Investigation Of Germ Warfare Is Vetoed By Russia

U.S. Demands United Nations To Dismiss Allegations As 'Without Substance And False'; Veto Is 50th On An On-Spot Investigation

By BRUCE W. MUNN United Press Staff Correspondent UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UP) - Russia today vetoed an American proposal for a Red Cross investigation of Communist germ warfare charges and the United States immediately demanded that the United Nations dismiss the allegations as "without substance and false."

U. S. Ambassador Ernest A. Gross called upon the Security Council to condemn "the practice of fabricating and disseminating such false charges, which increases tension among nations and which is designed to undermine the efforts of the U. N. to combat aggression in Korea and the support of the people of the world for these efforts."

Soviet Delegate Jacob A. Malik cast Russia's 50th veto to block adoption of the American proposal for an on-the-spot investigation. All other council members favored the proposal.

Gross gained the floor immediately and recalled that North Korea and Red China had refused, with Russian backing, to let either the Red Cross or the U. N. S. World Health Organization enter their territory to look into the charges that U. S. troops had used germ weapons against the Communist forces.

"The negative vote of the Soviet Union," he said, "has prevented the Security Council from arranging for an impartial investigation. From these facts, there is only one conclusion that can be drawn—that the charges of germ warfare made against the U. N. forces are presumed to be utterly false."

"The Security Council, in our judgment, should condemn the fabrication and dissemination of these charges which involve no less than an attempt to undermine the efforts of the U. N. to combat aggression in Korea."

Gross then submitted his resolution and asked the council to adjourn for a few days before considering it, in order to give Malik time to think over the gravity of his veto action.

Malik broke the silence he has maintained throughout the current debate and warned that he would use the veto again to kill the new American proposal.

Fires Strike In City Today; Little Damage Reported

Moderate damage was reported by the Greenville fire department in two blazes which struck the city in the earlier part of the morning today.

Firemen were called shortly before six o'clock this morning to a house occupied by Willie Cannon behind the North Side Lumber Company when food on the stove started to burn.

Only moderate damage resulted to the kitchen of the building, it was learned.

The house was owned by the North Side Lumber Company. Around eleven o'clock today local firemen were called to the West End Tea Room, a Negro eating place on West Fifth Street.

When firemen arrived in response to a telephone call, smoke and flames were pouring from under the floor of the building.

However, the blaze was quickly put out and the situation brought under control.

New Interceptor Plane Bolsters U.S. Air Defenses

New Planes Designed To Shoot Rockets Instead Of Machine-gun Bullets

WASHINGTON (UP) U.S. Air defenses are being bolstered by a powerful new interceptor plane, the F-94C, which fires rockets instead of machine-gun bullets.

Named the Starfire, the new plane has a speed well in excess of 600 miles an hour and embodies electronic controls that perform many two-man crew combat chores including aiming and firing.

Design changes and armament make the Starfire a new plane rather than a modification of earlier F-94's now guarding the United States and Alaska, according to a Joint Air Force-Lockheed Aircraft Corp. announcement.

It is an all-weather ship, capable of combat regardless of weather conditions on the ground or aloft. It can climb speedily to about 5,000 feet. The pilot is directed toward invading bombers by his own radar operator, who sits behind him, and by radar stations on the ground.

Rockets are fired through tubes arranged around the plane's nose. The ship carries 24 of the Navy-developed 2.75-inch anti-aircraft rockets bearing the name "Mighty Mouse."

Additional rockets can be carried in wingtip containers, where external fuel tanks normally are located. The same type of rockets are carried by the all-weather version of the F-86 Sabre, a single-seat interceptor now in production.

The Air Force said Starfires now are being delivered and a spokesman indicated that they should be assigned to combat units "within several months."

Lockheed described the plane as "the most powerful single-engine airplane in production today." Its Pratt & Whitney J-48 engine develops 6,250 pounds of thrust—about the same as a Russian MIG-15—and additionally has an afterburner.

An afterburner is a long tube resembling a stove pipe mounted behind the engine. In it, exhaust gases are re-burned to give the plane great bursts of power and speed for take-off or in combat.

The plane is 41 feet 5 inches long but has a wingspan of only 37 feet, 8 inches. The crew rides in a pressurized, temperature-controlled cockpit.

Acheson Begins Brazilian Trip

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil - U. S. Secretary of State Dean Acheson began a five-day official visit to Brazil today—a trip designed to strengthen bonds between the United States and her largest Latin American ally.

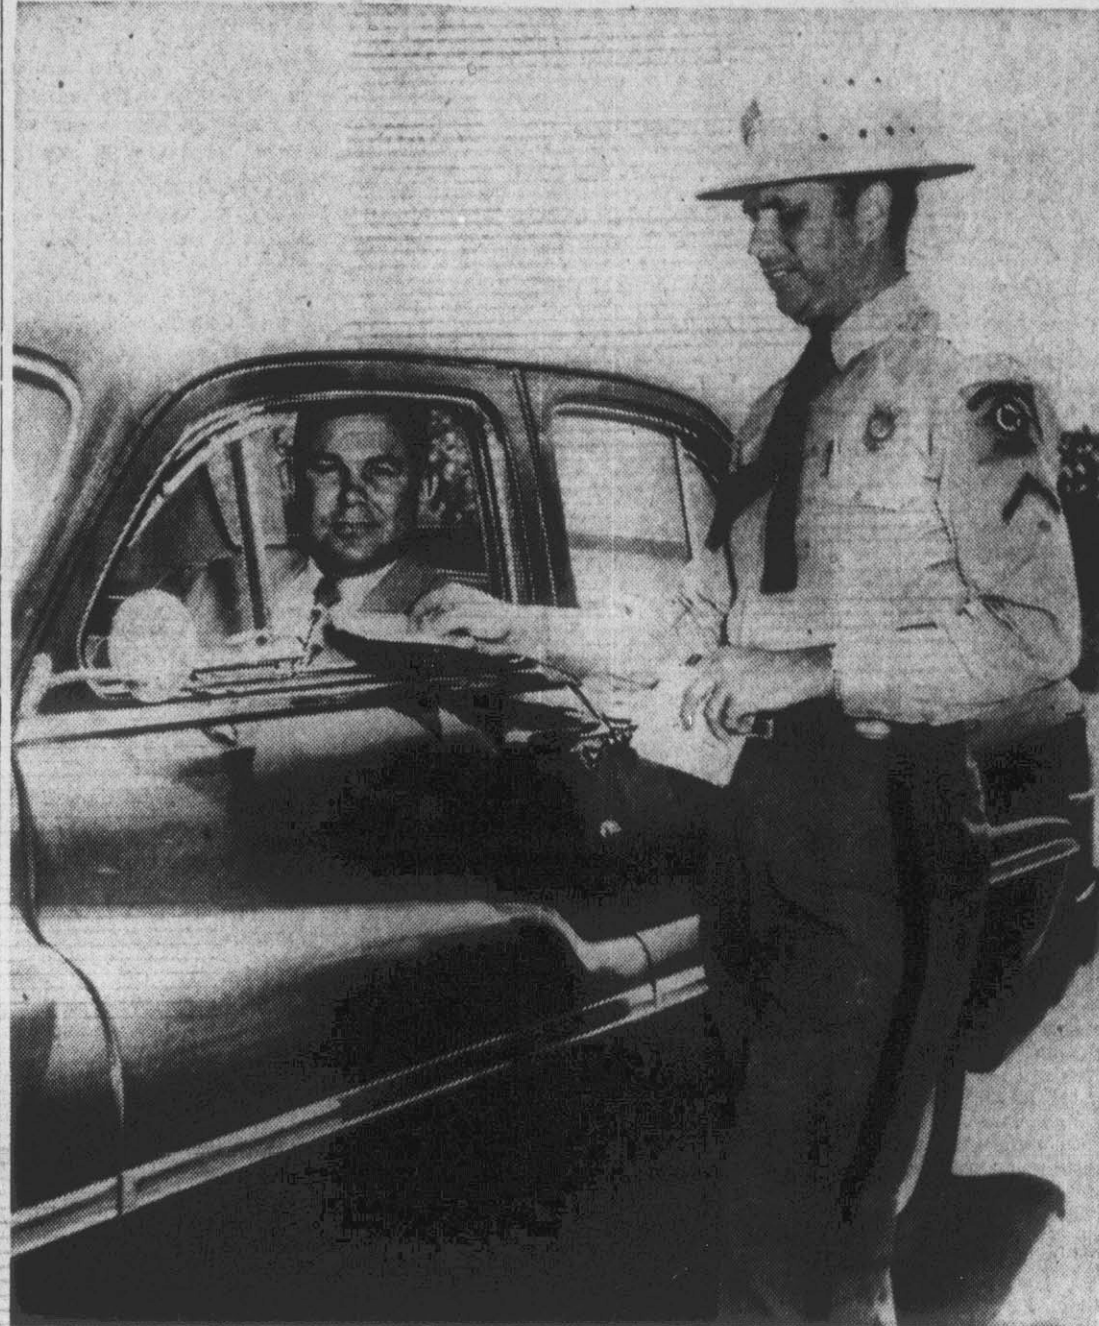

His crowded schedule included calls today on President Getulio Vargas and Foreign Minister Joao da Fountoura. Tonight Acheson will be the guest of honor at an official banquet at which he is expected to deliver a major address.

NO EDITION FRIDAY The Daily Reflector will observe Friday, July 4—National Independence Day—as a holiday.

There will be no edition of the paper that day. Publication will be resumed Saturday.

July 4 is generally observed here as a holiday.

July 4 Prayer Given To Motorists

"A DRIVER'S PRAYER"—That is the title of the paper being handed to the motorist in the above picture by Patrolman Dalton E. Perry of Bethel. For several days now, and including the fourth of July week end, the Department of Motor Vehicles will be passing out cards entitled "A Driver's Prayer" in an effort to make the motorists of the state more aware of the dangers of holiday accidents. Alex Mitchell, of Raleigh, is the recipient of the above message. The card reads—"Our Heavenly Father, we ask this day a particular blessing as we take the wheel of our car. Grant us safe passage through all the perils of travel; shelter those who accompany us and protect us from harm by Thy mercy; steady our hands and quicken our eye that we may never take another's life. Guide us to our destination safely, confident in the knowledge that Thy blessings go with us through darkness and light, sunshine and shower, forever and ever. Amen." Truman May Veto Fair Trade Bill

Says Bill Not In Accord With His Legislative Program; Passed By Senate Last Night

WASHINGTON (UP)—Informed sources predicted today that President Truman will veto the so-called "fair trade" bill which the Senate passed and sent to the White House by a 64 to 16 vote last night.

They pointed out that Mr. Truman sent word to Congress, before the bill was still pending, while the House in May, that it was "not in accord" with his legislative program.

The measure would legalize retail price-fixing on name-brand products. A manufacturer who wanted to prevent price-cutting competition among dealers could sign a "fair trade" agreement with a single retailer, fixing a minimum price, which would then be legally binding on all other retailers in that state.

The law would be effective in 45 states which have "fair trade" statutes, Texas, Vermont, Missouri and the District of Columbia would not be affected.

The fair trade laws were depression-born, most of them being enacted around 1937. After 14 years of operation, they were upset last year by a Supreme Court ruling that retailers who do not sign price agreements cannot be bound by them. It set off a spectacular "price war" on name-brand goods.

Unprecedented High Hit In Pre-Paid City Taxes

Collections Total $88,685.47; Largest Taxpayers Were Reynolds And J. P. Tobacco Companies

Prior to the beginning of the new fiscal year Tuesday, pre-paid taxes in the city of Greenville reached the unprecedented high of $88,685.47.

In remarking on that, the highest collection in history, City Clerk H. H. Duncan this morning explained that of the total paid into the city treasury, $1,774.82 was discounted.

"All firms and citizens whose 1952-1953 taxes were paid before the beginning of the new fiscal year received a two percent discount," Duncan said. "Pre-paid collections came close to equalling the entire 1945 levy of $118,000."

According to the city clerk, Reynolds Tobacco Company paid the largest amount to the city for next year's taxes. The company paid taxes totaling $15,342.78—and received a discount of $306.86 on that amount.

The second highest taxpayer was J. P. Taylor Company of Richmond—also a tobacco company—which paid $14,909.50 to the city. That company received a discount of $298.19 on its taxes.

The taxes of both firms were also pre-paid last year, but the Richmond concern led in last year's collection. J. P. Taylor Company paid $19,804.50 last year—with the discount amounting to $396.09.

At the same time, Reynolds Tobacco Company of Winston-Salem was second with payment of $14,232.98 in taxes. Discount on that amount totaled $284.66. "Both firms have been large taxpayers in Greenville for many years," the city clerk stated.

The total tax levy in Greenville this year is $318,626.42—based upon a local property evaluation of $21,241,761. "To the total levy may be added $2,538—which is derived from poll taxes," Duncan asserted.

Bethel Commissioners Vote Paving Project

BETHEL - The Town Board of Commissioners here Tuesday night voted to pave 15 feet of town property following a request made by B. F. Manning.

Manning appeared before the board and asked them to authorize the paving of 15 feet of property which joins Nelson and McWorter streets. Property owners on McWorter, which runs by a comparatively new development, are having the street paved at their own expense.

The board bowed to the requests of the property owners on McWorter and voted to hire the contractor paving the street to continue and complete the 15 feet of city property.

A delegation headed by Paul Cullifer asked that the board repair a part of Nelson Street which was damaged by severe weather during the winter. The street became damaged during a freeze and the delegation claimed that the amount of tar on the street was insufficient. This request was turned down for the time being by the board.

L. N. James and C. W. Everett of the Bethel Auction Company requested that the town put 160 feet of tile in a ditch near the company which runs parallel to Highway 64A. The board voted to furnish the tile and leave the filling up of the ditch to the company.

Everett, who was serving as city attorney, resigned last night but agreed to continue taking cases for the city.

A number of bills were passed on last night and were authorized to be paid. Other routine business matters took up the remainder of the commissioners' meeting.

Claims Pulling Out Of UN Would Lead To World War

Fewer Red Planes Noted Over Korea

Priests Released By Reds; Arrested British Soldiers

Three American Catholic Priests Given Freedom After Yesterday's Arrest; Take Two Soldiers Captive

BERLIN (UP) - The Russians released today three young American Roman Catholic priests whom they seized yesterday on the border line between West and East Berlin.

A U. S. Army spokesman said the priests and a German woman who was guiding them on a sight-seeing tour were freed after they had been Russian prisoners for about 30 hours.

They were taken to American military police headquarters for questioning immediately after their release.

Western sources said the Russians arrested two British soldiers today.

At the same time, West Berlin police headquarters said another ranking officer of the East German Communist police - Col. Ernst Bollow, commander of the one of four units assigned to seal off West Berlin from the Soviet zone - asked for political asylum.

Bollow said he fled because the Communists were converting the police to a "civil war army." His wife and three children, rode into West Berlin by elevated train.

West Berlin police said the two British soldiers were arrested when they rode past the last West Berlin stop on the elevated railway into the Soviet zone.

American liaison officers kept in constant telephonic communication with Russian army headquarters in hope of getting word of the priests.

It was indicated that unless they were released today the army will make a vigorous protest to the Russians.

The priests, all from the Chicago diocese, and their guide were seized by Soviet troops at gunpoint yesterday after their car strayed a few feet across the border into the Russian zone.

The spokesman said the Soviets had not acknowledged they are holding the priests. But this is not unusual, he explained, since they seldom admit detaining Western citizens until they are ready to release them.

The priests are Martin Borowicz, George Gorski and Bronislaw Sokolowski, all affiliated with the National Catholic Welfare Conference.

Tobacco Barn And Contents Burn

A nearly cured barn of tobacco on the Herbert Warren farm near Pacolet was destroyed by fire yesterday afternoon, marking the first known barn to be lost during the 1952 curing season.

While the barn and all of the contents was a total loss, firemen from Greenville arrived in time to prevent the loss of a shelter and a quantity of tobacco sticks which were housed near the barn.

The barn caught around two o'clock yesterday afternoon. No estimate as to the value of the loss was known at the time, firemen reported.

The destroyed barn was owned by W. S. Stalling, tenant farmer.

Red Pilots Reluctant To Tangle With UN Warplanes; Most Flights Contain Ten Or Fewer Planes

SEOUL, Korea (UP) - Communist pilots have become increasingly reluctant to tangle with United Nations warplanes although the Reds have built up a superior force of 1,900 planes in Manchuria, the 5th Air Force reported today.

The report noted Red MIG-15 jets are appearing in decreasing numbers and most flights contain 10 or fewer planes.

MIGs formerly appeared in flights of more than 100, but the last such flight was seen April 1. The heaviest MIG concentration of the war was 480 on March 3.

The 5th Air Force said the Communists have built up an air force of "between 1,800 and 1,900" planes of all types behind the Manchurian border. It offered no explanation for the Reds' reluctance to fight.

During June, U.S. Sabre jets shot down 18 Red jets for a loss of only one F-86. There were air battles on only six days of June.

Gen. James A. Van Fleet, commander of the 5th Army, called for a big boost in Allied air power as the "cheapest" way of forcing the Communists into agreeing to an armistice. He said greater air strength "is the one thing we need most of all in Korea."

The 5th Air Force announced last week's assault on North Korean power plants completely knocked them out. The summary of damage said they were "rendered unserviceable."

"Left untouched for the past two years, the power plants were attacked after it had been determined that they were supplying electricity used in Communist factories producing weapons, weapon parts, ammunition and other military supplies used against U.N. troops," the Air Force said.

WASHINGTON (UP)—The House which already has hung up an all-time record for investigations, will go right on investigating - dirty books, tax scandals and election frauds among other things—even after adjournment expected this weekend.

Nearly $500,000 was approved by the House this week to continue some current inquiries and fire up several new ones.

That brought the total spent by the House in the 82nd Congress to $3,215,000. Previous record was in the Republican 80th Congress of 1947-48, when House investigators ran up a bill of $2,187,000.

Investigations this year have ranged from alleged wartime Russian massacres to television programs which supposedly go too far with scantily clad females, violent crime and smutty humor. At least three House subcommittees have investigated duplication and waste in military buying, in some cases hearing from the same witnesses on exactly the same material.

The most costly committee this year was the Un-American Activities group, which ran up a $500,000 bill in addition to the salaries of its regular 10-man staff. The House Appropriations Committee spent $445,000 in various investigations aimed at cutting federal expenditures, and plans to ask for another $500,000.

The chairman of the two most controversial new investigating committees have refused to give reporters any indication of the scope of their inquiries, for which the House voted funds yesterday.

President Tells Congress That 'Blind' Leaders Have Undermined Confidence in United Nations Through 'Partisan Attacks'; Terms Report As Final Participation In UN

By DONALD J. GONZALES United Press Staff Correspondent WASHINGTON (UP) - President Truman said today Americans who want to pull out of the United Nations and "go it alone" are advocating a course "that can only lead to the holocaust of worldwide war."

In what he termed his "final report" as President on U. S. participation in the United Nations, Mr. Truman told Congress that certain "blind" leaders have undermined confidence in the U. N. through "partisan attacks."

He did not call any names, but in the past he has directed similar criticism at such Republicans as Sen. Robert A. Taft, Gen. Douglas MacArthur and former President Herbert Hoover.

Expressing confidence that Americans would reject these "voices of despair," Mr. Truman also said the United States and its U. N. partners were "right" to take up arms in Korea to repel Communist aggression.

But he admitted concern about the fact that the United States is still shouldering most of the Korean war burden.

This country, he said, is providing 50 per cent of the ground forces in Korea, 86 per cent of the naval forces and 93 per cent of the total air forces fighting the war.

The "limited" participation of other U. N. nations in Korea, the President said, is a subject of "concern" to the United States. He said this country is continuing to press its allies for larger troop contributions.

Summing up his interest in the U. N. over seven years in office, Mr. Truman said his "paramount aim" has been to work for peace and that the U. N. was the best route to it. He recalled the high hopes for the U. N. when it was organized in 1945.

"But these hopes have been dimmed by the conflicts of the succeeding years and by the hostile attitude of the Soviet Union," Mr. Truman said. "As a result, voices have been raised, questioning the value of the United Nations and the need for maintaining it."

"Some of these attacks are made in a spirit of impatience that can only lead to the holocaust of worldwide war."

"Most of those who urge us to 'go it alone' are blind to the fact that such a course would destroy the solid progress toward world peace which the United Nations has made in the past seven years. I am confident that the American people will reject these voices of despair."

"We can win peace, but we cannot win it alone. And, above all, we cannot win it by force alone. We can win the peace only by continuing to work for international justice and morality through the United Nations."

Defending the Korean war, the President said failure to act might have wrecked the U. N. That would have been the same "dreary road of appeasement that has led from Manchuria to Munich and then to World War II," he said.

Missing In Action

A Pitt County soldier, Pvt. Willie J. Edwards of Route 5, Greenville, today was reported as being missing in action in Korea.

The information was released this morning by the Department of Defense in the nation's capital. Private Edwards was officially reported to be a battle casualty in Korea.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gus Edwards of Route 5, Greenville, neither of whom could be reached this morning.

Faint Sign Of Break In Truce Deadlock; Trouble In Berlin

By HOMER JENKS United Press Staff Correspondent Balance sheet for the week between good and bad news in the hot and cold wars:

GOOD NEWS 1. The first faint sign of a break in the deadlock over repatriation of war prisoners—last remaining obstacle to a Korean armistice—appeared in the negotiations at Panmunjom. Communist truce delegates proposed "reclassification" of all prisoners by nationalities. They suggested those listed as South Koreans be given the right to refuse repatriation, but demanded all North Koreans, Chinese and United Nations personnel be returned to their respective armies, by force if necessary. U.N. delegates asked for a recess to think it over.

2. Secretary of State Dean Acheson's good will tour of Europe proved an unqualified success. Threatened Communist demonstrations against him failed to develop. He soothed British feelings ruffled by American failure to consult the Churchill government in advance of the Yalu River power plant raid in Korea, and reassured West Berliners and Viennese that the U.S. stands solidly behind them.

3. Lt. Gen. Lauris A. Norstad, commanding the Allied air forces in Europe, reported the balance of air power has begun to shift toward the West. He said the Allies now have enough planes to give a good account of themselves and shoot down a lot of Russians in any future war. But, he added, they are still not strong enough to assure victory.

BAD NEWS 1. The Russians continued their pinprick against the West in Berlin. Three American Catholic priests and their German woman secretary were arrested at gunpoint by Soviet troops when by mistake they drove their jeep from West Berlin a scant three feet inside the Soviet zone of Germany. Altogether, Soviet troops or East German police have seized 62 Westerners during the past two weeks.

2. The French government's case against the French Communist Party threatened to collapse. A Paris court ordered the release of Jacques Duclos, imprisoned secretary-general of the party, or grounds that contrary to the government's contention—he had not been caught in the act of committing a crime, and therefore could not be tried unless the National Assembly lifts his immunity.

3. South Korean President Syngman Rhee persisted in his defiance of the Constitution in his efforts to hold on to his high office. He reiterated his threats to dissolve the National Assembly unless it yields to his demand that it turn over to the people its power of electing a president.

More Than 300 Gather For Conference At ECC

Approximately 300 people, largely administrative officers in various public schools of North Carolina, gathered at East Carolina College yesterday for a conference based on the theme "Pleasant Paths for Pupils."

Two panel discussions during the morning and a lecture by Dr. William H. Cartwright, chairman of the department of education at Duke University, were chief program events of the day. Dr. Edgar M. Finck, nationally known educator from New Jersey and a visiting professor at East Carolina for the past several summers, was in charge of the program.

"Our New Athletic Code and How to Make It Work," subject of the first panel, called forth a spirited discussion among a group of seven speakers representing various groups and their points of view. Dean Leo W. Jenkins of East Carolina presided. "The entire athletic program should be kept in the hands of school officials," said Taylor Dodson of the State Department of Public Instruction, Raleigh, in opening the discussion.

Other participants included George S. Willard, principal of the Wilson High School; Reynolds May, Greenville business man; Mrs. Ester Draughton of Clinton, parent; Charles J. Girl Scout Council Here Awarded 2-Year Charter

The Greenville Girl Scout Council today received the first two-year charter granted to it by the national Girl Scout organization.

Charters are given to councils on the basis of volume of membership, number of volunteer leaders, number of troops and the quality of the program provided for the girls of the community.

Previously charters were issued to local scout groups on a 12-month basis but a new plan adopted at the organization's most recent national convention, which was held in Boston in 1951, authorized the extension of the charter period to qualified councils so that they might have the advantage of a longer planning period.

According to Mrs. Bruce Sugg Jr., president of the council, Girl Scouting in Greenville has grown since its first charter was granted in 1939 to a membership of 388. Stress is being placed on such activities as camping, first aid, water sports and safety as a part of the organization's effort to give girls both practical and psychological skills that will help them weather the uncertainties and stresses of life in the modern world.

The new charter, signed by the national president, Mrs. Roy F. Layton, is granted in the name of the Girl Scout national board of directors. It not only authorizes the council to promote and carry on Girl Scouting in its prescribed jurisdiction, but also entitles it to have delegates to the National Council, Girl Scouts of the U.S.A., which determines the organization's policies and procedures.

Taking Long Way Home With Visit To Brazil

By HOMER JENKS United Press Staff Correspondent Secretary of State Dean Acheson is on his way home from Europe but he's going more than 6,000 miles out of his way just to pay a visit to Brazil.

State Department circles say Acheson is taking the long route home solely to make a good-will visit to the largest country in South America. He is due there tonight.

But most diplomatic observers think there's more behind the detour than that. More likely, they believe, is Acheson's desire to show Latin American neighbors that our recent preoccupation with European affairs does not mean we have forgotten them.

There have been some unpleasant things said recently by Nelson Rockefeller, one of Latin America's best friends in the U.S., and a number of Latin politicians along these lines.

In brief, they contended we have been so busy building the North Atlantic Pact, fostering a European army, concluding a separate peace with Germany and fighting the Korean war that we have been neglecting the Southern neighbor we are pledged to protect under the Monroe Doctrine.

Acheson's visit to Brazil should serve as an effective reply to that. He will spend more time in Brazil than in any other country he has visited during his current 18,000-mile tour except Britain. For three days, he will be the official guest of the Brazilian government. Then he will spend two additional days just walking around getting acquainted with Brazil informally.

Moreover, he is the first recent secretary of state to visit Brazil on such an informal basis. His predecessors—namely Cordell Hull and George C. Marshall—went there solely to attend meetings of the foreign ministers of the Americas.

Other U. S. government departments also have been clapping Brazil's hand in friendship. The Navy sent its 37,000-ton carrier Oriskany to Rio de Janeiro two weeks ago and it took President Getulio Vargas — incidentally, a good friend of the U. S. — his vice-president, four Cabinet ministers, 10 admirals, 12 general, a dozen congressmen and a handful of other Brazilian VIP's on a 100-mile cruise.

Then the World Bank, of which the U. S. is the prime supporter, a few days ago approved a $37,500,000 loan to Brazil. This was on top of a $56,740,000 loan authorized by the U. S. Export-Import Bank last month.

America's warm friendship with Brazil is in marked contrast with the coldly correct relations we now observe with her neighbor to the south, Argentina.

Argentina, under President Juan Peron, has spurned the U. S. hand of friendship so often now that we have given up trying for the present. But many Argentines, concerned over their country's increasing economic difficulties, probably look longingly at the handsome benefits of American goodwill being reaped by Brazil.

Footprints To A Pond Evidence Of Death For Four

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UP) — Four sets of footprints leading to a pond—and none returning—were mute evidence that four small girls waded to their deaths near here yesterday.

The tracks in the soft mud, going to the water hole from four neat piles of clothing, were found by two worried mothers who feared the worst—and were right.

Bodies of the girls were pulled from the 12-foot-deep pond by divers within 90 minutes after the mothers screamed the alarm. Drowned were Norma Crunk, 12, her sister Joyce, 9, Bobbie Jean Hudson, 7, and her sister Gloria, 9. All lived at nearby Kerrville.

Damage Suit Filed Against Textile Workers Union

DUNN (UP) — Harnett County Superior Court officials said today a $1,000,000 damage suit has been filed against the Textile Workers Union of America (CIO), its president, Emil Rieve, and 11 other TWUA officials.

Howard E. Parker, manager of the rival United Textile Workers (AFL) Durham joint board, asked damages in the suit for distribution of "defamatory" circulars. It was the fourth $1,000,000 damage suit filed against Rieve and his associates since the union revolt began, according to officials.

Parker, who formerly managed the CIO's Durham joint board, charged that the circulars accused him of "crimes of larceny" and "embezzlement, with breach of trust and with being a Communist."

In addition to Rieve and the union, Parker named as defendants Herbert S. Williams, administrator of the CIO union's joint Durham board; Scott Hoyman, CIO administrator at Erwin; and Stanley Pitkin and W.H. Pice, national CIO organizers now working at Erwin.

Also named were Kenneth L. Kramer, administrator at Leaksville; Blaine Campbell, administrator at Rockingham; Silas Switzer, administrator at Cooleemee; Wayne L. Deroconcourt of Greensboro, state director of the CIO union; and Cree Radcliff and David Christolm, CIO organizers now working in the state.

GOP Intra-Party Feud And Fury To Reach Peak

By JAMES MARLO W

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Republicans are building up an intra-party feud and fury which won't reach a peak till next week. After that it remains to be seen whether the party is too badly split to win the election, no matter who heads the ticket.

At this time Sen. Taft's forces are in almost complete control of the GOP convention machinery, meaning the Republican National Committee which for two days has been hearing disputes involving 72 delegate seats claimed by rival Taft and Eisenhower factions.

With one exception, the committee has voted overwhelmingly in favor of seating the pro-Taft delegates. Before the week's end it will have finished its job and may have decided to seat all the other pro-Taft delegates in dispute.

"That won't be the last word. The Eisenhower people can still appeal to the convention's credentials committee to overturn the work of the National Committee. Failing there, they can appeal to the whole convention to which the non-disputed delegates are now streaming from everywhere.

As they buy newspapers and listen to the radio along the way, they are getting an eyeful and an earful of the bitterness in store for them when the convention opens next Monday.

But whether or not the National Committee, or even the credentials committee, is right is not the only problem facing the convention. The vast majority of convention delegates, of course, are not in dispute.

The rival delegates come from only a handful of states, although they total 72 votes for Taft or Eisenhower, depending upon which faction is finally accepted when the time comes to vote on the party's candidate for president.

But before that time comes, the convention faces the question of the voting rights of the disputed delegates where other disputed delegations are concerned. For example:

The delegates from Florida and Georgia are in dispute. Can the disputed Florida delegation of pro-Taftites vote on the floor for the seating of the disputed pro-Taft delegation from Georgia?

The final outcome in Chicago, and its effect on the Republican Party, is of such serious concern to 23 Republican governors who have been meeting in Houston, Tex., that yesterday they sent a telegram to the convention officials and all the candidates.

They said the good name of the party can only be upheld if "no contested delegation is permitted to vote on the question of seating any contested delegation." Governors favorable to both Taft and Eisenhower signed it.

The Republicans, who have been trying to capitalize on charges of corruption in the Truman administration, weeks ago began making the charge against themselves, particularly in Texas where the Eisenhower follower and the general himself accused the Taftites of "stealing" delegates.

This word has been kept alive and was used again yesterday by Eisenhower's campaign manager, Sen. Lodge of Massachusetts, after the National Committee in Chicago voted to seat a block of Taft delegates from Georgia. Lodge promptly was accused of "rendering a great disservice to the Republican Party" by Taft's Southern campaign manager, Rep. Carroll Reece of Tennessee.

LIBERTY
"Now the Lord is that spirit, and where the spirit of the Lord is, there is liberty."
This is the Biblical version of the Declaration of Independence. It says that liberty is an inner matter, not an outer; that it has to do with the heart, rather than with the form of government. People may live under free institutions and yet be slaves, if they have not yet freed themselves from the tyranny of evil in their lives. Jesus found his contemporaries boasting that they had never been in bondage to any man because they were sons of Abraham; but this Jesus questioned. They were still slaves, he said, who had not yet freed themselves from the bondage of evil within their own hearts.

We may well ask ourselves at this season whether or not we are free. Is America free? America is free if her people are free, and her people are free if they are free on the inside of their lives. Only political freedom is to be found in the instrument which Jefferson wrote, spiritual freedom abides in the new spirit that Jesus brought into the world by bringing it into the hearts of men. The Master put it very bluntly when he said, "If the Son, therefore, shall make you free, ye shall be free indeed."

A Step Back Toward Less Federal Interference

The weakened economic controls pushed through Congress just before the old controls legislation died at midnight June 30 was a step toward less government interference in business of companies and individuals which the American people have wanted and watched for.

Don't misunderstand. There are still plenty of controls on the nation's economy. The government has by no means let the nation go back to the theory of supply and demand. Nevertheless the controls bill now in effect has made certain groups of items exempt from price controls, has relaxed credit restrictions, and has made certain groups of people exempt from the wage controls. These groups, however, remain in a small minority compared with the categories still under price and wage controls.

At the same time, the fact that the federal government has taken a step back toward the recognized system of letting supply and demand regulate prices and economy, it places an added obligation upon the people of the nation to do what they can to prevent the wolf of inflation from eating away at the foundation of the nation's economy.

Naturally if a run-away inflation spiral develops all over again, the cost of mobilization and rearmament will jump by billions of dollars. And the additional billions will have to be paid back by the people; perhaps in a period when dollars are not as easy to come about as they are today.

President Truman's statement on the weakened controls bill was not as heated as many people anticipated. But in it he pointed out that the nation may be able to get along with the weakened controls bill if the international situation does not worsen, or the public does not lapse into another spree of panic buying.

There may not be much the individual citizen can do to prevent a worsening of the international situation, but if the individual citizens hold the line on the home front against inflation, the weaker bill now in effect should be more than adequate to take care of the situation. Without a serious inflation trend at home, the people will be able to look forward to even less government controls when the present bill expires 10 months hence.

Even The Moral Victory Are They Second Guessing

First glance at the federal treasurer figures for fiscal year 1952 looks like the people of the nation may have won a sort of back-handed, moral victory in their battle to keep the government operations within the nation's financial means.

Difficult to find as it is, there must be some consolation in the fact that the government for the past fiscal year is only 5.8 billion dollars in the red instead of the 8.2 billion dollar deficit which was predicted for the year. Nevertheless, we hope no politician tries to convince the American people that a super-wonderful job of saving has been accomplished just because we lack 2.4 billion bucks of being as much in the red for the past year as was anticipated.

There can be little doubt that the federal government would have plunged the full 8.2 billion in the red if the nation's industry could have produced as much as the government wanted to buy. In the last five days of the fiscal year, the government agencies in their customary spending spree managed to boost expenses by some four billion just so they wouldn't have any money left to turn back in to the treasury. What they couldn't spend in cash, they tied up in commitments for future deliveries.

It's just amazing how the federal government can do away with the taxpayers' dollars when it sets its mind to it.

Fundamentally, in spite of the fact that on June 30 the nation was not as much in the red for the past 12 months as earlier predictions indicated, the nation was still living too much beyond its means for its own good.

The sooner the nation gets back to the place that it puts itself on the back for staying within its budget, rather than for going over the budget only five billion instead of eight billion, the better off the nation will be. Administration leaders and representatives in Congress should keep that foremost in their minds in planning for another fiscal year . . . and the years beyond that.

National Whirligig

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON—President Truman may have "mouse-trapped" the overconfident Republicans in the closing days of the 82d session of Congress in the same way that he outsmarted them on the farm storage issue in 1948.

The two questions with which Truman has played practical, poker politics on the eve of the national conventions are capable of setting off emotional explosions in a presidential election year. They concern the steel strike and labor-management relations in general, and the equally excitable subjects of price control, inflation and the cost of living.

He has manipulated these problems in a manner that he may be able to convince millions of workers and consumers—again—that the Republicans and Southern Democrats on Capitol Hill sold them down the river. As he frequently recalls with pride amounting to arrogance, "I liked that combination once, and I can do it again!"

RESPONSIBLE—This conservative coalition on the House side voted for an immediate end of all economic controls. Although the final bill extends them for 10 months, it is far weaker than the original White House program.

The legislators advanced strong arguments for a free market. Inventories of almost all goods are high and not moving fast. Prices in many lines are far below ceilings. Under Truman prodding, the Federal Reserve has removed most curbs on credit in an attempt to encourage buying and an active market. It may be that this loosening of controls will not touch off a sharp and rapid price rise. Many economists maintain that people are not buying for the simple reason that, after taxes, they just haven't got the money.

But if the cost of living climbs upward between now and election—it is at an all-time peak already—Truman's hand-picked Democratic nominee will have an excellent, pocketbook argument against a Bob or Ike ticket. The opposition will be wide open to charges that it was responsible for hiking the cost of everything from mink coats to doughnuts.

RESTRICTIONS—The "mouse-trapping" factor figures in this politico-economic struggle because Truman himself inspired the general movement for easier money and credit. His "whistle stop" demands for controls to safeguard consumers and workers conceal his responsibility for lighting an inflationary green light.

While the Federal Reserve was considering the delicate and complex question of easing restrictions on consumer credit, Truman suddenly terminated the voluntary system under which states, cities and counties had agreed not to issue new bonds except for emergency projects. Once the White House lifted this lid, federal bankers found it impossible to resist demands for an across-the-board elimination of all restrictions. When Truman broke ranks, everybody insisted on the right to follow him.

Removal of restrictions on household appliances—refrigerators, washing machines, furniture, radios, television sets—presented no great difficulty, for they were plentiful. But the Reserve felt that limited restrictions should be retained on automobiles, in view of the large amount of credit figuring in their purchase.

REPEAL—The "big three"—General Motors, Ford and Chrysler—would have been satisfied with requirements for a solid down payment and 18 months for liquidation. But the independent firms insisted on outright repeal, arguing that credit curbs alone were responsible for smaller sales of their makes. Party to prove they were wrong, the Reserve wiped out Regulation W completely.

Truman's economic advisers rejoiced at this move. An active apostle of the emasculated Truman control legislation, Senator Blair Moody of Michigan, threw his weight into the scales for cheap credit. He will need campaign funds and votes to win re-election next November in the motor-car state.

As frequently noted here, Truman's general management of federal finances has been wholly inflationary. Recent bond issues have been sold and priced in such a way that they can feed billions into business, financial and speculative channels at any time. He has snubbed conservative advisers.

JUSTIFICATION—In eliminating price controls, House members cited Truman's policies as precedent and justification. But there is a vast difference between his technique and Capitol Hill's handling of the question.

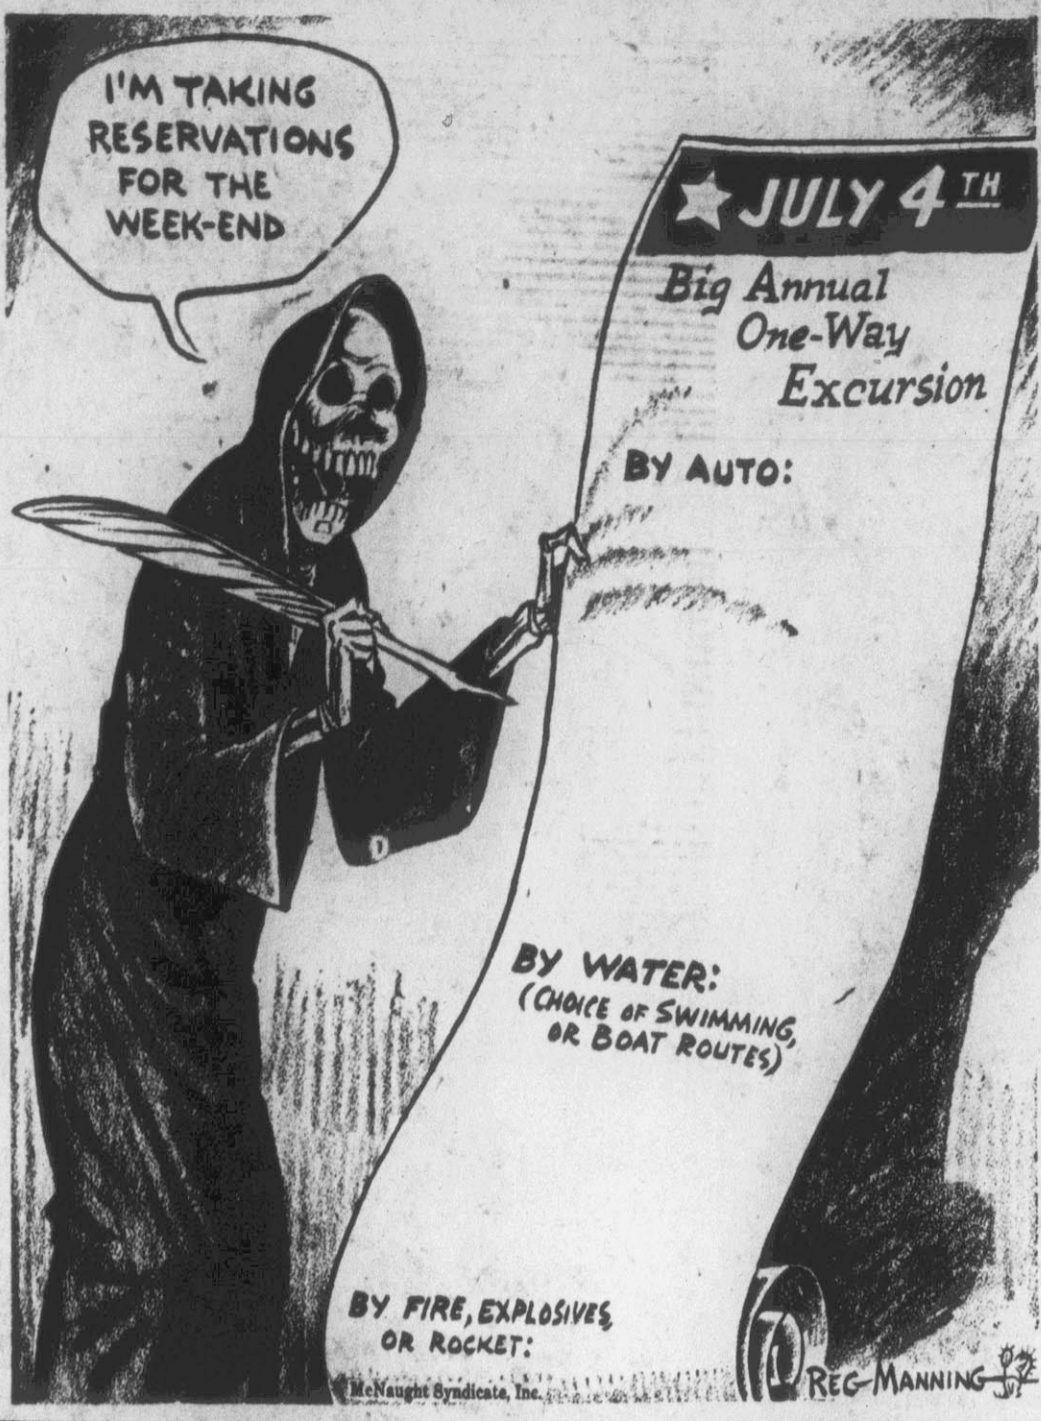

Truman's contribution has been so indirect and technical—few economists understand the operation of price factors, and fewer bankers are monetary experts—that it will be almost impossible for the opposition to explain or capitalize on it. But the coalition's vote for wiping out price safeguards in the House, and the final weakening of the White House program, can be exploited by the most simple-minded politicians and ghost-writers.

PINCH—The steel strike has started to pinch so many segments of the economy, causing unemployment and hardships, that Truman must act soon. His only unexhausted remedy is use of the Taft-Hartley Act.

The president's juggling of this question has been Machiavellian, politically. He has jockeyed Congress into the position of forcing him to use his enemies' statute. Meanwhile, he has almost insured its failure by statements inviting the strikers not to obey an injunction. He hopes thereby to discredit the act and its author, making himself out a hero and Senator Taft a villain.

It may not be statesmanship, but it may be smart, inside politics. It will enable Truman to repeat his 1948 warning that any "farmer or workman (or consumer, the 1952 addendum) who votes against the Fair Deal will be guilty of rank ingratitude."

Holiday Special

Somebody Told Me

By L. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

Fred and Louis Boyd moved to Greenville a few months ago to take over the operation of the local Western Auto Supply store. After they had been here three weeks a series of events got underway that made them wonder what kind of city they had chosen.

Fred lives in the Jordan apartments on the corner of 8th and Cotacote Streets. On a Saturday night he parked his 49 Ford convertible in front of the apartment Sunday he didn't have an occasion to drive and Monday morning he walked to work. When he arrived home for lunch on Monday he noticed that his car was gone. Unable to arrive at any other conclusion, he decided that his car was stolen.

The Police Department told Fred on the telephone that his car had been reported as abandoned and they had pulled it in. For $5 towing and storage charge, Fred got his car back.

About a month ago Fred and Louis bought a Jeep in need of repair. Until the opportunity came to fix it, they parked it in their drive way beside the apartment. One day Louis went home to lunch, noticed that the Jeep was gone. He called Fred to find out if there were any reason the Jeep should not be there, and soon was making another call to the Police Department.

Again, the Jeep was impounded, having been reported to the Police as abandoned. This time it took only $2 to get the Jeep back. Perhaps this has happened so many times that he was given a cut rate.

Two weeks after the Jeep incident Fred and his wife, Betty, went to Winston-Salem to pick up a cocker spaniel. As soon as they came back to Greenville Betty took the cocker, Champ by name, to the local Police Department.

She called together all of the Policemen in view and stated emphatically, "I want all of you to take particular notice of this dog. His name is Champ and he's my dog. If anybody turns him in you may consider yourself notified of the owner."

Since this time the Boyds have had no particular trouble. In fact, they are liking Greenville fine. The moral of this story is to investigate the ownership of a car before you report it abandoned. After all, putting a man's car in the clink is no way to welcome him to Greenville. And I thank you.

Around Capitol Square

GIRL STATE—For the first time in nearly four years the governor's office will be "manned" for ten days without a man. Since Governor Scott inaugurated the policy at beginning of his term of having a special male assistant in addition to his private secretary, there have been three men on the job most of the time. Upon occasions when the Governor and one of the men were required to be away from the office, usually the other man stayed in the office. All three men cleared out last Thursday, Governor Scott and his special assistant, Ben Roney, left for the national governors' conference at Houston, Texas, and John Marshall, who resigned as private secretary, left for his new job with a construction company at Charlotte. Scott and Roney are expected back at their desks next Monday, July 7. Meantime, the office is being efficiently handled by the staff of gal assistants—Misses Louise Strother, Betty Carter and Genevieve Frasier; Messdames Claire Nickols and Sarah Labinger.

WEATHER—The unprecedented heat wave of last week occasioned unusual comment and was responsible for a lot of "funny" business elsewhere than in the mercury tube of the thermometer. Some hardy souls have been able to take the heat in stride, go along about their routine activities in normal manner. Some others have become irritable and short tempered, adding to their own discomfort and bothering their associates—who were equally helpless to do anything about the weather. One philosopher observed quipped the other day that it seems excessive heat brings out the selfish instincts of humans, while excessive cold apparently has the opposite effect. Right now as these words are being typed the idea of excessive cold is academic, the fact of extreme heat is all too obvious. Report on a morning news round-up of a reporter might prove interesting to some readers. For the sake of brevity all the usual bromides such as "It's hot enough for you?" and "It's hot as hell, ain't it?" will be omitted.

AIR CONDITIONING—Air conditioning was almost as prolific as water in furnishing a topic for conversation. There are many state officials and rank and file employees who resent the fact that the Governor's office is air-conditioned at public expense, while they have to swelter without benefit of this relatively new gadget. One woman called up to demand an "investigation" of why the commissioner of revenue had air-conditioning in his office while the folks who do the "real work" in the revenue department do not. Two women and one man stopped your reporter to comment on the letter written by John Marshall, resigned secretary to Governor Scott, asking the buildings and grounds board to put air-conditioning in the executive mansion. One of the women approved the idea; the other woman and the man were real mad about the suggestion that the taxpayers ought to make it comfortable for the Governor and his family to sleep, while they and their families could not afford such luxury.

"TETCHY"—This air-conditioning issue comes close home. The entire first floor of the Sir Walter Hotel is taken up with business offices. The hotel lobby is air-conditioned. So are the offices of the State Democratic Committee, the Highway Employees Association, the Association of Beer Distributors, the Meyer Hotels and the Sphinx Club. That leaves only the office of the Association of the Afternoon Dailies and one other without the cooling devices. Those of us who work in these two ovens can sympathize with the hot and bothered state employees. But at least our tax money is not going to pay for the air-conditioning down the hall.

FIELD WORK—One kind hearted lady was greatly distressed because authorities at Dix Hill State Hospital had sent out a crew of patients to work in the fields "in

What Other Papers Are Thinking

POOR SOIL FOR SEEDS OF PEACE (Henderson Daily Dispatch)

On the second anniversary of the beginning of the Korean war, both sides accused the opposition of responsibility for starting the conflict. Moreover, the anniversary followed by only a few days the saturation bombing of huge hydro-electric plants on the Yalu river, the dividing line between North Korea and Chinese Manchuria, and the American commander in Korea "dared" the communists to launch an all-out offensive in retaliation. "If they do, we will pile them on the barbed wire and maybe end the war," General Van Fleet declared.

There were assertions that United Nations forces—meaning Americans, as usual—have control of the air over Korea. That is a statement in direct contradiction of other recent outgivings which have told of the huge concentration of air power by the enemy in the north which was represented as being more than a match for Allied strength.

The Panmunjon truce negotiations long since degenerated into a sounding board for communist propaganda, and charges back and forth at the brief session on the war anniversary Wednesday were a continuation of that style of talk. Major Harrison told the Chinese that "your treacherous attack against the Republic of Korea" started the conflict, and drew the retort from the Chinese leader that "the United States induced the South Korean army to attack the Democratic Peoples Republic of Korea and started the Korean war." The falsity of that claim is so manifest that it is difficult to understand how even the communists could have the face to offer it.

At least so far as the United States is concerned the man in the street knows full well that the continuation of the conflict is the least thing desired—indeed is not desired at all by this people. Accusations by the enemy negotiators that American and Allied fighting forces cause thousands of miles to start the war are so preposterous as to be unworthy of the unprincipled communist leaders.

The plain fact is, nevertheless, that charges fired back and forth, and the defiance issued, even by the cocky and confident American commander, constitute mighty poor soil in which the seeds of peace may grow. It has come to be axiomatic and proper that fire be fought with fire, on occasions, of which this is one. For the Allied command to sit quietly by and absorb the false accusations of the communists would create the impression among ignorant and uninformed peoples that our side has no answer and that these charges, therefore, are to be accepted as true. So that little opinion is left but to attempt to keep the record straight.

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER
The steel strike has been costing business around $100,000,000 a week.

About 600,000 steel workers walked off their jobs. At average weekly earnings of around $75, that represents a payroll decline of $45,000,000 a week. In addition, an estimated 250,000 other industrial workers have been laid off because of shortages of steel, and that means another $18,750,000 a week.

It doesn't stop there. On the railroads, in the businesses supplying the steel companies and in the stores and service establishments catering to steel employees there have been sharp reductions in overtime and an indeterminate amount of layoffs. The hundred-million-dollar figure may be conservative.

That much lopped off the national payroll means a huge cut in spending. Stores selling largely to steel workers or to employees of shut-down plants have borne the brunt of the decline; some have faced the choice of shutting down or extending credit. Other stores, the mail-order houses and various other businesses have taken losses.

Later on, another group of persons will take a cut. They are those who expect dividends from the steel companies and the other companies that have lost sales, hence profits, as a consequence of the strike.

There are silver, albeit alloyed, linings to the situation. In many states strikers, and in all states those laid off, have been entitled to unemployment insurance. This has partially restored buying power, but the costs come out of taxes. Some of the firms hit by the steel shortage have minimized the reductions in payrolls by instituting plant-wide vacations early.

Meanwhile, the backlog built up by the strike has grown enormously. Before the strike, outstanding orders would require capacity output through September, but only 90 per cent of capacity for the last three months of the year. Now the backlog assures 100 per cent production through the rest of the year and into 1953.

And there is some chance that consumers will become fearful that they may not be able to get new cars and other durables when they want them and will step up buying now.

CAREFREE VACATIONS? YES, BUT NOT TAX-FREE
Vacation time is tax time, judging from a survey by Chicago Clearing House. These are the direct and indirect federal levies on vacation accessories:

Rail, bus, air or water travel, 15 per cent; long distance phoning, 25 per cent; telegraphing, 15 per cent; gasoline, 2 cents a gallon; oil, 6 cents a gallon; inner tubes, 9 cents a pound; cigars, 8 cents a pack; sun tan oil, 20 per cent; luggage, 20 per cent; cameras and films, 20 per cent of manufacturer's price; sporting goods, 15 per cent of manufacturer's price; fishing gear, 10 per cent of manufacturer's price; firearms and shells, 11 per cent of manufacturer's price; entertainment admission, 20 per cent, and liquor, $2.50 a quart.

That's only the beginning. Forty-one states levy from 2 to 8 cents tax on each package of cigarettes; 31 levy 2 or 3 per cent sales taxes, and all states tax gasoline from 2 to 8 cents a gallon.

COMPARATIVE FACTS ON GOODS OFFERED
A new kind of business has been established in New York. Persons planning to buy a television set or other major appliance can get, for 10 cents, literature of various competing companies, plus suggestions as to what to look for in buying, plus the name of the nearest dealer. The inquirer also gets a questionnaire which, if filled out, is good for a $1 credit. Participating manufacturers finance the business.

VIDEO PRODUCTION DOWN ALMOST HALF
Total production of television sets for the year ended May 31 was slightly more than 12,500,000 compared with 23,000,000 a year earlier, the Radio-Television Manufacturers Association announced.

It also announced that inventories were down 670,000, which indicates that sales were higher than the production figure.

18 COLORS NAMED AS HOUSEWARE SELLERS
A palette of 18 colors has been unveiled as "the most promising houseware colors" for the next few years. It was developed by Monsanto with the aid of Faber Birren, color consultant, from researches into sales of floor coverings, paints, textiles, kitchen equipment and consumer preferences.

For mass-market products, the palette offers vermilion red, a soft sun yellow, emerald green, yachting blue, with flame red and cherry red as alternates for vermilion. For the high-style market coral, turquoise blue, avocado green, navy, copper and brown were recommended. Cited as rising in popularity were pearl grey, chartreuse or lime green, forest green, burgundy or wine red, soft rose and black.

NEW PRODUCTS
COLORS: A spray-on hair color, said to wash out with one shampoo, is being marketed by Occasion Cosmetic Co., Hollywood, Cal. In conventional hair colors as well as in blues, greens and violets. It may be used as an all-over hair color, for the streak effect, or for "touch-up" jobs.

NET: Light-weight hair net visors, for women industrial workers, are being marketed in black, red, green, maize and white by General Scientific Equipment Co., 2700 W. Huntington St., Philadelphia 32. The green opaque visor cuts glare.

Hal Boyle's Column

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Some American husbands, complaining that matrimony has made them work, threaten their wives darkly:

"But remember - even a worm can turn."

Other, more practical men, know this is idle nonsense. What can a worm do even if he does turn? Nothing. There have been cases of rabbits biting bulldogs, but whoever heard of a worm busting a robin in the back?

A group of sensible husbands, realizing a turning worm gets nowhere but does thereby gain some exercise, have banded together in a kind of a worm-of-the-month club.

The club, national in scope, is called "The Worms Turnverein," and its motto is, "I am the master of my soul, subject to my wife's control." The club crest is a small worm squirming backward and forward at the same time without progress under a woman's high heel.

The purpose of the organization, as outlined in a membership application that came to me in the mail, is "to protest successfully against woman's inhumanity to man, against wife's enslavement of husbands."

To be admitted a husband must answer to the negative when asked, "Are you happy?" The membership committee consists of radio-casters Gabriel Heater and Lawrence E. Spivak, and A. Frank Katzentine, Miami, Fla., attorney.

Most husbands probably would find themselves eligible to join these joyous souls, who meet yearly at Miami Beach in a session known as "The Diet of Worms."

Here are a few of the rules and regulations:

"Any member who wins an important and final victory over his wife in anything is automatically expelled.

"Members are expected to adhere strictly to an unpleasant diet prepared by their wives in the so-called interest of their health. Any member who more than once a week is fed a meal like mother-used-to-cook will be put on probation.

So far I haven't mailed in my own application to become one of "The Worms Turnverein." I have a secret suspicion the club was instigated by a smart wife who commensurate wife objects if her worm turns - just so he understands fully that it will get him nowhere.

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS
WASHINGTON — Don't be the eager beaver and try for a quicker solution in one early session. Overexposure may result in severe sunburn, or even sunstroke.

U.S. Public Health and Red Cross officials say that for most folks 15 minutes is long enough for the first sunbath. Each day after that you can add another 15 minutes.

Even after you get the well-done look, and even when it's cloudy, if the weather's very hot, you've got to be careful. Exposure to intense heat may result in heatstroke or heat prostration.

Doctors say any of these conditions could be fatal. All are serious. All can be prevented by just using common sense. The noontime sun is particularly dangerous to be out in because its rays are short, direct, burning. Sunbathing is safer in late afternoon. Don't forget you can get a bad burn from reflection of sand and water.

Experts recommend suntan lotion - oil or cream - but warn these only give partial protection. Burns, according to the Red Cross, come in three degrees: first, when skin gets red; second, blistered; third, when deeper destruction of tissues occur. Shock and infection are chief dangers.

Call the doctor if burn is severe. Keep victim lying down and warm. If mild, use calamine lotion or dusting powder. In emergencies rip clean, fresh-laundered cloth into wide strips and dip into a quart of warm water mixed with three tablespoons baking soda or epsom salts. Apply to burn. Keep wet.

Too long exposure to the sun causes sunstroke. Prolonged oppressive heat, even indoors, causes heatstroke. Both start with terrific headaches. Everything looks red. Suddenly the victim loses consciousness. His temperature rises dangerously. Some times victims collapse suddenly die within a few minutes.

USPHS suggests the following precautions: Keep out of the heat when you don't have to be in it. Carry a light weight hat, or use an umbrella, when you go out in the sun. Avoid heavy or tight clothing. Don't over-indulge in alcoholic drinks. Take extra baths get plenty of sleep take it easy!

Strange Passage

By William Lynch

AP Newfeatures

CHAPTER XI
After a troubled night, Gardiner stepped deeply into the forenoon. When finally he emerged, slightly shame-facedly, into the patio the sun sat high and cumulus clouds were banking against the south wall of hills—sure sign of a storm in the evening.

Through the heat haze he saw Melisande. She lay easily athwart the hammock, her bare legs, slim and white, strangely out of place against a backdrop of brown earth. She wore a white, open-neck blouse and pale blue shorts and at the sight of her freshness Gardiner's pulse increased. She was reading a book. Paul Gardiner made to surprise her with a noiseless approach when suddenly he saw Danny Sale and all the uncertainties of yesterday came crowding down the corridors of his mind. He stood stockstill and emotionally froze, his mind grappling with the picture of Danny, who sat on the ground at Melisande's feet.

Danny's face, as he inclined it to listen to the girl's reading of the book, was a nice study in still life. Gardiner at once abandoned the projected frolic and a subtle change in his expression indicated that the tete-a-tete over by the hammock presented a new and serious problem of approach. He hung upon the lighting of his pipe and then strolled across the intervening distance.

Danny grunted to his feet as Melisande lowered her book and screwed back her head to smile at Paul.

The broad, vacant face of the overseeing Danny was void of expression and only in the eye, deep-set and like opals, was there any sign that life and movement really did exist within the gross, shapeless head. But the eyes were remarkable. They glowed with the subdued mesotints of unpollished gems, an effect heightened by the thick, bulging, coarse eyebrows that cast their shadows over and dispersed any reflections that the eyes may have given out.

Melisande continued to smile, a kind of fixed, nameless expression, and after a while she swung an arm free and waved Paul toward the hammock. The little spell was broken and Paul joined her and sat near her feet.

"The first duty of a caretaker is to take care," he began, reminiscently. "My darling—why this indecent display of intellectualism before lunch?" He took the book and read the title "Our old friend John Taylor again. Well, beggars can't be choosers, I suppose."

Danny didn't speak. But now he made to slide away. Gardiner signalled him back. "Don't go, Danny. I was merely being facetious, but soon he's under in the shade and you're neither a mad dog nor an Englishman."

Melisande said: "I've been reading to Danny about the Oedipus, Paul." Gardiner turned with deliberation. "What do you think of the Oedipus, Danny boy?"

"I don't understand much about science, Mr. Gardiner." As he spoke his eyes caught and held a momentary glimmer of reason, but soon they shrank back to their mysterious wells.

"Aren't you getting Danny a little out of his depth, Sandy?" "I don't think so. In fact, Danny was telling me about a man whom you might go so far as to say was in love with his own daughter."

"Really?" "The fact is—tell him, Danny."

"Fact is," Danny took over, "he was so crazy in love with the girl that he was capable of doing a killing on her account."

"And did he?" The stem of Paul's pipe was trembling between his teeth.

"I don't know," Danny said. "It's not all over yet, but it does go to show."

"Goes to show what?" "Goes to show what a strange lot of cattle we are. All these complexes an' things—killin' 'n lovin' 'n hatin'—an' lovin' where we got no right to love 'n wantin' to escape—afterwards—"

"Escape, Danny?" "Yes," Danny looked up queerly. "I suppose all of us is tryin' to escape from somethin' or another."

Gardiner was irritated. "Well," he said, "right now I'm ravenous. What about stoking up the stove for lunch?"

"Now, this business of tryin' to escape—" Danny made to resume, Paul curiously stopped him.

"I think we've had it, Danny. Lunch is more urgent than anything right now."

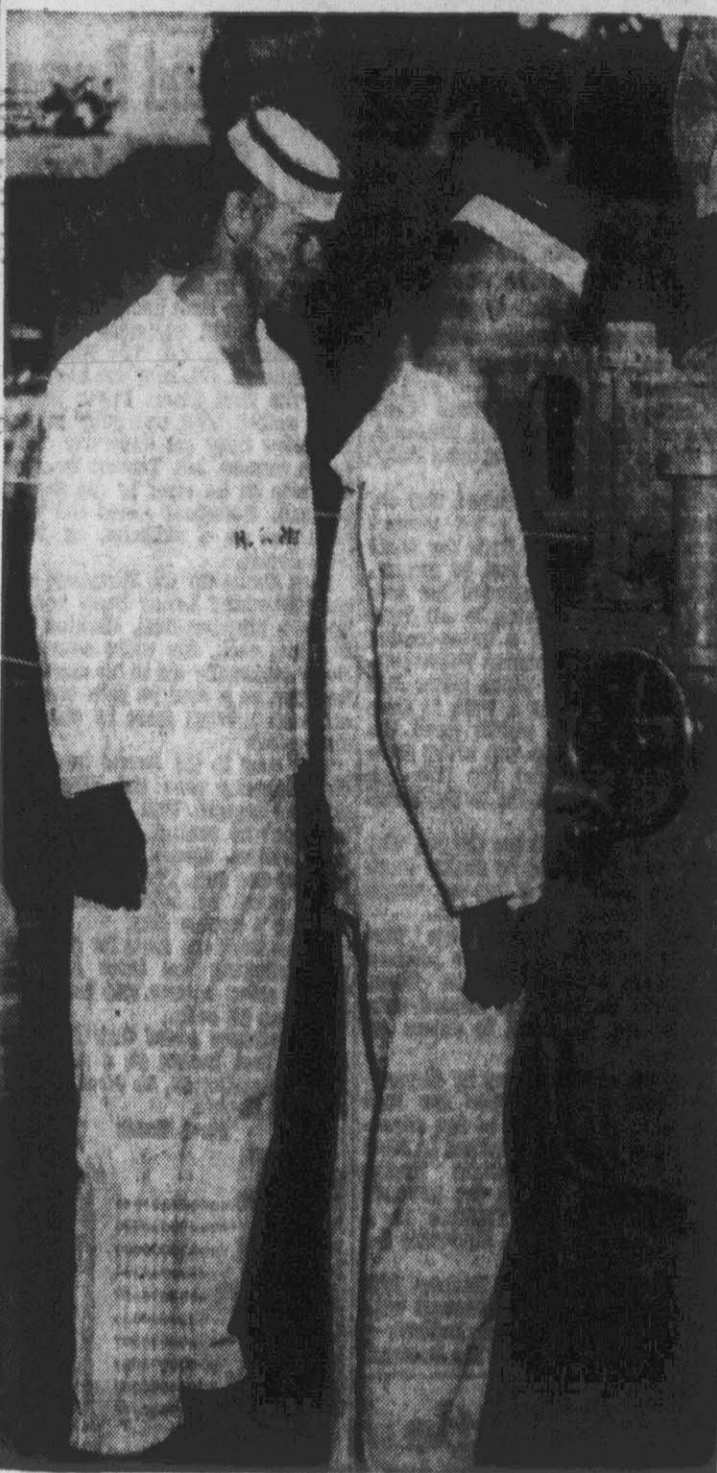

Gardiner followed the ambling gait, studied the arms that swung loosely over thick hips, marvelled at the gross body that was seemingly too ponderous for the squat legs. He felt particularly unforgetting towards the intruding presence of Danny, who so instantly aroused anger and a new set of fears. He was, moreover, frightened by the violence and harnessed strength in the appearance of the other and though he strove to sidestep the issue the conviction was fast growing that Danny Sale's sudden and all-too-coincidental presence at Berowra Waters was no accident. He began to hope that this uneasiness would soon wear off, yet he would not allow himself to be trapped into a false position of security.

As for Melisande she was bewildered by Paul's curt dismissal of the caretaker. Distressed, she left the hammock and sat on the edge of a rock in the sun, her knees bent to her chin and her face thoughtfully cupped in her hands.

"Don't be upset, Sandy," Gardiner stood behind her, e'd known that she would not approve his attitude towards the caretaker. "Oh, you were horrible, Paul!" Melisande was upon her feet and red indignation stalked across her eyes. "You should have been kind to Danny."

Paratrooper's Jump Landed Him Into Bavarian Business

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—During the last days of the war, paratrooper Fran Hoffman of Madison, Wis., had to bail out over Bavaria. It was the luckiest jump of his life.

Fran, a captain in the 101st Airborne Infantry, made a discovery there which helped him and his brothers to organize and operate a million-dollar-a-year business.

The officer was taken in by a Bavarian family. At his first meal he tasted a mouth-watering sauce made by the good hausfrau.

Fran couldn't get the woman to tell him the secret recipe, but when he got back home he still remembered the taste.

Finally with the aid of a chef he started experimenting with Fran as the "taster." It took six months and the former officer tasted gallons and gallons of sauce but after mixing all sorts of ingredients and seasoning, they made it.

Fran and his brothers set up a company to bottle the sauce. Before long they were doing a booming business with an international flavor. One woman sent a bottle to her brother who owns a restaurant in Hong Kong. Back came an order for 30 gallons. Fran says he wouldn't be surprised someday to get an order from a Bavarian inn.

The story of the Hoffman brothers started back in 1941 and is told by the Veterans Administration. Two of the brothers, Fran and Bob ran a campus lunchroom at the University of Wisconsin. Fran was the chef and Bob the cashier.

World War II came along and the brothers answered the call. In all, there were nine Hoffman brothers. All but Tommy, who was too young, joined up. All came home except Bud, who was killed on his birthday Feb. 14, 1944, while flying his next to last mission in the Pacific.

After the firing ceased the brothers joined forces and the Hoffman House, an eating place and the dream of two college kids, became a reality.

The boys had to have some help, of course, and they floated a couple of loans under the GI bill of Rights. They turned out to be a good risk for the government.

The brothers display real teamwork. Fran got a law degree and handles legal matters for the firm and sits in at the piano sometimes in the evening. The others act as general manager, host, bookkeeper, chief bartender, and cafe photographer. Young Tommy pitches in after school.

CLEVELAND, O. (UP)—A back-ache from planting tulip bulbs might be avoided by a labor-saving tool devised by Joseph Becka. After the gardening chore last year, Becka said he began thinking there must be an easier way of planting than the bending-over method.

In his basement, Becka built his "E-Z-Dig." It consists of a length of steel tubing, 2 inches in diameter, fitted to an old spade handle. The tubing end was sharpened, a hole cut through the tube about nine inches from the point, fitted with a "step-on bar."

Senator Charles Toby Acts As A Marital Advisor

WASHINGTON (UP)—Bible-quoting Sen. Charles W. Tobey practices as well as preaches the rule of helping others.

After publication of his book, "A Return to Morality," which explains the senator's philosophy, the New Hampshire Republican's office was flooded with mail.

Many wanted to know more about the Senate crime investigation committee. Some did not mention organized corruption. Among the letters was one from a man whose wife had left him. It read:

"My friends in your district tell me that you can do anything. So I wish you'd see if you can get my wife to come back to me. She has left me. But I love her very much, and I want her back."

Tobey wrote back: "I will do my best. Send me your wife's address."

Shortly thereafter the woman received a letter from the senator. It said: "Marriage is a holy bond and your husband loves you very much."

He didn't get an answer from her.

Some time later, however, the senator received a message from "You are wonderful!" he wrote. "My wife is back with me again. I am the happiest man in the world."

'Big Jack' Is Dance Evangelist

OMAHA, Neb. (UP)—A self-styled "evangelist" of square dancing is Big Jack Hohlis, Alhambra, Cal.

Hohlis, here for a dance festival, said a lot of this nation's ills would be cured if people spent more time square dancing. He said the old-time dance has saved many marriages by giving couples a common interest for spare time.

The lowering caller, who is physical education supervisor for the Alhambra School System, said he takes his square dancing seriously and would like to spark a "revival" on a national scale.

COLLEGE BOYS, MAYBE POCAHONTAS, Ark. (UP)—Sheriff Rex Harper is beginning to wonder about some burglars here. In two recent thefts, the only items taken have been women's girdles.

The Sport Reflector

By BOB WELDRUP

While browsing through the Bible of baseball, the Sporting News, we came across a series of articles that set us thinking. These articles were concerned with the giving of large bonuses to untried players in order to have them under contract.

As an example take the case of Frank Baumann. Just recently the Boston Millionaires, better known as the Red Sox, kicked in with $25,000 in order to obtain his autograph.

In the last several years the newspapers have been full of stories of ball clubs paying these fantastic prices. But let's stop and think. How many of these "bonus babies" are still performing in starting roles? Off hand we can name only four: Robin Roberts and Curt Simmons of the Phillies, Jackie Jensen of the Washington Senators and Johnny Groth of the Detroit Tigers.

How long, we wonder, can the major league clubs continue to lose good money after bad?

As we see it this business of paying bonuses is going to result in one of two things. Either (1) the rich clubs, such as Detroit, the Yankees, Braves and Red Sox, and maybe a couple more, are going to corner the market and thereby carry off all the talent; or (2) the fellows that are slinging the money around now are going to get stung and things are going to revert to the days of the five and ten thousand dollar bonus instead of the fifty and hundred thousand dollar ones.

Now let's take a look at these alternatives. First the idea that the more profitable clubs might possibly carry off all of the better amateurs.

That in itself is impossible. Although money never hurt anyone, neither has it ever enabled a ball club to buy up all the good players. Under the bonus system a club might conceivably get one or two outstanding stars but never enough to really endanger the existence of its competitors.

More likely, however, is the second suggestion. Sooner or later the richer clubs are going to get stuck. No team, no matter how rich, can keep on shelling out for fellows who don't come through.

So from where we sit it seems that the day of the fabulous bonus is a waning thing, and that poverty for the high school athlete is just around the corner.

Although the Greenville Robins are no longer in existence, the players who performed with them are still going strong. Bobby Harrison, who pitched here several years back, has just broken the Class C Cotton State League record by compiling a mark of 14 consecutive wins without defeat.

In one instance Bobby hurled a 6-3 win over Pine Bluff in the opener of a doubleheader and then returned to hurl seven innings in relief in the second game for two triumphs in one afternoon.

Many Coastal Plain League fans will remember Bobby Slaybaugh who pitched for Goldsboro last year. In spring training with the St. Louis Cards just a few months back, Bobby was hit in the face by a line drive.

As a result an operation had to be performed for the removal of an eye.

Most sportswriters who covered the accident seemed to think that this meant the end of Bobby's career. Instead of giving up Bobby returned to the hill as soon as his doctor would permit and at present is performing for Omaha of the Class A Western League. In his first stint on the mound he hurled 6 1-3 innings of relief against Colorado Springs and gave up only two hits. Pretty good for a fellow with only one eye.

Greenville Woman Makes Good Catch

While fishermen from this area generally head for the seashore in search of sport, Mrs. Clara Kornegay of 1205-B Pitt Street yesterday went out to the little stream that runs behind Greenwood Cemetery on the Washington highway. Here is her box score: One that weighed 11-4 lbs.; two that weighed 10 lbs.; three that weighed 8-3 lbs.; and four that weighed 8-4-5 lbs.

New Phillies Head Sparks Team Drive

By JOE REICHLER

AP Sports Writer

Fatherly Steve O'Neill has discarded Eddie Sawyer's austerity program and replaced it with a more popular plan that appears to be putting new life into Philadelphia's awakening Whiz Kids.

Under his kindly guidance, the Phillies have been playing a brand of baseball utterly devoid of the early-season futility that stamped them as the biggest disappointment of the year.

Since the 61-year-old O'Neill took over as Philadelphia manager last Saturday, the Phils have won four out of six from Brooklyn and New York, the top two clubs in the National League. Under Sawyer, the Phils won 28 and lost 35.

Wise old Steve refuses to take the credit but in his first meeting with his new team he told the players all of Sawyer's austerity program, except the curfew, was out. There was to be a midnight and 2 a. m. deadline for day and night games but the players could have cars, cards, wives, golf clubs and swim suits with them.

Brilliant pitching by Robin Roberts and Russ Meyer plus timely hitting by outfielders Bill Nicholson and Mel Clark gave the Phils a sweep of their doubleheader with Brooklyn, 4-3 and 2-1, and three wins in the four-game series.

The double defeat cut the Dodgers' first-place margin to three games over the Giants, who lost a grand opportunity to pick up more ground by dropping a 2-1 decision to the Boston Braves.

Cleveland's Indians picked up a full game on the front-running New York Yankees, taking their second straight overtime tilt from the Browns, 3-2, while the Boston Red Sox were beating the champions, 5-4. Chicago's White Sox nipped Detroit, 3-2, and Philadelphia's Athletics dropped Washington into fifth place with a 4-1 triumph over the Senators.

Chicago's Cubs solidified their hold on third place in the National, pasting a pair of defeats upon Pittsburgh, 8-3 and 3-0.

Harry Brecheen pitched the St. Louis Cardinals to a 3-0 victory over the Cincinnati Reds for their 12th victory in the last 16 games. Enos Slaughter continued his batting rampage, driving in all runs in the eighth with a bases-loaded double off loser Herman Wehmeier.

A home run by pinch hitter Bill Nicholson following a walk to Connie Ryan in the eighth gave the Phils the nightcap win after Roberts had registered his 11th triumph with a six-hitter in the opener.

A home run beat the Giants. The blow was delivered by rookie Jack Dittmer following a two-out single by Bob Logan in the eighth.

Hank Sauer blasted his 21st homer as Warren Hacker pitched a two-hit shutout for the Cubs. Darkness limited this second contest of the twin bill to seven innings.

Perfect relief pitching by 41-year-old Alton Benton helped the Red Sox grab the rubber of the three-game set with the Yankees in New York. The heavyweight hurler stemmed a threat in the seventh and retired seven Yankees in a row to safeguard Sid Hudson's 5-4 lead.

A pinch single by Barney McCosky drove in Dale Mitchell with the run that gave the Indians a 10-inning triumph over the Browns.

Greenville Giants Battle Sharpsburg In Twin Bill

The Greenville Giants, currently sporting a 7-7 record, will play a doubleheader with Sharpsburg tomorrow. The first game is scheduled for the Sharpsburg field tomorrow afternoon with the second contest being played at Guy Smith stadium at 8 p.m.

Two new players have been added to the local club, Irving Langley and Willie Lee. Lee will start at the right field post.

Five players are currently hitting over the 300 mark. They are: Underwood, 356; Winston, 352; Clemmons, 347; Bellamy, 338; and Spain, 328.

Manager Price is planning to send Leroy Smith to the mound to pitch the opening contest at Sharpsburg tomorrow. Smith is the owner of a 2-3 record.

The starting lineup for the game will be: Carr, cf; Spain, ss; Winston, 3b; Clemmons, c; Harris, 1b; Bellamy, 2b; Lee, rf; Whitfield, lf; and Smith, p.

On Sunday the Giants will play the Brooklyn Cuban Giants. The Cubans have long been known as one of the nation's strongest Negro teams.

Only Eight Posts Remain In Raleigh

RALEIGH (AP)—Eight berths remained open in the final qualifying trials today in the 200-mile National Championship Auto Race at the Southland Speedway here tomorrow. Thirteen drivers qualified yesterday, making a total of 16. Troy Ruttman of Lynwood, Calif., winner of this year's Indianapolis 500-mile Race, topped the qualifiers yesterday. He turned in the fastest time to date for the one-mile track, 101.10 miles per hour.

Evans And Bryan Hurl For Victors

The Exchangeites scored an unearned run in the top of the fifth inning in the first game of a Little League twinbill yesterday to edge the Kiwanians, 2-1. The Elks won the nightcap, 4-1, over the Lions.

In the first game, Frank Steinbeck walked with one away as the Exchange rally got underway. Billy Clapp fanned, but Tommy Braxton was safe on an error by the second baseman. Steinbeck scored the winning run on a singleton by Billy Neal James.

Dick Evans for the Exchange and the Kiwanians' Lanny Berry hooked up in a pitching duel, allowing but two hits each. Six walks issued by Berry eventually led to his downfall, however, as a base on balls touched off each scoring spree by the Exchangeites.

Two runs in the second inning of the nightcap gave the Elks their winning margin. Phil Davis singled to begin the inning, and Louis Arthur walked. Lucian Bryan singled to score one run. The second runner came home as Milton Harrington hit into a double play.

Bryan went the route for the winners, allowing but three hits. He fanned seven batters, and issued but two bases on balls.

The winners added their first run in the first inning on a single by Milton Harrington, an error, a walk, and two flyouts.

By CHARLES WHITING

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—The United States today was left holding nothing but the bag as far as the three big international tennis championships are concerned.

Australian ace Frank Sedgman is the United States champion—at least until September. His doubles partner, Ken McGregor, an in-and-outter, holds the Australian title. And it's going to be either Sedgman or Jaroslav Drobny the champion of Wimbledon.

They'll fight it out on the famed center court tomorrow. Drobny, a Czech refugee who now is a citizen of Egypt, put an end to any American hopes yesterday when he eliminated the last of the Yank contingent, tow-headed Herbie Flam of Beverly Hills, Calif., in a semifinal match, 6-2, 6-4, 6-8, 10-6, 4-4.

Sedgman, probably the finest amateur player in the world, already had gained his final bracket, beating countryman Mervyn Rose, 6-4, 6-4, 7-5, and he'll no doubt rule the favorite when he crosses rackets with the bespectacled Drobny, a southpaw swinger.

So the United States, which has held the Wimbledon men's title since Jack Kramer won it in 1947, is out in the cold.

But the women's title will remain secure in American hands for at least another year. It's just a matter of whose name will be on the cup. Maureen Connolly, the 17-year-old United States champion from San Diego, is making a bid to add the all-England crown to her American title and she could make it.

She plays in a semifinal today against Shirley Fry, a campaigner from Akron, O., who lost to "Little Mo" in the United States final at Forest Hills last year.

Gordon Hurls Win For Home Builders

Seven big runs in the first inning was all that was necessary as Home Builders downed Royal Crown Cola 10-5 in Softball League play yesterday.

Dan Gordon hurled the victory, allowing only five hits. His mound opponent, Edwards, was touched for 11 safe blows, including a second inning home run by Ford McGowan.

Gordon was in command all the way. The seven hits made from his offerings were all singles. Edwards, Royal Crown hurler, was the only player able to hit safely twice.

McDowell and Carawan each hit safely twice to lead the Home Builders to the plate.

Judge Sentences College Athletes

NEW YORK (AP)—Collegiate athletic officials today were pondering the latest recommendations of Judge Saul S. Streit.

Speaking at the sentencing of 11 fixers yesterday in a climax to the big basketball scandal, Judge Streit urged jail penalties for college alumni, boosters or officials who subsidize players. He warned that the nation's colleges hold the fate of intercollegiate athletics in their own hands.

In handing the fixers prison terms ranging from six months to as high as four to seven years, Judge Streit spoke of them as "creeping mice... grown bold like... vicious, cunning brown rats... and all this for the sure-fire dollar."

It took the judge nearly four hours to denounce commercialism in college sports and to pronounce sentence. Some of the defendants had tears in their eyes and one broke down in sobs.

The stiffest prison sentence—four to seven years—went to Joseph Benintende, 43-year-old ex-convict described as the leader of his own betting ring.

Daniel Lamont, 44, Altoona, Pa., manufacturer and real estate promoter, drew six months for conspiracy.

Nathaniel Brown, 34, had his six months sentence suspended because he cooperated with the district attorney's office.

Others sentenced and their terms included Jack Rubinstein, 35, and Jackie Goldsmith, 31, each 2 1/2 to 5 years; Jack Zipf West, 40, two to three years; Nicholas Englis, 28, and Saul Feinberg, 26, up to three years each; Marvin Mansberg, 26, nine months; and Anthony Englis, 25, and Joseph Seroussi, 38, six months each.

The Englis are brothers.

Earl Torgeson Fined For Fight

BOSTON (AP)—Boston Braves' outfielder-first baseman Earl Torgeson was smarting under a $100 fine today for socking New York Giant catcher Sal Yvars in the face and Yvars also was digging down for $25 to pay a fine levied on him.

The two principals in the thubarb which enlivened Tuesday night's game here both got the bad news yesterday from National League President Warren Giles. They played in yesterday's 2-1 Braves' victory but stuck strictly to baseball.

Torgeson got a verbal blasting from Giles for being the "aggressor" while Yvars also was called down for breaking Torgeson's bat on home plate after the fiery Brave had singled in the first inning.

The incident grew out of words between the pair in that opening frame when Yvars complained Torgeson's bat was whacking his shins on the backswing.

Giles also suggested Torgeson apologize, but Yvars declined to accept the apology when offered by Torgeson. Another party to the tussle, pitcher Vern Bickford of the Braves, escaped a fine although he was tossed out of the game by Umpire Larry Goetz.

But Bickford yesterday found his Monday night scrape with Umpire Lon Warneke catching up with him as Giles fined him $25 for that episode.

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Judges 1:1-3:6; 21:21-25.

While the death of Joshua, Jehovah appointed Judah, saying, "Judah shall go up: behold I have delivered the land into his hand."

When the Israelites prepared to take the city of Bethel, their spies saw a man coming out of the town. They asked him to show them the entrance, promising to spare his life if he did.

An angel of the Lord reminded the Israelites of all Jehovah had done for them. But they had disobeyed Him by sparing the inhabitants. They would be a thorn in his side, He promised.

After the death of Joshua, and the elders and judges appointed by Jehovah, the people forgot their God. They married heathen women and worshiped idols.

on the Time of the Judges

SENATOR APPOINTED WISE MEN TO AID HIS PEOPLE

Scripture—Judges 1:1-3:6; 21:25. AN CAMPBELL... We go back to the time of the judges...

It is so easy for man to forget God's goodness and to do for him, and to evil ways. If he could see how much happier he would be if he obeyed the laws of God...

Joshua had died, the man who had led the Israelites after Moses' death, and had conquered the people of the land Jehovah had promised them. He had made the walls of Jericho to fall; and had ordered the sun and moon to stand still to give this people a victory over their enemies.

Who would take the place of this great leader? Jehovah appointed Judah, saying, "Judah shall go up: behold I have delivered the land into his hand."

Judah asked his brother, Simeon, to go with him, promising him that if he would "come up with me in my lot, that we may fight against the Canaanites; and I likewise will go with thee into thy lot." Simeon did as his brother wished.

The first part of the book of Judges tells how the Israelites divided up the land, conquering one section after another and assigning their land to this one and that.

Caleb, one of the agents who was sent out to spy the land for his people, offered to give his daughter, Achah, to whoever would conquer the land he had chosen.

His younger brother, Othniel, won the girl, and the book tells how she went to her father later and asked for his blessing. He had given her a south land and now she wanted springs of water. He gave them to her.

During Joshua's life the people faithfully served Jehovah. So did they during the life of the elders who had seen the wondrous works of Jehovah in their behalf, in leading the people out of the land of Egypt, protecting them in their wanderings in the wilderness, and helping them to conquer the promised land.

When all that generation had died, the people forgot their God. They married heathen women and worshiped idols.

WOMEN DRIVE WELL LINCOLN, Neb. (UP)—A analysis of 1951 automobile accidents in Lincoln did nothing to back up wise cracks about women drivers. It showed 7,403 men involved in traffic accidents, compared to 1,362 women.

CHICAGO (UP)—It's the unburned alcohol in a drinker's system that makes him tipsy, not the amount he consumes. By spacing drinks properly, a medical consultant claims a 160-pound man can down a pint of 100-proof liquor in 24 hours without showing any signs of intoxication.

Writing in the Journal of the American Medical Association, the consultant said the only reliable way to determine a person's state of intoxication is to test the per cent of alcohol in his blood or breath. This is because the body continually oxidizes alcohol. Five shots of whiskey, each containing a half-ounce of pure alcohol bring two and one-half ounces of alcohol into a drinker's system.

In three hours, a normal man's body oxidizes one ounce, leaving only one and one-half ounces. "The average 150-pound man oxidizes and eliminates about seven to 10 cubic centimeters of absolute alcohol per hour," the consultant said. Factors in the rate of oxidation are the amount of food in the stomach, stomach dilution of alcohol and the drinker's general physical and emotional condition.

OLD FASHIONED FUNERAL IN CHICAGO—Relatives and friends crowd the street following a horse-drawn hearse, said to be one-hundred years old, bearing the body of Elder Lucy Smith, a Negro, after departing from the All Nations Church in Chicago. Charge Russians With Killing Poles gressional report officially charges Russia with killing 15,000 Polish officers 12 years ago on a pattern duplicated by the Reds in Korea. This, said Rep. O'Konski R-Wis was the unanimous verdict of a special House committee which heard 150 witnesses in this country and Europe while probing the 1940 Polish massacre in Katyn Forest, near Smolensk, Russia. The report was prepared for presentation to the House. It may include specific recommendations considered by the committee for "appropriate action" against the Russians by the United Nations Assembly and the World Court and for international investigation of any other Soviet atrocity.

O'Konski, a committee member, told a newsman the report says that, in at least two respects, Communist methods in Korea are an exact duplicate of practices uncovered in the Katyn massacre.

He said one was the method of killing the victims. The second, he said, was the "run-around" at the Panmunjom truce negotiations where the whereabouts of missing U.N. troops.

The Polish officers disappeared in 1940 from Russian prison camps. Three years later German authorities discovered crime graves at Katyn Forest from which 4,268 bodies were exhumed.

The Nazis immediately claimed the Russians were responsible. Moscow replied that the Germans had killed the Poles after capturing the Smolensk area.

Capitol Square
(Continued from Page Four) expressed the thought it was terrible for the state to make prisoners work on the roads in such heat. Apparently it did not occur to either that most other people went about their usual duties, and that the patients and prisoners were probably more comfortable at work in the open than they would have been cooped up in close inside quarters.

R.E.A.—Report of the State Rural Electrification Authority made to Governor Scott as of June 30, 1952, is a combination of review and forecast. The report indicates that since Scott came into office in January of 1949, there have been built 19,256 miles of rural power lines, serving 140,947 new customers, of whom 66,000 are farmers. The anticipated cumulative totals by next January 1 are estimated to be 75,500 miles of rural lines, serving 493,600 customers, of whom approximately 260,000 will be farms. During the past three and a half years approximately 186,000 telephones have been installed in North Carolina, which represents approximately a 40% over-all increase. Of the total additional installations approximately 64,156 have been in rural areas, and it is estimated that one half have been installed on farms.

VAGUE—The report leaves a lot of vagueness in minds of the people who read it. Nearly every item is hedged with "approximate" or "estimate" and there is no indication of how much of the work was done by REA units and how much by privately managed corporations; nor is there any suggestion of how long beforehand the expanded services had been planned or how private capital investment was required in exchanges to service the REA lines.

"GRATIFYING"—It is gratifying to note, however, that by end of this year 90% of North Carolina farms will have electricity, and that the deficiency in rural telephones is being rapidly relieved. The long lapse of war years when no construction of this type could be undertaken occasioned a serious deficit in service, which both privately managed and government sponsored companies have been striving to wipe out.
