Reserve Champion Last Year, Now Grand Champion New Honors For Belvoir Boy

By MURIEL SHOTWELL
Reflector Staff Writer

Last year's owner of the Reserve Champion steer today accepted the blue ribbon for owning the 1953 Grand Champion at the Third Annual Fat Stock Show and Sale being held at Farmers' Warehouse.

Robert Thomas, a member of the Belvoir Future Farmers of America Club, proudly exhibited his 800-pound steer after judges declared it as Grand Champion from a field of six steers. The youth last year owned the Reserve Champion.

A 945-pound steer, owned by R. I. Taylor Jr. of the Bethel Future Farmers of America Club, was declared Reserve Champion by the judges.

The Grand Champion and Reserve Champion were chosen from six steers who were placed as top winners in the light weight class, medium weight class, and heavy weight class. In presenting the Grand Champion and Reserve Champion winners, Judge H. W. Myrick explained briefly how the judges cast their decisions.

The two champions were chosen from steers owned by the following: Sonny Harrington, Ayden FFA, and Horton Jolly, Ayden FFA, both in the light weight class (600 to 750 pounds); Graydon Tripp, Winterville FFA, and Milton Worthington, Ayden FFA, both in the medium weight class (750 to 850 pounds); and Taylor and Thomas, both in the heavy weight class (850 pounds and up).

In the showmanship class, held after the choosing of the two champions, the following boys were winners: Horton Jolly, Ayden first; R. I. Taylor, Bethel, second; and Graydon Tripp, Winterville, third.

The three winners were chosen from five steers brought into the ring. Nine were first brought in but the field was narrowed down to five from which the three top winners were chosen.

Sale of the cattle began this afternoon at 1:30 with buyers bidding on the steers owned by 42 boys who are members of 4-H and FFA clubs in the county.

was sold to the Speight Seed Farm for an average of 42 cents per pound and the Reserve Champion was sold to Colonial Stores for an average of 55 cents per pound. Average price of the 63 sold last year brought $45.80 per hundred pounds.

Judges for the Fat Stock Show held this morning were H. W. Myrick of the state department of agriculture, Raleigh; A. D. Lassiter, also of the state department of agriculture; and N. W. Patterson, livestock specialist with the Atlantic Coastline Railroad, Rocky Mount.

Ringmasters for today's events were N. R. Wood of the FCX of Raleigh; A. F. Jessup, Carlsboro Feed, Rocky Mount; and Patterson, Auctioneer for the sale this afternoon is A. R. Howard, livestock specialist of the ACL, Wilmington.

A banquet for the exhibitors, buyers and guests will be held tonight with Al Proctor of the DuPont Company as speaker. Winners in the stock show will be recognized by D. H. Conley, superintendent of the county schools.

Challenges Russia To Lift Iron Curtain, Join In Disarmament

President Asks 'Proof' By Soviet

By MERRIMAN SMITH
United Press White House Writer

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower challenged Russia's new leaders today to prove their will for peace by ending the Korean war, lifting the Iron Curtain from satellite countries and joining a world disarmament pact that would outlaw atomic weapons.

He seized the diplomatic initiative from the Communists in a major foreign policy speech listing specific "deeds" the Russians can perform to demonstrate the sincerity of their recent peace talk.

He said the death of Soviet Premier Joseph Stalin has given his Kremlin successors "a precious chance to turn the black tide of events" sweeping the world toward atomic war, but warned that "we do not yet know" whether they mean to do it.

Mr. Eisenhower interrupted his golfing vacation at Augusta, Ga., and flew here to deliver the 3,500-word address before the American Society of Newspaper Editors. He planned to return to Augusta late this afternoon.

Diplomatic circles hailed the speech as a "momentous" declaration of the new administration's readiness to negotiate a just cold war settlement with Russia.

The main points of the broad U. S. policy he sketched were:

1. This country is ready to enter into a five-point world disarmament treaty providing for an outright ban on atomic weapons, definite limitations on the size of each nation's armed forces, and "a practical system of inspection under the United Nations" to enforce the rules.
2. If disarmament can be achieved, the United States will join other countries in setting up a "fund for world aid and reconstruction" out of billions saved on military preparations.
3. "The first great step" toward a general world settlement "must be the conclusion of an honorable armistice in Korea." This should be followed immediately by "political discussions leading to the holding of free elections in a united Korea."
4. A Korean truce "would be a fraud" unless the Communists simultaneously call off their aggression against Indo-China and Malaya. The Soviet attitude on this question will show whether the Communists seek "merely an expedient truce in Korea" or "genuine peace in Asia."

5. Russia can demonstrate good faith in Europe by (a) freeing Communist satellite countries to choose "their own forms of government"; (b) releasing "thousands of prisoners still held from World War II; and (c) agreeing to an Austrian peace treaty without further delay.

6. The United States is willing to work for a "united Germany, with a government based on free and secret elections." But the German problem cannot be separated from the broader question of lifting the Iron Curtain throughout Europe to open the way for "free movement of persons, of trade and of ideas."

Mr. Eisenhower said the whole world will be waiting to hear Russia's answer to these challenges, and asked that "whatever the answer be let it be plainly spoken."

"The hunger for peace is too great, the hour in history too late, for any government to mock men's hopes with mere words and promises and gestures," he said.

"The test of truth is simple. There can be no persuasion but by deeds."

He was cautiously hopeful that Russia may now be ready for peaceful deeds.

"A new leadership has assumed power in the Soviet Union. Its links to the past, however strong, cannot bind it completely. Its future is, in great part, its own to make."

He appealed to the new Khrushchev leaders to face the grim fact that there is no real hope for any nation unless the opposing powers halt their present atomic arms race.

"The worst to be feared and the best to be expected can be simply stated," he said. "The worst is atomic war. The best would be... a life of perpetual fear and tension, a burden of arms draining the wealth and labor of all peoples; a wasting of strength that defies the American system or the Soviet system or any system to achieve true abundance and happiness for the peoples of this earth."

"This is not a way of life at all... it is humanity hanging from a cross of iron."

He said "recent statements and gestures of Soviet leaders give some evidence that they may recognize the perils of continuing on the present road."

Will the new Soviet leaders grasp the "precious opportunity... to help turn the tide of history?" he asked.

"We do not yet know."

The least this country can do, Mr. Eisenhower said, is to make plain at this time its readiness to meet Russia half way in negotiating "a peace that is neither partial nor punitive."

"If we strive but fail, and the world remains armed against itself, it at least need be divided no longer in its clear knowledge of who has condemned humankind to this fate."

Mr. Eisenhower said the United States would "welcome" effective world disarmament, but made clear that any serious negotiations in this field must come after, not before, a general settlement of cold war issues in Europe and Asia.

Swarm Of Supply Trucks Sighted Going To Front

SEOUL, Korea (UP)—American Sabre jets destroyed or damaged four Communist MIG fighters today while screening U. N. fighter-bombers attacking Communist installations along the battlefield.

The F-86's shot down two of the Russian-built jets and damaged two others in patrol sweeps over MIG activity in northwestern Korea.

Meanwhile, U. N. reconnaissance planes flew over "Freedom Road" in search of the convoys carrying U. N. prisoners to Panmunjom for next Monday's exchange. All three convoys were located.

Pilots also reported scores of enemy supply trucks were boldly moving towards the front along the Red's west coast road network. The Reds obviously were taking advantage of the temporary immunity granted by the U. N. during movement of the prisoners.

"The roads were crawling with trucks," said Sgt. Charles Banta of Plymouth, Pa., a B-26 gunner. Reconnaissance pilots who first sighted the prisoner convoys yesterday were chased away by heavy concentrations of flak but today they were not challenged.

There was no explanation at 5th Air Force for the sudden silence of enemy ground fire along the roads extending from the North Korean capital of Pyongyang and the city of Sariwon to Kaesong, six miles north of here and base camp for the Red truce team.

Allied pilots had obeyed orders to stay away from the highways while the prisoners were being moved.

Early reports from fighter-bomber squadrons attacking enemy frontline fortifications claimed destruction of three buildings, two mortar positions and a cave and damaged two other Red installations.

Night-flying B-26 invaders blew up 73 Communist trucks last night and early today on Korea's eastern coast.

Navy planes from the carriers Oriskany and Philippine Sea took off before dawn to bomb rail and highway routes from Wonsan to Kichu on the east coast. They sealed a Red train in a tunnel at Kichu and set fire to a string of boxcars at Sinpo to the south.

Trucks, Ambulances Carry Group To North Korean Truce Camp Reds Bring Ailing POW's To Kaesong

By LEROY HANSEN
PANMUNJOM, Korea, Friday—(UP)—Red trucks and ambulances today delivered the first of 605 Allied sick and wounded war prisoners to Kaesong—last stop before freedom—and the United Nations Command indicated it now may be willing to resume full-scale truce negotiations.

The U. N. notified the Reds it wants a meeting of liaison officers today to deliver a letter from Lt. Gen. William K. Harrison, head of the United Nations truce delegation.

The letter, addressed to North Korean Gen. Nam Il, presumably is the U. N. reply to repeated Communist demands for a special conference to arrange resumption of the long-stalemate armistice talks.

Gen. Mark Clark, supreme U. N. commander, and other Allied officials have indicated they would be willing to consider resumption of the truce negotiations only after the Reds had made good on their promise to return sick and wounded Allied war prisoners.

With the first of the repatriated prisoners now only six miles and four days from freedom and other convoys of prisoners rolling down Korea's bomb-pitted roads, the U. N. appeared ready to talk business.

Twenty-four dust-covered trucks bearing the allied sick and wounded for next Monday's prisoner exchange jolted into the Red truce camp at Kaesong last night.

The trucks belonged to the first and part of the second of three "freedom convoys" that left for North Korea near the Yalu River earlier this week with an as yet unknown number of disabled Allied prisoners.

Twelve trucks of the second convoy were delayed at Sinmak, 17 miles northwest of Kaesong, when two trucks became mired in the mud. The third convoy was last seen at nightfall near Kangdong, northeast of Pyongyang.

The prisoners will remain at Kaesong, six miles north of the truce village of Panmunjom, until Monday at least when the momentous exchange of ailing prisoners gets under way.

Reconnaissance pilots had followed the course of the convoys all day long. The Communists withheld their anti-aircraft fire over the "freedom route" today. Pilots said it was "intense" yesterday.

The first convoy to enter Kaesong was reported to have traveled the last 20 miles into the city at a "tormentously slow" pace. Two vehicles were mired in the mud.

The two mired vehicles split the convoy into two segments, causing some 12 trucks to be delayed at Sinmak. Two trucks were believed to be en route to help the stranded vehicles.

The last report on the third convoy was at 5 p.m. (3 a.m. EST) when reconnaissance pilots said it was moving "briskly" south in the direction of Kaesong.

"The road to Pyongyang was strewn with oxcarts, trucks and walking personnel," said Lt. John W. Welch, Portland, Ore.

"In fact, the city of Pyongyang reminded me of an ant hill crawling with movement."

It was presumed that the first 100 U. N. prisoners, including 50 American and non-Korean soldiers and 50 south Koreans, were now in Kaesong, although there was no official word from the Reds.

The exchange is scheduled to begin Monday with the Communists delivering 100 sick and wounded prisoners to the Allies in exchange for 500 from the United Nations.

House Plans Vote Today As Sums Approach Ceiling Catch-All Bond Bill Swollen

By LARRY DALE
RALEIGH (UP)—The House of Representatives planned to vote today on Gov. William B. Umstead's third major bond issue proposal, a "catch-all" bill swollen by amendments to $14,250,000.

The measure to finance improvements at a number of state institutions and agencies now is only $759,000 below the limit which the legislature can authorize without submitting the bond issue to the people in a referendum.

Umstead supporters hoped to keep it under the $15,000,000 limit. They feared it might be defeated if voted upon by the people along with two other Umstead bond proposals, passed by the House and sent to the Senate yesterday.

The vote approving a proposed $50,000,000 bond issue for school construction and a proposed $22,900,000 issue for state mental hospitals was unanimous.

A parade of amendments and House debate began as the third bond issue proposal came up for consideration.

The amendments adding $1,250,000 to the original proposal prevented a roll-call vote on the measure yesterday and it was set as a first order of business when the House convened today.

Both House and Senate met early to finish up the legislative day and allow members to travel to Salisbury this afternoon for a visit of President Eisenhower to the Rowan County bicentennial.

Amendments to the "catch-all" bond bill yesterday added: $500,000 for Winston-Salem Teachers College; $240,000 for Stonewall Jackson Training School; $135,000 for Fayetteville State Teachers College; $40,000 for Appalachian Teachers College at Boone; $135,000 for Eastern Carolina Training School; and $200,000 to the $400,000 already provided for a physical education building at Western Carolina Teachers College.

The House defeated a proposal to take $500,000 off the proposed bond bill for the Institute of Government building at the University of North Carolina. Rep. John Umstead of Orange County fought the move, pointing out that the state would get a $1,000,000 building for that amount because the Knapp Foundation was putting up a like figure for the structure.

Also defeated was a move to add $25,000 to the $200,000 provided in the measure for renovation of the old highway building to display state-owned works of art, a move to tack on $1,000,000 to erect and equip a pharmacy building at the University of North Carolina and a move to add $116,390 to complete recreational facilities at Reedy Creek and Crabtree Creek state parks.

The sharpest fight came over Lincoln County Rep. David Clark's amendment to provide for a pharmacy building at the University of North Carolina. Clark cited a "critical shortage of registered pharmacists in North Carolina." He said the school could take only one of three applying for admission as students and that President Gordon Gray has termed the building the No. one permanent improvement need at Chapel Hill.

The measure already had reached the $14,250,000 figure when Clark made his move and Rep. William B. Rodman of Beaufort County warned "if this amendment is adopted this bill might as well be torn up."

Rep. E. M. O'Herron of Mecklenburg denied that the Clark proposal was an attempt to kill off the catch-all bond program by forcing it to be voted on by the people.

Umstead, brother of the governor, said "for the first time in my life I'm going to vote against an appropriation for the University of North Carolina. We need it bad but we need other items in this bond bill more and if this is added then none of us will get anything."

Peiping Hails First Jet 'Ace'

TOKYO (UP)—Red China crowned its first jet ace today.

Peiping radio said pilot Lu Min shot down five U. S. Sabre jets over North Korea last December on five successive sorties.

The U. S. Air Force, analyzing the claims, said records showed the day's Lu Min jet shot down on the days Lu Min claimed to have turned in his triumphs.

Peiping said the MIG-15 pilot was awarded the following titles: "Specially meritorious people's subject," "Ace sabre killer," "First class fighting hero of the volunteer air force."

Americans Told To Stay Off Tehran Streets

TEHRAN (UP)—United States Ambassador Loy Henderson warned all Americans off the streets today as thousands of supporters of Premier Mohammed Mossadegh surged through Tehran demanding that the powers of the shah be curbed.

Tanks and troops massed in central Tehran to guard against riots if supporters of the shah turned out to demonstrate in his favor.

Mossadegh failed again to get parliamentary action on his demand to trim the powers of the Shah.

Bomb Blasts At Political Rally Start Violence Mobs Riot In Buenos Aires

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (UP)—Angry mobs surged through Buenos Aires today in a wave of death, burning and rioting touched off by two bomb explosions at a giant political rally. Officials said at least six persons were killed.

Unofficial reports said 150 persons were injured in stampedes when the blasts rocked the big Plaza del Mayo where President Juan D. Peron was addressing 100,000 supporters late Wednesday.

Fires set in retaliation by pro-Peron rioters Wednesday night and early today burned three headquarters buildings of opposition political parties and the swank Buenos Aires Jockey Club. At least three fashionable eating places were wrecked.

Police held for questioning a circus animal trainer, identified as an American citizen whom a few excited bystanders pointed out as the bomb thrower. Officials gave his name as Esteban Jacyna, of Herkimer, N. Y., said to be the "elephant tamer" of a circus now touring Buenos Aires Province.

Authorities at Herkimer said no one named Jacyna was listed in the village records or telephone book.

Jacyna stoutly denied the allegations. In a statement released by police today, he said he had just alighted from an underground train at Plaza del Mayo station when he heard a strong explosion.

The president, whose appearance climaxed a week of critical Argentine political developments, charged the bomb plot was the work of "foreign agents" and said the plotters should be "hanged from trees."

The bombs exploded about 400 feet from Peron's balcony.

Shouting, torch-bearing supporters of Peron defied police and fire squads in a night-long wave of arson.

Their first assault came against the four-story offices of the newspaper La Vanguardia, which serves as headquarters of the Socialist Party. The rioters hurled furniture and printing equipment from the windows, then set fires with torches and burning rags which turned the cellar into an inferno.

Other demonstrators broke into the headquarters of the Radical and Democratic (conservative) parties—which, like the Socialists, have opposed Peron. Both buildings were set afire.

Then the exclusive, Jockey Club, haunt of the city's elite, was set on fire.

Demonstrators smashed windows and overturned tables at the famous El Aguila tea shop. Others wrecked buildings.

There was no immediate estimate of the total night's destruction.

Tornado Strikes

GRIMESLAND—The first tornado to hit Pitt County since 1949 ripped through the outskirts of Grimesland shortly after noon today, scattering debris from demolished buildings over surrounding fields.

An on-the-scene observer of the natural phenomena, Leslie Elks, reported the large, funnel-shaped cloud approached the town's business area from the south, but veered eastward before striking the downtown district.

In the wake of the swiftly-moving wind spout this afternoon lay wreckage of four completely destroyed tobacco barns, gigantic oak trees uprooted by the force of the storm. In addition extensive damage was reported along local electrical lines.

Elks set tentative property damage at approximately $3,000, and reported relievedly that not a single person was injured in the sudden destruction. The tornado was followed almost immediately by a violent hailstorm which blanketed ed the ground momentarily with small pellets of ice.

"I thought it was a fire at first because it looked like black smoke," declared Elks, in commenting on the tornado. "It appeared to be about 100-150 yards wide and made a low whirling noise which was quickly drowned out by falling hail."

The observer stated the funnel-shaped object was moving "pretty fast" when he saw it, and he expressed relief that it did not pass through the business district where damage of much greater significance doubtless would have resulted.

Elks declared in addition to four tobacco barns completely destroyed, one was lifted from its foundation by the force of the wind spout. Several old oak trees were pulled out by the roots, but damage to the electrical system was not thought to be extensive.

The last reported tornado took place near Fountain in 1949.

Marshall Silent On Byrd Charges

PINEHURST, N. C. (UP)—Former Defense Secretary George C. Marshall had "no comment" on a charge by Sen. Harry F. Byrd (D-Va.) that the ammunition shortages in Korea stemmed from a "slowdown order" Marshall issued late in 1950.

"I have no comment," Marshall said last night. "I would have to familiarize myself with a great deal. It's some time past. I doubt if I'll make any statement."

Grimesland Commissioner Denies Power Difficulties As Stringent As Pictured

By JESS POINDEXTER
Reflector City Editor

The electrical situation at Grimesland came back into the limelight with a new twist today when a member of the town's Board of Commissioners denied they "have their backs to the wall."

A statement to that effect made Tuesday night to the Greenville Utilities Commission by Grimesland Mayor A. F. Fleming was disputed personally this morning by T. R. Rouse, town commissioner, who contended they are making money under the present set-up.

Contrary to previous reports, Rouse said, the entire town board was not present at the meeting with the local Utilities Commission Tuesday night. He explained that neither he nor Eldon Hodges, another member of the board, were in attendance at the meeting.

Spokesmen for the committee appointed to attend the utilities meeting stated Grimesland is being forced to sell retail current at a cheaper rate than is being paid the Greenville Utilities Commission for electricity on a wholesale basis.

Making Money

Rouse said the statement that Grimesland is losing money is untrue; that in reality the town is making money.

"We are not at Greenville's mercy nor are our backs to the wall," Rouse declared this morning. "We are making money, but not as much as we have in the past; but we have gained many new customers since Washington's invasion of Chocomaity."

"I might state we have money in the bank and during 1953 we have paid $6,000 on the bonds we issued for construction of the lines. The bond issue was for $20,000, and in the last five years we have paid all of it back except $1,000.

The commissioner stated that Grimesland has lost some customers to Washington lines, but he emphasized that in numbers, Grimesland has picked up more new customers than it has lost to the Washington encroachment into Grimesland's territory.

The Grimesland delegation that appeared before the local Utilities Commission asked for a release from the 20-year contract by April 25, so that a referendum could be put to the people on May 4 to decide whether to sell the lines to Carolina Power and Light Company and go on a retail basis with that organization, or to retain the present working agreement with Greenville.

Cancel Vote

Members of the visiting group told the Utilities Commission that if a definite decision was not reached by April 25, CP and L would withdraw its offer to buy the Grimesland system and the election would be canceled.

Rouse stated that both he and Hodges favor a referendum if the people want to vote on the proposition, but both are opposed to the sale of the Grimesland system.

In fact, Rouse said he has requested Supt. Martin Swartz and Chairman Ray Martin of the Greenville Utilities Commission not to question release from the contract at the regular meeting.

The commission met yesterday afternoon and according to Larry Brown, for unqualified release from the wholesale contract.

Relative to the commission's action yesterday, Brown stated, "The superintendent has been authorized to work out a solution to the problem based upon the utilities' original investment and its utilization of facilities involved in serving present and future customers."

"That would be based on existing requirements and future load growth within the area served from the power line between Greenville and Chocomaity, the results of which should be mutually beneficial to all parties concerned."

Expenditures Made

It was brought out at the meeting

Tuesday night that Grimesland spent approximately $20,000 on its own lines in anticipation of a connection with the Greenville system. A bond issue was voted in the late 1940's and a contract with Greenville was signed in 1949.

In order to provide Grimesland with current the local Utilities Commission expended approximately $16,000 to strengthen the line leading to Chocomaity and the subsequent connection with the Grimesland system.

Superintendent Swartz said at the meeting that the line to Chocomaity would have been sufficient to carry both present and anticipated future current demands up to 1960. He stated that without the Grimesland connection the line would not necessarily have been strengthened.

Brown explained that a definite financial figure will be presented to the Grimesland board within the next few days, at least before the April 25 deadline.

Regular Election

Along with the referendum on whether to sell their electrical system, the people of Grimesland will vote on a new Board of Commissioners and a mayor on May 4. No one has announced against incumbent Mayor A. F. Fleming, nor has he filed for re-election.

The present Board of Commissioners is composed of Rouse, Hodges, Leslie Elks, Raymond Elks and Charlie Evans. All members of the present board have filed for re-election, and a new candidate for the board, Mrs. Lela B. Hoyle, has announced her candidacy for a post on the board.

At the regular meeting, Supt. Martin Swartz authority to set a definite financial figure that the town of Grimesland may pay tract until after the people have a chance to vote on whether to sell or retain their lines.

"I have been criticized for making that request," he added, "but I have done it with the thought that it is the best thing for the town of Grimesland. I feel that if it is brought to a vote, the proposition to sell the system will be defeated in Grimesland by a vote of five to three—or better."

Special Meeting

At the conclusion of the meeting Tuesday night, Chairman Ray Martin agreed to call a special meeting of the Utilities Commission yesterday at noon, that in view of the fact that a quorum was not present,

Student Center Receives Gift Of Methodist Hymnals

A gift of sixty-eight Methodist Hymnals was made to the Methodist Student Center by the women of the New Bern District, and they were presented and dedicated in a very impressive service on Sunday evening at the Wesley Foundation Vespers. These hymnals were given by the societies of the Woman's Society of Christian Service, in the various local churches in the District.

Mrs. Adrian Brown, secretary of Student Work and Mrs. Clifton L. Boyd, secretary of Promotion, for New Bern District presented the Hymnals. They were accepted for the Student Center by Deaconess Mamie Chandler, Director of Wesley Foundation. Miss Chandler led in the Service of Dedication of the new Hymnals "for the glory of God — to an appreciation of the great dogmologies of the Church to the development of the language of praise which belongs both to earth and heaven; to such inspiration in the service of song that all people may praise the Lord."

At the close of the service, the students examined the Hymnals and read the book-plates in each indicating the society which had made the gift and the person for whom the hymnal was given as a memorial.

New officers were installed at this meeting.

The last monthly message was read from the Great Pocahontas, Jennie Hawkins, reporting several members being sick in various parts of North Carolina, and also inviting everyone to the Great Council meeting to be held in Greensboro, King Cotton Hall, May 18th and 19th. A letter was read from Great Prophets, Gladys Wynne.

After the meeting adjourned, ice cream and cake was served by the Social Committee.

New Bible Is Subject Of Club Paper

Mrs. Plato Evans was hostess to the members of the Inter Se Book Club on Tuesday afternoon, April 7. The home was beautifully decorated with arrangements of roses and other Spring flowers from the garden of the hostess.

After a short business session was conducted Mrs. T. H. Henderson gave the program. Her paper, entitled "The Revised Standard Version of the Bible," covered briefly the development of the new Bible from the appointment of the first committee in 1929 to determine whether or not there was need for revision, to the printing and sale of more than two million copies.

Dr. John Pemberton of Cape May, N. J. was quoted as saying: "I believe the beauty of the King James Version's language will live just as Shakespeare's works have lived, but our generation is indeed fortunate to have access to this Bible, written in language direct and meaningful to people of today."

In conclusion Mrs. Henderson read from the preface of the R.S.V. these words: "It is our hope and earnest prayer that this Revised Standard Version of the Bible may be used by God to speak to men in these momentous times, and to help them to understand, believe and obey His Word."

During the social hour the hostess served a delicious salad course with coffee.

Guests for the afternoon were Mrs. O. Y. Kirkpatrick, Mrs. Guy C. Evans and Mrs. E. F. C. Metz.

Dr. Murray Is Speaker At Meeting of D.A.R.

FARMVILLE—The Major Benjamin May Chapter, D. A. R., was entertained by Mrs. Margaret Farley, Mrs. E. L. Baker and Mrs. Earl E. Forbes, of Greenville Saturday, at the home of Mrs. Forbes, in which a variety of spring flowers were used with artistic effect.

Mrs. Ellen M. Carroll, regent, presided and introduced the speaker, Dr. Paul Murray, of the Science Department of East Carolina College. Dr. Murray gave a comprehensive lecture on "The Heritage of North Carolina In The Ideals of The American Revolution." He emphasized the ideals of national independence, patriotism and the freedom of the individual as the basic principles for which Americans fought and are still fighting. He stated that these ideals are worth preserving in the Twentieth Century.

During the business session, Mrs. Howard Mays, chairman of the nominating committee, gave a report which resulted in the re-election of the following officers: 1st vice regent, Mrs. M. V. Jones; 2nd vice regent, Mrs. Henrietta M. Williamson; corresponding secretary, Miss Helen Smith; treasurer, Mrs. J. O. Polard; registrar, Miss Tabitha M. DeVisconti; chaplain, Mrs. E. B. Beasley; historian, Mrs. Preston Murphy; and the election of Mrs. John B. Wright, Jr., to succeed Miss DeVisconti as secretary. Plans were made for the concert to be given by Walter Noona of the Chapter House on Sunday, May 3rd at 4 o'clock.

The meditation by the chaplain, Mrs. Beasley, had as its theme the events preceding the fall of Rome with comparison of news headlines of today. She used as a conclusion a prayer by the late Peter Marshall. A salad course was served prior to the meeting.

High School Band And Singers Give Program

The Greenville High School Band and Greenville High School Mixed Chorus, Boys' Glee Club, and Girls' Glee Club will perform tonight in connection with the Community Arts Festival.

The program will be held at the high school under the direction of James Rodgers, band director, and Miss Ona Shindler, glee club director. Mrs. Vance Perkins will preside. The program is scheduled to begin at 8 o'clock.

The band will participate during the first part of the program and will open the evening's music with "Chorale" and "His Honor March." "The March of the Siamese Children" from the new musical, "The King and I" will be played by the band.

This number describes all of the characteristics of the Spanish dance — fire, spirit, excitement, tenderness, and at times, explosive. At the finish of the number, the effect is very wild, describing a whirling-shawl and stamping of the feet.

A specialty number, "TV Suite" will be played and it is broken down into four parts — sagebrush sage, whodunit, hayloft hoe down, and big name band.

The band program will close with "The March of the Steel Men" with trumpet parts by Sam Worthington, Billy Cosart, Charlie White and Donald McArthur and trombone parts by Tony Smith, Jerry Phillips, Mickey West, and Bob

Silent Movie Stars Speak For Television

By ELIZABETH TOOMEY
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK, (UP)—Two movie queens of 30 years ago sat waiting to speak their first dramatic lines on television.

One had reddish brown hair, flattened here and there in pin curls during rehearsal.

"It's got to be right in one take," she murmured.

"We used to play games with our lines in silent picture days," said the tall and pepper-brunette. "I'd look at my leading man in a love scene and just recite numbers, like 24-72-46."

The two women were Dorothy MacKail, Ziegfeld star and leading lady in silent movies, and Leatrice Joy, a star "complete with egrets" from 1920 to 1930.

They both retired from movies in the 30's. Miss Joy is a grandmother now and recently moved here to be close to her daughter, the only child of her marriage to the late John Gilbert. Miss MacKail lives in a midtown hotel and has appeared occasionally in summer stock.

Their parts were small on their T-V debut Monday night on CBS Studio One.

"I feel the way I did when I started my first talkie," said Miss MacKail.

"The new camera techniques are so fascinating," Miss Joy commented, watching a camera crew roll one of the cameras across the set. "I remember the first time Cecil B. DeMille used a dolly in one of my pictures. He put the camera on the front of a car."

C-of-C Board To Meet Tonight

Directors of the Greenville Chamber of Commerce will meet tonight at 8 o'clock in a regular meeting to consider the recommendations of the program and public relations committee of the organization.

Tonight's meeting was originally scheduled for Tuesday night but was postponed because of conflict with other activities of members of the board of directors.

Chamber of Commerce Manager W. T. Kyzer urged members of the board of directors to be present at tonight's meeting. In addition to the adoption of a program for the current year, there are several other matters on the agenda for consideration by the directors tonight.

and I had to drive the car across a train trestle. Stars had to do the dangerous things then too. That was in 1922."

"The people working on the set do look awfully young," red-haired Miss MacKail admitted. "And they really rehearse you. In the silent pictures you'd run through it once and then shoot."

The director called for final dress rehearsal, and the two former stars hurried off to a crowded dressing room shared by all the women in the cast. There are no star's dressing rooms in the old theaters which have been converted to T-V studios.

Advertiser Also Held Responsible

RALEIGH (UP)—The person submitting a potentially libelous paid advertisement to a newspaper should "properly" be made a co-defendant with the paper in any subsequent libel action, the State Supreme Court ruled late yesterday.

Kinston attorney Charles Taylor had charged that an "open letter" printed in the Kinston Daily Free Press and written as a paid ad by Dr. Ralph L. Shell had "injuriously affected him in his profession." He brought suit against the newspaper.

The newspaper, however, answered that it had printed the letter as a paid advertisement from Dr. Shell "without malice" and on the assumption that he was responsible for the statements contained in it. The paper filed a cross-complaint to make Shell responsible for any damages that may be recovered.

Shell answered that the cross-complaint did not state a cause of action against him and appealed to the Supreme Court.

Without ruling on whether the ad was libelous, the high court said that the Free Press "has by proper procedure . . . sought to bring into the action the person who prepared the article."

Shell was "properly made a party defendant" in the case, the court ruled.

Salisbury Excited By Eisenhower's Visit

SALISBURY (UP)—President Eisenhower makes a flying visit to this bustling Piedmont city today for a speech climaxing a week-long celebration of the 200th birthday of historic Rowan County.

The city was tense with excitement. It was swollen twice its population of more than 20,000 for the President's appearance here. A crowd of more than 7,000 will hear him speak at Shuford Stadium on the beautiful Catawba College campus.

The presidential plane "the Columbine" will land at Douglas airport in Charlotte about 4:30 p.m. Mr. Eisenhower will be met by a motorcade of officials and dignitaries.

The motorcade will escort the President as he motors here. Cordons of state highway patrolmen will flank busy U.S. 29 along the 40-mile route.

The President will reach here shortly after 5 p.m. and is to deliver his extemporaneous address beginning about 5:30 p.m.

It will be Mr. Eisenhower's first speech delivered outside of Washington since he was inaugurated.

He will arrive here after a busy day that includes a major foreign policy address before the American Society of Newspaper Editors in Washington and attending the opening game of the Washington Senators to throw out the "first ball" of the major league baseball season this afternoon.

Mr. Eisenhower interrupted a golfing vacation in Augusta, Ga., to fly back to Washington for the ASNE speech this morning.

Following his address here the President will motor to Smith- Reynolds airport at Winston-Salem to fly back to Augusta. He will reach Winston-Salem about 7 p.m. and will leave immediately.

Brief as it is, the President's visit will write another chapter in the long and colorful history of Rowan County.

For Mr. Eisenhower it will be his second appearance here in eight months. The last time, as a candidate for the presidency, he appeared on a train platform in Salisbury to wave to crowds that had gathered in early morning to see his train, hoping to get a glimpse of him. Mr. Eisenhower was en route to campaign speeches at Charlotte and Winston-Salem.

This time his attire will be a business suit. He will be accompanied from Washington by Clyde R. Hoey and Willis Smith, North Carolina's Democratic senators, and by Rep. Hugh Alexander (D-NC) and Rep. Charles R. Jones, the state's only GOP congressman.

Mr. Eisenhower carried Rowan County in the election last November although the state went for Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson.

Members of the North Carolina General Assembly left Raleigh by special busses and private cars this afternoon to be on hand for the celebration.

State Republican officials were here. Lt. Gov. Luther Hodges, president of the State Senate, represented Gov. William B. Umstead who is recovering from a heart attack.

Non-Suit Ruled In Pistol Death Of Young Boy

LUMBERTON—Judge Leo Carr allowed a defense motion for non-suit after the State's evidence was completed against 14-year-old Charles Hardin, charged with manslaughter in the February 2 pistol death of 11-year-old Billy Whitchard in Fairmont.

Defense attorney David Britt offered his motion with the argument the evidence showed no culpable negligence, and so far as evidence showed the victim walked into the line of fire of the pistol in the hands of Charles Hardin while the two were shooting the weapon at a target.

Billy whitchard was found dead of a bullet wound on February 3 after a search had been conducted for him all the previous night.

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Whitchard, formerly of Greenville.

Twenty-Seven In Airplane Killed

HANOI, Indo-China (UP)—A chartered commercial airplane used to help ferry troops to the threatened French garrison at Nansan, crashed on takeoff here today, killing all 27 persons aboard.

French army officials said the plane, one of several dozen being employed to rush reinforcements and supplies to the fortress, 117 miles west Hanoi, crashed when its port engine caught fire.

It was believed all passengers and crewmen aboard the plane were military personnel.

ships under British, Italian, Norwegian and other foreign flags carrying goods to the communist bloc nations and to Red China. Senator McCarthy has added that he has no intention of clearing the work his committee proposes through Mutual Security Director Harold E. Stassen as he has been requested to do.

McCarthy announced some weeks ago that he had negotiated a deal with Greek ship owners not to ship goods to the communist bloc, only to find that the State Department had consummated a similar transaction two weeks earlier.

In view of what has happened, and McCarthy's present attitude, it appears the Senator is determined to run a one-man show in the field of foreign affairs just as he tried to do in the field of domestic investigations, particularly in communist activities in government agencies.

It is not inconceivable that a program such as McCarthy proposes could bring about some beneficial results if it were closely coordinated with the work of the State Department. Yet under the plan of completely detached action which McCarthy is using, the risk of fouling up an important portion of the nation's foreign affairs is too great to chance. Doubtless it will cause a great deal of confusion both at home and abroad if McCarthy tries to carry on State Department work with his own ideas and action. There is a real probability that such action could undermine and destroy decidedly constructive work which is going on through State Department channels.

Actually there seems to be little that can be done to stop McCarthy's one-man show unless his fellow-members in Congress place a great deal of pressure for the program to be stopped. Either by persuasion or by open rebuke of McCarthy's current spree, the Congress should see that the Wisconsin Senator's latest merry-go-round is halted before it becomes a serious handicap to the nation's foreign relations program.

National Whirligig

WASHINGTON—President Eisenhower will lose a great deal of his support on and off Capitol Hill, if he does not take a firmer and more dramatic stand against cutting taxes before balancing the budget.

To many Congressional Republicans and Democrats who campaigned for him openly or furtively, it will be the major test of his political integrity and courage. It will show whether he dares to be a strong leader of his party.

Eisenhower has placed sound management of Federal finances ahead of immediate tax reduction again and again, both in his public statements and in his Monday morning quarterbacking with legislative bosses. As a result of his attitude, Speaker Martin and Senator Taft, together with other makers of policy, counsel against the more pleasing and popular proposal.

HOUSE MEMBERS FAVOR REED'S DEMAND—But House members who must make friends for next year's possibly difficult re-election contests are rallying around Representative Daniel A. Reed's demand for abolishing the higher rates levied after the Korean invasion.

And if the lower chamber should pass his bill for wiping out the 11 per cent boost on personal income schedules as of June 30 (they do not expire until next December 31, under present law), it will be extremely difficult for the Senate to resist this pressure from the other side of the Capitol.

In the face of this movement, Eisenhower's demurrers are not regarded as sufficiently positive or aggressive. Many of his well-wishers, like Senators Taft of Ohio and Byrd of Virginia, believe that he should appeal to the people in a television talk, or issue a special message on the subject to Congress. They think it would be more effective if he appeared personally before a joint session of the two parliamentary bodies.

ATTENTION ON REDUCED INCOME TAXES—Although it is not appreciated generally, a total of $8 billion in additional post-Korean taxes will expire within the next twelve months, unless Congress continues them. So much attention has been centered on the Reed plan for lowering the top on personal income payments that the other levies are forgotten.

The 11 per cent increase on individual incomes now nets $3 billion to the Treasury in a full fiscal year. The excess profits tax, which dies on June 30, brings in $2 billion annually.

The 5 per cent boost in the corporate rate, which ends March 31, 1954, is good for $2 billion a year. The higher excise duties on liquor, cigarettes, gasoline etc., raise $1 billion each twelvemonth. That also expires on March 31, 1954.

LOSS OF REVENUE CONSEQUENCES—The loss of this revenue, according to Treasury statisticians, would make it impossible to balance the budget for the fiscal years, not only of 1954, but also for 1955 and 1956. They also point out the fiscal dangers of a possible recession in that period, for every drop of $3 billion in national income means a loss of $1 billion in taxes.

Thus the Administration's handling of the Reed proposal and the June 30 expiration of the excess profits tax furnishes the key to the financial logjam. If the excess profits levy is allowed to die, it will almost insure the enactment of the Reed bill. Congress would hardly dare to ease a corporation burden without also relieving the "little fellows."

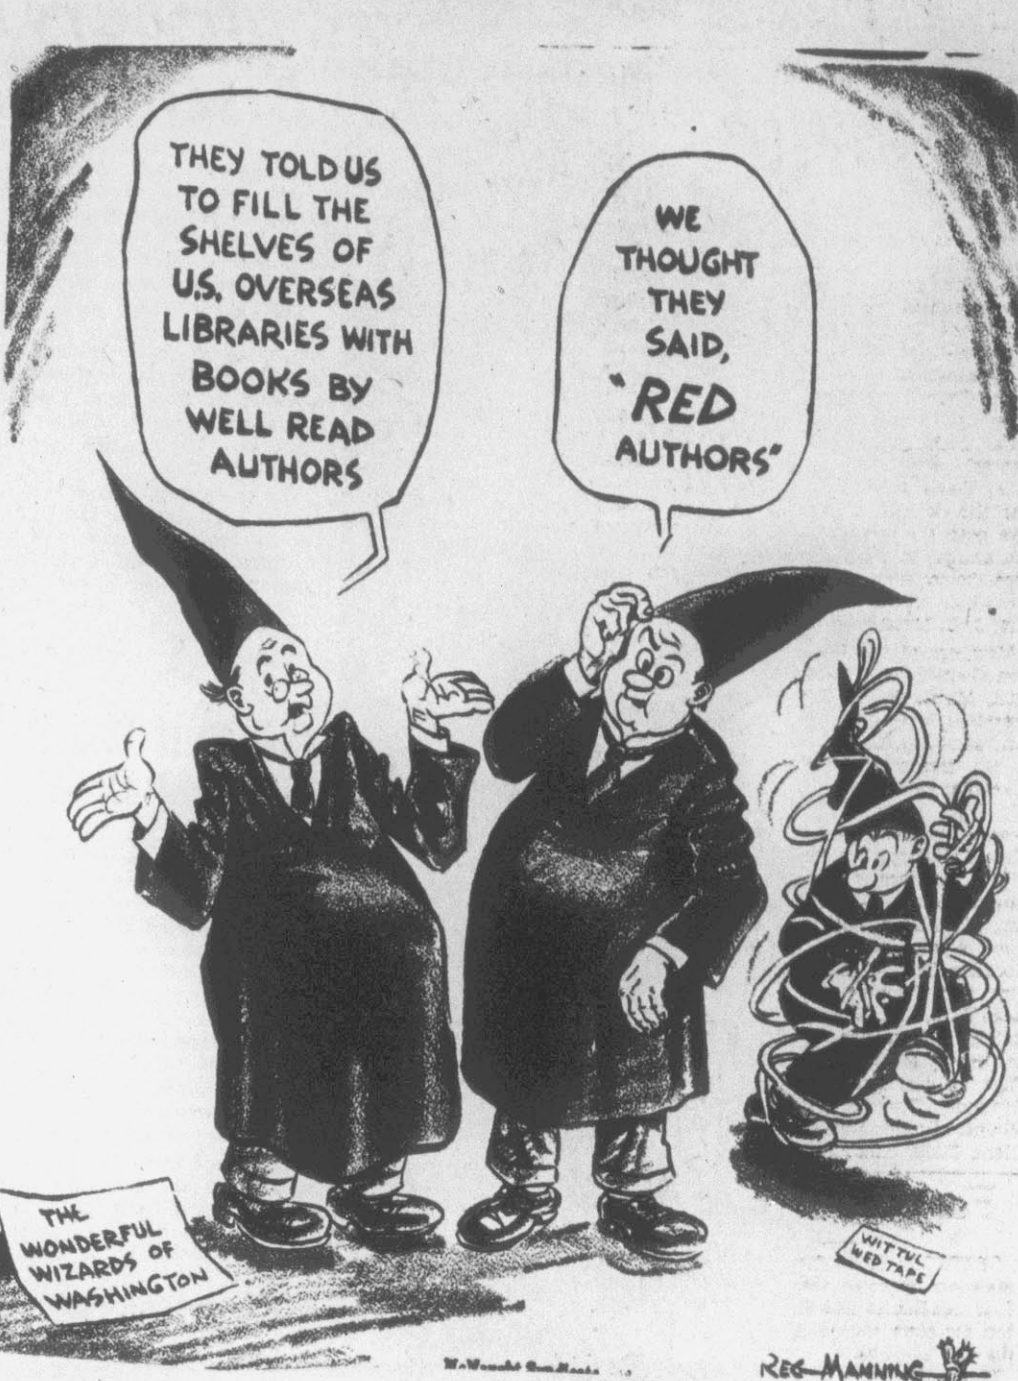

And, if these two groups should benefit, there would be a stronger demand for eliminating the corporate and excise levies when they expire next March.

EXPERTS STRUGGLING WITH PROBLEM—White House experts are struggling to solve this problem. Their attempt to find a solution lies behind current but vague suggestions of a military stretch-out, which would reduce expenditures by $4 billion annually, and a $2 billion cut in foreign economic aid.

Such an answer, however, will not satisfy the budget balancers. They insist that Eisenhower stick to his guns and fight it out on this battlefield. If he doesn't, they will become suspicious of his leadership ability and determination.

PRICE OF HILLMAN BOOK DROPS—Mr. President, William Hillman's volume on Harry S. Truman's thoughts about national and international policies and personalities has suffered the fastest and sharpest price drop in political-literary history. Issued at $5 a copy, it is now going abeyant at $1.98 at bookshops in Washington, where it was expected to have a large and sustained sale.

Maybe It Happened Like This

Somebody Told Me

By J. J. (Jack) EDWARDS, Jr.

Monday night I was at Greenville high school judging debates on the query: "Resolved that rural life offers better opportunity for achievement and development than urban life." The three debaters I judged were among high school freshmen from Kinston, Grimesland and Farmville.

It seemed that in every case the country students took the city side of the question and vice-versa. All of the students, winners and losers, did a remarkable job.

Since I am in charge of the buying for our business firm I couldn't help but compare these students with the salesmen who come in our store. After all, the students were selling their side of the question, just as the salesmen try to sell their products.

Actually, the results of the students is easily comparable to that of the salesmen. Both are concerned with (1) preparation and

(2) delivery. One who is an artist at delivery can take a limited amount of information and make it sound good. One who is only fair in delivery but has unlimited information about his product or subject also sounds good.

But when you get a combination of the two you really have a debater and a salesman. Quite often, a person who has a gift of delivery realizes it and consequently doesn't bother to gather all possible information.

As far as the debate is concerned, it was very interesting to hear the point made by the various students. One even displayed the cross-section of two lungs: one from a city dweller and one from a country resident. Any city dweller who believed his lungs were as dark as the ones in the picture would immediately move to the country.

In judging a debate, it is quite difficult to ignore your opinion of the query and just judge the debaters. Big city life has absolutely no appeal to me, but I tried to forget that for the purpose of judging.

The debaters on the affirmative did not stress one point enough to suit me: In the city you can live in an apartment building and not even know the person next door. And the people on the floors above and below? They might as well be in another world.

And how about the pace of living in a big city? In Greenville the pace is too fast, and when you multiply it several times to compare with the big city rush you have a killing pace.

Next time GHS has freshmen debates it would be worth your while to show up. Those freshmen can give you a real education. And I thank you.

STABILITY — In other respects it did pay off handsomely. Mail balloting for NCEA officers resulted in selection of a harmonious group to handle association affairs. The new board of directors promptly reelected Mrs. Ethel Perkins Edwards as executive secretary for the fifth consecutive two-year term. Through years of ups and downs in association prestige Mrs. Edwards has been regarded as a stabilizing influence. Her reelection and prospects of a harmonious board assures continuing stability.

WARNING — Spokesmen for the teachers have given warning, however, that stability does not mean stagnation. They further warn that the non-lobbying policy was an experiment, which has been discontinued after failure of the subcommittee to effectuate the recommendations of Governor Umstead for additional public school money. The United Forces for Education, composed of several groups among which NCF is by far the most active, may move into the lobbying picture seeking appropriations increases by amendments from the floor. The same kind of notice has been given by some other service groups, including educational institutions above public school level and welfare agencies. Their appeal will be to support the Governor rather than the subcommittee, whose conclusions were reached in secret sessions.

C & D — The spring meeting of the Board of Conservation and Development scheduled for Elizabeth City the latter part of this week is expected to be a rather dull affair. The entire membership of the board has been legislated in secret sessions.

NECESSARY RED TAPE (Washington Daily News) — It seems that in this day and time a certain amount of red tape is always necessary. There are many people in North Carolina who deplore the fact that driver's licenses must be renewed every four years. They resent the red tape they must face in getting these renewals.

As a result serious efforts have been made to change the manner of renewals from the present system to one whereby the driver could get them through mail. And not many drivers can keep it in their minds about renewal dates. The state doesn't notify him that his period of driving expires with the old card is up. He must remember it himself.

A lot of inconveniences have been pointed out. In fact it has been proposed that a driver should get his license through mail by swearing that he has not been involved in a traffic accident for a period of time, that he has not violated any traffic law, and other considerations. That is what some have called "mail order" licenses.

We look at the matter this way. There is red tape connected with getting the licenses under the present method. But perhaps it is necessary red. A little red tape is much better than lowering the standards of driving on the highways of the North Carolina. We prefer that red tape to the wrecks and deaths which occur on our highways.

Perhaps that amount of red tape now in evidence can be cut some without impairing the efficiency of the tests which drivers must now undergo.

The license examiners with whom we have come in contact are very considerate, and they are only doing the job which has been assigned them. It is not their fault that they must require certain tests. The public, we feel, has not been as understanding as it ought to be.

So in the final analysis we'd rather see the red tape as it is than to see the standards of driving lowered.

Business Today

Manufacturers, in general, are in favor of fair trade. Yet a sizable number are furthering the cause of discount retailing with plans in which employees buy goods cut rate through the company.

Fifteen per cent of the companies queried in a recent "Printers' Ink" survey said they had some kind of plan for discount purchases, including goods from other firms.

Since there are about 305,100 manufacturing companies in the United States today, 15 per cent would add up to more than 45,000. While this figure is not large—nonconsumer goods manufacturers were not surveyed but probably aren't as active in such plans as those producing consumer lines—it still indicates the number of companies and the wide range of products involved.

The degree of company encouragement ranges from company-supported stores to willingness on the part of the purchasing department to do what it can for an employee. In some cases arrangements are made with company dealers handling other lines to honor discount cards issued workers.

Another way discount buying is encouraged is through company financing of time payments and payroll deductions for items bought through the company.

Highly significant, also, is the fact that 50 per cent of all manufacturing companies surveyed offered reduced rates to employees but only on goods made by the company.

Cut-rate plans unquestionably benefit employee relations—the manufacturer loses no cash, worker good will is created and the price reductions constitute a form of wage increase. Such discount sales can also help a manufacturer clear up old stocks or discontinued lines and, in some cases, realize a profit on imperfect items.

Regardless of the pros and cons of fair trade, a manufacturer opposed to discount selling can hurt his cause by encouraging such purchases of his own and other products. Goods of some of the damaging effects.

The public is more likely to request a company's products at discount if it knows the company is condoning the practice among its workers.

Dealers and distributors may object strongly, not only to encouraging the public to become discount minded but to the cash losses and the trouble involved. A company's industrial customers may also object. A typewriter manufacturer, for instance, might engender considerable ill will among companies that buy from him who are strongly in favor of fair trade. A tire maker could find himself in the same position with an automobile manufacturer.

A company's policy in this matter would be understandable if sizable monetary benefits were derived. But in many cases it is doubtful that there is an appreciable advantage in reducing stocks or selling imperfect goods.

INSURED CREDIT POPULARITY HIGH—Insurance of consumer loans and time purchases has grown rapidly in the last four years and has spread to many sections of the country. One bank is even featuring insurance on commercial loans.

The popularity of this service was indicated recently in a survey by a Chicago marketing research firm (Davey, Koehnlein & Keating). It indicated that 91 per cent of those having insured loans were in favor of them. Seventy-six per cent of those with uninsured loans also liked the idea.

Reasons given for preferring insured loans were, in order of importance, protection of family coverage equal to exact amount of importance, protection of family coverage equal to exact amount of debt, low cost, lack of medical exams, and ease in obtaining the insurance.

Only 6 1/2 per cent stated they did not want consumer credit insurance.

WOOL RUG, CARPET PRODUCTION UP—Production of wool and blended carpets and rugs totaled 6,589,000 square yards in the February, a gain of 32.5 per cent over the 4,973,000 square yards in the same 1952 month.

According to Merrill A. Watson, president of the Carpet Institute, production for the first two months of this year totaled 13,141,000 square yards, a gain of 28.5 per cent over the corresponding period last year.

SUPER MARKET RADIO PROGRAM—The newest super markets have everything these days—including rest rooms and air conditioning. Latest innovation will be in the Pudget Sound area on May 1 when a 9 a. m. to 6 p. m. radio program broadcasting music and point-of-sale advertising to the stores is begun.

Market-Casters, Inc., will handle the broadcasts over station KISW-FM on a six-day-a-week basis. Any super market in the area can contract for the service, and have their own commercials played in their own stores.

Hal Boyle's Column

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Anybody today who manages even to pay his rent regularly has some kind of a formula to explain his success.

I like Peggy Lee's formula: "Never go to of a dream. Sometimes you don't know your self when you start winning. Right when you think you're still losing, a jewel is falling into your lap."

Peggy, now one of the nation's top vocalists, had to hug her dream through some long rugged seasons before she worked up to her present $250,000-a-year income.

But she never lost faith in herself—or her dream.

No matter how rough things were they never bothered me," she says now. "It just seemed to me as if I were waiting for the right thing to happen."

Peggy, now a sweet silver-blonde, was a plump little schoolgirl in Jamestown, N.D., when she first began daydreaming of becoming a famous singer.

Her name was Norma Eaström, and one of her jobs was to write away bills in the local railroad station.

"The names on the freight cars stood for the outside world to me," she said. "I knew where they came from, and where they were going to, and I made up my mind to go to all these places, too."

She never had taken a professional singing lesson. But along with her dream, she had a giant faith in herself—and a stubborn Norwegian-Swedish belief that work will get you what you want.

Peggy did all kinds of work from baby sitting to hash-slinging and cooking for harvest hands. Once she doubled as a waitress in a hotel where she also sang as an entertainer.

"I've had a good basic education in living," she said. "There isn't any type of person I can't understand, and that is a big help in singing."

Peggy pawed her high school graduation watch to make her first trip to Hollywood. For a little she got by on 25 cents a day for food. She had to borrow a dress from a beauty shop operator for her first night club engagement.

"But I was too young, too shy to speak for myself then," she said. Rebuffed, Hollywood she came back to North Dakota broke—but with her dream still undented.

She did more hash-slinging, perfected her singing style in radio work, finally started her real climb to fame as the songbird with Benny Goodman's band.

Today Peggy is a juke box queen, has a movie contract, and is one of the highest paid singers on the supper club circuit. She has written some 25 song lyrics, including a number of hits.

She likes to relax by writing poetry—usually at dawn, after finishing a night club singing job—and is also working on a movie script.

"It may be turned down," she said matter-of-factly. "But that won't hurt me. I think that if you believe in something, and don't limit yourself, you can do it."

"Eventually I want to become a writer. I've met so many wonderful people in my life, I'd like to put them down in a way to keep their memory alive."

"You know, people don't realize they can say something to you when you are 10 years old, and maybe 15 years later it will pop up in your mind and pull you out of a tight spot."

"I was very young when someone told me, 'you never know when you start winning,' and that one remark has guided my life ever since."

Peggy lugged her own suitcase on her first trip to Hollywood. The last time, she went out to make a film she had two wardrobe trunks and 22 pieces of hand baggage.

Washington Letter
By JANE EADS
WASHINGTON — Marguerite Burk, economist, U.S. Department of Agriculture, says that figuring out how much food is produced and consumed in this country is "fun and exciting" and that her only ambition "is to keep doing the same. Lots of people to home after a day in the office and read detective stories," she told me. "I stay here and work or so come and work, chasing figures and equations around."

Someone wants to know how much price affects demand for potatoes. Will the long-time downturn in consumption of potatoes (decreased 100 pounds in the last 40 years) continue another 100 years? Or the Bureau of Reclamation wants to know how much food will be consumed in the year 2000 so it can figure out how large dams in the Far West will have to be to store water to irrigate crop lands.

Appraising the nation's food situation for farmers, consumers and distributors is Miss Burk's day-to-day job. "But don't get the idea I spend all my nights talking to these birds," Miss Burk said. "I'm sure. I like to go out on dates. I'm an amateur musician and play cello with the Washington Civic Orchestra."

Born in Ottawa, Kas, Miss Burk took her master's degree in political science at the University of Kansas. She came to Washington to study international law but in 1939 went to Agriculture as a clerk. Winning a public service scholarship, she completed course requirements for a Ph. D. in economics at the University of Minnesota. "My clerk's job paid $1,800 a year, and now I'm head of a section and make about eight times that much," she said proudly. "I'm a stray in the field—one of the few agricultural economists with a general broad social science education. Many are still Farm Management people."

Miss Burk's official title is editor of the National Food Situation, a quarterly publication which contains the government's estimates of how much of each major food each person will eat, and other aspects of the food picture for the year.

"Ordinary families wouldn't get much out of the publication," she said, "but they are vitally affected by its findings—whether food prices are going up or down, what food supplies are going to be plentiful."

Strength for the Day

FIGHTING WITH OURSELVES

The worst tyrant we ever have to confront is that group of inner moral perversities in our own hearts which keep us from being what we ought to be.

The next worst tyrant is the clock. Here one is beside me as I write. Tick-tock, tick-tock. I glance at it nervously every few minutes and realize that I am behind schedule. The scourge falls upon me. Get going; get going.

When occasionally I visit New York, I find myself rushing to get into a crowded subway, frantically pushing back the doors that have started to close.

And why? All over the earth there are millions of people who take life in their stride, who never seem to hurry, who get plenty of work done. I have a friend who always has about a dozen projects on his mind, who can tell you about them in detail, and yet who never appears to be busy or hurried. Years ago I knew a great administrator who was paid a large salary, and earned it; yet nobody ever saw him move fast. He spent most of his time thinking. That is why he was paid a large salary—and why he was worth it.

The tyranny which timepieces inflict upon us is really not the tyranny of the timepiece but the tyranny of our inner frustrations. We are always fighting against ourselves, and so falling behind in the race and in our schedule.

Two More Steps For School Progress

The one-and-one-half million dollar bond issue for the Greenville school district moved a couple of more steps nearer reality this week as the proposition received the rapid approval of the Pitt County Board of Education and the Pitt County Commissioners.

Final arrangements for the $1,500,000 school bond issue must be completed before the question can be submitted to the people, but tentatively the balloting date for the issue has been set for June 2.

Such a bond issue for the construction of a new senior high school in Greenville, and additional classrooms and other facilities for local schools have been talked for at least a decade. To be sure there has been much money spent on public schools of the Greenville district during that period, but statistics show there remains an acute need for additional facilities even now. The needs will become more pressing in future months unless steps are taken to alleviate the prevailing circumstances.

It has been more than a decade since any bonds were voted by people of the Greenville school district. The last bonds voted in the district were approved by local citizens in 1939 but the bonds were not actually issued until 1951. Since then money from the $250,000 bond issue has gone into the erection of classrooms and other necessary facilities in the district. In addition state funds which have been available for school construction have been put to use.

But the fact remains that the Greenville school district still has a pressing need for new facilities if the physical plants are to keep pace with the increasing enrollments in the city schools.

A bond issue of the magnitude proposed for the district will cost the people of the district a considerable amount of money to repay. There is no point in even suspecting that something will be had for nothing. But the crux of the problem lies not in the fact that it will cost money to have the additional school facilities, but in the fact that if the local school district is to maintain the high standard of public school education it has attained, the new facilities must be had.

Between now and the referendum date there may be suggestions that the district can not afford the $1,500,000 bond issue for schools. In The Reflector's opinion, however, these arguments will be overshadowed by the fact that Greenville can not allow its school facilities to be hopelessly antiquated and completely outgrown by the increasing demands upon them.

Supper Is Given Council Of Wesley Foundation

The "Old and New Council" Supper for the out-going and in-coming officers of the Wesley Foundation was held at the Methodist Student Center on Monday evening at 5:00 o'clock. Newly elected officers for 1953-54 were special guests. A barbeque supper was served by Lou Kirven, chairman of the Commission on Hospitality, assisted by other members of the Council. After the supper a large birthday cake with lighted candles was brought in to celebrate the birthdays of members of the WF Council who were born in the month of April, and "Happy Birthday" was sung by the group to each one.

After the supper, the WF Council meeting was called to order by the president, Waylon Upchurch. He expressed his appreciation for all that his service in the Wesley Foundation had meant to him in the understanding of God and the meaning of the Christian life, during his college years. Other seniors on the Council also expressed their appreciation for the fellowship and inspiration received through the program of the Wesley Foundation and gave words of challenge and encouragement to the new members.

Waylon Upchurch, president for this past year then gave the gavel, which was tied with white and green, Wesley Foundation colors, to the incoming president, Mattie Huber. After accepting the gavel, the new president called the meeting of the new Council for two items of business—to set a time for the weekly meetings, and to elect a member of the Council to serve with the president as student members of the Local Committee for the Student Center. Willa Dean Lindsay and Patsy Davis were nominated and it was the decision of the Council to give both the privilege of attending the annual meeting of the Conference Commission on Student Center, which was held at the home of Mrs. J. D. Messick on Wednesday.

Members of the Wesley Foundation Council for 1953-54 are: president, Mattie Huber, Kinston; vice-president, Willa Dean Lindsay, Clinton; secretary, Lou Kirven, Sumter, S. C.; treasurer, Charlie Bedford, Pikeville; chairman of commissions: Worship, Janice Penney, Raleigh; World Christian Community, Wayne Shoe, Salisbury; Personnel, Marvina White, Hertford; Church Relations, Roy McGinnis, Mormon; Evangelism, Willa Dean Lindsay, Hospitality, Tona Watt, Sumter, S. C.; Vespers, Dorothy Howard, Garland; Literature and Training, Anne Carlson, Rego Park, N.Y.; Music, Patsy Davis, Raleigh; Recreation, Robert Gardner, Rocky Mount; Public Relations, Faye Lanier, Burgaw; House and Grounds, Thomas Pierce, Rocky Mount; President Wesley Players, Olene Civils, Kinston.

Four Candidates

GRIFTON—City Clerk Robert Mewborn reported yesterday that four candidates had filed in Grifton for town council in the coming city election.

Those who have filed are R. B. Johnson, J. A. Rogers, George G. Suggs, and A. D. Wall. No one has filed for the office of mayor, Mewborn reported.

Filing will close April 25 and city elections will be held May 4. When hollow logs are dragged from the forest in the Solomon Islands a magician sits on them to "lighten" the load.

Cases Heard In City Police Court

In Police Court Wednesday, Oscar E. Cochran, 307 East 14th street, who is charged with driving while drunk, asked for a jury trial. Judge Charles H. Whedbee transferred the case to Superior Court.

William P. Moore of Greenville, driving without an operator's license, was fined $25 and costs.

In the case in which John Moss, 310 West Third street, was charged with disorderly conduct at "Mac's" Pure Oil station, across Tar River bridge, the court "continued the case to" That indicates, a court official stated, that there was insufficient evidence to render a verdict. Testimony was that the warrant, sworn out by George S. Clark of Kinston, followed an argument between the two men after a slight collision of their cars at the service station.

James Grandell, Negro, was found guilty of driving while drunk. The court fined him $100 and costs and recommended that his operator's license be revoked for a year. The judgment also provides that Grandell is to make restitution for property damage to Blaney P. Strickland. Grandell gave notice of appeal to Superior Court.

James C. Stewart of Cherry Point was found guilty of assaulting a female (Mrs. Emma Ruth Harris) after a dance here on the night of April 11, was given 60 days on the roads, sentence to be suspended on payment of $15 court costs and $20 to Mrs. Harris. The judgment also provides that Stewart is to remain of good behavior for six months.

Popular Quartet Here On Sunday

The Golden Gate Quartet, widely known as the "granddaddy of quartets" and popularizer of Negro spirituals and folk melodies, will present a concert at C. M. Eppes Negro High School next Sunday afternoon at 4:30.

The Greenville Bachelor Benedict Club is sponsoring the concert. The public is invited.

The Golden Gate Quartet was organized by four Negro youths in 1933. They sang in Negro churches in the eastern part of Virginia. The four choristers' popularity spread so rapidly that they were soon playing to overflow audiences in Norfolk and other Virginia cities. The singers have been on nation-wide radio hookups. Many of their numbers have been recorded. They have been featured on television programs and have made some full length movies and numerous shorts.

The Golden Gate Quartet has had outstanding success in the concert field, and the singers have won praise for their concerts in churches in various parts of the country, one of its sponsors stated.

Pirates Blast High Point 22-2 In Conference Game

Penley Leads Hitters With Three For Five

Jim Byrd Pitches Pirates To Fourth Conference Win In Five Games; Buccs Rap Out 21 Hits Off Panthers

By JIMMY ELLIS
Reflector Sports Writer

The East Carolina College Pirates pulled out all of their heavy artillery yesterday and fired it all at once in defeating High Point College 22-2 in a North State Conference baseball game.

The Buccaneers, notoriously weak batters in their five previous conference games, rapped out 21 hits off three High Point pitchers. Every one of the starters got at least one base hit and all but six of the 19 men who played got at least one knock.

The big stickers in the afternoon's workout were Cecil Heath and Bob Penley with Penley carrying perhaps the biggest bat. The freshman outfielder collected three safe hits in five official trips and got good wood on the ball the other two times he was at bat. All in all, he got a single, a double, and a triple and backed the centerfielder up against the fence some 350 feet away on another occasion. Heath, usually a punch hitter, got a very solid triple and two singles to fall right in behind Penley in the batting session.

Three other Pirates and one of the visiting Panthers got two hits during the slugfest's duration. Paul Jones, Wilbur Thompson, and Galtier Cline were the Pirates with two hits while Jim Morgan got two for High Point.

There never was much question about the ultimate outcome of the game. The Panthers made a very feeble attempt to score in their first time at bat but when they failed to do it was Katie-bar-the-door because the Pirates were on the march.

In the bottom of the first frame, the Pirates sent 11 batters to the plate. They responded with seven runs on seven hits, an error, a walk, a sacrifice and two outfield flies. Heath was the big man in the rampage with a triple and a single in two trips to the plate although Penley came through with his triple and Galtier Cline got a bases-loaded double.

After the big first inning, the Pirates seemed to score almost when they wanted off Paul Popp, Spencer Smith, and Jim Goins. They chased Popp in the second inning after getting two more runs off him. It was the fourth inning before they started hammering away on Smith but when they did there was no let up at all.

Smith gave up six runs in the fourth and two in the fifth before Goins could be inserted into the game and he, like Smith, managed to hold the Pirates only a little while. He was tagged for four runs in the seventh and the final run in the eighth inning. Popp, the starter, was charged with the loss.

Almost lost in the barrage of base hits that were flooding the East Carolina diamond were the pitching efforts of Jimmy Byrd and Leonard Sullivan. Byrd started the game and pitched six innings. He gave up six hits, walked only one, struck out three, and received credit for the win, his third of the year against no losses. Sullivan, a lefthander, finished up the game on one hit, four walks and two strikeouts.

The victory was the fourth in five trips for the Pirates against North State Conference (Eastern Division) teams. They're still in second place in the conference, though. Elon, with a 2-0 mark, is still perched in the top spot. High Point moved deeper into the cellar with an 0-4 mark for the year.

The Pirates will go west for their next contest. They'll be in Guilford on Friday afternoon and then move over to High Point on Saturday for a return match with the Panthers. They'll be home again next Wednesday, against Elon.

Track Meet Called

The scheduled track meet between Greenville and Durham high schools was cancelled yesterday at the request of the Durham team.

The cancellation was the second in less than a week for the Greenville team and both cancellations have been made by Eastern AAA Conference teams. Last Thursday, Rocky Mount high school asked that they be permitted to meet the Panthers at a later date. The Panthers opened their season Monday by swamping Fayetteville.

Eisenhower On Mound In Senator's Opener Today

WASHINGTON (UP) — President Eisenhower, the well known golfer, belatedly turns pitcher today — weather permitting.

The reluctant right hander is scheduled to throw out the ceremonial "first" ball just before 2 p.m. e.s.t. in the delayed baseball opener here between the New York Yankees and the Washington Senators. But if the weatherman is right, Mr. Eisenhower may not get the chance he originally passed up.

The forecast calls for showers after a morning of occasional rain. If the game, originally scheduled for last Monday, is postponed again, the Yanks and Senators will have to make another try Friday at opening the Washington season and Vice President Richard M. Nixon will have to be called back out of the bullpen for the honorary pitching assignment. Mr. Eisenhower won't be in town Friday. He returns to Augusta, Ga., later today for more golfing.

Nixon was to have been the "starting" pitcher Monday, filling in for Mr. Eisenhower who turned down the job because it conflicted with the start of a week-long golfing vacation in Georgia.

But when a steady downpour postponed the game until today — by coincidence, the same day Mr. Eisenhower is back in town for a speech to the American Society of Newspaper Editors — the President suddenly decided to extend his stay long enough to throw out the first ball and watch a couple of the innings before flying back to Augusta.

It will be the fourth attempt by the Senators to get their 1953 season started. After being rained out here Monday, they were snowed out in Boston Tuesday and Wednesday. The Yankees, shooting for League pennant, were defeated by the Philadelphia Athletics in their opener Tuesday.

Manager Casey Stengel of the Yanks nominated southpaw Ed Lopat (10-5) to pitch the afternoon half of today's day-night, separate admission double header. Washington Manager Bucky Harris said he will stick to right hander Bob Porterfield (13-14), a Yankee castoff, as his opening game pitcher.

PARIS, France: Claude Milazzo, 160, France, outpointed Norman Hayes, 160, Boston 10.

Pony League

Supporters of the Pony League are asked to attend a meeting at 7:30 tonight in the Armory. The biggest item of business planned for the meeting is a decision on whether or not to use spikes in coming games. Parents of potential players have been asked to decide the matter and it is for that purpose that parents are especially invited to the meeting this evening.

Rupp Exonerated In Gambling Suit

LEXINGTON, Ky. (UP) — University of Kentucky basketball coach Adolph Rupp stood exonerated today of any accusation made against him in a $573,257 suit in which he was named a defendant along with gambler Ed Cud and racketeer Frank Costello.

Federal Judge H. Church Ford Tuesday afternoon ordered Rupp's name stricken from the suit on grounds the allegations in it were "false, made without authority, and should be stricken from the record."

The suit was filed last March 20 by Lexington attorney J. A. Edge, naming Mrs. Lucille Chamberly Bradley, Athens, Ga., as plaintiff. The suit sought to recover triple damages for gambling losses allegedly suffered by Mrs. Bradley's brother, George Chamberly, and others, at the hands of Cud.

Edge alleged in the suit that the losses resulted from a conspiracy among the three defendants to influence point spreads on basketball games.

Grimesland Wins 21-1 Loop Contest

GRIMESLAND—All the big sticks were uncovered and used Tuesday afternoon when Grimesland walloped Gritton 21-1 in an abbreviated Pitt County Conference baseball game.

The contest was called at the end of five and one-half innings of play after an agreement had been made between the coaches and umpires. Grimesland had taken an early lead in the game and had scored in every inning that had been played when the contest was finally halted.

Grimesland jumped off to a big lead in the first inning when nine runs were tallied. Three more were added in the second, one in the third two in the fourth, and six in the fifth. Four of the fifth-inning runs came when second baseman Jerry Gaskins smashed a home run with the bases-loaded.

Lloyd Allen Elks led the hitting for both clubs in collecting four hits in five official trips to the plate for Grimesland. Randolph Tripp had three for four and Gaskins collected three hits in five trips. W. Craft and Burroughs got the only hits given up by Grimesland's Tom Hodges.

Grimesland's record is now four victories and only one loss.

Yankees Beat Bobby Shantz In 4-1 Heartbreaker For A's

Frenchman Says Ring Play Unfair

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (UP) — Frenchman Pierre Langlois, comeback victor over bomb-tossing Joe Miceil, today accused New York Boxing Commissioner Robert Christenberry of a "lack of fair play" in keeping him out of the middleweight elimination tournament.

The rugged Parisian renewed his demand for a tourney berth just as soon as he had rallied from two early knockdowns to punch out a majority 10-round decision over Miceil of New York here Wednesday night.

And he once again declared that his nationally televised conquest of Miceil would be his last appearance on these shores unless he is re-admitted to the elimination.

Body-punching Pierre fought Rocky Castellani of Luzerne, Pa., in a 12-round bout in New York that was billed as part of the tourney. He won that fight, but learned soon after that, somehow, he had been dropped from the tourney. Since then he whipped contender Bobby Dykes before downing Miceil.

"I can get Bobo Olson or Paddy Young, I will stay in this country," declared Langlois through an interpreter. "But if Bob Christenberry continues to show lack of fair play, I will go back to France and see about fighting one or two of the leading contenders there."

Olson of Honolulu and Young of Brooklyn are the American survivors in the tournament, set up by the New York Commission and the National Boxing Association.

Langlois almost was separated from all his title hopes by Miceil's pet punch Wednesday night — a whistling left uppercut. The New York ex-GI lunged forward to throw the wallop twice in the second and third rounds.

Judge Gus Jacobson saw the fight a draw, 4-4 in rounds with two even. But Judge Fred Wilbanks voted for Langlois, 6-3-1, and Referee Cy Gottfried also scored for the Frenchman, 6-4. The United Press favored Langlois, 5-4-1. Langlois, weighed 158 1/2 pounds, Miceil 150.

Ratterman Signs

CLEVELAND (UP) — The Cleveland Browns bolstered their backfield today with the signing of George Ratterman, a quarterback who saw little action his first season with the club last year.

Ratterman led the league with 2,251 passing yardage and 22 touchdown passes while with the New York Yanks in 1950.

MIAMI BEACH: Pierre Langlois, 158 1/2, France, outpointed Joe Miceil, 150, New York 10.

By CARL LUNDQUIST

NEW YORK (UP) — Casey Stengel was groaning today that "everybody is laying for the Yankees and we're gonna have to hustle all the way if we expect to make it five straight pennants."

"We're going into Washington and, who are they gonna throw at us right away? — Bob Porterfield — that's who," he cried. "And if they had any better we'd get him instead. They all like to beat the Yankees, but that's all right. That's the way we want it. If we're gonna travel first class, then let us beat their first class guys."

The Yankees beat the prize first class guy in the league Wednesday when they topped Bobby Shantz, the Most Valuable Player, but Stengel and the rest of the world champs weren't happy over their five-hit, 4-1 triumph over the Athletics.

Things were brighter for the National League champion Dodgers, who made it two in a row over the Pirates in Brooklyn, scoring a 4-2 victory behind their new "ace," rollicking Russ Meyer. Pee-wee Reese hit a bases-loaded two run single in the eighth off knuckleball "rookie" John Lindell, trying to make a big league comeback as a pitcher at 36. Lindell didn't do too badly, giving up eight hits, although walking 10. He fared better at bat blasting Meyer for a two-run homer. Carl Furillo, who got three hits, drilled a Dodger homer.

The ex-soldier southpaw of the Phillies, Curt Simmons, subdued the Giants on five hits, striking out five for an easy 8-1 victory in Philadelphia. Bobby Thomson's second homer in as many days cost him a shutout. Del Ennis hit a two run homer and a single. Stan Lopata hit two doubles and Simmons himself connected for a double and two singles in the 14th mulling of three pitchers.

St. Louis at Milwaukee and Cincinnati at Chicago were postponed in the National. Detroit at St. Louis and Washington at Boston were called off in the American, where Cleveland and Chicago had an open date.

Before the close of the business session the students adopted a resolution of sympathy in the death of two club members and the mother of one who were killed Friday in an accident near Hamlet. Copies were mailed to the grief-stricken families.

At the banquet the outgoing president, Dan Clark, handed the gavel to his successor, Dick Newcome, an athlete and a high school junior from Ahoskie.

RUSTY RILEY

THE HEART OF JULIET JONES

BLONDIE

THE STRAW DONKEY CASE

By A. S. FLEISCHMAN

Chapter 7

The break was less than seven feet across. A gnarled castor bean tree with broken limbs grew on the far side. Could Ransoni's coat have been snagged by one of the sharp branches? Brindle stared at it, and made a half-circle around the fence to the tree. He snapped the end of a branch between his fingers. It was brittle. The tree was half dead.

A gray Buick sedan pulled up and stopped a few feet short of Brindle. Harry West stepped out from the driver's door and approached.

His large, round forehead was flushed, and his ears were a burning red. There was something giraffe-like in the way he strode up: long loose arms, trembling hands, a thin neck in a light collar. His blue eyes held a grim, haunted look. "What are you looking for?" West snapped.

Brindle faced him with a steady smile. "Inspiration," he answered.

"I don't like wise guys," the two men stared at each other, one grinning, the other nervous, with both hands jammed in his trouser pockets.

"What's Frances got against you?" Brindle asked.

"What's that to you?"

"Not a damned thing. Cigarette?"

The nervous man refused with a quick turn of his head. "What's your racket?"

Brindle put a hand on his shoulder. "Look, chum," he said, "you look kind of dumb. When you open your mouth, there's no doubt left. As soon as the cops find Ransoni's body, you'll have to murder rap on your hands."

West jerked his shoulder back, and Brindle's hand came off. The blue eyes chilled. "I can take care of myself," he breathed. "Nobody's pinning anything on me. You working for her?"

Brindle kept grinning.

"Okay," West murmured slowly. "okay. But remember what I told you. Wise guys don't live long."

"Neither do dumb ones," Brindle replied. He opened his raincoat and dug a business card out of his vest pocket. "If you get in any trouble, come and see me."

West kept his eyes on Brindle. He crumpled the card in his fist and let it drop to the street. Then he turned with an angry jerk and got into his Buick. Brindle waved at him as he went by.

The nearest house was about three blocks away. Brindle walked toward it. It was an old red-dish-brown beach shack, so old that its lines were again modern. It had a flat roof, and the eaves extended a full two feet beyond the flimsy walls. The salt air had done a thorough job on the paint. Brindle stepped onto the sagging porch and knocked politely on the screen door. A dog inside began to bark. Presently a dumpy, straggly-haired old woman came to the door. With her she brought the reek of cooking cauliflower.

Brindle removed his hat. "I hate to bother you," he said, "but I'm making an investigation of last night's accident along the cliff. Perhaps you can help."

The pekingese at the old lady's feet was still yapping, and she kept shushing it.

"The cliffs are always shifting," she said. "People are always getting themselves killed along the edge. Me I wouldn't walk along that path for anything."

Brindle nodded. "I'm sure that's very wise," he approved. "I wonder if you heard a slight explosion last night, say around eight or eighty-thirty?"

She thought for a moment. "I don't know as I did," she replied. "You hear the guns go off nearly any time. They have target practice out at sea, you know."

Brindle nodded patiently. Suddenly her head turned to one side and her gray-white eye-brows rose. "I declare," she said. "There was a noise last night, and it wasn't the ships. This was much closer."

"About eight-thirty?"

"I believe it was," she smiled, pleased to have been of service. "But it wasn't much of a noise. Nothing like what the ships make."

"I see. Well, thank you very much."

"What do you suppose caused it?" she asked timidly.

"That's what I hope to find out."

He thanked her again. The smell of cauliflower was becoming a taste in his mouth and he was glad to be finished with the conversation.

He sat in his car for a moment, thinking. Finally he switched on the headlights and started back for town.

He found a parking place and went into the Horseshoe Grill for dinner. After ordering, he walked to the wall phone and called Oaks' house.

"Hello," said a woman's voice. "This is Max, Catherine. Paul there?"

"Darn you, Max," she said. "You always call when we're eating."

"Sorry, honey. Put him on."

"Oh!—all right."

"A pause."

"Hello, Max."

"What's the story?"

"You'll break my neck," Oaks replied hoarsely. "I lost your boy friend."

"Nice going."

"After you shook him, he walked to a station wagon parked on E Street. He was just behind a loading zone, and took right off. I tried to get a cab, but there was no such animal on the street. The car had Mexican license plates. Maybe that'll help."

Student members of the YWCA and the YMCA at East Carolina College will hold their first vesper service in the recently completed Y Hut on the campus Thursday of Y Hut on the campus this evening at 8:30.

President John D. Messick of the college will be speaker. Maudred Morris and Mr. Bedford by College Bedford of Pikeville, presidents of the two religious organizations, will participate in the program.

The new Y Hut was completed about two weeks ago. Keys to the building were turned over to Miss Morris and Mr. Bedford by College Business Manager F.D. Duncan Thursday, April 2, at a ceremony attended by YWCA-YMCA officers and faculty advisors and administrative officers of the college.

The building, an attractive cottage located in the grove just north of the college infirmary, includes a large room suitable for meetings and recreational events, a coat room and closet, and an office. It replaces a hut, built about twenty-five years ago, which was demolished when construction on the new Joyner Library was begun.
