EISENHOWER IS 'IN' BY LANDSLIDE Cracks Solid South; GOP May Win Control Congress

Pitt Voters Backed Adlai By Five-To-One Yesterday

Upset Precedent By Casting 2,356 Ballots For Republican Eisenhower; Over 13,000 Votes Cast In County; State And County Democratic Tickets Fare Well

By JESS FONDENTER Reflector City Editor

Pitt County voters yesterday gave Democratic presidential nominee Adlai Stevenson a five-to-one majority over Republican Dwight Eisenhower for the office of president of the United States.

Final, unofficial tabulations gave Stevenson 11,219 votes as compared with 2,356 ballots for Eisenhower.

And in so doing, Pitt County waved goodbye to 52-year-old precedent, because in the general election held yesterday local voters shattered two polling records of long standing.

Two Records Not since the days of William McKinley and the short war with Spain have Pitt voters cast so many ballots — especially for a Republican candidate — as were recorded by pollholders last night.

When dutiful milling crowds left polling places behind at 6:30 last night, voting booths were stuffed with the marked ballots of 13,575 citizens, the best vote since 1898 and reputedly the greatest in the county's history.

It is, in fact, also the highest recorded endorsement of a Republican candidate Pitt County has registered in any election year — state or national — during the present century. The lone, near-threat to yesterday's peak Republican favoritism locally came in 1923 when Herbert Hoover polled 1,595 votes — nearly 1,000 less than former General Eisenhower garnered yesterday.

On the other side of the local political picture Democratic gubernatorial candidate William B. Umstead forged far ahead of Republican H. F. Seawell Jr. With 17 of the county's 23 precinct reporting, the vote was Umstead 8,301, Seawell 360.

Relatively speaking, substantially the same vote was recorded for all other state and county candidates on the Democratic ticket.

On a national level, however, 20 consecutive years of Democratic administration fell by the wayside at 1:45 this morning, when Gov. Adlai Stevenson conceded defeat and the election to Eisenhower via a telegram and radio broadcast.

The previous high in county voting came in the presidential election of 1949 when Pitt citizens cast approximately 11,000 ballots. Yesterday's unofficial 13,575 eclipsed that number by 2,575 votes.

Rural Democratic The major portion of Eisenhower's strength in local balloting was to be found in a few of the precincts in Greenville, but Stevenson picked up a heavy following in rural areas that accounted for his sizeable lead in Pitt.

In Colton No. 3, Stevenson soundly trounced the Republican candidate by the staggering vote of 204

Stevenson Asks People To Unite After Election

Urges Closing Of Ranks Behind New President In Conceding Defeat

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UP)—The text of Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson's statement conceding that Dwight D. Eisenhower had won the 1952 presidential election:

My fellow citizens have made their choice and have selected Gen. Eisenhower and the Republican party as the instrument of their will for the next four years.

The people have rendered their verdict, and I gladly accept it. Gen. Eisenhower has been a great leader in war. He has been a vigorous and valiant opponent in the campaign. These qualities shall now be dedicated to leading us all through the next four years.

It is traditionally American to fight hard before an election. It is equally traditional to close ranks as soon as the people have spoken. From the depths of my heart I thank all of my party and all of those independents and Republicans who supported me.

That which unites us as American citizens is far greater than that which divides us as political partisans. I urge all of you to give Gen. Eisenhower the support he will need to carry out the great tasks that lie before him. I pledge him mine.

We vote as many but we pray as one. With a united people, with faith in democracy, with common concern for others less fortunate around the globe, we shall move forward with GOD's guidance toward the time when His children shall grow in freedom and dignity in a world at peace.

McCarthy Wins, But Feud Flares

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UP)—Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy was heard back to the Senate today but the controversial Communist hunter trailed the rest of the Republican ticket.

Although the campaign shouting and tumult was over, the bitterness nursed between McCarthy's friends and enemies still flared. Democratic organizing chairman James Doyle offered congratulations to all Republican victors, save McCarthy. He wished the senator "war unto the death."

All Voting Records Broken In State, But Ike Polled Larger Vote Than Truman In 1948's Balloting

RALEIGH (UP)—North Carolina delivered its 14 electoral votes to Adlai Stevenson by a large margin in Tuesday's presidential election, but his Republican opponent, Dwight Eisenhower, polled a larger vote in the state than did President Truman in 1948.

All existing voting records were shattered for North Carolina. With about 200 rural precincts still to be counted early today the vote already had easily broken the previous high of 839,000 cast in 1936. Most Democratic candidates won easy victories, but the Republicans served notice they now constitute a powerful force in the state's politics.

With returns from 1,814 of 2,036 precincts today, Stevenson led Eisenhower 592,939 to 502,803. Democrat William B. Umstead was elected Governor over Republican Herbert F. Seawell on incomplete returns giving him a lead of more than 200,000.

The huge turnout for Eisenhower was even more significant in that Mr. Truman was only able to poll 459,070 votes in the state in 1948. But the presidential and gubernatorial races were all but overshadowed by the dramatic Republican showing in the congressional races and a few clean sweeps by the GOP in minor races.

In Stanley County, for example, Republicans walked off with every office from sheriff and county commissioner on down. The state's hottest contest was that waged by Republican Charles Rapier Jonas for the House seat held by Rep. Hamilton C. Jones in the 10th District.

With 155 of the district's 193 precincts counted early today Jones appeared a likely winner with 60,245 votes to 44,882 for Jones. But the Republican declined to issue a victory statement "until all the votes are counted."

Congressional races in the 9th District, where Republican Walter Johnson was battling Democrat Hugh Alexander for the seat made vacant by the retirement of Rep. Robert Doughton, and in the 12th District where the retirement of Rep. M. M. Redden resulted in a hotly contested fight between Republican Hugh Monteth and Democrat George A. Shuford, could not be settled until the final ballot was counted.

Alexander and Shuford held very narrow margins over their Republican opponents throughout the night and early morning. Democrat L. H. Fountain, who held a primary win over Rep. John H. Kerr in the 2nd District, easily defeated Republican W. V. White for a House seat.

DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER

Ike Runs Ahead Of GOP Ticket As Vote Is Counted

Appears To Have Won Control Of House; Senate Race In Doubt; Leads In 38 States Having 431 Electoral Votes

By LYLE C. WILSON United Press Staff Correspondent WASHINGTON (UP)—

Dwight D. Eisenhower won the presidency with a tremendous landslide vote but the Republican party appeared to be alling short today of comfortable control of Congress.

In defeating Adlai E. Stevenson and ending 20 years of Democratic rule, the general ran ahead of his ticket. He appeared to have carried his party to slim control of the House. But the Senate story continued in doubt.

The presidential popular vote at 12 noon EST, as tabulated by the United Press:

Eisenhower, 28,434,963; Stevenson, 22,871,179.

Eisenhower had won or was leading in 38 states having 431 electoral votes; Stevenson in 10 states having 100 electoral votes. Necessary to elect: 266.

Twenty Republicans and 10 Democrats had been elected to the Senate at that hour. Three Republicans and two Democrats were leading in undecided contests. Taking holdovers into consideration, the Republicans had an indicated Senate strength of 48, one short of a majority; the Democrats 47.

Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon, who bolted the Republican party to support Stevenson, calls himself an Independent. Republicans had won 193 House seats and were leading in 28 other contests for an indicated strength of 221, only three more than a majority. Democrats had won 190 seats and were leading for 23 others, making their projected strength 213. In one contest an independent was elected.

Eisenhower cracked the "Solid South" Stevenson won the electoral votes of five Southern states and was leading in five other southern or border states—Arkansas, Louisiana, Kentucky, Tennessee and West Virginia. But he conceded soon after midnight.

Seventeen Republican governors were elected, unseating three Democrats, and GOP candidates were leading in three other contests. The Democrats elected nine governors and were leading in the contest for one more.

Eisenhower's election was a shot in the arm for U.S. business and a kick in the pants for American labor union leaders. Wall Street reflected the gratification with which business leaders advanced at today's opening in what "the street" called a celebration of the GOP victory.

Chiefs of all of the country's biggest labor groups—the AFL, CIO and United Mine Workers—backed Stevenson and backed him hard. Their support did not, however, win the Democrats a single electoral vote.

Eisenhower won Florida, Texas and Virginia in the first Republican breakthrough in Dixie since Herbert Hoover won five Southern states in 1928.

Stevenson conceded at 1:45 a.m. EST. He telegraphed Eisenhower congratulations and best wishes. He lost with a smile.

Eisenhower wired his thanks to Stevenson, and to campaign workers.

ers the General acknowledged and accepted the new responsibilities which rest upon him.

"Never shall I shrink," he said, "or give short weight to these responsibilities. This is a time for all Americans to unite."

Eisenhower and his family are off by airplane today for Augusta, Ga., for 10 days rest and golf, accompanied, since about 2 a.m., by some new-found friends. They are the Secret Service agents who became companions and guardians of the president-elect the moment he appeared in public after Stevenson quit.

After Augusta — Korea! Eisenhower's aides said he would go there in late November or early December. But there are other pressing engagements. President Truman was expected today to invite the general to sit in from now on with the Cabinet and other policy making groups. His aides would be welcomed, too.

Vice President-elect Richard M. Nixon and his family fly from California to Washington tonight. Sen. John J. Sparkman, the defeated Democratic vice presidential nominee, was being a good sport about it in Alabama.

It is 20 years since there has been a regular change of administration here, 24 since the GOP last won the White House. When the job-starved GOP faithful deposed Eisenhower, he'll likely wish for lesser troubles, like the Battle of the Bulge.

There are Cabinet jobs to be filled, and many others. Thomas E. Dewey and John Foster Dulles were being talked today for secretary of state. How would Eisenhower utilize Gen. Douglas MacArthur? Or, would he—could he? That would hit the Pentagon, which got deep into this presidential campaign. Eighth Army commander James A. Van Fleet in Korea got in even deeper.

Van Fleet is okay. He was in on the right side. Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge, Massachusetts, was an almost sure bet for the Cabinet as defense secretary or a spot of equal prominence. He lost his Senate seat in Massachusetts to Rep. John F. Kennedy, a Democrat. Lodge was mother hen to Eisenhower's candidacy.

Dewey would fit into an Eisenhower cabinet in another role as well as secretary of state. Communism and corruption were big Republican issues. Crime and corruption are Dewey's meat and potatoes.

Harold E. Stassen has a claim on Eisenhower, and so do many others that there cannot be top jobs for a tenth of them. Not the least claim was that of Sen. Robert A. Taft. From Eisenhower at that famous breakfast he got a pledge that Taft men would get a fair deal — and in politics that usually means jobs.

HE CONCEDES NEWARK, N.J. (UP)—Farmer Henry Krajewski, who ran for president as "the poor man's candidate," early today conceded his defeat at the hands of GOP nominee Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Eyes And Ears Were Focused On Tallying Of Votes

Order Man Held In Fatal Injury

Coroner's Jury Calls For Grand Jury Action In Wreck Death

A coroner's jury in session last night at the Pitt County Court-house ordered that William Tucker, 38 year-old Negro, be held for Grand Jury action in connection with the death of John Robert Holland.

Holland was fatally injured about 2:30 a. m. Saturday in an automobile accident on the Pictolus Highway after the car, driven by Tucker, went out of control and traveled 210 feet in a cornfield, turning over and fatally injuring Holland.

Coroner Griffin H. Rouse ordered last night that Tucker be held under $500 bond in connection with Holland's death. Holland was thrown from the automobile which then landed on him, fracturing his skull and breaking his neck.

Testimony heard last night at the inquest revealed that Holland was riding in the front seat of the death car with Tucker and Coroner Rouse said he was first thrown against the windshield of the car with such force that he was hurled into the rear of the car, sustaining cuts before he was thrown completely out of the automobile.

Tucker, who was not injured in the accident, was charged by investigating highway patrolman James Boykin following the accident with driving a motor vehicle while drunk.

Big Tidal Wave Batters Hawaii; Evacuate Area

HONOLULU (UP)—Hawaiian and Aleutian natives were warned today to remain inland until a giant tidal wave, spawned by an ocean floor earthquake off Siberia, had spent itself.

The giant wave moving at up to 400 miles an hour yesterday raced across the Pacific and crashed into the islands of Kauai, Hawaii and Oahu in the Hawaiian group with six smashing crests.

The last crest, more than 13 feet high, battered the northwest coast of Oahu, flooding highways, homes and a schoolhouse.

All persons living in beach areas along the northwestern coast of Kauai were evacuated and authorities warned other island natives to remain inland until it was definite the waves had spent itself.

Congratulates

WITH TRUMAN (UP)—President Truman today congratulated Dwight D. Eisenhower on his election and offered him the presidential plane The Independence to fly to Korea.

In the closing days of the campaign, Eisenhower said that if elected, he would go to Korea to try to find a solution to the war.

Mr. Truman also said Eisenhower should "immediately" send a representative to confer with budget officials on the 1954 budget which will be submitted to Congress before the new president is inaugurated on Jan. 20.

The President's message to Eisenhower was sent by radio from the special communications car on the President's special train to Washington. From there, it was sent by telegraph to Eisenhower at New York.

Farm Belt Gives Ike Huge Margin

CHICAGO (UP)—The Republican party, still stinging from President Truman's surprise victory in 1948, today gloated over what was apparently its greatest farm belt victory since pre-New Deal days.

Democrats were left broken and bent like cornstalks after a windstorm as Dwight D. Eisenhower swept to victory in the Midwest, taking a large majority of national and state Republican with him.

In Stevenson's home state of Illinois Eisenhower won a smashing victory in a reversal of the 1948 balloting which went for President Truman by a narrow margin. Latest returns gave Eisenhower a lead of more than 270,000 votes.

Other states which were in the Democratic column in 1948—Iowa, Minnesota and Wisconsin—followed the pattern set in Illinois.

In Kansas, Nebraska, South Dakota, North Dakota and Indiana where the GOP won by slender margins in the last presidential election, the Democrats fell far behind.

Market Gains As Trading Heavy

NEW YORK (UP)—The stock market reacted to the Republican victory today with gains of fractions to 3 points. Volume was heavy.

ROK Attack Is Halted By Reds

ROK Attack Halted 10 Yards From Triangle Hill Goal

SEOUL, Korea (UP)—Scraggy South Korean troops recaptured a corner of the Triangle Hill mass on Korea's central front today, but were halted 10 yards from the top of the main peak by fierce Chinese resistance.

The ROKs seized one of the twin mounds of Jane Russell Hill, one of four peaks comprising the Triangle Hill mass.

Their comrades came within an ace of recapturing Triangle's main peak in their fourth try in five days. But "bucketsful" of hand grenades and streams of machine-gun fire from Reds entrenched on the crest stopped them 10 yards short of their goal.

Front dispatches said the Chinese holding Triangle's main peak and the second mound of Jane Russell Hill showed no signs of weakening. However, Communist mortar fire slackened a bit.

The rest of the 155-mile battlefront was ominously quiet. American troops in the western and eastern sectors sat around bunker radios listening to presidential election returns relayed by the armed forces radio network.

S. C. Amendment On New School System Voted

By UNITED PRESS South Carolina voters today approved by a better than 2 to 1 margin a constitutional amendment which would open the way for a private school system in the event the U.S. Supreme Court outlawed public school segregation.

Georgia apparently rejected a constitutional amendment to bar the general election candidates who were not nominated in primaries under the county unit system.

A Mississippi amendment to make a literacy test a voting requirement apparently failed for lack of a majority.

The South Carolina amendment, advocated by Gov. James F. Byrnes, would not abolish the state's public school system but would permit the legislature to decide the school setup if segregation is declared unconstitutional.

OMAHONEY CONCEDES CHEYENNE, Wyo. (UP)—Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney, sixth ranking U. S. senator, today conceded defeat in his bid for a fourth term in the Senate. Gov. Frank A. Barrett, his Republican opponent, received a congratulatory telegram.

Europeans Surprised By Election Outcome

LONDON (UP)—Western Europe looked to Dwight D. Eisenhower today to carry on President Truman's policy of American cooperation and aid in building a joint defense against Communist aggression.

The landslide nature of Eisenhower's victory over Adlai Stevenson surprised Europeans, many of whom had expected the Democrats to win.

But officials of all Western European countries expressed confidence Eisenhower would press on with the policies he furthered while commander of the North Atlantic Pact forces.

Eisenhower broadcast a message of friendship to France today over a French radio network shortly after his election became assured. Following a few words of greeting in French, Eisenhower turned to English and said, "It is a tremendous com r to know that France and the United States are linked by such efficacious ties."

He recalled that the traditional friendship of the two nations is "sealed in blood, not in words" and remain a living fact in spite of the vicissitudes of history.

Eisenhower's victory became certain only after Europe's morning newspapers had gone to press. But thousands of Americans in London, Paris, Rome, Frankfurt and other European centers stayed up through the night listening to radio broadcasts. Results of the election were posted in American army bases throughout Western Europe. A helicopter dropped latest returns to one outfit on maneuvers in Austria. There was no immediate official British reaction. However, Britain holds Eisenhower in high regard and hopes his experience here will work to its advantage. Prime Minister Winston Churchill was expected to send Eisenhower a personal message of congratulations. The French Foreign Office said France is "convinced he will continue the policies he followed as supreme commander of the Atlantic forces in Europe." Austrian Chancellor Leopold Figl predicted Eisenhower would conduct a "realistic European policy." West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer said Germany welcomes "in the person of President Eisenhower a profound expert in European affairs."

Service League Planning November Shrubbery Sale

The Service League of Greenville held its regular monthly meeting at the Sheppard Memorial Library on Monday, November 3rd, with Mrs. E. H. Williford, president, presiding. After opening the meeting with a prayer, Mrs. Williford welcomed as a guest Mrs. John D. Messick, a newly appointed member of the Advisory Council.

Mrs. W. S. Boat, projects chairman, reminded the members of the two main projects for the month, the house-to-house canvass for the Community Chest, with Mrs. J. B. Cummings chairman, and the publicity for the T. B. Seal Sale under the leadership of Mrs. J. S. Moye. Mrs. Moye reported that she had lined up volunteers to assist her in decorating store windows, distributing posters and signs for car bumpers, and in promoting radio programs.

The thrift shop chairman, Mrs. Robert Thompson, announced that the shop would be closed from November 27 to December 1st, for the Thanksgiving holiday. Mrs. George Laurares, finance chairman, reported that the tournament given in October was a great success and that $51.15 was raised for the Hospital Bed Fund by this means. She appointed a committee to put on another tournament this month under the chairmanship of Mrs. Wesley Harvey. Mrs. Laurares also announced that the Shrubbery Sale to be sponsored by the League would be on November 13th at the Cold Storage Plant. Small perennial plants will also be sold.

The Hospital bed chairman, Mrs. R. C. Stokes, Jr. reported that $240 had been paid out of the Hospital Fund during the month covering the expenses of two baby patients, one of which was a very prolonged case and a very deserving one.

Mrs. J. T. Little reported that these were busy days at the Hospital Coffee Shop, since the volume of business showed a great increase over last year. She stated that arrangements had been made so that no volunteers would need to work during the week of Thanksgiving, and reminded the members that Christmas toys would be on sale in the shop and that homemade minis and sandwiches for parties could be had by placing the order a day ahead.

Mrs. L. T. Shotwell reported that about 75 Halloween favors for hospital trays had been made and furnished to the hospital. It was also reported that a pair of crutches from the lending Chest had been loaned out and that one family had been furnished with food by the Emergency Charity Committee.

Chicken Supper Planned The Winterville P.T.A. will serve a baked chicken supper at the school lunchroom from 6 to 8 o'clock Friday, Nov. 7.

Circle Groups Organized At WSCS Meeting

At the meeting of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of St. James Methodist Church, it was reported that the group had cleared close to $350 on the food booth which they operated during the recent county fair.

The group also voted to hold a Thanksgiving Bake Sale as they are still receiving many orders for cakes and pies such as they had for sale during fair week. Another project which will be undertaken prior to Christmas was discussed and approved. Announcements about this will be made later.

Mrs. George Smith presided in the absence of the president, Mrs. V. C. Fleming Jr. During the business an invitation from the WSCS of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church and the Eighth Street Christian Church was extended to attend the home missions study classes which begin today.

Reports were given by the various officers, and progress was noted in the plans to organize a children's choir. Leaders and volunteers for an adult choir have already been secured, and it is hoped that they will sing for the first time on Sunday, November 16.

Mrs. George Clapp volunteered to help Mrs. Ashley Hudson with help in the Primary department of the Church School. Mrs. E. W. Larkin asked for a substitute to help her with the teenagers.

Mrs. Harry Forbes gave the devotional and program for the evening, centered around the topic of "Fruits of Evangelism." She cited a number of projects which have been developed by evangelistic group in this country and elsewhere to show how the type of evangelistic work and its scope has spread out to include a number of educational and social service programs in which the church is carried to the people where it is most needed. Her devotional stressed the fact that each person is an evangelist in her daily living, and that this kind of witnessing for Christ is the most effective.

Special prayers were made for two members of the society who have been sick and also for the election. Names were drawn for the formation of three circles. As the group has grown so large and so rapidly, it was decided at the October meeting that new groups would be formed. One circle will meet in the afternoon and two will meet at night. Leaders will be Mrs. Ray MacKenzie, Mrs. Leslie Garner and Mrs. R. W. Davenport.

During the social hour the hostesses, Mrs. R. W. Davenport, at whose home the meeting was held, Mrs. Jimmy Smith, Mrs. J. R. Jackson, Mrs. Levi Corey and Mrs. Floyd Phillips served iced drinks, sandwiches, cookies and candies to the 36 members who were present.

Family Dinner Held For Serviceman

A family reunion was held at the home of Mrs. R. F. Bristow on North Pitt Street in honor of her son, Sgt. Cecil Bullock, who has just received his discharge after serving with the army in Germany.

Sgt. Bullock left with the local National Guard unit a little more than two years ago.

Each family carried a basket lunch, and the meal was spread on tables placed in the yard. All of Mrs. Bristow's children were present except one, who is in Pennsylvania.

Those who were guests for the day were Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Bristow and Barbara Jean Bristow, Dennis Bullock, Marvin Bullock, Cecil Bullock, Mrs. Cecil Bullock, Billy and Donnie Bullock, Mr. and Mrs. Julian Bullock, Larry and Roland Bullock, Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Bullock, David Earl, and Kay Bullock, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Owens, Danny Ray and Billy Wayne Owens, Mr. and Mrs. John Bullock and Johnnie Bullock of Smithfield, Mr. Sanford Wheeler and Marie Wheeler of Wilson.

Cecil Bullock will soon begin work with the Colonial Stores here, where he has been employed.

Hallowe'en Party Adds To Funds Of Robersonville PTA

ROBERSONVILLE—The Hallowe'en parties sponsored by the Parent-Teachers Association were very enjoyable and profitable occasions.

The high school coors were opened promptly at 6 o'clock and supper was served in the lunch room with a dance following. Later in the evening a cake walk furnished entertainment.

The Elementary School sold candy, peanuts, chewing gum, popcorn, cup cakes, homemade cookies, bottled drinks, lemonade and a variety of sandwiches.

A program was given in this building. Later the children rambled around dressed as Santa Claus, cowboys, clowns, black cats, white cats, gypsies, witches, hoboes, devils, soldiers and some of the boys and girls wore very weird and ugly masks.

One teacher had a fortune telling booth. Bingo was played in the library. The seventh grade boys represented chorus girls while some of the other pupils were Wild Men of Borneo.

Comic books at a nickel or three for a dime were on sale in the music room. Many adults and children bobbed for apples and fished for prizes. Mrs. Gerard and Mrs. Morrow had an apron sale and also sold doll clothes.

The third grade had a Horror House. Dart throwing was enjoyed by the boys and men. Movies furnished amusement for all. A cake auction raised a nice sum for the P.T.A.

Before the parties broke up the 1951 queens crowned the Beauty Queens of 1952. Miss Sonia Taylor was the honored high school student. Miss Anna House, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howell House, was the winner in the Elementary School. Penny Lee Martin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Martin, was the runnerup while Carolyn Roberson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Lewis Roberson, was third.

Approximately $900 was cleared on the parties.

Mrs. Goldwasser Bridge Hostess

GRIFTON—On Thursday night Mrs. Joseph Goldwasser was at home to members of her card club and invited players at her home in Grifton Heights.

Two tables were placed for the games, where seasonal decorations were used. During the games Mrs. Gerald A. Orkin and Mrs. Tom Hensell of Kingston were highest scorers. Other guests were Mrs. Clarence Pharo of Kingston, Mrs. E. M. Howell, Mrs. M. B. McWilliams, Mrs. Ira K. Morton and Mrs. Roy Oakley.

Mrs. Goldwasser served iced beverages during play and as cards were laid aside a dessert with coffee was enjoyed.

By MARTHA & FORBES

Did you vote yesterday? If you did, I congratulate you. If you did not, you should hang your head in shame.

Everyone who refused to cast his ballot failed in one of the major responsibilities as an American citizen, because taking an active part in the selections of our government leaders is no longer just a privilege of which we may take advantage; it is a definite duty and responsibility to keep informed and to take part in the operations of our government.

Bad officials are elected by good citizens who do not vote! Yesterday every qualified voter was, for the time being, boss of the country. In a way, every citizen is boss every day of the year, because our government was established to represent individuals, and individuals are people like you and me. If it has failed to do that, it is because of the lethargy, ignorance and indifference of the people for whom it was designed.

We select representatives who we believe are better qualified to work at laws and the business of operating our country than we are — people who have the same interest and concern about the way things should be handled that we do. A president of a business does not attempt to perform all the functions necessary to make the enterprise successful. He hires experts in various fields and departments who devote their time to making that particular phase of the business as good as possible. In the same way, our ordinary citizens "hire" government officials who through experience and training know more about the technicalities of office than we do. But it is our responsibility to see that they do, and do well, the job to which we assign them. If they make a miserable failure, or if they are dishonest and untrustworthy, it is our job to replace them.

That is what makes each of us a boss in his own country. Too many of us feel that there is nothing we can do. Too many think that one vote does not count, and that the "politicians" have such a firm grip on things that they cannot be uprooted, even though they are making a mess of things. If we operated a private business, would we let an employee carry our concern to ruin and bankruptcy? Would we be hesitant about slipping in a pink slip of dismissal if we were convinced that they were a detriment to the business instead of a help?

The election is over and decided. We now know who will head our country for the next four years at least. But our duties as citizens are just beginning. We should actively concern ourselves with the developments which will follow, the laws which will be imposed upon us, and the decisions which will be made to affect every one of us. If we do not think that they are wise, we can voice our opinions through our congressmen. If there is negligence or unconcern about matters vitally affecting all of us, we have the privilege of letting our wants and needs be known. The most powerful thing in America is public opinion — not the president, not the courts, not congress. With such potentialities in our very hands, the success or failure of our country ultimately depends on you and me.

Now there are places in the world where this is not true. There are countries where the people are not allowed to vote, where any criticism of government is punishable by death. There are places where there is no free expression of opinion, and these voiceless people of other lands must be looking at us Americans and considering us pretty lucky individuals. There are places where no one enjoys the freedom of speech, liberty and the right to pursue happiness.

If we are not more concerned, if we do not overcome our indifference, if we do not prayerfully and earnestly work to preserve these precious liberties, we will wake up some morning to the fact that our freedoms have been taken away from us. And then would we howl!

In this country we love freedom so much and hate force so much that we are willing, verbally at least, to do anything to preserve it. Anytime we make our opinions known, right or wrong, we are helping to keep alive the basic principles upon which our great country was founded. Our founding fathers gave their lives in service to hand us a heritage of freedom. The only way we can keep it alive is by accepting our privileges with a deep, prayerful sense of responsibility.

Native Of N. C. Benefit From Poppy Funds

Proceeds from the sale of poppies, which will be advanced on Saturday, go towards care and support of widows and children of disabled veterans of both World Wars, as well as to help the disabled veterans themselves. The Poppy Sale is promoted by the local VFW and VFW Auxiliary.

The VFW supports a home in Eaton Rapids, Michigan, for the families of deceased or disabled veterans, and part of the poppy funds will go to the National Home. At the summer encampment of the VFW which was held in August in Los Angeles, a North Carolina native who has spent a part of her teenage life at Eaton Rapids, was presented as a speaker to the delegates by Mrs. Edna Bumgarner, state president of the VFW Auxiliary.

The young woman, Phyllis Green, is one of four children who, with their mother, found a home at Eaton Rapids after their father, a World War I veteran, became totally disabled as a result of injuries suffered in four major battles during 1917-1918. Her mother, one brother and one sister are still residing there, where her mother is a house mother at one of the cottages. She completed her high school training there where she qualified as an excellent student, and later enrolled in a college in California. She is now specializing in work towards training as a dental assistant. She has appeared before a number of VFW organizations, where she has made talks to stimulate interest in and support of the home where she was cared for.

Miss Green is just one of the many fine examples of how funds from the sale of poppies are used to rehabilitate and to educate those who have been handicapped in any way by the wars in which the country has engaged.

The public is urged to support the poppy drive, which will be conducted Saturday.

Club Sponsoring Bazaar Today

Gifts of interest to the Christmas shopper and a variety of items for the homemaker will be offered for sale at the second annual bazaar sponsored by the Home Economics Club at East Carolina College. The event will take place in the lobby of the Flanagan building today, from 4 p. m. to 8 p. m.

Profits will be used during the school year to send student delegates to the convention to the American Home Economics Association in Kansas City and to state and regional conferences and workshops. Club members will also use the proceeds of the bazaar to contribute to the International Scholarship Fund and the Permanent Headquarters Fund of the national home economics organization, to the local March of Dimes drive, and to other worthy projects.

Clothing and toys for children, articles useful and ornamental in the home, and a variety of homemade cakes, candies, jellies, jams, and preserves will be offered the shopper.

Large Audience Hears Talk By Lorena Kelly

ROBERSONVILLE — On last Thursday night, around 185 people, representing the Methodist Churches of Stokes, Parme, Bethel, Hamilton, Vernon and the local churches, met in the Robersonville Methodist Church to hear Miss Lorena Kelly, Missionary to Africa, as she unfolded the story of the work of the Methodist Church in that country. She also revealed something of the needs yet to be met there in making Africa totally Christian.

Miss Kelly, a native of Mooreville, has served as missionary in the Belgian Congo under the Woman's Division of Christian Service of The Methodist Church for the past 16 years. She has taught in teacher training classes, in the language school, and has served as head of the Girls Home at Lodja. She expects to sail December 23rd for Belgium where she will be engaged in further study, and from whence she will return to Africa in September, 1952.

Miss Kelly pointed out the geographical aspects of Africa, told of the opportunities for service there. She named as three evil forces at work in Africa today Animism, Mohammedism, and Communism. "As we think of Christianity in Africa, and of our service there, we must think in terms of their human rights," she said. "That is the point at which we are most concerned. The Africans want Christianity now more than ever before."

Two film strips depicting Africa as a whole, and the work of the Woman's Division of Christian Service in Africa were shown, revealing the progress made in health, education, agriculture, spiritual life, and general economic conditions.

Immediately preceding the special Mission Study Class, Miss Kelly was guest of honor at a covered supper in the Educational Building of the Methodist Church. Around 125 attended the supper.

Supper Party Given By Miss Mewborn

GRIFTON — Miss Louise Mewborn entertained on Thursday night at an enjoyable supper party at her home on Queen Street. Yellow chrysanthemums and roses made pretty decorations for the three tables arranged for the party.

A delectable two course supper was enjoyed at the card tables prior to the games. Scoring high were Mrs. Alton Chapman and Miss Bert Johnson for club members and Mrs. Charlie Gardner for visitors. Other players were Mesdames W. L. Bissette, Robert Mewborn, L. L. Mewborn, Eleanor Gower, Thurman Williams, J. L. Tucker, Miss Marie Chapman and Miss Hazel Patrick.

Indian Art Now On Display Here

Silk screen prints by the noted Indian artist Woody Crumbo are now being exhibited at the Joyner Library at East Carolina College and the Sheppard Memorial Library in Greenville. Francis Lee Neel, acting director of the art department at the college, arranged for the display of the pictures, locally. The public is invited to view the works during the next two weeks.

Based on the life of the Indians in the West, the prints include as subjects ritual dances and ceremonies, the blue deer, and the horse. Colorful, lively, and decorative, Woody Crumbo's work has been acclaimed by prominent critics as the finest aesthetic Indian art in existence.

Woody Crumbo has attained prominence as the nation's foremost Indian artist. Born in Oklahoma, he attended the Indian schools at later the Universities of Wichita and Oklahoma. He served as art director at Bacone College, the only college for American Indians in the country.

His paintings and murals are placed in approximately a hundred public buildings, including the new Department of the Interior Building in Washington, the Museum of Natural History in New York, the Philbrook and Gilcrease museums in Tulsa, and a number of art galleries. In a period of three years he won fourteen prize awards and six scholarships. In 1954 he was awarded the coveted Julius Rosenwald Fellowship.

Program Series Scheduled For Nat'l Art Week

The Art Department of East Carolina College, the Art Department of the Woman's Club and the Community Art Center are cooperating in a series of programs to be given in the city during National Art Week, which begins today. James Walker, art supervisor in the city schools, is also collaborating in the observance.

Tonight at 7:30 p. m. John Gordon of the art department of the college, will give a gallery talk on the current exhibition which is being shown during the month of November. On Thursday Adelyn D. Breeskin, director of the Baltimore Museum of Art, will give a lecture on American Artists and American Art Week. She is a recognized authority and critic of art, and her lecture will be delivered in Austin Auditorium beginning at 3:00 p. m.

Artists To Visit College During Two-Day Program

Emily Muir, painter, and William Muir, sculptor, will make a two-day visit, November 10 to 11, to East Carolina College to demonstrate their media in various classes of the department of art and to discuss topics related to the fine arts with students and others who are interested.

The public is invited to attend a lecture in the College Theatre at 8 p. m. Monday, November 10, when the two artists will have as their subject "Does Fine Arts Training Pay Off?" The Entertainment Committee at East Carolina.

Emily Muir, a native of Chicago, studied sculpture at the Art Students League of New York, and portrait drawing and painting under Winold Reiss and Richard Lacey. She has held five one-man shows in New York and has exhibited at several universities and museums. Her work has been purchased by the U.S. Government, and is in a number of private collections. She specializes in Maine coastal scenes, portrait head and children's portraits.

Grifton Sets Up Teen-Age Club

GRIFTON — Under the direction of the Parent Teachers Association's TeenAge committee, a teenage club was begun in Grifton last month. The club was organized with a purpose of giving Grifton teenagers some form of recreation on Saturday nights. Heading the organization was Mrs. John Looney, former recreation director at Roanoke, Virginia. Mrs. Looney also serves as a chaperone with Mrs. William Rouse and a number of parents.

About 75 boys and girls from Grifton between the ages of 13 and 19 elected officers to plan programs at the club and aid in setting up club policies. Officers are Dorothy Shirley, president; Bernard McLawhorn, vice-president; Hilda Buck, secretary; and Phyllis Johnson, treasurer. The officers meet monthly with club directors to make needed reports.

A. F. Tyson, Grifton school principal, commented on the project by saying that the teen-agers have done a good job in getting the club started and organized. The teenage club is set up in the school gym.

About 36 per cent of the earth's land surface is in the continent of North America.

On Monday of next week William Muir and Mrs. Emily Muir will start a series of four lectures and demonstrations to be presented at the college. Muir will open the series with a lecture demonstration on sculpture at 8:00 a. m. in the auditorium of the Flanagan Building at 1:00 p. m. of the same day, Mrs. Muir will give a lecture demonstration in painting at the same place. Monday night at 8:00 p. m. both of them will repeat their lectures in the Training School auditorium.

On Tuesday at 8:00 a. m. Mrs. Muir will give a lecture to a different group, and at 1:00 p. m. Mrs. Muir will repeat his lecture at the same place. The purpose in having these talks and demonstrations repeated is to give more groups an opportunity to see and hear them. All of these programs on the campus are free to the public.

The programs will be concluded on Tuesday afternoon when Mr. Gordon gives another talk at the Art Gallery at Sheppard Memorial Library on the current show.

The public is cordially invited to attend any or all of these programs.

Strength for the Day

ARE YOU GETTING AWAY WITH IT?
Temple sacrifices among the ancient Greeks were matters of great importance. In fact that ancient religion largely consisted in offering up proper sacrifices at appointed times. Socrates, enlightened as he was, directed almost with his last breath that one of his friends offer a sacrifice which the philosopher himself had neglected some time previously.

But the Greeks had crafty ways by which they avoided the discomfort of too-expensive sacrifices. All grades of sacrificial animals could be purchased, but if one knew the right place to go, he could get a cut rate on sacrificial animals. Then when he brought the sacrifice into the temple, it would be doctored up so that the gods would not notice any defects. Sacrificial animals, for instance, were often spotted, but the spots were easily chalked over.

Thus these ancient people fooled their gods—or did they? Drop the "s" off the word "gods," spell it with a capital "G," and the circumstance related above comes down to point an accusing finger at many people today who really think they are getting away with something. But don't be too sure about that. In religion as in everything else, you get what you pay for; and the chief currency involved in such a transaction is the inner sincerity of a consecrated heart.

A New Outlet For Hospitable People?

During World War II the people of this community earned a reputation for themselves as good hosts and hostesses to servicemen who were looking for recreation away from their military bases.

Greenville had a United Services Organization (USO) then, and it was a popular destination for men stationed in a wide perimeter around the city. Many came from a respectable distance to enjoy the hospitality of Greenville's USO.

Things are pretty much the same now as they were then. Millions of men and boys are in uniform, more are entering the service each month and the end of such an expanded military establishment is not in sight. No one even guesses how long this state of emergency will go on.

But the men and boys just don't have means for recreation when they visit Greenville. And they do come here; hardly a day passes that one does not see them on our streets.

All there seems to be available for them to do is to attend a movie, sit around and drink a beer; or, if there's an athletic event in town, to attend that.

Now it seems obvious that we can do better than that. Heaven knows, we've got kinfolk and neighbors scattered from Korea to Alaska, from Texas to Europe and from Florida to Africa and the Near East. We don't like to think of them stifled by the constant routine of life at a base or on a ship. And these servicemen are all in the same fix; all looking for some of the simpler pleasures they left behind when they donned uniforms.

A revival of the USO in Greenville would fill a great need in the lives of a few of them. It wouldn't have to be on a large scale at first; but once it got started we're sure it would grow as interest spread.

We heard some people are thinking about starting a new USO. Maybe others had given it a passing thought and for lack of a starting point just let it ride. A lot of little details would have to be ironed out, but the most important factor of all abounds here. That is friendliness and hospitality. It only awaits an outlet.

The People's Voice Sounded Loud And Clear

This, we had to get off our chest.

The lines of voters at the polling places yesterday put a new bounce in our step. It was as inspiring as a rainbow after a summer shower; as heart-lifting as Old Glory floating in the sunshine. This was what makes our wheels go 'round.

In certain respects, they think that Truman and Acheson have been as bellicose as Stalin and Vishinsky, strange as that may seem to us. They see scant difference between what they describe as "Russian aggression" and "American imperialism."

Although bitterly anti-Moscow, Nehru has said, in effect, that "we need bread, not guns," adding sardonically that his people might not survive to use the guns unless they have bread to eat in the meantime. Indeed, that is the cry—and complaint—against us from all the "backward and undeveloped" lands.

Thus it appears that the next Administration must formulate an entirely different program from the stalemating Truman-Acheson foreign policy.

patient people before and behind you. And you were all a part of a massive voice, heard all over the nation, bent on naming a new President . . . shaping destiny.

In the end, you had to make up your mind; didn't you? Some people tried to tell you how you had to vote; but that was not right and you knew it. How you voted was up to your own conscience; and once you knew how it had to be, that was how you voted.

And yesterday evening, press associations began compiling and tabulating the returns as they were reported. It was a complicated and confusing process. Bit by bit, the world (and you) learned how successfully two great men had carried their cases before the people.

For hour after hour, the scattered voting results were compiled and fitted into the pattern of victory. It hung in doubt for a long time. Everybody waited for the "key" states to give their final accounting.

Maybe some people think they voted for the "loser"; but they really didn't. The American people were the real winners in any such monumental showing of interest in their country and a future which does not only involve their own welfare but the very security of millions outside our own borders. It was the spirit of Democracy giving voice over the land.

But that voice would be meaningless if our people did not unite in pride and thanksgiving behind their new President, and pray that God's blessing be upon him, his work and all America.

It may be years before we can judge the wisdom of our votes in this election. It may take years to see the full effects. But, more than any time in the memory of most of us, we have that feeling that what we marked on yesterday's ballot was truly important.

National Whirligig

WASHINGTON—The incoming Administration and Congress will have to recognize the existence of growing opposition among our overseas allies to American domination of world affairs through our allegedly one-sided use of our great military and financial power.

Although these threatening developments have been obscured by the campaign excitement, they will necessitate a complete review and possible revision of the Truman-Acheson foreign policy.

When it is fully revealed, the extent and depth of this revolt against our international manners will probably fall on resentful ears in this country, especially on Capitol Hill.

In view of the fact that the United States has spent $40 billion for foreign aid and recovery in the postwar years, the charge of ingratitude will be hurled at the expanding circle of critics.

SEEK TO ALLAY FEARS—But Secretary Acheson and our diplomatic corps are aware and alarmed at this trend. They are seeking to allay these fears and prejudices in quiet talks with foreign representatives at the current United Nations Sessions in New York. But it is obvious that no definite or positive remedial reforms can be undertaken by the outgoing regime.

Only the next President can pass judgment on this extremely difficult and ominous questioning of our motives and objectives. As a result, after January 20, almost every trans-Atlantic plane will carry to Washington the most distinguished invasion of European emissaries since World War II days, possibly including Churchill, Schuman, Adenauer, etc.

BIG BOSS—Despite attempts to suppress the fact until after yesterday's election, our European associates have flatly informed us that they will not accept any more American money for strictly economic help. They complain because, in return, we have demanded a certain right to supervise their use of our funds.

We have tried to boss them on such items as profits, taxes, prices, labor relationships, etc. We have acted as a combination of banker and shop foreman in their internal affairs.

They endured this interference in the early post-war years. But their prolonged dependency has grafted on them. It also furnishes ammunition to their political opposition, especially the Communists who declare that their governments have become "wards of Uncle Sam."

REINFORCEMENT IN KOREA—No savings in forthcoming Presidential budgets will result from our compliance with their demand, however. They will insist on greatly increased funds for military assistance, especially the purchases of arms manufactured in their own countries.

As further evidence of the insistence on getting away from our apron strings, even friendly United Nations members have turned deaf ears to Acheson's current pleas for more military reinforcement in Korea. The U.S. has become the U.N.'s agent in fact as well as in name.

London points out that, in addition to her forces engaged in Malaya, Burma and elsewhere, she has done as much as she could in the "police action." Paris notes that her expenditures in resisting Communist invasion of Indo-China has cost twice what she has received from us under Marshall and Mutual Security plans.

Both nations regard their efforts in these areas as important to "containment of communism" as the U.S. sponsored war in Korea.

REBUFF—Another preliminary indication of our involuntary "isolation" occurred at a recent U. N. session, when 21 members voted against us on the question of making Yugoslavia a member of a key committee. The rebuff to ourselves and our Balkan ally was generally overlooked because we were more concerned with political than with world affairs.

Our opposition consisted of Asian and South American countries, together with Russia and her satellites. Although anti-Communist, the Asian and South American nations expressed belief that we were trying to run U.N. affairs for our own interests rather than for the common good. Prime Minister Nehru's spokesman lined up against us.

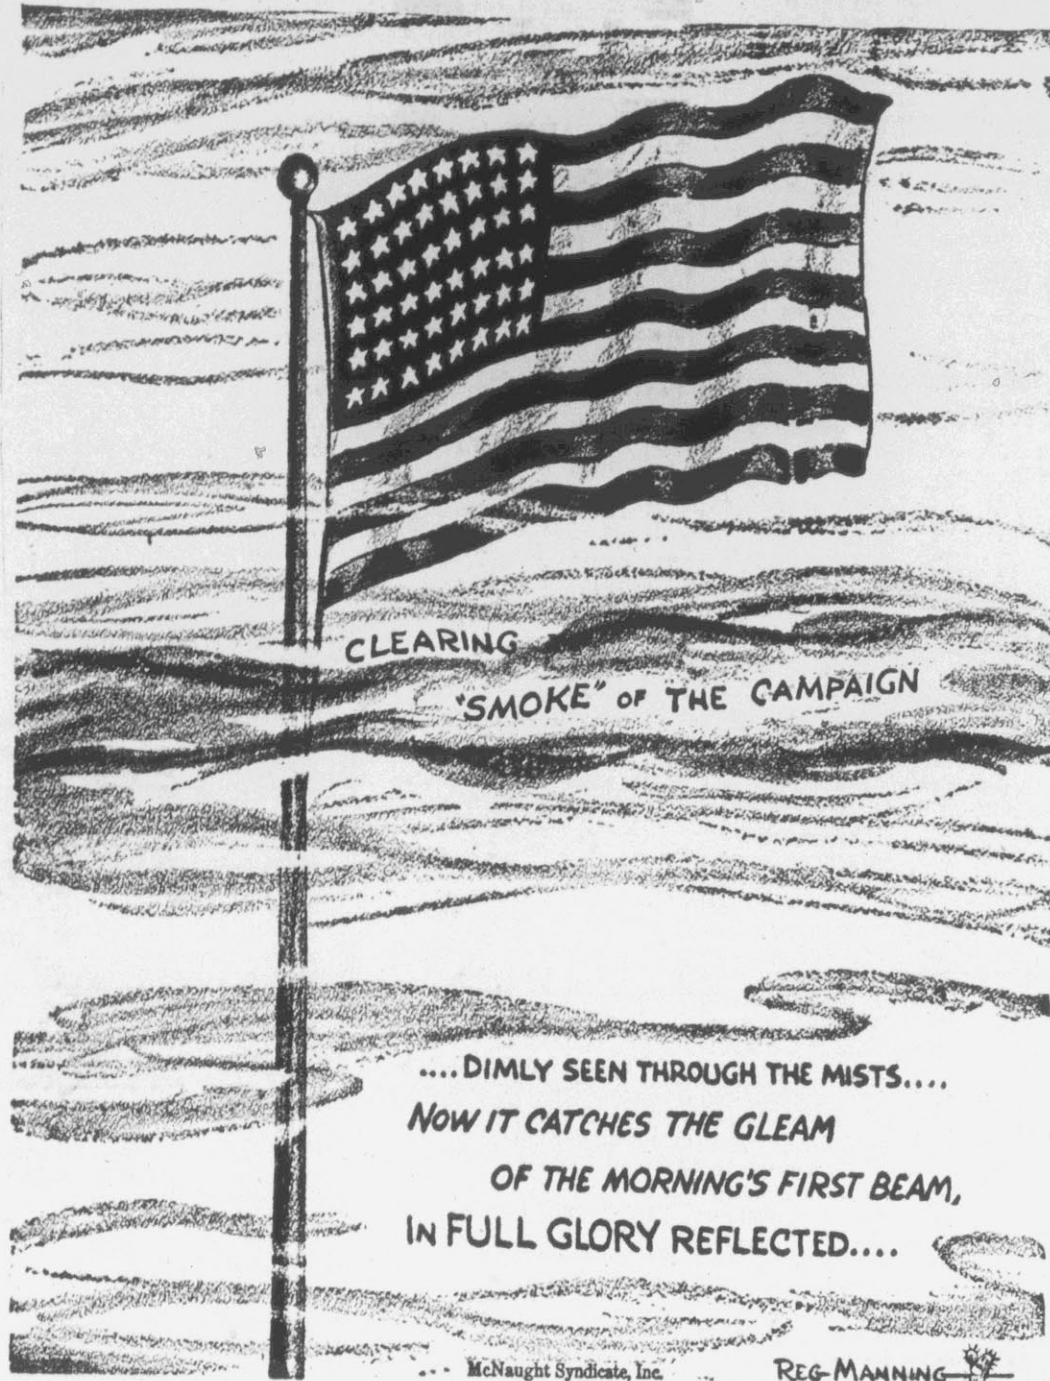

WAR WITH RUSSIA—Fundamentally, many foreign nations and important elements abroad fear that the U.S. is heading straight for war with Russia, and they want no part of it because it will be fought on their home grounds.

In certain respects, they think that Truman and Acheson have been as bellicose as Stalin and Vishinsky, strange as that may seem to us. They see scant difference between what they describe as "Russian aggression" and "American imperialism."

Although bitterly anti-Moscow, Nehru has said, in effect, that "we need bread, not guns," adding sardonically that his people might not survive to use the guns unless they have bread to eat in the meantime. Indeed, that is the cry—and complaint—against us from all the "backward and undeveloped" lands.

Thus it appears that the next Administration must formulate an entirely different program from the stalemating Truman-Acheson foreign policy.

O Say, Can You See By The Dawn's Early Light

Somebody Told Me

By L. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

This was written at 10 o'clock last night, when all of us were in suspense about the election. But that topic will be worn out by the press, so I have another for tonight: East Carolina College's football team.

Monday night when I talked to Coach Jack Boone he had just received some pertinent information about West Virginia Tech, the team the Pirates will play in their remaining home game, Saturday week. Everything Jack learned pointed to the fact that W. Va. Tech has a strong team with a good record. Their 190-pound half-back, Delmer Dixon, is leading the entire state of W. Va. in scoring at this point. So he's the man to watch in East Carolina stadium Saturday week.

Another man to watch will be East Carolina's Dick Cherry of the original Washington. In case you missed last night's Reflector, consider yourself notified that Dick is the only freshman athlete, save Charlie Justice, to make the "Athlete of the Week" in the Greensboro Daily News.

But instead of pointing out individuals, Jack Boone emphasizes that the spirit of his entire team has been inspiring. "For example," Jack says, "we came from behind to win that Appalachian game. We were behind 19-9, and the boys came through. It's hard to beat Appalachian when they are at home. You've got to be two touchdowns better, because of the high altitude, which of course means thin air. Players not accustomed to the thin air tire quickly. And naturally the long trip is a handicap; that's 350 miles."

In sessions on sports with Greenville people I have heard many say that East Carolina could beat some of the Big Four teams. To put Jack on the spot, I asked him if he agreed with that opinion.

Jack put it this way: The big difference in the Big Four teams and ours here at East Carolina is depth. Jack considers the quality of the players very close to the same, but comments, "They would usually win over us because of depth." The larger schools have more money and therefore can grant more scholarships.

Jack is grateful to his team for their performances this season thus far and to the people of Greenville for their support. And from the sessions on football you will find that Greenville is grateful to Jack for producing a team that exhibits a superior brand of ball.

And I thank you.

By LYNN NISBET

IT'S OVER - It is too late now for the average citizen to have much voice in the kind of government this nation and state will have for the next four years. When the lid was clamped on the ballot boxes last night after the latest voter had completed his job as a voting citizen, there was little else the man on the street, in the factory and on the farm could do about the kind of government we will have.

RESULT - Although the result of the election has been to all practical purposes determined, it may be several hours—even a day or two—before that result is known. Tabulating the ballots is a bigger job than most people realize, and in precincts where the margin is very narrow it may be necessary to have recounts before official announcement of totals. There is greater probability this year than ever before that the vote may be so close in some North Carolina counties and in some other States that contested ballots in one precinct might decide the issue. It is conceivable that the national result might depend upon the counting of military absenteees, which in some States will not be announced for a week or more.

REVIEW—Since the situation does not lend itself readily to an accurate preview, it would seem appropriate to briefly review some of the incidents of the campaign which has just closed. This brief review will concern itself mainly with North Carolina, except for general reference to the overall picture. For the first time television was an important factor in campaigning and the final report must be awaited to get any real concept of its influence. The most significant issue in the whole campaign was not directly related to current or future problems, although admittedly it has considerable influence upon individual voting.

CANDIDATES - The candidates of record for President and Vice President were General Dwight Eisenhower and Senator Richard Nixon for the Republicans and Governor Adlai Stevenson and Senator John Sparkman for the Democrats. Actually the Republicans were running against Trumanism and the Democrats were running against Hooverism. Frequent references were made to the high qualifications of the current candidates, but major energy of both parties seemed directed against the most recent incumbent of the White House of the opposition party. In essential features the campaign oratory and publicity was less for Eisenhower than against alleged corruption under Truman; less for Stevenson than against the Great Depression which was charged to Hoover. Neither a mink coat nor Alger Hiss is on the Democratic ticket; neither a Hoovercar nor Albert Fall is on the Republican ticket, but they have gotten more attention than the names which are on the ballots now being cast and counted.

If the final tallies show that Eisenhower was elected President it will be because the voters feared continuance of the Truman regime more than they loved the General of the Armies; if Stevenson wins it will be because the people feared recurrence of a depression more than they loved the Governor of Illinois.

NEGATIVE - This negative approach has been especially emphasized in North Carolina, with respect to the national ticket. There has not been much controversy at State level. Republican candidates, particularly Hubert Seawell for Governor, have half-heartedly appealed for support on basis of charges that the Democratic administrations for the past half century have not given the people as good government as they were entitled to have but there has never been any doubt about the State remaining staunchly Democratic. Republicans did cherish, and with reason, the hope they might carry the State for Eisenhower and Nixon, and capture one or two congressmen and a few more state legislators and county commissioners. For most part, however, the whole campaign has been directed not for changes at State level but against Trumanism at national level. How effective this campaigning has been will be known when all election returns are in. As of now, it looks like it has been right potent in reducing the majority for the national ticket far below that given Democratic candidates for State offices.

OFF-SIDE - The regular Republican party organization will claim credit for this larger vote against the incumbent national administration. The claim can hardly be justified on basis of facts, but the important fact will remain that many thousands more North Carolinians voted for a Republican President than voted for a Republican Governor. The reason for that differential is of course the large number of Tarheels who approve of past State administrations but could not go along with policies of recent national administrations. Personnel of this group is pretty well known. Preponderant majority of them are sincere and honest in their convictions. It is quite obvious that a few of them are political opportunists, motivated by selfish desire to have their cake after eating it or to capitalize on what they believe to be a national trend. The strategy of the Citizens for Eisenhower organization has been to paramount the fail-

What Other Papers Are Thinking

DID KINSTON WIN? (Wilson Times)

For three years Kinston has been trying to operate a fifth sale for tobacco. It would like to get on an even footing with Wilson and Greenville. Winning in the Superior Court, the action was later reversed by the Supreme court. And only a few days ago, the United States Supreme Court refused to take jurisdiction. It did not consider the case sufficiently important to study the facts. Thus, in a way, Kinston has lost. But, it now begins to look, the companies will put a fifth set of buyers on the market, giving Kinston what she wants.

This year Kinston has been lucky. The growers in Lenoir and the surrounding sections didn't suffer the losses that the growers in the Wilson section did. Because of that, it's quite possible that Kinston, in total sales, will show up well. If it turns out that she does, she may get that fifth set of buyers next year. That will put her on a par with Wilson and Greenville, enabling the growers of that section to sell more tobacco at home. But it's bound to hurt the other two markets, dragging them down in the same ratio that Kinston goes up.

Wilson more so than the other. It possesses no other resources. Two is strictly a tobacco town. Kinston, on the other hand, will become an industrial city when the new DuPont plant gets going. In some measure that will spill over to Greenville. Thus, neither needs the marketing facilities that Wilson needs. They can and will depend on other means of income. By that token, then, if Kinston gets a fifth sale, Wilson should get a sixth. It's our only way of keeping the lead in the bright belt.

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER

In many ways, the election of Congress is more important than the election of the next President. Congress can always thwart the policies of the President but the President cannot force any action on a reluctant Congress.

It is the new Congress, more than the President, that will determine the fate of many matters affecting business. Except on tide-land oil and some phases of labor, the two President's candidates differ very little on policies as they affect business. Both are for easing taxes as much as possible, high employment and prosperity.

Taxes will be an almost dominant concern of the next Congress. Since both Parties have declared for moderation, there will be a lot of hot-heads crying for big cuts immediately.

They probably will not get very far, no matter which party dominates Congress. There is still the danger of even worse inflation if taxes are cut too far below necessary spending.

However, even if modest reductions can be worked out, the new Congress will decide who gets the most benefits. A business-minded Congress might decide to ease the excise taxes first; a labor-minded body might want to concentrate reductions in the lower brackets; a compromise-minded Congress might do a little here and there, or confine its generosity to greater deductions for parents, the ill and the aged.

Both parties have declared for extending Social Security but, again, Congress will determine how far and in what directions. Changes in labor legislation have also been promised generally; Congress will say how many and how much. It, more than the President, will determine policy on imports, Federal loans to business, government underwriting of housing, continuation of price ad materials controls, and granting amortization tax benefits.

Those who voted for President and skipped over the rest of the ballot may live to regret their lapse as much as those who did not vote at all.

PENSION FUND TIED TO STOCK PROFITS. Partial insurance against inflation has been built into the pension plan of the Long Island Lighting Co.

Its pension fund is being invested in common stocks and other equities, and payments to pensioners will fluctuate as the returns and the value of the fund rise and fall.

Since stocks usually rise with inflation, payments to pensioners will probably increase if more inflation comes. If there is deflation and prices fall, the pensioners will get less. Under these conditions, their needs would be less-at least in theory.

SEES 1953 HOUSING IN 10 PER CENT OF THIS YEAR. Some reduction in home building may come in 1953, but the drop probably will not be over 10 per cent, Arthur M. Weimar, dean of the Indiana University School of Business, forecasts in the Review of the Society of Residential Appraisers.

He bases his prediction on prospects of full employment and higher wages. Mortgage money will continue tight, building costs will be relatively stable, and prospects of higher rents in de-controlled areas will increase the number of home buyers, he adds.

BUSINESS TODAY BESTFUL: A golf bag that provides a seat for a golfer waiting his turn has been introduced (by Sit-N-Rest Golf Bag Co., 2394 W. Clybourn St., Milwaukee 3.) Two wooden legs attached to the bag can spread into a "V" to support a seat.

FINDER: A dial that will tell the date any number of weeks in advance of a given day is being produced (by Graphic Calculator Co., 633 Plymouth Court, Chicago 5.) The reverse has another dial by which the cubic feet of a package can be quickly calculated from the length, width and height.

MAGNETS: Two kits of magnets are being marketed to hobbyists and industrial plants (by Carboloy Dept., General Electric, Detroit 3.) A variety of sizes and shapes permits a wide range of uses.

Hal Boyle's Column

ROME (AP)—If you think there has been any real progress in world-wide understanding, try ordering scrambled eggs in a foreign country sometime.

This is one problem the Marshall Plan has failed to cope with.

On our first morning of a vacation visit to Italy Frances said, "Let's give ourselves a real treat. I'd like to have something light—some orange juice and toast and tea, and—oh, yes—some ham and a couple of scrambled eggs."

"I thought you said something light. How about a small watermelon and a couple of roast beef sandwiches, too? You may want a snack to tide you over until lunch."

"Don't be so smart so early in the day," said Frances. "I'll bet you don't even know how to call the waiter."

She was wrong there I already had seen a small boy with three buttons on the bedside stand. By the buttons were the figures of a waiter, a chambermaid and a hotel porter. Masterfully I pushed the waiter button, and sure enough in he came so quickly I wondered if he had been shot in by a catapult.

A little unnerved by this sudden service, I mumbled "orange—o juice, tea, toast"—the waiter smiled and nodded.

"—scrambled eggs—," I finished. A look of polite mystery came over the waiter's face.

"He doesn't understand you, Rover," said Frances helpfully. "I'll try him in French," I said. "All waiters speak French, and if I remember my freshman French the word for egg is 'oeuf'."

I held up four fingers and said, "Oeuf, oeuf, oeuf, oeuf." The waiter looked even more puzzled.

"What grade did you get in French," asked Frances. "Are you sure you are pronouncing it right?"

"Wuff: Wuff: Wuff: Wuff:." The waiter backed away in alarm.

"Now you've frightened him," said Frances. "He thinks you're barking at him, Rover. Would it be any easier for you if I took those roast beef sandwiches?"

"No. He might never come back if I start moaning at him."

I got out a piece of paper and drew a picture of a hen, and held it out to the waiter. He approached warily, looked at the picture, smiled and then clapped his hands.

"Now he thinks you want him to applaud your drawing," said Frances. "I don't think it looks like a hen. It looks more like a rooster."

I took the picture back and carefully drew four eggs under the hen, then madly began pointing from the eggs to myself, to Frances and then to the waiter. A light dawned in his eyes at last.

"He's got it," said Frances. I leaned back limply. A few minutes later the waiter returned with a tray. He looked proudly as Frances uncovered her dish, and walked away with a big floating red eyes staring up at me. I simply can't eat Honey, could you?"

scrambled them all over in a ball and held them out hopefully.

Success: The waiter's face fairly shone. Back he soon came with the eggs, properly scrambled. Ah, ah, ah! We shook heads all around. Frances was so happy she was willing to overlook the fact there was no ham with them, and I said that was fine because I hadn't the strength left to imitate a squealing pig.

A few minutes later Frances started chuckling.

"What's so funny?"

"Well," she said, "Tomorrow I am going to order poached eggs. And I was just thinking of the expression on that waiter's face when you start trying to act like a poached egg for him. It may even bring back vaudeville."

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON—With more of the nation's children in school today than ever before and with enrollments rapidly increasing, a shortage of classroom space is one of the most urgent problems in American education.

It is estimated that some 600,000 new classrooms will be needed now and in 1958 at a cost of at least 18 billion dollars. A U. S. Office of Education survey shows the new units will be needed to relieve an accumulated backlog of construction dating from the depression and World War II years as well as for normal replacement and to accommodate the increasing school population.

The title of babies during the war has already engulfed the lower grades of elementary schools. U. S. Commissioner Earl J. McGrath says, "It will move on, right up through the later grades and the high schools, to increase the public school enrollment by roughly one-fourth during the next seven years. This means that for every four classrooms needed in 1950-51, quite apart from whether they were actually in existence or not, we shall need five in 1957-58."

Decade by decade school enrollments have grown until universal education as envisaged by our forefathers approaches realization. Some 26 million pupils now are attending public schools. Yet, according to the Census Bureau, more than four million children between 5 and 17 are not enrolled in any school. More than a quarter million are attending school only on a half-day basis, and many thousands of others are attending school in basements, rented store buildings and other inadequate structures.

School construction is financed for the most part by local property taxes, but there is an increasing trend towards state assistance. Congress has considered federal financial assistance to states and localities for school construction but has not yet authorized such aid except for limited programs in areas where now government installations have caused heavy population increases.

We Americans could pay for more schools if we wanted to. The National Education Association (NEA) reports that in 1949 total expenditures for public schools—current expenses and new buildings—were about five billion dollars while in the same year the nation spent 4 billion dollars for tobacco, nearly eight billion for alcoholic beverages and nearly two billion for admissions to amusements.

Chapter 34

A flush started in the center of her cheeks and spread to her eyes chin, and ears. Devereaux was studying her critically from some cold corner of his brain.

"Johnny, what's wrong?"

"The 'Bolo Rest,' Devereaux said telly, with his eyes hard and clear as if a blindfold had suddenly dropped. "Buloff trailed Phillips to a summer cottage called the Bolo Rest. The State Troopers reported the cottage was owned by Phillips. That he summered there."

It seemed to mean nothing to her. Her face showed her puzzling it out.

"The Bolo Rest," Devereaux said harshly. "When you came in with Solowey, I asked you whether Phillips had a sanctuary or a retreat somewhere he could run to if he wanted to hide."

Her mouth trembled forming a reply. "Don't waste your breath lying," the detective said. "You knew about the place. It was as familiar to you as anything in your life."

Devereaux walked a few paces, then back again. "In lying earlier, you set your own trap. Solowey has a father-and-daughter magazine picture of you and Phillips in a New City Country Club horse show. The detective's mouth worked. "The association came over me a little late. I couldn't see the woods, I was occupied with looking at you!"

"Johnny, please!"

Devereaux let an emotion course through him and run out of him. When he felt empty and drained and mechanical, he said, "You wanted Phillips to escape long enough for Buloff to track him down?"

Silence.

"Answer the question!"

"Yes."

"Why?"

"I don't know." She looked away. "I wanted him dead, for what he'd done."

"And Buloff. Did you want him dead for what he'd done?"

Silence.

"Look at me and answer the question!"

She turned back, but her eyes lowered. "Yes."

"And the others," Devereaux said slowly, frightened at the direction he was inexorably moving in. "Longo, Castle, Latimer. Did the virtue of her motive was a condition of surrender.

"What made your father decide to go before the court and tell the truth?"

"My happiness." Her eyes glistened. "My father was a man who could endure Hell for the sake of someone else. Think of his decision to live all of his life in jail, so that others might have a chance at freedom, a chance at life. Think of the kind of man he had to be!"

Devereaux nodded mechanically, compelled. "It was my unhappiness that changed his mind, but not at once. I pleaded with him for years. I told him I needed him, and he weighed my need against the needs of the others. It decided him. My father began to understand Phillips' deranged and possessive mania for me. He began to worry about it until he couldn't eat, read, think. My father came to know that Phillips could do no less than destroy me."

City Is Prepared For Catastrophe Every Tuesday

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—If this city is ever to have a first-rate catastrophe, Tuesday night would probably be the best time because almost 150 radio hams are mobilized for just that purpose.

The group, under the direction of Jerry L. Dame, poses a weekly problem involving a city-wide breakdown in communications and then proceeds to solve it. Some-times the "hams" act as agents of the civil defense department or the Red Cross. Actually they are the Four Lakes Amateur Radio Club.

The 17 mobile units are directed from a central radio transmitting and receiving set permanently located at the local Red Cross chapter. The amateur operators of the mobile units are volunteers in the city's defense and rescue work setup. They have provided their own equipment except for the central transmitter which is the property of the police department.

Fashion Show For Dolls Staged

NEW YORK (AP)—A fashion show for dolls was held at the Hotel Pierre recently in which the dolls were presented in frocks created especially for them by many of America's leading designers.

The show was a benefit for the Spence-Coleman Adoption School and part of the admission fee was the donation of a doll of any size, shape or value to be sold at a later benefit.

The dolls had hairdos arranged by the designers' favorite hairdressers and they were carried by manikins similarly dressed.

The pyramid texts, inscribed on the inner walls of five small Egyptian pyramids, are regarded as the oldest body of religious literature in the world.

you want them dead for what they'd done?"

Devereaux wet his lips, waiting for her reply. He had an impulse to close his eyes, pull a switch and stop the machinery of his mind. "I wanted them dead for what they'd done," she said in the grotesque refrain that had become the motive of the interrogation.

"For what they'd done," Devereaux echoed nonsensically. There were gargoyles in his head doing an idiotic, whirling dance to the refrain I want them dead for what they'd done.

"They murdered my father," he heard her say from some distant dreamlike void. Her voice was different. The young-girl accent was gone. It was a voice with a new, harsh quality. It was the voice of fever.

"A man you never knew," Devereaux sought to regain his balance. She was facing him now, her eyes boring into him steadily, as if through some subtle transposition she was now the inquisitor.

"How could you feel vengeful, or hate? You never saw your father or knew him," she said starkly. "I did know him, and loved him."

"You never saw your father or knew him," Devereaux repeated, but now unsurely. The agony in her face was a live thing, impossible to simulate.

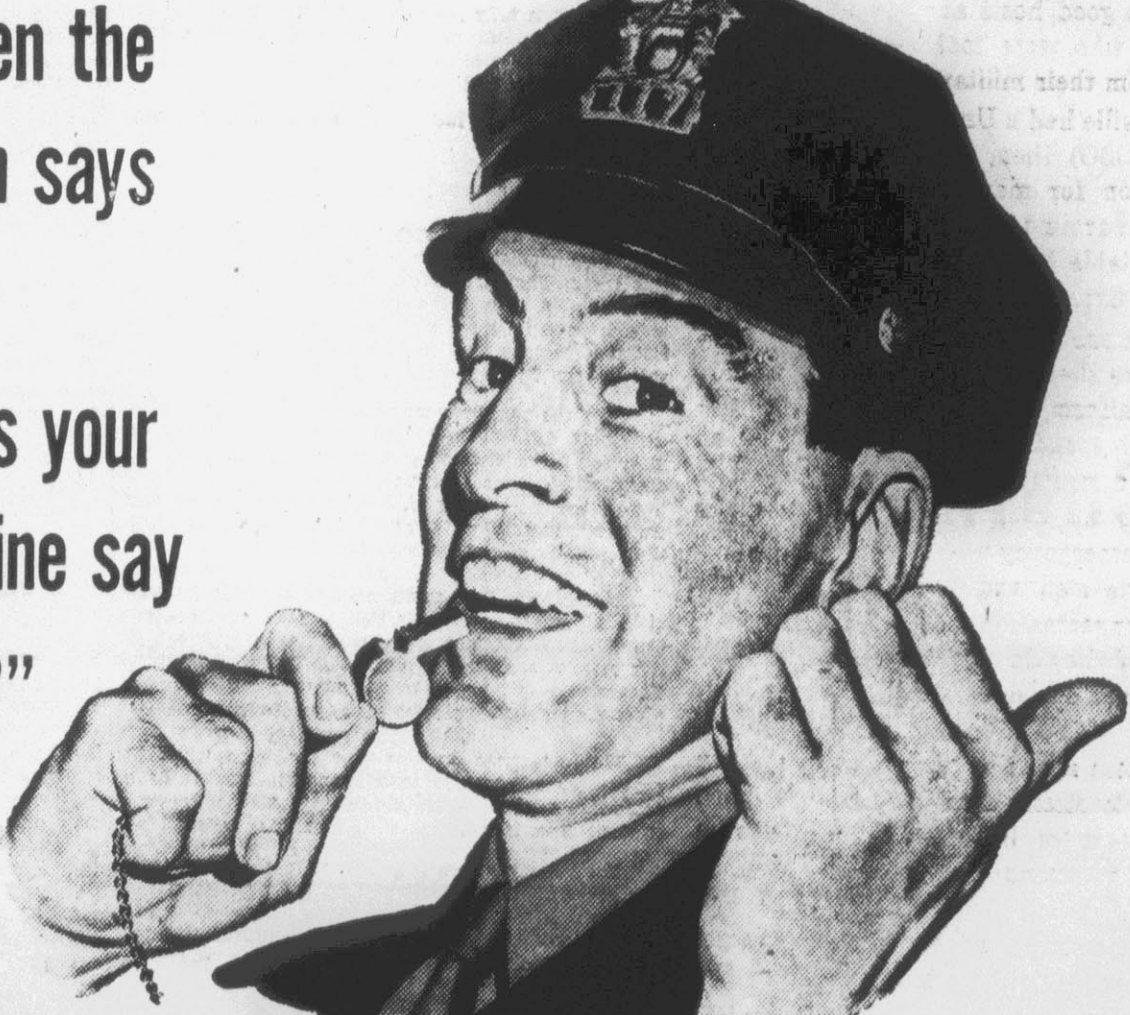

"I knew my father, Johnny," she said, and Devereaux listened. She was speaking with an odd, jerking rhythm, as if fighting for breath. "Since my sixteenth birthday, I knew him as closely as I could. Better than I knew anyone else in the world. I visited him, often, posing as a niece. We talked, a vast world of talk. About ethics, religion, sports, the dance, science. He was brilliant. Self-educated, but brilliant. A man of great gifts. A man with love and deep sincerity. In prison, he had read more than two thousand books. He wanted to write someday, he said. He burned to justify himself, acquit himself in the eyes of the world through some great work. We corresponded through Mrs. Jennings. His letters were magnificent. You should read his letters, Johnny!"

She had stopped for tears, but the tears didn't come. "His letters were thirty, fifty pages long. One letter that came a month before he was murdered was ninety-six pages long. Wonderful, wonderful letters. Beautifully phrased, rich in thought. And full of hope, not despair, Johnny! Not the natural despair of a mature and wise man shut away because of a single folly of youth, but full of hope. Full of hope for man, faith in his future."

Her face shone with fierce pride. "I took his letters, more than two hundred of them, to a famous editor. I didn't reveal my father's identity. I just submitted the letters. The editor was impressed with my father, with his work. He wanted to publish them!"

Devereaux stared at her heated face numbly, his strength sapped by the intensity of her fire. He had the feeling of having been overpowered; his agreement with

The Sport Reflector

By HERMAN RICKMAN
Reflector Sports Editor

An increasing number of high schools and colleges have recently been lamenting over a decline in game attendance.

A school that has a team which loses more than it wins blames the box office failure on the losing squad. On the other hand, the school with the winning team is at a loss for an explanation. Its officials merely shrug and moan that people just won't turn out for athletic contests anymore.

When a winning team fails to keep the turnstiles creaking, there's bound to be something amiss SOMEWHERE.

A logical answer may be found by reverting to the source and studying the situation from the inside out, or left to right, or . . .

Those interested may take note of game statistics of any given game and take their clue from the number of penalties called during a contest.

It's absolutely outrageous when two high school teams are penalized 88 and 98 yards in a single game. That was the penalty statistic for the Greenville-New Bern game. Seventeen penalties, fifteen of which were for 15 yards.

These extended penalties, besides proving sorely frustrating to players and fans alike, lengthen the game to such an extent that even the most rabid followers are forced to retreat to their homes for health's sake.

The present substitution rule also serves to add to game lengthiness. Players dash on and off the field delaying the game countless minutes.

Let's suppose for example that each penalty accounts for two minutes at least, considering that the referee must explain the situation to both team captain before going through with the motion.

Two minutes times 17 penalties is 34 minutes plus an additional 10 minutes for substitution interruption and in these two phases alone a regular game is lengthened approximately 45 minutes.

School spirit begins to take a back seat when a game which began at 8 o'clock, continues past 10:15 and 10:30.

It is not my contention that a game should be played without referees or rules, but I do contend that football, to a certain extent, is being taken out of the hands of the players, and given to the referees.

What is more disheartening to a team or the fans than to see a first down gain or worse, a touchdown, recalled and a penalty levied on a questionable offense.

I don't have ready solution to this problem, but I do say that an undue number of penalties and all other unnecessary time consuming elements are points to be considered in reference to game attendance.

Pro Football

Professional football is taking over in the gridiron world. Their efficient, clean-cut type of play is attracting more and more fans each year. Fans that are interested in good football and want to see the game at its best.

While high schools and colleges hassle and wrangle over penalties and such, the pros use their energy in scoring touchdowns. This is evident by the number of touchdowns in an average pro football game.

Professional game scores almost always run in double figures like 34-27, 24-20, or 47-38. Scores like that are evidence of wide open football, played the way fans and players enjoy it.

If the present trends of game interference continue, colleges and high schools are going to find out that school spirit will not suffice to draw sports minded spectators who like to see a football game featuring players instead of referees.

New President Is Claimed Most Sport Minded Of All

The General Played Against Jim Thorpe While At West Point

By WILL GRIMSLEY
NEW YORK (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the President-elect, is perhaps the most sports minded chief executive in our nation's history.

He was a football player at West Point, proud of the fact he once tackled the great Jim Thorpe. He took a brief fling at baseball in the Central League. Today—still at his old playing weight of 173 pounds—he shoots a bangup game of golf.

When A. B. (Happy) Chandler was dismissed as commissioner of baseball more than a year ago, Eisenhower was among those considered for the post. But his duties as NATO chief in Europe were too important.

He is an avid sports fan. "Football is a tremendous spectacle," he says. "Remember I saw my first game from the sidelines with Gus Dozias (Notre Dame) throwing passes to the Rock (Knute Rockne)."

He told a group of sports figures at a New York tele-tele recently: "Today I can go to a major league baseball game and come away with a having a grand time."

Golf is the President-elect's game today and he's threatened to go away and play 10 days of golf as relaxation after the strenuous campaign.

One of his regular playing partners in recent weeks has been Cliff Roberts of Augusta, Ga. and New York, who hosts the famous Masters Tournament in Georgia.

"He hits a long ball off the tee," Roberts said. "He's a very good golfer, regularly in the 80s."

Eisenhower is more modest. He says his figure is 90 and up but acknowledged he fired a 79 two years ago at Blind Brook in Port Chester, N. Y., and recently had an 82.

Roberts was with him when he shot the 82. "He had a birdie on the par four 14th," Roberts said. "He had two good hits and sank a 12-foot putt."

Bobby Dodd, Of Tech, 'Coach Of The Week'

By STAN OPOTOWSKY
United Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (UP)—He's a big man, who pays special attention to the little things.

He's often pictured as a good-time Charlie, yet he's a man who takes his football seriously and won't stand for misfits.

He was shrewd enough to detect that his opposition's greatest strength also was its greatest weakness.

That's Bobby Dodd of Georgia Tech, the United Press Coach of the Week. His team snuffed Duke's undefeated, untied record Saturday in Dixie's game of the year, and the entire triumph is wrapped up in two little secrets Dodd learned at the movies.

This 210-pound hulk of a man peered at Duke movies incessantly in preparing for this game which probably meant a Sugar Bowl bid. Here are the two little things he discovered:

1. Although Duke has one of the greatest lines in its history, he noticed the linemen didn't charge a ball carrier. They waited for him at the line of scrimmage.

2. The Duke men were so anxious to smear hapless little safety men on punts that they didn't wait around long enough to protect their kicker.

That's all Dodd needed to know. Instead of avoiding the Duke line and taking to passing—this was the obvious strategy—he had his lighter linemen get the gump and bowl over those standing—still Duke guards. So Tech made most of its yardage through the middle.

And just to make sure the breaks came his way, Dodd worked on point No. 2. All week the team practiced blocking punts. Sure enough, Worth Lutz of Duke didn't have enough protection in the game. Two of the four Tech touchdowns were set up by blocked punts.

Thus did Dodd engineer his victory, and point his team towards a perfect season and New Year's Day glory. He enjoyed it too.

"Football and fishing are my loves," he says. During the season it's football; during the off-season it's fishing. There's nothing in between.

Dodd's whole family is football crazy. His wife is a rabid fan. His 10-year-old son already is quarterback on his school team. His brother-in-law is an ex-Georgia Tech star, Wink Davis.

Phants Coaches Work On Defense

Pat Sawyer Returns To Practice; Phants Rank Underdogs Against Elizabeth City

Concentration upon fundamentals marked the practice session held yesterday by the Greenville Phantoms who are preparing for their homecoming game Friday night against Elizabeth City.

Assistant Coach Frank Maennle drilled the backs on pass defense with Bobby Langston and Guy Smith at the halfbacks and James Spright at safety.

Quarterbacks George Sideris and Pat Sawyer were on the throwing end of most of the passes, although Sawyer was not in full uniform. Sawyer, the club's first-string quarterback, has been out of action for two weeks because of a knee injury. It isn't known yet whether or not Sawyer will be able to play.

Head Coach Bill Kittrell worked with the linemen on the defense which will be used against the Yellow Jackets.

The Phantom players are in high spirits and firmly believe they'll defeat the favored Jackets. Both teams have played a scoreless tie with Washington's Pam-Pack and both have defeated Kingston by four touchdowns. The point which establishes the Jackets as favorites is their victory over New Bern. The Bears outscored the Phantoms 41-14.

Stranahan Named By Unwed Mother

TOLEDO O. (AP)—A 24-year-old Toledo beauty has filed a paternity charge against Frank Stranahan, amateur golf star and heir to an auto-parts business fortune.

The 30-year-old Stranahan posted $300 cash bail at Lucas County jail yesterday on the charge. Filed in domestic relations court last Wednesday by Miss Irene Buchelle. She accused Stranahan of fathering a daughter born to her last April 11. Neither Stranahan nor his attorney would comment on the charge.

Internationally known as a golfer, Stranahan was twice a member of the U.S. Walker Cup Team and won the British Amateur title twice and the Mexican Open once.

Pirates Prepare Pass Defense For Stetson U. Game

A long session of dummy scrimmage was the order of the day yesterday for East Carolina College's Pirates as they continued to stay away from contact work in their preparations for their Saturday afternoon game against Stetson in Deland, Florida.

Most of the workout yesterday was devoted to pass defense, a weakness the Pirates have had throughout the season. Several combinations of defensive backs were tested by Coach Jack Boone but there was no indication that there would be any lineup changes against the Hatters.

Two of the Bucs three injured players were in uniform yesterday but it's highly doubtful that either of the three will play. Fullback Bobby Strickland seems the surest bet to miss the game with Stetson while fullback Claude King and halfback Jack Benzie are big question marks.

Both Benzie and King were dressed in full practice equipment yesterday but they were still hampered considerably by the injuries which have sidelined them. King's knee, injured in the Guilford game, is still giving him trouble while Benzie finds it difficult to run on a toe which was hurt two weeks ago.

Strickland, King's top relief man at fullback, had his hip injured in the game last week with Appalachian and hasn't worked any since then. There's really no sure-fire method of forecasting his condition but the Pirates aren't optimistic about their chances of using him.

Should King and Strickland both fail to heal in time for the game, the bulk of the fullback's duties would fall squarely upon the shoulders of two players who have seen very little action this year. Tom Cannady, a sophomore speed merchant from Manteo, is the logical heir to the position but he'll be pushed hard by Ralph Britt, a former Mount Olive High School star. Cannady started last week against Appalachian.

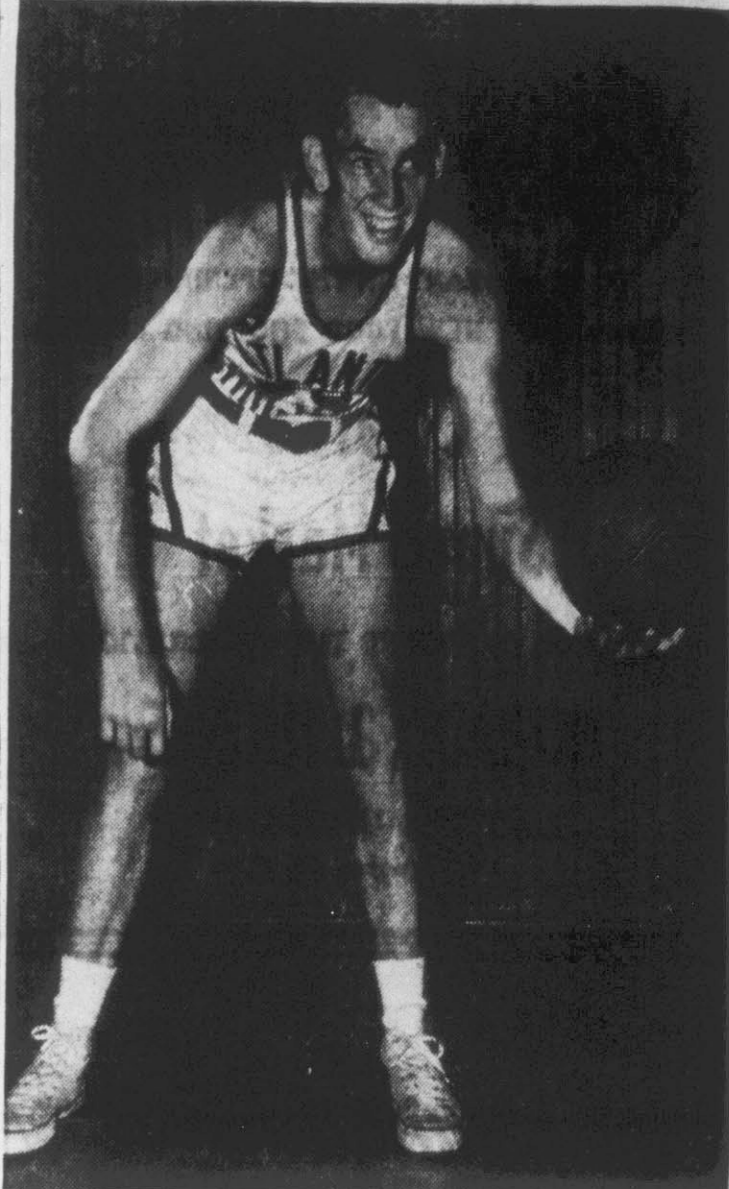

Of course, there's always the possibility that some shifts will be made in other backfield positions to fill the gap at fullback. One possibility is that right halfback Paul Gay, fullback on the 1951 team, will be moved over to fullback with Jim Stanley moving into the right half position.

Stanley has been a reserve throughout the season but, on the few occasions when he has been in the game, he has run very well and shown himself to be a very capable pass receiver.

The Pirates are expected to have another non-contact workout today with a lighter drill slated for tomorrow. They'll leave for Deland tomorrow night and will close their practice schedule with a workout on the Stetson campus Friday afternoon.

May Start For ACC

GILBERT FERRELL, above, of Wilson is battling for a starting berth on the Atlantic Christian College basketball team which opens its season Saturday night in the ACC gym at 8 p. m. with the McCary Eagles. Ferrell, a junior, is 6-1 and will play forward. He starred at Charles L. Coon High School in Wilson before entering ACC.

Hockey Fans Like 'Sudden Death'

NEW YORK (AP)—The American Hockey League is again using the crowd-pleasing overtime period to settle the games. The "sudden death" ten minute sessions have become a popular feature with the league's spectators in recent years.

The first game this season to avert a deadlock with the overtime occurred when St. Louis defeated Pittsburgh with a goal in the extra session.

Approximately one-eighth of the freight revenues of the American railroads is derived from bituminous coal traffic.

Big Four Play Inter-Sectional Contests

CHAPEL HILL (UP)—A rib injury sidelined another of North Carolina's scarce - as - hens' - teeth halfbacks today.

Junior Billy Hawks, promoted from the Jayvees last week to fill a gaping hole at halfback in the Tar Heel backfield, was injured in yesterday's workouts. Left halfbacks Bob White and Ken Keller are both out with injuries.

Larry Parker, shifted from right halfback to left, may start at that post Saturday against Virginia in Carolina's homecoming game. John Gaylor and Chal Port are running at right halfback.

RALEIGH (UP)—North Carolina State's Wolfpack sharpened its aerial game today along with its defenses against Washington and Lee's split-T ground attack. Wolfpack coaches drilled blockers on giving protection to passers Carl Wyles and Eddie West, both quarterbacks.

Coach Horace Hendrickson ordered rough work, with only three regulars on the sidelines with injuries.

State travels to Lexington, Va., for the game Saturday with W.L. Coaches said they believe State will be in good shape, physically and mentally, for the clash.

DURHAM (UP)—Duke's Smith boys, halfback starters for the Blue Devils all season, may see limited action, if at all, against rugged Navy Saturday.

Both James (Red) Smith and Charlie Smith were injured in the Georgia Tech game. Coaches moved swift Finney Field and Lloyd Caudle into halfback posts for yesterday's drills.

Devils through a hard blocking drill and defensive teams worked on stopping Navy play patterns.

WAKE FOREST (UP)—The stout Wake Forest defensive line, which held North Carolina State to a net six yards rushing, prepared today to withstand an assault by Texas Christian's famed spread-T formation.

Deacon coaches drilled the squad hard on defenses, pass protection, covering punts and on halting aeriels.

Wake Forest goes to Texas to meet TCU Saturday in the second invasion of the Lone Star State this year. In the first game of the season, the Deacons lost to Baylor by a field goal.

Ray Robinson Turns Hooper

By JACK GAVER
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK (UP)—Sugar Ray Robinson is worrying about his hands, which ordinarily would be quite a worry for a boxer. But this concern over his fighting tools involves his debut as a dancer instead of another defense of his middleweight championship.

"Funny thing about the hands," the perspiring fighter said as he took time out from rehearsal on the floor of a night club. "In boxing, they have to be up all the time. If you want to stay healthy. In dancing, you need to keep them down and natural. That's been the toughest thing for me to master."

The lithe champion certainly doesn't seem to be having trouble with his feet. His practice sessions on the stage at the daytime deserted French Casino, where he will make his debut as a performer Friday night, reveal a tap dancer with a variety of routines that are really professional.

"And he's only been taking serious instruction for a little more than two months," interjected Henry Le Tang, dance teacher who has prepared Robinson for his serious effort at a new career.

"I've been coming down to the club here every afternoon for a month now," Robinson said. "I put in four or five hours of practice a day. Far as I'm concerned, it's just as tough as training for a fight; maybe tougher."

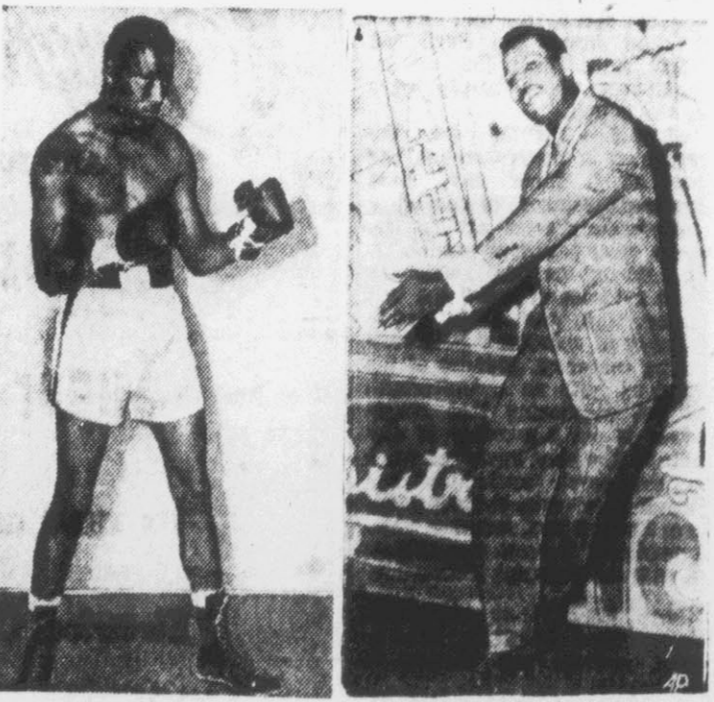

"You know, you can't make any mistakes when you're up there dancing for paying customers. In a fight you can miss and look bad round after round maybe and still you can win. But you fluff a few taps in a dance routine and you're dead."

Robinson explained that he had the show business bug for some time before doing anything about it.

"I've liked dancing all my life," he said. "Stepping just sort of came natural to me, but I really didn't know anything about how to do it right until I began to study under Henry. Those few steps I did on a television show last summer were just ad-libbed."

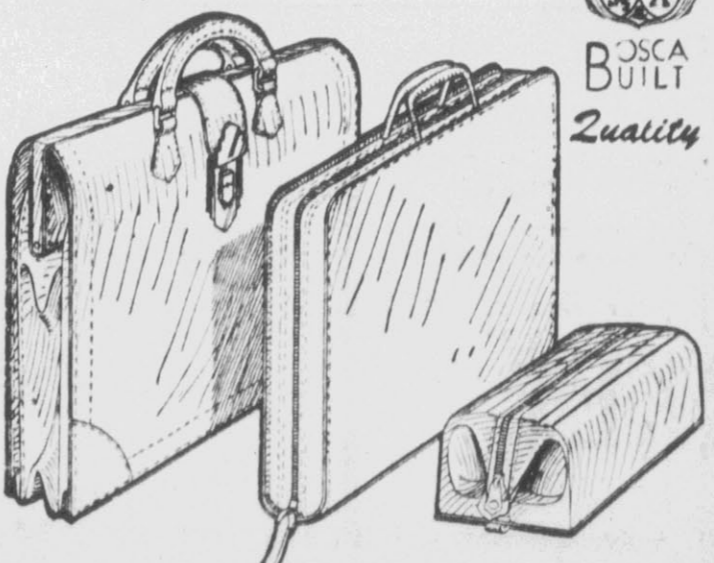

"Sugar Ray has a real natural ability for dancing," Le Tang said. "Besides that, he is a wonder at taking direction. Maybe that comes from the years he's spent getting training instruction for fighting."

Robinson is going to act as a master of ceremonies for the new French Casino show which he will headline. He will do one solo number and a second routine with Joe Scott, veteran hooper, as a partner.

Big Opening For New Supermarket

Beginning tomorrow and through Saturday, W. B. Cozart and Sons new supermarket will stage its grand opening celebration.

The supermarket, located on Dickinson Avenue just beyond the underpass, will open the doors to visitors and customers tomorrow for a three-day celebration. Prizes will be given each day and a grand prize will be awarded Saturday night.

The new supermarket, modern from outside to inside, is equipped with the latest machinery food preservation and stocked with all types of food.

During the first day of the grand opening, Thursday, the first 500 ladies entering the store will be given a citrus knife and registration will take place for 12 baskets of food worth $10.00.

Friday the first 80 attending the opening will be given a Johnson Glo-Coater and more food will be given away. During the opening celebration, a Kingan's meat recipe book will be given with the purchase of any Kingan product. Balloons and King Arthur Godfrey crowns will be given to the children.

Saturday will be the big night when a television will be given away. Winners of the food and TV set will be announced and winners do not have to be present to receive prizes.

28 Student Leaders In Who's Who Book

Twenty-eight students at East Carolina College will represent the college in the 1952-1953 edition of "Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges," nationally circulated yearbook. This annual publication lists and gives biographical sketches of student leaders in educational institutions throughout the nation.

Selection of students for this year's volume was made at East Carolina by a student-faculty committee. Based on the choice of representatives were excellence in scholarship, leadership and participation in extracurricular and academic activities, citizenship and service to the school, and promise of future usefulness to business and society.

Monday's Cases In Ayden Court

AYDEN—The charges against Johnnie Griffin and Clifton Jones for assault on an officer were amended to public drunkenness at the weekly session of the Ayden Municipal Court Monday.

The two were given 30 days in jail, sentence suspended on payment of $25. Both gave notice of appeal and bond was set for each at $100.

Catherine Green was found guilty of assault and was sentenced to 60 days in jail or in the county home. She gave notice of appeal and her bond was set at $300.

Thurman Phillips, also found guilty of assault was given 30 days in jail, sentence suspended on payment of costs, $11.25. He was also ordered to remain on good behavior for six months.

Electronic Brain Predicted Result

NEW YORK (UP)—Embarrassed technicians showed new respect today for Univac, the "mechanical brain" that predicted early last night that Dwight D. Eisenhower would win the presidency in a landslide.

For a while, however, the staff at Columbia Broadcasting System studio thought the electronic brain had gone mad.

Univac had been heralded as a great mechanical "thinker" that could solve complicated mathematical problems in a matter of seconds.

As soon as a few scattered returns had been received from a few key states, technicians fed figures into the intricately-wired machine.

There was a whirring of wheels and a blinking of lights before Univac advised them that the odds in favor of Eisenhower were 100 to 1. That was in the neighborhood of 9:30 p.m. EST.

"It was so overwhelming that the men working the election all thought it was mistaken," Mort Dank of CBS said.

Univac had a temper tantrum a short time later, rejecting a few figures which had been fed into the machine and diminishing the odds to 8-7 in Eisenhower's favor.

"I don't think it likes our figures," CBS commentator Charles Collingwood said.

ures of Truman rather than to emphasize the qualification of Eisenhower or the lack of ability on part of Stevenson. Other instances of emphasis on the negative have been criticism of Acheson and Byrnes and M.Carthy and Jemer and Byrd and Morse rather than build-up the candidates whose names were on the ballots.

CLEAN -- For no part the campaign in North Carolina has been clean. There have been numerous instances of borderline unprovable charges against one or the other parties or candidates. Only during the final hours was there evidence of below the belt hitting. That was in the openly Republican sponsored letter attacking Stevenson because of his religious faith as a Unitarian--without mentioning that Eisenhower is not a member of any church. The blast backfired when so many people recalled that four former Presidents, including William Howard Taft, father of "Mr. Republican" himself, was affiliated with the Unitarian Fellowship.

There are striking similarities between some ancient Egyptian religious writings and portions of the Gospels.

All That's Left For Kremlin Is To Voice 'Disappointment' With Us

By PHIL NEWSOM
 United Press Staff Correspondent

Joe Stalin usually spends this time of year at his Crimean winter retreat, and it doesn't seem probable that he sat up all night waiting to see whether it would be Ike or Adlai. Although maybe he did, at that.

But the line put out by Stalin's Moscow radio was that both men were tools of the vested interests, war mongers and no-goodniks.

So about the only thing left for Moscow radio now is to express its disappointment in us.

All of which may come on Friday when the Russians begin celebration of their own greatest holiday—the anniversary of the October Revolution.

Holiday, that is, if you want to call it that.

It always includes a rather impressive display of Soviet military might, and its speakers produce about as much hilarity as a coffin at a wedding.

Marshal Nikolai Bulganin, a member of the Politburo, was the principal speaker at the Bolshoi Opera House in 1950's celebration. He discussed such light subjects as atomic energy, the world-wide growth of the Communist party and expressed sympathy for the North Korean Communists battling American "aggression."

Deputy Prime Minister Lavrenty P. Beria did the honors last year. In workaday life he is in charge of Soviet slave labor, and he took off in general against the Atlantic Pact and in particular against the U. S. which he accused of "threats and blackmail."

The speaker this year still is a secret but the pattern is pretty well set. He undoubtedly will have something to say about germ warfare and also about how the U. S. is blocking peace in Korea. And he might even have something to say about the new president.

There is nothing light or humorous about the Soviet leadership and between their "celebration" of the October Revolution and Russia's own version of an election, we get a pretty good picture of some of the vast differences between the U.S.A. and the U.S.S.R.

CAPT. JOHNNY FALCON

Grifton News

Russia's last election was held in February, 1951.

It was a pretty triumphant day for the Communists. Theirs were the only candidates on the ticket, and they announced that 99.8 per cent of the electorate turned out. That meant 64,821,310 voters out of 64,832,312 eligible.

They also announced that of those who voted, only 0.24 per cent, or 155,723, voted against the government slate.

Well, we can be thankful we live here and not there, and that we can have our carnival slogans such as "I Like Ike" or "Gladly For Adlai."

Which calls to mind a slight wonderment about what happened to the 0.24 per cent who voted against Stalin on the Russian ticket. Or whether the Russians ever adopted the slogan: "Vote for Stalin. The life you save may be your own."

IT ISN'T FAIR
 BINGHAMTON, N. Y. (UP) — Women are handicapped in politics, says Miss Charla Hull, local attorney and chairman of the Broome County League of Women Voters. "They are too willing to do the routine work and let the credit go to the men," she complained.

Mt. Airy, Md. are visiting in the home of their daughter, Mrs. W. E. McCotter, who is a patient at Wilson County Sanatorium, Wilson.

Vance Abbott, student at N. C. State College in Raleigh, spent the past weekend at his home here.

Mrs. R. B. McCotter had as guests on Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Craven Hughes of Greenville, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lubke of Kinston and Mrs. Jake Worthington. In the afternoon Mrs. McCotter, Mrs. Worthington and Mr. and Mrs. Lubke visited Mr. McCotter, who is a patient at Wilson County Sanatorium, Wilson.

Mrs. H. R. Wethington is in Fort Worth, Texas, where she was called on account of the accident of her son, M-Sgt. Paul Wethington, who is in a serious condition at the USAF Hospital at Fort Worth. Mrs. Wethington made the trip by plane from Raleigh. A report from Sgt. Wethington is that he suffered a fractured jaw and concussions.

Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Sherron and daughter Nancy Jean of Raleigh spent the weekend here as guests of Mrs. J. W. Scarborough.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Hart, Judy, Carolyn and Joe, spent Sunday in Keno as guests of Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Starling.

Miss Lynette Barfield, who has been at Baptist Bible College in Nashville, Tenn., is at her home here for an indefinite stay.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Stout of Star are visiting in the home of their daughter, Mrs. Glend Tucker, and Mr. Tucker. On Friday Mrs. Stout sustained a broken arm in a fall, and she is doing satisfactorily.

Mr. and Mrs. I. J. Spear have moved their residence to the A. P. Best place on the Hugo road.

Mrs. Adele Patrick has returned to her home here after spending sometime at the home of her son, Leon Patrick, and Mrs. Patrick at Chocowinity.

Next First Lady Says She Will Go On Being 'Mamie'

By ELIZABETH TOOMY
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (UP) — Mamie Eisenhower hoped today to see her husband a little more now that he has merely been elected to the busiest job in the world.

"I don't think life in the White House can be much more trying than it has been," the nation's new first lady said shortly after her husband's victory. "In fact, I'm planning to see more of Ike than I have in the past."

She had spent half an hour trying unsuccessfully to get a private word with her husband, yet Mrs. Eisenhower has all smiles when she held her first press conference as the next first lady.

"I haven't had a word with Ike yet," she admitted with a laugh. "I was in one room and he was in another when I saw Governor Eisenhower's speech conceding the election on television."

Even though the hall outside was jammed with noisy campaign workers, Mrs. Eisenhower calmly answered questions about her future in the White House.

The lack of privacy there, she said, couldn't be much more restricting than living in the president's house at Columbia University.

"People watched us all the time there. We've had guards for years. As for playing the wife and entertaining — I've done that before too."

Mrs. Eisenhower showed up at the Commodore Hotel with her husband, then they were separated by the crowds in their suite while she played the role of hostess.

Dressed in a black lace off-shoulder cocktail dress and black lace shoes, the new first lady was as calm throughout the evening as if she were entertaining at home.

"I must have been calm all day, or I couldn't have gone to sleep this afternoon," she said with a laugh.

Mrs. Eisenhower admitted that she was "rather superstitious," and didn't like to talk about future plans. She did forecast, however, that she would spend the time while her husband is in Korea "unpacking crates and boxes from Paris that are still in the basement."

"I never entered my head to go to Korea with him. I hope we can stay in Augusta at least a week or ten days, but I don't know. There will be plenty to do there too. I'm afraid about 600 letters came in yesterday that I want to answer."

Mrs. Eisenhower said she hasn't decided whether to hold press conferences with any regularity, a custom of Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt when she was first lady.

"That's something to think about later," she said.

She hasn't been in the White House since it was redecorated, she said, so she has no idea which of their possessions they will take with them when they move. She is sure, however, that there will be only a family of two moving in after the inauguration.

"Mother has her own home, and so does Barbara," she said, referring to her son's wife, who was with her in the hotel suite last night along with Mrs. Eisenhower's sister, Mrs. Gordon Moore.

If it's just the same to you, just call the new first lady "Mamie."

"I think that's the American way," she said. "I've enjoyed being called Mamie thoroughly."

Find Car In Which Four Convicts Made Escape

The 1949 green Ford convertible in which four Pitt County prisoners made their escape from the county jail was discovered abandoned late yesterday afternoon at Arbor, about four miles east of Kinston.

The conspicuous green convertible was discovered by a Lenoir County highway patrolman near the Wayne County line about two weeks following the escape of five prisoners, one of which was caught soon after the escape.

The possible route of the four men in the car started from the scene of the escape near Riverside and then went down Highway 118 to dirt road where they cut off at a right angle. The convicts were believed to have turned at Highway 11 and traveled over the Neuse River Bridge, turning again. There the trace of the prisoners ended.

Following the escape of the convicts almost two weeks ago, after guards and fellow prisoners had been locked in a truck four of the men took the car belonging to Bobby Curry who was working nearby in a field. The fifth prisoner made his escape by foot but was later recaptured.

A state-wide alarm went out from law officers for the four escapees and helicopters from Cherry Point were asked to aid in the search. No trace of the escaped convicts was found until the green convertible was discovered yesterday.

Still at large are Peter Braxton, DeFor Inman, Arabio Rodriguez, and F. C. Bonner. Robbie Lee-Bivens was the fifth escapee who was recaptured.

Ayden Rotarians Hear Dr. Dixon

AYDEN—Pointers on "How to Grow Old" were given by Dr. G. G. Ayden Rotarian Club last week.

"Women live longer than men," he told the group, "and if you want to live a long time, you will have to get yourself born a baby girl."

Dr. Dixon said several factors have caused the life of people to be lengthened and he cited preventive medicine such as vaccines for diphtheria, typhoid, whooping cough, lock jaw, and other diseases as being the chief advantage for people to enjoy longevity of life.

In commenting on accidents, Dr. Dixon said about the same number of accidents on the farm and in the home happen today as they happened 30 years ago. "But," he said, "auto deaths and deaths from heart disorders have increased in the past several years."

In closing the doctor said the problem of how to take care of the aged is a growing one.

Carol Faye Harper was the youth guest of the club. She is a member of the Ayden high school chorus, a member of the Future Homemakers of America, a majorette, and was voted "Citizen of the Week" at the school. She gave a short talk on the work and purpose of the Future Homemakers of America.

Other guests included Jack Fogleman, Methodist minister, guest of Bob Booth; Bob Denton, guest of Warren Kinlaw; and Wade Higgins, guest of Elbert Davison.

The On-Time prize was won by Anson Sawyer and the Fellowship prize was won by Ralph Hardee. Jim Butler of Greenville was a visiting Rotarian.

Grifton Water Main Will Serve Outside Of City

GRIFTON—Town board members Monday night discussed the possibility of extending the city water main to the city limits allowing persons outside the city limits to hook on.

Following a number of requests from persons living outside Grifton town limits, the board decided to let persons hook on to the line with their own two-inch water pipes.

Charge for the hooking up of a line to the city's main was set at $29 plus $4 per month for the use of the main.

The town board also voted to add $1. to cost of court in traffic violations as a patrol fee charge. The cover the operational costs of the city's patrol car.

The opening of a part of Griffin Street to Highway 11 was discussed Monday night to some extent but no action was taken. The proposed extension will be from Griffin to Canal Street.

Several members of the board expressed a desire to go to Raleigh to investigate the voting of a bond issue. Work is being done in Raleigh on Griffin's bond issue and members say they wish to find out how much money should be voted.

At the close of the meeting the hostess served hot tea, cookies, nuts, candy and potato chips.

There will be a F.T.A.D.P.O.W.A. membership meeting tomorrow night at 8 o'clock at the union hall, 305 W. 14th St.

Funeral Friday For Mrs. M. B. Willis

Mrs. Neppie Brewer Willis, 51, widow of Major B. Willis, died in St. Luke's Hospital in New Bern at 5:30 o'clock Wednesday morning after having been critically ill for the past two days.

Funeral services will be conducted at Macedonia Free Will Baptist Church at 10:30 a.m. Friday afternoon by the Rev. J. R. Bennett, Free Will Baptist minister of Bridgeton, assisted by the Rev. D. W. Alexander, pastor of the church. Burial will be in the Willis family cemetery nearby. The body will remain at the S. G. Wilkerson and Sons Funeral Home and will be carried to the church one hour prior to the time of service.

Platypus Love Affair Is Ended

NEW YORK (AP)—Penelope has lost interest in Cecil so their engagement is off — at least temporarily, reports the Bronx Zoo.

Penelope and Cecil are the duck-billed platypuses brought from Australia five years ago. Hale and hearty, they are the only ones in captivity anywhere in the world outside their native Australia.

Only twice before have platypus couples bred in captivity so the romantic attachment of Cecil for Penelope was looked upon with great interest and fondest expectations.

"But Penelope," reports William Bridges, zoo curator of information, "has actively resented Cecil's overtures and shown her displeasure by rolling over and over in the water."

"This," he said, "is a characteristic sign of platypus annoyance and we had to separate them."

The haughty Penelope has been provided with a box about 2 feet square, lined with dirt. If she shows any indication of nesting, the courtship will be renewed. Cecil, it seems, is willing.

Girl Scout News

The Girl Scouts of West Greenville School had their first meeting of their own Monday, November 3, 1952.

The five ups separated from the other scout troop.

Each girl in the troop was given an office. At the end of 3 months they will rotate so that each girl will have an opportunity to do each job and learn to do it well. The following officers were elected:

President Ann Bartley, Vice-President Virginia Spears, Secretary Faye Allen, Treasurer Mary Alice Gibbs, Scrap Book Ann Green, Song Director Carolyn Rozier, Recreation Judy Hutchins, Messenger Janice Little, News Reporter, Alice Walters, Troop Leader Mrs. W. L. Green, Assistant Troop Leader Dora Pierce.

At the next meeting a hike is planned by the group.

The planet Neptune is believed to have a mass about 17 times that of the earth and a density about a quarter of that of the earth.

to one. And in Precinct No. 4 it was Stevenson 327, Eisenhower 38. In Greenville No. 7 it was Stevenson 239 to eight.

But in Greenville No. 2 and Greenville No. 6, Eisenhower polled more than 30 percent of the votes cast in each precinct. Greenville No. 2 gave Stevenson 1,056, Eisenhower 537. Greenville No. 6 awarded Stevenson 475, Eisenhower 330.

Amendment Vote

Unofficial returns from 17 of the 23 voting precincts in the county indicated that all three proposed amendments to the state's constitution which went before the people yesterday may receive a favorable majority in Pitt.

The vote on constitutional amendments was: Amendment No. 1, for, 3,405 against, 2,896; Amendment No. 2, for, 3,308, against, 2,381; Amendment No. 3, for, 3,543, against, 1,757.

Six precincts have yet to report results of balloting on amendments. There was no opposition to candidates for county offices, and they are presumed to be automatically elected by the casting of one ballot in their favor. Several township constable offices were at stake in yesterday's voting, but reports of results in that respect are not complete.
