VEPCO Tie-In Due By January 1

Greenville Utilities Superintendent Says Work Hasn't Been Going Quite According To Original Schedule, But Progress Now Increasingly Evident

By JESS POINDEXTER Reflector City Editor

The Greenville Utilities Commission's planned connection with Virginia Electric Power Company will definitely be accomplished by January 1, Martin Swartz declared this morning.

Swartz, local utilities superintendent, pointed out that work on the project has not proceeded quite according to a tentative schedule established by the commission some months ago.

Estimated cost of the project, which included construction of a new sub-station at the plant and $75,000. Tentative completion date was scheduled for September 1.

According to the superintendent's report today, VEPCO is extending its lines into Greenville from Williamston and has already set up poles through Bear Grass.

"Practically all our sub-station equipment has already been received in Greenville, and VEPCO's transformers just this week arrived here," Swartz disclosed.

In explaining the VEPCO connection and 75,000 expenditure for a new sub-station, Swartz cited the dual benefits to be derived from the merger—increased service and overall monetary saving.

"We are going to need more current and the question that faced us was whether to purchase energy from another company or lay out money to increase our facilities and generate it ourselves," he asserted.

"The decision to spend $75,000 for a connecting sub-station and buy from VEPCO was made in lieu of spending many times that amount to install a new turbine at our plant and generate additional current there."

Swartz asserted that a connection with VEPCO will improve and insure operating service at lower generating cost. "We can generate power cheaper than we can buy it," he opined.

The superintendent said the scheduled connection will also be good insurance; insurance in that if the plant should happen to break down as was the case this summer current will be available from VEPCO to furnish uninterrupted service.

"It was a question of whether we wanted to tie onto a line from VEPCO or install a new turbine," he added.

Now if the plant goes out of commission, we'll have VEPCO's service; if VEPCO goes out we'll have plant facilities from which to draw.

Greek Premier Proposes Pact

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (UP)—Greek Premier Nicholas Plastiras proposed today a cooperation pact among Yugoslavia, Greece and Turkey for mutual defense.

In an interview with visiting Yugoslav newspapermen in Athens, the Greek premier said he was ready to reach an agreement with Marshal Tito.

"I ain't going back either," he said from his hospital bed today.

Mother Writes Young Marine, Long In Coma, Now Improving

By MARTHA S. FORBES Reflector Staff Writer

Cpl. Thomas F. Meegan, the critically injured Marine who was a patient in Pitt Memorial Hospital for four weeks, is now conscious and is making steady improvement.

In a letter from his mother, Mrs. E. M. Meegan of Chicago, received yesterday, the information was given that he is now conscious, though still suffering a partial paralysis. She wrote:

"Tom is now conscious, can see, can read and has his right mind. He has temporary paralysis of the right side. He can't write or walk yet, but the doctor says it is only temporary. He will be in bed for more weeks. . . . I received many letters from people who read the article in various newspapers. They (the southern people) are a grand lot."

Cpl. Meegan was injured in an automobile accident which occurred near Farmville early in the morning

Early Estimate Of Enrollment Is Record-Breaker

Approximately 3,600 Pupils Jam City School Facilities This Term

By MURIEL SHOTWELL Reflector Staff Writer

Amid the confusion of the first days of school, principals in the Greenville City Schools finally managed to keep the kids still long enough to count noses and come up with record-breaking enrollment figures.

Since the city schools opened doors Tuesday morning to end vacation days, teachers and principals have been counting in the overflowing classrooms—and found that this year's enrollment of approximately 3,600 is well over that of last year and past years.

Total enrollment in the white schools hit above the 2,000 mark with the Training School having the most enrolled. More than 610 elementary grade students were on hand at the Training School Tuesday morning awaiting placement.

J. H. Rose, superintendent of the city schools, said the Training School was overcrowded, especially in grades two and four, and school officials are trying to get at least 15 more children to move from there to Third Street School where there is room for the over-flowing grades.

"We will put on a school bus to take children in the east section of the city to Third Street," Rose explained.

Greenville High School was next in high enrollment with 600 students, which principal O. E. Dowd declared was considerably over last year's enrollment figure.

West Greenville's enrollment was figured at between 390 and 400 on the second day of school and Third Street School reported an enrollment of between 300 and 350. The field house at Third Street was renovated during the summer into a modern first grade room with a fire-place and toilets.

The Boy's Elementary School, located on Elm Street at the old NYA center has 52 students enrolled which is almost twice as many as the 28 enrolled last year.

Rose said this school's program is being built around the experiences of the children and it will be further enlarged and expanded. "We want this school to serve as a nucleus for the new elementary school which we hope will be built by next year," stated the superintendent.

Enrollment in the three Negro schools in the city was figured at around 1,580 with Eppes High School having the highest enrollment at 740. Fleming Street School counted about 480 students and South Greenville's enrollment figure was 326.

Rose said the two-teacher unit at Meadowbrook had been done away with and students who live in that section are being brought in to one of the schools in the city by bus.

The new classroom building at Eppes High School was occupied this year. In addition to three classrooms, the building is also used as the band room, shop, vocational department, and recreational center. The building has just been completed after two or three years of additions.

In commenting on the first days of school, Rose said everything is in shape, including distribution of students to other schools. "All of the principals, teachers, and other school officials appreciate the parent's consideration in the matter of distributing students to other schools" during these trying times," stated Rose.

The lunchrooms at Training School, West Greenville, and Third Street will open Monday morning and the prices are the same as last year, said Rose.

Political Activities—North And South

A somewhat surprised Dwight Eisenhower (left photo) holds up a bag of oranges—a more or less traditional gift to distinguished visitors to Florida—which was thrust upon him as he arrived in Miami, Fla., his third stop on his whirlwind tour of the southland. In the right photo, Gov. G. Mennen Williams (left) of Michigan hands three-month-old Valerie Rae Degley to Gov. Adlai Stevenson. The Democratic presidential nominee kissed the baby and said, "Now I've done everything." In his opening remarks during his Flint, Mich., address he had made a joshing remark that he had not been offered a baby to kiss. He was promptly obliged. (AP Wirephotos).

Eisenhower's Reception In Dixie Starts New Guessing

Air Power Hurt By Costly Blaze

Warehouse Filled With Hard-To-Get Parts Destroyed

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UP)—Production of helicopters for Korea was severely crippled today after a $1,000,000 fire destroyed a Bell Aircraft Corp. warehouse filled with valuable, hard-to-get parts.

It was the second time in three days at Fort Worth that an "act of God" struck a powerful blow at America's air power.

Monday night a freak, 100-mile windstorm at Carswell Air Force Base, headquarters of the Strategic Air Command, crippled a substantial part of the nation's fleet of B-36 atomic super bombers as the 35,500 airplanes sat exposed to the elements on the flight line.

The fire broke out about 7:30 p. m. yesterday in a warehouse at the Bell helicopter and jet engine plant north of Fort Worth, where most production is destined for Korea. The blaze—of undetermined origin—ignited magnesium castings and they exploded.

Nine persons were injured, none critically. A spokesman for Bell said the monetary loss from the fire would be at least $1,000,000. Extent of the real loss, in production of Korea-bound helicopters, had not been evaluated.

But James Fuller, public relations director for Bell, said the warehouse contained largely "critical" items—helicopter parts which are very difficult to procure. The vital parts, many very expensive, were stored in the warehouse awaiting assembly.

"It will be impossible to tell what the production loss will be until we determine exactly what we have lost in parts," he said. "But the need for them (helicopters) over there is critical, and this is going to hurt us an awful lot in that line."

Magnesium castings in the warehouse, many machined to high tolerances, exploded when water was played on the fire. The concrete and metal warehouse was ripped apart by four successive blasts. The last and largest explosion occurred at 11:30 p. m.

Southern Demo Leaders Concede Ike Picked Up Votes; Hope That Nat'l Demo Leaders Won't Take South For Granted

ATLANTA (UP)—Dwight D. Eisenhower's rousing reception on his hard-hitting Dixie campaign raised lively speculation today over how much of this enthusiasm can be translated into votes next November.

Admirer Southern democratic leaders conceded the Republican nominee had picked up many new votes through his "give 'em hell" tour of six Southern cities and believe this at least had won them new bargaining power with their party.

"They came out like I did—to pay their respects to a great soldier," said Ben Ray, state chairman of the "Loyalist" Alabama Democrats.

Gov. Herman Talmadge of Georgia, a reluctant supporter of the Democratic ticket, predicted Eisenhower would get more votes in Georgia than any previous Republican candidate, however, and added:

"Maybe they (the Democratic party leaders) won't take us so much for granted after this."

But the difficulty of overcoming his Republican label in Georgia and in other traditionally Democratic states left the question of his chances of cracking the Solid South a matter of pure conjecture.

In South Carolina rebellious Democrats marked the occasion of the tour through nearby states by filing a petition signed by 53,315 names to place an independent slate of electors pledged to Eisenhower on the South Carolina ballot.

Alabama dissidents changed the name of the "anti-Talmadgeism" slate they are trying to place on their state ballot to "Eisenhower Democrats."

In Mississippi there were three, and possibly four, different groups pledged to Eisenhower, all fighting for a place on the ballot. And another independent slate was being put up in Louisiana.

But while these moves would enable Democrats to vote for Eisenhower without crossing party lines, they also would split the vote, possibly preventing any one Eisenhower slate from getting a majority.

Gov. Robert F. Kennon of Louisiana, who has kept silent about how he will vote in November, gave newsmen a first hint that he might swing in behind the Republican candidate.

Both Kennon and Talmadge declared their states no longer were certain to be carried by the Democratic nominee, Gov. Adlai Stevenson.

"The situation in Louisiana is wide open," Kennon said. "Six of Louisiana's 10 Democratic electors have checked out since the Chicago convention." (They resigned in protest against being pledged to Stevenson.)

The Republican platform, Kennon commented, "more nearly follows the principles of Thomas Jefferson than the Democratic platform."

Talmadge declared that Georgia "isn't in the bag for either party." "Stevenson is looking with great admiration and affection on civil rights proposals ever since he thought the South was in the bag," Talmadge said. "But after General Eisenhower's visit they may not take us too much for granted."

A dissenting word came from E. H. (Boss) Crump, political leader of Memphis, Tenn., who declared that "Eisenhower has a defeated attitude and seems lost." But the South Carolina Democrats, whose party affairs were typical of the South, had thrown five times the strength necessary behind their independent drive for Eisenhower.

Stevenson Plans To Stump South Will Spend More Than A Week In October Making Talks

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UP)—Gov. Adlai Stevenson plans to stump the South for more than a week in October, it was learned today as the Democratic presidential nominee prepared to take off for campaign appearances in nine Western states.

Stevenson's aides emphasized that the governor's Southern plans were decided shortly after the Democratic convention and long before this week's two-day Southern swing by Dwight D. Eisenhower, the Republican candidate.

Stevenson scheduled a luncheon date today with Sen. George Smathers (D-Fla.), possibly to discuss plans for the invasion of the South, particularly Florida.

One of Stevenson's top advisers said the governor had settled on the general itinerary of the rest of his campaign and would not shift his plans from day to day or trip to trip on the basis of what Eisenhower says or where he goes.

However, it was understood that Stevenson's Southern trip would hit much of the territory covered by Eisenhower, who went into Georgia, Florida, Alabama and Arkansas.

In a trip now blueprinted at from seven to nine days, the Democratic nominee will go into North Carolina, Florida, Louisiana and Texas—and probably other states. While the schedule was far from firm, Texas was definite.

There Stevenson will face the delicate job of placating Texas voters on the steamy issue of states rights as applied to tidelands oil.

Gov. Allan Shivers of Texas has objected strenuously to Stevenson's position that the federal government rightfully owns the tidelands oil.

Dr. Ira C. Long, hospital superintendent, said only four doctors including himself are left on the staff which must care for 2,900 Negro patients. In addition, the hospital doctors provide medical care for staff members, attendants, workers and their families.

Dr. Long said there has been "a spurt of bidding for services in a field where there is a serious shortage of qualified personnel."

The hospital's budget adopted by the 1951 Legislature provided for 12 staff doctors. Dr. Long said, but salary scales were set so low that he had been unable to fill the jobs.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (UP)—Two dark-haired lovelies and a "tawny" shaped up today as the early leaders in the Miss America contest.

In the swimming suit section, oddly enough, two girls wound up in a tie in the preliminary judging, which started last night.

There was Miss Alabama, Gwen Harmon of Birmingham, Miss 36, shoe size 8-1-2, and Miss California, Jeanne Shores of Azusa, bust 36, shoe size 6-1-2.

In the talent section, the winner was something of a surprise to the 8,257 characters who paid their way into convention hall here to watch the 52 contestants open the annual pageant.

The winner was Miss District of Columbia, Iris Aime Fitch. She is a soprano who put her heart in a song called "With a Song in My Heart."

Twelve MIGs Downed, 3 Damaged In Korean Skies

Hurricane Still Roaring Toward U.S. Mainland

Apparently Aiming At Lower Seaboard; Observers Hope For Shift

MIAMI (UP)—An Atlantic hurricane with 110-mile-per-hour winds roared along its "potentially dangerous" course toward the U. S. mainland today.

The Miami Weather Bureau located the center of the year's second big blow about 700 miles east-southeast of Jacksonville, Fla.

The weather bureau said the hurricane was traveling at 12 to 14 miles per hour in a northwesterly direction, aiming toward the lower seaboard area of the United States.

Weathermen predicted it would continue along this course at least for the next few hours.

The weather bureau in its early report estimated highest winds at 100 miles per hour, and said hurricane force winds of 75 miles per hour extended outward 75 miles north and east of the center.

Since it was discovered four days ago, the new hurricane had clung to a path aimed in the direction of the area lashed by the first tropical blow of the season last weekend.

"This direction is potentially dangerous," the weather bureau warned. One hope that the hurricane might veer northward in time to miss the coast was raised by a low-pressure zone moving with a cold front eastward across the upper mainland area.

Hurricane hunter planes late yesterday found "heavy turbulence and rain on the northern side" of the vast storm area but there was no sign then of the 140-mile-per-hour gusts recorded by fliers earlier in the day.

Gusts of that explosive ferocity were clocked aboard one plane by weather observer Lt. C. J. Neumann of Jamaica, N. Y., who said strings of squalls were spiraling outward from the hurricane's "eye."

The hurricane already had surged into a usually well-traveled shipping lane but at that time there were no reports of ocean craft being caught in dangerous squalls.

Sub-Station Plan To Be Submitted

Remodeling plans for the new fire sub-station in west Greenville will be submitted to the board of aldermen at its regular monthly meeting tonight.

Construction of a new station has been pending for some months, and the city recently purchased the county's part in the Greenville Curb Market.

The new station is to be situated in the building after it has been remodeled at an estimated cost of $10,000.

Mayor Lester D. Page said this morning the board will decide tonight whether or not to let the contract for the remodeling project.

If approved, the city will receive low bids on the project. "Tonight's meeting will be held at 7:30 in the aldermen's room at the city hall."

Enemy Pilots Emerge From Sanctuary After Period Of Hiding; Today's Battles Follow B-29 Bombing Of Power Plant

By WARREN FRANKLIN United Press Staff Correspondent SEUL, Korea (UP)—Fifth Air Force Sabre jets shot down 12 Communist MIG-15 jet fighters and damaged another three in air duels over North Korea today.

One Allied Sabre pilot was forced to bail out over neutral territory. The pilot messaged his instruments were out, his plane damaged and his fuel exhausted.

First reports from the 5th Air Force did not say where the battle took place, but it was presumed it was over MIG Alley, the corridor leading south from the Red Air base at Antung, Manchuria into North Korea.

Today's bag, although one of the highest of the war, was not a record.

The Communists have been increasingly reluctant to throw their air force at the Allies, although they are believed to have 1,800 planes of all types in their Manchurian sanctuary.

One reason may be that they have suffered stinging losses whenever MIGs have tangled with the U. N. Sabre jet pilots. Last Saturday, for example, the Sabre jets destroyed or damaged 17 MIGs in a series of blazing air duels over North Korea. The Sabres shot down five MIGs, probably shot down one and damaged 11.

The MIG battles today followed an attack by American Superfortresses on the big Chosen No. 1 power plant in Northwest Korea. The attack, carried out despite an overcast, was aimed at preventing the Reds from making repairs on the vital installation.

The Superfortresses aimed their bombs by radar. Crews were not able to observe results. Reconnaissance planes had reported the Communists were trying to repair damage from raids by 222 Navy planes Aug. 27 and 17 B-29s Aug. 30.

Today's raid was the first major Allied air activity since typhoon "Mary" swept over Korea Tuesday and Wednesday.

On the ground, the Reds continued their mysterious test probing attacks against Allied lines.

Most of the enemy hit-and-run actions were in the western sector around battered Bunker Hill and on the long-quiet eastern front.

The last small attack in the west was at 2:10 a. m. today (12:10 p. m. EST Wednesday) and lasted only a few minutes. The Chinese retired, satisfied the position was still defended.

In the East, two small Chinese groups probed Allied positions east of the Mundung Valley around Heartbreak Ridge. In the Punchbowl area to the east, three other attacks by North Koreans were repulsed.

Hotel Roomers Flee As Flames Flare In Night

No Injuries Reported, But Manhattan Hotel Occupants Lost Many Possessions; Had To Jump, As Exit Is Blocked

By ROY HARDEE Reflector Staff Writer

A number of sleeping persons, occupying the Manhattan Hotel on 14th Street, narrowly escaped with their lives in the wee hours of the morning today as fire broke out in the building.

Believed to have originated from an oil hot water heater, located under the stairway leading to the second floor, the fire had completely cut off any possible avenue of escape when discovered.

Screaming and terrified roomers, some only scantily clad in bed clothes, were forced to flee from the licking flames and choking smoke by climbing out of second story windows and dropping to the ground below.

In the mad rush for escape, none of the fleeing persons were reported injured by the fire department.

First alarm to the blazing structure was tuned in at 1:20 and firemen brought the fire under control after a brief battle.

Most of the roomers who were occupying the hotel, which has all of its rooms on the second floor of the building, lost the majority of their possessions to the fire and water.

The stairway where the fire originated was completely burned through as well as the hallway leading to the rooms and one of the rooms.

The building was owned by John Reese, Negro, who was not in town at the time the fire broke out.

No estimate as to the loss suffered by the building was made nor was it learned whether the damage was covered by insurance.

Chief George W. Gardner this morning stated that he has ordered the building not to be reopened until a second entrance to the building has been constructed whereby roomers on the second floor would not be trapped in the event of a fire.

Gardner said that the fire could have been serious had the roomers become overcomers by the smoke and because of no way to escape.

AFL Wins Over CIO In Voting

SALISBURY, N. C. (AP)—The jubilant AFL hailed today the results of yesterday's election here, in which North Carolina Finishing Co. employees voted for the AFL as their bargaining agent over the CIO.

AFL spokesman said the overwhelming 70-30 vote in their favor is expected to set a pattern for forthcoming similar tests in such defense companies and chains as Dan River Mills, Erwin Mills and Cone Mills chain and the Fieldcrest Mills. The United Textile Workers (UTW) is awaiting similar elections covering more than 25,000 textile workers in North Carolina and Virginia alone.

Arms Deliveries Hit Peak In July

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government reported today that deliveries of planes, tanks, guns and ammunition for defense reached a new peak in July.

Without giving a figure, for July Active Defense Mobilizer John R. Steelman said total deliveries of military hard goods during the month represented a slight increase over the two billion dollars worth produced in June.

He said this comparison covered 140 major and "problem" items, the heart of the military program.

Street Drainage Work Talked By Bethel Commission Tuesday

BETHEL—Discussion on drainage work for the town took up a large portion of a meeting of the Bethel Commissioners Tuesday night.

Mayor R. L. Martin told the commissioners that the State Highway Commission had agreed to dig a ditch, furnishing labor, on one block of Highway 11 inside the city limits if the town furnished the tile.

Martin said the request was made to the Highway Commission since water was backing up under houses on that block. The city fathers accepted the agreement of the Highway Commission.

One of the Bethel commissioners was asked by the city board to investigate the prices of a ditching machine to be purchased by the city. John Hooker was asked to inquire about the prices and make a report to the board.

The mayor said such a machine was badly needed since labor for digging ditches was difficult to obtain.

The board also agreed to extend a one and one-half-inch water line for 200 feet to the new potato house being built on East Street by F. F. Pollard and T. R. Andrews.

Three Emerge As Early Leaders For Beauty Title

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (UP)—There was no applause meter aboard, but the paying public hand-clapped the loudest for Miss South Dakota, Sandra Key Hart, who brought down the house with a baton whirling act, with and without flames.

Another crowd stealer was Helen Frances Burnbow, Miss Nebraska. She had been billed for a dance routine. During rehearsal in the afternoon, she slipped, fell and came up with a sprained ankle.

The crowd roared when she came upon the stage in a wheel-chair and did a piano routine.

A precedent was set when the judges were instructed not to judge her on her performance last night. If she can limp it later, she will be allowed again to compete in the talent.

New Minister Accepts Call To Robersonville

ROBERSONVILLE — The Rev. Wilbur Wallace, formerly of Greenville, Kentucky, has arrived here to begin his ministry at the Robersonville Christian Church. The vacancy was created by the death of the Rev. James M. Perry, who served the church for 27 years. Wallace, who arrived on August 26, has moved with his mother into the parsonage. He will occupy the pulpit for the first time on Sunday, September 7. On the previous Sunday Mr. Smith of Atlantic Christian College conducted the service. Upon his arrival here, members of the church gave Mr. Wallace and his mother an old fashioned church pounding. They also "pounded" Mr. and Mrs. Joe Page.

Last Rites Held For Mary Bell Roberson

ROBERSONVILLE—Miss Mary Belle Roberson, 45, died at her home on last Saturday night. She had been in failing health for several years. Miss Roberson was the daughter of the late Mrs. Carrie Jenkins Roberson and the late Orlando P. Roberson. Surviving are her mother, one sister, Mrs. George Glenn Edmondson; and two brothers, Paul and Wallace, all of Robersonville. Funeral services were held at the home on last Monday afternoon at 3:30 with the Elder A. B. Ayers, Primitive Baptist minister, and The Rev. W. R. Johnson, officiating. Burial was in the Robersonville cemetery. Miss Roberson was a graduate of East Carolina College and taught for many years in Martin County, Windsor, Colerain and Gatesville.

E. C. Cox Funeral To Be Held On Saturday

Mr. Edward Carman Cox, 59, died in Marine Hospital in Norfolk, Va. Thursday morning at five o'clock. He had been in failing health for several months. Funeral services will be conducted at the Chapel of the S. G. Wilkerson & Sons Funeral Home Saturday afternoon at two o'clock. Mr. Cox, son of the late Henry and Emma Briley Cox, was born and reared in Pitt County in the Ayden community. He served in World War I in the U.S. Army and was a member of Rose Hill Free Will Baptist Church. He was married to Hattie Holmes of Farmville in 1920 and for the past ten years had been living in Norfolk where he was employed in the shipyards. Surviving are his wife and a half brother, Charles Edwards of Kinston.

Quiet Session Of Young Demos Is Seen This Year

GREENSBORO (AP)—About 500 youthful Democrats from throughout the Tar Heel state registered here today for the annual three-day convention of the North Carolina Young Democratic Clubs, with all signs pointing to a rather quiet meeting.

There are no issues to be resolved this year such as those that rocked the convention in 1948, when the national Democratic ticket was looked on with "distaste" by a faction of the organization.

The liveliest action of the sessions promises to be the five-way race for president of the Y.D.C. Several late challengers to front-runner Bedford Black of Kannapolis have appeared in the last few weeks. They include Pat Cooke of Gastonia, Billy Harrison of Rocky Mount, Robert Guy of Newland, and Miles Smith Jr., of Salisbury. Elections will be held Saturday.

Most of the convention activities are slated for tomorrow and Saturday, with the only function on today's agenda being a reception given by the local members for the first general business session will be held tomorrow afternoon and will feature a keynote address by Everett Jordan, state Democratic Executive Committee chairman. Several committees will meet tomorrow morning and a political forum will be held.

Gov. Kerr Scott and gubernatorial nominee William B. Umstead will share speaking honors Saturday, with Scott speaking in the afternoon and Umstead addressing the evening banquet session.

Florida Senator To Visit Adlai

WASHINGTON, (UP)—Sen. George A. Smathers (D-Fla.) headed for Springfield, Ill., today to discuss campaign issues with Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson.

Smathers said his conference with the Democratic presidential nominee would determine his role in the election race.

The Florida senator backed Sen. Richard B. Russell of Georgia for the presidential nomination at the Democratic convention. He has not announced publicly whether he supports Stevenson.

Smathers said he hopes to discuss "all the issues" with Stevenson, particularly those affecting the South, such as civil rights and ownership of the tidelands oil fields.

Family Group Gathering.

The family of the late John Henry and Blanche Tyson Leggett had a family gathering in Greenville on Wednesday, August 20. The group, shown above, met for a barbecue dinner at Respass-James Barbecue House. Front row, seated, Mrs. Ellen Leggett, Princess Murphey, I. W. Leggett, Jr., Annette Jackson, Bolton, Georgianna Leggett, Dorothy Leggett, Betsy Anne Newsome; second row, Mrs. Norman Bolton, Mrs. C. E. Newsome, Mavis Leggett, Mrs. Thomas Murphey, Mrs. Roy Leggett, Mrs. I. W. Leggett, Mrs. John R. Leggett, Mrs. Walter E. Jackson, Mrs. Norman Bolton, back row, Mr. Thomas Murphey, Mr. John R. Leggett, Mrs. Mary Leggett, Mrs. Roy Leggett, Mrs. I. W. Leggett, Mr. I. W. Leggett, Mr. John R. Leggett, Mrs. Jennis Leggett. Members of the family who were present came from Charlotte, Pontiac, Mich., Palatka, Fla., Atlanta Ga., Raleigh Wilson and Washington.

Elections Board To Probe Theft Of Primary Ballots

RALEIGH (AP)—The State Board of Elections split 3-2 yesterday against going into Henderson County to probe alleged election irregularities, but voted 2-1 to investigate the theft of some primary ballots in Polk County.

Two Republican members, J. Eugene Snyder of Lexington and P.E. Brown of North Wilkesboro, cast the "yes" votes in the Polk decision.

Snyder and Democratic members Harry Ferebee of Camden and Haywood Robbins of Charlotte issued a majority statement in the Henderson rift. They said the SBI already had conducted an exhaustive investigation in Henderson.

The SBI probed charges that persons who were not registered and non-residents of the county voted and that voters were allowed to register after the registration period had officially closed.

The majority of the board voted to turn the SBI report over to Atty. Gen. Harry McMullan and District Solicitor C.O. Ridings with a recommendation that if any criminal laws of this state have been violated that the matters therein be brought to the attention of the Henderson grand jury. They said a report from McMullan indicated, however, there had been no substantial violation of the election laws in the county.

Board Chairman Charles M. Britt of Asheville said he felt the majority erred and favored a board-conducted investigation in Henderson.

Ned Anderson, chairman of the Polk elections board, reported that

Explosions And Fire Kill Eight

MARSIELE, France (UP)—Fire and explosions destroyed an oil soap factory and 16 adjacent houses last night and early today, killing at least eight persons and seriously injuring 39.

Police said the bodies of a dozen additional victims may be buried in the rubble. Seven charred bodies already have been found in the smoldering ruins of the factory and that of a woman recovered from the wreckage of a house.

The fire started in the soap factory and subsequent chemical explosions spread it to the nearby dwellings, among them two apartment houses. Intense heat and twisted steel girders delayed rescue work.

Housed by REFRIGERATION HOUSTON, Miss. (UP)—A clerk in a food store put a bag of eggs under a refrigerator and forgot them until he heard cheeping noises three days later. The heat of the refrigerator motor plus 100-degree-plus temperatures hatched out four baby chicks.

Not 'His' Shop

In Friday's Reflector account of the arrest of C. H. Bryant on charges of receiving stolen goods, the pawn shop which Bryant managed, was erroneously referred to as "his" pawn shop. Bryant had managed the establishment for several years, but it is owned by Arthur's Loan Company with headquarters in Norfolk.

Latest Russian Propaganda Bid Is Fizzling Out

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (UP)—The latest Soviet propaganda campaign in the United Nations appeared to be fizzling out today, but the Kremlin still held salvo of votes in reserve.

The Soviet proposal for the blanket admission of 14 states to the U. N. was headed for certain defeat in the Security Council.

But Russian delegate Jacob A. Malik was expected to find revenge in casting a series of vetoes to prevent the admission of Japan and three Indo-Chinese states.

The rejection of Malik's membership proposal, which calls for membership for nine Western-backed states in exchange for the entry of five Soviet proteges, became assured yesterday when seven Western delegates denounced the Soviet resolution as contrary to the U. N. charter.

The debate in the council is scheduled to resume tomorrow.

Bible Words to Live by

PSALM 136 - "We sat down by the streams of Babylon and wept there, remembering Zion."

I've liked the Latin cadence of this opening - Super Flumina Babylonis - for the past 30 years. The Jews were in exile and so are we.

"Willow trees grow there, and on these we hung up our harps . . ."

Every time I see a willow tree I see this picture of sad mankind, and me among them, in exile from Heaven.

The exiled Jews were taunted. They said, "Jerusalem, if I forget thee, perish the skill of my right hand. Let my tongue stick fast to the roof of my mouth if I cease to remember thee, if I find in aught but Jerusalem the fountain head of my content!"

Those things usually happen to people who are content with the world. That we have not here a lasting home is one of the toughest lessons to learn.

Father Paul Bussard, Editor Catholic Digest, St. Paul

Record Increase In Valuations Of Utility Holdings

RALEIGH (AP)—A record-breaking increase was reported yesterday in the 1954 taxable valuations of the properties of utility companies in North Carolina.

The State Board of Assessment reported that valuations totaled $419,663,214, an increase of $23,024,879 over 1953. Some of the figures still are tentative pending the completion of revaluations in some counties, the board pointed out.

The valuation increase resulted chiefly from huge expansion programs by telephone and power companies.

Valuation of Duke Power Co., North Carolina's biggest utility, was boosted from $92,325,965 to $94,780,961. Carolina Power and Light Co. increased from $50,584,928 to $56,684,961.

Tide Water Power Co., now merged with CP&L, advanced from $7,558,066 to $8,230,879. Virginia Electric and Power Co. increased from $7,423,870 to $8,401,495.

The Southern Railway valuation was unchanged at $64,615,537. The Atlantic Coast Line remained at $36,453,370, and the Seaboard Air Line was stable at $22,480,000.

Valuation of Southern Bell Telephone Co. increased from $35,132,540 to $39,497,950. Carolina Telephone Co. advanced from $10,886,876 to $13,765,640.

Piedmont Natural Gas Co., which was not on the tax books last year, was valued at $3,235,072 in its first year of operation.

Crops, Pastures Are Improved By Heavy Rainfall

RALEIGH (AP)—Tar Heel crops and pastures have shown great improvements as a result of rains during August, according to the Federal-State Crop Reporting Service.

The agency issued a crop summary yesterday which showed that soil conditions are generally favorable for plowing and preparing land for seeding of fall grains and cover crops.

Army worms are reported to be damaging practically all growing crops in many coastal counties. The agency added, "Insects of all kinds are reported on the increase since the summary also showed that farm labor is still reported scarce with wages at a high level."

ONLY HALF INNOCENT
DETROIT (UP)—William Bradbury, 26, was picked up on suspicion of armed robbery and cleared on that charge. A routine "frisking" turned up 21 unsettled traffic tickets in his pockets, however. Traffic judge John D. Watts fined him $114.

The word "nerve" originally meant tendon, but now refers to the structures through which the brain sends messages to the body, including much of the brain itself.

Five Leaf Marls Of Sandhills To Open Sales Today

RALEIGH (AP)—The five sandhills tobacco markets of the Middle Belt opened season sales today, with prices expected to be about on the same level as those prevailing on the Carolinas Border and Eastern Belts.

The five markets are Sanford, Aberdeen, Carthage, Ellerbe and Fuquay-Varina.

The remaining five Middle Belt markets, Louisburg, Warrenton, Durham, Oxford and Henderson, will open the season on Monday. Eastern Belt prices yesterday remained steady, but declines affected all groups on the Border Belt with decreases ranging from $1 to $5 per hundred pounds, according to the U.S. and N.C. Departments of Agriculture.

On the order belt, some inferior grades hit new lows for the season. The general quality of offerings was lowered by an increase in the percentage of nondescript.

Price changes on the Eastern Belt ranged between $1 and $2 per hundred, with sales heavy at fair leaf, fair lugs, low and fair primings and nondescript made up the bulk of offerings. Tuesday's gross sales on the Eastern Belt totaled 11,157,550 pounds, the largest volume of the season, averaging $59.55 per hundred.

Border Belt sales totaled 10,768,173 pounds, at an average of $53.80, up $1.93 from Friday's average.

Trygve Lie Will Speak In Dunn At Early Date

General Trygve Lie of the United Nations will speak in Dunn within a few months, officials of the Dunn Information Clinic announced yesterday.

J. Shepard Bryan, president of the clinic, said Lie accepted an invitation to speak in 1953, but left the exact date open. However, Bryan said the group has asked Lie to appear in November of this year because of the "importance of the times."

John Foster Dulles, foreign affairs advisor for this country at the UN, extended the invitation to Lie on behalf of the clinic. Dulles already has accepted an invitation to speak here after the November elections.

ONLY $199.96 SHORT
BRIDGEPORT, Conn. (UP)—After cashing a $200 check, Anthony W. Marzello was arrested by police who said his bank account contained exactly four cents.

Tax Take

GREENSBORO (AP)—North Carolinians filled the federal coffers with $122,766,845.13 in taxes during the month of August.

Edwin Gill of Greensboro, Collector of Internal Revenue for the North Carolina District, said the amount was an increase of $12,743,759.13 over the amount paid in the same month last year.

He added that the increase was due largely to increased amounts collected in withholding income, employment, cigarette, and tobacco taxes.

Nearly all of the asteroids, which are small planets, revolve around the sun in orbits which lie between those of Mars and Jupiter.

Pitt TB Program Is Outlined At Meeting

AYDEN—Herbert Waldrop of Greenville pointed out the progressive program of the Pitt County Tuberculosis Association at a meeting of the Ayden Rotary Club here last week.

The speaker told Rotarians how the rest cure for T.B. patients was discovered in 1871 and how the issuing of tuberculosis seals with the double cross emblem was started in 1904. The sale of T.B. seals was launched when one Philadelphia paper bought 50,000, said Waldrop, "and the seal sales was definitely launched in the U. S."

The T.B. association has recently employed Mrs. J.B. Spillman as full time employee working through the Pitt County Health Department. All expenses are paid out of the funds brought through the sale of Seals in Pitt County.

Leslie Stocks was in charge of the program and won the On Time prize which was presented by Warren Kinlaw, H.T. Dean, who works with DuPont Company, was a guest of Norman Dall, Ralph Hardee won the Fellowship prize, presented by Meyers Theater through Hal Edwards, manager. John Turnage was a visiting Rotarian. Teedy Bullock, the all HS-Conference football quarterback, and who played in the East-West games, was the guest of the club, and presented by Bob Booth, chairman of the Youth Committee. Teedy attended Fork Union last year, and will be at the University of Carolina this next season. Teedy sang, "Carry me Back to Ole Virginia" for the Rotarians.

Hal Edwards, Chairman of the Attendance Committee, presented attendance pins to 17 rotarians who had attended the club for one year or more with 100 per cent attendance. Rotarians receiving pins with their length of unbroken attendance record were: Elbert Davidson, 1 year; Bob Booth, Faust Johnson, Jack Quinerly, Roy Turnage, Jr., Leslie Stocks, and Theibert Worthington, with 2 years each; MacDonald Edwards and Ralph Hardee, with 2 years each; J.R. Taylor, 4 years; Wesley Gooding, 5 years; Snowdie Edwards, 6 years; Corey Stokes, 9 years; Bill Johnson, 9 years; Alton Rowe, 20 years; Anson Sawyer, 27 years; and Grady Dixon, 28 years.

Water Resources Of Southeastern N. C. Are Studied

RALEIGH (AP)—A survey of eight Southeastern North Carolina counties has been started to determine their ground water resources, according to Dr. J. L. Stuckey, state geologist.

Dr. Stuckey said yesterday the survey is being made in cooperation with the ground water branch of the U. S. Geological Survey. Counties to be surveyed include New Hanover, Pender, Onslow, Carteret, Jones, Duplin, Lenoir and Craven.

H. E. Legrand of Raleigh, geologist in charge for the federal agency, said the coastal area was chosen because of recent trends toward industrial development there. He added that large quantities of ground water are available but undeveloped in the Southeastern section.

49 YEARS WASTED
ALLEGAN, Mich. (UP)—Enos P. Gay had a long lead in the beard-growing contest for the Allegan County centennial Fair. He hadn't shaved since 1903. He didn't win, however. It got so hot he shaved before the contest was judged.

Calmly Tells Of School Slaying

LAWRENCEVILLE, Ill. (AP)—A 25-year-old partially deaf Army veteran wanted to be formally charged today in the school-room slaying of his ex-sweetheart after calmly telling police authorities how he fired seven bullets into her body.

Sheriff garret Burgoon said Charles Petrach of Gary, Ind., related the fatal shooting last night while officers took down his admission on a wire recorder.

The victim in the tragedy that ended a campus romance was Miss Georgine Lyon of near Madison, Ind., a librarian at the Lawrenceville High School.

The shooting occurred in a classroom where the young couple were alone. Some 700 students were attending classes in nearby rooms but none apparently heard the shots. Her body was discovered in the empty class room by a faculty member shortly after lunch yesterday.

Petrach said he and Miss Lyon had been engaged, but that the pretty 25-year-old brunette recently returned his ring. He gave no explanation for the slaying other than it resulted from a "blasted romance."

Marilyn 'Hurt' By Picture Ban Imposed By Army

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Marilyn Monroe said today she was "embarrassed and hurt" when the Army banned a picture taken of her and four service women because the star's plunging neckline took top billing.

"That dress I wore was designed for eye level, not for photographers who stood on a balcony and shot downward," she said. "I'm embarrassed and hurt."

The bosomy blonde referred to a picture taken earlier this week at Atlantic City, N. J., where she served as grand marshal of the Miss America beauty pageant parade.

Army authorities who saw the picture requested that it not be used in newspapers. A spokesman explained that the services felt the photo would give a "wrong conception" of service life to potential recruits.

Sparkman Says Five Stars Are Crowd-Pleasers

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UP)—Democratic vice presidential nominee John J. Sparkman says Gen. Dwight Eisenhower drew large crowds in his Southern speaking tour because Southerners don't get many chances to see five-star generals or Republicans.

The Alabama senator said he doubted if there were 1,000 republican votes for Eisenhower among the 100,000 persons who greeted him in Atlanta, Ga., last Tuesday. "We don't get to see many five star generals down South," Sparkman told a luncheon audience here yesterday. "In fact, we don't get to see many Republicans."

Sparkman, who left last night for Albuquerque, N.M., charged that Eisenhower was abandoning the GOP platform "at the rate of an issue a day."

Pickpocket Has Mirror Trouble

LOS ANGELES (UP)—Pickpocket O. D. Carroll, 56, advised his light-fingered colleagues today to beware of rear-view mirrors. Carroll deftly slipped a wallet from the pocket of a passenger aboard a bus here yesterday. The bus stopped suddenly and driver Earl D. Meldrin, who had watched the whole thing in the rear-view mirror, collared the thief. It was a bad job all around, Carroll said. The wallet was empty.

Booster Club Plans Better Athletics 1952

Club Members Discuss Plans For Stimulating Wider Interest In High School Athletic Program

The Booster Club met last night to review last year's accomplishments and formulate plans for the coming year.

Last year the solicited activity of the Booster Club stirred up interest and boosted attendance at Greenville High School games to such an extent that a $2,000 athletic debt was paid off out of the gate receipts.

Principal E. O. Dowd praised the excellent work of the club. "I wish to thank this group of Greenville citizens who have taken it upon themselves to stimulate a better athletic program at the high school. The concentrated efforts of the Booster Club has let our youngsters know that somebody is interested in their program."

Mr. Dowd pointed out, "The cost for each football player, properly equipped, is approximately $200 up until last year the athletic program was steadily losing money because we will not send a boy out to play who is not properly equipped."

President Howard Hodges Jr. told members, "We have made great strides for better athletics in Greenville, the attendance at the games and the gate receipts bear this out. This year we intend to do more. The goal of this club is to involve more people, we want to get more and more people interested in high school athletics. Last year the club had 134 members, this year our membership goal will be 200."

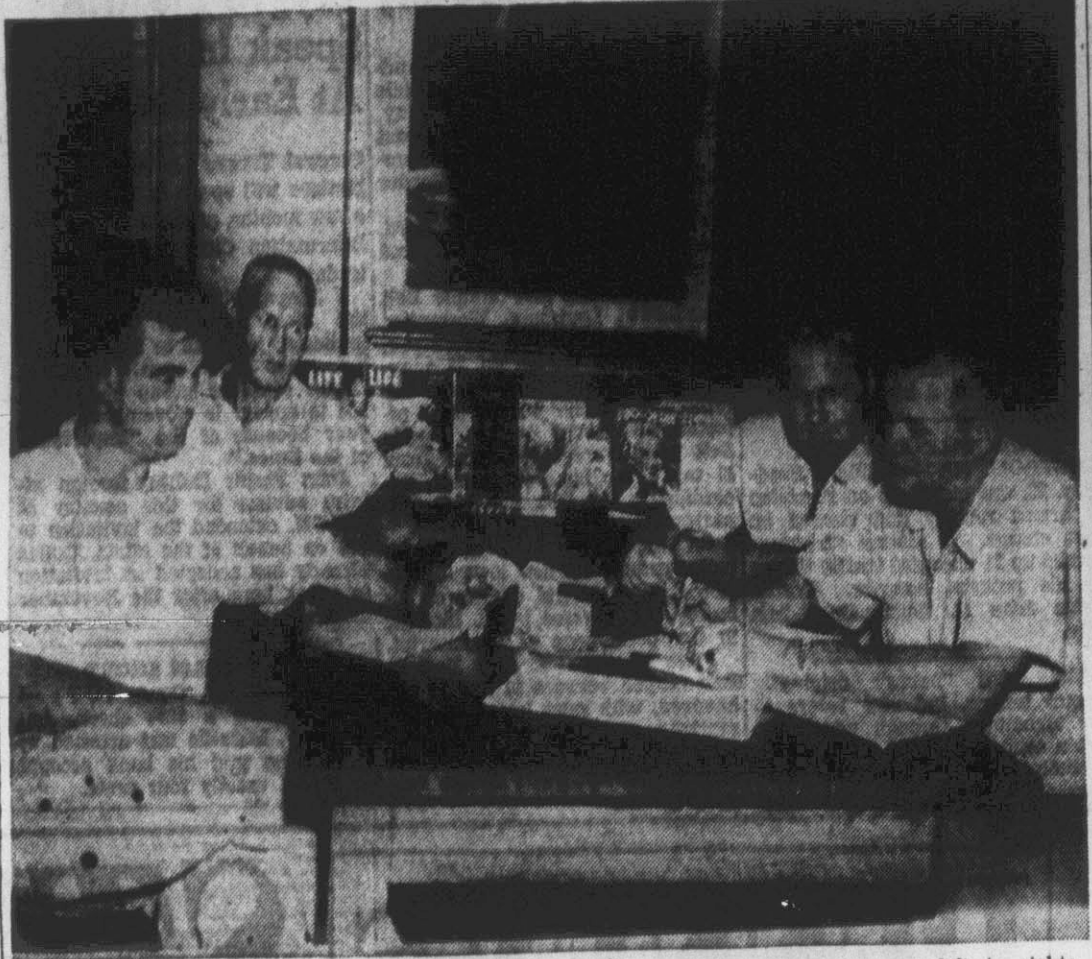

Bill Kittrell, coach of the high school football team, gave members a rundown on the team's chances this year. "The team is very young and inexperienced but it is the most enthusiastic team I've ever seen. We hope to gain some valuable experience this year and next year all the present players except three will be returning."

Kittrell credited the Booster Club with instilling morale in the football players and stimulating a wider interest in sports among students. Kittrell said, "Last year we had only 23 men on the varsity squad and this year 40 reported for early practice. This is an indication of what happens when grown-ups show interest in what youngsters are doing."

Badger Johnson made the motion that the club retain the present officers and directors another year. The motion was immediately seconded and carried. Johnson remarked, "We want this club to get a good foothold and grow. The present officers have done an excellent job and if they will continue for another year I believe it will be to the advantage for the club."

Officers for the coming year will be: Howard Hodges Jr., president; Erroll Webb, vice-president; E. W. Harvey Jr., secretary-treasurer. The Board of Directors are Reyonida May, M. K. Blount, W. L. Allen, M. B. Massey, Guy Evans, C. A. White, and Badger Johnson.

Booster Club Officials Confer With Athletic Heads

Top Thumper by Pap

When Ferris Fain's batting streak of 24 games which carried him to the top of the list in the race for the American League batting average that it was, perhaps, just as well since the pressure would be off.

"I can't say there is any lessening of pressure now that my streak has been snapped," said Fain. "I never felt any pressure in the first place. Personally, I'd like to start out the season with a hit and hit safely in 154 games. I have too much fun making those base-hits to worry about whether or not I'll get another tomorrow."

Fain is seeking to retain the American League batting championship he won last season when he batted .344, hitting better than 300 for the first time in his major league career. He is determined to prove that last season's mark was no fluke. Fain has learned to control his fiery temper with the result that he is steadier in the field and at the plate. He's still an aggressive player and just about the best first baseman in the big show. There isn't a first baseman in the league who can match Fain when it comes to making that difficult first-to-second-to-first double-play.

Sam Snead Heads Empire Open List

ELSMERE, N. Y. (UP)—Sammy Snead, Ted Kroll and Buck White were in the spotlight today as a field including the nation's top golfers teed off in the first round of the $15,000 Empire State Open golf tournament.

The hard-hitting Snead was the most popular choice as the stars began the 72-hole grind over the par 70 Normanside Country Club course.

Also in the field are PGA champion Jim Turnesa, Jimmy Clark, winner of the recent Fort Wayne Open; Skip Alexander and Ky Laffoon, links veterans who tied for first place in this tourney in 1950; Big Jim Ferrier and New York state amateur champion Billy Shields.

Durocher Signs Giant Contract

NEW YORK (AP)—Leo Durocher bravely proclaims in public that his New York Giants can overhaul the runaway Brooklyn Dodgers.

Privately, however, the dapper little manager, who yesterday signed to lead the Giants again in 1953, knows that only a miracle, even bigger than the one that brought the National League flag to the Giants last year, is needed. And he is not counting on it. He knows his team, handicapped by injuries to Monte Irvin and Sal Maglie and the loss of Willie Mays to the service, is not good enough to pull off another miracle. So he is resigned to "wait until next year."

Harvie Ward Wins In Golf Tourney

SHAWNEE-ON-DELAWARE, Pa. (AP)—Players in the second round of the seventh annual Bill Waite Memorial Golf Tourney teed off today at Shawnee-On-Delaware Country Club.

Yesterday British amateur titlist Harvie Ward, of Tarboro, N. C., and Bob Babblish, Detroit, moved up by firing five under par 67s in the first round.

Ward and Lynn Cresson, of Harrisburg, Pa., topped Tom Sheehan, of Detroit, and William O'Hara, of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., 4 and 3, in best ball partners match play.

Babblish teamed with Howard Everett, Atlantic City, N. J., to down Frank Souchak, former University of Pittsburgh football star, and Joe Switzer, of St. Louis, 3 and 2.

Tar Heel Golfers To Receive Gifts

WASHINGTON (AP)—Six Tar Heel golf stars, including National Open Champion Julius Boros of Mid Pine, will be awarded gifts here from golfing circles in North Carolina on Sept. 18.

The presentation will be made at the PPrince George Country Club at the start of the National Celebrities Golf Tournament.

Other Tar Heel linksmen, in addition to Boros, who will be honored are pro Clayton Heafner, Tommy Bolt, Skip Alexander and Johnny Palmer, and amateur Dick Chapman.

Vic Seixas Tops U.S. Contenders

FOREST HILLS, N. Y. (UP)—The sweet 16 simmers down to the final eight today in the U. S. Seixas, America's No. 1 player, personally drew the task of sinking one Australian threat in his fourth round match against 17-year old Ken Rosewall, a canny little court cover seeded seventh in the foreign list.

Sedgman races the veteran Billy Talbert of New York in what figures to be the first real test for the remarkable defending champion who is seeking a U. S. Wimbledon grand slam with a professional offer from Jack Kramer probably riding on the result.

Talbert is a stylish shot-maker who twice has reached the finals. All 16 survivors are scheduled for action in the other matches for the Gordon Mulloy of Coral Gables Fla., vs. Philippe Washer of Belgium; Herbie Flam of Beverly Hills, Calif., vs. Straight Clark of Pasadena, Calif.; Hamilton Richardson of Baton Rouge, La., vs. Charley Masterson of Brooklyn; Dick Savitt of Orange, N. J., vs. Feliciano Ampon of the Philippines; Mervyn Rose of Australia vs. Sgt. Bernard Bartzon of Fort Sill, Okla., and Art Larsen of San Leandro, Calif., vs. 17-year old Lewis Hoag of Australia.

Tigers, A's Beat Yankees, Indians

NEW YORK, Sept. 4 (UP)—No Yankee team ever won a pennant after suffering a no-hit defeat, but this one may do it, despite being no-hit and one-hit.

Just a little more than a week after Virgil Trucks of last place Detroit pitched his no-hit, no-run game over the Yankees, young Harry Byrd of the Athletics turned in a 3 to 0 one-hit decision last night.

But even while he was mistifying Casey Stengel's wondrous sluggers, the Yankees were moving another big stride toward their fourth straight pennant, because the Indians were blowing a big 11 to 8 decision with time rapidly running out, they wound up still 3 1/2 games behind the Yankees, who sometimes don't hit at all and on other occasions just hit once.

Byrd, who spends his off-seasons in a logging camp in Darlington, S.C., kept the Yankee lumber inactive all night, except for a second inning two-base hit by Erv Noren. He retired 2 batters in a row between Noren's double and a ninth inning walk to Johnny Mize with two out.

Byrd, gaining his 14th victory, also had pitched a shutout in his last start against Boston, running his string of scoreless innings to 21. The Athletics were especially joyous over their triumph because they topped their jinx pitcher, Big Vic Raschi, who had beaten them 10 straight times since the 1950 season and four times this year for an overall career mark of 24-2 before last night's defeat. The A's made all their runs in the sixth when Ferris Fain doubled, Sherry Robertson singled, Mickey Manley dropped Gus Zernial's fly, and Dave Philley and Cass Michaels singled.

Cleveland had no excuses in its defeat. Detroit took a 6 to 0 lead but the Indians broke loose with an eight-run inning in the fifth. Detroit rebounded with four more in the sixth to go ahead to stay as starters Bobby Feller and Hal Newhouser, a couple of yesterday's heroes were bopped around like today's batting practice pitchers. Detroit whammed four homers, two by Walt Dropo, a grand-slammer by Don Kolloway in the big sixth and one by Jim Delsing. Jim Hegan and Larry Doby homered for Cleveland.

Washington handed Boston its fifth straight defeat, 9 to 2 and the White Sox edged the Browns, 1 to 0, in other American League games. In the National League, the Dodgers stayed on top by eight games, defeating the Braves, 6 to 5, on Jackie Robinson's mad base-running spree, while the Giants edged the Phils, 4 to 3, in 10 innings. The Cardinals defeated the Cubs, 6 to 1, and the Reds blanked the Pirates, 1 to 0.

The prize-winning Sonny Acre horses will show this coming Sunday at Emporia, Va.

On the asset side of Boone's book, the Pirates' head coach reported the arrival in the Pirates camp of Dick Cherry, Washington high school all-state quarterback who had a sensational career with the Pam-Pack of the Pamlico river town. Cherry showed up Tuesday evening and voluntarily requested the privilege of working out with the East Carolina Pirates. Again this morning he was out for the drills with the 60 candidates who are on a grueling three-times-a-day training schedule.

Assistant Coach Clyde Biggers put his charges through fundamentals of defensive line play and ran them on blocking drills and callisthenics Wednesday afternoon. The gridgers are about recovered from the sore muscles and tired backs of the first two days when they sweated in the open-air Turkish bath of the East Carolina College drill field.

Boone and Biggers have praised the fine team spirit which has been manifested in the workouts this week. They are continuing vigorously their preparations for the opening game in the College Stadium here on Saturday, September 13.

Tickets may be purchased through the Alumni Office in Austin Building and the Athletic Office in the new gymnasium.

Winslow Horses Win At Enfield

The Sonny Acre Stables owned by Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Winslow of Greenville had a field day of triumph in the big Labor Day Horse Show at Enfield. With Roland Mayo up, Color Guard won second in the Open Walk Trot and was Reserve champion in the Walk Trot Stake.

Riptide placed third in the Open Five Gaited Class and Society Gentleman copped fourth in the Limited Five Gaited. Mr. Mayo up on both. Mighty Chief won third place honors in the Five Gaited Stake.

Stonewall Starlet won the championship for Fine Harness Horses with J. R. Rogers of Raleigh driving.

'Self-Torture' Involved In Looking For Strike Solution

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP)—There is a kind of American self-torture involved in looking for a way out of national emergency strikes.

This presidential campaign isn't likely to provide a solution. Gov. Stevenson seemed to make that clear in his Labor Day speech.

He said the Taft-Hartley Act should be entirely replaced by a new labor law. He raised the question of handling national emergency strikes.

He offered several suggestions but frankly said he didn't have the answer. It's a question which makes organized labor, management and politicians unhappy. Congress has never provided the answer.

Traditionally, an employer has been free to refuse to meet the demands of a union. At the same time the union is free to strike until he does.

That freedom for both sides was recognized by Congress even in passing the Taft-Hartley Act with its many restrictions on unions and management.

When there is a threat of a strike, which might hurt the national welfare, T-H provides for delaying but not, in the end, preventing it.

The government, through court injunction, or delay such a strike 80 days to give both sides that much more time to reach a settlement.

Under T-H, if there's still no settlement at the end of 80 days, the union is free to strike, even though such a work-stoppage might put the country in a tail spin, unless—

Congress then steps in and passes a law forbidding the strike outright. So far it hasn't done so. So in T-H Congress faced the problem of handling a national emergency strike but stopped short of forbidding it.

The philosophy seems to be: The day may come when we will have to pass a law forbidding a strike because it might ruin the country but let's not cross that bridge till we come to it.

It's a splintery bridge. In the end both labor and management would be stuck by the slivers of government interference.

Congress could do this: It could pass a law forbidding a strike in an industry affecting the national welfare and let it go at that.

That would penalize the union only. Deprived of its ancient right to strike it would have to continue working for an employer who, knowing his workers couldn't walk out, could take his own good time on a settlement.

This would be so obviously one-sided that, if Congress tried this remedy, organized labor could hardly sit by. In the end, and for fairness, Congress would have to pass a law penalizing an employer in such a case, too.

How? Probably by compulsory arbitration. Which means: Once a union was forbidden to strike, an employer would lose his right to take his time settling with the union; the government would step in and dictate the terms of settlement which both sides would have to accept.

But compulsory arbitration—among labor, management and politicians—is almost in the category of a dirty word. Nobody likes to mention it. It's the ultimate in government interference.

It seems only a matter of time before Congress will have to find some final answer. So far we've been able to sidestep through the big strikes without national destruction. But you can't imagine Congress sitting idly by and permitting, say, a railroad strike that would paralyze the country or a steel strike that continued so long the economy was wrecked.

Grandma's Cakes Become Lost Art

CINCINNATI, O. (U.P.)—A University of Cincinnati home economics expert believes the art of baking cakes the way Grandmother did is rapidly becoming a lost art.

Mrs. Elizabeth Carson Hall, who investigated the cooking and baking skill of 200 "modern" women said 54 per cent of interviewees relied on prepared cake mixes. She found that an additional 14 per cent used them occasionally.

Capitol Square

And chances are ten to one that if a tourist party stops at a farm home to get a meal, the hostess will open a few cans and cut a loaf of bakery bread instead of setting out the left-over cowpeas and pollock which would really give the visitors something to enjoy and remember.

BEAUTY Let's get back to more pleasant thoughts—such as the year-round all-over beauty of North Carolina landscape. Someone has said the six weeks period from late July to middle September is the ugliest time of the year. Maybe so. If it is true, the rest of the year must be charming indeed. The verdant green of spring time foliage has faded and the trees have sort of a drab coloring just ahead of the brilliant hues that will come in October. In the deep east camellia and azalea plants, and in the west rhododendron and mountain laurel bushes, are making use of the time to get ready for profuse blossoming next spring. Small grain fields have been harvested and the new crop is not yet sown. Tobacco fields have been stripped, corn fields are an ugly rusty-brown and cotton fields are neither green nor white. But, look at that charming elusive haze above the horizon of evergreen pines; look at the increasing acres of green pastures dotted with peacefully munching cattle, or the bunch of cows lying in the shade. And most of all look at, because you can't miss it, the gorgeous foreground of golden rod and yellow fennel, the brilliant red and yellow borders of canna lilies, and all the other ground flowers that guarantee color and beauty all the time in Carolina.

Boy Is Accused Of Two Deaths

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—An 11-year-old boy was accused today of setting two neighboring children afire in the attic of their home. Trapped and screaming, they burned to death.

The victims were Lindsey Cunningham, 12, and his sister Mary Louise, 12, Negroes.

Another sister, Esther, 11, was critically burned trying to save them. She was in San Antonio Hospital today.

A fourth member of the family, a frail, physically handicapped older sister, Ruth, 22, said she wrestled with the young assailant but he mounted a chair out of her reach and threw kerosene on the two children. Then he lit a paper paper torch and threw it into the attic, where the youngsters had been sorting clothing.

District Fire Chief Fred Roth said the boy, arrested by juvenile authorities, kept repeating, "I didn't do it. I didn't do it." He said the slight youngster, a Latin-American, wouldn't say anything else at the fire scene.

Patrolman A.C. Sandoval said several witnesses told him the boy had fought with the Cunningham children repeatedly. Sandoval said the boy was seen to enter the home, throw kerosene on the children and light it with a torch.

Firemen quickly brought the attic blaze under control.

'Bargain Day' In Compromise Over Back Tax Suits

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Bureau of Internal Revenue settled for an average of 15 cents on the dollar in the first six compromise tax settlements revealed under its new openbook policy.

The government claimed $190,000 in back taxes, interest and penalties. It collected $28,600 and says it could not have done better.

The latest figures for any full year show that in fiscal 1951 the bureau hit delinquent taxpayers for 38 cents on every dollar they owed, or $6,300,000 out of $16,500,000.

J. W. Barnett Sr., of Vossburg, Miss., paid $3,000 in settlement of a $50,000 tax and penalty liability for 1943. He pleaded "nolo contendere" to charges he made a willful attempt to evade a large part of his 1943 income tax, and paid a $1,500 fine.

Bureau examiners found Barnett physically unable to do any manual labor and recommended the bureau accept his $3,000 offer.

Delays Wedding For Jail Term

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UP)—LeRoy Lawrence postponed his wedding today at the insistence of a judge who fined him $10 for drunkenness.

Lawrence, 21, told the judge about his "awful predicament." He did not have $10 and was to be married today to his fiancée, who is only 14.

"Go to jail, son," the judge said. "She's got plenty of time to wait."

Three times as many school buses were made in 1949 than any other type of bus.

Art Workshop Is Being Conducted

The faculty members of the Negro schools are busily at work in the Art Workshop which is being held this week. Miss Lillian Nunn, instructor, is demonstrating the various uses of art materials and teaches them ways to employ them in their school work. From 1:00-6:00 P. M. for three days, they have become acquainted with creative arts such as are developed by school children in their classroom work. On the walls are hanging examples of the work which has been done.

Eight Pitt County Jaycees have been appointed to state Junior Chamber of Commerce committees as representatives of the eighth district of North Carolina.

The appointments were announced today by District Vice President Bob Rouse of Farmville along with the other district appointments to standing committees.

Pitt Jaycees receiving appointments to the standing committees were: J. B. Smith, Greenville, Christmas activities; Dan Saied, Greenville, civic improvements; Horton Roundtree, Farmville, credentials; Dave Whichard, Greenville, publicity; Lester Trunage, Greenville, youth activities; Bill Watson, Greenville, voice of democracy; Harold F. Rouse, Farmville, Jaycee activity film; Ben L. Rouse, Greenville, J.C.I.

OLD DAYS RECALLED
FORT WORTH, Tex. (UP)—Fort Worth, in accordance with Texas tradition as a cattle-raising state, often is known as "Cowtown" but that's just a nickname. Six other Texas communities really have names that go back to the days when cattle was king. They are Blanket, Bronco, Lariat, Loop, Ropesville and Spur.

In the early days of the automobile, closed cars were rare because they were expensive and hard to build.

Koreans Fight Blindly For National Survival

By FREDERICK PAINTON
United Press Staff Correspondent
SEOUL (U.P.)—The living city of Seoul lies hidden behind broad avenues and tall, modern office buildings blasted hollow by passing war.

It survives in narrow back alleys and in acres of overcrowded shacks piled against each other away from the main thoroughfares of the city.

In these squalid shanty towns are the people, the small industry, and the commerce struggling blindly from day to day to keep Korea's only big city alive.

The success of this disorganized human effort constantly amazes United Nations relief officials trying to organize the shell-torn former capital on a solid economic basis.

Many citizens of Seoul are hungry, some suffer from malnutrition (an average of 5 per cent), but none starves openly.

The serious cases of malnutrition come in waves from refugee groups who gather at the south bank of the Han River waiting some day to go north to their farms.

City Is "Closed"

Seoul is a "closed" city. Those who fled south from the Communists and others are prohibited from entering because of the possibility that it must be evacuated again in the tides of war.

Seoul's sub-surface life is so hidden from both Korean and U.N. officials that no one can estimate exactly its population.

After allied troops reoccupied the capital in March, 1951, 150,000 Korean civilians lived in Seoul and its suburbs. In November of the same year, 800,000 people were believed to be in the city and today the number is well on its way to 900,000 despite official efforts to halt the influx.

A refugee can pay 50,000 won or about $2.50 to bring a Korean bus driver to take him and his family across the Han to Seoul. Others sneak into the city on foot or by hitch-hiking.

There is barely a trace on the surface of the swelling population. The city has no daily rhythm, no movement to and from work, nor any rush hour. Its people seem to mill aimlessly in back-alleys and few venture on the main streets.

More than one-third of Seoul's people depend on United Nations relief rations to keep them from starving. Less than one-third are self-supporting. The rest need outside help only occasionally to survive.

An average Korean rarely can find steady work in either heavy or light industry; the war virtually destroyed Korea's feeble beginnings in industrialization.

Work Done at Home

Light "home" industries were left mainly intact. They are continuing the economic life of the nation today.

More than 350 small industries of all kinds have sprung up in the city in back alleys, houses and ruined buildings.

This rash of independent businessmen is one of the few positive healthy signs in Korean life today. The worker in the new small plants and in the bigger, overment-controlled industries has no union, nor does he especially want one.

The bitterness of war has branded unions somehow with the stigma of Communism, and the people of Seoul fear and avoid any organization which possibly could be linked to Communism.

Raccoon Thief Winds Up In Can

HARRISBURG (U.P.)—A raccoon in the act of burglarizing a grape vine here paid for his transgressions naturally enough by serving a brief sentence in the can.

The animal was hunting the fruit along a trellis when children spied him and began shouting. The noise caused the furry filcher to become excited. He lost his footing and fell into a watering can. Later he was removed by the warden—game, that is.

Pet Rabbits Are Just Too Much

FORT WORTH, Tex. (U.P.)—A girl can just take so much, and when her folks get attached to 14 strangers and neglect her because of it, it's time to look elsewhere for affection.

The B.G. Jordans report that Mittal, their fox terrier, disappeared shortly after the Jordans bought 14 rabbits and prepared to go into the rabbit business.

"I just know it was because she got jealous of all of those rabbits," Mrs. Jordan said.

Rare Instrument, 'Viola D'Amore, Is Reconstructed

WASHINGTON (UP)—The search for a rare 18th century musical instrument has resulted in a budding violin shop and organization of an unusual musical society. When Edgar M. Hoover began to look for an Italian viola d'amore in music stores and antique shops, none was to be found. Hoover decided to build one of the obsolete instruments. He found Willis Gault, a part-time violin teacher and part-time violin maker who became interested in the project. The two drew up plans for the viola from old documents and books and got measurements from two museum pieces in the Library of Congress. Hoover made a viola—his first—after about four months and is now learning to master it. Gault is already constructing his second viola d'amore and prospects look good for a successful violin-viola shop in the future.

Society Formed
The revival of interest in this ancient musical instrument also has resulted in the organization

by about a dozen musicians here of a Society of Ancien Musical Instruments, one of only several in this country. The first society was founded in France about 50 years ago. The instrument itself is a 14-string forerunner to the modern violin with a four-octave range—the viola has three. The viola d'amore is larger than violin and has seven strings on top, with seven sympathetic strings directly underneath that are tuned in unison to give out a deeper and richer tone. It is played like the violin but the bow and finger movements are much more intricate. It has been described as an instrument "rarely expressive" which has a "languishing and tender tone." Hoover says it produces a "distinctive silvery tone with a reedy edge." The early history of the viola d'amore, though centuries old, is obscure but it is known that it was created about 300 years ago. It is said to have been favored in the 18th century by such composers as Bach, Mozart, Weber, and Vivaldi.

Physical Failure Said Responsible In Most Wrecks

CHICAGO (U.P.)—A comprehensive study by the National Safety Council shows that there was something wrong physically with one out of every 18 drivers involved in last year's 32,500 fatal motor vehicle accidents. Three-fifths of the defects were listed as fatigue and sleeping while driving. One of every nine pedestrians killed by motor vehicles had some physical defect, the council reported. Defective eyesight was reported in more than one-fourth of the cases, defective hearing in one-tenth, and illness or other bodily defects in the remainder.

Justice Praises Malayan Courts

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaya (AP)—U.S. Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas, after one week of his two-week tour of guerrilla-plagued Malaya, said he was impressed that even Communist rebels who killed without reason get a fair trial in British courts. Justice Douglas said he felt that the top command of the Malayan guerrillas was distinctly Communist in character. When he returns to the United States, Justice Douglas declared, he would tell his people that Malaya was one of the free nations of the world upholding the flag of democracy.

Historic Site Is Lost In Scramble

WINNIPEG (AP)—An historic site here has lost out in the scramble for desirable building lots. Seven Oaks Creek in suburban West Kildonan—scene of the only battle in Winnipeg's history—has killed in and new homes are being built where Governor Semple was slain with 20 of his men June 19, 1816. A simple monument stands on the bank of the creek in their honor. The battle climaxed four years of bitter feuding between North-West Company fur traders and colonists sent out by Lord Selkirk in 1812.

1705. The CAPITOL at Williamsburg, Virginia

AP Newsfeatures
 In 1705, the capitol was completed and Williamsburg had become the seat of government and social center of the province of Virginia. Here, the House of Burgesses assembled and, following the Stamp Act of 1765, resolutions were introduced condemning "taxation without representation." This and other courageous outbursts led to the Revolution and ultimate freedom. During recent years, Dr. William A. R. Goodwin, rector of Bruton Parish Church, did much to save historic Williamsburg. In 1927 John D. Rockefeller, Jr., came to its assistance and established a fund for the complete restoration of the town. Today Williamsburg is a national shrine and the old Capitol, rebuilt from its foundations, appears as it did in colonial days.

WESTPORT LANDING

By Homer Hatten

AP Newsfeatures
 Chapter 13
 Clay accepted Bingham's offer gracefully and gratefully.
 "That's amazingly fine of you, sir," he said pleasantly, "and if I do decide to take a shot at it, I'll certainly take full advantage of your kindness. Right at the moment, though," he smiled ruefully, "I need help of another kind. All of my luggage was stolen in St. Louis and I'm sadly in need of a change of clothes. Would there be any merchant on board with a stock of goods who'd sell me a shirt or two and maybe some pants and boots?"
 Bingham burst forth in a roar of laughter. "It never fails," he roared. "I'd stumble across some business if I was cast away on a rock in the middle of the Atlantic! Why, Mr. Bennett, I've got bales and boxes and barrels of gear stowed on the lower deck and I can fix you up with just what you need. Not," he admitted, "that it will be the kind of clothes you're wearin' now. There's a little call for 'em on the board and I don't stock 'em. But I can fix you up with wool shirts and worsted pants and boots heavy enough to kick a bull over a barn with. That's what you'll be needin' when you get to Westport—especially if you go into the Santa Fe trade."
 An hour later the silk-shirted, dark-coated Kentucky horseman had been transformed into a typical frontiersman. His hat was a heavy black felt with a wide brim and a low circular crown. His rough wool shirt was the fiery red of the border, and his dark worsted trousers were tucked into high leather boots that were, as Bingham had promised, heavy enough to kick a bull over a barn. Even the bloodstained sword cane had vanished, to be replaced by a holstered pistol that hung low on his right hip and rubbed against his leg as he walked.
 His tour of the boat with Bingham had made him reasonably certain that there was no one aboard he had ever seen before, with the exception of Sally Dupre. As for Sally, he was under no misapprehension as to the very real and definite danger that charming young lady represented. The sooner he came to an understanding with her, the better it would be.

 The afterdeck was crowded with cabin passengers basking in the thin May sunlight. Sally demurely dressed in black silk and lace, was responding pleasantly yet soberly to the half-dozen men who had gathered about her at the rail. She looked up at Clay, her lips curving into a faint ghost of a smile as he approached.
 "Good afternoon, Mr.—Bennett?" There had been the briefest possible pause before she pronounced his assumed name. "It was good for you to come looking for me."
 Clay bowed stiffly, aware that she was mocking him and finding it an experience that roweled his soul.
 "The pleasure is mine," he said coldly. "Would it be convenient for you now to discuss the matters you mentioned yesterday?"
 She made a little grimace of distaste, but moved away from the railing, pausing to smile at the circle of men about her.
 "If you will excuse me, gentlemen?" she said. "Mr. Bennett and I have a matter of business that I fear we must not delay."
 "We'll go out on the foredeck," Clay suggested. "It's usually deserted."
 The foredeck, as he had foreseen, was completely empty of passengers. Benches had been built along the rail that encircled the deck, and Sally seated herself at the extreme bow of the boat and motioned Clay to sit beside her. He was still angry and sat down without speaking, waiting for her to explain her actions of the night before.
 When he turned to look at her he saw that the deuces she had worn like a cloak on the afterdeck had fallen away, and she was smiling at him with eyes filled with mockery and amusement.
 "You're quite displeased with me, aren't you?" she asked lightly.
 "I've seen situations I liked better," he admitted. "How does it happen you're traveling up the Missouri alone—without Andre?"
 "Andre is dead," she said slowly. "He died only a few hours before I left Memphis on this boat."
 She saw Clay's eyes widen in astonishment.
 "A few hours before you left? Surely, there must have been unusual circumstances."
 She nodded slowly. "There were," she assured him. "Very unusual circumstances."
 She hesitated, considering the man before her, deciding how best to fit him into her half-formed plans.
 "I think I'd better tell you a story. It won't take long, and it will—I will explain a lot of things."
 Quietly, almost impersonally, she told Clay about Regan and about Meisendorf. Briefly reconstructing the actual events from the meager facts she knew, she sketched in the fight in the attic of the house in Memphis and the flaming torch that house had become as it swept both Regan and Andre into eternity.
 "I caught the Natchez at Memphis that night," she continued slowly. "I was dazed by what had happened, but I had the map, and what was there left for me in Memphis? I thought I would meet Blaine Shepley in St. Louis last night in Andre's place, and we would work out some way to carry out what she had planned."
 She paused, studying Clay thoughtfully. "And then," she said, "you suddenly appear on board under an assumed name, and just as we're pulling away from the levee I find that you've just murdered Blaine Shepley!"
 Clay stood and faced her. "Just where do you think I come into the picture?" he asked.

Starvation Deaths Are Again Reported In India

BOMBAY (U.P.)—Reports of acute suffering and death from lack of food are coming from eastern Uttar Pradesh State. A United Press representative, B.K. Tiwari, an Allahabad newspaperman, went on a tour of the Gorakhpur district, one of the worst-affected of the 11 eastern districts. He was told of 25 starvation deaths from two villages alone. Recently, Prof. Shibbanlal Saxena, a former Congress Party leader, reported 2,000 hunger deaths in about 1,500 villages in two of the sub-divisions of the Gorakhpur district. He threatened at a press conference to go on hunger strike if the government did not take immediate steps to relieve the situation.

Tiwari's dispatch, in part, said: "Starvation is shown plainly in the faces of villagers whom I saw during the tour. In several cases I found living bodies almost reduced to bones, eyes shrunk in and legs like those of a skeleton." Can't Buy C... He reported that several varieties of cheap food grains, not including wheat, which normally sold for about a rupee (about 22 cents) for seven pounds, were now selling at from two to three rupees for about two pounds. That is far beyond the low-purchasing power of the average villager. The top pay for a village laborer is one rupee per day. In some village homes there was no sign that any cooking of food had taken place recently. There were also abandoned houses whose former inhabitants had gone in search of better conditions elsewhere. Some people were trying to live on a soup made from grass. There were reports of some persons eating the flesh of dead cows to allay their hunger pangs—a serious breach of Hindu custom. Many, some estimates are as high as 50,000 of persons from this district have crossed the border into Nepal in search of food and employment.

minister, Pandit Govind Ballabh Pant, appealed to political leaders not to create panic in the eastern districts in view of the scarcity conditions in those areas. He said that "highly imaginative" accounts of the situation there would help nobody but would create panic which would only aggravate the situation.

Explosive Tubes Inspire Jitters

BEENDENBOSTEL, Germany (AP)—Death lurks in the walls of this small village in the north German moorlands. Beendenbostel and some other small hamlets in the vicinity have been seized by the jitters since Richard Germer died in his locksmith workshop after a seemingly harmless steel tube he was forging blew up in a violent blast. Germer's death meant the beginning of many sleepless nights to villagers, who look thousands of these steel tubes from a nearby Wehrmacht ammunition depot shortly after the war. The tubes were traded on the black market and some local builders bought them to reinforce walls of small farm-houses. Others were used to fence off pastures or flower-gardens. Results of an investigation into Germer's death chilled the bones of many a farmer. The "steel-tubes" were special explosives used by German engineers in the war against Russia. Authorities found out that farmer H. Hoppenstedt from nearby Endeholz had fenced off his cattle with 120 such explosive tubes. They said lightning striking into the fence would have set off an atomic-like chain explosion. A tiny fish often shares the shell abode of the Caribbean conch, notes the National Geographic Society. ## Bunker Hill Veterans Are Re-Assigned After 2 Fights

By ROBERT UDDICK United Press Staff Correspondent WESTERN FRONT, Korea (UP)—They came down off Bunker Hill three days ago, "shook up" from five days and nights on a nub of land that is a bulls-eye for Red artillery and mortars. Tonight, rested and relaxed, they're heading forward again to take a turn on some other front-line position. Two trips up Bunker, they figure, is enough. Nothing special happened during their last tour there, they tell you. "You get up there and you don't move around," Sgt. E. E. Exosoch of Royal Oak, Mich., said. "When it gets dark you ease out of your hole. Maybe dig a little," put in Sgt. Don R. Galvin of Grosse Point, Mich. "But you take it easy. If they hear you digging they cut loose with artillery. In one place, you don't even do that because the Chinese are only about 15 yards away."

GI Railroader Goes Regularly To Red Germany

By RICHARD K. O'MALLEY AP Newsfeatures FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—The portly man handed his travel orders to the major and asked anxiously: "There won't be any shooting, will there?" Maj. Charles Woerple smiled and motioned the man aboard the Berliner, waiting on the track for the highball toward the Iron Curtain. "Nothing to worry about," he said. "It's just another train ride." As the man swung aboard, Woerple's smile broadened to a grin. "We get 'em like that some times," he said. "They think a trip to Berlin is like traveling through the jaws of death."

Unusual Train Maj. Woerple is one of the most unusual trains in the world. Its passengers must have orders written in Russian to ride it under American protection through the East German countryside. Maj. Woerple is a pretty old hand at traveling himself. He went through World War II in the 32nd Division, where he was the Silver Star, Bronze Star, and a couple of Purple Hearts in the South Pacific. Later he came to Europe and became rail transport officer. Now he's deputy chief of the rail transport section here, and sees that military trains are run by the book. The Berliner gives him an odd job. Since it traverses 100 miles of the Russian Zone of Germany, the Russians take a proprietary interest in it. They keep a close check on the passenger lists. Americans Check Too The Americans keep their own close check, too. From the time the Berliner leaves either end of its run, the train is sealed. Two military policemen, a baggage guard, and a train commander keep things under control. Military personnel, their dependents, high commission employes and some tourists with good connections, can obtain orders to ride the Berliner. The Berliner's big stop is at Helmstedt-Marienborn, where the Russian Zone begins. There the train commander drops off with an interpreter and hands over a copy of the passenger list to a stolid Russian officer. Lt. Ronald D. Smith of Lakotah, N.D., is one train commander who can give and take with the Russians. At Helmstedt the Communist loudspeakers often play American jazz records, heavily larded with anti-American propaganda speeches. "I just stroll down the platform and listen," Lt. Smith says. "This always makes the Russians nervous. They figure I ought to get mad at speeches calling us war mongers. I pretend I like the music and it really throws those guys." Loy Politeness The Russians treat the American military crew with icy politeness and for more than a year have not made any trouble. Some times Russian military police talk to their U.S. opposite numbers. Most annoyances riding the Berliner come from inside the train. Maj. Woerple and his men some times have trouble with the Saturday night fustiger who sneaks a bottle aboard. Drinking on the Berliner is prohibited. There is also the railroad romantic who finds the rules of sex segregation onerous. He is dealt with summarily. Maj. Woerple and his assistants are like the skipper of a liner at sea—they are in complete charge and, if necessary, can tell a general what not to do. WEEDING RESTORES RING NORTHWOOD, N. H. (UP)—Mrs. Anne Hardy found weed-pulling profitable. A year ago she placed a diamond and sapphire ring on a window-sill while cooking. It disappeared. This year, while pulling a ragweed plant from her tomato garden under the window, the ring turned up in the dirt.

Blotated, battered Chinese dead, some left from the initial Bunker Hill fight in mid-July, litter a forward section of the hill where nobody can go and live. Rain and sun have done their work. "It's a smell you can't forget," said Sgt. John Lawson, a forward observer from Brooklyn, "and you can't do anything about it. Maybe we could burn them up with white phosphorus or napalm, but that would stink."

"The suspense was the worst thing about this trip up there," Calvin said. "It was nothing like the first time." "The first time" was when the platoon was cut off for some four hours, surrounded by Chinese, fighting them hand-to-hand. "We weren't shooting them further away than 15 feet," Galvin said. "They'd come in through the dark in columns of six or seven. Some of the ones in back would get through to get into our holes. "When we'd get a chance, we'd drag the Chinese dead nearer to bulldip the parapets of our holes. "Surrounded, you can't take a chance on a wounded enemy at night. Don't know what he's liable to do."

Pfc. Arthur Vega of Mesa, Ariz., walked into the tent and slung some freshly drawn replacement gear on his bunk. Galvin said Vega shot two Chinese off a buddy's back during that fight. Everybody on the hill heard Pfc. Anthony Calderia of Mercedes, Tex., angrily roar "get off." Vega turned to see Calderia trying to shake off two Reds who had come up from behind and jumped on his back. "I couldn't figure out for a second whether to jump into it or shoot 'em off," Vega said. "It didn't take me long to decide. I warned Calderia and ripped across them with a carbine." Calderia, weaponless, then wrestled a carbine from another Red, shot him with it, and went on with the fight. By the time U. N. reinforcements broke through, ten men still were in the fight. They were ringed by 96 Chinese bodies.

Spurned Draft In Czechoslovakia, Answers In U. S.

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (U.P.)—Army Corporal William M. Viscup refused answer his first draft call and got away with it, the Army News Bureau reports. The Little Falls, N.Y. native was ordered in 1947 to report for duty in the army of the Iron Curtain country, Czechoslovakia. Although living with his Czech parents in the Russian satellite nation, Viscup was an American citizen and balked at entering the Czech army. Threatened with deportation, he left for the United States early in 1948. Two years later he received his second draft call. This one, from the United States, he answered. Corp. Viscup now is back in Europe, serving with 32nd Field Artillery Battalion in Germany.

Predicts Wider Primary Voting

PHOENIX, Ariz. (U.P.)—Arizona's secretary of state, Wesley Bolin, offers hope to critics of nomination of presidential candidates by convention. Bolin, recently selected president of the National Association of Secretaries of State, predicted that presidential primaries would be substituted for national nominating conventions before the next presidential election in 1956. "I think we will be able to get it organized next year and have it ready for a vote of the people in the next general election," he said.

Personal To Women With Nagging Backache. Nagging backache, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness may be due to slow-down of kidney function. Doctors say good kidney function is very important to good health. When some everyday condition, such as stress and strain, causes this important function to slow down, many folks suffer nagging backache—feel miserable. Minor bladder irritations due to cold or wrong diet may cause getting up at night or frequent passages. Don't neglect your kidneys if these conditions bother you. Try Doan's Pills—a mild diuretic. # Stocks And Market Reports

NEW YORK (UP)—Stocks moved irregularly around mid-session today in moderately active dealings. High-priced oil issues and a few railroad shares, however, managed to move out of the narrow range. A few stocks in these groups registered good gains. Elsewhere, price movements were very small either way.

Allegheny preferred registered one of the widest gains. It jumped 4 points to a new high of 109 1/2 on news that the company is planning to give the senior shareholders an opportunity to acquire common stock at fixed prices.

Amerada Petroleum stole the spotlight in the high-priced group. It jumped 2 1/2 points to 197 1/2. Texas Pacific Land Trust rose more than a point and Shamrock Oil at 39 7/8 was up a point.

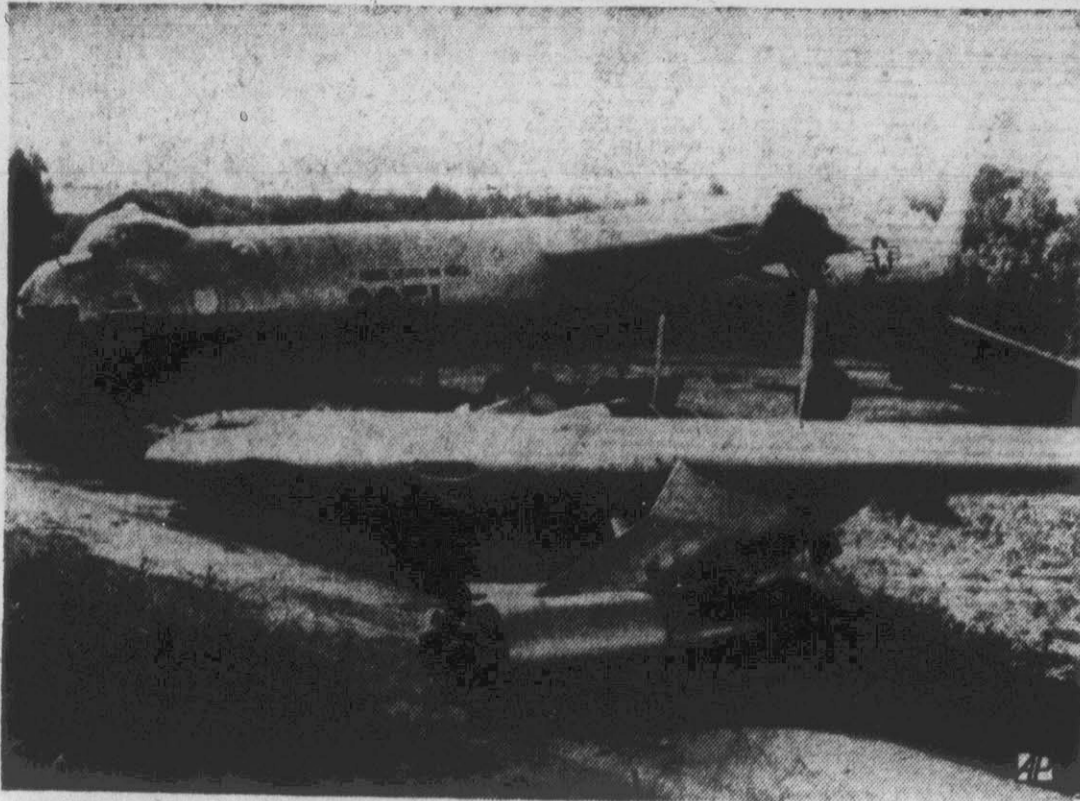

Seaboard Air Line jumped 1 1/4 points to 102 3/4 in the carriers. Denver & Rio Grande preferred at 89 1/4 was up 2 points.

Steel shares were quiet and virtually unchanged. Automotives moved irregularly. Utilities were neglected.

Scout Round-Up Date Is Changed

The Boy Scout Fall Roundup for scouts in Pitt County has been set for September 19, instead of September 5 as previously scheduled. The scouts will gather at Elm Street Park at 4:30 on the afternoon of September 5 for scouting events in which all patrols may participate. Three prizes will be offered to the patrols accumulating the most points in the events. Following the afternoon events, a watermelon cutting will be held at 5:30. Sherman Parks, camping and activities chairman for the Pitt Boy Scout District, said between 75 and 100 boys in the county are expected to take part in the Fall roundup and that all scouts in the county are invited.

The roundup is being staged by the Pitt District Committee of Boy Scouts.

WINGS CLIPPED BY TWISTER—This B-36 was pushed approximately a quarter of a mile by high winds when a freak twister hit the Carswell Air Force Base at Ft. Worth, Tex., causing damage unofficially estimated at in excess of $10,000,000. The plane shown, plunged down an embankment, breaking off a wing and the tail section. Several of the $3,500,000 intercontinental bombers were badly damaged when a holiday skeleton crew was unable to cope with the sudden storm. (AP Wirephoto).

RALEIGH (AP)—NCDA — Hog prices steady to 50 cents lower. Tops of $20.50 at Hillsboro; $20 at Jacksonville, Windsor, Tarboro, Hamilton, Whiteville, Rocky Mount, Lumberton and Fayetteville; $19.75 at Beaufort, Kenly and Kinston; $19.50 at Mt. Olive, Warsaw, Dunn, Wilson, New Bern, Goldsboro, Burgaw, Clarkton, Washington, Siler City, Benson, Wilmington, Elizabethtown, Smithfield, Clinton, Rich Square and Woodin; $20 at Richmond.

Beetle Is Sought To Fight Pests

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP)—The Vedalia beetle is one insect that is wanted almost the world over. Recently the University of California Citrus Experiment Station here airmailed 50 of the live beetles to the Samoan Islands to fight a citrus tree pest known as cottony cushion scale. After the beetles, one-eight of an inch long, were introduced into citrus groves here in 1888 the cottony cushion scale was completely controlled, reports Curtis P. Clausen, chairman of the Division of Biological Control. "There has been no trouble since 1888, except in recent years following application of DDT and other new organic insecticides for control of other pests," reported Clausen. "Use of these insecticides destroys the beetles and thus permits the scale to increase to destructive levels."

Scientists here said that since 1880 the Vedalia beetle has been distributed to 65 different countries and geographical areas of the world to fight the destructive scale.

Long Docket Wednesday Is Heard In Police Court

By CHESTER WALSH

Three cases in which defendants were charged with driving while drunk were called in Police Court yesterday. Two of them were tried and one was sent up for jury trial.

Willie Daniels, Negro, was given 60 days on the roads, sentence suspended on payment of $100 and costs and his driver's license was ordered revoked for a year.

Junior Sasser, Negro, three months on the roads, sentence suspended on payment of $100 and costs and his driver's license was ordered revoked for a year.

James L. Daniel, Negro, requested a jury trial and his case was sent up to Superior Court.

Sam Greene, Negro, paid $25 and costs for not having a driver's license.

Jesse A. Hardy paid $15 for speeding.

Richard Joyner, Negro, hit and run, 30 days in jail, suspended on payment of $15. The judgment provides that he is not to drive a motor vehicle for six months. Joyner was also charged with damaging a city fire hydrant. Judge Charles H. Whedbee gave him 30 days in this case, sentenced to be suspended on payment of damage.

George A. Clark was found not guilty of careless driving. Lloyd Mayo of a rural point swore out the warrant against Clark.

Richard Joyner, Negro, careless and reckless driving, 30 days in jail. In another case in which he was found guilty of driving without an operator's license, the court fined him $25 and costs. Joyner gave notice of appeal.

Clifford J. Hetterich, speeding, $20, costs deducted.

Ernest Daniel, Negro, charged with possession of non-tax-paid whiskey and being drunk, requested jury trial and the cases were transferred to Superior Court.

Willie Daniels, Negro, possession and transporting non-tax paid whiskey, 30 days in jail, sentence suspended on payment of $50, costs deducted. The court ordered Daniels' car confiscated and sold, according to law. The judgment provides that Daniels is to remain of good behavior and not violate any criminal law for a year.

Oren Tyson, Negro, careless and reckless driving, was found guilty of driving to the left of center of the highway. The court gave him 30 days in jail, suspended on payment of $15, and he is not to violate any motor vehicle law for six months.

Roscoe Perkins, Negro, was fined $15 for driving to the left of center of the highway. The court fined him $25, costs deducted, for not having a driver's license.

James M. Hopkins, Negro, was found guilty of driving to the left of center of the highways and fined $15.

Henry C. Evans paid $10 for following too closely and was ordered to make restitution for property damage.

William E. Barnes, Negro, was fined $25 and costs for not having an operator's license. The court did not press the case charging Barnes with improper registration.

Fountain O'Neal, careless and reckless driving, 90 days on the roads, sentence suspended on payment of $25 and costs. The judgment also provides that he is to pay $335 for property damage and the medical expenses of Mrs. H. A. Hudson. Also O'Neal is to pay $83 for damage to Ed Smith's car. The court recommended that O'Neal's driver's license be revoked for a year. The defendant gave notice of appeal.

Foreign Policy Is Next Target Of Criticism By Ike

NEW YORK (UP)—Dwight D. Eisenhower scheduled today a fighting criticism of Truman administration foreign policy which he recently served as a soldier-statesman overseas.

Foreign policy was the subject of a major speech to be made in Philadelphia tonight by the Republican presidential nominee who, until June 1, was commander of European defense forces with important diplomatic, as well as military, duties.

An aide said it would be stronger than the retired general's speech last week to the American Legion convention in which he advocated that the United States use its influence to help Soviet satellites with the administration's "containment" policy on communism.

The Legion speech provoked a warning from Democratic candidate Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson, in a Labor Day speech, against "loose talk" to win votes and a charge of "warmonger" from Moscow.

Some Eisenhower supporters expressed fears that he might be raising false hopes among voters whose ancestral homes are under Soviet domination and give the impression abroad that, if elected, he would take some action that would touch off war.

Eisenhower was expected to clarify his stand tonight.

He touched briefly on one phase of the subject—American leadership toward peace—a speech yesterday at Little Rock, Ark.

"It is high time the world made a fresh start toward this goal," he said. "We know that peace is not produced solely by bullets and guns and ships and regiments and planes."

"We know that threats themselves are not the way to peace."

"We must make certain that all the world, our friends—above all, ourselves—and those who may be hostile to us understand the sincerity of our desire for peace, that we are basing our whole appeal on grounds of decency and justice for all."

The Philadelphia speech was billed as the "formal opening" of Eisenhower's presidential campaign.

Ahead of it, however, was a two-day airplane hop to six Southern cities, from which he retired last night and during which he got a heartwarming welcome in such traditionally Democratic strongholds as Georgia, Florida, Alabama and Arkansas.

Stevenson Not To Open Drive At Scott's Farm

RALEIGH (AP)—Gov. Adlai Stevenson has expressed regrets at being unable to open his Democratic campaign at Gov. Scott's Haw River farm, but hopes he can bring his campaign into North Carolina.

This was reported yesterday by William W. Stalon, president of the State Young Democratic Clubs. Stalon said he received a wire from Richard J. Nelson, administrative assistant to Stevenson and also his assistant campaign manager.

Nelson stated that the "late date of the Democratic national convention and the lack of pre-convention organization" made it impractical for Stevenson to accept the YDC invitation to open his campaign at a huge Tar Heel rally at Scott's farm.

Education Board Sets Budget For Next Biennium

RALEIGH (AP)—The State Board of Education decided today how much money it will ask to operate the public schools for the next biennium. The board did not make its figures public but it undoubtedly is much higher than spending this biennium.

The board in all likelihood is requesting a boost in teachers' salaries which now range from $2,200 to $3,100 a year for those with A certificates. Some observers believe the board will ask for an A certificate scale of $2,400 to $3,600.

The board's requests will be made public on Sept. 29, when they are presented to the Advisory Budget Commission which will draft recommendations to the 1953 Legislature.

Winterville Has Big Enrollment

WINTERVILLE—The Winterville schools opened for the 1952-1953 year on Tuesday, August 25. More students are enrolled than ever before in the history of the schools.

When the doors opened on the first day, there was an enrollment of approximately 700 students ready to begin a new year's work.

The high school department gained 40 pupils from Bell Arthur as a result of the state's consolidation program.

The commercial department, which has in the past 10 years been on a part-time basis with R. E. Boyd as teacher, has now become a full time one. Miss Marie Brown of Bear Grass, a graduate of East Carolina College, has been employed as the commercial teacher.

Another new teacher, employed by local funds, is Marion L. Collier of Greenville. He will teach an eighth grade section. Miss Peggy Evans of Greenville, another new teacher in the system for this year, will teach in the grammar grades, replacing Mrs. Fred Gregor, who has moved with her husband to Raleigh.

No Arrests In Auto Collision

Two cars collided at Five Points yesterday morning about 9 o'clock. The investigating officer said a car driven by Lewis Best, Negro, Greenville, Route 5, coming out of Dickinson avenue, collided with the side of a car driven by Mrs. Betty M. Gordon, 306 East 13th street, who was traveling north on Evans street. None of the occupants was injured and there was no arrest.

The Monday storm at Carswell struck suddenly out of the south.

The 100-mile wind and rainstorm demolished one B-36, badly damaged "several others" and did "minor damage" to 26 more. In addition, every other B-36 on the base—the total number is classified information—will have to undergo long and exhaustive tests.

The SAC said the freak storm was an "act of God" which could not be forecast.

Funeral Is Held For R. L. O'Neal Infant

Jackie Lee O'Neal, seven weeks old son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lee O'Neal of Greenville, died at his home Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock.

Funeral services were conducted at the home, 807 Harris Street, Thursday afternoon at five o'clock by the Rev. Paul H. Black, Holiness minister of Greenville. Burial was in Greenwood Cemetery.

Surviving are his parents; maternal grandmother, Mrs. Elizabeth Spahn of Greenville; and the paternal grandparents, M-Sgt. J. B. O'Neal of the U. S. Army, and Mrs. Ruth O'Neal of Greenville.

No Promotion In Sight For Trio's Piano Player

LOS ANGELES (UP)—Singer Patty Andrews of the Andrews Sisters says her husband is only the trio's pianist and even that job isn't permanent.

Testifying at a court fight between her husband, Melvin Weschler, and his ex-wife, the singer said yesterday that her husband made $300 weekly accompanying the trio.

"But don't you intend to promote him," asked an attorney for Sue Allen, Weschler's former wife who sought to boost his child support payments from $200 to $415.15 monthly because she claimed he now earned $500 a week.

The singer said no promotion was in store for her husband.

"How," she asked, "can you promote a piano player?"

The judge denied requested boost in support payments.

Calls No Inquest In Man's Death

Booker T. Beard, 25-year-old Negro of Kinston, was found dead in the bathroom at the home of Malachi Rouse, 1202 Clark street, yesterday afternoon.

Pitt County Coroner Griffin H. Rouse said Beard had been visiting in the home several days and had been ill.

Rouse said the man died of a heart attack, and there will be no inquest. There was evidence that the man had been drinking heavily, the coroner stated.
