Ike Opens Next Tour On Tuesday

Leaves Dixie With Words That Demo Party Has Forgotten Jefferson

By JOHN L. CUTLER United Press Staff Correspondent NEW YORK (UP) - Dwight D. Eisenhower, shrugging off his first campaign mishap with a grin, came back from Dixie today with a charge that the Truman administration has abandoned principles of Thomas Jefferson, father of the Democratic party.

The Republican presidential nominee wound up a 6,815-mile swing that took him into the Solid South on the final day.

Eisenhower told a cheering throng of more than 12,000 in Richmond, Va., last night the administration and "big city bosses" have corrupted the Democratic party into "downright crookedness."

At the end of his address, part of the temporary wooden stands on the state Capitol collapsed. Eisenhower and six other persons fell about six feet but none was injured.

Eisenhower got up, brushed himself and then flashed his characteristic grin. "I'm glad nobody was hurt," he said.

His next trip opens Tuesday with a flight to Columbia, S. C., under the auspices of Gov. James F. Byrnes, one-time administration stalwart who has endorsed the Republican nominee.

Last night's charge that the Democrats have abandoned Jeffersonian principles, accompanied with warm praise for Sen. Harry F. Byrd of Virginia, was aimed at luring more Southern strength from the Democrats and into the GOP column.

Eisenhower compared Byrd with Jefferson and said "it would seem that the party of Jefferson has more accurate care here in Virginia under the leadership of its senior senator than it does in Washington."

Byrd has refused to endorse Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson, and didn't show up when the Democrat nominee spoke in Richmond last week. The Virginian, one of the leaders of the congressional economy bloc, has long been at odds with the administration.

More Richmond residents turned out to hear Eisenhower than appear when Stevenson was there. The streets were lined with cheering crowds during Eisenhower's two-mile motorcade from Broad Street station to the Capitol.

Eisenhower's aides were elated by what they considered big gains made on this leg of the candidate's campaign.

Gov. Sherman Adams of New Hampshire, Eisenhower's top political adviser, said the trip through 12 states made it "obvious that the people of the country are determined to have a change in administration this year."

"They have had enough of scandal and corruption in high places, of waste and inefficiency in government, of inflation with high prices and higher taxes, of disloyalty in public service," he said.

Farmville Market Reports $51.55 Price Average

Through Friday, 14,000,000 pounds of tobacco have been sold on the Farmville Tobacco Market for an average of $51.55.

Friday's sales on the market in Farmville averaged $54.70 with 740,548 pounds of tobacco being sold for $405,980.80.

One rather unusual sale occurred on the market Friday when Marvin Houston, operator, and Dick and Drew Allen sold 10 piles of tobacco, each for an average of $70.00 per hundred.

Supervisor of Sales Fred C. Moore said full sales were expected next week. He also said the quality of tobacco sold on the Farmville market was fair to medium with mostly leaf on the warehouse floors.

U. S. And Belgian Troops Weather Blazing Barrage

SEOUL, Korea (UP)—American and Belgian infantry weathered a blazing Communist mortar and artillery barrage today to smash a Red attack on a United Nations outpost west of Chorwon after nearly eight hours of fighting.

Two Chinese companies, about 300 men, had tried desperately all night to over-run the outpost position held by the U. S. 3rd Division.

An estimated 500 rounds of mortar and artillery fire fell on the Allied position, but the U. N. troops took heavy toll of Chinese and buried them back.

In the air War Allied B-29 Superforts bombed the communists' "achungjung" military supply area, 75 miles south of Hamhung on the east coast.

Ten Superforts dropped 100 tons of 500-pound bombs on the important target and started countless fires and secondary explosions.

"The explosions started immediately when the first 500-pounder hit," said airman J. C. Eugene J.

Young Red Intelligence Officer Deserts To U. N.; Says Army Morale Low, Civilians Anxious For Cease-Fire

SEOUL, Korea (UP)—A young Red intelligence officer, who deserted to the United Nations, said today North Korean army morale is low and North Korean civilians want an armistice "under any conditions."

Li Lee Dong Yup escaped to the Allied lines Sept. 5 by slipping past the Communist guards he commanded.

The 29-year-old officer was educated in Tokyo and trained in a Communist intelligence school in Manchuria.

"The morale of the North Korean army seems very low," he said, and the Red Korean army thinks most of Korea has been destroyed by the war and they want more reinforcements from Red China.

"Lower class civilians want the truce talks to succeed under any conditions," he said. "The upper class civilians say that free (voluntary) repatriation is right."

The Communist negotiators in a note turned over to United Nations liaison officer Col. Charles McCarthy complained again today against Allied "persecution" of war prisoners.

The U. N. at the same time disclosed two new incidents in which four Red prisoners were injured. Prisoners on Cheju Island created the disturbances Friday—against U. N. orders. U. N. infantrymen subdued the prisoners, none of whom was injured seriously.

The official Soviet newspaper Pravda charged Kennan with "slandering fabrications" when he said Russian treatment of Americans in Moscow reminded him of the Nazis. It was one of the sharpest attacks Russia ever has leveled against a foreign diplomat.

There was immediate speculation that the Kremlin was getting set to declare Kennan "persona non grata" or that the United States would recall him as no longer useful. But experts here ruled out both possibilities.

Hosiery Mill Has Been Shut Down

'Business Conditions' And Reorganization Said Reasons

GREENVILLE Full Fashioned Hosiery Mill has closed down "due to business conditions" and is now in the process of being re-organized.

The announcement was made this morning by Hans Scheller, manager of the mill.

Earlier this week rumors spread that the mill was being closed, but when contacted about the matter Thursday, Scheller said he would have no statement until today.

In the brief written statement issued this morning, Scheller said, "The Greenville Full Fashioned Hosiery mill has closed down due to business conditions, and is now in the process of being reorganized."

He said he could give out no further information, and gave no indication of how long the mill would be closed or what type of reorganization was taking place. Scheller did, however, he would make a further statement at a later date.

The hosiery mill, which is located on East Fourteenth Street, was opened before World War II. Soon after its opening, both the mill and building were purchased by the late Felix Scheller and operated by him for several years.

Two Youths Held In Fatal Shooting After Midnight

Companion Killed By Rifle Bullet; Investigation Not Completed

STOKES—Two Negro youths are being held in jail without privilege of bond today in connection with the fatal shooting of a companion which took place near here last night.

The pair, Jimmy Williams, 21, and Willie Barnhill, 18, were placed in the Pitt County jail early today after officers were aroused at 2 o'clock this morning to investigate reports of an "accidental" death.

Dead from a bullet wound through the left temple is George Atkinson, 25-year-old Negro. Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson said today Atkinson was shot with a .22 calibre rifle shortly after midnight.

The sheriff stated Atkinson's lifeless body was found undressed and in bed, where he obviously had retired for the night. The bed clothes were not disarranged, and Tyson said he was probably killed instantly.

According to officers, the two Negroes being held said they came in after being out the night before and found Atkinson in bed. They stated they attempted to remove a rifle from the bed, the sheriff reported, and in the process the gun fired accidentally, killing Atkinson.

All three of the Negroes were engaged in farming and had been living alone in the house—"batching"—for several weeks. Sheriff Tyson stated both of the boys being held had been drinking.

Coroner's Inquest Williams and Barnhill will be held without bond pending outcome of the coroner's inquest, and the sheriff said investigation of the "accident" is far from completed. Date of the inquest had not been set this morning.

The investigation is being conducted by the Pitt County Sheriff's Department, "Cap'n" S. B. Dorsey, city and county identification officer, and SBI Agent S. G. Gibbs.

Technical Points Only Obstacle In New Coal Pact

Lewis And Northern Soft Coal Operators But Two Days From Deadline

WASHINGTON (UP) — John L. Lewis and Northern soft coal operators hammered today at "technical" points in their new contract with a deadline only two days away.

The United Mine Workers' boss was scheduled to meet with Harry Moses, chief industry negotiator, in an attempt to rush through a formal agreement before the union's 200-man wage policy committee meets Monday. Both sides hoped to work out the remaining snags so the contract could be given to the UMW group for ratification.

The agreement calls for a $1.90-a-day wage hike and a 10-cent-a-ton boost in payments to the welfare fund.

When the contract is formally drawn up, Lewis is expected to hand the pact to the Southern soft coal operators. So far the Southern group has balked at the terms, but it expects to make a final decision—probably to sign—at a meeting Tuesday.

The Southern operators' meeting was called less than 24 hours before Southern miners were due to strike at 12:01 a. m. Wednesday. Informers insisted on a stipulation that the agreement be subject to approval of the Wage Stabilization Board. However, Moses in effect denied this, reporting that "no major snags" had developed in working out the agreement.

TOUGH COP

By JOHN ROEBURT

Chapter One

The muscular fellow in the barber chair drew one foot in, then set the other on the shoeshine box. The shine boy flipped the rag vigorously across the shoe.

The barber set his scissors down, and selected a bottle from a shelf.

The patron shook his head. "No tonic, Tony. Just comb it dry."

Tony said affectionately, "Like a movie actor, Mr. Devereaux."

Devereaux grimaced into the large wall mirror. Opaque cheeks and a thin, equiline nose with a broader bridge grimed back at him.

Devereaux got off the chair stumbly, recovered his coat from a wall peg, got into it and then, before departing, gave the room with the single barber chair a last lingering look.

There were streamers in red, white, and blue strung from the ceiling lights, a mammoth cutout of a face that looked like Mr. Devereaux, and was, and the wall mirrors were soaped with print that said repetitiously, "Good Luck, Johnny Devereaux."

More than an intimate barber-shop, this back room in a celebrated night club was a mirror of the importance of its patron. Not moneyed importance, but achievement and color, the special and extraordinary color of glamorous people who were actors, columnists, round-the-world fliers, saints, the famous and the infamous—and tonight detectives. Johnny Devereaux was, or had been, a topflight detective.

"Reads like an epitaph," Devereaux smiled ruefully. "Hey, I'm not dead, just retired."

Tony's face creased seriously. "Excuse me, Mr. Devereaux. But why you retired?" His eyes shone admiration. "So young. Like a boy yet."

"A gray-bearded boy," Devereaux said. "I'm tired of knocking heads together, Tony. Tired of being a tough cop in a world of skulls, con men, killers, and plain crooks." His face clouded significantly. "I used to read good books, improve my mind, a long time ago, Tony. I want to pick up where I left off twenty years ago. I want to pick myself up and start traveling before I run out of time. Understand?"

Tony nodded doubtfully, opened a drawer, then came over with a book and a roustain pen. He uncorked the pen. "You autograph the book, Mr. Devereaux?" he said.

The dust jacket showed a several months of Manhattan scenes, and the type across it read: Twenty Years a Cop, by Johnny Devereaux.

Devereaux scribbled inside the cover, restored the pen and the book to the barber, then placed a ten-dollar bill on the wall ledge.

"Buy a drink on me," he said fondly. At the door, he gestured at the soaped mirrors. "And hire yourselves a window washer."

The shine boy's face shone, and the barber blew a kiss.

Outside the club, with handshakes and good wishes finally in limbo, Devereaux said behind the wheel of his brand-new Buick convertible—a farewell gift from the Department.

He sat stock-still, then began jangling his key ring moodily. What, he wondered, already feeling the burden of sudden freedom after decades in harness, did a man in retirement do with his time? He fingered the ignition key. Where he ruminated sadly, now feeling a little old and used up did retired detectives pasture?

Devereaux sighed, and turned the key in the ignition.

The motor had coughed, awaking, when he was her duck around the doorman and run to his car. She slammed the door.

"Hurry, please!" Her voice behind him was urgent.

"Ditching someone?"

"Yes."

"Why my car?"

"Hurry, please!" She was close to tears.

Devereaux swung out from the curb in quick, automatic movements, oddly happy for the activity, grateful for the distraction. The Buick reached the avenue and turned into it.

"Who were you ditching?" he asked after a while.

"My father."

"Under age?"

"I'm twenty."

"So, what's the problem?"

"He's—unreasonably possessive."

"Why take you clubbing, then?"

"He didn't. Take me clubbing. I mean, He followed us."

"Speak off to City Hall with the boy friend," Devereaux said. "That will kill Pop's penchant for following you."

"It's not so simple as that." He felt her sigh. "Even if I were in love, I'd be afraid to marry."

of his forties.

"How bad is it?" he prompted.

"It's a mess," she said, accepting him as a confidant.

"Father a completely bad actor?"

"Yes."

She hesitated, and there was a look of revulsion in her eyes that haunted his imagination.

40 Years Ago Today

THE DAILY REFLECTOR
September 27, 1912

The Democratic convention of this district, held in Elizabeth City last May, nominated Mr. Albion Dunn of Greenville as presidential elector of the district. Recently Mr. Dunn tendered his resignation to the district executive committee and at a called meeting of the committee in Elizabeth City last Wednesday, Mr. F. C. Harding of Greenville was chosen to fill the vacancy.

If Greenville does not take advantage of the tide of property now flooding the country it is her own fault. Business and manufacturing enterprises are seeking desirable locations and this town should be alert to secure a full share of them.

Standing Room Only For Jail

STONEY, N.S. (UP)—It was a standing room only in the Cape Breton County jail today. Officials said the jail had 50 inmates. It was built for 40.

To gain admittance police have set a "waiting list" with top priority going to "ators of Nova Scotia's liquor laws."

Write The Dahlberg Company, Golden Valley, Minneapolis 22, Minn. for complete information. No obligation whatsoever. —(Adv.)

There is a man in our community who doesn't understand the importance of religious education. He has never taken his little boy to Sunday School because he figures "it's time enough for a child to learn about religion when he's old enough to know what it's all about!"

One day his little boy, while sitting on the swing, said "Daddy, give me a push."

Wouldn't you have thought he would refuse? (Time enough for a child to swing when he's old enough to know what it's all about.)

But he gave him a push... and another... and many more!

Which prompts us to observe that religious education has far more to do with a child's happiness and character than with swinging. Those early years in the Church mold moral fibre and awaken spiritual discernment.

The soul of your own child... at the threshold of FAITH... cries "Daddy, give me a push!"

ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Ann Smith Bride Of Joe W. Paul

Couple To Live In Ayden Following Wedding Trip

In a ceremony lovely in its simplicity Miss Ann Willis Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin E. Smith of Ayden, became the bride of Joe West Paul, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Albert Paul of Alliance, on Sunday afternoon, September 21, at 4 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents.

The vows were spoken before an improvised altar of baskets of white chrysanthemums, lighted cathedral candles in floor candelabra and greenery. Rev. Gilbert Davis, pastor of the Ayden Christian church, officiated at the ceremony.

Wedding music was presented by Miss Virginia Bell Cooper of Ayden, pianist, and Mrs. Joe Lupton of Greenville, soloist, who sang "Through The Years."

The couple, unattended, entered the room together. The bride wore an original model two-piece love-blue velvet dress fashioned with fitted bodice with peplum and long tight-fitting sleeves. She wore matching accessories and a corsage of American Beauty roses.

Mrs. Smith, mother of the bride, wore a two-piece dress of navy blue crepe with a corsage of white carnations and Mrs. Paul, mother of the bridegroom, wore light blue crepe and a corsage of white carnations.

Following the ceremony the parents of the bride entertained at a reception at the home and later Mr. and Mrs. Paul left for a wedding trip to unannounced points. Upon their return they will make their home at Ayden.

Mrs. Paul attended Louburg college and is employed in the office of the Pitt County register of deeds. Mr. Paul attended State College in Raleigh and is a building contractor.

Farmville September Bride

Mrs. Robert Allen, who before her marriage on September 13 at the Farmville Christian Church parsonage, was Miss Jean Walston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam D. Walston of Greenville. Mr. Allen is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Allen also of Greenville.

Farmville Girl Marries Mr. Wade Of Snow Hill

FARMVILLE — At four o'clock Sunday afternoon in the Farmville Christian Church, Miss Mildred Carole Pippin became the bride of Rand Winston Wade. Rev. Z. B. T. Cox, church pastor, solemnized the vows which were spoken in a candlelight double-ring ceremony.

A setting of wedding beauty was achieved by the use of lighted tapers and arrangements of white gladioli, asters and ferns.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rupert Kierle Pippin of Farmville. Mr. Wade is the son of Rand Wade and the late Mrs. Wade of Snow Hill.

Prior to the ceremony, a musical program was presented by Mrs. Hayward Smith, organist, and Mrs. P. L. Barrow, sister of the groom, who sang "My Hero" and "O Perfect Love." Mrs. Marrow sang "The Lord's Prayer" as a benediction.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a patio-length dress of ice blue Chantilly lace over satin, fashioned with short sleeves and a bouffant skirt. Her accessories were of navy blue and she carried a crescent shaped bridal bouquet composed of white carnations, stephanotis and fern, centered with a white orchid.

Mrs. Claude Johnson, matron of honor, was her sister's only attendant. She wore a gown of antique, iridescent taffeta, styled with bouffant skirt and a bolero. The bolero had Elizabethan collar and sleeves. Her nosegay of yellow pompon chrysanthemums was tied with matching ribbon.

Mr. Wade was attended by his brother-in-law, P. L. Barrow, as best man. Ushers were Claude Johnson, brother-in-law of the bride, and Alvin Wade, brother of the groom.

Mrs. Pippin, mother of the bride, wore a dress of skyark blue crepe. Mrs. Wade, step-mother of the groom, was dressed in teal blue crepe. Both wore shoulder corsages of red roses.

Following the ceremony the couple received guests in the vestibule of the church. For a wedding trip to unannounced points, the bride wore a navy faille suit with navy velvet accessories and the orchid from her bridal bouquet.

Mrs. Wade is a graduate of Farmville high school and attended East Carolina College. The bridegroom is a graduate of Snow Hill high school. They will make their home in Farmville.

After-Rehearsal Party
Following the rehearsal Saturday night, Mrs. David Stadium of Kinston, Mrs. P. L. Barrow, Mrs. Clarence Hardy and Mrs. Thelbert Cunningham, all of Snow Hill, entertained the wedding party, families and out-of-town guests at the social hall of the church.

Bowl arrangements of white carnations and fern were used to decorate the hall, and the serving table was ornamented with lighted white tapers, in silver candelabra. White pompon chrysanthemums and fern were artfully arranged about the candelabra. Enhancing the loveliness of the table was a large heliolum punch service of silver.

Mrs. Rupert Pippin, mother of the bride, served slices of the three-tiered wedding cake after it had been cut, in traditional manner, by the bride couple. The cake, iced in the wedding motif, was topped with a miniature bride and groom.

Mrs. Rand Wade of Snow Hill served the punch. Guests served their plates with party mints and salted nuts.

On this occasion the bridal couple presented those in the wedding party with attractive gifts.

Mrs. Edwards Club Hostess

AYDEN—On Tuesday afternoon Mrs. S. M. Edwards was hostess to the Merry Matrons and other invited guests when she entertained at five tables of bridge.

At the conclusion of the game hose were given for the high score prizes to Mrs. W. W. Salsbury and J. R. Taylor. Chrome bonnets were given to Mesdames P. R. Taylor and Robert Johnson for being the runner-ups. Mrs. S. J. Worthington was remembered with pot holders for the consolation prize.

During the game the hostess served iced drinks and salted nuts, and later in the afternoon a chicken salad plate with lilly dilly cups and iced tea was served to Mesdames Salsbury, J. R. Taylor, P. R. Taylor, Johnson, Worthington, C. R. Tyn-dall, L. E. Turnage, W. C. Ormond, J. L. Tingle, J. H. Whitaker, Jack Quinley, Robert G. Harris, Keith Brunson, J. D. Cannon, Ralph P. Hardee, B. H. McLaughlin, Harry Mumford, Larry Davis, Allen Johnson and W. T. Everett.

Parent-Teacher Club Of St. Raphael's Plans Year's Projects

A large number of parents attended the first meeting of St. Raphael's Parent-Teacher Club, which was held on Wednesday evening, Sept. 25, at the school.

The meeting was opened with a prayer and the singing of "America." Each of the Sisters was introduced to the group by the president, Mrs. A. W. Bryan, after which Father Gable welcomed the parents to the organization and gave a brief talk in which he stressed the high ideals for which the school stands.

Mrs. Daniel Saleed was elected secretary-treasurer of the club, filling a vacancy from last year. Plans were made for the coming annual Halloween party to be held on Wednesday evening, Oct. 29. Co-chairmen for this affair will be Mrs. Robert Arthur and Mrs. James Roberts. Room mothers were appointed and it was decided that the club's project for the year will be the procuring of additional playground equipment.

The group agreed to have all evening meetings this year on the second Wednesday of each month. As the Halloween party will take the place of the October meeting, the next regular meeting will be in November.

At the close of the business meeting refreshments were served, and the parents visited the classrooms and were shown examples of the children's work by the Sisters.

Surprise Party Fetes Carol Lynn Johnson

AYDEN—Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Johnson were hosts at a surprise party complimenting their daughter, Miss Carol Lynn, on her birthday Friday evening at their home on Snow Hill Street.

After the guests had greeted the honoree with a "Happy Birthday" choral greeting, they were served iced drinks and salted nuts. Canasta and dancing were enjoyed later in the evening.

The guests included Misses Geraldine Jolly, Kaye Braxton, Cloyse Braswell, Connie Lou Dunn, Lou Ella Tripp, Susan Taylor, Brenda Davis, Carol Faye Harper, Carolyn Sumrell, Bobby Johnson, Sonny Smith, Bobby Smith, Sydney Britt, Joe Dunn, Donny Tripp and Leslie Stocks.

Miss Sybil Jones, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaid was Miss Jean Joyner, sister of the groom. They were dressed alike in dotted acetate taffeta gowns and carried bouquets of pink asters and yellow pom poms with pink streamers.

Mr. Verlon Joyner served his brother as best man. Ushers were Alfonso Jones, brother of the bride, and Earl Lewis, brother-in-law of the groom.

Mrs. Jones wore for her daughter's wedding a street length dress of green crepe with black accessories and a corsage of white carnations. For her brother's wedding Mrs. Earl Lewis was dressed in black crepe with black accessories and she wore a corsage of white carnations. After the ceremony the couple left for a wedding trip to unannounced points. For traveling the bride wore a dress of blue wool jersey with navy accessories and the corsage from her prayer book. They will make their home in Greenville when they return.

Mrs. Joyner was graduated from Chicod High School with the class of 1952. Mr. Joyner attended the Winterville High School and at the present time is engaged in farming. Joyner-Jones Rites Held Timothy Christian Church

Miss Opal Jones became the bride of Marvin R. Joyner in a ceremony which took place on Saturday, September 20, at four o'clock in the afternoon.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Jones of Vanceboro, Route 1, and the groom is the son of W. W. Joyner and the late Annie Joyner of Greenville.

The double ring ceremony was held at Timothy Christian Church, with the Rev. Horace Quigley, pastor, officiating.

The church was decorated with banks of Oregon fern, large floor baskets of white gladioli and lighted cathedral candles.

Prior to the entrance of the wedding party, Mrs. Alton Gardner presented a program of wedding music. Perry Moore, soloist, sang "Because" and "I Love You Truly." He used the "Lord's Prayer" as a benediction. The bride entered the church on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage. Her dress was of nylon net over white satin, designed with a round neckline which was bound in satin with nylon tulle. It had a tight fitting bodice with rows of tiny satin covered buttons. She carried a white Bible topped with a large white chrysanthemum tied with satin streamers.

Miss Sybil Jones, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaid was Miss Jean Joyner, sister of the groom. They were dressed alike in dotted acetate taffeta gowns and carried bouquets of pink asters and yellow pom poms with pink streamers.

Mr. Verlon Joyner served his brother as best man. Ushers were Alfonso Jones, brother of the bride, and Earl Lewis, brother-in-law of the groom.

Mrs. Jones wore for her daughter's wedding a street length dress of green crepe with black accessories and a corsage of white carnations. For her brother's wedding Mrs. Earl Lewis was dressed in black crepe with black accessories and she wore a corsage of white carnations. After the ceremony the couple left for a wedding trip to unannounced points. For traveling the bride wore a dress of blue wool jersey with navy accessories and the corsage from her prayer book. They will make their home in Greenville when they return.

Fountain Wedding Unites Couple

Joyce Sutton Weds John Williams In Sunday Ceremony

FOUNTAIN—On Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Fountain Presbyterian church in a candlelight ceremony amid a setting of cathedral candles and floor baskets of traditional bridal flowers, Miss Triuba Joyce Sutton became the bride of Johnnie Calvin Williams. The Rev. Philip M. Cory officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Sutton of Fountain. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. V. E. Williams Sr. of Dunn.

A program of wedding music was presented by Wiley Yelverton of Fountain, organist, and Robert Knox of Tarboro, soloist. Prior to the ceremony, Mr. Yelverton gave a half-hour of organ music. Mr. Knox sang "Because" by Guy D'Hardelot before the ceremony and "Wedding Prayer" by Fern Glasgow Dunlop as the benediction; "To a Wild Rose" by McDowell was rendered during the ceremony. Traditional wedding marches were used for the processional and recessional.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a strapless ballerina-length gown of Chantilly lace and nylon net over bridal satin. The lace formed the bodice of the dress and extended onto the skirt in scalloped panels. The bodice of the dress was covered by a Chantilly lace Spencer jacket, fashioned with a high neck and Peter Pan collar and long sleeves ending in points over the hands. Her finger-tip veil of illusion was two-tiered and attached to a matching lace and seed pearl Priscilla cap. She wore white satin shoes and her only ornament was seed pearl earrings matching the seed pearls of her bridal cap. The earrings were a gift of the groom. The bride carried a bouquet of stephanotis and white bridal roses centered with a white orchid outlined with white nylon net and tied with net and satin streamers.

Mrs. B. H. Brow of Weldon was her sister's matron of honor. She wore a strapless ballerina-length gown of shrimp satin with fitted bodice and bouffant skirt of shrimp tulle, and matching stole, with matching shoes and mitts and headband of shrimp tulle interspersed with velvet Autumn leaves. Her cascade bouquet was of weathered yellow carnations tied with yellow ribbon and tulle.

The bridesmaids were Mrs. R. H. Williams, New Haven, Conn., sister of the bride; Mrs. B. T. Griffith, Wilmington; Miss Polly Whitehurst, Conetoe; Miss Anne Harris of Fountain. Their emerald green gowns, shoes, mitts and headbands were fashioned like that of the matron of honor and their cascade bouquets were of weathered yellow carnations with matching ribbon and tulle.

V. E. Williams Jr. of Johnston, S. C. attended his brother as best man. Ushers were R. H. Williams of New Haven, Conn., Dr. B. H. Brow of Weldon, Vaughn Hutaff of Dunn, Charles D. Hutaff of Dunn.

The bride's mother was dressed in a crepe dress of purple fashioned with lace yoke outlined in iridescent beads. She wore a matching hat of purple feathers touched with rhinestones, black suede accessories and an orchid corsage. The mother of the bridegroom wore a dress of prairie blue taffeta and black accessories. Her shoulder corsage was of orchids.

The bride is a graduate of Farmville High School, class of 1952.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Dunn High School and attended Western Pennsylvania Horological Institute, Pittsburgh, Pa. He is now engaged in the retail jewelry business in Farmville.

For traveling the bride wore a suit of brown peppered faille with matching brown hat and brown suede accessories. Her shoulder corsage was the orchid from her bridal bouquet.

Following a wedding trip to unannounced points of interest in Western North Carolina, Mr. and Mrs. Williams will be at home at 38 West Church street, Farmville. Out-of-town guests attending the wedding were from Dunn, Greenville, Tarboro, Conetoe and Robersonville.

Dinner Party
Mr. and Mrs. V. E. Williams Sr., Mr. and Mrs. V. E. Williams Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. B. T. Griffith were hosts at a dinner party Saturday, September 20, in the home of Mrs. Fred C. Moore in Farmville, honoring the Williams-Sutton bridal party.

The home was beautifully decorated with autumn flowers using the green and white color motif.

Guests were served tomato juice cocktails in the hall from a table covered with an imported Madeira luncheon cloth. The dinner table was centered with a floral arrangement featuring the engagement ring and wedding band, flanked by silver candelabra holding white tapers. The bridal table held a floral centerpiece of white bridal lilies and plumose flanked by silver candelabra holding white tapers.

A four-course turkey dinner was served buffet style and guests were seated at card tables.

Rehearsal Party
After the rehearsal Saturday evening Mrs. J. M. Horton and Mrs. W. R. Harris were hostesses to the Williams-Sutton wedding party at a cake cutting in the home of Mrs. Harris.

The bridal party and out-of-town guests attended.

Pink asters and carnations were used to decorate the living room, hall and dining room, autumn flowers were used in the den and on the porch. A color scheme of pink and white was carried out in the dining room where the table was centered with a three-tiered cake which was topped with bride and groom figurines. The cake was flanked on each side with five silver candelabra, containing pink tapers forming a line to the corners of the table where bridal nosegays of pink asters and baby's breath showered with pink ribbon were placed. The figurine of the bride was dressed in pink satin.

After the wedding party had pulled the strings and received the wedding tokens, the first slice of cake was cut by the bride and groom. Then Mrs. Jimmy Sutton, mother of the bride, served cake. Guests served themselves to wedding lices, mints and nuts. Mrs. V. E. Williams Sr., mother of the groom, served punch, from a beautifully decorated table on the porch.

Luncheon
Mrs. B. H. Whitehurst of Conetoe and Mrs. B. E. Brow of Weldon honored Miss Joyce Sutton, bride-elect, at a luncheon Saturday, September 20, in the home of Mrs. Fred C. Moore in Farmville.

The guests were greeted at the door by the hostesses and shown into the central hall where shrimp cocktails were served from a table covered with a lovely imported Madeira luncheon cloth. The luncheon table in the dining room was covered with a beautiful outwork cloth and centered with an arrangement of asters in mixed colors, flanked by silver candelabra holding white tapers. The feature of the floral arrangement was a large replica of the traditional engagement ring and wedding band.

The luncheon was served buffet style and guests found seats at card tables marked with place cards using the bridal motif.

The hostesses presented the honoree with a shoulder corsage of white carnations and a gift of crystal in her chosen pattern.

Birthday Dance Given For Younger Set

FARMVILLE—In honor of their 16th birthdays, both of which are observed on the same day, Miss Martha Holmes and Jack Lewis entertained members of the younger set at a dance.

The affair was held at the D.A.R. Chapter House on last Saturday evening. More than 100 guests were invited.

The chapter house was festive for the occasion. A pink and green color note was carried on the first floor where guests danced. One mantle had decorations of polished magnolia leaves and pink tapers and the other was ornamented with an arrangement of pink roses and candles. Greenery and candles were artistically used to decorate the balcony, and a glittering Happy Birthday greeting was festooned about it.

Colors of yellow and green were carried out in the upstairs banquet hall where refreshments were served at intermission. The large, highly polished table was made beautiful by the use of yellow tapers in silver candelabras with epergnettes filled with yellow pompon chrysanthemums. Yellow satin streamers attached to the candelabra traced the center of the table. All serving dishes were of silver as was the punch service.

The four-tiered birthday pound cake was iced in yellow and green. Mrs. M. C. Todd, grandmother of Miss Holmes, assisted by Mrs. R. L. Mattox, served slices of the cake. Mrs. Dunbar Lamar, grandmother of Mr. Lewis, served the punch. Eva Mae Lewis, Betsy King, Henri Perle Johnson and Todd Holmes assisted in serving party sandwiches, ham biscuits, chicken salad in timbals, potato chips, nut balls, and cookies. Lighted yellow tapers were used on the auxiliary tables where the guests were seated.

Women of Church At Ballards Meets
Mrs. Dalton Williams was hostess to the Women of the Church at the September meeting, which was held at Ballard's Presbyterian Church. The meeting was opened with a prayer by Mrs. Preston Lloyd, which was followed by the Bible study, taken from the New Testament, using the theme "Are You Achieving Victory in Christ?"

Mrs. Annie Flanagan was program chairman and presented Mrs. G. T. Tyson, who gave an interesting talk on Christian Education, the information of which was based on an article in the Survey.

At the business session presided over by Mrs. Preston Lloyd, plans were discussed for raising money to build a manse at Ballards.

Mrs. Lloyd also read an invitation from the Wilson and Farmville churches inviting the women to hear Miss Lucy Steele of Peace College, who will conduct a Bible Study on the subject, "The Holy Spirit and Today," at the Farmville Presbyterian Church on Monday, September 29.

An announcement was also made about the group meeting which will be held in the Farmville church on October 2.

During the social hour the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Lloyd, served sandwiches, nuts, potato chips, cookies and iced punch.

watch industry by-pass Greenville to settle in other towns.

For years one of the most-asked questions in Greenville has been why can't we attract industry like other cities do? The answer is now placed squarely in the hands of the local citizens. Greenville, by virtue of its location and potential does attract industry. But the natural attraction must be supplemented by the desire of local citizens expressed in terms of action to make Greenville an attractive place for industry to locate.

Artloom Carpet Company officials have told local Chamber of Commerce officials they would like to locate a new fabricating plant in Greenville. To do so, a building must be provided which the company could lease. The fact that buildings are available elsewhere apparently has not lessened the company's desire to establish a new plant here.

Therefore, if Greenville citizens are willing to invest their money in a suitable building for the new plant, there is little doubt the industry will locate here.

To build such a building as the industry requires would take a considerable amount of money, but it would be a sound investment not only from the standpoint of the individual, but from the standpoint of the city as a whole. The proposed new industry would have an annual payroll near the $350,000 mark, and its local purchases would amount to another $100,000. Add those obvious advantages to the fact that industry follows industry to new proven locations, and the long range advantages begin to come into focus.

Greenville has talked industrial development, and outwardly has wanted industrial development. At hand now is the city's opportunity to show whether it truly is interested in its own industrial development. If funds can be raised to construct the necessary industrial building, Greenville can consider itself well on the way up the ladder of industrial development.

If on the other hand, every citizen takes the attitude someone else shoulder the burden, Greenville may as well take another sleeping pill and give up the idea of ever really having a notable industrial development until the attitude here changes.

The cards are on the table; the cards of Artloom are face-up. If Greenville is to stay in the game, it must pick up its hand and play it.

National Whirligig

Every Saturday this veteran Washington newspaper correspondent answers readers questions of general interest on national and international policies and personalities. Questions may be sent direct to Ray Tucker at 6306 Hillcrest Place, Chevy Chase, Md.

WASHINGTON—“I recently read a newspaper article about the use of American funds abroad which I can hardly believe,” writes E. E. J. of Tulsa, Okla. “I do not remember any publicity about the question when it was before Congress for discussion.”

“It said that the United States had signed an agreement with Israel under which this nation guarantees private American investors in industrial and agricultural developments there that they would be repaid their dollars. The agreement, as I understand it, provides insurance against any loss by expropriation, as well as convertibility of profits and principal into dollars.”

“Did Congress ever approve this kind of guarantee?”

RISKY—Answer: Yes. It is a provision of the Mutual Security Act for the economic and military development of nations allied with us in the “cold war” with Russia. Similar guarantees have been given in several other countries in Europe.

It is admittedly a risky business, especially as some of the projects we have underwritten, in Denmark and the Low Countries, lie in the path of possible Russian invasion. In that event, the factories and farms which the United States indirectly finances would fall to the enemy.

However, this consideration applies to all the billions we have spent under the Marshall Plan, as Congress recognized at the time. But the legislators concluded that it was a wise step because it is expected (1) to make friends abroad, and (2) to increase our allies' power of resistance to the Reds.

DISASTROUS—“Is it not reasonable to assume,” asks F. S. S. of Ardley, N. Y., “that President Truman did not use the Taft-Hartley Act in the steel strike because, under the law, the men could have voted acceptance or rejection of the companies' best offer?”

“Since the closed shop was the only issue holding up settlement, is it not possible that the men would have repudiated Truman and Philip Murray if given a chance to pass on this question? That, of course, would have been disastrous from a political standpoint.”

OBVIOUS—Answer: I do not presume to analyze the workings of the presidential mind. However, it is obvious that Truman did not want to employ what he calls a “slave labor law” on the eve of the campaign, although he has used it before. It might have helped to end the dispute.

Moreover, the 80-day waiting period provided in the statute would have kept the steel strike, with its threat to national defense production, as a live issue in the midst of the campaign. Truman naturally did not want that as a timely Republican argument against his labor record.

As it turned out, he and Murray arranged it so that a settlement could be announced during the Democratic national convention.

I do know that Senator Taft regards the best offer vote as one of the finest features of the act, and he will undoubtedly insist on its retention in any revision.

In his opinion, it makes for industrial democracy in that the workmen themselves, not a few professional leaders at Washington, decide whether to work or not. On the other hand, it is the provision which Messrs. Green, Murray and Lewis, naturally, most detest.

NATIONAL DEBT—“I read that the national debt is now $266 billion,” writes R. P. of Fairfax, S. D. “I would like to know in whom all this money is owed.”

Answer: Although the size of the public debt fluctuates daily, depending on income and outgo, it is now estimated at about $269 billion. The liberal spenders minimize this great amount on the ground, as they say, that “we owe it to ourselves.” However, the facts on the composition of this mortgage seem to refute their contention.

Commercial and Federal Reserve banks hold $83.4 billion of Uncle Sam's securities. Non-bank investors own $132.9 billion. The government itself owns $43.7 billion as trustee for various accounts, such as Social Security indebtedness, postal savings, railroad retirement, etc.

Enthusiastic Seconds

Somebody Told Me

By L. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

There are certain things that Greenville should have, and one is a city bus line. That's why many Greenville people were encouraged to see the line start operation again in August after it had folded twice.

Today I accidentally bumped into the manager of the line, L. R. Pettit, and confronted him with the question, “How's your bus line getting along?” During the split second I was waiting for an answer I held my breath.

“Just fine,” he said. “Business is picking up all along.” To me, it is quite a relief to know that things are clicking for the first time. After talking to Mr. Pettit you will realize that he is the type of hustler it takes to put it over. He's been in the bus business for 12 years.

Mainly, he believes in children. Already he is working every corner of town from 8:30 to 9:30 in the morning, just taking children to school at a nickel a throw. Yesterday he proved to me on paper that a bus line can operate in the black by riding children for a nickel.

“Children,” Mr. Pettit said, “are the best advertisers in the world. On the buses the drivers take care of the children just as if they were their own, and that kind of treatment means a lot. A child thinks a bus is the greatest thing in the world, and spreads the word to the parents. The first thing you know, the parents are riding too.”

Children going to school are picked up and taken right to their door, instead of having to come to a bus stop. Mr. Pettit says, “I'm making a good thing out of this by offering services that no one else has offered.”

On October 6 Mr. Pettit plans to start a new route through College View, extending to the intersection of 8th and 10th streets, going down Eastern Street, into Third and over to Colancho. From Colancho the same bus will go to the hospital, making it a 30-minute run.

Mr. Pettit points out that a progressive bus line helps business in a town. When service is available for uptown trips, people take more of them and consequently buy more. People who stay at home a lot tend to shop out of a mall order catalogue.

With prices up so high, anybody who can charge 10 cents for adult fares and five cents for children, and still operate in the black, must be giving good enough service to demand a volume of business. My hat is off to the new bus line!

And I thank you.

Around Capitol Square

EASY—Of all the departmental and agency representatives who have appeared before the Advisory Budget Commission this week Charlie Williams probably had the most advantageous position and the easiest time. Other members of their boards or commissions on hand to back-stand their presentations, Williams, as director of the division of purchase and contract, appeared all alone. He explained his lonely status very effectively when he said, “I could not bring my board along, because it is sitting on the other side of the table.” Under the State Budget Act the Advisory Budget Commission is also the Board of Awards for purchases.

OPPOSITION—Maybe Republican Paul West ought to do a little more vigorous campaigning for Congress in the fourth district. A public forum writer in some of the daily newspapers was bemoaning the fact the other day that Congressman Harold D. Cooley was getting by without opposition. As a matter of fact, Cooley had opposition in the Democratic primary and has it again in the general election. His majority in November is expected to be as large as his primary majority in May, better than three to one.

INFLATION—The influence of inflation upon government costs, particularly in the area of social services, is reflected in appropriation requests filed with the Advisory Budget Commission by the State Department of Public Welfare. For the first year of the current biennium, July 1, 1951, to June 30, 1952, the department spent a total of $4,730,365 of State money. For the second year of the next biennium, July 1, 1952, to June 30, 1953, the department asks for $7,312,526. That is an increase of about 54.5 per cent in three years. The full requested amount is certain to be authorized. It must also be kept in mind that the use of the word “spending” in this connection is inaccurate. Most of the money is distributed to needy and unfortunate residents.

DISTRIBUTION—Not more than 10 per cent of the State funds handled by the Welfare Department is “spent” directly or indirectly. Approximately 90 per cent is distributed to children and old people in need, to permanently and totally disabled persons and for hospitalization of medically indigent. In all of these classes the Federal Government makes contributions of substantially more than the State allocates, and the several counties and municipalities chip in handsomely to help care for their own helpless people. Obviously a large part of these distributed funds go into the channels of trade resulting in better business for local merchants and consequently revenue to the State.

SPIRAL—It is also obvious that the inflation spiral affects distributees of welfare aid more seriously than it does active workers. Wages and salaries are geared to greater or less degree to often less with rising living costs. As prices go up slowly, but unless the Congress and the General Assembly and the various Boards of County Commissioners do something about it, the checks to helpless infants and aged and disabled do not go up. There have been charges of chiseling on welfare funds, many of them substantiated by admissible evidence. Those responsible for administering the welfare program argue with apparent logic that the honest needy should not be penalized for the derelictions of a few crooks. Honesty compels the further statement that it seems the administrators are not as zealous as they should be in weeding out the chiselers. Main fact to be remembered is that the addition of dollars asked for distribution does not mean that the recipients are getting more and better living. In most instances the increased payments do not keep up with rising costs of essential requirements. If the moochers and chiselers were all taken off the rolls there would be little objection to decent payments to the really needy, and such payments could be made within appropriations the State can easily afford.

MIXED DATES—Politicians and weathermen can't get together on their dates. Back in the summer when the Advisory Budget Commission was making its rounds of State institutions the eastern trip was scheduled for mid-July. It was very hot and awful dry all through the East, but reports were that it was pleasant in the mountains. Then in early August, when temperatures were pleasant in the East, the budgeteers were in the West. It was also pleasant there, but the budget group lost a good chance to be comfortable all the time. Now the Congressional District Democratic rallies are starting in the West, before the gorgeous color makes that area the most beautiful part of the world. In mid-October and later, when the mountain color is at peak, the Democratic caravan will be in the East. The guy who said politics is color blind must have had experience with North Carolina planners.

Strength for the Day

ON KEEPING THE SABBATH
“Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy.” No Biblical doctrine has been more outrageously misinterpreted than this commandment. The Sabbath was intended by God to be a day of worship, rest, joy and good works. Men's unimaginative and repressive directives have often turned it into a day of boredom and repression. To say this does not mean that Sunday should be a day on which we do anything our fancy dictates. It is a holy day, to be kept different from the other days of the week. Some activities entirely proper on other days of the week are utterly unbecoming on this day dedicated to God.

Jesus gave us three simple rules as to how the Sabbath should be kept. Remember, he said, that the Sabbath is made for man, not man for the Sabbath. Remember also that the Son of man is Lord also of the Sabbath (which means that anything we do on the Sabbath which would glorify Christ is permissible). Last of all, he bids us remember that it is right to do good on the Sabbath.

Bear in mind that the day is holy—set apart from other days—and hearken to the three rules which Jesus laid down. If you do this you will not in any particular desecrate the Sabbath.

The Implications Could Prompt Serious Trends

The decision in the Bethel school controversy over whether a school board has the authority to require children to consume their lunches in the school cafeteria has far reaching implications which might, through use or misuse, cause grave problems in the public school systems.

Judge W. C. Harris in revoking the temporary restraining order against Bethel school officials held that, in his opinion, “school authorities have absolute charge of a child throughout the entire school day.” To say the least, such a ruling could lead to serious arbitrary rulings by school officials in years to come.

The school officials must have control and discipline over students, to be sure; but to say school authorities have “absolute charge” of a child throughout the entire school day leaves the way open to possible regimentation of school children to a degree which no reasonable parent would tolerate.

It certainly seems reasonable that a child could be allowed to eat lunch at home, or anywhere else his parents choose, so long as he keeps his time from the classroom within the time allotted to the lunch period.

To look further, it seems the court ruling which upholds the local school board's decision to require children to eat in the school cafeteria—whether they buy or bring their lunch—is unconsciously encouraging the reliance upon the subsidies of the federal government. If children are prevented from leaving the school grounds during the lunch period, more and more of them will purchase lunches in the school lunchroom. There, each grade A lunch (cost 25 cents) is subsidized four cents by the federal government.

In addition to the direct four cents per meal grant from the federal government, each school cafeteria is subsidized in the form of surplus commodities which are given to the cafeteria by the federal government. A few pennies for one meal a day for each child may seem a small grant from Uncle Sam, but if it were multiplied by the millions of school children all over the nation, it would be no small change.

That school officials must have some control over the day of the school child can not be debated. But to say the school authorities have “absolute charge of the child throughout the entire school day” poses numerous problematical situations.

To Play The Game Now, Or Go Back To Sleep?

Greenville, outwardly hungry for industrial development has had one of those once-in-a-lifetime propositions plopped in its lap.

If the talk of industrial development in the city is not now transformed into decisive positive action, local citizens may as well lean back in their rocking chairs and which demand serious consideration from an overall, long range viewpoint.

Business Today

More small than large firms are taking advantage of the tax, rent and labor benefits of Puerto Rico, a survey by the Island's Economic Development Administration shows.

Of 122 plants surveyed, 66.4 per cent have fewer than 61 workers and of these, 39.4 per cent employ fewer than 30. Twenty-seven per cent employ 91 to 210 workers and 6.5 per cent employ more. These include plants of Textron, Sylvania Electric and St. Regis Paper and Bag companies.

Typical of the smaller enterprises is the Radell Corp. John P. Main, general manager, arrived there early in January and within the month the company was shipping resistors to the mainland. It now produces 30,000 a week with 27 to 36 employees. The company's customers did not like the idea of the move at first, but good production schedules and deliveries overcame objections. Mr. Main points out that Puerto Rican production is most profitable for articles with a low ratio of weight to price.

In all, 183 new factories have been established since the island first offered inducements five years ago. In addition, 22 are under construction. These are the inducements Puerto Rico holds out:

No federal income taxes on individuals residing there for the whole calendar year, and none on Puerto Rican corporations or partnerships. No U.S. income tax on mainland corporations deriving at least 80 per cent of income from sources in Puerto Rico and 50 per cent or more from active conduct of trade or business.

On types of business needed for the island economy, no Puerto Rican taxes until June 30, 1959, and longer exemptions on some hotel operations.

Free rent for a year, or an equivalent cut on the purchase price of a plant, for preferred new businesses.

Reimbursement for half the ocean freight charges on manufacturing equipment brought in by preferred companies.

Loans up to half the cost of new machinery.

Assistance in training employees, including cash subsidies for Puerto Ricans trained in mainland plants for supervisory jobs.

In addition, there is a large pool of workers available at scales often lower than on the mainland.

The Puerto Rico Economic Department Administration says it wants new factories, not ones moved in at a cost of employment in the States. The Administration has offices at 600 Fifth Ave., New York.

THE HIGHER THE FEWER —IN COAL, TOO
The immediate effect of higher pay for coal miners will be a rise in coal prices, and, possibly, still a long rise in steel prices. But the long-range implications are even greater.

Coal may lose another battle in the competitive war among the fuels. It has already lost quite a few. Railroads have largely shifted to diesel and electric power. Natural gas has replaced gas made from coal in thousands of mains. Countless factories have changed to water-made electric power.

Any rise in the price of coal makes new pipelines, new oil wells and new electric power plants cheaper.

OLD PROMOTER FINDS
—TOPS IN GUARANTEES
“This guarantee business is going pretty far,” the Old Promoter said. “An Eastern store is advertising in newspapers that fishermen are guaranteed fish with tackle purchased at the store.”

“Simpler than that, son,” the O.P. replied. “With each $5 purchase, the store gives a certificate good for one pound of fish at a next-door market. It is now possible to go out after trout and come home with kippered salmon. I imagine that will be tops in guarantees until some perfume company promises an introduction to Adlai Stevenson if a bottle of its product doesn't result in an engagement.”

OWNING OWN OUTLET
—MAY BAR ‘FAIR TRADE’
If the Federal Trade Commission complaint is upheld, manufacturers who also own retail outlets are denied the benefits of federal laws permitting them to set retail prices in 45 states.

The FTC held that Eastman Kodak Co. could not fix the retail price of its products as long as it owned some retail stores, because this would amount to a price-fixing agreement among retailers, which is forbidden by anti-trust laws. This contention, Eastman vigorously contests. The FTC position and hearings will be held on the issue.

WASHINGTON (AP)—It's a bright day at Jamaica Coliseum Track, and the assistant attorney general and his wife are there from Washington, not knowing the trouble it means.

They go to the track, says T. Lamar Caudle, because a handicapper named Col. Hollow asked them and he is a “very able handicapper.”

We're sitting there taking in the story like it happened yesterday instead of three years ago, before President Truman let Caudle go for picking up outside activities.

And a House Judiciary subcommittee is taking it all in too, like they expect to learn something about race tracks and particularly about Jamaica, which is very hard indeed to crack with a nice safe bet.

“If I was a federal official,” says Caudle, rubbing his ear, “I would never go to another race track. Some writer said it was unjudicial for me to go to a race track. He stops and chuckles.

“We wait.”

“He says: The colonel said they had a sorry bunch of horses running that day, but one horse in the seventh race was all right. And he gave us the daily double and thought it would win.

“He said they were sorry, trifling horses. We bet on the thing and the daily double came in and it paid about $23 for a $2 bet.

“Then we sat there and did not bet any more and then about that time the seventh race came up.”

Caudle is thinking of that day like it was brighter than some he's known and a smile sits on his face with satisfaction.

“The colonel said: ‘Now, Lamar, here is the best horse in the race.’

“The horse was named Uncle Edgar.”

Caudle chuckles and says, “I wondered who that horse was named after. It may have been named after the FBI director,” J. Edgar Hoover. Get it?”

Well, anyway, the colonel knows his business and tells Caudle to bet $30 on this horse but no more.

“Mrs. Caudle was waiting to get the name from me and Mrs. Caudle had the money that we carried with us, and on this daily double we won so much, so I slipped out and bet $90 on the horse, the most I ever bet on a horse.

lengths. “It was the finest horse race I ever saw. Mr. Chairman, Caudle said to Rep. Candi, who is a Kentucky Democrat, and hears now and then about horse races.

Well, this Uncle pays $9.20 for every $2 bet which is a lot of green, and Caudle says he slips most of it into a down payment on a mink coat that his wife is signing for.

But then the journals start talking about this coat and pretty soon you hear “mink, mink, mink, everywhere,” Caudle says. “They even called me the mink man.”

And he sighs and you can see he is hurt by what Uncle Edgar does to him.

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS
WASHINGTON—While the big push is on to get all eligible voters to the polls November 4, numerous organizations in addition are urging citizens to know for whom they are casting their ballots and why. To this end, such organizations as the League of Women Voters, the Americans for Democratic Action and labor organizations are trying to get the voting records of all congressmen in the public eye so that voters can see for themselves how their representatives in Congress have voted on issues affecting their interests.

Just off the press is the League of Women Voters' “On the Record,” described as a “look at key roll call votes selected in four general areas: UN and Defense Pacts, Foreign Aid, International Trade, Domestic Economic Stability.” Any American can look up the roll call votes of their representatives in the Congressional Record, but such research is difficult for the average citizen, the League points out.

“On the Record,” available to local leagues throughout the country and on sale for 20 cents at the League's national headquarters, 1026 17th St. N.W., Washington 6, D.C., offers no comment on what constitutes a “good” or “bad” vote. It is simply the raw material from which the voters can draw their own conclusions.

“Getting out the vote literally becomes everybody's business this year,” says Mrs. John G. Lee, national president of the League of Women Voters. “The league itself is emphasizing not only the quantity but the quality of the vote on Nov. 4. Anticipating a large turnout as a result of the nation-wide get-out-the-vote effort, it is concerned that citizens should have accurate information on which to base their judgments about candidates.”

She says “On the Record” shows how senators and congressmen voted on key roll calls over the past six years in the case of the Senate and the past two years in the case of the House. “We believe that the attitude of the next Congress on these specific issues will be of the utmost importance and that ‘On the Record’ will be a great help to the individual voter who wishes to relate the candidate's past performance to his present pledges,” Mrs. Lee explained.

HOLDING THE LINE IS COSTLY
(Henderson Dispatch)
Korea is nearly half way around the world from the eastern half of the United States. All the same, a war is going on over there in the Far East, and American boys are dying and others are being wounded and maimed, some of them for life, in resisting the Communist enemy. They are holding the line, for whatever purpose may be at stake, but it is costly business from any angle.

Americans generally give scarcely more than a trifling thought to the desperate struggle which is in progress. They are paying taxes, but they would be paying taxes anyhow, so what? Casualties are passed over barely noticed unless a member of the family or some other near relative happens to stop a bullet. That is the attitude of the average citizen.

True enough, the individual ponders what he can do about it. The war is far removed from him, and, after all, as the reasoning goes, the fellows in Washington are carrying the responsibility, so let George do it. So long as major conflict can be averted, the struggle does not strike close home.

Communists may be pinned down on the Korean peninsula, even as United Nations—mostly American—forces are hamstring-there also. That may be holding them off in other parts of the globe. At least it can be hoped that is true. But let no one ever forget that the men who are paying the fearful price are as conscious of war as if every nation on earth were at each other's throats in a direct and immediate death grapple.

Strategy is shaped in Washington. Up there they may know all, or most, of the answers. Or at least wish they did. At the same time, American blood and treasure are being expended in the name of liberty in far away Korea, while the teeming millions of civilization yearn for a cessation of strife and the coming of an era of peace.

RESOLUTIONS ON THE DECEASE OF ROBERT L. HUMBER SR.

Whereas, on July 21, 1953, Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church lost one of its oldest and most faithful members in the death of Robert Lee Humber, Senior.

Whereas, his extraordinarily good life was one of unflinching faith and insatiable devotion to his Lord manifested by a life-time of service and devotion to his church, and by practicing the essential Christian virtues in the work-a-day world.

Whereas, he was a member of the Board of Trustees at the time of his death, had been a Steward for years, a worker in the Sunday School, a leader in the choir, a pinch hitter at the piano for prayer meeting and usher for more than forty known years—morning and night church services and Sunday School. He never missed Sunday School, night or morning church service or prayer meeting.

Whereas, so many generations of East Carolina College students got to know the pleasant usher at the middle door who had such a cheery smile, merry greeting inevitably, and always the ready handshake—who ought to know of his demise.

Whereas, we the members of the Board of Stewards being so aware of the great loss the church has sustained wish to take due regard of the same by showing our respect and admiration.

Therefore be it resolved, that this tribute be spread in the minutes of the Board of Stewards and the Quarterly Conference; a copy sent to the family; and printed in the North Carolina Christian Advocate and the Daily Reflector.

YDC Of College Is Planning Rally

Members of the Young Democrats Club at East Carolina College began this week their activities for the 1952-1953 term by planning a membership drive for September 28-October 4 and by beginning arrangements for a rally to be held later in the school year.

John Clark, of Greenville, chairman of the Executive Committee of Pitt County Democrats, spoke this week at the first meeting for the term. While on the campus, he conferred with students on their plans and program for the next eight months.

"The Democratic Party," Mr. Clark told members of the campus political club, "needs the ideas, the drive, and the enthusiasm of youth." On the precinct level, he said, the college student has an excellent opportunity to participate in practical politics. Good government, he stated, is the aim of political activity. You can't have it, he said, without taking part in political affairs.

Elected officers who will lead YDC activities on the campus this term are Hal F. Haire of Elizabethtown, president; Clayton Shackelford of High Point, vice president; and Bettie Dougherty of Fayetteville, secretary. Dr. Kathleen Stokes of the social studies department and James L. Fleming of the foreign languages department are faculty advisors.

Committee members appointed by Haire this week include Lewis Clark of Greenville, chairman of the publicity committee; and Betty Brewer of Raleigh, William Ferrell of Kinston, Jack Moore of Rockingham, and Bettie Dougherty of Fayetteville, member of the committee to plan a rally.

Phantoms Crush Kinston 31-6 In Thrill Packed Game

The Sport Reflector

By HERMAN HICKMAN

Wise little Solomon reported to the sports desk last night and volunteered to pick the probable winners of the college games throughout the state and nation, being played today.

When I asked him how many of his choices last week were correct, he stared me straight in the eye as if insulted. I checked his record and found out that he had picked seven out of the nine college games played in the state correctly.

ECC Vs. Lenoir-Rhyne At Hickory

East Carolina has shown that they have a good defensive line but it is still untested to such offensive maneuvers as Steve Trudnak and Co. will display. Passing artists Sandy Siler and Dick Cherry could mean an upset victory for the fired-up Pirates, who looked exceptionally good in trouncing Newport News Apprentice 37-6. Nevertheless a close vote for Bears 13-7.

Elon Vs. Wofford

Elon didn't impress anybody, even Coach Jim Mallory with last week's scoreless tie against Norfolk Navy. Wofford 19-6.

Guilford Vs. Hampden-Sydney

Guilford looked mighty good against Appalachian last week. A tribute to the Guilford offense 20-7.

Appalachian State Vs. WCC

The Apps didn't show too much in the offensive department last week against Guilford but Coach E. C. Duggins has probably taken care of that little matter. For the Mountaineers, and their expert marksmanship 13-0.

Newberry Vs. Catawba At Salisbury

The Indians should bounce back after the lacing handed them by Camp Lejeune last week. A quick one for Catawba 27-7.

UNC Vs. Texas At Chapel Hill

This will be the fourth meeting between these two inter-sectional teams and each of the previous meetings displayed touchdowns apiently for one of the teams. Texas has a keen passing attack generated by capable T. Jones and the Tar Heels have always been weak in pass defense. Carolina has adopted a new system and could have trouble getting started or maybe come through with a surprise for the Longhorns. Texas 21-14 and a hope for the upset of the day.

Wake Forest Vs. William & Mary

Wake Forest showed they had power in playing a strong Baylor team to a standstill last week. The Sonny George to Jack Lewis aerial combination gives the Deacons a decided edge against most of their opponents. Wake Forest 19-6.

Washington And Lee Vs. Davidson

Bill Dole has no doubt built a stronger, Davidson outfit, but still not in the same class with the Generals. Washington and Lee took a drubbing from Duke last week and will be striving to even the count in North Carolina. Generals 27-0.

N. C. State Vs. George Washington

A battle of backfields. Bino Barreira for George Washington and Alex Webster of State are the big guns who are expected to put on quite an offensive show today. We will stick to Webster and Co. to stage the best performance. State 13-6.

Ontario has an estimated 3,000 hockey teams.

Bobby Perry Scores Four Touchdowns

By HERMAN HICKMAN Reflector Sports Editor

Shades of Charlie Justice and Otto Graham!

Fleet-footed Bobby Perry exhibited what is probably the greatest individual football performance ever seen in College Stadium last night as he personally accounted for four touchdowns to lead the Greenville Phantoms to a 31-6 victory over Kinston.

Sharing the limelight with Perry was a little sophomore, Quarterback Pat Sawyer, who thrilled an opening home crowd of approximately 4,000 students and fans with his bombastic accurate passing. Time after time Sawyer calmly hit his receivers with passes when it seemed that he would be trapped for a loss.

Perry did everything a back can do and did it so spectacularly that the fans and students were on their feet yelling most of the time.

Greenville kicked off to Kinston and the Red Devils, paced by the running of Kenneth Brinkley, drove to a first down on the Phantom eight yard line. The Phantom forward wall stiffened at this point and took possession on their own ten yard line. From this point Perry, Guy Smith and Bobby Howell alternated with line thrusts and sweeps to carry to the Kinston 37. Perry then swept around end, broke into the clear and raced all the way to the two yard line. Sawyer fumbled and Kinston took over.

Kinston moved the ball out to the 23 yard line where the Phantoms regained possession on a fumble.

Sawyer passed to Perry for seven yards to the 16, and Perry danced around end on the next play for the first touchdown of the game.

Sawyer and Perry combined their talents to spark another touchdown drive before the half ended.

Starting on the Phantom 32 yard line Sawyer passed to Perry for seven, then Perry added nine for a total of ten on the Kinston 48.

At this point Sawyer took to the air and completed a 20 yard heave to Guy Smith who made a nice catch on the Red Devil 28 yard line. Sawyer passed to Conway in the end zone and the ball slithered out of the big end's hands. On the next play Sawyer again passed to Conway who went high into the air among a group of Devil defenders and gathered the ball in for a touchdown.

The Phantoms continued on their rambling way and struck for another marker immediately after the half.

Perry returned the kickoff from the 15 to the 44, almost breaking clear. Smith gained five through the line and Perry turned left end for 15 yards to the Kinston 36. Sawyer passed to Conway for 11 and a first on the 26. From here Sawyer again filled the air with passes, two passes in a row slipped out of Perry's hands but on the last down Sawyer faded deep and threw a perfect strike to Hal Edwards on the Devil 10. Smith lost a yard and Perry took a pitchout and passed to Conway on the three yard line. On the next play Perry sailed through tackle for the score.

Perry kicked off and Kinston drove to the Greenville 35 yard line through some brilliant running by Brinkley, Harry Quinn and a completed pass by Tony Gerrans.

Dixie Hogbood, who played a terrific defensive game in the Phantom line, pounced on a Kinston fumble and the Phantoms were on the march again.

A penalty gave the Phantoms control at midfield. Bobby Howell, knees churning high, tore through the center of the line for 10 yards to the Devil 40. Perry went through tackle to the 32.

This set the stage for the most exciting play of the game. Sawyer faded deep, held the ball 'til the last minute, then threw a long pass to Perry who took the perfect pass over his shoulder moving away in the end zone.

Another Kinston fumble set up the final Greenville score, an electrifying 35 yard touchdown gallop by Perry that left Red Devil tacklers strewn all over the field. At least half the Kinston team had a chance to tackle Perry as he twisted and squirmed down the sidelines to score standing up. Doug Morgan kicked the extra point.

Kinston was determined not to give up and fought back with a series of broken field runs by Harry Quinn, the longest a 30 yard dash to the two yard line where Leo Prescott bulled over for the score.

Jimmy Cheatham, Dixie Hogbood, Bobby Conway, Tommie Smith, and Billy Arnold were the main line cogs that rose up to stop several Kinston threats.

George Henry, Bobby Potter and Paul Popov stood out for Kinston.

Duke Defeats SMU 14-7 In Last Five Seconds Of Play

DALLAS, Tex. (UP)—The Duke Blue Devils scored the first victory for a North Carolina team in Texas last night as they edged Southern Methodist 14-7 in the closing seconds of play.

Worth Lutz tossed a touchdown pass to end Howard Pitt for the second Duke touchdown as the scoreboard clock showed but five seconds left.

Duke also scored its first touchdown on the Lutz-Pitt combination but otherwise it was a ground battle with the two teams piling up a total of 470 yards on the ground.

The first Duke score came in the last seconds of the first half on a nine-yard loss following a Duke drive.

SMU, normally one of the leaders in the pass-happy Southwestern Conference, trailed until shortly after the fourth quarter opened when Frank Eldom bucked over from the one-foot line after a 74-yard drive overland.

Alice Marble won the United States tennis championship four times.

Yankees Defeat A's In 11th To Capture American Flag

By RUSS GREEN United Press Sports Writer

PHILADELPHIA (UP)—Casey Stengel wasn't sure of a lot of things today.

He wasn't sure who would pitch the World Series opener against Brooklyn or how long he would stick around as manager.

All that he was sure about was that his Yankees had just wrapped up their fourth straight American League pennant—and that sure made him feel wonderful.

Stengel became the third manager in major league history to win four straight pennants when the Yankees clinched their 19th flag last night by beating the Philadelphia Athletics 5-2 in 11 innings.

Stengel joined the select managerial company of John McGraw and Marse Joe McCarthy when the Yankees erupted for three runs on four hits against stocky Harry Byrd in the 11th. Relief pitcher Johnny Sain sealed the outcome when he retired three men in order after yielding a leadoff single to Cass Michaels in the last half of the 11th.

Key blow! The Yankee triumph was Billy Martin's bases-loaded two-run single which broke a 2-all tie. The final run of the inning came across when Michaels booted Sain's grounder.

Homers by Irv Noren and Mickey Mantle gave starter Eddie Lopat a 2-0 lead by the fourth inning but Gus Zernial's homer tied the score in the sixth. Sain took over for Lopat with two out in the ninth and was credited with his 11th and most important victory of the season.

The Yankee conquest, coming with only two more games left on the schedule, put the pennant out of Cleveland's reach.

Immediately after the victory, the jubilant Stengel said he did not know who would open for the Yankees against Brooklyn in the first game of the World Series, Oct. 1, nor how long he would continue to pilot the team.

From his peeved replies, however he indicated that he would manage the Yankees at least through 1953 and probably for a few years after that.

The Cotton Bowl in Dallas can accommodate 75,311 fans and for the past 10 years the big game has been a sell-out.

Ayden Tornadoes Defeat Robersonville Rams 14-0

By RUSS GREEN United Press Sports Writer

FARMVILLE (UP)—Teddy Allen, speedy Farmville halfback, scored three touchdowns in leading the Red Devils to a 26-6 victory over Snow Hill here last night.

Allen, who last week scored three touchdowns against South Edgecombe, repeated with three more of runs of 25 and 20 yards and a five yard pass in the end zone from Fitzgerald.

Farmville went to work on Snow Hill in the first quarter when Sigbe Dilda and Jess Joyner combined with Allen on line slants and sweeps to march all the way from the Red Devil 15 yard line to Snow Hill's 25 where Allen took charge and dashed through tackle, cut to the sidelines and breezed to the goal line.

Farmville came back for a second score on a 25 yard pass from Charlie Fitzgerald to Tommy Norville.

Dilda and Joyner sparked an 80 yard drive that was capped off by Allen on a 15 yard touchdown trek.

Snow Hill scored their lone touchdown when a Fitzgerald pass was intercepted on the Farmville 20. Clemmons, who looked exceptionally good all night, drove over for the score from the two yard line.

Allen took a pass from Fitzgerald to end the scoring for the night.

Defensively Jimmy Allen, Jack Allen, Carroll Wooten, Dilda and Jess Joyner shone.

Sparking the Robersonville attack was Dan Clark, passing, and Sonny James. Bobby Clark, guard, paced the Ram defense.

Worthington passed to Cannon for five to the 34. Next play Worthington faked off, kept the ball and spun to the Rams' 20 before being nailed down. Worthington repeated the same play and picked up 11 more yards to make it first and 10 on the Ram nine yard line. Cannon hit the line for four, then again for one.

On the last down Mac Whitehurst pulled the Robersonville secondary to the right and Worthington calmly passed to Cannon who was standing all alone on the left side of the end zone. Worthington added the extra point from scrimmage.
