Air Force Opines Natural Illusions Explain 'Saucers'

Intelligence Officers Confident Scientific Investigations Will Explain Away Mysterious Objects As Physical Phenomena; Special Equipment Utilized

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Air Force offered today a combination of summer heat waves and optical and radar illusions as a plausible explanation of the latest flurry of "flying saucers."

Intelligence officers ridiculed the notion that the mysterious objects in the sky hail from other planets or Russia—or pose a menace to the United States.

They were confident that new scientific investigations with powerful telescopes and special cameras would explain away the objects as "physical phenomena," such as mirages. And, maybe, cure the nation of sauceritis.

As for three flocks of objects sighted by radar over Washington in the last 10 days, Maj. Gen. John A. Samford, Air Force director of intelligence, told a news conference late yesterday, "my own mind is satisfied" they resulted from temperature inversion.

This was explained in detail later by two electronics experts from the Air Technical Intelligence Center, Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Dayton, O. They were Dr. B. L. Griffing and Capt. Roy James.

At temperature, they pointed out, decreases with altitude. However, when a warm air mass passes over a relatively cooler one, temperature temporarily increases and an "inversion layer" of warm air is formed.

This inversion will cause radar beams to bend earthward. Radar impulses then bounce off ground "targets" that then appear as unidentified "highly reflective" objects in the sky but which are not objects in the sky but objects on the ground.

Van Fleet Avers Truce Hope Slim

General Says Trends In Korea Indicate Less Chance Of Armistice Than Ever Before; Enemy Thinning Lines

SEOUL, KOREA (UP)—Gen. James A. Van Fleet, commander of the U. S. 8th Army and United Nations ground forces in Korea, said today recent trends in Korea indicated "less chance of an armistice than ever before."

Asked about the effect of the American steel strike on the war, Van Fleet said: "It hasn't been felt here at all. But, he added, "had it continued, I believe that it would have."

The rains which have turned the battle lines into mud and flooded some areas of Korea have hit the Communists hard, Van Fleet said.

"The rainy season is in our favor," he explained. All our main bridges and roads are in good shape. We have ample stocks in the forward areas. We were prepared for the rainy season.

"The enemy is not. He is in bad shape when it comes to floods," Van Fleet said some Communist bridges had been spotted floating down the Imjin and Ong Rivers.

Heavy Air Force attacks in the battle zone have paid off, Van Fleet reported.

"Let him (the Communist) have the trouble of bringing supplies all the way down and then destroy them. There have been good targets. It has been very profitable."

French Shocked By U.S. Refusal Of $439 Millions

Sum Turned Down Because Of Congressional Cut In Foreign Aid Funds

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has promised France an extra 186 million dollars to help step up arms production, but has turned down an urgent French plea for another 439 millions for the same purpose.

The French government was reportedly "shocked," and the French press critical.

Diplomatic authorities yesterday said the new funds would help finance production of a new French-designed fighter plane and some artillery shell production.

But authorities said the larger sum was turned down because of the congressional cut in foreign aid funds and existing priority arrangements.

French Ambassador Henri Bonnet conferred with State Department officials yesterday on details of French rearmament plans.

He and others have said U. S. failure to support the expanded program, costing 625 million dollars over a three-year period, would force some arms plants to close down, cause unemployment, and play into Communist hands.

The American note offering 186 millions is said to have left the way open for a possible restudy of the French situation later this year.

Reports from Paris said the French government was shocked by the turn-down. Defense Minister Rene Pleven said he would meet with Gen. Pierre Koenig, head of the National Defense Committee, to consider consequences.

Out Of Water

ASHEVILLE (AP)—Weaver-ville, in Northern Buncombe County, virtually was out of water today.

While the entire Western North Carolina area showed growing concern over rapidly dwindling water supplies, Mayor W. W. Shope of Weaver-ville reported the town's reservoirs empty and the northern half of the community without water.

Huge Army pumps and purifiers were being rushed to the town following Shope's appeal to the Red Cross and the Third Army headquarters in Atlanta, Ga.

Members of the Greenville Utilities Commission crowded into Chairman Roy Martin's private office last night for a special "conference" relative to the recent breakdown in electrical service.

Utilities Superintendent Martin Swartz said this morning the reason he did not notify The Daily Reflector about the meeting was because he was not authorized to do so as the meeting was called by Chairman Martin.

Swartz declared the meeting was held for the purpose of familiarizing commissioners John G. Clark and J. B. Kittrell with causes of the recent breakdown and steps taken to put the plant back into full operation.

Both Clark and Kittrell have been out of town for the past several days.

Chairman Martin told a Reflector reporter over the phone this morning, "I can't see why you or the public should be concerned with the type meeting we held last night."

He said to publish intricate details such as were discussed last night would be of no interest to anyone and would tend to confuse people.

Health Officer For Pitt County Has Been Named

New Full-Time Director To Assume Office In County On September 1

By MURIEL SHOTWELL Reflector Staff Writer

As of September 1, a new director and health officer will assume duties at the Pitt County Department of Health.

F. F. Hendrix, chairman of the county board of health, announced yesterday that Dr. Walter Humbert of Webster Groves, Missouri, has accepted the position of director of the local health department and as health officer for the county.

Dr. Humbert appeared before the Pitt County Board of Health at a special meeting Tuesday, July 25, with Dr. C. C. Applewhite of the State Health Department who has been working for several months to secure a director for the local department.

The Pitt health department has been without a full-time director during the past few months due to the illness of Dr. T. G. Baughman who served as health officer here for a number of years.

At the meeting of the health board during the middle of the month, all the members were apparently impressed with the applicant who appeared before them and his qualifications.

Dr. Humbert is a graduate of Vanderbilt University and received his internship at the University of Iowa. He received his degree in public health from Tulane and served for 10 years as a health officer in Tennessee.

Two Pro-Taft Senators Welcomed Into Eisenhower Camp; Rumbblings Of Discontent In Virginia, South Carolina, Louisiana And Mississippi Democrats Heard

By the Associated Press

New voices were added to the Republican harmony chorus today as notes of discord sounded among Democrats in the South.

Two senators who backed the unsuccessful fight of Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio to win the GOP presidential nomination were welcomed into the camp of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the party nominee. They are Sen. Everett Dirksen of Illinois and Sen. Hugh Butler of Nebraska.

Dirksen, who touched off a demonstration at the Republican convention in a speech blasting Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, an Eisenhower strategy, disclosed through his office that he will fly to Denver Saturday to participate in a weekend series of Eisenhower campaign strategy conferences.

Butler called on Eisenhower yesterday and came out predicting victory for the general in Nebraska and expressing confidence that Taft will take an active part in the campaign to put Eisenhower in the White House.

In Indiana, the pre-convention state committee for Eisenhower decided to stay in existence, but agreed to co-operate with the pro-Taft regular Republican state organization.

In the Democratic camp, rumbblings of discontent were heard in Virginia, South Carolina, Louisiana and Mississippi. They appeared to be directed more at the Democratic platform's civil rights plank than at the party's nominees, Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois and Sen. John J. Sparkman of Alabama.

In South Carolina, Gov. James F. Byrnes said he would have voted against the platform if he had the chance. He said he will make his views on the candidates known when the state Democratic convention convenes Aug. 6 to decide upon a course of action.

Plan To Cushion Lowered Exports

Price Support Plan To Minimize Effect Of British Cut

WASHINGTON (UP)—Southern tobacco growers and the Agriculture Department have agreed on a method to "cushion" the U. S. effects of an expected $5,000,000 pound cut in British tobacco buying this year, a department spokesman revealed today.

The spokesman said the arrangement is set up within existing price support operations. He described it as "strictly a matter of price support" and not aid to United Kingdom tobacco buyers.

Under the arrangement, part of the funds set aside for price support loans on flue-cured tobacco will be loaned to British buyers to purchase tobacco at auctions in the usual manner. The British buyers must pay any difference between the support loan and the going market price.

Current prices of flue-cured tobacco are from 55 to 56 cents a pound.

The British buyer pledges his purchased tobacco as collateral and has one year to pay off the loan, the spokesman said.

City Sanitation Law Put To Test

Property Owner Is Found Guilty; Prayer For Judgment Ordered

By ROY HARDEE

The first test of the city sanitary ordinance was aired in city recorder's court this morning, in a case charging a 72-year-old man with infraction of the ordinance on two counts.

Judge Charles H. Whedbee, after hearing the case which took up the better part of one hour, passed a verdict of guilty, but ordered that prayer for judgment be written into the official court record as sentence.

Henry Tripp was charged in a warrant sworn out by Mayor Lester D. Page on July 9 with violating the city sanitary ordinance No. 17, which requires the installation of water and sewer connections in the city on two separate charges.

The property listed as being in violation of the city laws was given as 106-B Martin Street and 1013 North Greene Street.

Defense Doubles Its Steel Needs

Strike Effects To Be Felt In Civilian Output Use

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Pentagon expects defense production to take double its normal share of the nation's steel output during the next six months.

An official handling military production problems said today this will necessarily mean less steel, temporarily, for civilian use, and a return in part to the system of wartime priorities for military production.

He said the nation lost 20 million tons of steel output during the 54 days of recent strike.

Defense orders would have taken about 15 per cent of that production, he said. To make up this three-million-ton loss, the military's share of the first 30 million tons produced after resumption of full production will have to be increased to 30 per cent, or six million tons.

To meet the urgent needs of some plants, the official added, air shipments of raw materials may be authorized.

Colonel's Wife Found Guilty Of Black Marketing

WIESBADEN, Germany (AP)—Mrs. Katherine G. Reed, 44, of Mt. Clemens, Mich., wife of an American Air Force colonel, was convicted today of five charges of selling coffee and gasoline coupons and making illegal currency exchanges on the German black market.

She was found innocent of two other charges of importing coffee for resale and buying military scrip for American dollars.

Judge Dewitt White of Morgantown, W. Va., after announcing the verdict, did not pass sentence immediately.

Mrs. Reed, wife of Col. Allen W. Reed, formerly of Fairfield, Ia., stood with her head high before the judge as the verdict was read.

Assistant U. S. Attorney Jerome Silverstein of Washua, N. H., asked the court to impose a jail sentence on the dark-haired defendant, saying she "has richly earned it."

Welcome Mat Is Out Today For New French Ship

NEW YORK (AP)—The welcome mat was out today for the new French liner Flandre on her maiden voyage, but late in the morning she still hadn't crossed the threshold of New York's upper harbor.

Mechanical troubles kept the largest vessel built in France since World War II anchored off Staten Island, nearly 24 hours late in docking. Greeters stewed and official welcome plans were scrambled.

The 594-foot liner, with 631 passengers aboard, was due here at 4 p. m. yesterday but was delayed at sea with engine trouble. Then, when the 20,264-ton ship dropped anchor off Staten Island before sailing up the bay for a traditional welcome, the main electric board short-circuited.

The power failure cut lights and elevator service. Partially restored, it still didn't give enough power to raise the anchor.

Troops Alerted For Canal Duty

NICOSIA, Cyprus (UP)—Radio announcers broke in on musical programs last night to inform vacationing British troops to proceed immediately to the Suez Canal Zone.

Names of the officers and men were announced over the British "forces radio," and they were told to report to Cyprus headquarters where transport planes waited to fly them back to Egypt.

Officers on leave from the Canal Zone's crack parachute brigade also were notified by telephone at leave camps and luxury hotels to get packed and proceed to the airport.

Another 'Sunday Punch' Of Hot And Humid Weather Is On Way

By the Associated Press

The sun gave the Carolinas their worst pasting of the summer yesterday, and the weather man advised that another Sunday punch may be on the way today.

All-time records were shattered in just about all areas of the two states, causing at least one death and jeopardizing water supplies in several major cities.

Violent thunderstorms brought brief respite from the heat last night, but in Charlotte power lines were knocked out and service was disrupted in all sections of the city for several hours.

The forecast for today was for not quite so hot, but the respite will be only temporary. Tomorrow, the weather man said, will be "hot and humid," possibly the hottest of the summer.

The following invited guests are Misses Maude Barnhill, Bethel; Lottie Davis, Lucama; Ethel Smith, Greenville; Fannie Spain, Greenville; Lula Bryan, Norfolk; Thema Bryan, Goldsboro; Jesse Hodges, Washington; Velma Harrington, Kinston; Mattie Davenport, Lynchburg; Messrs. The willing and generous assistance rendered by the young people of the town shows in what high estimation the two young ladies are held. They with their parents are tireless in their efforts to give their guests every pleasure possible, autos, carriage and buggies at their command for a good time. On Thursday evening they went for a moonlight sail on the Myrtle to Washington. During the sail it had rained very hard but hearts were too light and happy for mud and water and white slippers to interfere with a midnight walk of a mile from the river to their respective homes.

Murder-Suicide By Seaman Who Stayed Ashore

NEW YORK (UP) A 42-year old merchant seaman killed his seven-year old nephew, seriously wounded his niece and then committed suicide last night because his sister told him to "go to sea."

Police said Manuel Viego, who lived with his sister's family, got into an argument with Mrs. Candido Torres after she told him "I wish you were at sea." Infuriated by his sister's words, Viego beat the woman.

Police theorized that Torres heard Viego beating his wife and went to call police. While he was gone Viego took his six-inch switchblade knife and stabbed his nephew, Natividad, to death and slashed 11-year old Alice Torres, his niece.

Viego rushed into the street as police arrived and stabbed himself in the neck. He died in an ambulance.

Hearing Delayed For H. W. Allen

Further delay in obtaining a preliminary hearing for Howard Watson Allen, 18-year-old Greenville youth charged with the safe robbery of the J. W. Higgs residence last week, came about this morning when the case was postponed for the second time until Friday.

Allen, who is under $4,000 bond, appeared in court this morning accompanied by his mother and defense lawyer Louis W. Gaylord, Jr.

Gaylord argued it was the right of his client to have a speedy hearing and that he objected to "the tactics engaged in to hold the man."

However, Judge Charles Whedbee over-rode the objection and accepted a motion from Solicitor Eli Bloom to put the case off until the Friday session of city court.

A hearing was held in the case Monday morning for the purpose of reducing the $18,000 bond under which the youth had been placed since his arrest late Friday night.

After the reduction of the bond to the $4,000 mark, bond was posted and signed by Jarvis Allen following the Monday session.

Impressions

By MARTHA S. FORBES

The citizens of Greenville surely have had a lot to talk about this summer. Maybe they have not had any energy for active participation in any enterprise that necessitated physical exertion, but there has been no dearth of conversational material.

The matter with which most of us have been most personally concerned is, of course, the weather. Temperatures have broken all kinds of records—and nobody needed the weather bureau's report to fathom that. In addition to the heat there has been a great scarcity of water—except from perspiration. If all the water which has oozed from the pores of people's skins this summer could have been collected into one cloud, what a downpour we would have! Housewives have not needed to launder clothes this summer. After one has had on a garment for a couple of hours, it washes itself with sweat. All that is necessary then is a hanging on the line and a light pressing with the palm of the hand, as skin temperature has been about equal to a warm iron.

I have heard all kinds of peculiar things which people have done this summer in an effort to outwit the weather. Some went to bed in the bathtub, filling the tub with water, of course, before crawling in. The slumberers who thus spent the night never did get around to saying whether they slept any or not, but they did state that they were somewhat cooler until the heat generated by their bodies caused the water to reach the boiling point. I have heard that others sat up all night on the porch, rocking back and forth to create a little stir of air for comfort. There have probably been as many people sleeping on porches and in yards this summer as were occupying bedrooms. It is an advertised fact that stores sold out of fans and other cooling apparatus on a number of occasions. And neighbors have been bribing other neighbors for the loan of a good breeze-creating equipment. A good idea might be for neighbors to pool all their fans and then sell chances on which neighbor gets the use of all the fans on a given night. In that way at least one family will have enough fans for every room, and with the profit that is made, all could eventually buy more that could be evenly distributed to everyone who participated in the enterprise.

Another good topic for conversation has been the political conventions. As it has been too hot to sleep anyway, people have really enjoyed sitting up until almost daylight to follow the proceedings on television and radio. And talking about what went on in Chicago has helped to make us forget our own physical discomfort. We could always console ourselves with the knowledge that however hot we were, things were even warmer up there. We heard so much "addressing the chair" that "Mr. Chairman" has become a part of our daily conversation when we wish to attract the attention of someone. It is a little bores to our ego to be addressed in such a way, even though we know it is only a mode of the moment.

Greenville's one-way streets have come in for their share of talk, thus adding to our conversational menu for the summer. And most of the unpleasant criticism has come from people who either do not drive or else spend very little time on the downtown streets. It has been amusing to watch the education of the drivers to the new flow of traffic, and it was a very reassuring feeling to have policemen stationed at strategic corners for several days whose waves of the arms were always friendly and the sound of whose whistles did not cause a start of fear. Drivers felt very secure by their presence, and the citizens of the town learned that cops are hired to help and protect them rather than to arrest them for the breaking of some law. We became acquainted, at least by sight, with many whom we had never seen before. And it is always good to know who is working for you.

Yes, there has been a lot to talk about in Greenville this summer. And as every employer knows, the more talk the less work. So these conversational gems have kept us from working ourselves into a state of collapse, for we have probably talked more and worked less than at any other period in a long time.

Passenger Bus Is Collision Victim

PAYETTEVILLE (AP)—A heavily loaded passenger bus collided with a wrecker near a drive-in theater 4 miles north of here today, killing one person and injuring 15 others.

The dead man was identified as Jack Anderson, a native of Coachella, Calif., manager of the theatre.

Four of those injured were hospitalized, but none were believed seriously hurt. The others were treated for minor bruises and contusions and released.

Highway patrolmen investigating the accident gave this version: A car owned by Sgt. Robert E. Chunn of Ft. Bragg, became stalled in the drive-in theatre. Anderson used his own car to push the other car onto the highway to get it started. The bumpers of the two cars became locked and a wrecker was called.

Anderson was standing beside the wrecker when a Greyhound bus rounded a curve, skidded several hundred feet and struck the wrecker. The wrecker overturned, pinning Anderson to the pavement.

The bus did not overturn, but the impact threw the passengers inside into confusion. The driver, J. B. Edwards of Raleigh, was not hurt.

Bandit Changes Theft To 'Loan'

NEW YORK (UP)—A young bandit walked into a candy store yesterday and told Mrs. Bertha Romano, manager, to "please give me $30. That's all. Just $30."

The bandit noticed Mrs. Romano trembling.

"Don't be afraid, I won't hurt you. After looking at you I almost can't do it, but I need the money to pay the rent. I'll pay you back in a month."

Mrs. Romano gave him the $30 and he took her name and address promising again to repay "the loan."

Faddist Asks To Jump In Thames

NEW YORK (UP)—Bernarr MacFadden, 83, has cabled Prime Minister Winston Churchill for permission to make a parachute jump into the Thames River.

MacFadden, who likes to jump in rivers to show his "youthfulness," parachuted into the Hudson last Aug. 16 to celebrate his 83rd birthday.

'Fraternized' With Lady Juror

OAKLAND, Calif. (UP)—William A. Cody, 44, accused of receiving stolen goods, was scheduled for a new trial today after the judge learned he had been taking a lady member of the jury home from court.

The judge declared a mistrial and lectured jurors on fraternizing with defendants.

Glamour Not Everything In Dating Is Findings In Survey Of Teen-Agers

STATE COLLEGE, Pa. (U.P.)—Courtesy, friendliness and a sense of humor are rated higher in teenage dating than either good looks or a good line, according to a survey made at Pennsylvania State College.

The fact that glamour factors are not all-important was one of several conclusions reached in a master's thesis submitted by Phoebe Forrest. Miss Forrest did her research under the direction of Dr. William M. Smith Jr., professor of family relations.

Among the 135 high school juniors surveyed by Miss Forrest, about half discussed their dating problems with their mothers, while fewer than three per cent carried their troubles to their fathers. The figures also showed that teen agers are more apt to quarrel with their mothers than with their fathers.

Although most of the young people wanted their parents to approve of the person they were dating, almost 75 per cent indicated a parental lack of interest in their problems.

Magazines Help
The girls said that they received most of their ideas on how to get a date from current magazines, while the boys listed as their chief source "bull sessions" with classmates.

The starting-age for dating is earlier for boys than for girls, according to the thesis. Most girls start when they are 14. The boys claim, however, that they themselves stop dating by the time they are juniors in high school.

Miss Forrest said the reason was that the boys have a much narrower idea of what a date means. The boys do not accept the girls' premise that even a casual downtown meeting and consequent walk home can be termed a date. As a result, the totals for the girls show a higher number of dates than for the boys.

Although about 35 per cent of the high school students, interviewed were "going steady," most of them were not taking their dating too seriously. Among the chief pastimes listed were movies, car riding, and dancing.

Girls Want Marriage
The matrimonial ambitions of the girls differed materially from the boys. Most of the girls expressed a desire to be married by the time they were 21, but the boys did not want to be fettered until they were at least 24 or 25.

Incidentally, 80 per cent of both groups did not think that the dating they were doing at the time of the survey was part of a successful courtship for marriage.

The desire for more independence on the part of the boys was reflected in the freedom they were granted by their parents in date curfews. Only 27 per cent of the boys were under any time limit imposed by their own parents, while 71 per cent of the girls had a definite homecoming time established.

Miss Forrest came to the conclusion that the high number of boys not dating meant that too many were missing an important experience for all teen agers. The responsibility, she felt, rests with the schools and with the home.

Three Occupants Of Car In Wreck Monday Injured

Three young occupants of one of the cars in collision at the intersection of Wilson and Chestnut streets Monday afternoon were injured, according to a later police report.

They were occupants of the car driven by Louvenia Mizelle, 404 Arbor street, Greenville, when a car driven by Willis F. Peaden of Fairland collided with it. The police report states that the injured persons were examined by a physician. Betty E. Jackson had bruises on her head; Sandra Mizelle had bruises and abrasions about the face, and Russell Redmond was bruised on the chest and about the head.

The injured persons had not been examined when the first police report was made. No arrest was made. Police quoted Peaden as saying he did not see the other car in time to avoid the collision.

Paris Fashion Designers Set New Fall Silhouette

PARIS (UP)—Sixty-five of Paris' top fashion designers swept into the fall collections today with the 1952-53 silhouette emphasizing femininity and practicality.

Jacques Fath led the field in unveiling the secrets of his workroom before socialites and fashion correspondents from all over the world packed into his green and white salon.

He set the pace with a warm simplicity bound to be popular with women of all ages and sizes.

Jacques Heim and Castillo of Lanvin will complete the first hectic day's showings. Castillo, promoter of last season's soft materials, says his clothes allow for comfort and action.

Skirts overall are expected to end up a bit longer than last season's 14 inches. And the bust? Wait and see.

Before the end of the showings "old master" Christian Dior will doubtless spring a few surprises, as will Hubert de Givenchy, new young star who sparked the spring collections.

Fath, more feminine than last spring, achieves his new look by elongating skirts, widening shoulders and using softer cloths.

Colorwise he favors "castor," a café-au-lait brown, for daytime. Varied shades of red are injected to liven the monotonous.

Fath's hats, small and head-enveloping, require high collar lines. A severe simplicity is broken only occasionally by a rakish swoop of feathers.

Heim promises suits and ensembles to take madame from dawn to dusk in everything from rough wools to stiffened laces. The day-long wearability is a concession to American tastes—and the U. S. buyers fresh from Italian showings.

The Sport Reflector

By BOB HELDRUP

It was the guy with brain versus the guy with brawn night before last at Yankee Stadium and the latter won out.

Rocky Marciano's second round KO over highly rated Harry (The Kid) Matthews leads some folks to believe that perhaps heavyweight boxing is once more on the way up.

The match was novel, to say the least, in the short time that it lasted. The first round went decisively to Matthews but at that the close observer could see the handwriting on the wall.

In that opening round Matthews tagged Rocky with three consecutive lefts to the face and then followed up with a roundhouse right to the jaw. With almost all of today's boxers this punishment would have had some effect but the Brocton Bull kept boring in for more. Jersey Joe Walcott, the present possessor of the world heavyweight crown, was at ringside for the fight. The old man was duly impressed and admitted that Marciano would be "terribly, terribly" hard to defeat in their September title bout.

The installation of Rogers Hornsby as manager of the Cincinnati Reds was a bit of a surprise to most folks.

Since Hornsby was dismissed as manager of the St. Louis Browns it seemed that his career in baseball was over.

General Manager Gabe Paul of the Reds did not give a particular reason for naming Hornsby as the successor to Rip Sewell.

It is generally believed, however, that Hornsby was named to the post because of his harsh, methodical ways. Sewell was a fatherly type who never lost his temper. Hornsby is the exact opposite. He demands and expects, the impossible.

Time will tell whether a fatherly manager or a firetune one is the best for the Red's predicament.

Yesterday's 6-2 triumph by the Lions in the Little League City Championship Series gives both the Jaycees and the Lions a 2-2 record and sends the playoffs into the final game.

It was quite a game. Although there were no home runs the contest was still filled with excitement. Both teams were obviously nervous as they took the field. The only calm boy was midget Mac McKenzie, Lion second baseman.

Both clubs bore down all the way and the result was some down-right interesting ball. Mack Roebuck, the Lion hurler, came up with a brilliant play as did Klutz Fisher and first baseman Nobles.

Mac McKenzie, the boy we mentioned just a few lines back, struck out three times yesterday but for our money he is still potentially the best player we have seen in Little League play this year.

When he's on the field Mac looks as if a good stiff breeze would carry him away and yet he manages to hold on come breeze, gale or opposing players.

We paid particular attention to Mac when he came to bat. To be sure, he did strike out three times, but it can't be remembered when a player looked better in so doing. In the field McKenzie handled himself with all the poise of a veteran. He accepted two chances yesterday without error and covered his position well.

We may get it for saying so but we still think that Mac McKenzie will be one of the better ballplayers to come from the Greenville area.

Little League Sponsors Picked

The girls that will sponsor the Little League teams of the District 1 tourney which will be held here beginning August 5 have been selected.

They are: Alice Edwards and Nancy Harris—Rocky Mount Nationals; Margaret Ruffin and Beth Murray—Greenville;

Marietta Northrop and Ginger Lang—Rocky Mount Americans; Camelia Henderson and Barbara Davis—Williamston;

Anne Ellington and Yvonne Russell—Farmville;

Carol Ann Tadlock and Anna Cartner will be sponsors for the entire district.

These teams will be guests here in Greenville and these girls are going to act as representatives of Greenville hospitality. Since the Greenville Little League does not charge for their games these girls will collect donations for the upkeep of the Greenville Little League.

Prizes will be awarded to the pair that collects the most.

The girls will be uniformed in their appearances at the ball park. Nobles Florist has been instrumental in making the uniforms for the girls possible.

Roebuck Wins As Series Enters Deciding Game

A four-run rally in the top of the fifth inning broke a 3-2 tie and gave the Lions a 6-2 win over the Jaycees in the fourth game of the Little League City Series.

Walker Lee Allen, the Jaycees' ace Lion killer, was sent to the mound yesterday and, for three innings, it appeared as if Allen was on his way to his third consecutive shutout.

In the bottom of the fourth, however, Edmundson, Lion shortstop, was safe on an error. Four singles scored two runs and the game was tied. The Jaycees had plated their pair in a first round uprising.

The Lion victory left the City Series tied at two games for each club and thereby sends the playoff into its final game. This deciding contest will be played this afternoon at 5 p.m. at Little League Park.

The game was highlighted by some outstanding plays. In the bottom of the second inning Johnny Harrison, Lion third sacker, sent a sizzling ground ball into the hole between short and third. Klutz Fisher, playing third for the Jaycees, went far to his left to make the stop, and then threw to first. First baseman Nobles came up with an excellent catch to retire Harrison.

The winning pitcher was Mack Roebuck. Roebuck also slugged two singles and scored two runs to lead his team at the plate.

Walker Lee Allen, the losing hurler, was the only Jaycee able to collect more than one hit. He registered two for three.

Both teams now have won five games in a row.

Pittsburgh, beaten 13 straight times by Brooklyn, finally rose in belated fury and won, 7 to 1, to extend the Dodger panic streak to five losses. The Chicago Cubs topped the Giants, 4 to 2, on the margin of two-run homers by Tommy Brown and Bill Serena.

The Cleveland Indians stayed three games behind by defeating Boston 4 to 1, while the St. Louis Browns topped Washington, 7 to 3, and the Philadelphia Athletics split at Detroit, winning 5 to 0, then losing 10 to 8.

The Phils were spunky all the way, climaxing their big evening by putting over two runs in the ninth in the second game on Willie Jones' double, a sacrifice, singles by Eddie Waitkus and Mel Clark, and a error by Roy McMillan, and a game-winning single by ex-Red Johnny Wyrostek.

Phillies, Cards Emerge To Rival For Top Berth

By CARL LUNDQUIST United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP)—Maybe the Phillies or the Cardinals will perform the miracle in the National League this season, leaving both the Dodgers and Giants in a new wreckage heap of broken dreams.

The evidence was growing today in their favor, and if they can continue to close ground on the slumping leas.ers, they could either battle it out for the flag between themselves or turn the race into a four-way free-for-all for the wildest finish yet.

While both Brooklyn and New York kept floundering last night, Philadelphia and St. Louis extended winning streaks with vital victories. The Phillies made Luke Sewell's last night as manager of the Cincinnati Reds an unhappy one by scoring 6 to 1 and 4 to 3 victories, while the Cards went 13 innings to score a 6 to 5 decision at Boston.

CHICAGO (AP) — Undeclared Johnny Saxton, New York left hook specialist, rules a 7-5 favorite over Virgil Akins of St. Louis, No. 3 lightweight contender, in their 10-round match tonight at Chicago Stadium.

Saxton, "outweighing Akins 146 to 141, will be aiming for his 31st straight victory in a bid for a crack at Kid Gavilan's welterweight crown at least a year with such top-rated contenders as Chuck Davy and Oll Turner.

The bout will be televised nationally starting at 9 p.m. Eastern Standard Time.

Akins, also seeking major recognition, has yet to break into the big money ranks.

"Ever since I won three tough matches in a row over Freddie Dawson, Luther Rawlings and Joe Brown—I've had a tough time getting fights," said Akins. "I was mighty glad to get a shot at a guy like Saxton."

Saxton won admiration from Chicago fistic experts on June 4 at the Stadium when he larruped Rawlings in a sizzling scrap.

"Honey Bear" Akins is undefeated this season, winning all four of his starts by knockouts. He flattened

Calling Names Adds To Frenzy Of Helsinki Play

By OSCAR FRALEY United Press Sports Writer

HELSENKI (UP)—The best fights of the Olympic games were not being waged today in the "Messiah hall", an oversized Quonset hut where the boxing bouts are being held.

As a matter of fact, the fisticuffs on the whole were rather dull. The best brawls were going on among officials of this idyllic quadrennial brawl.

Argentine mitt moguls were shaking a frenzied finger at a Finnish referee, claiming the gent was of pinkish tendencies. The Russians screamed "foul" when Zoe ann Jensen of the U. S. was given two extra dives because the springboard went bad, and the Reds got even in their own little way with a diving judge who ignored the catcalls to subtract on Westerners and add on Easterners.

Adding to the confusion, the Russians were yelling that they had been "robbed" of the light-heavyweight - lifting title and nerves were so tight even among the semi-officials families that Hungary and Romania were ordered to replay their water polo game.

Pete Mello, the United States boxing coach, wasn't bashful about getting into the fray, either. He was one of the first to protest a boxing match in which a Finnish referee halted a bout between an Argentine and a Russian so the Red could have his even-redder eye patched. When things looked real tough for the Soviet slugger, the referee disqualified the South American.

"That Finn was simply scared to death of the Russians and you can guess me," Mello bellowed. "It's a lucky thing we have good athletes or we'd never get anywhere. I've just told my guys to go out and knock 'em stiff. That way there can't be too much argument, although even then they're not sure of winning."

Argentine boxing coach Alfredo Porzio was nearly in tears.

"Six men eliminated in the first round—and only one lost," he stormed. "My heavyweight was crying before his match today, he was so upset and demoralized. Then he loses the first time in his career. The morale of my fighters has been killed."

There was a lot of salty water under the nasal bridge, too, in the swimming department. The crowd concentrated on a lady judge named Bochina, who happens to be from somewhere East of Helsinki. When American or a British dived, Madame Bochina held up the lowest point score among all the judges. When a Russian dived, her card always showed the highest total in sight.

Then Mrs. Jensen, wife of Jackie, the Washington senator outfielder, contributed to the confusion when she did a dive that was a real floperoo. She landed in a position generally associated with Moslem prayer rugs. Little Zoe marched right up to the officials, told them their springboard would not do to flip flap-jacks, and got them to give her another chance.

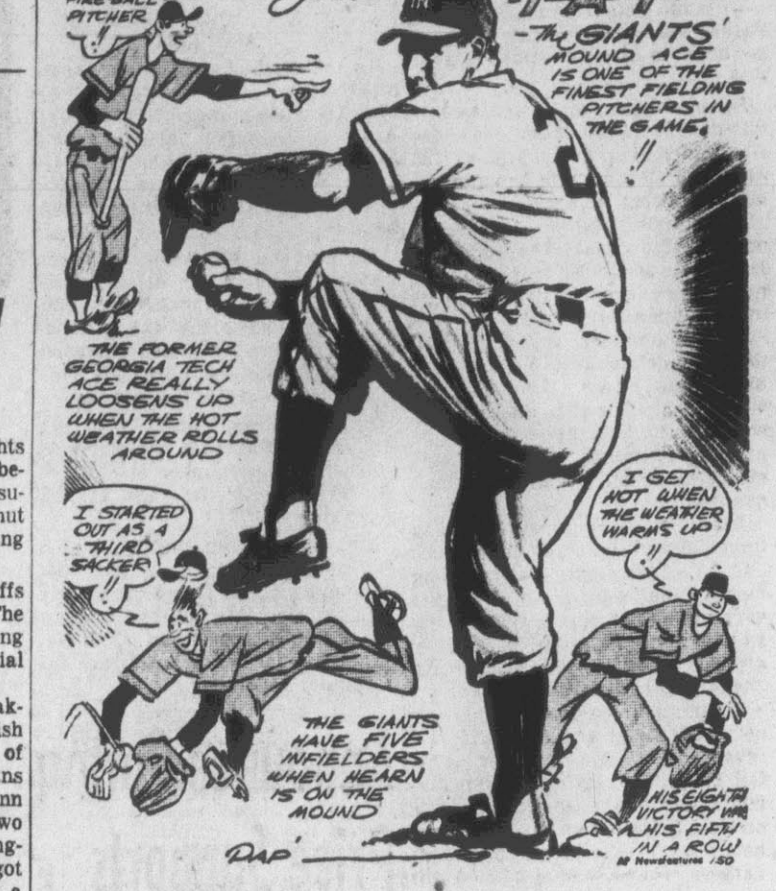

Late last night a number of gents with red stars featured prominently on their jackets were demanding that (1) she take her first five points, worth slightly less than a Finnish mark, or (2), that the whole business be run over.

ASHEVILLE (AP)—Match play in the Billmore Forest Women's Invitation golf tournament got underway here today with Kathy McKinnon and Mrs. W. B. Cocke, yesterday's medalists, tabbed as pre-tourney favorites.

Miss McKinnon, Southern women's champion from Travelers Rest, S. C., and Mrs. Cocke, recent Linville women's invitation tournament winner from Charlotte, tied in the qualifying round for medal play honors with three-under-par women's 75's. Scores skyrocketed on the back nine holes for most players, after a heavy rain held up play and soaked the course.

James McRoy took the mound, was touched for all Chemicals' hits and runs, and received credit for the loss. He was staked to a three-run lead but lost it when Chemicals rallied for three in the third frame.

First baseman Tommie Lupton was the only player to commit a miscue for Walden-Sunbeam. Chemicals players committed six.

HELL'S HORSEMAN

BY WILLIAM HOPSON

Chapter 12

He seemed to take pleasure in her surprise, and was silent for a few moments. Then he went on: "What makes it bad is that Black Jack thinks it was your father who hired that Montana gent to clean him and his men out of the country, and wore he'd square accounts. But I don't think you got anything to worry about. King can take care of things. He always has."

"Yes," Belle Ramson agreed musingly, "he always has. It's strange how you blind yourself to something when you love somebody very much. I heard many whispers about him. Some were pretty unsavory. He might have bought the wrong kind of cattle a few times, but I'll never believe that he is most of the things people say."

Rundert got up and strode away toward the fire and Belle Ramson turned to Helen, who was still a silent spectator. The older woman said softly: "Don't let it worry you, darling. Dad would never hav. Let your father buy the ranch only to lose it and the stock to rustlers and cheap cutthroats like Caswell."

"I'm not worried," Helen replied.

"Good. Everything will turn out all right, once I see Dad. But let's not talk about it any more," she smiled. "Let's take a nap while Orndorf is finishing with the cooking."

Montana rose from where he had been some distance away, listening, and picked up his war-bag. Out of deference for the two women, he moved away from the coach and soon was stretched out in the deep grass a hundred yards away, the bag serving as a pillow.

His thoughts grew hazy and before he became aware of it his eyes closed drowsily and he dropped off to sleep. He lay on his back and the world was a pleasant relaxed place until the first sharp note of a horse's hoof striking rock came to his ears. It came again, and Montana, cursing himself for not having remained on guard, rolled over with a start. He heard more of them, and the sounds were broken in upon by a sharp command in Ro Rundert's voice, held to a low pitch.

"Howdy, Black Jack. Howdy, boys," the Road Runner greeted the newcomers. "Had an idea you'd be showing up pretty soon."

"We kept pretty well back," Black Jack said, dismounting. "How long you been here?"

"About an hour. Orndorf wanted to get on to the water here before stopping. He's got the grub cooked."

"Drunken scum, he is," cut in Dutch Saunders.

"Forget it, Dutchie," Black Jack said, stretching lazily and yawning. "If ye got anything to settle with him, let it go fer the time bein'. Right now we're all set, looks like. It's taken a long time, but today we're taking over the extra to boot."

"Vare is the vimmin?" demanded the Dutchman.

"Keep yore shirt tail in," Rundert advised easily. "They're over there asleep under the coach. I didn't wake 'em up when Orndorf got the grub cooked. Wanted to wait for you boys."

"Forrest casking in his chips was the best break we could have had," Rundert said, reaching for tobacco sack and papers. "Twas allus a little afraid that after we made him pay off to get his daughter back and then rushed him outa the country, he wouldn't take it layin' down. He was one of those gents who believe in law and order. I figured he'd like as not blow in here some day with a U.S. marshal and a hundred men from Cheyenne. We can make our own law up here, but bucking the Federal government is something else."

"I nefer intend that he should git way," growled Dutch Saunders impatiently. "You talk, talk, like the fool, Ro, nein?"

Rundert asked about the herd. Black Jack grimaced and ran dirty fingers through his glossy beard. "I had a couple of the boys trailing the ranch, gettin' sassy fat in no time. Whar's our friend, Mister Two-Gun Hombr?"

Rundert jerked his thumb over his shoulder. "Over there hanging around the girls, I guess."

"Good. We'll take care of him first. Might be a good way of lettin' that Belle filly know we mean business, too. I'll cost Ramson every cent he's got to get her back. Have an idea where he's at?"

"He's supposed to be over in the back country looking up some of the hard-case riders who quit when he sold out to Forrest. But I doubt if he'll have much luck. Not about Helen Forrest, Sabe?"

"Now that's what I'd call a plumb tickle man," snorted Black Jack Caswell. "Ye go and spend months and months workin' for King Ramson and makin' Belle think ye're goin' to marry her. Then along comes this Eastern gal and ye switch right over and leave Ramson's daughter in the lurch. Why Ro, ye surprise me no end! Jest a regular heart-wrecker, he is, eh, Dutchie?"

"Talk, talk, talk," growled the Dutchman surlily, his eyes looking in the direction of the distant clearing. "Vy ve don't do something?"

"Now, now, take it easy," Caswell soothed him.

Rare Courage Displayed In One Man's Repeated Raids

(Editors note: The following article was written by playwright James A. Michener for the U. S. Navy.)

By JAMES A. MICHENER

WITH THE 1ST MARINE'S, Korea (UP)—Every once in a while you meet a man whose extraordinary bravery stuns you. But high on anybody's list would have to be an amazing Marine called the Kandy Bar Kid.

Twenty-three-year-old Lyle Lewis of Tacoma, Wash., is phenomenal even for the Marines. He apparently has no nerves, no fear and no need of sleep.

*More than 40 times in the last two months he has penetrated Communist lines to a depth of more than two miles, has scouted their positions for periods of up to 40 consecutive hours and has wandered back to his own lines to report on what the enemy was up to.

He has been ambushed by the Chinese five times, has engaged them in point blank night battles eight or nine times, has lived several artillery barrages of enormous concentrations, has been wounded once and went back behind enemy lines three days after the shrapnel was removed from his leg.

Lewis looks the part. Six-foot-two blue-eyed, he is quite thin and looks like a fast-shooting cowboy in a movie. He has a shaggy crop of red hair that looks as if mice nested in it and an incredible moustache that wanders all over his face like a lost forest.

I saw him the other night as he started a probe which would take him more than two miles into the heart of what his commanding officer termed "unusually heavily fortified positions."

Lewis was dressed in dirty fatigues, helmet and armor-proof vest. His face was smeared with black paint and he carried hand grenades and a sub-machine gun. He was a lethal character, headed for one of the toughest jobs a man could get. He would penetrate enemy mine fields, climb to the top of a Communist-held inside enemy line and personally blow up a machine-gun bunker.

His nickname, the Kandy Bar Kid, comes as a surprise. This deadly fighter has a special trick he uses when it is absolutely vital that he get up-to-date information. He leaves his own line at dusk, goes deep inside the enemy positions, finds some natural camouflage and hugs the earth as day breaks.

There he lies, in the blazing sun, all through the daylight hours watching enemy dispositions. As the second night begins, he usually moves forward in an attempt to take a prisoner or wreck some installation. Thirty-six hours later he straggles back to his own lines.

On such trips he takes with him one cup of water and three candy bars.

Five nights out of six he penetrates enemy territory. When he comes back at 4 a. m. in the morning dawn, he stands his normal watch along the line.

In the 57 days Lewis has been doing this kind of work, he has never had a hot meal and has had one bath.

Poor Marksmen In Four-Family Shooting Feud

BLUEFIELD, W. Va. (AP)—"Call the law, 'cause they're at it again," cried a youngster with buckshot in the seat of his pants.

"They better stop this shootin' so a man can get some sleep," complained another resident of nearby Lamar Hollow.

Both reflected the sentiments of folks in the hollow who would like to see an end to the four-family shooting feud which has been outstanding for its poor marksmanship.

The indignant youngster and another neutral in the feud, a man with a peg leg, each were hit by wild shotgun pellets as the Howertons continued their argument with the Blankenships, Pendergrasses and Sigmens.

All men and women interested in the naval service should apply at the Navy Recruiting Station in New Bern. Office hours are from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Stevenson Soon To Clear Decks For Campaigning

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., (UP)—Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson's aides said today they believe he must clear his desk of state business soon and choose a battle plan for his campaign.

The Illinois governor and Democratic presidential nominee planned to hold a news conference today at which he could be expected to be asked about his campaign ideas, if he has any yet.

The conference, to take place at an undetermined hour this afternoon, was the first called by Stevenson since he was "drafted" by the Democratic national convention last week.

Speculation among Stevenson's aides centered on Chicago as the site for a national campaign headquarters. The governor last week asked National Chairman Frank E. McKinney and the Democratic National Committee staff to stay in their jobs for the time being.

There has been discussion among his advisers, meanwhile, about inviting Wilson Wyatt, former mayor of Louisville, Ky., and one-time federal housing expediter, to take a job in the high command for the fall campaign, which must open in about a month.

Never a candidate for office until he ran for governor in 1948, Stevenson is still relatively inexperienced in dealing with the problems of building a political organization. His personal staff, similarly, has had limited experience, but the Illinois Democratic organization does contain some veteran political warriors.

Stevenson once showed his disapproval of political machine practice by stripping the party patronage office of all state payroll jobs.

When he learned members of the patronage staff were drawing state salaries he either put them into strictly state jobs or switched them to the payroll of the Democratic party.

Since his homecoming Monday, Stevenson has secluded himself most of the time in the executive mansion to deal with such chores as back correspondence, congratulatory messages, filling a vacant job and contracts calling for his signature.

He has invited heads of state departments to join him tonight in a meeting which presumably will include a discussion of the future conduct of state affairs.

Cloudiness Is Some Relief To Sweltering Dixie

ATLANTA (UP)—Increasing cloudiness brought a cooling touch to some portions of the blistering South today as officials of four more states sought federal aid for drought stricken farmers.

Unsettled weather conditions had brought a mixture of blazing temperatures and damaging thunderstorms as the South's dry spell reached the crucial point of almost total destruction of crops in many sections.

While the thermometer in Atlanta rose to 103.3, the highest temperature of 73 years, rain storms centering around Memphis, Tenn., lashed the Mid-South.

State officials of Georgia, Mississippi and Alabama asked the U.S. Department of Agriculture to declare drought emergencies in those states to provide special benefits for growers whose crops have been ruined by weeks of no rain.

The Agriculture Department designated the entire state of Tennessee as a disaster area last night, thus allowing the Farmers Home Administration to make loans to growers who have suffered drought losses.

The department said pastures, feed and hay crops in that state have been "virtually destroyed" and added that some farmers are having to make "sharp reductions" in their herds because they do not have enough feed.

A telephone union demanded air conditioning in the office at Columbus, Mo., today after showing the company it meant business by calling a two and one-half hour walkout on an entire shift of 10 operators.

Mrs. Myrtle Weeks, local vice-president of the union, planned more talks with company representatives about the heat, declaring that unless the demands for a cooler office are met, "we can't say what will happen."

National Guard headquarters at Nashville, Tenn., dispatched troops and the Tennessee Highway Department closed down the highway when a forest fire broke out on Nine Mile Hill nearby, knob-like landmark on the Memphis Highway.

Police at Memphis said it was not the heat that caused 22-year old Barbara Henderson to leap from her bed and shout, "I'm burning up." They said she awoke from a nap and found the bed afire, apparently from a cigaret.

Winds blow at 10 m.p.h. over 100 miles above the earth, but the air is so thin they have little effect on an object reaching that height.

Soldiers' Diet Increases Weight

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP)—The addition of 100 grams of soybeans per day to the diet of Chinese Nationalist soldiers has increased their weight, says the Mutual Security Agency here, which had a hand in the nutritional experiment.

More than 15,000 soldiers participated in the three-month experiment, and the average gain was 10 pounds per man, the MSA said.

Versatile Pastor Building Church

CHADRON, Neb. (AP)—The versatility of its pastor is giving a boost to the Church of the Nazarene here.

The Rev. Ralph Myers, 70, is a combination minister and master carpenter. He serves not only as the pastor, he also is building a new church structure for the congregation.

Sow Farrowed 19 Little Pigs

RALEIGH, N. C. (AP)—A prolific sow recently farrowed 19 pigs in one litter on a Tyrrel County farm. All pigs were apparently normal and healthy at birth.

The litter is the fourth farrowed by the half Duroc and half Poland-China sow. She bore 9 pigs in the litter, 13 in the second and 16 in the third.

Cement was well known to the ancients and widely used, but its secret was lost in the Middle Ages and was not rediscovered until the 18th Century.

Invention Came Out Of Insomnia

SCHENECTADY, N. Y. (UP)—Arthur Merrill, an engineer has devised a "perpetual" calendar which he says is the fastest date-finder ever invented.

It takes about 10 seconds to find out such things as what day of the week Christmas will fall on in 1987 or on what day William Jennings Bryan was born.

Merrill said he thought up the idea one night when he had insomnia.

Many astronomers now believe that stars are continually being born while others die, says the National Geographic Society.

Kefauver's Coon-Skin Cap Remains On Scene

By ELIZABETH TOOMEY
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (UP)—Sen. Estes Kefauver faded from the presidential scene today but his coon-skin cap lingers on.

The backwoods trademark of the Tennessee senator may boom into a million-dollar business this year despite his Democratic demise. The furry caps with the bushy tails have reached the peak of their popularity, according to the largest manufacturer, "and we never really lost any sleep over Senator Kefauver's coonskin campaign hat. The kid, started the fad first."

One midwest coonskin, usually bought from the trapper for a dollar, makes two caps, less one tail, of course.

"Tails are the problem," said David Silberman Jr., president of a fur firm which expects to sell several hundred thousand coonskin caps this year.

"We will use five to ten tons of tails this year. Our newest hat has two tails over the top besides the one in back."

The raccoon's deficiency is balanced by the big business in sheared raccoon coats. Cold climate raccoons, usually from Minnesota, are used for the sheared coats which have become fashionable since World War II. Tails from these raccoons were strictly a waste product until the Kefauver cap craze.

Now, as a result, many a cap made from a Missouri raccoon has a tail from the North.

An oversupply of raccoon skins, left over from the days before the war when women were still wearing bushy raccoon coats, caused Silberman to make the first coon skin cap four years ago. That first season he sold about 200,000.

"The coonskin coat" really died in 1942," he said. "The kind of skins that went into those coats are the ones we're using in caps. The sheared coats require heavier, more expensive skins."

The Fur Research Institute revealed that while at least 100 manufacturers produce the sheared raccoon coats, only a handful have attempted the caps.

"People laughed at us at first, but our company alone will make several hundred thousand caps this year," Silberman said. "They sell for $2.95 with two tails across the top and $3.95 when they're all fur. We don't know of any Midwest trappers who have gotten rich from this new business. But at least there is a market for their skins now, and a few years ago there was none."

The most astonishing part of the coonskin revival is the recent interest in buying a single coonskin. Late last season Silberman tried selling a few coonskins just as they came from the trapper, with a tag urging youngsters to: "Start collecting your wild animal skins now. Show them to your friends and watch their eyes pop."

Several thousand were sold, so this winter stores also will sell grey fox skins, red fox skins and an occasional wolf skin for the young collectors.

Anyhow, They Can Kill Flies

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The Chinese Communists are having a cleanup drive in Peiping, and the way the Peiping radio tells it, you can just see groups of fly-counters going around saying "ten million and one, ten million and two."

For a broadcast heard here announced that among the monumental accomplishments of the cleanup drive is this: Peiping has killed 60 million flies.

Both Political Conventions Lucky No Real Fire Started

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP)—The Democratic and Republican conventions of 1952 were lucky: No real fire broke out. If it had hundreds, perhaps thousands, might have lost their lives.

The convention hall was permitted to become a fire-trap of the most awful kind. It will be criminal if arrangements for the 1956 conventions are no better than 1952's.

One blaze among newspapers on the floor actually broke out but was soon extinguished. That was only a taste of what might have been.

Anyone who watched the conventions on TV could recognize the hazard when he saw the jam-packed floor and the aisles, the only avenues of escape in case of fire, which were dense with people.

The whole area, in front of the hall around the speakers' platform was wood, built for the occasion. Discarded newspapers and magazines littered the floor everywhere.

And it was among these newspapers and magazines that cigarettes and cigars were thrown. Looking back, it now seems a miracle that only one blaze started.

Even if the aisles had been kept clear all the time, they were still not wide enough to handle all the people on the floor if they suddenly began a panic stampede for the exits.

Convention chairmen repeatedly called upon the sergeant-at-arms and his crew to keep the aisles clear. But they were never clear. Instead, they were bursting with people.

One sudden sheet of flame in the place would have sent the delegates and everyone else into headlong flight. With the aisles jammed, bodies would have piled up.

The climax came in the early hours of Saturday morning when President Truman and Gov. Stevenson addressed the convention.

The President's life had to be protected somehow. Hundreds of Chicago police were called in to guard the platform, the entrances and exits.

Swarms of FBI and Secret Service men were scattered through the crowds, particularly in the galleries.

At that early hour of the morning there were more people on the convention floor, and in the area around the platform, than at any time in the convention.

Every seat in the press section, for instance, was taken up, the first time that happened since the opening act use the newspapermen and women, during the rest of the convention were continually moving in and out.

It was the same on the convention floor. They were no longer moving around, maneuvering for votes, as they had all through the convention. Now they just packed the floor, waiting to see the President and the presidential candidate.

An assassin's usual weapons are a gun, knife or explosive bomb. Early Saturday in the convention hall an assassin might have been able to take not only the President's life but the lives of thousands with one good fire bomb.

Santa Fe, New Mexico was called "The Royal City of the Holy Faith of St. Francis" by the Spaniards who first settled in it.

23-Degree Drop

The temperature in the Greenville area yesterday reached the 100 mark during the afternoon, but there was a drop of 23 degrees during last night.

Little more than half an inch of rain fell during a storm last night.

Lowest temperature last night was 72 degrees, and at 8 a. m. 87 degrees. Lowest that night highest temperature here was today the mercury stood at 79.

Yesterday a year ago, the 70, and at 8 a. m. next day it was 72 degrees. Nearly half an inch of rain fell that day, Mrs. Carl E. Malden, local observer for the U. S. Weather Bureau, reported.

Hospital Ship Is Home From Wars

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—A sea-weary crew brought in the big hospital ship Consolation recently and told newcomers of their battle experiences.

"One of the worst days," said a nurse, "was June 6 when the ship was receiving battle casualties from the Inchon area."

On that day the Consolation cared for 101 patients brought aboard with "every type of wound—bayonet, shell fragment and bullet." Altogether, the ship's crew took care of 5,300 casualties during its 10-month's tour of duty off Korea.

Major Caribbean Rice Producer

NEW YORK (AP)—The Dominican Republic, which 20 years ago depended entirely on rice imports, now ranks as the major rice producing country of the Caribbean area.

The Dominican information office in New York said 1951 rice production was 66,263 tons. The announcement noted that the threat of Communism in the Far East made it imperative for Caribbean countries to grow products formerly obtained there.

Cows' Body Heat Hurts Buildings

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Farm researchers of a regulator company (Minneapolis-Honeywell) report the cows throw off so much body heat that the resultant condensation is a factor in the deterioration of farm buildings.

Twenty cows generate enough heat to warm a five-room house on a winter day, they say. Experts are now trying to develop more scientifically controlled barn temperatures.

CIGAR TOO STRONG
MEDFORD, Mass. (UP)—A good cigar may be a smoke but to John F. Kelly, 58, it also was a traffic hazard. Kelly explained to police that he took a few puffs on a cigar, became sick and lost control of his automobile, which crashed into a gas station and damaged a parked car.

Puerto Rico Exodus To United States Growing

SAN JUAN, P.R. (U.P.)—Approximately 70,000 Puerto Ricans will have emigrated to the United States by the end of the year, according to an official forecast.

Roberto de Jesus-Toro, vice president of the insular government development bank, said statistics available for the first five months of 1952 indicate a record trek to the mainland.

Total net migration through May—that is, the balance of outgoing travelers over incoming—is 32,234, de Jesus-Toro said. That represents a 36.5 per cent increase over the same period for 1951.

Since the end of World War II emigration to the United States has increased steadily and is expected to continue climbing for at least the next few years.

De Jesus-Toro, formerly director of the insular government budget, analyzed migratory trends in an address before a convention of social workers here and emphasized the importance of emigration to the economy of this island.

Island Crowded
The Commonwealth of Puerto Rico is only 100 miles long and 35 miles wide. It has a population in excess of 2,200,000 and a population density of about 647 persons per square mile.

Its economy, mainly based on sugar production, is unable to provide complete and continuous employment for a large segment of the population. However, the administration of Gov. Luis Munoz-Marin is trying to solve the problem with the vast "operation boot strap" industrialization program now under way.

Meanwhile emigration helps ease the strain on the local economy, De Jesus-Toro declared. "Undoubtedly, emigration is now a determining factor in our economic situation," he said.

From 1908 to 1948 an average of only 4,000 persons went to the United States each year but since then "a revolution has occurred," he explained.

In 1945 net emigration jumped to 12,678 and then soared to 38,553 in 1948.

High Point In 1951
During the next three years it declined somewhat but reached a total of 34,703 in 1950, according to de Jesus-Toro. Then it rose to 52,900 last year.

About 62.5 per cent of emigrants are workers or work-seekers. Thus, out of some 70,000 persons expected to "go north" in 1952, about 44,000 will be from what de Jesus-Toro calls the "working group."

He noted that the actual labor force of the United States comprises some 60,000,000 workers and said there need be no fear that Puerto Rico will swamp the labor market.

"Our emigrant workers are just a drop in the bucket," he said.

Police Chief Lyle Prothero said Mattias Swearson, 27, (above) was arrested on his way to church after slaying his 25-year-old wife, their four small children and the family dog. Prothero said Swearson shot himself in the head, slashed his throat and chest, then drove toward church from the scene of tragedy at the family's Bridgeport, Wash., home. Mrs. Swearson was a Sunday School teacher. (AP Wirephoto)

CAN you imagine parking a car as easily as you steer it on a straight-away?
You twirl the steering wheel with one hand—turn the front wheels until you get the last inch of advantage from Buick's short "turning radius"—spot the car in a tight spot at the curb—or swing out when the car parked in front of you seems impossibly close.
For this alone a lot of people—especially women—are saying that Buick's Power Steering is the biggest advance since Dynaflo Drive.*
But you're going to find out something more as you pile up the miles.
You're going to feel the same confident and thrilling sense of command you have always felt in a Buick, because Power Steering only goes into action when extra effort is needed to turn the wheels.

You're going to find that your front wheels track just as they always have—that they automatically swing back on course, after you've made a turn, when you ease your grip on the steering wheel.
You're also going to find that Power Steering takes over when your front wheels hit loose dirt or sand—road irregularities and chuckholes—and smooths down their jerk or tug on the wheel in your hands.
All this adds to the ease and pleasure of driving. But it adds to the safety, too, because, in the rare event of a blowout, Power Steering helps you keep control. There's no sudden and violent jerk ever when this helping hand's on the job.

Add to this the level-gaited serenity of Buick's Million Dollar Ride—the "rarin' to go" exuberance of its Fireball 8 Engine—the spread-out room, the luxurious fabrics—the way this great performer can turn up its nose at gas stations—and there's only one smart thing for you to do:
Drop in— or pick up your phone— and arrange to give this marvel a tryout. Even the price says, Better buy Buick now.
Equipment, accessories, trim and models are subject to change without notice. *Standard on Roadmaster, optional at extra cost on other Series. †Now available on Super as well as Roadmaster—optional at extra cost.

Tobacco Barns In Area Hard Hit By Series Of Fires

Fire yesterday took a heavy toll among the tobacco farmers of Pitt County as three barns were reported destroyed.

Greenville firemen were called to the Sam Edwards farm, located near the Port Terminal on the Washington highway, yesterday morning when a large tobacco barn was destroyed by fire there around 9:00 o'clock.

While firemen arrived too late to save the blazing structure, a second barn, shelter and chicken coop were prevented from being lost to the fire which was eating its way in that direction.

Between 800-900 sticks of choice weed which was nearly cured was lost in the barn.

In the Simpson section, a barn was reported lost on the Lee Buck farm yesterday. No estimate as to the loss suffered by Buck has been received.

Last night a barn belonging to W. J. Harris, located on the W. Z. Morton farm near Greenville on the Farmville highway, was destroyed by fire. More than 800 sticks of tobacco was lost in the blaze.

Harris termed the loss as "some of the best tobacco I had."

Firemen from Greenville prevented the spread of the fire to an adjoining shelter, tobacco sticks and nearby barn.

In addition to the barn being destroyed, an estimated 10,000 tobacco sticks were destroyed, which were housed under the barn.

Slot Machines Found In Search For Safe Loot

Recovery of more papers belonging to the safe which was stolen from the J. W. Higgs residence last week, was made yesterday afternoon along with an unexpected catch.

Local officers who were probing the river from which the looted safe and cutting-torch equipment and a portion of the paper contents of the safe were found, yesterday uncovered more papers and two slot machines.

The presence of the slot machines have not been explained by the officers who found them.

They were uncovered when the officers in search for more loot from the safe began diving into the river in an effort to discover other items believed to have been in the safe.

The slot machines, one of which is believed to have been in the river for a long period of time, had been broken open; apparently the work of some robber.

One of the machines contained a nickel and one dime; overlooked by the thieves when they cracked the units.

The Pitt County Sheriff's department reported that they had no idea where the slot machines came from. And it was believed that where they came from will remain a mystery since any person who has been robbed of illegal "one arm bandits" would not be likely to report the theft to law enforcement officers.

Street Plan Has One Well-Wisher

If one telephone call is any indication of the overall sentiment, country people in Pitt County are well pleased with Greenville's new one-way street system.

Police Chief Guy C. Langston reported this morning Mrs. Alex Evans of Winterville called him and congratulated the police department and the city of Greenville on the one-way street project.

Langston said Mrs. Evans informed him she can now come into the city, shop in the business district and return home in half the time required before one-way streets went into effect.

Mayor Lester D. Page stated today there have been rumors to the effect a public hearing would be held this week on the new system. "We are very well pleased with the system and so far as I know, there will be no discussion until the next regular meeting of the board of aldermen—which is August 7."

Auto Firms Repeat Idea Cars Essential

DETROIT (UP)—The auto industry spends a lot of time, dollars and effort each year trying to put across an idea most people took for granted years ago.

Motor makers seem to be playing a dreary record over and over again when they patiently tell everyone they can get to listen that automobiles are essential.

According to automotive leaders, the majority of the country's law makers still have the idea that automobiles are luxuries, not necessities.

The magazine "Coronet" in its August issue, drives this point home effectively in an article which flays brands the American motorist "the nation's undisputed No. 1 tax sucker."

The "Coronet" article backs up the charge with some statistics pretty difficult to read any other way except that in state and federal taxing, ownership of a car makes an American a wide-open target.

For instance, figures supplied by the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads and the AMA reveal that the owner of the average, medium price car in the year 1930 paid out a total of $119.17 in registration fees, excise taxes, property and gasoline taxes and highway tolls.

"Coronet" points out that state and federal government officials can't seem to resist the handy automobile every time they need a new source of revenue.

Last year, the article said, motorists paid a staggering four and three-quarter billion dollar tax bill—more than it cost to run the U. S. government 36 years ago.

Sadder part about the entire thing, it points out, is that only a little more than half of all the tax dollars collected from purchasers and users of passenger cars goes into improving the nation's highways.

That's the reason the industry wants it known that cars are essential like tooth brushes and houses—not like mink coats and diamond rings.

Grocery Store Is Robbed Of Cash

A thief some time last night, or early this morning, entered the W. M. Pollard grocery store located on 1200 Broad Street and made off with a loot estimated at close to $500.

The money which was taken was contained in four different places in the store, owner Walter Pollard reported, and was divided among currency and silver. He stated that as far as he could figure, the loss will run over $435.

Whoever entered the building is believed to have gained entrance by way of a small opening in the bathroom located in the rear of the structure.

Pollard said today that as yet he has not been able to miss any other items but will not be sure until he can check further.

The Greenville police department is investigating the robbery which was reported shortly before six o'clock this morning.

Reports Finding New Mountain On Ocean Floor

Lima, Peru (UP)—A University of California oceanographer has reported the discovery of a submarine mountain more than 10,500 feet high in the Pacific Ocean off the coast of Mexico.

The report was made by Warren S. Wooster, head of a scientific team aboard the laboratory ship "Horizon" of the university's Scripps Institute of Oceanography. He said the underwater mountain never had been charted.

The team is on a 14,000 mile scientific cruise. Full result of its research will be announced some time after the cruise ends next September. The Horizon sailed from San Diego, Calif., more than four months ago.

A miniature glacier has been found in northeastern Mexico. It is 30 feet thick, 24 feet wide and 200 feet long.

Martian Visitors Tale Is Believed

RACINE, Wis. (UP)—Disc jockeys Ed Ruetz and Rick Edwards decided today that platters and flying saucers don't mix.

Ruetz and Edwards, proprietors of an early morning radio show called "Melodie Nuthouse," decided Tuesday to kid the reports about flying saucers.

They gave an account of finding one at the Washington Park golf course. They said it was controlled by a man two feet tall, who could say only "hiyah, hiyah, hiyah," when they tried to interview him.

People believed them.

Minutes after the show went off the air, switchboards at the radio station and at police and sheriff's headquarters were jammed with calls from worried citizens. Many wanted to know if the man from outer space had been caught yet.

Authorities assured them that no space ships had landed. The radio station devoted part of each new broadcast during the day to an announcement that it was just a gag.

The incident recalled the Orson Welles fiasco of several years ago involving a story about men from Mars.

New Wage Stabilization Board Takes Over Today

WASHINGTON (UP)—A new power-stripped Wage Stabilization Board takes over the job today of trying to control wages amid warnings from labor that it was in for a stormy future.

The revised board, lacking authority to handle labor disputes or any non-economic issues such as the union shop, was ready to go as soon as President Truman appointed the members.

The President was reported to have encountered difficulty in lining up "public" members to serve on the new board—partially because of the short tenure of the wage control program and also because of the criticism heaped on the old board.

An informed source said however, that the White House expected to name "at least a quorum" today to get the board off on schedule.

This would be four of the six members each from labor, industry, and the "public." Harvard law Professor Archibald Cox, now co-chairman of the commission controlling construction wages, was due to be the new chairman.

Industry members, who shed no tears when the old board's powers were restricted, were ready to serve on the new board. Labor, swallowing earlier hints that it might boycott the new board, was ready to go along, if grudgingly.

The CIO planned to ask Mr. Truman in a letter today to reappoint its representatives from the old board, which closed up shop yesterday after 14 months of turbulent history climaxed by the steel case.

In its letter to the President, the CIO was ready to pledge cooperation, but added a warning that the wage control program was seriously weakened by the new Defense Production Act.

The CIO has taken the position that the board should handle disputes—such as the steel case—since it feels its work— are somewhat restrained from striking due to the defense emergency. The old wage board, it argues, gave labor a forum to plead its cases without striking.

The CIO, along with the AFL, is also apprehensive about the price section of the new controls law. They warn that "weakened" amendment will lead to higher prices and resulting strong pressure for new rounds of wage increases.
