Dean Addresses Diverse Groups

Dean Lee W. Jenkins of East Carolina College addressed two eastern North Carolina groups this week. He spoke Wednesday night at a meeting of Pitt County teachers in Pictouls, and Thursday night he was principal speaker at a dinner meeting held by Methodist men in Kinston.

Teachers should not have an inferiority complex about their profession, Dean Jenkins told the Pitt County group. They should, rather, feel proud of the work they do and the services they render the public.

Attacks on the schools should be met by teachers in two ways, he advised. Justifiable criticism should be accepted, and faults should first be acknowledged and then corrected. Against baseless attacks, he stated, educators should come to the defense of the schools and of their own work and should endeavor to interpret modern education to the public so as to create better understanding.

Speaking in Kinston, Dean Jenkins took as his theme the fact that people find it easy in their daily lives to reverse the teachings of Christ. He enforced his remarks with a number of concrete examples showing the tendency to live by other than Christian standards.

A large volunteer choir under the direction of Mrs. H. L. Carter will sing as a special number at the Christian Church Sunday morning, "Be Still My Soul" by Sibelius and after the communion service which is always interdenominational the pastor will preach on the plea of the Master in the model prayer, "Give Us This Day Our Daily Bread."

The Miriam B. Ryan Sunday School class (ladies) will meet on Wednesday night at 8 at the home of Mrs. J. R. Gowans, 2604 East 4th St., Mrs. J. F. Carr and Mrs. D. H. Conley serving as assistant hostesses.

The officers of the Christian Youth Fellowship will be formally installed in an impressive service Sunday evening at 6:30 at the church. The officers of the youth fellowship this year are: Miss Studie May Spain, president; Kenneth McArthur, vice-president; Agnes Markham, secretary, and Ray Evans, treasurer. Miss Louise Morris is youth director.

Third Street P.T.A. Attends School Class

The P.T.A. of the Third Street School held its first meeting of the new school year on Wednesday, September 17, with the new president, Mrs. Arthur Andrews, presiding.

Mrs. Robert Tunnelle led the devotional, closing with a prayer and the reading in-unison of a pledge for parents in the education of their children.

Mrs. Andrews introduced the faculty and officers and welcomed new members, whose names were read out. All members were reminded of the objectives of the organization. The president announced that a District P.T.A. meeting would be held in Jacksonville on October 9 and asked for volunteers to attend.

Mrs. Blue's fifth grade won the attendance prize. During the business session it was decided that the P.T.A. will hold their annual Halloween Festival on the night of October 31, Halloween night. The members also voted to have at least half their meetings this year at night. The afternoon meetings will be held on the third Wednesday afternoon and the night meetings on the third Thursday nights of the month. Names of committee chairmen were read by the president.

After the business meeting was adjourned, parents were invited to visit the rooms where their children are students. The teachers had arranged a typical day's schedule of activities so that the parents could get an idea of what the children were accomplishing at school. Some of the classes afforded much merriment as the mothers were given tests and lessons and were asked to respond as the children do. The "demonstration" proved interesting and helpful to the parents and all declared that it helped to know what their children were doing during the school day and how their work was carried out.

Third Wife Of Marshal Tito At Reception

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (UP)— Premier Marshall Tito's third wife—a 28-year-old Yugoslav Army major—made her first public appearance at a reception for British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden last night.

Mrs. Tito appeared amused by the curiosity she aroused among the hundreds of distinguished Yugoslav and foreign guests at Tito's White Palace here.

She smiled frequently and chatted freely as she and her husband welcomed their guests and moved from group to group. Her dark red evening dress contrasted with her jet black hair, combed tightly against her head.

Although the 60-year-old Tito married the former woman soldier in his World War II Partisan Army last June, the marriage became known only when invitations for the reception to Eden were distributed.

PITT — SUNDAY and MONDAY!

Gary Cooper is starred in the high voltage suspense-filled western, "High Noon."

Nematode Control Will Be Demonstrated Monday

A demonstration of nematode control in tobacco plantbeds will be held on the P. M. Moore farm near Bruce Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

County Tobacco Specialist Sam J. Weeks announced this morning that Howard R. Garris, extension plant pathologist at N.C. State College, will be present to show treatment of tobacco plantbeds with various chemicals.

Infest Fields
"We are aware in this county that plantbeds infested with nematodes will infest fields where plants and set — even if fumigation practices have been carefully followed there," Weeks stated.

"Nematode control in tobacco plantbeds is especially important in cases where seed beds are put in open fields that have been cultivated before."

Three chemicals to be demonstrated recommended for nematode control on seed beds are: 1. methyl bromide; 2. dichloropropene-dichloropropane; and 3. ethylene dibromide.

Weeks said all farmers and interested citizens are "urged to attend the constructive meeting."

Bruce is located approximately three miles east of Falkland.

Had No Room For Emergency

CHICAGO (UP) — Allen Schmitt has sued the Chicago Transit Authority for $25,000 damages for failing to provide him with enough room to change his pants when they caught fire on one of the line's buses.

"Over and above his being burned so badly," Schmitt's lawyer told the court, "my client suffered a tremendous amount of humiliation from the very fact he had to remove his pants in a public conveyance."

Democrats For McCarthy Work For His Election

MILWAUKEE (UP) — "Democrats for McCarthy" was formed here today by a group of Wisconsin Democrats desiring to support Sen. Joseph McCarthy in bid for reelection as a Republican senator.

The group elected William Callahan of Milwaukee as chairman and John Zimmerman, Milwaukee, vice chairman.

"We, as Democrats who put our government above party," Callahan said, "think that Joseph McCarthy should be re-elected so that he can continue his unrelenting campaign against Communists."

McCarthy was overwhelmingly re-nominated in the Wisconsin primary last week, polling some 100,000 more votes than the total of his Republican opponents and Democratic candidates.

LOOKED REAL

DERBY, Conn. (UP) — Horrified passengers on a train saw what they thought was the disembodied body of a woman lying along the tracks. At the next station, the conductor called police. The "woman," a discarded mannikin, was carted off to the town dump.

NOT TOO OLD TO VOTE

LEOMINSTER, Mass. (UP) — At 91, Mrs. Marie Girovard will vote for the first time in November. A native of Canada, she has 13 children, 29 grandchildren and 28 great-grandchildren.

Tells Of Beatings In Murder Trial

ELIZABETHTOWN (UP) — The court record was crammed with testimony about quarrels and violence as the trial of Mrs. Ella P. Meshaw, 52, on a first degree murder charge in the death of her husband moved into its fourth day here.

The Council postmistress and Sunday school teacher testified yesterday that her life with John Sherman Meshaw was filled with repeated brutal attacks upon her, and threats against her life.

She said on the night of the shooting last Nov. 17 her husband awakened her by yanking her out of bed by the feet. She said he cursed her, hit her with a belt and threatened to kill her.

She grabbed her shotgun from a corner of the room and loaded it with a shell from a bureau drawer, she testified. She said he chased her with his loaded automatic shotgun, and she fired only after he pointed it at her.

Judge Chester Morris denied a defense motion for nonsuit as to the indictment for first degree murder. Attorney Luther Britt argued that the state failed to show any premeditation.

Three From Pitt At Oak Ridge

Three Pitt County youths were among the young men who participated in the inauguration of the 101st academic year at Oak Ridge Military Institute last week.

The boys were: Cadet Jasse Paul Davenport III, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Paul Davenport Jr., of Pactolus; Lloyd Allen Elks, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Elks of Grimesland, and Sammie Rayfield Hodges, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Hodges of Grimesland.

Rags-To-Riches Success Story Is Near New Climax

CHICAGO (UP) — A once obscure Chicago salesman climbed one more rung of the ladder in a "rags to riches" success story today when he announced a syndicate he heads will purchase Howard Hughes' interests in RKO Pictures, Inc., for $7,350,000.

A spokesman said the sale papers were to be signed in Los Angeles soon by the syndicate headed by Ralph E. Stolkin, 33-year-old Chicago entrepreneur who parlayed a $15,000 loan after the war into a multi-million-dollar business.

The sale includes 1,050,000 shares of RKO stock, approximately 30 per cent of the outstanding stock in the motion picture studio.

Hughes, industrialist-movie maker who brought such stars as Jean Harlow and Jane Russell to the screen, would relinquish all interest in the studio under the terms of the sale.

Hughes would step down as chairman of the board, a position expected to be filled by Stolkin, the spokesman said.

Stolkin is president of Empire Industries in Chicago. It was in their mail order business that Stolkin made over $1,000,000 in two years after he quit his job as a moderately-paid bond salesman.

Much of his early success with Empire was through the distribution of ball-point pens.

He is vice president of National Video Corp., manufacturers of television tubes, and holds large oil, gas and ranching interests in Texas, the spokesman said.

Stolkin's associates in the RKO transaction are Edward Burk and Robert Hayes, both of San Antonio, Tex., and Ray Ryan, San Antonio and Evansville, Ind.

The studio will resume production as a result of the sale, the spokesman said. The new group plans on enlisting leading administrative ability and player talent.

Eskimo Frowns On Civilization

VANCOUVER, B. C. (UP) — Nasook, 29, an Eskimo, said today he had had enough of civilization after a 24-hour tour here and wanted to return to his home deep inside the Arctic Circle.

Nasook was hired to act as a caretaker for the Hudson Bay Co. Arctic supply ship Fort Hearne here. "I'd rather be trapped by the ice than by all these people," Nasook said.

Global Unrest Upsets Mediums

London (UP) — The Psy News, a British publication of spiritualism, complained today that world conditions are making very hard for spiritualists to contact the departed.

"It is impossible to expect mediums to be at their best in the present conditions of the world... the hate and suspicion that are present everywhere," the publication said.

Strength for the Day

WHAT DO YOU STAND FOR?
Reading the history of the early days of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, one is surprised at the number of times that a lone, scarlet-coated constable, single-handed, was able to corral a hundred hostile Indians or arrest a band of violent outlaws. Almost from the beginning, the spirit and accomplishments of the force tended to invest the person of each constable with an inviolable authority. Indians, Eskimos, settlers all knew that no canoe nor dog sled could carry them beyond the reach of the law of the Mounted Police, however far into the wilderness they might flee.

The uniform which symbolizes the power of a mighty organization is a common sight. The policeman stands unarméd amid the rush of thousands of cars and trucks, and directs them at will. The command of a single army officer is obeyed by hundreds and perhaps thousands of soldiers. In all such situations, the power of the man comes not from himself alone, but from what he stands for.

Almost the only way, in fact, that tiny man becomes significant in the huge world around him is by standing for something bigger than himself. And the biggest, most permanent, most worthwhile organization is open to all—the Christian Church. Look through the great names in history and see how many of the greatest owe their stature to their Christianity.

Also Try In Their Own Back Yard

With the nation's draft manpower pool dropping to the dangerously low point Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey says it is, it's time for draft officials to consider some sources of manpower they so far have pushed far into the background.

Since the days of World War II, the selective service has lowered the physical requirements for draft eligibility, but it is apparent there is yet room for a more liberal policy in this category to make more men within the specified age limits eligible for duty with the armed services.

As diversified as work in the armed forces now is, there are a great many jobs which could be filled by individuals who are now considered 4-F by selective service qualifications for either physical or mental reasons. There are many office jobs and other chores required to keep the military moving which are no more strenuous than jobs the average man holds in civilian life. Surely there are young men now in selective service 4-F classifications who are making a livelihood at jobs more taxing than some which the military has for its men.

The Reflector has and still does stand by its position that young men who are deferred from the draft because they are in college should be called for active duty before fathers within the same age group are called. There is a great store of manpower in this group of young men who have been deferred by local draft boards because they are attending school.

In addition to looking for new sources of manpower through selective service, the military might look within its own ranks for a great manpower pool which is lying idle that could be used to great advantage. In the military—as in other agencies of the government—there is a great deal of duplication, inefficiency and just plain waste when it comes to the utilization of manpower. Were the military to inaugurate a more efficient program for the utilization of the manpower it already has, the critical condition of which Hershey has spoken could at least partially be alleviated.

South America's Creeping Paralysis

The creeping paralysis on the voice of a free press in the Western Hemisphere could, in the course of a few years, have a drastic effect upon the life and relationships of the Pan-American countries.

In Argentina, Iron Man Peron has long since silenced the free press, and allowed to exist only those newspapers which support editorially the policies and philosophies of the government he dictates. Now in Colombia the government has ordered all newspapers to submit to censorship by federal authorities all editorials dealing with political matters. That, in the final analysis, is making newspapers the mouthpieces of the government and silencing the public voice of opposition to any act the government may make.

Whether the creeping paralysis will spread to other Latin American nations is yet to be seen, but it is by no means improbable. Even in the United States in the past several years there have been attempts by a number of government officials to shut off from newspapers and the people information on government activities in various departments to which the general public should have free and open access.

If the free press disappears country by country in Latin America, government control on information available to the people and the thinking of our American neighbors to the South could have a devastating effect upon Pan American relationships and the peace and security of the Western Hemisphere.

National Whirligig

WASHINGTON—President Truman and Governor Stevenson have postponed any decision on the embarrassing question of whether Secretary Dean Acheson shall be permitted to participate in the presidential campaign. This state of suspended political animation is, perhaps, the most awkward position ever occupied by the dignified, urbane Maryland squire.

While future developments may determine the answer, the candidate's advisers believe it would be inadvisable for Acheson to play any prominent part, although Stevenson defends his foreign policy.

The mere appearance of the Secretary of State would exhumate several inconvenient ghosts. Indeed, GOP strategists are praying that the Cabinet member will step out of his diplomatic shell.

The issues which Achesonian participation would raise concern such loaded questions as the Alger Hiss episode and Communists in government generally, and the Administration's alleged indifference to the loss of China to the Reds.

ALARMED—Although Stevenson's philosophical dissertation on the Far Eastern problem is generally commended by Asiatic students and historians—it did not differ in essentials from General MacArthur's analysis—it alarmed Democratic politicians because it seemed to envisage a do-nothing attitude, save for the "police action" in Korea.

It corresponds in many respects to Acheson's explanation of the Administration's attitude toward the tragic aftermath of Mao Tse-tung's seizure of power. "We shall wait until the dust settles," remarked Dean. Unfortunately for him, it was "red dust" that descended over China.

There was also his unhappy National Press Club address in which he proclaimed that the United States had no military interest in Korea. Six months after this invitation, North Korean Communist forces invaded.

ISSUE—Governor Stevenson has disposed rather effectively of attempts to besmirch him because of his deposition on behalf of Hiss' character and integrity. In response to a court request, he simply reported on the convicted perjurer's general reputation. Only extreme partisans insist on holding it against the Democratic nominee.

But the Republicans could hardly resist revival of this issue, if Hiss' former friend and superior took the stump. They would recall Acheson's unfortunate remark that "I will never turn my back on Alger Hiss," as well as Truman's original characterization of the Hiss investigation as a "red herring."

Senator McCarthy's astonishing victory in the Wisconsin primary suggests that it would be wise to keep the lordly Dean in political hiding.

UNDEPENDABLE—Secretary Acheson, obviously, is not a politically minded individual, or especially felicitous in his use of language, although he prides himself on his verbal talents. It is a praiseworthy trait except in a hard political campaign. He would be undependable on the stump.

Moreover, Acheson has recently engaged in several non-publicized activities which will not endear him to Congress or to normally heavy contributors to the Democrats' campaign fund. It did not occur to him that he would embarrass the party in the midst of its struggle to retain control of the White House.

AGREEMENT—With Great Britain and France, the Administration has concluded an agreement under which the $3,000,000,000 this government advanced for post-war, German restoration, will be subordinated to payment of the $2,000,000,000 of private debt incurred by Berlin in pre-Hitler days.

These earlier obligations were underwritten by New York and Boston financial houses. A Congressional investigation in 1931 showed tremendous profits to the bankers on these frozen loans and defaulted advances to many South American countries.

Senator Gillette, Iowa Democrat, has denounced this agreement as a "swindle on the taxpayers" because of its provision that Treasury money shall remain unpaid for many years—it may never be liquidated—while the private interests are taken care of. Gillette thought he had a pledge from Acheson that any settlement would be submitted to Congress.

Now, Acheson has agreed, according to final pact terms, that "legislation is not essential to the successful functioning of the Settlement Plan." Congress will again be by-passed on a major question as it was when the White House embarked on the Korean "police action."

BLOW—The nation's biggest oil operators, who usually give generously to national and senatorial candidates, are on the warpath—again. Although complying with State's requirements in their overseas operations, they have been indicted for alleged monopolistic practices by Justice. But Dean, supposedly their friend, has hit them a hard blow.

The larger firms have refused to handle Iranian oil at Acheson's request so as to reinforce the Anglo-American boycott, taking a chance on losing this production. But apparently with State's sanction, W. Alton Jones of Cities Service has been given access to Mossadegh. Jones wants to buy and market 100,000 barrels a day, if he can buy at a low figure.

Instead of forcing him to subscribe to the hands-off program, especially as Cities Service has never operated in the foreign field, Acheson has facilitated Jones' progress. It looks like favoritism to prospective party contributors.

Selected Short

I'm not much good at politics. I'll have to learn a lot about that in the next few months.—Democratic presidential candidate Adlai Stevenson.

I believe their (women's) hearts and minds turn in the direction of peace, fairness and justice in the world, and on the conditions under which a permanent peace can be established.—GOP presidential nominee Dwight D. Eisenhower.

I want him (Sen Joseph McCarthy) face to face in a debate which will expose and show up once and for all the fraud and deceit he has practiced on the fine people of Wisconsin and the nation.—Former Sen. Millard Tydings of Maryland.

We are building a "peace force" with no D-Day to mark a possible termination point.—Air Secretary Thomas K. Finletter.

I think that women might feel one of the biggest issues is the security of the family. The fact that Eisenhower has such a happy family will be an asset.—GOP adviser Mrs. Charles P. Howard.

What's This?

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

Oh where, Oh where Are the gnats coming from? Before I am completely eaten up I would like to know why we have had such an influx of gnats this summer. It has been reported that the gnats were so annoying at the Country Club Saturday afternoon that the golfers could hardly hit a ball. That statement is proof enough that the gnats have become unbearable. If you know a golfer you realize that it's never too hot at the Club, it never rains some will admit that it sprinkles, it never snows, the weather never gets too cold and I doubt if it will ever get too gnatty. When the golfers are affected by them, you know it's rough.

In order to explain the increased number this year over other years I called the educators of Greenville last night for their opinion.

Botany Professor Harold C. Jones of East Carolina College is on the brink of an investigation of the situation and is withholding a statement until his research is complete. Coincidentally, Mrs. P. W. Picklesimer of the Greenville high school faculty is interested in finding out the reason.

In the meantime, both agreed that the extremely hot summer had contributed to the breeding period of all insects. Furthermore, when the rains finally came after the prolonged dry spell they were sufficient to create breeding places for gnats, which breed in water.

Mrs. Picklesimer is of the opinion that the gnats that are annoying us are the Hippelates Flavipes, most commonly found in Florida. It is this species, she says, that causes sore eyes in animals and humans.

Others have said that the mildness of last winter contributed to the number of insects this summer. Mrs. Picklesimer said, "If we don't have a cold winter we can expect a terrific influx next summer."

Everybody seems to agree on one fact: Never before in their lives have they been so annoyed by any insect as they have by the gnats this summer. If some person who has made a study of this problem can supply me with their findings I would certainly appreciate the opportunity to print them. If I have to be eaten alive by the varmints I would like to know why so many of them are here.

And I'll thank you.

Around Capitol Square

ELECTION—Less than seven weeks remain before the general election on November 4. Those seven weeks are more important than all the years which have gone before with respect to determining election results. The campaign is more advanced on national level than in this state, but even so predictions are based more on wishful thinking than on factual developments.

NATIONAL—There are serious rifts and divisions in both parties. Unlike some previous occasions of divergent thinking, there are only two candidates for President with prospect of receiving an electoral vote.

STATE—Only the names of Eisenhower heading the Republican ticket and Stevenson heading the Democratic will appear on ballots provided for North Carolina voters. There is no serious doubt about the effectual result of the voting. The question is almost wholly one of the size of the majority to be given the Democratic ticket. That is true also with respect to Governor, other State officials and control of the General Assembly. The most optimistic Republicans have no real hope of electing a State official, and not much hope of greatly increasing their minority. They do cherish the hope, which is shared by some dissident Democrats, that they may be able to deliver the Presidential electoral vote to Eisenhower. Analysis of recent presidential votes in North Carolina affords slim basis for that hope. At the same time, it affords little comfort to Democrats who think the situation is under control without necessity for further effort.

VOTES—Fact is that since 1936 the Democratic vote in North Carolina has steadily declined. It dropped successively from 614,151 in 1936 to 608,018 in 1940; to 527,399 in 1944 and 458,070 in 1948. Meantime the Republican vote has fluctuated, without showing consistent growth. It was less in 1940 than in 1936; about 50,000 more in 1944 than in 1940; but dropped 4,500 in 1948. Further analysis is necessary to get the true picture.

While the Republicans had fewer votes last time than they did four years before, the regular Democrats had fewer than any since 1928 when they lost. Whether the 73,000 Tarheel votes cast for Thurmond and Wallace were more against Truman or Dewey will always be controversial. The fact that the Democrats dropped 68,000 below the previous total while the Republicans dropped less than 5,000 would seem to support the opinion that most of the Thurmond votes were anti-Truman rather than anti-Dewey or pro-Thurmond. Truman is not on the ballot this time, but no sensible person can deny that Trumanism is a major issue in the current campaign.

WARNING—While the consistent decline in the Democratic vote serves as a warning to the Democrats to get on their toes, comparison of conditions now and in previous election years offers very little comfort to the Eisenhower partisans, whether regular Republicans or dissident Democrats. Remember Wendell Willkie, and all the furor created in North Carolina in 1940, against a third term for Franklin Roosevelt and for a great Messianic leader out of the West? In spite of all the activity by Willkie Democrats in aid of regular Republican efforts, Willkie got 10,000 fewer votes than Landon had received in 1936 and 50,000 less than Dewey got four years later.

PERSONALITIES—The situation is subject to drastic change during the seven weeks remaining for the campaign, but as of now it seems to your reporter that the most widely discussed issues are personal rather than partisan or economic or political.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

OUTDOOR DRAMAS BIG ASSET (Henderson Dispatch)
North Carolina's four outdoor dramas are proving to be tremendous drawing cards for tourists. A large portion of these visitors is made up of North Carolinians but thousands are touring vacationers from other States. They are tremendous assets to the State.

The State Advertising Department, in its final report for the season, says that the four big attractions drew a total attendance of 267,486 for the 1952 summer season. Many people have seen all four of them, and some have seen one or more of the group more than once.

Newsiness may be a factor in records established by the several groups. The two newest, however, were well below one of the others, and Manteo's "Lost Colony" daddy of them all, having run for twelve seasons, was third on the list. "Unto These Hills" at Cherokee had an attendance of 141,800; "Horn in the West" at Boone attracted 53,582; "The Lost Colony" 45,000, and Asheville's "Thunderland," 27,434.

The Asheville drama failed to measure up to expectations, and that fact is being cited as evidence that productions of this type are more successful in small communities than in large cities. Paul Greene's "Faith of Our Fathers," given in the national capital, has never clicked as have those in North Carolina.

Small attendance this summer at "The Lost Colony" is probably due to its long run. The 52nd performance marked the close of the twelfth season. Whatever analysis may be made of the outdoor drama generally, in which North Carolina has pioneered, it is evident that these attractions are exercising a strong pull on tourists. They have an appeal to our own people and those from other sections of the country. All of them have historical significance and are packed with stirring events pertaining to the early days of the republic, and especially this State. They are valuable from both an entertainment and an educational standpoint, to say nothing of the financial consideration, by which is not meant gate receipts but the money spent by visitors otherwise. It is an inspiration to sit in on any or all of them.

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER
In the wake of Washington statements that defense spending may have reached its peak, the Small Defense Plants Administration has published a "management aid" on "How the Small Plant Can Analyze Old and New Markets." It should be useful in organizing the thinking of the plant owner who no longer expects riches from a defense contract.

The bulletin, which is by Robert G. Seymour, acting director, business management service, University of Illinois, does make a minor reference to getting defense work but, in the main, it deals with the problems of getting more business in the civilian market.

It suggests three possibilities: Increasing effectiveness in present markets, seeking new markets for present products, or introducing new products in present or prospective markets. To develop old markets, it suggests:

1. Plan realistic, attainable market goals.
2. Check the effectiveness of marketing activities in terms of desired sales.
3. Locate soft spots in market coverage.
4. Determine specific ways for increasing the effectiveness of a marketing program.
5. Recognize and evaluate short- and long-run changes in the market. To invade new markets, it suggests:

1. Recognize the problems of opening new markets or introducing new products.
2. Set realistic, attainable market goals.
3. Determine which are the most profitable markets to cultivate.
4. Determine the best methods of train sales personnel.
5. Plan the promotional program.

There is a lot more, most in expansion of these ideas. The complete bulletin is available free at field offices of the S.D.P.A. or of the Department of Commerce.

JULY SALES HIGHER, INCLUDING LIQUOR
Retailers sold a total of $847,000,000 more in July than in the same month in 1951, says a Commerce Department report. That represents a gain of 7 per cent — which is pretty good selling in face of the steel strike. The total, however, was less than in June.

The report takes another tug at the rug on which the liquor industry has been standing and sobbing that higher taxes have been murdering sales. Liquor stores did 17 per cent more business in July, 1952, when the federal tax was $10.50 a proof gallon, than they did in July,

1951, when the tax was $9. Perhaps the industry better change its line to "High taxes are driving people to drink."

Another group that has been moaning, and not without cause, also had it good. Furniture stores sold 17 per cent more than a year ago. Grocery store sales were up 10 per cent, probably on account of higher prices.

The biggest bump was suffered by office and store machine and equipment dealers, down 18 per cent from June and the same figure down from July, 1951. The supporting figures, however, came only from chains of 11 or more stores.

MORE MAY BE WORKING WAY THROUGH COLLEGE
A survey by the Wall Street Journal indicates that college tuition fees are higher, up to 25 per cent, this fall.

While this may be tough news to bright young men and their dads, it is not so bad to those businesses which customarily hire students for part-time work in sampling, researching and selling. For several years these firms have been having greater difficulties in lining up men and women working their way through college for the simple reason that there were fewer of them.

Next time a young man asks you to buy something to help him through college he may — may, that is — actually be telling the truth.

LESS DURABLE AUTO TRIM, MEANS MORE COATING SALES
Most National Production Authority orders have meant loss of business. One created a new business that is now racking up sales in the multi-millions.

In January, 1951, the N.P.A. sharply limited the amount of nickel that could be used in autos. Unless nickel underlays the bright chrome trim, it doesn't wear well — as you may have noticed.

About 40 companies jumped in with transparent liquid coating, usually of plastic, to preserve the chrome. The market is fat, since 7,200,000 cars have been registered since then. Since the coating should be replaced twice a year, it's a "biscuits" market. One company (Minnesota Mining & Mfg.) expects a 50 per cent rise in sales this fall and spring.

GOVERNMENT TIPS ON BUILDING ECONOMIES
A guide book on conserving materials in government construction, but with ideas that can be applied to non-federal work, has been published by the government. It is called "A Study of Conservation in Building Construction" and consists of 233 pages, and may be obtained for $3.50 from the Office of Technical Services, D. OF C. Washington 24, D.C.

Hal Boyle's Column

NEW YORK (AP)—President Truman has given new life to the famous legend of how the White House got its first bathtub.

The President's version, as given this week in Philadelphia to the American Hospital Association, was as follows:

"There's a story around the White House that Mrs. Millard Fillmore brought the first bathtub into the White House. There is also a story in connection with it that the local medical association in Cincinnati, Ohio, passed a resolution calling Mrs. Fillmore an indecent person because she had put a bathtub in the White House.

"This medical association in Cincinnati said that it was unsanitary, that it was unhealthy, that no person should take all his clothes off at one time."

The only thing wrong with the story is that it is no more true than the rumor that the moon is made of green cheese.

And the authority for its falseness is no other than the man who originally made it up—H. L. Mencken, the pugnacious sage of Baltimore.

Mencken published his fable about the introduction of the bathtub to America in the New York Evening Mail, Dec. 28, 1917. He later was astonished that his jest had become gravely accepted as historical fact by medical men and standard reference books.

"It had, of course, no truth in it whatsoever," Mencken wrote a few years ago.

This tongue-in-cheek essay now threatens to outlast every serious thing Menck n has written.

He wrote that Adam Thompson a Cincinnati cotton dealer, saw a bathtub on a visit to England, where "its use was yet confined to a small class of enthusiasts. In 1842 he built America's first home bathtub—a lead-lined tub of Nicaragua mahogany seven feet long, four feet wide and weighing 1,750 pounds.

Blandly Mencken wrote that low caste politicians denounced the bathtub as a rich man's toy, medical societies attacked it as a health menace, and some cities passed laws against it.

What has won Mencken's bathtub hoax such acceptance? Perhaps it was the pseudo-scholarly tone of the piece. But it points up the uneasy fact that any nonsense repeated enough times will be accepted by some as gospel.

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS
WASHINGTON—Parties with a purpose—"maybe your community will have one Oct. 24. They are the means the National Citizens Committee for United Nations Day has chosen to reach Americans with more information about U.N. Further, the committee hopes, the idea will spread around the world and that people everywhere will celebrate the U.N.'s seventh birthday anniversary together.

The Committee was set up by the government in 1948 in response to a unanimous resolution of the U.N. General Assembly that the day be observed annually by all member nations.

Although semi-official, with a chairman appointed each year by the Secretary of State, the committee is supported entirely by non-government funds and is comprised of more than 120 organizations. Its aim is to encourage the widest possible cooperative participation of local and state governments and national groups in planning U. N. Day activities.

The U.S. is the only country with such a committee. This year's chairman is Frank L. Well, a New York lawyer.

The committee hopes "Parties with a Purpose," with all participants sending greetings and gifts to peoples in other U.N. countries will be held by the thousands—all kinds from barbecues to balls in backyards, hotels, clubs, community centers, homes, schools, churches and Army camps.

"Through U.N. birthday parties with a purpose," Mr. Well says, "it is hoped to reach many more citizens with information about the United Nations and its new idea that each party shall have as a main purpose the sending of U.N. birthday gifts and greetings world wide.

"Our hope is that this new idea will grow and spread around the world until all member countries are using the U.N.'s birthday as a day to exchange greetings and gifts with friends abroad. We believe that through each U.N. Day exchanges, popular attention can be focused on the U.N. and U.N. support can be rallied by stimulating the essential goodwill among people of the world."

The NCC has asked governors and mayors to appoint committees to put over the parties. CARE—Co-operative for American Remittances to Europe—is co-operating with Special U.N. Day gift packages which may be sent overseas for $5. Scads of information on how to plan and give parties may be secured from the National Citizens' Committee for United Nations Day, 816—21 st St. N.W., Washington 6, D.C.

Airplane Wings Of Magnesium

HAWTHORNE, Calif. (U.P.)—Progress in a closely guarded research project sponsored by the U.S. Air Force to produce cast magnesium aircraft wings was revealed here by John K. Northrop, president of Northrop Aircraft, Inc.

A 16-foot long aircraft wing which adheres to exacting tolerances already has been cast from magnesium. Northrop said. It is believed to be the largest cast airplane surface ever produced.

The wing casting project is held to be extremely important, he said, since it promises great benefits to the nation's defense production program.

It is believed cast wings can be produced much more rapidly and economically than conventional wings fabricated by attaching aluminum skins to spars and ribs by riveting and spot welding.

Use of magnesium rather than aluminum for castings also has great strategic value, Northrop stated, since the supply of magnesium, produced from sea water is almost inexhaustible.

Seven-Year-Old Safe Robber Is Found In Movie

HERRIN, Ill. (AP)—This Southern Illinois city had a 7-year-old safe robber on its hands recently. Police Chief Blaine Maddox gave this account: A small boy took a seat in a shoe store. Clerks figured he was waiting for his mother and ignored him. He went to the store's opened safe, took $317 and walked out unchallenged.

He bought a wrist watch and a wallet, tried to give money away on Park Avenue and went to a movie where he fished some $20s. Police, acting on a tip, made a hectic search of the movie house, finally finding the boy under a seat.

The shoe store did not note its loss until the day's end. The chief recovered $308 and called juvenile authorities to take over.

Probe Burning Of Small Cross In New York

NEW YORK (UP)— Detectives investigated today the burning of a small wooden cross in a "mixed" neighborhood where Brooklyn baseball stars Jackie Robinson and Roy Campanella live.

The cross was lighted about 50 feet from the 12-room $40,000 home of Robert Fitzpatrick, a trucking firm official, in the Adersley Park section of Queens last night.

"It burned itself out in a few minutes," Fitzpatrick told police.

Fitzpatrick said the cross, about three feet high, had been wrapped with a black cloth and saturated with gasoline.

He told police he had never had any trouble with anyone in the section which is occupied predominantly by wealthy Negroes such as Robinson, Campanella and singer Lena Horne.

Navy Is Enthused Over Robots For Costly Bombings

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Navy today sees in its "pilotless suicide planes" a possible $300 answer to low level bombing, a special problem that has been costly in lives in Korea.

That $300 is the approximate cost given by a Navy representative for converting a $60,000 obsolete plane—of which the Navy has thousands in mothballs—into a needed weapon in the mountainous terrain of Korea.

This, several Navy representatives said in interview, is the reason for Navy enthusiasm over the latest news in air warfare—Navy robot planes, equipped with television eyes and a 2,000 pound bomb, which dived onto North Korean targets.

But the Navy was cautious about making any claims. Rear Adm. John H. Sides, director of guided missiles, cautioned against talk about "the push-button age in warfare" being here.

And the Air Force said in reply to a query that expendable "war-weary" B-17s and B-24s, loaded with 18,500 pounds of high explosives, were used as pilotless guided missiles on five combat missions during World War II.

Navy spokesmen now describe the converted Grumman Helicat fighter, such as was catapulted Sept. 1 from the aircraft carrier Boxer, as so efficient that it can be directed into a railway tunnel. They said this was done with one of the pilotless craft.

Long Distance House-Hunter

NEW YORK (AP)—A French member of the United Nations staff stationed in Africa saw an advertisement of a new air-conditioned luxury apartment house in New York. Writing to Sol Atlas, the builder, from Asmara, Eritrea, the U.N. official said he expected to bring his family to New York by way of Japan.

Rent schedules, and brochures were mailed to Tokyo, from where the apartment was leased through negotiations half way around the world.

Old Railroader Whistled Song

READING, Pa. (AP)—Every time retired railroader Harry Reber, 83, hears a train whistle he thinks of "Home Sweet Home."

That's the tune he started playing on his train whistle in the early years of the century to let his wife know it was time to get his dinner ready. "On a clear night the whistle could be heard up to 20 miles," he recalled.

"I found that the further I pulled on the whistle string, the higher the note." Once a railroad employee reported him to the supervisor for playing the tune. The supervisor merely said he was glad to know there was one man who could play it with one string when some engineers needed six.

Centenarian To Cast His Ballot

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—One of the oldest voters in the country in the November presidential election is expected to be Warren Delos Hall, who will be 100 on March 1.

Hall said that this will be his first since 1935 when his wife died. He registered Republican but said he had voted in the past for Democratic candidates. "I never vote for the party. I vote for the man," he said.

Adds Milking To Official Chores

DU QUOIN, Ill. (AP)—For official business the city health officer took on some unusual chores recently.

In line of duty, Thomas Hunter took into custody a cow found grazing in the city park. The officer said he was quite capable of the twice a day milking chore but he hoped the owner would claim Bossy before too many days.

The Sport Reflector

By HERMAN HECKMAN

"On to Hertford!"

That's the cry of the cocky, confident Greenville Phantoms. The Phantoms have won two in a row and have as yet been unscathed. Although their victories have been won by single touchdown margins, neither of the first two games appeared to be close to the Phanton players or to the coaches. The reason was the Phantoms controlled the ball most of the time. When the Phantoms get backed up in their own territory they play with the fury of demons until deep in the enemy's territory. It has been customary for penalties and fumbles from over anxiety to bog down the attack at this point when the Phanton defense holds, the opponent kicks and the action is repeated.

Coaches Bill Kittrell, Frank Maennle and George Graybill have been working steadily and carefully this week trying to iron out flaws noticed in the first two games. Kittrell is afraid the boys might be a little overconfident. "We are riding a two game win streak but we must not let up or take victory for granted."

All week long the Phantoms have stressed passing drills in search of a double-barreled offensive punch. The wanted ground gainers, Bobby Perry, James Speight, Mitchell Johnson and Bobby Langston, have been doing a splendid job of moving the ball but in the event that Hertford springs an eight-man defensive line, an effective passing attack could mean victory.

Pat Sawyer has been working in the quarterback slot and has looked mighty good in the passing department. Chief targets are Enis Bobby Conway, Harold Edwards, and Halfbacks Bobby Perry and Guy Smith.

Smith and Perry are a pair of speedy halfbacks that can really do some fancy broken-field running in the secondary and neither is likely to be brought down from behind once in the clear.

If Sawyer can manage to hit his receivers with any degree of regularity, the Phantoms will have an attack that will make them a very tough team to defeat.

Fullback Doug Morgan has fully recovered from an early hip injury and his power running will be well received in the Hertford game. Morgan is also a competent passer and will probably share the passing duties with Sawyer.

Michigan, Maryland Rank 1-2 In Collegiate Football

Duke Is Placed In Top Twenty Teams In The Nation; Tennessee Dropped To Eighth Position

By LEO H. PETERSEN
NEW YORK (UP)—The men who know the game the best, the coaches themselves, chose Michigan State today as the team most likely to wind up the 1952 season as the nation's No. 1 football team.

But they gave the power-packed squad of Biggie Munn only a narrow margin over Maryland in the United Press pre-season ratings. Actually, Maryland received more first place votes from the coaches than Michigan State, 13 to 11, but the Midwest colleges received more ballots for the other spots and wound up with a total of 293 points, 14 more than Maryland. Points were awarded on the basis of 10 for a first place vote, nine for a second and so on down to one for a tenth.

The coaches who make up the United Press rating board last year forecast in their pre-season ratings that Tennessee would wind up the 1951 campaign as the nation's No. 1 team. Coach Robert Neyland's squad did just that—although it was knocked off later by Maryland in the Sugar Bowl.

This year, Tennessee rated eighth in the pre-season balloting. Six other teams besides Michigan State and Maryland received first place votes—Oklahoma five, and Georgia Tech, Illinois, Notre Dame, Tennessee and Texas one each.

In over-all points, Georgia Tech wound up in third place followed in order by Oklahoma, California, Illinois, Wisconsin, Tennessee, Notre Dame and Texas.

Only 24 of the 35 outstanding coaches—five from each section of the country—cast ballots in the pre-season ratings, one declining to go out on the limb.

Of the teams picked to finish in the select ten this season, eight of them wound up among the first 10 at the close of the 1951 campaign. Michigan State was rated second then, Illinois third, Maryland fourth Georgia Tech fifth, Princeton sixth, Wisconsin eighth and Texas Christian ninth.

Stanford, which wound up seventh last year, and Baylor, which finished ninth, failed to receive a single point in the pre-season voting.

In all, 32 teams were given points with Texas Christian ranked 11th. Coaches who make up the United Press rating board for the 1952 season include:

- Paul Bryan, Kentucky; Andy Gustafson, Miami; Frank Howard, Clemson; Bill Murray, Duke and Robert Neyland, Tennessee.

career after the current campaign. He'll be forty in January, and even a Mize cannot go on playing in the big show forever. And Johnny is determined to wind up his playing career in the majors with a total of 351 homers; 1949 base hits, and a life-time batting average of .314, compiled during 15 seasons with Cardinals, Giants and Yankees. Mize boasts one slugging record that is going to be hard to match. His mark of hitting three home runs in a game on six occasions. He did the trick for each of the three clubs he played with. His high-water mark for homer production came in 1947 when he hit 51 for the Giants.

Unbeaten Phants Invade Hertford

By WAYNE BISHOP
A high-spirited but cautious Greenville Phantom football squad left today for Hertford in search of their third football victory of the young season.

The game tonight with the Indians will be a non-conference affair but neither of the teams will have an easy time. The Phantoms have blanketed their two opponents thus far while the Indians have traditionally strong teams for a small school.

The Phantoms are in top-shape for the game with not a single player on the injured list.

There will be several changes in the Greenville line-up tonight. At tackle, Junior Boots Teel has taken the starting job from Tommie Smith despite the fact that this is Teel's first year on the squad.

In the backfield, 130-pound Pat Sawyer has taken over the quarterback position, the spot filled in the first two games by Bobby Langston. The move is obviously one designed to give the Phantoms a stronger passing attack since Sawyer is the best passer on the squad.

At halfback, speedster Guy Smith will move into the position vacated by James Speight. Mitchell Johnson, a hard-running sophomore who has been used mostly on defense thus far, will move into the fullback slot on offense on the basis of performances in practice this week.

Captain Bobby Perry is the only backfield man who started last week and who is expected to start this week. Perry scored the winning touchdown against Edenton last week when he went 52 yards from scrimmage on the first play of the second quarter.

The husky, ex-Golden Gloves champion from Harlem will match his youth and punch against Jimmy Bivins, an old war-horse from Cleveland.

Wallace, who bears a strong resemblance to ex-champion Joe Louis, has had only 17 fights since entering the pro ranks and has dropped but one decision. Bivins is a veteran of 203 ring battles.

Boone, Biggers Prepare Pirates For Fast Attack

The East Carolina Pirates yesterday devoted most of their workout to defense but they still found time to get in an intensive session of dummy scrimmage before Coach Jack Boone called a halt to the proceedings.

The defense which was reviewed yesterday is the one which will be used tomorrow night against the Newport News (Va.) Apprentice School. There have been no announcements from either Boone or Line Coach Clyde Biggers as to the nature of the defense but the Bucs are hoping to be able to do some experimenting during the game.

One possible change was announced yesterday by Biggers. David Lee, a sophomore tackle from Tarboro, will be used as a defensive guard against the Shipbuilders. Lee has been playing tackle but has been promoted to a first-string guard post on the basis of his performance last week against Norfolk and his efforts in practice. The 220-pounder helped to block a punt in the game with the Tars last week.

Both Boone and Biggers expressed themselves as being "pleased" with the hustle and charging power the defensive line showed last week. As a result, most of this week's practice work has been devoted to smoothing the offensive formations which will be used tomorrow by the Bucs.

Both running and passing plays were given a thorough going-over in a long dummy scrimmage in which every man on the squad was used. A couple of new plays were installed and everyone was given a chance to run through them.

With the exception of Lee, no line-up changes are planned for the game tomorrow. All-Conference Dwight Shoe and Bobby Hodges will play both offense and defense at the ends. Frank Turner and Willie Holland will be used at the tackles on both platoons with Bill McDonald and Nick Kanos available for relief work. The offensive guards will be Doc Smith and George Tucker while on defense Coach Biggers plans to use Lee and Bobby Thomas Gaither Cline and James Faircloth will share the offensive and defen-

Yankees Face Tough Pitching In Stretch

Rough Football Brings Changes In 1952 Rules

NEW YORK (UP)—The new football rules are rougher on the roughers.

There are not many changes in the code for previous years. You will hardly notice them. But those changes that were made were designed to cut down on roughing. The Johnny Bright incident—in which a star player was slugged out of competition—had a lot to do with it.

Here are the major changes for 1952:

1. NEW RULE—A player cannot strike another player with his elbows, forearm or locked hands while blocking or tackling. OLD RULE—Only fists were barred.

2. NEW RULE—Any block from behind is clipping, and a 15-yard penalty. OLD RULE—Only a block from behind below the waist was clipping.

3. NEW RULE—Defensive holding calls for a 15 yard penalty. OLD RULE—A five yard penalty. (Offensive holding always has been 15 yards.)

4. NEW RULE—A passer can use his hands to ward off onrushing enemy linemen if the ball is in the air. OLD RULE—He could not use his hands. (This is designed to give protection to the passer, who has had little up to now although kickers have been specially protected by special roughing rules.)

5. NEW RULE—A time out will be charged when a substitute is sent on the field while the clock is running. OLD RULE—The time out was not charged if the ball was snapped on time.

6. NEW RULE—A 15-yard penalty is charged for a fake fair catch. OLD RULE—There was no such penalty.

7. NEW RULE—A player is allowed two steps to regain his balance after making a fair catch. OLD RULE—The "fair catch" was abolished in 1950 but now is restored permitting the steps.

8. NEW RULE—The rubber football may be used. OLD RULE—Although rubber footballs were permitted on an experimental basis, only leather ones actually were authorized under the rules.

Those are the major changes. There are such minor refinements as these:

The ball can be inclined only 45 degrees before the center snap. The toss-of-coin is scheduled three minutes before game-time. The Referee charges himself with a time out should the offensive team be awarded a first down on a kick (usually on a blocked kick). "Falling on" a downed player will be the same as "piling on," depriving deliberate roughers of skying it was all an accident.

NEW YORK (UP)—Ten tense days filled with $5,000 fumbles, wild throws, home runs, strikeouts, and walks begin today for the Dodgers, Giants, Yankees, and the Indians with at least that much money riding on practically every pitched ball.

The prize is the World Series, and right now the Yankees and Dodgers are the odds-on favorites to meet in the classic which will begin on Wednesday, Oct. 1, no matter who is in it. The Dodgers are three games in front and the Yankees are 2-1-2 games ahead.

But both the Yankees and Brooklyn face rugged opponents and their best pitchers, in addition to the almost unbearable pressure that won't let up until the races finally are decided. And neither the Indians nor the Giants have shown that there is any quit in them as they face the odds without flinching.

As the teams resumed action after a welcome off-day, the Dodgers were in Boston to face the Braves, who lately have come up with a run of phenomenally fine pitching and have been tough for all comers. The Giants take on the spunky Phillies, who still have a long-shot hope of overtaking the Cardinals for third place.

The Yankees, home from their final Western road trip in which they won six of nine games, take on the troublesome Athletics, while Cleveland begins the first of six contests with the last place Tigers.

All of the also-ran managers are grooming their strongest pitchers and will "shoot the works" as they try to prevent their opponents from grabbing the prize they couldn't have.

At Boston, Manager Charley Grimm indicated he would use Jim Wilson, Max Surkont and Warren Spahn against the Dodgers, while Manager Steve O'Neill of the Phils said he definitely would pitch Curt Simmons tonight, then follow with Robin Roberts and Russ Meyer in the three games with the Giants.

Tonight the Yankees must go against little Bobby Shantz, who already has beaten them three times this season. After that it will be Harry Byrd, the right-hander who pitched a one-hitter against the champs the last time he faced them. Lefty Alex Kellner will pitch the third game on Sunday.

Detroit Manager Freddie Hutchinson said he would use the same two right-handers who just faced the Yankees, Art Houtteman and Virgil Trucks, and that he also

Female Coach Disbands Team

DURHAM — The "Murray Ramblers" are no more. School has started and the coach and some of the star players have gone back to books.

The "Murray Ramblers" were a baseball team of kids from five to nine. Their diamond was located on the Duke campus next to football Coach Bill Murray's home. The coach was Carol Murray, Bill's 13-year-old daughter.

Among the players were "Peanut," "Shorty," "Fats," "Squirt," and Slim. There were girls on the team too and one of the brightest stars was "Gwendolyn."

Williams Leads Celebrity Match

LANDOVER, Md. (UP)—Henry Williams, a sure-shot putting whiz from Reading, Pa., held a one-stroke lead over a strong field of golfers at the start of the second round today in the National Celebrities tournament.

Williams needed only 27 putts during yesterday's opening round as he fired a four-under-par 68 to take command ahead of Ed (Porky) Oliver who checked in with a 69.

Five players were bracketed at 70, including National Open champion Julius Boros and PGA champion Jim Turnesa, while pre-tournament favorite Sammy Snead opened with an even-par 72.

Boros, of Mid Pines, N. C., got off to a poor start when he threeputed from eight feet on the first hole and wound up with a 37 on the front nine. However, he rallied for a three-under-par 33 on the back nine.

Tied with the two champions at 70 were Jerry Barber of Pasadena, Calif., Dick Mayer of St. Petersburg, Fla., and Earl Fling of Washington, D. C.

FIRST IN 18 YEARS.—Robin Roberts, sensational young Philadelphia Phillies righthander, kisses baseball after he became first National League hurler to win 25 game since 1939. Roberts allowed five hits as he defeated the Cincinnati Reds at Philadelphia. He has lost only seven games. (AP Wirephoto).

DURHAM — Back in 1929-30-31, one of Duke University's outstanding players was end Don Hyatt, of Wilmington, N.C. and of Newport News, Va., son and namesake of the former Blue Devil. The senior Hyatt was a teammate of Duke Coach Bill Murray.

Solomon Begins His Reign

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—I Kings 1:28-40; 2:1-4; 3:1-15; 5:1-6:14; 8; II Chronicles 5-6.

Knowing that his end was near, King David sent for Bathsheba, and told her that her son, Solomon, should succeed him as king of Israel. Bathsheba bowed her face to the earth, saluting the king.

David sent for Zadok, the priest, Nathan, Benaiah and others, and told them to put Solomon on the king's mule and proclaim him king. It was done and all present cried, "God save King Solomon."

Then David charged his son, to Solomon, "Keep the charge of the Lord thy God, to walk in His ways, to keep His statutes, and His commandments, that thou mayest prosper in all that thou doest."

In a dream Solomon saw Jehovah, who said, "Ask what I shall give thee." Solomon asked for an understanding heart to rule over his people, and the answer pleased Jehovah.

MEMORY VERSE—Proverbs 3:5-6.

Solomon Begins His Reign

HE ASKED JEHOVAH FOR AN UNDERSTANDING HEART

Scripture—I Kings 1:28-40, 2:1-4; 3:1-15; 5:1-6:14; 8; II Chronicles 5-6

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL. IN OUR own time kings have died or abdicated and been replaced by their sons or daughters, one of the latest being Queen Elizabeth of England, the unexpected death of whose beloved father brought that age-old proclamation, "The king is dead; long live the queen!"

Solomon, whose name has gone down the centuries as the greatest and wisest of the kings of Israel, was promised he loved Bathsheba, Solomon's mother.

The king sent for Bathsheba and told her he wanted Solomon to succeed him. "Then Bathsheba bowed with her face to the earth, and did reverence to the king, and said, Let my lord King David live for ever."

David sent Zadok the priest, Nathan the prophet, and Benaiah, son of Jehoiada, and others, and told them to mount Solomon on

You will remember Hiram, king of Tyre, who had sent men and materials and built David's house? Solomon appealed to him and he sent materials and workmen; Solomon gathered many Hebrew workmen, and working together the temple was built.

It was situated on a hill called Zion or Moriah. The walls were massive, pillars within are supposed to have supported the flat roof and added to the beauty of the interior.

Jehovah had said to Solomon, "Concerning this house which thou art building, if thou wilt walk in My statutes, and execute Mine ordinances, and keep all My commandments, to walk in them, I will establish My word with thee, which I spake unto David thy father."

"And I will dwell among the children of Israel, and will not forsake My people Israel. The temple was finished, and Solomon brought in all the gold the king's own mule. They did so, and brought him to Gihon.

"And Zadok the priest took the horn of oil out of the tabernacle, and anointed Solomon. And they blew the trumpet; and all the people said, God save King Solomon."

David's charge to Solomon was a touching and beautiful thing: "I go the way of all earth: be thou strong therefore, and shew thyself a man."

"And keep the charge of the Lord thy God, to walk in His ways, to keep His statutes, and His Commandments. . . . That thou mayest prosper in all that thou doest, and whithersoever thou turnest thyself."

Jehovah appeared to Solomon in a dream, saying, "Ask what I shall give thee."

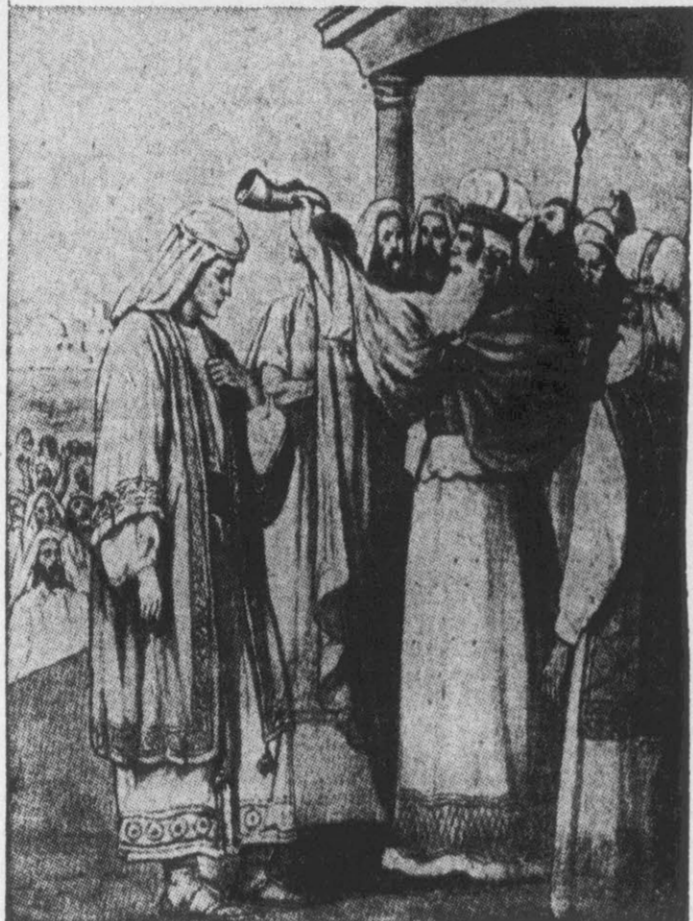

Solomon did not ask riches, honors, victories over enemies, or even personal happiness. He told Jehovah that he felt like a little child, not knowing how to go out or come in. The people he had been called to rule over were a great people, he said, and humbly he asked Jehovah for an understanding heart to rule wisely over them.

"And the speech pleased the Lord, that Solomon had asked this thing."

On the second day of the second month in the fourth year of Solomon's reign he began the building of the temple at Jerusalem.

POLIO VICTIMS NOT SURE LINCOLN, Neb. (UP)—Health officials say it's "unlikely" that the polio virus is carried in drinking water but they will have to prove it to four Lincoln polio victims. A family of five picnicked at a state park and four became polio victims. The only one who didn't get the disease did not drink any of the water. School children in Geneva Canton, Switzerland, have Thursdays and Sundays off. This system was devised to give parents who have Saturdays off a vacation from children as well as from work. WESTPORT LANDING

By Homer Horton

Chapter 28
 Fawcett Fork was almost five hundred miles east of Santa Fe, three hundred miles west of the comfort and security of Westport. As Clay rode forward toward the spot beside the river where they would camp, he experienced a sense of relief at having the buffalo and Indian country behind him. With luck, there should be no major dangers and disasters between here and westport.

He turned in his saddle as Lopez came riding up.
 "Let us ride on ahead a little, Don Clay," he said softly. "There is something bad I must tell you."
 When they were a good quarter of a mile ahead of the others they pulled their mounts down to a trot and moved side by side across the prairie.
 Lopez glanced over his shoulder to be sure there was no one within possible earshot.
 "This moon I was asleep in the wagon and when I woke up Pedro and Sanchez was outside talking. They did not know I was there. Don Clay," he leaned forward and others are good men, but gold can sometimes change a monk into a bandit, too. There are none I would trust except Miguel, my brother. Of him I am sure."

"That's about the way I had it sized up," Clay agreed. "Warn Miguel when you can and keep your loaded guns beside you tonight. I'll take care of Sanchez when he comes sliding in, but you and Miguel may have to keep Pedro off my back."

"Would it not be better to shoot both of them now, without warning, and be done with the thing?" Clay shook his head vigorously.

"It would be easier but it won't work. There's no evidence except your word against theirs. The other men would begin to wonder if it was just a way of cutting Pedro and Sanchez out of their money. Within two days they'd be sure that was it, and they'd be shooting us in the back to protect themselves against the same treatment. No, Lopez, there's only one way to do it. We'll have to let them go ahead and then nail them just as they go into action."

"Suppose Sanchez kills you?"
 "He won't," Clay promised grimly. "but I'm not making any promises about what's going to happen to Sanchez."

Since they left the Jornada Clay had formed the habit of spreading his bedroll directly beneath the wagon so that he might better protect its contents. Tonight he took particular note of the fact that Pedro lay down not more than six feet to his right, while Sanchez was about an equal distance away left, perhaps twenty feet away and between Sanchez and the other men, while his brother, Miguel, was on the opposite side of the circle. It placed Clay like a tethered goat between Pedro and Sanchez, but on the other hand it allowed Lopez and Miguel to cut Pedro down with withering cross fire if it became necessary.

The camp grew quiet as the embers of the fire burned down and the flickering light of the coals gave way to the pale, shadowed glow of moonlight and star-shine. Clay lay lengthwise beneath the wagon, his feet toward Sanchez and his head toward Pedro. He had pulled a blanket over his body and his left arm lay across his chest, the upper right hand corner of the blanket tight in his fingers. His right arm, straight at his side, was concealed beneath the blanket, and also hidden beneath the blanket was the heavy-headed hand ax that was grasped in his right hand.

Five minutes passed, ten minutes, and then there was the faintest possible whisper of sound from the spot where Sanchez lay. Clay opened his eyes the merest fraction of an inch and saw that Sanchez had stealthily lifted himself upon his elbows and was cautiously surveying the sleeping camp. As Clay watched, Sanchez brought his eyes around to Clay's face and lay motionless, studying the position of Clay's body.

Sanchez moved slowly forward, inching himself along on his elbows and knees as silently as a soft breeze moving soundlessly over the prairie. The long blade of a naked knife glittered in his hand, and Clay saw that he was going to have to creep well up on his hands and knees to use the blade he carried. He lay quietly, watching Sanchez approach, measuring the distance between them as he lightened his grip on the rough handle of the hand ax.

Suddenly he became aware that Sanchez's body had reared up from the ground like a striking snake and the gleaming knife blade glistened like white fire in the moonlight as it poised momentarily at the top of its stroke before it leaped forward in a savage downward arc.

Clay jerked his body to a sitting position so that he faced Sanchez squarely and his left arm straightened and swept forward, shrouding the startled Sanchez's head and shoulders in the folds of the blanket. In the same instant the hand ax rose and fell and he felt it bite into Sanchez's neck as it crushed its way through flesh and muscle and bone.

He felt Sanchez's body collapse across his knees, and in the same instant a pistol flashed fire well to his left and he heard Pedro's gasp as Lopez's bullet struck home. He fought his way free of the entangling blanket and scrambled to his feet. In the dim light he could see Pedro writing on the ground and Lopez on his feet, a smoking pistol in his hand, while Miguel stood a dozen feet away, holding a rifle.

Homes For Aged Are Over-Filled

ALBANY, N.Y. (U.P.) — A New York State legislative committee report says high costs, overcrowding and long waiting periods seriously hinder an elderly person's chances of spending his remaining years in a home for the aged.

The committee proposes state aid to solve the problem. The report of the group, headed by Senator Thomas C. Desmond, said the money would be used to build old-age homes and allied facilities. They would include infirmaries, boarding and nursing homes and cottages and apartments for old folks.

A survey of 86 homes for the aged showed that most had long waiting lists and oldsters are shut aside to await an opening. With a continued rise in living costs, they believe, social security payments to retired workers aren't adequate to meet all costs once admitted. Continued rising expenses have hindered the owners of the homes.

The solution, the committee believes, is to lend funds to non-profit institutions for building purposes.

'Golden Fleece' Of Legend Is Traced To Lowly Clam

WASHINGTON (U.P.)—The origin of the fabulous golden fleece, pursued in mythology by an enterprising young fellow named Jason, has finally been traced — to the lowly clam.

The fleece, often called "sea wool," comes from a giant clam of the Mediterranean and the lucky tourist in Italy can sometimes buy some of the golden cloth woven from it, a publication on Moslem art has disclosed. The book was issued jointly by the University of Michigan and the Freer Gallery of Art of the Smithsonian Institution.

The Smithsonian has a glove made in modern times of "sea wool," but few such articles of clothing are available because of the rareness and shyness of the giant clam, the Pinna Marina. Silk-Like Strands

The shell of this unconscious craftsman attains a maximum length of about three feet, but the quite a black market in golden fleece sprang up in Spain. Another Arab writer rhapsodized:

"It is soft like silk of a golden color, and it is fine to the touch. The sultan prevents the export of it to other countries, apart from that which is hidden. Sometimes the value of a garment reaches 1,000 dinars." A dinar was a least equivalent to a dollar. Jason probably just couldn't afford it.

SEEING NOT BELIEVING — LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UP) — The city traffic department warned drivers and pedestrians not to worry about their last drink or bad eyesight if they see red when they should see green. Traffic lights were out of synchronization for a few days while workmen installed cables for a one-way street system.

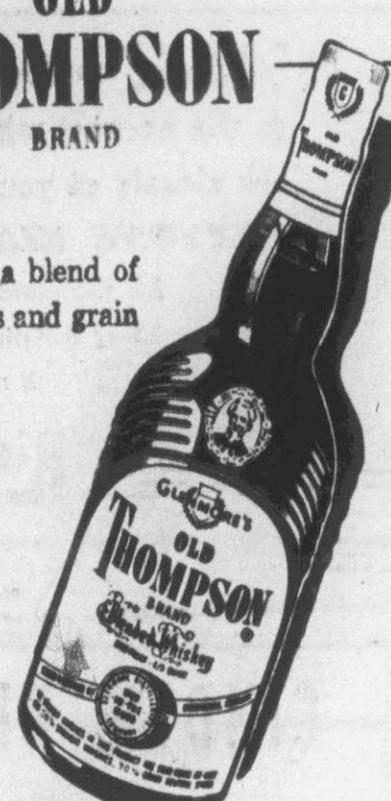

An optometrist must be a graduate of a five-year course in a college or university accredited by the American Optometric Association to be eligible for a state licensing examination, says the association.

Draft Board Has Many 'Vacancies'

MOORHEAD, Minn. (UP) — Art Steffes, 30, answering an advertisement for an apartment, dated a number and asked: "Do you have any vacancies?" "Are you kidding?" the other party answered. "This is the draft board!"

 Bones, tissues, and even complex joints are now being strengthened or replaced with "friendly" metals

Everyone prefers the healthy flesh and blood that nature gave him. But sometimes parts of our bodies weaken or fail—and life itself may be threatened.

DOCTORS NEEDED "FRIENDLY" MATERIALS—Surgeons, seeking materials that could replace or strengthen fractures or weakened parts of the body, found that certain alloy metals are "friendly" to flesh and bone. They neither irritate nor harm the surrounding tissue.

Special alloy metals that are strong, enduring and non-corrosive are good examples.

NEW PARTS FOR OLD—When used to replace broken joints or to strengthen damaged bone, these metal parts usually do an astonishing job of fitting right in with the body's functioning. As a result, many persons who might otherwise be bed-ridden or crippled are now leading normal lives.

In other cases these metals are used as plates to replace parts of the skull, and as "screens" to reinforce tissue that has become weakened or torn.

UCC SERVES MEDICINE AND INDUSTRY—Creating and producing more than 50 different alloys that go into metals to serve medicine and nearly every field of industry is one of the many important jobs of the people of Union Carbide.

Stocks And Market Reports

NEW YORK (UP) — Trading in stocks today fell off to the lightest level in more than a week.

Prices fluctuated in a narrow range. Industrials and utilities were firm at the end of the first hour and slightly easier at noon in the average. The rails firmed slightly but were still a few cents lower at noon. Utilities ruled firm.

Very few issues moved outside a fractional area. Atlantic Coast Line was down a point and Firestone more than a point. Chrysler rose 1/4 point to 82 3/4 and Superior Oil of California had one of its characteristic spurts — 20 points to 520.

The steels were steady. General Motors failed to follow the rise in Chrysler and lost a trifle. Copers eased with Anaconda and Ceyro de Pasco at new lows. Oils held in a narrow area with prices mixed.

Driver Charged In Car Collision At Intersection

Several persons received minor injuries yesterday when two cars collided at the intersection of Highways 903 and 11, about four miles from Greenville.

Highway Patrolman James W. Boykin reported that a car operated by Mrs. Mary Martin Beverly, 40, of Bethel, was struck by a car driven by Noah James Jr. of Route 4, Greenville.

Several of the occupants in the Beverly car received minor injuries and were treated at Pitt Memorial Hospital.

James was indicted on a charge of failure to yield the right of way. Damage to both cars was placed at around $1,000.

Trend To Five-Day Week Seen Growing

RALEIGH — The five day work week, already standard procedure for most big industries and a large part of governmental agencies, seems to be on the way for all workers. That means the regular work week will be Monday through Friday, with special or extra hands required for weekends in cases where operations must be continuous.

The Federal Government has been on a five-day schedule for a long time. The State of North Carolina went on a partial five-day system two years ago. At first only offices in Raleigh were affected, then the idea spread to branch offices. Presently only the educational institutions and highway field forces have regular work scheduled for Saturday mornings.

State College workers have petitioned for a five-day plan, and eventually will get it. That will mean application of the same rule to other units in the Consolidated University, and then for other colleges and institutions.

Members of the State Highway and Public Works Commission have been discussing the idea of five days for field forces and divisional employees for some months. Another off-record conference on the matter was held in Raleigh Tuesday night. No definite decision has been announced.

But—the tide is moving and it is doubtful that any regular employer of large numbers of people can stem it.

Ayden Pupil Hit By Passing Car

AYDEN — Billy Franklin McLawhorn, 11-year-old Ayden school student, was seriously injured yesterday afternoon when he was struck by a school bus and was struck by a passing car.

Patrolman Bill Whitehurst, investigating officer, reported that the youth was walking along the right side of the highway and ran into the path of a car.

The youth was taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital where his injuries were listed as a broken leg, lacerations on the face and a possible fractured skull.

Driver of the car which struck the boy was Mrs. Nora H. Craft, 26, Ayden school teacher.

Whitehurst stated that the woman swerved her car in an effort to avoid hitting the child but that he ran into the path of the car.

The accident occurred around 3:45 yesterday afternoon at Ventura Crossroads.

No charges have been placed against the driver.

New Bern Mayor

George H. Roberts, mayor of New Bern, made a few remarks and said the new plan has proved to be a good operation. He said more has been done in improvements during the past four years than had ever been done in any comparable period prior to that time.

He likened city administration to private business, and asserted no businessman would attempt to operate a business without an administrative head. "If I were mayor and a businessman in a city without a city manager, business would of necessity get most of my time because that would be living," he stated.

Also present at the meeting were Guy E. Boyd and J. R. Bell, councilmen from the city of New Bern, both expressed satisfaction with the plan currently in operation there.

Jaycees Inducted

In a short business session, five young men of Greenville were inducted into the local club. Jaycee W. H. Watson directed the induction of the new members.

New Jaycees are: Bill Hudson, C. C. Hughes, Ashley Hudson, Dr. Tad Larkin and Walter Stewart.

NEW YORK (UP) — The resignations of W. W. Hawkins, chairman of the board, and Roy W. Howard, president, of the E. Scripps Company, operating a company of the 19 Scripps-Howard newspapers, were announced here today, to become effective Dec. 31.

The announcement was made jointly by Charles E. Scripps, chairman of the board of the Edward W. Scripps Trust, which holds voting control of the operating company, and the directors of the E. W. Scripps Company.

Gangster Talks Of Corruption, Crime Of '20s

CHICAGO (UP) — Roger (The Terrible) Touhy was back from prison today to talk, and his startling testimony ran like a scratchy Edison record from the roaring '20s, bringing back stories of bootlegging, corruption and murder.

The Prohibition-era gangster, fighting to free himself from prison, testified yesterday that a Chicago judge once ran a handbook in the City Hall.

He told how Al Capone admitted lightly that he killed a man in a "drunken caper."

The graying, pudgy Touhy said he thwarted a plan by Murray (The Camel) Humphreys and the late Frank (The Enforcer) Nitti to extort $10,000,000 from labor unions.

And he said Danie, A. Gilbert, often called "the richest cop in the world," once demanded a "fine" of $5 for every "frel" of beer sold in Chicago.

Touhy testified in federal court in his hearing on charges that he was convicted of the 1933 kidnaping of Jake (The Barber) actor on perjured testimony.

The former beer baron said he was railroaded into jail by an alliance of Capone gangsters and law enforcement officers who hated him.

He is serving 99 years for kidnaping and 19 for prison breaking—a record 298 years.

Touhy testified that Circuit Court Judge Thomas J. Courtney ran a handbook in City Hall when Courtney was sergeant-at-arms for the Chicago city council. He said that aldermen sometimes place bets with the book.

He said he rejected Gilbert's alleged demands for $5 hush money for each barrel of illegal beer sold by Touhy and that he once had a fist fight with the former police captain.

Gilbert, now retired from public life, was defeated in a race for Cook County sheriff after being called to testify before the Senate Crime Committee last year.

Touhy said he once paid $50,000 to Al Capone to free a partner and friend, Matt Kolb, who had been kidnaped. Capone later killed Kolb, Touhy testified.

"Al called my brother, Tom, and told him it was a drunken caper," the 54-year-old prisoner said.

He told of visiting Capone's headquarters and being greeted by seven men cleaning 45 automatics.

The ex-gangster said that he won the enmity of the Capone mob when he refused to participate in a plan to take control of union treasuries holding $10,000,000. He said that Nitti threatened to kidnap his children.

Coroner Closes Investigation Of Traffic Death

The death of the 52-year-old Negro bicyclist who was struck down by a car September 6, has been ruled "purely an accident" by Coroner Griffin H. Rouse.

The victim, Parley Langley, reportedly swerved into the path of an automobile operated by Mrs. Mary Andrews of Route 5, Greenville. She immediately took Langley to Pitt Memorial Hospital for observation.

Not thought to be seriously injured at first, Langley died there eight days later.

"I have thoroughly investigated the case and am going to close it out," Rouse said. "It was purely an accident and there will be no inquest as a result of the death."

By 1941 the production of plastic materials had grown to more than 428 million pounds.

POLITICS — Persons develop policies and from now until November more emphasis is expected to be placed upon comparative policies and tenets of the respective parties, and less upon the individuals front-in the campaign. Personalities will not be ignored, however, because politicians know that a great many people do not vote unless they are mad, and they don't get mad at things. They get mad at folks. It seems certain that North Carolina will give a majority for the Democratic national ticket. The size of the majority will depend upon how mad the campaigners can make the people, and whether they can be made madder at Stevenson and Truman than at Eisenhower and Taft and Dewey.
