Chinese Take Height 13th Time In Screaming Attack

Assault Believed All-Out Effort To Regain Last Of Central Front Hills Seized By UN Forces In October; Two-Battalion Attack Ends 3-Day Lull

SEOUL, Korea (UP) — Fifteen hundred screaming Chinese Communist soldiers captured Pinpoint Hill on Sniper Ridge tonight, storming the crest behind a thundering artillery barrage. It was the 13th time Chinese troops have re-taken the vital central front position since its capture by the South Koreans on Oct. 14.

Attacking from the east, north and west, the Chinese seized the crest at 9 p.m. Communist big guns fired 4,000 rounds into Allied positions during the first two hours of the attack, which began at 5 p.m.

South Korean troops fell back to basic defense positions on the outlying spurs of Sniper Ridge after fighting savagely and whistling waves of horn-blowing and hostile-touting Chinese.

The ROK troops were reported to be digging in again on fingers of Sniper Ridge up to Pinpoint Hill. The South Koreans have been able to hold these positions in the previous Red drives which carried them to the crest of pinpoint.

The two-battalion attack ended a three-day lull in the battle for the Kumhwa ridges. Tonight's assault was believed to be an all-out effort by the Chinese to regain the last of the central front hills seized by the United Nations in mid-October.

About a mile to the west lies Triangle Hill, seized by U. N. soldiers at the same time they captured Sniper. However, the Communists recaptured all but a small portion of the four-domed hill mass in 24 days of fighting.

Earlier today, U. N. soldiers, fighting with fists, rifle butts, knives and hand grenades, hurled back 800 flame-throwing Chinese from Porkchop Hill on the western front invasion route to South Korea.

The Reds hit Porkchop west of Chorwon under orders to "win or die." When the survivors finally stumbled back down the slopes just before dawn, they left behind some 300 dead and wounded.

Elsewhere along the front, North Korean Communists hurled new attacks at Anchor Ridge on the far eastern sector, lightly hit Sniper Ridge at the center of the U. N. line and overran a U. N. outpost near Chorwon.

The Reds' first attack on Porkchop, a rise of ground between Old Baldy and T-bone hills, came at 11:30 p.m. (9:30 a.m. EST Monday) in a chilling rain. They were beaten off two hours later.

In 30 minutes, they came back 800 strong, and plunged into the lacerwork of trenches and bunkers on the crest. Observers on nearby hills saw flickering tongues of flame from Chinese flamethrowers lick down the trench lines and into bunkers.

The U. N. defenders fought back with fists, bayonets, rifle butts and knives, and tossed hand grenades like confetti. United Press war correspondent Frederick C. Panton said the men reported Chinese bodies were littering the trenches at dawn. The men counted 100 and estimated another 200 Reds were either killed or wounded.

"Most of the dead had English language propaganda leaflets in their pockets protesting the U. N. position on prisoner repatriation," Panton said. "One officer remarked that the Communists make them work even when they're dead," he said.

Impossible?

LONDON (UP)—West Europe's diplomats said today the immediate replacement of Trygve Lie as secretary-general of the United Nations was "as good as impossible" because of the bitter differences between Russia and the West.

They were in general agreement that Lie's resignation may bring to the organization one of the greatest embarrassments of its short history. The consensus of official and public opinion was that Lie's unexpected move might add to the difficulties facing the U. N. organization rather than ease them as Lie anticipated.

Delegates of European nations at U. N. headquarters in New York today were in constant consultation with their governments regarding whom they favor as successor to the secretary generalship.

Indicative of the problem was the report of authoritative informants that not one single name has emerged that would appear acceptable to both eastern and western camps.

Negotiations On Artloom Plant In City 'Advancing'

An optimistic report on the location of the Artloom Carpet Company plant in this city was heard last night at a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors.

A report on the location of the Artloom plant was made by Reynolds May, chairman of the industrial committee of the chamber. May told the directors that the project was progressing favorably and that an official announcement concerning the location of the plant here would probably be made by the company at a later date.

Negotiations between the chamber and Greenville Industries, Inc., and officials of the Artloom Carpet Company have been in progress for the last several months but all of the plans so far have been on a tentative basis.

A lengthy discussion was also held last night on the application of the Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company which has asked for an increase in rates.

N. O. VanNortwick, Jr., chairman of the chamber's transportation committee, reviewed the efforts of Wilson to consolidate action to oppose the rates.

The board voted to cooperate with the Wilson chamber to the fullest extent possible in the movement in the event it is carried out.

It was also voted to again sponsor a newcomer's party this year, sometime after the first of January; and as in 1951, enlist the cooperation of civic and commercial organizations in the community in planning and carrying out the program.

The board decided to have its annual meeting, which will include the entire chamber of commerce membership, sometime in the near future provided arrangements could be made in taking care of the large group at a dinner meeting.

President Ercell Webb called attention to the Conservation Congress sponsored by the State Department of Conservation and Development which will be held in the hall of the House of Representatives in the capitol November 17, 18, and 19.

Webb urged as many members of the board as possible to attend some of the sessions, particularly those which will apply to this area. The congress will be divided into morning, afternoon and night sessions taking in all phases of conservation and development.

Under U. N. procedure, the General Assembly elects a secretary-general on recommendation of the Security Council. Failure of the veto-wielding Big Five members of the Security Council to agree on a candidate when Lie's original term expired in 1951 led to the "extension" of the Norwegian's tenure for three more years by the Assembly. Lie still has 14 months of that "extension" to serve.

Trygve Lie Resignation Leaves Gap

Many Candidates For UN Post; None Have United Support Of Big Powers

By BRUC W. MUNN United Press Staff Correspondent UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (UP)—Trygve Lie's dramatic resignation as secretary-general "to save the peace" left the United Nations today with a wealth of candidates to succeed him.

But none possessed a guarantee of the big-power support necessary to insure election to succeed the 56-year-old Norwegian, who told the General Assembly Monday: "I am stepping aside now because I hope this may help the U. N. to save the peace and to serve better the cause of freedom and progress for all mankind."

The announcement apparently genuinely surprised the delegates. First tangible reaction from any of the Big Five powers — who must agree on Lie's successor — could not be expected until British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden speaks in the General Assembly this morning.

Leading the field in speculation about who would succeed Lie was Brig. Gen. Carlos P. Romulo, Philippine ambassador to Washington. Romulo had been regarded as a likely choice in the selection of a secretary-general scheduled for next year. This year, he is serving as chairman of the Administrative and Budgetary Committee, a post regarded as a fine apprenticeship for the secretary-general's office.

Mentioned with Romulo as possible successors were Assembly President Lester B. Pearson, who is Canada's external affairs minister; former Assembly Presidents Luis Padilla Nervo of Mexico and Nasrollah Entezam of Iran; K. P. S. Menon, Indian ambassador to Moscow, and Charles A. Malik, Lebanon's widely known philosopher.

But all of these had big power obstacles to overcome. Russia obviously would not be likely to accept a nominee whose country has troops in Korea, and this possibly would eliminate Romulo and Pearson. U. S. public and official opinion was known to be lukewarm toward any Mexican or Indian candidate, and Britain appeared sure to oppose an Iranian. That left only Malik, and few figured he had enough strength to win an election.

Legion's Head Urges Forcing Korea Decision

WASHINGTON (AP)—National Commander Lewis K. Gough of the American Legion said today the United States "must force a decision" in Korea by using "all effective tactics and weapons" if the Communists persist in delaying a truce.

In an address at Armistice Day ceremonies at Arlington National Cemetery, Gough said there is "no other course than to set a time limit for the adoption of truce terms that will mean peace with honor and to serve notice on the enemy that failure to cooperate will bring military disaster."

"If he declines, then we must force a decision with a victory," Gough said. "We must do it by strength of arms in the field. . . by subordinating political luxury to military necessity. . . by employing all effective tactics and weapons."

Two Youths Are Charged In Local Store Robberies

Greenville police have made two arrests of teen-age Negroes in connection with reported robberies at three stores during the past week. Authorities are holding Simon Junior Rouse, 1400 Empire Alley, on three charges. Warrants charge Rouse with breaking and entering the West End Tea Room on West 12th street; Darden's store andillard's store, and larceny of money and merchandise.

Believe $85 Billion Budget Being Readied By Truman

County's Record-Breaking Vote Is Finally Tabulated

But Exact Number Not Yet Determined Because Of Discrepancies In Reports; Umstead Polled Most Votes Of Any Demo Candidate

By JESS POINDEXTER Reflector City Editor Pitt County's record-breaking vote in last Tuesday's balloting has at last been made official.

A canvass of the county's 23 voting precincts has been completed and final tabulations show that—as had been predicted—local polling history was made in the 1952 general elections.

County Elections Board Chairman J. H. Harrell of Greenville said today the number of persons actually voting in Tuesday's election would approximate 14,000, but the exact number could not be determined because of discrepancies in pollholders' reports.

Umstead Highest But it is officially established that Governor-elect William B. Umstead, Democrat, polled more votes for that office than any other candidate—county, state or national—subjected to the whim of local voters Tuesday. Umstead polled 12,256 ballots in Pitt County.

Umstead's erstwhile Republican opponent for the governorship, H. F. Seawell Jr., polled only 674 votes in the county. Two Pitt precincts, Chicod No. 3 and Falkland, failed to give the Republican candidate a single ballot.

Two records of long-standing went by the board in Tuesday's balloting for the presidency. Pitt County voters cast the most ballots in history for two presidential candidates, and probably marked more Tuesday in favor of a Republican—certainly since 1900.

Stevenson Led Although he was defeated nationally, Democrat Adlai Stevenson polled 11,271 ballots in Pitt, 9,078 more than Republican Dwight Eisenhower's 2,203 votes. Eisenhower's total county vote was greater than has been cast for a Republican candidate for president in the recollections of local political observers.

It is worthy of note, however, that although Eisenhower polled the highest vote ever afforded a Republican in Pitt County, percentage-wise his vote does not attain the significance attached to the Alfred E. Smith-Herbert Hoover campaign of 1928.

In Tuesday's balloting, Stevenson outran Eisenhower by a ratio of slightly more than five-to-one. In 1928, Smith led Hoover by little more than three-to-one. Thus, although Eisenhower polled more votes than Hoover, he suffered a more decisive defeat proportionately.

Greenville Republican Eisenhower's greatest strength was to be found in Greenville Township, which contains seven voting precincts. The general ran strong in all except Greenville No. 7, where he received only eight votes. Other county boxes favored Stevenson heavily, especially Chicod No. 1, with only one vote for Eisenhower. Chicod No. 4 cast only six Republican ballots and Belvoir cast 10.

State Officers County balloting for state officials, Democratic and Republican, respectively, was: Governor—William B. Umstead, 12,256; H. F. Seawell Jr., 674. Lieutenant-Governor—Luther Hodges, 12,077; Warren Pritchard, 659. Secretary of State—Thad Eure, 12,107; Frank Carr, 645. State Auditor—Henry Bridges 12,035; J. A. Maulsby, 640. State Treasurer—Brandon Hodges, 12,034; S. C. Eggers, 639. Attorney General—Harry McMullan, 12,039; Avalon Hall, 645. Superintendent of Public Instruction—Charles Carroll, 12,021; Jeter Haynes, 634. Commissioner of Agriculture—L. Y. Ballentine, 12,053; Joel Johnson, 645. Commissioner of Insurance—Waldo Cheek, 12,039; John Tucker Day, 645. Commissioner of Labor—Forrest Shuford, 12,019; W. E. Rutledge 641. Chief Justice Supreme Court—W. A. Devin, 12,001; Clifford Frazier, 644. Associate Justice Supreme Court—R. Hunt Parker, 12,069; Aigerson Butler, 639. Associate Justice Supreme Court—Jeff Johnson Jr., 12,000; Robert McNeill, 636.

Bonner Unopposed In the race for Congress from the First District, which is composed of Pitt and 13 other counties, incumbent Herbert C. Bonner ran unopposed and polled 12,093 votes. Five write-in ballots were cast, three for Robert Lee Humber and two for Loan May. Dr. Paul E. Jones of Farmville also ran unopposed and was re-elected to the state senate with 12,041 votes. Sam O. Worthington of Greenville, with 12,009 votes, and Frank M. Kilpatrick of Ayden, with 11,850 votes, were unopposed as representatives to the legislature. All three proposed amendments to the state constitution passed with (Continued on Page 10)

Texan Apparently Is To Be Floor Leader

Informed Sources Say Enough Democratic Senators Already Lined Up To Make Lyndon Johnson Strategy Chief

WASHINGTON (UP)—Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas apparently will be the Democratic floor leader in the Senate next year.

Informed sources reported today that about 30 of the 47 Democratic senators who will serve in the 83rd Congress already have been lined up to vote for Johnson.

Although he is only 44, Johnson has spent 15 years in Congress — 11 in the House and four in the Senate. He was Senate Democratic whip in the 82nd Congress.

He told reporters that he felt honored and grateful at the endorsements coming from other senators, but he would not say whether he would accept the floor leader job. His fellow Democrats had no doubt he would.

Senate Democrats must elect a new floor leader to succeed Sen. Ernest W. McFarland of Arizona, who failed to win re-election last week.

Republicans probably must elect a new floor leader, too, because the incumbent, Sen. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, wants to step out. Although the GOP situation has not yet shaken out, Sen. Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts and William F. Knowland of California are now regarded as the strongest candidates.

The Johnson bandwagon started to roll Monday when Sen. Richard B. Russell of Georgia, leader of the southern Democratic bloc, endorsed the Texas senator. Russell could have the floor leadership post himself if he wanted it. He told a reporter, however, that he thought he could be more useful in other ways and that Johnson deserved to be promoted to the leadership.

The Georgian's endorsement was followed by others from Sen. Earle C. Clements of Kentucky and J. Allen Frear Jr., of Delaware. Still others were understood to be in the offing. Clements expressed doubt that there would be any candidate opposing Johnson.

Experts Say Much Of Money Is For Projects Already Approved By Congress; No Major Defense Spending Cuts Envisioned By Present Administration Until Fiscal 1955

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Truman will hand the economy-minded 83rd Congress an $85,000,000 budget for government operations in fiscal 1954, according to preliminary unofficial estimates.

This is almost as much as he requested last January for fiscal 1953, and some $6,000,000 more than the 82nd Congress finally voted. It is also considerably higher than the $70,000,000 ceiling which Republican Congressional leaders have said they hope to impose on federal spending next year.

Mr. Truman will present the new budget, covering federal expenditures and revenues from July 1, 1953, to June 30, 1954, just a few days before he yields his post to President-elect Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Eisenhower, who is committed to trim the budget to $60,000,000 by 1956, will be free to change the Truman budget as he sees fit, by sending further budget recommendations to Capitol Hill.

Budget experts say most of the money in the new budget, as now anticipated, will be earmarked for projects already approved by Congress, particularly the defense effort. To cut expenditures to this year's level — $79,000,000 — Eisenhower or Congress must cut back part of the program already established, the experts say.

The present administration's plans do not envision a major cut in defense spending until fiscal 1955.

In trying to bring the budget into balance, Eisenhower and his elect Dwight D. Eisenhower probably will spend Thanksgiving with American troops on the front line.

Members of Eisenhower's growing staff here did not want to talk about the Korean trip for security reasons, but there were indications he would leave shortly after his talks with President Truman in Washington next week.

It was known that Eisenhower was pleased by reports from Gen. Van Fleet Monday night that two new South Korean divisions and six additional regiments had been added to the United Nations forces.

During the last weeks of his campaign, Eisenhower repeatedly expressed his long-standing theory that American casualties in Korea could be materially reduced by putting more South Koreans into the front lines.

The GOP winner did not project his Korean trip as an "easy answer" to the dragging war but said he wanted to examine the situation for himself in the hope of speeding peace, and short of that, "reducing the American combat report."

"One look is better than a million reports," Van Fleet said from the Far East Monday night. Eisenhower said substantially the same thing during the last weeks of the campaign.

The President-elect probably will leave here Sunday for New York for consultations with his advance policy-makers, led by Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge (R-Mass.), and Joseph M. Dodge, before going to Washington to see the President.

The canvassing board could see no other way out of the problem created when both men polled exactly 4,066 votes each in the election.

May Be In Korea Thanksgiving Day

Eisenhower Staff Members Reluctant To Discuss Tripp

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UP)—President-elect Dwight D. Eisenhower probably will spend Thanksgiving with American troops on the front line.

Rescuers Attend Window-Washing

CHICAGO (UP)—Mrs. Bertha Blumhual, aided by the local fire department, finally got her windows washed.

While sponging the outside of a second floor pane, the window fell on Mrs. Blumhual's lap. Firemen were called, but she had freed herself by the time they arrived.

Determined to finish the job, she stood inside and reached out. This time the window fell on her arm and pinned it. Firemen returned and released her again, then waited until the window job was finished.

One of the most bizarre cases on the records of the Greenville Police Department has been brought to a close. Alert observation and instantaneous action by two city police officers yesterday afternoon were contributing factors in the final solution of the case.

King Giving His Present Away

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (UP)—Sweden today presented King Gustaf Adolf, 70, with a birthday present of 5,000,000 crowns ($965,250).

The monarch announced that the gift will be used to further Swedish culture.

The king arose early and was on hand at 7:45 a. m. to greet Norwegian King Haakon VII, Haakon, Gustaf Adolf and Frederik of Denmark attended services at Stockholm Cathedral.

Church bells pealed continuously throughout the capital.

Nixon Playing No Part In Choices

MIAMI BEACH (UP)—Vice President-elect Richard M. Nixon, vacationing here at an ocean-front hotel today, says he isn't playing any part in the selection of President-elect Dwight Eisenhower's cabinet.

"The general is handling the whole thing," Nixon said, "and I'm sure he will make good appointments."

Stevenson Plans 10-Day Vacation

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UP)—Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson plans to leave tomorrow for a 10-day vacation on a cattle ranch near Sasabe, Ariz.

The Illinois governor, who has been busy with state and political business since he lost the presidential election, may be accompanied by several aides.

After a wild chase that led through the backyards and alleys of the city — and with the physical aid of several bystanders — the two policemen overpowered the suspect and took him into custody. Officers got their first lead in the investigation when a Greenville housewife, Mrs. Hermon Norris, spotted the trespasser in her yard and called the police department to report his presence. Pit. V. C. "Cowboy" Ackert rushed to the scene and "cased" the situation. Following his investigation, Ackert said this morning, he approached the trespasser and attempted to put him under arrest.

Dr. W. E. Marshall, member of the social science department at East Carolina College, was the speaker at last Friday's meeting of the Woman's Club.

Dr. Marshall was introduced by Mrs. N. C. Brooks, program chairman for the afternoon. He discussed the topic "What Has Made America Great?" In his profound talk he quoted great leaders of the past, giving their ideals and ideas, and stated that no nation in history had ever attained greatness, and continued great, which had forsaken God in its life. He reviewed the history of great empires of the past, such as Rome, France and Greece and pointed out how their decline was directly traceable to a decline in their spiritual and moral integrity. The speaker praised the humanitarianism in the United States and expressed the opinion that this attitude if continued would keep America great.

During the business session Mrs. J. H. B. Moore, president presided. She announced the Audubon Screen Tours, which will be shown in Greenville on the night of November 12 at 7:30 p. m. in Austin Auditorium.
A discussion was led concerning the proposed Arts Festival and it was decided that all department heads would meet in the near future to discuss this project.

Series of Talks At PTA Study Course

ROBERSONVILLE—On Thursday, November 6, Mrs. Marvin M. Everett, chairman of the P.T.A. study course, had a very interesting program.

The subject was "Building a Healthy Personality." At 7:30 the parents and teachers met in the music room at the Grammar school to hear the following speakers and topics:

Mrs. J. L. Williams, who spoke on "How Children Appraise Moral"; Mrs. Claude T. Smith, who discussed "Tension in Parents and Teachers"; Mrs. Glyn Norman, who raised the question, "Should Parents Help with Homework?"; Mrs. Harvey Lewis Roberson, who talked on "Responsibilities Scaled to Size"; Mrs. A. E. James, who suggested "Ways to Mental Health"; Mrs. Hassell Worsley, who spoke on "Money in Their Jeans"; Mrs. Clinton House, who discussed "Housework for Hobbies"; and Mrs. M. M. Everett, who closed the study by asking "Whose Business is the Curriculum?"

After these informative talks the study course was discussed and instructions were given for the P.T.A.

Calendars For Year Given To CWB Members Saturday

The Credit Women's Breakfast Club held their first meeting of the month at the American Legion Dining Room on November 8, at 7:30 a.m., with President Elinor Norris presiding. There were 22 members present.

An attractive club calendar, compiled by the president, was given each member, designating all committee assignments for the year, with chairmen and members comprising each committee. This calendar contains all pertinent information of a permanent nature for the year ahead, and is kept for ready information at all times.

International bulletins for October was given each member. The corresponding secretary, Mrs. Polly Dail, read several letters from state members, expressing their appreciation and enjoyment of the recent Bosses' Night Banquet, and the reception that followed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Hendrix. Mr. Hendrix is one of the club sponsors, and the lovely reception was a courtesy to the club members, their bosses and guests.

President Norris thanked all members on the committees who judged the paintings on the show windows

News From Ballards

By MRS. G. S. NICHOLS

On last Tuesday evening Mrs. Noah Barbour and Mrs. G. S. Nichols were hostesses to the November meeting of the Women of the Church at the home of Mrs. Barbour.

Mrs. Ray Crawford, vice president, presided and opened the meeting with a prayer.

Mrs. C. C. Hedgepeth presented the Bible study, using as the scripture reading a passage from Colossians. Her theme was "Holding on to Christ as the Source of Power."

Mrs. C. C. Harris had charge of the program and used an article from the Presbyterian Survey on the Assembly's special causes. Her talk included information about the work of the church and how it was financed. She mentioned work at Montreat, the Historical Foundation, Stillman Institute and others.

At the conclusion of her talk Mrs. P. J. Elks gave a report on a talk by Mrs. Pattie Turner, a home missionary from Kentucky, on some of the work which is being done by the church in the mountains of Kentucky.

At the business session an offering was taken for the Marse Fund and plans were made for the revival and the Fellowship supper at the church. The meeting was closed with the group's praying the Lord's Prayer in unison.

At the fellowship hour the hostesses assisted by Mrs. Dupree Toler served assorted cakes and iced drink.

At the November meeting of the Home Demonstration Club members were glad to have as their guests two teachers from Germany. They were introduced as Miss Ursula Koehler from northern Germany and Miss Maria Steinhoff from the western part of the country.

They sang a song for the members and also talked in their native language. They were welcomed warmly by the club and showed a great deal of interest in the work of the organization.

The meeting was conducted by the president, Mrs. L. R. Jones, who opened the meeting with group singing of "Come All Ye Thankful." The collect was repeated in unison and the devotional was given by Mrs. A. C. Turnage, who chose a passage from the Gospel of Luke, stressing the idea of growing in grace.

The demonstration for the afternoon was on easier methods in ironing, and the home management leader, Mrs. G. S. Nichols, assisted by Mesdames L. R. and J. R. Jones, demonstrated the new methods suggested for use in ironing shirts. In this demonstration they showed how a shirt could be ironed in less than five minutes. They also suggested the use of an adjustable ironing board so that much of the work could be done while seated.

During the business meeting the group voted to serve a covered dish supper on Thursday evening, November 14, beginning at 6:30 p.m. An announcement was made concerning Achievement Day, which will be observed in Greenville on November 18 in the Educational Building of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church. On the afternoon of that day, the Pitt County HD club members will have a flower show in the Home Agent's office and members of each club are asked to exhibit an arrangement of flowers.

At the social hour the hostess, Mrs. Dalton Williams, served delicious hot coffee and fruit cake topped with whipped cream. The December meeting will be a Christmas party for members, their families and friends in the community.

On Sunday, November 2, Mrs. C. C. Harris entertained at a birthday dinner honoring her husband and his brother, J. B. Harris of Durham, whose birthdays are on the same day.

The dinner was served from a beautifully appointed table centered with a magnificent birthday cake.

Guests for this occasion were Mr. and Mrs. Norman Wooten and son Ray and Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Harris and daughter from Durham.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Manning spent the week-end with relatives in New Bern. Little Franklin Smith accompanied by his uncle Mack Pollard was a Snow Hill visitor Wednesday afternoon.

Friends in the community will be sorry to learn that Mrs. Polly Warbritton, one of the older citizens of the community, had the misfortune to fall and break her hip last week. She is critically ill in Rex Hospital in Raleigh and would appreciate hearing from her friends.

Little Bill Erwin, Jr., spent several days the past week with his aunt, Mrs. J. D. Jones.

Mr. and Mrs. Atlas Rigsbee, Paul Rigsbee from Durham, and Mr. and Mrs. Bobbie Tapp and Mrs. Colon Byrd and family were recent visitors of Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Elks.

Mrs. Mamie R. Holloway was a visitor of Mrs. J. C. Pollard on Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Jean Carlton Hyman of Tarboro, Miss Jean Crawford of Tarboro, Leslie Evans and children of near Greenville, Ann Crawford of Washington, D. C. and Mr. and Mrs. Noah Edwards were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Crawford.

Mr. and Mrs. Whitfield of Washington were Sunday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Austin Bailey.

Mrs. James E. Stokes and daughter, Linda, of Falls Church, Virginia, were past week-end visitors of Mrs. Mamie R. Holloway.

On Tuesday, October 28, Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Elks entertained at a surprise birthday dinner honoring Mr. Elks' sister, Mrs. Mallie Crawford, on her 70th birthday.

The dinner was served from a beautifully decorated table centered with a lovely cake. Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Thurman Crawford, Mrs. Cora Crawford, Mr. and Mrs. Will Elks, Mrs. Dessie Elks of Ballards and Mr. and Mrs. Willford of Washington, D. C.

On Sunday, November 2, Mr. and Mrs. Gilmer Nichols entertained at a barbecue dinner with members of Mr. Nichols' family as guests.

The dinner was served from the dining table buffet style and the menu consisted of barbecue, slaw, bread, cake, pickles, and iced tea.

Present for this occasion were Mr. and Mrs. Jack Nichols, of near the home, Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Joyner and family, Mr. and Mrs. Beverly Joyner, and family, Mrs. Nesh Joyner, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kilpatrick, Jr., all of Greenville, Mr. and Mrs. Nichols of Charlotte, Miss Lillie Tucker and Mary E. Nichols of Washington, D. C., and Charley McArthur of the home.

This was also the date of Mr. and Mrs. Nichols' 33rd wedding anniversary.

MISSION STUDY
Tomorrow night at Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church the second in a series of four studies on "Home Missions and Human Rights" will be taught.

The session will give a historical background for the Universal Declaration of Human Rights. Taking part in the discussion will be a group of high school students, who will act as a panel for the discussion. George B. Starling will serve as moderator.

A study of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights will be offered by Dr. W. E. Marshall of the social science department of East Carolina College.

These study courses are being sponsored by the women's organizations of the Methodist Church and the Eighth Street Christian Church. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Truck Damaged In Hitting Bear

MISSOULA, MONT. AP)—What happens when a 500-pound brown bear and a 10-ton truck collide? Consolidated Freightways Inc. says about $25,000 worth of damages—excluding the dead bear.

The Consolidated Freightway truck met the hard-running bruin on what is nominally human territory—U.S. Highway 10, about 15 miles east of here. The bear was knocked into some bushes along the highway where it soon died while the truck and its van rolled into a ditch and burned. The driver gained freedom by kicking his way out of the cab.

A Decision Looms On The Korean Problem

The importance of the Far East, as an arena where events of the future will be shaped, is growing. Our preoccupation with Korea and Communist China in these columns is not and has not been undue.

For a long time it has been evident a decisive step had to be taken there. That decision, that step, has been left to the administration which will be handed the reins of government on January 20.

The new administration will have the benefit of experience gained by military and diplomatic representatives of the United States during the past months (and years) of dealing with the Communists. This experience, coupled with the apparent dissatisfaction of a majority of Americans with the Korean stalemate, is expected to result in a positive action by the government.

Some on-the-scene observers of the Korean War are said to believe that when President-elect Eisenhower visits the scene, reviews what has been done, studies reports and the record of disappointment and the enemy's refusal to accept a reasonable armistice . . . then he will probably turn to cutting the Gordian Knot with a sword. But nobody really knows what Ike may decide.

In the minds of many at home the Korean record speaks for itself, and they would rather such a step with all the risks entailed than watch the children of yet unborn generations still being pitted against the armed hordes occupying North Korea. A brief, savage stroke could in the end be more merciful than an unending conflict.

The important aspect in the whole picture is that a new team has been entrusted with settling this issue. And the new team has a mandate to get results rather than play the game on terms laid down by the enemy.

No one can make up the new President's mind for him. It's something that only he can decide for himself and then, if he feels it necessary, he may even take his recommendations to the Congress for the final stamp of approval.

Whatever action is decided upon, it will be even more difficult to carry out than on several occasions in the past when conditions were more propitious.

National Whirligig

WASHINGTON—American voters crying for a "change" at Washington will have to keep their shirts on for a while, even after Dwight D. Eisenhower enters the White House on January 20.

They must expect no overnight miracles from the first Republican Administration in a generation. The distinguished loser, Adlai E. Stevenson, was right when he said that "you cannot hurry history." President-elect Eisenhower, as he realizes well, cannot, singlehandedly and immediately, destroy or modify Roosevelt-Truman reforms embedded deep in the national structure and society, and he would not if he could, according to his campaign pledges. It would be unfair to ask it of him.

PREINAUGURAL ACTIONS—For many months, perhaps, the people must have the same faith in him that led them to choose him as their leader in a remarkable demonstration of confidence.

They must rely upon his preinaugural actions and appointments as evidence that he will, eventually, install an orderly right-of-center, efficient and economical management of the nation's business.

Eisenhower's methods of operation, as a review of his military career reveals, are those of a patient, cautious man. No commander commits his troops to battle action until he has studied his lines of advance and possible retreat. Only then does he make quick and definite decisions.

And, fortunately or unfortunately, the President-elect has a lot of land to survey before he can change the landscape in accord with the popular verdict last Tuesday.

STAFF MAN—General Eisenhower is, fundamentally, what is known as a staff man, by training and temperament. That is, he assigns specific problems to a group of acknowledged experts for study. He also names a trustworthy personal aid to serve as liaison with these advisory bodies, and to keep him progressively informed of their discussions and possible solutions.

When fully and finally briefed by their reports, and after consultation with them, he acts quickly and decisively as in the Normandy invasion and in many other military crises. Naturally and necessarily, to reach important decisions in this manner is a slow process.

It also tends to lead to compromise, which is the essence of successful administration, and, as Eisenhower demonstrated in the campaign, of victorious politics.

NO STARTLING REVOLUTION—By contrast, and this will mark the great difference between General Eisenhower and his two Presidential predecessors, FDR and Truman were improvisers and opportunists and utterly politically minded. Both were creatures of circumstance rather than of conviction.

Roosevelt, for instance, had no New Dealish dreams when he was elected, as the 1932 platform disclosed. He grabbed at every idea that was thrown at him by the brain trust that shouldered him along. When he saw that these schemes were popular and attractive to the electorate, he embodied them in a philosophy of government. Truman simply inherited the formula.

In view of Eisenhower's entirely different nature and approach, and to the temporary disappointment of the millions who anticipate a convulsion at the Capital after 20 years of Democratic rule, Eisenhower will proceed slowly and cautiously in revision of basic national policies.

There will be no startling revolution, come January 20.

CONSOLIDATION OF ACTIVITIES—The two problems of Federal aid to health and education, which figured so prominently in the campaign, furnish a specific example of areas of this kind of improvement, and they are typical of many other possibilities for the Eisenhower touch.

Despite Truman's unsuccessful, seven-year attempt to ramrod his extreme ideas on these questions through Congress, the Federal government actually devotes billions in these fields. But this vast sum is spent by a score of different and conflicting agencies, with the consequent waste and duplication nullifying or minimizing the effort and expenditure.

Neither FDR nor Truman gave a thought to consolidation of all these scattered and sporadic activities. They preferred to neglect existing but ineffective establishments, while they besieged Congress vainly with elaborate and expensive schemes for vote-getting purposes.

Trivial as this case history may seem, it is characteristic of the kind of management that has plagued the Federal government. Neither FDR nor Truman were tidy or tight housekeepers. It is in this field that Eisenhower is supposed to excel. But it will require considerable time for him to show his stuff.

The Bear That Never Hibernates

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

At least two Greenville people sat up and took notice about the December issue of Inside Detective magazine, featuring a story about the Jesse Mills murder case.

Raymond Stokes of the AA Taxi Company complained about being misquoted and Carl McKinley of Radio Station WGIC sounded off on his yesterday morning edition of Mae's Music Rack about the insults paid Greenville.

All of us, by giving the magazine any mention are playing right into the hands of the publishers. They probably figured that the story would cause an uproar in Greenville, thus selling many copies of their magazine. As much as I hate to play in their hands, the story should be mentioned.

With W. W. Ward listed as the author and a date line of September 1, 1952, Greenville, N.C., the story begins, "Great Swamp, of eastern North Carolina, comes almost to the north city limits of Greenville. On hot, breezy nights you can smell its animal muskiness and the lush sweetness of its rotting grasses; you can hear the low, swelling rumble from the white throats of its countless frogs. During the glass-hot days, when the town of 17,000 is bustling with cars and people, the swamp is forgotten. It's only in the deep parts of a summer night that the awareness returns. Then the sides of the downtown buildings seem to glisten in their own sweat and dark places seem darker and little noises louder than they really are."

After reading the story, which is impressive in places and obviously exaggerated in others, it's hard to recollect the actual facts that came out in the case. Arthur Harris of AA Taxi says, "This story mentions Bill Stokes (referring to Raymond Stokes). He's never been referred to as Bill in his life. And they say Raymond referred to Mr. Mills as 'old Jesse.' We had the utmost respect for Mr. Mills down here and never called him anything else but Mr. Mills."

"People who read a lot of detective stories will tell you that different magazines will give cases entirely different facts. Somebody told me, 'I read one particular case about a deaf mute in four different magazines. And in one of the four the girl wasn't even a deaf mute!'"

If you know the facts of the Mills case and want to compare them with the version by W. W. Ward, you can do so for 15 cents, the price of Inside Detective. And I thank you.

Around Capitol Square

REASON—Since returns came in from Tuesday's election many of the capitol square folks have been trying to figure out why the vote was so overwhelmingly against the Democrats. It is generally conceded hereabouts that it was against the Democrats rather than for the Republicans. Various reasons have been assigned, but preponderant majority opinion is that the "Time for a change" chant was most effective. In addition to Korea, Communism and corruption, there was cumulative impact of the "time for change" idea which began in 1940. Democrats had been in power for 20 years, the second longest unbroken tenure of any party since the United States became a nation.

TENURE—Republicans technically held control from 1860 to 1884, a period of 24 years. Historians agree, however, that Samuel Tilden actually won the election of 1876, although a questionable legal commission seated Rutherford B. Hayes. Democrat Cleveland was elected in 1884, lost to Republican Harrison in 1888, came back in 1892, for the only non-consecutive term in history. Republicans won in 1896 and held 16 years until 1912, when Democrat Woodrow Wilson came in for eight years. The Republicans came back in 1920 for 12 years. Since Franklin Roosevelt's election in 1932 the Democrats have had the administration for 20 years. The precedent of history favored the "time for a change" slogan.

GENERAL—The impulse for change made itself felt in many North Carolina primary elections last summer, and in the only real district contest last week, as well as in several contested counties. It had large influence upon the primary victory of I. H. Fountain over Judge John Kerr, secretary.

seniority, demand party regularity. As one Democrat expressed it, there's a little kinship between the Democrats of the South who look on themselves as the original and true Democrats and the Democrats of the North who're demanding all sorts of socialistic legislation. For the South as a whole isn't for a lot of the proposed aid programs; it looks with disfavor on social legislation and it objects strenuously to an FEPC. Yet the Americans for Democratic Action and similar organizations will go on proposing more and more of that sort of thing. Indeed, that organization and the CIO practically wrote the last Democratic platform. The South knows something about oppression. Destitute in 1865, years were required before it could get back to anything approaching normal. It doesn't approve of more oppression, particularly when the oppression is applied for political purposes only. The resentments expressed by a lot of Southerners in the election to some degree reflected that. If a lot who changed over are to be won back, it must be done by a new leadership that will insist that the South have an equal voice in the matter of shaping policies. Otherwise, many of the recent scars will remain.

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER
The recipe is one of the hardest-working tools in modern merchandising. It encourages more frequent use of many products and it suggests new uses. It harnesses one of the most effective means of increasing sales of almost anything—word of mouth promotion.

Some products have climbed to the top of their market almost entirely through the promotion of recipes. A cake mix, a tomato sauce and a seasoning come immediately to mind—and there are thousands of other examples.

Use of recipes has spread far beyond the food field. Equivalents of recipes are used to increase the sales and consumer satisfactions of cosmetics, shaving soap, tools, industrial materials, and endless other nonfood products.

Since the recipe is so powerful, one of the mysteries of business is why so many manufacturers persist in printing recipes and directions in small type. The type is often so fine that even people with fair eyesight cannot read it without the aid of glasses, and even then confusing abbreviations and minuscule fractions are difficult to understand. Many a housewife struggles through a fine-print recipe, taking on and off her glasses so often they soon become clouded with flour or grease. This may be why some dishes turn out so poorly.

Perhaps the aid of type designers should be sought. They might be charged with designing a new type face—to be called "Recipe," of course—which would be easier to read than other types now used for recipes and with unmistakable fractions. Then the type makers might be enjoined never to manufacture it in fine sizes—say never smaller than THIS.

P. S. While they are at it, they might also design a new, easier-to-read type for contracts, insurance policies and other agreements, again never smaller than THIS.

MISSING THE LANDSLIDE. . . . WORRIES RESEARCHERS. . . . Market researchers and advertising agencies are glum over the failure of professional pollsters to forecast the results of the election a week ago today.

Their errors four years ago were understandable because the division of the electorate was almost even. But this year all of the celebrated polls had more hedges than a formal garden. Those who make merchandising surveys fear that next time they propose one to a manufacturer, he will say, "If a survey can't tell when a political landslide is coming, how in blazes can it tell what kind of breakfast housewives prefer?"

Incidentally, the amateur polls, based on which cigarette, fast bag or stationary people preferred, did better than the professionals. They indicated the most of the newspaper polls, too, accurately reflected sentiment in the areas they covered.

CHARGE COLLECTIONS UP MORE THAN SALES. . . . "People are saying, 'Charge it!' more, but they are also paying bills more promptly."

Federal Reserve figures for September show charge account sales were 1 per cent higher than a year ago, but that charge account collections were 6 per cent higher.

On the other hand, while installment sales were up 7 per cent, installment collections showed no increase.

WISCONSIN PLANS SET TAX FOR EDUCATIONAL TV. . . . Wisconsin is considering the financing of educational television stations with an annual tax on each television receiver.

This is the theory: Set owners benefit from both commercial and educational television. Commercial stations are supported by set owners through the purchase of goods advertised. Since educational stations can't sell advertising, set owners should pay in another way.

Manufacturers and retailers of TV sets are expected to resist stiffly.

ATLANTIC AIR TRAVEL. . . . Trans-Atlantic air tourist rates, started May 1, have proved to be a rousing success. Two American trans-Atlantic lines carried 6 per cent more passengers between May 1 and August 15 than they did in the same period in 1951 and foreign lines on the Atlantic run carried 66 per cent more.

Hal Boyle's Column

By HAL BOYLE
BOLOGNA, Italy (AP) — In the golden world of opera is an old fond saying:

"All singers are crazy — but tenors are the worst." Not being much of an opera fan myself, I always low-rated tenors, regarding them as a kind of high-barking he-soprano.

That was before I met Giuseppe Di Stefano, who is built like a full-back and is rated by some to have the best voice to come out of Italy since Caruso used to pitch high notes that would break a window.

At St. Giuseppe — who does not mind being called Joe or Beppo or Peppi or any other nickname — is a leading tenor in the Metropolitan Opera New York, a favorite here and in half a dozen other lands. It is hard to see how the movies have overlooked him, as the lady fans of long-hair music think he is as handsome as the late Rudolph Valentino.

His swift and glittering rise from poverty has given Joe a gusty appreciation of the fruits of success, but left him ruggedly unpolished.

"Some people go through this world on a first class ticket, some on a second class ticket, but most get only a third class ticket," he said. "I was born with a fourth class ticket in my mouth, and I have never forgotten it."

The son of a Sicilian policeman, Joe looked forward dimly to a life of obscure labor until at 17 someone discovered the big kid had a voice box the world needed. He worked like a draft horse through hungry years on that voice, tuning it like a violin.

After he made his debut at La Scala, the Milan opera house that has been a springboard to greatness for no more singers, there were no more food problems for Joe.

Frances and I and Dr. Anson Clark, a Lubbock, Texas, oilman, visited Joe in the new villa he is finishing at Marina Di Ravenna, a seashore resort.

I decided right then that if I am ever born again, I want to be an opera tenor. He is a king in his world. When Joe lifts his head, his mama and his pretty young wife, Maria, come running to have the best voice to come out of Italy since Caruso used to pitch high notes that would break a window.

knocked over three stone road markers, then turned turtle and rested upside down in a ditch, wheels spinning.

Joe climbed out unhurt, took his wife to a hospital where her injured wrist was put in a cast. Then they climbed into another car and rode on to Bologna.

I was in the audience that night. The opera was La Boheme, one of Joe's favorites. It was the first act during a dust he hit a high "C" or a middle "C" or what ever "C" it is a good tenor hits and the opera fans became absolutely delirious. It was like home run in a game. At the end of the opera, Joe had to take a dozen curtain calls.

WASHINGTON — Housewives the nation over share a common worry — how to divide and stretch their budgets to house, feed, clothe and educate their families and give them a feeling of security. They all want to improve their homes, are all interested in home decoration and all want washing machines.

This was clear in interviews I had with home management specialists from different parts of the country meeting in Washington recently to discuss the family living outlook for 1953.

Miss Barbara Higgins, state home demonstration agent-at-large of the University of Massachusetts, told me women in her state are especially interested in. They want a higher standard of money-management program, living and want to buy things but are stymied by high prices.

Women are becoming more business-conscious and are now bearing much more financial responsibility in the home," she said. "They are interested in programs that tell them how to buy, build and improve a home. They are eager for help in planning insurance and savings programs, how to plan a will, and ways of protecting families against emergencies, death, hospitalization, accidents."

Marybeth Minden, home manager specialist at Oregon State College, also was interested in methods of simplifying the work in the home and how to make money go further.

"They were worried about inflation, but in the last few months, they seem to be adjusting themselves and learning to live with it," she told me. "As prices kept climbing, they began to show more interest in home baking and in canning and preserving food, with a definite trend toward the use of home freezers and community locker plants."

Willie Vay Dowdy, home improvement specialist with the Georgia agricultural extension service 33 years, says every Georgia housewife wants a washing machine after she gets lights and water in her home.

Miss Dowdy, who says she knows "every pig track in the state," is equally interested in landscaping her yard and streamlining her kitchen. Some 15,000 homemakers have been helped to improve their kitchens over the past 10 years, she said, with a power company co-operating in the extension service program.

Currently Miss Dowdy is working on a living room improvement program with some 1,500 women vying for prizes in a contest sponsored by a department store at Athens, Ga.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

SOUTHERN RE-ORGANIZATION (Wilson Times)

All elections leave scars. The last one did all over the South. To say that they should be read from the party is to invite disaster. Instead, we must recognize that a goodly number of Southerners adamantly refuse to go along with a national administration that insists on ramming objectionable legislation down the Southerners' throats. And while the defectives have not so far been great in numbers, they will in time take action against those Senators and Congressmen who, because they want to keep their seniority, demand party regularity. As one Democrat expressed it, there's a little kinship between the Democrats of the South who look on themselves as the original and true Democrats and the Democrats of the North who're demanding all sorts of socialistic legislation. For the South as a whole isn't for a lot of the proposed aid programs; it looks with disfavor on social legislation and it objects strenuously to an FEPC. New Titles Adopted For 2 Publications By Students

New titles have been chosen for student publications at East Carolina College as a result of recent campus balloting. The "Teco Echo" student newspaper appeared during the weekend for the first time as the "East Carolinian"; the spring 1953 edition of the yearbook, formerly the "Tecoan," will be entitled the "Bucaneer."

Both publications are sponsored by the Student Government Association of the college. Approval of the change in titles and selection of new titles resulted from a recent general campus vote.

The student newspaper was founded in 1925 as a bi-weekly and from that time to the present has been called the "Teco Echo." The name was coined from "Teachers College Echo" by Christine Vick, now Mrs. O. K. Joyner of Wilson.

Deane Bowne Haskett of Greenville, now a teacher in the city high school here, was the first editor, and Tommie Lupton of Greenville is now serving as editor for the second consecutive school year. In 1948, under the editorship of Carl Conner of Windsor, the "Teco Echo" was made a weekly. Several times it has been awarded high ratings for excellence by such national organizations as the Associated Collegiate Press of the University of Minnesota and the Columbia Scholastic Press of Columbia University.

The "Tecoan," a shortened form of "Teachers College Annual," will be replaced next spring by the title the "Bucaneer," a name suggested by the East Carolina Pirate, symbol of college athletic teams. First issued in 1923, the yearbook had as its first editor Lois Haskins of Oriental, now Mrs. Hamilton Jones of Eastover, South Carolina. Roy Creech of Snow Hill is editor of the 1953 edition.

Rotarians Hear Student Vocalist

Vocal solos by Miss Monteen Winstead, a student at East Carolina College, accompanied at the piano by Professor George Perry of the music faculty, constituted the entertainment on the program of the Greenville Rotary Club last night. The young vocalist did four numbers: "Down in the Forest," "Christopher Robins Is Saying His Prayers," "My Name Is Mimi" from the Opera La Boheme, and as encore "Little Butterfly."

Harding Sugg read from a Kingston newspaper clipping about a wounded American soldier's being visited by Masami Kikumori. Masami is a Japanese school man who was brought to the United States for advanced study at the University of North Carolina by the Rotarians of the 17th District of Rotary International, in which Greenville and Kingston belong. The American soldier is Lt. O. G. Rucker who was wounded in Japan and sent to a hospital in Japan. Visiting Rotarians last night were Edwin Coates of Farmville, J. Ted Haiger of Sanford, Irvin Morgan of Farmville, and Maynard Fletcher of Washington. Ray Evans of Greenville High School was welcomed as Junior Rotarian for the next two weeks. The program was presented by Harding Sugg, chairman of the program committee, president.

Bitter Victory For 2 Students

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—Victory was bitter for two University of Southern California students who celebrated their team's weekend football victory over Stanford by trying to tip over a cable car. James Bole, 18, Long Beach, Calif., and Ivan Rose, 22, Los Angeles, were placed on 30 days probation for disturbing the peace. But the judge also "sentenced" them to sing a Stanford song "right here in court." The youths complied with an insincere chorus of Stanford's "down on the farm."

Speaker On Fund Notes Investment In Youth 'Best'

"An investment in youth is the best investment," said Erzell Webb, Greenville business man, in a radio address yesterday afternoon in behalf of the Pitt County Scholarship Foundation for East Carolina College.

Webb, who is serving with Badger Johnson of Greenville as a chairman of the drive for funds in the city of Greenville, explained the aims and purposes of the Foundation. The campaign to raise $100,000 in the county for the establishment of scholarships for needy and worthy students who wish to attend the college is now in progress.

"Investment in youth brings a warm personal satisfaction to the investor," he said; "it develops personality, character and economic resources; it builds a better America."

As reasons for the Scholarship Foundation, Webb first pointed out the fact that East Carolina lacks scholarship funds such as most colleges have to provide for the education of intelligent, worthy young men and women who need financial assistance in their efforts to get a education. He added that the talents of these young people represent an undeveloped resource unless those who desire an education are "trained to the point that they have maximum value as citizens."

"The suggestion for the movement came at a meeting of thirty public-spirited men and women some weeks ago," Webb stated. As a result, he said, the Pitt County Memorial Scholarship Foundation, Inc., was established; and a board of directors of twenty-six of the county was appointed.

Local committees are working for the Foundation in all parts of the county, Mr. Webb said. Administration of the fund, he explained, is important. He stated that a Foundation Committee composed of some Pitt County business men and members of the college faculty will administer the fund.

The principal will be invested, he stated, and "only the income from the investment of the fund will be used for student scholarships." "The capital fund will remain constant, except as it may be increased from time to time by contributions which, we feel confident, will be made toward its enlargement," he explained.

Blames Love For Role In Thefts

PARIS (UP)—It was love, Georges Lefevre told the judge at his trial for helping his wife steal $57,000 from her employers.

"If I had not done as she said, she would have run off with her lover — and I loved her," Lefevre said.

Lefevre and his wife, Olga, were sentenced to eight years each.

Need Two Men To Wind Clocks

LONDON (UP)—Buckingham Palace has doubled its staff of clock watchers.

Queen Elizabeth II and the duke of Edinburgh received so many clocks as wedding gifts that two men instead of one now must spend all day winding the palace clocks.

DOG PLAYS SLEUTH

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UP)—Smoky, a cocker spaniel, did a little detective work on her own and came home with her mistress' $1,500 diamond bracelet. The bracelet and a wedding ring were lost by Mrs. Venita Adams. Mrs. Adams is hoping Smoky will find the ring next.

Landfill Sanitation Machinery Demonstrated

More than 137 county and city officials in eastern North Carolina attended the sanitary landfill demonstration which was held in Tarboro last week. The operation is shown above.

TARBORO—City and county officials of Greenville and Pitt County said they were favorably impressed with the equipment for the operation of sanitary landfills which was demonstrated in Tarboro Friday.

Attending the demonstration from this area were Dr. Walter Humbert, W.M. Pate, and Lionel Evans of the Pitt County Health Department; C. Beatty, city street superintendent; Heber Tripp, city street committee member; Alton Hill, Winterville street committee member; C.M. Paylor, Farmville city clerk; and B.J. Taylor, Farmville superintendent of streets.

The demonstration of the low-cost power equipment was arranged by the United States Public Health Service for the purpose of showing a landfill in operation and how small machinery can be used satisfactorily for landfill work in small towns.

In a discussion on landfills, it was brought out that the landfill is advantageous in that it prevents the spread of disease by insects and rodents and it eliminates odors in addition to being inexpensive to operate.

One of the speakers at the morning session of the meeting said a city dump devalues property which surrounds it in addition to being unsanitary.

Tarboro already uses the equipment; C. K. Beatty, city street Mount plans to start its landfill operation within 30 days, it was stated.

county health officer, reminded the group that garbage disposal had always been a municipality's and a health department's problem and he added that the landfill was by far the most effective way of eliminating the bad characteristics of disposal.

The afternoon session was held at Tarboro's sanitary landfill. Before the group arrived the town bulldozer had dug a 100 yard trench and the small machinery went to work packing the refuse, finally covering it with two feet of dirt.

Heber Tripp of Greenville said he was very much impressed by the operation and could easily see how it could be used for a town of this size.

College Holding Pre-Registration

Pre-registration of East Carolina College students for courses to be taken during the winter quarter is in progress and will continue through Saturday, November 18. During this week students now enrolled at the college will meet with their faculty advisors to prepare their schedule of courses for the coming quarter, extending from December 1 to February 28.

Registrar Orval L. Phillips has announced that applications from students who wish to enter East Carolina December 1 are now being received at this office. A number of veterans of the Korean War are included among these applicants.

Those who wish to begin college work at East Carolina at the opening of the winter quarter, Dr. Phillips states, will be able to enroll in courses for first-year students and will find the schedule of classes arranged to suit their needs.

Monday, December 1, has been designated as official registration day for the winter quarter. At that time students entering college for the first time will prepare their schedules with the help of faculty counselors, and students continuing their work at the college will complete their enrollment in classes. Instructors will meet their classes for the first time in the quarter Tuesday, December 2.

'Assault-By-Leer' Case Is Again Heard By Court

YANCEYVILLE, N. C. (UP)—Prosecutors of a Negro sharecropper in a publicized case of "assault by leer" sought to prove today that he also chased the pretty white girl of 17 he allegedly intended to rape.

Over strong defense objections the prosecution said 44-year-old Mack Ingram, on trial for a third time, "traveled 236 feet while she traveled 215 feet," although she was "running as fast as she could."

Bixom Mrs. Willie Jean Webster, now 19, reviewed her testimony of a year ago in which she said Ingram "leered" at her as she drove past in his automobile, as she walked along a country road wearing dungarees.

She said she cut across a corn field with Ingram walking "rapidly" behind, and then ran into a wood. Ingram denied he chased the girl and said he thought she was a boy and wanted to ask where he could borrow a trailer. The case attracted wide attention because of provision in North Carolina law that assault need not involve actual contact. Neither side claimed he ever got closer than 75 feet.

Superior court denied various defense motions during the first day of the new trial yesterday, including one motion to quash the indictment on grounds that no Negroes were on the grand jury.

Ingram, lanky father of nine children, was indicted on a felony charge when he appealed his simple assault conviction in recorder's court. A mistrial resulted in superior court a year ago.

His first conviction carried a two-year sentence but he now faces a possible 15-year sentence if convicted.

The defense also sought a change of venue on grounds that Communist agitation here has made a fair trial impossible, but this was also denied. The defense claimed Communists have made attacks on court officials and county commissioners in an effort to stir up resentment.

Martin Luther nailed his famous "protest" to the door of the castle church in Wittenberg, Germany, in 1517 and opened the "protestant" reformation.

Suspect Adult Is Stirring 'Nazis'

NEW ORLEANS (UP)—Authorities believed today some "crackpot adult" must have stirred a group of "average American kids" to form the "Nazi storm trooper club" amazed officers broke up here over the past weekend.

Police arrested nine of the teenagers and seized Nazi swastikas, 4,000 rounds of .22-caliber ammunition, a quantity of shotgun shells and 36 knives when they moved in on the secret headquarters in a burned grocery store.

"We don't know yet where they got all this stuff," said Deputy Sheriff Cy Ernst of Jefferson Parish, "but some crackpot adult must have started them out."

He said the defiant youths belonging to the "dangerous mob" believe Adolf Hitler is still alive in Argentina and some day will return to power.

"I am going to fight for him," said one 15-year-old boy, who proudly told authorities he was the leader of the mob. Ernest said this youth, as well as the others, is a native American, but is of the surly, boasting, "storm trooper" type.

The whole bunch—or at least the ones we have seen—seem to be average American kids, but they sure have sopped up a lot of wild nonsense about Hitler," Ernest said. Police, tipped off by an eight-year-old boy who was denied membership, believed the gang was responsible for stoning of a Southern Railway passenger train in which two persons were injured.

The leader told police qualifying for membership involved breaking a certain number of street lights, hitting a Negro with a brick, and jumping from a fast-moving train. A prospective member also had to sign a membership card printed in the German language, carrying a picture of Hitler on one side and on the other the words, "I am a member of the Nazi party."

Bury President Of Israel Today

REHOVOTH, Israel (UP)—Chaim Weizmann, first president of Israel, was buried today in this little citrus orchard town as sirens shrilled across the nation bringing silence and halting public transport.

More than 250,000 persons who had converged on the Israeli leader's presidential home by train, bus, truck and afoot, had passed the catafalque on which his body lay in state before the funeral started.

Weizmann, 77, died early Sunday after a long illness. His body had lain in state beneath a high blue and white canopy in front of his home in this citrus fruit-growing community which he loved so well.

His widow and his son Benjamin, who arrived by plane from London, watched from a window as the great crowd—Arabs mingling with Jews—passed slowly by.

At the start of the funeral the body was carried by officers of the Israeli army to the hearse. The procession started. Among the mourners attending were acting President Joseph Sprinzak, Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion, chief rabbis, members of the cabinet, and members of the foreign diplomatic corps.

Messages from all over the world, and mourners from most of it had arrived here before the "George Washington of Israel" was taken to his final resting place.

Phantoms To Bypass Rough Drills For R. Rapids Game

Squad Is In Top Physical Shape

Rain chased the Greenville Phantoms indoors yesterday but they took advantage of their situation and sat through one of their few skull sessions of the season.

The Phantoms are expected to stay away from rough work all this week even though the squad is in the best physical shape it has been in all season.

A win against Roanoke Rapids this week could assure the Phantoms of a tie for second place in the Northern Conference standings.

The Phantoms came up with their "best all-around game" of the season last week when they defeated Elizabeth City, according to Head Coach Bill Kittrell.

Kittrell and other members of the Phantoms coaching staff were reluctant to single out individuals for praise but they were "very pleased" with the performances of halfback Guy Smith and end Bobby Conway.

The victory moved the Phantoms record for the season to the four victories-four defeats-one tie mark.

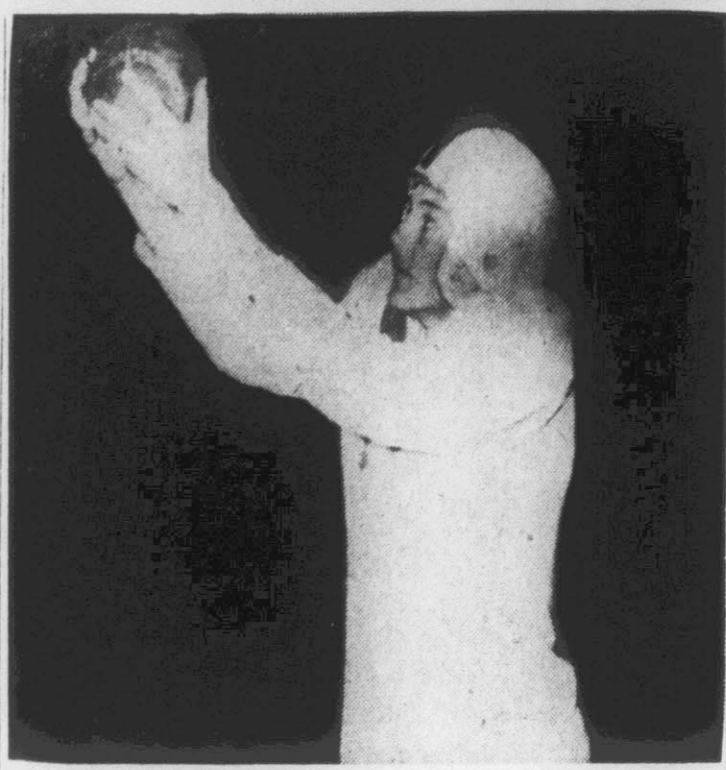

In Northern Conference play they have recorded wins over Edenton, Kingston and Elizabeth City, lost to New Bern, and tied the Washington Pam-Park 0-0.

Smith and Stokes were carrying the ball in the wrong direction, walked onto the field to inquire.

At that time spectators began hurling apples and oranges at the officials, and an apple core hit one official in the back.

Iowa was further penalized to its one-yard line when Referee George Rennix saw Evashevski on the field.

Two players were ejected from the game after the next play when Iowa punted from its one.

BOBBY CONWAY has been drawing raves from opposing team coaches and players for his outstanding offensive and defensive performances at end for the Phantoms. He played a leading role in Greenville's 20-7 triumph over Elizabeth City Friday night. The rangy end is considered a top candidate for All-Conference honors.

Pirates Windup Season Saturday

Three Pirate Fullbacks Placed On Injured List

The East Carolina College Pirates took the day off from football drills yesterday and counted the number of injured players which came out of their 19-19 tie with Stetson last Saturday.

The latest count by Pirate coaches puts four more men on the injured list. One of them, end J. D. Bradford, has a knee injury which will more than likely keep him out of action in the Pirates final game of the year, Saturday night against West Virginia Tech.

The injury to Cannady puts the Pirates dangerously low in the fullback department. The squad's two top fullbacks, Claude King and Bobby Strickland, were already injured before the Stetson game and saw only limited action.

Quarterback Dick Cherry was removed from the game with the Hatters because of a rib injury but he's expected to be able to go full-speed against Tech this weekend.

Defensive halfback Ted Barnes may miss action this week, too. He suffered a foot injury which college doctors have said could sideline him this week.

Yesterday, the Pirates limited their activity to limbering-up exercises which removed the kinks caused by an all-night train ride from DeLand Sunday.

The game is expected to attract a great deal of attention from fans in this area because of the significance it carries for both teams.

Texas, the Southwest Conference leader, was this week's newcomer among the top 10, replacing Kansas.

Wisconsin led the second 10 teams, followed by Mississippi, Alabama and Pittsburgh tied for 13th; Princeton, Duke, Kansas Villanova, and Illinois and Navy tied for 19th.

Duke Tumbles To 19th; Notre Dame Moves To Sixth

By NORMAN MILLER

United Press Sports Writer NEW YORK (UP)—Michigan State retained the No. 1 spot in the United Press college football ratings today for the eighth straight week, but four perfect-record powers were poised to take over the top ranking if the Spartans falter next Saturday.

Georgia Tech moved into second place, 42 points behind Michigan State. In this week's ratings, will Maryland and the two Pacific Coast Conference Giants, UCLA and Southern California, close behind. All five top-ranked teams are undefeated and untied.

Michigan State is expected to receive its stiffest test of the season next Saturday when it meets Notre Dame, which jumped two notches this week. If the Spartans get by this one, they're a good bet for a second straight perfect season and the mythical national championship. After the Irish Michigan State has only Marquette left on its schedule.

The nation's four other perfect record powers were involved in a dog-fight for second place. Georgia Tech was second with five first place votes and 263 points; Maryland, idle last weekend, dropped one place to third with five first place ballots and 258 points, leading UCLA by one point.

UCLA, which also dropped one notch to fourth place, had four first-place votes and 257 points while Southern California had two first-place ballots and 247 points moving up one place to fifth. Notre Dame, upset conqueror of Oklahoma, jumped two places to sixth with one first-place vote and 176 points.

Texas, the Southwest Conference leader, was this week's newcomer among the top 10, replacing Kansas.

Wisconsin led the second 10 teams, followed by Mississippi, Alabama and Pittsburgh tied for 13th; Princeton, Duke, Kansas Villanova, and Illinois and Navy tied for 19th.

Returning Veterans Expected To Pace Griffon Cage Squads

The Griffon High Bulldogs have four starters back from last year along with six lettermen reserves and figure to place high in Pitt County cage laurels during the 1952-53 season.

The returning starters are John R. Lewis, J. R. Hooten, Clyde Adams and Bernard McLawhorn. Reserves who saw a lot of action last year and figure to see a lot more this year are Mac Langston, Jessie Stancil, Bill Jackson, Worth Craft, Rufus Craft and Preston Miller.

Last by graduation were Rex Lewis and Bruce McLawhorn.

Newcomers to the squad are Fred Rhodes, Oswald Lewis, Bill Burroughs, Jack Starkey and Lonnie Jackson, all of whom are sophomores except Jackson who is a freshman.

Coach Adrain Brown said that the starting lineup will probably be Hooten and J. Lewis at forwards, W. Craft, center, with R. Craft and McLawhorn at guards.

Ready substitutions will be Lonnie and Bill Jackson, Burroughs, Rhodes and O. Lewis at forwards, Stancil, Miller, Starkey and Lancaster are guards and W. Craft is chief sub for Adams at center.

Last year the Bulldogs finished the season with a 12-8 won-lost record.

Griffon Girls Team The Griffon girls have eight lettermen back plus three of last year's starters.

Back from last year and figuring heavily in Coach Albert Tyson's plans are forwards Hilda Buck, Mildred Sellars, Phyllis Haddock, Colleen Braxton and Peggy Buck; guards, Gertrude Garris, Louise Corey and Carolyn Davis.

Buck Sellars and Braxton were starters last year.

A host of newcomers, all freshmen, have reported to the squad and they will be depended on heavily for substitution duty.

Freshman forwards are Dawn Smith, Pat Stokes, Violet Potter and Jean Carlyle. Guards are Joyce Koon, Nell McGlowhorn, Marlene Dudley, Bette McCotter, Geraldine Adams and Barbara Corey.

Smith and Stokes have shown up exceptionally well in practice and may win a starting role before the season is over.

Coach Tyson described his team as a rather short one in height but a fast breaking bunch that will score a lot of points.

City Blackout Is Sought By Fight Managers For TV

NEW YORK (UP)—Charley Johnston, president of the International Boxing Managers Guild, disclosed today that his group will campaign vigorously to have New York City blacked out for all television fights staged in the city.

"When another city like St. Louis, Cleveland or Philadelphia stages a TV fight, that city is blacked out so that the bout can draw some cash customers from the area," Johnston explained.

Johnston, manager of featherweight champion Sandy Saddler and light heavyweight challenger Archie Moore, said it was "downright silly" to play to sprinklings of 3,000 or 4,000 fans in Madison Square Garden and 1,500 in St. Nicholas Arena during good New York television bouts.

"I'm sure promoter Jim Norris would prefer the New York blackouts," he continued. "But the sponsors object to losing the millions of potential customers in the New York area. Well, the sponsors will have to be educated."

Football Player Flattens Heckler

IOWA CITY, Ia. (UP)—Illinois and Iowa football coaches asked fans to forget a disturbance at the end and immediately following the Illinois-Iowa game here Saturday which resulted in the hospitalization of an Iowa student.

Coaches Forest Evashevski of Iowa and Ray Elliot of Illinois Sunday called the incident regrettable in which Richard Wolfe, an Iowa sophomore from Davenport, Ia., was hit by an Illinois player. Doctors at University said Wolfe suffered multiple fractures of the jaw.

An eye-witness said the Illinois player was end Joy Ryan, but that Wolfe heckled the team as it trotted off the field.

Difficulties began near the end of the game when Iowa was penalized 15 yards for clipping. Iowa was then penalized again for illegal use of hands.

Evashevski, who thought an Illi-

Robot A-Bomb Is Being Produced By Australians

SYDNEY, Australia (UP)—Australia is building radar-controlled, pilotless jet aircraft said to be capable of delivering small atomic bombs on long-range targets.

The prototype of the aircraft has been flown successfully and more are being produced at the Australian government's aircraft factory in Melbourne.

The aircraft have been built to British ministry of supply specifications and it is expected that the first batch to be produced in quantity will be delivered to Britain.

The pilotless planes are reported far in advance of those being used in Korea from U. S. aircraft carriers. (Obsolete radar-controlled Grumman Helcats inaugurated "push button" warfare by their destruction of Communist targets in North Korea.)

Produced in Desert
For more than a year before the Helcat raids in Korea, the British government co-operated with the Australian government in the production and testing of guided missiles at the Woomeera rocket range in the stony heart of Australia.

Enveloped in secrecy, nothing of the work of the two governments at Woomeera was known until the release of modest details of the pilotless craft.

It can be used either as a target or bombing plane.

The aircraft is fitted with a powerful Adder turbo-jet engine specially designed and manufactured by the Armstrong-Siddeley Co. of Great Britain.

Although the engine is only 27 inches in diameter, it produces terrific thrust, giving the aircraft a fast rate of climb and high speed at great altitudes.

Only 22 Feet Long

The government aircraft factory and Australian radio manufacturers have developed special mobile launching gear, telemetering equipment for handling the plane.

The aircraft's fuselage is only 22 feet long and its wingspan is 20 feet. Its performance details have not been revealed but it can easily outrange the 150 miles flown by the robot Helcats.

The rapid development of a fleet of the pilotless jets is expected to result from the recent visit to Australia of Sir Harry Garner and Sir Alec Coryton, of the British ministry of supply and Dr. L. W. J. Newman, chief engineer of the Armstrong-Whitworth Aircraft Co. of England.

The designers of the Australian-made robot jet believe it is the forerunner of fleets of pilotless planes capable of wiping out enemy industrial complexes and invasion fleets. They also believe it could be used tactically.

Fustration Started GI On New Career

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—The Army has closed its books on "operation frustration."

It's the sad story about a sad sergeant. But there are hopes up and down rank that our man will come out all right.

Our hero is Sgt. Rosario S. Cici of Brooklyn, N.Y.

Cici served for some time as a mess sergeant with the first armored division at Fort Hood, Tex. In that capacity he found himself involved in a tangle of wits with the characters who came around at specified intervals and inspected his kitchen.

Cici was very proud of his kitchen. Never could anybody find a single cockroach. The mess hall was neat like a mess hall ought to be. The waiters were pretty in uniforms that had no buttons missing, but wore the kind of smiles the GIs like to see come-chow-time.

But Cici was unhappy. Time after time, his kitchen at Fort Hood came through with flying colors. But the sergeant found himself looking like the bridesmaid—never a bride was he (not that he wanted to be a bride).

Always it was so close. His grading ran a close race between 98 and 99 per cent of perfect. The boy from Brooklyn was beside himself.

"Why, oh why, can't I hit the charmed circle, the 100 spot?" he wondered.

It was like the elusive pot at the end of the proverbial rainbow. It always somehow escaped him. All of this went on for about a year and a half and the Brooklyn boy was getting nowhere fast, with those snoopy inspectors who managed to find a speck of dust or something to knock him off the perfect record.

While the U.N. waged a cold war over the issue, another U.N. mission came and departed. Finally the U.N. office here paid up in late September.

BLONDES PREFERRED
PHILADELPHIA (UP)—Blonde Swedish girls have been the biggest help to engineers at Minneapolis-Honeywell's industrial division here in their efforts to measure and control humidity in U. S. industry. A strand of blonde hair makes the best reacting element for humidity measuring devices. Brunettes and redheads rate low.

UN Hospitality Bill Is Settled
SRINAGAR, Kashmir (AP)—Premier Sheikh Abdullah's government and the United Nations have just settled their own little financial problem.

It all started two years ago when Australian jurist Sir Owen Dixon and a party of five, including military observer Gen. Courtney R. Hodges, visited Kashmir to help unscramble the Indo-Pakistan argument over Kashmir.

Surprised U.N. officials here got a bill later from the U.N. Guest House for the month-long "official hospitality" extended to the mission. The bill amounted to $1,097.

Sir Owen and four others had stayed 33 days during June and July, 1950. Gen. Hodges had spent only 12 days in Srinagar, touring the Indo-Pakistan ceasefire line the rest of the time.

While the U.N. waged a cold war over the issue, another U.N. mission came and departed. Finally the U.N. office here paid up in late September.

Library Sponsors Series Of Group Discussions Here

Sheppard Memorial Library will sponsor a discussion group on "Our American Heritage and its Contemporary Application," beginning November 24.

The project is being conducted throughout the country by the American Library Association with the assistance of a grant from the Fund for Adult Education, an independent organization set up by the Ford Foundation.

A spokesman for the library said the American Heritage Discussion Group will give the average citizen a chance to examine our heritage, to decide what it actually stands for, and, by discussion, show how our democratic principles are being applied in the greatly changed conditions of today.

"It provides an opportunity for men and women to meet together regularly to discuss the problems of today in the light of the basic ideas and experiences which constitute our American Heritage," said Mrs. Bessie Scott, head librarian.

People wishing to join the group in Greenville are invited to register in advance at the Sheppard Memorial Library. The first meeting will be held Monday, November 24, at 8 p.m. in the library. The group will use books, pamphlets, and films as background materials for discussions.

In North Carolina, groups will meet in Asheville, Asheville, Burlington, Charlotte, Columbia, Durham, Fayetteville, Greensboro, Greenville, Lexington, Manteo, Oxford, Raleigh, Salisbury, Wadesboro, Wayneville, Wilson, and Winston-Salem.

The above two tracts of land were conveyed to Sarah M. Braxton by Mary McLawhorn by deed recorded in book N-15 at p. 1-5.

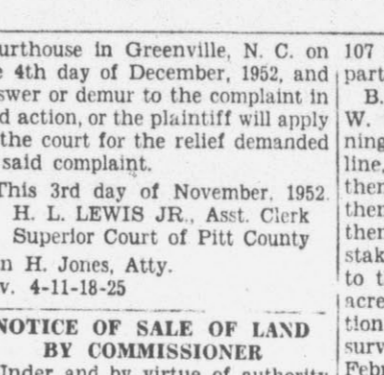

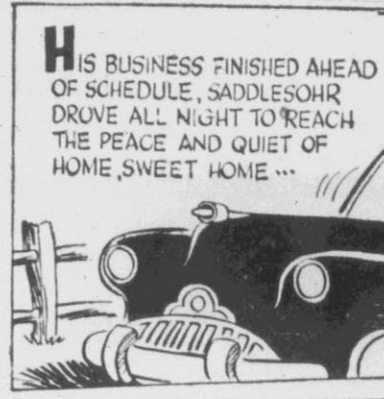

The foregoing three tracts of land comprise the home tract and has a tobacco acreage allotment based on 1952 allotment of 7.6 acres.

FOURTH (LOTS): These two certain lots in the Town of Ayden known as Lots Nos. 9 and 10 in the Barwick property according to deed recorded in book W-15 at p. 534.

This sale is being made for the purpose of partition between the parties. The purchaser will be required to deposit 10% of bid on day of sale pending confirmation. All three parcels will be sold separately, then the home farm and Smith Farm will be sold together, and all three farms will then be sold together.

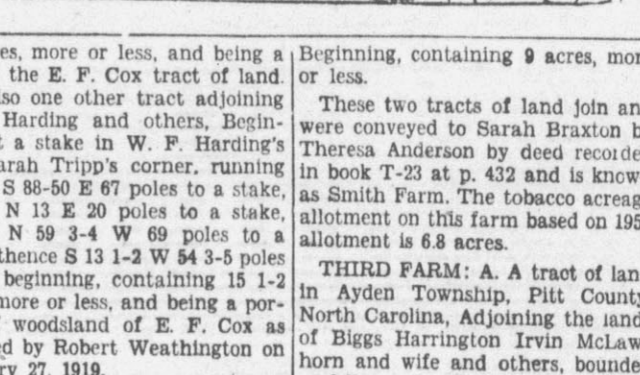

This the 25th day of October, 1952.

Put Yourself in a Nash Rambler

The New Kind of Car Specifically Designed for Today's Traffic

WHEN you put yourself behind the wheel of this compact custom car, you'll discover a whole new motor "feel."

It's a fact! In a smart Nash Rambler you'll feel equally at home in heavy city traffic or on the open highway.

You'll snake through traffic with feather-light handling ease... cruise effortlessly on the open road.

You'll slide into tight parking spots that other cars must pass up. And whether you're engaged in stop-and-go driving or long-distance cruising, the miles will slip by with scarcely a flicker of the gasoline gauge. For this is the all-time mileage record holder in the Mobilgas Economy Run—31.05 miles to the gallon with overdrive. Many owners report more!

You'll be amazed at the spaciousness that is yours to enjoy in this compact automobile. Plenty of room for your family to travel in comfort.

How safe to drive, too! For, like all Nash cars, the Rambler provides the extra strength, safety and rigidity of exclusive Airflyte Construction—the better way to build an automobile.

You get value plus in the beautiful Rambler—you enjoy a whole host of custom "extras" at no extra cost—even de luxe radio and Weather Eye Conditioned Air System.

Yes—put yourself in a Nash Rambler today. Learn why this popular new kind of car, specifically designed for today's driving and parking conditions, is the car for you. See your Nash dealer and make a "Traffic-Test" for yourself!

Chapter Four

Kentucky's injured leg was slow to mend, although Clay beheld it night and morning in a reeking liniment Dex had supplied. There was no more trouble with Buck's supporters and Dex observed with a wry humor. Some folks sure step light and speak soft right after there's been a fresh buryin' in th' neighborhood.

The time passed slowly, as time does in an obscure backwoods settlement, but it was not all wasted. Clay began to widen his knowledge of Texas and of Texas ways and Texas customs.

The old rules had been suspended and nobody had taken the time or trouble to set up new ones. It was a wonderful country for men who were vigorously and profanely determined to do exactly as they damn pleased.

Clay was sampling the locally produced bourbon in the pleasant cool dinginess of Wash Tobin's store on the morning he first saw Toni Venita O'Neill. She came riding sidesaddle down the dusty trail, the sleek blackness of her smooth hair like a dark crown above her olive skin and the smooth brow.

The little knot of loungers beside the store knew her; that was plain in the way the younger men pulled themselves self-consciously erect, resettling their wide hats upon their heads.

She stopped halfway up the steps that led into the store and flashed a sudden, half-contemptuous smile at the group of men before her.

"No knives? No battles? No bloodshed, amigos? Perhaps there is no stranger here today—or perhaps you have no taste for strangers who can defend themselves!"

She was still smiling, that same scornful, taunting smile, but her voice was an insouciant thread of ice and fire, as insulting in its open contempt as a whiplash across the face.

The little rat-mouthed man who had intervened in Clay's quarrel three days before shoved himself forward, his mouth twisted in anger and the small red eyes flaming with rage.

"We ain't got too much likin' for greasers here any time—an' we shure don't like half-breeds that start shootin' off their mouths once they got the wrinkles out of their belly. You come crawlin' in to this settlement with nothin'—"

The sharp crack of her hand on his stubbled face was like a pistol shot. It snapped the flow of abuse in midspate so that they stood facing each other in a sudden tense circle of silence. He drew back his hand in the beginning of a blow and in the same instant the slim gleam of naked steel glittered in her hand. Swiftly, effortlessly she moved forward, so suddenly that the sharp point of the blade was against his dirty shirt before he was poised to strike.

"Would you?" she said softly. "Would you dare to strike against the steel?"

Her lips had writhed back in a snarl of naked hate and her blue eyes challenged him like twin fires.

Slowly he looked down at the knife, and as he looked the strength seemed to drain out of him so that his shoulder drooped and his whole body seemed to shrink away from hers. He fell back a pace and the red eyes were haggard with fright.

"Don't cut me, Miss Toni! Please don't cut me!"

He turned suddenly and half stumbled, half fell down the steps behind him. There was a glimpse of his gray-stained face, turning for one quick look behind him, and then he was racing away beside the building.

There was no sound for an instant, and then Toni laughed.

"A man!" she said contemptuously. "Madre de Dios—they call that a man in this pigsty of fools and thieves!"

The knife had vanished as quickly and inexplicably as it had appeared, and suddenly she was again only a bizarre, exotically beautiful woman, entering a little back-country trading post under the fascinated stares of an awkward group of coarsely dressed louts.

Clay silently removed the round-corned hat that served as a cork in the clay whisky jug before him and meticulously refilled both Dex's waiting tin cup and his own. As he drank, his eyes probed Dex's face with an unspoken inquiry.

"Toni O'Neill," Dex explained, "Toni Venita O'Neill—and a right fine girl even if she has got a temper like a wounded wildcat. Seems like you an' Toni Venita ought to get together. You're shore as 'like as two peas when it comes to dealin' with th' 'welcomin' committees we're afflicted with around these parts."

"Why yes," he agreed. "I can't think of anything I'd rather do right now than get acquainted with Toni Venita. Wouldn't you like to take me over there and do the honors for us, Dex?"

Standing close beside her, he was aware of a warmth and fragrance that had been only suggested from a distance. The soft glow beneath her cheeks and the odor of strange flowers in her hair had suddenly transformed her into a woman, erasing the defiant spiffire he had seen only a few moments before. Her blue eyes, like bright flowers in the shadowed glow of her face, looked at him searchingly, unsmiling, intent with the realization that this was no chance meeting barren of meaning or significance.

"I have heard of you—and of your trouble here. I am in your debt, L. nor. Will you accept my thanks?"

He frowned a little, puzzled. "Your debt, senorita? There is not any debt that I know anything about."

She smiled at him then, her eyes shifting from him to Dex in a quick flicker of understanding.

"Dex has not told you, then. He will, when he is ready. Or, if you like, we can ride back up the valley together and I will tell you."

He nodded gravely. "I'd like to do that. I'll be ready to go whenever you're through here."

Suggest Adlai As Ambassador

LONDON (UP) — The Daily Mirror suggested today Dwight D. Eisenhower name Adlai E. Stevenson his ambassador to London.

"Britons have come to admire Stevenson just from reading about him," the Mirror said. "You might say he even speaks our language and shares our sense of humor."

District Meet Of ACE Slated Here Saturday

Members of the Association for Childhood Education in the northeastern section of the state will meet at East Carolina College Saturday, November 15, according to an announcement by Mrs. Myrtle Clark of Greenville, chairman of the organization in this district. Events of the day will include a program during the morning, a luncheon, and a tour of classrooms in the Training School on the college campus in the afternoon.

Supervisors and teachers in the northeastern counties are expected to attend. Those who are interested in the education of children in the public schools are invited to be present.

The opening session will begin at 10:30 Saturday morning in the College Theatre. The program, which is being planned under the direction of Mrs. Sue Rouse of Greenville, will be made up of demonstrations of teaching techniques useful in the classroom. Among these will be a demonstration of rhythms by a group of children led by Beatrice Chauncey of the East Carolina faculty.

Members of the Rocky Mount ACE Chapter will conduct the devotional. A discussion of plans for the spring bulletin of the association will be held. The East Carolina branch of the organization will be in charge of this issue of the ACE publication, which will be a special student edition.

A luncheon will be held in the cafeteria of the campus Training School. The afternoon program will include visits to classrooms in the Training School.

John Fristoe of Greenville, president of the campus branch of the ACE; Dr. Eva Williamson, faculty advisor; and student members of the college organization are assisting with local arrangements for the district meeting.

New Look For Deformed Noses

LOS ANGELES AP)—Veterans who have deformed noses due to wartime injuries can get a "new look" with the aid of tantalum mesh, a fine metallic screen, which can be implanted within the nose to take the place of macerated nasal bone, says a surgeon at the University of California school of medicine.

Dr. Joel Pressman also says that a small sheet of tantalum may be used rather than the mesh. The fibrous tissue tends to form a firm basis for the shape of the nose so that the metal sheet may later be removed.

The national anthem of the United Kingdom is "God Save the King" and sung to the same tune as "America," a patriotic song of the United States.

He Even Hates to Stop for Lunch!

Put a man behind the wheel of a Golden Anniversary Cadillac—point it to a destination some hundreds of miles away—and try to stop him!

And small wonder! In all the world, there is no finer relaxation for a work-weary man than a day's drive at the wheel of a Cadillac.

Try it sometime, and see for yourself. The moment you slip into the driver's seat, you'll sense that something extraordinary is about to happen to you.

The car has a "feel" to it—even when it isn't in motion. You sit right. The wheel falls naturally into your hands. You look out through the big curved windshield—over the beautiful hood and into the distance—and you know that "this is it!"

And then you turn the key and the great engine whispers into action—and the day's fun begins.

First, there's the silence—only the sound of the wind —and the occasional tick-tick of the electric clock.

And then there's the comfort—the easy, soft, steady ride over almost any type of road.

And next, the handling ease! The steering wheel moves with the weight of the hand. There is remarkable steadiness on straightaway and curves. And the brakes give added confidence each time you touch the pedal.

So the miles go by and the miles go by. Towns and villages appear and disappear.

"What's that? It's time for lunch?"

"Okay—but let's make it something quick and easy. We'll have a big dinner tonight."

Don't you think you'd like to own the car that can make a journey such a great delight?

If so—come in and see us—any time.

Weather Contributes To Highway Accidents

Guest Minister

Rainy weather and wet roads in Pitt County attributed greatly to the cause of traffic accidents yesterday and today, resulting in property damage but no injuries.

Willard Taylor, Jr., Negro, of Rocky Mount, driving a truck and trailer loaded with cement blocks crashed into a bread truck driven by Javin D. Leggett, 31, of Wilmamston at a stop light in Bethel this morning.

According to Highway Patrolman D. E. Perry, Taylor, traveling east on highway 64, was approaching the stop light and he applied breaks on the slick road but not soon enough, crashing into the bread truck driven by Leggett, who was headed south on N. C. 11.

Taylor was charged by Patrolman Perry with failure to stop at a stop light. Damage to both trucks was around $35.00 each.

Around three o'clock yesterday afternoon, a car driven by Mrs. Maude Barnhill Harris of Betigel and a truck loaded with peanuts driven by Bobby G. Roberson of Bethel collided at the intersection of N. C. 33 and N. C. 11.

Patrolman Perry said Mrs. Barnhill was driving her car out of 33 onto 11 when the truck was struck in the rear by the truck. The truck was not damaged but damage to the car was placed at $200. No charges were placed against either driver.

A tractor-trailer, driven by James Essie Slade, Negro, 25, of Swan Quarter, traveling east on highway 64, went out of control, jackknifed and crashed into a fence, traveling 50 more yards.

Patrolman Perry said the driver began skidding on the wet road as he attempted to round a curve at Hyman's Service Station. The truck skidded into a ditch and traveled 50 yards before it came to a stop, demolishing the vehicle and the fence belonging to Russell James.

No injuries resulted and no charges were placed against the driver.

A car driven by Leon W. Harrington of Ayden, 46, skidded on wet pavement last night around 9:30, five miles west of Greenville.

Investigating officer, Highway Patrolman Jim Davis said the car left the highway after it skidded and turned over then turned upright in a cotton patch. There were no injuries to the lone occupant but the car was damaged.

Rains over the state had quenched many woods fires that had been burning for more than a week.

Roman feasts of Pomona, goddess of harvest, are part of the tradition which has gone into the making of Halloween.

Organizations Sponsor Program

The American Legion and the North Carolina Education Association are jointly sponsoring American Education Week which is now being observed. Pitt County officials of the two organizations are: left to right, Conner Eagles, commander of the Pitt County American Legion Post 39; Louis Gaylord, Jr., adjutant of the county American Legion Post; and Mrs. R. L. Wolff, president of the Greenville Unit of the NCEA. (Reflector Photo)

Costly Collision In City Monday

Nearly $500 property damage resulted from a collision of two automobiles at Clark street and Dickinson avenue yesterday morning. The police report states that the car driven by Joseph E. Burroughs of Route 3, Greenville, and the car driven by William H. Foust 603 Pitt street, Greenville, were in collision when the Foust car pulled out from the curb. None of the occupants was injured. No arrest.

Police estimated damage to the Burroughs car at $300, the Foust car, $250.

Capitol Square

(Continued from page four) speculative is comment about retiring Governor Kerr Scott. One of the staunchest supporters of the Truman Fair Deal program in the South, and active in his opposition to Senator Smith in 1950 and Governor Umstead in 1952, Scott had been rated a sure bet for the Senate race next time or for a lucrative Federal appointment if the Democrats had won. There are perhaps more question marks about his probable future activity than about any other top level political figure in North Carolina.

FAR REACHING -- All of which means nothing much except that the results of Tuesday's election are more far-reaching than merely getting General Eisenhower for President. National and international situations are primarily affected, but State and local situations in North Carolina must be re-adjusted to meet the overall changes.

No 'Armistice Day' For Men On The Line

PORKCHOP HILL, Korea (UP)—The tired medic with the blood-stained hands was filling out an identification tag for a wounded survivor of the battle for Porkchop Hill.

Suddenly he looked up. "Is today the eleventh?" he asked.

Someone muttered yes. No one in the aid station had slept for 24 hours.

"Armistice Day!" said the medic with a wry grin. "That's funny, you know it?"

The irony of the medic, Sgt. Leo Audette, 21, of Essex Junction, Vt., was so obvious the other men didn't bother to answer him. They didn't care, either, that an armistice in another war was signed 34 years ago today.

Outside the aid station a wet pile of bloody clothing, bandages and boots lay in the mud where the wounded had been stripped quickly for treatment.

In a nearby tent, four infantrymen back from outposts smoked and talked. They had spent the first four hours of armistice day lying almost naked in a ditch while Chinese shells burst around them.

Sfc. Robert L. Moore, 24, of Albion, Ind., looked amazed when told what day it was. He started laughing.

"They must have had an armistice once for some reason or other," he said. "It should happen to us, yet."

"All I want to do on armistice day is to dig a big, deep hole and lie in it all by myself. We were stacked three deep in that ditch last night."

The enemy shells had caught the men unaware because they had been pulled back from outposts on Old Baldy and T-Bone hills for a rest.

"What can you say over here about Armistice Day?" One soldier muttered dreamily, lying near the stove. "To me, it's lost its meaning."

"Over here," said Pvt. Raymond J. Bianchini, 21, of Brooklyn, N. Y., "you don't even know when its Sunday. Its just another day."

Only one of the soldiers had a father in the First World War. He was Pvt. Francis Marks, 19, of Schenectady, N. Y.

"The old man wouldn't talk much about it," Marks said. "But I think he was in the infantry."

"Probably quartermaster," someone told him. But Marks ignored it.

"They say this war is a lot like the First World War," Marks said. "Yes," the same man said. "All we need is the poison gas. Somebody should tell Joe Chink its Armistice Day. He's throwing rounds in like any other day."

"Maybe Joe would bow his head for a minute of silence."

County's Record . . .
