Eisenhower Raps Inflation Policy

Charges Administration Running On Slogan 'Inflation Is The Best Policy'; Declares His Goal Is To Substitute Frugality In Government Activities

By JOHN L. CUTLER United Press Staff Correspondent ABOARD GOP SPECIAL (UP)— Dwight D. Eisenhower accused the Truman administration today of running on a slogan that "inflation is the best policy."

Speaking to a crowd of more than 5,000 at Middletown, O., in his first whistle-stop in Ohio, the Republican Presidential candidate struck out vigorously at the Democratic claims that the people of the country have the greatest prosperity they have ever known.

He said "inflation" also would be the subject of a major speech scheduled tonight at Cleveland at the end of a day of campaigning across the state.

"This party wants to substitute frugality in government," he said. "We don't want men too little for their jobs and too big for their breeches."

To demonstrate what deficit spending inflation has brought to the country, Eisenhower showed the crowd three pieces of white pine. The largest was what could be bought for 15 cents in 1945, he said.

A much smaller piece represented what could be bought today. A much smaller piece was shown as what it would be if inflation continues at the same rate for four more years, he said.

"How far can 15 cents go down and still raise a dime against a nickel in your pocket?" he asked. Eisenhower took a poke at his Democratic opponent, Gov. Adlai Stevenson, although he didn't mention him by name. He called him "humorous."

Eisenhower referred to the Truman administration as "what Humorous calls the Fair Deal." He added that the Democrats "have made all of the promises possible."

Sen. Robert A. Taft, Eisenhower's leading opponent for the Republican nomination in the Chicago convention, spoke briefly. He urged support of the entire Republican ticket and a "return to common sense which may save the liberty and peace of the world."

Taft is riding with Eisenhower through Ohio today and tomorrow as Eisenhower makes a bid for the home state votes of the man he defeated for the nomination.

The general started his bid for votes in Taft's home state last night with a speech at Cincinnati on foreign policy, the one big issue on which he and the senator disagree.

Eisenhower sharply attacked the foreign policy record of the Truman administration, blaming the fighting in Korea on "incompetence of political leaders." He said there is "no single, coherent policy in Asia on which all our allies agree."

He gave the Republican 80th Congress credit for "brave emergency attempts" to check the spread of communism aboard—the Marshall Plan and programs of military aid to Greece and Turkey.

"These measures have helped to steady both the economic and the nervous system of our Allies," he declared. "They could hardly have been expected to do more in the working of our foreign policy. Dollars and guns are no substitute for brains and will power."

The GOP candidate attacked Gov. Adlai Stevenson, his Democratic opponent, for giving "smug" answers to criticism of the foreign policy record of President Truman.

"There can be no effective appeal to the administration or its heirs to correct its own failings and abuses," Eisenhower said. "When you ask them for a national explanation of the disaster in China, they tell you, as the Democratic candidate did last week: 'Let's talk about India.'"

He said the decision to send U.S. troops into Korea was "inescapable" but it was a case of trying to snatch "military victory from political defeat."

Bethel's School Issue Is Set For Prompt Hearing

Judge Harris Sets Tomorrow Morning, At 9:30, For Airing Case

In the morning session of Superior Court here yesterday, presiding Judge W. C. Harris set tomorrow morning at 9:30 as the time for a hearing on the Bethel High School controversy.

A total of 13 parents of students attending school there filed a complaint September 12 protesting a ruling of the local board of education that students will not be allowed to go home for lunch.

According to an explanation made last week by L. N. James, chairman of the Bethel school board, the ruling provided for suspension of all students violating the lunchroom provision.

Enforce Ruling James said Principal Walter Latham, who is included in the complaint with members of the school board, was instructed to enforce the ruling of the board.

The ruling did not make eating at the school lunchroom compulsory, but it did prohibit students going home or downtown for lunch. "Any student may bring his lunch from home, but it must be consumed on the school grounds," James stated.

When questioned last week, the chairman said a number of the parents signing the complaint thought they were signing a petition to have the matter reviewed by the school board and did not realize they were being involved in legal action.

Nine Divorces Before the trial of civil suits for damages began late yesterday, Judge Harris heard and granted nine divorces.

They were: white—Daisy Manning vs. Sam D. Manning; Maxine Hart vs. George H. Hart; John D. Wilson vs. Edna C. Wilson; Alton Durwood Gray vs. Elizabeth Gray, all on grounds of two years separation; and Benjamin C. Sutton vs. Nora Lee Sutton, on grounds of adultery.

Negro—Mary Etta Stephenson vs. James Earl Stephenson; Opelia Johnson vs. Henry Johnson; James T. Hopkins vs. Beatrice S. Hopkins, on grounds of two years separation; and Henry Thomas Suggs vs. Effie Mae Suggs, on grounds of adultery.

Superior Court will resume hearing of testimony today in the $85,000 suit for damages brought by Paul Morris against Bate Lumber Co.

Communities Of Tarheelia Find Debts Increasing

RALEIGH (UP)—The state's counties, cities and towns have increased their total bonded indebtedness by $83,000,000 during the past six years and the total is approaching that existing at the depth of the depression in 1932.

W. E. Easterling, executive secretary of the Local Government Commission, reported those figures yesterday to the advisory budget commission here. He asked an increase of about $33,000,000 a year for his department to hire a staff to help local governments establish sound budget systems so they may market their bonds more cheaply.

Easterling said local governments now have $323,000,000 in bond outstanding compared to $362,000,000 in the depth of the depression in June, 1932. He said the low point was $240,000,000 in 1948.

HOUSING BONDS NEW YORK (AP)—Public housing bonds worth $170,719,000 of 23 states were auctioned off here today. Proceeds of the sale are to be used to finance low-rent housing projects.

City Industrial Expansion Plan Started At Meeting

As requested by the board of directors, the Industrial Committee of the Greenville Chamber of Commerce got off to a start last night in the development of an effective program to begin industrial expansion in the city.

At an August 11 meeting of the chamber's directors the Industrial Committee was requested to begin work on an industrial program, following the suggestions and recommendations made by Paul Kelly, chief industrial engineer of the state department of Conservation and Development.

Last night, the Industrial committee, headed by Reynolds May, and other interested chamber members, unanimously requested that Greenville Industries, Incorporated, a city industrial development corporation organized in January, 1951, put itself in a position to begin the entire organization in an industrial development and planning assistance to the entire organization in an industrial development program even to the point of carrying on a campaign to sell stock in the corporation.

The meeting last night was one in a series of meetings which will be held to work out plans for a more effective program of industrial expansion based on the facts presented by Kelly when he spoke here at the chamber's invitation Sept. 12. A number of major points discussed by Kelly were considered last night and the meeting was opened with May summarizing those points.

The 16 in attendance at the meeting agreed to meet again next Monday night, September 29, along with stockholders of Greenville Industries and other interested Greenville citizens, to put the corporation in the position to act when industrial prospects are in sight.

The meeting next Monday night will be a follow-up of the discussion last night and will be held to enlarge the industrial program of the Greenville Chamber of Commerce.

Personally Presented Check To Mills Family

Mills with a check for the sum of $5,020 which had been contributed by Marines at Camp Lejeune for the Mills family. With Mrs. Mills at the presentation are Major John Lathrop, (right) and Mayor L. Men Of Camp Lejeune Present $5,020 To Jesse Mills' Family

By ROY HARDEE Reflector Staffwriter Men of Camp Lejeune's sprawling Marine Corps installation have opened both their hearts and pocket books to aid the family of Policeman Jesse E. Mills who was killed on August 16 in the line of duty.

Representatives from the North Carolina base yesterday came to Greenville to visit the family of Mr. Mills and to present Mrs. Mills with a check for $5,020, which came from the Marines at the base.

In presenting the check to Mrs. Mills at her home yesterday, a spokesman for the Corps stated, "We do not want you to judge us by the action of two men who made a mistake, but to know that this comes from our hearts."

It was only one day following the announcement that two Camp Lejeune Marines had been taken in custody and charged with the murder of Policeman Mills that the fund-raising drive got under way.

Originally the idea of Sgt. Earl Wilson, Division Public Information Officer, it quickly caught on over the base and contributions began to pour in.

With each pay day the funds soared upward, until it reached the $5,020 mark.

Here for the presentation was Master Sgt. Bruce McAllister and Major John Lathrop, commander of company from which the two accused Marines were from.

Chief of Police Guy C. Langston and Mayor Lester D. Page accompanied the Marines to make the presentation.

Mayor Page commented on the gesture by saying, "This move has done more to strengthen the relations between the Marines and the citizens of Greenville and Pitt County than any other one thing."

Chief Langston stated, "This is one of the most outstanding moves to come from military personnel that I have ever heard of. People all over the country should know what has been done by these Marines."

"It has been proven again and again that given a worthy cause to support, the Marines have been behind it," Chief said.

Policeman Mills was slain as he walked a lonely alley beat around one o'clock Friday night, August 16.

After more than a week of investigation of the murder, two Marines from Camp Lejeune were formally charged with the murder and brought to Greenville for grand jury action.

With the return of a true bill the two have been kept in County Jail pending the October term of Superior Court where both will face charges of murder in the shooting of the officer.

Cold Air Mass Closes Summer

By UNITED PRESS A lingering cold front gained force and pushed as far South as Florida as the summer—one of the hottest in history—came to an official close.

Autumn began at 9:24 p.m. EST yesterday as the sun reached the autumnal equinox and passed the Equator on its journey southward.

A cold air mass that has covered most of the country east of the Rockies for eight days swept further south, cooling off even the Deep South and the Gulf states.

The Canadian cool air was felt everywhere from the western slope of the Rockies to the Atlantic Coast—except Southern Florida where pleasure-seekers could still get a tan in comfort.

Over most of the country the weather was crisp, and often cloudy. But it was not cold enough for a freeze or a hard frost.

The Northern Great Lakes region could expect a bit of rain in the 50s and the Chicago area was not expected to become warmer than the middle 60s.

According to U. S. Weather Bureau forecasters, the only rain on tap would fall in Northeast Lower Michigan and in the extreme eastern portion of Upper Michigan.

New York City could expect fair weather and seasonable temperatures ranging from about 59 to 68 degrees. Yesterday showers splattered the city and the mercury stopped its climb at 68.

Mother's Long Fight To Win Son Nears End

LOHPELDEN, Germany (UP)—A Yugoslav mother's struggle to regain her 11-year-old son from the German family of a former Nazi S. S. officer appeared today to have been won.

A U. S. Appeals Court will hear the case and give a formal answer tomorrow.

Little Ivan Pircenik-Sirsch, the center of a long and bitter international legal battle, was separated from his mother when she was sent to a concentration camp in 1943 for activity against the Nazis.

Near the end of World War II the family of former S. S. officer Gustave Sirsch took the boy into their home from a Nazi orphanage.

Prices Advance

The Greenville Tobacco Market yesterday sold 1,227,796 pounds of tobacco for an official average of $53.40.

Sales Supervisor W. L. Whedbee said this morning almost every grade of tobacco has advanced sharply, with an increase in volume of top grades selling for 570 or above.

"Many growers are averaging $60 or better for their entire offerings and they are well pleased with the prices they are now receiving," Whedbee declared.

Nixon Schedules Report Tonight

LOS ANGELES (UP)—Sen. Richard M. Nixon goes before the American people tonight to tell them what he did with a widely publicized $18,235 expense fund donated by wealthy backers.

The young Republican vice presidential nominee secluded himself in his hotel room during the day preparing the most important political speech of his life.

He already had been told by Dwight D. Eisenhower, GOP presidential nominee, that his place on the Republican ticket hinged on his explanation of how he used the money.

Nixon's aides said advance copies of the speech would not be available and no one would know what it contained until he addresses the nation at 8:30 to 9 p.m. EST in a radio and television broadcast.

There was a flurry of conflicting reports last night, however, on what Nixon would say.

Communists Probe UN Lines; Raids Repulsed

SEOUL, Korea (UP)—Communist soldiers launched 20 probing attacks across the Korean battlefield today, but U. N. troops battered them back with artillery, mortar and machine gun fire.

Six of the assaults came in the Bunker Hill area, four came around Heartbreak Ridge northwest of the punchbowl and three were on the east-central front near the rocky peak called "Luke the Cook's Castle."

An 8th Army briefing officer said he believed the probes were just "harassing actions."

Tax Evaders Are Caught In Drive

WASHINGTON (UP)—The drive against income tax evasion by racketeers has resulted in conviction of 236 persons who tried to cheat the government, the Internal Revenue Bureau reported today.

In a summary of its special tax fraud drive, the bureau said 288 cases involving 402 persons had been turned over to the Justice Department for prosecution. The 236 racketeers convicted were involved in 140 separate cases.

The bureau's racket squads have investigated 22,915 cases since they were created in April, 1951, following disclosures by the Senate Finance Committee headed by Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.).

Although many of the cases were eliminated from the racketeer class or closed for other reasons, the drive resulted in more than 10,000 cases in which revenue agents recommended that delinquents be assessed more than $107,865,502 for unpaid taxes and penalties.

In addition to the recommended assessments, the bureau is holding another 1,571 cases in "jeopardy assessment" involving more than $51,000,000 in unpaid taxes and penalties. Jeopardy assessments are filed when the money or the money might disappear before the government can act.

James J. Allman, assistant to the chief of the fraud drive, said the racket squads have "definitely been a success" and the number of cases investigated by the special agents increased until last December, but since then cases have been closed faster than new ones are added.

Norwegian Reds To Demonstrate Against Allies

OSLO, Norway (UP)—Norwegian Communists completed plans today to demonstrate against American and other Atlantic Pact warships due here at the end of Operation Malmbrance naval maneuvers.

Some 1,700 men of the giant NATO armada that participated in the 12-day maneuvers will steam up the Oslo fjord Thursday night in a flotilla led by the 45,000-ton U. S. battleship Wisconsin. Personnel were scheduled to get shore leave while top Allied commanders hold a critique on the eight-nation maneuvers.

Communist plans called for a youth rally against NATO culminating in a speech by Norwegian Red leader Ragnar Larsen on "the truth about Malmbrance."

The chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff set no time limit for turning over atomic information, but he let it be known he believes that eventually the U.S. is going to have to give some inside dope on atomic warfare to the military commanders.

Among other reasons Bradley listed at a Pentagon news conference was that some Allied nations have gained the false impression that mere U.S. possession of atomic weapons made it unnecessary for them to build up their own defenses.

He said he found out about this on an 11-day trip to Europe from which he has just returned. And, said Bradley:

N. C. Income And Costs Expected Reach New Highs

Budget Body Told General Fund May Approach 400 Million Dollars

RALEIGH (AP)—State income undoubtedly will hit a new high during the next two fiscal years, so will the cost of state government.

The Advisory Budget Commission, which began its hearings yesterday, was authoritatively told North Carolina's general fund revenues may soar close to 400 million dollars during the next biennium.

The commission, following a week of requests from department heads for funds to operate during the 1953-55 biennium, will make budget recommendations to the 1953 legislature.

Revenue Commissioner Eugene Shaw estimated the general fund would take in 180 million dollars during the current fiscal year, compared with the record-smashing 178 million last year. He foresaw a collection of 187 million the first year of the next biennium, and 195 million the second year.

James Currie, head of the State Department of Tax Research, estimated 183 million would be taken in this year, 192 next, and 197 to 198 million the final half of the next biennium.

The public relation of both sets of figures set a precedent.

Questions from the commission, usually the close-mouthed guardian of revenue estimates until the legislature convenes, brought the figures forth.

At the same time, Shaw asked for a $30,000 a year increase in the Revenue Department's budget, raising it to $2,287,931 the first year of the next biennium, and $2,329,064 for the second year. His request included 70 new employees with which he said tax collections could be tightened considerably.

He estimated sales tax collections alone could be increased by 10 per cent with a more adequate field force. "I would mean $5,200,000 more a year, since the sales tax brought in $2 million last year."

Other opening day requests included more money to operate the Agriculture Department, funds to increase state employees' salaries by 10 per cent and to reinforce pensions, plus other pleas for increased sums by other state agencies.

Sitting in on the hearings with the commission were Gov. Scott, Gov. Nominee William B. Umstead, and L. Her Hodges, Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor.

Clifton L. Eckwith, secretary of the State Employees Association, estimated it would take $15,436,000 to provide a 10 per cent pay increase for the 64,864 persons on the state payroll, including 36,769 teachers.

The Agriculture Department asked for $2,320,304 for the first year of the biennium and $2,344,897 for the second year. The department is spending $1,801,384 this year.

The Teachers and State Employees Retirement Fund said it wants to guarantee a minimum monthly retirement of $50 to all state workers retired at 20 years of service. This would require about $400,000 a year, it said.

The State Library Commission asked $620,000 for each year of the biennium compared with the $370,000 it now receives to help local libraries.

The Department of Labor asked for $406,177 and $401,227 for each year of the biennium compared with its current $311,523 budget and the attorney general's office asked $115,679 and $122,970 compared with $103,839 this year.

AFL Throws Its Support To Adlai

Caudle Declares Many Tried To Influence Work Names White House Aides And Congressmen Who Sought To Intervene

WASHINGTON (UP)—T. Lamar Caudle told House investigators today that congressmen and White House aides frequently tried to "influence" his judgment when he was the government's chief prosecutor of tax frauds.

President Truman fired Caudle Nov. 16 because of outside activities which the President said were "incompatible" with Caudle's Justice Department post.

Caudle testified that before his dismissal he had received many calls from congressmen, and Rep. Kenneth B. Keating (R-NY) commented that such efforts to influence the tax prosecutor were "highly improper."

Caudle was testifying for the third day before a Judiciary subcommittee investigating the Justice Department. He said he got calls from two White House aides in connection with tax cases.

He identified the aides as Matthew J. Connelly, Mr. Truman's appointment secretary, and David K. Niles, who resigned last spring as White House adviser on minority problems.

Keating asked if Caudle "went out of the way" to satisfy the White House aides.

"I suppose you'd say I leaned over backwards," Caudle replied. "I certainly was really courteous... genuinely courteous."

But he said in every case—whether the White House or congressmen were involved—he emphasized that unless arguments were supported by the facts "it wouldn't make a bit of difference" in the government's determination whether to prosecute.

"I told them that oral conversation didn't amount to a picayune," Caudle said.

The ousted assistant attorney general previously had named Sens. Harley M. Kilgore (D-WV) and William Langer (R-NDD), former Claude Pepper (D-Fla) and Scott W. Lucas (D-Ill), and Rep. Robert L. Doughton (D-NC) as congressmen who called him on various cases.

Today he added to the list the name of former Rep. Lansdale G. Sasser (D-Md.).

He said Sasser called him in connection with a charge that Earl Sheriff, a sheriff in Prince George's County, Md., evaded income tax payments on $25,000 to $27,000 he received as "protection for rackets."

He said Sasser told him he "hoped something could be done so Sheriff wouldn't be indicted." But Caudle said he was determined to prosecute the case and was "pretty cautious" in discussing it with Sasser because "I didn't want to embarrass him."

Sheriff subsequently pleaded guilty and "got a substantial sentence," Caudle said.

Caudle said Niles once asked him to confer with an attorney for the owner of a New York firm who was accused of failing to report a "tremendous amount" of income. He said the total was "way up yonder" — between $500,000 and $600,000.

He said the New Yorker finally was indicted.

Caudle said he had "many, many conferences with congressmen and senators both over the telephone and in my office." He estimated he got "four or five telephone calls a week," many of which lasted for an hour or more.

Bradley Says U. S. Must Some Day Share Secrets

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gen. Omar Bradley said today that sooner or later the United States must give atomic warfare secrets to Allied military commanders in Europe.

The chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff set no time limit for turning over atomic information, but he let it be known he believes that eventually the U.S. is going to have to give some inside dope on atomic warfare to the military commanders.

Among other reasons Bradley listed at a Pentagon news conference was that some Allied nations have gained the false impression that mere U.S. possession of atomic weapons made it unnecessary for them to build up their own defenses.

He said he found out about this on an 11-day trip to Europe from which he has just returned. And, said Bradley:

Convention Unanimously Urges Eight Million Union Members To Vote For Stevenson; Endorsement Is First Such Since 1881; Confidence In Candidate Voiced

NEW YORK (UP)—The 71st annual American Federation of Labor convention unanimously adopted today a report urging the 8,098,302 AFL members to vote for Adlai E. Stevenson for president of the United States.

The endorsement of the Democratic candidate was the first by an AFL convention since the federation was founded in 1881. It was the first AFL backing of a presidential ticket since 1924. However, the endorsement of the elder Robert M. LaFollette, the progressive candidate, in the year was by the executive council and not by convention vote.

The vote today came after the delegates had given a one-minute cheering reception to the report prepared by the executive council, which said that Stevenson "inspires our full confidence."

"Fully conscious of our responsibility as trade union leaders and as Americans, we advise and urge each and every member of the AFL to vote for Adlai E. Stevenson for president of the United States on Nov. 4," the report said.

The executive council, composed of 13 vice-presidents plus AFL President William Green and Secretary-Treasurer George Meany, had drafted the report during the night.

"Gov. Stevenson has acquired knowledge, training and experience in the problems of government as the chief executive of a great state," the report said. "He has shown himself throughout the campaign to be a man of courage, humility and integrity, as well as of great personal charm."

"He told us forthrightly in his address to this convention that he is in favor of the Taft-Hartley Act and its replacement with a new law that will deal fairly and justly with labor-management problems and protect the public interest."

"His campaign has been marked by intelligent, specific discussion of campaign issues. He has not evaded. He has not equivocated... brief, he inspires our full confidence."

The report said the Democratic platform is responsive to the needs and desires of the workers and liberal-minded persons. The Republican platform, it said, "is responsive to the demands of the ultra-conservative, anti-union elements in the nation."

It said Dwight D. Eisenhower, the Republican candidate, had won the respect of the people with his military achievements. However, it added:

"There is little evidence available on record that General Eisenhower possesses any intimate knowledge of, or experience with, the great domestic problems facing our nation."

Stevenson was cheered wildly when he addressed the convention yesterday.

It was believed the convention might adjourn late today—one day ahead of schedule—after election of officers and a speech by Federal Mediation Director Cyrus Ching. It has been in session since Monday of last week.

In a report to the convention today, James L. McDevitt, director of Labor's League for Political Education, told the delegates:

"You can't negotiate a decent contract until the Taft-Hartley Act is wiped off the statute books. The only way to get rid of Taft-Hartley is to elect 90 senators and 218 representatives who feel the same way. Wishing won't elect them. It takes political action."

Date Pointers To Add Glamor

By BETTY CLARKE
AP Newsfeature-Beauty Editor

There's no season like beau season and in every school girl's life, that happy time starts as soon as school bells ring and autumn leaves begin to fall. No matter how much fun you've had all summer, the season for parties and dances and many more dates is in fall and winter. It is then that roommate Susie or next-door-neighbor Sally can be depended on to rustle up a brother or a cousin for a date now and then. Even a girl who is normally a wallflower finds date possibilities are increased in the fall when school parties get under way. There are not always enough girls to go around, so she stands a fair chance of being asked for a date occasionally.

If she's smart she'll be prepared for a date at the drop of a handkerchief. She will not wait until she is ready to climb into a dress to discover that the slide fastener is broken or that she has outgrown it. Nor will she wait until an hour before the door buzzer sounds to locate her party makeup.

A box should be labeled "dates" and into its recesses should go such things as glittering earrings, pearls, evening bag, lipstick, rouge and other date accessories.

Some girls need more makeup than others, even though they have youthful complexions. A girl with shallow skin, nondescript light hair and greyish eyes will look drab, sometimes under bright lights, unless she adds a dab of artificial enchantment. Her paint box should include eyeshadow, eyebrow pencil, eyelash curler, lipstick, rouge and powder.

One manufacturer has packaged a purse-size paint box. In its plastic container are two lipsticks, a true red and one a bit lighter, and powder and puff. If you wish to carry just one lipstick, the extra space can be used for other beauty aids such as bobby pins.

It offers a choice of makeup. If you've a pinky skin tone the two lipsticks offer pink and more pink. The alternate set starts with powder in the popular South American shades recommended for girls with peach skin tones.

Makeup can enhance your looks when it is applied carefully. So no matter how great the temptation might be to emphasize your makeup to the hilt, remember there is no substitute for makeup which is so subtle that even your best friend can't tell.

40 Years Ago Grifton WSCS Has Meeting

THE DAILY REFLECTOR
September 23, 1912

The buzz of infantile and youthful prattle centered once more this morning around the Greenville Graded School, when scores of children went back at the beginning of another school year to further the work of education and fitness to later on fight their fights through a life which we hope will be long and in spite of the fight happy.

Familiar desks and likewise familiar scratches thereon were greeted by the youthful scholars this morning. Old young faces met old young faces and not a few new ones. The gathering of the youthful knowledge seekers was numerous and animated and amongst other things made apparent that the progress of the school is alarming when the size of the building in which these young people are taught is taken into consideration.

A congested school in a town progressing at the rate Greenville is doing is entirely incongruous. It can not be. It must not be. However we do not doubt that the remedy will be soon found and applied.

Members of the Christian Church will rejoice to learn that the pulpit of their church, which was vacated by Rev. C. C. Ware about a year ago, will again be occupied at an early date by a permanent pastor. It has not been ascertained as to when Rev. J. J. Walker, from Wilson, who accepted the call, will come to Greenville. It may be before the convention meets in Farmville in November, or again before that date.

D. C. Cowan Funeral Planned Wednesday

Mr. D. C. Cowan, 70, died suddenly at his home near Williamston Monday night at 8:45 o'clock.

Funeral services will be conducted at the home Wednesday afternoon at three o'clock by Elder A. B. Ayers, Primitive Baptist minister of Beagraw. Burial will be in the Robersonville cemetery.

Mr. Cowan, son of the late John A. and Cassie Mizelle Cowan, was born and spent his entire life in Martin County. He was married to Miss Zella Whitener in 1908. He was a farmer.

Write Gives Suggestions To Make Husbands Talk

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Newsfeature Writer

Silent husbands, concealed behind the sports pages of newspapers, are the most popular subject in the advice field this season. This I know because of my highly specialized literary diet.

It is apparent that the experts who write and counsel on affairs of the heart and on marriage are deluged with urgent bulletins from wives seeking a magic recipe for sure-fire conversational gambits which will relieve the usual evening silence which, from the letters, is unbroken by anything other than the clatter of forks on china and the sloshing of the dishwashing machine.

The uniform complaint of the wives seems to be that their husbands don't pay attention to anything they are saying and seem anxious only to retreat to the sanctuary of the easy chair.

I have been contemplating these anguished requests and the experts' answers for quite awhile now, and I regret to state that so far none of the specialists has been able to evolve any specific formulae for turning the family living room into a salon. These experts invariably come up with a forthright — and slightly obvious deduction — that husbands who don't pay attention to their wives don't pay attention because they aren't interested in what their wives are saying. Their solution is simple: talk about something husbands ARE interested in. Then they pass to another letter and another problem, like being overweight.

The question which logically arises is what on earth kind of talk does a man appreciate from his wife? Apparently the experts are unanimously agreed that when a man drags home from a long tiring day at the office, he wants to relax, doesn't want to be peppered immediately with the household problems and cares infinitely more about what's cooking and the Yankee's standing than he does about Mrs. Thompson's new dye job which turned out too red.

Right there, it seems to me, is the crux of the problem. Most women would be interested in having their husbands regale them with the details of the day at the office — the way he confounded the boss, finagled a new account and what he had to eat during that two-hour luncheon conference with the Wisconsin district manager.

Maybe she should bone up on baseball. I have noticed, however, that male baseball enthusiasts prefer to talk batting averages with other male baseball enthusiasts. Discussions of current events aren't as fascinating in female as they are at more formal occasions. Frankly, it's hard to find any subject guaranteed to rouse the interest of the work-wearied male. There seems, however, a rather simple solution to the problem: Eliminate attempts at conversation. Greet him quietly and silently. Feed him quietly and well. Without the necessity of ignoring conversation, the contrary male will probably wonder what's wrong and start doing some interested and nervous questioning himself. Answer briefly and non-committally.

When he retires behind the newspaper, retire yourself behind a magazine or book. You probably won't have a moment's peace. Your day will seem mysterious to him, fraught with fascinating episodes he must pry from your reluctant lips. Sensing your reluctance to query him, an hour-by-hour account of his day will flow from him. Simple?

New Church Organized Has Supper

GRIFTON—On Wednesday night members of the Missionary Baptist Church met at the rooms in which they are temporarily using, for a Fellowship Supper which preceded the regular prayer service.

A number of the ladies of the church under the direction of Mesdames Jim Smith, Gene Martin, John Looney and Paul Bradley were in charge of the supper, which was enjoyed by the group.

After the supper a business meeting was conducted by the Rev. L. Grady Burgess, who is pastor of the church. Plans for the building program which is to be started as soon as possible were discussed. The finance and building committees are headed by Mr. W. H. Gower and Mrs. Paul Bradley.

The church is newly organized and is making progress in its work. This month a group of the ladies of the church met at the home of Mrs. W. E. McFall in Grifton Heights to form the Woman's Missionary Union. They were assisted in this organization by Mrs. Leland Kitchen of Scotland Neck, who is president of the Roanoke Baptist Association W.M.U. and is also first vice president in the state. Mrs. I. J. Spear was made president of the local women's work.

Red Oak News

"When you come to the end of a perfect day," a day which began very early in the morning for the housewives who were carrying picnic dinners out to the church for our Homecoming Day, and which ended about eleven o'clock that night, "and you sit all alone with your thoughts" and just ponder if the day meant as much to the hundreds of members and friends who were present, as it did to you!

A downpour of rain very early in the morning did not dampen our spirits and by ten o'clock over one hundred had assembled for the Sunday School hour. The morning worship service began at eleven o'clock and many of our members and friends had arrived by that time. Reverend Harold Tyer brought a wonderful message. Mrs. Clarissa Edwards May sang, "Tell Me the Story of Jesus" in a most impressive manner. Mr. Clifton Crawford, one of our former church members, who now lives in Elizabethtown, played the organ for the morning period.

The rains ceased, the clouds disappeared and dinner was spread picnic style under the large shade trees. There are many good cooks in the Red Oak community and an abundance of evidence of this could be seen as one looked at the table after the food had been placed on it. An estimated crowd of four hundred enjoyed this bountiful repast. Many servings of food was sent to the sick in the community. An old colored woman who has been sick in bed for months was remembered with a nice basket.

Dr. Glenn Haney of Greenville offered thanks and every one joined in singing "Blest Be The Tie That Binds."

As the first strains of music poured forth from the church after dinner, an over-flow crowd came in. Chairs were placed in the aisles and many stood at the doors. They had just been served "food for the body" and now they were going to be served "food for the soul." The audience joined in singing "The Old Rugged Cross" after which Mr. H. H. May led the congregation in singing "Amazing Grace" as our forefathers sang it, without any music and with Mr. May "lining out" the words.

Mrs. Jackie Kinsaul sang in a very sweet manner "In The Garden." Mrs. Kinsaul has a most pleasant voice to listen to and the audience was very much impressed. Mr. James Bullock's "Little Ladies Choir" sang two numbers, "Lord of Gallilee" and "Gallilean Call." This choir is composed of fifteen little girls around twelve years of age. One organization of the church was so impressed by their singing that they are going to purchase and make choir capes for each one of them.

The Pitt County Choral Club added much to the enjoyment of the afternoon. They sang two groups of songs. The first group was "God of Our Fathers" and "Fairest Lord Jesus." The second group was "The Green Cathedral" and "God Bless America." Mrs. Clarissa May Directed the group and Mrs. Paul Davenport was pianist. The Pitt County Choral Club has been invited to sing before the National Meeting of Home Demonstration clubs in Raleigh in October.

Dr. Robert L. Holt, director of Religious Education at East Carolina College, brought a most inspiring and challenging message. This was followed by "The Holy City" sung by Mrs. May. Mrs. B. L. Tyson accompanied her on the piano.

When Dr. Elizabeth Utterbach of ECC sang "I'll Go Where You Want Me To Go, Dear God," it was indeed a most inspiring moment. "Food for the Soul" was surely provided by Dr. Utterbach.

A Men's Chorus of about thirty voices sang "Where We Will Never Grow Old," "Seeking the Lost," "The Awakening Chorus, and God Be With You Till We Meet Again."

The audience joined in singing these wonderful hymns which brought to a close one of the very best Homecoming Day programs ever held at the church, one that will be long remembered by all who were present.

When the last vestige of food and paper plates and cups had been cleared away we journeyed to our homes to take a little rest, only to enjoy an anti-climax of the day at the home of Mrs. John Crawford when Circle No. 1 held its meeting. Major and Mrs. Clayton Andrews were guests at the circle and after a few matters of business were attended to, Major Andrews, with the help of colored slides and moving pictures took us for a trip to Japan. He had many beautiful pictures of the farm lands, cities, General MacArthur, the Emperor's palace, parades, natives and their costumes, etc. of Japan. He has just recently returned to the Pentagon after a 3-year tour of duty with the Army Intelligence Corps.

Germany, Austria, Bavaria, the Swiss Alps, Canada and last but not least many beautiful pictures of America were shown. Major Andrews, at one time, lived in this community and it had been sixteen years since he had been to Red Oak. It was indeed a "Homecoming" for him.

The lovely arrangements of flowers used in the church were sent to Mr. Albert Allen who is critically ill at his home; and to Mr. Fenner Allen, who is in Pitt Memorial Hospital suffering from an injury caused by a frightened beast; and to Mrs. Mimi Tripp, who is an invalid at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Jarvis Tripp Sr.; and to Mrs. Cornelia Garris of Greenville, one of our older church members.

The Sircshes who said their only concern was "Ivan's happiness" last night said they would ask the session to send the boy back to his three judges in tomorrow's court mother.

Arctic Air Base Is Contrast Of Modern And Ancient Civilization

By CHARLES CORDRY
United Press Aviation Writer
THULE, Greenland (UP)—This bleak, primitive Eskimo settlement is as far north as people live in this world.

Man's relentless conquest of the polar areas has taken him to weather stations and air strips closer to the North Pole. But no native populations live farther north along the entire Arctic rim.

To reach Thule village, you take a navy landing craft from the Thule Air Force Base, scoot across a mile of frigid, ice-berg-laden bay which soon will be frozen solid, and disembark on a gravel beach.

The mile of water separates incredibly different worlds midway between the Arctic Circle and the North Pole. The coming of the Americans and their big silver birds has made no impression on the 80 Eskimos of Thule or the 200 or more in the surrounding district.

Life goes on here as it has since the dawn of existence. This is "practically the only place in the world where the old-fashioned Eskimo life still is being lived," explains Eske Brunn, chief of the Danish government's Greenland department.

hide of a white hare. The hare itself, easily two feet long, is on a rack above the stove. There is an overpowering aroma in the air-tight room. If you linger you see pages from a March, 1951, Saturday Evening Post nailed on the wall and two alarm clocks tick loudly.

Outside, the Greenland dogs, skinnier versions of Alaska huskies, lie on the ground and wish for winter when hunting will mean that they get fed again.

In the distance is tiny cemetery, the graves covered with rocks and marked by wood crosses, where are buried both Danes and Eskimos. Back at the beach, perhaps a mile walk over the rocks, you pause before the Danish radio station and the home of the Danish inspector.

One of the Danes' cardinal policies is to see that the Eskimo way of life is unimpaired.

Hunting and a small trading post provide them all their needs and they are the "happiest people in the world," says Brunn. "They are entirely unconcerned with what goes on in the air base. There is no game there. It is much more fun to hunt walrus than to fly."

Professor Wins His Doctorate

James L. White, faculty member of the department of business education at East Carolina College, was recently awarded the Doctor of Education degree in business education from Columbia University.

Dr. White has rejoined the college faculty here after more than a year's leave of absence, during which he was in New York City completing his work on the degree.

Dr. White's doctoral dissertation was done in connection with the development of a curriculum for a new vocational and technical high school in Hackensack, N.J. It is entitled "A Study of High School Drop-outs in Bergen County, New Jersey, and the Relationship of Drop-outs to Guidance Practices, with Special Reference to Business and Vocational Education."

A graduate of Mars Hill College and of East Carolina College, Dr. White has been assistant professor of business education at East Carolina since 1948. Before joining the faculty here, he taught in Floral Park, N.Y., and at Georgia Teachers College in Collegeboro. He is the son of Sidney R. White of Scotland Neck and the late Mrs. Mary D. White.

Aircraft Plants Still Strikebound

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The vast Lockheed and Douglas El Segundo aircraft plants remained strikebound today. Negotiations between the companies and the AFL International Association of Machinists have broken down.

There were no immediate plans to resume peace talks.

The union said an announced back to work movement at El Segundo met with little success yesterday. A group calling itself the Committee for Union Democracy sponsored the move. E. Roy Blow, president of the IAM local, claimed it was company-sponsored.

The union struck Sept. 15 for 9 cents more an hour, plus a union shop. Douglas offered 5. This figure was accepted by the IAM local at the Santa Monica plant.

Lockheed strikers seek 14 cents an hour more. The company offered 9 to 11. The Lockheed walk-out began Sept. 8.

The strikes have idled 40,000 workers and crippled warplane production.

Dirksen Appeals For 'Big Broom'

OSHKOSH, Wis. (UP)—Sen. Everett Dirksen (R-Ill) told about 1,000 cheering Republicans that a GOP Congress would give Dwight D. Eisenhower a "big broom" and enable him "to sweep Washington clean."

Dirksen, who spoke here last night, did not mention Sen. Richard M. Nixon in his hour and 10 minute speech, but told reporters that he was waiting for all the facts before judging a dispute over an $18,235 expense fund given to Nixon.

The Illinois senator blasted Democratic spending, taxation, "the debacle of peace and war," "the phoney issue of prosperity" and corruption.

Solon Describes Stevenson As 'College Clown'

DALE, Ind. (UP)—Sen. William E. Jenner (R-Ind) called Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson a "strange and sinister madcap character" and an "over-aged college clown" yesterday.

In a re-election campaign speech here last night, Jenner said Stevenson "refuses to abandon the plus-the-indiana senator, referring four campus cutup stuff."

"The smirks and sneers of smart aleck Adlai," said Jenner.

"The general (Dwight D. Eisenhower) knows war as a soldier and not as a croquet colonel on the playing fields of Springfield. America can never save herself by electing as the head of our government men who are frivolous and light-minded."

Jenner said Stevenson was in college in the days "when ultra-exhibitionist undergraduates were swallowing goldfish."

Air Base Not To Be Reactivated Before April

RALEIGH (UPI)—Reactivation of the Raleigh-Durham Air Force Base will not begin before next April, a letter from an Air Force spokesman said today.

Brig. Gen. E. L. Eaton, Air Force director of legislation and liaison said the Army chief of Engineers will communicate with Mayor E. J. Evans of Durham in regard to the acquisition of additional lands and the leasing of the expanded air base to the government.

Eaton told Rep. Harold Cooley the Air Force will need accommodations for about 1,065 military families when the base is reactivated next year.

'Unwritten Law' Reigns As Jury Sets Man Free

MARQUETTE, Mich. (UP)—A regular Army officer went free under the "unwritten law" today after being tried in the fatal shooting of a tavern owner who allegedly raped his wife.

A Circuit Court jury deliberated five hours last night before finding First Lt. Coleman Petersen, 38, innocent of first degree murder in the death July 30 of Maurice K. (Mike) Chenoweth, 48, a former state policeman.

The verdict was innocent "by reason of insanity," and requires Petersen to appear at a hearing before the State Sanity Commission. No date was set for the hearing.

Petersen, an El Paso, Tex., native and a veteran of World War II and the Korean war, said, "Thank God" when the verdict was announced and threw his arms around his shapely, red-haired wife Charlotte, 42. Both burst into tears.

Petersen and his wife were living at a trailer camp near here while his anti-aircraft unit, based at Camp McCoy, Wis., was on maneuvers.

Mrs. Petersen testified she went to Chenoweth's tavern to buy some beer for her husband and that Chenoweth gave her a ride home "because there are too many rough lumberjacks around here for a woman to be alone at night."

She said he beat and raped her once and tried to attack her a second time when she escaped.

Petersen testified he made his wife swear on a rosary that she had been attacked, then took his German Luger pistol and headed for Chenoweth's tavern.

"When I walked in I saw Chenoweth watching me in a mirror," Petersen said. "He was behind the bar. He whirled around and from then on it's jumbled. My next recollection is back in the trailer."

Sheriff's deputies who arrested Petersen a few minutes later said he told them, "I shot him. It's as simple as that."

Florida's Gift Came Too Late

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (UP)—Gov. Fuller Warren of Florida, stopping here on a good-will trip yesterday, brought along a bag of grapefruit for Gov. Johnston Murray.

"Florida citrus is good for your teeth," Warren said.

"Thanks," Murray said, clicking his denture, "but you're a little too late."

wide difference of opinion as to the the switching of one-time rec. . . national leaders may have on the average voters down the line. Whether Governor Byrnes in South Carolina and General Kennell Royall in North Carolina can take many of their personal and political friends with them for Eisenhower cannot be determined yet. Neither can it be determined what influence the desertion of Senator Wayne Morse of Oregon will have in his own and other states.

LEADERSHIP - Other observers think that the "leadership" of some of these big names has been overrated. There is some question as to whether they are really leading or following. It is conceded in many quarters that the late Senator F. M. Simmons did not "lead" North Carolina into the Hoover camp in 1938. Rather, he sensed that a majority of the people of this State had made up their minds they would not vote for Al Smith under any circumstances. There is presently none of the emotional frenzy and

More was head of the department of music education, School of Music, at the Woman's College in Greensboro.

The meeting Thursday will be the first to be held this fall by the Delta Chapter of the national honorary society for women in education. It is scheduled for 5:45 p.m. in the Fellowship Hall of the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church.

The program will combine an initiation ceremony for three new members and a dinner, at which Miss More will speak. Mrs. Howard Mims, chapter president, is in charge of arrangements for the meeting.

New members who will be initiated into the society Thursday include Miss Sarah Harding of Greenville, who will become an honorary member; Mrs. Robert Wolf, teacher in the West Greenville School; and Mrs. Pauline H. Robbins of Bayboro.

Miss More has been identified with the activities of Delta Kappa Gamma for a number of years. She is a charter member of the Alpha Chapter of Greensboro. During 1948-1950, she served as state president of the North Carolina Chapter, and she was elected at the national convention in Chicago this year as director of the Southeast Region. At various times in the North Carolina organization she has been a member of the Expansion, the Music, and the Scholarship committees. For the past two years she has served on the national Nomenclature Committee.

Huckleberry Bushes Are Suspected 'Oldest Life'

By JOHN KOENIG, Jr.
AP Newfeatures
NEW BLOOMFIELD, Pa.—That huckleberry bush may be the oldest living thing in the world. Here in the woods of central Pennsylvania just such a claim is made.

And the Commonwealth itself thinks enough of the vaunted boast to have set aside and marked one patch of box huckleberry for special preservation.

The network of green-leaved vine, both above and below ground, covers many acres and is believed to be 13,000 years old. Pennsylvania's Department of Forests and Waters owns four acres of this along a road near New Bloomfield's little airport in Perry County.

How are the berry bushes known to be 13,000 years old? Simply by a process of deduction and calculation. Alber R. Mickalitis, senior research forester for the Forests and Waters Department, and other botanists hold that the plant does not germinate.

In other words, its seeds do not sprout into new plants. No seedlings have been found. They believe therefore that the colony originated from a single plant.

The box huckleberry, under favorable conditions, grows about six inches a year, says Mickalitis.

Working on that basis it can be calculated that it would take about 13,000 years to cover the area now occupied.

The patch now owned by the state was discovered many years ago. It covers 100 acres.

Other occurrences of natural growth of the shrub since have been found in Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, Kentucky and Tennessee.

Question Report Of Union Vote

GREENSBORO (UP)—Officials of the AFL-United Textile Workers of America requested today a report that an AFL local at Cones Mills, near River plant, voted Sunday to rejoin the CIO Textile Workers Union of America.

Luther Carroll, manager of the AFL-UTW Greensboro - Burlington joint board, said that at the time of the bolt from the CIO there were only 150 dues-payers in the local.

"Since then 170 of the 150 have personally requested the company to discontinue checking off their dues to the CIO Union and recognize their membership in the AFL," Carroll said.

The East Carolina College Pirates yesterday got down to the deadly serious business of preparing for their North State Conference opener but they got very little help from the weather. The cold rain which fell most of the day drove them inside the spacious new gym where they went through a short dummy scrimmage before Coach Jack Boone released them for the day.

The conference opener for the Pirates will be the first game of the year for their opponents, the powerful Lenoir-Rhyne Bears. The Bucs haven't had a chance to scout the Bears but the gentlemen from Lenoir-Rhyne have been very much present at the two games which the Pirates have played.

The defending champion Bears, favored to repeat this year because of the number of lettermen on hand, have been working out since September 1. They haven't checked their single-wing strength against outside opposition but Coach Clarence Stassovich doesn't seem to be especially worried. For the most part, he's seen the team play for three years and he knows what they're able to do.

One of his biggest battles Stassovich has is trying to get them in the right frame of mind for their opener. That might be just a wee bit hard to do and if the Bears come on the field with the wrong attitude Saturday, they're liable to find themselves on the other end of the stick this year.

Red faces department: Number one honoree is Coach Bob Spangler whose Catawba team got wallowed (but good) by Camp Lejeune Saturday afternoon.

Before the season started, Spangler told Steve Guback of the Winston-Salem Journal that he didn't expect to have his team really tested until October 18 when the Indians played Appalachian. He talked more and said that he felt the team would win "at least eight" games this fall and "with a little luck," they could win all ten.

We wonder if Spangler feels that his team was "tested" Saturday? But we aren't crowing too much. We might be the ones to eat a few words before the season is over. Anyway, we'll wait until after October 4 to do our talking. On that day, the Indians come to Greenville for the East Carolina homecoming game.

The Greenville Phantoms will finally come home this weekend after being on the road for their first three games of the year. Opponents for the Friday night contest will be the Kinston Red Devils.

The Red Devils, usually a power in Northeastern Conference football, have been having a rough time this year. They got wallowed 26-0 by Methodist Orphanage in their opener. Last week, they beat LaGrange 7-0 but they had a rough time doing it.

The Phantoms have won two out of three thus far. They bumped off both Morehead City and Edenton before running into a rugged team from Hertford. The win over Edenton is a Northeastern Conference victory and gives the Phantoms a head start on the other members of the league.

Strictly on the basis of performance thus far, the Phantoms will be favored in Friday night's game. But Coach Bill Kittrell and the Phantoms know better than to think that such a situation will automatically make them the winners. They'll be at Guy Smith Stadium every afternoon this week—trying to brush up on their attack.

They haven't forgotten last year's 42-6 defeat at the hands of Bryant Aldridge and company.

Tickets for the game can be obtained from the high school or at the gate Friday night.

Williamston Faces Tough Schedule For 1952 Season

Opening Game Loss Brought Out Many Faults In Greenway Attack; Team Still Determined To Win

By HERMAN HICKMAN

"I think we've got a good hard charging team," said Head Coach Carroll Blackerby, in summing up the football prospects at Williamston High for the coming year.

"We need more offensive timing. Opening game proved that our timing needed a lot of work. Of course we made a lot of other mistakes but the timing is the main thing," continued Blackerby. "The spirit of the team is at a high peak even after our 1916 defeat to Washington."

In the opening game against the Pam Pack Co-Captain Buddy Pussell stood out with several nice catches of passes thrown by Quarterbacks Wilbur Stewart and Jacob Zemon. Zemon, a junior, has moved from end to quarterback this season and performed admirably in the opening game. Blackerby cited Zemon for his terrific defensive play.

Bobby Mobley, an end who drops back to do all the punting for the Greenway, got off some nice boots for an average of 38.5 in the opener. Fred Sherman, former University of North Carolina star, is assisting Coach Blackerby in spare time away from a job with a local Williamston firm. Blackerby gained quite a reputation as a passer for the Wake Forest Demon Deacons before graduation in 1950.

Farm Life High in Williamston has consolidated with Williamston High this year. Two promising prospects from Farm Life are James Perry and James "Froggy" Gurkin. Coach Blackerby described them as "very promising for first year men." They are sophomores.

The squad numbers 35 candidates in all with 12 lettermen. This is the largest squad ever to represent Williamston but Blackerby asserted that a lack of reserves would be felt.

"We've got a rough schedule, outside of playing good teams in the Albemarle Conference we are scheduled for Washington, Edenton and Ayden. With a schedule like that we will need some strong reserve strength before the season is over."

Pirates Work Inside For Game With Bears

Rain yesterday chased the East Carolina College gridders inside but the Pirates still managed to get in a workout by using the facilities of the college's new gymnasium. The work yesterday was confined to limbering-up exercises and a short dummy scrimmage of plays which will be used Saturday against Lenoir-Rhyne.

If the cool, but dry, weather holds up through the afternoon, the Pirates are expected to return to the practice fields where they will resume their contact work. Coaches Jack Boone and Clyde Biggers are expected to stress pass defense since that department is where the Pirates showed their biggest weakness Saturday.

The contest for the Bears will be played in Hickory and will be the first game of the year for the team which is favored to repeat as North State Conference champion. Coach Clarence Stassovich has been drilling the squad twice-a-day since September 1 and has pronounced them as being in shape for the game.

The East Carolina defensive line, which has performed well in the two games thus far, will have a real job on its hands Saturday. Many of the members of the Buc forward wall were on the team last year when Steve Trudnak and company rolled to a 42-14 win over the Pirates.

Trudnak will be back at fullback for the Bears and will have practically the same crew which ran with him last year. Jim Garrett, a 218-pound blockbuster who wrecked the Pirates with his buck-lateral series last year, will be back at blocking back. Bill Crook, a talented passer, will be at tailback and Gene Robinson, half the famous combination of twins, Jerry and Gene, will be at tailback. The other Robinson will understudy Crook at tailback.

All of the starting backfield men in the Bear line-up are seniors. The line lost some strength by graduation but Stassovich has managed to find a letterman for practically every position.

As has been in the case in the first two games, the Bucs are expected to balance their veterans with several newcomers in the line-up. Frank Turner, a freshman, will be at left tackle. George Tucker, a transfer student, will be at left guard. James Faircloth will be used as one of the first-team line backers and will give relief at the offensive center position. Freshman backs, plentiful and talented quantity, will be available to relieve the first-team men.

The Pirates came through Saturday's 37-6 win over the Newport News (Va.) Apprentice School without any really serious injuries but there is the possibility that a couple of the squad members might miss the conference opener. End Bob Chambers, a freshman from Salisbury, is on crutches and missed yesterday's drill. End Bobby Hodges, a junior from Kinston and a candidate for All-Conference honors, dressed in light gear out had to quit early to rest a weak ankle which was injured in the first half of Saturday's game. Hodges is expected to be able to go full speed before the week is out.

Early Wynn Hurls Tribe Within One Game Of Yankees

By NORMAN MILLER

United Press Sports Writer NEW YORK (UP)—Today in Brooklyn should come the realization of a dream shattered 350 days ago by Bobby Thomson's haunting homer.

This could be the fulfillment of the "next year" in which the pennant hopes of the Flatbush faithful have resided ever since their tragic miss in 1951.

In the Brooklyn clubhouse, the champagne is on ice in the expectation of a pennant celebration. And the Dodgers possibly can achieve their goal with no more effort than the twist of a television dial.

The Dodgers, who play the Phillies in a twilight-night doubleheader at Ebbets Field, will assemble early around the clubhouse television set to follow the progress of the New York Giants—Boston Braves afternoon twin bill at the Polo Grounds approximately 10 miles away.

One defeat for the Giants will clinch Brooklyn's third pennant in the last six years. And if the Giants sweep the doubleheader, Brooklyn still can clinch with a victory in either game against the Philadelphia Phils.

While the Dodgers' worries are expected to be over by midnight at the latest, the same cannot be said for the New York Yankees and Cleveland Indians who still are waging an all-out battle for the American League pennant.

The Indians, who shaved the Yankees' first place margin to one game by beating the Tigers, 6-3, yesterday, play the White Sox in Cleveland; the Yankees face the Red Sox in Boston. Both are afternoon games.

Manager Al Lopez of the Indians, steadfastly rotating his three aces (Early Wynn, Mike Garcia and Bob Lemon) with only two days of rest, shoots with 22-game winner Garcia today against Joe Dobson of the Chicago White Sox.

Wynn recorded his 23rd victory of the season yesterday as the Indians came from behind to beat the Tigers for their sixth straight triumph and their 15th in the last 17 games.

Cleveland broke a 3-3 tie in the sixth inning when Wynn and Dale Mitchell walked, and Tiger shortstop Harvey Kuen missed Bobby Avila's grounder.

dressed in light gear out had to quit early to rest a weak ankle which was injured in the first half of Saturday's game. Hodges is expected to be able to go full speed before the week is out.

Curtis Brothers Fo To Wrestle Here

The Curtis Brothers, George and Jack, a pair of the hottest matmen on the wrestling circuit these days are coming to Greenville.

The brothers are a very popular tag team who are recognized as champions of the state of Mississippi, are making quite a name for themselves on the wrestling circuit.

Pitted against the brothers will be equally competent wrestlers. Mike DiBiase, 235 lbs., from Omaha, Nebraska, a football star and grad from the University of Nebraska, will go against George Curtis.

Lou Newman, 235 lbs., Seattle Washington, a wrestling veteran of 10 years, will take on Jack Curtis. Newman is a powerfully built man with a 38 inch waist and 54-inch shoulders.

Also appearing on the program will be Miss Betty Hawkins, Miami, Florida, who won the girls wrestling championship of the state, will take on Miss Carol Cook, Ohio State champion. Miss Cook is well known in wrestling circles all over the United States. She wrestled Miss Mildred Burke, Lady Wrestling Champion, for the title and lost a close decision.

Chapter 29
It was growing lighter now, and as Clay turned back toward the camp he saw Lopez' body half hidden in the underbrush with the head beaten into a bloody, almost unrecognizable mass. By now the five renegades were far out on the prairie, moving as fast as the wagon would travel, with an alert rear guard of desperate, dangerous men.

Even if he caught them, found them by some miracle out there on the endless stretches of the prairie, he would be outnumbered five to one, outnumbered by men who were well aware that once he was dead there was no one else on earth with any interest whatever in hunting them down or visiting retribution upon them.

He lifted his hand in a gesture of salute and farewell.
"Adios, amigos," he said softly. "I'll see to it that you have a few of your old friends to go with you."

He touched Kentucky with the spurs and rode out of the clearing, his face a grim mask of anger, his gun loose in its holster.

It was almost sundown when he found them. They had made good time and avoided the trail, but at Timber River there was no ford except the one where the main trail struck the river, and they were obliged to rejoin the trail before they could cross.

Evidently they were in trouble, for across the stillness of the prairie he could hear the snapping of whips and the sharp cracking of Spanish profanity.

He dropped Kentucky's reins to the ground and made his way, snake-like, to the crest of the hill. Half hidden in the long grass, he surveyed the scene before him.

The wagon was mired down in the center of the river, halfway across the ford. Antonio was standing waist deep in the water, the long lash of his whip snapping and crackling above the plunging, straining wagon mules. The other four men were mounted, and taut lassos stretched from their saddle horns to the wagon as they urged their mounts forward in a futile effort to get the wagon under way again. It was a bad situation for them, since the emergency had forced them to call in the men who would ordinarily have been on guard.

Clay grinned as he lifted the long rifle and drew a bead on the whip-cracking, swearing Antonio. He pulled the trigger just as Antonio's whip exploded in an ear-splitting crack so that the two sounds blended into one.

The aim was true and Antonio collapsed beneath the surface of the water as if he had been slugged with an ax. For a moment the others did not realize he was gone, and then Ramon cried out in amazement and spurred his horse through the water toward the spot where Antonio had disappeared.

In the brief interval Clay had reloaded, and when Ramon pulled up to stare down at Antonio's submerged body the rifle cracked again. The heavy ball caught him squarely in the throat and flung him out of the saddle and into the water. He had no time even to cry out before the water closed above him. But this time there had been no whip crack to cover the sound of the shot, and the little puff of smoke from the rifle was as good as a flag to mark Clay's location to the men in the river.

He had jerked himself down behind the hill the instant after he fired, and he chuckled in grim satisfaction as two bullets tore through the grass where he had lain. Crouching, he ran south a dozen yards and then crept back to the brow of the hill.

Jose and Manuel were spurring their mules frantically toward the riverbank nearest him, but Felipe had withdrawn so that he was sheltered by the wagon. It was less than fifty yards from the ford to the spot where Clay lay hidden, and at the breakneck pace Jose and Manuel were riding it could only be a matter of seconds until they were upon him.

Frantically he dumped unmeasured powder into the muzzle, spat a ball down the barrel, and rapped the butt of the gun on the ground, to tamp the charge. Jose and Manuel were out of the water and almost halfway up the hill when he fired. Manuel reeled as the heavy ball caught him in the chest, clutched at the saddle horn for support, and then, senseless, slumped sideways in the saddle. His hands relaxed their grip and he fell to the ground, but his left foot was entangled in the stirrup. Frantic with fear, the mule bolted away across the prairie, Manuel's head and shoulders banging against the ground.

Jose was over the crest of the hill now, his rifle ready in his hand as his eyes searched the slope. Suddenly he spied Clay, half-crouching in the grass, and threw the rifle to his shoulder. In

Landmark In History

1814 The WHITE HOUSE, Washington, D.C.

AP Newsfeatures

THIS EDIFICE, officially called the President's Palace, was commenced in 1792, but, when John Adams and his wife, Abigail, moved in, in 1800, it was unfinished and the grounds, swampland. During Jefferson's occupancy, his interest in architecture and gardening led to improvements in both interior and grounds. Next, came Madison and the War of 1812, during which, in 1814, the British burned the mansion, Dolly Madison, however, escaping with her pet macaw and the famous portrait of George Washington by Stuart. By 1817, a new building had been completed, under the supervision of James Hoban (the architect of the original). It was called the Executive Mansion and later the White House. Due to hard usage, through the years, it has been found necessary, for safety's sake, to thoroughly reconstruct the interior, making every precaution to eventually restore the historic edifice to its original magnificent appearance.

the same instant Clay jerked the pistol from its holster and fired, not at Jose, but at the larger, more certain target of the galloping mule. His bullet struck just as Jose fired. The mule stumbled to its knees and in an instant Jose had been catapulted over its head as the ball from his rifle struck the ground a half-dozen feet to Clay's left.

But Jose was like a cat. He lit in a tight ball, rolled over twice, and was on his feet again. He had lost his rifle when he fell and he wore no pistol but he jerked a shining, long-bladed knife from his belt and charged Clay like a wounded catamount.

Clay dropped his pistol back into its holster. After all, it was no time to waste bullets when for all he knew Felipe might be charging up the hill. Instead, he picked up the empty rifle that lay beside him, holding it by the end of the barrel so that its stock was a heavy, six-foot club.

Toy Store Has Space

JUNIOR SPACEMEN are in style these days. Here is Billy Hacker of Dayton, O., with some of the equipment the small fry find in the toy stores. He uses a flying saucer gun to cow a group of little men who have been attacking from out in deep space. The antennae on his radar cap helped warn him of their presence just in time. And he got to the right spot with the aid of the propeller on his cap which is supposed to be powered by an atomic coil. Billy and his contemporaries also play with space ships and a wide variety of atomic guns, complete with flashing lights and buzzers. Spacemen robots also come in varied forms as do rockets. Puzzles and games must have space and atomic themes to satisfy the modern youngsters who comb toy department counters.

Six-Year-Old Document May Be Clue To Future

By PIL NEWSOM
 United Press Foreign News Editor
 A former member of the anti-Communist Korean underground has presented an interesting document—written nearly six years ago—which may throw some light on the Oct. 5 meeting of the congress of the Communist Party in Moscow.

Among other things, it predicts that one reason for the calling of the first meeting of the congress in 13 years is to announce a Russian-sponsored doctrine, according to the informant, who now is a San Francisco importer, sets up a line that runs from Berlin, Germany, in Europe to Canton, in South China. It presumably sets up a sphere of influence which would extend nearly halfway around the world and would control the lives of more than 700,000,000 people.

The former Korean agent turned his material over to United Press Correspondent Glenn Stackhouse in San Francisco. Stackhouse is a former war correspondent in Korea.

The Korean said the information was made available to the State Department by the Sino-Korean Peoples' League in a letter to former Secretary of State James F. Byrnes on Dec. 14, 1946.

It forecast that in October, 1952, the new Eurasian "Monroe Doctrine" would be announced. It also said that it was "generally accepted conviction in the Kremlin that the third world war was inevitable."

The letter purports to have been the report of the local commissar at Komsomolsk, in Siberia, some 500 miles north of Vladivostok, to workers at the Amursk steel plant.

The speaker said that World War II was not an accident, that since that time the "British-American Bloc" had not changed its views and that, therefore, the Kremlin regarded another clash as inevitable.

The speaker then quoted Gen. Nikolai Bulganin, who since has become a member of the Politburo and a right hand man to Stalin. Bulganin mentioned the American Monroe Doctrine by name and said "it is the ultimate aim of the Soviet Union to keep America out of Europe and Asia."

He added that it was to the advantage of Russia to help Red China but that Russia "cannot be too hasty."

There are some other interesting points in the Korean report.

One is that in 1946, only about a year after the Russians signed a friendship treaty with Nationalist China's Chiang Kai-Shek, they were plotting with the Chinese Reds and expected the Reds to fully in charge of China's coastal areas by 1950.

Another is that they expected within six years time to be able to announce their "Eurasian Monroe Doctrine" and to define it clearly.

Take a look at a world map. The line from Berlin to Canton is almost the exact line of Communist conquest.

Formosans Hope To Someday Be Self-Sufficient

By STANLEY RICH
 TAIPEH, Formosa—Gov. K. C. Wu says Formosa can become self-sufficient in three years if U.S. financial aid continues at the present rate.

"If you cut us down now," he said in an interview, "it will take us four, five or six years or even longer."

The United States has budgeted nearly 200 million dollars for economic aid since January, 1960, a month after the Chinese communists drove the nationalists from the mainland to this small but rich island. Another 100.5 million has been set aside for 1963.

Wu conceded that this aid "stabilized our government" but said American aid to Formosa was slow in starting and much of the budgeted funds still are not available. What is the island's biggest problem? The governor of Formosa was asked.

"It's still economic," he replied. "We can't make two ends meet yet. Our military structure is the biggest burden. This island has to support a half-million-man standing army."

Wu, a Ph.D. from Princeton who was mayor of Shanghai when the Communists came, thinks his job as governor is the toughest he has tackled.

"It's more difficult than Shanghai," he said. "Those last three years on the mainland were terrible—student strikes, labor strikes—but here we have larger problems."

Despite the economic headaches, Wu feels he has made "definite progress" in one field—winning over the island's 7,000,000 native Formosans.

In February of 1947, an estimated 6,000 Formosans were killed in an uprising against the misrule of the then Nationalist governor, Chen Yi, who later was executed.

Under Wu's provincial government, 17 of the 23 top-level commissioners are Formosans. All but one of the 55 elected members of the island-governing Peoples Political Council are Formosans.

Wu feels that Formosans today respect the Chinese and feel that they are getting a good and fair government. With this view a lot of foreigners here agree.

Lebanon Elects New President

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Parliament overwhelmingly elected former Foreign Minister Camille Chamoun as president of Lebanon today. He succeeds veteran independence fighter Bechara El Khoury, who resigned last week.

Nhaumoun, 51, was the candidate of the opposition Socialist National Front which spearheaded the country-wide reform drive that forced El Khoury from the office he had held since the French relinquished control of the country in 1943.

Led by Socialist Kamal Jumblatt, the opposition accused El Khoury and his family of corruption, scandals and failure to institute needed economic reforms.

Chamoun, who previously had supported El Khoury. The pressure of public opinion was so great, however, that the lawmakers willingly accepted the opposition candidate.

To prevent disturbances during the voting, the government clamped a 3 a. m. to 3 p. m. curfew on Beirut during which time no unauthorized person was permitted on the streets.

The Army commander in Chief, Gen. Fuad Shهاب, had held the presidential powers in the interval between El Khoury's resignation and Chamoun's election.

In the balloting, Chamoun received the votes of 74 of the chamber's 77 members.

Clears Accused Man Of Robbery

RALEIGH (UP)—A 23-year old accused bank robber was cleared today of charges he committed one or more armed robberies in the Fayetteville area to gain money for lawyers' fees.

A spokesman for the State Bureau of Investigation said James E. Murchison of Lillington, who faces federal charges in the lone wolf robbery of an Angier bank April 29, was "identified" by "one or two" holdup victims.

However, Richard Turkelson, assistant FBI director, said the confessions of five Fort Bragg soldiers had cleared Murchison. Turkelson said Murchison admitted the bank robbery but was "indignant" over his arrest for the string of later stickups.

Newspaper Has Divided Opinion

LAGRANGE, Ga. (UP)—Roy C. Swank, editor and publisher of the La Grange Daily News, wrote a lesson today on freedom of the press.

Swank is one of the city's most enthusiastic booster of Dwight Eisenhower, Republican presidential candidate.

His acquaintances found it strange that Swank's newspaper consistently expressed editorial views that endorsed the Democratic candidate, Gov. Adlai Stevenson.

Editorials for the Daily News are written by Jim Wood, city editor, and Herschel Cribb, his assistant.

Swank finally has published the explanation, in a front page editorial.

"Since I believe in individual freedom and in honesty of expression," he said, "I would be inconsistent in requiring our editors to give editorial support to a cause in which they do not believe."

"I do not agree with the opinions expressed in many editorials which appear in the Daily News. But I find pride in them because I believe they are the honest expression of opinion by our editors."

"The editorial columns will continue to express the opinions of

Rock-Throwing Is Part Of Battle

WESTERN FRONT, Korea (UP)—For the third time in two weeks Chinese Communist troops crept to within a stone's throw of a U. N. outpost today and hurled stones at the G.I.s.

Today's rock fight had a different ending, however. The G.I.s answered the barrage with a battery of artillery which cleared the area of living Chinese.

Speeding Bus Is Wrecked, Killing One, Many Hurt

WARRIOR, Ala. (UP)—A speeding Greyhound bus veered off a highway and tumbled "over and over" down a steep 65-foot embankment yesterday when a tire blew out. One passenger was killed and 36 others were injured, two critically.

The wreck victims were removed from the battered vehicle only a short while after it rolled down the bank, coming to rest upside down in a mule pasture, as rescuers rushed to the scene.

Mrs. Dorothy Martin, 22, of Nashville, Tenn., died in a hospital a few hours after the accident. Mrs. Mamie Sinar, 50, Detroit, Mich., and Mrs. Kathryn Spearman, 31, Memphis, Tenn., remained in critical condition today.

"The clothes of many of the victims were torn off," said Mayor E. R. Caldwell of Warrior. He said some were "bleeding badly" and ambulances made at least 15 trips to carry the injured to hospitals.

The bus, bound from Detroit to Birmingham, Ala., had just rounded a curve and straightened out along U. S. Highway 31 when the tire blew out.

"I heard a noise like a dynamite explosion outside," said Mrs. Mary Skinner who lived nearby. "I thought it was dynamite. Three people were dead on the ground as if they were dead."

Emmet McPherson of Warrior who helped jack up the bus with timbers to enable passengers to crawl out, said three or four persons were pinned under the bus.

"One woman kept moaning 'Get me out, I'm fastened,'" he said.

Canine War Heroes Are 'In For Life'

WAR DOGS perform their mission in the fields of Korea.

AP Newsfeatures... being commands and performing other exercises.

WASHINGTON—Some Korean war heroes will never get out of the Army until they are physically unable to serve.

They are the war dogs—signed up for life, unless they are disabled or become incurably ill. In Korea and other parts of the Far East, 187 of the dogs are serving. In the combat area, their supreme tests come in scouting and patrolling. The Army says that in some cases their presence on patrols has reduced human casualties by 60 per cent.

When they are rotated from combat duty in Korea, they usually are sent to Japan. The big war dog detachment there is at Camp Kobe, where 72 of the canine soldiers are on guard duty over government warehouses.

They walk their beats with the soldiers from 5 P. M. to 8 A. M., every other night. As a reward for duty well performed, they receive a three-pound breakfast. They take a daily run in the nearby fields to break the strain of keeping constantly on the alert. They also have a physical fitness program—jumping hurdles, practicing Summit, N. J. (UP)—When Charley Yong-Sa-Set finished his telephone call from a public pay station, the operator asked him for $3.65 in overtime charges.

Yong said "surely" but the operator didn't hear the familiar jingle of coins. An argument ensued and the operator notified the police.

The police found Yong bawling in both English and Chinese and frantically cramming dollar bills into the 25 cent slot. They took him to the telephone exchange building where he paid his bill in person.

Wrapping Alone Wasn't Pleasing

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UP)—Willis Roesen, 50, an assistant bank manager, who said he pocketed $9,000 bills because they were "so nicely wrapped," admitted today he didn't keep them in the wrapping.

He said he used the money to get his wife a new car and pay some bills.

Begin Probe Of Missing Ballots

RALEIGH (UP)—The State Board of Elections will meet at the Polk County Courthouse at Columbus Oct. 8 to begin an investigation into the theft of about 350 ballots during the May 31 primary.

Chairman Charles M. Britt of Asheville called the meeting in a letter received yesterday by Elections Board Secretary Raymond Maxwell.

Maxwell said the board voted to conduct the investigation because the State Bureau of Investigation failed to pin down responsibility for the ballot theft.

Comedy In East Berlin Is Whispered, Not Red

AP Newsfeatures... President Wilhelm Pieck receives an aged caller, then learns it is his old school teacher.

BERLIN—The grapevine gossamers are at it again in the Soviet zone of Germany. A new crop of jokes deriding the Russians, the Communists and all things Bolshevik has been harvested in recent weeks.

Refugees slid a past grim guard bring the gags with them to West Berlin where... is considerably safer to indulge in them. They say, however, that the anti-state jokes are part of the nightly routine in many a beer hall told with one eye out for the nearest Communist cop.

The Russian zone threat to rearm is reflected in the latest wisecracks. An example concerns the conversation between Schmidt and his friend Mueller who is foreman of a heavy industry plant. Schmidt asks what they make and Mueller replies: "Peraiulators."

"Fine," Schmidt says, "I need one for my baby. Can you slip me the parts?"

Mueller agrees and some time later they meet again, and he asks how the baby carriage works.

"Well, I really thought I knew something about mechanics," Schmidt says, "but I have fitted the parts together three times now and the result is always a cannon. Are you sure you are making baby carriages?"

East zone production comes in for a rib, aside from the war-peace political arguments. A plant manager comments to a visitor: "his assembly line produced only 5,000 items in its first year, raised that to 80,000 and now has a goal of a half million."

"Really," marvels the visitor, "just what are you manufacturing?"

The manager lifts a small plate from a conveyor belt. It bears the stamp: "Elevator out of order."

The Communist hierarchy in the East draws a good share of barbs. The propaganda chief is informed by his aide that "the demonstrators against the western warmongers and for the creation of a national army must be cancelled because it is raining cats and dogs."

"Those dam yankees are capable of anything," the chief shouts in rage.

Sister Of Adlai Talks To Women

RALEIGH (AP)—Democratic women from throughout the state arrived today for a talk by Mrs. Ernest Ives.

Mrs. Ives, sister of Democratic Presidential Candidate Adlai Stevenson, will be the first lady of the White House if her brother is elected.

Following her talk, Mrs. Ives said she would motor to her winter home at Southern Pines for a few days rest.

In Washington yesterday, Mrs. Springfield, Ill., that the letters

Ives portrayed herself as secretary of the "I'm related to Steven- son" clan and said so many re- latives are turning up that "we could be elected by our own kin."

Mrs. Ives of Bloomington, Ill., exhibiting the same type of wit- ticism that the Democratic nomi- nee for president has used in cam- paign talks, had her own listeners chuckling last night.

She made what she termed "not a speech—just a little talk" in ad- dressing the North Carolina Demo- cratic Club of Washington the Stevensons have ancestral roots in the Tarheel State.

Earlier, Mrs. Ives had tea with Mrs. Harry S. Truman at the White House.

Mrs. Ives said so many Steven- sons are writing her brother at

He started the walk at Mt. Ogle- thorpe, Ga., April 18 and recently finished up at the summit of Mt. Katahdin, Me. He averaged 15 miles a day. On the trip he suffer- ed a cut leg, a sprained knee and several falls. His shoes were re- soled three times.

"I have no more plans for hiking the rest of my life," said the slim and wiry professor. He walked from Missouri to New York City in 1918 when he was only 38.

Stocks And Market Reports

NEW YORK (UP)—Stocks declined slightly around mid-session today in dull dealings.

Losses throughout the main list were restricted to small fractions. Market news continued on the dull side and there was nothing in the day's developments to snap the market out of its doldrums.

As a result, sales in the first two hours of dealings totaled only 430,000 shares, compared with 530,000 in the same period yesterday.

The market opened on a mixed note. However, around mid-session the market turned generally lower.

Electronic issues, which sparked yesterday's upswing, met mild realizing today but this did not amount to much. Motorists managed to counter the trend with a gain of 3/4 to 42 1/2, a new high.

Elsewhere, rails were mostly easier. Texas & Pacific Railway slipped 1 1/2 points to 104 and Santa Fe was down 1/4 to 91 3/4.

Chrysler and General Motors registered small declines in their group. U. S. Steel and Youngstown Sheet & Tube eased in this section. Bethlehem Steel was unchanged at 49.

United Fund Plans Discussed At Rotary

E. E. Rawl, Sr., prominent Greenville businessman and civic leader, discussed last night before the local Rotary club a proposed United Fund for Greenville to include in one campaign all the drives in the city for health and charity agencies.

Rawl was a member of a committee of the Greenville Community Chest which spent seven months investigating the United Fund organization as it has been used in other cities and towns. The directors of the local Community Chest at a recent meeting voted to seek to organize a United Fund for Greenville beginning next January.

"We must remember when business turns its back on its community, it will not be long until the community turns its back on business," Rawl told the Rotarians. He pointed out that as the city has grown, the demand for aid from various health and charity agencies has grown, and added, "We've got to grow with the giving."

Under the United Fund, he explained, all the organizations which now make annual campaigns for funds would be invited to join in the United Fund organization to make a single campaign to raise enough money for all the organizations. It would be a "give once" for all campaign, he said, and would do away with the multiplicity of fund-raising campaigns which are now carried on in Greenville.

The United Fund idea was first adopted in Detroit in 1949, Rawl pointed out, and since then the plan has been adopted by a large number of cities and towns all over the nation including some 40 cities and towns in North and South Carolina. Hickory, he said, has 40 agencies which secure funds through the United Fund campaign each year.

The speaker explained the United Fund, if adopted by the people of Greenville, would be a "give once" case where a United Fund drive failed last year. All reached their quotas.

"If you elect to support a federated fund it is going to cost more. It has come to a state now when things have to be organized, and we will have greater demands for funds in the future than we do today. Your committee that has investigated this United Fund idea knows it is not going to be an easy thing. There will be lots of work to be done not only by an executive secretary, but by others as well," Rawl said.

L. M. Buchanan was in charge of the program introduced Rawl. President Knott Proctor presided at the meeting.

Guests of the club last night were Paul Long, Nat Van Nortwick, George Van Nortwick and visiting Rotarians Alton Rowe and Harry Mumford of Ayden.

WOMAN APPEALS IN TRAFFIC CASE

A Negro school teacher, charged on five warrants, was found guilty on four counts after an overtime session of city Recorders Court ended around 12 last night.

In passing sentence on the woman, Judge Whedbee, incident, "We all regret that this incident came up, but never the less it is here."

He dismissed the charge against Mamie Garrett Harvey, 22, for disorderly conduct, saying that "the charge has been covered pretty well in the other four warrants."

On the two assault charges (she was charged with assaulting Police Officer V. C. Ackert and Highway Patrolman Jim Davis), the judge gave her a 30-day sentence suspended upon payment of $50 less cost of court in each case.

For the charge of interfering with an officer in the performance of his duty, the woman received a 30-day suspended sentence upon payment of $25.

In the resisting arrest charge, the Judge meted out a fine of $100 and a six months road sentence suspended, with the further condition that the woman not visit in Greenville for a period of one year and not violate any of the laws of the state during that time.

Counsel for the defendant at once gave notice of appeal to Superior Court and a bond of $200 in each case was ordered by the judge.

After being placed under arrest she was released without having to post bond for appearance at the Monday morning session of Police Court.

She was not placed in jail.

The five charges against the woman was the outgrowth of an argument between officer Ackert and the woman at Five Points Saturday about traffic right of way.

The lengthy trial, which opened after lunch and continued until six o'clock, was attended by a large number of spectators.

Nearly the entire court room was filled when court opened at the night session at 7:30.

TWO BOOTLEGGERS NABBED BY ABC

Pitt County ABC officers nabbed two bootleggers over the past weekend.

Arrested Saturday afternoon was Raymond Duffy, 72 year old Negro man, who lives at 111 North Washington Street, Greenville.

Duffy was arrested when a quantity of liquor was found at his house.

He was placed in city jail under $300 bond and was tried and convicted in City Recorders court.

Judge Charles H. Whedbee gave the man six months on the roads.

It was brought out in court that Duffy had been arrested four years ago, and charged with making illegal spirits by the use of small still which was located in his kitchen.

Four days later he was charged with possession of illegal whiskey again.

He gave notice of appeal to Superior Court, and was ordered held under an additional $300 bond.

Luther Lee Washington, 40-year-old Negro man of 605 B. Atlantic Avenue, Greenville, was arrested Saturday by ABC officers and Deputy Sheriff Lloyd Manning when a quantity of bootleg whiskey was found in his house.

HUMBER SPEAKS TO LIONS CLUB

Speaking before the Greenville Lions Club last night, Robert Lee Humber, international lawyer, traced the advancements and changes currently being made in the political set-up in Europe.

Citing the recent links between six European nations, Humber stated that this association of the six nations bands 250 million persons together under one united effort.

He pointed out that if this movement can continue among the other nations in Europe then they can all join together in one United Nation of Europe.

This will not only offer more strength to each nation, but will create a strong mass which any one nation will hesitate to attack.

Further, these six nations control a majority of the coal and steel produced in Europe which makes them even more stronger.

The nations must realize, he said, that they must be joined together if they are to survive.

The speaker was introduced by Jimmie Harris, President. Bruce Suag presided over the meeting.

A short board of directors meeting was held following the regular meeting.

New Attorney Is Sworn By Judge

J. C. LANIER, JR.
New Attorney

James Conrad Lanier, Jr., of Greenville, 1952 graduate of the University of North Carolina School of Law, was sworn as an attorney before Judge W.C. Harris in Superior Court yesterday.

The 25-year-old Lanier was introduced to the court by Albion Dunn, local attorney and former judge on the Superior Court bench. Dunn administered the official oath of the C. Bar Association.

In welcoming young Lanier into the practice of law, Judge Harris said jestingly, "If you have any trouble with these other lawyers see me about it, because I'm always on the side of the young lawyers."

Lanier took his bachelor's degree from the university in 1949, his law degree in 1952 and passed the State Bar examination in August of this year. He is a member of Phi Gamma Delta social fraternity.

The latest addition to the local bar, Lanier said this morning he will be engaged in the general practice of law in Greenville.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Con Lanier of 900 East Tenth Street, Greenville.

Sea Scouts Hold Weekend Outing

During the past weekend six sea scouts from Greenville visited Plymouth for an Explorer Scout Rendezvous.

Dr. Alban Papineau, skipper of the sea scout ship in Plymouth, was host to the group from Greenville. His camp on the Albarmar was the site of camp.

On arrival the scouts set up tents and got ready for supper and then went to a football game in Edenton. The next morning the unit visited the Edenton Air Base and had the chance to inspect jet planes.

Later in the evening the boys went water skiing and the Plymouth scout unit brought some young ladies out to the camp for a social.

Sunday was spent participating in a treasure hunt in which the prize of a mountain tent was given to the unit which went through the mile-long course in less time. The prize was won by the Greenville unit which made the course in 14 minutes.

Howard Hunter, Greenville scout executive, was director of the camp. J. B. Newman and his son, Jimmy, spent Saturday with the group along with Mrs. Howard Hunter and Bobby Newman.

Scouts from Greenville who went on the trip were Fred Hear, Preston Jarvis, Jimmy Perkins, Jimmy Smith, Brad Brooks, and Dickie Neville.

Order Man Held For Grand Jury

AYDEN—A Pitt County Coroner's Jury last night ordered William Junior Brown, Negro, be held without bond for the slaying of William 'Pap' Collins.

Collins' body was found in a drainage ditch with his head partially under water Monday morning.

Examination disclosed the man died of a fractured skull. It was brought out in the testimony that Collins and Brown had been arguing the previous night while they were attending a fish stew at Brown's house.

In an exchange of blows Collins was knocked to the ground and a man carried him away from the house.

Coroner Griffin House presided over the session which lasted more than an hour and a half.

Brown will be held in county jail for grand jury action at the October sitting of Superior Court in Greenville.

Survivors Of Fighting On 'Old Baldy' Want Only To Forget It

Editors note: Many Americans died when the Chinese over-ran their positions on "Old Baldy." Still more give their lives to re-take the bowl-shaped ridge. But others lived, and it was to these survivors that the United Press turned to get the human story behind the battle.

By FREDERICK PAINTON
United Press Staff Correspondent
WITH U. S. 2nd DIVISION, Korea (UP) — The ugly scarred ridge known as Old Baldy curved malignantly over this supply point.

Begrimed, bearded infantrymen stumbled down the path from the bunkers above. You could feel the controlled despair of these men. It follows any battle, victorious or not.

Pfc. Raphael J. Leif, Omaha, Neb., squinted against the mid-day sun at Old Baldy's crest.

"That hill has changed me," he said quietly. "I can't even look at it anymore." And he turned away.

These troops, who were thrown off the key western front height Friday and won it back Sunday, hate Old Baldy with a fierce passion. To them, it is now known as "Suicide Hill."

I saw a slightly wounded soldier climb stiffly into a jeep.

"When are you coming back, Buck?" a friend called.

"Never, I hope," he answered savagely, and the jeep roared off to the rear.

Each walking man had to pass a stack of American bodies being searched and piled on a jeep trailer for evacuation. Most of the men looked straight ahead.

On the hill, they lived among the crumpled dead of both sides for days. But each soldier looked intensely at other men he met at this gathering point, as if looking for lost friends. They seemed like kids coming to the big city.

Men sprawled on the ground so it
