WASHINGTON (UP)—Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield today announced his resignation as Republican national committeeman from Michigan.

RALEIGH (UP)—A reduction of liability insurance premiums to encourage better and more extensive driver training programs for teenaged motorists in North Carolina was approved today by Insurance Commissioner Waldo Cheek.

WASHINGTON (UP)—Rain washed out today's American League opening game between the New York Yankees and the Washington Senators.

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Senate ammunition investigation came to a temporary halt today because of Sen. Wayne Morse's parliamentary objection to Senate procedures.

WASHINGTON (UP)—Rep. Daniel A. Reed (R-N.Y.) passed to the House today to by-pass its leadership and bring his income tax cut bill to the floor for a vote.

Oppose Limiting Hospital Care

WASHINGTON (UP)—The American Legion urged Congress today to reject a move to cut off free hospital care for high-income veterans whose ailments are not due to military service.

Legion Commander Lewis K. Gough, in a letter to all House members, said the economy drive is based on a "wrong interpretation of the facts."

He sent with each letter a 15-page reply to charges by Rep. John Phillips (R-Calif.) that ex-GIs with income up to $5,000 a year are getting free hospital care for the every-day ailments of civilian life.

Under existing law free hospitalization is provided not only for servicemen with injuries not due to service who say they can not afford private care. Their claims of poverty are not subject to challenge.

Phillips, who is chairman of a subcommittee handling Veterans Administration funds, told the House yesterday that this policy, if continued, will require tripling the VA hospital program and will lead to socialized medicine.

Gough rejected Phillips' contention that a veteran with good income should be able to pay his own hospital bills. He said this depends on how long he can expect to be laid up.

"The mere assumption that a man has a certain income is not a complete index of his ability to pay for a catastrophic illness," the Legion head argued.

He said the Legion's surveys few abuses of free hospital care, and that these could be eliminated by better enforcement of the present law.

Whether Bohlen will go into world issues at his first visit is not known.

But it is believed Bohlen will seek to arrange a conference with Premier Georgi M. Malenkov soon, Gaspoin's visit to Molotov in London to confer with his government and receive instructions.

The British Embassy said that on Saturday Gaspoin discussed questions of mutual Soviet-British interest only.

Pravda, the newspaper organ of the Russian Communist party, said in an editorial Sunday that the United States is trying to perpetuate the division of Germany.

Discussing the visit of West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer to Washington, Pravda said: "It was not accidental that in the elaborate communique on the Adenauer talks literally not one word was devoted to the preparation of an all-German government and the conclusion of a peace treaty."

The emigrants, the first of about 8,000 expected to go to North America this year, assembled at Belfast Sunday and came here to board the Cunard liner Georgic for Halifax and New York.

Those grading "good" will receive individual premium money which will be 75 percent of the amount paid on higher grades. No money will be paid on animals grading lower than "Good."

In Class Two, champions, animals in upper grades of Class One will be placed individually by the judges and the first and second will automatically be awarded Grand and Reserve Championship ribbons.

Class Three will be fitting and showmanship and first prize winner will be awarded $150. Second prize has been set at $100.00 and third prize, $50.00.

Four-Day Ride Starts For Ailing Prisoners In Red Camps

Journey Home Begins For POWs

By LEROY HANSEN United Press Staff Correspondent PANMUNJOM, Korea, Tuesday (UP)—The first of more than 600 sick and wounded Korean war prisoners of the Communists today were scheduled to start down the long road back to home and freedom from Red prison camps.

They were to be loaded aboard red-draped ambulances and trucks at Chonman, near the Yalu River, for a jolting, four-day, 200-mile trip down bomb-crated highways to Kaesong, near this trade conference site.

On Monday, April 20, the first of the Allied prisoners will be formally exchanged and will pass through Panmunjom's symbolic "Freedom Gate."

United Nations and Communist liaison officers reached complete agreement on the exchange in an "understanding" which did not even require a signature.

Only a few miles away, in "freedom village" at the U.N. base camp of Munsan, troops put on a "dress rehearsal" for Monday's momentous exchange, with Lt. Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, Eighth Army commander, watching the exercise.

About 225 United Nations troops acted as prisoners in the dry run. First they played the part of Communists being turned over to the Reds, then of Allied prisoners gaining their freedom.

Each of the sick and wounded men, including 120 Americans, will receive a medical checkup as he arrives at Panmunjom. Seven medics from the 171st Station Hospital will give any first aid needed.

Then the medics will determine whether the prisoner will travel by ambulance to the hospital or fly out in a helicopter for swifter treatment.

The agreement reached today left open only the question of when the United Nations and the Communists will resume the full armistice negotiations broken by an indefinite recess last Oct. 8.

The next move was up to Gen. Mark W. Clark, U.N. commander, who was reported today to be writing an answer to the Red request for immediate resumption of truce talks.

Clark wants to clear up the craftily-worded plan proposed by the Communists as their compromise to the enforced repatriation demand they previously had insisted on.

Chinese Premier Chou En-Lai proposed the selection of a neutral nation for internment about 45,000 Red prisoners who refuse to return to Communist authority.

Clark wants to make sure the neutral nation will not be forced a stop-over on the way to forced repatriation.

Tokyo sources said Clark probably would reply to the Communists Tuesday, possibly through a meeting of the liaison officers who arranged the exchange agreement.

It was presumed Clark would tell his liaison team, headed by Rear Adm. John C. Daniel, to get more details from the Communists on their settlement plan.

President Warns No Security In Isolation Policy

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower warned in his first major address since his inauguration that the western hemisphere cannot achieve security in "splendid isolation."

Speaking before the Pan American Union yesterday, he said "the west oceans offer no sure defense" against "the forces threatening this continent."

Diplomatic observers were interested to note Mr. Eisenhower did not identify the hostile "forces." He did not once refer to communism or to Russia.

This gave rise to some speculation that he may have deliberately toned down the address because of current Russian "peace" overtures. Mr. Eisenhower has said that he believes the Soviet approach should be taken at face value unless or until they are proved false.

His address was strongly anti-isolationist, emphasizing repeatedly the need for unity among nations both in this hemisphere and in the world at large. His remark about the impossibility of achieving security through hemispheric isolation was regarded as a direct repudiation of the proposal advanced by former Republican President Herbert Hoover for resting U. S. defenses on the concept of a western hemisphere Gibraltar.

He said the "mutual trust" of good neighbors and "self reliance" that summons each nation to work to the full for its own welfare "is the key to a better world for nations of the west."

Declaring that he is "profoundly dedicated to doing all that I can to perfect the understanding and trust upon which this (Pan-American) community must rest," he announced plans for a broad survey of economic and social conditions and U. S. technical aid activities in Latin America.

Mr. Eisenhower said he will send his brother, Dr. Milton Eisenhower, to Latin America for a "personal understanding of the facts" aimed at bringing back recommendations for "strengthening the bonds" between this country and its Latin neighbors. Dr. Eisenhower is president of Pennsylvania State College.

WASHINGTON (UP)—A United Nations minister believes the time has come when churches should investigate Congress.

Dr. A. Powell Davies, preaching at the All Souls' Unitarian Church yesterday, suggested this would help the nation more than the proposed congressional investigation of communists among the clergy, but he said "the churches themselves could remove these roadblocks" if the government would supply "factual information."

"But the government will not cooperate," the minister said. "Instead of giving the information to the churches, it is given to the congressional committees to make a noise with."

HIS OTHER PROBLEM WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower laid aside the job of whitening down the federal budget today to concentrate on paring a smaller but equally stubborn figure—his gold stock.

FINAL ROUND UNITED NATIONS N.Y. (UP)—The United Nations General Assembly entered its final round of debate today on Poland's "peace" blueprint and set its sights on recessing by the weekend.

The report said farm costs are expected to continue "about at 1952 levels" on most items but feed and livestock. Those are expected to go down.

The report made no predictions on what will happen to farm prices this year. They have been moving gradually downward the past two years.

Child Killed By Horse Saturday Is Buried Today

AYDEN—Funeral services were held this afternoon for three-year-old Kathy Lou Manning who was accidentally killed Saturday afternoon at her home in the St. John community.

The little girl was in an animal lot when a horse stepped on her. She received head injuries and lived only a few minutes.

Services were held at the home this afternoon with the Rev. Horace Quigley of Grifton officiating. Burial followed in the Grifton cemetery.

Surviving are her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Millard Manning of Route 2, her paternal grandfather, Mack Manning; and her maternal grandfather, Ike Kilpatrick, both of Route 2.

Would Replace 'Point 4'; Middle East, Asian Aid Emphasized Dulles Indicates Foreign Aid Changes

WASHINGTON (UP)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles believes the $100,000,000-a-year overseas information program should be drastically overhauled and the Voice of America trimmed down and renamed.

Dulles, appearing before a House Appropriations subcommittee recently said he wasn't asking for any funds for the U. S. Information Service and Voice at this time because "the entire future of that venture is so obscure."

He said "I am in favor of an information program although not of the magnitude and lack of clear purpose that now

Mrs. Stokes Hostess To Lector Club

The Lector Book Club met with Mrs. R. C. Stokes III on Tuesday afternoon, March 24. The meeting was called to order by the secretary, Mrs. R. O. Everette. The business of the day consisted of a discussion of the needs of a needy family. The meeting was then turned over to the guest speaker for the afternoon, Mrs. R. C. Stokes Jr. She continued the study of the Old Testament and reviewed the Books of Jeremiah and Lamentations. Jeremiah, the chosen herald and prophet, laid the spiritual regeneration of his nation and even though he was thrown into prison and tortured he never forsook his tireless effort to win his nation to Christ. Jeremiah was the author of the Book of Lamentations and Mrs. Stokes read chosen passages from the Book. A salad plate was served by the hostess, books were exchanged and the meeting adjourned.

Set Dedication Of VA Hospital
DURHAM (UP)—The new $8,000,000 Veterans Administration Hospital here, which began receiving its first patients last week, will be formally dedicated in a program next Sunday.

Carl R. Gray, administrator of Veterans Affairs, will officially present the hospital to its manager, Dr. Horace B. Cupp. Duke President Dr. Hollis Edens will preside, and Vice Adm. Joel T. Boone, chief medical director for the VA, will describe the medical treatments available for veterans. Visitors will be taken on a guided tour of the 10-story 500 bed hospital.

When Queen Elizabeth visits in Winnipeg, Canada, she will be entitled to receive the Hudson's Bay Co. tribute of two elk heads and two black beaver skins.

Funeral Is Held For Mrs. J. A. Forrest

Mrs. Annie Sparks Forrest, 74, widow of J. A. Forrest, died at the home of her son, A. E. Forrest, 2507 Dickinson Avenue, Saturday morning. She had been ill for several years.

Funeral services were conducted at the Wilkerson Chapel at 2:30 o'clock Monday afternoon by the Rev. Leon Russell, pastor of the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church, assisted by Dr. H. G. Haney, pastor of the Eighth Street Christian Church. Burial was in Maplewood Cemetery in Kinston.

Mrs. Forrest was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Forrest and was a native of Onslow County. She lived in Kinston for several years prior to her marriage in 1904. They lived in Ayden for a few years and moved to Greenville in 1916. Mr. Forrest died in 1937. She was a member of the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church.

Surviving are three sons, Vick M. A. E. and J. Tom Forrest, all of Greenville; two daughters, Mrs. Jesse S. Forbes of Mentor, Ohio, and Mrs. Lloyd Worthington of Winterville; a step-son, J. Guy Forrest of Greenville; a step-daughter, Mrs. Bonnie W. Peed of Norfolk; 16 grandchildren; and 3 great grandchildren.

Last Rites Tuesday For W. Jesse Sutton

W. Jesse Sutton, 78, died at his home near Shermersline at 9:50 o'clock Sunday night shortly after suffering a heart attack. He had been in failing health for over a year.

Funeral services will be conducted at Wilkerson Funeral Chapel Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock and burial will be in Greenwood Cemetery.

Mr. Sutton was born and reared in the Shermersline Community and was a farmer. He was a member of Black Jack Free Will Baptist Church. In 1897 he was married to Lydia Harper and she survives. Also surviving are four sons, Ly-

Women In The Church

By Mary Fowler

"I cannot be a good Christian and a bad citizen," says Mrs. Cynthia Wedel, an officer of the United Council of Church Women. "I cannot be a good citizen unless I am an active citizen. When the millions of well-meaning church members in America become fully aware of this fact, and begin to show forth the praises of God in their lives as citizens, America, may indeed, become a Christian nation."

A number of women prominent in the field of public relations, are now exercising considerable authority in the field of religious broadcasting and television associated with the major networks. Miss Marilyn Kammerer is supervisor of religious programs and educational features of the National Broadcasting Company System. Miss Ruth Trexler is director of religious programs and women's features for the American Broadcasting Company. Miss Doris Ann is supervisor of religious TV programs for NBC. In a recent panel discussion these leaders suggested that the usual near-sermon presentation of religion on radio and TV did not inspire, and that the whole subject needs to be "dramatized."

The Navajo Methodist School, Farmington, New Mexico, institution of the Woman's Division of Christian Service, Methodist Church, has received an award from the Soil Conservation Agency which listed the mission as a "friend of the land." Recognition came to the mission largely through the work of Byron Tharp, farm supervisor, and Verlin Metzger, dairyman and orchardist. They were selected as outstanding farmers of the county. Among the farm projects was the leveling of a weedy, foul-smelling area, transforming it into a productive alfalfa field. The mission had a bumper crop of apples and potatoes. The dairy herd produced over 152,000 pounds of milk with butterfat. The school garden of two and a half acres supervised by Leland Dellinger, yielded two tons of string beans and large quantities of other vegetables. A boarding school for Navajo young people, the Navajo Methodist Mission recently started a night school for older Indians.

Mrs. Roosevelt In Brief Tribute To FDR Sunday

HYDE PARK, N. Y. (UP)—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt placed a wreath on the tomb of former President Franklin D. Roosevelt Sunday on the eighth anniversary of his death. About 300 persons stood in a heavy rain for the 30-minute memorial service on the grounds of the Roosevelt estate here. Mrs. Roosevelt placed a wreath sent by former President Harry Truman. Mrs. Roosevelt and her sons, John, were the only members of the family present. Other wreaths were sent by Robert E. Sherwood, playwright and chairman of the Roosevelt Birthday Memorial Committee; H. H. Kung, president of the Bank of China and a brother-in-law of Madam Chiang Kai-Shek, and the Franklin D. Roosevelt Post of the American Legion at Hyde Park.

Paisan: A Story Of War As Told In 6 Sequences

By DONALD M. MURRAY

Tomorrow, April 14, the movie "Paisan" will be presented in Greenville as part of the Arts Festival program. Showings will be in Austin Auditorium at 4 p.m. and in the Training School Auditorium at 7 p.m. Admission is free.

"Paisan", directed by Roberto Rossellini and produced in 1948, is one of the most highly acclaimed films, foreign or American, that have had World War II as subject. It is the story of the Allied campaign in Italy, told in a sequence of six episodes.

In the first episode an American soldier and a Sicilian peasant girl are momentarily thrown together in the desperate first hours of the invasion. There is almost a romantic idyll; then a German patrol finds and kills the couple. The G.I.'s who discover the bodies suspect the girl of treachery; and here the film makes a comment on the tragedy of misunderstanding resulting from mere difference in nationality: one soldier says, "The dirty little Eytelle."

In the next part, a drunken Negro G.I. is appropriated by a Neapolitan street urchin who steals his shoes. The morning after, the soldier is bent on vengeance, but ends by forming a friendship with these people housed in the rubble. We get a moving portrayal of human sympathy, but with sentimentality.

The Roman episode, which follows, portrays a degraded woman who recognizes a G.I. she had known in happier days; there is an implicit lesson on the moral collapse that war brings — to conqueror and conquered.

Episode four, in Florence, is highlighted by vivid action scenes taken by Rossellini with a hand camera during the actual street fighting. The next part, however, which takes place in a quiet monastery, allows one to get his breath. There is some mild comedy here, and an interesting thesis concerning religious differences.

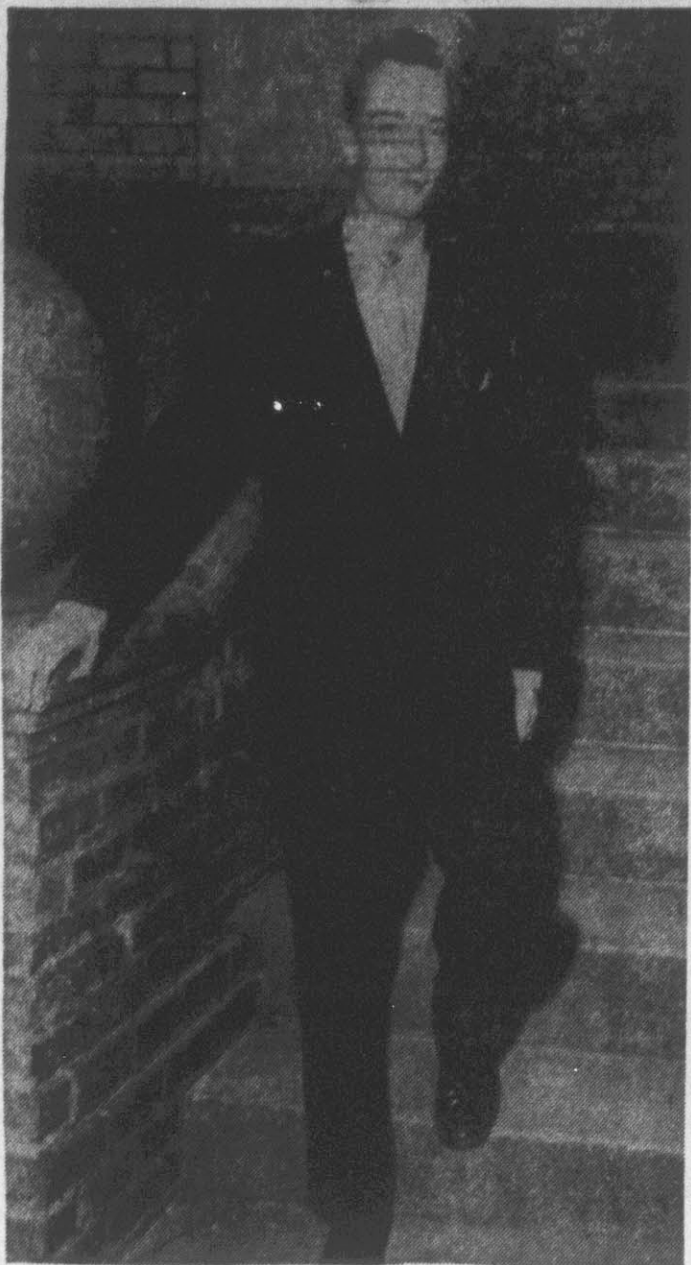

The last part occurs in the Po marshes, where, in vicious hand-to-hand fighting, a group of Partisans is exterminated by the retreating Germans. "A war and revolution in microcosm," one critic called it. As the Germans leave, only a child remains alive, crying.

The ending points up a theme that has been consistently carried out all along: the relationship between soldiers and the civilian inhabitants of the invaded land in wartime.

The film is outstanding for its deliberate but sane treatment of controversial issues, and for realism rather than melodrama. Its treatment of war recalls the literary art of Stephen Crane, Hemingway and Tolstol.

Most of the critics have praised Rossellini's directing. There are only six professional actors, but the many amateurs have been so coached as to give natural, convincing performances. One notices

In Play For School Children

Douglas Mitchell, Greenville freshman, will play the part of Robin Hood in the production by the Teachers Playhouse of East Carolina College of their annual play for school children. Chosen as this year's presentation for young people is Owen Davis's dramatization of the legends of the famous and beloved outlaw, "Robin Hood, or the Merry Outlaws of Sherwood Forest." The play, sponsored by the Greenville Chapter of the American University Women and directed by Dr. Lucile H. Charles of the college faculty, will be given in eight performances, six of them in Greenville and two in Kinston. Opening performance will be April 16 at the Eppes School in Greenville. An evening performance for adults is scheduled for April 20 and matinees for children will take place April 20, 21, 22, 23, all in the College Theatre. Kinston performances are set for April 24.

little photographic trickery; the camera tells a straight-forward story, capitalizing on its inherent ability to move about and to record intense action.

The Italian and German characters speak their own languages, but since most of the actors are American or British, American audiences have no difficulty in following the dialogue.

"Paisan" is an exceptionally entertaining movie and one that is at the same time a fine example of modern cinematic art. Appropriately, the exhibition of this film is a part of the Greenville Arts Festival. It deserves a large attendance.

The sponsors of "Paisan" here are: the International Relations Club of East Carolina College, the Greenville Woman's Club, and the local chapter of the American Association of University Women. The presentation has been arranged by the Emerson Study Group.

Discusses Persia At Club Meeting

Badger Johnson of Greenville, who spent three years in Persia during World War II, was the speaker at the Exchange Club's weekly supper meeting last Friday night.

He discussed the present oil situation in Saudi Arabia, Iran and Iraq. He touched on the numerous international complications involved, and said modern buildings in Iran are similar to those in Miami, Florida, but extreme poverty prevails and it is in contrast with the sumptuous living of the outsiders engaged in the oil business.

The oil in that part of the country is inferior in quality to the American product, but it is useful as fuel for ships he said. British and American oil companies own the Middle East interests. The stalemate resulting from the expulsion of the British has caused a frenzied financial situation. Since the country's currency was based on the value of the shah's jewels, the government was forced to sell the rugs from floors of its public buildings, Johnson related.

Despite its nearness to Russia, this territory would represent a real problem to an invading force, Johnson explained. The northern desert regions have temperatures up to 160 degrees. The Americans have large airfields there, with facilities for handling jet planes. The British built several roads into the area, and troops could be transported without difficulty, the speaker stated.

John Daugherty, member of the State Exchange Clubs, spoke briefly. George Tyndall was a guest of the club.

Former 'Mounty' To Be Executives Club Guest

S. R. MONTAGUE

A former member of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, Sydney R. Montague, will be guest speaker at the Executives Club meeting to be held Thursday night at 7 o'clock on the college campus here.

Dr. K. B. Pace, club president, announced that the speaker is a veteran of six years with the "Mounties," and spent the greater portion of his service in the Arctic Patrol.

It was while he was serving as a "Mounty" that Montague showed a tendency toward adventure inherited from a long line of swashbuckling ancestors, most of whom were seafarers.

Montague was destined for a commonplace engineering career and was educated with that end in view at Montreal, Can. He brushed aside further formal education, however, when a chance came to him to serve with the lads in scarlet tunics.

Factual Talk
"It is not an illustrated lecture," Dr. Pace stated today. "He has no moving pictures in order to round out a survey of strange places, because he has never needed such assistance. His talk is packed with facts; his powers of description are vivid; and his command of words is fluent."

However, the president declared, he is no cloak and dagger figure out of the pages of Sabittini, even though he looks as if he could become one suddenly if the occasion demanded it. Montague is well-educated, and what he has to say — though packed with colorful and exciting incidents — contains far more information and food for reflection than the speech of any mere swashbuckler. "Montague will clearly show that the days of pioneering and swift

Begin Campaign To Preserve Historic Papers

RALEIGH (UP)—An intensive campaign began today for the preservation of valuable historical documents dealing with North Carolina's early history.

Dr. W. Frank Burton, state archivist, urged anyone knowing of valuable manuscripts, newspapers or other materials of historic value to get in touch with him.

The drive is being conducted by the Committee on Historical Materials of the State Library and Historical Association. Burton said many documents in private possession are not receiving the proper care and are in danger of eventually being lost.

The association is attempting to be sure that all valuable Tar Heel historical documents are placed in recommended depositories where they will be preserved.

Strength for the Day

AT BASIC LEVELS
Congressman Brooks Hays, of Arkansas, went to Europe with a group of fellow-congressmen the summer of 1945, shortly after the Germans had surrendered. In a certain building Mr. Hays was shown a chaplain's study. The chaplain had evidently left in haste for his German Bible was lying on his desk. Mr. Hays opened it, saw the chaplain's name, and read a statement that it had been given to him by the women members of a Lutheran Church in Dinseldorf.
Mr. Hays then secured permission to bring this Bible back home. A year or two later he encountered a German ecclesiastic who knew this young chaplain personally. Immediately Mr. Hays wrote the chaplain telling him that he had his Bible and that he wanted to give it back to him. Thereupon began between Congressman Hays and this German chaplain a marvelous friendship and a correspondence which has been an inspiration to both of them. A year or two ago when he was again in Germany, Mr. Hays had the privilege of meeting the German chaplain—a wonderful and cordial meeting of two Christian brothers.
Race makes no difference nor do even the conditions of war when people believe in the same Christ and in the same Bible through which Christ's gospel is set forth. When we meet at basic levels, we really meet.

An Effort Which Depends Upon The State's Farmers

North Carolina's $66,000,000 swine industry has been dealt a severe blow by the outbreak of vesicular exanthema which caused temporary bans on sale of hogs at isolated points during the past two weeks, and Friday resulted on a temporary suspension of swine sales throughout the state.
The disease, which is believed to come from the feeding of raw garbage to pigs and hogs, has caused a great loss of North Carolina's swine industry which is no unimportant phase of the state's agricultural economy.

The seriousness of the situation in North Carolina is emphasized by the stringent action which has been taken by the Commissioner of Agriculture in an attempt to halt the spread of the disease. But laws, or the invoking of emergency powers of state officials, alone will not stamp out the disease.

It is going to take the full cooperation of farmers who raise swine to stamp out the disease in the state.

The welfare of the farmers who raise the swine, and the welfare of the swine industry in the state as well as the welfare of the whole citizenry, are the factors which prompted the stringent action which has been taken. In order to preserve the swine industry and insure the continuance of the $66,000,000 income it brings North Carolina citizens—it behooves farmers throughout North Carolina to do their part to stamp out the disease.

To be sure, some farmers who have been feeding their hogs uncooked garbage for years are reluctant to turn from their custom to some more expensive form of feeding. Nevertheless, the evidence points to uncooked garbage as the source of the disease. As long as the practice of feeding raw garbage to swine continues, the swine industry of the state remains in jeopardy.

The welfare of the swine industry in North Carolina now depends upon the decision and the cooperation of individual farmers. The swine disease must be stamped out, and we hope the farmers—individually and collectively—will exert every effort to see that it is.

A New Light Of Hope In Korea

Within a few days sick and wounded prisoners will begin flowing back and forth across the battle line in Korea. It will mark the execution of the first major agreement achieved by the United Nations and the communists since the Korean War began almost three years ago.

Even though the agreement on the exchange of sick and wounded prisoners is a bright light in the dark situation that has hung over Korea for three years, there is disappointment in the number of allied prisoners who will be coming home in the exchange. Only 600 of the United Nations prisoners held by the communists will be included in the exchange. In that number approximately 120 American soldiers will be included.

The United Nations, on the other hand, will turn back 5,800 communist prisoners including 5,100 North Koreans and 700 Chinese.

Although the number of Allied prisoners being returned by the communist is disappointingly low, the United Nations is receiving a slight edge on a percentage basis. The 600 U. N. prisoners to be returned represent approximately five percent of the 12,000 U. N. prisoners held by the communists. The 5,800 communist prisoners being returned by the U. N. forces represent approximately four per cent of the 132,000 communists held prisoner by the U. N.

The signing of the agreement for the exchange of sick and wounded prisoners in Korea raises the hopes for a truce in the Korean war. It certainly points to a more conciliatory atmosphere in which the exchange of the remaining prisoners can be arranged.

But in spite of these encouraging developments, the war with the communists is by no means over. The free world must still be on its guard for tricks and disappointments in dealing with the communists.

The recent peace overtures are a marked change in the outward attitude of the communists toward the free world, but there is nothing to indicate the fundamental goal of the communists—world conquest—has changed. While there is elation over the progress toward peace made in Korea in the past two weeks, danger still lurks there as it does around the globe where the dividing line between freedom and communism runs.

It is good to know that 120 sick and wounded Americans held by the communists are coming home. Yet it is too early to assume all is over in Korea except the shouting.

National Whirligig

WASHINGTON—Congressional surveys of popular sentiment during the Easter vacation ending today disclose that the American people have become more economy-minded and nationalistic in their thinking than they were when they ousted the Truman Administration last November. In a "charity begins at home" spirit, they are more concerned with domestic than foreign problems, save for the war in Korea.

From their fence-mending talks with constituents over the holiday week, as well as from an unusually heavy flood of correspondence, House-Senate members' samplings show the following questions to be uppermost in the voters' minds, in this order of importance: Government spending, control of communism, taxation, the size of the public debt, the Korean War and means to end it, defense and preparedness, inflation and the cost of living.

DISSATISFACTION WITH ALLIES—With a few minor exceptions, these canvasses reflect general approval of the Eisenhower Administration, although there is some concern that he is too easy-going. They want him to act even tougher toward our foreign allies, with a demand that they give us more financial and military aid in Korea and Western Europe.
Indeed, a growing dissatisfaction with our allies' seeming indifference toward the Russian menace, especially since Malenkov's semi-surrender, characterizes the popular thought on world affairs.

They favor continued foreign aid, military, economic and technical assistance in backward areas, but only if the beneficiaries match our contributions. Even so, they believe that our overseas budget could stand sizeable reductions. They want repudiation of all "secret, foreign agreements," and passage of the Bricker resolution limiting treaties' effect on domestic law.

PRESSURE ON CHINA—Majority opinion endorses suggestions for greater pressure on China through economic warfare. They are indignant that Britain shut off all trade with the Reds. They approve a naval blockade of the China Coast, but only with the approval and assistance of the United Nations.
They advocate formation of a Pacific defense alliance similar to NATO. But they vote overwhelmingly against further U. S. financing of the French in Indo-China. They do not agree with Eisenhower that this offensive in the Korean conflict are an "interdependent operation."

They are strong for national defense. Although urging cuts in non-defense spending, they oppose any weakening of the armed forces. They overwhelmingly favor expansion of the Air Force to 143 wings and all-out development of our atomic arm. Although the vote is close, they want adoption of universal military training at the expiration of the draft system.

DOMESTIC INTERESTS—On domestic matters, they seem to be in greater agreement with the general White House program.

Strangely, they follow Eisenhower in opposing tax cuts until the budget has been balanced. But they say "no" to increased taxes, even if they become necessary to bring Federal income and outgo into balance.
They demand return of Federal gas taxes to the states for construction and maintenance of highways. They insist on reciprocal trade agreement reservations, permitting cancellation of concessions if they imperil domestic interests. They ask the extension of old-age insurance coverage, and repeal of the provision limiting beneficiaries' earnings to $75 a month. They generally oppose 90 per cent farm subsidies or Federal financing of agricultural exports.

They line up against Taft-Hartley repeal. They favor Federal aid to schools, elimination of all wage, rent and price controls, return of tideland properties to the states and statehood for Hawaii.

In short, they seem to be antagonistic toward "big government" at home and further expansion of our overseas establishments, unless it proves advantageous to Uncle Sam. They don't want the old gentleman to be played for a sucker.

America has the most productive agriculture in the world. Food is cheaper than in other countries. In America one quart of milk can be bought with 9 minutes of work, whereas in Russia it takes one hour and ten minutes—ten minutes work buys one loaf of bread in America—in Russia it takes 1 hour and 20 minutes. In America 1 pound of butter can be purchased with one half hour of work—in Russia it takes 9 hours, that is, if he can get it.

This is because American agriculture has the highest production per worker than in any other country in the world. Food is produced on efficient mechanized farms. (Mullins (S.C.) Enterprise)

STATUS QUO — There is a familiar story about the old time country squire who explained the meaning of the Latin phrase "status quo" by saying it was just Latin for being in a helluva fix. Whether the phrase is accepted in its classic meaning or is given the meaning attributed by that old time countryman, it affords a fairly accurate description of the 1953 session of the North Carolina General Assembly as it ends the thirteenth week with its 82nd legislative day.

RECORD — Statistically this session is keeping pace with its predecessors in number of bills introduced and number of bills refiled. Actually it is farther behind in important work schedule than any session at comparable date since 1935. The statistical progress reported involves non-essentials. On the vitally important matters of revenue and appropriations very little real progress has been made within the past two weeks. There are some observers who will contend that such motion as has been noted has been backward rather than forward.

APPROPRIATIONS—The much publicized subcommittee of the overall joint appropriations committee to which was assigned the job of cutting down the budget bill, has completed its secret sessions and held two or three open voting sessions, resulting in recommendations for increasing budget recommendations by several million dollars. The committee insists it has not increased the budget total, but has only switched some items by using up for this year the $17.5 million reserve or cushion fund requested by governor Umstead and recommended by the budget group. Whatever the technical definitions may be, the fact is the subcommittee report will propose spending for the current year and the upcoming biennium some $18 to $20 million more than the budget appropriations bill. That fact is on the public record, but because of the secrecy imposed by the committee the people who pay the taxes do not and cannot know why the additional amounts were approved.

REVENUE—In fact of that extra spending by the appropriations group the finance committee has maintained an adamant position against increasing taxes. The law requires that Senate and House committees dealing with revenue meet in joint session, just as the appropriations committee does, for consideration of the budget bills. This year the budget folks had no bills for changing the revenue set up and most of the special tax measures have been introduced in the House. Consequently important discussions about revenue and proposed bond issue have been before the House committee, with a few Senators sitting in as interested observers without privilege of voting.

MIXED UP — The activities of appropriations and finance committees have been mixed up so much this year nobody seems to know just what is the province of any committee. The administration sponsored bond bills —$50 million for State grants in aid to local school house building, $22 million for improvement at mental hospitals, and $13 million for other institutional expansion—were referred first to the appropriations committee instead of to the finance committee. Under rules of the House they had to go to the finance committee before coming to the floor, so the finance group summoned the potential recipients of the proceeds of the bond to come and show cause why the bonds should be issued or the money appropriated.

NEW POLICY — Old time observers of legislative procedure could not recall another instance when the appropriations committee was called upon to pass on the question of collecting taxes or the finance committee had called upon potential recipients to show cause why they needed the appropriations. From one viewpoint the system used this year makes sense. It serves to pinpoint the question of whether one group should say you have this much money and no more, cut your suit to fit the cloth; or whether another group should say we have to get this much to make the clothes. It's up to you to provide enough cloth to make the suit. There is nothing new in that problem. Newness is in the method of approach adopted by this Legislature.

LOOSE — The House finance committee Thursday afternoon voted to withdraw all amendments which had been proposed to the bond bills and to give the bills

What Other Papers Are Thinking

THE SHOPLIFTING PROBLEM (New Bern Sun—Journal)
Shoplifting is the oldest of problems to merchants. It became more acute with the spread of the self-service system of selling goods on what amounts to an honor basis. The vast majority of customers are honest, but the crooked few must always be combated. In late years merchants have intensified their efforts in this regard, with marked success.

The American Stores in Philadelphia recently listed some two-score tricks of the light-fingered artists, but said it had no intention of disclosing to the looters measures employed by the stores to curb this lawless activity. Teen-agers, women and men, use all sorts of devices and stratagems to hide their loot—hats, handbags, double socks, inside pockets, large sleeves, hollowed-out books, musical instrument cases, umbrellas, handbagged arms, rolls of toilet paper, baby carriages, waist bands of trousers, rubberized panel inserts for sweaters, flowing coats, maternity gowns and many others. Teen-agers often work in groups.

In spite of all this ingenuity, the shoplifter is almost invariably caught, sooner or later. Thievery is relative—some thieves steal merchandise, others steal notions. But crooks finally wind up in deep trouble—as witness history.

A MORE REASONABLE PROGRAM (Henderson Dispatch)

Bills in the General Assembly to change very sharply the amount of bond issues to be approved by that body and then submitted to the public for a vote are sound and deserve to be adopted after careful and deliberate evaluation. We'd be among the last to object to spending for services that are actually and definitely indispensable. But North Carolina, as much as it has grown and as great as are its resources, still is confronted with limitations that must be recognized and respected if we are not to allow our desires to run away with better judgment.

We have never believed it inescapably essential that eighty-eight million dollars must be had at this time for purposes proposed in expansion and improvement at various institutions. We are unable to accept the theory, if it be that, that just about everything must be done all at once. A more moderate program of progress that would strain the State's resources less is the safer course. The legislature ought to be content with doing a part of the job now and more of it two years hence. Even the dollar itself could and probably would be stretched farther if utilized in that manner.

Admitting that there is need for more and better school facilities, it is folly to suppose that perfection can be achieved overnight, no matter how much money might be available. It would be well to realize this fact and to proceed with caution and sanity and always be on the safe side than to take a leap in the dark not knowing exactly where or what the outcome might be.

A STRANGE WAY TO CUT U.S. TAXES (Charlotte Observer)

The excess profits tax should by all means be allowed to die when its statutory life runs out. But, when people in Congress and in the administration say that another tax must be enacted to take its place, they are talking about an over-all increase in taxes rather than a decrease.

any tax to replace it. Hence, if another tax is enacted, it will be an addition to the revenues estimated by the Truman budget-makers.

That would be going directly contrary to the promises in the Republican platform and in the speeches of the candidates during the campaign. If the excess profits tax is allowed to expire, the Treasury will take in exactly the same amount of money that was expected by the people who drew the Truman budget.

Those who are advocating some tax to take the place of the excess profits tax have proposed two plans, both of which would increase the tax burden on business. The first is to raise the rates of the existing taxes on business, and the second is a new "defense tax" to be levied on corporations.

The inequity of both of these plans is that they would relieve the great corporations of a part of their tax burden but would burden the small business. The firms that have been paying the excess profits tax would be relieved of it, and the new tax would not be as much as the excess profits tax they have been paying. But those firms that have not been subject to the E.P.T. would pay the same corporation rates they have been paying, plus the higher corporation rates or the special defense tax. A firm paying $70 million in excess profits taxes, for example, would, under the proposed tax pay only $67 million. The small firm that now pays $20,000 under the regular corporation levy would find its Federal tax raised to about $23,000.

The Treasury, then, would be taking in more revenue than was estimated for the Truman budget, and business—particularly small business—would be paying more taxes instead of less.

Business Today

By ELMER ROESSNER
Fears that the huge new housing market may soon dry up have been haunting home builders and their suppliers.

Housing starts have topped one million for the past four years and will probably do so again this year. Department of Commerce figures indicate expenditures on non-farm residential buildings alone totaled about $2,434,000,000 in the first quarter. This is 10.9 per cent more than in the first quarter of 1952, when $2,194,000,000 was spent.

If such expenditures continue dwelling units will total something more than 49,000,000 by the end of the year for America's present population of about 155,750,000. The 1950 census tabulated 45,875,000 dwelling units. Nonrural housing starts at the rate of 1,000,000 bring the 1953 grand total to about 48,000,000.

An important reason for the uncertainty felt about the housing market is the decline in new marriages. New family groups have long been regarded as the backbone of the housing market and builders point out that the number of marriages has declined from a high of 1,000,000 in 1948 to a probably 400,000 next year.

Actually, there is a lag between marriages and their effect on home purchasing. Many couples require a number of years to accumulate enough money to finance a house. The worst effects of the marriage decline probably will not be felt until later in the '50's.

A more important factor in reducing builders' fears is the relatively low interest rates on home loans. Probably this will be the first area in which pressure will be applied if and when home building declines. Moves to encourage lending agencies to lower rates can be expected and perhaps an increase in government participation in home building, financing and in guaranteed home loans.

A logical move for the builders would be to shift emphasis to home maintenance, remodeling and repair if their market contracts. That they are deeply aware of the home modernization market and its ability to take up any slack in new-home building is indicated by the numerous campaigns of suppliers which stress the use of their products for home improvement.

In 1951, an estimated $6 million was spent on renovation compared with $12,765,000,000 spent on residential construction—well under the potential home renovation possibilities.

EVEN DOLLS HELP FILL BRITISH DOGGER NEEDS
European countries have come up with some odd exports to help boost dollar earnings in this country, including exotic birds, monkeys, men's capes and women's tiaras.

Another unusual commodity is dogs. A consignment of nine pedigreed Pekingese pups, worth $5,600, recently arrived here by plane from England. In the last five years alone, Great Britain has earned more than $2,800,000 in canine exports.

At present, greatest demand is for poodles. Pekes are second. A newcomer to the export trade—the Welsh Corgi—is rapidly gaining popularity.

IT'S STILL A MAN'S WORLD IN SOME WAYS
Man's last domains—the men's grill, the smoker and the club car—have been augmented in the last year or two by special men's shopping days, or special counter for men buying in women's stores.

This "For Men Only" trend has been taken up by an airline (United) which, at the end of this month, begins nonstop flights between Chicago and New York for male travelers only.

P. B. Two women will be aboard Stewardesses.

Hal Boyle's Column

NEW YORK (AP)—Recently a television actor named Muggs received a fan letter from a little girl.

"I have wanted a baby sister for a long time," she wrote, "and now I would like to have one who looks just like you."

Her parents refrained from comment.
The actor, J. Fred Muggs, is a baby chimpanzee.

Television, which certainly made monkeys out of some famous stars, now is making famous stars out of monkeys. The pioneer is J. Fred, who in less than a year emerged from the obscurity of Darkest Africa to floodlight fame as a top TV performer.

The statue of his fame is that in 10 weeks he has acquired seven simian imitators—almost one a week.
Young Mr. Muggs is supported by Dave Garroway on an NBC daily network show called "Today." He was first put on the show as a gag. But he was such an immediate hit he now is a fixture.

Garroway works hard for his money. All J. Fred does is mug a bit, snub Garroway, toy with his socks and look as much as possible like any other chimpanzee.

"Muggs is successful because he doesn't try to do anything," is the way entertainment experts sum up his skyrocket rise. "Who else can you tune in on your TV set and see acting normal? If Muggs told jokes or did card tricks he'd be a flop."

There is no doubt of J. Fred's solid popularity. What other mammal under one year of age do you know who gets more than 100 fan letters a week, has 65 suits, and holds a sliding contract that may pay his weekly paycheck from $250 to $1,100?

Admirers have sent him a hobby horse, a high chair, clothing, enough toys to stock a prince's nursery, and even a razor. He needs a shave.

A surprising amount of the baby chimp's mail is from grown-ups, and they write as if he were a human being. One wealthy woman put her limousine at Muggs' disposal—if she could go along for the ride.

All stars get poison pen letters, too. So far Muggs has only one enemy, a New Yorker who mailed him a piece of rope and a note saying, "This would look well pulled around your neck."
Naturally, J. Fred did no such thing. He is having the time of his life, and even a chimp isn't chump enough to think he can please everybody.

Perkins, director of the Lincoln Park Zoo there.

There could go to the zoo with no trouble. But poor Muggs has to pack along an X-ray proof he has no tuberculosis and a veterinarian's statement certifying he isn't smuggling any infectious worms into Chicago. When strange chimps meet, they have to be more careful about each other than people.

Technically, Muggs is an ape. But he is making so much money that his owners are afraid the income tax will make him a broke monkey-and them, too.

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS
WASHINGTON—Today's "Acrat of the Breakfast Table," or any other old table, could well be a baby, who is now allowed to eat just about when and what he wants.

Vast changes in the feeding of babies over the years is reflected in the advice set down by experts in the government's best-seller, "Infant Care," now in its ninth edition and distributed to more than 31,000,000. The first edition, out in 1914, advised that infants be fed at regular three-hour intervals. The latest edition says: "Instead of scheduled hours, the 'clock' of a baby's hunger should be the mother's guide. To make a hungry baby cry for half an hour because it is not 'time' for him to be fed is hard on him."

The 1914 booklet advised breast feeding. The present edition says: "Whether your baby is nursed at the breast or fed from a bottle, your concern will be to see that he gets enough food of the right kind. It is the spirit in which you feed your baby that counts, rather than the particular kind of milk he gets."

Early editions of Infant Care said babies should wait until they were seven or eight months old to get one to three tablespoons of strained fruit juice once a day. The latest booklet says: "Baby should be getting two ounces of orange juice by the time he is two months old," and frozen orange juice is mentioned. A soft egg was recommended at 10 months. Now: "Your doctor will probably suggest that you begin feeding your baby egg yolk when he is three to five months." In 1914 no solid foods other than soft eggs, crisp toast or zwieback were recommended during the first year. Now, according to the latest edition, some doctors recommend solid foods when a baby is only a few weeks old, others at three to four months. One lusty seven-month-oldster I know has been getting finely ground pork for some time.

There was much talk in the early '30s of how babies thrived if after weaning they were allowed to select their own diets from a wide variety of foods, but "Infant Care" still advised spinach three times a week because "it is the best vegetable for a baby." However, eight other vegetables were suggested after the sixth month and six more at the end of the first year. Bananas weren't mentioned until the 1938 edition.

"The trend toward giving a variety of foods earlier in the first year," says experts at the U.S. Children's Bureau, "is a result of intensive work in nutrition combined with the results of observations on the psychological aspects of infant feedings."

Varied Art Program Is Scheduled Tonight

Tonight's events of the Eighth Community Arts Festival being staged this week in the city will feature a program at Eppes High School at 8 p.m.

At 15 to 20 minute program on chalk sketching with six or seven students from an art class under the direction of Mrs. M.B. Allen will open the night's events. The students will sketch modern or realistic designs with no two people doing the same thing. All will be large and colorful.

Taking part will be students Herbert Harper, Warren Outterbridge, Shirley Carr, Donovan Phillips, Barbara Norris, and Edna Teele.

Four students from an art class will take part in the second portion of the program with contour draping. Each student will use four yards of colored material in which to drape the live models and original style will be used by the students.

The contour draping will be under the direction of Mrs. Allen and E.C. Staplefoote. Mrs. Dayenport will accompany with music. Students who will be drapers are Charles William Raymond Brewington, Milton Cobb, and Rovena Hardy.

Creative dancing with eight girls and a soloist will also be featured on tonight's program. Costumed dancers from junior and senior high school will make up the participants.

The dancing will be under the direction of Mrs. L.J. Mitchell and E. Forbes.

Costumed boys and girls from the elementary grades will present a folksong, "Botany Bay" on tonight's program. More than 10 boys and girls will take part in the folksong which is under the direction of Mrs. B.A. Jones and Mrs. J.J. Bell.

An original story, written by the students and teachers will be presented also tonight with marionettes which have been made by the students. The art and industrial art classes have constructed the stage for the marionettes. This program is under the direction of Mrs. L.S. Foreman and L.L. Graye.

A large mobile made by three students will hang from the center of the auditorium. The mobile is a large balanced symphony of color and form made by James Batts, Luvon Duncan, and Floyd Dickens.

Expect Large Gathering For District Church Meet

Over nine hundred young people are expected for the Youth Rally to be held at Centenary Methodist Church in New Bern on Saturday night April 18 for the MYF members of the New Bern District. The rally will be the signal for the opening of the unique United Evangelistic Mission being held in every church in the North Carolina and Virginia Conference Methodist Church simultaneously, the 19th through the 24th.

Jarvis Memorial MYF members are planning to attend and will make the trip in chartered buses arriving in New Bern just in time for the 7:30 P.M. opening next Saturday night. The rally will be purely a spiritual, inspirational occasion.

From the eight hundred visiting preachers coming from neighboring states to do the preaching for the United Evangelistic Mission, the New Bern District Rally will have as speaker Reverend Hubert L. Spell of Central Methodist Church, Newberry, South Carolina. Reverend Spell is very active in youth work in South Carolina. Attending the Rally with the youth will be all the preachers and U.E.M. visiting preachers in the New Bern District. Reverend Russell said he expected the Rally would afford a real challenge to the youth for a deeper dedication to Christ and fuller service in his church.

Perry To Appear As Guest Artist

George E. Perry, organist of the East Carolina College music faculty will appear Wednesday evening, April 15, as guest artist in a recital at Flora Macdonald College, Red Springs.

The program by the East Carolina organist is an exchange performance between musicians at the two colleges. John E. Williams of the Flora Macdonald faculty played at the college here March 24 before an appreciative audience from the campus and the city of Greenville.

For his program at Flora Macdonald Mr. Perry will play four groups of numbers. Selections include two Bach numbers, Samuel Barber's "Adagio for Strings," "Toccata for the Elevation" by Frescobaldi, and other works by noted composers of organ music.

PLYMOUTH ANNOUNCES HY-DRIVE

the newest, smoothest NO-SHIFT DRIVING in the lowest-priced field!

Drive without shifting! Drive with new smoothness! Drive with Plymouth's sensationally new HY-DRIVE! Nothing new to learn—HY-DRIVE makes driving easier than ever! Plymouth's new HY-DRIVE is available now for the 1953 Plymouth of your choice—at the lowest cost of any no-shift unit in the lowest-priced field!

HY-DRIVE is easy to use! Start the engine with the lever in neutral. Simply move the lever into high, and you're in HY-DRIVE! In traffic, starting or stopping, cross-town or cross-country, HY-DRIVE lets you drive without shifting—just brake or accelerate!

HY-DRIVE starts smooth, stays smooth! From standstill to cruising, there's never a lurch or jerk as your speed increases; no lagging engine action. When your toe says "go," you're off and away with HY-DRIVE'S fast, powerful response!

HY-DRIVE takes to the hills! No need for a long running start. Just feed more gas; HY-DRIVE instantly provides the extra power your car needs to take steep grades without slowing down. HY-DRIVE also gives you braking action coming down a hill.

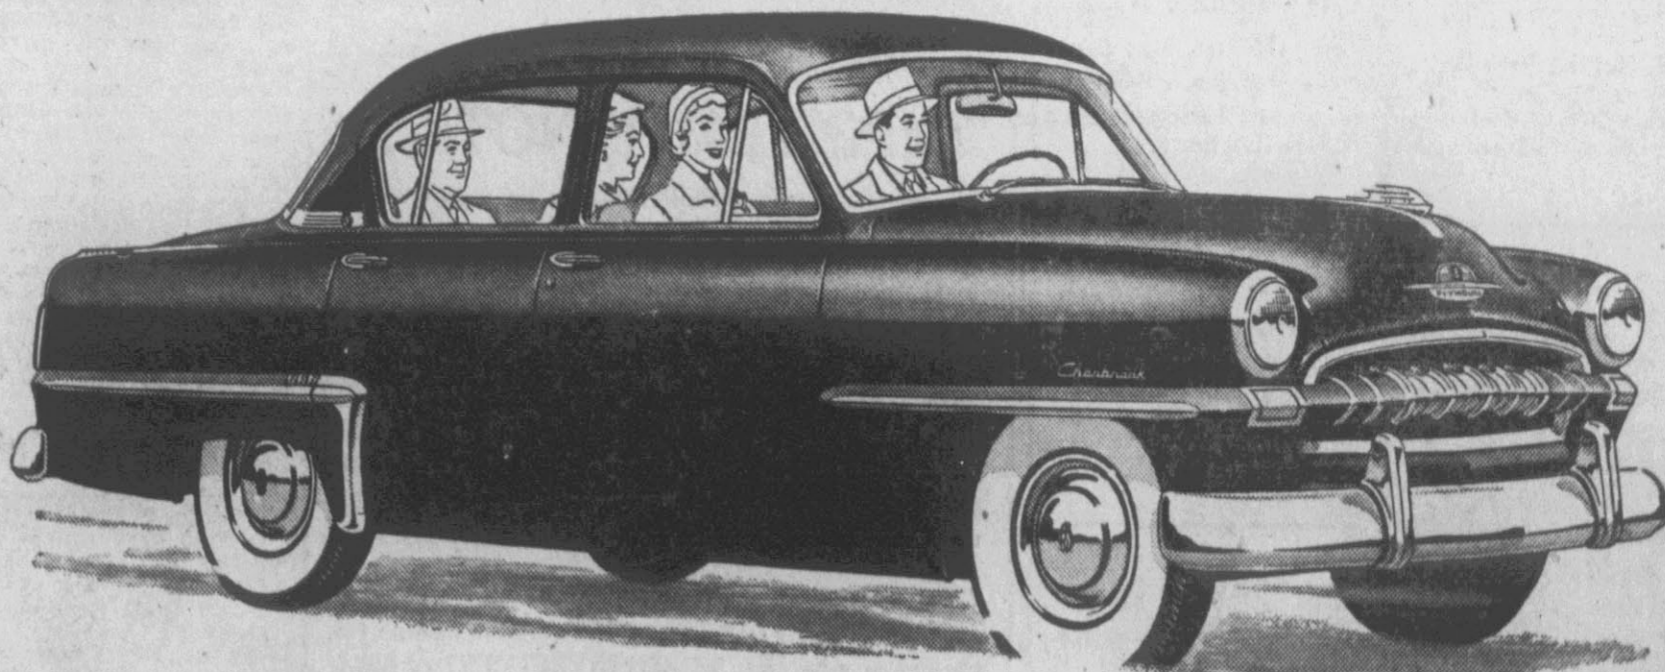

Stay where you stop with HY-DRIVE. On an upgrade like this HY-DRIVE lets you keep your hands on the wheel, your foot on the accelerator. There's no need to use the parking brake—just speed up your engine a trifle to offset the backward pull of the slope.

Feel fresh, all day long, with HY-DRIVE! It takes so little effort to drive with HY-DRIVE. There's no "traffic fatigue" from continually working up and down through conventional gears. You drive with new ease, new sureness, and HY-DRIVE saves your energy!

HY-DRIVE gives you better control. Because HY-DRIVE applies power to the rear wheels smoothly, you get better traction on icy, wet or slippery streets. For rocking out of deep mud or snow, your low and second gears are there, with the normal clutch control.

Plymouth's new HY-DRIVE is an advanced torque converter development; a simple, self-contained unit that never needs adjustment, special care, or expensive upkeep. Your nearby Plymouth dealer invites you to drive a new Plymouth equipped with new HY-DRIVE—to see for yourself how much HY-DRIVE smoothness and ease will add to your driving pleasure. Why not see him today?

Managers Optimistic About Team Chances

By UNITED PRESS
Here's what the major league managers say about 1953:

Casey Stengel, Yankees: "We have an excellent chance to make it five straight."

Paul Richards, White Sox: "New York and Cleveland figure strongest, but I think we can be considered in that class."

Al Lopez, Indians: "We look a lot better this year. Our pitching is still the best. Watch Bobby Feller for a comeback."

Lou Boudreau, Red Sox: "With a lot of youngsters and a flock of veterans whose durability is unknown, most anything can happen to us this year."

Jimmy Dykes, Athletics: "We are still slow, but we have more power. I think we can finish third."

Bucky Harris, Senators: "I like my first line club but I can't stand an injury."

Fred Hutchinson, Tigers: "We're aiming to get out of the cellar."

Marty Marion, Browns: "If our pitching comes through, maybe the other teams will be sorry."

National League
Charley Dressen, Dodgers: "The same four clubs will fight it out this year—Brooklyn, Philadelphia, New York and St. Louis."

Leo Durocher, Giants: "I'm satisfied. What pleases me most is the way Monte Irvin has been rapping the ball."

Eddie Stanky, Cardinals: "I'm optimistic about our pitching and there's a good chance we'll have more power in our attack."

Steve O'Neill, Phils: "We have three great pitchers in Robin Roberts, Curt Simmons and Karl Drews. They can win 70."

Phil Cavaretta, Cubs: "Our pitching should be excellent and the catching much stronger. But we're uncertain down the middle."

Rogers Hornsby, Reds: "Our team will be the most improved in the National League."

Charley Grimm, Braves: "We're much stronger offensively and defensively in center field and better on attack at first base."

Fred Haney, Pirates: "I'm thinking in terms of respectability."

Rising Young Welterweight Ran From First Fight

By OSCAR FREALEY
United Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (UP)—Young Gerry Dreyer ran away from the first fight in which he was involved.

Ever since then he has been running to them. And already it has paid off with the welterweight championship of the British Empire and, he hopes, eventually with the world title.

The deadpan, 23-year-old blond from Pretoria, South Africa, takes his next step forward Friday night when he tackles Tex Gonzalez, a young club fighter from Orange, N. J., in the week's television special.

"Eventually, I hope for a shot at Kid Gavilan for the title," he explains.

All of which, plus the Olympic flyweight title in 1948, he credits to that first fight. If he hadn't turned tail in that one, Gerry still might be a clerk or a salesman, two jobs at which he tried his hand.

"But I was so disgusted with myself after I ran away from that first fight," he recalls. "I decided that I was going to learn how to box well."

How well he learned may be observed from his record. Dreyer had 78 amateur bouts and won 71 of them. The culmination was his victory in the 1948 Olympic games, in which he won international lightweight honors.

There are some who feel that this puts a jinx on him. Because only one Olympic champion, Fidel LaBarba, has been able to go on from there and win a professional championship. LaBarba capped the Olympic flyweight title at Paris in 1924 and three years later won the pro crown.

Dreyer, whose hobby is crossword puzzles and who plays a mean game of tennis—is a fighter?—is a natural welterweight who stands five-feet, nine-and-one-half inches and is a combination boxer-puncher.

He has won 12 straight fights in the United States and took out last year to go back to South Africa and beat Cliff Curvis for the Empire championship.

One turning pro he has fought 33 bouts—and dropped only one

Judy Ballance, Tommy Scott Win Marbles Championships

Judy Ballance and Tommy Scott are Greenville's 1953 marbles champions.

The two won the titles in their respective divisions Saturday morning in elimination matches at the Training School. Judy defeated Marie Gibbs for the girls title and Tommy came out on top in the boys division which had five finalists.

Scott will represent Greenville at the state marbles tournament in Burlington in early May with Tyrone Powers, runner-up in the boys division. Tyrone won the right to make the trip when he defeated the girls champion in a special playoff series.

This is the second championship for the 11-year-old Judy. Representing the Third Street School where she is a sixth grade student, she won the title last year, too.

Scott was winning his first championship. He, too, is from the Third Street School where he is a fourth-grade student.

Powers got into the tournament as the representative of the Brookgreen School where the Brookgreen champion, Bobby Mercer, was found to be too old. He was the only left-hander in the tournament and carried Scott to the limit before finally losing out.

Judy had little trouble in winning the title in her division. In a best-two-out-of-three series with Marie, the Third Street champion went to work quickly and the Catholic School representative hardly had a chance to get her nerves settled before she was out of the competition.

In the boys division, Scott had to get past Powers, Danny Parkinson, and James Thompson. Douglas McRoy, the Catholic School champion, forfeited his finals matches. Parkinson, posed the most serious threat to Scott and Powers in the early matches after Thompson, the West Greenville champ, had been eliminated in the first round.

The matches played in a regulation-sized ring with 13 marbles used by the players. The series called for a match winner to be declared as soon as one of the players got seven of the 13 marbles. All of the matches were played under the rules used in the state championship matches.

George McMillan of the Recreation Department directed the school and city tournaments.

Elon's Christians, last year's champions, vaulted into the lead in the North State Conference's Eastern Division last week with victories over East Carolina and Atlantic Christians.

The Christians, who only got into season's play against a league foe last Friday, went to work quickly to take over the lead from the Pirates. They edged East Carolina 3-2 Friday afternoon and then turned loose an 18-hit assault to swamp Atlantic Christian Saturday afternoon.

Gulford, another Eastern team that has been having some trouble with hitting, found a bushel of it in walloping High Point 13-3 in another game played during the past week.

Action in the five-team division will step up considerably this week with nine games scheduled. Elon will put its first-place position on the line four times—twice against Gulford and twice against Atlantic Christian—while the Pirates will be playing three contests. East Carolina will meet High Point in Greenville on Wednesday and then travel to Gulford and High Point for games on Friday and Saturday.

The week's schedule:
Monday: Gulford at Elon.
Tuesday: High Point at Atlantic Christian.
Wednesday: High Point at East Carolina, Elon at Gulford.
Thursday: No baseball scheduled.
Friday: Atlantic Christian at High Point, East Carolina at Gulford.
Saturday: East Carolina at High Point, Atlantic Christian at Elon (2).

Hero To Heel, In One Quick Step

ATLANTA (UP)—Emil Tellingier, who maneuvers his 240 pounds around the Birmingham outfield, today felt small enough to hide under home plate, but he had learned that the boos often follow the bows.

The six-foot four-inch slugger, just out of the service, went the route from hero to heel in a few hectic minutes at the plate yesterday as New Orleans dropped Birmingham, 9 to 5.

His had been a rosy picture just two short days ago after making a "dream debut" back into baseball. Tellingier almost single-handedly gave the Barons an opening-night victory with two big doubles and a home-run that staved off certain defeat.

Last night, however, was a completely different story. The hulking Tellingier had two big chances to endear himself even further with Birmingham fans, but a fate similar to "Casey's" befell him.

A speedy New Orleans relief pitcher, Dick Manville, doled out the "fate," by fanning Tellingier once with the bases full and then again with two men aboard. A good single would have tied the game both times.

Manville handled most of the Barons with the same ease, however, as he cut off a Birmingham rally in the fifth inning and then doled out only one run in the remaining four frames.

Birmingham was supposed to have a chance to get even, but the second game was postponed because of rain after one inning—and much to the Barons' delight, as the Pels had hopped off to a quick 3-to-0 lead.

Rain also took care of the scheduled double-header between Chattanooga and Memphis. It left the Lookouts on top of the Southern Association with two wins in as many tries.

In the other two scheduled twin-bills, the teams divided things up. Mobile dropped Atlanta in the opener of a double-go, 9 to 2, but the Crackers took the short night-cap, which was halted because of darkness after five innings, 10 to 4.

Likewise, Nashville clipped Little Rock, 5 to 1, in a first game, but the Travs won 3 to 1 in a short second game, halted by darkness after six.

Mobile's Mel Himes, with some timely relief from Wally Hood, brought a halt to Atlanta's two-game winning streak with a five-hit mound performance. The Bears backed him up with a dozen blows.

In the short second go, Atlanta got its big guns working again and Jack Parks led a 10-hit attack with his second homer of the young season.

Nashville's Norman Fox twirled a six-hitter as the Vols claimed an opener from Little Rock. Fox blanked the Travs for eight innings and had 10 hit support, including a round tripper by Bob Boring.

Little Rock's Eddie March duplicated the trick in the second game to give the Travs a win. March doled out five scattered blows while Little Rock made the very most out of four hits. Bob Lemmon collected his second homer of the season for Nashville.

Scoring Mistake Costs First Money

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UP)—Patty Berg, bemoaning the scoring mistake that cost her top prize money in the Phoenix lap of the Weather-vane Open, moved to San Francisco today with a field of 12 women professional golfers for the third lap of the tourney.

Miss Berg, of St. Andrews, Ill., finished in a tie for first Sunday with Louise Suggs, of Atlanta, Ga., after she mistakenly marked an eagle on the par-five sixth hole as a four. It should have been a three.

Tournament officials said United States Golf Association rules require the highest score on a contestant's card be considered official.

IMPORTANT NOTICE

We are looking for reliable parties, men or women, who want to operate a chain of new coin merchandising machines. WE WILL SECURE LOCATIONS FOR YOU and set you up in business. Hogan Almost Perfect In Masters Victory

By WILLIAM TUCKER
United Press Sports Writer
AUGUSTA, Ga. (UP)—Ben Hogan, who believes that golf is 70 per cent brains and 30 per cent execution, came as close to the perfect 100 per cent blend today as the game has ever seen with his 14-under-par triumph in the Masters Tournament.

No man has duplicated Bobby Jones' title exploits because Jones remained an amateur until he won them all. But Hogan, an ex-caddy who had to scramble for his fortune, has set sensational records in the two greatest medal play titles in this country if not the world—the U. S. Open and the Masters.

In both events, Hogan cracked the marks set by Ralph Guldahl, the brilliant pro who flashed fleetingly across the record books in the '30's.

Guldahl set the Masters record in 1939 with a 279 for the four rounds. In 1937 he shot a 281 to win the Open.

Hogan blasted Guldahl's Open mark in 1948 just before Ben's bad auto wreck and nobody has threatened that score. He came home in a 69 Sunday for a 274 total to trim Guldahl's Masters mark by five strokes and win the 17th Masters Tournament by the same margin over ill-starred Ed (Porky) Oliver, the perpetual runner-up.

"Yes, this was the best I've ever played," said the 40-year-old Hogan, who has laid off the circuit tournaments since last summer.

He was receiving congratulations in the Trophy Room at the Augusta National club, where President Eisenhower arrives Tuesday for his own week of golf. Bobby Jones and such other great past champions as Horton Smith, Craig Wood and Gene Sarazen were standing around as golf's new all-time scoring champion reviewed his historic performance.

He called his 270-yard tee shot on the 13th hole of the final round the greatest shot of his career. The curving wallop took him around the angle of a dog leg and enabled him to go for the green and get a birdie to send him under par for the first time in the final round although he had cancelled two birdies on the way out.

"I figured then I was in," he said.

He wasn't content, however, to merely beat Oliver and set a new record. He set one to stand against time by birdying the 18th and unbelievably birdied the 18th with a 10-foot putt to go himself one better. There was nobody else to shoot at.

Hogan had some good news for his links rivals, though—he said he would plague them in only four more tournaments this year.

The bantam Texan said the only tournaments he will appear in this year will be the Pan-American Open at Mexico City in May, the Greenbrier Tournament in West Virginia, the Colonial Invitational in Fort Worth, Tex., in May, and the U. S. Open at Pittsburgh in June.

Pirates Had Best Training Record

NEW YORK (UP)—It may look like a trick done with mirrors, but the final records showed today that the Pittsburgh Pirates had the best spring training record of any major-league baseball team.

The National League's cellar club, picked to finish down in the basement again this season, won its final exhibition game of the year Sunday, 8-5, over the Washington Senators and thereby posted a gaudy 12-7 record for a winning percentage of .632 against all types of opposition.

There are, of course, two "gimmicks" in the Pirate record: 1. They played only 19 games, which is from six to 17 less than any other club; and 2. They played 11 of those games against a Havana team called the "Cuban All-Stars" and only five against other major league teams.

The Chicago White Sox, who played 36 games for the largest total, were second in total record with 23 wins and 14 losses for .611, followed by the Senators with 17-11 for .607.

All of those Senator games were against major league teams, so the men of Bucky Harris boasted the best win percentage against major league opposition. The Pirates sneaked in Detroit here with 3-2 for .600, while Detroit was third with 13-9 for .591 and Brooklyn fourth with 17-13 for .567.

Republican Will Get To Pitch

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Republicans, who have had a man warming up in the bullpen for 20 years, got their big baseball chance today as the New York Yankees faced the Washington Senators in the opening game of the season.

For the first time since 1932, when President Hoover performed the chore, a GOP pitcher had the honor of throwing out the ceremonial first ball inaugurating the new major league season. Not the No. 1 man, to be sure, but a Republican—Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

The California right-hander was tapped for the first relief job of the season when President Eisenhower begged off with regrets. Mr. Eisenhower couldn't do the pitching, he said, because he will be playing golf at Augusta, Ga. But he promised to pitch one later.

After his one pitch, Nixon turns the pitching over to the pro—Yankee ace Allie Reynolds (20-8) and Washington's Bob Porterfield (13-14), both right handers.

This was the first Washington baseball opener a President has missed since World War II. Mr. Eisenhower's absence also marks the first time since the presidential pitching custom was started in 1910 by Republican William Howard Taft that a chief executive has passed up the pitching honors in his first year in the White House.

First Big Timer For Ex-Olympian

NEW YORK (UP)—Unbeaten Floyd Patterson of New York, a 1952 Olympic boxing champion, draws the first big-time match of his pro career tonight when he steps into the Eastern Parkway Arena ring in Brooklyn against Dick Wagner of Toppensish, Wash.

Patterson, a 19-year-old slugger hailed by many experts as a "future champion," has fought five times as a pro since winning the Olympic middleweight crown last summer and he's won all five

'Too Much Talk' About '56 Olympics

MEXICO CITY (UP)—Avery Brundage of Chicago, president of the International Olympic Committee, said today there has been "entirely too much talk" about taking the 1956 summer games away from Melbourne, Australia, because of its failure to prepare for the event.

"It's a little premature at this point to comment on whether the committee will decide to move the games from Melbourne because of lack of facilities. First, we have to find out what the facts really are from the Australian delegates who will attend the meeting," Brundage said.

U.S. FAMILIES...SIZE AND NUMBERS

Big Firm Began With $60 Loan

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (U.P.)—This is the centennial year of the Bausch and Lomb Co., world's leading manufacturer of optical goods, which was founded on a $60 loan and the mutual trust between two young German immigrants.

It was in 1853 that a lensmaker, John Jacob Bausch, borrowed $60 from his friend, Henry Lomb, to help preserve his ailing optical shop here. They never had a written agreement. Bausch and Lomb now has 8,000 employees, several plants and assets of $43,000,000.

Bausch came here in 1849, a youth of 19. A lack of demand for spectacles forced him to work as a cook and carpenter at $1 a day. Subsequently a bus saw cut two fingers and during his recuperation he decided to establish an optical shop.

With lenses, magnifiers and frames shipped from Germany, he opened a tiny store in downtown Rochester, but there wasn't much of a demand for eyeglasses and the going was rough.

Once, while walking, Bausch stumbled on a piece of hard rubber. From the incident came the hard rubber frames for glasses, a useful replacement for the brittle horn frames. In 1866, Bausch invented the first power lens grinding machine in the United States.

Eight years later, Bausch's son, Edward, assured the company success by developing the microscope. It was soon in full production.

His School Fills Cookie Demand

NEW YORK (AP)—Sgt. Thomas C. Cooper of the First Marine Division in Korea was hungry for cookies. Remembering the home economics department of his new York High School, he wrote to the superintendent of schools.

Now 2,500 cookies are on their way to the sergeant. They were made by the students of Wallon High School. Seven cooking classes each baked 10 batches of cookies, varying the recipes with chocolate, nuts, lemon and other good things. School funds paid the $45 postage.

Just to make sure the sergeant will not try to eat all 2,500, they put an alternative address to "company commander" on each package.

Husband, Wife 'Duel' With Car

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—An automobile was the weapon in a battle between a 24-year old woman and her estranged husband.

The woman told police she went to see her husband to talk things over. They quarreled and he bumped in his car to drive away. Her dress caught in the door and part of it ripped when the car moved. Then the man backed up and tried to run over her. Finally he got out of the car, she leaped in and tried to run over him. But he, too, was a good dodger.

Hero Of Philippines Seeking Presidency

By GENE SYMONS
United Press Staff Correspondent
MANILA (UP)—Ramon Magsaysay, "the Eisenhower of the Philippines," sought the presidency of this young republic today as the candidate of the Nacionalista Party.

The tough 45-year-old nemesis of the once powerful Communist-led Hukbalahap guerrillas won the party's nomination Sunday night after a full day of speeches and martial music.

Magsaysay, former defense minister in President Elpidio Quirino's cabinet, swamped his only opponent, Sen. Camilo Osias, by a 706 to 49 vote.

Sweating crowds in the Manila Hotel cheered as Magsaysay pledged a vigorous campaign up to election day next November. Sen. Carlos Garcia was picked as Magsaysay's running mate.

Magsaysay expected to oppose Quirino, who already has been promised the Liberal Party nomination.

Magsaysay was Quirino's top troubleshooter until last Feb. 28, when he quit as defense minister in a quarrel with the president over land reform.

He had proposed expropriating large estates and parceling them out to farmers as a measure to combat Communism. Quirino balked, warning it would bankrupt the government.

Magsaysay then resigned, announcing he could no longer serve the best interests of the people under the circumstances.

He went over to the Nacionalista Party, headed nominally by Sen. Jose Laurel, wartime president whom Quirino defeated in the 1949 elections.

Magsaysay often has been called the "Eisenhower of the Philippines" because like the president of the United States, he has enjoyed great popularity.

As defense minister in command of Philippine troops he snapped the spine of the treacherous Huk, an organized band of killers and marauders, with words and action.

Magsaysay himself was a guerrilla during the Japanese occupation. Following the war he was elected to the House of Representatives, an office he held until Quirino made him defense minister.

Large Cast Taking Part In Dramatic Club's Play

More than twenty-five student members of the Teachers Playhouse of East Carolina College will appear in roles famous in story and ballad when the dramatic club presents this month as its annual play for school children Owen Davis' "Robin Hood, or the Merry Outlaws of Sherwood Forest."

Douglas Mitchell, Greenville freshman, will have the title role of Robin Hood, and Ann McCrary, sophomore from Durham, will play Lady Marian. David Lee of Taboro, as Little John; C. Poe Moorring of Snow Hill, as Friar Tuck; Ralph Rives of Enfield, as the Sheriff of Nottingham; and Percy Wilkins of Benson, as Guy of Gisborne, are cast in other important roles familiar in the Robin Hood Legend.

The drama for children will be given in eight performances during the period of April 16-24. Five of these, presented for school children of Pitt County, will be staged in the College Theatre, and one at the Eppes School in Greenville. Two performances on April 24 will be given in Kinston. Several thousand people are expected to attend.

Dr. Lucile H. Charles of the faculty, director of dramatic arts at the college, is director of "Robin Hood." The Greenville Chapter of the American Association of University Women, sponsor of the annual children's play for the past several years, is again cooperating with the Teachers Playhouse in this year's production.

Members of the cast include also Charles Bedford, Pikeville; Thomas Pierce, Rocky Mount; Andrew Meador, Norfolk, Va.; Billy Canady, Clarendon; Ruth Lassiter, Four Oaks; Peggy Barfield, Ayden; Kenneth Bordeaux, Mt. Olive; and others who have minor roles.

Italians See 'Ghost' Of Mussolini Taking Shape.

By PHIL NEWSOM
United Press Foreign News Editor
Mussolini's ghost is stalked through Italian politics, gaining shape and substance every day. The former dictator's Fascist policies today are being carried forward by the neo-Fascist MSI (Italian social movement) party. And the men who helped create and uphold Fascism in Italy for 20 years are back in the news as candidates in the June 7 parliamentary elections.

Between them and the Communists, Premier Alcide de Gasperi may have some trouble. De Gasperi and his Christian Democrats rule by virtue of a coalition of center parties opposing Fascism on the extreme right and Communism on the left.

It was to strengthen this hold on the government by the center parties that the Italian parliament recently voted to change Italy's election law. Under the new law, the party or group of parties winning a majority of popular votes automatically gets 330 out of the 500 seats in the Chamber of Deputies, or 64 per cent.

Now, however, unforeseen complications have arisen. Strengthening the Communists' hand has been the Moscow "peace offensive."

Italian political leaders admit that the "peace offensive" will reduce Italian voters' fear of Russian aggression, while at the same time Italy's home-grown Communists attempt to increase their popularity by demands for widespread wage increases. De Gasperi's coalition lost ground both to the right and the left in municipal elections during the last year, and further losses could be serious.

An apparent government oversight helped the Fascists. For five years the so-called "Nazi law" had banned them from important government posts, espe-

Home Ec Clubs In State Colleges Plan Workshop

Members of the College Clubs Division of the North Carolina Home Economics Association will hold their eighth annual workshop at East Carolina College Friday and Saturday, April 17 and 18.

Approximately a hundred delegates from seventeen North Carolina colleges and junior colleges are expected to attend. Schools represented will be Appalachian, Campbell, Catawba, East Carolina, Elon, Flora Macdonald, Gardner-Webb, Greensboro, High Point, Meredith, Pembroke, Pfeiffer, Queens, Salem, Warren Wilson, Woman's College, and Western Carolina.

Anne Moore of Turkey, East Carolina student, is president of the organization. Other officers are Betsy Rea of Appalachian, vice president; Patsy Teer of Flora Macdonald, secretary; Virginia Mumford of Mars Hill, treasurer; and Celia Wood of Meredith, reporter.

Program events planned for the meeting include a presentation Friday night by the East Carolina Home Economics Club of the skit "Ellen H. Richards' Challenge," written by Gwendola Williams of Oakboro and based on the career of a pioneer home economist.

Speakers who will participate in the workshop program include Dean Leo W. Jenkins of East Carolina and Catherine T. Dennis, vice president of the American Home Economics Association. Dean Jenkins will talk Friday morning at 9 o'clock on "Our Responsibility in Home and Family Living." As principal speaker at a dinner meeting Saturday, Miss Dennis will discuss "Looking to the Future in Home Economics."

Business conducted during the workshop will include installation of new officers. East Carolina students will be hostesses Saturday at a tea in honor of visitors.

Greensboro College To Install President

Dr. Harold Hutson will be formally installed as president of Greensboro College on April 16, in Odell Auditorium. The induction will culminate a three-day conference at the college. Speakers for the occasion will be Bishop Paul N. Garber, Richmond Area, the Methodist Church, and Dean Ernest Cadman Colwell of Emory University. Pictured above, left to right, are Bishop Garber, Dr. Hutson and Dr. Colwell. The background picture is the Main Building at Greensboro College.

Labor-Management Field To See 'Disturbed' Period

Here is a thoughtful report on the labor-management relations outlook in the United States by one of the country's foremost consultants on management problems, Peter F. Drucker. His recent book, "The New Society," was a study of "Big business and big union."

By H. D. QUIGG
United Press Staff Correspondent
MONTCLAIR, N. J. (UP)—Disturbed years lie ahead for big unions and big management alike, Peter F. Drucker, author and industrial management consultant, told the United Press today.

Replying to questions about the American labor-management outlook, Drucker predicted unrest within the labor movement itself and, on the part of industry, a tremendous demand for skilled and trained workers.

He ventured this 10-year forecast:
1. There will be a complete turnover in union leadership. The fight for succession to the old guard leadership now dying out will be violent "because there is no group in which politics is more personal, intense and vicious than in the union."
2. Barring further major inflation, unions will not gain much in wage rates. They will meet stiff resistance from management and also from public opinion on the wage front, but they will turn on the pressure for the guaranteed annual wage, pensions, and new forms of health insurance.

It might save time. At the hour when this is being written that is still an open matter. Development of the past three or four days make adjournment of this General Assembly before the second week in May very doubtful.

RUBBER STAMP—Several legislators have manifested resentment at being called rubber stamps, or at being expected to take what a committee hands them without questioning the merits of the measure. Furthermore, all the amendments to the bond bills must now be debated in full in the House, and then again in the Senate since not even the committee members know what they contain—unless a majority of the full membership does rubber stamp them for approval. It is technically possible for the bond bills to pass third reading in the House on Tuesday and in the Senate on Friday, but it is highly improbable. More likely it will take a week in each branch.

Capitol Square

a favorable report as written—with a very material proviso. That action was being taken simply to get the bills to the floor of the House, and it was stipulated that no member of the committee would be bound to support the committee's favorable report, but would be free to oppose all or any part of the bills and to send up any amendments desired, whether the House chose to consider the bill in regular session or a committee of the whole House.

TIME SAVER—Action of the committee was admittedly taken in the interest of saving time. Chairman W. B. Rodman and other administration leaders ought to make it clear they were not trying to railroad anything. The thought was that most of the argument by the committee would be repeated on the floor of the House. Several committee members doubted that the device would actually save time. Some of them thought that if the matter could be threshed out in committee and the report made to the floor for full session debate had unanimous backing of the finance committee

Claims Bulgaria Is Weakest Link In Red Satellites

WASHINGTON (UP)— Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia believes that Bulgaria is the Communist satellite state most likely to follow his example in breaking away from Soviet domination, it was revealed today.

In a copyrighted interview with U. S. News & World Report Magazine, Tito said Bulgaria is the weakest point in the Soviet satellite system in Eastern Europe, with Czechoslovakia running a close second.

Despite recent "peace overtures" by the new regime in the Kremlin, Tito said, "I just do not believe this 'cold war' will come to an end now."
"It will continue in other forms and not on any one front or on any one question," he explained. "It will be waged on many issues which they consider of primary importance to them. To wage cold war, they will try to hold on to the countries they now have as instruments of that cold war."

He said the thing for the West to do now is to "wait for a while and see how things develop in Moscow."
Tito said he would not call Malenkov "just a front-man," but added he was certain that "these new men do not want to have all power concentrated in the hands of one of their number."

HOLDING ITS OWN
HARTFORD, Conn. (UP)— The U. S. Department of Labor reported Connecticut was one of the few big industrial states that did not suffer a loss in industrial employment between 1951 and 1952.

ed to develop a predictable employment and income plan to satisfy the unions' guaranteed annual wage pressure.

"This is one area where management cannot afford to handle labor relations the way it usually handles them—that is, by first saying no to whatever the union demands and then caving in and accepting some compromise. "To unions: The biggest need is the systematic finding and developing of tomorrow's leaders. The scarcity of potential leaders is frightening. We have practically no people who have been schooled for union leadership in the fairly stable and fairly generally accepted labor movement of today."

Attract Many Visitors Kinston Antique Show Will

(Advertisement)
Antique dealers, from the New England states to Florida, and London, England, will exhibit in the Kinston Antiques Show at Hotel Kinston ball-room and mezzanine, April 13, 14, 15, Monday through Wednesday. The three-day event is sponsored by the Kinston Women's Club and is under the management of the McSwain Antique House of Albemarle, N. C.

Dealers are bringing their largest and most interesting collections and many new dealers will exhibit for the first time. Dealers and collectors will attend the show from all points to purchase stock for their shops and homes. Some of the dealers have recently returned from a European trip and will show many interesting items. There will be fine old furniture, blown and early pressed glass, Meissen and Dresden china, Gironde, silver ewerglases with Waterford crystal holders, gold leaf mirrors, sets of china from France, England and Germany and something to please everyone.

Hours will be from 11:00 a.m. to 10:00 p.m. daily. A handsome door prize will be given away each day at 3:30 o'clock and again at 9:30 Wednesday night.

More people drive FORD V-8's than all other V-8's combined

AND IT'S STILL THE ONLY V-8 IN THE LOW-PRICE FIELD! No other engine in the world has enjoyed so much popularity as Ford's power-packed high-compression V-8. Today, 4 out of every 5 V-8's are Ford V-8's. And while other makers are scrambling to catch up, Ford and Ford alone offers a V-8 in the low-price field... and for hundreds of dollars less than most sixes.

FORD'S V-8 IS THE SAME TYPE OF ENGINE AMERICA'S COSTLIEST CARS ARE SWINGING TO!

Six more makers in the last five years alone have switched to V-8 power in their most expensive models. Yet Ford's been offering this same type of V-8 power for over 20 years! What's more, Ford gives you your choice of Fordomatic, Overdrive or Conventional Drive—the widest choice of drives in the low-price field!

FORD'S V-8 GIVES MORE "GO" PER GALLON!

Whether you choose Ford's 110-h.p. V-8 or the 101-h.p. Mileage Maker Six, your engine lives on a lean diet. For both offer the gas savings of Ford's exclusive Automatic Power Pilot which squeezes the last drop of power out of every drop of gas... "regular" at that! See and Value Check all 41 of Ford's "Worth More's" and you'll agree Ford's worth more when you buy it, worth more when you sell it.

Charge Dropped In Special Plea

A 47-year-old man was charged with housebreaking and drunkenness last night after he was found in bed with a young child.

Chief of Police S. G. Gibbs stated this morning that George S. Turner, 47, was arrested last night in the home of Wyatt Brown on Dickinson Avenue around ten o'clock.

Lodged in city jail overnight he was held under a $1,000 bond for the house breaking charge.

Investigating officer Lt. M. E. Corbett said that the man told them he thought that he was at his room in a local rooming house which is located a short distance from the Brown house.

He had gotten in a bed which was occupied by one of Brown's small children, where he was discovered. He was held in the house by Brown until police arrived.

However this morning on a plea from Brown, the housebreaking charge was dropped and only the drunkenness charge taken into court.

Interrupts Meal To Shoot Gunman

CHICAGO (UP)—A Chicago policeman interrupted his early morning breakfast today to kill a 28-year-old gunman who tried to rob a restaurant.

Patrick Sullivan was in the restaurant before reporting for work when Harry Lucas threatened a waitress with a knife.

Sullivan heard Lucas say, "This is a stickup" to the waitress. He hit the would-be bandit on the head. Sullivan said Lucas reached in his pocket as if for a gun and the policeman shot him.

Lucas had taken $12 from the cash register.

One Person Injured In Weekend Series Of Highway Accidents

One person was injured as the result of week-end accidents in Pitt County. The Highway Patrol reported today.

Mrs. Barbara A. Griffin was treated at Pitt Memorial Hospital for head injuries received when an automobile in which she was riding overturned on the New Bern Highway yesterday afternoon.

Investigating officers Cpl. C. E. Whitfield and Jim Davis listed the driver of the car as James L. Griffin, 27 of Scranton in Hyde County.

According to the driver's statement he pulled out on the left side of the car in front of him attempting to pass when spray from the car covered his windshield and caused his car to run off the road and go into a skid, overturning, landing back on all four wheels.

The car skidded for 114 feet in overturning and then skidded for 57 additional feet, turning completely around in the road, Whitfield said.

No charges were made against the driver. An estimated $500 damage resulted to the vehicle.

A car operated by John Russell Horn, Negro, of Fountain, overturned last night around eight o'clock on a rural paved road near Seven Pines.

Patrolman Bruce H. Jackson reported today that as yet the driver of the car has not been located. Jackson quoted occupants in the car as saying that Horn had been in a cutting scrape around Fountain and had received cuts about the back.

He had been to the hospital to have his injuries taken care of and was enroute back to Fountain at the time of the accident.

Damage to the car was placed at $300 by Jackson.

Investigation of the accident is incomplete.

Two cars collided at the intersection of NC 903 and NC 33 yesterday afternoon around 5:30 causing moderate damage.

Patrolman James W. Boykin, investigating officer, listed the drivers as being Rufus Tyree Stokes, 33, of Stokes, and Charlie Smallwood Ruffin of Route 4, Greenville, Box 128, age 53.

Boykin stated that the car driven by Stokes was headed North on NC 33 pulling a boat on a trailer.

The car driven by Ruffin pulled into the rear of the Stokes car, then striking the trailer and boat.

Around $50 damage was reported to each car with the trailer being demolished. The boat was knocked from the trailer and was not damaged.

Ruffin was charged with failure to yield right of way.

Two cars collided near Winterville this morning when one driver stopped for a school bus in front of it and was struck in the rear by a truck.

Patrolman Jim Davis listed the drivers as being Charles E. Rountree, 36, of Baltimore and David H. Rivenbark, 27, of Route 2, Wallace.

The car driven by Rountree stopped for the school bus and was struck in the rear by the car operated by Rivenbark.

Damage to both the car and truck was placed at $700.

No injuries were reported and no charges made.

The accident occurred at 8:25 this morning at the city limits of Winterville.

More Than 3,000 Students To Attend ECC's High School Day

More than 3,000 students from high schools in North Carolina and Virginia are expected to participate in activities of High School Day Friday of this week, April 17, at East Carolina College.

A program crowded with events suited to the varied interests of visitors has been planned under the direction of Dr. Ed. J. Carter of the faculty, chairman of the High School Day committee at the college.

Performances of Garson Kamin's hit "Born Yesterday" by the Teachers Playhouse of the college and of Sigmund Romberg's opera "The Student Prince" by a cast of 150 students and the East Carolina Orchestra will be major attractions offered for the entertainment of visitors.

Music by the College Band, the College Choir, and the Varsity Glee Club will be a part of an assembly program Friday morning.

A parade by the college Air Force ROTC Wing of approximately 500 cadets will be staged on the campus during the morning. Lt. Col. Roger G. Fuller, professor of air science and tactics at East Carolina, will speak at the assembly program on the ROTC and its advantages to college students.

Athletic events will include a Northeastern Conference baseball game between the Greenville and the Elizabeth City high schools. During the afternoon the Aquatics Club at East Carolina will stage a continuous program of swimming, diving, and water sports at the pool in the Memorial Gymnasium.

At an afternoon fashion show sponsored by Home Economics students at the college, new spring styles for women will be modeled. A dance in the Wright building in honor of visitors has also been arranged. A barbecue luncheon will be served on the campus picnic grounds.

Departmental exhibitions will be open all day to give visitors an opportunity to observe work in their fields of special interest. An extensive display based on the biological and physical sciences will be offered by the department of science. Art students will have their work on view in the Austin building and the college library, and a display of materials of interest to foreign language students will also be shown. The departments of business education and industrial arts have planned to hold open house for visitors, and other departments are planning similar meetings.

Auto Mishaps Mar City Weekend; Boy Is Injured

A nine-year-old boy received cuts and bruises about the face yesterday when an automobile driven by his father collided with an electric light pole at Elizabeth and Third Street.

Injured was Charles W. Dunn Jr. of 1013 West Third Street, city.

According to the driver, Charles W. Dunn, 52, he was looking at his son who was riding in the back seat of the car and lost control of the car.

The car went onto the sidewalk and struck the pole, injuring the youth.

He was treated at Pitt Memorial Hospital and released.

Damage was estimated at $150. No charges were made. Investigation was made by J. B. Cannon.

Slight damage resulted when two cars collided at Fourth and Washington streets Sunday around six o'clock.

Investigating officer T. E. Gladson stated that a car driven by Charles A. Hollingsworth, 16, of Sunset Avenue, Greenville, collided with a car operated by Vernal Gaskins, 18, of Route 1, Winterville.

Damage to both cars was placed at $60.

Gladson said that the Gaskins car pulled from a service station and hit the Hollingsworth car.

No charges were made.

A car and truck crashed at Five Points this morning causing only slight damage, a police report shows. Investigating officer W. C. Flake listed the drivers as Alton Spain, 30, and Ollie R. Smith, 25, of Route 5, Greenville.

No charges were made and damage to both the car and truck was reported at $10.

Bundy Named To Demolay Council

W. J. Bundy of Greenville, solicitor for the Fifth Judicial District, has been informed of his election as an active member from North Carolina to the national Grand Council of the Order of Demolay.

Bundy received notice of his election as a full-fledged voting member of the Grand Council from Frank S. Land, secretary-general of the council and founder of the Order of Demolay. The solicitor was elected at the annual session of the Grand Council held at Tucson, Ariz.

Bundy has been serving as deputy councilor from North Carolina of the Masonic-sponsored order, but has been elevated to the position of full-fledged member of the council.

Long active in local and statewide Masonic circles, Bundy is a former master of the Greenville Masonic Lodge and past grand master of Masons in North Carolina.

CITY KEYS UNUSED

MERIDEN, Conn. (UP)—Rookie Patrolman Spencer Williams believes he's come up with a good use for the key to the city the mayor hands out now and then. He discovered on his rounds one night that the door to the City Hall had been left unlocked. Ditto, the tax collector's office.

Kiwanis Meet; Delegates Named

The Greenville Kiwanis Club at its weekly supper meeting last Friday night elected delegates and alternates to the 38th annual Kiwanis International Convention.

President Leo W. Jenkins and Secretary David C. Moore Jr. are delegates; R. E. Rogers and J. Frank Steinbeck, alternates. The convention will be held in Madison Square Garden June 21-25.

President Jenkins announced that Greenville Kiwanis Secretary David C. Moore Jr. was awarded the B. J. Holleman loving cup for being the outstanding secretary in the Carolinas Kiwanis District in 1952. The award was made at a meeting of nine clubs of Division 7 at Wilson last week.

The cup originally was presented by a Jacksonville Kiwanian in honor of Holleman, who was killed in an airplane accident while he was lieutenant-governor in 1950.

Herb Hennig of Darlington, S. C., a former district governor, presented the cup to the Greenville secretary.

George Perry presented Miss Ruth Lambie of the department of home economics at East Carolina College to the Greenville Kiwanians. She showed a travelogue motion picture she made while teaching at the University of Alaska.

Dr. James E. Poundexter had a birthday and contributed a dime for each year of his age to a Kiwanis fund.

Howard L. Hodges Jr., son of one of the early presidents of the local Kiwanis Club, was a special guest. Other guests were Frank Hemingway and Wayland Bass, Circle K members from East Carolina College.

Producer El Bloom announced that rehearsals are under way for the Kiwanis Spring Follies, to be presented at Austin auditorium on April 27, 28 and 29. Tickets are now on sale. The show is for the benefit of the Kiwanis underprivileged child fund.

Preparations Completed For Womanless Wedding

The stage was set today and advanced preparations in order for the Womanless Wedding tomorrow night sponsored by the Greenville Rotary club for the benefit of local Girl Scouts.

The wedding will be held in the Austin Auditorium on the East Carolina campus at 8 o'clock.

Leading the cast of more than 60 Rotarians who will participate in the wedding will be Phil Goodson as the bride, Phyllis Finkle Strong, and Alton Barrett as the groom, Archibald Hercules Week.

Other principals in the production will include Alton Johnston as the minister Rev. Rudolph O. Makepeace; Leon Roebuck as the best man Will Gregory Click; Dr. K. B. Pace as the Maid of Honor Kezzie Payne Week; J. Herbert Waldrop as the matron of honor Jess Overdue.

Tickets for the wedding are available from members of the Rotary at $1 each including tax.

Cashmoo; J. B. Kittrell, Jr. as the flower girl Little Miss Joy Trillium; and Ty Wagner as the ring bearer Tyrus Mercury Strong.

Other Rotarians appropriately dressed for the formal wedding will compose the array of bridesmaids, honorary bridesmaids, groomsmen, families of the bride and groom, visiting dignitaries, vocalists and others.

The director of the Womanless Wedding, J. B. Kittrell— alias Polly Sweetose Boykettle— said today everything is in readiness for the production. In the final rehearsal for the production will be held tonight following the weekly Rotary meeting, and the wedding in full finery will be presented tomorrow night.

No Inquest For Woman's Death

Mrs. Annice Forrest, 74, of 2507 South Dickinson Avenue, was found dead in bed at her home Saturday around noon, Coroner Griffin H. Rouse reported this morning.

The coroner stated that the deceased called a doctor approximately one hour before she was found dead. He surmised that death came from natural causes and no inquest will be held.
