Important Results Anticipated By Truce Negotiators Following Five-Day Recess Granted Reds

PANMUNJOM, Korea (UP) — Allied truce negotiators expected the Communists to come up with something "extremely important" when truce negotiations resume tomorrow after a five-day recess.

Allied officers positively refused to commit themselves on the nature of the expected "break" in the negotiations. Nor would they say whether they thought it meant a speedy end to the Korean war was imminent.

Two moves by the Communists hinted strongly that important decisions have been made in Peiping Pyonghang and possibly Moscow.

In apparently related actions, the Reds asked for an additional two-day recess in the armistice talks here and announced over Peiping radio that the Chinese Communists recognized the Geneva Convention for the treatment of war prisoners.

In a liaison meeting this morning, the Reds informed the U.N. that Maj. Gen. William Dean has been shifted to a new prisoner of war camp in North Korea.

The U.N. hoped a new Red proposal would break the deadlock over forced vs. voluntary repatriation of war prisoners, the last issue blocking a Korean cease-fire.

There was speculation the Reds might suggest that once prisoners have been turned ove. to a neutral "protecting power" for supervision, an immediate cease - fire be declared. Then the neutral power could mediate the prisoner exchange issue during the truce.

Liaison officers informed the U.N. that they have closed down three North Korean prison camps, including the one in which Dean has been held, and established six new ones. They gave no explanation for the move.

Dean was captured in August, 1950, while commanding disorganized elements of the 24th Infantry Division during the Communists' first big surge into South Korea.

SEOUL, Korea (UP) U.S. warships carried the war to the Communists while bad weather bogged down U.N. ground and air forces.

The 45,000-ton battleship Iowa led the assault from the sea on Red ground positions yesterday, hammering mortar and gun positions and dug-in troops at the eastern end of the battle line.

The Iowa and the destroyer Kimberley destroyed four heavy guns, damaged four more, burned out four bunkers and wrecked coastal installations.

Farther north at Wonsan, the destroyers Hollister and Gurke pounded a key rail bridge, transportation centers and rail junctions.

On the ground, U.N. infantrymen repulsed minor Communist probes in the western and eastern sectors. Communist artillery and mortars pounded the Allied lines with 8,237 rounds, more than twice as many as in the previous 24-hour period.

District's Democrats For Russell

Delegates Prepare For National Convention; Caucus Sunday Evening

When sectional political banners are unfurled at the Democrat national convention in Chicago next week, emblazoned upon the first N. C. district's standards will be the name of Sen. Richard Russell.

John G. Clark of Greenville, one of the district's two delegates to the convention, said this week the Georgia senator will receive this district's two votes for the party's nomination for president.

"The decision was made in the first district caucus at the state convention in Raleigh last June," Clark declared. "At that time, our delegates voted to cast their votes for Russell on the first ballot and use their own judgement in any further balloting."

Embracing 14 counties in this immediate area, the first district will be represented by two delegates and two alternates at the national convention. Delegates are John G. Clark of Pitt County and Emmett Winslow of Perquimans County Alternates are C .D .Martin of Martin County and Floyd Griffin of Chowan County.

Pitt County

Another Pitt County man, Jack Spain, will attend the convention as deputy sergeant-at-arms. Secretary to Sen. Clyde R. Hoey, Spain has already expressed his favor for Senator Russell as the party's nominee for president. Herbert Bonner of Washington, first district congressman, will also attend.

Clark stated earlier this week the first official meeting of the N. C. delegation will be its caucus Sunday night at 8 o'clock in the Conrad Hilton Hotel. At that time a chairman of the delegation will be chosen and a national committeeman and committeewoman elected.

Miss Beatrice Cobb of Morganton has served for years as national committeewoman, and Jonathan Daniels of Raleigh has been national committeeman for the past few years. Both Clark and Spain have announced their intention of supporting Mrs. B. R. Everett of Palmyra for committeewoman, and the names of Rep. Robert L. Doughton of Sparta and former Gov. R. Gregg Cherry of Shelby have been mentioned as possible contestants for national committeeman.

JOHN G. CLARK
Convention-Bound

This year will mark the first time the first district's two delegates—Clark and Winslow—have ever attended a party convention on a national level. Clark and his daughter, Carolyn, left by plane for California Tuesday, and he will fly back to the convention in Chicago this weekend.

The 14 counties included in the first district are Beaufort, Camden, Chowan, Currituck, Dare, Gates, Hertford, Martin, Pasquotank, Perquimans, Pitt, Tyrrell and Washington.

Polio Rate Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Public Health Service today reported 1,047 new cases of infantile paralysis in the nation last week. That was 426—or 67 per cent—above the 621 for the week ended July 5.

The new report brought the total for the "disease year"—the period starting with the week ended April 5—to 4,032 cases. In 1949—the peak year for reported poliomyelitis cases—the total for the same period was only 3,873. Only 2,557 cases had been listed at this time last year.

The record 1949-50 "disease year" listed 42,638 cases.

A part of last week's increase, the service said, probably was caused by delay in reporting cases of the previous week which had shown an increase of only 6 per cent.

Truman Appeals For No Betrayal

Says 'Deals' Made Democrats The Strongest Party

CHICAGO (UP) —President Truman says "there must be no betrayal of the New Deal and the Fair Deal" by the Democratic national convention.

"We should all remember that we are the representatives of the greatest political party in the world," Mr. Truman said in a message that will be published in the convention's official program.

Since 1933, he said, the Democratic Party has "brought this country from the depths of weakness and despair to the heights of national prosperity and international leadership."

"We should all remember that we are the representatives of the greatest political party in the world," the President said. 'No other political organization has done so much, so well, for so many people."

In a similar message, vice-president Alben W. Barkley said the Democrats will stand on the record set under President Truman and Franklin D. Roosevelt. He said the party "has earned the confidence of the American people."

The President's message said: "There will be voices calling to us to turn aside from the path to victory. We cannot afford to be beguiled by the weary or the faint-hearted. Our answer must be that we will not compromise with the forces of defeatism, or reaction, or fear—that we will not retreat from the great humanitarian principles that have made our country what it is today.

Mossadegh Out, Army Is Alerted

Tehran, Iran, (UP) —Shan Mohammed Reza Pahlevi announced today the resignation of ultra-nationalist Premier Mohammed Mossadegh and ordered the army and police to keep order in this restless capital.

Mossadegh quit because the shah would not agree to his taking over the war ministry personally. Had the shah yielded and Mossadegh also won his demand for unlimited economic and financial powers for six months, informed sources said, the premier would have become virtual dictator of Iran.

Twenty-seven of Mossadegh's National Front supporters in the Majlis, lower house of parliament, immediately signed a motion pledging to support the deposed premier "to the last breath."

Many said they would take sanctuary in the parliament building until Mossadegh has been "rehabilitated." Army troops and police guarded the building.

The Tehran garrison sent tanks and other military vehicles into the city.

Mossadegh left Tehran this morning for his home village of Ahmedabad, about 30 miles west of here.

Demand Planks Calling For Tough Civil Rights Legislation, An End To Senate Filibusters And Denunciation Of 'McCarthyism' At Sub-Committee Hearing

By ROBERT F. LOFTUS
United Press Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO (UP — New Deal Democrats today spurned compromise offers of Southerners, and demanded party platform planks calling for tough civil rights legislation, an end to Senate filibusters, and a denunciation of "McCarthyism."

Rep. Emanuel Celler D-NY) proposed the plank condemning "McCarthyism"—the methods used by Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis) to try to prov. the administration is infested with Communists and fellow-travellers.

Celler said he was particularly concerned about t' issue because McCarthy addressed the Republican national convention.

"We will serve our country ill if we keep silent on this issue," he said. "This is a damnable evil."

A number of witnesses testified before the Democratic platform writing subcommittee, which will make recommendations for a platform to the full resolutions committee.

Middle of the road Democrats and pro-administration Southerners hoped to work out a compromise on the civil rights plank in order to prevent a recurrence of the 1948 southern bolt.

But Celler and Northern and left-wing Democrats vehemently rejected any talk of compromise on the issue.

"We dare not descend from the mountain peak of 1948 as to civil rights," Celler said. "Let not the dead hand of reaction and intolerance guide our action."

He called particularly for a compulsory fair employment practices commission to prevent discrimination in employment. He accused the Republicans, in adopting a plank opposing discrimination in principle, of merely uttering "palaver and innocuous phrases."

"Let us make one plank, plain, simple, unequivocal so that even Eisenhower, with all his naivete and gullibility can understand," he said.

Stanley Gerwitz, chairman of the national executive committee of Americans for Democratic Action, also called for a strong civil rights plank. He warned that minority groups and independents may stage a sit-down strike on election day unless the Democratic patform contains one.

Walter Reuther, president of the United Automobile Workers (CIO), said the platform should include a plank pledging a revision of Senate rules to curb filibusters.

"The civil rights issue is the most important issue in the 1952 campaign," he said. "The most important part of the civil rights question is the issue of majority rule in the United States Senate."

He proposed that the Democrats demand that the Senate be permitted to curb Southern "talkathons" by a simple majority vote. Under present rules, it requires the vote of 64 senators to impose a "gag" rule.

Walter White, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, offered a nine-point civil rights plank on behalf of 52 labor, religious, and minority organizations banded together on the issue.

The hearing room was jammed with spokesmen for the 52 groups, all of whom demanded time to speak for White's proposals.

Southern committee members and delegates in the room kept silent throughout most of the morning hearing. But Sen. John J. Sparkman of Alabama interrupted sharply at one point when a New York witness, Paul Klein, quoted the senator as having said that Negroes would have to vote Democratic because they "have no other place to go."

Sparkman denied the quotation, and Klein apologized.

In testimony before the Democratic platform-writing committee, Gerwitz said the Democrats can't beat Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's Republican ticket in November

Arch Flanagan Is New Head Pitt Farm Bureau

Farmville Native Long Active In Farm Bureau Work; Membership Drive Rally Is Scheduled For August 14

By ROY HARDEE
Reflector Staff Writer

Arch Flanagan, a member of the Pitt County Farm Bureau since its organization some 16 years ago, last night was installed as the new head of the Pitt group at a meeting of the board of directors.

Flanagan steps into the shoes vacated by retiring President William E. Little of Grimesland, who submitted his resignation to the board. Little resigned in order to accept a position with the district office of the State Farm Bureau which covers territory east of Raleigh.

The new president, a native of Farmville, has been active in Farm Bureau work since its organization and for the past three years has served as membership drive chairman for Pitt County.

In addition, he has served in the office of director, community chairman and vice chairman.

Outgoing president W. E. Little discussed and summed up the tobacco referendum to be held Saturday. Little, in speaking to the directors last night, urged "a continued drive among the farmers to get the voters to the polls for the important Saturday balloting."

It was announced at the session last night that Mrs. Charles B. Sewell, past Administrative Director of the Associated American Women of the Farm Bureau, will be the principal speaker for the annual "Kick Off" Rally for the Pitt Membership drive, to be held at the Pitt County courthouse on August 14.

A large turnout is expected to be on hand for the event, it was stated at the session last night.

Mrs. Herman Baker is in charge of making arrangements for Mrs. Sewell's appearance here in August.

Nine Are Listed As 'Delinquents'

Nine Pitt County men, eight Negroes and one white man, are listed by the local Selective Service Board as delinquents.

The men and their last known addresses are: Charlie Robert Moore, Greenville; Leander Kirkman, Route 1, Grifton; Charlie Williams, Route 4, Greenville; and Lee Arthur Brown, Greenville.

Jessie James Darden, Newark, N. J., and Greenville; Wilbert Hines, Greenville; Roosevelt Wilks, Route 2, Greenville; William Jones, Route 3, Greenville; and Kid Brown (white), Greenville.

Anyone knowing the whereabouts of the men who are listed as delinquents are asked to notify the Selective Service clerks in their office in the Municipal Building.

Export Needs To Slow Re-Arming

LONDON (UP) — Britain will slow down its rearmament program to increase production for export, according to Prime Minister Winston Churchill.

Churchill told Commons yesterday the government would take "very grave and far-reaching measures affecting every branch of our national life, both domestic and defensive," to sell more goods abroad and thus pay for the imports Britain needs to exist.

Mrs. Truman Now At Side Of Hospitalized President

Left Ailing Mother To Make Long Trip To Washington; President's Condition Described 'Good' As Check-Ups Start

WASHINGTON (UP) — Mrs. Truman arrived here from Missouri today and hurried to the side of the President who is receiving treatment for a virus infection at Walter Reed Hospital.

The first lady looked tired and rumpled as she stepped from the train after the long trip from Independence, Mo. But she gave the photographers a cheerful "good morning."

As she arrived, the White House announced Mr. Truman spent a "very good night" but that he might run a "little bit" of fever later today. He is expected back at the White House Saturday.

Nevertheless, it said, his condition continues good.

Mrs. Truman, who left the bedside of her own ailing mother to be with her husband, wore a black suit and a white straw hat with red flowers. A waiting White House limousine drove her to the hospital.

Secret Service men refused to allow reporters to talk to her, in the interests of hurrying her on to the hospital.

Meanwhile, medical specialists scheduled a series of exhaustive tests to determine the physical toll seven years in the White House have taken of the President.

Mr. Truman's personal physician, Maj. Gen. Wallace H. Graham, wanted him to have a thorough checkup before he becomes embroiled in the hot - and - heavy political campaign coming up.

It appeared that Mr. Truman's alternate delegate to the Democratic convention, Thomas J. Gavin, would have to return to Kansas City this afternoon without seeing the chief executive.

Asked whether Mr. Truman's return to the White House indicated that he would go back to a full routine next w ., a spokesman said that since the Democratic convention starts Monday, he doubted whether next week's routine would be particularly "full" under any circumstances.

White House staff members emphasized that it was strictly Mrs. Truman's idea to leave her sick mother in Missouri and rush to the President's bedside. They said she had not been "summoned" in any sense.

"She just wouldn't feel right unless she came here to see if there's anything he needs and if there is anything she can do to make him feel better," a close friend of the family said.

Members of Mr. Truman's staff who saw him yesterday said the President spent most of the day "sitting around" his suite in a bathrobe, apparently in chipper spirits until it was time to submit to another test.

Press Secretary Joseph Short said that while the President developed a slight temperature dur-

Next Move Left To Steel Union

Steelworkers Policy Group To Review Strategy Monday

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The next move in the deadlocked steel strike appeared today to rest with the CIO United Steelworkers' wage policy committee, which meets here Monday to review strategy in the walkout.

Acting Defense Mobilizer John R. Steelman yesterday abandoned, for the time being, an effort to bring industry and union officials into agreement on the closed shop issue which is the last obstacle in the way of settlement of the 45-day-old strike.

Steelman was reported to be undecided about the government's next step. But a high source indicated the government would take no further action until the union's committee meets.

Meanwhile, the union dismissed as 'a pipe dream" a report published in the magazine Iron Age that dissension among top union officials is preventing an agreement on the union shop issue, which is the chief obstacle in the way of settlement.

The magazine reported that high union officials want to accept an industry compromise offer on union security, based on a formula first approved by Bethlehem Steel Corp. but that CIO President Philip Murray rejected the offer.

It was learned authoritatively from high government sources that the steel companies were offered between $5.15 and $5.20 a ton in price increases last Saturday when it appeared likely a contract would be signed.

The offer included $4.50 which has been "on the table" for several months, plus a 65 to 70-cent increase to compensate for an increase in freight rates which was approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission May 2.

Ask New Ceiling For Aluminum

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Aluminum Company of America has asked the government to raise the ceiling price on aluminum by about 10 per cent to offset higher costs and wages.

Alcoa signed a tentative five-year contract this month with the AFL aluminum workers for a package wage boost of 24 cents an hour, provided the government permits higher prices on aluminum. Alcoa asked that the increase be granted the entire industry.

District Agents Here Tomorrow

Quarterly Meeting Of Extension Workers Scheduled

Pitt County farm agents and home demonstration agents will play host to approximately 80 extension workers from 17 counties in a district conference here tomorrow.

County Farm Agent Sam Winchester announced this morning the quarterly meeting of farm and home agents in the northeastern district will be held in Greenville all day tomorrow.

The farm agent explained that tomorrow morning, a joint session will be held for all persons attending the conference. After lunch, farm agents and home agents are slated to meet separately to discuss farm problems in each respective county.

"Late in the afternoon, all visiting farm agents will be conducted on a tour of Speight Seed Farm in Winterville," Winchester said. "There they will be shown latest research on new corn hybrids, corn hybrid crossing plots, and tobacco and corn variety tests."

The farm agents' meeting will be supervised by E. Z. Mortoh of Raleigh, district farm agent, and the home agents' session will be under the direction of Miss Lorna Langley of Raleigh, district home agent.

The last meeting of the northeastern district was held in April at Rocky Mount, and the next conference will be held in Goldsboro.

Old Free-Style Orations Ahead At Demo Rally

CHICAGO (UP)—Free-style oratory is scheduled for a comeback at next week's Democratic national convention.

Kenneth Fry, in charge of radio and television arrangements, said today the Democrats do not plan to use the teleprompter as a "crutch" for their orators — unless some of them ask for it specifically.

Teleprompter is the electronic gadget which rolls a speech up, line by line at whatever speed is necessary, for an orator at the lectern. In big block letters, his speech stands out before him in an unobstrusive metal box. The result is often that a stumbling speaker gains confidence and fluency.

Most major Republican convention orators used it last week.

Two Motormen Are Blamed For Subway Accident

NEW YORK (UP)—Authorities blamed two motormen today for a collision of subway trains in a steaming tunnel deep under Manhattan's financial district in which more than 100 screaming rush-hour passengers were injured.

A Brooklyn-bound express rolled backward into another train at the Fulton Street station of the Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit Co. at 5:30 p. m. yesterday. Brief panic broke out in the stuffy tunnel when the impact knocked crowded strap-hangers off balance.

Police reported that most injuries were slight. Only a few of the victims were forced to remain in the six hospitals where they were taken for emergency treatment.

The Board of Transportation ordered suspension of the two motormen operating the trains pending completion of an investigation.

Politics Ignored In Olympic Event

HELSINKI (AP)—The International Olympic Committee today voted to allow all Chinese athletes to take part in the Olympic Games regardless of political affiliation.

The vote on the question was 33 to 20.

Dr. Otto Mayer, chancellor of the IOC, said the committee acted on the fundamental principle of allowing all of the youth of the world to participate in the games.

Four Killed As Plane Hit House

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A light plane, taking off in a soupy fog, crashed into a house today. The sheriff's office said four bodies were taken from the plane.

The house was unoccupied. It was set afire, and a neighboring home was damaged by flying debris.

Tentatively the sheriff's office identified the pilot as Dale E. Baker of Grass Valley, Ore.

Sixty 'Saucer' Sightings Reported During 2 Weeks

DAYTON, O. (UP)—An Air Force spokesman said today some 60 reports of flying saucers have been received during the past two weeks. He could give no reason for the sudden increase.

Capt. E. J. Ruppelt of the Air Technical Intelligence Center at Wright-Patterson Air Base said reports of phantom activity in the sky were pouring into his office at an unprecedented rate.

"People are seeing unidentified objects in the sky at a rate almost double over last year," uppelt said. "We've had about 60 reports in the last two weeks alone."

Ruppelt, project officer for "operation Bluebook," the Air Force group that investigates unidentified aerial objects, said there was no connection between the saucer-sighting splurge and the recent inauguration of "Operation Skywatch" by the ground observer corps.

"In the reports we're getting in here," Ruppelt said, "I see no connection whatsoever."

Ruppelt said his office was requesting more information from two pilots who reported seeing "eight glowing red-orange discs" flying near Norfolk, Va., Sunday night.

The pilots, W. B. Nash and W.H. Fortenberry, veterans of many years service with Pan American Airways, said the objects were traveling at a speed of some 1,000 miles per hour.

"We are assuming the pilots are describing accurately what they saw and we have no reason to doubt them," Rupelt said. "However, objects like they saw have been previously reported and we need more information."

Hot And Humid Air For Most Of Nation Today

By UNITED PRESS

A perspiring weather man looked at his maps and predicted that hot, sticky air will cover most of the country today.

While the humidity climbed along the Gulf of Mexico, farmers in other parts of the South hoped for rain. Loggers in the Pacific Northwest and as far east as Maine watched tinder-dry forests with apprehensive eyes.

A forester and his son were killed fighting a 500-acre blaze near Marblemount, Wash., and at least 10 families were left homeless in British Columbia by forest fires.

The Department of Agriculture estimated that crops in Georgia alone have suffered $50,000,000 damage. A spokesman described the situation as "critical," and said that unless rain comes soon many farmers will be wiped out.

Rain squalls moving northward from the steaming Gulf extended some hope to the parched Southland, but forecasters said they would probably pass too far to the west.

A cold front that was supposed to send temperatures on the East Coast skidding, dwindled away into a will-o-the-wisp that did little to break the record heat wave. The cool air swerved southward and missed wilting New Yorkers by about 30 miles.

At least seven persons in New England collapsed in the heat and died yesterday.

The Weather Bureau reported that about the only cool spot in the nation would be along the Canadian border in North Dakota, Minnesota and the supper Great Lakes region.

Reflector Editor To Cover National Demo Convention

Daily Reflector readers will get an exclusive first-hand report of the goings-on at the Democratic National Convention in Chicago next week.

It was announced today that David J. Whichard, managing editor of the Daily Reflector, will attend the Democratic convention as a representative of the newspaper. It will be the first time The Reflector has had a staff member at a national political convention.

In making the announcement today, Reflector Publisher D. J. Whichard, Jr. said, "We are fully aware that the Democratic National Convention will be the most thoroughly covered news event in the history of the nation; but realizing the interest among Reflector readers in the convention, the newspaper elected to have its own representative at the sessions in Chicago."

The reports of The Reflector representative at the convention will deal principally with the activities of the North Carolina delegation in Chicago and other convention highlights of particular interest to the people of Pitt County and Eastern North Carolina. They will include a description of the part North Carolina's delegation plays in the political maneuvering during the convention, and the reaction of individual delegates, particularly from the eastern section, to the various trends as they develop during the sessions.

Whichard will leave Saturday for Chicago and be on hand for the caucus of the North Carolina delegation in the Windy City Sunday night.

Milk Trucks May Have Vital Role

RALEIGH—(AP)—State Civil Defense Director E. Z. Jones said today Tar Heel Milk Trucks equipped with refrigerated cabinets would be needed to transport blood plasma in case of an atomic bombing or other enemy disaster.

Jones reported he has asked dairy operators in the state to furnish an inventory of milk trucks of this type. Since plasma cannot be frozen, ice cream and frozen food trucks, Jones explained, are not to be included in the inventory. Plasma must be kept at 32-35 degrees Fahrenheit temperature.

Farm And Home Week Program At State College Is Announced

Pitt County farm women have been urged by the county home agent's office to attend Farm and Home Week which will convene at State College in Raleigh August 18 through August 21.

Mrs. Sue B. May, county home agent, said this morning she was in hopes Pitt County would be well-represented by farm women at Farm and Home Week.

In commenting on the events planned, Mrs. May cited a number of events, classes and speakers which she thought would be of interest to Pitt County women. "One outstanding event will be a talent show on Monday evening, August 18. Persons from Pitt County who wish to take part should either contact the home agent's office or the farm agent's office," said Mrs. May.

Classes outlined by the home agent were "Sewing Tricks in 1952"; "Choral Directing"; 'Recreation—Family Fun On the Farm"; 'Let's Eat Good Frozen Vegetables"; "Bywords on Ironers and Freezers"; and Examples of Effective Rural Church Work, Church Building, Financing the Church's Program, the Town and Country Cooperation, Extending the Influence of the Rural Church Through Education, and the 4-H Sunday Program. A variety of other classes will be offered.

Speakers will include Wheeler McMillen, editor of the Farm Journal, who will speak on "The Rural Church and Community Life," and an address by Gov. Kerr Scott.

Thursday will be designated as the Women's Federation Day Meeting and Pitt women are especially urged to attend this day.

The 26th annual meeting of the Federation of Home Demonstration Clubs will be held in the morning with an address, "Home, the Cradle of Personality," given by Miss Margery Wilson, author and lecturer of New York City. The state council will meet in the afternoon and Gordon Gray, president of the Consolidated University of North Carolina, will be the speaker at the evening session.

The Pitt County Choral Group will sing with groups from other counties in the state at the Thursday morning and Thursday evening sessions.

Young Boy Hurt In Tractor Fall

AYDEN—Vance Earl Dixon, four-year-old Negro boy, was injured yesterday afternoon when he fell from a farm tractor on his father's farm near here breaking his right thigh.

Details on the incident were lacking, the boy's father reported, since he was working at a tobacco barn at the time the boy was injured. The lad's father stated that the first thing he knew about the boy being injured was when he heard him cry out.

The accident occurred around two o'clock yesterday afternoon. The boy was taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital by his father where he was admitted for treatment.

Marion Davies Is Ending Marriage With Divorce

HOLLYWOOD (UP) Marion Davies, friend and long-time confident of William Randolph Hearst, sought today to end her nine-month marriage to Capt. Horace J. Brown.

The former film queen was the protege of the late publisher for 31 years. Two months after his death she surprised Hollywood by eloping with Brown to Las Vegas, Nev., on Oct. 31.

She sued Brown for divorce on the grounds of mental cruelty in Santa Monica Superior Court yesterday.

"The marriage couldn't help but break up," a close friend of the couple said. "After 31 years of not being married, she had a compulsion to marry. Any woman would feel that way."

Other friends of the Browns' said the broad-shouldered sea captain kept her "isolated" from her friends. They seldom appeared in public.

Birth Announcement

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bell of Robbins announce the birth of a daughter, Jo Ann, on July 14th at Robbins Clinic.

Pair Charged In June 26 Robbery Of Freight Car

Greenville police and a railroad detective have solved the robbery from an Atlantic Coast Line Railroad freight car, temporarily parked here June 26.

Police Lt. M. E. Corbett and Detective R. J. McGahee have sworn out warrants against Manson Wilson and William Andrew Joyner, Negroes, charging them with breaking, entering and larceny.

The warrants charge the two men with breaking into a freight car while it was parked on a track here about 50 minutes. It is alleged that they broke the seal on the car, near the Virginia-Carolina Fertilizer Company's plant, and carried away an automobile tire and other material.

No Substitute For Basic Needs

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A four-year survey by more than 200 experts on how to improve the nation's legal profession came up with this: There's no substitute for a thorough college education and good character.

The newly-released book of findings came out against private study—Abraham Lincoln's method—and correspondence school training. It advocated at least three years of college pre-legal training.

Tarheel Demo Delegation Departs Saturday, Carry 22 Votes For Sen. Russell

RALEIGH (UP) — The North Carolina delegation to the Democratic national convention, the South's second largest, will leave Saturday for Chicago taking at least 22— — —possibly more— — — first ballot votes for Sen. Richard B. Russell of Georgia.

State Democratic Chairman Everett Jordan, who will leave tomorrow in advance of the delegation to serve in Russell's headquarters, thinks North Carolina will give him 26 first-ballot votes. The Democratic state convention which selected the delegates in May endorsed Russell, but refused to bind the delegation to him.

A United Press tabulation of the first ballot choice gives Russell 22 votes, Illinois Gov. Adlai Stevenson 1 1-2 and Vice President Alben Barkley 1-2. Several members are known to lean toward Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn) as their second choice.

With a total of 32 convention votes, the North Carolina delegation in 1948 played a steadying role when civil rights issues seemed about to break the party. Through wild rebel yells, urgings and demonstrations of the walkout delegations at Philadelphia, the group appealed for calm and unity and refused to bolt.

Those leaders who refused to be budged included Gov. Kerr Scott, Sen. Clyde R. Hoey and former Gov. Gregg Cherry. They held the delegation intact, preventing what could have been a southwide bolt.

Hoey this year is one of Russell's strongest supporters.

Scott, who as governor is likely to be the delegation chairman, is one of the eight undecided, but might lean toward Russell. Scott said he wants to "see how the sentiment will shape up" before deciding how to cast his half-vote.

Aside from the presidential nomination, the delegation will have the important task of choosing a new national committeeman. Jonathan Daniels of Raleigh is stepping aside this year.

Cherry has been mentioned for the post and Scott has said he would support Cherry if the Gastonia attorney wants the job. Gubernatorial nominee William B Umstead of Durham, who by his election victory becomes the new head of the party in the state, backs retiring Rep. Robert L. Doughton.

Miss Beatrice Cobb of Morganton has not indicated whether she will seek re-election as national committeewoman.

The delegation chairman will be selected Sunday night at the first state caucus at delegation headquarters in the Conrad Hilton Hotel.

Singapore Bans More Shipments

SINGAPORE — (AP) — The Singapore government has issued a further list of articles banned for export to Communist China.

It includes electrocardiographs, photo plan printing machines, cresylic acid, including para, meta and ortho eresol and sylenol, engineers' cutting and forming tools, including hacksaw blades, and accessories for metal working machines.

Applications to export these articles to Hong Kong must proffer certificates from authorities there that they are required in that colony.

City Zoo Bears Involved In Suit

DALLAS, Tex. (UP) —The city of Dallas faced a $26.460 damage suit today because of "Joe talin" and his girl friend "Olga."

Joe and Olga are Russian bears at the Marsalis Park Zoo. H. F. Miller filed a petition yesterday charging that the bears clawed and bit his 15-year-old son, Wayne, on the leg last Easter unday. He asked $12,500 damages $7,500 for mental suffering, $5,000 for loss of his son's services, and $1,460 to cover medical expenses.

Deadline Is Near For Application

RALEIGH (AP)—The State Highway Commission yesterday warned 122 Tar Heel cities and towns that they have until Monday to apply for their share of almost five million dollars in state aid for local street improvements.

The fund, which comes from a half cent per gallon of the state gasoline tax, will be distributed under terms of the Powell Bill enacted by the 1951 Legislature. The payments will be made in September and will go for maintenance and improvement of streets not eligible for regular state highway funds.

Last year the municipalities shared in $4,543,096 paid out under the bill. Increased gasoline consumption has resulted in larger funds this year, according to James S. Burch, the commission's statistics and planning engineer.

Burch said towns and cities which do not file street maps and certificates by Monday as required by law would be barred from receiving a share of the funds. Approximately 270 municipalities already have applied for their cash benefits.

The amount each town will receive is based on its population and street mileage. It is estimated that each municipality will get $1.64 per capita plus $451 per local street mile.

Strength for the Day

BIRDS OF A FEATHER

Recently a student sat before the dean of an eastern college. It was not his first time there; it was his last. The dean rehearsed the young man's sins during the short time that he had been in college: poor grades, ever-cutting, drinking, gambling, wanton destruction of property. That was the end. The boy was being expelled.

Why had he gotten into so much trouble? He had come to college with a promising record, good habits, fine recommendations. The dean could not understand the change, but the boy himself put his own finger on the cause of his downfall: "I guess I got in with the wrong kind of friends. . . ."

How do we choose our friends? For money? For social position? For influence? These are poor reasons, all of them. Or do we look for friends whose character, moral code, and religious beliefs measure up to the highest standards we know?

Birds of a feather flock together, says the old proverb. And not only that—we tend to grow more and more like the birds with whom we flock. It pays to be careful of our company.

"Blessed is the man that walketh not in the counsel of the ungodly, nor standeth in the way of sinners, nor sitteth in the seat of the scornful."

Storm Clouds Gather Over Chicago

No matter what the thermometer says or how well the air conditioning works in Convention Hall, the Democrats are in for a hot time in Chicago next week.

As the opening day of the convention looms nearer, the heat with which various issues will be debated on and off the convention floor becomes more apparent. For the first time in 20 years there is the prospect of a wide open fight for the nomination. That in itself is enough to make for the most torrid Democratic convention in two decades. But that is only the beginning.

There are the pro-Truman and anti-Truman factions in the convention which will bar no holds to carry their points this year. There are the Fair Dealers who have gone down the line for the proposals of President Truman during the past seven years. Then there is the even more Fair Dealish group which would like to see the Democratic party incorporate into its platform even more far-reaching social measures than yet have been proposed officially.

At the other extreme is the more conservative element of the Democratic party which wishes a return to the fundamentals of Jeffersonian Democracy — those who feel Truman has gone too far in his Fair Dealism. They see in the Chicago convention next week their best chance in years to revert the party to a more conservative, more stable pattern.

Superimposed upon these factions there is the touchy question of a compulsory or voluntary civil rights plank in the party platform. The question caused a party bolt four years ago, and if anything the opposition to compulsory civil rights is even more entrenched now than it was then.

Already there are charges of attempts to "bribe" delegates to switch votes from one candidate for the nomination to another; and before the convention is over, this controversy could easily blossom into a debate comparable to the one of "stolen delegates" between the Eisenhower and Taft factions of the Republican party.

The question of who will be in the nomination picture before the balloting starts is not clear yet. Two big question marks still hang over Governor Stevenson of Illinois and President Harry Truman. The active seeking of the nomination by either could radically change the complexion of the whole convention.

For the first time in two decades, the Democrats have the real opportunity for a knock down, drag out fight among themselves at a national convention; and for the most part, they will be reluctant to miss the chance.

The Convention may not take 103 ballots to nominate the standard bearer for the party as it did in New York in 1924, but it has the makings of a long and stormy session.

A Batting Average To Be Proud Of

Sports-minded America is always inclined to judge groups, individuals and teams of all kinds—athletic or otherwise—by an everyday measuring stick, the batting average.

Sports fans, young and old, know that Billy Goodman is not only the key batter for Boston, but is also leading the American League with his .348 batting average. They also know that surprising Bob Addis of the Chicago Cubs has dethroned, for the time being, Stan Musial as the National League batting champ.

That sort of knowledge is taken for granted. But wonder, we must, how many people across the country know of the batting average for the past year of what we consider the real All-American team—the nation's famous FBI.

Fabulous tales about the feats of the Federal Bureau of Investigation come to light every now and then, but in far too many instances are soon forgotten. It is a great law enforcement agency, probably the greatest in the world; and the thing that makes it great is found in a little notation which appeared in papers across the nation this week . . . its batting average with criminals.

During the 12 months which ended June 30, the FBI racked up a batting average of .972 with the individuals it brought into courts for violations of various federal laws. Of all the cases brought by the FBI during the year, 97.2 per cent resulted in convictions; and it is even more significant to note that in 92 per cent of the cases brought by the FBI, the defendants entered pleas of guilty to the charges.

The batting average of the FBI is without question of extreme importance to every American citizen. Yet too often it is taken for granted without a second glance. The work of the FBI during the past year means 9,036 individuals have been convicted of crimes against the United States and its citizens.

Truly the FBI is America's big league team against crime, and it has chalked up a hit for the American people 97.2 per cent of the times it has come to bat. No getting around it, that's a fine average in any league. It is the average the American people want from their law enforcement agencies.

National Whirligig

By RAY TUCKER

CHICAGO—General Eisenhower's swift and complete reversal of Dewey's 1948 campaign tactics encourages party leaders in the belief that the New York governor will be nudged into the background of this year's presidential struggle, and in an "Eisenhower Administration," if the renovated GOP wins in November.

Ike's first act after his nomination was prompted by Dewey's woeful neglect of political entities four years ago. Privately and publicly, he assured members of the organization and Congress that every man or woman would be a general in the forthcoming battle. In 1948, there were too many brassy martinets and not enough privates. Dewey demeaned the members of his command. Ike promoted them.

RELATIONS—Although learning the inside tricks of his new profession with amazing rapidity, which augurs future improvement in technique, Eisenhower was also given a thorough briefing in the New Yorker's blunders before and after the nominee arrived at Chicago. Many of his top advisers showed no compunction about suggesting that too intimate a tie-up with the two-time loser would be "the kiss of death," especially in such Taft territory as Illinois, Ohio and Indiana.

Political courtesy requires General Eisenhower to show Dewey some consideration. Despite the politicians' dislike of the many at Albany, they rely on this kind of reciprocity for their own advancement and livelihood. Ingratitude is the mortal sin.

Even so, as World War II commander overseas Ike frequently doghoused army buddies since West Point days when their operations or personalities endangered the larger cause or strained his relations with allied chieftains. A notable instance is De Gaulle, who has frequently been labelled as the "Dewey of French politics."

CREDIT—Moreover, Eisenhower realizes that Dewey's supposed "master-minding" of the pre-convention battle for delegates has been exaggerated grossly. The members of his private staff credit Senator James H. Duff of Pennsylvania, no great friend of the New Yorker, with proposing the strategy that contributed so heavily to Ike's triumph.

It was Duff who insisted that the General capitalize on the so-called "Texas steal." Raised in the hard school of Pennsylvania politics, "Big Red," as his friends call him, saw the emotional and technical appeal in this episode. As he told Eisenhower, it dramatized and sharpened the clash between youth and age, independents and stalwarts, insurgents and the Old Guard.

At first Ike would not listen. He characterized such action as "dirty ball," and stubbornly refused to indulge in it. But when his Texas supporters furnished evidence supporting the Duff theory, he agreed to "roar across the country" with demands for "fair play."

PERSUASION—Herbert G. Brownell, a Dewey aide, transformed this angry oratory into the legal barrage known as the Langlie motion, which barred dubious delegates from voting on their own or other contests. As professing Liberals, such influential leaders as Warren, Stassen, Driscoll and many other bosses had to vote for the Eisenhower slates in Georgia and Texas. Their action on this test assured Taft's defeat.

Dewey has been cited as the instigator of the "fair play" memorandum sent to the Convention by twenty-five Republican state executives from the Governors' conference at Houston. As a matter of fact, it took considerable persuasion to lead the New York man to affix his signature. His only objection, according to a fellow-governor, was that "he did not originate the idea."

MEMORY—In addition to these earthy considerations, active Dewey participation might alienate millions of those Republican privates who agree with the thesis that "there is no substitute for victory." Their memory of "me, tooism" might offset the fact that the 1952 plaform, framed largely by Taft-minded men, guarantees a frontal rather than a flank attack on "Trumanism."

SETBACK—The nomination of Senator Richard M. Nixon for second place was another Dewey setback. As a relative youngster in national affairs four years ago, the Californian's very existence was a matter of no importance to the Albany dynasty. They did not even exploit the anti-Communist issue which he had done so much to germinate as a member of the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

Anyone who has followed Greenville's drive to acquire a television station has been sitting on pins since July 1st, the day when the Federal Communications Commission started considering TV applications.

The man who has been sitting on the most pins is Hartwell Campbell, manager of the Greenville radio station and champion of the effort to bring a TV station to Greenville. Hartwell is so anxious that he recently went to Washington to investigate the status of things.

In short, Hartwell discovered that Greenville stands a good chance of receiving an early approval for a TV station, but the OK will not come in the next few days. Logically enough, the FCC is giving priority to towns with maximum population and minimum TV coverage. Take Denver, Colo. for example. There is absolutely no TV there, despite the fact that it is one of the geographic centers of the midwest. Denver's application was one of the first approved.

Hartwell says there is no reason to think there will be any delay in granting our permit due to competition from another station in this vicinity. Of course he has no way of being certain about that. Should another party file for Channel 9 the applications would be thrown into a competitive hearing, causing no end of delay. Last week 18 station permits were granted; over 60 were contested and therefore sidestepped for a hearing. The Greenville station will be able to forego this ordeal, we think and hope.

It's just a matter of serving the greatest population first. If the FCC would view 80 applications a week it would be only a few weeks before we could receive consideration. But this week no applications are being considered, because the FCC has stopped proceedings in order to prepare a check list in order to assure fairness in every case.

To date, 15 per cent of the applications have already been considered and either passed or set aside for a hearing. The remaining 85 per cent will be considered as soon as the FCC removes the kinks from the proceedings.

When you are dealing with government agencies there is no way of predicting the future. In general, things look good. Frankly, I think there is no chance that we will not be able to see the 1953 World Series in Greenville without a flaw in reception. Our only problem will be getting off from our jobs and rushing to TV screens.

And I thank you.

Around Capitol Square

(Guest writer today is Bill Hannah, publicity director for the N. C. Farm Bureau Federation. He discusses tobacco quotas and marketing program.)

QUOTAS — Many flue-cured tobacco producers today can well remember the year 1933 when they had to sell their leaf for $16.10 per hundred because there was no acreage quota program. Those were the days when things get so bad that it was necessary to call a sales holiday throughout the bright leaf belt. Because of the conditions that existed during the 30's, and in other years when producers neglected to vote for quotas, it is of the utmost importance that all flue-cured farmers go to the polls on July 19 and vote for the continuation of the present acreage allotment system. A lot of growers had to learn the hard way even as late as 1939 when they again neglected to adopt the quota program. The price of tobacco declined the following year by approximately $7.50 per hundred due to the large surplus that was produced. It took almost two years for leaf prices to get back to normal after that market glut.

ESSENTIAL — The tobacco program as we know it did not happen over-night. It was established by an act of Congress and is the envy of every commodity group in the country. Many people throughout the State think this tobacco program will go on on and on, but they seem to forget that it does not have the support of many Congressmen outside the five flue-cured states. The failure of growers to register the largest vote on record this year could result in Congressional action that might destroy the entire program, because it would give the opposition an opportunity to demonstrate that less than half the eligible voters in the past have been sufficiently interested in the quota referendum to participate. Associates program is another issue that farmers will have to decide during the vote on July 19. This organization, which was set up in 1946 to promote the sale of flue-cured tobacco abroad, is supported entirely by farmers who assess themselves at the rate of ten cents for each marketable acre of tobacco. Through the work of Tobacco Associates flue-cured producers have been able to export from 400 to 490 million pounds of tobacco each year which could not have been sold otherwise. Growers should keep in mind that domestic companies are able to use only 60 percent of the total leaf output each year. This mean that 40 percent of the crop each year must be exported in order to maintain a normal pattern of of production.

IMPORTS — The results of the work in developing foreign markets for bright leaf tobacco have been very encouraging up to this year. Exports have increased from 359 million pounds in the 1947-48 marketing season to 490 million pounds in 1951-52. The present export picture for flue-cured tobacco does not look as encouraging as it did last year. Many foreign countries are having great difficulty in obtaining enough free dollars to purchase our leaf, which is due chiefly to the fact that this country has begun to curtail imports at an alarming rate.

BIG STAKE — Tobacco Associates is attempting to correct more imports in the future, since foreign countries have repeatedly made it known that they would purchase American flue-tobacco if they had enough free dollars. Over 51 percent of the cash farm income in this State comes from the sale of flue-cured tobacco. Unless farmers this year vote to maintain the present program, tobacco will no longer have a support price. This would mean that the same tobacco that sold for $54.00 per hundred this year would probably bring less than half this price under a "no quota" system.

GENERAL — Tobacco farmers are not the only group that will be on trial July 19. Bankers, merchants and white collar workers will also feel the strain if leaf quotas are not continued. The old adage "if farmers do not make it, no one else will," is very true in this State.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

THE VICE PRESIDENCY
(Rocky Mount Telegram)

We quite agree with The New York Times' view that too little attention was paid at the Chicago Republican Convention to the Vice Presidency and that neglect of the country's second highest elective office is unfortunately typical of national conventions, but is none the less dangerous to the welfare of the United States.

However, it should be stated that the Republicans at least have picked a man who ranks high as a statesman in their candidate for the Vice Presidency in the person of Senator Richard M. Nixon of California. And because of the fact that the senator attended school in North Carolina, the Duke Law School, and has a brother at Duke now, makes Tar Heels feel like the Californian was almost one of them.

Back to the Vice Presidency, however, the Times goes on to point out that seven times in our history the Vice President has succeeded to the Presidency through death of the incumbent. Some of the Vice Presidents have made good Presidents, others not so good; but seldom if ever in the past hundred years, at least, has the Vice President been chosen by either party principally because in an emergency he would make a first-class President. There have been some excellent Vice Presidential nominees—the Republicans picked one in 1948—but the public has come to look on such selections almost as accidental.

The time is long overdue for national conventions to become more mature about the selection of Vice Presidents. It is imperative that an outstanding leader of the party be selected for second place on the ticket, just as it is imperative that one be selected for first place. With every election this need becomes greater because the crushing burden of the Presidency grows weightier year by year; and it is increasingly apparent that—irrespective of the matter of succession—the Vice Presidency ought to be made into a job of far greater responsibility and far greater usefulness than it has been in the past. That can be done, but only if able and outstanding figures are chosen for the office, not political nonentities who happen to come from the "right" group in the population or the "right" section of the country.

Business Today

The trend toward leasing instead of buying capital equipment is accelerating. More companies are renting autos, trucks, pressess, packaging machinery, railroad tank and refrigerator cars, construction machinery and even office machines.

The trend is so sharp in autos that many dealers are worried over lost sales. At least one group of dealers has set up a new company to sell cars to leasors. Auto rentals are increasing among pleasure drivers, too. A third company is now competing with the two national drive-it-yourself giants and all three report business is expanding.

Among pleasure and many business drivers, economy is the principal stimulant of business. For the family that uses a car only during the summer months, or a saleman who drives only one week a month, renting a car eliminates the cost of depreciation during idle time and often storage charges as well.

But the basic reason for the rise in rentals of autos and other equipment is the tax law. All the costs of a rented machine are deductible for tax purposes. The operating costs of an owned machine are deductible, but the cost of the machine itself can be deducted only over the period of depreciation. There is another advantage for many companies in leasing: it does not tie up capital.

Even ignoring tax and capital advantages, leasing companies can actually furnish equipment and make a profit, too, for less than it would cost a company to buy and operate the same equipment. For example, an auto rental company can buy cars at fleet prices. By doing its own maintenance it can do it for less than a car owner can have it done at public garage prices. It can garage its cars at less than an owner would pay for a single car.

Leasing has other advantages: it determines definite costs in advance and it eliminates disputes with salesmen and others over mileage allowances.

Even such large concerns as U. S. Steel, Du Pont, Minneapolis-Honeywell and Anheuser-Busch lease large numbers of autos and trucks; they wouldn't be likely to do it unless it saved money. Last year Mutual Life Insurance Co. disclosed it had financed more than $2,600,000 worth of autos for leasing to business concerns.

TV OWNERS MARKET.....
FOR AIR CONDITIONERS..

Television set owners are prime prospects for air conditioning equipment. Television inhibits them from going outdoors to cool off and cooling machines would add to their viewing comfort. And all the emphasis on air conditioning at the political conventions should stimulate TV fans.

Some dealers may be missing a bet in not offering combination TV and air conditioning deals.

COCKTAIL PARTY.....
UP-GRADES MARKET.....

Having difficulty in getting enough salesmen to cover his territory, a Philadelphia TV dealer sent invitations to a TV cocktail party to 100 owners of 10-inch sets. Charmed by large screens and refreshments, 12 ordered larger sets and several expressed interest in refrigerators and ranges.

BUSINESS CAN BE.....
TRANQUIL, AMIGOS.....

"Vision," a bi-weekly Spanish news magazine, reports that it has increased its circulation from 20,000 in 1950 to 85,000 now, but not without some unexpected difficulties.

One dealer in a land of manana received 30 copies, selling 20 over the counter and holding back 10 for friends. When it was suggested that if he ordered 40 copies he would not have to hide any, the dealer replied that his friends would not be honored if the magazine was readily available.

Then the distributor was asked why he didn't send the dealer 10 more copies anyhow. Alas, he said, hat would be far too much trouble. He would have to make changes in his books.

Hal Boyle's Column

NEW YORK (AP) — Everybody loves a parade, but the one I like best to watch is the one out of the office at quitting time each day.

It is then the human parade looks most human. And you can tell something about each inmate by the way he starts the long voyage home.

The average worker will recognize at least some of the following standard office types:

1. The clock watchers—This reluctant beaver has developed a size 18 neck from raising his head to study the clock. When it hits 5:30 he is off like a springing deer. He couldn't get out of the place faster if someone hollered "Fire:!'

2. The two hoary philosophers-One gets up and says, "Another day, another dollar." And the other climbs to his feet and says, "Yeah, a million days-a million dollars." They have been saying this every day for 37 years, and neither has has four bits in the bank.

3. The worried suburbanite-He hauls out a timetable and starts muttering, "If I stop off and have one for the road I can catch the 6:21. If I have three, lemme see now, I can-"

4. The fiddle-faddler-He has been trying to look busy all day without doing anything. Finally he quickly shoves a mass of papers in a drawer, and announces loudly, "Boy, what a workout this has been: Finally got my desk clean, though." But the only guy he's got fooled is the janitor.

5. The beat-the-gun artist - at 5:20 he gets up as if to go to to the water cooler. Then he swiftly sidles out the door, and runs down the fire exit so no one will see him catching the elevator.

6. The day dreamer-He sits there with glazed eyes until someone kindly shakes him and says, "Wake up, Homer, the ordeal is over."

7. The femme fatale stenographer-She has a heavy date, and since 2:30 she's been in the ladies room primping and putting on her cocktail party dress. When she emerges, a cloud of scent trails her, and for the next three days the filing cabinets smell like a catalog of French perfumes.

8. The office wolf-He sees the stenographer, arises like a mesmerized puppy, and follows her out, hoping to ambush her in the elevator.

9. The boss-He comes out of his sanctum at 5:38, looks up at the clock in smug virtue, then shakes his head tiredly with an air of resignation

10. The ambitious vassal—He closes his desk drawer with a loud bang, then races out in time to say breathlessly, "Gee, Boss you're working late again." What he means by this, of course, is, "Look at me, Boss. I worked late too. You can count on good old loyal me everytime, Boss."

Well, there they are-the office pilgrims. Just getting out of the office each night takes for the more real acting ability and energy than John Barrymore ever put into "Hamlet."

No wonder the tired businessman arrives home so worn out.

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON — Genevieve Reynolds, press attache at the U. S. embassy in Rio de Janeiro since 1950, was the first professional newswoman sent by the State Department to Latin America. Part of her job is to interpret the U. S. through the written and spoken word to Brazilians. She also arranges press conferences of visiting U. S. dignitaries for Brazilian newsmen and sometimes "ghosts" speeches for embassy officials.

"I guess I was sort of a guinea pig to see whether we could integrate professional women in our services south of the border," Miss Reynolds, a former Washington correspondent, told me on a visit back here. "Now we have Barbara Aitkin, a former magazine writer, in Buenos Aires and in Rio de Janeiro, one of the four largest U. S. missions in the world. We have seven women in important jobs. American women are also well-represented elsewhere in Latin America."

Brazilian women are showing much progress in their own right, Miss Reynolds says, though their achievements have been more in political than in legal matters. "They have the vote, and many are in public office, but they still labor under the Napoleonic code as far as civil rights are concerned," she said. They are still refused divorce papers, though they can obtain a "desquita" or legal separation.

Brazilian women, according to Miss Reynolds, are among the best dressed and best groomed women in the world. Even the working girl goes to the beauty parlor regularly, she told me.

Miss Reynolds knew only a few words of Portuguese when she arrived in Brazil. Her maid Ruth (pronounced "Oochie") spoke nary a word of English, but the two soon understood each other perfectly. Oochie called her mistress long distance recently, begging her to come "home" because she was lonesome. A former dancer, she is interested in the young men who come to call on her mistress. She precedes their arrival with four questions: "Is he single?" "Does he work?" "How much money does he make?" "Do you like him?"

Miss Reynolds has learned to dance the samba, the bahiao and the frevo. Much of her free time is spent in traveling about the country studying the people, culture and customs. A native of Lamar, S. C., and a graduate of Columbia College and the University of South Carolina she collects records, recipes and friends.

Turn About

LONDON — (AP) —Women officials who patrol London's railroad stations to guard young girls from vice and white slave racketeers have been told to quit.

The reason: a 1952 miss arriving in the big city is quite capable of looking after herself, according to the National Vigilance Association. The association hired the morality patrols.

"In fact," commented dowger Lady Nunburnholme, chairman of the association, "if anything it's the young men who need protecting and looking after today."

Leprosy is far more prevalent in hot, damp climates than in dry areas.

Find Marijuana Growing In Lot

NEW YORK — (AP) — Sanitation Department crews recently uprooted 25 pounds of marijuana growing in a vacant lot in the Bronx.

Authorities said growth of the weed in the city is encouraged by birds spreading the seed, or by criminals deliberately planting it in out-of-the-way places for an illegal harvest.

A pound of marijuana, from which about 100 cigarettes are made, will bring more than $100 on the illegal market.

'Import' Bugs To Insure Success

BOSTON (UP) —It takes bugs to make a success of a summer theater.

They apparently are so necessary to a "straw hat" theater that Nicholas W. Russo, manager of a summer theater in a Boston office building, hired a field expedition to bring in a few.

"People expect a bucolic atmosphere when they go to the theater in summer," Russo said, "and my location didn't have any hay or mosquitos for the rustic touch.

"That left us only one thing to do. Import some country bugs to the city."

Russo said he debated a long time on how to let the customers think they were "roughing it" without causing them any inconvenience and finally settled on a cricket as the solution.

He hired a field expedition from the Boston Museum of Science to go out and get some. A group of "junior explorers" under a museum official, Norman Harris, armed themselves with butterfly nets and spent three hours prowling the woods before catching four specimans. But they refused to perform indoors.

Former Student Confesses To Murder; Angry At University

By DAVID PICKMAN
United Press Staff Correspondent

BOSTON (UP) —A former Columbia University student confessed today he murdered pretty Eileen Fahey, 18, because "I was mad at Columbia" and she was "the first person I ran into."

Bayard Peakes, 29, of Dover-Foxcroft, Me., arrested by New York detectives shortly after midnight when he walked into a police trap, said he wanted revenge against the school because it had rejected his "thesis on electronics."

New York detectives James Corcoran and Louis Behrens and Boston police, acting on a tip supplied by a professor at Columbia, surrounded the building in the Back Bay section of Boston where Peakes lived.

A few minutes after midnight Peakes returned from his work at a packing house and the detectives closed in on him.

"You got me—I'm the one who killed her," Corcoran said the self-styled electronics expert told him.

"I was mad at Columbia because I had been refused readmission to the university and I just took it out on the first person I ran into who I thought was to blame," Peakes told police.

"He said he had written a thesis on physics," Detective Capt. Francis G. Wilson of Boston said. "He claimed he could make men live 500 years."

The detectives said Peakes told them he had submitted the thesis along with his application for readmission to the university and believed it had been rejected by the American Physical Society, where Miss Fahey worked as a secretary.

The detectives disclosed that the arrest was the result of a tip from the Columbia professor who saw an artist's sketch of the slayer in a New York newspaper. The professor told them it resembled a student who gave him "a rough time" in 1947 when he turned down a thesis.

(The sketch was drawn by Steven R. Kidd, staff artist for the New York Daily News.)

The professor, who requested his name not be mentioned, recalled that the student came from Northeastern University in Boston.

Corcoran said a check of the university's yearbook turned up a photograph of Peakes. The resemblance between the newspaper artist's conception of the killer and the yearbook picture was "amazing", Corcoran said.

Police learned from Northeastern that Peakes came from Dover-Foxcroft, Maine. He was then traced to Boston and his one room kitchenette apartment.

Police quoted from Peakes' confession:

"I went to New York Sunday. I got off at Grand Central and went by subway up to the neighborhood around Columbia. I checked in at the Kings Crown Hotel about four in the afternoon.

"I had brought a gun with me. (Police described it as a .22 caliber automatic pistol.) I had written a thesis on physics and sent it to Columbia in connection with my application for readmission.

"It was rejected and I knew that the physics laboratory building (the Pupin Building where Miss Fahey was slain) had something to do with it.

"After checking into the hotel I went out for dinner and then went to a nearby movie and saw the picture 'My Son John.' After that I had several beers and then went back to the hotel and to bed.

"I left a call for 7:30 a. m. but woke up at 7:20, went out and had breakfast. Then I walked over to the Columbia campus and went directly to the physics building.

"I had the gun in a cardboard box wrapped up in brown paper and sealed with scotch tape. When I entered the physics building I saw that the one elevator in operation was being used to cart up chairs so I walked up nine floors.

"I was looking for the offices of the American Physical Society. I saw a woman's powder room, noticed no one was in there and went in and unwrapped the gun.

"I put in the bullets and walked into the society's office. I saw a girl there and asked her: 'Do you know they are going to drop electronics?' She had her back to me, but when I spoke she wheeled around and faced me, a startled look on her face.

"I shot her then."

Miss Fahey's body was found lying in a pool of blood at 9:20 a. m. Monday by fellow workers, several of whom had seen the killer leaving the building.

Meanwhile, the slain girl's fiance, Pfc. Ronald Leo, left the Korean battlefront on emergency leave to attend Eileen's funeral.

The 1st Marine Division announced today Leo had been granted a 30-day travel leave that will take him half way around the world and back to the fighting front.

Leo was to be discharged from the marines in six months and planned to marry Eileen shortly thereafter. They had been sweethearts since Miss Fahey was 14 years old.

Snow Fencing Wanted In July

RALEIGH —(AP)— It sounds screwy in July but the state wants to buy some snow fence for immediate erection.

W. N. Spruill, first highway division engineer, said yesterday the snow fence would be used to try to keep the sands from shifting across roads on the Outer Banks.

Spruill told the State Division of Purchase and Contract he wants around 2,000 feet of fence. He explained it might be helpful in building sand dunes to protect the new highway between Oregon Inlet and Hatteras.

Dialectic, the philosophical system developed by Kant, attempts to prove that everything changes,

Three-year-old William Stumm, Jr., had his own method for beating Philadelphia's better than ninety degree heat as he gave his uniform of the day a rumble-seat ride on his tricycle. Respite was short-lived, however. Young William's father caught him out of uniform. The weather man, by the way, predicted more high temperature.

Little League All-Star Squad Named

The Sport Reflector

By BOB HILLDRUP

Jimmy Ellis, a one time penman for this column, dropped by the other day to say hello. Jim is currently employed on the Goldsboro paper as sports editor, assistant editor, proof reader, make-up man, headline writer and copy boy. They have a one man staff too.

With the utmost humility we extend our apologies to the Jaycee entry in the Little League. In the headline on Tuesday we listed the Lions as victors in a no-hit game whereas the situation was, in reality, just the reverse. We try to take every precaution to keep this type of incident from occuring but mistakes will happen.

Last week a column appeared here on the subject of no-hit games in the major leagues. One of the subjects of that column, Johnny Vander Meer, who pitched two successive no-hitters in the majors, hurled another on Tuesday.

Johnny is now pitching for Tulsa in the Class AA Texas League.

Tuesday night the old timer appeared on the mound against Beaumont and responded with a magnificent feat. When the smoke of battle cleared away the Beaumont club was just about where they had been at the beginning of the opening frame, without a hit or a run. Final score: Tulsa 12, Beaumont 0.

The manager of the Beaumont team, Harry Craft, had been a mate of Vander Meer's the year Johnny hurled his two straight no-hitters.

Ironically enough, it was Craft who hauled down Leo Durocher's long fly ball with two away in the ninth to insure Vander Meer's second straight hitless game.

It seems that in the course of writing this column we've said something that offended a certain Greenville personage.

We stated that, it was our opinion, that the city Recreation department was having to do more than their rightful share of the work in connection with the Little League program. We did not mean that no one else was doing any work b' that perhaps it could be more evenly distributed if more Greenville citizens would become interested. Satisfied?,

Walt Dropo, the Detroit Tigers' I-play-anywhere man, has tied a major league record. The record of 12 consecutive hits in as many times at bat was set by Pinky Higgins of the Boston Red Sox in 1938.

Tuesday in a doubleheader with the Senators, Dropo connected safely in his first seven trips to the plate. Adding this to his five for five on Monday against the Yanks gave Dropo a tie for the record.

Last night marked the second in the series of dinners being given for the Little League teams by the Proctor Hotel It is a very decent gesture on the part of Mr. Ken Phillips, Mrs Irma Perry and Mr. J. Leroy Wheatley to provide these celebrations for the youngsters.

Mr. Wheatley has been in personal attendance at each of the servings and has proved himself to be a most gracious host.

Tonight the Lions will be the guests at the final serving this week. Next week the remaining three teams will be provided with chicken dinners by the Proctor Hotel.

Coach Hamilton Predicts Records Will Be Broken

HELSINKI (UP)—U. S. Coach Brutus Hamilton today predicted new Olympic records in 16 of the 24 track and field events.

"Conditions will have to be right," said University of California tutor, "and if they are, the world is going to hear some startling results."

He named seven of his own athletes as probable record-breakers—pole vaulters Bob Richards, shot putter Jim Fuchs, high jumper Walt Davis, 400 - meter hurdler Charley Moore, 110-meter hurdler Harrison Dillard, 200-meter dashman Andy Stanfield and 800-meter runner Mal Whitfield — and said that only four of the current marks appeared to be absolutely safe.

These he named as Jesse Owens' 26 foot, 5 3-8 inch (8.07 meters) broad jump and 10.2 hundred meter dash, Billy Carr's 46.2 record at 400-meters and N. Tajimas' 52 foot, 5 7-8 (15.99 meters) mark in the hop-step-and-jump.

Three of the record breakers will shatter their own marks set in 1948, Hamilton said. They are Whitfield, who ran the 800-meters in 1:49.2, Emil Zatopek of Czechoslavokia, who did the 10,000 meters in 29:59.6, and Italey's Adolfo Consolini who heaved the discus 173 feet two inches (52.78 meters).

In the other field events, Richards will be shooting at Earle Meadows' pole vault mark of 14 feet, 3 1-4 inches (4.34 meters), Fuchs will be going for Wilbur Thompson's 56 foot, two inch (17.12 meter) shot put record. Davis may surpass the six foot, eight inch (2.03 meter) mark of Cornelius Johnson in the high jump, Finn Soini Nikkinen may wipe out countryman Matti Jarvinen's javelin record of 238 feet, 6 3-4 inches, (72.709 meters) and Karl torch of Germany is favored to eliminate the hammer heave of 185 feet, 4 1-4 (56.50 meters) inches held by Kal Hein of Germany.

The three American record smashers on the track may be Dillard, as he shoots at Bill Porter's 13.9 mark in the 110-meter hurdles, Stanfield, seeking to wipe out Owens' 200-meter standard of 20.7, and Moore as he aims at Roy Cochran's 51.1 record for the 400-meter hurdles.

Yesterday the Italian soccer team beat the U. . 8-0 in a qualification match, as expected. The U. . is still sure of team victory in the games.

Lions And Exchange Place Total Of Seven On Team

The best of the Greenville Little League has been selected by a vote of six managers to represent Greenville in District, and possible state, Little League play.

The list of the boys and the teams from which they originally came:

Name	Club	Age
Bobby Edwards	Kiwanis	11
Billy Cox	Kiwanis	11
Mack Roebuck	Lions	12
Charles Staton	Lions	11
Maylan Edmundson,	Lions	12
Johnny Harrison	Lions	12
Francis (Peanut) Nunn,	Exchange	12
Ralph Johnson	Exchange	12
Richard (Dick) Evans,	Exchange	11
Marvin Blount	Moose	12
Kluttz Fisher	Jaycees	12
Walker Lee Allen	Jaycees	11
Oscar Stoneham	Elks	12
Milton Harrington,	Elks	12

These boys will go into the district tournament here in Greenville to represent the local Little League. They will be fighting to get a berth in the state tourney to be held in Wilmington. Should they win both in the district and the state then they would be eligible to appear at the home of Little League baseball, Williamsport, Pennsylvania.

These boys were chosen by the managers of the respective clubs with an eye toward their value to the team as a hold. As an all-star aggregation they possess several batting averages above the .300 mark and an overall pitching record of better than .500.

Though the All-Star team has now been picked the playoff in the local loop between the winners of the first and second halves is yet to be held. When all regular season play is completed the All-Star squad will begin preparation for the district tournament which opens here on August 5.

Competing in the District will be two teams from Rocky Mount and one each from Williamston and Farmville.

A quick rundown of the list shows that the Lions came out in front by placing four men on the squad. The Exchange placed two, Kiwanians two, Jaycees two, Elks two and Moose one.

Of the fourteen players, nine are twelve years old and five are eleven.

Three Share Lead

WINNIPEG, Man. (UP)—Three golfers shared the lead at the start of the second round in the Canadian open today, while defending champion Jim Ferrier wallowed five strokes off the pace.

Skee Reigel of Tulsa, Okla., Johnny Palmer of Badin, N. C., and Stan Leonard of Vancouver each turned in six-under-par 66's in yesterday's opening round.

Ferrier got off slowly in his quest for his third straight open championship when he reported home with a 71.

Dick Mayer of St. Petersburg, Fla., and Henry Martell of Edmonton were right behind the leaders with 67's, while Al Zimmerman of Portland, Ore., Smiley Quick of Pasadena, Calif., and Fred Haas Jr., of New Orleans were bracketed at 68.

Builders Win In Tuesday Contest

A Tuesday night game in the Men's Softball League saw the Home Builders edge Waldensian-Sunbeam 18-16 in a game called at the end of the sixth.

Four home runs were hit in the contest, three by Home Builders and one by Sunbeams. Carawan homered in the first with one man on for the Builders and was followed by a three run circuit clout by Dash in the third plus another fourmaster with the bases loaded by Barber. Barber's hit came in the fifth.

Losing hurler J. McRoy rapped out a four base blow in the last of the sixth for Sunbeam.

In addition to his homer Carawan, Builders shortstop, had two singles and a double in five trips to the plate and scored four runs.

Tommie Lupton, Waldensian first sacker, rapped out three singles and a double in five at bats to lead his teams at the plate.

Losing hurler J. McRoy gave up 17 hits to the Builders. His teammates assaulted Gordon for 14. Gordon was the only Builders batter that did not hit safely while Edwards was the only Sunbeam player to go without a base knock.

Last Ditch Rally Gives Lions Win

Two runs in the bottom of the sixth inning enabled the Lions to come from behind and edged the Exchange by a score of 2-1.

Peanut Nunn pitched for the losers and gave up four hits. His opponent, Staton, also gave up only four safe blows, two of these being collected by Nunn. Both were doubles.

No member of the Lion club could collect more than one hit.

Nunn had a one hit shutout going until the sixth. He weakened at that point and was touched for three singles which led to the tying and winning runs.

Prof Makes Hobby Of Naming Horses

AP Newsfeatures

DAVIS, Calif. — Choosing names for horses isn't the easy job it might appear at first glance. Just ask Prof. C. E. Howell of the University of California, who has named 227.

At first he accepted the added assignment of name-giving with gusto. The first came easily. But that was 32 years and a couple of hundred thoroughbreds ago.

Registering the horses requires names, with two alternates must be filed by a certain date.

Howell has named horses after college presidents, faculty members, national associations, flowers, California farmers, relatives, co-eds and even his department secretary.

Dark Horse Leads

CHERRY POINT, N. C. (AP)—Going into the second half of the Navy-Marine Corps Atlantic Fleet swimming championships here today, a dark horse team representing Air Force Atlantic held the lead with 43 points.

The favored Fleet Marine squad was in second place with 34 points. Trailing in third position was the defending champion Amphibious Force team with 31.

Support Needed

The game last night at Guy Smith Stadium between the Pony League All-Stars, the team that will represent Greenville in the regional six tourney at North Charleston, South Carolina, and players from the rest of the league netted approximately $50 toward expenses for the trip.

A fair sized crowd was on hand to watch the All-Stars run up a 16-0 score. On Saturday night a repeat performance will be staged at the stadium. Game time is 7:45. If the team is to make the South Carolina trip then it is necessary that a total of $300 be raised.

The statement was made that if the townspeople do not support the team then it will be impossible for the boys to make the trip. A good gate at Saturday's game would add considerably to the financial total necessary.

Davey Victorious In Return Match

CHICAGO (UP)—Chuck Davey, his honor avenged, asked today for a title shot at welterweight king Kid Gavilan, but the International Boxing Club wanted him to fight one more opponent before meeting the Cuban.

Unbeaten Davey, who took the sting out of the only draw on his professional record by outpointing Carmen Basilio last night, was scheduled to have a meeting today with IBC President Jim Norris.

The Detroit welter said he would tell Norris he wants a vacation and then a championship scrap with Gavilan in September or October.

Yankees Take Two Games From Cleveland Indians

By CARL LUNDQUIST
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP)—Casey Stengel, boss of baseball's big muscle monopoly, wasn't exactly advising Yankee fans to apply for World Series tickets, but he somehow arrived today at the odd conclusion that they'll win their fourth pennant by nine games.

What's more, he set the figure before the Yankee went out and drubbed the Indians, 8-7 in 10 innings and 7-4, and once again took full command in the American League race by 4 1-2 games. The Indians now can get no closer than 2 1-2 games even if they sweep tonight's finale doubleheader when they have to face the Yankee aces, Allie (11-4) Reynolds and Vic (9-2) Raschi, who almost pitched a no-hitter his last time out.

The Yankees whizzed from behind to tie up yesterday's opener at 7-7 on Yogi Berra's 20th homer which increased his league lead in that department. Then they won it in the 10th when Hank Bauer, hitless in the regulation distance, prolonged his 11 - game consecutive streak with a game-winning single. In the second game, the Yankees clinched victory off Bob Feller with a four-run rally in the seventh that highlighted Gil McDougald's three-run homer.

The Red Sox held third place, five games out of first place by topping the White Sox again, 7-3, and the Tigers topped the Senators 9-0 on four-hit pitching by lefty Bill Wight. The Browns and Athletics were rained out in their double bill at Philadelphia.

In the National League, the Dodgers beat the Reds 5-3; the Giants downed the Cards, 8-7 in 10 innings; the Cubs beat the Braves, 3 - 2 in 13 innings; and the Phils defeated the Pirates 8-7.

Hoot Evers hit a two-run homer steady nine hit ball in Boston's victory over the up - and - down Chicagoans. It was Parnell's seventh win and his second straight since returning after being out with a shoulder injury.

No Single Factor Defeated Taft, Or Provided Ike With Victory Margin

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — One of the best labor-saving devices in the field of ideas is to settle for a single answer to a complex problem. It has been tried in explaining Gen. Eisenhower's victory. But there were more factors than one at work in Chicago.

For example, it has been said Eisenhower's win was the triumph of the internationalist over the isolationist wing of the Republican Party. Isolationism versus internationalism was certainly an element in the delegates' thinking but surely not the only one.

Although Sen. Taft denies being an isolationist, some of his support was, if the word has any meaning.

Taft fought the Atlantic Pact and arms for Europe, two projects which Eisenhower not only supported and fought for but spent a year of his life in Europe trying to make work. But isolationism versus internationalism is not new. Every Republican convention from 1940 on has chosen an internationalist to head the party ticket.

It has been said flatly that Eisenhower's victory was the triumph of the younger wing of the party over the Old Guard. At Chicago it was. Whether it's a permanent triumph will be shown in Congress next year if the Republicans win a majority of the seats.

But there were other, and important, forces working in Chicago. A large chunk of personal self-interest among the delegates themselves; morality; some smart political tactics and some wretched ones; perhaps some symbolism; and faith; and hate.

It is possible a majority of the 1,206 delegates actually preferred Taft, who has been a longtime party faithful, to Eisenhower, who is a Johnny-come-lately in Republican politics, because a majority may have felt closer to the senator's thinking than to the general's.

But for many of the delegates—those holding city or state offices or looking for them this year—there was a practical problem: Which, Taft or Eisenhower, seemed to have the better chance of winning in November. The answer was important to the delegates with a stake in jobs, for a Republican sweep would carry them in, a Democratic sweep might knock them out.

And the public opinion polls, plus Eisenhower's showing in the primaries, indicated he had a lively chance of winning. So it's possible a lot of delegates who may have preferred Taft, personally, voted for Eisenhower.

Then there was the moral issue. The Eisenhower people were smart enough to latch onto, and make the most of, this one. It involved the Southern delegates whom the Taftites tried to seat. The Eisenhower people yelled "grab." The Eisenhowerites represented themselves as being on the side of the angels. They made such a strong pitch they seemed to be confronting the delegates with a choice between good and evil. Until then they had no real issue in the fight with Taft, except perhaps in foreign affairs.

And at every step the bumbling Taftites played into their hands by trying to use brute force to crush Eisenhower. And with the whole nation looking on for the first time, through TV, the delegates who weren't alienated by the Taftites were at least made self-conscious. And when the Taftites attacked Gov. Dewey, personally on the floor and off the floor, they probably swung votes Eisenhower's way. Dewey has still quite a few friends in politics.

In addition, quite a few delegates were apparently willing to take Eisenhower on faith: Either because they liked his looks and manner or shared his foreign views, they believed he'd make a good president. They couldn't be voting for him because they liked his domestic views for the simple reason that he himself has admitted he doesn't know much about domestic issues.

And there may even have been some symbolism: Delegates who felt lost and frustrated by current events may have seen in Eisenhower the great father image, the leader who so calmly had solved the monumental problem of the European war by winning and who therefore might be able to lead the nation at home into the kind of daylight they hoped for.

Up To Now, July Rains Top 1951

More rain fell in the Greenville area the first 14 days of July this year than on the same dates last year, Mrs. Carl E. Maiden, local observer for the U.S. Weather Bureau, stated today.

An inch and a half of rain fell here the first half of this month. It was not washing rain, but soil-soaking moisture that gave crops, especially tobacco, a new lease on life.

The rainfall this year came after a prolonged dry spell when there was little moisture in the ground. The temperature at the time soared above 100 several days. The inch and a half of rain was rapidly absorbed in the soil.

The one and a fraction of an inch of rain recorded last year during the first 14 days of July followed copious rains the last few days of June. There was plenty of moisture in the soil, the weather observer stated, and crops, especially tobacco, took on satisfactory growth at that time.

The average rainfall in this section of the state is from 50 to 60 inches a year. Rainfall so far this year is below normal, the records show.

Compensation To Disabled Vets Is To Be Increased

Pitt County veterans of all wars or peacetime service who are blind, crippled or suffering from tuberculosis will receive increased compensation payments in their checks due September 1.

Ernest C. Elliott, officer-in-charge of the New Bern VA office, said today a new law recently signed by the president authorizes for the first time a minimum monthly rate for arrested tuberculosis and a statutory allowance for loss, or loss of use, of a creative organ.

"The new law includes World War II veterans and veterans with service since the beginning of the Korean conflict," Elliott stated. "That means almost 120,000 blind, crippled and tuberculosis veterans off all service will receive increased payments."

The VA officer said increases are automatic for those veterans who are now receiving compensation for disabilities specified by the new law. However, veterans who are not on compensation rolls and are covered by the new law should apply at their nearest VA office.

"The new law goes into effect August 1, and the increases will be reflected in checks usually received by veterans September 1," he disclosed.

Veterans who will receive the increased checks are those who have been awarded statutory allowances for the loss, or loss of use, of either or both hands or feet; for blindness and for total deafness.

Veterans who are receiving a minimum monthly rate of compensation for arrested tuberculosis will also receive increased checks. Statutory allowances are paid in addition to the basic compensation rates which are based on the degree of disability, and range from $15.75 to $172.50.

Medical Course Proves Popular

SINGAPORE (AP) — Seventy-five per cent of new students at the University of Malaya want to study medicine because of the professional standing of doctors in the community and their higher income, a university spokesman said.

Of 126 students, 85, including 15 girls, are entering the Faculty of Medicine, 26 the Faculty of Arts and 17 the Faculty of Science.

The cottontail rabbit is essentially a species of the borderlands, living in neither forests nor plains.

Dramatics Results Of Anti-Allergy Drug Hailed

By DELOS SMITH
United Press Science Editor

NEW YORK (UP) —A physician specializing in allergies used the word "dramatic" today in describing the ability of a new drug to halt the bodily chemical process which produces hay fever, one of man's major nuisances, particularly at this time of year.

Dr. N. E. Silbert, chief allergist at three hospitals in Chelsea, Mass. reported in the current issue of the Annals of Allergy the results of tests with 102 victims of pollen hay fever and 114 victims of related allergies.

The drug he used was phenergan hydrochloride, which has been proven to be one of the most potent of the anti-histaminic compounds. Ninety of the 102 hay fever patients were given relief Dr. Silbert classified as "dramatic, excellent, or good." Four received only "fair" relief and eight received little or no relief.

Silbert treated 37 victims of vasomotor rhinitis, another form of hay fever, and 34 got either "dramatic, excellent, or good" relief. The numbers of patients involved in the tests of other allergies were not high enough to be significant, yet Silbert regarded the results as indicative.

Of the 216 allergy victims treated 88.42 per cent were benefitted, 11.56 per cent were classified as "failures," and 162 of the 216 got "dramatic, excellent, or good" results.

"Of the 216 patients treated with phenergan, only 12 per cent experienced side effects, and only three patients (0.014 per cent) found it necessary to discontinue medication," he wrote. "it was gratifying to find that an antihistamine so potent and possessing such high therapeutic value as phenergan produces so few untoward symptoms. This is particularly noteworthy, since with most anti-histamines if the toxicity of the compound is reduced, the efficiency is likewise lowered."

The value of the drug, he pointed out, was to relieve the symptoms. In this the action was "rapid in onset; single doses maintain alleviation of symptoms for periods of four to twenty-four hours. No other anti-histamine employed by the author has exhibited such prolonged effect." This "protracted symptomatic relief," he continued, gives time for "definitive therapy."

The drug is a chemical synthesis and has been under investigation for years. Its potency as an antihistamine is suggested by a classical experiment in which it protected guinea pigs against 1,500 ordinarily fatal doses of histamine. This potency makes it a prescription drug.

Silbert gave his adult patients a total daily dosage of 37.5 milligrams, given in three doses of 12.5 milligrams, after breakfast, in midafternoon, and before retiring. He reduced the dose by one half for children, but said "the full adult dose could be administered to children if required to control symptoms."

NEW YORK (UP) —It took 49 traffic tickets to get Jose Vargas into court.

Magistrate Eugene Canudo looked at the record and dubbed Vargas "New York's worst traffic chiseler." He fined Vargas $1,025 and sentenced him to 58 days in jail.

Riot Ringleaders In Isolation Cells

RALEIGH (UP)—Four convicts who seized a guard during an uprising at a North Carolina prison camp were in isolation cells at Central Prison here today.

The four, armed with a pocketknife and two ice picks, seized guard D.W. Reynolds, 42, at breakfast Tuesday and held him captive in a barricaded cellblock for eight hours. Reynolds was released unharmed when State Prisons Director Walter Anderson drove to the Lincoln County camp and gave an ultimatum for his release.

"Absolutely no concessions were made," Anderson said. "I told them they would have to open the door before we listened to any of their grievances."

Reynolds, father of 10, was released two minutes after Anderson entered the brick building.

Led by George Gibby, 30, twice escaped convict from Gastonia, who was a ringleader of the June 4 riot at Central Prison here, the convicts had stored food in the building and had prepared to hold off attempts to storm it.

"Gibby should have learned his lesson the first time," Warden Robert Allen said. He added that many convicts here are angry at Gibby and that isolation or solitary confinement may be the safest place for him.

Ex-Rackets Boss Held Under Bond For Hit-And-Run

GREENSBORO (UP)—A suave, wealthy former rackets boss was held under $50,000 bond today on charges of killing a 13-year-old boy with his car yesterday afternoon and failing to stop.

Francis Duval (Crip) Smith, already under conviction for bribery and conspiracy to protect his former lottery operations, was captured as he panted across an open field after abandoning his car in a furious police chase.

Police said two witnesses identified Smith's car by its license plates as the one that struck down young George Rainey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Rainey, as he rode his bicycle in suburban Pomona. Police measured skid marks at 192 feet and said the bicycle was dragged 98 feet.

Officer O.O. Williamson started the chase after Smith's car, but was forced into a ditch. Soon eight city police and highway patrol cars joined in. The pursuit led to nearby Pleasant Garden. There Smith abandoned the car at a filling station and fled on foot.

Smith, who had been free under $60,000 bond pending appeal of his 10-year prison sentence and $25,000 fine in connection with alleged attempts to bribe four policemen, was charged with manslaughter leaving the scene of an accident, reckless driving and failing to halt for a siren.

Pays Cost Of Tour By Negro Opera In Europe

By ALINE MOSBY
United Press Hollywood Reporter

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Thanks to a Kansas millionaire, a company of "Porgy and Bess" goes to Europe this fall to fight Red whispers that American Negroes don't have a chance to be artistic.

A capitalist named Blevins Davis put up more than $200,000 to send the all-Negro opera by George Gershwin overseas. He figures it also will prove that all American culture isn't borrowed from Europeans.

"These 50 Negroes are wonderful musicians and singers," explained lyricist Ira Gershwin, brother of the late composer. "We'll show Europe that Negroes have advanced to a high cultural point."

European cities have the welcome mat out for the company, too. The troupe, now appearing in Chicago, will play in Berlin, Vienna, Paris and London. Yugoslavia asked for the show. But the State Department, backing the tour, ruled the opera couldn't ring up the curtain behind the Iron Curtain.

"Davis is a dedicated man," Gershwin went on. "He wants peace in the world and he wants nations to be happy and free. He thought 'Porgy and Bess' was a wonderful thing to send abroad.

"Last year Davis sent an American ballet company over there. This is a non-profit tour, too, so he'll be allowed to only break even."

The American opera was applauded by the critics but was lukewarm at the boxoffice when it opened in New York in 1935. But tunes like "Summertime" later became hits and made the revival a success in 1942.

"Porgy and Bess" once was staged in Zurich, Switzerland. But the all-white Swiss cast played a bowling game on the stage instead of the traditional American craps. A Copenhagen company produced the opera in black-face, too. But the rest of Europe has never seen the show.

"I've had more than 80 offers to sell 'Porgy and Bess' to the movies," Gershwin added. "But we won't sell it until after it's toured for a few more years.

"In fact, there's so much activity with George's and my music that I can't keep track of it. Every big city has a Gershwin memorial concert each summer. Our 'American in Paris' was a movie and 'Of Thee I Sing' was revived on Broadway. A Gershwin orchestra is playing in 9 cities this year.

"George left a lot of music that never was published, too. Some of these days I'll get around to writing lyrics for it. But I like to spend a lot of time at the race track."

Chapter 1

Spring came early to the cow country that year. South of the Montana-Wyoming line, deep in the bad country men were on the move and strange whispers among the inhabitants of unnamed settlements portended that something was in the wind. Names cropped up of men like Black Jack Caswell and Dutch Sanders, horse thieves from the Hole-in-the-wall; Ro Rundert, the Road Runner, who dressed like a gentleman and who, men said, was on King Ramson's payroll to keep the man's hard-bitten riders in line; the "King" himself, who lived in baronial headquarters just four miles north of Buckner's Crossing, where the fight had taken place.

Men would talk about that fight for a long time, because there had never been its equal in the northern country. Five of Black Jack Caswell's wolf pack down on the floor in front of Buckner's own fireplace, while a wispy man known only as Montana stood rocking against the bar, shot almost to pieces, his fire-flecked eyes on one of the lot who moved.

Since the day of the fight th name had grown until it became a legend, for men wanted to know what the rider from up north was doing down there. The answer was not known for it had been lost in the yell of old BenCarson who carrying the victor out wrapped in a wool blanket,had squalled at a blanched face back of the bar: "Tell King Ramson that a gent named Montana has just left his calling card, Buckner."

They had disappeared into the chill of the fall evening, and it wasn't until three weeks later that Ben put in appearance at his trading post in Smeller-A-Mile far to the south. Black Jack Caswell, foaming oaths and threats, tried to find out all during the winter

At about the time that real warmth came to the land below and men began their summer activities early, there was still snow upon old Horse Thief Peak's bare shoulders, ohe hundred and twenty miles north and west of Ben Carson's trading post in Smeller-A-Mile.

In the small cabin a fire was going with a faint wisp of smoke trailing toward the sky. The smoke suddenly turned into clouds of steam and the man inside straightened with the empty water pail in his hand. He was about twenty-five, of medium build, with shoulders that, though not too wide, were spare and wiry. It was difficult to tell much about his features, for the first glance revealed hair so long it fell almost to his shoulders.

Montana lifted the bars of the tiny pole corral, noting with satisfaction that the soreness was all gone from his arms. A month of cutting wood and clearing out buckbrush had brought back his strength—that plus Ben Carson's surgery.

Montana saddled the bay and led him toward the front of the cabin.

He tied on the roll and slipped the gun into its scabbard beneath the left saddle skirt. It was a long gun and a heavy one for saddle work; a 40-60 repeater.

Montana left the valley, riding through the cut on the south end, and began a gradual descent tnto the lower country.

All that day he worked his way in and out of ravines and gullies, always keeping off the timber line and ridge tops. For this was bad country now; this was Caswell country. The back country, they called it. On the afternoon of the fourth day, he pulled up almost under an over-hanging rimrock and saw before him Smeller-A-Mile.

Montana let his eyes play over the town. The hitch rails both at the trading post and the log saloon across from it were empty, for it was now late in the afternoon.

He swung down in front of the post, tossed reins, over the horizontal rail, ducked under and crossed the porch. The interior lay before his sun-dimmed eyes, low and sprawling, with goods stacked all over the place. It was from these goods that Ben Carson selected each spring enough stock for the pack strings of his three traders.

Carson looked up, peering over the top of gold-rimmed specs that rested far down on his red beak of a nose. The paper he had been reading slowly slid to the floor and he rose, staring.

"Good Lord, son," he got out slowly. "You're a month overdue. I thought you were dead."

"Not yet," Thornton answered, gripping his hand. "I was afraid you might be."

Ben's grip was like iron, for despite his sixty years he was a vigorous, active man and the big frame that looked fattish was deceivingly solid. He stepped back and grinned.

"There has been a bit of a ruckus," he admitted. "Black Jack paid me a visit. He plumb had the red up until I stuck a sawed-off in his belly and told him to get going. Wanted to know where you were. Said this country was too small to hold him and that lone wolf gun fighter Montana that King Ramson had hired to clean 'em all out."

"So that's what they think,eh?" Brand Thornton said slowly.

King went east. He's sold his spread, Brand. To some millionaire from back East. They're due out here any day now Fellow named Forrest. But never mind all that. Get over there on that barrel while I get my shears and comb and razor. You look like a grizzly."

Thornton told him about the old man dying. Carson shook his head. "Too bad," he said. "He was a fine old gent."

"He deeded me the place," Thornton said, seating himself on the upturned barrel. It'll be a nice place to hide out, if I ever need it again."

'And you might be needing it again, eh, son?"

Thornton nodded. The shears began to speak.

"You never told me last fall why you wanted to kill him, son."

"I'll tell you now, Ben. The man known as King Ramson is really a man named Jim Thornton. He's my father."

Eggs Hatched By Big Heat Wave

CENTRALIA, ILL. (AP) — a Southern Illinois heat wave was hot enough to hatch an egg — in fact six, claims a Keyesport farm wife.

Mrs. Henry Schmitt said goose eggs failed to hatch under a hen in normal time and were discarded. She delayed burying them. After a week of temperatures near 100 degrees, she happened to note one egg cracking. She said natural heat hatched six goslings.

Rode Their Bus After Year Late

WEBSTER CITY, Ia. — (AP) — When Ethel Swanson and Edith Jensen missed the double-deck bus at Piccadilly in London last summer, they forgot to throw away the unused tickets.

Recently when the touring London busses arrived here, the Misses Swanson and Jensen hailed the caravan's motor cycle escort at the edge of town.

Then they proffered their June 10, 1951 tickets and were escorted board — finally catching a bus they missed a year ago and 5,000 miles away.

Tuesday's Cases In County Court

By CHESTER WALSH

Judge Dink James, in Pitt County Recorder's Court, Tuesday, disposed of numerous cases in the plan not to allow the docket to become congested.

Solicitor H. H. Horton of Farmville and the judge are continuing their plan to keep the docket at a minimum number of cases, the record shows.

Benjamin Wilson, Negro, who was tried on the charge of larceny of a $30 radio from J. C. Wynne of Bethel, was found guilty. The court continued prayer for judgment on payment of court costs—about $18. Willie James Morris, Negro, was found guilty of larceny of automobile tires. The court gave him four months on the roads, sentence suspended on payment of $25 fine and costs, and he is to remain of good behavior for two years.

Speeding: John Harvey Harris, Route 3, Greenville, prayer for judgment continued on payment of costs. The court ordered his driver's license suspended for 10 days. Milton Joyner, of near Farmville, prayer for judgment continued on payment of court costs. His license was ordered suspended for 10 days.

Leggett Roebuck Jr., charged with driving drunk, asked for a jury trial, and the request was granted.

Thomas Junior Hardee, Negro, was fined $25, costs deducted, for driving without an operator's license.

Henry Barnhill, Negro, of near Winterville, was found guilty of driving with defective brakes. Judgment was continued on payment of court costs.

Raymond R. Eakes of near Greenville was found guilty of driving closer to another vehicle than allowed by law. The court fined him $25 and costs and recommended that his driver's license be suspended three months.

James E. Tripp of near Greenville was fined $25 and costs for following too close to another vehicle. The court's judgment also provides that he is to pay $54 to the prosecuting witness, Frank Little. Tripp's driver's license is to be suspended for six months.

In the case of Mack Cayton, 48-year-old Negro, who was found guilty of being drunk and trespassing, Judge James gave him 30 days in jail, sentence suspended on payment of $25, costs deducted. The court's judgment also provides that Tripp is to remain of good behavior for a year.

Mousetrap Kills By Electricity

NEW YORK (AP) — A new mousetrap kills by electric shock that cannot be transmitted to humans because of its unique design.

The device, invented by A. G. Burns of Farmland, Indl, catches, slays and places the dead rodent's body in a drawer compartment. The drawer is removable for easy cleaning and elimimates handling the mouse.

The trap resets itself after each execution within a fraction of a second. The device is now being manufactured in volume.

When ice floats on water, only one-ninth of its bulk is above the surface.

Inquest Friday In Fatal Shooting

Coroner Griffin H. Rouse will hold an inquest at the Courthouse Friday night at 7:30 concerning the fatal shooting of John Junior Coward, Negro, early Tuesday morning.

Police are holding Mary Elizabeth Eppes, 23-year-old Negro, who lives on the Washington highway, Greenville, who is charged with the shooting.

Lt. M. E. Corbett, police officer investigating the shooting, said the woman surrendered to police after the shooting and gave up a pistol. She is being held without privilege of bail pending the inquest and the fixing of bail bond by Coroner Rouse and Sixth District Judicial District Solicitor William J. (Dick) Bundy, Friday night.

Employes Lack Basic Schooling

NEW YORK (AP)—The trouble with recent high school graduates employed by its member firms, says the Commerce and Industry Association of New York, is that their spelling is bad, their handwriting illegible, their arithmetic unreliable and they expect too much pay and too rapid advancement.

The survey was based on questionnaires filled in by executives of 165 firms about the aptitudes and job qualifications of 33,234 employes hired since 1947 with high school educations.

Retirement Has Not Cut Work Of Two Churchmen

DES MOINES, Ia. (AP) —Two men who have been ministers 50 years say retirement hasn't cut down much on their preaching.

They are the Rev. Peter Froeberg of Brockton, Mass. and the Rev. J. E. Lorimer of Chappell, Neb. They and the Rev. A. T. Lundholm of Rock Island, Ill. were honored recently at the 93rd annual synod of the Augustana Lutheran Church for 50 years of service to the church.

The Rev. Froeberg says he retired in 1946, but hasn't missed a Sunday in the pulpit since. And the Rev. Lorimer says that since his retirement he goes wherever he is needed and has preached almost every Sunday.

The Rev. Lundholm is not retired. He is editor of The Augustana, Swedish bi-monthly newspaper in ROCK Island.

Patients Look For Efficiency

DURHAM (AP)—You might think the primary concern of a man about to enter a hospital would be what the nurse looks like, or does the room have a television set.

Not so, though, according to a poll taken by the editor of the Greensboro Daily News.

H. W. Kendall told the seventh Southern Institute for Hospital Administrators at Duke University yesterday that persons throughout the state had been asked "What do you expect of a hospital to which you would go or send your loved ones?"

Those polled answered: Sound management, the best doctors, personal attention, as little noise as possible, good food, cleanliness, special emphasis on the humanitarian approach.

Kendall told the administrators that most of the people thought hospitals fell short of meeting all those requirements, particularly in the area of humaneness.

"I do not vouch for the truth of such criticisms," Kendall emphasized. "I only report what people told me."

Kendall said the public is either correct or the hospitals have done "a woefully poor job" in getting the truth across. He urged the administrators to tell their story to the public and to become more aware of their public relations.

Youth Injured By Car; Reportedly Ran Onto Road

Wadie Tucker, 17-year-old Negro youth of near Haddock's Cross Roads, was injured last night when he reportedly walked into the path of a car on the highway.

Investigating officers Jim Davis of the State Highway Patrol and Duke Andrews of the Sheriff Department, listed the youth's injuries as being severe cuts and bruises.

Officers quoted the driver of the car, who gave his name as Theslomi Mobley, as saying Tucker was kneeling beside the highway and when the car drew near he ran into the path of the vehicle. His testimony was supported by Jasper Mills, owner of the car, who was with Mobley at the time of the accident.

Investigation of the accident is still under way.

Training Plane Is Damaged On Solo Flight Here

An Air Force training plane, piloted by a student on his solo flight, cracked up in landing at the Pitt-Greenville airport yesterday afternoon.

Details on the crash were not available as to the pilot's name except that he was one of the training crew stationed at Stalling Air Force Base at Kinston.

Landing gear on the plane, an AT-6, was ripped off, and some damage to the propellor and left wing was reported.

To date there have been no fatal crack-ups at the local auxiliary landing field.

without the independent, liberal, labor and minority group vote the ADA claims to represent.

"To those Democrats who contend that the liberal-labor coalition in ADA and the great independent and minority vote in the country will have no place to go—just one word of warning:" said Gerwitz. "These groups don't have to go anywhere. They can just stay home. The margin of victory in 1952 will be the gap between passive indifference and the enthusiastic support of these groups."

Gerwitz was the big gun in a line-up of witnesses before the 21-member committee to argue for civil rights plank even stronger than the one which touched off the Southern bolt at the 1948 convention.

The Southerners also were sheeling up some of their most outspoken champions. Gov. Herman Talmadge of Georgia said he would fight any federal civil rights program, compulsory or voluntary. He hinted at a convention row that would make the 1948 brawl seem tame.

Sen. Herbert H. Lehman of New York said he would fight it out on the convention floor if the platform committee turned down a strong civil rights plank and a curb on the Senate filibuster, which the Southerners always have used in the past to kill such legislation.

But New York Democratic leaders intimated privately they would not go all the way with Lehman. They believed the platform writers would come up with a peace-making plank that all sides could accept and said they wanted to avoid a floor ruckus if possible.

Compromise efforts were continuing, even in Russell's camp, where some of his lieutenants were pressing for a fair employment practices commission (FEPC) law subject to veto by the individual states.

Former Sen. Francis J Myers of Pennsylvania, a key man in the 1948 fight, said he was "very hopeful" of a compromise.

"I am for a strong civil rights plank in the 1952 platform," said Myers, "but I am likewise confident that we must keep the party united to win in November.

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Rita Hayworth, the princess who wants to go back to being just a movie queen, says her estranged husband, Aly Khan, may visit her and their daughter, Yasmine, in May next year.

But the red-haired actress said the visit did not necessarily mean there would be a reconciliation although "it's possible."

Conventionites Are Given Tips

ROCK HILL, S. C. (AP)—Going to the national Democratic convention at Chicago next week?

If you are, here are a few suggestions for the comfort of Carolinians who plan to attend from Talbot Patrick, publisher of The Rock Hill Herald and The Goldsboro, N. C., News-Argus, who attended the Republican convention last week.

1. Dark glasses. You'll need 'em when you face the glare of the convention hall and committee rooms which are lighted for television.

2. A seat cushion. The one you take to the ball game will be mighty comfortable on the hard seats you'll occupy for long hours in the convention hall.

3. More money than you now expect to spend. Even in the less expensive coffee shops and cafes, prices are higher than those you ordinarily pay at home; it's an expensive taxicab ride from your hotel to the convention hall; and you may want a souvenir.

4. Clothes. In Chicago, they say, if you don't like the weather just wait a minute—it changes that fast. Even the air-conditioned convention hall gets hot when thousands squeeze into it.

5. Extras. You'll be eating at unusual hours, and a remedy for irregularity and for the different types of food you aren't used to will come in mighty handy. And don't forget the headaches—they'll come from the steady grind.

6. Sleep. Get all you can tonight and tomorrow night, for you'll likely lose plenty of it next week.

Mrs. Truman . . .

ing the afternoon yesterday, there had been steady improvement in his condition since Monday morning. It was on Monday that Short first announced that Mr. Truman was suffering from "a mild virus infection."

For years, the President was proud almost to the point of vanity of his good health, endurance and stamina, and his erect, military figure. Recently, however, he has expressed frequent fears of what another term in the White House might do to him.

He has told many people that one of the controlling reasons for refusing to seek renomination or reelection is that he does not want to be "carried out of here feet first . . . in a pine box."

RECOVER REVENUES
