Allied Prison Camp Guards Kill 82 Mutinous Internees

120 Other Communists Wounded In Smashing Of Demonstration; Many Of Rioters Former Inmates Of Koje; Reds Acted On Arranged Plans

PUSAN, Korea (UP) — U. N. guards killed 82 Communist civilian internees and wounded 120 others in smashing a mutinous demonstration on Jangam Island yesterday, the U. N. Prisoner of War Command announced today. The death toll was the highest ever suffered by prisoners in clashes with Allied guards at United Nations prison camps. It was believed the demonstration was part of a plan for a mass breakout. Two American and two South Korean soldiers were injured by rocks hurled at them by Red internees who clambered atop a steep terrace. Many of the rioters were former inmates of Koje Island's infamous Compound 62 where commissary rule and organized violence exploded last Feb. 18 in a riot in which 75 prisoners and one American soldier were killed and 139 prisoners were wounded. Yesterday's uprising took place at camp No. 10 on Pongam, a small, wind-swept and steeply terraced island west of Koje, scene of bloody riots last spring and summer. Some 3,600 of the camp's population of 9,000 internees took part in the mutiny, which broke out simultaneously in six separate compounds of enclosure No. 2 about 1 p. m. Enclosure No. 1 was quiet during the riot. Prisoners in the six compounds, which house about 600 men each, organized military drills in absolute violation of orders forbidding such militaristic activities. The Reds, obviously acting according to a pre-arranged plan, massed at the top of a high terrace. There, three ranks of PWs locked arms and defied American and South Korean troops who were ordered to advance upwards and break up the demonstration. Other Reds, meanwhile, stationed themselves even higher and hurled a shower of rocks at the U. N. guards, effectively keeping them from ascending the slope. U. N. officers then ordered the Reds to break up their demonstration and return to their quarters. When the Reds defied these orders with a taunt and jeers, the U. N. guards shot a warning volley into the air. The orders, warning shots and riot guns "had no effect on the organized mob," the U. N. said. When three waves of "fanatical Communists" began advancing, the

Believes Way Is Now Cleared For Needed Reforms

DETROIT (AP) — Morris Sayre, national chairman of the Citizens Committee for the Hoover Reports, indicated today he thinks the change in national administration increases chances for adoption of additional reforms in organization of the government. "Gone soon will be many of the administrators who objected strenuously to change of any sort," Sayre said, "and men receptive to new ideas will take their places." In a speech prepared for a luncheon of the Economic Club of Detroit, Sayre added, however, "Even the best of new men can't clean up the mess in Washington without a new broom of orderly organization."

Wage Stabilization Board Back In Operation Despite 'Walkout'

WASHINGTON (UP)—The government today broke a 10-day freeze on pay raises as a sharply trimmed Wage Stabilization Board resumed operations despite an industry boycott. With businessmen refusing to serve and labor obligated to an advisory role, the board's public members prepared to tackle its backlog of 12,000 wage cases as soon as Economic Stabilizer Roger L. Putnam gave the word. Putnam planned to sign the necessary legal orders today delegating authority to the four public members to take over administration of wage controls. They will process all wage settlements until the government finds business leaders willing to serve on the board. Until now, pay increases have been processed by joint action of labor, public and industry members. This system broke down when the industry group resigned Dec. 6 in protest against President Truman's approval of the full $1.90-a-day wage boost for the nation's coal miners. A well-orchestrated search to find other industry representatives collapsed on Saturday. Putnam blamed the inability to recruit new industry member on the National Association of Manufacturers and U. S. Chamber of Commerce, which he said, had made "publicized statements calling, in effect, for a boycott of the board." Putnam asserted however that the controls program could not be

Wild Air Battles Over North Korea

Sabre Pilots Claim Damaging 10 MIGs; Red Attacks Shift From West To Central Fronts; ROKs Are Favored Targets

SEOUL, Korea (UP)—American Sabre jet pilots claimed 10 Communist MIG-15 jet fighters damaged today in wild air battles over MIG alley in northwest Korea. They were the first such aerial duels in five days. The 5th Air Force, however, confirmed only two of the damage claims. The others awaited confirmation by gun camera film. The pilots registered their claims in a series of battle between 38 Sabres and 35 MIGs. Confirmed damage claims were credited to Capt. Clyde A. Curtin, Portland, Ore., and 1st Lt. Hershel H. Liechty, Jr., Trinidad, Colo. The Sabre jets were flying over for 5th Air Force fighter bombers, which took advantage of clearing weather to plaster the Communist road and rail network in North Korea. Shooting stars of the 80th fighter-bomber wing caught a locomotive and two strings of boxcars sitting motionless between Chungwa and Hwangju in northwestern Korea. "The rail cutting and bridge busting we have been doing lately must be paying off because the train was sitting right in the open as though it had no place to go," said 1st Lt. Reginald H. Shepard of Midt'boro, Ky. Other fighter-bombers cut trails between Pyongyang and Changwa and south of Wonsan on the east coast, spraying bon-bombs, blasted enemy mortar and artillery positions and bunkers at the western end of the battlement. On the ground, Republic of Korea infantry, backed by accurate mortar and artillery fire, repulsed a Chinese assault on Pinpoint Hill as the fighting shifted from the western to the central front. A 160-man Red force charged the slippery slopes of Pinpoint Hill on Sniper Ridge last night an early today to try to take ROK positions. The tough little Korean infantrymen buried hand grenades at the Reds as U. N. mortar and artillery came to the ROK's support. The Chinese shift of the fighting from the west to the center of the line apparently was designed to keep constant pressure on the ROKs in vital positions. American military advisers said that from the persistent attacks on ROK positions in the past two months the Chinese appear to be "picking on" the South Koreans in an attempt to discredit the new ROK army. East of Sniper Ridge, 80 Chinese soldiers attacking from the east Triangle Hill, overran South Korean positions on the southern slope of Jane Russell Hill after an hour of fighting that ended in the trenches.

Uphold Evidence Of Wire-Tapping

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Supreme Court ruled today that wire-tap evidence obtained in violation of federal law is admissible in state court proceedings. Wiretap evidence is banned from federal trials, and has been since 1937 when the high bench handed down a controlling opinion on the subject. Today's opinion, however, is the first bearing on state trial procedure.

Peiping Rejects UN Proposals On Korea Truce

Foreign Minister Chou En-lai Also Demands Resumption Of Parleys

TOKYO, (UP)—Communist China dashed hopes today for an immediate armistice in Korea by rejecting a United Nations plan aimed at solving the deadlock on exchanging prisoners of war. Peiping radio said Foreign Minister Chou En-lai had cabled formal rejection of the plan to U. N. General Assembly President Lester B. Pearson. Chou demanded that the assembly "cancel this illegal resolution" and urge that the United States "immediately resume the Panmunjon truce talks." The U. N. declared an indefinite recess in the truce talks on Oct. 8 when the Reds refused to budge from their insistence on the repatriation of all Communist prisoners held by the U. N. The United Nations would return only those who wished to return to the Communist side. The U. N. holds 116,000 prisoners, including 10,000 Chinese. Of the total, 83,000, including 6,400 Chinese, want to return to the Communists. The other 33,000 said they would rather die than return. Chou's long cable to Pearson, dated Dec. 14, demanded that a truce be carried out "on the basis of the draft Korean truce agreement." "The whole prisoner issue would be referred to a 'Korean problem commission for peaceful solution.'" He said the Reds already had made necessary preparations to receive joint Red Cross teams to help in the speedy repatriation of prisoners in case agreement was reached on the Reds' terms. The U. N. resolution was first brought up by Indian delegate V. K. Krishna Menon. It was a complicated plan that was revised three times, largely to meet strong American objections.

Consciences Are Invoked Over Missing Radios

NEW YORK (AP)—Members of President-elect Eisenhower's staff were asked today to examine their consciences concerning 82 missing portable radios. The sets were among 60 radios lent by Radio Corp. of America for use of the staff on Eisenhower's special campaign train. A memorandum circulated today by James M. Lambie Jr., business manager of the Eisenhower staff, said: "Sixty RCA portable radios were lent to the Eisenhower special train staff by RCA. To date eight of those radios have been returned. It is requested that the staff members concerned examine their effects and consciences and drop off at the business office any product of such duration." "RCA was doubtless taking the calculated risk and expected a certain attrition but an 80 per cent loss is perhaps a trifle high."

Removing Crew Of Broken Ship

Rescue Workers Begin Task Of Removing Sailors By Reaches Buoy

LEGHORN, Italy (UP)—Rescue workers started hauling 40 American crewmen ashore by breeches buoy today after the United States Navy supply ship Grommet Reefer broke in two in Leghorn harbor. The first man taken from the stern part, which jammed in the rocks when it was driven ashore in a storm, was identified as first engineer Carl S. Treudler, of Belaire, N. Y. It was expected to take all day to remove the entire crew. They were huddled in the shattered stern of the 2,460-ton ship, which had been carrying a cargo of turkeys and other Christmas cheer to United States soldiers in Europe. Rescue workers rigged a 100-yard-line to the stern of the Grommet Reefer to bring the crewmen ashore. The Grommet Reefer started dragging its anchor in a 62-mile gale. It piled up on La Regina reef, 100 yards offshore, an hour later. The ship snapped in two. The stern part went on the rocks. The bow drifted crazily until it snagged on a sand bar. From the shore, the ship's 40 crewmen could be seen nudged in the stern, occasionally going below for shelter, while great waves swept over it. Big, red-haired, red-mustached Treudler was pulled off, across 100 yards of raging water, to the spot where the ceremonial flag of the Italian Naval Academy stands. "I'm feeling fine," Treudler said. "But I'm afraid the ship is beginning to sink. The bulkhead gave way just before I came off, 'everybody else back there is O. K.'" The situation of the crewmen was serious before the breeches buoy line was rigged. "The stern section is being almost completely inundated with each new wave," a spokesman for the U. S. Army logistical command said. "The men can be seen holding fast to the sides and making frequent trips below decks for shelter." However, the spokesman added, "there is no great danger for the crewmen unless the stern breaks loose from the rocks. Then there would be grave danger of immediate sinking." He said two rope lines were shot out to the ship but immediately became fouled. As soon as the lines were cleared, he added, an attempt would be made to take the men off in breeches buoys, one by one. A crisp radio message from Capt. F. Saukant of the Grommet Reefer to the Italian Naval Academy, in sight of the wreck, said: "Everybody okay. No injuries." The bow section of the stricken vessel bobbed crazily in the white caps for a while, then smashed into a sand reef about 400 yards from the stern. All 40 crew members got on the section before the ship split in two. The Navy refrigerator ship laden with 13,500 pounds of Christmas turkey for U. S. forces in Austria was anchored in Leghorn Harbor when the gale blew up during the night. When wind reached 62 mph an hour at 2 a. m., the diesel-powered vessel began dragging anchor. An hour later it piled up on La Regina (The Queen) Reef, 100 yards offshore, and snapped in two.

Former Soldier May Be Entry In Beauty Contest

NEW YORK (UP)—Christine Jorgensen, the former G. I. who became a woman, sought today to win her first beauty contest. Christine, who has worked with camera since she was a young boy, has consented to compete for the title "Miss Pre-Photographer of 1953," an honor won in the past by models and courtesans. Miss Jorgensen, whose sex was changed in a series of major operations performed in Copenhagen, informed officials of the New York Pre-Photographers' Association that they could "use any available photos for your contest." One of the officials said the beautiful Bronx blonde might receive a special award if she fails to win the big event. "It is hardly fair to ask Miss Jorgensen to compete against girls who've never been anything but girls, we're happy to have her with us just the same," he said.

Eisenhower Shaping Up A Foreign Policy Of 'Deeds'

District Solicitor Writes A Protest To Paroles Office

Take Nol Pros A few minutes past noon today in Pitt Superior Court, Solicitor W. J. Bundy announced the state will take a nol pros with leave on the murder indictment against Mrs. Lucille Dail. "We have held the case over several times in the hope new evidence might be turned up," Bundy told the court. "As it stands now I feel sure the state cannot obtain a conviction on present available evidence." Mrs. Dail was charged by a Pitt grand jury of the murder of Melvin Daniels early this year. Glenn "Slim" Brantley of Greenville was also indicted in the case, but a grand jury failed to find a true bill against him.

United Nations To Take 'Recess'

New Korean Moves Put Off Until Inauguration Of Eisenhower

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (UP)—The United Nations, despite rejection of its Korean truce offer, was expected to press ahead today with plans to recess over Christmas and put off any new Korean moves until after inauguration of President-elect Eisenhower. American sources said the outgoing Democratic administration has no intention of initiating any follow-up U. N. action between now and adjournment Saturday or early next week. "I prefer to leave a clear field for any policy line Eisenhower wants to take in the light of his trip to Korea and whatever else may happen between now and a second - half General Assembly session. The second session probably will get under way Feb. 10 or 15." The only Korean action anticipated in the closing days of the current meeting was a formal report from the Assemblée Presc. of the Parliament of Canada on the Communist rejection. Pearson was requested to make such a report "as soon as appropriate" in the resolution approving the Indian-devised truce formula. The 15-nation steering committee was scheduled to meet this afternoon to make recommendations on adjournment and the date for reconvening.

Arab Terrorists Killed In Battle

CASABLANCA, French Morocco (UP)—Eleven Arab terrorists have been killed in a desert-battle with French troops in the southern wasteland of Tunisia, dispatches said today. A band of camel-mounted terrorists, described as Tunisian refugees, crossed the Tunisian frontier from Libya in the Ben Gardane district yesterday. A jeepload of French police, out for a day's hunting, sighted the raiders and radioed for reinforcements. Native Tunisian cavalry, mounted on ponies, and camel-mounted Mehari troops responded. The raiders were encircled in the bleak sand dunes. In the battle that followed 11 were killed and one was wounded and made prisoner. Only two escaped. French casualties were one policeman killed and one sergeant wounded. In what may be a step toward lessening of French-Arab tension, the bey of Tunis promised today to approve French plans for judicial and municipal reforms for Tunisia. It was announced. The promise, a French spokesman said, followed an hour-long meeting between the bey and French Resident General Jean de Hautecloque. He hailed it as a French diplomatic victory in the attempt to satisfy the Arab nationalist demands for a greater measure of self-rule. United States authorities in Morocco denied today press reports that a gasoline fire at an American Air Force base was being investigated for possible sabotage. Flames from exploding gasoline storage drums yesterday destroyed a shed at Bouhaut, one of five American air bases under construction in this trouble French protectorate.

Bundy Hits Commutation Of Daughtry Sentence And Avoiding Consultation With Him Or Sheriff; Says Courts May As Well Go Home

By JESS POINDEXTER Reflector City Editor Solicitor W. J. Bundy of Greenville this morning directed a heated reuke toward State Paroles Commissioner N. F. Ransdell, who recently commuted Hubert Daughtry's six-month road sentence. "I was not contacted at any time by the paroles office regarding Daughtry's commutation order," Bundy lashed out. "It is customary to discuss such situations with local authorities before taking any positive action on a thing of this nature. "I did not know Daughtry's sentence was being commuted until I read an account of it in the local newspaper." The incensed solicitor said Daughtry's conviction and sentence was upheld by the Supreme Court, but the paroles office still saw fit to commute the sentence.

Never Serve Time

"It was reported to both the sheriff and me, and it is a matter of wide report, that this man (unnamed), the employee of the defendant (Daughtry), publicly stated he would see that Daughtry never served a day. He was right; Daughtry didn't serve a day, although he appealed to the Supreme Court which upheld the conviction. "It is a sorry day in North Carolina when a man who brags of his money and influence can employ a lawyer who stands in with the administration to undo what has been properly and orderly done in the courts and have one of his henchmen saved from any punishment whatsoever for so flagrant a crime. The courts had just as well take out and go home and let the Paroles Commission run the whole business of law enforcement; it seems to be doing it anyway." In other portions of the letter, Bundy struck out at the commissioner for not at least in a find on Daughtry when the commutation order was issued. "I had only to pay court costs for driving 80 miles per hour and driving with an improper muffler. The defendant was also indicted for carrying a concealed weapon, but was found not guilty in jury trial. "Slap in G. F." "It is outrageous," Bundy stated, "and a slap in the face to the good citizens of Pitt County." Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson made the statement this morning that he was never contacted about the Daughtry case and knew nothing of Ransdell's action until the commutation order reached the office of D. T. House, Jr., clerk of Pitt Superior Court. "I too am not at all favorably impressed by the situation," the sheriff emphasized.

French Troops Clash With Raiders In Tunisian Wasteland

CASABLANCA, French Morocco (UP)—Eleven Arab terrorists have been killed in a desert-battle with French troops in the southern wasteland of Tunisia, dispatches said today. Warnings Of Alternative

PARIS (UP)—U. S. Secretary of State Dean Acheson today urged Britain to waste no time finding a solution to the explosive Iranian oil dispute and warned that the alternative might be unilateral American action. The Constitution and the Declaration were transferred Saturday under a military escort from the Library of Congress to the Archives Building. They have been on exhibition at the library since 1921 — except for three years during the war when they were placed for safekeeping in Fort Knox, Ky. The Bill of Rights — the first 10 amendments to the Constitution — was transferred from the Department of State to the Archives in 1938.

Truman Asserts Americans May Wreck Liberties

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Truman said today Americans will "destroy the very thing they are struggling to preserve" if hysterical fear of Communism drives them into "suppressing liberty at home." He spoke at ceremonies dedicating a permanent new shrine for the three great documents of this nation's heritage of freedom — the Declaration of Independence, the Constitution and the Bill of Rights. The ceremonies, attended by Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson and other dignitaries, took place in the National Archives Building where beneath the priceless documents will be displayed together for the first time in a fire-proof, bomb-proof repository designed to protect them from the ravages of time or atomic war. Mr. Truman said the ideals of human liberty which the documents represent are now endangered from without by Communist tyranny and from within by those who would suppress freedom of speech and thought in the name of fighting Communism. "Those who wait the government to regulate matters of the mind and spirit are like men who are so afraid of being murdered that they commit suicide to avoid assassination," he said. Mr. Truman acknowledged that "there are dangers in religious freedom and freedom of opinion," and also that "alarm is justified" about the Communist threat to America's way of life. But he said, "alarm is one thing, and hysteria is another. Hysteria impels people to destroy the very thing they are struggling to preserve. "To deny these rights of free speech and worship is worse than dangerous, it is absolutely fatal to liberty," he said. "For I embrace the methods and morals of Communism in order to defeat Communist aggression would be a moral disaster worse than any physical catastrophe." "If that should come to pass, then the Constitution and the Declaration would be utterly dead and what we are doing today would be the 'looming burial in the history of the world.'" The new shrine is in the Exhibition Hall of the massive Archives Building — the storage building for all the treasured and vital national documents. The documents will rest on an altar-like shelf which can be lowered after exhibition hours into a huge, subterranean safe.

Socialist Party Won't Run For Nat'l Offices

NEW YORK (AP)—The National Executive Committee of the Socialist Party has voted not to run any more candidates for national office. Norman Thomas, confirming the action, said today the Socialists and other minor parties don't have much chance now to elect national officers. Thomas said, "Socialism and the Socialist Party are not going out of business, however." He added that he believes that at present the running of Socialist candidates "arouses irritation rather than support" among those who in other years might have been counted on for votes. Thomas, who ran for president on the Socialist ticket six times from 1928 through 1948, declared he is convinced that running national candidates "impedes the winning of converts to the Socialist Party."

NATO Foreign Ministers Are Told Russia Modernizing Armies

PARIS (UP)—Foreign ministers of the 14 NATO nations were warned today that Russia now is mass producing modern arms, re-equipping her vast armies with the latest weapons and is seeking, through fifth columnists, to destroy Western unity. Against this background of carefully prepared intelligence reports, Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, supreme commander of North Atlantic Treaty forces, is scheduled to give NATO "cold war cable" a blunt warning that Western defense efforts must not be relaxed. Today's meeting of the NATO council of ministers was its first in 10 months—during which many ambitious goals of earlier this year have been abandoned. In spite of obvious disappointments, mostly induced by economic difficulties, the council chairman, Danish Foreign Minister Bjorn Kraft, told the opening session that the West is approaching a point where it may feel safe from aggression. The council will receive a blunt warning from its military men that a new assessment of Soviet policy shows the West must prepare for a long cold war. However, the NATO experts in their secret assessment of Soviet policy did not seem to anticipate an imminent open attack by the Soviets, informed sources said. The experts anticipated that Soviet pressure will continue and even increase as it shifts from one world nerve center to another. Soviet military developments reported to the council are understood to be along the following lines. 1. The Russian army still is believed to consist of about 175 divisions of which about one third is armored. There are also several anti-aircraft divisions. 2. With the aid of German experts taken to Russia the Soviets have switched to mass production of modern arms. 3. The Russians are stepping up jet aircraft production. 4. Heavy and specialized industries are being shifted to the interior of Russia in greater numbers. 5. There is a drive to improve communications and an intensification of naval building, including submarines.

Notes It Will Take Deeds, Not Words, To Make Communists Also Want Peace In Korea; Talks With Stassen; MacArthur Meeting Plans Unsettled

NEW YORK (UP)—President-elect Eisenhower pledged today into the work of knitting his administration together and blue-printing his program aimed at inducing the Communist to make peace in Korea. Return to his 42nd Street White House in the Commodore Hotel after a 22,000 mile trip to Korea Eisenhower conferred with Harold E. Stassen, who will be director for Mutual Security in the new administration. Stassen said he and Eisenhower discussed the mutual security program "in general." He said it would be "premature to talk in any definite amounts" about foreign aid under the Eisenhower administration. Stassen said that during Eisenhower's absence he had discussed mutual security problems with Averell Harriman, the present director; state spokesman Bernard M. Baruch; Paul Hoffman, former Marshall Plan director, and John J. McCloy, former high commissioner in Germany. There was speculation that the president-elect soon will meet with Gen. Douglas MacArthur to get MacArthur's new plan for a "clear and definite solution" to the Korean stalemate. However, James C. Hagerty, Eisenhower's press secretary, said "there is nothing new" in the way of plans for a meeting. On his return from Korea yesterday, Eisenhower said it would take deeds and not words to "induce" the Communists to want peace. Eisenhower said he was confident a "satisfactory solution to Korea can be speeded." "I know it will demand common sense and care, much foresight and much patience," he said. "But no more in Korea than anywhere else in the world is honorable peace beyond the power of free men to achieve when they pursue it intelligently and energetically." Eisenhower's wish to hasten the end of the war with deeds and not words brought general applause from members of Congress. Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, who lost the Republican nomination to Eisenhower after a bitter fight, said he thought the trip to Korea was "a good idea." Sen. Arthur V. Watkins (R-Utah) likened Eisenhower's attitude to President Theodore Roosevelt's philosophy of speaking softly and carrying a big stick. Eisenhower said "all of us" have known that finding a formula to end the Korean fighting quickly would not be simple and that having this knowledge "prepare us for whatever tough tasks lie

New 'Veep' And Wife Too Busy

NEW YORK (UP)—Party givers in Washington might as well plan to see little of the new vice president and his wife, unless, the function is official.

Mrs. Pat Nixon, wife of the vice president-elect, already has an answer planned for invitations so the Nixons can spend plenty of time with their two daughters.

"I told Dick I would just say that there are so many things we have to attend that we're just not going to accept anything but official engagements," the future second lady of the land told reporters Tuesday.

She had just handed out the top awards to winners in the Pillsbury National Bakeoff Contest at a luncheon at the Waldorf Astoria Hotel.

"Washington can be just like any other town," the slim, blonde former school teacher said. "There are lots of parties to attend, but Dick has to work and I've always helped him in his office."

"She was 10 pounds lighter than when the presidential campaign began," Mrs. Nixon said, but still wearing "my 1949 campaign suit."

It was a tailored, toast-colored gabardine.

"I'll have to buy some new clothes, but I haven't had a chance to get a single dud yet," Mrs. Nixon said. Her favorite color was green, but she didn't have any idea what colors she'd wear on Inauguration Day.

"Will you and Mrs. Eisenhower get together to see that your dresses don't clash or aren't identical shades?" one reporter asked.

"I haven't seen Mrs. Eisenhower since the day before the election," she said. "I hadn't planned to call her. And I haven't any idea about what happens at an inaugural ball. I've never been to one—for obvious reasons. I wasn't invited last time."

With 100 baking contest finalists from 36 states on hand, talk naturally turned to cooking. Mrs. Nixon said that she had been cooking since she was 13.

"I don't consider myself an especially good cook," Mexican dishes were her specialty, she added, and her husband's favorite dessert was apple pie.

Over 61 Million Votes In Election

WASHINGTON (UP)—Complete, official returns showed today that a record-breaking 61,621,521 votes were cast in the Nov. 4 presidential election, with Dwight D. Eisenhower getting 33,838,285 and Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson 27,312,217.

All other candidates got a total of 1,451,025 votes.

The total popular vote exceeded the previous record high of 49,815,000 cast in 1940 when the late President Roosevelt clinched a third term by defeating Wendell L. Willkie.

Eisenhower's victory total was by far the greatest popular vote ever received by a presidential candidate. It compared with the 27,476,673 cast for Mr. Roosevelt in his 1936 landslide victory over Gov. Al M. Landon. Eisenhower's margin over Stevenson was 6,526,068.

Stevenson achieved a distinction, too. With one exception, Stevenson's total popular vote as a loser was greater than the vote received by any previous winner. The exception was Mr. Roosevelt's 1936 popular vote. Stevenson's vote exceeded by 68,751 votes Mr. Roosevelt's winning total of 1940.

Eisenhower won 39 states with a total of 442 electoral votes. Stevenson carried nine states with 89 electoral votes.

Faulty Flue Set Fire To House

A faulty flue set fire to a dwelling on Pitt Street this morning around 9:10, but damage was only slight.

Firemen reported that a section of the wall around a stove in the home of Ethel Tobias caught fire but did not result in much damage.

Portions of the wall and outside weather boarding had to be removed to fight the blaze.

The alarm came in from box 152. Giant squids can attain a length of 50 feet.

Would Rather Get MIG Than Win Presidency

By FREDERICK C. PAINTON, United Press Staff Correspondent. AN AIR BASE IN KOREA. (UP)—The fighter pilot leaped across the map-covered table to shout over the sudden roar of jet engines.

"Really," he said, "I'd rather get a MIG than be president. It's the greatest feeling in the world."

His name was Capt. Houston Tule, of Tacoma, Wash. Tule, with four other jet pilots, was telling how they shot down five enemy MIG-15's the day before.

"It's a clean war for us, I guess," he said. "But we really work up there—a lot harder than you know. You can tell by the sweat. Our wingman was wringing wet yesterday."

Do jet pilots ever get scared during a battle? "No, not once we get into them," Tule said. "Waiting around here in the briefing room, sometimes you get concerned. Or when you're up there flying a MIG alley."

"But once we see them everybody's cool. There's a guy that sleeps next to me who prays every night he'll get into them—not that he'll knock one down, but just get into them."

The day this wing got five MIGs, Allied Sabrejet pilot, in all, destroyed seven of the enemy jets. They left after the usual briefing, which always ends with these words from the commander—"Go get the MIG's."

"It's to keep the boys keyed up," explained Colonel Royalyn Baker, of McKinney, Tex., a jet ace with six MIG's to his credit. "Our quota is one MIG a day. Right now we're only one day behind."

The most damaging blow to the morale of these pilots is when they can't find enemy planes to fight or the MIG's escape across the Yalu River to their Manchurian sanctuary.

"Damnit, they went back across the fence, one pilot radioed Baker on the day of the big battle. But later Baker spotted six MIG's underneath his flight."

"Okay boys," he said. "There's MIG's. Let's go get 'em."

The Sabres dived, and Baker outmaneuvered one MIG, sending it into a spin.

"He just spun right in," Baker said. He watched the enemy plane crash with a blinding sheet of flame.

Three minutes after they saw the six MIG's, Baker's pilots had destroyed three of them.

"A MIG a minute," he laughed. Farther to the east, Tule and Lt. Col. Lewis A. Green, 33, of Lexington, N.C., got two more MIG's in 45 seconds. Both Green and Tule were jubilant as they confirmed each other's kills.

"I saw him," Tule yelled at Green. "D'you see him?" At their base, the pilots celebrated their victory singing songs about the MIG-15 and retelling their stories.

Strength for the Day

HOW ABOUT NOW?
It happens only once in 7000 times but it happened to me—my house was struck by lightning. Then I got busy and put up a lightning rod.
This is the usual pattern of neglect, catastrophe, and caution, with which we deal with many of the issues of life. We are always locking the door after the horse is stolen. We put up lightning rods after the house is struck. We look back over our bad purchases and sales in property and securities and ask ourselves how we could have been so stupid as to have missed a certain opportunity or to have run head-on into disaster.

Likewise in the things of the spirit there is a lot more repining after evil is done than there is planning to avoid evil and the keeping of one's life and attitude wholesome. The Bible's word of warning to youth is, "Remember now thy Creator in the days of thy youth, before the evil days come." And to everyone the word is, "Today if you would hear his voice, harden not your hearts." And this "Now is the accepted time; Behold, now is the day of salvation."
Put up a lightning rod today. Get a lock for that stable door before someone slips in and steals your horse. Avoid moral disaster twenty years from now by cultivating wholesome habits and deepening your religious faith now.

And What A Fight It's Going To Be!

The fight is on. The people versus Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company.

The other five times the telephone company has asked to increase its rates since 1947 there has been a disgruntled mumbling among the thousands of telephone subscribers in the territory served by the company. With each successful company request for more revenue, the people have become more indignant at the higher telephone rates.

Now the indignation has reached the point of outrage. The people of North Carolina's cities and towns in the Carolina Tel and Tel area have their dander up and are arming for a fight to the finish.

The latest request by the company for higher rates has proved the straw which broke the camel's back. The smouldering tempers which have waxed warmer and warmer with each successive movement for higher phone rates have now burst forth into rage. This new request for $1,500,000 would bring to $4,278,109 the amount of additional revenue through higher charges the company has actually received through Utilities Commission authorization since August of 1947.

This time, it seems, the Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company has pushed the people a little too far. The people are not going to stand for the million and a half dollar rate increase if they can possibly defend themselves.

The people of many communities have joined together in a solid, determined effort against the new increase and will prove a formidable factor for the company to overcome when it lays its case before the State Utilities Commission.

In previous hearings, the case laid to the commission by the people has amounted to a relatively weak voice compared with the booming presentation by the company. . . . at least the Utilities Commission apparently has thought so. This time, through concerted action, the people are determined they will be heard, and their determined matter put to the Commission in no uncertain terms.

The communities fighting another telephone rate increase are determined to carry their fight to victory. The Reflector thinks they are on the right track. We're just sorry they didn't come together in a solid front sooner than they did.

Big Business Needs Modern Systems

All the legal procedure for Greenville's referendum on a council-manager form of government has been completed.

The citizens of the city now have exactly three weeks to make up their minds whether they want a new form of government, and to make sure they are properly registered to cast a vote in the special election.

It is no secret that The Reflector is in favor of Greenville changing from the present aldermanic form of municipal government to the council-manager form. It is a change we have favored for several years, and needless to say, this newspaper is delighted that local citizens have finally won the privilege to voice their opinion on the question at the polls.

For some towns and smaller cities, the aldermanic form of municipal government is good. Here in Greenville it has proved adequate for many years, but it's our considered opinion that Greenville has outgrown the aldermanic form of government.

Operating Greenville's government has ceased to be a part time job. Greenville is big business, and should be operated as a big business with a capable full time manager backed up by a board of directors which can set the policies and not be worried with every petty detail which comes up in connection with municipal operations.

The operations of the city of Greenville has grown by leaps and bounds in recent years. This year alone the municipal government has set up its budget for the expenditure of slightly more than half a million dollars of local and state taxpayer's money. More than that, the property valuation within the corporate limits of the municipality now reaches above 21 million dollars. Those figures certainly bespeak big business, and demand more efficient business operation methods.

The Reflector favors the change to a council-manager form of government because we feel that form lends itself more easily to efficient business methods for operating the city's affairs than does the present aldermanic form of government. As Greenville continues to grow in years to come, closer management of city business will become more and more necessary for efficient operations.

We do not presume a council-manager form of government will bring any reduction of local taxes as some people may boast. We do, however, believe under a council-manager form of government, local taxpayers would receive greater services and greater returns on each tax dollar invested in Greenville's municipal government.

Voting time is just three weeks away. For citizens already registered, and for new citizens who will register before the special election, there is no over abundance of time to consider the question which will be decided January 12.

National Whirligig

WASHINGTON—Private industry and business have moved fast to capitalize on the Eisenhower election and to escape from "Trumanism." In every field they have taken charge of the nation's economic machine, and with the apparent acquiescence of the lonely man in the White House.

The outgoing President and his Fair Deal associates, by their unwanted silence and inaction, seem to recognize that the 20-year era of Federal domination, interference and controls has ended. It amounts to an amazing but understandable surrender of ideological and prerogatives.
Although a political promise motivated Truman's decision to overrule his Wage Stabilization Board, Defense Mobilizer Fowler and Economic Stabilizer Putnam in granting John L. Lewis coal miners an unjustifiable wage raise, Truman simply bowed to new economic trends and forces. He thereby admitted that, temporarily at least, wage-price ceilings and other forms of Government restrictions are outmoded.

FREE MARKET—The underlying fact is that private industry has won its long battle for relative freedom from a Washington straitjacket. To use a football figure, it has stolen the economic ball from Uncle Sam on its own one-yard line.

In short, industry is producing such an unprecedented abundance of consumers' goods, plus $40 billion of military hardware every twelvemonth, that Uncle Sam can no longer dictate terms to the producers, sellers, workers and buyers.

For the first time since 1933, manufacturers, the workmen and consumers meet and deal in a relatively free market. They do not have to submit their arrangements to the bureaucrats for prior approval.
Eisenhower may ask Congress to retain wage-price control laws for their reapplication in a serious emergency. But the outlook for Federal intervention on a Truman-Roosevelt scale is remote, barring global conflict.

BUSINESSMEN'S REACTION—While natural, supply-and-demand forces appear to have brought about this great social and economic change, there is ground for suspicion that manufacturers and businessmen have combined consciously to effect it. They have shown a new spirit, determination and energy since November 4. They look and behave like released prisoners, although some think they may only be on parole.
Whatever the reason or inspiration, they are turning out civilian and defense goods in unprecedented volume, paying higher wages, lowering prices and providing a growing market for satisfied buyers. In view of long-range prospects here and abroad, some of these developments defy traditions and expectations.
It may be their way of saying that "We like Ike."

TRUMAN'S TACTICS—In another and ironic sense, it is argued that Truman may have been his own political-economic petard. When he ordered the national case in Korea, also proclaiming a state of national emergency, he expected to last indefinitely.

His aides believed that the cold war difficulties would furnish the basis and excuse for further Federal domination. They anticipated another period of crisis economy that would re-elect Truman or install a Democrat as his successor. HST used this kind of argument in the campaign, insisting that only his Party could execute his foreign and domestic policies.
He characterized Eisenhower as a sort of economic ignoramus who was unfit to discharge these grave responsibilities.

CONTRIBUTIONS TO IKE BOOM—But the extra plant capacity which Truman demanded and financed after June 25, 1950, has now become so productive a machine that the Government has lost its dictatorial and bargaining power over the manufacturers, the producers and the workers. It does not need the artificial application of political grease or the manipulation of partisan mechanics.
Truman also has provided an extremely favorable stage climate, atmosphere—call it what you will—for Eisenhower's appearance on the national scene. He has contributed to the Ike boom albeit unintentionally.

The price index supports this theory, to wit: by 33 per cent since the post-Korean peak in January, 1951. Industrial products have dropped by about 40 per cent, foodstuffs by 22 per cent. Most at the packing centers is lower than at any time since March, 1950, although the fall has not yet been reflected fully at the corner butchers.
The only effective remaining controls apply to building materials required for defense manufacture. But only recently they were softened with respect to home construction and even for amusement parks preparing for next summer's season.

Guessing Game

Around Capitol Square

PAYDAY—The normal pay day for regular State departmental employees is the 25th of the month. In June they are paid on the 20th, so vouchers are clear before the fiscal year July 1, and in December they are paid on the 20th, in order to have the money in hand for Christmas shopping. This year the 20th falls on Saturday, which which is a non-work day for most employees, so the checks will be funded out on Friday.

ANTICIPATION—The State workers are looking forward to that pay day with more than usual delight, because they are not too much worried about the long lay-off before the next regular pay day on January 25. Governor-elect Unstead has emphatically stated he will urge the General Assembly to give a 10 per cent "across the board" increase in salaries, to be retroactive to last July 1. Most employees are looking for that six per cent "bonus" to come in some form or another early in the year. That will mean a check ranging from $100 to $400. And a good many of the employees are saying that hope to support credit buying for Christmas merchandise through your report, have said they think the credit risk is gilt-edged.

CREDIT—One credit manager said he had some, but very little, trouble with State employees failing to pay their bills on time in the past, and he recalled a few instances when governors and other elective officials did not live up to campaign commitments. "I'm not the least bit worried now," he said. "I know Bill Unstead can't raise salaries without legislative approval, but I'm confident the General Assembly will go along with the salary proposals and that the employees who get the extra checks will pay their bills." They are added, with a sort of grin on his face. "You know, about the only trouble I've had with State folks has been with the big shots. I'm not calling any names, but as a general thing, the governor or clerk is a better credit risk than a high salaried official. I don't think I've ever lost money on any account, but I've had to wait a lot longer for the big fellows."

SEATING—Secretary of State Tamm has completed the seating chart for members of the General Assembly and every seat No. 28 has been assigned the seat number assigned to each of the 500 senators and 119 representatives. Joe Warren Caswell asked for and got the mythical seat No. 120, which means he will have the seat assigned to the member who is elected speaker. It is as certain as anything can be in advance that Eugene Bost of Cabarrus will be speaker, and that Warren will occupy seat No. 28. As usual, the Republicans are in the back row, with one notable exception, Ralph Fisher of Transylvania will occupy seat No. 9, or the first row to the left of the speaker's dais next to the back stage lobby.

FIXED—The seating arrangement is fixed by law under a resolution adopted 20 years ago which gives each returning member the right to the same seat he occupied before. It is a witty claim on any vacant seat over new member. Request to be changed seating are by E. Noah, not of Pasquotank but the seat No. 9 last session. He is not coming back and that is first to apply for it. This will be the second time in recent years a Republican has occupied one of the reserved choice seats in the house. In 1941 W.C. Pittman of Averett exercised his right to sit right to a front seat under the same resolution. Several Republican members have expressed preference for the back row as being more comfortable because of more room.

COLLEGE POSTS—Grapevine intelligence has it that the committee of the board of trustees charged with nominating a new chancellor for N.C. State College, succeeding Col. John W. Harrelson, who has announced he will retire next summer, is not making much progress. Similar lack of progress is reported from the faculty committee assigned the task of nominating a dean of agriculture to succeed Dr. James H. Milton, who leaves next spring to take over the presidency of Iowa State College. Both groups are still looking for suitable material.

QUALIFIED—The grapevine also brings word that there is good chance that a present member of the faculty will be named to the agricultural post, but that the committee will go outside the university family to find a chancellor. "It is a tribute to the high calibre of the college faculty that there are three or four men fully qualified for the deanship," said a university official the other day. "The surplus of good material is as much a problem as its dearth would be." In some respects, because of the special training required, the dean's position is harder to fill than that of chancellor. There seems to be agreement that the new chancellor should be identified with agriculture, since all

What Other Papers Are Thinking

WHO PAYS FOR ADVERTISING? (Wilson Times)
According to the Advertising Generation of America, a large percentage of Americans still believe that advertising is added to the cost of what they buy. It doesn't occur to them that the non-advertiser pays the bill. We'll see if we can make that clear.

Two men open stores. Each has $10,000 in capital. The overhead charges, rent, heat, light and labor are substantially the same. The first store pays $1,200 a year for advertising; the second spends nothing. The first store, because of its advertising, turns its merchandise six times, doing a $90,000 volume. The second store turns its merchandise twice, doing a $30,000 volume.

Since the overhead and the markup are the same, the first man has spent approximately $60,000 for the merchandise he sells, giving him an over-all profit of $30,000. Out of that he must deduct his overhead which usually runs about 26 percent, but he has a net profit of $10,000. The second man, spending $0 for what he sells, leaves him a $10,000 over-all profit. After his overhead is deducted he has only $2,000 left for himself.

Advertising does more than stimulate trade; it creates what the merchant most wants, turnover. It's that turnover that pays his advertising bills. The second merchant, because he has little in the way of turnover makes only a small profit. In reality, then, it's he who pays the bills for the advertiser. Some people seem not to know it, but it's true.

PLEASANT PROBLEM (Rocky Mount Telegram)
Being as how money presents

least lack of it—it is interesting to read about His Highness Abdullah as Sultan of Kuwait, Sheikh of Kuwait, who faces one of the world's most pleasant problems—what to do with an income of $150 millions a year.
No income taxes cut into this bonanza. There are no restrictions on what he might buy—pools, palaces, gold-plated limousines or block-long yachts.

But instead, Abdullah Salim is wisely turning his sudden wealth into a far better way of life for 170,000 people in an ancient and neglected part of the world. A remarkable transformation is taking place in the tiny specked Sheikhdom of Kuwait at the head of the Persian Gulf. The National Geographic Magazine reports in an article by Near East traveler Paul Edw. Case.

Kuwait rests on a virtual ocean of oil. Beneath its sands are an estimated 16 billion barrels of black gold—a prodigious petroleum reserve roughly half that of the United States.
Tapping this pool as a current rate of $600,000 barrels a day, the Kuwait Oil Company, Ltd. owned jointly by Gulf Oil Corporation and Anglo-Iranian Oil Company, pays the Sheikhdom an even 50 per cent of all profits.

By dynastic law the Sheikh receives this money as personal income. He alone decides what to do with it all. In the last few years, his enlightened decisions have given a once-backward country new hospitals, schools, a modern water supply, and an enviable position as potential banker of the Near East.

Boon has come in no uncertain terms to Kuwait's mud-walled capital, also named Kuwait. Shiny cars, trucks and giant earth-moving machinery rumble through busy bazaars among camels and goats. Arab in flowing robes, nomadic Bedouins and veiled Kuwait women mingle with roustabouts from Texas and Oklahoma and businessmen from London. Kuwait works today at the tempo of Times Square transplanted to the desert.

There are many signs left of the old way of life. While tankers gulp oil from a 4,000-foot pier extending into the Gulf from the new-born port-city, Meena at Ahmedi, Kuwait shipwrights still shape teak logs with hand adzes into improvised scoops for pearling, fishing and trading.

Behind the leaky gates of Kuwait town, new cement-block buildings are replacing mud huts. A new 1,200,000-gallon-a-day distillation plant will suck water from the Gulf, providing the city as well with its first major source of electric power.

Big new State hospitals, plus a gleaming trailer-dispensary that patrols out-living desert areas, are raising the Sheikhdom's standards of health. All services are free. So is better schooling fast being expanded for both girls and boys, a revolutionary step in the Near Eastern desert countries.

As all these projects take shape under the magic wand of oil, Sheikh Abdullah Salim has kept rigidly to his traditional unenvied royal habits—no fancy trappings, no royal robes, no racing stables. Occasionally, however, one of his ministers reveals the strange position in which Kuwait has been plunged. The Minister of Defense (of which Kuwait boasts little or none) went on record recently with a rare complaint: although Kuwait has more money than it ever saw before, no one so far has asked for a loan.

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER
There has been a growing trend in American business to use specialists for special services—such as tax accounting, buying insurance, selecting plant sites, researching markets and so on.
There is one specialized service that is frequently overlooked, possibly because the dollar savings are small. The savings in time and bother, however, are large. This is the service of magazine subscription agencies.

One firm, which subscribes to some thirty trade and industrial magazines and periodicals, recently reviewed its subscription practices. It found that each new subscription involved writing for a sample of buying one at a newsstand, sending in an order, checking the bill and writing and mailing a check. A clerk had to keep a record of expiration dates and get okay for a renewal—another check and more book-keeping, unless the clerk forgot, which she frequently did.

The company came to the conclusion that it was spending more in clerk, stenographic and executive time—not to say postage—than it was spending for the magazines themselves. Then someone thought of turning the problem over to a magazine agency. The agency handles now all the routine work. Four times a year it submits a list of upcoming renewals and one bill. This means four letters, four 3-cent stamps and four checks a year.

In addition, the agency submits announcements of new publications and takes advantage of multiple-year subscriptions and other money-saving offers. The service costs the company no fee since the agency is paid by the magazines on a commission basis.

The company expects another advantage in that this plan invites regular review of subscriptions.

"This may be the best part of the arrangement," one executive said. "It may lead to dropping half the magazines we take and subscribing to as many more. Companies outgrow some publications and become ready for others. Some periodicals fade, others gain new vigor, and still new ones are born. There's something wrong with a company that never changes its reading matter."

COLORFUL COLORS FOR 1953 SHOES
Official footwear colors for women's and men's shoes for the fall and winter seasons of 1953-54 have been selected by a committee representing all phases of the shoe industry.

The Tanners' Council will issue

swatch books of the new colors to the trade. The color names are:
Women—Flight Blue, Admiral Blue, Basque Red, Ruby, Cherry Red, Smoked Pearl, Dusk, Golden Wheat, Benedictine, Maple, Cognac, Town Brown, Chestnut Brown, Walnut, Russet Glow, Taffystone, Tropic Tan, Spicetang, Mint, and new Camel, Dark Green and Cranberry shades.

Men—Bourbon, Havana Brown (formerly Club Brown), American Rungundy, British Tan, Amberstone, Norse Brown, Admiral Blue, Brandy, Rocky Tan, Cedar, Chestnut Brown, Desert Brown and new Medium Brown, Tansh Brown, Dark Blue, a new Brown Similar to Bourbon, and Camel shades.

Not all colors have been chosen for all leathers. Bourbon and Brandy, for instance, have been selected for only smooth leathers.

OPERATING COSTS UP IN HOME FURNISHINGS
Operating expenses rose almost 3 per cent in department store carpet departments, more than 4 per cent in furniture stores and more than 2 per cent in specialty stores, Merrill A. Watson, president of the Carpet Institute, told a sales conference in New York.

In the first nine months of 1952, he added, department store carpet sales were 20 per cent below a year ago, furniture store floor covering sales were up 3 per cent and specialty stores sales up 5 per cent.

NEW PRODUCTS
GRAVY: A canned gravy mix is being marketed by Holiday Brands, Inc., South St., Walpole, Mass. Each can contains 6 ounces of fat-free dry mix which, with water added, makes about nine cups of gravy.

FABRIC: A new lightweight tarpaulin, woven flat with rayon, nylon or Orion and Coated with plastic or rubber, is being offered commercially by U.S. Rubber Co., 1230 Sixth Ave., New York. It is waterproof, durable and resistant to snags and tears.

GAME: A practice machine that lets golfers play an 18-hole game in their own backyards is being distributed (by Bolt Rubber Co., 1600 East 25th St., Los Angeles). The course is joined to machine by a 7-foot nylon cord which registers distance, loft and direction of each shot. Par for the course is a tough 70.

PAPER: Paper bed sheets, absorbent on one side and waterproof on the other, have been developed by Brown-Bridge Mills, Inc., Troy, Ohio. They're said to be odorless, do not rust, stay in place and absorb perspiration.

For Jane Eads

WASHINGTON—As far as England is concerned, the American Revolution is over. The War of 1812 too.

At least that's the impression brought back from his first professional tour of the tight little island by Burl Ives. The bulky, red-bearded American ballad singer says he gave the British a lot of songs written during those disagreements and they came back for more.

"There was one they seemed to like particularly," he said. "It's called 'Ye Parliament of England' and it has a line in it: 'Just give us Canada, and we'll have respect for you.' The American eye for a bit of real estate, you know. They appreciated it."

Ives confesses to some imperialist delusions of his own on British territory in this hemisphere. He wants to shave his beard, buy some dark glasses and take his 55-foot Bahamian ketch, Abasco Queen, on a song-collecting tour of the British Caribbean islands. "We disgust," he explains, "would be to put the islanders at their ease."

"It's hard collecting songs when you've got a name and people recognize you," he says. "They'll turn modest and say, 'Oh, I don't want to sing for you.' Ives says he doesn't want to be too egotistical about it, but he'll take some credit for the revival of serious interest in ballad singing among Brits. "Not that some of them haven't always been interested," he told me, "especially in Scotland. I know one singer there who never has a night free."

In London now ballad singing is about at the same stage it was in New York in 1935—you know, smoke-filled rooms and modern dancers with long hair. Culture.

"And they have too many of those thin-voiced singers that sound as if they had something stuck inside them, the madrigal type. They have some lusty ones, too. They're grand. That's what they need."

Most of the ballads Ives sings are centuries old, brought to the U.S. from other countries or written by unknown rhymester and composers in this country's own past. Some of those he sang in Britain—"Lord Thomas and the Fair Eleanor," for instance—came from there originally but have now been forgotten, on their native soil.

Ives took his job of collecting and singing ballads as a highly serious matter. Recently he completed six albums commissioned by the Encyclopedia Britannica, each album dealing with a different phase of U.S. history. They are to be sold only to schools for a time, then released commercially.

NEW YORK (AP)—There are many ways to look at Christmas. Christmas is an industry for some people, a holiday for others, just another day in the year, a bitter few. But for most of us Christmas is a time of spiritual thaw, a period when we melt the warmth of loving-kindness.

However anyone looks at Christmas, cynically or sentimentally, I can respect his view of it. Except in one case. I simply cannot understand anyone who treats Christmas like a surgical operation.

There are the people who, as the GI phrase goes, "Already got it made." They don't fret about the last-minute shopping expedition for the friend they forgot to remember because they just don't forget anything. They're the careful type who organize Christmas like a scientist conducting an experiment.

The bought their Christmas cards sometime last January, addressed them during their summer vacation, and mailed them the day after Thanksgiving. The Christmas presents they plan to give this month were purchased at last spring's bargain sales and were trundled to the post office by the first of December.

"You mean you haven't even begun your Christmas shopping?" they say now contemptuously to friends.

Somehow this attitude riles me. I don't feel these people even know what Christmas is, and certainly I doubt they have any real belief in Santa Claus.

To them Christmas is a calculated thing, one of the biggest satisfactions is that of knowing they have done everything that could be reasonably expected of them in an exactly proper manner.

Is that Christmas? Not to my mind. Christmas must have a kindling spontaneity to it or it isn't Christmas at all. A guy who does not have to buy the shopping cart was an hour before the department stores close misses half the fun. What's wrong with suddenly deciding at the last minute that there is still one more person you'd like to buy a gift for?

Nobody ought to have his friendships indexed and priced like items in a mail order catalog. The person who over-organizes Christmas is embarrassed if he receives a card from someone he overlooked, so he promptly mails him a Happy New Year card, and then feels snugly virtuous. But that isn't the spirit of giving—it's simply trading.

Essentially, I suppose, the people who order their Christmas trees on the Fourth of July are a sad lot, too joylessly precise ever to feel the deep tidal pull that sweeps most heart at this season.

Give me the little guy who goes home in a bus on Christmas Eve loaded with bundles bought at the last possible moment. He may be a bit thoughtless, but in his eyes glows a true Christmas happiness. He at least bought his presents because he wanted to, not because he felt he had to, and there is no icicle in his soul.

Germany's Soviet Zone Heading For Big Purge

By JOSEPH FLEMING United Press Staff Correspondent

BERLIN (UP) — A purge that will reach into the top branches of the East German government and might even topple Gerhard Eisler appears to be shaping up in the Soviet Zone.

The Communist-run government, faced with discontent and growing opposition to its socialization policy, is expected to open a campaign to find scapegoats for economic difficulties and to punish government opponents.

This campaign, in addition to calling for mass arrests of anti-Communists, is likely to end in a Prague-type show trial of both Communists and non-Communists lumped together as spies, saboteurs and diversionsists.

The stage for the trial already has been set. Premier Otto Grotewohl in a speech before the Communist Politburo late last month flatly said "planned and organized sabotage" exists in government ministries.

In a Communist-run nation such a statement usually is followed by the wholesale firing of government officials and their arrest and trial.

Again and again in recent weeks Grotewohl and other top Communists have spoken of "organized resistance" to the government's socialization program.

Grotewohl, who is not noted for making idle threats, told the Politburo "the organs of the state must proceed against this resistance with the utmost energy and thoroughness."

There are signs that the first stages of the purge already are underway. Grotewohl announced the "suspension" from office of Karl Hamann, minister of trade and supply, and his deputy minister, Rudolf Albrecht.

Grotewohl blamed the suspended ministers for shortages of food and raw materials and he gave a hint that Hamann, Albrecht and others he did not name will be brought to trial.

He said the government would eradicate the supply difficulties mercilessly and "bring the guilty parties to justice."

There are apt to be many "guilty parties" for shortages in East Germany are widespread and have been made acute by the early arrival of cold weather.

Arrests and trial also could be used to liquidate private holdings and further the Communists' announced goal of converting East Germany into a complete socialist state.

The trial of Rudolf Slansky and 13 other former leading Czech Communists in Prague has had repercussions in the Soviet Zone of Germany. East German President Wilhelm Pieck said the Slansky trial proved that Western agents have penetrated the governments and Communist parties of the "peoples democracies" and he called for the unmasking of such agents in the Soviet Zone.

Reports that Eisler is in disfavor long have circulated and the new accusations might be all that is necessary to oust Eisler from his job as chief of the Eastern States Information Office.

It is believed that the area now occupied by the Sahara Desert was fertile region when man first appeared there.

The Saar has a population of about 900 per square mile.

NEW YORK (UP)—The judge in Bronx magistrates court rubbed his eyes. But the three men standing before him really were green.

Patrolman James J. Hogan, 26, and the two defendants were covered with green paint. Hogan explained that he broke up a fight at Ryan's Bar and Grill Sunday only after Robert A. McGrath and Robert Reynolds, both 19 had covered themselves and him with green paint from four buckets in the back room of the tavern.

McGrath and Reynolds were booked for felonious assault.

Prostitution was connected with the worship of many ancient gods and was often practiced in temples.

Dr. Hollis Edens (left), president of Duke University, will speak here tomorrow night at 6:30 in Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church. The occasion is a meeting of the Pitt County Alumni Association of Duke University, and all alumni and parents of students attending Duke are being urged to attend. Also slated to appear with Edens is Charles A. Dukes, Jr., director of alumni affairs at Duke. "It's the first time we ever had a college president to speak to us," D. T. House, Jr., of Bethel, said this morning. House is clerk of Pitt Superior Court and president of the local Duke Alumni Association.

Quarry Being Pumped Out In Hunt For Missing Kids

NAPERVILLE, Ill. (UP)—A grim drama being played at an abandoned quarry here neared a climax today as chugging pumps sucked the last few feet of water from the pit in a search for two missing playmates.

But there was a chance it will be an anti-climax and that the bodies of six-year old Jean Petersen and her "little boy friend," three year old Edward Rosenstiel, will not be found on the mucky, junk-littered bottom.

It was the eighth day of an extraordinary search which has cost about $30,000, even though all of the hundreds of "volunteers working to find the children have donated their time and equipment.

Police again were discussing the theory that the children, who vanished mysteriously Dec. 7, may be alive and in the hands of kidnapers. Police Chief Edward Otterpohl said he may call the FBI into the case because they have been missing so long that "if they were kidnaped it's safe to assume they were taken across a state line."

No ransom note has been received.

The unshaved crews manning the pumps had dropped the water level in the old spring-fed 45-foot deep quarry to from six to eight feet in most places.

They have worked day and night since Wednesday, often in bitter cold, to pump about 80,000,000 gallons of water and shoot it through specially laid pipes to the Dupage River.

Contractor Marshall Ert, who has been running the big project with help from the U. S. Navy and Coast Guard and police and firemen, said the bottom of the quarry would come into full sight this afternoon.

"We don't even know for sure the children are in there, but we certainly must eliminate the quarry as a possibility of their whereabouts before we proceed any further," terpohl said.

As the water level fell inch by inch, the excitement of the tragic search spread. At least 10,000 spectators jammed the scene at this Chicago suburb Sunday, and 50 officers of the Illinois Police Reserve were called out to keep order.

The parents of the missing children were reported to be "almost crazy with suspense."

The widowed mother of the missing girl, Mrs. Mary Petersen, 48, said she believed that the children may have wandered to a highway and were picked up by a motorist.

"I'm sure they will be found," she said. "And they'll be alive."

Floyd and Geraldine Rosenstiel also nurtured hopes that Edward had not wandered to the quarry with the Petersen girl and fallen to his death in the icy waters.

Life Threatened, But Will Talk To Probers

NEW YORK (UP)—An assistant hiring boss who has received threats against his life appears before the New York State Crime Commission today to tell what he knows about the tough Hoboken, N. J., waterfront.

Hoboken authorities disclosed Sunday night they had given Anthony De Vincenzo, 43, a 24-hour police bodyguard since last Friday. His life was threatened as he prepared to testify in the investigation of crime and racketeering on the teeming piers of New York City and New Jersey.

Vincenzo was expected to be a key witness when the hearings resumed today with attention to the Hoboken piers across the Hudson River from New York City.

Police disclosed they had given similar protection to Vincenzo when he testified recently before the Hudson County (N. J.) grand jury that is conducting its own investigation of the Hoboken waterfront.

On another front, a special grand jury in Brooklyn was scheduled to convene today to begin questioning of shipping executives and union officials who described alleged pay-offs and shakedowns in previous appearances before the Crime Commission. The grand jury was empowered last Friday to remain in existence another six months to investigate conditions on Brooklyn docks.

The Crime Commission, in its Hoboken inquiry, apparently hoped to establish what connections have existed between Hoboken municipal officials and the union leaders who wield powerful influence on the docks.

The commission indicated it was especially interested in the activities of three officials of the AFL International Longshoremen's Association. They are Edward J. Florio, an ILA organizer; John De Robertis, business agent of ILA Local 881, and Anthony Aurigemma, a delegate of Local 1198.

It was reported that some Hoboken city officials would be called to testify, but most of the witnesses today were expected to be rank and file longshoremen who could describe conditions as they affect the "little man" who earns his living on the docks.

After its Hoboken inquiry, the Crime Commission plans to question witnesses from Jersey City and Newark.

SALISBURY—The good right arm of quarterback Dave Bevevino was the big difference here Saturday afternoon as undefeated Clarion State Teachers College defeated East Carolina 13-6 in the first annual Lions Bowl. A crowd of 3,000 watched the game.

Bevevino, a red-haired past-master at passing, engineered both scoring drives put on by the Pennsylvanians. He passed 39 yards for the first six-punter and ran the show in a 66-yard drive which netted the second touchdown. Altogether, Bevevino threw 29 passes, completed 11, and gained 189 yards through the air.

The undefeated Clarion Teachers struck with an almost stunning quickness in the first and third quarters.

In the first period, after an exchange of kicks, East Carolina's Claude King got off a poor punt which sailed out of bounds on the East Carolina 39. Clarion took over, ran one play, and had their first touchdown of the day. The scoring was done on a pass from Bevevino to end Alex Sandusky. Linebacker Frank Madigan blocked the attempted conversion but the damage was done with only two minutes and 58 seconds of playing having elapsed.

The Pirates, twice-beaten and twice-tied in ten regular season games, stormed back after the kickoff to tie the game up again. A fumble, recovered by All-State end Dwight Shoe, started them on their way.

Shoe had recovered the Clarion fumble on the East Carolina 41. One play netted only a yard but stage the stage for an 18-yard gain off tackle by Illard Yarborough. Yarborough, Paul Gay, and Ted Barnes collaborated on three plays to move the ball to another first down. Quarterback Sandy Siler then took over to direct the touchdown drive. Siler passed to Gay for 11 yards, then to Yarborough for a first down on the seven. Gay, going through the line, moved the ball to the one from where Siler sneaked it over for the tying touchdown. Hawk Grisson's attempted conversion was wide of its mark.

In the second half, Bevevino went back to work to give Clarion its final margin. His three passes just as the quarter started put the Pennsylvanians on their way.

Bevevino's first toss was to Sandusky and the completion moved the ball to the Clarion 45. End John Love then got into the act with a pair of catches that moved the ball up another 17 yards. After a couple of running plays, Bevevino passed to Sandusky to put the ball on the East Carolina seven. Halfback George Ozap carried the ball the remaining distance on a pitch-out. Ted Wisniewski kicked the point and the scoring for the day was completed.

East Carolina put on two good drives in the last quarter but had them both stopped by pass interceptions. One of the interceptions was made on the Clarion seven, the other on the Clarion 12. Both were by less than two minutes of playing time remaining in the contest.

East Carolina thoroughly outplayed Clarion on the ground but the passing of the North Carolinians was nowhere near the effectiveness of Bevevino's work.

Bevevino was awarded the Lions Bowl President's cup as the outstanding player in the game.

Included in the halftime ceremonies was the crowning of Miss Rebecca Carlton of Lexington as Lions Bowl queen.

Pirates Skin Bears 74-65 In Home Opener

Russell, Hodges Pace Pirates In Second Win

By JIMMY ELLIS
Reflector Sports Writer
Last February, Lenoir Rhyme's basketball Bears waded through the best of the North State Conference had to offer in winning the conference tournament at Statesville. One of the teams they thoroughly pummeled in their wait to the championship was East Carolina.

Saturday night, the Pirates had vivid memories of that tournament game when they took the floor against the Bears in the first game played in East Carolina's new gymnasium. An hour and a half later, those Pirates had gained at least a small measure of revenge by whipping the Bears 74-65. The victory was the second in two games for East Carolina.

A pair of players who were on the East Carolina squad last year were the leaders in Saturday's game. Sonny Russell, the North State's "Mr. Basketball," showed the Bears how to run an offensive show (26 points); how to play defense (botting up high-scoring guard Paul Lajpersberger); and, generally, how to play havoc with another ball club (15 rebounds and a list of assists as long as his good right arm). Bobby Hodges, the young giant from Kinston, picked up all the loose ends that Russell left lying around. The 6-6 All-Conference center scored 24 points, grabbed an amazing total of 26 rebounds, and played what has been termed his most outstanding game as collegian.

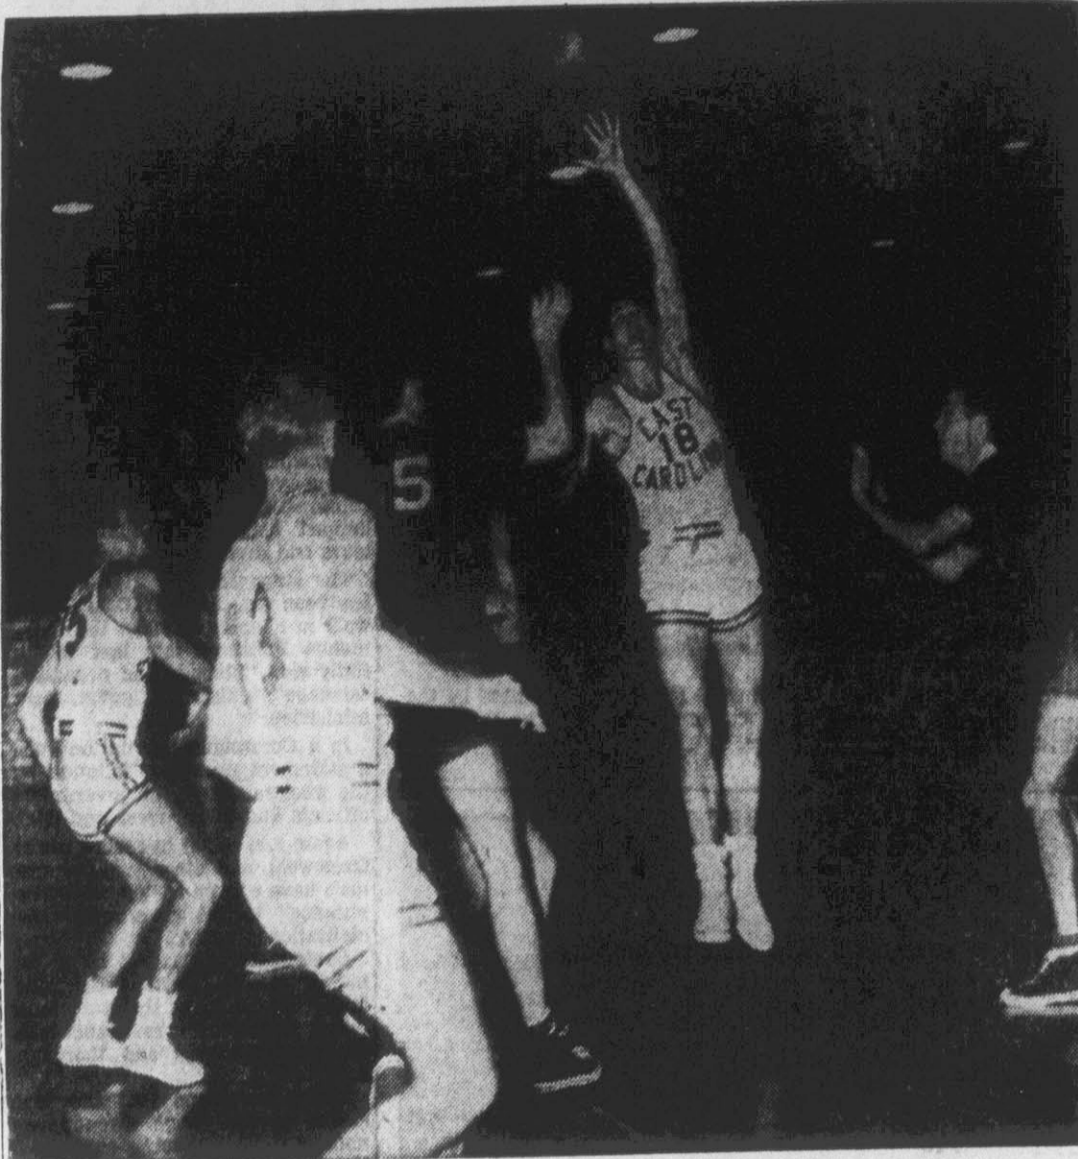

In addition to that, he divided his time on defense guarding Bob Ortmyer and Frank Hassell and allowed those two only 15 points between them before fouling out with just a few seconds of playing time remaining.

The Bears, shorn of most of the power that made the scourge of the conference a year ago, had only one player to offer who could even begin to compare with either Russell or Hodges. That was forward Roland Barker, a veteran of three previous Bear teams. Barker tried just about every shot that a basketball player ever thought about and hit on enough of them to score 25 points—a total second only to Russell's and one more than Hodges' total.

The Bears, although not as powerful as they were last year, started out strong and kept the game on an even keel for nearly two quarters. They definitely held the upper hand in a nip-and-tuck contest until midway the second period when the Pirates pulled ahead for keeps. Most on the work of Russell and Hodges, the Pirates had a 37-34 lead at halftime. They were never headed or tied in the last two quarters.

The Pirates were occasionally guilty of faulty passing and, at times, a seeming lack of interest in grabbing rebounds but they were always ready when the chips were down. The victory was their second in a row over a North State foe and put even more weight to the statement that Coach Howard Porter's team is definitely the one to watch in North State play this year.

The Greenville High basketball Phantoms, who last Friday night gained a tremendous amount of prestige by keeping pace throughout most of the game with Wilson (AAA State finalist in 1952), will still be seeking to break into the win column tomorrow night when they play host to Rocky Mount.

This is the second meeting of the two clubs this season. In the previous encounter the Blackbirds won 63-51. In that game Rocky Mount took a first quarter 18-9 lead and from that point on found themselves played to a standstill but the early margin provided victory.

The Phantoms are in the words of Coach Irv Dickens of Wilson, "Always tough to beat on their home court. They are a much improved team from the one we faced in the season's opener and I expect they are going to give other teams some trying times later in the season."

Following the Phantoms 73-67 loss last Friday night, Coach Bo Farley said, "It was a good game, we came close anyway. The boys were hitting their shots better than at anytime this season. They were a lot calmer, had more confidence."

Farley is pleased with the way the Phantoms young squad is developing. "They're coming around fine, we show improvement in every game. We've got a good group of ballplayers but they just don't have much varsity experience." Referring to the Wilson game with a broad grin the Phantom coach asked, "Did you see the way they came from behind a couple of times?"

Expected to lead the Phantoms scoring will be lanky All-Conference Smith Worthington. Leon Hardee, tall lefthanded varsity newcomer, will line up at a forward post with Worthington.

Bobby Conway, a rebound specialist, is set to go at the pivot spot. Veteran Jimmy Chatham and sturdy Dixie Hobgood will hold down the guard duties.

Bobby Starkey and George Sideris showed well in the Wilson game and may see considerable action against Rocky Mount.

Southern Cal Buckles Down For Rose Bowl

This is the first of a series of the major bowl teams.

By ALEX KAHN
United Press Sports Writer
LOS ANGELES (UP)—Southern California's aura of invincibility dispelled by Notre Dame, buckled down today with determination to restore Pacific Coast prestige in the Rose Bowl New Year's Day with a victory over Wisconsin.

Gone was Southern California's dream of its first perfect season since 1932. But the Trojans still can salvage a large measure of greatness for 1952 if it becomes the first team to whip a Big Ten representative since the start of the bowl series with the Midwest conference.

It was a bitter blow to Coach Jess Hill and his team when they fell before Notre Dame in the final game of the regular season, 9-0. The defeat did not affect Southern Cal's position as the Pacific Coast Conference team in the Rose Bowl. But it hurt Hill and his players, even though they had won nine straight games this year.

Hill's usually genial attitude was replaced by one of grimness as he worked his players for the Rose Bowl. A winning coach can't be considered "on trial" but the Notre Dame defeat revived talk of Southern Cal's sputtering offense, talk that had subsided after the Trojans' last three conference wins over Stanford, Washington and UCLA.

"We've got plenty of work out for us," Hill said, "and it's mostly on offense. It's got to click this time and if hard work will do it, we'll be ready."

The greatest team in the West on defense, Southern Cal had its defensive might matched by the Irish, who also were able to generate a scoring threat. Although Hill would not put it into so many words, Trojan followers believed that the defense would rally against Wisconsin. No team, however, has kept Wisconsin from scoring this season.

In Jim Bears Southern California fields the best all-around back seat in the West this year. He passes runs, punts and plays safety. Flanking him are Al Carmichael at wingback under the Hill single wing system, George Bozanic a blocking back and Leon Sellers a fullback.

The Trojans also have to outstand pass receivers in end Ron Miller and Tom Nickoloff. They have the material for a wide open game that mixes hard running with good passing.

'Little Mo' Is Tops In Tennis

NEW YORK (UP)—Tennis circles expected today that the ranking of Maureen (Little Mo) Connolly as the nation's No. 1 women's tennis player would receive overwhelming approval by the U. S. Lawn Tennis Association, but that the selection of Gardner Mulloy as the top men's player might be changed.

The nominations were made during the weekend by the USLTA's Ranking Committee. They must be presented to the Association's annual meeting in New York, Jan. 17, for final approval.

Miss Connolly of San Diego, Cal. has enjoyed one of the most successful years in U. S. court history, winning the coveted Wimbledon title last summer despite a painfully injured shoulder and then defending her U. S. championship at Forest Hills, N. Y. Last week she won the Victorian Singles title.

Chapter 32

The sky was dull and overcast all the next day. There was the threat of rain in the air and Clay was in a constant state of nervousness and apprehension as he watched the cloud patterns shift and change.

Morgan was not in evidence, but in the late afternoon a guard found Clay on the gallery and advised him that Morgan would like to have him dine with him in his study that evening. Glumly, Clay nodded agreement.

Strangely enough, Morgan himself was almost affable. The thick lips widened into a heavy smile of greeting as Clay came in and the pudgy hand gestured hospitably toward an easy chair before the fire.

"I am honored to have you join me this evening, Mr. Logan."

Clay felt the little prickles of distaste that he always felt in Morgan's presence ripple down his spine. It was an instinctive aversion, the repulsion of being brought into close contact with something sour and evil and unclean.

He forced himself to smile and sketched a careless gesture of dismissal. "I haven't worried about it. These things take time, and I know you weren't idle or empty-headed before. However, I'd be glad to hear that my suggestion is being favorably considered."

"Favorably, yes. Logan? Favorably?" He paused as if he were testing the exact strength and meaning of the word. "Why, yes, I think we can consider it in that light. One of my associates who that, if I were wise enough to suspect you and bring Sarazan here to identify you, am so addled and incompetent that I cannot make you speak? You can save yourself much pain, Farra, if you talk now—for you will surely talk before we are done. Tell me," his voice softened into a tone of friendly persuasion, "where is the rattle you led down from Palmentera and what hopeless plan are you trying to work out for them?"

Sarazan snarled like an animal and the lash tore his broken flesh again.

"By GGod! By God, you will talk!" Sarazan's lips were thinned back from his teeth, his eyes narrowed with fury, his whole body trembling with the excess of phrenetic madness that possessed him.

The whip rose again, but as it fell the ties of blackness rolled up and covered him, engulfing him in an unconsciousness that soaked into his very bones. His head fell forward on his chest and his body hung inert and motionless under the flame of the coiling whip.

"A hard man," he said musingly. "Take him away Sarazan. Take him away and have him guarded until he is conscious again. There is nothing to be gained by killing him now, but we will try again and he will be a little weaker, a little more ready to talk to us. Take him away now. Tomorrow will be time enough to discuss the matter with him again."

He awoke to blackness and to a convulsive torment of agony. The molten lava of flaming anguish possessed him like a demon, undurably raging through his flesh and through his brain. He groaned and closed his eyes, feeling the pain surge through him like a great river flowing on forever. He was beginning to remember now. Morgan, an then Sarazan. The regiment, waiting somewhere outside in the darkness. Waiting for the signal that would bring them storm-

Grandma Helps Christmas Needy

DENVER (AP)—For the 36th time "Grandma" Parton is doing her annual stint of standing on a street corner with her Salvation Army kettle and soliciting coins to help provide a happy Christmas for Denver's needy.

Mrs. Nancy Parton, 74, firmly believes people are becoming more generous and have less rancor in their hearts. Last year was her best season. "I feel that I'm just a small cog in a big machine which is grinding out good for the world. That's why I really enjoy ringing the bell every year," she said.

She has reared nine children and now has 28 grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren.

Japanese Farmer's Christmas Needy

HONG KONG (AP)—Two century-old cannon that defended this British Crown colony in the days of Queen Victoria, have been found in a tangle of jungle on hills overlooking this city.

An artillery officer said the guns, weighing a ton apiece, must have been from some British man-of-war and no doubt were the pride of early Hong Kong defenders. The dates stamped on the cannon showed they were made in 1835.

Rhine-Danube Canal To Link-Up Nine Countries

BONN, Germany (U.P.)—Work is well underway on a canal system to link the Rhine and Danube rivers, creating a waterway stretching across Europe from the North Sea to the Black Sea.

If the World Bank or some other international financing group would put up $100,000,000, the canal could be opened to traffic by 1960. But if no foreign money is provided, it may not be finished until 1982.

Nine Countries

When completed, ships can start from Rotterdam, go up the Rhine through the Ruhr, past Cologne, Bonn, Coblenz and Mainz, turn into the Main past Frankfurt, Aschaffenburg, Wuertzburg, Bamberg and Nuernberg, then on to Passau, from there downstream on the Danube past Linz, Vienna, Bratislava, Budapest, Belgrade, within hailing distance of Bucharest, past Galati and out into the Black Sea at Sullina, a trip of 2,000 miles.

En route, ships would visit nine different nations—Holland, Germany, Austria, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Yugoslavia, Bulgaria, Romania and Russia—provided, of course, that by the time the canal is finished the Iron Curtain has been raised and such a trip is possible.

Such a waterway would save Germany and Austria $36,000,000 a year in shipping costs, according to an estimate recently made by Alexander Pohl, member of the executive of the Danube-European Institute in Vienna. He has asked the World Bank to loan the International Rhine-Main-Danube Corporation $100,000,000 to finish the canal link across Bavaria.

It would, for one thing, provide a cheap waterway from the coal mines and steel mills of the Ruhr fronting on the Rhine right to the industrial centers all along the Danube is need of those very materials. Oil-rich Romania could ship its "black gold" back to Germany, which has no oilfields.

The project was started before World War II, but was abandoned after the Nazis came to power and the Third Reich began building the great four-lane autobahns. Work has been renewed since the war, however, and is now completed to Wuertzburg, while construction is underway all along the Main as far as Bamberg.

Others Should Help

Transportation Minister Hans Christoph Seebohm of western Germany said in Frankfurt recently that the federal government can put up but $2,620,000 a year, while Bavaria can provide only $1,600,000 annually.

Seebohm added that since this really is an European project, he hoped other continental states would see their way to putting up some funds, too.

France is planning a similar canal, to extend the navigable Rhone from Lyon to Lake Geneva, which would thus make Marseilles the greatest port on the Mediterranean.

A group of industrialist in the Brunswick area of north-central Germany has proposed that a canal be built from that city north to Lauenburg, emptying into the Elbe and the Trave canal, thus giving inland Brunswick a water link with the great seaports of Hamburg and Lubeck. Federal German authorities have shown little sympathy for this proposal, however, since it would run parallel to and only a half dozen miles from the Soviet zone frontier.

Modern sailors often use "boat" to mean a vessel which can be hoisted to the deck of a "ship" and "ship" to mean any vessel which cannot be so hoisted, but in former times the term "ship" was often used to mean a vessel which was "ship-rigged", that is square-rigged.

The old Norse ships had steering oars only on the right side near the stern and the term "starboard" (steerside) is believed to have derived from that fact.

High School Offers Christmas Program

Greenville High School's annual Christmas program was presented yesterday afternoon at the school in the form of musical and dramatic entertainment.

Varying somewhat from custom, the annual program this year was presented jointly by the music and dramatics departments of the school. In the past the annual program was the presentation of the "Messiah".

The program opened with the Mixed Chorus singing "Joy" by Borchers and then the Band Quartet played "O Little Town of Bethlehem" by Brooks and "God Rest Ye Merry Gentlemen". The quartets were made up of Sammy Worthington, Donald McArthur, Roger Averette, Jimmy Hendrix, Bruce Baker, Billy Adams, Tommy Smith, and Mickey West.

Following the singing of "Silent Night" by the Mixed Chorus, the dramatics presented a one act play, "A Sign Unto You", by Jean Lee.

The drama was a religious Christmas story centered around the moral of thinking about and helping the poor at Christmastime. The scene was set in the living-room of a fashionable home in the suburb of New York.

The case included Ken MacArthur, Nancy Howell, Jane Robinson, Agnes Markham, Harry Lee Roberts, and Ray Ippock. The technical staff was made up of Anwer Joseph, Jr., student director, Jo Ann Hales, Bob Harrington, Larry Briley, Evelyn McRoy, Kathleen Manning, Lou Winstead, Donna Jo Tabar, Bobby Perry, Claudette Edge, and Billy Briley.

The program closed with the Mixed Chorus singing the Benediction.

The Mixed Chorus was under the direction of Ona Shindler and the band quartets under the direction of James Rodgers. The program was arranged by Ward James and Donna Jo Tabar.

Confuse Graham And Billy Sunday

PUSAN, Korea (AP)—Evangelist Billy Graham visited orphans and war widows today.

The Korea Times, an English language newspaper, carried a front-page story that began:

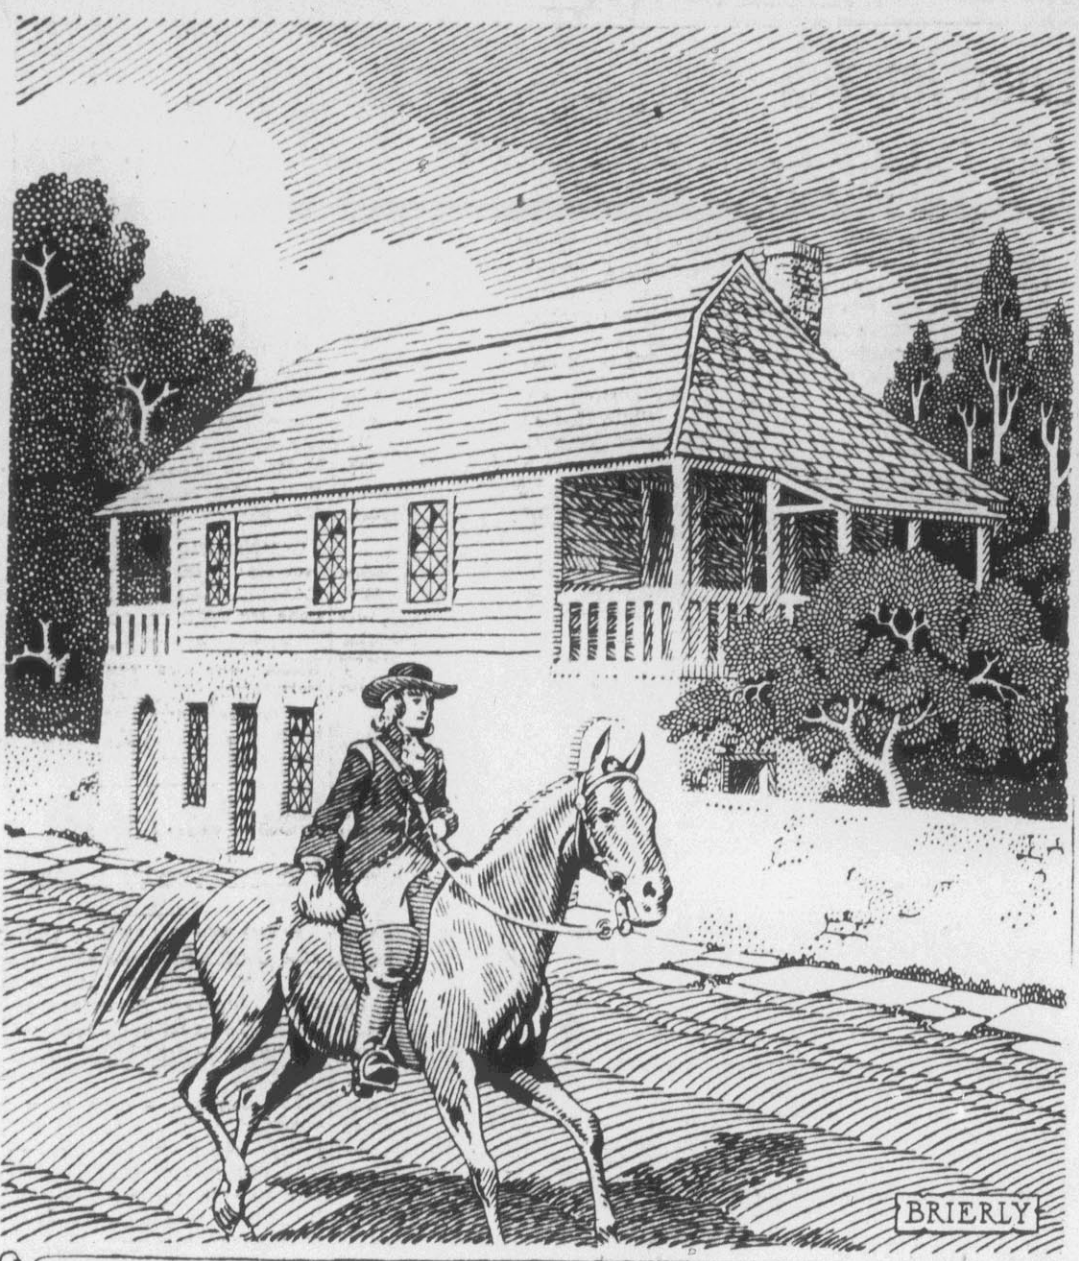

"The Rev. Billy Graham (Charlotte, N.C.), the famous American evangelist known as Billy Sunday was a picturesque Evangelist of some 40 years ago.

Graham planned his first appearance before a Korean crowd tonight in an open-air park in the center of U.S. service personnel into a movie theater last night.

He attended a war briefing this morning at the invitation of Brig. Gen. Edward H. Lastayo, chief of the Korean Base Section. Later Graham attended the funeral of a South Korean Christian leader.

Graham had lunch at the Presbyterian Mission. This afternoon, he visited the "Tabitha House For War Widows and Children" Christians support the house, inhabited mostly by widows of Korean ministers killed or executed in the Korean conflict.

1571. GERONIMO ALVAREZ HOUSE, St. Augustine, Florida

AP Newsfeatures THIS ANCIENT BUILDING, standing in St. Francis St., St. Augustine, Fla., is said to be the oldest house in the United States. According to an old map, drawn by one of Sir Francis Drake's invaders, in 1586, this house was one of a cluster of buildings, standing on the present site. A historian of a later date mentions seeing a sign, bearing the date 1571. St. Geronimo Alvarez, at one time owned the property. It is now the home of the St. Augustine Historical Society. Adjoining it is a garden and the museum contains a collection of ancient arms, armor, rare porcelains and other objects of historic interest, in addition to a collection of rare books.

Women In The Church

By Mary Fowler

If Miss Ruth Miller has her way there will be cherry trees from Japan blossoming on many American college campuses for many springs to come. Miss Miller, who directs the appeal for scholarships through the Japan International Christian University Foundation (44 East 23rd St., New York City), has arranged to import a cherry tree and have it planted on the campus of any college or university where students contribute $250 or more toward the JICU scholarship fund. "Such a tree," says Miss Miller, "will be a lasting and growing remembrance of genuine friendship between the young people of America and the young people of Japan."

An American "husband and wife team," well-known in ecclesiastical, educational and service circles, Dr. and Mrs. Douglas Horton of New York City, are on an extended visit in the South Pacific and Asia. They will visit missions and take part in church and educational conferences in India, Hawaii, Australia, New Zealand, and Egypt. Dr. Horton is minister of the General Council of Congregational Christian Churches in America and moderator of the International Congregational Council. Mrs. Horton, former Mildred McAfee, was one of the youngest presidents of Wellesley College when she married Dr. Horton in 1949. As World War II director of the WAVES, she was the first woman ever commissioned by the U.S. Navy. Mrs. Horton is vice president at-large of the National Council of Churches.

U.S. Luxury Is Surprise To Him

DALLAS (AP)—The luxury of American living as expressed by the numbers of automobiles, television sets, individual private homes and modern appliances in use by all income groups has surprised a visiting German newspaper editor.

Horst Altmann, 30, of Kiel, Germany, is studying social and living conditions in the United States under a State Department program.

"The immense number of cars crowding your streets could not be imagined by the European," he said.

During the Middle Ages it was customary to kneel on both knees to worship God and on one knee to do homage to a human lord.

In Gratitude . . .

To our friends, the citizens of Greenville, for their unstinted cooperation and help, and their many genuine expressions of sympathy as well as offers to lend assistance during these days when our souls have been so sorely tried by the loss of our beloved school through fire, we, the members of St. Peter's Parish and their pastor, Father Gable, plan to erect a suitable marker in the new St. Raphael School when its is completed, which marker will remain as a symbol of the true spirit of Christian charity that dwells in the hearts of the members of our community.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Arrangements have been completed to permit us to announce the re-opening of St. Raphael School on Friday, January 2. Classes will be arranged so as to include the prescribed number of school days required by the State Board of Education and the Board of Trustees of the Catholic University of America, with which institution St. Raphael School is affiliated.

Wilson Man New Head Of Scout Council For Area

Penn T. Watson, Wilson business leader, was elected president of East Carolina Council, Boy Scouts of America, at the annual business session at East Carolina College last week.

Vice-presidents chosen for next year are: W.C. Chadwick of New Bern, the retiring president; Dr. John D. Messick, Greenville, second vice-president, and area vice-presidents Ray Bandy, Rocky Mount; Willis Brothers, New Bern; J.B. Kittrell, Greenville; K.P. Lindsley, Williamston; R.V. Massey, Ahsoskie, and Herbert Harris of Wilson.

Bruce W. Riley of Wilson was re-elected council treasurer and Tom Newbold of Rocky Mount was again named to serve as scout commissioner.

Representatives to the National Council are Joe E. Eagles of Crisp; J.B. Kittrell, Greenville; Colon McLean, Washington; W.C. Chadwick, New Bern; Dr. E.F. Menius, New Bern; John H. Hines, Panoke Rapids; D.M. Sawyer, Columbia, and Dr. M.O. Fletcher of Washington.

These men will plan to attend the National Council meeting in California in 1953, which is to be held in conjunction with the National Boy Scout Jamboree for the anticipated 50,000 Boy Scouts and leaders from the United States, its possessions and most of the countries of the world.

The following district chairmen were elected to membership on the Executive Board of the Council: Roland Modlin of Washington, Dr. Darden Eure, Morehead City; P.H. Crawford, Kinston; R.T. Morris, New Bern; Leslie Tucker, Tarboro; John H. Hines, Roanoke Rapids; G.W. Settle, Nashville; Howard J. Quinn, Jacksonville; Ernell Webb, Greenville; R. W. Stephenson, Pendleton; John Scott, Rocky Mount; V.B. Hairr, Jamesville, and H.D. Kennedy of Wilson.

Special recognition was given Dr. John D. Messick, president of East Carolina College, for courtesies to Boy Scout organizations.

Joe Eagles, of Crisp, reported for the trust fund committee of East Carolina Council. The committee recommended establishment of a trust fund for immediate development and the group adopted the plan. Eagles announced that the first contribution to the college trust fund was made by Herbert S. Key, former Scout Executive in East Carolina Council, and currently deputy regional scout executive for North Carolina. Stuckey will retire from active duty December 31.

Regional Deputy Stuckey called Penn T. Watson, retiring president of East Carolina Council, to the front and presented him a diamond studded universal scout lapel pin for outstanding service to Boy

Latest Jets Will Join Celebration

KILL DEVIL HILLS, N. C. (UP)—Sabre jets will soar across the sand dunes here at a greater speed than sound Wednesday to celebrate a flight made at slightly more than one mile per hour.

The flight being commemorated was a triumphant jaunt aloft by Wilbur and Orville Wright with a motored, heavier-than-air craft on Dec. 17, 1903.

The Air Force jets will break the sonic barrier as they zip, above Kill Devil Hills in a ceremony signaling a golden anniversary of aviation.

Forty-nine years ago next Wednesday the Wright brothers, in man's first conquest of the air by a successful powered take-off, piloted their crude forerunner of the modern plane on four short hops.

On the fourth and longest flight Wilbur piloted their plane 852 feet in 59 seconds — a speed of scant fractions more than ten miles per hour. The jets will fly well above 700 miles per hour.

Speakers at a ceremony will be Arthur Kelly, president of the Air Force Association, and Igor Sikorsky, inventor of the helicopter. Kelly will read a message from Maj. Gen. James A. Doolittle, who with President Truman is scheduled to address a Wright Memorial Dinner in Washington Wednesday night.

Record Crowds At N. C. Parks

RALEIGH (AP)—Record breaking crowds visited North Carolina's 16 state parks during 1952, according to Parks Supt. Thomas W. Morse.

Morse estimated in a year-end report that approximately 1,310,000 persons will have visited the parks by the end of this year. During the two-year period ending last June 30, total attendance at the parks was 2,430,141, compared with 1,639,839 for the preceding two-year period, an increase of 49 per cent.

The population of Britain includes 26 million females, over 1 1/2 million males, more than the number of males.

Eisenhower Inherits Fleet Of Automobiles

WASHINGTON (UP)—President-elect Eisenhower will inherit a fleet of about 30 cars — and a delicate problem in industrial diplomacy — when he moves into the White House next month.

By custom, all cars assigned to the White House, from the big bullet-proof limousines used by the President to the modest sedans provided for his staff, are leased rather than owned by the government.

There has been an intense competition among various auto companies for the prestige of furnishing the White House motor fleet, even though the company which gets the contract is forbidden to advertise the fact.

The competition is so brisk that the government wants a real bargain on the White House cars. Current rates run from about $50 a year for the smaller cars to about $500 for the largest limousines with gold-plated trim. This includes free servicing.

All present-day cars are Lincolns, Fords or Mercurys except for two Packards left over from the 1940's. Time was when the White House used Cadillacs and other cars of the General Motors line.

During the 1948 political campaign, however, President Truman

Southern Bell Rate Hearing To Resume Tomorrow

RALEIGH (AP)—The State Utilities Commission is slated to resume a hearing here tomorrow on Southern Bell Telephone Co.'s request for a rate increase of $3,426,600 a year.

The commission recessed the hearing Oct. 29 after the company presented testimony in support of its case. At tomorrow's session the public will begin presenting its arguments and cross-examining the company witnesses.

U.S. Gov. H. F. Taylor, appearing as counsel for Southern Bell, told the commission in October the rate increase is needed to earn the company a fair return on its investment. He said that in spite of increases granted by the commission, Southern Bell's rate of return has averaged only 4.8 per cent "instead of reaching the desired and intended 6 or 6 1/2 per cent level."

The commission has granted the company five rate boosts since the end of World War II.

Flight Unsettled Baby's Schedule

NEW YORK (AP)—Because 20-month-old Tessa Lowe, born in Switzerland of American parents, had never seen the United States, her parents simply tied her ticket and passport to her coat and shipped her off alone to Brooklyn via a Swissair plane.

The child took the trip in stride but complications set in after she reached the Brooklyn home of her grandparents. Because of the six-hour time differential, the first few days Tessa slept most of the day, then was wide awake and ready to romp at 3 a.m.

The child's father, David Lowe, works for an American advertising firm in Switzerland.

West Germans In Competition

TOKYO (AP)—Japan's chief competitor in export trade to Southeast Asia is West Germany, according to the business newspaper Nihon Keizai.

The economic journal noted West Germany exported $118,559,000 worth of goods to the Southeast Asia area during the 1952 January-August period compared to $164,667,000 from Japan in the same period.

According to government statistics, Indonesia was Japan's best customer, importing $47,298,000. India was West Germany's top customer with imports totaling $36,471,000.

It is estimated there are now 21 million bicyclists in the United States.

Steel Output Soaring Sustained Demand Has

CLEVELAND, O. (UP)—A "surprisingly sustained demand" in the steel industry has resulted in over-loaded order books going into the second quarter of 1953, Steel Magazine said today.

In spite of unprecedented production, the industry trade journal said, demand continued high for almost all products. The defense output remains high, and coupled with greater demand for civilian goods, assured a continuous tight supply market through the first quarter of next year.

What little open tonnage is available during first quarter, Steel said, will probably be diverted to high-rated military and defense projects.

The winter outlook is good, Steel said, both ore-wise and for available scrap. Lake shippers managed to come within only 89,000 tons of their goal of 75,000,000 tons of ore during the shortened season, and Steel said scrap supplies are considered "ample" to carry mills through the winter.

Production last week slumped to 105 per cent of rated capacity, the lowest level since mid-October. It was a 1-2 point drop from the preceding week.

Operations dipped 1-2 point to 106 per cent of capacity in Birmingham, 1-2 to 100 in Wheeling, two points to 90 per cent in New England, 1.5 to 106.5 in Cleveland, 1.5 to 104.5 in Pittsburgh and three points to 96 per cent of capacity in St. Louis.

The rate increased two points to 108 per cent in Detroit, but no changes were noted in Youngstown at 106, the Far West at 105 per cent, Cincinnati at 93 and the mid-Atlantic district at 101 per cent.

Family Keeps His Christmas Tree

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (UP)—The branches are brown and brittle and the ornaments a little dusty, but the Christmas tree that was decorated in 1950 still waits for a Marine who will never come home.

"I've been delayed, but save my Christmas for me," Cpl. Richard Lopez wrote in a letter to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Salvador Lopez, in December of 1950.

A short time before he had written that he was coming home for good after six years in a Marine Corps.

His father bought a tree and his younger brothers and sisters trimmed it.

Then came the letter from Richard saying he would be delayed because the Chinese Reds had entered the Korean war. "But save my Christmas for me," he wrote.

Following long weeks of waiting came the word the Marines had been trapped at the Chosin Reservoir. But this was followed by word that Richard had escaped and was coming home.

The Lopez family had to move to another house, but the tree was moved so carefully that not an ornament was damaged.

More weeks of waiting followed and then came a telegram from Washington. Richard was drowned at Kobe, Japan, July 15, 1951.

The lights are turned on once again this year on that special tree for Richard and if the tree holds up they'll be on again next Christmas.

"I told him I'd save his Christmas for him," his mother said.

Children Of Two Condemned Spies Don't Know Fate

SING SING PRISON, N. Y. (UP)—A prison attaché said today that the two young boys occasionally seen playing in the corridors believe Sing Sing Prison is a hospital.

The youthful visitors are the sons of atom spies Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, doomed to die in the electric chair Jan. 15 for stealing atomic secrets and giving them to Russia during World War II.

The prison official said the Rosenberg children, Michael, 5, and Robert, 9, think their parents are receiving medical treatment here. They have not been told they will become orphans if the Rosenbergs fail to win an appeal or receive presidential clemency.

Relatives of the Rosenbergs bring the children to see their parents, the official said.

Roof Falls In On Garage-Keeper

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)—When the roof fell in, Harry P. Woodward saved himself by ducking into a coal chute.

Woodward had heard creaking sounds in his two-story garage one night recently and hurriedly drove 20 vehicles from the building. Then he returned to the basement — stroke the furnace when the roof caved in and a rear brick wall tumbled.

It has been estimated that there are 4 1/2 million cubic miles of salt in the ocean.

RALEIGH (AP)—Gov. Scott was in Washington today on business. He planned to attend a ceremony marking the enshrinement of the Declaration of Independence, Constitution and Bill of Rights in the National Archives Building.

The governor has two meetings on his schedule this week. Wednesday at 11 a.m., he is slated to meet here with the Advisory Budget Commission, which is putting finishing touches on the budget recommendations it will present to the 1953 Legislature.

Burma Is Offered Thailand Help

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP)—Thailand has agreed to help Burma rebuild its capital and other towns seriously damaged by aerial bombs and shells in the last war.

The Burma government had asked Thai government assistance in providing skilled labor to manufacture bricks and tiles and reconstruct ruined buildings. The Burmese government said there was a shortage of such labor in Burma.

Cities In Defense Areas Have Financial Troubles

CHICAGO (U.P.)—American cities in defense project areas are facing severe financial difficulties, despite federal assistance, according to the American Municipal Association.

Carl H. Chatters, executive director of the association, said many cities in these areas are having trouble in providing adequate municipal services.

"At the municipal level there is universal groaning under the pressure of higher prices on wages from below, and the unyielding weight of the inflexible revenue structure above," he said.

Sudden Population Rise

In the few communities most affected by large-scale military installations or new atomic energy plants, the effects are "cataclysmic," he added.

He cited the plight of Augusta, Ga., which along with Aiken and North Augusta, S.C., is feeling the impact of the Atomic Energy Commission's Savannah River hydrogen bomb project.

The area has had to absorb 40,000 construction workers and their dependents.

The mayor of Augusta reported recently that the city needs $5-

250,000 to expand water and sewer facilities. But the city's maximum bonding ability for these purposes is only $3,000,000.

The city also needs $200,000 for capital expenditures on a jail and traffic control system, 20 additional policemen with new equipment, and a new fire station with two new pumps.

Costs Rise

Chatters said city building programs have been slowed by the defense effort. Many cities have been hamstrung, he said, by shortages of certain materials.

Denver, Colo., planned an off-street parking project in 1950, and while waiting for two years for materials to become available, the city has seen the cost of the project rise 25 per cent.

Los Angeles reported that its construction costs have increased 28 per cent in the past two years, while in Detroit they have risen 16.7 per cent.

Milwaukee, engaged in revising its permanent improvement program developed in 1950, finds that estimated costs of individual projects have risen from 10 to 25 per cent.

Filipinos To Observe American-Style Yule

MANILA (U.P.)—Filipinos, young and old alike, observe Christmas as one of their happiest holidays. When the long summer begins to end with the approach of December, Filipinos are often heard to say they already can "smell" Christmas. They mean that the Christmas spirit already is in the atmosphere. It is.

This is especially the case when the "simbang gabi" (church-going at night) begins. There are nine of these night (actually early morning) masses, the last and most mass of Dec. 24-25.

This mass is the climax of the religious side of Christmas observance. Church bells ring throughout the land, proclaiming the birth of Christ, and the faithful forego sleep and flock to churches.

Christmas Trees

A Christian people since the 16th century, and predominantly Catholic, the Filipinos stick to time-honored traditions in Christmas observance. Besides the "simbang gabi," there is the "belen," which may be found displayed in many homes. This is a tableau depicting the birth of the Saviour in Bethlehem.

Many households also have Christmas trees, which became fashionable after the coming of the Americans at the turn of the century. Christmas trees are especially popular in Manila and Baguio, the summer capital where most of the trees pine branches come from. Christmas trees are decorated in the American style.

During the "simbang gabi" season, bands go around the town playing loud tunes to wake the people for mass. After mass, church-goers repair to adjoining public squares where "give" give cakes cooking over charcoal fires. The cakes are chased down with tea or brew made of water, sugar and ginger.

Children Get Money

Christmas is not only an occasion for gift-giving but family reunions. In the case of children, and many adults as well, Christmas means nice clothes, lots of good food, and all kinds of presents.

Even the humblest families manage to have more than the usual amount of food at Christmas time. Ham, cheese, grapes and other delicacies not usually on the table of the modest family are a must on Christmas.

Children especially enjoy Christmas because it is the one day they have lots of pocket money. They call on their padrinos (godfathers at baptism or at confirmation) and close relatives, who give them gifts, including cash.

Girls More Apt To Nab Husband In Yule Holidays

By ELIZABETH TOOMEY
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK (U.P.)—Girls are more likely to catch husbands during Christmas holidays than at any other season, according to engagement ring statistics.

Something about Christmas bells and Yuletide spirit mellows male suitors more effectively than a June moon. With Leap Year drawing to a close, the rush at ring factories should hearten the most discouraged bachelor girl.

December is the heaviest ring buying season, a jeweler's survey reported, with June and May running second and third in ring buying business.

Besides cheering single girls, one look at the thousands of engagement and wedding rings given their final polishing daily in a ring factory should convince reluctant bachelors that resistance is futile. So many girls are about to be successful in getting their men.

At one work table in the largest engagement and wedding ring company a wavy-haired craftsman does nothing all day but engrave names, dates and loving inscriptions inside wedding bands. He takes an unromantic view of his work, since the more sentimental engaged couples get the harder they make his job.

"I've put as many as 35 words inside one little wedding band," sighed Charlie Carlen, an engraver for J. R. Wood and Sons, Inc. for more than 25 years. "I believe folks get more romantic about it all the time. Especially now that women give men wedding rings too. Women are the ones who like the long messages."

Once the man seals the engagement with a ring, modern brides like to seal the wedding vows with a band on his third finger, left hand. World War II started the trend for men's wedding rings and the Korean war seemed to give brides an even more vivid reminder that husbands stray far from the hearth in modern society.

"Now 90 per cent of the wedding rings we sell are matching sets for men and women," explained W. Waters Schwab, president of the Wood company. "That's higher than any time during World War II. Only a little more than 10 years ago just 15 per cent of our sales included men's rings."

Baton Twirling Pays For Co-ed

BEREA, O. (U.P.)—Shari McKim a freshman at Baldwin-Wallace College, does well financially even before graduating.

The pert, Yaxen-haired 18-year-old, now studying secretarial science, employs a bookkeeper to handle her financial affairs.

The lucrative activity which engages Miss McKim is baton-twirling.

Beside twirling for the B-W band, Miss McKim teaches 120 pupils a week in this part of the country, flying to most of the lessons to save time. Her proficiency is such that she is also kept on the run competing for some new honor in the activity which has already brought her 55 medals and 20 trophies, including a fourth place in an international contest.

In all her twirling career, which began in her mid-teens and includes swords, flaming batons and flags, she reports only one mishap.

"Only once did a baton skip out of my hand and come down on my head," she recalls. "It knocked me cold."

One of the major problems confronting Miss McKim is keeping up her weight. She figures she has lost 15 pounds since the football season began, despite the fact that "I eat like crazy."

Stocks And Market Reports

NEW YORK (UP)—Ralls and oils led stocks to new highs for more than 21 years on increased volume today.

The industrial average at the end of the first hour set a new high since April 25, 1930; rail, since Feb. 27, 1931, and utility, since Sept. 11, 1931. Sales for the first hour were the best since Dec. 1 at 470,000 shares, compared with 360,000 in the first hour Friday.

Net gains ranged to more than a point in Union Pacific, Denver & Rio Grande Western preferred, Missouri Pacific preferred, and Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis. Adian Coast Line was up 3/4 at 120 1/2 at its high. It dipped a point from that level. Allegheny Corp. issues set new highs with the preferred up 1/2 points. The common led the market in turnover.

HIS FOURTH WIFE

LONDON (UP)—Eighty-year-old philosopher Bertrand Russell took as his fourth wife today Miss Edith Finch, 52, an American who until recently was a professor of English at Bryn Mawr College in Pennsylvania.

Allied Prison . . .

guards were forced to use their weapons to prevent the entire mass from breaking out.

Because of the steepness of the terrace, the U.N. guards were unable to use their usually effective mass control weapons, such as concussion grenades and tear gas.

Furthermore, the wind was blowing laterally across the hill, making the use of tear gas impracticable.

The U.N. said the guards quelled the mutiny and now maintain "uncontested control of the situation."

Plans for a mass breakout were intercepted recently and U.N. guards had been warned to be on the alert for any disorders.

Traffic Mishaps Lead Week-End Police Inquiries

TRAFFIC (34) P

Greenville police spent a fairly busy week-end with a number of traffic accidents of a minor nature and routine arrests being the main items of business.

A total of 9 arrests were made, including arrests for speeding, vagrancy, public drunkenness, assault and traffic violations.

No break-ins were reported to the police department over the week-end period.

One case of robbery was reported, that coming from James Smith, 1615 Woodland Drive. He reported someone stole a tire and wheel from his car. Investigation is being made by detective division.

Six traffic accidents, in which no one was injured and only moderate damage resulted, was the big item handled by the department.

Several of the accidents involved cars which were parked and were struck by passing vehicles with only moderate damage.

A car driven by Mrs. Martha G. Jorgensen, of 505 East 8th Street, Greenville, was struck in the rear by a one and one-half ton truck owned by the Home Builder Supply Company, driver by Alex Darden, 29, of 421 Bonners Lane.

The accident which occurred at Fifth and Elizabeth street, resulted in Darden being charged with hit and run driving. Damage to the car was estimated at only $25 and none to the truck.

A car driven by Christine E. Smith of 203 Summit Street collided with a parked truck at Second and Evans street around two o'clock Saturday afternoon.

Only slight damage resulted. No arrest was made.

A car and truck were in a collision at Fifth Street and Cotanche around eight o'clock Saturday with slight damage and no injuries.

A car operated by Mildred H. Huff, 44, of 309 Pitt Street, hit a truck driven by Coy L. Peaden, 38, of Greenville Route 2.

No arrest was made.

Cars driven by Arthur L. Corey, 18, of Route 2, Greenville, and a car operated by Elbert Moye, wrecked at Dickinson and Pitt Street.

Moye's car was parked at the time it was struck. No arrest.

Alex Darden, Jr. of 421 Bonners Lane was arrested on a charge of hit-and-run driving as the result of an accident at Evans and 14th Street around 6:27.

The warrant was sworn to by Billie Ray Smith of 1304 Cotanche Street.

Jessie Stator, 38, was arrested for failure to yield the right of way after his car collided with a vehicle driven by James A. Walker of Greenville.

Funeral Held Today For William Smith

Clinton—Funeral services for William C. Smith, 75, who died at his home in Ingold Sunday morning were held at the Ingold Methodist Church at 3 p. m. today.

Rev. M. W. Warren of Kingsdale, a former pastor, officiated. Burial was in the Ingold cemetery.

Rev. M. M. Turner, pastor of the Ingold Baptist Church, assisted in the services.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Hagar Lynch Smith; four sons, Alton P. Smith of Bradenton, Fla.; E. D. W. C. Jr. and Lawrence Smith, all of Ingold; four daughters, Mrs. R. A. Britt of Raleigh, Mrs. D. D. Beasley of Winterville, Mrs. R. L. Percy Dalton of Fair Bluff, N. C.; four sisters, Mrs. W. S. Smith, Mrs. Johnnie Talton and Mrs. Robert Hill of Smithfield and Mrs. J. C. Whitely of Florence, S. C. Three brothers, H. C. Smith of Clinton, E. L. Smith of Smithfield and R. D. Smith of Ingold, also survive.

Eisenhower . . .

He said, too, that what he could report publicly was "naturally limited" because of security reasons and because he is not yet President, even though the Electoral College went through the formality of electing him today.

"Until I assume the office of President it would be wrong for me to pretend to speak with the authority attaching to that office," he said. "Moreover, as we all know, certain aspects of battle problems cannot ever be discussed publicly."

But Eisenhower noted publicly three observations of his trip. "First the training of ROK (Republic of Korea) forces can and should be expanded and speeded. This is my opinion and the unanimous opinion of the commanders on the scene."

"Second, in the strictly military sphere certain problems of supply 'architects of aggression' that it would be folly to start other Koreans. 'I believe that if we think clearly enough, plan carefully and have reached rational serious proportions and require early correction."

"Finally, we must all recognize—in all our thinking and our planning—that the Korean war is by the most dramatic and most painful phase, for us at this moment of our world-wide struggle against Communist aggression."

He said that by persuading the
