G.H.S. News Notes
Eight seniors, one junior, and Miss Ona Shindler, glee club director, attended the vocal clinic in Greensboro November 29.

The group consisted of Claude, site Edge and Janice Ormond, sopranos; Helen Odum and Jo Ann Manning, alto; Roy Taylor and Frank Brooks, tenors; and Curtis Patterson, junior, and Frank Bodkin, bases.

Graduation announcements, calling cards, and thank you notes were ordered by the senior class Monday.

The design that has been used for the last few years is to appear on the new invitations. The upper classmen were allowed to choose their preferred styles of type.

"A Sign Unto You", a one act play by Jean Lee Latham, will be presented by the Dramateers, December 14, in the high school auditorium. The band and glee club will furnish Christmas music.

The cast of the production includes Kenneth MacArthur, broker Edward Holloway; Nancy Howell, his wife Margaret; Jane Robertson, his older daughter Patricia; Agnes Markham, his younger daughter Janice; Harry Lee Roberts, his son Howard; and Ray Ippock, a newsboy.

Answer Joseph is student director and Ward James is faculty adviser.

Greenville's Interdenominational Youth Council met on November 30 in the First Presbyterian church. Approximately 115 representatives from nine churches attended.

Worship program was conducted by Roy Taylor, president of the Presbyterian league. Music was furnished by the Boys Glee club.

West Greenville Presbyterian church was welcomed into the organization.

Orren E. Dowd, principal, attended the fifty-seventh annual meeting of the Southern association of Colleges and Secondary schools in Memphis, Tennessee, November 30-December 4.

The theme of the convention was "Moral and spiritual values in American education."

GOVERNMENT ERROR
KILLEN, Ala. (UP)—Lawson Miller today returned a blank check to the federal government. The ex-GI said the check was properly made out but the amount was not filled in.

TIME OUT
McCOOK, Neb. (UP)—Albert (Toad) Harmon faces a year's lay-off in his campaign to keep the Red Cross blood banks flourishing. Harmon, who had donated 104 pints of blood, was told by doctors to allow a year for red corpuscles and hemoglobin to build up.

Oxygen is somewhat heavier than air of which it forms a part.

AT PUBLIC AUCTION

THE SUB-DIVISION OF THE WILL MOORE FARM

TUESDAY, DEC. 9 11 A.M. ON PROPERTY

Located in Chicod Township 1.5 Miles from Simpson. 7.5 Miles from Greenville and 3.5 Miles from Grimesland. 1.5 Miles South of Highway No. 264 on the Eastern Brick & Tile Co. Road.

Friends, this is one of Pitt County's Finest Tobacco Farms. Sub-divided into 3 smaller farms. Finest Tobacco Allotment. All buildings on farms newly repaired and painted inside and out. A golden opportunity to buy a small farm at a bargain price with a large tobacco allotment.

Pack-houses, Tobacco Barns, and all necessary outbuildings to suit every division. Ditches shrubbed and land already prepared for farming. There's not an acre of this farm that cannot be planted in tobacco.

Entire farm contains 256.6 acres, more or less. Tract No. 1 tobacco allotment — 10.3 acres. Tract No. 2 — tobacco allotment 8.7 acres. Tract No. 3 — tobacco allotment — 7.4 acres. The three tracts will be sold separately and then offered as a whole.

Barbecue will be served on the grounds by Griffin's Quick Lunch. We urge you to attend this bargain day sale and bid your judgement. If it's Real Estate you want to buy or sell, call us. We operate throughout the state. Terms to suit the buyer.

I urge all people who are interested in this property to get in touch with Mr. Will Moore, who owned this farm for many years. A man who will tell you just what kind of farm this is.

7:00 SUNDAY MORNING, ANYTOWN, U.S.A.

Mom's busy getting Sunday dinner. Pop's knee-deep in the papers. And Johnny's fed up—nothing to do, no place to go, and always a promise, "maybe next week we'll go some place." But they never do—together.

If Mom and Pop would only remember—"Nothing too good for that boy," they used to say, gazing deep into the soul shining from his baby eyes.

But they became too busy, too tired, and too worried to bother with Johnny. They gave him bread, milk, meat, and vegetables, but they forgot his soul.

It's not a stomach-ache but an ache in his spirit that ails him now. He wants to be somebody—to do something.

If you'd invite the Johnnys in your neighborhood to Sunday school and Church, they'd find something to do. They'd learn how to be somebody. And their souls would grow along with healthy bodies into stalwart men with a purpose in life.

Ask these Johnnys—today!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Strength for the Day

DON'T BE AFRAID TO PRAY

God has no closed doors for the man who prays. A conviction that this is true is the basis of all effective praying. "Ask, and ye shall receive; seek, and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened unto you." Thus the Lord assured his hearers—in fact his assurance was almost in the form of a covenant. If you meet the requirements, he insists, you will get the results.

So, do not be afraid to ask for big things. Aspire for strength that will enable you to lift mountains and cast them into the sea. God's arm is not shortened that it cannot save, nor his ear heavy that it cannot hear. He who made the universe still controls it. "Ask, seek, knock." All the gifts of God are yours for the asking.

This does not mean that you should fall in the slightest degree to take advantage of every earthly means to achieve your objectives. What is necessary, however, is that you realize that you yourself, unaided, are able to do nothing. The statement that we should pray as if everything depended upon God and then get up from our knees and work as if everything depended upon us, still holds true and will to the end of time.

God and man are partners—colleagues. The praying man associates himself with the Creator in making the impossible possible.

Do not be afraid to pray—often, and with boldness and hope.

Now The Last Phase Begins

Unless some unforeseen circumstances arise, the citizens of Greenville within the next 40 days will cast their ballots to determine whether the municipal government changes to a council-manager form or continues under the present aldermanic form.

More than 1,800 local citizens have signed the petition requesting an opportunity to decide the issue at the polls. The local Jaycees have presented the petition to the city officials.

Between now and Tuesday—according to law—the officials must decide whether the petition contains the required signatures of 25 per cent of the registered voters at the last city election; and if it does, the aldermen must designate the day an election will be held.

According to the statute governing the petition, the election must be held within 40 days. In view of the other statutes which require public notice of an election four weeks before it may be held, the election must be held sometime between the first of January and mid-January.

Even in view of the approaching Christmas rush, an election date set either during the first or second week of January should give local citizens ample time to consider the question of council-manager government and decide how they want to vote on the issue.

No issue on local government which the citizens of Greenville have been called upon to decide is more serious or more far-reaching than the one which is now in the process of being placed before them.

The Reflector urges each registered voter of Greenville to give careful consideration to the proposed council-manager form of municipal government. In all probability there will be a great deal of discussion both for and against the change in municipal government between now and the special election day. There will be a good many pertinent points brought out on each side of the argument. By the same token, there are likely to be a number of unimportant points which are thrown into the argument for the sake of creating confusion and distorting the individual's view of the real issue at stake.

It will be the job of each voter to keep alert, listen to the discussions, and gain all the information he can on the new council-manager form of government proposed for Greenville. By so doing, each citizen should be able to gain sufficient information to come to his own decision as to which form of government would best serve the interests of Greenville as a whole.

The 1,800 citizens who signed the petitions for the election have afforded all the eligible voter of Greenville an opportunity to express at the polls their views on council-manager government. It is an opportunity which should not be taken lightly by the citizens of Greenville.

Trygve Lie Has Lowered The Boom

Trygve Lie has lowered the boom on nine United Nations employes who toyed with disloyalty and refused to answer questions of the Internal Security subcommittee of the United States.

By his action Lie has shown emphatically he intends to have no such foolishness as refusing to answer questions of loyalty on the part of his employes. He has shown that he desires no people engaged in espionage, spying or any other underhanded activities within the sanctity of the United Nations.

It was last Monday that Lie informed nine U. N. employes that they were to answer the questions put to them by the Internal Security subcommittee, or they would lose their jobs. The nine, suspected of being or having been engaged in activities of communism, espionage or spying, had refused to answer the subcommittee's questions by hiding behind the Fifth Amendment of the United States Constitution. They refused on the grounds that their answers might incriminate them.

That sort of attitude Lie apparently would not stand for, and we are glad to see that he would not. The government of the United States could not force the nine to answer questions because of constitutional guarantees; but Lie sought to coerce the nine to answer questions by holding their jobs over their heads. When the answers still did not come, he did not hesitate to fire the nine people involved.

Lie's action is a stern warning to the 3,000 other employes of the United Nations. It is an emphatic declaration that he will not tolerate disloyalty to their respective governments.

By his action, Lie not only has done a great service to the United Nations, but to the United States as well.

National Whirligig

By JOHN FISHER

Czechoslovakia's greatest purge trial of bigwigs is much more than a horrible farce with its phony confessions and fake charges involving Americans.

It demonstrates the way the Reds kill more than one bird with a stone.

The Prague regime blotted out Rudolf Slansky, former secretary general of the Communist Party, Vladimir Clementis, former Foreign Minister, and other discredited rivals. In addition, it attempted to arouse anti-Semitism, blacken Tito, smear the United States and tar and feather John Foster Dulles, President Eisenhower's Secretary of State appointee.

In normal times it would be ludicrous for the Czech slanders to brand the American statesman a "notorious spy." Moscow knows him well. The Politburo fears that he will be highly successful in uncovering Communist trickery, in bolstering the free world and an arousing fresh dislike of Russian imperialism among satellites.

Hence, from now on, Red propagandists will use every means to besmirch him and to cause all Europeans to be afraid of his leadership. The Kremlin is aware that in recent months the American diplomat has urged new, imaginative attempts by peaceful means to wean slave governments from their Soviet masters and to give hope to imprisoned peoples.

Stalinists live in deadly fear that from such positive policies may come another Tito—perhaps Czech President Klement Gottwald or even Mao Tse-tung. An irony is that Gottwald has been under suspicion several times for some of the offenses he now accuses his once close friend Clementis of committing.

Emphasis On Old Themes

The so-called confessions of intrigue with Tito which the wretched victims of the Prague trial poured out, are in keeping with the steady stream of charges against Yugoslavia that started the day Tito thumbed his nose at the big boss. To tie in top-flight Communist alleged traitors with the Balkan rebel is merely new emphasis on the old theme.

Stalin had warned all over stooges that Tito's deviation would bring economic ruin and rebellion. When the sky fell to fall on Tito, the Kremlin had to smear him again lest the remaining satellites should yearn to follow his example.

The trial's canards on American espionage, plots, sabotage and other crimes of intervention also are part of the long campaign to undermine Europe's friendship for the United States.

The Hungarian Szabed Nep printed that "employees of the American Legation in Budapest took an active part in the (Cardinal) Mindszenty conspiracy which was an attempt to bring back the old reactionary regime and restore the Hapsburgs."

Romania's Agenzia stated, "American war pirates attempt to parachute spies and diversionists into our country." Every poison of diseased minds is injected in anti-American propaganda.

Red trials never seek the truth. They are merely instruments in foreign policy that take no thought of the guilt or innocence of the defendants. All manner of lies must be hurled and admitted by the tortured victims in order to aid Communist statecraft.

In that respect the Slansky-Clementis ordeal follows the pattern of the Bukharin-Zinoviev-Kameney mass spy purges in the 1930's, when Stalin got rid of his political rivals. Later the dictator turned on the generals who, since the 1920 Treaty of Rapallo, had cooperated with German generals in moves toward a Russo-German alliance.

Hitler's Tactics

Hitler saw a chance to weaken Stalin's army so he planned forged documents which purported to be treasonable correspondence by Russian General Tukhachevsky with German marshals.

The flower of the Red army was liquidated in the giant purge that lasted a year and was carried out by the notorious butcher Yezhov. All sorts of fake papers and other falsehoods were knowingly used in the wholesale slaughter period.

The Prague trial with its famous defendants is the show piece in the current terror. But small fry also have been dragged into court lately and punished on charges of liaison with Americans.

In Romania, officials in the Danube-Black Sea Canal system were made scapegoats for technical failures. The Bucharest paper wrote, "To slander the reputation of Soviet equipment, the dirty servants of American capitalists replaced original parts with used parts." Several of the accused were sentenced to death.

In Poland, eight persons, including two women, were charged with slaying a Communist radio announcer. Radio Warsaw said, "They were inspired in their criminal activity by the Voice of America and its agents who put guns in the hands of the murderers."

Five victims were sentenced to death.

One need not shed tears for Slansky and his ilk. When they were in power they were as ruthless and unfair to the wretched that fell into their clutches.

But a civilized world shudders at courts of justice prostituted into sounding boards of hatemongering against an upright nation like the United States and a fair and square statesman like Dulles.

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

In writing about Greenville's proposed television station, I predicted that the Federal Communications Commission would give the go-ahead signal some time in November for the construction of our station. Having missed the prediction, it seems appropriate to reveal how the prediction came about, and why the grant has not been made.

The prediction was made in this manner: Greenville was 321st on the original list of cities. About half of the towns above Greenville had not applied for stations. About half of those who had applied were contested; that is more than one station was applying for the same channel, thus throwing the application into a competitive hearing that will take months to thresh out.

With the next one was the applications were being considered by the FCC. That was figured by the week, and a November date was the result. The Washington attorney employed by WGTC came up with the same answer.

The prediction now is for an approval for January. This comes from Congressman Carlyle, a member of the congressional committee controlling the operation of the FCC.

But why did the November prediction fall through? We realized that there were towns that had not applied which would submit applications later. But we figured that there would be a similar number of non-contested applications that would be tied up with competitive hearings because of new applications. We were wrong. There were more new applications for un-contested channels than there were for applied-for channels. Thus, Greenville went down on the list.

Also, the FCC seems to have favored UHF channels. UHF channels came into being because of a limited amount of space on the TV band for VHF channels. VHF is the frequency which has reach and antenna, and reaches only 50 miles maximum. But in order to give UHF a chance, the FCC has made grants for those channels while neglecting VHF, which Greenville has applied for. You may realize that Greensboro has already received a grant for a second VHF station. They already have VHF and have recently been granted a UHF permit.

Greenville should receive authorization some time in January and be on the air six months from the time of the grant. Heaven help me if I have to explain that prediction. On this one, I feel 100 per cent safe.

And I thank you.

INDIFFERENT — Asked by a reporter what he thought of the new Citizens Committee of North Carolina, Governor Scott replied "I don't know anything about it—I wasn't at the conference."

Whether the Governor realized or intended it that way, the statement pretty accurately sums up capital square attitude toward the group, which is a continuation of the Citizens for Eisenhower movement during the recent campaign. The majority of the people around the square, as well as most Democrats and Republicans elsewhere, with whom your reporter has talked are completely unconcerned about the new venture.

IMPOSSIBLE — It has an utterly impossible program, according to one high ranking State official with a long and successful record in politics. There can be no such thing, he said, as a non-partisan group participating in partisan elections and retaining its non-partisan group status. One of the avowed objectives of the Citizens Committee is to work "for a man, not a party." Whether in the party primaries or in the general election, that requires partisan activity for the duration of the campaign, at least. This is very different from the policy of the League of Women Voters, which has sought to stimulate interest in government, but has assiduously avoided sponsorship of any candidate or creed.

OBJECTIVE — Jim Rawleigh, chairman of the Citizens Committee, is quoted as saying: "Our aim is to lay before the citizens Committee, is quoted as saying: "Our aim is to lay before the citizens facts concerning their government and governing officials, and to express to individuals in positions of public trust the will and opinion of these citizens." Since the committee is to be made up of dues-paying members it is presumed that the "will and opinion of these citizens" will be what the central leadership presumes to be the will of the members. There is no basis for authority on part of the Committee to speak for all the citizens of North Carolina.

PRECEDENT — There is no precedent for continuation of campaign committees organized for special purposes continuing in effective influence after that purpose has been attained—or lost. Most recent example is the case of Better Schools and Roads, Inc. Set up to promote the secondary road and school building bond issues in 1949, that group attempted to survive as an agency for highway safety or development publicity—and is winding up in a squabble over what to do with the small cash balance in the treasury. Twenty-four years ago the Hoover Democrats cherished hopes of perpetuating their influence, but within a short time had become an unsavory memory. Long before that the old Farmers' Alliance broke up on controversy over non-partisan participation in partisan politics in the 1890s—and is winding up in a squabble over both State and Federal governments to the Republicans. The State regime lasted just four years, the National for sixteen.

COALITION — Historic fact is that North Carolina and the United States have two parties and the people are prone to hold the party in power responsible for the administration of government. Coalitions and mixed administration have never worked successfully. Most of the trouble Woodrow Wilson had came by reason of a Democratic Congress, and large part of the troubles experienced by Franklin Roosevelt and Harry Truman in domestic affairs grew out of attempted operation with coalition cabinets. Coalition or cooperative agreements for special purposes have proven highly valuable, in both State and Nation. The waging of war requires full co-operation; so does the negotiation of peace treaties. At State level such matters as campaigns for bond issues and constitutional amendments have always been non-partisan, and properly so.

INDEPENDENTS — All of these organized efforts for special objectives are made up of independent individuals who decide they can be more effective for the immediate occasion by banding together, and preponderant majority of them recognize the temporary nature of the organization. Democrats for Hoover in 1928, stockholders in Better Schools and Roads, Inc. in 1949, and Citizens for Eisenhower in 1952 accomplished their main purposes—although in the latest instance they did not carry North Carolina. They achieved the results by concerted action of thousands of individuals acting on non-partisan—or more accurately bi-partisan—basis. The point is, that when or if the temporary organizations are sought to be made permanent, the individuals lose their independence and acquarily in power responsible for the administration of government. Coalitions and mixed administration have never worked successfully. Business Today

By ELMER ROSSNER

When goods are scarce, even the most offensive salesman is tolerated. But now that production is catching up with demand and a buyers' market has developed businessmen are growing increasingly critical of manufacturers', wholesalers' and jobbers' salesmen.

While most firms follow the policy of seeing every salesman, many are now in position to refuse orders to obnoxious calling.

Charles L. Lapp, associate professor of marketing of Washington University, recently questioned a large number of businessmen who buy from automotive supply jobbers. From what he learned, he drew up eight suggestions, which should be of value in almost every field. They are:

1. Train salesmen to have a better knowledge of their product and to be able to present that knowledge so effectively that dealers can, in turn, use it in making their sales to customers.
2. Provide salesmen with better catalogues and selling aids.
3. Make sure orders are properly made out and that correct merchandise is shipped promptly at the quoted price.
4. Give salesmen ideas on installation, merchandising, display and advertising which can be used at the retail level.
5. Keep salesmen posted on the business outlook, new products and dealers' problems.
6. Avoid too frequent or too few calls and calls at busy hours.
7. Eliminate high-pressure selling.
8. Help salesmen avoid buyers' dislikes.

Buyers dislike sarcasm; dropping ashes or butts on floors and counters, taking up too much time, and offensive profanity. Prof. Lapp found that dealers are annoyed by these phrases: "I'm sorry but I can't do a blamed thing about delivery delay." "It's our hottest deal." "If you don't buy now you probably won't get this item." "That's the truth." "So help me" and "If I were you." "If you can help your salesman to do his job, what customer dislikes and more of what they like, you will find it will increase your sales considerably in 1953," he concluded.

ADVERTISING FOUNDATION
66.2 PER CENT PURE
Advertising is at least 66.2

per cent pure, the Chamber of Commerce of the United States concludes, after studying Federal Trade Commission figures.

In the year ended June 30, the FTC reviewed 636,096 advertising messages and set aside 24,416 as objectionable—only 3.8 per cent. Of these, some were later found to be accurate.

"Don't throw the baby out with the bath water," the chamber added.

20-YEAR BUILDING CYCLE—CHALLENGED IN STUDY

The long-held theory that there are 18 to 20-year boom-bust cycles in the construction industry is challenged in a study by Miles Colean and Robinson Newcomb for the nonprofit Committee for Economic Development. The study is being published in book under the title "Stabilizing Construction: the Record and Potential."

The study also finds there is no truth in the theory that violent swings in construction activity trigger broader economic fluctuations. It concludes that the industry is a victim instead of a villain and that it fluctuates less than some other major segments of the economy.

CONDITIONS: A fuel system anti-freeze, said to turn moisture into a combustible mixture, is being offered by Lubri-Loy Co., 4319 Wilson Ave., St. Louis 10. It is said to oil valves, valve stems, piston rings and plate them with a magnetic film that withstands excessive heat.

TIRE: A truck tire, claimed to reduce road failures and groove cracking and to give up to 41 per cent more original tread miles, has been developed by Carbon Rubber Co., 1290 Sixth Ave., New York. It has a wider center rib, with narrow outer ribs, heat-resistant ventilated shoulders, and puts more working rubber on the road. It is interchangeable for all truck or trailer wheels, single or dual.

FILTER: Dynel filter cloth, which withstands strong caustics and rigorous operating conditions, is being introduced by Carlisle Carbon Chemical Co., 30 East 42 St., New York 17. Outstanding cotton and nylon fibers, thus reducing shut-downs and replacement costs, the Dynel is said to resist plugging and to separate readily from filter cake.

Hal Boyle's Column

NEW YORK (AP)—The last time I saw my goddaughter Nina, aged 5, her parents had concluded after much discussion that they finally would make the GREAT SACRIFICE and get her a kitten.

As godparents, Frances and I were in on a sort of board meeting to consider whether Nina was ready for a cat. We examined the evidence—that is, every place the family visited where there was a cat Nina spent all the time hugging the animal around in her arms. She brought the neighbor's cats to the house. And asked wistfully if she could show them her bedroom. She put saucers of milk on the back porch because "then cats will like me, won't they, Mommy?"

The conclusion was unanimous. Yes, Nina needed a cat.

The question was how to go about getting one. We all had something to offer. Nina's mother remembered a woman who got her little girl a kitten by answering an ad in the daily paper.

I said that as a godfather I would like the privilege of giving Nina a kitten and that I remembered vaguely that someone had offered me one not long ago. I was sure if I retraced my steps a bit I'd remember who and when it was and could easily come up with a kitten.

Everyone politely agreed, yes, it would be a fine thing—but there was a when-do-you-think-you'll-get-around-to-it look in their eyes.

Frances remembered a cat fancier in the office would know other cat fanciers and if you went through enough cat fanciers you were bound by the laws of nature to come up with a kitten.

Nina's mother already had checked her new neighbors and had put them to checking more neighbors, so that line was out. Nina's father offered the solution of going to the ASPCA headquarters, wherever that might be, but we all knew that would result in coming home with just any cat. And we wanted the pick of the lot.

We had long since discarded Persian, Siamese or Angoras as possibilities and never gave a thought to the local pet store because you ever heard of buying an ordinary kitten in a pet store?

But at the conclusion of the meeting we were determined to have a kitten under Nina's Christmas tree by Dec. 25.

The rest of the story I got by hearsay.

Nina's mother had a letter to be mailed and couldn't go out because the baby was sick. So she bundled up Nina and her sister Vona, and sent them two blocks down the street to the nearest mail-box. She watched the two little girls carefully cross the road with the old familiar mother feeling of "Why do I ever scold them? Bless their little hearts!"

Fifteen minutes later she was watching again, a little nervous because they never had gone so far alone before. Then she saw them re-cross the street carrying fully-tired things in their bright snowsuits. As they came up on the porch she saw that Nina had a small shiny black kitten clutched to her.

"Whose kitten are you playing with?" she asked.

Their eyes were sparkling as they said breathlessly, "It's ours."

The mother explained carefully that it was all right to play with other people's kittens, but they shouldn't walk off with them. Nina insisted that a little girl had given it to them in front of a brick house somewhere around the corner. Twenty minutes and four phone calls later her mother hung up the telephone and said, "Well, Nina, you're right. You can keep the kitten."

And Nina said the simplest but most rewarding thing a child ever can say to a parent: "I'm happy."

The cat was named Jet because of his shiny black color and because he moved only slightly slower than a jet plane.

All of which goes to prove that in at least one way life is just as simple as it always has been. If you want a kitten forget about ads in the paper, letters to the editor, the ASPCA, neighbors, cat fanciers, and even godparents. Just send a small child two blocks down the street and have a saucer of milk waiting when she gets back.

WASHINGTON — Don't just smile if Grandma tells you the chocolate ice cream tasted better when she was a girl. She's right.

A government plant expert and the research manager for a leading chocolate firm agree that cacao flavor has gone down among Latins Americans, they say, are working hard to improve it.

"Chocolate manufacturers, plant scientists and governments," they report, "are working together to make the chocolate of tomorrow as flavorful as the chocolate of 50 years ago. Few consumers realize that the flavor of chocolate has changed, for the change has been gradual and manufacturers have been skillful in adjusting their recipes. Chocolate now contains about 10 per cent of flavor beans instead of the 70 per cent it once contained."

Chapter 25

Oak Island was an armed camp. They were halted twice by outposts before it came in sight, and at its entrance three hard-eyed guards took charge of them and escorted them suspiciously up the curving driveway. There were armed men everywhere, camped in little groups along the wide curve of the beach for more than a quarter of a mile, lounging on the vast, tree-shaded lawn that occupied a good two hundred yards between the beach and the house itself, gambling on the wide, white-pillared gallery, talking in low voices in the covered breezeway, rigidly on guard before the closed double doors where Clay and his escort finally called a halt.

The guard was surly, irritable with the enforced and inescapable duty that had fallen to his lot, resentfully determined to unload his own stifled anger upon anyone who came his way.

"Morgan?" he sneered. "Great God A' mighty! There can't nobody git in to see Morgan now. He's got work to do and he shore ain't fixin' to be disturbed. Wait over there, if you're a mind to. He might be out toward noon, if he don't have his dinner sent in to him, which he's likely to do."

The guards grunted in disgust, but Clay could see that there was no intention on their part to dispute their surly companion's repulse. If Morgan wanted to be left in peace, it was no concern of theirs. But it was no part of Clay's plan to be left to cool his heels outside the door of some guerrilla politician. The regiment was waiting less than fifteen miles away, subject to the constant threat of discovery, and every hour that passed increased that risk tenfold.

Before they realized his intention, he had stepped forward and his knuckles set up a rumbling tattoo on the carved oak panels of the door.

"Morgan!" His voice carried like a rifle bullet. "I've got business with you and it can't wait. I want to see you and I want to see you now!"

Like a pack of wolves, the guards converged upon him from all directions, shocked into violence at this sacrilege, determined to clear their own skirts by beating the offender into pulp as evidence of their good intentions.

But even as the first hand fell upon his shoulder, a voice that roared like an angry bull came rumbling through the door and held them motionless.

"Who is raising all that row over there? Goddamn it, I told you—" Clay cut in, his own voice beating down the other's roar by sheer force and power.

"Morgan, I've come from Vera Cruz to lay a proposition before you, and you're going to take it or leave it now. If you're not interested, say so, and I'll take it on to someone else in Houston."

You could feel the silence descend like a blanket, holding the guards rigid in their tracks, enveloping them all as they waited for Morgan's answer. Then it came—no roar now, but a rumbling like the faraway sound of a great waterfall tumbling over a wide, wet precipice.

"Guard, bring that man in here."

The guard's look at Clay would have melted cold steel, at twenty paces, but here was no help for it now. Angriest he jerked the door open and tried to shove Clay in before him. But, strangely enough, Clay's shoulder was not there when he reached for it. Instead, he found his arm arched above Clay's shoulder in a rigid, back-bowed strain. He felt Clay's hand on his wrist, felt his own feet leave the floor, and found the world abruptly turned upside down, as he was flung in a somersault that left him flat on his back before Morgan's desk. Cursing, he rolled over and clawed for his gun, but as his hand closed on it, Clay's boot swung forward in a vicious arc that caught him just above the wrist and sent the gun flying in a gray parabola across the room.

"Stay down." There was no mercy in Clay's voice now, nothing but a hint of steel that was more frightening than a drawn blade. "Stay down, if you want to stay alive." The guard lay still, his breath rasping in and out through his open lips, and Clay looked up to meet his host.

His first impression was a shocked awareness of the sheer, gross bulkiness of the man who faced him across the desk. He was like a section sawed out of one of the massive live-oak trees that graced his lawn, a giant of a man, bulky almost beyond believing, outrageous and incredible in his immensity. And it was not his body alone. His head was like some great rock balance upon the wide ridge of his shoulders, heavy lowed, thick-lipped. Unblinking, he stared at the prostrate guard, and then the almost buried eyes moved slowly to fasten themselves upon Clay's face.

"I could have you shot for that." It was not a threat; it was an impersonal and unemotional statement of fact. The eyes continued to study Clay without the slightest shadow of expression. "It may be," he said slowly, "that I will."

Clay shook his head, feeling an alabaster hatred of the gross beast before him begin to gather like a coiling spring at the back of his mind.

"You won't," he said flatly. "Not when you hear what I've come to say. And let's have no more talk of shooting—now or later. This buckeroo of yours tried to shove me through the door. I don't like to be handled that way and I won't accept it. Now, get him out of here so we can talk."

Morgan's eyes shifted to the guards clustered nervously just inside the doorway, their guns drawn, their eyes puzzled at this roughshod invasion of a privacy they had never dared to question.

"Is this man armed?" Morgan demanded.

"He's got nothin' on him."

"He's been searched."

"We wouldn't bring him in here with a gun on him."

Their protestations bubbled up against the rocklike figure and fell back like bir shot flung against a mass of granite.

He added slowly, His hand slipped out of sight below the desk, and when it reappeared, it held a Colt's revolver as dark and wicked as the one Clay had borne himself less than two hours before. Unsmiling, he laid it on the desk within easy reach of his hand.

"We'll talk." His eyes glittered up at Clay like dark reflections in a pool before they shifted to the man on the floor. "Get out. Get your gun and get out and shut the door behind you. I'll try to think of a reward for you between now and sundown."

night time, was given a preliminary hearing. Judge Whedbee found probable cause and sent him up to Superior Court for grand jury hearing. He is being held under $1,500 bail.

Mrs. Alma Barfield Stencil, who lives across Tar River, was found guilty of being drunk. The court gave her 30 days in jail, sentence suspended on payment of $15. The court also placed her on probation for a year. The judgment also provides that she is not to indulge in any intoxicating liquors, unless prescribed by a doctor, for a year.

John R. Anderson, Negro, was found guilty of damaging a fence on the property of Wagner-Waldrop Motor Company, West End Circle. The court taxed him with court costs and ordered him to pay Wagner-Waldrop Motor Company $20 for damage to the fence.

Leroy T. Cherry, careless and reckless driving, 30 days in jail, suspended on payment of $25, costs deducted. He is not to drive a motor vehicle on a North Carolina highway for 30 days. Cherry gave notice of appeal.

For speeding, Cherry paid $15 fine and he is not to operate a motor vehicle on a North Carolina highway for seven days (concurrently with the above sentence.) He also appealed in this case.

Matthew Green, Negro, was found not guilty of driving without a driver's license.

William L. Harris, speeding, fined $20, costs deducted, and he is not to operate a motor vehicle for seven days.

Walter L. Moore, Negro, paid $5 on court costs for failure to stop at a stop sign.

The Sport Reflector

By JIMMY ELLIS Reflector Sports Writer

Southern Conference basketball has been dominated for the last six years by Everett Case's team at State College and it's beginning to appear that the same situation is going to exist this year.

In their opener, Case's boys defeated Furman even though they were guilty of some sloppy playing. Their second game resulted in a decisive victory over Washington and Lee.

The offensive leaders for the Pack in its first two games were guard Dave Gotkin and forward Mel Thompson.

Wake Forest figures to be stronger but all they have to crow about is Dickie Hemric. Hemric was sensation last year as a freshman and has already started off in high gear this year.

One of the all-time great traditional games will be played today in Charlotte when teams from North and South Carolina meet in the 16th annual Shrine Bowl game.

The way we look at the situation there isn't a team in the conference which can consistently handle the Wolfpack.

Carolina might turn out to be the conference's dark horse. They walloped their first two foes and have shown much more strength than anyone would have been willing to concede a couple of weeks ago.

Farmville Places Four On All-Conference

Robersonville, Ayden Place Three Men Each

Charles Tucker Is Voted Coach Of The Year In Coastal Conference; Mac Whitehurst Picked For Fourth Time

Farmville, who recently lost credit for their conference victories because of an ineligible player, landed four players on the 1952 All-Coastal Conference team picked by coaches and officials of the conference.

Robersonville and Ayden each placed three men on the all-star aggregation and Vanceboro secured one position.

Coach Charles Tucker of Farmville was voted Coach of the Year by the conference coaches.

Leading the voting by unanimous approval were Mac Whitehurst of Ayden, who was named to the team for the fourth time, and Charlie Fitzgerald of Farmville.

End Maurice Everett, Robersonville senior, a glue fingered pass catcher that has been rated by many to be the finest in football prospect in years.

Tackle—Curtis Roberson, Robersonville sophomore. Curtis is big and hard to move when he digs in on defense.

Guard—John Laughinghouse, Vanceboro senior. John is a big rough lineman that distinguished himself while playing with a team that was in the rebuilding stage.

Center—Jack Allen, Farmville junior. A big, bruising fellow that is an excellent blocker and a stand-out linebacker.

Back—Charlie Fitzgerald, Farmville senior. A slick T-formation quarterback that drew the raves of every opposing team's coach.

Back—Wesley Cannon, Ayden senior. A little 130 pound scabbard that slips through a hole in the line and darts for huge chunks of yardage.

Back—Sonny James, Robersonville senior. A hard hitting fullback of the straight ahead variety.

Back—Teddy Allen, Farmville junior. He scored 17 touchdowns for Farmville this year and most of them came from more than 20 yards out.

Back—Jonathon Felton, South Edgemont. Freddie Thorne, Farmville. Tackles—Gordon Hart, Ayden; Curtis Morris, Vanceboro.

Guards—Bobby Clark, Robersonville; Jimmy Allen, Farmville. Center—Julius Budacz, Robersonville. Backs—Jack Taylor, Vanceboro; Harry Ross, Ayden; Dan Clark, Robersonville, and Luther Lewis, South Edgemont.

"A Tie Is Like Kissing A Sister"

By OSCAR FRALEY United Press Sports Writer NEW YORK (UP)—Fearless Fraley's facts and figures: Paul (Bear) Bryant, Kentucky's football coach, claims that "a tie is just like kissing your sister," but off two fine block-and-tackle "busses" against Mississippi and Tennessee his underdog eleven has a fine chance against Florida today.

Anyhow, the Bear probably changed his mind after his young heroes dead-ended Ole Miss, 13-13, and ran a 14-14 photo with Tennessee.

If you're looking for a baseball rookie you'd like to see make good this spring concentrate your cheers and prayers on right-handed pitcher Eddie Blake of the Cincinnati Reds. A 26-year-old law student at St. Louis University, he was wounded in a tank over by a tank in the Philippine invasion.

Navy basketball team indicated in its opener that, spiked by record smashes Don Lange of Chicago and Johnny Clune of Jersey City, N. J., it is going to be a team to watch this season. The quiet broke all one-game Naval Academy marks with a 126-44 win over Western Maryland.

Yesterdays cold rain chased the East Carolina College football team indoors as they continued to work for their date next Saturday in Salisbury when they will meet Clarion State Teachers College in the Lions Bowl.

The workout yesterday was limited to a short limbering up drill in the college gym. The Pirates had been scheduled for some contact work but the rain changed those plans.

They had gotten their first taste of contact work in almost three weeks when first offensive team banged heads with the first defensive unit Thursday.

The workout Monday is expected to have plenty of contact work.

Both these growing eastern powers will be idle tonight, however, when no fewer than 12 of the 20 top-ranked quinquets will see action. The outstanding game of the night from a national standpoint

Pirates Continue Football Drills

Conservation corner: Herring are marketed fresh, frozen, dressed, filleted, spiced, pickled and salted. (Most is a matter of taste.)

Donn Moomaw, UCLA's great center and linebacker, his two "N's" in his first name because his parents wanted a daughter and had the name "Donna" all picked out. They simply lopped off the "A."

Walter Dukes, 6-foot, 11-inch, 230-pound leaning tower of Seton Hall, appeared today to have dedicated the 1952-53 season to making basketball fans forget Clyde Lovellette, Mark Workman and Chuck Darling, the three outstanding "big men" of last year.

Dukes, who made the United Press third All-America team last season while Lovellette, Workman and Darling won first-team berths, continued to flash red-hot early season form Friday night as he led Seton Hall to its third straight victory—a 79-67 conquest of Loyola of Baltimore.

Dukes, who scored 20 points against Arnold and 34 against St. Francis of New York in his two previous games, dumped in 27 points against Loyola to send his three-year college total soaring to the 1,000-point mark and his average this season to 27 points a game.

With Dukes on his joint-spur, Seton Hall, ranked ninth in the U.P. pre-season Board of Coaches rating, was shaping up as one of the country's greatest powers. Its chief rival in the New York area, St. John's of Brooklyn meanwhile, scored its second straight victory, 72-55, over Roanoke.

Night Baseball Is Taking Over In Major League Play

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UP)—The overwhelming popularity of night baseball was demonstrated today in an analysis of official major league attendance figures which showed that night crowds in the American League averaged 6,572 more than day crowds and in the National League, 3,521 more.

The figures were all the more striking when it was considered that the day crowds included all Sunday and holiday games, which brought up the total average a great deal.

In the American League during the past season, the average night crowd for the total of 205 after-dark games was 17,758 while the average for 416 day games was 11,388.

For the National in 1951 night contests the average crowd was 12,636 and in the daytime the average was 9,115. Inasmuch as each team plays about 25 Sunday dates—most of them double headers—during the season and has at least three holiday double headers, it would appear that the trend away from the week-day afternoon games is inescapable.

Arthur E. Patterson, promotion director for the Yankees, one of the "all-night" advocates, who held the line against heavy increases in night games, said his organization believes firmly that "the saturation point is being reached."

"Any further heavy increases in night game schedules would result in a definite trend in the other direction," he said.

His views, however, were not shared by Fred Saigh, president of the St. Louis Cardinals, and the other "all-night" advocates, who fought unsuccessfully Friday for expansion of the official league limits against night games. Both leagues agreed to hold the line with the National supporting its previous plan of no more than five

Pirates Launch Cage Season In Greensboro Tilt

East Carolina College's basketball Pirates will launch an 18-game schedule tonight when they travel to Greensboro to meet a vastly improved Guilford College team in a North State Conference game.

Coach Howard Porter of the Pirates is expected to start a team of four lettermen and one freshman. The lettermen are Sonny Russell and Jack Carr at the forwards, Bobby Hodges at center, and Cecil Heath at one of the guard posts.

Freshman J. C. Thomas of Raleigh will complete the line-up. The Pirates are rated as one of the stronger teams in the North State Conference so far as pre-season polls are concerned but it has been difficult to get Porter to commit himself on the team's chances.

It's rather obvious that he is pleased with the prospects but he won't transpire his thoughts into words.

The Bucs have installed a new style of attack this year but the new system doesn't mean that they'll abandon completely their standard AP formations. The new AP system and the old AP will be worked together in the games but the new system is the one which is expected to be relied upon most.

The offensive play is expected to be led by Russell, an All-State and All-Conference forward. The New Bern senior averaged 17.8 points in 25 games last year. He is rated as the outstanding individual in North State play.

Behind Russell, Porter is expected to rely upon the abilities of Bob Bobby Hodges, the 1951-52 scoring leader. The 6-6 junior from Kinston averaged 21.9 points per game last year and was one of the leading men in the conference in rebound play.

Sugar Ray May Fight Randy Turpin In June

NEW YORK (UP)—Sugar Ray Robinson, the flicker fighter-hooper, was given an opportunity to regain his "lost" world middleweight title today providing he can assure the New York Boxing Commission that he "hopes and truly" means to defend his crown shortly.

The commission, which stripped Robinson of his title Thursday midnight because he had failed to defend his championship in six months and showed no desire to do so, underwent a change of heart Friday.

A few hours later, however, Commission Chairman Robert K. Christenberry announced, "We may review Robinson's case."

Then, he went even further and notified Robinson's manager, George Gainford, that he could appear before the commission Dec. 19 and petition for a review if he could prove he already had arranged for a satisfactory title and South Carolina is at home to Newberry.

Perhaps the most significant of tonight's games will be the Duke-Wake Forest and Richmond-North Carolina struggles.

All four teams are unbeaten. Duke and Wake Forest both appear to be stronger than last year. Richmond, bolstered by several tallish newcomers is hoping to start a conference comeback against perennially potent North Carolina.

Not a single game was on the conference schedule last night.

N. C. Basketball Teams Open Play

The first "Big Saturday" of the 1952-53 basketball season finds an even dozen of the Southern Conference's 17 teams in action tonight.

Four of the eight contests are intra-conference skirmishes. Most of the likeliest-looking contenders for the championship held by North Carolina State—including the Wolfpack itself—are busy.

N. C. State, getting off to a flying start in defense of the crown it has worn for the past six years, bids for its third conference victory in a row at the expense of Davidson at Raleigh's Reynolds Coliseum.

Davidson whipped Erskine in its only previous start.

West Virginia's Mountaineers met feeble-looking Washington and Lee at Fayetteville, W. Va. Duke collides with Wake Forest in Durham, and North Carolina seeks its third family scalp against Richmond at Chapel Hill.

In non-conference tiffs, Maryland goes to Pennsylvania. Furman is at Georgia Tech, Georgia at Clemson,

Tiger Jones Wins Bout In Upset

NEW YORK (UP)—While boxing fans were still uttering ejaculations of amazement today, matchmaker Billy Brown tried to arrange a return fight between that stunning upsetter, Ralph (Tiger) Jones, and his victim, ex-welterweight champion Johnny Bratton.

Middleweight Jones, comparatively unknown and a 1-5 underdog, astounded the 3,614 fans in Madison Square Garden Friday night by giving Chicago Johnny a lop-sided beating. In the process, he gashed the outside corner of Bratton's right eye and cut his left brow.

Dusky Jones, 24, of Yonkers, N.Y., out-weighted the No. 1 welterweight contender by five and one-fourth pounds, but he out-scored him in punches about 50 to 1 as he earned the unanimous 10-round decision.

Jones, scaling 154 pounds to Bratton's 148 3/4, used a "perpetual motion" attack from the bob-weave like a cross between that of ex-champion Henry Armstrong and Jake LaMotta. A times his combinations of hooks and uppercuts had Bratton's head snapping this way and that way like a berserk punching bag.

As Jones registered his 24th victory in 32 professional bouts, he stopped Bratton's winning streak at four. Bratton claimed, "I hurt my right hand early in the fight. And I couldn't get my punches started right. He's a much better fighter than I expected."

The gate for Friday night's nationally televised bout was $10,227.

More Than 300 Attended Pitt Negro 4-H Achievement Day

By CHESTER WALSH

More than 300 people attended the annual Pitt County Negro 4-H Club Achievement Day program at the armory Thursday.

The Achievement Day program climaxed all 4-H Club activities of the year. The program was in two parts.

First, the awarding of junior and senior plaques to the best all-around 4-H clubs in Pitt County. Also, awarding of medals to individuals who had done outstanding work in their various projects.

Second, was the climax of the rural electrification program in Pitt County, sponsored by the Rural Electrification Administration Corporation of Tarboro.

This year's program in rural electrification was started in September, 1952, for the purpose of encouraging people of the rural areas to use more electricity in homes and on farms. The assistant county and home agent gave frequent demonstrations of the use of electricity in the homes and for brooders. As a result 109 table lamps were displayed Achievement Day.

The Rural Electrification Administration Corporation of Tarboro gave electrical appliances for prizes to the following Negro 4-H boys and girls: David Henderson, Winterville; Ernestine Suggs, Ayden; Peola Strawn, Ayden; Peggy Sherwood, Highsmith School; Jerry Page, Highsmith; Arlester Elice, Farmville; Cora Handy, Winterville; Cleveland Coley, Ayden; James A. Sparkman, Ayden; Ruby Hardy, Grimesland; and Barbara Boyd, Simpson School.

Following is a list of schools receiving honors:

Health—Clemens 4-H Club, Mrs. Anderson; Highsmith 4-H Club, Mrs. Jones; and Ayden 4-H Club, Mrs. Howard.

Individual honors: Seniors—Shirley White of Farmville and Jesse Curtis of Winterville. Juniors—Dorothy Brown of Winterville and John L. Person of Post Oak School.

Leadership—David Henderson of Winterville and Inell Grimsley, former Ayden 4-H member of Ayden, now at A. and T. Negro College, Greensboro.

Project work—Canning and frozen foods, Christine Gardner of Ayden; clothing, Ruth Leary of Grimesland; home beautification, Lois Barnes of Farmville; J. T. Barnes of Farmville; home improvement, Marjorie Fields of Farmville; field crop (corn), Daniel Crandel of Grimesland.

Following were winners in contests:

Dress revue—Ruth Leary of Grimesland, Barbara White, Shirley White, Marjorie Fields, Delois Attis, Annie Ruth Bemby and Mary Brown of Farmville.

Grooming—Samuel Thompson of Pactolus, James Harris, Ben Gorman, Clarence Knight, David Henderson, Jesse Curtis Edwards, Charles Mays and James Braxton of Farmville.

Dairy foods—Mattie Monk of Farmville.

Bread—Daisy Taylor and Mozella Taylor.

Plaques were awarded to the Farmville Junior and Farmville Senior clubs for first and second places.

District plaque—This was given at the district federation held in Hertford County to Pitt County.

Last February, it was announced, five Pitt County Negro boys and girls were honored as state champions in Negro 4-H Club work for 1952. They are: James Braxton and Inell Grimsley of Ayden, Joe Gardner of Ayden, and Marjorie and Dorothy Gay of Farmville. Inell Grimsley was one of seven boys and girls chosen to represent North Carolina at Tuskegee Institute.

Three On ECC Staff Attended Greensboro Meet

Three members of the East Carolina College department of health and physical education participated in events of the College Conference on Health and Physical Education and the fifth annual conference of the North Carolina Association of Health, Physical Education, and Recreation at the Woman's College, Greensboro, December 4-6.

Dr. N.M. Jorgensen, director of the department of health and physical education at East Carolina, led a discussion Thursday at the College Conference, at which first aid, safety, athletic injuries, and other topics were considered. Saturday morning he acted as chairman of a panel on "The New High School Athletic Code."

Other faculty members from the college who attended are Nell Stallings and Dr. Charles G. DeShaw.

Funeral Sunday For Mrs. Garland Duke

Mrs. Hilda Smith Duke, wife of Garland Duke, died Friday morning at her home on East King Street in Kinston after a lengthy illness.

The funeral will be held from the Gordon Street Christian Church in Kinston at 2:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon by the Rev. J. Carlton Bradshaw, pastor, and the Rev. Z. B. T. Cox, Farmville Christian minister. Burial will be in Hollywood Cemetery in Farmville.

Surviving are five brothers: W. Leslie Smith of Raleigh, Mack E. Smith of Greenville, Jack M. Smith of Farmville, Guy A. Smith of Maclefield, and Ned C. Smith of Greenville, Route 1; and four sisters: Mrs. Elen Leggett of Washington, N. C., Mrs. R. L. Corbett of Farmville, Mrs. Russell Cherry of Wilson, and Mrs. W. M. Tatem of Norfolk, Va.

Mrs. Duke was the daughter of the late Francis Marion and Emily Nichols Smith of Pitt County. She was a member of the Business and Professional Woman's Club.

Truck From Which Victim Was Thrown

Eleventh Traffic Death For County

Pitt County's traffic fatality toll rose this morning when a 38-year-old Negro man was fatally injured after falling from a truck traveling on the Black Jack Highway about 8 o'clock.

The dead man was identified as Alfonso Rouse of 110 Barwick Street, Ayden, by investigating officer Highway Patrolman Jim Davis.

Patrolman Davis stated that Rouse, driver of the truck owned by the Smith Lumber Company of Ayden, was traveling toward Black Jack when he attempted to pass a car and ran off on the left shoulder of the road.

As Rouse pulled back onto the road, he was thrown from the doorless truck. The left rear wheel of the truck ran over his head, fatally injuring him. The driverless truck then traveled 612 feet, according to the patrolman, before it stopped.

The truck ran through a hedge and hog pasture, knocked off the corner of the porch of the home of Guy J. Dickson, tore down a picket fence, side-swiped a tree, and finally came to a stop near a barn.

Riding in the truck with Rouse was his 13-year-old son, Linwood Earl Rouse, and James Henry Cox and Willie Lee Wilkes all of Ayden. None of the other occupants were injured.

Coroner Griffin H. Rouse said later this morning that the accident was still being investigated and an inquest might be held at a later date.

Hunter Is Fined By Magistrate

Magistrate C. G. Moore of Ayden found Melvin Hughes of Route 1, Snow Hill, guilty of not having his automatic gun plugged to fire only three shots.

He fined Hughes $10 and costs—total $10.18.

Testimony was that a game warden arrested Hughes in the Grifton area of Pitt county while hunting quail.

"State law requires hunters to have their automatic guns plugged," District Game Warden J. O. Teel stated. This means one shell in the chamber and two shells in the magazine.

Albion Dunn To Address Elks Of Rocky Mount

Judge Albion Dunn, Greenville attorney and former Superior Court Judge will deliver the memorial address for Rocky Mount Elks Lodge No. 1038 Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The memorial service will be held at First Presbyterian Church, Exhorted Ruler, W. Marshall Spears will officiate.

The Rocky Mount Elks Lodge was organized three years ago. It now has 212 members. Three of its members died during the past year. The service Sunday will be in tribute to their memory.

Judge Dunn was exalted ruler of Greenville Elks Lodge No. 1645 in 1949. He was the delegate to the annual Grand Lodge of Elks' convention held in Philadelphia that year. The Greenville attorney has delivered memorial addresses for several Elks' lodges during the past several years.

quire obligation of allegiance to the group—whether it be called a committee or a political party. Witness the statement by the Chairman Rawleigh which purports to commit prospective members of the Citizens Committee of North Carolina more completely than Chairman Jordan of the Democratic party or Chairman Baley of the Republican party have attempted to commit their respective organizations.

UNAFRAID — That is why the Democratic and Republican leadership is not afraid of the Citizens Committee becoming a factor in North Carolina politics, and also why capitol square folks generally are indifferent toward it. Independent voters cannot be committed in advance by one spokesman, because then they would cease to be independent and become pawns in a game played by a few manipulators who had failed to obtain the recognition they desired in one of the established parties. Many people, including some intensely partisan Democrats, would welcome a party in the State. There is widespread belief that a larger number of independent voters would be wholesome, each man and woman determining the way to mark the ballot by studying conditions at the time of voting. Rarely can one be found to advocate a third party or a permanent committee in which a few spokesmen seek to commit all the members—which is essentially the same thing as another

THE GUNMAN IN THE HOT ROD GOT AWAY.

CRIMSTOPPERS TEXTBOOK
IN MAKING A CAST OF A FOOTPRINT, THE CAST SHOULD BE REINFORCED WITH SMALL STICKS TO MAKE IT STRONG. FIRST, POLE A LITTLE PLASTER, THEN APPLY STICKS AND POUR THE REST.

WE PUT A RADIO DRAGNET OUT FOR THE HOT ROD.
WE HAVE AN FBI CHECK ON THE DEAD DRIVER. HE'S A PROFESSIONAL KILLER WANTED BY TACOMA POLICE.

THIS MAN OWNS THE AUTO TRANSPORT.
THEY STUCK ME UP IN MY ROOM AND TOOK MY TRUCK KEYS, THEN BLACK JACKED ME. I'D JUST COME IN FROM MY 30 DAYS RUN.

MR. ALPHA.
I WAITED FOR YOU FOR 2 HOURS, THEN DECIDED TO BRING THE OTHER BOARD MEMBERS AND COME HERE.

I WAS DETAINED, AS YOU PROBABLY HEARD.
THIS IS ALDERMAN SMITHERS.
AND MR. ATLAS, HEAD OF THE BRICK COMPANY.

I'VE GOT TO ADMIT, MR. TRACY. I HAVEN'T BEEN VERY ACTIVE IN THE BOYS CLUB VENTURE. I'VE LEFT EVERYTHING TO MR. ALPHA.
I HAVE THE SAME STORY, TOO. I ASSUMED THE PLACE WAS DEFUNCT. MR. ALPHA WILL HAVE TO TALK FOR ME.

MEANWHILE, SAM CATCHEM CHATS WITH A CAB DRIVER.
I DON'T REALLY KNOW MUCH ABOUT MR. ALPHA. TO ME, HE'S JUST ANOTHER FARE.

ONCE IN A WHILE, I DRIVE HIM OUT IN THE COUNTRY TO BUY MUSHROOMS. "MUSHROOMS" SAYS SAM "MUSHROOMS".

BLONDIE

by CHIC YOUNG

MAMA, THIS IS THE NIGHT I'M GOING TO TAKE GERALDINE TO THE MOVIE AND TO THE HAMBURGER PALACE.
OH, MY GOODNESS

DAGWOOD-- IT'S HAPPENED-- IT'S HAPPENED!
WHAT HAPPENED?

ALEXANDER IS GOING ON HIS FIRST DATE WITH A GIRL!
IT SEEMS ONLY YESTERDAY I WAS SURFING HIM OVER MY SHOULDER

I FILLED THE TUB FOR YOUR BATH.
COME, SON, YOU'LL HAVE TO LOOK A FEWLY NICE

I'LL PRESS HIS SUIT WHILE HE SCRUBS HIS EARS.
HE'S GOING TO BE CLEAN

I'LL LAY OUT HIS CLOTHES.
DON'T GET EXCITED AND PROPOSE TO HER, SON. SHE MIGHT ACCEPT

GEE--WHIZ, POP I CAN DRESS MYSELF.
BE A GENTLEMAN AND REMEMBER TO TIP YOUR HAT

NOW WHICH TIE?
IF YOU MARRY I GERALDINE, WILL SHE BE MY AUNT?
THAT'S NOT FUNNY-- BEAT IT!

DON'T FORGET TO SAY "YES, MAM" AND "NO, MAM" AND "THANK YOU" AND "PLEASE"
I'M READY TO GO
HERE'S SOME MONEY-- DON'T FORGET TO TIP YOUR WAITER?
THERE'S THE BELL

ALEXANDER-- IT'S GERALDINE'S LITTLE BROTHER

GERALDINE'S GOT THE CHICKEN POX AND SHE SAYS YOU SHOULD TAKE ME IN HER PLACE

SHE LOOKS REAL FUNNY WITH ALL THOSE SPOTS

HOPALONG CASSIDY
By DAN SPIEGLE

HOPPY!
AND GREGORY VALE! WE SAW A STRANGE LIGHT GLOWING ATOP THIS MESA AND CAME TO INVESTIGATE.
THAT WAS THE LANTERN CASSIDY PUT IN THE CELLAR WINDOW, HOPING IT WOULD BRING HELP!
WHERE'S TH' ORNERY OWLHOOTS WHO CORRALLED YOU IN THIS HOLE?
GONE! BLAZE AND VELVET LEARNED WHERE I'VE HIDDEN MY FORTUNE! THEY'RE ON THEIR WAY AFTER IT!
...BUT NOT IF WE CAN HEAD 'EM OFF!

WE BROUGHT AN EXTRA MOUNT, HOPIN' YOU'D FOUND GREGORY VALE.
LET'S GO!

THE MORNING REVEALS A RIG FLASHING ALONG A DESERTED TRAIL, SOME FIFTEEN MILES TO THE SOUTH....

THAT MUST BE IT, BLAZE.... THE PRISON RUINS VALE MENTIONED! THERE'S A QUARTER OF A MILLION DOLLARS HIDDEN IN ONE OF THOSE CELLS!
AN' NOBODY AROUN' T' STOP US FROM GETTIN' IT! LET'S MOVE!

FLASH GORDON..... by Mac Raboy and Don Moore

AS FLASH'S CHEMI-SPRAY SPLASHES HARMLESSLY OFF THE SILICON-ARMORED SHELL OF THE VENUS SWAMP BEETLE, ITS CRUSHING PINCERS CARRY HIM IRRESISTIBLY TOWARD ITS GAPING JAWS...

FLASH AIMS AN ACID VOLLEY SQUARELY INTO THE GIANT SCARAB'S MOUTH. TO FLASH'S AMAZEMENT, HIS BLAST CAUSES A STRANGE CHEMICAL REACTION WITHIN THE BEETLE AND THE CREATURE EXPLODES WITH THE VIOLENCE OF A MORTAR SHELL!

FOR A MOMENT FLASH IS NUMBED, BUT DRIVEN BY FEAR OF A NEW ATTACK BY BEETLES THAT MAY BE LURKING IN THE AREA, HE SHAKES OFF THE EFFECTS OF THE BLAST. "COME ON, VIKKI," HE ORDERS. "LET'S HEAD FOR THE JET-CAR!"

BUT THE STRANDED CRAFT IS DAMAGED TOO BADLY TO PERMIT A TAKE-OFF. FORTUNATELY, HOWEVER, THE JET-CAR'S SONAR-PHONE STILL WORKS AND FLASH IS ABLE TO BEAM AN S.O.S. TO KING STANG'S CASTLE. "HURRY!" HE URGES. "NIGHT IS CLOSING IN AND WE MAY BE ATTACKED MOMENTARILY!"

SCARCELY HAS FLASH SIGNED OFF THAN VIKKI CRIES OUT IN TERROR: "LOOK, FLASH! THOSE STRANGE LIGHTS OVERHEAD!" PEERING THROUGH THE DARKNESS, THE EARTHMAN MAKES OUT THE VAGUE FORMS OF A PAIR OF WEIRD FLYING REPTILES... WITH SEARCHLIGHT EYES PROBING THE JUNGLE FOR THEIR PREY!

By LEE FALK and WILSON M'COY

POOR DEVIL. HE'S BADLY WOUNDED. WHO KNOWS HOW FAR HE DRAGGED HIMSELF THROUGH THE JUNGLE? TAKE CARE OF HIM, GURAN--

MAYBE HE WAS WITH DIANA WHEN HE WAS SHOT. IT'S MY ONLY CHANCE TO FIND HER--MY ONLY CLUE IS TO FOLLOW HIS BLOOD MARKS--COME ON, HERO!

WHERE--WHERE ARE YOU TAKING ME?

LADY, I WISH WE KNEW! HEY--LOOK AT THAT CAVE!

YEAH! THAT LOOKS LIKE A GOOD PLACE!

MEANWHILE, DIANA AND THE BANK ROBBERS--

THIS IS THE PLACE TO HIDE THE LOOT. NOBODY'S BEEN NEAR HERE IN YEARS.

WHAT ABOUT HER?

IT'S A GOOD PLACE FOR HER--TOO!

WE'RE TOOTENDER-HEARTED TO KILL YOU OUTRIGHT, LADY, SO WE'LL LEAVE YOU HERE TO GUARD OUR LOOT.

WE'LL SEAL THIS UP GOOD AND TIGHT, SO NO ANIMALS OR NATIVES'LL WANDER IN--

WONDER WHO THAT DAME IS--CLAIMIN' SHE'S THE PHANTOM--

WE HAVEN'T TIME TO FIND OUT. LET'S FINISH THIS FAST!

AND I WANTED TO PLAY PHANTOM! I'VE GOTTEN MY WISH--
