Stevenson Plans Own Fund Report

Will List Contributors And Beneficiaries Of Money Used To Augment Salaries Of State Officials; Former Aide Waivers On Earlier Version

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UP) — Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson today announced that he would make public today or tomorrow the list of contributors and beneficiaries to his controversial fund to augment salaries of top state officials.

Stevenson made the announcement in reply to questions from reporters who crowded around him as he boarded a plane to leave on a two-day swing through Indiana and Kentucky.

He said there were "eight or nine" officials who received money from the fund and that he had contacted all of them last night to discuss making the fund public.

He said he had also talked with most of the donors but still had not discussed the subject with all of them.

Stevenson was asked whether he would list the donors and beneficiaries in a speech or in a statement. He said he would issue a statement although he might later refer to the matter in a speech. Wilson Wyatt, his personal campaign manager, had indicated earlier that the list was forthcoming.

Meanwhile, a former state purchasing agent, who said yesterday that Stevenson's aides solicited about $100,000 for political purposes from firms that sold services or goods to the state, began to waver.

William J. McKinney at first told reporters that "at least $100,000" was collected from state suppliers during the years of 1949-50 and that he believed "part of the money went to Stevenson and part to the Democratic State Central Committee."

"I know how much money was solicited for the alleged fund."

"It could be a lot less," he said. The former Stevenson administrator said he now believed the money "was simply a Democratic party fund for the campaign of 1950."

"All I know is they needed money for that campaign," he said. McKinney, who resigned his job Nov. 17, 1950 when Stevenson told him that the state legislature would not reconfirm him, said he could not "conceive" of Stevenson misusing funds.

Stevenson has been peppered by Republican demands that he tell all about his fund as Sen. Richard M. Nixon, the GOP vice presidential candidate did in a nationwide television broadcast when a controversy flared over Nixon's $18,235 political expense fund.

Stevenson's staff yesterday also revealed his campaign plans for the rest of the time right up to election eve.

The schedule divides into five general parts:

- Sept. 26-27—Indiana and Kentucky
- Oct. 3-4 — Ohio, Iowa and Minnesota
- Oct. 7-11—Michigan, Wisconsin, Missouri, Illinois, Oklahoma, Florida, Louisiana and Tennessee.
- Oct. 14-18 — Utah, Washington, California and Texas.
- Oct. 22-Nov. 3 — Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts, Ohio and winding up in Illinois.

Fails In Effort To Block Truman Political Tour

WASHINGTON (UP) — A citizen's attempt to stop President Truman from making a whistle-stop campaign tour was derailed in Federal Court today.

Andrew J. Easter, Washington draftsman, asked that Mr. Truman be legally restrained from making a nationwide political trip scheduled to begin tomorrow.

His petition said Mr. Truman is "not devoting his full time" to presidential duties and should be compelled to stay home and "stave out undisclosed corruption, incompetence, mismanagement, wastefulness and anti-Americanism."

Judge Matthew F. McGure threw out Easter's petition without comment.

Lodge Given To Girl Scouts Of Grifton Troops

GRIFTON—The two newly organized Girl Scout troops in this community now have a camp of their own.

Mr. and Mrs. Thurman Williams, Grifton citizens, yesterday donated a hunting lodge on the Neuse River on the east side of Grifton to the scouts to be used as a day camp.

A spokesman for the scouts said site of the one room log cabin is a natural playground but the help of other citizens is needed to put the camp in shape for use. Needed repairs include screening and a water supply. The scouts hope to build out-door fireplaces to be used for cook-outs.

Report Progress On Four-County Airport Planning

Enabling Act For Next General Assembly Being Prepared By Group

The proposed four-county airport to be constructed in this area may soon become a reality if a meeting held in Tarboro Wednesday night is indicative of the true picture.

Five delegates from Greenville joined approximately 50 representatives from Pitt, Wilson, Nash and Edgecombe counties at the meeting to put near-final plans on an enabling act to be presented before the next session of the N. C. General Assembly.

The proposed centralized airport is being sponsored by those four counties plus the cities of Greenville, Tarboro, Wilson and Rocky Mount. Two members from each of the sponsoring subdivisions make up a 16-man committee to study the project.

Local Representatives — Representatives from Greenville attending the meeting were former Alderman J. E. Waldrop; W. T. Kyrzer, manager of the local Chamber of Commerce; W. H. Speight and Dan Saleed, former president of Greenville Jaycees.

W. H. Watson said this morning the primary purpose of the meeting was to discuss and compile an enabling act to be presented to the forthcoming session of the N. C. General Assembly which would authorize the creation of an Eastern Carolina Airport Authority.

Speight Chairman — At the meeting, Chairman Ray Bandy of Rocky Mount appointed W. W. Speight of Greenville chairman of a group of attorneys to compile in final form the enabling act as amended at the meeting. Amendments to and deletions from the act were made at the meeting.

Members present at the meeting, in addition to the 16-man temporary committee, were county and city attorneys from the counties and cities involved in the project.

The group met at the Tarboro Country Club.

New School System Expansion Studied

RALEIGH (AP) — The next legislature may be asked to expand North Carolina's public school system by establishing community colleges to give two years of training beyond high school.

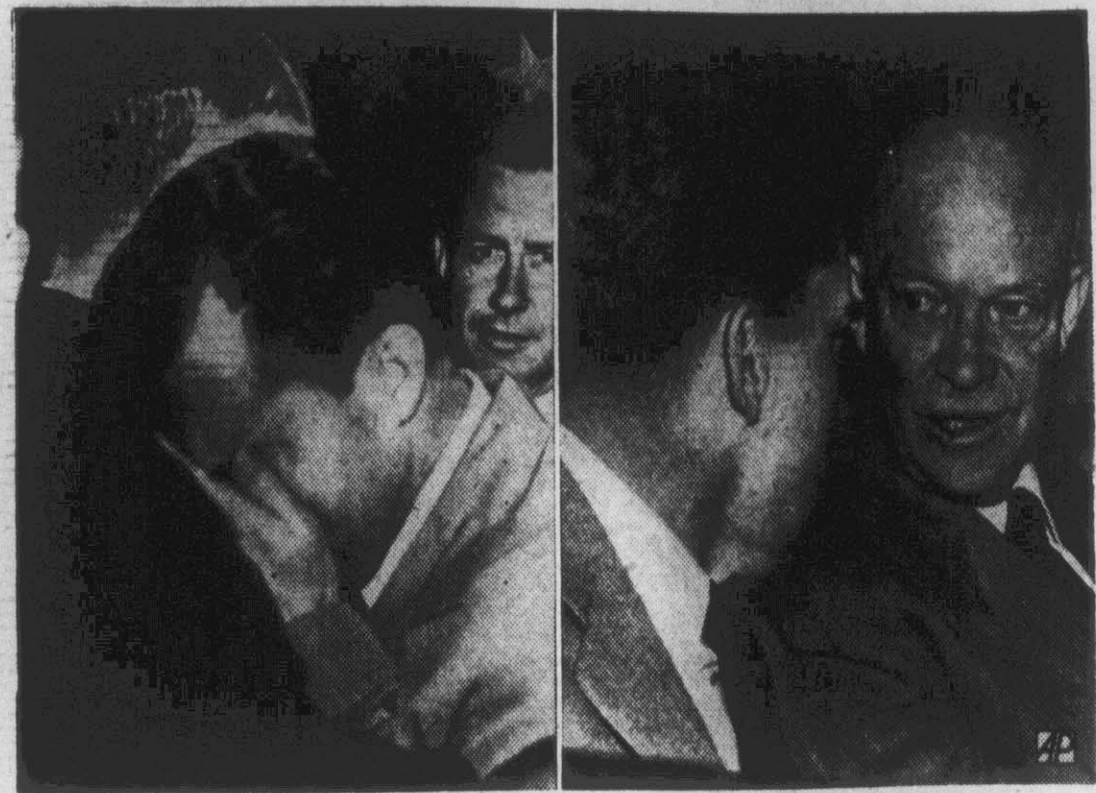

Blueprints for the expansion, drawn up by a special committee after one and a half years of study, have been turned over to the State Board of Education. The board is expected to decide soon whether to ask the legislature to translate the plans into action.

The 22-member community college committee, headed by Dr. Alan S. Hurlburg of Chapel Hill, has made a thorough investigation of how the colleges may be started and operated, and what kind of service they should perform.

The colleges would be equal to junior colleges, but would serve the entire community. They would offer two years of preparatory work for college or professional training, vocational and technical "terminal courses" to fit high school graduates for immediate employment, adult education programs, and training for persons already employed.

The committee declared that such colleges "will move the state of

Adlai's Managers Suspect Nixon Issue Is 'Wrung Dry'

Record Outlay By State Is Sought

Trustee Of AT College Pleads For Higher Salary Rate

RALEIGH (UP) — A white trustee of the world's second largest Negro college has given the Advisory Budget Commission a hint that there will be a further break in segregation in universities unless appropriations are boosted for Negro schools.

Spokesmen for state-maintained Negro schools asked the commission yesterday to recommend that the 1953 General Assembly give them their biggest appropriations in history.

Shelley B. Caveness, Greensboro lawyer and white trustee of AT College at Greensboro, keynoted the procession of those representing Negro schools.

"Let boys go there and get an engineering degree as good as State College has to offer," he urged. "If we don't you gentlemen know what is going to happen."

"This institution offers the Negro youth of North Carolina a chance to do something for itself. They don't want a handout."

Caveness warned that unless salaries were raised the AT professors would be the "culds" left after good teachers accepted higher pay elsewhere.

Dr. P. D. Bluford, president of AT, asked that the operating budget for the coming biennium be doubled and for $5,285,000 in new buildings. He said the school is receiving less per student than any other in the state and faces a loss of accredited rating as a result.

Elizabeth City State Teachers College also asked its operating budget doubled to about $350,000 a year and about $1,200,000 in new buildings, land and a swimming pool.

Fayetteville State Teachers College also asked twice as much for operations, about $300,000 a year plus nearly $2,000,000 in permanent improvements.

Winston-Salem State Teachers College asked $1,490,000 in buildings and about $115,000 more a year for operations.

North Carolina College in Durham, being expanded to reduce pressure for Negro admission to the University of North Carolina, asked about $3,500,000 for new buildings and about a 10 per cent increase in operating budget.

North Carolina forward a big step in the educational service of its people."

The colleges should be tuition free as nearly as possible—not more than $40 a year—in order to remove the "economic barriers" which stand between many high school graduates and further schooling, the committee said.

On two points the committee was emphatic—the colleges should be planned and controlled locally, and the state should share the financial responsibility.

"Local control is essential to the maintenance of local interest, and the shaping of the curriculum to local needs," it pointed out. It suggested that the state provide supervision and leadership and "assume approximately half the cost."

From its study, the committee estimated that a minimum of $400 for each student in average daily attendance should be available for operational costs. It recommended that the student himself should pay not more than $50 per year, with state and local governments chipping in the remainder—$175 each per student.

Strategists Regard It No Longer Exploitable; Stevenson Reluctant To Appear Before 'Unfriendly' Newsmen

By LYLE C. WILSON

UNITED PRESS STAFF CORRESPONDENT SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UP) — The unhappy thought is spreading around Stevenson headquarters that the Democrats have made about all the political hay they dare left out of Sen. Richard M. Nixon's secret expense account. The fund business seems to be back firing.

Or, as it was put to this reporter in a huddle around the Leland lobby pin ball machine—"Nixon's slush fund probably is no longer exploitable."

This Leland Hotel pin ball machine is headquarters cracker barrel or town pump. News writers and the less aloof among the political crew fill it with nickels in their off hours, striving to beat the electric mechanism which pays off in free games only. It is not a gambling device.

The idea that there is not much more to harvest from Nixon's indiscretion apparently grew from a realistic appraisal of the senator's television accounting, and one other factor. That other factor is the fund that Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson, Democratic presidential nominee, administered and dispensed to the income of some of his appointed state assistants. Other Stevenson funds now are being alleged.

Pressure increased hour by hour yesterday for more information on the Stevenson salary subsidy for his state aides and for comment on other alleged Illinois political funds which were beginning to get some splash newspaper play.

Shortly before 5 p.m. Wilson Wyatt told half a hundred newsmen and women that "Governor Stevenson told me he would have something further to say on the subject."

A barrage of questions developed strong indications that any further explanation he may make would be accompanied by a pronouncement of the governor's judgment against Nixon.

"It will be a direct statement by the governor," said Wyatt, his personal campaign manager. But there won't be any news conference.

"Won't we be able to ask him any questions about it?" pleaded half a dozen reporters.

Wyatt replied that there would be no time soon for a news conference, and shortly he called the subject closed.

There are considerable differences between the Nixon fund and the Stevenson salary fund. But the hard political fact is that the governor had been asked before the crisis to do some explaining on his own.

Newspapers out this way—the unfriendly ones—have been belting Stevenson on his own fund operations. They demand that he match Nixon's candor. Who put up how much money and who got it?

Those questions remained unanswered when Stevenson junked news conference suggestions yesterday and the day before on his return from a swing through the East. It has been nearly a fortnight now since he saw the press.

Hurricane Heads Out Into Ocean

Swerves Sharply Away From Land, Off Dangerous Path

MIAMI (UP) — A tropical hurricane packing winds of 115 miles per hour swerved sharply away from the mainland today.

"Barring a very unusual development, the seaboard will be spared this time," storm forecaster Leonard Pardue said.

Hurricane "Charlie," the third of the year, suddenly appeared on the Atlantic only 360 miles off the Florida coast yesterday and at that time was lumbering northward—a dangerous course for the mainland. However, it switched to a northerly or north-northeasterly direction during the night, a course parallel to the shore.

The location at 11 a.m. Est was Latitude 30.2 North and Longitude 74.0 West or 430 miles east of St. Augustine, Fla.

"Dangerous winds are not expected on shore but small craft along the coast of the Carolinas should not venture far into the Atlantic, the weather bureau warned."

The advisory cautioned vessels to avoid this hurricane as "some further increase in intensity is indicated."

The pressure dropped to 28.70 inches, which Pardue said, "was beginning to get interesting."

The "eye" or center of the storm increased from 10 miles yesterday to 20 miles in diameter. Winds of 115 miles per hour stretched out 30 miles to the center and gales 125 miles to the north.

A northeasterly direction was expected for the next 24 hours at about 12 to 14 miles per hour.

Eighteen From County Inducted

Eighteen Pitt County men were sent to Raleigh this morning by the local Selective Service Board for induction into the Army.

Those inducted today were: Henry Turnage Treathan, Fountain; Edwin Darwin Averette, Winterville; David Lee Elks, Rt. 3, Greenville; Marvin Franklin Bullock, Greenville; Harvey L. Tripp, Rt. 4, Greenville; Leroy Williams Jr., Rt. 2, Grifton; John B. Wilks, Rt. 2, Farmville; James Crumble Jr., Rt. 2, Bethel; and Willie C. Spain, Rt. 4, Greenville.

James E. Gurganus, Greenville; Melvin K. Hines, Winterville; James Harvey Moore, Rt. 1, Maclefield; Luther Earl Edwards, Rt. 5, Greenville; Jessie Carroll Braxton, Greenville; Josh Edward Spear, Ayden; Wiley C. Wooten Jr., Farmville; and John D. Duncan, Rt. 4, Greenville.

Four MIG's Added To Toll By Sabres

Three Others Damaged, Setting New Record In Claims Against Enemy Jets In Single Month; Winter Supply Depots Bombed

SEOUL, Korea (UP) — American Sabre jets shot down four Communist MIG-15 jets and damaged three others today, setting a new record in claims against enemy jet fighters in a single month.

Fifth Air Force officials said today's claims bring the official toll of MIGs for the first 26 days of September to 55 destroyed, six probably destroyed and 51 damaged.

U. S. pilots equalled the record for total claims against MIGs in a single month in mid-September when they hit their 102nd plane. The record of 102 planes destroyed, probably destroyed or damaged was set in March of this year.

At the same time, U. S. pilots surpassed the previous record of 41 MIGs shot down in April.

Sabres of the 4th and 51st fighter-interceptor squadrons clashed with MIGs up to 38,000 feet in today's battles, the first in several days.

One pilot claimed he damaged a fourth MIG, but his claim was held up until officers examine and evaluate gun camera film.

Most of the dogfighting took place east of Sinuiju when 28 MIGs crossed the border to challenge Sabres flying protective cover for U. N. fighter-bombers. Sinuiju is in far Northwest Korea on the Yalu River dividing North Korea from Manchuria.

Smaller groups of MIGs were involved in other jet tangles.

Sharing credit for one MIG destroyed were Lt. Col. Theon E. Markham, Los Angeles, and second Lt. Glenn A. Carus, Nashville, Tenn.

While the Sabres were fighting with the MIGs, other U. N. warplanes pounded Communist winter supply depots and front line positions as the weather cleared all over Korea.

Grounded for 24 hours by heavy rains that also slowed the fighting on the 155-mile battlefield, 5th Air Force planes swarmed across the lines today to attack Communist infantry along the entire battlefield.

Land-based Marine planes attacked a huge Red Army center on the Haeju peninsula of West Korea, destroying 31 buildings.

Ninth Polio Case Reported In Pitt

FARMVILLE — Another case of infantile paralysis was reported in the county today, bringing the total cases for the year to nine.

The victim of the dreaded polio is four-year-old Nancy Ann Britt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Britt of Farmville. The case was diagnosed as polio yesterday and the child was taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital.

J. H. Rose, chairman of the Pitt County Infantile Paralysis Foundation chapter, said the child was taken to a hospital in Greensboro, Greensboro.

Rose also said that this year's polio cases in the county is the second highest year. Twelve cases of polio were reported in the county during the epidemic year of 1948.

Bethel Fete Closes To Sound Of Music

BETHEL — The first annual Harvest Festival drew to a close in Bethel last night with a street dance and the announcing of prize winners for contests, parade participations, and exhibits.

Glyde Moody and his band opened the evening events with a musical program which was followed by the announcing of prize winners by C. W. Everette, Bethel attorney. After the prizes were given, Al "Fuzzy" St. John took over the program with antics and music by his musical rangers.

Until 11 o'clock last night, Dick Carter and his band furnished music for round and square dancing in which hundreds of people took part.

Prizes Given

Cash prizes, totaling $85.00 were presented last night to parade participants and exhibitors in addition to more cash prizes for contests in which Bethel school children took part.

The float decorated by J. C. Culliver Potato Company took the first prize of $20.00; Sammy Dewar was given $5.00 for his gaily decorated bicycle; and L. N. James was given a prize of $5.00 for the best novelty in the parade. Judges for the parade were N. W. Grant, Carl Bjork, and Camille Staton.

City Tax Notices All Issued; Now It's Time To Pay

Some 5,000 Notices Expected To Add $322,000 To Greenville's Coffers

"It'll be just like having a tooth pulled to pay this," a Greenville citizen said forlornly this morning as he resignedly extracted a long white slip of paper from an all too familiar "panel" envelope.

And countless other local inhabitants are doubtless undergoing that same painful experience this week, because the missile in question was a notice of city taxes due for the current year.

But unsavory as the duty may be, recipients of those notices—some daily filling into the city hall to retire that annual commitment to the local municipality.

Completed Task

City Clerk H. H. Duncan announced this morning his office force has this week completed the annual task of mailing out more than 5,000 tax notices to local citizens—approximately 3,500 to whites and 1,500 to Negroes.

With a $1.50 tax rate on a real and personal property valuation of $21,310,656, those notices when paid will bring into city coffers the sum of $322,214.84. Of that amount, Duncan said more than $125,000 has already been paid.

A breakdown of total property valuation for both white and Negro is: real property—white, $10,285,697; Negro, $695,460; personal property—white, $9,314,140; Negro, $341,770. Included in valuation is $716,213 for corporation excess and $17,376 for supplements.

Tax Estimates

An estimate on poll taxes to be collected in the city this year from both races is: white, $1,736; Negro, $615. In addition to other taxes to be collected this year, Duncan disclosed the city received $54,872.79 from the state in the form of Fowell Bill funds.

Some of the major revenues that go to make up the total annual city budget of $438,507.66 are: sale of privilege licenses, $23,000; court costs, $16,000; parking meters, $16,000; additional beer taxes from the state, $13,000; ABC revenues, $12,000; and annual utilities payment, $80,000.

Taxpayers have until February 1, 1953, to pay their city taxes before any penalty goes into effect.

Points To Rising Trend Of Crime

WASHINGTON (UP) — Gov. Walter Kohler of Wisconsin says Democratic presidential nominee Adlai E. Stevenson "has not been able to cope with the criminal elements" in Illinois.

Kohler, a Republican, said last night that "under Gov. Stevenson, crime has increased in Illinois far more than the national average."

"The Democrat political machine in Illinois... is riddled with gamblers, mobsters, and the remnants of the old Capone gang," he said.

He held out the Salisbury stop. He said he heard people shouting "We Want Ike" as he got out of bed on the train.

"We went out to see our friends in our robes and faced them," he said. He added that "we tried to dodge our friends, the photographers."

He said the Truman administration has dragged down U. S. prestige abroad and produced "scandals of which we are ashamed."

Eisenhower also charged the administration with creating inflation. He said it is "the things they have to buy go up and up and up."

"The big thing we have to do now is to keep our money from growing cheaper," he said.

Eisenhower also denounced "subversion and disloyalty in government." He said that if there were men like former Army Secretaries Kenneth C. Royall and Gordon Gray of North Carolina in office they would see that there was no subversion and disloyalty.

He went on to deplore "increasing centralization of power in Washington."

"They even want the bureaucrats now to take over responsibility for the health of each of us," he said. "They think some individuals in Washington would know more about your health than your own doctor."

The general also said that "we need not have gotten into the (Korean) war if we had been farighted."

Eisenhower Says He Will Not Recognize Political 'Mortgage' Of Any Kind On Southern Votes; Estimated 25,000 Overflow Charlotte Stadium For Talk

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (UP) — Dwight D. Eisenhower, invading the South again, charged here today that the Democratic administration has brought shame and inflation to the United States.

The Republican presidential nominee appeared here before a crowd estimated at 25,000 in and around the stadium. He was to make another address later in Winston-Salem.

The candidate told the crowd in Charlotte he had been warned before heading South that he would be wasting his time "because the whole country is mortgaged to one political group."

The North Carolinians, traditionally Democratic, roared, "no."

Eisenhower said he had replied that each state, county and precinct is owned by the people and that he would not recognize a political "mortgage" of any description. He said if the people in Washington could see the Charlotte crowd they would realize that someone had wiped out the debt.

Clad in pajamas and a black-and-red checked bathrobe, Eisenhower, colorfully supported by "My Mamie" in a pink wrap, began his second drive for Southern votes with an early morning whistle stop at Salisbury, N. C.

40 Years Ago Today

THE DAILY REFLECTOR
September 26, 1912

The flutter of expectancy that always precedes big events in the ladies world, ceased to flutter today when Greenville milliners opened their doors for the exhibition of fall goods.

Hats and other things that are not up to mere men to even mention (lest he blush) were there in full evidence to the delight of the shoppers who from early morning began to make their pilgrimage to the shrines of Dame Fashion.

It really makes a man think that after all women may perhaps be entitled to vote. The assurance with which they walk into the array of pretty things and critically survey the exhibits, makes a man feel small. Can you picture a man walking into a store crowded with pretty things, trying twenty-five or thirty hats on, and then walking across the street to repeat the performance and never tiring? No, sir, it takes the weaker sex to do that.

It would be sacrilegious for us to attempt a description of what we saw. Suffice it to say that from our very low pedestal, when it comes to things feminine, we declare them all beautiful and thank the powers that be that this is Greenville, N. C. and not Utah, or Salt Lake City.

Window Display Features Bible Translations

September 26-October 5 will be observed throughout the nation as National Bible Week. It will also launch the sale of the newly published Revised Version of the Bible, which has just been completed.

As a part of the observance of the National Bible Week, the Greenville Council of Church Women has put on display in a store window at the Blount-Harvey Company a collection of different Bibles, most of which are owned by people of Pitt County.

As a backdrop for the window, an attractive panel tracing the history of the various translations set off in comparison the new Revised Version. A copy of the newest translation centers the display.

There are Bibles in Chinese, Japanese, German, French, modern Hebrew and modern Greek. Copies of Bibles in original Greek, ancient Greek, Latin (Vulgate), and Syriac are also a Bible once owned by Martin Luther and a portion of a page from the Gutenberg Bible. Three large family Bibles, belonging to the families of Mrs. J. C. Clifford, James Hancock and Mrs. Mary (Polly) Smith are also shown. These are very large and beautifully illustrated with illuminated drawings.

The other Bibles which are in the collection belong to the Rev. Wallace I. Wolverton, the Rev. Leon Russell, the Rev. C. D. Patterson and Dr. J. W. Hassell.

The window will remain arranged during all of next week. Miss Venetia Cox was chairman of the committee in charge of decorating it. Mrs. D. H. Conley is president of the Council of Church Women.

NEW MINISTER—Jack K. McFall, Assistant Secretary of State in charge of liaison with Congress, has been named by President Truman as Minister to Finland.

ENJOYING A BERMUDA HOLIDAY are Mr. and Mrs. Edward Conway of Greenville, who are pictured relaxing in the front of their hotel, Mrs. Conway, who is a representative for State House Sterling, won the trip for two as a result of a nation-wide sales contest sponsored by the firm. They were guests in Bermuda until September 17, when they left the islands aboard the Monarch of Bermuda.

Trygve Lie Will Leave UN Post

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Secretary-General Trygve Lie has decided to step down from his $40,000-a-year United Nations post on Feb. 1, 1954, at the end of a three-year extension of his term, and retire to Norway. Some day he would like to be prime minister of that country.

This was disclosed today by persons who know the mind of Norway's former foreign minister. He has been top boss of the 4,000-man U. N. Secretariat since 1946.

When he leaves, he will get a lifetime pension of $10,000 a year, but he cannot hold public office until he has been away from the U. N. for five years. Lie now is 56. Lie's intentions came to the fore as U. N. officials studied a draft of a staff reorganization scheme which would abolish the posts of eight assistant secretaries general each paid $22,000 annually, and would create three deputy secretaries general, each at a considerably higher salary.

Border Patrolled To Recover Gold

TORONTO (UPI)—Police patrols fanned out along the U. S.-Canadian border today in an effort to stop $356,000 worth of stolen gold bullion from being smuggled into the United States.

Police in Michigan, Ohio, Pennsylvania, New York and all of New England were alerted to be on the lookout for unidentified planes which may be carrying the bullion. Officials said the gold, which weighs almost half a ton, would be worth $700,000 on the U. S. black market and as much as $1,000,000 in Europe or the Orient.

The largest gold theft in Canada's history was revealed yesterday. Thirty-six hours after the theft, the police still didn't know how or when the gold disappeared.

Police said the gold had been shipped from the Noranda mines in northern Ontario for refining here, and then was to go through Montreal by plane to England and Europe.

First word of the theft came when a Montreal Trans-Canada Airlines employee discovered only four instead of 10 boxes in a shipment for Montreal.

Police said that apparently an express truck dumped the gold at the loading shed at Malton Airport sometime before 5 p.m. Wednesday. The gold was left unguarded and when the TCA employee loading cargo on the plane returned there were only four boxes.

Sunday Is Rally, Promotion Day Presbyterian Church

This Sunday will be observed as Rally Day at the First Presbyterian Church. During the morning Church School hour from 9:45-10:45, a promotion program will be carried out. All classes will convene at 9:45 a.m. and will have the regular class lesson first. At 10:15 all classes will meet in the church sanctuary for the promotion exercises. All members of the Church School are urged to attend this Rally Day program.

At the morning worship hour at 11:00 a.m., the service will celebrate the publication of the Revised Standard Version of the Bible. The pastor will preach on the subject, "The Coming of the Word of God."

On Tuesday night at 8 o'clock the churches of Greenville will hold a union worship service at the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church to celebrate the publication and distribution of the Revised Standard Version of the Bible. The speaker will be Rev. Morton R. Kuris, director of the North Carolina Council of Churches.

The monthly session will meet this Sunday night at 8 o'clock in the College Class room. The quarterly observance of the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be held the first Sunday in October. Choir practice will be conducted under the leadership of Mr. Durham this Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

The Young People of the Church will meet at the Manse this Sunday evening at 6:30 for supper, vesper program and fellowship. The Westminster Fellowship of College Students will meet at the Manse this Monday afternoon at 5:30 for supper, vesper program and fellowship.

Next Horse Show Plans Discussed At Jaycee Meet

A discussion of the second annual Jaycee horse show and other business matters highlighted the special business session of the Greenville Junior Chamber of Commerce last night.

R. O. Everett, chairman of the horse show committee, reported on the progress of arrangements for the event, and called on various sub-committee chairmen to report on specific arrangements. The show will be held in Greenville October 12.

Ribbons and trophies for the horse show have been ordered, the chairman reported, publicity material has been sent out, applications for the event already are being received by the entry committee, and the construction of the show ring is well under way.

The Jaycees last night voted to sponsor a "Scotch-light" safety program in Greenville in the near future. The project, approved by the state and national Jaycee organizations, entails the sale of reflection tape to be placed on the rear bumpers of automobiles as a safety measure against highway accidents.

In a report from the membership committee, Amos Leggett told the club the committee has recommended two special awards to set up to be presented to the outstanding "rookie" member of the Junior Chamber of Commerce each year, and the older member who sponsors the "rookie's" membership.

Eugene Ward reported on the state quarterly board meeting held recently in High Point, and Frank Dail reported on the presentation of "Kiss Me Kate" which will be sponsored by the Jaycees in Wright Auditorium January 26.

Four new members were in-sub-committee chairmen reports president Dan Saleed. New members are Dick Briley, Frank De Arcangelo, Hank Baldwin and Jim Lanier.

Robersonville News

By MRS. W. L. SWINDELL

MacDowell Music Club
The Robersonville MacDowell Music Club will entertain the nearby Home Demonstration Club at the First Christian Church on Friday, September 26.

Mrs. Paul Davenport Sr., chairman of music in the State HD Federation, will give the program.

School Of Instruction
On last Saturday the Stonewall Chapter of the Eastern Star was hostess to the School of Instruction for the second district at the Robersonville High School. About 170 people attended.

There were many distinguished guests. The school opened at 10:00 a.m. and closed late in the afternoon. At noon a barbecued chicken luncheon was served at Respect Brothers Barbecue House in Greenville.

Layman's League
The meeting of the Layman's League was held in the Christian Church on Monday with a large attendance. Mr. Sherwood L. Roberson, the president of the State Association, installed the officers for the coming year.

Elected to office were Earl Corburn, president; John Gray Taylor, vice president; Ethena Earl Anderson, secretary; David Grimes, Jr., treasurer; Garner House, general. After the installation Mr. Roberson made an interesting talk about the activities of the Layman's League. A steak supper was served by Circle No. 5 of the Christian Women's Fellowship.

Fellowship Meeting
On last Wednesday there was a one day Fellowship meeting at the Williamson Christian Church.

Dr. Kenneth Bonham, a returned missionary from India, was the guest speaker. He showed many film slides of his home, the school and hospital in India with which he had worked.

At noon the attendants were served a dinner at the Woman's Club. Those from Robersonville who attended were Mesdames C. D. Carraway, Heber Baker, David Grimes Sr., Henry H. Gray, Lemmie Smith, Jab Roberson, William Gray, Clara Wallace, Bruce Roebuck, O. P. Smith, C. L. Wilson, Jimmie E. Bullock, Wade Taylor, J. Cartwright Taylor, Mr. M. F. Van Nortwick, Rev. Wilbur Wallace and Miss Lula.

District Meeting
The Rocky Mount District had a seminar at Wilson on Thursday. Those from Robersonville who attended were Mesdames Paul Roberson, Frank C. C. Smith, Emily Moore, George Ben Edwards, Philip Keel, Robert Adkins. Talks were given on the three study courses for the year.

CYF Meeting
On Monday evening the Christian Youth Fellowship of the First Christian Church had a party at the parsonage to get better acquainted with the new minister, Rev. Wilbur Wallace and his mother, Mrs. Clara Wallace.

Mr. Wallace Reid Bullock, the adult counselor of the CYF, and Mrs. Wallace helped to entertain the young people. The game of Cootie furnished much amusement with Lee Harney winning as Chief Cootie.

Cookies and iced drinks were served to: Janice Whitfield, Elizabeth Ann Everett, Joyce Whitfield, Linda Bullock, Caroline Forbes, Martha Joyce Roberson, Becky Roberson, Anna Speight Whitfield, Emma Nell Everett, Anita Rae Everett, Cinda Bullock, Grace Coltrah, Janice Warren, Judy Highsmith, Tilton Harney, Lee Harney.

Jimmie Highsmith, Mike Kilpatrick, Benjamin Wilson, Rhina Earl Anderson, Benjamin Henry Gray, Jimmie Taylor, Mr. Wallace Reed Bullock, Mrs. Clara Wallace, and Rev. Wilbur Wallace.

Admits Killing 3 Children In Order To Kidnap Baby

EUTAW, Ala. (UP)—Police credited "fine cooperation" among Negro sharecroppers today as the chief factor in the arrest of a husky Negro woman who confessed killing three Negro children and wounding a fourth so she could kidnap a baby of the same family.

Sheriff Frank Lee said Mattie Smart, 27, of Birmingham, Ala., broke under questioning last night and told police how she murdered the three children and critically injured another while the four-year-old son of her husband looked on.

After the massacre, Lee said, the woman abducted a three-month-old sister of the victims and took the child to her Birmingham home. He described the short, 160-pound woman as having a "bad disposition" and said she apparently had a strong desire to have a child of her own.

The five children of Willie and Alberta Posey were reported missing Monday night when their parents returned from the cotton fields.

The bodies of the four victims were found along a creek bank and police launched a widespread search for the murderer which ended when the Smart woman was located in Birmingham with the kidnapped child in bed with her.

Lee said the stepson of the confessed murderess gave a graphic account of the triple slaying which was carried out in a systematic fashion.

He said she lined the four children up along the bank of the creek out of sight of each other after telling them she would take them on a "swimming trip."

First, he said, she grabbed Lucy Poser, 11, the lone survivor, by the neck and swung her head against a tree root. She then pushed Jean Posey, 2, beneath the surface of the water until the girl drowned.

Old, 8, was also drowned after the Negro woman struck her on the head with a stick. She then told how she crushed the back of Ira Posey's head with her "bare feet" and buried his head in the sand until the five-year-old boy suffocated, the sheriff said.

Old Excuse Losing Out To Advance Of Science

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—Men who complain of a lack of a green thumb as an excuse for letting mama handle the garden are in for a shock of sorts.

Science has fouled up the male animal. Floracultural scientists have processed and vitalized seeds, plants and bulbs so that they'll practically grow by themselves, with the simplest care.

This is exemplified in a new kind of supermarket where the scent of flowers, plants and shrubs have replaced the aroma of onions, soap and coffee.

The new garden market — Arcadian Gardens — has just been opened at the Hecht Company's Parkington shopping development. It is the largest floracultural center south of New York City. There are 24,000 square feet of space devoted to every conceivable variety of bulb, seed, plant fertilizer and soil-conditioners.

If the customer wants an apple tree, a dwarf pear tree, a shaped rose tree, or a bunch of Holland tulip bulbs—they're all right there.

Full-time consultants are on hand to answer questions on soil climate, and plant arrangements. There is even a specialist to show mylady how to plan her dinner table floral arrangements or to select growing plants for indoors.

William Harris, vice president of Arcadian Gardens, always dreamed of bringing down the cost of flowers to level where everyone could afford them.

In this case, that meant opening "farms" and nurseries in several states as well as abroad. The gardens cultivate roses in Texas; gladioli on "farms" in Florida; and harvest acres of daffodil and iris in the Carolinas.

The Hecht unit in Parkington draws also on supply points in New York state. Deliveries are made daily by plane, refrigerated trains, and trucks.

The public in recent times has taken a shine to "Star of Bethlehem," the traditional white flower for the Yule season. Arcadian Gardens will import 6,000,000 of these fresh cut flowers from Africa this year.

The flowers are hardy and have long-lasting qualities. They have to be to withstand the 11,000 mile journey from Capetown to the United States. They arrive fresh and green, with the flower buds nearly all closed, at with simple treatment, they open progressively, a cluster of white, star-shaped flowers.

Strength for the Day

CREED OF A GREAT POET

Alfred Lord Tennyson was one of the most thoroughly religious literary figures that the English speaking peoples have produced. His great contemporary, Wordsworth, said of Tennyson that he was saturated through and through with faith in the invisible world which encompassed him. Shakespeare and the Bible held places of preeminence in his library. Tennyson maintained that there were two things which he believed were beyond human intelligence, namely, the intellectual genius of Shakespeare and the religious genius of Jesus Christ. On one occasion he remarked, "I am always amazed when I read the New Testament at the splendor of Christ's purity and holiness and at his infinite pity."

He asked a simple country woman whom he knew quite well, what was the latest news. Her reply was, "Why Mr. Tennyson there is only one piece of news that I know, that Christ died for all men." And Tennyson's reply to her was, "That is old news, and good news, and new news."

"Tennyson always maintained that although the forms of the Christian religion would alter, the spirit of Christ would continue to grow in men's hearts until Christianity without bigotry would triumph and the controversy of creeds would vanish."

For Local Citizens A Double Challenge

There were vital factors concerning Greenville which were pointed out at the hearings on state ports development before the Advisory Budget Commission this week.

It was important to Greenville that William B. Umstead, Democratic gubernatorial nominee, asked J. A. Hackney of Washington, chairman of the Coastal Marine Council to take steps to make a survey to determine which inland ports should be developed as feeder points for the state's deep-water ports at Morehead City and Wilmington.

Secondly, it was indeed important to learn during the hearing that because of the difference in interstate and intrastate trucking rates, it is 30 cents per hundred pounds cheaper for tobacco to be hauled from Greenville to Norfolk than it is for tobacco to be hauled from Greenville to Morehead City.

Umstead's commitment to encourage the development of inland ports in North Carolina is important to Greenville and Pitt County because of the jointly owned port on the Tar River just east of the city. In spite of the fact that the port has not been in use since the early days of World War II, the local port facilities could be put back on an operational basis for only a fraction of the amount it would take to build a new port somewhere else from the river bed up.

No effort should be spared to see that the advantages the Pitt-Greenville port has to offer the state's transportation system are kept before those people who will determine where the development of North Carolina's inland ports system should begin.

Looking at the state's ports picture as a whole, it is apparent if the facilities at Morehead City and Wilmington are to flourish as they should, steps must be taken to remove the discriminatory differential between the interstate and intrastate trucking rates. As a tobacco center, Greenville has great quantities of tobacco which are shipped to ports for export. But if the differential which makes it $3 per thousand pounds cheaper for tobacco to be sent to Norfolk rather than Morehead City is allowed to stand, one can not blame shippers to continue sending their products to out-of-state ports rather than using the North Carolina ports.

The $3 per thousand pounds differential would be bad enough if Norfolk and Morehead City were equidistant from Greenville, but when one considers the fact that Morehead City is 50 miles nearer Greenville than Norfolk is, the unfairness of the rates becomes even more apparent.

Both the differential in trucking rates between Greenville and the two deep sea ports, and the prospects for the development of inland ports of North Carolina offer important challenges to the local citizens. We are firmly convinced local citizens should meet the challenges with action rather than passiveness.

Has The Surface Only Been Scratched?

Frank Jeter, one of North Carolina's agricultural leaders, pointed out in an address in Bethel yesterday a fact which should receive the serious consideration of the people of Pitt County.

Jeter asserted 70 per cent of the farm income in North Carolina today is coming from only 30 per cent of the land resources.

To the people of one of the leading agricultural counties of the nation, that statement surely provokes thought on the possibilities for future agricultural development in this region abundant in soil and climatic conditions favorable to agriculture.

Jeter's assertion that before many years there will be no such thing as an idle acre of farm land, and that each acre will be more productive than in past years, points to the need for continued strides in improved agricultural methods and greater diversification of crops.

Pitt County already is a long way removed from the one crop system which prevailed for many decades. As each year passes, the agricultural program of the county broadens its footing. Yet Pitt has not reached, nor is it likely to reach, the point where its agricultural economy can rest upon laurels of past years. If 70 per cent of the income at the present time is coming from only 30 per cent of the land resources, the logical conclusion is that the surface of North Carolina's agricultural potential has hardly been scratched.

As Pitt County and the rest of North Carolina's agricultural oasis pushes toward capacity utilization of farm land, greater returns will be had for individual farmers, and the region as a whole will gather a new luster.

The fact remains, however, that it must be the farmers themselves who take the lead in the program to press agricultural advancement.

National Whirligig

PLIGHT—Although the Democrats naturally condemn the Republican vice-presidential candidate's acceptance of outside financial aid, there is hardly a man in public life today who is not the beneficiary of direct or indirect assistance, large or small. There is not a member of Congress who does not understand and sympathize with Nixon's plight.

There is no intention here of condoning or criticizing the Californian. His importance in the campaign simply furnishes an opportunity for a frank and honest discussion of public servants and their pocketbooks.

As a rule, it is a subject which officeholders usually discuss only with their wives or family friends. I have sat in on many of these tragic talks in my twenty-nine years at Washington.

ROOSEVELT—Any candid and historical discussion must start with the admission that the Roosevelt family first showed a willingness, even an eagerness, to capsize on political power and position. Two words do not make a right, but here is a partial record of a negligence or callousness similar to that charged against Nixon.

When Al Smith asked Franklin D. Roosevelt to run for Governor of New York in 1928 in order to help carry the state, Roosevelt replied that he had incurred heavy debts in maintaining Warm Springs, which was then operated and financed like any private sanatorium. His periodical visits there helped to stimulate trade.

In order to free F. D. R. of these financial worries and obligations, John J. Raskob, a du Pont executive and Democratic National Chairman, handed over $25,000. It is understood that other amounts were contributed by Raskob-Smith friends.

Had it not been for this contribution, which relieved the drain on his cash and credit, F. D. R. might never have become President of the United States.

FAMILY—The Roosevelt family immediately cashed in on their accession to the White House, as no predecessors had ever done. Although only a youngster, "Jimmie" became independently wealthy from selling insurance to large corporations in Boston and New York.

Mrs. Roosevelt and Anna, with no previous training or experience, began to earn large fees as magazine and newspaper contributors. Anna's two husbands, Charles Deh and the late John Boettger, improved their financial status in the brokerage and newspaper fields, respectively.

Although Elliott Roosevelt was an utter stranger to John P. Hartford, he wangled a $210,000 loan from the chain store executive. A friendly phone call from F. D. R. facilitated this amazing transaction. When Elliott defaulted, Jesse H. Jones, at F. D. R.'s request, liquidated the $210,000 loan for $4,000 of his own money.

SIDELINES—Now, during this period of presidential financing at and around 1600 Pennsylvania Ave., F. D. R. handled many legislative and regulatory questions affecting the fields in which he and his family had engaged—health, insurance, the brokerage business, chain stores, postal rates for newspapers and magazines.

Another well-mined vein for F. D. R.'s personal and official family—Hopkins, Ickes, Wallace, Perkins, etc.—was the writing of books and magazine articles, in which they divulged for personal gain official secrets they had withheld from the press and the American people.

WIVES—President Truman is a key witness to the fact that members of Congress cannot live on their salaries alone, as are Vice President Barkley and the Democrats' vice-presidential nominee, Senator Sparkman of Alabama.

Although the Trumans lived modestly when he was a Senator—then apartment rent under federal controls was only $125—Mrs. Truman drew $3,300 a year as his extremely part-time secretary. He admitted frankly that he needed this extra revenue, for he had many debts when he entered the Senate.

Vice-President Barkley has swelled his income by making speeches for handsome sums before friendly groups interested in legislation. Senator Sparkman's wife earns $5,000 a year as his secretary, despite her many social and home duties, giving them a combined income of $20,000 a year, of which $2,500 is non-taxable.

UNDERSTANDS—Governor Stevenson seemingly understands Nixon's dilemma. He has drafted many able business men for his personal and administrative staff. But they could not serve him if they had not been wealthy men, or if their corporation employers had not agreed to keep them on the private payroll.

Stevenson himself might not have been able to afford the luxury of a political career, including a presidential nomination, if he did not have a private income of $25,000 or more.

Admittedly, Nixon's indiscretions may make him a liability among the voters, although not among his Congressional colleagues. They undoubtedly have poignant memories of the biblical injunction: "Let him who is without sin cast the first stone."

EDITOR'S NOTE—In a subsequent column, Ray Tucker will utilize the average living and political expenses of an average Congressman, and discuss various proposals for freeing them of the need of any sort of outside aid.

Beginning To Have Doubts

Somebody Told Me

By L. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

Of all the national news I have read, I enjoyed following the Nixon case as much as any single story. It was full of drama and suspense.

No doubt the leaders in the Democratic party are quite sorry they made such an issue of the Nixon fund because it has brought in favor of the Republicans.

Last night I picked up a bit of significant news about the case that I have not seen before. Some time ago Columnist Drew Pearson was tipped off on the same story but passed it up because he didn't think it was up to the standard of his material.

The fact that he passed the story up is a definite indication that the fund must not have been such big news after all.

How did the story get started? Nixon was the guest on a television program Sunday called "Meet the Press. After the show, Columnist Peter Edson, who writes a column for the Newspaper Enterprise Association, approached Nixon. There had been a story "kicking around," he said, ever since the Chicago convention, to the effect that Nixon was getting financial assistance from a special fund set up by a group of wealthy Californians. Nixon told Edson he could get all the facts if he cared to call up a lawyer named Dana Smith in Pasadena.

The next day Edson telephoned Lawyer Smith. He got his facts, wrote his story, and the NEA air mailed it to 800 papers for release the following Thursday. The story said, "Republican Vice Presidential Candidate Richard M. Nixon has been receiving an extra expense allowance from between $0 to 100 well-to-do Southern California political angels ever since he entered the Senate in 1951. Over the past two years these contributions have amounted to approximately $17,000."

This incident has given Nixon a chance to prove his speaking ability, a chance that would not have come up if this incident hadn't come to light. Right here in Greenville I have heard more people say they are going to vote Republican since the speech than I did before. Right or wrong, that is the effect of the fund "scandal."

The fund was started back when Nixon ran for the Senate against Helen Gahagan Douglas. One of the fund members said, "After he was elected, we wanted him to continue what we all looked on as a kind of California crusade for good government. Dick didn't have a dime of his own. So this fund was set up to cover his extraordinary expenses outside his office. Dick never got a nickel of it for personal use. And we were most careful to screen the contributors. We didn't want anybody contributing who might use the fact as a lever on Dick's voting."

And I thank you.

Around Capitol Square

NIXON—Main topic of conversation around Capitol Square since Tuesday night has been the "report to the nation" by Senator Richard Nixon, Republican candidate for Vice President, on the $18,000 special fund provided by California constituents. There were about as many opinions as there were people expressing them.

The reaction can be roughly divided into two classifications: (1) He explained nothing and accomplished nothing, because except for exact amounts of his own income and debts there was nothing new in his speech; (2) He did the Republican cause a great service by "coming clean" with intimate details of his personal finances and with emotional appeal for support of the ticket, even if he should be bumped off by the higher-ups.

QUESTIONS—Some of the questions being batted around among Capitol Square folks are these: What is the essential difference between the private fund provided for Senator Nixon and the admitted help received by members of the North Carolina General Assembly from back home school teacher groups in several recent sessions of the Legislature? What is the essential difference between the situation reported in Illinois where Governor Stevenson condoned and assisted in privately financed supplements to appointed State officials' salaries, and the contributions by the several Foundations to salary supplements of State University and St. College professors? Or the contributions by local chambers of commerce to expense accounts of State officials and employees seeking to bring new industry into North Carolina?

AN ANSWER—The questions are not, because in every situation there are diverse contributing factors. So, net the line of demarcation is clear. More often it is of such hair-breadth width as to be almost indistinguishable. One top level official frankly said he thought it was all right for schools and churches to subsidize legislators, very wrong for big business firms to do the same "thing. There must be a proper distinction, but where is the dividing line?

S—Governor-nominate William B. Umstead is adding his personal appeal to North Carolina Democrats to come out in full strength and vote on November 4. He said he plans to write a personal letter to every Democratic county chairman urging him to regard as a part of the responsibility of his office in the party the job of getting every Democratic voter to the polls on election day. Then he expects to write every one of the 101 county managers who aided him in the primary to accept as a continuing part of the job to get voters out for the general election. Candidate Umstead has no fear as to his own position in "election results. His election is as nearly certain as anything can be five weeks before it happens. He is interested in a big majority for himself and for all the rest of the State and National Democratic ticket, and especially for local candidates in the "border" counties and districts.

JUDGES—Most of the State executive and judicial officers who will be elected in November will take office on or soon after January 1. Judge R. Hunt Parker, to be elected associate justice of the North Carolina Supreme Court has indicated he expects to take the oath for that office on November 25 or 26. That is because he will be elected twice for both the unexpired term of Justice W.A. Devin and for the full term beginning January 1. Justice Ilmusio Valentine is now serving in the Devin seat vacated when Justice Devin was named Chief Justice upon the death of the late Chief Justice Walter State about a year ago. The chief justice probably will take a new oath of office as soon as the vote is certified by the State Board of Elections on November 25. In his case there will be no change and it is not really necessary for him to be sworn in again in order to function as chief justice, but it is a courtesy Justice Parker being a new man will have to take the oath of office before beginning service on the high court.

POLITICS—It is known that Judge Parker has been pressured to play a bit of factional politics in connection with timing his change from a Superior Court Judge to a Supreme Court Justice, but he has steadfastly declined to do so. First he was asked to resign from the Superior Court in time for the ex-

What Other Papers Are Thinking

NO, NOT THIS

(Rocky Mount Telegram)
Watch out for a revolution in packed lunches.

In this day of plant cafeterias, school lunchrooms and the like, there is not the demand for packed lunches that formerly existed. Time was when most laborers always took off from home with a well packed bag and the youngsters went away to school toting the best that sleepy-eyed mothers could assemble during the flurry of preparing breakfast for the whole family and easing in some necessary early morning chores as well.

Many older people can describe strange lunch box packings of the past. Well do they recall those enormous biscuits carried by some of the children and the meat and eggs that were thrust between, and the baked sweet potatoes and other thoroughly substantial food that is so in contrast with the dainty contents of today's lunch box.

Now, even those who carry lunches may soon find themselves so ensnared by scientific discoveries that a lunch may not be a lunch anymore. According to a news dispatch from New Brunswick, N.J., food technologists at Rutgers University are seeking to determine whether sandwiches for Dad and the school children's lunch can be made up a week in advance, then kept in the freezer.

These scientists, it seems, want to find out what happens to peanut butter or egg salad sandwiches when they have been frozen for a week. They hope to show that homemakers could save time and trouble by making many sandwiches at one time, then storing them frozen until needed. They have already discovered that fruit pies are generally better if frozen first and then baked, but that custard pies should be baked first, then frozen. However, the whole thing just doesn't sound as appetizing as those lunches packed on the spur of the moment—when Mother, not having time to weigh quantities too scientifically, frequently allotted much more than necessary because she didn't want the youngsters to get too hungry.

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER
This department avoids the field of politics, but once in a while the politicians get into business and economic pastures. It is happening now. Some are saying that people never had it so good; others say that is not correct. Let's take a look at some of the cold, non-political figures for 1939, a date that often comes up in these arguments, and the present.

The answer, of course, depends on how old you are. The average person's productivity, hence income, rises during his twenties, thirties, forties and sometimes fifties; thereafter it is likely to decline. So the chances are that a person of 45 now has it a lot better than he did in 1939, and a person of 75 doesn't.

It also depends on what you do. There is a good case for believing that the farmer never had it so good. Farm proprietors' income in 1939 was 4.5 billion dollars and in the first two quarters of this year it ran to annual rates of 15.4 and 14.8 billion. Even after adjustment for inflation and higher taxes, there is a honey of an increase there and the fact that the farm population has declined makes the average per person even sweeter.

There is also a good case for the industrial worker. Average weekly earnings in 1939 were $23.86 and in mid-1952, $66.98—and they have gone up since then. At the same time, the cost of living index rose from 94.4 to 191.1—and it, too, has gone up since. While living costs went up 102 per cent, industrial wages went up 181 per cent.

Most persons, in middle and upper income brackets, however, have not done so well. The National Industrial Conference Board, which is a non-political organization, calculated in 1951, which was before this matter came up, that a family earning $3,000 in 1940 now has to earn $6,072 to maintain the same purchasing power. What with taxes and inflation, a family that earned $5,000 then has to earn $10,542 now; one earning $10,000 then has to earn $22,850 now, and one earning $25,000 then has to earn $76,322 now to enjoy the same standard of living. Some families have made that jump; a lot certainly haven't.

The whole thing simmers down to age and source of income. The politicians will now please get back to politics.

NEW MIRACLE FIBER MADE FROM CERAMICS
You'll hear a lot about "Fiber-frax" in the years ahead. It's a ceramic fiber that may take its place alongside glass fiber and asbestos in many uses. It resists acids and temperatures up to 3,000 degrees and has unusual characteristics in filtering. It is made by blowing a molten aluminum-silica mixture under high pressure against a screen resulting in a fine, fluffy fiber. Carborundum Co., which is producing it in a pilot operation, is building units for commercial production.

HUMAN INTEREST COPY
STRENGTHENS BANK ADS

A nine-year study of bank advertising by the Bureau of Advertising of the American Newspaper Publishers Association discloses that human interest copy produces better results than the usual financial ad copy. Ads with a dominant photograph got a third better readership than ordinary financial ads.

TURNING WASTE TIME INTO PRODUCTION

Most boss butchers worry because the men they need to provide service during the busy hours stand idle in the dull periods. A Denver meat dealer stopped worrying and started thinking.

Now during the dull periods his butchers prepare ready-to-cook seasoned meat balls, ready-to-bake meat loaves and other meat specialties. It's an idea that can be adopted by other meat dealers and adapted by enterprisers in other lines.

BUSINESS NEWS IN SHORT TAKES

So many companies now maintain planes to fly executives around that a magazine, "Business Flying," is now being published for them. The International Consumer Credit Conference wants the post office to put the address of the remitter on money orders to help identify the remitter when the name is not legible. A few years ago the Beltsville White turkey was only an experiment; today a quarter of all turkeys sold are a small size. A $1 book on how to make industrial waste surveys has been published by the Ohio River Valley Water Sanitation Commission, 414 Walnut St., Cincinnati 2.

DYES: A concentrated dye for fiber rugs, said to penetrate fibers permanently, is being marketed in eight colors by Chair-Loc Co., Lakewood, N.J. Mixed with water, applied with a brush, one quart is said to color a 9x12 rug.

Hal Boyle's Column

NEW YORK (AP)—Ladies, never smirk at a bald man. He'll have the last laugh yet.

For women-ha, ha, ha—are slowly going bald themselves.

"There is an evolutionary tendency in the human race to grow less hair—women as well as men," says Dr. Howard T. Behrman, one of the nation's leading dermatologists.

"In 200 years—perhaps more—it may be high fashion among both sexes to have no head hair."

As a man who every year looks more like the cue ball in a billiard game, I can hardly wait. It is tough being a pioneer.

Dr. Behrman, author of a 500-page medical textbook on the scalp, has a fine cranial roof thick himself but is all in favor of the hairless trend.

"Hair is only a vestigial ornament that no longer serves a real purpose," he observed. "It used to have a protective function. But once we moved out of the trees we no longer needed it."

"The eventual human being, man and woman, will have no hair, a longer head, larger abdomen, and short arms and legs. It's what you'd expect as a man becomes more of an indoor thinking animal, sitting on his rear more and spending more time pushing buttons."

The increasing baldness among women today he sees as a long-time evolutionary change possibly aggravated by lack of proper hair care.

"They don't brush it as vigorously, or wash it as frequently as they did in the old days. Now they dye it, set it, wave it, bleach it—and let it fall into a set pattern. They are afraid to disturb it until their next trip to the beauty parlor."

"Women who have a tendency to baldness often find it is increased after childbirth, because of a temporary lack of female hormones. Treatment with female hormones may bring back the hair, but not necessarily so. Those drafted sex hormones seem to hold the key to the whole problem. Female hormones grow scalp hair, hinder body hair. Male hormones work just the opposite. They are responsible for the growth of body hair and the loss of the hair, which may explain why so many bald men are sued in divorce court as wandering boudoir Tartans."

If you give any woman enough male hormones she will grow a beard and begin to lose scalp hair," said Dr. Behrman. "And by giving a man enough female hormones you might save his hair, but he would no longer be the kind of a man a woman would want around the house. He might lose interest in baseball and take up knitting."

What can a balding man do? Dr. Behrman, who is a member of the American Medical Association's Committee on Cosmetics, said that commercial lotions and creams are all right for hair grooming but added flatly: "They won't stimulate the growth of hair."

"In the vast majority of baldness-cases in which there is no local scalp or internal disease there is very little hope of saving the hair."

His solution for normal male baldness, which is a product of heredity, growing older, and how-more secretions, is:

"Philosophy. The hairless human on the way, but—"

Be the pioneers of the future will have to suffer in silence until we finally get that last laugh.

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON—When Mrs. Theodora Wangerin went out to Korea, her missionary husband in the Fall of 1900 many of the folks there had never seen a white woman. Seventh Day Adventists, the couple set up a mission near Taikyu and introduced Christianity to the natives.

"Their response to the gospel was very good," Mrs. Wangerin, back in this country to attend an Adventists meeting, told me. "It has been marvelous to see some of these dear people accept Christianity and to watch the transformation in their lives. We started with 100 when we first went out. At the time I was evacuated, when the war broke out, we had about 3,500 baptized adults and 7,000 in our Bible classes."

After their first seven years in Korea, the couple returned to the U.S., where six months later Rufus Conrad Wangerin died. Some months later his faraway widow returned to the faraway country with her small daughter, Gertrude, 7, and Dorothy, 3, to continue her work with her missionary sister, the late Miss Mimi Shuffenberg, at Seoul.

"Missionaries do various things—teach, go out into the homes, train Bible women, nurse," Mrs. Wangerin said. "My main line has been editor-in-chief of Seventh Day Adventist publishing for Korea in Seoul. Our magazine, 'Korean Signs of the Times' had a subscription list of 40,000 a month, very large considering the illiteracy and poverty, a larger circulation than any Korean newspaper."

In Tokyo, where she has spent the past two years, Mrs. Wangerin has resumed publication of the magazine, and she has published the Gospel of John in the Revised Korean Script, with some 135,000 copies ready for free distribution in South Korea. She has also reprinted the Bible lessons used in Bible correspondence schools set up in Korea two years before the war. "Many Koreans have accepted Christianity as a result of these lessons," she said.

"Our faith in God is the only thing the Communists have not been able to take away from us," many homelost refugees have written their friend, who in Korean is called "Wang Tae Ah," which means something like "Large, Pure King."

Mrs. Wangerin returned to the U.S. two months ago. Before coming to Washington to attend the Adventists' Autumn Council as a Far Eastern delegate she visited her home, Mrs. Mimi Shuffenberg, in Los Angeles and her daughter Dorothy, now Mrs. Warren Roach, at Lodi, Calif. Her daughter Gertrude, now Mrs. Marvin Loewen, lives in Mount Vernon, O. Mrs. Wangerin will stay here a year "talking Korea" in the churches but hopes to return to the country "where I have spent more time than in the United States."

Extensive Program Planned For Alumni Homecoming

East Carolina College, is busy with preparations for the 1952 Homecoming Day for Alumni Saturday, October 4, reports Alumni Secretary James W. Butler, chairman of the committee in charge of the annual event.

Most of the day will be devoted to reunions among former students and visits with faculty and students by the returning alumni. Dormitories will compete for a trophy presented to the best decorated student house on the campus.

Opening event will be the fall meeting of the Alumni Council in the Austin building at 11 o'clock. Alumni Association President Henry C. Oglesby of Washington, D.C., and Griffin, N.C., will preside. The alumni barbeque on the west campus at 1 o'clock will be attended by visitors, students, and the college staff. Reservations, coming in already, indicate a record attendance here during the Homecoming weekend, says Mr. Butler.

A campus parade will be staged at 3 o'clock. In the line of march will be college officials, dormitory and campus queens, decorated floats entered by student organizations, and the marching band of East Carolina College.

Highlight of the day will be the North State Conference football scrap between the East Carolina Pirates and the Catawba College Indians. The day's final event will be the Homecoming Hop in the Wright building after the game.

Among events planned for the day by student organizations will be an open house by the YWCA and YMCA cabinets from 3:30 to 8:30 in the Alumni Office, a sale of corsages by the Association for Childhood Education, and a sale of "Jolly Roger" flags and football emblems by the Circle K Club.

Robert A. Robinson of Franklin Springs, Ga., president of the Student Government Association, is parade marshal this year, and Ann Bell of Tucuma is chairman of the dormitory decorations committee. John T. Cox of Mt. Olive will assist Robinson in organizing the parade. Ten faculty members are working on the Homecoming Day committee. President Fodie H. Hodges of the Greenville-Pitt County Alumni Chapter and members of the group will assist with the registration of guests.

Dormitories will be open during the day for the returning alumni. Guests will be invited to visit the construction projects now in progress on the campus, such as the new Joyner Library, and to inspect buildings which have recently been opened, including the new health and physical education building on the east campus.

Demonstration Set For Monday

County Tobacco Specialist Sam Weeks announced today the nematode control demonstration originally scheduled for last Monday will be held Monday September 29.

Weeks said the demonstration set for last Monday was postponed because of unfavorable weather conditions.

The demonstration will be held on the farm of P.M. Moore near Bruce at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. "All farmers are urged to attend the demonstration," the tobacco specialist stated.

In the demonstration each of the recommended planbed treatments for nematode control will be demonstrated. Chemicals to be used are methyl bromide, dichloropropene-dichloropropane and ethylene dibromide.

Late Because Of Jail Door Lock

GRAVESEND, England (UP) — Lord Dunboyne, 35-year-old barrister friend of the royal family, was late for the opening of Quarter Sessions Court yesterday.

His lordship's apology was accepted when he explained he had been visiting a client in jail and a self-locking door slammed shut.

Past Caught Up Despite Reform

OAKLAND, Calif. (UP) — Ed Bailey's past caught up with him just one month after he "gave up crime."

Bailey, a locomotive fireman, was arrested yesterday and held for investigation of two armed robberies here and three in Los Angeles.

"You wouldn't have had any more trouble out of me," he told the arresting officers, "I gave up crime a month ago."

QUICK JUSTICE — Justice acted swiftly against Arch Patrick, 35. Fifteen minutes after he held up a motor saleswoman, he was arrested.

after his trial ended he was sentenced to 7-15 years.

Five Injured In Traffic Mishap

BETHEL — Five persons were injured here yesterday when a car with five persons was rammed from behind, just beyond the city limits on US 64 West.

Investigating officer Delton E. Perry gave this account of the accident.

A car driven by Spiros Koutoufas, 55, of Norfolk, was headed west on US 64 when it was rammed by a car following it, driven by William Wade Wood, 38, of Bethel.

The force of the impact threw the car up an embankment, after smashing in the rear of the car.

Injured were: Wood, who suffered a fractured right leg; Angelo Mandas, broken collar bone; Spiros Vagelafas, lacerations of the scalp; Mrs. Jane Mandas, bruised legs and shoulders; Julia Koutoufas, bruises.

The injured were taken to a Tarboro hospital by ambulance for treatment.

Perry stated that no charges have been preferred against Wood yet but indicated that as soon as investigation is completed that they may be.

Damage to the Wood car was estimated at around $700 while the car occupied by the Virginia people was damaged around $800 worth.

Nixon Careful To Refuse Coat

WHEELING, W. Va. (AP) — Sen. Richard M. Nixon hurried to catch his campaign plane here yesterday, a Wheeling policeman tried to hand him a brown topcoat he thought the Republican vice-presidential nominee had left behind.

"No, sir," said Nixon. "I don't take anything that doesn't belong to me."

More Homework Said Necessary

Dr. J. K. Long, director of the department of education at East Carolina College, spoke on the controversial topic of homework for school children at a meeting Thursday evening, September 25, of the Parent-Teacher Association of Stokes.

"What our children need," the East Carolina professor declared, "is not less homework, but more homework intelligently administered."

Whether to include homework in the school program, a question vital to teachers, parents, and children, is being widely debated at present among those interested in education, Dr. Long told PTA members in Stokes.

Opponents of homework, he explained, include two groups: those who would abolish it because it has disadvantages for pupils and for parents and those who think it is unnecessary because of improved methods of teaching and working in the school. Defenders of homework maintain, he stated, that it should be retained because it has educational value.

"My own opinion," he said, "is that our boys and girls at the high school level, and perhaps at the upper elementary school level, should do home study assignments. Schools need to work out a pattern which coordinates the work of the school and the home, so that the pupil works under the guidance of the teacher."

Dr. Long scored "busy-work" type of assignments and advocated types which develop a sense of responsibility in pupils. "It is the quality of the work," he concluded, "that counts and becomes a part of the child's knowledge and attitudes."

Driver Charged In Car Accident

A police report states that a truck collided with the rear of a car at Fourth and Washington streets yesterday afternoon and, in turn, caused it to collide with a car ahead.

Police arrested Kenneth H. Randolph, of Pactolus, driver of the truck, on the charge of driving too close.

One of the cars was driven by Frances Taylor Carson, of Pactolus; the other car by Gladys Brown Lee, Route 1, Greenville. None of the occupants was injured. Police estimated damage to the truck at $25; the Carson car, $100, and the Lee car, $20.

New Treasurer Of Student Fund

H. Donald Cox, senior from Kingston, became student treasurer at East Carolina College this week. He has assumed his duties as head of the Student Budget Office, through which funds of the Student Government Association are administered. Cox, elected first assistant treasurer last spring, replaces Jack Rennie of Richmond, Va., who resigned.

Student officers who are assisting Cox this fall are Billy Laughinghouse of Greenville, first assistant treasurer, and Anne Bynum of Farmville, second assistant treasurer.

Identified Him By 'Tiny Teeth'

DENVER (UP) — A small holdup man with tiny teeth, and a small mouth robbed the Boardway Finance Co., yesterday of $800.

"He had a very small mouth and little teeth, close together," Mrs. Myrna Scavo, a bookkeeper, told police. She said he ordered her to lie on the floor and threatened to kill her if she didn't stay there.

"I waited a couple minutes and then raised up," she said. "He was still there, staring in the window at me. I laid down again."

Police reported no trace of the thief, not the smallest.

NEW YORK (UP) — Chief Magistrate John W. Murtagh declared war on traffic "scofflaws" yesterday with the longest jail term ever meted out by the court for ignoring traffic summonses.

Marciano Ranked Hardest Puncher Squad In Top Shape For Rival Contest

TODAY'S SPORT PARADE

By OSCAR FREALEY

United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP)—Rocky Marciano, the new heavyweight champion of the world, is a better puncher than either Jack Dempsey or Joe Louis.

That is not a statement without foundation of fact, because it comes from Jack (Doc) Kearns, the little man who managed the immortal Manassa Mauler.

And Kearns, whose memory and articulation are as sharp at 67 as they were when he piloted Dempsey to the title, firmly believes that the "Rock" will be an increasingly better fighter because he has won the championship.

"Marciano will come along quickly now, with this new prestige, and he will be greater all the time," insisted the white-haired man whose some 500 fighters included Mike Walker.

And there is no doubt in Kearns' firm tones that even without that added inner buildup Marciano will replace Dempsey in the public imagination as the epitome of punching prowess.

"Both were great punchers and both of them liked to fight," Kearns explained. "But Dempsey wasn't strictly a one-punch fighter. He threw them faster and shorter than Marciano but it was that ceaseless ripping and tearing which pulverized the guys he was fighting.

"But for one-punch power, as he showed against Jersey Joe Walcott, Marciano is the best of them all," Kearns added. "He's a helluva fighter, I'll tell you. He can make a good fight and he can take it as he proved by coming off the floor after Walcott hit him with a very good left hook.

"If a fighter can take it and he can punch, he's bound to be good. Marciano takes it especially well, and dishes it out with the best I've ever seen. He'll be greater and greater as he goes along."

Don't get the impression from Kearns' description, that Marciano is a one-shot puncher—and that's all.

You probably have read in reports of his title triumph, that Walcott was ahead when he was kayoed. I have to hold that, just as in Walcott's decision over Ezzard Charles, it was a home town judgment.

The Charles fight was closer and, as such, you can't quarrel with them throwing the edge to the champion. But if everybody who was in Municipal Stadium Tuesday night holds that Walcott was ahead, I still scored it six for Marciano, four for Walcott and two even when that right to the jaw ended all doubts as to who was going to win.

Co-Captains Bobby Perry And Jimmy Cheatham Lead Phantoms Against Strong Kinston Team; Pat Sawyer Will Replace Injured Bobby Langston At Quarterback

By HERMAN HICKMAN

Reflector Sports Editor

The Greenville Phantoms, boasting a two-out-of-three victory margin, will take on the Kinston Red Devils tonight at the stadium in the opening home game of 1952. The game will begin at 8 o'clock.

With the exception of injured Quarterback Bobby Langston the Phantoms will be at top strength to try and wrest a victory from the rival Red Devils who have defeated Greenville nine seasons in a row.

The Phantoms will be depending heavily on fleet-footed Captain Bobby Perry and a sturdy defense that has proved very efficient in bottling up opponents' offensive thrusts.

James Speight and Guy Smith are also adept in the speed department. Either of these boys can go all the way once past the secondary.

The Red Devils lost their opener to a strong Methodist Orphanage squad but came back and clipped the LaGrange Bulldogs 7-0 last week. The Phantoms defeated Morehead City 7-0, Edenton 6-0, then lost a close 20-13 decision to Hertford.

The Phantom forward wall which has held opponents to an average 120 yards per game will play the major role in tonight's battle. Red Devil Halfback Tony Gerrans spearheads the Kinston attack both overland and in the air. Gerrans is a very good passer and that has been the Phantoms' weakest link in defense.

Quarterback Pat Sawyer, sophomore, has taken over the quarterback post in place of Bobby Langston who received a dislocated shoulder in the Hertford game. Sawyer has looked very good at the new post during practice sessions especially in the passing game.

The Phantoms' offensive efforts have been concentrated mostly on the running of Bobby Perry, James Speight, Doug Morgan, and Guy Smith, but Coach Bill Kittrell may surprise the Red Raiders with an aerial attack tonight.

Sawyer's favorite targets will be Ends Harold Edwards and Bobby Conway and Halfbacks Perry, Smith, and Speight.

Co-Captain Jimmy Cheatham will pace the Phantom forwards that hope to turn the tables on the powerful Red Raiders. Tackles Dixie Hobgood and Boots Teel, Guards Bobby Nunn, Billy Arnold and Anwer Joseph round out the starting Phantom line.

Reynolds Cinches Tie For Yanks With Win

By CARL LUNDQUIST

United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP)—Those "money smelling" Yankees are "in" for their fourth straight pennant unless they lose three straight games at Philadelphia, beginning tonight, the Indians win two straight at Detroit, and then defeat the Yankees in a playoff at Cleveland Monday.

That's "all" Cleveland has to do now, and it is doubtful if even their smooth-talking general manager, Hank Greenberg, can bring them in, despite the fact that on sundry occasions this year he has figured out how they can't miss. Right now, their chances for the flag are about as good as Pansy Yokum's for winning the Miss America beauty pageant.

The Yankees saw to that, or rather big Alie Reynolds did, yesterday when he personally escorted them to a tie-clinching 3 to 2 triumph at Boston and a series sweep of the vital three game set. They now have won six games in a row at Fenway Park, a feat never accomplished by any of Manager Casey Stengel's three previous pennant winners.

Reynolds was performing at his specialty, since he also won the tie-clinching game for the Yankees last year with a no-hitter against Boston. He did it with less of a flourish yesterday and utilized his bat as much as his long, strong right arm.

With the score tied at 2-all in the ninth, Irv Noren led off with a walk and Gil McDougald sacrificed. Noren moving on to third on a fly. Dismissing a pinch-hitter for the money-minded Reynolds, Stengel let him bat for himself and he slashed a single to left to win the game. It gave him 20 victories in a single season for the first time in his lustrous career against only eight defeats, but for a time it looked as if he wouldn't make it. Boston took a 2 to 0 lead on homers by Hoot Evers and Ted Lepcio but in the fifth McDougald got one run back with a Yankee homer. Then Mickey Mantle, batting like a demon in recent games, tripled in the sixth and scored on Joe Collins double. Reynolds struck 161—tops for the league.

Cleveland, idle for two days, resumes action tomorrow against Detroit but it will do the Indians no good to win if the Yankees top the Athletics tonight with lefty Ed Lopat going against rugged right hander Harry Byrd, who pitched a one-hitter then lost a 1 to 0 decision in his last two starts against the Yankees.

The Giants clinched second place, a hollow consolation, by coming from behind to defeat the Braves, 3 to 2, in the National League highlight. Rookie Hoyt Wilhelm gained his 15th victory against just three defeats in relief, tying him exactly with Brooklyn rookie Joe Black's 15-3 mark. Hoyt pitched one hitless, scoreless inning and gained the victory when rookie catcher Ray Katt singled home the winning run in a two-run ninth inning uprising. Whitey Lockman doubled, Monte Irvin walked and Bobby Thomson singled to score the first run. Bill Rigney was purposely passed and after Dave Williams hit into a bases-loaded double play that nailed the front runner at the plate, Katt came through with the single that wrapped up second place money.

Lefty Hal Newhouser passed a great milestone when he won his 200th major league game for the Tigers, topping the Browns, 3 to 2, on six hits but only 569 fans, smallest crowd in Briggs Stadium history was on hand to see him do it. He joined Bobby Feller of Cleveland and Bobo Newsom of Philadelphia as the only other active major leaguers at the "200" level. Johnny Sullivan delivered a homer for the Tigers.

In the only night game, the Cards beat the Reds, 4-3, getting the winning run in the last of the ninth when Billy Johnson doubled and came around on a sacrifice and Solly Hemus' single.

Duke Meets SMU In Big Game At Dallas

NEW YORK (UP)—Two major intercollegiate games will be played tonight and the 1952 college football season will feature top-notch games in every section of the country tomorrow with the Notre Dame-Penn and Michigan-Michigan State games topping the list.

In tonight's big games, Duke and Southern Methodist clash in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas, Tex., and Southern California meets Northwestern in Memorial Coliseum at Los Angeles.

Southern Methodist is a slight favorite although Duke already boasts a 34-0 whitewash of Washington and Lee. Southern California, which opened with a 35-7 triumph over Washington State, is expected to give West Coast football a welcome victory over the Big Ten invader.

The "big boys" come out in force tomorrow with the Notre Dame-Penn game before 74,711 at Philadelphia's Franklin Field heading 12 intercollegiate clashes. The Michigan State-Michigan clash at Ann Arbor tops the local rivalries.

Notre Dame, carrying Coach Frank Leahy's usual pessimism and a backfield built around quarterback Ralph Guglielmi, halfback John Lattner and fullback Neil Worden, hopes to make Penn its 400th victim in 63 years of football.

Some of the finest—and most complex—football of the college game's first big weekend will be offered the 97,239 who cram Michigan Stadium, Michigan, so often the Midwestern champion, will throw its complicated single and double wingplays against the offshoot of the Michigan system used by Michigan State.

Michigan State, undefeated last season, again will strike with the maze of single and double wing-T and wing-T formations that embarrassed Notre Dame, 35 to 0, last year.

Princeton, the Ivy League champlion, begins its season by putting its 22-game winning streak on display against Columbia before a coast-to-coast audience in the NCAA's television feature.

Other interesting intercollegiate games tomorrow are: UCLA-Texas Christian, California-Missouri, Villanova-Clemson, Minnesota-Washington, Iowa-Pittsburgh, Purdue-Penn State, Texas-North Carolina, Santa Clara-Kansas, South Carolina-Army, and Nebraska-Oregon.

Other major games: EAST—Navy-Yale; Cornell-Colgate; Holy Cross-Dartmouth.

SOUTH—Alabama-Louisiana State; Georgia-Tulsa; Mississippi-Auburn; West Virginia-Purman; North Carolina State-George Washington; Washington and Lee-Davidson; Georgia Tech-Florida.

MIDWEST—Ohio State-Indiana; Illinois-Iowa State; Wisconsin-Marquette; Cincinnati-Kansas State.

SOUTHWEST—Rice-Texas Tech; Tulsa-Hotchkiss; Arkansas-Houston.

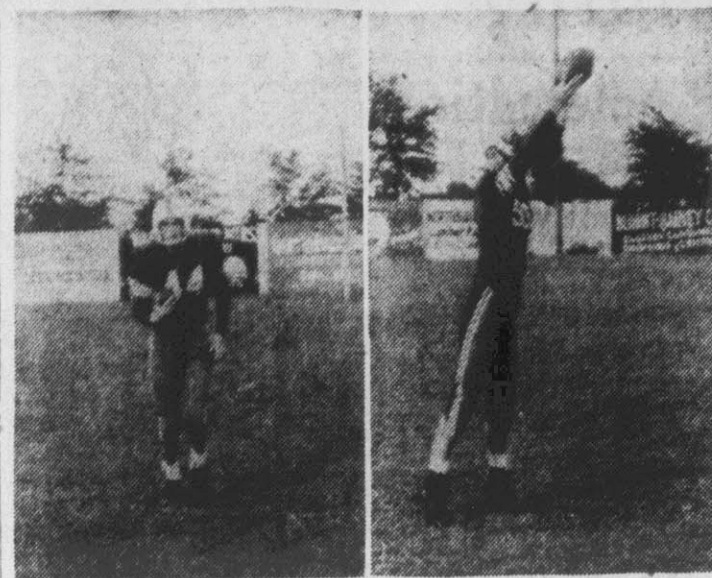

WEST—Stanford—Washington State; Oklahoma-Colorado; Wyoming-Montana; College of Pacific-Utah State; Brigham Young-New Mexico.

Pitt Athletic Ass'n Meet Here

The Pitt County Athletics Association will meet at Respass Barbecue, across the river, Tuesday night at 6:30.

Principals and coaches from each high school in Pitt County will be present to help formulate athletic rules and regulations for the coming year.

New officers will be elected to serve for the coming year replacing Ralph Picklesimer, president, E. L. Clark, vice-president, Joe Lupton, treasurer, and Adrian Brown, secretary.

CO-CAPTAIN BOBBY PERRY, left, and veteran end Bobby Conway are expected to play major roles in tonight's opening home game against Kinston. Perry ranks as a top candidate for All-State honors.

Grand Nationals Race At Wilson

Sunday will be a big day for motor sports fans in this section. The top automobile race drivers in the country will be on hand at the Wilson Speedway to compete in a 200 lap Grand National strictly stock-car race with a grand purse of $4,500.

The gigantic race is sanctioned by NASCAR and sponsored by the American Legion. Time trials for the event will start at 1 p.m. and the racing will begin at 2:30.

Leading a parade of famous drivers will be the Flock brothers, Fonty, Tim, and Bob. Fonty will be driving the same Oldsmobile 88 which carried him to victory in the Darlington Labor Day Classic on September 1. The Flock brothers and many of the other entrants won racing fame on North Carolina tracks before entering the pro ranks.

This will not only be a race between the best of the nation's stock car drivers, but a real test of the American stock cars. More than twelve of the leading makes will be entered. All the entries will use the original motors and not a hopped up version.

Attention will probably be focused on the bitter rivalry between the Oldsmobiles and Hudsons. Many fans have loudly proclaimed that the Hudson Hornet is an unbeatable stock car, but others point to the Oldsmobile victory in the "Southern 500."

Piloting the Hornets will be such stars as Herb Thomas, Dick Rathman, and Tim Flock. Not to be ruled out of the running are Hershel Buchanan driving a Nash Ambassador and Lee Petty driving the 1951 Plymouth that won a Grand National race in Macon, Ga.

Pirates Face Lenoir-Rhyne At Hickory

The East Carolina Pirates, 43 strong, moved out of town today for their first North State Conference game of the season. They will meet the defending champion Lenoir-Rhyne Bears tomorrow night in Hickory.

Practice yesterday was devoted to a long dummy scrimmage and work on defensive formations. The defensive work was designed to stop the single wing running of the Bears.

The Pirates left the college this morning at 8 o'clock via chartered bus. They are expected to arrive in Hickory in time for a short limbering-up drill. They will spend the night on the Lenoir-Rhyne campus and will return home Sunday.

Head Coach Jack Boone and Line Coach Clyde Biggers haven't announced any changes in either the defensive or offensive units. They are expected to go along with the same units which started last week when the Pirates walloped the Newport News Apprentice School.

Such a plan would have Sandy Siler, Paul Gay, Jack Benzie and Claude King in the offensive backlines seemed to take some of the fight out of the Blues who had been putting up a terrific scrap.

Fullback Barney Barrett and Quarterback Kelly Barnhill put the Blues within scoring range several times. Jimmy Long also got off some nice runs in the Blue effort. Everytime it seemed that the Blues would score the White line would rise up and bog down the Blue attack and take over on downs.

Barney Barrett, Coleman Ruffin, Benny Carraway and Erskine Duff performed well in the Blue line. Defensive leaders for the Whites were Mokey Lasitter, Bill Clapp, Tommy Mallison, Lynn Jorgensen, and Lane Jorgensen.

On defense, Smith and Tucker will be replaced by Bobby Thomas and David Lee while Cline will go out in favor of Algie Faircloth. Frank Madigan will come into the game for King and will be used along with Faircloth to back up the line. Toppay Hayes and Teddy Barnes will be the defensive halfback positions and Boyd Webb will be at safety.

Practice sessions this week have indicated that Boone plans to make a number of substitutions in the game. He will have four men available for almost every position tomorrow and has indicated that he will use them all if the opportunity presents itself.

The Pirates will be up against practically the same team which romped through last year's schedule. The backfield which carried the Bears to the North State championship is back intact but may find some trouble in that reserves are shallow.

Whites Triumph 18-0 Over Blues

The Whites and Blues met yesterday afternoon in the second game of the current Little League football season. The Whites chalked up a hard fought 18-0 victory over the scrappy Blues.

The Whites jumped into the lead in the first quarter when Captain Peanut Nunn took a 15 yard pass from Charlie Rumley for a touchdown. Howard Gaines try for the extra point failed. The first half ended without further scoring.

The Whites struck again in the third quarter when Rumley faked a pass and skipped around right end for 15 yards and a touchdown. Nunn failed in the extra point attempt from scrimmage.

Bobby Edwards scored the final White tally on a 50-yard punt return. Edwards' sprint down the sidelines seemed to take some of the fight out of the Blues who had been putting up a terrific scrap.

Fullback Barney Barrett and Quarterback Kelly Barnhill put the Blues within scoring range several times. Jimmy Long also got off some nice runs in the Blue effort. Everytime it seemed that the Blues would score the White line would rise up and bog down the Blue attack and take over on downs.

Jesus Dedicates His Life

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Matthew 3-4.

John the Baptist preached repentance, saying that the kingdom of heaven was at hand. He baptized many, warning that One was coming, "whose shoes I am not worthy to bear, to baptize with the Holy Ghost and with fire."

Jesus, beginning His ministry, came to John to be baptized. As Jesus came out of the water a Spirit descended from heaven upon Him and a voice said, "This is My Beloved Son in whom I am well pleased."

The Spirit then led Christ into the wilderness where, after 40 days' fasting, He was tempted of Satan. Failing in his efforts, Satan departed. Jesus, being hungry, "angels came and ministered unto Him."

As Jesus went about teaching and preaching, His fame spread and great crowds followed Him. They brought their sick and those who were possessed of devils for Him to heal.

MEMORY VERSE—Hebrews 10:7.

Jesus Dedicates His Life

HE WAS BAPTIZED BY JOHN AND BEGAN HIS MISSION

Scripture—Matthew 3-4.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL
JUST as today we are looking for great leaders to help in our tangled world, so the Jews were waiting for their Messiah. What they did not realize was that when He came they would not recognize Him, but that the whole world, centuries later, would be worshipping Him.

Jesus was 30 years old when He left His home and began the work for which He had come to earth. Preceding Him was John the Baptist, His cousin, of whose conception and birth St. Luke has told us.

John "came preaching in the wilderness of Judaea, saying, Repent ye: for the kingdom of heaven is at hand." This was according to the Old Testament prophecy by Isaiah, saying, "The voice of one crying in the wilderness, Prepare ye the way of the that proceedeth out of the mouth of God."

Satan took Him into Jerusalem and put Him on a pinnacle of the temple, telling Him to cast Himself down because, if He was the Son of God, He would send angels to save Him. Jesus answered that "It is written, again, Thou shalt not tempt the Lord thy God."

Taken to the top of a high mountain, Satan next showed the Lord the world spread at His feet, and promised Him all if He would worship the evil one. Jesus said, "Get thee hence, Satan: for it is written, Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and Him only shalt thou serve."

Satan left Him then and "angels came and ministered unto Him."

At this time Jesus heard that John the Baptist had been put in prison, and He went to dwell in

Lord, make His paths straight." Many came to John and were baptized in the river Jordan and confessed their sins. He told them, "I indeed baptize you with water unto repentance: but He that cometh after me is mightier than I, whose shoes I am not worthy to bear; He shall baptize you with the Holy Ghost, and with fire."

Jesus came from Galilee to Jordan to be baptized of John. John at first forbade Him, saying, "I have need to be baptized of Thee, and comest Thou to me?"

Jesus persisted, however, and John baptized Him. As Christ came from the water the heavens were opened, and "He saw the Spirit of God descending like a dove, and lighting upon Him."

"And lo a voice from heaven, saying, This is My beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased."

Jesus was then led by this same Spirit into the wilderness "to be tempted of the devil." After 40 days' of fasting, Jesus was hungry, and Satan said to Him, "If Thou be the Son of God, command these stones be made bread."

Jesus answered him, that "It is written, Man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word

Capernaum, upon the sea coast, and from that time He began to preach, and to say, "Repent: for the kingdom of heaven is at hand."

It was then that He called Simon and Andrew, his brother, from their fishing, telling them to follow Him and He would make them "fishers of men," and they followed Him.

"And Jesus went about all Galilee, teaching in their synagogues, and preaching the gospel of the kingdom, and healing all manner of sickness and all manner of diseases among the people."

His fame spread. As a magnet attracts metal, so His personality and words and His healing powers attracted people from all about. They followed Him everywhere, bringing their sick and those tormented or possessed with devils, and He healed them all.

So we begin our fourth and last quarter of the 1952 Sunday School lessons, studying once more that wonderful story of our Lord's life on earth, the subject of the quarter being, "Gospel of the Christian Life." May we all profit by the telling as we have by the other lessons of this year, we trust.

12-Year-Old Boy Scout Presented Eagle Badge

At a Court of Honor of Pitt District of the Boy Scouts of America last Friday night, Orman Whichard, 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Whichard, Bethel Highway, received the Eagle Scout award.

"He is one of the youngest Boy Scout to receive the award in this district," Franklin Steinbeck, chairman of the Advancement Committee, who presided, stated. Whichard is a member of Bill Drum's Troop 30.

Scoutmaster Bill Drum presided over the opening and closing ceremonies of the Court of Honor.

Dr. H. Glenn Haney, pastor of Eighth Street Christian Church, spoke briefly, stressing the value of scouting and faithful execution of its tenets. He complimented the Boy Scouts on their excellent showing and encouraged troop leaders to continue the good work.

Following is a list of awards: Second Class — Troop 245, Ralph Lancaster, Mac Smith, Larry Stox, Jr., and Bobby Mercer; Troop 30, Joe Dresbach Jr., Bob Bilbro and David Clifford.

First Class — Troop 205, Mac Churchill and Jack H. Stokes. Merit Badge Awards—Troop 30, Bob Bilbro, athletics and home repairs; Hugh Duncan, swimming; Angus Duff, rowing and Indian lore and wildlife management; Willie Stancill, swimming, Indian lore, forestry, rowing and lifesaving; Jack Clifford, citizenship in the nation, forestry, photography, athletics, scholarship, and citizenship in the community; Orman Whichard, canoeing, camping, rowing, lifesaving, swimming, Indian lore, home repairs, coin collecting, art and wildlife management.

Troop No. 30 won the participation and attendance awards. Troop 200, Gordon Tripp, Winterville, won the star award.

Troop 30, Jack Clifford, won the life scout award.

Angus M. Duff won the lifesaving award. Chairman Steinbeck reminded the boys of the Boy Scout fall roundup and rally to be held at Elm Street Park at 4 p. m. today.

Mother-In-Law Inspired Trouble

MILWAUKEE (AP)—When his mother-in-law moved in for an extended visit, everything just seemed to go wrong.

Hubby had to sleep on the couch. He lost the affections of his wife. He couldn't eat. He started staying out late at night. He ended up in the divorce courts.

The understanding judge advised him to be nice to his mother-in-law so that she might leave voluntarily. It worked. The couple, who together lost 22 pounds during the interim, are back together again and, according to the judge, very much in love.

In ancient times meteors were believed to originate in the atmosphere.

Record Pumpkin Is Part Of Loot

AKRON, O. (AP)—It wouldn't have been so bad if thieves just took the ordinary pumpkins but they took the king-size one as well.

Investigation of tracks on the property of A.F. Deibel disclosed that it was so big it had to be rolled away. A sheriff's deputy said it was 60 inches in circumference.

Chapter 33
Sally shook her head in bewilderment. "I don't understand you, Clay," she protested. "Just because I've got a few highbinders working for me in St. Louis—"

He lifted his hand to stem the flow of words. "Darling," he said, "you're still civilized enough to believe in law and order. I don't for I've just come back from a territory where every man makes his own laws. Now listen closely and I'll explain it to you. Shepley can't prosecute a charge against me unless he has witnesses who'll go into court and swear I'm guilty. Witnesses can be bribed—or frightened—into having amazingly bad memories. If they're too obstinate they can even be removed. All it takes is enough money to do the job, and the right men on the job to do it. As it happens, you have the men and I have the money. By the time we get through with him Shepley won't have a leg to stand on."

Sally studied his face thoughtfully, her quick mind busy with the possibilities of the plan.

"I believe you're right," she agreed slowly. "It will take time. They'll have to find the witnesses. She stood up and walked slowly across the room, revolving the risks and the gains, the dangers and the precautions that must be taken. Suddenly she spun around and faced him as another thought entered her mind.

"But you won't be safe here!" she exclaimed. "You'll be in danger every hour until the last witness is out of the way. Clay, had you thought about that?"

"Why, yes," he agreed easily. "The idea did cross my mind, and there's only one thing I can see to do. I'll take a little trip down to Sam Houston's Republic of Texas—a like every other outlaw with a price on his head and a good horse between his legs."

All the bright courage died in her face and her clenched hand unconsciously flew to her trembling lips.

"Texas!" she cried. "Oh, Clay, not Texas!"

Texas! Texas—and the Alamo and Goliad and San Jacinto. Texas—and Santa Anna's hordes sweeping up across the border in the very earth seared and blackened. Texas—flame against flame and lance against lance, no law but anarchy, no peace but death, no safety except the momentary bastion a man might build behind his own flaming guns, Texas!

"You can't!" she whispered desperately. "Oh, Clay, you can't!"

"I know," he agreed. "It's outlaw country. It's wild and it's rough—but they don't send Missouri sheriffs down there. I'll be all right there for a year, and by the end of the year I'll be able to come back here."

Texas! A savage, solitary empire. West of the Sabine—and west of civilization, too.

It was sundown before he was ready to go. There'd been Meisendorff's cache to bury beneath the floor of Sally's cabin—and such of it as he was not taking with him in one of his saddlebags and in the wide money belt strapped around his waist. There'd been food to prepare and boots to mend and powder flasks to be refilled and bullets to mold.

But now they were standing in the doorway and the urgency of the day was finished and there was nothing left to say—nothing except good-by. No bright-blooming flower of passion could stay it or conceal it. No vows, no promises, no tears or hopes or fears could turn back the bitter hours.

"I'll come back, Sally," Clay said gently. "I'll always come back to you."

"I know. Oh, darling—I know!" It was just a whisper in the night, a memory of heartbreak and dreams destroyed and bright enchantment shattered in the dusk. "And if you can't—"

She caught her breath and lifted her face to his. "If you can't, darling, I'll find the way to Texas, and I'll find you."

He rode all night beneath a leaden, cloud-scattered sky, as dark and turgid as his own bleak bitterness of spirit. The rain had stopped but the ground was soft and pulpy, clinging to Kentucky's hoofs and making progress slow and difficult. At dawn, exhausted and depressed, he spread his blankets beneath the shelter of an overhanging cliff and dropped off into fitful troubled sleep.

It was noon when he awoke to find the sun blazing down from the cloudless sky. The air was warm and the earth was fresh and green, washed clean of all its troubles yesterday, made new again as if the past had never been. He stood up and whistled to Kentucky and the mare came trotting up to him, whinnying and tossing her head, rested and refreshed and ready to resume the journey to the south. As he rolled up his blankets and cinched on the saddle he suddenly realized that his black mood of the night before was gone, and when he was mounted and on the move he felt the impatient eagerness that had always possessed him when he turned his face toward some new and unknown goal.

He threw back his head and began to sing, his voice matching the rhythm of Kentucky's steady pace. It was an old song, a song the adventurers from Texas had sung beside the campfires on the Santa Fe trail.

"Oh, you'll find a land that's wide and free,
And a sky of blue above you,
And a Texas girl in a Texas town.
Waiting down there to love you."

He leaned forward and slapped Kentucky companionably on the shoulder.

"You know," he said conversationally. "Texas may not be so bad. As a matter of fact, it may not be bad at all!"

Humming lightly to himself, he rode forward as men should always ride along the strange trails that lead them to their unforeseeable destinies—smiling, with the sun warm on his shoulders and bright on his face.

Dedicating New Church In Sunday Ceremonies

One of the oldest Free Will Baptist Churches in North Carolina will officially dedicate its new brick edifice in day-long services near Belvoir Sunday.

The Gum Swamp Free Will Baptist Church will hold the formal dedicatory services for its new church building Sunday morning at 11 o'clock, at which time the sermon of dedication will be delivered by the Rev. J. C. Griffin of New Bern. On Sunday night the Rev. C. L. Patrick of Grifton will begin a series of week-long revival services at Gum Swamp church which will continue through October 4.

Rev. D. W. Alexander, pastor of the church said services will be held each evening at 7:30 during the revival, and extended a cordial invitation to the public to attend the services.

More Than 200 Years Old
The Gum Swamp Church has one of the most colorful histories of any Free Will Baptist Church in the state. Although the written history of the church was destroyed in a fire a number of years ago, the church is more than 200 years old. It was one of the first churches in the Central North Carolina Free Will Baptist Conference, which was organized during the mid 1700's. The Gum Swamp Church is the oldest Free Will Baptist Church in Pitt County, and may be the oldest in the state, but Reverend Alexander and the members of his church are not quite sure. Rev. Alexander said the Little Creek and Grimsley Free Will Baptist Churches of Greene County were organized about the same time the Gum Swamp Church was organized and no one is quite sure of the chronological order of organization, although the three churches are the only ones of the original Central North Carolina Conference which are still active.

First Log Church
The first building constructed by the Gum Swamp church, Rev. Alexander said, was a log structure, and during the ensuing years either one or two frame buildings were built by the church. When Rev. Alexander first became minister of the Gum Swamp Church in 1914, he said, the frame building in which services were held at that time was about 100 years old. Rev. Alexander was
