankers, can have only three effects, largely political. It will stimulate business activity on the basis of easy credit through the election and the balance of Truman's term.

It will leave such difficult questions as inflation and a possible increase of the public debt limit to the next president. It will make him the heir to all the evils flowing from high-wide-and-handsome spending of the last twenty years.

In short, Truman is handing to his successor the same sort of unhappy legacy that Calvin Coolidge bequeathed to Herbert Hoover, and for similar personal and political motives. Truman wants no money troubles of serious proportions on his time.

LIQUID—Although the public debt has hit the dizzy peak of $23 billion—$7.5 billion is the present statutory limit—it is the composition as well as the amount of this national mortgage which converts it into an inflationary atom bomb.

Never before has this mountain of debt been in such a liquid and spendable form as it is today. It can create a devastating economic landslide at the slightest touch. Here is why:

Eighty per cent of this huge sum consists of securities which can be cashed by the holders at any time. That sum provides a checking rather than a savings account. There is always a temptation to spend it.

By contrast, in 1937 only 55 per cent of the public debt was in liquid and immediately redeemable form, the balance five and ten years away from maturity.

FLOP—The Treasury tried to improve this situation a few weeks ago, but the effort was feeble. Incidentally, bankers credit Secretary Snyder with a desire to manage government finances conservatively, but say that he is usually overruled by the Truman-Keyserling combination.

RUN-OFF

Estimates on the next Saturday's state-wide second primary range from a quarter million to a half million, with majority of the forecasts fixing a maximum below 400,000. The prophets do not have much help in past history. This is the first time since the primary system was inaugurated 36 years ago that there has been a run-off at state level which involved only a secondary office.

HISTORIC

The biggest primary vote ever cast in the state was the 617,479 in the first senatorial primary of 1957. The run-off between Frank Graham and Willis Smith that year brought out 542,943, a drop of 12.25 per cent. The record vote prior to that time was the 516,864 in the first primary for Governor in 1936. The run-off between Ralph McDonald and Clyde Hoey brought out 480,768, a drop of 7 per cent.

WHY SUCH DIFFERENCES

The Free Press has protested the unreasonable increase in telephone rentals for Kinston business people. A committee appointed by the Chamber of Commerce Directors is gathering some data which will be presented to the Utilities Commission in an effort to have the latest order of that state authority altered.

OBLIGATION

Those people who are more concerned about good government and the maintenance of democratic principles than about the success or failure of any particular candidate, point out that the obligation to vote in the second primary is just as binding as to vote in the first. Since the Governor has been nominated by majority vote, and the lieutenant governor has been nominated by decision of the second man not to call a run-off, and majority of the legislative and local offices have been decided, popular interest is not keen in the run-off.

There are ham actors on stage and TV shows; ham operators on radio; prambulating evangelists named Ham.

Unless further qualified the word "ham" is generally taken to mean the hind leg of a hog, of which there are numerous varieties. The quality of these various kinds of hams is influenced by multiple factors—the breed of the hog, the method of feeding, the time of the moon in which the hog was slaughtered, and the process of curing the meat.

NEW YORK (AP)

You have heard all the stories about Pat and Mike. Well, this one's about Pat and Ike. They look alike. Ike's strong facial resemblance to Gen. "Ike" Eisenhower has been one long comedy of errors to Reiman "Pat" Morin, Pulitzer prize-winning reporter for The Associated Press.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

WHY SUCH DIFFERENCES

It will be interesting to our readers we feel sure to know that in Goldsboro, served by the Southern Bell Telephone Company an increase was granted on May 5 which we believe was the third increase in the same period that four had been granted to CTA TCO, but only a 10 per cent uptick in the rate for one party business phones.

THE UTILITIES COMMISSION

announced when it granted the increase and the editor of The Free Press has confirmation from the chairman of the commission that the apparently exorbitant increase in business telephones, with a nominal increase of 25 cents only being allowed for residence phones, was on the basis that business men can deduct as legitimate expenses their phone bills and thus save taxes.

IT WILL BE INTERESTING to our readers we feel sure to know that in Goldsboro, served by the Southern Bell Telephone Company an increase was granted on May 5 which we believe was the third increase in the same period that four had been granted to CTA TCO, but only a 10 per cent uptick in the rate for one party business phones.

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER

Business men have been chortling over the high postwar birth rate—the first over 3,000,000 crop in history turns six this year, school clothes, more toys and more lots of other things. Next year the number of six-year-olds will be almost half a million more.

The number of births had been rising in the 1920s and had passed two million, reaching 2,203,988 in 1930. But the depression set in and births dropped to 2,074,042 in 1932 and it was not until 1937 that they returned to the 1930 total.

The pattern shows how the birth rate follows economic conditions; presumably births would have dipped even deeper if it had not been for made work; presumably thousands living today would not have been born if it had not been for the WPA!

The birth rate per thousand population is even more dramatic. It was a lousy 23 in 1915 and 23.7 in 1920. It had dropped to 18.4 in 1933. It stayed close to that figure until the late 1930's. It reached 19.4 in 1940, remained in the low 20's for a few years and shot up to 27 in 1947.

These figures indicate that fewer bright young men and women will be entering the labor force in the next few years. Their number is being reduced further by the draft and the tendency to remain in school longer. The manpower total is also being shrunk by pension plans that encourage earlier retirement.

Researchers for Minneapolis-Honeywell have made a study of the population trend and have concluded that by 1953 the country will need a million more workers than the normal increase will supply.

In another study, Factory magazine calculates that by 1960, each worker will have to produce 43 per cent more goods because of the lower ratio of workers to total population.

SPORTS SHIRT SIZE

By 1953, sports shirts sizes may become "standardized" and what is a "medium" in one line will not be a "large" in another.

A committee of retailers has been working with the National Association of Shirt, Pajama and Sportwear Manufacturers to set up standard sizes. Tentatively, it has recommended that shirts with 14 to 14 1/2 neck sizes be labeled "S," 15 to 15 1/2 "M," 16 to 16 1/2 "L" and 17 1/2 "XL." This has been referred to the Department of Commerce for study and recommendations.

CORONATION AND TRADE DON'T MIX

Those timing business trips to England to coincide with the coronation ceremonies next year may be doomed to disappointment.

After invited dignitaries are taken care of, there will be little or no first class hotel accommodation available. Not much second-class, either.

APRIL RETAIL SALES

Total retail sales in April were 7 per cent above a year ago, bringing the first four months of the year up to minus 1 per cent, the Department of Commerce reports. Largest gains were reported by florists, up 49 per cent (because of Easter) and by women's ready-to-wear and specialty stores, each up 28 per cent.

Worse among those that didn't were heating and plumbing equipment dealers, down 18 per cent; and floor covering stores, down 15 per cent and auto accessory and tire dealers, down 14 per cent.

Hal Boyle's Column

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON—The welcome mat is always out before the door of the little white bungalow in Whiting, Ind., where Mrs. Oscar A. Ahlgren and her lawyer husband entertain no fewer than 800 guests each Christmas season.

This experience in friendliness and hospitality is standing the energetic Hoosier housewife in good stead in Washington, where she has just assumed the presidency of the General Federation of Women's Clubs—the largest group of organized "womanhood" in the world.

However, Mrs. Ahlgren is no fledgling in the club world, where she now represents 11 million women in 38 countries, territories and possessions. She has worked up through local, county, district and state offices and has served on some 30 committees, foundations and councils. She has made speeches in all states of the Union and Alaska, in Mexico, in 11 European and nine South American countries.

Calmly efficient and orderly, she has already outlined an administration which she says will be a "rousing crusade for Americanism." It will start off with an intensive campaign to get out the vote in November. In January Mrs. Ahlgren will lead a group of clubwomen on a two-month "round-the-world tour" in June, 1953, on a trip to the Scandinavian countries. Of Swedish heritage, she speaks the language well and is anxious to see what clubwomen in the land of her forebears are doing.

Prepared as she is to take on all responsibilities required in her job, Mrs. Ahlgren admits some of the requests flowing into her headquarters since she arrived have taken her aback. "I am getting all kinds of propositions—from plugging songs to selling replicas of the Statue of Liberty," she laughingly told me. "A small-town bachelor posed a clincher when he suggested that since I represented 11 million women I ought to be able to find him a wife."

Mrs. Ahlgren has written a column for the Hammond (Ind.) Times since 1935 and is the federation's first newspaperwoman president. She says she doesn't make a production out of the parties she gives... some 25 between Thanksgiving and New Year's. There's really nothing to it but running the vacuum cleaner between parties," she said.

Her husband she describes as her "greatest booster." He will commute from Whiting for weekends when his wife can't get home. They have a daughter, Mrs. Charles Blomster of San Antonio, Texas.

Responsibility Can Be Taught To Junior

By DAVID TALOR MARKE
AP Newsfeatures Writer

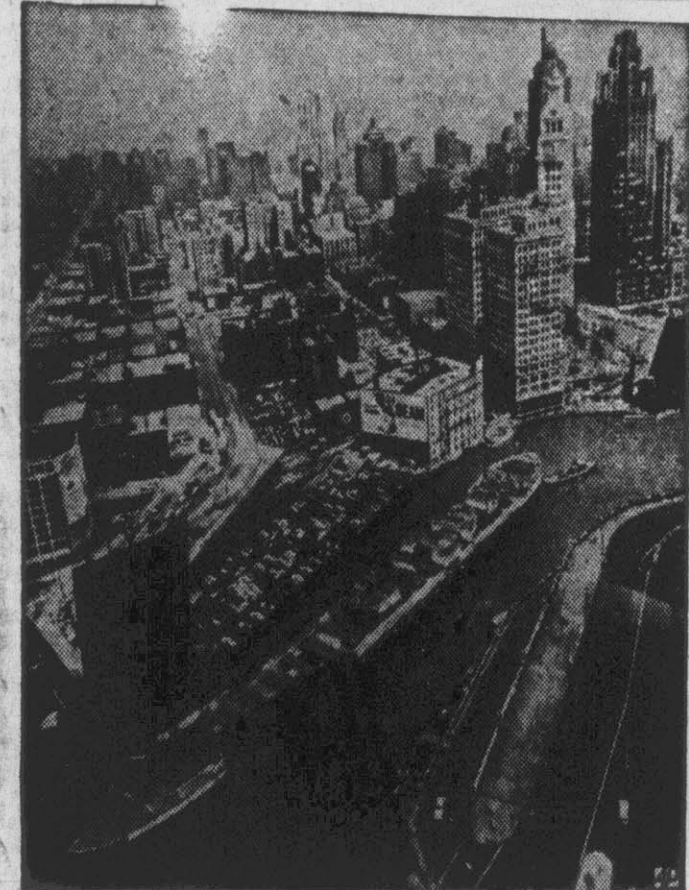

By the time a youngster arrives at school age, the problem of finding how much he can take in the way of responsibility is easier. But it is none too easy even then.

Joseph K. Folsom and Jean R. Folsom, whose special experience as sociologists, writers and experts on parent and family education well equips them for the task, give us some highly pertinent and practical ideas.

ways. We think of it from an ethical standpoint, as a quality that helps build good moral character. And also, more practically, as a very necessary ability to answer—to oneself and others—for one's conduct and obligations. The very zeal with which we try to instill responsibility in our boys and girls shows that most of us place a heavy emphasis on its moral value. Yet might we not get better results if we emphasized the practical side instead—that is, the need to account for oneself?"

What do we mean when we talk about responsibility, and especially about teaching it to children? They say:

This does not for an instant contradict the important aim of developing character, according to the Folsoms, who say:

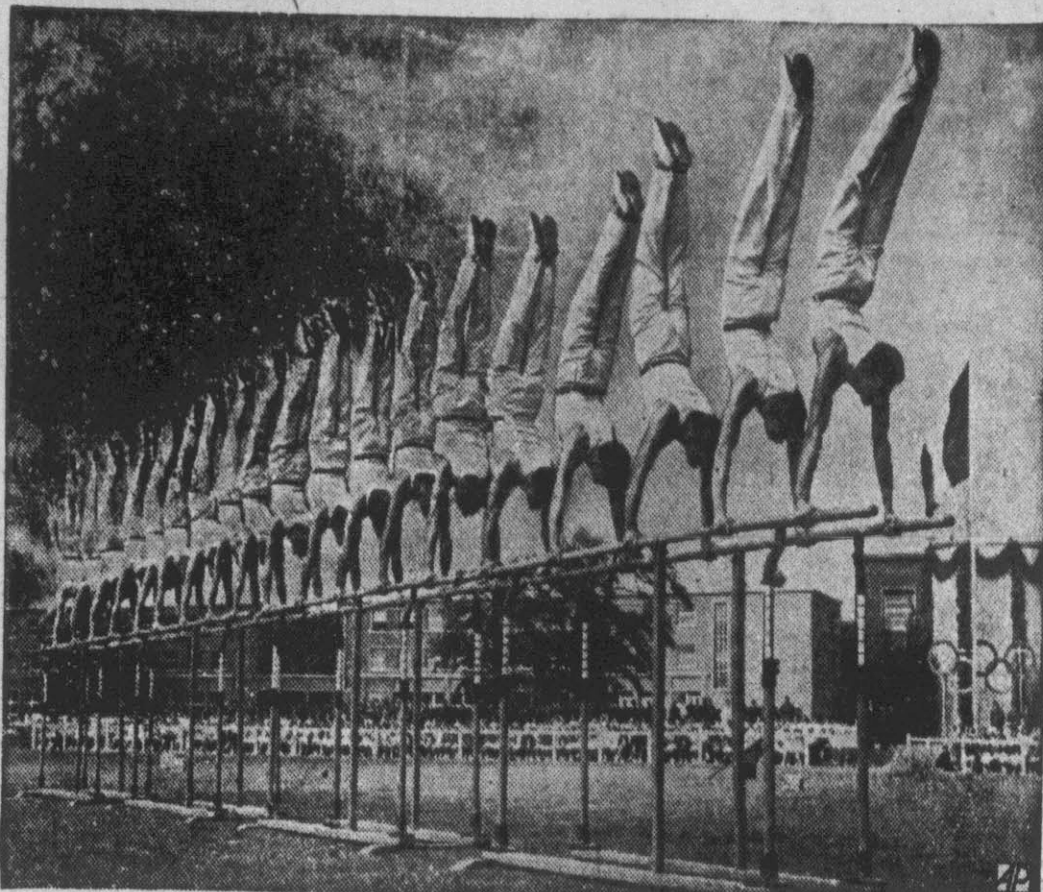

A TIGHT FIT—The SS Johnstown, 629-foot ore carrier, largest vessel to navigate Illinois waterway system, approaches Chicago's Michigan Avenue Bridge enroute to Great Lakes.

"Rather we should remember that the kind of character we want comes about as a result of practical experiences. For responsibility is not the same thing as good behavior or obedience or cooperation. It is not any one particular thing that a child does or refrains from doing. When we say responsibility we are referring not to the process of behavior but to the end product."

A child gradually finds out that if he accepts and fulfills certain responsibilities, life is much more pleasant and that if he ignores them, the natural consequences are likely to make life much more unpleasant. This special kind of learning begins way before school age. Little Mary, for example, spills her milk and discovers that if she mops it up herself while Mother gets the dishes done, then Mother has more time to play with her. But if she runs off to play, Mother has all the work to do and no time left. Children can understand this logic and profit from it.

How much and what kind of responsibility we can give children depends on two things—capacity and motivation, say these experts. Capacity is largely a matter of age, intelligence and physical strength. Motivation is the amount of incentive we have. From observing and hearkening about the performances of other children we can judge roughly what we can expect of our own. If we keep tasks simple enough we'll have no problem of capacity. The real problem is how to make them do what they can do—the problem of motivation.

The expert point out that it doesn't do much good to tell a child that when he says "I can't" he actually means "I won't." Commands, scoldings and punishment may, in an emergency, be necessary, but they are not the best motivations. On the other hand, well-timed suggestion and encouragement can develop spontaneous, creative impulses into regular habits. Children of all ages will accept responsibilities more readily when they are definite and visible. To have a certain room in order by a certain time every day or to keep the woodpile stacked up to a certain level gives a youngster a feeling of pride and achievement that may be difficult to gain through a miscellany of scattered and irregular tasks. Also, a certain uniformity and routine in family life not only promotes responsibility, it also makes the diversities interesting rather than bewildering.

Parents make two common mistakes in guidance toward responsibility, the experts say. One is failure to delegate a task because "it's less trouble to do it myself" and the other is the delegating of a responsibility to a child without fulfilling one's own corresponding responsibilities.

WOOD DOOR NEEDED

Government To Settle War Debt

SINGAPORE — (AP) — The Singapore government has agreed to square a long standing account with Ceylon started when the Ceylon government rendered cash assistance to Malaysians who were evacuated there during the Japanese attack on Malaya.

Total Ceylon government assistance to Singapore citizens amounted to $695. Over the past two years, the colony had tried to recover the debts from the individuals concerned, but was able to collect only $61. The colony Legislative Council has therefore agreed to provide the funds to pay the debt.

New Mechanical Aircraft Handler

LONDON — (AP) — The British aircraft carrier Thames is carrying out first tests on a new mechanical handler for aircraft.

The implement, in the form of a small trolley, is operated by one man and designed to replace manual labor in hauling planes on flight decks and into and out of hangars both at sea and on land air bases.

The British designers claim it enables one man to raise a heavy plane and maneuver it with ease.

Total Number Of Air Force And Navy Planes Is Less Than Two Years Ago

By CHARLES CORDRY
United Press Aviation Writer
WASHINGTON (UP)—The total number of U. S. Air Force and Navy aircraft of all types is less today than it was two years ago when the Korean war broke out and mobilization began.

The mid-1950 figure of 31,200 planes was diminished by several hundred. On the credit side, there has been an increase in the proportion of modern planes to the total. The overall Russian figure is about 40,000 with a vastly higher ratio of combat to non-combat types, as indicated by congressional testimony.

Trustworthy figures on the status of American air power, which has been made an election year issue, disclose that there are fewer than 9,000 combat planes in organized Air Force and Navy units. There were 8,800 two years ago.

About 14 per cent now are committed to the Korean war. The rest are deployed against all other contingencies.

Russia has 19,000 combat planes in organized units whose identity and location are known to American intelligence. These do not include planes in reserves and in satellite air forces.

The Red air force in the Korean war, for example, appears to have more jet fighters than the total in the U. N. Navy and may approach the number in the U. S. Air Force.

It is estimated that U. S. military plane production since the Korean war started is 9,000 to 9,500 in all categories—combat, transport, trainer, liaison, etc. Thus there has been a substantial improvement in quality of American air power during the two years as older planes have been replaced.

But production has not kept pace with losses due to combat, accidents, and obsolescence, and shipments of planes (more than 2,100 by both the Air Force and Navy) to other countries under the military aid program.

President Truman, answering Sen. Robert A. Taft and other critics, asserted in his Springfield, Mo. speech on June 7 that the Air Force now has 15,000 airplanes "in active use." He compared that figure with "less than 9,000" two years ago and said the Air Force has grown from 48 to 91 wings.

The expansion was brought about not alone from new production but also by federalizing Air National Guard wings and withdrawing planes from storage until the bottom of the barrel was visible. The Air Force had 8,200 planes of all types in storage in June, 1950. Gen. Nathan F. Twining, acting chief of staff, recently told the Senate there now are "virtually" no reserves.

Taft has said, and the Air Force has not disputed, that there are 6,000 planes in combat units. However, no more than 30 to 35 per cent of these are modern in the sense that they were built after World War II.

In comparing these 6,000 planes with Russia's "20,000," Taft seemed to overlook the Navy and Marine combat strength which would add 2,500 to 2,700 planes to the total.

Under the mobilization program, both services have large numbers of their total plane strength devoted to air training. For the Air Force, the figure is more than 3,200 and for the Navy, 1,500.

While marked improvements have been made in the quality of planes in combat units in the past two years, few of the most modern jet types ordered since war began in Korea have yet been delivered. Both services expect a big jump forward in the coming year.

Froze Appendix To Make A Date

ELIZABETH N. J. (UP) — Joseph V. Casino hoped to start his honeymoon today, but doctors weren't sure he could make it. They "froze" his ailing appendix with drugs Saturday so he could marry Rose Desk, but ordered him back to the hospital a few hours after the ceremony. He still was under observation to see if any operation would be necessary.

Mental Health And Child Adjustment To Be Talked

How to help the child achieve better mental health and emotional adjustment will be the theme of a conference on "Understanding Our Children" to be held at East Carolina College Wednesday, June 25, under the sponsorship of the department of home economics.

Morning and afternoon meetings will be held at 9 and at 2 o'clock in the Flanagan building. A number of students and specialists in home economics and members of Parent-Teacher organizations in this section of the state are expected to be present on the campus for the event.

Dr. Beattie McNeil, director of the East Carolina department of home economics, will be lecturer at both sessions and will lead discussion groups in which those present will be invited to participate. She will have as her topics "Mental Hygiene of the Preschool Child" and "The Adolescent and His Family." The theme of child development, which she will follow during the day, she has announced, is "Security, serenity, independence, and creative activity are the mental and emotional components of good growing soil."

A series of films illustrative of ideas to be considered during the day will be shown. Students in a college class in child development will contribute to the program a dramatization based on the school-age child and his problems and entitled "Fresh, Variable Winds."

Highway Safety Officials Battle Growing Task

By BRYAN HANSLIP
RALEIGH — (AP) — North Carolina's highway safety officials are waging a battle like that of the knight fighting a dragon which grew two heads whenever one was chopped off.

Actually, the state's road safety programs have proved pretty effective over the years, but the progress doesn't show up because the problem continues to grow in size.

More roads, more cars and more drivers make the threat of death on the roads greater each year. A slight increase in the number of deaths each year may actually represent an improvement in the death rate.

For instance, 762 persons died in traffic accidents in 1951; the figure was 1,071 in 1951. During that period, however, the death rate per 100 million motor vehicle miles dropped from 22.08 to 8.30.

Those two decades saw the number of motor vehicles on North Carolina highways rise from 442,448 to 1,226,040, almost a threefold jump in miles traveled as more and more Tar Heels made the auto a part of their daily lives. For the last six years, there has been a jump of about 100,000 yearly in the number of motor vehicles registered.

The lower death rate per 100 million miles shows that the average Tar Heel motorist of 20 years ago took a risk about three times as great as today's driver, points out James S. Burch, statistics and planning engineer for the State Highway Commission. The figures on which the rate is based came from the National Safety Council.

Highway safety officials believe the statistics show both the improvement their programs have brought and the size of the problem they face.

"If the problem would stand still we could lick it, but it keeps growing every year," said H. D. Jones, head of the Motor Vehicles Department's highway safety division.

According to motor vehicles department figures, the greatest improvement in highway safety came in the five-year period from 1934 to 1939. In that time the death rate per 100 million miles fell from 26.46 to 16.17.

Quiet Campaign Being Waged In Second Primary

RALEIGH — (AP) — A quiet second primary campaign being conducted by Superior Court Judges R. Hunt Parker and William H. Bobbitt for a seat on the State Supreme Court entered its final week today.

Tar Heel voters will decide Saturday which of the two will succeed Associate Justice Hymous T. Valentine. This is the only statewide second primary race.

Three congressional runoff races will be voted on along with a number of local contests. The congressional contests are between: F. Errel Carlyle, Lumberton, and J. O. Tally Jr., Fayetteville, in the Seventh District; Hugh Alexander, Kannapolis, and Graham M. Carlton, Salisbury, in the Ninth District; and George A. Shuford and Frank M. Parker, both of Asheville, in the 12th District.

A light vote is expected in comparison with the 564,505 votes cast in the May 31 primary, an all-time high for a Democratic gubernatorial primary.

Parker led a six-man field in the May 31 primary for associated justice, but lacked a majority over Bobbitt. He received 135,079 to Bobbitt's 109,478.

Parker, whose home is in Roanoke Rapids, has been a Superior Court judge since 1932. He is a former legislator and solicitor. Bobbitt, who is from Charlotte, practiced law for 17 years before being elected resident judge in his district in 1938.

In the May 31 primary, Carlyle led a three-man field but failed to get a majority over Tally. The vote showed: Carlyle 22,981, Tally 21,893, and Ernest Mayhan, Wilmington, 1,868.

In the Ninth District race for the seat being vacated by veteran Rep. R. L. Farmer Bob Doughton, Alexander got 23,311 votes, Carlton, 16,623, and Mark Goforth, Lenoir, 7,105.

Shuford was high man in the 12th District contest to succeed Rep. Monroe Redden. He received 15,178 compared with 12,305 for Parker and 10,865 for Dale Thrash Asheville.

Site Of Once Cultured City Hard To Find

INDIAN POINT, Miss. —(UP)— If this story could have been written between 1830 or 1850 every one in the civilized United States would be familiar with its date-line. In the earlier decades of the 18th century, Indian Point was one of Mississippi's principal population centers.

It was a city of the Old South building river port on the Mississippi Delta, roughly 40 miles north of Greenville. Here planters traded their cotton for European finery and Negro slaves chanted their spirituals as their backs strained loading and unloading the river boats.

Today it is a challenge to find even the site. All that remains of Indian Point, are occasional brick chimneys, burial plots with eroded, overturned tombstones and abandoned water cisterns. The land has returned to a state not far removed from that in which the first settlers found it. Only the Indians and deer are absent.

The forests have reclaimed the cotton fields and Mississippi River silt has covered plantation foundations many times over. The timbers have floated away but the few remaining evidences indicate a highly cultured population.

River Wouldn't Yield Settled by Spanish, French and English, Indian Point reached its peak development during the Mexican War, following the improvement of transportation along the Mississippi River.

Many sweeping river bottom plantations were laid out and fine homes erected but the Mississippi's muddy waters wouldn't stay within their banks.

Year after year the flooding became worse. Finally a levee system stretching from the Chickasaw Bluffs south of Memphis to the Walnut Hills at Vicksburg was completed in the early 1850's, leaving enclosed farms the choice of being abandoned or periodically flooded.

The fertile lands and elaborate homes were left one by one to the ravages of river, weather and vegetation. Today the only inhabitants of the once highly-cultured area are countless mosquitos and lazy winter snakes.

To Publish Old Ohio Folk Songs

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Prof. Harry Lee Ridenour used to delight his Ohio students by breaking into song right in the middle of a lecture.

Now the veteran professor, for 30 years head of the English Department at Baldwin-Wallace College, is retiring to prepare for publication his collection of Ohio folk songs and ballads. Student enthusiasm for the ballads developed into a regular course, first offered eight years ago.

Prof. Ridenour has recorded about 400 of the folk songs, and as for the rest, it'll wait and see the outcome of genuinely "objective" research which it expects public interest to stimulate.

Strange Passage

By William Lynch

Chapter 12

Paul reached for another drink. He quaffed it down and nodded towards the bottle, now three parts empty. "There stands a monument to loneliness. An almost empty bottle."

Melissande glanced the bottle to see for herself. "Did you really drink all that, Paul?"

"Why not?" Melissande laughed. "O. K., darling. You don't have to be dogmatic about it. I was merely inquiring."

"Dogmatic? Rubbish! Did you enjoy the theatre?"

"Immensely. It was a murder story with a new angle."

"Angle?" "This chap killed his wife. She kept nagging him. The police knew he did it, but couldn't prove it. So a smart detective set a trap for him."

"Trap?" "Well, it was very complicated. But the upshot of it was that he was forced to go back to the spot where he'd dumped his wife's body. Then they caught him."

Gardiner examined this story. "Is that all? There's nothing new about a killer returning to the scene of his crime, is there?"

"I expect there isn't, Paul. But it was the way they—anyhow, I liked it. Now, apart from swilling liquor and being miserable, what else did you do to-night?"

Gardiner shaded his eyes and spoke cautiously: "I read the paper from beginning to end—even the advertisements—and after that I tried to work but it was no use. So I came in here and set about methodically to be disconsolate."

"And that's all you've done?" "Only that," Gardiner tensed. "Do you disbelieve me, then?"

be a form of sacrilege—a union of heaven and hell." He laughed throatily. "But I did."

Late in the darkness Melissande said, after a long pause, "I don't want to go out alone any more."

"What's on your mind?" "I was scared to-night. This is a bad part of town. After reading that thing in the paper tonight—"

"What thing?" "The front page was full of it. That business at Glebe."

"I didn't notice it."

"You must have. That girl—"

"What girl? Oh, go to sleep, Sandy."

"But you said you read the paper?"

"I did read it."

"Then you must know what I'm trying to say." She caught his arm.

"Please, Paul, don't send me to a theatre again."

Gardiner squirmed away. "What you're trying to say it that you don't want me to be alone. That's it, isn't it?"

"Yes."

"Then all the king's horses and all the king's men, will never separate the Gardiners again. Now go to sleep."

Gardiner rolled his head to one side and allowed his lips gently to brush her hair.

"Paul—you don't really love me, do you?"

"No, but I'm in favor of our marriage. Aren't you?"

"I don't know I—don't—think—so. There has to be love, Paul. Gardiner grunted.

"Who told you that? The local vicar?"

"Paul—I've never heard you talk like this before."

You've never seen me drunk before. When a man's drunk he says the things he only thinks when he's sober."

Melissande stared wide-eyed towards the ceiling. What strange kind of creature was this who lay beside her, his head heavy upon her shoulder and his voice thick with liquor and mystery? There were so many things she wanted to say to him, now, so many things she wanted him to say, too. Quickly, there sprang into her mind a limp of doubting, a fleeting, unhappy thought that possibly she'd been precipitated in entering into a marriage with Paul, of whom she knew less the more she attempted to study him. Yet he fascinated her beyond anything else in her life—

Paul was talking. It was neither the confused murmurings of a drunk nor the staccato little passages of one talking in his sleep but a weird of both.

She heard him say "Katie" three times, and then "Katie. He seemed to dwell with this thought for a few minutes and then there was a veritable rabble of broken and distorted phrases.

Melissande half raised herself from the pillow and stared down into his sleeping face.

The Nation Is Turning Green, With Chlorophyll

By DELOS SMITH United Press Science Editor

NEW YORK (UP)—The nation is turning green and not altogether because it's summer. Chlorophyll, the chemical of nature which makes the grass green (and all other green plants, too) is a national fad.

You can have chlorophyll in eight brands of tooth paste and powder. The manufacturers are "changing over" at such a rate, the number may be doubled by next month. One authority said it was "next to impossible" to sell just plain white tooth paste any more.

You can have chlorophyll in chewing gum, in minis, in lozenges. You can feed it to your dog in his canned dog food. It is being impregnated in the "sensitive areas" of sports shirts, and in inner soles and linings of shoes. It is being mixed into cigaret and pipe tobacco. It's in lotions, shampoos, and colognes. In moth balls, candles, and mouth washes.

The most conservative medical trade sources estimate the gross sales of chlorophyll products during 1957 will approximate $50,000,000. Other estimates range upward to $150,000,000. If the boom continues at the present rate, it is expected by conservative estimate to reach $200,000,000 in 1958.

It all began Jan. 1 with the marketing of the first nationally advertised and nationally promoted green tooth paste. Skeptics thought the public would never go for "green stuff" for their teeth. But by March, a leading manufacturer experienced a 85 per cent sales drop in a "test market" area in one week. He still was selling white tooth paste.

The panic was on. One executive of the tooth paste trade, who has a sharp wit, said the survivors would call themselves '52ers, like the survivors of the California gold rush were '49ers.

The idea, of course—and this puts it bluntly—is that it is a social offense to be odoriferous. Chlorophyll is an efficient deodorant if applied in an active form directly to the odor.

Scientists have found some evidence that it also will work magic for man and they don't mean deodorizing him. They're talking about it possibly stimulating his tissues in regenerative processes such as more quickly closing his wounds.

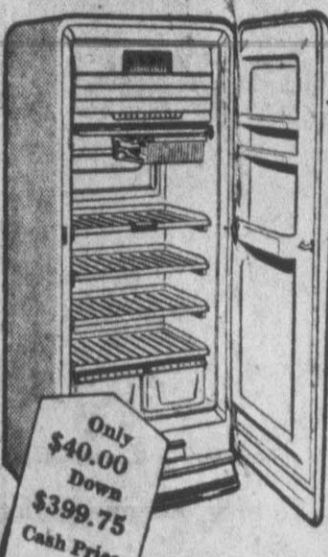

Nothing has been proven scientifically in this field, although there is a growing record of case histories and successful experiments. The position of the American Medical Association is that it certainly does not retard the healing of wounds.

Prof. Ridenour has recorded about 400 of the folk songs, and as for the rest, it'll wait and see the outcome of genuinely "objective" research which it expects public interest to stimulate.

But the big public interest is in chlorophyll as a deodorant and tomorrow's dispatch will tell you just what it can and can't do in the field. As of this week, according to market authorities, approximately 45 per cent of the deodorants being sold are chlorophyll.

Greenies Lose Weekend Games To Sta ntonsburg

Chisox Lose To Yanks But Are Now In Second Place

By CARL LUNDQUIST
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP)—For awhile it looked like those high speed go-go Chicago White Sox were going, going, gone in the American League race, but they picked up their second wind and were sprinting for the top today.

Since May 7 when they were a sad seventh in the American League race, they have whipped past everybody but the New York Yankees and today they were in second place, two games behind the New Yorkers after getting rid of a defeatist complex and beating them three out of four games.

For if it were not for the Yankees, they would be in the lead today. Prior to the weekend series in Chicago they had lost seven in a row to the Yankees and Manager Paul Richards had predicted that the Bombers definitely would go on to win their fourth straight pennant.

Now he has changed his tune and thinks Chicago could go-go-go right to the top themselves. The Sox gained a split yesterday, beating the Yankees, 2 to 1, on Marvin Grissom's seven - hitter after New York won the opener, 3 to 0 on two-hit pitching by Bob Kuzava.

Yogi Berra's two-run homer, his 14th, gave the Yankees the margin they needed. The Cleveland Indians topped the Boston Red Sox 7 to 0 and 5 to 4 while Detroit defeated Philadelphia 5 to 4, in 12 innings, then lost 10 to 0.

Washington won an 8 to 5 decision from the St. Louis Browns, then lost, 3 to 2.

In the National League, the St. Louis Cardinals twice topped the Boston Braves by 7 to 2 scores to make it 10 victories in the last 15 games, while the Cincinnati Reds downed the Philadelphia Phillies 5 to 3, then lost a protested 3 to 0 second game decision.

The Brooklyn-Pittsburg game and the Chicago-New York doubleheader were rained out.

Steve Gromek, celebrating Father's Day a week late, pitched a two-hit shutout for his new son, born Saturday night, although he had to have one inning of hitless relief help from Mickey Harris when his shoulder tightened up. The Indians made it a sweep when Mike Garcia won his 10th game, striking out 11 Red Sox in the second game as Cleveland came from behind to win.

A pinch-slinging by Vic Wertz produced the winning run in the 12th at Detroit as lefty Hal Newhouser pitched five-hit scoreless relief ball for seven innings.

Gus Zernial, who had a terrific day with three homers and three singles, set the 15-hit pace for the Athletics in the second game, driving in four runs with two of the homers and the three singles. Carl Scheib came out of obscurity to pitch a seven-hit shutout. Ferris Fain got seven hits for the day for the A's.

Farmville Loses 2 Engagements

ORMONDSVILLE—Farmville's Red Sox dropped two games to Ormondsville over the weekend, falling all the way from first to third place in the Bright Belt League standing.

The double victory for Ormondsville moved Manager Garland Little's nine from third to second place in the torrid Bright Belt race. Ormondsville took Saturday night's game, played in Farmville, by a score of 7-5, as Norman Clark homered for the winners. Sunday's game was called at the end of six full innings of play because of rain, with Ormondsville winning by a 3-1 margin.

Ormondsville will play Sta ntonsburg in Farmville tomorrow night in a regularly scheduled Bright Belt contest. Game time is set for 8 p. m.

Cincy Manager Luke Sewell officially protested when umpire Duster Boggess called the game because of darkness.

BILLY COX
THE KIWANIS CLUB SENSATION IS LEADING THE LEAGUE WITH A .522 B.A.
TH GUY'S ANOTHER TY COBB!

COX WAS 20 POINTS AHEAD OF THE NEAREST CHALLENGER

ARNOLD

Hard hitting Billy Cox, the sensational slugger who is pacing the Little League in hits, is whacking away at a terrific .522 clip. The Kiwanis clouter finished the first half of the season 20 points above the nearest challenger. Cox, who is a fairly big boy for his age, took command of the batting honors early in the 1952 campaign and never slacked up. He put his ability as a top-notch place hitter to work and as a result racked up the highest batting average ever collected by a Little Leaguer in Greenville.

When asked recently if he used any particular strategy at the plate, the Kiwanis ace replied modestly, "No; I just swing." Billy is almost an exact double for New York's fancy Phil Rizzuto as far as his baseball talents are concerned. Like Rizzuto Cox is a "hit 'em where they ain't" type of hitter. Also like the Yankee star, Billy is a first-class shortstop. Unlike Rizzuto, our "Little Leaguer of the Week" hits a long ball. Cox has collected a large number of doubles and triples.

Wimbledon Matches Open Today With Large Field

By ROBERT DOWSON
United Press Sports Writer

WIMBLEDON, Eng. (UP)—Sixty-four singles matches open the Wimbledon championships, most renowned of all the world's tennis tournaments, today with Australia's Frank Sedgman a strong title choice and America's defending champion Dick Savitt seeded fourth.

Sedgman, handsome blond who led the Aussies to a successful defense of the Davis Cup last December, was top-seeded by tournament officials for the third straight year and also was the wagering choice at 5 to 2.

Jaroslav Drobny, the hard-hitting southerner who is a self - exiled Czech now competing for Egypt, was seeded second in men's singles with Vic Seixas of Philadelphia, the United States' No. 1 ranked player, seeded third.

Seven of the top 10 ranked U. S. players were entered—Seixas, Savitt, Herbie Flam of Beverly Hills, Calif., Art Larsen of San Leandro, Calif., Gardner Mulloy of Coral Gables, Fla., Budge Patty of Los Angeles, and Ham Richardson of Baton Rouge, La. All seven, along with Straight Clark of Pasadena, Calif., were favored to win their opening matches.

Women's singles open tomorrow, and there was good news for U. S. fans in that department as U. S. champion Maureen (Little Mo) Connolly of San Diego, Calif., re-ported her strained right shoulder muscle responding to treatment.

Meeting Tuesday

An important meeting of all Greenville citizens who are interested in the promotion of having the District One and State Little League tournaments held in Greenville this year will be held at the local armory Tuesday night at 8 o'clock.

If a large number of people attend the meeting and show sufficient interest in having the tournaments here, efforts will be gotten underway at once to have the tournaments held here.

Wilson County Team Wins Two Weekend Games

By MELVIN LANG
Reflector Sports Editor

Sta ntonsburg rallied for two runs in the top of the ninth inning here yesterday to take a 6-4 Bright Belt League victory over the Greenville Greenies.

Greenville had tied the contest during their half of the eighth frame, but the Wilson County team had too much power to be halted. With one man away, Floyd Hood, the Sta ntonsburg shortstop, reached first on an error by Sonny Russell. The winning run promptly came across when Lyman Laughinghouse tripled. Laughinghouse scored on a long fly ball to rightfield by Luther McKeel.

Stancl Hardison, big side-arm hurler from Farm Life, had held Sta ntonsburg to but five hits before the ninth. Hardison was well on his way to having a victory under his belt until the seventh inning. In that frame Sta ntonsburg trailing 3-2, loaded the bases after scoring the tying run. Hardison then struck Luther McKeel with a pitched ball. He was not as effective after hitting McKeel as before.

The winners took the lead first with two runs in the third inning. With one away Hood walked and came home on a double by Laughinghouse. Laughinghouse scored on a tag-up after McKeel filed out to rightfield.

Greenville threatened in the half of the first as the first three men up collected singletons off hurler Jack Boykin. Johnny Thomas singled and was caught in a rundown between first and second. Joe Haggood singled, as did Wilbur Thompson. Sonny Russell then hit into the first of two Sta ntonsburg twin-killings.

The Greenies did manage to score one run in the bottom of the fourth. Russell singled and moved to third on the second of three singles by Billy Lester. Russell scored on an error by the catcher.

Two runs in the sixth enabled Greenville to take the lead for the first time. Russell, leading off the inning, singled and stole second base. Randal Dykes, playing in rightfield for the Greenies, fanned, but Lester singled. A squeeze bunt by Catcher George McSwain brought Russell home to score. Blaney Moyer singled to send Lester home from second.

After Sta ntonsburg had re-taken the lead in the seventh, Greenville managed another rally in the eighth. McSwain double and Moyer was safe as the third baseman bobbled for the grounder. Hardison fanned for the second out, but Thomas was intentionally walked to load the bases. Boykin was lifted in favor of Newsome, who promptly walked Haggood to force in McSwain.

Boykin was hit hard and heavy in seven and two-third innings, but kept the game under control until the eighth. He fanned 13 batters and walked only three, but was tagged for 13 safeties.

Greenville plays at home again Wednesday night in a Bright Belt game. The Greenies will be at home to Fremont.

Sta ntonsburg walloped Greenville, 15-0, in Saturday's game played in Sta ntonsburg.

Giants Sign Wake Forest Backstop

PATERSON, N. J. (AP)—Wake Forest's star backstop, George Lefelar, has been signed to a bonus contract with the New York Giants of the National League.

The 20-year-old Lefelar, a native of Fair Lawn, will be sent to Sta ntonsburg, Pa., of the Class B Interstate League.

At the same time, the Giants announced that they had signed Robert Chadwick, Cornell shortstop voted the most valuable player in the Ivy League this year. The 21-year-old Chadwick is going to the Knoxville club of the Class B Tri-State League.

Two Brooklyn Dodger stars—second baseman Jackie Robinson and catcher Roy Campanella—also hold comfortable margins in the poll of baseball fans. Casey Stengel, who will guide the American Leaguers, may have three of his New York Yankees in the starting lineup. Leading are shortstop Phil Rizzuto, rightfielder Hank Bauer and catcher Yogi Berra.

Rain Threatens Maxim-Robinson Bout In Yankee Stadium Tonight

NEW YORK (UP)—Sugar Ray Robinson, an all-time ring "great" will try to win his third world title tonight unless threatened rain causes a postponement of his fight with light heavy-weight champion Joey Maxim at Yankee Stadium.

The forecast was "occasional light rains" tonight. If postponed, the bout must be delayed until Wednesday night. Cincinnati is playing the Giants at the Polo Grounds tomorrow night, and a fight staged then at Yankee Stadium would violate the Giant-Yankee agreement that prevents either from offering a ballpark attraction that would compete with the other's game.

Drizzles on Saturday and Sunday plus today's forecast, probably will prevent the crowd from reaching the hoped-for 35,000 and the gate from attaining $400,000.

A postponement would help middleweight champion Robinson. The slender New York Negro had difficulty keeping his weight up to his desired 158 pounds; whereas Maxim had difficulty paring down to his required 175-pound limit.

Maxim might be forced to steam baths or to heavy gymnasium workouts to keep down his weight until a second weigh-in on Wednesday. A New York rule requires a weigh-in and a physical examination on the day of the fight, regardless of the number of postponements.

Although Sugar Ray will be much lighter than Cleveland Joey, he was given an even chance to be the first man to win the world light-heavy crown while still holding the middleweight title. Odds-makers quoted "even money" on the outcome, and they said it was 3-1-2 to 1 against each to score a knockout. The bout will not be televised to homes; however, it will be tee-veed to 39 theaters in 25 cities. It will be broadcast only to Canada and a couple of Latin American countries.

Future movie profits will depend upon the brand of fight staged. Theater-TV has guaranteed at least $75,000. Each fighter gets 30 per cent of the total net proceeds.

Sugar Ray would be at least 16 pounds lighter than the biggest man he ever faced.

Johnson Signs A Bonus Contract

CHICAGO (AP)—Another Duke University two-letter man, baseball and basketball star Dick Johnson, has signed a National League contract, this one with the Chicago Cubs.

Johnson's teammate, Dick Groat, recently inked a pact with the Pittsburgh Pirates of the senior circuit, reportedly calling for a $75,000 bonus.

Johnson, who is a junior, told fellow Duke players he signed "in order to get in a year of playing before being called to duty" with the Air Corps ROTC. The 20-year-old outfielder had a year of eligibility left in each sport.

Cub officials called Duke officials yesterday and told them of Johnson's signing. They added that he received a "sizeable bonus since several clubs were bidding for his services, including Pittsburgh."

General Manager Branch Rickey of the Pirates personally scouted Johnson during the past Duke season while he was here to make a speech at the Teague Award banquet, at which Groat was named Carolina's athlete of the year.

The Cubs said that Johnson would be sent to their Des Moines Western League farm club.

The 180-pound Johnson was rated by scouts as better than Groat. Starring in Blue Devil games for the past three seasons, he had racked up batting averages of .428, .358 and .390. He also connected safely in 46 of his last 47 games.

Giants Leading All-Star Polling

CHICAGO (AP)—Manager Leo Durocher, who will direct the National League squad in the 19th All-Star Game in Philadelphia July 8, may have three members of his New York Giants starting against the American League.

Future movie profits will depend upon the brand of fight staged. Theater-TV has guaranteed at least $75,000. Each fighter gets 30 per cent of the total net proceeds. Sugar Ray would be at least 16 pounds lighter than the biggest man he ever faced.

Eight Pros Left In PGA Tourney For Play Today

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UP)—Eight par-professionals go out today for 36-hole quarter-final round matches in the PGA golf championship and it was to be "blue Monday" for four of them. Three stubborn "home pros" still were alive in this week-long marathon—43-year-old Clarence Doer of Hartsdale, N. Y., driving range operator Frank Champ of Houston, Tex., and Bob Hamilton of Evansville, Ind., who won it back in 1944 when he was a leading tournament star.

Rounding out the survivors at Big Spring Golf Club were five current tournament competitors - favored Cary Middlecoff of Memphis, Ted Kroll of New Hartford, N. Y., Freddie Haas of New Orleans, Chick Harbert, the 1947 runnerup from Northville, Mich., and swarthy Jim Turnesa, who finished second to Sam Snead in 1942.

The day's hottest match features Middlecoff against Kroll, a rising tournament star and three-time Purple Heart winner who faced things tougher than this on the Anzio beachhead.

Church Builders Work Quickly

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. —(AP) — Volunteer workers started and almost completed in a single day an educational unit for the First Baptist Church.

The church suddenly found its facilities were inadequate due to the addition of more than 130 members in the last few months. Part of the new structure will be used for Sunday School purposes.

Stocks And Market Reports

NEW YORK (UP) Oil shares with gains ranging to more than a point led the stock market higher around mid-session today. Trading was moderately active.

Outside of the oil issues, a few carriers also displayed some strength despite the upswing, investors appeared cautious. They held off making any further commitments pending some developments in the steel situation.

Sales in the first two hours of dealings totaled 500,000 shares, compared with 510,000 in the same period last Friday.

Amerasia Petroleum was the leader in the petroleum group. The stock rose 2 3/4 points to 215 1/2. Wilcox Oil and Texas Pacific Land Trust rose more than a point each. Barber Oil met some profit-taking, and it led the carriers higher with a gain of 1 1/2 points to 90 1/2. Other pivots in this group rose fractionally.

Steel shares were quiet and mostly mixed, automobiles generally held around their previous close and utilities did little.

Korean War Is 2 Years Old Wednesday, No End In Sight

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON—(AP)—The Korean War is two years old Wednesday. No one any more in a responsible position is offering a quick solution for ending it. Nor is anyone predicting the outcome.

The invasion of South Korea by the North Korea Communists began like a stone dropped in a quiet pool. The ripples are still widening. And Russia, which watched like a fat fox, may have outfoxed itself. And maybe not.

For a year the Korea War has been less than full-scale, although men have died daily. In this year of no grand ground offensives both sides have pecked away, holding positions, while their truce teams talked of an armistice.

No armistice is in sight. For the past three months in this year of the epic talkathon, the conversations have stalled on one issue: Exchange of prisoners. Yet neither side seems anxious to stop talking.

Neither wants responsibility for what follows the end of talking: Start of big war again.

In this past year the American Air Force has worked steadily behind the enemy lines to prevent a build-up. But the Chinese have managed to build. They are credited now with being stronger than before the talks began.

This country and its allies talk confidently of being able to stop them. They have used the year to re-build forces, too. They do not talk of crushing the Chinese.

They might be able to do so if they were willing to pay the price: Far greater casualties; perhaps years of fighting in the heart of Asia, which would ruin them; and perhaps war with Russia and start of World War III if Russia moved in to help the Chinese openly.

Crushing China couldn't be done without far more men and supplies than the Allies have been willing to put into Korea, since they need them for defense against Russia in Europe, in case Russia attacks there.

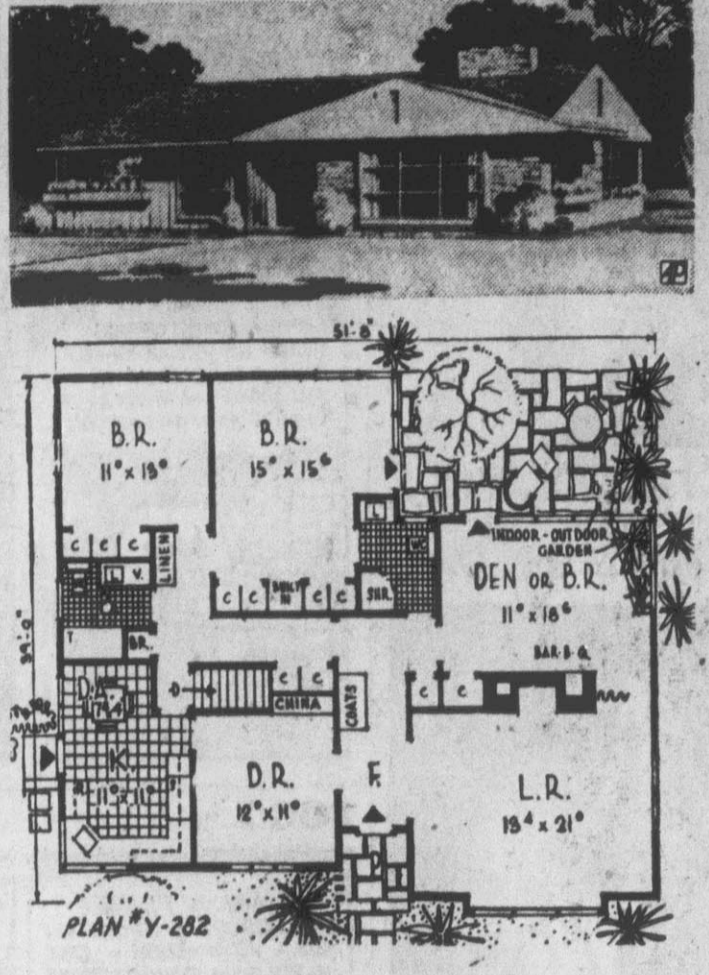

So Russia has the Allies guessing, and has had from the beginning of the Korean shooting. But the shooting started far more than the Russians probably bargained for.

If the North Korean Communists got away with the attack on South Korea, while the United Nations sat dumbly by, all Asia would have been discouraged from resisting.

But Korea was a starting point for the U. S. and U. N.

The arms program began in earnest. So did the Atlantic Pact. So did the rearming of Europe, the idea of a European army, the end of the war with freedom to re-arm, while the U. S. was allowed to use Japan as a military base. The U. S. poured money and supplies into the war against communism in Indochina.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

Indoor-outdoor living is skillfully blended in this flexible plan for a modern home that makes no radical departure from traditional preferences. A secluded garden porch, entered from both master bedroom and multi-purpose room, has a planting box that extends into the house at a large rear corner window. A barbecue fireplace opens in back of the living room fireplace. Bathrooms, an abundance of closets and the basement stairs are all conveniently located. This is plan Y-282 by Herman York, architect, 115 New Hyde Park Road, Garden City, N. Y. The house covers 1691 square feet. A breezeway and garage or carport could be built from the kitchen side. (Further information and plans available from architect.)

Peeping Tom Trailed By Bloodhound, Convicted

FARMVILLE—A forlorn-faced, scent-sensitive bloodhound in the official employ of Pitt County early this morning tracked a peeping tom from the scene of furtive peeping straight to his home and bedside.

Farmville Police Chief L. T. Lucas reported today that Bennie Bruce Newton, 18-year-old Negro who lives two miles north of Farmville, was found at home in bed after being tracked there from the residence of Gordon Owens by a bloodhound. Newton was arrested there at 12:30 a.m.

According to officers' accounts, Owens spotted someone peeping through a window at his home about 11 o'clock last night. He called police headquarters and Chief Lucas and Pitt Deputy Sheriff "Duke" Andrews brought a bloodhound to the scene.

The ground was damp from recent rains, and the dog led officers directly to the home of the Negro youth. Deputy Andrews said Newton emphatically denied the crime, but investigation disclosed the boy's trousers were wet and his shoes muddy where he crossed a plowed field. "Nails in his shoes also matched tracks in the field," Andrews stated.

Newton was found guilty in Farmville Mayor's Court this morning and received a sentence of 90 days on the roads, suspended provided he pay a fine of $25 and pay costs. Chief Lucas disclosed he had not paid the fine at noon today but is expected to raise the money sometime today.

Minimum Price Supports Listed For Peanut Crop

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The Agriculture Department today announced minimum price supports for various types of peanuts produced this year.

The rates are designed to support grower prices at a national average of not less than $239.40 a ton.

They will be increased if 90 per cent of the parity price of peanuts at the beginning of the marketing year August 1 exceeds $239.40.

The base grade support by types: Virginias, $231 a ton; runners, $215; Spanish, to $236 for those grown east of the Mississippi River and $232 for those grown west of the river, and Valencia, the same as for the Virginia type for those suitable for cleaning and roasting, and the same as for the Spanish type for others.

Prices to farmers will be supported by means of government loans and purchase agreements. Price support aid will be available through January 31, 1953.

New Graves For German Soldiers

NI DEGGEN, Germany—(AP)—The last of the German Wehrmacht's World War II fallen soldiers have found their final resting place after seven years. They had been lying in temporary graves hastily dug during the desperate battles of early 1945 by the retreating Germans.

The German War Dead Cemetery Organization has now moved them to new cemeteries in the Rhineland. One of these is the largest military cemetery in Western Germany. It lies in the Huertgen Forest — site of one of the war's bloodiest battles. The bodies of the allied soldiers killed in the "Devil's Forest" as it was called by the American GI's were moved to large military cemeteries in Belgium and Luxembourg shortly after the end of hostilities.

The Huertgen cemetery will be dedicated in a solemn ceremony late in August. Three thousand Germans are interred there. Their graves are marked by white stone crosses. But one third of the 3,000 graves are filled by unknown soldiers.
