Injured Woman Is Lifted Into Ambulance After Fall From Car

The crushed body of Mrs. Virginia Thomas, 26-year-old widow who was seriously injured in a fall from a car Saturday morning, is shown being placed on an ambulance cot. To the left, at the foot of the stretcher, is Walter Tom Cone, 32-year-old hearing and plumbing contractor of Greenville, who was charged with assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill, as a result of the investigation of the incident by Cpl. C. E. Whitfield, shown next to Cone. Mrs. Thomas' body struck the wooden bridge guard rail (to the right) splintering it. Mrs. Thomas suffered a broken back and internal injuries. 'I Did Not Jump From The Car', Says Victim

Warrant Charging Assault Is Issued Against Reported Driver Of Car From Which Woman Fell Saturday

By ROY HARDEE, Reflector Staff Writer. A warrant was issued this morning for Walter Tom Cone, 32-year-old hearing and plumbing contractor of Greenville, charging him with assault with a deadly weapon, an automobile, with intent to kill.

Walter T. Cone of Greenville was taken into custody this afternoon at 12:20 by State Highway Patrol Cpl. C. E. Whitfield. He was being detained at the Greenville Police Station, but reportedly was attempting to raise a $1,000 bond. Indications were that should he make the bond he would be released this afternoon.

The warrant charging Cone with assault came 48 hours after Mrs. Virginia Thomas, 26-year-old widow, was seriously injured in a spill from a car driven by Cone Saturday.

Turning point in the case came after Cpl. C. E. Whitfield conferred with the seriously injured woman in her hospital room and got statements from her on how the incident occurred.

"I did not jump from the car," those were the words of Mrs. Thomas as told to Cpl. Whitfield from her hospital bed, the officer reported this morning. Prior to this, she had been in no condition to tell about the fall which so seriously injured her.

Immediately following her statement, Whitfield had a conference with district Superior Court Solicitor W. J. Bundy and a short time later the assault warrant was sworn out.

Not In Town. Early this morning Cone was reported out of town but was expected back in the city some time this afternoon. Whitfield said a bond of $1,000 will be required for the man when he is taken into custody. In the event that he is unable to post bond, he will be lodged in jail until he is able to do so or a hearing is held.

As yet, no charges have been preferred against the third person in the car, Dewey Page, son of Mayor Lester D. Page.

Page, married, was reported to have been riding in the back seat of the automobile at the time the woman was injured.

The warrant for Cone was taken out by Whitfield on "information and belief" before Justice of the Peace Frank Brooks this morning.

Mrs. Thomas, a widow of five years, remains in a serious condition at Pitt Memorial Hospital today suffering from a broken back and serious internal injuries.

Her brother and mother from South Carolina are at her bedside, the only persons except officers who are allowed to see the injured woman.

Whitfield stated that Cone told him shortly after the incident that Mrs. Thomas "jumped from the car" and hit the bridge abutment. Cone also said that the woman did not make any statement that she was going to jump or anything, but just opened the door of the car and called out, hitting the abutment.

"I tried to grab her and missed," Cone was quoted as saying to the officer. Dewey Page stated that he could not shed any light on the incident, Whitfield said.

Neither did Cone offer any explanation why he drove from the scene of the accident, some nine miles to the Greenville city limits where he stopped at a local service station.

Donors Needed

At least 75 more persons are needed to give a pint of blood at the temporary blood center which will be set up here tomorrow by the Red Cross.

Approximately 150 persons have already signed donor cards but between 200 and 225 donors are needed to fill the quota of 150 pints.

Mrs. J. T. Little, recruitment chairman, said this morning the Bloodmobile will be in operation at the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church Educational building between the hours of 11:30 and 5:30 Tuesday and urged prospective donors to come in and give a pint of blood.

Bohlen Issue Is Near Showdown

WASHINGTON (UP)—Charles E. Bohlen's nomination as ambassador to Russia came before the Senate today with all signs indicating he will be confirmed over the vociferous opposition of a few senators.

Senate Republican leader Robert A. Taft expected the sharp debate on Bohlen's qualifications to continue for several days postponing a vote until Wednesday or later.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee sent the nomination to the floor with a 15-0 vote of approval. The Senate rarely, if ever, has overridden such an overwhelming committee recommendation.

Although the ultimate outcome was in little doubt, the floor fight attracted wide attention as the first direct test of strength between Secretary of State John A. Dulles, who has gone down the line for the appointment, and Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.), who is leading the opposition, along with Sens. Styles Bridges (R-N.H.) and Pat McCarran (D-Nev.).

McCarthy conceded defeat in advance. He said the nomination will be approved "because all the Truman Democrats and many Republicans who are not yet ready to break with the administration" are supporting Bohlen.

Judge Stevens Is Holding Court

Judge Henry L. Stevens of Warsaw opened the second consecutive week of Pitt Superior Court this morning at 10:20 o'clock.

Shortly after court opened for the week jurors were called and sworn for duty this week.

Court is scheduled to be in session through Friday.

PLANE MISSING SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP)—The U. S. Navy announced here today a PBM Mariner seaplane with 11 men aboard has been missing over the Atlantic northwest of San Juan since yesterday.

Superforts Raid Vital Red Bridge

SEoul, Korea (UP)—American superfortresses raided an intense barrage of anti-aircraft fire from Communist radar-controlled guns today to blast a key bridge in the vital Red supply route from Manchuria to the fighting front.

The B-29s dropped 80 tons of bombs on a rail bridge crossing the Taeryong River near Sinanju in northwest Korea. The attack was the second on the area in two days and hit one of three bridges not knocked out in Sunday's raid.

"It was a lively show," said bombardier Capt. Lester W. McElfresh of Downs, Kans. "Orange flak was dropping off so fast it made your eyes blink. The Communists must have considered this bridge mighty important to their supply operations."

The 5th Air Force called the 1,170-foot-long bridge a "key link in the main Communist supply route along the west coast of Korea."

The flak started just before bombs away," said 5-Sgt. John A. Wilson, Pekin, Ill., a gunner. "It kept coming at us until we were well out of the target."

The eight B-29s used electronic aiming devices to drop their bombs on the bridge through a heavy overcast.

Eight other Superforts, meanwhile dropped bombs on a 435-foot-long bridge 35 miles northeast of Sinanju on the Manjojin-Sinanju route. They met meager anti-aircraft fire.

'To Wait Is To Die', Says Baruch On Controls Law

WASHINGTON (UP)—Elder Statesman Bernard M. Baruch told a Senate committee today that in a "world under siege" stand-by economic controls legislation must be enacted.

Baruch, 82-year-old financier, said the "surest deterrent against another war would be to so narrow the gap in our mobilization that no enemy could delude himself into thinking he could overwhelm us with a surprise blitz attack."

He cited the lag in mobilization for the two world wars and in the Korean conflict between the time we were involved and the time we were prepared to give the armed forces what was needed.

"To overcome fully this time-lag in our mobilization we would have to turn ourselves into a garrison state," Baruch said.

Ammunition Shortages Face Probe

Senate Investigators Plan Study All Angles Of Van Fleet Charges

WASHINGTON (UP)—Shocked Senate investigators promised today to explore every angle of Gen. James A. Van Fleet's bitter charge that the U. S. Eighth Army did not have enough ammunition to meet a Communist offensive in Korea.

Chairman Margaret Chase Smith (R-Me.) said she would have an announcement "in a day or two" on the detailed plans of the Senate Armed Services subcommittee which is trying to find out who or what was responsible for the ammunition shortage.

The subcommittee is expected to begin public hearings late this week with Van Fleet, recently retired Eighth Army commander, as the first witness.

The full gravity of Van Fleet's charges was impressed on Congress and the general public for the first time with the publication Sunday night of the testimony he gave at secret hearings of the full Senate Armed Services Committee during five days beginning March 5.

Van Fleet told the senators that ammunition stocks in Korea have "greatly improved" in the past few weeks. But as recently as December, he said, there were "critical" shortages of such basic battlefield munitions as hand grenades, 81-mm. mortar shells, and 155-mm. mortar shells, and 155-mm. howitzer shells.

Gen. J. Lawton Collins, Army chief of staff, agreed that ammunition reserves in the Far East have not been as large as they are and he contended that the Eighth Army has always had enough shells to protect its troops "and to carry out the type of operation that the Army commander is now authorized to carry out."

Van Fleet acknowledged that the enemy does not have "near as much ammunition" as the Eighth Army. But he said that during and since the ill-fated 1951 armistice talks, the Communists have built up their artillery until they now have "twice as much as we do."

Sensors of both parties declared themselves "shocked" and alarmed by Van Fleet's testimony. Under the questioning, he bitterly criticized the "sitdown" strategy which he said was forced on him when the armistice negotiations began.

Extension Sought By President And GOP Leaders Keep Rent Control?

WASHINGTON (UP)—A five-month extension of the rent control law will be sought by President Eisenhower and the GOP leadership in Congress, it was announced today, continuing federal rent powers to Oct. 1.

House Speaker Joseph W. Martin said the leaders agreed at Mr. Eisenhower's suggestion, to recommend a five-month extension of present limited controls to allow state governments to take rent control over if they desire.

The administration leaders also agreed to abolish the Reconstruction Finance Corp., effective, June 30, 1954, but set up special arrangements for small business loans.

The agreements on the RFC and rent controls were reached at Mr. Eisenhower's regular weekly conference with his congressional leaders.

It was agreed that Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks and Secretary of the Treasury George M. Humphrey will work out the small business loan arrangement to be recommended as a replacement for RFC.

Martin said liquidation of RFC will begin almost immediately. He said that about 50 per cent of its offices across the country will be eliminated in the next 60 days.

Meanwhile the RFC will not make any loans of more than $1,000,000.

Sen. Harry F. Byrd (D-Va.) has introduced legislation to kill RFC at the end of this year. Martin said today's decision did not rule out the possibility of favorable action on Byrd's bill.

Martin said there was agreement to end federal rent controls Oct. 1 on everything except critical defense areas, but added that he did not know how congressional leaders would work out a law applying only to such areas.

About 1,100 communities, including about a dozen big cities, are under some type of limited rent control. About 100 so-called critical defense areas also are under rent controls.

Joint Appropriations Body Promises 'Ax' Legislative Economy Drive

RALEIGH (UP)—A joint appropriations subcommittee promised today to begin wielding the axe on big budget requests as it met early to start the legislative week that observers believed might be the most important of the 1953 session.

The 24-member subcommittee buckled down a day early and its leaders promised to hack out a lot of dead timber before the week is out. The early meeting was the first sign of a speeding up of the legislative tempo in a drive toward adjournment by mid-April.

In addition to the controversial items which the appropriations subcommittee will study, legislative leaders and Gov. William B. Umstead expected to get their first real indication this week of how state income tax revenues are doing. Whether tax revisions will be in order depends upon the flow of revenues gauged by this month's income tax returns.

Meanwhile a vote may come this week in the House Cities, Counties and Towns Committee on the major question of a statewide liquor referendum. Action on the liquor issue has been delayed for the past two weeks.

Among bills that may be introduced this week are those being readied to call for a statewide referendum on Umstead's proposed $27,000,000 bond issues for school construction, mental hospitals and permanent improvements.

Important committee hearings and decisions are also on the week's calendar.

The Senate agriculture committee has scheduled a public hearing tomorrow on a bill by Sen. Ralph Scott to establish a powerful nine-member State Milk Commission with authority to regulate prices and distribution of fluid milk and cream.

At the same time the Senate Public Health Committee will conduct a hearing on opposing bills to set up a new nurse examining board and establish regulations for the nurse training schools.

A House Education subcommittee is expected to submit its recommendations for a statewide school consolidation policy on a public hearing on consolidation is set Wednesday.

The Senate Propositions and Grievances Committee and a House Judiciary subcommittee will conduct a public hearing Wednesday on a bill designed to unmask the Ku Klux Klan and other secret political organizations. The bill as written must also bring the Communist Party in North Carolina into the open.

The House Judiciary Committee will conduct a hearing tomorrow on a measure to make ownership prima facie evidence in parking violation cases. The measure is supported by the League of Municipalities to plug a loophole in parking enforcement punished by a recent State Supreme Court decision.

On Thursday the Utilities committees of both houses will conduct a hearing on bills to set up a new board for public utilities rate-making formula. The proposed base would be original cost plus normal depreciation instead of the present method of starting replacement cost.

East Germans Try Churchman

BERLIN (UP)—East German Communists have put an Evangelical pastor on trial in what may be the start of a big Red drive against the Protestant church, it was reported today.

Evangelical church authorities said the Communist ordered Rev. Karl A. Brandt of Lohmen to a trial which started Saturday. He was charged with "hostile utterances against the state."

It was feared Brandt might be given a stiff sentence as part of the current Red campaign against church youth activities.

Brandt was in charge of church youth affairs in his parish. He is married and has seven children.

Other Evangelical pastors are under arrest in the Soviet occupation zone.

In addition, the East German Communist youth organization yesterday accused Bishop Ludolf Herpmann Mueller, Evangelical bishop of the province of Saxony, of violating Soviet zone youth laws, mistreating youths under the care of the church and being linked with the West German government.

All charges leveled against the churchman are punishable offenses in the Communist zone. It was feared Mueller might be arrested.

Latin Americans Told U.S. Plans Neighborly Role

WASHINGTON (UP)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles assured Latin American diplomats today that the Eisenhower administration will put just as much emphasis as its Democratic predecessors on "hemispheric solidarity."

Speaking before the council of the Organization of American States, he said President Eisenhower has a "deep interest" in developing and maintaining "relations of mutual trust...with our sister republics."

Dulles said regional security pacts, such as the one which binds the American republics to defend each other from outside attack, are "vital to meet the 'grave danger' which Russia presents to the free world."

"We must strengthen our capacity to defend ourselves from a foe that can attack both from without and from within—by open aggression or by subversion," he said.

Hundreds Of Well-Wishers Help Orphans Celebrating Birthday Of Six-Year-Old

CHICAGO (UP)—David Hess, the youngest of five courageous orphans who elected to stick together and live alone, was six years old today, but his touching birthday party was held Sunday to accommodate hundreds of well-wishers.

More than 200 sympathetic strangers came, bearing gifts, to David's party at the neat little five-room cottage where the five orphans live.

The chubby child stared in wide-eyed wonder at a huge chocolate birthday cake, 25 inches in diameter, donated by a big Chicago hotel.

"Is that a real cake?" he asked. "No that can't be a real cake. A real cake isn't that big," he said.

The well-wishers who came to see David also stopped to congratulate brown-haired Carol Hess, 18, the "head" of the plucky family who has nursed and cared for the others since Mrs. Agnes Hess died Jan. 2.

Since then the children had managed to live on a small nest egg and $38 a week earned by 16-year-old Wilma, a telephone company employee. Wilma's twin, Walter, brought home a little cash from a new grocery store job.

Agnes H. helped Carol with David and the housekeeping chores. The children decided to hold David's birthday celebration on Sunday so that all the persons who donated money or toys could drop in. "Mother would have invited them in," Carol said.

The flood of gifts began a week ago when the orphans' plight was first published in a Chicago newspaper and national wire services. Before the stories appeared Carol had been forced to tell David he would get no birthday gifts.

Sunday he laughed delightedly as he was presented with cowboy suits, a bicycle, new clothes and scores of other toys. He could not speak for a time.

When an extremely large package arrived, he found his voice and cried, "I wanna see that."

The boy pulled a tractor, a tank, a build-a set and other toys from the carton.

Virginia Honors Negro Mother Of 14 Children

WAYNESBORO, Va. (UP)—Virginia clubwomen for the first time have chosen a Negro as their state's "Mother of the Year."

Mrs. Leah Young of Courland, Va., 66-year-old mother of 14 children, will represent Virginia in the national contest for the title, "American Mother of the Year for 1953."

Mrs. Louis Spilman, chairman of a 10-member selecting committee, said there were "some very outstanding nominees" among 48 women considered.

"But most of them were women of some means and Mrs. Young had done all they had done under a handicap which just put her out ahead of all the rest," she said.

Mrs. Young and her husband, John P. Young, living on a 40-acre farm near Courland, Va., have sent their 14 children through school and reared five orphans as well. Mrs. Spilman said, although this required all members of the family to help with odd jobs.

When Applegate sought Coote's advice about the voyage, Coote told him he was asking to get picked up as long as he couldn't get more than 2 1/2 knots under power.

"When he seemed determined to go anyway, I advised him the safest route to take, and then he was picked up in just about the safest place he could have been," Coote said.

Applegate wrote friends in Los Angeles recently he was prepared for "pirates."

Another Atom Test Believed Set Tuesday

LAS VEGAS (UP)—The arrival of some 50 atomic experts indicated today that another atom bomb test would be held soon, probably Tuesday.

The guessing game was intensified by an Atomic Energy Commission announcement that a news conference would be held today. A previous conference the AEC has notified newsmen that a test was scheduled within 24 hours.

The coming test will be top secret and the area close to the proving grounds target area will be closed to the press.

The public experts, members of the AEC Technical Information Committee and Committee of Senior Reviewers began arriving here Sunday to make the blast and scientific laboratory, and Dr. J. R. hold a four-day meeting. The experts will huddle behind closed doors to discuss possible formula at Los Angeles.

modification of present rules and guides for classifying scientific information and better methods of disseminating technical information.

The only information released by the AEC so far is that two battalions of troops from all parts of the nation will participate in the next atomic detonation at Yucca Flat, 75 miles northeast of here.

The six members of the Committee of Senior Reviewers are Dr. Warren C. Johnson, chairman of the University of Chicago; Dr. R. H. Crist, Carbide and Carbon Chemical Co., Charleston, W. Va.; Dr. Thomas B. Drew, Columbia University; Dr. John P. Howe, General Electric Co.; Dr. J. M. Sullivan, Los Alamos, N. M.; and Dr. J. R. Doolittle, University of California.

Members Of ECC Officers Club Hosts At Annual Military Ball

Members of the Officers Club of the Air Force ROTC Wing at East Carolina College were hosts Saturday evening, March 21, at the Fourth Annual Military Ball given by cadets at the college. Miss Shirley Council of Wilmington was chosen as honorary Cadet Colonel for the evening, and received chief honors among sponsors at the social event.

The Wright auditorium on the college campus, scene of the ball, was beautifully decorated in a color scheme of red, white, and blue. The stage, from which the East Carolina Collegians played, had a backdrop bearing the emblem of the Air Force. Blue and white streamers hung from the ceiling and from the balconies surrounding the dance floor and gave a gala setting for the dancers. A revolving chandelier of mirrors cast a kaleidoscopic pattern of light through the auditorium.

Lt. Col. Roger G. Fuller, professor of air science and tactics at East Carolina, announced from the stage the appointment of Miss Council an honorary Cadet Colonel and presented her a sheaf of flowers and a souvenir of the occasion.

Escorted by Cadet Capt. Dennis R. Smith of Chocowinity, Miss Council then led a dance figure and a grand march, in which senior cadet officers, the sponsors of the dance, members of the advanced class of the AF ROTC, and their dates participated.

Senior cadet officers and their dates were Cadet Col. Maurice Moore of Wilmington and Miss Patricia Shipp of Wilmington; Cadet Lt. Col. William A. McLawhorn of Greenville and Miss Jan Mitchell of Hillsboro; Cadet Lt. Col. Frank Madigan of Portsmouth, Va., and Miss Barbara Moore of Raleigh; Cadet Lt. Col. George M. Sauls of Grifton and Miss Kathryn McLawhorn of Grifton; and Cadet Lt. Col. George Tucker and Miss Betty Tucker, both of Monroe.

Sponsors chosen by the Officers Club for the Military Ball and their escorts were Miss Gale Dorsey of Wilmington and Mr. W. C. Sanderson of Wilmington; Miss Sherrilee Howard of Raleigh and Mr. Julian Vainwright of Greenville; Miss Jean Buchanan of Raleigh and Mr. Paul Gay of Wainstonburg; Miss Betsy Loftin of Kingston and Mr. Charles Batchelor of Rocky Mount; Miss Barbara Kinney of Raleigh and Mr. Cecil Heath of Wilmington; Miss Vivian Tally of Wilmington and Mr. James Byrd of Kingston; and Miss Mary Frances Peterson of Kerr and Mr. Milton Foley of Greenville.

An attraction of the evening was a cake cutting preceding the intermission at the ball. Miss Council, as chief honoree, cut the cake, which was ornamented with Air Force decorations.

Special guests of the evening included staff officers of the AF ROTC Wing at East Carolina, a number of college faculty members, AF ROTC cadets at the college here and at other colleges in the eastern section of the state.

Discussion of Roses Features Meeting Of Garden Club

The Garden Club met at the Woman's Club on Friday afternoon. The principle speaker was Mr. J. T. Barnhill who was introduced by Program Chairman Mrs. K. B. Pace.

Mr. Barnhill spoke on the most interesting subject of growing roses. He upset many preconceived ideas that all that had to be done was put a rose bush in the ground and nature did the rest, but Mr. Barnhill told in a most interesting fashion how roses needed constant care.

He stated that the theory was to plant roses in the fall for best luck, however, the last week in February seemed to him to produce better results here.

He said, "Roses love clay and they do not like air around the roots so they need to be packed tightly. Pruning should be done in the spring. There is no secret fertilizer but a good compost is necessary, any will do, as long as organic matter is beginning to decay and it should be neutral to slightly acid."

"Roses do not like to go to sleep with their faces wet and all watering should be done in time for them to dry before dark or early in the morning. Water should not be spared, they need to be soaked thoroughly." He suggested the Mirandy, Charlotte Armstrong, Mary Margaret McBride, Helen Traubel, Peace and Crimson Glory varieties for around here. The Etouille de Hollande is pretty but doesn't bloom too well when summer begins.

He said also new bushes should be planted in the spring because of weather conditions here. Earlier they may do well but a frost would kill all the new growth. "The American Rose Society is a wonderful aid in giving detailed reports on roses from the test gardens." He was most enthusiastic to offer any assistance to anyone interested in starting roses.

After Mr. Barnhill's talk there was a brief business session. Mrs. Ed Batchelor read minutes of last meeting in absence of secretary Mrs. W. I. Wooten. She gave the report of the Executive Board meeting which preceded the regular meeting. The recommendations of ordering one hundred garden club calendars; sending Mrs. Sam Mitchell as delegate to State Convention May 12 in Greensboro, putting flower arrangements into Women's Club during Art Festival Week April 12 to 17; were approved by the group. Mrs. W. J. Stiel gave the treasurer's report for Mrs. W. T. Kiser who was not present.

Mrs. R. P. Rogers, president-elect of the Woman's Club for next year, was introduced. Mrs. Sam Mitchell read a letter from Mrs. J. H. B. Moore who is now traveling in Europe. Mrs. J. Vance Perkins announced the art festival program beginning Sunday, April 12.

The theme for the entire program will be "Our American Heritage" and details of the entire program will be made later. Mrs. Raye M. Underwood will be the Club's guest speaker on April 17 at 2:30. She is president of the Star Mount Garden Club, Greensboro and is a nationally accredited judge, also president of Judges Club of Garden Clubs of North Carolina. Mrs. Underwood has also written a book on dried arrangements. Several of her arrangements have appeared in the American Home magazine. The public is cordially invited to attend this and all activities during the art festival week.

Mrs. J. E. Phelps and her committee were given a rising vote of thanks for their outstanding work on the Elm Street Park project. The Club has set aside $150 for beautifying and already dogwood trees, flowering shrubs and other plants have been set out. The committee plans to put more out next week.

Mrs. R. V. Keel then showed three colored films that she had taken of her chrysanthemums, poppies and other various trees and beauty sights

Strength for the Day

HOW MUCH BETTER?
In the constellation of Andromeda, there has always been a dead spot—that is, a spot in which astronomers could find no stars whatsoever. Times without number astronomers at the Wilson observatory have turned their telescopes and cameras to this constellation only to get absolutely black plates. But during the war, when blackouts were being observed, no light whatsoever was going up from any city on the west coast. It was darkness such as had not obtained since the days when the Indians held undisputed possession of the land. Again the telescopes and cameras were directed to Andromeda, and to the amazement of the astronomers stars appeared on the developed plates. It took the darkest of nights to bring out these stars.

There are nights—very dark nights—when the stars have a distinctness that they never have on other occasions. It takes darkness to bring out all the stars. How completely this fits into our experience of life. If often takes the most extreme forms of darkness to make us aware of the existence of heavenly truth. When a loved one dies, or we lose our job, or make bad investments, or take a misstep—then we look up.

How much better if we had seen the light and been guided by it through the years which lie behind.

Look At North Carolina Schools, Mr. Citizen

If a person could pick out one site in North Carolina and look out over the literally thousands of square feet of classroom space constructed for public schools in the past four years, he would be struck by the great mark of progress.

If from another vantage point he could see at one glance all the 43,000 North Carolina school kids who last year attended school in hallways, rented buildings and other make-shift quarters, he would be awed by the additional progress which must be made before adequate school facilities are available in the state.

In the past four years 181 million dollars has been spent on school buildings in North Carolina. Local funds provided 126 million dollars, state funds provided 50 million dollars and federal funds provided five million dollars.

With those funds, the public school system added 6,500 new classrooms, and 595 gymnasiums, libraries, auditoriums, home economics rooms and other specialized facilities.

Compared with the public school facilities North Carolina had four years ago, the state has made a great jump in providing school buildings. Compared with what is needed by the time school opens next September, the state hasn't gone quite half way in meeting the requirements for desirable facilities.

School officials contend that by next fall—even with the new construction work done in the past four years—North Carolina should have 7,401 additional classrooms to supplement the classrooms available in September 1952.

That is a big order. And there is no probability that it will be filled. But the state can not afford to stop its program of providing adequate school facilities just when it is getting where it can see the light of day.

The proposed 50 million dollar school bond referendum should be presented to the people of the state as soon as possible. The 50 million in state funds would provide a good foundation for acquiring the needed classroom space. It will act as the primer which will bring many more millions of county and local funds into a school building program from the mountains to the coast.

North Carolina has every right to be proud of the public school progress it has made in the past four years. However, little state pride will be derived from the fact that 40,000-odd children still have to get their schooling in make-shift quarters.

Did The Experts Steal Their Fun?

Sitting on the porch steps, along about sundown, we've had a growing awareness that something was missing. A sound that has been associated with that particular time of day since our early memories just isn't heard very often any more.

Whatever has happened to all the kids who huffed and puffed on harmonicas? Not the ones who melodiously emitted tunes of the day (by now they are probably all bank presidents or band leaders); but the ones who struggled with might and main, only to fill the darkening evening with noisy discords and nerve-rendering sounds.

One might go further, and ask "what happened to mouth organs in general?"

Time and memory have served to soften the jarring notes of harmonica discords at twilight. They blend now with the background music . . . a la Hollywood . . . when reminiscing of bygone days.

The recently closed decade saw the rise of harmonica players in the field of entertainment. Some groups and individuals became so pre-eminent they were featured stars of radio, recordings and personal appearances. The music they provided was something of a summit-like quality in the harmonica world, and would not take a backseat to ensembles of other "respectable" instruments.

Perhaps that marked the mouth organ's decline among the small-fry. Too much competition; too much practice required to approach standards set by experts; the fun of just blowing on a harmonica was submerged by the realization it wasn't a toy any longer.

Some neighborhoods may be thankful the still of the evening is broken only by occasionally frenzied shouts of kids at play. But the discordant sounds of some boy blowing into his mouth organ down the street, will always remain as one of our fonder memories.

A Thousand Days, A Thousand Ages

A thousand days and a thousand nights the life's blood of American soldiers has stained the icy slopes of Korea's mountains and seeped into the soft mud of its rice paddies.

And still there is a stalemate. Still there is indecision.

Still there is no end of battle in sight. To men in the battle lines, and to their families who wait on a distant shore, those thousand days have been a thousand ages. For many life has become a timeless eternity. For others life has become a cruel ordeal during which a broken limb or a ravaged body must be endured until death sweeps away the sting of life.

Will it be another thousand days that American youths are thrown into the stagnant war in Korea? Will many thousands of dead and wounded be heaped upon those who have become war casualties before the day of decision is reached?

To be sure every day of the thousand past has been a day of decision. Every day of the thousand yet to come will be a day of decision. And sooner or later the decisive question must be answered in concrete terms: Shall we clean up this war and get out, or shall we give up this war and go home?

It is no small problem, this Korean war which many still prefer to call "police action." On it hinges the life and death of fighting men of 17 free nations already in the battle lines. On it hinges the freedom or enslavement of all Asia.

National Whirligig

WASHINGTON—Despite professions of good cheer and courage in high places here and abroad, the rapidly deteriorating position of the anti-Russian alliance headed by the United States may yet provoke a Congressional inquiry of our military and economic strength. As against Moscow's monolithic unity, the free nations seem to be falling or breaking apart, as Stalin forecast shortly before his death.

Official and unofficial reports to Capitol Hill are completely contradictory on all factors bearing on the progress of the cold war. In such a hazy atmosphere, as noted by both Republicans and Democrats—Taft and Bridges, Byrd and Symington—it is impossible to enact corrective legislation or to appropriate funds for national and world defense against the Reds.

Not since the first anxious months after Pearl Harbor has Congress been so concerned over national security measures, or the lack of them.

AMMUNITION SHORTAGES—General James A. Van Fleet, the man on the firing line in Korea for 22 months, maintains that serious shortages of ammunition still exist. But General Omar N. Bradley, Chief of Staff, as well as civilian heads at the Pentagon, say the opposite.

Addressing NATO chiefs at a military symposium in France, General Matthew B. Ridgway said: "During the foreseeable future, we shall be short of much of our material. We shall be deficient in many items—critically short in some."

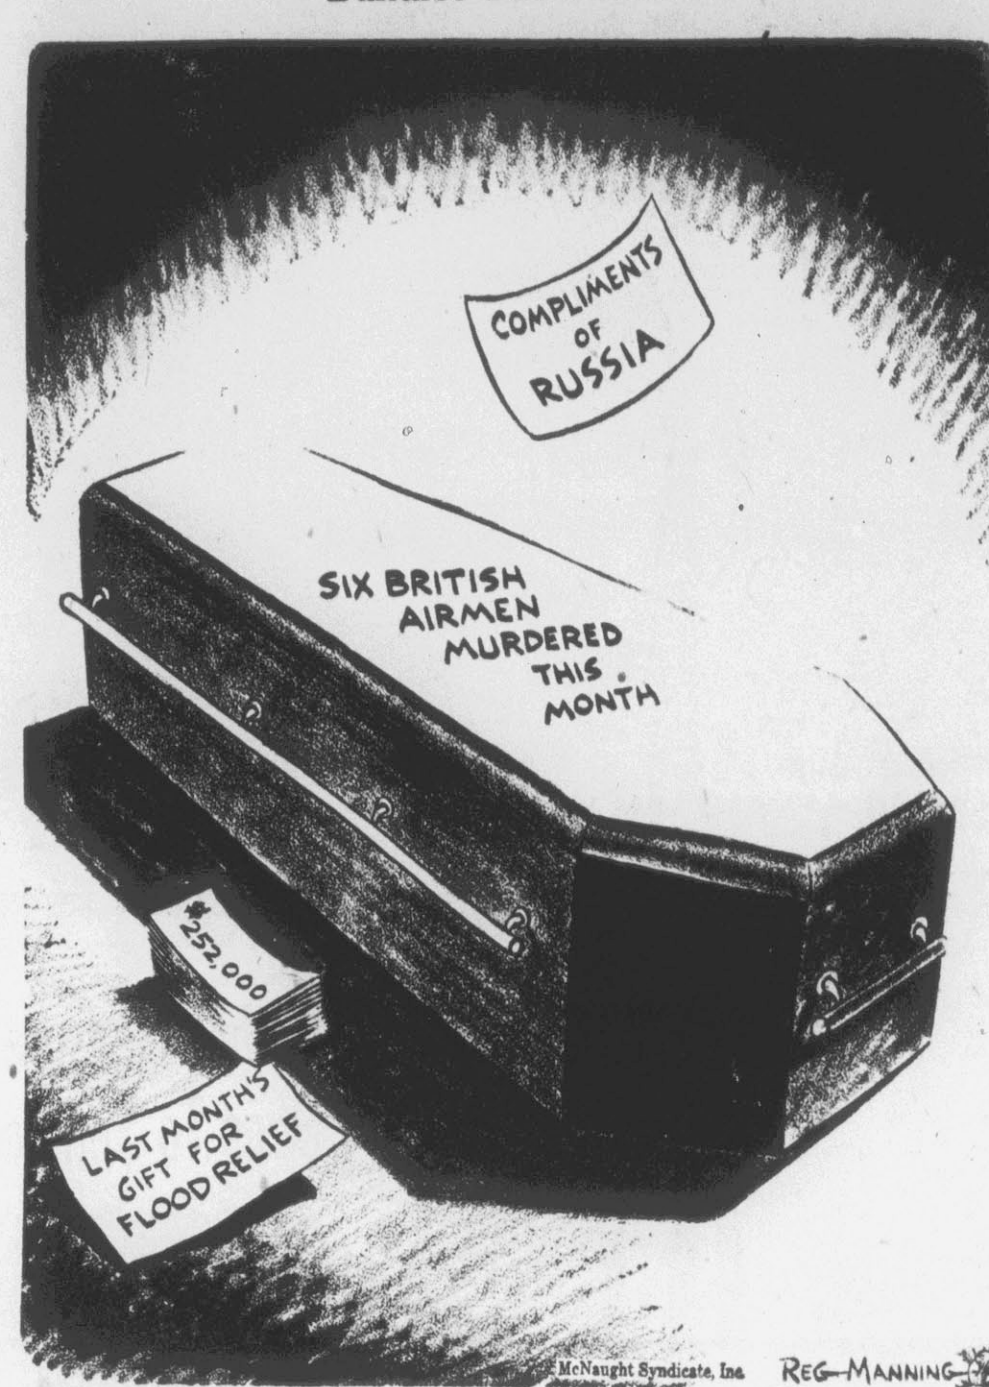

"Critically" is the word military commanders use when they are in desperate straits. It is their technical term with regard to supplies.

But General Alfred M. Gruenther, Ridgway's Chief of Staff painted a rosy picture of NATO's growing strength in a recent report to President Eisenhower.

COMMUNIST VS. DEMOCRATIC STRENGTH—Lieutenant General Curtis F. Le May only added to the confusion in speaking before this same European group. The head of the U.S. Strategic Command bewildered his immediate listeners as well as Cautiol Hill.

Promising NATO nations all-out atomic aid in event of a Communist attack, Le May declared that "the Atlantic Alliance's capabilities for punishing peace breakers is greater than all the military power ever assembled from the time of Genghis Khan (1200 A.D.) until today!"

Bundles For Britain

Around Capitol Square

By LYNN NISBET
GOVERNOR — William Bradley Unstead is Governor of North Carolina. Despite the handicaps incident to his confinement by the reason of a heart attack early in January he is trying to do the full job as chief executive. He does not consider that job to include trying to run the General Assembly.

CONFERENCE — Those facts were made clear at a full scale conference with 15 newspaper and radio reporters Friday morning. This was the largest crowd he had seen at one time since inauguration day on January 8. Although stretched out in his bed at the Mansion, there was nothing to suggest that the Governor is or has been "sick". The reporters pulled no punches in their questions, and the Governor came back with straight from the shoulder answers. Most direct "Yes" or "No", and then frequently amplified the answer. Only two or three answers seemed cautious, and it is typical of Unstead that on important items he insists upon meticulous accuracy and clarity in statements.

GENERAL — In keeping with his policy of staying out of legislative scraps, the Governor spoke mostly in terms of objectives rather than specific bills. He wants more superior court judges without more salaries, but is not committed to any particular method of obtaining this objective. He wants legislation to strengthen highway safety, but is not wedded to any special bill, although he was positive in saying the measure sponsored by Rep. Robert Carr of Duplin and passed by the House eliminating necessity for examination for renewal of driver licenses is a "bad law." He believes the State will need more money to effectuate his program, but has not made any specific recommendation to the appropriations or finance committees other than his inaugural and budget messages. He is greatly interested in the distribution formula for the proposed $50 million State aid for school buildings, but has not proposed such a formula—that also being a legislative prerogative. He would like "as much as possible" of the money to be left to the discretion of the State Board of Education.

What Other Papers Are Thinking

A FREE ECONOMY RETURNS (Henderson Dispatch)
A free economy has returned to the American scene with the ending of the last semblance of controls which were imposed gradually following outbreak of war in Korea in mid-1950. Business generally is again on its own and at liberty to accept regulations which are imposed by the law of supply and demand alone. It can be hoped that never again will there be occasion to return to these restrictions set by governmental authority.

THE REVOCATION OF LICENSES (Washington Daily News)
There is a school of thought in North Carolina which would make some changes in the present drunken driving offense. Some people would remove the clause which automatically revokes the driver's license upon conviction of drunken driving. Others would merely leave it up to the judge to say what should be done about the driver's license upon conviction of drunken driving. Others would merely leave it up to the judge to say what should be done about the driver's license. Still others would leave the law as it is right now and revoke the licenses for 12 months upon conviction.

The Daily News does not think that a man should be allowed to drive on the highways of North Carolina after he has been convicted of drunken driving. At the same time we realize that too many juries are going beyond their powers in refusing to find a defendant guilty because they do not wish to see his driving license revoked.

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Now a mole can laugh at a man.
In the new atomic age the mole is safer. . . the test in the Nevada desert proved that.
Man's greatest enemy always has been himself. . .
From the dawn of time the weapons he created to kill lesser animals, either for food or in self-defense, also were used to war against his fellow men.
The club, the spear, the bow and arrow, the rifle, they all served this dual purpose.
Each new weapon he invented gave him a greater edge over all four-footed creatures. To survive they had to dig deeper in the earth, to plunge farther into the wilds, until at last man, who had destroyed them for his own nourishment or safety, came to hunt them for sport.
He made a fugitive of every form of life that wouldn't become his pet.

Washington Letter
By JANE EADS
WASHINGTON—Though she has never done the king's horses, Kathleen Wheeler, noted English sculptress, has done the queen's with her graceful majesty sitting side-saddle atop it. Miss Wheeler loved sculpting horses ever since she had her own saddle mare back in Reading, England, casting her models in bronze in a home studio her father built for her. Four of her works were acquired by the British Royal Academy.
Miss Wheeler came to this country on a visit in 1914 and has been here ever since. She had gone to Chicago to look up the Fuller Sisters, British singers. Through them she met W.H. Crump, a Virginia wholesale tobacco merchant, whom she eventually married. During the 14 years the Crumps lived in Chicago she continued with her horses but also made portrait busts of such famous men as Clarence Darrow, Samuel Gompers and John G. Powsy, which were exhibited at the Chicago Art Institute.
The Crumps moved to Washington in 1928, and she continued with her work, now in painted sculpture, a new technique originated in England. She uses some 30 to 40 different colors—burners with riders in black coats, the light saddle horses which her sister in Canada used to breed for the mounted police, and riding horses.
"At one time, I used to do the Derby winners, going to the tracks at Saratoga, Louisville and Laurel, Md.," she said. "I like best to do figures on horses, and the one I did of Queen Elizabeth is meeting with great success. I never stop working. As soon as one order is filled, I turn out another. It's unique, I think, not just little figures made of clay, and people—especially collectors—seem to like it."
In addition to Elizabeth's horse, Miss Wheeler has modeled the queen's drum horses and horses of the royal guard. Her sculptures also include figures of dogs and birds, handled by art dealers in New York, Chicago, Cleveland and Baltimore. She says she no longer enters her work in art exhibits "because there is too much modern stuff, and my things don't look good with them."
In her studio, built onto the Crumps' little house in nearby Chevy Chase, Md., the sculptress devotes all the spare daylight time she has to her work and dabbles a little in her flower garden. The Crumps have one son, Ralph, an architect who lives in Winston-Salem, N.C., and three grandchildren, Donna, Roger and Derrick Crump.

The Russians are making regular photographic reconnaissance flights over strategic areas of Western Europe.

American Air Force sources at Wiesbaden, Germany, say their radar screens have picked up more than 100 strange aircraft. Some were Allied craft and others were commercial airplanes which had strayed off the beam.

But others were Russian.

Air Force sources say these flights come almost any night when the weather is bad.

Then the Russians come over flying very high to photograph Allied installations by infra red film. The weather makes interception impossible.

Security forbids even an estimate of the number of Soviet planes picked up by all Allied radar in Western Europe. But they are the European equivalent of the recent disclosure that Soviet jets have been leaving their vapor trails over Alaska.

Russian and satellite planes also cross the Iron Curtain in daytime hours. Some of these incursions are the result of navigational mistakes in planes whose 600-plus m.p.h. speed makes positional error occasionally unavoidable on border patrols.

But others are deliberate.

The Baltic is one particularly busy area of Communist reconnaissance and Austria is another.

The Russians have four bases in their zone of Austria and they are frequently over the American, British and French zones of Austria. There have been no protests except in the notable case of a Soviet fighter buzzing the plane carrying the then U. S. High Commissioner Walter Donnelly through the corridor from Vienna to Linz in the American sector.

Unidentified planes have been sighted over southwestern Sweden. Last June two Swedish planes, both unarmed, were shot down over international waters in the Baltic.

Swedish protests resulted only in a series of charges and counter-charges which got the Swedes nowhere except that now their patrol planes carry guns and bullets.

Denmark also has been crossed by unidentified planes. Russian bases are located only about 35 miles south of the Danish islands of Bornholm, Lolland and Falster.

Yugoslavia has made numerous protests to her Communist neighbors against unauthorized flights over her territory.

However, most of the violations occur in Western Germany from the direction of Czechoslovakia, usually at extremely high altitudes and on nights when the weather is bad.

The U. S. Air Force now has stepped up its patrol of the Czech border area with fast flying and fast shooting F-86 Sabrejets and in the last few days has reported no new incidents.

World conditions being what they are, it also may be assumed that we also are doing a little reconnaissance work over the Communist countries. But about that the Air Force isn't talking.

Boxer Cannon Is Shown Visitors

WEST POINT, N. Y. (AP)—The interest of five Chinese Nationalist generals touring the U. S. Military Academy was caught by an old cannon which played a part in the Boxer Rebellion of 1900.

One of the visitors was Maj. Gen. Chiang Wei-kuo, son of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

The cannon an old bronze weapon, is described as "Manchu cannon." It was on the wall of Peking when that city was under siege.

Will Present Recital Monday Evening

Jeanine Ennis of Dunn (standing) and Catherine Stephenson of Willow Springs, students of music at East Carolina College will be presented Monday evening, March 23, in a joint recital under the sponsorship of the college department of music. Both are seniors at East Carolina and were chosen by members of the music faculty to give an "honors" recital in recognition of their talent and excellent work in the department. Miss Ennis, a soprano, will give two groups of songs including compositions by Bach, Brahms, Faure, and others and an aria from Verdi's La Traviata. Miss Stephenson, a pianist, has chosen as selections for the evening works by Shumann, Chopin, Rachmaninoff, Debussy, and John Ireland. Laura Pope of Coats will accompany Miss Ennis. The public is invited to hear the program by the student musicians at 8:15 Monday evening in the Austin auditorium.

Kindergarten Teachers' Study Conference Set

Kindergarten teachers in North Carolina will have the opportunity of attending at East Carolina College June 1 through 6 a study-conference planned to meet their interests and needs, according to an announcement by Dean Leo W. Jenkins.

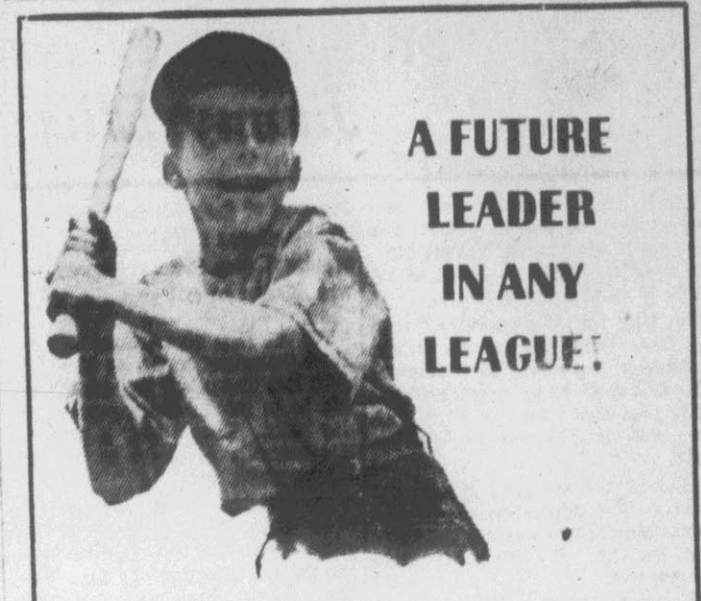

The conference is the first such course of study for kindergarten teachers to be offered at East Carolina and the first to be held in this state in recent years. It has been scheduled as part of a program of workshops, clinics, institutes, and conferences to be given at East Carolina during the summer for the benefit of teachers of the state.

Annie Mae Murray of the East Carolina department of education, director of the college kindergarten will direct the study-conference. A graduate of Peabody College, she has taught at summer school there, as well as in the public schools of Winston-Salem, Lexington, and Burlington, N.C. She is the author of "Make Way for the Kindergartens," an article appearing in this month's "North Carolina Education" and presenting a survey of kindergarten needs in the state.

"Though the kindergarten is of great importance in the education of the child," Miss Murray states, "too little has been done in North Carolina to help the kindergarten teacher. It is hoped that the conference at East Carolina will prove beneficial by providing an opportunity for study and discussion of this vital aspect of the training of young children."

Topics of discussion and study announced for the study-conference are: The Kindergarten Child, Kindergarten Housing and Furnishings, Creative Activities, Science and Nature Experiences for Young Children, Home-School Relationships on a non-credit basis. Further information may be obtained from A Good Program for Young Children, Leo W. Jenkins of East Carolina College. The study-conference will be of-

Sports Reflections

BY Jimmy Ellis

Much has been written and said and even more will be written and said about the coming Walcott-Marciano fight which is scheduled for April 10 in Chicago Stadium.

Perhaps the loudest talkers thus far have been the ex-heavyweight champions. All of the ex-champions who are still living have come out with predictions on the fight with the exception of James J. Braddock.

Most of the so-called experts are picking Walcott to come back and defeat Marciano, currently the holder of the title. We don't agree with the experts.

First of all, Walcott is getting along in years. There's some dispute about his actual age but regardless of how much ring lore you have, it's of little use when your mind says, "Move," and your body asks, "Who, me?"

Second, Marciano, we think, is perhaps the best of a somewhat sorry crop of heavyweight fighters. He's already beaten the best of his opposition—including Walcott—and he's beaten them all convincingly.

Marciano, the Massachusetts mauler who used to play baseball here in Eastern North Carolina, seems far and away the best bet to win the fight. He has youth, the necessary experience, a good assortment of punches, and a big, fat jinx on his side in the fight.

We think his big right hand will be playing a "Rocky-bye-Joe" on papa Walcott's chin before the fight is over on April 10.

But don't bet on it.

Baseball on the local level finally moves into the picture this week with both the high school and the college teams playing games.

The Phantoms will get into the act first with a Wednesday trip to non-conference Rocky Mount. The Pirates will follow up with a Friday trip to North State Conference foe Atlantic Christian College in Wilson.

Both teams expect to be better than they were last year. The Pirates, particularly, are counting on a big group of returning lettermen for most of their strength while the Phantoms are expecting some newcomers to give them the spark that was missing in last year's squad.

For the fans who missed the All-Stars-Collegians game at Memorial Gym last Thursday, the State team will be in this section again Saturday night. They'll play a group of Robersonville All-Stars in the new Robersonville gym.

Incidentally, there seem to have been some complaints about the game. Many of the fans went to the contest expecting the East Carolina College team play the entire game but came away from the contest after watching the All-Stars run 20 players in the contest.

The college team was scheduled to start the game—which it did—all 10 members of the squad were supposed to see action—which they did. The other ten squad members were former ECC players and some new talent who were added to the squad during the week preceding the contest.

Ronnie Neccial, the tall Pennsylvanian who won fame last year while with Bristol, Tennessee, is out of the army and about ready to return to the firing line for the Pittsburgh Pirates. An illness connected with his stomach ulcers is keeping him out of immediate action.

The tall Neccial is rated as one of the more outstanding young prospects despite a 1-6 record with the Pirates at the tail end of the 1952 season. He's a cool customer under fire and has an almost amazing variety of pitches.

While at Bristol, Neccial was a teammate of Bill Bell, the Goldsboro boy who is taking spring training with the parent club this year.

BRADENTON, Fla. (UP)—Nineteen-year-old Ted Kazanski, the Philadelphia Phillies' "bonus baby," gets a trial at shortstop today against the Milwaukee Braves, with Gran Hamner shifting to second base.

The move was brought on by Manager Steve O'Neill's concern over the Phils' 11 setbacks in 14 exhibition games. Sunday's scheduled game against the Detroit Tigers was rained out.

ACES SUBSTANDARD ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UP)—Manager Casey Stengel of the New York Yankees hoped today that there was no cause for alarm, but the spring exhibition record of his below standard.

Vic Raschi was walloped for nine runs on 12 hits and four walks in five innings Sunday, although the Yankees staggered through to a 13-11 victory over the Cincinnati Reds. Ed Lopat has yet to pitch in an exhibition game, while Allie Reynolds is hampered by a lame back. Today the Yankees play the Washington Senators.

ERSKINE TO PITCH MIAMI, Fla. (UP)—Manager Charley Dressen nominated right hander Carl Erskine to pitch six innings for the Brooklyn Dodgers today in the Miami finals against the Philadelphia A's.

Billy Cox will replace Jackie Robinson at third and rookie Don Zimmer will take over for Pee Wee Reese at short. Robinson is out for a few days with a bruised knee and Reese has a pulled muscle in his side.

DETERMINED BID GLENDALE, Calif. (UP)—Tommy Brown, starting his ninth National League season even though he is only 25 years old, is making a determined bid to land a regular job with the Chicago Cubs after several years of bench-warming for the Dodgers and Phillies.

Brown walloped a three-run homer Sunday to give the Cubs a 5-2 victory over Los Angeles of the Pacific Coast League. Gene Hermanski's two-run homer knocked in Chicago's other tallies.

MELTON IMPRESSIVE HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (UP)—The Cleveland Indians had a good look at shortstop Dave Melton of the San Francisco Seals Sunday—and were impressed.

Melton doubled home the winning run in the 13th inning as the Seals edged the Indians, 5-4. An inning before, he had doubled and scored a run that enabled the Seals to tie the score again at 4-4. Al Rosen hit a Cleveland homer.

MELBOURNE, Australia (UP)—Pressure from fans, ex-service-men and other swimming organizations is expected to force the Victorian Swimming Association to reverse its decision banning Japanese star Hironoshin Furuhashi from state meets.

The VSA and its sister organization in Sydney, the New South Wales Swimming Association, voted against inviting Furuhashi to compete in state championships or swimming "carnivals" under their control. That was before Furuhashi came here in February to study wool classing at Geelong, 35 miles from Melbourne.

The reception given the world 1,500-meter record holder has made the officials regret their action.

Fans flock to local pools every time Furuhashi, who signs their autograph books "Furman Fish," appears for an exhibition. They crammed the seats at the Olympic pool on four hour notice when he swam at a recent charity program sponsored by the Melbourne Herald.

Boxing Commissioner Calls For Clean Bout

HOLLAND, Mich. (UP)—The chairman of the Illinois State Athletic Commission warned today he expects "a clean fight" when Rocky Marciano defends his world's heavyweight title against Jersey Joe Walcott at Chicago Stadium, April 10.

Obviously disturbed at reports that one of the fighters might attempt rough tactics, Commission Chairman Livingston Osborne visited Marciano's camp Sunday and stated commission rules will be strictly enforced for the championship bout.

"I am expecting a real fight of the century... but it is going to be a clean fight," Osborne warned. The chairman's remarks obviously were prompted by recent reports from Walcott's camp at Atlantic City, N. J., that the former champion threatened to use "billy goat" tactics against Marciano, whom he accused of butting during their first fight last December.

Osborne was accompanied to Marciano's camp by Art Winch, chief inspector of the Illinois Commission. Winch is a former champion of the world in the featherweight division.

Marciano now has sparring 140 rounds in preparation for the first defense of his title. The swarthy New Englander has covered 380 miles of roadwork and has worked an equivalent of 1,000 rounds during exercises.

Swim Groups May Change Decision For Fire Cause

Brooklyn Picked To Repeat As National League Champs

By LEO H. PETERSEN United Press Sports Editor

MIAMI, Fla. (UP)—The Dodgers have the best potential of any club in the National League, if not in all baseball — so the experts are picking them to win the National League pennant again.

In 1952, they parlayed the best defense in the league, the second best pitching staff and the third best hitting into a championship. Chances are they again will have the best fielding and they might well come up with the better hitting team for they have more long ball power than any other club.

Pitching appears to be their only question mark. But it was last season at this time too, yet Manager Chuck Dressen came up with a staff which collectively finished second to Philadelphia in the earned run department.

Neither Dressen nor General Manager E. J. Buzzeo (Bavasi) is worried over pitching. They feel confident they solved that problem when they obtained Russ Meyer, a 13-game winner with the Phillies in 1952.

Dressen plans to use Meyer as one of his starting five with Carl Erskine (14-6), Billy Loes (13-8) and Preacher Roe (11-2) also assured of regular assignments.

The fifth starter may be Joe Black, relief specialist of 1952 with a 15-4 record, if Jim Hughes, who came up from Montreal late last season, can handle the bullpen shores.

Hughes looked good after the Dodgers brought him up, and he won two vital games in the pennant drive while losing only one. If he makes the grade, Black probably will be used both as a starter and in relief.

Other possibilities for starting jobs are Clem Labine, and Ralph Branca, both of whom disappointed last season and three rookies — John Podres, a left hander who has been very impressive despite his lack-luster 5-5 record with Montreal in 1952; Robert Milken, a big right hander just out of Army service; and Ronald Lee, a crafty southpaw, also just out of service.

Brooklyn's all set in the catching department if nothing happens to Roy Campanella. He reported 20 pounds lighter this spring than last and should improve on a .269 batting average. Back of him is Rube Walker, but he is a far cry from Campanella both in the field and at bat.

Two infield positions are set—Gil Hodges at first and Pee Wee Reese at short.

Otherwise Dressen is experimenting. He wants Jackie Robinson on third and rookie Junior Gilliam on second. But there's been trouble in the attempt to displace Billy Cox at third, and the experiments all must be called failures so far.

There is a wide open battle for the left field position with Duke Snider, in center and Carl Furillo, in right.

George Shuba, who hit .305 as a part-time player last season; Dick Williams and Don Thompson are leading candidates for the berth Shuba appears to have recovered from his knee trouble and Williams, who hit .309 in 36 games in 1952 may share the job. Shuba going against right handed pitching and Williams against left.

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Top-ranking amateur tennis players of the United States and Latin America start play today in the annual Everglades Tennis Tournament in which Philadelphia's Vic Seixas is defending champion.

The tournament, at the Everglades Country Club, drew 32 men and 16 women players for the event which continues through Sunday.

Seeded players are Gardner Mulloy, Seixas, Art Larsen, and Billy Talbert, in that order.

Women players include Doris Hart, Miami; Shirley Frye, Akron; Thelma Long, Australia, and Melita Ramirez, Mexico.

Worsham Ties Tom Bolt For Lead In J'ville Open

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UP)—Ill. Jay Hebert of Erie, Pa., and Former U. S. Open champion Lew Worsham of Oakmont, Pa., and temperamental Tommy Bolt of Maplewood, N. J., were tied for first place, two strokes ahead of the field, at the start today of the final round of the Jacksonville Open Golf Tournament.

Worsham, always near the top but seldom a winner since his Open triumph in '47, overtook the front-running Bolt with his third straight three-under-par 69 Sunday to tie at 204 for 54 holes.

Bolt, who shot a stunning 66 in the second round, slipped out of sole control of the lead when he toured the third round in 70.

Fred Hawkins of El Paso, Tex., the first-round leader, still was in strong contention with a 206, while Jim Ferrier of San Francisco was in striking distance at 207 and the three played at 208 still had a chance—Marty Furgol of Lemont, Ill., Jay Hebert of Erie, Pa., and Charley Harper of Fort Benning, Ga.

Former winner Sammy Snead played one of his worst competitive rounds in recent years as he shot a five-over-par 77 in the third round to drop far out of the running with a 213. He had gone into the third round only two strokes off the pace.

Lead Scores Hold

CHICAGO (UP)—A weekend of bowling failed to crack scores rolled by leaders in the American Bowling Congress tournament but a new lineup of keggers made an attempt today.

But top scores of 727 pins in the singles, 1,336 in the doubles, 3,181 in the team event and 1,970 in the all-events looked formidable as the meet entered its 31st day with 62 chance—Marty Furgol of Lemont, Ill., Jay Hebert of Erie, Pa., and Charley Harper of Fort Benning, Ga.

Other possibilities for starting jobs are Clem Labine, and Ralph Branca, both of whom disappointed last season and three rookies — John Podres, a left hander who has been very impressive despite his lack-luster 5-5 record with Montreal in 1952; Robert Milken, a big right hander just out of Army service; and Ronald Lee, a crafty southpaw, also just out of service.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

A HANDYMAN'S HOUSE — Exterior shell and roof erected by the Housing Guild, Inc., of Smithtown, N. Y., interior finished by owner with advantage of being protected from weather. House covers 928 square feet. Shell, including foundation, cost $4370. Garage shown here was extra.

ON THE HOUSE

By DAVID G. BAREUTHER, AP Real Estate Editor

Let's build a house, you say. This makes your wife happy and she starts dreaming of how she'll tell the builders about all the cupboards and little conveniences she'd like. . . Until you add:

"You can put on dungarees and lend a hand. You ought to be able to saw and maybe learn to drive nails straight."

In other words, you actually intend to do the building. Would that be cravvy? Well, for most people it might be. But for five families out of every 100 who acquired new homes within the past year, it made sense. According to government estimates, that percentage built their own homes.

So you can do it—if you do it the right way. This means professional help. Otherwise the idea can be loaded with trouble even for exceptionally handy and experienced people.

You can sink your life-savings in lumber and other materials to be stacked on your lot and allowed to deteriorate in the weather. You can get a cold stare from your banker when you ask for credit. (What lender can take a chance on certain security?) Building costs can hamstring you. . . a fire insurance me . . . ay cross the street when they see you coming. Finally you may get . . . so deep, you have to call in experienced builders to straighten out your project—if you have enough money left to hire them.

A few years ago the National Association of Home Builders listed hundreds of tragic cases of disillusioned amateurs in every section of the country calling for professional help to salvage houses they started from easy-to-do-it books.

A practical compromise was worked out shortly after World War II by the Smithtown Lumber Corp. on New York's Long Island, through which complete outer shells of houses were erected on sound foundations. These unfinished homes were sold with good sized lots and all utilities installed for a fraction of what they might have cost finished. The owner could then exercise his do-it-yourself yearning by finishing the whole house, protected from the weather.

The idea was born in the days when the public was shocked by the postwar jump in building costs. Pre-war savings toward a home had suddenly shrunk to a point where they wouldn't buy half a house. So the Smithtown people figured that instead of cutting a house in half as to size, its cost could be cut to less than half and the house could remain full size.

The shell, constructed to conform to mortgage requirements, includes all framing, sheathing, asbestos siding, finished asphalt shingle roof over building felt on roof sheathing, copper flashing over doors and windows, and hardware on doors and windows, among other standard details.

With a house thus closed in, a handy amateur can go ahead with whatever insulation he prefers, lath and plaster or wallboard, finish flooring, woodwork, tiling, papering and painting to his hearts content. A rainy weekend doesn't mean a serious delay and worry about the soaking which open framework may be getting.

Fred Dolan, sales director for the Housing Guild, Inc., sponsored for shell-building by the lumber company, says the idea has been so popular around Smithtown, some 50 miles east of New York, that it three nearby states. He is now persuading builders to extend the service nationally.

"Much of the work in building a house is too heavy and hazardous for a man and wife team," Dolan observes. "Digging an excavation, pouring footings and foundation, erecting framing, rafters and scaffolds, abutting a roof, can invite painful accidents for the uninitiated."

"But once that dangerous work is done, it can be fun to finish a house the way you want it."

Well, it takes an average building organization about four months to build and finish a sound six-room house. This means 80 to 100 working days for experts. An amateur, planning to start from the ground up, can form his own opinion about books that tell how a man and wife can do the job in 17 weekends—34 days, presumably.

Yet, there's a place for some of these books. They offer sound information about construction. The help you to understand what you are paying for and why homes are built the way they are. But in the words of an expert:

"For 99 per cent of the people, trying to build their own homes (from the ground up) makes about as much sense as trying to build their own automobiles."

form to mortgage requirements, includes all framing, sheathing, asbestos siding, finished asphalt shingle roof over building felt on roof sheathing, copper flashing over doors and windows, and hardware on doors and windows, among other standard details.

With a house thus closed in, a handy amateur can go ahead with whatever insulation he prefers, lath and plaster or wallboard, finish flooring, woodwork, tiling, papering and painting to his hearts content. A rainy weekend doesn't mean a serious delay and worry about the soaking which open framework may be getting.

Fred Dolan, sales director for the Housing Guild, Inc., sponsored for shell-building by the lumber company, says the idea has been so popular around Smithtown, some 50 miles east of New York, that it three nearby states. He is now persuading builders to extend the service nationally.

"Much of the work in building a house is too heavy and hazardous for a man and wife team," Dolan observes. "Digging an excavation, pouring footings and foundation, erecting framing, rafters and scaffolds, abutting a roof, can invite painful accidents for the uninitiated."

'I said,' said Dan Curtis, 'how about a sandwich and some coffee? I forgot to eat lunch.'
'We have things in our icebox. Why don't you have a snack with me in the cottage?'

'Over a hundred, at least.'
'Can you carry all that?' he asked solicitously. 'You know, women surprise me. They always seem so weak, so fragile, yet they can do such heavy work.'
'Oh, it really isn't heavy. If you'll just drag those patio chairs to the shade...'

Psychology Used In Districting

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—Omaha school officials are bowing to psychology in remapping school district boundaries.
The theory is that it's bad psychologically if you run school district lines down the middle of a street because kids on one side go to one school while kids on the other side of the same street may get to go to 'that swell new school.'

Capitol Square

(Continued from page four) the symphony society and public school music, art and other similarly desirable facilities but not absolutely essential to maintenance of the State.

ZEALOUS — Proponents of appropriations for such purposes are zealous for their own causes rather than jealous of aid given to the others, although they do not hesitate to use one-allocation as precedent for another. The case of the three major outdoor dramas has been often cited to illustrate this point. A contribution to the Lost Colony suggested an appeal for Unto These Hills, and the granting of that aid now serves to embarrass the Assembly unless it makes similar contribution to Horn in the West.

PRECEDENT — Precedents have a way of building up power. Action of the joint appropriations committee the other day in releasing the Cherokee Historical Association from repaying a "loan" of $25,000 on the ground that the association did a lot of work to promote travel business in North Carolina, can properly be cited as precedent for State aid to the other comparable organizations which have already received help and for every chamber of commerce in North Carolina.

DISCRIMINATION — It is interesting to note also that while the General Assembly nonchalantly allocates tax money to purposes of this kind, it has enacted laws prohibiting local governmental units from doing the same sort of thing except upon vote of the people.

AMVETS of Banks and Jones Post No. 503 will meet at the home of Everett Jones, 213 E. 3rd St., Tuesday, March 24, at 8:00 p.m. All members are asked to attend.

Plan Exercise Witch Of Wookey A Second Time

WOOKEY, England (UP) — The witch of Wookey is to be exercised for the second time in 1,000 years.

Wing Commander G. W. Hodgkinson and his wife feel the witch has haunted their house in Somerset long enough. Hodgkinson has arranged for a monk from nearby Glastonbury Abbey to hold exorcising services in the house.

Hodgkinson said 25 people claim to have seen the ghost—an old woman in cap and apron—in the past five years.

"Nearly all the people who have seen the ghost were skeptical until they moved into the house," his wife said. "They weren't skeptical when they felt the witch's hand on their faces while they were in bed."

The first atom bomb was exploded at Alamogordo, N. Mex., July 16, 1945.

'I Did Not Jump . . .

The officer pointed out that the man would have had to go only a mile, either in the direction of Bruce or to Falkland, to use a telephone to call for help.

The service station where he stopped was in view of Pitt Memorial Hospital.

Cone returned to the scene of the tragedy some ten minutes after the arrival of the officer and ambulance which had to travel from Greenville.

Investigation of the car showed that one of Mrs. Thomas' gloves was found in the right floorboard of the car while her other glove was found in the left rear of the car with her suitcase.

The trio were enroute to Wilson where Mrs. Thomas was supposed to have boarded a train for a weekend visit with her parents in Charleston, S. C.

Also unexplained is why the car driven by Cone failed to stop immediately after the accident. Two witnesses known only to the Patrol reported that they saw the car door open and the woman topple from the car but that the vehicle proceeded down the highway for some 400-500 yards before turning around and coming back to the scene.

The marks for a short distance were found on the bridge, which Whitfield stated he was unable to determine if they had been made by the car operated by Cone.

Whitfield arrived at the scene of the accident some ten minutes before an ambulance summoned by Cone arrived. A second ambulance called in by Whitfield arrived close on the heels of the first.

When the officer arrived, Page asked, "Did someone call you, or did you just happen by?"

Mrs. Thomas' body struck a two-by-six inch wooden bridge guard rail located at the front of a cement bridge abutment, splintering it and inflicting the serious body injuries.

Her body landed some three feet away from the shoulder of the embankment, only a foot away from a 15-foot drop into the creek below. Water in the creek was at a depth of from four to six feet, the officer said.

The accident occurred at Tyson Creek Bridge, on NC 43 between Falkland and Bruce.

The two witnesses to the accident further stated that they saw a man "look out the back window" after seeing the woman topple from the car.

Mrs. Thomas had been unemployed for the past several months. Prior to that she had worked as a secretary at a local firm. Her husband, a Marine, was stationed at Cherry Point at the time of his death.

Her four-year-old daughter is in South Carolina with Mrs. Thomas' parents.
