

Joint Hostesses Entertain Club

The Literature Department of Greenville Woman's Club met at the home of Mrs. L. A. Stroud with Mrs. J. N. Hart and Mrs. K. F. Whiteley assisting, on Tuesday, November 25.

After the members arrived, delicious refreshments were served from a lovely table arranged in Thanksgiving motif with the colors green and purple predominating.

After a short business meeting, Mrs. Lindsay Savage, in her own individual style, gave a review of the book, "Honeymoon for Seven" by Alfred Toombs which was greatly enjoyed by everyone present. "Honeymoon for Seven" is full of humor and also great wisdom in the rearing of young people of different temperaments and was instructive as well as hilarious.

Bride-Elect Is Honored

BETHEL—Mrs. Edward Matthews and Mrs. Russell James were co-hostesses at a Coca-Cola party on Saturday afternoon from 3 to 4 o'clock in the home of the former. The party was given in honor of Miss Ann Whitehurst and the hostesses complimented Miss Virginia Whitehurst, a bride-elect of December.

Yellow chrysanthemums and magnolia leaves were used in decorating the center of the dining room table. There were yellow tapers in crystal holders at each end of the table. Other arrangements of mixed fall flowers decorated the home.

Upon arrival the two honorees were presented corsages of miniature yellow chrysanthemums. Later they were remembered with gifts of crystal and china by the hostesses.

There were approximately 30 guests present to enjoy the delicious refreshments which consisted of open-faced sandwiches in the shapes of hearts and bells, ham biscuits, chicken salad rolls, nuts, candy, bridal cakes, and Coca-Cola.

Advent Service By Wesley Players

A Dramatic Service of Worship will be given by the Wesley Players Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock, December 7, in the Sanctuary of Jarvis Memorial Church. This service is a synthesis of music, acting and narration, and pictures, presenting in an unusual manner the message of the Advent Season.

The cast: Luke, Hugh Spencer of Englehard; David, Milton Mills of Watha; Sarah, Joan Crawford of Rockingham. Music will be by the Wesley Choir, under the direction of Donald Roebuck. Color slides are reproductions of pictures by Elsie Anna Wood, an English artist, who painted her pictures in the Holy Land, using as models people who live in Palestine. The production is directed by Deaconess Mamie Chandler, director and sponsor of the Wesley Players.

This is the annual Advent Service presented by the Methodist students of East Carolina College, who are active in the Wesley Foundation. It will be at the regular hour of Evening Worship in the Church and all interested are cordially invited.

Round Table Makes Gift To Library

The Ladies of the Round Table met with Mrs. D. L. Moore at her home on Fifth Street on Tuesday, December 2nd.

Guests for the afternoon were Mrs. Annie Rawl of Batesbury, S. C., Mrs. Egan and Mrs. D. M. Clark.

During a short business session the Club voted, as is its custom, to buy a tuberculosis bond.

A biographical sketch of the life of Harper Donelson Sheppard compiled by Mrs. W. C. Vincent was shown to the club members. This will be presented by the Round Table to the Sheppard Memorial Library. Mr. Sheppard donated to the town of Greenville and Pitt Co. a public library building in memory of his parents. This building was formally dedicated in 1930.

Mrs. J. E. Nobles gave a most interesting paper on "Coffee," one of the most popular and best loved drinks of the American people. Today at wayside lunch-rooms, on railroad diners, in hotels, on our own dining tables, on picnics and camping trips everywhere, coffee is the beverage Americans drink and enjoy.

An informative article by Lynn White entitled "Do Women's Colleges Turn out Spinners?" was read by Mrs. H. J. McGinnis.

Hold Dance For Sixth Graders

A dance for sixth graders in the city schools will be held tomorrow night at 7 o'clock in the gym of the West Greenville School.

Mrs. Galloway Hostess To W.C.T.U.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union held its regular monthly meeting Wednesday afternoon, 3:30 at the home of Mrs. J. C. Galloway.

Devotional was led by the president, Mrs. C. W. Brown. Her thoughts were taken from Ephesians, chapter 2 and 10th verse, "What we were by nature, and what we are by grace."

The treasurer's report was given and dues collected for the year, and other business transacted.

After adjournment of meeting Miss Elizabeth Ann Williams gave a very fine reading, by Peter Marshall. "Let's give more love, friendship, loving, helping hands, instead of thinking about getting and giving presents. And that the true meaning of Christmas is, 'Peace on Earth, Good will toward men.'"

Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess.

Funeral Friday For Dr. J. M. Hemingway

BETHEL—Dr. J. M. Hemingway 66, of Bethel, died at Tayloe Hospital in Washington, N. C. shortly after last midnight. He had been in declining health several years. Funeral services will be conducted at Bethel Methodist Church Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The pastor, Rev. M. W. Grant, will officiate. Rev. R. E. Rerguson of First Baptist Church, Robersonville will assist. Burial will be in the Bethel Cemetery.

The body will be taken to the church one hour before time of services.

Dr. Hemingway was born in Cumberland county. He attended Emory University, Atlanta, Georgia, and graduated from the Medical College of Virginia in 1915. After a year's practice in West Virginia he came to Bethel to practice his profession. He was a Mason and a member of the Pitt County Medical Society and the North Carolina Medical Society.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Goldie McCoy Hemingway; one daughter, Mrs. Walter C. Whitehurst of Bethel; four sons, Jack Hemingway, Jr. of Dunn, Jona D. Hemingway of Robersonville, Edgar and Frank Hemingway of Bethel; two sisters, Minnie Hemingway of Linden and Mrs. Lydia Hair of Fayetteville, and three grandchildren.

Mr. Neilson Guest Speaker Before Club

On Tuesday, December 2, Mrs. J. E. Waldrop was hostess to the Thallion Book Club at the home of Mrs. J. C. Waldrop.

The guests were invited into the dining room where they were served a delicious two course turkey luncheon.

After lunch the meeting was called to order by the president Mr. E. B. Sugg, Jr. The program was turned over to Mrs. E. B. Aycock who introduced Rev. J. A. Neilson, the speaker for the afternoon. In accord with the club theme for the year Mr. Neilson spoke on the fourth commandment,

"Remember the Sabbath day and to keep it holy." After the program a short business meeting was held, the books distributed and the meeting adjourned.

Guests for the afternoon were Mrs. Howard Waldrop, Miss Pat Waldrop and Mrs. W. H. Brown.

Servicemen On High Seas Will Get Ayden Gifts

AYDEN—Members of the Ayden community have joined with hundreds of others in providing Christmas remembrances from the people of the United States to servicemen on the high seas.

Under the direction of Mrs. O. C. Stroud, the Methodist Youth Fellowship in Ayden filled 10 Christmas boxes to be delivered to servicemen who will be at sea Christmas Day. Mrs. Stroud said the boxes were beautiful and well filled and the group received much happiness in doing the work.

Ayden has sponsored the project for the past two years through the help of the Southeastern Area of the American Red Cross.

The boxes were shipped in time to reach the ports of embarkation before December 1.

Strength for the Day

NEVER TO BE FORGOTTEN
 The word happiness does not occur in the entire Bible. Jesus only once (John 13:17) used the word "happy." Yet the Bible is always talking about joy. One of the outstanding promises of the Christian gospel is that men shall have joy. There is nothing gloomy about the gospel.

But the gospel instead of speaking about happiness, speaks about blessedness. The English word "happiness" comes from the word "hap" meaning "fortune" or "chance." Happiness, therefore, is a variety of satisfaction which comes from a pleasant combination of fortunate circumstances. But the words "blessed" and "blessedness" come from an Anglo-Saxon word meaning "consecrated with blood." The Bible pays almost no attention to the satisfaction which comes from the possession of things or from being able to have one's own way. The Bible sets forth the superior quality of that satisfaction which comes from the putting aside of self—from sacrifice, from the shedding of one's blood, if need be, for a good cause or for the relief of someone who needs relief. Therefore, Jesus said, Blessed are the poor in spirit, the pure in heart, the peacemakers—even those who are persecuted for righteousness sake.

Jesus set all the standards of the world on their heads. He turned the world and mankind's ways of thinking upside down. That's why he never has been nor ever will be forgotten.

Another Wonderful Wizard Of Washington

When someone proposed action encroaching upon the constitutionally guaranteed freedom of the press, it naturally makes the blood of most Americans boil.

In a good many instances such proposals come from people whose prejudices are obvious and their ulterior motives likewise obvious. In other instances such proposals come from individuals whose short-sighted view makes them unable to see beyond their noses in proposing that the American government try to do away with a constitutional right which has meant so much to a great America.

National Whirligig

WASHINGTON—Intra-party strife over the leadership posts in Senate and House threatens to contribute to the accumulating difficulties of the Democrats in the next session of Congress.

While the situation has not reached the stage of outright revolt, covert opposition has shown itself against the automatic selection of Senator Lyndon B. Johnson as minority boss in the upper chamber, and of Speaker Sam Rayburn as the Party spokesman in the House.

Around Capitol Square

SCHOOLS—Further evidence that the State does not pay the bill for the public school system is found on the back of the tax receipts issued by Wake county.

DOUBLE—Taxpayers in Raleigh, since township and city limits are almost exactly coterminous not only pay their full share of the county rate of 15 cents for general purposes—including law enforcement, courts, maintenance of offices, etc.—and their full share of the county-wide school rate, but they are double-taxed in the school supplement and in maintenance of law enforcement and courts for the city. The same situation exists in all other municipalities in the state. The point sought to be emphasized here is that despite the multi-million State appropriations, half the burden of the schools still falls upon local units.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

NOT CHARITY, BUT A JOB (Rocky Mount Telegram)
 Not all the toys that will gladden the hearts of children this Christmas will have been made by Santa Claus. Thousands that look like new and perform as well as ever will have been remade, from old castoffs, by the crippled, blind and paralyzed men of Goodwill Industries.

Goodwill factories then repair them and sell them at low prices in Goodwill stores. The sales receipts pay the workers' wages.

Today, 101 Goodwill factories hum in cities from Maine to California; 50 retail stores sell an annual volume of nearly $14,000,000. Seven Goodwill plants now operate in Canada, others from Australia to the Argentine.

In 50 years the organization has employed 240,000 people, most of whom were regarded as "unemployable" when they first came. Paralytics, arthritics, the blind, the men without arms or legs do Goodwill's work, each setting his own work pace as his capacity allows. Many have been graduated to good jobs in private industry; others have been promoted to supervisory posts in Goodwill's own plants.

press their views as loudly and as often as they like.

More Heads Roll Behind The Curtain

Another layer of former communist top brass in Czechoslovakia has been put to death by orders of the Russian overlords in the Kremlin.

The 11 former Czech Red leaders whose lives were taken this week after sham trials by the Prague court followed in the path of countless others who have worn the mantle of honor in communist satellite countries.

Since the close of World War II the leaders in Moscow have seen to it that leaders in the communist dominated nations of Europe have systematically been killed from time to time and new leaders put in their places. In the past half dozen years there have been a number of purges in each of the Russian satellite countries and with each have gone the heads of once honored leaders.

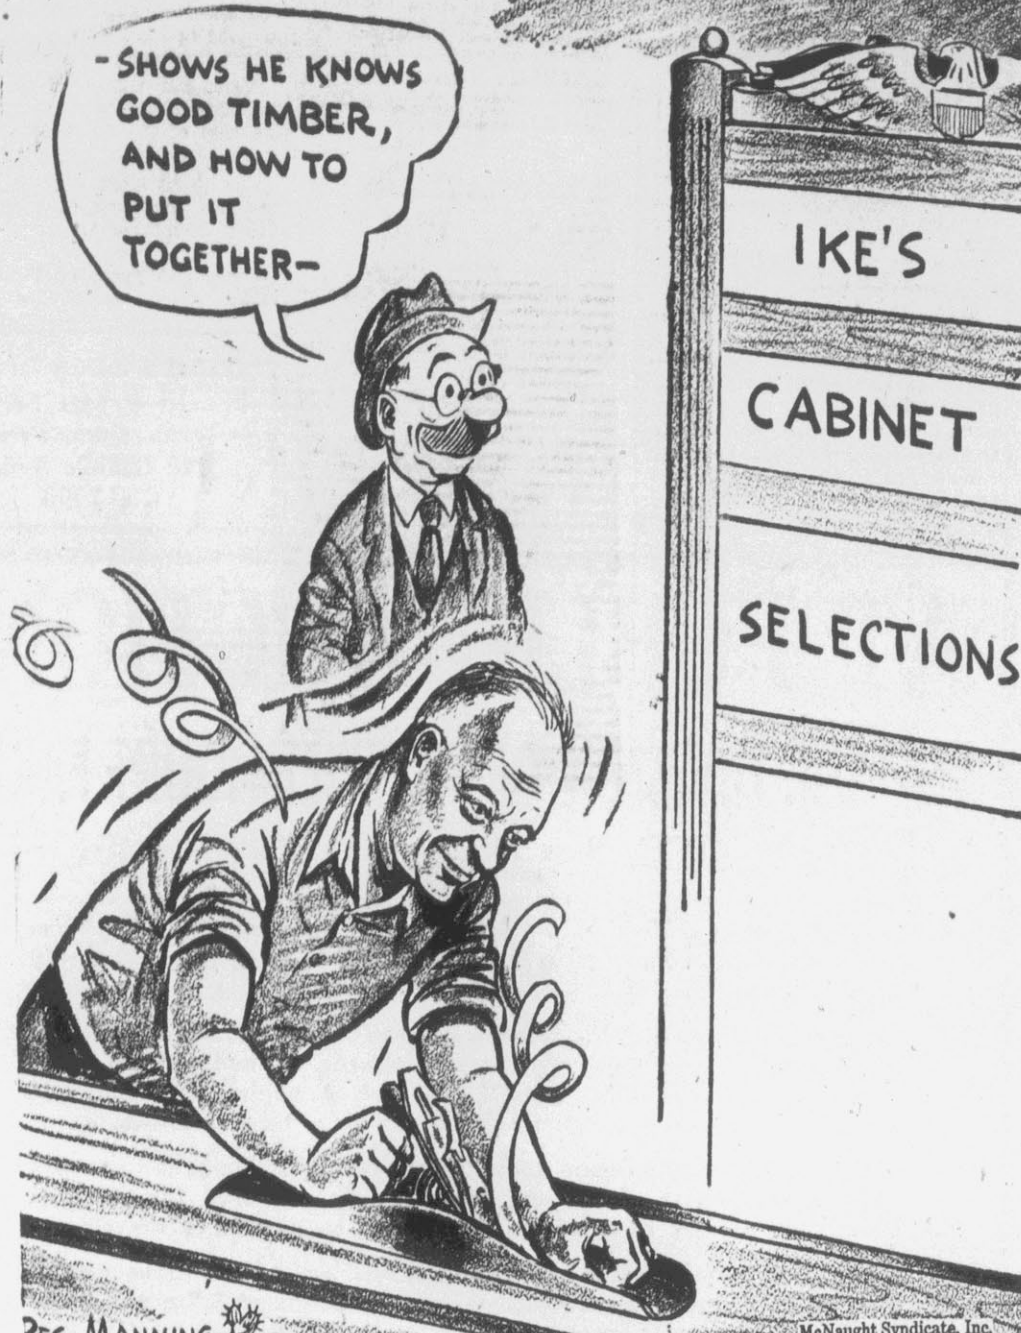

There can be little doubt that the 11 Czech communists who "confessed" to crimes of treason, espionage and murder before the Prague court were loyal communists during their tenure of office. But they, according to the communist system in satellite countries, outlived their usefulness, were put to death by the same authority which before had placed them in high office.

By the system of killing off leadership in the dominated nations at frequent intervals, the communist leaders in Russia seem to believe they can maintain a hold on the European nations which they now dominate. Before one set of officials can become too well entrenched in positions of leadership, they are removed—usually put to death—and new blood is brought in their places.

The people of those nations, therefore, find few leaders of long standing in whom they can place their confidence. They become people without leaders—bewildered, wandering aimlessly, not knowing what to do but to follow the lead which is voiced by a puppet government official.

For the most part, the people in the United States hear only of the purged leaders on the national level in Russian satellite countries. When one considers that same sort of head rolling goes on at every level of government from local organization up, it becomes apparent how lost for leadership the people of those nations are.

The First Sample Of His Work—

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

Yesterday's column emphasized the importance of driving safely, and today's will stress the need for blood. It's not that I intend to preach, but these important items have to be plugged constantly in order to get results.

One of the Lions Club solicitors came into the store yesterday to ask me to sign up to give a pint of blood when the bank comes to Greenville December 15th.

"We have to get 150 pints," he said, "in order to keep the blood bank in Greenville. Last time the drive fell a few pints below the quota."

There are a thousand reasons why we should strive to keep that bank here. To give a personal one, I have a friend who had a lot of sickness in his family; in fact, he had so much that it became a problem to meet his financial obligation. "Thank God for the blood bank," he said. "I had to have three pints of blood, and at the old rate of $25 a pint I would have been $75 worse off."

While that particular person was concerned about finances, think of the priceless blood when it is needed to save a life. And of course the Korean situation puts an entirely different light on the need. It is entirely possible for a Greenville person to give blood and a few months from now receive blood from the bank in Korea. It's the gruesome truth!

The solicitor of donors in the store yesterday said, "You would be surprised how many people refuse to give blood."

"In my opinion," I said, "it's just that they are afraid of the results. The first time I gave, I was scared half to death. Then, after finding that there's nothing to it, I have given again."

The body re-manufactures a pint of blood in 10 hours. And the Red Cross will not take your blood unless you are found to be physically qualified for a transfusion. Their check-up is thorough enough to reveal any weakness that would be reflected in the loss of a pint of blood. This is a valuable service, because often people discover conditions they didn't even know existed until they had the check-up.

If you want to feel like you've helped Greenville, give a pint of blood to help us keep our blood bank. You never can tell when you might want to call on the bank for a refund.

And I thank you.

Business Today

Food retailers are apprehensive these days. Their stores are jammed with overcooked shoppers preparing for Christmas. The jams and the overcoats signal a rise in pilferage. Under coverage of crowds and with the facilities of bulk coats, itchy-fingered shoppers can turn a profitable operation into a loss.

As Neal D. Ramsey, supermarket operator of Pasadena, Calif., told the convention of the National Association of Food Chains recently, a shoplifter who takes an 83-cent can of crabmeat takes the net profit on $62 of sales.

At every meeting of food retailers talk always gets around to pilferages. Much of the talk these days is about the "Detroit plan."

Detroit dealers were being stolen into bankruptcy. Single stores and chains had attempted various methods of cutting down on losses. Those that filed complaints against shoplifters lost time and money in pressing complaints and gained a reputation of being unduly severe. At last, leading market operators joined to set up a committee to deal with the situation.

The committee, speaking for all merchants, gained attentive hearings by police and magistrates. Cooperation was promised. On pre-arranged dates, the committee sent out squads of detectives. In two days they netted 58 shoplifters and obtained 58 convictions, ranging up to 90 days in the calaboose.

In the past—such as when your correspondent was the 21-year-old city editor of a San Francisco newspaper—merchants abhorred any reference to shoplifters. The very mention of the practice in the news columns, they thought, gave weak people ideas.

Merchants clamored up; stories of arrests had to be dug out of official files. But in Detroit this year, the committee begged reporters to cover the stories. And they did. The publicity helped. One chain, which had been having 25 to 30 experiences with pilferers a week, had only three to five apprehensions a week after shoplifters learned that Detroit's jails—no models—awaited them.

In Philadelphia and other cities food merchants are studying the Detroit plan. The National Association of Food Chains, 726 Jackson Place, N.W., Washington 6, D.C., will send flyers in other cities details of the plan—even non-members.

FOOD PILFERER...
CAN BE ANYBODY...
 Experience in Detroit and elsewhere indicates that the food pilferer is pretty hard to spot. While ratios of thefts are probably

NEW YORK (AP) People are getting bigger—if not better. As the world gets smaller and smaller the folk who live in it are growing taller and taller.

I don't envy them. Height is losing its glamor. Every growing boy years to be a big, strapping six-footer-plus, who goes through life bowling bullies, out of his way right and left.

But when he does reach maturity he finds things aren't that simple. If he is over six feet and shoves somebody, right or wrong the cry goes up, "Look at the big bum throwing his weight around." The crowd is against him.

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS
WASHINGTON—The American Council on Education (ACE) reports a remarkable spurt in learning over the last quarter century.

There are 98 per cent more men and women in the nation's colleges and universities now than there were in 1928, even though there has been only a 19 per cent rise in total population.

Many reasons are offered for the increased interest in college education, but ACE suggests one that is not often considered. It singles out for special mention the fact that American colleges have been steadily raising their standards.

In the sixth edition of its book "American Universities and Colleges," the Council calls attention to a "spectacular increase" in the number of accredited colleges in the United States in the past 25 years.

In 1928, when the council put out its first edition of the book, there were only 339 accredited colleges in the country. Now there are 904. Nearly all of these colleges were in existence in 1928. The increase is due to the raising of standards by the colleges themselves and to increased activity by the accrediting agency in recognizing colleges that were already up to requirements.

In 1929 the six regional accrediting agencies were linked in an overall organization that fixes standards of education. Among the things this organization looks for are the number of volumes in the college library, the work load of the students, salary and preparation of teachers and general educational standards.

All major colleges now are accredited. They rarely accept transfer students or graduate students from institutions that are not accredited.

Mary Irwin, editor of the council, who compiled the new directory, believes that the accrediting activity has brought about greater interest in higher learning and, of course, better educated citizens.

She said it is conceivable that the high standards may go even higher. This will necessitate more detailed investigation at the colleges and will further expand the council's work. The council may have to lease a special building just to house its directory operations. The volume just issued runs 1,125 pages, and the print is pretty small.

Back in 1928 the directory ran 884 pages. But that doesn't mean a thing, Miss Irwin pointed out. "The pages were so small and the type was so much bigger,"

Eight Speedsters Before County Court On Tuesday

By CHESTER WALSH

State highway patrolmen policing the highways leading in and out of Greenville are bearing down on the speeding motorists who violate the state law.

In Pitt County Recorder's Court Tuesday, eight motorists were found guilty of speeding. "That's a good record for the state patrolmen," County Court Solicitor Horton Rountree said after court adjourned.

Judge Dink James was presiding. Speeding: Charles E. Woodfolk, Cherry Point, was found guilty. He paid court costs and his driver's license was suspended for 10 days. James Robert Stancil of near Greenville paid $10 and court costs and surrendered his license for 30 days. Charlie McLawhorn, Negro, paid Court costs and surrendered his license for 10 days. Richard Highsmith of Greenville paid court costs and surrendered his license for 10 days. Milton S. Brown of Washington, N. C. paid court costs and surrendered his license for 10 days. Lloyd F. Edwards of Greenville paid court costs and surrendered his license for 10 days. Jean Carol Hamill of Fountain paid court costs and surrendered her license for 10 days. Robert R. Thomas of near Greenville paid court costs and surrendered his license for 10 days.

Mamie Ruth Leary, Negro, of near Vanceboro, was found not guilty.

In the case of Aaron Crandle, who was charged with driving without an operator's license, Judge James issued an order abating the case as a result of death.

Larceny: Steril Smith, case continued. Jesse Clark and Pad Octavius Gogdard, each defendant was given four months on the roads.

The case against Leonard Worthless, charged with giving a worthless check, was not prosed.

Assault with a deadly weapon: Willie Davis Rogers, 90 days on the roads, sentence suspended on payment of court costs and for doctor's

Umstead Selects January 8 For Inauguration Day

RALEIGH (AP)—Gov.-elect William B. Umstead has picked Jan. 8 as the date for his inauguration. The date, he declared yesterday, will maintain a long-standing tradition under which the governor and other state officials are sworn in the day following the convening of the General Assembly.

A special committee of two state senators and three members of the House is now at work planning the inauguration ceremonies, Umstead revealed.

In a talk to members of the North Carolina Automobile Dealers Association, Umstead said except for the two appointments he has already announced, no other state posts have been earmarked for any particular individual.

Chapter 23

"Over here," the stick traveled in the area east of the Colorado. "You've got the Regulators and brother Morgan waiting to cut your throat. Out this way," he indicated the empty space west of the Colorado. "The Comanches need a new supply of scalps and horses—and we've got them both."

He tossed the stick aside and tilted back on his heels.

"There it is," he said flatly. "It's hell if we do and it's hell if we don't."

"You said you had a plan, Colonel. It was Herrera, hard lines of worry carving his cheeks and faint fire flecks of doubt reflected in his eyes.

"It's my idea to stay on this side and strike out for the coast. Once we get there, we can turn east again and cross the Colorado and the Brazos. That will put us just at the edge of Velanto."

"An' then we go chargin' in like a bunch of wild men an' Morgan's ready and waitin' with more men than we'll ever see, an' we start swimmin' for Vera Cruz, like I was sayin' a while ago."

Clay shook his head. "No," he said slowly. "All we do that way would be lose our tail ends and all their fixtures."

Web's voice was puzzled. "Well, how then—"

Clay laughed and clapped him on the shoulder.

"Ever hear of reconnaissance, Webb? Personal reconnaissance?"

Webb frowned in perplexity.

"Why, yes," he admitted. "I've been on plenty of reconnaissance details projectin' up around th' enemy's lines an' tryin' to see what he was up to. For my money, there ain't no better way to get your brains blowed out. But this here personal reconnaissance, Clay, I ain't so sure I know about that."

"It's the same idea," Clay explained. "I used to hear a lot of talk about it when the regular Army officers were staying at Brad's. When an officer doesn't know what to do next, and especially when he doesn't know what the enemy's going to do, he just puts on his hat and walks into the middle of their setup to see what he can find out. If he's lucky, he finds a way to foul them up from the inside or a way to take them by surprise, even with a smaller force."

Webb meditated silently, chewing the idea over in his mind, his lower lip projecting farther and farther forward as the idea found a colder and colder reception in his mind.

"Knowin' you," he said sourly, "I don't need to ask who th' officer's goin' to be for I know you'd rat it hell before you'd let another man try it. But just suppose that after this here officer of yours sticks his head into that hornet's nest, he ain't lucky. 'Spose you tell us what happens then—"

Clay got up and kicked the stick he had been using into the fire. It flared up brilliantly and then abruptly faded away. With a sudden return of the exhaustion the fever had bred in him, he knew that his own strength had flared and waned, just as the stick had blazed and expired. Now he was too drained of strength to carry on any prolonged discussion of defense.

"Then, why, Webb—then the cut-off he was with gets a new commander and prays to God he'll have more sense than the last one had."

His tired eyes circled the shadowed faces around the dying fire and he lifted his hand in a gesture of dismissal.

"Good night, gentlemen. We'll pull out at sunrise. Pass the word along to your men tonight and have them ready to go as soon as we can see."

They had come at last to the coast, through land as gray and barren as the back of a dead man's hand. They came to the Gulf then. A shore of wide, lawny beaches with the waist-high marsh grass rimming it in for mile after mile. They had ridden beside it for three days now. East across the Colorado, east across the wide, half-choked mouth of the Brazos, east to within a dozen miles of Morgan's stronghold outside Velanto.

Matters were better between Clay and Toni, too; more clearly defined and free from confusion as the result of a long evening when they sat alone beside the sapphire Gulf.

"Sally?" she had asked softly.

"Sally!" He stood stock-still in stunned amazement. Sally! The proud, beautiful, imperious woman who was waiting for him back in Westport! Sally!

"What do you know about Sally?" he demanded. "I've never mentioned her name."

Toni stood up and held herself tensely. "No, I dare say you did not mean to talk of her, but when you had the fever..."

Yes, the fever. That black, night-mareish day when his mind had been like a hot of untended flame, driven in hot gusts through past and future, at the mercy of every errant gale of memory and hope and dreams that swept down upon him.

"Who is this—this Sally?"

"Sally? Sally is a very lovely lady who is waiting for me at Westport Landing. I've been most unfaithful to her—and most unfair to you."

He was sick with shame, torn between Toni's love and gallantry and the sudden sharp realization that of all the world, only Sally could possess and hold him utterly.

"And so I have the answer to my question. She is between us now—and forever. Perhaps—perhaps, querida, it is for the best. You will go far, and I might fall behind along the way."

"I think that I shall always love you a little, corazón—and I will always hate you a little, too. Now, since Herrera desires me and you do not, I would like to go to him. I am released, señor?"

"You are released."

There was the quick flash of a smile, a kiss tossed from tawny fingertips, and she was gone, running lightly down the beach toward the encampment—and Herrera.

He turned and walked slowly up the beach alone.

Kremlin Stooges Have Short Life Expectancy

By PHIL NEWSOM
United Press Foreign News Editor

In the animal kingdom, Communism's satellite bosses must be considered among those with the shortest life expectancy.

Let us consider the rewards for faithful service to the Kremlin by the stooges the Reds have used to seize or reinforce their power in East Europe. In a startling number of cases they have been the purge, disgrace, party expulsion, prison sentences, the firing squad, the hangman's noose.

Last week it was former Czech Foreign Minister Vlastislav Clementis and Rudolf Slansky, once Moscow's No. 1 boy in Czechoslovakia. They were sentenced to be hanged.

Next on the list appears to be Ana Pauker, pudgy, one-time glamorous girl of world Communism. She already has been stripped of her post of foreign minister of Romania, publicly humiliated by a confession of her party sins, kicked out of the party. And now the familiar pattern of a "trial" before a "people's court," is in the making.

Ana is but the latest of a long list of loyal Communists or Communist collaborators who served Moscow's interests, then fell from grace because they failed to keep pace with the gyrations of the Moscow Communist line, because their usefulness was ended or because Soviet propaganda dictated that Zionists, Titoists or some other element should be the fall-guys for a Red fall-down.

Here are some of the more prominent of the satellite "eager beavers" who learned too late that the road to Communist glory leads but to an early grave:

Laslo Rak, former Hungarian foreign minister and minister of interior in the Communist government; leader of the Communist party, charged with Titoist deviation, treason, plotting to overthrow the government. Sentenced to death Sept. 24, 1949. Hanged Oct. 15.

Dr. Tibor Szonyi, head of the Hungarian party's cadre section. Charged with treason, sentenced to death and hanged. His deputy, Andras Szalai, similarly charged and hanged.

Traicho Kostov, former Bulgarian deputy premier, secretary of the Bulgarian Communist party's Central Committee, charged with leading a pro-Yugoslav, American-inspired conspiracy. Convicted Dec. 14, 1949, by a Bulgarian people's court, hanged Dec. 16, 1949.

The preceding impressive list is only of "top" names. It makes no accounting of the small fry who followed the head men to the gallows.

It likewise fails to account for Poland, where there also has been a sweeping purge but where detailed information has not yet been released.

Nor does it account for those who just disappeared for "illness" or other reasons.

Among them have been the founder and leader of the Albanian Communist party, the foreign, defense and interior ministers of Hungary and, finally, of course, Maurice Thorez, French Communist leader "III" in Moscow for years.

The liners Queen Mary and Queen Elizabeth were built partly of scrap from the German battle fleet sunk in Scapa Flow after World War I.

Children Of War Worry Police

NAPLES (AP)—Some of the little boys who found friendly GIs "easy marks" during World War II have grown up to become Naples' biggest police headache.

The youths, now in their late teens and early 20s, are still practicing the trades that hunger taught them during the war—chiefly pick-pocketing and theft of automobiles, their parts and contents.

Hunger still is the cause of some of the crime. Habit also plays a part. Despite an all-out drive by police, the problem will probably continue, says Naples police official.

European Gourmets May Be Right In Shrugging Off U. S. Meals; Maybe Not

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

It is the honest opinion of most palate-wise Europeans, fortified by out-own periodicals, that as far as food is concerned, Americans are nothing but a bunch of germ-conscious barbarians.

Few Frenchmen would exchange their crusty, long loaves which counter Heaven-knows-what adventures during their raked rice from oven to mouth, for a slice of our hygienic, double-wrapped, vitamin-impregnated bread. Most continentals regard with something like awe mixed with amusement our rational preoccupation with sterile wrappings, our admiration of food prepared without resort to human hands, our dedication to refrigeration, chlorine and vacuum-packing, not to mention our determination to eliminate the druggery or joy—depending on how you look at it—of food preparation, and our passion for saving time.

To the average American blessed with the normal complement of taste buds and appreciation of good food, the rather condescending attitude of the gourmet-type European on American food habits smacks more of book-learning than eating.

As one who has sampled the fare of a number of countries with vast appreciation, I know that day-in, day-out eating in the United States is far better than it is elsewhere no matter how long the diner's purse. And I also know that the United States, for all its preoccupation with germs, is the only country where routine inquiry about the drinking water isn't necessary. And it's the only country I'll travel in without packing along as standard equipment a mouth and paragonic to mitigate pangs of a recurring, disagreeable ailment peculiar to travelers and expeditionary forces.

However, I believe that American pioneering spirit, as shown by national interest in "trying something new," is likely to give the European a rather peculiar idea about our diet. Partly this is the fault of our newspaper and magazine writers who specialize in food and recipes. All of them are constantly in quest of something different and interesting to write about, and in a highly competitive field, sometimes food combinations sound strange.

Of recent date I've run across some pretty unusual food suggestions. Maybe they'd taste fine, but the mere contemplation of the recipes sent shudders down my American spine, and they probably will make fodder for critical European food conservatives for some time to come.

There was, for instance, a suggestion that ham be "iced" with confectioner's sugar before baking. Then there was the recipe for peanut-butter cod-fish balls. And a salad made of sauerkraut and fruit.

I've heard talk about cola drinks and soda pop as the liquid in cake mixes, and there was some serious consideration given a ring mold which called for gelatine, cold drink and slices of bologna. Also cake made with tomato soup.

Recently it was suggested that doughnuts be used as the base of chicken à la king. I ate—and enjoyed, for goodness' sake—a shrimp curry served with "iced bananas." Probably the rest of them are equally palatable, but my food-taking is still too far to the right of center, and the habit of years too ingrained, to send me scurrying into the kitchen all-me with desire to combine, for instance, sauerkraut and fesh fruit in a salad. I'll continue to think of sauerkraut happily used to spare ribs.

Meanwhile, I'd feel happier about the reputation of American food if our most violent critics would visit a few homes and restaurants and taste some of the plain, tasteful and good food which is routinely served.

Pistols are believed to have been invented in Pistoia, Italy, about 1540.

GI Stork Gets Landing Orders

BELLEVILLE, Ill. (AP) — The stork, which has enjoyed unlimited landing privileges at Scott Air Force Base Hospital, now has orders to land at the base not more than 60 times a month. On any trips over the quota the stork must find its own civilian landing facilities.

Servicemen stationed overseas whose wives live in Southern Illinois and neighboring states previously enjoyed free their delivery at the base hospital. An increase in the number of families living at the base to approximately 1,500 prompted the quota for the maternity ward.

Sarongs Survive Cut In Imports

SINGAPORE (AP)—A Japanese economic writer has warned that Japanese textile workers may have to turn to other heavy industry if the slump in their products continues in Southeast Asia countries.

Masso Takakura said Indonesia is the latest country to slash imports of Japanese textiles because of an unfavorable balance of trade. Only cambric and sarongs are being imported at present.

U. S. Tradition Of Yule Tree Is From Germans

STATE COLLEGE, Pa.—Tradition has it that Christmas trees started in Germany when Christmas missionaries chopped down trees worshipped by the pagans and made a decorated tree part of the Christian celebration.

Now Dr. Phillip A. Shelley, professor and head of the department of German at Pennsylvania State College has studied the records and thinks that all Christmas tree traditions in the United States were brought here by German immigrants.

These immigrants wanted to preserve the type of Christmas they had in Germany, he says. Pictures circulated in this county from the 1830s to the 1860s show evidence of German origin, Dr. Shelley says.

One of the earliest records he has found tells how the Moravians at Bethlehem, Pa., used Pyramids of green brushwood decorated with candles, apples and verses in 1767.

He thinks the Christmas tree appeared in Harrisburg, Pa., between 1818 and 1826. Philadelphia been started by Constantine Herling, apshipian from Saxony, and Friedrich Knorr, a teacher from Prussia in 1834.

Other sources indicate that Christmas trees were first introduced into England in the 1840s by the German consort of Queen Victoria.

Port Kept Free Of Reds, Thefts

SINGAPORE (AP)—An American port official has praised Singapore authorities for keeping the colony's wharves free of Communist-dominated unions and also free from pilferage.

Tom Maddox, traffic manager of the Los Angeles harbor department on a tour of Far Eastern port Harbor and Port Conference at Klobe, Japan, blamed Red-dominated unions for waterfront troubles at U.S. west coast ports.

Yuletide Theme In Organ Recital

The Christmas season will provide the theme for a program of organ music to be given by seven students of music at East Carolina College, Sunday, December 14. The event will be sponsored by the college department of music.

The student musicians will use the Tellers pipe organ in the Austin building on the campus and will appear in recital at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. The program will be open to the public.

The young organists who will be presented in the pre-holiday recital are pupils of George E. Perry of the faculty of the East Carolina department of Music. They are Ellen L. Sprinkle, Asheville; David Victor Van Hook, Nashville; Myrtle Manning, Robersonville; Carolyn Clapp, Greenville; Carolyn Brothers, South Mills; Janet Watson, Greenville; and Cecilia Willoughby, Creswell.

Percy Wilkins of Beson, sophomore at East Carolina, will take part in the program by reading passages from the Gospel according to St. Luke.

Addressing Malayan graduate teachers, he reminded them of the 1946 Chinese-Malay clashes following the surrender of the Japanese. There are about 70 species of pine trees.

TRANSFORMATION
NEWPORT, R. I. (UP) — The Cinderella story of a pumpkin turning into a stage coach received a new twist at Frank Cutter's home. Cutter had an 80-pound pumpkin which required the help of two persons in placing it on his front porch. A few days later the pumpkin was missing and in its place was a tiny green pepper.

Williamsburg, Va., was once capital of a province which included territory now covered by Virginia, West Virginia, Kentucky, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin and parts of Pennsylvania.

Stokes Wins Cage Games At Chicod

CHICOD—Stokes basketball teams walloped Chicod in both ends of a basketball doubleheader played in the Chicod gym last night. The Stokes girls started the evening's play by winning 48-40 and the boys followed up with a 68-44 win.

Girls Game
Stokes' ace forward, Helen Copeland, couldn't be stopped as she led the scoring for both teams with 23 points. That was seven more than Chicod's Clara Wilson. A comparison of the scoring of the two leaders is indicative of the advantage Stokes held all the way down the line.
Chicod kept the score fairly even for the first half of the contest, largely on the outstanding work of guard Joyce Spain. In the second half, however, Stokes' ace at guard, Janie Tyson, bottled up the Chicod scoring while her own teammates at forward got rolling in high gear.

Boys Game
In the boys game, it was simply a matter of too much power on the part of the Stokes team. Captain Jack Warren set a rugged pace with 28 points in the easy victory.

Stokes took off right at the opening whistle and never let up a bit. Warren Whitehurst turned in a good floor game as well as dumping in 13 points, the same number contributed by Carl White. Chicod's scoring was led by Kenneth Ross with 15 points. Stokes led 30-18 at the half.

Phantom Quint Travels To R. Mount For Second Game

Phants Play Here Dec. 12 In Return Tilt With Wilson

Coach Bo Farley and the Greenville Phantom cagers invade Rocky Mount tonight for another test against an AAA team.
Tuesday night the Phantoms opened the season against Wilson and came off second best in the affair as was expected, considering that Wilson has the same team back that went to Eastern AAA finals last year.
Coach Farley was displeased with his boys' inability to make their shots good, but was pleased with their defensive work.
Only four members of this year's team, Smith Worthington, Jimmy Cheatham, Doug Morgan and Preston Fields, have seen varsity action. George Sideris, Bobby Perry, Leon Hardee, Dixie Hogwood, Walter Perkins, Bobby Conway and Bobby Starkey are arrivals from last year's Jayvee squad.
Yesterday's drills consisted largely of fast breaking tip shots with two players working the ball and being guarded closely as they worked the ball under the goal.
Long, concentrated work at the free throw line followed the workout. Smith Worthington, All-Conference star, displayed last season's form against Wilson by whipping in 13 points and he will be the Phantoms' scoring threat against the Blackbirds.
Jimmy Cheatham a regular at the guard post, will be depended on for his usual fine game in the back court.
Guy Smith, out for the first time this year, is catching on fast and he will undoubtedly see action tonight.
Bobby Perry is working out in football drills for the Shrine game and will miss the game. Perry will be back in the lineup when the locals play their first home game December 12 against Wilson.

Seixas, Sedgman Play Net Finals

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP)—Vic Seixas of Philadelphia playing captain of the United States Davis Cup team, whipped Australia's Ken McGregor in straight sets today, 7-5, 6-1, 6-2, to enter the final of the Victorian Tennis Championships.
Seixas will be pitted against Frank Sedgman, the Aussie Cup ace in the final. Sedgman trounced his countryman, Mervyn Rose, 6-4, 6-2, 6-3, in the other semi-final.

Ayden, Belvoir Split Cage Tilts

BELOVOIR—Belvoir and Ayden split a Pitt County Conference doubleheader here Tuesday night. Belvoir's girls won the first half of the bargain bill by a 54-26 score but Ayden's boys bounced back in the second half to take a 61-32 victory.
In the girls game, Belvoir's Marlene Clark took high scoring honors with 21 points. Stott led the Ayden scoring with 15.
There was never any question about the outcome of the game. Belvoir grabbed a quick lead and simply ran away from the Ayden girls.

Boys Game
The reverse situation existed in the second half of the night's action. Ayden's boys, paced by Randall Harrington's 13 points, grabbed a lead early in the game and took Belvoir for a ride before dumping them. Wyatt Meeks led Belvoir's scoring with eight points while Gene Bell took runner-up honors with seven.

ECC Announces Swimming Course

The Athletic Department of East Carolina College has announced:
The Red Cross Senior and Instructor course will be given in the college pool starting Monday, December 8, at 6:45 p.m.
The Senior course involves 17 hours of work and is required for the instructor rating.
Candidates should present evidence that they are 18 years of age and have a medical certificate. Those candidates interested should report with pencil and notebook at the time mentioned above.
Suits will be furnished by the college but no towels or bathing caps. The suit fee is 75 cents for the Senior course and $1.00 for the Instructor course which is 30 hours in length.

Tickets On Sale For Bowl Game

East Carolina College athletic officials announced today that they had received 250 tickets for reserved seats at the Lions Bowl in Salisbury. The Pirates will meet Clarion State Teachers College in the December 13 game.
The tickets will cost $2.50 and have already been placed out sale by athletic officials at the college. They are available in the athletic office.
Athletic Director N. M. Jorgensen also announced that students at the college need not buy reserved seat tickets. Student tickets will be available at the gate for the usual price of $1.
While the procedure for handling the tickets was being set up, the squad itself continued to move along in its preparations for the game. Coach Jack Boone had the squad outdoors again and continued to work on the conditioning exercises which have featured the last three workouts. Rough work is expected some time this week.
Provided there are no unforeseen incidents, the team should be as strong for the bowl game as they were at any time during the 10-game regular season.
In drills thus far, Boone has had veteran Sandy Siler and freshman Dick Cherry alternating in the quarterback slot.

Seven Lettermen On Pirate Cage Team

Basketball Coach Howard Porter began applying the finishing touches to his East Carolina College basketball squad as they neared their opening game of the season. The curtain raiser is scheduled for Saturday night in Greensboro against Guilford.
The Pirates got past the big task of selecting a 12-man traveling squad yesterday. Seven lettermen are included in the group. Three freshmen and two transfer students complete the list.
In yesterday's work, the Pirates concentrated on polishing their new style of attack and coordinating it with their standard AP system. As has been the case in most of the drills, Coach Porter had Sonny Russell and Jack Carr at the forwards, Bobby Hodges at center, and Cecil Heath and J. C. Thomas at the guards on the first team. All but Thomas are lettermen. Thomas is a freshman from Raleigh.

Reynolds Defeats Durham For Title

DURHAM (AP)—Winston-Salem Reynolds' football team headed home today, the proud possessor of its first state Triple-A high school football championship.
A warm welcome was due the new champions who battled to a 13-6 victory over Durham in near-freezing weather here last night.
A 55-yard punt return by Halfback Teele Chapple gave Reynolds a first-period touchdown. A five-yard pass from Nick Kroustalis to Bunky Shore counted another Reynolds touchdown in the second period.
Durham bounced back as Halfback Henry Rigbes plunged three yards for a touchdown in the third quarter. Shortly after a Durham drive stalled on Reynolds' six-inch line! Tackle Harry Galifianakis dropped Chapple in the end zone for a safety.
The victory snapped Durham's 11-game winning streak that had carried it to the Eastern Conference championship. Reynolds came up the hard way. It beat Salisbury Nov. 31 to the Charlotte Central for first place in the Western Conference. Reynolds whipped Charlotte Nov. 26 in a playoff game to earn the state title shot.

Meadows Of Duke Makes Second Team All-America

NEW YORK (UP)—The United Press today presents its 1952 All-America football team, the 11 college players chosen as the best in the land by 260 sports writers and broadcasters from all sections of the nation.

They selected as the country's finest:

Ends: Bernie Flowers of Purdue and Frank McPhee of Princeton.

Tackles: Dick Modzelewski of Maryland and Hall Miller of Georgia Tech.

Guards: Elmer Willhoite of Southern California and John Michels of Tennessee.

Center: Donn Moomaw of UCLA.

Backs: Billy Vessels of Oklahoma, Jack Scarbath of Maryland, John Lattner of Notre Dame and Donald McAuliffe of Michigan State.

All are seniors except Lattner, who is a junior. None are repeat-ers from last year's All-America, which was made up exclusively of seniors, but McPhee was named to the second team in 1951 and Moomaw to the third.

Those selected this year won out over tough competition. The balloting showed clearly that college football is getting back on its pre-war footing when the caliber of players was so high that the voting was evenly distributed. In most seasons since the war there were four or five standouts, but that was not the case this year.

Leading the balloting was Vessels, the Oklahoma star who won the Heisman Trophy as the outstanding player in the land, with 2,138 points out of a possible 2,860. That is the smallest number of points the leading All-America vote-getter has received in the United Press voting since 1941.

Geographically, the selections favored the South. Counting Maryland as a Dixie team, that section came up with four players on the mythical eleven. The Midwest was next with three, followed by the Far West with two, the East and Southwest with one each.

Although twice defeated in the closing stages of the season, Maryland was the only team to place two players on the first team. The two undefeated, united major teams—Michigan State, the No. 1 club in the United Press final ratings, and Georgia Tech, the runner-up—each placed one man. So did Notre Dame, the third ranking team, and Southern California and Oklahoma, which wound up in a tie for fourth place in the final season standings.

Eleven colleges were represented on the second team, which was made up of Steve Meilinger of Kentucky and Tom Stolhandske of Texas at ends; Atkins and Ed Meadows of Duke at tackles; Steve Eisenhauer of Navy and Frank Kush of Michigan State at guards; Tom Cullin of Oklahoma at center and Cameron, Leon Hardsman of Georgia Tech, Paul Giel of Minnesota and Johnny Olszewski of California in the backfield.

Southern California, the Pacific Coast Conference champion and Rose Bowl team, placed two men on the third team, which was made up of Ed Bell of Pennsylvania and Lowell Perry of Michigan at ends; Bob Van Doren of Southern California and Charles LaPrade of Florida at tackles; Bill Athey of Baylor and Harley Sewell of Texas at guards; Dick Tamburo of Michigan State at center and Don Heinrich of Washington, Jimmy Sears of Southern California, Alan Ameche of Wisconsin and Eddie Crowder of Oklahoma in the backfield.

Barclay Tops Field For UNC Post

CHAPEL HILL (UP)—The name of assistant coach George Barclay jumped into the top spot today among choices for a successor to Head Football Coach Carl Snavey at the University of North Carolina.

The rumor mill had practically offered the job to Jim Tatum of Maryland after a published report that Tatum was "through at Maryland." But Tatum angrily denied the report.

"I'm not dumb enough to make any statement like that," he told United Press late yesterday. "The story was absolutely false and I intend to find out just who spread it."

Tatum, however, had a terse "no comment" when asked about the possibility of his taking over Snavey's job which the "Grey Fox" resigned Tuesday night.

Although it may be several weeks before the coaching committee of North Carolina's athletic council recommends a successor to Snavey, Barclay's name has jumped up into the top spot of speculation.

Barclay was hired as chief assistant last year to install the split-T after Snavey discarded his trien and true single-wing in attempts to build a winning team. Barclay former head coach at Washin on and La., was given a three-yr. contract and appears to have a solid core of support from alumni, students and the administration.

He was one of North Carolina's all-time great linemen in his undergraduate days.

Among other rumors to be in line for Snavey's post were Art Guepe of Virginia, Johnny Vaught of Mississippi and Paul Brown of the pro Cleveland Browns.

Louis Tepe Wins Jacobs Memorial Blocking Trophy

GREENSBORO, N. C. (UP)—For the first time in Southern Conference football history, the coveted William P. Jacobs blocking award for 1952 went today to a center—Louis Tepe of the champion Duke Blue Devils.

The presentation of the award to Tepe marked the second straight year that a Duke player has received the honor. Last year it was taken by Jack Kistler, Duke Full-back.

The award, symbolic of the outstanding blocker in the Southern Conference, was founded by the late William P. Jacobs of Clinton, S. C., to gain recognition for the alleged "forgotten" man in football.

Tepe, a 185-pound, six-foot one-inch senior from Englewood, N. J., was noted this year for his savage blocking and the way he opened big holes through the middle of the line to pave the way for Duke's powerful split-T ground attack.

Kistler last year's winner, was hampered by injuries this year, but still received 63 votes for the award to take third place in the voting. Tepe received 68, and Hootie Johnson of South Carolina got 64 for second place.

A total of 44 writers and 14 coaches of the conference mentioned 1 conference players for the award. Some leading vote-getters included Ed Fullerton, Maryland, 21; George Rodgers, Clemson, 20; Bill Bowman, William and Mary, 19; Tom Cosgrove, Maryland, and Ray Green, Duke, 16 each; Joe Koch, Wake Forest, 15; Truett Grant, Duke, 14.

Tepe will be honored at a banquet at a later date.

Carolina Cagers Down Virginians

By UNITED PRESS

North Carolina teams handed Virginia's cagers a double setback in two basketball games Wednesday night as the University of North Carolina whipped Washington and Lee 67 to 48 in a Southern Conference game and High Point College trounced Virginia Tech 84 to 75.

At Washington, George Washington University beat William and Mary 90 to 78.

The Tar Heels had to pull from behind in the first period against Washington and Lee with freshman Jerry Vayda looping in the goal which led it up 14-14. By half-time, the Tar Heels had pulled ahead for a 34-23 lead and were never headed after that.

Vayda was high for the winners with 17 points, but Washington and Lee's Charlie Topp led both teams with 20.

Forward Howard Alexander paced the High Point victory over Virginia Tech with 23. Tech's Eaton also ranked top 23, although High Point led all the way.

The halftime score was High Point 39 Virginia Tech 36.

In a game at Salisbury, the semi-pro McCrary Eagles trounced Catawba College 77 to 51. Catawba's Don Graham paced his team with 12 points.

N. C. Foxhounds Lead S. C. Field

FLORENCE, Ala. (AP)—Dixie Gal is setting the pace in the third round of the United States Open Field Trials here.

The fox hound, owned by Dr. J. H. Cutchin Jr., Roanoke Rapids, N. C., led the remaining 60 entrants after two days yesterday with 215 points.

Other leaders were W. V. Moon-ey's Buck Scott from Kernersville, N. C., second with 185 points; and South Carolina C. H. Rod, owned by B. E. Glenn, Durham, N. C., third with 165.

Points for endurance will be awarded for the first time after today's casts are concluded. Dixie Bell had 70 points for hunting, 60 for trailing and 85 for speed.

The 1952 champion will be decided tomorrow. North Carolina fox hounds have won the title in five of the past six years.

Buck Scott led at the end of the first day.

Joe, owned by Bill Mooney, son of W. V. Mooney, was among 13 hounds scratched by the judges. After ending the first day tied for second place, he was eliminated for loafing.

A three-man committee was given the task of reporting next year on proposals to lengthen the trials from 20 hours to 25 or 28. The 1953 contest will be held here next December.

J. A. Burris of Lineolnton, N. C., was elected association president, succeeding Dr. H. L. Downey of Martinsville, Ill.

John Henry Allen, Iuka, Miss., was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

AP Newsfeatures
PRESENT AND FUTURE needs are envisaged in this plan with a porch, garage and upper floor which can be finished after the house is built. The same plumbing line will serve the kitchen and both baths. This is Plan 1893 by William G. Chirgottis, 968 Stuyvesant Ave., Union, N. J. The house covers 1,092 square feet without porch and garage. It contains 21,840 cubic feet — figures which serve as guides in estimating local building costs.

British Training More War Dogs

NEW YORK (AP)—The British are training 80 dogs at a war dog training school in Malaya for duty against Communists in Korea and Malaya, the British Information Service reports here.

Their value for patrol duty and troop moral has already been proved. They are particularly useful in scenting ambushes and in locating non-metallic mines which ordinary detectors cannot discover, according to the report.

THANKS FOR THE RIDE
OMAHA, Neb. (UP)—A proud hunter received a shock when he opened the luggage compartment of his car to show friends the gaudy pheasant he had bagged. The bird—only stunned by the shot—had revved on the trip home and hopped out of the compartment and went winging down an alley.

Top Photographer Got Start With Old 'Box'

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—Like many another good photographer, Joseph Baylor Roberts learned his trade with a $1.29 box camera.

That was in his Boy Scout days when he'd aim his box camera at rural scenes on a farm near Berryville, Va.

As a grown up cameraman, he has made pictures of kings, presidents, and plain Joes in 25 countries around the world. Presently he is an expert on color photography for the National Geographic Society.

Although he is among the top men in his field, the modest Roberts likes to call himself a "workman," not a "scientist."

"I'm till a country boy at heart," he said. "I still get a kick out of pitching hay, snocking wheat or carrying water from the spring."

The lensman, like others in his profession, has had some rather unusual experiences.

Like he is, he was sent to Africa to make a picture of the sultan of Zulu in his "palace." The "palace" turned out to be a bamboo hut, which—it also turned out—had a rather unstable bamboo floor.

In those days, Joe recalled, cameramen worked mostly with a tripod.

"I got all set to shoot," he said, "when all of a sudden the tripod slipped through the bamboo floor. The whole court, including the dignified sultan made a dive for my camera, thinking the thing was going to go off. Luckily, I held my balance, saved the camera and eventually got my picture. Nobody was very happy about it but me—and I got out of there fast."

Another time our friend was dispatched to shoot a picture of the ruler of the state of Swat in Pakistan.

he was honored by having a distinguished color photographer in his midst. So the king pitched a big hoe-down, complete with royal dancers.

Joe went home with memories of a fine evening—but for once no picture.

HARD-BOILED
JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UP)—The city commission ruled recently that no business is to be transacted in any fire station. Mayor Haydon Burns said he received a complaint about a sign on one fire station that read "fresh eggs for sale."

Stocks And Market Reports

NEW YORK (UP)—Oil shares, with gains ranging to more than a point, stole the spotlight again in the stock exchange early today.

Outside of the petroleum group, prices moved within a very narrow range with a number of issues holding at their previous close.

Dealings were on a restricted basis. Sales in the first hour totaled 320,000 shares, compared with 320,000 in the same period yesterday.

Standard Oil of Indiana was the bellwether in the petroleum group. It rose 1.8 points to 77.34. Texas Pacific Land Trust added a point to 144. Amerada Petroleum improved the same amount to 190.34.

Elsewhere, utilities were mostly lower with the exception of Peoples Gas which ran up 1.38 points to 130.14.

Steel equities were quiet and firm. Minor improvements were noted in Bethlehem Steel and U. S. Steel.

Small declines were noted in Dow Chemical, Union Carbide, Lockheed Aircraft and Douglas Aircraft.

RALEIGH (UP)—Central North Carolina live poultry: Fryer, and broilers steady to weak, supplies adequate, demand fair; heavy hens steady, supplies plentiful, demand fair. Prices at farm up to 7 a. m. today: Fryers or broilers 2 1/2-3 lbs 32; heavy hens 22-25, mostly 23-24.

The Laymen League of Sycamore Hill Baptist Church will cancel its program the Second Sunday night until another date.

Blaze Destroys Storage Buildings

COX MILL—Fire of undetermined origin last night razed two farm storage buildings located in this community around 11:30 o'clock.

Discovery of the blaze was not made until the fire had gained considerable headway in the two-story building owned by Mrs. J. R. Worthington. Tobacco and other farm items were lost in the blaze.

No estimate as to the loss was available this morning, nor could it be learned whether there was any insurance on the building.

The rapidly spreading blaze also ignited an old storage building, owned by Johnny Cox and recently used for storage of logging equipment.

Greenville firemen were unable to fight the blaze as the entire building was engulfed by the time they arrived. They did stand by to prevent spread of the fire to the nearby home.

Fallen electric wires halted traffic on the New Bern highway and a rural dirt road for some time, until firemen and Utilities Commission workers removed them.

Greenville Man Granted Parole

C. H. Bryant, 49, of Greenville, convicted August 26 in city recorder's court of receiving stolen goods, was freed Tuesday by the State Parole Commission.

Bryant was arrested August 26 by members of the city police department and the Pitt County Sheriff's office in a raiding party staged at a service station near an open air theater in Greenville.

He was arrested along with three Negroes on warrants charging possession, transportation, and receiving stolen goods. Officials intimated at the time of his arrest he was a member of a ring of tobacco thieves.

Bryant was sentenced to six months on the rot. is, sentence suspended on good behavior, and placed on probation for two years, for possession and transportation of stolen goods.

Joe Louis Chance, Negro, was given a year on the roads for larceny of tobacco. Two Negro youths connected with the ring were not tried for larceny.

Bryant's commutation was recommended by the Recorder's Court Judge and Solicitor, Charles H. Whedbee and Eli Bloom.

All His Troubles Began With That Visit To Tavern

DALLAS, Tex. (UP)—Ernie, you shouldn't have had that beer: Ernest Vickers went to a tavern Wednesday for a beer. When it was time to pay the tab he said his wallet was missing.

Lilly Langhammer, a waitress, called police and complained that Vickers made a most improper search of her.

While Lilly was phoning the police, Vickers saw a man getting into his automobile. He rushed out of the tavern, pulled a knife on the man and forced him into the tavern. Then Ernie called the police.

The police said the "car thief" was a clergyman who had mistaken Vickers' car for his own. They then arrested Vickers as a parole violator they had been searching for 12 years.

Air Force Reserve Officers Meeting Set

A meeting of all Air Force Reserve officers in the Greenville area will be held at 8 o'clock Monday night, December 8, in the agriculture building at Washington.

Speaker at the meeting will be Lt. Col. Robert L. Morton of Raleigh who will explain provisions of the new Air Force Reserve permanent commission.

Announcement of the meeting and speaker came through the office of Capt. Jack A. Crook, liaison officer of the 979th Volunteer AIR Reserve Training Group located in the state's capitol.

"The meeting has been called," Captain Crook said, "to outline advantages of the new permanent type commissions over the old system whereby individual reserve officers renewed their commissions every five years."

Principle reason for the change-over in commission, the captain pointed out, is one of economy. Because of administrative workload entailed in renewing reserve Headquarters United States Air Force has decided to grant a permanent-type commission.

"The new commission in no way affects the reservist's present standing in the Air Force Reserve," Captain Crook declared.

"Reservists at any time under current Air Force regulations," he said, "may resign their commissions."

The project of re-commissioning Air Force Reserve officers in 12 southeastern and south central states is being undertaken by Fourteenth Air Force with headquarters at Robins Air Force Base, Georgia.

Wage . . .

announced by Economic Stabilizer Roger L. Putnam who had dumped the coal dispute in Mr. Truman's lap with the recommendation that the miners' pay increase be limited to $1.50. Putnam made clear that he disagreed with Mr. Truman's action but said he would not resign because of it—a step which he had considered last week.

"The overriding consideration," Mr. Putnam said in a letter to Putnam is that disapproval of the full wage increase would cause a coal strike which "the government is not equipped to meet and resolve promptly."

Lewis miners went out on strike Oct. 20 after the wage board handed down its decision. They went back to work at Lewis' direction one week later after Lewis had a conference with Mr. Truman.

Service, who asked that he not be quoted by name, explained it this way: He said a man could take in stride losses which occur in his usual or regular course of business, quickly recover from setbacks and to ahead with even more determination; but "when setbacks and go ahead with even ventures, he is prone to quit" in discouragement.

OPTIMISTIC—The official said, however, that upon the whole the prospect for a permanent livestock program in Eastern Carolina is good. Some farmers went in too heavy at the start, paid too much for purebred stock when grade animals would have served the purpose as well. Some others probably wagered too large a part of their total capital on a venture that was new to them.

Hundreds of farmers recognized the long range nature of the transition from row-crop cultivation to livestock and approached it cautiously. The State College folks believe there are enough of these to hold most of the gains made and to encourage their neighbors to follow along. "A lot of farmers lost money on cattle," said the Extension Service man, "but only a few went broke and not many are quitting."

SUPPORT—His opinion was supported by two farmers who did not know he had expressed it. Hugh Harris of Pamlico county, who is assistant commissioner of agriculture, and James A. Speight of Bertie, who will be a member of the next General Assembly, and both of whom have integrated beef cattle into their total farming operations; have lost money—both actual and bookkeeping—on the projects but are not discouraged about the long range value of beef cattle in Eastern Carolina.
