Lie Talks With Eden Before Resignation

U. N. Secretary-General Trygve Lie (right) talks with British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden in New York before submitting his resignation at a meeting in plenary session of the General Assembly.

Rep. Bonner Calls For Full Support Of New President

Voices Own Willingness To Back Up Eisenhower; Praises President-Elect In Talk Before Local Legionnaires

By JESS POINDEXTER, Reflector City Editor. Rep. Herbert C. Bonner yesterday called for the people's active support of the Republican administration and the programs it institutes during the next four years.

Speaking before members of the local American Legion post at a special Armistice Day dinner in Greenville, the Washington congressman charged veterans not to expect more in the future than has been done for them in the past.

"This is a serious time in the history of American government," the first district representative stated, "and if we are to go forward we must not throw stumbling blocks in the path of the administration; we must support its programs and try to make the next four years successful ones for the nation."

"I am willing — both as a veteran and a citizen — to throw my support to Eisenhower, the man who heads the next administration," Bonner asserted. "I want to direct my loyal efforts to the betterment of my country and the people in it."

Lie Disappointed By UN Members

Says Resignation Is Largely Due To Relations With Russia

NEW YORK, (UP)—Trygve Lie said the main reason for his resignation as United Nations secretary-general was his relations with the Soviet Union but he also was disappointed over other U.N. member countries.

"I have often had an evil feeling; seen that a possibility to solve a conflict somewhere in the world had been spoiled because one of the member nations did not accept me as secretary-general," Lie said in an exclusive interview. He said this feeling had been a heavy burden on his shoulders the last few years.

"But there are also several other reasons. Things had accumulated. I do not blame the member states but they have done nothing to protect the post as secretary-general after the Soviet Union began her boycott of me. But nevertheless I am convinced that I have been able to keep the prestige which with full right is connected with this important position," Lie said.

He said he resigned with the conviction that he has done his job as well as it could be done but "things had accumulated" to make him decide to quit.

The Norwegian diplomat denied that attacks against him and the U.N. in the American Press had influenced his decision.

"The first three years those scribbles irritated me considerably, but now I don't care a bit about them any longer," he said. Lie said "the mania for economizing" also had been a constant source of irritation with permanent difficulties to get budgets approved and carried through.

Lie stressed strongly that he had given a categorical "no" to all U.N. delegates who had called upon him to reconsider his statement of resignation Monday.

ROKs Regain 3 Heights In Long, Heavy Fighting

Take All The Ground They Lost To Red Assaults On Tuesday Night

SEOUL, Korea (UP)—Hard-fighting South Korean infantrymen recaptured Pinpoint Hill on Sniper Ridge today, winning back more territory on the vital central front height than they lost during the night to 1,500 screaming Chinese.

Counter-attacking at mid-day through a deadly screen of Communist hand grenades, mortar fire and artillery shells, the ROKs swept over Pinpoint and then thrust on to occupy some of position Yoke on the far northwest end of the ridge.

At dusk tonight, another part of the ROK force was mopping up Chinese survivors driven out onto a small finger of land to the east.

But Yoke was still largely in Red hands. Some of the gopher-like network of caves and tunnels on that rocky knob fell to the ROKs, but the Reds held most of them, keeping control of that tip of the ridge.

It was because of the caves and tunnels that the Reds were able to hold Yoke during most of the 30-day Kumbwa Ridge campaign.

The South Koreans found 30,000 Communist grenades in one captured cave. Another cave was big enough to hold 160 men.

Heavy clouds and rain hindered 5th Air Force fighter-bombers today. Many target areas were weathered in.

South Korean tanks north of Kumbwa killed an estimated 30 to 40 Chinese who showed themselves on Triangle Hill, a mile west of Sniper Ridge.

While the battle raged, artillery from both sides threw in tremendous barrages. At one point in the Allied counter-attack, 25,000 rounds of Allied artillery shells shook and scarred two battalions of Reds clinging tenaciously to the crest of Pinpoint peak.

Lighter fights were reported on either flank of Sniper Ridge. The Reds tossed back Allied troops making an infiltration threat at Jane Russell Hill.

Allied B-29 superfortresses flew within 30 miles of the Yalu River Manchurian border Tuesday night to drop 100 tons of bombs on nearly 1,000 repair and supply structures at the important rail and road center of Charyongwan on the west coast.

Inquest Set For Fatal Shooting

An inquest in the fatal week-end shooting of Aaron Credel will be held in Pitt County Courthouse tomorrow night at 7:30. Coroner Griffin H. Rouse announced today.

The 42-year-old Negro died at Pitt Memorial Hospital last night after having been mortally wounded by a shotgun blast through the stomach last Sunday afternoon.

Officers are holding without privilege of bond Credel's common-law wife, Louise, who allegedly shot Credel following an argument at the "couple's" home near Ayden.

After the shooting Louise was arrested and Credel rushed to Pitt Memorial Hospital, where he remained in critical condition until his death just before 12 o'clock last night.

Tank Shipment Reaches Berlin

BERLIN (UP)—Eight new American M-47 tanks finally arrived in Berlin by freight train today after having been refused passage by Soviet border guards for a week.

The tanks originally had been scheduled for shipment from West Germany across the Soviet zone to Berlin Oct. 30. However, Soviet border guards refused to let them pass because of "technical difficulties" on the railway.

Hobby Turned Him To Robbery

CHICAGO (UP)—Terry Netzkv, 18, told police he got so good at his hobby it turned him into a robber.

Netzkv said he spent most of his spare time whittling. A Luger which he carved looked so real he used it in several food shop holdups.

Everyday Problems Solved With Want-Ad

Miss Mary King of Greenville needed an apartment within walking distance of the business section. She decided that the best way to solve her problem would be to run an ad in The Daily Reflector.

'Eyewitness' Testimony Of H-Bomb Blast Is Piling Up

WASHINGTON (UP)—'Eyewitness' testimony was piling up today that the United States has exploded the world's first hydrogen bomb at Eniwetok.

It may have exploded more than one; the testimony on that point was not clear.

But whatever has been going on at the Pacific atoll proving ground it's still going on and the Atomic Energy Commission won't say anything until it's over.

Evidence that the H-bomb finally has joined the A-bomb in America's atomic arsenal is mostly in the form of eyewitness letters from members of the big task force conducting the Eniwetok test operations.

This evidence appears to be supported by cryptic remarks of Congressional and other atomic experts.

If it is true, and no one has tried to refute it, the most terrible weapon ever imagined is now a reality.

There is no way of telling now whether the first test H-bomb with its A-bomb "trigger" was two, five, 10 or 100 times as powerful as the atomic weapons which devastated Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

Put the figure at 50, just as a guess. Such an H-bomb could knock out a city of 120 square miles. The wartime A-bomb's limit of destruction was about seven square miles.

In four eyewitness letters now at hand there are discrepancies both of time and place. But they are the sort of discrepancies that could be attributed to confusion on the part of the writers—bedazzled as they must have been after seeing what was touted as the most destructive man-made explosion in the history of the world. Conceivably the authors were writing about more than one hydrogen explosion.

The first letter was published Saturday by the Los Angeles Examiner, which did not identify the author. It said the awesome blast buried "countless tons" of matter skyward. Despite the great distance, the H-bomb cloud seemed to tower directly over the ship.

Another eyewitness account, by another unidentified author, was published Monday in the Lima (O.) News. It was even more graphic. It also reported "thousands of tons" of debris spouting to the skies, and spoke of a flame two miles wide and five miles high. The writer said his "captain told us that it (the bomb cloud) went at least 15 miles straight up."

No conventional A-bomb cloud, informed sources here believe, would ever get that high before breaking up and dispersing.

The Lima news writer, like the one quoted by the Examiner and a third whose letter was published Tuesday by the Michigan City (Ind.) News-Dispatch, reported a sudden blast of intense heat accompanying the initial flash. The Michigan City story said it was "like someone putting a hot iron on your back for a split second."

The fourth letter, carried by the Salt Lake City Desert News and Telegram, talked of the "unbelievable" beauty of the explosion—an impression that gave way in the reader's mind, as he thought of the bomb's evil power, to a conviction that "it's ugly."

Terrorists Win; Newsman Going

Young 'Yankee' Has Had Enough; Bows To Gang Ultimatum

TUPELO, Miss. (UP)—A youthful newspaperman prepared for a secret flight today with his pregnant wife in compliance with an ultimatum issued by masked "Yankee" haters who slashed his face and warned him to get out of town by nightfall.

Perplexed authorities promised all-out protection but Newell Anderson, 27, city circulation manager of the Tupelo Daily Journal, said he had had enough of threats and violence.

Anderson, who arrived with his wife a month ago, said he would leave secretly for his home in Fargo, N. D., today before the 6 p.m. c.s.t. deadline given him in repeated warnings by the mysterious terrorists.

Anderson told police that 10 days of threats and vandalism was climaxed Monday night when two masked men took him for a ride, slashed him with a razor and warned him, "We don't want Yankees in Mississippi."

Police placed a 24-hour guard around Anderson's home and offered him round-the-clock protection for 30 days, but Anderson said he preferred flight to risking further violence.

Anderson returned a pistol which police had given him, saying, "I couldn't shoot anyone, anyway," and prepared to leave for Fargo "as soon as possible."

He resigned his job Tuesday night. "We got to thinking about what would happen after those 30 days and decided to leave," Anderson told Police Chief D. B. Crockett. He said he feared further incidents might have a bad effect on his wife.

Both police and acquaintances were as mystified as the Andersons by the incidents. No one knew of anything Anderson could have done to arouse animosity.

Hiss Awaits His Turn To Plead For A Parole

LEWISBURG, Pa. (UP)—Alger Hiss today waited his turn among scores of federal prisoners to tell the chairman of the U. S. P. a. o. Board why he should be set free after serving 20 months of a five year perjury term for denying he had engaged in espionage for the Communists.

Dr. G. J. C. Killinger arrived at the Northeastern Federal Penitentiary Tuesday night to hear the applications of about 130 prisoners for parole, among them Hiss, the former State Department official who accompanied the late President Roosevelt to Yalta and helped establish the United Nations.

Killinger planned to begin the hearings with those serving sentences of one year and one day. He said Hiss' turn to make his personal bid for freedom would come Thursday or Friday.

Hiss, who was 48 years old Tuesday, will be eligible for parole Nov. 21—the one-third mark of his two concurrent five-year sentences for swearing falsely before a federal grand jury.

Missions Burned By Arsonists

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—Arsonists burned down the Anglican Mission in East London last night in the wake of fires on two previous nights which razed two Catholic churches. Damage from the fires was placed at $150,000.

Public meetings have been banned in East London and five other South African cities as a result of the racial rebellion against Prime Minister Daniel Malan's white supremacy policies. Violence in the past three weeks has caused at least 45 deaths.

ARMISTICE DAY PARADE Exactly 34 years ago yesterday the booming of cannon was stilled and the war to end all wars, World War I, came to an end. Although the significance of Armistice Day has been greatly minimized by more recent conflicts, students at East Carolina College struck a nostalgic note yesterday afternoon as units of the Air Force ROTC swung down Evans Street in Greenville. Heavy Demo Vote Also To Give Pitt A Louder Voice

Representation At State Demo Convention Raised To Record 82 Delegates By Virtue Of Heavy Party Support

And yet another local record has been set as the result of balloting in last week's general elections!

With Pitt voters having cast the largest number of ballots in history of a gubernatorial candidate, they will have a loud voice in the Democratic Party for the next four years.

At any rate, when the Pitt County delegation goes to Raleigh for the State Democratic Convention in 1954, it will carry with it a "big stick" for an Eastern county—82 votes from the convention floor.

Based On Vote Representation at the convention is based on the total number of ballots cast for the Democratic nominee for governor in the preceding general election. Pitt cast 12,254 votes for Umstead in last week's balloting.

Based on one delegate for each 150 votes cast, and one for any fractional part over 75, Pitt will go into the convention with a total of 82 delegates—the highest number in history.

The previous high representation at the convention for Pitt was 64 delegates in 1944, based on the 9,938 votes cast for J. Melville Broughton for governor in 1940. That was for the 1942 and 1944 state conventions.

In 1950 and this year, Pitt sent 60 delegates to Raleigh. That number was based on the 8,967 votes cast for W. Kerr Scott in 1948. In 1946 and 1948, the county had only 55 delegates to the state convention, based on the 7,891 votes for R. Gregg Cherry in 1944.

State Highest Gilbert Peale of Greenville, vice-chairman and treasurer of the county Democratic executive committee declared today Pitt County lacked only a few hundred votes this year of casting as many ballots as were voted in the entire First District in 1950.

As has been true in the past, Pitt again this year cast more ballots than any one of the 13 other counties in the district.

And this year North Carolina, of which Pitt County is an integral part, firmly entrenched itself in the ranks of the Democratic Party. The state gave the Stevenson-Sparkman ticket a heavier total vote, a bigger numerical majority and a larger number of electoral votes than any other state in the nation.

Suspended Road Term For 'Leer'

Defense Attorneys Preparing Appeal

YANCEYVILLE, N. C. (UP)—Negro tenant farmer Mack Ingram was given a six-month suspended road sentence and placed on five years good behavior probation today for assault by "leering" and walking after a pretty white girl although he did not come closer to her than 60 feet.

In the first of Ingram's three trials on the charge, he was given the maximum two-year jail sentence.

Defense attorneys planned an immediate appeal to the State Supreme Court. Appeal papers were being drawn and a $200 appeal bond was posted in addition to a $2,000 appearance bond as a condition of the suspended sentence.

An all-white, all-male jury took only 58 minutes yesterday to convict Ingram, 45, father of nine children, of simple assault under a law which provides that actual physical contact has no bearing on assault.

Judge Frank M. Armstrong, who passed sentence this morning, had charged the jury that "if by threats and a display of force, one causes another to apprehend danger . . . to abandon his course or to do other than he would have done, that constitutes assault."

"Assault does not have to be a case of physical contact . . . If by other means, such as looking at a person in a leering manner, or watching and then following, one causes another to become frightened and run, then he is guilty of assault."

Wiley, Wisconsin Republican who is serving as a U.N. delegate, predicted the new administration will continue to oppose forcible repatriation. But he said Eisenhower had to speak up quickly to prevent the U.N. from lapsing into a "coma."

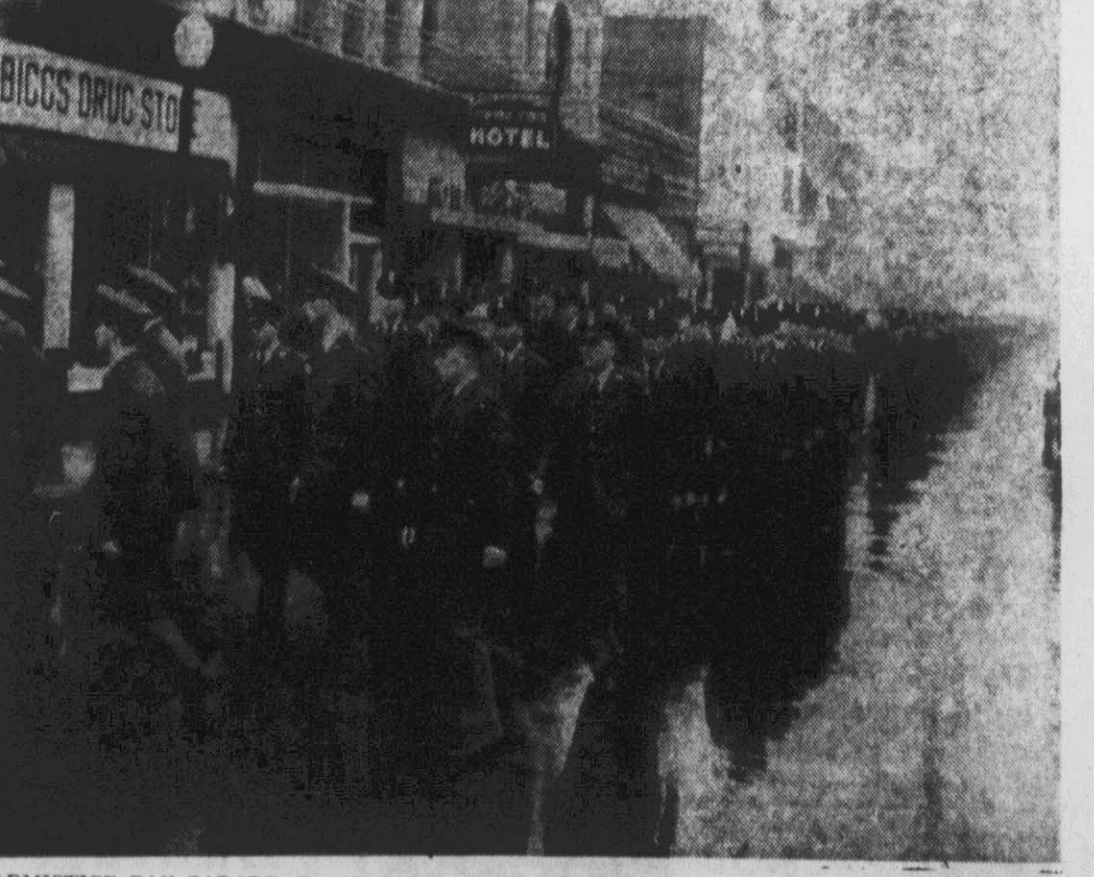

The United States is trying to pilot a resolution through the U.N. General Assembly calling for endorsement of the Allied stand in Korea and demanding that the Reds accept the U.N. truce offer.

Rita's Dancing Broke Machines

SOMEWHERE IN KOREA (UP)—Rita Hayworth's dances in her latest movie were too terrific for projection machines in Korea.

During one showing at a 23rd Regiment unit recently, a projection lamp blew out. The next night, at another battalion, a tube went out during the same dance sequence.

Bradley Says U. S. Has Nothing To Fear From Military Leaders

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gen. Omar Bradley said today "we have nothing to fear from military men" dominating the government.

The chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff who serves with Dwight D. Eisenhower when the President-elect also was a five-star general made no reference to the latter's election last week.

Indeed, in an address prepared for delivery to the Association of Land Grant Colleges Bradley made a point of disassociating his comment from the issue of the recent campaign. He prefaced it by saying he was glad the election was over

"because any remarks made by an active-duty soldier during a political campaign might be misconstrued," Bradley said that.

"When the people of this nation elect their president and the members of their Congress, they are in a sense entrusting to them the power which could spill peace or war, freedom or tyranny, democracy or dictatorship—for the combined authority of the President and the Congress is almost supreme. With that authority goes the complete responsibility for the future.

"That is why I believe that the military in our government must always keep a subordinate role to the civilian authority, and must influence that civilian authority only as helpful advisors.

"But I can say from personal knowledge, and 40 years of experience, that we have nothing to fear from military men themselves. Their role in our national life, even in times of war and international stress, is far from dominant.

"In our armed forces, the democratic principle is stronger than in any other country. There are in military circles."

One of the most relentless and persistent battles in life is fought against weeds.

To the farmer who labors over his field crops, it is a never-ending struggle from the time the fields are prepared until the crop is finally harvested. Diseases which affect the plants may be treated in various ways, but the most successful way to get rid of the unwanted growth is by personal application of the hoe, plow or some other implement which is designed to uproot the obnoxious plants which choke and drain the cultivated crop.

The home gardener who struggles to make a bower of green loveliness around his castle finds that weeds sprout and mar the beauty of the cultivated grass and flowers, no matter how carefully laid out, unless they are regularly and habitually rooted out and killed. It would be almost a pleasure to mow nothing but grass—those tender, slender green shoots which come up so slowly and seem so spotty on the lawn. But when one's yard is overwhelmed by the tough, rough, ankle high unwanted plants that apparently sprout up overnight and grow almost an inch a day in height, it is nothing short of frustrating to watch a lawn mower, over the top, the provoking things just bend and nod in compliance with the blades, and after one has run over them, they just jump back up and wave with glee.

The grass seems to be rooted in shallow sand which allows it to wash away or be ground to nothing by the imprint of a heel; the weeds have roots that extend not only many feet into the ground in depth but also cover such a wide area over the top that when one finally succeeds in pulling them up, an ugly blot of disarranged soil is exposed to the eye.

In the same way lives are a combination of weeds and flowers. We spend our time cultivating either the one or the other, and green grass, but too often the results of our labors—or rather lack of labors—are choking weeds which prevent the loveliness from showing.

What are some of the things that represent in our lives the chickweed, the plantain, the tangle of undesirable vines and stubborn grasses which smother otherwise healthy plant growth?

Life Of John Eagan Traced At Women Of Church Meet

Seventeen members were present at the general meeting of the Women of the First Presbyterian Church when it met at the church on Monday night.

Mrs. I. B. Koonce, president, presided and the meeting was opened with the singing of "Rescue Me from Perishing." Mrs. Charles Horne led the group in prayer, following which reports were read from the chairmen of each circle.

After a short business session Mrs. E. W. Harvey gave a program on John J. Eagan, a noted southern industrialist, whose father died shortly after he was born.

John and his mother, she stated, lived in Atlanta, Ga. with her brother, where he grew up in the Presbyterian church there, receiving in his youth religious training which molded his life. As a young boy making his public profession of faith in Christ he made a strange covenant with the Lord, said Mrs. Harvey. He prayed, "Father, enable me to become a rich man, make a million dollars by the time I am 30 years old, and I promise You that I will give you one tenth of all I make."

"This prayer," stated Mrs. Harvey, "though riddled with self-seeking, has been a lesson for us all in the answer to his prayer, for the material riches which followed were like cords binding this life ever closer to that of the Master. The man who had promised to give a tenth humbly gave himself and his possessions."

The speaker traced his rise to a position of eminence in the business world, telling how he was afflicted with his uncle in the tobacco business, which business he inherited at

Roman Sea Wall Believed Found

RAVENNA, Italy (AP)—Fishermen dragging nets along the Adriatic coast north of here found what is believed to be the now-submerged sea wall which sheltered ancient Rome's Adriatic fleet.

The fishermen said they could see almost 100 feet of the huge stone wall jutting up through the sandy bottom a mile and a half offshore in 25 feet of water.

The location is just south of the shifting mouths of the Po River, where Imperial Rome's fleet guarding the upper Adriatic is believed to have been based in the time of Caesar Augustus.

Trygve Lie May Have Brought A New Crisis Resignation of Trygve Lie as secretary-general of the United Nations precipitated a crisis within that organization that exceeds actual or imagined frictions he considered his position engendered.

Business Today By ELMER ROESSNER The phone on the businessman's desk rang. "This is the credit bureau," said the caller. "There is some information we need for our files."

Strength for the Day AN IMPORTANT FACTOR Some years ago an organization came into being for the express purpose of checking up on industrial management.

Under the circumstances, perhaps the "peace" would be better served if Trygve Lie should reconsider his proffered resignation and retain his job of trying to insure the United Nations' running on an even keel.

Somebody Told Me

By J. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR. 1. Location of the college near their homes. 2. The excellent teacher training program offered by the college.

Hal Boyle's Column

By HAL BOYLE LISBON, Portugal (AP)—The trouble with foreign travel is that just as you begin to learn something about it you have to start home.

National Whirligig WASHINGTON — President-elect Eisenhower's great and acknowledged debt to Republican and Democratic Governors for his nomination and election promises a friendlier and more cooperative relationship between Washington and the states than has existed during the 20 years of Roosevelt-Truman rule.

Now, the name of the college newspaper has been changed from Teo Echo to East Carolinian and the annual from Teocan to Bucconer. In the first issue of the paper that bears the new name, there is an interesting article based on a survey of freshmen to answer the question, "Why did you come to East Carolina College?"

Around Capitol Square

By LYNN NISBET GRATIFIED — City and town officials attending the meeting of the N.C. League of Municipalities have been almost unanimous in expressing gratification at the way the Powell bill funds have been handled to aid in street construction and maintenance.

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS WASHINGTON—Lt. Col. Ines Haynes, chief of the Army Nurse Corps (ANC) personnel section in the Office of the Surgeon General, has just returned from visiting practically every Army hospital and dispensary in Korea, Japan, Okinawa, Guam and Hawaii where Army nurses are stationed.

Spreading The Doctrine Of Self-Reliance

More and more one hears talk of revived self-reliance, among individuals, towns, cities, counties and states. There was some such urgings prior to the recent political campaign; and both presidential candidates spurred it on with repeated urgings of more local government with less reliance on Washington.

Among his southern supporters were Governors Byrnes of South Carolina, Kennon of Louisiana and Shivers of Texas. Several others were sympathetic, even though they did not bolt their party.

It's a healthy indication, this re-stressing of individual worth and the really vital role of local governments. We think Americans are going to hear much more of this in the months and years ahead.

Despite the Roosevelt-Truman belief in an all-powerful, centralized authority at Washington, an underlying factor abetting them was the states' abdication of their responsibilities in almost every field.

The capabilities of the individual make up the strength and capabilities of local government. In turn, the self-reliance and inner strength of local governments make up the strength and quality of state governments; just as the true governing spirit at the national level rests on individually healthy state governments.

REGIONAL PROBLEMS—The incoming President has declared his belief in the strengthening of the states' authority and jurisdiction. On such questions as Civil Rights, oil tidelands, power development and the handling of funds for health, housing and education, he has insisted that these are local and regional rather than Federal problems.

Both Adlai Stevenson and Dwight Eisenhower lamented the increasing dependence states were placing on Washington to solve their own problems for them. Such an attitude and resultant practices burden the federal government with chores that distract and detract from the over-all task of guiding a nation.

On the other hand, the states must raise the standards of their own legislative bodies—a long needed reform. Many legislatures sit only every two years, and then only for a few months.

State governments too were created to govern, not to provide a "crying bench" for smaller governing units. Luther Hodges, who addressed the League of Municipalities, called on Tar Heel municipal leaders to solve their problems at the local level instead of looking to Raleigh or Washington.

LABOR LEADERS HIT—Fairly final returns indicate that the nation's labor leaders suffered their most disastrous drubbing since F.D.R. and Harry S. Truman tried to transform the "big three" unions into auxiliaries of the Democratic National Committee.

Hodges also warned that federal assistance to state and local units may be reduced, and advised drawing more diversified industries that will use North Carolina's natural resources to fill such a gap. It sounded like good advice.

KEYSTONE VOTE—Democratic leaders figured that the Keystone state would be safe, if they carried Philadelphia by 100,000. When they rolled up the unprecedented majority of 160,000, they phoned Democratic National Chairman Mitchell that "it was in the bag." This was one reason he cherished hope until the last hour.

All of it boils down to confidence and competence among individual citizens and at all levels of government. And the reaffirming of this doctrine is like a cool, fresh breeze blowing away the fog of false philosophies.

And the unions' political bill is estimated at $10,000,000, which the members will pay in extra assessments and the consumers in higher prices.

Dr. Paul Jones Outlines Reason For Scholarships

Dr. Paul Jones of Farmville cited the educational needs of worthy, talented students who are unable to attend college without financial assistance as an explanation of why public-spirited citizens of this county are now raising $100,000 to provide scholarships at East Carolina College.

Senator Jones, second speaker in a series of radio discussions of the Pitt County Scholarship Foundation, talked Tuesday on the history of the college "during the forty-five years since it was established by the North Carolina General Assembly, and forty-three years since it first opened its doors to receive students." Step by step, he traced the remarkable progress of East Carolina, both in its physical plant and its academic offerings.

"It is a matter of considerable personal pride," he said, "that I was a page in the Senate at the time the bill establishing the college was presented, and it was my pleasure to carry the bill forward and present it to the Reading Clerk of the session. Thus I had a small share in the establishment of what has grown into a great college in the coastal plains of our state."

East Carolina, he stated, "was then, and it is now, your college and mine as citizens of North Carolina, and more especially, as citizens of the Coastal Plain where the college was fortunately located by the educational leaders of that day."

Dr. Jones then presented many facts and figures to give evidence of how East Carolina has grown in academic standing and in service to the people of Eastern North Carolina, and of how its facilities have been expanded. He emphasized the fact that, even with more than twenty buildings, the college at present needs new dormitories to house its students and to carry on its academic program effectively.

Dr. Jones then explained "provisions that have been made, in a small way, for the assistance of talented, needy students," at the college, mentioning especially loan funds.

"But in many instances," he declared, "as philanthropic individuals have seen time and again, a gift without strings—a scholarship, has been the means of lifting many capable young men and women from the prospect of ignorance and mentalty to a life of intelligent, useful service." For many years, he stated, the only scholarship available at the college was the A.B. Andrews scholarship of $100 annually.

"The people of Pitt County have every reason to be proud of the college that is at their very door; many of us have felt its influence very directly in one way or another; and I can hardly believe there is anyone in the county that has not felt its influence, at least indirectly," said Dr. Jones.

East Carolina College, he concluded, "must have our wholehearted support in all its work."

Farmville Jaycees To Hold Speech Contest In School

Farmville—The Farmville Junior Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring an essay contest through its committee on the Voice of Democracy.

The contest will be carried on in the three upper grades of the Farmville High School, with the cooperation and help of the principal, Sam Bundy and two English teachers, Mrs. J. B. Joyner and Miss Mildred Maddox.

The talks which will be judged in the contest will be submitted for judging during the week of November 17, and participants will be eliminated until only three from each grade are selected.

The finals of the local contest will be held at the school on Monday night, November 24, at 8:00 p. m.

The public is invited to attend and hear these five-minute talks. A panel of judges to be announced later will select the winners.

A cash prize of $50 will be given to the first place winner. Second prize will be $25. The first and second place winners in each grade will receive $15 and $10 respectively.

A transcription will be made of the Farmville first place winner and will be entered in the state contest. Winners of the state contest will compete for the four national prizes, which are $500 scholarships, a week's paid trip to Washington D. C. and Williamsburg Virginia and either a radio or television combination set.

The talks should be suitable for radio broadcasts and will be judged on the basis of originality, content and delivery.

Miss Lelia Higgs Reads Paper On India At Club

The Round Table Book Club met with Mrs. C. E. Oakley at her home on E. 5th Street, November 4.

Following a brief business session, the program chairman presented the speaker, Miss Lelia Higgs, who read an informative and interesting paper on "Social Rights in India."

In her introductory remarks she told of some recent social changes in India, brought about through the conflict of a modern government endeavoring to bring about a social and economic change for the better, and of those who desired to adhere to religious traditions.

She told how, having achieved their independence in 1947, the people were looking for a democratic rule, which has not been achieved because of the many problems the new republic had to face, the problems being the chief concern of the two great leaders, Nehru and Patel.

India has been recognized as one of the largest, richest and most densely populated areas in the world, she said. Because of the landlord system they work under, they are being robbed of all except the bare necessities; and some, in bad years, are starving, she explained in connection with the economic life of the masses.

Living conditions are horrible because the money lenders, landlords and princes still have power over millions. The government is working very slowly on social reforms, she emphasized.

Through the years the maneuvering of the government to consolidate states, the seizure of land by peasants, uprisings, etc., can be traced. All this shows the extreme importance of land reforms. Toward the last of this struggle, two nations were born. Because of the number of Hindus fearing to stay in Pakistan, the refugees fleeing to India, the refugees caused a very serious economic and social problem. However, social workers, headed by Mrs. Nehru, Mrs. Hanna Sen and others, set up homes and rehabilitation centers for instruction and training so that the people could become self-supporting, Miss Higgs declared.

Now, in New India, one can find private schools for girls, crusades against child marriages and new laws concerning the marriageable age for girls, laws concerning grounds for divorce, changes concerning women's property rights, new and better laws relative to working conditions for women in industry, a law making primary education compulsory up to age 14, and other changes; but still there are any number of difficult problems to be coped with.

In closing, Miss Higgs read an article from "Times," entitled "Unswept Streets," which reviewed the feeling toward India now.

Mrs. D. S. Spain Jr. reviewed a very timely magazine article from "The Atlantic" on "Our Inexhaustible Resources"; and Mrs. Milton White brought a new word to attention, and presented the spice for the afternoon.

During the social hour, the hostess served very delicious and tempting refreshments.

College Choir Officers Chosen

The Wesley Choir, an organization made up of college students and sponsored by the Wesley Foundation, Methodist Student group on the campus of East Carolina College, recently elected officers at the regular weekly meeting.

The Choir is directed by Don Roebuck of Stokes, a senior in the Department of Music at East Carolina, who has been an active member of the Wesley Foundation during his college career. Don is chairman of the Commission on Music in the Wesley Foundation and vice-president of the organization, which includes more than 600 Methodist students in East Carolina College.

Officers of the Wesley Choir are vice-president, Victor Van Hook of Nashville; secretary-treasurer, Sue Daniels of Jacksonville; business manager, Hugh Spencer of England.

The Wesley Choir is open to all students interested in church music. Regular meetings are held on Monday evenings at 6:30, in the Wright Building on the campus, at which time rehearsals are conducted by Don Roebuck, director. The Wesley Choir sings every Sunday evening at Evening Worship in Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church, and recently participated in a special service led by Dr. Kenneth Cuthbert, head of the Music Department at East Carolina College.

The Choir has begun rehearsals of Christmas music and is making plans for participation in the special Advent Service which is presented annually in Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church.

Betterment Society Meets In Vanceboro

Vanceboro—The Woman's Betterment Association held its November meeting on Monday night at the home of Mrs. G. D. McLawhorn, with Mrs. H. B. Williams, Mrs. S. L. Gaskins and Mrs. J. F. Williams as joint hostesses.

Chrysanthemums attractively arranged were used in the living and dining rooms.

In the absence of the president, Mrs. L. P. Taylor presided with routine business transacted. Mrs. H. E. Barrow reported that a good number of members had paid their donation to supplement the treasury funds and urged others to do so soon.

Plans for the Christmas party were discussed with the hostesses to announce the place and date later. The association voted also to continue the practice of sending cheer baskets at Christmas to the needy and shut ins.

Following the benediction a social period was enjoyed with bingo played and refreshments of fudge cake, salted nuts and coffee served by the hostesses.

Mrs. Clyde Gaskins was welcomed as a new member.

Lions Hear Impression On What Next 4 Years Hold

Dr. A. D. Frank, head of the Social Studies Department of East Carolina College, spoke to the Lions at their regular meeting this week giving his impressions as to what can be expected in the Eisenhower administration.

L. Cochran, Leighton Cochran and Fruit Comer of Robersonville; two sisters, Mrs. L. A. Taylor of Washington, N.C. and Mrs. Emma Powell of Robersonville; two brothers, J. Albert White and James E. White of Williamston.

Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the First Baptist Church, with Rev. Ralph Ferguson, pastor of this church, and Rev. Crain of Cary officiating. The body was taken to the church an hour before the service. Burial was in the local cemetery.

"Six hundred of the top brass will go," said Dr. Frank, "and will be replaced with much younger men than are now running the government. The liberal wing of the Republican party will be in the dominant position."

Frank stated that the most important part of government today dealt with foreign relations. In matters of foreign affairs the speaker offered the opinion that Ike will continue full co-operation with the Atlantic Pact nations with a continuation of the basic policies of the bi-partisan foreign policy. In Korea, Dr. Frank thought some changes in the offing. He thought that the Eisenhower visit would be of some significance in determining policy. The speaker thought that we could expect the ROK to play a bigger roll in the actual fighting. It was further expressed as an opinion that the U. S. might expect a blockade of the China coast.

In turning to domestic issues the speaker expected no change in the farm program with parity to continue at 90 percent, although Eisenhower had stated that he would like to see it increased to 100 percent. The biggest change in domestic policy was predicted to be a lessening of regulations in business. Price controls will likely be "dumped." There will be a considerable change in the position of labor. Labor leaders will not be on the inside.

Dr. Frank expressed the thought that the South can expect and will receive more consideration within the ranks of the Democratic party in future conventions and elections. "The South is in a much better position in the Democratic party," said Frank.

Belvoir Has Small Returning Squads

By HERMAN HICKMAN
Reflector Sports Editor

BELVOIR — The Belvoir Eagles go into the 1952-53 basketball season with rebuilding the central theme. Comprising the Eagles squad this year are two returning regulars, three reserves and seven freshmen.

Regulars Billy Ross and Howard Bullock, seniors, and reserves Seber Cobb, Willis Peaden, and Max Dupree, juniors, are the nucleus around which Coach Ed Warren will build this year's team.

Seven freshmen, Harvey Strickland, Douglas Parker, Gene Harris, Bobby Bullock, Bobby Pollard, Gene Bell, and Glenn Ross round out the rest of Belvoir's 12 man squad.

Strickland, Parker and Harris have looked very good in early workouts and may be starters before the season is over.

Gone from last year's squad are first stringers Franklin Garris, Ralph Tyson, Robert Bright, and Billy Stokes.

Coach Warren, who last year guided the Belvoir girls to a 20-4 season record and a tie for first place in Pitt County Conference, said that lack of experience would retard the team this year but a fine team is in the making.

Probable starters are, Dupree and Strickland, forwards; Billy Ross, center; Howard Bullock and Gene Harris, guards. Parker and Ross are top subs at forwards. Willis Peaden and Bobby Pollard line up behind Ross at center, and Gene Bell, Bobby Bullock and Seber Cobb are guards.

Belvoir Girls Team
"We lost our playing team from last year," said Coach O. H. Forest, continuing, "so we will start all over again and try to build another squad just as good."

Back from last year's squad to assume leading roles this year are forwards Nell Dupree, Joyce Mayo, Edna Randolph, and guard Joyce Harris.

With the exception of Viola Brown, the rest of the squad, Betty Lou Parker, Vera Windham, Florence Harrell, Virginia Harrell, Marlene Clark, and Maxine Horton are all freshmen and first year players.

Missing from last year's team are Nadine Morris, Jean Jones, Margie Pollard, Jean Tyson, Shelby Waters, Peggy Garris, Rose Tyson, Jeanette Boyd, and Claudia Pollard, All-County forward.

Coach Forest is depending heavily on top forwards Randolph, Mayo, Dupree, and Clark. He has high praise for Clark who he described as a real go-getter that likes to break for the basket and shoot.

Brown is a top substitute for a forward position.

Harris, Horton, F. Harrell, V. Harrell, Parker, and Windham round out the squad of 11 who will defend the Pitt County Conference title.

The Belvoir girls had a record of 20 wins against four losses last year.

Injured Bucs Take Time For Nursing

Rain chased the East Carolina College Pirates indoors yesterday but the Bucs took advantage of the situation to look at some game movies and give treatment to their injured. Their only activity yesterday was a short dummy scrimmage inside the gymnasium.

The treatment of the injured was perhaps the most important phase of yesterday's work. "Three fullbacks, an end, and a quarterback continued on an inactive status but they're all expected to be able to see at least limited action Saturday night."

The fullbacks, Claude King, Bob Strickland, and Buddy Cannady, have all registered some improvement although Cannady is perhaps the most serious condition of them all. He reinjured his hip last Saturday in the Buc's 19-19 tie with Stetson and has been hobbling since then.

King's injured knee seems to be steadily improving and he might be able to resume at least a fair share of his work in Saturday's game with West Virginia Tech. Strickland, with an injury similar to Cannady's, is still bothered somewhat but he's expected to be able to play in the Buc's last game of the season.

End J. D. Bradford is a good bet to miss all the action in the contest with the Golden Bears. He had his knee banged up in the Stetson game and it hasn't been recovering as rapidly as East Carolina coaches would like for it to recover.

Quarterback Diak Cherry will probably be able to see considerable action Saturday despite a painful rib injury which put him out of the Stetson contest. Cherry was much improved yesterday and will be able to take his regular place provided there isn't a relapse.

The squad has been told by Coach Jack Boone that they can expect to have their hands full Saturday night when West Virginia Tech comes to town. Tech has won six games of an eight game schedule thus far with their latest victory coming last week at the expense of Davis-Elkins.

Jockey May Set New Race Record

LINCOLN, R. I. (UP)—Tony Desprito needs 48 winners in the remaining 43 racing days this year to set a new national riding record.

The Lawrence, Mass., apprentice jockey moved closer to his objective Tuesday at Lincoln Downs when he rode five of the first six winners to increase his total for the year to 341.

Desprito accepted nine mounts on the 10-race holiday program and finished out of the money only once. He also had two thirds and one second.

On today's program, Desprito was scheduled to ride in six of the nine races.

Walcott Accuses Marciano Tactics

NEW YORK (UP)—Serenity and harmony (oh yeah) pervaded negotiations today among the gentle souls who are trying to arrange a return title fight between champion Rocky Marciano and ex-champ Jersey Joe Walcott.

For example, Walcott declared "If that head-butter, Marciano starts rough stuff with me next time, I'll really give him the works—head, elbows, laces, knees and even a few below the belt. I'm still be champion if he didn't butt me in the left eye in the sixth round."

Promoter Jim Norris, center of the negotiations, spent two long hours trying to convince Al Weill—Rocky's manager—that the bout should be held at Chicago Stadium, March 18. Norris figured the indoor Chicago fight would draw a gate of $650,000 and the TV sponsor would contribute about $150,000.

Bobby Shantz Is Ready To Pitch

PHILADELPHIA (UP)—Bobby Shantz, the tiny left-hander who led the American League in victories, said today that his broken pitching arm has healed so well "I can throw right now."

The 140-pound hurler suffered a fracture of the ulna bone above his left wrist seven weeks ago when he was hit by a pitched ball thrown by Walt Masterson of the Washington Senators. Shantz said in a visit to the Philadelphia Athletic office that casts placed on the arm have made it "as good as new."

Shantz, who won 24 games last season, denied reports he couldn't straighten the arm.

"When I was at home in Lincoln (Neb.)," Shantz said, "they put the second cast on and then look it off after five days. When they removed it, I was as good as new. I believe I can throw right now."

Conference Meet

Coastal Conference coaches and officials will hold a dinner meeting at Respass-James restaurant in Greenville tonight at 7:30.

Charles E. Spencer, chairman of the State Advisory Committee on Athletics, will be present to interpret the State Athletic Code, one part of the current athletic rules that are not sufficiently concise.

Phants Workout In School Gym

The Greenville Phantoms were chased inside by rain again yesterday as they continued preparation for their final game of the season Friday night against Roanoke Rapids.

The Phantoms worked out inside the high school gymnasium yesterday with wind sprints being the main feature of the drill.

Even if they're able to move outside today for their workouts, the Phantoms are expected to continue their non-contact work because of Coach Bill Kittrell's "no rough stuff" order of Monday.

The squad continued to be in good physical shape with only reserve tackle Larry Powell bothered by an injury. Powell has been slowed by a bad knee but he's expected to be able to see considerable action against the Yellow Jackets.

Wade Denies SIC Bowl Bid Rumors

DURHAM (UP)—Rumors of a move to allow Southern Conference football teams to accept post-season bowl bids were denied today by Conference Commissioner Wallace Wade.

"If there is any such move underway, I know nothing at all about it," Wade said.

Under present conference rules, no team may accept a bowl bid without getting permission from other conference members. However, it had been rumored that the conference was polling its members to decide whether the rule should be relaxed.

Wade told the United Press that the rumors were "groundless."

Democrats Must Turn Now To Digging Out From The Landslide

By ARTHUR EDSON
WASHINGTON, AP) — The Democrats now must begin the tremendous job of digging out from a landslide that turned into an avalanche.
Not since 1928, when Herbert Hoover licked Al Smith, has their political picture looked so bleak. Every way they turn they face the election results piled up by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.
Big holes in the onetime Solid South from the Northeast through the Midwest and Southeast and on to the Coast, solid Republican only seven Southern states, and the border states of Kentucky and West Virginia, still Democratic. What happens now?
That's the question Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson and National Democratic Chairman Stephen A. Mitchell discussed in a week-end meeting in Springfield, Ill.

The answers—if, indeed, they had any answers—were not made public.
But it's obvious that with Franklin D. Roosevelt dead and Harry S. Truman retiring, the party needs a leader.
It showed up especially during the national convention in Chicago. Not that the party lacked from men who wanted to be leaders. You couldn't turn around without bumping into someone who wanted to be the presidential candidate: Averell Harriman, Sen. Richard B. Russell, Sen. Estes Kefauver, Sen. Robert S. Kerr, vice-president Alben Barkley.
More than a dozen candidates got votes on the first ballot. Finally, the nod went to the one reluctant Democrat, Stevenson, as the man who probably had the best chance to unite all factions. Stevenson stays on as head of the party, with the tough job of trying to keep everyone pulling together.
It won't be easy. For one thing, he has been beaten, always a cardinal sin in politics. For another, he soon steps back into private life and will have no official post to help keep him and his party in the spotlight.

By contrast, the Republican picture is rosy. In addition to the presidency, the GOP will control the Senate, the House and have 30 of the 48 governors.
Yet it takes no particularly acute observer to spot some thorns among the roses. Many of those who voted for Eisenhower undoubtedly will expect him to perform miracles.
If they should become soon disenchanted, it could lead to a Democratic House in the 1954 off-year election.
Even though the Democrats face a gigantic overhaul job, the Republicans can't afford to be complacent.

Toy Hobby Now Is His Business

NORTH THETFORD, Vt. (AP) — A heart attack two years ago put Frank M. Tilton into the big-time toy business. While ill, he began making old-fashioned wooden toys for his grandchildren who visited him.

They and their friends liked them so well that he soon found himself designing them for mass production. Now he has recovered his health and established a "Granddad's Toy Shop" across the road from his home, but he doesn't make many toys himself. Instead his projects keep a couple of wood-working mills making and assembling parts. Tilton paints them.

Foreigners View Exhibit In Venice

VENICE AP) — More than 30,000 Americans, 12,000 British, and 30,000 French visited the Biennial Art Exhibition here between June and October.
The exhibition, which closed in October, was seen by over 200,000 people. About half were foreigners, officials said. The largest art exhibition in Europe, it displayed 2,439 art works. Some 250 art works were sold during the exhibition for a total of almost $100,000.

GOP Leaders Caution Against Quick Miracles

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH
AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — President-elect Dwight D. Eisenhower and his fiscal advisers are taking a cautious approach to the problem of reducing federal spending and the companion goal of cutting taxes as soon as possible.

A week after Eisenhower's election, the signs are there will be little or no bullish talk about quick achievement of either goal by the Republican administration taking over in January.
Evidence of that came after the week-end conferences the general held at his vacation retreat here with GOP leaders.

Sen. Eugene D. Millikin of Colorado, who will be chairman of the tax writing Senate Finance Committee, said he would like nothing better than to see taxes reduced. But he added it would be foolhardy to do more than hope until Congress sees the budget President Truman will submit in January, before Eisenhower's inauguration.
The spending program, said Millikin, will be the key to the whole thing.

And while he noted that Eisenhower, once in office, will be free to recommend a reduced program, the senator didn't appear optimistic about the possibility of big-scale cuts that would open the way for tax reductions.

A similar note of caution was sounded by Joseph M. Dodge, Detroit banker who drew the assignment at the Eisenhower conference of representing the President-elect in the Budget Bureau until inauguration day. After that, Dodge may head the bureau.
He refused to speculate on what the new administration may be able to do regarding taxes and spending. To do so, he said, would be a dangerous thing.

Eisenhower himself pledged during the campaign to cut both spending and taxes—but he didn't say it could be done quickly. He set a goal of a $6-billion-dollar budget by the fiscal year starting July 1, 1954, a reduction of more than 20 billion from the current level.
Eisenhower plans to end his vacation at the Augusta National Golf Club Sunday or Monday. He is scheduled to meet at the White House early next week with President Truman for a discussion of international and domestic problems.

The Pitt FCX, managed by N. L. Stott, employs seven persons and serves approximately 4,000 patrons in the county. A hammermill and mixer has been installed to accommodate farmers who want to have farm-grown grain mixed and ground for feed.

In the case of Dorothy L. Jackson, charged with careless and reckless driving, the court not pressed the action. The court also not pressed the case against Jerry K. Worsley, on the same charge. The two defendants were involved in an automobile collision at Pitt and Fifth streets about 10 days ago. In the case of James R. Peaden, charged with driving a motor vehicle after his driver's license was revoked, the court found him not guilty. Also Peaden was found not guilty of driving without a driver's license. Henry H. Freed War Prisoners Add To Turmoil Abroad

By PHIL NEWSOM
United Press Foreign News Editor

New, raucous voices are being added to Europe's Tower of Babel. They are those of the released war criminals, now issuing from Allied jails in a steady stream. Some of them are blatantly unreconstructed Nazis and Fascists. Some, while denying the teachings of Hitler and Mussolini, nonetheless worship unreservedly at the shrine of German and Italian nationalism.

Together, they represent still another threat to a unified, peaceful Europe. Their effect already is being felt in Germany.

For President-elect Dwight D. Eisenhower they also represent an ironic twist of destiny. Through two phases of his life they plagued him, first on the battlefield and then as war criminals whose fate must be decided.

Now they rise to plague him a third time—in the field of world diplomacy and politics.

Mostly they are the second rater—men who escaped the death by hanging that overtook former Nazi Foreign Minister von Ribbentrop or the way out by poison chosen by the fat Hermann Goering.

Their theme either is outright rejection of any pact with the West or with a price tag attached. They demand that there be no German rearming until all war criminals are released.

Former Paratroop Gen. Hermann Bernard Ramcke, released last year from a French prison, told a meeting of 5,000 cheering former S.S. men two weeks ago that the real war criminals were the Western Allies.

Others recently released were former Field Marshal Albert Kesselring and former Gen. Alexander von Falkenhausen. Former Field Marshal Fritz Erich von Mannstein is out on medical parole and probably won't go back to jail.

They have not yet openly entered German politics, but both Falkenhausen and Ramcke have publicly belittled the French army and the European defense community.

Openly in politics have been rabble-rousing former Maj. Gen. Otto Ernst Remer, whose neo-Nazi party recently was outlawed, and Wilhelm Scheppmann, former chief of staff of Hitler's Storm Troopers.

Their effect on mass German opinion has been deep.

Returning war criminals have been welcomed home by cheering crowds and brass bands, regardless of the atrocities for which they were convicted. German police and courts have deliberately let war criminals escape.

The theme is being heard increasingly that war criminals only were soldiers who followed orders.

In Italy, Germany's one-time Axis partner, the feeling is not yet so militant. But its neo-Fascist party recently received a strong boost from a report that former Marshal Rodolfo Graziani, who remained faithful to Benito Mussolini until the final debacle of Fascism, had applied for membership.

Building Peace and Friendship

In a war-racked, undernourished and embittered world, no finer expression of Christian compassion and voluntary statesmanship can be found than that exemplified by the Christian Rural Overseas Program.

Through CROP, America's farm families have shared the abundance of their harvest for four successive years. The impressive total of foodstuffs which was collected for destitute despairing people the world round in this manner of Christian sharing has exceeded $15 million.

This year, while Americans tend their peaceful pursuits in their own country, while harvests of record proportions are anticipated, there are people elsewhere on this globe who despair and starve because their earth cannot yield the wherewithal for survival; who flee the scourge of warfare which destroys their crops. They are the refugees of Western Europe and the Near East, the peasants in Yugoslavia and India, and the millions who have had to forsake homes and livelihood because of warfare in Korea.

To share with these people is a basic Christian duty. In the light of world events, this sharing assumes an even deeper meaning; for it means "Building Peace and Friendship."

Pitt County's part in CROP, Christian Rural Overseas Program, will be to send one carload of corn overseas through donations from each township in the county.

The program is one of the Central Department of Church World Service of the National Council of the Churches of Christ in America and therefore the relief arm of 29 christian denominations.

CROP is not a government agency but is approved by the State Department to operate as a volunteer relief agency and is endorsed by the United States Department of Agriculture.

To enable Pitt County to send one carload of corn overseas, the Pitt unit of CROP is asking that each township in the county donate 75 bushels of corn or its equivalent.

The drive in the county for the donations will be conducted the week of November 16 through 21, with the corn being shipped November 21.

Officers of the program in Pitt are: Rev. E.G. Cole, chairman; George D. Cox, co-chairman; Rev. H.G. Haney, secretary and trea-

Chapter 5
 "You are new in Texas—verdad, amigo?"
 "So new that I've still got Red River mud sticking to my boots. As a matter of fact, I'm so new in San Marcos that I don't have any idea what that trouble back at the store was all about."
 "That? It was nothing. Nothing but a chance to show a few of these goats how much I hate them. Someday I will kill some of them. I think just as you killed the fat-faced Buck for me three days ago."
 His head jerked up in sudden comprehension.
 "So that's it. They gave you the same treatment they gave Dex."
 "In a way. They took my father's plantation on Matagorda Bay just as they took Dex's station on Cypress Bayou. But in some things it was not quite the same."
 Almost against his will he heard himself saying, "Would you like to tell me about it?"
 "Why not, señor? Everyone knows—and, besides, I owe you that for removing the gross Buck for me."
 He nodded. "Tell me," he said quietly.

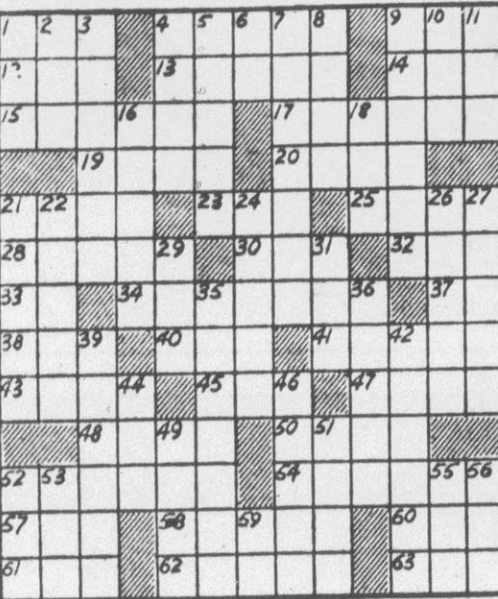

"When I was born we had a great house there on the coast and many slaves. As I grew older there were more and more. Always my father had the gift of great riches. It was like that—until the man Morgan grew hungry for our land. I was sixteen then and knew little about these things, but I knew there was great trouble. Then, just at sundown one night, Morgan and his men stormed the house."
 "Stormed it!"
 "Si, señor. Like a horde of Indians. Riding in at top speed and firing as they came. My father leaped up from the table and ran toward the door. They killed him there—in his own doorway. My mother ran to him and two of them beat her with the butts of their guns so that she fell down with blood running from her mouth."
 "Great God! And what about you?"
 She laughed. "I did not run fast enough, señor. They caught me and dragged me back into the house."
 As she told the story Clay had felt as if every word were a blow, blow that built a rising tide of black, maniac fury. Now, when she paused, he had an almost overwhelming desire to release his rage in a blazing tirade of anger. The words trembled upon his lips and he could feel his fists clenched so tightly that even his forearms were as rigid as steel bars. And then, from some still sane corner at the back of his mind, came the warning: "It's none of your affair! Stay out of it. It's none of your affair!"

 He held himself in check, consciously pushing the red tide of anger and indignation away from him. When he spoke again his voice was level, carefully untouched by emotion.
 "And now—you are here."
 The girl nodded wearily. "I am here," she repeated bitterly. "I have been here for six years, living in a two-room log cabin with a worthless uncle and even more worthless cousins. I will probably die here, crooked and bent and worn out and ugly, like all the other women who rot their lives away in San Marcos."
 "It's not that bad."
 He tried to give his words the ring of confidence and assurance knowing even as he spoke that she would not believe him because she could not.
 "You'll get your plantation back, and then you'll be all right again."
 He turned to look at her as he spoke and saw that she was smiling a little smiling as a woman might smile at some little boy who is posturing bravely and pretending to be a man.
 "You are kind, señor, but it is a kindness only of the words, not of the heart. You know, as I know, that the only way I will ever have my land again will be to take it by force from those who stole it. I cannot do it alone. No single man can do it alone. There are others who would help, for they have lost their land, too, and in helping me they would take the first step toward helping themselves. But there is no one to lead them."
 Suddenly her eyes challenged him as if she were taking the measure of his manhood.
 "You could lead them, señor."
 The image of the words hung between them, vibrant and alive, demanding an answer, demanding that he declare himself either friend or foe.
 He stared at her, seeing suddenly a vision of himself at the head of a host of men, their faces drawn with hard riding, the long blades in their hands red with blood, a scourge and a flame sweeping out the filth of black corruption.
 And then his mind cleared and he took a deep breath to help pull himself together. He was no knight-errant, rescuing lost princesses, he was no Galahad riding down the highways of the earth to protect the weak and defend the helpless.
 It was none of his affair!
 He smiled and shook his head. "I've never led any men, Toni. I'd just take them all out and get them killed—even supposing that they'd be fools enough to let me lead them. You'll have to find a better man than I am for a job like that."
 The momentary eagerness that had possessed her died out of her face, so that it seemed strangely empty and forlorn. But in a moment the sorrow was gone and she was smiling mockingly at him—almost, he thought with sudden resentment, the way she had smiled at the loungers in front of Tobin's store.
 "Of course, señor. I was only joking. There is no reason you should fight for us. This is all something that happened long ago and many miles away."
 They were almost squarely in front of Dex's cabin and she pulled her horse to a stop so that he was forced to stop beside her. She held out her hand, the half-mocking smile still lingering at the corners of her lips.
 "You are home, señor," she said lightly. "I will not trouble you to ride farther with me."
 She lifted her hand in a light

Forger Says His Memory 'Poor'

GREAT FALLS, Mont. (AP)—A man who said he didn't remember forging checks decided to place his confidence in the accuracy of law enforcement officials here and pleaded guilty to the offense.
 The 31-year-old man when arraigned on a charge of issuing a bad check told the judge, "To tell you the truth, your honor, I didn't know I wrote them."
 The judge apparently thought otherwise. He gave the man five years.

Honor Inventor Of Cotton Picker

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (U.P.)—John Rust, who got so fed up with cotton picking as a boy that he later helped invent a mechanical cotton picker, has been honored here with the unveiling of a bust of himself.
 Rust and his younger brother Mack worked eight years in a factory converted from a garage to perfect their machine and then decided they didn't want to get rich from the mechanical marvel.
 Just after their machine got its first extensive tests in the Mississippi delta 16 years ago, the Rust brothers said they hoped it would be "a blessing and not a curse" to the south. They said they intended it not for a money making matter but "to better the conditions of southern workers."
 With the profits of the machine they set up a non-profit educational foundation, the Rust foundation. Rust established a $25,000 scholarship fund at the University of Arkansas, to be used mainly to help students in agriculture.
 It was that tedious job of picking cotton with hands that led the brothers to work on an easier way to do it.
 They ran into a lot of opposition from farm groups which thought the machine would throw thousands out of work, but it proved its worth. Some cotton growing sections weren't adapted to machine-picking, others were, so hand-picking has continued down through the years.
 Rust told of the origin and development of the cotton picker at a meeting of the West Tennessee Historical Society, which sponsored the unveiling of the bronze bust at Brooks Memorial Art Gallery here.
 The bust was done by Pietro Lazzari of Washington and Rome.

GUEST OF HONOR

Turkey Reports Wheat Surplus

ISTANBUL (AP)—Turkey has a record wheat crop this year — thanks in part to U.S. assistance — but may have trouble selling the surplus abroad.
 There are two reasons: Other wheat-growing countries also had good crops, and are competing in the world market. Turkey's asking price is higher than the going rate, because the Turkish government paid the farmer a high price for his wheat.
 The government's "Office of Soils Products" buys directly from the Turkish farmer a good share of the wheat raised here. The independent newspaper Hürriyet said the crop of six million tons should leave an exportable surplus of 1,500,000 tons.

Sidewalk Music Requires Permit

MANILA (AP)—Music is being toned down in Quezon City, a Manila suburb. Sidewalk musicians are subject to a $25 fine if they serenade without a permit.
 Citizens complained the roving minstrels would stay out in front and play and play, refusing to move on unless they were paid.

Original Play By Student Staged

Given as an Armistice Day production, an original play by Ralph Rives of Enfield, graduate student at East Carolina College, was presented Tuesday night in the Austin auditorium by the Teachers Playhouse, college dramatic club. Rives' "Always Goodbye" is a one-act drama with a setting in Belgium in November, 1918. The play, according to program notes, "a study of five people, each different and yet alike, and of their varied reactions" at the close of World War I.
Roles in the drama were presented Tuesday by student members of the Teachers Playhouse. June Haddock of Winterville played a Red Cross nurse; Jacqueline Phalempin of Arras, France, a Belgian nun; William Taylor of Robersonville and David Whitener of Portsmouth, Va., American army officers; and Ruth Lassiter of Four Oaks, the widow of an American consul.
Popular tunes of 1918 were presented as a musical background for the play by Barbara Poole of Raleigh, vocalist, and Myrtle Manning of Robersonville, organist. Rives directed the play.

All They Took Was A Tank Of Holiday Gasoline

AYDEN—Evidently thieves didn't need anything except a little holiday gasoline.

Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson reported this morning that Monday night unidentified thieves broke into a service station just south of Ayden and stole a tank of gasoline.

The station is operated by Johnny Case, who told officers nothing was missing from the store except some gasoline. The robbery occurred on highway 11 south of Ayden.

"The thieves broke out a door glass, turned on the switch controlling the electric gasoline pump and just filled up," the sheriff stated. "Evidently they did not enter the place at all."

The break-in was investigated by deputies Lloyd Manning and "Duke" Andrews.

Capitol Square

(Continued from page four) fired, and that instead of emphasizing division they have served to bring about closer cooperation. That result is due primarily to two factors: The innate sense of fairness among North Carolinians; and the transition from farm to industrial, rather than rural and urban segments in the population. Admittedly economic and social changes have come much faster than changes in governmental concepts. That fact makes some problems acute now, but there is rather general feeling among the town and city officials making up the League of Municipalities that relatively few of these problems are really serious and none of them cannot be solved by common sense and appeal to the inherent spirit of justice and fair play which has characterized North Carolinians in the past.

Oil Distributors' Group Is Praised

The Greenville Oil Distributors Association Inc. was praised as a model group in the state by Julian Ross, of the Pure Oil Company of Elizabeth City.

Ross was one of the four oil distributors and jobbers from Elizabeth City who attended a meeting of the Greenville Distributors Association held in the city Tuesday. Ross said that Greenville's and Goldsboro's Oil Distributors Association was looked to with pride and considered model groups in the state.

In addition to Ross, others appearing as guests from Elizabeth City were Henry Lowry, Texaco Company; C. B. Barkley, Standard Oil Company; and Paul Gregory, Shell Oil Company. The guests attended the meeting to obtain ideas as to how an association can be set up in Elizabeth City.

At the meeting Chairman W. L. Allen stated that the purpose of the Greenville Association was "to effect a closer union of the oil dealers and jobbers and to cooperate in all matters pertaining to the advancement of their business." In addition, he reviewed the activities and accomplishments since the organization came into being April 28, 1951.

At the request of the Merchants Association, it was voted to enter a float in the annual Santa Claus parade which will be held in the city December 6, provided arrangements could be made to have a float built.

Former Teacher And Missionary To China Speaks

Venetia Cox of Greenville, for 33 years a teacher in China as a missionary of the Protestant Episcopal Church, discussed "Education in China" before a class in History of the Far East at East Carolina College Monday. She was introduced by Dr. L. F. Brewster of the social studies department, teacher of the class.

Development of education in China under the Imperial, Nationalist, Japanese, and Communist regimes was the theme of Miss Cox's remarks. She emphasized the keen intelligence of the Chinese people and their traditional respect for learning and for the teacher.

Missionaries, Miss Cox stated, placed an increasing reliance on Chinese Christian teachers and clergy, whom she described as "the hope of the future" and the chief victims of Communist attacks. She gave a vivid word picture of the hardships endured by the Chinese people and their missionary friends.
