

Confirmation Of H-Bomb Awaited

'High Source' Suggests President May Announce Success, If Atomic Energy Commission Doesn't Do It First; AEC 'Sweating Blood' Since Story Told

WASHINGTON (UP)—Official confirmation of history's first H-bomb explosion is expected shortly—perhaps by President Truman early next week, a high source suggested today, if the Atomic Energy Commission doesn't do it first.

This source suggested that Mr. Truman may make his Tuesday meeting with President-elect Eisenhower the occasion for the anticipated announcement.

Many servicemen involved in this fall's atomic tests at the Eniwetok Proving Ground in the Pacific already have reported in letters home that an H-bomb was detonated on or about Nov. 1.

Ever since the first of these letters was published a week ago today, the AEC has been under tremendous pressure to say something.

So far it has refused, relying on its past custom of issuing announcements about Eniwetok tests only when the tests were concluded.

Inasmuch as some official observers of this fall's test series are now back home, it may be inferred that operations are over and that an executive announcement is in the works.

One official source said the AEC has been "sweating blood" ever since the tide of "eyewitness" letters started flowing in from Eniwetok with their graphic descriptions of the first H-bomb blast.

This source suggested that a lot of people would be happy if the official announcement, when it comes, was made "by the big boys." He meant Mr. Truman and Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Meanwhile, there were grounds for wondering whether not one but two H-bombs were exploded at Eniwetok. Uncensored letters from senior members of the test task force intimated that possibility.

Several members of the House-Senate Atomic Energy Committee have said there will be an investigation to determine whether the letter-writers violated security. The committee staff already has instituted inquiries. So, presumably, have the AEC and the armed services.

But official sources doubted it would be possible to pin any security breaches on the servicemen who wrote home to tell the folks what an awesome experience it was to see, feel, and hear an H-bomb go off.

Much higher sources have given away atomic development information without getting hit by lightning. Much has been made of the television remark of Sen. Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo.) in November, 1949, that scientists were plotting a bomb 1,000 times more potent than the A-bombs of World War II.

Swedish Entry Is 'Miss World'

LONDON (UP)—The only American contestant—Tally Richards, 24, of New York City—emerged from the "Miss World" beauty contest here Friday night an also-ran.

The judges passed over Miss Richards' 36-inch bust, 24-inch waist and 37-inch hips to award the global title to May-Louise Flodin, 20-year-old Miss Sweden.

Boos and catcalls greeted the announcement of the winner, and disclosure that the decision was not unanimous only added to the outcry. The Swedish brunette herself appeared surprised at winning.

CHIVALRY IS IN ORDER ALBANY, N. C. (UP)—The Albany City Council, faced with overcrowded district high school buses, has ruled: "Let the boys walk while the girls ride."

Naval Court Of Inquiry Meets Aboard Rammed Transport Ship

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (UP)—A Navy court of inquiry convened aboard the USS Ruchamkin today to inspect gassing hole left by a sea collision which killed five soldiers in their sleeping quarters.

Three officers were to tour the scene of twisted metal and oil sludge below decks, where troops and seamen were hurled from their bunks as an oil tanker rammed the fast attack transport early Friday.

Chest Campaign Gets Its Start Monday Morning

Organizations Details Complete; Canvassing Of City Is Planned

The campaign for $14,000 to meet the needs of seven agencies which make up Greenville's Community Chest gets its start Monday morning, November 17.

Chairman W.W. Lee said Saturday that workers in the various divisions have perfected plans for their solicitations and that the chest workers are ready for the "kick-off."

Branch firms have been appealed to early this week, according to Division Chairman B.D. Johnston. His co-chairmen are Warren Chapin and James A. Taylor.

Organization details of the Special Gifts Committee, the largest division of the business district phase of the drive have been planned by Chairman Tom Webb.

Announced as members of this team by Chairman Webb are Elbert H. Bennett, L.M. Buchanan, J. Hicks Corey, Bill Drum, H.H. Duncan, Jack Edwards, Jr., David Evans, L.S. Ficklen, V.C. Fleming, Charles Gaskins, Louis Gaylord, H.B. Gaskins, Phil Goodson, H. Reginald Gray, Jake Hadley, Walter Harrington, Withers Harvey, Howard Hodges, Badger Johnson, Alton Johnston, J.B. Kittrell, Sr., J.B. Kittrell, Jr., Ford McGowan, Dixie McGlohon, Ray MacKenzie, Roy Martin, Bancroft Moseley, Joe Moye, Godfrey Oakley, Vance Overton, John C. Proctor, W. M. Scales, Jr., R. W. Shiplett, W.W. Speight, A.B. Stallworth, Harold Staton, B.B. Suggs, Jr., Hoover Taft, Harold Thomas, Lester Turnage, Sam B. Underwood, Ed Waggon, W.H. Watson, Ercell S. Webb, Dr. Sam T. White, J.I. George Wilkerson, Tom Wilson, Everett Stafford.

A "kick-off" breakfast at the Proctor Hotel Tuesday morning, November 18, will be the rallying point for the workers on the Special Gifts Committee, Webb said. The prospect cards will be distributed and campaign instructions issued at that time.

In the meantime, workers in the Service League who will conduct the residential canvass in Greenville under the direction of Mrs. J. B. Cummings have been setting up their divisional operations.

Mrs. Cummings will have the area zoned for solicitation under the directions of zone captains. The "block plan" will be used again during the "Good Neighbor" visits of the workers to receive the gifts for the Community Chest.

Gifts to support the agencies in the Chest are deductible from income tax, campaign leaders have pointed out. They add, however, that the Community Chest plan is designed to reach the entire community for the financial support needed to finance a program of service, charity, training, recreation and character-building.

Greenville's Community Chest is designed to support the Boy Scouts, both white and Negro; the Girl Scouts, white and Negro; the Service League Thrift Shop; the Emergency Charity Fund; the Teen-Age Club, white and Negro; the King's Daughters, also a charity project, and the United Defense Fund which includes the USO services.

Atlantic Fleet Headquarters said the tanker rammed into the Ruchamkin during a pre-invasion blackout at 2:15 a.m. Friday, killing five members of an intelligence reconnaissance platoon and injuring 31 Army and Navy men.

"I was thrown out of my bunk and saw oil coming in the compartment," said Fireman Apprentice Richard Kidney, 18, of Staten Island, N. Y. "In no time at all it was up to my hips.

"I used an escape hatch to get up on the main deck. It was dark.

There were guys lying all around the deck. I saw one man stuck in his bunk by bent metal. We used hacksaws and chisels to get him out."

Both ships remained afloat and the tanker proceeded to Philadelphia with its cargo of gasoline and fuel oil but the Ruchamkin, its engine room and two compartments flooded, had to be towed.

Lt. Comdr. Arthur C. Jackson of Fayetteville, Tenn., the Ruchamkin's commanding officer, said the ship sprung a new leak in the after fire room as it was hauled in by the USS Hollis.

Port officials said a quantity of 30 millimeter ammunition from a shattered mag was had become wedged between broken deck plates, adding a "ticklish" hazard for workmen reading the Ruchamkin for drydocking.

LOUDONVILLE, O. (UP)—Five persons were seriously injured today when the Pennsylvania Railroad's crack Manhattan Limited collided with a freight train in mist-shrouded darkness one mile west of here.

Newark Airport Again Operating

NEWARK, N. J. (UP)—The huge Newark Airport, closed down nine months ago as a menace to surrounding communities, resumed full-scale commercial operations today under a host of new, stringent air safety and noise abatement regulations.

The airport, formerly the greatest single air freight terminal in the world, had been shut down except for limited use since Feb. 11 after the third passenger plane in two months crashed into the residential section of nearby Elizabeth N.J. The three crashes killed 119 persons, 11 of them on the ground.

While safety experts proclaimed the long-die field "ready and safe," major airlines appeared in no hurry to return. And civic officials and residents of surrounding towns, forecasting more "danger from the sky," were as determined as ever to close the field forever.

The new overall schedule calls for only 102 flight movements a day, 60 per cent of peak operations prior to the closing of the airport.

The unrestricted flights resumed officially at 12:01 a.m. under the new regulations which were developed during the most intensive and multi-sided investigation in commercial aviation history.

The field was put through final "warm-up" paces Friday when the Port of New York Authority ran off four test flights from a new $9,000,000 north-south instrument runway. Two of the take-offs were barely visible from the Elizabeth courthouse, formerly a landmark for pilots landing at Newark.

Official is refused to discuss damage to military installations, but it was known that barracks were wrecked, planes overturned and roofs ripped off hangars. Docks at the naval base at Tsouyong were damaged.

The Central News Agency said Kaohsiung was a "ghost city," its streets littered with debris and thousands of houses roofless.

President Chiang Kai-Shek, who was in the area at the time, ordered an emergency appropriation of 100,000 Taiwan dollars ($6,200) and Gov. K. C. Wu ordered the provincial treasury to set aside 500,000 Taiwan ($30,000) for emergency relief.

Heavy losses to rice and sugar cane crops were reported.

Pacific Storm Swirls Inland

VANCOUVER, B. C. (UP)—The worst Pacific storm of the winter swirled inland today after leaving a path of wreckage along the British Columbia coast.

Winds reached 70 miles an hour Friday at Comox, on the east coast of Vancouver Island. The Weather Bureau reported gale-force winds of 40 to 50 miles an hour at several other stations along a 250-mile stretch of the Pacific seaboard.

The winds whipped two fires into raging infernos. One, at Nanaimo, claimed the lives of six Indians. The other, at Keremeos, destroyed the local growers' cooperative building with damage estimated at more than $600,000.

Dewey Says 'No' To Cabinet Post

WASHINGTON (UP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's refusal to accept a cabinet post sparked a new flurry of speculation today on President-elect Eisenhower's choices to head the State and Defense departments.

Before his conference Friday with Eisenhower at Augusta, Ga., Dewey had figured prominently as a candidate for either of the two top posts in the new president's cabinet.

The wording of the Augusta Communiqué hinted strongly that Eisenhower had sounded out Dewey on his availability for an important job here.

In the course of our conversation today, Governor Dewey emphatically reaffirmed his purpose of continuing his important post as governor of New York," Eisenhower said. "This purpose of course precludes, at least for the present, any thought of requesting him to accept a post in the federal government."

With Dewey out of the running, the guessing game was stepped up. No one professed to know Eisenhower's thinking on his cabinet membership, but this did not quell revived speculation.

Mentioned anew for the job of Secretary of State were GOP foreign policy adviser John Foster Dulles, former U. S. high commissioner to Germany John J. McCloy, former Marshall Plan chief Paul Hoffman and Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. (R-Mass.). The betting was that the job would go to one of the first three men, with Lodge a more likely choice to head the Defense Department.

One big question mark was what choice Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-O.) might have in cabinet selections. Eisenhower has shown every sign of trying to work with all wings of the Republican party, and Taft will hold considerable power over congressional action on foreign affairs and defense programs.

Steel Union's Board Meets To Pick President

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The Executive Board of the United Steel Workers of America, second largest unit of the CIO, meets here today at 2 p.m. e.s.t. to find a successor to the late Philip Murray as union president.

Top candidates for the post were USW Secretary-Treasurer David J. McDonald and Vice-President James Thimmes, with McDonald given the inside track.

The steelworkers' union, together with the CIO, was left without a leader with the death last Sunday of Murray, who served as president of both. The CIO's 45-member Executive Board met Friday without proposing a president or naming an "interim" head.

The parent body remains, for the time being, under the direction of Executive Vice President Allan S. Hayward and Secretary-Treasurer James B. Carey.

Utilities Gas Dept. In 'Red' For Month; Seasonal Drop Explained

The Greenville Utilities Commission's gas department showed a net operating loss of $2,613.97 during the month of October.

That fact was brought out this week in the regular monthly financial report submitted to the commission by Superintendent Martin Swartz.

The gas department was the only department operating at a loss during that period, Swartz reported. "And that is not unusual for this time of year," he stated.

Income for the month of October from gas was $9,229.61, while expenses amounted to $11,843.58—rendering a net operating loss of $2,613.97.

Loss Justified

The superintendent explained that the reason for the loss for the month stems from the system of collections adhered to by the department.

"In our operations, collections lag one month behind expenses," Swartz declared. "And when cold weather comes expense rises sharply while collections are for the previous month."

Eight-Hour Fight Wrests Ridge Again From Chinese

Coal Prices Hike Is Given Approval

Government Raises Ceilings To Offset Pay Raises Won By UMW; Increased Prices Effective Immediately

WASHINGTON (UP)—The government has raised ceiling prices on soft and hard coal to offset the pay raises won recently by John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers.

The Office of Price Stabilization announced Friday night that ceiling prices on soft coal will be raised from 12 to 75 cents a ton at the mines. Hard coal ceiling prices will increase from 40 cents to 1.35 a ton.

The soft coal increases are effective immediately on sales to retailers. They are retroactive to Oct. 1 on sales to other buyers. The increases on hard coal—the type of coal used for home heating—are effective Sunday.

Under price regulations, retail coal dealers will be permitted to raise prices by the amount of increased cost to them, plus their normal percentage markups.

Price officials expressed doubt, however, that all retail coal prices would jump because of the higher ceilings. Soft coal is presently selling below ceiling levels, and price officials reasoned that mine operators would hesitate to boost their prices because of the slack demand.

If there is any sharp price increase, price officials predicted it would be for hard coal which is presently selling near ceiling levels.

The higher ceilings are to cover the costs of the $1.50-a-day wage increase approved by the Wage Stabilization Board for soft coal miners. The increases for hard coal are based on the assumption that the wage board will approve the same pay increase for hard coal miners.

Indo-China War Grows 'Hotter'

HANOI, Indo-China (UP)—Communist rebels opened a "third front" in the spreading Indo-China war today with three bloody, but unsuccessful, attacks on Hungyen, 38 miles southeast of Hanoi.

French and loyal Vietnam forces drove off the screaming Vietminh attackers with artillery and mortar barrages before the Communists reached the barbed wire perimeter of the lower Red River town.

However, northwest of Hanoi, there were indications today that a French tank force, which smashed 45 miles through rebel lines toward the fortress of Yenba, on the Red River, may be prepared to pull back.

Five Persons In Street Shot At

TORONTO (AP)—Five persons were fired upon Toronto streets during the night by an apparently deranged gunman who used a .22 rifle. Four were wounded slightly. The other, a policeman, escaped injury.

Police immediately drew attention to the coincidence of a film showing at a downtown theater, "The Sniper," in which a gunman, a psychopath, fires at persons on the streets in a North American city with a small-caliber gun.

Police riot squads smashed Communist attempts Friday night to storm two West Berlin theaters and stop the showing of the film "Rommel, the Desert Fox."

The Reds hurled tear and stench bombs and smashed theater windows before the riot squads drove them off with clubs. Approximately 200 Communists took part in the attacks, police said.

About 50 demonstrators broke into one theater, but police clubbed them into retreat. The showing of the film was interrupted for about 30 minutes in both theaters.

Forty-Four Gls Die In Crash Of Plane Into Peak

'Flying Boxcar' Rams Into Mountain Only Minutes From Destination

TOKYO (UP)—Forty-four servicemen, 37 of them U.S. Army soldiers returning from rest leave in Japan, were killed when an Air Force C-119 "Flying Boxcar" crashed into a mountain near Seoul, Korea, the Far East Air Force announced today.

The twin-engine plane ramed yesterday into Mount Yeobong, a 2,000-foot peak only a few minutes away from its destination, an airport in the Seoul area.

An Army spokesman said the 37 passengers were all American Army men who were returning to Korea after a five-day rest and rehabilitation leave in Japan. The other seven aboard the plane were Air Force crew members.

Names of the dead were withheld pending notification of next of kin. A ground party that reached the rugged terrain where the crash took place 20 miles east of Seoul reported there were "no survivors." The toll was the largest in any military plane crash since the start of the Korean war.

Ground parties which took five hours to reach the scene said wreckage was scattered over a wide area near the crest of the mountain.

Many of the bodies were charred, indicating the plane had burned on crashing. Ground parties said that death must have come immediately for men aboard the plane.

A newspaperman from Tokyo was in the area when she heard of the crash and walked 2 1/2 hours to get to the mountain top.

"As I walked through the wreckage," she said, "I found Christmas presents that the men had bought on R and R (rest and rehabilitation) in Japan.

"There were many gifts for women and children. One of them was a little pair of pajamas for a child. . . one duffel bag contained a lady's wrist watch and a small record player."

The terrain in which the plane crashed was so rugged that helicopters could not land. The search party had to carry the dead down the steep slopes on stretchers and then walk miles to vehicles.

Korean farmers in the area said they saw five parachutes stream from the plane seconds before the plane hit the mountain.

By Homer Hatten

Chapter 3
The storm that had been threatening the night before came down in a slashing torrent of wind and rain just at midday. Driven like wild mustangs before the wind, a phalanx of lightning-driven clouds overflew the sky, turning the earth below into a chilled, windswept vacuum that held neither sun nor shadow nor substance.
The wind tore at the brown blanket ponchos Clay and Toni wore and by nightfall the rain had soaked them through and through, robbing them of their uncertain function of protection and transforming them into sodden burdens on their bent and weary shoulders.
Just at dusk they found a gauntly slashed cliff that rose like a wall from the edge of a rain-lashed river. In the narrow shelf between the stream and the cliff Clay rigged a crude brush lean-to, its slanting roof of tip-down evergreen boughs, its open front a scant half-dozen feet from the wall of the cliff. It was slow work building a fire with the rain-soaked driftwood he was able to gather, but as the fire ate into the dry heart of the wood the flames roared up in a shower of gleaming light. The cliff served a double purpose, for it protected the fire and the lean-to from the blowing rain and its face became a giant reflector, throwing the heat of the fire back into the brushwood shelter in ever increasing waves.
Toni had pulled off the saddles and saddle bags and slaked out the horses a few hundred yards downstream where the cliff fell back from the river to form a narrow, grass-filled meadow. She had taken off her shoes for the riverbank was a quaking mass of mud, and she had tucked her skirt up at her waist so that it was above her knees.
Clay had floored the lean-to with a springy mass of evergreen tips a good foot and a half deep, and now Toni pulled the saddles and saddlebags inside. As Clay fed the fire she filled the dented black coffeepot and unwrapped the freshly baked bread and the long strips of dried venison. Martha Hood had given them. By some miracle of good luck she found that a full-furred buffalo robe Clay had carried behind his saddle was almost untouched by rain, and she spread it, hair up, on the cushion of evergreen boughs. By the time Clay had gathered enough firewood to last them through the night, the coffee was bubbling in the pot and even the bread and venison had been suspended beside the fire long enough to give them a faint semblance of warmth. The light of the fire rebounded from the cliff and flickered back and forth inside the lean-to so that the storm was shut out and only the growl of the thunder and the insistent drumming of the rain reached them.
Clay sank down on the edge of the buffalo robe and pried off his boots. He looked at Toni, smiling a little.
"You know, we might as well be the last two people left on earth. Nothing out there but the rain and the storm, whatever civilization there is so far away it doesn't matter. Nobody who knows where we are—and probably nobody was a damn. How do you like it, Toni? Do you think you'd like to go back to the cave-man days and spend your life in a pine lean-to in front of a fire?"
"There are worse things, Don Clay. There are such things as cruelty and stupidity. There is great selfishness and there is injustice." She paused, staring at him with thoughtful eyes. "Those things are bad as poverty and hopelessness. I have had those for six years, now, and I am glad to get away from them. Are you sorry we are here, Don Clay?"
It was a good question—a question he had been trying to answer within his own mind ever since they had left Dex's cabin. It was not the fight and the necessity for flight; he had been in and out of too many pitched battles, turned his face toward too many new horizons to be concerned with that. It was not the hardships of the day or the barbaric quality of their makeshift shelter; he had seen all that and worse on the Kentucky frontier and on the Santa Fe trail. No, the nagging, worrying, insistent question that tugged at his mind was bred of his reluctant and involuntary commitment to the lost cause that Dex and Toni typified. He frowned, remembering the first night at Dex's cabin, remembering, too, Toni's cavalier dismissal upon their first meeting. He looked up and found Toni watching him.

"I'm damned if I know," he admitted. "I'm glad enough to be here with you. God knows that's pleasant enough. But, Toni—I'm damned if I want to get tangled up in this business of lost land and men who can't get it back for themselves. Great God!" he exploded. "I came down to Texas to get away from trouble in Missouri. I'm not going to start out down here by taking on something that's a thousand times bigger and far worse!"
Toni leaned forward and laid her hand on his knee. "You need not, Don Clay," she assured him. "It is not your trouble. You did not make it. There is no reason you should be asked to cure it. There are many men who will be glad to help you because of what you have already done, but that does not mean that you must help them."
He threw out his arm in a gesture of sudden impatience. "That isn't it! Damn it, I wouldn't mind helping them. I'd be glad to help them. But I don't want to get tied down to something. I've been alone too long to turn myself over to some group and let them tell me what to do and when to do it. It wouldn't work worth a damn, and nobody knows that any better than I do!"
"It would not be like that, Don Clay."
Her voice had deepened into a new huskiness and her hand burned like fire upon his knee. "You would lead. You would command, even as you do here now."
He stared at her, trying to fathom the inner meaning of her words, but her face was in the shadows.

Many gallons of water may be evaporated in a day from a tree.

"What do you read, my Lord?" Polonius asked the Prince.
"Words, words, words!" replied the unhappy Hamlet.
Aptly enough, Shakespeare expressed the sense of futility which engulfs men when they seek hope, comfort or escape between the covers of a book.
Books can teach. They can entertain. They can be reservoirs of knowledge, humor, pathos, romance. But they have little to offer when we must face "the slings and arrows of outrageous fortune" . . . when life seems, as it did to Hamlet, "a sea of troubles."
But ONE BOOK is different from the others: The Bible contains not mere words, but eternal truths. Its insights into human problems are divinely accurate . . . its lessons in living are an inspired challenge . . . its promises are the un-failing promises of Jesus Christ.
That more millions the world over may possess and cherish this ONE BOOK is the goal of the American Bible Society, and of the churches and individuals who faithfully support it.
Above the confusion of words, words, words—they hold forth THE WORD OF LIFE.

School Bus Safety Is Underscored By Intensive Highway Patrol Instruction

By MURIEL SHOTWELL
Reflector Staff Writer

The safety of children in Pitt County and other schools throughout the state depends largely on the driving ability of the person who takes them to and from school and on the fitness of the buses in which they travel.

With this idea in mind, the State Highway Patrol and its members are working throughout the state on a project which is only one of many steps in its continued safety program to eliminate accidents.

In addition to the monthly checks made by highway patrolmen on school buses in Pitt County, a more intensive and detailed program was begun in October and will continue until all of the routes of the 137 school buses serving Pitt County children are thoroughly checked. Since the program began, 35 of the routes have been surveyed.

The newly inaugurated program calls for routine inspection of buses which takes place once a month, safety lectures to school bus riders by uniformed patrolmen, observation of school bus drivers at work by patrolmen, observation of other motorists' reaction to traffic laws concerning buses by patrolmen who follow detailed report to patrol and school officials.

Steps In The Program

Inspection of the bus is one of the first steps in assuring a child's safety when he is riding a bus in Pitt County. Parts of the bus which are checked by patrolmen include doors, brakes, lights, windshield wipers, rear view mirrors, tires, horn, muffler, steering mechanism, governor, and the mechanical signal. The inspecting officer also inspects for the cleanliness of the bus.

If any parts are not functioning properly, the head mechanic in the county, A. C. Forlines, is notified and the bus is "grounded" until it is repaired, rechecked, and declared in proper order.

As a part of the new program, the children who ride buses in the county are given brief lectures on safety by a uniformed patrolman, which plays a large part in impressing safety rules.

All of the children are instructed by the officer to board the bus as quickly and quietly as possible as soon as school is out. They are told to remain seated while the bus is in motion and to refrain from scuffling and making noise which might distract the driver who is making an effort to devote his entire attention to operating the bus.

The children are particularly cautioned that, in warm weather when the windows are open, they should keep their hands and arms inside the bus. Another warning is directed to the boys and girls when crossing the road when leaving the bus and look both ways.

The driver also receives a briefing from the patrolman on duty when he enters the bus. During the new program, a patrolman will ride on each of the buses in the county, observing the driver and hazards on the road.

The bus driver's mistakes are pointed out to him as soon as he makes them and the patrolman keeps a sharp lookout for such hazards as blind curves, hills, crossings, narrow bridges, and the like. The hazards are immediately brought to the attention of the driver and, in some cases, a recommendation is made to the State Highway Commission for the correction of existing hazards.

Riding a quarter of a mile behind the bus is another highway patrolman who is also serving as an observer for facts which might aid the school bus driver and the patrolman in the bus who is usually equipped with a "walkie-talkie" in order to talk with the patrolman following in a car.

Stopped Buses

The patrolman in the car watches also for the reaction of other motorists on the road when meeting a school bus. As required by law, motorists are to stop when they approach a stopped bus either from the front or rear. A stopped school bus on the road means children are leaving the bus and will be crossing the road, expecting the motorist to stop and allow them to get safely across the road.

Highway patrolmen say that during one month's time, more than 100 motorists will pass a school bus while it is stopped on the road. School bus drivers are instructed to take down the license number of any cars passing them and turn the information over to the highway patrol.

Owners of the cars are identified through the license number and arrested and cited to court if there is enough reason to warrant their arrest.

Reports Made

Every route inspected in Pitt County by highway patrolmen is surveyed, and reports turned in to Cpl. C. E. Whitfield, supervising officer; John Laws, District Five officer; and another report is sent in to the Raleigh office of the State Highway Patrol.

Detailed reports on monthly checks are sent to Captain S. H. Mitchell, Troop "A" commander; the head school bus mechanic; D.H. Conley, superintendent of the county schools; and one copy of the report is retained by the inspecting highway patrolman.

Working the buses in the county are the following patrolmen and their areas: D.E. Perry, Bethel and vicinity; B. H. Jackson, Farmville and vicinity; W.E. Whitehurst, Ayden and vicinity; Paul Whitley, Greenville and Winterville; Jim Davis, Greenville, and Grimesland; and James Boykin, Greenville, Belvoir, and Pactolus.

Both highway patrol officials and school officials highly praise the program which is in progress. One of the school principals said the detailed checking on buses and their routes is one of the finest programs of safety he had ever witnessed. "School children are impressed by the patrolmen riding on the buses with them and pay a great deal of attention to what they have to say," stated the principal.

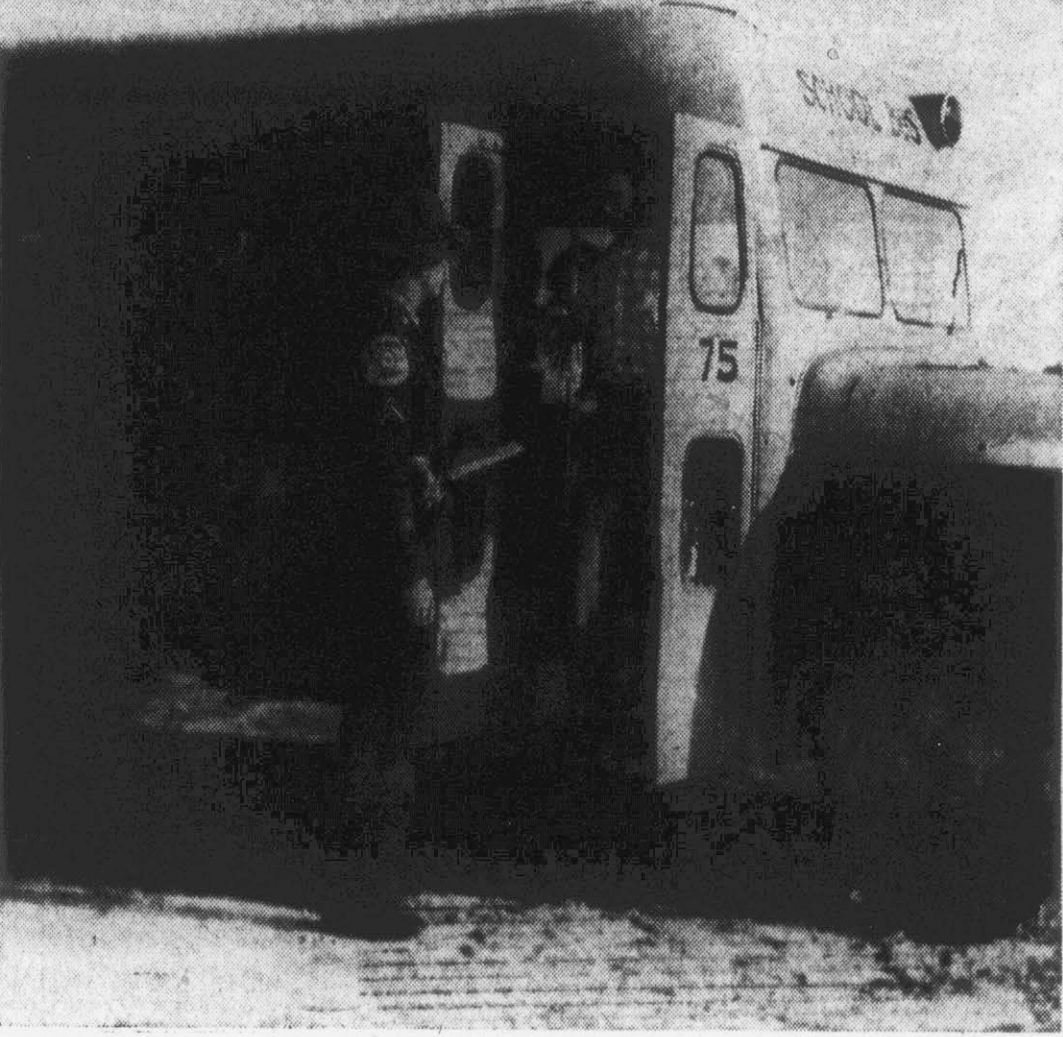

Cpl. Whitfield also praised the program highly and added that the chief mechanic and other mechanics of the school bus system were keeping the buses in top condition.

There have been no serious school bus accidents in Pitt County and the program in progress now is to protect the 40 or more children who ride on each bus from any accidents which could possibly occur.

Pitt County highway patrolmen are working so that a repeat of the accident in Nash County in 1950 which killed seven children and hurt nine, will not occur in Pitt County.

Not only the bus drivers are given safety lectures but the children too listen with interest to what the uniformed patrolmen have to say. Shown above is Cpl. C. E. Whitfield explaining safety rules to boys and girls who ride the buses. (Reflector Photos by Muriel Shotwell).

Last minute briefing on safe driving is given to school bus driver James Spain of Chicod by Patrolman Paul Whitley just before the driver begins his daily task of taking more than 45 children to and from school.

In addition to one patrolman in the bus, another patrolman follows behind in a patrol car to watch other motorists' reactions as they meet a bus. Riding behind Spain's bus is Patrolman James Boykin.

During the new program patrolmen will ride with the bus to point out any road hazards which might appear on the bus route. Patrolman Whitley gives driver James Spain last minute encouragement before he cranks the bus.

All motorists approaching or following a school bus are required by law to stop when the bus stops in order to insure the safety of the children who cross the road in front of the bus.

A Pinpoint That Has Drawn A Lot Of Blood

As this was written, a strategic little peak called Pinpoint Hill, in North Korea, has changed hands 28 times in thirty days. With that kind of see-saw fighting, it could have been won and lost again by the time this observation is put into type.

Pinpoint Hill must be an awfully important piece of real estate to cost so many hundreds of lives. Both United Nations forces and the Chinese have expended huge quantities of ammunition and waged savage, prolonged hand-to-hand battles for possession of that relatively tiny piece of ground.

Those little South Korean troops have shown all kinds of valor in the kind of fighting that pits raw courage against steel and flaming explosives. By now, that hill must be a desolate scene of churned, scorched earth; and over all the strong scent of death. We wonder how many times the tide of battle will beat over and around Pinpoint Hill, and whether the price now being paid isn't just a little bit "out of line."

Because when you get right down to it, the Eighth Army could clinch their grasp on that bit of land and effectively discourage or prevent more enemy attacks against it. All it would take is a more extensive operation than has yet been expended in the immediate area.

Surely, if Pinpoint Hill is so valuable as to warrant repeated and costly assaults... it must be worth "securing" for keeps.

National Whirligig

Every Saturday this veteran Washington correspondent devotes his column to answering readers' questions of general interest on national and international politics and personalities. Questions may be sent direct to Ray Tucker at 6506 Hillcrest Place, Chevy Chase, Md.

WASHINGTON—Do you believe that the average workingman has anything to fear from the Eisenhower administration? inquires M. C. of Butler, Pa., a steel-manufacturing center, "because of the union leaders' almost unanimous endorsement of Governor Stevenson?"

Answer: I certainly do not. Unlike his two predecessors in politics at least, General Eisenhower is not vindictive or a holder of grudges. He has always recognized the right of individuals and groups to disagree with him. His great asset during and after the war has been his ability to eliminate or moderate those differences.

He recognizes, too, that the workmen, and especially their wives, do not follow blindly the advice of the professional bosses. Like the members of so many other elements of the electorate, they were influenced by the same, broad, national considerations which gave him his remarkable "no deal" victory. Eisenhower did not carry a single industrial state, and only a few centers of manufacture.

LABOR MAY BENEFIT—As a matter of fact, it is probable that both organized and unorganized labor will benefit rather than lose under the incoming Administration. Although Eisenhower favors repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act, I understand that he will ask the advice of labor as well as management experts in framing a new statute and start in this vein.

He may possibly try to win both groups' agreement to new legislation before he submits it to Congress. That would be the ideal businesslike method, in contrast to the one-sided, take-it-or-leave-it attitude which marked and marred most of Truman's proposals on this issue.

TRUMAN'S TACTICS—The actual fact is that Truman led labor down a blind alley for seven long years. Although he urged Taft-Hartley repeal for vote-getting purposes in two campaigns, he never made a serious effort on behalf of its elimination or modification.

He blocked enactment of more than 20 ameliorating amendments proposed by Senator Taft and passed by the Senate, even though many pro-labor members considered them satisfactory. As has often been said, Truman preferred to preserve a political issue than to solve a problem of human relations.

His use of Presidential authority to grant favors to certain unions, such as his unconstitutional seizure of the steel plants, antagonized the general public, ranging both popular opinion and Congress against labor's more legitimate demands.

Finally, the top leaders of the "big three" unions have agreed not to make war on the GOP and to establish friendly relations with the first Republican regime in 20 years.

IN EVENT OF EISENHOWER'S DEATH—Who would be the next President if anything happened to General Eisenhower before the January 20 inauguration? asks T. F. of Brooklyn, N. Y.

Answer: Since Eisenhower is an extremely healthy and well-balanced individual, I answer this query only because of the speculative possibilities, and to clear up a few misunderstandings.

The first is that Eisenhower is not yet the "President-elect," although I have applied that title to him, and so have newspapers generally. As of today, he is only the "President-designate."

He will not become "President-elect" until December 15, when 39 states' electors assemble in their respective capitals and cast their ballots for him and Senator Nixon as Vice-President, with Stevenson-Sparkman electors registering their nine states' choice.

If Eisenhower should die after December 15, Nixon would automatically become President-elect, and take office on January 20. But if Eisenhower should become incapacitated before December 15, the electors are not bound to choose Nixon in his place.

They could vote for almost anybody else, with Governor Warren frequently mentioned as the most likely in such a remote and tragic event. Senator Taft and Governor Dewey are other prospects.

Speculations on this question, judging by the many letters I have received, is prompted by Eisenhower's proposed tour of the Korean front, and the possible hazards involved.

JOB FOR OLDER WOMEN—Miss E.A.O. of Yonkers, N. Y., as well as numerous other readers, wants to know which government department distributes pamphlets suggesting possible jobs for "Women of 50 and Over."

Answer: Write to the Women's Bureau of the United States Department of Labor, 14th Street and Constitution Avenue, Washington, D. C. Besides the document listed above, there is another entitled "Hiring Older Women."

Selected Short

ELDERADO, KANSAS, TIMES—When a government agency like the wage stabilization board ratified wage boosts, or initiates some of its own—as has occurred in many instances over recent years—all is lovely on the labor front and the goose hangs high. But when such a bureau honestly feels that a proposed advance in pay is too high, all things considered in the economic picture, and authorizes a reduction—then South Germany is to pay.

FOLEY, ALA., ONLOOKER—What's the use of worrying about those saucer people? After they get one look at the shape things are in down here, they'll get back in their flying bowls and go back into space where they came from in a hurry.

The "Alert" Motorist

Somebody Told Me

By L. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

Yesterday afternoon I slipped away from the office to attend the last practice session of the East Carolina Pirates; that is, unless the team receives a bowl bid that has already been mentioned as a possibility.

During the few minutes I was there I picked up the team spirit. There was so much around that it would rub off on anybody who might get near the team. Tonight, when the Pirates play their last scheduled game of the season against West Virginia Tech in College Stadium, you can rest assured that the boys will be hustling.

When it comes to leadership the team is fortunate. Head Coach Jack Boone, 34, was first string on the Little All-American selection in 1941 himself, and has the ability to develop other stars. Since he played at Elon, his long background with the North State Conference is an asset in his coaching role.

Also experienced in this league is the line coach, Clyde Biggers. Although Clyde isn't quite 27, he has an amazing record behind him. He graduated from high school at 17, four years later from Catawba, where he was a football star. In fact, his stardom won him a contract with the professional Green Bay Packers, where he played tackle. While playing pro ball Clyde worked on his M. A. degree, and now holds it, plus a good record in an additional three years of high school coaching at Fayetteville. "Last year," he says, "we missed the State Championship by one point."

When Clyde talked about pro football, I mentioned that I have been following the Washington Redskins since the former Carolina All-American, Charlie Justice, has been a "Skin When I put Clyde on the spot about Choo Choo, he said, "We had at least six backs who would measure up to him. You have to remember that he's in a fast league now."

Yesterday afternoon the Pirate team had a huddle without the presence of coaches, to "get right." Strain my ears as I might, I didn't hear too much by the session. But I did hear what Dwight Shoe had to say. You realize that Dwight is a candidate for Little All-America this year. There is no doubt that he will be mentioned on one of the teams. What he said went something like this: "Well, you boys know this is my last game here, and you know how much I would like for us to finish off with a win."

Other players contributed comments to enliven the team spirit. But if you could have been there you would have wondered how there could be any more sport. And I thank you.

Around Capitol Square

BUDGET—The budget folks have set Tuesday morning, January 13, as a deadline for releasing the report to the General Assembly with accompanying tax and appropriation bills. The Advisory Budget Commission several days ago completed consideration of the budget items and turned the report over to the office staff to get in shape for the printers. The Commission will assemble again on November 26 to read final proofs and attach their official signatures to the report. Then comes the printing and proofreading jobs before the books are ready for delivery to the General Assembly. The report is usually ready within a week after convening of the Legislature. Last year it was delivered on Monday night. The 1949 report came along at 11 a. m. on Thursday. The later convening date this year gives the printer several extra days as compared with two and four years ago. Wednesday after the first Monday in January, when the Assembly must convene, this time falls on January 7. Two years ago it came on earliest possible date, 3rd.

SECRET—Traditionally the best kept secret with respect to State government operations is the budget report. Following open hearings at many institutions and in Raleigh, the commission went behind closed doors to discuss final figures. Only information obtainable about the forthcoming report is that it will contain larger amounts than ever before in State history, and that recommended spending will be within the limits of estimated revenue.

REPUBLICANS—Assurance that there will be 14 Republicans in the next House of Representatives, equaling the heaviest minority representation since the Hoover landslide put 36 Republicans in the 1929 House. The two Republican senators will give the minority party the same strength in the branch of the Legislature it has had every time since 1929 except once. In the 1945 session the 29th district sent a Republican in addition to the regular attendants from the 24th and 30th districts.

UP DOWN—The banner Republican year of this century was 1928 when 12 Senators and 36 Representatives were elected to the State Legislature, along with two members of Congress and an indeterminate number of county officials. From that highest point of legislative representation the party dropped in the next session to its lowest ebb, having only two Senators and five Representatives. Except for the extra vote in 1945 the two Senators have remained the fixed quota. House membership has fluctuated widely. In 1933 the number went up to eight, jumped the next session to 13, and dropped back to eight in 1937 and six in 1941. Another spurt brought 12 in 1943 and 14 in 1948. Descending scale began again with 13 in '47, 11 in '49 and 10 in the last session, 1951. The Eisenhower sweep brought in four additional Representatives this year and obtained one Congressman, though failing to win the electoral vote or any other State office.

GEOGRAPHY—Counties which substituted Republican for Democratic legislators this year are Alexander, Caldwell, Macon, Madison and Watauga. Sampson substituted a Democrat for a Republican, giving the minority a net gain of four votes. Other Republican counties are Avery, Catawba, Davis, Mitchell, Randolph, Stanly, Transylvania, Wilkes and Yadkin. Location of these counties on a map of North Carolina will show that Republican strength is moving toward the Piedmont. This trend is further indicated by Sampson going Democratic all the way for the first time in years, and larger than normal majorities in Brunswick and Tyrrell, the other Eastern counties which have Republican legislators and high county officers with recent years. There is more conclusive evidence of the trend in the preponderant majorities for Eisenhower and the unusually large votes for Republican candidates for Congress in the Piedmont counties. It was a Piedmont area vote that elected Charles Raper Jonas in the 10th district and piled up much bigger totals against Democrats Charlie Deans and Hugh Alexander in the eighth and ninth districts.

INEFFECTIVE—Results of the election also raise questions about the local effectiveness of State Democratic campaign tactics. The congressional district rallies staged during October were spotted this time in what the Democratic high command regarded as "enemy territory." District meetings, attended by the top brass of the party organization and practically all candidates for State offices, were held in Madison, Alexander, Wilkes, Sampson and Randolph counties, of which are very close and normally Republican. All of them except Sampson stayed in the Republican column this year. The other district meetings were staged in normally Democratic counties, and they held the line.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

TOM AND THE BEARS (Greensboro News)
Tom Alexander's three-toed Cataloochee bear got more publicity than the law allows in a federal courtroom at Asheville this week, and not all the protests of the National Park Service, the FBI and a federal judge could change it.

The matter was not as frivolous as some mountain folk made it. Judge Wilson Warlick correctly upheld the dignity of the law. But a 12-man jury couldn't bring itself to find Tom Alexander guilty because he organized a bear hunt and tracked down, inside park boundaries, an old three-toed marauder, the slayer of some of his prize steers. Alexander never took the stand, but after a humorous parade of mountain bear hunters and assorted citizenry did, jurors begged mercy, and claimed they couldn't decide who did the killing although old three-toes was surely dead, downed under multiple attack, like Caesar, with 22 bullet holes to prove it.

Prosecuting Attorney James V. Craven, Jr. rightly surmised that Alexander, being in the bear and duke ranch business, probably got $100,000 worth of publicity from the trial. At that rate he could lose a hundred steers.

Business Today

Just about every large corporation, trade association and lobbyist is busy these days getting in their licks on the new Congress and the new Administration.

The idea of change has tremendous appeal. And everybody wants the changes made their way.

Businessmen are writing letters and trying to get acquainted with their Congressman — or somebody who knows him — at the club or at church. The trade associations are appointing committees, passing resolutions and issuing statements. And the lobbyists are pouring over Congressmen's performance charts with no less concentration than a racing fan studies his.

There is a general impression that the Republican Party intends to be easier on business than its predecessor has been. And the inevitable reaction of most businessmen is, "They mean me."

There will be a lot of changes. But there will be a lot of things that won't and can't be changed. There can be only the mildest relaxation of regulation of business within the province of the various Federal commissions. Where regulation and enforcement of existing laws have varied from commensurate — that happens in all administrations — there will be changes but, by and large, a large segment of Congress and of the voters is not yet in a mood for a return to laissez-faire.

Not much can be done about taxes, either. While there can be some economies and some amelioration of rates, any significant reductions are still far in the future. The business of building up defense and keeping it strong is expensive and, unless we want a fresh dose of inflation, the bill has to be paid in taxes.

Why, then all the furor? It costs a lot of money — has business become addled? There are two answers: First, there is a demand for relief is defensive; business is emphasizing its plight to make sure that further burdens won't be put on it so that they may be lifted elsewhere. Second, a good strong case now and during 1953 will lay the groundwork for benefits in the future.

GET GOOD ADVICE IN TAX TINKERING

Many readers have written about the recent report here on way of reducing tax liabilities legally. The theme of most letters is, "How can we get in on it?" A sound step is to consult a competent accountant or a tax-wise lawyer. If a firm or person has neither, local accounting and law associations will furnish lists of qualified persons. Most accountants and most tax lawyers are familiar with legal means of minimizing tax bites.

Remember that there are men with red, white and blue whiskers lying in wait for people who do not observe the fine points of rulings and laws in tinkering with their tax liabilities.

The tax firm referred to in the report is Prentice Hall, 70 Fifth Ave., New York.

NEW BOOK INDEXES COMMERCE PUBLICATIONS

Eight thousand publications issued by the Department of Commerce and predecessor agencies from 1790 through 1950 are catalogued and indexed in a 795-page book published by the Government. Included are publications of the Census Bureau, Civil Aeronautics Administration, Coast and Geodetic Survey, the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, Maritime Administration, Patent Office, Bureau of Public Roads, Office of Technical Services and the Weather Bureau.

The book, "U. S. Department of Commerce Publications — A Catalog and Index," is offered by the Government Printing Office at $2.75.

LIGHT: A highway safety light kit with a spare sealed beam auto headlamp that can be snapped on a utility steel stand is being marketed (by Westinghouse Electric Corp., 306 Fourth Ave., Pittsburgh 30). The kit illuminates the car itself while providing light for motor or tire repairs at night. It includes a 12-foot cord which plugs into the dashboard cigarette lighter and a 16-inch wide "Caution" sign.

SAVER: A solution to keep left-over paints, enamels and varnishes fresh and smooth is being marketed by Amas Aromatics, Inc., 132 Water St., So. Norwalk Conn. One ounce to each half gallon of paint is said to prevent oxidation and skin formation.

SUPPLEMENT: An antibiotic, concentrated animal feed supplement which can be custom-made to meet specialized needs of processors and suppliers of feed supplements, is being introduced by Heyden Chemical Corp., 377 Madison Ave., New York 17.

Hal Boyle's Column

NEW YORK (AP)—This is going to be a lecture. So "hold on to your ears."

It is a poor philosopher's summation of what he found in his native land after a brief trip to troubled Europe. How are they linked, these separated yet linked residents of Milan and Minneapolis, Rocky Mount and Rome?

This is a mystic period when Moscow, where Joe Stalin has his headquarters, and Mt. Vernon, N. Y., where a lot of suburbanites have their children, try to go on regarding themselves as civic centers rather than the guinea pig communities of the future—the potential targets of the H-bomb.

I find at home and abroad a disturbing trend, a homesickness for the past. Too many people want to live in the world of yesterday. Instead of hopefully planning what lies ahead they want to sit and view what is bygone time.

This is a helluva lot of fun, sitting and reviewing old mistakes and antique problems. But one tends to dwell too much upon old victories, often more imagined than actual.

What the times cry for now are fresh and bold decisions upon the problems of today, not the fading triumphs and defeats of yesterday.

To be alive in this tremendous moment too often afflicts the young with a sense of duty, the middle-aged and elderly with a sense of worry. Both lift a tired shoulder.

Of course, what everybody wants is the wonderful world of yesterday. This is the safe area of reminiscence, the small corner of the past where anybody can remember he had it better when he does now, and makes himself a hero or villain at will.

The deadly thing about it is that everyone feels the same way about it a little bit. The German in Berlin, the Frenchman on a farm near Verdun, the Belgian hotel keeper at Spa, the Italian wine grower in the Alban Hills, the lonely Spanish shepherd, the weary clerk in an American business office — each day dreams of the days gone by. The escape hatch of the past: Everyone can find a way out of responsibility through it.

But today is the day of adventure—it must always be today or tomorrow. We can deny that each fresh dawn may unveil a poem above price, open a brave new world where man and atom may explore each other in peace, and the cost of bread falls so low there will be a loaf for every lip?

The sea of ignorance waves at and threatens our island of knowledge, so small and isolated as haven. Mankind yearns on an atoll—and there are continents yet to discover, or drown trying to reach.

But it is so much easier to feel sorry for yourself than it is to be an explorer in this life. When you search by radar for secrets by microscopes —

The human race rights at this peak moment of history for rest after a series of world wide and exhausting wars and business crises. Around the world men wonder: "Is life worth while? Where are we drifting?"

I suppose that since the morn of meaning this query has plagued thoughtful men each day on awakening from the sanctuary of slumber. Just before a certain night lifted back in 1492 and showed an island outpost of America, Christopher Columbus probably brooded: "What am I doing here? I'm probably making the biggest mistake of my life."

WASHINGTON LETTER
By JANE EADS
WASHINGTON—Mrs. Flora MacLeod, a hearty, gray-haired lady from the Isle of Skye, Scotland, arrived in Washington wearing an American-made, black traveling hat with one feather.

She could have worn a hat with three feathers, for as Flora MacLeod of MacLeod, 28th chief of her clan, she's fully entitled to such headgear. The first woman to head the great feudal family, which traces its descent back to the Norseman, Chief Flora came to this country to visit friends, great members of the MacLeod clan and extend an invitation to American tourists to visit the picturesque, heather-carpeted island in the Hebrides during Skye Week next May.

Scots gather from all corners of the world during this week to celebrate with dancing, pageantry and bagpipe music. Chief Flora especially invites people to come and see her at Dunvegan Dunvegan Castle, built by the family in the ninth century on a rocky promontory over-looking the sea. Mrs. MacLeod calls the castle, built by the family in the ninth century on a rocky promontory overlooking the sea. Mrs. MacLeod calls the ancient fortress, added to by succeeding generations, "the heart on the rock." It is one of the oldest continuously inhabited residences in Great Britain.

"In olden times it had but one entrance, a sea gate," Chief Flora told me. "Its walls are 9 feet thick. It has a dungeon and a some members of the family say a ghost or two, though I've never caught up with one."

Chief Flora says she's a very busy person corresponding with her many friends all over the world and keeping up with the MacLeods. She found more than 300 in the Washington telephone book, she said.

Accompanying her was her daughter, Mrs. Woodrige-Gordon, mother of the next-in-line chief, John MacLeod Jr. In preparation for his inheritance, his surname was legally changed from Woodrige-Gordon to MacLeod, and he wears the MacLeod tartan. His twin brother Patrick, born 44 minutes after he came into the world, wears the Gordon tartan.

"Both are keen Scotsmen and pipers," Chief Flora exclaimed. "They're fine lads, over 6 feet tall, and you wouldn't know which is which." I asked their grandfather whether the boys were still while attending school at Elon. "They do—kilted indeed," she said proudly.

In Washington Chief Flora and her daughter were guests of R.J. Reynolds of the National Geographic Magazine staff. He tried in vain to round up a piper to give the visitors a fitting welcome but found that about the only available bag-pipers are at the Bolling Air Force Base and couldn't be released from duty.

Dr. C.M. Morton To Conduct Revival Service

Farmville—Dr. C. Manley Morton, returned missionary from Puerto Rico, will begin a series of revival services at the Farmville Christian Church on Sunday, November 16. The services will extend through the week, closing on Sunday, November 23.

During the morning worship service Sunday, Dr. Morton will preach on the subject "I Think: Therefore I Live." At the evening service, he will talk on the subject "If Yesterday Were Tomorrow."

Mrs. James Corbett will be guest soloist for the morning worship hour, singing "How Lovely Are Thy Dwellings." The choir will sing as a special number the "Beatitudes." At the evening service Miss Ruth and Jean Moore will sing "Hark, Hark, My Soul."

Dr. Morton is well known throughout this community, having been a former pastor of the Farmville Christian Church. He has previously conducted a number of revivals in this vicinity, among which was one held in Walstonburg.

Services will begin each night at 7:30 P. M. and the public is cordially invited to attend. The Rev. Z. B. T. Cox is minister of the host church.

Brides Elect Of Bethel Honored

Bethel—Miss Anne Whitehurst, whose marriage to Sam Keel will take place January 16, and Miss Virginia Whitehurst, whose marriage to Russel Davis of Fremont will take place December 26, were honored Saturday, November 8, at one o'clock at a dessert bridge given by Mrs. J. L. Brown, Mrs. Grover Whitehurst, and Mrs. Cary Hammond at the home of Mrs. J. L. Brown.

The house was beautifully decorated with artistic arrangements of mixed fall flowers.

The Misses Whitehursts were presented with white carnation corsages made like miniature bridal bouquets.

On arriving the guests were seated at individual tables with dainty arrangements of yellow flowers in the center of each. Ice cream cakes, minis, nuts, and coffee were served carrying out the color scheme of white, green, and yellow.

Those helping the hostesses were Mrs. J. L. Gurganus, Mrs. W. J. Smith, Mrs. Jack Wommack, and Mrs. Clara Roberson.

After refreshments the guests played bridge. Later in the afternoon hot punch, cheese nibbles, and pretzels were served.

At the conclusion of the party each bride-elect was presented three lovely gifts from each of the three hostesses.

TEXAN BACKSLIDES
MARSHALLVILLE, Ga. (UP)—One Texan who bought a farm in Georgia shouldn't try to return to Texas. H. A. (Tex) Friedman told the Macon, Ga., Telegraph that although fellow Texans probably will accuse him of treason, he has found he "can raise as many cattle on 300 acres in Georgia as my father raised on 3,000 acres in Texas."

Film On T.B. Shown At BPW Meet

Members of the Business and Professional Club voted Thursday evening at the regular meeting of the Club which was held at the Woman's Club to organize Greenville for the Infants Paralysis Drive in January, announced Glen Blanton, president and presiding officer.

Mrs. Blair Cox Whiles, a club member, is chairman of the Women's Division of the Pitt County Campaign.

Mrs. J. E. Spilman, chairman of the Legislative Committee and the Executive Secretary of the Pitt County Tuberculosis Association, assisted by Julia Fisher, Superintendent of Nurses of the Pitt County Health Department, showed a film entitled "Unsuspected" which illustrated how many agencies help when a citizen contacts T.B.

The BPW Club voted to buy a bond and thus fight tuberculosis in Pitt County.

In observing American Education Week, a group of high school boys under the direction of Miss Ona Shindler gave a varied musical program and Mrs. Glen Garner explained the legislative program of the United Forces for Education.

Mrs. Ruel W. Tyson, who was recently made State Legislation Chairman of the North Carolina Federation of BPW Clubs, reported on Mid-Year Council which was held in Wilmington last week-end. Other club members to attend the State Meeting were Lucile Rice and Mrs. Chester Walsh.

Plans for the December meeting were made. Each member was asked to bring a gift to be distributed by the Salvation Army.

Joint Hostesses To Book Exchange Club

Bethel—Mrs. Ralph Highsmith and Mrs. Alva Lee Whitley were hostesses to the Book Exchange Club at the home of Mrs. Highsmith on Thursday afternoon, Oct. 30.

The home was beautifully decorated with fall flowers and Halloween designs. Mrs. Linwood Briley, president, presided and welcomed Mrs. Herbert Brown as a new member.

After a short business session, Mrs. Highsmith gave a very interesting paper on North Carolina Poetry. She outlined the history of poetry in the state, naming the outstanding poets and explaining their styles. A delicious dessert plate and coffee were served by the hostesses before adjournment of the meeting.

Theatre Guild Schedules Play For December

Performances of "Ring Around Elizabeth," the first production of the 1952-53 season of Greenville's Little Theatre Guild, will be given December 2 and 3 at 8 p. m. in the auditorium of the West Greenville School.

Due to a heavy schedule, Mr. Ward James will be unable to continue his direction of the play. The Little Theatre Guild feels most fortunate in being able to continue rehearsals under the capable direction of Mr. Donald C. Hower. Mr. Hower is a newcomer to Greenville and is associated with E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co.

The cast of "Ring Around Elizabeth" in order of their appearance on stage is as follows:
Laurette Carpenter Styles, Elizabeth Savage; Hubert Cherry, James Savage; Mercedes, Patsy Baker; Vida, Annie Laurie Askew; Jennifer, Bert Sudor; Elizabeth Cherry, Betty Gordon; Irene Oliver, Betty Pott Young; Harriet Gilpin, Katherine Walsh; Ralph Cherry, Claude Taylor; Andy Biayne, Gay Gnaney; Policeman, Joe Trotman; Dr. Hollister, Joe Trotman.

C. E. Williams will be stage manager for this production and Helen C. Jackson will be in charge of properties.

Chicod Ruritan Ladies Night

The Chicod Ruritan Club held their annual Ladies Night on Tuesday night, November 11, in the school cafeteria.

Fedie Hodges introduced Mr. Charlie McCullen, secretary Chamber of Commerce, Kinston, North Carolina, who used as his topic "Civic Organizations Help Solve World Problems."

L. D. Stanley, president, was master of ceremonies and gave the welcome and Mrs. Alton Gardner gave the response.

The Invocation was rendered by Marvin Smith.

Entertainment was furnished by Miss Barbara Bone's music students, who rendered several catchy tunes for the group.

Seven new members were taken into the Club—James H. Smith, Gady Smith, Arthur S. Alford, Norman Porter, Norman Stanley, Kenith Mills and Oscar Williams.

Dinner was served by the Ladies Auxiliary of the Pleasant Hill Free Will Baptist Church.

The Club will entertain the football team on December 10.

Mr. Mrs. Mewborn Entertain At Cards

Grifton—Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Mewborn entertained at a buffet supper on Wednesday night for members of their bridge club and invited players for three tables.

In the living room bowls of yellow chrysanthemums were used as decorations. The upper table was covered with a lace cloth and held a crystal ball of yellow mums. Dark green candles in crystal candleabra furnished illumination.

After a delectable turkey supper play ensued with highest scores being made by Mrs. Cecil Cobb, Mr. W. I. Bessette and Mrs. Mark Phillips for visitors. Other players were Mr. Cobb, Mrs. Bessette, Mr. Phillips, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Oglesby, Mr. and Mrs. Thurman J. Williams and Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Hodges.

Mrs. Quinerly Hostess At Bridge Party

GRIFTON—On Wednesday night, Mrs. H. P. Quinerly had players for four tables of bridge at her home here.

Lovely arrangements of dried flowers and berries added attractiveness to the rooms in which the guests were received.

Prior to the games a delectable ham supper was served at the card tables. During the progressions Mrs. Jack Chapman compiled highest score for club members and Mrs. Clifton Jackson won high among the visitors. The consolation went to Mrs. J. W. Short.

Others playing were Mesdames Alton Chapman, A. D. Wall, L. D. McCotter, J. L. Tucker, Richard Nelson, Robert Mewborn, Charlie Gardner, Jake Worthington, Miss Marie Chapman, Miss Bert Johnson, Miss Hazel Patrick and Miss Louise Mewborn.

Mrs. Wooten Speaks At Garden Club

GRIFTON—The November meeting of the Grifton Garden Club was held on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. C. D. Gardner on Queen Street.

Mrs. Gardner presided at the brief business hour, during which she announced that the dogwood trees would be here this week instead of January as formerly planned.

The guest speaker, Mrs. Cecil Wooten of Kinston, spoke on bulbs and roses. Her talk was both entertaining and informative.
At the tea hour Mrs. Gardner served spiced tea and cookies. Mrs. J. L. Phillips of Kinston was a guest of the club also. There were nine members in attendance.

Farmville Troop Has Informal Party

FARMVILLE—Group No. 1 of the Farmville Girl Scouts were hostesses at an informal party held last Friday night at the Scout Hut.

Square dancing and playing games were the highlights of the evening. Punch, cookies, sandwiches, salted nuts and pickles were served from an appointed table covered with a gold cloth centered with an arrangement of purple and gold chrysanthemums with matching streamers and crystal candle holders bearing yellow lighted tapers.

The mantel was decorated with chrysanthemums and greenery.
Linda Corbett, president of the White Rose Patrol, was honored with a lovely gift in remembrance of her 13th birthday, which she was celebrating on the day of the party.
Deidi Faul of Germany, house guest of Albert Monk, was a visitor.
Mrs. G. A. Newton, Mrs. G. P. Burgeon and Mrs. J. T. Nolen were chaperones for the occasion.

Phantoms Score 14-12 Triump Over Roanoke Rapids

Bob Perry, G. Smith Spark Phants Attack

The Greenville High football squad displayed the mark of champions last night when they overcame a two touchdown deficiency to score a 14-12 victory over Roanoke Rapids.

Last night's victory clinched a tie for second place in the Northeastern Conference for the Phantoms. The flying, driving legs of Bobby Perry and Guy Smith, who were playing their last game for Greenville High, carried the brunt of the touchdown drives that won the game and gave the Phantoms their most successful season in several years.

Roanoke Rapids scored on the fourth play of the game, then came through with another marker early in the second quarter to put the Yellow Jackets ahead 12-0 and threaten to make a runaway victory for the invaders.

Greenville received the opening kickoff and carried back to their own 32 yard line. On the first play of the game Pat Sawyer's pass was intercepted on the Roanoke Rapids 47 yard line by Williamson.

Dallas Hurst circled end on the next play and raced 51 yards to the Greenville 2 yard line. Hurst crashed tackle for the score.

A pass play that fooled everyone including the referees gave the Yellow Jackets their second score. Hurst faked a handoff to the fullback who hit the line and was tackled. The referee blew the whistle but Hurst who still had the ball fired a pass to Dan Topping who stepped into the end zone for a touchdown. The referees ruled a touchdown despite the whistle. They try for extra point was blocked.

The second Roanoke Rapids touchdown seemed to fire the Phantoms instead of wilt them. They came romping back with Perry and James Speight carrying through the line and around the ends to march down to the Jacket 15 yard line.

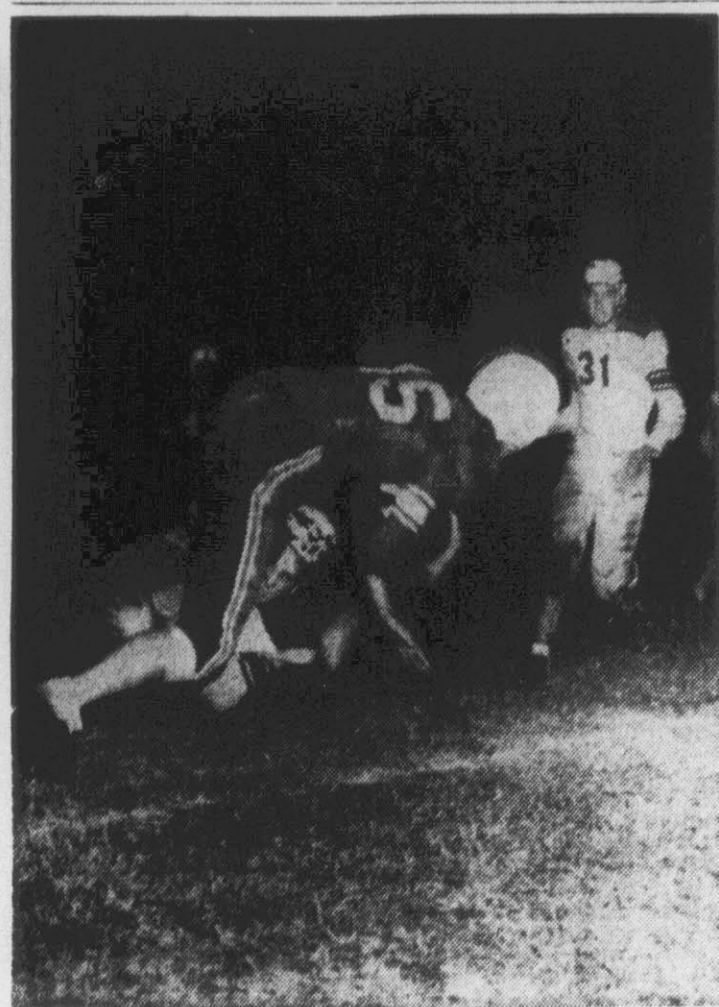

The attack bogged down here but on the last down Guy Smith took a pitchout from Quarterback George Sideris, moved around left end as if to run the ball, then suddenly threw a perfect left-handed pass to Bobby Perry in the end zone for the touchdown. The same play worked again for the extra point and the score at halftime stood 12-7 in favor of Roanoke Rapids.

Throughout the third quarter Greenville fought vainly to push across another score, but were repeatedly denied by a stalwart Jacket defense. Several penalties came at inopportune moments to thwart several Phantom thrusts.

With time running out in the final quarter the Phantoms with Sideris at the controls began to grind out yardage overland. Smith and Perry smashed off tackle, up the middle and around the ends with such irregularity that the Roanoke Rapids defensive unit began to back steadily toward their own goal.

On the ten yard line the Jacket defense stiffened again and held for three downs. On the fourth down Sideris pitched out to Smith who burst around end and into the end zone with the winning touchdown. Perry went around the opposite end for the extra point.

Jimmy Cheatham, who was also playing his final game for the Phantoms, played an outstanding game on defense. Cheatham, Doug Morgan, Bobby Conway, Bobby Nunn, Dixie Hogwood and Boots Ties were the chief reasons why the Yellow Jackets couldn't get a scoring drive going in the last half of the ball game.

PERRY GAINS GROUND FOR PHANTOMS

Fraley Suggests New Records

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP)—There is startling proof at hand today that the Southwest Conference is not the Mecca of football passing it's cracked up to be and that collegiate publicity men are in the statistical doldrums.

What brings this to an alleged mind is that New York's Monday morning quarterbacks at their weekly chowder session today will receive the earth-shaking news that Mitch Price of Columbia has set a new Ivy League record for career pass attempts in two and seven-ninths seasons.

He's a cinch. Because Columbia has a long line of football throwers such as Sid Luckman, Paul Governali and Gene Rossides. And every Monday morning in the doleful decade I've listened to coaches' reports that the Lions have come up with a passing mark of some sort or other.

Maybe I should hasten to add that these remarks are all in fun, before people suspicion that I'm a disappointed Democrat Eisenhower supporter formerly being Columbia's president) Because last week I chided Lion Coach Lon Little about never playing a "bad" team on the grounds that you can lose to "good" teams without hurting your rep.

Now Mitch Price is a real nice young fellow from Midvale, Utah. That's one of the few places I never got a ticket for speeding. So I have nothing against him, Midvale, Utah or even Columbia.

But these weekly records are beginning to irritate me more than those paralyzed paralyzes with which I bat a losing 1,000 at the race track. For instance, the proud Columbia announcement last week was that Price had posted a new pass attempt mark for two and two-thirds seasons.

Which should bring all the rest of the nation's college tub thumpers to strict attention. I have some suggestions.

Absolutely free, and I guarantee to quote them, here are some "records" which are just begging for holders.

Most incomplete passes by right handed throwers, majoring in Kelly pool and having red-haired girl friends.

Most attempts from behind own goal line right, left or ambidextrous while flunking in ballroom dancing, with coach fainting, or firing from hip.

The possibilities, as you can see, are limitless. There could even be marksmanship records on the graying touchdown turtors, standards for most times punctured in bullet proof shoulder guards and on into the fine autumn frenzy.

Besides, baseball has had a corner on this business too long, anyhow. Let's match their pitching records with passing records, their batting marks with punting standards which have entertainment value and we might wind up with Bill Veck reviving the Army-Notre Dame game.

As you no doubt have sensed, these Monday morning sessions are exhilarating affairs. Today we'll chalk up another record: Most times uninterrupted at siesta and, of course, that new Columbia classic.

Duke and Wake Forest, each unbeaten in three Southern Conference games, battle it out for the title vacated by Maryland. The Blue Devils, beaten in their last two starts, were favored by seven.

In the Pacific Coast Conference, unbeaten and united Southern California faces a tough test in Washington. UCLA, also with a perfect record and tied with the Trojans for the PCC lead, are idle.

Woonsocket, R. I. (UP)—Jockey Tony Desprito learns today whether being thrown twice by the same horse in the same race has seriously interrupted his bid for a world's riding record.

The 17-year-old rider's physician, Dr. Augustine W. Eddy, said he would know this morning whether Desprito would be able to ride any of his eight scheduled mounts this afternoon at Lincoln Downs.

Desprito, the nation's leading jockey though only an apprentice, spent the night at Woonsocket Hospital with a "slight" concussion and bruises suffered when he was thrown twice Friday by Answer Man at Lincoln.

Five Conference Titles Will Be Decided Today

Wake Forest, Duke Battle For Southern Conference Crown

By NORMAN MILLER
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP)—College football reaches the crucial stage today with a battle for national honors between Michigan State and Notre Dame, and games involving first place in five conferences.

The conference showdowns are between Purdue and Michigan in the Big Ten; Oklahoma vs. Missouri in the Big Seven; Georgia Tech vs. Alabama in the Southeastern; Texas vs. Texas Christian in the Southwest; and Duke vs. Wake Forest in the Southern.

Michigan State, top-ranked nationally for eight straight weeks, and sporting a winning streak of 22 games, can just about clinch the mythical national championship by beating sixth-ranked Notre Dame at East Lansing, Mich. The Spartans are favored by 13 points.

The Irish, with a 7-1 record for the season, showed power in upsetting Oklahoma last week. What's more they're gunning for the Spartans who beat them in their last two meetings, last year by a 35-0 score. After Notre Dame, Michigan State has only Marquette left on its schedule.

Purdue and Michigan were rated even in their battle for the Big Ten lead and a berth in the Rose Bowl. Purdue has been tied once in conference play; the Wolverines have lost once in the Big Ten Wisconsin, also in the running for the Rose Bowl, plays Indiana; Minnesota, also in the picture, goes out of the conference to face Nebraska.

Oklahoma, shooting for its sixth straight Big Seven crown, was a three-touchdown choice over Missouri. The Sooners have a conference tie on their record but can take over the lead with a victory over Missouri, winner in all four of its Big Seven starts.

In the game to be witnessed by a nationwide television audience, Georgia Tech sought its 15th straight triumph and its 23rd game without defeat against once-beaten Alabama. The underdog Crimson Tide needs a good performance to stay in the running for a bowl bid.

Texas can clinch a Cotton Bowl berth by beating TCU. The Longhorns have won four straight in the Southwest Conference.

Although Southern Methodist still has a chance for the conference title, it has been beaten by Texas. If the league race ends in a tie between them, the Longhorns rate the bowl berth.

Duke and Wake Forest, each unbeaten in three Southern Conference games, battle it out for the title vacated by Maryland. The Blue Devils, beaten in their last two starts, were favored by seven.

In the Pacific Coast Conference, unbeaten and united Southern California faces a tough test in Washington. UCLA, also with a perfect record and tied with the Trojans for the PCC lead, are idle.

Topnotch Jockey Injured In Fall

WOONSOCKET, R. I. (UP)—Jockey Tony Desprito learns today whether being thrown twice by the same horse in the same race has seriously interrupted his bid for a world's riding record.

The 17-year-old rider's physician, Dr. Augustine W. Eddy, said he would know this morning whether Desprito would be able to ride any of his eight scheduled mounts this afternoon at Lincoln Downs.

Pirate Seniors Playing Last Game Tonight

East Carolina Bucs Favored IN Clash With West Virginia

By JIMMY ELLIS
Reflector Sports Writer

West Virginia Tech's Golden Bears rolled into town yesterday and found themselves on the short end of the stick so far as pre-game ratings of their game tonight with East Carolina College's Pirates were concerned.

Tech was made a slight underdog despite a season's record of six wins and only two losses. The Pirates have won five of their first nine games. The other four were split evenly between losses and ties.

Both teams had high workouts yesterday on the East Carolina practice fields and then began the long wait until game time tonight. Both head coaches expect to have their squads at near full strength for the game and both have promised that nothing will be held back in an effort to get a victory.

The host Pirates are expected to be a bit stronger tonight than they have been in their last two games because of the return of fullback Claude King to full-time duty King missed most of the Guilford and Stetson games and all of the Appalachian game because of an injured knee.

The only other line-up change planned for the Pirates will be at right end on defense where All-Conference Dwight Shoe will hold forth. Shoe will play both offense and defense tonight since J. D. Bradford, the regular defensive end, will miss all action because of a bad knee.

The Pirates are expected to need all the defensive strength they can muster tonight to stop Tech's strong running game which is led by All-Conference fullback Walter Rapko and freshman fullback Delmar Dixon.

Dixon, a 170-pounder, and Rapko, a 195-pounder, rank one-two in Tech's ground gaining with Rapko being top man in the scoring. In addition to his running, Rapko also handles the team's punting and a portion of the passing.

Rapko and Dixon will team with fullback Moody Fisher and quarter John Gross or Bob Burruss to complete the Tech backfield. Burruss is expected to start because of a shoulder injury suffered a couple of weeks ago by Gross.

East Carolina's athletic office announced that tickets are still available for the game and will be on sale tonight at the gates. Kickoff time is 8 p.m.

Ted Williams To Report Overseas

CHERRY POINT, N. C. (AP)—Marine Capt. Ted Williams, former major league batting star, today received his orders to report to the Pacific Coast for further transfer beyond the seas.

The announcement was made here by the Public Information Office, Second Marine Air Wing.

The Boston Red Sox star, a Marine Reserve officer, is to report to the Marine Corps Air Station, El Toro, Calif., by Jan. 2, before receiving his transfer overseas as a jet fighter pilot.

Before reporting to the West Coast, Williams is expected to take a short leave and then return here for further instrument training.

Race Season Ends In New York With $50,000 Handicap

NEW YORK (UP)—New York's 1952 racing season, one of its most successful in history, winds up today with a double stakes program featuring the $50,000 Butler Handicap at Jamaica.

Hampton Stable's Alerted, one of the most active horses in racing, was top-weighted at 124 pounds in the eight-horse field for the mile and three-sixteenths Butler. The race will mark the 42nd time in two years that he has gone to the post.

In the co-featured $15,000 Ardsky Stakes, eight two-year-olds have been entered. Sixom Stable's Invigorator was the favorite to win the six-furlong test for juveniles.

The seven and one-half months season just ending will be New York's biggest since the record year of 1946. Attendance and mutual figures will exceed last year's substantially.

Pimlico also ends its 1952 season with the $20,000 Exterminator Handicap, which has drawn a field of eight. Mrs. Kendall Weil's Ken, who scored a surprise victory over such handicap "regulars" as Alerted and Greek Ship in the Trenton Handicap at Garden State last Saturday, was favored in the mile and one-half route.

Cloyce Box, end for the Detroit Lions in the NFL, caught four touchdown passes against Baltimore in 1950 to establish the Lions' record for most scores in a single game.

Duke University quarterback Worth Lutz was born and raised within sight of the Duke campus in Durham, N.C.

Grimesland Loses Close Cage Game

GRIMESLAND—Grimesland and Maury split a basketball double-header played last night in the Grimesland gym. Grimesland's girls took the first half of the hardwood twin-bill by defeating Maury 31-25. The Maury boys evened the count in the second game by coming from behind in the last 20 seconds to win 42-42.

In the girls' game Becky Mills, a freshman forward, led Grimesland's scoring with 16 points. Jane Tucker was runner-up in the scoring parade with eight tallies.

A last-second field goal by Joseph gave Maury their victory in the second half of the evening's action. Grimesland had led throughout the ball game but were never able to build up a lead which would have enabled them to withstand Maury's last quarter splurge.

The box score:
Post, Grimesland Maury
F—Mills (3) Moyer (8)
F—Godley (9) Russ (15)
C—Andrews (20) Jones (3)
G—R. Heath (6) Carson (5)
G—S. Heath (2) Joseph (10)
Substitutions: Grimesland: Teel (2); Maury: Brauner and Hughes.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Sallie Lloyd Langley; four sons: James Preston, Jr., Henry and Jesse Langley, all of the home; three daughters: Mary Retha, Sallie, and Mattie Langley, all of the home; two sisters: Mrs. Sude Dunn of Fountain, and Mrs. Sadie Wooten of Greenville; and his father, Peyton Langley of the home.

BEES STOP BUSINESS KEYSER, W. Va. (UP)—Service at a gasoline station here was held up for two hours on a busy Saturday afternoon by a swarm of bees, which clustered on the gasoline pumps until the keeper came along to retrieve them.

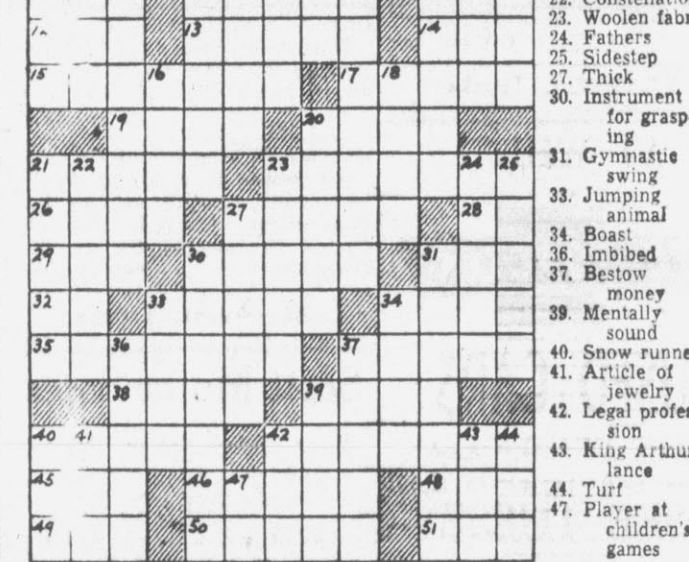

The present Balmoral Castle in Scotland was built in 1856.

Importance Of Wills Stressed In Addressing Body

James C. Lanier, Jr., young Greenville attorney, was guest speaker at yesterday's meeting of Pitt County Life Underwriters.

Lanier spoke on wills, and their importance to an individual in everyday life.

The speaker stressed the importance of drawing wills and keeping them up to date — especially on the part of the average citizen.

"Marriages, additions to the family and other family changes affect wills, and, thus, they should be reviewed often," Lanier said.

"Many people never make wills, and in failing to do so, cause property to be unequally distributed."

President Riddick Revelle urged that all life insurance men in the organization send their donations for the new National Association home office.

Plans No Inquest In Infant's Death

A three month old Negro baby, Jesse Ray Floyd of Whiteville, died yesterday of a cerebral hemorrhage.

Pitt County Coroner Griffin H. Rouse said today that the hemorrhage was the result of accidental pressure on the baby's head by the mother while sleeping with the baby.

Rouse said the death of accidental and no inquest would be held.

NOT TO BE FOOLED MILWAUKEE (UP)—Drunk drivers who chew chlorophyll chewing gum to kill alcoholic breath may fool police officers in some cities but not here. Police Chief John Polcyn said "we have 20 other tests besides the 'nose test' and the drivers have to pass them all."

Britain has over 23 million workers.

Capitol Square

for State and county offices, although some of them crossed the line or ran very close on the national ticket.

REPUTED -- The Western Democrats can no longer charge that the "East nominates Democratic candidates, but the West has to elect them." The Easterners have utterly refuted the all of which are very close and after the primaries. It will be some time before complete analysis of the voting can be made, but it is evident that in proportion to eligible registered voters the Easterners did a good job in getting their ballots counted as did the Westerners. One high ranking State official said his own tabulation showed that the voters east of a north-south line drawn from Virginia to South Carolina long the western borders of Caswell, Alamance, Chatham, Moore and Richmond counties—almost a straight line and nearest to east-west middle of the state as can be found—saved the Democratic ticket. Votes west of that line were overwhelmingly for Eisenhower and the Unstead majority for Governor was narrow. It took the votes east of that divisor to keep North Carolina in the national Democratic column and to give Governor Unstead a large part of his vote of confidence. It is further noted that everyone of the 16 Republicans in the next General Assembly—two Senators and 14 Representatives—come from east of that artificial dividing line. The Easterners may use this situation to bolster their continuing larger influence on State government than population and tax payments would seem to warrant. Whether wise or unwise, fact is that when it came to the issue of keeping North Carolina Democratic, "the East dood it."

1 I TELL YA, SOMETHIN'S IN THE BUSHES. SURE! CHIPMUNKS, RABBITS, BIRDS! ARE YOU LOSIN' YOUR MIND, CHASIN' STRAY DOGS?

2 NOW LET'S FINISH DIGGIN', SO WE CAN GET OUTA HERE!

3 I STILL THINK I HEARD SOMETHIN'. IT WAS YOUR HEART POUNDIN'! ALL WE GOTTA DO NOW IS REMEMBER WHERE WE BURIED THE STUFF. WE'LL REMEMBER.

4 I WONDER WHAT THEY BURIED HERE. SHOULD I WAIT AND GET HIM TO LOOK AT IT? HEY! THEY LEFT A SHOVEL!

5 I CAN'T WAIT! BESIDES, IF I MAKE AN IMPORTANT DISCOVERY, HE'LL BE PROUD OF ME, WON'T HE, DEVIL? I'LL SHOW HIM I CAN CATCH CROOKS, TOO!

6 SO, WHAT IF WE DID FORGET THE SHOVEL? LEAVE IT. NO. SOMEONE MIGHT TRACE IT TO THE STORE WHERE WE BOUGHT IT-- GO BACK AND GET IT, MEN.

3 'TIS INDEED A BITTER BLOW... BUT I SUGGEST WE APPEAL TO THIS STONY-HEARTED SKINFLINT!

4 IT ISN'T FAIR TO MAKE "SPACE-PILOT" PULL US IN THAT BUGGY RIGHT AFTER RUNNING A RACE... I'VE GOT ENOUGH FOR BUS FARE!

5 BRING THAT TROPHY... IT MUST HAVE AT LEAST A MODEST VALUE!

6 MR. MARLOW MUST BE HERE NOW!... THERE'S HIS CAR!

7 AND THE OTHER IS THE SHERIFF'S IF I'M NOT MISTAKEN!

8 SHERIFF? WHAT WOULD HE BE HERE FOR?... TO ARREST MRS. JONES?

9 OH, NO... IT'S ONE OF HIS DUTIES TO SERVE PAPERS OF FORECLOSURE AND EVICTION!

10 WHAT'S THE IDEA OF BUSTIN' IN HERE. CAN'T YOU SEE WE'RE BUSY?

11 WAIT A MINUTE! AREN'T YOU DOC STOVEPIPE FROM THE CARNIVAL?

12 YES, SHERIFF, I AM OFTEN REFERRED TO IN THAT MANNER!

13 MR. MARLOW, MRS. JONES OWES YOU A THOUSAND DOLLARS.. WILL YOU ACCEPT THIS THOUSAND DOLLARS IN PURCHASE CERTIFICATES AS PAYMENT?

14 HUH? WHAT? CERTIFICATES! DON'T BE SILLY!

15 THAT'S A REASONABLE OFFER, MARLOW! NO USE BEIN' TOO HARD ON THIS LADY.. WHY NOT TAKE IT AN' BE SATISFIED?

16 EXCUSE ME! THERE'S THE DOOR-BELL!

17 NOTHIN' DOIN', SHERIFF! I GOT A RIGHT TO DEMAND MONEY, AND I WON'T TAKE NOTHIN' ELSE!

18 IT'S SOMEBODY TO SEE RUSTY AND PETE!... I FORGOT TO TELL YOU HE WAS HERE BEFORE... HE SAYS HIS NAME IS CLEM!

19 JEEPERS! THAT'S CLEM, THE SAILOR OFF THE FREIGHTER!
