Wildcat Coal Strikes Subsiding

Walkout Wave Which Idled 120,000 Men Appears To Be Breaking Up

PITTSBURGH (UP)—A wave of wildcat strikes by United Mine Workers which had idled 120,000 men appeared to be breaking up today.

An industry source said the strikers, who walked out in protest of the wage stabilization board's delay in approving a requested $1.90-a-day wage boost, were returning to their jobs at a rate "better than a trickle."

U.S. Steel Corp. reported four of its mines in Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Kentucky, closed yesterday, had re-opened. At the Lynch mine, near Cumberland, Ky., UMW local officials had broadcast a radio appeal for the miners to return.

More than 500 of the West Pennsylvania strikers were back on the job and an operators' spokesman said he expected the back-to-work movement would increase steadily throughout the day.

Michael Honus, UMW secretary at Uniontown, Pa., encouraged miners in the area to stay on the job and "not lose any time" ending the W.B.'s decision.

An estimated 100,000 miners had walked out in the Appalachian fields of West Virginia, Kentucky, Virginia and Eastern Tennessee. In Ohio, 5,300 were reported still idle today. Alabama had 6,400 idle, Illinois, 3,225 and Utah 650.

The board called another session today to take up the wage increase which John L. Lewis recently negotiated for $75,000 soft coal diggers. But there was little chance it could come up with a decision today.

In fact, the wage group may not vote until next Wednesday on whether the full wage increase is approvable. Should the board delay until then, the walkout is expected to spread over the entire industry. Under the contract, the boost—bringing the miners' average basic pay to $18.25-a-day—was supposed to be effective Oct. 1.

One problem facing the board was a sharp split between labor members who sought quick and full approval of the wage hike, and industry representatives who believed only about 98 cents of the $.90 should be okayed.

Another problem arose when Economic Stabilizer Roger L. Putnam attempted to have the board delay its decision until next Wednesday. He said he wanted President Truman's Mobilization Advisory Committee to study the coal case at its meeting next Monday and Tuesday because "whatever decision the board reached... may easily create problems for or require action by other administrative agencies."

Board Chairman Archibald Cox asked the board's members to unanimously approve this suggestion. However, the labor section body objected and insisted the board go on with the meetings.

Attend Meet On New Phone Rates

Representatives from the Greenville Chamber of Commerce and the City of Greenville will attend a meeting in Wilson today where the recent rate increase proposal of the Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company will be discussed.

R. E. Lee, city attorney, N. O. Van Nortwick and Kenneth Phillips, chairmen of the local chamber's transportation and communication committee, and W. T. Kizer, Greenville Chamber of Commerce manager, left this afternoon to attend the meeting.

The meeting was called by the City of Wilson and its Chamber of Commerce. Oliver Rand, city attorney for Wilson, will outline suggestions for opposing the rate increase which will be the company's sixth since World War II.

The Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company has requested a hearing before the North Carolina Utilities Commission for an increase in its rate but no date for the hearing has been set.

Jaycees Plan To Ready Petitions For Referendum

First Step Toward City Manager Form Of Government Starts Next Week

The long-discussed plan for city manager form of government in Greenville moved one step nearer reality last night when local Jaycees completed plans to begin circulating petitions.

Petitions are slated to begin circulating the first part of next week. According to reports, the state legislature has provided that any city desirous of city manager type of municipal administration may declare a referendum if 25 per cent of the registered voters in the city sign a petition requesting a referendum.

Circulate Petitions J. B. Kittrell Jr., general chairman of the Jaycee city manager committee, said that under the leadership of sub-chairman Gene Skinner, petitions will begin to circulate throughout the city next week.

At the meeting last night, local Jaycees approved sending a committee of "observers" to Wilson late today to sit on a joint discussion of the proposed rate hike planned by Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company.

Jaycee clubs from Goldsboro, Wilson, Tarboro and Greenville are meeting to discuss the proposed rate hike and what action, if any, should be taken by Jaycee clubs in those four cities relative to the increase.

Dr. W. E. Marshall of East Carolina College, chairman of the Pitt County TB Association, appeared today to sponsor a project to raise $2,500 for the local TB fund.

Dr. Marshall said the local association e-pended more than $3,500 toward combating tuberculosis last year. The association needs more money this year to pay for x-rays and in county welfare office, he stated.

President Charles Horns referred the request to the project committee for study and return report at a later meeting. Horns said the club is limited by its constitutional by-laws in the number and kind of projects it may undertake.

The president announced the local club will again this year sponsor the annual Jaycee 4-H Club awards, which will be presented to the outstanding boy and girl member in Pitt County who in the opinion of the committee will be the best club record. They will be awarded sometime in November.

Adlai Cautions Against Change

SAN DIEGO Calif. (UP)—Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson said today that the Republicans would precipitate a "world disaster" if they should win the election and get a chance to "torpedo" U.S. foreign policy.

The Democratic presidential nominee once again repeated his theme that the Republicans were talking through their hats when they suggest that American troops could be quickly withdrawn from Korea.

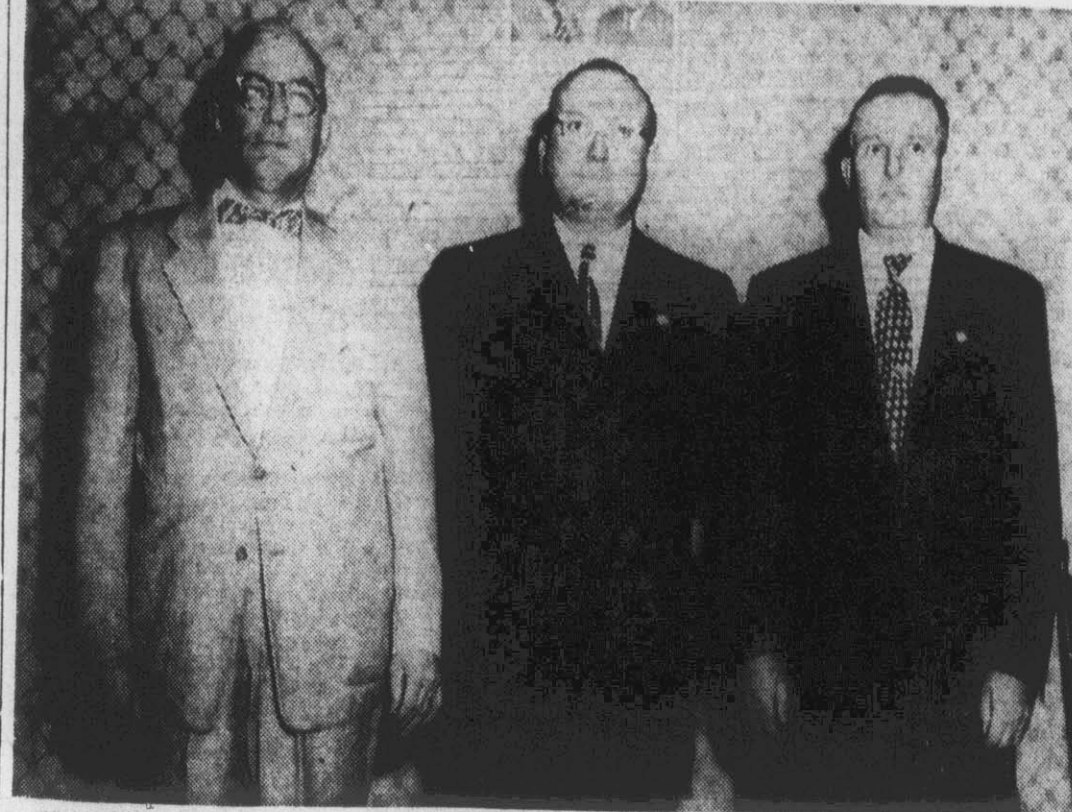

Stevenson said he could think of "no better plan for certain disaster." In a speech prepared for delivery at a Democratic rally here, he said "isolationist mentality" is common in GOP ranks and asserted that "isolationism just won't work."

The San Diego speech was to be Stevenson's last important appearance in California and his final electoral votes. Later today he will travel to Texas by plane and train, to Fort Worth and Dallas.

Following up a "fireside chat" over national radio and television in Los Angeles Thursday night, Stevenson said that, in effect, modern civilization has ended isolationism, although some Republicans don't know it.

"They have argued that we could live alone and like it," he said. "I tell you we can't live alone and we wouldn't like it."

Pitt Precinct Rally Draws Many Enthusiastic Demos

Martin Countian Clarence Griffin Addresses Voters Of Greenville No. 7 and Chicod No. 2

By JESS POINDEXTER Reflector City Editor

The Eastern part of North Carolina is the greatest citadel of democracy in the Tar Heel state. Clarence Griffin of Martin County declared last night at a Democratic Party rally of two Pitt precincts.

"I appreciate the opportunity to talk with rural people," Griffin told Bank Community Building, "and I am proud of the chance to come to a county that has furnished so many outstanding Democratic leaders for so long."

Before a large and enthusiastic gathering of voters from Greenville No. 7 and Chicod No. 2, the speaker assailed the Republican Party for numerous "empty promises," and lauded the state Democratic administration that has given "52 uninterrupted years of good government" to North Carolina.

13 Governors "The reason the people of North Carolina have sent 13 successive Democrat governors to Raleigh is because those men have given the people of the state what they want," Griffin asserted. "For us this year the crisis lies on the national level of government and not on the state ticket."

The speaker recalled the administration of Gov. Charles B. Aycock, "the father of public school education in North Carolina," who said, "every child of school age, irrespective of race, creed or social standing, shall have the benefits of a high school education." During Aycock's regime $100,000 was spent each year for education, North Carolina expended $107,000 for that purpose.

Speaking amidst frequent sessions of applause, Griffin cited as products of a Democratic administration in the state: 1. good health program; 2. highway program; 3. benefits to agriculture; and 4. results locally from a national Democratic administration in Washington.

"Good Health" In regard to the good health program, the speaker explained that with the aid of the national administration—for the overall good of our local people—4,207 new hospital beds have been made available; more than has been provided by any state except Texas.

The highway program was discussed and ex-Gov. Cameron Morrison was identified with that program's beginning in the state when, in 1921, he asked the legislature to approve a referendum that eventually resulted in the passage of a $50,000,000 bond issue for road construction. It was emphasized that now North Carolina has 26,000 miles of highways and 15,000 miles of improved roads.

Griffin then turned his remarks to a discussion of the national administration since 1932, and its effect on the people of North Carolina. "Compare today with 1932," he challenged, "and see how you all stand in that picture?"

Burned Grain "In 1932, the farmers of this state burned grain for fuel, because it was selling cheaper than wood and coal," Griffin declared. "In 1932, the average farm income in North Carolina was $300; in 1951 it was $2,800. In 1932 all farm commodities in the state brought $98,210,000; in 1951 they brought $98,213,000."

The speaker said the Democrat Party has been accused of leading the country into Socialism. He cited the Farm Security Administration as being one of the agencies set up to hold the tenant farmer by his own farm. "The Federal Government has made it possible for a tenant farmer to borrow money at four percent interest to buy a farm, and has given him ample time to pay it back."

"In 1932 one out of every 10 farms in the United States was served with electricity," Griffin stated. "Last year nine of every 10 farms were electrified." He attributed that progress to Democratic-instigated REA program.

Referring to unemployment, Griffin said that in 1932 only 13,000,000 people in the United States were gainfully employed. "Today more than 60,000,000 people are gainfully employed; the highest percentage in history," he emphasized. "The average weekly wage in 1932 was $17 per week today the average weekly pay check throughout the nation is $67 per week."

Some people may come back with the argument about high taxes, the speaker stated, but today—even after taxes—the average wage earner is making 90 percent more than he was in 1932. Business also has prospered, because the number of businesses has increased from 2,900,000 in 1932 to 4,000,000 in 1951.

Griffin hit the Republicans for their attitude toward the minimum wage law and social security. "In 1938 more than 61 percent of Republicans in Congress voted against the minimum wage law," he said. "Also in 1948, 92 percent of Republicans in Congress voted to remove 1,000,000 employees from Social Security."

Business Failures According to the speaker, business failures have been reduced more than 400 percent since 1932. He said that in 1932, 32,000 businesses went bankrupt; while in 1951, only some less than 8,000 went out of existence. In 1932, a net loss of $3,400,000,000 was experienced in business. In 1951, business showed a net profit of $18,000,000,000.

Asks Funds For Adlai Campaign

Democratic Chairman Wants To 'Pierce Curtain Of Press'

WASHINGTON (UP)—Stephen A. Mitchell, Democratic National Chairman, today called for more campaign contributions to "pierce the newspaper curtain of the press" against Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson.

In telegrams to Democratic leaders in every state, Mitchell urged a step-up in the drive for small contributions "to assure Gov. Stevenson of sufficient radio and TV time."

"Favoritism for Gen. Eisenhower in newspapers and magazines makes it imperative that the small contributors drive Stevenson take his case directly to the people over television and radio during the closing stretch of the campaign," he said.

"Many newspapers are favoring the Republicans in their news coverage. The Saturday Evening Post devoted cover and inside pages to glamorized portraits of Gen. Eisenhower. The magazine will not do the same for Gov. Stevenson. We could not buy the same space for $50,000, even if it were for sale. Last week's Life carried not one picture of Gov. Stevenson."

Meantime, Washington businessman Robert Mars announced formation of "Independent committees of business and professional men for Stevenson and Sparkman," with headquarters in the Mayflower Hotel here.

Mars said the organization will "give direction to the spontaneous efforts of these many independent groups throughout the United States who are attempting to raise money to continue Gov. Stevenson's radio and television appearances."

Ask Payment

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States charged today in a note to Moscow that Russian planes made a "wanton and unjustifiable attack" on the American B-29 plane missing off Japan since Oct. 7. The note demanded compensation.

Payment is in order, the U. S. said, both for the loss of the plane and for the lives of any of the crew of eight who may have perished.

Unlisted Taxable Items Uncovered In Tax List Study

More Than $252,000 In Personal Property Valuation Found So Far

A systematic search—not yet completed—of Pitt County tax records has already turned up more than $252,000 in personal property valuation previously unlisted.

The project was begun in August. County Auditor Reginald Gray said this morning, and will be continued until it is completed. Thus far most of the property found to be unlisted is composed of automobiles.

In the beginning the auditor obtained a complete list of all automobiles registered with the state from Pitt County and the list was checked against county tax books. Gray said that in addition to cars unlisted, "right much personal property" has been picked up.

The $252,000 figure cited by the auditor was of October 6. The figure has increased since that time and is expected to rise proportionately until the project is completed.

"For those people who have received notices and not reported to the office, we will begin sending out second notices this week," Gray said. "All persons who do not come in to discuss their listings will be subject to further action provided for under the law."

The auditor said some mistakes have been made but all past errors have been corrected, and the same will be done in the future if people come into the auditor's office and explain their particular situations.

Errors Made "It is impossible to get a complete and accurate listing of automobiles and property," the auditor stated, "because most errors have been made because information has shown that people live in Pitt County when in reality they may live in any of the adjoining counties or have moved away since their cars were registered."

Gray said some misunderstandings have arisen from the fact that a car owned by a minor may have already been listed by his father, and in the case of wives owning cars whose husbands may have listed for them. "In any of the cases cited, we will be glad to remove their names from the list," Gray asserted.

The auditor emphasized that people who receive notices that are not long residents of the county should write that information on the bottom of the form mailed out and return it to Gray's office.

The auditor said the project will be carried out to completion within the next few weeks.

Missionary Gets Armed Burglar

TOKYO. (UP)—An American missionary overpowered an armed burglar early today and bound his hands and feet with neckties until police arrived.

The Rev. Rupert C. Dunton, 38, was not hurt when the robber's gun was discharged while the two men grappled in the missionary's home in a village 25 miles west of Tokyo.

The American Embassy in Tokyo said its records give Dunton's home address as Baltimore, Md.

Russia May Be Hiding Plan Of Conquest Behind Its Program, Says Eisenhower; Notes Continued Red Military Build-Up

EN ROUTE WITH EISENHOWER (UP)—Dwight D. Eisenhower took his campaign into Delaware today with a warning Russia may hide its plans for world conquest behind a phony "cold peace" program.

Eisenhower interrupted his tour of New Jersey to make an appearance at 10 a. m. s. e. at Wilmington.

The Republican presidential candidate made a 40-minute speech—the longest of the campaign—at the Alfred E. Smith Memorial Foundation Dinner at New York's Waldorf Astoria Hotel Thursday night after he had finished some observers said the address was his greatest.

More than 2,000 persons, including Francis Cardinal Spellman and New York Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, paid $100 a plate to hear Eisenhower. The money will be turned over to the Al Smith wing of St. Vincent's Hospital.

Eisenhower warned the free people not to be deceived by the new international "peace" program which the Russians have indicated they are planning.

He noted that steel production in the Soviet Union now is double that of the early summer of 1941 when Hitler in one of his greatest double crosses, sent his troops across the Russian border.

"It also means, of course, a continuing atomic development," Eisenhower said.

The former general, wearing white ties and tails, said in his non-political address he had learned much about the Communist mind during his tour of duty in Europe during and after World War II.

Eisenhower said he had studied closely reports from the recent 19th Congress of the Communist party in Moscow and concluded Russia had flung "a deadly challenge to the free world in this critical autumn."

Referring to statements by Soviet Premier Josef Stalin, Georgi Malenkov and other top Russian leaders and to instructions which have been given to Red agents in Western Europe, Eisenhower said: "We might see in all this a kind of change in tempo in the cold war—even the beginning of a cold peace. But whatever language we use to describe this Soviet formula for action, we could—I think—make few blunders so serious as to doubt its menace to the free world's unity."

"As the Communist world carefully marshals its gigantic new resources to strength, the free world—crowded back on its own defenses—may be led to fall into factions and prey upon itself," Eisenhower said.

Iran Preparing Steps For Break

TEHRAN, Iran. (UP)—Breaking of diplomatic relations between Britain and Iran was delayed today until Premier Mohammed Mossadegh can confer with his cabinet on how actually to sever relations.

Mossadegh announced yesterday that he intends to break relations with Britain by withdrawing the Iranian charge d'affaires in London and demanding Britain close its Tehran embassy.

This also would mean an end to the 18-months-long attempt to solve the dispute over the nationalized Anglo-Iranian Oil Co.

Chinese Attackers Swarm Against Ridge Held By ROKs After All-Out Barrage Of Artillery And Mortars; Americans Strengthen Hold On Triangle Hill

SEOUL, Korea (UP)—Chinese Communists hurled three assaults at South Korean infantrymen on Sniper Ridge late today, steadily strengthening their ranks as they closed in for fierce hand-to-hand fighting with the gallant defenders.

Moving out from Pinpoint Knob, the Reds' last toehold on the strategic high north of Kumhwa, the enemy hit at 4:45 p. m. strength—about 160 men—but were driven off.

Two more companies returned to the attack at 6:40 p. m. and they also were battered back.

Finally, the Chinese commander increased the attacking force to a battalion of about 800 men, and the Communists closed in on the hard-fighting Sniper Ridge.

During one period, Red artillery and mortar shells fell at a rate of one every four seconds. Later, it increased to a point where it could not be estimated.

The fight for Sniper Ridge already has cost the Communists 400 soldiers counted killed, 399 estimated killed and 716 wounded.

In addition, South Korean soldiers captured 39,020 grenades, 50,000 rounds of small arms ammunition and numerous rifles and recoilless rifles.

At nearby Triangle Hill, American infantrymen of the 7th Division strengthened their positions and after a day of sporadic firing and awaited a third night of Red counter-attacks. The GIs repelled five attacks by 1,500 Communists last night and early today.

"Triangle Hill is secure," Maj. Gen. Wayne C. Smith, commander of the H. S. 7th Division, told United Press war correspondent Wendell Merick, "but I expect the Reds will react violently."

Communist commanders threw 1,500 men in five "fantastically vicious" attacks at the Americans last night and early today but the Reds were hurled back.

The Reds and the Americans engaged in sporadic fighting during the day on a ridge between Triangle Hill's main peak and Pike's Peak, the Communists' last remaining toehold on the northwest corner of the mountain pass.

However, neither side made any concerted effort to attack the other.

U. N. war planes bombed over the battle area, swarming and hurling napalm (jelled gasoline) on Communist positions and forcing the Reds to keep their guns quiet in fear of observation.

Allied Sabre jets engaged Communist MIG-15 jet fighters for the first time in four days, but no claims were made.

The heaviest fighting of the day occurred at Iron Horse Mountain east of the Chonwon valley where South Korean troops lost and won the height before dawn and then were struck by another Red counter-attack shortly after noon.

Seventh division officers estimated the Reds suffered 3,571 casualties in the fighting for Triangle Hill since the Allies attacked it Oct. 14—equivalent to a Chinese regiment plus a battalion.

The Reds have used elements of three regiments, at least, in their effort to hurl back the successful Allied assault.

Smith said the purpose of taking Triangle Hill is "to stop the Communists from using it as an avenue of approach to our main line of resistance and the Kumhwa Valley."

"We undoubtedly saved lives by taking this hill," he said. Smith explained the Reds were a constant danger when they were atop Triangle because of their mortar positions and snipers.

The fighting on Triangle last night and today lasted six hours.

After Tomorrow Evening, Only One More Saturday To Register

After tomorrow evening at sunset, Pitt County voters will have only one more day to register.

Registration books in all precincts will be closed the following Saturday, October 25, and all people who have not registered by that time will not be allowed to vote in the general elections to be held Tuesday, November 4.

County Elections Chairman J. H. Farrell of Greenville said this morning it is very important for voters to know that all persons who wish to register must do so in person.

Register Personally "No man may register for his wife or parents," Farrell stated. "Registration must be done in person and a oath taken by the voter before he is qualified to cast his ballot."

In any election." In remarking on absentee ballots, Harrell explained rules governing application and said that to date his office has received applications from 177 servicemen and 44 civilians for absentee ballots.

The chairman explained that Saturday, November 1, is the deadline for applications regarding absentee ballots except in the case of people who become ill after that day. Anyone who becomes ill after November 1 may apply for an absentee right up to the day of the General Elections.

Sudden Illness "In the case of people who suddenly become ill," Harrell declared, "applications may be signed by the sick person or any member of his immediate family may come by the elections board office in Greenville and apply for him."

"If a person is an invalid and knows he will not be able to go to the polls November 4, he may apply at anytime for an absentee ballot—up to the deadline on Saturday November 1."

Harrell urged that all voters in Pitt County who are not positive about registration to check with their individual precinct registrars.

The chairman added that provision for absentees has been made concerning people who know they will not be able to go to their precincts to vote because of travel. Application by the deadline is necessary if they are to receive ballots.

paying the top figures. In general, the figures are from $200 to $300 higher than those paid a year previously.

In Greenville's size group, the median entrance salary is $2,880 and the maximum, $3,125, including cost of living adjustments. Locally, as of the beginning of the year, patrolmen start at $2,460. The top for the rank is $2,800.

Greenville's police force is larger, in proportion to the size of the city, than are those of most of the communities of its size. With a complement of 27, including uniformed and civilian employees, the local department has 1.61 on the payroll for every 1,000 residents. Other cities of its size average 1.21 per 1,000. Nationally, there are 1.29 per 1,000.

Some cities, it is noted, require more police than do other cities because of unusual traffic problems or other special local conditions, so that the cost and numbers employed should be weighed against performance and accomplishments.

The starting salaries paid patrolmen and their maximum salaries vary widely, with the bigger cities

Local Police Protection Cost Is Above 'Average'

Arctic Explorer Explains Role Of Far North In U.S. Defense Effort

By MURIEL SHOTWELL Reflector Staff Writer

Sir Hubert Wilkins, scientist and explorer, opened the fourth session of the Pitt County Executives' Club when he spoke before the group last night on the potentialities of the Arctic region in defense and how soldiers would be protected in that adverse climate.

The distinguished speaker kept the attention of the very large group, which represented almost every community in Pitt County, with his explanation of how regions of high latitudes can be used at the best advantage for defense; pointing out the means of protecting military personnel with proper clothing.

Wilkins said a large portion of military personnel were stationed around the edge of the Arctic regions and if war came, it would be expanded in those regions. He explained to the group that Russia could draw 12 million fighting men from the "Cold Belt" in Siberia but not enough men could be recruited from Greenland and the center of Canada and Alaska therefore, American men must be supplied with the proper protection to fight in cold regions.

He said a new type of uniform was being tested which was made of an artificial plastic material that supplies insulation and is suitable for not only cold regions but useful for operation in any part of the world.

A long-time advocate of the use of submersible vessels in the Arctic, Sir Hubert said the waters of the triangle of defense if submarines, carrying guided missiles, airplanes, and men, were used.

"There is no wave action in the depths of the Arctic waters and the use of submarines would be successful where surface vessels would not be successful," stated Sir Hubert.

Sir Hubert pointed out that the greatest difficulty in our line of defense lies in the distance of our bases from strategic points in Russia. Planes attempting to bomb but not enough men could be recruited from Greenland and the be subject to great interference and great loss of life would probably result in our forces from bombing raids, explained the speaker.

"Our air bases are as far as 4,000 miles from Russian bases but the Navy could reach Russia within 900 miles," Sir Hubert said.

The speaker briefly spoke on the people who inhabit the regions of high latitudes and enlightened the audience with the fact that the summers around the North Pole bring flowers, including orchids, and the women wear much less than some of our southern beaches.

Dr. K. B. Pace, president of the Executives' Club welcomed the members and guests to the first meeting for the year and said he knew of nothing better than a club which brings all the towns of the county together.

In eloquently introducing the speaker, Robert Humber said he was a man vitally interested in the problems of the day and called him "one of the gifted sons of our generation."

Christian Church Revival
AYDEN—A series of revival services will be held in the Ayden Christian Church beginning Sunday, October 19, and continuing through Sunday, October 26. Rev. O. L. Harris, minister of First Christian Church in Jonesboro Arkansas, will be the guest preacher. Rev. Hargis is a graduate of the Seminary of Texas Christian University and has done post-graduate work at Union Theological Seminary in New York City. He has held pastorates in Oklahoma, Texas and Arkansas. Rev. Howard James, minister of Elizabeth City Christian Church, will lead the congregational singing. Miss James is well known in this section as an outstanding soloist; as well as a leader of the group singing. The membership of Ayden Christian Church extends a cordial invitation to all people of this community to attend this revival.

Christian Science
"Doctrines of Atonement" is the topic of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches next Sunday.
The Golden Text is from I. Cor. 1:18 "The preaching of the cross is to them that perish foolishness; but unto us which are saved it is the power of God."
Passages from the Bible include: "How beautiful upon the mountains are the feet of him that bringeth good tidings, that publisheth peace; that bringeth good tidings of good; that publisheth salvation; that saith unto Zion, Thy God reigneth." Isaiah 52:7

And from "Science and Health with key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy. "Our Master taught no mere theory, doctrine, or belief. It was the divine Principle of all real being which he taught and practiced. His proof of Christian Science, no form or system of religion and worship, but the Christian Science, working out the harmony of Life and Love." p. 26

RED OAK HARVEST SALE AND SUPPER
Our annual Harvest Sale or "Country Auction" is set for Wednesday night, October 22, at the Red Oak community building. A most delicious supper will be served by the members of the church at $1.00 per plate for grown-ups and 50c for all children under 10 years of age. Plates will be fixed for those who wish to take them out. Supper will be served from 5 o'clock until 7:30.

The menu will be as follows: baked turkey, dressing, gravy, cranberry sauce; your choice of collards, turnip greens or snap beans; sweet potatoes baked, candied or whipped; your choice of a salad; pickles; hot hush puppies; hot rolls; apple pie or cake; hot coffee or iced tea.
After supper a large variety of country produce consisting of cakes, pies, homemade candies, dressed poultry, meat, dairy products, sweet-pickled peaches, fresh country eggs, all kinds of canned goods, fresh garden vegetables, preserves, pickles, handicraft, flower dish-gardens and many other miscellaneous items will be sold to the highest bidder by Mr. Reginald Alton, general auctioneer from Scotland Neck. Mr. Alton's hobby is helping rural churches "get on their feet." This will be his fifth year with us.
Proceeds from this sale will be used to help pay the last payment due on our church pews and to help make a payment on the organ.
We invite all of our friends to come and have supper with us and to stay for the auction.

Mrs. Hart Hostess To Bridge Guests
GRIFTON—On Thursday night, Mrs. Edward Hart entertained at bridge at her home on Main Street with players for four tables.
Her decorations were dahlias and other fall flowers. Guests were invited for seven o'clock and served a supper plate with individual cakes and coffee on arrival.
During the bridge games Mrs. Ben C. Tucker scored high among club members; Mrs. Milton Hart, second high; while the visitor's prize went to Mrs. Bryan Davis.

Vanceboro PTA Names Officers

VANCEBORO—The Vanceboro Parent-Teachers Association held its first meeting of the year Monday night in the school auditorium, with the president, Mrs. Ralph Hill, in charge.

Other officers are Mrs. Guy Hill, vice president; Mrs. Wayne Bryan, secretary; and Mrs. Franklin Powell, treasurer.

Mrs. Earl Cleve welcomed the parents and teachers and new teachers were introduced by Principal E. P. Blair of the high school. An inspirational devotional was given by Mrs. E. P. Blair.

Mrs. Hill gave the objectives of the Parent-Teachers Association and urged the parents and teachers to become members. Mrs. Murry Whitford is membership chairman for the year. Mrs. W. E. Cleve will serve as chairman of Grade Mother in the primary department and Mrs. Earl Crawford in the grammar grades. Mrs. Frank DeWitt is P.T.A. magazine chairman.

The association voted to change the meeting time from the second Monday night to the fourth Monday night in the month, with another meeting to be held Oct. 27th.

A feature of the program was color slides of points of interest taken on a trip through western states by Thomas Dubois.

At the close of the business session refreshments of punch and cookies were served by the hospitality chairman, Mrs. Ralph Carawan, assisted by Mrs. C. L. Lancaster.

The attendance awards were won by Miss Helen Butler's fourth grade and Mrs. T. A. Forrest's sixth grade.

Fountain H.D. Club Plans Radio Script
The Fountain Home Demonstration Club held its regular monthly meeting Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Willie Killebrew.

The meeting was called to order at 2:30 in the afternoon by the president, Mrs. C. B. Joyner. The opening song was "America," after which the collect was repeated by all.

The secretary read the minutes of the previous meeting, which they accepted as read. Roll call showed nine members present. Mrs. Joyner explained this club was expected to give a radio program Saturday, Oct. 18, over radio station WGTC in Greenville from 9:15 to 9:30 a.m.

This week members decided to use as a topic "A Non Club Member."

Mrs. Albert Bell was asked to write the script. Mrs. Carlton Gardner and Mrs. Joseph Gay volunteered to play the part of Club Members. Mrs. Johnnie Gardner volunteered to play the part of a Non Club Member. The president then thanked the ladies who helped with the fair booth.

These being no further business the meeting was turned over to Mrs. Hodges, the home agent, who gave a very interesting and helpful demonstration on the making of window draperies. She showed step by step the making of draperies.

After the meeting adjourned the hostess served homemade cake and drinks.

Youth Group Attends Rally In Oak City
ROBERSONVILLE—A number of young people and five adult counselors from the Robersonville Christian Church attended the Youth Rally in Oak City Sunday, October 5.

The group was the largest single delegation to attend. Supper was served at the church following the afternoon meeting.

Those attending were Becky Roberson, Carolyn Forbes, Janyce Whitfield, Emma Nell Everett, Judy Highsmith, Elizabeth Everett, Barbara Roebuck, Anita Rae Everett, Ruth McArthur, Grace Coltrane, Joyce Whitfield, Peggy Moore, Linda Bullock, Anna Speight, Whitfield, Pete Johnson, Robert Everett, Kenneth Taylor, Eugene Bryant, Tilton Harby, Ethna Earl Anderson, William Gray, Sherwood L. Roberson, Jr., Jimmy Lee Taylor and Benjamin Wilson.

Accompanying the group were the Rev. Wilbur Wallace, Jesse Rogers, Wallace Reid Bullock, Mrs. Vance Roberson and Mrs. Clara Wallace.

Vesper Service Meets With Good Response

A special series of discussions in the area of student interest was carefully planned for the Sunday Vespers at the Methodist Student Center during the Fall Quarter.

These discussions are conducted by members of the college faculty and Christian leaders in the city of Greenville. They have met with a fine response on the part of the students and large numbers have met to join in the short period of worship and the informal discussions, from 6:00 to 7:00, every Sunday evening.

Subject for discussion on Sunday, October 19, is "How Should a Christian Vote?" and will present the vital issues of the campaign for President.

This will be led by Dr. W. E. Marshall of the social studies department at East Carolina College.

Other subjects have been: "Witness for Christ on the Campus," by President J. D. Mastic; "The Place of the Rev. Leon Russell," by the Rev. Leon Russell; "Science and Religion," by Mr. J. O. Derrick of the Science Department, ECC; "Christian Youth in Germany," by Mr. Ludwig Mueller, of Bavaria; "Does Religion Challenge the Intellect," by Mr. Wyatt Brown.

On October 26, Dr. Richard C. Todd of the social studies department at ECC will lead the discussion, having as his subject, "The Hand of God in History." Other interesting topics will be announced from time to time.

Miss Willa Dean Lindsay of Clinton is chairman of the Commission on Vespers for the Wesley Foundation.

Weekly Events For Christian Church Announced

At the Christian Church Sunday morning the large volunteer choir will sing an anthem entitled "Peace, It Is I" by Griffith T. Jones, and the pastor will preach on the text II Chron. 7:14, with the subject, "God's Conditions For Blessings."

The Christian Youth Fellowship will assemble Sunday afternoon at 6:30 at the church and the Intermediate Fellowship at 5:00. The Disciple Student Fellowship meets on Wednesday evenings at 6 for a get-together supper, discussion and worship period. Miss Delphia Rawls is president of the D.S.F., and Miss Ruth Haislip is chairman of the worship committee.

The Disciples of North Carolina will be gathering in the Hillier Memorial Christian Church on November 11, 12 and 13 for the annual convention. Dr. W. A. Welsh pastor of the East Dallas Christian Church, in Texas, will be the guest preacher for the assembly this year.

Other notables on the program will be Dr. Emory Ross, long-time missionary leader in interdenominational circles; Dr. Cyrus Yocum, head of the foreign division of the United Christian Missionary Society for many years; and Mr. Jack Sutton, popular speaker at the men's banquets of conventions; Dr. D. Ray Lindley will give a report of the convocation held in Lund, Switzerland, this past summer.

The Christian Church members and friends are reminded of the annual observance of United Nations Day to be held at the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church next Friday evening at 7:30. The speaker will be Dr. Sylvester Greene, lecturer, educator and minister.

At one time there were about 13,000 men named John Smith on the U.S. Veteran's Administration rolls.

Home Mission Season at First Presbyterian Church, with special emphasis upon this cause of the church, extends from October 1 until November 2. The Study Book this year is "Frontiers of Hope" by Dr. Charles Gibbon. On Sunday morning, November 2, self-denial gifts received in Sunday School and church will go to this work.

Mrs. Patsy Turner of the Southern Presbyterian Church will be the special speaker on Home Mission in the local church on Thursday, October 23, at 3 p.m. The congregation is cordially invited and urged to attend.

The Young People of Albemarle Presbytery will have their Fall Rally in Howard Memorial Presbyterian Church of Tarboro this Sunday afternoon. A large number of young people are planning to attend and will meet here at the church at 1:30 p.m. with a bag supper.

The Westminister Fellowship of College Students will meet at the Manse this Monday afternoon at 5:30 for supper, vesper program and fellowship.

Circle No. 1 will have charge of the nursery this Sunday during the worship service. Circle No. 4 will have charge of the church activities this month.

Choir practice will be conducted under the leadership of Mr. Durham this Wednesday evening at 7:30.

Shower Hostess To Honor Mrs. Briley
ROBERSONVILLE—Mrs. Richard Briley of Greenville was a shower hostess in honor of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Walter Briley.

The home was decorated with arrangements of fall flowers. After the shower gifts were unwrapped by the honoree, the evening was spent in the playing of a number of games. Prize winners for the contest games were Mrs. Walter Briley, Miss Peggy Barfield and Mrs. Frances Leggett.

Lemonade, salted nuts and cake were served to Mrs. James E. Buck, Miss Peggy Page, Mrs. James T. Smith, Mrs. H. K. Leggett, Mrs. Frank D'Arcangelo, Miss Peggy Barfield, Mrs. George Hardy, Mrs. R. E. Briley, Mrs. J. K. Worsley and Mrs. Levi Creecy.

Purchase Of New Bookmobile Planned
ROBERSONVILLE—During this month there has been a financial drive in this area for funds with which to purchase a new Bookmobile.

Through letters, personal solicitation and organizational endorsement, the fund drive has gained support and is progressing at a satisfactory rate.

The vehicle which is to be purchased will be large enough for the borrowers to walk into, and there will be small stools behind the driver's seat for readers to use who desire to browse through the books before making their selections.

At the Rotary meeting last week, Mr. Charlie Gray told of the benefits rendered by the Bookmobile. He informed the members that the Bookmobile makes more than 100 stops in this county. He explained that a new vehicle will require $1250. A motion was made that the club underwrite $100 for the Bookmobile. After the motion was carried, Larry Williams, Mayo Little, Wilson Wynne and C. R. Gray were appointed to secure this amount.

Declares Mafia Running Crime In United States

NEW YORK (U.P.)—A noted crime reporter charged today organized crime in the United States is controlled almost entirely by the secret society Mafia, which owes allegiance to a "super-government" of crime in Sicily and presents "a greater threat to the United States than the Communist party."

Ed Reid, Brooklyn Eagle reporter who exposed the police-gambler tie-ins in New York, detailed the origins and operations of the almost legendary criminal syndicate in a book published today, entitled "Mafia."

The organization, whose members swear allegiance in blood and enforce their own law with terror and murder, presently is devoted in this country to creating narcotics addicts for its huge drug market, Reid said. Among its weapons are the control of entire sections of business and the corruption of public officials, he said.

"The Mafia worked undercover with Mussolini and therefore with Hitler," Reid wrote. "It is not impossible to conceive that it might someday help Stalin." He said it was a today "history's greatest threat to morality."

Reid named a number of unsolved recent murder cases in which the Mafia is believed to have been the executioner. Racketeer Willie Moretti, he said, was slain because he admitted to a narcotics agent that he was the Mafia's head man in New Jersey.

Reid linked the Kansas City murders of Charles Binaggio and Charles (Mad Dog) Gargotta to that of Arnold Schuster, the "innocent bystander" who recognized bank robber Willie Sutton and pointed him out to Brooklyn police.

Both slayings bore the four-bullet mark of Mafia assassin "Little Joe," Reid said. He theorized Schuster was killed to assure that Sutton—an independent operator—would "rot in jail."

The Mafia, he said, also was responsible for the murder of Carlo Tresca, anti-Fascist editor of an Italian-language newspaper in New York.

Reid said the Mafia got its start in this country by shaking down fellow Italian-Americans in a "protection" racket. It spread out during prohibition to take over that immense boot-legging operation. Its membership, he said, includes families "who control most of the fruit and produce markets of the country," individuals who take no part in criminal activity but are regarded as "spiritual leaders" through their historical associations

Bulls Stampede In City Streets

ATLANTA (UP)—Twenty-two wild west rodeo bulls led police on a chase through fashionable Atlanta boulevards early today before they were corralled by cowboys on horseback in the garage basement of a swank apartment house.

The herd of footloose roping steers and Brahmas defied pre-dawn roundup attempts by five police cars until they finally reached a dead end on the sublevel auto ramps of the 18-story Howell House on famed Peachtree Street.

There the balky cattle halted and firmly stood their ground until the cowboys and other rodeo attendants rounded them up from among about 100 shiny autos and herded them onto a trailer truck while patrolmen blocked exits with their police cars.

Capt. M.L. Thomas said cattle broke from their rodeo stockade at Ponce de Leon Park, home of the Atlanta Crackers baseball club and loped for more than a mile until they finally bolted down an alley and into the Howell House parking lot.

Thomas said investigations had not determined immediately why the cattle broke from headquarters of the rodeo being sponsored here by the Veterans of Foreign Wars, but he said they traveled so rapidly that one police cruiser was momentarily eluded.

The herd vanished shortly after patrolmen first spotted it some five blocks from the ball park and turned up a mile away in front of the fashionable Biltmore Hotel, Thomas said. Forced to back-track there, Thomas said, the herd then bolted toward the Howell House.

M.L. Fleming, night parking lot attendant, said none of the cars parked overnight in the basement garage was damaged.

Denounces U. S. In Peron Press

BUENOS AIRES (UP)—Singer Josephine Baker again has denounced the United States as a nation which practices racial discrimination.

Her statement, printed in Peronist newspapers, was described as a letter to a U.S. newspaper correspondent whom Miss Baker accused of transmitting a distorted version of her Oct. 7 press conference.

At the conference 10 days ago she said an "anti-Negro wave of violence" existed in the United States and South Africa.

Her letter to the correspondent said: "You know very well that in the U.S. colored people are the object of intimidations and threats and that the white people who fight for our cause are victims of name calling."

"I have been telling the truth about racial discrimination in the U.S. but since you have attacked me in your articles I propose to tell you the absolute truth about the horrors and atrocities that take place in that country against all those who try to defend human rights."

The letter also carried the sentence, "Yankee democracy is a farce—words almost identical to the headlines which Peronist newspapers carried over the story

Winters Force 'Newsboy' Retire

CINCINNATI, O. (UP)—Jimmy Widemeyer, 68, a newsboy who made and lost a million dollars, said today the "tough winters" have forced him to retire from the newsstand he has operated here for 60 years.

Jimmy, still "comfortably fixed," fell from the millionaire class when he lost most of his investments in the 1929 crash. He said he started at the newsstand when he was eight years old.

The GOP offered the confetti to the Democrats for Adlai Stevenson's appearance tonight. They refused the offer.

'Just Another' Fair Attraction

DALLAS, Tex. (UP)—Gov. Adlai Stevenson will be just another "attraction" when he appears at the state fair here tonight.

Fair officials said all visitors will have to pay 80 cents to get into the grounds. "But they'll be able to take in dozens of other attractions as well."

Turkeys Likely To Cost You Less

WASHINGTON (UP)—Chances are that your Thanksgiving turkey will cost less this year than it has in a long time, in spite of government efforts to strengthen the market.

The Agriculture Department has bought up about 600,000 turkeys since August in an attempt to bolster prices received by farmers, which in some cases had fallen below the cost of production.

While the turkey-buying program has brought a "slight improvement" in the market, Agriculture Department officials said today, it will have little effect on the retail prices paid by housewives when the nation goes on its annual turkey-feasting spree next month.

Officials said the turkeys bought by the government (to be served up to school children under the school program) represent barely a "drop in the bucket" of this year's all-time record crop of 58,856,000 turkeys.

Richard C. Larkin, an expert in the Agriculture Department's poultry branch, said the 1952 turkey supply is about 13 per cent greater than last year.

Although retail turkey prices are expected to climb before Thanksgiving, as they do every year in response to seasonal demand, Larkin said they are not likely to reach last year's levels.

During the Thanksgiving buying rush last year, farm prices moved up to average 37.9 cents a pound by mid-November.

Strength for the Day

POWER, HEAT, AND LIGHT
If you look out of the train window as you ride between Boston and New York on the New York, New Haven, and Hartford Railroad, you may see a large sign containing three words: "Power, Heat, Light."
The utility company officials who put up the sign know the importance of these elements. So, when the sun goes off, those of us who live in electric homes fold up and wait for the repair man. The house grows cold, for the oil-burner, the kitchen stove, and the portable heater all need electricity before they can give heat. The refrigerator, the radio, the vacuum cleaner cease to function—no power. And when night comes, we feel it most of all as the darkness closes in and we are left without our main source of light.
"Power, Heat, Light." The sign might serve as a reminder to every Christian. For the same elements that the company supplies to our house on a limited physical scale, God supplies to the universe in immeasurable abundance, both physically and spiritually.
God's power created us and all around us. The heat He supplies from the sun preserves life on the earth; the spiritual warmth of His love quickens our highest relationships. And while existence as we know it would not be possible without the light of the sun, most important of all is His spiritual light—the knowledge of God through Jesus Christ.

An Answer Needed As Quickly As Possible

Ayden is in a quandry over what to do about its electricity bill which it feels is higher than it should be.
Greenville Utilities is in a quandry trying to keep one of its biggest and best customers satisfied until it can find a feasible solution to its rate problem for wholesale customers.
The problem of cost which is about to break up a happy relationship between a buyer and a seller—in this case the town of Ayden and the Greenville Utilities—is not going to be solved in a matter of a few days and perhaps not in a few weeks.
It is going to take patience on the part of both parties, and at the same time diligent efforts by both parties to bring about a satisfactory solution as quickly as possible.
After some six months of delay, it appears that the Greenville Utilities has set about the right way to see what sort of adjustment it can make in the wholesale rate for power to the town of Ayden. The plan should be pursued with all swiftness possible without risking a conclusion which will not be sound and workable.
It was last May when representatives of the Ayden municipal government appeared before the local utilities commission and requested some relief in the price the town was paying the city of Greenville for electric power. At that time the Ayden representatives were told the matter would be considered. Since that time Ayden representatives have appeared before the commissioners several times, and even now are no more sure they will receive the relief they seek than they were at the outset.
This week in its meeting, however, the Greenville Utilities Commission decided immediate steps would be taken to have a responsible consultant delve into the rates now in effect between Ayden and Greenville to see if some method could be worked out whereby Ayden could receive a more favorable power rate in the immediate future and after the tie-in between the Greenville plant and the Virginia Electric Power Company is effected.
Ayden, frustrated and probably displeased by the fact that concrete steps have not been taken toward the settlement of the matter, this week requested through its Mayor Corey Stokes an immediate 10 per cent reduction in the rate which the town is now paying Greenville for power.
The Daily Reflector concurs with the Utilities Commission that such a rate reduction could not be given Ayden without regard to other wholesale purchasers who may be in the same category as the town of Ayden. However, we are of the opinion the Utilities Commission last May should have taken the action to seek a rate adjustment which it took this week.

Had it done so, a satisfactory solution to the rate matter probably already would have been found and the strained relations between the town of Ayden and the local utilities might have been prevented.

If a careful study reveals the local utilities would be selling power below cost or at two low a margin of profit if it made a downward adjustment in Ayden's power rate, of course Greenville will have to tell Ayden it just can not afford to sell its power at a cheaper price.
If a study shows some adjustment can be made without impairing the financial position of Greenville Utilities, and at the same time will not be unfair to other consumers who purchase from the local power plant, such an adjustment should be made.

President Truman Bac: For An Encore

They liked him in his command performance, and they have sent him back for an encore.
President Truman, we're speaking of, and the directors of Stevenson's campaign.
The President's two-week whistle-stop campaign of over 90 speeches in 15 states lambasting Eisenhower and the Republicans in general must have been well received by Democratic campaign leaders. Hardly had Mr. Truman returned to the White House and shaken off the dust from his last trip when he got the word he was on the show again. Today he is winding up a three-day stumping through New England.
The contrast offered between Stevenson's "high plane" approach to political issues at the outset of the campaign and President Truman's "give 'em hell" tactics seems to be what the Democratic campaign strategists have been looking for. And from his speeches, the President is carrying his "give 'em hell" tactics several degrees further than he did in his own campaign four years ago.

National Whirligig

WASHINGTON—A recent report by a national Catholic publication questions the professional politicians' ancient creed that this largely urban vote normally supports Democratic Presidential candidates with heavy majorities. It accords with other indications that religious beliefs do not influence the electorate so much as other recognized factors.
Democratic headquarters is especially concerned over this vote in numerous populous cities, where the outcome frequently decides which candidate will win important states' electoral totals. They count on huge majorities in Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Chicago, Cleveland, Baltimore and San Francisco to offset the Republicans' heavy turnout in rural areas.
In almost every section, especially in the Northeast and Middle West, the election boils down to a counting contest between the city and upstate (or outstate) vote. Should Stevenson's margins fall off in these great centers, General Eisenhower would enjoy an enormous advantage.
VOTING GROUPS—Although the respective strategists pretend to hush-hush this delicate issue, they are quietly capitalizing on certain aspects of it. In fact, each national committee sets up special divisions to concentrate on these voting groups.
Certain GOP-ers, for instance, are whispering about Stevenson's blameless divorce and his opposition to appointment of an Ambassador to the Vatican, which he justifies on the ground that it would cause needless differences at home. Democrats are advertising General Eisenhower's eulogy of Oliver Cromwell, whose name is infamous in Irish history.
CONTROVERSIAL—Both parties are openly wooing the so-called Polish vote by blaming each other for turning Poland over to Stalin's collection of iron-curtain satellites.
Even Ike's acceptance of the Russian Order of the Suvarov has been used against him because Suvarov was a Polish Cromwell. Republicans counter with the argument that Poland's doom was written at Yalta and Potsdam.
Similarly, rival propagandists are angling for the Italian vote, with responsibility for the division of Trieste as the controversial issue. Rome insists on full recovery of this key city, where Tito, the Yugoslavian dictator, so far, has been unable to solve this problem, although Tito has become our ally in the cold war.
These three population groups—Irish, Polish and Italian—are predominantly Catholic, according to census surveys. For social, economic and hereditary reasons, they live in the large cities to a great extent.
ACCURATE 48 PRECISION—The publication which has now shown a healthy light on this vexing question is the Sunday Visitor, which describes itself as "the popular national Catholic action weekly." Published at Huntington, Ind., it is distributed every Sunday at many Catholic churches.
Answering the question of "Is there a Catholic vote?" this weekly recently reported:
"No. Prior to the 1948 election, our Sunday Visitor conducted a poll to ascertain how Catholics would vote in the Presidential election of that year, when Truman, Dewey, Wallace and Thurmond were candidates for President.
"Less than 2 per cent of the Catholics of the nation voted for Wallace or for the Dixiecrat candidate, and the poll disclosed that they would vote 50 per cent Democrat and 48 per cent Republican. It was the only accurate poll."
Even President Truman heard about it, and wrote to the editor to compliment this paper in procuring so accurate a prediction.
SOUTH DISGRUNTLED—Southern Democrats favoring General Eisenhower have come up with a novel argument against Governor Stevenson, based on President Truman's campaign tactics. It tends to vitiate Stevenson-Truman statements that the South owes its recent great advances to Presidential beneficence.
Observant southerners point out that the Mississippi, although Chief Executive of all the United States, is the only prominent political figure who has not made an appearance below the Mason and Dixon Line. In their opinion, his deliberate refusal to visit Dixie demonstrates that he has permitted himself to become a sectional rather than a national leader.
Truman's boycott of the South, they add, would be understandable in a normal political year. His vote is usually taken for granted by the Party's high command. But, as the tours of Eisenhower, Stevenson, Sparkman and Nixon demonstrate, the Democrats are no longer sure of their mortgage on the historic political homeland. It cannot be snubbed safely.
"If Harry loves us so much," runs the southern complaint, "why is he afraid to show his face down here? We'd treat him better than he has treated us!"

Selected Short

WASHINGTON, IOWA, EVENING JOURNAL: "We believe there is downright concern at this moment over governmental trends. Underneath the natural interest everybody has in the coming election one can often detect a vein of anxiety, a desire to do something, a determination to make a change. One special point of concern is the pattern of thinking apparent in our government. It is the same pattern seen in other countries where freedom and private enterprise have lost their holds. Always this trend starts in the name of national defense."
A POOR PROPOSAL (Winston-Salem Journal)
At present in North Carolina no persons or agencies save government tax units have the right to garnish a worker's salary or wages. But the directors of the North Carolina Retail Merchants Association would change this "firm resolve" in Raleigh this week to get a strong garnishment law passed by the 1953 General Assembly. Under this proposed statute a person in debt could have his wages or salary attached by his creditor. Merchants could attach the pay of workers who failed to settle long-standing accounts.
According to Thompson Greenwood, the board's executive secretary, the 7,000-member merchants' organization is being besieged for relief in collecting old accounts. The strongest pleas, he said, come from rural areas.
No doubt the merchants do have a serious credit problem. There

Their Greatest Project

Somebody Told Me

By L. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.
At present I am gathering information for later publication on the Presidential election in 1948 that will include how many people voted, and who they voted for, in comparison with the population of the county.
The main reason I have for printing this information is that there is no doubt that it will prove quite alarming. After all, the national average of eligible voters who cast a ballot in 1948 was only 51 per cent. This amazing figure compares to 95 per cent in Australia, 83 per cent in Great Britain, 80 per cent in Sweden, 75 per cent in West Germany, 74 per cent in Canada and 72 per cent in Israel.
Today two young men came into the store and asked our permission to post a sign urging everyone to register and naming the various places of registration. Everybody is campaigning to urge every eligible voter to go to the polls. These men are offering their services without pay. "What party do you represent?" I asked.
"It so happens that we are Democrats," one said, "but in this job we are non-partisan. We are not urging people to vote for any particular party or candidate, but we are simply asking them to register—and vote."
Radio, television and the press are carrying the message constantly. The campaign is so intense that it almost reminds one of a soap commercial. Tomorrow is the time to register, or check your registration to be sure that you are registered in the right place. Yes, the books will be open later (October 25), but that's no reason to put the job off.
Local enthusiasm is mounting in the campaign itself. One day last week a man came into the store with two shiny photographs. One showed a plus mule, a Hoover car, a wash tub and scrub board. The other showed a fine country home with a beautiful yard. Displayed on the yard and in the driveway were a late model car and truck, a new tractor, a refrigerator, and a washing machine. The man said, pointing to the first picture, "This is what I had in 1932," and (pointing to the second) "this is what I have now."
The man's point was well made. Mainly, it showed his enthusiasm about the campaign, which will rub off on others. Everybody should be excited about the campaign, whether they are for Ike or Adlai.
And I thank you.

By LYNN NISBET
CONCENTRATION—Rep. Carl Durham was just out of the hospital and his doctor would not allow him to attend the Democratic district rally at Burlington. It was the first of the current series of district meetings which was not attended by the resident congressman and candidate. That does not mean the sixth district lacked official representation. More "big shots" in State Government live in the sixth district than in all rest of the state combined. It would have been easily possible to have an official government or a Democratic party strategy meeting at Burlington without using any of the visitors'—homefolks.
OFFICIALS—There was Governor Kerr Scott of Alamance and Governor-nominee William B. Umstead of Durham. Three members of the Council of State hail from Guilford county—Henry L. Bridges, state auditor; Charles F. Carroll, superintendent of public instruction, and Forrest H. Shuford, commissioner of labor. There also was Eugene Shaw of Guilford, appointed commissioner of revenue. Conrad M. Williams of Alamance, director of purchase and contract, and E. Z. Jones of Alamance, director of civil defense. Furthermore, State Chairman Eve, et. Jordan, master of ceremonies was doing business on only 100 miles of road but in his home county. (Not present in the sixth district were Davis S. ## What Other Papers Are Thinking the passage of a garnishment law, are many "on time" buyers who have adopted an irresponsible attitude toward the payment of their debts to merchants, doctors, and other creditors. Some will pay up pretty well until they have established their credit and then after running up large bills, leave the creditor holding the bag. Small grocers and other retailers often find their businesses almost wrecked by this type of credit customer.

Nevertheless, the garnishment approach to this problem of the merchants seems ill-advised. In effect a law allowing creditors to attach the pay of workers to satisfy unpaid accounts would make the courts a collecting agency and invoke the power of government to help in the transaction of private business. It would also work a hardship upon some worthy creditors who had run behind in their accounts because of illness in the family or some other misfortune.
Merchants have recourse to various methods of protection against bad account customers under existing State laws. They can obtain court judgment against debtors. They can also report bad credit risks to the credit bureaus of their local associations, refuse credit to those who have been tardy in settling bills, set credit limitations, operate on a cash sale basis, and so on. The exercise of shrewd judgment in handling credit customers and sales doubtless could cut down the losses of some merchants.
A garnishment law for the benefit of private creditors therefore seems as unnecessary as it is dubious. We have traveled far since the day when under-old English law debtors could be sent to prison for failure to pay their debts. It would be unwise for North Carolina to make even a short step back in that direction through

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER
If the courts sustain the Federal Trade Commission in one pending case, many manufacturers will have to close or sell their branch distributorships and retail outlets or do without the advantages of laws permitting them to fix retail prices. They have another alternative: they can try to persuade Congress to amend the Sherman Anti-trust Act.
The pending matter is a complaint against the Eastman Kodak Co. The complaint alleges that Eastman is wrongfully setting retail prices because Eastman owns a few retail stores. While the Miller-Tydings Act and the McGuire amendment permits manufacturers to fix retail prices of trade-marked products in the interest of fair trade, the Sherman Act prohibits manufacturers getting together with other manufacturers, or retailers with other retailers, to fix prices. Hence, the FTC holds, Eastman as a retailer is getting together with other retailers.
Eastman has sharply challenged the complaint. A hearing will be held and if the FTC's decision is against Eastman, it is certain that the matter will be appealed, probably all the way to the Supreme Court.
It may be noted that the FTC usually makes up its mind before it issues complaints. Commissioner Lowell B. Mason has already started to warn other companies to expect similar action. He told a recent meeting in the appliance industry:
"The Miller-Tydings Law says you as a manufacturer can protect the integrity of your brand by telling a distributor or retailer at what price he may sell it. But the Sherman Act says no two retailers or two distributors, or two manufacturers may get together to set a price. Vertical agreement is allowed, but not horizontal agreement. Those manufacturers who retain retail stores are then covered by the law which says as retailers they are agreeing on a price."
Quite a few manufacturers maintain retail stores. A "captive" outlet has many uses. A manufacturer can test new products in it, he can offer premiums and advertising campaigns. He can use such a store to get first-hand knowledge of retailer problems and to give salesmen and executives an opportunity to experience retailing.
Whether FTC objections could be met by moving such stores to Missouri, Texas, Vermont or the District of Columbia—where fair-trade laws do not apply—is a question for lawyers.
RETAILERS' CARRYING LIGHTER INVENTORIES
Retailers entered September with inventories almost two billion dollars lower than a year ago, according to Commerce Department reports. The department put the total at $16,767,000,000 compared with $18,715,000,000 in 1951.
Wholesalers' inventories were also down $3,284,000,000 compared with $9,987,000,000. But manufacturers' inventories were up, $42,510,000,000 compared with $4,283,000,000.
GIFT SHOPPING CUTS
INTO BOSSES' TIME
A number of surveys have shown that the giving of Christmas presents by corporations has been increasing every recent year. Total outlays are variously estimated, but most guesses range up to half a billion dollars.
High taxes, notably the excess profits tax, make gifts relatively inexpensive when there is a probable business purpose behind them. But an uncalculated cost is the lost time of executives who get involved in shopping. Wrapping and even delivering gifts.
Because of this, an increasing number of companies are turning those chores over to department, gift, leather goods, jewelry and liquor stores. They simply turn over their lists of names and amounts accompanied, of course, by check.

With a record crop of 49,000,000 turkeys expected this year, the National Turkey Federation is intensifying its campaign to increase the sale of the birds. Currently, it is trying to swell purchases for storing in freezers and food lockers. To this end, it is publishing a guide for retailers and offering stores colorful banners to increase sales for home storage.

Hal Boyle's Column

By SAUL PATT (For Hal Boyle)
NEW YORK (AP)—There are dreams a man never outgrows. I can't explain mine. I don't even recommend them. But, anyway, I've always wanted:
To jump into a cab and tell the driver, "Follow that cab! There's a five-spot for you if you don't lose him!"
To be paged in the grand salon of the Queen Elizabeth.
To appear inscrutable when the Chase National Bank asks me for a loan.
To pound a table and tell my wife (or anyone), "This is the way I want it! And this is the way it's going to be!"
To stand at the big table at Monte Carlo and, while the beautiful duchess gasps, calmly announce, "Let the million ride."
To tell my boss, "Charlie, I want you to be the first to know. I've just acquired the controlling interest. You're now working for me."
To awake in the morning and not take the 8-15 train to New York but, instead, grab flight 742 to Paris.
To be pulled gently to the center of the stage by an adoring, grateful leading lady while the audience shouts, "Author Author."
To answer, when asked by an over-solicitous matter d'hotel if I enjoyed the dinner, "No."
To pull the emergency cord on the "Flying Scotsman" as it races across the Firth of Forth or the Forth of Firth or wherever it is they have the high bridge Hitchcock uses in his movies.
To order wine as though I knew what I was talking about.
To ask for, between tightly drawn lips, "Sutures, scalpel, sponges."
To tell the C.O., "If the general will kindly button his lip, I'll explain."
To order dinner without looking at the right side of the menu.
To shout into a phone, "Stop the presses! Tear up the front page while I dictate this story."
To ask an irate traffic cop, "Are you speaking to me or looking for an appointment?"
To wear an opera cape and ride the Orient Express with Greta Garbo and tell her as gently as possible, "Yes, my dear, I'm afraid I have been everywhere and seen too much."
To tell the landlord, "Paint this apartment within 24 hours or I'll move."
To laugh directly in the face of a political candidate who says, "I don't care how you vote. The important thing is to vote."
To tell the waiter, "Send this man with my compliments to that beautiful dancer who is the lady in the corner, who obviously lost her jewels in Sofia, had her heart broken in Cairo and now faces life completely alone in a strange, new world."
To instruct the salesman at Cartier's as he wraps up the Jonker diamond, "Just tell her it came from an admiring friend."

TOUGH COP

By JOHN ROEBURT

Chapter 18

The overstuffed chairs were deep and roomy, and the wall hangings mirrored the American sports world. The large painter's easel against a wall was an odd and anomalous note.

Lippy turned away from Devereaux, and began to apply paint to a canvas in process as if oblivious of the detective.

Devereaux studied the canvas watching Lippy's rapid method with a palette knife. The scene was the back yard of a slum dwelling. It was inelegant, crude, primitive, but the colors were bold and it had a curious force.

"You paint like you fought Lippy."

"Then I'm a champ."

The side of Lippy's face that was partly paralyzed was in Devereaux's view. It was odd hearing speech while watching a cheek that was virtually dead to movement. Devereaux moved to the other side of Latimer.

"Get a bang out of it, huh?" the detective said.

"Doctor's idea," said Lippy. "I paint to forget I've got half a face. Okay?" Lippy applied a thick flame red to B.V.D.'s hanging on a clothesline. "Now get down to it, or scram."

Devereaux suppressed an emotion, and stuck his hands in his pockets. "Tell me about Martin Phillips."

"He eats in my joint."

"Nothing else?"

"Period. He eats in my joint."

"Then tell me about Frederick J. Castle."

"He's a friend of Phillips."

"Was."

"You don't say."

"No special interest in Castle?"

Devereaux held himself rigid. "You went to bat for Castle big."

"Pearl had no business stooging for you. Not in my joint."

"Even if I asked her to?"

"I'm running a business, not a stationhouse."

Devereaux lit a cigarette and watched Lippy mix a muddy gray color on his palette. He paced the room thoughtfully, scanned a row of books set between his only bookends on Lippy's desk, then selected one. It was a thick paper-covered book titled The Book of Champions.

Devereaux read the alphabetical index in the back, and found "Latimer." He was aware of Lippy's brief, backward glance as he turned to page 113 and lingered over the opening lines of Lippy's ring history.

LATIMER, THOMAS (LIPPY): Born San Francisco, Cal., March 15, 1905. Middleweight, World Champion, 1929, 30, 31. Lifetime record: Won 26, Lost 2. No Decision, 4. K.O. 18. K.O. by 1.

The data below were a chronological listing of the date, place, opponent, and the outcome of Lippy's thirty-two ring battles. Devereaux read through it, then referred to comparative biographic accounts of other fighters. Soon he placed the book face down on the desk and inquired casually, "Ever go to school, Lippy?"

Lippy put his paint materials down and turned to Devereaux.

"That meant to be a crack?"

"Sketch of your career just says you were born."

"What about it?"

"And your father and mother."

Devereaux continued mildly. "No plug for them, no mention."

"So?"

"Take this sketch right ahead of yours." Devereaux picked the book up and read:

HERMAN, WINCENT (KID): Born Butte, Mont., Sept. 16, 1902. To Emil Herman and Sarah Curtis. Schools, St. Mary Parochial, Seattle Business College Middleweight Contender, 1923-28. Lifetime Record: Won 44, Lost 10. No Decision 2. K.O. 16. K.O. by 5.

Devereaux looked up. "See what I mean?"

"You talk like a press agent."

"Like a detective."

"Will you scram outa here!" Lippy shouted.

"Question too tough for you?" Devereaux persisted.

Lippy stared. "Is this a joke?"

"No."

"You want the story of my life?" The bewilderment in Lippy's face seemed genuine.

"In effect, yes. Where you come from, what schools; who are your people?"

"Why don't you go to the newspapers? They got enough on me to keep you reading for year."

"Later. But I want your version first."

"And if I throw you outa here on your ear?" Devereaux's expression hardened.

"Then I'll make arrangements to sweat you downtown."

"And this has to do with what?"

"Murder. Castle and an ex-con named Longo."

"Now, who's Longo?"

"Some other time. First, your story."

Lippy glowered balefully while his mobile cheek worked fitfully. "You must be smelling the stuff!" He clenched and unclenched his fists. "You break a guy's hands out there, then come in here to get my goat."

"Your story, Lippy."

"Okay," Lippy finally said, recovering control. "Your round." His jaw jutted forward. "But you'll hate yourself for picking a fight with me."

(To be continued)

Lippy shook his head and kept on painting.

"How about Pearl? You tore up her concession contract."

"She had it coming."

"For photographing Castle?"

"Without being asked."

"But why should you care?"

Lippy drew in boards on the fence. "My customers are entitled to any privacy they want."

"I still ask, why should you care?"

"Castle asked me to get the negative."

Devereaux regarded Lippy's profile solemnly. "How did he know there was a negative?"

"She faked taking a picture of the table next to Castle's. When an hour passed and there was no delivery of the picture. Castle got suspicious."

Devereaux held himself rigid. "You went to bat for Castle big."

"Pearl had no business stooging for you. Not in my joint."

"Even if I asked her to?"

"I'm running a business, not a stationhouse."

NOTICE

Eureka Lumber Company vs. R. S. Pollard and wife, Lizzie Pollard, and J. T. Clark and wife, Geneva Clark

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

Notice is hereby given to the above named defendants, R. S. Pollard, Lizzie Pollard, J. T. Clark and Geneva Clark, and to any and all other persons, and especially to any who claim any interest in, any lien against or have any interest in that certain tract of land in Belvoir Township, Pitt County, North Carolina, on the east side of the highway leading from Belvoir to Conetoe, bounded by the lands of R. S. Pollard and wife, Lizzie Pollard, J. T. Clark and wife, Geneva Clark, and Eureka Lumber Company, known as the Hathaway land, and accurately described as Beginning at an iron stake in the eastern edge of the highway leading from Belvoir to Conetoe, corner between Eureka Lumber Company and J. T. Clark, and running thence along the Clark line, North 88 degrees and 45 minutes East 94 feet to an iron stake, North 8 degrees East 113 feet to an iron stake, South 82 degrees and 40 minutes East 915 feet to an iron stake; North 22 degrees and 20 minutes East 1634 feet to an iron stake and South 85 degrees and 14 minutes East 1062 feet to an iron stake, corner with Eureka Lumber Company and J. T. Clark and wife, Geneva Clark; thence along the line of the Eureka Lumber Company lands, South 5 degrees and 30 minutes West 1752 feet to a concrete monument; thence continuing with the line of the Eureka Lumber Company land, North 83 degrees and 15 minutes West 1864 feet to a concrete monument, South 10 degrees West 706 feet to a concrete monument and North 81 degrees West 473 feet to an iron stake in the eastern edge of the highway leading from Belvoir to Conetoe; thence along the eastern edge of said highway, North 5 degrees West 718 feet to the point of beginning, containing 60.50 acres of land and being a part of the same land which was conveyed to Eureka Lumber Company by Sam T. Carson, Commissioner, by deed dated 24th February, 1930, and recorded in the Public Registry of Pitt County in Book J-18 at p. 188 and known and designated as the "Hathaway land."

That an action entitled as above has been commenced in the Superior Court of Pitt County wherein the petitioner, Eureka Lumber Company, seeks to have an order entered by the Court declaring it to be the owner in fee simple of said lands and entitled to have said lands registered and a certificate of registration for same issued to it as provided in the Land Registration Act, and to that end has issued summons in said cause dated 20th day of August, 1952, and that the return date of said summons is sixty (60) days from the date of such summons and that the defendants herein named and any and all other person or persons, bodies politic or corporate, who or which claim to have or have any interest of any kind whatsoever in said lands are hereby notified that they should assert their claim and interest against and to said lands by appearing before the Clerk of the Superior Court of Pitt County at his office in Greenville, North Carolina, on or before the termination of sixty (60) days from the 20th day of August, 1952, and file within such time such pleadings as they deem necessary and that upon their failure to so appear and file pleadings by said time, the relief prayed for in the petition in this cause will be granted. This the 20th day of August, 1952.

Demos May Soon Be Heard Quoting Gen. MacArthur

WASHINGTON (UP)—Democratic strategists may soon begin quoting Gen. Douglas MacArthur to answer Dwight D. Eisenhower's charges of "bungling" in the Korean war.

Testimony which MacArthur gave last year before the Senate committee investigating his ouster as Far East commander is now under close study by Democrats. They believe it may give them valuable campaign ammunition to use against the GOP presidential nominee.

If MacArthur, through his past statements, can be "drafted" as an unwitting ally of the Democrats it will be a strange squaring of the political circle. There is no love lost between MacArthur and Eisenhower, who once served as his aide, but there is even less affection between the discharged general and the administration which fired him.

Here's how the Democrats hope to use one famous Republican general against another:

Eisenhower said recently that "first of all" the United States must prepare the South Koreans to defend their own front lines. "There is no sense in the United Nations, with America bearing the brunt of the thing, being constantly compelled to man those front lines," the nominee declared at Champaign, Ill.

He added that if there must be war in Asia, "let it be Asians against Asians, with our support on the side of freedom."

But according to MacArthur, this is much more easily said than done.

Last May, MacArthur was asked repeatedly by senators if it would not be possible to "relieve pressure" on American fighting men by training a larger Korean army. His answers were not encouraging.

"There is a large potential of manpower in South Korea; but to train it, and to supply it, is a matter of gravest difficulty," he said. Pressed further on the matter by Sen. Russell Long (D-La.), MacArthur declared that: "One of the main components of any army, of course, is the leadership, the officer corps. 'You cannot train a competent

Be Thankful That Halloweens Quieter

WASHINGTON (UP)—Halloween, which is nearly upon us, isn't what it used to be—and everybody can be thankful.

The kids still soap windows and go from house to house to beg for candy, apples, and popcorn in exchange or some childish stunt. But, by and large, youngsters are kept off the street and out of mischief.

In my day, we young'uns were terrors. We pushed over small buildings, tore the gates off picket fences, and otherwise made an evening out of destruction of property.

At this late date, it is safe, I hope, to confess that we once completely dismantled a wagon, and then reassembled it on top of a shed. I took the old fellow who owned it three weeks to figure how he was going to get it back to earth.

Another time we hauled a buggy (via a Model T ford) some 5 miles. I doubt that the owner ever found it. It wasn't right but we did it.

The late George Stimpson in his book, "Information Roundup," has a few paragraphs on the origin of Halloween.

He said that Halloween is merely the shortened form of "All Hallows' Even." It is celebrated on the evening before All Hallows' Day or All Saints Day.

"In 609 A. D.," Stimpson said, "Pope Boniface IV dedicated the Pantheon in Rome to the blessed Virgin and all the martyrs. In southern Europe Halloween apparently absorbed some of the customs formerly associated with the festival of Pomona, the Roman harvest feast. This probably accounts for the popular association of corn, apples, pumpkins, nuts, and other autumn products with Halloween."

To the people of yesteryear, witches, ghosts, gremlins, goblins and the like were regarded as stark realities. To them the approach of Halloween was a time for apprehension.

Robert Burns in his "Tam O' Shanter" tells of some of the old-time customs. One was putting two nuts in the hearth and naming them after lovers. If one of the nuts caught fire, and the other didn't, that was supposed to mean that one of the lovers could expect a fast brushoff.

If the nuts cracked or fell into the fire, it meant the couple would argue and separate. But if they burned brightly side by side, it meant that the couple would walk down the aisle within the year and from there on live happily.

Goblins, of course, were all part of the spirit world. They liked to play jokes on people, and this often led to vandalism. Police take a dark view of this performance these days.

Why man-made textiles?
Today's man-made textile fibers bring you thrilling new qualities for clothing and home furnishings

All of the fabrics that go into your clothing, blankets, and home furnishings are made of fibers. Whether plant, animal, or man-made, these fibers are chemical structures.

Through the years scientists have developed processes that increase the strength, beauty and durability of many of nature's fibers. They also have done much to overcome the effects of weather, insects, and disease that often make these materials scarce when they are most needed.

SCIENCE TO THE RESCUE—But scientists are restless—never satisfied. From new sources of supply, they sought to create fibers with special qualities. The result has been an exciting variety of textiles that meet our various needs better than they were ever met before. And the chemicals that go into the new ones come from such plentiful materials as coal, salt, gas—and even air.

DYNEL IS AN EXAMPLE—Nowhere have these achievements been better shown than in *dyne*l—Union Carbide's new fiber that's made of acrylonitrile and vinyl chloride, chemicals produced from natural gas.

Sturdy, yet soft and friendly to the touch, *dyne*l is now available to you in the form of blankets, underwear, socks and many other products that are mothproof and fire resistant. Also, they have shape retention, are easily washed, and are resistant to shrinkage.

UCC AND TEXTILE PROGRESS—*Dyne*l is the latest contribution to textile progress by the people of Union Carbide. More than 20 years ago their mass production of raw materials for acetate and rayon helped bring early man-made fabrics within the reach of all. And today a variety of UCC chemicals serve industry in the production and finishing of all forms of textile materials.

Jesus Demands Sincerity

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Matt. 6.

When you give to those in need, do it in secret, said Jesus, and thy Father which seeth in secret Himself shall reward thee openly.

When you pray, do so in secret, and not as the hypocrites do, standing in the synagogues or at street corners, to be heard of men.

Pray for strength to forgive those who trespass against you, said Christ, as you wish your Father in heaven to forgive your sins against Him.

Earthly treasures may be stolen or corroded, warned Jesus; but treasure laid up in heaven will be safe.

MEMORY VERSE—Matthew 6:21.

Jesus Demands Sincerity

CHRISTIANS MUST NOT BE HYPOCRITES IN WORD OR DEED, CHRIST TELLS US.

Scripture—Matthew 6.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

WE ARE now studying the middle part of the Sermon on the Mount, in which Jesus is concerned with our relationships to God in our relationships with men. If we are sincere in our desire to live really Christian lives, we do not parade our good deeds or our petitions to God before men, but to be seen or heard only of our Father in heaven.

pray ye"—giving us what we call the Lord's prayer. How many of us when we pray, even using Christ's own prayer, and whether we repeat prayers at night, morning or in church, really think what we are saying? How many "put their hearts" into their prayers?

The Golden Text

Prayer in secret.

"Where thy treasure is, there will thy heart be also."—Matthew 6:21.

MEMORY VERSE

"Where thy treasure is, there will thy heart be also."—Matthew 6:21.

the United Nations. (to name one organization), in many seldom mentioned ways, is helping the world to understanding and peace.

Jesus tells us to "take heed that ye do not your alms before men, to be seen of them; otherwise ye have no reward of your Father in heaven."

"Let not thy left hand know what thy right hand doeth," said Christ, "that thine alms may be in secret; and thy Father which seeth in secret Himself shall reward thee openly."

How does God reward us when we do kind and charitable acts? By the feeling inside us that we have done a good deed, and that He understands and approves.

When you pray, Jesus said, "enter into thy closet, and when thou hast shut thy door, pray to thy Father which is in secret; and thy Father which seeth in secret shall reward thee openly."

It is not the prayer given in public that is rebuked, but the prayer that is uttered by hypocrites who are trying to show their fellowmen how pious they are.

"But when ye pray, use not vain repetitions, for they (the heathen) think that they shall be heard for their much speaking."

After this manner therefore because thieves might steal them or "moth and rust" might corrupt.

"But lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where neither moth nor rust doth corrupt, and where thieves do not break through nor steal. For where your treasure is, there will your heart be also."

There is nothing wrong with wealth if it is honorably acquired and put to good uses, but to make a fetish of riches—to make the hoarding of them the principal object in life, and the loss of them a fatal blow, that is unchristian.

Taking His theme from nature, Jesus strove to allay the anxiety which assails most of us—where we shall live; what we shall eat; how we shall be clothed.

"Is not life more than meat, and the body more than raiment?" He asked.

Behold the fowls of the air, the lilies of the field, who are gloriously arrayed. "Are ye not much better than they?"

We must give some thought to these earthly wants, but we need not worry about them too much. The Lord will help us if we need, and will give us courage and strength to meet emergencies. He always does so.

"Seek ye first the kingdom of God, and His righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you."

SATURDAY'S GAMES

Solomon, the pride and joy of the Order of Coleoptera, came forth this sunny afternoon some eight hours earlier than his usual appearance and after a couple of laps around the desk top, cheerfully gave indication that he was ready to give out with this week's football predictions.

I frankly admit to being a bit skeptical of Solomon's enthusiasm. But nevertheless I hastened to produce some cake crumbs, and as a reward for last week's perfect predictions I added some cheese cracker tidbits.

After greedily consuming the last morsel of my delectable concoction he confidently proclaimed the following supernal views.

Carolina vs. Wake Forest
Taking the toughest one first, and it is especially tough because Carolina was forced to turn from rugged, bruising football to tag grid drills following a polo invasion of the school and team. The long layoff from hard-driving practices may have increased or decreased the potency of the Tar Heels' brand new split-T attack. The Deacons are just as tough to figure. They are lost to Baylor by a bare three point margin and should have won. Then they showed spots of brilliance in mowing down William and Mary, but no bright spots were showing in either Boston College or Villanova games.

The Tar Heels have about Marshall Newman at quarterback but he has yet to prove himself under a Saturday game strain, while Sonny George has featured alternately as hero and gag for the Deacs in every contest thus far.

The Texans proved Carolina's line vulnerable but all of Wake's opponents have scored. It's really a toss up but let's say Carolina 13-7.

Duke vs. State
This is easy. It's only a question how bad Coach Bill Murray will choose to beat the undermanned Wolfpack. Or if even the coach will tell his last string team to let up.

That might be pretty strong reasoning considering that these are the same two teams which have fought many a close battle when a fighting spirit took the place of a fresh platoon.

State is admittedly in the rebuilding stage, while Duke is loaded. Lopsided defeats at the mercy of George Washington and Georgia can hardly be salvaged by a Davidson victory. The Wolfpack would really assume a new role by putting up even a spirited try, Duke 47-7.

East Carolina vs. Western Carolina
West Carolina's 21-0 loss to Catawba wasn't what the score might indicate. Last quarter intercepted passes that result in touchdowns count six points the same as any but nevertheless they don't quite hold the significance of a 60 or 70 yard drive culminated by a six point TD.

East Carolina played Catawba to a 7-7 standstill and was lucky to get a tie score. But that was BC (Before Cherry), whose passes could make possible a successful Pirate voyage the rest of the season.

The Pirates have got as good a line as anybody in the North State Conference. References to the Leinor Rhyme, Catawba and Elon games will bear this out. Let's vote for an inspired Pirate offense, say uhuhh 26-6.

Catawba vs. Appalachian
Tough one. Should be a thriller. Teams shape up as about even. Winner will probably be the team that is best prepared mentally. Harold Carter and Bill Klutz have been improving the Indians' offensive punch every week. The Apps still have Jack Groce and Shirley Gabriel so we will dismiss this case with a 14-13 Catawba stab.

Elon vs. Little Creek
Don't know what Little Creek has got but Elon has a pretty fair ball team. Elon should win.

Other Games
George Washington vs. VPI
Florida vs. Vanderbilt
Georgia Tech vs. Auburn
Washington & Lee vs. West Va.
Baylor vs. Texas Tech
TCU vs. Texas Aggies
Pitt vs. Army
Boston U. vs. William & Mary
Maryland vs. Navy
Princeton vs. Lafayette
Wisconsin vs. Iowa
Illinois vs. Minnesota
Kentucky vs. Mississippi State
California vs. Santa Clara
Stanford vs. UCLA

Willie Hoppe Racks Cue Stick To Retire

By TIM CANTY
CHICAGO (UP)—White-haired Willie Hoppe racked his billiard cue for the last time today and closed out an era.

Hoppe, 65-year-old "Boy Wonder" of billiards, retired from championship competition after a reign of 46 years, easily the longest span one individual so completely dominated a sport.

During his near half-century career, Hoppe won 51 world championships, the most recent the 1952 three cushion crown he captured from an international field in San Francisco last March.

Hoppe said he would continue to play exhibitions and to give instructions in the sport.

His father taught Hoppe the fundamentals of the game when he was three years old. The elder Hoppe built Willie a platform from an old box and cut down a standard cue.

After five years of constant practice, Hoppe went on tour with his 10-year-old brother and was called the "Boy Wonder." He beat all comers and was hailed as a "wizard."

At 18, he won his first world championship in Paris, Jan. 15, 1906, from Maurice Vignaux. In this match Hoppe set a world record average of 20.83 points per round in winning a 500 to 33 victory.

The distinguished-looking Hoppe ran out of backline competition after winning 19 world crowns at 18.1 backline billiards and 15 world titles at 18.2.

Hoppe continued his domination when he switched to three-cushion billiards. He won his first three-cushion title in 1936 and piled up 12 championships, winning consecutive crowns from 1940 through 1944 and 1947 through 1952.

Hoppe said at his retirement festivities that the "pressure was getting little too tough for me."

"I started to notice it last year," he said. "I was a little rougher than before and I figured I better quit when I was ahead."

Pirates Concentrating On Defense For WCTC Game

East Carolina Will Be Favored Over Invaders In Conference Tilt At The Stadium

The East Carolina College Pirates dummy scrimmaged again yesterday but changed their tactics in that they concentrated on defense all afternoon. The defenses which were reviewed are the ones which will be used tomorrow night when Western Carolina Teachers College invades College Stadium for a North State Conference game.

The session yesterday marked the fourth time this week the Pirates have held "no contact" workouts. The first three were aimed toward smoothing out the offensive maneuvers used by East Carolina but the situation was completely reversed yesterday.

The Pirates have been kept away from rough work all week in an effort to improve the general physical condition of the squad. There aren't any really serious injuries except those hampering Bobby Thomas, David Lee and Jack Benzie but the various and sundry minor injuries can create a serious situation by slowing down certain key players.

The Pirates aren't planning but one outstanding line-up change for tomorrow night. That change will be at left halfback where Illard Yarborough will replace Benzie who has been slowed down by an injured toe. Yarborough was listed as a starter for the first time this year when he got the nod last week against Elon. He is a 170-pounder from High Point and one of the hardest running halfbacks on the squad.

Western Carolina will bring a 0-2 conference record into tomorrow's contest. Their most recent defeat was last week when they got dumped 21-0 by Catawba. They have also lost to Appalachian. In non-conference play, they have lost to East Tennessee and to Carson-Newman.

The Pirates will be seeking to better a 1-1-1 North State Conference mark. The Bucs have defeated Elon, tied Catawba, and lost to Leinor-Rhyme's defending champions.

The game tomorrow night will be the last home game for East Carolina until November 15 when they close their schedule against West Virginia Tech. Tickets are still available at the college athletic office. All tickets not sold before game time will be available at the gates. Kickoff time is 8 o'clock.

Injuries, Illness Compel Phantoms To Slack Drills

Red, Gold Play To 7-7 Deadlock At Elm St. Park

Two long aerial plays that covered 30 golden yards each were key plays for both the Red and Gold teams yesterday as they fought to a 7-7 deadlock in a Little League contest at Elm Street Park.

The first time the Reds got their hands on the ball they marched to a touchdown, threatening to make a runaway ball game.

The Gold line paced by Billy James and Leonard Topping stiffened after the Reds' first goal and the game turned to a defensive war.

The Reds' touchdown was setup by a long heave from Quarterback Ralph Johnson that was good for 30 yards. Several plays later Mack Roebuck broke around right end and wheeled into end zone for the score. Johnson passed to Roebuck for the extra point putting the Reds ahead 7-0.

After the first quarter both teams battled defensively around midfield. Red linemen led by Butch Roberts, Lawrence Perkins and Joe Moyer stopped the Gold's running star John Ed Arnold cold.

The Gold got their first break of the game late in the final quarter and they capitalized on it to tie up the game.

Bob Bilbro took a 30 yard strike from Dick Evans to give the Gold's first and ten on the Red six. Three plays left the Gold still two yards short of the goal line but on the final try Evans rifled a pass to Bilbro in the end zone for the TD.

John Ed Arnold bulled across for the extra point to lock the score and that's the way the game ended. Both teams tried desperation passes in the waning seconds to no avail.

Red ..... 7 0 0 0-7
Gold ..... 0 0 0 0-7

AP Nominates EC Guard In Lineman Of The Week Poll

For his terrific defensive performance against the Elon Christians last week, George Tucker, 190-lb. East Carolina guard, was nominated in the Associated Press Lineman of the Week poll.

Rarely is a member of a small college team chosen in this poll that covers major college teams playing throughout the United States.

Tucker, a native of Monroe, N. C., spearheaded the Pirate line that last week hurled back six Elon scoring threats and reversed the tide of battle to a 25-9 ECC victory.

The rugged guard twice personally stopped Elon drives with key tackles within the 10-yard line.

Phants Go Thru Light Workouts

By WAYNE BISHOP
Even though they don't have a game until October 24, the Greenville Phantoms kept their attack sharp yesterday with one of their roughest practice sessions of the season.

The workout was capped by a short scrimmage but the rough work of the afternoon came early on punt and kickoff returns.

Individual assignments were worked on in drills conducted by Head Coach Bill Kittrell and assistants George Graybill and Frank Maenle.

Graybill and Maenle worked with the linemen on blocking assignments while Kittrell worked with the backs in an effort to improve timing. After the individual workouts, the groups got together for the work on punts and kickoffs.

The Phantoms will resume their regular practice schedule Monday. Their next game will be next Friday when they travel to New Bern to meet Coach Joe Caruso's high-flying Bears.

Phantom Statistics
Statistically speaking, the Phantoms hold a big edge over their first six opponents.

As a team, the Phantoms have out-rushed their opponents, 832 yards (net) to 725 yards (net). Greenville has a long 63-36 lead in first downs. The Phants have passed 78 times and completed 35 for a net gain of 447 yards while their opponents have tried 52 aerials and completed 20 for a net gain of 221 yards. In penalties, the Phantoms are the big loser with a total of 320 yards charged against them. GHS opponents have been penalized only 183 yards in their six games.

Individually, Bobby Perry holds the lead in both rushing and scoring. He has gained 422 yards on 84 rushes and has scored 43 points. James Speight is second in the rushing department with a total of 128 yards in 26 rushes while Guy Smith has 168 yards for 41 rushes.

Quarterback Pat Sawyer is the passing leader with 31 completions in 67 tries. His passes have gained 401 yards and four touchdowns.

Ray Robinson To Turn Entertainer

TODAY'S SPORT PARADE
By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (UP)—Ever since the days when he tap-danced for pennies as a youngster on the streets of Harlem, Sugar Ray Robinson has dreamed of being an entertainer.

That's why, with his fortune made and a lucrative night club contract in his pocket, they insist today along the concrete strand known as Jacobs Beach that the middleweight champion will never fight again.

There are other reasons, too. One of the biggest is that Sugar Ray admires himself as a fashion plate, and one not distorted by facial indignities which go with the pecuniary rewards of the ring. Not too long ago he went under the knife to remove scar tissue from his brows and acquire a nose unmarked by violent contact.

They say he'll receive $15,000 a week as a dancer and master of ceremonies. For, despite conception, Robinson is a dancer of remarkable professional talent who does not have to trade on his ring name—although it helps, naturally. He also has a rope skipping dance act which will draw high acclaim.

The one factor which keeps him from making a clean break with the ring at the moment is that Sugar Ray flinches from retiring as a loser. In his last start, Robinson collapsed from heat fatigue at the end of the 13th round against Joey Maxim. It was only his third loss in 137 fights, but it tells the tale of a declining fighter.

Yet, the more he remembers the unrelenting rigors of the training camp, the more unlikely it is that he will accept a title bout with Kid Gavilan in February. The fact remains that a Robinson going down hill could lose that one, too, as well as having his refurbished features slightly scrambled in the process.

Which seems to throw the race for the abandoned middleweight title wide open—and undoubtedly will bring Randy Turpin hustling back to the United States.

Much of the Turpin gloss was dulled when Robinson knocked out the Englishman. Yet, despite the rather general opinion on the sock market that he is only one of many candidates, he'll take a lot of whipping.

Gavilan has to be counted among the leading contenders. The most prevalent theory is that he couldn't break an egg with a full wind-up. Yet the Hawk goes right on throwing—and winning.

There are those who are high on Ernie Durando, the young pigeon fancier who can knock anybody's feathers loose with one shot. And there is support, too, for the aging firepower in Rocky Graziano's fists, and such other outside contenders as Paddy Young and Bob Olson.

Only two items seem fairly certain. One is that action in the middleweight division should pick up, because Robinson had the Indian sign on most of the boys.

The other is that Sugar Ray is finished. One more big gate, naturally, will be difficult to mull. But Robinson has money—an estimated personal bankroll of $750,000—as well as all his marbles. From now on, the dancing dynamiter will knock 'em out with his feet.

Tar Heel Wins Baseball Honors

NEW YORK (AP)—Enos (Country) Slaughter, veteran outfield star of the St. Louis Cardinals, was selected today as the player who made the greatest comeback of the 1952 baseball season.

The slugging country boy from North Carolina, generally regarded as one of the game's fiercest competitors, captured the Associated Press "Comeback-of-the-Year" award handsly, receiving 26 of the 61 votes cast by members of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

Thirteen other candidates were nominated but none proved any serious threat to the rollicking Redbird. Luke Easter of Cleveland came second with 11 votes.

It's easy to see why the experts voted for Slaughter, the original perpetual motion kid, who never walks when he can run to the nearest exit, or base.

The balding flycatcher was considered all washed up last April, after hitting a lowly 281 in 123 games in 1951. But he astounded the critics by not only participating in 140 contests but hitting at an even 300 clip. That was not all. The husky Carolinian, who will be 37 next April, batted in 101 runs and swatted 40 extra base hits including 11 home runs, 12 triples and 17 doubles.

NCCA Submits 4 TV Grid Plans

CHICAGO (UP)—Asa Buchnell, television director for the National Collegiate Athletic Association, said today his committee was studying four plans in an attempt to adjust college football to exist with television.

The television committee, meeting with the NCAA council, has reached no recommendations for future long-range policies on grid television, Buchnell said. He said the video plan in effect this fall "is working out well."

The council ended its fall session Thursday.

One of the proposals being considered by the committee would provide for distribution of television receipts to all members.

Buchnell said the committee was not near agreement on any of the proposals. He did not reveal the nature of the other three plans.

Under the distribution plan, Buchnell said any assessment on video receipts would take "only a portion" of the amount paid for television rights.

Buchnell said football might be destroyed unless a long-range plan under NCAA control was worked out. He said that with the arrival of subscription television, where set owners could pay to see specific events, the "rewards" would be so vast the game would be imperiled without NCAA action.

Converted Carolinian

WHITEY LOCKMAN

When the N. Y. Giants made outfielder Whitey Lockman their first baseman, they made a real discovery. Whitey protects that first sack like it's rarely being protected before.

A couple of winters ago, this converted outfielder was converted to "Prestone" anti-freeze for his car. "I've never had surer, safer protection against winter weather," says Whitey. "I just put it in shortly after the baseball season ends and forget about it till spring training." Yes, one shot of "Prestone" anti-freeze lasts all winter. No boil-off, no freeze-up, no failure. No other anti-freeze gives your car the same complete protection. Be sure to ask for "Prestone" brand anti-freeze by name!

Slips Of The Lip Turn Up In Every Campaign

By WARREN DUFFEE
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—Call them fluffs, boners, bloopers, or whatever. But they crop up in every campaign—those slips of the lip and memory lapses.

They may be momentarily embarrassing to the candidate involved, but usually they result in more humor than damage.

Many remember the incident in 1940 when the late Wendell Willkie referred to St. Paul as its arch-rival neighbor, "Minneapolis." And how he once warmly endorsed a local candidate but used the wrong first name.

Something like that has happened to almost every national candidate. This year is no exception.

During the early days of Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson's campaign, a western crowd that had never seen him and wasn't sure what he looked like cheered the wrong man, campaign manager Wilson Wyatt, who stepped off the plane ahead of the Democratic presidential nominee.

One introductory speaker at a Republican rally recently referred to GOP presidential nominee Dwight D. Eisenhower, who was not there, as "General Ike D. Eisenhower."

Sen. Richard M. Nixon, Eisenhower's running mate, has run into plenty of "fluffs" by introductory speakers and has pulled a few himself.

One local orator presented Nixon's wife, Pat, to the crowd and then introduced Nixon as "Sen. Pat Nixon."

In Salt Lake City recently, Mrs. Ivy Baker Priest, the Utah GOP national committeewoman, presented Mrs. Nixon to a big crowd and a statewide radio and TV audience as "the next wife of the vice president."

Sen. Arthur V. Watkins (R-Utah), followed Mrs. Priest and observed that "everybody seems to be a little excited." He proved it promptly presenting Nixon as "Sen. Richard M. Dixon."

Stevenson drew snickers from baseball fans when he reportedly told strong-armed Allie Reynolds, star World Series pitcher of the New York Yankees, "I wish I could hit like you do."

And one local GOP politician in the South used two minutes of expensive local TV time telling the crowd about how close he was to his old friend "Nick Dixon."

The busy schedules of the campaigners keep also contribute to occasional slips.

On his recent swing through New Jersey, local Republicans at one town gave Nixon a new doghouse for his cocker spaniel, "Checkers." The GOP vice presidential nominee thanked the crowd profusely, and said: "We've been given just about everything for the dog except a bone, and I guess we'll get that at the next stop up the road—at Somerville."

That would have been alright, except he was already in Somerville. The next stop was Morristown.

Perhaps the most embarrassed of all was the Midwest Democrat who nervously presided over a nationally televised party rally. He introduced the speaker as "the next president of the United States . . ." There was a long agonizing pause while he groped for the name. Then he finally blurted out — "Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson."

Seek Homecoming Queen Title At Atlantic Christian College

Bethel Student Wins Top Grade As Midshipman

CHAPEL HILL — Midshipman William D. Smith, of Bethel, member of the University of North Carolina's NROTC unit, received the highest grade assigned for "aptitude" among 127 UNC naval reserve midshipmen participating in the summer practice cruises. It was announced today by Captain J.S. Keating, USN, professor of naval science and commander of the unit.

Midshipman Smith was assigned to the USS Pittsburgh, and visited ports in the Caribbean during a four-week training period.

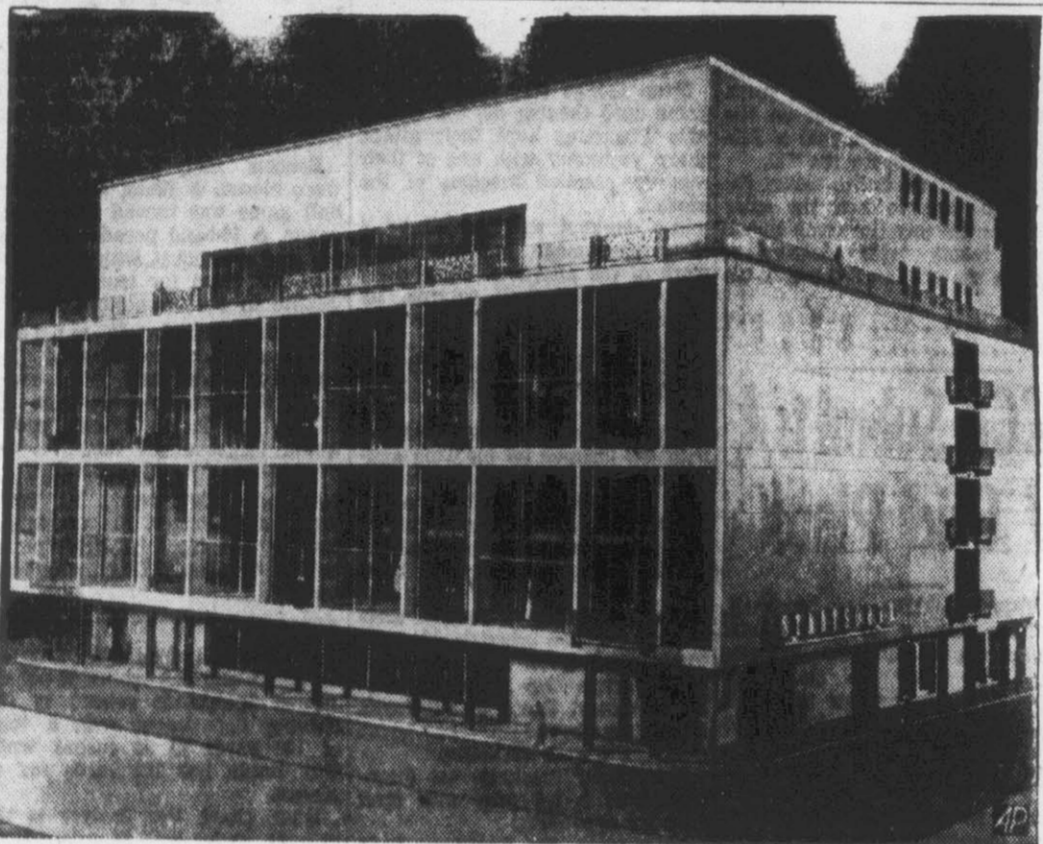

"Aptitude" marks for midshipmen reflect the degree to which any particular midshipman possesses the officer-like qualities required in a future naval officer, Captain Keating explained.

Smith is a senior in the University and a candidate for a commission as ensign, USNR, next June.

Patient-Nurse Talk Is Easier With New Unit

NEW YORK (AP)—A British hospital has come up with an instrument which enables the patient to talk direct to the nurse in her staff duty room. The British Information Service reports here that the system has been installed in the Catherine de Barnes Maternity Hospital, Salford, Manchester.

In the staff duty room is a loud-speaker master unit which has indicator lights corresponding to the exact position of the hospital beds. Each bed has a speaker-microphone unit small enough to go under the pillow without causing discomfort. When the patient presses a button a low tone is heard indicating that the call note has been transmitted to the office. Simultaneously the appropriate light-glow on the master unit panel. A single key switch enables the nurse to talk to the patient.

Embarrassed By His Wife's Book

SCARSDALE, N. Y. (UP)—Dr. Emanuel J. Barkins has written the American Medical Association that he wants to "get off the book" over a book his wife has written.

The book, "Are These Our Doctors?" is "an expose and debunkment of the medical profession."

Firemen Target Of Three Women

AURORA, Colo. (AP)—It doesn't pay to throw rocks at firemen. A woman in this Denver suburb and her two grown daughters were fined a total of $450 for hurling rocks and epithets at firemen called to a weed fire in a vacant lot next to their house.

Fire Chief George Moorehead said he ordered his men to let the fire burn itself out to get rid of the weeds, and that the women's house was in no danger.

More than 99 per cent of the earth's air lies below 20 miles above sea level.

Hotels Improve Guest Facilities

NEW YORK (AP)—A national survey of hotels reveals that the average hotel is spending time, effort and money to brighten up guest facilities.

The hotels, which average 523 guest rooms, will spend an average of $17,500 for guest-room improvements, including carpeting, draperies, furniture, beds, bedding and air-conditioning.

Air-conditioning is a major modernization factor, especially in construction of wings or additions, says the Ahrens Publishing Co., trade journal of the hotel industry who made the survey.

Stocks And Market Reports

NEW YORK (UP)—Prices rose fractions to more than a point early today on increased volume. The upsurge was an extension of yesterday's recovery movement which got underway in the last hour of dealings after the market slumped sharply.

All departments joined in the advance with the high-priced oil equities and railroad shares leading the way. A few pivots in these groups registered substantial gains.

Volume also picked up on the upswing and sales in the first hour were the largest since Sept. 24. They totaled 310,000 shares, compared with 290,000 in the same period yesterday.

Amerada Petroleum was the leader in the high-priced oil section. It jumped 3/4 points to 193 1/2. Texas Pacific Land Trust at 135 was up 3 points. Deep Rock Oil at 44 was up 2 1/2 points.

Santa Fe was the bellwether in the carriers with a gain of 2 points to 96. Rock Island and Southern Railway registered gains of more than a point each.

Striking out at corporations, Griffin asserted that General Motors made more money after taxes last year than any corporation has made in the history of business in the United States. "And yet, that is an organization that is working hardest to put Republicans back in power," he said.

The speaker came out strongly against Republican presidential candidate Dwight Eisenhower for calling the Korean conflict the "Truman War" and being excessively critical of Democratic Foreign Policy.

General Eisenhower

"Since 1942," Griffin said, "Eisenhower has been identified with our foreign policy; it was so until eight weeks before he came home to campaign for the Republican nomination for president." He stated that Eisenhower suggested building up weaker countries and a larger expenditure for national abroad under the Marshall Plan.

Although he is now critical of spending abroad, the speaker declared, no one man is more responsible for expenditures for national defense both at home and abroad than Dwight Eisenhower, who advocated it.

In closing, Griffin compared the capabilities of Adlai Stevenson to those of Eisenhower and asked the group, "Do we want a trained soldier to shape the destiny of this great country, or do we want a man thoroughly trained in civil government?"

Plans To Attend Richmond Meet

Firemen Answer, But Unneeded

Burning sparks from a soot-clogged chimney brought Greenville firemen on the run last night, but they soon discovered they were not needed.

The call came in around 8:20 last night and firemen hurried to the home of Viola Jones, located on Ford Street, when a passerby observed burning sparks fall from a chimney and the top rooms lit up by a red glow.

It turned out the glow was coming from oil lamps, and none of the sparks were endangering the house.

Monday's program will include addresses by the following: Charles W. Williams, vice-president of the Reserve Bank, Richmond; Charles J. Martin, manager of Credit Bureau Reports, New York; and Henry C. Alexander, Credit Manager, Belk's Stores, Charlotte.

Frances Auger, manager of Credit Bureau of Orlando, Fla., will make an address Monday night at a banquet to be held in the Virginia Room of the John Marshall Hotel.

Tuesday's program will include panels on merchants associations, credit bureau work, and public relations. A conference summary will be given by Dr. Rex Winslow of the University of North Carolina.

Companies for Failure to Protect

Companies for failure to protect investments of people who had put up money to finance the service operations. Chairman Stanley Winborne without apparent consciousness that he was answering criticism pretty well summed up the commission attitude in opening statements at the hearing on the Burlington bus situation the other day. "The main duty of this commission," he said, "is to assure adequate service to the people of the community. The history of this commission will show that we have been always desirous of protecting the investment of those who act in good faith." Inescapable inference was the chairman felt that in the instant case the summary suspension of bus service without approval of the utilities commission and without regard to the convenience and needs of the public, put the transit company outside the bracket of "acting in good faith."

WISECRACKS — Overlooked in a previous listing of wisecracks heard on the Democratic campaign caravan's itinerary was one by W.S. Patterson, Alexander county chairman. Patterson said a wise old man once told him: "If you want to be seen, stand up; if you want to be heard, speak up; but if you want to be appreciated, sit down and shut up."

Last Rites Saturday For Norman W. Clark

Mr. Norman W. Clark, 75, died at his home, 107 West 13th Street, in Greenville at 10:05 o'clock Thursday morning following a heart attack.

Funeral services will be conducted at the Epworth Methodist Church near Vanceboro at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon by the Rev. Leon Russell, pastor of the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church, assisted by the Rev. Alton Hill, Methodist minister of Vanceboro, and burial will be in the church cemetery. The body will remain at the S. G. Wilkerson & Sons Funeral Home and will be carried to the church one hour prior to time of service. Members of the Ayden Masonic Lodge, No. 498, A.F.&A.M., will have charge of the services at the grave.

Mr. Clark was born and reared in Pitt County in the Clay Root community. He spent most of his married life in the Epworth community and had lived in Greenville for the past eight years. He was a farmer. He was a member of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church and the Ayden Masonic Lodge, No. 498, A.F.&A.M.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. John A. (Happy) Clark of Greenville; and Roland G. Clark of War, West Va.; two daughters, Mrs. Minnie Mae Milham of the home and Mrs. James E. Collins Jr. of Greenville; seven grandchildren; a great grandchild; a brother, Osborne Clark of Norfolk, Va.; and two sisters, Mrs. Winnie Tyson of Ayden and Mrs. Minnie Lilly of Bladenboro, N. C.

Welcoming Committee Seated

Seated on the platform with the speaker as a welcoming committee were "Kay" Stokes and Uran Cox, precinct chairmen of Chocod No. 2 and Greenville No. 7, John G. Clark of Greenville, chairman of the Pitt County Democrat Executive Committee; and Gilbert Peele of Greenville, vice-chairman and treasurer of the county committee.

Also present were Ruel W. Tyson of Greenville, sheriff of Pitt County; W. I. Bissette of Grifton, precinct chairman of Grifton box; and Henry Oglesby of Grifton, secretary to Congressman Herbert Bonner.

On behalf of his father "Kay" Stokes, young Bobby Stokes delivered the address of welcome to the group. Following the meeting those attending gathered in the yard around a "Hoover cart" drawn by a "depression" mule.

Team Gets Prize In Leaf-Grading

A Pitt County tobacco grading team walked away with third place in the state-wide tobacco grading contest held at the State Fair in Raleigh yesterday.

Composed of Jay Barrington and Earl Hardee of the Grimesland 4-H Club, and Don Manning of the Greenville 4-H Club, the team was in competition with 31 other teams from five-cured tobacco producing counties throughout the state.

The three local youths were trained for the contest by Sam Weeks, Pitt County tobacco specialist, and Harry Coffman, local government tobacco grader.

Third place in the contest carried a cash prize of $25, and Weeks said this morning he is very well pleased with the showing made by the three Pitt County boys at the state contest.

Judge Addresses College Classes

Judge William T. Hatch of Raleigh discussed "The Trial Court at Work" before members of government classes in the department of social studies at East Carolina College Wednesday of this week.

His lecture was the first in a series of talks by various speakers before classes taught by Dr. Kathleen Stokes of the department of social studies at East Carolina. Topics will center attention largely on problems of local government.

Judge Hatch presided in Greenville this week at the widely publicized trial in Pitt County Superior Court of Fred Porcell and Herman Soole, young Marines sentenced to life imprisonment for the murder of Policeman Jesse E. Mills.

Other speakers already scheduled to appear before East Carolina government classes include Joseph E. Waldrop of Greenville, who will discuss "City Manager Government"; Mrs. Robert Lee Humber of Greenville, a native of France, who will talk on "Local Government in France"; and David J. Wilchard III, managing editor of the Greenville Daily Reflector, whose topic will be "The Newspaper and Public Opinion." Additional lectures are being arranged by Dr. Stokes.

'Itch' Is Out Of Navy Underwear

NEW YORK (UP)—The navy's got the "itch" out of its winter underwear.

Cmdr. H.R. Fahlbusch, clothing supply officer, announced today that the new cotton knit longies will be issued to navy personnel for the first time this winter. Within two years every man will have peeled off his scratchy woollens for good.

The cotton is warmer than wool because of its honeycomb weave, Fahlbusch said. It costs about the same but will last twice as long. And it doesn't scratch.

A high-altitude balloon released in New Mexico traveled 7,000 miles and landed in Norway 48 hours later.
