General Van Fleet 'Disappointed' By Lost Opportunities

Decisions From Higher Up Prevented Closing With Enemy For Decisive Battles; Confident Offensive Can Succeed

EDITORS Note: The first time Associated Press War Correspondent John Randolph saw Gen. James A. Van Fleet, "Big Jim" had just taken over command of the U.S. Eighth Army. They met in the U.S. 3rd Division's sector in North Korea in mid-April, 1951. About a week later Communist hordes struck and the Third fell back into South Korea. During the pullback Randolph ran four times across a bullet — swept field, evacuating wounded. Later Van Fleet pinned the Silver Star on Randolphh's shirt for that action. They got to know each other well. "Big Jim" is leaving Korea tomorrow. But just before he turned over his command he gave Randolph the following farewell story.

By JOHN RANDOLPH

SEOUL (AP)—Gen. James A. Van Fleet said today a United Nations general offensive in Korea now would be a certain success.

On the eve of his farewell to the Eighth Army, the 60-year-old retiring commander again expressed belief in carrying the war to the Reds, said the U.N. lost opportunities for whipping the Communists, and called for a million-man Republic of Korea Army with 20 combat divisions.

Van Fleet made the statements in answering questions asked by The Associated Press as he prepared to turn over his command tomorrow to Lt. Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor and leave Korea for the first time since he arrived 22 months ago.

To the question "Do you think a general offensive in Korea can be successful at this time?" Van Fleet replied with only one word: "Certainly."

In other answers he said the Allies lost two chances for victory in Korea, disclosed his own most heart-shaking decisions as commanding general, and gave what he feels are the two greatest achievements of the Eighth Army under his leadership.

He included a glowing tribute to the "anti-Communist patriotism and loyalty" of the ROK soldiers, whom he transformed from disorganized, frightened bands into 14 hard-hitting modern divisions. In the absence of the victorious offensive he never led, the reshaping of this ROK Army will probably be Van Fleet's monument in Korea.

Authoritative sources say that for more than a year Van Fleet has not been able to launch a single battalion attack without consent from the Far East Command in Tokyo-and that Van Fleet himself was heart-sick when U.N. and U.S. decisions twice held him back from closing with the Reds for decisive, climatic battle in 1951.

Although Van Fleet followed his orders to the letter, it was never any secret at Eighth Army headquarters that "Big Jim" had only one solution for ending the Korean War. That was a stunning, crushing offensive that would smash the Communist army in a great field battle.

Failing permission for an all-out fight, Van Fleet was left for nearly 20 months of his 22-month command with only the hope that the Communists themselves would venture to attack once again and expose themselves to an end-the-war defeat.

Caged Peoples

BONN, Germany (AP)—The Russians and their East German Communist satellites are building what may prove to be the longest fence in the world.

Their purpose is to cage in the 17 million people of the Russian Zone of Germany, fencing them off from the free West.

British authorities here reported today that East German police already have strung over 30 miles of 10-feet-high barbed wire fence along the border between the Russian and British zones.

Another stretch has been built farther south between Soviet and American zones.

It is believed that eventually the fence will stretch the full 600 miles of East Germany's western border, from the Baltic to Czechoslovakia.

Young Jet Ace Is Home To Rest

ANDREWS, S. C. (UP)—A handsome young jet pilot relaxed today and planned "to catch up on a lot of fishing with dad", far from the Korean skies in which he gained fame by becoming an ace faster than any American pilot in history.

Capt. Dolphin D. Overton III, who shot down five Communist MIG-15s in four days while flying his F-86 Sabre jet named "Dolphin's Devil", arrived home from the war yesterday and was greeted by a cheering throng of neighbors in this little eastern South Carolina town.

An old buddy and fellow Korean air ace, Capt. Ivan Inchloe, was also on hand to greet Overton. Kinchloe is from Illinois.

"My immediate plans," the 25-year-old captain said, "are to catch up on a lot of fishing with dad. Other than that, I don't know what I'll do."

Dad is D. D. Overton Jr., well-to-do tobacco manufacturer.

And with a twinkle in his eye, the young pilot added, "I'm looking forward to having my portrait painted by sis. I hear she's pretty good."

His sister, Miss Monica Dale Overton, 24, is tall, blonde, beautiful, and quite an accomplished professional portrait painter.

A motorcade of Andrews residents met the young hero when he arrived at the Charleston Municipal Airport yesterday, and he was escorted the 60 miles to Andrews where the motorcade paraded through the streets.

Last night, he was guest of honor at a reception at the American Legion hut here. Thursday night he will be honored with a banquet.

Begin Inquiry On Red Infiltration Of U.S. Schools

Hearings Launched On Alleged Red Influence Among New York Teachers

WASHINGTON (UP)— The Senate Internal Security subcommittee launched a nationwide investigation of Communist penetration of U. S. schools today with hearings on alleged Red influences among New York teachers.

Chairman William E. Jenner (R—Ind.) thus stole a march on the House un-American Activities Committee which had hoped it might take the lead in the controversial inquiry.

Jenner said "several" teachers from "eastern schools and colleges" were summoned to appear at the opening session at 10:30 a.m. e.s.t.). It was learned these are faculty members of New York schools who testified secretly before the committee Monday.

The House committee announced more than two weeks ago that it would open its investigation into Communist infiltration of education in mid-February.

But Jenner emphasized that his subcommittee was merely picking up where it left off in New York last fall when it was headed by Sen. Pat McCarran D—Nev.).

He said its investigation would not conflict with the work of the House committee. The Senate subcommittee will put the accent on "organized subversion," while Chairman Harold H. Velde (R—Ill.) said the un-American Affairs Committee will concentrate on "individuals" suspected of subversion.

High GOP leaders have sought to avoid clashing jurisdictions for fear the investigations would get "out of hand" and embarrass the new Republican administration.

The McCarran subcommittee charged that "many hundreds of teachers are Reds and that the New York Teachers Union is "an instrument of the Communist Party."

Jenner said the hearings were being resumed "to determine whether or not organized subversion is undermining our educational system." He indicated the inquiry would be "national in scope."

The McCarran subcommittee report issued Jan. 2, said the "preponderant bulk" of American teachers are loyal but that those who are Communists should be sought out and fired. It called for continuation of the investigation.

Sen. Wiley Presses For Action On Eve Of Policy-Review

Wants Chiang Aid Rushed

WASHINGTON UP)— Chairman Alexander Wiley of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee called today for a speed-up of arms shipments to Nationalist China which he charged are "deplorably behind schedule."

He made the statement as Senate Republicans and Democrats stepped up their free-swinging debate over President Eisenhower's moves to crack the Korean stalemate.

Senate Republican leader Robert A. Taft warned Monday night of the danger of clamping a naval blockade on Communist China without Allied support.

However, Sen. Styles Bridgers (R—N.H.) not only called for a blockade but said he favored allowing United Nations planes to bomb Red-held Manchuria and the use of atomic weapons to hurry an end to the Korean war.

Wiley called Gen. Omar N. Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, before his committee at 2:30 p.m. e.s.t.) to testify on the new military strategy unfolding in the Far East.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, invited to an earlier session (11 a.m. e.s.t.) to report on his European inspection tour, also faced sharp questioning on the President's Asian policy.

Wiley said he would urge Bradley to press for increased arms deliveries to Chiang Kai Shek. This would make more of an impression on the Chinese Reds, he said, than the President's order lowering the Seventh Fleet bar to a Nationalist attack on the China mainland.

It was Democratic charges that this order might lead to World War III that touched off the first major foreign policy debate in the Republican-controlled 83rd Congress. But the main interest now centers on the advisability of a blockade.

The chances of the Allies approving a blockade seemed decidedly remote. There is practically no support for it at the United Nations. And the British Foreign Office went to unusual lengths Monday to emphasize it would resist it.

Sen. Richard B. Russell D—Ga.) said the United States should "press vigorously" for a United Nations blockade. Sen. Everett M. Dirksen (R—Ill.) endorsed a blockade but did not specify it had to be U.N.-sponsored.

Taft said approvingly that the administration "has moved somewhat along the lines that General MacArthur proposed," especially in "the removal of the wraps from Chiang Kai-Shek."

As a next move, he said it could order a MacArthur-style amphibious attack behind the Chinese Red lines in Korea or a blockade. He said he would favor a Nationalist invasion of the mainland only if the administration considered it "a feasible measure."

Plenty Of Mail

WASHINGTN (AP)—As President Truman was preparing to leave office he got letters saying he was "so right it's almost uncanny" and that his administration was "the poorest excuse for government in history."

He got letters asking for loans of money and for help in getting named homecoming queen. He got suggestions for a piano - playing partner and for a match for daughter Margaret.

And he got, in his last three months in the White House, 6,647 letters telling him what a good president he was.

Mrs. Beth Campbell Short, Truman's correspondence secretary, told the Woman's National Democratic Club yesterday about the letters.

Work Is Started On T-H Revision

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Republican Congress went to work today on legislation to revise the Taft-Hartley Law and a pro-labor Democrat said the situation "doesn't look good for labor."

Rep. Roy W. Weir D-Minn.) said a powerful bloc in the House is opposed to any significant relaxation of Taft-Hartley curbs on unions and will try, instead, to write in more "severe restrictions."

Weir is a member of the House Labor Committee. The group opened hearings on the controversial law (10 a.m. e.s.t.) by calling on Rep. Wingate H. Lucas (D-Tex.), also a member, to explain his proposed amendment to ban industry-wide bargaining.

Lucas' proposal — bitterly opposed by organized labor and some segments of management—would outlaw the present system of negotiating industry-wide coal and steel contracts.

Other congressmen who have proposed amendments to the law will get a chance to testify tomorrow and next week. Later, labor spokesmen, management and the Eisenhower administration will be invited to make suggestions.

The Senate Labor Committee plans to begin hearings of its own early in March. Sen. Robert A. Taft has introduced five bills in the Senate which the CIO and AFL have denounced as "piddling" revisions of the labor law he co-authored.

Congressional Sources Report Administration Doubts

Balanced Budget Fading

By RAYMOND LAHR
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON UP) — Responsible Congressional sources reported today that the Eisenhower administration has grave doubts about the possibility of balancing the federal budget for the coming 1954 fiscal year.

Informants said high administration officials now fear that—instead of rushing through tax cut bills—it may be necessary to ask Congress to postpone the tax relief already scheduled to take place during the next 12 months.

Under laws passed after the outbreak of the Korean war, the excess profits tax on business is due to expire next June 30, and personal income taxes are slated to drop 11 per cent next Jan. 1. These two tax cuts would cost the treasury more than $2,000,000,000 during the 1954 fiscal year which begins next July 1.

The fiscal 1954 budget which former President Truman sent to Congress before leaving office assumed that these tax cuts would take place on schedule. On that basis, Mr. Truman's budget forecast a federal deficit of almost $10,000,000,000 for the year.

Since his administration took over three weeks ago, President Eisenhower has ordered all federal agencies to economize drastically on hiring and construction, and to review the Truman budget proposals closely with an eye toward cutting them wherever possible.

But, informants said, administration officials realize that this economy drive won't be enough to balance the budget. There will also have to be sharp cuts in defense spending and foreign aid, or postponement of tax relief, or maybe both.

Any administration request to postpone the 11 per cent cut in personal income taxes due to take place next Jan. 1 would be a heavy blow to House Republican leaders. They are already moving full steam in the opposite direction.

Chairman Daniel A. Reed (R-N. Y.) of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee has introduced a bill to advance the date of the personal income tax cut by six months, to next July 1. Reed is confident his committee will approve the bill at a meeting called for next Monday, and that it will sail through the House not too long thereafter.

But the present attitude of administration and Senate leaders indicates that there is little prospect of the bill getting through the Senate.

Jury-Selection System Upheld By Supreme Court

February Executions Seen

RALEIGH (AP) — The long legal battle which has been waged to save the lives of four Negroes on Central Prison's death row appears at an end.

The four may be executed Feb. 27 unless Gov. Umstead intervenes. The U.S. Supreme Court yesterday ruled that the four had been tried by juries properly drawn and that their constitutional rights had not been violated.

The four are Raleigh Speller, thrice convicted of raping a Bertie County white woman; Clyde Brown, convicted in Forsyth in 1950 of raping a 17-year-old Winston-Salem white girl; and Bennie and Lloyd Ray Daniels, cousins, convicted in Pitt in 1949 of murdering a Greenville taxi driver in a robbery.

The exact date of the execution will depend on when the U.S. Supreme Court twice granted him by the State Supreme Court.

Speller has been a death row inmate since mid-1947. The State Supremem Court twice granted him new trials, but upheld his third conviction. The State Supreme Court also upheld convictions in the Brown and Daniels cases.

Attorneys for the four have taken appeals to the U.S. Court of Appeals and twice to the U.S. Supreme Court. The last appeal, pursued on a habeas corpus writ, contended their constitutional rights had been violated.

In Washington the Supreme Court ruled that the selection of North Carolina juries from property and poll tax lists does not discriminate against Negroes and is constitutional.

In delivering the 6-3 majority opinion, Justice Reed explained how North Carolina draws its jury panels and said:

"We do not think a use, nondiscriminatory as to race, of the lists violates the Federal Constitution's 14th Amendment guarantee of due process of law."

He added that it was the duty of the Supreme Court to protect constitutional rights and that "does not mean we must or should impose on states our conception of the proper source of jury lists, so long as the source reasonably reflects a cross-section of the population suitable in character and intelligence for that civic duty."

The majority opinion of 15,000 words was written by Justice Reed, with a 6,000 word concurring opinion being written by Justice Jackson and Justices Burton and Clark joining in the writing of a shorter concurring opinion.

Adding to the 40,000 words of varying views of the high court jurists were the dissenting opinions of Justices Frankfurter, Black and Douglas. In addition, Frankfurter issued a 16,000 word statement on the case.

Dress Uniform For Soldiers Is Again Pending

WASHINGTON (AP)—A U. S soldier who feels like stepping out for an evening in a sharp sky-blue uniform soon will be able to do so —if Congress approves and if he has the money to buy it.

Army approval of this new service clothing item was officially announced yesterday. Unofficially, it was said another item was on its way out —the informal short garment familiar since World War II; yes, the "Eisenhower jacket" itself.

The blue dress uniform, if Congress approves, will be available to enlisted men as a counterpart to the two-tone blue formal uniform now regulation for officers. But the Army won't issue it free. Men who want it will have to dig in their own pockets.

Highway Reorganization Bill Before Senate Group

Senate Road Committee Receives Umstead's Touchy Proposal; Automatic Income Tax Reduction Plan Introduced

RALEIGH UP) — The Senate Roads Committee received Gov. William B. Umstead's touchy proposal for reorganization of the State Highway Commission today and 25 senators opened a fight for personal state income tax reductions as the General Assembly approached the half-way mark of its 1953 session.

The Senate group, headed by by Sen. James H. Pou Bailey of Raleigh, introduced a bill to provide for automatic income tax reduction when general fund revenues exceed budget estimates in a fiscal year.

Under the proposal, budget officials set their estimate of revenue for the year as a mark. If the revenues exceed the estimate, then the governor will issue a proclamation reducing all schedules of the income tax by a percentage sufficient to absorb the general fund surplus.

The reduction would be in the form of a credit for each income taxpayer to be applied to the tax due for the calendar year ending immediately after the fiscal year in which the surplus existed. The tax return forms would indicate the percentage credit to be applied on tax bills.

The bill is modeled after Virginia's unique Byrd Automatic Tax Reduction Act. The Virginia law, written in 1949 by State Sen. Harry F. Byrd Jr., son of that state's senior senator has given Virginia taxpayers tax reductions each year since it was enacted.

Bailey said the bill "will have the effect of reducing personal and business taxes whenever such reduction is possible without reducing necessary services. It should aid the work of future legislators and greatly encourage business in this state."

In short session last night the Senate received a bill which would open welfare records to public inspection in North Carolina.

Sen. Fred H. McIntyre of Charlotte introduced the measure that would require registration four times a year of all recipients of welfare assistance. The bill also would make welfare rolls public records in the office of each superior court clerk.

Republican Rep. Ralph R. Fisher asked for higher pensions for widows of Confederate veterans. Under Fisher's bill a disabled widow would get $720 a year from the state instead of $600 and others would get $372 instead of $312.

Soviet Legation In Israel Bombed

TEL AVIV, Israel (UP)—A bomb exploded at the Soviet legation Monday night, injuring the wife of the minister and two other legation members.

It was the most serious anti-Soviet incident since the anti-Semitic purges started in Communist countries. In Jerusalem, leaders of all political parties in parliament immediately held urgent meetings to consider consequences of the incident.

The bomb, believed to have weighed about 65 pounds, was planted at the kitchen door in the rear of the legation and was electrically detonated.

Members of the Soviet staff were sipping tea in a room next to the kitchen when the bomb exploded, breaking windows within a radius of 650 feet. At least two rooms in the legation were destroyed.

Schuman Plan Is Put Into Effect

LUXEMBOURG (UP) — Six Western European nations today handed over control of their national coal and iron to a central authority representing all six nations.

Trying to break the bounds of protective tariffs, private cartels price fixing, customs duties and import-export controls, they joined together to pool their coal, iron and steel.

France, Germany, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg dropped all tariffs on coal and scrap iron among their six nations. It was the first step in the Schuman Plan under the international government the six countries have formed.

Next April 1' customs duties on steel will end in the six nations.

Coal and iron quota restrictions, which limited the amounts of the minerals shipped to and from each state, also were lifted. From today on buyers in each of the six nations will pay the same price per ton for coal and iron.

Bandit Listened, Lost His Chance

CHICAGO (UP) —A woman sweet-talked a robber into putting his gun away, then foiled his hold-up attempt.

The robber agreed to pocket his weapon so a customer entering the store wouldn't be startled. Then Mrs. Jessie Branch, the grocer, grabbed her own pistol and fired five times. She missed.

The gunman fired two shots in return before fleeing. He also missed.

Commutes Term For Pitt Negro

A six-month road term for larceny imposed last October on James Highsmith, Pitt County Negro, has been commuted, Paroles Commissioner N. F. Ransdell announced today.

Ransdell reported Highsmith has been freed on a commutation which cut his six-month sentence to time served. He was sentenced from Pitt County in October, 1952.

Two Coast Guard Cutters Fail In Helping Collier

BEAUFORT, N. C. (UP) — Two Coast Guard cutters failed again today to free a 6,800-ton Italy-bound collier that ran hard aground on a sand bar near the entrance to Beaufort Inlet in a fog early Sunday.

The entire 422 foot length of the SS Seaconnet is aground in 20 feet of water, but seas are calm and there is no danger to 35 men aboard.

The salvage tug Cable from Key West, Fla., is scheduled to arrive in time for a new attempt to pull the vessel free at high tide late today, the Coast Guard said.

The cutters Cherokee and Conifer attempted to pull the vessel loose at 4 a.m. today but succeeded only in shifting the Seaconnet's position in the sand. An attempt by cutters yesterday afternoon also failed.

Utilities Board To Meet Tonight

The Greenville Utilities Commission will hold its regular monthly meeting in the superintendent's office at the city hall tonight at 7:30.

Superintendent Martin Swartz said this morning the meeting will be "just routine" so far as he knows, with no special business scheduled for discussion.

Monthly reports relative to all utilities operations will be made.

THANN, France (UP)—Antoine Schott-Halstein, 84, gave $308,500 to the town council. "I'm too old to be bothered with money," he said.

Sad Piece Of Cake Is Handed Eileen Barton

NEW YORK (UP)—It was a sad piece of cake the judge dished up for pretty vocalist Eileen Barton.

Miss Barton, who made a big hit with her recording of "If I Knew You Were Comin' I'd A' Baked A Cake," went to court with her husband Monday to answer for 48 traffic tickets they had ignored.

Chief Magistrate John M. Murtagh was unmoved by a lawyers' argument that parking tickets were such minor matters they were easy to overlook.

The judge fined Miss Barton and her husband-manager Wynn Lassner $2,400, the highest fine so far in the current crackdown on New York ticket-hoarders.

Air Force And Navy Bombers Stage Round-The-Clock Raids

SEOUL, Kora (UP) — United Nations Air Force and Navy bombers and fighter-bombers in round-the-clock raids today blasted Communist supply centers, bridges, rail lines and front line positions.

Sixteen American B-29 Superfortresses delivered the "big punch" dumping 320,000 pounds of bombs on twin supply centers near the Yalu River.

The superfortresses from Okinawa hit Charyon-Gwan, a key railway hub 25 miles southeast of Sinuiju on the Manchurian border last night. The B-29's used radar to dump 16 tons of 500 pound bombs through a cloud cover.

Although the big Red air base at Antung, Manchuria, was close by, no Communist fighters were sighted.

Returning pilots said anti-aircraft fire was "light to moderate." Red search lights made futile attempts to stab through the clouds to spot the big raiders.

"We could see their searchlights sweeping through the sky," one pilot said. "They weren't having much luck though, because their beams hit the clouds under us."

Pilots said fires were visible through openings in the overcast over the target.

A fleet of medium bombers joined the Allied raiders and bombed one 70-acre area containing 240 supply buildings and another 75 acre area containing 85 buildings and a freight yard.

Five rail lines and a loading platform at one target join the rail supply route from Sinuiju southeast to Sinanju and other Red supply centers.

Thunder jets, Shooting Stars, Meteors and Mustangs plastered Red bunkers, caves and gun positions along the front today.

Light snow fell across the battleline last night, where light patrol actions were reported.

Dollar Day To Be Holiday For City's Parking Meters

Another Dollar Day will be observed by Greenville merchants Thursday, February 12.

Official window trims will be displayed by merchants observing Dollar Day and a spokesman for the Greenville Merchants' Association said merchants are assuring outstanding values.

"Special merchandise has been purchased for this big one day event in addition to liberal discounts to be offered," said the spokesman.

City officials have declared Dollar Day as a holiday for parking meters and employees and employers are asked to leave their cars at home on Dollar Day, leaving parking spaces for shoppers.

On Wednesday, the day before Dollar Day, telephone subscribers listed in the city telephone directory will be called and every 10th person answering the phone with "tomorrow is Dollar Day" will be given a prize.

Dollar Day in Greenville is being sponsored by the Trade Promotion Committee of the Greenville Merchants' Association.

The spokesman for Dollar Day said shoppers of Eastern Carolina will be given the opportunity to buy and save and to supply the needs of their entire family and home at a great saving.

Prison Officials Capitulate To Demands Of 30 Desperate Men

SALEM, Ore. (UP)—State prison officials said today they capitulated to demands made by 32 desperate convicts in order to end a riot and win freedom for five guards held hostage in a dungeon-like isolation ward.

The tough, trouble-making prisoners demanded that they be given definite sentences to the isolation ward instead of the indefinite terms they were serving.

Warden Virgil O'Malley of the Oregon State Prison said the inmates called off their protest riot and released the guards after he promised them the definite segregation sentences Monday night.

"What could we do?" O'Malley asked. "We had five guards in there. The important thing was to get them out unharmed."

O'Malley said the guards were released unharmed and no damage was done to the prison.

Sgt. Floyd Dean, one of the hostage guards, said later the men escaped from the crowded isolation ward while supper was being served to other inmates in a ward across the hall.

As word of the rebellion spread, convicts in other parts of the prison set up a loud din through the cellblocks, rattling bars and banging bits of metal.

O'Malley and his staff rushed into the prison armed with tear gas, pistols and sawed-off shotguns. The prisoners continued to mill around under threat of tear gas and rifle fire.

But O'Malley said there was no violence and he was not forced to order the weapons used.

The riot was in cell block "C," one of the oldest in the prison and located in the institution's basement.

Partially-Covered Old Well Claims Life Of Youngster

BELL ARTHUR—A deep abandoned well, only partially covered and containing several feet of water, claimed the life yesterday afternoon of a two-year-old Negro child.

The limp, drowned body of Joanne Doris Harris, daughter of Charlie and Ada Gray Harris, was discovered by her parents at approximately 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon, following a frantic two-hour search.

Pitt Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson reported this morning the child was missed at 4 p. m. yesterday, but her body was not located until two hours later. "It looked like an accident," he stated, "but due to the illness of Coroner G. H Rouse an investigation is being conducted this morning."

According to the sheriff, the mother and father of the drowned child were away from home working on tobacco beds. The little girl was left in the custody of her grandmother who allegedly thought the child may have followed her to get some kerosene, and in so doing fallen into the well.

The well was not in use and is located some distance from the house, which is on the Dorsey Baker farm near Bell Arthur. An attempt had been made to cover the well, Tyson said, but it was not thoroughly carried out.

An investigation was conducted by deputies Jasper Lee Mills and Lloyd Manning.

Miss North Carolina In Pitt Variety Show

"Miss North Carolina for 1952," lovely Barbara Anne Harris of Salisbury, will be the special guest and featured attraction of the Pitt County Variety Show to be held here Tuesday, February 24.

The talent presentation, sponsored jointly by Jaycee clubs in Farmville, is calculated to raise funds for the [illegible] commonly known as "Radio Free Eurpoe." All proceeds will go toward that purpose.

According to Alec Biggs of Greenville, chairman of the Publicity committee, the program will be held in Austin Auditorium on the campus of East Carolina College. It will begin at 8 p.m.

Making up the program will be performers from all over Pitt County, Biggs said this morning, including singers, dancers, choral groups and instumental music. No applications are being taken, because Jaycees are lining up talent themselves.

R.D. Rouse of Farmville, Jaycee vice president for the 7th district, is general chairman of the two-hour show. Riddick Revelle of Greenville is chairman of ticket sales.

Sam Bundy of Farmville will open the show with a few introductory remarks, and Ed Bloom of Greenville will be master of ceremonies and director of the production.

Pitt District Boy Scouts Observing National Week

Pitt District of East Carolina Council of Boy Scouts of America is observing "National Boy Scout Week" with program of interest to parents and scouts.

Boy Scouts in uniforms, attended their own churches last Sunday, when ministers gave them special recognition.

The annual "Father and Son" banquet for Scouts and Explorers will be held at the High School in Ayden Thursday night at 7 o'clock. Reservations were closed Monday. The annual attendance award will be made at this meeting, Scout Executive Lawrence Dollar stated.

The annual Pitt District "Blue and Gold" banquet for all Cub Scouts, their parents, Den mothers and all leaders, including Den chiefs, will be held at West Greenville School cafeteria Friday night at 7 o'clock. Unit leaders are selling tickets. Reservations close tonight. Contests are on the program and prizes will be awarded.

At a meeting of Sea Scouts last night, it was announced that the Scouts had obtained a boat—a 38-foot Navy rocket launcher, with a 225-horsepower Diesel engine in it. The craft will be moved from Murfreesboro, down Chowan river to Albemarle Sound by way of Edenton and from there up the sound to the Alligator river, then by way of the Inland Waterways to Pamlico Sound and Belhaven. From there the Sea Scout boat will be taken up Pamlico river to Washington for a general overhauling, Sherman Parks, Scout official, stated. After repairs the craft will come up Tar River and dock at the Port Terminal.

J. B. Newman is skipper of the Sea Scout boat.

Police Check On Two Robberies

Two robberies were reported to the Greenville Police Department during the night.

Robbers were reported to have stolen a quantity of gasoline from parked trucks at the Helms Motor Company located at 105 Truman Street in the night.

Caps from three of the tanks were found off this morning by employes and a check revealed that gasoline had been removed from all three.

Lt. M. E. Corbett, is the investigating officer.

City detectives are still investigating a reported theft from the Surburan Cleaners and Laundry on Fifth Street, which was reportedly entered sometime last night.

Officers stated that the operators believed that a suit of clothing was removed from the building but nothing definite has been determined as to the loss.

Ike's Double Is New York Native

GOSHEN, N.Y. AP)—Most of us have a double somewhere in the world, it's said, but few of us know it. Harry Strong, now residing in White Plains, knows who and where his double is.

The other day a shoeshine unchin in New York offered a free shoeshine to "Mister Ike." when Strong said he wasn't the new President the offer was repeated, "because you look so much like him." The shoeshine incident was only the latest in a series that has been going on ever since Dwight D. Eisenhower came into promincence.

Communism And Far East Topic Of Rotary Talk

Dr. George Pasti of the East Carolina College history department spoke to Greenville Rotarians last night on conditions in the Far East, and the advances made in Asia by communism.

Dr. Pasti cited as fundamental causes of the spread of communism in Asia: imperialism, long years of war, poverty, the surge of nationalism since World Wor II, and communism itself with promises of land reforms which were carried out to some degree early in the communist campaign.

"One of the biggest problems of the Far East is food," the speaker pointed out to the Rotarians. "The people of the Far East generally have less to eat than before the war. Food is the basic need of the whole area." Dr. Pasti also declared poverty among the masses of people is an important factor in conditions in Asia. He asserted the average income in China in 1949 was $50 per year, while the average income in the UUnited States for the same year was $1,450.

The professor of history discussed the importance of natural resources which come from the Asiatic countries pointing particularly to tin and vegetable oils. He discussed the fight against communist which has been carried on by the French and British in Indo-China and Malaya.

Following the talk in which he used a film strip to illustrate points, Dr. Pasti discussed various asects of the Far East situation with members of the club in answer to questions asked from the floor.

Dr. Pasti was introduced by Dr Carl Adams of the East Carolina faculty.

Dr. R. H. Sales of the Duke University faculty was a guest of the club. Rotarian Snode Edwards of Ayden was also a guest of the club at the meeting.

Workers Uncover City 'Skeleton'

SALT LAKE CITY AP)—Workmen digging a post hold dug up the skeleton of a 20-year-old city scandal.

The hole, dug for a utility pole, disclosed a box containing city payroll withdrawal receipts—dated in the late 1920s. Those receipts were the object of a search in 1929 when auditors discoverd a shortage in city funds.

No one ever was convicted in connection with the shortage—primarily because of lack of the evidence which was dug up more than 20 years later. City officials said most of those persons involved at the time now are dead. Besides, the statute of limitations would prevent any prosecution now.

Declared Owner Of Found Cash

SALT LAKE CITY AP)—A boy has been declared th legal owner of $4.26 he fo nd. Nine-year-old Donald Anderson found the money in a purse while playing near his home here. His mother, Mrs. Sherwood M. Anderson, turned it over to the police department.

For seven months the money remained at police headquarters—unclaimed. Then the City Commission, in formal action, declared Donald the legal owner of the money.

Strength for the Day

READ IT

When President Galo Plaza of Ecuador left his country recently to visit the United States, he handed over the government temporarily to Vice President Gilbert. In doing so he handed him a Bible and said, 'I leave with you the Bible, which I have read every morning to help me exercise patience and Christian courage."

When we link this with General MacArthur's statement that every night before he retires, no matter how tired he is, he reads a portion of the Bible, we see how mightily this book is regarded by some of our contemporaries who are active in the administration of world affairs. The idea people sometimes have that the Bible is a book to be read only in church or by a few pious persons of the grandmotherly variety is utterly inaccurate. Millions of people very humble in station and ability are every day, along with certain great leaders, pondering the Word of God and finding therein a real source of courage, comfort, and guidance.

It took several thousand years for the Bible to be composed. It is God's revelation of his will for man, made through the choicest spirits that arose over a long period of time. It emerged out of the lives of God's chosen people. The divine directives with their complete spiritual authority have come through the lips of God's chosen prophets, sages, and apostles.

Judge's 'Get Tough' Policy Pays Off

It didn't take the former numbers boss of North Carolina long to turn himself over to the law after he was declared an outlaw.

And it didn't take the judge who heard the case long to put the bee on racketeer George Smith after the numbers kingpin jumped $60,000 bond put up for his appearance to begin serving his prison sentence.

All of which leads us to the conclusion that big time racketeers may be more susceptable to get tough policies of the law than we have given them credit for being.

North Carolina lottery king, George Smith, was fined $25,000 and sentenced to 10 years in Guilford County court for bribery of police officers for protection of his numbers rackets. He is also under a 12 to 20 year sentence for the hit-and-run death of a 13-year-old Pomona youth.

When Smith did not show up at the appointed hour to begin serving his prison sentences, Judge C. C. Rudisill immediately declared the convicted racketeer an outlaw. That meant he could be called upon to surrender by any citizen of the state, and if he refused to surrender, he could be slain.

There have been only a few occasions in which judges have seen fit to take such drastic action when a convicted criminal fails to appear to begin serving sentence. In the case of Smith it worked like a charm. It took Smith only a few hours to get in touch with the police and give himself up.

Why? Smith said frankly he was afraid of getting killed by some citizen.

When Smith ignored the court, Judge Rudisill got tough in a hurry. The effect his "get tough" policy had leads us to believe it would be in the best interest of the law abiding people of the state if more jurists would assume a tougher attitude toward those convicted of crimes.

If Smith had not been declared an outlaw immediately, chances are law enforcement offcers would still be searching for him. As it is, he was taken into custody with a minimum of trouble and he has begun serving his sentence.

How Do You Feel About Pitt's Legislation?

Pitt's representatives in the General Assembly want to know what the people of the county think of the proposal to stagger terms of members of the Board of County Commissioners.

Action requesting such legislation was taken by the commissioners themselves at a recent meeting. Now Senator Paul E. Jones and Representatives S. O. Worthington and F. M. Kilpatrick want to know how the folks of the county feel about it.

The legislators have requested residents of Pitt to say by letter or other contact whether they believe the proposed legislation is in the best interest of the county. It is the least the people can do to let their representatives in the General Assembly know how they feel.

It takes very little time and effort to drop the representatives a post card or a short letter. It will be a help to them in deciding what to do about the proposed legislation. As a spokesman for the trio said, "We don't want to have the bill passed if the majority is against it.'"

The Reflector favors the proposed legislaton. It would mean a change in terms of some of the commissioners during the transition period while terms are being staggered; but thereafter it would assure Pitt of having experienced members on the Board of Commissioners at all times.

Frankly, we can't remember when Pitt County has had a Board of Commssioners composed entirely of "new'" members, but if terms were staggered it would assure experienced commissioners on the board at all times.

With local government the big business it is now, it is wise at all times to have seasoned members on the governing boards at all times.

Pitt legislators are asking advice from their constituents. We hope they get it.

National Whirligig

WASHINGTON—Although President Eisenhower has proclaimed his intention of playing no political or economic favorites, he has been catapulted into the midst of AFL-CIO rivalries and jealousies already. Walter Reuther, the hotspur of organized labor, charges that the White House is favoring the older organization over the CIO. Under Truman, it was the other way around.

Eisenhower first riled Reuther by naming Martin P. Durkin, an AFL official, as Secretary of Labor, and appointing another AFL man as Durkin's assistant.

Even if a CIO member should be selected as Assistant Secretary, it would be only a consolation prize, sometimes called "booby." In fact, the youngish president of the United Automobile Workers has used that deprecatory phrase in discussing his predicament.

PARTIALITY?—Eisenhower's demand for amendment rather than repeal of Taft-Hartley also disturbs the dynamic Detroiter. Although AFL spokesmen have always urged abolition of the act, they were never so aggressive and violent on the issue as the mass unionists. It did not operate against the older trade unions so assertively as it did against the new, sprawling and more belligerent CIO.

In Reuther's opinion, Eisenhower is showing partiality toward the more conservative trade unionists. Whereas the late William Green and his successor, George Meany, confined their activity largely to bread-and-butter problems like wages, prices and collective bargaining rights, the Hillman-Murray-Reuther faction regarded themselves as liberal labor "statesmen." They frequently spearheaded movements for New Deal-Fair Deal legislation.

ULTERIOR MOTIVE—Reuther thinks he discerns an ulterior motive in the Eisenhower maneuvers. In short, he believes that the President seeks to relegate labor to its pre-Roosevelt role, when it enjoyed almost no authority in government councils.

Such a forced retreat, in his opinion, would strip the labor movement of the ideological gains of the last 20 years. He prefers to retain his status as a statesman as against that of a mere "labor boss."

CONSUMERS' PRICE INDEX—Reuther's prestige as a labor statesman, economist and politician has been challenged head-on by the White House in the controversy over changing the basis on which the nation's living costs are computed by the Labor Department. Although seemingly a complicated, statistical matter, it is quite simple.

Government experts have revised the old Consumers' Price Index in order to take into account changed living and buying habits since World War II. The new evaluation includes larger expenditures for food and semi-luxuries, made possible by larger incomes. It incorporates articles never on the market until the postwar years. In view of these developments, the old system had become obsolete.

The new method was supposed to go into effect on January 1, but it is still in the experimental stage. Now, Eisenhower has ordered that the ancient system be used for another six months.

REUTHER ANGERED—Reuther was so angered that he has virtually warned union officials not to recognize the Eisenhower action in negotiating new contracts. He regards this and related government instructions as "unwarranted interference." For they strike at his reputation as a labor statesman and at his ability to win pay increases for his men.

Without indulging in technicalities, the basic fact is that Reuther's bargaining power would be strengthened by use of the new index. Moreover, his contracts provide that they may be reopened and renegotiated whenever there is a change in the index basis. One applies to Charles E. Wilson's General Motors.

When the CIO president first negotiated the cost-of-living proviso—oddly, in the very month the North Koreans attacked—living costs were rising, and he stood to profit. His members have won millions of increases already.

But the late William Green, George Meany and John L. Lewis scoffed at the rival they call the "wonder boy," with the remark that "what goes up must come down." They predicted that he would like to regret his "new-fangled deal." He probably will, unless Ike reverses himself. That is not likely.

CONCERNING PATRONAGE
(Leader-Call, Laurell, Miss.)

One of the sharpest problems that the Eisenhower administration will have to face is patronage.

Because the Democrats have been in power so long, they have build up tremendous bureaus, administrations and commissions.

Because they have had unlimited power, they have gradually drawn the workers in these countless federal agencies under the cover of civil service. No matter how able and efficient people outside of these over-staffed government agencies may be, they are barred because the job-holders are under civil service.

The public is pretty well persuaded that some of this "cover" is to cover up shiftlessness, laziness, unwillingness to work.

For this reason it is going to be easy for the incoming administration to do some much-needed reforming. Public opinion is going to back up a wholesale clean-up.

The old spoils system, which turned out everybody who was "in" and put in its place a new set of job-hungry, need not be restored to clean up the mess that is not only in Washington, but is nation-wide. All of us know that there are few "government" agencies that could not be improved by a little judicious weeding out of loafers and blood suckers, without recourse to the wholesale spoils system.

If it takes a Congressional action to do the clean-up job, the administration should use a broom and a mop—or maybe a vacuum cleaner.

The government has set an example of slowdowns, shiftless laziness on the payroll that is a poor pattern for industrial workers and office workers and even domestic servants, many of whom have gotten it into their heads that a job is a pay-day, and involves the minimum obligation of doing work.

The temperament of the entire country can be changed with an example of honesty in government job performance, once more insisted on.

Handy Seat Of Operations

Somebody Told Me

By J. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

Let me start this column by saying it's one of those personal ones. My reason for the warning is that some people like them, others do not. Maybe those who do not deserve to be warned occasionally before they read too many words.

Have you ever thought you wanted something to happen, and then when it did decided you really are sorry it did? That happened to me last night. When I came home from work I knew that Wife Rachel was going to the Church Circle meeting. "From eight until eleven," I told myself, "I'll be feeding babies and changing diapers constantly. Helping W. R. do it is something else, but when the full responsibility for two small children falls on a man, there's a strain there that men weren't built to endure."

But to let W. R. know that the responsibility concerns me would be a crime that pride will not permit. "Don't worry about a thing," I said, "I'll take care of everything with ease."

To make the strain even more, W. R. said, "I wouldn't be concerned in the least if it weren't for Don (now four months). Here lately, as you well know, he simply refuses to sleep from eight until ten at night. I just don't understand it. And if he would stay awake and play, it would be different. The only thing he seems to like is being walked around."

W. R. was going over this stuff just as if I didn't know it. And all of the time the responsibility of taking care of the situation was mounting on my shoulders.

"But I don't think Nancy will wake up," W. R. said consolingly. "But if she does, bla . . . bla . . . bla. . . ."

By the time Rachel walked out the door I was primed for a night of racing all over the house in an effort to take care of the children Television wasn't coming in to console me, and the radio schedule for last night included mostly music. There were no juicy murders to help me get my mind off my responsibility.

So, with the soft music of the radio in the background it seemed like a morgue when W. R. walked out. At home I sat, for three hours, waiting for the worst to happen. When nothing came, it was almost too much for me. After all, when you build something up in your mind it's supposed to happen.

Excuse this abrupt ending, but 10 minutes before time for W. R.'s return Don is screaming in the bedroom. At last, I'm not completely disappointed.

And I thank you.

Around Capitol Square

By LYNN NISBET

CLUTTERED — Through Saturday's session the 1953 General Assembly had received a total of 301 bills and resolutions of which 96 came into the Senate and 205 into the House. The introductions included 172 bills classified as statewide and 129 as purely local. Since a number of the general measures were in duplicate identical bills bearing separate identification numbers, it can be said that not much more than half the actual total were of statewide import.

INVALID — It seems apparent that a good many of the local bills are unconstitutional, and if enacted into law and challenged in the courts would be declared invalid. That is because the subject contained is specifically banned by constitutional amendment adopted more than 30 years ago in the hope of relieving the legislative calendars from the cluttement of special local laws.

PROHIBITED — Among the topics spelled out as prohibited for local laws by Sec. 29, rt. II, of the State constitution "authorizing the laying out, opening, altering, maintaining, or discontinuing of highways, streets or alleys." Alone of the bills now in the mill purports to validate the closing of one short section of one street in the Town of Logview in Catawba county. Another specific prohibition is local legislation "relating to the pay of jurors." A pending bill would fix the ay of jurors in Rowan county. Another ban is against "establishing or changing the lines of school districts." There are pending bills designed to override the State Board of Education establishment of consolidated high school districts in Bertie and Granville counties. Also clearly prohibited is local legislation "extending the time for the assessment or collection of taxes." Violating the spirit if not the letter of that provision are bills postponing the time for revaluing real estate for taxes in four or five counties.

VARIETY — The General Assembly is no piker when it comes to variety in the ways it ignores and violates constiutional requirements. Most glaring instance is failure to reapportion its own membership on basis of the latest Federal census. In addition to that and the failures set out in the preceding paragraph, the current session has appointed by special act a justice of the peace in Clay county and has hearing ratification a bill validating acts of a justice of the peace in Onslow county during a time when his commission had been vacated. Yet the first two items in the prohibited list of local laws are those "relating to establishment of courts inferior to the Superior Court;" and "relating to the appoinment of justices of the peace."

DEFAULT — The current avalanche of unconstitutional local bills has precedent, because previous sessions have nonchalantly done the same sort of thing and gotten away with it in most instances. It is axiomatic that an act of the Legislature is valid until declared invalid by a court of competent jurisdiction, and very few of these questionable acts ever get before the Supremem Court.

UNNECESSARY — Preponderant majority of the local b"' come under the classifica'ion of seems to be no conflict with the constitution. In this group fall bills dealing with the treatment of dogs and foxes in Catawba, Person, Rowan, Tyrrell and Yadkin counties; regulating fortune tellers in Caswell and Robeson; specified use of surplus money and fixing salaries of officials and employees in a doxen or more counties; setting out the method for assessing cost of street improvements against abutting property in Raleigh—et cetera ad infinitum et nauseum. These are proper functions of local governing boards, not for a State Legislature composed of 170 members at least 165 of whom are bound to be (and most times 169 are) non-residents of the affected county.

RELIEF — In an effort to find some relief for this situation Rep. T.J. Collier of Pamlico and others have introduced a bill authorizing county commissioners to exercise most of the powers involved in the numerous local bills.

RESTIVE — Many State employees, including school teachers, are becoming restless and are vocatively protesting against deferred action on salary supplement. Governor Umstead had a 10 per cent raise to be retroactive to last July 1 as one of the important items in his pre-election platform. Governor Scott had also advocated the same idea, and the retiring Governor had told newsmen on several occasions that appropriation for the purpose was included in the budget recommendations. It was; but instead of being a supplemental bill the idea was incorporated in the regular biennial appropriations measure. Action on that big bill may not be completed until sometime in April, and for most purposes that will be time enough since most of the provisions do not become effective until July 1.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

OUTLAWRY
(Greensboro Daily News)

When George Smith, convicted racketeer, was proclaimed an outlaw by a Superior Court judge, the State of North Carolina set in motion a rarely used but stringent and effective legal process. It is said to have frightened Smith into immediate and unconditional surrender.

"Outlawry" is an ancient custom of Great Britain which placed a man, who had contemptuously refused to come into court when called or who disappeared to evade justice, beyond the protection of the law and allowed him to be killed on sight like a wild beast. He was also what the Saxons called a frendlesman, because he had forfeited his friends. Anyway, open season was declared on him.

In America outlawry, while obsolescent, is still used, but it has been softened somewhat. In North Carolina it has been reduced from common law to statute. The statute provides, in brief, that any two justices of the peace, or any judge of the Supreme, Superior or criminal courts, on affidavit that a person has committed a felony and is a fugitive from justice, may outlaw him by proclamation. This means that any citizen may arrest him, or if he flees or resists after being called on to surrender, kill him.

It is a very tough process. Whether any two justices of the peace should have the power of outlawry may be questionable. Certainly it should be used sparingly, as it is. There is danger that the wrong person may be killed in indiscriminate shooting.

But it does provide a legal weapon of remarkable effectiveness against gangsters and racketeers who are indeed such frendlesmen that they would not care to run the risk of their enemies, competitors or even colleagues taking a few free shots at them with impunity under the law.

Outlawry is a legal tool which North Carolina might well recommend to the gangster-plagued cities of New York, Chicago, Pittsburgh, Cleveland and other points North.

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER

Now that the annual hunting season for June graduates-to-be is open, small businessmen are reminded of another inequality. Just as they feel they are getting an unduly small share of defense contracts, they feel they are not getting a rightful share of the graduates.

A number of surveys have shown that they are right. The big and glamorous corporations get there fustest with the mostest salaries. Even now they are in touch with the top men in junior and even sophomore years and are holding out prospects of jobs in 1954 and 1955. Few small businesses can chart up-coming jobs that far in advance. And the big companies not only can offer better starting salaries but they can talk about their gilded ladders to higher pay — even vice-presidencies.

But even if the Monsantos, the Westinghouses and the Chryslers were not offering top young men more than small enterprises can, they would still have the pick. Recent studies have shown repeatedly that the majority of college youths increasingly want security — and some want the greater technical facilities — of large corporate employers. Many of them say they would prefer a life time position with a big, cozy company than experience that might lead to ownership of their own business.

There is no easy solution to the problem for small businesses, no more than there is an easy solution to the problem of giving more defense work to small firms. The giants simply have the best facilities, both for employment and government contracts.

Even sending their own sons and daughters through college is not an answer for the small enterprisers. There have been many cases in which such youths have preferred going to work for one of the great Generals — Electric, Motors or Foods — than in small shops that would some day be their own.

Small business can, of course, try to find the few promising young men who prefer challenge to experience. They can also develop what they have, by training their best employees for better positions, even sending them to schools and colleges for part-time courses.

TRUCK DECALS TELL COST OF TA LOAD

There is a new operation smack in the long war between truckers and railroads.

The roads have made much of the point that they paid for their own roads, whereas government units pay for the reads trucks use.

Now trucks are appearing with 12-by-16-inch decals reading: "This truck carries a tax load of $xx. We pave our way." The correct figure for the individual truck is affixed, of course. (The decals are supplied by the Meyercord Co., 5323 W. Lake St., Chicago 44.)

OF FUNGUS AND TAES, CONSCIENCE AND FABRIC

The Department of Commerce is warning exporters that if their packing crates or cases are infected with insects or fungus, the Union of South Africa may prohibit their landing. . .Because of new provisions in tax laws, holders of stocks and bonds will have to make 8,000,000 more calculations this year than last, Commerce Clearing House calculates. . ..To save on wages, Hamilton College's book shop has been put on a conscience basis, with patrons serving themselves and making their own change. .The Quartermaster Corps, which thought in 1948 it had solved the problem of making clothing water repellent, has decided to resume research. . .Arthor Tekniska Fabrik, of Goteborg, Sweden, has asked the Department of Commerce to find an American company interested in importing tubes of a synthetic laundry starch said to withstand several washings.

ENTERTAINMENT DOMINATES DESIRES FOR RECORDERS

A recent compilation showed that there were 100 uses for tape and wire recorders; by now there must be 120.

But a survey by a Chicago manufacturer of tape recorders showed that 62 per cent of those desiring recorders want them for family amusement, such as recording parties, children's voices and radio programs. Second most popular use was for self-improvement, such as hearing playbacks of music or singing.

NEW PRODUCTS

RACK: A cup rack that holds 12 cups is being introduced (by Ekco Products Co., 1946 N. Cicero Ave., Chicago 39). It can be attached to the underside of any shelf.

STOVE: A counter-top gas cooking unit with direct flame broiling in combination with four full-sized burners has been announced (by Chambers Corp., Shelbyville, Ind.). It is mounted on a wood or metal-base cabinet, 42 inches wide by 25 inches deep and has push-type safety valve handles.

THICK: Bacon in thick slices is being marketed now (by St. Louis Independent Packing Co., 824 S. Vandeventer, St. Louis 10). It is described as old-fashioned country style and the thick slices are said to hold flavor better.

NEW YORK (AP)—Just what is Cafe Society? How does one get ahead in it?

The current vice trial of a so-called Cafe Society playboy has aroused fresh interest in this mysterious social order. It sounds so glittery and glamorous, compared to the stuffy, snooty old "400" of the past, whose members now are extinct or forgotten.

Some Broadwayites say there is no such thing as Cafe Society. They regard it as a pleasant legend dreamed up to entertain the folk in the hinterland.

Generally, however, Cafe Society can be said to consist of the people who regularly patronize a number of celebrated mid-Manhattan watering troughs. These plush-lined zoos differ basically from the old-fashioned corner saloon only in the fact they provide no free lunch and have replaced their swinging doors with a velvet rope or a gilded flunkey.

To belong to the old "400" you had to observe a certain code of behavior. You had to have morals as well as manners. In Cafe Society the only prevailing rules are those of the late Marquis of Queensberry.

To rise quickly in this neon-lit circle you should have a clean shirt, a big name, and a pocket full of money. If you have enough money and spend it freely, the name-fame and clean shirt requirements will be readily waived.

Some beginners have the idea that their standing in cafe society is determined by the number of headwaiters they know by their first names. That is wrong. Your rating is fixed by how many headwaiters know your name.

The surest way to become a man of distinction with a headwaiter is to slip him a $5 bill and tell him who you are. Do this a few times and the memory of George Washington may slip his mind, but he will never forget you.

Conversation is highly valued in Cafe Society. You are supposed to be in "the big know." You have to be able now and then to toss out a crumb of inside misinformation about [illegible] or event of importance the day before it appears in the gossip columns.

You have to stud your talk with big names, whether you really know them or not. No longer can you get by with things like, "A taxi driver said a funny thing to me the other day."

There is only one other rule in Cafe Society conversation. Whoever is at your table at the moment is a great guy-and everybody who isn't is a bum. This isn't all a matter of polite etiquette. It is based on the fact that if you back stab the people at your table they may all get up and walk away and leave you to pay the check.

You know you are a real fixture in Cafe Society when people start dropping by and sitting at your table instead of you having to go to theirs. You are now a big wheel.

But Cafe Society is an escalator of people going down as well as up.

How do you know when you're through? You know it when you go to their favorite gilded den at the usual hour and find the headwaiter has seated someone new in your very own seat at your very own table in the corner reserved for the trite elite.

This is the most crushing disaster that can happen in Cafe Society. You reel out of the place a broken man, knowing you no longer belong to the inner circle.

There is nobody in the world left for you to associate with-except people.

Washington Letter

WASHINGTON—Dr. George W. Calver, physician to members of Congress for more than 24 years, says the social life in Washington is one of thre greatest hurdles a man in public office has to overcome.

He says D.C. hostesses often handicap the statesman by following the old adage that, "the way to a man's heart is through his stomach."

"More digestible meals make for more comfort in the interior departments of our lawmakers," he told me.

Members of the 83rd Congress, who already have come to his office for a physical check-up by official request, "so we'll have their case histories on file," are no more or less healthy than those of recent congresses. "They are an average bunch," Dr. Calver said, "but there's less heart disease among members than when I first came to Capitol Hill in 1938. Maybe it's because they know how to relax more easily than they used to."

Dr. Calver, in his mid-60s, likes those Washington parties himself but, says luckily he's too busy to go to many of them. Every morning he has his round of residence and hospital calls, and he spends a great deal of time in clinical research at the Bethesda Naval Hospital. Afternoons he settles in his office in the Capitol Building, where he's kept busy till Congress adjourns for the day. Prescriptions are mixed in his suite and issued to patients free.

Dr. Calver was born and educated in Washington and has two daughters, both married to Navy doctors. Himself a rear admiral, he was recently named national commander of the Military Order of the Carabao, founded in Manila in 1900 by U.S. officers who served during the Philippine Insurrection, and named for the island's water buffalo. Its membership has since been opened to others who have served in the Philippines, as Dr. Calver did in 1915-16.

Dr. Calver advises his Congressmen patients to have a hobby. There's nothing like golf, fishing or other outdoor diversion to take the kinks out of the system, he says.

"I keep fit by taking walks and spending a lot of time out doors and fishing at my place on the Potomac River in Southern Maryland," he told me. "I love to fish, but last summer I didn't have time to even wet my line."

Air Force Has Replies To Servicemen's Gripes

By ARMAN W. NICHOLS
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—At hand is a letter from an Air Force ground mechanic who has all kinds of gripes about Guam, where he is stationed.

The message was addressed to me, and I showed it to the Air Force. The services commonly do not bust a man because he gripes, but his name is not used here anyway. Here are the airman's complaints and answers by the Air Force.

Airman: Ninety per cent of the Air Force personnel on Guam have volunteered for action in Korean duty to escape the boredom here.

Air Force: It should be noted that even if the volunteer rate is higher from Guam (which we do not know, for sure) it should be remembered that the tour of duty in Korea is shorter — only 12 months. And at the present time Korea is nearly as safe as Bolling Air Force Base (in Washington, D.C.), as far as enemy action is concerned for A.F. ground personnel.

Airman: Since I have been here, 11 months, I have seen an awful lot of men go home with discharges of various types, the most popular being medical. There are also cases of insanity. One guy I know purposely broke a law just so he could get a dishonorable discharge and get out of here. He got it all right, plus 8 to 12 months in the stockade.

Air Force: The man has no knowledge of how many men are discharged for medical or insanity or other reasons, since such cases are evacuated to the U.S. from overseas stations, and hospitalized, returned to duty or discharged. However, our rate of such evacuations from Guam is as low as any similar area.

Airman: All our food has to be shipped in cold storage. Our eggs and milk come powdered. The water tastes like 100 per cent iodine.

Air Force: Our men on Guam have an allowance of two fresh eggs daily. Powdered eggs are used only in baking, cooking, etc. As for milk, there is a milk processing plant on the island which is the best thing discovered so far to supply milk where it is not practical to supply fresh milk. There is also an ice cream processing plant on Guam. There is a good supply of fresh meat, poultry, vegetables and fruits.

Airman: There are two kinds of weather. Wet and hot.

Air Force: The Air Force has no control over the weather.

Airman: All would be a little more bearable if we didn't have to stay here so long. For married men the tour of duty is 18 months; for single men, it's 24 months.

Air Force: As for the tour and rotation policy, the tours were set after careful study of all areas. It is believed that the Guam tours are fair when compared to a tour at the remote 12 months areas.

Airman: Our mail situation is something else to complain about; it's disastrous.

Right Idea, But Wrong Address

MEMPHIS, Tenn. UP)—A Tennessee Democrat, Leslie T. Massey of Memphis, listened enthusiastically to Mr. Truman's farewell address on Jan. 15, then dispatched a telegram to the White House saying: "Congratulations on your administration."

The reply read:

"Thank you most sincerely for your encouraging message."

(Signed) Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Britain's Auto Market Slumps

LONDON (UP) — Britain's home market for automobiles has almost dried up, dealers report, and manufacturers are facing a serious situation with a parallel slump in export sales.

Manufacturers said that unless home and overseas sales increase considerably in the near future, production in Britain's automobile industry must be drastically cut with consequent widespread unemployment.

Traders estimated that 14,000 new automobiles are now lying idle in storage all over Britain, and 8,500 cars come off the assembly lines weekly. A year ago manufacturers had enough orders on papers for three years' work.

Dealers report that orders for all but the smallest cars are being cancelled in large numbers and even second-hand cars are almost unsaleable.

The situation has been made acute by the slump in export sales. Last October only 21,947 automobiles worth $22,971,944 were sold abroad compared with 32,300 worth $31,582,569 for the month in 1951.

At the same time the government is preparing to raise the allocation of cars to the home market from 6,00 a month to 10,000 and Duncan Sandys, minister of supply has just announced a larger steel allocation. The makers may not be able to take advantage of this.

Africa is largely plateau, but it has little land that is very high or very low and hence its average elevation is lower than that of Asia.

Alchemy, the attempt to make gold out of baser metals, is believed to have been founded by the Greeks soon after the birth of Christ.

Speaker Discusses Women And Laws

Dr. Lydia Gordon Shivers, professor of sociology at Woman's College and a member of the bar, speaking Saturday afternoon at the College as the guest of Delta chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma, told the group that what the law has done for women and what it should do are complex questions. Dr. Shivers was speaking on "What Law Has Done for Women." The president of the chapter, Mrs. Elizabeth Mims, presided at the meeting.

Before the speech of the afternoon, a tribute to the late Miss Laura Foley, who was active in the group, was read by Miss Frances Lamb, chairman of the necrology committee. Appreciation was expressed for Miss Foley's life of service in civic affairs, school, and church. It was ordered that the tribute be the minutes and that a copy of it be sent to Miss Foley's family.

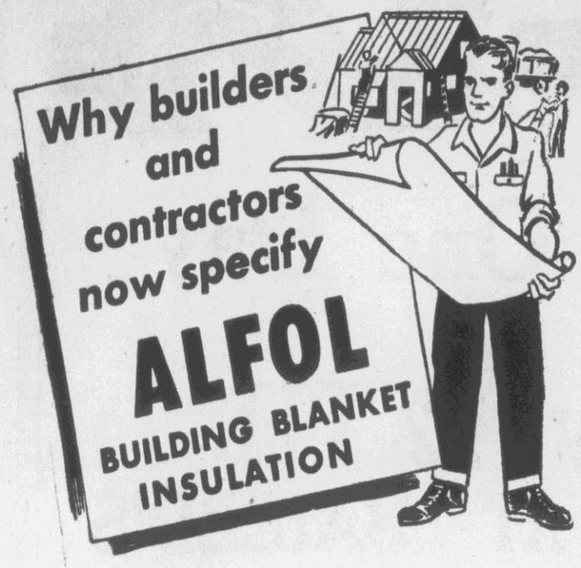
The chapter voted to pay the charter fee of the Greenville High School unit of Future Teachers Association, which is being organized by the recruitment committee, with Mrs. Maude Bowen as sponsor.

Introduced by Miss Ella Bonner, Washington, N.C., Dr. Shivers began her address by tracing the gradual development of the concept of democracy and pointing out that the United States, the first great country in the world to have universal manhood suffrage, achieved that in 1850 and only in the 1900's extended it to include women. She then said that since 1950, according to the census report, women voters are in the majority, and thus that women will have to take the blame if any changes needed are not made.

Dr. Shivers traced the development of "protective" laws concerning women and laws concerning marital rights, and explained how common law restrictions as to property right of women originated and how gradually they have been abolished, until now in most respects women and men stand on an equal footing as to property. However, in North Carolina, said Dr. Shivers, women still have a common law disability in inheritance from a husband.

Dr. Shivers closed by raising the question of the national equal right amendment being proposed. Both womens' organizations and liberal leaders are on each side of the question, said Dr. Shivers, and it involves many perplexing legal problems.

A tea was held in Flanagan parlor after the program. It was prepared by the social committee—Mrs. James Fleming, chairman, and Misses Christine Johnston, Estelle Greene, Deanie Boone Haskett, and Alice Strawn. Miss Ona Shinder poured tea.



The men who are building America's newest—most modern homes want the best there is in insulation. And they want insulation material they can install faster and with least mess, dust and dirt.

That's why so many houses going up now will have ALFOL Building Blanket insulation. ALFOL is aluminum foil insulation—"Reflective Insulation." It consists of one or two layers of aluminum foil with air spaces between them. The aluminum foil is attached to heavy moisture-proof paper. In summer, ALFOL literally turns the sun's heat round, sends it back to the outdoors. And in winter, ALFOL turns the heat from your heating system back into the room. Radiant heat can't get through aluminum foil.

Application is simple. No tools are needed but a hammer. Delivery and storing are less troublesome. You can put enough ALFOL to insulate the average house in the back of your car.

Whether you're putting up a town full of houses—or simply insulating an attic, let us tell you more about ALFOL'S advantages to you.

Offer List Of 10 Best-Managed U.S. Businesses

NEW YORK (AP)The American Institute of Management, a non-profit organization, has listed the 10 companies it found in the "best managed" category in the country. The report lists 330 companies of 3,000 covered in a 12-month study as being excellently managed.

First place was awarded the Hotels Statler Co. Inc., "without doubt the best in production efficiency." The report says an analysis of Statler operations during 15 years warrants the observation that the company could operate efficiently even if room occupancy were to fall to 65 per cent instead of the current 90 per cent.

The other "top 10" companies included American Telephone and Telegraph Co., E.I. du Pont de Nemours, B.F. Goodrich, Grand Union, Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Co., National Cash Register, National City Bank of N.Y., Procter & Gamble and Time, Inc.

CAPT. JOHNNY FALCON

Christian Science Lecturer Speaks To Local Society Monday Evening

Knowledge of what is real — of the basic cause, purpose, and laws of the universe — can now be classified as a spiritual science and proved by demonstration and healing, Robert S. Van Atta told a Greenville audience last night.

Truth is spiritual, and this is shown by both discovery and modern proof, Mr. Van Atta said. He maintained that the "Science of spiritual reality" is at present "revealed, established, systematized, demonstrated, and made available and practical . . . "

Mr. Van Atta, now on an extended lecture tour, came to Greenville on invitation of Christian Science Society. He is a member of the Board of Lectureship of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass. He spoke in the church edifice. His topic was: "Christian Science and the Search for Cause." He was introduced by Mrs. Sue Hyman Bowden, former Second Reader of the local society.

The world has heard much about the Science of spiritual reality in the past 80 years, he said, adding: "It is destined to hear a great deal more, because the Science of Christ heals sickness and eliminates sin; it settles quarrels, ends strife, and ensures peace to weary strugglers; it shows the way to success, happiness, and lasting satisfaction."

In stressing this point Mr. Van Atta cited Christian Science healings, including one of a severe burn and another of infection.

He told of a woman who was healed after she had grasped an extremely hot lid lifter on a stove. The woman had left the stove draft open, and returned to the kitchen to find the stove red hot. She grasped the lifter, only to discover that it was almost red hot. But through prayer she was healed in a few minutes.

"She turned her thoughts quickly and earnestly to Christian Science," the lecturer said. "She saw that pain is in human relief, not in matter, and the only way she could have pain was by admitting it into her thinking. She turned her thoughts steadfastly away from the hand and toward divine Life, Truth, and Love. She affirmed persistently that Spirit is all and matter nothing; she prayed humbly that only God's thoughts should find abiding place in her heart." The pain subsided, and it was not long before she found her hand perfectly normal.

"Nothing was said to the family during the dinner hour," the lecturer related. "Washing the dishes afterwards, she found she could put her hands into the hot water withished, she went into the living room, out trouble. When her work was finplaced her hands palms upwards under the table lamp, and asked her family to see if they could note any difference between them. They said both hands looked alike to them. There was not the least sign of a burn."

Referring to Mary Baker Eddy's discovery of Christian Science, the lecturer said she had discovered that "the Master's method is still available and practical."

He said that Jesus' "constant and consistent dominion over material conditions" could have come "only through an understanding of divine power which was so clear, so complete, and so exact that it must be acknowledged as truly scientific."

This same understanding, Mr. Van Atta maintained, could be utilized by others willing to cultivate it through study, prayer, and right living.

Peiping Boasts Industrial Gains

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The Peiping Communist radio says new mills are under construction in China's major steel center at Anan, Manchuria.

The broadcast said three big furnaces, a rolling mill and a seamless tubing mill—will open "a new phase in China's metallurgical industry."

Monday's Cases In Police Court

By CHESTER WALSH

In Police Court Monday, Judge Charles H. Whedbee found probable cause in the case against Archie Lee Smith, Negro, charged, with assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill his wife, Mary Smith, last November 15.

The court bound him over to Superior Court under $1,000 bond. He is in jail.

The victim testified she was walking her husband; that he said someing on Boyd Avenue in front of that a pistol bullet struck her in thing about "Russian roulette," and the back temporarily paralyzing her.

Further testimony was the Greenville police arrested her husband, and that they found a pistol he had thrown between two houses shortly after the shooting.

Solicitor Eli Bloom developed the fact that Smith's wife remained at a hospital some time, and later was taken to her home, 224 Boyd Avenue. He said hearing of the case was set for Monday because the wounded woman was unable to appear before that date.

Judge Whedbee found Charlie Beachum, Negro, not guilty of temporary larceny of a truck, the property of Simon Braxton, who lives on the Hooker Road. The court found Braxton guilty of malicious and frivilous prosecution and taxed him with court costs — $13.

Frank Dixon, Negro, disorderly conduct in Jasper Darden's store, three months on the roads, sentence suspended on payment of $10. The judgement also provides that Dixon is not to enter any premises or store of Jasper Darden, and he is not to molest or harm Darden.

Jasper Darden, Negro, was found not guilty of assault with a deadly weapon.

Jesse Anderson, Negro, assault with a deadly weapon (a pistol) on Wilbur Lee Kilpatrick, Negro, three months on the roads, sentence is to be suspended on payment of $25, costs deducted. Gunfighter's Return

Chapter Ten

Hugh Jubal glanced at Stromberg revealing in that brief gesture a slavish obedience. The thought came to Rimbaud that they'd fought the Civil War to free black slaves, yet here was a white man in bondage to his boss.

"Speak up," Stromberg commanded impatiently.

Hugh had no liking for this and showed it in the grudging way he said, "Well, it was a mistake."

"That's not nough," Rimbaud said.

An expectant hust settled on the room; a silence so strict that the ticking of a clock above the bar was a distinct disturbance. Anger brightened Jubal's brown eyes; it stained his grown-utted brow and was a growling undertone when he muttered, "I'm sorry it happened."

"You should be," Rimbaud said. "Now tell Limby Smith the same thing."

Jubal's eyes bugged wide with disbelief. "For just shovin' him off?" he demanded.

"For knocking him down."

Perspiration glistened against the sorrel stubble on Hugh's long upper lip and formed pimply beads across his forhead. Indecision gripped him so that he was like a man teetering on the top rail of a corral fence, and in this moment of suspension Fonso Peal said excitedly, "Smith was drunk and disorderly."

Without shifting his glance from Jubal's face, Rimbaud said, "ou keep out of this Peal." Then he asked, "How about it, Jubal? How about it?"

"Not by a damn sight!" Jubal shouted, emphasizing his refusal by shaking a fist. "I ain't apologizin' to no drunken bum!"

He was like that, with one hand up, when Rimbaud tilted forward and hit him in the face.

Jubal's squalled curse was echoed by the meaty impact of another blow that mashed his nostrils. He floundered into Lew Stromberg and was still off balance when Rimbaud caught him with a sledging right to the ribs. Wholly confused by the swift savagery of Rimbaud's attack, Jubal skidded in a half turn, then reeled back like a drunken dancer doing an awkward mashay.

Men at the bar moved hastily aside, making room for him, and someone out front yelled gleefully, "Fight Fight!"

Jubal braced himself against the bar. He wiped his bloody nose on an uphunched shoulder and peered at Rimbaud with eyes hate-polished to shining amber. "What you trying' to do?" he demanded in a wheezing, outraged voice. But he made no attempt to draw his gun.

"I'm teaching you some proper manners," Rimbaud said.

Downchinned and rashly smiling, he moved in with the relentless stalking glide of a hungry tiger. He had been sleepy and half drunk a few minutes ago; now the roused a sharp clarity in him. And a familiar exuberance. This was how a man felt when he fought with his fists; when he used knuckles and muscles instead of bullets. This was the way a man was supposed to fight.

"Slug him, Hugh!" Red Shafter urged. "Swing at him!"

Jubal swung and missed, and tried to duck away. But Rimbaud cuffed him back with lancing rights and lefts to the face. When Jubal grabbed him in a desperate attempt to clinch, Rimbaud flung him off, scoffing, "Don't use me for a leaning post."

Pat Finucane, who had come around the bar to assure himself of an unobstructed view, exclaimed amusedly, "Ain't he the droll on now, that Rimbaud!"

The mockery seemed to rejuvenate the battered Roman Four ramrod. Cursing insanely, he swung both fists and targeted Rimbaud with a blacing blow that peeled a strip of skin from Rimbaud's temple. He knocked Rimbaud back with a solid right to the chest, and when Rimbaud charged him again, Jubal arched his body on the bar's beveled edge and kicked out viciously trying for the groin. But Rimbaud crouched and caught the boot in both hands and hoisted in high.

Upended so violently that only his shoulders touched the bar, Jubal loosed a long-drawn yell as he went over, that frantic outcry merging with a crash of tumbled whisky glasses and the thudding impact of his body.

Rimbaud hurdled the bar, ignoring Fonso Peal, who protested, "You'll wreck my place!"

Jubal was up on one elbow, clawing for his gun, when Rimbaud slugged him. Hugh fell back and gave Rimbaud a blank, uncomprehending look.

Then his mouth sagged open and it was through.

Rimbaud grasped the back of Jubal's vest and ragged him slowly along the narrow runway. Rounding the bar's end, Rimbaud glanced at the poker table and observed that Limpy Smith was asleep with his head resting on the green felt. Something about that amused Rimbaud; he chuckled, thinking how odd it was that Smith should so serenely ignore the commotion he had cuased.

Remotely aware of many faces at the doorway Rimbaud dragged Jubal out into the soiled sawdust and dropped him face down. He wiped blood-smeared knuckles on his pants and looked at Lew Stromberg, who stood with a Roman Four man on each side of him, and asked, "Any objections?"

There was a ruddy flush on Stromberg's frown-creased face. His black eyes held a metallic shine and a queerly piercing intentness. It was as if he weren't quite sure what he was seeing, and must be sure before speaking.

"Any objections?" Rimbaud asked again.

"No," Stromberg said, his voice oddly mild and devoid of anger. "No objections."

Rimbaud grinned. He dropped a double eagle on the bar and said to Fonso Peal, "Set up drinks for the house."

Then he walked out, and stepping quickly through a crowd on the stoop, angled across Main Stree toward the Alhambra Hotel. It didn't occur to him that Eve Odegarde might have been on that group of spellbound spectators, or that she would watch until he entered the hotel and then whisper, "Good luck, Fiddlefoot."

The word "witch" is allied to "wit" which formerly meant "to know."

Sentiment, But Not For $1,000

WOODBRIDGE, Conn. (UP) — Anyone want a $1,000 valentine?

You won't find one in your greeting card shop, but Carroll A. Means could cater to you. He is one of America's comparatively few valentine collectors.

Some of his collection are worth hundreds of dollars, despite the fact they're nothing but fancy pieces of paper. But they're anywhere from 25 to 209 years old.

The fine art of valentine-collecting began less than a quarter of a century ago in this country, when there were not more than 10 such enthusiasts.

The old-timers really outdid themselves when it came to lavish designs. Hearts and flowers, pictures of pretty ladies and cherubs were combined with flowery phrases.

Included in Means' collection are scores of valentines designed by hand. He considers these the most beautiful. It wasn't until about 1800 that printed cards began appearing.

Plans Crossing Atlantic Ocean 'The Hard Way'

LAS PALMAS, Gran Canaria, Is. (AP)—Fernando Mayolas, a Spanish seaman born in Gijon, plans to better the recent feat of the Frenchman Alain Bombard. He will shortly attempt to cross the Atlantic in 40 days in a small craft, no bigger than a barrel.

Bombard recently crossed the Atlantic to America in a tiny raft formed by two rubber torpedoes 18 feet long. His trip was to prove a person can subsist from the sea.

Mayolas will leave from Las Palmas for Puerto Rico, then to Santo Domingo and finally Havana. The "Asturias" only carries a small sail and here is hardly room for Mayolas to sit down. Mayolas' main purpose is to prove that the "Spaniards are able to realize, with more difficulties, what others have done."

Honor System Is Notable Success

TORONTO, Ont. (AP)—J. A. Reynolds, who operates a seven-cabin tourist establishment at Kincardine, is a believer in the honesty of his fellow man.

He stocked $94 worth of food in an unsupervised kitchen, merely asking users to make out a chit for whatever was used so the amount could be added to the bill. In two months time 80 persons used $67 worth of goods, leaving $27 worth on the shelves in a perfect accounting, reports an Ontario government service publication.

GHS Plays Elizabeth City Tonight

Sonny Russell Has 23 Point Average

Although he was outscored 10 points Saturday night, Sonny Russell still retained his hold on the scoring lead for the East Carolina College Pirates. The All-State and All-Conference senior from New Bern is averaging 23.3 points per game.

Russell was "held" to 18 points Saturday night by the tough McCrary Eagles and, as a result, his scoring average per game dropped three-tenths of a percentage point. All told, he has 349 points in 15 ball games.

Russell's closest rival for the scoring honors is big Bobby Hodges, the team's leader last year. Hodges has 299 points in 14 games for a 21.4 average. Last year, when he led the team in scoring, Hodges averaged 21.9 points per game.

Russell and Hodges are far ahead of the three remaining starters. Forward Charlie Huffman, with 191 points in 15 games, has a 12.7 average. J. C. Thomas has an even 8.0 mark with 120 points in 15 games. Cecil Heath, with 119 points in 15 games, has a 7.9 record.

Scoring summary for the first five:

Player	G	FG	FT	TP	Av.
Russell	15	136	77	349	23.3
Hodges	14	106	87	299	21.4
Huffman	15	74	42	191	12.7
Thomas	15	41	38	120	8.0
Heath	15	45	29	119	7.9

The Pirates will be idle this week until Saturday night when they face Elon in Memorial Gym in a return match. Earlier this season, Elon played host to the Pirates and lost a 76-75 thriller. That was the game which started the Pirates on their way to the loop's top spot.

Elon will come to town Saturday night as the North State's second place club. They've won eight games and lost three and stand a small chance of taking over the first place in the conference if the Bucs should happen to falter in their three remaining conference games.

The Christians are playing their games nowadays without the services of All-State forward Ben Kendall. The Kokomo, Indiana, junior is under an indefinite suspension at Elon because of an alleged violation of rules. Just when he will return to the line-up—if he will—is an uncertain situation.

With Kendall gone, most of the scoring burden for Elon has fallen on the shoulders of center Dee Atkinson and guard Billy Hawkins. Atkinson is a 6-5 sophomore who is exceptionally good under the boards while Hawkins is a graduate of the great Wingate Junior College teams of the past two years. Hawkins is a very fast man and an outstanding ball handler.

The Elon style of offense was reviewed yesterday by the Pirates in half-court and full-court practice sessions. Coach Howard Porter had all the squad members taking part in the workout.

Hard Luck Sticks With Phantoms In Long Siege

prolonged siege of flu continued to lay dormant in Greenville High School's path to Northeastern Conference basketball honors yesterday as the Phantoms wound up final preparations for tonight's contest at Elizabeth City.

Missing from practice yesterday with recurrences of the dreaded flu plague were Phantom mainsprings, All-Conference Smith-Worthington, George Sideris and Guy Smith. Jimmy Cheatham also missed yesterday's workouts.

Coach Bo Farley glumly described the concurrent Phantom team illness as the worst in his experience as coach. "Last year we were bothered with flu some and a few of the players missed some games, but nothing like this. In spite of all we can do and all the precautions we can take our key players are still out of action. Flu is in the air and there's nothing we can do about it."

Worthington, who before going smitten by the flu bug was pacing the Phantoms on a victory march through Northeastern Conference foes, has been out of action for two weeks and regulars Sideris, Smith, Dixie Hobgood, Leon Hardee and Walter Perkins have seen limited action. Sideris' floor generalship and Smith's speed will be sorely missed in tonight's encounter.

Starting standbys Bobby Conway and Bobby Starkey, who have been alternating at center, will both be in the starting lineup tomorrow night with Starkey moving up to a forward post. Leon Hardee will operate from the other forward position with Dixie Hobgood and Edgar Moore conducting play from guard positions.

Dickie Darling, Bill Wallace and big center Trueblood are expected to provide most of the scoring fireworks for Elizabeth City's Yellow Jackets.

Bethel Wins Two On Parents Night

BETHEL—The Bethel High School cagers were in their best form and on best behavior last night as they scored a double victory over Grimesland for the benefit of their proud parents who were present through special invitation for Parent's Night.

All parents of Bethel High basketball players were invited by Principal Walter Latham to attend last night's game as special guests to watch their youngsters perform on the court.

Mary Jo Wynne and Carrie Ayers combined 28 and 24 points respectively to lead Bethel's girl cagers to a 60-41 triumph in the opener. Ann Riddick, Edith Doughtie and Jenny Whitehurst starred in the backcourt for the winners.

Becky Mills looped in 25 points for Grimesland but couldn't keep pace with the high-flying Indian lassies who broke loose in the third quarter and continued to burn the nets throughout the final period to win going away.

Boys Game

The Indian braves were in no mood to smoke the peace pipe with Grimesland's game warriors as they romped to a 72-50 victory.

Dalton Council led the Indians' attack with 21 points with Robert Nelson and Michael House contributing 10 each. B. B. Tetterton and Larry Tetterton dominated floor play and backboard work for the winners.

Grifton Gains Pair Of Conference Wins

GRIFTON—The roaring Bulldogs of Grifton High put Belvoir's Eagles to flight by handing them a double defeat in Pitt County Conference basketball games here last night.

Colleen Braxton rang up 25 points while pacing the Grifton girls to a 45-37 victory in the opener. Trailing 36-24 at the end of three quarters of play, the Eagles paced by Marlene Clark attempted a belated comeback which fell short.

An irregular twist turned up in the girls game. The game was expected to feature a free scoring duel between forwards Hilda Buck and Colleen Braxton of Grifton and Marlene Clark and Hilda Buck of Grifton.

However, Grifton guards Barbara Corey, Peggy Buck, Gertrude Garris and Joyce Koon and Belvoir guards Florence Harrell, Edna Randolph and Joyce Harris took charge to hold down the point making efforts except those by Braxton and Clark.

Boys Game

The boys game provided plenty in the way of scoring. J. R. Hooten paved the way to a Bulldog 71-50 victory. Hooten had a total of 29 points to take high scoring honors for the night. Rufus Craft contributed 18 points to the winners' attack.

John Robert Lewis played a fine defensive game under the backboards.

Wofford Coach Goes To Wyoming

COLUMBIA, S. C. (UP) — Phil Dickens, Wyoming's new football coach, was known as "phantom Phil" during his playing days at Tennessee where he won all-Southeastern Conference honors as a tailback.

But after he took over as head coach at Wofford College, a small Methodist school at Spartanburg, S. C., six years ag, his nickname

Like many a good coach, Dickens would paint a gloomy picture in advance of the game. Then his sturdy band of Wofford youngsters would go out and either slaughter the opposition r come thrugh with an upset tie.

Indiana Wrests Cage Lead From Seton Hall

NEW YORK (UP) — Indiana's Big Ten Conference leaders wrested the top spot in the United Press college basketball ratings today from undefeated Seton Hall.

Although Seton Hall, which has won 22 straight games, received 19 first place votes to only 10 for Indiana, the Hoosiers attracted far greater support for succeeding places and took over the No. 1 ranking by a margin of 15 points.

The 35 leading coaches who make up the United Press board based their ratings on games played through Saturday night, Feb. 7.

Coach Branch McCracken's Hoosiers, victorious in 11 of their first 13 games, received a total of 303 points to 288 for Seton Hall. The unbeaten Pirates from South Orange, N.J., had topped Indiana by only a few points for the three previous weeks.

This week's top 10 was made up of the same teams as last week with a few changes in positions, due largely to Kansas State's defeat by Nebraska.

Washington (20-1) was third for the fourth straight week and Illinois (11-2) retained fourth place. LaSalle (17-2) and Oklahoma A and M (16-3) each climbed one notch in that order, while Kansas State (10-3) dropped from fifth to seventh place.

Depaul (16-4), North Carolina State (19-4) and Louisiana State (15-1) completed the top 10 teams, all holding their rankings of last week.

Washington, with 261 points, continued to make progress in the direction of second place, attracting three first place votes. Illinois had 214 points (with one first place vote), LaSalle 172, the Oklahoma Aggies 143, Kansas State 100, DePaul 86, N.C. State 71 (with one first) and LSU had 68 points.

Points are awarded on the basis of 10 for a first place vote, nine for a second, and so on down to one for a 10th place vote.

Kansas, with a 10-4 record, moved up from 13th place to lead the second 10 teams, while Western Kentucky (19-3) vaulted three places to 12th. Next came California, Notre Dame (with one first place vote), Brigham Young, UCLA, Minnesota and St. Louis, with Wyoming and Tulsa tied for 20th place.

Bright Belt To Form League

WILSON—Baseball officials and representatives of the semi-pro Bright Belt League met here last night and decided definitely to operate for the coming year.

Representatives from Farmville, Stantonsburg, Wilson, Elm City, Macclesfield, Pinetops and Tarboro agreed to enter teams in the league forming a tentative number of seven members.

Applications from Kinston and Smithfield were turned down because of the extended traveling distance that would be required of many teams already in the league.

Next Monday night the league will hold a business meeting at Parker's Restaurant in Wilson to put up cash forfeits, draw up by-laws, arrange schedules and decide on opening date for the season.

A spokesman for the league indicated that addition of an eighth team from a nearby vicinity would be welcome.

Jack Warren Wins Honors As Pitt Player-of-the-Week

PITT BASKETBALL SCHEDULE

Tuesday, Feb. 10
Walstonburg at Stokes
Ayden at Farmville
Vanceboro at Winterville

Thursday, Feb. 12
Ayden at Winterville

Friday, Feb. 13
Stokes at Bethel
Belvoir at Chicod
Grifton at Grimesland

Jack Warren, Stokes captain, has the very exceptional ability to hit a hoop with a basketball from almost any spot on the forecourt and as a result he is currently breezing along at a 20-point game average in 19 games this season.

Warren scored 51 points against Stokes opponents, Grimesland and Windsor, last week. He played a good defensive game and was sharp on rebounds. His performance won him Pitt County player-of-the-week honors.

Warren is a senior, 19 years old and has been playing basketball four years; this is his third year on the varsity. He is also a competent baseball pitcher, hurling eight victories against three defeats last year.

The flashy court captain has been playing basketball practically since the toddler stage and plays any position on the team with equal ease. A very difficult player to guard his set shots hit with such regularity that makes him a double asset in passing off to a breaking teammate or driving in for a layup.

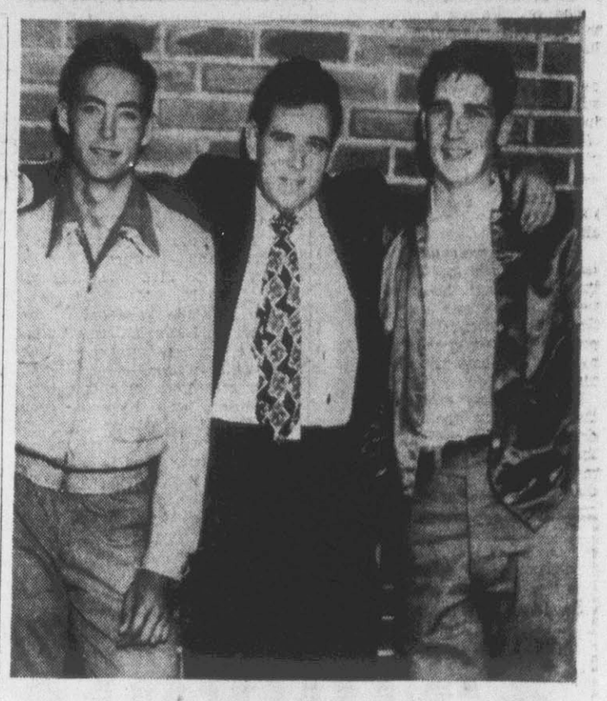
Opponent teams can ill afford to focus too much attention on Warren because teammates David Roberson, Carl White and Warren Whitehurst also hit double figures in the scoring column practically every game.

The dynamic star lists Stokes' victory over Belvoir as his greatest thrill in basketball. "I scored 28 points in that game, 20 in the last quarter. My brother Ed Warren coaches the Belvoir team and I guess maybe I was trying to show off a little."

When he finishes high school this spring, Warren plans to enter Campbell College if Uncle Sam doesn't intervene and whish him off to the armed services.

Basketball and baseball are his big interest, but he likes all sports. He is a member of the Beta Club, the Monogram Club and has been a school bus driver for some time.

Quite a number of county basketball players double as school bus drivers and it makes a busy day. The boys have to get an early start, carry their loads and report for class duties. When school is over, they hurry out to their buses, deliver their charges home and come back to school for basketball practice. It makes a full day's work but Warren seems to thrive on it.



PRIZE PUPILS—Coach Arthur Dempsey of Stokes has a very good reason to be proud of his star basketball pupils David Roberson (left) and Jack Warren. The pair of hardwood enthusiasts have accounted for 625 points between them while pacing Stokes to 16 victories against five defeats this season. Warren won Pitt County player-of-the-week honors for his outstanding performance last week.

WHITEHURST
Tornado Leader

Mac Whitehurst continued to set a hot pace as he led Ayden to a 70-45 victory over Robersonville. Todd Kittrell and Randall Harrington had 17 each in the Coastal Conference triumph.

Florence Harrell of Belvoir, Janice Cayton and Adrienne White of Grimesland, Frankie Meeks and Peggy Gurganus of Stokes, all played outstanding games at guard for their respective teams.

KENNEDY
Chicod Forward

Jessie Kennedy, Chicod forward, hit 13 straight free shots in playing a leading role in Chicod's 50-43 victory over Vanceboro last Tuesday. Patsy Mills was high scorer for the game with 26 points but Kennedy's steady accuracy at the free throw mark meant the difference in a close game.

Duke Is Battling Hard For Tourney Berth

The Duke Blue Devils and Richmond's Spiders, suddenly the giant-killers of the Southern Conference, counted another upset conference win each today in their tooth-and-nail scramble for a berth in the annual league basketball tournament March 5-7.

Ignoring the odds against them again, Duke dropped the rugged and rangy George Washington Colonials 83-80 last night at Durham. It was the seventh straight victory for Coach Hal Bradley's men and even more important because it was one of the remaining league games that Duke wasn't supposed to win.

On Dec. 22 in Washington GW beat Duke 113 to 87. It was the highest score ever amassed against a Duke Team, and the most humiliating loss of the season.

Llast night, the Devils got revenge. They raced into a 20-18 first period lead and despite GW's terrific twosome of Joe and John Holup, Duke matched points with the Colonials the rest of the way then added a one point margin in the final period.

Freshman Joe Holup scored 29 points — 20 of them in the first half, but he was hampered in the last half by fouls and left the game on personals early in the finale frame.

Rollicking Rudy D'Emilio bucketed 30 points for Duke.

Richmond's freshman - loaded Spiders avenged an earlier defeat by Maryland last night, downing the "slow-motion" Terps 49-46 in College Park, Md.

It was the 10th consecutive victory for Richmond since Maryland beat them 63-60 and it moved the Spider mark in the conference to 9-4.

Richmond thus moved into a tie with George Washington and Maryland, now 8-3, fell back into a tie with West Virginia for fourth.

Primitive Terrorism In Mau-Mau Campaign

By PHIL NEWSOM
United Press Foreign News Editor

There is something particularly terrifying in the blood-lusting campaign of the African Mau Mau.

And yet, it's not a new story in the progress of what we call civilization.

Once more it's the story of the painted savage, creeping upon a wilderness cabin and, in the awful loneliness and a few moments of blood-letting, wiping out the pioneer family that risked all and lost all.

We need to go back less than 100 years in our own history for similar stories.

But in the passage of time the tale of Custer's last stand, of Sitting Bull and the warfare between Indians and the early settlers have softened to legend and now are looked upon mostly as a bygone and colorful page of our history.

Like the early American Indian, the Mau Mau is attempting to drive the encroaching whites from the land. The Mau Mau has no more chance of success than did the American Indian. But neither campaign reflects any particular credit on the white man.

The Mau Mau is a secret society drawn from the Kikiyu tribe of Kenya, East Africa. The Kikiyus number about one and a quarter million, making up about one-fifth of the Kenya population. About 100,000 of them are believed to be members of the Mau Mau.

Savagery and terrorism are the keynotes of the Mau Mau.

The initiate is slashed with a razor blade seven times each on forearms, on the back and on the stomach.

He swears to kill or drive out the Europeans — whites — and he swears not to give away the secrets of the Mau Mau.

Their favorite weapon is the "panga," a farm impliment similar to a machete with which they slash their victims.

Their resentment is both against the whites, who have crowded them from the best lands and on to reservations and banned many of their tribal rites, and against Asians who have taken over shops, businesses and most of the middleman industries.

Hundreds of special police and British troops flown into the area from the Suez Canal Zone have been unable to wipe them out.

And so successful have been their tactics that scores of Europeans and Africans alike have been slain, and no settler travels without his gun.

The British hope they have broken the back of organized resistance with the arrest of Jomo "Burning Spear" Kenyatta.

The bearded, stolid Kenyatta was educated at the London School of Economics and is president of the Kenya African Union. It is charged that the Mau Mau simply is the terroristic wing of the union.

Meanwhile, there is unrest and resentment among the white settlers against the British colonial administration's handling of the whole affair. A little more, say the settlers, and they'll take the law into their own hands—which also seems to be an echo of our own early history.

Says Spaghetti Isn't Fattening

CHICAGO (U.P.)—The "spaghetti king of the world" says American women who are afraid of getting fat ought to eat more of his favorite dish.

"A serving of Italian-made spaghetti contains fewer calories than a grapefruit," according to Mario Braibanti of Milan, Italy.

He said Americans overcook spaghetti and use too little water. Housewives are too hurried to take the time to make it well, and they don't know enough recipes to make a combination of dishes.

Braibanti, who began a tour of the United States last fall, said the best section for his favored food is New York City. But he added that one place in Chicago served spaghetti "just like in Italy."

Non—fattening?

Braibanti became known as the "spaghetti king" because the manufacturing company operated by him and his brother, Guiseppe, produces 75,000 pounds of the food a day. The brothers also make the only complete line of necessary equipment and sell 70 per cent of the world supply of extrusion presses used to make spaghetti and macaroni.

He noted that while the manufacturing methods here were very good, he considered them behind the advanced techniques in Italy.

Braibanti said middle-aged men could prevent high blood pressure if they would eat less meat and more spaghetti. As proof that spaghetti would not produce the "middle-age bulge" Braibanti cited Sicily, not his portly self.

Drop Charges In Bridge Death

WINDSOR, N. C. (AP)— Manslaughter charges are being dropped against two men accused in the death of a truck driver when a temporary bridge collapsed, over the Roanoke River, May 17, 1950.

This was reported last night by Solicitor Ernest Tyler of Roxobel, who said he was nol prossing manslaughter charges against bridge inspectors W. S. Murphy and J. M. Clagon. The charges grew out of the death of Ernest C. Conner when his truck plunged through a temporary bridge near Scotland Neck.

Tyler said he was taking the action because his chief prosecuting witness, J. H. Bruning, a Norfolk engineer, died last December.

Wrecks New Car In Road Mishap

BETHEL—A driver on his way to Greenville with a new 1953 automobile, seeking a 2,000-mile check-up, maybe doesn't believe now that trip was necessary.

In fact, Hannibal J. Haislip, Oak City man, probably now believes he would have been a lot better off if he had just forgotten about the check-up entirely.

A car operated by Haislip was enroute to Greenville around nine o'clock this morning when it wrecked.

According to Investigating Officer C. E. Whitfield, the car attempted to pass a truck driven by Orah ...ston, Rocky Mount, tobacco company employee, at the same time the truck started to make a left turn.

More than $250 damage was reported to the new car with an estimated $25 to the truck.

Neither of the drivers were injured in the accident.

Haislip was charged with improper passing.

The accident occurred at the intersection of Highway NC 11 and 33, one mile south of Bethel.

Bans 'Free Corps' West Germany

BONN, Germany (AP)—The West German government today banned the Nazi-like "Free Corps of Germany" on grounds its aims endanger the country's constitution. Four leaders were arrested and warrants were issued for others.

A cabinet spokesman said the organization was semi-military and had a following of about 2,000. Among the leaders was Alfred Scheel, 45-year-old Bavarian doctor who was among seven Nazis jailed by the British last month on suspicion of plotting against the West German government.

Capitol Square

LET DOWN — State workers now claim they have been let down or given the run-around. They had anticipated extra checks by this date covering the extra pay for the last six months of 1952, and then regular increases on monthly checks hereafter for current salaries. Of course, they were premature in spending money and now the promise was being broken. That is not ture; no person or agency other than the General Assembly could make any such promise, and the Assembly has not acted. Governors Scott and Umstead have kept kept faith by securing budget recommendation for the r ise.

MORALE — Any one who makes the rounds of State departments or talks with school teachers can readily understand the need for some sort of action. The uncertainty is disrupting morale, and in some offices the workers spend most of the time of your porter's visit talking about the let down which they have suffered. Definite action now in denying the raise would be better than the continuing uncertainty. All the logical arguments which can be advanced about the unreasonableness of salaried workers in expecting an immediate raise lose force in face of the accomplished fact of much higher raises having been voted top elective officials on the first day of the session. One middle bracket employee said "There's no use for the Legislature to say the raise can't be given now; because it already has been done part of the folks."
