

New Airport Enabling Act Written

When Enacted By General Assembly, Will Permit Four-County Air Center

A prepared enabling act providing for the establishment of an Eastern Carolina Airport Authority has just been completed by W. W. Speight, Greenville attorney and member of the authority.

When enacted by the General Assembly, the act will enable the counties of Pitt, Nash, Edgecombe and Wilson, together with the cities of Greenville, Rocky Mount, Tarboro and Weldon, to jointly establish an airport authority and also to own, maintain and operate an airport.

Speight and attorney W. H. Watson of Greenville drew the enabling act after their appointment as local representatives to the airport authority. Purpose of the authority is to establish with the help of Federal funds an airport to serve the four-county area.

Proportionate Cost
The cost of the project is to be shared equally by the four participating counties, and in proportion to population by the four participating cities. Each county bears 12-and-one-half percent of the total cost. Cities share are: Greenville, 11 percent; Rocky Mount, 18 percent; Tarboro, six percent; and Weldon, 15 percent.

Under the present situation, the governing body of the authority is made up of representatives from each county and city, and a majority of the governing body shall control its decisions. Each member of the authority, including the chairman, shall have one vote, and in the event of a tie the chairman shall cast the deciding vote in addition to his regular one.

Members of the governing body of the authority who are not full time officials or full time members of either of the municipalities or counties shall be paid a per diem of $10 for each day served in attending meetings of the authority. They shall also be reimbursed for travel expenses at the rate of five cents per mile when personally owned automobiles are used.

Officers Elected
At the first meeting of the authority, and annually thereafter, provision has been made for electing from its members a chairman, a treasurer — who shall be bonded — and a secretary. The chairman shall designate time and place of the governing body shall take an oath of office to faithfully perform their duties.

In completing the enabling act Speight and Watson, both of whom are members of the authority from Pitt County and Greenville, brought to a close for the time being negotiations that have been in progress for several months. The proposed airport is to be centrally located from the four cities.

The exact cost of the project is not known at present but it is provided it will be built with the aid of Federal funds. However, there has been no statement made relative to what portion of the overall expense the government will bear.

Details of the proposed construction are far from complete, but reports thus far from local representatives have been favorable to the project.

Byrnes Extends His Tour For Ike

COLUMBIA, S. C. (UP) — Gov. James F. Byrnes has added a Tampa appearance to his Oct. 29 Florida trip in behalf of Republican presidential nominee Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Byrnes will fly to Tampa to address a luncheon rally of Citizens for Eisenhower there, and then will go to Jacksonville for an evening appearance before a Duval County Eisenhower rally. The Jacksonville speech has been announced earlier.

The addition of Tampa to Byrnes' itinerary brings to four the number of Eisenhower speeches he has planned.

Building-Supply Firm Briefly Endangered By Morning Blaze

Fire, which for a time threatened to sweep the entire Dunn Building and Supply Company on Memorial Avenue early this morning, was brought under control with only damage to the boiler room.

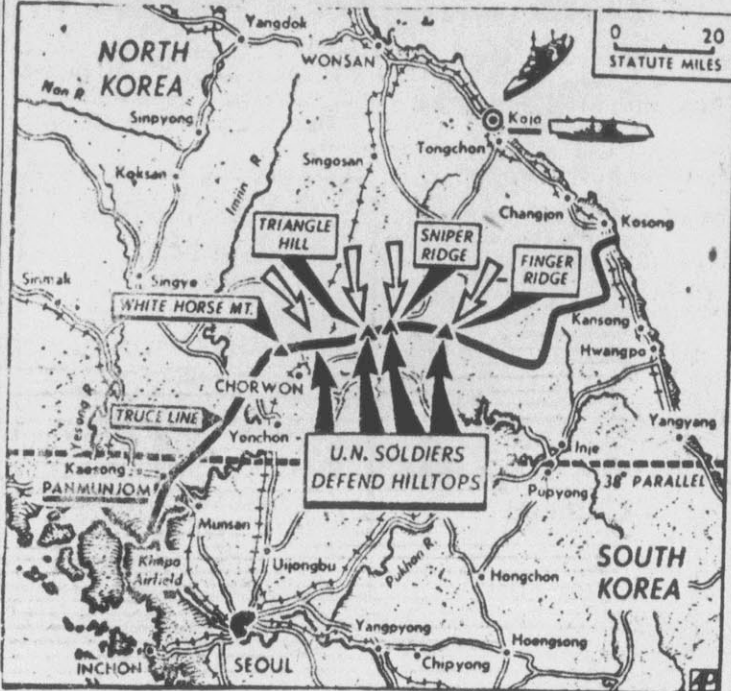

First discovery of the blaze was made by the company's night watchman just before five o'clock.

When fire fighting equipment arrived on the scene flames had covered the entire wooden and tin boiler room.

Firemen used booster lines to check the spread of the flames to the rest of the plant, while hose lines were stretched in from a hydrant nearly one-quarter of a mile away.

Over 1,000 Feet of Hose
More than one thousand feet of hose had to be laid in order to furnish water for the one hose line used in fighting the blaze.

Attack And Counter Attack

The map pinpoints principal hills along the Korean front where Allied troops were defending hard-won peaks against determined Red assaults. American machine gunners atop Triangle Hill mowed down waves of attacking Chinese Reds, while South Koreans twice retook nearby Sniper Ridge in bloody close-quarter fighting. Other action flared at an outpost hill northeast of Chonwon and at Finger Ridge on the east-central front. Allies added variety to the action with a huge mock invasion at Kojok, south of the big Red port of Wonsan. Battleships and carriers (symbols) sent shells and planes shoreward and feinted with troop landing barges. (AP Wirephoto Map).

Censures Truman, Praises Marshall

Ike Notes Truman Vote Against Lifting Poll Tax, Praises Old Commander And Reminds He Alone Makes His Decisions

NEW YORK (UP) — Dwight D. Eisenhower halted his high-speed speaking campaign today to regroup his Republican forces for an election finale against the Democrats.

The GOP presidential candidate wound up this week's campaigning Friday night with a speech at Newark, N.J., where he censured President Truman for voting against lifting of the poll tax in 1942, called for revision of the McCarran immigration law, and for the second straight night praised Gen. George C. Marshall, his World War II commander.

He later made a brief speech in Jersey City, N.J., and then returned to his Morristown Heights home here for a two-day rest and to work on speeches for the two weeks stretch remaining in his effort to capture the presidency.

Eisenhower's speech to a crowd of more than 3,500 in Newark's Mosque Theater capped a gruelling day in Delaware and New Jersey where he also sought to counter Democratic claims that he is under the influence of Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-O).

He said he always made it a practice to listen to advice from members of all political parties and then added:

"But let me be quite clear as to my personal responsibility for my ultimate decisions. Those decisions have been and will be mine alone."

Eisenhower accused the Democrats of "cruel duplicity" on the civil rights issue and denounced Mr. Truman for claiming "to be the only friend our Negro citizens have."

Referring to Mr. Truman's advocacy of a compulsory federal fair employment practices law, Eisenhower asked:

"Would a true friend advocate an all-or-nothing basis measure to improve race relations that were so extreme as to be certain of uncompromising opposition?"

He said that the President, then a senator from Missouri, had an "opportunity to act in behalf of a basic principle of human rights" by voting to lift the poll tax when it was an issue before the Senate in 1942.

"What did he do — this man who is now the head of the party in power?" Eisenhower asked. "He voted against lifting the poll tax restriction even for members of the armed services then fighting for his country in the war?"

The long distance of the hydrant from the fire delayed firemen in bringing water to bear on the highly inflammable building, but local fire fighters were praised for their prompt work in spite of this handicap.

The only hydrant on Memorial Avenue, where two large tobacco auction houses, a lumber mill and equipment company is located, is near the North Carolina Equipment company.

Three trucks from the local station were called to the fire but only two were put into service.

When firemen first arrived, the fire was not making too rapid a headway, which possibly was a large factor in the saving of the plant.

Boiler Room Gutted
The boiler room was gutted, but no damage resulted to the main boilers, with the exception of a

Freight Thief Is Loser Of 'Race' Went To Great Lengths To Conceal His True Identity

A wild foot race through a pea patch last night netted pursuing officers a Negro freight car thief who has been notably absent from the local scene since last June.

The man arrested, William Andrew Joyner, had gone to great lengths to prevent capture, deputies said, because he had changed his name and Social Security number and when captured attempted to chew up his identification card.

The Negro was going under the alias of Perkins when arrested, and had been sought by local authorities for the robbery of a freight car in June. It was reported that Joyner fled the state after the robbery, but he could not resist a return to his old haunts.

At the time of the robbery a railroad detective from Norfolk, Va., came to Greenville to work on the case, but retired when it was learned that the "bird had flown" to New York. Missing from

New Drawing By Da Vinci Found

LONDON (UP) — The British Museum announced today discovery of an important drawing by Leonardo da Vinci, previously unknown to art appraisers.

The drawing shows a horseman — presumably Saint George — fighting a dragon. It was found in an 18th Century album which is believed to have belonged to David Garrick. The drawing's detail is almost the same as a form in the back of the unfinished panel of Da Vinci's "Adoration of the Magi" in the Uffizi Gallery in Florence, the museum said.

Schoolboys Help Find Wreckage Of Plane

BRENTWOOD, Eng. (UP) — When a Royal Air Force plane searching for another plane which had crashed in flames failed to find the wreckage, 22 schoolboys playing soccer in a nearby field formed into a 120-yard arrow pointing toward the crash scene. The search plane immediately located the wreck.

Front-line reports said 3,000 Reds in complete disregard of heavy losses, swarmed in human waves over concrete and barbed wire outer defense positions into the city itself, 90 miles northwest of Hanoi.

The invaders overwhelmed the 600-man French and Viet Namee garrison in bloody street fighting, these reports said. French casualties were not determined at once, however, because communication with the retreating garrison was cut off after the fall of the city.

Recollections of the latest design supported the Communist's suit.

Plan Opposition To Higher Phone Rate Proposals

Local Representatives Attend Wilson Meeting To Outline Fight

WILSON Representatives from Greenville and nearby towns met with Wilson officials yesterday to discuss ways of opposing Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company's recent proposal for an increase in rates.

The meeting was called by the City of Wilson and the Wilson Chamber of Commerce for other city officials and chamber of commerce officials to discuss the proposed rate increase.

At the meeting, the appointment of a committee was authorized in which the committee will determine the availability of rate experts and their costs to investigate the company's need for increasing rates.

Another meeting will be called in the near future to determine what other steps might be made in opposing the rate increase.

Oliver Rand, city attorney of Wilson, outlined suggestions of opposing the increase in rates by the Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company.

The company has requested a hearing before the North Carolina Utilities Commission to ask for rate increases, which will be the company's sixth since World War II. No date has been set for the hearing as yet.

Towns represented at the meeting in Wilson yesterday were Wilson, Greenville, New Bern, Kinston, Washington, Farmville, and Fayetteville.

Those attending from Greenville were R. B. Lee, city attorney, W. T. Kyzer, manager of the Greenville Chamber of Commerce, and N. O. Van Nortwick, Jr., and Kenneth Phillips, chairman and member of the local chamber's transportation and communication committee.

Sen. Byrd Not For Stevenson

WASHINGTON (UP) — Sen. Harry F. Byrd, at the cost of a tongue-lashing by Vice President Albert W. Barkley, left Virginia's 12 electoral votes open to capture by the Republicans today.

The Virginia Democrat broke his long political silence Friday night to tell his constituents that he "will not and cannot" endorse Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson because the Democratic presidential nominee promises only more "Trumanism."

Barkley heard Byrd's announcement over a statewide radio network. Then, flushed with anger, he tore into the senator in a speech delivered in a Washington suburb by Arlington, Va. The 76-year-old vice president not refer to Byrd by name, but left no doubt as to the object of his ire.

Byrd did not announce he would vote for GOP nominee Dwight D. Eisenhower, but he said fairly he could not endorse nor recommend support for the Democratic slate of Stevenson and Sen. John J. Spillane.

His statement was an open invitation to Virginia Democrats to cross party lines and vote Republican this fall. Byrd is generally regarded as the top political power in the state, although the state's Democratic party is divided this year with Gov. John S. Battle and Sen. A. Willis Robert supporting the Stevenson-Sparkman ticket.

Byrd put it bluntly when he told his constituents that every Virginian is free to vote "the dictates of his own conscience" regardless of party label.

Indo-China Reds Capture City In New Offensive

HANOI, Indo-China (UP) — Communist Viet Minh rebels captured N'Ghai, gateway to the Red River valley leading to this northern capital today, in heavy street fighting.

Front-line reports said 3,000 Reds in complete disregard of heavy losses, swarmed in human waves over concrete and barbed wire outer defense positions into the city itself, 90 miles northwest of Hanoi.

The invaders overwhelmed the 600-man French and Viet Namee garrison in bloody street fighting, these reports said. French casualties were not determined at once, however, because communication with the retreating garrison was cut off after the fall of the city.

Bonner Speaks At Stokes Rally

Hopes Pitt Will Record Even Higher Vote Than In Primary

STOKES Rep. Herbert C. Bonner was the featured speaker at a Democratic rally of Stokes precinct voters held at the high school last night.

The First District congressman recounted in his short address the benefits the people of North Carolina and Pitt County have derived from five successive Democrat administrations.

Bonner remarked on the vote in Pitt County during the May Primary Elections, and expressed the hope that an even higher percentage of voters turn out for the General Elections in November.

L. R. Whitchard of Stokes, Democratic chairman of the precinct, said this morning the attendance was comparatively small but all who were present are key workers in the party's organization.

Also present for the meeting were John C. Clark, chairman of The Pitt County Democratic Executive Committee, and Gilbert Pease, vice-chairman and treasurer of the county committee.

Last night's gathering was one of a series of such meetings slated to be held all over the county.

Hope Is Raised Some Airmen On B-29 'Rescued'

WASHINGTON (UP) — A Japanese lighthouse keeper and several fishermen saw a Russian patrol boat race toward the area where an American B-29 Superfort bomber disappeared Oct. 7 after Soviet fighters shot at it, U. S. officials reported today.

These reports from Tokyo prompted official hope the bomber's eight-man crew is alive — even if the airmen are being held in a Soviet prison in the Kurile or Habonai Islands off Northern Japan, where the plane went down.

In a sharply-worded note delivered to the Kremlin Friday, the United States condemned the Soviets for the "wanton and the unjustifiable attack" on the American bomber. This government demanded indemnity for the plane and the lives of any of its crew who may have perished. It warned the Soviets of the "grave consequences" that could follow such attacks on U. S. Air Force planes.

Eva's Jewels To Be In A Museum

BUENOS AIRES (UP) — Eva Peron's jewel collection, estimated to be worth $6,000,000, will be placed in a museum, President Juan D. Peron announced last night.

The jewel collection will be used as collateral for workers' housing loans, he said. Royalties from the late first lady's book "The Meaning of My Life" and from her unfinished work "My Message" — to be published soon — will be used to finance an "Eva Foundation."

State Fair Near End; Attendance Records Broken

RALEIGH (UP) — The 85th annual North Carolina State Fair was scheduled to close tonight after a day which saw all attendance records broken.

Sgt. R. S. Harris, highway patrol traffic director, said the flood of more than 500 buses bringing school children from all over the state pushed the attendance to "more than 150,000" persons yesterday.

The various agricultural exhibits were scheduled to close at 4 p. m. In some of yesterday's contests, the State College Agriculture Club took the blue ribbon in the student fair contest with a display featuring the development of agricultural machinery.

Strike Looms

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Wage Stabilization Board today slashed a new wage boost for 375,000 soft coal miners, making an industry-wide strike almost certain on Monday.

Public and industry members voted to knock off 40 cents of the $1.90 a day wage boost negotiated last month between John L. Lewis and soft coal industry leaders.

The action was expected to lead to a full-scale walkout next Monday. Nearly all mines are closed over the week-end, and a strike would not be felt until the first shift Monday morning.

Report Stalin Is Well And Healthy

BERLIN (UP) — Soviet Premier Josef Stalin is "well and healthy," leaders of the communist East German government said today on returning from the 19th Soviet Communist party congress in Moscow.

The seven-man delegation was led by Premier Wilhelm Pieck and included Deputy Premier Walter Ulbricht, who had been reported by a Bremen newspaper as killed in a train wreck.

Local People And Handling Of Porcelli-Socie Trial Are Lauded

Two citizens of Jersey City, N. J. who came to Greenville to observe proceedings in the murder trial of Fred Porcelli, returned home with high praise of "fair treatment" afforded the defendant in Pitt Superior Court.

The two observers, Thomas Luciano and Frank Marino, were sent to Pitt County by Rev. Walter P. Artoli, pastor of Mount Carmel Roman Catholic Church, who collected funds for Porcelli's defense. Porcelli is a parishioner of that church.

Funds Raised
Luciano and Marino came to North Carolina with funds to provide a defense for the confessed murderer, and obtained the services of Cameron Weeks of Tarboro in that respect. T. K. Fountain of Greenville was appointed by the court on Porcelli's behalf.

The Hudson Dispatch of Union City, N. J. had this to say about Luciano's statement regarding the trial in Pitt County, North Carolina: "Luciano on his return to Jersey City yesterday had nothing but the highest praise for the fine and fair treatment accorded Porcelli, both before and during the trial."

"We expected to find when we got there that a confession had been forced from Freddie," Luciano said. "He added that nothing was further from the truth."

Last Of Chinese Communists Forced Back After Bloody Five-Hour Battle And Hand-To-Hand Fight; Sabres Bag Two MIGs In Scrap Over Northwest Korea

SEOUL, Korea (UP) — American infantrymen battered Chinese Communists from their last holdout on towering Triangle Mountain in a bloody central front battle today as Allied Sabre jets knocked down two Communist planes in air battles over northwest Korea.

The double-barreled land and air victories gave U. N. forces one of their best days in a week. U. S. footsoldiers ran the Reds off Pike's Peak, last of four disputed heights on the central front mountain, in a flaming five-hour battle.

The Reds had poured in heavy artillery fire but Allied troops beat the die-hard Communists back in fierce hand-to-hand fighting.

The two Russian-built MIGs were destroyed in separate air battles over northwest Korea and gave American pilots their first destruction claim in five days.

The MIGs were bagged in dog fights between two Sabres and three MIGs and two Sabres and eight MIGs.

Gen. John R. Hodge, commander of all U. S. ground forces, watched the battle on Pike's Peak.

The four-star general, on a tour of military units in Korea, stood at a frontline observation post as the Americans won complete control of bitterly-contested Triangle.

However, reconnaissance planes reported long lines of Chinese reinforcements and supplies moving up for new assaults on the mountain and adjacent Sniper Ridge, a mile and a half to the east.

The Reds already have lost 19,700 dead and wounded—about six Communist regiments—during the past 11 days of fighting on Triangle, Sniper Ridge and White Horse Mountain.

Weather Runs Hot And Cold Over Country

By UNITED PRESS
Some Americans sweltered in temperatures up to 98 degrees while others shivered when the thermometer dropped to two above. Still others bemoaned the lack of rain.

Some 500,000 residents of Dallas, Tex., today faced the predicament of water rationing imposed by the city council.

The council, noting that a drought was now in its fourth year, warned that the water supply in the city reservoir would last only four months if it does not rain.

Residents, faced with fines of $50 to $200 for wasting water once, with the possibility of a water cutoff for a second offense, can no longer water their lawns, wash their cars or use water in fountains, swimming pools, golf courses or for any other recreational facility.

Meanwhile, Minnesota residents were promised relief from a cold snap today though forecasters promised below normal temperatures for the next five days.

Bemidji, Minn., was the coldest spot in the country Friday with a two degree reading. In Yuma, Ariz., it was a sunny 98.

A cold air mass settled into central and southern plains States and eastward into the lower Great Lakes region into Western New York state. But New York residents were promised temperatures of 60 to 65 degrees with fair weather predicted for today and tonight.

Chapter 18

"Talk, Lippy."

"Prisco. Like the book says, I was born in Frisco. The date's a phony. It's a phony because I don't know my real birthdate."

"Who brought you up?"

"I brought myself up. There was a rummy named Cameron I used to rush the growler for when I was five. I called him uncle, until he skipped out one day. Then there was a skinny old lady called Mrs. Teague. I was in a big parade behind a hearse when I was ten. After that, I worked for a man named Schmidt who ran a saloon and hated kids. I remember sweeping up, peeling spuds in a kitchen, scrubbing kitchen pots and sleeping on a hard floor. I began to ship from Frisco to Honolulu and back as cabin boy on those big liners. Next thing I knew I was eighteen, racking 'em up in a Seattle poolroom." Lippy paused, then said gloomily, "Now, will you scream."

"What schools did you attend?"

Lippy pucker his brow. "Public school whatchamacallit. To remember the number I'd have to be Einstein. There was a teacher who kept sending me home to wash up and get the lice out of my hair. There was a teacher who claimed I swiped the Ingersoll watch she kept on her desk. There was a transient officer who beamed me with a milk bottle when I beat him over a fence." Lippy shrugged. "What I remember most is concentrating on how to steal the other kids' lunch."

He looked hard at Devereaux. "Okay, I told you."

"How'd you break into the fight game?"

"That Seattle poolroom job I got when I was eighteen. Big hang-out, with a dice room, gym, and a prize ring in the rear. Pugs used to work out there, give ambitious kids pointers. I picked up enough technique to come back and buck for a club booking."

"Right away?"

Lippy shook his head. "Didn't get a chance to box pro for four years. Drove a truck, stevedored while waiting for my chance. Finally got my start in the amateurs 'The Golden Gloves.' Lippy concluded irritably, "The rest you know, unless you're deaf, dumb, and blind."

The detective looked at Latimer curiously. Remembered pain, buried but not erased with time, was etched in the ex-pugilist's homespun face. Lippy looked orphaned, lost, as if by looking behind him he had been stripped of his successes.

"You got what you wanted," Lippy said harshly. "Now what's hanging around for?"

"What he wanted? Devereaux picked at Lippy's tale thoughtfully. Item, item, item, blank, blank, blank, a great nebulous void. A world's middleweight champion has leaped from a gigantic, uncharted, undated, nameless emptiness into a nation's consciousness. "I didn't get a thing from your story," Devereaux said.

Lippy scowled and laid nothing. "Not a thing," Devereaux repeated, with his eyes intent on Lippy's face. "Nothing that acquires you in my suspicions."

"You're talking riddles."

"I can't pin you anywhere to your past before you came to public notice as a fighter."

After a hostile pause, Devereaux said quietly, "Set people and places you knew as a kid went up in smoke long ago. Bet that poolroom in Seattle doesn't exist any more."

Lippy nodded. "The building was torn down. There's a public playground there now." The ex-pugilist's face darkened. "What're you driving at?"

"An amazing coincidence. Castle, Phillips, and now you."

"What about us?"

"No early background I can pin any of you to," Devereaux smiled faintly. "It gets frustrating for a detective. Starts him imagining things."

"Imagining what?" Latimer demanded wrathfully.

"That maybe three men lack a past because there's something hidden in that past. Some skeleton they each hold a claim check to."

"You're nuts."

"Maybe," Devereaux agreed. "Maybe my imagination is running away. But you were three men in a huddle a few nights ago. And you did go to bat for Castle way beyond the call of duty." The detective's voice sharpened. "A mysteriously murdered push-

Lippy turned slowly, as if drawn by the unwanted softness in Devereaux's tone, and stared at the detective. Devereaux continued earnestly, "I hate crooks. Maybe because I fought like a wildcat against becoming one all the time I started as a kid." Devereaux paused. "You know my record, and you know that I don't make propositions. But if my guess about you is right, I'm asking you to come out from under. Line up on my side."

Lippy shook his head vaguely. His eyes were now elsewhere, and he seemed preoccupied with something far away and remote. Devereaux said, "I'll help you, befriend you as far as the law allows."

Lippy said huskily, "You're crazy with hop."

"I'd hate to see you get killed," Lippy's eyes bulged, and he seemed to quiver. Finally he said in a weary, automatic sort of way, "Beat it. Go peddle your hop somewhere else."

AD LIB COOKING

MUNFORD, Tenn. (UP)—A vivacious high school co-ed who used a "dump of this and a dump of that" to win Tipton county's bread-maker crown, says it's a shame the way some housewives are slaves to the measuring cup. "I just dump things in and start stirring and when it looks right—I always know," Mary Boma explained.

In producing 264 million tons of coal since 1806, Missouri has used up about 1 per cent of her reserves.

LIGHTHOUSES OF THE LORD

More than 2000 years ago men began building lighthouses to warn seamen of rocky shoals and reefs, and to guide them to shore and safety.

Today within our U. S. A. and its possessions upward of 2000 lighthouses, shore, and harbor warning-lights beckon nightly across the waters to guide travelers safely.

Within the same U. S. A. are nearly 300,000 churches—lighthouses of the Lord. Yet right now it has been reported that 25 million young people and children and 15 million adults are unaware of the Church and its ability to help them live righteously and serenely in these perilous times.

Is someone you know floundering in worldly darkness? Is someone you know desperately in need of the Church's guidance? To expose a life wantonly to physical danger is foolish, but to expose a soul needlessly to spiritual disease and death—this is utter tragedy.

Let the light of the Church—be you and your friends.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Job Opportunity with DU PONT

We are now interviewing applicants for jobs in the "Dacron" Manufacturing Division at the new plant near Kinston.

The Street Department's grading machine doesn't have many "days off," and is kept pretty much in use. The big blade it uses has to be replaced about every thirty days. About a dozen of these blades are bought at one time. Those tires, incidentally, cost $150 each, and are closely watched for signs of undue wear, cuts and rubbings. Above, Lester Carawan guides the machine as it smooths an area.

This big street sweeper swings into action every night at about midnight. The mechanic who watches over it is Zeb Harris, who Beatty says can do everything to it from tightening a stray bolt to disassembling its Diesel engine. The brush bristles have to be replaced each week, and the brushes are put together by the Street Department, saving the city no small sum of money. (Reflector Photos by Roy Hardee).

A City's Streets Are 'Big Business'

By CHESTER WALSH
Reflector Staff Writer

Unheralded and seldom considered except in times of complaint or petition, the Greenville Street Department has become "big business" since its inception in the early 1900s.

In those days the Chief of Police was also responsible for the "Street Department's" duties.

Then, several thousand dollars a year sufficed to cover the needs of the town's elementary (comparatively) budgeting system and planning. Today, it spends $110,600 annually in the never-ending work of meeting the requirements of an expanding city's street needs.

In 1916 the only street paving in Greenville was of brick, and it extended from Third and Evans Streets to Five Points, thence to the railroad tracks.

It's Big Business!

Who bears the responsibility for this work?

How much money do they have to handle?

How many miles of streets do they maintain?

What other duties do they have besides street building and maintenance?

The answer to each question, today, is, "a lot." But it wasn't always so.

The Street Department is responsible for the construction and maintenance of all storm drainage and maintenance of paved and improved streets and the two cemeteries. Then there's the matter of trash and garbage collection and disposal.

Maintenance of sanitary sewers, and their construction, is left up to the Utilities Commission, which pays for the work out of its own receipts.

Miles Of Streets

City Engineer Henry L. Rivers says there are 26½ miles of paving laid in Greenville. There is an additional 17½ miles of gravel-type paving and 16 miles of unpaved, or dirt streets in the city. The engineer estimated the cost of constructing this paving, curbing and gutters at between $500,000 and $750,000.

Materials Involved

The engineer said the average city block, 27 feet wide, will require 900 tons of asphalt. This amount will spread out about three inches thick. As a general thing, it costs between $800 and $900 to lay it after grading. A square yard of asphalt, three inches thick, weighs about three hundred pounds, Rivers explained.

The city lets contracts with paving companies for laying pavements and curbing and gutters. The Street Department makes minor repairs and buys limited quantities of asphalt from a paving firm.

Powell Bill Funds

Rivers pointed out that with the rapid growth of the city there is a constant demand for additional paving and sewers and general facilities. He also reminded that the city at this time cannot issue bonds for paving while the increasing demand for additional school facilities confronts the Board of Aldermen.

"The Powell Bill passed by the General Assembly is a life-saver; especially to the smaller towns and cities," the engineer stated. Powell Bill funds in 1951 provided for the opening of 4.4 miles of additional streets in Greenville, he explained. The city's allotment that year was $49,000.

This year, Greenville received $55,000 under the Powell Bill as a result of increased population. Allotments to cities and towns are made on the basis of population and miles of paved streets.)

Paving Petitions

The first step toward paving in the city is to obtain signed petitions from abutting property owners; they are then presented to the Street Committee of the Aldermanic Board and, if or when finally approved, a contract with a paving company is reached.

Ordinarily, then, the property owners pay for two thirds of the work, and the city pays one third.

So while the process is started on the property-owners' level, the first city officials to pass on the work are members of the Street Committee.

Chairman of the group is Robert L. Smith; other members are Aldermen Heber B. Tripp and George Pugh. The Mayor keeps in close contact with the work of the committee.

City Clerk Herman Duncan says the city has numerous petitions for curbing, gutters and paving. He does not know how many, but declared that since the city has no money at this time for such work in certain areas, some property owners are volunteering to pay all the costs of curb and gutters.

The city budget for the current fiscal year allots $110,500 to the Street Department. Fifteen thousand dollars of this is for the purchase of new equipment, a sweeper, trucks, etc.

Work Lined Up

Contracts have been let for considerable amount of paving. First Street, east from Green Street is to be paved three blocks to Cotanche Street. This project also provides for paving one block on Washington, one on Evans and one on Cotanche Street. In addition, Second Street, from Cotanche up the hill to Summit Street, will be paved; and the paving is to continue one block to Jarvis Street.

The Clark Construction Company of Greenville has started laying curbs and gutters along First Street, from the river bridge to Cotanche Street, abutting streets a block southward, and along Cotanche Street to Second and eastward on Second to Jarvis.

The White Construction Co. of Kinston has the contract for doing the asphalt paving on these streets, Street Superintendent C.K. Beatty stated.

The Greenville Utilities Commission, in preparation for these paving projects, has installed sanitary sewers, water and gas lines on these streets, and the city has provided for storm drainage. Reade Street has been graded, preparatory to paving it from Third to Fourth Street, near the High School.

It is understood that when First Street is paved eastward from Green Street, it will permit motor vehicles to make a left turn at that intersection from the Tar River bridge, and facilitate movement of vehicular traffic.

Construction of curbing and gutters on these streets has been started, and with favorable weather the thoroughfares will be ready or laying asphalt in about a week.

Personal Tour

Street Superintendent C.K. Beatty accompanied Reflector staff members to a project on West Rock Spring Drive to further explain details of the department's work.

He pointed to the big grading machine, smoothing a section of street on West Rock Spring Drive, and informed the reporters that the machine's blade had to be replaced about every thirty days after pushing piles of sand, clay and gravel.

Beatty, who has had many years' experience in serving the city of Greenville, recalled that several of the Street Department's crew are veterans of nearly a third of a century in their service. Among them are: George Myers, William Kearney and Reuben Edwards.

Reminiscing over the events of the last several years in the Street Department, Beatty expressed his mission for cooperation in all of the involved projects.

Particularly, he pointed to the early installation of sanitary water and gas facilities along streets scheduled to be paved.

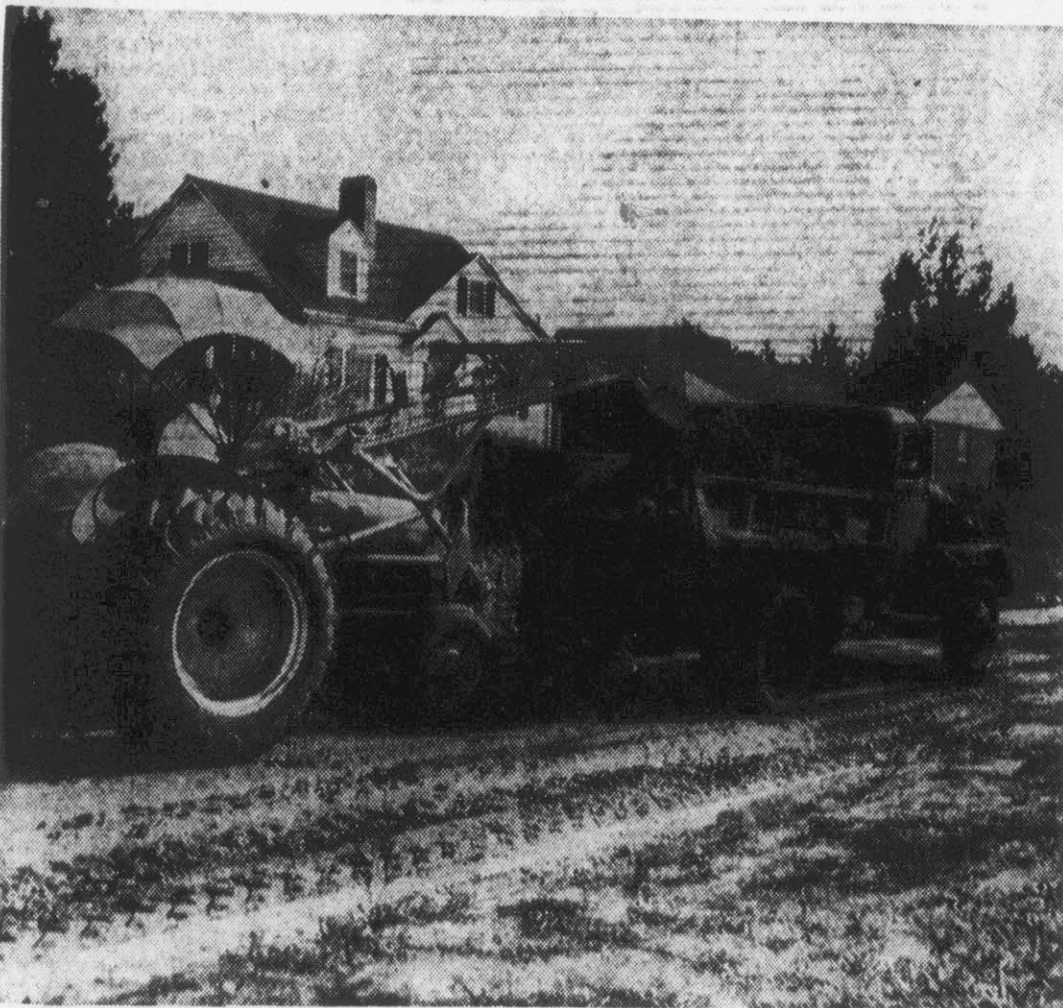

Other Responsibilities

The collection of garbage and trash starts in the business districts each night at ten o'clock. The motor street sweeper and sprinkler roll into action at about midnight, after the heavy traffic has subsided, Beatty stated.

"This is one of the reasons why the city passed an ordinance making it unlawful to leave a parked car on the street after midnight," he explained.

Collection of garbage in residential districts is made three times each week, and an auxiliary service is kept available on short notice. Smoke from burning trash at the city dump is seldom noticeable in residential districts as prevailing winds are depended upon to disperse the fumes away from those areas.

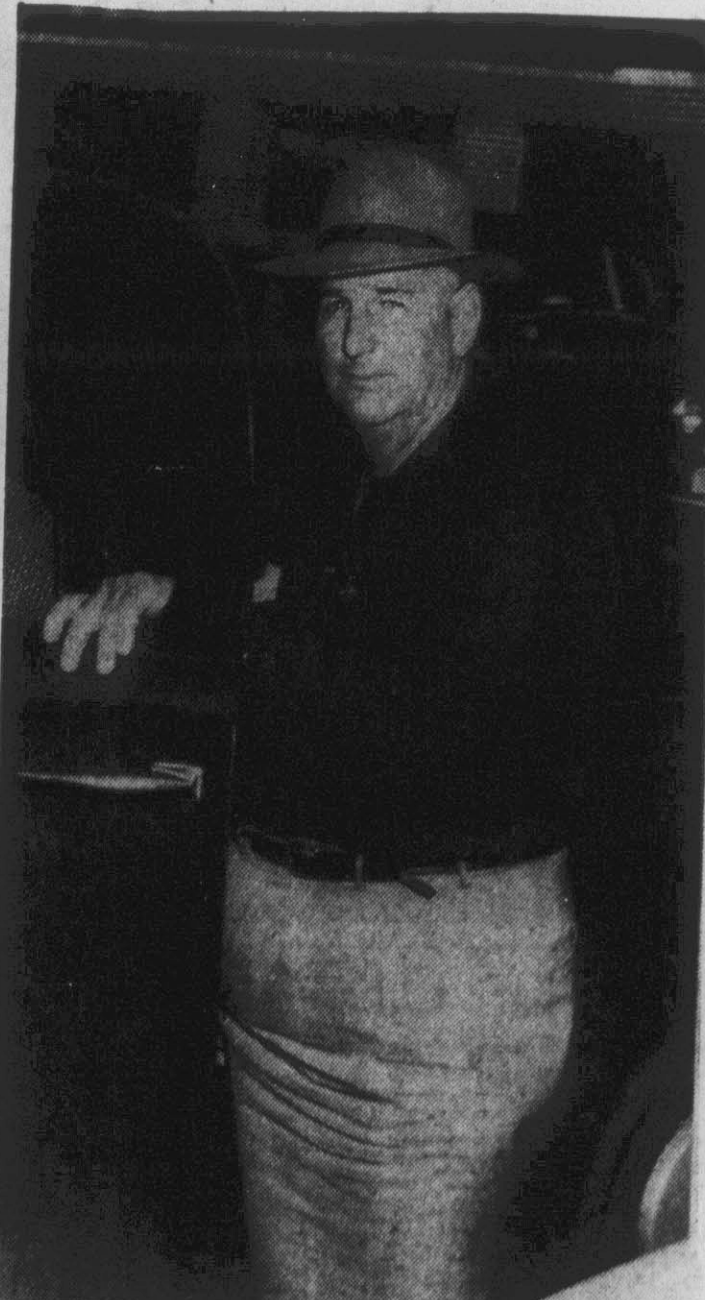

Prospects of a municipal incinerator were dim in Beatty's opinion. He reminded that the cost is high, and said "we are handling our trash and garbage disposal problems satisfactorily from all angles, in my opinion, and we're constantly making improvements."

Thousands upon thousands of tons of dirt must be moved, and in moving it two benefits are obtained. (1) The way is cleared for laying a new street, and (2) the earth is dumped on a large area of city property near the Tar River which can be regarded as reclaimed and improved land.

Tree-cutting and other unusual activities are part of the Street Department's everyday chores. Here a tree-trunk is being removed to clear a right of way for the street-makers.

Street Superintendent C. K. Beatty keeps close watch on the work being done in various parts of Greenville on the street projects. He's often to be found on the site of paving, grading or other improvement work.

Before a street can be paved, work crews lay the curbs and install the necessary drainage facilities.

"TRUE MAN OF GOD"

What kind of man do you want for your minister? Some folks would say, "A jolly good fellow." "Somebody who can be a young person with the young people." "A fine administrator." "A glamour boy." "An eloquent preacher."

All these things may be desirable, but the one essential of a minister is that he be a man of God. His work is to lead people into the realization that God is not angry with them but instead that God loves them.

The minister is one who should be consistently lifting the lives of his people to higher levels, so that the whole of their lives is suffused with a heavenly light, and the simple events of everyday living will be given higher distinction. A minister who knows how to organize great campaigns, who can run organizations until the business men exclaim in admiration, is often much sought after, and he has indeed his good points. But the humble man of God who teaches men how to pray, who explains the Bible to them in simple fashion, who comforts the sorrowful, and talks quietly with boys and girls about their problems, is a true man of God whose services mere salary can never purchase. He may not appear much in the eyes of the sophisticated world, but he stands high according to the Lord's rating.

Thomas Carlyle once wrote, "What every community needs is a true man of God."

It's Already Time To Think Of Christmas

Because our people of Pitt County have so many sons, husbands and brothers in the armed services, it should not be amiss to repeat a recent Defense Department reminder of mailing dates for overseas Christmas packages.

Several days ago that establishment advised that such packages for men overseas should be mailed between October 15 and November 15. There were also suggestions as to how well those packages should be wrapped; but most people are already aware that overseas package mail sometimes undergoes strains and stresses not otherwise customary.

Air parcel post packages up to two pounds in weight may be mailed until November 25, but after that there's no promise of delivery by Christmas.

It is not the easiest thing in the world for folks at home to select a gift for their overseas servicemen. They are equipped with all necessities, and post exchanges or ships stores provide small luxuries often at a lower cost than can be obtained "State-side."

Still, they cannot be forgotten; and knowing the time limitations should forestall any of them being forced to sit through the Christmas season without a reminder from home.

A Misfitted Shoe Begins To Pinch

Now the shoe is on the other foot and it is beginning to pinch.

It was less than a year ago that leaders of the "Big Four" universities in North Carolina were up in arms over the idea of post season football games for Southern Conference teams. At the December meeting of the Southern Conference a rule was written into the by-laws of the conference which said members must receive conference permission before playing a post-season bowl game.

As a result of the ruling, Maryland and Clemson, which were in football clover with their high-flying teams, were suspended from the conference for one year because they accepted well deserved invitations for major bowl games.

Now Gordon Gray, president of the University of North Carolina, has said he thinks the ban on post-season football games may be the "wrong approach."

It is difficult to forget that officials of the University and officials of Duke University, which a number of times in the past have tasted the glory of outstanding teams in post-season bowl games, were outspoken in their opposition to conference teams accepting such bids any longer. Neither can we push aside the fact that both the University and Duke University were in low cotton as football powers in the nation last year, and neither had a chance at a bowl bid.

The pay-off in the question of post-season games comes now when Duke is ranked fifth in the nation and stands a good chance of having a bowl bid extended to it unless it suffers unforeseen gridiron mishaps before the end of the season. From Gray's statement it sounds as if there may be a change of heart—or at least a change of face—by the schools which so vigorously opposed post-season games less than a year ago.

The Reflector has thought and still thinks Maryland and Clemson got a raw deal last season when they were ousted from the conference by the ruling made at a crucial time.

Now, in view of the football prowess of Duke, if the rule is changed—whether or not it is intentionally done to allow Duke an opportunity which seems to be in the offing—the officials of the schools which supported the post-season ban last December will leave themselves open to severe criticism.

It will certainly leave the way open for charges of "poor sportsmanship" directed at the university and athletic leaders who have preached the principle of good sportsmanship and fair play in college athletics for so many years.

National Whirligig

Every Saturday this veteran Washington correspondent devotes his column to answering readers' questions of general interest on national and international policies and personalities. Questions may be sent direct to Ray Tucker, at 6308 Hillcrest Place, Chevy Chase, Md.

WASHINGTON—Will you please explain this European resentment toward Americans? asks H.B.C. of Ashland, Ky., as well as many other readers. It seems on the surface to be directed against American dictation. If so, to what extent is it justified?

Answer: When the famous Randolph of Roanoke was informed that a certain Virginia politician had become hostile toward him, he remarked: "That's odd. I have never done him a favor." Translated into modern lingo, it means that the easiest way to make an enemy is to lend him some money.

EUROPEANS IRRITATED—The Europeans, including their leaders and the little people, are understandably irritated at their continued dependence on our military and economic aid, both for domestic recovery and for defense against possible Russian attack. Nor does it ease their pride to realize that they could not get along without our assistance.

As the current Pinay-Acheson flare-up reveals, they regard every suggestion from Washington as interference in their domestic affairs. And there is no doubt that we have tossed them around, despite official denials.

F.D.R. virtually forced Holland to grant independent status to Indonesia, and he had a hand in helping India to win her independence from Britain. Truman angered the Arabs by his successful efforts on behalf of a free Israel. His Far East policy alienated Prime Minister Nehru of India.

Finally, the political opposition in all these countries, and especially the Communists, keep alive this anti-American issue noisily and belligerently. As the late Mayor Thompson of Chicago and other politicians won votes by insulting John Bull, they hope to gain power by pulling Uncle Sam's nose.

It is probable that this unfriendly feeling will disappear if and when world conditions become more normal.

TIT FOR TAT—In connection with the ousting of Ambassador Kennan, writes B.S.B. of Ludington, Mich., "can you give us detailed information about the Russian Embassy at Washington and the American Embassy in Moscow? Why doesn't our State Department practice a little more tit for tat?"

Answer: American personnel in Moscow is outnumbered almost four to one by the Russians and their families permitted to reside in this country. We have 114 people in Moscow, of which 25 are wives and children. In Washington, New York and San Francisco, the Reds have a household of 407, including 134 wives and 113 children.

The presence of the United Nations' headquarters in our midst is an obvious advantage to the Communists. They have accredited the extremely large staff of 58 to that body in addition to representatives of Tass and Pravda, newspaper agencies which serve as intelligence and anti-American units.

SPYING ADVANTAGES—This disparity in numbers, however, does not measure the spying advantages which they have over us. Except that they cannot travel more than 25 miles from Washington, New York and San Francisco without State Department permission, all these Red agents have almost as full freedom as an American citizen. They are not molested or kept under surveillance.

American diplomats in Moscow are under constant watch. It is a crime, by law, for Russians to talk to foreigners. Household servants are required to report on Embassy activities.

When our Ambassador visits the theater or stores or other diplomats' homes, he is tailed by the Kremlin's sleuths. Former Ambassador Bullitt discovered that even his bedroom was wired for recording of his remarks. Our diplomats are, in reality, prisoners of the Kremlin.

Despite Congressional and newspaper demands for closing down the Red nests, Secretary Acheson insists on maintaining these one-sided relations with our avowed and recognized enemy. He takes the position that it would aggravate rather than improve our relations with Russia, if the Administration retaliated by asking for the recall of these enemy agents.

LETTERS TO CONGRESSMEN—Last Sunday in church school, writes W.M.B. of Royal, Iowa, "the question came up of how much influence our letters and telegrams to members of Congress and other governmental officials have on their stand on public questions. Your opinion on this will be appreciated."

Answer: It depends upon the kind of communication, the Congressman or the Government official to whom you address your thoughts. To be more practical, it also depends upon the efficiency of their secretarial staffs, who sort out the mail to decide which letters and telegrams are worthy of reading.

Any conscientious Congressman or Federal official appreciates hearing from constituents or citizens on public problems. If they take their jobs seriously, they pay real attention to these letters and telegrams. If they don't, it isn't worth spending money in writing to them.

Obviously, Congressmen pay no attention to a flood of letters which, by the similarity of wording and timing, show that they have been inspired by selfish or special interests. These go into the waste basket. One other warning: Don't pester them with frequent letters on minor questions. Write only when you feel deeply on a matter of grave local or national interest.

RED SPRINGS, N. C. CITIZEN—"Today the value of the dollar bill is one-half of what it was in 1932—53 cents compared with $1.05 in 1932, and $1.00 in 1940. While the dollar shrunk by one-half in 20 years, the Federal tax burden on the average family increased by 25 times. In 1932, the average share of the two billion dollars collected in total Federal taxes was $64. During this fiscal year, 1953, a family's Federal taxes, income plus hidden taxes, will average $170."

NORTHPORT, LONG ISLAND, N. Y., OBSERVER—"Americans have become accustomed to thinking of the money they earn in terms of take-home-pay. They have forgotten that not too long ago the wage earner spoke of his pay without thinking about 'pay after taxes.' The Federal government today takes its cut first. You get what is left."

Where Do We Go From Here?

Somebody Told Me

By L. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

The subject of television in Greenville is one that demands so much attention that it's difficult to keep out of print. First of all, let me say that the FCC grant for construction of the Greenville station will come any day and probably at least within a few weeks. From that time, it's just a matter of how long it will take to build the station, which will probably be six months.

That leaves the question, what is the significance of the grant Raleigh received a few days ago? To be very frank it will not help Greenville television much. In the first place, the equipment for the type of channel, Ultra High Frequency, is not yet in mass production and it is very likely that Greenville will be on the air with its Very High Frequency station before Raleigh will with the UHF. In the second place, UHF channels have a reach of only 25 to 30 miles, whereas VHF channels reach 100.

Here's the history behind this Raleigh grant. When the FCC mapped out Eastern Carolina three channels, were allocated to Raleigh: one for educational purposes, one in the VHF class and one in the UHF class. In any locality, VHF is the desirable channel because of the reach it has. Also only the latest model TV receivers are equipped to receive UHF. Owners of early model sets will have to buy converters, which vary in cost from $10 to $50, in order to receive a signal from an UHF station.

Considering the desirability of the VHF channel in Raleigh, both WPTT and WRAL filed for it. These stations will be tied up in a hearing that will probably keep them off the air two years. So an outfit in Erie, Pa. named itself Sir Walter Television Inc. and filed for the UHF channel. This firm realizes that it will be many months before the VHF question is settled, so in the meantime it figures to make money with UHF. No doubt it will, but it will not help Greenville receive earlier TV. Let me repeat: there will be delays in obtaining equipment and Greenville stands a good chance of beating the UHF station on the air.

All along, it has looked as if Greenville has been in the driver's seat on TV. The fact remains that we stand an excellent chance of being the next North Carolina station on the air. There are about 60 applications ahead of ours. If the FCC considers 25 a week, approval will naturally come in three weeks. If it's ten a week it will be six weeks. But six should be the maximum.

And I thank you.

VOTES—Eastern North Carolinians must plead guilty, or at least enter the legal plea of "nolo contendere," to the charge that they are delinquent with respect to taking advantage of the privilege and assuming the obligation of voting. However, a check of the voting record in the 1948 general election when a President and a Governor were being chosen justifies an emphatic plea of "not guilty" to the charge so often leveled that Eastern Democrats vote in the primary and go hunting or fishing in the fall. Only one congressional district, the seventh, cast fewer Democratic votes in November of 1948 than in the May Primary that year. Nineteen counties, most of them in the East but a few in the central Piedmont area, had a larger number of votes in the central Piedmont area, had a larger number of votes in the 1948 Democratic primary than for the Democratic nominee for Governor in November.

SHORT—The counties which dropped behind the primary count in November were Beaufort, Camden, Chowan, Currituck, Halifax, Northampton, Jones, Onslow, Pender, Vance, Caswell, Greenville, Columbus, Cumberland, New, Johnston, Robeson, Anson, Lee and Scotland. These counties are in the first, second, third, fourth, fifth, seventh and eighth congressional districts.

GEOGRAPHIC—The way the congressional district lines have been fixed in gerrymandering procedure to guarantee Democratic congressmen makes it difficult to determine which districts are eastern, western or middle. Districts eleven and seven are definitely in the East. Only district twelve is absolutely in the West. All the others have overlapping Eastern, Western and Piedmont identities. For practical purposes the 12 districts can be counted this way: One, two, three and seven East; four, five, six and eight Piedmont; nine, ten, eleven and twelve West. Using that distinctive division and applying the 1950 census on population and the State Manual report of Democratic primary and general election voted in 1948, we come up with this comparison.

EAST—The four eastern districts have 38 counties with a population of 1,257,483. The Democratic primary vote for all candidates for the Democratic nomination was 141,987 and the November vote for the Democratic nominee was 216,199, a gain of 33 per cent over the primary total.

CENTRAL—The four central districts have 30 counties with a population of 1,525,807. The 1948 primary vote for all candidates for the Democratic nomination was 141,987 and the November vote for the Democratic nominee was 216,199, a gain of 33 per cent over the primary total.

WEST—The four western districts have 32 counties with a population of 1,279,640. The Democratic primary vote for all candidates for the Democratic nomination was 141,987 and the November vote for the Democratic nominee was 216,199, a gain of 33 per cent over the primary total.

ABSENTEES—A good deal has been said and written about the interest in absentee ballots manifested by military personnel. Not much publicity has been given the importance of lining up absentee vote by civilians in the general election. In three or four midwestern counties where the margin is very close, Democratic workers are frankly

The world's largest publishing house may be in for a spate of trouble. It has grown so big that its competition with other publishers is painful and it has spread into so many fields that it is treading on other people's toes.

The publishing house is, of course, the Government Printing Office. It is turning out more than 100,000 publications a year, ranging from free pamphlets to de luxe editions of books. It is taking in about $4,000,000 a year. Six of its books have sold more than a million copies. One, Infant Care, has sold more than 7,000,000 copies. The Government, too, is profiting on the rise in the birth rate.

Nongovernment publishers have never been disturbed over government publishing of "Insects-Yearbook of Agriculture, 1952," a recent 925-page job, nor leaflets on the boll weevil and the treatment ipizootic in poultry. But the government's list has been broadening over the years. Now published are large series of books on business operation, which are directly competitive with books published by McGraw Hill and similar houses, and cook books which compete with publications of Doubleday, Holt and other general book publishers. Some of these houses are unhappy about this competition, doubly so because many government books are sold far below cost.

Meanwhile, the Council of State Chambers of Commerce have criticized publications in another field, those that tell housewives how to operate various appliances. The Council says that some of the Government's books are useless and that the literature put out by manufacturers of appliances is more useful to the user.

The Government Printing Office has nothing to say about what titles it will print and it will be difficult for the new Congress to do much about it. The GPO merely prints and sometimes advertises books and pamphlets. As various government agencies direct all costs except rent and personnel come out of the agencies' appropriation.

Thus Congress would have to restrict the appropriations and the urge to get into print of each agency. This would be as awkward as it would be difficult, because Congress itself is the "author" of a large share of government printing.

AMONG CONTRACTORS—Concerned over current unrest between general contractors and specialty contractors in various parts of the country, the Associated General Contractors of America has launched a program to bring about better relations.

The program seeks to discourage the granting of separate contracts to specialty contractors and the practice of naming specialty contractors in general contractors' bids. The purchaser of construction will benefit most if the general contractor is given the entire responsibility of an entire project, the association holds.

LOAN COMPANIES FOUND LAGGING IN ADVERTISING—The consumer finance industry is lagging in advertising, the advertising committee of the National Consumer Finance Association reports. It found that the average consumer finance company spends about 1 per cent of its volume on advertising, a figure far below that of most other consumer businesses.

TOOLS ARE PUSHED AS CHRISTMAS GIFTS—Father had better hang up a heavy sack this Christmas, because the chances are he will get tools as a present.

The National Hardware Show held in New York was more like a preview of Christmas than a trade exhibition. Because giving of tools has been increasing in recent years, scores of items are now being gift packaged and hundreds are being promoted as gifts for the head of the house.

SHORT, SIGNIFICANT BUSINESS NOTES—

"The country has been exhausting its timber resources ever since we can remember and yet the lumber industry is always overproducing," remarks the current Axe-Houghton survey. Promoters of the annual popcorn industries convention in Chicago next month are calling popcorn "America's newest big business."

And one of the noisiest—Castor oil, recently scarce is becoming abundant. Both Brazilian and American production is up considerably. A new plywood from Japan is surface bamboo cut in thin strips and bonded under pressure to a plywood core.

NEW PRODUCTS—FOAM: A new fire-extinguishing foam described as having an effective life 50 times longer than other foams, has been developed by Pyrene Mfg. Co., 550 Belmont Ave., Newark 8, N.J. It is said to choke fires of alcohol and other inflammable solvents and to prevent re-ignition.

STAIN: Decorative possibilities of wood are considerably increased by the introduction of wood stains in 200 colors and hues by Martin-Senour Paint Co., 2500 S. Quinary St., Chicago 8. Stains include mat colors of the spectrum and are in both

NEW YORK (AP)—I think it's about time we stopped all this careless slander, unfounded clichés and irresponsible talk.

About animals, I mean. Despite the gossip you may hear, a child remains extremely faithful to his fish-wife. Among their own kind, wolves aren't particularly cruel or voracious.

A dove isn't especially peaceful. There is nothing more gruesome than a dove pecking another dove to death.

A fox is not so cunning. In fact, he's much more stupid than a wolf or dog.

Fish are not "cold-blooded." On falling in love, some fish dance and whirl madly, light up, change colors and generally carry on like a pinball machine hitting the jackpot.

These are some of the misconceptions I found righted in an amazing book called "King Solomon's Ring" (Crowell), written by Konrad Z. Lorenz, Austrian naturalist.

The roe-deer is not gentle. "One of the most disgusting, ruthless and bloodthirsty murders," says Lorenz.

It is not the female but the male nightingale that sings so beautifully. The song is both a warning to other males to stay out of his territory as well as an invitation to any passing female.

Caged lion does not look as much like a caged lion as you might think. He is "about the laziest of the predatory beasts," says Lorenz, "and seldom is seen resting restlessly up and down the lion, incidentally gets that majestic look from the fact that as a hunter of large animals of the open plains he is forever studying things in the foreground and ignoring things in the background."

But don't get careless, if you happen to be in the foreground. The eagle may be very proud, but he's also very vicious. Even his trouble-finding way home. The "golden eagle," Lorenz says, "is a chicken." The American bald-headed eagle is not particularly popular among tenants of large aviaries. He's "strong and horribly overbearing," says Lorenz.

Some of the world's most faithful dogs have no blood in them. Also, it's not cruel to keep a dog in a city apartment.

His happiness depends largely upon how much time you can spend with him—and upon how often he may accompany you on an errand. Lorenz points out, "He does not mind waiting for hours at your study door if he is finally rewarded by a 10-minute walk at your side."

A shrew (a tiny, mouse-like mammal) is difficult to feed but not difficult to tame.

Wild geese fall in love at first sight.

"A tame crow or raven will no more think of pecking at your eye than he will at that of one of his own kind," Lorenz assures us, but hares are not particularly meek among hares.

Most people going to zoos says the naturalist, don't pity the right animals. Foxes and wolves housed in small cages suffer terribly from frustration. Antelope apes can become literally "bored to death." Being caged is very hard on gray parrots and cockatoos since in their natural free state they are mentally and bodily uncommonly vivacious.

Now, don't you feel like a skunk?

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON—How would you like to have seven servants for the price you pay for one full-time maid in the U.S. have your husband at home for lunch every day, and plenty of time to do as you like?

That is the lot of Mrs. Robert Weber, young and pretty wife of the chief of the U.S. Special Technical and Economic Mission of the Mutual Security Agency to Thailand.

The Webers, with their daughters, Evelyn "Lyn," 3, and Robin "Pip," a year younger went to Thailand 15 months ago. Mr. Weber is program planning officer helping the Thais develop their public health, education, agriculture and industry.

The Webers found the housing situation just on their arrival at Bangkok, the capital of Thailand. Mr. Weber told me on a recent visit to Washington New European-type houses were available but they wanted an old house, large, airy and comfortable. They found one, with three bedrooms, two baths, two living rooms and a dining room, partially furnished, on an acre of ground. Separate quarters were adjacent for kitchen, servants quarters and garage. The rent is close to $300 a month.

"The big hitch was beds," Mr. Weber said. "The man asked how many we wanted. I said three double beds. That was out, he told me. We'd get single beds only. These were 5 by 7 feet. A double bed would sleep at least four."

The Webers, have a "No. 1 boy," whom Mr. Weber describes as a "middle and front man, housekeeper, butler, major domo, labor boss and desk clerk all rolled into one," who hires and fires the servants, opens doors and waits on table.

This man, Kim, is the only one of the servants except the "baby maid," who speaks English. Ah, Laing, his sister-in-law, helps with the serving, does the cleaning, washes dishes, makes beds. Kim's wife Ng Suck Eng, is the "wash maid" and is kept busy: the whole Weber family makes two changes of clothing daily because of the climate. Then there's the cook, who prepares both Chinese and European dishes excellently.

"I gained 26 pounds in the first 12 months, my wife, 10," Mr. Weber said. The Webers spend about as much for food as they did in the States but serve about 50 guests meals a month. All the people they deal with he says, keep open house.

"The Thais are excessively social and sociable," he explained. "The saying is 'there are two things you don't get in Thailand—stomach ulcers and a night at home.'"

Mr. W. L. Hall left this morning for a visit in Scotland Neck.

Usually the few days preceding a general election is the time for springing campaign lies. While you can keep on the lookout for them it is well to pay no attention to them.

The carnival had the largest crowd of the week Friday night.

There is but one week left in which to register.

The handsome new Methodist Church in Ayden will be dedicated tomorrow at 11 o'clock.

Waldrop Talks To Members Of Junior Club

Ed Waldrop, former member of the Board of Aldermen of Greenville, spoke to members of the Junior Woman's Club at the meeting on Wednesday night of this week.

Waldrop addressed the group on the subject of Council-Manager form of government for the city. He compared the present type of city administration with the newer form and explained the proposed set-up if the council-manager form is adopted. The speaker was introduced by Mrs. Charles Horne Jr., who was in charge of the program for the evening.

Miss Marian Perry presided in the absence of the president, Mrs. Howard Grady. The collect was read by the members to open the meeting, and the secretary's and treasurer's reports were given.

Old Fashioned Thrift

Great Aunt Min and Uncle Charlie may look out-of-date but they had some mighty fine ideas that still pay today. For instance, they believed that a home and family came first and they saved regularly to buy their home, and provide their family with the good things of life. Ladies Night Celebrated At Kiwanis Club

Music featured the Greenville Kiwanis Club's 31st anniversary banquet at West Greenville School last night. Dr. John O. Reynolds had charge of the program.

Knott Proctor and Mrs. Proctor of the Rotary Club, President Bill Riggins and Mrs. Riggins of the Exchange Club, and President B. B. J. Frank Steinbeck and his committee presented the ladies with gifts of perfume and candy. Mrs. R. W. Shiplett won the attendance prize.

Mrs. Sugg Presents Club Program

The first fall meeting of the Sans Souci Book Club was held at the home of Mrs. F. M. Wooten Tuesday afternoon, with a very good attendance.

The members expressed pleasure at being together again after a summer of intense heat, that somewhat curtailed their social activities.

Mrs. S. T. White, the president, presided over a short business session after which the meeting was in the hands of the program committee.

Mrs. H. S. Ragsdale, program chairman, announced the subject of the year's program, "The New and the Old North State," and Mrs. B. B. Sugg as speaker of the afternoon. "Sir Walter Raleigh, Our English Heritage," was the theme of Mrs. Sugg's paper and it showed much thought and research, covering not only Raleigh's life but much of the history of the period in which he lived.

Sir Walter Raleigh was a scholar and a gentleman, a most colorful figure of the Elizabethan era. He was connected by birth with many of the outstanding people of his time and country.

A daring, courageous man, he was a favorite of Queen Elizabeth who delegated to him the task of sailing and exploring the New World — "America."

Landing on the shores of what is now North Carolina, Raleigh and his party were amazed at the beauty and fertility of this new country, and at the friendly welcome given them by the red men. This friendliness, however, later turned to hate because of the cruel and unfair treatment of the whites.

Raleigh made more than one attempt to settle what he then called Virginia but met with failure every time. After the last try he returned to America to find the colony vanished and the word "Croatan" carved on a tree. The fate of the colonists remains a mystery to this very day.

Dispirited and disheartened Raleigh returned to England and his life there, where in later years he incurred the displeasure of Queen Elizabeth and met a tragic end when she had him beheaded.

Mrs. Sugg's very worthwhile paper covered this early era of North Carolina history completely and was both interesting and entertaining.

At the conclusion of the program, Mrs. Wooten served a salad plate and coffee that was very much enjoyed.

Mrs. Fleming Presides At Memorial Service At UNC

A delightful meeting of the George B. Singletary Chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy was held on Thursday at the home of Mrs. P. E. Wells with Mrs. J. H. Boyd Jr. serving as assistant hostess.

The home was lovely throughout with attractive and artistic arrangements of huge dahlias. The hostesses in their usual charming manner greeted each member and the following guests: Mesdames Richard Haraway, Walter Cherry and W. E. Wells Jr.

The meeting, which was presided over by the president, Mrs. J. L. Fleming, was opened with the salutes to the flags. The ritual followed.

Mrs. Fleming led in an impressive memorial service, paying tribute to Mrs. E. B. Ficklen, who had been such a loyal and faithful member. The service was closed with prayer by Mrs. E. W. Harvey. Mrs. J. B. Spilman presented resolutions of respect for Mrs. Ficklen which had been drawn up by Mesdames Spilman, P. E. Wells and F. C. Harding.

During the business session which followed Mrs. Fleming appointed the following committees: Transportation, Mesdames R. D. Harrington, T. T. Hollingsworth and J. G. Lautares; Magazine, Mrs. Ernest L. Willard; TB Seals Window Decorating Committee, Mesdames Wells and Spilman.

The meeting was brought to a close after Mrs. Fleming gave an interesting account of the highlights of the State Convention in Raleigh.

The hostesses, assisted by Mrs. V. E. Wells Jr., served a delicious congealed salad, cheese biscuits and cookies carrying out the Halloween motif.

AAUW Plans Program On Party Platforms

The October meeting of the American Association of University Women will be held Monday evening, October 20, at the college.

There will be a combination informal supper, short business meeting, and program, which will feature talks on the party platforms in the current presidential campaign. Dr. George Pasti and Dr. W. E. Marshall of the college social studies department will present the program, which is open to the public. This part of the meeting will be in Austin Building, Room 103, at 7 o'clock.

The supper will be at 5:30. Members able to be present for it may select their own meal by joining the regular cafeteria line in the North (old) Dining Hall at 5:30 and may take their trays to the table reserved for them.

Immediately after supper, at 6:15 the group will adjourn to Austin Building, Room 103, opposite the alumni office, for the business meeting.

The program will be given in the same room, beginning at 7 o'clock. Dr. Pasti will explain the platform of the Republican Party. Dr. Marshall will do the same for the Democratic Party. Their explanations will be followed by a discussion period. Anyone who is interested is cordially invited to attend.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT

The following tribute was paid in memory of the late Mrs. E. B. Ficklen by members of the United Daughters of the Confederacy at a recent meeting:

How beautiful it was that there was
"No moaning of the bar
When she put out to sea
But such a tide as moving seems
To sleep."

Too full for sound and foam
When that which drew from out
The boundless deep
Turns again home."

In the passing of our beloved charter member, Mrs. E. B. Ficklen, on October 3, 1952, the George B. Singletary Chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy has lost a loyal and devoted member.

While during the last years she was unable to attend the meetings, she manifested a keen interest in all phases of the program. Her going is a distinct loss to the Chapter she loved so well.

We bow in humble submission to the will of Him whom she loved and served with a lasting devotion, knowing full well that our time is in His hands and He doeth all things well.

"To live in the hearts we leave behind is not to die."

We offer our sincere sympathy to her sons and other members of her family. May they lean hard on our Creator for strength and comfort, realizing

"She did not pass through this world
Leaving no witness the truth to bear.
She lived and loved and labored
Here."

Tonight's College Stadium battle between East Carolina and Western Carolina will be the last home game for the Pirates until November 15 when they close their season against the West Virginia Tech Golden Eagles. Between tonight and that November 15 date, they have three road trips.

Two of the trips will be for games with North State Conference teams. First of all, they'll travel to Greensboro next week to tangle with Guilford's dangerous Quakers. The week after that, they'll move up further into the hills to tangle with Appalachian in an afternoon contest in Boone.

Following the Appalachian trip, the Pirates will hit the road for their longest trip of the season, to Deland, Florida, where they'll meet powerful Stetson. The Pirates, winners of the "Tangerine Bowl" game last New Year's Day, have already proved their power this year by knocking off Furman, a coming power in the Southern Conference.

The game tonight and the other two North State Conference games are important contests for the Pirates. They're well on their way toward their best season since entering the conference in 1947 and victories in the three games could mean a great deal so far as the record is concerned.

Regardless of the power of the Duke Blue Devils and the upset nature of State's Wolfpack, the "big" game in the state this afternoon is the one at Chapel Hill. The game is one of those "make or break" contests for Carolina's Tar Heels.

The Tar Heels have been unduly criticized for their showing against Texas when they unveiled their version of the split-T. They haven't had a chance to redeem themselves since then because of the polo flare-up.

Wake Forest is the kind of ball club which is rough to catch on the rebound. They're a tough ball club, anyway, but Carolina can expect plenty of trouble simply because Villanova outscored the Deacons last week.

The Deacs are going to be doubly rough today. The Tar Heels haven't had a chance to give their new offense a good workout under game conditions and they frankly don't know what they have. It'll take today's game for them to find out.

If the Tar Heels win today, it could mean a good year for Carolina. If they lose, it'll be a long season.

Greenville's Phantoms get back into the full swing of activity on Monday when they open preparation for their game next week in New Bern. The contest, a North-eastern Conference clash, is expected to decide just who will rule the roost in the conference this year.

The Phantoms have a 0-0 tie with Washington as the entry on the red ink side of their ledger while the Bears are sailing along smoothly. New Bern will be favored in the game but it'll be by the barest of margins.

Incidentally, the success of the New Bern team this year seems to be a tribute to the coaching ability of Joe Caruso, Caruso, a former Elon College grad, inherited practically nothing when he went to New Bern. He had been an outstanding coach at both Rocky Mount and Henderson but his critics said he'd "had it" when he moved into New Bern. O' Joe seems determined to show his critics that he's not through yet. Not by a long shot.

Phil Rizzuto Will Hang Up His Glove After Next Year

NEW YORK (UP)—Phil Rizzuto insists he'll hang up his glove after the 1953 season.

"I always figured I'd play ball until I was 35," says the Yankee shortstop, "and I'll be just 35 at the end of next season."

"That'll be enough for me. I realize no one can keep going forever. Besides, the older you get the tougher it is to go out there and play nine innings every day. I could tell that the past season was real tired near the finish and I had trouble getting to sleep at night during the Yankees Series. I had nightmares all the time."

Rizzuto, who will have completed 10 full seasons with the Yankees after 1953, not including three years he spent in the Navy, explained that he talked over his retirement with team-mate Charlie Keller.

"Charlie told me I had the right idea," said Rizzuto. "Charlie is two years older than I am and he told me how the pain almost used to kill him when he kept on playing ball after 35. I've talked to a lot of other guys who tried to keep going after 35 and they all said the same thing."

Rizzuto, a .253 batting average last season, missed being the low-water mark of his big league career by a single point.

Although the five-foot, six-inch peeper played in all out two of the Yankees' 154 games it was apparent to Casey Stengel and to himself that he had started to slow up.

The Yankees already have begun to groom young Jim Brice-geer to fill the shoes of Rizzuto, who has appeared in seven World Series.

When he does retire, the dark-haired, 155-pound "Scooter" says he would like to try his hand at something.

"But I won't take a managing job in the low minors," he pointed out. "It would have to be in the majors or in Triple-A ball."

Ayden Downs Farmville In Rough Conference Tilt

AYDEN — Darrell Worthington, Ayden senior quarterback, outdistanced Farmville's Quarterback Charlie Fitzgerald, as he led the Tornados to a 14-6 victory over the Red Devils in a bitterly fought contest here last night.

Ayden and Farmville took turns in putting up great goal line stands in the first half. But in the second half Ayden returned to the field an inspired team, and sparked by Worthington's running and passing, drove for a third quarter score. Little Harry Ross took two double reverses that accounted for gains of 21 and 24 yards in the touchdown drive. It was Billy "Head" Holland who blasted the final four yards on a power play for the score.

A few minutes later Farmville was stymied and had to punt. Worthington took the punt on his own 20, cut to his right, faked two tacklers, then weaved a pattern through the middle of the Farmville team before breaking in the clear to race 80 yards for the game clinching touchdown.

It was a tough one to lose for the Farmville Red Devils who came after time had gains of 20 yards or more nullified because of penalties. The Red Devils were on the Ayden six inch line when the first half ended.

Ayden, playing good heads up ball, took advantage of their scoring opportunities and played hard on defense to stop the Farmville threats.

Mac Whitehurst and Billy Holland were the big guns in the defensive backfield. Fitzgerald's passes and the driving running of Teddy Allen were Farmville's main threats.

Whitehurst and Holland were instrumental in halting their thrusts before they reached the final stripe.

Farmville's only touchdown came in the final quarter when Fitzgerald and Allen combined to drive from their own 30 yard line to paydirt.

Fitzgerald hit Jack Allen in the end zone to cover the final seven yards. Holland blocked Biggie Dillard's attempted placement.

Billy Shackelford, Carroll Wooten and Jimmy Allen played well for the Farmville defense.

Randall Harrington, Gordon Hart and big Bobby Barfield broke through several times to throw Fitzgerald before he could pass.

Ayden will play Vanceboro Tuesday and will repeat as Coastal Conference champions if they are victorious.

Final scores: Ayden 14, Farmville 6.

Scoring touchdowns: Ayden—Holland, Worthington; Farmville—Jack Allen. Points after TD—Whitehurst, Worthington.

Vanceboro Loses To Central High

ELIZABETH CITY — In a "spot" game arranged only Tuesday, Elizabeth City's Central High School defeated Vanceboro 37-26 Thursday night on Central's home field.

Jack Taylor of Vanceboro was practically a one-man team for Vanceboro as he tallied three times on runs of 50, 45, and 20 yards. All three came in the second half after Central had built fourth TD came on a 50-yard return of a intercepted pass by Earl Barrow.

Taylor's three touchdowns ran his total points for two games to 36 points.

Central scored once in the first quarter, twice in the second quarter twice in the third quarter and once in the fourth quarter.

Little Leagues Are Entertained

The Exchange Club was host last night to the Exchange Little League baseball team at its weekly meeting. Welcomed by Jimmy Wells, Exchange Club Midget sports chairman Neely James, coach of the Exchange Club team, thanked the local club for its support during the past season and expressed his pleasure in being allowed to work with the team. After enjoying a delicious turkey dinner with all the trimmings the team members were presented with baseball pen and pencil sets by the Exchange Club.

After the dinner Co-Captain Doc Smith and Frank Madison of the East Carolina Pirates presented a film of the Lenoir Rhyme-East Carolina game. The two players described the action of the game and pointed out various plays to the interested Exchangeites and Midget players.

Vice-President Jake Hadley presided.

Cavaliers Play In Tobacco Bowl

RICHMOND, Va. (UP)—Unbeaten and unscored on Virginia clashes with VMI's spirited Keydets in Richmond's annual Tobacco Bowl game here today before a crowd of 22,000 fans.

The Cavaliers, having beaten Vanderbilt, Virginia Tech and George Washington by impressive scores, were a heavy favorite. VMI, however, was pointing toward an upset for its third win in a row after early season losses to William and Mary and Miami.

Colonials Play G.W. In SIC Game

BLACKSBURG, Va. (UP)—A crowd of 10,000 was expected here today to watch Virginia Tech, a two touchdown underdog, play host to the George Washington Colonials in a Southern Conference football game.

Both teams are undefeated thus far in conference play. Tech has been defeated by Virginia and Alabama and George Washington lost to Virginia last week.

Greenville JV's Lose Close One At New Bern

Despite a 13-7 loss to the New Bern Jayvees, the Greenville High School Junior Phantoms served notice Thursday night that they'll be just as rough as the Varsity brothers when the Jayvees get a little experience.

The junior edition of the Phantoms did well in their Kafer Park clash with the baby Bruins with a glaring lack of experience hampering them more than the New Bern team.

The Phantoms drew first blood in the contest with a first quarter tally by Joe Taft. Taft went over the goal line on a double reverse which started from the New Bern 10. The score culminated a 40-yard drive which was sparked by Taft and Bobby Shackelford.

The Bears got their first touchdown with 25 seconds remaining in the half when they plunged over from three yards out. The try-for-extra-point was muffed when the center made a bad pass.

The Bears scored again in the third period after a sustained march covering 40 yards. They passed for the point-after-touchdown.

The junior Phantoms started goal line marches three times but were stopped each time by a series of penalties.

Dick Harrell, Huey Harrison, Charles Hollingsworth, and Jimmy Perkins led Greenville's defensive line. Jerry Drum played well at quarterback and Hollingsworth and Gene Hudson recovered New Bern fumbles for the Phantoms.

The contest was the third of the year for Greenville.

Everette Sparks Robersonville To 32-18 Victory

Maurice Everett, living up to his All-Conference motto, gave his greatest high school performance last night when he scored four touchdowns to lead the Robersonville Rams to a 32-18 victory over Tarboro.

After Tarboro had come from behind in the early stages of the fourth quarter to knot the score at 18-18, Everett, who scored in the first and second quarters, snatched a Dan Clark aerial on his own 40 yard-line and ran the remaining 60 yards for a touchdown to once again put the Rams in front. Boyd Bailey added the extra point, making it 25-18.

With the clock running out and Tarboro striving desperately to come from behind again, Everett was again "Johnny-on-the-spot," as he scooped up a Tarboro fumble on the Ram 45 and carried for the final score of the evening to put the Rams ahead 31-18. Clark passed to Charles Peel for the extra point.

In the opening quarter Clark passed to Everett for nine yards and a TD just minutes after the opening gun.

Another Clark aerial found its way to Everett's waiting arms just before the half on a 39 yard scoring play. Rams led 12-6 at the half.

In third quarter Sonny James jarred across from two yards out to send Robersonville ahead 18-6.

Tarboro, sparked by Quarterback Ben Brewer and a pair of winged halfbacks, Leonard and Bobby Lilly, struck for two quick touchdowns in the fourth quarter to knot the score 18-18.

That set the stage for Everett's game-winning performance.

Curtis Roberson, Ram guard, blocked two kicks and was the one at the bottom of many pileups that stopped Tarboro thrusts.

Steve Johnson, Jerry Beach, James Taylor and Julius Budacz also played good defensive ball for the Rams.

Tarboro's James Burnette, David Williams and Roy Elmore performed well against the Rams on defense.

Robersonville 32, Tarboro 18.

Scoring touchdowns: Robersonville—Everett, 4; James; Tarboro—Brown, Brewer, L. Lilly. Points after touchdowns: Peel (pass), Bailey (pass).

Terps Face Navy At College Park

Two of the nation's football powers, Maryland and Navy, clashed today in a battle of the unbeaten before a sellout crowd of 45,000.

Maryland aimed for its 17th straight victory. With the Southern Conference showing signs of reeling on its ban against post-season bowl games, Maryland also had its sight set on another Sugar Bowl bid. Navy, shooting for its sixth straight victory, was a 13-0 underdog.

Miami Hurricanes Defeat Richmond

MIAMI (UP)—Miami's football squad was shifted into forward gear with a 41-6 victory over the University of Richmond today after finding a crucial cog—Harry Mallios.

The pint-sized halfback took a full-time spot in the Hurricanes machine for the first time this season after "recovering" from a throat infection, and scored to three touchdowns around the over-powered Virginians.

A spurge of passing accuracy by quarterback Bobby Tyler carried the Richmond Spiders 75 yards to a one-and-only score which put a scare into the slim crowd of 2,385 Miami fans in the Orange Bowl, but through the rest of the game the Hurricanes called the shots.

Mallios topped off Miami's touchdown parade by scampering 49 yards down the sidelines in the third period. He gave Miami a 7-6 halftime lead with a 3-yard run after taking a flat pass from quarterback Don James.

Miami's Pud Constantino opened the pay-off collecting with a six-yard drive after he set it up himself on a 5-yard advance from James to climax a 78-yard advance. Richmond struck back with Tyler's one-man attack, but Bob Moskett then put Miami ahead to stay with a 33-yard run around end.

Cadets Surprise Furman With Draw

ORANGEBURG, S.C. (UP)—Furman had to drive full steam to salvage a 7-7 tie from The Citadel last night after the "Cadets" put up a surprisingly strong bid to reverse a 14-year underdog role.

Favored Furman scored in the final period on a scoring drive begun late in the third, to overcome a lead The Citadel parlayed from three successive penalty gains late in the second period.

Fullback Lennie Smith smashed across from the one on the next to last play of the first half to give The Citadel hopes of a first win over Furman since 1938, until freshman fullback John Popson plunged over on the fourth play of the last quarter.

Eastern N. C. Attorneys Hear Greenboro Speaker

On Thursday evening here, Norman Block of the Greenboro Bar addressed a group of lawyers of Eastern North Carolina on the subject, "Problems in Drafting Trusts and Wills for Small Estates," in the first of a series of lectures sponsored by the Committee on Continuing Legal Education of the North Carolina Bar Association.

The Committee, in the series of lectures, is endeavoring to bring to the practicing lawyers of the State current developments and ideas in the practice of law in order that the Bar may be better equipped and prepared to cope with public problems in the legal field.

Block discussed the misconceptions of many people about wills and trusts, and the most desirable methods of making dispositions of property in order that the disposition of property could be most easily, economically and effectively obtained.

The speaker was introduced to the group as a graduate of the University of North Carolina and of the Harvard Law School. A member of the firm of Brooks, McLendon & Holderness of Greenboro prior to the war, Mr. Block returned to active practice after service in the United States Navy and is now heading his own firm. He is a member of the Committee for Federal Estate and Gift Taxation of the American Bar Association and is a regular participant in the annual Institute on Taxation of New York University.

In attendance were: A.D. Ward and Ed Hancock of New Bern;

C.W. Everett of Bethel; Herman Merrell, Bryan Scott, I. D. Thorp, W.L. Thorp, Jr., and Don Evans of Rocky Mount; Hyman Phillips, Jr., of Tarboro; and members of the Greenville Bar.

Madam Chiang To Return Before Thanksgiving Day

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—"I intend to be back at my husband's side in Formosa by Christmas, and I even hope to be with him by Thanksgiving," Madam Chiang Kai Shek said before departing for New York.

The first lady of Nationalist China, and one of the best-known women in the world's politics, left Franklin Hospital for New York by plane last night.

She has been hospitalized here for nine weeks, under treatment for a continuously painful skin eruption caused by nervous tension. "I will visit my sister in New York," she said, "and undergo some additional medical treatment. I will then return to Formosa by way of San Francisco, and will be in this city again for some days for a final medical check-up."

Finally Deny An Old Red Charge

PANMUNJOM, Korea (UP)—United Nations armistice negotiators denied today an old Communist charge that Allied warplanes flew over the Panmunjon neutral zone last month.

Red representatives countered with another protest that 15 Communist prisoners of war were injured on Koje Island Tuesday.

The exchange was made at a brief meeting of liaison officers.

No mention was made at the meeting regarding a letter sent to U. N. commander Gen. Mark W. Clark Thursday by two Communist leaders, and Clark still had not replied.

Ayden's Negro PTA Sets Projects For Coming Year

AYDEN Members of the Ayden Negro Parent Teachers Association drew up a list of projects for the year at its second meeting of the current year last Sunday afternoon.

The Smart and Thrifty Club, which was organized through the PTA under the sponsorship of Mrs. M.B. Burney, has presented the school with a 54 piece rhythm band outfit. One of the projects this year will be to furnish the band with uniforms.

Another one of the projects will be to increase membership. A drive has been put on and membership cards have been printed with the objectives of the association, which are:

To promote the welfare of children and youths in the home church and community; to raise the standard of home life; to secure adequate laws for the care and protection of children and youths; to bring in closer relationship in the home and the school so that parents and teachers may cooperate intelligently in the training of the child; and to develop between educators and the general public such united efforts as will secure for every children the highest advantage in physical, mental, social, and spiritual education.

At the end of the last school year a committee was appointed by the PTA to formulate plans for a "Teen-Age Youth Center." After several meetings during the summer, this committee made its report to the parent body, asking that money be provided to secure games and the like.

The committee also asked permission to use the agriculture building. Since that time a number of meetings have been held with teachers, student leaders and parents supervising games and entertainment. Membership cards are required of those attending the center.

Capitol Square

depending upon absentee votes—mainly by government workers in Raleigh and Washington—to turn the balance. Not much attention is being given that source of support in counties where the Democratic margin is preponderant.

MONEY — One more little paragraph about solicitation of State employees for Democratic campaign contributions. No person has been found ready to say that he or she has been subjected to "pressure" or threat to make a contribution. One sore point is that so many workers who derive all or apart of their compensation from Federal funds do as much talking about candidates and as much griping about working conditions as all-state paid employees, but when contribution time comes around they plead the Hatch Act as excuse for failure to help out the party which has nearly every State department and institution has a few people on the Federal payroll that situation, more than resentment against reasonable solicitation for campaign funds, is the cause of resentment.

FLASH GORDON.....by Mac Raboy and Don Moore

USING HIS FLAME-GUN AS A ROCKET-MOTOR, FLASH DRIVES HIS RAFT ACROSS THE SILICON SEA OF VENUS AND BEACHES IT ON AN UNKNOWN, SWAMPY SHORE. AS THE EARTH PEOPLE LEAP ASHORE, THE MYSTERIOUS FISH-MEN DRAW CLOSER IN THEIR PURSUIT.

FLASH SEEKS SAFETY IN THE UNEXPLORED FOREST-OF-PERPETUAL-RAIN. TO HIS AMAZEMENT HE FINDS THAT THE FISH-MEN ARE AMPHIBIOUS AND CAN CONTINUE THEIR PURSUIT ASHORE. "YOU AND ZARKOV GO AHEAD," FLASH TELLS DALE. "I'LL TRY TO DISCOURAGE OUR FINNY FRIENDS!"

THE FIRST BURST FROM FLASH'S FLAME-GUN CATCHES THE FISH-MEN BY SURPRISE. AS THEIR LEADER FALLS, THE OTHERS SCURRY BACK TO THE SAFETY OF THEIR CHEMICAL SEA. IT TAKES FLASH BUT A FEW MINUTES TO CATCH UP TO DALE AND ZARKOV IN THE FOREST.

PUSHING INTO THE DRIPPING WILDERNESS, THE LITTLE GROUP OF EARTHINGS LEAVES THE FISH-MEN'S SEA FAR BEHIND. SUDDENLY DALE BREAKS THE EERIE SILENCE: "LOOK! THOSE LEAVES ARE AS BIG AS TENTS!" FLASH CHUCKLES: "I CAN TAKE A HINT, DARLING--WE'LL REST UNDER ONE!"

COPYRIGHT 1952, KING FEATURES SYNDICATE, INC., WORLD RIGHTS RESERVED.

AS THEY RELAX IN THE DRY SHELTER OF A GIANT ROOF-BUSH, THEY ARE AMAZED TO HEAR A STERN VOICE FROM A NEAR-BY TREE: "HARK, INTRUDERS ON VENUS! THROW DOWN YOUR WEAPONS IF YOUR MISSION HERE IS A PEACEFUL ONE!" FLASH GRIPS HIS GUN AS HE WHISPERS: "HE CALLS IT VENUS. HE'S AN EARTH-MAN!"

FLASH SEEKS VAINLY FOR THE OWNER OF THE VOICE. FROM THE FOREST COMES THE HISsing SOUND OF A CHEMICAL-SPRAY GUN, AND THE ROOF-BUSH SHELTER GOES UP IN SMOKE! AGAIN THE VOICE IS HEARD: "KING STANG OF VENUS MEANS WHAT HE SAYS--DROP YOUR GUNS OR YOU DIE!"
