Local Tobaccoist Speaks To Book Club On History of Industry

The Sans Souci Book Club met Tuesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock with Mrs. W. L. Hall at her home on West Fourth Street.

Amid a setting of spring flowers and a particularly effective arrangement of talliesman roses club members and guests enjoyed a most informative and interesting program given by Mr. James S. Jenkins, local tobaccoist. Continuing the club's study of North Carolina Mr. Jenkins who was presented by the club's president, Mrs. S. T. White, gave the history of the Tobacco Industry in North Carolina.

Beginning with the pioneer work of the Duke family and the contributions of the Reynolds family to the industry and bringing the story up to the present day the club learned that tobacco was really one of North Carolina's "gold mines."

This state raises two-thirds of all the bright leaf tobacco in the world and 25 million pounds of curly tobacco. Experiments are going forward in the western part of the state in the raising of Turkish tobacco. The industry naturally leads to the manufacture of many allied industries such as cigarette paper and tins for smoking tobacco. It also furnishes the impetus for a big trucking line in the state.

He then reviewed the history of the growth of tobacco in Pitt County from 1891 until the present, detailing of the part that many prominent family names in Pitt played in its development. His own father came to Greenville to teach Pitt farmers how to raise and cure tobacco, thus accounting for the speaker's first interest in the town and its tobacco industry.

Mr. Jenkins ended this delightful program by reading amusing and colorful excerpts from some old files by The Daily Reflector which related to phases of the tobacco grown in and around Greenville.

Books were exchanged and the hostess, assisted by her daughter, Mrs. Waters served a delicious dessert course with coffee.

Guests for the afternoon were Mr. and Mrs. James S. Jenkins, Mrs. W. L. Harrington, Mrs. Earl Hellen and Mrs. Preston Tyson of Wilson.

County, we don't know. There have been no reports on the underpass by the highway commission since the proposal for sharing the cost was rejected last December.

Admittedly it takes time for necessary arrangements to be made for such alterations as are required at the underpass. But where a traffic hazard is as pressing as the underpass has proven, the Highway Commission should accelerate the work as much as possible.

Unless some steps are taken, large trucks which use highway 43 through Greenville are going to continue to crash into the low-hanging railroad crossing. The longer the highway commission delays in correcting the situation which now exists the heavier property damage the traffic hazard is going to claim.

There have been an ample number of similar accidents at the underpass to prove to everyone's satisfaction that some alterations must be made. Likewise there has been ample talk about the problem of getting the alterations made since the city and county first made their request of the Highway Commission.

It is high time work got underway to correct the bad situation which exists at the underpass.

A Language More Readily Understood

Russians in the Kurile Islands have tested Japan's ultimatum concerning the violation of her territory by aircraft and have found the Japanese government meant what it said.

Two Russian planes over Japanese territory tangled with two American planes sent to intercept them a couple of days ago. One of the intruding planes was damaged in the ensuing skirmish. But more important is that the communists found Japan's ultimatum that action would be taken against violations of her territory was not a bluff.

The Japanese government asked the American military units to back up its ultimatum to Russia; and the American military has.

As was expected the incident touched off another spark which many felt would ignite the Asiatic powder keg. So far it hasn't. What it has done — as we expected — was touch off another Soviet propaganda theme.

It will take a little time to see what the Russians will try next over Japanese territory, now that they know the order to fire on intruding aircraft was not a bluff. Maybe the Russians have learned Japan wasn't kidding with the orders it issued. Perhaps that is exactly what the Russians wanted to know, and the violations of Japanese territory will now end.

Then again there is the possibility Russia wishes to increase the "bigger war" jitters which already are at a fever pitch in Asia. If that be their purpose, the skies over Japan may gradually become the scene of more dog fights between American and Soviet planes. Perhaps that would divert some of the air support which the United States may be contemplating sending to the Chinese Nationalists on Formosa.

Whatever comes as a result of the air battle over Japanese territory, the Reds know future violations of Japan's Islands will be answered with gun-fire rather than with diplomatic notes.

It is a language more readily understood by the communists.

WASHINGTON—Although Secretary Dulles' report on his European tour of NATO countries was given behind the closed doors of several Congressional committees, his most significant statements have been made available to this writer.

Not even President Eisenhower's reiterated injunction against misnamed "blabbermouths," luckily, can muzzle the M.C.'s. The American people have a right to know the facts.

First, the British and the French do not entertain the same fear of Russia's warlike purposes and action as we do according to Dulles. Therefore, they see no reason for rearming or effectuating a European Defense Community as fast or as extensively as Eisenhower and Dulles think they should.

From their long experience with Moscow under the Czars and the Commissars, they do not believe that the Kremlin will wage war, unless attacked.

FRANCE FEARS REARMED GERMANY—Secondly, France is more afraid of a rearmend and militaristic Germany than she is of Stalin. Russia has not invaded France since Napoleon's wars, whereas the Germans conquered and devastated French territory three times within 70 years, from 1870 to 1940. Anciently still living remember, as I learned during World War I.

London laughs at our fears of an imminent Russian attack. Churchill's military, economic and political experts insist that Moscow is in no position to undertake a program of world conquest.

In their opinion, it will be at least 10 years before Russian industry, agriculture, transportation and production can support a conflict of global nature between the two worlds.

OUR KOREAN POLICE ACTION—Finally, and this may shock the American Congress and people, London and Paris are not too seriously concerned with our "police action" in Korea. They oppose any new Eisenhower policy that will broaden that conflict, or jeopardize their interests and holdings in the Far East. Having policed far corners of the earth for almost 200 years—in Afghanistan, Egypt, Morocco, Indo-China, Singapore, Hong Kong, etc.—the British and French look upon our Korean intervention and casualties as the natural consequence of our postwar assumption of world responsibilities.

FRENCH DEMAND — The Anglo-French viewpoint, so Dulles says, is that the United States is now suffering the birth pains of a world power with worldwide commitments. In their talks with Dulles, although they cannot make the same admission for home consumption, they insist that the U.S. must bear the main burden of this responsibility, financially and militarily.

Somebody Told Me

By I. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, JR.

About a year ago I was looking in one of Wife Rachel's pocket-books and saw sales slips and ticket stubs dating back two years. She wasn't looking at the time, so I took every single one of the 37 items out of the pocketbook.

It was about a week later when she noticed that something had happened to the bulge in the pocketbook. "I've been robbed!" she said.

"That's right," I agreed, "but only by me. I've hidden the contents of the pocketbook. The minute you need any one of the items, let me know and I'll let you know where it's hidden."

The other night W. R. was cleaning out a drawer and ran into those items. One sales slip was from Danville, Va., where she worked six years ago. We had a big laugh about it.

A few days later W. R. noticed my desk down at the office. A quick glance will reveal papers that date back to November 20th. There was only one thing for me to do, and that was hide the stack of papers from myself to be fair about the situation.

This experiment worked wonders, except the casual observer no longer thinks that I have a back-log of work staring me in the face. All of the papers were about matters that are pending and it seems that they will remain in that classification forever.

W. R. and I have agreed that this experiment should be carried on all over the house. The next item I want stored away is boxes. This will of course mean that when she sees a box, I'll have to bring it from the store. But this is a far less evil than filling up half the storage space with boxes. Perhaps this plan would help with our entire economy, plus the fact that it would brighten up our surroundings. If we throw away more, we are opening the avenue for new sales.

There is no end to the help it would give our domestic problems. Out of 100 married couples, I would venture to say that either the man or the woman is inclined to save every item in sight. The other is inclined to throw everything away. Thus, the split opinion brings occasional dissension.

Junk, any way you look at it, is a headache for everybody except the junk man. If men clean out their desks and women their pocketbooks that would give us a good start. And I thank you.

POLITICS — Politically minded folks are giving thought to next year's primary and election campaign in which will be chosen a United States Senator for the seat now occupied by Senator Willis Smith. Although the nomination will not be made until late May, the lists of candidates will be fixed by mid-March of next year, and very probably the lines will be drawn before Christmas of this year. Smith has informally announced his candidacy for reelection. Former Governor Kerr Scott has been listed as a potential for a long time, and there are other prospects which might add zest to a campaign.

INFLUENCE — In order to understand the situation in which North Carolina is apt to find itself next spring, it is necessary to review events of the past six years and to some extent attempt to anticipate developments of the next 12 months. While the series of events having immediate and direct influence upon the senatorial contest began with the death of Senator J. W. Bailey in December of 1946, actually the story goes back some 25 years.

HISTORY — Josiah William Bailey was elected to the United States Senate over Senator F. M. Simmons in 1920 after one of the bitterest intra-party campaigns in State history, as aftermath of the 1928 debacle in which Simmons had aided the election of President Herbert Hoover. Bailey was re-elected in 1936 and again in 1942 with only token opposition. He died near the end of his third term in December of 1946 and Governor Gregg Cherry appointed William B. Umstead to fill in Senate vacancy. In a heated 1948 campaign former Governor J. M. Broughton defeated Umstead for the succeeding full term. Broughton died with a few weeks after taking office and Governor Kerr Scott named Frank P. Graham to the Senate, his commission to hold until the people could elect a Senator in 1950. That never-to-be-forgotten campaign resulted in the nomination and election of Willis Smith, who took office late in 1950 for the term ending early in January, 1955.

GOVERNORS — In less than six years there had been five Senators for one seat which regularly has a six year tenure for one incumbent. Meaning, things were happening in the Governor's office. Governor Cherry gave all the support he could to his appointee, Umstead, but lost. Governor Scott gave even more vigorous support to his appointee, Graham, and also lost. There was distinction if not real difference in their positions. Necessity for appointing a Senator came to Cherry after his second legislature had been elected. The same necessity faced Scott while his first legislature was in session. In 1948 Cherry stayed out of the gubernatorial primary to meet the obligation to back his senatorial candidate. In 1952 Scott was practically forced into the Governor's race because of lines drawn two years before in the interim contest for the Senate.

On the questionable hypothesis that most of those who had opposed him for Governor in 1948 and had been against his choice for the Senate in 1950 were supporting William Umstead for Governor in 1952, and forgetting that many of his own and Graham's supporters were also backing Umstead, Scott apparently felt impelled to go all out for somebody else. He chose to back Hubert Olive — and lost again.

CROSSED-LINES — In the background and with lines so criss-crossed it is difficult to determine just where the division should be marked is the factional split within the Democratic party between conservative and radical groups. Both groups claim the title of "liberal," but almost equal propriety. Historically North Carolina has leaned slightly toward the conservative side in electing Governors, except in 1948 when Scott's election was heralded as a victory for the liberals. The same line of reasoning classifies Umstead's election as return to sound conservatism, although in many respects his platform was more liberal and progressive than was Scott's of years before. Past history is interesting only to historians. What now of the future, what will be the issues and who will be the major candidates next year?

AGRICULTURE — There will be a lot of talk about taxes and international relations and Federal encroachment. Almost certainly there will be continuing influence of the factional divisions. It looks like a safe bet that the main issue in congressional races next year, both Senate and House, will be the farm program.

CANDIDATES — Senator Smith's position on that is sound, but it is not a matter about which he claims to speak authority based on personal experience. Lately there have been trial balloons sent up in behalf of Hubert Olive, unsuccessful candidate for Governor last year, and Capus Waynick, ambassador to Columbia and Scott's associate manager in 1948. Olive has said he is not interested, and Waynick would be as objectionable as some of the Scott group as world Smith. Besides, neither of them can talk the farm long. They like numerous other potentials have a genuine interest in but only academic knowledge of the problem.

PROBABLE — The three men sometimes mentioned who can fully qualify under the farm standard are Kerr Scott, L. Y. (Stag) Ballentine and Harold

What Other Papers Are Thinking

THE EFFECT OF CONTROLS (Wilson Times)

About all de-controlling will do will be to eliminate the mammoth record-keeping which has been vexing to our stores. It's not likely to affect prices. Inventories now may go up if the stores think they can dispose of the excess merchandise before the end of the year. But the consumer will scarcely know the difference. He'll buy about as he has been buying for the last year and he may find, before 1953 is out, that he can get many things cheaper than they cost in 1952.

Although a lot of people hold the notion that controls worked during the war, actually they didn't. For how can you compel a merchant to sell what he loses money on? What waxed scarce, then, moved into the black market where any quantity could be had if a premium was paid. Thus, controls, like prohibition, encourages bootlegging. But it encourages waste, too. If an abattoir can't make a profit on the cattle it kills, that cattle will be killed by some bootlegger who'll dispose of the hides. And leather as a consequence becomes scarce.

About the only people who resisted controls were those who were manipulating them. They provided a lot of jobs for a lot of people, costing the nation another $100,000,000 or so. But, except for the record-keeping, no one paid much attention to them. That was because our supplies were adequate to meet our needs. Barriers another war, in a year or so we'll have surpluses of almost everything. It's then that you'll see prices drop. For, as common sense shows, they are governed by supply and demand. When the supplies exceed the demands, as always happens, prices drop.

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER

Met a man who is a press agent for a dog. Lots of publicity men think their clients are dogs, but this man's client was a genuine canine. The press agent got the dog's picture in a lot of publications and consequently when the dog was exhibited, the judges gave it special attention. The dog won an award, which it might have done anyway. The dog shows are getting almost unprecedented publicity this year, which points up the fact that dogs are big business, running into hundreds of millions of dollars a year.

Not only do the shows, pet shops and kennels take in a large sum, but they provide a considerable amount of both seasonal and year-round employment. We know an author — not Albert Payson Terhune—who would have starved to death before he finally turned out a best seller if his wife hadn't owned a profitable kennel.

In addition, spending for dogs many lines of canine pharmaceuticals. Scores of factories turn out foods, collars, leashes, training equipment and blankets for dogs. The number of accessories and gadgets is endless, ranging from combs, brushes and manicuring instruments to machines that will automatically dispense food and drink every day for a week.

There are prefab doghouses and special furniture for pooches. The transport industry gathers in a pretty penny moving dogs and judges around the country. A minimum rates — for the dogs, that is. Judges just pay the same tariff everybody else does.

The pet industry supports scores of publications and provides a fat market for the publishers of a variety of books.

Even the chlorophyllins have got into the act with food and pills, leading to the so-far unresolved argument whether a dog without a doggie smell may lose the respect, if not the friendship, of other dogs.

Since the dog is here to stay, many manufacturers might profitably ask themselves which of their products could be adapted to the pet market and retailers might consider the question of what lines they could add to gain a larger share of the millions spent each year.

FIVE TIPS ON HOW TO GET MOST OUT OF AIR MAIL

The Air Transport Association of America is offering five suggestions for getting the most benefit from air parcel post and air mail. They are:

1. Identify letters. Air postage is not enough; better use air-mail stickers or envelopes.

2. Identify letters. Air postage is not enough; better use air-mail stickers or gummed tape.

3. Package with care, using adequate packaging and legible markings.

4. Use special delivery—a bargain for both letters and packages.

5. Mail early to avoid delays in the end-of-year jams. BRAZIL AND PARAGUAY SLOWLY IMPROVING

Dominican Republic, Haiti, Nicaragua and Panama importers have the best credit and pay promptly, according to the 49th annual survey of Latin American markets by the Foreign Credit Interchange Bureau.

Brazil is the only country to be listed as "very poor in credit and Brazil and Paraguay are classified as "very slow" in payments.

The greatest improvement is shown by Chile, which moved from "poor" to "fairly good" in credit during the last six months. GAS APPLIANCE SALES HOLD AT HIGH RATE

Sales of gas appliances promise to continue heavy at least through the first half of this year, the Gas Appliance Manufacturers Association says. A year ago sales were down, but they picked up in the last half of 1952 and have been holding up well ever since.

935 5-CENT ITEMS FOUND IN VARIETY STORES

Don't throw your old nickels away. They are still good for something. The National Association of Variety Stores made a survey and found 935 different kinds of items in variety stores selling for 5 cents. The survey indicated that as items move from the 5-to-10-cent level, new products tend to appear to catch the nickels.

BREVITY AND HUMOR MAKES PEOPLE PAY

Hal Boyle's Column

NEW YORK (AP)—A little more than two years ago the heart of America was touched by one of the most unusual military operations of the dreary Korean War.

As Red Chinese massed for their successful assault against Seoul, a fleet of big U.S. transport planes landed on a field outside the city.

They were quickly loaded with nearly 1,000 frightened, bewildered Korean orphan-war waifs picked from the city streets and flown to Cheju, an island off South Korea's coast.

"Operation Kiddle Kar" or "The Great Kidlift"—it was known by both names—dramatically saved hundreds of innocent small lives. Gifts for the children flooded to Korea from all parts of the United States, thanks largely to Lt. Col. Russell L. Blaisdell, an Air Force chaplain who had conceived the rescue project.

But what has happened to the kids since then? How are they faring two years later?

I am indebted to Nancy Lowe Gray, a Far Eastern reporter, for bringing the picture up to date, as follows:

Cheju is now nicknamed "Orphans Island." It is a refuge for 2,000 homeless children, housed in 14 orphanages. Other youngsters still arrive by fishing boats and other small craft.

The first group flown over from Seoul are learning to become self-sufficient. Instructors are teaching them arts and crafts. Small girls eagerly knit and embroider with the skill of old women. They also make colorful dolls from native clay, paint them and sell them for souvenirs.

Most of the children were ragged, vermin-ridden, ill and half-starved. But today they are clean and regularly fed. Those blinded or maimed in war mishaps are given as much therapy as funds permit. A United Nations welfare agency is helping rehabilitate them.

The last Christmas Chaplain Blaisdell and Mrs. Peggy Harris of New York City, director of service clubs for the Japan Air Defense Force, organized a drive for funds and clothing for the orphans.

The heart-warming result was a "Christmas airlift" of four tons of supplies, ranging from bubble gum and rattles to sewing machines, blankets, shoes, clothing and toys.

"The orphans love a United Nations uniform," said Mrs. Harris. "We had to hold back the tears as small arms and smiles reached out to greet us in every orphanage."

"The only kindness these children have ever known has come from military personnel. Most of them were picked up from the streets, where they lay either wounded or dying from starvation. "All this happiness was made possible because GIs, officers and dependents alike gave time and money so unselfishly."

Mrs. Harris and the chaplain now plan an "Easterlift" for the children. Hundreds of American soldiers in the service clubs of the Far East theater are collecting old clothing, repairing broken toys.

Many of the salvaged children of "Orphans Island" had been mascots of U.S. military outfits. It is pleasant to chronicle that many American GIs, who often felt lonely and forgotten in Korea, still after two years have not themselves forgotten to remember the lost waifs they originally befriended.

It gives us on the home front a reason to search our own hearts too. Are we ourselves measuring up to our troops?

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON—The Nederlandse Huishoudraad, a housewives' organization formed two years ago in The Hague, capital of Holland, represents the interest of more than 400,000 homemakers of that little country.

"We thought it necessary to get in touch with our governments, our trades and industries, to speak about the consumers' wishes," Mrs. Engelina G. Wilzen-Bruins, a member of the board of the Netherlands House hold Council, told me on a visit to Washington.

"For instance, we like to have nylon stockings of 70 denier, not so thin, to last two years," she said. "We know America and Germany produce such stockings, but not the Netherlands." Manufacturers, because they last too long. Women then don't buy as many pairs.

Mrs. Wilzen, a tall, intelligent, hazel-eyed woman, the wife of a history and zoology professor at The Hague teachers' college, is a member of a team of representatives of the wholesale and retail food distribution industry of the Netherlands making a five-week survey of U.S. marketing techniques, sponsored by the Mutual Security Agency.

"We have several committees to discuss vegetable and fruit prices with the green grocers," she added. "And, now, every week we have quarter-hour radio programs to tell women the best buys in these. We also have committees to discuss meat, fish, poultry and dairy products. Also, there's not much labeling of textiles telling us what things are made of. We want wash recipes on them, too."

The council, Mrs. Wilzen said, is made up of representatives of all women's organizations in Holland, non-partisan, non-sectarian, rural and urban. "We are just young but beginning to do well," Mrs. Wilzen said. "Netherlands women are interested in their homes more than anything. Someone told us American women put the money they save on their body. My friends like nice furniture, clean curtains, a kindly and honest home host. Our wish was made two days after flooding subsides began inundating the lowlands. "We were all most touched to hear an American senator plead for our help. We didn't know who he was or we would have thanked him and shaken his hand. He didn't know we were there."

Three Soloists Will Appear In Winter Concert

MARIETTA HOOPER DOLORIS MATTHEWS BERNARD HAM

Three majors in the department of music at East Carolina College will appear as soloists in the annual Winter Concert by the East Carolina Orchestra and the Varsity Glee Club of the college. The event is scheduled for Sunday afternoon, February 22, at 4 p.m. in the Wright auditorium, and will be open to the public.

Marietta Hooper of Elizabeth City (left, above) and Dolores Matthews of Henderson, pianists, will be presented in compositions with orchestra accompaniment. Now juniors at the college, both are pupils of Robert Carter of the music faculty. Miss Hooper will play a movement from Mozart's Concerto in C Major K467; and Miss Matthews, a movement from Beethoven's Concerto No. 3 in C Minor.

Bernard Ham, of Portsmouth, Va., a senior at East Carolina and a pupil of Mrs. James White of the faculty, will sing the Prologue to Leoncavallo's "Pagliacci." He will be accompanied by the East Carolina Orchestra.

Dr. Kenneth N. Cuthbert, head of the music department at the college, will conduct the East Carolina Orchestra and direct the Varsity Glee Club at Sunday's performance.

Orchestra selection will include the familiar and popular "Grand March" from "Aida" and the melodious "Nocturne" from Mendelssohn's "Midsummer Night's Dream." The Glee Club of approximately fifty men's voices will be presented in four selections. The spiritual, "Listen to the Lambs" by Dett; "Without a Song" by Youmans; and Fred Waring's stirring arrangement of the "Battle Hymn of the Republic" will be sung; and the program will close with the college alma mater.

A large audience is expected to attend the concert. There will be no admission charge. Dr. Cuthbert has announced; and those who wish to attend the program are cordially invited to be present.

Fire Death Toll Stands At Seven

CLINTON (AP) — Seven persons were dead today in the wake of a kerosene-fed fire that destroyed a frame farm house near here Tuesday night.

Two more children, Paul Howard Brewington, 5, and James Carroll Brewington, 4, his brother, died in a hospital late yesterday to bring the death toll in the tragic blaze to seven, five of them from the same family.

The fire occurred when James Franklin Brewington, 19, a nephew of Paul Brewington and one of the victims of the blaze, poured kerosene into a wood heater, Sheriff Perry B. Lockerman said.

Paul Brewington, a grocery store owner, was returning home to his small one-story house in South Clinton when he spied the flames. Desperately, he ran into the house and dragged out his wife and several children, their clothes aflame, but it was too late.

Youth Injured By Falling Branch

Executive Club Hears Dr. Seger Friday Night

Dr. Gerhart H. Seger, author, editor, and former member of the Reichstag, will speak before the Pitt County Executives' Club tomorrow night in the dining hall at East Carolina College.

Dr. Seger, "the first German" will speak on the American Foreign policy and tell how he believes America became great, and just what we should do to work in closer harmony with the free nations of Europe.

The former newspaperman has a long record as an anti-totalitarian. He was a member of the Reichstag in the years when Hitler was reaching for power. Because Seger was bitterly opposed to Nazism he was one of the first to feel the wrath of the German dictator after the chancellorship fell to the Nazi leader.

He was spirited away to the concentration camp of Oranienburg but later managed to make good his escape, through the influence of powerful British friends he succeeded in obtaining the release of his wife and baby daughter from another camp where they had been taken after their arrest following Seger's escape.

In a short time they came to the United States and Dr. Seger became an American citizen. He is the former editor of the "Neue Volkzeitung", the oldest anti-Nazi German language newspaper which was published in New York.

Chapter 18

Rimbaud was at the corral gate, endeavoring to dismount with out dumping the calf, when Hugh Jubal shouted, "We got you covered, Rimbaud!"

Caught completely unprepared, Rimbaud turned to see Jubal step out of the wagon shed with a gun in his hand. At this same moment, as Booger Bill's huge shape emerged from behind the haystack, Red Shafter came from the cabin and called tauntingly, "You are just in time for supper."

Rimbaud glanced about the yard and asked, "Only three of you?"

When Jubal nodded, Rimbaud said, "Seems like you're taking quite a risk, Hugh, coming here practically alone."

"Smart-alecky, ain't you?" Jubal snapped, lifting Rimbaud's pistol from its holster and tossing it across the yard. "Well, you won't be long, I've got you right where I want you, Rimbaud. Just like we planned it. You'll be a tame rooster when we get through — tame as a hand-fed pigeon, by God!"

Rimbaud shrugged. This, he understood, was the price a man paid for sheer carelessness. Instead of making a wary circle to scout for sign of ambush, he had ridden in here with a calf in his arms, defenseless as a handcuffed sheepherder. And as witless. In these first moments he had no awareness of being afraid. The gut-clutch of fear would come to him presently, but right now he felt ashamed.

"Get down!" Jubal ordered. He winked at Booger Bill and said with exaggerated politeness, "You two gents has met before, ain't you?"

"Yeah!" Booger Bill mumbled a hot expectancy in his eyes. "We met."

Rimbaud balanced the calf, stepped into the corral. When the mother calf trotted in he closed the gate and forked hay over the fence behind Jubal.

Jubal's bruised face creased into a sly smile. He gently rubbed his swollen, discolored nose and said, "A little fun."

Jim Rimbaud made his guess as to what that meant, and saw it substantiated in the glinting expectancy of Booger Bill's eyes. But he asked rankly, "What you mean by that?"

Jubal winked at his two companions and said triumphantly, "He's deaf, boys. The poor feller don't hear good. And he don't shape near so high without his gun. In fact, he looks downright puny."

Then Jubal turned his hate-scorched eyes on Rimbaud and shouted, "Just a little fun!"

Standing with his back to the corral, Jim Rimbaud hung onto the pitchfork. It wasn't much of a weapon against men with guns, but if his hunch were correct, they weren't intending to shoot him. Not until Hugh Jubal had his fun. Booger Bill also would want revenge. Rimbaud glanced at the big man's bandaged hand and took frugal comfort in the thought that Bill could hit him with one fist only. "Put down the pitchfork," ordered Jubal.

Rimbaud shook his head. "Do like I tell you!" Jubal shouted, arrogantly. "Don't you know I'm boss here?"

"I can make him drop it," offered Red Shafter eagerly. "I'll bust his arm with a bullet, like he done to Ernie."

And the way he smiled with his lips tight across his teeth, told Rimbaud that he meant it. Red was the gun-slinger of this trio, the itchy-fingered one. He was proud of his shooting skill and eager to display it.

Jubal peered at Rimbaud and asked, "You want it shot out of your hands?"

"Sure he does," said Shafter, and tilted up his gun like a man preparing for target practice.

A forty-five with a cut-off-barrel, Rimbaud thought, eyeing the sightless, snub-nosed muzzle. A gun meant for head-to-head shooting; meant for killing.

There was a moment, seemingly endless, when Rimbaud held his breath; when the cooking mechanism of Shafter's gun sounded loud against the yard's silence. There was a timeless, gut-clutching interval of expectancy while Hugh Jubal peered at him through slitted eyes and Booger Bill spat out an amber stream of tobacco juice that made a distinct pop in the dust.

"I'll make a Christian out of you," Red bragged. "A one-armed Scripture-spoutin' Christian."

He glanced at Jubal, asking, "Shall I let him have it?"

Jubal's calculating gaze continued uninterrupted by the question. He was waiting for the tension to show, Rimbaud guessed; waiting for the pressure to do its work. Hugh understood what pressure could do to a man. He'd found out at the Shiloh Saturday night.

"How about it?" Red asked impatiently. "I can bust his arm with one slug."

"Not yet," Jubal muttered, revealing his annoyance in the way he added, "He's lived on frijoles and mesal so long they've turned him loco. You can't scare a lunatic. They got no sense."

He stood there for a moment, eyeing the pitchfork, then said, "You and Bill bring out the horses."

"What for?" Shafter demanded. Jubal chuckled plainly, pleased with himself now. "You'd never guess in a month of Sunday," he said secretively. "I got a little game in mind."

"What you talkin' about? Booger Bill asked."

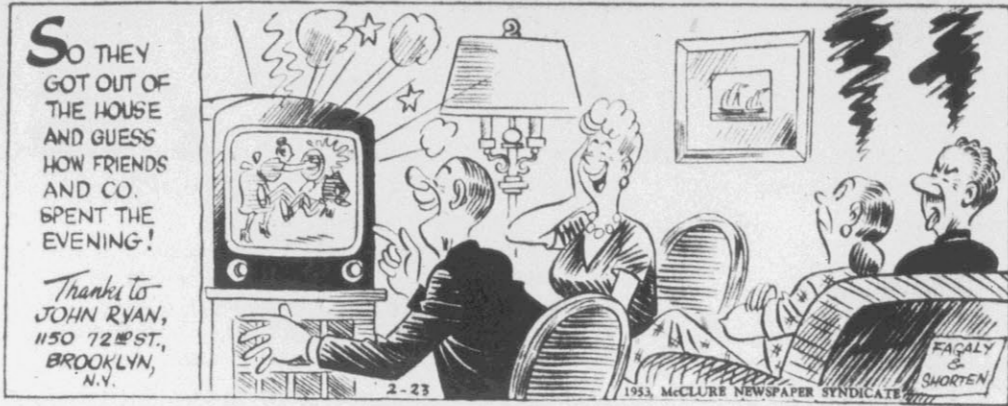

"Juego de gallo," Jubal announced smugly.

"Game of the rooster," Red mused. "You mean with ropes?" Jubal nodded. As Shafter and Bill hurried toward the wagon shed he bragged, "There's more'n one way to catch a smart-aleck rooster, by God!"

Chinese Building New Rail Line Into Inner Asia

SAN FRANCISCO—A Peiping radio broadcast says Communist China has begun construction of a new railway line westward from Lanchow on the Huang river to Red China's remote northwest province of Sinkiang on the Russian border.

For years the Reds have talked of linking up the Chinese and Russian railway systems in Sinkiang, providing a second route across the steppes of Asia to Europe. The Trans-Siberian r. v. far to the north now provides the only rail connection.

Months ago construction of a 1,500 mile line west from Lanchow to reach Ayaguz in the Soviet Kazakh republic was reported in Communist dispatches. Apparently it was more talk than actual construction.

The latest Red broadcast, heard in San Francisco, did not give the terminus of the projected line, but merely said it would be in Sinkiang. It is more than 1,000 miles by air from Lanchow, capital of Kansu province to Urumchi, Sinkiang's provincial capital. The territory is formidable with difficult mountain passes and great stretches of desert far beyond China's ancient Great Wall.

Apparently aware of this the Red radio quoted Wang Shih-tai, vice minister of railways, as saying: "In response to the call of Chairman Mao Tse-tung, we must do everything in our power to conquer natural difficulties and complete this great task."

The Red radio said that because of transport difficulties, many local products of Sinkiang cannot be carried to other areas, while its people are in need of industrial goods.

Soviet economic penetration of Sinkiang has been reported repeatedly. The new Chinese rail effort may be an attempt to the Sinkiang more closely to the rest of Red China.

Contrary to the legend of British fortune in war, Britain lost the last battles, as well as the campaigns, in both the American Revolution and the War of 1812.

Suggest House Owners Remedy Poor Conditions

Greenville landlords who own rent houses which are in poor repair had that fact called to their attention today by Mayor Lester D. Page.

The mayor's warning that "the situation will most certainly have to be cleared up" stemmed from a report from J.C. Waldrop, city sanitarian, that some houses in the city are "not fit for human habitation."

Waldrop said he has found a number of Greenville houses occupied by large families, who rent them from various landlords. He stated the houses are improperly screened and, in many cases, floors have almost completely rotted out.

Mayor Page called the "deplorable" situation to the house owners, and urged them to make proper adjustments soon. "With the approach of Spring screens will be badly needed," he added. "Repair of these houses and addition of screens to the windows is essential to the city's general welfare, from the standpoint of both health and appearance," the mayor concluded.

Emma L. Hooper, secretary adviser of the college FTA, as principal speaker at the installation ceremony, discussed "The Significance of the Name: Robert H. Wright Chapter of the Future Teachers of America." The organization was named in honor of East Carolina's first president.

New officers, in addition of Miss Brothers, are Barbara Etheridge of Nashville, first vice president; Lena Taylor of Sea Level, second vice president; Helen Adams of Angier, corresponding secretary; Betty Jean Huffman of Salisbury, recording secretary; Joyce Gurley of Goldsboro, treasurer; Clara Sue Daniels of Jacksonville and Flora Joan Creech of Snow Hill, reporters; Evelyn Sherman of Fuquay Springs, librarian; and Mildred Rouse of Kinston, historian.

Fire Was Out When Fire Fighters Came

No damage was reported yesterday when grease on a cook stove caught fire, in the home of Hugh Winslow on the Hooker Road.

A fire truck from Greenville was sent when a call was received that the house was on fire, but the flames were out on arrival of the fire fighters.

The alarm was received at about noon yesterday.

NO JUSTICE
FORT WORTH, Tex. (U.P.)—When Raymond L. Bryan's arm caught and was mangled in some machinery, doctors performed a series of six operations to repair it. The last was a bone graft from a leg. Two weeks later, Bryan slipped on a rug and broke that leg.

Apart from two species of bats, it is not believed there are any indigenous mammals in New Zealand.

Fire Association Gathers Tonight

WINTERVILLE—Tonight is the night for the Winterville Community Fire Association.

At a meeting to be held tonight in the town hall, reports will be received from directors who have been soliciting funds for the purchase of a rural fire truck.

At a meeting held last week reports showed an estimated half of the cost of purchasing the desired equipment had been raised.

At the session tonight it is hoped that sufficient funds have been raised by members joining the association to enable the letting of a contract for the new truck.

Membership in the Winterville Community Fire Association is based on a $5 fee per building on a person's property. In return, the fire department will answer all fire calls to the member's property and fight his fires.

While nothing definite has been worked out about responding to alarms, it is believed that no alarms will be answered by the Winterville equipment to non-members.

All interested persons are urged to be in attendance at the meeting tonight.

Reports His Car Robbed Tuesday

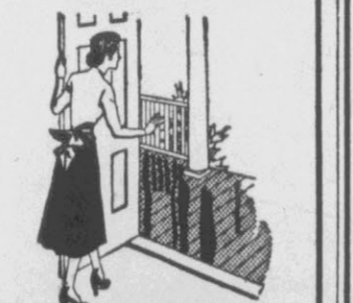

L.R. Cahoon, 122-A Woodlawn avenue, reported to Greenville police Tuesday that his car was robbed while parked in the rear of the telephone building.

Police quoted Cahoon as saying some person stole a postage stamp vending machine and a package of 750 stamp holders. Value of the stolen merchandise was placed at $50. The owner said it was stolen either Monday or Tuesday.

In the early days of World War I no airplanes were fitted with machine guns for combat and pilots sometimes attacked each other with pistols, rifles, carbines and hand grenades.

Cross Section Of Giant Cypress Given College

J. O. Derrick of the East Carolina College science department points to a ring in the cross section of a giant cypress tree. The valuable and interesting specimen is a gift to the science department from Dan Stubb of Windsor. The mighty tree, recently cut in the Tar River Swamp near Pactolus, may be as much as 2000 years old. Mr. Derrick, who stands five feet ten inches tall, finds that the cross section rises above his head.

Giant in proportions, a cross section of a centuries-old cypress, recently acquired by the East Carolina College department of science, is receiving much attention on the campus. The valuable specimen is a gift to the college from Dan Stubb of Windsor. The tremendous cypress grew in the Tar River Swamp on the old Fleming farm near Pactolus, N.C. Towering skyward, it rose approximately 100 feet from the ground and measured 24 feet in circumference at stump height, about chest-high to a man. A nearby sister tree which still stands measures 34 feet in circumference near the ground.

After Mr. Stubb decided to cut the cypress for lumber, operations were begun last April. Two men worked an entire day to complete the job. It is estimated that the tree will produce 4,000 board feet of lumber.

J. O. Derrick, faculty member of the college science department, cooperated with Mr. Stubb in securing the cross section. As the butt cut of the cypress was hollow and too large to be moved conveniently, a cross section was taken from the trunk about eighteen feet from the ground. Because of difficulties in cutting and moving the large specimen, delivery was made at the college only a few days ago.

The giant cypress, it is thought, was already an ancient tree when Columbus sailed westward on his voyage of discovery. It may have been a sapling at the beginning of the Christian era.

Woodsmen who counted the rings of the tree when it was cut think that it is more than 1500 and possibly 2000 years old. An exact count of rings will be made at the college as soon as the cross section has been polished and shellacked.

Dr. Derrick, with the help of students in the department of science, hopes to label the rings of the cypress so as to connect its age at various stages of growth with historical events.

Waste Evidence To Be Factor In Voting Funds

WASHINGTON (UP)—The top two members of the Senate Permanent Investigating Committee said today that disclosures of waste in Voice of America operations will have a major effect on how much money Congress gives the program this year.

Chairman Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) and Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark.), the ranking Democrat, made the forecast. But another member, Sen. Karl E. Mundt (R-S.D.), said he thought it was "a little too early" to say.

All three senators also are members of the Appropriations Committee and its subcommittee on State Department funds.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles announced the resignation Wednesday of the Voice's administrator, Dr. Wilson S. Compton. But he said it had nothing to do with the Senate investigation.

Dulles said Compton submitted his resignation before the investigation started.

The committee, which has been looking into charges of mismanagement in the State Department's international information program, alerted Nancy Lenketh, former writer for the Voice program, to stand by for possible appearance as a witness today. At least one television network (NBC-TV) was expected to carry part of the session.

Millions of televiewers Wednesday saw left-wing novelist Howard Fast refuse to say whether he would fight for the United States against the Communists in Korea, even if he were drafted.

Fast refused also to say whether he is a Communist now or was one when he worked briefly for the Office of War Information during World War II, on the grounds of possible self-incrimination.

Bus Stranded In Big Snow Saved

CASPER, Wyo. (UP)—A lost bus carrying seven passengers and a driver chugged into Casper early today behind state highway snowplows.

It had been stranded in a snow drift during a choking blizzard that touched off a highway patrol search.

The Prairie Motorways bus left Rawlins, Wyo., at 4 p.m. yesterday, just before the winter's worst storm broke over south-central Wyoming.

It was scheduled to arrive at Casper at 8 p.m., but about halfway along its 100-mile journey it bogged down in a drift. A State Highway Department snow plow found the bus early last night, and there was no way to let Casper know the passengers and driver were safe.

When the bus was three hours overdue at Casper, worried highway patrolmen set out on the road with two snowplows to find it. They bucked high winds and drifting snow in zero-visibility weather. A larger bus, loaded with blankets and hot food, followed the trail cut along the icy, dangerous highway.

The search party met up with the Highway Department snow plow leading the missing bus, early this morning. Together the party beat its way back to Casper. They arrived at 3 a.m. (MST).

The bus passengers were annoyed at being seven hours late, but surprised at the furor they had caused.

TIT FOR TAT

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UP)—Two Fort Worth burglars were burgled while they were on another burglary. Police said the pair reported a burglar entered their home while they were away and took three hams. Police learned then that the pair were burglars and that the hams were looted from another burglary.

Cooley. Besides actual experience on the farm Scott got his introduction as county agent, commissioner of agriculture and governor. Ballentine as commissioner of agriculture, and Cooley as chairman of the house committee on agriculture in Congress. Cooley has also traveled widely and some wag has said that if the farmers in Japan and Germany and the Philippines could vote he would win hands down. Cooley is rated a likely candidate if it appears a year from now that the Republicans will retain control of Congress, thus destroying his hope of regaining chairmanship of the powerful committee on agriculture.

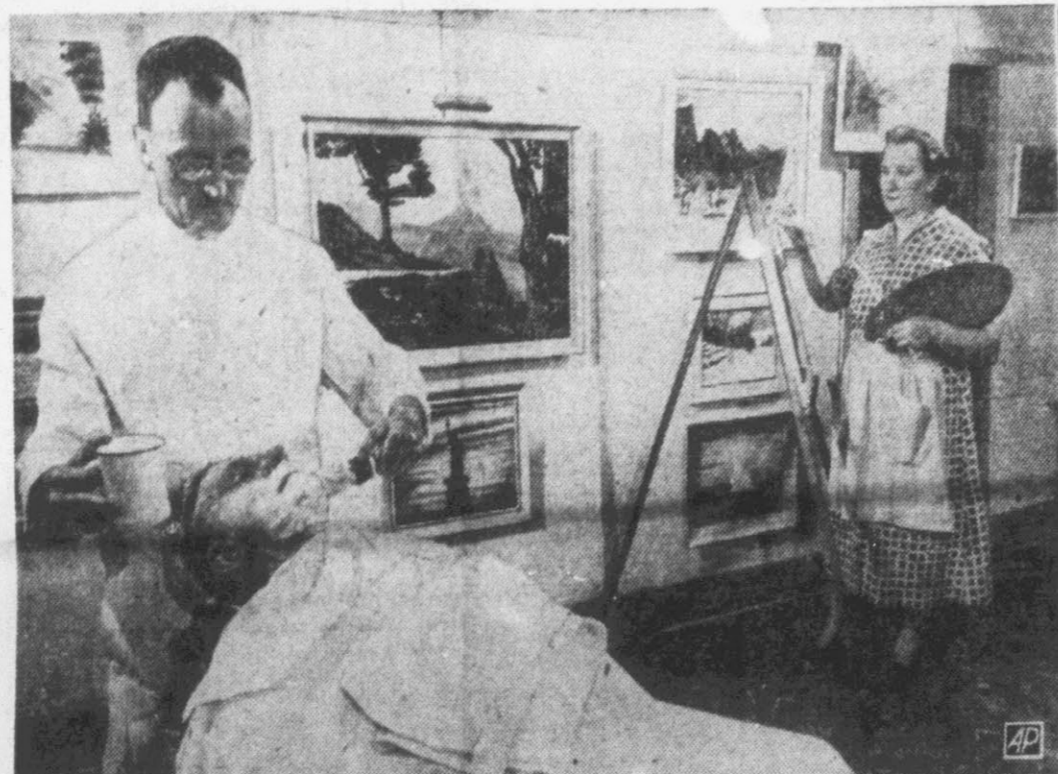

IFS—If the next campaign for the Senate is waged along traditional lines Senator Smith's incumbency and record give him tremendous advantage. If it devolves into a factional fight within the party, odds favor the faction with which Smith has been identified. If it should be waged on issues of taxation or Federal encroachment most anything might happen. If the issues turn on the farm program the solid vote of the middle east might well be the decisive factor, unless that vote should be split among two or more favorites.

Unofficial Minutes In Worthington Committee Illustrates Day Of Work

By LYNN NISBET
 RALEIGH.—Further insight into the way bills become laws, or at least one important step in the process, may be obtained from a "log" of the doings in Judiciary II of the House at its Tuesday morning meeting, with Chairman S. O. Worthington of Pitt presiding.

First item was HB-204, introduced by Worthington and designed to give the 1953 cumulative surpluses to the General Statutes as published under supervision of the Attorney General the same prima facie status enjoyed by previous cumulations to the big volumes. It was a lawyer's bill, but necessary to make the acts of the current Legislature an integral part of the General Statutes. Given a favorable report.

members were amazed that Burke has had no statute of limitations on tax liens, and several stated their counties had 10 years limits, and George Uzzell said he contemplated making the Rowan period five years. That bill was also approved, with suggestions from his colleagues that Vernon cut the limit further. Brantley Womble of Wake said he'd hate to certify an abstract of title with 30-year-old tax liens to check.

Then in rapid succession and without argument local bills were approved authorizing the Wake county commissioners to build a water line to a new industrial development outside Raleigh; permitting Rowan commissioners to postpone reevaluation two more years; exempting Dunn firemen who are in good standing with their association from jury duty; permitting transfer of records and money from the Raleigh-Wake domestic relations court to the Wake County Domestic Relations Court, on account of the City of Raleigh had quit contributing to support of the court.

Next was the bill by Cloyd Philpott of Davidson giving police lieutenants in Lexington the same right now enjoyed by the chief, captains and sergeants to issue warrants. "I'm not in favor of discriminating against lieutenants," said Ed Gavin of Randolph, and that bill was given a green light.

Next on the agenda was the bill to put Cumberland county in a state-wide bill providing penalties for public drunkenness. "We're having a lot of these county drunk bills," quipped Chairman Worthington. "I hope the fellows know what they are doing." Somebody checked to see if Cumberland was placed between the appropriate commas in the existing statute—and a favorable report.

Then Manly Clark's bill imposing heavy penalties on anybody caught with any quantity of alcoholic beverage—even half a bottle of beer—within two years after conviction in Bladen County of violating any liquor law. Effect was to exempt those persons from privileges under State law of possessing a gallon of liquor for personal use. Too tough, boys. Let's wait to hear from Mr. Clark. Action postponed until next meeting.

Here's another Philpott bill requiring notaries public to print or type their names under their signatures on official documents. Wait a minute, said Carl Venters. Lots of times papers are notarized under conditions that do not permit typing in the name. Use a rubber stamp, said somebody. Don't like rubber stamp legislation, quipped somebody else. Make the law requiring typed or printed names apply to lawyers and doctors, too, proposed a bystander. Result—no action today.

Another lawyer's bill clerks of court as well as judges to sign detainers for prisoners sought to be held for further trial upon expiration of terms or release on parole. "Look here," said Chairman Worthington to Joe Branch, the introducer, "ain't you trying to amend that bill it took me so much work to get passed two years ago?" Branch admitted it, but insisted his amendment improved procedure and made it easier for lawyers to see clients and for law enforcement officers to keep custody of prisoners who ought to be detained. O.K. with Worthington and the bill was sent to the House with committee approval.

Next on the agenda was the "big bills," sponsored by the General Statutes Commission and purporting to correct typographic errors and clarify the meaning of dozens of laws now on the books. "We're not going to discuss the entire bill," said the chairman, "but Mr. J. M. White of the railroad association, wants to talk about one item in it." The railroad man wanted some further definitions of motor boats. The old law, dealing with rights of railroads to put bridges and trestles over streams made it mandatory to provide space for "steam or sail boats." The proposed revision reads "motor or sailboats or vessels." Admittedly subjective was to bring the meaning up to date, since there are no more steamboats. White said a motorboat might be a huge ship or a tiny putt-putt and he didn't want railroads hamstringed by such vague language.

Thank you, Mr. White. You made a good point and we'll remember it when we get around to consideration of the whole bill.

Next came two more of the big General Statutes commission offerings, which had already passed the Senate. SB-33 dealt with purely legal procedure with respect to summons in civil actions. First glance would indicate it had nothing to do with folks other than lawyers, but it developed that important features of damage suits, divorce actions and property distribution were involved. The committee had to send for Ed Hipp in the Attorney General's office, who is secretary to the commission to explain this bill and the next one (SB-34) which dealt with the fair trade practice act.

The committee, like the Senate group last week, could not find where the trade act changed anything in the present law except to combine definitions instead of reiterating a long list of names in every paragraph.

Actually, according to legal minds on both committees, the new version does nothing but save a half a page printing in the law books. "All right," says somebody, "it won't cost but about $5,000 to reprint the whole volume a half page shorter, and if the G-S Commission and the Senate wants it, let 'em have it." Another favorable report.

There were five or six more bills in the file, but Chairman Worthington noted that there was barely time to get to the capitol building for the regular session at noon.

So ended two hours discussion, interspersed with humor and a lot of reading of law books. It was tremendously important work and its effects will be felt for many years by hundreds of thousands of people in North Carolina. But casual visitors to the capitol and official journals of the House and Senate take no account of it, nor of the hurried lunch before other committee meetings until six o'clock.

The "record" notes a 40-minute session of the General Assembly on its 36th legislative day of 1953.

Actually the work day of the members included two hours in the morning and four in the afternoon, plus the 40-minute session in the capitol and three or four hours study of bills and their impact upon existing laws during the evening hours.

Instrument May Affect Teeth

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP)—The instrument that junior wants to play in the school band may not be the one that's best for his teeth, says Dr. Barnett Frank, chairman of the dental health education committee of the Rochester Dental Society.

Dr. Frank, who has made a study of instrument playing as related to teeth, says a child with protruding upper teeth should play an instrument with a cup mouthpiece. If it is the lower teeth that protrude, the clarinet or saxophone might be the instrument to take up.

In all cases an orthodontist should make the final decision as to what instrument should be prescribed, Dr. Frank says.

Coldest Station Is Given Woman

BIG PINEY, Wyo. (U.P.)—When the U.S. Weather Bureau decided to open a station at this "refrigerator of the nation," it looked for someone with stamina, intelligence and dependability. The selection was, of course, a woman.

Mrs. Elaine Moffett is now the observer at the coldest official weather station in the continental United States, but she is the second female observer at this lonely settlement in western Wyoming.

Her daughter was the original observer but she gave up the job after two years to attend school in Denver.

Big Piney, located on a high plateau, 90 miles from the nearest town, seems to pocket the cold air. Temperatures of 60 degrees below zero have been registered.

Helps Forest Rangers
 Mrs. Moffett is a slim, dark haired woman, who wears nice print dresses in the summer and wool clothing in the winter. She said she doesn't get up in any outlandish winter outfit of boots and parkas to take the weather observations.

Although some of the observation equipment is in her kitchen so she can take readings without having to brave the elements, Mrs. Moffett must go out every six hours to check the barometers, thermometers and cloud conditions.

In the summer Mrs. Moffett pinch-hits for forest rangers, taking fire rating readings. She likes both jobs, and the forest service and the weather bureau think she does fine work.

"Any woman could do it," she said modestly.

ATTORNEY'S FEE

BELLEFONTAINE, O. (U.P.)—A probate court jury here awarded Clem Hoover of nearby Lakeview a reimbursement totaling $1 when he refused to allow county engineers leasement to his land to complete extension of a sanitary sewer line. He was his own attorney at the trial.

News From Ballards

By MRS. G. S. NICHOLS

Rev. Herbert Dale filled his regular preaching appointment at Ballards on Sunday morning, using as a theme "The Fields Are White Unto the Harvest, But the Laborers Are Few." There were 83 present at Sunday School.

Mesdames Chester Worthington and H. G. Dunn were hostesses to the February meeting of the Women of the Church at the church.

Mrs. Preston Lloyd presided and the meeting opened with the singing of a hymn, followed by a circle of prayer led by Mrs. Chester Worthington. The Bible study given by Mrs. G. S. Nichols was taken from Colossians, Chapter 4:7-18 and asked the question "What Kind of Friends Do You Have?" The program on Stewardship was presented by Mrs. P. J. Elks and she used an article from Presbyterian Survey.

At the business session the group voted to send clothing to the World Church Center for shipment overseas and the slate of new officers was presented by the chairman of the nominating committee as follows: Mesdames P. J. Elks, president; Dal Williams, vice-president; G. S. Nichols, secretary; and C. C. Harris, treasurer. The group voted to accept these names.

At the social hour Lou Ray Worthington and Ethel May Dunn, daughters of the hostesses, served delicious fudge royal ice cream, cake and roasted nuts to 20 members and one visitor, Mrs. L. E. Turnage.

The fellowship hall was decorated beautifully with lovely spring flowers.

The Youth Crusade for Christ program was well attended at the community building on Saturday evening and the three weeks Bible contest of the group from 12 years down closed and gifts of beautiful Christmas pictures were presented to the two who made the highest number of points.

From now on the contests will run for four weeks. Rev. Wells has an interesting and helpful Bible program planned each time and the children and young people show a lot of interest in learning something from the Bible.

Following the program Evangelist Paul Black preached a short sermon and showed the fifth in a series of pictures on the Life of the Apostle Paul. These pictures are very interesting and informative in studying the Bible.

Evangelist Black will preach at the building each Friday evening, Sunday afternoon and evening until

Bible Words to Live by

The text that I prefer is found in the first epistle of St. John, the second chapter, at the 16th verse:

"For all that is in the world, the lust of the flesh, and the lust of the eyes, and the pride of life, is not of the Father, but is of the world. And the world passeth away, and the lust thereof; but he that doeth the will of God abideth forever."

On a hill called Roundtop overlooking the Connecticut River, at East Northfield, Massachusetts, the final words in this text are the inscription on the tomb of Dwight Moody, that powerful religious force who was not only an evangelist of international repute, but the founder of the Northfield Schools. The verse first struck me when I saw this tomb. Ever since, with the development of events in history in this century, it has seemed to me a warning against the this-worldly point of view which has characterized our modern materialistic epoch. Have we not estimated success and the good life in terms of what we call "the American standard of living?" By advertising and every other means the lust of the eyes and the pride of life have been accentuated. The lust of the flesh has become undisciplined and uncriticized as in the loosest of past centuries. And yet our world has been up against, as never before, the sense of the impermanence and precariousness of its whole present organization. This text drives us to consider the things that abide forever.

More important is that a person abides forever, who, like Abraham Lincoln or General Lee, or John Wesley or thousands of others in humbler ways seeks to do the will of God. In the midst of modern uncertainty and frustration it is well for people to know that in all their choices there is an eternal significance in choosing the will of God. Jesus' life, death and resurrection is the supreme instance of this faith, and indeed the source of it.

New Gadgets To Beat Houseflies

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. (U.P.)—Chemical baits, made by combining insecticides with insect-attracting foods such as molasses, may be the answer to control of insecticide-resistant house flies, according to U.S. Department of Agriculture entomologists.

A report to the American Association of Economic Entomologists here said that the baits proved more effective against resistant flies than any other treatment tried during the past three years in experiments at the department Orlando Fla. laboratory.

J.B. Gahan told the meeting that TEPP, sodium fluoro acetate, sodium arsenate and sodium arsenite were the toxic chemicals used in the tests. All the chemicals are highly toxic to both man and animals.

Grain Given To Seoul Citizens

SEOUL (AP)—The United Nations Civil Assistance Command has provided more than 23,000 tons of grain to needy Koreans in the Seoul area during the past year. Col. Harry L. Mayfield, who heads the command, says the grain included rice, wheat and corn.

Mayfield says the agency also turned over 15,000 tons of clothing, blankets and other supplies to Korean hospitals, orphanages and other institutions.

They have issued "daylight driving only" warnings because of the danger of a stranded motorist freezing to death during the cold interior nights. The new 275-mile highway runs through the interior wilderness from Prince George to Dawson Creek, where it links with the Alaska Highway.

Bucs Take Undisputed Right To Loop Crown

Pirates Put On Fancy Scoring Spree In Final Home Game Of The Season

By JIMMY ELLIS
Reflector Sports Writer

East Carolina College, the "hub" of the North State Conference, pulled down first place in the loop standings last night by thrashing High Point 100-87 before a full house in Memorial Gym. The win gave the Pirates a 13-2 record in conference play with one game left.

The victory assured the Pirates of their first basketball title since they entered the conference in 1947. They will go to the conference tournament in Winston-Salem next week as the number-one seeded team.

The important victory last night was perhaps the best example of team play the Pirates have put on this year but they still had their individual aces. Senny Russell, playing his last home game for East Carolina and honored by the student body before the game was the top scorer with 21 points. Three other Pirates shared in the scoring honors. However, both Bobby Hodges and J. C. Thomas got 20 points apiece and Cecil Heath got 18.

For Thomas and Heath the guards, the "book" represented a team effort for a single game. Both were extremely accurate on their shots from the outside and both did outstanding jobs in the other phases of the game.

The game's high scoring honors went to High Point's Howard Alexander, freshman center who resembles the Rock of Gibraltar when he gets planted under the basket. He just can't move him. The Richmond, Indiana, boy used his 6-7 and 220 pounds to rack up 23 points, most of them on tap-ins and follow shots.

With Alexander hitting his close-in shots, the Panthers gave the Pirates a tough time for about two-thirds of the opening quarter. The Pirates grabbed a lead with about four minutes remaining, however, and were off to the races.

East Carolina hitting on 42 per cent of its first half shots ran up a 56-37 lead before time ran out in the first half. They had boasted that to 83-61 at the end of three periods and Coach Howard Porter turned his reserves loose to flourish the job.

The 100 mark was reached with 31 seconds of playing time remaining when Paul Jones dumped in a "shot from over" in the foul line. It represented a new single game high for the season for the Pirates whose previous high was 97 points scored against Western Carolina in a loss.

ing cause earlier in the year. The Pirates have no way whatsoever of losing their hold on first place even if they lose their Saturday night up-tight with Atlantic Christian. Second-place Elon has already lost four games and prior to last night's game, stood a chance of tying the Bucs for the title.

In ceremonies prior to the game, Student Government President Bob Robinson and Coach Howard Porter presented Russell with a letter of commendation from the students for Russell's performances in the last four years. The actual presentation of the award was made by Coach Porter who called the time "a chance to say publicly what I've said privately for four years." The fans gave Russell a rising ovation which lasted for nearly two minutes when he was presented the award.

When he received the framed letter from Porter, Russell's comment was "I feel as if this is the greatest moment of my life. I will never forget it."

The game last night was the last home contest in a career which has spanned four years in the New Bern senior has been at East Carolina. In that time, he has been named to the All-Conference team three times and the All-State team twice.

Russell Receives Honors, Ovation

MEMORIAL GYM—A tumultuous ovation rocked East Carolina's Memorial Gym last night when her favorite son, Senny Russell, strode to the center of the basketball court to receive honors never before bestowed on an ECC athlete.

An overflow crowd of students and Pirate rooters gathered here last night to watch East Carolina's student body pay homage to the tall, curly-haired athlete who was performing on ECC's home court for the last time under Pirate colors.

Student body president Bob Robinson introduced Russell and bed-wim broke loose when the Pirate sharp-shooter entered the court escorted by Coach Howard Porter. A rousing applause exploded for fully five minutes before Robinson signaled silence in order to continue.

The huge crowd stood breathlessly hushed while Robinson read a Letter of Appreciation from the entire student body citing Russell's outstanding career as student and athlete.

Coach Porter then presented Russell the letter which was framed under glass, with congratulatory remarks. "I am very happy for this opportunity to express in public the feelings I have so often experienced in private."

Tears stood unashamedly on the faces of many students and the huge audience collectively wallowed a lump in the throat and blinked hard when the handsome athlete was overcome with emotion while making an acceptance speech.

"This is the greatest moment of my life and I'll cherish this letter as long as I live."

As a fitting tribute to a fine athlete ending a glorious career the basketball team combined with Russell to score an even 100 points in downing High Point 100-87 to clinch the North State Conference title.

A High Point player echoed the overall sentiment, "He's the greatest."

NCU May Lose Berth In Tournament Race

The Duke Blue Devils, thoroughly rested after their big upset of North Carolina State last Saturday night, try to make it 10 in a row tonight against Seaside, a shaken William & Mary.

Duke may have to win all four of its remaining games to get in the coveted Southern Conference basketball tournament. But they seem now to be in better position than North Carolina, the winnemaker.

At least an even chance to miss the tournament altogether.

Only three teams have mathematically clinched a tournament spot. They are North Carolina State (12-3), Wake Forest (11-3) and Maryland (11-3).

The North Carolina Tar Heels, with 15-4 are in a tight spot. They have more victories than any team in the conference, but should they lose their two remaining games a 15-6 record would give them a 714 percentage which might not be good enough for the tournament.

The odds are against the Tar Heels beating both North Carolina State and Duke. But their tournament chances depend on the other teams winning all their remaining games.

Little Virginia (9-4) should have little trouble winning its two remaining home games against VMI and Washington & Lee. But the Mountaineers could lose out if they dropped one of those contests which would give them a .714 mark.

Duke is heavily favored to come through against William & Mary, South Carolina and Davidson, but the Blue Devil-North Carolina fracas Feb. 27 could theoretically knock the Tar Heels out.

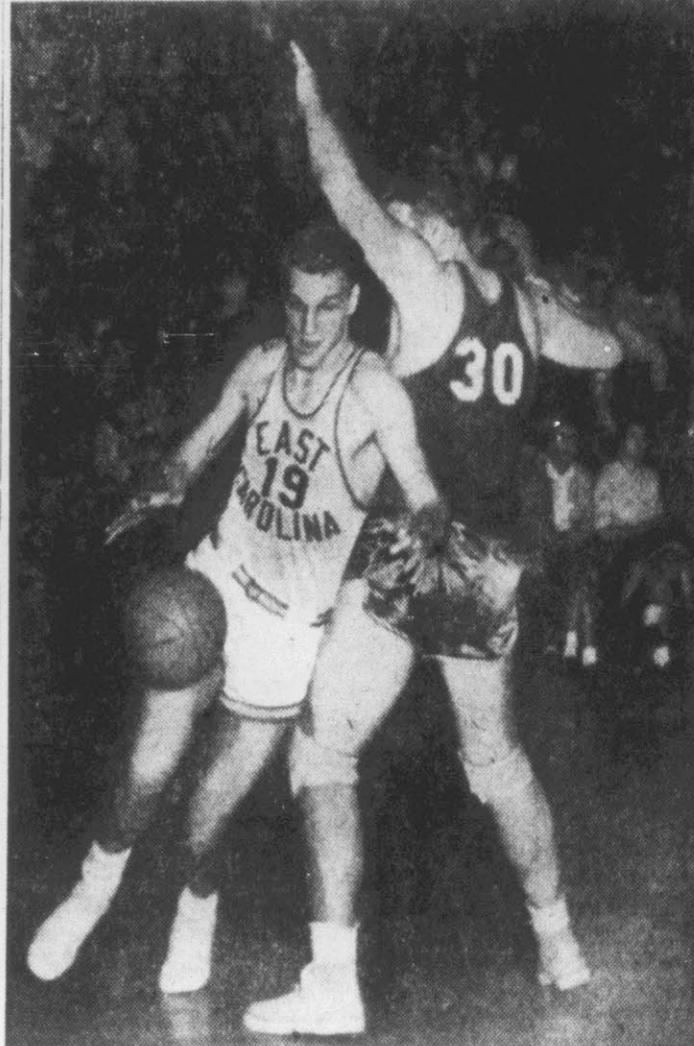

The pressure is also steady on Richmond, Furman and George Washington.

Furman (8-3) has been hitting a 100-point per game clip behind Neil Gordon and Frank Selvy. They should win over Davidson and Clemson. But the Furman-Clemson rivalry is fierce as proved by that 66-64 win Furman took over the Tigers Jan. 9, the second lowest mark they've been held to this season.

Richmond and George Washington could end in a deadlock for eighth place in the tournament. Both have two games left and both have 11-5 records now.

UNUSUAL POSITION — Pirate star Senny Russell and Bobby Hodges view last night's game from an unusual spot for them. In last night's action Coach Howard Porter pulled his first string out for a rest after gaining a big point margin over High Point.

JUST LIKE GOING AROUND END — Bobby Hodges (12) tries to circle around High Point's huge Howard Alexander and go in for a layup.

Pitt County Tourney Moves Into Greenville On Friday

Johnny O'Brien Leading Scorers

NEW YORK (UP)—A 51-point outburst by Johnny O'Brien of Seattle against Gonzaga Sunday night gave the Chieftains' ace a slight lead in the tight race for individual scoring honors among the nation's major colleges. NCAA Service Bureau statistics showed today.

By far the smallest of the country's top scorers, 5-foot-9-inch O'Brien showed a 28.5 points-per-game average through 22 games of Tuesday night. Furman's Frank Selvy last week's "prize leader, is second with 27.9; Pennsylvania's Ernie Beck third with 27.1; unbeaten Seton Hall's Walt Dukes fourth with 27.0; and Washington's Bob Houbregs fifth with 25.6.

That puts O'Brien in good shape to add the major college title to the small-college crown he won, along with his first bit of nationwide fame, last year. With relatively few games left to play, his lead of more than half a point a game is fairly substantial. His 51-point performance was the third highest of the year in major competition, coming less than a week after Selvy's 63 against Mercer had given the Southerner first place last week.

The only other higher single-game total was Niel Gordon's 52, and the Furman center, now ninth with 24.2, forms with Selvy the most fantastic two-man punch on record. Between them, they have accounted for 52.1 points a game.

O'Brien's twin brother Eddie also figures in the statistics, holding second place in field goal accuracy behind Vernon Stoke of St. Francis of Brooklyn. Stokes has hit 57.9 per cent of his shots, O'Brien 57.4 per cent and Houbregs 55.5 per cent. For the foul best, John Dohmer, of Virginia, has the best record, 83.7 per cent.

In rebounding, Fordham's Ed Conlin still leads Dukes, 23.5 a game to 23.0, while third-place Bill Chambers is far back at 20.9.

Winterville, Stokes Have Double Entries

FARMVILLE—Surprise, surprise, that's what is expected in tournament play and Pitt County Conference Tournament upheld tradition in games here last night.

An undaunted Stokes team, that had a mediocre 8-6 regular season record, rose to its greatest heights here last night to topple top seeded Bethel's boys from tournament contention in a 56-51 victory.

Paced by Jack Warren and David Roberson the Stokes lads displayed a determined style of play that wouldn't surrender to the favored Indians from Bethel.

Stokes took an early 10-3 lead in opening minutes of the first quarter but Robert Nelson, Dalton Council and Michael House came right back to narrow the gap to 14-13 at the quarter's end.

So it went throughout. Stokes piling up a lead and Bethel charging right back to even matters. In the third quarter Bethel made its bid with Nelson hitting the nets for ten points to pull the Indians within a single point of pace-setting Stokes boys.

Late in the third quarter disaster struck the Indians in form of the personal foul rules. Nelson and B. B. Tetterton were forced to retire to the sidelines charged with five personal fouls.

Early in the fourth quarter Bethel took the lead when Council hit a couple of quick goals and House added a set shot before he too retired via the foul route.

Determined not to let victory slip from their grasp Stokes retaliated once again through efforts of Warren, Roberson, and Butler to sweep into the lead and hold on with a minute remaining in the game.

Winterville In Semifinals

Boys and girls teams from Winterville assured themselves of semifinal berths by downing respective foes last night.

Brilliant forward Jean Liverman meshed the cords for 27 points to lead the top-seeded Winterville lasses in a 57-39 triumph over Chicod. Betty Jean Little added 20 for the winners.

Freshman star Patsy Mills kept Chicod in contention with 21 points and Jessie Kennedy donated 10 for Chicod.

The two teams battled on even terms in first half of play and rested at halfway mark with the score deadlocked 22-22. In the third quarter Liverman and Little poured in nine and six points each and Barbara Corey added four as Winterville pulled away for a 10-point lead.

Liverman and Little continued their point-making spree in the final period and Winterville coasted to victory.

Bevo Francis To Stick With Rio

RIO GRANDE, O. (UP)—Fame and furor don't faze Rio Grande College's lanky basketball center Clarence (Bevo) Francis.

Obviously unconcerned about all the tumult which was raised Wednesday over whether he would quit the small southern Ohio school, the gangling six-foot, seven-inch center skipped his classes to go to nearby Jackson. His mission: The purchase of a tailor-made suit.

Besides, Francis said, when he finally got back on the campus, there's not much likelihood that he and Coach Newt Oliver would part company. Oliver was Bevo's high school cage mentor, and when he moved here as coach, he persuaded Francis to come along.

Francis, a 20-year-old freshman, has scored 1,649 points in leading Rio Grande to 33 straight victories this season, albeit some of them were against junior colleges and service teams. Francis is concerned mainly about the type of opposition he'll meet next.

Francis said, "I have no plans and no intentions of leaving here for I know we will be playing four-year colleges next year."

He said the wrong interpretation had been placed on his remarks when it was reported that he would leave Rio and become a player in other teams.

Oliver branded the report "poppycock" and asserted he is trying to line up a schedule with four-year teams next season.

Harvie Ward Is Favored In Golf Champion's Play

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (UP)—British amateur champion Harvie Ward shared the favorite's role with steady Dave (Spec) Goldman today as the Tournament of Golf Club Champions squared off in match play.

Ward, of Tarboro, N. C. and Atlanta, and Goldman of Dallas tied for medalist honors yesterday with 136 totals at the end of 36-holes of play. The long-hitting Carolinian got his eight-under-par total over the Ponce de Leon course with a second round 69. The veteran Goldman fashioned two 68s in a row.

Ward, once a winner and four-times medalist in this tournament, needs Ned Searcy of Jacksonville, who fired a qualifying 150, in his first match. Goldman takes on Jim Blair of Jefferson City, Mo., who also shot a 150.

Dick Chapman of Pinehurst, N.C. French amateur champ, qualified with a third place 141 and meets Ned Fitch of Jacksonville in the first round. Fitch had a 150.

Defending champion Bill (Dynamite) Goodloe of Valdosta, Ga., qualified well behind the leaders with a 146 and will play the first round against Joseph Schiller of Salisbury, Md., who had a 155.

It's Baseball Time Again At Spring Training Camps

Eddie Stanky fined himself $9, because of arm trouble last year, three fast and hard yesterday and said his arm felt fine. Ralph Branca, another 1952 sore-arm casualty, reported ready for full-scale work.

The news wasn't so pleasant at the West Palm Beach camp of the Philadelphia Athletics. After only one workout pitcher Harry Burdette last year's American League Rookie of the Year, went to bed with the flu.

The Phillies, who haven't opened camp as yet, also had hospital news. Third baseman Willie Jones is suffering from abdominal pains and doctors at his home in Laurinburg, N.C. diagnosed his trouble as possible kidney stones.

Walt Dropp, Detroit first baseman, dropped in on his old college grounds at the University of Connecticut and put on a demonstration for the university's baseball candidates. Dropp says he's ready after winter workouts with Johnny Pesky of the Tigers at Andover, Mass.

Out in San Bernardino, Calif., the St. Louis Browns, rounding out a full week of training, spent the day practicing rundown plays between home plate and third base. In other developments yesterday Billy Pierce, ace left-hander of the Boys Lose When Wearing Gloves

BUFFALO, N. Y. (UP)—It was a dark day for boys of the Cleveland Hill High School varsity basketball squad. They took an 8-6 drubbing from a team of female cheerleaders in the school gymnasium.

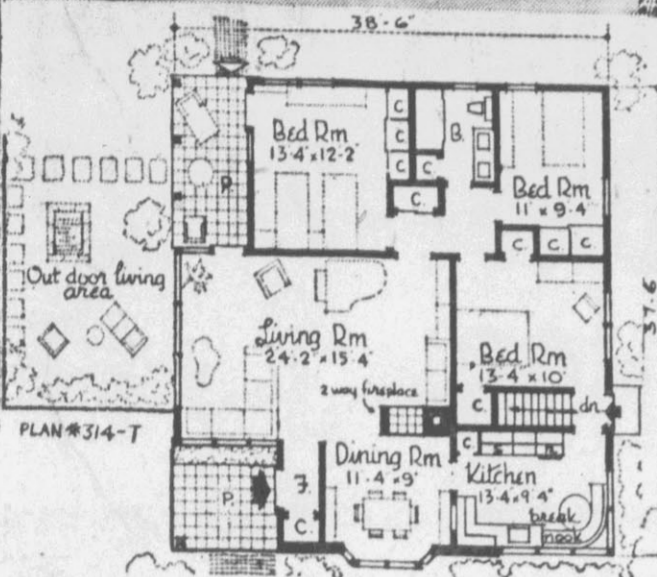

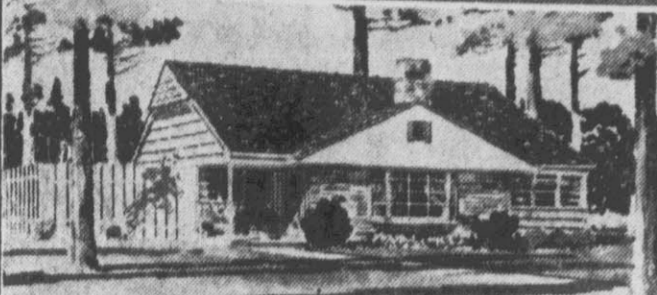

The basketball contest was staged to raise $100 for relief of flood-stricken Hollanders.

The boys said they really should have won the game even though they were playing at a disadvantage. They were required to wear boxing gloves.

Undesirables Expelled By U.S.; Reds Keep Theirs Behind Curtain

By PHIL NEWSOM
 United Press Foreign News Editor

In this country, we take the view that if they don't like it here, then they darn well can go back where they came from.

Now and then, we'll even help them to leave—such as in the case of foreign-born pinkos, draft dodgers and others. A New York judge the other day even offered some convicted native-born Communists the chance to go to Russia. They turned it down.

Strangely, the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics takes the opposite view.

A recent case in point has been the Kremlin's drive against the Jews—while at the same time preventing their exodus to Israel.

Another is the U. S. High Commission's report from Germany that the Reds are setting up a "zone of death" between East and West Berlin to cut off the flow of refugees from Russian-controlled East Germany to the West. On Feb. 2, this flow hit a record of 2,600 persons.

You'd think the Reds would be glad to see them go.

It sounds corny, but actually the explanation seems to lie in the differences between the slave and the free beliefs.

Communist rulers take as a loss of face the fact that some of their subjects would like to escape.

There is also this second economic view. Many of those looking for a better life elsewhere are those with the best training and the most intelligence. The better trained and the more intelligent they are, the better slave laborers they make.

At least one other element enters into the latest Berlin situation. It is that Russia, once again, may have underestimated the United States.

This doesn't mean that Russia is challenging President Eisenhower's "positive" policy against Communism, or his decision to junk the secret agreements of Yalta.

It still is too soon for that kind of a reaction.

The "zone of death" decision against West Berlin probably had its beginning last spring when it became apparent that the Western powers would push through their plan for a West German peace contract and integration of West German forces in a European army.

With Berlin an "island" some 100 miles inside the Soviet zone, the Russians once again are hoping to choke it off economically.

They are overlooking the U. S. promise to West Berliners that we would fight before abandoning them to the tender mercies of the Reds.

ing to choke it off economically.

Japanese Study Ship Salvage

MANILA (AP)—A Japanese salvage survey mission has arrived to determine whether vessels sunk in Manila Bay during World War II should be refloated, dismantled or abandoned.

The Japanese expect to find out how many of the 265 vessels totaling 561,157 tons can be salvaged and turned over to the Philippines as reparations through services.

The Japanese government has offered to pay reparations through services, instead of cash, or kind, to the Philippines in compensation for war damage.

 HARTFORD, Conn. (UP)—State Motor Vehicles Commissioner Charles F. Kelley has a tip that might save lives. Tests have shown that interior lights often silhouette a car for approaching drivers better than exterior lights.

The temperature in the Greenville area dropped to 28 degrees, four below freezing, last night.

Yesterday afternoon, the temperature was did not pass the 48-degree mark. Heavy frost covered the countryside during last night.

Yesterday a year ago, the highest temperature here was 58 degrees. Lowest that night 29, and at 8 a. m. next day it was 36, Mrs. Carl E. Maiden, local observer for the U. S. Weather Bureau, reported.

Sells Gravel, But Gives Away Gold

BOWIE, Tex. (U.P.)—O. W. Watson deals in sand and gravel, old fossils and gold. He sells the sand and gravel, keeps the fossils for souvenirs, and gives away the gold.

The gold is liberally sprinkled on a 271-acre tract north of here where Watson operates a sand and gravel company. There is 50 cents worth of gold in every ton of gravel and it stays there because the cost of cracking the gravel to get it out would be prohibitive.

Watson, a former banker and grover, bought the land in 1929, and when workmen excavating for the building of U. S. Highway 81 ran into gravel deposits, Watson went into the gravel business and discovered the gold and fossils later.

"All material that comes out of here has some gold, traces of silver, and other minerals," Watson explained. "In the 44 miles of paving material we have furnished, about $22,000 worth of gold has gone with it."

The first big fossil remains were discovered in 1944. University of Texas geologists said they were the bones of dinosaurs that roamed the country a million years ago.

One fossil bone found was that of a rear leg of a prehistoric monster. It was 40 inches long, 39 inches in circumference and weighed 99 pounds.

All the fossil remains were found 15 to 17 feet below the surface, packed between layers of dirt and sand.

Treating Warts Still Guesswork

BERKELEY, Calif. (UP)—Witch doctors, "medicine men," and other practitioners of hocus-pocus still are on a par with modern physicians when it comes to curing warts, according to a University of California scientist.

Dr. H. V. Allington, associate dermatologist for the university's Student Health Service, said no scientific remedy or vaccine for warts has yet been developed.

Allington said that in a series of experiments he injected a group of patients with a new anti-wart vaccine. Many were "cured." He also injected a group with pure water. An equally large number "benefited."

The use of a noisy X-ray machine, which emitted no X-rays, also resulted in many "cures."

Allington said an order for an operation to remove warts often was followed by disappearance of the warts before the date of the operation.

Psychiatrists have suggested a connection between warts and mental or nervous upsets, indicating psychiatric methods of treatment. Allington said he still believes warts are caused by viruses.

Enlistment Urge Lasted 30 Years

PROVIDENCE, R. I. (AP)—M. Sgt. William G. Reid remembers the day 30 years ago when he suddenly enlisted in the U. S. Army.

William, then 18, was delivering groceries in a horse and wagon in his home town when he saw the famous recruiting poster with Uncle Sam pointing at him and saying, "I want you."

He pulled up his horse and wagon, went in and enlisted and has been in the Army ever since. "I guess they must have sent someone to pick up the horse and wagon," he smiled. Married and with an 8-year-old son, Williams draws $459 a month in Army pay.

A U. S. Senator must be at least 30.

World's Worst Counterfeiter Is Still In Business

OKIYAWA (AP)—The world's worst counterfeiter is still in business, the Army admits ruefully.

The chief provost marshal on Okinawa, said recently that bills with glaring misspellings and other errors are turning up with "annoying regularity." Lt. Col. William E. Walkup, said all occupation personnel in Okinawa and local businessmen have been warned to look out for $10 counterfeit military payment certificates. The certificates are military money equal in value to U. S. dollars.

The Army said that among other discrepancies the more obvious were: misspelling the words "regulations," "certificate" and "establishments." In "E Pluribus Unum" the "E" is backwards, the "P" is omitted and the first two words are joined together into one word.

Would Join In Coronation Rite

SINGAPORE (AP)—The Bishop of Singapore, Rt. Rev. H. J. Baines, states that bishops, statesmen and commanders from all over the Commonwealth should be asked to help at the Coronation service of Queen Elizabeth II in June.

Writing in the latest issue of the parish magazines, Courier, Rev. Baines said: "Bishops from the Queen's overseas realms and statesmen or commanders from the nations and communities of the Commonwealth should be invited to assist in the administration of the oath to the Queen and in placing the imperial state crown upon her head."

TB Cure Brings Hospital Gift

NEW YORK (AP)—The Japanese Pearl Growers Association recently sent a check for $1,000 to the Denver Sanatorium and Hospital for Jewish Consumptives in appreciation for the recovery at the sanatorium of James Kanai, one of their members.

Kanai recovered from tuberculosis after 11 months at the sanatorium. The check was sent to Joseph Goldstone, president of the Imperial Pearl Syndicate of the United States and Chicago board leader of the relief society for the Denver sanatorium.

Coed, 48, Gets Help From Court

BOSTON (AP)—The Massachusetts Supreme Court recently upheld a lower court ruling requiring a man to pay $15 a week to his estranged 48-year-old wife while she is a Boston University coed.

In 1948 a lower court decreed a $20 a week support payment with the provision that it might be reduced as soon as she was able to work. The court upheld continued payments because her schooling is designed to enable her to resume her teaching career.

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—A full-blooded Eskimo got so cold here he went to jail for a night recently just to get warmed up.

James Morgan, 24, who lives in Bethel, Alaska, 75 miles from the Bering Sea, came here looking for work. When night came he went to city hall seeking a blanket to keep warm, finally deciding on jail.

Back home he said the temperature drops to 63 below zero but people wear furs and parkas. He was surprised not to see a single parka here.

EVEN THE MUFFLER DOES THINGS TO THE POWER

BACK in the old days, any man who wanted real performance used a "cutout" on his car.

It was a device that by-passed the muffler—because mufflers have always cut down on usable power. But it made a lot of noise.

Muffling that noise—and still getting rid of exhaust gases as fast as they come from the cylinders—has stumped the automobile people for years.

Now, Buick engineers have racked up another "first."

They have come up with a muffler of supreme quiet and zero power loss—first time in history.

It is called a dynamic flow muffler. And it is one of many advances that make the great 1953 Buick Roadmaster even greater.

For this automobile—the greatest Buick in fifty great years—has a brilliant new V8 Engine that can turn up 188 hp. And every one of its horsepower can be delivered as usable power—since none is restricted in muffler passage.

As you would expect, there is more to this magnificent motorcar than power, great though it is.

There's a finer ride, better maneuverability, easier handling—now with Power Steering as standard equip-

Seating Revision Getting Nowhere

RALEIGH (UP) — No lawmaker has been injured yet in any rush to redistribute the seats in the state Senate or reapportion the seats in the House of Representatives.

Despite urging by Gov. William B. Umstead that the lawmakers follow the "clear mandate" of the state Constitution in this regard, there has been no leap-frogging to be first at the clerk's desk with a proposal for a change.

Senators have ignored the subject to date.

House members have come up with two proposals — handled at the end of a mythical ten-foot pole. Neither would affect lower chamber membership, just the Senate. The two take virtually opposite sides.

Even that represents progress from two years ago when both chambers eagerly sidestepped the problem.

The job is one of arithmetic simplicity as far as the lower chamber is concerned. To carry out constitutional requirements for senatorial redistricting is a bit more involved mathematically.

But two hazards make the whole process as popular as a game of postoffice with a polar bear. Those are the possibility of upsetting the gerrymandering to block election of Republicans and resistance of small counties to loss of any of their fractional representation while bigger counties gain.

With this obstacle in mind, Rep. Clifton Blue of Moore County introduced the first bill of the current session to touch on the issue. It calls for a constitutional amendment to prohibit any county from having more than one senator.

Blue explained that one of the reasons the 1951 general assembly didn't redistrict the state was the fact that under existing provisions Mecklenburg and Guilford each would have received two senators. He explained that smaller counties, which already must share a single senator are vigorously opposed to such doubling — up by larger counties.

The other redistricting measure sponsored by representatives of the most populous counties would give two senators each to Guilford, Forsyth and Mecklenburg. It would increase the number of senatorial districts from the present 33 to 38.

Rep. Thomas Turner of Guilford explains that the measure is patterned on the study and report drawn by political science departments of the university of North Carolina, Wake Forest, and Duke. But he admits "it makes no provision for political lines" and for that reason may arouse strong opposition. He said the plan may upset the present arrangement wherein Republican counties are so grouped with Democratic counties that election of a Republican senator is virtually impossible.

The Constitution requires this reapportioning and redistricting be done by the first General Assembly following the federal census. It makes the senatorial districting tough by requiring that the districts must have approximately the same number of inhabitants, must be comprised of adjoining counties, and must not split any county "unless such county shall be equitably entitled to two or more senators."

Power Project For Formosans

TAIPEH, Formosa AP—The Westinghouse International Electric Co. has signed a contract with the Taiwan Power Co. to install two 30,000-kilowatt steam generators in a thermal-electric plant near the north coast port of Keelung.

The project will cost $5,500,000 and is due to be completed within two years. It was the largest contract with a foreign firm underwritten in Formosa by the Chinese Nationalists since V-J Day.

Home Ec For Boys; Girls Study Manual Training

By JOE McDAVID
United Press Staff Correspondent
SHANNON, Miss. (U.P.)—When the girls at the local high school complained that the boys lacked the social graces, L.G. Young, trades training instructor, proposed that the former learn how to handle a hammer and saw while the lads took some home economics instruction.

Not only were the boys highly interested in the home economics class, but they piled up an average about 10 points higher than the girls on the same tests.

"And they want to learn more," said their instructor, Mrs. James Land. She said so many boys have requested that school authorities are seriously considering a cooking class for boys next fall.

The three-week trial session was limited to teaching the boys such things as table manners, how to identify silverware and properly serve meals, how to make introductions, best color combinations for clothes and other points of social import.

The boys threw a party after it was over, and the girls showered Mrs. Land with comments on how much the boys' manners had improved.

There was one black mark against the boys. Both Mrs. Land and Young agreed they are noisier than girls.

What Young Learned
"When the boys want something in the shop they yell across the room for it," said Young, "but a girl will walk over and ask."
Young's reactions to girls in manual training were mixed.

"They learn more slowly than the boys, probably because they are so totally unfamiliar with the tools," he said. "But they are prouder of accomplishment. When a boy makes something, he usually thinks it isn't good enough and will just leave it in the shop to do over again. But the first thing a girl wants to do is to run home with it and show it off."
Young said he learned much from the experience of teaching the girls.

"It's sort of a funny thing," he said. "If a girl makes up her mind that she can't do something, then you might just as well give up. You can tell her over and over

Cannibal Turkeys Being Deterred

PUEBLO, Colo. (U.P.)—The cannibal instinct of turkeys is being curbed through experiments conducted at the Colorado State Hospital here.

Virile young toms are prone to attack and devour any member of the flock that may shed a drop of blood as the result of having some feathers pulled out in a fight or in a brush with a fence.

S. S. Hushlitt, in charge of the hospital's farm operations, has worked out two methods to stop this intramural slaughter.

One-half inch of the top bill of each bird's beak is removed when a turkey is seven weeks old. The operation is performed with an electrically heated instrument that shears off the bit of beak and at the same time seals the bill.

Hushlitt said the two-second operation does not hurt the turkey. All it does is baffle him. Without matching bills, a young tom no longer has the necessary utensil for a turkey dinner.

Should a turkey live beyond the broiler stage, it may be necessary to lop off the bill again when it grows out.

Another good thing about this de-beaking operation—the turkeys can no longer be so choosy about the type of grain they eat, which means a saving on feed.

Chickens just as "cannibalistic" as turkeys, are curbed by optical illusion. First, they are fed more salt, which is designed to cut down feather-pulling. But should blood be drawn, it won't be visible in the poultry buildings because they are suffused with red light.

Although the potter's wheel was unknown in pre-Columbian New Mexico, the Indians made jars by working the clay in shallow baskets or pots which could be turned as the work proceeded.

'Something Nice' At Jaycee Show

A little spice of something nice. Miss North Carolina for 1952, will be added to festivities at the Pitt County Variety Show to be held next Tuesday night in Austin Auditorium at East Carolina College. Miss Barbara Ann Harris (above) will present three numbers in the performance, which is being jointly sponsored by Greenville and Farmville Jaycee clubs. All proceeds will go to the "Voice of America" broadcasts, which beam radio programs into countries behind the Iron Curtain.

U.S. Planning To Avoid Difficulty With Its Allies

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles has assured Allied nations the United States is seeking to avoid "political embarrassments and troubles" with them in charting new moves against Red China.

One of several actions under consideration, Dulles told a news conference yesterday, is establishment of a naval blockade of the China coast. Another, he said, is strict "enforcement" of United Nations recommendations against trade with China.

The whole range of "measures of varying kind which could be adopted," Dulles said, is under intensive study in the light of three considerations: "Their feasibility, their military consequences and the degree of political embarrassments and troubles that might be caused with our allies."

It was Dulles' first news conference at the State Department since he became secretary. There were no limitations on questioning and a variety of subjects were discussed.

Dulles was questioned at length about what the administration hopes to accomplish by repudiating "secret understandings" which permit enslavement of foreign peoples," as called for by President Eisenhower.

The proposed action, Dulles said, would serve these two primary purposes:

"One is to register dramatically what we believe to be the many breaches by the Soviet Union of the wartime understandings, and, secondly, to register equally dramatically the desire and hope of the American people that the captive people shall be liberated."

"This document or pronouncement is not intended to be a domestic political pronouncement. It is intended to be a pronouncement in relation to foreign policy, which I hope will receive and I think should receive a substantial unanimous backing in the Congress by the members of both the principal political parties."

His comments appeared to reflect some development or change in administration thinking. Previously the emphasis had been on repudiating agreements which "permit" enslavement. This was in line with Republican criticisms of the late President Roosevelt and former President Truman that in agreements made with the Soviets at Yalta and Potsdam they had allowed Russia to extend its domination over new areas in the Far East and Eastern Europe.

The line which Dulles took yesterday, however, was that "the enslavement of these captive peoples is due to abuse and violation of the understandings. Any repudiation, therefore, apparent to the world, is based on Russian violations and not upon the claim that the understandings were themselves bad in the first place. Hence, the administration would be able to appeal for Democratic as well as Republican support."

Unwelcome Visitor Bumped Into House

City patrolman W. W. Joyner investigates an "unwelcome visitor" which rammed into the porch of A. R. House after the car had been struck by another automobile at the intersection of Tenth and Charles Streets. Force of the impact caused the driver of the above car to lose control and smash into the nearby residence. (Reflector Photo by Roy Hardee)

Two Injured In Auto Collision

A collision at a city intersection and a runaway car resulted in the injury of two persons and mounting property damage, including a house.

The accident occurred yesterday afternoon about 2 o'clock at the corner of Tenth and Charles Street.

A car driven by Mrs. Pennie Harney, City Route 2, Greenville, traveling West on Tenth Street, collided with a car driven by Samuel Northrop of East Fifth Street, Greenville, Northrop was traveling south on Charles Street.

City Patrolman W. W. Joyner, investigating officer, reported that the force of the impact caused Northrop's car to skid across the highway, stop a sidewalk, finally coming to a stop against the porch of A. R. House. Property damage to the house was estimated at $100.

In the accident, two persons received lacerations and abrasions. They were Mrs. Cherry and her daughter, Gloria O'Dell Cherry. They were taken to Pitt Memorial for treatment.

Damage to the Cherry car was estimated at $1,000 and damage to Northrop's car amounted to $600.

Mrs. Cherry was charged with failure to yield the right of way.

Milder Tone

WASHINGTON (AP)—Remember Paul Hume, the music critic who got that letter after he penned Margaret Truman's singing? He got another one. From the same author.

This one commented on an article in which Hume said President Eisenhower's piano-playing predecessor had contributed more to the development of music in Washington than any other president.

The letter, published today on Page 1 of the Washington Post (Hume's employer), was dated Feb. 16 and went in part:

Dear Mr. Hume:

"The article which you wrote on my contribution to the music loving of the nation has just been called to my attention. I appreciate it very highly . . .

"Sincerely yours,"

"Harry Truman."

Box Car Theft Believed Solved; Boy Confesses

The robbery of a box car loaded with merchandise belonging to the National Biscuit Company here on February 9 has been apparently solved.

Detective N. H. Byrd has arrested a Negro juvenile, who has reportedly admitted the theft. Byrd said today that the youth, whose name was not revealed, admitted to him that he stole two small boxes of crackers contained in the box car when it was entered.

The youth was scheduled to be given a hearing before Juvenile Court Judge D. T. House, clerk of Superior Court, today.

All Work Halted On 'Voice' Radio

EAST ARCADIA, N. C. (UP)—All construction work on a multi-million dollar Voice of America transmitter project near here was at a standstill today after congressional charges of waste, extravagance and "downright stupidity."

Charles H. Merritt, construction manager confirmed that orders to stop work were received. A congressional committee had severely criticized the Voice of America for locating the transmitter on the site.

Maneuver Death Believed Murder

PT. DIX, N. J. (AP)—A young Brooklyn soldier, described as a former mental patient, was held today in connection with the death of a lieutenant who at first was believed killed accidentally while on training maneuvers, Army authorities said.

Capt. Harry Lapham, public information officer at this Army post, said Pvt. Edgar Owens, 21, has admitted shooting the lieutenant in a signed statement, but that no motive was determined.

An investigation into the death last week of Lt. Richard M. Davenport, 22, New London, Conn., determined that he "apparently was murdered," said Maj. Gen. Homer W. Kiefer, commander of the 9th Infantry Division.

Owens will be charged with murder in the next 48 hours, Lapham said yesterday.

The first announcement of Davenport's death termed it a freak accident, because it was thought he was killed by fragments from a shell that exploded 225 feet away far beyond the safety limit in training maneuvers.

But an autopsy later disclosed that it was a .30-caliber M-1 rifle bullet.

Lapham said ballistics tests showed that the fatal bullet came from Owens' rifle.

Suit Drags Into Its Third Day

The long, drawn-out suit for damages brought by Vina Simmons against the N. C. Highway and Public Works Commission dragged into its third day this morning.

Judge Henry A. Grady was engaged in delivering his charge to the jury just before noon today. The hearing of evidence has been completed.

An investigation committee appointed by the clerk of the court recently inspected the property and set damages at $550.

The current term of Pitt Superior Court is slated to last through tomorrow.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (UP)—Carnival festivities here this week left 17 persons dead and at least 4,990 in need of medical assistance, according to police records.

At Lima, Peru, eight merry-makers died and 1,779 were injured in street fights, traffic accidents and other holiday mishaps.

Wild Ride For School Bus, But Driver Excused

DETROIT (UP)—City officials said today they would take no action against school bus driver John N. Snay, despite the unscrupulous wild ride he gave his passengers through northeast Detroit.

A bus driver, they said, is only human.

Snay, a veteran of 24 years service, drove away from the Denby High School Wednesday afternoon and began a non-stop rip-roaring trip up one side street and down another. An hour later, after refusing to let any students off the bus, he deposited them all back at the high school and told them to walk home.

"I just got fed up," he explained. "It was the same thing every day—a bunch of clown screaming, pulling the bell rope, running up and down the aisles and shooting firecrackers. I just waited for my chance and then I let 'em have it."

Waive Hearing In Bootleg Case

Two Negro men waived a hearing before U. S. Commissioner "Buck" Taylor in Washington last night, and both made $300 bonds for their appearance at the April term of U. S. District Court there.

The two men, Samuel Little, Jr., 51, and Harold Glenn, 31, were arrested in Washington last night by Beaufort ABC Officer Clyde Stubbs and Deputy Sheriff Phillip Paul. The Pitt County ABC force was present to testify against the pair had the hearing been held.

Little and Glenn were arrested on charges of possession of materials designed for the purpose of manufacturing illegal liquor, which carries a maximum sentence of 30 days plus a fine.

Last night's arrests brought to a conclusion the investigation into a Pitt County event which took place last month. The two Negroes reportedly have admitted to being occupants of a truck captured by the local force, and which was loaded with sugar and fruit jars.

The occupants of the truck fled into the woods after sensing that officers were on their trail, but a new pick-up truck containing 25 100-pound bags of sugar and 40 cases of half-gallon jars was confiscated.

According to Pitt ABC Officer J. M. Ward, the two men admitted that the truck they were driving and the contents belonged to W. T. Angle of Greenville, Route 5.

The pair will be tried in April.

Bombing Mishap Kills Three GIs

SEOUL (AP)—Three American soldiers were killed and five wounded when an Allied warplane accidentally dropped its bombs behind U. N. lines Feb. 2, it was learned.

Air Force and Navy officers refused to discuss the incident, but the Far East Command in Tokyo said it had started an investigation.

An American officer of the unit hit said he understands one fighter-bomber pilot had trouble with his bomb release mechanism while flying toward the Chinese lines on the Western front.

The explosives dropped on the administrative section of a front-line battalion. The section was about 2 1/2 miles behind the lines.

The U. S. Fifth Air Force indicated Marine Panther jets were responsible. The Marines have been making their own investigation.
