Truce Optimism Is Again Waning

Expected Break In Korean Negotiations Fails To Materialize; Peiping Radio Adds To Decreasing Hopes In Reporting Secret Talks Solved Nothing

PANMUNJOM, Korea (UP) - An expected break in the long deadlocked Korean truce talks has failed to materialize, it appeared today.

Allied and Communist negotiators held another secret meeting, and an official United Nations spokesman, who had previously given rise to optimism said after the 29-minute session he had "no comment."

A Peiping radio broadcast added to decreasing hopes for a end to the deadlock on the prisoner of war problem by saying "no issue has been solved" in the series of secret talks begun at the Communists' request July 2.

The broadcast quoted Communist correspondent Alan Winington, considered a semi-official source and usually reflects the thinking of Red representatives.

There had been optimistic speculation at the beginning of the secret session that the Reds wanted the cloak of secrecy drawn so they could discuss truce problems "realistically."

Allied spokesman Brig. Gen. William F. Nuckolls declined after today's session even to comment on the atmosphere of the meeting.

Previously Nuckolls had offered a basis for some optimism by saying the talks were being carried out on a "businesslike" basis, and that the Reds were sticking to the "matter at hand."

Another meeting was scheduled for Sunday at 11 a.m. (9 p.m. Saturday EST), and the decision to hold another session clearly indicated that no break by the war prisoner problem had materialized.

The disagreement over forced or voluntary repatriation of war prisoners was the lone remaining obstacle to a truce.

WASHINGTON (UP) - The Senate internal security subcommittee is tentatively planning to start lengthy hearings this fall on alleged Communist attempts to influence teaching in the nation's schools.

Chairman Pat McCarran (D - Nev) disclosed yesterday that the subcommittee's staff has been gathering quantities of materials for months on Communist attempts to infiltrate teaching staffs and slant textbooks.

McCarran called the accumulated material "shocking." One staff member said it shows "stunning" of textbooks to follow the Communist line.

The subcommittee plans to start with closed hearings. No decision has been made yet on whether to follow them with open hearings or merely release a report on the closed sessions.

At-A-Glance

CHICAGO (UP)—Capsule report on leading candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination: GOV. ADLAI E. STEVENSON - Met privately with Chicago Democratic leaders who urged him to "reconsider" and bid for the nomination. A spokesman said Stevenson repeated his previous statement that he doesn't want his boosters to "do anything to further his candidacy."

VICE PRESIDENT ALBEN W. BARKLEY—Being talked up increasingly as a "harmony" nominee; "confident" he will be nominated, and says "any old ballot would suit me."

AVERELL HARRIMAN—Hoping for President Truman's backing as the only "100 per cent" Fair Dealer in the race, and regarded here as the logical man to receive the White House blessing.

SEN. ESTES KEFAUVER - Joined forces with Harriman camp to fight for seating of pro-administration delegation, rather than "regulars" from Texas and Mississippi; denies any "deals" with Harriman on nomination.

SEN. RICHARD B. RUSSELL - Worried about adverse Southern reaction to his surprise attack on Taft-Hartley law; fence-mending talk with Gov. Allan Shivers of Texas produces promise that Texas will continue to support him.

Mary Eppes Held For Grand Jury

Coroner's Inquest Heavily Attended; Woman Applauded

By CHESTER WALSH A coroner's jury at the courthouse last night ordered Mary Elizabeth Eppes, 23, Negro, held without privilege of bail in connection with the fatal shooting of Arthur Coward Jr., 30-year-old Negro, last Tuesday.

The jury empaneled by Coroner Griffin H. Rouse found that Coward came to his death on the morning of July 15 as a result of a bullet wound inflicted by Mary Elizabeth Eppes. Fifth District Solicitor William J. Bundy questioned the witnesses.

Police Lt. W. E. Peterson testified to being called to Boyd Avenue and finding Coward in a dying condition, and that he died upon arrival at the hospital.

Sgt. E. R. Buck testified that the woman came to the police station to surrender; that she said she had shot Coward and handed over her pocketbook containing a pistol. She was locked up.

Police Lt. M. E. Corbett, who continued the investigation, did not testify.

Witnesses who testified included Minnie Lee Coward and Sarah Coward, the dead man's sister and mother, respectively.

Mary Eppes, charged with the man's death, testified that they had been sweethearts for some time; that they had numerous arguments, and that he had beaten her on numerous occasions.

Several hundred Negroes attended the inquest. A small number of white persons were there. After the coroner's jury delivered its verdict and officers were getting ready to take the woman to the county jail, Negroes in the courtroom gave the accused woman an ovation. Scores of men and women gave her money—some greenbacks and some silver.

It was a touching scene, officers said, and some of them asserted they had never seen such an ovation in a courtroom before.

The woman had not obtained the services of a lawyer. The next grand jury will be in session here the last week in August.

Passengers And Crew Of Flaming Ship Are Saved

Four Persons Still Missing; Inflammable Cargo Flared Up Fast

NEW YORK (YP)—Fire swept the Norwegian freighter Black Gull in the Atlantic Ocean off Long Island today but 45 out of 49 passengers and crewmen were plucked from chill waters by the Swedish mercy ship Gripsholm.

The Gripsholm effected one of the speediest and most efficient rescue operations in maritime history.

"It was a ghastly sight," Eric Sjolin, chief officer of the Gripsholm, said by ship-to-shore telephone.

"If we had gotten there a few minutes later it is doubtful if they could have been saved."

Forty-four of the rescued passengers and crewmen were transferred to the Coast Guard cutter Mackinac which proceeded to St. George, Staten Island. The cutter was expected to reach port about 6 p.m.

One seriously injured survivor remained aboard the Gripsholm under doctor's care.

The flames swept the entire ship and reports from the vessel to the Coast Guard said the life-boats were destroyed before they could be lowered.

"The Black Gull was burning from stem to bow," Sjolin said. But he said only one of the life boats had been destroyed. He said most of the survivors were in another lifeboat floating near the Black Gull.

The Gripsholm quickly lowered a motor launch and rescued all the men, Sjolin said.

The scene was 65 miles southeast of Montauk Point, famed sportsman's paradise, at the tip of Long Island which juts 100 odd miles into the Atlantic from Manhattan.

The time was 11:22 p.m. EST Friday. At that minute the Black Gull flashed the first SOS—ship burning. Emergency assistance was called.

Thirty-six minutes later, the ship radioed that nine passengers and 40 crewmen had been ordered to abandon ship.

How the fire started was not known and may remain a mystery of the sea.

Supporters Of Mossadegh Riot, Fight Police

TEHRAN, Iran (UP) Supporters of former Premier Mohammed Mossadegh rioted in Tehran and his Cracker-jacks; the Homer Briarhopper Show; Herb Gupton with his 12-piece orchestra and vocalist; Bobby Benson, young cowboy on the Mutual Broadcasting System; The Three C's; and Tex Street.

Other than a parade which will feature bands and floats from agricultural and civic organizations from outside the city, a beauty will be conducted by the Junior Chamber of Commerce. First prize to the winner will be $50 or an expense-free trip to the Escape Hotel at Fort Lauderdale, Florida, for her and her female escort. Girls from towns outside of Greenville with a population of not more than 2,500 are eligible to enter.

AMATEURS FAILED ROCK HILL, S.C. (AP)—Police said today that somebody broke a window in an amateurish attempt to rob the Rock Hill National Bank, but he didn't get inside and no money was taken.

ATHEENS, Ga. (UP) - Federal revenue agents reported today local moonshiners have adopted a new fuel which removes the telltale column of smoke from the operation of illegal stills. The officers broke up a 75-gallon copper still heated by smokeless butane gas.

No Injuries Or Deaths In Pitt County's 3 Highway Accidents Of Yesterday

Three highway accidents in Pitt County yesterday left in its wake a considerable amount of property damage but no injuries, the Highway Patrol reported.

Last night, an automobile operated by Noah Hunter, 28, of Route 2, Blount Creek, skidded on the slippery road near Grimesland on the Washington Highway and struck an electric power pole, disrupting service in the area for several hours.

Patrolman Delton E. Perry, investigating officer stated that the driver lost control of the vehicle, when he went off the shoulder and then hit the pole.

The accident occurred around nine o'clock but it was after midnight before repair crews from Grimesland and Washington were able to restore complete service.

A carry-all truck loaded with new automobiles, bound for Greenville, wrecked yesterday afternoon on the Bethel Highway about eight miles from Greenville when the driver attempted to avoid striking a car which was making a turn.

Patrolman Delton E. Perry stated that the truck, driven by Erwin E. Wasson, of Brooklyn, New York, was traveling South at about 30

Demo Left-Wingers Grab For Control Of Convention

Three On Their Way To Convention

To coin a rather trite expression, "Chicago, here we come!" Greenville will be well represented at the Democratic national convention in Chicago which begins Monday, because three local men are already on their way to the "Windy City."

Reading left to right, John G. Clark, David J. Whichard, III, and Frank Wooten will attend. Clark, who is agent for the Sinclair Refining Company, left earlier in the week for California and will fly back to the convention. Managing editor of The Daily Reflector, Whichard will afford Reflector readers with a first-hand coverage of convention activities. Wooten, a local attorney, will also attend.

WASHINGTON (UP) - President Truman returned to the White House today after an exhaustive, three-day physical checkup at the Army's Walter Reed Medical Center here.

As he entered the south entrance of the White House, Mr. Truman said he felt "fine."

Dressed in a summer suit, he stopped for about five minutes to permit photographers to make pictures. He joked and chatted with the photographers and news reporters.

In answer to questions about his health, the President replied with "Fine, fine. I feel all right."

He said he had had "nothing to do but loaf for a week." But he acted upon 333 pieces of legislation since he became ill with a mild virus infection last Wednesday.

Chuckling at the score of photographers gathered to take his picture, he said:

"Are you fellows trying to take the limelight off the Democratic convention?"

He said after that he was "glad to be back."

After entering the White House Mr. Truman went immediately to his living suite on the second floor. He was not expected to have any visitors or spend any time in his office today.

The President and Mrs. Truman planned a restful weekend at the White House before Mr. Truman plunges into the political melee to pick a Democratic presidential candidate.

Anti-Filibuster Plank May Set Off Explosion

CHICAGO (UP)—A proposed anti-filibuster plank in the Democratic platform appeared likely today to provide the spark for an explosive convention floor fight on the civil rights issue.

Middle-of-the-road Democrats have been working vigorously to resolve the issue without a floor fight such as the one that prompted the Southern Democratic walkout in 1948.

Although the outlook for the "peace" bloc was exceedingly dim, they have contended that, on the straight civil rights issue, they may be able to write a plank acceptable to the forces led by Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota and Herbert H. Lehman of New York and to the Southerners.

But they said that the demand of the Lehman-Humphrey bloc for a plank calling for an end of unlimited Senate debate—the key tactic of the Southerners in fighting civil rights legislation—is the chief stumbling bloc to their compromise efforts.

They predicted that the platform committee would reject the request.

Lehman, a member of the group, has served notice that if no anti-filibuster plank is included in the platform, he will bring his fight to the floor. This, they said, could set off the bitter party-splitting fight.

One Lehman-Humphrey supporter said that the anti-filibuster issue is "the guts of the whole civil rights fight."

Sen. John J. Sparkman of Alabama and Rep. Brook Hays of Arkansas told newsmen they were "still hopeful" of avoiding a floor battle.

Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, front running candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination with 269 1/2 delegate votes, and Averell Harriman, New York's favorite son candidate with 116 1/2 votes, teamed with Humphrey in the move against the governors which could have dynamic political impact upon the whole South.

Humphrey and the allies among organized labor and in the American for Democratic Action wing of the party were rapidly coming into their own here.

Moderates who hoped to avoid a North-South split were anxiously seeking a presidential candidate around whom to rally.

Highly-placed Democrat, who is actively bombing another candidate, told the United Press that Stevenson "certainly" could have the nomination by the second or third ballot if he would merely announce his willingness to accept it.

But Stevenson arrived here yesterday with the statement that he will do all he can to "discourage" his supporters from putting his name in nomination.

The latest United Press tabulation showed Stevenson with 64 1/2 votes pledged to him despite his disclaimers; Sen. Richard B. Russell of Georgia with 122 1/2; Sen. Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma with 47 1/2; and a handful of favorite sons with lesser strength.

The key fact was that nobody was even close to the 616 required to nominate.

With 48 hours still to go before the gavel falls for Monday's opening convention session, this gathering of Democrats was rapidly coming to a white heat of political controversy.

The angriest dispute so far centered around a credentials subcommittee which was to make recommendations to the Democratic National Convention.

Humphrey Sparks Drive To Bar Governors Of Texas And Mississippi From Session; Kefauver And Harriman Are Aligned In Effort; Moderates Desperately Seek Acceptable Nominee

By LYLE C. WILSON United Press Staff Correspondent CHICAGO (UP) - A left wing coalition studied with Truman administration figures was grabbing for control of the Democratic party today in maneuvers capped by a drive to bar the governors of Texas and Mississippi from next week's convention.

Youthful Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota sparked the left wing drive by denouncing Govs. Allan Shivers, Texas, and Hugh White, Mississippi, as "modern political carpetbaggers."

SEN. ESTES KEFAUVER OF Tennessee, front running candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination with 269 1/2 delegate votes, and Averell Harriman, New York's favorite son candidate with 116 1/2 votes, teamed with Humphrey in the move against the governors which could have dynamic political impact upon the whole South.

Continued Need Of More Crop Lands Is Ahead, Says Babson

By ROGER BABSON

Babson Park, Mass. Although the present Real-Estate Boom is ending I don't want my readers to sell "sustenance" farms held as insurance. When we gaze upon our bountiful dinner tables, it hardly seems possible that our grandchildren may have to face semi-starvation. In spite of the fact that the U. S. is rated the best-fed nation, there are signs of "starvation"; that is, certain diseases even now are due to a deterioration in our diet.

Shortage of Crop Lands Since 1880 the population of the U. S. has increased threefold - from about 50 million to about 155 million in 1951. Available crop land, on the other hand, has increased less than two and one-quarter times - from 188 million acres in 1880 to about 408 million acres in 1951. Furthermore, the net production of available crop land is both lagging the growth in population, and comparatively has been leveling-off since 1920.

The increase in crop land from the late 1800's to its peak in the early 1930's came primarily from the release of grazing land for horses and mules. This source of increase in farm land, however, is passing out of existence. With the trend towards greater use of live-stock and dairy products, more crop land will have sheep and poultry. This will further reduce available crop land. Moreover, since 1920 long-range

Government planning has provided new sources of crop land. The draining of swampland, together with new irrigation projects, to reclaim desert wastes, has already added 38 million acres of crop land to our economy. Looking ahead another 25 years, 45 million more acres may be added.

Thus, in 1975 we should have a total of 500 million acres of crop land. At the present rate of population growth, however, many more millions of acres will be needed to feed our nation on present-day diet standards. This pasture land may be the safest investment in which to have our money even if acreage prices decline.

The Role of Research Fortunately, agricultural research has brought forth fertilizers, insecticides, improved farm machinery and techniques, such as crop rotation. This has enabled farm output to continue to rise even after the increase in available crop land has leveled off. Continuing research should do much to help reduce the anticipated deficit in crop land; and, in addition, it should make our available crop land even more valuable, especially in case of World War III.

Unfortunately many farmers fail to realize that fertilizers and insecticides will not provide a solution to the problem. They are merely supplements, the same as vitamin tablets are only supplements to human diet. Despite improved fertilizers and insecticides, and despite improved agricultural techniques, the fertility of our crop land is declining, in some sections as much as 1 percent a year, or perhaps 15 percent in 20 years. Farmers have not been able to completely neutralize the damage caused by floods, soil erosion, and soil deterioration resulting from the abnormally high crop production during the past decade. The effect of this "mining" of crop land is a very serious factor.

Farmers Beware Here are some practical suggestions: (1) Urge your children to stay in a farming community instead of settling in some city which will be bombed in World War III. (2) Temper demands upon the soil and conserve what crop land you already have, and at the same time nurse the depleted soil back to normal. Our foreign aid program should point more to making other nations self-supporting as to food.

(3) It is important to cut our waste of food. The "Johnny-cleanup-plate" attitude must return to every household. This is a job for the parents; and it is just as important as the "Three R's." (4) Don't sell good pasture or timber land to take a profit in paper dollars. Such land should further increase in value; while paper dollars and many bonds and stocks will become less valuable.

Baby Sitters' Club Discusses Problems Encountered In Work

The Baby Sitters' Club held its regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Pete West. The club members were served light refreshments as they arrived. Mrs. West gave the program for the afternoon, discussing with the members the problem of why a child from the age of two to four so often cries, "I want my mama," when she leaves him in the care of others. She explained that this was perfectly natural for a child of these ages and made several suggestions as to what could be done to help the child feel that the baby sitter was his friend. She brought out the idea that the stranger needs to play with the child and gain his confidence and to make him feel that the person is there to help him if he needs help. Following this talk there was a general discussion of some of the experiences encountered by the members and how they had been met.

Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Starkey and daughter Becky will leave tomorrow for a few days trip to the mountains. They will stay at The Bluffs on the Blue Ridge Parkway Drive.

Allied Florists Meet For Supper

Mrs. Lena Tyson, president, presided over the meeting of the Greenville Allied Florists Association when it met on Monday night at the American Legion Dining Room.

A bouquet of red roses decorated the center of the dining table, where the members were seated for the supper meal. During the course of the meeting Mrs. Tyson gave a review of the work which had been accomplished by the Association during the year.

Prior to the installation of officers for the coming year, Mrs. Marie Cox presented a talk on the meaning of flowers. Among the things which she brought to the attention of her audience was the fact that flowers for weddings, funerals, romance, table decorations, holiday decorations, etc. were selected for a specific purpose and should be purchased with their use in mind. Flowers are also sent to express love and remembrance for such events as the birth of a baby, graduation, house warmings, and similar occurrences. "Flowers bring more happiness and joy than any other one thing and seem to carry a message without words," she concluded.

Following this the officers were installed for the coming year. They are Graham Jefferson, president; Mrs. Betty Nobles, secretary; Mrs. Lena Tyson, treasurer; and Mrs. Minnie Huneycutt, who was absent, was installed in absentia as vice president.

Faculty Figures To Fill Pulpits

Three Greenville pulpits will be supplied Sunday by East Carolina College staff members.

Rent Doghouse For $55 A Month

CINCINNATI (UP)—Rent control officials for the Cincinnati area read the fine print in the national rent law today in an effort to settle the case of a landlady renting a doghouse for $55 a month.

The case came to their attention after irate tenants in nearby Tipp City complained they had been literally "put in the doghouse" by the woman.

They said she put up the doghouse behind one house and the garage behind another, renting the garage for $50 a month, to sidestep federal rent ceilings which do not apply to new construction.

Area Rent Director O. Stephen Young said investigators found the woman built the garage behind a house which had a legal rent ceiling of $18 a month, which she offered rent-free if the garage were rented.

Investigators said she built the doghouse behind a house renting for $32 a month, also offering that house rent-free if the doghouse were rented.

They said the woman also rented two shacks to one family for $32 a month, and that the shacks were "unfit for human habitation."

Young said "the landlady has been very belligerent in her refusal to comply with the national rent law."

He said if she continues to refuse voluntary compliance, "she will be charged with violating the section which states that anyone seeking to evade provisions of the law by subterfuge is liable to prosecution."

Funeral Set Sunday For M. C. Miller

Make Clifton Miller, 58, of Ernul, died in Taylor Hospital in Washington at 9:10 o'clock Friday night. He had been ill for the past year and a half and in a critical condition for the past five months.

Funeral services will be conducted at Macedonia Free Will Baptist Church at three o'clock by the Rev. D. W. Alexander. Free Will Baptist minister of Bethel. Burial will be in the Spruill Cemetery nearby. The body will be carried to the church one hour prior to the time of service.

Mr. Miller, son of the late James Richard and Laura Simpkins Miller, spent all his life in the Vanceboro community. He had been employed by the State Highway Public Works Commission for 28 years at the time of his retirement December, 1929. He was a member of Macedonia Free Will Baptist Church and a deacon in the church, and a member of the Woodmen of the World. He was married to Carrie Fulcher of Craven County in 1916.

Surviving are his wife; a daughter, Mrs. Vernon Crowson of Ernul; two sons, Cpl. Make P. Miller of the U.S. Army, now stationed at Fort Bragg, and Calvin Miller of the home; two grandchildren; four brothers, T. W. J. W. L. E. and R. W. Miller, all of Washington; and three sisters, Mrs. Heudy Bennett of Washington, Mrs. Alex Parson of Aurora and Mrs. Stella Dixon of Newport News, Va.

Mr. May, son of the late Alexander and Nicy Ann Taylor May, spent all his life in Pitt County and had lived in the St. John's community for 33 years. He was a farmer.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Dora Harris May; three daughters, Mrs. Alonza Tripp of near New Bern, Mrs. Lee Bright of near Grifton, and Mrs. Philbert Edwards of near St. John's Church; 15 grandchildren and one great grandchild.

Report Decline For Eva Peron

BUENOS AIRES (UP)—The condition of Eva Peron, Argentina's first lady, was reported today to have shown "marked improvement" a few hours after a special bulletin said she had taken a turn for the worse.

The wife of President Juan D. Peron, who underwent a major operation for an undisclosed ailment last November, has been critically ill at the Presidential Villa in suburban Palermo.

At 6:30 p.m. yesterday the Government Bureau of Information interrupted radio programs on all Argentine stations to broadcast this special bulletin:

"The state of health of Senora Eva Peron declined noticeably this afternoon."

It was the first special bulletin since physicians on July 9 ordered the first lady to take a complete rest, and it was taken as a warning to the country that she was sinking fast.

But a few minutes after midnight the government radio station broadcast that Mrs. Peron's condition was slightly improved. Then at 3:15 a.m. the official press office reported that she showed "marked improvement."

She was reported resting quietly. Late yesterday police cordons were thrown around the presidential villa and all traffic was blocked within two blocks of the building.

Miss Greenville Is Ready To Go

By MURIEL SHOTWELL
Reflector Staff Writer

With visions of a jeweled crown and a glorious future, Patsy Smith, recently named "Miss Greenville," will leave Wednesday to take part in the Miss North Carolina Beauty Pageant.

Vivian Patricia Smith, or Patsy, as she prefers, won over 10 other local girls to cop the title of "Miss Greenville" at a beauty pageant held here in June and sponsored by the Greenville Junior Chamber of Commerce.

A visit to the Smith home on Eastern Street this week found not only Patsy but the whole family preparing for that "once in a lifetime" trip to Winston-Salem where the State pageant will be held this year.

Mrs. Smith will accompany her daughter on the three-day affair which will bring beauties from all over the state for the final selection of "Miss North Carolina of 1952." Following the selection, the lucky girl will be featured in a number of whirlwind events before going to Atlantic City in September to take part in the "Miss America" contest.

Events Scheduled

Fitting to royalty, the Winston-Salem Jaycees, who are sponsoring the contest, have planned a number of events to honor the queens who will arrive there July 24.

Patsy told of teas, dances, luncheons, and parties that have been planned to keep the young girls entertained during the three days of their stay there. The big events will feature the young ladies' talent show and beauty show with their appearing in evening dresses and bathing suits.

Patsy stated that upon arrival in Winston-Salem she will register at the Robert Lee Hotel where she will be furnished with an escort for the ensuing events. "Miss Greenville," among other girls appearing in the contest, will be housed in dormitories at Salem College.

Extensive Wardrobe

The 5-foot 7-inch Greenville beauty knows the importance of the correct clothes at such an affair. Patsy has chosen a white bathing suit and a black one (the suit which helped her to win the "Miss Greenville" title). She hasn't decided which one she'll wear the night of the beauty contest.

In addition to the bathing suits, evening dresses are also a "must" for appearance at the state pageant. Both of the dresses which Patsy plans to take are white and she hasn't decided on which of those she will wear for the talent contest.

Just to be on the safe side, Patsy plans to take along both sport and formal dresses so she'll have just the right dress for the right occasion.

Talent Presentation

Since talent, as well as beauty, is emphasized, Patsy is all prepared for that. She will give a dramatic reading, Bret Hart's "Love Story," the same one she presented in the beauty pageant here.

The girls appearing in the state pageant will be judged on beauty of face, form, personality, poise, and on talent, appearing both in evening dresses and bathing suits.

"Miss Greenville"

The young lady who will represent Greenville in the pageant is the 18-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Smith. She is a student at East Carolina College and is majoring in business education. Patsy is a graduate of Greenville High School.

When she won the title of "Miss Greenville" Patsy was given a $250 scholarship and gifts of cosmetics and luggage. To take the trip to Winston-Salem she is being given a Nash "Rambler" and will use the automobile up there.

Judges who decided that Patsy would represent Greenville in the state contest were O. E. Dowd, Dean Leo Jenkins of East Carolina College, Colonel Owen Marshburn, and Mrs. J. H. Rose, all of Greenville, and Bob Rouse of Farmville.

Found No Malt In Malted Milks

NEW YORK (AP) — Two Brooklyn brothers who operate a luncheonette, were held for Special Sessions Court when they failed to explain satisfactorily why they sold maltless "malted milk" through drink dispensers.

The arrest was made by a Department of Market inspector who said she purchased a "malted" without malt and then found there was no malt in the luncheonette.

The magistrate urged a city-wide drive against inadequately serviced automatic drink dispensers which, he said, do harm to children by depriving them of nourishment.

6. Plan ahead, allowing adequate time and do not hurry.

7. Be fire-sighted. Do not smoke around the barn. Don't smoke in bed. Break matches in two before you throw them away. Mark oil and gasoline cans in red. Get rid of fire hazards in barns, basements and attics.

9. Support safety education. Be a safety example to your children. Encourage safety instructions in schools. Take advantage of every opportunity to learn more about safety.

10. Follow safety instructions. Be careful around machinery. And, remember that printed instructions are "signs of life," wherever they are.

For competition in the talent contest, Patsy will wear the above evening dress she is shown modeling. It is a white net with a white apron effect, with blue bows. Both evening dresses and bathing suits will be worn by the beauty contestants.

Her three-day stay in Winston-Salem will require a variety of clothes as the planning committees for the Miss North Carolina Pageant have arranged a number of scheduled events for the contestants. Miss Greenville began early in selecting the wardrobe she will require.

MISS GREENVILLE . . . Lovely Patsy Smith, who will represent Greenville at the annual North Carolina Beauty Pageant which opens in Winston-Salem next Thursday. Patsy won local honors over a field of 12 entries in the Miss Greenville competition.

N. C. Industrial Growth Contingencies Reviewed

North Carolina's industrial development depends upon sound planning, consistent promotion, and solid performance, declared Paul Kelly, industrial development director of the North Carolina Department of Conservation and Development, in a session of the Resource-Use Education Workshop at East Carolina College.

Dr. Ed J. Carter, co-director of the workshop, presented Mr. Kelly to the group here Friday.

Planning by communities and organization of data—geographical, industrial and economic materials—in the preparation of industrial briefs gives the area's assets which

As to performance, Kelly said industry looks for the relations with existing industry, high productivity of labor, good supplies of industrial water and electric power, and government stability.

Industry asks: "What kind of town is it to live in?" The living conditions—housing, recreational opportunities, cultural events of the area, educational facilities and health and welfare programs—are determining factors, Kelly said, and added that they are important in the plans of industrialists.

Dr. Carter and Dr. A. D. Bond are directing the Resource-Use Education Workshop in which there is a large registration this summer.

Monday's session will be devoted to a study of water resources of North Carolina with W. H. Riley, hydrologic engineer of the Water Resources Division of the State Department of Conservation and Development, as the principal speaker. Visiting consultants in the Work-

Negro Farmers Urged Observe Safety Week

By CHESTER WALSH

Next week—July 20-26—has been proclaimed by President Truman as "National Farm Safety Week." Mrs. Amella S. Capehart, Pitt County Negro home demonstration agent, urged Negro farmers of this county to cooperate in carrying out effective safety measures. She reminds that it is up to American farmers to produce more food, fiber and other farm products.

"It is more important than ever to stress farm security and to develop better attitudes toward safety and reducing the number of accidents," she declared. She urges Negro farm families and others to observe the Safety Council's list of "10 Right Attitudes" for National Farm Safety Week and the other 51 weeks of the year. They are:

1. Take time to take care. Realize that haste makes waste. Short cuts or failure to stop long enough to correct or eliminate a hazard may result in loss of time, money and health.
2. Be open-minded to safety suggestions. New machines and techniques mean new hazards. A wise farmer listens to the safety lessons his children take home from school or farm group meetings. He profits from radio and news items which bring him useful information or suggestions.
3. Check and double check. Make sure your equipment is in safe operating condition. Don't take needless chances. Don't gamble with your life and happiness.
4. Take safety seriously. Don't

Strength for the Day

THINK IT OVER, YOUNG FOLKS
Restraint is imperative in every age. It appears to be particularly imperative today because so many social customs which tended to protect all people, and especially young people, from moral irregularities have now been removed. Today it is more up to the individual than it has ever been. The people who are good today really want to be good, for there is very little in modern social life to encourage them to be so.

Then of course liquor has come in to complicate the picture; not that liquor has been lacking in the past, but fifty years ago drinking for the most part was done by certain groups which drank very heavily. Today that great mass of our population known as the middle class has taken up drinking. Liquor has come into the home, which has made the custom more prevalent. When youthful vigor and alcohol get mixed up, the combination is a bad one. In the old days, girls remained sober, but very often they don't today; and when a situation like this occurs, almost anything can happen.

Every young person should consider the extent to which he can damage his life in his early years and the harm he may do himself if he falls into bad habits. Above everything else he should ask himself whether any pleasure he gets out of drinking is worth the complications and dangers involved.

A Good Trade For The United States

A severe blow has been struck at Russian propaganda outlets in the United States by the U. S. order stopping publication of the official American publication circulated in Russia, and Russian publications in this country.

While the United States admittedly cut off its one remaining publication in Russia, it is apparent that more was gained by shutting off Russian propaganda publications in this country than was lost by stopping the American publication in Russia.

Under a 1946 agreement the Russians approved the circulation of 50,000 copies of the U. S. Magazine in Russia, but since that time the communists have gradually shut off the flow of the magazine. Two years ago the circulation of the magazine had dropped to 25,000 and recently its circulation was down to 13,000. Twelve protests to the Russian government since 1949 brought no satisfaction to the United States in guaranteeing the U. S. magazine would be placed on news stands throughout Russia.

For many months the U. S. government has not been able to ascertain whether the magazine has been available to the Russian people anywhere outside Moscow because of the closely restricted travel of American officials behind the iron curtain. In view of those facts, the State Department elected to do away with the publication altogether, and at the same time ordered the suspension of all publications in the United States which are being published at the expense of the Moscow government.

The policy of matching the communists blow for blow in the cold war as well as in the hot war is becoming more pronounced on the part of the United States. The policy is cutting down the circumstantial advantages which the Reds have enjoyed in their thrusts against the West.

Moscow will shout and rear because its propaganda organs in the United States have been silenced, but we hope the State Department stands by its policy of according the Russians the same treatment they hand the United States interest behind the iron curtain.

Nation Wide Primaries Would Fill A Great Need

A nation-wide preferential primary for president in the two major parties is an issue being widely discussed across the nation. It is a change which would be welcomed by rank and file party members, and at the same time should be of great benefit to the parties and the people.

As the political parties are now set up, a number of states have such primaries, but some carry instructions for delegates while others do not. In many states, particularly in the South, the matter of supporting a particular man for the presidential nomination is an entirely up to the state party convention, and even there it is optional.

The result is that most rank and file party members, while they have a choice between party candidates at the general election, have little say-so about whom their party is going to nominate to head the national ticket.

Should the nation-wide presidential primary become a reality, it would not only give the individual party member a chance to express his preference officially for the party's nomination, but likewise it would give the party leaders a reliable barometer by which to measure the popularity of potential nominees. The nation-wide primary would bring party leadership into closer touch with the rank and file members, and also create a closer feeling between the members of the party and the prospective candidates themselves. That in turn should bring about a greater interest on the part of party members in the federal government.

To a great degree the nation-wide primary would reduce the possibility of big bosses gaining control of a national convention to railroad into the nomination a choice which is not in keeping with the majority of the rank and file party members.

To say the least, the nation-wide presidential primary offers a great many advantages to both party and rank and file party members which are not now available.

National Whirligig

By RAY TUCKER
Every Saturday this veteran Washington newspaper correspondent devotes his column to answering readers' questions of general interest on national and international policies and personalities. He will continue that practice while covering the important political deliberations at Chicago during July.

CHICAGO—Before General Eisenhower was nominated, writes Mrs. T. Y. of Iowa City, Iowa, "it was generally agreed that he would be a strong candidate. Now, all I read is to the opposite effect. Why such a sudden change in values?"

WISDOM—Answer: The "Taft can't win and Ike can't" motif was, without any question, the basic reason for the Eisenhower selection, without the Taft camp's series of terrific boners. It was dinned into delegates' ears by the general's supporters. That accounts for the pre-convention sentiment.

Now, they are faced with electing him, not advertising him. And, as smart politicians, they are weighing his assets and liabilities. It is an action of wisdom, not despair.

IGNORANT—Harriman and Russell have already tipped off the Democratic strategy against him. They have reiterated that a man of his background, and so long absent from the country, cannot help but be "ignorant" of almost all important domestic problems.

Ike has admitted quite honestly that he does not know the answers to all the questions confronting a President. Whereas such candor was appealing in the pre-convention period, he must present a positive and vote-getting program on the farm, labor, inflation, foreign policy and other programs.

IMPROVEMENT—Ike has shown a remarkable ability for grasping the heart of even an alien problem, however. He has displayed already far more native intelligence than Truman ever showed. He is now applying it to questions which Truman has failed to solve, after consultation with experts on those subjects. That is the purpose of his pre-campaign retreat at Denver.

On Eisenhower's behalf, it should be noted that veteran political writers marvel at his improvement in handling himself in the few days between his return to the United States and his "whistle stop" trip from Denver to Chicago. His speeches and public exhortations of back-platform crowds had been a flop to that point.

If a single day can be pinpointed for development of "Ike the politician," it would be, appropriately, July 4, 1952. Roaring through Iowa, making appearances before holiday groups, he seemed to establish a human and mutual contact with his listeners that has been compared by accompanying newspaper correspondents to Franklin D. Roosevelt's charm school.

Nevertheless, Ike still has to prove himself as a give-and-take performer on the stump.

VACILLATING—What is the reason for Governor Stevenson's off-again-on-again attitude toward a possible nomination? Inquires R. S. of Lansing, Mich.

Answer: I think there are many honest and admirable reasons for Stevenson's seeming indecisiveness. He would like to complete his program of reform at Springfield.

A scholar and no extrovert, he would like to live a private, ordered life instead of becoming a political fish in a White House bowl.

He dreads the thought that his children's lives would be shattered, perhaps with the Roosevelt family in mind.

But Chicago newspapermen and political observers, who know him well, inform me that he has a vacillating streak. It is not so much the product of a weak character, like Harding, as the doubling and deliberate mind to be expected of a man of his philosophic and studious temperament.

He appears to resemble Woodrow Wilson more than any other recent President in this respect, although lacking the New Jersey Covenant's professional sense of righteousness.

OFFER—What do the candidates and politicians at Chicago think of Truman's offer to make two whistle stop tours for the 1952 ticket, provided his expenses are paid by the party treasury?

Answer: I cannot give a completely frank answer to this query from W. R. of Coatesville, Pa., for no family newspaper could publish it. With the possible exception of W. Averell Harriman, who does not understand the most elementary political psychology, every leading Democrat would prefer that Truman leave well enough alone.

HANDICAPPED—Any ticket servile to Truman and too sympathetic to his record will be severely handicapped, especially in the South. The most difficult job here next week will be to nominate a slate and frame a platform which, while not repudiating Trumanism openly, will make the voters forget him.

However, the candidates cannot reject his offer without opening themselves to the charge that they are ashamed of their party leader. There are many GOP-ers who pray that the Democratic confusion may result in the Missouri's renomination.

Selected Short

WAURIKA, OKLA., NEWS-DEMOCRAT: "We will have taken just about the last step to socialism, when we turn the schools over to the Federal government. The first appropriations might be with few strings, but gradually the powers at Washington would take over, telling the schools what to teach, how much to pay, where to build schools."

SOMERSET, PA., DAILY AMERICAN: "The primary issue of the moment is: Shall this democratic Republic be turned over to Philip Murray to be ruled as Hitler ruled Germany and as Mussolini ruled Italy? The time, Congress has said, has not arrived when all the people have abdicated in favor of some of the people."

Somebody Told Me

By L. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

One of the most interesting things about writing a personal column, such as this one, is the type of comment it creates. One person says, "Jack, I like some of your columns, but please cut out so much of that personal stuff. The factual information, I like, but the rest bores me."

The same day I'll run into somebody who will say, "Jack, I like some of your columns. I always read the first paragraph and frankly, if it's about your wife or daughter, I keep on reading. Otherwise, I lose interest. What I like is the personal touch, and the factual information bores me."

There are plenty of people frank enough to come up and tell you face to face what they like and dislike about your doings. Continually I am faced with people who have split points of view. They tell me that's what makes the world go around; everybody likes something different.

Considering this split opinion, I keep on writing both types of stuff. There are many interesting experiences that come from writing a column. For example, every now and then I run into somebody who says, "I certainly disagree with the fact in your column last night." Following such a statement, I hesitate for about five minutes, all the while trying to figure out which column they are talking about. After all, sometimes I have written last night's column a week ago, the night before, perhaps two days before, or what not. By the time I am able to collect my thoughts enough to defend myself, they say, "I always suspected that you are not the actual writer of that stuff. I think your wife does it for you!"

Yesterday I ran into Leslie Garner of Garner-Wayne-Manning Wholesale Company, who had read my column about the outdoor dramas being presented in North Carolina. One I had mentioned a few days ago was Thunderhead, which supposedly is being presented at Biltmore Estate near Asheville. "Listen, Jack," Leslie said, "I just returned from a trip to the Biltmore Estate and I didn't hear one word about any play."

There was only one way to get off the spot, and that was by confession. "Les," I said, "I'll tell you the truth: I got my information from a magazine. I am sure that The Lost Colony is being produced in Manteo, and Unto These Hills at Cherokee, but the rest I was simply taking the magazine's word for."

Regardless of its ups and downs, this is an interesting hobby. The main advantage is this: I can walk up to anybody and ask them all kinds of things that are none of my business because I am a newspaper columnist.

And I thank you.

Around Capitol Square

TRAINING—As state institutions go Eastern North Carolina Training School at Rocky Mount is not big. In some respects it is one of the very best. That goes for management and morale; but is especially true with respect to the physical plant. The school was established 25 years ago for white boys between the ages of ten and sixteen who had been committed there for violation of laws. There are no fences around the place and no bars. The idea is to train these youngsters to become good citizens. For that objective the population must be kept small. From the beginning it was contemplated to have not more than 150 boys and there are now 120. With the maximum limit in mind it was not difficult to plan the location of buildings, playgrounds, fields and pasture lands. Before a brick was laid the complete plans had been mapped. Result is a high degree of harmony in appearance.

CAFETERIA—One change has had to be made. The idea of residents making the cottages in which they lived complete houses where they slept and ate being retained. A central cafeteria is planned where all the boys will eat. That will save money and food. It will destroy a part of the home-like atmosphere of the cottage, but that loss will be offset by giving the house mother more time to act as a real mother and counselor instead of as a cook.

FARMING—This is one institution operating a farm about which there is practically no criticism. The farm produces a lot of the food but it is maintained more as a part of the training program than for its production. The boys are kept busy out in the open doing nearly all the work required to cultivate 200 acres of crop land, look after two herds of cattle — 25 dairy and 300 beef—and about 100 hogs and 300 hens. In addition to the crop land there are 50 acres of improved pasture and 125 unimproved to maintain the cattle and hogs. Many of the boys come from towns and cities and the farm life is interesting for them.

TEACHERS—The advisory budget commission visited two teacher training colleges Tuesday, Elizabeth City State Teachers College (Negro) and Eastern Carolina College at Greenville. The "Teacher" part has been dropped from the official name of the Greenville institution, which is still commonly known as ECTC, but a large part of the student body majors in teacher training courses. Subtle changes over a period of several years, however, have changed the status of the college from primarily teacher training to a university type offering general courses in liberal arts and sciences leading to bachelor, master and doctor degrees.

ELIZABETH CITY—Established in 1881 the State Teacher College here has established a record of service training

Negro school teachers. Most of the students come from the extreme northeastern part of the state, and large part of them return to the same area to teach. The expansion program has not been so ambitious during the past few years as at some other colleges. There seems to be more concern on part of President S. D. Williams to maintain a good small school—about 525 enrolled—than to grow big in size. Some of the older buildings must be renovated, a few torn down. To provide replacements for these and afford reasonably adequate facilities for the present enrollment, the college is asking for about a million and a half dollars for permanent improvements, major items in which are two dormitories for women and a students' union.

LAND—The college owns a farm which it does not need, and needs to buy some adjacent to the campus, for which money is not available. It was noted that the farm land is well situated for future residential development, and trustees were authorized to lease it to someone else if that policy seemed better than college operation. The farm probably would be sold if the college could use the money to buy other land. Under state law the sales money would revert to the state general fund.

GREENVILLE—The problem at Greenville is to keep ahead of the fast growing enrollment.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

SILLY BUT VERY SERIOUS (Henderson Dispatch)

Whatever other nations may think of the American way of picking public officials, these national party conventions are part of the accepted system. They may on the surface appear to be silly, but underneath is a conviction of deep seriousness on the part of those who are mere bystanders on the sidelines.

The silly side of the conventions are, more than anything else, the nominations on convention floors. Even these, however, are an outlet for pent-up emotions and for letting off the steam of enthusiasm. When all is said and done, such capers and cavortings are, as a rule, foolish and futile. They do not change delegate purposes and convictions, and convert precious few votes to the men in whose behalf they are staged. The utterly fruitless circus put on by Taft supporters at Chicago last Thursday night, by comparison with the first ballot landslide for Eisenhower, bears this out.

At the same time, if Americans want it that way, it is theirs to indulge. It detracts nothing from the intense seriousness that lies underneath the show that is offered. A vast amount of time would be averted and waste of physical energy avoided if these things could be limited to but a few minutes.

Millions of Americans for the first time saw what a national view sat in their own homes and watched the proceedings by television. Maybe they were disgusted, but chances are they got about as much kick from it as did those in the convention hall. And the same Democrats meet in the same coliseum a week hence to select their national ticket.

Some day there may be a popular revision against the custom. But it is not yet. And until a larger measure of decorum is acquired for such occasions, those scores of millions of us who can take it or leave it by the twisting of a dial will lose no sleep over antics of those who glory in the exhibition. If they want it, for our part we say let them have

Business Today

Restaurant take-home specialties are not new. As far back as you can remember, restaurateurs have offered bottles of their special salad dressing, containers of their own sauces, slices of pale de mignon, and their own canned imports from Mexico, Italy and Hindustan.

The damned-clever Chinese beat us to it, and on our home grounds, too, by offering complete meals, usually wrapped in yesterday's newspapers, to take home. Ever the researcher, we once asked a venerable Chinese why he so carefully wrapped his take-home meals. "Keeps it crisp, not soggy," he answered in the wisdom of the ages.

We are always resentful when a trend creeps up on us without having been heralded in this column. Our only excuse for not reporting this trend earlier is that its creeping has been so quiet and unobtrusive. Nevertheless, the trend exists. Thousands of restaurants across the country — giant chains and small victuallers — are now offering not only prize sauces but entire meals to take home.

There are many reasons: More wives working; Higher taxes. The trend toward saving. Higher food prices. Higher — ah, there we have it! — operating costs.

The shift from wholly service restaurants to service plus take-home meals is rarely the result of a management decision to broaden its service. In most cases, management has been kicked into it by rising costs.

Customers dwindle because food prices go up and because an increasing number can't afford a bought-in dinner. Dinner checks shrink because salaries rise slower than living expenses. Or maybe everybody is going on a diet. Meanwhile, operating costs rise.

So instead of switching to self-service, many restaurants have added take-home food departments. Three big Eastern chains have recently added take-home departments (Schraff's, Bickford's and Childs'). Another (Horn & Hardart) has been in the game for years. It is the same in other sections of the country. Many a western chili parlor is garnering more income from take-out frijoles than from those who happily poison themselves on the premises.

A taken-home eliminates dishwashers, waiters, linen, plate-breakage and loss of utensils. That means cheaper prices for customers, and savings for the proprietor.

INLAND CARRIERS
A directory of transport lines on the Mississippi and inland Gulf waters has been published by the Board of Engineers for Rivers and Harbors of the Department of the Army. Its 249 pages list all companies and ships in inland commerce. It can be obtained from the Government Printing Office, Washington 25, D. D., for $1.25.

Hal Boyle's Column

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—For years my wife has been telling me:

"Why don't you dress like Cary Grant? He looks like he had and been poured into his suits. You just kind of overflow yours."

Well, Grant came to town the other day after finishing his new picture, "Monkey Business," so I plodded up to his hotel to find out how to be well dressed.

When Grant opened the door it looked fair — easy to dress like him — he had on a big bath towel, and one man wears a bath towel pretty much like another.

The film actor explained he was dressed for the heat wave.

"It is an odd thing that New Yorkers, in all these years, haven't found a way to dress to cope with the humidity," he mused.

"The Cubans have arrived at a thing—a pleated shirt worn outside the pants. It looks rather well."

When I explained my mission, Grant looked slightly depressed.

"Why don't you ask me something profound?" he said. "I haven't the slightest idea how I get on those best-dressed men lists."

Pressed to give his sartorial views, however, Grant gave thusly:

"They say that an interest in clothing is a sign of insecurity, and perhaps I had a feeling of insecurity in my youth. Grant once was a carnival still walker."

"But I really feel that we owe it to our fellow man to look well. Clothes do affect people's manners. That is why the British dress formally even in the tropics. It keeps up their morale."

"However, I don't think that dignity of carriage should depend on, or go hand in hand, with discomfort. Good clothes should be comfortable as well as dressy."

Grant carries his own theory of comfort so far that he rarely wears a belt and never wears suspenders, garters or undershirts.

He was rather hard to pin down on what actually makes a well-dressed man.

"To look well-dressed you simply have to have a well-dressed look. I don't know myself what looks well and what doesn't."

"Perhaps the most noticeable thing about a man are his collar and tie—and a hat if he wears one. I look like hell in hats."

"A shined pair of shoes is essential—if you can afford it. The wrong shoes can ruin a man. I have my shoes sent over from England. They cost $43, and they are far better than a $135 pair here."

FOOD COSTS RUSSIANS

TIMES AS MUCH WORK
A new chart of the comparative amount of work time required to earn amounts of food in the United States and other countries has been compiled by the National Industrial Conference Board. It shows that, while American prices are higher, the average workman can earn the same amount of vitamins in less time than in other countries. The Russian, for example, must work more than five times as long to buy the amount of food an American worker can earn in any given time.

These comparisons are increasingly being used in advertising. Companies interested may address the Conference Board at 247 Park Ave., New York 17. It is a non-profit organization.

BORDER FORMALITIES

BEING CODIFIED
The frontier formalities of most countries of the world are being assembled for publication in a reference work by the International Union of Official Travel Organizations at Geneva, Switzerland. Codification of the various border rituals may be of advantage to travel agencies and business firms sending representatives abroad.

TRENDS ARE TRENDING
Manufacturers say that dealer's orders for straw hats are 10 per cent above last year, making this year the strawiest since 1947. The National Association of Hosiery Manufacturers says May shipments totaled 12,299,574 dozen pairs, compared with 10,969,314 dozen pairs in May 1951.

Most liquor sellers use fifth bottles in the shape of quart. Several are now experimenting with bottles in the same shape for pints, instead of flasks.

Ever since newspaper was boosted to $126 a ton, focusing interest on lower priced paper from bagasse, a sugar cane waste, we have been waiting for some newspaper to cry, "Begin the bagasse!" It happened in the July 4 New York Times.

NEW PRODUCTS

PERFUMED: A flower perfume has been made an integral part of a plastic fabric by Monsanto Chemical Co., 445 Park Ave., New York 22. Said to provide fragrance for plastics, in a wide variety of patterns and colors, are being used for shower and window curtain sets. They will be available in yard goods shortly.

RECORDER: A pistol-shaped device, said to pick up and record fire hazardous conditions in factories, has been developed by Baldwin Instrument Co., Dartford, Kent, England.

CLEANER: A new feature in carpet sweeper is a brush cleaner with no moving parts. It has a double row of small and large steel teeth, to comb through and between bristles of the brush. (It is by Bissell Carpet Sweeper Co., 210 Erie, N. W. Grand Rapids, Mich.)

WASHINGTON LEADER

By JANE EADS
WASHINGTON—The dramatic story of the Marine victory on Iwo Jima in 1945 has been defined in the heroic monument of famed sculptor Felix de Weldon. It is now being cast in bronze in a New York foundry.

Now the story as well as Mr. de Weldon's work on the statue is ready to be shown on a documentary film called "Uncommon Glory" produced by the Navy Photographic Center of Indian Fields Township, Mich., who served with the forward unit of the Marine Corps photo section on Guam and Okinawa. Actor Raymond Massey is the narrator. The original score, by a young Washington composer, Gerald Trahan, is played by the Marine Corps Band.

The monument, which is being cast in some 200,000 pounds of bronze, will be set up on Memorial Highway, near Washington, by the Marine Memorial Foundation. Mr. de Weldon began work on the first scale model for the monument in 1945, when he was serving as a Navy artist.

Sgt. Williams says he first saw the possibilities of a monument to the statue when he visited Mr. de Weldon's studio here. The sculptor sat at his side while he edited the film, gave him suggestions for background and related his motives for beginning the statue.

"Not only did he pour into this statue a lifetime of study and technical training, but over six years of toil and sweat," Sgt. Williams told me. He believes that the statue embodies the concept of what American means to the Vietnamese-born artist, who came to this country in 1937.

"This statue is not an expression of an artist who is completing his masterpiece," he added. "This will be Felix de Weldon's expression of thanks to a country which gave him the opportunity to continue in his field. I have never heard thanks said more eloquently — for truly this statue speaks, if one ever did."

Sgt. Williams is also author of a television release, "The National Anthem," interpreting the music of the "Star Spangled Banner" in motion picture. It is used by TV stations over the country as a nightly sign-off.

The Sport Reflector

By BOB WEAVER

As hard as everyone has tried to keep politics out of the 1952 Olympics, an issue seems to have come up.

The squabble over whether to admit Communist China or Nationalist China was settled by extending invitations to both. When news of this move became known the Nationalists promptly withdrew their application. It seems that they have no desire to play with their Asiatic brethren.

While journeying about the countryside the other night we happened to end up in Kinston and were privileged with seeing part of that town's recreational facilities. The young people of Kinston have a very nice layout. There is a main building where a lounge is located. Ample space for dancing and table tennis is also provided.

Nearby there is a swimming pool equipped with lights and several lighted tennis courts. To top it all off there is a lighted baseball diamond also.

This is a wonderful thing for the young people of Kinston to have but we were rather surprised to hear nothing but one gripe after another from them because, "there's simply nothing to do."

The coming fight between Rocky Marciano and Harry Matthews may mean a change in the present distastefulness of Heavyweight boxing. Jersey Joe Walcott, present world's champ, has extended an invitation to the winner of the Marciano-Matthews bout.

A bout between the champ and one of these contenders might revive the present sluggish life of boxing. It is possible that one of these young fellows could give boxing the shot in the arm it needs so badly.

Jersey Joe is the miracle man of boxing. If ever there was one in his first fight with Joe Louis he gained a great deal of popularity when Louis won on an unfavorable decision. Adverse fans said that Walcott was just a lucky old man but the ranks of these people have been thinned considerably by the "old man's" two decisive wins over former champion Ezzard Charles.

It seems, therefore, that a bout between Walcott and either Marciano or Matthews would not only be a good drawing card but a boost for the sport itself.

Flashback on the major league All-Star game. It came to mind recently that it might not be a bad idea to narrow the choice of sites for the annual inter-league fracas. Take this year, for instance, Shibe Park will hold less than 25,000 fans. The All-Star contest is one of baseball's big attractions and should be played where the attendance can be taken care of.

Cleveland's municipal stadium or the Yankees' home grounds are two spots that are equipped to handle the game of this size.

By playing the game at a park capable of doing justice to it then a few people in such areas as Philadelphia or Brooklyn might be left out in the cold but the overall result would be an improvement of the game.

In winning the All-Star contest Leo Durocher received the plaudits of the nation's sports fans. In winning Durocher committed one deed that didn't set too well with the assembled multitude.

In the fourth inning with the bases loaded, Durocher permitted his hurler, Bob Rush, to bat for himself. Rush is no great shakes as a hitter and why the Lip passed up his talent loaded bench to bat a pitcher bat for himself will never be understood.

Local Softball All-Star Squad Plays Kinston

Sunday afternoon at three o'clock a local team of all-stars from the Men's Softball League will play a doubleheader with a Kinston team of All-Stars. Site of the game is Guy Smith Stadium.

This will be the first home appearance for the All-Stars. They will play games with other area teams at later dates this summer.

No admission will be charged. The All-Star roster and the teams from which they originally came: Robert Perry—Wagner-Waldrop; Bob Dash—Home Builders Supply; Tommie Lupton—Waldensian-Sunbeam.

Johnny Foell—V. C. Chemicals; John Dudley—V. C. Chemicals; Tom Boyd—V. C. Chemicals; John Farley—V. C. Chemicals; Ford McGowan—Home Builders Supply; Tom Rowlett—Home Builders Supply.

John Conway—Royal Crown Cola; Don Carson—V. C. Chemicals; Horace Carawan—Home Builders Supply; Arnold Averette—Home Builders Supply; Ot Alford—V. C. Chemicals; Ralph Heidenreich—V. C. Chemicals; Bill Moore—V. C. Chemicals; Whitey Auld—of Washington, N.C.; Dan Gordon—Home Builders Supply.

The local club has "imported" Whitey Auld to play with their team. Auld played with the local softball team last year.

The V. C. Chemicals entry is dominating the All-Star squad this year. They have placed a total of eight men on the roster.

Tickets On Sale

The season tickets for the 1952 East Carolina football schedule are now on sale. These tickets, calling for reserved seats, may be obtained through Mr. Jim Butler, alumni secretary, at East Carolina.

The schedule: September 13, Norfolk Naval Air Station, Home; September 20, Newport News Apprentice School, Home; September 27, Lenoir - Rhyne, Away; October 4, Catawba (Homecoming), Home; October 11, Elon, Away; October 18, WCTC, Home; October 25, Guilford, Away; November 1, Appalachian, Away; November 8, Stetson University, Away.

Connolly Plays

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—U.S. and Wimbledon singles queen Maureen Connolly faces Mrs. Bunny Vosters, Middle States and Philadelphia finalist today for the 52nd annual U.S. Open tennis championship. Miss Connolly, San Diego's "Little Mo," went to the finals yesterday by ousting seventh-seeded Lois Felix, Meriden, Conn., 6-1, 6-0 in 28 minutes.

Mrs. Vosters, former Ursinus star, eliminated Marta Barnett, Miami, 6-0, 6-4 in the semi-finals. In the men's tournament Vic Seixas, Philadelphia, No. 1 U. S. player and defending champion, won a service and volley battle against Fred Hagist, San Francisco, 13-11, 6-4 in their quarter final match.

Charlotte Woman Seeks Golf Title

LINNVILLE (AP)—It was Charlotte vs Salisbury here today for the championship of the annual Linnville Women's Invitation Golf Tournament.

Mrs. Aggie Cocke of Charlotte sought her third successive title as she faced Jane Thomas of Salisbury. The Charlotte star was rated a slight favorite.

Mrs. Cocke reached the finals by defeating Mrs. Holbrook Platt of Pinehurst yesterday, 5 and 4. Miss Thomas had little trouble eliminating Mrs. J. Earle Thompson of Charlotte by the same score.

Mrs. Cocke was five up after eight holes in her semifinals match with the tournament medalist. She halved the next six holes to win the match. Three up after nine holes, Miss Thomas won the 10th, halved 11, won 12, halved 13 and closed out Mrs. Thompson with a winning par on 14.

Dodger's Billy Loes Rivals Former Bostonian Piersall In "Modesty"

Brooklyn Bum's Conversation Revolves Mostly About Himself Yet He Backs Up Talk With Action

By MILTON RICHMAN United Press Sports Writer NEW YORK (UP)—Brassy Billy Loes, who leads the league in taking bows, earned the right to a real big one today for his part in pitching the Brooklyn Dodgers to their biggest lead of the season.

Loes, a non-stop talker whose conversation invariably revolves around himself, is bound to talk about his 6-2 victory for Pittsburgh last night for a long time.

He scored his eighth victory of the season, he collected two of Brooklyn's 10 hits and the triumph gave the Dodgers a six-and-a-half game spread over the rest of the field — their largest lead of the year.

Young Billy was nicked for Ralph Kiner's 18th home run of the year in the fourth and after holding the Pirates to three hits until the ninth, he filled the bases and had to give way to Joe Black.

Actually, the Dodgers fashioned what proved to be the deciding run off loser Bob Friend in the fifth when Duke Snider doubled with two out and romped home as George Metkovich dropped Carl Furillo's pop fly.

The second-place New York Giants lost ground when their game with the Chicago Cubs was postponed because of rain with Larry Jansen holding a 3-0 edge over Bob Rush at the end of three innings.

The third-place St. Louis Cardinals kept coming, however, with a 7-2 decision over the Boston Braves, whose only consolation was Sid Gordon's 14th homer. Harry Brecheen limited the Braves to six hits in rolling to his fifth straight victory.

His job was made easier by Billy Johnson's grand slam homer off loser Matt Surkont in the fifth.

Pinch-hitter Smokey Burgess singled with the bases full in the ninth inning and Del Ennis, who drove in four runs in all, followed with a two-run single to help the Philadelphia Phillies defeat Cincinnati, 7-5.

Two timely homers by Hank Bauer and Gene Woodling were the key blows as the New York Yankees whipped the Chicago White Sox, 6-3, to retain their four-and-a-half game lead in the American League.

Bauer collected three of the Yankees' six hits and drove in three runs while Woodling drove in two to help rookie Tom Gorman to his second victory.

Winning their ninth game in 10 starts at home, the Boston Red Sox took a firmer grip on second place by crushing Cleveland, 9-2 with a 13-hit attack.

Veteran Randy Gumpert staggered to his third victory as Washington beat St. Louis 6-5.

Art Houtteman pitched seven hits as he pitched Detroit to a 2-1 triumph over the Philadelphia Athletics. It was Houtteman's fourth victory and he was aided by Walt Dropp's fourth-inning homer. Eddie Joost homered for the A's.

Shantz Weighs In

PHILADELPHIA (UP)—The Philadelphia Athletics put Bobby Shantz on the scales, and have the word of Fred J. Humphrey, acting supervisor of the Count Bureau of Weights and Measures, that baseball's biggest winner weighs 139 pounds, 12 ounces — and stands exactly 5 feet 6 1/4 inches.

With flash bulbs exploding all about him, the tiny slender player won 16 of 19 starts, turned to Manager Jimmy Dykes and whispered, "Gosh, if they keep this up, they'll have me believing I really am a physical freak."

Shantz was weighed before last night's game with Detroit. After that, a delegation of 2,000 fans from Bobby's native town presented him with a new convertible, a watch, a suit and a number of other gifts.

Contests Decided In Late Innings The never-say-die spirit burned strong in the Carolina League last night, with three of the four contests decided by final inning rallies.

Only the Fayetteville Athletics failed to find the comeback trail. Danville sluggers pounded the hapless A's for 16 hits and racked up a weighty 13-5 victory.

A 6-8 deadlock going into the ninth erupted into a scoring marathon in the battle between Durham and Burlington-Graham. In the final stanza the Bulls scored six more runs, while the Pirates collected four, leaving Durham with a 12-10 decision.

An error by Greensboro third baseman Pete Koblish led to Raleigh's 4-3 win. Koblish wild throw less A's for 16 hits and racked up a weighty 13-5 victory.

George Souter knocked the ball over the fence in the 10th inning to provide a dramatic finish to the Reidsville-Winston-Salem game, the Luckies winning 6-4. The circuit-circuit brought in the two-run margin.

The player of the night was Danville's Dale Powell. He collected a home run, a double and two singles in four trips to the plate. He also batted in four of Danville's 13 runs.

The schedule tonight finds Winston-Salem at Danville, Greensboro at Durham, Fayetteville at Reidsville for a doubleheader, and Burlington-Graham at Raleigh.

Palmer Enters Final Golf Round

WINNIPEG, Man. (AP)—Red-hot Johnny Palmer has stirred up his own brand of a heat wave going into the final round of the $15,000 Canadian Open Golf Championship with a blazing 19 under par and an eight stroke lead over Doug Ford, Harrison, N. Y., his nearest rival.

Touring the tough St. Charles Golf and Country Club course with a six-under-par 66 to go with his opening rounds of 66-65, the Charlotte, N. C. pro amassed the three hottest consecutive rounds in his 43-year history of the tournament.

Palmer, showing sure-fire putting, carries a blistering 54-hole total of 197 into today's bid for the $3,000 first prize.

Ford was in second place with a 54-hole total of 205 on rounds of 69-69-67, chopping 11 strokes off par.

Russians Decide That Ball Must Be Dyed Crimson

By OSCAR FRALEY United Press Sports Writer HELSINKI (UP)—Fearless Fraley's facts and figures:

The U. S. Olympic basketball team has had a tense time getting organized but Warren Womble, coach of the AAU Peoria team, finally has the reins firmly away from Dr. Forrest (Phog) Allen whose university of Kansas team makes up half the squad.

Womble is head coach because his AAU gang beat the Kansas team in the final trials. But there has been a running feud between the two clubs which was kissed off as "friendly competition." Meanwhile, Allen did as much talking as Womble.

But Womble seems to have the muffer securely in place now, for when Allen starts to speak — a natural habit with him — he catches himself and advises: "Better ask the coach." Womble smiles — and talks....

The Russian basketball team, incidentally, goes all the way. The "quad carries basketballs which are dyed a brilliant red. It'll be quite a game when they meet the U. S. and play with a brown ball which has red, white and blue stamps all over it....

Wrestling in the Olympics goes like this: A man can win five straight decisions and be eliminated. That's because five points, or "bad marks," puts you out. To escape a mark you must pin your man. If you just decide him you get one "black mark." But it's three if you lose....

Browning Ross, the 2,000-meter steeplechaser is running slightly ahead of Jim Fuchs in the misery league Fuchs, the world champion shot putter, is still moaning about a bad hand and at the drop of a tendon will tell you about his bad knee and injured ankle. But Ross has injured his ankle twice, has a cold and today came up with an earache....

Which prompted Pete Mello, coach of the boxing team, to remark that all athletes are hypochondriacs.

"Take Robert Villemain, the great French fighter," Pete said. "I refereed the fight in which Ray Robinson cut him to ribbons and he never uttered a sound. But the next time I saw him he was complaining that he couldn't train because of a hang nail...."

The French training table has more visitors than it can handle. The reason is that the French brought along 4,000 bottles of burundy.... They also have plenty of champagne along — to celebrate any possible triumphs or drown their ultimate sorrows....

Old Fearless put his foot in it today. The Finnish children are very handsome, well - scrubbed, blond and cute as a button. Sitting in the Olympic village I accosted one thusly: "Hello sonny how are you?" "Very fine sir," he replied. "I was astonished by his perfect english.

"You speak fine english," I said. "I should," the youngster laughed. "I'm from Chicago!" He was Bruce Mattis, nine year old son of the U. S. Olympic team athlete.... Which proves we've got cute kids, too.

Tri-State League Has Good Hurler

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS The Asheville Tourists of the Tri-State League are rooting strongly today for Spartanburg's bill Upton to move up to a league of higher classification.

The Tourists regarded Upton with a mixture of admiration and frustration. If it hadn't been for the Spartanburg hurler, Asheville would have swept two doubleheaders in as many days from the Peaches.

Last night, Upton stepped in to dismays the Tourists again as he gained credit for the Petches 5-4 win in the opener of the twin bill. Appearing in a relief role, Upton pitched two innings and posted his 13th triumph of the season against five losses. The tourists bounded back to take the nightcap, 6-5.

Thursday night Upton earned Spartanburg an even break in a doubleheader by blanking the Tourists, 6-0.

Charlotte maintained its two-game bulge over Gastonia by trimming Greenville, 10-6. Dick Guyton sparked the Hornets with three hits, while Spinner third baseman, Marty Kaelin, had a perfect four for four.

Gastonia defeated Anderson for the 11th time in 14 games by downing the Rebels, 12-7. A grand slam homer by Gastonia's Tom Millich in the fourth inning started the Rockets on their way.

Knoxville poured over three runs in the ninth inning to top Rock Hill, 6-3. Lethander Jim Constable went the distance for the Smokies with a six-hitter.

The teams wind up their current series tonight with the same schedule. Knoxville at Rock Hill, Gastonia at Anderson, Asheville at Spartanburg, and Charlotte at Greenville.

Aircraft Wins

CHERRY POINT, N. C. (AP)—The Aircraft Atlantic Force will display the Atlantic Fleet Swimming Championship trophy for the coming year.

Swimmers from Aircraft Atlantic rolled up 68 points here yesterday to win the championship.

Final point totals in the two-day meet were Aircraft Atlantic, 68; Amphibious Force, 60; Fleet Marine Force, 59; Destroyer Force, 39; Cruiser Force, 32; Headquarters, 14; and Service Force, 6.

Marine Pfc. Bill Sonner of the Second Marine Airwing was top individual scorer with 24 points. Sonner was a Big 10 and NCAA star at Ohio State.

Game Tonight

The Pony League team that will represent Greenville at North Charleston, South Carolina, will play tonight at 7:45 at Guy Smith Stadium. They will be playing against a team comprised of boys from the rest of the league.

It has been announced that a total of $300 is needed if these boys are to make the trip to the tournament. The managers therefore are asking for support at this game tonight.

Blind Secretary Beats Handicap
OAKLAND, Cal. (AP) — Mrs. Catherine Swartz has been blind since she was 3, but she's an efficient secretary for a company here. She says there is no reason that any qualified blind person should not become a secretary. Secret of her success, she says, is a wire-recorder dictation machine (a Webeor) which she can operate in spite of her handicap. "I never have to worry about my notes getting cold," she says in reference to the troubles some of her sighted friends have in transcribing day-old notes.

Dr. Holt Speaks On Radio Hobby

Dr. Robert L. Holt, director of religious activities at East Carolina College, spoke on "Hobbies" at the Exchange Club's supper meeting at the Woman's Club last night.

The speaker said his hobby is listening to short wave radio, especially English language broadcasts from foreign countries. These broadcasts, he explained, are similar to those made by the United States' "Voice of America."

Dr. Holt listens regularly to the "Voice of Moscow." The commentators and announcers compare favorably with the best in the United States, in fluent command of the English language.

Propaganda emanating from Moscow, he said, takes many forms. Such as, "Captured American GIs pleading with their people back home to desert the imperialistic war mongers of Washington and the Wall Street capitalists."

Other Russian propaganda includes "men dodging the military draft," and a plea to American soldiers to surrender to the gallant Chinese volunteer armies who are defending their homeland against imperialistic aggression.

Numerous other examples of propaganda were given by Dr. Holt. In closing his talk, the speaker said, "Only through the overwhelming power of honesty, decency and brotherhood can we defeat such viciousness. Let us so live that our actions will speak louder than words," he said in conclusion.

Guests of the club were Charles DeShaw of East Carolina College, Lunford Crew of Roanoke Rapids, Exchange district governor and a state senator, and William Gaylord, president of the Roanoke Rapids Exchange Club, were special guests.

Capitol Square

(Continued from Page Four) both in buildings and in teachers. There were 1871 applications for enrollment received before July 14 this year, which was 463 more than last year to same date.

Dr. J. D. Messick, ECC president, expects final total enrollment to considerably above the previous record of 2,123. Already every dormitory room has been assigned and admission fees have been received from 617 for whom no rooms are available. Of the nearly $3.5 million requested for permanent improvements this year, $2.5 million is desired to build two 300 room dormitories—one for men, one for women.

QUALITY — Dr. Messick emphasized the "two college" phase of campus life. In its early years and again during the war, it was primarily a girls' school with just a few boys. Present enrollment is fairly equal, necessitating double facilities in many phases of activities. There is also growing demand for a more diversified curriculum in both the graduate and undergraduate schools. Suggestion that maybe the college ought to stick more closely to its original policy was answered by that statement that many of the young men and women coming here would not be able to get a college education elsewhere. The student body comes from all the state, but preponderant majority comes from the area east of a line running approximately from Wilmington to Roxboro. The fast rise in enrollment during the past few years and the present excess of applications indicates the need for expanding facilities to meet the demand. The college has land, and if it is to continue its growth there must be some more buildings and athletic fields provided.

SYMPATHETIC — Three of the budget advisors—Larry Moore of Wilson, Alonzo Edwards of Greensboro and John D. Larkins Jr., of Jones—come from the immediate area served by ECC and they lent sympathetic ears to the requests for expansion.

After 41 Years Of Soldiering, Ike Is A Civilian

WASHINGTON (UP) — It's officially "Mister" Dwight D. Eisenhower now.

After 41 years as a soldier, the five star general yesterday officially became a civilian.

The Army announced that Eisenhower's resignation from the Army, submitted after he was chosen as the Republican presidential nominee, became effective as of yesterday.

"His title is definitely mister," a spokesman said. "He's got nothing to do with the Army now."

Eisenhower can win back his five stars now only by an act of Congress. But if he wins in November he becomes, as president, commander in chief of the armed forces.

TONSILS LOST, PUPPY FOUND — CAMBRIDGE, O. (UP)—A puppy found a home when a little boy lost his tonsils. Roger McManaway, 3, had his tonsils out and his father thought he deserved a reward. Mr. and Mrs. Gerald McManaway remembered reading about an abandoned dog in the newspaper the night before. About 75 persons asked to adopt the dog but when Roger came home from the hospital, there was the puppy ready to play with him.

New Cars Undamaged In Road Collision

The carry-all truck shown in the above picture, wrecked on the Bethel Highway yesterday afternoon, when the driver attempted to avoid striking an automobile and skidded into the ditch. Four new automobiles on the vehicle were left undamaged by the mishap. The cars were unloaded and driven into Greenville. No charges were placed against either driver.

Shivers and White lead anti-Truman delegations against whom the left-of-center heirs of the Franklin D. Roosevelt tradition are determined to slay in the convention doors. Texas has 52, Mississippi 18 votes.

Whether the credentials subcommittee and the national committee rule for the Shivers-White "regulars" or for the competing "Loyalist" slates from the South, the fight is likely to spill over into the convention floor next week.

The platform writers have not yet come to grips with the civil rights issue which is bound closely to the Texas and Mississippi contests.

But the left wing coalition created by FDR apparently has decided that 1952 is the year to shake off the South forever—or to make 'em like the kind of candidate and platform required to appease the racially mixed industrial centers of the North.

Humphrey declared open war on the South in his first formal appearance here, a news conference in which he said he and his associates would not compromise on anything.

Kefauver moved immediately to get right with what he regards as the majority. His managers agreed with Harriman's representatives to help Humphrey seat the pro-Truman delegations from Texas and Mississippi.

One informant close to the Harriman camp hinted strongly that the Kefauver-Harriman alliance may carry over into the presidential balloting, but admitted that the key question—who would be top man and who would settle for second place on the ticket—had not even been discussed.

Russell promptly charged Harriman and Kefauver were joining in "a conspiracy to stop me." But both men vigorously denied any "deals" between them on the presidential nomination.

Gov. James F. Byrnes, South Carolina, arrived to manage the South's campaign to maintain its position within the Democratic party.

But there was talk of bolt in the air and of bad trouble to come. Texas' John Cofer told the credentials subcommittee that the del-

Byrd 'Hopes' To Continue Backing Senator Russell

CHICAGO (UP) — Sen. Harry F. Byrd (D-Va.) said today "I hope to continue my support" of Sen. Richard B. Russell for the Democratic presidential nomination despite dissatisfaction by Virginia Democrats over Russell's new stand on labor legislation.

However, Byrd said final decision will be up to the 28-vote Virginia delegation which will get here Sunday.

Byrd, who arrived early today for the convention, said he planned to call on Russell at once and also to confer with Gov. James F. Byrnes of South Carolina, another key figure in Russell's bedrock Southern support.

The Georgian or one of his supporters sought to bolster his position with a famous name yesterday and invited Rep. Franklin D. Roosevelt, New York, to take second place on a Russell ticket. Young Roosevelt brushed it off. He is Harriman's campaign manager.

Returns, Clears His Conscience

OLNEY, Ill. — (AP)—A former Olney resident returned to clear his conscience of a boyhood "debt." He found Richland County fair board officials and confessed he slipped into the fair many times without paying.

He peeled three dollars from his roll. The fair officials told him to forget it—boys were expected to slip in.

They talked of old times and the man decided he slipped in more than $3 worth. He peeled off another dollar. After more talk he added a fifth bill. The official gave up protesting and took the $3, sending his visitor away happy.

Ancient Auto Is Prized SMU Gift

DALLAS — (AP)—One of the most unusual assets of Southern Methodist University is an elegant 1929 Franklin automobile.

It was given to SMU by a whimsical alumnus in 1950 and has been parked on fraternity row ever since. The idea of the donor was that the engine be used in laboratory displays.

"We'll have to get some special equipment before we can tear that engine out," says Prof. Charles A. Besio of the SMU mechanical engineering department. "It's a 6-cylinder, air-cooled engine and still runs fine. But it weighs four times as much as most auto engines today."

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Census Bureau estimated today that the U. S. population totaled 156,804,000 on June 1 — an increase of 5,672,000 over the 1960 census. The June estimate, which includes servicemen overseas, was an increase of 202,000 over the May 1 total.

Kiwanians Hear Report Of Meet

The Greenville Kiwanis Club's delegates to the Kiwanis International Convention in Seattle, Washington, several weeks ago, reported to the club at its supper meeting last night.

Dr. Austin D. Bond of East Carolina College faculty and Dr. F. Elmer Lamsche, who represented the club, said one of the two orations to speakers at the convention was accorded Bob Roberson, past president of the Circle K Club at the college.

Both speakers said Roberson, addressing the throng of 10,000 persons, made a wonderful impression on the assemblage. They recalled that he gave East Carolina College and the Greenville Kiwanis Club several "plugs."

Vice-President Leo W. Jenkins presided for President Milo Smith, who had an injured hand.

Jenkins announced that plans for Ed Bloom's amateur show at Austin auditorium on the college campus Thursday, July 31, have been completed. Proceeds of the show will be for the benefit of a recreation fund.

Bill Whedbee had a birthday and donated a dime for each year of his age.

Bob Roberson and Louis Clark, Circle K members from the college, and Herb Ridgeway, were guests of the club.

Shivers and White lead anti-Truman delegations against whom the left-of-center heirs of the Franklin D. Roosevelt tradition are determined to slay in the convention doors. Texas has 52, Mississippi 18 votes.

Whether the credentials subcommittee and the national committee rule for the Shivers-White "regulars" or for the competing "Loyalist" slates from the South, the fight is likely to spill over into the convention floor next week.

The platform writers have not yet come to grips with the civil rights issue which is bound closely to the Texas and Mississippi contests.

But the left wing coalition created by FDR apparently has decided that 1952 is the year to shake off the South forever—or to make 'em like the kind of candidate and platform required to appease the racially mixed industrial centers of the North.

Humphrey declared open war on the South in his first formal appearance here, a news conference in which he said he and his associates would not compromise on anything.

Kefauver moved immediately to get right with what he regards as the majority. His managers agreed with Harriman's representatives to help Humphrey seat the pro-Truman delegations from Texas and Mississippi.

One informant close to the Harriman camp hinted strongly that the Kefauver-Harriman alliance may carry over into the presidential balloting, but admitted that the key question—who would be top man and who would settle for second place on the ticket—had not even been discussed.

Russell promptly charged Harriman and Kefauver were joining in "a conspiracy to stop me." But both men vigorously denied any "deals" between them on the presidential nomination.

Gov. James F. Byrnes, South Carolina, arrived to manage the South's campaign to maintain its position within the Democratic party.

But there was talk of bolt in the air and of bad trouble to come. Texas' John Cofer told the credentials subcommittee that the del-

President Signs Tax Legislation

WASHINGTON (UP) — President Truman signed legislation yesterday authorizing the government to withhold state income taxes from the pay of civilian federal employees in state and territories using the withholding tax system.

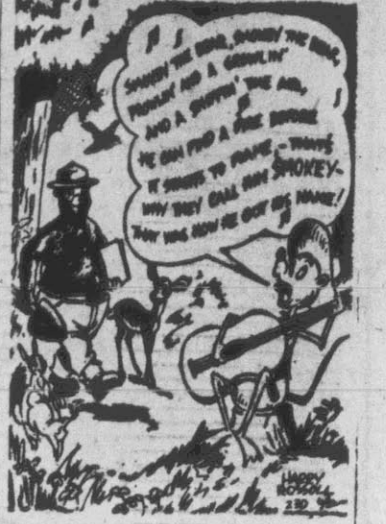

The law does not apply to withholding taxes levied by municipalities or other political subdivisions of a state.

Bradley To View Leased Bases

WASHINGTON (UP)—Gen. Omar N. Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, will fly to St. John's, Newfoundland, on Monday to study problems of U. S. forces at leased bases in the area.

The Defense Department said Bradley would return Thursday.
