Soviet Rejection Kills Peace Hopes Based On India's Plan For Korea

U. S. Still Ready To Accept Revised Version; Few See China Accepting

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (UP)—Russia's firm rejection of India's compromise Korean peace plan appeared today to have killed hopes that an armistice would result from this session of the United Nations General Assembly.

Secretary of State Dean Acheson allayed talk of a major Anglo-American rift Monday when he spoke glowingly of the Indian resolution and its presentation by V. K. Krishna Menon, the astute associate of India's Premier Jawaharlal Nehru.

Britain and her Commonwealth partners have argued, in private council among the 21 powers co-sponsoring an American peace plan, that the Indian resolution had much to support it.

Acheson told the General Assembly's Political Committee the U. S. would "most heartily support" the resolution if a few changes were made.

Jet Ace Given Permission To Return To Korea

SCOTT AIR FORCE BASE, Ill. (UP)—Jet ace Maj. James Jabara, with six Russian-built MIGs to his credit, received permission today to return to Korea and promised to "blast 'em out of the sky if I get the chance."

The 37-year-old ace discounted his previous kills as "very little" and said he requested a return to combat because he feels "I ought to do my share."

"That's our primary job, to do the shooting when the shooting's going on," he added.

Jabara said he "definitely" thinks Russians are flying some MIGs in Korea, but "we've been fighting them 200 miles inside their lines and haven't been able to capture any of them."

Local Leaf Market Enjoyed Fourth-Best Year Of Sales

By JESS POINDEXTER Reflector City Editor

The unique, sing-song chant of tobacco auctioneer died away in Greenville shortly after noon yesterday, and the 1952 leaf auction season was history.

W. L. Whedbee, supervisor of sales on the Greenville Tobacco Market, said this morning that contrary to popular opinion this has been the fourth most successful sale year in the 62-year history of the market.

Whedbee announced that at the conclusion of the 1952 season yesterday, farmers in this area had sold a total of 62,723,626 pounds of tobacco for $31,814,081.42, at an average price of $50.72 per hundred pounds.

Fourth Best Year Only the selling seasons of 1946, 1950 and 1951 topped this year's sales, the supervisor reported.

In 1946, money paid out was $35,983,384; 1950 saw local farmers receive $35,325,935; and last year was the market record with $41,280,137 going to tobacco growers.

Only those three years eclipsed this year's total payment of $31,814,081.42. The same applies to this year's average per hundred pounds of $50.72 which was also the fourth largest in history.

"The decrease in poundage and average this year was due principally to extremely hot and dry weather in the Greenville area during the growing period in June and July of this year," Whedbee stated.

Damaging Conditions "That unprecedented condition badly damaged the crop in this immediate area and seriously affected both yield and quality of tobacco in the Greenville territory."

The sales supervisor declared that in his opinion a normal growing season this year in June and July would have resulted in a production at least equal to last year's record of 74,000,000 pounds.

Whedbee emphasized the fact that although this year's figures were considerably lower than the banner year of 1951—approximately $10,000,000 lower in fact—1952 was one of the four best years the Greenville market has ever had.

"Million-Dollar" Days Even though there were only two days this season when more than $1,000,000 was paid out, as compared with seven last year, there were many days when sales went well over $900,000.

But the season is ended today, and floors of Greenville's many warehouses are being cleared until next August. Thousands of tobacco baskets and trucks are being stacked away for the year, and floors converted to storage facilities.

Bright Belt buyers and workers have just about completed their duties in Greenville for 1952, and the Burley Belt beckons. A large number of local citizens are even now making preparations to make their annual pilgrimage to Asheville and Kentucky, making their knowledge available in other fields.

Superforts Strike Red Supply Center

Okinawa - Based Planes Join In Raids Over North Korea; British Commonwealth Troops Hit Enemy Outposts

SEOUL, Korea (UP)—Okinawa based American superfortresses blasted a Communist supply depot at Hoochang today as British and Australian soldiers harassed Chinese outposts on the western front with commando-like raids.

Bad weather, which stalled Allied war plane missions yesterday, cleared slightly today and fighter bombers hit road and rail supply lines and enemy line positions.

The 12 superfortresses took off from Okinawa and dropped 500 pound bombs through a solid overcast before dawn today to wreck the 18-acre Red supply depot east of Pyongyang.

B-36 raiders bombed two bridges, over which Red supply and ammunition convoys moved and destroyed 85 trucks. Clouds hampered these operations also.

On the ground raiders from the Royal Fusiliers and the Royal Australian Regiment smashed through Chinese lines overlooking the Sami River Valley east of Yonchon shortly after midnight (10 a. m. Mon.) and captured an outpost.

While the Fusiliers hauled back a vicious Chinese counter-attack, the Australians drove down a narrow valley to harass Red soldiers. After a bitter fight, the Australians returned to the outpost, joined the British and all pulled back to U.S. lines.

British Ambassador Sir Esler Denning and British Director of Infantry Maj. Gen. John Mathews were briefed on the Commonwealth raid. Denning, who accompanied the division last night.

The division has been identified on the western front since Saturday. The Fusiliers pushed Chinese troops off a nose of land peering down on the Sami River Valley about midnight. The Chinese quickly mustered a counterattack, but the British blunted it.

Meanwhile, the Australians drove a two-pronged attack against Red positions farther north. One band of Aussies swept through the lines about 2 a. m. and another force drove around a hill and up a valley to the west.

They ran smack into surprised Chinese, fought them in brief battles and then returned about 4:20 a. m.

It was the biggest action along the 155-mile battlefield during the night.

Participation in the Santa Claus parade by Cubs and Scouts was urged by several members of the district committee. Retiring President Kittrell appointed on a Christmas Parade participation committee F. D. Duncan, Wyatt Brown, Steinbeck, and Butler.

Retiring Commissioner Dowdy reported inspection of Scout troops during the past month.

Webb called on the members of the district committee to join him in a full measure of service to Scouting.

LEGISLATIVE COMMITTEE OF THE North Carolina Merchants Association for their investigation and recommendation.

THE BOARD went on record last night as recommending to the merchants of Greenville that they remain open on the following nights prior to Christmas: Friday, Saturday, Monday and Tuesday until 8 p. m. and close at 6 p. m. on Christmas Eve.

New AFL Head Charge Sergeant Offered Secrets

WASHINGTON (AP)—George Meany, 59-year-old one-time plumber, today was unanimously chosen new president of the American Federation of Labor.

Meany, who has served as AFL secretary-treasurer, was named by 12 top AFL officials to succeed William F. Green who died of a heart attack last Friday.

He immediately issued a new call to the rival CIO for labor unity. Meany will serve as AFL president through 1953. He will come up for re-election at the next AFL convention in September, 1953. Convention delegates are considered certain to approve today's action.

Charge Sergeant Offered Secrets Airman Accused Of Offering Sell F-86 Data To N. Koreans

TOKYO (UP)—An American Air Force sergeant was held incommunicado today on a charge of trying to sell secret information about the F-86 Sabrejet fighter to the Communists in Korea.

Court martial charges were filed Nov. 18 against S-Sgt. Giuseppe Cascio, 34, of Tucson, Ariz., a veteran of nine years of service in the Air Force.

Cascio's arrest on Sept. 21 climaxed six weeks of work by Air Force intelligence officers. It was the first case of alleged conspiracy with the enemy by Americans serving in Korea.

Cascio was specifically accused of "attempting and conspiring to sell military intelligence to the enemy." Conviction could mean life imprisonment.

In addition, the Air Force accused Cascio of 16 counts of black-marketing with military scrip in Korea.

Arrested as an accomplice with Cascio was S-Sgt. John P. Jones of Manchester, Mass., the Air Force said. He was accused of obtaining the Sabrejet secrets and passing them on to Cascio.

Court martial charges were not preferred against Jones. The Air Force said he cracked under the strain, although he had no previous record of mental instability, and a board of Air Force doctors pronounced him insane.

Jones has since been returned to the United States for medical treatment.

The conspiracy indictment charged that Cascio plotted "knowingly to give intelligence to the enemy" about secret flight performance records of the F-86E Sabrejet fighter.

WOODS' RESIGNATION May Signal End Price Controls WASHINGTON (UP)—Reports spread through the Capital today that T. H. Woods' resignation as price stabilizer may be the prelude to a presidential order scrapping all wage-price controls.

There was no immediate confirmation from official sources. One highly placed administration official said he could not rule out the possibility that controls will be dumped. But he said the step is not under "serious" consideration right now.

Sen. Burnet R. Maybank D-S.C. said on a nationwide radio broadcast that he has "information" at President Truman is considering killing wage-price controls before Congress returns.

There was no immediate confirmation from official sources. One highly placed administration official said he could not rule out the possibility that controls will be dumped. But he said the step is not under "serious" consideration right now.

Sen. Burnet R. Maybank D-S.C. said on a nationwide radio broadcast that he has "information" at President Truman is considering killing wage-price controls before Congress returns.

Maybank said after the broadcast that he understands "certain powerful interests are being brought to bear against President Truman to drop wage and price controls."

"I cannot speak for the President," he said, "but I do think there are many people who are for the abolishment of wage and price controls."

Reports have been circulating for days that the administration is considering such action as a means of getting out of "box" in the coal wage situation.

Woods submitted his resignation to the President Monday with an angry blast at what he called an unfair and inadequate price control law.

Stabilization officials said Woods' resignation was entirely "coincidental" with the reports of dumping controls. But they conceded that Woods' blast at the controls law could provide Mr. Truman with an excuse for dropping controls.

They argued that it would be politically unwise for the administration to abandon controls because the Republicans next year could blame the Democrats for whatever further inflation might result.

Clark Completes Protection Plans For Visit By Ike

Military Officials Are Plainly Concerned About Eisenhower's Security

SEOUL, Korea (UP)—U.N. Commander Gen. Mark Clark flew back to Tokyo today after making "concrete" arrangements to safeguard Dwight D. Eisenhower during the President-elect's forthcoming visit to Korea.

Clark spent 24 hours in Korea in secret conferences with Gen. James A. Van Fleet, Eighth Army commander, and Lt. Gen. Glenn O. Barcus, Fifth Air Force commander, the two men whose responsibility it will be to see that Eisenhower has "bullet-proof protection."

"We naturally discussed plans for General Eisenhower's visit," Clark said at an air base near Seoul.

"Concrete arrangements have been made, you bet your life. We are all set to take care of it. That's all I can say," Clark said.

Clark's visit to Korea, which he described as "interesting," dealt with the lightest possible security measures for Eisenhower's visit.

He conferred Monday night and today with Van Fleet and Barcus on all details surrounding the visit. Barcus' Fifth Air Force will guard Seoul against any possible surprise Red air attacks.

Clark was accompanied on his flight to Tokyo by British Ambassador to Japan Sir Esler Denning DeJean. They flew to Korea with him Monday.

Clark's brief trip to Korea dashed any speculation that Eisenhower would arrive within a matter of hours.

Military officials, reflecting the tensions under which the general worked, were plainly worried about Eisenhower's security. They said the greatest danger lay in the thousands of cheering citizens who would jam Seoul's streets to welcome Ike.

"It would take only one man—a trained, fanatical Communist ready to give his life, or a simple screwball—to fire the bullet or throw the bomb," an official said.

Secret service men from Washington—like a d. v. n. c. guard—were rumored to be in Seoul for conferences with Eighth Army military police and South Korean national police responsible for guarding Eisenhower's movements.

Air Force preparations to guard against "murder by air" from the Communists' Manchurian sanctuary were said to be complete.

It was believed here they would follow the pattern set up to prevent such an attack on Seoul during the inauguration ceremonies for President Syngman Rhee last summer.

F-86 Sabrejets were set to patrol the far reaches of North Korea and along the Yalu River, alert for any sign of movement from the huge Antung Air Base across the boundary.

Below them, F-84 Thunderjets would circle to pounce on any plane sneaking through the Sabrejet barrier. Other planes, including propeller-driven Mustang fighter-bombers would patrol in wide circles around the capital itself.

Miss Hilda Mayo, a native of Rocky Mount and member of the First Baptist Church of that city, has been employed as Assistant Missionary of the Roanoke Baptist Association, according to an announcement made by the Moderator, the Rev. Clyde E. Baucom, of Wilson.

MISS HILDA MAYO

She will assume her duties on December the first. Miss Mayo is eminently fitted for the work, having had eight years of experience in clerical work, and having served for five years as Young People's Secretary of the Women's Missionary Union of the Baptist State Convention. She is a graduate of the Benvenue High School, near Rocky Mount, of Mars Hill College, and of the W. M. U. Training School of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, of Louisville, Ky., and of the Carolina School of Commerce, of Rocky Mount.

Miss Mayo's work will be of a general promotional nature, as she will assist the 87 churches of the Association in establishing such organizations as Training Unions, Brotherhoods, Women's Missionary Union organizations and Auxiliaries in the churches that do not have them at present. She will assist also in the promotion of Vacation Bible Schools, and in other phases of the Association's total program. Her work will be under the supervision of the Association's Missionary, the Rev. L. Grady Burgess, of Greenville, as directed by the Executive Committee of the Association.

Women In The Church

By Mary Fowler

Methodist women of Victoria, Australia, celebrated the diamond jubilee of their Women's Auxiliary for Overseas Mission recently included among participants was an original member — Mrs. R. Williams. The W.A.O.M. was brought into being by a layman, Mr. R. Howell, as the Ladies' Auxiliary for Foreign Missions, "to interest the ladies, who know how to preside with wisdom and grace in their own drawing rooms, to use these qualities for meeting of a social character, on behalf of missions." It has helped send hundreds of missionaries overseas.

Miss Constance Hallock, a well-known writer of books and magazine articles on home and foreign missionary topics, is now embarking on a year's visit to mission stations and missionaries in the Philippines, Thailand, Indonesia, Malaya, India, Egypt, Lebanon, and several countries in Europe in search of material for the Board of National Missions and of Foreign Missions, Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. Miss Hallock will spend several months of her year in assisting Miss Ruth Ure, who directs at Nagpur the work of the India National Christian Council in promoting literacy by the methods devised by Dr. Frank C. Laubach.

"The missionary can be — often is a great determining force toward peace," says Miss Dorothy McConnell, editor of World Outlook, recently returned from a visit to Africa. "Sometimes he understands his role. Sometimes he plays it unconsciously because he is a man of good will. In either case, he should not be underestimated — particularly in Africa. Africa can be anti-white and anti-western. She can be a great force for brotherliness and righteousness. She is at the turning point, and the road chosen lies, very largely, in the behavior of the white westerner. The missionary, by his very feeling of concern for the village African, lessens the antagonism against the westerner and relaxes the tension, be he white, against the white. The faith that the African can take his own place in the world (when the missionary 'olds such a faith) is intensely important. The missionary's curiosity about African culture restores to the African his pride in his culture."

Mr. Sprunt Speaks To Club On Planting Of Shrubs

The Garden Club held its regular meeting Friday at the clubhouse with Mr. Kenneth Sprunt as guest speaker.

An all-day plant sale of azaleas and camellias had been carried out prior to the meeting. Mr. Sprunt blamed the drought this summer for the loss of many of the plants in this section. He said that flooding was necessary for these shallow rooted plants and warned against planting too deeply. His recommendations for plants in the Greenville area were the Pyracantha Formosana, a red spready bush that required very little attention. He urged buying a small plant and one which was container grown. Also recommended was the Lalandi, the orange upright growth type plant. The Podocarpus Macrophylla Maki, a Japanese hedge, was also popular. He told of the beautifully fragrant Daphne Ora Marginata which are pink and white plants of globular shape for this area. The Japanese plum, a small tree or large shrub, whose fruit was edible and very good for making preserves, is also excellent for here. Others mentioned were the flowering peach, Iceberg and Pink Charming as well as the Camellia Sasanqua. He said that many new varieties of Camellias were being developed and especially the double variety. The meeting was turned over to members for questions which Mr. Sprunt answered. A short business meeting followed. New members are Mrs. Clarence Willard and Mrs. Per Anderson. Guests for the afternoon were Mrs. Dink James, Mrs. Fred Haar, Mrs. S. L. Doughty, Mrs. Lawrence Smith and Mrs. Honcutt. A report of the annual meeting of the tenth district of the Garden Club of N. C. Inc. was given by Mrs. P. E. Wells. Those attending the meeting on Oct. 22 in Rich Square were Mesdames P. E. Wells, W. H. Woolard, Victor Wells, Ernest Willard and Sam Mitchell. Committees were named for the Christmas Show to be held on December 12 and 13. Garden Club calendars were on sale and the year book was distributed by Program Chairman, Mrs. K. B. Pace. The cover, designed by Mr. Francis Neel, is a conventionalized dogwood on green squared background.

The meeting was adjourned and guests and members invited to refreshments of hot spiced tea, dainty sandwiches, nuts, cookies and cheese straws. The club house was elaborately decorated with fall flowers. Hostesses for the afternoon were Mesdames H. R. Rogers, chairman, H. L. Andrews, C. L. Russ, L. L. Rives, D. S. Spain, Sam Mitchell, George Wilkerson, L. W. Topping, Judson Blount, J. Key Brown, Ed Ricks and L. A. Stroud.

When her mother was arrested she hurried home to help her, but now she's returned here in the hopes of landing a job and helping repay the money her mother said she embezzled to finance the blonde beauty's film career. ## Strength for the Day

THE EAST WIND
Someone asked Dr. Archibald Alexander, the man who a century ago started Princeton Theological Seminary, whether or not he was always filled with the realization that he was saved. Dr. Alexander thought for a few minutes and replied, "Yes, except when the east wind blows."
The east wind in the Bible represents trouble and disaster. All through the Bible when the east wind blows, men begin to suffer, nations to fall, pain to become unbearable. What Dr. Alexander meant was that there are times when life's catastrophes overwhelm us to such an extent that we tend to lose our faith, to ask why these things happen to us, to wonder if we are not, after all, decidedly in God's disfavor.
But none of these things indicate that we are in God's disfavor. "Whom the Lord loveth, he chasteneth." The saints have almost never had an easy time in life. For them as for everyone else, when the east wind of trial and tribulation blows, they are cast down and filled with doubt and despair.
Don't let the east wind of tribulation shake your faith in the great truth that God loves you, that He will lead you through everything you may have to endure, and that He has prepared for you a great eternal destiny.

Don't Pass Up Good Information

Water resources have proved one of North Carolina's greatest assets, both actual and potential.
Water resources and their use and development also are proving one of North Carolina's most serious problems if the state is to realize the full potential of one of its greatest natural resources.
From the conservation conference held in Raleigh a couple of weeks ago there came a large amount of valuable information on the condition of North Carolina's water resources. Likewise from the conference there came many recommendations which appear to have merit in planning the further development of the state's waters.
Due to the period of transition which is now taking place in politics both in North Carolina and in the federal government, the conference, to say the least, was held at an inopportune time.
Many of the spokesmen at the conference from the state level were spokesmen for the fast-fading Scott administration rather than the Umstead administration which will direct the activities of the state for the next four years. Likewise the spokesmen for the federal level were representatives of the Truman administration rather than the incoming Eisenhower administration.
By virtue of those facts, the new administration may, though we hope not, be prone to attach little importance to the information which came to light during the conference. Most administrations like to do their own digging and draw their own conclusions rather than rely on the spade-work done by their predecessors.
North Carolina's water resources, in spite of the development which has taken place in recent years, still have a great potential in the fields of hydro-electric power, transportation, industry and recreation.
If the potential is to be realized, a comprehensive development program must be followed.
The recent conference held in Raleigh offered a good foundation for the continuation of such a development program, and we hope the incoming administrations will not overlook the valuable information which was presented at the conference.

No Isolated Incident, This Korean War

A good many people throughout the nation have opined that President-elect Eisenhower's most serious problem is going to be ending the war in Korea.
It seems to us, in the light of recent developments, that Korea is only one phase of a much greater problem which faces the new president of the United States.
The discovery of a large store of Russian-made trucks, big guns and other military supplies in Indo China by French troops points emphatically to the fact the communists are seeking to spread a war throughout Southeast Asia. The analysis and strategists also say the discovery of the Russian-made supplies in Indo China means Russian and Chinese production of military material is sufficient to supply not only their standing forces on the homelands and in Korea but also to help the communists in Indo China.

It is reasonable to assume the French did not stumble on the only supply dump in Indo China which is composed of Russian-made equipment. Following that assumption, the question comes: are there other such supply dumps being built up by the communists in Burma, only 400 miles from where the cache was seized, and in Thailand, only 350 miles from the cache in Indo China?

The United States, of course, has not doubted that the Russian leaders are the strategists behind the Korean War and the other fighting and unrest in Asia. Yet, if the communists are seeking to spread the war in Asia — while the United States is holding back its striking forces south of the Yalu River in an attempt to take every precaution to keep the war from spreading — we may be playing right into communist hands.

If through their subterfuge, the communists succeed in bringing about new major outbursts in Asia, Eisenhower's problem will not be how to end the Korean War, but what to do about the war in Asia.
Apparently the Korean War is only one phase in the overall communist plan for conquest of Asia. Undoubtedly Korea has proved to be a thorn in the side of communist dreams of quick conquest, but perhaps the fanatics of Moscow and Peiping are now resolute to continue their efforts in open fighting.

As the days pass, it becomes more and more emphatic that the Korean War can not be considered an isolated incident. It becomes more apparent that in its settlement the Korean War can not be treated as an isolated conflict.

National Whirligig

WASHINGTON—The cost of the Korean War, now estimated roughly at $2 billion a year to the United States alone, will continue to soar, regardless of the kind of strategy President-elect Eisenhower selects for strengthening the United Nations forces while reducing American casualties and contributions.
Except for the British, Canadian, Australian and New Zealand units, which are financed with Commonwealth funds, Uncle Sam pays virtually all the expenses of the other eleven countries' troops at the front. They are brigaded with American soldiers, and are supplied with weapons, food, sometimes uniforms, and other essential material on their shores.
PENTAGON RELUCTANT—Although Pentagon statisticians are reluctant to discuss Korean war finances, largely because it is almost impossible to unscramble or itemize expenditures, they admit that the United States is bearing about 90 per cent of the cost of the conflict. Again, excepting the Commonwealth groups, the United Nations Army is an American undertaking from the financial standpoint.

For the sake of the record, Secretary Lovett's financiers try to keep an account of our advances of money and material to our fighting allies. But there is little expectation that these sums will be repaid. Like World War I and World War II debts, it is believed that they will be cancelled, or that future American loans and grants to them will be increased, if they do pay.

UNITED STATES PAYS—There is no inclination here to dun the eleven nations for payment or repayment. France, for instance, might present a counterclaim for the cost of resistance to the Communists, the Indo-China. Two of our sturdiest reinforcements, the Greeks and Turks, are maintaining large forces, although again with our financial aid.

While forcing these heavy sacrifices of men and money on us, Moscow is waging a painless war in every respect. Besides letting Chinese and North Koreans do the fighting and dying, Stalin charges them high prices for food, weapons and other supplies. Even Mao Tse-tung is beginning to complain of this lopsided arrangement.

NO REDUCTION—Thus, if Eisenhower seeks to relieve our manpower burden by increasing the South Korean forces or appealing to U.N. members to provide more ground units, there will be no reduction in overall cost. Indeed, it might be increased because of additional transportation and training charges.

The main reservoir for greater outside help are India, Mexico and the South American countries. The only Latin nation with troops in the field is Colombia. The Argentine dictator, Peron, bitterly opposes contributions from that area, and none of his neighbors are disposed to afford him.

Mexico, Brazil and India have furnished medical and miscellaneous supplies. Although anti-Communist, Prime Minister Nehru generally dislikes both our policies and methods in the Far East, believing that the United States still operates on the master-slave theory toward Asiatic peoples.

ASIANS V.S. ASIANS—Nehru is known to have received campaign suggestions, principally on the Republican side, that "Asians should fight Asians." Nor will our U.N. delegations accept dismissal of India's proposal for a compromise on the exchange of Korean prisoners in line toward greater cooperation, according to the belief in diplomatic circles at Washington.

Another nonmilitary factor which aggravates Eisenhower's task is the resignation of Lygia Lee as Secretary-General of the U.N., and the expected rivalry in filling his place. Since he would have to issue any appeal for more U.N. reinforcements, his announcement of his resignation has weakened his influence.

LABOR'S VOTE—Labor politicians have compiled an elaborate batch of Presidential election statistics designed to rebut the popular conclusion that the "big four" unions—AFL, CIO, UMW and Railway Brotherhoods—suffered a serious setback in their endorsement of Governor Stevenson. Moreover, it is difficult to dispute them.

Stevenson, they note, carried Philadelphia by 160,000 as against Truman's 6,000 margin. In Detroit, the 1952 majority was 120,000 more than Truman's. Many other industrial centers showed the same contrast between 1948 and 1952 turnouts. Ten states which went for Eisenhower also elected Democratic Senators, Kentucky being the only exception.

Eisenhower ran ahead of his ticket in all save three states—Vermont, Kentucky and Minnesota. As further evidence that his was a personal rather than a Party triumph, the GOP has only narrow control of House and Senate. Labor figures that it has 159 "friends" in the next Congress as against 181 today. It numbers its "enemies" as 240 instead of only 222 in the current session.

CIO, CANDIDATES—This optimistic survey may help Walter P. Reuther in his contest with Allan S. Haywood, executive vice-president, to succeed the late Philip Murray as head of the CIO.
The president of the Automobile Workers' Union is a direct and belligerent political activist, whereas Haywood is the old-fashioned trade unionist type. So, this evidence that labor is still a powerful force at the ballot box will be cited in favor of Reuther's candidacy.

—ON AN INTERNATIONAL SCALE

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

Last night I was on my way home from a meeting when the urge hit me for a banana split. Wife Rachel always has that urge, so I whizzed by Five Points to pick up a couple.

Bill Swindell of the Mary Ann Social Shop seemed surprised when I asked him if he fixes banana splits to go. "Certainly!" he exclaimed.

When Bill started making the splits in 10-ounce cups I started complaining. "Can't you make 'em the conventional way?" I asked.

"I could if you had your own dishes," Bill said.

From there the discussion went on until Bill and I decided that banana splits weren't invented for married people with children. We came up with quite a few reasons to back up our conclusion.

In the first place, it's impractical to hire a baby sitter so you can go out and eat a banana split. And we decided that they lose their effectiveness when taken out, diced up in a 10-ounce cup.

During the conversation I also asked Bill the price. It had been so long since my banana split days I had forgotten. "They're still only 35 cents," Bill said.

"What?" I asked, picking up my jaw. "Did you say only 35 cents?" Bill explained that the price remains constant, regardless of fluctuations in the market. "It's just like bacon and eggs. No matter how high or low they go, they're still the same price in restaurants."

But the discussion of the price of a banana split pointed out another reason why they are not practical for married folks. Those of us with responsibilities are too concerned about spending 70 cents for something that could be easily left off.

The more Bill and I talked about the matter the more I became convinced that my project wasn't such a good idea. But you should have seen W.R. when I walked into the door. "I'm so glad you didn't call to see if I wanted one! There's nothing like a surprise!"

My outlook was completely changed by W.R.'s reaction, and by the taste of the banana split! If you think they are good sliced in the conventional manner and displayed on a dish you should try one all diced up in a cup! Believe me, they're twice as good; even to old married people! And I thank you.

Around Capitol Square

By LYNN NISBET

PRISON—The State Highway and Public Works Commission at its regular November meeting ran smack into a controversy between opposing philosophies about warden administration, whether humanitarian-social reform or hard-boiled business principles should be paramount. Walter Anderson, director of prison, carried the ball for the humanitarian side, George S. Coble, highway commissioner for the business idea. There were auxiliary and side-line issues, including problems of legal procedure and methods of bookkeeping, but the core of the controversy was whether an additional half million dollars a year should be allocated out of available highway revenue to let prison guards have an extra day a week off, or whether that half million should be devoted to maintenance of public roads.

BASIC—The discussion paraded the basic issue and forecast a real scrap in the upcoming General Assembly over the question of divorcing prison administration from the highway commission. Coble succinctly stated his attitude, which has seemed to be the majority opinion of the commission, when he said "The purpose of this commission is to build and maintain roads." Anderson's expressed and implied philosophy is that prisoners should not be treated like machines, and that prison guards should have comparable status with all other highway employees in the five-day work-week plan. This basically different approach led into discussion of some indirectly related matters, such as the distinction between operations that must be carried on seven days a week, like guarding prisoners or taking care of hospital patients, and others which can be temporarily reduced or suspended, like construction projects or manufacturing plants. There was involved, too, the legal question of whether the highway commission should be liquidated by changing figures on the books—by allowing $3.00 or $4.00 or some other per diem for prison "bor on highways, instead of the $3.50 now in effect, were in the open. Not a word was said about separating prisons from highway administration, but it was apparent the real issue was whether chief obligation was to the prisons or to the roads. And there was an almost significant undercurrent of feeling about the merits of continuingly shorter working time for employees. Because, actually, the welfare of prisoners was not directly at stake. It was the matter of more pay or less work for prison guards as State employees.

ADEQUATE—It developed that while the average pay check for guards now runs about $200 month, their actual compensation, which includes board, room and uniforms, is close to $300 per month. Coble insisted that on basis of education and capacity to obtain other employment that represented a higher level of pay than drawn by many other State employees. It was also noted that during the idle week-ends most of the guards still ate and slept at the camps, so that their compensation could not be counted only on basis of time worked. The recurring reference to the half million dollars extra cost also emphasized that while admittedly contributing to general efficiency the short work week cannot be practiced without adding to the monetary cost of public employment.

SKIRMISH—The highway commission argument was just a minor skirmish preparatory to a major battle looming in the General Assembly about prison administration and the equitable valuation to be placed upon perquisites at numerous State institutions.

INEQUITIES—The whole question of perquisites—housing, board, laundry, servants, vegetable and other produce, medical attention, and what have you—is one of the most bothersome facing institutional management in this State. The hospital board has been studying the question for at least six years without much success in solving it. There is also distinction between employees who are on the job for a stipulated number of hours and then completely off duty, as are most clerical workers; and those who have stipulated hours but are subject to call even when off duty, such as law enforcement officers and numerous types of highway workers—including prison guards. There is further distinction between those whose jobs make it advantageous for them to stay on the premises at night and those who are free to live where they please. The most bothersome questions are little ones. The big issues can be handled satisfactorily. How about the employee who is subject to call when off duty and his or her telephone. If a telephone is a requirement for the job, should the State pay for it? If the State does pay for the phone, should the employee be allowed to use it for personal calls? Should the same charge be made for a meal which the employee has no choice in

What Other Papers Are Thinking

QUIT TALKING SCARE

(Wilson Times)
Are you afraid a depression is just around the corner? Then abate your fears. The defense expenditures will last throughout 1953. As long as they're going out, there'll be no depression. Afterward, in 1954, we'll be spending some $90,000,000,000 on highways construction. There'll be no depression until it's all gone. In 1953, we'll be spending $32,000,000,000 on new construction. Until it's gone, quit worrying. In 1953, moreover, according to estimates, we'll be building 1,000,000 new homes. That'll entail a lot of money, enough to keep that industry humming. In Wilson county, we know, many a share-cropper won't pay out. But that was nothing to do with a depression. They were unlucky in that they had an unlucky year. But have they learned a lesson? Or will they still depend on one crop for a livelihood? If those who won't "pay out" will work harder next year, diversifying in so far as that's possible, they may recover in 1953 what they lost in 1952. If they don't, they should blame themselves, not a national administration. For, whether it likes it or not, it'll be spending profusely. Of late, however, too many people have been talking "scare." We hear it on the streets. But that scare is strictly imaginary, as the above figures indicate. That Wilson will be hurt some none of us can deny. But that's only for this year. In 1953 money will be circulating freely and work will be available to everyone who wants it. So don't look for Hoover-carts or apple-selling after the new administration takes office. For it just won't happen. It can't with the national and state governments putting out all those funds for defense and roads.

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER
It begins to look as if there is grave danger that we are talking ourselves into a recession next year.

A long line of pundits and economists are saying that defense spending will reach a peak in the middle of 1953 and be followed by a "leveling off," and the quoted words spoken in a tone of voice that implies that it is something worse than taxes, something better than death.

At the recent conference of the American Retail Federation in Washington, speakers urged retailers to take precautionary steps so as not to be caught off balance if business turns down. At the fall meeting of the Commerce Department Business Advisory Council at Sea Island, Ga., business leaders predicted high activity through the first half of 1953 and many said there was danger of an "intermediate recession" some time after that.

At a panel discussion of the Grocery Manufacturers of America in New York, several of the top men in the field talked about a coming "slow down" or "recession," and some said it would be mild and healthy.

Elliott V. Bell, publisher of Business Week, told the Economic Club of New York: "Whether the boom lasts six months, or two years more, the new Republican Administration will probably have to deal with a major business setback before its lease on the White House expires. It may face those problems before the coming year is over."

A. W. Zelomek, another distinguished economist, told the New York chapter of the American Statistical Association that "at the beginning of 1953 indicators will be tending higher. However, the trend during the last half... will probably turn moderately lower."

It is true that known facts do indicate considerable uncertainty for the latter half of next year. It is also true that if everybody is convinced that business will slow down then, the decline will come even sooner.

Businessmen believing that a dip will come in mid-1953 will begin to worry about inventory and they will begin to cut orders immediately. There has already been some sharp drops in factory orders for furniture and some appliances. Cuts in orders now will be reflected in drops in employment and profits long before next June. And if the public becomes convinced that a decline in prosperity is coming in mid-'53, it will start trimming its purchases and stashing money away for the time pappy may be out of work. And such action, of course will put the old man on unemployment insurance even quicker.

What may happen is that a spread of this decline psychology may bring a dip very early next year—just when we are supposed to have it—and we will have a snap-back in the latter half, just when we are supposed to have a touch of miseries.

UNCLE SAM PLAYS..... UNWITTING CUPID.....

It may come to pass that December will replace June as the month of brides.
Commerce Clearing House is broadcasting the fact that marriage between now and the first of the year will enable a couple to file a joint income tax return and the resulting savings may pay for the honeymoon. In many cases, of course, the savings possible under joint returns are very small.

There must be business opportunities here some place—either marriage brokers could take up tax consulting as a sideline or the tax experts might open a love-lover department.

WEDDING "PACKAGE"..... ON THREE-YEAR TERMS.....

Saul Birns, who operates a furniture store on New York's East Side, recently started branching out in the romance department. He also owns the next-door Central Plaza, a catering establishment with a number of wedding halls.

Now, he is advertising a wedding package. It consists of a complete wedding, "nothing else to buy"; a two-to-four-room apartment, and furniture for it at "one unit package price." For a reception, can be paid for over three years. The apartment rent has to be paid monthly, of course. The bridegroom has to do his own proposing and pay cash for the license.

Hal Boyle's Column

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—As the veil of secrecy descends on Gen. Eisenhower's projected visit to Korea, many a veteran of that conflict must look at the calendar today with dry memories.

For it was just two years ago that the United Nations forces there launched their great "end-the-war" offensive. The war was five months old then. It will be 20 months old tomorrow.

Few great drives in military history have opened with more public optimism—and more private doubt—than the U.N. attack that began in the early morning hours of Nov. 24, 1950.

The optimism centered at the Tokyo headquarters of Gen. Douglas MacArthur. The doubt lay in the minds of the frontline commanders. They were uneasy. The reason: They didn't know the size of the enemy before them. The goal: The Yalu river, dividing North Korea and Manchuria.

The big question: Had the shattered North Korean army been reinforced by only 60,000 Red Chinese "volunteers," or did a massive Chinese force wait like a hidden cat in the frozen hills between the Allied line and Manchuria?

Deep — penetrating patrols had failed to yield the answer to the enemy's strength. A division chief of staff looked at the war map in his tent and shook his head as he told correspondents:

"Gentlemen, I've been studying these maps for a quarter of a century, and this doesn't tell me what I want to know."

A general was so fearful of ambush that before the attack started he issued orders that every vehicle in his division retain a basic supply of "bug out gasoline," enough to sustain a retreat if necessary. Another general said pessimistically:

"The Reds have nothing to lose and all to gain by keeping the Chinese fighting us."

The average doughboy, however, leaped off with a mixture of dread and joy. He didn't know what foe he would meet, but he was tired of standing still, and the general feeling was, "let's get it over with." And there was also that magic rumor spreading like wildfire through the lines: "They say we'll be out of here by Christmas if we make it to the border."

Ten of the United Nations' 19 divisions struck out across a frozen wilderness of mountains and ice-covered rice paddies. For two days they plowed jubilantly onward against slight opposition.

The second night the enemy counterattacked. They came in screaming waves, blowing bugles and whistles. The mystery was over. The Chinese seemed to crawl out from behind every rice stalk. In three continuous night attacks they shattered three South Korean Divisions, drove them back 20 miles, ambushed a Turkish force, threatened to surround four U.S. Army divisions—then about one-third of America's entire world wide striking strength.

The endless waves of Chinese turned the great attack into a great retreat. The Allies yielded Pyongyang, the North Korean capital, then fell gradually back to Seoul, which later was abandoned too.

The stubborn, bitterly fought withdrawal was magnificently directed, heart-breaking to see. I flew with an air colonel over the long lines of Allies riding down the long road back, and he said:

"That hurts," he said, almost crying. "It hurts where a man can't scratch."

Later the Allies pushed back north beyond Seoul again. The lines are roughly along the 38th Parallel, where the war began. But in nearly 16 months of truce talks the Chinese have built their Army from 300,000 to some 1,600,000 men. Their tank and artillery pieces are at a peak.

These are the somber facts that face Gen. Eisenhower on this fateful anniversary two years after the Allied end-the-Korean-War drive began.

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON—Mrs. Frances P. Bolton, Republican congresswoman from Ohio, is proud her son Oliver has been elected to the 83rd Congress and thinks he will make a good colleague in the House of Representatives.

This is what the mother in the first mother-son team in congressional history told me. Mrs. Bolton came to the Capital in 1940 to fill out the unexpired term of her late husband, Chester C. Bolton, and has been re-elected to every succeeding Congress. This year her 35-year-old son, a Cleveland lawyer, representing the 11th District, formerly a part of her own 22nd District, will serve with her.

"I am naturally proud that Oliver's father's son has the same deep urge for service that has evidenced itself through many generations," Mrs. Bolton told me. "I am happy in his independence of thought and action and in his sane approach to whatever problems present themselves. He should make a good congressman."

When Oliver announced his intention to run for Congress, Mrs. Bolton said she intended to maintain her life-long policy of non-interference in the life of her grown children.

"They're adults now," she told me at the time, "and any pursuit they choose to follow is their own business." At the same time she said she was hoping her son would succeed in winning the election. She has two other grown sons, Mrs. Bolton, noted for her early service on the C. committees on Indian Affairs and Expenditures in the Executive Department, for the past eight years has served on the important Foreign Affairs Committee.

Mrs. Bolton has introduced and advanced many bills, prominent among which is the Bolton Act, which created the U.S. Cadet Nurse Corps shortly after World War II broke out. This provided a government subsidy for graduate and undergraduate students in nursing training. In 1942 she was active in the passage of a bill by Congress qualifying the pay of Army nurses with that of officers of similar rank.

Oliver Bolton is married and has three small children, Charles Barbara and Bill. He was educated at Western Reserve University and Harvard Law School after which he practiced law in Cleveland. He served five years in the Army, including service at Iwo Jima, and came out a major. He began his political career as a precinct committeeman and worked up through the Young Republicans to become their Midwest vice president.

It is apparent, since Mrs. Bolton admires her son's independence, that she will not try to influence his vote, and it may be that on some roll calls, mother and son will vote differently.

OAKLAND, Calif. (UP) — City Councilman Lester Grant has been giving city jailers a bad time since he was sentenced to serve five days for speeding.

Rotarians Hear Five Reasons For Thanks

By WATT BROWN

America is great because of her people who are basically good and basically Christian declared Reverend Leon Russell last night at the Rotary Club as the concluding speaker of five Rotarians who each gave one facet of the reasons one should be thankful in this Thanksgiving season. Mr. Russell did the summing up. Leading off was Harding Sugg who gave a historical background; next J. H. Waldrop indicated what Americans have to be thankful for economically and materially; then Karl Pace presented reasons for thankfulness from the physical angle; Dave Wichard III spoke of what Americans as individuals had to be thankful for; and Jasper Winslow spoke of thankfulness from the national point of view.

"Thanksgiving and 'thanks-living' are a year round proposition to Rotarians," Harding Sugg said. Then he read a Connecticut governor's proclamation declaring December 6, 1776 as Thanksgiving Day. Speaking of thankfulness from the economic and material aspect J. H. Waldrop cited the preponderance of material blessings the United States enjoys. With 91-2 per cent of the world population the United States has 90 per cent of the bathtubs of the world, 75 per cent of the cars of the world, 65 per cent of the railroad trackage and so on.

"We are in a very fortunate position materially with freedom of worship, and freedom to work" as ones initiative might direct to possess some of the plenitude. "No nation has the high standard of living and material wealth that we have to be thankful for," Waldrop declared.

Dr. K. E. Pace opened with the question as to whether it may be we are measuring up in a spiritual way. He cited how the grandparents of yesterday would drive twelve miles in a buggy to attend worship on Thanksgiving Day.

Stating that the human body is the most perfect and complex thing known to man, Dr. Pace warned that people do not take care of their body as they should since it is the temple of the soul. More people are thankful for their many blessings than is immediately apparent in his opinion. To the great variety of foods in the United States Dr. Pace assigned the credit for man's good health. He further indicated the presence of adequate housing and plentiful fuel as additional blessings. He brought out that many do not stop to think frequently about thankfulness though they should daily and are not aware of how fortunate they are with all their facilities.

David Wichard III observed that people do not enumerate things they should be thankful for, daily. One becomes more aware of the many things they have as they contrast life here with other less fortunate countries, he went on. Then he read the 1946 proclamation of the Four Freedoms concluding with the exhortation to never cease to be thankful.

Jasper E. Winslow opened his remarks by saying how thankful he was early every morning to be able to walk to the door and see what the weather was like. He cited that climate, soil and people make America great — mostly the people because the Indians had this country and made little of it. Mr. Winslow pointed up the safety afforded citizens in this country by telling how a South American Gypsy preferred to live here than in Argentina where human life is not valued so highly nor protected so well. Thankfulness for our great nation should permeate everyone he declared.

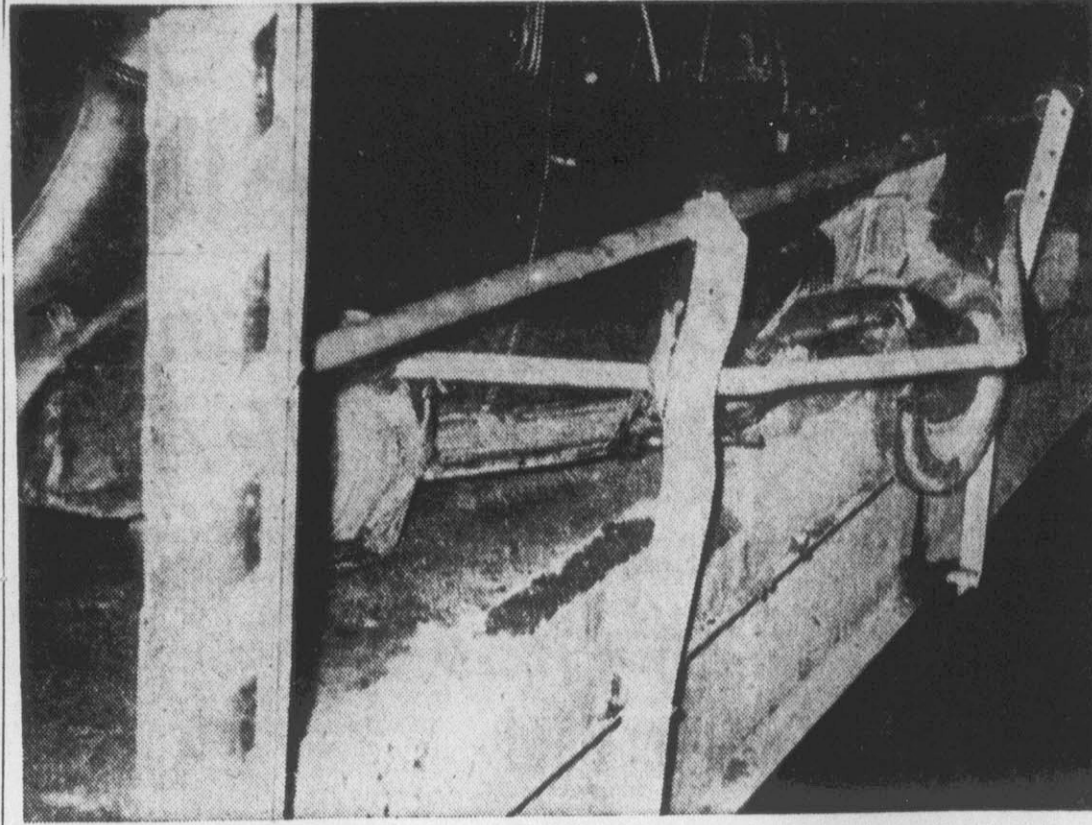

Summing up the evening's remarks Reverend Leon Russell said, "We are grateful for the kind of people who made America. They were grateful for what happened — as blessings of God. We Americans know how mortal we are and how dependent we are on God. The American people are really grateful."

"That which makes our nation great is deep within us — put there by God. America is basically good, basically Christian. America is not great because of material things but because of the love of God," he said. In concluding he quoted an English commentator who opined that America would not support Communism or any other ism as long as her people have faith in God.

Guests of the Club were Jimmy Hendrix, Jimmy Newman and Lester Dollar. Junior Rotarian of the week who was guest of the Club was Charles Mills. Visiting Rotarians were Alton Rowe of Ayden and R. E. King of Washington. The program was presented by Harding Sugg, J. Knott Proctor, club president, presided.

Thanksgiving Day Hunters Should Be Extremely Wary

Thousands of hunters will take to the field Thanksgiving Day, braving chilly winds and other hunters' errant shots, in the hope that they may get a line on a covey of quail or a bounding rabbit through their gun sights.

Thursday, November 27, is opening day for quail and rabbit hunting and according to J. O. Frel, Pitt County Game Protector, the specimens in quest should be plentiful.

Mr. Frel explains, "We had a dry season which is favorable to the survival of young game. I've seen quite a few coveys of quail around. Rabbits too seem to be more plentiful."

Hunters are urged to be extremely careful with cigarettes and matches. Because of a dry season many sections would flame up like a tinderbox with so much as a carelessly dropped cigarette butt.

Hunting license for the quail and rabbit season are, of course, required and Frel stipulates a caution to hunters using automatic shotguns. The requirement is that all automatic weapons must be plugged so it can't hold over three shells.

The pilgrims that journey into the fields early in the morning hoping to get in a shot before the horde arrives had better remember that there is to be no shooting of upland game between sunset and sunrise according to the hunting rules.

The sharpshooters who will undertake to try their skill on the migratory game must begin an hour after sunrise and quit an hour before sunset.

A final warning to hunters is to be sure that a fellow hunter isn't in the line of fire along with brer rabbit. Be sure the birds you fire at are the real article and not a newfangled headress of a colorful Thanksgiving Day hunter. And good luck.

Record Sale Of 168 Duck Stamps

Hunters of migratory fowl must acquire a "Duck Stamp." These stamps are sold at the Post Office.

Postmaster Knott Proctor said yesterday that already this year the post office has sold 168 duck stamps.

This may or may not be a record but Mr. Proctor said that it was more than had been sold any year since 1942 he is sure.

Red Raiders Win 21-0 To Advance In Title Playoff

Mack Roebuck scored twice and Charles Roberts once yesterday afternoon as the Red Raiders defeated the Blue Devils 21-0 in a Little League championship elimination game. The game was played at the Little League park.

Roebuck scored once on a pass from Ralph Johnson and another time on an end sweep. Roberts' touchdown came on a seven-yard line plunge. Points after the touchdowns were scored by Roebuck (one) and Eddie Lee (two).

Roberts started the scoring with his seven-yard drive to pay dirt in the first quarter. A pass from Johnson to Roebuck added the extra point and the Raiders were on their way to a place in the championship game which will be played Thursday. The Gold Nuggets won the right to oppose the Raiders when they eliminated the White team last week.

There were two touchdowns called back because of penalties during the course of action. Roberts had a Red touchdown run called back because of a penalty while Barney Barrett of the Blue Devils had the same situation occur.

Offensive leaders for the Red included C. Roberts, Roebuck, Lee, Johnson, and B. Roberts. Red defensive leaders were Fredmore, L. Roberts, C. Roberts, B. Roberts, Davis, Arthur, Joyner, Stoneham, Moyer, Johnson, Roebuck, and Lee.

The Blue team was led on offense by Barrett, Barnhill, Stancil, Long, and Harrison. Defensive leaders were Boyd, Crawford, Stancil, Barnhill, Strickland, Hodges, and Faber.

Little League officials announced this morning that plans for the Thanksgiving Day Bowl had been completed. The game will be played at College Stadium. Kickoff time for the game will be three o'clock.

Bobby Perry Is Selected Halfback On All-Eastern

Two Northeastern Teams Place One Player On Team

BOBBY PERRY
All-Eastern Halfback

WILSON—Halfback Bobby Perry of Greenville has been named as one of 22 All-Eastern players selected in a poll of 22 Eastern North Carolina coaches. The poll is sponsored by the Wilson Touchdown Club.

Perry, the other members of the squad, and Eastern Carolina's "Coach of the Year," Carey Brewbaker of Durham, will be honored at a banquet Tuesday night at the Wilson Moose Lodge. Coach Bill Murray of Duke University will be the guest speaker.

All but three of the 22 men named to the squad were from Eastern AAA Conference schools. Perry, from Greenville's Class AA team, was one of the three. Roanoke Rapids end Leonard Topkins was the other while halfback Fred Beasley of Henderson completed the trio of players from Class AA schools.

Durham's Eastern AAA Conference champions led the voting with five Bulldogs taking positions on the team. Fayetteville placed four; Raleigh, Wilmington and Wilson, three each; and Rocky Mount, Henderson, Greenville and Roanoke Rapids, one each.

The complete squad includes tackle Don Denning, tackle Harry Galifanakis, guard Julius Compton, center Jimmy Davis and halfback Buddy Bass, all of Durham; quarterback Winky Gaines, guard Corky Gaines, tackle John Daskal, end Leonard Black of Fayetteville; fullback Don Voorhees, end Tommy Newton, and guard Lem Jenkins from Raleigh; quarterback Sonny Jurgensen, fullback George Johnson, and end Rex Hardy of Wilmington; center Dickie Hathaway, guard Gene Dawson, and halfback Tommy Stancil of Wilson; tackle Charlie Robbins of Rocky Mount; halfback Bobby Perry of Greenville; end Leonard Topkins of Roanoke Rapids, and halfback Fred Beasley of Henderson.

Florida, Tulsa In New Year's Gator Bowl

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UP)—Tulsa's Golden Hurricane was named today as the University of Florida's opponent in the Gator Bowl New Year's Day.

Agreement on Tulsa today by the Gator Bowl selection committee completed the nation's major bowl picture after the Orange Bowl selected Syracuse to go against Alabama.

Choice of the two teams will bring to the Gator Bowl two of the nation's highest-scoring grid aggregations. Tulsa has scored 302 points compared with 163 in nine games while Florida has marked up a 263-109 point record in the same number of contests.

Tulsa was tied 14-14 by Cincinnati in the second game of the season and beaten by Houston 33-7 in the first one. Since that time, however, the Oklahomans have beaten six, including Kansas State, Wichita, Oklahoma A&M, Villanova, Detroit and Arkansas. They face Texas Tech Saturday.

Tulsa, unlike Florida, has a bowl history, making its first major appearance in 1948 when it clashed with Tennessee in the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans and lost 14-7. The Hurricane, the following year, got a return bid to the Sugar Bowl and lost a close 20-18 decision to Georgia Tech. In 1945, Tulsa went to the Orange Bowl at Miami and whipped Georgia Tech 26-12.

The Gator Bowl contest is expected to be a high-scoring affair since Tulsa has been held to less than two touchdowns on only one occasion this season. Florida has scored at least twice against each opponent.

Selection chairman Sam Wolfson will be in the West this weekend and will sign Tulsa Friday night to the eighth annual game here, said Joe Livingston, member of the selection committee.

"Florida will have all it can handle in the Gator Bowl game," said Livingston. "The Gators' opponent will be the nation's top team in both rushing and total offense."

Mioduszewski, Scarbath, Lutz Lead Balloting For All-Conference Honors

RALEIGH, N. C. (UP)—Duke and Maryland dominated the 1952 United Press All Southern Conference football team announced today.

End to end the line poses a formidable array of blockers and tacklers picked from more than 70 linemen nominated, representing every school in the circuit. No less than 48 backfield stars received votes in the balloting.

Sparkling with backfield talent and stressing versatile performers, the 1952 mythical team was chosen by the votes of United Press sports writers all over the conference area. In addition to watching the teams Saturday afternoon, the writers voted on recommendations of coaches, leading sports writers and broadcasters and players themselves.

The backfield forte is offense, featuring flash Ed Mioduszewski of William and Mary, the only repeater from last year, Maryland's quarterback Jack Scarbath, Duke's Worth (A Million) Lutz and passer Johnny Gramling of South Carolina.

Mioduszewski, the only man on the team under six feet tall, led the backfield balloting. He was the spark of the conference's best offensive backfield, a shifty runner, canny signal-caller and accurate passer. Scarbath moved up from last year's second team by his feats that bid fair to win him All-American honors.

Lutz, the sophomore who engineered Duke's victories over SMU, Tennessee and Virginia, won high acclaim as one of the few real triple-threat backs in modern football. Gramling, a junior, quarterbacked South Carolina's offense.

Jack Lewis, the 60-minute captain of Wake Forest, and Paul Bischoff, called the best flanker in West Virginia history, are first-team ends.

Ed Meadows of Duke and Dick Modzelewski of Maryland led the balloting for tackle posts.

A broken ankle shelved Bobby Burrow, Duke's defensive guard, for the season on the first play of the Georgia Tech game. But his play in six games won such acclaim that he made the first eleven. Bill Meletsky, Maryland's guard and the biggest man on the squad at 220 pounds, was the third Terrapin star named.

Bethel Triumphs Over Bailey In Final Quarter

BETHEL—Bethel's powerful Indians blasted a third quarter tie with 21 points in the final quarter to defeat Bailey 57-51 last night in a non-conference basketball game for both teams. The game was the second half of a double header which had been opened by a 38-38 tie between the girls teams from the two schools.

In the boys game, it was largely the work of Larry Tetterton, Dalton Council, Michael House, and B. B. Tetterton that broke the back of the Bailey rally. Larry Tetterton and Council tied for scoring honors with 14 points apiece but House tossed in 13 and B. B. Tetterton scored 10 to keep the Indians ahead when the going got rough.

Bailey's scoring was led by substitute Carroll Jones with 14 points. Carl Boykin scored 11 points, and James Stott scored eight to follow Jones in the Bailey scoring column.

In the girls game, Bethel had to put on a last quarter rally to pull even with the Bailey sextet. Bailey had built up a 12-7 lead at the end of the first quarter but trailed 23-22 at the half. The third period ended with Bailey on the long end of a 34-33 margin but Mary Jo Wynne and the remainder of the Bethel players went to work to get the tie.

Mary Jo wound up with high scoring honors for both teams with 20 points but Bailey's Fanny Manning was close behind with 15. Corinne Briley scored 12 for Bethel and Billie Perry scored 12 for Bailey to take the runner-up honors for the evening.

East Carolina Gets Tentative Bowl Bid

By JIMMY ELLIS
Reflector Sports Writer

The East Carolina College Pirates yesterday received, and voted to accept, a conditional invitation to appear in the Lions' Bowl in Salisbury on December 13. Only what has been termed a "formality" kept the Pirates from receiving a definite invitation.

The hitch in the present bid is the Lenoir-Rhyme-Catawba game which will be played Thursday afternoon. If Lenoir-Rhyme wins as expected, the Pirates will go to the bowl game. If the thrice-beaten Indians pull a big upset, then they'll get the unconditional invitation, according to reports.

Lenoir-Rhyme has already accepted a bid to play in the December 13 Cigar Bowl against Tampa University. The Bears are riding a seven-game winning streak and rated as much as three touchdowns better than Catawba.

East Carolina finished its season more than a week ago with a record of six wins, two losses, and two ties. Four of the victories, one of the losses, and one of the ties was in North State Conference play. The conference loss was to Lenoir-Rhyme and the tie was with Catawba.

Catawba was defeated 20-6 by Tampa last Friday but they still have a season's record of six wins, three losses, and the tie with East Carolina. They've won four times and tied once in North State Conference play. They can take undisputed possession of the North State championship if they defeat Lenoir-Rhyme Saturday night.

Officials of the Lions' Bowl had earlier promised a formal announcement about contestants in their bowl game on November 27—the date of the Lenoir-Rhyme-Catawba clash.

If Lenoir-Rhyme wins as expected, the Pirates will resume practice on December 1.

Syracuse, 'Bama In Orange Bowl

MIAMI, Fla. (UP)—Football fans here were looking forward today to a battle between northern air power and southern ground strength when Syracuse and Alabama clash before a sellout New Year's Day through in the Orange Bowl.

The match was completed Monday with the announcement that Syracuse, with a 7-2 record for the season, had been signed as the "visiting" squad.

The Orangemen from New York state were admitted the second choice of the bowl Selection Committee, which tried first to land Navy. The Middies, who haven't played in a bowl since the 1924 Rose Bowl, turned the bid down. However, the choice of Syracuse was received with enthusiasm here and Athletic Director Pete Cawthon of Alabama said he expected a "colorful" game.

Allan Stanley, captain of the New York Rangers, lives in Timmins, Ontario and is the son of the town's fire chief.

Seeks To Prove Einstein Theory

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (UP) — One of Albert Einstein's theories about the sun and stars may be verified by measurements now being made on four large glass photographic plates at the Yale University observatory.

The exacting work is being done by Prof. George A. Van Biesbroeck, a member of the Yerkes Observatory staff at the University of Chicago. He has brought his plates here to use Yale's precision measuring engine, the largest one of its kind in the country.

Einstein in 1916 proposed that stars are not always where they seem to be because the gravitational pull of the sun bends starlight on its way to earth. As a result, an observer on earth sees the stars in an incorrect position in relation to the sun.

Astronomers have not been satisfied with the many observations made to verify the theory. In many of these observations, a shift in starlight larger than predicted by Einstein has been noted.

Last February the 72-year-old Van Biesbroeck went to Khartoum in Africa to photograph the eclipse of the sun, since an eclipse is the only time stars are visible around the sun. Then, six months later, in August, the astronomer went back to Khartoum to take a photograph of the night sky when the same stars appeared. He took two photographs on glass plates each time and then came to Yale to measure star positions on the plates by means of the engine.

THE HAGUE, Netherlands (UP) — The United States formally asked the Netherlands today to extradite Harold J. Adonis, former clerk in New Jersey Gov. Alfred E. Driscoll's office indicted last week for bribery.

Adonis will fight his extradition, U. S. Consul Clyde Snider said today. The embassy official said Adonis wants to return to the U. S. voluntarily.

The extradition request went from the American embassy to the Dutch Foreign Ministry today. The Foreign Ministry will forward it to the Justice Ministry for action. Adonis was expected to be extradited after a district court hearing.

The former governor's clerk is charged with attempting to obstruct a racketeers cleanup in Bergen County.

113 Seniors Completing Student-Teacher Work

A group of 113 seniors at East Carolina College who will complete their work in student teaching Wednesday of this week includes the largest number of teachers in elementary education to be trained at the college during a single quarter and East Carolina's first man student to be graduated in the field of primary education.

Dr. J. L. Oppelt, director of the college Bureau of Student Teaching and Placement, reports that 66 women and 47 men have teaching assignments in public schools in 13 towns of eastern North Carolina during the fall quarter. They have gained practical experience in the classroom under the supervision of a large corps of teachers in the public schools and of faculty members at the college.

John L. Fristoe of Greenville is the first man to complete student teaching at East Carolina in the field of primary education. A native of Louisiana, Fristoe entered the college here after three years of service in the Coast Guard. During the fall quarter this year he has taught in the third grade of the campus Training School under the supervision of Eunice McGee of the college and Training School faculties and Dr. Eva Williamson of the college education department.

Fristoe, who will complete his work at East Carolina this week, has accepted a position in the West Greenville School here and will begin his work after the close of the fall quarter at the college. Nineteen students, Dr. Oppelt states, will complete their work this fall in the field of primary education, and seventeen in the field of grammar grade education. These students compose the largest group ever to do student teaching in elementary education during a single quarter at East Carolina.

Because of the acute shortage of elementary grade teachers, the college has encouraged students during the past few years to teach in the lower grades. The large number now completing their work in this field indicates the success of the effort.

Two students have done their work in art this quarter as compared to only one in any previous quarter. These students and three music majors have taught on both the secondary and the elementary levels in the Greenville public schools. Five student teachers of mathematics make up the largest group in this field for any quarter in recent years.

Centers where student teaching is now being done by East Carolina seniors and the number teaching in each are: Greenville High School 34; campus Training School, 32; West Greenville School, 4; Ayden, 6; Farmville, 2; Winterville, 4; Bethel, 6; Belvoir, 2; Grimesland, 7; Grifton, 1; Tabor, 4; Rocky Mount, 6; Kinston, 2; Robersonville, 1; and Washington 2.

do instantly and without question what we told them to do."

Training Effective

Once that was understood, Caldwell said, life on the high seas didn't present too many problems. He believes the training has had a sound lasting influence.

I saw the bronzed, sturdy Johnny give evidence of that ashore. In the rollicking but lethal traffic of Papeete, Johnny heeled like a well-schooled pup at his father's command.

Once he dallied with a newly-met Tahitian pal over a huge brown pod fallen from a tree. Together the children extracted a large nut-like bean.

"Come on, Johnny, drop it," Caldwell said quietly.

"Daddy," he said, "I could eat it. He's eating it."

"Yes, it's all right for him to eat," his father replied. "He's used to it. But don't you eat it."

Without argument, the boy obeyed.

Not Ill At Sea

Johnny and Steve haven't known a day of illness since the voyage began, their father said, although they had the usual run of chills, fevers and childhood ailments before putting out to sea.

They have thrived on the foods which Mary Caldwell has adapted from native dishes: coconut cream made from the neat, milk and oil of coconuts and mixed with bananas, pawpaw or other native fruits baked in the gallery oven; lots and lots of fish and plenty of green coconut milk to drink.

Mary, too, is the picture of health.

That also is testimony to the good life at sea. Mary was pregnant when the long voyage began and spent her entire pregnancy aboard the tiny craft without once seeing a doctor.

They arrived here just in time for the arrival of another crewman, Roger Hiro (named for a Tahitian god), who weighed either seven or maybe eight pounds at birth.

Mary confesses she doesn't know and agrees that it doesn't much matter. Anyone can see, she says, that young Roger, swathed in a light woolen blanket under a kingly canopy of white mosquito netting, is going to be a sturdy deep water man.

As soon as the December hurricane season ends, the family, including the newest "crewman," will set out for Mary's native Australia. They expect that leg of the journey to require about nine months.

Kids No Problem To Family When At Sea 43 Days

PAPEETE, Tahiti (UP) — If the children become a problem some rainy Saturday, consider the case of the John Caldwells of Long Beach Calif.

They sailed the Pacific in a 34-foot boat from San Pedro, Calif., to Tahiti with a "crew" of two small children.

If an afternoon when the children must stay indoors, presents problems, consider what Caldwell and his blue-eyed, Australian-born wife Mary were up against for 43 days in that cramped space with five-year-old Johnny and 18-month-old Steven.

"It's all a matter of discipline," Caldwell, who is 28, said here. "Discipline is the most important thing. There just isn't time to argue when an emergency arises aboard ship. The children—Johnny in particular—had to learn to

Chapter 16

During the next four days Palmenter throbbed and boiled in a passion of volcanic activity. Clay and Palmenter paused beside a forge where iron rims were being beaten out for the supply wagons that would accompany the column. The smith looked up and waved a friendly hand in greeting.

"How many more to go?" Clay asked.

"Two more wagons and this job's done."

He closed one eye in a wink that was almost lewd in its implication of tacit and fraternal conspiracy. "Course," he drawled, "I couldn't never have done half so well if I hadn't had such a willin' helper."

He jerked his head carelessly backward toward the shadowy figure that swung a heavy sledge unceasingly against the hot metal on the anvil. Clay's hard eyes probed the dusky interior and then he grinned a little as he suddenly realized that it was Sarazan who had been given the endless, back-sledge from dawn till dusk.

Clay turned questioningly to the smith. "He's being well guarded?"

The smith's laughter exploded raucously against the curtain of the sunlight.

"You're mighty damned right, he is." He patted the pistol that swung from his belt. "The first move he makes to pull out of here's goin' to th' last move he ever makes. He's what you might call sort of a permanent fixture around here."

Clay nodded. "And at night?"

"Night? Why, Colonel at night I just pull th' door to and snap a padlock on th' outside, an' when I come back in th' mornin' there th' little booger is—big as life an' twice as poisonous."

Clay nodded smiling a little. The men were in good trim, cheerful, confident, undisturbed by the adventure before them.

"Hold onto him," he advised. "He could raise plenty of hell if he sneaked out and manged to tip off the Regulators."

He turned away and adjusted his pace to Palmenter's painfully slow progress.

"Picked your new captains yet?" Palmenter asked.

"Web picked them. Bert Hewitt to take Sarazan's place and Luke Miller to take Web's place. They look all right to me."

They were opposite the door of a small, windowless log hut that crouched beside the vast bulk of the main storehouse. Palmenter stopped and drew a heavy, well-oiled key from his pocket. He held it out to Clay.

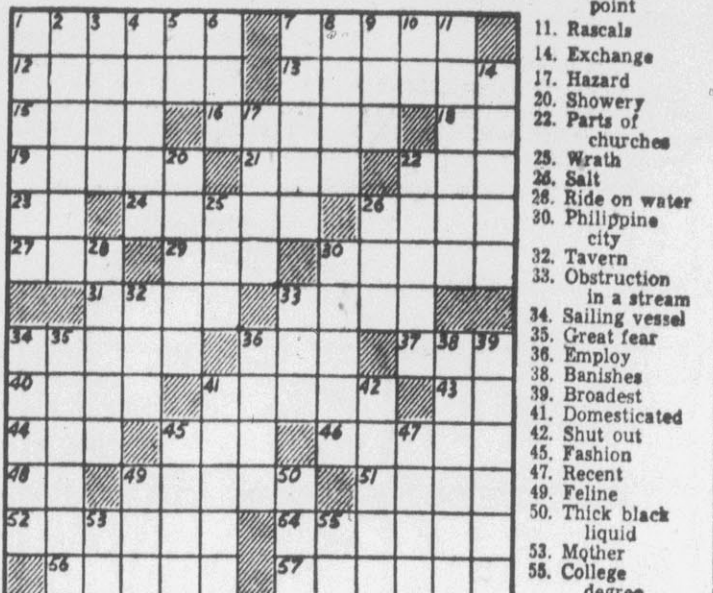

"If you'll unlock that padlock," he suggested, "I think I can show you something you won't find anywhere else in North America."

His eyes sharp with surprise, Clay twisted the key in the massive lock, pulled back the door, and peered into the lightless interior.

Wonderingly, Clay tugged the heavy shipping cases out into the

1900-Model Car Takes To Roads Once Each Year SHUBENACADIE, Canada (AP) -For about as long as he can remember W.G. Nelson has been bringing his old gas buggy out of retirement each year. The Model I Pope-Tribune came off the production line in 1900. It was retired after nine years of faithful service but his love for the vehicle remained and he soon started to bring it out of retirement annually. Still in good condition, the buggy is capable of a top speed of 30 miles an hour. "I imagine that pictures of the car, many of them with tourist visitors sitting in it, now are in about every province in Canada as well as every state of the United States," he says. # Stocks And Market Reports

NEW YORK (UP)—Increase of the Canadian subsidy on gold mining and talk of a higher gold price brought buying into gold mining stocks today.

The other sections of the market narrowed down although a majority of issues recorded small price advances. Industrials set a new 22-year high and rails would have been at a new top except for a few issues selling ex-dividend. Utilities gained a few cents on average.

In the golds, Homestake sold at 37 1/2 up 1/2. McIntyre Porcupine 88 1/2 up 1/2, and Dome 20 1/2 up 3/4. Coppers firmed.

Steels and motors were about unchanged on balance. DuPont set a new high on a small net gain in the chemicals. Oils firmed with nearly 2 points. Boeing rose more than a point in the aircrafts and Firestone was up one in the tires.

In the specials, gains of a point or more were noted in Pittsburgh Consolidation Coal, McGraw-Hill Publishing, Devoe Reynolds, Owens Illinois Glass, and Minneapolis Honeywell.

New highs included Borg-Warner, Goodyear, Greyhound, New Haven

Snow, Cold Rain For Large Area

By UNITED PRESS

Snow or cold, drizzling rain pelted large areas in the country's midsection early today, but the weather on both coasts was generally fair.

Except for Minnesota and Wisconsin, the snow was confined to the tiers of states between the Mississippi Valley and the Rocky Mountains.

The weather bureau reported snow, or cold, spitting rain, from the Canadian border almost to the Gulf Coast along that band. Amarillo, Tex., had about four inches of snow by early morning.

The snow accumulation was only about an inch in Wisconsin, Minnesota and some parts of Iowa, but the picture was expected to change as a low pressure area pushed the storm clouds northward today.

Iowa forecasters warned that five to 10 inches of snow will fall in the northwestern portion of the corn state by tonight and four to six inches is likely in central Iowa.

Chicago, Indiana and the Ohio Valley may get snow by Wednesday if the storm "pattern" continues to swing eastward fast enough. Moderate rains hit the area last night and early today.

Texasans, who have suffered through a three-year drought that cost the state about $75,000 in damages, were finally getting the relief they had prayed for.

A steady, drizzling rain went into its fourth day in the Long Star State today, and Paul Rhodes of the U. S. Weather Bureau office in Dallas called it "the best rain in three years in the state as a whole."

The rest of the bone-dry southwest got the soaking it needed to help the winter wheat crop and prepare the powder-like soil for next summer.

About one to five inches of snow fell in New Mexico, and snowfalls ranged from one to six inches in the mountain states of Colorado, Wyoming and Montana.

The snow accumulation in Nebraska and western Kansas averaged about two inches, with a strong chance that more was on its way.

The weather was clear, cold and dry in California and foggy in Oregon and Washington. Los Angeles could expect a high of about 68 today, but citrus growers were alerted that some light frosts might be necessary early in the day. The Los Angeles low of 42 yesterday was the coldest Nov. 24 since 1931.

Pair Arrested On Charges Of Stealing Corn

Octavius has been arrested and charged with stealing corn! Although he bears a renowned Roman surname, the 24-year-old Negro did not receive the pomp and circumstances ordinarily afforded nobility when he was arrested yesterday afternoon by Pitt officers and jailed for corn theft.

Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson reported this morning that Plad Octavius Goddard and a confederate, Jesse Clark, 21, were arrested by Deputy "Duke" Andrews and Greenville Constable H. F. Lawson for stealing a "small quantity" of corn from Andrew Taylor, who lives on the Bethel highway.

The sheriff said the two Negroes were placed in Pitt County jail under $200 bonds each on charges of larceny. According to his report the pair stole the corn from a storage barn on the Taylor farm between Greenville and Bethel.

The theft was not reported until yesterday afternoon, the sheriff stated, and with a few hours the two men were in jail. They will be tried in County Court Tuesday, December 2.

Declares Enemy Lost More Than Planned In Fight

SEOUL, Korea (UP)—Lt. Gen. Glenn O. Barcus, 5th Air Force commander, said today the Communists are making a "frantic attempt" to restore front line supplies depleted in the heavy fighting of the past two months.

In an exclusive interview with the United Press, Barcus said the Reds overreached themselves in the fighting, particularly along the central front, where a vicious battle has raged on Sniper Ridge since Oct. 14.

"I think they used up more of their supplies than they intended to," he said. "I think the 8th Army gave them such a hard time they lost more than they wanted to."

"They are making a frantic attempt to bring supplies up to an acceptable level."

U.N. warplanes have destroyed more than 1,000 supply-filled Communist trucks during the past six days.

Narrowly Escape Serious Injury

Two Pitt County youths escaped possible serious injury last night when the car in which they were riding went out of control and wrecked in a nearby field.

Therman Nelson, 23, white, of Route 4, Greenville, and Bill Cooley, 22, white, of Route 4, Greenville, occupants of the car, were taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital for treatment of minor bruises and cuts and later released.

Investigating officer Highway Patrolman D. E. Perry said the car, which was headed west on the Gum Swamp Road, traveled 151 yards from the time it left the pavement until it stopped, and turned over.

Nelson, who was supposed to leave for the Army today, was charged with drunken driving by Patrolman Perry and Cooley was charged with being drunk on a public highway.

The accident occurred about 3:30 last night. The car was a total loss.

Reform Program Announced By Iraq's Premier

BAGHDAD, Iraq (UP)—Premier Gen. Nurridin Mahmud announced last night a program of reforms to be instituted by his government as soon as law and order are restored.

A statement broadcast by the Iraqi army chief of staff who took over the government Sunday amid bloody rioting said the cabinet's first objective will be to stamp out subversive activity.

Mahmud's statement promised educational, social and electoral reforms when martial law is lifted. His program called for reduced taxes, strengthening the army, wiping out corruption, free elections, free college educations, social security and a commission to fix the blame for the disturbance.

Reds Bring Up Reinforcements Against French

HANOI, Indo-China (UP)—French forces turned the massed fire-power of their land and air forces against 25,000 Communist Viet Minh troops who were grouping today for a second and more powerful attack on the last-ditch French stronghold at Nasan.

The Reds failed, and lost at least 300 men yesterday, in a desperate gamble for the deeply dug-in French positions, 117 miles east of Hanoi.

Today the Communists were bringing up reinforcements for another try. Nasan is the last French bastion in the mountainous Thai country.

Reports from the front said the Franco-Vietnam success and low casualties in stemming the first Communist attack on Indo-China's "Verdun" greatly stimulated the morale of the defending forces.
