

Predict Congress Will Back Plans

Three GOP Senators Regard Defense And Foreign Aid Programs As Certain To Have Support, But Agree Lawmakers Will Take 'Hard Look' At Costs

WASHINGTON (UP)—Three Republican senators predicted today the 83rd Congress will support present U. S. defense and foreign aid programs.

But they agreed, in separate interviews, that the GOP-controlled House and Senate will take a "hard look" at the cost of these programs, and try to effect economies.

Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper (R-Ia.), a ranking member of the Foreign Relations and Atomic Energy Committees, put it this way:

"The two major problems which the new Republican majority in Congress will face are those of the military budget and foreign aid. I doubt that there will be much questioning on such basic issues as building up American military strength, participation in the North Atlantic pact, or military aid for allies abroad.

"But there will be plenty of questions as to whether we are getting our moneys worth in our own rearmament and our efforts to aid others. The extent to which our allies are producing, the extent of their cooperation and determination will be important. Likewise, possible savings in our own military program will be uppermost in our minds."

President Truman's fiscal 1954 budget, due to reach Capitol Hill only a few days before President-elect Dwight D. Eisenhower takes over, is expected to carry more than $55,000,000,000 for military spending and around $7,500,000,000 in foreign aid requests.

These will be "asking figures" only and because they are by far the biggest items in the budget, they are the ones on which Republicans will have to concentrate in fulfilling their pledges to cut government spending.

Sen. John Sherman Cooper (R-Ky.), beginning a second term in the Senate, admitted that there "probably" will be a good many differences among Republicans on the "degree" of foreign aid spending. But, like Hickenlooper, he predicted Republican unity in support of "basic programs."

Cooper emphasized that one new factor will tend to hold Republicans together on foreign policy matters—the presence of a Republican president in the White House.

"The president wields an influence for unity which just isn't felt by a political party when it is in a minority," he said.

The same theme appeared in an interview with Sen. James H. Duff (R-Pa.).

He also expressed belief that Congress will take a "hard look" at defense and foreign aid spending figures.

But he predicted that Republican members generally will be inclined to follow the new president's views as to programs.

Nationalist China Asserts Reds Do Not Want Truce

Minister To UN Says Peiping Doesn't Dare Now To Quit A 'Loser'

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Nationalist China's Foreign Minister George K. C. Yeh charged today that "Stalin and his Communist stooges do not really want a truce" in Korea and called on the U. N. to declare communism a threat to the world's peace and security.

Making his country's major policy address to the U. N.'s 60-nation General Assembly, Yeh said the Chinese Reds have suffered such huge casualties that the Peiping government does not dare to face its people "empty-handed."

Although it is commonly assumed that only the question of sending home prisoners is holding up a truce, Yeh declared, the fundamental problem is that the Reds do not want a truce unless it will "solidify and strengthen the ranks of world communism."

Yeh pointed out that some delegations have sought to solve the repatriation problem through transfer of prisoners to the care of neutral countries. But, he said, this might turn out to be only a delayed manner of forcibly sending home those Communist prisoners who have said they don't want to go.

The Communists, Yeh said, could be expected to put "direct and indirect pressure" on the prisoners once they were temporarily in their neutral refuges.

Yeh also lashed world communism for infiltrating and taking advantage of national freedom movements throughout the world.

He recalled that China had struggled for years to free itself from colonialism and expressed his country's sympathy for similar movements in other areas. But, he warned, those countries should be on their guard lest the Reds use their nationalistic movements "to pursue their own nefarious designs."

Yeh charged that Soviet Russia has substituted "satellization" for the imperialism of the past and asserted that the Communist regime in Peiping "is as completely a Soviet puppet as the Communist regime in North Korea."

Cooper emphasized that one new factor will tend to hold Republicans together on foreign policy matters—the presence of a Republican president in the White House.

He also expressed belief that Congress will take a "hard look" at defense and foreign aid spending figures.

But he predicted that Republican members generally will be inclined to follow the new president's views as to programs.

Chinese Regain Sniper Ridge For Fourteenth Time

Surged Out Of Underground Bunkers In Reckless Charge At Positions

SEOUL, Korea, Friday (UP)—More than 1,000 Chinese Communists surged out of underground bunkers last night and in a reckless charge through bursting shells and streams of bullets recaptured the crest of Sniper Ridge for the 14th time.

The Chinese charged up from "The Yoke," their maze of underground caves and tunnels, and ripped into South Korean positions at 11:10 p.m. with deadly fire from hundreds of "burp guns"—light, hand-carried submachine guns.

The first wave of two companies—about 350 Reds—was followed by hundreds more who trotted up Pinpoint Hill, the crest of Sniper, and closed in bloody hand-to-hand fighting with South Korean defenders.

United Press correspondent Victor Kendrick reported that South Koreans, using knives and fists as Chinese swarmed over their trenches, fought gallantly to stem the charge but finally were overcome.

Republic of Korea troops had recaptured the vital height north of Kumhwa on Wednesday night. The hill has changed hands 28 times in a month of attack and counterattacks.

The Reds apparently had timed their assault for an earlier hour. Allied artillery chopped to pieces a battalion of some 800 Reds seen moving into position for an attack on Sniper at 6 p.m. last night.

The Chinese began their attack just after dark. However, the South Koreans were waiting for such a move and immediately called an artillery support to break it up.

During the day, the Reds continued firing artillery at the South Koreans atop Pinpoint Hill, the dominant ridge on Sniper, but on a lesser scale than in the past two days. Late this afternoon, they fired 1,300 rounds of artillery and mortar.

It appeared that the latest battle for Sniper had ended in a victory for the United Nations.

As a hill settled over the 155-mile battlefield, a cold blanket of snow and ice inched down the Korean peninsula towards the battleline, heralding the third winter of the Korean war.

Despite low storm clouds, Allied fighter-bombers attacked and burned a troop concentration deep in northwest Korea. B-29 superfortresses also aimed bombs by radar at a rail bridge at the North Korean capital of Pyongyang and a supply area northeast of Kumi. They ran into "meager" anti-aircraft fire.

Fifth Air Force planes destroyed 130 buildings in attacks on North Korea, including 70 buildings northeast of Suan. Sabre jets patrolling MIG jets spotted Communist MIG-15 jets but did not engage them.

The last diehard Reds were rooted from the frosty slopes of Pinpoint, dominant in height on Sniper Ridge, at 1 a.m. (11 p.m. Wed. EST), and Republic of Korea soldiers began consolidating their positions.

The battle marked the 27th time Sniper has changed hands in a month of bloody fighting on the central front North of Kumhwa.

N. C. Vote Tallies Over One Million

Total Of 1,211,010 Votes Cast In Presidential Race

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina's record vote of 1,211,010 in the Nov. 4 general election topped the previous high of 839,424 in 1936 by 372,486.

This was shown yesterday in complete, unofficial returns released by the State Board of Elections. The board will meet here Nov. 25 to certify the winners.

A total of 1,211,010 votes were cast in the race between Gov. Adlai Stevenson and President-elect Dwight Eisenhower. Stevenson received 652,803, the biggest vote ever given a presidential candidate in North Carolina.

Stevenson's lead of 94,696 made it the closest presidential race in the state since 1928 when the GOP carried North Carolina. Gen. Eisenhower received 558,197, the biggest vote ever accorded a Republican candidate in this state.

However, the largest vote in the Nov. 4 election went to Gov.-elect William B. Umstead, who received 796,306 votes. His Republican opponent, Herbert F. Seawell Jr., got 383,329.

In the race for lieutenant governor, Democrat Luther Hodges received 783,792 to 374,530 for Republican Warren H. Pritchard.

Wants To Know If Secret Leaked

Senator To Demand Explanation For Accounts Of H-Bomb

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Republican senator wants to know whether the Mid-Pacific atomic tests—from which have erupted unofficial reports of what some claim was the world's first H-bomb explosion—needed tight security rules and, if so, whether they were enforced.

Sen. Bricker, a member of the Senate-Atomic Energy Committee, told a reporter from his home at Columbus, Ohio:

"I will want an explanation of whether the tight security secrecy was necessary—and, if so, whether these anonymous reported eye-witness accounts indicate that security was not properly enforced."

Bricker said he will be in Washington next week to demand an official explanation. He said he will decide then whether to seek an investigation.

Eyewitness accounts of the current tests at Eniwetok Atoll, mostly from sailors aboard task force ships, have been widely published in the nation's press during recent days.

The Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) and the Pentagon, meanwhile, have maintained a tight-lipped silence. The only word from the AEC has been "absolutely no comment" until the tests are completed.

Chaplain Says Some Ministers Dodging Draft

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UP)—A charge that some ministers are using their ministerial robes as "a cloak to dodge the draft" was made by the Tennessee Baptist Convention here.

Capt. Michael E. Reynolds, chaplain of the Tennessee Military District, told delegates yesterday that only five ministers in the state have enlisted since he started a drive last April for volunteers.

He predicted that unless more clergymen volunteer for service, it might become necessary to draft them into the Chaplain's Corps.

Reynolds said that a shortage of chaplains has left 30,000 American soldiers in Korea without a minister. Reynolds returned several months ago after being injured near the Korean front.

GOP Gains Four Seats In House

RALEIGH (AP)—Republicans have made a net gain of four seats in the State House of Representatives, according to complete but unofficial returns from the Nov. 4 general election.

The 1953 House membership lists 14 Republicans and 106 Democrats. The Republicans won five House seats formerly held by Democrats, while the Democrats captured one House seat held by a Republican.

The GOP made its House gains in Alexander, Calowell, Macon, Madison and Watauga counties.

VEPCO Tie-In Is Moving Rapidly

Utilities Superintendent Reports Progress, With Connection Hoped By First Of Year; Sub-Station Near Completed

By JESS POINDEXTER (Reflector City Editor)

The long-awaited connection of Greenville's electrical system with Virginia Electric Power Company is rapidly approaching reality, the local utilities commission was informed last night.

In his monthly report to members of the commission, Utilities Superintendent Martin Swartz said eight-way gangs representing VEPCO are currently working between Greenville and Pactivol and should reach the city limits before very long.

Swartz stated the VEPCO crew is progressing "very satisfactorily" in clearing right-of-ways, and added that work gangs engaged in setting poles are not far behind the lead group. "We still hope to make connection by the first of the year," he asserted.

"At the same time," the superintendent continued, "work on the sub-station at the plant is nearing completion." The new sub-station was necessitated by the tentative tie-in, and will cost approximately $75,000. VEPCO lines will cross Tar River near the Greenville plant.

Mixing Chamber Swartz announced that the construction of the new mixing chamber at the plant, which has been in progress for several months, has been completed. Necessary equipment is now being installed and at maximum operation the chamber will have a capacity of 6,000,000 gallons per day.

The new mixing chamber is to be in operation by January 1, 1953, and has been built with future expansion of the plant in view. At present, settling basins there have only 3,000,000 gallons-per-day capacity, an amount which is sufficient for current needs.

It was brought out in Swartz's REA report that a total of 69 rural customers who were excluded from service in work previously done with REA funds have been connected through October. Current expansion of lines and subsequent connections is being done with the commission's own labor.

Rural Customers Utilities Secretary Larry Brown reported that of the 137 tentative customers who have paid deposits for service, 86 still remain to be cut on. Brown said the plan is to continue expanding lines to those customers under the same plan—using the commission's own labor and funds.

"We plan to continue on that basis—however slow—until those customers have been connected," he said. According to the secretary, $17,360.14 has been spent in connecting the 69 houses. Total estimate made for all expansion has been set at $49,448.84.

At last night's meeting of the commission, L. A. Blackburn, representative of the firm of Slaughter, Seville and Blackburn, Richmond, Va., made a tentative report of a rate analysis currently in progress. That same firm made the rate study here which was adopted by the commission and put into effect November 4, 1948.

Study Rates Blackburn was authorized by the commission to make a detailed study of rate structures, taking into account new operating conditions, and make a complete report as soon as it can be completed. He is to review current utilities rates and compare them with changing conditions.

The cost of the study is to be based on actual expense of the investigation.

All members of the commission were present for last night's meeting.

Tentative Plans Call For Initial Private Talk Between Eisenhower And President, Then Full-Dress Conference With Their Top Advisers

WASHINGTON (UP)—Secretary of State Dean Acheson and at least two other cabinet officers will sit in on the Truman-Eisenhower meeting at the White House next Tuesday, it was learned today.

Tentative administration plans call for an initial private talk between President Truman and President-elect Dwight D. Eisenhower, followed by a full-dress conference with their top advisers.

High administration officials said Mr. Truman's "team" for the talks will include Acheson, who will make a special trip here from the United Nations meeting in New York; Defense Secretary Robert A. Lovett; and Secretary of the Treasury John W. Snyder.

The administration does not know yet who will accompany Eisenhower to the White House. It is assumed, however, that his advisers will include Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. (R-Mass.), who is expected to arrive here tonight to serve as the president-elect's personal liaison with the outgoing administration, and Detroit banker Joseph M. Dodge, who came here Wednesday to scout the administration's budget for Eisenhower.

The White House announced late Wednesday the change-of-administration talks will begin at 2 p.m. e.s.t. Tuesday, since Eisenhower had requested that date. Mr. Truman earlier had suggested Monday, but the president-elect sent word from his vacation retreat at Augusta, Ga., that Tuesday would be better.

Administration aides working on advance plans said Mr. Truman will not ask Eisenhower to assume responsibility for any major decisions on domestic and foreign policy problems.

The plan is to inform Eisenhower as fully as possible in one afternoon on current problems, then to give him advice he has to offer and then discuss arrangements to make a smooth transition between the Democratic and Republican administrations when Eisenhower is inaugurated next Jan. 20.

Planners believe it is imperative that the meeting develop concrete plans for consultation on quick action on the United Nations, Korea, Iran, Indo-China, Western Europe or any other scene of the cold war struggle between East and West.

Strategists said such a working liaison between the outgoing and incoming administrations might discourage the Communists from making any new thrusts in the belief that a American reaction might be immobilized during the transition period.

Lodge is expected to arrive here tonight for pre-White House talks with top State and Defense Department officials.

The newly-paved road runs from NC 11 to Station Mill Road (about one mile south of Whitehurst) for 2.6 miles. The project was financed by the $200,000 secondary road bond program.

The Second Highway Division brought a total of 18.46 miles of road work to completion during October, Commissioner Hargett added.

Immediately afterward, Coast Guard boats from the Fort Macon Coast Guard Station began searching for Arthur's body but it was not recovered until yesterday.

"Likewise, unusually dry weather has retarded marketing of tobacco during the last few weeks. Tobacco has been too dry to handle without crumbling."

However, the supervisor asserted, rain which came this week has enabled farmers to start grading tobacco again, and farmers in this area should be able to complete the marketing of the remainder of their tobacco crop by the final sale on Monday, November 24.

A REAL DROUGHT LINCOLN, Neb. (UP)—Farmers reported the Nebraska drought so bad that cattle are breaking through electric fences because the ground is so dry "ground wires won't ground."

The replies uniformly thanked the job-offers for their interest and told them that Mr. Truman would not make up his mind until he left office.

The White House would not divulge details of any of the job offers.

However, the highest offer, salary-wise, was believed to have come from the Resistol Hat Co., of Garland, Tex. Its president, Harry Roimick, has told reporters that he offered Mr. Truman a salary of $250,000 a year, plus travel expenses, to serve as the firm's vice president in charge of road sales.

Truman Said To Have Briefcase Full Of 'Lucrative' Job Offers

By DAYTON MOORE United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Truman has a briefcase full of offers of lucrative jobs after he leaves the White House next Jan. 20. But so far he has given no indication whether he will accept any of them, White House sources said today.

They said he probably will not announce any decision on his future until at least Jan. 20, and maybe not for several months later.

to go back to his home at Independence, Mo., for a few months after leaving office before deciding what non-government job, if any, he will accept.

Recent White House visitors have related that Mr. Truman expressed interest in taking a world trip and in lecturing and writing about world government in an effort to advance the cause of world peace.

But his spokesmen repeatedly have said that there was nothing definite about his plans for either venture.

Mr. Truman began to receive job offers from private concerns shortly after he announced last March he would not accept nomination for reelection.

White House aides said all the letters have been acknowledged.

FBI Joins Tupelo Officials In Investigating Persecution Case

TUPELO, Miss. (UP)—The FBI joined city officials today in investigating the persecution of a youthful newspaperman who fled Wednesday to avoid further violence by masked "Yankee haters."

Newell Anderson, 27, left with his pregnant wife for their North Dakota home minutes before the 8 p.m. e.s.t. deadline set for him by two masked men who slashed him with a razor with the warning: "We don't want Yankees in Mississippi!"

Alfred I. Means, FBI agent in charge at Memphis, Tenn., said he ordered a preliminary investigation to determine whether Anderson's civil rights were violated by this assault and a series of threats and vandalism.

Mayor George Maynard said police investigation substantiated Anderson's story but he believed there was "something more behind than Anderson's being from the North."

Anderson fled a month ago to become circulation manager for the Tupelo Daily Journal, was the "innocent sufferer for something else," and vowed to erase the "unjustified black eye against Tupelo and the South."

Despite an offer of 24-hour police protection, the Andersons packed their belongings and slipped out of town in their car without any escort, saying they would return to Fargo, N. D.

Maynard instructed Police Chief D. B. Crockett to continue an investigation that has been in progress since Friday, when someone smashed Anderson's auto windshield and warned him to leave town.

The small, brown-haired man with the features of a Scandinavian reported two masked men abducted him in his car Monday night and slashed his suit with a straight razor, slightly cutting his face. He said these men gave him the ultimatum to leave Wednesday.

Crockett, who had a long conference with Anderson before he drove away with his 21-year-old wife, said "he was definitely taken for a ride," and added, "We're going to get to the bottom of it before we quit."

But what mystified all the investigators was the motive for the terrorism. Maynard said the Andersons, who roomed across the street from him while here, came with high recommendation and was well liked.

"We have a lot of people in here from the North," Maynard said. "We like them and they have made good citizens. This thing is something else and he is the innocent sufferer, but we can't run it down."

When Anderson went to the newspaper office to collect his wages pay he was told of invitations to live in several southern towns but he declined, saying he left without bitterness.

Revival At Boyd Memorial Church
Character shows itself in critical moments, but it is formed in hours of ease. What are you doing with your leisure time? Are you devoting any of it to the building of your own character? The more real God is in your life, the stronger your character will be. If He is not real to you, then ask yourself what conditions you have fulfilled that will make Him real. Perhaps you do not pray, read your Bible, nor attend church services regularly. How CAN God become real in your life if you do not observe these conditions? Isn't it time you did something about it?
At Boyd Memorial Presbyterian Church, four miles west of Greenville on the Falkland highway, Rev. George J. Willis of Snow Hill will conduct a revival meeting during the coming week. The meeting will begin with a morning service at 11 o'clock on Sunday, Nov. 16 and continue with evening services at 7:30 Monday through Friday. Mr. Charles F. Baucum of Farmville will lead the singing. You are cordially invited to attend each service.

Robersonville Church Notes
The following item appeared in the Littleton Methodist Church bulletin: "Littleton loses a valuable family in the removal of J. B. Hurley to another field of service. Mr. and Mrs. Hurley in addition to their duties in their field of labor, identified themselves with community interests. Billie and Darel, their sons, have been valuable in the church school and worship service. Our prayers and best wishes follow them in their new field of service."
The change was effected at the North Carolina General Conference which met in Burlington in October.
On last Sunday the Methodist Youth Fellowship gave a supper to honor the children of the Rev. and Mrs. W. R. Johnson, who are leaving with their parents for the new charge.
Mrs. Robert Adkins and Mr. Linwood Thomas assisted the young people in the supper. Following the meal an enjoyable social hour was held during which time the group gathered around the piano for singing. Millard Johnson, Donna Johnson and Carlton Martin was remembered with going-away gifts.
The Junior Fellowship, under the direction of Mrs. Claude Smith, gave a wieners roast to honor Steve Johnson, younger son of Rev. and Mrs. Johnson.
The Woman's Society of Christian Service presented Mrs. Johnson with a going-away gift. The young people of the church brought presents for Millard Johnson and his sister Donna.
The entire community has expressed regret at the departure of the popular minister and his family.
The Christian Women's Fellowship had an all day meeting on Monday, November 10, at which time a review of the mission book, "These Rights We Hold," by Fred Brownlee was given.
Those taking part in the study were Mrs. C. A. Roberson, Mrs. Eugene Roberson, Mrs. Clara Wallace, Mrs. William Gray and Mrs. Charlie R. Gray, who was study chairman for the day.
The meeting started at 10:30 a. m. and a covered dish luncheon was served at noon in the church basement.
Mr. W. P. Skinner, popular minister of the Presbyterian Church of Williamston, was the guest speaker at the November meeting of the Christian Men's Fellowship, which was held Tuesday evening. The Christian Youth Fellowship served the supper for the occasion.
Miss Jeanine Taylor is directing the Union Christmas Canasta, which is annually presented prior to the Yuletide season. Practice for the entire community will be held each Thursday night at 7:30 at the Methodist Church.
Rev. Ralph Ferguson, pastor of the First Baptist Church, and the Rev. Wilbur Wallace, pastor of the Christian Church, cancelled their evening services last Sunday so that their congregations could join with the Methodists in their service of welcome for their new pastor, the Rev. J. Bascom Hurley, who has just come to Robersonville after completing a four year term of service at the Littleton Church.
The Rev. J. Bascom Hurley, Methodist minister, will preach in Robersonville the first and third Sunday mornings and the second and fourth Sunday evenings.
The McWhorter brothers have given the Bethel Pentecostal Church a lot which is being cleared. Drainage pipes are being laid and the preparations are moving forward for the erection of a parsonage.
More than $1300 has already been raised for the building and the church is making an effort to secure at least $5000. Any who wish to donate are asked to contact the minister, the Rev. Joe Russell, or Dan Nicholson.

Three Chapters Entertain For OES Visitors

AYDEN—Ayden Chapter No. 52, Kingston No. 53 and Grifton No. 134 were joint hostesses for the official visit of the Worthy Grand Matron, Mrs. Helen B. Rimmer, on Wednesday evening.

A banquet was held in the Ayden High School cafeteria at six o'clock with Mrs. Rosa J. Little, Ayden Worthy Matron, serving as toastmistress.

The meeting was held in the Ayden Masonic Hall and was presided over by the Ayden Worthy Matron, assisted by Mrs. Hilda Stadium, Kingston Worthy Matron, and Mrs. Raye D. Bissette, Worthy Matron of the Grifton chapter, after the opening march by the Ayden chapter.

The Worthy Grand Matron was presented a contribution from the three chapters to be applied on her project, the Rainbow Camp Building Fund.

Following the introduction of all of the distinguished guests and other visitors, Mrs. Rimmer gave an inspiring address on "Light," and Mr. Hugh Prince, Worthy Grand Patron, also delivered an address.

Gifts were presented to the Grand officers. Following the closing ceremony an informal reception was given in the dining room. White mums in a silver pitcher were used as a decoration on the refreshment table, where punch, fancy cakes and salted nuts were served.

Gospel Of Luke Reviewed At Semi Centi

Mrs. W. E. Hudson was hostess to the Semi Centi Book Club on Tuesday night at her home. After a short business meeting Mrs. Ruby Phillips, president, turned the meeting over to Miss Eloise Warren, who gave the program for the evening.

Continuing a study of the books of the New Testament, she reviewed the Gospel according to St. Luke. Miss Warren stated that Luke is one of the most lovable characters in all church history, and that his Gospel is one of the most attractive books in all the world's literature.

"The Book of Luke has often been designated as the most beautiful book in the world," she said. The Gospel of Luke is the longest of the four Gospels, she pointed out, and is written in the style and method of a Greek historian. It gives one the fullest story of the life and ministry of Jesus and a better balance for all the parts of His life, she brought out.

To conclude the program Miss Warren gave the characteristics of Luke's Gospel and explained them as follows: a gospel of praise, a gospel of prayer, a gospel of childhood and womanhood, and a world wide gospel.

Boy Injured In Fall From Tree

ROBERSONVILLE—Earl Cordell Jr., 10 year old fourth grade student, received painful injuries when he fell from a tree.

He and some other children were shaking nuts from a pecan tree. He had climbed out on a limb which was rotten to help another child who had become caught in one of the forks of the branches. The limb gave way with him, and he fell 15 feet to the ground. He sustained broken bones above the wrists of both arms and numerous scratches and bruises about the face, requiring 12 stitches.

When he struck the ground those who were near rushed to his aid. He was unconscious and bled profusely. He was carried to the hospital where his arms were set and his lacerations treated. Earl remained unconscious for some time after his fall, but is now recuperating satisfactorily at his home.

Holiday Plans Made At Guild Meeting Monday

The Wesleyan Service Guild of the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church held its November meeting at the home of Mrs. H. A. Hendrix last Monday night, November 3.

Miss Jane Hadley, president, called the meeting to order with prayer. She announced that a meeting would be held at Marshallburg on November 9, centering around membership for quinquennium, and that Mrs. V. P. Scoville and Mrs. Dorothy Johnson would have parts on the program.

Mr. James Butler, after being introduced, gave a very interesting devotional. In his talk he said "Freedom is not an end in itself. . . . Man is free from all ages. Hands may be chained, but heart and soul are always free if God is taken as Leader." He emphasized that freedom should be used wisely, that liberty and freedom are related to everlasting bonds to God and man, and that if a nation forgets God, its people become slaves.

Christmas plans were made. Members were urged to send clothes and toys to Miss Hadley for distribution to the needy. It was decided that the December meeting would be a dinner served by some circle of Sunday School class. Mrs. Lewis Herring was appointed to contact Mrs. Clapp relative to the December dinner meeting.

Members were urged to take part in the study course, entitled "Human Rights," which would begin Wednesday night, November 5.

At the conclusion of the meeting the hostesses, Mrs. H. A. Hendrix, Mrs. E. Lee Moore, and Mrs. J. B. Mallison, served delectable refreshments.

Record Program Presented At Music Club

The Greenville Music Club held its November meeting Tuesday night at 8 o'clock, in the new auditorium of West Greenville School.

Miss Beatrice Chauncey, program chairman of the Club and public school music teacher at East Carolina College presented in her usual charming manner a most interesting program on recordings. She began by relating the history of recordings from the accidental discovery of the idea by Thomas A. Edison, tracing their development to the present day, and pointing out the important part records are now playing in the education of young people. An old music box made in the 1800's and belonging to Mrs. James Rodgers, was shown by her to the Club with explanations. This was followed by playing two numbers of its quaint music. Records of different periods embracing old records, unusual and modern records were then played, interspersed with commentaries by Miss Chauncey.

Refreshments were served at the close of the program by the hostess committee which consisted of: Mrs. T. W. Rouse, Misses Eva Hodges and Pat Waldrop, and Mr. and Mrs. K. F. Whitley.

Strength for the Day

WAIT TO SPEAK
There are few people less popular with their associates than the guy who is always talking out of turn. You have met him in the office, at the bridge party, on the train, and perhaps a hundred other places. He knows all the answers. He is glad to see you because you are somebody before whom he can deliver an address.

Someone has written that it is a great misfortune when one does not have sense enough to speak well or judgment enough to speak little. The Bible refers to those who think that God will hear them for their much speaking. Neither God nor man appears to care for incessant chatter. The ear drums can get very sore when a chap of this sort steps into the center of any group and proceeds to enlighten everyone within hearing distance.

It has amazed me over a period of more than thirty-five years, during which time I have attended hundreds of conferences, to note the influence of the people who remain silent during long discussions and then utter a few well-chosen words at the end. They get more of a reputation for wisdom than they deserve. These truly wise guys wait until everyone else has spoken, take the best out of all that has been said, and then render a judgment which greatly enhances their reputation.

Try it for a change.
A Public Official Who Is Devoted To Duty

For thirty-five years J. Edgar Hoover has been in continuous public service. That's a great tribute in itself to any man.

During those years there has been no questions raised as to the FBI man's ability, his conscientious service, his constancy to the principles he serves or his country.

Everybody, save the wrongdoers his agents pursue and the Communists — to whom his name is anathema — respects and holds Hoover in the highest regard.

And now, informed sources say they believe he will stay on the job if so asked by the new incoming administration.

There should be a special reward for such unwavering devotion to public service.

Fact Or Hoax, It Isn't A Pretty Story

The story of "Yankee-hating" terrorists in Tupelo, Mississippi, is so fantastic that we'd find it easier to believe the flying saucers landed this morning to disembark men from Mars.

We never thought to see hate based on sectionalism given such expression as threats, vandalism, personal injury and terror. Yet that is the story carried yesterday of a young North Dakota newspaper employe who is said to have been given the final ultimatum to "get out of town."

Sectional feelings were strong a little less than a century ago; but that was long ago. . . . and this is now, November 13, 1952! Since then, new generations have arisen, new bonds of "oneness" have joined all the peoples and all sections of this country closer together than ever dreamed possible for a nation of this size.

Our own indignation is tempered by the knowledge that if the story of terrorism is true, that the cruel incidents described were bred of ignorance. . . . a failure of today's society. It seems so impossible as to suggest a hoax.

It isn't a pretty story. Either as fact, or as a piece of fiction.

The Most Famous Leer In All The Land

The "assault by leer" case of tenant farmer Mack Ingram has been so blown up as to make one almost lose the true perspective of the story.

If it wasn't for the fact that the accused has quite a stake in his court fight to prove his innocence, we'd be tempted to laugh. Some firebrands would try to make another "Scottsboro" trial out of what is now probably the most famous leer in history.

State law seems very clear on the point that assault does not have to be a case of physical contact. But a lesser point what constitutes a "leer" befuddles us.

You can visualize a frown or a smile. But recognizing a leer is something else. There must be leers in the world; the dictionary includes the word and a definition. At the same time anyone who tried looking in a mirror and contorted their face into a dozen different expressions, wouldn't be really satisfied with their best efforts at "leering."

There is also sworn testimony to the effect that Mack Ingram accomplished a "leer" many months ago. So, despite our own misgivings, we'll accept a leer as a genuine facial expression.

The girl who brought the charges might well have been frightened on the occasion in question. An unexpected move or sound can cause nearly anybody to be startled.

The crux of the case seems to hinge on whether or not Ingram was thinking of harming the girl; a most difficult point to prove unless there's a mindreader in the crowd or the physical evidence is indisputable. We trust it was the latter on which the jurors based their judgement.

For our part, we wish the whole thing had never come up. We'll be looking for leers; and as likely as not be disappointed for a long time to come.

National Whirligig

WASHINGTON—The battle over private versus public development of the nation's water power and kindred resources will face President-elect Eisenhower his first and most dramatic opportunity to show by positive action his attitude toward further government expansion in this and allied industrial fields.

Under Truman-Chapman philosophy, several proposals now before the courts and Congress would give the Interior Department a national monopoly in building and operating vast hydroelectric systems, and in the transmission of energy. If successful, it would conceivably mean the destruction or Federal absorption at near-confiscatory prices of the $25 billion public utility structure, with its millions of bondholders and investors.

More importantly, if this industry could be taken over or forced to sell through the threat of government competition, any other private enterprise would stand in similar jeopardy. Numerous judges, in ruling against Interior's claims, have made this premonitory observation.

Truman showed his sympathy for the Chapman viewpoint when he threatened to build U. S. steel mills several years ago, and again when he insisted that the "inherent powers" of the Presidency justified seizure of these factories.

FEDERAL MONOPOLY THREAT—With atomic energy now foreseen feasible for commercial application within five years, the threat of Federal monopoly becomes more dangerous. The Administration has already tried to sew up this source of industrial generation on the ground that it is too valuable militarily for general use and distribution.

It was because of his knowledge of these generally unknown schemes that Charles E. Wilson, former president of General Electric and Defense Mobilizer, recently urged the sale of the government's $7 billion (current estimate—Ed. note) power system to private interests, or to individuals who would exchange government securities for stocks in these utilities.

In view of the favorable reaction to the Wilson suggestion in many circles, which would also apply to other competing Federal operations, it is understood that his idea will be pressed in the next Congress, if Eisenhower approves.

TO REMOVE SHADOW—Getting the government out of business, it is pointed out, would permit sizable reduction of the staggering public debt and a sharp cut in taxes. It would remove also the shadow that now hovers over all private enterprise.

It is not known how far Congress will want to go in this direction, for it is an extremely complex question. But an extremely important result of the Eisenhower election is that it will check, if not eliminate entirely, the 20-year trend toward government ownership and operation of utility and other industrial activities which, under the commerce and general welfare clauses of the Constitution, could be deemed essential to the national economy and security.

Discussing this general problem, Eisenhower has declared for a "free economy and a minimum of controls." Regarding power development, he favors state and regional rather than Federal suzerainty, where possible.

REPORT IN FEBRUARY—Eisenhower will first pass on this question of private versus public power when a Truman commission submits to him its recommendations for Federal development of the vast Missouri River Basin after the pattern of TVA. The report is due at the White House next February.

Under a preliminary Chapman blueprint, this area, which extends from the Mississippi River to the Rockies, and from the Canadian border to the Texas-Oklahoma-Louisiana lines, would become a Federal guinea pig.

The Government would build new power plants and transmission lines, buy out existing facilities, and operate the integrated system. Industries, homes, farms, mining interests would be wholly dependent on the bureaucracy at Washington.

SOURCES ENERGY—It would, however, be a radical advance on the TVA experiment, which was inaugurated and justified as a "water-power project." Due to the lack of torrential rivers in the Missouri Basin interior, the principal sources of prospective energy listed in the Chapman report are coal, still commercially undeveloped shale and lignite deposits, atomic energy, solar rays, and, believe it or not, windmills.

This program scraps the original, relatively restricted Roosevelt-Norris-Ickes pattern for TVA, Grand Coulee, Bonneville, etc., where the Government produces and sells power only as a by-product of such constitutional activities as flood control, navigation, irrigation and wildlife protection.

TOTALITARIAN TREATMENT—The grandiose Chapman project would put the Government into business on a multibillion dollar scale in a region of sub-continent proportions. Such phrases as "world crisis," "national defense" and "critical shortages" are cited in justification.

Even this program, however, is only a beginning—a sort of show window exhibit and pilot plant. For the broad plan, advocated by the Interior, contemplates this same totalitarian treatment of 14 other river valleys and basins, from New England to Texas and Washington to Florida.

Even Truman did not dare to sponsor this scheme, and named a special committee to survey it, and it is this body which will report to Eisenhower next February. It is difficult to believe that Eisenhower or his coalition Congress will underwrite these extravagant, bureaucratic blueprints.

ATLANTA, GA., NORTH SIDE NEWS: "A married couple with two children needs an income of $4,189 today to live as well as they did on $2,000 in 1939. This is the harvest of the prolonged spending spree, borrowing and taxation of the Federal government, and of such fallacious reasoning as 'The National Debt doesn't matter—we just owe it to ourselves,' and 'you can raise wages without raising prices.'" war would be declared, I would no doubt read the national news first. But any event short of that would be cast aside until I read what's happening in Greenville. Routine court cases are of interest, but of more concern to me are the decisions of the City Board of Aldermen and the projects of local civic clubs. Photography, whether they appear on the front page or not, are of especial interest.

Turning the page, I always consult the Social Column and 40 Years Ago Today. Whenever March's "Forbes" column, Impressions, appears I seek it out. New Arrivals is a column that probably all of us read to keep up with new family additions in Pitt County.

The editorial page is always of interest, because it reflects the stands of the paper on local issues. There is one column that I would like to see appear there more fre-

Around Capitol Square

By LYNN NISBET

LEADERSHIP — Luther Hodges, incoming lieutenant governor, told the Eastern North Carolina newspaper folks the other night that he believed the National Democratic party will have to be reorganized on basis of North Carolina ideology. Reasons for this opinion included the fact North Carolina gave the Stevenson-Sparkman ticket a heavier total vote, a bigger numerical majority and a larger number of electoral votes than any other State. This record entitles North Carolina to a front seat in the future councils of the Democratic Party. Other Southerners have suggested need for rebuilding the national party along different lines. One group proposes a combination of Southern Senators for leadership. Another holds that Adlai Stevenson as titular head should be recognized as the actual leader of his party. The several suggestions point up the problem, but do not provide a solution. The several suggestions point up the problem. The problem is lack of leadership.

DIVERGENT — There are contrasting views about the course party reorganization should take. One school of thought believes that the Republican sweep means popular revolt against prevailing policies in the Democratic party and that to recapture these votes the party must become more like the Republican. This group would look to men like Senator Byrd and Governor Byrnes to lead them. Another idea is that leadership must be provided by moderate New Dealers of the Governor Scott type, who would endeavor to retain the social gains of the past 20 years and continue a large part of government spending.

IN STATE — So far as North Carolina is concerned the question of recognized leadership has been pretty well settled for the next few years. Governor-elect Umstead is an organization man with proven ability to get people to work together for a common objective, even though having individual differences of opinion as to best methods. Chances are he will be the actual as well as titular head of the party, and the organization will not get out of hand as it did under Governor Scott.

NO BOSS — There seems no occasion to fear that Umstead or anybody else will attempt the role of "political boss" in the state. North Carolinians have demonstrated many times their refusal to accept dictation. Conditions in National and State Democratic circles are almost reverse. Nationally the party is worse disorganized than at any time since the middle of Wilson's second term. In North Carolina the party has prospect of the smoothest working organization in many years, under the guiding direction rather than attempted driving of the Governor.

TREES — One consequence of the forest fires which have raged over so large a part of Eastern America this fall may be a shortage of Christmas trees. Principal source of supply for this area are the slopes of the Appalachians, and forest fires have devastated millions of acres from Canada to Georgia.

COMMUNITY — Mrs. Rebecca Etheridge, receptionist at the State Capitol, came up with an idea last year that offers solution to a part of the Christmas tree problem. Instead of numerous little trees in individual offices throughout the building and around the square, she proposed one big tree in the rotunda of the capitol. There is ample room for a tree 50 feet high or more with branches 10 to 15 feet across.

Downward light from the tinted glass in the dome could almost serve without day time artificial lights. Not only would the office people have a much better tree than could be afforded individually, but the thousands of visitors who pass through the corridors also would enjoy it. Mrs. Etheridge says she has been reluctant to recommend the project because it would cost a few dollars. The cost, however, would be small compared with amounts spent for other and perhaps less attractive Christmas decorations, and could be justified on esthetic grounds.

LEGISLATURE — Virtual certainty that Eugene T. Bost Jr., of Cabarrus will be Speaker of the House of Representatives, and that Edwin Pate of Scotland is unlikely to have opposition for the post of President Protem of the Senate, means that organization of the General Assembly will not be delayed. Other official positions probably will be filled by the same persons who have held during recent sessions, except for sergeants at arms in each branch. No opposition has developed to Ray Byerly as principal clerk of the Senate, nor for Robert Rasmussen as reading clerk. On the House side Mrs. Annie E. Cooper is expected to be back at the principal clerk's desk with Ralph M. Jones as reading clerk. Decision of Archie Taylor not to seek re-election as Senate sergeant at arms, and death of Fred Pass in the House leaves both those elective positions open. No names have been suggested in the Senate. Several are known to be seeking the House post, and a number of members are trying to persuade C. W. (Cousin Wayland) Spruill, long time representative from Bertie, to accept dictation. Conditions in National and State Democratic circles are almost reverse. Nationally the party is worse disorganized than at any time since the middle of Wilson's second term. ## Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER
Charles Sawyer loses his job as Secretary of Commerce next January, but it is probable that his plan for an Office of Distribution in the department will be carried on.

The new Administration may find reason to change the name and to redefine the scope of the project. But it seems important to carry out the broad purposes.

As presently conceived, the new office would devise means to make the vast accumulation of facts, statistics and technical information that the department collects more readily available for businessmen. It would also undertake studies of distribution, especially to see if the costs can be reduced. In short, it would serve businessmen in much the same way the Department of Agriculture serves farmers.

The reasons for expecting the continuation of work along these lines are:

1. The original idea was recommended by the National Distribution Council and many other top business executives. The incoming Administration is expected to be sensitive to business requests.

2. We are approaching the point in the economy at which distribution must function at top efficiency if we are to avoid a recession.

In the course of the defense program we have expanded our industrial capacity enormously. We have put up hundreds of new mills and factories and expanded sources of raw materials greatly. At the same time, we have increased payrolls considerably.

Barring an all-out war, the time will come when we will not need all of this industrial capacity for material. The only way to keep the capacity in use is to use it for civilian production. And the only way to bring that about is to increase civilian demand. That takes distribution — especially more efficient and more effective distribution.

It is a big job. Business will do its part. But an assist from the Government will come in handy.

ADMINISTRATION CHANGE...
MAY FREE SOME TALENT...
Speaking about the change in the administration, the gag railroad and moving business because so many people will be moving in and out of Washington is worn pretty thin.

More seriously: The change may make some pretty good talent available for firms with recruiting problems. And there may be more than Democratic appointments available.

Many of those under civil service, including those who have built careers as aides to Democratic appointees and those who fear their jobs may be abolished under an economy regime, will probably entertain offers of employment in private industry.

BLENDERS HELP SILK...
RETURN TO FAVOR...
Silk is making a comeback. It has been gaining in more expensive fabrics since the war; now it is being used in blends.

One fabric house (Scalamandre New York) has developed silk-and-wool blends for the medium-price decorating field and the high-price men's wear field. Another (Julius Weir, New York) has developed a blend of silk and wool with an acetate warp and a yarn-dyed silk-and-wool alpaca for women's finery.

INDUSTRIAL BUYERS...
FOLLOW 90-DAY POLICY
Industrial purchasing agents are largely buying ahead for only 90 days, according to the National Association of Purchasing Agents. It reports 91 per cent are holding to this conservative policy, although there has been a slight increase in the number buying ahead for 120 days.

Hal Boyle's Column

By HAL BOYLE

LISBON, Portugal (AP)—When kings lose their crowns but manage to keep their heads, they like to come to Portugal.

The political climate as well as the balmy air of this tiny country—it is about the size of Indiana, has a population slightly larger than that of New York City—agrees with them. They also like the feeling of stability and security built by Premier Antonio de Oliveira Salazar, the most scholarly as well as one of the more durable of Europe's dictators.

As a result this refugee of royalty has more ex-kings, would-be kings, and heirs of kings than a pinocchio deck, all dreaming of good old days or hoping for a return to power.

Among the refugees who dwell quietly here are Umberto II of Italy; Carol of Rumania; Don Juan of Bourbon, pretender to the crown of Spain; Francois Joseph of the vanquished Austro-Hungarian empire, Admiral Horthy, ex-dictator of Hungary; the Count of Paris, also known as the Duke de Guise, still waiting to take over the throne of France; and Dom Duarte Nuno de Aragoza, who yearns for Portugal to become a monarchy again and give a job again.

Aging ex-King Carol, perhaps the best - known, has dropped his play-boy ways. He and his wife, the demurest of former Madams Luperon, live moderately. Their main interest now is their big business investments.

"The only thing that worries Carol now, is that his son, former King Michael, will ask him for money," said an acquaintance.

The royal refugees lead undisturbed lives. They feel safe from revolution or revenge or animosity because, as one resident put it:

"The average Portuguese is industrious and very poor himself, but he has little resentment against the wealthy. There is an old proverb here about the rich: 'May they eat twice at every meal.' The peasant knows that no matter how much money a man has he can only eat one meal at a time."

For this reason Portugal has become a haven of some men of great fortune.

The most fabulous is 83-year-old "Mr. Five Per Cent," Caluste Sarkis Gulbenkian, reputed to be the world's only living billionaire.

A figure of international mystery, this short dark octogenarian Armenian could buy and sell all the royal refugees here, singly or in a lump, with no more strain on his purse than the average man feels in purchasing a new suit.

With the help of two secretaries he operates a world-wide empire in oil from a five-room suite in the Aviz Hotel, which is near a police station and the city slaughterhouse.

Old "Mr. Five Per Cent" ordinarily eats alone in the hotel dining room, and the Portuguese love to tell legends of his frugality.

"He and his wife, who died recently, lived apart," said one native. "She used to complain to friends he never would allow her more than $20 a month spending money. If his son and daughter-in-law dined at the hotel, he would order a single bottle of wine for himself, drink what he wanted, then send the rest of the bottle over to their table."

The big ambition of "Mr. Five Per Cent" is to live to be 106. "My father, lived to be 105," he said some years ago, "and I am in better health than he was at my age."

All my life I have wanted to see a live billionaire. We checked in at the Aviz Hotel—Frances and I and Dr. Anson Clark, a Lubbock, Tex., oil man—and hoped to meet Gulbenkian. But he avoided the dining room during our brief stay.

One morning, however, as we stood in the lobby Frances glanced up and saw a bent antique figure shuffle by a balcony. It was old "Mr. Five Per Cent" himself. But when I looked up he had vanished.

"What did he look like?" I asked. "He just looked like an old hotel handyman on his way to put in a light bulb for a guest," said Frances.

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON—Miss Naomi Shanks finds rural America looking beyond the fence posts to the world outside, with the whole family showing increasing interest in the study and discussion of national and international affairs.

This interest is showing up in requests for Miss Shanks, home management specialist, Iowa State College Extension Service, to organize special programs. She says the same interest is evident in other parts of the country as well.

"We get a good attendance at these meetings, in which young and old gather together to study and discuss the United Nations and different government programs abroad," Miss Shanks told me on a recent visit to Washington. "The meetings are usually set up in the different counties of the state, and people will drive from 50 to 100 miles to attend them."

"Those who attend the meetings all want leadership training so they can go back into their little communities to discuss what they learned and share their knowledge with their neighbors," she added. Parents are especially interested in knowing how to prepare their children, especially boys, to go out into the world to represent the United States, she said. They are trying to stimulate an attitude that is objective about the bigger world we're really living in.

Radio and television, she says, have helped tremendously, and the public forum-type meeting has been used to good advantage by station WOI at her state college. Within the hearing area of the station is a TV viewing audience of some 75,000, a high percentage of them farm people.

"The station can draw on four networks for programs. Homes with TV sets are 'becoming quite definite' in scheduling their Sunday time to take them in, Miss Shanks finds.

Dr. Wallace Ogg, public policy specialist on the extension staff, and Dr. Carl Malone of Iowa State College, who has just returned from a year in Wales, collaborate on the programs. In addition, two programs are given weekly on homemaking and farm production, maintenance and care which are part of the extension farming program. Another program is conducted on outlook marketing planning.

"You can no longer separate the homemaker's interests from those of her husband," Miss Shanks said. "Women are taking the leadership along with the men in broadening the family horizons."

What Other Papers Are Thinking

THAT FEDERAL PATRONAGE (Wilson Times)

In the past it's been customary for a few Republicans to grab off the patronage plums in the South. In all likelihood, some will do it again, but not in the same way as they have in the past. For such states as Virginia, Florida, Tennessee and Texas have a stake in the government. They'll possess a clear-cut right, moreover, to representation in the Republican national convention, something they've always had but something that has been questioned because few states in the South have ever turned in brooms and new faces.

We're of the opinion that most of the career men now with the government will stay with the government. I must go on functioning even though the party in power has been changed. The policy makers, it can safely be assumed, will walk the plank. Indeed, when the party gets around to the changes, there'll be a substantial exodus from Washington. For our part we think it'll have a salutary effect. For men too long in public office learn to look on their jobs as vested. It's precisely what Jefferson fought during the reign of his power.

Four Removed From 'Blind' Classification

A recent report of the Pitt County Association for the Blind disclosed that during the month of September, four local persons were given aid and removed from the classification of blindness.

The September report of the association was released at a recent meeting of the Greenville Lions Club. At that time it was announced that Pitt County citizens have contributed $1,750 in the annual 1953 membership campaign.

During the month of September, a total of 129 persons received aid in the form of grants. Reviews were made of aid to the blind cases and revisions in grants were made in 43 cases.

Over the same period, 27 persons were given eye examinations and in a few cases it was found that people were able to pay for treatment. Glasses were recommended for 18 needy cases and surgery was recommended for one. Four others were assigned special treatment.

One eye operation was performed on one case during the month, and several newly blinded persons were assisted in personal and family adjustment — receiving white canes.

In connection with the regular work of the county association's secretary, blind persons were assisted with braille, braille reading materials, talking book machines, occupational therapy, crafts and materials for crafts.

Two persons were placed in employment and two were sent to the rehabilitation center in Raleigh for training.

At the time the report was made, members of the various Lions Clubs throughout the county disclosed their clubs had made contributions to the welfare of the blind.

The Greenville Lions Club assisted eight needy persons in paying for glasses. The Ayden Lions Club assisted two needy persons in paying for glasses and provided clothing for another. They also purchased a trunk for a blind child entering the State School in Raleigh.

In Farmville, the Davis fund provided glasses for two persons, while the Pitt County Association assisted six other needy persons in securing glasses.

A report was made of the formal opening of the Greenville News Stand operated at the courthouse by Preston Cherry of Bethel.

He commented on college participation in the establishment of an Art Gallery in Greenville and praised the contributions to this area made by the college department of music, especially the East Carolina Orchestra, a campus-community project. The entertainment Series at East Carolina, he said, provides at a low cost the opportunity to see and hear world-renowned artists and entertainers.

The "wholesome and relaxing recreation" offered by intercollegiate athletics, of immense value, he stated, "certainly," he commented, "we are proud of the attainments of East Carolina's college athletes on football gridiron, basketball court, and baseball diamond."

In civic organizations and in the religious activities of this section, he continued, college staff members have made valuable contributions. Student religious organization have also, he explained, "had a vitalizing effect and influence which have carried over into the churches of the county."

College Program Value Stressed By M. K. Blount

Marvin K. Blount, Greenville attorney, in a radio address yesterday on the Pitt County Scholarship Foundation for East Carolina College, stressed the "intangible values which give added worth to our life and make for more wholesome relationships through the culture aspects of the college program."

Speaking on "Cultural Values of East Carolina College to Pitt County," Mr. Blount declared that through the medium of the college, the people of Pitt County can "bring cordials and culture to a common ground." He showed how the location of the college in Greenville provides many assets to community life in this area.

"Can we do less than our best," he asked in mentioning the present campaign to raise $100,000 for scholarships at the college, "in support of the Pitt County Memorial Scholarship Foundation to the end that our children may receive great values toward helping them carry on the great heritage which the founders of the college have left to us?"

In the arts, Mr. Blount stated, East Carolina has "brought to our community outstanding instructors who are transmitting to prospec-

L. Y. Ballentine Speaks To Ayden Clubs, Guests

AYDEN — North Carolina Commissioner of Agriculture, L. Y. "Stag" Ballentine presented the picture of agriculture in the future as one of the outstanding sciences to a group of farmers who were guests of the Ayden Lions and Rotary Clubs.

The Commissioner was presented to the banquet group by Garland Bullock, poultry specialist in the N.C. Department of Agriculture and member of the Ayden Rotary Club.

Ballentine described the economic results of the period of 1935-

1939 when there was overproduction of farm products and compared the results to the year 1950 when there was underproduction.

"We are industrializing agriculture today," said the commissioner, "and farmers must have the same mechanical tools on the farms that have made giants of industry. And as agriculture is treated in the light of better tools, so must the farmer have better capitalization, better management, better homes, better water, and better knowledge of the scientific technology of the laboratory."

The commissioner said mere must be done than soil conservation by keeping the elements in the soil. "The farmer must be a part of a great industry and assume the responsibility in this big business," he stated.

The approximately 65 farmers attending the meeting were welcomed by Brantley Jolly, president of the Lions Club. The invocation was given by C.M. Fogleman, Methodist minister, and Ralph Hardee, president of the Rotary Club, also welcomed guests and presented Bullock.

A turkey dinner was served in the high school cafeteria by the Ayden Parent Teachers Association. Visiting Rotarians were Johnnie Overton, Dr. John Winstead, and Fitz Duncan, all of Greenville.

Strange Partnership Of Birds, Men Told

By DELOS SMITH
United Press Science Editor
NEW YORK (UP)—The American museum of Natural History reported in detail today on nature's strangest partnership, that of birds with men for the purpose of robbing wild honey bees.

The bird spies out the hollow tree where bees have stored their honey. Unable to rob the hive itself the bird scouts around until it finds men. Leading them to its find, it waits around for a share while they split open the tree and take the honey.

The report was contained in the new issue of the museum's publication, "Natural History." It was written by Edgar Monsanto Queeny, chairman of the board of the Monsanto Chemical Company, St. Louis, who led an 8,000 mile safari through East Africa that took four months.

The bird is the greater honey guide, which has some resemblance to a robin but is smaller. It lives in the vast area of British East Africa from which man is largely excluded by tsetse flies which carry the germs of sleeping sickness, which kills men, and of nagana, which kills domestic animals.

But the vast herds of wild grazing animals are seemingly immune to nagana and the Wandorobo tribesmen among the most independent and primitive of Africa natives, have immunity to sleeping sickness. They are the men who are partners of the honey-loving birds.

Some naturalists and many animal behavior psychologists have been skeptical of "tall tales" about the greater honey guide, but Queeny took thousands of feet of color film which proved the partnership. Natural History prefixed the report with an editorial foreword that, in effect, invited the behavior psychologists to explain it.

Queeny said the greater honey guide introduces herself by chattering. His three Wandorobo natives whistled an acknowledgment. Then they spotted the bird, perched in a tree. Having an acknowledgment she fluttered to the next tree, still chattering. The natives followed, answering her with low whistles.

Biblical History Lives Again In Excavations Of Ancient Center

By ERIC GOTTFREU
AP Newswriter
TEL AVIV — Beth Yerah in North-Eastern Israel, the Canaanite "City of the Moon" on the South-Eastern shores of the Sea of Galilee, may well be one of the most ancient cities in the world, according to recent finds there.

Archaeologists think that it is about 5000 years old—possibly even older than Damascus, the Syrian capital 30 miles to the North-East of it, through which the tree's hollow trunk.

The Wandorobo broke open the tree, while the bees swarmed around them, angrily stinging. But the natives had built a fire, by rubbing wood in Boy Scout fashion, and the smoke slowed the bees. Anyway, Queeny said, the Wandorobo hide is thick—it hardly registers a bee sting.

And the bird has a thick skin, too. She waited quietly while the honey was extracted. The Wandorobo laid out an offering of honey. At this point who arrived but the bird's mate. As the men departed with their major share of the partnership, he helped her consume the profits of her labors.

Father Abraham passed on his long trip to the South when he left one "Eliazer of Damascus" as steward of his house (Gen. XV, 2).

One of the two city walls now excavated for a length of about 200 feet doubtless belongs to the second phase of the Early Bronze Age 3000-2000 BC., the report of the Israel Department of Antiquities says. The wall, built of mud bricks, is about 30 feet wide and 15 feet high.

A second wall dug out was built during the first phase of the Middle Bronze Age (2000-1500 BC.). Fifteen feet wide and 12 feet high, it is made of stone.

The city gate to the brick wall has also been uncovered. It has a foundation of stones overlaid with unbaked bricks. A nine foot wide stone-paved street leads to the gate. And there are also remains of two rectangular towers of the size of the city gate as well as of a round tower built nearer to the Sea of Galilee itself.

Several ancient tombs in which the dead were laid in a crouching position (together with pottery, hundreds of beads, bronze pins etc.) unearthed on the same occasion.

MacArthur Files Now Available

NEW YORK (UP)—The Army disclosed today it has removed the files of Gen. Douglas MacArthur from a Brooklyn storage vault and will make them "generally available to anybody with a direct interest."

The files presumably contain MacArthur's personal records of his Far Eastern military command and his administration of occupied Japan.

Lt. Gen. Willis O. Crittenger, commander of the First Army, was ordered to take custody of the files, which fill 32 packing cases. They were removed two weeks ago from a locked room at the Brooklyn Navy Yard to headquarters of the military district of New York in Manhattan.

Army Secretary Frank Pace Jr. disclosed in Washington he had ordered Crittenger to carry out the transfer, which was made "amicably" and with MacArthur's knowledge.

A Pentagon spokesman said the decision to remove the files was made after "prolonged correspondence" between Crittenger and MacArthur had failed to produce "specific action."

MacArthur has a key to the office in Manhattan where the files were taken and will have full access to the records, the spokesman said.

He said Crittenger's staff in New York would undertake the "scanning" of the records and probably would start "immediately."

Iron Curtain Dims Women's Fashions

VIENNA (UP)—Arbiters of fashion behind the Iron Curtain may frown on imitations of western models but neither have they copied the grey, drab dressmaking of Soviet Russia.

Judging from photographs and occasional articles in the Communist press, dressmakers in Czechoslovakia and Hungary, noted for their originality, are placing emphasis on strict simplicity in line with Communist politics, while at the same time doing their best to approach western smartness.

A picture of several Czech models shows one in a becoming subdued grey, woolen costume with a small hat of the same material, another in a simple school-girlish dress and a third in a flowing autumn coat with deep pockets and large collars.

Another photo shows a very conservative young debutante's dress, made of light white material with a tight-fitting collar. Decollete appears to be non-existent.

The models were reported to have been admired greatly at a recent fashion show in Leipzig, where the Czechs stole the first prize from East German, Polish or Romanian woman has to watch her family budget carefully and can do little more than admire the new styles.

Another difficulty is the prices: "Perlon" stockings and other imitations of nylons cost as much as 1,000 crowns ($20) in Prague. Only shoes are still good and plentiful.

As a result, for most women behind the Iron Curtain the term "autumn" or "spring" fashions has little meaning. For work, she will wear factory-made "utility" clothes, and for the theater or party she will dip into her shrinking reserve of pre-war clothes or those dearly bought on the black market after the war.

Baby-Sitting Is 'For The Birds'

CHICAGO (U.P.)—Baby sitting is for the birds.

That does not mean the task is useless. It only means the birds were doing it long before the present generation coined the word as used today.

Dr. Austin L. Rand, curator of birds at the Chicago Natural History Museum, said some birds have complicated baby-sitting arrangements.

When young elder ducks are old enough to go to the water, Rand wrote in the museum bulletin, they band into flocks accompanied by old females. The ducklings simply forget their own mothers and latch on to the nearest grown duck when they want attention.

The ani, a black cuckoo found in the American tropics, makes a community project of nesting. Its flocks of seven to 24, the ani join forces to build a bulky twig nest. Then each pair of ani takes a turn incubating eggs and the other adults assist in feeding the young.

Parents leave young adeli penguins to build the Antarctic and go to sea to bring back food. Meanwhile, the young penguins, grouped in bands of 20 or more, are supervised by a few old birds.

Highway To Play Part In Fight

MANILA (AP)—The Philippines is building a 21-mile highway north east of Manila designed to wipe out a hiding place for Communist Huk guerrillas and open more than 40,000 acres of virgin land for cultivation.

President Elpidio Quirino, in ordering immediate construction, said the road would be financed jointly by U.S. mutual security and Philippine counterpart funds. The cost was estimated at a million dollars.

Brandy Truckers Aren't Tempted

NEW YORK (AP)—The 12 drivers of trucks carrying brandy for a German concern apparently are not tempted by their cargo because all recently received awards for sober and careful driving, it has been reported here.

The trucks carry 10,000 gallons of 8-year-old German Uralt brandy made by the Asbach & Co., of Ruedesheim-on-Rhine near Wiesbaden. The awards were made by Germany's equivalent of America's National Safety Council created to encourage accident prevention.

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—A 62-year-old, white-haired grandmother from Weissport, Pa., suffered a great loss in passing through Indianapolis last July when her 3-year-old grandson was killed in an accident involving her car.

But the boy's death didn't keep the grandmother from returning to Indianapolis recently with gifts for all those who helped at the scene of the accident.

South Africa's Supreme Court Defies Government

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UP)—The South African Supreme Court defied the government today by declaring unconstitutional Premier Daniel F. Malan's law giving Parliament the right to overrule courts.

Malan was expected to accept the court's challenge and call a general election for next April or May to seek a national mandate for his program of racial segregation.

It was to prevent the Supreme Court from throwing out his "Jim Crow" legislation that Malan last May had pushed through the law giving Parliament the right to veto the court's decisions.

The veto law was declared unconstitutional by the five senior judges of the appellate division. The ruling was the worst blow yet for the Malan government's "white supremacism" program.

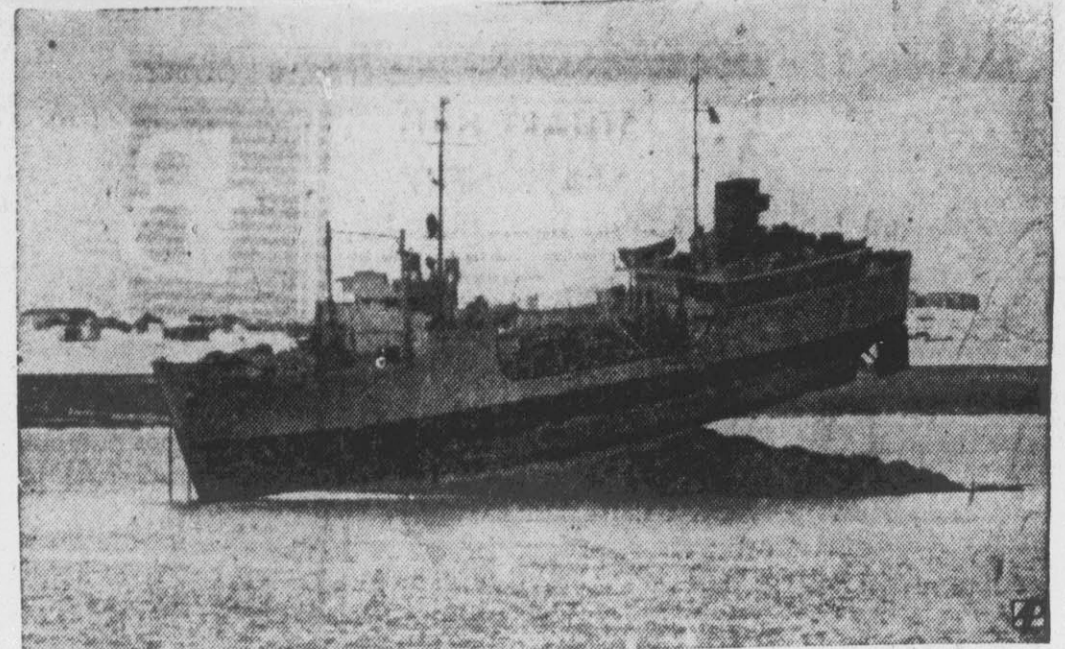

The law empowered the members of Parliament to sit as a "High Court of Parliament" and overruled the Supreme Court on the constitutionality of legislation.

The law was fought by the opposition United and Labor parties and by the 100,000-member Torch Commando, an organization of war veterans.

The court's ruling confronted Malan with the choice of defying the court and going ahead with the law anyway, or going to the people for a new mandate.

In any event, the action probably will persuade the government to hold up for the time being any further racial legislation in South Africa. The country's racial segregation policies were condemned only Tuesday by a vote of the political committee of the United Nations General Assembly.

In the last six days alone, 22 persons have been killed in clashes between Negroes and police in East London and Kimberley, two churches have been burned in East London, and Negroes staged a paralyzing 24-hour protest strike in Port Elizabeth.

Chapter Six

It was long past sundown. Now and then they were split by the white sabers of lightning and a moment later the low growl of thunder rolled across the valley to echo faintly in the breezeway of Dex's cabin.

"I'm right sorry to have you puttin' out tomorrow, Clay. Looks like there's weather building' up that might make mighty miserable travelin'."

"I know, Dex, but I want to get on down south where it's cotton country. I may not like it after I get there, but I want to see it."

He broke off abruptly and strode across the breezeway to the edge of the low-eaved front veranda. Someone was running down the trail toward the cabin a shadowy, unreal figure moving through alternate patches of moonlight and shadow. Instinctively Clay loosened the pistol that hung in his belt, and as if in answer to a summons Dex jumped up and hurried forward to stand beside him. Without a word Clay indicated the running figure.

As they watched they saw him stumble, struggle desperately to stay erect, and then collapse.

Almost before he fell Clay was running forward, his gun ready in his hand, Dex's heavier footsteps pounding along behind him. The runner had fallen in a patch of moonlight, and as Clay knelt beside him and rolled him face upward they could see that he was a boy hardly into his teens. His stock of yellow hair fell back from his face and his mouth opened as his lungs labored and gasped for breath.

"Why, good God!" Dex's voice was sharp with amazement. "It's Paddy O'Neill! Paddy, wnat's wrong, boy? Paddy?"

The boy opened his eyes as if the sound of his name had roused them. They got Pa an' Ma an' th' younguns tied up in th' cabin. His chest heaved as he struggled for breath enough to speak. "They're—they're comin' back to burn it—soon as they get done with Toni."

"Toni!" Clay's voice was like a cracking whip. "Toni? What have they done with Toni?"

The boy shifted his agonized gaze to Clay and lifted an arm to point back along the trail. "Took her—Devil's Dishpan," he gasped.

"Gonna cowhide her, then burn th' cabin."

Clay's head snapped around so he could search Dex's face. Without realizing it, he closed his hand like a vise on Dex's shoulder.

"What is all this, Dex?"

Dex's face had gone as hard and grim as a rock. "Part of Buck's old outfit. They're takin' it out on th' O'Neills for th' ruckus they had with Toni down at th' store."

Clay was on his feet, as tense and dangerous as a drawn sword. "You know how to get to this Devil's Dishpan?"

Dex nodded. "I know. We'll get the horses."

There was no time to saddle the two horses. A bit in their mouths, a kick in their flanks, and they were gone. Dex led the way at a reckless gallop and that took no heed of the treacherous trail beneath his horse's hoofs.

They swept past a darkened cabin and Clay half caught the words Dex tossed over his shoulder.

"O'Neill's place. All right so far."

Half a mile farther up the road Dex reined in his mount and was on the ground almost before the horse had stopped. In the same instant Clay was beside him, his voice a grim whisper in the night. "Near here?"

"Off th' trail about half a mile. Might be able to surprise 'em if we go up on foot."

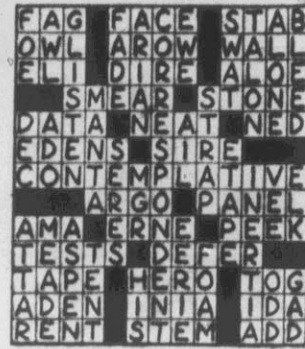

They moved forward through the tangle, Dex in the lead and Clay only a step behind him. He felt Dex's hand against his chest and in obedience to the warning he grew grimly silent. Dex had dropped to the ground, and as Clay allowed his example they began to work their way silently forward. They were on a rising slope of ground, and as they neared the top Clay could see the pale flicker of moonlight through the trees. Scarcely daring to breathe, they reached the fringe of the timber, and suddenly they were looking down into a natural amphitheatre that was brilliant with the white blanket of moonlight.

It was like looking down upon a sunken stage—but a stage where a drama of naked savagery was being played. A half-dozen men

Clay heard the whisper of Dex's voice against his ear: "Mort Birgin. I figured he'd be ramroddin' this show."

Grade School Projects Go On Blackboards

At the end of six weeks of work, students in the primary and elementary grades of the Fountain Negro School had lined their blackboards, bulletin boards, and walls with pictures and drawings of each of the grades' projects. In the top photo the second grade students of Mrs. Henrietta Richardson display their project on domestic animals; fourth grade students of Mrs. Ada B. Sugg (second photo) studied wild animals; and the seventh grade students of Mrs. B. J. Redden drew an example of pioneer life on the blackboard. (Reflector Photos by Muriel Shotwell)

Communist Hero Flees Westward

He was given a $630 bonus and West Berlin two days before the Communist East German Premier Otto Grotewohl wrote him a letter of congratulations. But, it was revealed today, Willy and his wife and two children, fled to West Berlin two days before the award was made.

Morris S. Clary, President of the Coastal Conference, and Charles E. Spencer, Chairman of the State Advisory Committee on Athletics, get together for a chat prior to a meeting of conference officials here last night.

Coastal Conference Gets Two New Members For 1953

Ayden High Cancels All Conference Games Including Championship Title Because Of Ineligible Player

The Coastal Conference welcomed two new members into the conference last night at their annual season meeting in Greenville.

G. H. Baker of Jamesville and James Parker of Snow Hill, representatives of the two schools, applied for membership in the conference and were unanimously accepted. Jamesville and Snow Hill will begin conference participation next September.

Representatives from South Edinboro, Farmville, Ayden, Robersonville and Vanceboro heard Charles E. Spencer, chairman of the State Advisory Committee on Athletics, explain and interpret controversial athletic rules designated by the State Athletic Board.

Long discussions ensued on eligibility rules of students moving from one school district to another and whether girls and boys teams are allowed to play 26 basketball games instead of 20, provided the school does not have a football program.

Mr. Spencer said that his interpretation of the rule would be that girls and boys teams are allowed to play 26 games provided the school does not participate in football. He added, however, that he would present the issue to the state athletic board for an official ruling.

Another conference issue resulted in Ayden relinquishing the Coastal Conference football title and forfeiting all conference games.

An Ayden student who had assumed that he and his parents would move to Ayden enrolled at that high school and reported for football. He was allowed to play by Coach Stuart Tripp who was under the impression that the boy would be eligible since he had enrolled at the beginning of the school year and would soon be a resident of Ayden.

The conference ruled, however, that regulations provide the player, under the rules provided by the state and conference, to be ineligible.

In accordance with the ruling Tripp immediately canceled all conference games played this year. Farmville, runnerup to Ayden in conference games, was designed to assume the conference championship.

Bleeding profusely, Hayes caught his rival with a bruising right high on the head. DeJohn toppled forward. He bounced up after a nine count only to be driven down twice more, the last time for keeps.

DeJohn had opened the cut above Hayes' eye with a driving left in the second round. Dr. Joseph K. Cahalan examined the wound and allowed Hayes to continue.

It was another brilliant victory in the short career of Hayes, since DeJohn had scored a TKO over Irish Bob Murphy less than two months ago.

Buckley figured Hayes' could knock out Humez in the rematch. He dropped a 10-round decision to the Frenchman at Paris earlier this year although Humez was on the canvas three times. Humez currently ranks third among the world's middleweights, one notch above Hayes.

Phants Play Final Game Friday Night

Norman Hayes In Line For Title After TKO Win

DETROIT (UP)—A trip to Paris for a return match with Charlie Humez was next on the schedule for Norman Hayes, young middleweight who scored a technical knockout over Joey DeJohn in the third round here Wednesday night.

Johnny Buckley, manager of the 21-year-old New England boxer, discounted talk of a title bout with Ray Robinson in the near future. "Norman will be the next middleweight champion all right," Buckley said. "But he won't hit his stride for another year. Right now he's the best middleweight around besides Robinson."

Hayes, who weighed 160 1-2, overcame a deep gash over his right eye to send DeJohn, 24, of Syracuse, N. Y., to the canvas three times in the third round. DeJohn, a light heavyweight, weighed 165.

DeJohn had opened the cut above Hayes' eye with a driving left in the second round. Dr. Joseph K. Cahalan examined the wound and allowed Hayes to continue.

It was another brilliant victory in the short career of Hayes, since DeJohn had scored a TKO over Irish Bob Murphy less than two months ago.

Phantoms Go Into Last Game Of The Season With No Injured Players

The Greenville Phantoms took advantage yesterday of the first fair day this week as they went through an extended practice session featuring a new offensive style to be used Friday night against Roanoke Rapids in their final game of the season.

Aware that a win over the Yellow Jackets will clinch a tie for second place and possibly first place in the conference standings, the Phants were in high spirits as they romped through the rough drills.

"I didn't intend for the boys to do any contact work this week," said Coach Bill Kittrell, continuing, "but they are so eager and confident after the Elizabeth City victory that they are carrying out blocking assignments on their own."

Pat Sawyer is back in heavy gear and ready for full time duty against Roanoke Rapids. Sawyer's aerial potshots, combined with the running of Bobby Perry and Guy Smith, give the Phantoms a devastating attack that is comparable to any team in the conference.

For the first time since early season the Phants will go into a game without a single injured player. Larry Powell, freshman tackle who came through brilliantly when the injury jinx hit the Phants in mid-season, has a bruised knee, but will be ready for action Friday night.

Perry, Smith, and James Speight looked very impressive during yesterday's drills and they will be counted on for a large load of the offensive burden against Roanoke Rapids.

Hal Edwards, Bobby Conway, Tommy Smith, Dixie Hogwood, Perry, G. Smith, and Bobby Langston will be counted on for offensive and defensive duty against the Yellow Jackets.

The Sport Reflector

By JIMMY ELLIS, Reflector Sports Writer

Somehow or other, there seems to be an impression making the rounds which insinuates that East Carolina is playing "just another ball club" Saturday night in their final game of the year. We honestly hope that there aren't any sports fans who believe that because it couldn't be farther from the truth.

The idea about West Virginia Tech seems to have gotten underway simply because they were added after the season was launched. It's true that the Bears were not on the original schedule and were added only when it became evident that East Carolina and Cherry Point would be unable to fulfill their plans.

The Bears have tried to get on East Carolina's schedule for a long time. We remember seeing a letter last year from Tech's Director of Athletics which requested a game. Contract obligations prohibited them immediately but they were the first team to be contacted when Cherry Point asked to be relieved.

To explode the myth about Tech being "just another ball club" all one has to do is take a look—even a fleeting glance—at their record. This year, they've won six and lost two. Thus far, last year, they were seven and three. In 1950, they had a 6-3-1 record. In 1949, they had their best season with an 8-1 record. They won the championship of the West Virginia Intercollegiate Conference that year.

They haven't played namby-pamby ball clubs, either. They pick their opponents from the toughest they can find: Emory and Henry, Morris-Harvey, California (Pa.), Teachers, Slippery Rock, and others of the same caliber.

This year, only Emory and Henry and Morris-Harvey have been able to beat Tech. Emory and Henry did it in Bristol, Va., and Morris-Harvey did it in Charleston, West Virginia. No one has beaten Tech on its home field in Montgomery, West Virginia.

As is the case with every ball club, good or bad, Tech has some outstanding individual players although they have built their reputation on being a good TEAM. Perhaps the most outstanding of the individuals is Walter Rapko, a halfback who is the team's leading scorer and an All-Conference player for two years.

Rapko, the right halfback, is a 185-pound senior who does the team's punting, does the bulk of the running, and handles some of the passing. He's the second leading ground-gainer on the team. Freshman fullback Delmar Dixon is the ### number one man in that department.

The Bears have very skillfully pulled the same trick which has accounted for most of East Carolina's success this year: a clever blending of freshmen and veteran players. Most of their starters are seniors but the second-string men are freshmen and have played almost as much football as the starters.

We aren't trying to paint a gloomy picture for East Carolina but darned if we don't hate for sports fans to go around with the wrong idea about the foe for Saturday night. There's an old saying about football opponents which might be well-remembered right now: "you don't ever under-rate an opponent." That includes West Virginia Tech.

There has been no further word from any quarter about the reported "feeler" extended to East Carolina about their position on bowl games. If you will remember, there was report at the first of the week which said that the Pirates had definitely been approached by sponsors of one of the January 1 games. When the report first came out, there was, understandably, a distinct quietness in ECC's athletic department.

If the invitation has been extended, acceptance will probably hinge on the outcome of Saturday night's game with Tech. If the Bucos win, there is the possibility of their receiving a formal invitation. If they lose, there's still a chance but it would be a slim one.

The name of the bowl still hasn't been announced and probably won't be unless the Pirates receive a formal invitation. We have it on good authority, however, that it is one of the more outstanding of the January 1 affairs.

Duke Will Play 22 Cage Games

DURHAM (AP)—A 22-game basketball schedule, including 16 Southern Conference tussles, has been announced for the Duke University Blue Devils this season.

The Dukes also will be one of the North Carolina teams in the Dixie Classic at Raleigh Dec. 29-31, meeting Brigham Young in the opening game.

Eleven games have been scheduled for the Duke Indoor Gym and 11 have been booked away from Durham. Outstanding newcomer to Coach Hal Bradley's 1952-53 card is Vanderbilt, a Southeastern Conference team.

The Blue Devils won 24 games and lost six last season, and were runnerup for the Southern Conference title.

Foundation Help For Young Boxers

NEW YORK (UP)—Chairman Bob Christenberry of the New York Boxing Commission announced today he would try to establish a million-dollar foundation in the Empire State to help develop young professional fighters.

As he made the announcement, Christenberry said he was elated at the election triumph of his close friend General Eisenhower but he was seriously concerned over the decrease of commercial scrapers in his state.

"Ten years ago, we had nearly 3,000 licensed professional boxers in New York state," said the debonair hotel executive who lost his right arm in World War I. "But today we have less than 300. We have between 200 and 300, depending upon the number who have passed their last physical examinations."

What caused this terrific 90 per cent decrease? "Television," said Christenberry as he sat behind his desk in the executive office of the Astor Hotel. "Television has closed up so many small clubs that there is no place for the novice professional to learn his trade. When an amateur turns professional now, there is no way he can earn a living during his four-round and perhaps six-round days. That's why the amateurs are hanging up their gloves instead of turning pro, and that's why so many young professionals have deserted the ring and gone to work."

NO BOWL GAME
University of Oklahoma's chances of playing in a New Year's day bowl game vanished today, after faculty representatives of the Big Seven voted to retain a conference rule against participation in a post-season game.

Holy Cross Gets Orange Bowl Bid

WORCESTER, Mass. (UP)—Powerful Holy Cross, with the East's leading passer, was widely mentioned today as a candidate team for a post-season bowl game—possibly the Orange Bowl at Miami, Fla.—New Year's Day.

The streaking Crusaders, boasting a needle-eye aerial assault thumbed by Chuckin' Charlie Maloy, have taken six of their first seven games and gridiron guessers think they will win their last three.

Most frequently mentioned of possible Holy Cross opponents was once-defeated Florida, which has fallen only before the juggernaut of Georgia Tech. The Crusaders' only loss was to Syracuse, which nipped them by one point three weeks ago.

Holy Cross, the top team in New England and one of the few in the region which would accept a bowl bid, last was in the Orange Bowl in 1945 when a strong Miami team downed them 13-6.

Maloy, a 20-year-old senior from Rochester, N. Y., completed his second mile of total offense during his college football career Saturday when he pitched for 119 yards against Colgate, the tightest pass defense team in eastern intercollegiate circles.

Jockey Is Modern Horatio Alger

NEW YORK (UP)—Tiny Tony DeSpirito is making a bum out of Horatio Alger today.

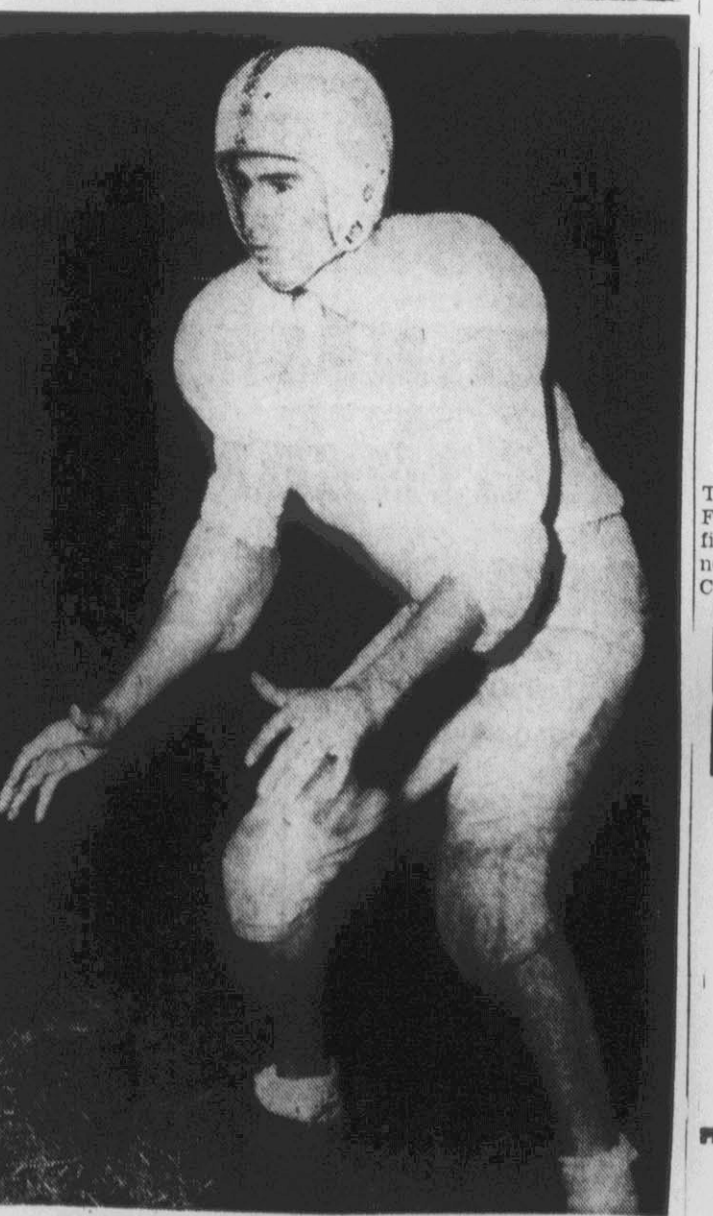

"Horatio, you'll remember if you so back as far as the Model-T Ford, was the rag-to-riches dreamer of the literary bridge. His never-varied theme conquering hero who always overcame all obstacles to wind up with the lady and the loot.

But it was a long, agonizing struggle before justice was joyously triumphant.

Tony, the nation's leading jockey, is doing in one chapter everything Horatio did in a whole book. And it has all the frills, too.

For instance, this underized son of a poor textile mill worker was grounded twice early this year for riding "incompetently."

As of today, the Massachusetts midget has ridden 32 winners. If he rides 47 more in 42 remaining racing days—and who's to say he won't—he'll break the all-time record of 388 winners in one year.

DOUG MORGAN—Outstanding on defense for the Phantoms, Morgan began the year as an offensive back but was switched to defensive end because of his ability to diagnose plays quickly and stop them with driving tackles.

Bethel Is Ready To Defend County Title

The Bethel High Indians, county champions for seven of the past eight years, have only two returning starters from last year's squad.

Robert Nelson and B. B. Tetterton are back from last year's championship squad along with letterman Larry Tetterton, Michael House and Dalton Council.

Bradley Gray, Bill Latham, Dan Anderson, Carlton Keel and Sherwood White saw some duty last year and are being counted on heavily by Coach Walter Latham this year.

Out for the team for the first time this year are Marshall Tetterton, Bryan Latham, Durwood White, Dalton Briley and Sammy T. Carson.

Brooklyn Places Six On All-Star Baseball Team

NEW YORK (UP)—Brooklyn walked off today with six of the 10 spots on the annual United Press National League All-Star team. Two others went to the St. Louis Cardinals and one each to the Philadelphia Phillies and Chicago Cubs.

As usual, Stan The Man Musial of the Cards was a unanimous choice. The premier slugger was the only man to be named on all ballots of the 24-man selection board composed of three veteran baseball writers from each league city.

Robin Roberts of the Phils, the first National League pitcher to win 28 games since Dizzy Dean did it for St. Louis in 1935, was named on all but one ballot.

Third baseman Billy Cox and catcher Roy Campanella of the have a combined size about Dodgers each missed on only two.

The other Dodgers named were outfielder Duke Snider, rookie pitcher Joe Black, first baseman Gil Hodges, and shortstop Pee-wee Reese. Second baseman Red Schoendienst of the Cardinals and outfielder Hank Sauer of the Cubs completed the team.

Musial walked off with most of the hitting honors, leading in batting with .336, with most hits, 194, most runs scored, 106, and most doubles, 42. Sauer, belatedly rising as a consistent long ball hitter, paced both major leagues in runs-batted-in with 121 and tied Ralph Kiner of Pittsburgh for home run honors with 37. Reese, despite his many years of campaigning, still was spry enough to steal the most bases, 30, while Roberts was tops in both leagues by a big margin in pitching victories.

Most of the All-Stars were such standouts that there wasn't much close competition in the voting. Sauer, who had a respectable .270 batting mark to go with his slugging proficiency, was a second choice to Musial in the outfield and Snider, who batted .303 and hit 21 homers, gained the third berth ahead of veteran Enos Slaughter, the comeback star of the Cardinals.

The Portuguese colonies of Mozambique and Angola in Africa have a combined size about five times that of California.

Pirates Step Up Tempo Of Drill For West Virginia

Dwight Shoe To Play Both Offense, Defense

J. D. Bradford Counted Out Of Final Game Of Year With Powerful Tech Team Which Has 6-2 Record

A full-scale scrimmage session was the order of the day yesterday for the East Carolina Pirates as they stepped up the tempo of their preparations for their final game of the season Saturday night against a strong West Virginia Tech team.

All but the injured members of the Pirate squad took part in the workout yesterday as Head Coach Jack Boone and Line Coach Clyde Biggers continued to work on the problem of finding a defense which will stop Tech's powerful ground game. The Pirate coaches experimented with several combinations yesterday but only one change for Saturday's game was announced.

That one change will come at right end on defense where Dwight Shoe will hold forth in place of the injured J. D. Bradford. Shoe, an All-Conference selection and the Pirates' Little All-America candidate, has been working mostly on offense this year with Bradford doing the defensive job. Bradford, however, went out of action last week in the Steison game and hasn't been able to return to duty because of an injured knee.

The rest of the Pirate injured are expected to be able to see at least limited action against the Golden Bears. Fullback Claude King saw enough action last week to score a touchdown and will probably be used sparingly this week. Bobby Strickland's injured hip is much improved as is Dick Cherry's rib injury. Buddy Cannady, out with an injury similar to that of Strickland, is still something of a question mark.

The contest Saturday night will be the final regular season game for nine members of the East Carolina squad and nine members of the West Virginia team. The Pirates' seniors are ends Dwight Shoe and Red Painter, tackle Bill McDonald, guard Doc Smith, center Frank Madigan, quarterback Sandy Siler, and halfbacks Illard Yarborough and Jack Benzie, and Hawk Grissom.

In practice yesterday, the Pirates were warned again of the power of their opponent for Saturday night. Thus far the Golden Bears have defeated West Liberty, Davis-Elkins, Fairmont, Concord, Akron, and California Teachers (the team defeated by Lenoir-Rhyne in last year's Pythian Bowl). They've lost only to Morris-Harvey and Emory and Henry. The Bears have one of the nation's most outstanding runners in halfback Walt Rapko, the leading scorer last year in the West Virginia Intercollegiate Conference. Rapko is a triple-threat in that he handles the team's punting, is the leading ground-gainer on the squad, and does some of the passing. He has been an All-Conference player for the last two years.

There are still some tickets available for the game Saturday night. The tickets will be on sale throughout the remainder of the week in the Athletic Office at the college. All unsold tickets will be placed on sale Saturday night at the gates.

Vic Seixas Will Defend Net Title

SYDNEY, Australia (UP)—Vic Seixas of Philadelphia was the center of attraction today as the important New South Wales tennis tournament got underway on the White City courts.

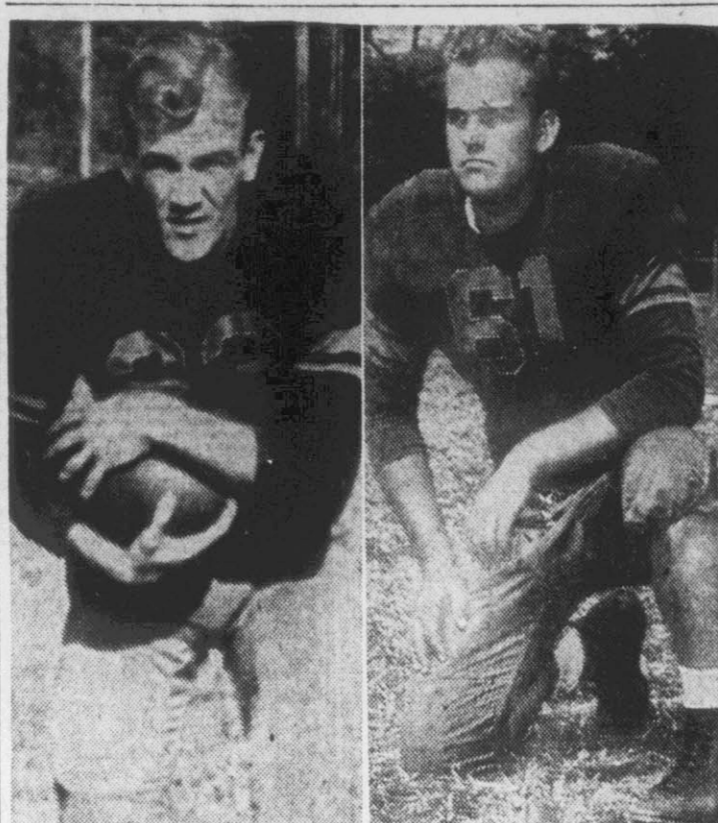

The 29-year-old American is the defending champion in this tournament but, more than that, he is playing captain of the United States Davis Cup team and figures as the key player in the U. S. bid to regain the cup from Australia.

"If Seixas wins this tournament, Australia will have a formidable opponent for the challenge round," said Adrian Quist, for many years star of Aussie cup squads.

Seixas, however, faces a stiff task in defense of his crown. In his half of the draw are such Aussie stalwarts as lefty Mervyn Rose, whom he conquered in last year's final, Aussie champion Ken McGregor, and Geoffrey Brown. In the other half are tournament favorite Frank Sedgman and young stars Lewis Hoad and Ken Rosewall.

Also entered in the tournament is Straight Clark of Pasadena, Calif., and Seixas and Clark will team in doubles.

Wednesday, Alrick H. Man Jr., manager of the U. S. cup team, said that Tony Trabert of Cincinnati, U. S. star now serving in the Navy, is expected to leave for Australia on Dec. 1 to compete in the interzone Davis Cup final against the Italy-India series winner at Sydney, Dec. 18-20.

THESE TWO men have been largely responsible for the six victories chalked up this season by West Virginia Tech. Rapko, a two-time All-Conference halfback, is Tech's leading scorer while Brandt, a 210-pound defensive tackle, has been the number-one workhorse in the line.

College Stars Run So Kids May Walk

By OSCAR FRALEY United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP)—A bunch of football players will walk into a San Francisco hospital next month proud in their strength and their straightness and come out with a limp transformed into a crusade.

They are the college seniors who will play in the East-West Shrine game at Kezar Stadium on Dec. 27—a contest called "a game as great as its cause."

Every year it is a great game, too, mostly because of the kids for whom it is played. They're the children in the San Francisco Shrine Hospital for crippled children. And one of the pre-game ceremonies for the competing squads is a trip to the hospital.

"They look at you, those kids, with eyes as big as dinner plates," one player said. "They make you feel like Santa Claus, Roy Rogers and Superman all wrapped up in one."

Small wonder that they come out of there, those football players—just another football game. To them it becomes more than that, says wrinkled but effervescent Andy Kerr, the former Colgate and Lebanon Valley coach who acts in an advisory capacity for the East. "The West had players like Hugh McElhenny, Ollie Matson and Bill Howton, all of whom have made good this year as pros."

"But we beat 'em," chortled Andy, "even if it was only 15-14. You could feel the difference when our kids came out of the hospital after their visit to the wards." Andy recalled. "The game had a new meaning. Every one of those boys probably played greater football than he ever had before. That's why we have a game as great as its cause."

Ancient Andy is in the process now of scouting players who will be invited to compete in this year's classic before a sellout 62,000 at Kezar Stadium in San Francisco. It is a difficult chore, particularly because of the two-plateau system.

"We have to pick an offensive and a defensive team," he explained. "I had in mind two offensive ends, but both played right end. And it's hard to get senior punters and place kickers. Also, the competition is rough because of the rival Blue-Gray and North-South games."

But come Dec. 27, Andy will have a fine team out there under the guidance of Michigan State's Biggie Munn, Illinois' Ray Elliot and Holy Cross' Dr. Eddie Anderson to send against a western team coached by Washington's Howie Odell, Stanford's Chuck Taylor andansas' J. V. Sikes. As usual, it will be a bone cruncher. Because after that trip through the wards, the gridiron guys will be running harder than ever before so that those big-eyed kids in the hospital can walk.

Notre Dame Rate Under M. State

NEW YORK (UP)—The odds-makers, apparently unimpressed by Notre Dame's surprise victory over Oklahoma last week, have installed the Irish as a 13-point underdog for Saturday's meeting with top-ranked Michigan State.

Although Notre Dame appears to be improving with each game, the wizards of odds obviously feel the Irish are in line for their second straight trouncing by Michigan State. Last year the Spartans played their best game of the season against the Irish as they posted a 35-0 triumph.

Three other major unbeaten teams also were picked to win by at least two touchdowns this weekend. Georgia Tech was favored by 14 over Alabama in their nationally televised game, Maryland was 14 over Mississippi and Southern California was 14 over Washington.

Michigan, meanwhile, was made a one-point choice over Purdue in a game which may decide the Big Ten's representative in the Rose Bowl, while Oklahoma was a 20-point pick over Missouri in their battle for the Big Seven crown.

In other top games, Texas is seven over Texas Christian, Illinois is seven over Ohio State, Princeton 13 over Yale, Tulsa is 13 over Detroit, and Duke is seven over Wake Forest.

Other odds for the weekend: East: Boston College one over Xavier, Fordham 6 over Temple, Penn State 14 over Rutgers, Syracuse 14 over Colgate, Navy 14 over Columbia, Penn 7 over Army, Harvard 19 over Brown.

Midwest: Minnesota 6 over Nebraska, Northwestern 13 over Iowa, Kansas 13 over Oklahoma A M, Miami of Ohio 13 over Dayton, Wisconsin 14 over Indiana, Cincinnati 21 over Washington Lee.

South: Mississippi State 6 over Louisiana State, Georgia 10 over Auburn, South Carolina 13 over North Carolina, Tennessee 13 over Florida, Kentucky one over Clemson, West Virginia 21 over Virginia Tech.

Southwest: Baylor 6 over Houston, Texas A M 6 over Rice, Southern Methodist 7 over Arkansas.

NCAA Decides On Changes In Rules For Basketball

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UP)—The National Collegiate Athletic Association announced today it is preparing major changes in its annual basketball tournament which will shorten the season, reduce post-season competition and strengthen its conferences.

Walter Byers, NCAA executive director, and Arthur C. (Dutch) Lonborg, University of Kansas athletic director and chairman of the NCAA Basketball Tournament Committee, jointly announced a four-point plan to improve the tournament. They are:

1. Advance the dates of the tournament by one week. Regional games for 1953 would be held March 13-14 and the finals, March 17-18.
2. Limit eligibility for the NCAA tournament each year to teams which compete in no other tournament after the close of their regularly scheduled playing season.
3. Increase the number of conferences whose champions will automatically qualify for the tournament.
4. Expand the tournament bracket to enable more member institutions to qualify for it.

Byers and Lonborg emphasized that these plans are dependent upon any recommendations which might come from the NCAA's Extra Events Committee and are subject to any actions voted by the annual NCAA convention at Washington, D. C., next Jan. 8-10. The Extra Events Committee is making a survey of post-season competition.

The plan to limit tournament teams to NCAA member institutions in good standing which restrict their post-season basketball appearances to one tournament is a key clause. It closely parallels an existing NCAA regulation covering post-season competition.

The statement said the council and Executive Committee "heartily endorse" the features of the plan which will strengthen the conference organizations. Byers pointed out that strengthening of conferences is one of the NCAA's primary objectives and said another plan to more fully develop them will be announced soon.

The 1952 tournament involved 16 teams and the competition began with four regional tournaments with the quartet of regional winners playing off for the national championship. Of the 16 teams, 10 conference champions automatically qualified for the tournament.

These were the Eastern Intercollegiate Basketball League (Ivy), Southern, Southeastern, Big Ten, Big Seven, Missouri Valley, Southwest, Border, Mountain States and Pacific Coast conferences.

It is expected that such conferences as the Rocky Mountain, Mid-American, New England Association, Mid-Atlantic, and possibly, the New York Metropolitan League, will be added to this list. Lonborg and Byers said the exact size of the expanded field and the complete list of additional conferences which would qualify their champions for the competition will be announced later.

Southern Conference Title May Be Decided Saturday

Shantz Named All 'Most Valuable'

By FRED DOWN United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP)—Bobby Shantz, the fourth-place Philadelphia Athletics' 142-pound mound giant, was named the American League's Most Valuable Player of 1951 today by the Baseball Writers' Association of America.

Shantz, who is the first pitcher to win the American League award since Hal Newhouser won it in 1945 and the first member of the Athletics since Jimmy Foxx in 1933, will be awarded the Kenesaw Mountain Landis Plaque. He compiled a season's record of 24-7 before suffering a broken ulna bone in his left wrist when struck by a pitch by Washington's Wall Masterson on Sept. 23.

Shantz, who was ridiculed as being too small when he began his baseball career in 1948, was the overwhelming choice of the writers. He was named on 23 of the 24 ballots, received 16 first-place votes, four second-place votes and one each for third, fourth and sixth.

On the basis of 14 points for a first-place vote, nine for second, eight for third and so on down to one for 10th, the 27-year-old left hander received a total of 280 points.

Allie Reynolds, fireballing 20-game winner of the world championship New York Yankees, was Shantz' closest competitor in the balloting with 183 points. Outfielder Mickey Mantle of the Yankees was third with 143 points and catcher Yogi Berra, also of the world champions and the league's Most Valuable Player in 1951, was fourth with 104.

Reynolds was named first on four ballots, Mantle on three and Nelson Fox, second baseman of the Chicago White Sox, on one. Fox, however, was named on 2 of 20 ballots and finished only seventh in the overall voting with 59 points. No player was named on all 24 ballots.

Behind the fourth-place Berra in the voting came pitcher Early Wynn of the Cleveland Indians with 99 points; first baseman Ferris Fain of the Athletics, the American League batting champion, with 66; Fox; and three members of the Indians—pitcher Bob Lemon with 58, pitcher Mike Garcia with 52 and third baseman Al Rosen with 51.

In addition to leading the league in victories, Shantz topped the circuit in won-and-lost percentage with .774, pitched 280 innings, struck out 152, pitched 27 complete games and hurled five shutouts.

Shantz, a native of Pottstown, Pa., started his baseball career with the encouragement of his father—one of the few who thought the pint-sized pitcher had a chance to make good—with Lincoln in the Western League in 1948. After an 18-7 season at Lincoln, he moved up to the Athletics and had a 6-8 record in 1949.

DURHAM, UP)—Halfback Red Smith remained on the doubtful list today as Duke Coach Bill Murray worked to regain the drive which carried the Blue Devils to early season victories.

Trainers expected offensive center Lou Tepe to be ready for Saturday's game against Wake Forest that will make decide the Southern Conference title. Defensive end Elbert Whitley missed practice yesterday because of a cut over his eye but is expected to play Saturday.

Murray groomed his offensive backfield on play timing and blocking yesterday as the attackers worked against the junior varsity. The defensive club also got a rugged workout in the lengthy drill that continued under lights after sundown.

WAKE FOREST, (UP)—Starting center Tom Donahue joined halfback Billy Churm in the Wake Forest infirmary with a case of flu today but coach Tom Rogers expected to have both in Saturday's lineup against Duke.

The offensive and defensive squads ran 45-minute scrimmages against the Jayvees yesterday as Rogers stressed all phases of play.

CHAPEL HILL, (UP)—The bruised and battered Tar Heels of the University of North Carolina continued only light workouts today for their grid game Saturday with South Carolina.

With almost all his halfback sidelined with injuries, Coach Carl Snavely moved up freshman Flo Worrell to the offensive unit yesterday for a light drill.

Snavely said fullback Harold (Bull) Davidson may also get to see some action against the Gamecocks. Davidson was stricken with polio recently but returned for heavy workouts yesterday.

RALEIGH, (UP)—John Zubaty stepped in at halfback yesterday for star ground-gainer Alex Webster as the North Carolina State Wolfpack ran-through a hard drill in preparation for Pittsburgh.

Webster came down with an upset stomach yesterday but was expected to be recovered in time for the Pittsburgh trip tomorrow.

Freshman quarterback Archie Faires acted out the part of Pitt star Rudy Mattiola and rifled passes out into the Wolfpack secondary. The defenders managed to down most of them, but appeared somewhat confused by the single-wing attack which Pitt is expected to use.

ON THE HOUSE

By DAVID G. BAREUTHER, AP Real Estate Editor

Since the fire alarm type of doorbell gave way to the buzzer, and since so many electrical appliances in the modern home try to imitate the sound of a buzzer, it seems that visitors at the front door must now be heralded with the chiming formality of a station announcement on the radio. The ladies of the household hint that the only way a true handy man can keep up with the modern trend is to install chimes.

This isn't as awesome a project as it sounds. No steeplejack work is necessary. Your electrical dealer or any big hardware store can supply you with chimes that make the ladies hear the Riverside carillon every time the grocery boy comes.

And these chimes are as easy to install as a doorbell. A screw driver, a wiring diagram that comes with the chimes and the right size wire and transformer not only make the chimes chime, but make you feel like an electrical engineer.

The right materials, however, are very important. A buzzer transformer, for example, just won't do the job with a good set of chimes. A buzzer transformer is generally satisfactory when rated at 6 volts and from 3 1/2 to 5 watts. A chime transformer should be able to produce about 10 volts and rate from 5 to 10 watts.

Most chime transformers are plainly stamped "chime," but another quick clue is the price, which is relatively stable between $1.60 and $2.25 for good chime transformers. Transformers with price tags of less than $1.60 are usually buzzer transformers. One builder erecting 400 houses thought he found a bargain in transformers at $1.25, but after installation his chimes wouldn't work. He found he had buzzer transformers for 400 houses. The replacement cost including labor came to almost $5 apiece.

Another builder ran into trouble by substituting steel wire for copper. He thought, and almost anyone would think, that doorbell current is so weak that the type of wire shouldn't be important. Well it isn't, if you want to send enough current through it to overcome the resistance. You could probably use German silver wire if you wanted to burn your house down, since resistance spells heat in wires.

However, that builder was lucky. He was able to get enough current through his steel wires by using a larger capacity transformer, but he had to buy those bigger transformers.

It is interesting to note that nothing but No. 18 copper wire is recommended by J. Ralph Corbett, president of NuTone, Inc., of Cincinnati, one of the largest manufacturers of door chimes. This size permits the use of safe transformers, keeps power loss down and is easy to connect to all terminals.

Probably the most important detail in the installation of door chimes is the push button. If you ever were embarrassed by your automobile horn refusing to stop blowing, you know how sensitive the push button gadget can be. In the case of the door chimes, an inferior push button can become shorted the same as an auto horn on a non-stop spree and it can damage both the chimes and the transformer. So it's false economy to buy any but a quality button, since the difference in price is chicken feed.

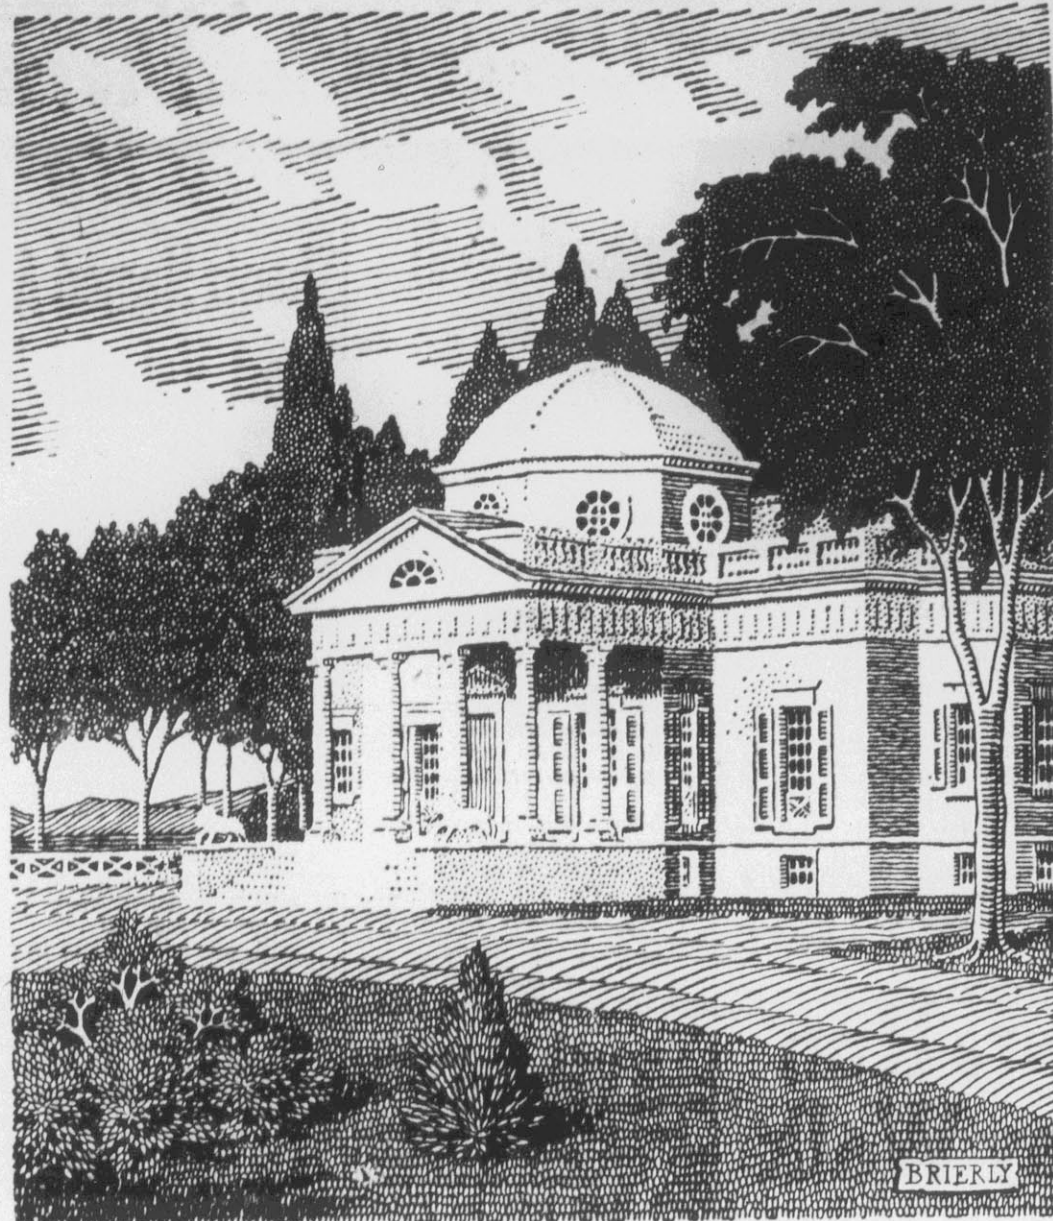

As for the chimes, select them for style and appearance, loudness required in the house and for size in relation to the place you plan to put them. The only working part in door chimes is the striker so difference in price hinges largely on tone, finish and ornamentation.

The basic idea of chimes, though, is a subtlety and plan to notice that somebody's at the door without waking the baby or scaring you out of your wits. In a rambling one-story house, if you can't hear the chimes in a room on the other side of the acre it usually is better to install two sets rather than torture the ear drums of a persons passing near them.

One of the nicest developments in chimes is an arrangement where they ring two or three notes for the front door and only one note for the back door.

From experience it can be said that door chimes are as good natured when it comes to constant working order as they are in the matter of sound. The only attention they might need is a clean-

Monticello stands on a high hill, two miles south of Charlottesville. In the past, this hill was called "Jefferson's little mountain," commanding as it does a magnificent view of the surrounding country. When a young man, Jefferson was a keen student of architecture as well as law and on this hill, he decided to build a mansion. While the build was in the process of erection, the family home, "Shadwell," nearby, where Jefferson was born and which he had inherited upon his father's death, burned to the ground in 1770. Fortunately, one room in the new house was sufficiently finished for occupancy and, within this room as parlour, bed-room and study, Jefferson was able to superintend, at close hand, the completion of his residence and the lay out of the formal arden, both of which have been carefully restored and are now visited by thousands.

Cleaning is done carefully with a dab of cleaning fluid, naphtha, lighter fluid or fine steel wool, avoiding any strain on the springs. The mechanism is never oiled.

Six Cats Hook Ride On A Train

GLENDIVE, Mont. AP)—Six naughty "hobos" hooked a ride out of town on the tender of a freight engine. They were unusual bums with long hair and whiskers. "I'm sure there are no regulations for lidding them from riding a tender," a railroad man said. "But I don't know what recourse would be open to them if they were forcibly ejected."

Cases Heard In City Police Court

In Police Court yesterday, Judge Charles H. Whedbee found Elijah H. Braxton, guilty of contempt of court and sentenced him to 10 days in jail.

Braxton had been found guilty last October 15 of careless and reckless driving. The court gave him a 90-day suspended jail sentence, ordered him not to drive for six months and to remain of good behavior for a year. When Braxton came into court yesterday the judge promptly gave him 10 days in jail to "think it over."

In the case of Willie James Harris, teen-age Negro school bus driver, charged with improper backing of his vehicle, Judge Whedbee continued judgment and ordered the defendant not to drive for six months unless he makes restitution to John L. Braxton, 22, of Route 3, Ayden, for damage to his car.

Jesse Holden, Negro, driving drunk, 60 days in jail, suspended on payment of $100 and costs. The court recommended that his driver's license be revoked for a year.

Frederick M. Stokes, improper left turn, $5 on court costs.

Henry C. Evans, speeding, 30 days in jail, suspended on payment of $15, and he is not to operate a motor vehicle for one week.

Curtis Landon, assault and assault on a female, 30 days in jail, suspended on condition that he remain of good behavior for six months.

Joseph B. Talton, non-support, six months in jail, sentence suspended on condition that he pay $15 a week for support of his child, and in addition, pay $50 by December 15.

Simon Junior Rouse, Negro youth, was found guilty of three charges of breaking, entering and larceny. The court gave him six months on the roads in each case.

Augustus Ray Moore, Negro youth, who was charged with breaking, entering and larceny, was found guilty of aiding and abetting in larceny and was given 30 days on the roads.

Stocks And Market Reports

NEW YORK (UP)—Prices moved in a narrow range on the stock exchange early today in quiet dealings.

Outside of a few high-priced oil equities, which showed declines of more than a point, changes throughout the list were small either way.

Dealings also were on a highly restricted basis. Sales in the first hour totaled 260,000 shares, compared with 360,000 in the same period yesterday.

In the high-priced petroleum, Texas Pacific Land Trust fell 4 points to 138. Standard Oil of Indiana was down 1 7/8 points to 72 7/8. Other oil shares moved irregularly.

Peoples Gas was a weak spot in a dull utility section. It dipped 1 5/8 points to 127.3-8.

Steel shares as a group displayed easier tendencies. Small declines were noted in Bethlehem Steel and U. S. Steel. Automotives were mixed.

Third Oil 'Crop' Is Said Possible

NEW YORK (AP)—Flooding wells with carbonated water and plenty of brine can bring a third crop of oil from Pennsylvania sands, reports J.N. Breston, director of the production research laboratory of the Pennsylvania Crude Oil Association.

The lower the temperature of the brine, Breston says, the bigger the crop. Carbon dioxide, either as gas or as "soda water," swells the oil volume as much as 50 percent, reduces density, viscosity and surface tension of the crude, tests have revealed.

Howitzer Will Be Used To Break Up Avalanches

DENVER (AP)—Colorado's highway department plans to mount two cannons on 11,992-foot Loveland Pass west of Denver to shoot down avalanches. The project is part of a widespread experiment on the pass to control snow slides.

The department disclosed Tuesday it has borrowed a 75-millimeter howitzer and a 105-millimeter howitzer from the national guard to use in the project.

A similar attempt to cause an avalanche to "run" with a howitzer several years ago failed. However, the department plans to use more scientific data to determine when the shells should be fired into the slides.

Lovelorn Slayer Given 150 Years

LAWRENCEVILLE, Ill. (UP)—A stern, outraged judge sentenced a Lovelorn insurance salesman to 150 years in prison and ordered the convicted murderer to spend the anniversary of his crime in solitary confinement each year.

Charles Petrach, who fired seven bullets into the body of the pretty high school librarian who loved him and then spurned him, stood silent, his face immobile, his arms folded, as Circuit Judge Ben Rovaldi read the sentence.

There was still no flicker of emotion on the defendant's face when the judge condemned him to brood over the crime alone in a darkened cell the third day of each September.

But his stepmother broke down and sobbed heavily.

Petrach changed his plea at the last minute Wednesday and pleaded guilty to murdering Georgine Lyon because she broke off their engagement.

When the 25-year-old salesman was captured after the crime, detectives found a stanza from Oscar Wilde's "The Ballad of Reading Gaol" folded carefully in his wallet. It read:

"Each man kills the thing he loves,
"By each let this be heard,
"Some do it with a bitter look,
"Some do it with a flattering word,
"The coward does it with a kiss,
"The brave man with a sword."
Rovaldi added the unusual extra punishment, designed to combine remorse with justice, at the request of Philip Benefiel, the prosecuting attorney.

Benefiel said Petrach "gave the victim no opportunity to meet her creator."

Built-In Alarm

LOS ANGELES (AP)—There's a new sleeping pill on the market that knocks you out, keeps you out for eight hours, and then wakes you up.

The pill with the built-in alarm clock feature has three layers of different drugs. The first layer is nembutal, which induces sleep; the second, butabarbital sodium, which maintains it, and the core is dextrotrine, which rings the bell in your brain after eight hours.

The pills are on display at the California Academy of General Practice Convention. They must be obtained by prescription.

Public School Vandalism Grows

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Vandalism and break-ins in public schools are increasing year by year, says a school official here.

City School Superintendent Omer Carmichael says there were 18 break-ins in city schools in September. In the year ending June, 1952, 262 break-ins occurred with damage amounting to $4,224. He also stated that 2,404 panes of glass were broken by vandals at 40 schools in the city during summer vacation.

Two Automobile Accidents Partly Caused By Mists

An early morning fog played a large role in two automobile accidents in the county today, both accidents occurring within one-half mile of each other.

The first accident occurred around 5:30 this morning on the County Home road when two cars collided head-on. Driving one car was Richard Earl Worthington, white, 25, of Route 2, Winterville, who was headed towards Greenville.

Both drivers said they could not see the center of the highway because of the fog.

There were no injuries but damage to Worthington's car was estimated at $200 and damage to Cannon's car amounted to $5.00.

Two hours later, on the same road, an International truck driven by Beck Pettaway, 30-year-old Negro of Conetoe, struck a Ford bus in the rear which was driven by George Stanley, Negro, 28, also of Conetoe.

Stanley, because of the fog, had pulled his bus partially off the road and stopped when the truck struck it. The driver of the truck told Patrolman Whitley he did not see the bus until just before he struck it.

Damage to both vehicles was estimated at $450 and there were no injuries. No charges were placed against either driver being that both vehicles belonged to the same man.

Accused Bear Killer Is Freed By Federal Jury

ASHEVILLE, N. C. (UP)—Mountain rangers living beside the Great Smoky Mountain National Park were happy today that one cattleman's trouble with the government over a bear was at an end.

There were cheers and smiles when a federal jury late yesterday acquitted cattleman Tom Alexander of charges of "taking the law into his hands" and killing a bear inside the sanctuary last May 25.

The publicized trial followed a period of smoldering discontent among the cattlemen who complained the bears slipped out of the national park, where they are protected by federal law, to kill their cattle.

The jury deliberated an hour and 45 minutes in deciding the government failed to prove the Haywood County rancher killed a bear on government property.

The one-day trial was marked by frequent outbursts of laughter as a parade of mountaineers testified for the defense that they did not see Alexander enter the park on the day the bear was killed.

Anderson, who pleaded innocent but did not take the stand, has claimed he saw the bear leaving a freshly killed $750 steer in his herd.

"A bear is a bear," Judge Wilson Warlick declared, when this point came up. "What the bear had done can have no bearing in building this defense."

Prosecution attorney James V. Craven Jr., in his summation told the jury Alexander "can't be hurt much by your verdict" and said he thought the cattleman was "enjoying this case."

Another witness said that he saw the bear after it was ridden with "10 or 15 bullet holes" but Alexander was not in sight.

FBI agent Stanley Settles said Alexander was not in sight.

FBI agent Stanley Settles said Alexander told him he "organized the hunt" and "directed the killing of the bear," but defense attorney Roy Francis summed up his case: The government has failed to prove that Tom killed a bear.

Dist. Atty. Thomas A. Uzzell said in his summation that Tom is an old friend of mine" but he is "obviously just as guilty as he can be," but the jury decided it did not think so.

Capitol Square

COMMITTEES—Chief interest now centers in make up of the important committees. Lieutenant Governor Luther Hodges is known to have been working on the Senate line-up. Bost will not know for certain until the night before the Assembly convenes whether he will have responsibility for naming House committees, but he also is doing some advance work. As usual the money committees, appropriations and finance, take top rating. Because of the prospect of more vigorous effort than any time since 1935 to get a state-wide referendum on the sale of alcoholic beverages, the committees on propositions and grievances this year have attained unprecedented importance. The possibility of a vote on liquor and a soldier bonus, plus the prospect of reduced federal aid allocations, restore the finance committees this time to higher ranking than appropriations. In recent sessions when money was plentiful the spending committee has ranked above the tax-raising group.
